Governor Orders Rangers To Shamrock To Halt Sunday Circus Performance

TRAIN WRECKAGE SEARCHED FOR BURIED VICTIMS

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

Judge A. H. Carrigan hands us a clipping from a Little Rock newspaper telling of a watermelon weighing 160¾ pounds grown by A. B. Turner of Hope, Ark., Judge Carrigan's old home. This is the biggest watermelon on record in Arkansas and probably in the whole country.

The clipping goes on to tell of the increase in the size of the championship watermelon grown in the Hope section from year to year. In 1923 the biggest melon weighed 100 pounds; in 1925 this had been increased to 136 pounds and the limit was believed to have been reached when a melon was grown last year that balanced the scales at 143¼ pounds. The past season has been very dry at Hope, as it has been almost everywhere, and noting the record of 160¾ pounds in a dry year Judge Carrigan is wondering just how big a melon his old home community will grow when a wet season comes.

They have always grown good watermelons around Hope, Judge Carrigan tells us, and up until a few years ago the local negro population was depended upon to consume them. But some years ago a man who knew something about produce markets in the big cities happened to visit Hope. He saw the fine melons and induced the natives to gather up a carload for him. They were shipped to one of the big city markets and brought a fair price. The same man induced the farmers to plant larger melon patches the next year and agreed to buy all that were grown. That was the start of the melon industry in the Red river bottoms at Hope where melon raising is now an important industry and there the world's largest melons are now grown.

By the way, Judge Carrigan attended the Democratic convention at Galveston and reports it a very ladylike affair.

The keynote speaker did give the women most of the credit for the results of the run-off primary.

In the ancient Mayan city of Uxmal, Mexico, writes Ruby Black in the current issue of The Household Magazine, women were dominant a thousand years ago and made prohibition laws that applied to men only, the women being permitted to use their own judgment in the drinking of intoxicants. Men were punished for infidelity to their wives, while women were not punished for unfaithfulness to their husbands. The husband could divorce the unfaithful wife, however, just as the American women can divorce the unfaithful husband except in one state.

Talking about prohibition, did you read that Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana agrees with Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York that the 18th amendment ought to be repealed and prohibition regulations left to the states? Governor Roosevelt is a wet and believes in state regulation as a matter of principle. Senator Wheeler is a dry and probably isn't concerned with the question from the standpoint of principle so much as practicability.

There are a lot of genuine prohibitionists who believe we would have been much further along on the road to prohibition had the 18th amendment never been adopted and prohibition permitted to have developed through local option and state regulation.

Be that as it may, the prohibition question is going to be a fence right across the road for both political parties in 1932.

Congressman Guinn Williams has sailed from a California port with a congressional committee for Samoa to obtain first-hand information for the drafting of a plan of government for U. S. insular possessions. Senator Bingham is chairman of the committee. Another member is Senator Robinson of Arkansas. The work of this committee is important and our own Congressman Williams is making a thorough study of the subject. A friend of Talker's in Washington said some time ago that Congressman Williams had already done a lot of hard work on the subject and was better informed on it than any member of the committee, either Republican or Democratic.

Chief of Police Frank Burns asks the cooperation of citizens and school authorities in the enforcement of "stop" regulations in the vicinity of the schools. Talker cannot believe anybody would wilfully want to endanger the lives of school children but some folks are careless about heeding traffic regulations designed to protect school children crossing the street. It may take some arrests to enforce these regulations. There will be little sympathy for the driver who is arrested for such a violation.

Macdonald's Daughter To Wed Scotch Surgeon

LONDON, Sept. 12. (US)—Miss Joan Margaret Macdonald, second daughter of Prime Minister Ramsay Macdonald, will shortly become the bride of Dr. Alistair Mackinnor, a Scottish surgeon, it was officially announced today.

It has also been made known that the Maryland academy of sciences has conferred an honorary membership upon the British premier in recognition of his "services in the cause of peace."

MOVE BRINGS ANGRY PROTEST FROM CITIZENS

Moody Threatens City With Guardsmen if Plan Persists

SHERIFF CONFIDENT

Storm of Indignation Meets Legion's 'Benefit' Arrangement

Special to The Record News.

SHAMROCK, Texas, Sept. 12.—Governor Dan Moody advised H. B. Hill, local attorney, over long distance telephone from Austin Friday that he had already ordered rangers to Shamrock, and would send 1,000 national guardsmen on Sunday unless he was advised that Ringling Brothers circus would not show here on Sunday Sept. 14.

Governor Moody's action in ordering the rangers to Shamrock is the outgrowth of protest from some local citizens against the advertised performance to be given by "the world's greatest show" at Shamrock next Sunday. The show was advertised under the auspices of the local post of American Legion, and the legion is to receive $500 for furnishing grounds and sponsoring the show. It was announced by local legionnaires that the money was intended to be used for charitable purposes during the coming winter.

Citizens Incensed

Local citizens are incensed over the action of Governor Moody in ordering rangers to Shamrock, stating that local peace officers are fully competent to cope with the situation and there is no need for the action of the state executive in ordering rangers and guardsmen. Judge W. R. Ewing, judge of the 31st judicial district which includes Wheeler county wired Governor Moody today that he knew of no

Hurricane Sweeps Carolina Coast

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 12. (US)—A storm of hurricane velocity swept the North Carolina coast tonight and was expected to strike at point 20 miles north of Cape Henry, at midnight and from there follow the coastline as far as Sandy Hook.

At Cape Lookout, the wind attained a velocity of 110 miles an hour, but the only damage reported was the unroofing of the government wireless plant and the crushing of a number of fishing boats on the beach.

Wires Down

At Morehead City the wind attained a velocity of 82 miles an hour and all the telegraph and telephone wires leading into the town were blown down.

At Manteo the wind attained 60-mile-an-hour velocity but at 8 o'clock tonight had diminished to fifty.

A report from the Cape Lookout light vessel, received here at 8:30 o'clock, indicated that the storm was moving north-northeast and was about 20 miles off shore.

Island Endangered

The light vessel escaped damage. Some anxiety was felt for the inhabitants of Ocracoke island, which is reported to have felt the full force of the blow. This island surrounded by the Atlantic ocean and Albermarle sound, is inhabited by about 500 people.

All government and sea coast wires from Norfolk to Hatteras and all coast points were blown down by the storm.

DALLAS WORKMAN KILLED

DALLAS, Sept. 12. (UP)—Edward Ranft, 21, of Irving, was crushed to death today when a heavy bucket fell and struck him on the head while he was working at the Dallas Washed and Screened Gravel company plant, near Irving.

A. E. F. Chief Is 70 Years Old Today

(C.) Bachrach

The eve of his 70th birthday Friday found General John J. Pershing, America's greatest living military figure, and leader of the American Expeditionary Forces abroad, in splendid health, engaged in many tasks and busy with plans for the future. As he begins his 71st year he will continue work on his war memoirs, consider problems of the battle monuments commission, give attention to the campaign for funds for the Episcopal cathedral and walk a couple of miles for exercise.

District Cotton Office Opened Here for Farmers of Four Counties

Farmers of the Wichita Falls area may now secure an advance of 90 per cent of the market value of their cotton through a branch of the Texas Cooperative association opened here.

John C. Mackey, grader for this district, arrived here Friday and opened offices on the second floor of the Industrial Mart building at 913 Eighth street. Mr. Mackey will grade cotton brought in by farmers of this district and will issue a draft on local banks to the farmer for 90 per cent of the market's value of the staple under the cooperative's plan. Mr. Mackey's home is in Frederick, Okla., but he comes to Wichita Falls from the Dallas bureau.

The district cotton office here will serve all farmers in Wichita, Clay, Young and Montague counties, and will extend to Decatur in Wise county, Mr. Mackey said.

OKLA. SHOOT HONORS KING

Wichita Boy to Meet Champs of Five States

Alfred Rufus King, 14, of this city, who brought the entire nation sharply to admiring attention last month by defeating America's best trapshooters in the national championship match at Vandalia, Ohio, will participate in a five-state shoot to be staged in his honor at Oklahoma City Oct. 4 and 5 by the Capitol City Gun club, according to information given by officials of that organization Friday.

Shooters from Texas, Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Arkansas numbering more than 200 are expected to be present at Oklahoma City for the special event, it was stated. Young King will use again the gun with which he rolled up a championship record at Vandalia. The same piece was used by his father in former years in winning similar championships. Both Alfred King, and his father, R. A. King, will participate in the Oklahoma City shoot, it was learned here Friday. Prizes amounting to more than $500 have been hung up for the meet, it was announced.

FEEDING TESTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12. (AP)—Secretary Hyde said today Nebraska experiments in substituting wheat for corn in feeding livestock had resulted in hogs selling at $11 a hundred pounds representing a return of $1.50 a bushel for wheat.

Air Cavalcade Lands at Wausau

WAUSAU, Wis., Sept. 12 (UP)—Minus only one of the escort airplanes, the 22 entries and 10 accompanying ships of the Ford reliability air tour arrived tonight ending the second leg of the 4,500-mile journey.

Johnny Livingston, of Aurora, Ill., led the air calvacade, followed by J. Wesley Smith, and Myron E. Zeller, of Detroit. Livingston replaced Zeller as high point score also.

Nancy Hopkins, Washington society girl and only woman entry, was last to arrive. She also was last on the first leg yesterday, which ended at Evanston, Ill. A noon-day stop was made today at Davenport, Iowa.

Dry Leader Wants Issue Put Up to Convention

LONGVIEW, Wash., Sept. 12. (AP)—Submission of the prohibition question to a national convention of the people was proposed by U. S. Senator Wesley L. Jones, ardent dry, in a letter to a friend here today.

YOUTH BEATS BILL TILDEN IN FOUR SETS

Old Master of Courts Loses To John Doeg In Thrilling Fight

FINALS SATURDAY

Shields to Meet Victor Today to Decide Net Titles

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 12. (UP)—The 1,000 fans who sat in the grey-and-green stadium of the Westside Tennis club today saw the almost incredible happen. They saw Big Bill Tilden, the master, eliminated in the semi-final round of the men's national singles championship.

They saw him go down fighting valiantly, to happy Johnny Doeg, of Santa Monica, Calif., who was only 11-years-old when Big Bill first became champion. True, Tilden was not at his best. He limped badly from an injury to his knee that has bothered him for several weeks but Doeg was in the mood to win. And he did win—gloriously.

Shields in Final

Doeg, not yet 22, will meet Frank X. Shields of New York in the final round tomorrow. Shields, approaching his 20th birthday, likewise supplied somewhat of an upset today when he gained an unexpectedly easy victory over Sidney B. Wood, his fellow townsman.

The closeness of play in the Tilden-Doeg match can be shown merely by the scores: 10-8, 6-3, 3-6, 12-10. The last set especially, running as it did to 22 games before there was a single break in service, was one of the hardest fought battles in the history of the championship's 49 years.

Tilden, 38, and past his tennis prime, was still the craftsman of the courts who knew every stroke and knew how to save his game right leg if it were possible. But on the other side of the net was a youngster who suddenly found himself possessing a service that was simply beyond the veteran. Doeg, usually smiling and carefree, generally inaccurate in the stress of an important encounter suddenly became a player who was "on" every point and who would not acknowledge that he was playing a better man.

Perfect Game

By forcing himself only half the time, Tilden played smartly. With his superior experience he might have won if he could have found a single flaw in the Doeg armor. Unfortunately, however, Doeg was well equipped. His chop strokes and his driving were spectacular and he even caught Tilden at the latter's own game—the bait of introducing drop shots at critical moments during rallies.

The match was so sensational—both in result and play—that the earlier Shields-Wood encounter paled in comparison. Shields won, 6-2, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, and he looked the better man even when he was losing the third set.

Tow-headed Sidney Wood, slight in build and unranked last year, was extremely nervous from the beginning. Nor did he gain any confidence as he went along. Shields, perhaps as hard a driver as Tilden at his best, worried Wood throughout and maneuvered his opponent into one out after another.

Printers to Vote On Headquarters Move

HOUSTON, Sept. 12. (AP)—A referendum vote in April, 1931 on a proposal to move the headquarters of the International Typographical Union at Indianapolis to another city was authorized today by the 75th annual convention of the organization. The action closed the most heated issue raised at the convention.

Debate over the removal issue saw a split in both the administrative officers and the convention body.

Hundreds Endangered As Nitro Blast Rocks City

WICHITA, Kan., Sept. 12. (AP)—The Du Pont powder magazine, near Wichita Heights, a small oil field town, nine miles north of here, exploded tonight. The blast was heard in towns and villages within an area of 50 miles. Broken glass from shattered windows littered the streets here and virtually every building in the city was rocked by the blast. All lines of communication with Wichita Heights were out of commission and reports of expected casualties and damage were not immediately available.

Plant Isolated

Jack O'Flaherty, manager of the Du Pont Powder company here, said approximately 1,000 quarts of nitroglycerin were stored in the powder magazine. The magazine was in an isolated spot about a half mile from Wichita Heights and near two main traveled highways.

Approximately 125 oil field workers and their families live in Wichita Heights. Reports were received here that several persons, traveling along the highways had been dangerously injured, but no deaths had been reported.

Prowlers Suspected

Mr. O'Flaherty said he had received numerous complaints recently that persons had been stealing explosives from the magazine and he expressed belief that someone may have kicked over a bottle of nitroglycerin in the powder house.

New Cartoon Strip Tells Texas' Romantic History

Record News to Begin Publication Monday of Series of "Texas History Movies"

A new cartoon strip, telling in pictures the thrilling and romantic history of Texas, has been secured by The Record News for publication beginning Monday, Sept. 15. The Record News and other Texas newspapers have purchased the rights to the historical sketches called "Texas History Movies" and the introductory strip will appear Monday.

Text for the cartoons, which are entirely authentic, was prepared by John Rosenfeld, while the drawings are by Jack Patton, well known artist of Dallas. From the discovery of America by Columbus, through Cortez' conquest of Mexico and La Salle's ill-fated colonization plans to the modern life of Texas, the authors of this new Record News feature have labored to produce not only an accurate pictorial story of Texas' history, but one that will entertain as well as instruct.

Opening of the sketches at a time when students all over Northwest Texas are returning to their class rooms has been deliberately planned by the authors of the cartoons. Many school teachers and principals will find the pictorial story of Rosenfeld and Patton a valuable adjunct in their class rooms, especially in the teaching of Texas history.

DEATH CLAIMS WILL C. HOGG

Texas Capitalist Dies In Germany

HOUSTON, Sept. 12. (AP)—Will C. Hogg, Houston millionaire and son of the late Gov. James Stephen Hogg of Texas, is dead in a Baden Baden, Germany, hospital, friends here were advised this afternoon.

Mr. Hogg died after an operation for gallstones. Like his famous father, who often was called "the great commoner of Texas," he was widely popular. One of his close friends was O. O. McIntyre, the New York columnist. Mr. Hogg died at noon today. He was 55 years old.

Burial in Houston

Mr. Hogg is survived by two brothers, Mike of Houston and Thomas E. of San Antonio and one sister, Ima Hogg of Houston, who was with him at the time of his death.

Mike Hogg left New York Friday and was expected to arrive in Baden Baden tomorrow, to bring his brother's body back to Houston. It was understood he hurriedly determined on the trip after hearing of his brother's illness.

Mr. Hogg was born in Quitman, Wood county, Texas, Jan. 31, 1875.

He was graduated from the University of Texas in 1897 with the degree bachelor of laws and was a regent of the university for some years. He was a member of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, the Efficiency society, Southern Sociological congress, the Texas Industrial congress and Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Made Oil Fortune

His clubs included the Houston, Thalian and Houston Country club; the Lambs, National Arts and Rocky Mountain of New York.

Mr. Hogg maintained an apartment on Park avenue in New York and spent a great deal of his time there.

Early in his career he was employed in a humble position in a theater here, since razed. The discovery of oil on the edge of the Hogg homestead at West Columbia, Texas, made him a wealthy man almost overnight and, once possessed of the working capital, he was able to increase his fortune. The ranch property, meanwhile, has been made into a modern ranch. In his later years Mr. Hogg had become rather a patron of the arts, as well as a patron of his alma mater, the University of Texas, whose new stadium he helped to build. As a collector he had gained some fame.

