"He Profits Most Who Serves Best"

Saturday, July 28th Is Election Day. Be Sure and Vote

For the past seven months, candidates have been working overtime, trying to place their claims before the voters of this state, to sell themselves as servants for the next two, four and six years.

Saturday will tell the tale with several, but not all. It now appears that James V. Allred will lead the ticket in the governor's race, with a prospect of either McDonald, Hunter, Witt or Small being the second high man. However Mr. Hughes may pick up and be in second place.

Tom Hunter, a man who has never held an office of any kind, his judicial, executive and administrative abilities unknown, may take second place and in event he does, is likely to be nominated on the fourth Saturday in August.

We are not prepared to even guess who will be the leaders in the race for Lieutenant governor, but Senator Hornsby of Austin and Joe Moore of Greenville are both strong men, so is Senator Woodall of Houston.

We believe Senator Tom Connally will succeed himself over the young Joe Bailey of Dallas, but chicks are not counted until after they are hatched.

Several important places are to be filled, and most places are being sought by several candidates. In our judgement, Senator Walter Woodard will win his race for Attorney General, however, he has a strong opponent, and his opponent is certainly doing some warm campaigning.

Local candidates are closing a long and hard fought campaign, but it has been a very congenial one, insofar as this writer has been able to observe.

Graves Wagner, son of Rev. Wagner, who died while he was pastor of the Methodist Church here, has returned to Santa Anna, and has charge of the Keep-U-Neat Tailor Shop. Edwin Rollins, former manager of the shop, has gone to San Antonio.

Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Hair and children of San Antonio spent last week-end in the W. E. Ragsdale home.

Several Candidates Make Last Appeal for Votes in This Issue

Several candidates are making their last appeal to voters in this issue of the Santa Anna News. You will also find a sample ballot in the center of this paper, published for the information and convenience of our subscribers. Extra copies will be supplied at this office at 5c each. If your neighbor calls upon you to borrow your Santa Anna News this week, just give him a nickel and send him to the News office to purchase one for himself.

You will also find a good will page of interesting advertisements in this issue of the News. These ads have been carefully written and each of them carries a worthwhile message. May we insist upon your reading them, and patronizing the advertisers.

Several Candidates Here On Last Round

Carl Runge of Mason, candidate for Congress in the new 21st district, was here Friday of last week in the interest of his campaign. Pat Murphy of San Angelo was here Thursday and Saturday, accompanied by several automobile loads of friends. Young C. L. South, Jr. of Coleman, was here Saturday and made a fine talk in the interest of his dad, Judge C. L. South, a candidate for Congress, and Culbertson Deal of San Angelo, candidate for the same place, accompanied by a number of friends was here Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Deal spoke at 2:30 in the interest of his campaign. Several others have been here in the interest of friends, but there was no way of ascertaining their names and doing the other chores.

John Franklin Turner returned home Sunday from Lubbock where he has been attending Texas Tech. He will work at home during the ginning season. Miss Mary Southern Garrett, niece of Dr. and Mrs. L. O. Garrett, returned home Friday after a two-months visit in Los Angeles, and other western points.

Miss Mildred Henderson visited relatives in Echo this week.

Consumers Share Processing Tax Proportionately

That processing taxes on farm products included in the Agricultural Adjustment program are collected at the point of processing does not mean that the tax falls disproportionately on states where manufacturing plants are concentrated. Tax collections are heaviest in the large processing centers but the tax is spread out as a part of the price of the product paid by consumers regardless of the location of the plant where the tax is collected.

About 19 percent of the total wheat processing tax has been collected in Minnesota but Minnesota consumers pay no more than their share of the processing tax. Minneapolis is an important milling center and a large share of the tax, eventually shared by bread buyers throughout the country, is collected at that point.

Similarly, Chicago is a processing center for hogs. Up to June 1 of this year, nearly 22 million dollars in processing taxes were collected in Illinois out of a total of 47 million dollars in hog taxes collected. North Carolina is a processing center for textiles and tobacco, so more than 19 million of the total processing tax of 128 million dollars on cotton, and nearly four million of a total of 14 million dollars collected in tobacco processing taxes were collected in that state.

Processing taxes, shared proportionately by consumers over the entire country, add but a small fraction to the retail price, but bring a large percentage increase to the farmer. For instance the increase in the price of a loaf of bread that is attributable to the processing tax is only half a cent but the price for wheat including rental payments that is received by wheat farmers who signed contracts has tripled. The cotton tax raises the price of a shirt only a nickel but, as a result of the tax, the price received by the cooperating cotton farmer has more than doubled.

Negroes Are Barred In Democratic Primaries

The much mooted question of negroes voting in the Democratic primaries has been up for discussion and court action again this year, with considerable publicity and varied opinions expressed on the subject.

Some editors have even expressed themselves in favor of letting the bars down and permitting negroes to vote in the primaries. This writer thinks them ridiculous and doubts if they ever knew the evils of certain practices when the negro is allowed to participate in the primaries.

This writer happens to remember how difficult it was to elect democrats to office during the Third party days, when the negro was allowed to vote. Personally, this writer is in favor of maintaining a white man's party, but we were surprised beyond expression last Thursday evening to note the following editorial in the Brownwood Daily Bulletin.

"The wisdom of the State convention's action in defining, or attempting to define as the case may be, the qualifications of voters is subject to serious doubt. The time has come, in spite of the remnant of prejudice remaining against it in various portions of the state, for the full enfranchisement of negro citizens who possess the necessary qualifications of voters. It is not good politics to bar them from the primaries and thus to compel them to seek a haven in the Republican or some other party, nor is it right to do so. The menace of a heavy negro vote no longer exists anywhere in Texas, and to the contrary the negro citizens of most communities are as well qualified for participation in our elections as are the average white voters. Sooner or later the Democratic party must come around to this viewpoint, and the sooner the better."

Now doesn't that cork you? We fail to find words to comment on such statements without resorting to language that would not be permissible in the mails. The idea of a negro being equal to the average voter in Texas.

Bulletin Board Here Saturday Night

The business men of Santa Anna have arranged for a bulletin board here Saturday night, and all the principle election returns will be posted here in Santa Anna the same time they are posted in other places. The returns will come in over the same wires and be posted as fast as the returns are made.

It is reported that the general election returns will not be given out over the radio.

THANKS TO PAGEANT GROUP

We wish to thank the following young people for their willing and courteous assistance in Santa Anna's episode in the Coleman Pageant, which was sponsored by our joint P. T. A.'s to bear expenses of our district congress meeting in Coleman next spring. We were congratulated by the Coleman ladies upon the lovely cooperation of such a fine group of boys and girls which made us very proud, for to us there is nothing so beautiful in our land as a really fine boy or girl.

The following took part in the pageant: Misses Mary Alice Mitchell, Besse Evans, Mary Oakes, Kathryn Rose Pinney, Rheba Boardman, Helen Hall, Annie Stiles, Helen Turner, Hettie Faye Todd, and Frances Jones, and Messrs. Clifford Wheeler, Scott Wallace, Jewel Hill, John David Harper, Everett Kikpatrick, Buddie Weaver, Hubert Turner, Max DuBois, Ogden Brown and John E. Smith.

Mrs. L. O. Garrett, president Santa Anna High School P. T. A. Mrs. M. A. Edwards, president ward School P. T. A.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Todd, Jr. and little son Jerry of Talpa visited in the R. L. Todd home here this week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Rendleman of Little Rock, Ark., are here on a visit and looking after business matters.

Rains Over The State Bring Partial Relief

Rain fell in several places over the state, during Saturday and Sunday, coming in as close as the Colorado river on the South, and Comanche county on the north, but in Coleman county the weather man saw fit to pass us up and let us continue to linger and sweater in the dry heat.

There is some prospect of more rain, and we hope Coleman county is not passed up in the rain making next time.

Coleman county is now on the preferred list of counties in west Texas to receive drought aid. Several hundred head of cattle will now be purchased by the Government at better prices than they would bring on the open market, and we advise those who have surplus cattle and are short on pasture and feed, to sell off a portion of them and take better care of the others. We are not advising which ones to sell, but if you have any gumption, sell the cheaper ones and keep the best ones. Everybody's doing it, why not you.

