THIRTY-FIFTH WEEK

ODDS & ENDS

Glancing through our exchange papers we came across some gems of wit and wisdom penned by the columnist for Winkler County News who styles himself the Kermit Hermit. In his words:

"With no further ado, here are some of the observations O' Herm has jotted down over the course of the years in his long and varied experience:

"If you keep your ear to the ground you'll pick up a lot of dirt.

"The greatest single cause of divorce is marriage.

"Incompatibility is when a man doesn't have enough income and/or his wife is no longer 'palatable'.

"Hell hath no fury like a woman's corns.

"Love is a many-splintered thing.

"Don't worry too much if that greenback slips from your grasp—it won't go far.

"If you could judge a book by its cover, there would be a lot more novels banned these days.

"Beauty cannot make a woman sweet, but sweetness can make a woman beautiful."

Advantages Of Wool Cited To Garment Makers

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., May 31.—The unique chemical and physical properties which make wool the "outstanding textile fiber for designer, tailor and consumer" are being utilized fully in current research efforts designed to enable the fiber to meet future needs of the consumer, Dr. Gerald Laxer director of science and technology for the wool bureau, today told the International Association of Clothing Designers.

Speaking at the organization's annual convention in the Hotel Shelburne, Dr. Laxer stressed specific aspects of wool's behavior which give the fiber its remarkable adaptability to a wide range of uses. Among the qualities discussed were wool's ability to be felted during milling; its natural water repellency and ability to absorb moisture vapor; the built-in crimp of the fiber; its ability to be draped and tailored, and its natural wrinkle-resistance.

Research is constantly developing new processes and treatments to impart special properties to the wool fiber without sacrificing any of these essential qualities now present in the fiber, Dr. Laxer asserted. He cited processes for imparting permanent pleats to all-wool fabrics, new shrink-proofing techniques, and new dyeing methods which will reduce dyeing costs and permit a broader range of colors.

"We hope that in the near future," he said, "wool scientists will put these processes and others together in such a way that we will have wool garments which exhibit all of wool's desirable properties as we know them now and, yet, can be washed and dried in a manner which is being CLAIMED for garments made of the newer types of man-made fibers."

Mrs. A. E. Newton and Sandra spent the weekend in Midland and Lubbock. They visited Mrs. Newton's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Ferguson and family.

Edwards Plateau Soil Conservation District News

By E. B. Keng
Soil Conservation Service

By E. B. Keng was in progress this week to determine the possibility of flood prevention with a system of water retarding structures. Personnel making the survey included Le and Barnes, engineer, and Mel Husa, economist from the Fort Worth SCS office; Harvey Davis, Temple, with the State Soil Conservation Board; J. L. Richmond, SCS Area Conservationist at San Angelo; and local SCS personnel.

A field examination is the first of a series of steps necessary in developing a food prevention project under Public Law 566. It consists primarily of a brief analysis of the watershed to determine drainage areas, availability of sites for structures, and approximate number of structures needed for control. The approximate cost of control is then compared to the expected benefits of reduced flood damage to urban property, rangeland, fences, livestock and other property.

The survey group readily recognized a potential flood hazard to the city. Both business property and homes would suffer tremendous damage if Sonora should receive a flood comparable to the Ozona flood of June, 1954.

Though the field examination is not complete, it appears quite possible to get sufficient control of floodwaters on the Dry Devil's River. The greatest difficulty apparent on Lowrey Draw is caused by the fact that the railroad follows one long prong of the draw from Sonora to the top of the divide in Schleicher County. Search is continuing for a suitable dam site which would not inundate the railroad. The approximate cost of the project will be calculated and compared to the expected benefits. To be eligible for assistance under Public Law 566 the expected benefits must exceed the total cost of construction.

Floodwater retarding structures are only a part of an overall flood prevention program. Land treatment conservation measures installed under the regular district program, including deferred grazing, proper use, brush control, seeding and pitting are needed for effective use of rainfall. A good grass cover forms a million tiny dams to help oak water into the soil and prevent excessive runoff.

WORDS OF JUST BEING HUMAN

THOUGHTS

From Emma Harris, East Carondelet, Illinois: I remember when we had a corn shock party. Neighbors would get together and everyone sat around a large pile of corn shocks in a room—pulled the shocks in single leaves which were put in a large sack to be used as a mattress.

