L. TRAMMELL IS FREE AGAIN

Desperado Who Broke Tahoka Jail Leads Sensational Break From Penitentiary

Three of the worst criminals in the Texas prison system overpowered a guard at the Retrieve Prison Farm last Friday, killed the guard with his own gun, and then escaped. They had not been captured when this was written Wednesday afternoon but their early capture was confidently expected.

Luke Trammell, the leader of the trio, had a brief but exciting criminal career in Lynn county shortly before he was sent to the penitentiary on various charges from other counties.

He and his two brothers, Dave and Dock, were detected in the act of burglarizing a wholesale oil station in O'Donnell, it will be remembered, about three years ago. When sheriff B. L. Parker and his deputies surprised and closed in on the three men, Dock Trammell tried to escape and was shot in the leg by Deputy Sheriff John Johnson of O'Donnell. The three men were brought to Tahoka and placed in jail.

A few weeks later the three men made their escape from jail one night, stole and escaped in Rafe Richardson's car. A little later they broke into the sheriff's office and stole some of his guns. A thrilling man hunt in Coleman county followed, and in a battle with officers, Dock Trammell was killed. He had gone under an assumed name here and his identity was not known until after he had been shot to death. Dave escaped and has not yet been captured. Luke was captured and was later indicted for a number of heinous crimes. Due largely to the (Cont'd. on last page)

Softball Season Opened Monday

A large and enthusiastic crowd was out Monday night to witness the official opening of the softball season of Tahoka's six-team league. The opening was delayed four weeks awaiting the installation of lights; but with splendid lights over a good field, and the six anxious clubs and their sponsors eager to unleash their pent up energy, the twin-bill opener brought out a crowd which indicated that the "national disease" has pretty thoroughly infected our city.

The initial game was a snappy one between the Bankers and the Firemen, resulting in a score of 4 to 1 in favor of the Bankers, of which Raymond Weathers is manager.

The second engagement was a somewhat "loose-fitting" affair between the "Hashers" and "Cleaners," ending in a victory for the Hashers by a score of 17 to 16. Hit and-run was the watchword of each aggregation, it seemed—they were out for exercise, and believe me, they took it.

On Tuesday night an interesting game between the Butchers and Ginners was enjoyed by possibly a larger gathering than first night. The Butchers, under the able direction of skipper "Al", bagged this game at the rate of 15 to 6. Smith's boys were bitten also by the hit-and-run bug, it appears.

Losing team managers were Bovell of the Firemen, Gurley of the Cleaners, and Donaldson of the Ginners. Condy Carmack is president of the league, Bovell is secretary-treasurer, "Blind Tom" alias Krebs is umpire, and Claud Conway official score-keeper.

The season is to consist of two 15 game halves, with a play-off series of five games between the winners of the halves. Team managers and other business men offer prizes at the close for winner in the final playoff, for the player attaining the highest batting average, and for the pitcher credited with the greatest number of victories.

Officials are well fitted for their positions; team managers believe in their clubs, and Mr. and Mrs. Public are all set to enjoy the pastime. —Reporter.

Post Boosters Visit Tahoka

About fifteen cars and fifty citizens of Post made a noisy entry into the public square here Wednesday morning and proceeded to make announcement of the big two-day Fourth of July Celebration to be held at Two Draw Lake in Post on July 4-5.

There is to be a mammoth street parade in Post at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, July 4. A big Centennial program containing many interesting features has been arranged. The town will be lavishly decorated, and there will be a big fireworks display Saturday night.

The citizens of Post are proclaiming this as the greatest Fourth of July Celebration ever held in that city.

Elmer Rice Is New Wilson Postmaster

Elmer Rice living in the New Home community on Route 1 out of Wilson has been appointed postmaster at Wilson, and his appointment was confirmed by the Senate last Friday, we understand.

Mr. Rice has been residing in this county many years. He is a son of J. E. Rice of Joe Stokes and a brother of Boyd Rice of the Tahoka postoffice force. He is well qualified and fitted in every way for the position.

Mr. Rice succeeds Mrs. Dawson, who has been the efficient postmistress at Wilson for many years.

Wilson School Gets 5 1/2 More Credits

S. G. Anthony, superintendent of the Wilson public school, was a business visitor in Tahoka and a brief caller at the News office Tuesday.

Mr. Anthony was proud of the fact that the Wilson High School had just been granted 5 1/2 additional credits of affiliation, giving the school now a total of 25 1/2 credits.

The new credits granted were as follows: Vocational Agriculture, 1 1/2; Home Economics, 1/2; Manual Training, 1; Bookkeeping, 1; Typewriting, 1; Commercial Law, 1/2. The Wilson schools have an $80,000 plant including a combination gymnasium and auditorium, and the district operates six buses to transport pupils to and from school.

Candidate Speaking Schedule Changed

The News has been requested to make announcement of the following change of the speaking schedule of the county candidates.

The candidates will speak at Grassland on Tuesday night, June 30, and at Magnolia on Thursday night, July 2.

The dates for these two speaking engagements have been changed on account of a conflict at Grassland with other community activities.

All candidates and the people of the two communities will please take notice and give all due publicity to the change.

Land Commission Candidate In City

John W. Hawkins, chief clerk in the general land office at Austin and candidate for land commissioner, was a visitor in Tahoka Tuesday morning. He left his placard here in the windows of many business houses but apparently did not meet many people. He has had long years of service in the office of the land commissioner and is doubtless well qualified to perform the duties of the office. No doubt he is a splendid gentleman but just doesn't seem to have the knack of meeting the people. But a man of that kind sometimes makes the best record in office.

Mr. and Mrs. Skip Taylor and Olga Faye returned Wednesday from a visit with relatives in San Antonio.

LOCAL SCHOOL NOW ASSURED

Work Expected To Start Again As Soon As Funds Allocated For The Project

The completion of Tahoka's new grammar school building, which has been a matter of great uncertainty the past few months, now seems assured.

Judge B. P. Maddox, who has been communicating with Washington authorities on behalf of the Board of Trustees, received another telegram from Congressman George Mahon Monday which stated that final approval had been given the application for $5,000 additional Federal funds. The telegram addressed to Judge Maddox and dated Washington, June 20, is as follows:

"PWA advises me your project has been given final approval and allotment will be made as soon as funds become available. As I understand the situation, your project eligible for both rescinded funds or funds from new appropriation. Am hopeful allotment will go forward in just a few days. Regards.—George Mahon."

Work on this structure began early in the year but it stopped with the completion of the foundation for the reason that the Board of Trustees was unable to procure a bid for the construction of the superstructure at a figure falling within the limit of the funds that were available. Application was made to the PWA for $5,000 additional funds on the premise that the school district would furnish something more than $7,000 additional funds.

The original PWA grant for this project was $32,528, we believe, and the people of the district voted bonds in the sum of $40,000, making an aggregate sum of $72,528. The contract for the foundation was first let for a little more than $11,000. The foundation was built, and bids for the superstructure were called for. Then came the hitch.

But it seems now that the whole matter has been ironed out, and school authorities believe that within a few weeks they will be ready to proceed with the construction of the superstructure.

Mrs. Marie Sanders and little son of Lufkin came Monday to spend a month with her mother, Mrs. Charley Brown, and other members of the family.

Water Is Scarce Here This Week

Tahoka has experienced something of a water famine again this week, due to the caving of sand in one of the City wells. Constant pumping for the past several weeks has somewhat reduced the flow from the other two wells also, and hence the shortage.

The City has this week begun drilling another well, however, and the city authorities express the belief that as soon as this well is put into operation the water supply will be sufficient.

The small engine being used to pump the water from the third of the wells recently drilled by the City is said to be too light to keep the loose sand pumped out of this well as fast as it accumulates and hence the water supply is cut off, or as the water boys say, the well becomes "sanded down."

A heavier pumping outfit is to be installed at well No. 4, which it is believed will obviate any similar trouble there.

At any rate the City authorities are doing their very best to meet the situation, and it is believed that the worst of our water troubles will soon be over. Well No. 4 should be connected up with our water system and put into operation by the first of next week.

Rev. J. W. Watson, a superannuated Methodist preacher and a good friend of the editor down at Sweetwater in other years, was a pleasant caller at the News office Tuesday.

APPROVE WORK FOR NEW HOME

Gymnasium And Auditorium Work For Rural School Will Start At Early Date

All the financial difficulties of the New Home Independent School District have been ironed out and the money is now available with which to build the proposed combination gymnasium and auditorium, according to a telephone message to the News by Superintendent J. T. Carter Wednesday morning.

The New Home District voted bonds and made application to the PWA for a grant of additional funds with which to erect the building. The project was approved and the grant made.

