World Peace Plan Lauded By Atcheson

(By The Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23.—Nothing is more important for world comity than the charter for an international organization for security to be drafted by the United Nations in San Francisco beginning April 25, assistant Secretary of State Dean Acheson said tonight.

"By it the United Nations will transform their wartime partnership into an enduring institution for the winning of the peace," Acheson told the Center for International Understanding.

"It will include organs not only for military power and political adjustment, but for justice, economic betterment and humane work of every kind."

Called Policy For Peace

Acheson, sketching what he called "an economic policy for peace," asserted that all our laws affecting international relations should be drafted in view of our "whole interest."

"Trade is not as simple as a two-way street," he went on.

"Cotton means the South in the United States. It means Brazil, Peru, India, and Egypt. Wool means the United States, Australia, Argentina, Canada and the Soviet Union. When a depression strikes one of these great commodities, whole regions are in trouble and the finances of great countries with them. The only real hope lies in acting together, in agreement."

Monetary Fund Plan

Earlier, at the commonwealth club here, Acheson said that if the Bretton Woods monetary fund proposal were rejected by Congress, the rest of the agreement involving the proposed bank for reconstruction and development would have to be rewritten entirely.

He said critics of the Bretton Woods plan center their objections on the proposed international monetary fund, but raise little objection to the proposed bank for reconstruction and development. Both, he said, "can be instruments of peace," can "help to end economic warfare."

Nations cooperating through both the bank and the fund, Acheson asserted, "develop the unused resources for the entire world," but if the fund is rejected, the banks usefulness will be impaired.

The Breton Woods agreements, the State department spokesman added, would have to be rewritten completely should Congress reject the fund, because "documents relating to the bank and fund are intertwined."

Spain On Verge Of War On Japs

MADRID, March 23 (AP)—Spain appeared about to go to war on Japan tonight as the government awaited Tokyo's reply to a strong note of protest against the "premeditated murders" of Spanish nationals prior to the liberation of Manila by American troops.

The Franco government seemed willing to carry the issue to the conclusion of war despite a report that Germany had presented a note to the Madrid government saying any Spanish action against Japan would be considered an unfriendly act by the Reich.

Spanish indignation was made public in a communique last night which listed 172 Spanish men, women and children bayoneted to death by Japanese troops while American troops were overrunning the Philippine capital.

Many Others Injured

The communique said that, in addition to those killed, 300 were injured in "unparalleled acts of cruelty against defenseless Spaniards" and that Spanish property valued at 12,000,000 pesetas (1,000,000) was destroyed. Eighty per cent of the Spanish property lost was destroyed within Spain's consulate in Manila and in other buildings flying the Spanish flag, the communique charged.

The Spanish press—through which the government normally speaks anonymously on its most ticklish diplomatic subjects—continued to declare bluntly its disgust and impatience with the Japanese, described undiplomatically as "systematic, premeditating murderers."

Jap Plane Losses Mount To 731 In Task Force Assault

By RAY CRONIN
Associated Press War Editor

Destruction or probable destruction of 731 Japanese aircraft during the recent carrier task force plane strike against the Nippon homeland, was reported by Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz late Friday.

The admiral's announcement, amplifying previous communiques, indicated that many of the planes were bagged while attacking the Fifth fleet as it retired from Japanese waters.

Meanwhile Gen. Douglas MacArthur, reporting from the Philippines, disclosed American capture of another important airfield on northwestern Luzon and the smashing of a Japanese convoy off French Indo-China.

The fleet communique said Yank naval fliers shot down 281 Japanese planes, destroyed 275 on the ground, probably destroyed or damaged 175 others and indicated extensive damage to seven major air fields on Kyushu island. Earlier communiques listed 15 to 17 Japanese warships crippled in the Inland sea.

The Admiral said the action lasted from March 18 to March 21. Since the two strikes against the Japanese homeland were March 18 and 19 the later action probably represented the Nippon aerial attacks on the retiring fleet.

Japs Say Eleven Sunk

The Japanese claimed 11 of the carrier task force warships were sunk. Nimitz previously reported only one seriously damaged.

The Yank drive toward Baguio, summer capital in the Philippines, was highlighted by seizure of Naguilian town and its airfield.

In the Balete pass sector, northeast Luzon, American doughboys inflicted heavy losses on the Japanese as they repulsed four counterattacks. On the mountain front east of Manila, Yank soldiers took high ground on a four-mile front and further compressed the Nipponese into a narrowing defense zone.

A few Japanese night raiders struck the Lingayen gulf area and Clark Field, causing minor damages.

Off Indo-China, American fliers lashed a seven ship convoy. They sank two destroyers, two fighters and a mine sweeper. Four Japanese interceptors were shot down. One Yank plane was lost.

At Washington, Brig. Gen. Lauris Norstad said 170 Superfortresses have been lost—84 in combat—since they started operations from the Marianas last June. The general disclosed that 13½ square miles of Tokyo were reduced to ashes in the March 9 B-29 hit there.

Japanese Premier Kuniaki Koiso was quoted by radio Tokyo as telling the Imperial Diet that Nippon was fully prepared to repulse any invasion of the homeland and also determined to recapture Iwo Jima, Saipan and Guadalcanal. He made these statements as members of the Diet indicated they were not satisfied with his war efforts.

NEW RAID REPORTED

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23 — American carrier planes raided Okinawa in the Ryukyu islands, midway between Japan and Formosa, Friday and Saturday (Tokyo time), radio Tokyo reported tonight. The broadcast was intercepted by the Blue network.

The enemy report, unconfirmed by the Navy at Guam which disclosed earlier in the week a two-day strike by Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's carrier aircraft at southern Japan, said 220 planes made Friday's raid. Okinawa is a Japanese naval and air base.

Strong Cabinet Program

The Japanese agency Domei reported the Koiso cabinet adopted a strong program for war labor mobilization in connection with anti-invasion and air defense work and food and war production.

Apparently the Japanese were using an old trick in central China—theft of the vital wheat crops of southern Honan and northern Hupeh provinces. A Chinese Army spokesman reported a new Japanese drive, involving some 60,000 soldiers supported by mechanized units. The push, started from northwest of Hankow, was headed for the wheat belt. The spokesman said the Japanese also apparently hope to eliminate some advance air fields and to lift a Chinese threat to their communications along the Peiping-Hankow railway.

The British squeeze in central Burma was progressing. British troops operating south of captured Mandalay were shoving the Japanese back toward other forces hitting northward from Meiktila.

American and British fliers stuck heavily against Japanese Burma and Thailand communications. They destroyed a half dozen bridges and 27 locomotives. Other lashed water and rail communications, supply areas and troop concentrations throughout Burma.

U. S. Escort Carrier Lost In Iwo Battle

By MORRIE LANDSBERG
Associated Press Staff Writer

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Saturday, March 24—Japanese planes which counterattacked U. S. amphibious forces off Iwo Jima the night of Feb. 21 sank the U. S. S. Bismarck Sea, an escort carrier, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

The Bismarck Sea, a 4000-ton vessel, was the eleventh U. S. carrier listed as lost in the war. Ten of the eleven have been lost in the Pacific. Six of the flattops were escorts, one was a light carrier and four were full carriers.

Nimitz said "most" of the Bismarck Sea's personnel—estimated at 1500—were rescued but Capt. John Lockwood Pratt, the skipper, in an interview told war correspondents "many" of his men were killed in explosions caused by Japanese aerial torpedoes and by the fires which followed. He said many others were killed in the water by Japanese pilots who returned to strafe survivors.

Coast Guard and other small craft rescued the survivors.

Coast Guard and other small craft rescued the survivors.

This was the first announcement of U. S. loss in the Feb. 21 attack. At the time, Nimitz briefly reported in a communique "at sunset on Feb. 21 a force of enemy bombers and fighters attacked our surface units in the area off Iwo island, causing some damage to fleet units. Seven of these planes were shot down by air patrols and antiaircraft fire."

Marines had landed on Iwo on Feb. 19, only two days before the vicious Japanese aerial attack on an American task force numbering 800 ships of all categories. The enemy hoped by this bombing and torpedoing of the vast landing armada to smash the amphibious operations, but failed.

Captain Pratt, of Milford, Del., and Coronado, Calif., made every effort to save the carrier, Nimitz reported, before ordering personnel to abandon ship.

The carrier, built in the Kaiser shipyards at Vancouver, Wash., and commissioned last year, sank a short time later.

Pratt, in an interview two days later (but held up by censors pending announcement of the loss) said Japanese planes attacked at dusk and, after hitting the ship, returned to strafe survivors in the water.

The jeep carrier had been assigned to support the Iwo invasion after similar duty in the landings in Lingayen gulf, Luzon, in the Philippines.

Pratt told correspondents at Iwo that "many" of the ship's company were lost in the holocaust that raged aboard the little ship after she was jolted time and again by exploding torpedoes. He said many who escaped the fires and explosions drowned later in the cold, rough sea and several men were hit by strafing enemy planes.

The Bismarck Sea, which was of the Casablanca class, was about 500 feet long with a speed of approximately 18 knots and carried about 20 aircraft.

The executive officer, Cmdr. M. E. Born, Coronado, Calif., and Capt. Pratt, were picked up safely from the water by small boats of other U. S. warships.

The Navy said next of kin of men lost in the sinking had been notified.

Soviet-Balked UNRRA Puts Russian On Polish Mission

By FLORA LEWIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 23 — Balked in an attempt to get a Russian visa for an American representative, the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration today named a Russian to head an UNRRA mission to Poland.

John P. Gregg, originally chosen head of the mission to negotiate a relief agreement with Poland, resigned after several months of futile attempts to get a Russian transit visa.

Warsaw Regime Recognized

It was announced that Michail Menshikov, who is an UNRRA deputy director general, would head the mission. An UNRRA statement also declared that the Polish provisional government in Warsaw is the only Polish authority with which UNRRA will deal.

This placed another trump in the hands of this government, which has relations with Moscow while the United States and Britain recognize the rival regime in London. However, it is in line with UNRRA's announced policy of dealing with the administrative authority in control of any area.

The Yalta agreement calls for the reconstitution of the Warsaw government to include other elements but so far this has not been accomplished.

Poles Are Agitated

The UNRRA statement about dealing only with the Warsaw regime caused immediate consternation among Poles here. It was learned that Ambassador Jan Ciechanowski, representing the London government, intends to take the matter up with the State department. The Polish government in London has been a member of UNRRA since the start.

It is expected that Menshikov's appointment will bring quick clearance for the mission which has been assembled for months but unable to leave because of the lack of travel permits.

The statement on the Polish government read, "the provisional government, which exercises actual control in the area, is the only Polish authority with which UNRRA will deal on Polish relief arrangements."

Said Only Temporary

Menshikov is being sent as a personal representative of Herbert H. Lehman, UNRRA director general, and his mission was said to be "temporary."

Presumably, once arrangements have been completed, a new mission will be sent to supervise distribution of supplies.

Lehman messaged Edwards Osubka-Morawski, prime minister of the Warsaw provisional government, "I wish to assure you of UNRRA's deep desire to be of every possible aid to your gallant people."

The 45th, 63rd and third infantry divisions were reported officially to be mopping up small pockets of resistance left by the meshing operations of the Seventh and Third armies and French divisions.

The 36th (Texas) division cleared Durrenbach and fought to high ground west of Berzabern.

Superfort Attack Lessens Production

WASHINGTON, March 23. (AP)—The Superfortress incendiary attack against Tokyo on March 9 knocked out at least 20 per cent of the city's industrial production for three months and five per cent for a full year.

Brig. Gen. Lauris Norstad also told a news conference today that 170 B29's have been lost since they started operations last June 5. Of these, 84 were lost in combat and 86 as a result of accidents and similar operational losses.

Norstad, chief of staff for the 20th (Superfortress) Air force, said the fire attack on Tokyo had destroyed an estimated 3,000 plants and shops, a total of 200,000 to 250,000 buildings, and left an estimated 1,200,000 factory workers homeless.

Forty five large factories were destroyed, 26 extensively damaged, 20 moderately damaged and 16 others damaged to some extent, he reported.

Nazis Report Reds Starting For Berlin

By ROMNEY WHEELER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March, 23.—The Germans said tonight that 72,000 Russian troops and 400 tanks had reopened the battle for Berlin, crashing six miles west of the Oder river defense line within 31 miles of the imperiled Nazi capital.

Simultaneously, Moscow announced that the defenders of Danzig and Gdynia had been split in two by a Soviet surge to Danzig bay that won the coastal town of Zoppot, mid-way between the prized Baltic ports.

The enemy said that the Red Army had launched a mighty assault from the Oder river under a thunderous air bombardment and barrage by Red Army artillery, mortars and rocket-guns.

Major Blow Seen

A few hours before a German front report said Russian infantrymen had reached Golzow, on the Kuestrin-Berlin trunk, railroad and a Berlin dispatch by the German-controlled Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau in Stockholm said: "The major Russian offensive against Berlin is immediately at hand."