Texas Plans Studied By the Nation

COLLEGE STATION — Sixteen states have sent delegations to Texas to study the meat canning carried on by the Texas Extension Service and the Texas Relief Commission. Cooperation between these two agencies for emergency meat canning was perfected last winter in a program which netted the relief to 3,625,432 cans of beef for the hungry, furnished employment for 9,439 workers taken off relief rolls, and gave a market to 21,320 cows off Texas farms.

The plans and the product worked out in Texas were so satisfactory that the Federal Emergency Relief Administration called Miss Mildred Horton, state home demonstration agent, to Washington to adapt the Texas plan to be nationally used in the drought relief work. Returning from Washington last week Miss Horton stated that the chief points in the national plan were that the AAA buys the cows in the drought stricken area; they are assigned to the Surplus Commodity corporation which has them slaughtered, chilled, boned, and cut up in plants suitable for that purpose; the meat is delivered to the emergency canning plants which have been equipped by the Relief Administration, where they are canned under the technical supervision of the Extension Service, using labor employed by the local relief administration from relief rolls for all except the administrative and supervisory positions; the canned meat becomes the property of the State Relief Commission for use in relief work.

Supplementing the plans 16 states have sent delegations to the Amarillo emergency meat canning plant for observation and training. The delegations were composed of relief officials and Extension Service Agents. They reviewed the plans on the ground, checked them with the plant itself and then put on the regulation white caps and smocks and went regularly to work in the plant, taking actual part in every phase of the canning process. States sending delegations were: Florida, North Carolina, West Virginia, Georgia, Tennessee, Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas, New Mexico, Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota, Mississippi, Alabama and South Carolina.

LARGE CROWDS HEAR CANDIDATES SPEAK SATURDAY

Last Saturday afternoon from 2:30 to 5 a large crowd of voters listened to the several county, precinct and district candidates proclaim their rights and virtues which entitle them to election next Saturday.

Rev. A. L. Oder, who is also Justice of the Peace in this precinct, presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers.

Miss Leta Ragsdale left Thursday for Lubbock where she is attending the summer session at Texas Tech.

Vice-President Garner Endorses Senator Connally

Uvalde, Texas, July 12, 1934 General W. A. Keeling, 1205 Norwood Building, Austin, Texas.

My Dear General Keeling: I have received your favor of July 11, and hasten to make reply.

Sometime ago I announced that I would vote for Senator Connally for re-election to the Senate. I have no hesitancy in expressing the reasons for my action.

Since 1917 Tom Connally and I have served together in Congress, first in the House of Representatives and lately in the Senate. During that time I have had exceptional opportunity to judge of his services to the people of Texas and to the Republic. Senator Connally is a member of the two most important committees in the Senate, Foreign Relations and Finance. He is also a member of the Senate Policy Committee, appointed by the Democratic Caucus to determine the policies of legislation for the Democratic organization. He occupies a powerful and influential place in the Senate by reason of his committee assignments.

He is an honest, able, and courageous public servant and ought to remain in the Senate. I do not believe there is a man in Texas who could represent the interests of this state as well as he can under present conditions.

Senator Connally has rendered the Democratic Party distinguished service in cooperating with his Democratic colleagues in the Senate and with President Roosevelt in the National Recovery Program. He enjoys the confidence and esteem of his colleagues in the Senate and of the President of the United States.

In my opinion it would be a great misfortune to fail to return Tom Connally to the Senate.

Sincerely,
(Signed) JNO. N. GARNER

BOND ELECTION CALLED FOR AUGUST 28TH

Just keep your shirt on, it won't hurt. The City Commission has ordered an election for August 28th, to determine whether or not Santa Anna shall issue bonds in the sum of $17,964.00 payable over a period of 30 years, and bearing interest at the rate of 4 per cent.

Suffice to say that this is a different bond issue to any you have ever voted on before. It does not encumber your property one cent, and does not increase your taxes one cent.

It only incurs a debt against the income from the City Water Works, and is what is called a self liquidating bond.

The Federal Government, recently appropriated and made possible for the City of Santa Anna, in the way of relief, the sum of $35,928.00 to be expended for extension and improvement of the local water works system, and to furnish employment for the local unemployed. It is now up to Santa Anna to approve the terms and vote these bonds against the income from the water works and procure the loan, or defeat the bonds and lose the entire amount.

Personally, the editor of the Santa Anna News had resolved never to support another bond issue in this town or community, but this is different. Since it does not incur any debt against the public property and does not increase any tax and is an emergency move fostered by the Federal Government, the Santa Anna News, without hesitation, endorses the bonds.

Watermelon Feast Is Success

The Watermelon Feast, given by the local Lions Club last Thursday evening was a success according to those who attended, but it does not belong to an editor to attend, any kind of gathering on Thursday evenings. Several people attended and the main object, that of creating an interest in a park for Santa Anna, was a success. We would like to see the ball of enthusiasm start rolling and never stop until that beautiful park is completed.

Buy it in Santa Anna.

John Dillinger Killed Same Day Hamilton Escapes

Headlines in the morning papers Monday featured the death Sunday of John Dillinger, the Indiana killer and desperado, shot to death Sunday evening when he emerged from a small theatre in Chicago. U. S. Peace officers surrounded the theatre and waited for him to come out, then put the hot lead in his body.

During the same hours, Raymond Hamilton, Joe Palmer and Blackie Thompson, three of the most noted and desperate killers and robbers of the southwest, were liberated from the death house in the penitentiary at Huntsville, Texas.

Whitey Walker was killed in the battle for freedom, and two others were severely wounded. Charlie Frazier, the man who engineered the break, was shot down from the ladder with which he was scaling the prison wall, and it is thought his wounds will prove fatal. He was also a life terner, robber and killer. Roy Johnson, the third man shot down while trying to escape, was less seriously wounded. The three who escaped were speeded away in fast automobiles stationed outside the prison walls, with drivers in waiting. One guard, H. E. George, was wounded in the battle, but not seriously.

This was said to be the most meritorious break ever experienced in the state. Raymond Hamilton was released from the prison in a battle with guards on January 16th, the noted Clyde Barrow, now dead, engineering the break.

It is believed the break was planned from outside and carried to a successful conclusion. Thousands of officers are on their trail and no peace is in sight for the three escaped desperadoes.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. McKenzie of Bartlett visited this week in the W. E. Ragsdale home here, and in San Angelo.

A VOTE FOR

is a vote for the approval of the present Democratic Administration, with all its relief program, led by our Great President, Franklin D. Roosevelt and his faithful cabinet.

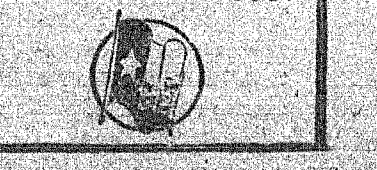

Senator Connally is a candidate for re-election to serve his second term, and no servant of Texas has ever served his trust more faithfully and commendable.

The Santa Anna News favors Senator Tom Connally's return to Washington, and urge our friends to cast their vote Saturday accordingly.

Emily Post ON GOOD TASTE TODAY

A series of interesting articles, full of useful information on questions of etiquette that arise in everyday life, will be published in these columns. Follow these articles for the answers to many of your social problems.

THE TWENTIETH CENTURY has brought many changes in accepted social customs. What was correct in the gay '90's, or even a decade or two ago, is not necessarily correct now—in fact, it may be extremely old-fashioned. A new etiquette of modern youth has come out of the fast-moving years to leave its impress upon all social forms and customs. To you of the older generations, as well as to young men and women, Mrs. Post's articles will be interesting and valuable.

There is no one better qualified than Emily Post to give advice upon matters of etiquette. For many years she has been regarded as an authority on this subject.

Read Mrs. Post's Articles to Find Out Just What Is "Right" and What Is Not...

Do You Know... What invitations call for an answer and what do not? When cards should be left in making calls and how many? What to avoid in dress and clothing shops?

Can You Answer These Questions... Are chaperons still necessary? May salad be cut with a knife? Should you speak to a fellow guest or wait to be introduced?

EMILY POST Will Solve Your Problems of Modern Living in a Series of Articles to Appear in This Paper on

Good Taste Today

Mrs. Post undoubtedly is the best known authority on matters of etiquette in the country. She knows the answers to all of the multitude of questions that have to do with good taste and that confront all of us frequently in our everyday lives.