These corn shock parties were always in the evenings, in the fall of the year. First to one neighbor, then to another, with lunch afterwards. It was a lot of fun.

From Mrs. George W. Burden, Saginaw, Michigan: I remember when the eclipse of the sun was really something special. All our friends and my family did was discuss the mystery. Dad and mother would see that we got to bed early the night before, and mostly all the dinner for the next day would be cooked at night so as to not miss the big mysterious thing. Mother called us as soon as the sun started peeping, and we got together all our glass, candles, and spent hours preparing the smoked glass.

All of the other people would be doing the same thing. I will never forget how we fell in bed at night, exhausted, but thrilled at God's mystery and "our eclipse."

DALE CARNEGIE

AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING"

AFTER several years of small successes, L. S. Gebert and his wife, Lincoln Highway West, Irwin, Pennsylvania, had accumulated a home and a service station.

They worked hard day and night, his wife looking after the business while he drove a truck. They were just getting on top when along came a friend with a promotional scheme—a get rich quick idea.

Everything went along fine for awhile, and then came the crash. Their dreams were shattered, and the bank took over. They lived awhile on their credit, but couldn't seem to pull through.

One fortunate day "L.P." got a toothache. He went to a dentist, told his troubles and said he had no money. The dentist fixed his tooth and gave him the address of a friend that might have a job. But this didn't work out since he had an old worn out car with tires as thin as paper.

But his wife encouraged him, and finally through sheer persistence, backed by his wife's optimism, his luck turned.

What does he give credit for the success he has achieved? Those two things: his wife's encouragement and his own persistence.

Looking Through The Windows Of Life

By W. H. Marshall

The book A. J. Cronin threw away, then reclaimed and rewrote, was "Hatter's Castle." It earned a fortune and made him famous. But far more important, it brought him the greatest triumph anyone can achieve—victory over himself. He went on to produce "The Citadel," "The Keys of the Kingdom," and many other popular books. But nothing gave him the intense satisfaction of the first great success: his conquest over doubt and despair.

Dr. Cronin's story, "The Turning Point of My Career," appeared in the Reader's Digest and was read by millions of people. It has since been retold many times, and it would be impossible to estimate the vast number of people who have been influenced by it. It has encouraged many to stick to the job, to go on doing it and complete it, no matter what the obstacles or difficulties. That was the lesson he had learned, and that was the lesson he generously shared with others.

Nothing Dr. Cronin has written, not even in his most famous books, is more inspiring than the story of his lesson in perseverance, so simply and humbly told. There are many today who can say with him that this experience was the turning point of their careers. For they discovered, with him, that victory over oneself is the only victory that counts—that is it "the virtue of all achievement."

"All things are possible to him that believeth." Mark 9:23.

"He who gains a victory over other men is strong; but he who gains a victory over himself is all powerful." -Lao-tse.

"Difficulties are the things that show what men are." -Epictetus.

One is a genius only as he makes continuous effort. To achieve anything worth while takes a little more time and a little more patience. To persist is to believe, and to believe is the turning point. Belief says, "It can be done."

How big is a man? No bigger than the things he makes himself do. The first lesson all of us should learn is that we are under obligation first to see what we can make out of our own lives. That will keep us so busy we won't have time to see how far the other fellow has missed the mark.

There are some things that ought to be done whether we like it or not. It is in the doing of these things that we show the material we are made of. If you and I were to seriously undertake to live the kind of life we want others to live, there would come over us a great change, and the people of our town would soon notice it. The church would see it and we ourselves would feel it on the inside. A clean-up job is a victory won down on the inside, and that is where the first soap is to be applied. And the man who is in earnest with himself won't mind applying the soap either!

Every man must face the fact of his limitations, but there is no law against trying to look over on the other side of the wall. Genius is rare thing, "mediocrity is the portion of almost all of us," said Joshua Loth Liebman, and he was right, but every man has the right to get up each morning still believing in himself, and when a man keeps that up, he will amount to something some day.

"The first is never like the last. Any man can change if he wants to bad enough."

Members of some of the committees, who worked with the window displays for the Centennial, met with the Commissioners Court early this week and discussed ways and means for establishment of a museum. So many, and of such interest, were the many many displays shown during the week that the establishment of a museum has been discussed by many groups and organizations.

