School Board Asks Bids On Junior High

The Snyder school board, in a special meeting Friday night, called for bids on the new junior high school to be built by next school year.

The new westside junior high will be located west of El Paso Avenue and north of the West Elementary School.

Fred Buford of Dallas, architect for the schools in the building program, was authorized to put out plans and specifications to contractors after completing a few revisions made by the board Friday night.

Bids will be opened on Sept. 25. That will allow about 11 months, if the building is to be completed by the next school term.

The junior high will have some 85,000 feet of floor space, with the main portion of the building in a quadrangular shape. The building will face El Paso Avenue.

Lighting was discussed by the board in last night's meeting. Electrical power will be brought into the school from Houston Avenue at the rear of the building. Some electrical and some of the new gas lighting will be used on parking areas around the school.

Several alternates will be included in the bidding. Most are minor, but one of the alternates in bids will be for four extra classrooms.

This is the fifth phase of a six-phase building program authorized last year by voters in a bond election of more than $2¼ million. Already under construction are a new elementary school and additions and remodeling at the present junior high. Complete are an addition to the school warehouse and a sprinkler system on the high school campus. The sixth phase is an addition to the school administration building.

The board discussed a proposed closing of Thirty-sixth Street between Denison and El Paso Avenues and authorized the sending of one board member to the next city council meeting to oppose the closing. The closing was requested by the Colonial Hill Baptist Church.

Board members said they regretted the circumstance but that they felt the street should not be closed because it would add to congestion of traffic around the West Elementary School and the new junior high to be built. Some board members said they felt there are already too few street outlets around schools here. The city council has passed the proposed closing on first reading of an ordinance and will have second reading next month. The second reading is held for the purpose of allowing those opposed to voice their opinions.

The board authorized Doug Flynn, school business manager, to borrow $25,000 against the per-capita apportionment for expenses for the remainder of the fiscal year. The per-capita money is due for this school year but has not yet arrived.

The firm of Deffebach & Yorgesen here was named by the board as auditors of the schools accounts and records for the 1957-58 school year.

T. E. McCollum, superintendent, read a letter from Ford Motor Co. concerning an expense-paid trip awarded to James McCormick, who was a junior high student last year, and Joe Harwell, junior high industrial arts teacher. The trip to Dearborn, Mich., was given as a part of an outstanding achievement award to McCormick for a combination guitar - mandolin built as a school project. The board congratulated the student and teacher for the achievement.

Flynn reported to the board that he has contacted several companies concerning bids on school group health insurance and that a number have indicated interest in bidding. The board will open bids next Friday night.

SNYDER SPOTLIGHT

By WACIL McNAIR

Although the weather may indicate otherwise, summer is fading rapidly. Schools are preparing to begin their 1958-59 sessions, and Scurry County already has ginned its first cotton bale of the season.

Some 350 prospective first-graders have been getting their first taste of the classroom in the pre-school program.

* * *

The pre-school program here usually provides valuable orientation for the six-year-olds, and perhaps precludes disillusion for some of the youngsters.

Bob Dryden recalls a disillusion case involving a nephew a couple of years ago. The child embarked upon the road to a formal education, but after some three weeks he grew weary of the classroom.

"If I had known it was gonna take this long to get outta school I wouldn't have started," he advised his parents.

* * *

The county's first bale of cotton came in early, but predictions on the season's yield apparently are lagging this year. We haven't heard a single forecast on the Scurry County crop.

Doc Bynum brought in the first bale Tuesday afternoon from his farm north of Union.

The crops could use some moisture, and perhaps the local forecasters are waiting to see if the area gets rain in time to give cotton a last-minute boost.

* * *

The dry spell was reflected in city water consumption figures, which established records in recent weeks. The draw from city mains approached the 4-million-gallon mark one day, and the daily consumption figures have topped three million gallons consistently.

The Department of Public Safety has predicted that 29 persons will die in traffic mishaps in Texas over the Labor Day holiday. Labor Day usually is one of the top "killers" among the holidays.

On the same subject, Scurry County got a sobering traffic safety reminder Thursday when Department of Public Safety Officials noted that the highway death toll in the county had averaged 7.5 per year for the past decade. The DPS men were here to present an award to the city for its pedestrian safety record.

Rescuers Attracted By Cries Of Child

NANTUCKET, Mass. (AP) — A baby cried in the flaming wreckage of the ill-fated Northeast Airlines plane.

Rescuers disregarded personal safety and plunged into the wreck to trace the cries.

Minutes later, 2-year-old Cindy Lou Young, was brought out into the open. She appeared to be only slightly injured.

The child had been sleeping on the lap of her mother, Mrs. Jaqueline Young, 18, of Nantucket.

The mother was killed. But even as she died her body provided the cushion to save the baby's life.

Blow Out Cause Of Fatal Auto Crash

CHANDLER, Okla. (AP) — A blow out sent a car crashing into a bridge on the Turner Turnpike Saturday, killing a 2-week-old Texas baby.

The victim was Peter Carlile Sukovaty, who was riding in a car driven by his mother, Mrs. Arlene Sukovaty, 22, Pampa, Tex.

Mrs. Sukovaty, her 2-year-old daughter, Lisa, and her sister, Sandra Kay Calvin, 11, Chandler, were hospitalized with multiple cuts and lacerations.

VETERAN EDUCATOR HONORED

School Is Named For Stanfield

The Snyder school board has decided to honor M. E. Stanfield, longtime servant of the Snyder Independent Consolidated School District, by naming a school here for him.

The South Elementary School Friday night became officially known as the M. E. Stanfield Elementary School.

The new school is now under construction south of Forty-third Street and between Avenues U and V and is to be completed in time for opening next fall.

At a special meeting Friday night, the board instructed Fred Buford, architect for the schools in the building program, to include the name in the bronze plaque which will be placed in the new school.

Stanfield is assistant superintendent of schools here and has held that position since 1952. Prior to that time he had been superintendent of schools for five years.

The 60-year-old administrator has been in the Snyder school system 20 years, coming here in 1938 to teach American history and geometry in the high school. He was made high school principal in September, 1941, and from that position he was promoted to superintendent in 1947.

When Stanfield resigned as superintendent in 1952, he did so because of the tremendous work load of the position. Since that time, his work has been heavy as assistant superintendent.

Regular work as assistant superintendent calls for such things as directing the annual school census, directing administration of textbooks in the schools, keeping personnel records on all those employed by the schools and maintaining contact with the State Department of Education concerning teacher qualifications, maintaining a substitute teacher roster, maintaining the school system's policy on personnel for maintenance and cafeteria sections, and spending much time maintaining a study on enrollment trends for use in planning buildings for the future.

While handling those duties and others, Stanfield took on several more last spring. He was acting high school principal during the long illness of T. D. Wiman, principal. At the same time, while the school system was without a superintendent, Stanfield took over as acting superintendent.

One of the things for which Stanfield is best known in education circles is his work in consolidating many smaller school districts with the Snyder district while he was superintendent.

The Snyder district had only 35 square miles of area when Stanfield became superintendent. There were 37 teachers and a total enrollment of 942. At the time there were many students living in smaller school districts who were transferring to the Snyder district. Such transfers became so numerous that it became a burden for the Snyder district, using facilities provided by the tax money from a 35-square-mile area, to educate in that area.

To relieve that burden, Stanfield began work toward consolidation, and he was very successful. Ten districts consolidated with the Snyder district in 1948 alone to make the total area of the Snyder district 304 square miles. Other school districts consolidated later. There are now only four school districts in Scurry County.

Shortly after the mass consolidation, the oil boom hit, and while the now-larger Snyder district profited greatly by having the new lands on which hundreds of oil wells were drilled, boosting tax valuation rapidly, there was the beginning of a struggle to find enough housing for the skyrocketing enrollment which came with the oil boom.

A building program was begun immediately, and churches in Snyder gave the school use of their buildings for school sessions. In the emergency, a whole school building was hauled here from Crane for temporary use and for awhile housed the junior high.

Since that time, the struggle to keep building up with enrollment has continued.

With completion of the new elementary school and new junior high next year, Snyder's school buildings will number 10. Stanfield has seen the system grow to that size from a system all housed in one building a few years ago.

Farm Conservation Program Changed

The federal conservation reserve program for farmers has been changed considerably beginning this fall, according to Henry Burchett, county office manager for the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation agency.

Burchett announced some of the details of the changed program this weekend after attending a district ASC meeting held Friday in Colorado City. Also attending the meeting from here were members of the county ASC committe, Judd McGaha, chairman, Charlie Eastman, vice-chairman, and Roy Coston, member. There also were Pat James, clerk in the ASC office; Guy Moore, work unit conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service; and Oscar Fowler, county agent.

The changed program will affect only those just now coming into the program. Those already in the program will have the same payment rates and same agreements.

Under the new program, farmers will bid for participation in the conservation reserve.

To participate, a farmer must request a rate to be set for his farm. This request must be made by Sept. 26. By Oct. 17, he must apply for a contract. At that time he will make an offer of what he will take for rental on his acreage in the program. When he makes his bid, he will know the maximum the county committee can pay.

Farmers throughout the state will compete in the program, and the state ASC committee will take low bidders into the program in order until all the available funds are committed. The new program will not be first-come, first-served, but all farmers will be on an equal basis if they meet the deadlines.

The new contracts will be for three, five, or 10 years. Soil bank bases will be figured on all farms except those in which all the farmer's eligible land is put into the CR program. He will be allowed 110 per cent of his competitive rating in payment but must make a five-year contract.

Nothing will be binding on the farmer until the contract is signed. That will be done possibly as late as next January. He can change his bid any time before Oct. 17. There will be no chance for favoritism. Once the bid is made, a priority number is assigned, and choice of those in the program will be on a mathematical basis.

Scurry County already has 263 farmers participating in the CR program with about 21,000 acres.

There will be no acreage reserve program for 1958, Burchett said.

Countdown Starts For Moon Rocket Attempt

Norway Set To Offer New Resolution

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —Norway's U. N. delegate said Saturday a new resolution on the Middle East will be introduced formally in the General Assembly Monday with 8 or 10 sponsors.

The resolution would counter a Soviet proposal, already before the Assembly's emergency session, which calls for the United States and Britain to withdraw their troops from Lebanon and Jordan.

Norwegian Dep. Foreign Minister Hans Engen told reporters the new resolution will be put before the 81-nation Assembly Monday.

Engen, chief author of the resolution, declined to list the other sponsoring countries or to discuss the contents. But informed sources said the working paper for the resolution would ask Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to make arrangements that would ensure the territorial integrity and political independence of Lebanon and Jordan and so make possible withdrawal of the British-U. S. troops.

The resolution also was reported to call on Hammarskjold to continue pending studies for Mideastern economic development and a standby U. N. police force.

The United States and Britain were supporting the Norwegian plan but were not expected to sponsor it. U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge said the main problem in drafting it was "saying something that will get a nice, big vote."

House Farm Bill Okayed By Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Yielding to pressure for new farm legislation before Congress adjourns, the Senate reversed itself Saturday and agreed to end an eleventh-hour deadlock over a new House farm bill.

By voice vote, the Senate went along with a recommendation of its Agriculture Committee that it vote next week, possibly Monday, on the controversial House measure. Senate passage would sent it to the White House.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La), Agriculture Committee chairman, indicated belief the Senate will approve the bill, passed by the House earlier this week under strong pressure from cotton and rice interests.

The Senate reversal ended a new stalemate reached Friday when the House flatly rejected Senate demands for compromise talks. The House took that stand after Ellender's committee voted against the bill and called for Senate-House talks to shape it more in line with a Senate farm measure endorsed by Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

Benson, however, indicated he would accept the House version—thus assuring its approval by President Eisenhower if the Senate passes it.

Both the House and Senate bills contain provisions to prevent sharp acreage cuts in cotton and rice planting due to go into effect next year unless Congress passes a new farm program.

LOCAL SCHOOLS BEGIN REGISTRATION TUESDAY

Tuesday and Wednesday will be registration days in the Snyder schools.

Most of the students in the schools will be asked to register, although there will be a few who need not report for registration. Students who will be in the junior high and who were in the Snyder schools last year were pre-registered last spring and need not register. Pre-school students who registered this month will not have to register.

All others have been asked to report for registration, including junior high students new to the system and first graders not in pre-school.

A special request has been made of all high school students by T. D. Wiman, Jr., high school principal. They have been asked to wear clothing in which their photographs can be made, since individual yearbook photos will be taken during registration.

The registration schedule:

Elementary students — Register at East, West, Central, North, Northeast, or Lincoln schools from 8:30 a.m. to noon or 1 to 3:30 p.m. Tuesday or Wednesday.

Junior high students new to Snyder — Register at junior high gym from 8:30 a.m. to noon or 1 to 3:30 p.m. on Tuesday or Wednesday.

Seniors — Tuesday from 8:30 a.m. to noon.
Juniors — Tuesday from 1:15 to 4 p.m.
Sophomores — Wednesday from 8:30 a.m. to noon.
Freshmen —Wednesday from 1:15 to 4 p.m.

Charles H. Cooper Killed In Accident

Charles Henry Cooper Jr., 48, was killed instantly late Saturday when a tractor he was driving tumbled down an embankment on a ranch 19 miles northeast of Snyder.

Mr. Cooper, a native of Snyder, was an oil broker here.

W. C. Davidson, justice of the peace who was called to the scene in his capacity as coroner, said the tractor rolled into a small canyon after "rearing up" while climbing a steep embankment.

Mr. Cooper was driving the tractor, and his son-in-law, Sidney Wallace Johnson, was riding on the tractor's crossbar. Johnson was thrown clear of the tractor when it rolled down the embankment.

Mr. Cooper and his son-in-law were en route to a stock tank on the Weldon Johnson Ranch, traveling over terrain too rough for an automobile, when the mishap occurred, Judge Davidson said.

