Convention BULLETINS

Advice Offered Delegates, Listeners

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Radio listeners heard this bit of impromptu advice over a supposedly "dead" microphone at the Democratic National Convention last night:

"Quit shoving or I'll knock you on your can."

NBC said the words went over the air when an engineer inadvertently switched the convention broadcast to a floor microphone near the platform. The speaker was not identified.

Ladies Honored at Convention

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)—Anything for the ladies.

Official badges of women delegates to this year's Democratic National Convention are fashioned of light-weight aluminum.

"Women have been complaining about the old, heavy badges for years," said Neale Roach, managing director of the convention. "They said they tore holes in their filmy clothes and dragged them down. So this year we managed to fix that up."

As for the men, the convention arrangers stuck to the traditional metals.

Unique Job Faces Sen. Barkley

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — If Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky is nominated at President Truman's running mate by the Democratic Convention, who do you suppose has been lined up to tell him so?

Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky.

A list of proposed committe assignments drawn up by the Democratic National Committee today listed Barkley as "chairman of the committe to notify the vice presidential nominee."

People Serious About Politics

GLENDALE, Calif. —(AP)— Politics get pretty serious here, too.

Albin Nelson, 42, Democrat, was listening to his party's convention broadcast from Philadelphia last night when a stream of water struck him in the ear.

The sputtering Nelson called police and accused his neighbor, Miss A. C. Madsen, 64, of thrusting her garden hose through his window and letting fly.

Moreover, he said, her radio kept him awake during the Republican Convention.

After talking it over, officers said, Nelson decided not to press charges.

Miss Madsen's only comment: "I'm a good Republican."

Alben Comes To Rescue of Convention

By HAL BOYLE

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— Dear Alben did it.

No dark horse but an old and honored wheelhorse of the New Deal—Sen. Alben William Barkley—rode to the rescue of the torpid Democratic National Convention.

In 68 stirring minutes of old-fashioned sledge hammer oratory last night he welded the quarreling delegates together in a tremendous outburst of party enthusiasm.

They gave him a 28-minute ovation. It was the first time the Democrats had found anything they could agree to cheer—or be cheerful about.

It was an antique bugle Barkley blew and an old but popular tune—the call to battle. It is the call that through the ages has made men bury their differences and fall in line.

As he stood there, a chunky, powerful man in a white linen suit, he was a kind of elder David trying with verbal music to win King Saul—in this case the Democratic Convention back from black depression to hopeful action.

And he sang his summons to political war like a skilled minstrel who knows his tale well. This was the third time he had sounded the keynote battle cry at a national convention.

He spoke from a rostrum behind which towered the portrait of Franklin Delano Roosevelt—the man he had served so long and who once helped name him as his captain in a letter beginning "Dear Alben."

He stressed Democratic claims of achievement rather than convention differences.

His powerful, old-time eloquence hit at the Republican enemy time after time, but he never mentioned together the two key words that have split this convention like a raw, red wound—civil rights.

And the old man from Kentucky went down the line for President Truman, just as he had for President Roosevelt, even after he broke with him.

Services Today For Smith Infant

Graveside services were held today for Trenton Dale Smith, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Smith, who died at 11:45 p.m. yesterday in a local hospital, where he has remained since his birth two weeks ago.

The services were held at 3 p.m. in the Baby Garden of Fairview Cemetery, with the Rev. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating.

Trenton was buried beside his twin brother, Clinton Gale, who died June 28, about seven hours after his birth.

The twins are survived by their parents, and by their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jordan of Pampa, and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Smith, Electra.

Burial was under the direction of the Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home.

Runaway Boy Wins Hearts Of Officers

An 11-year-old boy who ran away from his home in Borger returned home yesterday evening with Jess Love, deputy sheriff of Hutchinson County.

The boy, who gave his name as Charles Syrus to the two Pampa police officers who picked him up yesterday afternoon, said he left the home of a Mrs. Dalrymple yesterday morning, intending to go to his sister in Amarillo.

He gave his sister's name as Mrs. Dorothy Kennison, but all he knew about her was that she lived "in Amarillo," that she had been recently divorced, and had "a little baby." But he did not know where she lived, or where she worked.

The "Mrs. Dalrymple" Charlie was living with is no relative of his, he said; he has been living with her since his parents were divorced or separated about four years ago.

Officers Williams and Roane, who picked Charlie up, took him to a restaurant and bought him a big lunch. Charlie, a very clean and polite youngster, promptly became the mascot of the force.

Later, in the afternoon, one of the officers took Charlie home with him, where they waited for the Borger authorities.

$2,600 Taken At Wheeler

WHEELER—Loot stolen late Saturday night, or early Sunday morning, when burglars swept through four Wheeler business houses, rose to over $2,600 by today.

First reports of the robberies gave only the loss of the Southwest Public Service Company.

Inventories by the other concerns revealed that about $1,287 was taken from the Cicero Smith Lumber yard of which about $50 was in cash, the remainder in checks.

At the Holt Lumber Company the thieves profited by a mere $12, but passed over a much larger amount secreted in the building. The Clay Grocery Store lost nearly $30 in change in the cash register but a large amount near the register was overlooked.

Most of the loot taken from the Southwest Public Service Co. was in checks, both traceable and untraceable. A total of over $1300 was taken there.

RED CROSS BOARD MEETS

An official board meeting of the Pampa Chapter of the Red Cross will convene at 8 p. m. today in the Red Cross office in the City Hall to elect new officers, Mrs. Paul Hill, chapter executive, said today.

Texas Delegates' Votes Tied Conditionally to Gov. Laney

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Texas' 50 presidential votes were tied—conditionally—today to Gov. Ben Laney of Arkansas, described by one Democratic Convention delegate as a "spunky little guy" deserving a neighborly pat on the back.

The Lone Star delegation came to this decision after a furious six-hour caucus fight.

One faction argued support of Laney would mean repudiation of instructions against bolting. The other contended the vote for the Arkansas Governor was a compliment he deserved because his stand on civil and state rights agrees with resolutions adopted by the Texas Convention.

The Texas vote is pledged to Landy only so long as he does not bolt the party.

The Arkansas Governor came before the caucus at its invitation and aroused the delegates to rebel yells with an appeal that gave him the vote over the delegation leadership opposition.

"Where is the courage of Texas?" Laney cried. "You have written an unparalleled history of courage in your great state.

"I think you ought to think soberly and then if the principle is worthwhile, let's go. If it isn't, let's forget it.

"If Harry S. Truman is the nominee of the party I will not vote for him. Neither will I vote for Tom Dewey. What are you going to do?" he asked.

The Arkansas Governor reminded the Texans that in their convention's expressions they showed they did not believe in the same things President Truman believes in. He recalled that Gov. Beauford H. Jester had attended the conference of Southern Governors at Tallahassee where the Southern civil rights revolt began to take form.

The Texans had asked Laney to appear to answer the question of whether he would bolt.

"Let's don't go off on an emotional drunk. We are bound by our convention's instructions," said State Senator Rogers Kelley of Edinburg.

He wanted the delegation to drop two resolutions then pending. One would have committed the Texas votes to any loyal Democrat who is opposed to bolting. The other—at that stage—was for outright support of Laney.

Later, the resolution was amended to limit the support to Laney's candidacy at this convention.

Kelly's position was that it was futile to fight Truman in view of his certain nomination.

Attorney General Price Daniel did not believe the qualified endorsement of Laney would violate the delegation's instructions.

"Let's give a complimentary vote to a spunky little guy like Laney and stay with our Brownwood obligations," he said. "Later on we can support the party nominee."

Delegate Byron Skelton of Temple said he was amazed that Daniel—elected as a Democrat—would publicly support "a man who has just said he would bolt the party."

Gov. Jester said he admired Laney and agreed with his views on state and civil rights. He then voted against the resolution, saying:

"I believe in keeping pledges and instructions."

National Committeeman - elect Wright Morrow voted with Jester on the showdown ballot, and joined the Governor in endorsing Laney's stand on state and civil rights.

The Laney resolution was adopted by a voice vote.

Sheriff Asks 'Mag' Peddlers Out of Town

Four magazine peddlers yesterday afternoon were invited to leave town by Sheriff G. H. "Skinner" Kyle after the Sheriff's Department had received several complaints on them.

Kyle, with the memory of a local armed robbery and at least one attempted assault by the last two crews of magazine and literature peddlers to visit Pampa still fresh in his memory, took up a search of the city to find the selling crew. They were found on the Southeast section of the city peddling subscriptions on a door to door canvass.

The group represented themselves as working for the Collier Publishing Company through the Periodical Publishers Service Bureau of Oklahoma City.

Two of the boys were from Balmorehea, Tex., another one from Las Cruces, N. M., and the field manager from Mountain View, Okla.

In the sheriff's office the leader of the group first said they were not working on a cash basis but were taking subscriptions for the magazines and later said they collected 90 cents as the original payment and a collector would follow them up each month collecting for the magazines. The subscriber was to get Colliers magazine and any two others on a given list for 24 months.

Chief of Police Lodie Allen said the company the men were working for was legitimate and was a real company.

However, none of the crew carried any cards or letters of identification from either the Collier Publishing Company or the Periodical Publishers Service Company.

LICENSE VIOLATION

Justice of the Peace D. R. Henry yesterday afternoon levied a fine and costs of $10 on one man for driving without an operator's license.

Pampan Relates New Incident in Life of the Outlaw Jesse James

If the "Jesse James" who appeared recently in Lawton, Okla., is the real Jesse, "he will have a bullet hole plumb through his right leg," an elderly Pampa resident, who asked that she remain nameless, said today.

With my grandfather, Samuel "Jesse James spent a night Faulkenberry, many, many years ago," this pioneer resident continued, "but I don't remember when it was or where my grandfather was living at the time."

According to the story Faulkenberry told in later years, Jesse stopped at his farm and asked for shelter and treatment for his bullet wound.

Faulkenberry treated the wound and gave the outlaw lodging, but he did not know who his visitor was until the next morning.

As Jesse prepared to leave, he asked Faulkenberry, "What would you do if Jesse James spent the night with you?"

"I don't know," the old man answered, "I've never thought about it."

"Well," the gunman said, "Jesse James spent the night here last night."

Faulkenberry refused the outlaw's gold, and, as soon as he left, hurried to notify his neighbors. Travel was slow in those days, and the Missouri desperado made a clean getaway.

Faulkenberry was born in what his descendant thinks was Sharp County, Ark., and died in 1919 at about 90 years of age.

New Palestine Truce Predicted

By The Associated Press

A highly-placed Israeli informant predicted a new truce in the Palestine war by Saturday.

Abdel Rahman Pasha, secretary general of the Arab League, said, however, that he is meeting with Iraqi, Syrian, Lebanese and Trans-Jordan officials to intensify the Arab war effort.

British sources at the United Nations said Britain is now ready to join in U.N. action to stop the war. The British are allied with most of the seven warring Arab nations and until recently supplied them with money, war materials and officers. If such aid is stopped, the Arab war effort will be crimped considerably.

Fighting in Palestine increased in violence on ground and aloft.

Count Folke Bernadotte, the U.N. mediator, asked the Security Council for quick and forceful intervention to end the combat.

The Jewish informant, with the Israeli Foreign Office, said King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan is believed to be trying, with Iraqi backing, to convince Egypt, Syria and Lebanon to cease fire and talk terms. The King was reported convinced his Arab Legion could now gain more through a negotiated peace than by fighting. Bernadotte has offered him the Arab sections of Palestine. The Jewish Army during the last truce strengthened itself greatly and is growing fast.

The Jews followed up their capture yesterday of Er Ramle and Lydda by taking Suba, five miles from Jerusalem, a strongpoint on the highway.

Egyptian planes attacked Tel Aviv. The Israeli Air Force bombed the main Egyptian base at Gaza.

The U. S. increased the number of planes to Berlin and started expanding Tempelhof Airport. The British were reported sending in new troops.

The Kremlin kept its silence on the U. S., British and French notes demanding an end to the land blockade, now in its fourth week.

France faced a threatened strike of government employes. Airport, radio and weather personnel have walked out already.

Yugoslavia started a trial in Croatia of 50 persons accused of spying and terrorism. The trial was in part an attempt to implicate the U. S., Britain and the Vatican.

War Dead to Be Returned

The body of Pvt. John H. Hinkle of Pampa arrived in New York Sunday and is enroute now to the regional distribution center of the American Graves Registration Service before being sent to the next of kin.

Hinkle was killed in combat by mortar shell fire in Luxembourg on March 15, 1945. He was buried in a temporary military cemetery in Ham, Germany.

He was born May 16, 1919, in Miles Station, Tex. He completed his schooling in the Pampa High School and worked for the Pampa Furniture Company before entering service. He was married and made his home at 865 Locust.

He is survived by his wife, the former Lillie Mae Melton; a daughter, Virginia; his mother, Mrs. Estellene Thornburg; his father, J. B. Hinkle; and a brother, Bradford Hinkle, all of Pampa.

Funeral services, which will be held by the Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home, are pending.

Commissioners Meet To Approve Payments

The sale of two small water fountains to the Hopkins School and payment of bills was approved yesterday by the County Commissioners Court at its regular mid-month meeting.

There was no other business completed by the court.

News to Post Latest Markets

As an additional service to its readers, The Pampa News will post the final grain, livestock, and stock market reports, as delivered by leased wires of the Associated Press, in the front window of The News office each afternoon.

Because the markets close after The Pampa News regular press time, it is not possible to print the latest quotations the day of publication.

Therefore, in an attempt to give its readers better service, The Pampa News will post the latest market reports between 2 and 3 p.m. each day, and they will remain posted in the front window overnight.

No Immediate Drop in Cost Of Meat Seen

CHICAGO — (AP) — With livestock pounding out new price records every few days, no immediate drop in the high cost of living on meat was seen today.

Both private trade experts and the Agriculture Department agreed the near future outlook offered slight hope for the consumer. If anything, prices probably will go higher later this summer, they said.

The prospect for lower prices next week was called encouraging, although largely hinged on the hope of a bumper corn crop this autumn.

Hog prices at Chicago yesterday equaled their all time record of $30.50 a hundred pounds. A new record of $30.25 was made at East St. Louis, Ill.

Pretty much the same story was told in cattle and sheep. East St. Louis had an all time record for choice steers at $38.75. Steers at Chicago touched $40, equalling the July record set last week. Lambs also were bringing the highest price for any July in history at $32.00.

George Dressler, secretary of the National Retail Meat Dealers Association, said the normal summer falling off in demand for meat had appeared this year but wasn't big enough to make up for the shortage in meat production.

Dressler said some housewives backed away from high prices but others went right on buying.

H. M. Conway of the National Livestock Producers Association, said, "There won't be any change in the current shortage until the grass fed cattle start arriving in numbers, probably around Sept. 1 or 15."

In its regular publication, "the demand and price situation," the Agriculture Department warned, "meat and meat-animal prices this summer and early fall may increase above present levels as ment production decreases seasonally."

Mark Pickell, secretary of the Corn Belt Livestock Producers Association, held out hope for next year.

"I believe that a year from now the average price of cattle will be closer to $26 than $36," Pickell said. He stated a bumper corn crop would encourage feeding corn to meat animals, resulting in heavier weights on animals coming to market.

Phillips Sells Shamrock Stock

Phillips Petroleum Co. was reported reliably today as stepping out of the Shamrock Oil and Gas Corp. by disposing of its last holdings in a large stock transfer completed shortly before the market close on the New York Stock Exchange Monday.

Bob Coleman, manager of the Amarillo branch office of Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Beane, stock brokers, said that this was his understanding when a group of brokers offered a block of 163,303 shares of common stock. Offered at net price of 34 and 1-3, the bid jumped one quarter point just before the market close.

Phillips previously had disposed of 200,000 shares of stock in the Shamrock Oil and Gas Corp. and had at one time been a large stockholder of the corporation.