Slaughter ewes cashed at $4 to $5. Old bucks sold for slaughter around $4.

Special feeders sales proposed on sheep.

A number of sheepmen have asked Fort Worth market people when they were going to stage some special stocker and feeder sales for sheep similar to the special cattle sales. One group suggested that the Pure Bred Sheep Breeders of Texas should offer some bucks at the same time for the buyers of replacement sheep for farm flocks.

These sales are in the talking stage now and the first ones will probably be announced for September.

IT'S SWITCHCRAFT — that's what it is!

You'll see when you try Buick's new Variable Pitch
Dynaflow!

IT TAKES a new word to describe the magic at your command when you drive a '56 Buick — with the newest transmission of them all.

It's full power go-ahead on the instant. You can get where you were just looking in a shaved second's time — with the most modern and most thrilling surge of safety acceleration in the land today.

It's smoothness, too. Complete freedom from the "bump" and lag of gears shifting. Only with Dynaflow can you go winging away with so smooth a sweep.

And only with a '56 Buick can you enjoy Dynaflow's newest marvel. It's something the engineers call "double regeneration." Lets you start off like an Olympic sprinter, with the pedal pressed just an inch or less. (And driving that way, you get better gas mileage.)

There's more big news, too, that goes with this new Buick magic. And that covers a lot more than styling.

Sure — you'll like the graceful new beauty of the V-shaped prow and sweep-ahead look. And you'll like the extra room inside.