These articles will provide a liberal education in etiquette. Be sure to read them.

ENDURING SENTIMENT

I HAVE been given permission to print this especially touching letter from a man:

"Dear Mrs. Post—I lost my beloved wife a year ago. The tragedy of this separation of two people who for nearly thirty years were so happy to be together, is just something that only those who are struggling to endure this same aching loneliness can know. Lately I have gotten a great deal of comfort in an idea that may, or may not, be my own; at any rate it was new so far as my ever having heard about it was concerned.

"My wife and I were married with the double ring ceremony and when she died her wedding band was never taken from her finger. A few months ago it occurred to me to take her engagement ring with my own wedding band to the jeweler and ask him whether he could build up the top of my ring so that he could sink the diamond of her ring into it, without changing the under half of my ring or obliterating the engraving of our names. He said he could by melting a little more gold at the top of my band which he did, and the post-setting looks like a conventional gyps hoop and is not a clumsy or obvious one.

"A friend of mine told me that I was selfish to use the stone, especially as I had the gold brought over the edge to make it look smaller. My friend says it should be given to our son for him to give to his future wife, but he has a present intention of marrying and I am getting a real consolation in having something that she always wore and held dear, constantly close to me. It is not too late to pass the ring on to my son even now, or later, and he can have all the other jewels that his mother had any time he wants them.

"Am I just a silly sentimentalist or do you think that this same plan would give other lonely widowers the real comfort that it gives me? It was not just a diamond to her, and I could not bear to leave it in hiding when I had looked at it for all those years in its rightful place on her hand. Perhaps if you haven't heard of the plan, you might want to print it with your answers for the benefit of some other sentimental reader—if there might be one.

In answer I want to say that of course I can understand how you feel and I think it is a beautiful idea that is likely to bring a little warmth of comfort not only to one but to many. In no possible sense are you foolish. As for sentiment—what is beauty of life without it!

WRITING MATERIALS

WRITING Paper for Men: Good taste exacts that stationery for all men be very conservative. Color of writing paper: White cream the deeper shades of blue, or any of the grayish mixtures known as granite. (Plain gray is better for an older man than for a young one.) Smartest style of paper: Either bond or Irish linen or granite. Any plain paper with cut edges proper. Size: Large rather than small. Size: Double sheet 5 1/2 by 8 1/2 inches in best taste. Single sheets slightly larger. Unlined envelopes with plainest flap. Stamping: Address or block initials, of full name and address. (Mr. is never included under any circumstances.) A man's business address is put on the face of the envelope rather than on the flap. Personal paper has the address (if any) across the flap. Color of stamping (or printing): black or blue or gray or brick red. Ink: Blue or black.

Writing Paper for Women: White, cream, all blues grays and mauves. Very pale powder pink bond paper is just on the edge of possibility but to be avoided by the unknown. I wish I might approve of green but I really can't. Size: Very small or medium large, single or double sheets. Very smart is the double sheet of paper that fits without further folding into a big envelope. Texture of paper unlimited, but cut edges are more convenient than rough. Any colored border fashionable—even green or red—if it be very narrow, but gilt or silver edges taboo. Stamping: Monogram, initials or address in color to match the border. A girl's name—either "Mary Smith" in full or "Mary," embossed in color, is popular for a young girl when writing to her own friends. (In paper for social use the address without the name is proper on the flap of the envelope as well as on the paper—or if the monogram or name is stamped on paper, the address is often put across the flap of the envelope. Envelope lined with pink theme to match the color of the stamping (and border) or no lining. Avoid violently patterned envelope linings except for Christmas cards. Ink: Black neutral, that blue, violet. (Green and red are taboo.)

BRIDES ASK—

DEAR Mrs. Post: I want to send one wedding invitation to a mother and father and their two unmarried daughters living with them. Since "and family" is not allowed by best form, please tell me just how their names are written on one envelope?

Answer: Mr. and Mrs. John Jones and on the line below, the Misses Jones.

My dear Mrs. Post: The soloist and organist who are to sing and play at my wedding are friends of my young uncle. They are not asking a fee but are doing it for me because he asked them to. I am going to invite them both to my reception, which is to be a large one. Outside of this, must I buy them each a gift?

Answer: I don't think I would say "must," but to give each a remembrance would be an appreciative thing to do, and to give them nothing would put you too much in their debt.

Dear Mrs. Post: My nephew was married several months ago, and since his return from his wedding trip has received a bill for the hire of five cars used to take the bridal party and others to the church and then to the hotel for dinner and the reception. He ignored the bill because we were all under the impression that this item was part of the bride's family's expenses. Now we learn that her family are making a lot of disagreeable comment because of his neglect in paying the bill. You, as arbiter, can help us.

Answer: There are as many local customs as there are localities, but this is one I have never heard of. The only car that he should be expected to pay for is the one that took the best man and himself to the church, and possibly the one in which he and his wife drove to the station after the wedding.

My dear Mrs. Post: Please list all the expenses of my wedding that should be taken care of by my parents. I am having a simple church wedding, with a reception at my parents' club afterwards.

Answer: All cost of invitations and announcements, your trousseau, wedding dress, decoration of church and house, all music, wedding breakfast and collation, bridesmaids bouquets, and all transportation of immediate family and bridal party. In many communities the bridegroom gives the bride her bouquet. There fore, follow local custom.

THE ALL-IN-ONE WEDDING INVITATION

DEAR Mrs. Post: The time has come for mother to order the invitations to my wedding. A friend told me you wrote sometime last winter that the wedding invitation which folds in half and whose edge seal to form an envelope on which the address is written, is best possible taste and used by smartest people. The stationer has shown us a sample of this style of invitation on this bond paper, as well as the heavier kid paper that fits in two envelopes. The thin all-in-one piece invitation is considerably less expensive, but before choosing it we would like to be sure of your opinion, please.

Answer: I can't remember exactly what I answered, but I doubt having gone so far as to say that the all-in-one sheet invitation was in "best possible" taste. I think I said it would be permissible since it is the type of invitation much used in England and one that has been chosen also by a number of the smart in New York. Lately, however, several invitations and announcements have been sent me by my readers, which have made me rather sorry that I endorsed this type of invitation, because it can lend itself to a very poor quality of paper and to imitation engraving. About half of the examples sent me looked rather shoddy by the time they had gone through the mail.

In other words I really prefer the conventional wedding invitation engraved (not printed) on a kid finish paper suggestive of an orange-blossom petal in color and texture, which fits into the inner envelope without muddle on the flap, and this into an outer one with a muddled flap. The reason for the two envelopes is that when the outer one is thrown away, the inner one is entirely fresh and therefore nicer to keep with its enclosures until the latter are used. In the single form, no cards can be enclosed and a postmarked, and sometimes crumpled invitation must be presented at the church.

It is true that for those who must economize, the sheet and envelope in one is less expensive to have made, and to stamp, since it can be sent as unsealed postage. But if saving of expense is not a pressing necessity, the conventional invitation with its card enclosures is in best possible taste.

THE EXPENSES OF A WEDDING

DEAR Mrs. Post: Does the groom pay for anything besides the marriage license, the wedding ring and of course, the clergyman's fee? (2) When the double ring ceremony is used, does he pay for both rings? (3) I live in New York, and my fiancée does not, and insists that in her town, the men always buy the flowers. Must I follow custom in her community, or can I simply tell her frankly that my father bought the bridal flowers for each of my three sisters. If I have to buy all these flowers it is going to make an awful hole in the money I've saved for our wedding trip.

Answer: (1) His own, the best man's and the ushers boutonnières ties, and if they wear them, gloves and spats. (2) No, he buys the ring for the bride, and she buys the one for him. (3) I'm afraid that what your father did in New York has nothing whatever to do with what you will have to do in another town. I agree that it can be an appalling handicap—especially at a December wedding! But the only advice I can give is that you talk it over with your fiancée, tell her about your wedding trip budget, and suggest that the bridesmaids carry muffa (very smart at the moment) of velvet or whatever goes best with their dresses. Then the only flowers would be those for the bride. To me the modern fashion of including all flowers (except boutonnières) as part of the wedding expenses of the bride's family, who can at least control the type of bouquet to be ordered, is more fair than expecting the groom to assume a blind obligation, which he cannot control, and is usually embarrassed to meet.