LIVINGSTON MAN HELD

LIVINGSTON, Texas, Sept. 12 (UP)—W. R. Still was held tonight in connection with the fatal shooting of J. N. Womack, city electrician, on the street here last night. No motive for the shooting was learned.

SPLIT SWITCH HURLS ENGINES IN COLLISION

Rock Island Freight Cars Wrecked in Yards At Fort Worth

VICTIMS BURIED

Gasoline Tank Cars Add Fire Hazard To Disaster

FORT WORTH, Sept. 12. (UP)—Wreckage of a fast Rock Island freight train, that split a switch and crashed head-on into a switch engine, near here, was searched tonight for bodies of possible victims.

One body, that of F. M. Fry, fireman of the freight train, was recovered early tonight. Ernest Fridge, engineer of the switch engine was believed buried in the wreckage. H. Christopher, engineer of the freight train, who at first was believed buried in the debris, was later found alive, but severely injured. F. B. Minor, brakeman on the switch engine crew, also was injured seriously.

Darkness hampered rescue work tonight and it was necessary to call electricians to install lights at the scene of the wreck, which occurred four miles north of Fort Worth.

The freight train left Waurika, Okla., at 12:20 p. m. en route to Fort Worth and was pulling into the yards when the switch split, causing it to crash into the switch engine. Many box cars left the track and formed a heap of wreckage.

W. M. Rains, fireman on the switch engine, said he saw the freight split the switch and head for his engine and he jumped. He suffered several broken bones.

Jury Probes Fatal Automobile Crash

DALLAS, Sept. 12. (UP)—The county grand jury today began an investigation of the automobile wreck at the outskirts of town Thursday, in which Mrs. J. W. Beavers was killed and her son, W. C. Beavers, fatally injured.

Charges of driving while intoxicated have been filed against E. J. Majure, driver of the other car that figured in the accident.

Majure was injured in the collision and is recovering at a hospital here.

Charley Cumbs, negro, who was riding with Majure, is held in jail as a witness.

Deputy sheriffs McAlpin and Wilder, who went to the scene of the wreck, said they found two broken whisky bottles in the wreckage.

Cotton Denies Reports Of Unrest in Cuba

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12. (UP)—Published reports of increasing unrest in Cuba likely to result in an outbreak of disturbances were challenged today by Acting Secretary of State Cotton.

He said these disptaches did not agree with information reaching him, explaining that he had recently talked with several persons lately returned from Cuba, who had given him "surprisingly favorable reports" as to the situation in the island republic.

Italian Volcano Pours Lava From Its Base

MESSINA, Italy, Sept. 12. (AP)—Officials investigating yesterday's eruption and earthquake have made the extraordinary discovery that the volcano Stromboli opened at its base.

While the cone was blown off and burning rocks were shot from the crater an opening forged through the earth at the base poured out lava and burning sand, which reached the vallages before the lava from the cone.

Citizens Open Fire On Fleeing Bank Bandits

MERRIMAN, Neb., Sept. 12. (AP)—Three armed men robbed the Anchor bank of $3,000, but had to run the gauntlet of citizens' gunfire before they escaped.

One of the trio slumped over as their heavy sedan roared out of town today and spectators believed he was wounded. A posse was organized to carry on the hunt for the robbers.

During the robbery, Mrs. O. W. Hogrese, who was in the bank, slipped away and spread the alarm. The bandits were met by citizens as they left the bank. Each side shot four times.

Cloudburst Strikes Four Texas Counties

DEL RIO, Texas, Sept. 12. (UP)—A cloudburst struck here early today, drenching the entire section. Rainfall measured four inches. Brewster, Pecos and Terrell counties were soaked.

The AGE of YOUTH

A New Serial

By ARTHUR SOMERS ROCHE

Randolph Granby rang the bell twice. Into the second pressure of the button he put a petulant impatience. Bachelors become victims to routine, and Granby had been a bachelor for a long time. Longer than he liked to contemplate. Not that he desired to change his estate. The wariest fish in New York's matrimonial sea had no desire to be hooked, gaffed and placed in a bowl like a goldfish. To pretend to nibble at the entrancing bait trolled before him, and then to dart swiftly away. . . . Nevertheless, it was a bit disconcerting to have one's barber remark, "Thinning a bit on top, sir." And it was not reassuring to have one's tailor suggest, though ever so diffidently, that a certain pattern was a trifle youthful. . . .

Of course, 39 was not young. Neither, by any stretch of the imagination, could it be termed old. Why, middle age didn't begin until the 50s were reached. He hadn't even reached the prime of life. Five sets of tennis; 36 holes of golf; a half-mile swim . . . He was stronger now than he had been at 20. All this chitter-chatter . . . "Time you settled down, Ran. Must be pretty lonesome having no one waiting home for you. Wait till you have a couple of kids of your own, old man."

Twaddle. He'd never seen a girl yet to whom he wanted to yield his freedom. And as for this vaunted delight of domesticity. . . . Well, most of the men one encountered at the Mallet or the Stream were benedicts. Bachelors didn't hang around clubs. They were out somewhere, having a good time.

Romance? He could have plenty of that. A pretty girl, assiduous attentions, the light in her eyes that meant he might kiss her. And then—to move on before the light became more calculating, before it became possessive. After all, we live but once, and to give over life to the keeping of another was too sublime a generosity. What did one get in return for it? Affection? Love? Well, even so. But one paid so tremendously for those things. A bachelor went to Palm Beach when he chose, not when a wife told him. A bachelor considered himself, not a wife and children, and a wife's social obligations. A bachelor could be crusty in the morning, could stay or leave a party. A bachelor didn't need to readjust his life to the whims of another. Oh, maybe it was selfish, but—it was darned pleasant.

Also, to have achieved practically nothing in life, and yet, because of one's wealth, to be sought after. Oh, no, not the money alone; it was the singleness of his estate. He was an "extra man." Not a great deal on which to plume one's self, but—it made for entertainment. He knew every celebrity that had ever come to America, knew them by the mere grace of the fact that he was available, that he could be asked without the necessity of asking a wife also.

Not that a wife would have been a detriment. The woman who married Ran Granby would step into an assured place. Nevertheless, Ran Granby was asked to everything; Mr. and Mrs. Granby could not expect that.

He had been reflecting on these matters the previous night when he turned in. He had worn a smile through the pleasant dreams of the night. And he had been awakened by his man, Curtin, to continue cheery reflections. That Ryder girl. Sweet thing. Her mama had been angling for six months. Pretty trick. Had everything the ordinary man could want, but nothing that Ran Granby desired. Well, mama had been pretty frigid last night. Perfectly all right. She had justice with her. If a man didn't intend committing himself, then he had no right to sew up a girl's time. Another pleasant interlude was ended. Well, another new one would begin almost any day.

Meantime, it was pleasant, sort of, to realize that one didn't have to telephone, didn't have to think of a new attractive place for luncheon, could neglect ordering orchids, arranging too-late parties at the Embassy or Montmartre. In short, one could, until a new butterfly flitted before one's vision, relax into perfect unconcern for everything save one's own peculiarly private concerns.

Selfish? All right. What of it?

A shave, a bath, a perfectly served breakfast, and now, with the first cigaret of the morning permeating his lungs, the mail. He liked his morning mail. Though he rarely appeared at the estate offices, knowing well that his lawyers were honest and far more able than himself, it was a polite fiction, to which his attorneys gave outward credence, that he himself studied every proposed investment, every intended liquidation of any of his assets into cash. All letters that were addressed to him must be sent to his home, there to be opened by his secretary, who would submit them with pencilled notes and suggestions, when they would be sent to the lawyers for them to do as they saw fit.

But nothing unpleasant was to be laid before the eyes of Ran Granby. Begging letters, anonymous letters, threatening letters—these were deleted from the mail by his efficient secretary.

Efficient! Damnation, he had given the signal—two preemptory rings upon the bell—that he was ready for what he termed work. And Crandall, the deprecating, self-effacing, machine-like secretary, had not answered. Ran Granby's pleasant face—it is easy to be pleasant when one hasn't a care in the world—grew petulant. He arose from bed one minute after Curtin awakened him. Three minutes later, after a few exercises before an open window, he stepped into his tub. Three minutes after that, he began shaving. Six minutes later he sat down to breakfast. The headlines and sporting pages while he ate, then the first puffs of his cigaret and, then—the mail. And Crandall hadn't answered the bell.

He frowned upon the grave, ob-

VERNON LIONS SWAMP DUKE

Lions Open Season With Impressive Win

Special to The Record News

VERNON, Texas, Sept. 12.—Vernon High school Lions blasted the lid of their 1930 football season by defeating the Duke, Okla., Tigers, 25 to 6, at the city park gridiron this afternoon. The Lions were slow to get started but settled down early in the second quarter and revealed to 500 Vernon fans one of the best coached early season teams that has been seen in several seasons.

The Lions tackled, blocked the Tiger advance with a will, and showing almost perfect interference aided the Jungle King backfield men to the goal line. Earnest Christian, veteran Lion halfback of last season, gave the fans a real thrill in taking a kick off on his own 13-yard line and circled for an 87-yard run for a touchdown. He covered well over 90 yards in making the dash with the entire Lion squad forming interference.

Captain Nixon executed a perfect stop and side step to score the last touchdown after a 23-yard right end run. Woodrow Smith, halfback, accounted for two Lion touchdowns in taking advantage of openings in the Tiger line. The Vernon line of youngsters and first year men functioned well despite their expected greenness. Judd made good on one try for extra point after goal. Beck Lawrence, Lion halfback, amassed a total of 80 yards in broken field runs during the first half. R. Clemens made the only touchdown for the Tigers early in the contest.

The Lions ran up a total of 11 first downs to five for the visitors. Vernon was penalized five times for a total of 35 yards. Duke was penalized once for five yards. The Lions completed one pass for 29 yards and Duke completed one toss for 23 yards. Three Tiger passes were incomplete and one was intercepted.

Archer City Defeats Wichita B Team 4-0

Special to The Record News.

ARCHER CITY, Texas, Sept. 12.—The Archer City high school eleven took victory Friday over the Wichita Falls high school B team by a score of 4 to 0 in their first practice game of the season. Both teams proved evenly matched in practically all departments of the game except in punting, the Archer City lads having the advantage in that line. The local team made safeties in both the first and last halves of the game and the last gun fired with Archer City in possession of the ball on the Wichita Falls one-yard line.

Archer City plays Graham at Graham Friday, Sept. 19 in another practice game. The regular schedule has been tentatively set to begin Sept. 26, although Coach Bill Cooper of the Archer City team said Friday there was doubt as to the definite date.

Spur Team Runs Over Memphis Eleven, 52-0

Special to The Record News

SPUR, Texas, Sept. 12.—The Spur eleven swamped the Memphis High school team here Friday 52 to 0 in the first game of the season. Brode Puckett, captain and fullback, aided by Jim and Joe Hahn and Rickels in the backfield led the scoring attack. Barrett at left end was the outstanding linesman, scoring once and playing a strong defensive game. Rhodes at guard was the mainstay of the line and Morgan at the other guard position also starred at defense. Hammond and Pearson starred in the Memphis lineup, both playing at back.

Waurika Eagles Beat Fort Sill Indians, 21-0

Special to The Record News.

WAURIKA, Okla., Sept. 12.—The Waurika high school Eagles, fresh on the gridiron after a strenuous training period, sent the Fort Sill Indian school team down in defeat Friday afternoon by running up a score of 21 to 0 in their first game of the season. The game was played on the local field and drew a large crowd. Dick Pryor, formerly of Ringling, Okla., has taken over the coaching reins of the Waurika team and the Eagles give promise of an excellent showing on the gridiron this season.

Two new saints were recently canonized by Pope Pius. They were Lucy Filippini, founder of the Filippini Sister order, and Catherine Thomas, Spanish nun.

Gallant Old Irish Sportsman Enters Shamrock V Against Trim American Enterprise

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 12. (AP)—Shamrock V and Enterprise, the House of Lipton and the House of Vanderbilt, British searfaring skill and American nautical ingenuity, emerald-hued sentiment and white-hulled efficiency—these comprise the apparent ingredients of the naval classic of the year—the sailing race for America's cup, most prized of the world's yachting trophies, in the series starting tomorrow nine miles southeast of Brenton Reef lightship.

Fourteenth Race

Sticking closely to the facts, it's a race between Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V, flying the burgee of the Royal Ulster Yacht club of Belfast, Ireland, and the Vanderbilt-Aldrich syndicate's Enterprise, chosen representative of the cup-holding New York Yacht club, whose roster of members reads like a substantial portion of Who's Who in America.

This is the 14th renewal of the British-American yachting rivalry that sprang from the victory of the schooner, America, around the Isle of Wight in 1851; the fifth successive British challenge sponsored by the 80-year-old tea merchant and former Glasgow grocery storekeeper who has spent millions in one of the most spectacular sporting quests of all time.

"Will he win?"

Enterprise Favored

The answer is an almost universal expression of sentimental support for "Old Tommy" and the fifth of his famous line of Shamrocks. Popular hopes are with the challenger. Convictioin, whenever it is candidly expressed favors the sleek American defender, Enterprise, a 2-to-1 favorite in the betting and unquestionably the finest racing yacht this country has ever produced.

The first race tomorrow is scheduled for 10:30 eastern standard time and not later than 12:30. The time limit is five and a half hours. Until one yacht wins four races, the series will be continued daily, except Sundays unless the weather or a request from either side necessitates a postponement.

RANGERS SENT TO SHAMROCK

Governor Moves to Halt Sunday Circus

conditions existing in Wheeler county warranting the sending of rangers to this area.

R. H. Forrester, county judge of Wheeler county also wired a protest to the governor as did the chamber of commerce and city council of Shamrock. The agitation against the performance is being led by a committee composed of W. E. Tarbet, O. T. Glasscock and J. J. Lummus.

Members of the American Legion here are indignant over the action of the governor and one member of the executive committee suggested that the governor keep the rangers in Austin and stop performance of moving picture shows in Austin next Sunday.

Sheriff Silent

Representatives of Ringling Brothers circus have been in Shamrock for several days, but refused to give out a statement pending instructions from headquarters. Ringling Brothers circus is showing today in Oklahoma City and is scheduled for Shawnee Saturday, Shamrock Sunday and Amarillo Monday.

Sheriff W. K. McLemore refused to give out a statement, except that he expected to do his duty. He was in long distance telephone conference with Governor Moody this morning and advised the governor that he could handle the situation but the governor advised that he was sending rangers to Shamrock.

Visitors Welcomed by Electra Lions Club

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Sept. 12.—Visitors introduced at the weekly luncheon of the Lions club Thursday were Mrs. Kenneth Martin, little Mary Evelyn Martin, Miss Clarice Pittman; Messrs. Ralph Holman and Dale Austin, Electra and R. S. Jamar, Dallas.

W. A. Asbill was in charge of the program and presented Mary Evelyn Martin in song numbers with Mrs. Martin playing the accompaniment; duet, Mrs. Martin and Miss Pittman, who played the ukulele accompaniment. Miss Pittman also sang "Springtime in the Rockies."

G. J. Giles, president, presided over the business session. Dr. R. R. Ramey, chairman of the budget and finance committee, discussed the draft plan for the collection of club dues, and the club voted to adopt the plan.

Mr. Giles also announced that the board of directors would meet next Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. at the club room. J. N. Fulcher gave a report on the library building project. A talk on the Lions club constitution will be a feature of the next meeting.

Grandfield Defeats Burk in First Game

Special to The Record News

GRANDFIELD, Okla., Sept. 12.—The Grandfield High school football team scored three touchdowns Friday in their first game of the season and blanked the Burkburnett eleven, sending the visitors away with a score of 19 to 0 against them.