Judge Davidson, who returned a coroner's verdict of accidental death, said that Mr. Cooper apparently applied the brakes on the tractor when it "reared up" on the embankment.

Sheriff Earl Abercrombie, who also went to the scene, said it appeared that the right brake on the tractor caught, throwing the machine out of control.

The mishap occurred about four miles from the ranch house, and Johnson walked about a mile and a half to an oil rig on the Fuller ranch, where crewmen radioed for help.

Mr. Cooper is survived by his mother, Mrs. J. A. Eubank; his wife, Mrs. Nina Lee Cooper; a daughter, Mrs. Sidney W. Johnson, and a son, Trey Cooper. He was a member of the First Christian Church.

Funeral arrangements were pending Saturday night at the Bolger Funeral Home.

Bing Crosby Takes His Family Home

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The Crosby family left Queen of the Angels Hospital Saturday amid the flash of photographers' lights.

Harry Lillis Crosby III, 8 days old and now weighing 7 pounds, 13 ounces, was taken to the Crosby's Holmby Hills home by papa Bing and mama Kathy Grant Crosby. Bing nicknamed his son "Tex."

A reporter asked how many more children they would like and Mrs. Crosby said: "As many as God will give us." She said she plans to resume her acting career soon.

Bronchoscope Developer Is Dead At 92

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dr. Chevalier Jackson, renowned deleloper of the bronchoscope for ridding the human insides of alien matter, died Saturday. He was 92. Cause of death was not given.

Dr. Jackson, who since his withdrawal from active practice had been living on a farm in neighboring Montgomery County, was admitted to Temple University Hospital seven months ago.

He founded Temple's bronchoscopic clinic which bears his name and is now headed by his son, Dr. Chevalier L. Jackson. The son, sole survivor, was summoned home from a Brazilian leeture tour.

Firing Is Expected At Dawn Today

By JACK KING

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The preliminary countdown for launching of the first United States moon rocket began Saturday, indicating that the spectacular shot will be attempted early Sunday.

Douglas Aircraft Co. technicians reported to the blockhouse late in the afternoon to start the lengthy checkout that leads up to the crucial zero hour.

The weather station at Patrick Air Force Base forecast partly cloudy conditions Sunday. Hurricane Cleo was too far out to sea to have any effect on the firing, officials said.

There still was no official announcement on when the launching—the most ambitious venture in man's bid to conquer space — was due. But observers expected the try to be made shortly after dawn.

The moon probe vehicle, a mighty three-stage Thor-Able rocket, still was under wraps in its huge red and white service tower.

Its immense size, dominating the cape skyline, left little doubt that this was the missile that the Air Force hopes will carry a satellite to an orbit around the moon.

The hopes of a complete success on the first try were very dim however, because of the complex problem in celestial mechanics involved.

The missile experts figure it is a 10-1 chance that the satellite will plop into a planned orbit some 10,000 to 50,000 miles from the moon. They probably will be quite satisfied if the missile's three stages perform satisfactorily and nothing more.

Activity around the Thor-Able gantry service tower was stepped up during the day.

Cocoa Beach, the missile town adjacent to the sprawling Air Force test area, also was bustling as thousands of tourists poured in. "No vacancy" signs were everywhere.

If the initial blastoff toward space is successful, the world will have to wait 2½ days for an announcement on the results. The rocket must reach unprecedented speeds of 25,000 m.p.h. to escape the earth's gravity pull.

The Pentagon has announced that the optimum days to shoot the moon this month are Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. This is because of the moon's close proximity to earth—about 221,000 miles.

On each day, the Air Force will be limited further by a bracket of minutes in which to launch the missile.

CAA Probes Crash Which Killed 23

NANTUCKET, Mass. (AP) — Civil Aeronautics Board officers began an investigation Saturday of New England's worst airplane disaster in which 23 persons — mostly New Yorkers vacation-bound—lost their lives in a Northeast airliner crash.

Twenty-two were killed outright, and another man, Don Breswick of New York City, died later of injuries in Massachusetts General Hospital. Eleven persons were hurt, some burned seriously.

The twin-engine Convair crashed in fog shortly before Friday midnight after cutting through treetops about 300 yards from this summer resort's airfield.

The dead included: Gordon Dean, 52, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission; Harvey Schwamm, 53, prominent Wall Street banker and chairman of the American Trust Co.; and John S. Pearson of Manhattan, an executive of the American International Underwriters Corp., an insurance firm.

Seven of the more seriously burned were flown to Boston for treatment at Massachusetts General Hospital. Five others are in Nantucket Cottage Hospital.

Airport officials said the plane—held back in New York because of heavy air traffic—was coming in for landing about 11:30 p.m., using instruments because of a heavy fog that had sprung up suddenly.

Witnesses said the plane came in low and ploughed into small pines and scrubs. When it hit the ground it disintegrated.

Greenlease Ransom Mystery Near Solution, Probers Say

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate rackets probers said Saturday an elusive trail of evidence stops just short of solving the mystery of the missing $300,000 Greenlease kidnap ransom money.

The Special Senate Investigating Committee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark) is collaborating with the FBI in efforts to close the gap, described as narrow but baffling.

McClellan and Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, said they plan to explore the story as far as they can in public hearings over the coming weeks.

They hinted that fresh evidence about the ransom has turned up in their investigations of gangland figures they accuse of conniving in labor rackets with James R. Hoffa, international president of the Teamsters Union.

Hoffa's name has not figured in the ransom mystery probe.

"There is a gap we have been unable to close," McClellan told a reporter in discussing the ransom phase. He indicated it is not wide, but he declined to go further.

Kennedy told newsmen in a separate interview it may be impossible to bring out in the public hearings all that the committee has learned.

"There are two witnesses from which we have received information," Kennedy said cryptically. "One we cannot use. One, there is a question whether we can."

Kennedy refused to say whether this is because the secret informants refuse to testify publicly in fear of possible gangland vengeance. Nor would he say whether either is a police source who must be kept under wraps in hope of getting the clincher evidence.

The mystery of what happened to the money has kept the FBI on a ceaseless investigation since October 1953. The parents of little Bobby Greenlease of Kansas City paid $600,000 ransom to kidnapers at that time, unaware the 6-year-old boy already had been slain.

Carl Austin Hall and his girl friend, Bonnie Brown Heady, were executed in the Missouri gas chamber for the kidnap-murder, but only half of the ransom money was recovered.

Kennedy announced he will call back to the witness stand this week Gus Zapas, an Indianapolis Teamsters Union official and former convict, who swore Friday he never had discussed in 1953 a scheme for getting rid of what Kennedy termed "hot money — stolen money, kidnap money."

OIL ROUNDUP

Oil Industry Gets Major Senate Win

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP)—Oil legislation has made little progress in Congress this year but the Senate this week handed the industry a major victory.

The Senate twice defeated efforts to reduce the 27½ per cent depletion tax allowance that was designed 32 years ago to offset the risks and heavy investments involved in the search for new oil reserves.

While failing to obtain the national attention gained by such issues as oil imports and natural gas price controls, the congressional attacks on the depletion allowance have been a matter of major concern to oil operators.

The industry itself was divided on imports and gas proposals studied by Congress this year but the depletion allowance always has drawn a united front.

Tuesday's votes in the Senate were the first roll call votes on proposed reductions since 1951, although attacks have developed practically every year since the allowable became the law in its present form in 1926.

This week's votes, however, may be a warning of stronger future efforts for reducing the allowance.

A proposal by Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis) for a cut to 15 per cent on a graduated scale was rejected, 31-58. A 26-63 vote killed a suggestion by Sen. John Williams (R-Del) that the allowance be cut to a flat 15 per cent.

Proposed reductions in 1951 drew support from only nine senators.

Two New Strawn Wells Near Hermleigh

Sunray Mid-Continent Oil Co. has potentialed two Strawn wells one mile west of Hermleigh in Scurry County.

No. 1 Lee, Section 52, Block 3, H & TC Survey, flowed 116 barrels of 34.3 gravity oil in 24 hours, plus 3.4 barrels of water. Flow was through an 18-64-inch choke and from perforations at 6,888-6,904 feet. Gas-oil ratio was 792-1.

No. 1 Smith, also in Section 152, made 95 barrels of 37.2 gravity oil on a 24-hour swabbing potential. It also produced 8.3 barrels of water. Production was through perforations at 6,864-7,035 feet.

Sinclair Oil and Gas Co. No. 2-B Waddell, project in the new Dunigan Ellenburger Field 10 miles southwest of Justiceburg, was preparing to test in the Strawn.

Operator acidized Ellenburger perforations at 8,641-53 feet with 500 gallons, then swabbed seven and one-half barrels of new oil for an unreported time. Testing now will be made through Strawn perforations at 8,456,466 feet.

Locations is in Section 20, Block 30, T-6N, T&P Survey.

Fusselman Pay Assured In Borden

A new pay for Borden County, the Fusselman, has virtually been assured with the flowing of oil at the rate of 35 barrels per hour at Cheyenne Oil Co. No. 1 Clayton & Johnson, in 40-32-4n-T&P, Ellenburger wildcat located 10 miles north of Vealmoor and 2¾ miles east of the Good (Canyon) field.

Tool was open three hours and 15 minutes on the test taken between 9,696-722 feet. Gas surfaced in 5 minutes and oil in one hour and 45 minutes, the project then flowed at the rate of 35 barrels per hour during the last 55 minutes of the test. Reversed out was 9,600 feet of oil, no water.

Flowing pressure was 1,220-2740 pounds; two-hour shut-in pressure 3,800 pounds.

The project was drilling ahead on a 10,100-foot contract.

Three Liquor Cases Here Are Combined

Three bootleg cases were filed as one in county court here yesterday for enhancement against Luther (Crip) Tucker, 46-year-old Snyder man.

The charge was filed after a Friday night raid made by the sheriff's department.

Conviction on enhancement carries a penalty of up to four years in jail or up to $4,000 fine or both.

The three cases combined into the one were a previous case of illegal sale of intoxicants and two cases of illegal possession. The previous case was dismissed for refiling as a part of the enhancement case.

Enhancement punishment cases are filed against those who are possible habituals and provide for punishment up to four times the usual maximum.

Tucker has been convicted several times on bootleg cases here.

County Judge Edgar Taylor set bond for Tucker at $3,000.

Sheriff Earl Abercrombie and his deputies who conducted the Friday night raid on the Tucker residence confiscated more than 100 quarts of beer, about a dozen quarts of wine, several cans of beer and several bottles of whiskey.

Preacher's Daughter Dies Of Bullet Wound

FAYETTE, Mo. (AP) — The sheriff and his friend the preacher, with their wives, watched a televised football game Friday night after returning from a church outing.

In an adjacent room at the county jail, Sheriff Delgar Wells' 10-year-old daughter, Susie, decided to show her daddy's pistol to the Rev. Paul D. Walker's 11-year-old daughter Sue Ann. The gun discharged.

Sue Ann, struck in the shoulder, died in a hospital from a severed artery.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —A celebrated villain of the screen's old silent serial, "The Perils of Pauline," died Friday night at 88.

Paul Panzer had been ill for a month. He became interested in the infant film industry in 1903 when he worked as a scene painter and set builder in a New York City studio.

Panzer did all his own stunt work in "The Perils of Pauline," and appeared in hundreds of other silent movie roles. He was one of the screen's most hissed villains.

Mid-Summer Heat Still Grips State

By The Associated Press

Texas baked again Saturday in mid-summer heat radiating from generally cloudy skies.

The death in Dallas Friday of Theodore Roosevelt Jones, 59, was marked as a heat stroke. The temperature there had soared to 100 for the third day in a row.

Throughout the state the mercury reached toward the 100 mark or higher. No where was rain reported.

The forecast was for partly cloudy weather through Sunday with widely scattered thundershowers, mostly in the afternoon and evening. Little change in temperatures was predicted.

The Industry-operated Tree Farm program is now active in 46 states.

Melton has had about 10 years experience in appliance sale and service in Snyder, and has had considerable experience in furniture sales.

The Lewis brothers are both experienced in the furniture field.

The new store is located in the former location of Henry's Cafe, just west of Denson Gulf Service.

In the front display room the firm will stock a wide variety of modern living and bedroom furniture, in one of their rear display rooms dinette suites and dining room furniture will be shown, and in another will be the display of Gibson refrigerators and food freezers, Western Holley ranges, and Speed Queen washers and dryers.

Service and installation will be offered on all appliances sold by the firm, and the service department will also offer service on most all types of washing machines, dryers, refrigerators and other appliances.

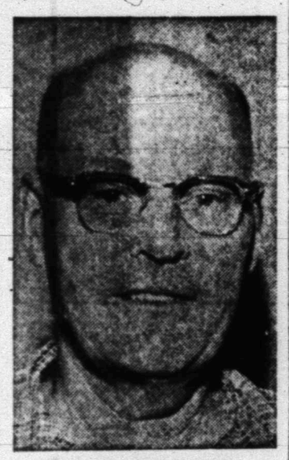

During its formal opening everyone is invited to stop by the new store and look over the many items of furniture.

Members of the firm also invite everyone to sign the guest register cards for a drawing for a Speed Queen washer or dryer, which ever the winner chooses.

"Guests may register once each day, and no purchase or other obligation is necessary in any way," the owners said.

"More than 1,000 persons have already signed the register cards," they added.

Prompt delivery service on all furniture sold by the firm, and all appliance work is guaranteed by the firm.

2 Refugees Battle With Red Legation

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

BERN, Switzerland (AP) —Two young Hungarian refugees fought a half-hour gun battle in Communist Hungary's Legation Saturday. Police called it a desperate attempt to seize legation documents.