The report was not confirmed by the Soviet high command which, however, in its nightly war bulletin announced a sharp jump in German tank and plane losses—frequently an early indication of powerful new Soviet thrusts.

Along the Eastern front, the Russians destroyed or disabled 156 Nazi tanks and shot down 149 German planes, and more than 4,200 prisoners were taken in East Prussia, near Danzig, and in Silesia, Moscow announced.

Giant Soviet Pincer

While the Third White Russian Army narrowed the East Prussian pocket southwest of Koenigsberg and Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russians drove to within four miles of both Danzig and Gdynia by taking Zoppot, other Soviet forces far to the south were clamping a huge pincer on Moravia, Bohemia and Vienna.

Across upper Silesia, Russian troops were pursuing broken Nazi forces into Czechosolovakia's Sudeten mountains and Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukrainian Army captured the Silesian town of Jernau, 10 miles northwest of Ratibor, and 10 other places.

At the same time, Berlin said a four-day Red Army offensive in Hungary had reached Komarom, strategic Danube key to Austria and Vienna, 84 miles to the west.

Bombers In Action

With the capture of Jernau, Konev's troops pushed south toward Moravske-Ostrava, driving to within 26 miles northwest of the industrial Czechosolovak city in an outflanking drive while Soviet heavy bombers hammered the city's rail junction. Russian bombers also blasted Danzig and Papa in western Hungary, Moscow announced.

Berlin In Ruins And 50,000 Said Killed

LONDON, March 23 (AP)—Berlin has been virtually ruined along with the devastation heaped on other German cities in unprecedented raids during the last three weeks by American and British bombers, the air ministry announced tonight.

It is estimated unofficially that more than 50,000 persons died in the flaming ruins of the Nazi capital and that 400,000 were made homeless. The center of the city is believed to be completely wrecked.

"The effect of this campaign can be estimated not only in terms of material damage, but in innumerable signs of confusion and lack of control in the enemy's war effort," the official statement said in a summary of some of the recent damage.

GIs Resent Reports They'll Be Tough On Their Return

For weeks they have been reading and hearing from here and there about how changed they are going to be from the shooting, and how loaded with war psychoses, and how the women folk will have to make adjustments, and they are wondering how everyone knows so much about it—that is, everyone but themselves.

As Pfc. Lorin Schipper of Kansas City asked, "Just what do they expect us to be when we get back?"

"I figure I'll be just as normal as I ever was," he insists. Schipper has been a heavy weapons man overseas for 35 months with the 34th division—the outfit that has seen more combat time than any other unit in the armed forces.

Men of the "Red Bull" division generally put most such talk about themselves into the "hot air and applesauce" compartment in the files. Irked by so much comment, Cpl. Enemy Overwhelmed And Not A Man Lost

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Saturday, March 24.—The U. S. Third Army swarmed in strength across the Rhine Thursday night in the war's greatest river crossing, overwhelmed the startled enemy and struck inland with lightning speed from a firm bridgehead on the shortest road to Berlin—265 miles ahead.

By Friday the Americans had seized a sizeable strip of territory east of the river, for an official announcement referred to the position as a bridgehead, which in Army terminology means the crossings are beyond enemy light artillery range. (That might mean they were as much as five miles beyond the Rhine.)

RAPID WEST-RHINE CLEANUP AIDS DRIVE—Typical rapid-fire Patton-type cleanup of Nazis west of the Rhine contributed much to the time element and ease with which Gen. Patton's Third Army surged across the Rhine Thursday night in a plunge for Berlin. Shaded area on map shows territory won by the Allies since the big American offensive from the Roer river Feb. 23. Boxes locate Allied armies. According to German reports, the Third Army crossed the Rhine ten miles south of Mainz.

Three Others Passed

Three other Allied armies—the American Ninth, Canadian First and British Second—were poised at the northern end of the front for Rhine crossings which the Germans said were imminent.

Natural Berlin Approach

If the Germans are correct in saying that Patton crossed at Oppenheim, then his forces are out on the Frankfurt plain on one of the best natural approaches to Berlin through the waist of Germany.

There the Rhine is 500 yards wide, and a short distance north it turns into the narrow gorge that leads on to Coblenz.

That would place it about 55 air line miles south of the First

CAN CROSS ANY TIME

TWELFTH ARMY GROUP HEADQUARTERS, March 23 — The Allies can cross the Rhine "most anywhere at any time," Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley said today, adding that Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring had assumed command of German forces on this front "at a bad time."

The 12th Army group commander's remarks to correspondents suggested that conditions now allowed large-scale immediate crossings of the Rhine, without the usual pause after a major campaign for rest, refitting and regrouping.

Bradley said "the necessity of keeping the (Remagen) bridgehead small is now removed," meaning that earlier large forces could not be spared for east of the Rhine operations until the whole west bank had been cleared.

Army's east bank front, which is bursting out southward and is nearing the Rhine opposite Coblenz.

Oppenheim is 20 miles south-east of Frankfurt-On-The-Main, and is little more than 200 air-line miles west of where the Russians are swinging westward.

Carrying out to perfection a coup rehearsed for months, Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, jr., put the first American assault waves across at an undisclosed point on the east bank without the Germans firing a shot and without the loss of a man in the actual crossing.

Patton was pressing home what might well prove a mortal blow without giving the enemy time to recuperate from the Nazi catas-

Vivid Story Told By Only Reporter Across With Men

By EDWARD D. BALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE U. S. THIRD ARMY East Of The Rhine, March 23.—The Third Army stormed across the Rhine at 10:25 p.m., last night without loss of a man and without drawing a single shot from the Germans until a good 20 minutes after the crossing was made good.

By dawn today a solid bridgehead was driven into Hitler's inner fortress against opposition that still was spotty and erratic despite some artillery and mortar fire.

(John Bryson of the Blue network, broadcasting from the field, said Ball was the only correspondent who made the crossing Thursday night).

Enemy Soon Silenced

Most of the enemy weapons were soon silenced.

By dawn many infantry units had gone across and by that time the first waves of doughboys had pushed inland.

There was a minimum of noise and confusion at the bridgehead where droves of assault boats were speeding back and forth with men and supplies.

Within eight hours Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's forces had completely established a firm bridgehead in the greatest over-water assault since Normandy.

At the first crack of day a couple of Messerschmitt 262 jet propelled planes poked inquisitive noses over the bridgehead and promptly were knocked down.

Ducks Ply River

Assault craft and amphibious ducks were plying the calm Rhine back and forth across the river.

The operation, which had been planned and rehearsed for months, went off far smoother than anyone could have hoped.

The Germans simply were caught by surprise and by the overwhelming weight of American arms.

Patton's men moved like lightning. Besides the surprise element, the Germans utterly failed to produce anything like the amount of fire the Americans were throwing at them.

Patton's Rhine-conquering exploit followed one of the greatest armor and infantry thrusts in military history — the tremendous sweep through the Saarland.

Want To Take Berlin

Together these successes appeared to be decisive blows against the Germans. The elated doughboys, who three weeks ago were urging the Russians on to Berlin, now nominated themselves for the job of taking the German capital.

I saw the doughboys who went in on Omaha beach in Normandy last June 6 and I went across the Rhine with them last night.

The spirit was identical, and so was the overwhelming superiority in men and equipment.

The Rhineland never saw a more amazing sight than last night's. Probably it never will. For miles back the roads were lined with trucks and other vehicles struggling up the hills.

Hundreds of conveyances of all kinds which had pulled up just out of sight of the river during the day stood silent and shadowy

Mighty Aerial Blows Continue

LONDON, Saturday, March 24. (AP)—History's mightiest aerial onslaught roared to a thunderous climax yesterday as more than 8,000 Allied warplanes battered communications in and around the devastated German Ruhr.

Mosquitos Out Again

The German radio indicated that Mosquito bombers were over the Reich in strength again tonight, blasting varied targets in bright moonlight.

It was the second successive day that more than 8,000 planes hammered the Reich and by nightfall more than 6,000 sorties had been flown by continent-based Tactical Air forces.

DEAR:

No matter how long you have been gone from Lubbock, you will recall that our traffic regulations have never won any loving cups. If you haven't been in a traffic snarl in downtown Lbubock or haven't taken your life in your hands in crossing the street, you just haven't been in Lubbock for long, that's all.

Anyway, there'll be some changes made now because Lubbock's traffic regulations and system of control are headed for revision. They will involve left and right hand turns on various downtown streets, instituting parallel parking on several streets, changing the time for parking meters on several streets and change in timing at several intersections.

New type caution lights which warn on the green will be installed after victory. These improvements were discussed at a meeting of City commission Thursday when Mayor Overton W. Ribble announced an extended study had been underway for weeks.

You remember we mentioned Lubbock's civic center project several weeks ago. Well, a survey is to be made by a committee appointed by Mayor Ribble to serve until the center is built or the project disposed of. On the committee are J. D. Hassell, jr., W. C. Wood, J. L. Quicksall, Fred H. Childress, City Manager Marlin R. Smith, C. W. Ratliff and Mayor Ribble, recommended as a member by the commission itself.

First Baptist Congregation is planning to build a church in postwar days on a piece of property a block wide fronting on both Broadway and Thirteenth, in the 2200-block. A committee has made negotiations for buying the property at a cost of $107,000.

There are now five houses on the property chosen and six owners. Mrs. Roscoe Wilson owns a house on the corner of Broadway and Ave. V in the block and several lots on Thirteenth; S. B. Bardwell, Mrs. W. H. Walton and Mrs. Lillie C. Wall own the other Broadway property. Ralph Bedford and E. C. Hatton are owners of the optioned property on Thirteenth.

Although nothing has been done in regard to design of the building, it will cover a block and the main auditorium is tentatively planned to seat 2500 persons. The present location of the church has been found unsuitable as a permanent site because of parking difficulties.

Former district judge Clark M. Boothman arose long before sunrise Thursday to a "rendezvous point" in spare country far west of Lubbock to observe an Indian custom of long ago and to determine the chances for the South Plains harvest this year. Because the wind was a "tiny bit south of east, he says the farmers are assured of another "average" crop year.

Mr. Mullican has been making the forecast for the last 14 years, a custom that the late J. I. Wilborn of Post adopted from the Indians.

M. A. Brothers, former policeman, pled guilty to charges of aggravated assault of a returned combat veteran temporarily stationed at Lubbock Army Air field, and was assessed a fine of $50 and costs by County Judge Walter Davies. Capt. Dick G. Tucker, 23, a combat flier, charged that Brothers struck him with a blackjack after Brothers and a fellow officer stopped him and several friends last Friday night on a Texas Tech driveway. Brothers admitted that he struck the officer but only after what he said was an attempt to resist arrest.

There was no announcement from military officials as to whether Capt. Tucker had been charged with drunk driving, an offense for which police booked him after the purported beating.

Brothers resigned upon request by Chief of Police Don Reeder, following an intensive inquiry.

D. Jarrett, Lubbock druggist who has been in the Navy the past two and one-half years, visited here recently, en route to Banning, Calif., where Mrs. Jarrett has been residing. They will return to Lubbock in the near future. Jarrett has been discharged as a pharmacist's mate in the Navy.

Maj. and Mrs. L. E. (Jack) Davis came through Lubbock Thursday en route to San Angelo where he is to be stationed after serving at the Army Air field in Independence, Kans.

Chaplain and Mrs. William H. Foster, jr., former Lubbock residents, have been visiting his parents. Chaplain Foster, formerly assistant pastor of First Presbyterian church, recently was assigned to a Seebee battalion. He has been stationed on Treasure island.

F/O C. C. Crenshaw, jr., is here on 10-day-delay in route leave before he is to report to Nashville, where he will pick up his C-46 crew and wait for orders to sail overseas. Recently he completed temporary duty at Rosecrans field, St. Joseph, Mo., where he did advanced and transition instrument training.

Delay In Island Freedom Urged

WASHINGTON, March 23. (AP) Paul V. McNutt, former high commissioner to the Philippines, suggested today that independence for the commonwealth be deferred at least until after rehabilitation from the ravages of war.

"If the Filipinos defer the question of independence they are more likely to get a sympathetic reaction from Congress on rehabilitation measures," McNutt said in an interview.

First Suggestion

His was the first suggestion for postponement from any high administration figure.

The Philippines Rehabilitation commission is now studying the extent of war damages in the islands and the commonwealth is expected to put in a claim of nearly a billion dollars. In addition, the Philippine government may ask for grants from Congress to fill out its depleted treasury which now, according to expert estimates, contains sufficient funds for only about eight months of normal operations.

"If the Philippines step off into an uncharted sea, as some of their leaders seem to be advocating, the islands are clearly destined for trouble," McNutt declared, but acknowledged that "we may have to let the Philippines take their freedom now and learn the hard way."

Consequences Feared

"It is more than possible that if they get their freedom now, they may never again attain their prewar economic stability and may destine themselves to a permanently lowered standard of living," the war manpower commissioner said.

The Philippines, under the terms of the Tydings-McDuffie act as originally passed, were to obtain complete independence on July 4, 1946. An amendment, passed during the period of occupation in order to offset Japanese propaganda, permits the President to advance the date of independence if he thinks it proper.

