Posses Scour Mountains While Arrests Are Made In Midst Of Noon Day Rush At Bank; $7,500 Demanded

(By The Associated Press)

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 2. — Two youths, holding a capitalist and an orphanage superintendent as captives, were trapped by police in a Richmond bank today as they sought to collect $7,500 in ransom money.

A last minute delivery from their captors came to George N. Davis, 65, Richmond, and R. K. Robertson, superintendent of the Davis-Stuart orphanage, as they stood under threat of pistols in the bank, following an all night ride from Lewisberg, W. Va., where they were kidnaped.

Two Are Charged

The two youths gave their names as Jack Liggett, 25, Charleston, W. Va., and William Craft, alias Paul Whittington, 21, Wheeling, W. Va. The two were held on charges of attempted robbery with pistols, an offense punishable with death in Virginia.

Commonwealth's Attorney David Saterfield, jr., and Detective Captain A. S. Wright this afternoon began a thorough investigation of the case, asserting that if evidence is found to back up the charge lodged here they will not yield the prisoners to West Virginia authorities reported as seeking their return to answer kidnaping charges.

Arrested At Bank

The arrests were made in the midst of the noon day rush at the First and Merchant's bank, where Davis was a depositor, while posses scoured the mountainous region between Lewisburg and the Virginia border for trace of Davis and Robertson.

Fred G. Mitchell, vice president of the bank here had been warned

Truett Cooper Gets Sentence

Two-Year Jail Term Assessed Man Accused Of Attacking Local Boys; Defendant Says He Is Innocent

A county court jury late Tuesday decided in seven minutes that Truett N. Cooper, a former laundry-car driver, was guilty of aggravated assault on a young boy and set his punishment in jail at the maximum, two years.

Only one woman was in the crowded courtroom during arguments. As County Attorney Vaughn E. Wilson recounted bits of sordid testimony for the jurors, in his argument, the woman, mother of one of the boys whom the state alleged Cooper had mistreated sexually, shielded her face.

Denies His Guilt

Cooper, who conducted his own defense and spoke briefly to the jurors, denying his guilt, made no statement when the verdict was read by County Judge E. L. Pitts. S. E. Cone was jury foreman.

Witnesses included Cooper's wife, who had sued him for divorce; the defendant's former employer, several fathers of boys whom Cooper is accused of victimizing, several of the boys involved, and Cooper.

Nephew Of Al Smith Is Held In Fatal Shooting

Deputy Shoots Man While Attempting To Make Arrest

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 2. — Vincent Glynn, nephew of former Governor Alfred E. Smith and a deputy sheriff, was arrested on a homicide charge this afternoon after he killed Walter Edward Webel, jr., whom he was seeking to arrest.

Webel was wanted on a contempt charge for failure to make $10 weekly alimony payments toward the support of his child.

Fires Warning Shots

Glynn said he waited outside the home of Webel's parents in Brooklyn until Webel came out. When he started to serve the warrant, Webel struck him and started to run, Glynn said. The deputy said he pursued, firing two shots in the air as a warning. As the fleeing man failed to halt, he fired again, still only for warning, he insisted. Webel dropped, mortally wounded, and died on the way to a nearby hospital.

In April, 1928, when Glynn was on the police force, he shot a man in a restaurant. An hour later he shot himself as he stood in a telephone booth, supposedly by accident as he pressed his heavy weight against the side of the booth.

Resigns From Force

The wounded man made no complaint, and both shootings were classed as accidental. But Glynn resigned from the force a few weeks later.

Arraigned on the homicide charge Glynn was at first ordered held without bail, since his fingerprint record had not been received. It arrived as he was being led out of the courtroom, and bail then was fixed at $10,000. He furnished it and was released.

Bank Official Says Man Was Masked And Dressed Like A Woman; Forced To Wrap Cash In Silk Handkerchief

(By The Associated Press)

CHILDRESS, Aug. 2.—A masked robber dressed as a woman held up the First State bank at Kirkland today and escaped with more than $1,600 in cash. Roy Key, assistant cashier, said the robber was a man disguised as a woman.

At the point of a pistol the robber forced Key to take the money from the vault and wrap it in a large black silk handkerchief. Then he locked Key and three customers in the vault and ran for the front door.

Prisoners Escape

Manipulating the vault lock from the inside, Key and the customers stepped out. The robber turned in the doorway and fired at them, the bullets going wild.

The robber ran to the street and drove away in a car belonging to W. A. Woods. In the car sat Woods' small son. The robber paused on the edge of town and put the boy out, then headed south.

Car Is Abandoned

Six miles from town the car ran out of gasoline and the robber was forced to abandon it. Officers trailed him across a creek bottom into a maize patch. A woman's felt hat identified as that worn by the robber was found in the patch.

Officers surrounded the field and sent for reinforcements. When more men arrived, the field was searched carefully but the robber was not in it. A mask believed to

League Formed In Lubbock To Back Governor

"Honesty And Responsibility In Government", Is Slogan Of Organization Perfected Tuesday Night

Ratliff Chairman

South Plains Rallies Will Be Held; Extensive Campaign To Be Mapped; Sterling May Be Asked To Appear

"HONESTY and responsibility in government."

Aligning themselves behind that slogan, about 70 men and women organized the South Plains Good Government League at a meeting of Sterling and Hunter boosters at the courthouse Tuesday night. The League will foster re-election of Gov. Ross S. Sterling.

Ratliff Is Chairman

John L. Ratliff, who supported Tom Hunter of Wichita Falls in the first primary campaign, was named permanent chairman of the organization, without opposition. L. Wesley Read, secretary of the South Plains Sterling-for-Governor club, active in the primary campaign, was elected secretary.

Vice chairmen are Geo. R. Bean, O. L. Slaton, J. H. Hankins and J. O. Jones. F. H. Robertson was named assistant secretary-treasurer.

73 Are On Roster

Seventy-three persons attending the conference permitted their names to be placed on the organization's roster. The secretary said that a large number of other names already had been included.

The league's organization will be completed, probably Wednesday with the naming of members of an executive committee, and committees to arrange finances, speakers, arrangements for rallies, publicity, contacts with citizens of South Plains towns and communities, and to organize the women's vote.

Rallies Are Planned

The league will meet on call of the chairman, or of a vice chairman. South Plains rallies are planned, and it was intimated at the meeting that probably Governor Sterling would appear at such a meeting.

PRAYER MEETING TONIGHT

Tuesday Morning Parties Are Given Here; Four Entertain For Club

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

PERHAPS you have a good recipe for pickles, know a new way to preserve beans or have a favorite relish of which your family and friends are particularly fond. If so, send it in so we can pass it along to other women.

