New York City Blames Drouth For Situation

Nation Threatened By Danger Of New Midwest Dust Bowl

(By The United Press)

The nation's most precious resource, water, is running short in many sections, a United Press survey showed today.

In a few cases, such as at New York, the water shortage is a momentary matter, caused by a lack of rainfall.

But in vast areas of the midwest, southwest and far west, agriculture and industry are beginning to feel the pinch of ground water shortages as moisture tables drop far beneath the surface.

Too Much Taken Out

Geologists and other experts said the falling water table was a simple case of too much water being taken out of the ground too fast for nature to replenish the subterranean lakes, rivers and rivulets that seep precious moisture through the rocks to fill wells and reservoirs.

Modern air conditioning systems, for example, depend on huge quantities of cold water, drawn from the earth to circulate through their mechanisms and provide the low temperatures to chill air.

In some localities, such as Illinois, distilleries and other industries use so many millions of gallons of water that they must sink wells hundreds of feet into the earth as the natural reservoirs drop deeper and deeper.

Grim Warning Sounded

In the west, vast irrigation projects are diverting water from its natural watersheds through canals and ditches for surface use to water plants in areas that are naturally arid.

Some pessimistic geologists warned that unless emergency measures were taken to halt the trend, big sections of the nation might become desert wastelands or dust bowls.

The situation in New York, although temporary, was serious and Stephen J. Carney, commissioner of water supply, made a radio appeal to the 8,000,000 residents yesterday to cut down consumption.

He said the situation was caused by an eight-inch rainfall deficiency at a time when the city's reservoirs were 37 per cent below capacity.

Excessive pumping for irrigation and industrial use was blamed for critical water shortages in

Violent Death Toll In Texas Hits 16

Five Killed In Weekend Shootings; Traffic Accidents Are Fatal To 10

(By The Associated Press)

At least 16 persons died violently in Texas over the weekend—ten in traffic accidents, five by shooting. A prisoner at Houston committed suicide.

Raymond Tatum, 18, was shot to death in front of his parents' farm home near Arlington Sunday night. His 14-year-old brother told Tarrant county officers and a reporter and photographer that he fired the fatal shot.

The parents of the boys said the younger brother, Cabe Tatum, jr., had been in a fight with Raymond a few minutes before the shooting.

T. H. Duke, 51, of Texarkana was killed Sunday when his gun accidentally discharged as he was preparing for a hunting trip.

Mrs. Velma Louise Aldrich, 23, was shot to death Sunday in a Lubbock cafe. Justice of the peace D. W. Robertson said 24 persons saw Roy Aldrich, 29, her husband, shoot the woman, then kill himself.

A head-on crash seven miles north of Plainview Saturday killed four persons. They were Mrs. B. E. Robinson, 32, of Amarillo; her father, Charles Alfred Geer, 58, of Amarillo; her nephew, William Youngblood, 31, of Tucumcari, N. M., all in one car, and Robert Henry Willis, 70, of Floydada, driver of the other car.

An automobile overturned four miles east of Weatherford Sunday killing Mrs. Oletia Stone, 31, of Fort Worth, and Gleason C. Mangum, 26, of San Antonio.

Capt. Edward N. Watermeier, jr., 28, of New Orleans was killed Sunday in a collision with another car after a truck sideswiped his automobile. The accident occurred 12 miles north of San Antonio. Watermeier was a Randolph air force base flier.

Warren G. Freeman, 24, of Temple was fatally injured Saturday when his automobile and a trailer-truck collided a mile west of Temple.

Mrs. J. W. Raeders, 58, of Edinburg was killed Sunday in an automobile collision three miles east of Three Rivers.

Gun Battle Is Staged; Couple Held At Dallas

Statements Given About Crosbyton And Lubbock Jobs

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Dec. 5.—Charges of armed robbery were filed in Corsicana today against two men captured by Dallas police just a few hours after two men had engaged in a running gun battle with an off-duty Corsicana officer.

The two, listed as Robert Leeham and James Scrivner, both of Bonham, made verbal statements concerning recent robberies at Crosbyton and Lubbock, as well as at Houston and Corsicana, Dallas Chief of Detectives Will Fritz said.

Bonds To Be High

Justice of Peace W. H. Johnson in Corsicana said bonds of $25,000 each would be set for the two men.

Police found a 9mm Italian Beretta pistol and a snubnose revolver plus two boxes of shells in the 1950 Studebaker car in which they were picked up here. Also found was a metal box containing $400 in cash.

Information regarding the foreign model pistol, the make of the car and general physical description was certain to interest Crosby County Sheriff Foy Addison, Lubbock Sheriff Grady Harrist, and Ranger Captain Bob Crowder of Lubbock, all of whim were expected to arrive early this afternoon in Dallas for further questioning of the suspects.

1950 Car Was Used

(A foreign make pistol was used by one of three men who hijacked Economy Department store at 811-13 Broadway the night of Nov. 19.

(A 1950 Studebaker was used for the getaway of three gunmen who robbed a Crosbyton drygoods store a week later, the night of Nov. 26.

(In each instance, a store official was kidnaped. It was Archie Skibell who was taken by hijackers who escaped with $1,000 to $1,500 in Lubbock. He was forced to accompany his abductors seven miles east of Lubbock, then released unharmed after he had readily complied with their demands at the store.

Was Shot Twice

(A. W. Wallace, 45, of Crosbyton, was not so fortunate. The men took $300 to $400 from the cash register of the store, but Wallace struggled with them when they demanded that he open a safe.

(They hammered him over the head with their weapons, then shot him twice when they released him

A-Bomb Material Sent Russia

House Probing Known Details On Shipments

Witness Accusing Harry L. Hopkins To Testify Today

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Senior Investigator Louis J. Russell said today the House un-American activities committee has evidence of three shipments of atom bomb materials to Russia in 1943. He said he had no information that the late Harry L. Hopkins was connected with them in any way.

Russell was a witness before the committee on whose staff he serves.

He said that former Air Force Officer G. Racey Jordan, who has said Hopkins was instrumental in shipping atom bomb ingredients to the Russians, will appear before the committee this afternoon.

Information Not New

The information on three shipments of A-bomb materials was not new. A former member of the committee, John McDowell, Pennsylvania Republican, told the House and reporters about it last year.

Committee Counsel Frank Tavenner said to Russell:

"I would like to ask you whether in the course of your investigation any information came to your attention that the late Harry Hopkins was involved in any way?"

"To the best of my knowledge," Russell said, "his name was never brought up. But another name was brought up and I would rather bring his name up in executive session."

McDowell had said two high administration officials were connected with shipments.

Export License Issued

Russell said it was determined that after the first shipment of atomic materials to Russia the Manhattan engineering district, which developed the atomic bomb under direction of Gen. Leslie Groves, "cut off all sources of supply of uranium material in the United States."

The second shipment, Russell said, was obtained from a Canadian source.

Russell read a letter from the State department, dated June 11, 1948, to a staff member of the committee which said export licenses were issued in March, 1943, for a first shipment of 200 pounds of urano, uranic oxide and 200

IT'S BUSY MONDAY IN LUBBOCK—Dollar Day and Christmas shoppers together gave the city one of the most congested Monday shopping days in recent years today. The upper picture, snapped at random during the morning, shows a typical crowd swarming down Broadway. The lower picture, which might be entitled a sales clerk's nightmare, was representative of nearly all stores as shoppers converged on all fronts, vying for attention and pushing their way toward the best inventories of Christmas goods on display since the war. Dual Shooting Ruled Murder, Suicide Here

Verdicts of death by murder and suicide were rendered this morning by two Lubbock justices of the peace in connection with the slaying of a 23-year-old waitress in a crowded East Broadway cafe Sunday night by her estranged husband who then fired a bullet into his own head.

The waitress, Velma Louise Aldrich of 210 Hub Homes, "died of four gunshot wounds fired from a pistol in the hands of Roy A. Aldrich," according to a verdict returned by Justice C. E. Lynn.

Wound Self-Inflicted

Aldrich, 30, of 505 Hub Homes, "died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound in the head," according to Justice D. W. Robertson's verdict.

The shooting took place at 7:20 p. m. Sunday at Lee's cafe at 110 East Broadway. There were 20 customers and four employes there at the time.

Witnesses said Alridch, a welder, ordered a cup of coffee and then asked his estranged wife if she would talk to him a moment. She reportedly replied she didn't have time and moved on.

He Started Firing

When she passed in front of him again, Aldrich brandished a pistol and fired the first shot into her neck. He then jumped to the counter and fired two more shots, one of which went wild, and then shot her two more times after she slumped to the floor.

Police were told Aldrich then placed the gun to his head and fired. He and his wife were taken to Lubbock Memorial hospital, where he died at 9:55 p. m. Mrs. Aldrich was dead on arrival.

Friends said he couple had been estranged for about six weeks and

GOOD 1950 BUSINESS FORECAST

Inflation Warnings Sounded In Nation

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 — Warnings of inflation are fluttering again in the capital, but most of the economic lookouts discount any immediate peril. They see fairly steady, prosperous sailing throughout 1950.

President Truman is not expected to revive his demands of a year ago for drastic "standby" anti-inflation powers. This is despite the rise in credit to new peaks, the firming of prices, and the fall improvement in business and employment.

Potential Is Reviewed

Government economists and some private experts report the revival of an "inflationary potential." They base the report mainly on heavy in-the-red spending by the government and on the new round of wage-and-pension increases.

Yet few of them expect a major price whirl in the next 12 months.

The "disinflation" is not over for some important industries. Many economists believe the long-range hazard isc deflation.

A concensus of the forecasts might boil down to this:

1950 will be another year of high income and high production, on a level of prosperity not too unlike 1949 and not far below record-smashing 1948.

Inflation warnings have been uttered by two bank presidents and other witnesses before Senator Douglas' (D-Ill) economic subcom-

RAPID CITY, S. D., Dec. 5 (U.P.)—Charles Reed likes to go places.

He was arrested riding horseback, with a bedroll behind the saddle and toting a rifle and six-gun.

He was going to Wyoming, he said. A check showed he was riding a stolen horse.

Queried by officers, he admitted that he was on parole for the theft of a private plane in Washington state. He stole it, he said, because he wanted to go to Alaska.

Asked to explain his unusual choices, he said:

"I don't like cars."

Former Solon Enters Prison

ASHLAND, Ky., Dec. 5. (AP)—Andrew J. May, complaining of his heart and protesting his innocence to the last moment, became a federal prisoner for wartime bribery and conspiracy today.

The 74-year-old former chairman of the powerful House military affairs committee succeeded in slipping—without fanfare—into the government correctional institution near here before daylight with the help of his personal friend John M. Moore of Lexington, U. S. marshal for eastern Kentucky.

Convicted In 1947

May and the Garsson brothers, Henry and Murray, operators of a wartime munitions combine, were convicted July 3, 1947, for using for profit May's considerable influence as committee chairman.

The former congressman, himself, was accused of accepting more than $50,000 in bribes for getting War department favors for the Garssons.

Moore said that on the drive from Catlettsburg, May complained of his heart and reiterated his claim of innocence.

His final appeal to escape serving the eight to 24-month sentence imposed on him after his conviction two years ago, had been based on a claim of poor health, and his age.

Warden Culver was at the pris-

THE $64 POLITICAL QUESTION:

Would Solid South Go For Gen. Ike?

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Speculation about Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's future had political experts mulling over this question today:

Could Eisenhower, as the 1952 Republican presidential nominee, crack the Solid South for the first time since 1928?

A suggestion that he could can be heard among Republican and southern Democrats alike.

A Demo Stronghold

The former Confederate states have gone solidly Democratic since Herbert Hoover carried five of them in 1928. Four gave their electoral votes to J. Strom Thurmond, the States' Rights Democratic nominee, last year in a revolt against President Truman's civil rights program.

Eisenhower has not yet declared a party affiliation, but many Republicans and Democrats believe he will be available for the GOP nomination in 1952.

Segments in both parties put in bids for him last year but he shied away from both camps.

Should Map Strategy

One anti-administration southerner believes that Eisenhower, as a Republican, could pick up electoral votes in the South if his campaign strategy kept that end in mind.

He admits he belief is based on assumptions which may or may not prove true. The biggest of these presumably is Eisenhower's stand on civil rights.

This southerner regarded Eisenhower as a possible candidate whose freedom from partisan labels in the past would give him a

Shirley Bares Marital Woes

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5 (AP) — Shirley Temple divorced John Agar today, testifying that her marriage to the handsome actor was turbulent. She accused him of paying too much attention to other women and of drinking too much.

Courtroom spectators gasped when the one-time child star testified that Agar's conduct once forced her to leave their house and consider "driving over a cliff."

Kissed Other Women

She said that when she was five months pregnant Agar brought another woman into her bedroom and urged her to go out to a party.

Frequently, she said, he left her alone in night clubs while he danced with other women and kissed them.

Also, she declared, Agar frequently came home "very drunk," and with lipstick on his face.

Miss Temple, 21, and Agar, 28, were married in Beverly Hills, Calif. Sept. 19, 1945, while Agar was in the air force. It was one of movieland's big romantic events.

Separated In October

They have a daughter, Linda Susan, 22 months.

The couple separated last Oct. 12, the day before she sued for divorce.

Agar is now in Buffalo, N. Y., and Miss Temple's attorney said

Odessa Man Killed In Illinois Crash

DECATUR, Ill., Dec. 5. (AP)—John E. Glasgo, jr., 27 of Odessa, and Levert E. Willmore, 27, Decatur, were killed yesterday when a light plane crashed near the Decatur airport.

The two men had been flying most of the day. About 4 p. m. they decided to go up once more. Witnesses said the plane failed to pull out of a loop and nosed into a field.

Glasgo was here visiting his parents. He was a veteran pilot, having flown 35 B-17 missions over Germany during World War II.

Contributions are being received by the Goodfellows to the fund which will be used to insure a visit by Santa Claus to the needy children of Lubbock on Christmas day.

The first list of donations will be published Wednesday.

They should be brought, sent or mailed to the Chief Goodfellow, P. O. Box 561, in care of The Avalanche-Journal, 1211 Texas avenue.

Girl Bows Head To Receive Fatal Blows From A Hammer

Student Kills Pretty Girl Friend In Suicide Pact; Fails To End Own Life As Nerve Fails

(By The United Press)

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Dec. 5—A 22-year-old bespectacled college student claimed today that he killed his beautiful 16-year-old sweetheart with a hammer in a suicide pact at her request but failed to take his own life when his "last nerve cracked."

Franklin Thomas Slay, Griffin, Ind., sat in his jail cell here and read detective story magazines after confessing to the hammer slaying of Mary Ellen Harmon, Nov. 26 near Hopkinsville, Ky., about 90 miles south of here.

He said he backed down on his half of the suicide pact when he lost his nerve as he stood on a nearby bridge, poised to leap.

An autopsy on the girl's body was scheduled for today. Slay told reporters the girl was pregnant.

In his confession, the slender, studious-looking youth said he called for Miss Harmon at her home here after the Thanksgiving holiday, planning to drive together to Florida where he was a student at the University of Florida.

"We were fully agreed on marriage," he said in the confession. As they drove, "Mary was very silent. I asked her if something was wrong.

"She replied, 'Frank, this is wrong and if we do it, it won't right the first wrong'."

She said she was conscience-stricken because they had lived together as man and wife.

"I asked her what she wanted to do," he said. "She said,

PILGRIM TRAFFIC HAS DWINDLED

Sad Christmas Is Shaping Up For The Birthplace Of Christ

BETHLEHEM, Dec. 5 (AP) — There's a sad Christmas shaping up for the little village where Christ was born.

Bethlehem is jammed with Arab refugees of the Palestine war. Practically everybody is without work.

The pilgrim traffic that once supported the bigger share of the population has dwindled to almost nothing.

Contact with the outside world is confined almost entirely to the Red Cross trucks that cart in food supplies for the refugees, a few government and military men coming and going, and a few churchmen who now and then visit the ancient church of the nativity.

The good road that once made possible a 10-minute motor trip from Bethlehem to Jerusalem is now in Israeli hands. The only road open to Bethlehem now is a tortuous, bumpy trail winding up and around the desolate Judean hills.

Located less than three miles from the boundary of the new Israel, the inhabitants of Bethlehem—although they crowd every Sunday into the church marking the stable where Christ was born—bear a deep and bitter hatred against their new neighbors.

A small shopkeeper who said he was a Christian told a reporter:

"We will never rest until the Jews are driven out of our land."

He said he once owned a fine home, now in Jewish territory.

Gamil Nasser, the acting mayor, said "our people have lost hope. Everybody is poor. Only one person in 20 is working. We pray that the Lord may help us."

Crisis Building Up

The economic crisis affecting this hallowed and ancient spot has been building up for a decade. The last world war cut deep into the pilgrim and tourist traffic, although western soldiers stationed in the area came in large groups, especially around Christmas time.

After the war, the Arab-Jewish quarrel in Palestine came to a head. Although there was no actual fighting in or around Bethlehem, visits by pilgrims became a precarious venture.

As a direct result of the Palestine conflict, thousands of Arab refugees flocked to the area. There are now $5,000 such refugees in the village and the surrounding hills. The normal population is 12,000.

The people of Bethlehem have two hopes.

One is that Christians of the world, especially in America, will lend a helping hand. Nasser said food or money is needed. "But," he added, "we prefer work to charity. If we could have jobs we would need no help."

The other hope is that the holy year proclaimed by Pope Pius XII starting Christmas day will bring large numbers of pilgrims to Bethlehem.

Nasser said he hopes for 50,000 visitors between Christmas and Easter. Religious leaders say possibly half that number may come.

Negroes Fight School Setup

ATLANTA, Dec. 5. (U.P.)— The campaign of negro gorups for equal educational facilities from grade schools up will be fought out in deep-south Georgia this winter after skirmish victories in the fringe state of Virginia, a United Press survey showed today.

The next major federal court set on the calendar, and one which both negroes and the state have promised to fight all the way to the U. S. Supreme Court, was brought by 18 negro parents of Irwin county, in central Georgia.

Other Suit On File

The Supreme Court's rulings to date have been in favor of equal facilities in the cases of professional school students. The Irwin county case covers grade and high schools, and other suits in other states continue the drive for equal graduate schools.

Complaints against the education offered negroes as compared to whites are on file in Virginia, Alabama, Mississippi, Florida and North and South Carolina.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored people, spearheading the drive won the first victory when King George county, Va., floated a bond issue and built a new high school for negroes. The NAACP dropped its suit in that instance.

In the same state, negroes won an important round when the Fourth U. S. Circuit Court of appeals held that Pulaski county descriminates because it sends its negro high school pupils to school in another county, necessitating a 40-mile bus ride.

The Irwin county case covers more ground and sponsors of the suit promise to take it through all the courts if necessary. They hope to win equal teacher salaries, buildings, transportation, libraries, quality of teachers and other items.