Delegates Applaud Kentucky Senator

CONVENTION HALL, Philadelphia— (AP) —President Truman put out the word today that he "will be most happy" to have Senator Alben W. Barkley as his vice-presidential running mate. That appeared to clinch a Truman-Barkley ticket for the Democrats.

Democratic Chairman J. Howard McGrath, announcing the President's sentiment said Mr. Truman had not closed the doors to others, however, and was leaving it to the Democratic Convention to say who would run with him.

But the delegates filing into this hall were obviously in a mood to turn to Barkley. They gave the 70-year-old Kentucky senator a 28-minute rousing demonstration last night after he made a fighting keynote speech.

Following McGrath's statement, Barkley said:

"I still have no statement to make as far as I'm concerned.

"I'm not trying to be evasive but I've got to make up my own mind as to whether I would accept under any condition, and I'm not going to make up my mind while I am temporary chairman (of the convention).

"After I get out from under that, maybe I'll have something to say."

As keynoter of the convention, Barkley is the temporary chairman.

Barkley told reporters earlier that the President had telephoned him congratulations on his keynote speech but had said nothing about the vice-presidency.

Along with announcing the White House welcome mat is out for Barkley, McGrath told a news conference:

"It is possible President Truman will address what may be the closing session of the convention tomorrow night.

McGrath said he hopes the convention can meet in almost continuous session tomorrow to wind up its business.

This would mean jamming through adoption of a platform and selection of presidential and vice-presidential candidates into one day.

All signs had pointed strongly to Barkley for the last 12 hours although some big city leaders, including Frank Hague of Jersey City and Paul Fitzpatrick of New

French Civil Strike Called

PARIS, France —(AP)— Approximately 20,000 French civil servants were called out on strike today in a movement which may snowball into a paralyzing stoppage affecting 1,000,000 government workers.

The Executive Committee of the non-Communist Workers' Force Union called the strike because the government refused to grant certain employes a flat 3,500 franc ($12) monthly wage increase.

The committee said concessions offered by Premier Robert Schuman's cabinet in its meeting last night were insufficient.

Only a small percentage of France's 1,000,000 government workers have received strike notices, but the departments are so interwoven that strikes by a few groups could soon bring all activities to a halt.

About 60,000 Finance Ministry employes already are on strike. Their numbers were increased last night by the walkout of communications employes at the nation's airports which paralyzed most of France's aerial traffic, and also that in French North Africa.

Premier Robert Schuman's cabinet issued a decree which in effect mobilized striking weather and radio men and made them liable to penalties for desertion if they failed to report for work.

The measure, apparently prepared hours ahead of the airport strike, may foreshadow the cabinet's plans for breaking the whole series of stoppages.

Vacationer Cuts Trip To Appear in Court

CHICAGO (AP) Stuart Becker, 19, hurried home by plane from a vacation in Canada to appear in Traffic Court on a charge of speeding.

Judge Gibson Gorman told Becker it was refreshing to find a defendant who made an effort to appear in court.

He told Becker that his $45 airplane ride was ample fine and he dismissed the charges.

SOAP BOX DERBY CONTESTANTS:

Here Are Some Facts, Information Leading to Local Running of Derby

Here are some facts and information that came out of a meeting of the General All-American Soap Box Derby Committee last night:

1. Boys who do not have transportation to get their cars from their homes to the inspection site, which this year will be at the Senior High School Gymnasium, may call Culberson Chevrolet, telephone 366, during office hours from today on.

2. Deadline for picking up cars is Wednesday at noon. Boys have been asked to call the above telephone number as soon as their cars are ready.

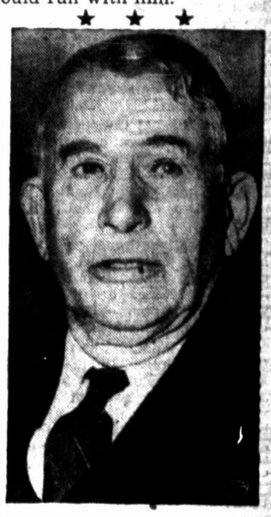

3. Inspection Committee will begin Wednesday morning inspecting cars at the Senior High School Gymnasium. (Note change of inspection place: last year it was at the Junior High Gym.)

4. Test runs will be held at the Old Miami Highway north of Pampa on July 24 (Saturday week); and the time is 1 p.m. Each boy must make a test run to become familiar with the track. Helmets will be issued to boys at that time.

5. The race will be on Sunday, July 25, the time of the race is 1:30 p.m. All boys should be on hand at least an hour prior to the beginning of the race, in order to get instructions for their own safety.

6. Each boy must bring with him for inspection on Wednesday an itemized list of the materials in his car. This list will be reviewed by the Inspection Committee.

What's Demo Fight About? —Civil Rights

By JAMES MARLOW

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— This Democratic Convention must seem awfully strange to people outside the United States.

How are you going to explain to people of other countries what the real issue is here?

Yet, the issue can be stated simply:

It involves civil rights for the 13,000,000 Negroes of this country's 140,000,000 population.

Early in 1947 President Truman appointed a number of men and women to what he called the President's Commission on Civil Rights.

These men and women on Oct. 29 issued a report on their intensive study. It included such things as the pay of teachers in Negro schools and facts on the number of Negro lynchings.

Basing his thinking on that report, Mr. Truman early this year made a number of suggestions on civil rights for Negroes.

Whether you like it or not, Negroes in this country are treated as second class citizens.

President Truman recommended things like these:

1. Congress to pass a law wiping out the poll tax.

2. Congress to pass a law making the lynching of anyone any time a federal crime.

Southern Democrats — white that is—began to renounce Mr. Truman's program.

They argued: A state has rights so the federal goverment has no right stepping in.

And right there the Southern politicians jumped on the anti-Truman bandwagon and still haven't got off.

The white Southern politicians do not forget the troubles that beset the South after the Civil War.

In many areas in the South there are more Negroes than there are whites. The whites still hold in memory and fear the days when the victorious North put political power in the hands of fresh-freed and uneducated slaves and Northern carpetbaggers.

Southerners feel they have the best interest of the Negroes at heart. They say they take care of the Negro and should continue to deal with him, themselves, rather than someone in Washington.

Oilers Score 9 Runs in Eleventh Inning As Bass Notches 13-4 Win

PIONEER STADIUM, Clovis—Held to seven hits in the first ten innings, the Pampa Oilers broke loose for nine straight safeties in the eleventh frame to shove across nine runs to give them a 13-4 victory over the Clovis Pioneers here last night

Howard Bass, Eldorado High School coach, bested George Matthews, leading hurler in the league, setting the hosts down with 13 scattered hits. Matthews boasts a total of 13 triumphs and five setbacks through last night's encounter.

Lead-off man R. C. Otey was struck on the arm in the first inning and as Bob Belford blasted a double, the speedy second sacker came all the way home from first. Dave Teyema then added to the Oiler cause by cracking a single to left, scoring Belford. Riley, Fortin, and Range were then set down in order and the Pioneers stalked to their dugout, with an early two run deficit.

Three consecutive singles off Bass gave the New Mexicans one run in the first but the locals duplicated the feat on two singles and a wild pitch in the second. In the fourth frame, Tony Range led off with a single and the regular inning Oiler scoring was completed when Dick Samek stepped into the box and clouted his fourth triple in the last two evenings.

Leading 4-2 going into the bottom of the ninth, Bass began tiring and walked two men and gave up two singles, the last one by John Bottorini, Pioneer manager, who came into the line-up as a pinch-hitter and drove in the both tallies.

The first nine Oilers to appear in the eleventh inning crossed home plate. Teyema led off with a double and went to third on Riley's single. Fortin, Range, Dews, and Bartholomew singled and Bass doubled, cleaning the beses. Belford then drilled another double, scoring Bass and Teyema got his second hit in the same inning, singling Belford home on a Texas Leaguer into center field. The next three men were retired but the damage was done.

Umpire Fischer, behind the plate, almost caused a riot when he ruled Mike Dalton out in the sixth inning for not tagging up on Frank Pachecho's fly into right. Dalton came home, but Fortin pegged the ball to Riley at third base and Fischer ruled it a double play. The Pioneer fans almost ripped the stands apart.

Tonight, the Pioneers and Oilers meet in a doubleheader beginning at 8:30 (Pampa time). They remain in Clovis for the final contest of the four-game series tomorrow night.

McCulloughs Are Upset by 1st Methodist

The First Methodist Senior Girls got 15 runs in the bottom half of the second inning to hand the McCullough Methodist girls their second defeat of the season last night, 28-4.

The McCulloughs have recently been manhandling every team in the league, and the loss dropped them from first position to second in the league standings. Mary Jo White was the winning hurler while Betty Nelson was charged with the loss.

While the McCulloughs were losing to the erratic First Methodists, the First Baptists eased in to the league lead when they blasted the Calvary Baptists girls 35-4 in two and one-half innings of play.

The Baptists have only one blemish on their record, losing once to the McCulloughs. Patricia Johnson received credit for the win and Maxine Burns was charged with the loss.

Patricia Woodfill had trouble finding the plate in the Central Baptist-McCullough Methodist Junior girls contest last night, walking 12 and giving up eight hits as the Centrals triumphed over the Methodists, 13-5. Patsy Young was the winning hurler.

Williams TKO's Beau Jack in Title Defense

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— Ike Williams finally found an opponent who didn't know what it meant to backtrack and the string bean kid from Trenton, N. J., used him as a medium to prove he's a great lightweight champion.

Williams scored a six-round technical knockout last night over Beau Jack, windmill-swinging former shoeshine boy. Each entered the ring at 134 pounds.

A disappointing crowd of 12,952 paid $83,787 at Shibe Park and saw the ever-advancing Jacks warm all over the champion in the early rounds. William, jabbing and counter-punching, simply waited patiently for an opening.

In the sixth, the champion caught Jack with a left hook and, battering him with countless rights and lefts, pinned him against the ropes.

Jack wanted to fall but he couldn't and finally Referee Charley Daggert stepped in and called a halt after 33 seconds of the round.

The battle had been fairly even to that point.

News Defeats Jaycees 21-15

The Pampa News rallied for five runs in the sixth inning last night in the Industrial Softball League to upset the Pampa Jaycees, 21-15.

After trading throughout the complete contest, the Newsmen caught fire and touched Sam Keel for 13 hits in the last three innings, including home runs by Ray Babb, Joe Webb, and Dickie Cook. Art Aftergut and Charlie Laffoon both blasted round trippers for the Jaycees.

Archer, Maxwell, and Cook completed the News batteries while Keel and Aftergut worked on the mound and behind the plate, respectively, for the losers.

Chris Walsh tossed Furr Food to a 9-2 triumph over Cities Service in the only other league game last night.

DIAMOND DIGGINGS

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— There's a story scientists like to tell about the bumblebee is such that it can't fly.

But the bumblebee apparently doesn't give a buzz for science and goes on flying anyway.

The same thing might be said of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Sports experts said it was impossible for the A's to be pennant contenders in 1948. But the A's apparently don't give a loud foul ball for the experts and go on winning ball games anyway.

The A's have won 48 games while Cleveland, top dog in the American League, has won 45. The Indians, however, enjoy a half-game edge.

While the experts have failed to come up with the reason for the A's success story, all agree that hustle and fighting spirit have been key factors.

And one man who applies the needle is Coach Al Simmons.

Stationed in his third base coaching box, "Bucketfoot" Al has been flagging A's runners home with regularity all season—and has been stinging foes with his inimitable line of chatter.

Simmons, who in his heyday was one of the greatest American League sluggers, figures the Athletics have a good chance of copping their first pennant since 1931, one of the years Simmons was stationed in left field.

TL Calls Time Out For Annual All-Star Game

Bp HAROLD RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

Tulsa's Oilers were back in second place and the Shreveport Sports were moving toward a first division berth today as the Texas League took time out for its annual All-Star game.

The All-Star contest is scheduled for Fort Worth tonight where Al Vincent, Tulsa manager, sends his powerhouse team recruited from the other seven clubs against the league-leading Fort Worth Cats.

Tulsa trimmed Dallas 5-4 last night to surge into the runner-up spot while second-place Houston was tumbling before Shreveport in a doubleheader. Shreveport won the first game 8-2 and the afterpiece 2-0 to advance within a game of fourth-place San Antonio.

Fort Worth kept its two and one-half game bulge on the field by whipping Oklahoma City 4-1.

Beaumont and San Antonio were idled by rain.

The All-Stars, recruited from the other seven clubs to meet the league-leading Cats, are generally favored to win but more than 12,000 are expected to turn out to see them do it.

Manager Bobby Bragan of Fort Worth had veteran George Dockins, a relief specialist in the regular league race, ready to go as far as his left-handed effectiveness will carry him.

Al Vincent of Tulsa, skipper of the All-Stars, planned to "southpaw 'em to death" as he nominated three lefties for three-inning stints apiece—Harry Perkowski of Tulsa, Pete Mazar of Houston and Andy Sierra of San Antonio.

The game will start at 8:15 o'clock with these starting lineups:

ALL-STARS
Sommers, San Antonio, 2B
Kress, Tulsa, 1B
Burns, Tulsa, RF
Kirby, Shreveport, CF
Diblasi, Houston, 3B

Reynolds, Shreveport, SS
Perkowski, Tulsa, P

Girls Pull Triple Proving Charmers Can Do Anything

KENOSHA, Wis. —(NEA)— A triple play in baseball is a rarity, but when one is engineered by a feminine triumvirate, it just proves again that there isn't anything in sports the charmers can't do.

In an All-American Girls' Professional Baseball League game here, the Kenosha Comets, pitted against Johnny Rawlings' Grand Rapids, Mich., Chicks, hit the heights of defensive perfection.

Here's the way it happened.

Connie Wisniewski, Detroit, and Inez Voyce, Los Angeles, led off in the sixth inning with singles. Ruth Lessing, San Antonio, Tex., lined a fly to Marge Villa, diminutive shortstop from Montibello, Calif., who made a spectacular leaping catch, whirled in the air and pegged swiftly to Betty Fabac, Detroit second sacker, to trap Wisniewski off base. Fabac relayed the ball to Alice (Lefty) Hohlmayer, Columbus, O., to stamp out Voyce at first.

Villa, who started the play, is captain of the Comets and a standout all-around star of the league.

Kenosha is managed by Chet Grant, teammate of the late George Gipp. Grant also coached under Elmer Layden at Notre Dame following a minor league career in baseball.

A sidelight significant in the popular girls' league is that Bill Wambsganns, ex-Cleveland star who now manages the Muskegon, Mich., Lassies, accomplished the only unassisted triple play in World Series history on Oct. 10, 1920, against Brooklyn, at second base.

The former Indian shortstop is known in the girls' circuit as Bill Wemby. His Lassies won the playoff championship last year.

President of the league is Max Carey, former champion major league base thief with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Under his direction the circuit has grown from a four to a 10-club organization in the past six seasons.

But the best feat of the league so far is the triple play of the Kenosha Comets.

The fans are still talking about that one.

All-Stars Win Over Drillers

By the Associated Press

The Lone Star league resumes its slam-bang race tonight, a squad of all-stars having put leading Kilgore in its place with a 3-2 decision.

A crowd of 4,263 turned out at Kilgore last night to see the Drillers take a licking in the second annual All-Star tilt.

Tonight Longview goes to Gladewater, Tyler to Marshall, Henderson to Lufkin and Bryan to Kilgore in a resumption of regular warfare.

Mike Calo's home run in the sixth inning gave the All-Stars their decision over Kilgore. The Marshall catcher's circuiter came with a man on base and put the all stars ahead for good.

The Drillers scored first, fashioning two runs in the first frame on an infield hit and error. Zane Skinner was hit by a pitched ball. Marshall Brown beat out an infield hit and Skinner scored when the throw got away from First Baseman Stan Goletz of Bryan. Brown scored on a fielder's choice that put A. B. Cross on first.