One of the men, Sander Nagy, 22, a laborer, was wounded critically by members of the legation staff.

He was not expected to live.

The other, a plumber's apprentice Endre Papp, 21, was captured without a fight by steel-helmeted Swiss police who had entered the legation armed with tear gas and submachineguns. Both refugees fled to Switzerland after the Soviet army had crushed the anti-Russian revolt in Hungary in 1956.

Five other Hungarian refugees were arrested outside the legation, but questioning has not clarified whether they were working with the intruders.

Police Commissioner Kurt Kessi, who led the police foray into the building, said the five men had told bystanders "something more will happen in a moment." But Papp denied he and Nagy had any accomplices.

It was the second such incident involving a Communist diplomatic mission in Bern. Four Romanian exiles seized the Romanian Legation Feb. 14, 1955, and held it two days against a police siege. They surrendered to police and were sentenced to varying prison terms for the slaying of the legation chauffeur.

Kessi told a news conference the two Hungarians had come to Switzerland as refugees after the 1956 uprising and plotted the attack on the model of the Romanian action. He said they had failed to seize legation documents because of the immediate armed intervention of the legation staff.

"It is not certain who fired the first shots or exactly how many shots were fired," Kessi said. "In any case, the legation officials are completely covered by their diplomatic immunity."

Nagy was struck twice, Kessi said. One bullet lodged in his spine and paralyzed him. The other entered his head behind the ear and emerged above the eyes.

Vote Set On Ex-President Pension Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Compromise legislation to provide $25,000 a year pensions and other benefits for former U.S. presidents comes up in Congress next week for final action.

Senate and House conferees came to terms on the bill Friday, sending it back to both houses for expected approval.

In addition to pensions, the bill would provide former presidents with free mailing privileges, free office space, and $50,000 a year for clerical help.

Both branches had accepted pension provisions of the bill, but the House balked at providing the other benefits to help defray expenses of ex-presidents.

The compromise measure would allow only about half as much for clerical help as was proposed in the original Senate bill.

The pension provisions also would authorize $10,000 a year for widows of ex-presidents, but they would have to waive any other pensions they might be drawing from the government.

The only living ex-presidents are Democrat Harry S. Truman and Republican Herbert Hoover. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson are the only widows. Mrs. Roosevelt has been quoted as saying she won't accept the pension.

Johnson Supports Yarborough Measure

Fund Barred To Surrender Plan Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surrender? Never, says the U.S. Senate. And furthermore there'll be no planning for one—at least not at government expense, the senators said.

The senate took that firm stand Friday in voting 88-2 to bar the use of government funds to finance any kind of study into the possibility of the United States running up a white flag in a nuclear war.

The vote climaxed almost two days of sometimes bitter debate touched off by reports the Pentagon was preparing a surrender study.

But the Pentagon indicated the only such study it knew of was one prepared for the Rand Corp., a non-profit research group that does work for the Air Force.

A book entitled "Strategic Surrender," prepared for Rand, was published recently by the Stanford University Press. But Rand spokesmen said their study didn't deal with the subject of a U.S. surrender.

President Eisenhower called the whole thing nonsense and said no government funds had been spent or ever would be on a surrender study.

The Senate acted to bar use of federal funds for such a study by attaching a rider to an appropriation bill that now goes back to the House for approval.

Insurance Premium Higher Than Car Cost

GASTONIA, N. C. (AP)—Homer Cabe bought a used car, in running condition, for $30.

Orientation Program For Teachers Set

An orientation program for professional personnel of the Snyder schools has been planned for Aug. 26-29, according to Pat Falls, director of instruction.

The program is scheduled for a number of purposes, including giving teachers opportunity to become acquainted socially and professionally, to acquaint new teachers with special services of the school system, to interpret to all teachers the philosophy, program, organization, and routine of the Snyder schools, and to provide teachers in different subject areas and grade levels opportunity to plan cooperatively the subject content in their areas.

Visiting personnel who will help with the program will include Dr. D. M. Wiggins, executive vice-president of the Citizens National Bank of Lubbock and former Texas Tech president, and Mrs. Lorane Mitchell, consultant for Ginn & Co., Dallas.

The first day of the program will be for new personnel only, opening at 8:30 a.m. and including the day's various program features in general session.

On the next day, all professional personnel will gather and will hold two general sessions, beginning with a breakfast given for them by the school board. That will be followed by group meetings in the afternoon.

On the third day there will be meetings by schools, as well as some grade level meetings.

The fourth day will be made up of several general meetings by levels.

The Top Amendment

The Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce is stepping up its campaign in behalf of Amendment No. 1, the first on the list of proposed changes in the Texas Constitution which will be presented to voters next November.

Amendment No. 1 would provide annual sessions of the Texas Legislature, plus an annual salary for legislators, and, the Jaycees and other proponents of the measure present a logical case.

Texas government is big business. There are those who maintain, and with justification, that it is too big. Nevertheless it is not likely to shrink in the future for the simple reason that Texas is growing. Even if no new agencies are created during the remainder of the century the state government will expand, because the state itself is expanding in all areas.

Theoretically, the legislature is supposed to be the voice of the people in the state government. That is hardly true today, because the "voice" remains silent every other year under our present system. This condition may well have been a factor in some of the state's recent problems, such as the veteran's land and insurance scandals. The legislature usually has its hands full taking care of urgent business during its biennial sessions, without delving into areas where it appears on the surface that operations are proceeding smoothly. Often it is too late to correct a situation without injury by the time outward symptoms of malfunction appear.

As for salaries of legislators, Jaycees cite a report by the Texas Legislative Council which concludes that the composite Texas legislator loses at least $4,232 for every two years he holds office. Logically, it may be assumed that a legislator has two choices: He may

Eighth, Biggest A-Sub Is Ready

WASHINGTON (AP) — The world's largest known submarine — a giant of almost 6,000 tons, powered with two atomic engines — will go into the water next Tuesday.

The U.S. Navy's Triton will be the eighth nuclear submarine launched. It will become part of a fleet of 33 atomic powered subs already built, in the process of building or authorized for construction.

The Triton is double the tonnage of the first A-submarine, the famed Nautilus.

And she is the most expensive submarine to date — an estimated 109 million dollars.

The basic reason for her size is her mission: To be a world-roaming radar station watching for enemy aircraft thousands of miles from American shores.

She will be the first submarine to have three decks, like a surface ship, to accommodate a maze of radar equipment, a crew of almost 50, Biggest of any ever carried) and the elaborate operating controls, power units and navigation equipment needed.

Over-all length of the Triton is 447 feet; the beam is 37 feet. Her huge size means she will sit deeper in the water, when surfaced, than any previous submarine.

This is a factor with which the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamcis Corp. at Groton, Conn., had to reckon in the Triton's building. To permit the boat's launching, the company has dredged out a deep channel from its building ways into the center of the Thames River.

The builders say the great size presented actually has facilitated construction. The cave-like hull has made it easier to install piping and machinery.

And the Triton apparently is being built in about the time used for most of the previous, smaller nuclear submarines. Her keel was laid May 5, 1956; she is expected to be commisioned early next year.

The Triton is large, but others of about the same size already are being built — the fleet ballistic submarines for firing the 1,500-mile, intermediate range Polaris missile.

Tonnage figures used for submarines represent the weight of water displaced when the submarines are surfaced. Fully submerged, with fuel and armament aboard, the tonnage may be increased by 20 or 30 per cent.

The trend in designing nuclear submarines—until the Triton was designed — had been toward a "true submarine," one that operated almost entirely deeply submerged.

The function of the Triton required that she be different. As a radar picket vessel, to watch for enemy aircraft, the Triton will spend much of her operating time on or just under the surface.

While the Triton will serve as a distant early warning station, an equally important mission will be to provide aircraft warning for surface ships of the fleet. For this reason, high surface speed is being built into her, with a slower submerged speed. This is contrary to the performance of the fast attack nuclear submarines, which can steam faster when submerged than when surfaced. The Triton must be able to keep up with carrier task forces, on the surface.

This explains the large, seakeeping hull and the two atomic power plants, which will give her twice the shaft horsepower of single reactor submarines. Additionally, of course, this also means that if one power plant fails the other may be used to get into port. The Triton will have two separate reactor compartments and two engine rooms.

The Swedish "Sven Salen" is the largest diesel-driven taker in the world. She measures 700 feet overall.

France Given Hope For Own Oil Supplies

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

HASSI MESSAOUD, Algeria (AP)—A daring oil venture into the heart of the sun-scorched Sahara has given France new hope of becoming independent of the turbulent Middle East, her present major fuel supplier.

Two years ago, a dilapidated, sand-covered water well drilled by 19th century French explorers marked this spot, some 60 miles south of the oasis of Ouargla in the eastern Sahara.

Today, 11 completed oil wells ring an area of about 120 square miles. Ten humming derricks tower over the sand and the flame of burning gas from the producing wells blazes against the cloudless sky.

In air-conditioned huts, 3,000 men live and work to realize France's dream of becoming an oil empire.

Foreign oil experts are wondering, however, whether economic factors have not been overshadowed by French optimism, national pride and political considerations.

So far, the French have shrugged off any cautious appraisal of the Sahara oil possibilities and its exploitation. They have disregarded the explosive political situation in the rebellion-torn country. Money continues to pour into the desert oil installations — at a cost 10 times more than a comparable field in the United States.

"All investments will be returned by 1963," claim young French engineers.

They point proudly to the progress of the last two years of hard work under extremely difficult conditions.

According to the present and constantly changing French estimates, the Hassi Messaoun field (so far only about 120 square miles) contains some 300 to 400 million tons of recoverable oil. France's annual fuel needs are about 30 million tons.

Hassi Messaoun is not the only Sahara region where oil has been struck. Already drilling crews have moved into other areas of the giant desert — the Edjeleh-Zarzaitine field some 200 miles southeast of here and the area south of Colomb Bechar in the western Sahara.

The Hassi Messaoud oil exploitation has been undertaken by two French firms — SNREPAL and CFPA. Both are heavily financed by the government and employ an army of specialized contracting firms.

Both firms are plagued by three major problems: lack of trained personnel, the high cost of work in desert conditions, and continuing lack of full-fledged facilities to transport the precious crude oil.

To remedy the personnel problem, a number of foreign oil workers have been recruited — including some Americans — but all below the engineer level. The French decidedly prefer to run their own show, disregarding the fact that until recently France had virtually no oil industry and men graduated from the new oil academy have had little opportunity to acquire experience.

The problem of the high cost has been written off by a simple and optimistic phrase, "It will all pay off."

The two oil companies claim that by 1963, the Hassi Messaoud site alone will supply some 15 million tons of oil a year—or half France's needs. They claim that this oil will be much cheaper than the Middle Eastern oil because it will have to travel only about 1,000 miles to Marseille—instead of the 4,896-mile route traveled by the Abadan crude.

Another factor, they say, is that the Hassi Messaoud oil will be produced and sold in the franc zone.

Foreign experts point out, however, that if the drilling continues at the present pace of about 10 new wells a year, by 1963 the site will be capable of producing only about 12 million tons a year, provided an average well is capable of producing some 300,000 tons.

Then, there is the problem of transportation. So far the Hassi Messaoud crude is shipped by a makeshift six-inch pipeline to the oasis of Touggourt, some 150 miles north. This pipeline is capable of transporting only about 1,500 tons a day—or a fraction of the present production capabilities.

From Touggourt to the seaport of Philippeville, the crude is transported by train through the northern part of the desert and the rebel - infested Aures Mountains.

Despite strong military security measures—an armored car preceding the oil train, an air cover and a network of military posts along the route—the rebels periodically succeed in blowing up those trains.

But the railroad and the army continue to push the token shipments to the sea and to France. At present the Hassi Messaoud site ships to France about half a million tons of crude a year. No one has dared to estimate the cost of this oil—including the enormous security effort.

The hope of France's Sahara oil industry lies in the planned construction of a 24-inch pipeline straight from Hassi Messaoud to the port of Bougie. The construction is schedule to start this fall.

Once this pipeline is built—and it should be finished by the end of 1959 the Hassi Messaou field will be able to produce full blast. The pipeline's capacity is 12 to 15 million tons a year—or the estimated Hassi Messaou production by 1963.

Magnolia Sets Radio System

DALLAS (AP)—The Magnolia Pipe Line Co. said Saturday that by early January it will have in operation a 267-mile microwave radio system between Beaumont and Dallas.

The 11-tower network cost about $400,000. It will handle by remote control pumping stations at Grapeland, Groveton and Bragg on the company's 20-inch crude oil line between Corsicana and Beaumont.

The microwave system employes high frequency radio waves beamed from one relay station to another. It will provide static-free voice communication between Dallas and the huge Magnolia refinery at Beaumont.

Nike Units Bring New Type Soldier

By JOE BENHAM
Written for The Associated Press

A new brand of soldier and a new type of Army post will come to Texas when Nike missile units begin guarding key cities against surprise air attacks.

The Army air Defense Command has announced that Nike units will be emplaced around the Dallas-Fort Worth, Austin, Amarillo, Wichita Falls and Abilene areas, and other key areas in the site are known to be under consideration for Nike batteries.

These Nike sites are as different from the traditional sprawling installations, and the men who man them are as different from Sad- Sack and Willie and Joe of World War II fame, as the guided missile is from the bow and arrow.

The missile sites are small, as military installations go, requiring less than 100 acres in most cases.

The sites are divided into two, sometimes three, areas—a 10-acre spot for the radar and control equipment, a slightly larger area for the housing and headquarters of the unit personnel, and 25 to 50 acres for the concrete bunkers, elevators and other equipment used to store, fuel and launch the sleek white Nike missiles.

Each battery is a self-contained unit, able to feed and house its men, maintain its equipment and go into action independently of other units, if necessary.