A reader wrote me lately of an all-white wedding at which there were six bridesmaids, a maid of honor, and two flower girls, all carrying gardenias. The bride's bouquet was a huge one of white orchids. All the flowers were, as always, chosen by the bride. The groom who had never heard of this custom, returned from his wedding trip to find a bill for nearly three hundred dollars. The only way he could pay it was to arrange with the florist to pay it, plus interest, in installments. Meaning that he began his married life with the utterly unreasonable indebtedness.

BEFORE AND AFTER THE WEDDING—

DEAR Mrs. Post: Is it improper for an engaged couple to pool their money and buy one worthwhile gift for a bride, to whose wedding and reception they both have been invited?

Answer: One present sent by two engaged people is entirely proper.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it permissible for me to buy my husband a wedding ring now, after three years' married more than three years! The double ceremony was not used and he would like a ring, too. Is this ever done?

Answer: I don't know that it is ever done, but there is no reason in the world why it should not be. If your husband would like to have a ring and you want to give him one by all means buy the ring you would have bought, have it marked as it would have been marked, and put it on his finger—with perhaps a pledge of even deeper tenderness than you could have made three years ago.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is a flower girl out of place in a very simple wedding which is to take place on the lawn of a country house? The bride is wearing a simple white dress and hat, and her only attendant will wear the same type of clothes in pink and brown. They will wear corsages. What should the flower girl wear if she may be included?

Answer: It would be quite all right to have a flower girl. If she is very little, she might wear one of her own white dresses. If she is older, she would wear pink and brown to match the maid of honor.

My Dear Mrs. Post: My fiancée has two sisters my age, whom I know, but we are entirely separate groups. I am having a party at the country club this month at which the news of our engagement is being given out. Because of the nature of the party, ought I to invite these sisters to it? If so, should I ask their mother, too?

Answer: If you are having a general party, I think you will have to invite them all. But if it is to be a very small party, and including only a few of your intimate friends, it will not be necessary—unless you are going to make a great deal of the announcement.

Perennial plants in family gardens come earlier and stand drouth better according to the experience in Homphill county this year. Asparagus in particular was an asset to gardeners there.

Three hundred Fayette county farmers have beaten the drouth to their farms crops by putting 15,000 tons of manure and hagaria down in trench and to feed their livestock through the winter.

VALUES FAR ABOVE MONEY

DEAR Mrs. Post: We are invited out a great deal, and why, I don't know, because we have so far not been able to return anything. We do send candy, or sometimes flowers, and a book to people we know like these particular things, but outside of that we can't return their dinners, week-end and theater invitations. Ought we to stop accepting these? Oh, if only we had more money!

Answer: One need never return invitation for invitation. The only thing that matters is to show our appreciation of the kindness shown us in the best way we can. In other words, by the book, candy, flowers, or by things costing time and thought and heart, which are often more valuable than things costing merely money. Nor is it at all necessary to feel that you are unable to give a party. Remember that a young couple living in a single room, which has a folding sofa-bed, so that the room can be made into the semblance of a sitting room, can perfectly well ask friends they care for (after all, others are of small importance) to come to their "home-in-a-room."

When people do things with modest hospitality, and fail, it is not because of their stinted means, but because they entirely overlook the fundamental fact that the success of a party is far more dependent upon the spirit of hospitality—actually the spirit of friendliness—than it is upon lavishness of provision.

Would you know the real secret of successful party-giving? It has not a thing in the world to do with money. It is simply the gift of never outgrowing a child's imagination. In other words, the spirit of "let's pretend" that enters into the play of all children.

Unless you can enter into the spirit of this hospitality, unless you can delight to have the friends you like share your festival, your party—even though it be given in a palace with cows of lackeys and a ton of choicest viands—will be but a heavy procession of over-richly laden minutes. Whereas, if the enthusiasm of your welcome springs from innate friendliness—from joy in furthering the delight of good fellowship beneath your own roof—you need never doubt that those who have accepted your hospitality once will not eagerly look forward to doing so again and again.

TWENTIETH CENTURY CHANGES

DEAR Mrs. Post: Please go into detail about the etiquette of present-day card leaving. I am of the 90's, when the convention was strictly adhered to, but people are getting so casual about cards and visits that I am not sure how much of their old meaning may still exist without "dating" us.

Answer: Going out in the afternoon, as we used to do, and leaving cards at two or three dozen front doors without even asking whether any of those on whom we were leaving them were at home, is at present totally unknown to everyone on the latter side of fifty. Few people even pay party calls except after a first invitation from strangers—and only the rather precisely brought up pay these. There are many occasions, however, when cards must still be left. First of all, a card of sympathy is left at a house of mourning; a card of inquiry at a house where there is serious illness. And of course, people go to see neighbors and friends, and if they find them out, they necessarily leave their cards. Formally, and on strangers, a lady leaves one card of her own and one of her husband's on each gentleman—just as we used to do. But going to see friends, one usually leaves just one card of one's own—and only when they are out. Perhaps I can make my answer clearer by saying that cards of empty form would "date" us unmistakably and would be thought absurd by all younger people. But all cards that have real intention of friendship, or kindness, are used today just as they always have been.

DEAR Mrs. Post: My sixteen-year-old daughter would like to entertain about four couples of her own age. They don't play cards (or most of them don't) and our house is too small to dance. Could my husband and I take them all somewhere, and would it be embarrassing for the boys to let us pay all the expenses? Or don't girls invite boys to go out with them even under those circumstances?

Answer: Certainly your daughter may give a party as many as you are willing to let her give—and nothing could be more proper than to have you and her father take her and her friends somewhere. A hostess as well as a host should always pay the expenses of the guests whom they have invited.

YESTERDAY'S GENERATION ASKS—

DEAR Mrs. Post: My eighteen-year-old daughter is very fond of tennis and cannot understand why I hold it is not seemly for her to ride off with three boys to play tennis. I tell her she should suggest asking another girl to go with them. She considers me hopelessly "old-fashioned" and I have endeavored with little success to show her what you have voiced in the past: that conventions, though regarded by the present generation as frivols, have most excellent reasons for their existence, and observance of them would prevent regrets. Will you please present your opinion of my view?

Answer: Although, according to the present point of view, there is not the slightest impropriety in going off now and then with three boys to play tennis, I agree that it would be a serious mistake should she make going about alone with boys a habit. This is because a girl, who is always with boys, puts herself in a very insecure position. Perhaps you might explain to her that after all the word "classmate" means a woman whom the wives, mothers and sisters of her men friends refuse to know.

DEAR Mrs. Post: What should I teach my son, who is nine years old, to reply to an introduction? I want him to say "ma'am" but I am told this is incorrect.

Answer: To a man, "How do you do, sir"; to a woman "How do you do, Mrs. Jones." "Ma'am" has always been a colloquialism—except when replying to royalty. "But why 'sir' is used when speaking to a gentleman and why "ma'am" is said to ladies in only a few localities is just one of those things that seem to have little reason further than that usage has made it so.

DEAR Mrs. Post: Will you help me plan a very small wedding in church, because it has been a long time since we've had a wedding in our family? (1) Is it necessary for the bride and groom to have any attendants? (2) Is it permissible for the bride's mother to act as her matron of honor? (3) And may the bride's fifteen-year-old brother give her away?

Answer: (1) The groom must have a best man. All other attendants are optional. (2) Absolutely no, so far as walking down the aisle is concerned. But she could stand next to her and hold her bouquet. (3) Yes.

INVITATIONS

DEAR Mrs. Post: The other day we received this invitation: "Dear Mrs. Jones—Will you and Marie come in for tea on Monday, October 2, at 4:30? Mrs. Blank is staying with me and I have asked a few friends in to meet her." I know that ordinarily an invitation to tea written on a visiting card, or an engraved invitation, need not be answered. But what about this one?

Answer: This one is an especially polite invitation to tea in the form of a personal note. It should be answered with a note saying, "Marie and I will be delighted to take tea with you on Monday, and to meet Mrs. Blank."

My dear Mrs. Post: I am moving very soon, and a few days after I'm settled in my new apartment I would like to have a cocktail party. Could I tell my friends that I have moved to a new address and also invite them in the same invitation?