Soder, Grandfield right half, put over the first tally in the second quarter after the first quarter had gone scoreless with the Burkburnett line fighting near its own goal posts. In the third and again in the fourth quarter, Creighton at left half for Grandfield made brilliant runs down the field for touchdowns. Besides Soder and Creighton, Wolford at quarter also starred for Grandfield. Outstanding in the Burkburnett lineup were Marley at left end, Ragsdale at quarter and Salyar at left half.

The Burkburnett eleven will have an opportunity to even matters Friday, Sept. 19, when Grandfield pays a return visit with a game at Burkburnett.

U. S. MOB TOLL CLIMBS TO 18

Texas Leads States in Lynchings

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 12. (INS)—Frequent flares of mob violence during the first eight months of 1930 have claimed 18 lives—nearly double the number of lynchings in 1929—files of International News Service dispatches revealed today.

All except two of the lynchings thus far in 1930 occurred south of the Mason-Dixon line. In all save one instance the victims were negroes. The exception was the stringing up of a Hungarian bomber in Tampa, Fla., early in the year.

According to the Tuskegee institute of Tuskegee, Ala., which makes yearly compilations of lynchings, the number of victims of mob violence in 1929 was 10. The number in 1928 was 11.

Texas with four lynchings this year, stands at the head of the tabulation sheet. Three each have occurred in Georgia and Mississippi.

The count by states follows: Alabama, one; Florida, one; Georgia, three; Indiana, two; Mississippi, three; North Carolina, one; Oklahoma, one; South Carolina, two; Texas, four; total, 18.

In none of the lynchings reported south of the Potomac have investigations resulted in convictions. In only two instances have arrests been made at all, according to available information.

Gene Sarazen To Meet Armour For Pro Golf Crown

FLUSHING, N. Y., Sept. 12. (US) That American professional championship, which has been stirring the interest of the putting populace all week at the Fresh Meadow Country club, culminates tomorrow in a final argument between Gene Sarazen and Tommy Armour.

For the first time since 1923, the year he brought the mighty Hagen down on the thirty-eighth green at Pelham, the swarthy, spunky Sarazen finds himself again in a contest for the pro's most coveted honor.

Sarazen with a magnificent finish summarily stopped the tournament career of Joe Kirkwood today. He beat the trick shot exponent by 5 up and 4 to play.

It was an entirely different story with Armour. Only his years of experience saved him from falling before the robust bludgeoning of Charley Lacey, the young Londoner from Pine Valley who had been on a rampage all week. A very tired Armour holed out on the 36th green for a skimpy one hole victory.

Moody Posts Reward In Kidnaping Case

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 12. (AP)—The mystery of the kidnaping of Ethel Jordan, 12-year-old daughter of J. R. Jordan of San Antonio, was no nearer solution tonight after Gov. Dan Moody posted a $150 reward for the arrest and conviction of the persons who took the girl from the streets of San Antonio Sunday.

CHURCH SCHOOL OPENS SUNDAY

Training Course Scheduled At Iowa Park

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, Sept. 12.—Unusual interest is being manifested in the standard training school for church workers to be held at the Iowa Park Methodist church, beginning Sunday afternoon, Sept. 14, at 3 o'clock.

Six courses are offered as follows: "Worship," by Rev. Paul C. Stephenson of Dallas; "The Spirit and Genius of Methodism," Rev. C. A. Spragins of Wichita Falls; "Interpretation of the Missionary Task," Dr. A. W. Wasson, S. M. U. Dallas; "The Teachings of Jesus," Rev. Paul E. Martin of Iowa Park; "Study of Early and Middle Adolescence," Mrs. D. A. Cook of Wichita Falls; "Adult Department Administration," Mrs. E. L. Gerhardt of Wichita Falls.

More than 100 members of the local church have been enrolled and representatives are expected from the churches of Wichita Falls, Holliday, Dundee, Burkburnett and Electra.

The session, which begins Sunday afternoon, will continue each week-night from Monday through Friday.

Frederick Minister Heads District Legion

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Sept. 12.—Election of Rev. Moody Nicholson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Frederick, as district commander of the American Legion at the state meeting held at Okmulgee, was no surprise. So popular was the Frederick candidate and so well organized was his campaign, that his only opponent, Dave Hackney of Enid, seconded his nomination. Nicholson received the vote of all but five posts of the state.

Moody became prominent over the state when, as chairman of the membership drive in 1930 in a contest between the neighboring states of Texas and Kansas, Oklahoma emerged winner. In order to bring this about Nicholson visited all parts of the state.

RECIPES

Hors d' Oeuvres of Pineapple and Raspberries

Use one large slice of canned pineapple for each guest. Cut the slices with a scalloped or star-shaped cake cutter. Arrange on a lace paper doily and fill the cavity with chilled sugared raspberries.

Filet Mignon With Saute'ed Bananas

Pan broil or saute' the filets in a little hot butter, place each on a hot serving plate and cover with a very thin layer of horseradish sauce, then top with a few sliced bananas (cut round) which have been sauted in butter and seasoned with a little lemon juice. Garnish with parsley. These may be arranged on a platter and garnished with sprigs of parsley.

Potatoes a la Hollandaise

Wash, pare, soak and cut potatoes in one-fourth inch slices, shape with a French vegetable cutter or cut in one-half inch cubes. Cover three cupfuls of potatoes with white stock, and cook until soft, and drain. Cream one-third cup butter; add one tablespoonful lemon juice, one-half teaspoonful salt and a few grains of cayenne. Add to potatoes, cook three minutes and serve with one-half tablespoonful of chopped parsley sprinkled over the top.

Tomatoes With Green Corn Mayonnaise

The tomatoes, which should be of regular size and not too large, are scalded, peeled and well chilled. Then they are hollowed out deeply in the centers, and filled with the green corn mayonnaise. This dressing is made by adding grated green corn to heavy mayonnaise. One ear of corn will be sufficient for two tomatoes; it should be of a very tender, succulent variety, boiled and chilled, then grated and whipped into the dressing, with a tablespoonful of finely chopped green pepper for four tomatoes.

Marshamallow Cream

Break half a pound of marshmallows into bits; whip to a stiff solid froth half a pint of double cream. Chop coarsely half a cupful of pecan meats; then mix all the ingredients together thoroughly and flavor with vanilla or maple extract. Chill for several hours, then arrange halved and split lady fingers in sherbet glasses, fill with the cream, place in the refrigerator until serving time. Garnish with pecan halves or cherries or grapes according to the color scheme planned.

Chicken and Sweetbread a la King

Chicken and sweetbread a la King is newer than the dish when made of chicken alone and is far more tasty and dainty. Use only the breast of the chicken, reserving the dark meat for some occasion when appearance is not quite so important and parboil a pair of veal sweetbreads, that have been soaked in cold water for 15 minutes, in water to which one teaspoonful of salt and two tablespoonfuls of vinegar has been added. Lift out of the boiling water after 20 minutes and plunge at once into cold water for one minute. Trim off all gristle. When the sweetbreads have cooled slightly it is well to wrap them tightly in a piece of cheesecloth, and then to press them under a slight weight ice cream in a tall glass and pouring iced chocolate over it. so that they may be cut into the desired shape more easily. Cut them in cubes and the chicken breast into cubes or diamond shaped pieces, not too small. Make a white sauce of two tablespoonfuls of butter cooked to a cream with one of flour, then add three-quarters of a pint of rich milk and cook carefully until the sauce thickens, stirring constantly. Season well with salt, pepper, and paprika and add the chicken and sweetbread. Place over hot water to simmer while half a dozen mushrooms cut into strips are sauteing in a little butter, then add them, with one pimiento cut in strips, and the yolks of two eggs that have been well beaten. Simmer just a moment or two and remove from the fire, add a teaspoonful of lemon juice and serve on a hot platter surrounded with toast points and garnished with parsley.

Ginger Ale Pear Salad

One package lemon jell-o.
One cupful boiling water.
One cupful ginger ale.
One large can pears.
Pinch salt.

Drain pears well and cut into quarters or cubes, place in molds and pour over them the following: Dissolve the lemon jell-o in boiling water, cool a little, then add ginger ale and stir well, adding a sprinkle of salt to the liquids. Put in the refrigerator. When firm add well chilled, place on lettuce leaves and serve with either plain or whipped cream mayonnaise.

Chocolate Float

Chocolate float is made by placing a scoop of chocolate or vanilla.

The First Course

In planning meals it is well to arrange for an appetizer for the first course. It should be something gay and lively to sharpen the tongue for the substantial dishes that are to follow. Its purpose should be to please and arouse anticipation and not to fulfil the function of heartiness and satisfaction.

Appetizing tidbits are easily made and very greatly in form. They may be made of every day foods or of unusual or foreign elements. They are ordinarily very colorful as they wear giddy trimmings well. They should be in place on the table on individual dishes on the serving plates when the guests enter the dining room. There are several groups of appetizers which might be classified as follows: Fish or shellfish cocktails with lemon or a cocktail sauce, fruit cocktails, vegetable cocktails, salads, assorted hors d' oeuvres and canapes.

Fish and Shellfish Cocktails

Shrimps, scallops and other fish should be cooked before serving in a cocktail while oysters and clams should be served raw. Large fish should be flaked and thoroughly chilled. A cocktail sauce should be thoroughly mixed and poured over all after being chilled.

The cocktail sauce may be made as follows: (a) Mix one teaspoonful salt, one-fourth teaspoonful pepper, one teaspoonful chopped parsley, one teaspoonful finely cut olives, one-half teaspoonful salad oil, six drops tabasco sauce, one-half teaspoonful dry mustard, two tablespoonfuls vinegar, and eight tablespoonfuls tomato catsup. Cocktail sauce may be kept in a closed container in a good refrigerator indefinitely. (b) A simple cocktail sauce may be made by mixing three-fourths of a cupful of tomato catsup with two teaspoonfuls Worcestershire sauce, two teaspoonfuls tarragon vinegar and a pinch of cayenne.

Oysters or Little Neck Clams on the Half Shell

Four, five or six fresh oysters or clams are opened for each person. The upper shallow shell is discarded, leaving the fish on the deeper shell. These are arranged on a bed of finely crushed ice on a soup plate, garnish with a quarter of a lemon and a sprig of parsley. A small glass of cocktail sauce may be in the center of the plate or tomato catsup, tabasco sauce, grated horseradish or table sauce, with salt and pepper, may be passes to season the oysters to suit the individual's taste.

Oyster or Clam Cocktail

Allow six, seven or eight oysters or clams for each person. Mix with enough cocktail sauce to season, chill and serve cocktail glasses or in green peppers washed, with seeds and tops removed, or in halves of grapefruit, from which seeds and membranes have been removed. Surround with crushed ice. Sprinkle, if desired, with finely cut celery.

Scallop Cocktail

Clean scallops, put in saucepan and cook five minutes or until they begin to shrivel. Drain, chill, and cut in pieces if they are large. Allow eight to 10 pieces for each person or one pint scallops for six people. Serve like oyster cocktail or arrange five or six scallops on small fluted scallop shells. Place two shells on a plate of crushed ice with a glass of cocktail sauce in the center.

Copley Cocktail

For each person arrange on a plate of crushed ice two oysters on the half shell, two little neck clams on the half shell, two small lettuce leaves, one holding crab meat and the other lobster meat. Place a glass of cocktail sauce in the center of the plate.

Lobster and Clam Cocktail

Arrange five little neck clams on the half shell on a plate of cracked ice. Garnish each clam with small dice of boiled lobster. Place a small leaf of lettuce filled with piccalilli at one side, and a small glass of cocktail sauce in the center of the plate.

Variations

Any of the shellfish mentioned above may be served on a lettuce leaf, covered with mayonnaise dressing instead of with cocktail sauce. Oysters on the half shell are sometimes seasoned with salt, pepper, and butter, or with grated cheese or chopped shallots, baked in the oven until they are plump, and served very hot on a bed of hot rock salt.

Fruit Cocktails

Fruit, selected with a view to harmonizing with the color scheme of the table decorations, makes an attractive first course. Fruit cocktails may be prepared of fresh or canned fruit and may be made of either a single tart fruit or a combination of fruits. The combinations are innumerable, but they should always contain some tart fruit. All fruits should be cut in pieces of serving size and the skins should be removed. The juice may be poured over the fruit and in this case the cocktail is eaten with a spoon, if no liquid is used, a fork is preferable.

The fruit should be thoroughly chilled and prettily garnished. It may be served in tall single dessert glasses; in a double cocktail glass, the inner glass surrounded with crushed ice; or in the skin of the fruit, as grapefruit, orange or cantaloupe. Sections of fruit or perfect whole berries may be arranged on a small flat plate with a mound of powdered sugar in the center.

Grapefruit in the winter and cantaloupe, casaba, or honeydew melon in the summer, are always a popular first course.

Grapefruit Cocktails

Cut fruit in halves crosswise, remove and discard seeds and membrane, and chill. Serve in the skins or in cocktail glasses, garnished with maraschino cherries and flavored with maraschino syrup; with a marron glace in the center; with fresh raspberries or strawberry juice and sugar and also one or more fresh berries; with a plain cream peppermint broken in bits for flavor; or else combined with orange sections or pineapple dice, or sliced kumquats or other fresh fruit or canned fruit. The prepared grapefruit may also be garnished with whipped cream, sweetened and flavored and forced through a pastry bag and rose tube, or with narrow strips of pimiento or bits of truffle.

Fruit Cocktails

Fruit cocktails are made of small pieces of fruit of one kind only or a mixture of several kinds. Fruits should be free from skin and seeds and neatly shaped. A typical cocktail is made of equal parts of white cherries, pineapple cut in small dice, and grapefruit sections cut in pieces. For each cocktail mix two tablespoonfuls maraschino syrup, one tablespoonful each pineapple syrup, cherry syrup and lemon juice, and a few grains of salt.

To every woman who uses Snowdrift

Your Grocer has a True Bargain for You Today

Snowdrift is down in price! Lower in price than it has been in many, many years.

You've used Snowdrift. You know its fine creamy quality; how light and tasty it makes the things you bake; how crisp, wholesome and good-to-eat the things you fry.

And when you stop to think that the shortening you use is food, you see how important it is to bake or fry with a shortening that is good to eat all by itself. In a pie, for instance, almost one-third of the crust that comes to the table is the shortening. The shortening should be pure, fresh and wholesome.

That's why the Wesson Oil people are careful to make Snowdrift of a selected oil as fine as a choice salad oil. Free of animal fat. It is pure. Nothing in this good-to-eat, nourishing, healthful shortening mars its purity, its flavor.

Snowdrift comes to you fresh and sweet in air-tight cans, sealed to protect every bit of its purity and freshness. When you open the sealed can, yours are the first hands to touch it.

Snowdrift is down in price. We feel you will be glad to hear the news, for it is mighty good news. Your grocer will give you the new low prices on Snowdrift.

Prohibition Brains
All in the Racket
The Brave Coste
New York's Opera House

By EMILE GAUVREAU

Now we have a college for prohibition enforcement, possibly to add insult to injury. Twenty-four agents enter "Woodcock College" in Washington to be instructed in "the method of gathering information, in knowledge of the law, in habits or discipline, and in the use of brains rather than brawn."

As everyone knows, all the "brains" of prohibition have gone into the racket or been commandeered by our astute bootleggers. A college to impart intelligence in enforcing an unenforcable law is about as futile as a university that undertakes to teach experience.

What can be the value of "prohibition education" when the "trustees" of this college, the unnamed august gentlemen in high places, have each of them their own bootleggers, upon whom they have already conferred all the baccalaureate degrees of the distillery business?

Dieudonne Coste, France's greatest aviator, who has crossed the Atlantic, is deserving of a welcome by this country as enthusiastic as that accorded to Colonel Lindbergh when he flew to Paris. Coste has broken a half-dozen records, is noted for his daring, his pioneering flights to Africa and South America, his distinguished war service. He is the Lindbergh of Europe, a credit to his profession, a real aviator, not a stunter; a man who has ideals, not vanity. In honoring him, America will honor, not an individual, but a symbol of progress.