The Army takes a special pride in the fact that Nike sites are always designed and built in such a way that they may be expanded and revised as chances occur in the Nike system without great cost to the taxpayers.

The Army also takes considerable pride in the men who man the sites—missilemen, as the Army calls them—and their constant readiness to meet any threat of air attack.

Stock Market Snaps String Of Advances

By WALTER BUSSEWITZ
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market reversed its course this week, snapping a string of seven weekly advances.

Traders took a breather much of the week and prices were about a standoff until Friday's sharp decline.

Two things stood out above the realm of statistics: turnover slackened greatly from the recent hectic pace, while demand for low priced stocks assumed new proportions.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped $2.40 during the week to $183.40. The average touched a 1958 high of $186.50 Monday, declined $1.50 on Tuesday, edged back slightly the next two days, then plunged $2.10 on Friday.

The week's volume totaled 14,621,501 shares for a daily average of 2,924,300 shares. This was the first week in a month that the average went under three million shares.

Brokers said many investors were becoming skittish as a result of the trend toward tighter money and the failure of stocks to break through major barriers in the averages.

Interest rates for several types of short-term loans went up during the week, followed by a hike in the discount rate by the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco late Thursday.

Thus, the Federal Reserve tightened the screws on credit for the second consecutive week. The previous step came when the board lifted stock margins from 50 to 70 per cent. This meant a man who bought stocks on credit could borrow only 30 per cent instead of half.

The boost in the discount rate from 1¾ to 2 per cent was regarded as a signal that the Federal Reserve was more concerned about the dangers of inflation than the recession.

Staff College Commended

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP)—Maj. Gen. James E. Rudder, vice president of Texas A&M and a World War II Ranger officer, commended the Ft. Leavenworth Command and General Staff College Saturday and 200 graduates of a reserve officers training course.

He stressed flexibility of mind as one of the main requisites of the modern army commander.

Any battlefield today will need that type of flexibility of mind where staff officers and commanders will be able to think on their feet and adapt themselves to any situation which arises," he said.

The non-resident course closely parallels the instruction given regular army officers here.

Picking New Panel Touchy For Demos

AUSTIN (AP) — Democratic peace or war at the Sept. 9 state convention apparently will hinge on the touchy point of who will pick the next state executive committee.

All the biggest wheels in the Texas party set-up, including House Speaker Sam Rayburn from Washington, rolled into the convention picture this week, emphasizing the significance of the session.

From liberal and many middle-of-the-road Democrats came swelling demands that the convention literally follow the law and not put anyone on the executive committee who has not been nominated by his or her senatorial district caucus.

Gov. Price Daniel has not made an unequivocal statement on the question. He said he hoped no district caucus would propose a committee member who would try to sabotage any party nominee, the convention platform, or the "duly elected officers of the party."

Rayburn in Washington said he believed each senatorial district should be allowed to name its two representatives on the state Democratic executive committee "if they will pledge themselves to support the Democratic nominees—state and nation."

Mrs. R. D. Randolph of the DOT said she agreed with Rayburn, and that the caucus nominees for executive committee should not be screened by anyone. Mrs. Randolph is chairman of the Democrats of Texas, which Daniel often refers to as a splinter group seeking to usurp the party's name and function in Texas. She is also national committeewoman from Texas.

The makeup of the executive committee is important to Rayburn and Sens. Lyndon Johnson and Ralph Yarborough because it is the state arm of the party that will set up machinery for the May presidential convention in Texas.

The state senators and congressmen are always more active in that convention than in any other, because of its bearing on national politics. It names the presidential electors and the delegates to the national Democratic convention.

Rayburn and Johnson in the past have worked close together to bring Texas factions into some form of harmony to present an undivided front at national conventions. Their prestige in national politics demands it.

Therefore Rayburn's statement this week that he may attend the Sept. 9 convention in the interest of harmony takes on added significance. Mrs. Randolph, Daniel, National Committeeman Byron Skelton of Temple, and Yarborough all commended the Rayburn statement.

"But Can It Be Found In The Bible?"

People often indignantly demand that Catholics prove their teaching from the Bible.

The Bible is their "rule of faith" ...and they argue that every man has the right and ability to discover for himself, by his interpretation of the Bible, what he must believe and do in order to be saved.

We do not question the sincerity of these people and we applaud all who strive earnestly to understand and observe the Scriptures. But—are they right in calling the Bible, privately interpreted, the sole source of Christian teaching?

"Hold the teachings that you have learned," wrote St. Paul, "whether by word or by letter of ours" (2 Thess. 2:15). He refers to Christian teachings, some oral, some written...and demands that all be received.

Christianity did not begin with the Bible. It began with the coming of Christ. The Lord instructed His Apostles to "go forth...teach all nations"—and to insure that His truths would always be maintained, Christ established His Church, "...the pillar and mainstay of the truth" (1 Timothy 3:15).

The last part of the Bible... written by St. John...was not completed until 60 years after the Crucifixion of Christ. There was no Bible in anything resembling its present form until nearly 400 years after Jesus had died on the Cross. And the widespread distribution of the Bible as we know it today was impossible until the invention of printing, some 1400 years after the Savior's death.

By what "rule of faith" did the millions of Christians live during those 1500 years?

The answer is, of course, that the teaching of the Church was the rule of faith for the Christian world. And St. Paul reminds us that Christianity consists of "one Lord, one Faith, one Baptism" (Eph. 4:5). "God is a God of peace, not of disorder," St. Paul said further (1 Cor. 14:33).

Yet today we have nearly 300 different religious denominations all calling themselves Christian ...all professing the Bible as their rule of faith...and all differing to some extent or another in their understanding of what the Bible means. Could Christ have left a "rule of faith" that would permit such confusion? Would He have left the interpretation of His Word to the fallible and changing judgments of men—when our very souls depend on a correct understanding and observance of the things Chris has taught us?

Because it certainly does matter what a man believes, we invite you to examine the rule of faith of the first Christians—a rule that is still maintained by the Catholic Church. Because the Bible is God's Word, and because He gave it to us for a purpose, we invite you to see what this purpose is. An interesting pamphlet on the correct use of the Bible, will be sent to you free, in a plain wrapper. And nobody will call on you. Ask for Pamphlet No. KC-13.

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

SPORTS SCRIBES ACROSS the state are "beating their brians (?)" out these days trying to figure what the outcome will be in the Southwest Conference grid race this fall.

TCU, for the 25th straight year, is polling the scribes all over the southwest for predictions on the upcoming SWC football season.

This is the most difficult task a Texas sportswriter faces each year, that of picking who will finish where in this unpredictable conference.

If you don't know what we mean, take a gander at this:

Of the first 24 polls conducted by TCU, the scribes have picked the champion only four times. TCU in 1938, University of Texas in 1943, 1945, and 1950.

So, the men who should know haven't picked the winner since 1950. And not only that, the "Favored" team finished as high as second just five times of the other 20 years of the poll.

Took Bad Beating Last Fall

The scribes took a tremendous beating last fall. Baylor was the choice and the Golden Bears didn't win a game and finished a dead last. This had happened once before, too, Rice being the choice in 1955 and the Owls finished in the cellar.

It has never happened in reverse, though, the team picked to finish last winning the title. But three times the team picked to finish sixth (next to last) won the crown. Rice in 1937, Arkansas in 1946 and 1954 were picked to wind up sixth only to win the title. Arkansas, however, tied for the title in '46.

Well, so much for the past history of the poll. It's time now to get down to the situation at hand, predicting the 1958 finish.

This year is no different than past years, trying to pick a winner is tough as ever. Ordinarily one or two teams stick out above the rest as potential winners even though they may finish last after the season schedule has been played.

But this year there isn't a team that "stands out" above the rest. Oh, TCU was picked to win by the sports scribes attending the coaching school a few days ago but this resulted mostly because Frog coach Abe Martin was the only coach that didn't break down in "tears" during a mass interview of the SWC mentors.

TCU, in all likelihood, will be put in the "hot seat" in the TCU poll which will include many more scribes than who participated in the poll at the coaching school.

For that reason we don't look for the Frogs to win. With two native sons playing for TCU this season, junior Jack Spikes and sophomore Milton Ham, we hope we're wrong.

Still, we can't be partial to TCU since another ex-Tiger, Powell Berry, will also be playing in the conference this fall, at Texas A&M.

Taking A Long Shot

But, leaving all prejudices aside, our Crystal Ball tells us that the Aggies will be the surprise of the conference this fall.

New coach Jim Myers seems to have instilled new spirit in Aggieland and with the new formation (single wing) unfamiliar to SWC teams plus the return of some "key men," it looks like the Aggies from here.

The key men we are referring to are tackle Ken Beck, end John Tracey and fullback Richard Gay. These, plus 13 other returning letter men and several promising newcomers up from the freshman team makes the Ags defenite pennant contenders.

TCU is our choice for the No. 2 spot.

If we were given four "guesses," we'd say the 1958 champ will come from A&M, TCU, SMU or Texas. Now watch one of the other three, Rice, Baylor or Arkansas emerge with the title this season.

We're getting in the brochures from the SWC schools and we'll be passing along more detailed information on the prospects of each school but right now here is the way we see the outcome of the 1958 Southwest Conference race:

1. Texas A&M.
2. TCU.
3. SMU.
4. Texas.
5. Rice.
6. Baylor.
7. Arkansas.

At least we can't do any worse than last fall. We were among the "ill fated" group that picked Baylor to bag the title in '57.

IN ALL-STAR GAME

Co-Winners For MVP Are Named

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The stunning forward pass combination of Bobby Mitchell of Illinois and Jim Ninowski of Michigan State Saturday won unprecedented honor as co-winners of the Most Valuable Player Award in Friday night's 25th All-Star football game.

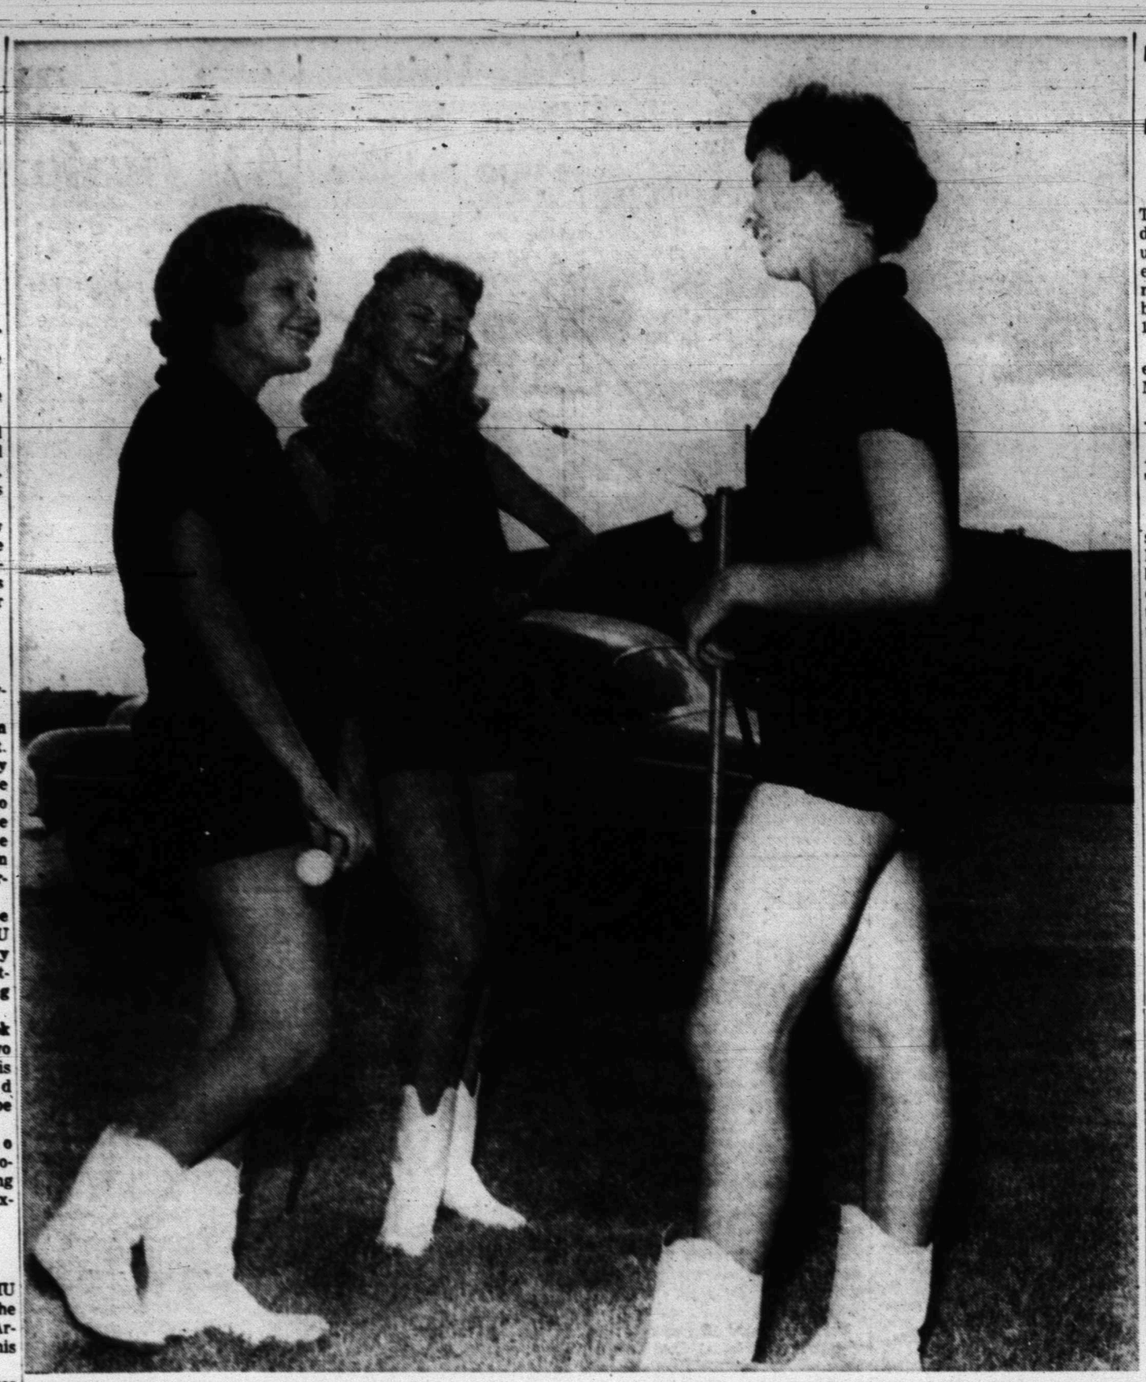

The two former Big Ten rivals each collected 39 votes in a poll of sports writers who covered the College All-Stars' surprising 35-19 upset of the Detroit Lions in Soldier Field.