Answer: Of course!

DEAR Mrs. Post: My sister received a wedding invitation for the ceremony and reception of a very dear friend of hers who lives out of town and whom sister has not seen for several years. She cannot go and instead of the usual third person acknowledgment to her friend's parents, would it not be better for her to write a personal note and explain why she cannot be at the wedding?

Answer: Of course to this, too.

My dear Mrs. Post: We have invited out of town friends to come stay with us for a week. I feel that they will drive in their car, which means that they will have their chauffeur in town, too. Are we supposed to pay for garage rent and also to find a place for their man to stay, because we have no additional sleeping rooms where we could accommodate him?

Answer: No. Their car and their chauffeur are their responsibilities. If you have several servants and it is convenient to you to invite him to take his meals in your kitchen, he may perhaps accept this invitation. Or he may even then prefer to eat at a restaurant of his own choosing. At all events, the responsibility to lodge and board him would be yours only if you lived in a big house far out in the country.

John T. Williamson CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY JUDGE OF COLEMAN COUNTY

"Newspaper man for 30 years" "Qualified by education and experience to do the job."

Was not born and reared in Coleman County, so he has the same loyalty to every town; the same affection for all the people. Lives in more work on lateral roads as an aid to farmers of Coleman County and the unemployed. If elected he promises an economical, but not a miserly administration of the county's affairs. Will abundantly appreciate your vote in the primary election Saturday, and will know you after he is elected.

(political advertisement)

WHO MAY VOTE

The question, "Who may vote?" is in the minds of a large number of people as the time for the July 28th primary election draws near.

The voter must be a citizen of the United States, at least 21 years of age, a resident of the county in which he offers to vote, for six months and must have paid a poll tax, if subject thereto, prior to February 1, preceding the election, or have obtained an exemption certificate if one is required.

Persons between 21 and 60 are required to pay poll taxes. In order for a person to obtain an exemption certificate to vote in the primary this year he must have become 21 after January 1, 1933. Only poll tax receipts dated "1933" can be used in the election this year. The current receipts were levied for 1933 although they were obtainable until February 1, 1934.

In addition to the "overs" and "unders" those entitled to exemption certificates are persons who are blind, deaf or dumb, those who have lost a hand or foot and those who are totally disabled. In this county only voters living in the city of Brownwood have to secure exemption certificate. Voters entitled to exemption who live outside of the city limits may vote without the certificate by signing an affidavit that they are exempt.

The polls will open at 8 a. m. election day and close at 7 p. m. Voters are being urged to vote as early as possible so that election officials may be counting a great lot of ballots to count the last. The ticket is very long this year and counting will be a big task.

Cans of Bass Are Emptied Into Lake Brownwood

Forty cans, containing about 1,000 bass, delivered here this morning from the state fish hatchery at San Angelo were emptied into Lake Brownwood. Although the lake is low it is said the fish will have plenty of water in the streams and what is left of the lake.

The bass were good size, averaging about four inches in length. As the lake refills a great number of stock fish are expected to be placed in the water by the State Game and Oyster Commission.

Mrs. Ima Simpson and son, Jim Tom, returned Saturday to their home in Martindale after visiting Mrs. E. W. Bible and other relatives and friends for a week.

Mrs. Sam Forehand and Mrs. Kate Harris are visiting relatives near Ballinger this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Williams moved here this week from Abilene and will have charge of Western Produce Co. here.

ON TEXAS FARMS

You may not have your cake and eat it too, but farmers did get their cotton plow-up checks last summer when they were badly needed and are profiting again this year, says E. B. Isdem of Deep Creek in Shackelford county who reports a yield of 65 bushels of oats per acre on land where he plowed under cotton last year and only 10 1-2 bushels on 15 other acres of similar land.

For setting out 300 tomato plants in her garden and 25 shrubs around the house, having a fully equipped sewing box, making a cup towel, apron and dress, and then writing the history of her club work Eva Kapchinski, 4-H club girl of Pine Grove in Grimes county was named winner in a county contest to attain these goals.

More than 4000 feet of concrete tile is being made by relief labor for use in relief gardens in Scurry county. After this job is done private citizens are permitted to buy tile made by those who are getting their training in the work now.

BALLINGER: Three loads of sudan hay were put in the space formerly occupied by one load on the farm of George Kemp, dairyman in Runnels county, accompanied by the small haphazard demonstration agent, Mr. Kemp just ran the hay through an ensilage cutter, which blew it into the barn, thus saving labor, space and time required for loose hay. The cut hay is also left in a more convenient form for use in mixing dairy rations.

ARCHER CITY: Forty bushels of barley to the acre were harvested on the farm of Lish Herndon of Archer county, according to G. R. McNeil, farm demonstration agent. His large yield was due to the fact that the barley was planted on land that was planted in cotton last summer and then plowed up during the plow-up campaign. Mr. Herndon stated that he listed and relisted the land after the cotton was plowed under. Later on the beds were bulled down and the barley seeded. His land being well worked held the moisture and made a good yield.

ANAHUAC: Paper shell pecans should be more plentiful in Chambers county in the next few years if the farm demonstration agent, R. H. Mathis, is successful in his attempt to convert native seedling pecans into the more desirable thin shell varieties.

By means of a simple knife operation known as the "patch bud method," Mr. Mathis is removing dormant buds from paper shell pecan trees and transplanting them into the bark of young native pecan seedlings. From these inserted pecan buds new limbs are expected to come forth that will be of the paper shell variety. As these new limbs are to be cut back until the tree has an entirely new top that will bear only paper shell according to Elmo V. Cook, farm five ones for which there is very little market demand. To date a total of 125 native pecan seedlings have been successfully budded with paper shell pecan buds.

VICTORIA: A trench silo has been completed by Herbert Wischkaemper of the Lone Tree community of Victoria County to conserve what feed dry weather has left him. Mr. Wischkaemper's corn was burning up because of the drought, and so on the advice of the farm demonstration agent, J. L. Moore, he and two hired helpers dug the trench in four days. It is 75 by 8 by 7 feet and was completed with a total cash outlay of $8. Mr. Wischkaemper stated that he expected to fill the silo at about 75 cents per ton which would be the cheapest feed he had ever harvested.

NEW BRAUNFELS: Early, deep, and thorough breaking of the land followed by deep planting, thin spacing, and good cultivation made the "lucky man" among the corn raisers of Comal county, according to George E. Ehlinger, farm demonstration agent. The "unlucky ones" were those who followed a haphazard system of preparing their lands.

A surprisingly good corn yield was made in this county without any rain since the last of March and the first of April. A number of farmers took advantage of good subsoil moisture and some improved their yield by planting paired corn rows with cow peas in the vacant row.

Herman Schultze with his corn in paired rows is making a better crop this year than last. Albert Soefje, Willie Kresche and Walter Schultze, his neighbors, are likewise making good corn with this system, plus early and good soil preparation, while some other neighbors had to cut their corn for forage.

MENARD: Thirty-four choice Hereford calves selected from 9 outstanding herds in the county and averaging 225 pounds were started on feed the first of June by the 4-H club members of Menard county, according to Frank N. Newsom, farm demonstration agent. The starting grain ration was composed of 45 per cent oats, 45 per cent corn, and 10 per cent cottonseed cake.

FALFURRIAS: More than 100 men and women visited the homes of the five pantry demonstrators in Brooks county recently when the County Home Demonstration Council sponsored a county-wide pantry achievement day. A general invitation was extended to all the citizens of the county so that all might see these standard pantries, hear the demonstrators' stories and see the special exhibits prepared by the cooperators. Each of the pantry demonstrators had made a canning budget at the beginning of the year, started a recipe file of tested recipes, built pantry shelves for better storage of canned goods, labeled all cans, and organized her pantry. The five demonstrators had canned a total of 5,889 containers of 109 different varieties. Nineteen different kinds of meats had been canned in 1,122 containers, 728 cans were of starchy vegetables, 719 were of green or leafy vegetables of 9 different kinds, 501 were preserves and jellies of 18 varieties, 890 were pickles and relishes of 28 different kinds, and 357 were miscellaneous containers such as soups and gumbo of 13 varieties. The greatest number of varieties put up by any one woman was 72. The estimated total cash value of the pantries was $1,420.40.