* * *

Several requests have come to me recently for recipes since many women are canning. In the Sunday paper, a few such recipes were run. These formulas have been tested and are good. That is the reason they were put in the paper.

* * *

It happened that I had tasted Mrs. N. Link's pickles and liked them. That meant a lot since I usually care nothing for pickles of any kind. A request had come in for her method of making them so it was run.

* * *

There are a lot of women who have adapted recipes and use them. Mrs. Link has no written formula that she follows in making her pickles. She has made them so much that she has worked out a formula of seasoning that makes her food distinctive. No doubt you have done the same thing with a recipe. That is the sort of thing that other people want. A good cook book gives recipes that are reliable. Many times, however, families have particular dishes and ways of preparing food that are individual and that have an appeal that is different.

* * *

This is a time of the year, too, when it is hard enough to be hungry and have any inspiration to cook. That is another reason for new recipes. Some other housewife is going to be glad to hear of a new way to prepare the same old thing. Your method may not be new to your family but it may serve as an appetizer in another home.

A CHALLENGE

DID you hear the Lamesa choir sing Sunday night at First Methodist church?

* * *

The program might be a challenge for some Lubbock church and some Lubbock choir director. Rev. Bill Wallace, who is a young man and, we presume, full of energy, brought his young peoples' choir of some fifty members up here and put a program on at Methodist church that would have been difficult for more mature singers. Anthems, solos and even some instrumental music were included in that service and the Reverend Wallace directed it all—turning around with his baton in hand to make a short talk he called a sermonette.

* * *

Lamesa is a progressive little town but it isn't as large as Lubbock by a long shot. If we have any choirs up here that can equal the one brought from Lamesa I have yet to hear of it. Yet we have a college of young people and some of them can sing in addition to the local people who sing. That young peoples choir from Lamesa has shown us what can be done. Some young peoples' director, pastor or choir director here might find that Lubbock had possibilities for a good choir. The pleasure that the singers and others could have from it would be large and it might be another good way to let other people know what Lubbock can do.

AMERICAN FASHIONS

ALONG with these buy-at-home campaigns of which we have been hearing, there is a new one of interest to the American woman. Designers, it seems, are signing a declaration of independence from Paris and creating fashions for Americans by Americans.

* * *

Of course a lot of our fashions have always been American and even the best of them have often been adaptations but since Paris has the allure of style Parisian fashions have been the thing of which shop keepers talked. It has been a matter of salesmanship to a large extent.

* * *

However, one of these days we may be hearing as much of American fashions as of those in Paris. That will be when we have become style conscious—when we believe that an American-designed frock is as good or even better than one that has the stamp of the French capital.

* * *

You and I may not be able to tell whether our cousin came from Paris, Shanghai, New York or Podunk Center. As far as we are concerned, the thing we buy and the thing we wear is the thing that has appealed to us as fashionable. We may listen to what the clerk says about model but we may be more interested in the fit and the lines of the dress we are trying on.

* * *

Actually, it will matter little. But it is a step forward when we accept American designed clothing with the same enthusiasm that we now have for Parisian styles.

Mrs. H. Taylor Is Visiting In City

As a representative of the Texas Children's Home and Aid society Mrs. Hazel Taylor of Fort Worth is spending the remainder of this week at Hotel Lubbock.

Mrs. Taylor is "talking children" to those who are interested in the home or in children who are for adoption.

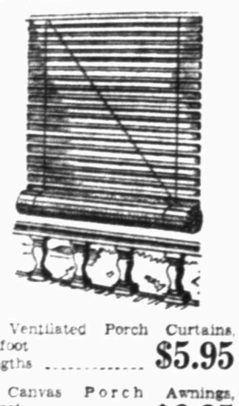

The Texas Children's Home and Aid society was organized in 1892 by the Rev. I. Z. T. Morris and has been in Fort Worth since that time. It is undenominational and has placed more than 6,000 children. Right now the home is carrying an extra load because of the depression, Mrs. Taylor said. This home is the only organization in Texas that is a member of the Child Welfare League of America, Mrs. Taylor said.

Great Britain Star Wins 800 Meter Classic

Tom Hampson Brings England's First Olympic Prize With Spurting Finish; S. Walsh Leads Women Racers

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

OLYMPIC STADIUM, LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2. — Tom Hampson, Great Britain middle distance star, came in with a rush in the stretch today to beat Alex Wilson of Canada in the sensational finish to the Olympic 800 meters championship. Phil Edwards of Canada was third and Eddie Genung, American champion, fourth.

Hampson gained Britain's first championship with a world record smashing performance of 1 minute, 49.8 seconds.

The other Americans, Ned Turner and Charles Hornbostel, finished fifth and sixth.

Hampson's dazzling time blasted the world mark of 1:50.6 held by Sera Martin of France, who finished in the ruck today, besides wiping out the Olympic record of 1:51.8, set by the famous English two-time Olympic champion, Douglas Lowe.

Hampson's time also was faster than the unofficial world mark of 1:50 flat, set this year on the coast by Ben Eastman, Stanford's famous middle distance star, who is on the American 400 meter team.

Wilson was so close, finishing barely a foot behind Hampson, that the Canadian star also was clocked under the world record figures.

Thrilling Finish Drive

Hampson won by running the smartest race, permitting Edwards, Wilson and Genung to fight it out through the earlier stages and overhauling all rivals in a thrilling stretch drive.

GEORGE GALING

The Olympic 100 meter championship for women was won by Stella Walsh, Cleveland girl competing for Poland, in a close and exciting final. She was clocked in 11.9 seconds, equalling the new world record which she set in the trials yesterday and also equalled in the semi-finals. Miss Walsh won by a foot from Hilda Strike of Canada.

Jack Keller of Ohio State bounced another Olympic record into the discard when he skimmed the 110 meter high hurdles, in the first semi-final heat, in 14.5 seconds, beating Lord Burgley of England and displacing the mark of 14.6 seconds, set in the 1928 semi-finals by Weightman-Smith of South Africa.

Edward Gordon

George Saling of Iowa came along with another contribution to the record shattering barrage by winning the second 110 meter hurdles semi-final in 14.4 seconds equalling the world mark as well as slicing another tenth of a second off the Olympic standard.

At about the same time, Lillian Copeland of the U. S. A., heaved the discus 133 feet, 2 inches to surpass all women's records, including the mark of 131 feet, 8 inches made earlier in the afternoon by her teammate, Ruth Osburn.

Saling just nipped Percy Beard, the third American timber-topper, in a close race which they had all to themselves. Welcher of Germany was the third qualifier in this heat, for tomorrow's final.