Runner-up with 29 votes was Texas A&M's Bobby Conrad, who kicked a record - matching four field goals and three extra points, and played a brilliant defensive halfback game.

Only other player named in the balloting was Lou Michaels, Kentucky's 235-pound tackle, who collected three votes.

Halfback Mitchell made brilliant scoring runs of 84 and 18 yards after snagging tosses from quarterback Ninowski.

In all, the fleet Mitchell, Big Ten sprint champion, streaked 145 yards with five Ninowski passes. Spartan star Ninowski completed 14 of 20 tosses for 242 yards, personally breaking the collegiate aerial mark of 172 yards in the All-Star game.

TIGER MAJORETTES—With football season approaching, the three Tiger majorettes above are already in training for the 1958 season. They are, from left to right, Dianne Young, Adalene Soles and Linda Ramsey. These girls will perform at halftime at all Tiger games this fall. Spahn Wins 16th For Braves, 2-1

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Hank Aaron singled home the deciding run in the eighth Saturday as the National League - leading Milwaukee Braves eked out a 2-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies for their fifth straight decision.

Warren Spahn, the Braves' 37-year - old left - hander, registered his 16th victory after a shaky start. He shut out the Phils after they scored a run in the first.

A crowd of 31,869 watched Spahn and southpaw Curt Simmons duel at County Stadium. Simmons gave up only three hits through the first seven innings, only to weaken in the eighth and surrender three more hits and the tie - breaking run. His record now reads 6-11.

It was the Braves' second straight one-run decision over the Phillies.

Quail Prospects For Texas Good

AUSTIN (AP)—The best quail season in several years is in prospect for Texas hunters, the State Game and Fish Commission reported Saturday.

But the bumper crop may not lead to good hunting in some areas unless sufficient winter cover is provided, said E. A. Walker, director of wildlife restoration.

Walker said if farmers have not taken steps to supply the quail with some sort of permanent woody cover and food they can expect to find fewer birds this winter than are in their areas now. He said some brush pile cover added now might help keep the quail. But he said attention should have been given to this phase of quail management earlier for a good fall hunt.

Good Weather For Dove Season Seen

AUSTIN (AP) — Favorable weather has set up excellent prospects for the mourning dove season.

This was reported by Pierce Uzzell, assistant director of wildlife restoration of the Game and Fish Commission. He said ample native and domestic food had been provided by a spring growing season which produced good weed seed and grain crops.

A breeding season population is comparable to last year, he said.

Open season period are Sept. 1 through Oct. 20 for the North Zone, and Oct. 1 through Nov. 19 for the South Zone except in counties having a white-winged dove season or special regulations.

The North Zone borders on and includes Kinney, Uvalde, Medina, Bexar, Comal, Hays, Travis, Williamson, Milam, Robertson, Leon, Houston, Cherokee, Nacogdoches and Shelby counties.

Shooting hours are from 12 noon to sunset.

Rigney 'Manager Of Year,' Says Cobb

NEW YORK (AP) — Ty Cobb says he thinks Bill Rigney should be manager of the year no matter what happens to the San Francisco Giants from now to the end of the season.

The famed "Georgia Peach," now 71 said "the Giants have been marvelous." Nobody expected them to go as far as they did. But they're bushed now; they're back is broken. They just haven't got it any more."

Thomas Homers 3 Times; Bucs Win

CINCINNATI (AP) — Frank Thomas hit three home runs and drove in six Saturday and led the upstart Pittsburgh Pirates to an easy 13-4 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs. The Pirates clobbered five Cincinnati pitchers for 18 hits.

The victory left the Pirates seven games behind the first - place Milwaukee Braves, who also won.

Although Thomas' big bat boomed for his 30th, 31st and 32nd home runs, it was a two-run homer by rookie Dick Stuart that broke the Pirates out of a 4-4 tie and sent them on their way to the victory. Stuart was back in the game at first base after yielding to Ted Kluszewski in last night's encounter.

Bob Friend, who pitched the first seven innings for Pittsburgh, built his record to 16-12 for the season while the slumping Brooks Lawrence was charged with his eighth straight defeat. He was the third of five Redleg hurlers. Friend was lifted in the eighth for a pinch hitter and Bob Porterfield finished.

Australians Set Three Swim Marks

TOKYO (AP)—Three Australian swimmers, Jon Konrads, John Monckton and Terry Gathercole, bettered the recognized world records in winning their events in the Japanese championships Saturday.

None of the three, however, surpassed his own best marks which are up for recognition as world records.

Konrads, the 16-year-old, Latvian-born wonder kid, won the 400-meter freestyle in 4:26.1, eclipsing the listed record of 4:26.7.

Monckton took the 200 - meter backstroke in 2:19.1, more than a second under the standard of 2:20.2, established by the International Swimming Federation when it revised all marks in 1956.

Gathercole had a 2:39.1 timing for the 200-meter breaststroke, as compared to the listed record of 2:40.

Lubbock Man Wins Seniors Tournament

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Pete Edwards, 52, Lubbock farmer, defeated J. R. Farmer, 58, Big Spring salesman, 5 and 4, Saturday to win the 24th annual Tri-State Senior Golf Tournament.

Edwards was 2 under par for the 14 holes. He won 4, 5, 8, 10, 13 and they halved No. 14.

It was the first time in the history of the meet that a finalist shot under-par golf. The match was played in a record 2 hours and 10 minutes. Edwards was out of the fairway only once. It also was the first time that a finalist never won a hole.

This year's tournament was for men over 50. The age limit will be raised to 55 next year under USGA rules.

ROUT BLUE SOX, 8-1

Tigers Pad Lead In City League

The Tigers padded their lead in the City League Friday night with a convincing 8-1 victory over the Blue Sox at Towle Park.

The victory gave the Tigers a 5-1 record for the second half, a one-game bulge over second place Sun with a 4-2 mark.

Norman Gladson pitched a two-hitter for the winning Tigers but both Tiger safeties were triples, by Terry Lee and Jerry Fleming.

The Tigers took a 1-0 lead in the third inning when Tim Roberts scored from third on Spencer Dyer's sacrifice fly. Roberts had gotten aboard via an error and moved around to third on two wild pitches.

The Blue Sox tied the score at 1-1 in the fourth when first baseman Ronnie Baker walked, raced all the way to third on Gary Vice's sacrifice bunt and then scored when catcher Ronnie Wylie threw wild at third trying to pick Baker off.

The Tigers moved ahead to stay in the fifth when Lee tripled to right field and scored when catcher Dwayne Prince made a bad throw back to the mound.

The Tigers added a run in the third with Fleming's triple the big blow and then the Bengals iced it away in the fifth with a five-run uprising as the Blue Sox defense fell apart at the seams.

Sun and the Blue Sox will clash Monday night when play resumes.

O'Dell Blanks Sens By 9-0

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles went on a hitting spree for a change Saturday night and Billy O'Dell pitched as hard as always for a 9-0 victory over the Washington Senators.

While the Orioles let loose with an unusual bombardment of 15 hits, including homers by Gene Woodling and Dick Williams, lefty O'Dell gave the Senators only two singles by Albie Pearson and Roy Sievers.

He struck out eight and walked one. A fourth Washington batter reached base on an error.

It was the 11th victory for O'Dell who has lost 10.

Woodling started pitcher Pete Ramos of Washington on the way to his 11th setback in 22 decisions by walloping his 10th homer in the second inning.

Redlegs May Hire Smith

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Enquirer said Saturday night that Mayo Smith has the inside track on the vacant job of managing Cincinnati's Redlegs.

Sports Writer Bill Ford quoted an unnamed source saying a deal to bring Smith here for the rest of the season already has been worked out.

Redleg Coach Jimmy Dykes was named temporary manager after Birdie Tebbetts resigned Thursday.

Redleg General Manager Gabe Paul has said nothing would be decided until Powel Crosley Jr., majority stockholder in the team, returned from an Alaskan fishing trip.

Smith, 43, was fired last month as manager of the Philadelphia Phillies.

BENEFIT GAMES ON TAP AT HERMLEIGH

A doubleheader baseball program pitting teams from Hermleigh and Loraine will be held Tuesday night in Hermleigh.

Proceeds of the doubleheader will go toward the building of a new concession stand at Cardinal Field in Hermleigh.

Little League teams from Hermleigh and Loraine will meet at 7 p.m. in the first game Tuesday to be followed immediately by the Hermleigh Lions Club and the Loraine Lions Club Men up to 50 years of age will be playing in the second game.

Admission prices for the doubleheader will be 50 and 25 cents.

Hermleigh Fills Coaching Staff

The coaching staff at Hermleigh High School has now been filled with the hiring of Cam Shields as assistant coach.

Previously Bill McGuire had been hired as head coach, succeeding Willie Bigham who resigned to accept a teaching position in the Snyder schools.

Shields succeeds Berman Corbell who resigned to take a coaching position in the El Paso schools.

McGuire is a 1956 graduate of Sul Ross. He attended Cisco Junior College before going to Sul Ross.

Shields taught four years in the Littlefield Schools, and for the last five years has been Educational Director and coach for state Institutions in Indiana and Colorado.

McGuire coached at Coahoma Junior High following his graduation at Sul Ross in '56. He posted an 8-0 record at Coahoma before taking the job at Newcastle.

At Newcastle McGuire had a 3-7 record.

McGuire grew up in Haskell County, attending high school at Weinert where he was graduated in 1952. He then enrolled at Cisco Junior College for the 1952-53 school year after which he transferred to Sul Ross to finish his collegiate work.

At Cisco and Sul Ross, McGuire played end and quarterback.

In addition to his football, McGuire played professional baseball with the now defunct Wichita Falls Spudders and the Borger Gassers.

McGuire is married to the former Lydia Ransom of Andrews. They have one daughter a year old.

Fishing Improved At Possum Kingdom

AUSTIN (AP) — Fishing has been improved at Possum Kingdom Lake as a result of the rough fish kill earlier this month, the Game and Fish Commission reported Saturday.

An estimated 40 million gizzard and threadfin shad were killed in the aerial spraying.

Marion Toole, director of inland fisheries, said that by ridding the 16,500 acre lake of shad, the game fish food supply has been reduced, thus making for better fishing.

Toole said the number of game fish killed by the spraying was only about one half of one per cent.

Patterson Top Heavy Choice In Title Bout

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — World Heavyweight Champion Floyd Patterson of New York puts his title on the line for the third time Monday night. He is a solid favorite to keep it, in 15 rounds or less, against Roy Harris of Cut and Shoot, Tex.

This is Los Angeles' first heavyweight title show in nearly two decades, and the prayerful hope is that it will be better and longer than the last one.

That was a night in April, 1939, when Joe Louis, holted and furious over one punch, disposed of Jack Roper in two minutes 20 seconds of the first round.

The battle pit is the same, Wrigley Field, and just as then, fight fans will flock into the place aware that their stay may be short.

Promoter Bill Rosenshon, in his first venture in such a business, expects upward of 20,000.

Additional thousands will watch via closed theater television in 150 or more theaters around the nation.

There will be neither network TV nor radio broadcst.

The bout is slated for 8 p.m. Pacific Daylight Time.

Patterson, a 5-1 favorite from the start, won clear claim to the richest crown in boxing when he knocked out Archie Moore in Chicago Nov. 30, 1956, in five rounds.

Floyd was only 21, the youngest man ever to win the title.

Patterson's first defense was against Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson July 29, 1957, in New York. He sent the Hurricane down and into eventual retirement in 10 rounds.

Last Aug. 22, in Seattle, Patterson knocked out the ex-amateur champion, Pete Rademacher, in six rounds.

Now comes this one and the spotlight has centered on Harris, a unique figure. Harris, 25, is a school teacher, a college graduate and a lieutenant in the Army reserve. He speaks in a soft, Texas drawl. He neither drinks, smokes nor cusses.

Yet he was schooled for fighting in backyard brawls on the Harris farm in the big thicket country or east Texas. The community got its name because, say the natives, if a guy stood still long enough he'd get cut and if he ran he'd get shot.

As a professional fighter, Roy has won his first bout April 26, 1955, over Tommy Smith by a kayo in three rounds. He has since won 21 straight and has never been whipped.

Most of Roy's opponents are unknowns but in his last three engagements he outpointed, in order, Bob Baker, Willie Pastrano and Willie Besmanoff, all in 10-rounders.

Baker scored the only knockdown over Roy. Roy got up and won the round.

Harris, guaranteed $100,000 for this fight, stands a shade under 6 feet and figures to weigh about 192. Patterson is 6 feet and will weigh about 184.

Sammy Snead Takes Lead At St. Paul

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Sam Snead, winner of the St. Paul Open 21 years ago, eagled the 18th hole of the third round Saturday for a 66 and bolted into the lead of the silver anniversary tournament.