WEATHERFORD: The plan for landscaping the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. V. Daniels of Parker county has been completed according to the home demonstration agent, Miss Janice Parks, who assisted in making the plan because Mrs. Daniels is yard demonstrator for the Dennis Home Demonstration Club. The plan calls for moving the front fence out 10 feet and the side fence 20 feet; moving the garage from the front yard to the back; moving the clothes lines; making a screen planting between the house and barn; making a drive-way; planting trees for shade; filling in the yard; making foundation plantings around the house; sodding the yard; and building three native stone walks.

TAHOKA: One hundred fifty-one White Leghorn chickens have been raised to the age of five weeks from 154 day old chicks purchased from a local hatchery by Mrs. B. J. Emanuel of the Magnolia community in Lynn county according to the home demonstration agent, Mrs. Emanuel attributes her success to a good old burning brooder, chick starter, growing mash clean water and shade rather than to "good luck."

CORPUS CHRISTI: Twenty cents spent for tomato seed in the early spring brought good returns for Mrs. R. Woodward, home industry demonstrator for the Chapman Ranch Home Demonstration Club in Nueces County. This seed furnished plants for 12 rows each 70 feet long, and from these she sold 30 bushels of tomatoes for $24; gave 8 bushels to friends; and canned 500 cans for her own use and for the market. In addition she made 24 pints of chili sauce.

SAN ANGELO: Fresh light kitchen walls with an expenditure of less than 25 cents for tacks is the work of Mrs. E. V. Eddy, food supply cooperator of Harriet Home Demonstration Club in Tom Green county, according to Nette Schultze, home demonstration agent. Mrs. Eddy got heavy paste board boxes that tin cans are shipped in, cut both ends out and split down one corner which when opened was 20 inches wide and 7 inches long. One strip of this makes one length, and these were tacked along the edges. The inside of the boxes was used for the right side as it was free of printing. This plan used by Mrs. Eddy not only makes clean fresh walls but also keeps out both heat and cold.

W. A. (Bill) STROMAN Candidate for DISTRICT ATTORNEY 119th District (political advertisement)

CROCKETT: At least one member of the women's home demonstration club in Houston county is certain that she is feeding her family the 4-H pantry way. Mrs. Lula Holcomb, 4-H club pantry demonstrator for the Augusta Women's Home Demonstration Club, has in her pantry 7 small shelves, one for each day in the week, and on each is placed the necessary containers from her canned and dried food to supplement the fresh fruit and vegetables from her garden. By each shelf is placed a scratch pad containing the day's menu properly planned to include the essentials of an adequate diet. Her menus are planned for a month in advance.

"I like this way better than any I have ever tried before," said Mrs. Holcomb as she proudly explained her system. "Meal preparation isn't such a worry any more. It is fun now."

MAN AND GIRL

DEAR Mrs. Post: How far may a girl run after a man? Answer: Catlike, she may do a little stalking! But "run"? Not a step.

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you say something about the behavior of the young on the street who seem to live in chattering, giggling groups? Answer: School girls, factory girls, or any other young women, who troop into the street together, should avoid walking abreast in interlocking giggling and chattering groups.

INTRODUCTIONS

DEAR Mrs. Post: How should my young son, aged ten, be introduced to our friends? Answer: "Mrs. Jones, this is my son Bobby" or "Eitel, this is my Bobby" then to Bobby, "Miss Blake."

Dear Mrs. Post: Is there any way that would be correct to meet the young girl in the next apartment house? Her father is a professional associate of my father, but outside of the hospital at which both are attending physicians, they never meet.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am secretary to the president of a large dress manufacturing company and am often introduced to customers. Is it proper, whether the buyer is a man or woman, for me to rise and shake hands?

Dear Mr. Post: I am having a party for a friend who is staying with me. Do I mention her name first, or those of my guests (all women) when introducing them? Answer: Name of older person usually said first.

DEAR Mrs. Post: Will you tell me whether I was prudish in my point of view and whether you think I am just missing a lot of good times, which could otherwise be mine.

ON TEXAS FARMS

Those gardeners who invested a dollar in tile for subirrigation last spring are now reaping dividends in vegetables, writes the King county farm demonstration agent from the heart of the drouth territory. Gvp water makes no difference he states, and cites the garden of Mr. Charles Deaton as evidence.

Terracing, grasshopper poisoning, and some work with wool divided time with the cotton contracts in McLennan county in June according to the report of R. S. Miller. Terraces have proven drouth worthy also—and yields are showing up better on terraced lands every where because of the water conserved.

Seven wardrobe demonstrators in Harrison county built new clothes closets in June and six others improved their closets by papering, putting in shelves, rods, shoe bags, or racks.

Miss Maggie Peach, home demonstration agent reports.

If he says the world will be ruined if it doesn't adopt his plan, the plan is no better than the prophecy.

Following a Special Band Concert, Senator Woodward, one of the most brilliant orators and lawyers in Texas, has a message especially for the people of Coleman and Coleman County.

HON. J. K. BAKER

will introduce Senator Woodward—Come to hear what he has to say, for it will be a "heart-to-heart" talk to the "home folk."

Trade in Santa Anna With these Progressive Firms: Buy at Home Sell at Home

The firms on this page are doing their part for the people, they serve. You cannot be a good citizen of two towns; trade where you live and make your money.

Sealy Hospital

The people of this community are indeed fortunate in having a hospital like this one, which is located so conveniently to them. This hospital has left nothing undone that would help the people it serves. It is a place of sanitation. They have it modern in every respect. They have the best medical doctors and skilled surgeons known to their profession, in this country. They enjoy the fact that they have the lowest mortality rate per case in any hospital in the state. They have spared no expense in making this hospital a place where you will have every care that should be given to the sick. Aside from the large number of student nurses in the splendid School of Nursing, they maintain a large number of registered and graduate nurses and licensed technicians. The entire personnel of this institution is courteous and pleasant, doing all they can for suffering humanity, and if you should be unfortunate enough to have to go to a hospital we can recommend this one most heartily. The Progressive Review of Santa Anna would be most incomplete without favorable and prominent mention of this wonderful hospital.

Abbott & Henslee Skating Rink

All work and no play makes a long day. Take off a little time and learn to skate. If you don't care to skate take the younger ones down and allow them to enjoy themselves. This is a good, clean, healthy sport, recommended by good health experts. It develops the legs, and gives the dormant muscles a chance to get into action. This rink is at all times operated on a strict basis, and you may rest assured that you will not see disorderly conduct, or loud boisterous conduct at this rink. Mr. Abbott and Mr. Henslee personally supervise the rink and you will be treated like ladies and gentlemen when you enter this nice place of amusement. The Progressive Review indorses this rink, and the form of amusement that it affords the public.

Texaco Products

Mr. O. A. Etheredge and his company has spared no expense in this town to take care of the wholesale business of the Texaco Products. Wherever you see a Texaco sign you may rest assured that they are giving you good merchandise, good service and courteous attention, and when you fill up with that nationally advertised Fire Chief Gas you have as good as can be put into your car. This agency is anxious to help you with your gas and oil problems and to make your trip more comfortable and less expensive. You will find Mr. Etheredge and all Texaco Stations very co-operative in every way. The Progressive Review indorses this company and their products, and the service you receive at the Texaco Stations.

Knape-Coleman Glass Company

Manufacturers of Superior Glass Containers

SANTA ANNA, TEXAS

Co-operating 100 per cent with the people we serve.

Leeper-Curd Lumber Company

This lumber company is one of the pioneer institutions of this country, and has been responsible for many homes being here that probably never would have been built if it had not been for this company. Mr. Gay, the manager, is one of Santa Anna's most progressive citizens. He is always anxious to do anything that will help the town and community that he serves. This yard has always sold good lumber and building materials and given you the very best service that could be given. They have always helped with your buildings whether they were large or small and you received the same courteous attention. They are here to serve you in every way possible. Ask Mr. Gay for an estimate on anything that you have to build or repair. He will gladly give you correct reliable information. The Progressive Review indorses this company and their capable manager.