Mr. Jack (Legs) Diamond, turned away by England, kicked out of Belgium, booted out of Germany, will come back to the United States, where he will be permitted to run his rackets undisturbed. This man, whose record is so black that no country in Europe would give him hospitality outside of a police station, can do what he pleases in America. Prohibition has raised such criminals above the law!

New York City needs a new opera house. The present structure at 40th street and Broadway is many years behind the times. It's stuffy, creaky, musty and a positive eye-sore.

An international banker admits he has failed to induce the "diamond horseshoe" generation to consent to a change of site. This is an individual failure and does not decide the issue. A change is inevitable. It awaits a man of determination and power to effect it. If this man should come forth, he will have the support of the people. A symbol of Victorian elegance, expressive of Victorian ideals, is an impediment to the progress of the city and an absurd anachronism.

It takes a Greek to know a Greek, and a politician to know a politician.

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick employed, by her own confession, private investigators to spy on the "methods and affiliations" of Senator Gerald P. Nye, Republican, of North Dakota.

Suppose Senator Nye spied on the "methods and political affiliations" of Mrs. McCormick! What a bagful of revelations such an investigation would net!

The mysterious death of two New York judges, both delinquent in paying their graft assessments, is now being probed. In both instances, "heart trouble" was pronounced the cause of death. But another and more likely cause will probably explain matters better. Taking a judge for a "ride" when he doesn't pay for his job is about the limit in racketeering.

More Ballast Needed

FOOD for much thought is contained in a short address delivered before members of the Lions club here Wednesday by Rev. C. C. Klingman of Electra. His subject was one which has drawn more serious editorials, aside from politics, from nationally known writers than any other matter in recent months.

Declaring that civilization appears now to be witnessing a race between education and catastrophe, the speaker emphasized pointedly the fact that education of the mind alone has proven inadequate to provide the social improvements desired.

Modern education has been designed in a large measure to provide a life of imagined ease for the individual concerned. He has been taught to seek education so that he would not have to work. To find through collegiate training a short cut from "office boy to president" has been recommended to him as the chiefest objective. In fairness to educators, it might be admitted that the public has compelled them to enshrine acquisition as the end of education—the chief end of life itself.

As Mr. Klingman aptly pointed out, our constantly heavy output of "educated" men and women has failed to mitigate many of the ills from which society suffers. Crime and vice and poverty are rampant. Education which has primarily taught the individual to obtain position and wealth at the expense of others has taken its toll. Education which teaches that life has higher objectives than temporary possession of wealth has yet to be accredited.

Those who have contributed most heavily to the increasing enlightenment of mankind have not been devoted to acquisition. Names remembered through the ages for their betterment of the world are generally those of comparatively poor men and women. Catastrophe will not recede as a rival of education until education adopts a higher, more spiritual, objective than that now prevalent.

A Light Worth Following

BECAUSE wars have recurred, and have recurred again, most of us are prone to remark with resignation that another war is inevitable, sooner or later. Against such a general conclusion that this deplorable element of history will necessarily repeat itself, the staunch position now being taken by Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary, and Aristide Briand, foreign minister of France, at Geneva is a courageous and promising ray of hope.

Henderson and Briand are unquestionably two of the world's outstanding diplomats of today, and their declarations are definitely directed to the extermination of war between nations. Taking advantage of such progress toward universal concord as has been accomplished in 10 sessions of the League of Nations, and other conferences in recent years, these two disciples of peace are now pressing upon the league's eleventh session the urgent need of further great steps toward unfitting the world's peoples for warfare. They aptly deplore the spectacle of scores of supposedly enlightened nations devoting a large portion of their wealth and governmental policy to preparation for the slaughter of other human beings.

A note upon which the civilized world should take its stand, if peace really is to be attained, is contained in Mr. Henderson's words to the league Thursday: "There is none of us who in his heart does not know that of all security measures, disarmament is in itself the most important."

Colonel Easterwood's $25,000

IT MAY NOT be becoming for us to say so, but our pleasure that Coste and Bellonte came to Texas to collect Col. William Easterwood's $25,000 is something more than patriotic.

Not that we believe Colonel Easterwood begrudges the $25,000 to the French fliers. Far from it, he probably will pay it gladly, knowing he has received thousands of dollars worth of free publicity in every newspaper of the nation. But $25,000 is a considerable sum of money to be mentioned carelessly, and we have been afraid of late that other magnates might become reckless in their enthusiasm for aviation if these offers continued to float around without any takers.

If we remember correctly, the Dallas man has made offers for flights from Dallas to Honolulu, from Paris to Dallas and from Rome to Dallas. Perhaps there were others, but these are recalled as having been accorded more than the usual amount of newspaper space. Now Coste and Bellonte have won the Paris to Dallas prize and the money is to be paid. We hope it has a sobering effect on other magnates. We are getting somewhat weary of non-stop flights sponsored by chewing gum kings, pineapple princes, motor oil manufacturers, and others.

Things I Never Knew Till Now

That on the wall of the Wilson Packing Co., at 46th St. and 1st Ave., is a tablet marking the spot where the British executed the Revolutionary hero, Nathan Hale, who regretted that he had but one life to give for his country.

That the word "brain" does not occure in the Bible.

That a copy of "Faust" was found in the possession of an American Indian in North Carolina in 1829.

That the back door of the nation's capitol is not its front. Ditto for the White House.

That the government collects six cents on every package of 20 cigarets.

That the Statue of Liberty faces Europe and turns its back to the United States.

That you can't buy parts for French clocks in this country.

That Lord Buckhurst, of the time of Elizabeth, was the author of "Gorboduc," the first tragedy written in the English language.

That Shakespeare and Moliere acted parts in their own plays.

That during Henry VIII's reign, to kiss a lady was an act of courtesy, not of familiarity.

That the word "agnostic" was of Huxley's coining.

That it costs "Cy" Curtis $2,000 daily to run his steam yacht, Lyndonia, which is $1,000 a day less than it costs J. P. Morgan to cruise around in his Corsair.

That torture was last used in England in 1640.

That is was during the crusades, in the time of Dick, the First, that the custom of using coats of arms was first introduced.

That Caesar, Mahomet and Napoleon were all epileptics.

That David Belasco started as a playwright and producer when he was 16. He also carried a spear at 15 in "Hamlet."

That plus-fours originated in the British army.

That previous to the civil war the federal government attempted to introduce camels into the U. S. for use on our desert.

That the 1825-1845 coins in Russia were of platinum.

That italics are so called because they were invented in Italy.

That for the purpose of conserving all the alcohol obtainable for munitions (during the last year of the war) the Germans gave the public one-half of one per cent beer. As the information was not made public the citizens drank and enjoyed it, never suspecting the difference. (Oh, well, somebody told me).

That steel pens were first used at Washington by N. P. Willis.

That in the sixteenth century, in Italy, clocks struck up to 24, from sunset to sunset.

That the Golden Rule was first taught by Confucius.

That the part of Alan-a Dale in "Robin Hood" is always played by a woman because it was originally written for Jessie Bartlett Davis, famous contralto of the Bostonians; that precedent, and the fact that the score calls for a contralto voice, demand that Alan be entrusted to the unfair sex.

That at present there is but one two-way televisison set in the entire world. (I'll bet I'm not really appreciated).

That in Atlantic City when there is a fire all traffic pauses until the apparatus reaches the blaze. This permits the fire wagons to get to any part of town within three minutes.

That the Burning Tree Golf club, which numbers many high officials in its membership, won't permit women on the course.

That Washington monument is steam heated for rheumatic winter visitors. (He gets paid for this stuff, yet!)

That probably the collar stud you wear in the rear of your shirt neck comes from a cow and ditto your shirt buttons.

That unless you have your pockets cleaned (by a tailor) you carry enough germs to kill an army.

That grass stains on white tennis flannels may be removed by covering the stain with equal parts of tartaric acid and salt. Moisten with water and dry in the sun. (Say! That's worth money!)

That only three passengers lost their lives in accidents on British railways last year. (U. S. railroads please copy).

That the ageless query: "What came first, the egg or the hen?" has been settled. The bird evolved from lower forms of life before it seriously took up the egg-laying business.

That a husband is not a relative of his wife.

That it is easier to run away with a girl nowadays than it is to keep up with her. And that a woman's voice is naturally higher than a man's, yet she insists on raising it. (Look, he's trying to be comical!)

That Daudet said that actors do not die of old age, but that they cease to exist when they no longer command applause.

And that the real hero of many a novel is the publisher.

The AGE of YOUTH

A New Serial By Arthur Somers Roche

sequious Curtin as the valet entered.

"What the deuce is the matter with Crandall, what?" he asked.

Curtin laid a pile of letters upon the desk beside his employer.

"Sorry, sir. He telephoned, sir."

"Telephoned what? What the devil did he telephone for? Can't look over my mail over the phone, can he?"

Crosses, obstacles, impediments in the way of our desires, are the things that develop character. Never having encountered any of these things, Ran Granby had little will, little real strength of character. He had the spoiled person's substitute irascibility, and he vented it now.

"Mr. Crandall is ill, sir" explained Curtin.

"Ill? Ill? He wasn't ill last night."

Ran said this as if he produced an unanswerable argument against the possibility of Crandall really being sick.

"Yes, sir, he was quite well when he left here last evening, sir," agreed the valet.

Ran snorted.

"But he was taken ill in the night, sir. Quite seriously, sir. As a matter of fact, he's running an extremely high temperature and can't leave his bed, sir. Pleurisy, his wife says, sir."

"Oh, he didn't phone himself?"

Granby asked the question to fill in a gap. Damn it, when a faithful employe becomes ill, one must do something. And doing anything was extremely annoying at the moment, because Ran Granby planned to sail for France within a few days, and he was booked for every minute.

"Shocking," he said. "Suppose I ought to run up and see the poor devil, what?"

Curtin shook his head. "I told Mrs. Crandall that would be your first thought, and she told me to tell you not to bother. She said that no one could possibly be permitted to see her husband, and that she hoped his illness would not too greatly inconvenience you, sir."

Ran Granby pursed his lips.

"I can carry on by myself," he stated. "One must, Curtin, when an emergency arises."

"Quite so, sir," agreed Curtin. There was nothing in the valet's manner to indicate that the task—of reading his own mail—that suddenly confronted Granby was of anything less than the utmost magnitude. A man may not be a hero to his valet, but the successful valet conceals that fact.

The man's prompt acquiescence soothed Granby's ruffled mood. He saw himself, briefly, as a man who carried great burdens, arrived at momentous decisions, and the sight hurried him into an impulse.

"Crandall hasn't been chipper for several weeks," he remarked. "Er—telephone his wife and tell her to send all bills—all of them, be sure—to my lawyers. Tell her that his salary continues and that in the event of anything special arising she may draw upon my lawyers up to $5,000. Attend to that at once, Curtin."

Quite properly impressed, his lips forming soundless words of appreciation, Curtin left the room. Granby looked at himself in the mirror. A chap ought not to plume himself for having done a decent thing, but—well, he was treating Crandall quite well. He felt a warm glow permeating his being. Didn't believe in charity, but decent generosity to a hardworking, faithful chap who was down on his luck.

He looked at himself a moment longer. A glint of gray at the temples rather distinguished a chap. He ran his hand over the top of his head. His barber was a jackass. And his tailor—naturally, a man grew more solid as he became mature, but muscle should not be confounded with fat. Just as slim. Much mare active. . . .

As a matter of fact, it was an extremely personable figure that was reflected in the mirror.

As such matters are appraised, in this matter-of-fact world of ours, Ran Granby was a gentleman. Women came to no particular good by him, nor did they come to any particular harm. An untruth was impossible to him. He was neither stingy nor lavish. And if he liked an audience for his generosity—well, so do most of us.

The worst that could be said of Ran Granby was that he was self-loving and a bit stupid. The best that could be said was that he was honest and courageous. An average sort of man, save for his millions. Spoiled, as a rich bachelor must be spoiled, but even those who condemned his swift flirtations with every new debutante admitted that Ran was harmless. Necessary to the education of every young girl just launched into society, his friends chuckled. And if a girl occasionally was hurt in her pride because the expected proposal did not materialize, she was seldom hurt in her heart. He was not the kind to inspire great passion in every feminine heart.

He might, had he been compelled to earn his way in the world, have developed strength, will and endurance of character. But nature acts with humans as with animals. Where there is necessity, nature develops coats of fur, long necks, huge teeth. Who shall say that the skinless short-necked, fangless beasts are any less worthy than the others? If a man's circumstances are such that he needs neither thrift nor economy nor hardness of will to serve him, who shall condemn him because he lacks them?

His men friends liked him.

He turned away from the mirror and surveyed the pile of mail before him. He grinned with distaste. He could send it to his lawyers. . . . After all, he had talked to Curtin about "carrying on." Furthermore, he would not care for Blenkinstone, Birmingham & Magruder to know that he didn't even read his own letters. So he sat down before the desk, pulling the envelopes nearer to him, and busied himself with a paper cutter.

H'm . . . Mrs. John Raston has the honor, etc. . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Willingham Blake request the honor . . . Mmm . . . make a note of that; something from Cartier's. . . . The Governors of the Mallet. . . . The Mayor's Committee of Reception for Distinguished . . . The Alliance Francaise . . . Twenty dollars to purchase a saxophone for a convict in Pennsylvania? Damnation, a man who wanted to play the sax ought to stay in jail . . . Founder members of the proposed club . . . Little Jinny Murdock's coming-out party . . . Good heavens, had Joe and Evelyn been married that long? . . . Would he care to buy 40 per cent of Maxey Weinsaub's managerial rights in Cocoa Riley? Rot. Riley couldn't go three rounds with that little Cuban flash. Houseboat down the Potomac, up the James . . . too bad he was going abroad; he'd like that . . . Chickens Copper and a private car to the Kentucky Derby? Must send her a line—no. . . . And what was this one?

Spoiled, as a rich bachelor must be spoiled, but even those who condemned his swift flirtations with every new debutante admitted Ran was harmless.

He spread out this one for a second reading, smoothed the creases in the perfectly plain, unscented white note paper that had been contained in the uncompromising stamped envelope sold by Uncle Sam himself. What was the signature? Pleasing writing, but not too legible. He looked at the back of the envelope. Yes, Donna was the name. Rather pretty name. Made a chap think of moonlit nights. . . . Donna Raynor, eh, the Mercat hotel West 47th street. H'm. Nice neighborhood—for certain things.

And what did little Donna want, bless her baby gold-digger's heart? Just a thousand a month for—how long? Only a couple of years, eh? Well, well, wasn't Donna modest?

Contemptuously he tore the letter across, started to drop it in the wastebasket, then drew the pieces back. He fitted them together and reread the letter.

"My Dear Mr. Granby: I have tried the stage, but have no talent. I have tried stenography and being a salesgirl. I hate work. I can't write or paint or sing. But I could get a rich husband if I had the proper setting. It would cost a thousand a month and I'd need two years to get the proper man. Will you give it to me? Yours truly, Donna Raynor."

Granby read it a third, fourth and fifth time. Gad, that would be a sparkling thing to do, now, wouldn't it? Foist a cheap little gold-digger . . . Damn it, it was the frankest most straightaway letter he'd ever read. He wondered what she looked like.

He could visualize her: hard eyes; too-red lips; decent figure, probably, which she would reveal as generously as the candid fashion of the day permitted; bobbed hair with untidy ends; a manner blended of greed and cunning; a voice whose commonness she would try to disguise by a broad A and a rising inflection at the end of each sentence.

Lord, hadn't he met hundreds of them? Untalented little girls who started out earnestly and honestly, perhaps, but who wound up by offering to almost any purchaser their frankly salable charms. He'd met them and—avoided them. Not that he was an anchorite, but—he was fastidious. Also, from boyhood, almost, he had realized that a man of wealth was a shining target for variegated forms of blackmail. Good taste and cunning—an odd combination—had kept his name out of the scandal columns. He didn't propose to put his name there now.

Yet again he stayed the hand that started to toss the torn note away. The writer of this letter must be of different mentality from the ordinary little go-getter of the forties. Or perhaps she was merely a mistress of what he had heard business executives term the "approach."