Gov. Herman Talmade has said it is in fact a suit to end segregation in the schools. Talmadge says no Georgia county, or southern state, can afford the alternative of building and maintaining two accredited and complete school systems.

Estimates run between 100 and 200 million dollars for Georgia alone.

Prompt Workers Get Bonus From Company

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (U.P.) — The publishing firm of Walter J. Black, inc., paid $10,110 in bonuses to 62 clerical employes today for getting to work on time.

The firm gives a $5 bonus credit to each employe who is punctual in the morning and after lunch hour every day of the week. If the employe is late or absent the following week, he loses both that week's and the previous week's bonus.

Vice Presidential Nomination Talked

Woman Treasurer Admits She Would Accept Bid For Office

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (INS)— U. S. Treasurer Georgia Neese Clark indicated today she would accept the Democratic vice presidential nomination were it offered her.

She said the suggestion that she might get such a bid was "very laughable in the first place." She added:

"But I can't imagine anyone turning it down."

Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, director of the mint, questioned the wisdom of naming any woman to the vice presidency although she said that "undoubtedly there are many women who could meet the requirements" of the office.

Women Are Interviewed

But, Mrs. Ross added, a vice president is always a potential president. She said she did not know a single woman whose "experience, background and knowledge of national and international affairs prepares her to take over the office of president of the United States."

The two Democratic women were interviewed on a Gannett News broadcast.

Senator Brewster (R) Me., recently said that Sen. Margaret Smith (R) Me., would be a good choice for the Republican vice presidential nomination. Mrs. Smith herself has urged that a woman be named for the post.

Eventual Success Seen

Moth Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Ross gave quick affirmatives when asked if they though there was "room for women in the cabinet." Mrs. Ross said:

"I think there is room for women in the cabinet, but will they get there is the question.

Mrs. Clark predicted they would "as time goes on." She added that President Truman "is showing a most gratifying interest in bringing women into important positions in the government."

RITES ARE SET

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 5. (AP)—Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Mme. Maria Ouspenskaya, 73, famed Russian character actress who died Saturday of burns suffered when a cigaret set her bed afire.

Rites Set Tuesday For Plainview Man

PLAINVIEW, Dec. 5. (Special)— 76, who died Sunday at his residence here after a six-months illness, will be held at the Nocona First Methodist church Tuesday afternoon.

Crites was a former resident of Lubbock, moving to Plainview in 1942. He was a member of the board of stewards at the Lubbock First Methodist church.

He is survived by his wife; three sons, Virgil of Rangely, Colo. Harold of Brownfield, and Ernest of Midland; and three daughters, Mrs. Joe Murrell of Plainview, Mrs. Allan Holland of Dallas, and Mrs. Earl Hunt of Lubbock.

GIVE SOMETHING FOR THE HOME

To the Man Who Is Worried About His Friends ...

OCCASIONALLY, we encounter a man who hesitates to buy a Cadillac for fear his friends might think him ostentatious.

For all such people, we have the most reassuring news: The experience of Cadillac owners would indicate that your fears are without foundation.

True, the world has long since recognized that a Cadillac car is a fine and distinguished possession—but most people understand that quality is not a luxury, and that distinction is the offspring of goodness.

The facts in support of Cadillac's practicality are so convincing that the mere recital of just a few should be sufficient reassurance for the most hesitant buyer.

Take, for instance, the matter of cost. There are eight other makes of cars which actually have certain models that are priced above the lowest-priced Cadillac.

There is long life, for example. Four Cadillacs, of the 1942 Series, ran a total of 2,599,000 miles in a test recently concluded by a great tire manufacturer—almost 650,000 miles per car. All four were then sold into private service—and are still going strong!

Then there is economy. Innumerable tests show that the 1949 Cadillac actually approaches the lowest-priced popular cars in gasoline economy.

And, finally, there are the dependability records—which prove that the car's freedom from the need of repairs is just as unusual as its performance and beauty!

Yes—if you are ready for a Cadillac, come in. You will never make a more sensible purchase—or one of which your friends will more heartily approve.

FRIEND GAVE THEM FIRST BIRD

Lubbock Pair Enjoys Unusual Hobby Of Raising Pheasants

By BILL CLARK
Journal Staff Writer

L. O. Armstrong goes home to one of Lubbock's most unusual hobbies, a flock of ring-necked pheasants, those highly-colored and high-strung birds that are in such great demand on gourmets' tables the world over.

He has become fascinated with the creatures, and it is probably a mixed blessing that they have such expensive eating habits, for otherwise it is doubtful that he could ever bring himself to serve one up on the family platter.

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong have re-christened their home at 1640 Forty-fourth "Armidge Pheasantry," a name taken from his nickname "Army" and Mrs. Armstrong's nickname, "Midge."

Birds Multicolored

It's appropriate that they both should be so interested in the hobby, for it came about as a direct result of a wedding anniversary.

The Armstrongs and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wright of Plainview have celebrated their wedding anniversary on the same date—Dec. 21—for years together.

About eight years ago Wright gave Armstrong a pheasant cock for an anniversary present. Armstrong was so taken with the beautiful bird—with colors ranging through the spectrum, from bright red to orange, green, golden brown, purple and white—that instead of having him for dinner, they bought some hens to match.

That was the beginning of a pastime that has grown and grown, until this year Mr. Armstrong has raised 265 of the birds in his pens. He even has his own incubator, in which he hatches the tiny eggs about half the size of a hen's egg.

The pheasant, he will explain, is a creature of strange habits. One of Mrs. Armstrong's contribution to the hobby is gathering the eggs four or five times a day during the laying season from the middle of April to the first of August.

She has to, because otherwise the nervous birds will peck their own eggs and ruin them. And the laying season is so regular that you could use their habits for a calendar. They lay prolifically in season, and the Armstrongs sometimes use surplus eggs for cooking purposes, two eggs doing the work of one hen's egg.

Require Greenery

Since they are such nervous birds they require a lot of greenery and Armstrong plants maize and kaffir in their pens every year. They are amazingly clean, their pens showing little of the waste one sees with chickens. They eat a special, high-priced 26 per cent protein feed.

The birds are alert at all times, and usually occupy themselves running aimlessly back and forth across their pens. When a hawk or other bird flies over, they all stop and look intently skyward, murmuring among themselves, as if speculating on its identity.

When Armstrong shows up in the afternoon dressed in his usual conservative clothes, they don't pay much attention. But if he's wearing something "flashy," or another person comes along, they become excited and immediately start flying straight upward, crashing their pretty heads against the wire net covering.

Trouble With Cats

Armstrong has had trouble with stray cats. When they come around, the pheasants are desperate in their efforts to fly away straight upward ,and several have broken their necks in the attempt.

In the mating season in the spring, the cock puts on a show. He drops one colorful wing to the ground and circles around a hen like a Mexican hat-dancer, murmuring sweet nothings into her ear. The hen, incidentally, is drab by comparison, a mottled brown in color.

When the family life begins, the strange habits really show up. A pheasant hen will lay her eggs anywhere, then depart unconcerned. Neither does she cackle after an egg appears.

Like Cold Weather

The birds need no roosts, nests, or weather protection. They seem to enjoy sleet and snow more than hot summer days, possibly a result of their origin, thought to be Mongolia. Since they are not native American birds, Armstrong must get an annual game bird license in order to keep them, and keep records of how he disposes of the birds.

As might be expected, the Armstrongs have pheasant frequently. They like it fried, baked, smothered and stewed, but Armstrong's favorite is barbecued pheasant.

He says the skin is tenderer than chicken, making the feathers harder to pick. He gets around that by having a poultry house dress them. The birds have all white meat.

A bird usually weighs two and three-fourths to three pounds when he heads for the chopping block, and about two and a half pounds dressed for his engagement with the oven.

BEAUTIFUL BIRDS, TASTY DISH—That's what L. O. Armstrong has in his unusual hobby, a small pheasant farm. At "Armidge Pheasantry," as he and Mrs. Armstrong call their home at 1640 Forty-fourth, he has raised 265 of the colorful ring-necked pheasants this year. The upper photograph shows a flock of the high-strung birds in relative repose, and the second photo, made as the photographer moved in for a "shot," shows how the birds react by flying straight up, flapping their wings hundreds of times a second, instinctively trying to escape. In the bottom picture Mr. Armstrong holds a beautiful specimen of the male of the species. It would take color to do the bird justice, with his feathers of bright red, rich green, snow-white, golden brown and iridescent purple. (Staff Photo).

Escaped Prisoners Find Weather Cold

PRINCE FREDERICK, Md., Dec. 5 (INS)—Speaking of the weather:

Two prisoners made a successful break from the Calvert county jail this morning and later voluntarily crawled back into their cells through 10-by-15 inch feeding doors.

Jailer Cleveland Young said he asked the men why they returned and that they replied:

"Buddy, it's cold outside!"

The temperature was about seven degrees below freezing.

OLD CAPITAL

Williamsburg, Va., had its origin as "Middle Plantation," an outpost of Jamestown, in 1633. When the capital of the colony was removed from Jamestown in 1699, the city was laid out and named Williamsburg in honor of William III. It continued to be the capital for 80 years.

Mexicans Pay Visit To State

FORT WORTH, Dec. 5. (AP)—Four Mexican governors visiting here were to sit in on a Texas Good Neighbor commission meeting and hear a report on discrimination against Mexicans in Texas.

The four governors arrived yesterday from Corsicana, where they placed a wreath on the grave of the late Texas Governor Beauford Jester. They attended a luncheon with Texas Governor Allan Shivers.

Shivers expressed his hopes for continued and increasing friendship between Texas and Mexico. He then pinned Texas Good Neighbor Commission lapel pins to his guests, Governors Fernando Foglio Miramontes of Chiahuhua, Ignacia Morones Prieta of Neuvo Leon, Raul Lopez Sanchez of Coahuila and Raul Garate of Tamaulipas.

Dr. Ramon Guerra of McAllen, a member of the state Good Neighbor Commission, said he hopes the visiting governors would help form similar good neighbor groups in their states.

Human Tendency

"In Texas, as in all parts of the world, there has been evidenced a very human tendency, based on prejudice, to criticize groups, or minorities, on a basis of isolated cases, or to reach false conclusions through incomplete study as on a basis of superficial criteria," Dr. Guerra stated.

"The doctrine of the Good Neighbor Commission is the best reply and the surest remedy for intolerance, the weakest emotion of the human spirit," he explained.

Dr. Guerra pointed out that "there exists an indifference to respecting the feelings of the Latin-American citizen; there exists, also, as we all know, a great hesitancy to adequately evaluate the work of the Mexican laborer as well as a continued oversight of his welfare and that of his family."

Official State Level

Neville Penrose of Fort Worth, chairman of the commission, reminded the visitors that "this is an auspicious occasion because it brings the problem of good relations to an official state level.

"This method, this meeting of governors, is an entirely new approach to a way to cure a problem that Washington and Mexico City has been trying to cure for the last century. You might say this brings it to a local level—to where the people most concerned have the most to say about it," Penrose declared.

The commission session was to follow a luncheon today.

Dolls Are Almost Human

MOMMY'S DOLL . . . This baby doll cries "mama" when cuddled. Realistic baby cry comes from a plastic "larynx."

PORTRAIT DOLL . . . This fashionable doll has her own shadow box and decorates the wall when not being used.

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Stars of the 1949 Christmas doll parade are so lifelike they would fool even a mother.

The newest edition of the baby doll cries, talks, breathes and has an almost human skin in addition to its earlier accomplishments of eating, wetting and blowing bubbles. So much like real babies are these prima donnas of toyland that little girls who own them will have sound training for future roles as mothers.

Mommy's Baby, a startlingly lifelike baby doll, cries "mama" with clear enunciation of syllables when the body or legs are patted. This realistic baby cry is achieved by a plastic voice box designed on the principle of the human larynx.

There's a new kind of talking-doll which laughs, cries, coos and carries on an animated conversation by means of a phonograph record concealed in the body. When the key is wound the doll produces realistic baby talk for several minutes.

The Dydee doll comes this year equipped with a diaper can and a nurse's outfit complete with rubber gloves for the small mother. Complete paraphernalia for mixing a formula also is available.

Little girls can now try out new hairdos on a new doll which comes with a home permanent wave kit. A new kind of nylon wig is used which is chemically treated to withstand frequent waving.

Portrait dolls, fashionably costumed, are packed in shadow boxes designed to be permanent pictures on the nursery wall.

There's a considerable increase in the number of boy dolls this year. The juvenile enthusiasm for cowboys has inspired a whole crop of bronco-busting dolls with ten-gallon hats and lariats. There also are boy dolls dressed in everything from overalls to boxing trunks. Brother and sister dolls also are popular.

Whole miniature families are available to tenant the elaborate new doll houses of the season, some of which have electric lights and modern architecture.

Christmas Is Best Time In Year For Giving Parties

By VIVIAN BROWN
Associated Press Staff Writer

THERE are so many reasons for having a Christmas party. You can make it a Christmas Eve party when festivities begin late, when carols are in order and bacon and eggs are served just before the guests go home. Or you can plan a mid-day Christmas party or a party on Christmas night. It is up to you.

Your invitation to the party can be cut out of red mat paper that measures 12 by 3 1/2 inches. It is folded in half to form a booklet and the cover is pasted with a few attractive Christmas seals. Inside paste scattered snowflakes cut out from lace paper doilies. Leave room to write your invitation and use white or green ink if you want it to be effective.

If your guests are to sit at the table and be served a repast, you can make delightful place mats out of dark green mat paper. Make a pattern of a large, full Christmas tree roughly 16 inches wide at the broadest part and 12 inches high. Trace outline on green mat stock and cut out. Paste on tree snowflakes cut out from the doilies and little red dot seals that give the appearance of Christmas tree balls.

Little cone trees make wonderful centerpieces for table or buffet. You roll a piece of red mat stock into a cone about 9 inches high. (Four of them make a tree.) Fasten with paper clips. Then take a square 8-inch doily and cut it into four quarters. Around the outer edges, paste a narrow white crepe-paper ruffle. Then, holding the trimmed doily quarter like a triangle with the point at the top, past it over the cone. Four of these will make the main part of the tree.

The trunk is made by taking 4 pieces of spool wire, each 13 inches long. Hold them together with one wire held 1/2 inch above the other three. Wrap the wires with red crepe paper to form the tree trunk. Fasten narrow tips of the 4 red cones about 1/2 inch from the top of the tree trunk. To hide the place where the 4 cones are pasted to the trunk at the top, add a narrow white crepe-paper ruffle at the base of the tree trunk .Then put tree trunk through the open center of a roll of white crepe-paper streamers which serves as the base for the tree. Trim streamer roll with a narrow green ribbon Tie in a lovely full bow.

Christmas Quis . . . Give each guest a pencil and paper. Tell everyone that you are going to quote a line from each of ten famous Christmas songs or carols. They are to identify the song or carol by its correct title. For example you might quote: "Laughing all the way." This should be associated with "Jingle Bells." Another line might be "Just like the one I used to know" which comes from "White Christmas". Still another one might be "All is bright" from "Silent Night,,; or pick a not too well known hymn to stump the experts. The person who has the greatest number of correct answers should get a prize.

* * *

Jingle Bells Dance . . . Give each girl a bracelet of jingle bells. String five or six merry little silver jingle bells on a piece of narrow red ribbon just long enough to go around a girl's wrist. Before the dance begins have each girl's partner tie the bracelet on her wrist. Appoint one person to serve as "Stop-the-Music Master." His job is to keep turning off the radio or phonograph at irregular intervals without letting the dancing couples know exactly when. Each time the music stops the couples are supposed to stop dancing instantly. The girl whose bracelet jingles the longest after the music stops is eliminated along with her partner. The prize is awarded to the last couple left—the couple with the best jingle control.

At every Christmas party there should be gifts. Naturally a teenage purse doesn't allow for luxury items. A good idea is a Christmas Santa pack. (Mom's laundry bag will serve the purpose) chock full of little inexpensive items. The boys can bring presents for girls and the girls can bring gifts for the boys. Make it a grab bag for Yule fun.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Popular Girl, Experienced In Dating, Has Met Ideal Man; Can She Be Sure Of Him?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am in my early twenties, hold a responsible job, have many friends and no shortage of beaus. I have had several crushes and once I went steady with a young man for several months, but I've never cared seriously for anyone until my most recent friend.

Jack is wonderful! After dating him for six months, I am sure he is the man I want. He knows his place in every instance and never once have I had to be on the defensive against liberties. But what bothers me is that I cannot fathom his feelings and I never know whether he is going to keep a date with me.

Although he hasn't said anything to indicate that he is smitten with me, he asks for a date weeks in advance, and he kissed me on our last two dates. On the most recent date we kissed as if it were a reunion of two persons who had been separated for a long time. Being a very sincere and emotional person, I cannot suppress my real feelings and I am sure he knows already how much I care for him.

FEARS HER FERVOR MAY FRIGHTEN MAN

WE have a date for next weekend and I am in agony trying to believe he will show up. I have no particular reason to suppose he won't, except that I think I might be scaring him away by being overly enthusiastic.

For instance, last time he was here I told him about my fear that he won't show up for dates, and he laughed. But when I added that it probably meant I wanted to see him so much, he evaded the sentiment by saying goodnight. At present he is in no position to commit himself, as he is studying to be a teacher and it will be quite a while before he can consider marriage.

As I know that I care for him very much, but could very well be spoiling things for myself, I would appreciate your good judgment in the matter.

Signed: C. J.

THINKS CHICKENS ARE COMING HOME

DEAR C. J.: Apparently it is a new and utterly confusing experience to you to be the supplicant, as it were, in a romantic relationship. It seems the situation finds you not only unprepared and unrehearsed, but worse yet, panicked by fear of chickens coming home to roost. By which I mean, fear that your Dream Man may be a careless of your hopes and plans as you've been careless of other boys' feelings in times past.

I gather that until now in your dating history, you've been accustomed to granting dates in the spirit of Lady Bountiful conferring a favor, or perhaps in the mood of a gambler playing with chance. And that you either kept or broke these advance arrangements as suited your whim at the eleventh hour. And in the event the date was kept, that much of your attention was given, not to sentiment, but to defending your person from the conquistadorial designs of the evening's companion. Also I gather you enjoyed this sport somewhat, at least in the sense of feeling flattered by it.

However, in the company of Gentleman Jack, who observes decorum without coercion, you've toppled face forward psychologically, and find yourself figuratively at his feet; and I should say this is a result of your being conditioned to put up a fight on dates, and of being thrown completely off balance when it developed that he was out of line with your customary pitch of resistance.