With 197 for 54 holes the aging slammer was 19 under par at the sitting duck Keller course, one stroke in front of big Mike Souchak of Grossingers, N. Y.

The two came down the 18th fairway dedadlocked for the lead. Snead hit the green on the 462-yard par 5 hole and the ball stopped 18 feet from the pin. Souchak hit his second shot to the edge of the green 45 feet away.

He putted six feet short and then watched Sam drop his putt for an eagle-three. Souchak holed out for a birdie and a four-under par 68.

Ken Venturi of San Francisco, the defending champion, and Ernie Vossler of Midland, Tex., who was tied with Snead one shot off the pace at the end of 36, were three strokes away at 200. At 201 was Lionel Hebert, 1957 PGA champion from Lafayette, La.

Venturi shot a 68 and Vossler and Hebert 69s.

The pros, playing on the third consecutive day of perfect golf weather, continued to maul the 6,557-yard course's par 36-36—72.

Three players—PGA Champion Dow Finsterwald of Athens, Ohio; Tony Lema of Napa, Calif., and Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla.—shot eight under 64s.

Lema tied a tournament record on the first nine with a six under 30 but took a 34 coming back to miss the 18-hole mark of 62.

Locked at 202, still within striking distance, were Finsterwald, Paul Harney of Worcester, Mass., Tommy Jacobs of Whittier, Calif., and Cary Middlecoff of Hollywood, Fla.

The cutoff for Sunday's final 18 holes for the 60 low pros and ties was a four under 212.

Major casualty was Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla. last year's National Open champion, who shot a 70 for a 213.

Dartmouth ski coach Al Merrill and his assistant, Bill Beck saw ski duty in the 1956 Olympics. Beck also was in the 1952 games.

Bob Lawrence, Indiana first baseman, led the Big Ten in three hitting departments and tied in two others during the 1958 season. He batted .472.

Giants Pound Out 7-4 Win Over Chicubs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda led the San Francisco Giants to a 7-4 decision over the Chicago Cubs Saturday in a free-swinging affair marked by five home runs.

The Cubs' Ernie Banks increased his National League home run lead with his 36th and 37th. His team mate, Tony Taylor, got a two-run blast but Mays' and Cepeda's homers meant the difference.

Mike McCormick, 19-year-old Giant lefty, got the victory—his ninth against five losses. Gordon Jones, a new Giant acquisition, relieved him in the sixth and gave up only one run.

A crowd of 17,617 saw right-hander Dick Drott take his 10th loss. The victory kept the Giants in third place and evened the three-game series at one each.

Admiral Vee Wins Saratoga Handicap

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (AP)—In as tight a finish as the famous Saratoga Handicap ever produced, Edward Seinfeld's Admiral Vee nosed out Inside Tract in the 56th running of the turf classic Saturday.

With Ted Atkinson in the saddle and packing 122 pounds, Admiral Vee stepped the 1¼ miles over a fast track in 2:06 3-5 for his narrow victory. Inside Tract, owned by the D. and M. Stable and piloted by Eddie Arcaro, beat Jorge M. Small's El Bermejo 2½ lengths for runner-up honors.

Eddie Schmidt was fourth in the field of 10.

Mantle Homers But Yanks Bow

BOSTON (AP) — Boston right-hander Tommy Brewer, subduing the Yankee hex on him, beat New York 7-4 Saturday on 8 hits including Mickey Mantle's 34th homer.

The Red Sox master of speed and sent it into the right field seats. The blow, following Tony Kubek's leadoff walk in the sixth inning, put Mantle ahead in the American League home run derby.

The loss was the seventh in their last 10 starts for the runaway Yanks.

Outside the Mantle smash, New York could do little against the Cheray, S. C., hurler until he weakened to yield two runs in the ninth.

The Yanks had beaten Brewer in 11 of his previous 13 lifetime decisions with the league champions.

Collegiate Star To Play Today

MORAGA, Calif. (AP) — Jim Pace, one of the stars in Friday night's 35-19 College All Star victory over the Detroit Lions, will see action in Sunday's National Football League exhibition between the San Francisco 49ers and New York Giants.

"Sure I'm going to play him," 49er Coach Frank Albert said Saturday. "A guy who can haul the mail like him doesn't have to know the signals. Just give him the ball. I've never seen a guy as fast."

The 205-pound former Michigan back and three other All Stars—end Fred Dugan, tackle Charlie Krueger and back Billy Atkins — arrived here Saturday.

Albert said he might use Atkins as a punter. He booted one 80 yards against the Lions.

Elliott Says 3:45 Is The 'Maximum'

LONDON (AP) — Herb Elliott, the world's fastest mile runner, Saturday listed a time of 3:45 as the probable limit of human speed for the mile. But he added:

"No man must set a limit on his capabilities. Nobody must be limited by what's around him."

Elliott, a sun-tanned, 20-year-old Australian, ran in incredible 3:54.5 mile in Dublin 10 days ago. Four runners surpassed the accepted world record of 3:58 and five shattered the once-formidable four-minute barrier in that race.

Name In Records Column Incorrect

A name included in the Daily News public records column Friday was misspelled and turned out to be another name.

Mrs. S. J. Cohorn pleaded guilty in county court to a charge of swindling and was given a 10-day sentence.

An error made the name "Chorn" in the Friday column.

Nudists Visit Best Dressed In Britain

WOBURN, England (AP)—About 200 undressed men and women became guests Saturday of Britain's best dressed aristocrat—the Duke of Bedford.

They are nudists attending a full undressed session of the International Naturist Congress on the expansive grounds of the duke's stately home, Woburn Abbey.

His grace isn't there. He went off to Canada, maybe to get away from the anguished cries of neighbors who resent sun bathing in the altogether.

There is a chance, an aide said, that he may be back in time to greet some of the nudists before the congress ends Aug. 31. They'll have clothes on, though, if they are visited by the duke. He isn't a nudist.

Woburn Park has a circumference of 12 miles. The nudists are assembled about five miles from the abbey. A wattle fence of twisted twigs hides the congress's activities from the public gaze.

Woburn Abbey is one of the best known of the stately homes open to visitors for an admission fee.

The duke, an enterprising man trying to raise money to pay inheritance taxes on the estate, was quite unperturbed by criticism of his decision to let the nudists in.

The wattle fence seemed to overcome objections, and nudists don't undress until they get inside.

Tradesmen drive in with provisions, but they have to stop their trucks at a secluded spot and sound their horns. A nudist in a bathrobe comes out to pick up the groceries.

A double-decked bus hit a bonanza. It goes right past the duke's estate, and it was loaded with customers as the congress opened.

Wasn't much of a view from the top deck, however. Bus passengers complained the nudist sessions were being held in tents.

During 1957, Canada produced about 360 million pounds of nickel, or approximately 75 per cent of the free world's entire supply.

837 Pupils Due At West Elementary

A total of 837 students are expected to be enrolled this school year at West Elementary School.

West is the largest elementary school now and is overcrowded. Its crowded situation is expected to be relieved greatly next year upon completion of the new South Elementary School.

Joel Griffin heads the staff at the school, and his assistant principal is Fred R. Beard.

Counting the two administrators, the staff at the West school totals 39. Of those, 12 have master's degrees and 27 have bachelor's degrees.

Nine teachers new to the system will be on the West Elementary staff.

They include Sara Spikes, first grade teacher who graduated from Abilene Christian College in May; Joyce Cooper, first grade teacher who graduated from McMurry College this month; Carolyn C. Linn, sixth grade teacher who graduated from North Texas State College in June; and Jo Ann Shows, a 1957 Texas Tech graduate.

Other new teachers include Sara Merriott, second grade teacher who is a graduate of ACC and formerly taught at Bloomington; Dorothy Harbour, second grade teacher who is an East Texas State College graduate and taught at Mercedes; Mary May, former Fluvanna teacher who is a Hardin-Simmons University graduate; W. H. Harbour, former Mercedes teacher who is an East Texas State graduate; and R. E. Cooper, McMurry College graduate who is former superintendent at Jayton.

Others on the staff and tentative assignments:

First grade, Mildred Smith, Grace King, Barbara Bigham, Ethel Roberts.

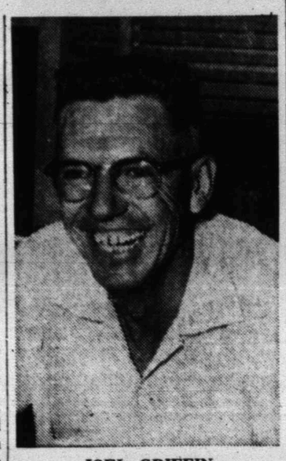

Second grade, Mae Stanfield, Hattie Gatlin, Nina Nesbit, Margaret McNair.

Blast Before Plane Crash Is Indicated

GALWAY, Ireland (AP) — Medical evidence indicated Saturday that a sudden explosion sent a huge Dutch airliner plunging into the Atlantic off Ireland, taking 99 lives.

A doctor taking part in examinations of bodies recovered from the ocean said that "all the bodies show some evidence of injuries related to a blast. It is very difficult to explain pieces of metal embedded in the victims if there were no explosion."

The doctor added that slight burn marks on the 34 bodies recovered were consistent with a sudden flash.

The KLM four-engine Super Constellation crashed on a flight toward New York just a little more than 30 minutes' after taking off from Shannon Thursday morning. Fifty-two Americans were among the 91 passengers.

A severe electrical storm was raging on the plane's route at the time.

Engineers pored over pieces of wreckage trying to determine what might have caused any explosion. The wreckage included the plane's nose wheel assembly and parts of the cabin insulation.

There was no definite ruling on the cause of the accident, one of the worst civil airline disasters in history. An explanation is unlikely until tests and examinations are completed in Ireland and Holland.

The accident occurred 6 miles south of Belton on Farm Road 1123.

Mrs. Ruby Anderson, a first grade teacher, is shown above reading a story to some North Elementary pre-school pupils. The classes help to introduce new pupils to the routines of school prior to the jam of older students.

Drawing is one of the first things taught to new first graders in Snyder public schools, and it was one of the many things to which pre-school first graders were introduced here last week. Mrs. Elizabeth Brinner, is shown above with some Northeast Elementary pre-schoolers. As the back-to-school spirit grips Snyder, many young Snyderites are already in school. They are first graders who are taking pre-school classes to help acquaint them with school routines. Traffic safety and the proper methods of crossing streets is one of the things taught all pre-schoolers. Mrs. Ed Free is shown above with a group of East Elementary pupils while Chris Ann White, and Eddie Lee Derickson, demonstrate the proper method of crossing a street.

SCHOOL DAYS JUST AHEAD

The school year begins for the Parent-Teacher's Association even before classes start for pupils. A group of pupils and their parents are shown above at a coffee given by Central Elementary Parent-Teachers Association Wednesday morning. Clockwise around the table in the foreground from lower left are: Mrs. J. T. Anderson, 3810 Avenue S, Rickie Anderson, a pre-schooler, and Randy Anderson, a second grader, Mrs. Marion Holt, 3111 Avenue K, Michael Glasscock, four, Mrs. Eugene Glasscock, 707 Twenty-seventh Street, and Rickey Glasscock.

8 Families Named Finalists In '58 Denim Family Search

NEW YORK — Eight great American families, from all parts of the U.S., and all walks of life, were honored this week as they were named Regional Finalists in the nationwide search now on, to find the 1958 National Denim Family. The families are from cities from coast-to-coast — families of men who are a fire chief, a manager of used car agency, a band director, an assistant purchasing agent, mill worker, line crew foreman, well driller, and a Harvard Graduate who works in Public Health. Cited for "distinguished family living and community service" and awarded giant blue denim scrolls to that effect, the honor - winning families represent not only a geographical cross - section of the country, but also a wide occupational and economic span.

The eight Denim Family regional finalists are the families of Charles Gauhan, of Quincy Mass., associate director of the division of alcoholism in the Mass. Dept. of Public Health, with four children, representing the entire Northeastern section of the U.S.; of Charles Gunter, of E. St. Louis, Ill., a line crew foreman, with two children, who tied with another Illinois family to represent the Midwest region of the country; of Kenneth L. Fields, of Henderson, N.C., a cotton mill worker, with four children, representing the Southern region; of Willard Kuchar, of Springfield, Ill., a purchasing agent, with six children, the other member of the tie to represent the Midwest; of Pat H. Lebs, of Phoenix, Ariz., a high school band leader, with three children, representing the Southern Pacific section of the country; of Enrique A. Mejia, of Laredo, Tex., a used car manager, with six children, representing the Southwest region; of Dale Van Eaton, of Trenton, N.J., a well driller, with two children, representing the Middle Atlantic area; and of Donald Wallace, of Everett, Wash., a fire captain, with two children, representing the Northern Pacific region of the U. S. The Boys' Club sponsoring each of the families is the Boys Club in their town.

The national winner of the contest, which is conducted annually by the Denim Council, public relations organization for the U. S. denim and blue jeans industry, in cooperation with Boys' Clubs of America, will be announced Aug. 18, at the start of National Denim Week, when the whole family will be brought to New York to launch the event at a celebration in their honor. The winning family will be accompanied on their N.Y. trip by their local Boys' Club director.

As part of the nationwide contest, a survey is being conducted entitled "The How-to of Juvenile Decency in the American Home Today", in an effort to learn just what it is that makes for "juvenile decency", and what can be learned from magnificent examples of family life in combatting juvenile delinquency. The results of the survey will be announced during Denim Week.

The final judging committee, which will select the winner from the eight regional finalists listed above, is composed of executives of leading textile and apparel associations, as well as outstanding youth and social welfare leaders. Also on the national judging committee in absentia are college and university professors across the country, who personally interviewed each of the eight finalists.

