

NICHOLS' WORTH

By: Nanalee Nichols

Consider the common crow. It's a cinch he's considered you a time or two. Considered whether or not you were capable of harming him while he was raiding your pecan trees or fields or gardens.

A game warden once told me that it was illegal to shoot ANY birds, absolutely any, whether or not they were on privately owned property or not.

That hunting ban doesn't, however, apply to common sparrows, blackbirds or crows. Crows, the game warden said, can be hunted if they are in the process of "depradating something, have depradated it, or will depradate it."

Grinning a trifle wickedly, he continued, "Of course, I've NEVER seen a crow that hadn't just, or was about to depradate SOMETHING!"

It's about the truth. Nature lover, non-hunter that I am, crows are one of the few feathered things that can aggravate and irritate me.

The animosity goes back to childhood, when my parents owned and operated an orchard near Mt. Pleasant. Every year hundreds of the black plumed thieves would descend to destroy hundreds of pounds of papershell pecans. Hunting them back then was serious business.

Now, the noisy, clever birds only pick on our native pecan trees, quarreling with the squirrels over possession of choice nuts.

But they have another habit, that of disturbing owls and hawks. Owls in particular like to roost in the heavy trees down below our house on the creek.

Invariably, while they are snoozing away the daylight hours, half a dozen crows will discover them, and start their owl baiting routine. Of all the raucous cawing and squawking, they circle around the hapless owl, until finally, after a half-hour or so, the poor nocturnal bird gives up and flaps wearily away while the gleeful crows fly after him for a ways, still raising enough noise to raise the dead.

The large glossy birds stalk around on the lawn, picking at anything shiny that attracts them, coming slowly closer and closer to our sleeping dogs until they give a loud croak and fly off as if they knew they had started the dogs.

Crows have a nasty reputation for killing and eating meat...as in other birds' nestlings, and even baby squirrels.

They are extremely clever bird, spotting the glint of a rifle barrel instantly, and only occasionally falling prey to man's missiles.

They are not a creature that I hate, only dislike. Even the dislike is tinted a little with admiration for their survival abilities.

And no matter how much I threaten or fuss, my "live and let live" attitude always prevails, and when the cawing and racket down on the creek goes on for too long, I just step outside and yell at the crows to "shut up", instead of letting off a blast of the shotgun!

After all, I suppose the common crow has a right to have a little fun, too.

Girl Scout Camp Folders Out

Summer camp folders were mailed recently to girls registered with the Red River Valley Girl Scout Council, announcing the schedule of sessions at Camp Gambill this summer.

"Resident camping is open to all girls between the ages of 6 and 17," said Camp Director Linda Woolston. "Girl Scout membership is not a requirement for attending Camp Gambill."

Three day, one week and two week sessions are offered this year in June and July. There is also a four week counselor-in-training program offered to girls who have completed the ninth grade by June, 1988.

Fees for the sessions are $45 for three days, $80 for one week, $115 for two weeks and $200 for the counselor program.

According to Mrs. Woolston, cabins are arranged in two separate units. There is also a platform tent unit available to those staying two weeks. Girls of about the same age and experience are placed in similar accommodations. Staff will live in cabins with girls during three-day sessions.

Mrs. Woolston said that the counseling staff is selected for their knowledge of the Girl Scout program, specific outdoor skills and their ability to work with girls. The camp staff participates in a week of pre-camp training prior to the opening session.

Camp Gambill is located five miles northwest of Paris on FM 2820. An open house will be held on May 8 from 2-4 p.m. for girls interested in attending resident camp and their families.

Frank Stubblefield Chosen For Pilot Program

Earl F. Stubblefield, Bogata Elementary and Junior High Principal, has been chosen as one of 40 participants for the pilot training and networking workshop for the Texas School Improvement Initiative Project. The training will be held March 23-25 at the Waller Creek Plaza Hotel in Austin.

Earl F. Stubblefield

Of the 3.8 million students in Texas schools (up 8% from 1986), the dropout rate is 35% as compared to 26% nationwide. There is a wide variance in the regional/area high-performing schools with differing economic conditions demonstrating regional gaps of 14% or more in English scores and regional gaps of 13% or more on math scores. In addition, the state predicts an annual increase of 100,000 disadvantaged students with an increase of 12% in free and reduced meals by 1990. Research suggests that involvement of campus principals in the accreditation campus review process will result in significant improvement in the schools.

The project has identified 20 high-performing elementary schools and 20 low-performing schools with similar characteristics in size, regional location and number of disadvantaged students. The principals of these schools will be matched together into a pilot training program that will train both sets of principals in the principles of effective schools and train them to become members of the accreditation teams from the Division of Accreditation. The network will also allow each principal to visit matching schools.

Major objectives are to become members of a statewide peer-support networking program that promotes high standards of educational quality and to develop knowledge and application of the research base for identifying and nurturing effective schools, to become knowledgeable of and skillful in implementing the state's student and campus-based accreditation process and to develop a practical understanding of the Effective Schools Correlates and specific school improvement processes that include leadership teams, assessment of campus needs, action-oriented planning and implementation of campus plans.

The project will evaluate the learning outcomes of the training with a pre and post-test of the training in the effective schools correlates. A customized semantic differential scale will measure the effective levels of the project with descriptors of the enduring quality of the training.

Bear Cub Scouts Meet

The Bear Cub Scouts met Thursday, March 3 in regular meeting at the First United Methodist Church in Bogata.