The All-Stars matched one of hese runs in the second. Al Kubski of Longview got on base through an error. He went to third on a double by Goletz and came home on a long fly by Jonny Stone.

A trio of Kilgore pitchers, Lee Roy Jones, Willis Chamness and Bruce Drives, held the All-Stars to five hits.

Four All-Star twirlers, Julio Ramos of Henderson, Joe Pate of Longview, Jim Neely of Bryan and George Shell of Lufkin, held Kilgore to two hits and struck out [illegible].

Neely and Shell allowed no runs [illegible] two hits[illegible] on the mound, and Drivers duplicated this feat in three innings [illegible]ching.

American Leaguers Take 5-2 Victory From National Stars

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, St. Louis —(AP)—Three fourth inning runs, two of them on a single by Pitcher Vic Raschi, carried the American League into a 5-2 win over the National loop today in the all-star baseball game.

The National League hopped off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning when Stan Musial of St. Louis slammed a 370-foot homer which scored Richie Ashburn of the Phils ahead of him.

The Americans tied the count at 2-2 in the third when Ralph Branca of Brooklyn, who started the contest, experienced a sudden burst of wildness. James Vernon and Pat Mullin walked, executed a double steal when Tommy Henrich was called out on strikes, and then Vernon scored on an outfield fly.

The American League reduced the margin to a single run in the last half of the second inning when Hoot Evers of Detroit rifled a line drive into the left field bleachers for a home run with nobody in base, the first hit off Ralph Branca of Brooklyn.

With one out Branca walked Ken Keltner but retired George McQuinn and Buddy Rosar on outfield flies to end the inning.

Musial's homer was off Washington's Walt Masterson, the starting pitcher for the American Leaguers.

Masterson retired the Nationals in order in the second inning, striking out Pee Wee Reese of Brooklyn.

The bases were loaded in the fourth when Raschi, who followed Masterson to the mound after three innings, singled home Ken Keltner and George McQuinn who also had singled.

The blow chased Johnny Schmitz of the Cubs, second National League pitcher, and brought in Johnny Sain, an 11-game winner with the Boston Braves.

The injured Joe Dimaggio, batting for Pat Mullin, sent a fly to left field, enabling Birdie Tebbets to score easily from third with the fifth run.

Schmitz of the Cubs was the losing pitcher, while Raschi of the Yankees was declared the winner.

Ground Gainers to Collide in Pro Ball

DETROIT —(NEA)—Fred Enke, Jr., and Charley Conerly, the nation's leading offensive powers in collegiate football last fall, finally are going to meet.

Enke is property of the Detroit Lions. Conerly belongs to the New York Giants.

The Giants are the lone Eastern division team not slated to oppose the Lions in National League play this fall. But a non-championship game in Flint, Mich., Sept. 7, is slated to bring the two highly-sought players together.

At Arizona last fall, Enke led the nation in total offense by compiling 1941 yards. Running second in this department was Conerly of Mississippi with 1784.

Both featured forward passes. Conerly set a new national collegiate record by completing 133 of 233 for 1367 yards. Enke placed third in passing with 88 completions in 184 attempts for 1406.

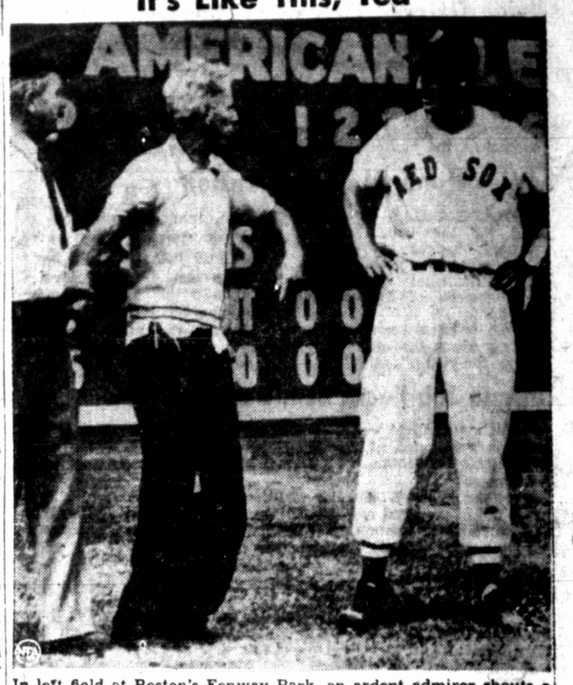

Enke had the better of the argument in rushing, picking up 535 yards to Conerly's 417.

Both appeared in 10 games.

Olympic Diplomat

CHICAGO, Ill. —(NEA)— Ted Vogel, Tufts College junior who will be an Olympic marathoner, has been elected a Town Meeting member at his home in Watertown, Mass., for 1948-1949. The national marathon champion served three years and one day in the U. S. Navy during wartime.

"It's Like This, Ted"

In left field at Boston's Fenway Park, an ardent admirer shouts a few last words of advice to Red Sox slugger Ted Williams before being taken away by an attendant. The fan held up the game when he jumped over the wall, and engaged his idol in conversation. Joe DiMaggio was the center of a similar disturbance at Yankee Stadium.

No Rest For Big Leaguers As Exhibition Games Played

NEW YORK —(AP)— The annual All-Star game usually means three days off for players not selected for either the National or American League squads but that isn't the case this year.

Yesterday, the first of the three idle days for big league clubs, saw seven major league teams engage in exhibition games.

At Cooperstown, the St. Louis Browns won a battle of homers from the Philadelphia Phils, 7-5.

The Brooklyn Dodgers were trounced, 15-8, by their Montreal International League farm hands. Pittsburgh's Pirates also were defeated, 5-1, by their Indianapolis farm club.

The New York Giants, led by Clint Hartung and Les Layton who hit homers, downed the Buffalo Bisons of the International League, 8-3.

The Philadelphia Athletics blanked the Wilmington Inter State League Blue Rocks, 3-0, at Wilmington, Del.

Cleveland's Indians trounced their Dayton farm team, 16-4.

Chilled Fruit Wards Off Summer Heat

Frozen canned grapefruit sections with mint and blueberries—a cool dessert on a torrid day.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

On a torrid day, try this for a cool dessert. Place an unopened can of grapefruit sections in freezing compartment of refrigerator for 8 hours. To use, remove both ends from can and slide out fruit. Slice sections to desired size. Arrange on platter garnished with fresh mint leaves and blueberries.

For a salad that ends the meal on a refreshing note, try this:

Florida Hostess Salad Bowl

(About 6 servings)

One No. 2 can grapefruit sections, mixed salad greens (lettuce, watercress, romaine, endive, chicory), 2-3 cup diced cucumber or 2-3 cup diced celery, French dressing.

Drain grapefruit sections; if desired, cut sections in half; break greens into small pieces. Add celery or cucumber and French dressing. Toss ingredients together lightly.

Variations: For a main course salad, add 1 cup flaked crabmeat, shrimp, diced lobster, chicken or turkey, slivered tongue or ham. One-quarter cup diced green pepper may be added and 1-2 cup diced orange sections may be substituted for 1-2 cup grapefruit sections.

For a labor-saving budget cooler, try this:

Canned Fruit Party Punch

(24 half-cup servings)

One No. 5 can grapefruit juice, 1 pint golden gingerale, 2 No. 2 cans tangerine juice.

Chill all ingredients thoroughly. Combine grapefruit juice and tangerine juice with gingerale in punch bowl. Add ice cubes.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Stewed dried fruit, crisped bacon or sliced bologna, enriched toast, butter or fortified margarine, homemade jelly or jam, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Creamed hard-cooked eggs and green peas on toast, raw carrot sticks, soft rolls, butter or fortified margarine, sliced oranges, tea, milk.

DINNER: Scalloped flaked fish with mashed potato top dusted with grated cheese, garden peas, corn on cob, seeded rolls, butter or fortified margarine, frozen canned grapefruit sections, iced coffee, milk.

SQUEEZE PLAY WINS SLAM IN NO TRUMP

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY

So many businessmen play tournament bridge today that it is not unusual to walk into a store or office and find an argument going on over the last evening's hands. Jon Stanford, who is associated with a haberdashery firm in New York's Fifth Avenue, is very popular among tournament players. When the boys drop in to buy a new tie or shirt, they naturally get into a discussion of hands.

In connection with today's hand, Sanford justified his seven no trump bid by saying, "It was the last hand of the game, and I knew I had to get all the points to win." However, at rubber bridge I do not think he was too optimistic.

East made the natural opening of the king of hearts. If the queen of hearts had been opened, Sanford thinks he would have been on the spot. But when he saw the king of hearts, he felt sure he was going to make the contract. He did not think that East, who was a very conservative player, would have made a vulnerable overcall of even one heart without at least the king-queen of hearts and king of spades.

Sanford won the king of hearts, then laid down four diamond tricks and six club tricks. This left him with the ace and queen of spades, and in dummy the six of spades and jack of hearts. Reasoning that East was down to the blank king of spades and king of hearts, Sanford led dummy's spade, went up with the ace, caught the king, and the queen of spades was good for the 13th trick.

Golf will help slim the waistline through twisting and bending. Fencing is wonderful for the bean-pole type of a girl who wants to develop the calves of her legs. Horseback riding is good for back muscles and carriage. Tennis not only develops the forearm but strengthens the entire body. Bicycling is particularly good for the legs and will slenderize hips is you are persistent about it.

If you work in a sitting job, so much more important will it be for you to exercise. Besides outdoor sports you will need to do some bending and stretching. During the day you should take a few seconds away from your job to change your position, stretch and do some deep breathing.

One movie star has a good method to help develop deep breathing. She inhales as much air as she can, then slowly expels it with a whistle. She finds this controlled breathing develops chest expansion, permitting deeper breathing. The exhaling, she says, can be timed to show progress, and if the whistle is steady your control is good.

When on your vacation or weekends at the bench, walk barefoot whenever possible. It will help strengthen the arches and is particularly beneficial to the girl who usually wears spike heels.

Walking is an invigorating sport. There is nothing quite like a brisk walk which can bring roses to your cheeks and help keep your body slim. This is one exercise which can be done whenever the spirit moves you.

Try Exercise for Summertime Glamor

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Whip out your bicycle, tennis racket, golf sticks and swim suit, and exercise for health and beauty.

You don't have to be an expert at any sport to enjoy it. The real purpose of engaging in it, besides your competitive spirit or love of the sport, should be to treat your muscles to a toning and your lungs to a good deep breathing tonic.

One of the most beneficial exercises for women is swimming. Perhaps you can't swim the English Channel or wear a bathing suit as can Ester Williams. Maybe your best and only "stroke" is the dog paddle. But don't be discouraged. Whether you put on the puppy water act or do the breast stroke, Australian crawl or back stroke, swimming in any fashion will give play to a great number of muscles. It will help develop lungs, slim down hips and stomach, strengthen back and shoulders. It will add grace to the walk.

Let 'Em Drool Or Cook Your Man's Goose

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

If there's the slightest chance your husband might be a candidate for a political job—a big one, that is—get out the cookbook, madame, and study hard.

It is positively un-American for the wife of a candidate to be ignorant of, or to scorn the business of bending over a hot stove. The little woman of the big politician who can't whip up a nine-course dinner before you can say "electoral college" is courting defeat at the polls.

The recent frenetic Republican activity in Philadelphia, where there were more favorite sons than states, was conclusive proof. The ladies of the hopefuls had more recipes on the tips of their tongues at press conferences than the boys had planks for the platform.

Mrs. Thomas E. Dewey—and remember who won—came armed with two old faithfuls: Berkshire soup and Mexican macaroni. Mrs. Arthur Vandenberg gave chapter and verse on her favorite "Vandenbergers" — doughnuts — described a special sauce for corned beef hash and told how to shuck oysters. Mrs. Robert Taft pulled a switch. She was accused of being a gourmet, denied the accusation and talked about dieting, a subject close to the heart of voting masses. Mrs. Stassen privately confessed favoring lamb chops and salads.

At the end of the week, the notebook of a reporter who attended to ladies' news conferences looked like the log of a home economist.

My notes on Mrs. Dewey's questions-and-answers indicate that Berkshire soup was the first thing she learned to cook. It consists of tomatoes, onions, corn and seasoning whipped together with a cream foundation and "is a filling meal in itself." Mexican macaroni is served "with a highly seasoned tomato sauce" and baked in a casserole.

"Vandenbergers" have nothing to do with beef, but are doughnuts made with a cup of mashed potatoes instead of a like amount of flour and the dough cut in the shape of spades, hearts, clubs and diamonds. Corned Beef hash should be served with a highly seasoned tomato sauce (maybe the same as Mrs. Dewey's) and, if supper is buffet, a sign saying "this sauce is for the corned beef hash" addes a gay note. Oysters should be shucked with a special knife and it's best to hire an expert oyster shucker to do the job.

Mrs. Taft is forever going on a diet, but the trouble is, she says, she doesn't stick to it long enough. She believes in lots of proteins.

There's precedent and sense in this kind of news conference talk. It's safe and sane. It keeps the ladies out of the dangerous mine fields of politics. It sets comfortably with the folks back home.

Remember what Mrs. Roosevelt—a lady who could hardly be called dedicated entirely to housekeeping chores—did for the simple scrambled egg and the frankfurter? She made a rite of scrambled eggs (double boiler-made) for Sunday night suppers, and she gave a hot-dog picnic for the King and Queen of England. Purveyors of those two food products undoubtedly had to pay higher income taxes the next year.

Mrs. Wendell Willkie, a forthright woman, never was able to understand the public's interest in her kitchen skills.

"Everybody wants to know how to make lemon meringue pie and fry chicken," she complained during her husband's campaign eight years ago. "Why do they care?"

Mrs. Willkie had no special recipes and no interest whatsoever in preparing either dishes.

Wednesday Dinner Suggested Menu

Panfried Pork Chops
Grilled Sweet Potatoes
Steamed Broccoli with Golden Sauce
Tossed Vegetable Salad, French Dressing
Bread and Butter
Sliced Fresh Peaches,
Thin Cream
Peanut Rice Crisps (x)
Beverage
(recipe for (x) dish follows)

PEANUT RICE CRISPS: Cream 1-4 cup butter or margarine and 3-4 cup sugar together thoroughly; add 1 egg and 1-2 teaspoon vanilla and beat well. Now add 1 cup finely chopped roasted peanuts and 4 cups crisp ready-to-eat rice cereal and mix well. Mixture will be dry in appearance, but do not add additional liquid. Press mixture firmly into rounded bowl of a measuring tablespoon and turn out onto lightly greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate (350F.) oven for about 12 to 15 minutes, until lightly browned. Let cookies cool slightly before removing from pan with spatula. Makes about 2 1-2 dozen cookies about 2 1-2 inches in diameter.

Oilers Score 9 Runs in Eleventh Inning As Bass Notches 13-4 Win

PIONEER STADIUM, Clovis—Held to seven hits in the first ten innings, the Pampa Oilers broke loose for nine straight safeties in the eleventh frame to shove across nine runs to give them a 13-4 victory over the Clovis Pioneers here last night

Howard Bass, Eldorado High School coach, bested George Matthews, leading hurler in the league, setting the hosts down with 13 scattered hits. Matthews boasts a total of 13 triumphs and five setbacks through last night's encounter.

Lead-off man R. C. Otey was struck on the arm in the first inning and as Bob Belford blasted a double, the speedy second sacker came all the way home from first. Dave Teyema then added to the Oiler cause by cracking a single to left, scoring Belford. Riley, Fortin, and Range were then set down in order and the Pioneers stalked to their dugout, with an early two run deficit.

Three consecutive singles off Bass gave the New Mexicans one run in the first but the locals duplicated the feat on two singles and a wild pitch in the second. In the fourth frame, Tony Range led off with a single and the regular inning Oiler scoring was completed when Dick Samek stepped into the box and clouted his fourth triple in the last two evenings.