National Denim Week is set aside each year to honor all American families, who have consistently won the traditional American blue jeans and denims in this country since pioneer days.

Housekeeping In Paris: Measles Spoils Friendship

Editor's Note: Jayne Hudgins is the wife of Garven Hudgins, a staff reporter of the Paris bureau of the Associated Press. In this article, she tells what it's like to be a housewife in the French capital.

By JAYNE HUDGINS

PARIS (AP) — Making friends with new French neighbors doesn't have to be hard for a transplanted American Housewife — as long as meales doesn't get in the way.

Two days after his first meeting with our new neighbors, my 7-year-old son broke out in rash. Soon the neighbors, too, had a case of measles on their hands.

There haven't been any meetings since.

The French, I think, are inclined to be a bit more reserved than Americans when it comes to making friends with new neighbors.

Such things as the neighborhood bridge party, so common in America's Suburbia, seem to be nonexistent.

There are other differences, too.

When you shop for food in Paris it doesn't take you long to miss the old American supermarket, where it's possible to do a week's grocery shopping all at once.

Here most food is sold fresh, since the French have a distain for frozen and canned foods. They scorn the deep freezer, for the most part, and butcher shops are wide open with huge hunks of beef hanging from hooks.

You have to carry a big shopping bag with you when you go out for groceries. You haul it home loaded with unwrapped but fresh vegetables and other staples.

Milk is a problem in France. First you have to make sure it's pasteurized. After that you find that French milk is what we'd call skimmed milk at home. Most of the cream is taken off for butter. There is a homogenized milk sold in French stores which seems to come closest to what we have at home.

Washing machines exist but they are priced out of reach unless you know a departing American who wants to sell one before returning to the States. Most of my washing is done in the neighborhood laundry, slower and more expensive than laundries in the United States. One shirt costs about 100 frances or 35 cents.

Refrigerators, while not as streamlined and technically developed as American models, are included in most furnished apartments. New ones in, appliance stores, are smaller than the ones you see in the United States. They range in cost anywhere from $200 for a very small size to about $500 for a medium size.

Standards of behavior seem to be roughly the same for children—at least French children make as much noise as American. But French youngsters are not as prone to lay out their views in front of adults as American children.

My 7-year-old, for example, approached an English - speaking Frenchman and asked him point blank: "Are you French?" The Frenchman replied that he was whereupon my youngster announced "I'm American."

"My suspicion is confirmed," the Frenchman said without batting an eye.

What does the family do on father's day off?

Well, father likes to walk on the Champs Elysees and analyze the tight skirt situation, but we have managed to visit famous cathedrals and other landmarks. I'm not sure the children are overly impressed, however.

In the gloom of the 12th Century Cathedral of Chartres, my 4-year-old boomed out: "I have to go to the bathroom."

NOTES LIBRARY

Stories of exploration and adventure hold a special fasincation for readers and will be of year-round interest at Scurry County Library. Books about such daring explorers as Columbus, Magellan, Cortez, Marco Polo, and Lewis and Clark are perennial favorites with armchair explorers.

Several years ago the German author Paul Herrmann wrote the best-selling "Conquest by Man" which covers exploration from the Ice Age through the 15th century. A current book, "The Great Explorers," edited by Helen Wright, also tells the story of man's conquest of the earth.

A number of books which tell the story of exploration have been written especially for young people. They include "Man Against the Unknown" by Joseph Icenhower; "The World's Most Daring Explorers," by Richard Lambert, and "Vast Horizons" by Mary Seymour Lucas.

Numerous other exciting books are available for the adventure-minded. The story of underwater exploration is told in James Dugan's "Undersea Explorer", while the dangers of underground exploring are described by John Scott Douglas in "Caves of Mystery". Still another title is "Tiger of the Snows", the autobiography of Tenzing of Everest. "Conquest of the North and South Poles" by Russell Owen gives the accounts of the Peary and Byrd expeditions.

A collection of adventure stories is "Man Against Nature"; tales of adventure and exploration collected and edited by Charles Neider. These accounts range from Pliny the Younger's description of the eruption of Vesuvius that buried Pompeii to the tornado that struck Waco, Texas. Events in pioneering are related by Lindbergh, Peary, Byrd, Amundsen, Orville Wright, Heyerdahl, Cousteau and others.

Fascinating accounts of today's history - making adventures will be found in periodicals in your library. Explorers of the atomic-age are portrayed in "We Took the Nautilus Under the Ice" edited by C. Blair, Jr. and published in the December 28, 1957 issue of Saturday Evening Post.

Opti-Mrs. Club Hears About Trip

A trip to Yellowstone by the Scurry County Boys Club was the program topic at the August Luncheon meeting of the Opti-Mrs. Friday. Ace Amos was assisted by Tommy Ryan in giving the program.

Mr. Amos, who is the Junior High School Athletic Director, showed a film of the trip and discussed the highlights and the problems encountered by the group of 21 boys and two men. Tommy Ryan also was in the group that took the early summer twelve-day cross country trip to Yellowstone.

Those present during the program and luncheon at Mary Lynns Tea Room were: Mary Kate Hunt, Joyce Francis, Cleta Wyatt, Joan Waters, Daphne Grice, Mary Ruth Worthington, and Texas Dryden. Patricia Ann Wyatt, daughter of Mrs. Wyatt, was a guest.

Add a slice of raw bacon to green beans as they cook. Remove the boiled bacon when the beans are finished cooking; the delicious flavor of the bacon in the beans is all you want in this dish.

Next time you make cole slaw, aid some sour cream to the usual mayonnaise and vinegar dressing. It gives an added fillip to this old standby.

When a custard uses both cornstarch and egg yolks as thickening, the milk should be cooked with the cornstarch before the egg yolks are added. That's because cornstarch can take a boiling temperature and the egg yolks can not or they will curdle the mixture.

Pack ice cubes into a large heavy paper bag and store in your freezer — if you have room—against that unexpected company party.

Keeping feet looking pretty is doubly important during open shoe months. Cracked and calloused heels need special treatment. Begin by scrubbing them vigorously with a stiff brush to dislodge dead cuticle. Apply a softening cream after each bath, and at night you can tie on little heelcaps to keep cream from messing bed linens.

For an even round shape when you are rolling out pie dough, use the rolling pin as if you were following the spokes of a wheel.

If you want to shorten the time you have to stir a custard made on the top of the range, scald the milk before adding.

Flowers are in for a regular scrub-down, especially the artificial ones. With improvements in plastics artificial roses, tulips, camellias and such are almost real enough to smell. The material lends itself to daily dusting and an occasional soap bath.

Candles still denote a gracious way of dining. And they needn't sputter throughout a meal. One sputter-killer is to dip them in shellac. This also keeps the candles from bending when stored.

Panel To Study Animal Diseases

DALLAS (AP)—A special committee was named Friday to draft legislation and conduct educational meetings in an effort to control brucellosis and other animal diseases in Texas.

Representatives of about 30 livestock and agricultural organizations, members of the Texas Animal Health Council, agreed that an area control program is needed and that funds for financing operations of the Texas Livestock Sanitation Commission should come from the state's general fund.

Harold Nelson of San Antonio, chairman of the Animal Health Council, named a committee to draft legislation and conduct the educational meetings. The special committee is expected to meet early next month, Nelson said.

Jayne Set For Recordings

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Stop Jayne Mansfield from cooing about her forthcoming baby long enough and you learn she may no longer play dumb blondes and that she's about to jump into the lucrative business of making records.

The latter is most surprising because the beauteous film-star with the ample measurements has never been known as a singer.

"I'm going to start by recording three ballads I sing in my new picture," she said. "Then I hope to close a deal with a major company to do eight sides a year.

"The ballads are simply wonderful. I'm going to dedicate them all to my new baby."

The 24-year-old actress and her husky husband, Mickey Hargitay, expect their first child about Dec. 5. Although she has a 7-year-old daughter by a previous marriage, Jayne seemed as excited as a first time mother-to-be.

"It's a wonderful time in the life of a woman when she's expecting a baby," she says, with an air of discovery. "It's really her happiest time."

Blonde Jayne's new picture is as unique as her statistics. Titled "The Sheriff of Fractured Jaw," the picture is a comedy about an Arizona frontier town that was filmed in London and Spain the last three months.

"Those Spanish hills where we filmed the outdoor scenes look more like Arizona than Arizona," said Jayne. "And the Spanish gypsies we hired look more like Indians than American Indians. I couldn't believe it."

Jayne plays Kate, a hard-boiled saloon owner who runs the tough town of Fractured Jaw in the 1880s. "The town doesn't have a sheriff, but the boys generally listen to me," she said.

"It's a complete departure from the dumb blonde, cream puff role I've always played," said Jayne. "For the first time I get an opportunity to show my acting talent. It's a real milk before the ice cream role."

"You know," she said, getting back to her favorite subject, "I was pregnant during the whole filming of the picture and the studio didn't know it. If the studio had known, it might have taken a lot of unnecessary precautions that would have delayed the picture until I never would have fit into those wasp-waisted dresses I had to wear.

Art Carney Won't Stay With Gleason

NEW YORK (AP)—Art Carney, a fine actor who loves his profession and a responsible suburban householder who loves his wife and three children, had a difficult decision to make this summer.

His good friend and happy working companion, Jackie Gleason, asked Carney to come back with him on a regular basis when Gleason launches his new CBS-TV show this fall.

After much meditation Carney regretfully turned down Gleason's offer because he wished to take the financially more hazardous course of being a free-lance free to take acting assignments he liked and to tilt at a variety of roles.

The first result of his decision is that he will appear on television next month in one of the most delightful roles (in our opinion) to come from the American theater in recent years. On Sept. 22 he will play the role of Elwood P. Dowd in Show of the Month (CBS-TV) adaptation of Mary Chase's comedy "Harvey."

Numerous television viewers think of Carney chiefly in terms of the roles he played with Gleason, particularly as Norton in "The Honeymooners"—which, by the way, still is rerunning strong on many stations throughout the country.

Tina Does It With Weights

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Tina Louise, one of the most whistlable figures to grace the movie scene in many moons, does it by lifting weights.

Tina argues that you have to give nature some help. And that means working up a sweat.

But is it ladylike to sweat?

"Oh, I do it in the gym, where there are no men around," she replied. "You've got to sweat or it just doesn't feel right."

Her formula: A workout a day keeps the bulges away. Also nervous tensions and all that jazz.

"I'm a new woman since I discovered exercise," Tina said, though I'm sure there was nothing awry about the old one (she's 24). "I try to get to the gym every day. If I can't, I do some exercises with bar bells in my dressing room.

"I don't believe in those machines that do the exercise for you. I think you have to do the work for yourself, both to get the most out of it and to feel good about it.

"I concentrate mostly on exercises from the waist down, since that is the laziest part of a woman's body. Leg pushups (pushing up suspended weights), deep knee bends, things like that."

Martin And Lewis Both Doing Okay

By BOB THOMAS
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"When I saw Martin and Lewis break up, I thought it was a mistake. Now they're as big as ever doing singles. Maybe the same could happen to me."

This was Lou Costello's comment on his own breaking away from a long-time comedy team. And it appears that Lou's own fortunes are prospering now that he has split with Bud Abbott.

Tonight Lou makes his live debut as a single at the Dunes Hotel in Las Vegas. He's going back to where he got his start—playing comedy sketches ("Clean ones, mind you")- in a Minsky's burlesque show. But it's not a matter of retrogression on Lou's part. He's drawing many, many times what he earned as a young comic amid the bumps and grinds.

Recently he completed two filmed shows for the new TV season. He plays a light comedy in a "G. E. Theater" segment and a straight drama in a "Wagon Train" adventure.

Actor's Vacation

NEW YORK (AP)—While several Broadway shows are on summer vacation, some cast members are indulging in busman's holidays.

Alan Shayne of "Jamaica," and three members of "The Visit," Vincent Gardenia, Joseph Liberman and Kent Montroy, are appearing in summer stock versions of other shows.

Colette Combination

NEW YORK (AP)—Two of the best-know stories by Colette, famed French novelist, have been tabbed for combination into a Broadway drama.

"Cheri" and "The End of Cheri," which concern the escapades of a handsome young fortune hunter, are on the agenda of the Producers Theatre.

Quayle Season

NEW YORK (AP)—British star Anthony Quayle returns to Broadway next for a musical comedy role and a brace of stirring dramatic assignments.

Quayle is to appear in "Viva Villa!" which will concern the career of Pancho Villa, Mexican desperado of 40 years ago. Prior to that, Quayle is appearing in Israel as Moses in "The Firstborn," a prior Broadway assignment, then goes to London to perform in Eugene O'Neill's "Long Day's Journey Into Night."

Imogene Back To B'way

NEW YORK (AP)—Once again at liberty from television, Commedienne Imogene Coca has been signed for one of the two feminine leads in "The Girls in 509," an upcoming Broadway offering by Howard Teichmann.

The play is being produced by Alfred de Liagre Jr., who captured Miss Coca for her previous stage outing in the 1956 hit "Janus."

Shaw Group Formed

NEW YORK (AP)—Seven actors have organized for a repertory season of Bernard Shaw plays, and won the financial support of other players who have put up $4,200 to launch the venture.

Calling itself Actors Stage Co., the group has taken over one of off-Broadway's new showcases, the Gate Theater, and lined up three Shaw plays for staging during the summer, starting with "Candida."

Inge's Double Shift

NEW YORK (AP) — William Inge, prizewinning playwright who has previously specialized in moving character studies, is busy with a double shift of activities.

He is working on a novel and is also pondering a musical fantasy. The projected locale of the latter would be New Jersey, which would mark a switch from Inge's previous stage concentration on midwestern themes.