State-Owned Farms Slated For Romania

(By The Associated Press)

Absentee land ownership has been abolished in Romania under a law which envisages a redistribution of farms in parcels up to five hectares (12 1/3 acres) for sale to the peasantry, it was announced in a decree broadcast from Bucharest reported by the FCC today.

Creation of state-owned model farms is proposed.

Under the royal decree, the state acquires title to all lands and chattels belonging to absentee landlords, German citizens, traitors, collaborationists, war criminals and persons who have left the country since the armistice was signed last August. It also acquires title to individual holdings in excess of 50 hectares if under cultivation and in excess of 10 hectares if uncultivated for the last seven years.

WASHINGTON, March 23. (AP)—An increase of about 1½ cents a pound retail price ceilings for young chickens was authorized today, effective July 1.

The boost, designed to ease the food pinch, will remain in effect through Dec. 31. It was approved by Stabilization Director William H. Davis.

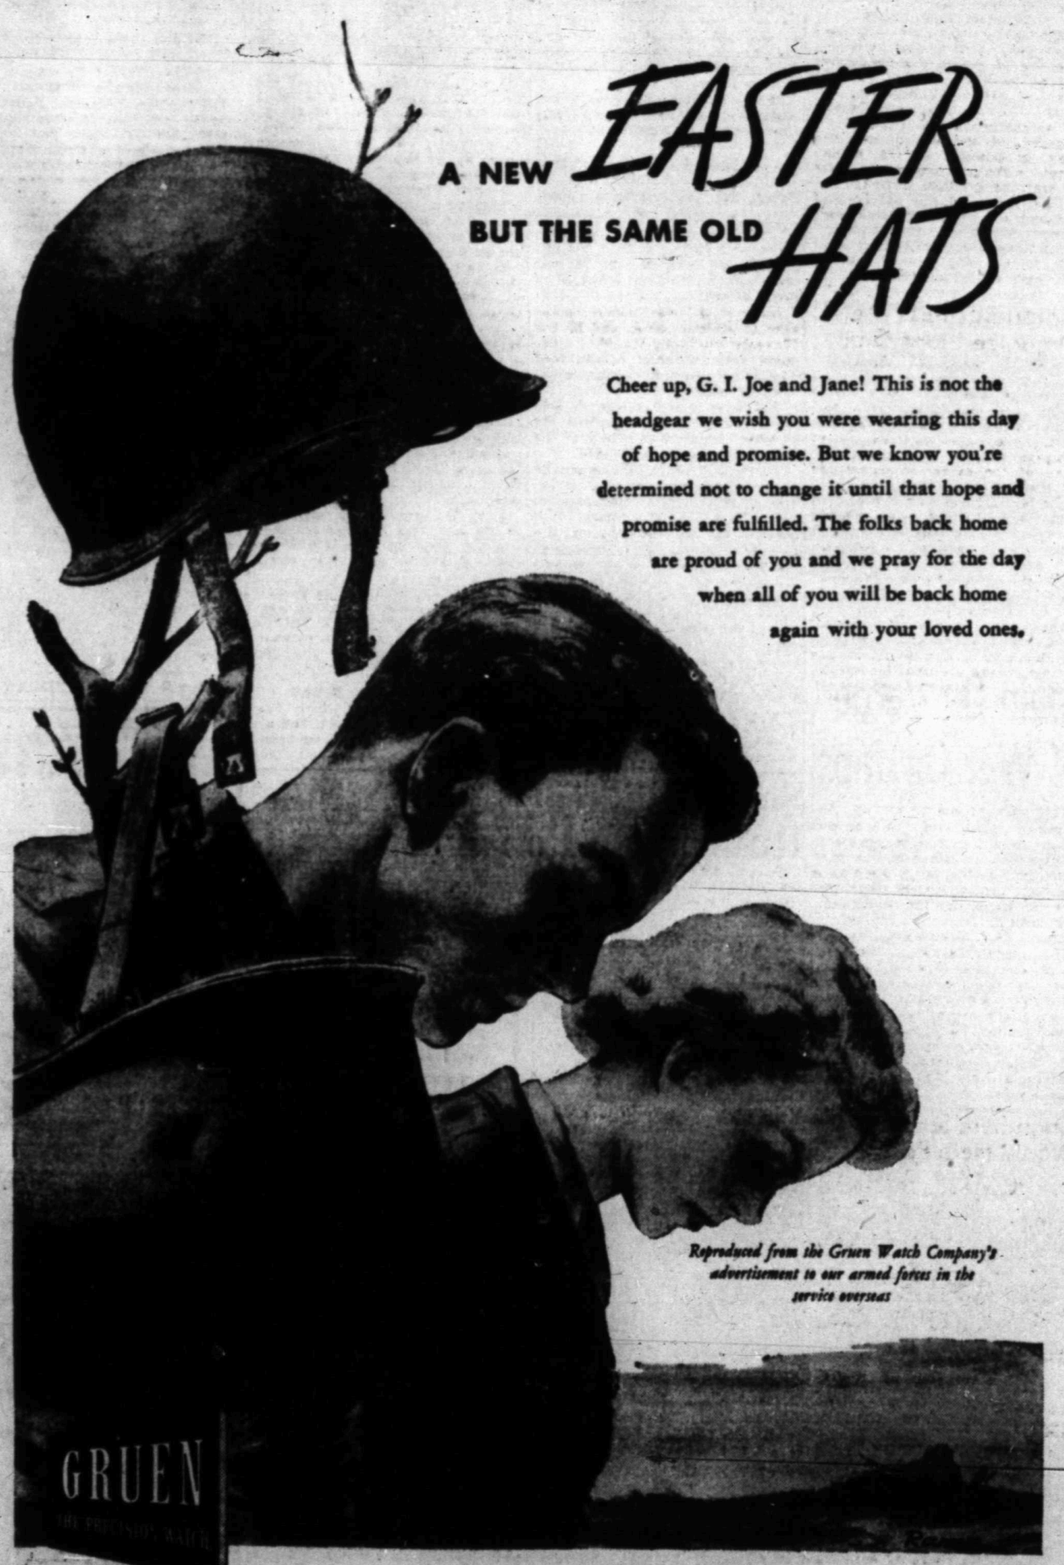

Its announced purpose is "to encourage farmers to produce more young chickens during the summer and thus make up for a shortage of other meats during that period."

At the producer level the increase will average about 1¼ cents a pound, ranging from a half cent to 1.6 cents a pound in various areas. It will apply to broilers, fryers and roasters.

Security Conference Delegates To Have Much Freedom Of Action

By JACK BELL.
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 23. — President Roosevelt was reported to have assured United States delegates today they would have much freedom of action to chart this country's course at the San Francisco world security conference.

The President talked briefly to five of the eight members of the American group at the White House after the delegates had conferred with Undersecretary of State Joseph C. Grew. Secretary of State Stettinius, former Secretary Cordell Hull and Comdr. Harold E. Stassen were absent.

Largely In Their Hands

Delegates apparently came away from the White House with the impression that Mr. Roosevelt intends to leave largely to them the evolution of this country's program at the April-May conference. This was with the understanding that they will work within the general frame-work of the Dumbarton Oaks preliminary formula.

The big three security agreements made at Yalta and elsewhere were said to be regarded by the Persident as projected solutions of pressing security problems which are open to modification if it becomes apparent such action is necessary to bring about conference harmony.

In other words, the delegates were given to understand that they do not have to accept such agreements as that involving the voting procedure of the proposed security council as final and not alterable.

Can Speak Their Minds

Beyond that the members of the delegation evidently feel that they are free to speak their minds about conference developments.

Most of their controversies are expected to be settled behind closed doors, but one member said that if he decided at any point the people ought be consulted about a specific point, he would feel entirely free to call public attention to the problem involved.

In their talks today with Grew, members said that only technical details of the San Francisco meeting were discussed.

To Meet Again Soon

The group probably will meet again next week to begin work on a series of proposed amendments to the Dumbarton Oaks formula filed by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich). Most of these were described as clarifying and technical in nature, but one would open the way to possible future assessment by the peace-keeping league of wartime political decisions.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, one of the four congressional delegates, has indicated he has some changes in mind but declines to discuss them.

Former Manager Of A. & M. Athletics Dies

COLLEGE STATION, March 23 (AP) — James Sullivan, for whose efforts Kyle field athletic stadium of Texas A. and M. college was built, died today of a heart attack.

Sullivan, 61, was business manager of athletics at A. and M. for 13 years, resigning in 1931 to become assistant chief of the feed control service from which he retired in 1942.

He came to the college in 1908 as secretary to the president. He became executive secretary of the feed control service in 1914.

From 1919 until 1931, when he was business manager of athletics, the athletic plant increased in value from $10,000 to $600,000. A plaque at the entrance of the football stadium says: "In appreciation of James Sullivan, an untiring worker in the cause of Aggieland, this stadium was erected in 1927."

States comprising the region are Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Colorado and Kansas.

Chambers Says Bill Would Help Farmers

AUSTIN, March 23. (AP) — Rep. W. R. Chambers of May told the House of Representatives that Texas farmers would welcome passage of his bill permitting county commissioners to hire sealers of weights and measures.

He said in his area, 3,000 tons of peanuts were weighed on scales for which no competent adjustment was possible, and that in many counties a qualified public official was needed to keep public scales in repair.

The bill was overwhelmingly passed and sent to the Senate.

Negro Faces Charge Of Grocery Burglary

A charge of burglary of J. S. Hays grocery store at 2407 Ave. T was filed Friday afternoon by District Attorney Burton S. Burks against a 17-year-old negro, Maurice McAllen.

Complaining witness was Aubrey Fawver, captain of city detectives. D. W. Robertson, justice of peace, accepted the charge.

Fawver, who had arrested the youth and recovered groceries and money taken from the store, also "made out a case" against a 15-year-old juvenile who faces similar accusations, through juvenile officials.

Fawver said $19.96 in money, a pound of cheese, five T-bone steaks, one loin steak, a quart of milk and a ham hock were taken. The older boy had two $5 bills in his pocket when arrested. "Change" identified by Hays was found in the older youth's residence, it was explained.

Entrance to the store was through a window, Fawver said.

Underpass grocery and market, at 207 Broadway, also was broken and entered Thursday night, but no "definite" loss of property was reported.

Club Hears Debate On Lower Voting Age

Should the voting age be reduced to 18?

That was the question debated at the luncheon of American Business club Friday in Hilton hotel by a debating team of Lubbock Senior High school, composed of Jacquelyn Reynolds and James Allen on the affirmative, and Betty Dennison and James Bowman on the negative.

The affirmative pointed out that young people of 18 are taking their place in this world and that the public realizes that 18-year-olds are capable of voting. They also said that in order to be qualified to vote, one must be a good citizen, be interested in governmental affairs and be able to understand the issues upon which he must vote. They pointed out that a majority of 18-year-old meet these qualifications.

The negative said that 18-year-olds do not meet the following qualifications of a voter: He must be able to accept responsibilities, must have a good education, experience, good judgment and be capable of casting an unbiased vote.

The judges' decision favored the negative. Judges were G. H. Nelson, Bruce Craig and Wyatt L. Hester. The debaters were introduced by J. W. Reid, debating coach at the high school. Bill Pittman was program chairman.

Guests included Jim Howard of Amarillo, Lt. J. H. Whiteside of the U. S. Naval reserve, and Gus Polhill of Dallas. Jerry Fulton, recently discharged from the Navy, was reinstated as a member of the club. Presiding in the absence of President Jimmie Wilson was G. H. Nelson.

FDR Has No Plan To Replace Hull

WASHINGTON, March 23. (AP)—The White House said today President Roosevelt had no plan for naming anyone to replace Cordell Hull at the San Francisco United Nations conference, should Hull's health prevent his attendance.

The former secretary of state, long a patient at Bethesda, Md., naval hospital, has been designated as senior advisor to the American delegation.

Hull, 73, is now reported improved in health to the extent that he now spends several hours a day up and about his quarters. The final decision on the San Francisco trip will be made by his doctors close to the time for leaving for the conference, which opens April 25.

Sailor Ordered Held On Felony Warrant

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23. (AP)—Police inspector George Engler said today that a young navy sailor, Charles Leroy DuPree, arrested in Houston, Texas, was ordered held on a felony warrant charging murder.

DuPree, a Navy mailman 1/c, was sought, Inspector Engler said, in connection with the fatal beating here of George F. Baird, 42, found unconscious in his hotel room after having entertained a sailor and his young girl friend.

Soldier Held In Two Robberies

Military authorities Friday afternoon accepted from municipal police custody of a 24-year-old South Plains soldier who had been accused of two robberies—one of them with a gun.

The alleged robberies took place about midnight Thursday.

Sylvester Buck, about 45, of Amarillo, and Miles May, of route 1 Idalou, both accused informally that a paratrooper of Georgia slugged them and took an automoblie from Buck and $30 in money from May.