BUILD FRIENDSHIP, CURB EMOTIONALISM

ALARMED by this turn of events, stripped of the assurance, prestige and bargaining value of being the besieged individual in the dating relationship, you have become prey to fearful anxiety that you are due to receive the same hartless treatment you casually dealt out when you had the upperhand in this game. In short, you are reading your "sins" into Jack's character, instead of biding your time to learn the truth about him.

Since Jack asks for dates weeks ahead, and hasn't failed to keep any dates in the time you've known him, it doesn't make sense to suffer agonies of fear that he may not call again. Instead of waxing wistful with him about your suspense, better praise him humorously for his uplifting example in being so reliable and punctual so far.

Finally, since you care so much and he cannot commit himself for a long time yet, it were wisdom on your part to shift the emphasis from emotional kissing to clear-eyed friendship when together, and use each date as opportunity to broaden the scope of social interests and activities mutually enjoyed. M. H.

Giant B-36 Ship's Structure Changed

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The far-flying B-36 bombers are undergoing some changes, suggested by two years of cold weather testing, to enable them to operate from frigid bases in the Arctic.

From such fields, the reach of the 10,000-mile range intercontinental bomber could be extended deep down into the Eurasian land mass. In this vastness Russia is reported to have tucked away atomic and other war goods manufacturing plants.

Taken in conjunction with another previously disclosed plan, this would give the United States air force a double-barreled weapon for warfare over the top of the world.

An air force official, testifying last summer before a congressional committee, mentioned that "a typical polar operation might involve aircraft taking off from United States air bases, the staging or topping off of these aircraft at a forward base in northern Canada, Greenland, or even the polar ice cap."

Obviously involved in this planning is the use of the aerial refueling system, by which medium bombers of the B-29 and B-50 type are given extended range through a fill-up of their fuel system from "tanker" planes meeting them at rendezvous points.

Thus, targets in Eurasia would be within reach of either the B-36 or the B-29 and B-50 types.

Problems Encountered

Replying to a reporter's questions about operation of B-36s in the Arctic, the air force said this today:

1. The big bomber has "performed satisfactorily under extreme weather conditions" both in the experimental elimatic hangar at Eglin air base, Fla., and under cold weather conditions in Alaska, where B-36s have been sent for the last two winters.

2. As was anticipated with a plane so huge and complex as the B-36, "numerous operating problems occasioned by extreme low temperatures have been encountered." The solution of the problems has "resulted in changes in the B-36," but the air force declined to indicate what they involved.

3. The cold weather testing program is still not complete and "tests will continue for an indefinite period."

The problem is to condition a plane—its engine, landing gear, brakes, a multitude of other equipment—to operate and not break when the thermometer is at 30, 40 or below zero.

Special lubricants and lubricating equipment is needed; special hydraulic fluid for controls, landing gear and brakes is required. Ordinary rubber in tires and hose line connections grows as fragile as glass under extremely low temperatures. Metal also bears less sudden stress. Special gadgets are needed to prevent icing up of fuel and carburetion systems at the critical moment when a big bomber gets off the ground and full power is demanded from the engine.

Prays Doctors Can Make Him Black Again

Negro, Turned White By Rare Skin Malady, Dislikes Color

(By The United Press)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.—A negro who passed for a white man when his skin turned white said today he prays that doctors can make him black again.

"I want my color back," 29-year-old Charles C. Howard said. "It's not that I don't like white people. But I'm proud of my race. I want to be a real negro again."

Howard, who was born in Shreveport, La., began turning white last year. He went to General hospital here in September, 1948. Doctors said he slowly turned pale through a rare skin malady. Technically, they called him an albino.

"I went up to San Francisco, where nobody knows me," Howard said. "I went everywhere white people did, and nobody seemed to mind. I talked with the white girls at the bars, just to make conversation. I never took up with any, though."

"There was one colored girl I liked, but she laughed at me. Said I was the wrong color."

Howard was arrested for grand theft when he came back to Los Angeles. He already had a record of 25 arrests and three years in the Huntsville, Texas, penitentiary. He is now in the Los Angeles county jail hospital.

"When I first noticed I was turning white I was scared," Howard said. "Then I cried. I want my color back."

Musician Entertains At Jaycee Luncheon

Two piano solo numbers were presented to the Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce today at a luncheon meeting in the Hilton Hotel by Miss Mary Lou Colvin of Tulsa.

Miss Colvin, a senior student at North Texas State college at Denton, was introduced by Bill Harrod, conductor of the Lubbock Symphony orchestra, with whom she will make an appearance tonight. Jack Blankenship was program chairman.

The second part of the program was a speech on the Hoover Commission report by County Attorney Waggoner Carr, a member of the club.

He said "the Hoover Commission report doesn't eliminate benefits and services to the American people but eliminates waste, duplication of effort and corruption in our government."

He was introduced by Clifton Haynie. R. S. Wilkinson presided and Harold Banks gave the invocation.

The fierce Abipone Indians of the Gran Chaco region, Latin America, became extinct both because of battles and a peculiar custom of killing all but two children of each family, says the Encyclopedia Americana.

City Elevens Bid For Crown

Upsets Scored In Class AA

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

One championship will be determined and the battle for another will reach its quarter-final round this week in Texas schoolboy football.

The City conference title goes on the line at Dallas Saturday afternoon when Sunset (Dallas) plays Thomas Jefferson (San Antonio). The teams have similar records, each having won 10 and lost one, and there is no comparison on the basis of season records. But Jefferson will be the favorite because it played a stronger schedule.

In Class AA two undefeated, untied teams roll against decided underdogs, Wichita Falls,, which has a 11-0 record, takes on Austin of El Paso (8-2) at Wichita Falls Saturday. Wichita Falls will be favored but the margin would have been overwhelming except for a little incident of last week. That incident was mighty Lubbock, rated the best in the upper bracket, falling before Austin 37-12. This goes down as the major upset of the season.

Port Arthur Favored

Port Arthur, the No. 1 eleven of the state (according to the sports writers), takes on Marshall at Marshall Friday night. Port Arthur is unbeaten and untied in 11 games, Marshall has a 10-1 mark. The Marshall loss was to South Park of Beaumont 13-7 and Port Arthur whammed South Park 34-7. Also, Marshall beat Beaumont 28-6 and PortArthur slaughtered Beaumont 72-13. A Marshall victory would rate alongside the Austin (El Paso) upset of Lubbock.

In another quarter-final game Highland Park (Dallas) takes on resurging Abilene at Dallas Saturday afternoon. Highland Park has a 10-1 record, Abilene shows 8-2-1 but the Eagles have been coming on like the wind the past month. They beat Breckenridge 35-0 last week. Breck was sorely crippled but the fact remains that Breckenridge tied Abilene 7-7 in early season.

Austin Meets Alice

The fourth contest pits Austin against Alice at Ailce Saturday Afternoon. Each team has won 10 and lost one. On a comparative basis, Austin will be a top-heavy favorite. Austin licked Corpus Christi 27-7 and Corpus Christi beat Alice 12-0.

In Last week's first round of the state play-off, Sunset edged Paschal (Fort Worth) 26-24 and Thomas Jefferson nosed out San Jacinto (Houston) in the City conference while in the Class AA there were these results:

Wichita Falls 20, Pampa 12.
Austin (El Paso) 37, Lubbock 12.
Abilene 35, Breckenridge 0.
Highland Park 33, Paris 0.
Marshall 26, Conroe 7.
Port Arthur 26, Galveston 7.
Austin 33, Corsicana 19.
Alice 12, Harlingen 6.

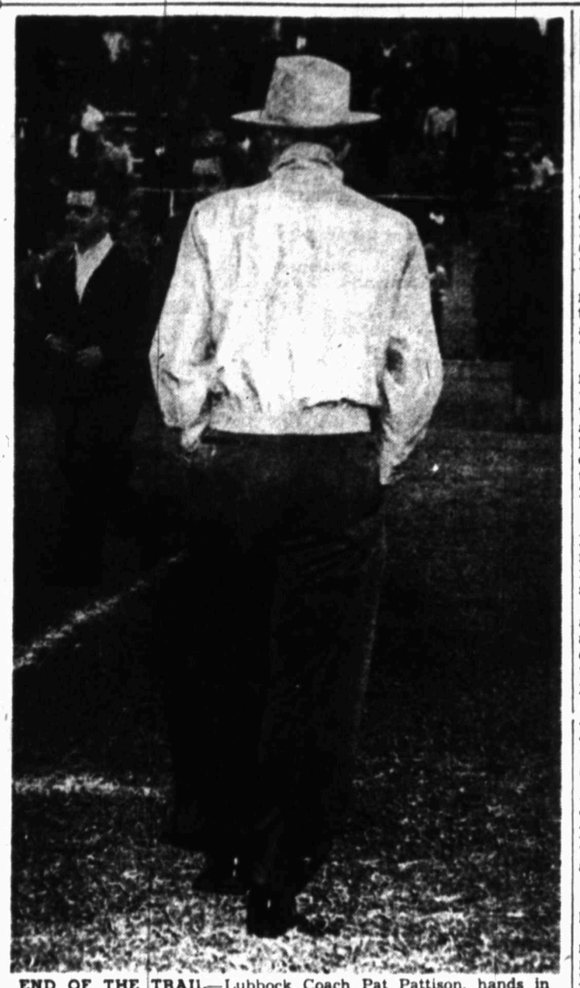

Austin Scores Upset

The Austin (El Paso) victory was the feature but Austin also dealt out an upset in knocking down the undefeated, untied Corsicana outfit and Galveston gave Port Arthur a much better game than expected although it was played in a driving rain, and a muddy field is a great equalizer.

Dallas will be the center of football interest with two big games in one afternoon. Highland Park's stadium seats 10,000. Dal-Hi, where Jefferson battles Sunset, can handle over 20,000. Both places are due to be filled.

In next week's semi-finals the teams will pair like this:

Wichita Falls-Austin (El Paso) winner vs Highland Park-Abilene winner, Port Arthur - Marshall winner vs Austin-Alice winner.

END OF THE TRAIL—Lubbock Coach Pat Pattison, hands in pockets, strolls alone across the field to offer post-game congratulations to Coach Red Harris, whose Austin High Panthers had just upset the Westerners, 37-12, in the bi-district playoff game Saturday at El Paso. The unexpected defeat ended Lubbock's 12-gam victory streak, and toppled the Westerners from the Texas Class AA playoff. (Staff Photo by Choc Hutcheson.)

12-Game Winning Streak Broken Saturday

Westerners Greeted By Large Crowd On Return To Lubbock

A spirited welcome greeted the Lubbock Westerner football team Sunday on their 4:45 p. m. arrival from El Paso, and approximately 150 friends and relatives turned out to greet the squad at Chapman fieldhouse.

Cheers and the school song met the team members as they filed out of the bus carrying their equipment, and Lubbock supporters made the team feel that they were still behind them.

Long Ride Home

The Westerners left El Paso at 8 a.m. (MST) Sunday, ate in Carlsbad, N. M., and then made the last leg of the trip into Lubbock.

The ride back was a long one for the team, which dropped its bi-district tilt to Austin High of El Paso by a 37-12 count on Saturday and was eliminated from the state schoolboy playoff.

But the boys stood up well under the defeat after a lapse immediately following the contest, conceding the fact that El Paso had outplayed them.

For the Westerners it was the most successful season in a decade, when Lubbock won the state schoolboy crown by defeating Waco in the finals.

In 1941 the Westerners won their district after ending in a tie with Pampa, being defeated in the bi-district by Wichita Falls.

The loss to El Paso Austin broke a 12-game winning streak which began in 1948 with a 47-0 victory over Plainview. The last game of that season saw the Westerners thump Brownfield, 46-0, and then take 10 straight this year to win the district title and rank second in the state at the end of the regular season.

But Saturday the charges of Coach Pat Pattison ran into the equivilent of a football buzz saw in the form of Austin's Panthers and could never find themselves, although leading 6-0 and 12-6 on two occasions during the game.

Roberts Slightly Injured

Offensively the Westerners were stymied by the Panthers, except for one 70 yard burst by Fullback Malcolm Young and a 35 yard carry by Halfback Wayne Stroud, other gains being shorter.

Defensively the standouts were Quarterback Bobby Brown, who stopped several near touchdown gallops by Austin High backs and Douglas Wienke, fast moving Lubbock center.

Only serious injury sustained in the game was by Tackle Curtis Roberts, who received a bruised hip, but he returned to the sidelines late in the game after being taken by ambulance to a hospital for a check on a possible fracture. Roberts was feeling all right Sunday during the trip back.

Oklahoma Team Wins Inter-College Rodeo

COLLEGE STATION, Dec. 5 (U.P.)—A college team from Oklahoma today added rodeo laurels to the football honors already won by the Sooner state.

In the first national intercollegiate rodeo here yesterday, Oklahoma A. & M. scored 359 points to defeat its nearest competitor, Sul Ross college of Alpine, Tex., which rang up 325 points.

Harley May of Sul Ross won the all-around cowboy award with 240 points, with Buddy Reger of Oklahoma A. & M. taking second place with 194.5 points.

New Mexico A. & M. was third in team competition, scoring 260 points, trailed by Texas Tech, 180; University of New Mexico, 167; Colorado A. & M., 135; Arlington (Tex.),State, 112; Texas A. & I., 95; West Texas State, 87, Texas A. & M., the host school, 50, and Hardin-Simmons, 40.

Third place for individual honors went to New Mexico A. & M.'s Harry Hopson with 155 points. Kit Pettigrew of Texas Tech was fourth with 150 points.

BEAR CAGERS OPEN

DALLAS, Dec. 5. (AP)—Baylor, which snared the Southwest conference basketball championship last season with Rice and Arkansas, opens the 1949-50 season tonight against North Texas State.

Notre Dame To Lose Regulars

DALLAS, Dec. 5 (AP) — Notre Dame's gridiron champions are on the way home boasting the greatest four-year record in Fighting Irish history—but take it from Coach Frank Leahy, they accomplished it in the nick of time.

Next year, laments that rugged individualist among pessimists, his team can't hope to be half as strong as the 1949 outfit which he called "the greatest team I ever coached."

Happy that they were able to finish four seasons without defeat while winning 36 games and tying two, the Irish still are talking about the thunderous game they had here Saturday when it required every ounce of drive and fight to turn back Southern Methodist 27-20.

Most Starters Lost

From this year's team — voted No. 1 in the nation—Leahy loses nine and one-half starters. And from the remainder of his first string squad 10 more depart.

That one-half starter comes about in this manner: Bob Lally and Fred Wallner divided time at one guard position. Lally is through but Wallner has another year.

Notre Dame is swept clean of all-American. End Leon Hart, Tackle Jim Martin, and Fullback Emil (Six-yard) Sitko, all are due to graduate.

Others lost from the starting team are End Bill Wightkin, Tackle Ralph McGehee, Guard Frank Johnson, Center Walt Grothaus and Backs Frank Spaniel and Larry Coutre.

12 Players Return

Twelve players with varsity experience return.

Leahy says he doesn't expect much help from this season's freshmen. He and Ed Krause, Notre Dame athletic director, say "there are no outstanding prospects."

"We will lose five games next year," Leahy laments.

The meeting of Leahy and Matty Bell, Southern Methodist coach, was a sort of moaner's convention. Bell long has been noted for his dour outlook and Leahy runs Matty a close race. Before the current season opened, each coach (as if reading the other's mind) predicted his team would lose four games. Bell became quite a prophet because that's exactly what his team did. Leahy failed to make the grade. But it hasn't changed Frank's attitude in the least.

Football Letters Awarded At Lamesa

LAMESA, Dec. 5. (Special)—Football letters have been awarded to 20 varsity players at Lamesa High school and three numerals have been given to team managers for the 1949 season, Coach Bob Harrell has announced.

Under Harrell's guidance, the Golden Tornadoes won six games and lost four to finish with the best mark in a decade of Class AA play.

Co-Captains Named

Lamesa counted 191 points against 148 points for the opposition. Victories were recorded over Levelland, Seminole, Plainview, Big Spring, Quanah and Brownfield. Setbacks were suffered at the hands of Lubbock, Odessa, Pampa and Midland.

Center Bill Hart and Quarterback Bobby Hawkins, both seniors, were named co-captains of the eleven at the close of the 10-game schedule.

Lettermen Announced

Letter winners are Jerry Phillips, T. J. Womack, Marshall Crawford, Jamie Pearson, Robert Adair, Phil Johnson, Jim Bob Boothe, Keith White, Doyle Lee Beck, Richard Zeeck, Donald Cotten, Bill Hart Bobby Hawkins, Dick Echols, Ronald Chapman, Larry Lattimore, Delbert Dickenson, Randall Reeves, Jerry Milsapps, and Don Hackney. This group includes Twelve seniors, five juniors and three sophomores.

Team managers receiving awards are Buddy Quisenberry, Bob Cox and Billy Dunn.

Reserve numerals went to Johnny Montgomery, Tinkey Lambert, Ray Taylor, I. V. Ferguson, Bill Wilson, Doyle Matlock, Edwin Thomas and Troy Moore.

Fighting Irish Or "Crying Irish?"

DALLAS, Dec. 5 (U.P.)—Sideline photographers who did a little eavesdropping said today that Notre Dame's Fighting Irish might be more aptly named the "crying Irish."

This was one of the many comments which poured forth in the wake of the 27-20 squeak Notre Dame scored over Southern Methodist Saturday. Although the Irish thus finished their fourth consecutive season without a defeat, setting a new record, their detractors were many.

One veteran photographer, who roamed the sidelines in front of the Irish bench in pursuit of his duties, said, "why those guys were crying at every decision of the officials, and not just the ones even the fans thought might be in error.

"SMU got as many bad breaks as the Irish on decisions, but they were way behind on the squawking."

Southwest conference coaches who sa wthe game from the grandstand were not overly impressed by the Notre Dame might.

TAAF Tourney Entries Hiked

Three new entries have been received for the TAAF Boxing tournament that will be held at Sled Allen's arena Thursday and Friday nights.

James and Douglas Forbes, brothers from Brownfield, and Ray Briscoe, also from Brownfield, sent their entries in over the weekend. James Forbes is 19 years old, weighs 147 pounds. His novice brother is 16 and weighs 127 pounds. Briscoe is still lighter at 116 pounds.

Plainview May Enter

While the three additional boxers swell the roster of pugilists to 44, indications were that a large group might come in from Plainview. Willis Hawkins, former West Texas State college student and state Golden Gloves middleweight contender for the past two years, said that he might bring a group down from Plainview. He is coaching boxers of that city.

Fight fans should see two jampacked nights of action when the amateur fighters come together. The list of entries contains many names familiar to South Plains fans, along with several boys not so well known, but who are able.

Thursday Noon Deadline

Deadline for entries in the two-night fight tourney will be Thursday noon. Boxers will weigh in from 3 to 5 p.m. that day, with the first bouts scheduled to start about 7:30 p. m.

Winners will receive an all-expense paid trip to Fort Worth for the state TAAF finals.