But the New Home district soon encountered difficulties similar to those encountered by the school board here. They found it impossible to get the job done, according to the plans and specifications submitted to and approved by the Government, for the amount of money that would be available. Then they went to work and cut out some of the features of the proposed building so as to reduce the cost. This was duly approved, but in the meantime the board of trustees had encountered difficulty in the sale of the bonds. So the matter has been hanging fire for some time.

But the bonds were finally sold; and now the Board expects work on the new structure to begin within the next ten days or two weeks.

Blue Sox Defeat T-Bar, Score 25-2

Tahoka Blue Socks, the new Tahoka baseball team, managed by Coach Prentice Walker, won its first game of its season Sunday, defeating T-Bar by the lopsided score of 25 to 2. The game was played at T-Bar.

The team showed much improvement over the other two exhibitions, and is now rounding into a first class amateur team. T-Bar had previously defeated the Blue Sox.

The Blue Sox will journey to Shallowater this coming Sunday to play that team, and Sunday week they will entertain the strong Wilson team on the Tahoka diamond.

Rain And Hail Damage Reported

A heavy rain and hailstorm visited quite a large area in the northern part of the county late Monday afternoon, bringing total destruction to a number of crops and doing much damage to others.

On several farms lying a few miles northwest of Wilson, the crops were almost totally destroyed. Other crops lying west and northwest of New Lynn were likewise severely damaged. The rainfall in these localities was also very heavy, some reporting that as much as two inches of water fell. Good rains fell over other portions of this territory which was helpful to crops.

Crops in the county generally, outside of these hail districts, are very promising, though grass and weeds are bad in some fields.

Some crops have suffered slightly from the intense heat that prevailed for several days. Monday brought the highest temperatures of the past two weeks, the mercury rising to 102.

Central Baptists Call New Pastor

On last Sunday, Central Baptist Church situated 11 miles east of Tahoka called Rev. J. C. McGraw of Brownwood as pastor, we are informed, and he will begin his work at an early date.

The new pastor is a brother of Rev. W. E. McGraw of Wilson.

Wilson Makes Big July Fourth Plans

The people of Wilson are making great preparation for their big July 4th Celebration. There will be a free barbecue at the noon hour. A ball game has been arranged between the Wilson team and the Tahoka Bulldogs. They are hoping to have a game between two negro teams.

All the county and local candidates will be there and place their claims before the people. Candidates for the Legislature and possibly some of the candidates for state offices will be there and make addresses. Wilson is making every reasonable preparation to entertain the visitors.

You are cordially invited to go and spend the day with them.

Oil Company To Survey County

A company of ten men or more is here to make a seismographic survey of the county for some big oil company, the identity of which we were unable to obtain.

These men with their families comprise about fifty people. They will be here for a considerable length of time.

The taking of a seismographic survey is very expensive, but big oil companies in search of new oil fields evidently regard these surveys as very valuable. Such surveys have been made by four or five major companies in past years.

Wilson Is Claiming South Plains' Best

Wilson has something to crow about!

For two years the Amherst baseball team has met all-comers—Amherst and Lubbock on down, or up—and has not lost a game.

Not until last Sunday, at least, when Doc Cook's Wilson hot-shots journeyed to Amherst and defeated that city 8 to 4 in a thrilling game.

Hyde, pitching for Wilson, allowed 9 hits, while he and his team-mates were collecting 11 hits off of Beans Pair of Amherst.

Fincher, Wilson hind-catch, started the fireworks with a home-run in the first inning; then Alvin Crews slapped one over the fence in the third with one man on. Old Ives Cathcart, newlywed, ex-Tahokan, was the outstanding star of the day with his brilliant fielding, and three hits and one sacrifice out of four trips to the plate.

Old Tourist Camp Being Torn Down

A. I. Thomas is this week having the buildings of the old Billy Brandon Tourist Camp torn down.

He is having the lumber hauled to Monahans, we understand, where he intends to erect rent houses. Monahans is an oil town and house rent there is exceedingly high, it is said.

The Billy Brandon Tourist Park was the first one established in Tahoka, but it has been little used the past few years.

Swimming Meets For Scouts Planned

Plans are under way to conduct district swimming meets in the various districts of the South Plains Council during the month of July. Swimming meets will be held at Post for the Southeastern District; Lamesa, Southern District; Brownfield, Southwestern District; Littlefield, Northwestern District; Spur, Eastern District; and Lubbock for central District.

Possibly similar meets will be held in August for troops in Hale, Floyd, Motley, Swisher, and Briscoe Counties. This territory has just recently been added to the South Plains Council and has not been placed under district organization yet.

BARBECUE AND PROGRAM HELD

W. D. Nevels Elected President Of Pioneers Who Have Resided Here Thirty Years

The annual meeting of the Pioneers of Lynn county held here Wednesday was a decided success.

The free barbecue was served and the program rendered at the George Small home three miles east of Tahoka, though most of the morning was spent by the visiting and resident pioneers on the streets here, greeting one another and reviving memories of by-gone days.

About 225 were present, though some of them failed to register. Quite a number of former residents were here from neighboring counties.

The program consisted of music, instrumental and vocal, a number of talks by the old-timers, and a brief history of the county written by Mrs. Jewell Doak Rogers. The musical program had been arranged by Mrs. Marcus Edwards and Miss O'Bera Forrester. Some old-time fiddle numbers given by Messrs. Lee and Morris and one or two numbers by Coleman and Jack Wells were especially much enjoyed.

The barbecued meats consisted of a beef contributed by C. O. Edwards, goats given by Elton George and others, mutton, and chicken. The meats were barbecued by Claud Wells and Fritz and Rudy Neiman, and everybody declared it was the finest barbecued meats they had ever eaten.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: W. D. Nevels, president; A. L. Lockwood, first vice-president; John Donaldson, second vice-president; W. E. (Happy) Smith, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Jewell Doak Rogers, historian.

Noble O'Donnell's New Postmaster

The News is informed that Mack Noble has received the appointment as postmaster at O'Donnell to succeed Hal Singleton, who has been postmaster many years.

We understand Mr. Noble's name was submitted to the Senate for confirmation last Thursday.

Mr. Noble was formerly an employee in the O'Donnell Bank, but for the past few years has been the Ford automobile dealer in O'Donnell. He is a splendid young business man and has many friends in Tahoka and over the county generally. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Noble of West Point, pioneer Lynn county citizens.

Mr. Singleton, the retiring postmaster, is likewise well known and has many friends in Tahoka. He has been an efficient and faithful postmaster.

Negro Juneteenth Celebration Held

The few negroes who reside in Tahoka and many from neighboring towns greatly enjoyed their regular annual emancipation celebration here last Friday.

There was a big barbecue at noon and two big ball games in the afternoon. The Snyder team first defeated the Brownfield team and then the Tahoka team.

There was no disorder, no fights, no drunkenness. The colored people of Tahoka are to be congratulated upon the fine way in which they conducted themselves on this occasion.

Highway No. 9 Work Delayed Few Days

The completion of Highway No. 9 south of Tahoka has been held in suspense for the past ten days because of delay in the shipment of asphalt to Brown & Root, contractors.

This asphalt is due to arrive today, however, and if so the job should be completed not later than Monday and possibly on Saturday.

Gilbert K. Chesterton, dead at sixty-two, weighed more than two hundred and fifty pounds. As every doctor will surmise, he died of heart disease. His weight explains the unnecessary early death.

The brain, alone, contains thirty thousand million separate cells, according to Doctor Garret. In his 100 surplus pounds, Chesterton carried scores of billions of useless cells, each making an unnecessary demand on the heart.

Do not let yourself remain fat after forty if you would live to be old. To become thin and stay thin requires some effort of the will, often more disagreeable than dying.

At one of the ultra-radical workers' meetings in France, the red flag displayed and the communist "international" hymn sung, there was radical and determined talk.

South China thought she wanted a war with Japan, and will probably have it. Troops from a Japanese naval squadron land at Amoy, Fukien province, accompanied by the usual convincing flock of airplanes.

Revised Guffey Coal Bill Is Passed—Republicans Map Campaign Strategy—England Abandons Anti-Italian Trade Sanctions.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

LAST minute passage of important legislation marked the closing sessions of congress before adjournment for the summer.

The house, by a vote of 161 to 90, passed the revised version of the Guffey bill to restore federal control of soft coal production, invalidated by the Supreme court. It passed the measure on to the senate.

Observers pointed out that this was the quickest repair job on a Supreme court decision that the New Deal has thus far achieved. The new bill eliminates provisions governing working hours and wages which the court held invalid.