Copeland Gets Title

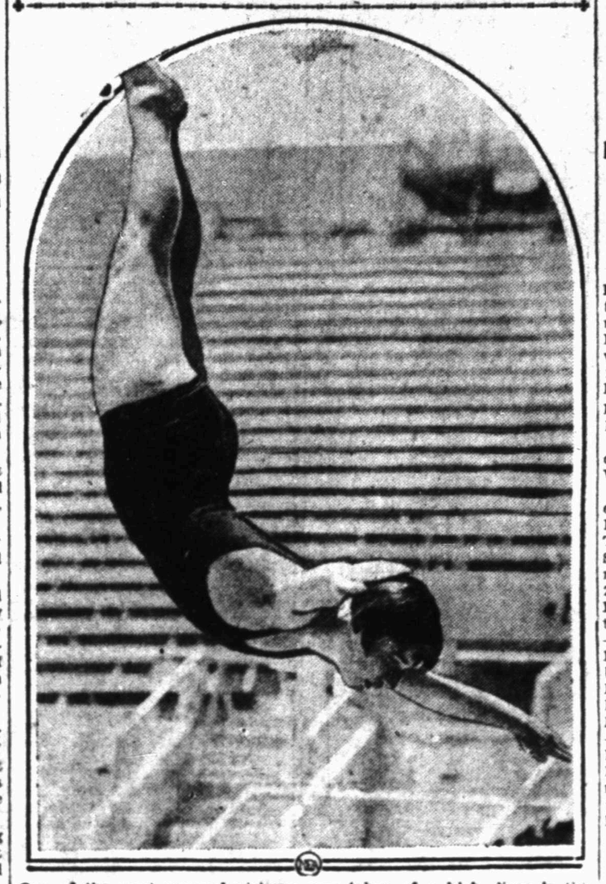

Miss Copeland's discus throw gave her the Olympic championship, America's second in the women's track and field competition as well as a new world record. Miss Osburn was second to make it one-two for the U. S. A. Stella Walsh was sixth.

The broad jump championship was won by another sturdy American negro, Edward Gordon of the University of Iowa, with a leap of 25 feet, 3-4 inch. Second place also went to the U. S. A., with Lambert Redd the runner up, while Chuhei Nambu of Japan, world record holder, was third.

Ralph Hill, Oregon boy running for the United States, gave the big crowd a thrill by out running the famous young Finnish star and world record holder Lauri Lehtinen in the first 5,000 meter trial. Hill set the pace all the way and raced away from Lehtinen when challenged on the last turn, winning by 30 yards.

Jelly Collier came to his rescue and received credit for the win. Byram, who succeeded white at the beginning of the fourth, had the Exporters under control until the 11th.

Paul Easterling plastered out his 23rd homer of the season in the third with a man aboard.

Don Hurst Hopes To Be Back With Phils In "Day Or Two"

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2. (AP) — Complaining only of a severe headache, Don Hurst, first baseman of the Phillies, National League baseball club, who was injured when hit by a pitched ball in yesterday's game with the Pittsburgh Pirates, today said he expects to return to the team in "two or three days."

"But I hope the Phillies continue hitting as they are," he said, "and I won't even be missed."

Hurst was forced out in the fifth inning of the game when a "speed ball," hurled by Glenn Spencer caught him behind the ear.

The first baseman's physician said x-rays taken of his head last night failed to show any fracture and Hurst was "doing very nicely."

GOLF by ADRT KRENZ

A great many golfers, especially the young and vigorous, develop the habit of underclubbing. They use a mashie-niblick with a full swing when they should use a mashie with a three-quarter swing.

It is a big mistake, for the reason that it is perfectly obvious that a half swing with a club suited for the distance is far more likely to be accurate than a shorter one that is forced.

Don't attempt to use the same club your opponent uses when you know he can hit a longer ball. Use a longer stick.

Remember irons are used to obtain accuracy and to place the ball in a certain spot and not for distance.

Moreland And Nelson Captain Teams In Southwestern Tourney Tilt Today

FORT WORTH, Aug. 2. (AP)—The third annual Glen Garden invitation and the sixth annual All-Southwestern Golf association combined tournaments will get under way here tomorrow. The qualifying round will open at 8 a. m. and continue through Thursday.

While the first qualifying rounds will hold the interest of many, a feature will be the East-West match between sixteen man teams starting at 2 p. m. The teams are headed by Byron Nelson, Fort Worth's ace, and Gus Moreland, Dallas, state amateur champion.

Nelson Breaks Record

Nelson, incidentally, furnished the high spot of today's practice when he shattered the amateur record for the Glen Garden course with a 65, six under par. He scored a 35-30 and missed a short putt on 17 for a 29 on the back side.

Moreland's East team will be composed of such stars as Dennis Lavender, who played a practice round today; Reynolds Smith, Dallas; Norris Rusell, Denton; W. T. Willard, Little Rock, Ark.; Onis Green, Hot Springs, Ark.; Dudley Golding, Dallas; Jack Tinning of Paris; Jack Munger, Dallas; Louis Nowlin, Dallas; Spec Goldman, Dallas, and several others.

Nelson's West team will probably include Charlie Quails of Post, West Texas champion last year; Walter Emery, Duncan, Okla.; Leonard Harding, Fort Worth city champion; Jimmy Phillips, Ranger, West Texas champion; Bob Scott of Colorado; M. Massingill, Fort Worth; James Smith, Ranger, and several more.

'Wottaman' Shires Gets The Gate

BOSTON, Aug. 2. (AP)—With an unconditional release hanging over his head, Art (What-a-Man) Shires today appeared doomed to some more minor league experience.

The Boston Braves' colorful first baseman, who was benched last Sunday, was fired by Manager Bill McKechnie today when he objected to the pilot's disposal plans. The manager intended to use Shires in a trade with an unnamed minor league club and the "great one" voiced strenuous protests.

McKechnie notified President Emil Fuchs, on the road seeking another first baseman, of his action and was advised to hold off until Fuchs returns tomorrow.

Shires has been handicapped by an injured left knee most of the season. Reports of friction between Shires and the Braves' management, always denied, have been circulating here several weeks.

Mr. Terrell Looks Ahead

HON. GEORGE B. TERRELL, who opposes Pink L. Parrish for the Democratic nomination as Congressman-at-Large, Place 1, in the coming run-off primary, must have been planning to aspire to the place he now seeks for quite some time.

The Cherokee county politician, who has been running for office about as long as most of us can remember, apparently figured himself "in" on the $10,000-a-year job quite awhile before the rest of us began to think about it—at least judging from the records of the legislative vote at Austin.

In the last session of the legislature considerable time and thought was given to redistricting the state. According to law, Texas' gain in population gave it added representation in Washington and at least two of the three new Congressional posts should have gone to West Texas—one of the two to the South Plains area.