The soldier was arrested in the East Broadway underpass and taken to the municipal police station at 1:25 o'clock this morning, about two hours after, Buck said, he had been severely beaten with a gun and his car taken from him.

The soldier had on his person a .32 automatic pistol, Municipal Police Patrolmen Anderson and Stewart said.

May Staggered In

At 1:10 o'clock, a call was received by municipal police from Lowrimore service station on East Broadway. May had staggered in, bloody and exhausted, and asked that police investigate his case.

He said he had been struck on the head by a man who had offered him a ride to Idalou.

He said the man, in a car, had stopped him near Hicks hatchery on East Broadway and said he would take him to Idalou, "for 50 cents."

Got In Front Seat

He said he got in the front seat of the car with the driver, whom he later was to identify definitely, and a "dark-haired" woman. He said there were "two or three" men in the back seat.

He said that when they reached the East Broadway entrance to Mackenzie State park the driver said they would pull into the park and take a drink of whisky.

They got out and took the drink, and the driver knocked May in the head and took a $20 bill, a $10 bill, a 1-cent Australian and a 3-cent New Zealand piece off him, May said, then drove off and left the victim.

When he "came to myself," May went to the station and had police called, he related.

Took Him To Hospital

Police took him to Lubbock General hospital and had his head dressed, then returned him to the police station to attempt identification of the suspect, who was arrested when May was at the hospital.

May did not immediately define the instrument with which he was "knocked in the head."

Buck, however, definitely accused the soldier as hitting him with a pistol. He was severely beaten. His scalp was laid open in two places. He too was given emergency aid at Lubbock General hospital, where several stitches were taken.

Officers Cautioned

Capt. Bill Bell of the night police urged in a police broadcast immediately afterward that officers use caution in approaching the suspected soldier.

Buck told Patrolmen Mark McCurry and Woody Smith he had met the soldier at a cafe, at 1218 Ave. H, and that they left in the car after a "friendly" conversation.

McCurry and Smith later recovered Buck's car, abandoned at Sixth and Texas Ave.

Army officials indicated court martial proceedings would be filed, police investigators said.

Three negro boys, all juveniles, were paroled Friday afternoon by Walter Davies, sitting as a juvenile judge, after a hearing on a petition accusing them, or some of them, with having burglarized or attempted burglary of 98 Lubbock business establishments in the last four months. They are 13, 14 and 16. One of them admitted only one "job" and theft of an electric motor, officials said. Another 13-year-old, a white boy, who was described as having been sentenced to a reform institution from Big Spring for car theft, was recommitted to the school. He had been on parole, officials said.

Connally Drafting Treaty Reservation

WASHINGTON, March 23 (AP)—Senator Connally (D-Tex) announced in the Senate today he is drafting a reservation to the United States-Mexico water treaty which would define and limit powers of an International commission proposed to operate the pact.

The senate resumed consideration of the treaty this afternoon.

Interrupting Senator Hawkes (R-NJ) who was reading a letter from Former President Herbert Hoover criticizing several aspects of the treaty, Connally said he would have the reservation ready for submission next week.

Hoover said in his letter that the pact "foreshadows the more important postwar treaties to come and is an ominous precedent."

Connally, who is chairman of the Senate Foreign relations committee, said his reservation would make it entirely clear that the international commission would have no authority to spend money except as funds were provided by Congress.

The reservation also would ban any interference by the commission with state laws or the operation of federal agencies, Connally said.

New Compress Placed In Operation Here

Operation of Lubbock's newest compress plant, the West Texas Compress at Twenty-third and Ave. E, was begun at 9 o'clock Friday morning when Mayor O. W. Ribble blew the whistle for the "begin work" signal.

The compress, under construction since last September, is located on industrial property being developed by the Santa Fe railroad in that area. The compress is of the latest type of construction and equipment. It will turn out approximately 1,000 bales of compressed cotton a day.

Dudley Repp is superintendent of the plant, owned by Arch S. Underwood. J. P. Brooks, who recently moved here from Slaton, is chief engineer. The plant will employe a crew of approximately 50 men.

Eighteen German prisoners of war are working in the compress in addition to a crew of approximately 30 negroes.

Surrounding the compress is approximately 40,000 bales of cotton stored on the ground.

Lend-lease cotton was being compressed at the plant today.

A person can freeze to death quicker in heavy wool clothing than in lighter, more porous garb, the Germans learned in their Russian campaigns.

MP Center Moved From Barksdale

SHREVEPORT, March 23. (U.P.)—The military police training center which has been located at Barksdale field here has been moved this week to Cuckly field, Denver, Colo., it was announced today by Col. William B. Wright, commanding officer at Barksdale field.

Simultaneously, it was announced that French combat crews comprising flight section one have been transferred to Selfridge field, Mich., where they will continue their training in B-29 aircraft. Transfer of the French trainees marked the end of the medium bombardment phase at Barksdale field. From now on the mission of the base will be the training of very heavy bombardment crews in B-29s, an increasing number of which have been arriving at the field in recent weeks.

The French department arrived at Barksdale field last May to form combat crews in the replacement training unit after they had received specialized instruction. The pilots trained at Big Spring, Tex., or Dodge City, Kan., the radio operators at Scott field, Ill., the gunners at Denver, Colo., and the engineers at Deesler field, Miss.

The military police training center, under Lt. Col. Benedict Ray, was transferred to Barksdale field from Camp Barkeley, Tex., on February 19, 1944.

A's Bats Batter Coast Guard Nine

BALTIMORE, March 23. (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics turned back the Curtis Bay (Md.) Coast Guard team today 14-13 in the first game of the season for both.

The A's came through with the winning run in the eighth after a slam bang seventh inning in which 24 batters came to the plate. Charley Metro, who is fighting for a regular post with the Athletics, turned in the best performance, leading off the attack that clinched the game.

He doubled to left in the eighth with bases loaded, scoring two runs. Joe Burns followed with a single, bringing in Dick Siebert and Metro.

DUROCHER, BORDAGARAY KISS AND MAKE UP

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y., March 23. (AP)—Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers and French Bordagaray, who engaged in a verbal row yesterday, dismissed the incident as a trivial matter today.

The practice session today featured a six-inning contest between the Durochers and the Betzels. It opened with a home run blast by Luis Olmo, centerfielder. Stan Andrews, catcher, also was a home run hitter for the Durochers, who won 4 to 2.

CARDS GIVE UP, TO GO TO HOME PARK

CAIRO, Ill., March 23. (AP)—The flooded-out St. Louis Cardinals have given up hope of accomplishing a spring training program here and will move the camp to Sportsmans Park, St. Louis, over the week-end.

Catcher Walker Cooper and Delbert Rice, a rookie catcher from Rochester of the International League, have signed contracts and were in uniform for today's limited drill.

FLASHY INFIELD STAR JOINS PHILLIE SQUAD

WILMINGTON, Del., March 23. (AP)—Shortstop Bitsy Mott arrived in the Philadelphia Phillies camp today from his Tampa, Fla., home bringing the Phils infield complement to full strength.

Last year at Utica, Mott paired with second baseman Fred Daniels in what was recognized as the smoothest keystone combination in the Eastern League. Daniels, also with the Phils, underwent a back operation today which will keep him on the sidelines for at least a month.

TIGER STAR PASSES INDUCTION PHYSICAL

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 23. (AP)—The Detroit Tigers, planning their first intra-squad game tomorrow, held a long fielding drill today.

Manager Jack Zeller announced that Forest Orrell, 26-year-old right-hander who won eight games against a single defeat last season with Buffalo, has passed his induction physical examination and was not expected to report for spring training. Seven players still are missing from the Tigers' training camp.

WASHINGTON SENATORS OPEN PLAY TODAY

WASHINGTON, March 23. (AP)—The Washington Senators opened their spring exhibition schedule tomorrow against the Coast Guard team at Curtis Bay, Md. Manager Ossie Bluege plans to use principally youngsters.

YANKEE RIGHTHANDER GETS FIRST WORKOUT

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 23 (AP)—Emerson Roser, 210-pound right hander, had his first workout today as the New York Yankees resumed outdoor drills after two days inside the hanger because of rain. Classified 2-B in the draft, Roser had been working in a sheet metal plant in Utica, N. Y.

BOSTON BRAVES NAME FIRST STARTING LINEUP

WASHINGTON, March 23. (AP)—Manager Bob Coleman of the Boston Braves today announced his starting lineup for Sunday's Red Cross benefit game with the Washington Senators at College Park, Md.:

Wietetmann, ss.; Ramsey, cf.; Shupe, 1b.; Gillenwater, rf.; Wentzel, lf.; Masi, c.; Drews, 2b.; Shemo, 3b.; Hutchins, Wallace and Cozart, p.

PIRATE BATS BEAT OUT LOUD, HARD TUNE

PITTSBURGH, March 23. (AP)—Advance notice of the rejuvenated batting power of the Pittsburgh Pirates arrived today in the form of consistent, hard clouts that landed against the McCulloch field scoreboard, fence and bleachers.

Jim Russell cracked one for 382 feet against the scoreboard and third baseman Bob Elliott sailed one to the banks of the White river in two of the longest hits against six hurlers who took the mound today under the watchful eye of Acting Manager Spud Davis.

GIANTS LEAVE FOR GAME AT BAINBRIDGE

LAKEWOOD, N. J., March 23 (AP)—Following a brisk one-hour workout, the New York Giants' squad of 25 and six Jersey City players left today for Bainbridge, Md., for a three-game series.

Napoleon Reyes, third baseman who is suffering from an abcess as a result of having a tooth pulled and Joe Medwick, who is recovering from a dislocated sacroiliac, didn't accompany the squad.

YANKEE STAR TOLD HE'S BACK IN 1-A

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 23 (AP)—George Stirnweiss, New York Yankees' second baseman, was notified late today by his Kent, Conn., draft board that he had been reclassified from 4-F to 1-A.

Stirnweiss, suffering from stomach ulcers first had been rejected for military service in the spring of 1943. No date was announced for his physical examination.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., Mar. 23 (AP) — The St. Louis Browns whipped their Toledo farm club of the American Association for the third straight time today, 12 to 1.

Veteran hurlers Al Hollingsworth and Tex Shirley each allowed the minor leagues three hits. The American League champions collected 16 blows, three of them by Pete Gray, one-armed centerfielder.

GRIMES CALLED UP

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 23 (AP)—Oscar Grimes, New York Yankee infielder, must report at the Cleveland Induction center next Wednesday for a physical examination, he was notified today.

FAMOUS JOCKEY DIES

LONDON, March 23 (AP)—Steve Donoghue, famous jockey who had won six British Derbys, died today at the age of 60, after an illness of only 24 hours.

Porkers, Aggies In Cage Playoff

KANSAS CITY, March 23 (AP) Oklahoma A. and M. college, paced by Bob Kurkland who tallied 28 points, dumped Utah, 62-37, tonight to enter the finals of the NCAA, Western division championships after Arkansas university had piled up a record tournament score to beat Oregon university, 79-76.

Bill Flynt's free toss and field goal in the final 14 seconds gave Arkansas its victory margin in the wild scoring game played before approximately 6,000 fans.

The teams scored a total of 155 points in 40 minutes of play for an average of almost four points a minute.

The score was deadlocked three times in the last four minutes, 72-72, 74-74, and 76-all.

Phillips 66 Battles Denver In AAU Final

DENVER, March 23 (AP)—Denver Ambrose won its way into the finals of the National AAU basketball tournament by crushing the Wichita, Kans., Cessna Bobcats 43-28 tonight in City auditorium.

In the other semi-final contest, Phillips "66" of Bartlesville, Okla., defeated Twentieth Century-Fox of Hollywood 62-52, pitting Denver Ambrose and the Oilers in the finals tomorrow night.

The Moviemen stayed close through the first half but faded rapidly after Frank Lubin, their scoring star, went out on fouls, four minutes after intermission.

Lubin's spectacular post play had largely offset the Oilers' quick-scoring thrusts. The Hollywood forward scored 19 points before he left the game.

Phillips started its fire-wagon tactics with the opening whistle, raced down the court on offense and fought for the ball when Lubin's boys had control.

Haegg Wins Initial Race Of Track Tour

CLEVELAND, March 23 (AP) — Gunder Haegg, Sweden's great middle distance runner, won the first victory of his 1945 American tour tonight, edging out Forest Efaw of Bainbridge Naval Training Station by three feet.

In the featured race of the fifth annual Knights of Columbus games, Gunder's time was 4 minutes, 16.7 seconds, 2.2 seconds slower than his figure at Chicago last week when he finished 12 feet behind Jimmy Rafferty of New York, winner of the previous three miles in which Haegg had competed on his current tour.

The Swedish Swiftie took the lead for good at the eighth lap after he had motioned to Rudy Simms of New York U. to set the pace. Simms did not comply and Haegg was forced to set his own pace.

Before the event Haegg said he intended to take the lead at the sixth lap. He had hoped to turn in a 4:12 mile but said the straightaways on the arena track were too short for his liking.