Santa Anna Gas Company

The people of Santa Anna are indeed fortunate in having a home owned and controlled gas company located here in their town. It gives better service, uses home raw materials and gives many jobs that could not be had if it were not a home owned and operated concern. They have given you good service at a minimum cost, they give you twenty-four hours service each day, they have spent much money in your town, and pay big taxes each year. The Progressive Review of Santa Anna indorses this company and what they are doing for the people they serve. We suggest that you get your place in order for winter. Mr. Golson will be glad to give you estimates on any job, large or small, and you will find the entire personnel anxious to help you with your gas problems. The Progressive Review indorses this company and what they are doing for this town.

Santa Anna Steam Laundry

The housewives and bachelors who are particular about how their clothes look should be very proud of Santa Anna's new modern laundry that is operated by a man who really knows the laundry business and is giving you the very best work for the least amount of money that can be paid. They have spared no expense in making this laundry modern and up to date, and they are equipped to do your washing for you by the piece or pound, just as you like. They have a family price that will appeal to the tired housewife, especially during these hot summer days. To you men we suggest that you give the wife a rest and send the wash to the laundry, and let your wife get away from that wash-tub figure. The Progressive Review indorses this laundry and their work, and wish and predict much success for them in their new undertaking. They wash every day for you. Called for and delivered. Phone 32

Evans Garage

This is an independent garage that has just moved to a new location where they have remodeled and made everything as modern and convenient as could be made. They have spent much money in making and keeping this garage a place where you may have your work done with confidence. They use only genuine authorized parts and mechanics that are trained and have had practical experience with the things that you need done. This is a home owned and operated garage and the profits stay in this town to help build a bigger and better place to live and trade. Mr. Evans has never overcharged you for the kind of work that he gave, and he has always stood behind his work, and each job that goes out has his personal guarantee as to the workmanship. The Progressive Review indorses this garage and we suggest you get the old boat in shape for that vacation trip before you get ready to go.

Mrs. Shockley Millinery & Ready To Wear. Beauty Shop In Connection.

If you want the better things in millinery and ready to wear you will always find them at this shop. They are the first to show the newer and better things in women's wearing apparel. At this shop is where style and quality unite at prices that cannot be duplicated in this part of the country. They have never forsaken quality for price, but have brought you quality merchandises at a price. Mrs. Shockley adds new things to her stock weekly, and has connections where-by she is in a position to know what is being shown and worn by the ones who dress correctly. Mrs. Hall, who is operating her Beauty Parlor, is an experienced skilled operator, has a diploma from one of the best schools in this state, and she can give you beauty work in all its phases. Their prices are very reasonable considering the quality of work you receive. The Progressive Review indorses this shop and what they are doing for the people they serve.

J. L. Boggus & Company

The thrifty housewives are fast learning that the Red & White Stores are bringing to them good, clean groceries and values that cannot be beaten in the country. They offer at all times good quality merchandise, good courteous treatment, and fair, honest dealings. Mr. Boggus takes a personal interest in his store and the people that he serves. He tries daily to give you superior merchandise at a saving, and if you will price his merchandise through the store you will find that his prices, considering quality, are absolutely right. This is a home store, and is operated by home people in the interest of the community they serve. The Progressive Review indorses this store and what they are doing for the people they serve, and we say: Buy at home and sell at home, and build your own home town, not others.

Walker's Pharmacy

If you want good, pure drugs from a reliable druggist who gives your prescription personal attention, we suggest you take it to Walker's as this is the ONLY DRUG STORE in Santa Anna that is owned by a registered druggist. They fill them as per the doctors orders, without substitutions. We recommend this drug store operated by Mr. Walker, who tries daily to help the people that he serves. He has spent much money in Santa Anna trying to give you a drug store that you would like to call your drug store. He enjoys helping you with your drug needs, and trying to save you money on expensive medicines. This is a home owned and operated drug store for home people, and the Progressive Review indorses this drug store and what they are doing for the people they serve.

Gulf Service Station

If you want good products, good service and courteous attention, we recommend this station that is conveniently located for you. They have spared no expense in making this station a place where you can be served with the least amount of lost time, and with that good Gulf gas and oil. You will find this station and the employees all anxious to help you and to serve you better, and to give you more satisfactory miles with their products. The Progressive Review indorses this station and their products. And we say: Patronize a station like this, and enjoy driving all the more.

Mitcham Funeral Home

Mrs. Lola Lightfoot, Mgr.

Lack of familiarity with funeral merchandise naturally imposes a burden upon a family when the need arises for such purchases. The established reputation of this funeral home for fair dealings has gained a wide, favorable reputation. This funeral home has been serving the people for many years, and has earned an unblemished reputation for giving honest values at all times in merchandise and service, and whether you wish to spend little or much, you will receive the same kind, considerate attention. The Progressive Review indorses this funeral home and what they are doing for the people they serve.

Santa Anna Telephone Company

How many times have you heard the expression "Call me up and let me know."? And how many times have you heard the answer, "I don't have a phone."? This company has spared no expense in making and keeping their equipment complete for your service twenty-four hours each day, and we recommend that you give your neighbors phone a rest and have one of your own installed. It is not only a necessity but a luxury as well. The Progressive Review suggests that you go over and use the neighbor's phone just one more time and call the service department to have a phone of your own installed. That will be a co-operative spirit and you too will enjoy the privilege of your own phone. The expense is minor compared to the pleasure and practicability of having your own phone. You will find Mr. Johnson and the entire personnel glad to give you courteous service and prompt attention.

Gulf Refining Company

Mr. L. F. Harding, the distributor for Gulf Products of this community is very co-operative with this community in any movement that will help. When you see the big orange sign it is an emblem of good gas and oil, better known as that good Gulf gas, or the 100 mileanhour motor oil which is always fresh. You will find at any Gulf station good, competent men who are anxious to serve you with good products and to help and instruct you with your driving or trips. Resolve today to use better products in your car. This company and Mr. Harding have spared no expense in making their equipment complete to care for their business. The Progressive Review indorses this company and their products. PHONE 313 or 69.

Santa Anna Motor Company

This automobile company has stayed with you through good years and bad alike, and has always given you good products, and now they are in better condition to give you more for your money than ever before. Read this reliable information which is taken from Wayne County, Michigan. These are authentic registrations of the three lowest priced cars, from January to June 1934: Ford 15.756; Chevrolet 4.361; Plymouth 3.627. The Ford leadership in Wayne County is a result of the general public being educated motor-wise. We say "General Public" as an investigation shows that less than 10 per cent of the total Ford sales are made to Ford employees. Mr. Joiner and his sales force are anxious to demonstrate what they have to offer you in the V-8. Their stock is complete, and they maintain a parts and service department that is most complete in every detail. Their mechanics are skilled and trained by Ford factory methods and they use only genuine Ford parts. The Progressive Review indorses this agency and their products and service.

Gehrett Dry Goods Company

If you want good dry goods from a reliable home owned and operated store we recommend one that has given you good merchandise and good treatment, at fair prices for a long time, right here in your own home town. That is the Gehrett Dry Goods Company, operated by Mrs. Gehrett and ably assisted by Mrs. Finney, who have tried at all times to give you the newer and better things in the lines they offer the public. You have to pay no more for this merchandise here in Santa Anna than you do anywhere else if you buy the same quality. They maintain that there is no substitute for quality, and that the sweetness of low price never equals the disappointment of poor quality. The Progressive Review indorses this store and the entire personnel, and we say: Try your own dry goods store first, compare the quality, the price and remember you are helping your own home town; not others.

Turner Drug Store

This Drug Store has been your friend during sickness and health, and they have always given you the best service that could be given. They maintain for you a modern drug store featuring nationally advertised lines. The McKesson line of drugs is recognized by all leading physicians as being pure drugs and are scientifically prepared. These are quality products and are nationally used. They also feature and recommend the Philco Radio, the world's largest radio, and they are in a position to connect the rural world up with a Philco. Ask them about this wonderful radio and how easily you may own one. Their fountain is a place of sanitation and they give you good clean wholesome drinks, dispensed by experienced help. They feature the Pangburn ice cream and it may be carried home in any quantity. They have for a limited time a free gift for you of the nationally advertised Boyer line, which is one of the leading lines of cosmetics in the United States. The Progressive Review indorses this store and the service they render.

Victory Seen By Woodward

Coleman Man Says He Will Win Attorney General Race in First Primary.