It retains, however, two features which the court neither approved nor disapproved: 1—The granting to a national bituminous coal commission authority to fix prices and approve marketing agreements. 2—The imposition of a tax on the production of coal. The tax feature has been altered somewhat from the original bill.

The house, likewise, adopted the two billion, 300 million dollar relief and deficiency bill. At the same time, it killed two other measures. One was for the appropriation of funds to complete the $150,000,000 Florida ship canal, which had been approved by the senate.

The senate, by a vote of 42 to 24 passed the Wagner bill providing for a $400,000,000 program to encourage low cost housing construction. The bill would set up a federal housing authority to administer the act.

DEATH "In the harness" came to Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, dean of the senate, who had represented Florida in the upper house for the last quarter of a century.

He died suddenly at his home in Washington, Senator Fletcher, a strong supporter of the Roosevelt administration although he was considered a conservative, was chairman of the banking and currency committee which bore the brunt of the task involved in the currency reform legislation and the banking act of 1935.

President Roosevelt, in a statement eulogizing the senator, said "the country has lost an able and conscientious servant in the death of Senator Fletcher." He declared the Floridian "was ever actuated by motives of high patriotism and unselfish devotion to the public welfare."

The death of Senator Fletcher followed closely the passing of Senator Park Trammell of Florida and the death of Speaker Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee.

Senator Fletcher was born in Sumter county, Georgia, January 6, 1859. He was graduated from Vanderbilt university in 1880 and began the practice of law in Jacksonville, Fla., in 1881.

He was elected to the United States senate in 1908 and had been re-nominated and re-elected in each subsequent term.

While no movement had been undertaken to select his successor as chairman of the important banking and currency committee, it was felt in Washington circles that Senator Carter Glass, senate veteran, Virginia Democrat, wartime secretary of the treasury and staunch gold standard advocate, was in line for the post.

Although a critic of some of the President's policies, Senator Glass has never gone far off the reservation.

A SEMI-ANNUAL checkup revealed that 10 debtor nations had notified the State department that they would default on their indebtedness to the United States.

The nations are: Great Britain, France, Italy, Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, Rumania, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

Finland alone promised to pay. Belgium and Hungary had not yet replied to the State department's notice that an installment on their war debt was due.

While the present debt payment was being passed, in informed circles it is regarded that some basis of settlement will be sought by the European debtor nations in the near future.

Increasing possibility of war in Europe, it is believed, will induce these nations to repair their credit situation in the United States.

SIX red-robed judges of Canada's Supreme court declared two of the Dominion's eight "social reform" laws unconstitutional, decided that two others were valid, one partly valid and returned the verdicts on the other three.

The two major laws declared unconstitutional were the National Products Marketing Act, similar in some respects to the nullified American NRA and the Employment and Social Insurance Act, proposing a compulsory contributory employment insurance system. The laws were passed in 1934 and 1935 under the Conservative government then headed by Premier Bennett.

Declared valid were the Unfair Business Practices Act and the Farmers and Creditors Arrangement Act. The judges decided that the Dominion Trade and Industry Commission Act was partly valid. They reached a verdict on the Minimum Wages Act, the Limitations of Hours of Work Act and the Weekly Day of Rest in Industrial Undertakings Act.

IN TOPEKA, Kan., Gov. Alfred M. Landon, Republican nominee for the Presidency, met Col. Frank Knox, Vice Presidential nominee, and Chairman John Hamilton and members of the executive committee of the Republican national committee to make plans for the coming campaign.

Speaking itineraries for Governor Landon and Colonel Knox were discussed as well as other campaign strategy.

Youth is definitely represented in the reorganized personnel of the executive committee which will chart the Republican course. Hamilton, the new chairman, is forty-four. The youngest member, Robert P. Burroughs of Manchester, N. H., is thirty-six. Seven new members attended the meeting, including Burroughs; Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., North Attleboro, Mass.; J. Will Taylor, Knoxville, Tenn.; Mrs. Horace Sayre, Ardmore, Okla.; Mrs. John Wreth, St. Joseph, Mo.; Ezra Whitla, Coeur d'Alene, Idaho; and Earl Warren, Oakland, Calif. Members returned to the committee are: Charles D. Hilles, New York; Harrison E. Spangler, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; R. B. Creager, Brownsville, Texas; Mrs. Bertha Baur, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Paul Fitzsimmons, Newport, R. I.; Walter S. Hallahan, Charleston, W. Va.; and George Ball, Muncie, Ind.

IN the reorganization of the committee, Hamilton traded posts with Henry P. Fletcher, who took over the job of counsel for the committee. C. B. Goodspeed of Chicago succeeded George F. Getz as treasurer.

The other committee officers include four vice chairmen: Ralph E. Williams, Oregon; J. Henry Horaback, Connecticut; Mrs. John E. Hillman, Colorado; and Mrs. James Worthington, Pennsylvania.

DANGERS of civil war in China and an armed intervention by Japan were lessened somewhat by reports that Gen. Li Tsung-jen, military overlord of Kwangsi province, and his supporters had decided to yield to the superior strength of the Nanking central government, of which Chiang Kai-shek is the generalissimo.

The rebellions chiefdoms of Kwangsi had been coupling their agitations against General Chiang with warlike demonstrations against the Japanese. Tokyo has demanded in no uncertain terms that the anti-Japanese activities throughout China be suppressed.

DEFINITE abandonment of Britain's trade sanctions against Italy and advocacy of their official removal by the League of Nations was decided upon by the British cabinet, under the presidency of Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin.

This action of the cabinet had been expected for some time, following the failure of the sanctions to halt Italy's progress in the conquest of Ethiopia.

It was expected that Capt. Anthony Eden, foreign secretary, would go to Geneva to attend the league meeting and urge abolition of league sanctions against Italy.

Dispatches from Paris indicated French support of the British program. The cabinet was also reported to have formulated a program regarding Germany and the reformation of the league which may call for continued pressure on Reichsfuehrer Hitler to use his power and influence to promote European peace.

GEN. JOHN J. PERSHING is not optimistic concerning world peace. Addressing the graduating class at the United States Military academy on the fiftieth anniversary of his own graduation, the general said "no one can tell when we shall again need our armies."

He continued: "The situation in the world today is far from reassuring. None can foresee the effect upon us of another world catastrophe. Loyal citizens cannot shut their eyes to the possibility of war. They owe it to all that is sacred to make ample preparation against an evil day."

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT returned to Washington from his tour through six western states and, though he was rather tired, he hoped to run up to New London, Conn., for the Yale-Harvard boat race.

That depended on the congressional situation. He had to deal with the lawmakers who were all tangled up in the controversy over the tax bill, and also to complete his speech of acceptance to be delivered at Philadelphia on June 27.

The final speech of Mr. Roosevelt's trip was delivered at Vincennes, Ind., where he dedicated the handsome memorial to George Rogers Clark. He paid eloquent tribute to that conqueror of the Northwest, and found occasion to appeal for support of his own program.

"In his (Clark's) day among the pioneers there were jumpers of land claims and those who sought to swindle their neighbors though they were poor in this world's goods and lived in sparsely settled communities. Today among our teeming millions there still are those who by dishonorable means seek to obtain the possessions of their unwary neighbors.

"Our modern civilization must constantly protect itself against moral defects whose objectives are the same but whose methods are more subtle than their prototypes of a century and a half ago. We do not change our form of free government when we arm ourselves with new weapons against new devices of crime and cupidity."

In a series of rhetorical questions the President defended the AAA subsidies to farmers, soil conservation, reforestation, and preservation of wild life.

From Vincennes Mr. Roosevelt went to Hodgenville, Ky., for a brief visit to Lincoln's birthplace, and then his train carried him back to Washington.

IN A secret consistory Pope Pius XI raised to the rank of cardinal two of his old friends, Giovanni Mercati and Eugenio Tisserant. Twenty-seven cardinals were present at the ceremony, among them being Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia.

During the consistory the pope formally proclaimed appointments of three American and two Canadian bishops. They were Msgr. George L. Leech, bishop of Harrisburg, Pa.; Msgr. Hugh L. Lamb, auxiliary bishop to Cardinal Dougherty, Msgr. William Adrian, Nashville, Tenn.; Msgr. Francis Carroll, Calgary, Alta; and Msgr. Patrick Bray, St. John.

JUST as his office was about to expire, Joseph B. Eastman, federal coordinator of transportation, submitted a report in which he proposed a lot of reforms by which the railroads might win back the business they have lost to the truck and the automobile.

Among his suggestions are lower fares, lighter weight, and speedier cars, use of buses and trucks by the railroads to meet competition and consolidation of terminals and other facilities.

He also advised the development of a nation-wide "container" service in the movement of freight by railway, highway and water, predicting that this would save millions of dollars in the handling of present freight and would create much new business.