Crippled Westerners Head For Amarillo Track Events

Badly crippled, but with a full squad, the Lubbock Westerners leave in two shifts this morning for Amarillo for the District 1-AA invitation track and field show on Butler field.

Coach Marlin R. "Shorty" Hayhurst plans to take 19 men to Amarillo for the events, and will have a Lubbock Westerner in every event on the card, but the team will be badly crippled in the dashes, and sprint relay, with four top men being left at home.

Jack McClelland, George Brewer, Charley Funk and Rhea Bradley will be the four dash men left in Lubbock.

Just who will make up the Lubbock squad was not named by Hayhurst, prior to leaving for Amarillo.

The tennis boys will not make the trip to Amarillo, because of the lack of time for arranging for transportation for the tennis team.

The preliminaries at Amarillo are scheduled for 10:30 o'clock this morning, with finals being run off in the afternoon. All events will not call for preliminaries, so those entered in events with preliminaries are scheduled to leave early. Others will leave about two hours later.

It was learned here Friday that the Pampa Harvesters had withdrawn from the meet, leaving only Plainview, Borger, Amarillo and Lubbock boys to compete.

Mauriello Gets Nod In Third Oma Fight

NEW YORK, March 23. (AP)—A rejuvenated Tami Mauriello, cast in the role of 14 to 5 underdog, jumped back into the heavyweight picture tonight with a decisive 10-round decision over Lee Oma in their third and rubber bout at Madison Square Garden.

Looking in the pink of condition at 199½ pounds, Mauriello, a New Yorker who thought of retiring after losing to Oma several months ago, punished the Detroiter unmercifully this time with long overhand rights to the ribs and head. He had Oma, 181, hanging on in the closing rounds when his two-fisted attack brought Oma close to a knockout.

Mauriello lost the third round because of a low blow, but despite this won a unanimous decision. Judge Joe Agnello voted it eight rounds to two; Judge Harold Barnes, seven, two and one even; and Referee Johnny Burns seven and three. The Associated Press agreed with Barnes, 7-2-1.

POLY COACH NAMED

FORT WORTH, March 23 (AP) Johnny Kitchen, former Texas Christian university football player who has coached at Eastland, Donna and Port Arthur High schools, has been named head coach of Poly High here, succeeding Luther Scarborough, who now is vice-principal at Handley.

Sewell In Top Shape For Coming Campaign

MUNCIE, Ind., March 23. (AP)—Truett Banks Sewell, who is crowding "37", reports his legs, wind and tantalizing "blooper pitch" all are primed for his third straight 20-game season.

If the Pittsburgh Pirates, virtually intact from last season's second place finish, catch the spring-time enthusiasm of the "Rip," the champion St. Louis Cardinals are a collection of dead birds.

In his first work-out this week, Sewell toiled three innings with the jubilant zeal of a rookie. He threw his slow-motion dive bomb pitch, was swinging at the plate like Joe Di Maggio and running the bases with Cobb-like fervor.

"I could have gone nine innings," he said. "I'm in great shape—weight 185, the same as when I quit last season. I'd be ready to get right in there if the season opened tomorrow."

Sewell isn't too chesty, though. "A pitcher has to get all the breaks all the way to win 20 games," he asserted.

The Cardinals, who finished far ahead of the runner-up Pirates last season, better hope Sewell doesn't get "all the breaks" this summer.

The ace right hander finished with a 21-12 record last season despite a touch of pleurisy that had him on the ropes for almost a month.

Sewell, who is 4-F because of a hunting accident which occurred Dec. 7, 1941, the day of the Pearl Harbor attack, said he crowded as much hunting, golf and hiking as he could into his winter stay at Plant City, Fla.

Hunt, Bean Divide Volleyball Honors

The Bean Bronchos girls cracked the winning streak of the Hunt Pioneers Friday afternoon in a bitterly contested battle of unbeaten girls volleyball teams in the Lubbock grade school conference, winning 39 to 38 in an overtime session.

The Hunt boys were hard pressed to retain their winning streak, but nosed out a 23 to 21 win over the Bronchos.

The two undefeated girls teams tied up 29-29 at the end of the regulation time, and in the ten minute overtime session, Bean's nosed out to take the undisputed leadership in the girls division of the race.

TIGERS "SHAPING UP"

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 23. (AP) — Detroit Manager Steve O'Neill said today that the team was "shaping up all right and we will be up in the race." Loss of Third Baseman Mike (Pinky) Higgins to military service yesterday was a serious but not irreparable blow, he said.

Revolta Leads Greensboro Open

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 23 (AP)—Johnny Revolta, one-putting nine greens, breezed in with a three under par 68 today to grab a two-shot lead in the first round of the $7,500 Greensboro Open golf tournament.

The Evanston, Ill., putting artist canned 20-footers on the ninth and 13th holes and needed only seven putts on the last six greens as he made his best start since winning the Texas Open last year. He went out in 35 and back in 33.

In second place were two former winners here, Sammy Byrd and Byron Nelson, and an amateur from Raleigh, N. C., Avery Beck.

Byrd, the one time Yankee outfielder who won his first golf tournament here in 1942, the last time it was held, and Beck recorded steady 35-35—70s. Nelson, victor in the Charlotte Open Wednesday, was three over par through ten holes after three-putting eight and 10, on both of which he missed two-footers, but birdied four of the last six holes for a card of 37-33—70.

Sammy Snead, who lost at Charlotte in a playoff with Nelson, and co-favorite with Byron here, used up 39 strokes on the rugged first nine and required 72 holes while Jug McSpaden, another favorite, needed 40-36 for a big 76.

Rice And Ellington Battle To 4-4 Tie

HOUSTON, March 23. (AP)—Rice Institute and Ellington Field played to a 4-4 tie here today, the game being called under a 6 o'clock rule for Rice's Naval trainees. Hector Arroyo, Rice right hander, worked the first seven innings, giving up but one hit and fanning 7 batsmen. Ed Murphey, shortstop, took over the mound and was nicked for three runs that enabled Ellington to tie the score.

Rumor Still Linking Norton To UCLA Job

COLLEGE STATION, March 23 (AP)—Homer Norton, head man of Texas A. and M. football for more than a decade, isn't talking other than that he's "perfectly satisfied" with his present job, but there are strong indications he'll turn up as head coach of University of California at Los Angeles next fall.

UCLA's athletic council is due to select a mentor March 28 to succeed the resigned Babe Horrell. Norton is reported to have been offered the position.

Norton says: "I picked A. and M. 11 years ago and have been happy here. I'd hate to leave Texas and the Southwest. I have a contract for five years."

But from Los Angeles comes the report that Norton has asked for $2,000 more a year than the reported $12,500 paid Horrell. The reason is obvious. Norton's salary here is $10,000. It is indicated that bonuses from bowl games would bring his salary to around the figure paid Horrell. The Aggies have been in four bowl games in the past six years.

Norton's present contract expires in September. The board of directors recently voted a new five-year contract. But it isn't believed the board would want to hold him to it if he had a better opportunity elsewhere.

Norton produced three undefeated teams at Centenary in seven years before coming to A. and M. where he had an unbeaten outfit in 1939 and in eleven seasons won two Southwest conference titles and a tie for another.

Bill Kelley To Take City Recreation Job

Employment of Bill Rex Kelley as athletic director at the Community Center, 'teen-age center at Sixth street and Avenue B, was announced Friday by A. C. Hamilton, superintendent of the city recreation department.

Kelley, a freshman student at Texas Technological college, was an outstanding basketball player at Idalou from 1940 through 1944 and was captain of the basketball team in 1944 and was on the district team that year. He also played baseball three years.

He will work at the center from 4 to 7 p.m. Mondays through Fridays and 7 to 10:30 p.m. Saturdays, supervising baseball, volleyball and other athletics.

Pirates Homer Noses By Texas Aggies, 4-3

GEORGETOWN, March 23. (AP)—Southwestern's Pirates pulled a ninth inning rally today to defeat Texas A. and M., 4-3, to even the two-game baseball series between the two schools.

Deadlocked at one run each going into the eighth inning, the A. and M. nine scored two runs. Then Frank Means, former Brackenridge of San Antonio High school star, homered with two men on base to give Southwestern the tilt.

A. and M., won the first game, 9-2, yesterday.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

A Worthwhile Project

Perhaps Texas Can Do It, Too

FOR every school child the beginning of a worthwhile library that shall be his very own. This project of the New York City Board of Education, to distribute six volumes of standard fiction to each pupil when old enough to appreciate them and take pride in their care, is downright inspiring.

These books will be bound in paper, but they will be none the less attractive on that account. Their youthful owners will be encouraged to design paper covers of their own, to make book ends, even book shelves, when their own proud additions to these library nuclei become necessary. Some who are interested enough will even have opportunity to learn book binding.

At the outset the board of education will publish 100,000 copies each of six volumes, including Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer," Stevenson's "Treasure Island," a somewhat condensed version of Dickens' "David Copperfield" and anthology of American short stories that have rigidly stood the test of time, along with which will be included Shakespeare's "The Tempest."

Year after year approved titles will be added, so that the recipients of the books, ranging from the highest elementary grades through junior high school, may have greater range of selection. Cost of the paper volumes, school authorities think, will not be prohibitive.

Perhaps this plan will bring into thousands of unlettered homes, or at least into homes where there are only a few foreign language books, much of the best in American and English literature. Everybody who feels keenly the satisfactions derivable from the printed word will wish this New York experiment to succeed, and will hope it spreads.

Something very much like the New York plan might well be put into effect in Texas some day—especially in the years after we have gained a firm financial foundation and the state has built up some sort of cash reserve.

U. S. Homes Of The Future

IN postwar times some Americans probably will live in magnesium houses. If that sounds prophetic, no less an authority on magnesium and its uses than Dr. Willard H. Dow, president of the Dow Chemical company, is given as authority for the statement. President Dow was testifying before the small business committee of the United States Senate.

In pointing out how small business would benefit from wider use of magesium, Dr. Dow listed 15 fields. They were aircraft, motor cars, textile machinery, oil field equipment, automatic tools, cathodic protection, sporting goods, household appliances, rail equipment, shipping containers, printing presses, furniture, garden tools, home construction and toys.

There will never be a shortage of magnesium. Enough of it is going to waste to supply an enormous demand. It is trickling out of brine from oil wells. The oceans are filled with it. Dr. Dow estimates that in a square mile of ocean there are 9,000,000 pounds of magnesium.

The Dow company has a plant taking the metal from the Gulf of Mexico at Freeport, Texas, at a cost of 20 cents a pound. As magnesium is lighter than aluminum a pound of it comprises considerable bulk. President Dow did not go into detail about the prospect of building houses of magnesium but the prospect is intriguing.

Any prospect having to do with home construction is intriguing, especially when one remembers that the immediate postwar era will find millions of Americans—more than ever before—ready, or planning, to build new and modern homes for themselves and their families.

It's A Lot Of Clothing!

MANY an American never realized the magnitude of this nation's day-by-day business until the federal government began issuing regulations. It was realized the daily merchandise needs of 130,000,000 people, enjoying the highest standard of living in the world, must be colossal, but when figures are revealed, they assume astronomical proportions.

Illustrative of this is the program contained in Order M-328-b issued by the War Production board the other day to meet requirements in certain clothing lines for 1945. This programs calls for the production of 17,460,000 men's, boys' and infants' cold weather garments by the end of the year. The project calls for approximately 7,500,000 infants' and children's snow suits, legging sets and snow or ski pants, and for 9,960,000 men's, boys' and juveniles' mackinaws, peacoats and cossack jackets.

That's a powerful lot of clothing in anybody's language—including, of course, the Scandanavian!

A Song To Remember

By Willard Wiener

(Copyright, 1944, NEA Service, Inc.)

THE STORY: In 1832 Poland is still under the Russian yoke, her peasants are chained to a vicious feudal system and any demonstration for freedom is immediately put down by the soldiers of the Czar. Frederic Chopin is 22, has gained distinction as a pianist in his home village of Zelazowa Wola and some celebrity as a composer, even in Warsaw. The night he is to play at Count Wodzinski's dinner party the whole Chopin family prepares excitedly for the event, although Professor Elsner warns they will only be allowed to listen from the pantry.

NICHOLAS CHOPIN PUTS HIS FOOT DOWN

Nicholas Chopin showed in the doorway. After an exchange of greetings, he said: "Tell me, do you think Frederic will play well tonight?"

"—I think, Nicolas, he will play well enough for Count Wodzinski. Yes, the Count will be able to digest his food without any trouble."

"That is not what I have in mind, Josef."

Josef Elsner stretched his neck out of his collar to look up at Nicolas Chopin.

"It is important he play well tonight."

Jozef Elsner's chin was upraised. "You think so?"

"The Count may decide tonight that Frederic will teach at the Conservatorium—"

"—Umm. No better place anywhere to bury him."

"I think we do not see eye to eye on that."

"—Certainly not, Monsieur. Definitely not!"

"Then I am the better judge, knowing our circumstances as intimately—"

Mamma Chopin broke in sharply. "Nicolas! This is not the time nor place—"

"And there's something else, Jozef. I've been wanting to tell you for a long time. It won't do for you to set Frederic's head against me—"

"—Me!"