Various and sundry bills were drawn up only to be voted down by peanut politicians seeking to discriminate against West Texas and to give themselves, or their friends, a chance to hold "at-large" Congressional posts for at least two years.

Mr. Terrell who resides in Cherokee county—'way over by the Louisiana border—was a member of the House of Representatives when the re-districting problem came up. As a member of the House he consistently voted against every bill calling for re-districting!

He probably figured to himself that "I used to be Commissioner of Agriculture and everybody knows my name. I know politicians in every section of Texas who'll be on the firing line for me and last, but not least, my name is Terrell and it's a cinch for a Terrell to get votes on his name, whether he has any qualifications or not."

At any rate, whatever he figured, Mr. Terrell voted against the rights of West Texas to added Congressional representation. To all intents and purposes, he didn't care what the law said in regard to redistricting. He saw a chance to "let George get it" in regard to a Congressional post and voted accordingly.

The Morning Avalanche can't see how any West Texan can conscientiously vote for a man who has proven himself hostile to West Texas, especially when Senator Parrish, a West Texan, is seeking the same position.

West Texas must look after its own welfare—because if it doesn't it won't be looked after.

THE COUNTY'S BUDGET

The County Commissioners' court, with an eye for economy, has adopted a proposed budget for the next year which saves $39,500 over expenditures of 1931.

The Morning Avalanche commends the principle but in studying the figures cannot help but wonder if some revisions shouldn't still be made after citizens confer with officials in the public hearing on the project.

Included in the proposed budget—and very logically so—are general salary reductions affecting practically every employe of the county. But there is a wide variance in these salary reductions which might well be discussed by taxpayers and their employes in the courthouse.

We note particularly that while some minor employes are being subjected to cuts of from 20 to 40 per cent, several major officials are assessed only 10 per cent and the commissioners, themselves, are taking an 11 per cent reduction.

Doubtless there is a reason for the wide difference in the decreases, but to say the least the reason for the differences should be explained to citizens who attend the open hearing on the budget.

The real cause of the depression, an economist says, was over buying on the installment plan. Which is just a new way of saying that the easy payments aren't easy.

An observer remarks that a brave man with the courage to say No could make $50,000 a year in Hollywood. And all this time Senator Borah has been wasting his time in Washington for a mere $10,000.

Two wrestlers fell out of the ring in Boston and were knocked unconscious simultaneously. But the really remarkable thing was that the observing referee noticed it and stopped the match.

The R. F. C. seems likely to change that old campaign slogan of Two Cars in Every Garage to Two Mortgages on Every Home.

It may sound a little odd, but Clara Bow is trying to build herself up in the movies by taking off a little more weight.

Pinch Of Economy Is Felt

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

Library of Congress

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Washington is in the midst of a painful situation, due to the economies voted by congress for the fiscal year which began July 1.

The capital's population consists so largely of federal employes that it feels the pinch acutely.

As far as possible reductions are being effected by a system of scattered payless lay-offs of Uncle Sam's workers, up to a limit of 24 week-days each, annually. This is the "furlough plan" insisted on by President Hoover, as a means of saving money without cutting salaries. In fact it means approximately one month's loss of income per furloughed civil servant per year.

Of course some workers cannot be spared from their jobs. They (above the $1,000 class) have had to take straight pay cuts, varying from 8.5 to 20 per cent, depending on the size of their envelopes.

Even these retrenchments are insufficient, however. There have been, or must be soon, numerous indefinite furloughs or outright dismissals.

IT IS a squeezing-out process from which a deal of hardship and many gross injustices naturally are resulting.

Underlings who have been drawing $1,200 to $2,400 yearly do not appear greatly impressed by President Hoover's action in leaving 20 per cent of his $75,000 stipend to be impounded by the treasury, or by the action of his cabinet members in sacrificing 15 per cent of their $15,000 each.

Washington's living costs have not materially declined; salary reductions are bad enough. The lot of federal dependents who are thrown entirely out of employment, at a time like the present, is deplorable.

Moreover, the saving, comparatively speaking, is negligible.

Uncle Sam's post-war budget is roughly five billions annually of which at least four billions are absorbed by irreducably-fixed charges. What little can be pruned from the remaining billion by salary shaving is, to the government, about the equivalent to the price of a newspaper to the average individual.

TRUE, there is another side of the question to be looked at.

The federal civil personnel already was redundant when the world conflict began. Instead of being cut to reasonable proportions, it has been heavily increased since the armistice. It by no means is principally a useful force, such as the government would have to have if it were operating vast utilities, like the railroads and telegraphs. To a considerable extent it is parasitic; to some extent positively mischievous.

Dozens of bureaus, the size of pre-war cabinet departments, have been created.

Thousands of so-called workers are on the federal payroll who not only would be dear if they cost nothing, but would be undesirable if they were paying for the privilege of maintaining their government connections. Saving their salaries is less important than getting rid of them. It doubtless is barbarous to do it during a period of such economic stringency, but never under heaven could it be done except in an extraordinary emergency of one sort or another.

UNLUCKILY, it is not the dead wood, but the live timber, which is being thinned out most remorselessly.

Worth-while units are the ones which make enemies.

Superfluous outfits escape notice and provide patronage.

Illustratively, the Interstate Commerce and Federal Trade commissions are hard hit; the Congressional Directory still lists the national screw thread commission.

Already overworked and underpaid postal clerks and carriers have been curtailed as to pay and reduction in numbers. The state department, trebled in its personnel since pre-war days and more nearly a purely social organization than any other subdivision of the executive branch of the government, got off lightly.

It is thus that government business usually is handled.

"EXPECT THE UNEXPECTED"

"Use your horn; that's what it's there for," is the advice of an experienced driver to motorists in an effort to prevent automobile accidents. He urges them not to steal up from behind people without some signal of this kind. They are to use it whenever the slightest occasion demands it.

But they should also be urged to use their heads, and what is supposed to be in them. They should give evidence also of some consideration for the rights of others on the road; they should keep in mind that public highways are not private lanes, and that someone is always likely to drive into their path from some side street or road.

There are many things which motorists must keep in mind if automobile accidents are to be averted. In the speech of the motorist there ought to be no such word as "unexpected". The unexpected is the very thing they ought to be expecting. It ought to be as clear as day and as inevitable as winter's snow to all of us that driving a motor car is no child's play; it ought to be only by painstaking and responsible persons, able and willing always to give their most serious attention to the business in hand.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE 40-YEAR-OLD PENCIL:

Mayor Murphy of Somerville, Mass., while attending a recent official dinner, was asked to give a short talk. He wanted to jot down a few notes, but didn't have a pencil, so he asked Police Superintendent Crowley of Boston for one. Crowley, after a long and arduous search, finally produced from the recesses of his clothing a one-inch stub of a pencil, remarking: "There, that's been my police pencil for forty years." And it was true! In 1892 Patrolman Crowley received an issue of one police department pencil. He cut the pencil in two, one piece lasting him 20 years, and the other half—though down to a one-inch piece—is still doing service, and has seen him through his gradual rise from Patrolman to Superintendent of Boston's "finest".