The tournament is sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 2466.

Kyle Rote Tops SWC

Mustangs' Ace Gets Top Spot

By WILBUR MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

Kyle Rote used a sensational performance against Notre Dame Saturday to win the Southwest conference ball-carrying and punting championships.

The big Southern Methodist university junior also wound up third in conference scoring, thanks to the three touchdowns he scored against the mighty Irish.

Rote Gains 115 Yards

Southern Methodist's 27-20 loss to Notre Dame closed out the regular season for conference teams. Rice has a Cotton bowl engagement Jan. 2 with North Carolina and Baylor may play the College of Pacific in a post-season game on the west coast. But the other clubs are through until next year.

Rote ran for 115 yards against Notre Dame to finish with a rushing total of 777 yards on 142 carries. Arkansas' Geno Mazzanti was second with 743 yards and Gordon Wyatt of Rice third with 704.

Rote's punting average was 44.4 yards on 22 kicks. Teammate Doak Walker was second with an average of 41.7.

Walker Tops Scores

Walker, who sat out his last collegiate game because of an injured leg, topped scorers with 83 points. Randall Clay of Texas was second with 76 and Rote third with 74.

The conference's intersectional record this year was 14 victories, seven defeats and one tie.

The final season standings:

Team—	W	L	T
Rice	9	1	0
Baylor	8	2	0
Texas Christian	6	3	1
Texas	6	4	0
Southern Methodist	5	4	1
Arkansas	5	5	0
Texas A. and M.	1	8	1

Important Baseball Deals Set At Meet

BALTIMORE, Dec. 5. (AP)—Not a single big league trade may be announced at this 48th annual minor league baseball convention that opens here today and does not end until Friday, Dec. 9. But that does not mean that none will be consummated.

It is almost a certainty that at least two, perhaps three, player deals of "sizeable proportions" will be ready to be announced at the major league sessions in New York next week.

The New York Yankees have been trying to wrangle Pitcher Rae Scarborough and First Baseman Eddie Robinson away from the Washington Senators.

The New York Giants have made a cash offer to the Boston Braves for veteran Second Baseman Eddie Stanky.

The third deal that may jell involves the St. Louis Browns and Detroit Tigers with Brownie Second Baseman Gerry Priddy as the key figure.

Indians taught the American colonists how to plant cover crops of squash, pumpkin, and beans between the rows.

Ike Williams Faces Fred Dawson Tonight

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5 (AP)—Ike Williams, with everything to lose and very little to gain, defends his lightweight boxing championship tonight in a 15 rounder with Chicago's Freddy Dawson.

Williams is risking his crown against a guy he already has licked twice in non-title engagements and for a share of the cheapest priced title fight in recent years. Top price for the Phil Glassman sponsored bout is $6.50. Some 10,000 fans are expected at Convention hall for the 10 p. m. bell.

In previous matches between the two contestants, Williams knocked out Dawson in four and won a disputed 10 round decision. Dawson earned a draw in an earlier 10 rounder. Williams is a 2 to 1 favorite for tonight's battle.

This may be the last time Williams defends his lightweight laurels—win, lose or draw. The Trenton, N. J., socker has had lots of trouble getting down to the 135 pound weight limit in recent bouts and may move up into welterweight ranks.

The champion is making this fight under somewhat of a cloud. Only last week he was suspended by the National Boxing association—although permitted to carry out tonight's title defense. The suspension came at the request of the California state athletic commission. The California body said it would not reinstate Williams until he honors a contract for a fight with Bernard Docusen or reimburses the Los Angeles Olympic club for $2,000 spent promoting the contest.

Williams claimed he had to call off the Docusen bout because of an injured hand but would be glad to meet Bernie any time the Los Angeles promoter offers a date.

Between the Lines by Joe Kelly

If a census had been taken five minutes after the El Paso-Lubbock game Saturday had ended, it would have been hard to tell who was the most crushed, Lubbock players or Lubbock supporters here. Certainly the shock was one felt throughout the South Plains. And so far as we know, there was only one person happy over the outcome. Late Saturday night the phone rang and this individual asked if it were the sports department. Yes, came the reply. "Can you tell me the score in the game this afternoon?" Sure, El Paso 37, Lubbock 12. "Lubbock lost? Yea, man, that's wonderful. Thanks."

• • •

We're glad that there was one person around here who thought it was wonderful. We'd hate to have had the lone person disappointed. He'd have been so lonely. We know it wasn't a Plainview, Seminole, Brownfield or Tahoka man, for those cities expressed regret. It might have been Midland, Lamesa, Amarillo, Vernon, Childress or one of the other cities whose teams took it on the chin from the Westerners. We don't know and we don't particularly care who it was calling. But for the rest of use there was only sorrow. Let's see, we predicted Lubbock to win by 28-7. Ho hum. That ought to teach anyone a lesson who takes the predictions of a sports writer seriously—if there are any who do.

• • •

At any rate, the season is over and all is not lost. The Westerners, despite their defeat Saturday, had a fine team. They have the honor of having gone through a 10-game schedule without defeat, although there were only about three teams on the roster that could extend this team at all. They were Pampa, Odessa and Midland. There have been no alibis for the licking so far and we don't intend to start any now. The Westerners might, at some point during the season, have been a better team than El Paso, but the fact remains that Saturday they weren't. Like two years ago when SMU beat Texas 14-13 on two quick touchdowns. Everyone said that if the two teams had played for the next six days, Texas would have won six times. Fortunately, teams only play once and they are judged on that performance. Lubbock didn't have it Saturday.

• • •

Littlefield goes into the quarter-final round of the state Class A championships this week with a rough, rugged foe in Ballinger. The way Ballinger manhandled a good Wink eleven caused a good deal of respect among those who saw the game. Coach J. S. Fikes of the Wildcats said that they had a big, rugged line that charged well and that they'd be a hard team to beat. He thought that the ball handling wasn't too good, but he said to keep close tabs on a back named Hallmark. He remarked that that boy is the type who will go all the way on any play. Naturally, Fikes thought his Wildcats would win the game coming up, but he also has deep respect for Ballinger. Too bad Lubbock couldn't get the game, since the football slate here is clean for the year, but Odessa was the natural spot.

• • •

Since writing last, a San Jose State alumnus has written to contradict the statistics we printed last week. According to him, the figures were too low in each case and San Jose really is a much larger institution than indicated by us. But those figures were obtained by Clark Schooley from a college bluebook and were two years old. San Jose has a studium capable of seating 15,000 fans. They say it is similar to Amarillo High school's stadium in that it is sunken, providing a natural setting among the hills. Elevation in Fresno is 293 feet, considerably lower than Lubbock.

• • •

Incidentally, Kerme Anderson, chairman of the Raisin Bowl committee, wires us San Jose's season's record and the Raisin Bowl's record. The latter is as follows: First game, Drake 13, Fresno State 12; Second game, San Jose State 20, Utah State 0; Third game, College of the Pacific 26, game, Occidental 21, Colorado A. and M. 20. As for the Spartan record for 1949, it looks as though the Red Raiders had run into a tarter. The 1949 record is: San Jose 103, Mexico Univ. 0; SJ 40, Brigham Young 21; SJ 49, Pepperdine 12; SJ 55, Santa Barbara 14; SJ 47, California Poly 0; SJ 40, San Diego State 0; SJ 40, Marys 7; SJ 43, Fresno State 7. Losses were to Stanford, 49-0; Santa Clara 14-13; San Francisco 27-20; and College of the Pacific 45-7.

• • •

That's an impressive offensive record and indicates that the Raiders will be kept busy, either trying to stop the onslaught or trying to outscore the Spartans. San Jose averaged 38 points per game while allowing an average of 15.5. Tech averaged 15.8 points per game while allowing an average of 14.9. Throwing out games both teams played in their respective conference and taking the four games that might be said to be against major foes, San Jose still has a better record. They averaged 10 points a game in those losses, while allowing 33, and Tech averaged only three, while allowing 31. Again it points toward a strong defensive team in its own class playing a strong offensive team. In fact, the parallel between San Jose and Hardin-Simmons seems strong. But your guess is as good as anyone's between two teams without common foes.

Finding Stadium For Bowl Game Problem

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5 (AP)—Finding a stadium is still the biggest problem for promoters who would like to see Baylor and College of Pacific meet in a Press Bowl football game.

Dec. 26 has been agreed upon as the date, President Leo Lee of San Francisco's Press club said yesterday. But officials of the East-West Shrine game to be played Dec. 31 have refused to permit use of the Kezar stadium here. Lee said one of several other northern California stadiums may be used.

The Press club, which is sponsoring the game, had selected Kezar stadium, this city's only stadium. Shrine game officials said, however, they had a standing agreement with the park commission that no game would be played on the Kezar turf during the two weeks preceding the East-West classic. They did not object to a proposed Jan. 2 date but Press Bowl sponsors found that date unacceptable, Lee said.

Browns, 49ers In Final Game

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—Cleveland and San Francisco meet next Sunday for the All-America football conference championship while the National league's regular season ends with the Chicago Bears trying to overtake the Los Angeles Rams for western division honors.

In yesterday's AAC semifinal playoffs, Cleveland's Browns eliminated the Buffalo Bills, 31-21. At San Francisco, the 49ers outplayer the New York Yankees, 17-7.

Rams Blow Chance

In Sunday's final at Cleveland, the Browns will seek to keep the title they've held since the conference's inception in 1946.

The Rams blew their chance yesterday to wrap up the western division crown in the NFL, losing a 31-27 decision to the Chicago Cardinals.

Their setback, coupled with a 30-21 victory for the second-place Bears over the Pittsburgh Steelers at Chicago, kept the western race alive.

The Rams, who have won seven games, lost two and tied two, still figure to wind up as the team that will meet the Philadelphia Eagles, eastern division winners, in the league playoff for the title Dec. 18.

Their next Sunday opponents will be the Washington Redskins, no ball of fire, while the Bears, who have an 8-3-0 record, must tackle the tough Cardinals.

Eagles Get Workout

The Eagles, who had cemented first place in the eastern circuit a week before, had a mere workout in crushing New York's second-place Giants, 24-3.

In other NFL games, Detroit edged the New York Bulldogs at home, 28-27, and at Washington, the Redskins routed Green Bay, 30-0.

Washington's ageless pass master, Sammy Baugh, Texas Christian veteran, ran eight yards on his own for a touchdown and teammate Dick Poillon starred with three field goals.

An extra-point kick blocked by Detroit's Les Bingaman saved the Lions' lone-point win over the Bulldogs. The losers Bobby Layne formerly of Texas, connected with 25 of 40 passed for three touchdowns and 230 yards.

CRUNCH!—Notre Dame Back Lawrence Coutre, (24), is raised off the ground by three hard-tackling Southern Methodist university players after he gained eight yards on a handoff in the third period of the game in the Dallas Cotton Bowl. Notre Dame won, 27-20. (AP Photo).

Youthful Philadelphia Phillies Rated As Strong Flag Threats In 1950 Chase

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5. — Warning that there is a widening gap in baseball's brain brigade, Bob Carpenter, energetic young president of the Philadelphia Phillies, suggested today that stars reaching the end of their playing days study the game so as to fill the breach.

"You'd be surprised how scarce the men are who can judge big league talent successfully," explained the husby scion of the famed Du Pont clan. "Just because a man has been in the major leagues doesn't mean he will work out as an executive.

Can't Buy Brains

"You can buy players, but you can't buy brains," he added. "What is needed most in baseball now are the men who can go out, look over the field and tell with some success who the stars are going to be."

Along that line, the 34-year-old Phillies' president gives high credit to Branch Rickey, Brooklyn Dodger president. And he admits that the Phillies miss the late Herb Pennock, who died in 1948 after getting the club's youth program under way.

Carpenter doesn't go all the way, however, with Rickey. The Dodger deacon groups all his clubs, the big one and the farm teams, in one single camp at Vero Beach, Fla., for spring training.

"That's not for me," said the man who converted the phutile Phillies into the fighting Phillies and last season gave his fans their best finish since 1917 by winding up in third place.

"We feel that there should be one club to a camp for more individual attention," big Bob added. "Lots of youngsters are lost in the other system, we feel, and everyone doesn't get a full trial.

Talking to the bubbling Bob you soon understand the rush with which the Phillies have come on to become a distinct pennant threat. When he bought the club at the end of 1943 for $500,000, he instituted a seven-year plan to bring it out of the doldrums.

Flag Threat Seen

"We are through being tail enders," he said then. "Let the other clubs watch out for us now."

One of his first moves was to hire Pennock, the former Yankee pitcher who was a splendid judge of baseball talent. Then they started the arduous job of rebuilding a club which had been milked constantly through the dreary years.

The seven years which Carpenter allowed will be up in 1950. And you can find a lot of baseball men who are touting the Phillies for the next season. Their rush from sixth place in 1948 to third place last season was a tipoff. It was their highest finish since they came home third in 1917 and their only trip to the first division since 1932 when they were fourth.

"We'll start giving them a bit of trouble now," he grinned.

And from the enthusiastic manner in which he said it, you had to believe the man.

A new speed-measuring instrument, designed to measure the speed of rotating shafts, is accurate to within one part in 15,000. Once every second, it flashes the shaft's speed during the past second onto a frosted glass screen.

Hockey League Needs Players

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—If you've ever wondered why hockey never fulfilled its promise of becoming a real big-league sport, Frank Boucher reluctantly admits it's because there aren't enough good players to go around . . . That's not exactly the way Frank puts it, but he can pick out three to five players on each National league team he terms outstanding star ("and no quotes, please; the other teams might get mad at me.") . . . And each team is carrying four or five players just good enough to hang on, who would be replaced if better players could be found.

Look Like "Juveniles"

If the league tried to expand, it would mean each team would have to carry more of these ineffectives . . . "I've been out west looking at amateurs, and the boys who are playing junior hockey look like juveniles," Boucher adds. "Even with 28 clubs to draw from, the minor league prospects aren't any better than the ones we have." . . . Frank blames the war for retarding the development of talent, but we're not so sure . . . Even in the old days there was just about enough material to give each club two good forward lines and four good defense men. But that was all they needed then.

Has Language Trouble

Danny Zawadiwski, who came from Germany to Watertown, S. D. as a displaced person, reported to high school Coach Cletus Clinker for basketball practice . . . Being a soccer player, he sometimes kicked the ball instead of dribbling it, but he tried hard and Clinker was sorry to put him name on the list of candidates to be dropped . . . But Danny couldn't read enough English to know what the list meant and Clinker couldn't speak enough German to tell him. . . . He continued to report and when the first game came, Danny was given a uniform . . . Now Clinker says he could make a basketball player out of the kid if he only could talk to him.

Joe Fulton Leads Gun Club Shooters

Only a handful of skeet shooters turned out at Lubbock Gun club Sunday, but their scores were high and most of the nimrods fired several rounds, with Joe Fulton breaking 193 of 200 targets to lead the shooting.

Other 12 gauge skeet shooters were Clyde Tatum, 70x75; Hal Langford, 23x25; John Gamble, 46x50; and E. T. Daniels, 47x50. With 20 gauge Daniels fired 45x 50. Langford broke 22x25 with a 28 gauge, and firing 410's were R. J. Cramer, 42x50, and Clyde Tatum, 20x25.

Some first-timers at the club turned in creditable scores. They were Keeton Brazell, 75x100; Richard Dickey, 71x100; Bill Oden, 59x75; ad Harry Mayes, 49x75.

BISHOPS SOUND DIRE WARNING

Religious War For Czechs Threatened

(By The United Press)

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Dec. 5—Roman Catholic bishops have warned the Communist government that the new church laws have brought the nation to the brink of religious war.

The new laws, which went into effect Nov. 1, wrested legal control of the church in Czechoslovakia from the Vatican and passed it to the Communist regime.

Refuse To Obey Laws

But in a letter to the government dated Nov. 17, and made public yesterday, the bishops said millions of Catholics, both clergy and laymen, would refuse to obey the laws.

"But should—God forbid—our proclamation start a cultural battle, the entire world will see that it was not started by us because we are only complying with our holy duty to defend God's interests," the bishops letter said.

The letter demanded revision of several sections of the new laws.

Revisions Demanded

These revisions include restoration of power to the bishops to appoint priests, run their own consistories, publish Catholic literature and elimination of "secular" powers given to the new government office of church affairs.

"We ask the government of the Czechoslovakia republic to stop violating God's law and not to enforce an unjust law by threats or by persecution of the church," the letter said.

"We can not give to an emperor what is God's."

The church had protested against the laws in the past and asked for revision.

Laws Are Blasted

Besides the campaign waged here against the new laws, the Vatican periodically has blasted the laws via its Czech language broadcasts.

Only last week the Vatican charged that hundreds of Catholic priests who fought against the new laws had been thrown into government jails and labor camps.

It said a truckload of priests was sighted rolling through Prague streets last week en route to a Prague prison.

May Seek Change

The full Senate-House economic committee may recommend some change in the Federal Reserve board's powers over credit and interest — a topic which touched off last week's squabble between Secretary of the Treasury Snyder and Federal Reserve board member Marriner Eccles.

Eccles charged the treasury with having an "easy money bias." He said treasury's insistence on keeping interest rates low — so as to hold down the interest cost on the national debt — makes it easy to borrow money, encourages inflation, and prevents federal reserve from keeping a checkrein on credit.

Eccles, Snyder and Federal Reserve Chairman Thomas B. McCabe will battle that issue out in a secret session of the committee this week.

Red Ink Spending

Meantime all hands admit that it is inflationary for the government to be pouring into the public's hands $5,500,000,000 a year more cash than it takes away from the public. That is the estimated rate of red ink spending for this fiscal year.

Another 1950 fillip will come in January when the Veterans administration starts handling out $2,800,000,000 in G. I. insurance refunds.

The real wallop may come when the steel, automobile and other industries have figured out the cost of the new pension packages wong by organized labor — and decide whether to raise prices, and how much.

that Mrs. Aldrich had filed a divorce suit, with legal action expected in connection with the case this week.

He had been employed by the Phares and Wilkins welding firm for 11 years, according to one of his employers, H. L. Phares.

Aldrich had been arrested here Oct. 30 on charges of carrying a pistol, a .22 caliber target pistol which was identified by police as the death weapon.

Services Are Tuesday

Mrs. Aldrich is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Mandrell, a sister, Miss Dora Lee Mandrell; five brothers, Vernon, Archie, Thomas, Cecil and R. L. Mandrell, all of Lubbock; two aunts, Mrs. J. H. Mitchell of Shallowater and Mrs. R. L. Nelson of Lubbock, and a cousin, Mrs. W. O. Watson of Muleshoe.

Services for Mrs. Aldrich will be conducted Tuesday, time and place to be announced. Burial will take place in Tech Memorial park under direction of Rix Funeral home.