He studied the handwriting. He wished he were one of those Johnnies one was always meeting at dinners nowadays, who could tell you all about yourself by the way you parted your hair or did your tie. There ought to be all sorts of information about the writer of this note, concealed in her handwriting.

But her way of phrasing her extraordinary request ought to afford some indication of her character. "I hate work." Fair enough; so did practically every one who wasn't a howling success at his or her work, but how many would admit to laziness? No talent? Modesty? Or the frankness of desperation? Well, not so modest. She certainly had confidence in her ability to land a rich husband, given the proper setting. And a bit choosy, too, as his boyhood saying had it. It would take her two years to get the proper man. Not going to take any poor beseeching devil with perhaps only eight or nine millions to his credit. Two years. Sounded as though she intended combing the field pretty thoroughly. And a thousand a month, eh? Not as expensive as the "friends" of many of his pals. Intimating, very politely, that she wasn't overly grasping.

It was as fascinating as that game—what was it? Twenty questions? You thought of something and somebody clever asked you which hemisphere it was in and a few things like that, and wound up by telling you that you were thinking of Charlie Chaplin.

It would be sort of fun to ring up a few of the lids and make up a pool. Every one to put in a hundred, say, and the one that described Miss Donna Raynor most correctly, to scoop the pot. At that, this probably wasn't the first gentleman of means to receive one.

If he cast about a bit, he might find that practically all his acquaintances knew of the young lady without talent who wanted a wealthy husband.

Only—somehow—he didn't think so. The letter was so straightforward, so frank, that it was almost despairing. Of course, that might be because of the fact that she had tried so often . . . He didn't think so. His lips set firmly as he arrived at this thought: Why should she try him last? Wasn't he about the best known of the rich bachelors of New York?

His expression changed, became shamefaced now. After all, this was a poor celebrity on which he was priding himself. Furthermore, a man of affairs had no time to waste on the contemplation of the acquisitive mind of a gold-digger. What with Crandall being ill, matters that would have been taken care of by the secretary must be attended to by the master. This time he did not stay his hand; the torn pieces of the letter fluttered into the wastebasket.

Half an hour later he was closeted with the dour Magruder, making suggestions as to the reinvestment of certain funds, which suggestions were sourly received.

Magruder sugared no pills. He was junior partner in the ablest firm of estate lawyers in America. Mr. Granby could take his business elsewhere if he liked, but there'd be no damned nonsense about the estate funds so long as Magruder had charge of them. This was the impression Magruder conveyed, and the impression was the absolutely legitimate child of his intention and his conviction.

He client felt like a 9-year-old boy, as he rode uptown. Damn it, the possessor of 20 millions was entitled to consideration . . . Those 20 millions had been five, however, when Granby Senior had died. In less than a quarter of a century Magruder had quadrupled the estate.

No, it was best not to affect a foolish pride with Magruder. After all—he saived his ruffled feelings—investment was Magruder's excuse for being. He, Ran Granby, had life as his excuse for being. He was—er—an artist in living. He rather liked the phrase. An artist in living. The next time one of those pert women who seemed to think that dinner was a time for chatter instead of a time for eating asked him what he did, he would tell her that he lived.

Not bad, what? And true, when you came right down to it. The social scene must have—erscenery, masculine as well as feminine. The mob must have something to look at, to envy, to aspire to. Well, in New York, at Newport, in Paris, in London, the mob envied Ran Granby. An artist in living.

But the salve was not soothing. Magruder made him feel that he really was a pompous figurehead who could spend money but not earn it, a millionaire who could not even defend his own millions. Whatever he thought he did some one else, in reality, did for him.

Only the war, when he had earned a commission at Plattsburg, had flattering memories. He hadn't done badly in the war. No medals or anything like that, but—not badly.

For a vague moment he meditated going back to Magruder, demanding that everything be turned over to him. . . . Then he lifted his eyes and noted that his car had paused, in obedience to a traffic signal, at the exact corner of Fifth avenue and Forty-seventh street. An impulse whose origin he couldn't have discovered even had he tried, but which lay obscurely in his resentment against his fancied belittlement at the hands of Magruder, made him open the door of his car.

"Won't need you now, Meade," he said to his chauffeur. "Wait for me at the Mallet."

The driver touched his cap, and Granby joined the west-bound drift of pedestrian traffic. On the far side of Sixth avenue he paused, a trifle disgusted with himself. After all, sordid adventure was not for him. He'd kept, for the most part, clear of such things. A cheap little hussy, whose asking-price was a thousand a month, but who, like all salesmen of things not in great demand, was doubtless prepared to take less.

But she had appealed to him, to him whose life seemed to be directed by the activities of others. Well, that wasn't so, really. In fact, it was absurdity for him even to think that way. Petulance because the specialist he engaged insisted on performing his specialty, was childish. After all, living didn't consist in buying or selling stocks and bonds or real property. Living was a higher art, and he had recently told himself that he was an artist. Why not direct his artistry toward another individual?

Why not see Miss—what was the name? Donna Raynor, yes. Why not see her? After all, her letter didn't sound gold-diggerish. It was gold-diggerish, but it didn't read that way. No wasted words, no high-flown appeal, not even a promise to return. . . . A letter that took certain things for granted, as only a lady might.

But that was too preposterous. Ladies, well-bred girls, didn't write to strange men suggesting that they be financed through a hoped-for marriage. The only girls who did that sort of thing were cheap little . . . Well, it was rather undignified, even though no one knew what you were doing, to stand on the sidewalk calling soundless names at a girl you'd never seen. Acting upon a decision which he thought he had just reached, but which had really been arrived at the second time he read Miss Raynor's letter, he passed under the shabby iron framework that stretched from the door of the Hotel Mercat to the sidewalk, and entered the building.

A negro bell boy lounged at the desk, his color no apparent bar to social conversation with a pasty-faced clerk. Granby spoke twice before the clerk deigned to notice him.

"Yeah?" he finally inquired.

"Miss Dona Raynor," Granby repeated.

"Three sixty-one," said the clerk.

"Would you be good enough to announce me?" asked Granby.

The clerk stared at him with ill favor. Languidly he reached for a desk telephone.

"Gent to see Raynor, 361," he said.

He listened a moment, continuing his stare. Then,

"Go right up," he said.

The caller shrugged faintly. So; not only could the hotel dispense with announcements of the names of visitors, but the occupants of the rooms stood on no formality. Distaste for the adventure almost overcame him. But he stepped into an elevator, alighted at the third floor, and a moment later was knocking at the door of room 361.

A voice, whose harsh modulations survived the muffling of the door between answered and bade him enter. He turned the knob and entered the room.

At a desk that had perhaps, in the days of the hotel's grandeur, been part of a lightly pretty French suite, but which was now as shabby as everything else in the place, sat a girl. She was everything, from exposed legs to frizzled hair, what Granby's first mental description of Donna Raynor had been.

A cheap, blatant, assertive, salable gold digger.

"Well, sweetie," she greeted him, "leave the bill on the table and tell your boss that Miss Raynor will give her closest personal attention when her father's estate is settled."

"Are you Miss Raynor?" Granby asked.

"Who's asking me?" she inquired.

"My name is Granby—Randolph Granby," he said.

As stupid a thing as he'd ever done. To give his name, his real name, to a person like this.

The person like this leaned forward in her chair. Mouth agape, she stared at him.

"Well, for the love of Mike," she exclaimed. "So you fell for that—"

Like a cat she swung from the chair. Two round, hard and not altogether clean little fists dug into her hip bones.

"Say," she cried, "I didn't believe Donna'd do a thing like that. But it doesn't make any difference if she did. She ain't going through with it. You start picking them up and laying them down until you're out of here. Get me? O-u-t spells out. On your way."

Her voice rose stridently. Through the partly opened door that Granby sensed led to a bath came another voice.

"Jinny, are you rehearsing? Or is some one there?"

The owner of the voice waited for no answer. Framed in the doorway was as pretty a girl as Granby had ever seen, and her charm was enhanced, rather than diminished, by the towel with which she rubbed at hair that had obviously just been washed.

"Miss Raynor," said Jinny in what she evidently considered a most overwhelming tone, "let me present Mr. Randolph Granby. And I hope you're ashamed of yourself, Donna Raynor," she cried.

Incontinently she fled the room.

Dr. Cantwell Makes Stirring Address To P.-T. A. Council

"Education will bring a finer type of people," said Dr. J. W. Cantwell in an address to members of the City Council P.-T. A. Friday morning. "That is what would bring the millenium. It could be done in one generation if everyone worked together, but that is impossible."

Dr. Cantwell stressed the point that little children, in spite of their blood, were as alike as two peas when bathed and dressed and kept in the same environment. The crime wave he pictured as "young America in action," and homes and schools, he stated, must bear a large part of the responsibility. The new school ideal he pictured as one that would create a type of people who will not go as all nations have gone in the past.

"Preachers say that Christianity will do it," Dr. Cantwell said, "but it has been tried 2,000 years. Children are not what you preach; they are what they practice." Speaking of Americans as a group people who were trying to build a better type, Dr. Cantwell stated that modern education might be put into three words—"do, feel and think." He advised beginning with the preschool child to build a better type of people.

The school environment was stressed as a fundamental thing in which the P.-T. A. can cooperate. The building of personality is the result of a properly organized environment and this building of personality and character, Dr. Cantwell stated, was more important than the study of arithmetic. He praised the Thrift Exchange work as one of the most wonderful things the P.-T. A. has undertaken and left each mother present feeling that school environment was one fundamental thing in which she must cooperate.

At the suggestion of the president, Mrs. I. R. Sheldon, Dr. Cantwell also stated his conviction that the P.-T. A. could do no finer thing than to make a major part of their work this fall helping to put over the Junior college.

Mrs. Sheldon presided when the meeting opened in the council room at the Memorial auditorium Thursday morning in the first autumn meeting, and after the devotional, new report blanks were given to the school representatives. The resignations of Mrs. C. P. Fore as secretary and Mrs. Harold Murph, health chairman, were accepted with regret and Mrs. G. Galmiche was elected secretary for the coming year.

Mrs. Frank Creighton gave instructions as to the standard of excellence, and Mrs. R. L. Underwood, program chairman, stating that the program is the most important thing in the P.-T. A. work, recommended short and snappy programs of information. She explained how both parent and teacher might cooperate and gain interest from a program.

Mrs. C. J. Farrell of Vernon told of a Thrift Exchange to be opened in Vernon and of P.-T. A. hospitalities extended. She said that of the members who started the correspondence course in school, 12 received diplomas.

Mrs. R. P. Willis, in charge of the Thrift Exchange, stated that 280 children had already been clothed in preparation for school and that at least 150 were waiting for clothing. Mrs. Sheldon urged that each P.-T. A. president make an allowance in her budget for the lunch fund. She also requested that reports of the council meetings be given at the P.-T. A. school meetings. The regular meeting of the City Council P.-T. A. was announced as the first Wednesday in each month.

At the close of the business session Mrs. R. L. Underwood took charge of the meeting and introduced Dr. Cantwell, whose address was an inspiration to the council members.

Directly following his address, Mrs. R. P. Willis called a meeting of the thrift chairmen from each school present and arrangements were made for the different schools to take charge in the exchange for each Tuesday up to the first of the year.

Those present were Mesdames C. J. Farrell of Vernon, R. P. Willis, R. L. Underwood, R. R. Clark, Willis E. Maxson, W. C. Krauss, G. Galmiche, Alex Michael, W. L. Garner, W. E. Rutledge, E. W. Napier, L. H. Estes, Otis Nelson, W. B. Smith, D. E. McShan, R. A. Yeager, T. C. Watkins, H. C. Glazner, D. B. King, R. D. Lewis, J. B. Scarbrough, J. B. Shelton, C. W. Staley, S. A. Charity Ball To Engage Interest Saturday Night

Wichita Falls couples who enjoy dancing will be asked Saturday night to avail themselves of that pleasure not only for their own entertainment, but for the purpose of placing at the disposal of the Family Relief association funds wherewith to provide necessities of life for unfortunate families within the city.

Sponsored directly by the Junior chamber of commerce, endorsed and promoted by the Junior Forum and Hope Chapter of DeMolay, staged without expense for music through the gratuitous service of the KGKO dance orchestra, the charity ball will turn the entire proceeds from its sale of tickets to the Family Relief association for local charity work.

The dance is to be held at the Wichita club, and will begin about 9 o'clock. It is thought by those in charge that many who attend the ball game in Fort Worth Saturday afternoon probably will return in time for the ball. Admission will be $2 per couple. Advance sale of tickets has accounted for a good start toward the attendance of several hundred persons which is expected to make the event a distinct success.

Finances of the local relief associations have been sorely taxed during the past few months, according to their executives, and they have issued statements urging the hundreds of local persons who make a favorite recreation of dancing to put the Saturday night ball on their calendars.

Frederick Negotiates For New Power Contract

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Sept. 12.—Z. Z. Rogers of Oklahoma City and Manager A. S. Boyett of Lawton, representatives of the Southwestern Light and Power company, were present at the meeting of the city council when the matter of making a new contract was discussed. The council members decided to take more time for investigation before making any move. The Southwestern agrees to reduce the rate to 2½ cents a kilowatt for a five-year term but if a 10-year contract is entered into the rate will be reduced to two cents. This would save about $5,000 a year over the rate which the city is now paying, 2¼ cents a kilowatt.

First Meeting Of Barwise P.-T. A. Of Much Interest

Members of the Barwise P.-T. A. met Thursday afternoon at the school in their first session of the year's work with Mrs. W. E. Wilson, president, presiding. Mrs. Bob Russell, vice president, was in charge of the program. A P.-T. A. song by the fifth and sixth grades was included in the entertainment.

Following the devotional led by Mrs. L. H. Franks, Miss Adeena Kouri, who is a teacher in the school and also a talented reader, gave Grace Noll Crowell's "Watchers."

Miss Bettie Dilworth, principal, introduced the teachers and gave an interesting talk, especially inviting parents to visit the school.

Committee chairmen were introduced as follows: Mrs. Bob Russell, program; Mrs. B. C. Blackburn, sponsors; Mrs. R. A. Bailey, publicity; Mrs. L. H. Collums, social; Mrs. J. R. Decker, pre-school; Mrs. C. H. Brooks, thrift exchange; Mrs. V. C. Plunkett, recording secretary; Mrs. E. R. King, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. W. Christian, treasurer.

A motion was made and carried to order books at once for the P.-T. A. library with money set aside last year for that purpose. Books were designated as gifts in attendance records for the year, as in the past two years.

Attendance prize went to the high five grade, Miss Loafman, teacher, and during the social half hour, refreshments were served to about 35 members.

Bowie Demonstration Club Plans Display

Members of the Bowie Demonstration club met in their first meeting of the autumn at the home of Mrs. Will Hagerman on the Petrolia road.

In the business meeting, plans were completed for the demonstration at the Iowa Park fair which meets Sept. 25, 26 and 27.

After the business meeting, Miss Ethel Louise Webb, county demonstration agent, talked on "First Aid," and an interesting open discussion of the subject followed.

After the social hour, delicious ice cream and cake were served to Mesdames E. F. McGaughey, Sam Raley, I. W. Thomas, William Fisher, Thomas McSpadden, J. L. Stearns, McCreary, Ed Dunn, D. McCreary, R. A. Yeager, Will Baumgarner, E. C. Williams, L. B. Bruner, W. E. Smith, J. R. McKinney, Miss Ethel Louise Webb and two visitors, Mesdames R. E. Neal and L. W. Abbe.

and pour over the fruit. Garnish with maraschino cherries.

Melon Cocktails

Cut small melons in halves or large melons in sections. Remove seeds and chill. Serve on a bed of crushed ice. Garnish, if desired, with sections of orange or grapefruit or both, or with skinned and seeded white grapes or fresh berries or cherries. The pulp may be removed with a potato ball cutter and served alone or combined with other fruits in a cocktail or supreme glass.

Vegetable Cocktails

Vegetable cocktails bid fair to become exceedingly popular appetizers since they are healthful and tasty.