Leading 4-2 going into the bottom of the ninth, Bass began tiring and walked two men and gave up two singles, the last one by John Bottorini, Pioneer manager, who came into the line-up as a pinch-hitter and drove in the both tallies.

The first nine Oilers to appear in the eleventh inning crossed home plate. Teyema led off with a double and went to third on Riley's single. Fortin, Range, Dews, and Bartholomew singled and Bass doubled, cleaning the beses. Belford then drilled another double, scoring Bass and Teyema got his second hit in the same inning, singling Belford home on a Texas Leaguer into center field. The next three men were retired but the damage was done.

Umpire Fischer, behind the plate, almost caused a riot when he ruled Mike Dalton out in the sixth inning for not tagging up on Frank Pachecho's fly into right. Dalton came home, but Fortin pegged the ball to Riley at third base, and Fischer ruled it a double play. The Pioneer fans almost ripped the stands apart.

Tonight, the Pioneers and Oilers meet in a doubleheader beginning at 8:30 (Pampa time). They remain in Clovis for the final contest of the four-game series tomorrow night.

McCulloughs Are Upset by 1st Methodist

The First Methodist Senior Girls got 15 runs in the bottom half of the second inning to hand the McCullough Methodist girls their second defeat of the season last night, 28-4.

The McCulloughs have recently been manhandling every team in the league, and the loss dropped them from first position to second in the league standings. Mary Jo White was the winning hurler while Betty Nelson was charged with the loss.

While the McCulloughs were losing to the erratic First Methodists, the First Baptists eased in to the league lead when they blasted the Calvary Baptists girls 25-4 in two and one-half innings of play.

The Baptists have only one blemish on their record, losing once to the McCulloughs. Patricia Johnson received credit for the win and Maxine Burns was charged with the loss.

Patricia Woodfill had trouble finding the plate in the Central Baptist-McCullough Methodist Junior girls contest last night, walking 12 and giving up eight hits as the Centrals triumphed over the Methodists, 13-5. Patsy Young was the winning hurler.

Williams TKO's Beau Jack in Title Defense

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— Ike Williams finally found an opponent who didn't know what it meant to backtrack and the string bean kid from Trenton, N. J., used him as a medium to prove he's a great lightweight champion.

Williams scored a six-round technical knockout last night over Beau Jack, windmill-swinging former shoeshine boy. Each entered the ring at 134 pounds.

A disappointing crowd of 12,952 paid $83,787 at Shibe Park and saw the ever-advancing Jacks warm all over the champion in the early rounds. William, jabbing and counter-punching, simply waited patiently for an opening.

In the sixth, the champion caught Jack with a left hook and, battering him with countless rights and lefts, pinned him against the ropes.

Jack wanted to fall but he couldn't and finally Referee Charley Daggert stepped in and called a halt after 33 seconds of the round.

The battle had been fairly even to that point.

What Goes Up, etc.

Former Columbian Bill Vessie does six feet six-and-a-half inches to tie New York AC teammate John Vislocky in the high jump of the Metropolitan AAU Senior Championships at Randalls Island Stadium, but appears a bit apprehensive about coming down.

News Defeats Jaycees 21-15

The Pampa News rallied for five runs in the sixth inning last night in the Industrial Softball League to upset the Pampa Jaycees, 21-15.

After trailing throughtout the complete contest, the Newsmen caught fire and touched Sam Keel for 13 hits in the last three innings, including home runs by Ray Babb, Joe Webb, and Dickie Cook. Art Aftergut and Charlie Laffoon both blasted round trippers for the Jaycees.

Archer, Maxwell, and Cook completed the News batteries while Keel and Aftergut worked on the mound and behind the plate, respectively, for the losers.

Chris Walsh tossed Furr Food to a 9-2 triumph over Cities Service in the only other league game last night.

DIAMOND DIGGINGS

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— There's a story scientists like to tell about the bumblebee is such that it can't fly.

But the bumblebee apparently doesn't give a buzz for science and goes on flying anyway.

The same thing might be said of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Sports experts said it was impossible for the A's to be pennant contenders in 1948. But the A's apparently don't give a loud foul ball for the experts and go on winning ball games anyway.

The A's have won 48 games while Cleveland, top dog in the American League, has won 45. The Indians, however, enjoy a half-game edge.

While the experts have failed to come up with the reason for the A's success story, all agree that hustle and fighting spirit have been key factors.

And one man who applies the needle is Coach Al Simmons.

Stationed in his third base coaching box, "Bucketfoot" Al has been flagging A's runners home with regularity all season—and has been stinging foes with his inimitable line of chatter.

Simmons, who in his heyday was one of the greatest American League sluggers, figures the Athletics have a good chance of copping their first pennant since 1931, one of the years Simmons was stationed in left field.

TL Calls Time Out For Annual All-Star Game

Bp HAROLD RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

Tulsa's Oilers were back in second place and the Shreveport Sports were moving toward a first division berth today as the Texas League took time out for its annual All-Star game.

The All-Star contest is scheduled for Fort Worth tonight where Al Vincent, Tulsa manager, sends his powerhouse team recruited from the other seven clubs against the league-leading Fort Worth Cats.

Tulsa trimmed Dallas 5-4 last night to surge into the runner-up spot while second-place Houston was tumbling before Shreveport in a doubleheader. Shreveport won the first game 8-2 and the afterpiece 2-0 to advance within a game of fourth-place San Antonio.

Fort Worth kept its two and one-half game bulge on the field by whipping Oklahoma City 4-1.

Beaumont and San Antonio were idled by rain.

The All-Stars, recruited from the other seven clubs to meet the league-leading Cats, are generally favored to win but more than 12,000 are expected to turn out to see them do it.

Manager Bobby Bragan of Fort Worth had veteran George Dockins, a relief specialist in the regular league race, ready to go as far as his left-handed effectiveness will carry him.

Al Vincent of Tulsa, skipper of the All-Stars, planned to "southpaw 'em to death" as he nominated three lefties for three-inning stints apiece—Harry Perkowski of Tulsa, Pete Mazar of Houston and Andy Sierra of San Antonio.

The game will start at 8:15 o'clock with these starting lineups:

ALL-STARS
Sommers, San Antonio, 2B
Kress, Tulsa, 1B
Burns, Tulsa, RF
Kirby, Shreveport, CF
Diblasi, Houston, 3B
Unser, Tulsa, C
Reynolds, Shreveport, SS
Perkowski, Tulsa, P

Girls Pull Triple Proving Charmers Can Do Anything

KENOSHA, Wis. —(NEA)— A triple play in baseball is a rarity, but when one is engineered by a feminine triumvirate, it just proves again that there isn't anything in sports the charmers can't do.

In an All-American Girls' Professional Baseball League game here, the Kenosha Comets, pitted against Johnny Rawlings' Grand Rapids, Mich., Chicks, hit the heights of defensive perfection.

Here's the way it happened.

Connie Wisniewski, Detroit, and Inez Voyce, Los Angeles, led off in the sixth inning with singles. Ruth Lessing, San Antonio, Tex., lined a fly to Marge Villa, diminutive shortstop from Montibello, Calif., who made a spectacular leaping catch, whirled in the air and pegged swiftly to Betty Fabac, Detroit second sacker, to trap Wisniewski off base. Fabac relayed the ball to Alice (Lefty) Hohlmayer, Columbus, O., to stamp out Voyce at first.

Villa, who started the play, is captain of the Comets and a standout all-around star of the league.

Kenosha is managed by Chet Grant, teammate of the late George Gipp. Grant also coached under Elmer Layden at Notre Dame following a minor league career in baseball.

A sidelight significant in the popular girls' league is that Bill Wambsganns, ex-Cleveland star who now manages the Muskegon, Mich., Lassies, accomplished the only unassisted triple play in World Series history on Oct. 10, 1920, against Brooklyn, at second base.

The former Indian shortstop is known in the girls' circuit as Bill Wemby. His Lassies won the playoff championship last year.

President of the league is Max Carey, former champion major league base thief with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Under his direction the circuit has grown from a four to a 10-club organization in the past six seasons.

But the best feat of the league so far is the triple play of the Kenosha Comets.

The fans are still talking about that one.

All-Stars Win Over Drillers

By the Associated Press

The Lone Star league resumes its slam-bang race tonight, a squad of all-stars having put leading Kilgore in its place with a 3-2 decision.

A crowd of 4,263 turned out at Kilgore last night to see the Drillers take a licking in the second annual All-Star tilt.

Tonight Longview goes to Gladewater, Tyler to Marshall, Henderson to Lufkin and Bryan to Kilgore in a resumption of regular warfare.

Mike Calo's home run in the sixth inning gave the All-Stars their decision over Kilgore. The Marshall catcher's circuiter came with a man on base and put the all stars ahead for good.

The Drillers scored first, fashioning two runs in the first frame on an infield hit and error. Zane Skinner was hit by a pitched ball. Marshall Brown beat out an infield hit and Skinner scored when the throw got away from First Baseman Stan Goletz of Bryan. Brown scored on a fielder's choice that put A. B. Cross on first.

The All-Stars matched one of hese runs in the second. Al Kubski of Longview got on base through an error. He went to third on a double by Goletz and came home on a long fly by Jonny Stone.

A trio of Kilgore pitchers, Lee Roy Jones, Willis Chamness and Bruce Drives, held the All-Stars to five hits.

Four All-Star twirlers, Julio Ramos of Henderson, Joe Pate of Longview, Jim Neely of Bryan and George Shell of Lufkin, held Kilgore to two hits and struck out [illegible].

Neely and Shell allowed no runs [illegible] two hitting on the mound, and Drivers duplicated this feat in three innings of pitching.

Patino Wins

CORPUS CHRISTI —(AP)— Chango Patino, 145, Houston, scored a close decision over Tommy Ramirez, 147, Corpus Christi, in the ten-round main event of last night's fight card here.

Other results included: Francisco Gaytan, Brownsville, knocked out Charles Rogers, Houston, second round of lightweight four-rounder; Baby Borrado, 112, Brownsville, decisioned Pate Salazar, 118, Corpus Christi, in four.

American Leaguers Take 5-2 Victory From National Stars

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, St. Louis —(AP)—Three fourth inning runs, two of them on a single by Pitcher Vic Raschi, carried the American League into a 5-2 win over the National loop today in the all-star baseball game.

The National League hopped off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning when Stan Musial of St. Louis slammed a 370-foot homer which scored Richie Ashburn of the Phils ahead of him.

The Americans tied the count at 2-2 in the third when Ralph Branca of Brooklyn, who started the contest, experienced a sudden burst of wildness. James Vernon and Pat Mullin walked, executed a double steal when Tommy Henrich was called out on strikes, and then Vernon scored on an outfield fly.

The American League reduced the margin to a single run in the last half of the second inning when Hoot Evers of Detroit rifled a line drive into the left field bleachers for a home run with nobody in base, the first hit off Ralph Branca of Brooklyn.

With one out Branca walked Ken Keltner but retired George McQuinn and Buddy Rosar on outfield flies to end the inning.

Musial's homer was off Washington's Walt Masterson, the starting pitcher for the American Leaguers.

Masterson retired the Nationals in order in the second inning, striking out Pee Wee Reese of Brooklyn.

The bases were loaded in the fourth when Raschi, who followed Masterson to the mound after three innings, singled home Ken Keltner and George McQuinn who also had singled.

The blow chased Johnny Schmitz of the Cubs, second National League pitcher, and brought in Johnny Sain, an 11-game winner with the Boston Braves.

The injured Joe Dimaggio, batting for Pat Mullin, sent a fly to left field, enabling Birdie Tebbets to score easily from third with the fifth run.

Schmitz of the Cubs was the losing pitcher, while Raschi of the Yankees was declared the winner.

Ground Gainers to Collide in Pro Ball

DETROIT —(NEA)—Fred Enke, Jr., and Charley Conerly, the nation's leading offensive powers in collegiate football last fall, finally are going to meet.

Enke is property of the Detroit Lions. Conerly belongs to the New York Giants.

The Giants are the lone Eastern division team not slated to oppose the Lions in National League play this fall. But a non-championship game in Flint, Mich., Sept. 7, is slated to bring the two highly-sought players together.

At Arizona last fall, Enke led the nation in total offense by compiling 1941 yards. Running second in this department was Conerly of Mississippi with 1784.

Both featured forward passes. Conerly set a new national collegiate record by completing 133 of 233 for 1367 yards. Enke placed third in passing with 88 completions in 184 attempts for 1406.

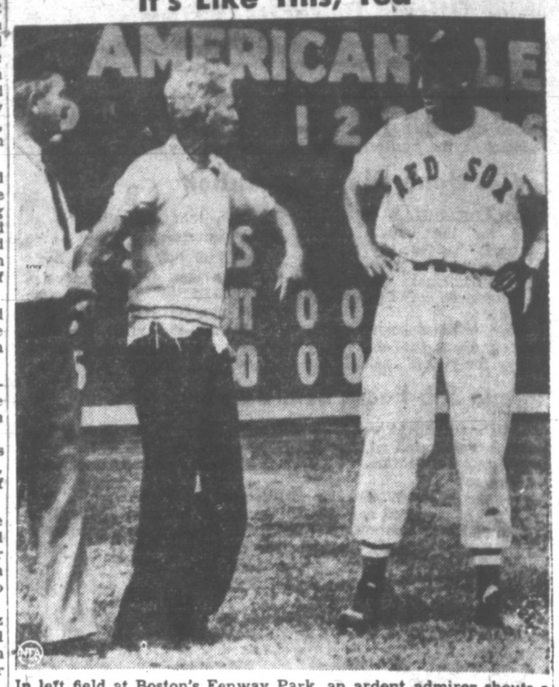

Enke had the better of the argument in rushing, picking up 535 yards to Conerly's 417.

Both appeared in 10 games.

Olympic Diplomat

CHICAGO, Ill. —(NEA)— Ted Vogel, Tufts College junior who will be an Olympic marathoner, has been elected a Town Meeting member at his home in Watertown, Mass., for 1948-1949. The national marathon champion served three years and one day in the U. S. Navy during wartime.

"It's Like This, Ted"

In left field at Boston's Fenway Park, an ardent admirer shouts a few last words of advice to Red Sox slugger Ted Williams before being taken away by an attendant. The fan held up the game when he jumped over the wall, and engaged his idol in conversation. Joe DiMaggio was the center of a similar disturbance at Yankee Stadium.

No Rest For Big Leaguers As Exhibition Games Played

NEW YORK —(AP)— The annual All-Star game usually means three days off for players not selected for either the National or American League squads but that isn't the case this year.

Yesterday, the first of the three idle days for big league clubs, saw seven major league teams engage in exhibition games.

At Cooperstown, the St. Louis Browns won a battle of homers from the Philadelphia Phils, 7-5.

The Brooklyn Dodgers were trounced, 15-8, by their Montreal International League farm hands.

Pittsburgh's Pirates also were defeated, 5-1, by their Indianapolis farm club.

The New York Giants, led by Clint Hartung and Les Layton who hit homers, downed the Buffalo Bisons of the International League, 8-3.

The Philadelphia Athletics blanked the Wilmington Inter State League Blue Rocks, 3-0, at Wilmington, Del.

Cleveland's Indians trounced their Dayton farm team, 16-4.

The hunting falcon operates like a fighting plane, climbing above its prey to dive upon it.

To the wonderful couples that came out to hear and see Fran McCarthy and his Orchestra while he was in Pampa at the

SOUTHERN CLUB
PAMPAS' FINEST NITE CLUB!

The people of Pampa must like good music! To make it possible to hold this band over 5 weeks. What a party! It started June 7th—thru July 10th!!

The people must of liked good music! To pay $3.10 per couple, to get in—And they would stay and stay till "Al" would have to turn the lights out, to get them to go home, still next nite, they'd come rite back, some'd say—Here we go again!

What a record! Not one fight! Everybody out for a good time. No time for misunderstandings! No Sir!