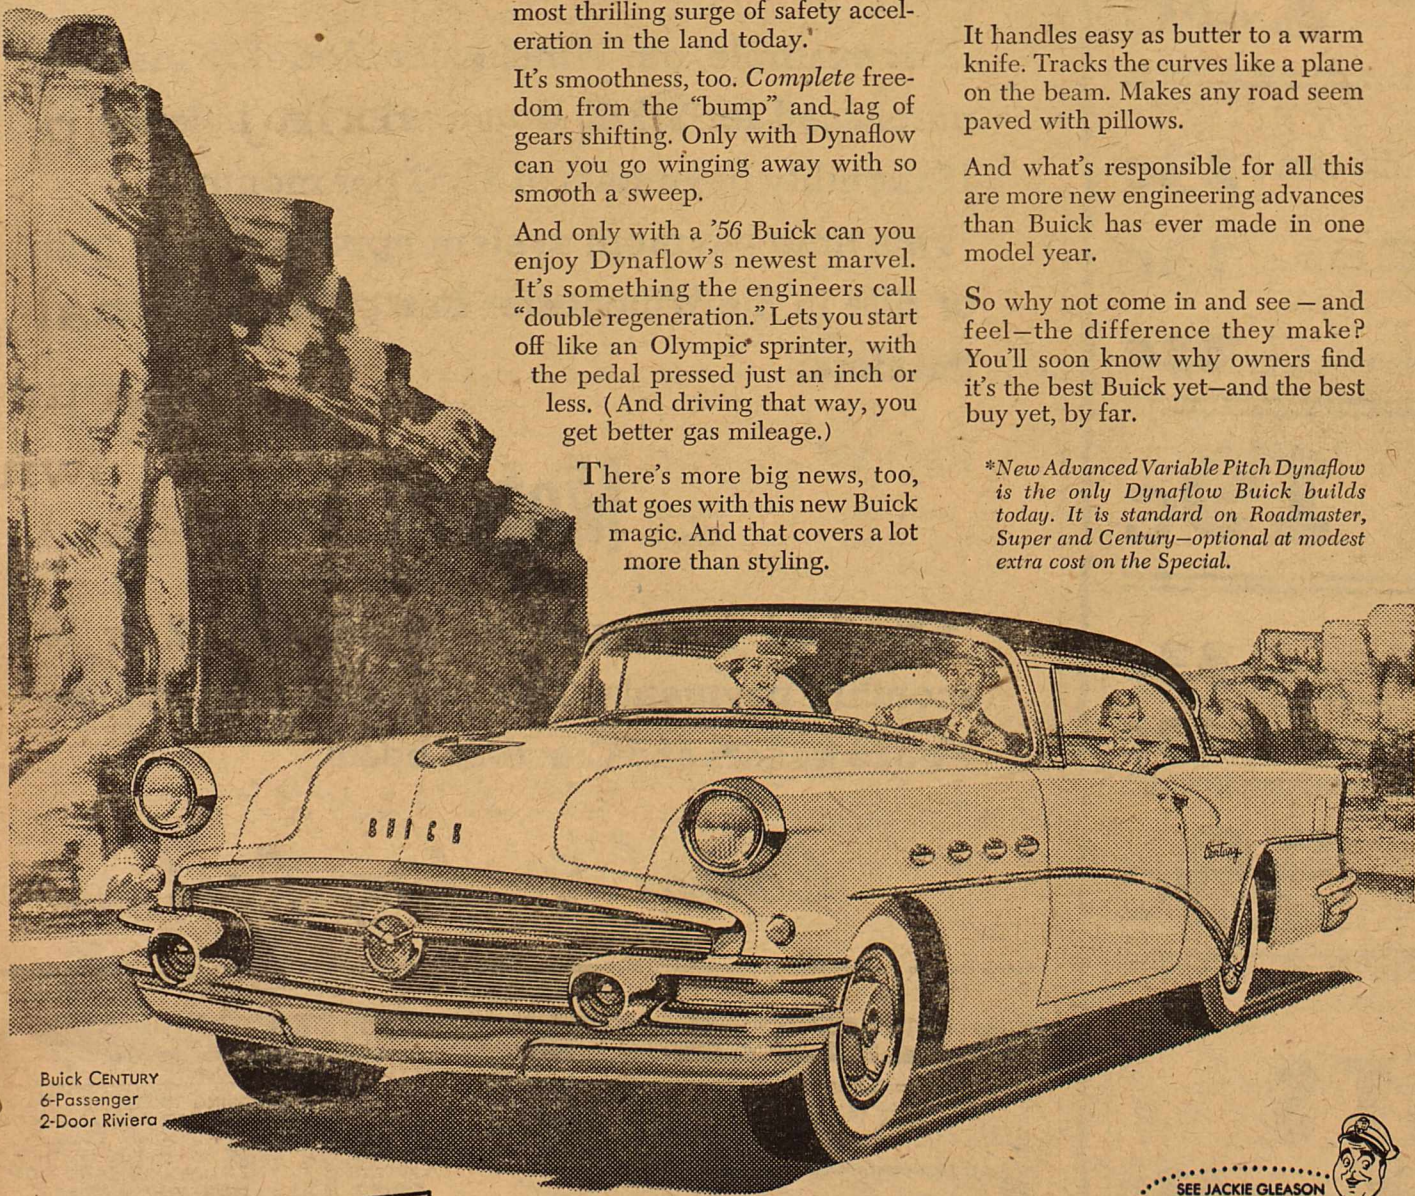

But as you drive you'll find that this Buick responds with the new might of a big, record-powered V8 engine of 322-cubic-inch heft.

It handles easy as butter to a warm knife. Tracks the curves like a plane on the beam. Makes any road seem paved with pillows.

And what's responsible for all this are more new engineering advances than Buick has ever made in one model year.

So why not come in and see — and feel — the difference they make? You'll soon know why owners find it's the best Buick yet — and the best buy yet, by far.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century — optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

FIVE months or FIVE dollars?

Even with hospitalization or insurance, time spent being sick still costs you money! In the past it often meant long periods of recuperation and absence from work with loss of income.

Luckily today these expenses can be largely avoided thanks to the effectiveness of modern miracle drugs. The wonderful curative powers of the antibiotics, the sulfas and other present-day medicines have practically eliminated the long periods of recovery for many illnesses. When you realize this, the few dollars that your prescription costs are indeed a bargain.

LIONS ROAR

Dr. C. W. Livingston, Jr., showed a film on Rabies to members of the Lions Club at their regular meeting Tuesday noon at the Methodist Church. Preparation of vaccine from chicken eggs was shown. Vaccine thus prepared immunizes animals for a period of about two years.

The responsibility of pet-owners' having animals vaccinated was stressed. Rabies can be contacted and spread by dogs, foxes, skunks, squirrels and coons. One case of rabies constitutes a threat to a community.

Under public health laws, all dogs in an area can be quarantined or required to be kept under leash.

Following the presentation of the movie, Dr. W. T. Hardy, Lions president, announced the charter-