Sauerkraut Cocktails

Canned sauerkraut juice or sauerkraut itself is very convenient for making these cocktails. The canned sauerkraut juice is used as it is, but in the latter case turn a pound of sauerkraut into a sieve, pour half a cupful of cold water over it and gently press out all the juice. Add enough lemon juice to lend piquancy. Season lightly with salt and paprika, and serve icy cold in small glasses containing only three or four tablespoonfuls. For variety in vegetable cocktails, blend equal parts of tomato juice and sauerkraut, using no water with the sauerkraut.

Tomato Cocktails

If you use the juice of a canned tomatoes or the juice drawn from fresh tomatoes by slow simmering, you will have a brilliant red sparkling cocktail. To a cupful of juice use a sprinkling of pepper and paprika, a quarter teaspoonful each of salt and sugar, and one of lemon juice. If, however, you prefer the amber colored tomato cocktails use the commercially prepared juice which, through filtration, has lost the red color. Tomato cocktails may be used as an occasional substitute for the breakfast orange juice.

Salads as a First Course

A salad is frequently served as the first course at luncheon in some parts of this country. This may be a fish or eggs, or fruit or vegetables. Of course no other salad, following the main course, is required. Canapes and hors d' oeuvres will be discussed at length next week.

Peel good sound tomatoes by dipping into boiling water or holding over a flame until the skin pops, when it may be slipped off without wasting any of the pulp. Place a layer of the sliced tomatoes over the squash. Continue with alternate layers, with a sprinkling of chopped parsley with each, until the dish is filled, using a generous amount of Melba toast crumbs over the top. Bake in a moderate oven for about 20 minutes, and serve in baking dish, dotted with butter.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Glands and Overgrowth

Question—Ann H. asks: "What makes some people grow abnormally tall and have very large bones? Is it because they eat too much of food containing certain elements, or do the glands have something to do with it?"

Answer—It is natural for some people to be very tall, and does not seem to be due to any special foods. If the growth appears after maturity, it is usually caused by some disorder of the ductless glands,. usually the pituitary.

Eggnogs

Question—E. L. M. asks: "Are eggnogs good for a person doing sedentary work, and who is underweight? If so, when is the best time to take them?"

Answer—Eggnogs, being made of raw eggs and milk, are always a bad combination. One should never take such food in an effort to gain weight, as more trouble will only develop from such a stuffing process with foods in bad combination.

Sweating Hands

Question—J. L. K. writes: "I have been troubled with my hands sweating. Will you please publish a cure for this?"

Answer—Excessive sweating of the hands is generally a sign of some nervous disorder. If you will search out the cause of your trouble you will no doubt find that your nervousness originates from dietetic errors and lack of exercise. If you will get up a good sweat every day this will help materially in throwing out irritating impurities which may be causing your nervousness.

Vernon Man Will Burk Co-Op Cotton

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Sept. 12. H. O. Moss of Vernon has been appointed receiving agent for Burkburnett and surrounding territory for the Texas Cotton Cooperative Marketing association. Mr. Moss stated that his office will be in the Collier Bros. Hardware store and that some one would be in the office all through the day to take the samples. Two-day service has been promised the farmers; that is, if samples are left in the office in the morning, the farmers will receive their draft the following morning.

All samples will be taken to Vernon to be graded by government classers, the farmers receiving 90 per cent of the actual value of the cotton.

Farmers wishing these drafts may receive them at the gins, the chamber of commerce which is aiding Mr. Moss in his work, and at the cotton receiver's office.

'STORMY' VINCENT TO CARRY SPUDDER HOPES IN THIRD GAME

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

MORE COMMENT ON SHARP-SIGHTED SEARS

The Rambler is indebted to Judge R. E. Huff for calling his attention to the Dallas News' report of the decision in the fourth inning of Thursday's game which robbed Euller of a home run, the Spudders of a score and which possibly changed the entire result of the game. Now the Rambler admits he's highly prejudiced in favor of the Spudders, so here's what George White, Dallas sports editor, had to say in his play-by-play account of Umpire Sears' amazing decision:

Wichita Falls—Fowler booted Crouch's grounder and then threw wild to first, the Spudder catcher reaching second. It was scored as a hit and an error for the extra base. He scored when Euller looped a hit to right which was good for a double when Cox kicked it behind some temporary boxes in front of the right field bleachers. Euller stopped to look back as he rounded second and he was thrown out trying to reach third, Cox to Fowler. The arbiters overlooked a very important league rule in depriving Euller of a home run unless one of them has acquired a faculty of being able to see through the boards. Otherwise, it was impossible for any umpire on the field to see the ball. There is a circuit rule which automatically gives a player a round trip ticket on any ball landing in fair territory and leaving the sight of the umpire. Steengrafe singled to left but Levey filed to Bonowitz and Storti rolled to Burns. One run (unearned), three hits, one error, one left on.

So Lil Stoner goes to the Philadelphia Nationals. The Phillies made a good buy in Stoner, but it probably would have been a better one if the major leagues played night baseball. For Stoner showed much proficiency under the lights with his fast one.

However, he shot the fast one past the Spudders a-plenty Thursday.

It was pitiful to see Milton Steengrafe lose that game. We swear on the copy hook that it is our firm conviction that had Bettencourt and Euller fielded their positions without an error apiece Steengrafe would have come through with a victory. The Cats got only two more hits off Steengrafe than the Spudders got off Stoner. But those errors by Euller and Bettencourt snowed Steengrafe under. Especially Bettencourt's error, for it allowed two men to score.

However, and dadgumit, we're going to win that pennant. As you cast your orbs o'er this sheet today I'm in Fort Worth. Probably asleep. For I'm usually dead to the world until noon on account of this night life. But I'll be up and around by noon, and by 4 o'clock I'll be pounding out a play-by-play account of Saturday's game for you to read in our Sunday paper. And on the side I'll be cheering for that bunch of Spuds. They've got to win.

Manager Williams has three chunkers to pick for Saturday's game, Vincent, Fiorrid and Caldwell; while the Cats have Whitworth. Or maybe they'll run McCabe in with but two days rest. It's hard to figure out what Frank Snyder will do.

It's also hard to figure out what Carl will do. He could start Caldwell, and, in case the latter gets into hot water, jerk him and shove Vincent in to stop them with his fast ones. Florrid is a whale of a pitcher for seven innings, but he usually gets into trouble after that. Carl could start Florrid and let Vincent relieve. Or he could start Vincent and let Florrid relieve. And then there's Lester White available for either starting or relief duty.

In case we lose Saturday's game, we can square matters up for the second time by pitching Wiltse Sunday. I hereby swear on the aforesaid copy hook that I believe Wiltse can stop that gang again on only three days rest. Then it would be up to Steengrafe to win the deciding game Monday.

But is is my firm conviction that we're going to win Saturday. The Spudders got the rough end of the breaks here Thursday, what with these sharp-sighted umpires and so on, and if you know the Spuds as well as I do, you know that whenever they get the wrong breaks they get all riled up, and whenever they get that way they win baseball games. Look at Jasper Crouch. He's hit plenty home runs this season, and I know of a number of them that were socked over the fence just after Jack got sore at the umpire for calling an alleged ball an asserted strike. If we do not win Saturday, things will look sad indeed. It probably will spell the end of the Spudders' pennant hopes. We have only one Hal Wiltse, you know, and we can't pitch him every day.

FORT WORTH, Sept. 12.—Carl Williams' Wichita Falls Spudders tonight prepared to enter the second stage of the Texas league championship battle with the Fort Worth Cats fully aware that the outcome of Saturday's game is to be determined by the quality of Spudder pitching, and aware also that a defeat Saturday probably will mean a premature end of a long, hard fight.

Vincent Expected

The Spudders arrived here by train late today and found the enemy strongly entrenched for the last stages of the fight, with Dick Whitworth looking as generalissimo of the forces they will encounter in Saturday's game. In the chatter of sports writers and Cat officials it was seen Whitworth is regarded as a sure starter for the Panthers, unless Manager Frank Snyder should go wild and shoot McCabe in with only two days of rest.

Fort Worth is convinced their home team will face old Stormy Vincent, and gossip around the Spudders points out they are exactly right. At the most it is a toss up between Vincent, Caldwall and White, with Vincent appearing as the more logical owing to his good showing during the season against the Cats. Stormy took them for a ride twice, and was defeated only once by the Snydermen during the past season.

The dopesters have further figured out that Wiltse will meet McCabe in the second game of the Fort Worth series Sunday, with Lil Stoner facing Milton Steengrafe Monday, in case the Monday game is necessary.

But the straggling advance guard of Wichitans who arrived here today by train and automobile were not making hotel reservations for Monday, or buying tickets for Monday's game, for the reason they confidently expect the Spudders to win Saturday, and leave the clean-up job for Hal Wiltse Sunday.

Third Game Important

A victory Saturday will about prove they planned their visit to terminate at the right time—and a victory Saturday depends on the pitching of old Stormy Vincent. Should the Spudders lose Saturday, only a miracle could stop the Cats from riding to the championship.

There were few Wichitans in Cowtown tonight, but the Texas hotel will begin to show signs of activity Saturday morning, when the bulk of Wichita Falls fans are expected on the various special trains.

Williams' clan enjoyed the ride over here hot a bit. Most of them were tearing at the ropes, and Howard Fitzgerald suddenly got terribly hungry and went roaming all over the train looking for a cheese sandwich. He didn't find one and the pride of Eagle Lake came near losing his temper.

Jack Kloza, on the other hand, settled down to reading a mystery story when the train left Spudderville, and that over, curled up on the cushions and went to sleep.

Larry Races Train

The only amusement provided was a race between the train and Larry Bettencourt's swell coupe. Larry, Jack Burns and Jasper Crouch left home with the train and beat it to Cowtown. At times the race was close. Larry and his bunch, and the boys on the train howled at each other continually, to the consternation of plough hands bearing down in the cotton fields.

Fort Worth club officials announced today Frank Meyers, Cat catcher who injured his throwing finger in the opening game at Wichita Falls, will be out of the game the rest of the series. An X-ray examination this morning, revealed the bone was fractured, it was announced. Previously it was hoped the maskman would be on duty Saturday.

Whirlwinds Set For Night Game

Cubs Recover Batting Eyes To Down Phils 17-4; Robins Also Win

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12. (AP)—With a whistling barrage of base blows, the Chicago Cubs held their lead in the National league today by smothering the Phillies 17-4. The Cubs drove Willoughby to cover early in the fourth frame and continued the bombardment at the expense of Phillips, who relieved him.

Hack Wilson led the assault with five hits, which included his 49th homer and two doubles. English had four hits and Cuyler three. Chuck Klein shattered the National league mark for two baggers when he unleashed his 53rd in the third inning. Score:

ROBINS 7, REDS 3

BROOKLYN, Sept. 12. (AP)—The Robins continued their pursuit of the National league pennant today by defeating the Cincinnati Reds 7 to 3. It was Brooklyn's eighth straight victory and marked the Robin's longest winning streak of the season.

The victory enabled the Robins to hold their place in the torrid National league race a half game behind the Chicago Cubs and a point behind the St. Louis Cardinals as all three leaders won today's games.

Ray Moss pitched the nine innings and was effective except in the sixth frame when the Reds reached him for four singles and three runs. He yielded only eight hits. Score:

CARDS 5, GIANTS 2

NEW YORK, Sept. 12. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals administered a crushing blow to the Giants' pennant hopes today by rallying for three runs in the ninth inning of their fourth bitter battle to win 5 to 2. It was the third Cardinal victory in succession and gave St. Louis the series.

As Brooklyn and Chicago also won, the Cards failed to gain in the pennant race but the fourth place Giants lost a full game and tonight are four games behind the league leading Cubs.

Flint Rhem pitched a fine game for St. Louis, allowing the Giants only seven hits and shutting them out in all but the sixth inning. Score:

SENATORS GAIN ON ATHLETICS

White Sox Go Down 8-7 In Hectic Game

CHICAGO, Sept. 12. (AP)—Breaking up a late drive by the White Sox today, Washington won the first game of the series, 8 to 7, and gained a half game on the idle Athletics.

The Senators laced Tommy Thomas and Garland Braxton for all their runs in the first seven innings, while Fred Marberry was holding the Sox scoreless. A big seventh by the Sox, capped by Clyde Reynolds' homer, produced five runs and sent Marberry to cover and another two runs in the eighth caused Brown to be removed. Bump Hadley got in in time to halt the rally. Score:

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 12. (AP)—Cotton was lower today under near month liquidation combined with realizing or reselling by some recent buyers who appeared to be influenced by relatively easy Liverpool cables and possibly by the easier ruling of the grain and stock markets. The new December contract sold off to 10.06 and the old December to 11.13 and closing quotations were at the lowest of the day with the tone barely steady at net declines of 19 to 23 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 2 to 5 points in response to the easier cables. Reports of a little more southern selling seemed to promote liquidation or local selling and after some little irregularity right after the call, prices worked generally lower.

There was a little more hedge selling at the opening of the market and again toward the close, according to local brokers, but much of the day's selling was attributed to liquidation of old long accounts or reselling by recent buyers. The report of the New York cotton exchange service placing domestic consumption for August at 357,000 against 558,000 a year ago, may have been a contributing factor on the early decline.

Liverpool cables said Bombay buying had been supplied by hedge selling but reported more inquiry for cotton cloth from Egypt. Port receipts today were 111,645 bales. U. S. port stocks, 106,155, exports 63,224, making 658,265 so far this season.

Futures closed easy, 19 to 33 points lower. Spot, quiet; middling, 11.05.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 12. (AP)—The market was somewhat erratic for cotton contracts today and trading was generally moderate except for a spurt of activity in the afternoon. Cables were lower than due and there was issued during the morning a bearish estimate of domestic consumption for August which combined with expectations of bearish statistics caused declines of 12 to 13 points during the period before mid-session. After mid-session the market experienced a good rally on improved mill takings for the week and prices recovered all the early loss.

The market soon turned easy again on week-end liquidation and some hedge selling and made new lows for the day right at the end 20 to 22 points under the previous close and closed steady at or near the lowest, showing net losses for the day of 20 to 23 points.

Liverpool came in 1 to 4 points lower than due and private cables attributed the easiness abroad to hedge selling. First trades here were 2 to 3 points down and the market continued to decline during the morning. October dropped to 10.96 and December to 11.14, down 12 to 13 points from the previous close.

The market rallied after mid-session on the weekly statistics proving more favorable than looked for particularly the mill takings which totaled 194,000 bales. Prices recovered all of the early loss but the advance did not hold.

Prices soon eased off again on realizing and hedge selling and made new lows right at the end with October at 10.88 and December at 11.05, or 20 to 22 points below the previous close. The close was at or near the lowest at net losses for the day on 20 to 21 points on the active months.

Port receipts 98,419, for week 349,621, for season 1,251,233, last season 906,194. Exports 50,196, for week 187,828, for season 624,645, last season 470,633. Port stocks 2,110,191, last year 858,748. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 76,339, last year 90,711. Spot sales at Southern markets 42,555, last year 48,500.

Futures closed steady, at net decline of 20 to 23 points:

Wavering Market Yields Under Concentrated Selling Pressure

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Sept. 12. (US)—Pressure continued against stocks during today's market and succeeded in causing additional recession throughout the list. It was evident that support appeared only on setbacks, yet no drastic declines occurred even among the speculative favorites. Nevertheless, buying was insufficient to offset the persistent offerings. At times the selling had the earmarks of an intensive bear raid and in the afternoon such concentrated selling resulted in more vigorous setbacks in many issues, but even the selling was not maintained on large scale. The close found practcially all stocks lower than the previous close. Volume ran close to two million shares. Developments throughout the day favored the bears. Adding to the nervousness already occasioned by the many South American political disturbances, a rumor was broadcast that Cuba was in the throes of a revolution, a report which proved unfounded. Wheat broke to new low levels, cotton slumped close to its former low, and a bearish copper statement failed to help sentiment.