Aldrich is survived by three children by a former marriage, Leroy, Danny and Dorothy Sue Aldrich; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Aldrich of Lubbock; a brother, Calvin A. Aldrich of Long Beach, Calif., and four sisters, Mmes. Dollie Ash of Long Beach, Bob Kirkham of San Angelo and Minnie Vest and Dorothy Clark of Lubbock.

McDonald Funeral home will announce arrangements.

Daily MARKETS

Stock Market

STOCKS HIGHLY MIXED

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP) — The stock market closed highly mixed today after an early morning rally failed to carry through.

Prices of leaders were spread out over a range of a point either way with a few gaining from 2 to around 4 points. There was little buying support on the upside and an equally small amount of selling pressure.

Volume was estimated at 1,800,000 shares for the entire day, one of the best of the year. More than 500,000 shares of that total were traded in the first hour when a number of large blocks of stock changed hands.

On average the market leaned to the downside but only by a small margin.

Rails were unchanged to a point lower with the exception of Nickel Plate which ran up as much as 4 points in moderately active trading.

Both steels and motors see-sawed back and forth from plus to minus with a tendency to seek lower levels. Chemicals were barely ahead with the exception of Allied Chemical which advanced as much as 3½ points.

Stock going lower included Celanese, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Texas Co., United Air Lines, American Tobacco, Air Reduction, Homestake Mining, Anaconda, Bethlehem Steel, Studebaker, Douglas Aircraft, Schenley Industries, and Philco Radio.

Higher were Barnsdall Oil, Pan American Airways, Warner Bros., U. S. Gypsum, Westinghouse Electric, Kennecott Copper.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP) — Cotton futures were firm today on aggressive mill and export covering which carried old crop deliveries into new seasonal high ground. The market subsequently reacted partially as profit taking and hedging. Volume of trading dried up on the decline.

Washington advices said that new ECA cotton credits announced last week and a few additional ones pending soon will bring total current appropriations to about $310,000,000. Another $150,000,000 may eventually be issued for cotton purchases by ECA countries, the advices said.

Futures closed 15 to 75 cents a bale higher than the previous close.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Dec. 5 (AP) — Grains did not get very far in either direction on the board of trade today. They had to absorb a little profittaking, which was not very heavy considering the extent of the advance over the past several weeks.

Grains did not appear to be attracting much new buying. Commission houses were cautious buyers.

While the market backed and filled throughout the day, a few new seasonal highs were eked out by small margins. In this category were all wheat deliveries. May and July corn also reached new tops during the day. July oats equalled its former high.

Wheat closed unchanged to 1⅛ higher, December $2.22⅛-¼, corn was ½ lower to ⅛ higher, December $1.30⅛-¼, oats were ½ lower to ¼ higher, December 77⅛, rye was 1¾ to 3 cents higher, December $1.44¾, and soybeans were ⅛ to 1 cent higher, December $2.35¾-½, and lard was 5 to 8 cents a hundred pounds higher, December $10.42.

Probe Of Big Lobbies Seen

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (AP)—Six big groups may be the initial targets of a special House committee getting ready to investigate lobbying.

While the committee, headed by Rep. Buchanan (D-Pa), has charted no fixed course and probably won't for several more weeks, Buchanan told newsmen it may be guided largely by a Library of Congress report on lobbying.

Lobbies Are Listed

This report, prepared by W. Brooke Graves of the legislative reference service, says:

"Some of the fields in which lobbies have been or are now especially active" include "the tariff lobby; the natural resources lobby in its various forms; the real estate group, battling against any kind of public housing program; the air lines lobby; the agriculture lobby, and the dramatic struggle between the representatives of the dairy interests and the oleomargarine manufacturers."

Other active lobbies, the report continued, include those interested in business, education, health, labor, military and veterans legislation.

Expenses Are Heavy

During the first six months of 1948, the report said, more than $3,500,000 was spent on lobbying activities. The heavier outlays were said to have been made by groups interested in displaced persons legislation and in bills to repeal the tax on oleomargarine, and to provide a government medical service program.

During that period, the report said, nine groups of organizations had lobby expenditures exceeding $100,000 each, while eight others spent between $50,000 and $100,000 and 20 between $25,000 and $50,000.

pounds of uranium nitrate.

An export license was issued for 500 pounds of each for the second shipment. Other evidence indicated this was in April, 1943.

Also in April, 1943, there was a third export license for 25 pounds of uraninm metal itself.

Furthermore, the State department advised that in November of that year arrangements were made for Russia to get 1,000 grams of heavy water.

The State department said it had nothing to do with the transactions but was merely supplying information from records of the Lend-Lease administration and the Foreign Economic administration, whose remnants it absorbed.

Hopkins Implicated

Russell said the committee had been unable to get actual manifests for the shipments but he said the committee got some oral testimony that they were flown from an air base at Great Falls, Mont., to Fairbands, Alaska, and on to Russia.

The committee began its investigation about May or June of last year and now has reopened it, Russell said.

He noted that back in 1943 the atom bomb program still was a highly secret project.

Jordan said in a radio interview Friday night that big loads of what a Russian colonel called uranium and "bomb powder" were flown to Russia in 1944 under hurry-up instructions telephoned Jordan by the late Harry Hopkins. Hopkins was a right hand man to President Roosevelt.

Official Denies Report

Jordan was stationed at Great Falls as a liaison officer between U. S. and Russian officers at the time he says atomic materials were handled through that base. Suitcases full of secret government documents, some dealing with the atomic projects, also were loaded aboard Russia-bound planes at Great Falls, Jordan said.

He added that he had reported these activities to the then air inspector general. This official, Maj. Gen. Junius W. Jones, now on duty near Sacramento, Calif., said he knows nothing about such a report, does not recall Jordan, and has "no knowledge of the incident or anything like it."

Suicide Pact

"I was shocked and I asked if she was sure and she said 'yes.'

"I drove up into a side road. After we professed our love we agreed on my shooting her and then myself."

The youth said he took out his .22 rifle but when a "piece of the gun" fell off, "we found another way."

"I remember taking a hammer from the tool chest in the car and telling her to bend over," he said.

She did so and I struck her head—I don't know how many times.

"The next thing I recember is stopping at a bridge and getting out to jump. My last nerve cracked and I couldn't do it. I got back in the car and realized my life was forfeit for the murder."

At the end of the confession, Slay admitted full guilt to the "unpremediated murder of Mary and I ask no leniency whatever."

After the murder, he said he just drove away, not caring where, to escape from the scene. He was picked up at Athens, Ala., after his car collided with a truck.

THREE (HIC!) 'SURE CURES' FOR HICCUPS . . . HIC—Jack O'Leary, 24, Glendale, Calif., has tried more than 2000 "sure cures" for his hiccups in the past 17 months, but he still hics regularly, about once every five seconds. Here, he demonstrates three of the zanier "cures." Left. he puts a straw in his hair before going to bed, that's all. Next morning, "Hic." Center: he swallows the handle of a spoon. Same results. Right: he tries drinking water with a pencil clenched between his teeth. Overall result: O'Leary is now working on his third thousand of "sure cures," supplied by friends and sympathizers.

Heard Enough

The condition of Harold "Jiggs" Glindinning, 19-year-old Woodward, Okla., youth who fell from a water tank truck on which he was working about 8 a.m. Sunday near Meadow, was not serious, attendants at St. Mary's hospital said today. The youth was taken to the hospital by a Rix Funeral home ambulance following the accident.

The body of John Batt Collier, 84-year-old retired druggist who died at 2:25 a.m. Sunday at his residence, 706 Twenty-ninth, was shipped overland Sunday afternoon to Stanton for burial and funeral services today. He is survived by his wife and three daughters.

A homecoming and roll call for members of the Lubbock I. O. O. F. lodge No. 690 will be conducted at the lodge hall, 1913 Ave. K, starting at 7:30 o'clock tonight. All Odd Fellows are invited to attend, C. C. Jones, secretary, has announced. Rebekah members will join the group after the close of the program and serve refreshments.

Miss Martha Graves will continue the nutrition course sponsored by the PTA from 9:15 until 11 o'clock Tuesday morning in Annex G of the home economics building.

Bandit Suspects

15 miles southeast of Crosbyton a brief time later.

(One shot fractured an arm, the other glanced off his skull.)

In Lubbock, and Crosby counties, officials here were informed, thorough investigations were directed by county, state and city officials in efforts to learn identity of the gunmen—and to harass possible suspects so that the hijacking wave would be interrupted over the cotton-rich belt.

No Shots Are Fired

The two suspects surrendered without firing a shot after a 90-miles-an-hour chase out the road to Garland from Dallas.

They were held in connection with the $1,000 holdup of a Houston food store Saturday night and the $133 robbery of a Corsicana drive-in store late last night.

Dallas detectives said the men also were being questioned about several other armed robberies over the state.

Getaway car used in both the Houston and Corsicana robberies was the Studebaker, a factor which led to their capture here about 3 a. m.

Walked With Limp

In each robbery witnesses said one robber walked with a limp. Detective Frank Murray of the Houston police force said the $1,000 robbery took place at 7:35 p. m. Saturday at the Wong Fong Food market.

The Corsicana robbery occurred Sunday night at the Cabell Dairy store. B. B. Cowart and Billy Malone, employes at the store, said the bandit pair held guns on them and forced Cowart to open the cash register. The money was stuffed into one bandit's overcoat pocket, Cowart said.

As the two men were leaving the Corsicana store, Corsicana Police Sgt. W. D. Thedford and his wife drove up in the car. Cowart reported the hijacking to Thedford.

Thedford took off in pursuit of the fleeing bandits. He drove alongside the Studebaker just as the robbers were driving away.

Gun Battle Ensued

A point-blank gun battle ensued, the desperadoes firing at Thedford through the raised window glass. Thedford fired back, putting bullet holes in the side of the bandits' car, and wounding one man slightly. The Corsicana officer was not hit, although his car was pierced by several bullets.

Thedford said the bandits escaped after the exchange of shots.

A state-wide alarm was broadcast, although there was a slight mixup in the license numbers. A Fairfield nightwatchman spotted what he thought was the bandit car headed toward Palestine. However, the car was picked up in Dallas by city police about 2:30 a. m.

Luck had been with the desperadoes most of the way, especially in connection with the mixup of license numbers. But they drove too fast on Dallas streets.

Ex-Diplomat, Now Custom-Tailoring Firm Owner, Sees Men's Clothing Revolution

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (U.P.) — Tony Williams, a gray-haired, ex-diplomat who turned tailor to the social (male) register, thinks a revolution is coming.

"I mean," said Williams, whose suits sell for between $200 and $300, "a revolution in men's clothing for the masses. In five years men will wear suits which have no coats, something along the lines of a slack suit, yet containing the sleekness and formality of the shirt and trouser uniform of army officers.

Williams' customers, of course, will go on paying their $200-$300 for his suits, but he thinks the assembly line clothing manufacturers today make suits lacking in imagination, appeal, design and durability.

That is the great advantage in buying custom tailored clothes, Williams said. If you can afford them, of course.

Nothing Distinctive

"There's nothing distinctive in what the average man wears today," Williams said. "One suit looks much the same as the next one. Men's clothes ought to be strikingly colored, like women's."

In five years, he predicted, the men will rival the women for flashy styles and eye catching colors.

That, if it happens, will be no threat to Williams' $500,000 a year business as a custom tailor. Since 1933 when Williams, a Princeton graduate, quit the diplomatic service, he has been selling super expensive clothes to big shots in all walks of life, from captains of industry to playboys.

He knows most of them by their first names; in fact, he spends little time in his tailoring establishment in a Fifth Avenue skyscraper. Instead, he usually can be found at the town's swankier places, showing off his clothes in a distinctly subtle fashion.

No Advertising

"I'm my own best advertisement," Williams explained. "I can't advertise because of a necessarily limited market. Men notice my clothes and unlike a woman who sees another woman wearing the same thing, become interested and bingo—chances are I've made a sale."

Williams wears his clothes well. Of 60-odd suits, his favorites are blue serge and gray flannel. He has 12 of each, and about a dozen coats of various styles.

Because he is a clothes horse, Williams said, he can spot what he considers to be an improperly dressed man instantly. In fact, it's the first thing he takes stock of: the kind of suit a man is wearing.

"It often denotes his character. A man dresses to imitate people he admires," Williams said. He has written extensively on the subject.

"Really, all of us dress to be like other people," he added.

Hit-Run Motorist "Tipped" Victims

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Dec. 5. (U.P.)—A hit and run motorist who knocked down two youngsters "tipped" them a dime apiece and sped away.

Roger Bolthouse, 6, and Jack Campbell, 8, told police a man gave them the money if they would "quit bawling."

Jack wasn't sure it was enough. "I got hurt more than a dime's worth," he said.

Shirley Temple

he had signed papers necessary to permit her to obtain a divorce without contest.

Superior Judge Roy Herndon in granting Miss Temple the interlocutory decree (final after one year), gave her custody of Linda Susan and ordered Agar to pay $100 a month for the child's support.

He also restored her maiden name of Shirley Temple and approved a property settlement.

Once at a dinner party for 15 people at a cafe, she said, "Jack began drinking 'doubles,' and began talking to an unmarried girl at the party.

Danced And Kissed

"He danced one-half a dance with me and said 'oh you're too short.' Then he danced all night with this girl and kissed her on the dance floor. He wouldn't sit next to me at the table and said 'Oh, I don't want to sit with her.'

"After dinner he was too drunk to drive a car. He left with a girl and a man. We ended up at our house and he danced a couple of hours with this girl in the playroom. He was kissing her. It was pretty sickening. But you think of the baby, you know. . ."

Miss Temple said that once her husband told friends: "You can't have fun with Shirley. She won't get drunk or even take a drink."

She said that after that pronouncement Agar went out and got drunker, returned in two hours, fell down some stairs, ran out of the house, passed out on the driveway and her brother had to put him to bed.

Burned Child Given New Film Projector

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP) — On the first anniversary of 4-year-old Mike Rector's stay in the hospital, members of the Optimists Club presented him with a sound movie projector and named him Optimist of the Year.

Optimist Bert Langhenry turned on a circus film, but all Mike could do was look at the pictures. The dialog turned out to be in Spanish.

Mike has undergone 32 skin grafts, covering nearly 70 per cent of his body since his cowboy suit caught fire a year ago. The incident received nation-wide publicity, along with some similar cases, and many manufacturers of children's costumes are now fireproofing them.

Lack Of Milk Starts New Dairy Business

OCALA, Fla., Dec. 5 — Roy A. Perley was in the construction business when he came here in 1935.

To help feed his family—Mrs. Perley and three daughters—he bought a cow. It didn't give enough milk. He bought another. The two gave too much milk, so he started selling some.

That started things. Now he is in the dairy business with a herd of Jerseys on 120 acres and his own pasteurization and bottling plant.

Acreage Cuts For 1950 Cotton Crop Are Opposed By Farmers

(By The Associated Press)

Texas farmers faced with reduced cotton acreage for 1950 were in two camps today—

1. From the complaining ones—"write your congressman."

2. From others—"It's gonna be tough, but we'd rather have the quotas than a glutted market."

The acreage allotment figures released last Friday by the state Production and Marketing administration gave Texas 7,637,029 acres—about 11 per cent less than the 1947-48 acerage acreage standing on July 1 and about 4 per cent less than the 1945-49 average state acreage. These were the estimates of the state PMA committee.

To Mail Notices

Notice to individual farmers of their 1950 allotments will be mailed about Dec. 10, B. F. Vance of College Station, state PMA chairman, said.

Cotton producers will vote in a referendum Dec. 15 on acceptance of the quotas.

The coastal bend farm bureau cotton committee in South Texas complained directly to Chairman Harold D. Cooley (D-NC) of the House agriculture committee. Cooley said areas faced with what they believed to unfair reductions can discuss their problems at a meeting in Memphis, Tenn., the first of this week. The South Texas group is sending farmer Truett Barber to the meeting.

Rep. Bob Poage of Waco, who met with a group of farmers in Waco Saturday, said he was thinking about legislation to help counties hit hardest by the cutbacks. Poage declared that no county should have less than a 20 per cent ratio.

Is Going To Be Tough

McClennan county farmers were give a ratio of around 30 per cent of their cropland. Hugh Rooks, PMA administrative officer in Waco said in talking to two farm bureau meetings in Elk and Ross last week, no one present voiced opposition to the quotas. The general idea was that i'ts going to be tough but it has to be done.

Just south of Waco, most farmers in Bell county were reported taking the same attitude. That county got approximately a 38 per cent cut.

At opposite ends of the state—down in the lower Rio Grande valley and up in the Panhandle—farmers were protesting.

The 1950 allotments for four valley counties showed that each county will plant approximately 23 to 25 per cent less cotton in 1950 than in 1948 and from 32 to 50 per cent less than in 1949 if growers approve the allotments.

An Amarillo Globe-News survey showed Texas Panhandle-South Plains growers would plant about one-third less cotton than they planted in 1949. Swisher county acreage was cut from 35,000 acres in 1949 to 7,319 in 1950.

Water Shortage

California's San Joaquin valley and in the Los Angeles areas. Serious situations from the same causes were reported in the Santa Clara valley, Salinas valley, Antelope valley and the Ventura-Oxnard areas.

Serious In Texas

In Texas, residents of the plain around Amarillo reported their plight as desperate with the water table dropping from month to month.

In southern Arizona, experts reported, ground water is being taken from the earth for irrigation puposes three or four times faster than it is replenished.

In eastern Arkansas, steps are being taken to correct water shortages caused by heavy pumping to flood the area's rice fields. Southwestern Louisiana has a similar problem.

C. L. McGuinness of the U. S. Geological Survey at Washington said that natural basins had fallen so low in some coastal areas that salt water was beginning to infiltrate from the sea. This, he said, was happening in the Los Angeles and Texas City, Texas, areas.

River Water Poured Back

Some cities were following the example of Louisville, Ky., using pumps to pour river water back into the ground to re-charge supplies. Others have diverted streams to favorable rock strata to force water back into underground pools where it could rebuild lost pressures and raise falling water tables.

The only sure solution, however, seemed to be all-out water conservation programs organized at the local and state levels, with some cooperation between states, to prevent critical conditions arising from heavy water use.

Such programs, experts said, could prevent critical conditions such as the one plaguing Cincinnati or the less serious situations at Philadelphia, Baltimore and Memphis.

His nomination as a Republican might embarrass some Democrats. He was endorsed by Virginia and Georgia Democrats last year as well as by some New Dealers elsewhere.

One GOP senator, who has been active in party strategy for years, said many Republicans are seriously interested in Eisenhower and believe he could win southern electoral votes.

But this senator doubted if any GOP nominee coul dignore or softpedal the civil rights issue during a campaign since the party has firmly committed itself to support anti-discrimination bills.