To those, if there were any?—That were looking for or expectin' to see a fight—We Can Only Say—We are so sorry that we conduct our business in such a way that only decent and respectable couples and their friends "care" to patronize us. Again we thank you!!

And now, "Billy and Al" owners of - - -

Mrs. Boswell Speaks To Jaycee-Ettes

Mrs. Betty Boswell was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Pampa Jaycee-Ettes last Wednesday evening in the City Club Rooms. The subject of her talk was "Cosmetics."

Refreshments were served by a committee composed of Mrs. Jack Vaughn and Mrs. Bill Fannon.

The meeting was attended by 16 members.

FEWER BUTTONS

NEW YORK — There will be fewer campaign buttons this year, says American Machinist.

"The reason behind it—they cost 2 1-4 cents each, compared with 3-4 cent in 1940."

One theory is that the manna of the Bible was lichen, blown for hundreds of miles by the wind.

Chilled Fruit Wards Off Summer Heat

Frozen canned grapefruit sections with mint and blueberries—a cool dessert on a torrid day.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

On a torrid day, try this for a cool dessert. Place an unopened can of grapefruit sections in freezing compartment of refrigerator for 8 hours. To use, remove both ends from can and slide out fruit. Slice sections to desired size. Arrange on platter garnished with fresh mint leaves and blueberries.

For a salad that ends the meal on a refreshing note, try this:

Florida Hostess Salad Bowl
(About 6 servings)

One No. 2 can grapefruit sections, mixed salad greens (lettuce, watercress, romaine, endive, chicory), 2-3 cup diced cucumber or 2-3 cup diced celery, French dressing.

Drain grapefruit sections; if desired, cut sections in half; break greens into small pieces. Add celery or cucumber and French dressing. Toss ingredients together lightly.

Variations: For a main course salad, add 1 cup flaked crabmeat, shrimp, diced lobster, chicken or turkey, slivered tongue or ham. One-quarter cup diced green pepper may be added and 1-2 cup diced orange sections may be substituted for 1-2 cup grapefruit sections.

For a labor-saving budget cooler, try this:

Canned Fruit Party Punch
(24 half-cup servings)

One No. 5 can grapefruit juice, 1 pint golden gingerale, 2 No. 2 cans tangerine juice.

Chill all ingredients thoroughly. Combine grapefruit juice and tangerine juice with gingerale in punch bowl. Add ice cubes.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Stewed dried fruit, crisped bacon or sliced bologna, enriched toast, butter or fortified margarine, homemade jelly or jam, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Creamed hard-cooked eggs and green peas on toast, raw carrot sticks, soft rolls, butter or fortified margarine, sliced oranges, tea, milk.

DINNER: Scalloped flaked fish with mashed potato top dusted with grated cheese, garden peas, corn on cob, seeded rolls, butter or fortified margarine, frozen canned grapefruit sections, iced coffee, milk.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

SQUEEZE PLAY WINS SLAM IN NO TRUMP

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

So many businessmen play tournament bridge today that it is not unusual to walk into a store or office and find an argument going on over the last evening's hands. Jon Stanford, who is associated with a haberdashery firm on New York's Fifth Avenue, is very popular among tournament players. When the boys drop in to buy a new tie or shirt, they naturally get into a discussion of hands.

In connection with today's hand, Sanford justified his seven no trump bid by saying, "It was the last hand of the game, and I knew I had to get all the points to win." However, at rubber bridge I do not think he was too optimistic.

East made the natural opening of the king of hearts. If the queen of hearts had been opened, Sanford thinks he would have been on the spot. But when he saw the king of hearts, he felt sure he was going to make the contract. He did not think that East, who was a very conservative player, would have made a vulnerable overcall of even one heart without at least the king-queen of hearts and king of spades.

Sanford won the king of hearts, then laid down four diamond tricks and six club tricks. This left him with the ace and queen of spades, and in dummy the six of spades and jack of hearts. Reasoning that East was down to the blank king of spades and king of hearts, Sanford led dummy's spade, went up with the ace, caught the king, and the queen of spades was good for the 13th trick.

Try Exercise for Summertime Glamor

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Whip out your bicycle, tennis racket, golf sticks and swim suit, and exercise for health and beauty.

You don't have to be an expert at any sport to enjoy it. The real purpose of engaging in it, besides your competitive spirit or love of the sport, should be to treat your muscles to a toning and your lungs to a good deep breathing tonic.

One of the most beneficial exercises for women is swimming. Perhaps you can't swim the English Channel or wear a bathing suit as can Ester Williams. Maybe your best and only "stroke" is the dog paddle. But don't be discouraged. Whether you put on the puppy water act or do the breast stroke, Australian crawl or back stroke, swimming in any fashion will give play to a great number of muscles. It will help develop lungs, slim down hips and stomach, strengthen back and shoulders. It will add grace to the walk.

Golf will help slim the waistline through twisting and bending. Fencing is wonderful for the bean-pole type of a girl who wants to develop the calves of her legs. Horseback riding is good for back muscles and carriage. Tennis not only develops the forearm but strengthens the entire body. Bicycling is particularly good for the legs and will slenderize hips is you are persistent about it.

If you work in a sitting job, so much more important will it be for you to exercise. Besides outdoor sports you will need to do some bending and stretching. During the day you should take a few seconds away from your job to change your position, stretch and do some deep breathing.

One movie star has a good method to help develop deep breathing. She inhales as much air as she can, then slowly expels it with a whistle. She finds this controlled breathing develops chest expansion, permitting deeper breathing. The exhaling, she says, can be timed to show progress, and if the whistle is steady your control is good.

When on your vacation or weekends at the bench, walk barefoot whenever possible. It will help strengthen the arches and is particularly beneficial to the girl who usually wears spike heels.

Walking is an invigorating sport. There is nothing quite like a brisk walk which can bring roses to your cheeks and help keep your body slim. This is one exercise which can be done whenever the spirit moves you.

Let 'Em Drool Or Cook Your Man's Goose

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

If there's the slightest chance your husband might be a candidate for a political job—a big one, that is—get out the cookbook, madame, and study hard.

It is positively un-American for the wife of a candidate to be ignorant of, or to scorn the business of bending over a hot stove. The little woman of the big politician who can't whip up a nine-course dinner before you can say "electoral college" is courting defeat at the polls.

The recent frenetic Republican activity in Philadelphia, where there were more favorite sons than states, was conclusive proof. The ladies of the hopefuls had more recipes on the tips of their tongues at press conferences than the boys had planks for the platform.

Mrs. Thomas E. Dewey—and remember who won—came armed with two old faithfuls: Berkshire soup and Mexican macaroni. Mrs. Arthur Vandenberg gave chapter and verse on her favorite "Vandenbergers" — doughnuts — described a special sauce for corned beef hash and told how to shuck oysters. Mrs. Robert Taft pulled a switch. She was accused of being a gourmet, denied the accusation and talked about dieting, a subject close to the heart of voting masses. Mrs. Stassen privately confessed favoring lamb chops and salads.

At the end of the week, the notebook of a reporter who attended to ladies' news conferences looked like the log of a home economist.

My notes on Mrs. Dewey's questions-and-answers indicate that Berkshire soup was the first thing she learned to cook. It consists of tomatoes, onions, corn and seasoning whipped together with a cream foundation and "is a filling meal in itself." Mexican macaroni is served "with a highly seasoned tomato sauce" and baked in a casserole.

"Vandenbergers" have nothing to do with beef, but are doughnuts made with a cup of mashed potatoes instead of a like amount of flour and the dough cut in the shape of spades, hearts, clubs and diamonds. Corned Beef hash should be served with a highly seasoned tomato sauce (maybe the same as Mrs. Dewey's) and, if supper is buffet, a sign saying "this sauce is for the corned beef hash" addes a gay note. Oysters should be shucked with a special knife and it's best to hire an expert oyster shucker to do the job.

Mrs. Taft is forever going on a diet, but the trouble is, she says, she doesn't stick to it long enough. She believes in lots of proteins.

There's precedent and sense in this kind of news conference talk. It's safe and sane. It keeps the ladies out of the dangerous mine fields of politics. It sets comfortably with the folks back home.

Remember what Mrs. Roosevelt—a lady who could hardly be called dedicated entirely to housekeeping chores—did for the simple scrambled egg and the frankfurter? She made a rite of scrambled eggs (double boiler-made) for Sunday night suppers, and she gave a hot-dog picnic for the King and Queen of England. Purveyors of those two food products undoubtedly had to pay higher income taxes the next year.

Mrs. Wendell Willkie, a forthright woman, never was able to understand the public's interest in her kitchen skills.

"Everybody wants to know how to make lemon meringue pie and fry chicken," she complained during her husband's campaign eight years ago. "Why do they care?"

Mrs. Willkie had no special recipes and no interest whatsoever in preparing either dishes. And Wendell Willkie, lost the election to the husband of lady who scrambled eggs and roasted hot-dogs.

Recent Bride Is Shower Honoree

SKELLYTOWN — Mrs. J. W. Buckley, the former Alta Mae Vaughn of Skellytown, now of Borger, was honored Friday, July 9, at a wedding shower in the home of Mrs. J. L. Burba in the Gulf Camp, north of Skellytown.

Games were played under the direction of Mrs. Clyde Horner, with prizes going to Mrs. R. E. Bradford and Mrs. J. A. Vaughn.

Addie Fern Lick entertained the group with piano selections.

Refreshments of punch and cake were served to those mentioned and Mesdames S. B. Wade, J. L. Hale, R. P. Boyd, B. H. Eubanks, B. L. Anderson of Borger, Harry Francis and daughter, Bert Bost, Ralph Wrinkle, E. E. Anderson and son, and Misses Horner, daughter of Mrs. Clyde Horner, Addie Fern Lick, Linda Burba, and Dona Gaye Eubanks.

Wednesday Dinner Suggested Menu

Panfried Pork Chops
Grilled Sweet Potatoes
Steamed Broccoli with Golden Sauce
Tossed Vegetable Salad, French Dressing
Bread and Butter
Sliced Fresh Peaches, Thin Cream
Peanut Rice Crisps (x)
Beverage
(recipe for (x) dish follows)

PEANUT RICE CRISPS: Cream 1-4 cup butter or margarine and 3-4 cup sugar together thoroughly; add 1 egg and 1-2 teaspoon vanilla and beat well. Now add 1 cup finely chopped roasted peanuts and 4 cups crisp ready-to-eat rice cereal and mix well. Mixture will be dry in appearance, but do not add additional liquid. Press mixture firmly into rounded bowl of a measuring tablespoon and turn out onto lightly greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate (350F.) oven for about 12 to 15 minutes, until lightly browned. Let cookies cool slightly before removing from pan with spatula. Makes about 2 1-2 dozen cookies about 2 1-2 inches in diameter.

Super-Cargo Planes Can Carry 222 Soldiers

The Douglas C-124 cargo aircraft, recently ordered for the U. S. Air Force, shows the great variety of loads it can carry. The big craft, 2½ times larger than the war-famous C-54, has a built-in nose ramp, enabling it to accommodate heavy tanks, field guns and even bulldozers. Operating from the same size field as the C-54, the new plane is said to be able to carry a load of 50,000 pounds, or 222 fully-equipped troops, for a distance of 1200 miles and return.

Market Briefs

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, July 12—(AP)—The stock market continued last week's advance today but enough opposition developed to keep the rise a small one.

Rails were once more the backbone of the market. Steels did pretty well for a while but later, along with many other issues, fell back from their peak gains.

Volume for the day was headed for around 1,300,000 shares, or close to Friday's 1,370,000 which was the largest in some two weeks.

Highs for the year or longer were hit during the day by U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Missouri-Kansas-Texas preferred, N. Y. Central, Curtis Publishing, and Chicago & Eastern Illinois "A."

Standard Oil Indiana spurted in late dealings following word of a stock dividend on the common shares.

Among a handful of laggards were Montgomery Ward, American Telephone, Western Union, Anaconda Copper and American Tobacco.

Nickel Plate Railroad hit a 1948 high at one time but this was later wiped out.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 12—(AP)—Spot cotton closed steady, 7a cents a bale lower here today. Sales 2,200; low middling 28.10, middling 34.35, good middling 34.80; receipts none; stock 128,945.

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, July 12—(AP)—Wheat No. 1 hard 2.35⅝-39⅝.
Oats No. 2 white 1.08⅝-11⅝.
Corn No. 2 yellow 2.34¼-35½.
Sorghums No. 2 yellow milo per 100 lbs 2.60-70.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 12—(AP)—Corn staged a good rally on the Board of Trade today. The crop outlook was as splendid as ever, but selling had dried up. Covering by previous short sellers sent prices up more than 3 cents at times and brought July above the $2.00 mark again.

Oats also were firm, although gains were not as large as in corn. Both corn and oats were aided by good demand for the cash grain here. Wheat started off a little lower, but recovered quickly and held above the previous close for the rest of the session. Gains were small.

Wheat closed ⅝ lower to ⅝ higher, July $2.29-2.28⅝, corn was ¼-½ higher, July $2.03⅝-½, oats were ⅝-¾ lower, July 90¼-⅝.

Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Note Book

By HAL BOYLE

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y. —(AP)—Once upon a time early in the atom age—this is a true story—there were two Irishmen.

One Irishman was named Pat—Pat McGrady. The other was Bill—Bill Keenan.

Bill owned a big wooden house on the north shore of Long Island. But Bill wasn't happy about it. The house was only 25 miles from New York City—and Bill had a big worry. He was afraid that if anybody ever started tossing atom bombs at Manhattan his big wooden house would soon look like the bottom layer of the Pompeii ruins.

Pat didn't own a house, but he wanted to. So through a newspaper ad the two Irishmen got together. Pat bought Bill's house, and Bill took Mrs. Keenan and their four children and moved out to Montana.

That was in October, 1946.

Recently Bill Keenan, still a happy fugitive from the atom, announced from the mountain-ringed hamlet of De Borgia, Mont., that he had made a happy choice.

"We're crazy about this place," he said in "atom haven," a two-story place by the side of the road which he built as a restaurant for tourists. It also has living quarters.

Keenan, who was born in the New York area, said some pretty harsh things about city life and added:

"There is no safety in a coast city—economic or otherwise."

So, just to get both sides of the picture, I came out here to see how the other Irishman—McGrady—was making out. He's doing fine.

"Bill is right about the wonders of Montana," said Pat. "I was raised out there myself. Didn't come East until 1926 myself. I like it. It's a good place to earn a living."

McGrady, an ex-Marine, and his wife, Grace, have three sons—Pat, Jr., 15, Mike, 14, and Seamus, 9. The rest of the household consists of "Big Stoop," a 90-pound pup, half Great Dane and half Bloodhound, who eats hats and nylon stockings, and "Supercat," an alley cat left behind by he Keenans.

"It's a nice place," McGrady said. "We have a flower garden and a berry patch. The kids like it because we're close to Long Island Sound. They go swimming every day in the summer."

Living in a potential atomic target area doesn't worry the family at all. Their motto is: "Atom go bragh!"

"The Long Island Railroad has enough trouble getting here," said McGrady, who commutes the 25 miles each day to his office in Manahttan. "I don't think an atom bombardier could ever find it."

Said young Seamus:

"The worst thing out here is the arithmetic. Some of the school work was pretty hard this year—fractions and all sorts of things."

The two Irishmen write to each other regularly.

"I understand Keenan only had to pay $1.65 in taxes last year," McGrady said. "That ought to start a stampede to Montana. Taxes are more likely to drive people out of the cities than atom bombs."

Besides "Supercat," Keenan left behind in the house three Ouija boards.

"I'm looking to them to give me the tipoff on the first atomic assault," smiled McGrady. "Then I'll take my family West and move in with Bill."

SHE looked up and met Tom's grave, blue eyes. "What is it?" he asked quietly. "Something you want to tell me, Jess?"