The market evidences quite plainly the attitude of indecision prevailing in important quarters. The present is recognized as an important test area for general business and many even bullishly-inclined interests are anxious to witness actual proof of industrial betterment before entering the market on the buying side on a large scale. Nevertheless, there is a tendency to wait a few more weeks before concluding that the anticipated betterment will not appear.

The market shows this quite plainly, in the failure of substantial liquidation to appear even on setbacks in price. A good deal of today's selling was for bear account, inspired in part by knowledge that many leaders of the bull side were absent from the street.

There is undoubtedly considerable selling taking place for people who have become tired waiting for business to improve. Too many predictions, setting a definite date for the revival of commerce, have been given wide publicity. The net result, however, has been to delay any broad public interest in stocks, and lacking this the professionals who have been sponsoring stocks have likewise become discouraged and in some instances are seeking to withdraw. Selling from this source accounts for the weakness in particular specialties, rather than in any of the big leaders. Steel common closed off a half-point net, but American Can was down 2½, General Electric almost a point, and other leading issues in proportion. International Telephone & Telegraph rallied somewhat on declaration of its regular dividend, but short covering probably accounted for its strength, since the $1.04 per share income for the first half of this year, compared with $1 dividend requirement, hardly encouraged complete confidence in continuance of the payment. Efforts to rally the utilities were futile, although the sizeable short interest which exists in many utilities prevented any sharp setback. Motor shares were lower as General Motors again lost ground, yet the buying of the latter issue continued in large part for the account of interests close to its management. The market, however, is uncertain about the corporation's earnings for the third quarter, which may not equal the 75-cent dividend requirement for the period.

Weakness in the copper shares was typical of the entire market. Issuance of the August trade statistics disclosed a worse condition in surplus stocks than had been anticipated, although it was generally expected the report would be bearish. The feeeling has been, however, that this report would be the last with bearish interpretation. However, to complicate matters, the price of the metal, which had supposedly touched "bottom" again shows signs of weakening, with sales actually reported one-half cent below the official quotation. Even International Nickel, which had been strongly supported, yielded a point despite large-scale supporting orders on a scale downward. This company is just entering into copper production yet within a year, its officials believe, its copper output can be built up into a volume of 300,000,000 pounds. The importance of this can be appreciated by its comparison with the annual producton of an established copper producer such as Kennecott, whose output approximates half a billion pounds annually.

Railroad stocks yielded with the other major groups. Baltimore & Ohio dipped below 100 again as fears increased over its dividend, but the latter depends on the course of business in the immediate future. Southern Railway also yielded on less demand from the short interest, which had been frightened somewhat by maintenance of the regular dividend. It was a difficult day for bulls, whose program depends entirely on faith that the immediate future will bring business revival.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12. (AP)—Government bonds: Liberty 3½s, $101.1; first 4¼s, $102.4; fourth 4¼s, $103.5. Treasury 4¼s, $112.20; 4s, $107.31; 3¾s, $101.30.

DRY GOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 12. (AP)—Cotton gray goods markets were unchanged today with fair demand for coarse yarn fabrics at unchanged prices and slightly broader trading in fine and fancy cloths. Finished goods lines continued moving in fairly satisfactory measure in primary channels. Burlap market continued quiet, with some inquiry for spot and afloat goods. There were heavy sales of raw silk in weak Japan markets, with prices lower and market dull here.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Sept. 12. (AP)—There was good demand for domestic wheat here today, with nothing doing in export trade. There was a fair demand for other grains with sorghum receipts exceptionally light.

Estimated receipts: Wheat, 12 cars; corn, 13; oats, 2; barley, 8; sorghums, 1; hay, 1.

Bids and offers on grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Wheat, No. 1 hard milling, any protein 92½@93.

Corn, No. 2 mixed 98@99; No. 2 white 1.00@1.01; No. 1 yellow 1.09@1.10.

Oats, No. 3 white 48½@49; No. 2 red 51½@52.

Barley, No. 2, 68½@69½.

Sorghums, No. 2 yellow milo 1.97@2.00; No. 2 white kaffir 1.67@1.70.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 12. (AP)—Grain prices in Chicago were struck down today by an epidemic of selling fever which afflicted every major grain market in the world. The ailment left all grains weak with little strength left for rallies. Selling was persistent throughout the session here, but it came mostly in small lots. Houses with connections in Canada and foreign countries were the most prominent venders of wheat in Chicago, most of which was construed as edging against actual purchases of wheat. All deliveries of wheat in Chicago sounded new depths as they plunged into the lowest levels of the season. Winnipeg wheat prices were even lower than Chicago and the Liverpool prices also registered new lows. Support for the market, such as it was, came mainly from commission houses with standing orders to buy at various fixed levels as the market went down. Corn was afflicted with the same illness which sent wheat crashing down and likewise was without support.

Wheat closed weak at ⅝-1⅛c net lower than yesterday's final quotations. Corn finished at almost the bottom prices of the day, 1½-2⅝c down, oats ⅜-1⅛c off, Rye ⅞-1⅜c lower, and provisions ranged from unchanged to a decline of 10c.

Wheat prices made only slight recovery from the lowest prices touched. Trade was quiet. Stop loss orders were uncovered during the decline, but there was a lack of aggressive buying support.

Oats sank with wheat and corn and because of scattered liquidation. Rye showed resistance to pressure and did not fully reflect the decline in wheat.

Provisions averaged lower, sympathizing with grain weakness and because of selling.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, December 85½-⅝, 87⅝-¾; March 89¾, 91⅝; May 92¾-⅝, 94⅝; Corn, September 92½, 95¼; December 86⅞, 89⅝-½; March 88⅝-⅝, 91; May 9⅞, 93.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Sept. 12. (US)—One bright side to the Canadian wheat situation is seen by traders friendly to the market for the long pull. That is the fact that the run of wheat has been abnormally heavy and abnormally early, holding promise of an early clean-up of the pressure of marketings, possibly even before the usual halting of the movement which occurs with the advent of winter weather over the prairies.

Holders of corn have been liquidating on the general theory that with the relatively high prices compared with wheat, the market must respond to weakness in the latter grain and little prospect of a sustained market in wheat is seen with the Northwest movement in full swing.

Rumsey and company say of corn: "We may have some further decline tomorrow and Monday, due to liquidation, but it is rather hard to get bearish when one considers that notwithstanding the fact that the movement of the past two months has been heavy, stocks at distributing points are less than they were a year ago, country offerings are now practically nothing and daily receipts are going into consumptive channels immediately."

Reports of too dry weather in Argentina and the reduction in the Italian crop estimate were not sufficiently bullish to offset the effects of renewed Russian offerings, Liverpool cables said.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 12. (AP) (U.S.D.A.)—Fairly active sessions at most hog markets caused values to be rated at steady to 25c higher except at St. Louis where after a steady early trade closing values ruled 10@15c lower. Light weights, in many cases, showed the full advance. Chicago paid the extreme top for the day when sales were reported at $11.15. Receipts for 11 markets numbered 41,250.

Receipts of sheep totaled 42,900. Lambs were fairly active at most centers with calves turning at steady to 25c higher levels. Chicago had a strictly choice consignment of Colorado lambs weighing 77 pounds which brought $9.65 while St. Louis reported a turn of $9.25 on fat lambs. Omaha paid a value of $9.00 for choice rangers.

Limited receipts in the cattle contingent held values at generally steady levels. Grain fed steers of light and medium weight found good demand sessions of the week but weighty kinds were rather slow unless of good to choice quality. Chicago scored $12.25 on best yearlings and secured $11.90 for desirable heavy weights. Most Western grassers cleared at $7.85@8.75. A few selected kind at Chicago brought $13.50. Receipts of cattle numbered 9,375.

TEXAS LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Sept. 12. (AP) (U.S.D.A.)—Receipts of cattle here today were limited but, despite the small volume of supply, steer quality was more attractive than on any day during the week.

Steer trade was featured by a top of $10.00. Other fed slaughter steers were reported from $7.60 to $8.50.

Fat cows, good enough to command $5.00 or more were lacking but some fairly good grades sold at $4.50; butcher cows found an outlet at $3.25 to $3.75 and low cutters were reported from $2.25 to $2.65.

Better grades of stock steer calves are wanted from $6.75 to $7.25. Very good young stock cows sold early in the week up to $5.50.

Slaughter calves held steady with a few good heavies ranging up to $7.00.

Rail hogs topped at $10.35. Truck hogs which have been selling about on a parity with rail hogs, settled at declines of 25c to 35c. Best truck hogs brought $10.10 and the better grades in the truck section moved from $9.90 to $10.00. Some packing sows from $7.50 to $8.00 were quotably steady. Fat lambs sold at $7.25 and three decks of fat wethers, mostly two year olds, changed hands at $4.25. Fat yearlings of a medium grade were reported at $5.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 500; hogs, steady; top, $10.35; truck hogs, 25 to 35c lower; top¼ $10.10; packing sows, $7.50@8.00.

Cattle—Receipts, 1,900, including 500 calves; trade poorly tested, all classes about steady; fed steers, $9.50; butcher cows around $3.25@3.75; fat calves, up to $7.00.

Sheep—Receipts, 1,700; market fully steady; fat lambs, $7.25; fat wethers, $4.25; fat yearlings, $5.25.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12. (INS)—Hogs—Receipts, 13,000; market 15 to 20 higher; top, $11.10; bulk, $9.25@11.10; heavy, $10.15@11.15; medium, $10.90@11.15; light, $10.40@11.10; light lights, $9.75@10.75; packing sows, $8.40@9.50; pigs, $8.50@9.25; holdovers, 6,000.

Cattle—Receipts, 1,500; market steady; calves, 1,000, steady; beef steers, good and choice, $10.50@12.50; common and medium, $6.80@10.00; yearlings, $7.00@13.00; butcher cattle, heifers, $5.50@12.75; cows, $4.25@8.00; bulls, $5.50@8.00; calves, $10.00@13.00; feeder steers, $6.00@8.50; stocker steers, $5.50@8.00; stocker cows and heifers, $4.00@6.50.

Sheep—Receipts, 14,000; market steady; medium and choice lambs, $8.50@9.50; culls and common, $5.50@7.00; yearlings, $6.00@7.50; common and choice ewes, $2.00@4.25; feeder lambs, $6.50@7.75.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 12. (AP)—Cattle—Receipts 600; calves, 300; trading active; grass finished yearlings, up to $9.00; caked grass steers as high as $6.00; beef cows, $4.25@5.00; sausage bulls, $5.00@5.25; choice veals, $7.50@8.00.

PETITION ASKS HIGHWAY NOTES

Oklahoma Road Building Plan Urged

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 12. (AP)—An initiative petition, providing for submission to voters at the November election of a constitutional amendment authorizing issuance by the state highway commission of $15,000,000 in short term notes for highway construction, was filed with the secretary of state today.

The petition was filed for Ira Hill, Republican gubernatorial nominee by John Appleby, Republican leader.

Appleby said work to obtain signatures on the petition will begin at once. Approximately 93,000 signature will be necessary to place the question on the ballot.

Hill sought recently to have Governor Holloway call a special session of the legislature to submit the proposal to the voters. The governor declined. Hill then decided to take the initiative petition route in attempt to accomplish his aim.

The nominee said he sought to have the money made available and the highway werk put under way at once to alleviate the unemployment situation in the state this winter.

NEWS of the FIELD

BROWNLEE AND OTHERS

John Brownlee and associates No. 1 J. A. Bell, located in lot 14, block 5, Clark & Plumb survey Archer county has set casing on an oil sand at 1140 to 1144 feet and will test. The test is located about 1500 feet northeast of the Flake and others No. 2 Bell which came in two weeks ago as a wildcat making 50 barrels, and in the event of the Brownlee test being a producer it will give the new pool a nice northeast extension.

NORTH OF KEMP CITY

Deep Oil Development company No. 1 Munger brothers, located 330 feet each way from the north and west lines of block 30 Wichita Valley Farm Lands in south Wichita county, the second test to be put down by the Deep Oil Development company of Wichita Falls is spudded in and shut down. The same company No. 1 J. Hirschi in the David Cowan survey, abstract 37, north of Clara is changing from rotary to cable tools at a depth of 3177 feet.

SWASTIKA AREA

Golding-Cochran and others No. 1 J. T. Richardson, located in block 1, South Anderson ranch sub-division in southwest Archer county tested a 10 foot sand topped at 160 feet which failed to make a producer and is pulling pipe to drill deeper.

A STORY ABOUT TWO RUGS

TWO neighbors had rugs they wished to sell. One of them used the Classified Ads of this newspaper and found a buyer in short order.

THE best part of the story, however, is that this will not deter the other from advertising HER rug in the Classified Ads, too. Every prospective buyer who was disappointed in the first instance will be reading the offer of the second and answering without delay.

AND the other rug CAN be SOLD also.

THESE ads will sell for YOU.

Our courteous ad taker will receive your Classified Ad and help you to word it, then our collector will call the next day. These accounts are "accommodation accounts" for the convenience of our patrons in transacting business over the telephone.

Classified Ad patrons desiring to have ads charged must have a telephone listed in their own name. No book record is made by the publishers on account of the great number of transactions, hence the necessity of collecting promptly.

Correction of errors in Classified Ads must be made before the second insertion. No allowance will be made for more than one incorrect insertion.

Cancellations and adjustments regarding errors should be telephoned to the Classified Ad department between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m.

Ads accepted for afternoon paper up until 11 a. m. same day.

Morning paper up to 6 p. m. for the following morning.

Sunday paper up to 7 o'clock Saturday night.

Same copy in both papers.

THE CLASSIFIED DEPARTMENT IS OPEN ON SUNDAYS

from 4 to 6 p. m. and telephone orders for classified ads to be inserted or to be discontinued will be accepted.

Exceptions: Want ads will be accepted over the telephone for all excepting the following classifications: Situations Wanted and Wanted to Rent. Ads for these classifications are cash with the order and will not be accepted over the telephone.

The Times reserves the right to classify all Classified Ads under the appropriate headlines and to revise or to withhold from publication any ads deemed objectionable.

500 High School Students Strike for Shorter School Hours

WATERTOWN, Mass., Sept. 12. (AP)—Five hundred striking high school students, 150 of whom were girls, staged a demonstration today before the junior high school which ended only with the intervention of police.

The student group "walked out" yesterday as a protest against the action of the school committee in adding an hour to the day's program.

Today, the "strikers" appointed a committee of eight students—four boys and four girls—who waited upon Superintendent of Schools Wilfred Circe. After a conference, during which the superintendent told them they were manifesting the wrong attitude, both leaders and strikers marched back to the junior high school but refused to go in.

Circus Sued as 'Tricky Cannon Kicks Up Dirt

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 12. (UP)—Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey circus was sued in district court today for $20,000 damages allegedly suffered by Vencel Melka of Enid.

Melka alleges he lost the sight of his left eye when the backfire from a cannon used in shooting Hugo Vacchini across the main tent knocked dirt in his eye at Enid.

Deputy Sheriff Ted Foster was sent to the circus grounds to attach part of the circus paraphernalia pending the posting of bond by circus officials.

Melka said he attended the circus at Enid on Sept. 10 and was sitting near the cannon when it was discharged to shoot Vacchini into a net. The force of air striking the ground, knocked dirt and gravel into his left eye and caused the loss of sight, he alleges.

Foster said none of the circus animals will be attached on account of the expense to feed them pending the approval of the bond.

P.-T. A. Supports Thrift Movement

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Sept. 12.—The Thompson ward P.-T. A. is one of the first local organizations to recognize the value of a thrift exchange in Electra. The members of this P.-T. A. are urged to meet at the home of the president, Mrs. B. R. Hutchins, 406 North Waggoner street, Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 16, to work on garments for the thrift exchange. The members are being urged to look in their closets and select outgrown clothes, shoes, overcoats, dresses, etc., and bring them to the meeting Tuesday. There will be a great need for all the garments that can be made during the winter months. Those who cannot take their garments to the president's home are asked to leave them at the Thompson ward school where they will be collected.

A very enthusiastic meeting of the organization P.-T. A. was held Thursday afternoon. All the officers and teachers were 100 per cent in attendance. The chairmen for the ensuing year were appointed and given their individual duties. C. M. Harvey, principal, introduced the faculty members.