It was the view of this Republican that if the GOP fails again in 1952 a move toward a party realignment — uniting conservative southerners with Republicans under a new label—will be inevitable. For the present, he believed, the GOP will keep the label it has.

English Governor Of Borneo Colony Nearly Assassinated

SINGAPORE, Dec. 5 (AP) — A three-year fight to give story book Sarawak back to its white rajahs exploded over the weekend in an attempted assassination of the crown colony's British governor. He was reported today still "seriously ill" from a knife wound in the abdomen.

Two young Malays attacked Governor Duncan Stewart as he arrived Saturday at Sibu, interior city of the colony in North Borneo which "White Rajah" Vyner Brooke ceded to the British crown in 1946.

First Violence

Since the cession, Malay members of the native population have petitioned and propagandized for a return of the British Brooke family who ruled them for a century. The attack on Stewart was the first violence growing out of the anti-cession movement.

The 45-year-old governor, flown to Singapore yesterday and given two blood transfusions en route, "passed a fair night," a hospital bulletin today said. The announcement said he "appears now to have gotten over the immediate danger of the initial phase," but added he "is still seriously ill."

The governor had arrived in Sarawak only three weeks ago to take up his post.

The two Malays, about 16 years old, attacked him as he was being received at the Sibu river front. One plunged a knife into his abdomen. The other missed his thrust. Both were arrested.

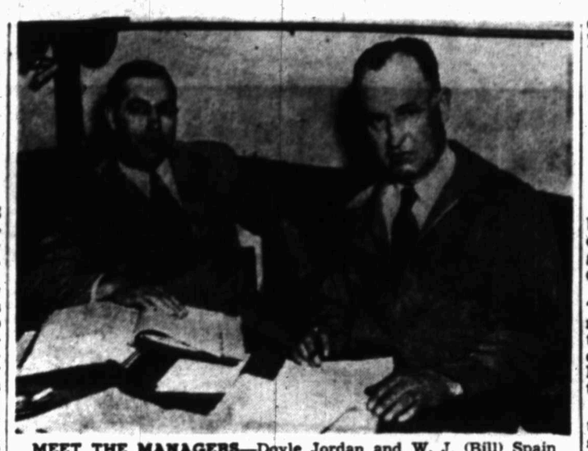

Sarawak was given in 1841 by the sultan of Brunei to Sir James Brooke, the first white rajah, who had put down a headhunters' attack. It became a British protectorate in 1888 but the Brooke family retained complete control of its internal administration.

The third white Rajah, 71-year-old Charles Vyner Brooke, ceded the rich little country of 500,000 people and 300,000 acres of rubber plantations after the surrender of the Japanese, who had occupied Sarawak in 1941.

Red Influence Possible

The anti-cession movement since has centered on Vyner Brooke's nephew, Anthony Brooke, who would have succeeded his uncle. The British government has refused to permit his return to Sarawak, contending his appearance there might arouse violence between the anti-cessionists and natives opposing them.

A British government spokesman here said the attack on Stewart might have been motivated also by Communism and a move to include Sarawak in the projected United States of Indonesia. He contended about one per cent of the Sarawak population wants the rajahs restored.

SAYS FBI SHOULD HANDLE CASES

Increased Penalties For Sex Assault On Children Asked

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP) — Rep. Chelf (D-Ky) wants the Federal Bureau of Investigation to be given a part in protection of children from sex crimes.

Horrified by what he called "ever-increasing" crimes of this nature, Chelf announced yesterday that he will try to make it a federal offense to molest a child sexually. He also proposed setting penalties of from ten years to death.

The Kentuckian, a member of the House Judiciary committee, said he believed such action would be as effective at curbing degenerates who prey on children as the Lindbergh anti-kidnap law has been in controlling kidnaping.

Noting that it may be necessary to amend the constitution to place such crimes under FBI jurisdiction, Chelf said he would propose such an amendment if that is needed.

The congressman said in a statement that he has been shocked to read "horrible accounts of the ever-increasing brutal slayings of this nation's children."

"Apparently," he continued, "the state laws are insufficient to cope with this great menace to society."

He proposed penalties of 10 to 20 years in cases where an attacked child survives, and penalties of death or life imprisonment, if the child is slain. He also would bar the defense of insanity to persons accused of attacks on children, but allow mental treatment of those convicted and sent to prison.

"Even the so-called perverted mind is 'dumb like a fox' when a tough sentence or even death stares him in the face," Chelf said.

Total Of $314 Given To Christmas Fund

A total of $314 toward a goal of $3,250 has been raised to date through the Salvation Army kettles on the streets of Lubbock, Capt. W. Tom Gregory, local commanding officer, has announced.

Capt. Gregory said that a steady stream of applications for help at Christmas have been coming into the Army offices since the annual drive began Thursday, and that they were expecting to provide Christmas cheer, dinners, and gifts for over 400 families this year.

Year around care of clients who appeal to the Army for "basic maintenance" is handled by the Army with funds from the Lubbock Community chest, Capt. Gregory explained, but the Christmas Cheer fund is needed to provide a little something extra for Christmas.

Several checks have been received by the organization, and Capt. Gregory said that people are encouraged to mail contributions to the office at 1112 Seventeenth.

One family in town, instead of sending gifts to friends this Christmas, has made a contribution for each of their friends, and has asked that the Army send receipts for the donations to these friends. "This truly exemplifies the real Christmas spirit of sharing our joys and happiness with others," Capt. Gregory said.

Amarillo Bandit Is Courteous To Woman

AMARILLO, Dec. 5 (U.P.)—Even a bandit sometimes has his good points.

A handsome, smooth-talking highjacker used a knife to rob Mrs. Roy Snodgrass, tourist court night manager of $51. Then he insisted on escorting her half way to her home before commanding her to return to the courts.

The bandit didn't talk rough and he acted like a real gentleman, the woman told police.

Christmas-Buying Rush Starts Over Nation

Extra Help In Stores Hired

By JAMES C. AUSTIN
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—The usual Christmas rush is on—and it seems pretty much the same as other years.

Stores are hiring more salespeople and the post office department is putting on extra employes to carry the Christmas mail.

About 400,000 extra persons have been hired to sell gifts in the department stores and shops. Possibly 275,000 persons are going to work for the post office for four weeks.

That's just about how many were hired during the Christmas rushes of 1947 and 1948.

Trade Is Humming

Since Thanksgiving sales have picked up and the retail trade is beginning to hum.

Even Uncle Sam is offering what it thinks are tinsel-bright gifts to prospective buyers. Big buyers, that is.

The War Assets administration must fold Dec. 31. But it still has a lot of its surplus property to dispose of.

So, if you're in the Christmas market for a power line, the WAA has one in New York state, war-built for $3,670,000. Then there's an oil refinery at Corpus Christi, Tex. In fact, the government has 59 surplus plants, valued at $545,000,000, it will gladly sell.

At any rate, economists at the Bureau of Labor Statistics believe that retail trade employment may hold up for some time after this Christmas.

More Effort Required

They point out that in the present buyer's market, there must be more effort made to sell products. This means larger sales staffs.

Another incentive to keeping sales staffs more or less intact is the forthcoming $2,800,000,000 insurance dividend to be paid by the Veterans administration to about 16,000,000 veterans who are policyholders of World War II. This money will be paid to veterans all over the country. First payments, VA says, will start about Jan. 15, and will be carried out over subsequent months.

This money is expected to be a shot-in-the-arm for merchants who generally expect the post-Christmas doldrums.

Some of this year's optimistic predictions for Christmas rush sales are based on Federal Reserve board figures for department store sales.

For the Thanksgiving week ending Nov. 26, department store sales were five per cent below the comparable week a year ago, the board said. It did not issue comparative sales totals.

But other economists hastened to

MEMORIAL TEMPLE TO BE OPENED

Texas Masons Will Hold Waco Session

WACO, Dec. 5. (AP)—The biggest gathering of Masons in the 112-year-old history of the Grand Lodge of Texas is expected here this week.

On Wednesday, Grand Master Hugh Craig of Fort Worth will call the 114th communication of the Grand Lodge to order.

Ceremonies will open the new $2,000,000 Grand Lodge memorial temple here.

The Grand Royal Arch bodies will convene in Waco today and celebrate the centennial year of the Grand Royal Arch chapter of Texas.

Still Under Construction

The memorial temple, dedicated to master Masons who gave their lives in service of their country, is still under construction but sufficiently completed to allow use of the 3700-seat auditorium and principal grand lodge offices. Conservative estimates are that twice that number will be present.

All Waco hotels and those in nearby cities have been booked with reservations for weeks, and hundreds of Waco private residences have been opened to the Masonic visitors through a housing committee directed by six Waco blue lodges.

The Grand Royal Arch chapter and grand council of royal and select masters will convene today in the Karem Shrine temple. C. W. Woodward of Arlington will preside as grand high priest of the chapter. Fritz Werner of Laredo is grand master of the council. Many attending the chapter and council will remain in Waco for the 3-day Grand Lodge dedication Wednesday.

Lockwood To Preside

Lee Lockwood of Waco, past grand master of the Grand Lodge, chairman of the building committee, will have the honor of being first to preside in the memorial temple at pre-opening ceremonies set for 9:45 a.m. Wednesday. Lockwood succeeded the late Sam A. Cantey jr., of Fort Worth to chairmanship.

Grand Master Craig, first graduate of the Masonic home and school to attain the distinctive honor of grand master of Texas Masons, will formally gavel the 114th communication into session at 10 a.m.

At 2 p.m. Wednesday, following music by the Masonic choir of Fort Worth, W. Steve Cooke of Fort Worth, past grand master, will present U. S. Senator Tom Connally as dedication speaker.

To Change Posts

As part of the dedication ceremony a soldier from Connally air force base will sound taps in the Grand Lodge memorial room, a sanctuary of marble and walnut dedicated to the memory of Texas master Masons "who served their country with honor and de-

Farm Meetings In County Open Today

The first of eight meetings of Lubbock county farmers for the purpose of familiarizing themselves with the 1950 farm program is scheduled at 7:30 p. m. today, at the Shallowater clubhouse.

The meetings, being sponsored by the Lubbock County Agricultural Conservation association and the Texas Extension service, will feature a thorough explanation of the cotton allotments and marketing quotas for 1950 and the showing of films on farming and livestock raising, said County Agent D. W. Sherrill.

Farmers Urged To Attend

Refreshments will be served by the Lubbock county Farm bureau, Glen Hackney, president, has announced.

All farmers and their families residing in Lubbock county are urged to attend the meeting scheduled for their community.

Other meetings will be at the Idalou clubhouse on Tuesday, Cooper school in Woodrow on Wednesday, Tech stock judging pavilion in Lubbock on Thursday, New Deal School on Saturday, Frenship school at Wolfforth on Dec. 12, Slaton school on Dec. 13, and Roosevelt school in the Acuff community on Dec. 14. Miners Again Digging Coal PITTSBURGH, Dec. 5 (U.P.)—The nation's 400,000 soft coal miners ended their fourth walkout of the year today and both the bituminous and anthracite industry went on a three-day work week.

The soft coal miners returned to the pits after a four-day walkout that began last Thursday at the end of a three-day truce in John L. Lewis' running battle with the industry.

"Divide And Conquer"

Lewis ordered the entire industry to cut back to the short week in an apparent "divide and conquer" move. A resolution approved by the United Mine Workers policy committee in New York authorized the negotiation of individual contracts following which the work week could be stepped up to the normal five days for the companies involved.

The UMW president has no negotiations scheduled with the major soft coal producers, but contract parleys with the hard coal industry are scheduled to open in New York tomorrow.

Directors of the Southern Coal Producers association met behind closed doors in Washington yesterday to go over the entire union-industry contract fight. Association sources said the directors would decide when they want to start bargaining again and what their position would be.

Glad To Get Back

Most soft coal miners were glad to get back to work today, but many expressed dissatisfaction over the fact they are doing so without a contract.

"Three days' work is better than none," was a typical miner's reaction. "And with Christmas coming on I sure need the money."

This is the second time the bituminous miners have been put on a three-day week.

In an abandonment of his "no contract, no work" policy last July, Lewis ordered the short week to go into effect at the end of the miners' annual vacation. The 3-day week lasted 11 weeks, then Lewis ordered a "no-day work week." He sent the miners back to work early in November under the three-week truce.

What would you say to Santa Claus if you could see him?

THE ANSWERS

GERALD CLARK. 1919 Seventh, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Clark: "I'd say, 'hello Santa, how are you?' Then I'd tell him that I want something. I'd tell him to bring me a big present with a whole bunch of toys in it. I'd also tell him that I've been a good boy all year."

DON SEALE. 424 Ave. N, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Seale: "I'd tell him that I would like to have a bicycle. Then I'd tell him to bring me a football and a big volley ball. I'd tell him that I deserve all because I've been so good."

DANNY PRATHER. 515 Ave. Q, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Prather: "I would tell him to bring me a ball, a real big one, and a horse, one of those rocking ones. I'd tell him to bring some presents for the rest of the family, too."

BARBARA BARNETT. 216. K. daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Barnett, jr.: "I'd tell him that I want a hobby horse for Christmas, because I think they're so cute and so much fun. I want a cowgirl doll and a book case to carry my books to school in."

ILLINOIS SOLON DIES

CHICAGO, Dec. 5 (AP) — Rep. Martin Gorski, 63, staunch supporter of Democratic party policy measures, died unexpectedly yesterday.

PATSY GRIMES. 309 Ave. R, daughter of Mrs. Maggie Grimes: "I'd ask him to please bring me an electric train and a storybook about the Little Red Hen. I'd also ask him to give presents to my mother and to my brother, Junior".

OLLIE PROVENCE. 309 Ave. U, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Provence: "I'd tell him hello and then ask him to bring me a bicycle and a hobby horse. I'd ask him to bring my mother some stockings and my daddy a shirt, too."

Man Is Seeking Safe Place For His Money

CHICAGO, Dec. 5. (INS)—John Hayden, 39, still is looking for a safe place to put his trousers when he takes them off at night.

About a month ago, an intruder came through the unlocked window of Hayden's home and stole $10 from his trousers, which were hanging over a chair.

Hayden figured he'd learned his lesson, so he took to putting the trousers—and his wallet—under the mattress of his bed when he went to sleep at night.

But, alas, Saturday night he awoke to find a man holding the pants and rifling the pockets. Mrs. Hayden screamed and the thief fled—but with $86 Hayden had been saving for Christmas presents.

Burns Are Fatal To Young Mother, Baby

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 5. (U.P.)—A young mother lost her life in a futile dash into a burning house to save her infant son without knowing that the baby, already fatally burned, had been carried out by her husband, police reported today.

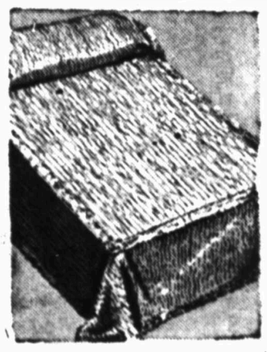

Mrs. Louise Barrow, 26, died of severe burns yesterday, a few minutes after she was dragged from the flaming house by firemen who had seen her husband bring the baby out through a window.

The baby, Tommy Lee, died several hours later.

ACTING PRESIDENT FLIES TO U. S.

Evacuation Of Nationalists From Chengtu Capital Starts

By WAYNE RICHARDSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

HONG KONG, Dec. 5—Evacuation of the new Chinese Nationalist capital at Chengtu, 170 miles northwest of Red occupied Chungking, apparently began today.

A special dispatch to the newspaper Sing Tao Man Po said government officials assembled at the Chengtu airport at 2 a. m. (Chengtu time) for air trainsport to Formosa, island fortress 100 miles off the south central China coast.

Planes belonging to retired U. S. Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault have been chartered by the Nationalist government for the airlift, the report said.

Communist troops of Gen. Liu Po-Cheng rolled on toward Chengto after taking Chungking, the provisional capital only last Wednesday. Chengtu became the Nationalist capital then.

Reports to Sing Tao Man Po said the Reds were making good progress toward Chengtu, which lies in a basin a few miles from the Sikang province border.

Nationalist Gen. Hu Taung-Nan hurriedly had brought up troops for the defense of Chengtu. Defense lines were established 30 and 50 miles outside of the provisional capital.

Leaves For U. S.

This rapid development in the Chinese civil war came only a few hours after Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek, Nationalist leader, said the government would fight on against the Communists despite defeat on all sides.

At about the time Chiang granted an exclusive interview to Spencer Moosa, Associated Press correspondent in Chengtu, acting Nationalist President Lo Tsung-Jen left Hong Kong by plane for the United States. Li had been in a hospital here for a stomach ailment. He was rumored en route to the United States to petition for aid for the Nationalists although he and Chiang have split.

Red Cross Training Course Opens Today

A Red Cross course for those preparing themselves to teach first aid begins at 7 p. m., today, at Rix Funeral home, under the direction of Robert H. Lucey at St. Louis.

The instructor course will last through Friday, and is open to persons who have completed Red Cross standard and advanced first aid courses.

Lucey, who is a field representative of the American Red Cross first aid, accident prevention, and water safety services, is visiting chapters in the Panhandle and South Plains as an instructor and in an advisory capacity.

The Lubbock county chapter arranged for him to be present here to conduct the course this week.

MUCH DAMAGE, LITTLE GAIN

RICHMOND, Va. (U.P.)—The owners of a large Richmond department store ruefully surveyed the wreck of a big plate glass display window. Someone had tossed a brick through the window, to get three $1 bills pasted on the inside as part of a display. The window was valued at $300.

People Can Try To Hide Out In New York, But Policemen Usually Track Them Down

By PETER McEVOY
United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 — It's hard to disappear in the big town and get away with it.

Some 26,890, enough to populate a medium sized town like Beverly Hills, Calif., or Michigan City, Ind., or Northampton, Mass., have been marked "mysteriously missing" for a short time this year.

But the 47 expert policemen of the bureau of missing persons have found 96.2 per cent of them.

A distraught housewife sat at a table in the missing persons bureau.

Promise To Look

"He had brown hair. And he was wearing a gray suit," she said.

"Did you have any fights, any reason for his leaving home?" her questioner asked.

"No," she said.

"All right," the clerk said. "We'll look for him."

The 26,890 cases which the bureau accepted this year were all "involuntary disappearances."

There were thousands of other "voluntary disappearances," such as husband or wives walking out after an argument, that they refused to waste time on.

The peak month for missing persons reports is May, when people become restless, according to John J. Cronin, head of the bureau. The second busiest month is September.

Many Reasons Given

"The reason men leave home usually involved money or another woman," Cronin reported. "A missing woman usually walks out because the old man has been drinking or gambling.

"The peak age for juvenile runaways is 15, when they have had to change schools. About 25 per cent more boys than girls run away."