She nodded. Now was the moment. Get it over with, she told herself; the rest will be easy. She could not meet Tom's eyes. She fumbled with her napkin.

She said, "You probably know—"

"Where you were this afternoon? No. I don't know. I suppose you met someone. I don't intend to pry into your affairs, Jess, but I'm not exactly stupid. We've had so little opportunity to discuss our future since I came back. I've hoped—" His voice faltered.

"I know. I'm sorry."

He pushed back his chair. "Look, Jess: I know a lot more about life than I did when I left you more than two years ago. I came home thinking things would be different." He smiled wryly. "Instead I found them worse. Mom ill, Lucy gone, you indifferent."

That was putting it mildly, she thought.

She said, "I tried."

He shook his head. There was no softness in his eyes now. "You didn't try enough."

Her cheeks flamed. Her dark eyes were brilliant with anger. "What do you mean?"

"This." Tom stood up. He towered above her. "You wanted me," he said bluntly, "like I wanted you. If I hadn't believed that, I wouldn't have begged you to marry me. You and I shared something, we loved each other. We didn't have much time then to sort out reasons. We had only a few hours to spend together."

"I was young. I didn't know—"

His eyes hardened. "You didn't know that I was poor, or was it that you didn't understand poverty? I thought love would fix all that. I wasn't without blame. I was narrow-minded and stubborn. My folks meant the whole world to me. I thought Mom and Lucy perfect. I thought they'd take care of you, keep you safe while I was gone. I didn't understand women. I never knew many girls—just Lucy."

• • •

SHE felt a little shiver of dread. Suppose Tom knew? How could she ever tell him? "I love Lucy," she said. "She was kind and generous."

"She would be. When Lucy comes home, everything will be all right."

No, she thought miserably, not everything.

She said, "Tom, you can't understand. I never had to work. I didn't understand pinching and saving. I hated it. I wanted to be independent and take a job and be free to do as I pleased."

"No one can do as he pleases. Did I want to go away and fight? Lose three years out of my life? Did I look forward to a homecoming like this?"

There was no answer to this, and Jessica attempted none. She got up and began to collect the dishes. Why continue a discussion that brought only heartache?

After Tom left the table, Jessica realized that they had reached no definite conclusion about their future. Was it consideration for Tom that made her hesitate to tell him outright that she loved David Gregory and planned to marry him? Was there another reason which she refused to face? Doubt? Of herself—David?

She went about her work, washing dishes, turning out lights, then going upstairs to say good night to Betsy. The door to her room stood open. The lights were out in the bedroom; only the hall lamp shone across the rug, showing Tom seated beside the baby's crib, holding her chubby hand, his blond head bent, too absorbed to notice Jessica's presence.

Every day she remained here made the parting more difficult, thought Jessica wretchedly. Now was the time to tell Tom that she no longer loved him and planned to marry another man. Fairness to David demanded that she speak. Only her own weak, cowardly heart held her back again, made her turn and run downstairs, unwilling to remain another instant watching Tom and the baby, knowing that pity could destroy all that she and David had planned together.

• • •

RIGHT now she must tell Tom, Jessica decided, as she sat in the living room listening for his step in the upper hall.

Why did life have to be so complicated, she thought sadly, and dropped her head in her hands.

When she looked up Tom stood in the room.

He said, "What is it, Jess? I think I know. You can leave whenever you wish to leave."

She was confused. She could think of only one thing. "What about Lucy?" she asked.

He said, "What about Lucy?"

She found herself telling him her fears. The words stumbling, her tongue hesitating to utter her suspicion that the girl who lay in the hospital might be Tom's sister. She told him about the sale of her ring and her belief that Hugh Linton had bought the ring and had given it to Lucy.

Tom's face whitened. His blue eyes were hard and cold. "Why didn't you tell me this before?" he demanded.

"I didn't want to hurt you."

Tom turned on his heel and was in the hall. He dialed a number. His voice was curt. "City Hospital?"

Jessica ran into the hall and stood beside him. Tom asked a few questions. Could he come at once? See this girl? Important information. . . . The words rang through her aching head. Tom planned to go.

He put back the receiver. "Stay with Mother while I'm gone," he said. "I'm going to prove to myself that you are wrong. If you are, I'll never forgive you this insult to my sister."

The front door slammed behind him. (To Be Continued)

XXXVI

EVEN the night when she had watched beside Mrs. Blake had not been more terrifying than this night as she waited for Tom's return from the hospital. Would they allow him to see the girl, and would she speak?

Jessica went upstairs to the darkened room where Mrs. Blake lay in a stupor, neither asleep nor waking; whether unconscious or aware of anything which went on around her, no one knew.

The house was deathly still and cold. Jessica went into her own room and put a robe over her print dress. She tucked the blanket closer about Betsy's sleeping figure. She was restless, unnerved, as she roved from her own room to the sickroom and back again, then stood listening at the head of the stairs for a step on the porch outside. A knock on the outer door brought her down the staircase in a rush.

"Who is it?" she demanded.

"Doris." Doris pushed inside, bringing a dash of cold air and sleety snow with her. She pulled off the scarf which covered her auburn head and loosened her coat. "Lord, what a night!"

Doris followed Jessica into the living room and they sat down on the davenport together. "I wanted to talk to you about Lucy," Doris said.

"I've seen her."

Suddenly there was no doubt in her mind. Had there ever been any doubt that the girl downtown was Lucy? Like Tom, she didn't want to acknowledge the identity of that girl who lay disgraced and disfigured, and ready to deny her identity to those who loved her.

• • •

SHE told Doris what she had done. Her meeting with David, her decision to visit the hospital—her belief that the girl was Lucy.

"Probably David Gregory knows," said Doris slowly.

"David? How could he know?"

"He and Hugh Linton are just like that." She twined two fingers. "Men don't look at affairs like women do and I imagine Linton needed someone to help him out of a bad mess, although he did pretty well, at that. He started a fund at the plant for the victims of the fire. He said he would finance, personally, whatever plastic surgery might be needed. Lucy, again. I've heard of no one else as badly injured."

"And you believe that David knew the identity of the girl?"

"Why not? He's in Linton's confidence in everything else. Lucy worked in the same office. It would be strange if he didn't know, wouldn't it?"

"Is this what you wanted to tell me?"

Doris hesitated. "I feel sorry for Tom," she said. "I don't see how he will manage if he has two helpless women to take care of. Do you?"

"Why should I be responsible for Lucy's mistakes?" demanded Jessica.

"You aren't exactly blameless, are you?" said Doris bluntly. "You helped to give Lucy ideas. Probably Hugh Linton worked on her all the time. Then—" she hesitated— "then you showed her that a marriage vow meant little."

"Lucy never paid any attention to what I did," denied Jessica.

"How do you know? How can you be sure you didn't influence her? She influenced you."

"How?"

Doris smiled broadly. "Who else? Was it your mother-in-law who taught you to be unselfish and considerate? You were a little beast when Tom brought you here. I felt sorry for you because you were so lonesome and bewildered, but you had an idea that life was one long honeymoon, didn't you?"

"Tom urged me to marry him. I didn't have time to think what I might be getting into. He took me out of a lovely home and left me with a woman who hated me," said Jessica sharply. "If it hadn't been for Lucy—" The name brought her back to the present. "Tom's gone to the hospital," she said.

Doris was silent, her hazel eyes dark with sympathy. She said, "Who'll help him take care of Lucy?"

"Take care of Lucy?"

"It will be weeks before she'll be able to do anything. Then where will she go to find a job? Tom will have to support Lucy and his mother. He'll have to hire help to take care of them."

• • •

JESSICA had thought of that herself. She didn't want to think of it. When Doris left, she tried to read, but watched the clock with growing alarm, wondering where Tom could be. She ran upstairs to the sickroom but there was no change. She stood to listen, uncertain whether there was any life in that silent figure on the bed. She went back downstairs and found herself reviewing the months spent in the house where she sat alone tonight except for her baby and the sick woman.

Then she heard steps outside, the crunch of shoes on snow, feet stamping on the mat beside the door, the outside door opening.

Tom came in. He didn't look once in her direction but strode directly toward the stairs. Jessica spoke his name and half rose from her chair, nervous and afraid as she saw his white, tense face, his eyes blank and staring as he turned toward her.

She moved her lips to ask the question but could make no sound, shocked by the agony in Tom's eyes as they met her own.

"Tom!" Her voice died as she spoke his name.

He paused and came back and stood in the living room doorway. He said in a harsh bitter tone, "You were right. The girl is Lucy."

Before she could speak he turned and went slowly upstairs, his step heavy, his blond head bent. A moment later Jessica heard the door of his room close behind him.

Air Reserves To End Course

Fourteen college students from the Panhandle, including one from Pampa and one from Shamrock, are scheduled to complete their six-weeks intense active duty in the Air Reserve Officers' Training Corps at Kelly Air Forces Base in San Antonio on Saturday, according to Lt. Col. David Wallace, camp commanding officer.

Harold E. Cobb, 909 E. Browning, and Bobby Ed Terry, Shamrock, students at Texaxs Technological College, Lubbock, along with the other cadets, will receive certificates entitling then to Air Force Reserve commissions when they complete their second year of advanced Air ROTC training at their respective colleges next May.

One reserve instructor at the "Cradle of the Air Force" is 1st Lt. J. Blake Timmons of Amarillo, who is a first-term member of the Texas House of Representatives in civilian life. Rep. Timmons, who rose in rank from private to first lieutenant during four years service in the second World War, was called to temporary active duty a week before the camp opened on June 7. He returned to Amarillo and civilian life last Saturday.

The Japanese Priest Said: "DOMINUS VOBISCUM"

It was early Sunday morning in Tokyo. A cosmopolitan congregation had assembled in the Catholic church for the first Mass of the day. Along with the Japanese present, there were English, French and Portuguese sailors, the family of a Belgian diplomat, Filipino business men and a sprinkling of U. S. Military Police.

The Japanese priest was compelled to start the service without an assistant to answer the prayers. He had hardly begun the Mass, when a burly GI rose from his seat, walked to the altar and took the place of the absent server.

"At first," he said afterwards, "I felt a little strange serving a Jap priest in a Jap church. But after he turned around and said in Latin: 'Dominus vobiscum!'... I felt just the way I did when I served Father O'Malley in our church back home."

"Dominus vobiscum!" ..."The Lord be with you!"

How familiar and homelike those Latin words sounded... to the English, the French, the Portuguese, Belgians and Filipinos ..for they had heard them Sunday after Sunday in their own church at home.

Despite their language differences, each could follow the prayers of the Mass ...and the actions of the priest. For each had a double-column prayer book—one column in Latin, one in his native language.

Many services of divine worship in the Catholic Church are conducted in the native language of the people. But the Mass...the official and world-wide act of Catholic worship...is generally conducted in Latin because this dead language never changes and is most appropriate to express the fundamentally unchanging worship instituted by Christ at the Last Supper.

Perhaps you have heard Catholics speak of the Mass ..or have seen them thronging to Mass on Sunday and other days. If you would like to know more about the Mass ...and why the Mass attracts millions of Catholics to church regularly ...we will be happy to send you a free pamphlet explaining the Mass and reasons behind it in a clear-cut manner. Write today... ask for Pamphlet No. 6-N.

Going Berserk On Stamp Issue

Not since Jim Farley was caught issuing a series of United States stamps for the private collections of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harold Ickes and others who belonged to New Deal royalty have the nation's philatelists been as disturbed as by the present deluge of commemoratives from Washington, D.C.

Already this year Congress has "directed" the Postoffice Dept. to print postage stamps honoring George Washington Carver, discovery of gold, Mississippi Territory, four chaplains, Wisconsin statehood and Swedish pioneers.

Slated for early printing are stamps commemorating woman's suffrage, Francis Scott Key, five civilized Indian tribes, Will Rogers, Uncle Remus and the poultry industry.

Some of these may be justified. Not all. And collectors of legitimately issued postal paper are complaining bitterly that politicians have gone berserk during this election year in a frantic effort to milk votes from various groups in return for stamps.

Movements are underway by pressure groups for the following issues:

The 100th anniversary of the founding of the first cheese factory in New York state; a bee stamp to honor the bee business; 40th anniversary of Rotary; 75th anniversary of Gettysburg Address; 200th anniversary of Alexandria, Va., and memorial stamps for Father Flanagan, William Allen White, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Purple Heart, volunteer firemen, telescope on Mt. Palomar, Ft. Bliss centenary and America Turners Society.

Some of these may be worthy but some merely burlesque U. S. history and philately.

It is only a short step from them to stamps that would commemorate Betty Grable's limbs, Jimmy Durante's nose, Frank Sinatra's bow tie, Joe Louis' punch, Herbert Hoover's collar or Faye Emerson Roosevelt's Great Dane.

The point is that the right to decide on U.S. postal issues belongs to the Postoffice Dept. which in the past has kept the yearly output to reasonable levels, and at least avoided blatant political expediency.

Fair Enough.... by Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK — During the war, the "membership" of the International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers Union rose to more than 300,000. There were seasonal fluctuations. In winter, when government construction was curtailed, the rolls would shrink by more than 100,000 head from the fair weather maximum. The standard initiation fee was $50. The local unions kept $45. The other $5 went to the international headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Actually "membership" was a poetic term. When a contractor set up his shanties to start making a road or ditching for the Big Inch, the bosses of the regional local set up shop, too. They demanded an "initiation" fee of $50 from each farmer, miner or other applicant for pick-and-shovel work. The custom was to permit the stiffs to pay this at the rate of $5 or $10 a week. Then they were "initiated." They might be canned so that new suckers could be taken on and "initiated." The contractors in these lines are no ultimate consumer, usually the taxpayer in the last 15 years, pays the cost.

On the war "projects" the working citizen had no chance. The employer often was a thief, adding better than the union mob. By conclusion, the add to their bids the cost of the union shakedowns. The the union graft to the cost of his "project" and thus fattening his own income. If he wasn't crooked he had to submit anyway. The union was historically and currently verminous with underworld rodents. And the government pugnaciously protected thisracket as a "gain" for "labor."

On some big jobs, the price of a permit or "initiation" fee to an ostensibly free American citizen was as high as $300 in certain crafts. Eleanor Roosevelt testified that she thought this must be exceptional. It never was possible to know whether she was being naive or being sly.

The government granted the unions the closed shop or permitted the contractors to make closed shop agreements. The United States Employment Service published ads at public expense beseeching citizens to leave their homes and take urgent war jobs far away. They usually contained this proviso: "must be union member orw illing to join."

Even when the government published really hysterical appeals for electricians to go to Knoxville and immure themselves in the atomic bomb job at Oak Ridge, the union's rake-off was the first consideration. They had to be members or willing to join.

Few citizens understood then or know now that the money was the private income of small local unions, except the minor share which they had to forward to their parent or international unions. It belonged to small resident membership, dominated by a few union bosses. At a glimpse, the union war extortion from the people was the greatest racket in the history of the institution of graft and most of it was legally taken. Edward McGrady, an old pressman who retains his card although he has been a laborer for the government and for private industry for many years, remarked to me one day at the height of this carnival: "You estimate the union rake-off at one thousand million dollars a year. Some of the union experts think it is twice that."

The debt of these unions to Roosevelt's party is plainly seen in the following figures, taken from the sketchy records of the hod carriers: In 1933, the average "membership" for the year was 26,481. In 1939, the last pre-war year, the average was 157,513. By 1941, when the great war shakedown was really going, the average was 239,889. Each new sucker paid $50 and, of course, there was no limit on the dues except that they must be "adequate."

The emotions of a gorilla of the type of Jim Bove, one of the few thieves among many who finally went to prison, may be imagined as the war program swelled. War meant that the treasury was willing to pay inflationary wages so that hundreds of thousands of pick-and-shovel hands could painlessly pay that "initiation." Certainly not fewer than a million "initiations" were paid to this union alone. It would be childish to place any confidence in the "accounts" rendered to the parent union by the locals, considering the character of many of the local officers. The parent union, in Washington, got 35 cents a month per head in addition to all this to pay for keeping a few its $5 out of each initiation fee—ledgers and some files.