BONHAM, July 23.—State Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman, speaking here Monday Morning, pictured his Dallas opponent, pictured his Dallas opponent as "a frivolous sort of fellow who puts on an amusing show" and predicted that Woodward would be elected in the first primary.

Senator Woodward said: "I have been in every part of the state and am constantly in touch with the political situation through responsible friends and it is my honest opinion, conservatively stated, that I will be elected Attorney General in the first primary over both opponents."

"My criminal law opponent from Dallas has shown himself to be a frivolous sort of fellow who puts on an amusing show, a hand-shaker and back-slapper and a teller of yarns, who makes plenty of racket but has attracted very little support and in some places has created opposition by his methods."

"He has taken criminal lawyer tactics into this campaign in an effort to prejudice the 1,000,000 jurors who on election day will pass a verdict on our qualifications, and has intentionally misrepresented me in every speech. His charges are all false and are made for the joint purpose of deceiving the voters and as an excuse for not discussing his own qualifications."

"In Dallas, where the people know him, he is attracting what support he is getting purely because he is a local boy and my friends tell me I have an excellent chance to lead in his home county."

"He has made some wild charges and this week he may claim I was a partner of Clyde Brown and Bonnie Parker or that I was attorney for Al Capone. But the people know how he is."

"I have been a small town civil lawyer for 25 years, addressing courts and juries in behalf of the average small town business and persons. I have served 16 West Texas counties in the Senate for 10 years, acting on all important committees, and in every case casting my vote for the consuming public. I am a free lance, uninterested by any interest which would hamper me in serving the 6,000,000 people of Texas as their lawyer."

Don't fail to see those reduced values in hats and dresses at Mrs. Shockley's store.

SKATING PARTY

Miss Mary Southern Garrett was entertained with a skating party last Monday night.

The party began at 10:30 and continued until 12 o'clock. Regardless of the bumps and scratches, everyone had a very enjoyable time.

J. H. McKNIGHT PASSES ON

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon for J. H. McKnight at the home of his sister, Mrs. S. Ferrell, in the Junction community, conducted by Rev. M. L. Womack.

The following data was furnished this office.

J. H. McKnight was born in Belfast, Ireland, October 15th, 1856, and died July 24th, 1934. He was married to Miss Margaret Fritz in 1886, who preceeded him in death by several years. No children were born to this union. In 1888 he moved to Austin, Texas, where he lived several years. Since 1911 he has made his home with his sister, Mrs. Ferrell. He is also survived by one brother, Joe McKnight of Houston, Texas.

Mr. McKnight joined the Episcopal church in Belfast, Ireland. He was a lovable character, and made many friends. His remains were shipped to Austin after the funeral for interment in the City Cemetery there.

SHOWER FOR RECENT BRIDE

Monday afternoon Miss Frances Jones entertained at the home of her mother, Mrs. J. S. Jones, with a miscellaneous shower honoring Mrs. J. B. Jones who until her recent marriage was Miss Eris Gregg.

The bride's chair was very attractive in its covering of pink and white. Guests were asked to register in the Bride's Book with a wish as they entered. Interesting contests, piano music and conversation were the order of the afternoon.

Miss Annie Wilson appeared at the door with a large traveling bag, announced that she had many articles appropriate to be given at bridal showers, and asked to be permitted to show them. The honoree opened the bag and thanked the donors for the lovely gifts.

At a late hour the hostess served ice cold watermelon to the following, besides the honoree: Misses Kathryn Rose Pinner, Besse Evans, Mary Alice Mitchell, Annie Louise Watkins, Annie Wilson, Maurice Kirkpatrick, Queenie and Frances Gregg, and Mesdames J. J. Gregg, Ben Vinson, Arlie Welch, and J. S. Jones.

Drouth Relief Cattle Buying Heavy

COLLEGE STATION — From June 6th to July 13th 54,169 head of cattle were bought under the drouth relief plan in the Texas counties then in the emergency drouth area, and of this number, 40,747 were purchased for food and 13,422 were condemned and destroyed, according to a statement made by H. L. Darby of the Bureau of Animal Industry at a meeting held recently at College Station for the organization of drouth relief activities in counties recently put on the emergency drouth list. At the meeting G. W. Barnes, assistant state drouth relief director, explained that under the government plan the producer must put the cattle in the corral for inspection by the government veterinarians and appraisers; separate them into three classes — two years of age and over, from one to two years, and under one year; sign a preliminary work sheet for the county farm demonstration agent giving the approximate number of cattle to be sold, and the name of the lien holders if any.

Barnes emphasized that the signing of this preliminary work sheet puts the producer under no obligation. After this sheet has been signed, the appraiser and veterinarian come and appraise the cattle and select those to be condemned. If the producer and lien holders do not wish to accept the appraisal they may reject it. If they accept it, however, it becomes final.

After the appraisal sheet has been signed, the producer delivers his cattle at the shipping point designated by the Relief Commission and receives a receipt to be turned over to the county farm demonstration agent who sends it to Kansas City. Checks for payment return within a period of about two weeks.

The appraised value of the cattle is divided up into the purchase price and the benefit payment. The benefit payment is set at $6 for cattle two years old and over, $5 for cattle between one and two years old and $3 for cattle under one year, and this payment never varies. It is paid for cattle bought and for those condemned, and is always paid directly to the producer.

The purchase price varies from $6 to $14 for cattle two years old and over, from $5 to $10 for cattle between one and two years and from $1 to $5 for cattle under one year. The minimum price in each class is paid for condemned cattle. This purchase price is paid to the lien holder if there is one and to the producer himself in case there is not.

In the case of cattle condemned, not because of disease but for thinness, the owner is allowed to use the meat for home consumption or for home canning but is not allowed to use it for any commercial purpose or for relief canning. Hides of condemned animals are given to producers to pay for burying carcasses. They can be used at home or can be sold.

No allotment has been made for Texas nor for the individual counties in regard to the number of cattle that will be bought. How many head may eventually be bought and how long the buying will continue cannot now be determined. According to Dr. E. W. Sheets, Federal director of the drouth relief service, "It depends upon conditions as they develop, including inclination of the individual farmer to sell. We are planning relief to those hard-pressed in the drouth areas and expect to continue buying and processing as long as the situation warrants."

Up to July 12th, 831,150 cattle had been purchased from 69,733 farmers in Minnesota, North Dakota, Wisconsin, Arizona, Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Montana, Nevada, Colorado and Utah. On the farms from which purchases were made the total number of cattle was 2,334,731. None of the meat from these cattle purchases will reach commercial channels.

Miss Eulah Williams of Alice is here visiting her friends, Mrs. Jim Daniell and Miss Mildred Eubank. The three visited with friends in Junction Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

Methodist Church

There will be regular services at Methodist Church Sunday, Bro. Morgan preaching both morning and evening hours.

METHODIST W. M. S.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. H. W. Kingsbery Monday for their regular Social and Program. The program was on the Co-Operative Work in Brazil, and was unusually interesting.

At the close of a delightful afternoon, the Co-hostesses, Mrs. Tom Hays and Mrs. Kingsbery, served a delicious refreshment plate to the fifteen ladies present.

RANGER WINS IN GUN FIGHT

STEPHENVILLE, July 24.—A man who was said to have threatened to "run the new Texas rangeland out of town" lay in a hospital today, probably fatally wounded, after an encounter with Special Ranger Tom Lindsey at Lipan.

Lindsey recently was commissioned as a special ranger and detailed to wipe out a petty crime wave in Lipan, a small Hood county town. Yesterday Lindsey was told that Ross Dennis had purchased some shotgun shells and intended to run him out of town.

Last night Lindsey attended church on the edge of town and later, heard a disturbance in town. En route to investigate the disturbance, he met Dennis, who was carrying a shotgun.

When asked why he had the shotgun, Dennis told Lindsey he was "doing some soldering." Lindsey said Dennis then asked for a match and when the officer started to hand him one, suddenly shoved the shotgun against Lindsey's side.

The special ranger seized the barrel of the shotgun with one hand, whipped out his pistol with the other and shot Dennis in the chest. Lindsey said that Dennis, as he pressed the shotgun against his side said: "It's going to be one of us."

Investigators learned that Dennis, earlier in the evening, had been around the church several times "looking for Lindsey."

The special ranger's small son was with him when he clashed with Dennis, 31.