The containers are now used in a limited manner in some localities and industries.

Eastman recommended a "searching examination and thorough overhauling" of railroad pullman service, and a plan of operation under which the Pullman company would own and operate the cars and railroads, leasing them and retaining the entire revenue from the sleeping and parlor car service.

FOUR years ago Senator George Norris of Nebraska, Independent Republican, warmly supported Franklin D. Roosevelt for the Presidency, and he now announces that he will again back the Democratic ticket.

He urges his countrymen "to forget partisanship and come to the support of the man who more than any other man in recent years has stood for the welfare of the common people."

The senator said the Cleveland convention "nominated a man for President whose greatest asset is that nobody knows him and nobody knows what he stands for. It does not necessarily follow from this that the nominee is not a good man. But it does mean that if he will not take orders from the undisclosed bosses who made him, these eminent gentlemen have been deceived."

RUSSIA proposes to establish what its rulers assert will be the only real democracy in the world. A new constitution, to be promulgated next fall, has been drawn up under the direction of Josef Stalin, the dictator, and will be acted on by the all-union congress of soviets on November 25.

This document guarantees protection for private property, suffrage for all citizens more than eighteen years old, regardless of race, sex, religious belief, and previous activities or property ownership. The communist party will be retained as the only recognized political organization.

There are to be two legislative bodies, the council of the union, elected by the people, and the council of nationalities, selected by the present indirect system. These two bodies will elect a board of 31 officials to run the government.

Loved Ballyhoo Days Are Gone

Radio Takes Glamor Out of Political Campaigns; Civil Service Charges

By EARL GODWIN

WASHINGTON. — There was never anything quite so exciting as the old-time political rally, especially if it included a torchlight procession. These rallies solidified parties; made people personally interesting in taking part in public matters. Those were the good old days—horse-and-buggy days—stump speech days—patriotic days when the things we love in America were getting their start.

With all their dearly beloved ballyhoo the people liked these rallies, and now the radio has spoiled them for us. Folks stay at home and tune in on the candidates, and here's where the New Dealers were smart. They planned to concentrate a million or more people in some of the baseball parks and stadiums of the big cities on the night Roosevelt was to make his acceptance speech, and turn the occasion into an old-time political rally with fireworks, brass bands, torchlight processions and pageantry.

Of course anyone could stay at home and hear the speech, but the New Dealers planned to charge a dollar apiece admission to these big shows—the dollars to go to the campaign fund. A far better method than the old one of soliciting money as the campaign proceeds, for taking the public into the show is a popular way of raising a big amount from a great many people.

It is a system to be preferred over the old method of tapping the bank accounts of a few wealthy men, don't you think?

FARLEY'S TWO JOBS

Some of you folks may have been influenced by the continued statements indicating there is something sinful in the fact that Jim Farley has been Democratic national chairman and postmaster general at one and the same time.

At this writing he continues in both jobs. I have talked with him as to whether or not he intends to hang on to both jobs, but I don't know whether he intends to resign one of them or not—and at the last reports neither does Jim. I think he will do what President Roosevelt wants him to do, for he is exceptionally valuable in either or both jobs.

This is an opportune time to discuss the matter. The campaign is about to start, and Farley has built the Roosevelt machine up to where it is now; and it is so good a machine that the opposition is throwing mud at Farley.

Just to show you that being Democratic national chairman hasn't put any creeping paralysis into Jim's arm when it comes to running the postal service, let me point out right now that the post office is handling mail with greater efficiency than ever before. To prove this by all the statements and figures available to the public would require a large volume, but I will take the evidence of a nonpartisan expert group—the National Council of Business Mail Users. These are the men who pay postage on tons of mail daily. Their testimony shows that the ever increasing efficiency of the postal service has reached a peak in 1936, so that it can be said in contrast to 1908, postal efficiency as measured by output per employee has increased 200 per cent—not through slave driving methods—just pure efficiency.

CIVIL SERVICE

This campaign starts off with the charge that Roosevelt has practically stolen the entire government set-up for deserving Democrats who need jobs.

That's what the "outs" charge in every Presidential campaign; but this time the Republicans have laid the ground for more propaganda on the subject than I have ever seen. To tell the truth, the merit system, or civil service, has been better treated by Roosevelt than by any President since Wilson.

There isn't a man in congress now attacking Roosevelt on the false charge that he has wrecked the civil service who couldn't have started a move to extend the merit system over a wider area any time these past two decades, but try to locate one who did! Congress just doesn't want to give up the prerogative of appointing deserving constituents to federal jobs—postmasterships especially. I don't know why; because for every man they appoint they make twenty enemies.

In spite of the politicians the civil service has grown steadily, but conspicuous exceptions are the first, second and third class postmasterships. These are outside the civil service, postmasters to these offices being appointed by the President on the recommendation of the postmaster general, who gets his names from members of congress in the districts involved. If the congressman happens to be of the other party, then some political leader in the town makes the recommendation.

Only the small post offices where the receipts are less than $1,500 a year where the postmaster's salary cannot exceed $1,100 a year, are in the civil service. The postal plums are still political.

President Wilson smashed at the plum system. He set it aside by a bold executive order. All candidates were to be tested by the civil service commission. The highest on the list was to be chosen, regardless of politics or any other consideration, which certainly played havoc with politics.

President Harding cancelled that order, and during the short session of congress (the "lame duck" session now done away with by constitutional amendment) a Republican senate refused to confirm President Wilson's nominees selected by strict merit. This preserved hundreds of vacancies to be filled by incoming Republicans in accordance with the old practice.

Democratic postmasters were asked to resign. The new administration and the Ohio gang, aided by Will H. Hays, postmaster general and campaign manager, tore out every vestige of idealism planted in the Post Office department by Woodrow Wilson.

It is the remnants of that crew which now charge Roosevelt with a spoils system in appointments, but unless I'm mistaken, and I don't think I am—there wasn't a Republican official or national legislator in all the years from Harding to Roosevelt, who suggested the restoration of a simple pure merit system in the selection of postmasters.

After Roosevelt took office, his hands full of the debacle of appointment postmasterships of the previous administration, he issued orders not to run the Republican postmasters out of office before their terms expired. That established a precedent in the treatment of partisan office holders, for changes of administration had always meant the clearing out of thousands—not only of postmasters, but attorneys, United States marshals, land office officials and others who gained office by political appointment and expected to be fired by politics; but there was no such general expulsion.

ANOTHER PHASE

These jobs were in the regular government establishments. There is another phase of the civil service story which has to do with the emergency establishments erected like dikes along a rising flood, the relief and public work organizations. The Federal Housing, Home Owners' Loan offices, etc., are mostly filled by political appointments, and there is great yelping on the other side of the political fence.

There is one thing the public does not understand about the civil service: once you are in it there's almost no way of getting you out of it. So therefore it is highly desirable that all the emergency offices be so organized that they can come to an end when their appropriation runs out. This administration has arranged to have them function on a purely temporary basis.

Let us consider the Works Progress administration, which is the official name of Harry Hopkins' relief outfit. This is a purely temporary organization and lasts only as long as the appropriation for relief; yet the critics who condemn the administration for maintaining it, also condemn the administration for not giving it a permanent civil service status. In one breath they knock Roosevelt for organizing relief at all, and at the same time knock him for not making it permanent.

Roosevelt has kept on a temporary basis those jobs that should be completely temporary... at the same time he has announced the policy of extending the civil service to offices which time will prove necessary for permanent establishment.

BABY BONDS POPULAR

The old-fashioned sock, as a savings bank, is being displaced by the baby bonds. Folks are walking up to the post office windows and taking those bonds away at the rate of a million dollars' worth a day.

The biggest day's business was a smashing total of $4,313,874, reached on January 13 of this year. These bonds, which are handed out in units as low as $18.75, are being sold everywhere the Stars and Stripes flutter from a post office flagpole. You will find them sold in Guam, Samoa, the Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico and Alaska, as well as in the confines of the United States.

Last I heard about sales was that Illinois was leading in volume with about $35,000,000, which interested me because it was ten million more than the great state of New York. And there is a huge mail order baby bond business right here in Washington, D. C. The treasury has sold more than $20,000,000 of these little safe-and-sure certificates by mail.

Approximately one-third of the total have been sold in 50 of the larger cities; the remaining two-thirds in smaller cities and the rural sections. The great farming belt of the Midwest leads all other sections in the purchase of United States savings bonds, both in amounts and per capita sales. Thousands of people are buying them at regular intervals each week or each month. They are probably the surest investment that the average man or woman can make.