DARKROOM WORK is being done in the summer staff utilization workshop here by Dan Martin, left, school audio-visual education director, and Al Ray Young, general science teacher. Here they complete some transparencies which will be used in teaching courses in the high school and junior high this school year. (Lee Watson photographs)

TRANSPARENCIES which will be used in biology instruction are checked for accuracy on a transpaque projector by two biology teachers, Jack Longbotham, left, and Rita Carter, right. Many of the transparencies were produced in the workshop at a small fraction of the cost of the same materials from supply houses, while others are not even available on the market.

Teacher Group Finishes Workshop

A dozen high school and junior high teachers and assistant yesterday completed a three-week workshop held at the high school in which they worked to transform what has been learned in the past two years here in the staff utilization project into four concrete programs for the coming school year.

Each day except Sunday, the workshop lasted a full day at the high school materials center, where team planning and preparation of lesson plans and visual aids were worked out. The teachers are a part of a revised staff utilization program here.

The teachers and assistants worked with their research books, typewriters, mimeograph and duplicating machines, tape recorders, filmotype machines, drawing boards, transpaque projectors, and diazo and reflex equipment for developing transparencies.

All four programs, although not complete, are ready to go. The teachers said they could have used more time but were able to complete the first nine weeks' work for the coming school year in minute detail, and they organized and made lesson plans and visuals on many things to be taught during the remainder of the year. For completing the remainder of the year they plan to try to work in time enough in late afternoons and night to keep ahead of classes.

Teachers in the program said they are sold on such workshops and believe they should be made available during summers for all teachers, according to Bill Nesbitt, suprvisor of secondary education, who directed the project. Nesbitt added that the group also believes teachers should be provided sufficient time during the school day to properly perpare a lesson to teach students.

Teachers who participated in the workshop, Nesbitt said, know how many hours are required to plan and make a visual aid to teach a single idea students need to know. For example, one elaborate visual aid made by two teachers this summer required 30 hours to prepare, using special equipment in addition to the usual teaching supplies. This visual, however, will be used with slight revision for the next 10 years, making the cost reasonable and the instruction improved greatly.

The four programs covered in the workshop were:

1. English, reading, and spelling, including a full-year eighth grade language arts course of studies in which a student actually uses material he has learned from both large-group lectures and by studying in the classroom under the guidance of his teacher, who encourages him to take more and more responsibility for his own learning.

2. General science for the high school, including a reorganization of the material to be taught and development of new and flexible plans for improvement of instruction in both large groups and regular classes.

3. High school biology, in which the workshop made a detailed arrangement of the curriculum with special emphasis on the preparation of visuals to enrich learning.

4. High school Spanish, with the workshop preparing and integrating a set of tape recordings to teach beginning Spanish.

Discussing the workshop and programs included, Nesbitt said, "The hard facts are that schools today are faced with increased enrollment, widely-differing students with divergent goals, and teacher shortage. If Snyder wishes to continue to provide top quality instruction it must search for innovations. The essence of the Snyder staff utilization project is that teachers—the people who work directly with students—are planning and carrying through experiments to improve the quality of instruction offered to students." Nesbitt said that flexible deployment of the six essentials to good teaching is sought—teachers, students, curriculum, time, space, and teaching materials.

This means the boy or girl attending the Snyder public schools who comes into contact with the staff utilization project may have two teachers of science or eighth grade English operating as a team instead of one trying to do everything alone. This student has regular classroom sessions, just as his older sister or brother did who graduated four years ago, but he also has large-group lectures, seminars, and individual conferences. His teachers use television, overhead projectors, movies, slides, books, blackboards, magnetic and flannel boards, rear-view screens, and phonographs. He meets with a regular group of 29 or 30 classmates but also with groups of 10 or 12, or of 60 or 70.

Biology, for example, meets five times a week. In a typical week, a student spends three of these periods in the labaratory where he shares in lab exercises, discussions, conferences, recitations, study, drill, writing, and tests. During the other two periods his class meets with another class for large-group lecture. Here, specially-trained teachers use new visual aids of their own design to teach more vividly some of the important biology concepts.

The Snyder staff utilization project is a creative search for concrete improvements in the quality of instruction. It aims not at theorizing but at specific changes —results count," Nesbitt said.

To attain results, interested teachers have been provided with secretarial assistance, special materials, and the summer workshop. Teachers who are interested in using different approaches were encouraged to do so by becoming a part of the staff utilization project, Nesbitt said, adding that the special consideration they receive is justified on the grounds that change cannot and should not involve everyone at once.

Teachers in the project search for answers to instructional problems which continue to face teachers and students daily. The end product is meant to be that all teachers, here and elsewhere, will be better professionally. Students would benefit as a result of improved instruction.

Nesbitt calls the staff utilization project here a year-round workshop. It is sponsored jointly by the Snyder public schools and the Ford Foundation, through its Fund for the Advancement of Education, which is an instigating agent in a national search for answers to educational problems.

The project is now in its third and last year, and changes in the instructional program made by teachers in the project are based on what they learned in the past.

Large classes, as they were last year, are now past history, Nesbitt said, but some things learned from them are not.

Although the staff utilization project here deals with new approaches to teaching and learning, it is not an experimental program insofar as what the students are taught. Improvement in instruction is the aim, Nesbitt said.

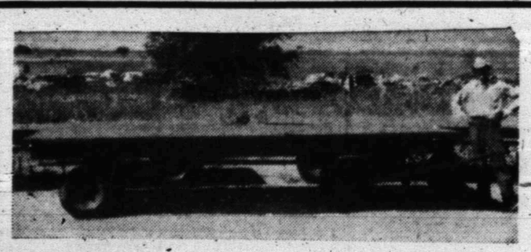

"To the extent that it has been blessed, Snyder has a particular responsibility and opportunity to search out the answers to many of the problems facing the American public schools today," Nesbitt said.

AF Sergeant Defies Death For Repairs

MITCHEL AIR FORCE BASE, N.Y. (AP)—An Air Force sergeant defied death Friday while repairing a jammed nose wheel on a cargo plane as it hovered 2,000 feet over the landing field here.

Thanks to Staff Sgt. Oscar Powell, 25, of Freeport, N.Y., the big C119 plane made a perfect landing at this Nassau County base on Long Island.

Powell was technician aboard the plane as it started in for a landing. The main landing wheels dropped into place but the nose wheel came down only part way and would not lock.

Doffing his parachute, Powell thrust the upper part of his body out of a flap in the floor of the cockpit. Usuing one hand and his feet to hold on, he worked with the other to secure the nose wheel.

Powell also was confronted with the possibility that the nose wheel might suddenly retract, crushing him or knocking him loose from his precarious hold.

A veteran of eight years in the Air Force, Powell is the father of two daughters. His wife, Christine, is the daughter of Richard Smith of Cleveland. Powell's father, James, also lives in Cleveland.

Compromise Anti-Secrecy Bill Passed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today passed a compromise version of a bill to require public disclosure of financial data on employe pension and welfare plans.

The measure now goes to the House which is expected to act on it early next week. Conferees reached agreement on it Friday.

The bill would require public disclosure of the makeup and annual financial operations of an estimated 40,000 pension and welfare plans.

These involve 35 billion dollars of reserves and cover 85 million persons.

About 90 per cent of the plans are employer managed. The others are controled by unions or are jointly run by labor and management.

There have been frequent references in testimony before the Senate Labor-Managemnt Racketts Committee of alleged misuse of the welfare funds.

Clinton Initiated Into Fraternity

Bob Clinton of Snyder has been initiated into the Delta Zeta chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, honorary professional education fraternity at Texas Tech.

The initiation took place yesterday. The fraternity's purpose is to promote free public education.

CRMWD Gets Extension To Study River

The Texas Board of Water Engineers has granted a one - year and final extension to the Colorado River Municipal Water District's presentation for a study of the upper Colorado River.

E. V. Spence, general manager for CRMWD, was notified Friday of the extension until Aug. 8, 1959.

"Undoubtedly we will file an application before that time for a water permit," said Spence.

The district has been engaged in a survey of the area, looking toward the possibility of another major dam across the Colorado in southern Mitchell County. Precursory studies indicate that this would impound a lake one and a half times as large as Lake J. B. Thomas, which has a capacity of 204,000 acre feet.

The U. S. Geological Survey is engaged in making a topographic survey on areas in the proposed watershed which have not been mapped previously. Already preliminary copies of these maps have been reaching the district office and are being matched in order to show potential dam and spillway sites, etc. These preliminary maps will be sufficiently reliable to spot locations on paper and thus set up the field work, Spence explained.

Usually in order to seek a permit to impound water, an applicant will make a presentation to the state board of water engineers. This more or less reserves the water rights pending completion of the study. If the applicant can then show need, feasibility and ability, he may obtain a water permit.

Gunderson's Appointment Is Confirmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today confirmed the nomination of Mrs. Barbara Bates Gunderson, Republican national committeewoman from South Dakota, to a $20,000-a-year post as civil service commissioner.

The nomination was approved by voice vote at the start of today's session with only a few senators present. Almost immediately after the Senate had acted a debate broke out on her appointment.

Sen. Joseph C. Clark (D-Pa) touched it off by saying that he wanted to note objection to Mrs. Gunderson's four-year appointment.

Mrs. Gunderson, 41, is a former radio copywriter and broadcaster.

Clark, a member of the Senate civil service committee that approved the nomination two days ago by a divided vote, said Mrs. Gunderson, wife of a Rapid City, S.D., attorney, has "absolutely no qualifications at all for the job."

Clark said she has not had "the slightest connection", with anything to do with personnel management and knows no more about the work of a civil service commissioner than she does about the work of a surgeon.

Goldfine's Son To Face Divorce Suit

BARTOW, Fla. (AP)—A suit for divorce has been filed against H. Maxwell Goldfine, son of the Boston industrialist who has been cited for contempt of Congress.

The suit was filed Friday by Mrs. Claire C. Goldfine and charged extreme cruelty. She asked temporary and permanent alimony and said she has no means of supporting herself or paying an attorney.

Mrs. Goldfine said they were married March 9, 1957, and lived together until Dec. 28, 1957. She gave her address as Sarasota and his address as a New York City hotel. She asked return of her maiden name, Claire C. McTighe.

Young Goldfine attempted suicide in a Sarasota motel a few weeks ago when he cut himself many times with a razor blade. He was discharged from a hospital less than 24 hours later.

At that time the couple denied any plans for a divorce.

Fluvanna Pupils Register Sept. 1

FLUVANNA (Spl.) — Registration on Sept. 1 will open school for students of the Fluvanna area.

There will be only about half a day of school that day, beginning at 3:30 a.m., and students will be rturned home for lunch. Buses will run, according to L. M. Dawson, superintendent.

On the next day will be the first full day of school.

During the summer, the Fluvanna school system has begun landscaping around the main building on the school ground and has a good turf of grass established. Floors have been refinished.

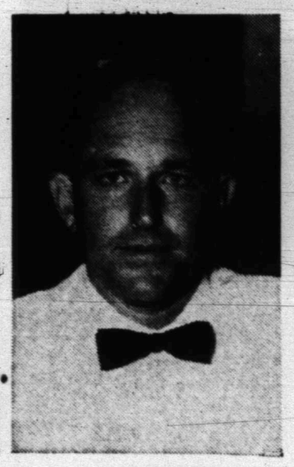

In the room formerly used for science, a partition has been added to make two classrooms. Science facilities have been moved to the room formerly occupied by the cafeteria. Four buses will be running this school year.

Physics will be a new course this year and from now on will be offered on alternate years, with chemistry offered on the other years. Algebra II, which alternates with plane geometry, will be offered this year. Biology is offered each year.

James Smith, principal, will teach math and physics.

Teachers in the system who did not teach at Fluvanna last year are Mrs. Clyde Moss, wife of the pastor of the Fluvanna Methodist Church, who recently moved to Fluvanna from Oklahoma, teaching the second grade, and Mrs. Jack Blanchard, who formerly taught in the Snyder schools, fifth grade.

Other teachers include Mrs. Beanie Owen, first grade; Mrs. Emma Land, third grade; Miss Ollie Mae Martin, fourth grade; Cecil LaGrone, sixth grade and

Evangelist Jailed In Racial Dispute

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)— James W. Vaughn, white evangelist who said he was called "by the Lord" to preach at a local Negro church, faces a jail term for doing so.

Justice of the Peace J. B. Bell found Vaughn, his wife, and Phillip Coleman, Negro pastor of Bethlehem Temple here, guilty of conspiring to violate state segregation laws. Bell meted out a 30-day jail term and $50 fine to each of them.

The Vaughns were arrested Thursday at Coleman's house. Vaughn said he and his wife had lived at the Coleman home after arriving Saturday. Coleman has a wife and five children.

Vaughn told officers he is a minister of the apostolic faith and came from Savannah, Ga.

Army Blasted For Doling Out Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — Comptroller General Joseph Campbell fired off a critical blast at the Army today for what he called doling out too much money to soldiers and their dependents.

He said there have been 24 million dollars in overpayments the past two years.

In a report to the House Military Operations subcommittee, Campbell said more heed should be paid to the government's financial rules and regulations. He put the blame on what he called basic weaknesses in the military pay and allowance system. He also recommended better training for Army finance personnel.

Chairman Chet Holifield (D-Calif) said his subcommittee investigators would consider the findings of Campbell's watchdog General Accounting Office.

The report noted a number of Army efforts to cut down overpayments, but said they continue to be a problem year after year.

Campbell cited these examples of overpayments:

$2,900,000 in leave settlements—giving soldiers sums above those to which they were entitled for leave not taken.

$704,000 for erroneous mustering out payments, including instances when some soldiers were paid twice and others illegally were given money for retiring.

$697,000 for reenlistment bonuses, including payments for the reenlistment of some officers, who aren't eligible for such indicements.