In the recent trial in Washington of the few remaining defendants in a prosecution that started loud and fizzled suspiciously, Leo Rover, the special prosecutor called in to dispose of the rotten mess, informed the court he had been unable to account for about $19,000 of the revenue of Local 74. Mr. Rover appears to have done good work under circumstances that indict the Department of Justice. Here was a local right under the eyes of the Department of Justice and of the parent union, too. The government indicted old Joe Moreschi, the international president, as well as his son, Faust. But the old man's indictment was dismissed after five years and the kid got four months and a suspended sentence at that.

Old Joe has been president since 1926, but he was "elected" in that year by a gang of parasites constituting the Executive Board, every one of whom, with one exception, had been elected by a succession of similar parasites. In a period of 30 years the union did not once hold a convention or an election by ballot of the members. The secretary-treasurer, Achilles Persion, may or may not have been elected. The fog of antiquity blurs him. He was secretary-treasurer in 1911 when the thirty-year hiatus started. He is still there today.

Meanwhile, every now and again, the boys have put their heads together and unanimously voted to raise their own pay. In 1931, they voted $10,000 to send Joe Moreschi to England as "fraternal delegate" of the American Federation of Labor to the British Trade Union Congress. Even granting that the mission was legitimate, the reasonable cost could have been covered lavishly with $1,500.

Meanwhile, however, they tenaciously refused on technical dodges to pay paltry burial benefits to the poor widows of departed brothers, and upheld fines against ignorant laborers for speaking out of turn to grafting padrones.

Gracie Reports

Well, I see that a Boston pastor has started growing a "Thomas Dewey" mustache, and has urged every man in his congregation to do the same. Goodness, can you imagine thousands of men running around looking like Tom Dewey—the Governor would have to have his chest tattooed so the gateman would let him in his own office. But it would be a great fad. With all those Dewey mustaches laid end to end, they could really sweep the nation.

I remember hearing talk in the family about all those men years ago who pledged themselves to let their beards grow until William Jennings Bryan was elected, but he never was. Grandfather was one of those stubborn men, and he had to have a garden hose attachment on his wheelchair, so they could roll up his beard, and change his necktie. Wouldn't it be funny if President Truman won by a close shave?

It would be a tragic thing for the Democratic Party and this country if the sitting President would be repudiated.
—James Farley, former postmaster general calling for re-election of Mr. Truman.

Single Taxers Spread Common Error

One of the errors of the "single taxers" which has confused a lot of people and led them to believe in some sort of socialism is their contention that owners of land arbitrarily hold it out of use in order to make a profit.

I was just reading an article in Analysis Magazine by Frank Chodorov, the editor, in which he makes the following statement:

"Were our land laws so framed that use of a location would be the only assurance of tenure, its usefulness would be jealously guarded. No one would abuse the land which, so long as he used it profitably, would remain in his possession. But, while our laws benefit the speculator, the usefulness of land will be a secondary consideration."

Now this "single taxer", like most socialists, seems to believe that there is some way of hoarding wealth without eventually losing it. It is this belief that it is possible to permanently hoard wealth and thus most benefit the owner that caused our government to take gold out of private ownership. It is true that land is sometimes unused for the moment, just as gold and wheat and anything else is temporarily held for a better market. Any item, however, would be loaned if anyone wanted to rent it who was financially responsible. I know of no single piece of land which the owner wouldn't be glad to let someone else use by the day or the week or the month at any price he could get for it. Land lying idle like a piece of machinery or knowledge or understanding or anything else is of no value to the owner unless it is used. It has to be used to benefit someone else in order to benefit the owner. And if a man has voluntarily paid for the improvements on the land and in the neighborhood and a tax to have his land protected for his future use, there is no reason in the world why any man who wants to use it temporarily shouldn't help reimburse him for the energy he has put into the land, and he put energy into it when he bought it.

Now this "single taxer", who thinks he has almost all our problems solved if only private citizens could not permanently determine how land was to be used, doesn't explain who would be the judge as to whether or not proper use was being made of the land. That is something that "single taxers" don't explain. They object to government and then they turn right around and want the government to have the right to determine how land should be used. They are in reality zoners or planners of human energy and they do not seem to recognize how they contradict themselves.

Land in itself is of no value. It only becomes valuable because labor has been expended on it or in the neighborhood and has produced things of value.

This belief that wealth can be hoarded without eventually losing it, as "single taxers" and most socialists and New Dealers seem to believe, has caused more erroneous legislation, has caused more fear among populations than anything else I can think of. People who have not thought through how wealth is produced and of necessity distributed are afraid someone will accumulate all the wealth in the world and starve out everyone else. They don't seem to know that no matter how much of the total wealth a man owns in a society under law, if he wants to have more wealth God and Nature have ordained that he will have to use the wealth that he now has to benefit the rest of the individuals of the world in order to get more wealth for himself. "Single taxers" have spread the erroneous doctrine that wealth can be hoarded or taken out of use and still benefits its owners. It will not benefit them as much as if they use it or let it be used. Only an insane man would keep land idle if anyone else would pay him for its temporary use.

So this bugaboo of land being held for speculation is a false assumption. It is only not used because no one can temporarily use it. If the owner plans to use it later for more useful and necessary purposes than it can be used for at the present, it is to the advantage of society that it be so held.

So the next time you hear about a man getting too rich and thus causing other people to be poor, remember that no man gets rich under a free market or by the government permitting him to have a permanent tenure of his land without he so uses the land to benefit others.

We can go a long way if we develop weapons so terrible that we won't have to use them, and thereby make war further away.
—Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Army chief of staff.

We would like to conclude a pact with the United States similar to the Brussels pact but we are obliged to admit failure to obtain it.

"Hi-Ho, Hi-Ho, It's Back to Work We Go!"

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG
news behind the news

By RAY TUCKER

PHILADELPHIA - President Truman's small band of faithful friends here advanced the strange and most pathetic argument for his renomination ever heard in the annals of political history. Although it assumes different forms, it amounts to this simple plea:

"Don't fire the piano player! He has done the best he can, even though he didn't want the job in the first place!"

SHINE — This summary of the pro-Truman theme is reported with no lack of respect for the likable Missourian and with no lack of reverence for the high office which he will hold until next January 20.

It is set down only because it reflects accurately the spirit of panic which exists among the Democrats as they select a presidential ticket in one of the most critical years of American history.

In fact, President Truman's integrity and sincerity and earnestness—qualities which nobody denies him—shine by comparison with the selfish, ruthless and unsportsmanlike attitude of the several factions which scheme to repudiate and humiliate him as few chief executives have been humbled by a great major party.

SPORTSMANSHIP — The Democratic bosses and Rooseveltain coat-tailers may not realize it, but their unchivalrous behaviour toward the man in the White House may hurt them more than it does him, even though he will head a lost cause against the Dewey-Warren forces.

The conglomerate crew lined up against Mr. Truman—the Hagues, the Hendersons and the Roosevelt family—are showing such poor sportsmanship that it would be hissed by the customers if it occurred in the hammiest ball park or prize ring in the country. And if there is one thing the American people detest, whether in their own little circle or among the bigwigs of the world, it is a poor sport.

Veteran reporters and politicians on the scene cannot help but contrast the conduct of the Democrats here with the Republicans' action when they were confronted with the same problem of an unpopular president. Although they knew they faced certain defeat with William Howard Taft in 1912, the GOP gave him a renomination. Ditto with Herbert Hoover in 1932. And look at them now!

PENALTY — The gyrations of the Roosevelt household—sons James, Elliott and Franklin Jr.—amaze the insiders who are familiar with the relationship between their distinguished father and the man whom his children seek to wound. Although Eleanor Roosevelt also seems cold toward Mr. Truman, she has had the grace to stay out of the struggle on the ground that her United Nations role prevents her from partisan action.

The fact is that Mr. Truman now pays the penalty for the political sins of his famous predecessor, as the latter's family should be the first to recognize. It was FDR's fear of possible defeat in 1944 that led him to drop Henry A. Wallace, and to accept the Missourian as a running-mate, although he did not feel Mr. Truman was qualified to head the government in the event fate called him to that responsibility.

As vice president, Mr. Truman was never taken into the former President's confidence. He was treated as a political accident and orphan. The two had only one talk between inauguration on Jan. 20, 1945, and FDR's death on April 12 of that year. Mr. Truman knew no more about domestic or foreign problems than the rawest freshman on Capitol Hill.

RETRIEVING — When he took office, he discovered that the secret deals his predecessor had made with Stalin and Churchill—deals unknown even to FDR's several secretaries of state—left the United States holding the World War II bag. Almost all our postwar difficulties on the international front have stemmed from Roosevelt's personal and dictatorial handling of these affairs.

History will probably admit that the little man in the White House has done a fairly good job of retrieving Roosevelt blunders, although the issue is still in doubt. He has thrown up the Truman Doctrine and the Marshall Plan as a barrier to Communist expansion, and Europe's partial recovery derives from the assistance which he has sponsored in the face of bipartisan opposition.

Mr. Truman discovered that FDR's painless method of financing the war had left him a legacy of a $272,000,000,000 public debt, swollen taxes, commodity shortages and mounting prices. Neither executive nor legislative action could check the inevitable postwar inflation. Nevertheless, the United States enjoys "prosperity" in the midst of a shattered universe, although how long it will last is anybody's guess.

WINNER — Not far behind the estwhile "first family" in the hierarchy of poor sports and soreheads stand the machine bosses like Hague, Flynn and Arvey, and the so-called idealists such as Henderson, Berle and other will-o'-the-wisps who have been deprived of power and patronage under the Truman administration.

Mr. Truman has pursued the Roosevelt formula which enabled the practical politicians to stuff city halls and legislatures with their stooges. He has tried to be all things to all men, too—to labor, to the lowly, to farmers, to racial groups, But he has not had FDR's facile gift for selling himself, and the desertion of these elements threatens the loss of local elections. So the podestas seek, not a worthy presidential candidate, but a winner.

Mr. Truman has also tried to carry out FDR's idealistic program But he has faced a hostile Congress, which his predecessor did not. Therefore, the goody-good boys desert him.

VIRTUE — Ever since he pounded the sidewalks of New York as a political reporter almost thirty years ago, the writer has heard that "Loyalty is the cardinal virtue of politicians."

The Philadelphia answer to that, as President Truman will probably agree, is a cynical "Oh Yeah?"

I think it is no exaggeration to say that democracy as we know it is facing its greatest decade of greatest triumph. Certainly the greatest since the days of the war between the states.
—General Eisenhower.

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD —(NEA)—Hollywood's postwar cycle of war pictures should make ex-veterans happy. All of the studios are avoiding the sugary sentimentality and the rough comedy (where femmes are concerned) of post-World War I movies.

Raoul Walsh, directing Warners' "Fighter Squadron," was behind the camera on the famous "What Price Glory." He says: "I couldn't get away with those type of characters on the screen today." Hollywood agrees with him.

If there's such a feud between Bette Davis and Robert Montgomery on the "June Bride" set, as some people insist, how come Bette wrote a glowing by-line story about Bob for a news syndicate?

Lauren Bacall already has made reservations at Cedars of Lebanon hospital to keep that date with the stork in January. But why under an assumed name? That baby will get more publicity than Lana Turner's wedding.

The inside on Lauren's suspension at Warners for turning down another picture is, I hear, because she wanted the feminine lead opposite Gary Cooper in "The Fountainhead," but lost out to newcomer Pat Neal. Lauren wanted that role as much as she wanted a baby.

"A DANCING LANA"

Vera Ellen didn't seem to click in her movie debut for Sam Goldwyn but, as things sometimes happen in Hollywood, she's now headed for stardom at M-G-M. Vera and Gene Kelly team up for the biggest dance sequence in "Words and Music." The Metro front office is hailing her as "a dancing Lana Turner."

M-G-M is looking for a new title for "Sun in the Morning," which co-stars Jeanette MacDonald, Claude Jarman and Lassie. Some wag on the lot suggested "Morning Becomes a Lassie." . . .Nice tribute for Dinah Shore. The Standing Room Only signs are already out for her opening August 20 at the Palladium in London.

You'll be seeing it on the main title of director Ray McCarey's 20th Century-Fox movie, "The Gay Intruders"—"The characters in this picture are purely imaginary and anyone claiming resemblance or similarity ought to be ashamed to admit it."

It always happens department: Despite their political views, which she blamed in her divorce, Jane Wyman and Ronald Reagan have been lunching together on the Warner lot.

Looks like Leif Erickson has the oddest stage role of the year in the Broadway-bound fantasy "That's the Ticket." He plays a knight who has been dead 600 years and goes through the entire play in a full suit of armor.

BENNY IS TOPS

If there's any question that Jack Benny is the No. 1 personality in show business today, he boke every existing box-office record with his personal appearances in Detroit and Cleveland before going to Europe.

Inflation note: Deanna Durbin paid $85,000 for songwriter Jimmy McHugh's home.

Robert Young, the railroad magnate who owns a couple of film companies, is continually mistaken for Robert Young, the actor. When he went to England, the telephone operators at his hotel called down and asked if they could have a dozen autographed pictures, saying: "We just loved you in your last picture."

His favorite story of the confusion is about the time he testified before the ICC on his desire to take control of the New York Central railroad. He had quite a rough cross-examination at the hearing. He wasn't very encouraged to see, on his way back to his hotel, a big movie marquee reading: Robert Young in "They Won't Believe Me."

• SO THEY SAY

The first task is to reform the state enabling it to play its role in world affairs.
—Gen. Charles de Gaulle, calling for state reforms in France.

Of course it was a disappointment, but I am probably better off personally. I have the best job in the world in the Senate.
—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) of Ohio, after losing GOP nomination.

I have no friends in Germany and all my friends in America have deserted me. . .The Germans are not human.
—Fritz Kuhn, former German Bund leader in U. S.

The United States must have a "work-or-fight" law immediately upon the occurrence of any future national emergency or war. No one is entitled to a free ride.
—Robert P. Patterson, former secretary of war.

Next January there will be the finest housecleaning in Washington there ever was. Nobody will have to ask money from Congress to find Communists on the payroll. There won't be any more appointed after Jan. 20.
—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

In rearming by deficit financing the American people could spend themselves into defeat.
—Secretary of Defense Forrestal, opposing further deficit spending.

There is literally nothing the people of this country cannot achieve. . .In this hour of crisis it behooves all Americans to close ranks and work for the common safety, the common welfare.
—Philip Murray, president, CIO.

The Nation's Press

CONGRESS' RECORD
(The Wall Street Journal)

The 80th Congress has ended. President Truman has called it the second worst Congress on record. Undoubtedly in the opening campaign the Democratic politicians will make it the target of further brick-bats because it was a Republican Congress.

Mr. Truman is concerned about Congress' "sins of omission." He implies that it sat around through two sessions doing half of the work of any ordinary Congress. Actually the 80th Congress passed more major legislation than any we can recall except those of the early New Deal days when it merely approved White House plans. Congress might be criticized for what it did do, but hardly for what it didn't do.

In two session Congress passed a major labor law, two income tax revisions (one was vetoed), a long-range multi-billion dollar foreign aid program, a reciprocal trade agreements act, revamped the traditional organization of the armed services and approved a peacetime draft law—just to name a few. Mr. Truman's criticism of it as a do-nothing Congress is hardly consistent with his wholesale use of his veto power.

What Mr. Truman actually has in mind, we think, is the fact that Congress did not act on a number of proposals he made in his various messages.

The most prominent of these passed-over measures were bills to increase the legal minimum wage, a Government health insurance program, a new Government housing program, federal aid for education and the three so-called civil rights measures—to outlaw poll taxes, to make lynching a federal offense and a bill to require employers to hire without "discrimination." The President says Congress failed to act on these measures because it was a Republican Congress, the implication being that it was more interested in hampering the White House than in legislating for the country.