Many families are buying the bonds to set aside for educational purposes, to pay for school or college bills later on. For example, if there is a child eight years old in the family, the parents may buy bonds for $75 each month for four years. Then, at the end of ten years, when the child is ready for college, this family will receive a government check each month for $100 to see their son or daughter through the four-year college course.

Her voice broke. "Ridder'll be free in a few weeks," she pled. "Wait, Mr. Gilbert. You don't know how many innocent people you may drag into this."

Barry hesitated. He now remembered that he had told Pat he loved her. "I didn't get me anywhere," Barry thought. "It never will. I'm not even sure that she heard me, but I'm glad I spoke, all the same."

Aloud, he said, "I'll wait, Pat." She glanced up at him, gratefully. "Not until the trial, though," he warned her. "I won't take that chance. I won't let this girl, Peggy, go on suffering until then. But now I believe I know who murdered Kelly. Someone who came into the house while your father was there. Someone so full of the thought of it that she bungled the new lock on the front door."

"You think—" Hambidge began. "I think that's why it blew open. And I think, too, that revealing your visit—now—would be merely 'tipping our hand.' The person I suspect has already covered her tracks pretty well."

"Then," Pat said, almost incredulously—"Then you're not going to repeat this story?"

"Not even to Winslow. He hasn't much more faith in my 'sleuthing' than you have. We'll leave him to work out Ridder's defense. For the present let's agree on an armistice. Mutual silence. If the time arrives when I feel I must speak, I'll come to you first. Is that fair?"

"Quite."

From the very beginning, Barry had suspected Mrs. Kelly. "She sued for divorce recently, and withdrew the case," Peter Winslow had told him. "Do you think that might indicate that she killed her husband?" Barry did, and one discovery after another confirmed the idea. "But," as Barry had reminded his city editor, "Mrs. Kelly was in Harlem. She went to a dance."

"Ever hear of faking an alibi?" Harwood had asked, advising a "check up."

That sounded promising until, as the first move in his investigation, Barry dug up The Herald Tribune of "the morning after the body was found." Mrs. Kelly had told him that paper contained a full record of her social activities, and it did. "At the time of the murder, Mrs. Kelly, who sued for divorce recently, and withdrew the case, was awarding prizes at a fancy dress ball of the Crostown Chowder and Outing club in Harlem Gardens. This was at midnight, and the other judges were . . ."

"Kelly wasn't killed at midnight," Barry realized. "He wasn't killed until two hours after midnight. If Mrs. Kelly got through with her prizes—"

"Well," Barry exclaimed, climbing into the subway. What next? Say nothing, and saw wood—that's what. One more link in this chain, and I'm going to change a lot of people's minds about me and my 'sleuthing!'"

Monday morning, Barry dropped in on Peter Winslow. He was still carrying the Ridder check for $2,000, and he wanted Peter to take part of it as a retainer, and bank the rest for Peggy.

Peter did accept it, as a matter of course, though he waved aside the offer of a retainer. "I'm in no hurry," he insisted. "Wait 'til I do something. I know you're good for it."

Obviously, he was doing a great deal. "Got the defense all planned," he declared, showing Barry a thick sheaf of memoranda. "Loose-leaf" memoranda it was, in the most literal sense—scrawled on waste paper and the backs of envelopes. Order may be Nature's first law, but it wasn't this lawyer's.

"No, I'm not neat," Peter smiled, intercepting Barry's glance. "Except personally, and that's Julie's achievement. Julie's Mrs. Winslow, of course, and she buys all my clothes. Lays 'em out for me, too—even the boutonniere. I often ask her if she wants me to look like a gigolo. Don't worry about this stuff, though,"—indicating the sheaf of memoranda. "Miss Clark'll have that straight by night."

Miss Clark was his secretary. "Women keep you in order," he went on smiling; "that's about the only thing I have against 'em."

"There's nothing to this case," he continued. "It'll come to trial in a few weeks now, and be over in a few hours. Want to hear what I'm going to ask that Filipino?"

Listening, Barry felt again that his own activities had been merely foolish. A dozen questions disposed of all the evidence the butler had given so far, and made it apparent that what he actually knew of young Ridder's visit was exactly nothing. "You heard a quarrel? A violent quarrel? And you were alarmed? That's why you came upstairs? Rogers left then? And the lights were still burning in the front room? If you were alarmed, why didn't you knock at the door, to make sure your master was all right? Not so very much alarmed, were you? In fact, you weren't alarmed at all until you saw what had happened." This was the beginning of an inquiry that twisted about, doubled on itself, and was likely to leave any jury on earth too uncertain to convict anyone of a capital offense. "Particularly, anyone with a wife and child," Peter said.

"Peggy was in here Friday," he added. "She looks as though she'd been dragged through a knol-hole. I wanted her to come to us for the week-end, but we're in town most of the time. I'm going to talk to the Hambidges about having her out there."

"That would be great," Barry kindled. "They'd be company for each other. It wouldn't do Pat a bit of harm to learn how the other half lives."

"Right!" Peter exclaimed heartily. "I'll call Pat today."

In spite of himself, as he was leaving, Barry mentioned his Harlem theory.

Peter listened intently. "Well," he said, "you are a Hawkshaw."

"You'd be surprised if I landed Mrs. Kelly, wouldn't you?"

"No," Peter replied, smiling again, "but I'd be terribly surprised if you didn't begin suspecting someone else ten minutes afterward."

CHAPTER VIII

The more Barry thought of it, the more certain he became that the Judge's story, and the revelations in Harlem, removed the only reason for questioning Harwood's hypothesis. When the divorce action was filed, Kelly had promised not to see Betty Barclay again. That promise had induced the withdrawal of the petition. And then Betty Barclay had phoned, while Kelly was out, and just as Mrs. Kelly was going. In Harwood's own words, Mrs. Kelly "went wild." Failing to get legal counsel, she talked to Harwood, and there she got "madder and madder." Just after midnight, she drove home, and found Kelly alone—drunk, and with the accumulated wrath engendered by two trying interviews. There were words, and a handy decanter.

The design being almost too nearly perfect.

He found Peggy doing some mending in her dingy room. She had lost flesh, and seemed to be always staring at nothing. "It's Jacky," she confided in Barry. "I'm worried about him."

The youngster looked pale and ill. "Look here, Peg; will you have lunch with me tomorrow at the Astor? I want you to meet somebody."

"Miss Hambidge?"

"Yes."

"She'd turn up her nose at me like an elephant reaching for peanuts."

"I don't think so. Anyway, I want you to know each other."

The appointment was made, at last—one o'clock—and Barry called Pat. "Well, the trail's hot, all right."

"Tell me about it."

"I don't dare over the wire. You know operators. Come in and lunch with me?"

"When?"

"Tomorrow at one."

Pat was eagerly anxious to hear his news, and there was no other way. But if Pat's nose remained static when she learned she was to encounter Peggy, her mouth straightened. "Why? What have I in common with this girl?"

"Well," Barry answered, flatly, "you're keeping her husband in prison."

Pat flushed.

"You owe her something for that, don't you think? What're you being so high hat about? This girl's Mrs. John Clarke Ridder, Jr., you know."

"I'm not being high hat. Only, naturally, just now, I don't feel much like meeting strangers. Especially strangers with whom I have no community of interest."

Lunching together, however, it soon became evident that there was a "community of interest." Pat warmed to this painted chorus girl, fearful for her husband exactly as Pat was fearful for her father. Though Peg didn't know it, their fate hung on the same thread. Both heard Barry's account of his discoveries with regard to Mrs. Kelly.

"It seems pretty conclusive," Pat said.

"I never thought of that dame—I mean, woman," Peg added. "Would that get Jack off quick?"

Barry explained his understanding that, if there were definite proof of another person's having committed a crime, anyone in custody was released immediately. "The district attorney moves for a dismissal of the indictment, I believe," he told them.

"Gee!" Peggy said, with the tears in her eyes.

Pat was no fool, and she found herself respecting and liking this "night club hooper." She was Mrs. Ridder, after all. "Whoever the girl might have been, it was the tears beginning to dissolve the beads that stirred Pat. She had never seen anyone cry that way before—cry with her lips twisted into a smile.

"You're certainly stuck to your husband," Pat observed.

"Why not? When you really love anybody, you don't care what they do, or have done, or what they are. It's what they are to you that counts. You're not thinking what you're going to get, but what you're going to give. That is, the right kind of girl is."

"Gosh, she's trying to help me with Pat," Barry thought.

The upshot was that Pat took Peg and the youngster to Southampton the next morning. "Peter suggested it," she told Barry. "And, of course, you're right—I do owe them something."