"You." Nicolas Chopin waved his hands. "Ideas about revolutions — Poland rising in revolt. Dangerous talk, Professor — very dangerous. You will do better, I think, to keep your radical ideas to yourself."

"—Nicolas, my good warm friend, you don't think that I—"

"Not at all. I'll use your own words. I don't think. I know!" Nicolas Chopin's lean jaw set. "Am I blind, that I don't see? Deaf, that I don't hear?" He paused. "Frederic," he said slowly, "has been attending secret meetings—"

Mamma Chopin paled. "Are you sure?"

* * *

"Positive. And that, my dear, is the answer to his association with Jan and Tytus and that girl Konstancja — and all the other young firebrands. What would they have him do? God only knows. Uprisings—revolutions—! "After all," said Nicolas Chopin, "Frederic wasn't born with hands to carry guns—"

Jozef Elsner said: "Well, with that, of course, I agree completely—"

"Then, Jozef, you will do us the great honor to keep Frederic's mind and fingers on music, and away from guns—"

"—Music?" The old man was bewildered. "What else but music? I am a musician, a teacher of music." His jaw worked at a furious rate. "Yes, of course—all these years—only music. His mind, as you say, must be kept on that. Well, yes, naturally—and in that way, in music, he will serve his people—"

Nicolas Chopin said: "There is no better way to serve than by becoming great in one's own profession."

"—My very words — what I've been saying for years—"

"And what greater recognition, Professor—to say nothing of the security that goes with it—than regular employment as a teacher at the Conservatorium?"

"—Oh, as to that— Well, I am only saying how much better for Frederic if he could find for himself a place—well, let us say—"

Mamma Chopin raised her eyes. "Paris again, Jozef?"

"—Did I say Paris? When did I last mention Paris?"

Izabela said, "You mentioned it last week, Professor."

Jozef Elsner touched his chin. He threw out his chest. He let out a "humph." "What did I tell you? I said nothing — not a word in seven days. But today—this is different. We can talk now with confidence. And why? Because today we could actually do it. Do you think I have been putting my money away for nothing?"

* * *

Nicolas Chopin said: "You will excuse me; I have no time today for Paris."

Jozef Elsner followed him. "If you don't mind, Nicolas, there is one little matter—"

"The money that is coming to you?"

"Forget it, Nicolas; I have already forgotten it. The truth is my head is on Frederic's concert tonight — the concert, yes, for Count Wodzinski. I think, if you don't mind, and also for his own good—Frederic should go over his music on my piano — say for an hour or two beforehand—that is, of course, if you don't mind—"

Mamma Chopin said: "But why, Professor?"

"—Well, for one thing, Madame—the tone. It is slightly different—I should say completely different — and, what is more, Frederic loves it. That's why I suggest an hour or two—it will relax him. Tonight, if he is to be at his best—well, I don't have to tell you—he must be completely relaxed—"

"If you think so, Professor—"

"—I do not think, Madame. I know! If it is all the same, let him come with me now—and stay through dinner—"

Nicolas Chopin glanced at his wife. Mamma Chopin nodded.

"Very well," Nicolas Chopin said. "Very well."

Tire Blowout Causes Fatal Traffic Mishap

DALLAS, March 23. (U.P.) —A tire blowout apparently caused the highway accident yesterday which resulted in the death of a woman, mother of three children, and serious injuries to three other persons, all employes of Consolidated Vultee's bomber plant at Fort Worth.

Mrs. Annie C. Ardry, 35, was killed when the car in which she and her companions were riding apparently blew out a front tire and crashed into a loaded oxygen tank-carrying truck parked beside the Dallas-Fort Worth highway, near Arlington.

Looking At Life - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

THE Rev. David, McConnell Steele, rector emeritus of the Episcopal Church of St. Luke and the Epiphany, died at his home in Philadelphia in his 72nd year.

Dr. Philip Steinmetz, an old friend, conducted a private committal service and only immediate members of his family were present.

Shortly before his death Dr. Steele had requested that his funeral should be that way.

BRANDEIS

"Death is worthy of the same privacy as birth," he said in a letter to his wife, and his wish was granted.

In my work as a newspaperman I have attended many funeral services and often I was amazed at their splendor and display.

I have seen thousands of dollars worth of caskets and other thousands of dollars worth of flowers and trappings.

The churches were packed with people, many of whom had never seen the deceased and outside of the church there were many other thousands looking on. And often the majority of these thousands outside were poor people, ill clad and ill fed.

I used to wonder at these funerals.

"Why all this pomp and all this waste of money?" I used to say to myself, "Wouldn't it be much better to have a simpler funeral and to give the money to the poor?"

But that is not all.

Many a time I have seen people spend hundreds of dollars that they needed badly to buy a splendid casket, to hire dozens of limousines and to make "a showing."

I know that the motive is good.

But I, for one, don't want that kind of a funeral.

WHEN my day is done I want to go as I have lived.

I want no long speeches of eulogy because I don't rate them. I want no floral pieces with "Rest in Peace" ribbons on them. I want no cortege of friends and acquaintances making long faces behind my hearse.

I want my friends to go about their daily tasks and say about me just what they said when I was alive (and from some of the letters I get from my readers that isn't any too flattering.)

I want the flowers to keep on blooming for the joy of others and I do not want them to wilt on my grave.

I want my casket to be no more elaborate than my cradle in which I spent my first days—and I know that wasn't any too elaborate.

* * *

I want my wife to come to the cemetery with me, just as she now comes to the station when I go away on a long trip.

And, when they put me down, I want her to say, just like she has many times before:

"Good bye dear, have a nice trip and get home safely."

Then I want her to go back home and keep on living just as she has done right along. And I want her to take care of my dog, which I know is going to miss me. Our pet will have a double duty by her when I am gone.

There wasn't much fuss made over me when I was born.

And I haven't done half the things my parents hoped for me when I was a baby.

Aren't we all a bit like that?

Who Can Speak For Germany?

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE difficulty of negotiating with Berlin for a German capitulation has been impressed on United Nations statesmen—Messrs. Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill—by their experiences with enemy spokesmen who have visited the Vatican four times in the last eight months to ask surrender terms.

All the emissaries who contacted the papal authorities in Rome talked big. Each characterized himself as representing influential interests in the Reich. They admitted that Germany faced a crushing defeat, but they argued that the destruction of Germany would end in economic chaos and the infiltration of Communism into the heart of Europe.

TUCKER

They warned that, unless accorded generous provisions, Hitler would try to carry the world down with him.

When these messages were relayed to Washington, London and Moscow, Rome was asked to ascertain whether the spokesmen could guarantee that Germany would lay down her arms. More specificaly, the holders of the olive branch were requested to make clear whom they represented. Not a single go-between could furnish evidence that he could deliver the goods.

To make a fantastic comparison, it is as if the United States were in danger of the collapse which confronts the Nazis. In such an event, numerous groups in this country might try to treat with the invaders. The United States Chamber of Commerce, the American Federation of Labor or the American Farm Bureau Federation might presume to inquire about terms. Naturally, they could not speak for the Government at Washington.

So far no German empowered to represent Adolf Hitler or the Nazi party has approached the Allies with a proposal for surrender or even an armistice.

* * *

SPREE: In backstage conferences with the heads of the War Production board and the War Manpower commission, James F. Byrnes has set up safeguards designed to prevent the American people, especially employes in Victory plants, from going on a spree as soon as Hitler falls. It is not generally appreciated, but the President's emergency powers give him full authority to keep the nation geared to military peak and production in every walk of life.

There can be no exodus from war factories to industries engaged in manufacture of civilian goods, as so many administration spokesmen have forecast in urging enactment of further controls.

By the new Byrnes dictum, WPB will not release materials that will enable firms to switch from making weapons to putting out consumer articles. Even if they have completed current contracts, they will be given new assignments based on the prospect of a two- or three-year conflict in the Far East.

WORKERS: Manpower Commissioner Paul McNutt, who must take orders, willy-nilly, from the War Mobilizer or President Roosevelt, will intervene to prevent workers who quit a war industry from getting employment anywhere else. He enjoys that authority now, even if Congress eventually enacts the voluntary form of the work-or-fight bill.

Should the defeat of Germany lead to a psychological letdown, War Mobilizer Byrnes is ready with a new list of bans. If necessary, he will step up the curfew hour to 10 o'clock, prohibit baseball even in emaciated and emasculated form and take every other possible joy out of life.

What the American people, and even the Congress, do not realize is that they have surrendered themselves to Washington for the duration.

Worst of it is that, in view of reports of Japan's plan to fight it out on the Chinese mainland for several years, federal dictation may seem necessary and reasonable until the Stars and Stripes are hoisted over Hirohito's last palace.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

NEW YORK stores, blessed by spring weather, are mobbed with women buying everything they can lay their hands on for the Easter parade—and to stock up against the coming famines.

Cash registers ring up record sales. Expensive items move faster than cheaper ones; today's shoppers judge quality by the price tag. But there are yawning gaps on shelves that probably will remain empty for months.

The clean-out will not be felt at the same time everywhere in the country; some concerns still have fairly large inventories. But trade associations warn that shortages are inevitable as many lines are no longer manufactured.

As soon as the new OPA low-priced clothing directive hits the retailers—probably by May or June—women will discover to their astonishment that many luxury materials will be off the market. Some firms are now "salting away" costlier piece goods and garments that will not be affected by style changes so that regular customers will not be disappointed in the summer and fall.

LEMAN

At present, women's and children's apparel reserves are about 25 per cent below those of last year; men's clothing supplies are slightly higher.

But husbands should check their smiles—suits and overcoats for them will reach the vanishing point by autumn—the Army-Navy is calling for huge numbers of battle jackets and heavy garments which will monopolize the looms. Summer worsteds and light suits will be at least fifty per cent under the offerings of 1944.

The WPB program for more children's clothing has struck a snag; there will be less than was estimated, especially underwear. Factories are held up in obtaining the required yarns for spinners. Even when these are delivered, manpower dearths slow output.

Women will find fewer selections in many shops because managements, fearing loss of customer confidence, are cutting down on their inferior quality stocks of woolen linings, rayons, part-wool fabrics, no-stretch elastics and children's overalls and sweaters.

CRITICISM: From the Atlantic to the Pacific there will be howls of protest when the public learns of the types of goods already shipped abroad.

New York manufacturers charge that choice percale, which ought to be made into sheets, pillow cases and house dresses for American women, has been sent to North Africa and Italy.

The shortage in men's underwear is one of the worst. Obviously gobs and doughfoots need a great deal. But this week purchasing agents of a branch of the Federal Economic administration were seeking athletic shirts and shorts to send to South Sea natives, who up to now got along pretty well with G-strings and grass skirts. Federal officials explain that we pay the ex-cannibals in underwear instead of money (they have no use for currency) to keep them unloading guns, ammunition, food and gasoline for our Pacific fighters.

Within reasonable limits, it is entirely ethical for a man to lie to a woman in order to compliment her on her appearance, but under current fashions in millinery to tell her she's wearing an attractive hat widely exceeds these limits.

A Detroit woman asked the police to help her recover a bustle she lost in a motion picture theater. If we were a woman and lost a bustle in a picture show, we wouldn't let on.

If motion picture directors were the sticklers for realism they claim to be, once in a while they'd let the heroine pick up a telephone and get the wrong number.

Note to the "temperamental" person: The American Red Cross his figured you out to a T. In a handbook it says, "Hysteria seldom occurs unless there is an audience."

Getting Supplies To Front Is War, Too . . .

An Army Moves On Its Stomach

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

CARNETAN, France. — It's a pleasure to run into one of those oldline, regular Army officers, seasoned from long service, blunt, bluff, but with a big heart for the safety and comfort of the soldier who serves with him, endowed with a sense of humor and tolerance and a beneficent sort of wisdom about the world and its people, its soldiers and its wars.

STOKES

A fighting man, with no time for frills, for the frothy social life about headquarters, for the niceties that pay off in promotions. A direct fellow, quick to speak his mind to his superiors to get a job done.

There are many of them, a few among the generals, but more somewhat further down.

It was a real treat to have one of this breed, Col. Eugene M. Caffey of Atlanta, Ga., for my companion for a day and as a guide to "Utah" beach, one of the two Normandy beaches over which the American armies plunged into France, and over which were poured the supplies for that army.

Moves On Its Stomach

Colonel Caffrey commanded the first special engineer brigade, one of the three which came over with the invading armies. These were units of the army service forces, that vast organization which prepared the way for the invading armies back in England, for their transport, food, munitions and medical care, and then set up a base here. The first brigade on "Utah" and the fifth and sixth at "Omaha," the other landing beach, did the housekeeping job. It is not glamorous, but it is so essential. For an army does move on its stomach.

The first special engineer brigade, in the landing here, fought side by side with the infantry and the artillery and the others who gave up their lives here. The armies have marched on, getting glory in the headlines, but Colonel Caffey and many others like him have had to stay behind.