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

by Laura Lou Brookman

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CHERRY DIXON, pretty 19-year-old daughter of wealthy parents, falls in love with DAN PHILLIPS, newspaper reporter. She quarrels with her father about Dan and then, taking advantage of Leap Year, asks Dan to marry her. They are married and move into a cheap apartment. Cherry's struggles with housework are discouraging. DIXIE SHANNON, movie critic of the News, is friendly with Cherry. She meets handsome MAX PEARSON, also of the News.

After several weeks Cherry's mother becomes seriously ill. The girl is called home and there is a reconciliation with her parents but pride will not allow her to accept financial aid from them. When MRS. DIXON is stronger she and her husband leave for several months at the seashore.

Cherry and Dan are invited to a swimming party at a nearby resort. Dan is delayed and Cherry starts with Pearson. A storm overtakes them and while they are waiting for it to pass he tells her he loves her. They finally reach home but after that Cherry avoids Pearson.

BRENDA VAIL, magazine writer, comes to Wellington. Dan meets her and she asks him to collaborate with her on a play. Dan spends most of his evenings at Miss Vail's apartment working on the play. Cherry dislikes Brenda. She begs off from a dinner invitation, telling Dan to go without her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIX

Cherry stood looking out at the wet street. The rain had begun early in the morning, a steady downpour that threatened to continue throughout the night. It had rained every day of the week so far. October apparently was trying to masquerade as April but the wind was colder and the days were growing shorter. Now at 5:30 dusk was gathering and in half an hour the street would be in darkness.

A slight noise attracted the girl's attention. Cherry's exclamation was only half annoyance. Pinky, the kitten, had pushed the basket of socks and darning supplies to the edge of the window seat. It had fallen and the frightened kitten was in the midst of the deluge.

"Pinky!" the girl scolded. "I told you to leave those spools alone! Aren't you ashamed—"

The sentence went unfinished. There was a knock at the door and Cherry hurried to open it.

Dixie Shannon stood in the hallway in dripping raincoat, galoshes and limp felt hat. "Look at me!" she moaned. "My permanent's ruined! I had it put in only a week ago. Did you ever see such a sight? I couldn't get a taxi and I had to wait hours for a car. I'm simply soaking!"

"You certainly are!" Cherry agreed. "Come in and get that wet coat off."

Dixie struggled with the clumsy galoshes. "Might as well have left these at home," she grumbled. "Holes in both heels. Oh—what a day this has been! What a day!"

Cherry took the wet raincoat and spread it over a chair. Raindrops trickled in a little stream from Dixie's hat. The brown hair that had been waved "permanently" a week before was indeed a sorry sight. At one side of her face it hung down longer than the other and was almost straight. The part that had been protected from the moisture frizzed outlandishly.

Dixie caught a glimpse of herself in the mirror and squealed in dismay. "What'll I do?" she exclaimed. "I look like a Hottentot!"

"Better get into dry clothes," Cherry suggested. "I'll see if I can set that wave for you if you want me to."

"You lamb! Will you really?"

"Yes, but you'll have to take a hot bath first and put on something warm. Otherwise you'll have pneumonia!"

Dixie reached for her coat and hat. "I'll be right back," she promised. Almost at the door she stopped. "But I forgot — Dan will be coming—"

"He's having dinner down town tonight," Cherry told her. "Slip into a bathrobe, Dixie, and come down and eat with me. Everything's ready and I was dreading the meal alone."

"Give me 10 minutes and I'll be here with bells on!"

It was a little more than that before Dixie returned. She pushed the door open, raised her tip-tilting nose and sniffed appreciatingly. "Food!" Dixie announced. "And such food!

The table had been drawn out and places laid for two. The odors of baked pork chops, fresh vegetables and muffins mingled appetizingly. Cherry was pouring water into amber tumblers.

"Everything's ready," she announced.

"And does it look good! Cherry, you're a genius, that's what you are. I've never heard of anyone who could learn to cook the way you have in such a short time. Here I've been struggling with a frying pan for years—and what does it get me?"

Dixie wore a green and white striped bathrobe that apparently had shrunk. She wore floppy blue satin mules on her feet and black lace hose. Her bobbed hair, partly dry now, looked more than ever like the exaggerated coiffure of a Fiji Island princess.

Cherry glanced at her and laughed. "You did wreck that permanent!" she said. "I'm no professional but I think I can promise a little improvement!"

"It cost $7.50," Dixie announced dolefully. "And I thought it was going to make me look like Joan Crawford. Well, there's no use cry-

Oil Is Waving Its Magic Wand Over New Area

LAREDO, Aug. 2. (AP)—Oil, which in the past has created many "magic cities," is waving its wand over the old settlement of Frio in Duval county, located between the government wells and north government wells fields of Duval county, and a veritable building boom is in progress.

J. D. Sutherland, a prominent attorney of San Diego, visiting Laredo says the "song of the hammer and the saw" has been resounding throughout the old village of Frio (some call it Rosita) during the past 60 days, but at this time it is more intensive.

Heretofore it had only a small general merchandise store. Since the erection of a number of new buildings there the business of the place has grown rapidly, and a big increase shown in postoffice receipts.

Barre raised $500 and a similar amount will be furnished by Montpelier.

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

ver a rolling stone—or what-it is they say. Looking at those chops makes me feel a lot bet-ven if my beauty is ruined."
ey were sitting at the table now Cherry served the plates. Dixie open a steaming muffin and olden butter melted as it touch-he bread.
an Phillips is missing an ele-dinner if anyone should ask Dixie said. "By the way, what's doing? Working on that play is?"
erry shook her head. "No. Dan's he office. He said he had a lot xtra work and wanted to stay
it was finished."
t the office?" The other girl
d up. For an instant she seem-bout to speak but then her eyes red.
idn't you see him there?"
ry asked.
Why—oh, yes, he was there when ft." There was another pause Dixie broke it to say, "Umm!
e muffins are marvelous. If I d bake muffins like this one I'd the proudest person in the d!"
ou can have the recipe," Cherry
her. "They're awfully simple to up."
t the other side of the room y, the kitten, was playing with ubber ball. He gave the ball a rt slap and it went rolling ss the floor. Pinky flew after it.