It wasn't the debt that did it, Barry realized. It was Jacky. Peg wanted Patricia to see him, and the house was so near. There really wasn't any good excuse for not going. So, for the first time in her life, Pat sniffed fried fish in an entrance hall, and tripped on worn stair carpets, and found herself stalling in a back room without air or sunshine. She'd known people lived like that, of course, but, somehow, she'd never thought much about it. She found herself thinking now. "If I had to spend one night in this place—That's what's the matter with the boy."

It was arranged that Evans was to drive them out, and come back for Barry on Thursday.

When Barry left Pat at her hotel, she said, "You seem to be everybody's friend, Mr. Gilbert. It's a little hard to understand, considering—"

"Considering that I'm an adventurer and an impostor?"

"Yes."

"Yes," Barry repeated, "but that's how you learn what friendship means."

That night, Barry went to the Coconut Bar.

"I mustn't overlook anything," he reflected.

There wasn't much to overlook in the Coconut Bar. Not in the way of clothing, at all events. The lobby was full of men, more or less surreptitiously glancing at framed photographs of girls whose costumes might almost have been packed in a vanity case. Inside was a square dancing floor with tables about it, like the seats about a prize ring. Above, there was a balcony with more tables, except at one spot, occupied by officers.

There were three shows a night, the amateur Hawkshaw discovered from his menu—at seven, eleven, and one.

It wasn't hard to get acquainted with any of the girls. One had only to look prosperous, and incline his head an inch or two in the direction of a vacant chair. "We're not supposed to do this," Violet Fane informed Barry, "but Luis's got a swell stand-in."

Barry had his expense account and his ingratiating grin, and used both to the limit. It wasn't long before the blonde was telling the story of her life. "I bin with Luis ever since I was a kid," she bragged. "He's a swell guy. You oughta know him. I'll give you a tumble after the next show."

Luis was most affable. A sentimentalist, but a business man, with a keen eye to spenders, and a withering contempt for tight-wads.

A flashy young fellow, Morano was, who wore sporty clothes, and much jewelry. Slim and dapper, his shining ebon hair was slicked back from his forehead. He had a long, thin nose, and straight, thin lips, and a slight but rather curious impediment in his speech. His voice could be very soft at times.

"Tender hearted, Luis is," Miss Fane declared later. "I've seen him cry when somebody sang about mother, or the kid, or sumpin'. That 'loved-her-and-lost-her' stuff specially. He was married once."

"Didn't it take?"

"Sure, it took. That's why he cries. The Jane died, or sumpin'. Know what Luis did—when he got the coin, I mean? Bought the house they used to live in, and went on livin' there—alone, with a couple of servants."

"Gee!"

"Ain't that romantic? I'll say so! He's still got the servants, too. They all moved to a farm, somewhere in Jersey, a couple of years ago. Would you believe it—he drives out every morning, after the last show. Nuts about horses, Luis is. Not to bet on. Just likes 'em."

"Learned about horses in Fauquier county," Luis said, returning at that instant, and that's all they know. Go on, VI; you'll be late."

"I never was late for a show yet," she retorted. "Nor out of one. Not in all the years I've worked for you."

"That's straight," Morano admitted, as she was leaving. "Never been out of a show in her life. She's a swell girl, VI."

There wasn't much to be got at the Coconut Bar; not that Violet and Morano weren't willing to talk. Morano's romance had left him a gentle melancholy—or, perhaps, he was only worried about business. But, if he had anything to conceal, it certainly seemed to have no relation to Kelly. On that subject, everything was open and above board.

"Just a gorilla," Morano said of the Big Boss, the next night, when Barry returned to the Coconut Bar.

"Oh, Mike was a' right," Miss Fane protested.

"Sure!" her employer agreed. "He wouldn't do nothing worse than steal pennies from a dead baby. Pat of VI's though," Luis added, winking at Barry.

"Yeh," Violet declared, dryly; "until that Barclay dame came along."

"He was in here that evening, wasn't he?" Barry asked.

"Yeh. Just a few hours before they croaked him."

"He had a girl pinched, or something?"

"Yeh," Morano repeated. "Nice kid, too. Took her around to the station in them things."

"I don't blame the Jane's husband for getting sore," Morano continued, "though bumping a guy off for that's going a little too far."

"Kelly was soused," Miss Fane said.

"Yeh. Plenty. And he thought the kid was picking his pocket. Nothing to it!"

Lesson for June 28

REVIEW: JESUS MEETING HUMAN NEEDS

GOLDEN TEXT—Jesus of Nazareth . . . went about doing good.—Acts 10:38.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Our Best Friend.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Because He Lives.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jesus Meeting My Needs.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus Meeting the World's Needs.

The lessons of the quarter center in one supreme person and have one transcendent theme, Jesus Christ the world's Savior. The best method of review for senior and adult classes will be to refresh the mind with the principal facts and leading teachings of each lesson. The following suggestions are offered:

Lesson for April 5.
The great supper represents God's gracious provision of salvation for mankind. The urgent invitation is extended to all to accept Jesus Christ as Savior. The making of excuses illustrates the sin and folly of men in rejecting God's free grace.

Lesson for April 12.
The resurrection of Jesus Christ is the supreme proof of the deity of Jesus Christ. The empty tomb is the divine guarantee that Christ was what he claimed to be, and that his offering on Calvary's cross was accepted by God.

Lesson for April 19.
The center of interest in this parable is not the prodigal son or his brother, but a certain man who had two sons. He who fails to see the heart of our Father God will miss the purpose of the parable. The whole of revelation as it pertains to a sinning race and a pardoning God is swept before us in this narrative.

Lesson for April 26.
The story of the rich man and Lazarus gives us a look into two worlds. In this world the rich man lived in luxury while Lazarus begged at his door. In the other world, their positions are reversed. Death is coming to rich and poor. Worldly condition is not a test of man's relationship to God. The rich man did not go to hell because he was rich, neither did Lazarus go to heaven because he was poor.

Lesson for May 3.
Forgiveness is a Christian obligation. Humility is a Christian quality. Gratitude is an uncommon grace. The nine lepers who were healed failed to express gratitude to the healer.

Lesson for May 10.
Prayer is an obligation on the part of the believer. Spiritual growth is absolutely impossible without it. Men should pray under all circumstances.

Lesson for May 17.
Zacchaeus brushed aside all difficulties in order to see Jesus. He proved the reality of his conversion by making restitution. He was saved instantly upon receiving Jesus Christ. Salvation is a present reality to those who believe on Jesus Christ.

Lesson for May 24.
Jesus warned against the scribes. They claimed to be loyal to the Word of God yet showed their lack of the saving grace of God. In connection with his teaching in the temple, Jesus prophesied of his return and warned against unpreparedness as to his coming.

Lesson for May 31.
The last meal that Jesus ate with his disciples was the passover, the memorial of the national deliverance which pointed to the supreme deliverance to be effected by Christ on the cross of Calvary. In connection with the passover, the feast of the new covenant was instituted. This feast has a double importance, looking backward to the great deliverance wrought through Christ's atoning death and forward to the even greater deliverance which he shall accomplish at his second coming.

Lesson for June 7.
Jesus' indescribable agony in the garden shows what it cost the sinless Son of God to identify himself with the sinning race, when in anguish he sweat as it were great drops of blood.

Lesson for June 14.
The crucifixion of Jesus Christ was the greatest tragedy of all history. May the fact of the sinless Son of God suffering for a sinning race, move all sinners to accept salvation at his hand.

Lesson for June 21.
Jesus, having given the disciples the parting message to evangelize the world, ascended into heaven. May these last words of our Lord be received by us as our supreme obligation to take the gospel to every creature.

The lessons of the entire quarter have been rich in teaching material. A faithful presentation of the Bible messages given should mean conversion for some and growth in grace for many.

Younger Women Like This Easy Laxative

There's no need to dread a laxative . . . dread its gripping, nauseating, distressing effect. Take Feen-a-mint, the delightful chewing gum laxative. As soon as you start to chew it, its stomach-settling mint brings a clean, fresh taste to the mouth. And Feen-a-mint acts gently. For as you chew out the laxative ingredient which is absolutely tasteless, the flow of digestive juices is increased. The laxative is mixed with them and carried into the system evenly. It passes through the stomach without upset and into the bowels scientifically, so that your action is wonderfully easy and thorough. Try the pleasant, refreshing Feen-a-mint way. Doctors prescribe its laxative ingredient for both children and adults. It is non-habit-forming. Sold on a money-back guarantee. Generous family size package 15c and 25c.

Rid Yourself of Kidney Poisons

Do you suffer burning, scanty or too frequent urination, backache, headache, dizziness, loss of energy, leg pains, swellings and puffiness under the eyes? Are you tired, nervous—feel all unstrung and don't know what is wrong?