Now each of these passed-over measures was first suggested by the late President Roosevelt at a time when he had as complete a control over Congress as any President has ever had. Mr. Roosevelt had a Democrat Congress, and the bills weren't passed then.

President Truman took over the Roosevelt program and proposed all these same things to Congress while he, too, had a Democratic majority in both houses. Again the Congress rejected the Administration's plans. Curiously, although both Presidents Roosevelt and Truman included these matters in their messages to the Democratic Congresses there was never much pressure from the White House for enactment until a Republican Congress came along.

It strikes us that if two Democratic Congresses were dubious of the wisdom of the social legislation offered by a Democratic President it is hardly justifiable suddenly to berate a Republican Congress for showing the same caution.

DEWEY
(Chicago Journal of Commerce)

Americans will soon be saying "President Dewey" if Washington political experts and pollsters read the auguries correctly.

In the circumstances it may be interesting to businessmen to examine the Republican nominee's stand on matters of state.

On Jan. 7 Mr. Dewey blamed President Truman for setting off the inflationary spiral by relaxing wage controls in October 1945.

In February the New York governor asserted that United States aid to Europe should be directed at forming a federation of free western European nations. He rapped the administration for allegedly helping "to build up the strength of another expanding despotism."

In March Governor Dewey, in whose bailiwick are many pro-Zionists, assailed the State Department's shift away from Palestine partition.

On the eve of his 46th birthday —Mr. Dewey was born on March 24, 1902—he denounced the "vacillating and inadequate" foreign policy of Mr. Truman, which has not stopped Russia.

On May 5 in Eugene, Oregon Mr. Dewey mentioned John Foster Dulles and Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg as possible candidates for Secretary of State in his cabinet.

In a radio debate with Harold Stassen Governor Dewey opposed outlawing the Communist Party.

As long ago as 1944 Mr. Dewey suggested a farm program including "a fair parity" between agricultural and industrial prices, government crop loans, extension of the farm co-operative movement and soil conservation measures.

As governor Mr. Dewey promoted a bill outlawing strikes of public employes. Presumably he would favor an analogous statute on a national basis.

On January 7 Governor Dewey delivered his annual message to the New York legislature. Among his recommendations were:

Pay raises for state employes; a budget within the limits of state revenues; no tax rate alterations; standby rent control laws on residential, commercial and industrial property; implementation of a public housing measure; and increased benefit payments of unemployment insurance and workmen's compensation.

Mr. Dewey favors a federal fair employment practice commission. In New York he helped launch an anti-discrimination statute.

The new GOP nominee believes in powerful national defense. He has also endorsed universal military training.

He is a friend of the reciprocal trade program.

Out of the best and most productive years of each man's life, he should carve a segment in which he puts his private career aside to serve his community and his country.
—David E. Lilienthal, chairman, U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, calling for universal public service.

For the first time in my life I know what it feels like to be hit by a streetcar.
—Gov. Earl Warren, accepting the GOP nomination for vice president.

HAPPENS EVERYTIME ..... by Peter Edson

PHILADELPHIA —(NEA)— If the Democratic Party today looks split four ways and if its future seems hopeless, that is just the normal pre-convention condition for the party of Jackson and Jefferson. Democratic conventions have traditionally produced the best fights and the noisiest shows. This year is no exception.

You don't have to remember back any more than four years to find that "a Southern revolt threatens to wreck the Democratic Party and destroy its chances for success in the November elections."

In 1944—no, it was as early as November 1943—the Southern revolt was going strong. A man by the name of Franklin D. Roosevelt was in the White House then. He was showing signs of running for a fourth term to carry on his "communistic" New Deal.

Way down yonder in New Orleans, a man by the name of James U. Barr decided this simply could not be. He called in a group of his business cronies and launched a drive to nominate Sen. Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia as Democratic candidate for president Mr. Barr had never met Senator Byrd and vice versa. Mr. Barr said he didn't want to meet Senator Byrd and vice versa. Barr was afraid his efforts might be embarrassing to Byrd. Byrd wanted no part of Mr. Barr's movement. But just the same, Barr and his followers swore by Lee, Jackson and all that was holy that they were going to stop Roosevelt and they were going to draft Byrd.

SOUND FAMILIAR?

If all this has a familiar sound, you're not crazy. The only differences this year are that the man in the White House is named Truman, the revolt is led by men named Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and Gov. William M. Tuck from Senator Byrd's own state of Virginia. The man they're going to stop Truman with is named Dwight D. Eisenhower. This Eisenhower doesn't want any part of their movement but just the same they swear they are a-goin' to draft him, willy nilly.

There are of course others interested in this stop-Truman movement this year—discredited political leaders like Henry Wallace, Leon Henderson, Jimmy Roosevelt, Claude Pepper, Boss Hague of New Jersey and so on. But there were a lot of others who joined the stop-Roosevelt drive in 1944, too.

Down in Texas, four years ago, a man named E. B. Germany got powerfully het up to stop Roosevelt. When the Texas Democrats held their state convention in May, 1944, the pro-Roosevelt forces took a licking, walked out of the hall, set up a rump convention of their own. Anti-Roosevelt forces under Germany then pledged their delegates not to support Roosevelt if the Democratic platform adopted at Chicago should call for abolition of the poll tax or establishment of social equality among the races.

In effect, this is exactly the same basis as the Southern stop-Truman drive this year, aimed at the President's civil rights program.

MORE ON THE BALL

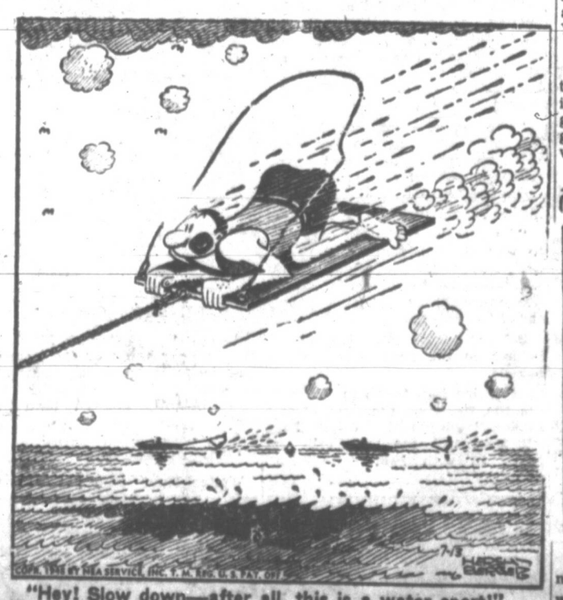

It may be that the stop-Truman and draft-Eisenhower forces have more on the ball this year than the stop-Roosevelt boys had four years ago. But the wind-up of the widely heralded revolt of 1944 was a complete farce.

When the two pro- and anti-Roosevelt delegations came before the 1944 Democratic convention for credentials, it was decided to seat both and divide the state's 48 votes between them. When that happened, 15 of the anti-Roosevelt delegates bolted the convention in a huff.

Two months after the Chicago convention nominated Roosevelt and Truman, Texas Democrats met at Dallas for another state pow-wow, attended by both pro- and anti-Roosevelt factions. Nearly everybody was ready to climb on the band wagon then. The 15 who weren't were ridden over roughshod.

That was the end of the great revolt of 1944. But it was a lovely fight while it lasted, just as this year's brawl at Philadelphia is bound to be.

First Half of 1948 Sees Building Totaling Over One Million Dollars

More than a million dollars worth of residential and business building has been started in Pampa in the first six months of 1948, and unofficial estimates of construction planned for the remainder of the year will run the total well past the five million mark.

An estimated total of $1,191,295 worth of new construction has been started since the first of the year, but this figure represents new building only in the city limits, according to building permits issued in the office of the city engineer. And this does not include Gray County's new Highland General Hospital.

After ground-breaking ceremonies last week, construction was begun and this fully-equipped, 100-bed hospital, designed to serve the whole county, is expected to be finished in about a year and a half.

The largest single structure to be started this year was a 350,000-bushel grain elevator built for the L. S. Fisher Company of Woodward, Okla.

The elevator, erected along the Santa Fe tracks on S. Gray, cost an estimated $135,000 to build—$125,000 for the elevator, and $10,000 for an office building and scale to be built alongside it.

Plans are being readied now for a three million dollar repressuring plant to be built west of town in the near future, and two natural gas compressor plants, to cost an estimated quarter of a million dollars each, are also planned.

R. G. Hughes, local real estate agent and builder, is planning a six-story office building on W. Kingsmill, but no estimates of its cost are yet available. According to plans made for the building, the two top floors and the penthouse will be occupied by Cabot Carbon Company offices, and the first floor will be devoted to small businesses and stores.

The proposed Hugnes Building and the Tex Evans Buick agency and garage now under construction a block fartner west on Kingsmill are carrying Pampa's business section fartner west along what were formerly side streets leading to the downtown area.

Another proposed building on which complete details are not available is a modern bank and office building planned for the First National Bank to replace its present structure on the corner of E. Foster and N. Cuyler, one of the busiest corners in town.

A total of 23 new business building permits were issued since the beginning of the year for an estimated value of $449,200. These new business structures are not only changing the face of downtown Pampa to a glistening and modern new town, but are also carrying the business area farther out in all directions.

To keep pace with the residential boom in Pampa, 85 permits were issued since the first of the year for new residences in town, for a total estimated value of nearly a half million dollars.

In addition to these new homes, 66 permits were issued for moving houses into town to provide additional living space.

But business buildings and homes are not the only new construction in Pampa. By the end of the summer, the city will have 55 blocks of asphalt paving completed, and it has another 10 miles of paving scheduled for completion next year.

Pampa, it appears, has outgrown its boom psychology of a few years ago, and has settled to a constantly steady adult growth and maturity that indicates, more than anything else, its civic and economic leadership of the eastern half of the Panhandle.

K. C. Berry, 42-year-old disabled veteran of Paris, Tex., has an eight-acre corn crop that amazes his neighbors—they think he'll get 50 bushels per acre. The Paris News says Berry, who was shot twice in Germany, used a hybrid corn. . .The Laredo Times comes forth with the info that the average man shaves 20 square miles of face during his lifetime . . .he works up lots of lather, too. . .The Dallas News chortles that Henry Wallace would rather be right with Moscow than president.

Planes nowadays have warning horns that practically knock your ears out if you try to land with the wheels up. Bob Bates, writing in The Waco Times Herald,, tells of the rookie pilot who ignored crackling warnings from a radio airport tower and brought his plane down with wheels up for a belly landing. . ."Why did you ignore our repeated warnings?" the tower personnel cried afterwards. "I couldn't hear a word you were saying," the fledgling replied. "A horn was blowing the whole time."

The El Paso Times says the 18-months-old son of Sgt. and Mrs. Dan Haynie of Fort Bliss was bitten three times by a rattlesnake at Alamogordo, N. M. H. Whitmore, the child's great-grandfather finally beat the snake off with a flyswatter. At last reports the boy was in a critical condition. . .

At Wichita Falls, The Wichita Daily Times asked spry G. D. Hall why he's in such good shape at 92. The hard times he's seen toughened him up, Hall replied . . .The Granger News notes that nearly all candidates promise to "work to the limit of their ability." "That's the rub," the newspaper said wearily. "In a lot of cases it frankly just isn't enough."

The Pampa News takes stock of the eccentricities of lightning. The other night a bolt struck the refrigerator of a Pampa pharmacy, scorched the box and burned out the motor. But the little light inside the refrigerator still burned brightly the next day. . .The Denton Record Chronicle says the faces of the firemen surely were red. They were playing dominoes at the Central Fire Station when a lady rushed in and called their attention to smoke pouring from the rear of the station. Some mops had caught on fire. One mop was a total loss.

And at Tyler, the Courier Times asked Harvey L. Page, a policeman, what excuses are most frequently given by motorists caught parking overtime. The excuses:

1. I've just been overtime a minute or two.
2. I've been to the doctor's office and couldn't leave.
3. I didn't have any change and I've just come from that store where I got some nickels.

NOT FROM TIDES

Tidal waves have nothing to do with tides. These destructive waves are caused by earthquakes, undersea volcanoes, and strong winds and, in the future, they may result from atom bombs.

FOR SAILORS

Ready-made clothing probably was invented to meet the needs of sailors returning from long voyages and requiring new wardrobes at short notice, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

DELEGATES

York, were taking the view that some younger man should have the No. 2 spot.

After Barkley had provided the convention's first breath of excitement—a 28-minute stampede for his vice-presidential candidacy last night—these leaders huddled with Federal Security Administrator Oscar Ewing in the Convention Hall office of Democratic Chairman McGrath.

Ewing came out like a man who had swallowed the canary of a Barkley vice-presidential boom and looked for his own to mushroom. The others wouldn't talk either. But there seemed little doubt that if they take Barkley, it will be with the greatest of reluctance.

Against this, Leslie L. Biffle, sergeant at arms of the convention and one of Mr. Truman's close advisers, told reporters after a stag party for Barkley that the Kentuckian is in.

The Kentuckian, as minority leader of the Senate, has gone down the line for President Truman's legislative program.

The slow-starting demonstration for Barkley, paced at the beginning by the strains of "My Old Kentucky Home," developed into the convention's first real lift last night.

In the nearly half hour it lasted it showed that the old warhorse had made a lot of friends in the Democratic Party.

Swain Services Set For Thursday

Funeral services will be held Thursday for Robert E. Lee Swain, 75, who died at 12:23 p.m. yesterday at his home, 320 N. Christy, following a short illness.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. from the First Baptist Church with the Rev. E. Douglas Carver, pastor of the church, officiating. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery under the direction of the Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home.

Swain was born at Pilot Point, Denton County, Tex., and moved here from Grayson County in 1934.

He is survived by his wife, Mattie; two daughters, Mrs. Joe M. Keel, Kingsmill; and Mrs. Ed Lawson, Anaheim, Calif.; five sons, Frank, Santa Ana, Calif., and E. J., David W., Winford, and Mat, all of Pampa; and by 25 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be: Carl Smith Claud Miller, J. E. Murphy, A. J. Young, C. C. Matheny, and Troy Maness.

Poured in the Same Mold

In Hollywood for screen parts, blonde models Joy Lansing, left, and Pat Vaniver discovered (or somebody with keen eyes discovered) that they have the same measurements. They're both 5 feet 6 inches tall, weigh 115 pounds, and have a 36-inch bust, 33-inch hips and 23-inch waist.

Sam S. Thomas Dies in Oklahoma

Sam S. Thomas, 205 E. Browning, a long-time resident of Pampa, died suddenly at 11:15 a. m. today in a Shattuck, Okla., hospital where he had been taken several weeks ago.

Mr. Thomas was stricken at his home about three weeks ago with a recurring kidney ailment and was taken to the Oklahoma hospital.

Members of the immediate family, close relatives and friends last week were summoned to Mr. Thomas' bedside when physicians feared he was about to die.

Reports from the hospital showed little change in his condition until word reached Pampa late this morning of his death.

The body will be brought to Pampa by the Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home where services are pending.

Pampan's Brother Remains in Hospital

Tyson Shelton, brother of Jaunnel Shelton of Pampa, who was recently injured by a combine on his farm in Hammon, Okla., will remain in the Veterans Hospital in Oklahoma City until his condition improves, his sister said today.

Shelton, struck by a part of the combine, fell back onto a bolt that pierced his eye and seriously cut his face.

He spent two hours and 20 minutes on the operating table Friday and yesterday. His attending physician hopes to save the sight of both eyes.

Movie Short Shows How News Is Handled

"Democracy's Diary," a short movie showing how news is handled, and the progress of an item of news from the time the reporter gets it until it is delivered to the subscriber's front porch, is now showing at the Rex Theater.

The movie was made by photographers working in the pressroom and in the various offices and bureaus of The New York Times.