* * *

herry looked at the kitten. She
. "I'm glad you stopped in toht, Dixie. Pinky's been the only pany I've had all day. It's lone-e here when it's so dark and my outside."
Well, it was a break for me to into a meal like this," Dixie ured her heartily. "Don't know n I've had such food!"
wish I had a job like you e," Cherry went on. "I wish I d write or draw or knew short-
d. I've always wanted to do ething worth while."
Say—what could be more worth le than cooking a meal like
herry shrugged, but her smile
wistful.
How's Dan's play coming?" the
er girl asked.
It's been finished and now they writing the second act over in. It seems to take an awfully time to write a play. I had no
a it was so much work."
Dixie glanced up and the lids of eyes narrowed. "What do you nk of this Brenda Vail?" she ask-
"Do you like her?"
Cherry hesitated. "Dan says she's fully clever," she said slowly.
Yes, of course, but what do you nk of her?"
I don't think I know her well ugh to say. I've only met her a times."
Dan sees her rather often,
n't he?"
Why, of course. They've been rking together for weeks."
She's — rather unusual looking,
n't you think?" Dixie persisted ot pretty exactly but the type a of men fall for. That red hair
d the way she dresses. I've only n her at a distance but I've heard m talking about her at the of-
e. There aren't many wives who uld be willing to let their husnds spend evening after evening
th a vamp like that."
"Dixie, you don't mean to sug-st—"
"Heavens forbid! I don't mean to ggest a thing in the world. Of urse I know Dan isn't the sort to y around with anyone else—even it were harmless. I wouldn't say thing like that for the world!"
The denial was a shade too vehe-nt, and Dixie's smile a trifle forcbut Cherry did not seem to noe this. She looked across at the her girl. Cherry's face had sudnly become serious.
"If anybody would dare to say ings like that I hope you'll tell m it's not true," she said earn-ly. "Dan wouldn't—he couldn't anything except play fair. He ows I understand about Miss Vail.
n admires her because of her bility and of course he's grateful r all the help she's given him."
"Of course, lamb! I know that's l there is to it. Nobody's been lking about your Dan and I was dumbbell to suggest it. Matter of ct, I only meant Dan's exception-because he is so level-headed.
here now—is everything all right?"

* * *

They talked of other subjects.
herry brought the dessert and ured the coffee. Afterward they shed and wiped the dishes toether and put the room to rights.
hen Dixie sat before the mirror hile Cherry dampened the frizzled, unruly hair and combed it painstakingly into neat waves. It was almost an hour's work but when it was finished Dixie was enthusiastic.

"It looks better than when they set it at the shop!" she insisted "Honestly, I don't know how I can thank you—"

"There's nothing to thank me for," Cherry told her. "I didn't have anything else to do and it's been fun."

A little later Dixie departed. In her own apartment she hung away the raincoat that was dry now and tucked the galoshes out of sight. Dixie stood before the mirror for a moment inspecting her carefully waved locks. She was thinking of the girl down stairs.

"There's no use to tell her," Dixie informed the image in the looking glass. "It's better for her not to know but just the same it's a dirty shame! I'd like to tell Dan Phillips what I think of him!"

It was evident from the black looks directed at the girl in the mirror that these remarks would not be complimentary. With a sigh Dixie turned away to pick up the mystery story she had begun the night before.

The way in which the good-looking amateur detective tracked down the perpetrator of the series of horrifying crimes was fascinating reading. Dixie did not put the book down until she had finished the last chapter. The hands of the tiny ivory alarm clock on the bedside table pointed to 20 minutes after 12. Dixie tossed the book aside then and switched out the rose-shaded light.

At the same time in the second floor apartment Dan Phillips yawned and discarded his vest.

"Say, Cherry," he asked, "what's become of that yarn I wrote about the taxicab driver? The one I called 'Night Life'? Remember? I'd like to take it around for Brenda to have a look at."

Cherry's back was toward him. She did not turn as she answered. There was a pause, almost imperceptible, and then she said, "I'm sorry, Dan, but I destroyed it. I didn't mean to. It got in with some other papers and I didn't know until it was gone—"

The words were a deliberate falsehood. But of course Dan would never learn the truth!

COMPRESS IS DISMANTLED

RALLS, Aug. 2—The West Texas Compress and Warehouse plant located down town, across the street from the Santa Fe depot, is being dismantled. All of the cotton stored there this past winter has been removed to the house west of town. A new roof is being put on and the place being put into shape for compressing.

The company has had two plants here for several years. While it has not been announced, it is believed the machinery from the dismantled plant will be used in another location.

Here's an easy one: Two famous stars in a famous picture!

You don't have to remember the name of the picture for the "Lady and Gent" Star Identification Contest, conducted under the joint auspices of the Avalanche-Journal Classified Department and the Lindsey Theater. But you remember the stars, don't you?

Write their names on the picture; add this team to Nos. 1, 2 and 3, which have appeared on the last three days; wait for the final two teams, to be published tomorrow and Friday, then send the entire series to the Classified Advertising Manager at the Avalanche-Journal, on Friday. The best ten correct sets will win guest tickets to see "Lady and Gent", the George Bancroft-Wynne Gibson film, at the Lindsey Theater, Friday and Saturday.

The male star of the above photograph made two films of similar title, one of the father, and one of the son. He is shown here in a scene from the father's picture. The woman long ago retired from pictures.

Cotton Lower Cotton Levels Prevail — Livestock Beef Steers Listed Weak — Grain Wheat Values Topple Tuesday

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 2. (AP)—Cotton was fairly active today at lower price levels. Unfavorable cables, hedge selling against the movement of new crop in Texas and weakness in stocks and wheat were the main causes of the decline which carried prices off 20 points from the previous close. There was a rally of 7 points near the end and the close was steady at net declines for the day of 13 to 15 points.

Liverpool is due tomorrow on New Orleans 3 penny points down.

The first new crop bale to reach New Orleans arrived today from Magnolia, Miss., and will be sold at auction tomorrow.

Port receipts 7,480, for week 16,158, for season 16,158, last season 2,863. Exports 4,132, for week 27,584, for season 27,584, last season 8,813. Port stock 2,387,324; last year 3,779,891. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 66,147, last year 33,525. Spot sales at southern markets 3,050, last year 2,619.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 2. (AP)—Liquidation and scattered selling inspired by the heavy tone of stock and wheat markets forced cotton about $1 a bale lower today, but the market recovered a small part of its extreme loss near the close.

December, after selling off to 5.98 or 20 points net lower, closed at 6.04, with the general market closing steady at net declines of 12 to points.

The opening was 5 to 9 points lower on relatively easy Liverpool cables.

There was talk of an easier technical position following the advances of last week, and uncertainty as to the showing of next Monday's government crop report was mentioned as a probable factor in some of the selling.