For a long time they moved the stuff forward over these beaches, until the ports were captured. Then they had to clean out the obstructions left behind by the Germans in the harbors and organize the transport systems, build roads and repair the railways, a mammoth job of which no military bard ever sings.

Reminded Of "Old Bill"

Colonel Caffey has been through it all. He now is in charge of the Normandy base division which includes Cherbourg. He has taken a lot. He is built for it, a big, broad-shouldered strapping fellow, slightly stooped, with a bristly mustache and a pug-nose, somewhat reminiscent of the better 'ole "Old Bill" in cartoons of World war I.

He lives his job. He is proud of his brigade.

He talks about this beach and the operations here with a fondness that gets into you. It's personal with him. I noticed it first as we rode through the countryside to "Utah" beach in the way he pointed out the land marks.

ONCE on the beach, he developed a noticeable timidity of spirit compounded of a deep pride and a deep humility. There was the feeling you get when you enter one of those great cathedrals in this country. Then he walked up the steps to a simple memorial, a white obelisk, with the red sea horse, the symbol of the amphibious engineers. Below, in a vaulted room, are inscribed the names of the scores who lost their lives here. This memorial was built under Colonel Caffey's direction through volunteer contributions.

"Not a cent of taxpayers money," he said, bluntly. Just as bluntly he ordered me off the grass which surrounded the monument as we turned to leave.

Colonel Caffey is a veteran of beach landings in Africa, Sicily, and Salerno, before "Utah" in France. That was war. He looks back upon it with vivid memories.

Now he is tied up with all the routine of getting supplies from his area to the front, of the problems of administering his province, about none of which there is the fire and drama of war.

But that is war, too.

We sometimes forget that.

House Passes Bill On Leasing Land

AUSTIN, March 23. (AP) — A measure whose sponsor said would bring the state a neat two million dollars in the next two years has been passed by the House and sent to the Senate yesterday.

It gives the state authority to renew and extend oil and gas leases of certain public lands including islands, Saltwater lakes and bays, river beds, inlets, marshes and reefs.

Rep. Homer Leonard Of McAllen, explaining the measure, said that because of oil proration, full development of the oil potentialities of much of this land has been impossible in the 25 years to which such leases have been limited. He said Land Commissioner Bascom Giles estimated the renewal of these leases would bring the state $2,000,000 in the next two years.

"REMINDER" SUGGESTED

LONDON, March 23. (AP)—Capt. Sir William Bass, Conservative suggested to Commons today that a badly bombed section of Berlin be preserved in its state of devastation as a reminder that Germany started the war. He said Prime Minister Churchill should incorporate the proposal in surrender terms.

House Gives Speedy Okay To Draft Law

WASHINGTON, March 23. (AP)—A one-year draft law extension bill sped through the House today in less time than it takes a draft board to make a man 1-A.

Less than five minutes was required to dispose of the measure. Army spokesmen had urged that the draft machinery be kept intact.

There was no debate—only a brief explanation of the 11-line bill by Chairman May (D-Ky) of the military committee.

There was not even a vote, passing coming under procedure by which a single objection could have delayed consideration. But the absence of an objection automatically passed the bill.

The legislation continues in operation until not later than May 15, 1946, the selective training and service act of 1940 and implementing amendments approved since then.

Should the war on all fronts be over before May 15, 1946, the draft law would be dead. Should it still be raging at that time, an additional extension would have to be considered by Congress.

When all the returns were counted, Diamond found out few, if any, were figuring on hitting the high and hot spots when they get back.

"In order of their popularity" Diamond reports on postwar plans, "these were the exact intentions:

"To return to school.

"To get back to work (particularly the married men).

"To travel (in the U. S.)

"To marry and settle down."

Pfc. Jack Mance, a Browning automatic rifle operator, from Evansville, Ind., wants the home folks to know "I'm still human."

"I haven't changed a bit" he declares, "and tell my wife she'd better not change either—or I'll really be browned off."

As for any possibility that they'll be coming home "trigger happy" T/4 Harold W. Kunde, who came over from Princeton, Ia., 36 months ago, wants it understood he won't even shoot a rabbit when he gets back.

"Say," he grinned "after what I've been through, I'll know what the rabbit will feel like with bullets bouncing around him."

"I won't be any different mentally, than when I first came over 37 months ago," says soft-spoken Lt. Gyle Herron, of Scotch Grove, Ia., who won his commission on the battlefield. "And I sure don't want anyone making sacrifices for me. I'll make my own."

Death Sentence Holds In McLennan Murder

AUSTIN, March 23. (AP)—The board of pardons and paroles today announced that it had denied the application of Robert J. Holloway for commutation of sentence from death to life imprisonment.

Holloway is scheduled to be executed in the electric chair in the state prison at Huntsville after midnight March 24. He was convicted of murder in McLennan county in connection with the death of W. H. Braswell at McGregor in January 1944.

Russian Front

said Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian Army had burst westward from captured Kuestrin, 38 miles east of Berlin, attacking with six infantry divisions and two tank brigades.

"After terrific artillery drumfire lasting 90 minutes and subsequent bombardment from the air," the report said, "Red Army infantry, supported by waves of tanks, opened up the assault. The enemy managed to breakthrough our front and spearhead reached Golzow."

Claimed Checked

The broadcast claimed that Zhukov's troops were checked at Golzow—apparently their deepest thrust west of the Oder barrier—and that the Germans went over to a counter-attack. "The Russians hit back again, but their attacks failed in the face of our determined opposition. The battle stills sways to and fro," the Nazi report said.

In upper Silesia at least five keypoints barring the way to Czechoslovakia's Bohemian and Moravian fortresses and the Moravian gap leading to Prague and Vienna were menaced by swift-moving columns of Konev's First Ukrainian Army group.

Moscow dispatches said fighting was raging in the streets of Neisse and big Russian guns were shelling the defenses of Ziegenhals, strategic road and rail center of the railroad from Moravska-Ostrava to Prague and Dresden.

Ball Tells Of Rhine Crossing

in the moon-splashed fields and along the edges of woods near the Rhine. Engineers who had spent back-breaking months at home preparing for this show were on hand to help get the vehicles across.

A fleet of pint-sized artillery spotter planes, impressed into service as emergency one-man troop carriers, stood ready on a dozen uncharted wheat fields. The little cow-pasture transport force was to shuttle across the river, puttign down anywhere it could, if the doughboys storming the Rhine found more than they could handle. But the planes were not needed.

For months columns of trucks with their tons of assault boats had been edging toward the front at night and hiding out by day.

Sometimes they got in the way of swearing tankmen and played hob with traffic.

Put On Spurt And Make It

Along toward the end of the Third Army's recent sensational spurt to the Rhine they lagged uneasily behind, but they put on a spurt and were on the spot last night when needed.

For some of the doughboys it was their 20th river crossing. It was their most important, but not the most exciting. Not one man was lost in the actual crossing last night.

In groups of 12, the men began assembling along the tree-lined west bank after nightfall. There was a quiet command shortly after 10 o'clock and the first wave moved out on the shadows like pallbearers carrying their little assault boats with six men on each side.

With hardly a sound they slipped the boats into the water, climbed in, and the drive over the last major water barrier before Berlin was on. Moonlight was so brilliant the reflection on the water hurt the eyes.

Munitions Dump Burns

Besides the moonlight, the Germans had the advantage of direct observation by the light of an ammunition dump that was fired by an anti-tank gun during the afternoon and still was burning through the night, sending up towering pillars of flame and shaking the earth with explosions.

Between blasts I could hear only the heavy breathing of the men starting to make the over-water assault.

At 10:25 p.m. came this message from a walkie-talkie radio on the Rhine's right bank:

"Blank company across. No fire received at all. Everything quiet."

They Breathe Easier

Everybody breathed easier in the little riverside cottage where Lt. Col. William Birdsong of Greenville, Miss., had set up his command post.

"The engineers did a swell job getting the boats up without letting the Heinies know what was up. God bless 'em," said Pvt. Harry Saghbazarian of Watertown, Mass., the colonel's runner.

More men started across, their long boats dancing crazily on the only-slightly ruffled water which reflected the orange glow of fires on the east bank.

"We've either surprised hell out of them or they don't have it," commented Capt. Raymond Bitney of Bloomer, Wis.

"Maybe it's both," added Capt. Tober T. Gill of Charlotte, N. C.

"This is like a picnic," chimed in Pfc. F. B. Hibbs of Davenport, Ia., who added, "I crossed the Saar and the Moselle and this looks easy."

But The Picnic Ends

About that time the picnic ended. German burp guns on the other side cracked a few bursts. That was twenty minutes after the first doughboys pulled ashore.

"Let 'em shoot. This is old stuff now," said Pfc. Eric H. Doering, Chicago, as he started for the river.

"The boys who worked their way in are now getting some small arms fire," said Sgt. Robert C. Bradley of Durand, Mich., calling down from an upstairs window of the cottage. "Hitler must know where they are by now," added Lt. Don Larson of Oshkosh, Wis.

Then Things Pop

Things began popping then along the Rhine. The Germans fired four orange signal flares and gunfire broke out all over the place. A couple of machineguns started firing blue tracers wildly our way. They didn't last long.

Infantrymen charged two nests and from the other side came blood-curdling screams. As the screams grew fainter Pfc. Evans Huffstetler of Charlotte, N. C., commented, "that was a Heinie. They all do when they get it—like stuck pigs."

Off to the right the doughboys charged.

"Come out you bastards. Come out," they were shouting. The Germans didn't come out; so the doughboys shot them out and moved on.

Why Don't They Quit?

"They know they are licked. Why don't they give up?" asked Pfc. Leonard Isenhour of Liberty, Mo.

"Damn the Germans anyway," Sgt. Kenneth A. Harris of Bedford, Ind, added as an afterthought.

"I've crossed 'em all from New York harbor to the Rhine," said Cpl. Walter Rainey of North Concord, N. H. "I guess we'll have to cross 'em all to Berlin."

Capt. Harry (Pete) Smith of Georgetown, Ky., who led the first wave across, had moved in swiftly from the river bank. It was time for Rainey and his comrades to move. He went over paired with Pfc. William Palcher of Kansas City, Kans. In midstream they passed a boat coming back with the first bag of five Nazi prisoners.

Recently Dumped There

The captives told Lt. Stephen Duke, Cleveland, they had been dumped on the river bank two days ago and did not even know the number of their regiment. Asked why they did not shoot, the Germans replied, "we were eating."

Lt. Col. Loyal Bewley, Bethlehem, Pa., poked his head into the command post and said he had crossed the Meuse with the same division 25 years ago and now was jumping the Rhine with it. "The same division was on our flank then as now," he added.

Two hours after the silent waters of the Rhine had been churned into action the Germans collected themselves and their artillery opened up. Mortars and anti-tank shells began slamming into the American positions on the banks.

A mortar tore a chunk out of the cottage command post and everybody decamped. Shells crashed into the yard, covering the men who had hurried out of the house with debris.

Time For Some Of It

"It's time we were getting some of it," calmly announced Capt. Merle Potter, formerly of the Minneapolis Star-Journal, now a public relations officer, who now was in on the big story.

American artillery, which had kept quiet, erupted into action and gave the Germans a hundred for one. Engineers, busy with their duties on the ground and on the water, ignored the two-way traffic of shells overhead.

"Hell, this Rhine is nothing but a creek," said Lt. David Spaulding, Portsmouth, Va., who commanded our boat. His men included Joe Wasiele of Scranton, Pa., and Severo Benfari, New York.

News Briefs

A 45-year-old negro woman was booked Friday night at the county jail for a liquor law violation charge after liquor board officers C. D. McClain and John Truly confiscated approximately a case of whisky in her Slaton home. Some of the whisky was found cached in a wall behind a large picture of Christ, the officers said.

Sheriff Roy Hillin of Crosby county authorized a search Friday afternoon for a black, 1937 Ford coach stolen in that county yesterday. The car bears 1942 Texas license 410-956.

Debbs Crawford, 23, of Lubbock was named in an indictment alleging burglary Feb. 9 of the Texas company's Floydada headquarters which was returned Thursday by a 110th district grand jury at Floydada, according to Texas Ranger Raymond Waters of Lubbock. Coupons good for 10,000 to 12,000 gallons of gasoline, approximately $47 in money and a $500 war bond were taken from the establishment, Waters estimated. Crawford was arrested in Lubbock a few hours after the burglary. He was acquitted this week in 99th district court of an automobile theft charge.

Firemen were called at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon to extinguish a blazing vat of kerosene at a garage operated at 812 Main by R. C. Badgett. The fuel was being heated with another liquid for use in washing car parts, firemen said. Only minor damage resulted, they said. At 11:45 a. m., they had made a run to 124 Ave. U to put out a fire in a feed stack believed set by a small child.

Aerial Assaults

fleets of RAF Lancasters blasted their supply links with 11-ton obliteration bombs and made direct attacks on enemy troop concentrations.

Ruhr Cratered, Isolated

Weeks of such terrific bombing have left the Ruhr cratered like the moon and isolated from the west of Germany amid a jumble of twisted rail lines, broken highways and demolished bridges.