Then give some thought to your kidneys. Be sure they function properly for functional kidney disorder permits excess waste to stay in the blood, and to poison and upset the whole system.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They are recommended the world over. You can get the genuine, time-tested Doan's at any drug store.

Any erroneous reflection upon the reputation or standing of any individual firm or corporation, that may appear in the columns of The News will be gladly corrected when called to our attention.

Less than eight years ago Al Smith was the idol of the Democratic faction—that is, of the dominant faction of the party. He was held up to us as a great, broad-minded, generous-hearted man, the greatest Democrat of this generation. He had risen from the ranks of the lowly to the governor of his state and the leadership of his party. He was pictured as the friend of the poor and as a man whose every heart-beat was for the common people. But the same people who eight years ago exalted him and placed him on this high pinnacle of fame are today cursing him and scoffing at him and vilifying him.

There are none among them now so poor as do him reverence, if we may paraphrase a line of Shakespeare's. Yet, in all probability, he is just as good and great a man now as he was eight years ago. It all shows how fleeting is fame. When we think of some others who stand so high in the public esteem today, we are wondering what their standing will be eight years from now, or even four-years from now.

It is not difficult to get a crowd for any kind of show. It is not difficult to get a crowd for a picnic or any kind of public gathering for amusement. It is very difficult to get even a small crowd out to a civic club. If a candidate for high office comes to town it is difficult for him to get a hearing. It is even more difficult to get people in large numbers to attend religious services. Is it possible that we are neglecting the better, the finer, and the more important things of life? Are we interested only in fun and amusement?

BIG EGG

We have printed big egg stories before, but here is one that takes the cake. And it was just a little white Leghorn hen that pulled the stunt.

Wash Hickerson walked into the News office Monday with an egg that looked like an ostrich egg. We measured it. Its circumference around the middle was 7 3/4 inches. Its circumference lengthwise was 9 inches. Oscar Roberts weighed it for us and it weighed 6 ounces, or three-eighths of a pound. Then he weighed an ordinary White Leghorn egg and it weighed 1 and five-eighths ounces. In other words the freak egg was nearly four times as large as the ordinary egg.

Later, the egg was accidentally broken and inside was found another well developed egg enveloped in water, containing a bit of yolk and albumen. We have before heard of eggs of this character but we doubt if anybody ever saw a larger one from an ordinary White Leghorn hen.

Wash says he knows that a White Leghorn laid the egg, for he was present when it happened.

Now, if our friend Jack Stricklin of the Terry County Herald can produce a bigger and better true egg story than this one, we invite him to produce the goods.

The proposal is now being made in some quarters that our public school curriculum be extended to include twelve grades. Without having heard the matter discussed, we are inclined to favor the proposal, but we think that what the public schools of the country generally need most is more intensive work and more thoroughness in the eleven grades now constituting our public school curriculum.

One of the most pitiable sights in all the world is that of a drunken young woman. Next to that is the sight of a drunken young man. Young people, if you care anything for your reputation, if you have any aspirations for the future, touch not, taste not, handle not the vile stuff, sparkling and inviting as it may be, for at the last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder.

According to all reports from down state, race-horse gambling has grown into an immense business and has become a crying evil. The race-horse gambling law should be repealed.

We don't hear any more these days from the Crusaders and other organizations that were crying out for the legalization of liquor three years ago in order to promote temperance. Their idea of promoting temperance seems to be to throw the doors wide open to the liquor traffic and tell "em to go to it Tige."

Try CARDUI For Functional Monthly Pains

Women from the 'teen age to the change of life have found Cardui genuinely helpful for the relief of functional monthly pains due to lack of just the right strength from the food they eat. Mrs. Oris Hagman, of Essex, Mo., writes: 'I used Cardui when a girl for cramps and found it very beneficial. I have recently taken Cardui during the change of life. I was very nervous, had head and back pains and was in a generally run-down condition. Cardui has helped me greatly.'

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefits them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Madeline Russell, Reporter

This week has been a very busy week for the farmers of this community. They have been cleaning their crops.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lot have moved to Rule.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gooding and son Willie Lee were visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Anderson Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Rainey have had as their guests this week her sister from Oklahoma.

The boys of this community met in the home of R. L. Littlepage Tuesday night to organize a hard baseball team. We are all hoping they will succeed.

A large crowd was present at singing Sunday night. Come on, folks, all you who do not have a place to go on Sunday night, and help us keep it going.

Platform Pledges
By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

America for weeks to come will remember acutely Platform-conscious.

Carefully it will ponder the pledges written by each major party into the statement of policies which must serve as a chart during the next four years.

In studying those pledges America must remember that a national platform represents far more than a series of promises calculated to win popular approval.

It represents a solemn contract which should be as serious, as binding, as any covenant under law. It is an agreement which should be as sincere as any made between friends and sealed with a handshake.

That is why in drafting a platform, no party, no candidate, is justified in writing mere political propaganda. None is justified in creating a catch-all for votes. None is justified in adopting the theory of that forgotten homespun philosopher who commented:

"A platform ain't what you ride on—it's what you get in on."

America therefore must demand from a party and its candidate far more than a series of promises enunciating policies under which the people may be led to believe they will benefit.

It must demand the assurance that those promises will be fulfilled to the best of the party's ability.

The furor created by the clocked and managed clamor that sweeps a candidate to victory is thrilling—but short-lived.

The memory of kept or broken pledges endures.

Baptist Revival Closes Sunday

There have been quite a number of professions of faith and also a number of additions to the church in the revival services being held at the Baptist Church.

The house is fairly well filled at most of the night services, while the number attending the morning services has ranged from 70 to 108, which is regarded as good attendance.

Rev. J. Frank Weedon has been bringing some very interesting and earnest messages. The singing under the direction of Mr. C. O. Huber has been fine, and Mrs. Huber's solos have been much enjoyed.

The services will continue through Sunday. Great crowds are expected to attend the services on this closing day, as they did last Sunday.

There was a large crowd at church Sunday morning. We had visitors from Union and Wilson. We ask them to come back again.

We had dinner on the ground and everyone present reported lots of eats and a good time.

The sad news reached us that Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Waldrep's little son died. We have not learned what caused his death. Their friends were grieved to hear the sad news.

Hobbs Will Play Tahoka Sunday

A ball game has been matched between the Tahoka Bulldogs and the Amarado Oil team of Hobbs, New Mexico, to be played here next Sunday afternoon, beginning about 3 o'clock.

The two teams played in Hobbs last Sunday, the Hobbs team winning by a score of 6 to 2. It was a good game, and the game next Sunday afternoon likewise promises to be a good one.

Dr. and Mrs. K. R. Durham returned Sunday night from a two weeks visit with relatives in Arkansas and Louisiana. The Doctor says the weather is very dry in parts of Arkansas and Louisiana and that corn and other crops have been cut very short, though cotton has not been seriously damaged.

Mr. Jim Banister reports that he had a near-serious fire out at his house Saturday morning. The fire originated in a box of trash on the back porch and had burned through the roof before it was discovered. A neighbor passing by helped him to extinguish the fire before much damage had been done. Mr. Banister resides a mile north of the Sanders filling station six miles east of Tahoka on the Post highway.

CHURCH OF CHRIST NOTES

Another Lord's Day passed over. Did you attend worship, if not, why not? Is the hot weather your excuse? What about where you are going, if you fail to do your duty?

I spoke on some impossible things last Sunday night, and here they are. It is impossible for God to lie, Heb. 6:18. It is impossible to neglect salvation and be saved, Heb. 2:3; to be saved without shedding of blood, Heb. 9:22, and that we must come where the blood can heal, Acts 20:28, Ephesians 1-7; to enter into the kingdom except through Christ, John 10:9; and how we enter is found in Galatians 3:27; to enter into the kingdom of God without a birth of water and of the Spirit, John 3:5; to be saved without faith and works, James 2:14-26; to be saved after death, Luke 16:25; to be saved out of the church, Ephesians 5:23, Acts 20:28.

We want to thank the soft ball clubs for giving away Wednesday night and not disturbing our Bible study.

Our sympathy goes out to Brother and Sister Clinton over the death of their oldest son, who was killed in a storm in Oklahoma this week. Worship with us next Lord's Day.—R. P. DRENNON.

MINOR BATON ENDS YEAR

The Minor Baton held its final business session Monday night at the home of Mrs. Rubie D. Sud-darth, the counselor. Officers for the coming year having been elected at a previous meeting, there was very little business to transact. The members made plans for a picnic next Monday. They will go to Lub-bock for a swim at the Tumble In, followed by a picnic lunch in the park and a theatre party.

They also tentatively planned the presentation of some musical programs at several places during the summer.