Plains Voters

that the 100,000 vote lead of Mrs. Ferguson first must be overcome In the words of the chairman, when he accepted the unanimous nomination:

Hard Work Needed

"If we are to re-elect Governor Sterling we must realize that it will take hard work to do the job; and the sooner the friends of good government get to work the more certain will be the victory for responsible government."

Mr. Bean declared that the question facing the South Plains and Texas was that of "how are we to insure that the government of Texas will be in responsible hands for the next two years."

Fergusonism was attacked by Mr. Ratliff in an address at the beginning of the meeting. After tracing Jas. E. Ferguson's political history, and the more recent political history of Mrs. Miriam Ferguson, to the present, Mr. Ratliff said:

Face Problem Again

"We again are facing the prospect of a government without any restriction, without regulation, and with no responsibility to you and me. It now becomes the duty of every man, every woman in Lubbock, in Lubbock county, on the South Plains and in the state of Texas to rally around the flag of good government.

"We must defeat the proposition which has confronted the state for these long years. It is our hope to defeat it for all time."

The organization's slogan was suggested by G. W. Hard and its adoption was unanimous.

Less than a half dozen persons attending refused to have their names included on the league's roster.

ment into court if you touch one of these shelters."

Major Coleman B. Mark, state sanitary engineer sent here by the state health department, started an investigation of health conditions and vaccination of the entire 7,000 was recommended.

City council, in a session occupied almost wholly by talk of the situation arising out of occupation of the camp by the B.E.F., arranged to provide cots in the camp and promised aid in handling medical cases. About a dozen members of the expedition are ill.

Reds Are Reported

Police precautions taken following last night's disorder when radicals attempted to hold a meeting in Johnstown were tightened with reports more reds are coming to the city.

This evening as the veterans and their families were preparing for another night under the stars, the heavens clouded and a downpour of rain—the second during the day—drenched the camp.

The rain did more than any other one thing to increase hardships. The ground, covered with a film of dust by the tramping of thousands of feet, was converted into a veritable bog. Thousands had to sleep in the slimy mud tonight, many with little or no covering.

The rain sent the campers scurrying to what little shelter was offered by trees on the fringe of the park. There is no shelter in the park save a broken-down merry-go-round and a small dance pavilion, and the pavilion is kept locked part of the time.

General Retreat Registered Tuesday On Stock Market; Losses Are Small

NEW YORK, Aug. 2. (AP)—Stocks backed up in more pronounced fashion today.

Profit-taking met less resistance from new buying, although there was nothing to suggest that the decline represented more than the appearance of a technical setback after a fortnight of almost steady advance.

Bonds also slipped, but their average loss was trifling and that market was best described as irregular. Wheat sagged a couple of cents and cotton lost 60 to 80 cents a bale; thus it was a day of fairly general retreat.

Shares moved fitfully in the morning, turned definitely heavy later and then, just before the close, braced enough to reduce extreme losses. The decline, which had concentrated in rails on Monday, was general, except that bullish professionals took the coppers for an upward excursion on reports that experiments with a higher domestic price might be undertaken soon. Volume tapered off sharply, dropping to 1,439,080 shares.

Leaders down about 2 points net included American Telephone, U. S. Steel preferred, Case, Consolidated Gas, Santa Fe, Union Pacific and American Tobacco "B". Steel common, Du Pont, Coca Cola, Sears Roebuck, Allied Chemical, New York Central, Public Service of New Jersey, Western Union, Air Reduction and American Can eased a point or thereabouts. International business machines was off 4. Preferred stocks were mixed, with a number of gains in less prominent issues.

that Davis might be in trouble, and appear here. He notified police who arrived at the bank while Davis was stalling his kidnapers, who were seeking to force him to make a withdrawal of $7,500 from his account. When accosted the youths turned their guns from Davis and Robertson to the officers and police weapons were drawn, but the arrest was made without gun fire.

Davis said the youths duped him into leaving his country home near Lewisburg, and going to a hotel in town for an interview regarding his private affairs, asserting they were representatives of the internal revenue office at Richmond.

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Aug. 2. (AP)—Demand for wheat was good on the cash grain market here today. Barley and oats were fairly well taken, but corn and grain sorghums were slow sale.

Quotations ranged as follows basis car loads on track at Fort Worth, freight paid, delivered Texas Gulf ports or Texas common points:

Wheat No. 1 hard according to protein and billing 53@57 1-2. Barley No. 2nominally 30 1-2@31 1-2. Sorghums No. 2 milo, per 100 lbs. nominally 62@64; No. 2 kaffir nominally 61@63.

Delivered Texas common points or group three: Corn, No. 2 mixed 40@42; No. 2 white 40 1-2@41 1-2; No. 2 yellow 47@48.

Delivered Texas common points: Oats, No. 2 red 19 1-2@20 1-2.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 2. (AP)—Grain values toppled today owing largely to unofficial estimates that North America would harvest only 6,000,000 bushels less wheat than last year.

Heavy selling of wheat came from eastern sources, and buying power was scanty. Movement of new domestic spring wheat was reported increasing fast, and North American export business totaling 1,000,000 bushels failed to rally prices.

Wheat closed unstable at the day's low point, 1 3-4 to 2 1-8 cents under yesterday's finish, corn 7-8 to 1 5-8 down, oats 1-4 to 1-2 off, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents lower.

Livestock

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 2. (AP) — Excepting a few consignments of strictly choice fed steers and yearlings at steady prices, the bulk of beef steers listed as weak to 25 lower in a slow trade. A range of 6.75@8.50 took the majority of native steers and yearlings with a few loads of better grade at 8.75@9.50. Chicago secured up to 9.70 on three loads of 1265 lb. beeves. Common to medium western grass steers found demand extremely dull. Few sales were recorded at 3.50@5.50. Stockers and feeders held steady with demand continuing to center on feeders. Accumulated receipts for the week totaled 92,500 as compared with 83,225 last week.

Besides those counties named, Gaines, Andrews and Ector counties are interested.

Touches County Seats

"It will touch every county seat in the western tier of counties except one," Mr. Mitchell said before leaving for Austin. "The highway will touch 20 state and federal highways east and west. It will shorten the distance between El Paso and Denver by 182 miles. It will also shorten the distance between Oklahoma City and Denver by 114 miles and will eliminate all mountain travel and furnish a year around highway never blocked by heavy snows."

While in Lubbock recently Mr. Mitchell talked with Guy R. Johnston, resident district engineer, about the project. In speaking of the conference Mr. Johnston said. "There is no question that the next major road building program in this area will be three north and south highways to parallel No. 9."

In Western Tier

The three north and south highways are those through the western tier of counties, the second tier and the tier just east of highway No. 9.