"Missing person" is a special classification of the bureau. Of the 26,890 cases this year 12,321 persons were found in hospitals or morgues, 4,820 from the city's five boroughs were tagged "missing persons" and finally accounted for, and 8,276 were "missing persons" from other vities who came to New York to "get lost."

Of the 26,890 only 1,473 are still "unaccounted for" by the bureau.

The total increases each year. Last year's 12 month total was 23,516.

Most of the bureau's personnel are identification experts who can identify a person from a piece of burned clothing or a single gold tooth.

Of those found in hospitals, 100 per cent are identified. 98.2 per cent of bodies taken to the morgues are identified. The overall total of 96.2 accounted for is brought down by insufficient information furnished by authorities in other cities, Cronin said.

Mount Etna Eruption Danger Thought Past

CATANIA, Sicily, Dec. 5. (AP)—Shepherds and farmhands returned to pastures and fields on the slopes of Mt. Etna today as danger from the ancient volcano's three-day eruption seemed to have passed.

Lava streams which started pouring from newly-opened craters on the 10,758-foot peak Friday slowed to a snail's pace. The towns of Randazzo, Bronte and Maletto were threatened for a time by the lava streams but scientists said the eruption seemed about over.

Amarillo Considered As AEC Headquarters

SANTA FE, N. M., Dec. 5 (AP) — The Atomic Energy commission may move its regional headquarters from Los Alamos, N. M., to Amarillo.

The Texas city, as well as Denver, Albuquerque and Santa Fe, are under consideration, AEC Regional Manager Carroll Tyler said.

About 1,200 AEC employes are at Los Alamos, 35 miles northwest of here. However, only about 200 of them are headquarters employes. The rest are employes in the research laboratories project.

Tyler said purpose of the shift would be to separate affairs of the headquarters operations office and the laboratories. He said he plans to decide on the new location by Jan. 15.

MAN LEAVES NOTE TO MOTHER

Suicide Indicated In Poison Death At Hotel In Chicago

CHICAGO, Dec. 5 (INS) — The body of a 29-year-old New Yorker who apparently committed suicide by swallowing poison was found in a cheap Chicago hotel today with instructions that his remains be used for medical research.

The victim was identified as Lewis W. Friedrich. He left behind one note to police containing instructions for disposition of the body and apologized "for causing you this trouble."

A second note was addressed to his mother, Mrs. L. Friedrich, of New York City. It stated that he had enough money for burial and did not want his body returned to New York.

Instructions Are Left

In his mother's message, Friedrich said he was "sorry to do it this way but now you don't have to worry about me anymore." He also added:

"I was never good to you and this is the nicest thing I could do for you. There is no insurance but I have a few dollars that will take care of burying me. I want to stay here in Chicago so please don't take me back to Yonkers."

Friedrich said he had left instructions with police for disposal of his body and concluded:

"Take good care of yourself. All my love. Lewis."

Note Is Mentioned

The note to police read:

"Gentlemen, sorry to cause you fellows any trouble but for me it is the best thing."

Friedrich mentioned the note he had written to his mother and said "the truth is I am flat broke and no insurance." He asked that the body be given to the Northwestern university medical school for experimental purposes and then added:

"If they do not want my body just throw me in a hole in potter's field but tell my mother I was cremated and the ashes thrown in Lake Michigan."

Detective John Tyndall said Friedrich had registered at the hotel two days ago. A small empty capsule found near the body was turned over to chemists in the coroner's office for analysis.

REDS FREE ANGUS WARD, STAFF

American Ship To Bring U. S. Consul And Party From China

TOKYO, Dec. 5. (AP)—The stubby wartime merchantman Lakeland Victory started its journey today to bring American Consul General Angus Ward and his staff from Communist China.

The 10,500-ton vessel left Yokohama for Kobe on a regularly scheduled commercial run to Taku bar, off Tientsin in Communist China.

The Lakeland Victory is due at the bar on Dec. 10, the day the Ward party is expected to arrive from Mukden. Ward will decide its itinerary after he boards the ship in deep water some 15 miles off the coast.

Army Doctor Aboard

(Because of the shallowness of the river Ho which flows through Tientsin and the sand bar at its mouth, large ships are unable to proceed directly to Tientsin. The Ward party may come down the river by small boat or use the highway or train from Tientsin to Taku, a distance of about 24 miles.)

Special preparations have been completed to accommodate an anticipated party of 20 persons aboard the combination freighter and passenger ship. A U. S. army doctor, whose name has not been announced, will be aboard to give the Americans any medical attention they may need after more than a year in Communist hands in Mukden.

Expelled By Reds

The entire consulate party was expelled from Mukden by the Communists after Ward and four aides were tried for allegedly beating a Chinese employed by the consulate. All five were convicted, given suspended sentences and ordered out of China.

A party of 13 newsmen and cameramen representing world wide news services will leave here tonight for Kobe to board the vessel. It is due to leave Kobe Wednesday for Pusan, Korea, and then continue to Taku bar.

(Aboard for the Associated Press will be Newsman Tom Lambert and Photographer Charles Gorry of Tokyo.)

To Run Blockade

C. W. Evans, representative here of the Pacific Far East lines, said the ship may return here or go straight to San Francisco. newsmen bought tickets to San Francisco and gambled on the prospects of getting off the ship short of a Pacific crossing.

The Lakeland Victory is commanded by Capt. Paul Sexton of San Francisco. She will run the Nationalist blockade of the China coast on her mission. No trouble is anticipated, however, since the Chinese Nationalists have not been active in trying to block off North China Red ports.

Woman Sticks Self In Midget Bathtub

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, Dec. 5. (U.P.)—Mrs. Marie Turnquist, 65, who decided to take a bath in the home of a midget friend and spent the next 60 hours stuck in the tub, admitted today that the whole thing was rather funny.

Mrs. Turnquist, a "plump" woman had been staying at the house while the midget wintered in Florida.

Last Thursday she decided to take a bath. She lowered herself into the pint-sized tub —and there she stayed for two and a half days.

She finally was released Saturday by neighbors who became worried when she failed to answer the telephone.

After she rested briefly, the jovial matron conceded, "it's kind of funny, dont' you think?"

Training Classes To Open Today In City

Lubbock elementary school teachers today were to attend two of four demonstrations of teaching methods scheduled for today and Tuesday, according to Ishmael Hill, assistant superintendent of schools.

The demonstrations, a part of the in-service training which teachers have planned for the year, will include art, arithmetic, handwriting, and reading teaching methods.

First grade teachers were to meet at 3:15 p. m. today at the McWhorter school for the art demonstration by Mrs. J. Floyd Dunn. Third grade teachers were to meet at 3:15 p. m., at the Roscoe Wilson school where Miss Murl Ratliff has prepared a demonstration of handwriting teaching methods.

Tuesday's program will have a demonstration for second grade teachers at 3:15 p. m., at Central Ward, by Miss Martha Mathis on arithmetic. A panel discussion on reading, with Mrs. Ruth Carter acting as chairman, will be held in the Brown school cafeteria for teachers in the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades.

MATCH ECA AID WITH OWN FUNDS

European Countries Spending $3 Billions For Recovery

PARIS, Dec. 5 (AP) — European countries, says a U. S. government survey, have spent almost $3,000,000,000 of their own money on recovery under the Marshall plan.

The money is part of "counterpart funds" which the European countries must put up, in their own currency, matching Marshall aid from the European Cooperation administration (ECA) dollar for dollar.

The European money comes from ordinary government funds, raised by taxation and bonds, and from what European citizens pay for Marshall plan goods.

The ECA must pass on the uses to which these counterpart funds are spent. More than half of the three billions has gone to stimulate industrial production. But Britain and Norway used their counterpart funds to retire national debt.

Other projects underway with the counterpart money include these:

The Netherlands — to reclaim land from the Zuyder Zee, providing new homes and new food lands for a growing population.

Austria — harnessing of the Enns river to provide electric power.

Germany — power station in West Berlin (the Soviet zone supplies the power now), coal mine developments and railroad building.

France — investments in the steel industry and improvements in the coal mines and electric power system.

Italy — drainage, irrigation and flood control in the Vento region to reclaim much-needed farm land.

The U. S. has appropriated about $9,000,000,000 for the Marshall plan but not all of it has been used to date. Thus the equivalent of only $3,030,000,000 in counterpart funds has been approved for withdrawal. Of this, $2,796,500,000 has been put to use.

TO PAY MY DEBTS
By James J. Metcalfe

Help me, O Lord, to pay my debts . . . However large or small . . . With promptness and with cheerfulness . . . And gratitude to all . . . Not just the bills that I receive . . . Or favors that I owe . . . But more specifically the gifts . . . Their friendly hearts bestow . . . The little words of kindness and . . . The deeds so many do . . . To help me face my problems and . . . To see my struggles through . . . O Lord, enable me to give . . . The best there is in me . . . Of love and comfort, faith and hope . . . And boundless charity . . . That I may have no cause to cry . . . Or reason to regret . . . And I may balance all my books . . . Without a single debt.

DURING the next several weeks, most of us are going to be getting progressively happier. Every day will bring us new feelings of good cheer. Every day will find us thinking more of others than is our usual wont. There will be less selfishness, more actual good will and tolerance abroad in the land — nearly everybody will give way, in some extent, to the better nature with which all humans are endowed.

Note that we said "most of us." Not all of us will be gradually giving away to goodwill during this period to be climaxed by Christmas Day.

Sadly, there are some of us who won't fall into the swing of things, simply because it riles them to take note of other people enjoying themselves.

★ ★ ★

Perhaps you haven't noticed it in run of events, but there are people organizing in an effort to take some—if not most — of the joy out of Christmas.

Of course, they're being very altruistic about it.

They claim they just want to "take the commercialism out of Christmas."

But what they really want to do is to turn the Yuletide into grim sort of period during which all and sundry are forced to enter into a mental flagellation, with al lthe trappings of a Salem witch hunt.

They are the people who—knowingly, or unknowingly—believe that one cannot be both joyful and a Christian; that there can be no differentiation between dourness and religion; that if a person is to be what they call "religious," he also must be unhappy, and try to make everybody else unhappy, too.

★ ★ ★

THESE strangely unhappy people who want everyone else to be unhappy, too, will tell you that they don't want to make any changes in the observation of Christmas, except "take the emphasis off the buying of gifts."

Don't you believe it.

If they get their foot in the door, not only will they "take the commercialism (as they call it) out of Christmas," they next try to do away with lighting, decorations, even the exchanging of cards. They'll try to pass laws making it a high crime to have even the simplest of Yule parties. They'd like to make it illegal to put "merry" and "Christmas" together in the same sentence!

They're that kind of people—the same kind who concocted the Blue Laws which in some communities made mandatory the pulling down of all shades on Sunday afternoons.

★ ★ ★

Who wants to "take commercialism out of Christmas," anyway, except a few stingy fuddy-duddies who can't think of giving without thinking of the cost?

What's wrong with Christmas gifts?

Instead of being wrong, Christmas gifts are right—and when you come down to it, gifts and giving, together, very aptly epitomize the self-effacing Spirit of Christmas.

If we recall—and we do recall, perfectly — the tradition of gifts on Christmas had its inception with the very first Christmas.

Remember the Three Wise Men, the gold, the frankincense and myrrh?

If the giving at Christmas time today is "commercialism," let us remember that even in Bethlehem they didn't give gold, frankincense and myrrh away.

★ ★ ★

FORTUNATELY, there is no indication that the sourpusses are likely to be successful in turning Christmas from a season of joy and goodwill to a period of harshness, during which sackcloth and ashes supplant innocent gaiety.

They began losing out when the stocks were abandoned and it suddenly dawned on the majority that there was nothing sinful about a man's kissing his wife on Sunday. Public opinion has kept them fairly well corraled ever since.

But it is always wise to remember that the sourpusses are still around and about; that like the poor, they are with us always — and that only by the majority's keeping them down can they be kept down.

It was back during the war, when hotel rooms were at a premium and lack of space resulted in two strange men being put together in a room.

One of them happened to be going to a formal banquet.

"Say, friend," he said to his room-mate, "can you tie a bow tie? My wife always ties mine. I can't manage it myself."

"Sure," said the other guy. "I'll do it for you. Just lie flat on the bed."

The other guy flopped down on his back and his room-mate tied the tie—doing an expert job. After the deed was did, as it were, the fellow going to the banquet said:

"How come you had me lie down so you could tie that bow?"

"Well, said the other fellow, "That's the only way I can do it. You see, I'm an undertaker!"

Prices at Glenn McCarthy's fabulous Shamrock hotel (in Houston) are conventionally high in some respects. In others, they are of the scale that makes possible tales like this one:

BY DREW PEARSON: AMARILLO JAYCEES ARE PROMOTING "UNIVERSAL UNDERSTANDING"

American Senators Spend Gay Weekend In Spain

WASHINGTON—Here is a contrast between what two groups of Americans have done to influence their country's standing abroad. One is the Junior Chamber of Commerce in Texas. The other is the half-inebriated Senate appropriations subcommittee traveling through Spain.

PEARSON

First, the antics of the senators.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, traveled in a special Air Force plane, including six crew members, two stenographers, three clerks, three wives and a doctor — Dr. William E. Lovelace of Albuquerque — to look after the health of New Mexico's Senator Dennis Chavez.

"They call this a junket," carefully explained Senator Thomas to newsmen, "but that's a misnomer. The country's spending seven billions of the taxpayers' money, and the taxpayer is entitled to know how the money is being spent. That's what we're looking after."

But the senator glossed over the fact that the U. S. A. is spending not one cent of money in Spain. "One of the senators had a relative in Spain he wanted us to meet." Thomas explained, presumably referring to Senator Cavez.

Arriving in Madrid at 3:30 p. m. Saturday, the committee was received by Foreign Minister Martin Aratajo, then attended a reception at the American embassy, then drove the next day to Toledo, attended a fiesta, witnessed the training maneuvers of some young bulls for a bull-fight and saw a gypsy "flamenca" dance.

During the latter part of this fast-moving entertainment, several of the senators obviously were in no condition to report intelligently on what they were seeing.

• • •

Bibulous Senators

This column is not interested in whether a public official drinks or doesn't drink. We have no great concern even if he gets blotto—as long as it's in private. But when a group of U. S. senators spend the taxpayers' money on an official mission where they represent the United States government, then they have an obligation to keep sober—at least in public.

The United States has great prestige in Spain. Americans are considered sober, hard-working people. Therefore, it does not help us as a nation when a group of senators act as if they were on a week-end binge.

Senators Maybank of South Carolina and Robertson of Virginia were abstentious. But in varying degrees, their colleagues were not.

As the festivities wore on at Toledo, the Spanish hosts tried hard to get food into their friend, Senator Chavez of New Mexico, who kept mumbling:

"I'm a Catholic, a Spaniard and a Yankee gentleman, and I don't give a —— who knows it."

Finally, Senator Thomas, whom the Spanish press referred to as "Cotton" Thomas, corralled most of his committee plus the Spanish hosts around a table as if he were presiding over his Senate agriculture committee back in Washington, and tried to hold a hearing. But everybody wanted to talk at once. Finally, the senator from Oklahoma concluded:

"I move that the foreign minister convey this information to this young man, the ambassador." He pointed to Charge D'Affaires Paul Culberson, who is not an ambassador, due to the fact that the U. N., in a very important debate, has voted against ambassadors to Spain. "He," continued Thomas, "will then convey it to the State department which always keeps the Senate well-informed."

• • •

IN OTHER words, if the senators were going to get their report from the State department anyway, they might just as well have saved the taxpayers' money and stayed at home.

Finally, one American asked Senator Thye of Minnesota:

"Why did you come here at all? It's obvious that you can't see anything during this brief week end."

"Well," replied Thye, who at home is a serious, hard-working senator, "we have a military attache here. And we have a naval attache here. And we have consulates. And it's our duty to see that they are properly representing the United States."

"But you arrived on a Saturday afternoon when these offices are not open," remonstrated the American, "and you leave Monday morning before they open."

"You've seen a fiesta, you've had a siesta, and you've danced a flamenca," added an American lady, "but what have you seen of Spain?"

Undaunted, the senators flew to Paris in their special Air Force plane Monday morning. And out of their vast fund of week-end knowledge about Spain, they announced that dictator Franco should receive an American loan of $100,000,000.

NOTE—Maybe the Swedes were wise in not rolling out the red carpet for the Thomas committee.

• • •

Texas Diplomats

In contrast, here is what the Junior Chamber of Commerce is doing in Texas:

The Jaycees' program is called "universal understanding," and since they have no Air Force airplane and can't use the taxpayers' money to tour Europe, their plans are not so ambitious as the senators', though probably more effective.

What they are doing is forming contacts by mail with groups of young men in Europe in order to exchange letters and get better acquainted. The Jaycees of Amarillo, Texas, for instance, are writing to young men in Salzburg, Austria, which is about two-hours drive from the iron curtain.

In Salzburg, Austrian youth at first formed the Austrian-American youth bridge in order to learn more about the U. S. A., later wanted to set up a Junior chamber of commerce of their own. Next year the Amarillo Jaycees are sending a Texan to Austria so they can all get better acquainted.

This unspectacular, people-to-people friendship by a lot of American groups all over the country is doing more to plant a solid foundation for peace than all the junketing senators combined. Eventually, and if practiced widely enough, it may build a more solid understanding than the Marshall plan.

NOTE—When the Salzburg youngsters wanted to set up a junior chamber of commerce, Eric Geiger of Salzburg wrote the Amarillo Jaycees about their problem in getting permission from the government to change their constitution. Imagine the Elks, the Lions clubs, Rotary or the Knights of Columbus having to get permission from the government every time they wanted to change their constitution!

Queerest Approach We Ever Saw

BY ROBERT C. RUARK

Joe DiMaggio Credits "Luck" For His Successful Career

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5—We have just passed a portion of his 35th birthday with San Francisco's top citizen and wish to report that Mr. Joseph Paul DiMaggio is sound in wind and limb, although a touch grizzled over the ears.

RUARK

The celebrated DiMaggio heel, which got a vastery public attention than a similar appendage belonging to Achilles, has responded cheerfully to rest and bedevils its owner no longer. The lean DiMaggio frame, depleted by a summer bout with pneumonia, has filled out and Joe can now climb the steep streets of his home town without resting on a Boy Scout's arm.

It is a sort of miracle to see the suave, sleekly tailored, affable DiMaggio move about in his home city with the same quiet modesty and deprecation of praise that has marked his conduct on the ball field. He is besieged by clamorous bores and still manages to keep a firm hold on his temper and good manners without appearing to work at it.

I say it's a sort of miracle because, without something special in the man's makeup to steer him, the chances are good that he'd be in jail now instead of making $100,000 a year with the Yankees. He is most capably filling the job of being the country's first real sports idol since Ruth, Jones and Dempsey.