The first program of the year was on "Thrift," and Miss Lucille Jackson gave a very concrete discussion on "The Need of Thrift in Electra." Mrs. B. R. Hutchins, president, outlined briefly the aims of the P.-T. A. for the ensuing year and reported the purchase of a set of wonder world books for the school library. The treasurer's report showed a balance of $83. Iced lemonade was served to 42 parents and teachers.

Home Demonstration Council Meets Today

The Wichita County Home Demonstration council will hold a meeting at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the basement of the courthouse here to make plans for the exhibit to be staged by the council at the Wichita county fair at Iowa Park beginning Sept. 25, according to the announcement Friday by Miss Ethel L. Webb, county home demonstrator.

Mrs. Ed Dunn, first vice president of the council, will preside at the meeting. The council plans to exhibit canned fruits and all other home arts and industries at the fair as an example of the type of work being done in homes over the county through the efforts of the demonstration council.

DEATHS

H. C. HAGGERTY

Funeral services for H. C. Haggerty, 60, who dropped dead in the corridor of the courthouse Wednesday, were held from the chapel of Albert's Funeral home at 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon with Dr. N. F. Grafton, pastor of the Floral Heights Presbyterian church, officiating.

Active pallbearers included Perry Browning, J. W. Hopper, E. H. Blanton, Joe Pate, Sydney Gaines and A. J. Donaldson. Honorary pallbearers were A. M. Cunningham, W. A. Barber, J. Y. Littleton, L. E. Junell, J. M. Fox, S. H. Howell, J. L. Carlock, Dr. J. W. DuVal, Levi Gambil and Marvin Smith.

Surviving him are his widow, two daughters, Martha Jane and Mary Louise and a son, John, all of 1906 Eighth street; a sister, Mrs. Jennie Daywalt of Fort Myers, Va., and a brother, Elmer, of Salem, North Carolina.

G. B. ISLER

Funeral services for G. B. Isler, 69, pioneer resident of this city who died Wednesday at his home, 1409 Travis street, following a long illness, were held from the First Methodist church Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with Dr. S. S. McKenney, pastor, officiating. Interment was in Rosemont.

Active pallbearers included Oral Jones, Rev. J. D. Barron, W. O. Kimmell, J. R. Ogle, M. T. Junker, and J. C. Hanks.

HANNA TO BE BURIED TODAY

Rites Set for Stamford Pioneer

Special to The Record News

STAMFORD, Texas, Sept. 12.—Funeral services for J. M. Hanna, pioneer civic and business leader of Stamford who died here Wednesday, will be held at 9:30 Saturday morning from the First Baptist church here. Burial will be in the Mount Hope cemetery at Anson. Rev. Sam Morris of Stamford will officiate.

Mr. Hanna was born in July, 1850 at Salibria Springs, Ky. In 1875 he was married to Miss Nannie Penix, who died here in 1904. On Oct. 5, 1921 Mr. Hanna married Mrs. Mattie J. Young of Fort Worth.

During his residence in Stamford, which began in 1901, Mr. Hanna was the leader of the most important civic enterprises in the section. He was largely instrumental in the founding of Simmons college here, and with his partner, the late L. M. Buie, he headed the movement which resulted in the extension of the Central Texas railway to Stamford from Albany and on to Rotan.

His enthusiastic optimism for the future of West Texas inspired all his work and was a significant factor in the success of many constructive projects. The Hanna addition in Stamford is named in his honor.

He was a licensed lawyer in addition to his wide real estate interests.

Besides his widow, he is survived by a son, Furman Hanna of Arizona and a daughter, Mrs. Maude Hanna Baird of Harlingen.

Sailor Held on Murder Charge

HOUSTON, Sept. 12. (AP)—Clinton Kinney was charged this afternoon with the murder of his traveling companion, H. H. Myhrs, whose body was found alongside a road near here early today. Authorities previously had the suspect's name as C. D. Kennedy.

Kinney, or Kennedy first was held as a material witness, after his story of being held up, along with Myhrs, had led to a search by officers resulting in the discovery of the body.

Both men were seamen from New Orleans en route, Kinney said, to California in search of work. Myhrs Kinney said, lived on the "West coast."

Newspaper Workers Hold Annual Picnic

Employes and officials of the Times Publishing company numbering about 150 persons strove valiantly in baseball, consumed prodigious quantities of home-cooked food, ice cream and soda pop and paid honor to recently-married couples among the group at the annual Times and Record News picnic held in Weeks park Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Long and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Howard, newly weds, received beautiful sets of silver, presentation being made by John Gould and Miss Eleanor Fleming, respectively. Short talks were made by J. H. Allison, Rhea Howard, Ed Howard, Ben D. Donnell, D. Kinney, and others following the dinner. Lawn games shared with playground baseball in providing recreation for the entire party during the earlier part of the evening.

Death Ends Pilgrimage Of Gold Star Mother

SMITH CENTER, Kan., Sept. 12. (AP)—Mrs. Grace Kingsbury, gold star mother who died today in Verdun, France, has lived here about 45 years. Although her health was poor, she accompanied other Kansas mothers to visit the grave of her son, Larue Kingsbury, who was killed by shell fire in 1918 and buried in the Meuse Argonne cemetery.

Mrs. Kingsbury, who was 58, is survived by her husband, A. S. Kingsbury, and two daughters, all of Smith Center.

Girl Flier to Make Mexico-New York Hop

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12. (UP)—Ruth Alexander, San Diego aviator, announced tonight she will start early next Monday on a one-stop flight from Agua Caliente, Mexico, to New York City.

Plans call for a refueling at Wichita, Kan., after a brief stop, Miss Alexander plans to go on to New York.

Miss Alexander recently made a nonstop flight from Vancouver, B. C., to Augua Caliente.

Beaumont Girl Tortured By Unknown Assailant

BEAUMONT, Texas, Sept. 12. (UP)—Search was conducted tonight for the assailant of pretty Edith Boseman, 21, who reported to officers that a man whom she had known only a few hours, lured her to a hotel room, burned her with a lighted cigar and a lighter, beat her and attacked her. The girl was in a serious condition tonight.

FIRE DAMAGES HOUSE

A small house at 103 Third street was damaged by flames to the extent of $400 late Friday afternoon, according to the report of officials of the fire department. The cause of the blaze was not determined.

Wichita Falls
Folks, Facts, Fancies

Mrs. Bonnie Bell Armstrong will leave Saturday for a week's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bell, at Greenville. Mrs. Armstrong is connected with the Wichita Falls Building and Loan association.

C.-C. BUREAU AT FORT WORTH

Boswell and Page to Aid Wichita Fans

Officials of the chamber of commerce will maintain a general service bureau in the Texas hotel at Fort Worth, Wichita Falls headquarters from Saturday morning until the championship series is ended, according to information given The Record News Friday.

Maintenance of a chamber of commerce service bureau at Fort Worth during the baseball play-off has a double objective, it was said. The first will be to furnish black and white Spudder hatbands to every person who wishes to be identified as a supporter of the Wichita Falls club, and to render any other aid to representatives of this section which they may desire while in Fort Worth. The desk will be located adjacent to that of the baseball club in the lobby of the Texas hotel, it was said.

Secretary Guy Airey of the Spudders, it was intimated, will be at the club's desk in charge of the sale of tickets. The only reserved seats available to those from Wichita Falls and vicinity will be those held at the Spudders' desk at the Texas, it was said, and such patrons were urged by chamber of commerce officials to obtain their pasteboards as early Saturday morning as possible. The tickets will be held at the hotel as late as possible, it was stated.

The other objective of the service bureau was described as the advertising of Wichita Falls to the greatest extent possible in connection with the outstanding success of her ball team in the Texas league. The desk will be in charge of John Boswell, general manager, and Wilburn Page, secretary of the Junior chamber of commerce.

'Home Coming Day' At Kay Bible Class

The Kay Bible class, along with all other departments of the Sunday school of the First Methodist chuch, will celebrate "Home Coming Day" next Sunday at the 9:30 hour, and every man that has ever attended this class in the past, is not only invited, but urged to attend, and make it an "old family reunion," leaders said Friday. Every man that is not regularly attending a Bible school elsewhere, regardless of membership in other churches, is extended a most cordial invitation.

In addition to the congregational singing, L. R. Thurman will sing a solo. Rev. J. D. Barron will bring to the class an inspirational message on "Religion That Changes Its Form, and Retains Its Power."

90-Day Term Given Man in Chicken Theft

H. A. (Blondy) Hight entered a plea of guilty Friday in the 89th district court to two charges of chicken theft and was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail on both counts. Chicken theft, it was explained, is now a felony charge. The case was prosecuted by Mike Anglin and George W. Anderson, assistants to the district attorney.

Board of Directors Of C.-C. to Meet Tuesday

Directors of the chamber of commerce will hold their regular biweekly meeting Tuesday morning, Sept. 16, at 10:30 a. m., it was announced Friday.

Routine business in addition to important matters now in the hands of special committees will be considered, it was said.

Among offenses forbidden by the by-laws of Vienna, for which the penalty is a fine on the spot, are crossing the street in the wrong place, throwing paper about, boarding a moving street car, playing a piano too loudly, driving too fast or on the wrong side of the road.

MAJESTIC: "Holiday" with Ann Harding, Mary Astor and Robert Ames. Comedy and sound news.

STRAND: Constance Bennett in "Common Clay." Comedy and sound news.

STATE: "The Sea Bat" with Charles Bickford and Nils Asther. Comedy and sound news.

GEM: Ken Maynard in "Mountain Justice" and last chapter of "The Lightning Express."

Good acting and direction such as found in "Common Clay" would have overcome the handicaps of many a weak plot, but nothing could do much good with the ancient and rather ridiculous story used in that particular picture . . . at least, in some rather ragged spots.

A girl who is fighting for a name of her own illegitimate son discovers that she is the illegitimate daughter of the attorney who is fighting her. There may be a few other relationships or peculiar twists to the story, but that's about all one person could keep up with. Quaint and original, eh?

Even with such a handicap at the start, "Common Clay" was pulled above the average by marvelous acting and directing. Constance Bennett, Lew Ayres, and Tully Marshall all have their moments and make the most of them, while a little unknown actor rolls his dark eyes coyly and steals the show—the chee-ild.

The story is just 15 years old. We may expect to see Clara Bow as Little Eva any day now, or Joan Crawford in "East Lynne."

Mrs. James P. Bowen, who returned to her home here this week after a vacation in California, has given this column some information about "Holiday" and "The Sap From Syracuse," after expressing her amazement at the early bookings of both pictures here.

Having seen "Holiday" on the stage, Mrs. Bowen was especially interested in the play and saw it last week at the Carthay Circle theater in Beverly Hills. "I enjoyed the picture version even more than the play," she said. "Really it was quite a social event. Seats were sold out for seven weeks in advance—nothing unreserved. Of course Abe Lyman's orchestra is an extra attraction which we shall not be able to enjoy here, but that feature may be offset by the fact that we shall not have to pay $1 a seat to see 'Holiday'."

Mrs. Bowen also mentioned Jack Oakie's "The Sap From Syracuse" which was featured last week at a "dress affair" showing in the new Fox theater in San Diego, and concluded her observations with the very pertinent remarks that "of course, there is just one way we can encourage the powers behind our local shows to continue to bring us the best."

15 Students Seek Posts on Wichitan

Fifteen high school and Junior college students applied for positions on the 1930-31 Wichitan staff at the first regular weekly meeting Friday afternoon.

A. F. Edwards, faculty advisor for the paper, explained the duties of the staff members in the various departments, and made assignments for the coming week.

Katherine Stewart, editor, and Mr. Edwards appointed several to positions as heads of departments. Those selected Friday follow:

Kathleen Mansker, club editor; Willie D. Roye, feature editor; Mildred Mosby, head of the circulation department; Loretta Hulland, humor editor; Margaret Fleming, head of the news department; and Dorothy Gothard, exchange editor.

Other students who are to be on the staff for the coming year include Bryant Creighton, Hal Ray, Bob Vigus, Dorothy Rodgers, Billie Leslie Stimson, Babetta Joseph, Marybelle Franks and Ellen Newby.

DAIRYMEN TO PICNIC TODAY

Haven Park Program To Open at 10:30 o'Clock

Officials of the Wichita Dairy association are predicting a banner attendance at the organization's basket picnic to be held at Haven park beginning at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning because the program includes a nail-driving contest for women only—for that reason, if for no other, a large attendance is anticipated.

A more serious program than that in which the women hammer-swingers will participate after the picnic dinner will be staged between 10:30 a. m. and noon, it was announced by those in charge. During the study of dairying methods and problems, an address will be given by Charles I. Francis, and Orville Bullington will make a talk on "The Value of the Herd Sire." Mr. Bullington will also demonstrate the evaluation of points in selecting an animal to sire a dairy herd.

Following the noonday picnic dinner, a program of amusements has been planned. Events thus far listed include music by a group of old fiddlers, and an athletic meet which will include a fat men's race, lean men's race, horse shoe pitching contest, boys' (under 12) race; boys' (over 12) race; girls' foot race; sack race, and the nail-driving contest for women.

Ice and lemonade for the dinner are being furnished by the local chamber of commerce, it was announced. The picnic is not only for members of the association and their families, but for all dairymen in Wichita county, together with their wives and children. Several hundred persons are expected to be on hand, it was said.

Marathon Meets Miniature on 'Baby' Course In Indiana

KOKOMO, Ind., Sept. 12. (INS)—Two recent fads were intermingled here when Tommy Simmons, 20, established an endurance record of 101 hours and four minutes of consecutive play on a local miniature golf course.

Simmons began to play Saturday night and stuck to his putting through heavy rainstorms.

Mary C. Boone Heads Student Orchestra

Mary C. Boone was elected president of the high school and Junior college orchestra at the first regular meeting of the club Thursday. Other officers chosen Thursday morning were as follows: Walter Fowler, vice president, and Durward Park, business manager.

Mrs. Hermione Stewart Vaughan is the director and faculty advisor.

According to Mrs. Vaughan, orchestra practice will be every afternoon at the sixth period.

JUDGE MARTIN TO GIVE TALK

District Court to Observe Constitution Week

National Constitution week will be observed in the 89th district court here Monday morning with a program opening at 9 o'clock, when the jury panel for the week is sworn in, according to an announcement issued Friday by Judge P. A. Martin.

The observance will be made at the request of the citizenship committee of the American Bar association, which has sent requests to district courts and other courts throughout the nation asking that some form of observance of the week be made, Judge Martin said. The week is an annual affair dedicated to the advancement of knowledge and understanding of the constitution of the United States.

Judge Martin said he would make some historical observations on the constitution to the jurors and to any other persons interested. He urged that all persons desiring to increase their knowledge of the constitution attend the 9 o'clock program. It is expected that plans will be made for observance of the national week in the Wichita Falls schools.

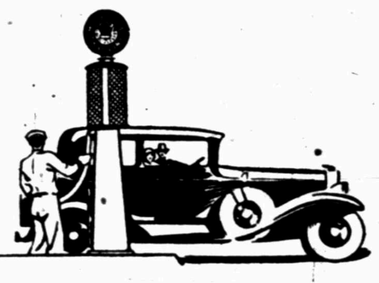

Etter Cleared On Forgery Charge

Les Etter, indicted on a charge of forgery and passing a forged instrument in connection with the purchase of goods from the Sears-Roebuck company here, was acquitted Friday afternoon by a jury in the 89th district court at the close of his trial on the charge. The defendant was represented by Earl Kuntz, Wichita Falls attorney.

An unusual feature of the case was the fact that two witnesses whose testimony would have been important in the trial, were unable to the present, one having died only a short time after the occurrence on which Etter was charged and the other having been sent to the penitentiary on a conviction here. Besides the store employe who took the check in payment for the goods and the defendant himself, there were no other persons familiar with any part of the case except the two witnesses who could not appear in court, George W. Anderson and Mike Anglin, assistants to the district attorney, prosecuted the case.