The boys played games in accordance with their theme, "Future", sang songs and had refreshments. Eleven boys attended the meeting.

Ceremony Highlights Girl Scout Supper

An Investiture and Rededication Ceremony provided the program for the annual Bogata Neighborhood Girl Scout Box Supper, Monday night, March 7 at Rivercrest High School.

Mollie Williams, Bogata Neighborhood Chairman, welcomed guests and recognized Priscilla Meriman of Sulphur Springs, field executive for the Girl Scout Council. Troops 12, 32 and 91 performed the flag ceremony. Leaders for those troops are Kay Ross, Dee Crayton and Terry Watkins. The entire congregation sang "My Country 'Tis Of Thee", accompanied by Penny Graham on the piano.

Becky White of Troop 22, read the Promise and Law and Troop Leader, Alice Ann White, lit the candles symbolizing each law.

The World Friendship Ceremony was conducted by Troop 12. All Girl Scouts repeated the Girl Scout Promise together and sang "Make New Friends", followed by the Brownie Song sung by all Brownies.

Becky White then spoke to those attending on "What Scouting Means to Me". This is Becky's last year to serve as a student Girl Scout. She said she was being allowed a wonderful opportunity to conclude her years of Girl Scouting by traveling this summer with Melissa Warren, also a Senior Girl Scout, and her mother and leader, Alice Ann White, to Atlanta, GA to visit the birthplace of Juliette Lowe, founder of Girl Scouting. Becky and Melissa have both earned the Gold Award, the highest award that can be earned in Girl Scouting. Becky said that her training in Girl Scouts has given her leadership ability that she has been able to benefit from in her duties as Drum Major for the Rivercrest High School Band and other areas of her life. Speaking to the younger Girl Scouts, Becky encouraged them to stay in Girl Scouts to reap the rewards that go along with the program.

Prior to the program in the auditorium, Girl Scouts, leaders and guests enjoyed a meal in the cafeteria. Each family brought their supper in a decorated box. Grace was led by Troop 157.

Girl Scout Sunday Observed

Sunday, March 6, was recognized by area churches as Girl Scout Sunday.

Girl Scout Week is March 6-12, marking the 76th anniversary of Girl Scouting. Bulletins telling about the services and activities of Girl Scouts were handed out in each congregation and Girl Scouts attending received special recognition during the services.

BIRTHS

A girl, Jessica Rene was born to Dale and Staci Griffen on March 6. Grandparents are Bill and Jackie Thompson and Edward and Pat Griffen.

Social Security Office Hours Change

Beginning March 7, 1988, the Paris District Office will become a part of a national series of experiments that were aimed at determining what are the best hours of operation for the public. Most of these experiments have involved extended hours after 4:30 p.m. Experience has shown that these experiments have not generated much public interest.

At the Paris office, they have decided to open the doors to the public at 7:45 a.m. every Monday morning effective March 7. Normal hours open to the public are 8:45 to 4:30 Monday through Friday.

This means that individuals will now have an opportunity to conduct their Social Security business before going to work on Mondays if they so desire.

Hopefully this change in extending the hours open to the public on Mondays will be beneficial to all citizens in the Paris office's service area which includes Lamar, Red River and Delta Counties.

Office hours will be: Monday, 7:45 to 4:30; Tuesday through Friday, 8:45 to 4:30.

PROPERTY TAX RENDITIONS

HELP YOU PROTECT YOUR RIGHTS AS A TAXPAYER

A rendition is a report to the appraisal district that lists all the taxable property you own or control on January 1, 1988. You may also give your opinion of the property's value, if you wish.

You must file a rendition if you own tangible personal property used to produce income—such as the machinery and equipment used by a business.

The appraisal district may require any taxpayer to file a rendition by sending the taxpayer a written notice and a rendition form.

You may want to file a rendition, even if you aren't required to file, to preserve some of your rights as a taxpayer:

- You put your correct mailing address on record so your tax bills will go to the right address. If your bill is mailed to the wrong address, the law still holds you responsible for paying your taxes on time or paying extra charges for late payments.
- You can put your own opinion of your property's value on record. If the appraisal district then places a higher value on your property, it must notify you in writing of the higher value and explain how you can protest that value to the appraisal review board.

• By filing a special type of rendition called a report of decreased value, you can notify the appraisal district of significant damage to your property that occurred in 1987. The district will send someone to verify the damage and take it into account when assigning a 1988 value to your property.

File renditions with your local appraisal district at the address shown below. Forms are available there.

The deadline for 1988 renditions is March 31. You can get an extra 30 days if you ask for it in writing before the March 31 deadline.

For more information, get a free copy of the pamphlet, Taxpayers' Rights, Remedies, Responsibilities, at your appraisal district office or from the State Property Tax Board in Austin.

Keeping Healthy

Antibiotics

"Antibiotics are effective against bacterial infections, not viral infections, such as the common cold, measles and shingles," emphasizes infectious disease specialist Harold C. Neu, M.D.

"Although there are certain signs—such as the height of the fever, amount of swelling and color of mucus or discharge, it is difficult without a culture to differentiate between a viral and bacterial infection," Dr. Neu states.

Clearly some patients who could have either a viral or bacterial infection are in such a state of health that antibiotics are not withheld. This makes sense for patients who are very ill or who have some other underlying disease or chronic condition that makes them more vulnerable to infection.