Air crewmen described the weather as ideal for precision bombing. While they were stitching their ring of explosives around the Ruhr hundreds of fighter-bombers from continental bases hammered the inside of the ring in dawn-to-duck relays through palls of smoke. They began leaping to the attack even before the sun had risen.

With the Nazis' deadly jet planes driven from their forward bases, the American team of 1,250 Flying Fortresses and Liberators and 350 Mustangs carrying fragmentation bombs were unopposed in their smashes at rail lines.

Freight Yards Battered

Gladbeck, one of nine German communications centers hit yesterday came in for a mop-up attack today, along with the big Ruhr supply center of Recklingshausen. Nine other freight yards crammed with equipment for German armies were bombarded with extremely good results.

Some 3,500 tons of explosives were dumped on these Ruhr transportation spokes: Osnabrueck, Rheine, Muenster and Coesfeld to the north and Hengstey, Geisecke, Unna-Dortmund, Holzwickede and Siegen to the east and southeast.

A force of British Lancasters with 22,000 pound giants in their bomb bays knocked out a rail bridge at Bremen. Other Lancasters used six-ton bombs against a rail crossing northeast of Bielefeld.

The Air Ministry announced that six bridges or railway viaducts which form bottlenecks in the enemy's main supply lines have been shattered in recent attacks, and military men said the Ruhr could be considered isolated.

Efforts To Find U. S. Plane In Mexico Fail

MEXICO CITY, March 23. (AP)—All efforts to locate a missing U. S. military plane believed to have crashed in northern Mexico last Thursday or Friday, have been unsuccessful, the defense department was informed yesterday.

The Douglas plane C-47 was flying from San Antonio to Brownsville when last hear from.

Four U. S. military planes and a number of Mexican army planes have searched the frontier regions of Chihuahua, Sonora and Coahuila, defense officials said, without finding a sign of it. The U. S. pilots have returned to their posts north of the Rio Grande, and the search is being continued by Mexican troops.

Third Smashes Across Rhine

trophe west of the Rhine. The charging doughboys were talking in high spirits of beating the Russians to Berlin.

The enemy was so startled by this swift assault that some troops, resting from their defeat west of the river, were caught eating and not a single heavy shell was fired until two hours after the first troops touched the east bank in the moonlight of 10:25 p. m. Thursday.

Thus Patton showed his contempt for the Rhine, Germany's historic moat which never before had been stormed, although the U. S. First Army won the honor of being the first across by taking the Ludendorff bridge intact at Remagen more than two weeks ago.

Earlier Nazi Report

The Germans, giving the first hint of the dazzling coup, said earlier in the day that Patton had crossed near Oppenheim, 10 miles south of the fallen city of Mainz.

The ease of the crossing and the swift push inland pointed up the tremendous victory which the Third and the U. S. Seventh armies had won on the west bank.

The German First and Seventh armies, which might have been on the east bank for the defense of inner Germany, were destroyed—100,000 of their troops in prison cages and their tanks, armored vehicles, trucks and guns strewn by the thousands on the battlefield west of the Rhine.

Wave on wave of hard-hitting veterans crossed in what Associated Press Correspondent Edward D. Ball declared from the front was "the greatest over-water assault since the Normandy beaches."

German Guns Silenced

The Germans then began pouring in some mortar and anti-tank fire and they were answered and silenced by thunderous salvos from American artillery drawn up along the river.

Associated Press correspondent Don Whitehead said the width and depth of the positions, combined with the strength mustered, virtually ended the bridgehead phase of the operation and made it a solid front across the Rhine.

The temporary bridges across which men and machines have funneled now were nearly out of long range Nazi artillery fire.

By dawn the first wave had pushed on inland and more and more men and supplies were landing on the bridgehead in assault boats. Ball said the beachhead by then had become "as quiet as a Sunday picnic."

There was no question of Patton's ability to exploit his surprise, for the stuff that he had landed far outweighed that which the Germans were able to muster after the debacle west of the river.

Lightning Speed

The Third Army was striking inland with the same lightning speed with which it broke across the Moselle river and turned or smashed all the German defenses in the Saar and the Palatinate.

Assault boats and amphibious craft plied the calm Rhine, putting supplies and men on the beaches and keeping the surprise push rolling.

The location of the crossing was not disclosed. If it was in the Mainz area, as the Germans said, then it was within 265 miles of Berlin, much closer than any other of Gen. Eisenhower's armies in the west.

Twelfth Army group headquarters announced that the crossing was made at 10:25 Thursday night without aerial or artillery preparation, and since then the bridgehead had been steadily enlarged.

The operation had been planned and rehearsed for months, long before Patton's forces stood on the Rhine.

Feat Outdid Rehearsals

As Patton's lines moved remorselessly eastward, first across the Eifel mountains, then across the Moselle and southward across the Hunsrueck plateau to the Rhine plain, the engineers and the assault boats moved too.

There were many tons of these assault boats, which were moved at night and hid out by day. The crossing was made with such smoothness that it went better than the rehearsals.

Infantry in the assault waves were so elated by the success of this bold stroke that they began nominating themselves for the job of taking Berlin.

For miles back on the Rhine's west bank the roads were lined with trucks and prime movers, all hurrying toward the river.

This second setback for the Germans east of the Rhine, which might well be mortal, came as history's greatest aerial onslaught scoring the north German plain warned the enemy that Field Marshal Montgomery's three massed armies were about to strike across from the Ruhr.

Soldier Sends Dog "Allotment" Check

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., March 23 (AP)—When Sgt. Ira Morton of May Pines, Fla., went off to war he provided his 3-year-old Irish setter, "Dave," with an automobile and an "allotment" check.

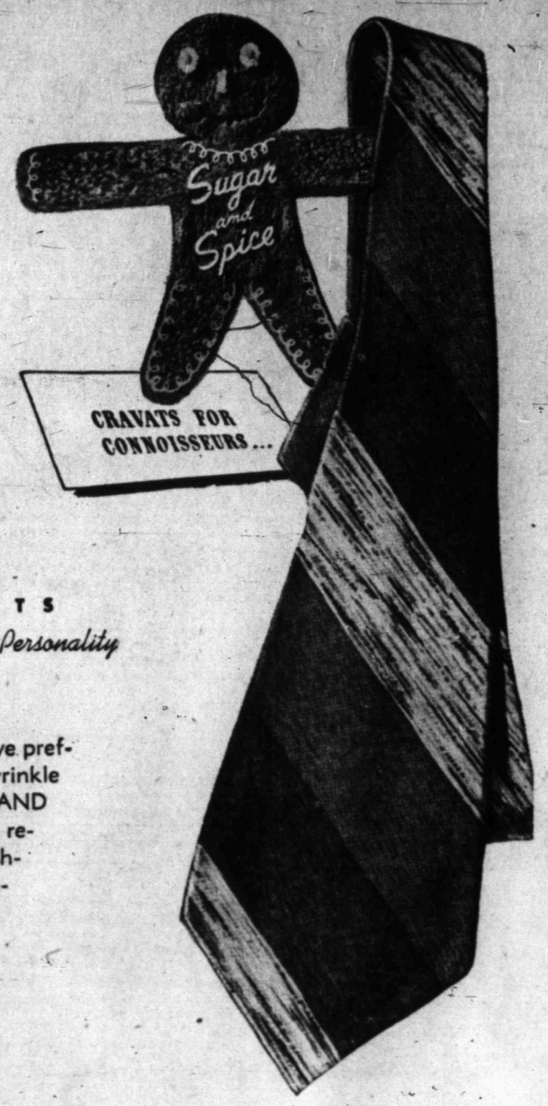

Before going overseas, Morton arranged with George Geake, an Albuquerque kennel owner, to care for Dave. He also arranged for a bank to send a monthly check to cover the dog's board bill.

And he parked his automobile near Dave's kennel run so the dog might sit in the familiar car a while each day.

Little is known here of Sergeant Morton. Geake said the soldier, about 25, formerly was stationed at Las Vegas, Nev., and enlisted at May Pines.

"Nothing could be wrong with a man who loves a dog that way," said Geake. "If you could have seen him stand there with tears in his eyes when he left the dog."

"Nameless Fourteen" Prepare To Continue Into "Promised Land"

BROWNSVILLE, March 23. (AP) —"The nameless fourteen," intrepid Independence, Mo., farm family which gave up all worldly goods to follow a 14-year-old "Messiah" into the bad lands along the Rio Grande have had a visit from the law and today are back at their cactus-walled camp, preparing to move even deeper into the brush country—"the promised land designated by the Lord."

The Denhams, who abandoned two homes, a farm, gave away livestock and farm equipment including a tractor, are camping along the old military highway northwest of Brownsville, waiting for "the people to come and hear their message.

Son Urges Trip

Several weeks ago the family left Independence in two automobiles and a trailer, with "the voice of God" and a highway map as their guides. The trip was made at the urging of Son Daniel, who announced he has received messages from God. He could relay them, he said, only through his sister, Angelia, a former aircraft worker. Daniel insisted the family must "go on a mission."

Investigation at their former neighborhood in Missouri bears out the amazing story which Floyd E. Denham told officers who took him and his three older sons to Brownsville for questioning.

William A. Ferguson, a neighbor, related yesterday that one day early in February, Floyd Denham, 25-year-old son, "asked me to walk down to the barn with him. He pointed to the stock and machinery and told me, 'the Lord has given me a vision and has told me that all I have on the farm is yours.' "

"The next day Floyd's wife, Betty, came down and gave her watch, a fur chubby and all her good dresses to Mrs. Ferguson," Ferguson said.

"Excellent Farmer"

Farmers in the community said Floyd Denham was an excellent farmer and an obliging neighbor.

The Selective Service board at Independence reported today that it had received no reply to a telegram sent to Floyd at Laredo, ordering him to report for physical examination March 30.

The telegram could not be delivered, the board said the telegraph company reported.

Floyd had wired the board from Laredo: "We are commanded by the Lord to go out and do work for him. Please give permission to go into Mexico." He had been deferred as a farmer, the board said.

For some time the family had attended the Church of Christ, Temple lot, in Independence. About the first of the year, nine members of the family were converted and baptized. It was then, said Ferguson, that Daniel and other members of the group began having visions directing them to "go on a mission."

A story current here and also among the neighbors in Missouri is that the Denhams left $1,500 in cash, war bonds and payroll checks on the living room table. A large sign on the window proclaimed: "This is the Lord's home. Anyone can live here if it is his will."

The men have grown beards. The entire group, except for the father and one son, have thrown away their shoes. The women are wearing calico dresses.

The "fourteen" includes the elder Denham and his wife, four sons, seven daughters and a 2-year-old granddaughter.

Meanwhile the $500 with which the group left home is dwindling, but the family is sure the Lord will provide when that runs out.

Junior Fat Stock Show Is Scheduled

Decision that Junior Fat Stock show will be conducted in the spring of 1946 was made Friday afternoon at a meeting of the executive committee of the Chamber of Commere.

The show will be conducted the latter part of March or early in April at Panhandle-South Plains fair grounds.

The decision is being made early so that 4-H club and Future Farmers of America boys will have time to prepare calves, pigs and lambs for the event.

This year was the third year that the show had not been held, due to the war.

Teen-Agers Session At Corral Delayed

A meeting of all 'teen-age students interested in the Corral was postponed from Friday afternoon to 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, said A. C. Hamilton, superintendent of the recreation department.

Program for the next three months is to be planned. Because of several other meetings, attendance was insufficient Friday afternoon to plan the program.

It was urged that all young persons who have attended or are interested in the Corral, 'teen-age center at Sixteenth street and Avenue J, attend the meeting.

Survey Being Made On Traffic System

A ground survey of the projected traffic dispersal plan for highways through Lubbock is being made by engineers of the Texas Highway department.

Recent approval for the survey was given by the Highway commission in a hearing at Austin. The plan had previously been submitted to Lubbock city and commissioners for approval.

The traffic dispersal plan calls for four major arteries through Lubbock, Aves. A and Q and Fourth and Nineteenth streets, with passenger and commercial traffic dividing at cloverleafs outside the city and entering on separate routes. Ave. Q and Nineteenth would be principal passenger routes with Ave. A and Fourth streets as truck routes.

These routes were tentatively designated in the drawing of preliminary plans, highway officials said, but they may be changed or altered after the ground survey is completed.

Nine miles of right-of-way in the city limits and 36 miles outside will be required for the system.

Several months will be consumed in making the ground survey, it was said.

The traffic dispersal plan for cities of 10,000 or more in Texas is a part of the state's post-war highway construction program.

Bill On Drilling Expenses Planned

TULSA, March 23. (AP) — Rep. Victor Wickersham (D-Okla) said today he would introduce a bill in Congress defining the cost of oil and gas drilling as an operational expense, thus making it deductible on income tax returns.

Wickersham said the bill would offset a recent ruling by the Fifth circuit court of appeals in New Orleans that drilling cost is a capital investment rather than an expense and therefore not deductible for income tax purposes.