• • •

Friends Were Tough

"I hung out with a pretty tough crowd of kids," Joe was musing. "They fought and stole and ganged up on strangers. I dunno why, but I never had much stomach for it. I liked the guys and I liked to hang around with them, but when they'd start to beat up some drunk and roll him for his dough I always sort of drifted away.

"You might have thought that the other guys would have called me a sissy and kicked me out of the gang, but oddly enough they didn't. They never tried to get me to join them in their major deviltry, and even appeared to respect me a little bit for having no part of it. I still don't know why I didn't—it wasn't so much a matter of knowing it was wrong as that I just didn't feel right about it.

"I CAN SEE how lucky I was now—me, the kid from Martinez. Most of the boys I ran around with have done time since and there isn't any real reason why it didn't happen to me, too. Just lucky."

Anyone who has ever seen the graceful DiMaggio float wraithily backward after a deeply hit fly, or run out a base hit with no apparent effort, might be surprised to know that the young DiMaggio was probably the most awkward apprentice in the business.

"I grew up too fast," Joe says. "I was all legs. The owner of the club here said I was undoubtedly the clumsiest man he ever saw on a ball field. When I played a fly ball all you could see was legs, flying in all directions. I fell down more than I stood up. That's where I got that trick knee I brought into the majors."

DiMaggio lives a quiet life when he is in San Francisco—shooting a little and loafing around the house. Since he sold his interest in his restaurant to his brother, Dominic, he sees little of the city's night life. Wherever he goes he is a natural target for noisy admirers and tongues buzz at his passing.

• • •

The most constant question hammered at DiMaggio is whether he intends to be manager of the Yankees when his playing days are done. This is one he shuns out of common sense, if nothing else. For one thing he doesn't know whether he will ever be asked to accept the job. For another he would not commit himself if he had. For a third he greatly admires Casey Stengel, the present manager, and like the loyal hired hand he is, wishes to become involved in in intramural stresses and strains.

People who meet DiMaggio for the first time invariably go away muttering, in a surprised tone: "Why, he's such a quiet gentleman."

I suspect this has nothing to do with his tremendous success, but was a quality he carried even when he was a little gangster, with a strong disinclination for beating up strangers and relieving them of their pokes.

BY RUTH MILLETT: TO THE LADIES

The Feminine Viewpoint

SOMETIMES I wonder if American women aren't fast losing the ability to do anything on their own.

Every time a modern woman wants to do or learn something, she thinks she has to join a club to accomplish it.

MILLETT

She gets married and wants to be a help to her husband. So she joins an auxiliary to any professional or fraternal group he's interested in.

She decides she is interested in flowers, so she joins a garden club.

She wants to improve her mind, so she joins a book review club.

She has the secret notion that she can write, so she joins a writer's group.

She has a baby, and right away she gets into a child study club.

And so it goes. Her first thought when she decides she is interested in any subject is to look around for a club where members are supposed to be interested in the same thing.

• • •

JUST A WASTE OF TIME

AND then what happens? Well, she wastes the time she might be spending writing a novel or short story, or getting acquainted with Junior, or working in a flower bed, or reading a book, in club meetings and all the in-between-meeting jobs that go with any kind of club membership.

Instead of doing or creating or improving her mind, she is soon bogged down with telephoning lists of names, working on committees, and making fancy sandwiches to nourish and sustain her fellow club members.

And before she knows it she has substituted talk about writing for writing, theories on how to bring up children for staying home and bringing them up. She has more notebooks on flowers and flower arrangements than flowers growing in her yard. And worst of all she knows ust as much, but no more, about the subject that interests her as do all the other women in the group.

She started out to do something to enrich and develop her own personality. She has ended up being just another member of another group.

FRED RUSSELL tells of a day Connie Mack yanked Pitcher George Earnshaw from the mound because Lou Gehrig had lofted two of his offerings over the right-field fence. "This fellow I've put in now knows how to pitch to Gehrig," Mack told the disgruntled Earnshaw. "Watch him."

When Gehrig came up for his next lick, he teed off on the new pitcher's first delivery and sent it over centerfield wall on a dead line. As Gehrig jogged around the base, Earnshaw whispered to Mack, "I see what you mean. Make him change direction, eh?"

A WELL-DESERVED HONOR

A good many books undoubtedly could be written about the splendid work of county home demonstration agents. Some books doubtless have been written already. They all relate—or should relate in various ways that the home demonstration ladies have contributed immeasurably to better living on American farms.

It, therefore, was a signal honor when Miss Helen Dunlap, of Brownfield, the agent for Terry county, was chosen in Chicago the other day as one of the four home demonstration agents in the United States to receive the 1949 National Recognition Award. It was about as high a distinction as any of the several thousand ladies engaged in that work can hope to achieve.

The Avalanche-Journal is happy to join in congratulating Miss Dunlap and Terry county for this deserved recognition and to express pride that a fellow resident of the South Plains was chosen to receive it

MILITARY GETS MORE THAN HALF

U.S. Government Is Spending $1,380,000,000 For Research

BY JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 — To find various ways of making life long and better and short and awful, the government is spending almost $1½ billion this year on scientific research.

The work ranges all the way from work on cancer and heart and synthetic rubber to atomic energy for better bombs and weapons for the Army, Navy and Air Force.

The military forces are getting more than half the money being spent on research.

In a talk to a group of scientists, John R. Steelman, assistant to President Truman, told some of the story. He said:

Search For Truth

"The importance of science to our national life has been dramatized for all Americans by the atom bomb and the tremendous potentialities of atomic power, but on a thousand less publicized fronts the researcher and the technician are working together in the search for truth.

"As the President said . . . the knowledge that we now have is but a fraction of the knowledge that we must get, whether for peaceful purposes or national defense."

The government's budget for scientific research this year totals $1,380,000,000. It breaks down this way, with a brief explanation for each field:

Atomic energy $320,000,000 . . . includes benefits to medicine and other fields of life, besides the bomb.

Research On Diseases

Federal Security administration, $42,000,000 . . . this goes into research for public health, including cancer, heart disease, infantile paralysis.

General services administration, $31,000,000 . . . this includes building laboratories for other agencies.

National Advisory Committee on Aviation, $70,000,000 . . . this committee is made up of civilians and military men. Almost all of this work is being done in government laboratories.

Tennessee Valley authority, $24,000,000 . . . this includes development of fertilizer.

Agriculture department, $55,000,000 . . . this goes into government experiment stations all over the country, livestock, crops.

Defense Budget High

Commerce department, $19,000,000 . . . this includes the National Bureau of Standards and the Weather bureau, better air navigation systems.

National defense, $750,000,000 . . . this includes research on weapons by Army, Navy, Air force.

Interior department, $46,4000,000 . . . this includes geological surveys in search for minerals.

All others (including Maritime commission, State department, Reconstruction Finance corporation, Veterans administration), $23,000,000 . . . this ranges from development of cultural relations with other countries, particularly Latin America, to synthetic rubber and the making of artificial limbs for veterans.

Schools Given Aid

About $425,000,000 of the money is being spent in non-government laboratories, going to universities and industry for various purposes. Federal research in colleges and universities is costing about $100,000,000.

Said Steelman: "Federal research funds constitute a substantial portion of the research budget in many institutions, often averaging well over 50 per cent of their entire research budget.

The rest of the $425,000,000 going into non-government laboratories — or about $325,000,000 — is being spent in industrial laboratories. So industry is benefited by the program.

In 1929 the total private and governmental spending on research was only about $166,000,000.

Luis Carrosales said, "I guess I'll give up now."

His latest, a daughter, was born Saturday. She and Carrosales' wife were reported "doing well."

"I know a lot of youngsters in tneir 60's who envy me," he said. "But I guess they just don't live right."

Carrosales, half-Spanish and half Cherokee indian, attributed his good health to "not drinking or smoking" and regular habits.

He first became a father when he was 33, he said.

Eight Top Beauties At Tech Are Picked

Licia Albaese, Metropolitan opera singer, who is in Lubbock for a recital Tuesday, selected eight official beauties of Texas Technological college in contest finals Sunday.

But the selections will not be made public until the publication of the school yearbook in the spring in which each will receive a two-page spread, according to Roy Grimes, editor.

The eight girls were chosen from a total of 16 finalists who paraded before the opera singer Sunday afternoon in the campus recreation hall.

Campus-wide nominations placed 99 co-eds into the contest. Two preliminary judgings cut this number to 16.

The 16 finalists were Betty Welcott, Dallas; Mary Ann Kelly, Colorado City; Pat Todd, Houston; Levora Manning, Amarillo; Jo Cole, Big Spring; Jane Wier, Brownfield; Pat Bennett, Dumas; Dotsie Stephenson, Fort Stockton; Jo Simmons, Lubbock; Janelle Reed, Crosbyton; Jeanine Ballew, Rising Star; Phyllis Jeanne Leach, Slaton; Betty Fillingim, New Home; Helen Ohlenbusch, Sweetwater; DeLois Utterback, Amarillo; and Connie Hopping, Littlefield.

Elizabeth Taylor Latest Target For Gossip Columnists

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 5 — Elizabeth Taylor is learning that the life of a movie star can be bitter as well as sweet.

Her education has come in the past few months. Her two "engagements" plus her other romantic didoes have made her the target of critical comments by columnists, comedians and commentators. It has been "open season" on Elizabeth Taylor.

"If I had known it would happen like this," said the star's attractive mother, "I never would have let Elizabeth go into pictures. The situation has us so worried that we both are sick about it."

Column Is Cited

As an example, she cited a column item that Elizabeth was making a nightly spectacle while listening to crooner Vic Damone at the Mocambo.

"Why, she was only at Mocambo three times," Mrs. Taylor explained on the "A Place In The Sun" set. "One night we took her there after Jane Powell's wedding. Another time she went with friends and once she saw the first show and Vic brought her home by 11:30."

She also mentioned a radio gossiper's report, which had the Taylors scurrying to their lawyer.

"Why do they have to make up bad things about Elizabeth?" asked her mother. "She is a sweet young girl who wants everyone to love her. She isn't capable of doing anything that is mean or small."

Far from being a night owl, as some have reported, Elizabeth has been allowed to go out only on Saturday night while working.

Lost Collie Home After 1,400-Mile Trip From Florida

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 5 (U.P.)—Nine-year-old Sandra Ross played with her pet collie, "Tamy," today after the faithful animal apparently walked 1,400 miles home from Florida where he was lost a year ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Ross and their daughter drove away from a gasoline station in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., last Dec. 5 without realizing their one-year-old pet, "Tam-O-Shanter," had hopped from the car. The Rosses were in Florida for three months but were unable to find "Tamy."

Lost Dog Found

Recently, Mrs. Cerelia Kiefer, owner of a kennel at nearby Mexico, N. Y., wrote a letter about a lost dog which the Rosses read in a local newspaper.

"I found a very nice male collie in Syracuse who was nearly starved. It was weak from lack of food, pads on feet worn and sore," she said. The Rosses hurried to the kennel to check the description.

Tricks Are Recalled

Sandra and the dog recognized each other instantly, the parents said.

"Tammy's" nose, unusually short for collies, was a sure mark of identification and the dog remembered all the tricks they taught him as a puppy almost two years ago, they said.

Denmark is prospering, with yields of most farm products well ahead of a year ago.

WHAT KEEPS COFFEE PRICES PERKING—Newschart above illustrates four factors that helped increase coffee prices. In a recent survey, the Department of Commerce traced the shortage to a steady, 10-year drop in Brazilian production, plus a big increase in consumption. The department says the outlook for increased supplies is "not bright," but foresees no critical coffee "famine.." Main reason prices skyrocketed to their present all-time high is "panic buying" by home hoarders.

Ten Persons In North Germany Killed By 80-Mile Wind Storm

BERLIN, Dec. 5. (AP)—Ten persons were killed and 16 injured yesterday when winds up to 80 miles an hour toppled war-weakened buildings across North Germany.

Five persons died in Berlin.

Shipping was warned of the storm. More than 100 vessels sought shelter in the mouths of the Weser and Elbe rivers.

Hamburg was one of the hardest hit centers. The new 500-foot mast of th radio station there buckled and fell. Hundreds of persons were evacuated from their homes because of the danger of collapse.

Hundreds of fallen trees blocked roads, snarled traffic and hampered rescue squads.

Missing Man Now In Paris

PARIS, Dec. 5 (AP)—Guy Auffrey, Frenchman expelled from Poland who disappeared on the way home, arrived by train here today, escorted by two police inspectors.

After Auffrey disappeared from the train bringing him and six other French people expelled from Poland on espionage charges, the French rail traffic officer at Helmstedt had erroneously said his body had been found near Offenbach, in the American zone of Germany.

Not Under Arrest

Auffrey was found yesterday at Wel-Am-Rhein in the French zone of Germany, about three miles north of Basel, Switzerland. The officer at Helmstedt said the report of finding the body was a mistake.

Auffrey was met at the station platform by members of the French government agency concerned with espionage affairs. They said Auffrey was not under arrest but that they wanted to question him.

French national security officers said one of his companions on the trip home told them he had not intended to return to France.

Auffrey, who has a French wife in Poland, formerly was employed by a French firm. He had been arrested by Polish security police, interned for a few days, and later expelled with eight other French citizens.

Two of the eight, women secretaries of the French embassy in Warsaw, were sent to join the staff of the French consulate in Hamburg. The other six arrived here yesterday and were taken to headquarters of the counter-espionage police organization.

They were asked to remain at the disposition of the police investigating circumstances of their arrest in Poland and their expulsion.

LAWYERS GUILD BEHIND MOVE

New Campaign To Drive Edgar Hoover Out Of FBI Shapes Up

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—A new campaign to drive FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover from office is just around the corner under leadership of a left wing organization already suspect as a Communist front.

It is known as the National Lawyers Guild. The guild was born in convention here in 1937 when Washington's political climate was more favorable to Communists and their fellow travellers.

At a recent guild-sponsored meeting in New York it was decided to open up against Hoover with a demand for investigation of the FBI. It was agreed to call for a "citizens committee" to investigate and to demand that President Truman give the committee broad powers by executive order. They would include full access to FBI files, the right to subpoena and to question witnesses.

Among Those Present

The United Press was informed that among those present at the discussion of this program were:

Clifford J. Durr, former federal communications commissioner.

Lee Pressman, former general counsel of the CIO who left that office when union leadership turned against Communists and fellow travellers.

Robert Silverstein, executive secretary of the guild.

Carol King, a lawyer frequently active in party line causes.

Maurice Braverman of Baltimore, Md.

They and their associates decided to base their campaign against Hoover and the FBI on an incident in Judith Coplon's recent espionage trial here. The trial judge compelled the FBI to produce its files on Miss Coplon, a Justice department employe who got caught associating with an alleged Russian agent. Much of the file material was hearsay, chit chat or anonymous, none of it fit for evidence in a court of law.

The FBI was aware of that and had not sought to offer the material as proof of anything. But the judge's action seemingly placed Hoover and his agency in the position of sponsoring or accepting as true this hodge-podge of material which it neither sponsored nor vouched for. The FBI, in fact, protested against bringing the files into court.

Material Is Filed

FBI procedure is to file away whatever comes into its hands. None of the Coplon stuff was more vague or less worthy as evidence, for instance, than an anonymous letter which the FBI received many months ago and kept, according to regulations, as part of its file. That letter proved to be the first tip on the irregularities which ultimately sent former air force Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers to jail.

Some of the material stored in FBI files is no better than malicious gossip, and is recognized as such. When possible it is so identified. But it is a fact that the FBI files make up the best record of subversive characters and criminals in this country and, further, that the communists urgently desire to break public confidence in the FBI. That is because the FBI is Communism's toughest and most active opponent in the United States.

As public trials now have proven, Hoover has had agents planted in Communist cells in this country for many years. Anything which would break that up or put the FBI under leadership of a man less aggressively anti-Communist would be right down the party line, or, better still, do away with the FBI altogether.

To Open Up Again

So the lawyers guild shortly will open up on Hoover again. The guild was cited as a Communist front by the house un-American activities committee March 29, 1944.

A New York City council investigating the municipal civil service commission had this to say:

"The late Frank P. Walsh, Comptroller Joseph D. McGoldrick, Judge Ferdinand Pecora, Adolph Berle, assistant secretary of state, Nathan Margold, solicitor of the department of the interior, and others have resigned from the organization (the guild) on the ground that it is Communist-dominated."

The House committee said:

"Although originally promoted as a professional organization of liberal lawyers, its record has proven that it is actually just one more highly deceptive Communist-operated front organization, primarily intended to serve the interests of the Communist party of the United States through its activities among the legal profession.

"The National Lawyers Guild has faithfully followed the line of the Communist party on numerous issues and has proven itself an important bulwark in defense of that party, its members and organizations under its control."

Man Sought In Attack On Girl

ORANGE, Dec. 5. (AP)—Officers sifted today for some clue that would lead them to the man who raped a 16-year-old girl early Sunday after wounding critically one of her companions, an Orange high school boxer.

Sheriff Chester Holts said six suspects have been questioned but all were released.

"We have had dozens of slim clues but so far none has panned out," he said.

Suspect Described

The sheriff said the man surprised two couples parked on a lonely road near here. The boys and girls could describe him only as a white man, apparently about 25 years old, and wearing khaki clothing.

Don Hulsopple, 18, was shot as he tried to protect his companions. The man threatened to kill all four, then forced the girls to tie up the boys in a water-soaked rice paddy. He led the girls away, left one tied up and leaning against a fence and then raped the 16-year-old in another muddy field.

Hospital attendants said Hulsopple was in a critical condition from exposure and a wound in the stomach.

Fired Two Shots

Holts said the couples were parked about two miles outside Orange when the man approached. He fired two shots into the air, ordered the couples out of the car, and said:

"I'm gonna kill every one of you."

Hulsopple, a former welterweight Golden Gloves district champion, got out of the car and struck at the man.

"Oh, you're gonna get tough," the man said. He shot Hulsopple in the stomach, but the boy kept his feet.

The man made the girls tie up the boys with belts and shoe laces.

Hulsopple chewed through the shoe laces with which his hands were tied and freed himself and Bullock.

Hospital Okayed By Dickens County Vote

DICKENS, Dec. 5 (Special) — Dickens county voters have okayed by an overwhelming majority a proposal to build a $250,000 county hospital, it appeared late this morning.

The county approved a $125,000 bond issue for the purpose in an election Saturday. This morning six boxes had been brought in, and six small boxes remained out. The six brought in totaled 514 votes in favor of the hospital, 178 against. These included boxes at Spur, Dickens and Afton.

The state will match the fund dollar for dollar, it is expected, thus enabling the county to erect a 25 or 30-bed hospital with all facilities.

County Judge A. C. Sharp and Commissioners Roy Ward, E. J. Offield, Arner Watson and G. C. Pierce have not selected an architect yet, but expect to go ahead with planning soon. Location of the hospital is also stil lto be decided.