W. J. Van Landon, resident district engineer in Amarillo, has given his approval of the plans for his area.

The delegation was to be comprised of the following: J. L. Winder, Cochran; J. B. Matthews, Andrews; R. A. De Fee, Hartley; Charles Ingram, Oldham; Earl W. Wilson, Deaf Smith; J. H. Aldredge, Parmer; Joe B. Hassell, Yoakum; J. J. Kendricks, Gaines and Henry Webb, Ector, county judges; Tom Collins, Hartley county attorney; J. P. Guinn, Deaf Smith county; F. W. Reeve and M. A. Man And Wife Are Held For Robbery

SAYRE, Okla., Aug. 2 (AP)—Captured a few hours after the robbery of the Guaranty State bank of Texola, Harris L. Wilson of Houston, and his wife, Charlie, waived extradition from Wheeler, Tex., and were returned here tonight to face robbery charges.

Deputy Sheriff L. S. Gillum said the young couple confessed they robbed the bank, the wife, a young and attractive brunette, holding an empty gun on bank employes while her husband scooped up $770, $740 of which was recovered.

The young couple was captured in a field between Shamrock and Wheeler, Tex., by a posse under Jess Swink, Shamrock marshal.

After abandoning their car, rented at Wichita Falls, they gave Albert Anderson, a farmer, $20 to take them about 20 miles northwest of Texola, on the Texas-Oklahoma line. They then continued afoot and were captured after going only about four miles.

Long Snaps Back At Criticism Of Arkansas Battle

STUTTGART, Ark., Aug. 2. (AP)—Under fire from Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway's opposition in her senatorial race because he has "invaded" Arkansas to urge her re-election, Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana snapped back today with a charge htat some of her opponents visited Louisiana to attempt his impeachment as governor in 1929.

He called no names, asserting "I ain't going to give 'em that much advertising" but he lashed into the opposition ranks with a biting tongue after scanning Little Rock dispatches reporting criticism of his Arkansas tour by Former Gov. Charles H. Brough, one of Mrs. Caraway's six opponents.

"If I wasn't doing 'em any harm, they wouldn't be kicking," Louisiana's "Kingfish" told an early morning crowd that turned out to see his caravan of trucks and trimmings here.

In her most vigorous address of the campaign, Mrs. Caraway criticized the Hoover administration and referred bitterly to the routing of the bonus army with army regulars.

Mosquitoes Of Coleman Must Fight Or Flee

COLEMAN, Aug. 2. (AP)—Coleman mosquitoes have provoked war and must fight or flee, according to City Commissioner H. M. Thomson.

Oil is being hauled to the several fronts for the bombardment, and the co-operation of tormented citizens is being asked in reporting dug-outs, trenches and other concealed places of incubation of the sleepless enemy.

Since the recent floods in the several creeks that traverse the city, night life in Coleman has been almost unbearable and many are complaining. If all who have registered complaints will enlist in the war the battle will be of short duration, and peaceful slumber will again be possible.

In years past, Coleman has been somewhat noted as a city without mosquitoes. At one time a city commissioner made a state official a proposition that "if you want to come to Coleman and sleep in a main street you can, and if you are pestered by mosquitoes the treat will be on me."

The present city commission is determined to restore the old order, but it cannot be done unless the people join the fray.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP) — The Reconstruction Corporation today laid aside the purely financial aspects of its huge relief task and began a series of conferences on a plan to put thousands of men back to work on the nation's railroads.

Attempting to work out President Hoover's program to stimulate business by inducing the railroads to resume full maintenance and repair work, the corporation directors conferred three hours with interstate-commerce commission officials and railroad executives and ordered another conference for tomorrow.

Murray Hurls A Reply To Charge

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 2 (AP)—Charges of Seminole officers that a man believed to have been George Birdwell, lieutenant of Charles "Pretty boy" Floyd, notorious bank robber, had escaped "because of delay of state operatives in reaching the scene," brought a retort from Governor William H. Murray today that the bureau has all it can do to handle other matters.

He alleged the officers have criticised C. A. Burns, bureau superintendent, "because of a dislike for me."

"We have our own plans to capturing Floyd," he said, 'but we are not announcing them to the public."

"We ran into several of Floyd's friends in Seminole county," said George Catron, deputy sheriff who accompanied the posse. "These friends said Floyd told them he was on vacation."

Late Feed Up To Good Stand In Territory Around Ralls

By Staff Correspondent

RALLS, Aug. 2—Nearly all of the late feed planted as late as July 4, following a heavy hail storm in June, is up to a good stand in the Ralls territory. Growing weather since planting has helped, with enough sub-soil moisture to insure a good start.

The early maize and other row crops not hailed out are practically "made." The crop is heading out in fine shape and many heads are filled.

Cotton prospects are said by farmers to be the best in the history of the county. Many fields are heavy with blooms, many with half-formed bolls. Apparently the farmers have been able to overcome a weed menace, except in a few instances. Several fields along the state highway between Ralls and Crosbyton and between Crosbyton and Lorenzo are full of weeds and Johnson grass.

"LINE'S BUSY"

This ends the argument!

75 SCIENTIFIC TESTS PROVE OLD GOLD THE COOLEST, THROAT-EASIEST CIGARETTE

Next time you listen to an argument as to which is the best cigarette, you can chip in with something more than an opinion.

You won't have to say: "I think the tobacco in OLD GOLD is purer and finer." Instead, you can say: "I KNOW OLD GOLD is better; it's made of finest natural flavored tobacco. Science has proved it!"

As surely as Science can assay pure gold, so it can tell which cigarette is basically the choicest. It did that with 4 leading brands. It made 75 tests of 4 competing cigarettes . . . and found the smoke of an OLD GOLD definitely cooler . . . indicating its superior tobacco quality and purity.

"Coolness" is the clue to cigarette quality. Only the finest and purest tobacco burns "cool." That's the tobacco in OLD GOLDS. The choicest Turkish and domestic leaf; free of heat-making flavorings.

Evidence, not adjectives. If you welcome this change in a cigarette advertisement . . . you'll welcome a change to pure-tobacco OLD GOLD.

NOT A COUGH IN A CARLOAD

The Verdict of Science

This is to certify that in 75 repeated cool tests made of the 4 leading cigarette brands . . . measuring the heat content of each cigarette in B. T. U./lb. with the Oxygen Bomb Calorimeter, it was shown that:

Old Gold averages 112 B.T.U's. Cooler than Brand X
Old Gold averages 155 B.T.U's. Cooler than Brand Y
Old Gold averages 156 B.T.U's. Cooler than Brand Z

Tests of the heat of the smoke showed Old Gold smoke definitely cooler than the other brands.