Vance Gildersleeve, president-elect, will call the club together for the opening meeting of the new year in September.—Reporter.

HARRISES RETURN

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Harris returned Sunday night from an extended trip through South Texas. They visited Austin, San Antonio, Corpus Christi, Brownsville, and other places in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, crossing over into Mexico for a brief visit. They also visited Houston and Galveston; in fact they had a real vacation. Mrs. Harris called it their honeymoon trip. She took a trip far out on the bay at Corpus Christi or somewhere, but W. M. kept his feet on solid ground. Was afraid he couldn't wade out if the boat should turn over.

CANADAYS IMPROVE HOME

Mrs. M. O. Canaday, president of the Tahoka Home Demonstration Club, used the money they drew one bank-night at the theatre to improve their home. "We had been intending for some time to make a few changes in the house and this gave us the opportunity," remarked Mrs. Canaday. "The colonnade between the kitchen and breakfast nook was removed and a wall used for this division; the wall between the breakfast nook and bedroom was set over making the width of the bedroom three feet less. Since changing these partitions, we have a kitchen 9 x 12, dining room 10 by 12 and a bedroom 10 by 12 with a clothes closet.

"We added another window in the dining room. I removed the spots from the floor and varnished and waxed around the rug. The room was furnished with a new dining room suite. In the kitchen we tore the cabinet out and lined the back with tin making it mouse proof," she added.

Mrs. Canaday refinished her kitchen in ivory, the original finish being white. They refinished the floors and woodwork throughout the house, papered four rooms, supplied new window curtains, and added a new bedroom suite.

FOLKS!

THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR GOOD HEALTH

And here comes a letter from your next door neighbor, a man whom you all know, a man whose word has always been considered his bond, one of your taxpayers and community builders, and is as follows: "This letter is to state that I was a sufferer of stomach trouble for eight years. I spent three years of suffering and went to any number of doctors, three told me that I had a gastric ulcer. Two months ago Gas-Tons tablets were recommended to me. I bought a bottle and began taking them and since that time I have gained fifteen pounds and am able to do, for the first time in eight years, my regular farming work. I unconditionally recommend these tablets to any one suffering from severe stomach pains, gas or colitis. Any one wishing any information in regard to the results I have received will address me, Route 1, Shallowater, Texas. I will gladly reply. This statement is made voluntarily hoping that other people suffering as I did may receive the benefits that I have." And this letter was signed by E. S. Nelson of Route 1. After what this good man has said what more could we add? And we feel that the only question that could enter the minds of any stomach sufferer would be whether to try the 25 tablet size at $1 or the 100 tablet treatment for $3.

You take no risk in ordering Gas-Tons. If after using the tablets 10 days you do not get the relief you yourself expect, you have but to send back the unused portion of the bottle, and we will return the money you have paid us, in full, every penny of it.

Call at your home town druggist and ask him about the iron clad guarantee, also what this remarkable compound is doing for others.

Gas-Tons are sold in Tahoka by Tahoka Drug Co., and by leading drug stores in other towns. If your druggist does not have Gas-Tons send money orders payable to Tahoka Drug Co., Tahoka, Texas.

NEW KITCHEN STOVE MAKES ITS OWN GAS

Housewives Marvel at Coleman Range That Lights Instantly Like City Gas--Cooks a Meal with 2c Worth of Fuel

A new kitchen range that offers every cooking convenience of the finest city gas range is now available to housewives, wherever they live.

W. C. Coleman, pioneer inventor of gas-pressure appliances, brings to a lifetime of inventive genius his crowning achievement in this amazing new Coleman Safety Range. This new stove makes its own gas from ordinary, lead-free gasoline. A patented method of carburization converts liquid fuel into gas, much the same as in present day automobile engines.

The Coleman Range lights instantly, like city gas. Its fuel-saving Hand-A-Blu Burners, another of Mr. Coleman's outstanding developments, produce a clean, clear-blue flame, so hot that a low flame does all ordinary cooking. Tests show an average family meal for five takes about 2c worth of fuel.

Coleman Ranges are finished in gleaming porcelain enamel. Their pleasing colors combine outstanding beauty with unequalled performance.

Readers of this paper wishing full information about these wonderful new Coleman Ranges will receive beautifully illustrated literature and a valuable stove check chart by simply addressing a postcard to Mr. W. C. Coleman, Dept. WU-236, Wichita, Kansas.--Adv.

CARDUI

Cardui is a purely vegetable medicine for the relief of functional periodic pain, nervousness and weakness due to poor nourishment. "I have used Cardui and had good results from its use," writes Mrs. W. E. Barnett, of Taylors, S. C. "I suffered with cramping and headaches and would have a chilly feeling. Sometimes I would feel miserable and have pain more than a day, and I would be nervous. After taking six bottles of Cardui, I had less pain and was regulated. I feel much better." Of course, if Cardui does not seem to relieve your trouble, consult a physician.

NEW "KLAN" TERRORIZES MIDWEST

Authorities Say Membership May Run Into Millions; Killing in Detroit Arouses Public Indignation; Gang on Way Out.

By WILLIAM C. UTLEY

A NEW "masked menace" has been discovered lurking behind every other rock in the Middle West. It is the kind of masked menace which springs up every decade or so to strike fear into the hearts of the lawful and fire the imaginations of those who retain enough of their boyhood romanticism to "eat up" stories about secret and terrible organizations which ride the night in ghastly masks and fearsome ceremonial robes.

No doubt the Black Legion is already being used as a threat to scare little children into eating their spinach or practicing their music lessons. But the law, inclined to scoff at first, has decided that it is high time the outlaw order be taken in deadly seriousness. Authorities, it is reported, are even ready to believe that the secret members of the Black Legion and its affiliations may number 6,000,000 persons.

There are today even reasonable grounds for suspicion that the organizations may have roots in other sections of the country. In many localities there are movements to demand the truth about secret, robed organiza-

Black Legion claims that he was forced to accompany members to a formal meeting, a stately costumed gathering that awed him completely. He is a small employer. He claims that he was threatened with being flogged to death if he did not return to work two members of the Black Legion whom he had discharged. He returned them to work forthwith. Police, in their questioning, have noticed that a high per-

South has had its Night Riders or "White Caps." And the coal fields of Pennsylvania once quaked in fear of the Molly Maguires. All of them were brought into being to create a need and disappeared when the need disappeared.

The Vigilantes arose to defend the weak and law-abiding in the days when men of the pioneer West lived by the celerity of their gun hands. They saw that justice was meted out in trials where the murderer would have ordinarily been acquitted through fear or admiration in ridiculous court proceedings. They cleaned up the West and made it a safe place in which to live, even in the early days. But they were unlike other organizations in that they were not masked and their membership rolls were no secret.

KKK Born in South.

The Ku Klux Klan first gained prominence, and was probably born, in the reconstruction period following the Civil war. Its methods were ruthless, but were at that time probably justified as the only means of protecting the South against the army of carpetbaggers and villains who sought to control the government of the South at that time.

The theatrical costumes and the dramatic rites of the KKK were aimed primarily at negroes who sought political superiority to whites after gaining their freedom. It was not hard for the blacks to believe that the white-robed Klansmen were the ghosts of Confederate soldiers returned to haunt them. To have discouraged the superstition would have been to contribute to the defeat of the Klan's purpose, so the members wisely encouraged it. If they lynched occasionally, it was at that time defensible on the grounds that it was the only protection the South had against the abuses of the northern carpetbaggers.

As the need for the Klan began to vanish, it turned its energies toward personal grudges and exaggerated causes. As a result it finally died out for an extended period.

Within the memories of most readers the Klan was revived by William Joseph Simmons and his crowd in the days following the World war. But its purpose was not confined to political injustices. It aimed at alleged intolerances of religion as well as race. At its height, this second edition of the Ku Klux Klan was said to have had more than 9,000,000 members. Its treasury was believed to have boasted, at one time, a sum of $300,000,000.

The Molly Maguires Appear.

The new Klan died from many causes, most of them relating to its absence of weighty purpose. But the death blow was really struck when D. C. Stephenson, who had been Kleagle of the district of Indiana, abducted a young Hoosier girl, mistreated her and failed to get her medical attention, leaving her to die when she took poison in her shame. His acts had nothing to do with the Klan itself, but so aroused public opinion that the Klan has been little heard from since. Stephenson was sent to the state prison in Michigan City.

The Molly Maguires sprang up in the Pennsylvania coal fields in the '70s, and their stamping out established the fame of the Pinkerton Detective agency. The tions which, under the guise of "true Americanism," allegedly seek to grasp political power by terroristic methods.

Find State Employees Members.

Positive proof of the existence of such a band seems to have been uncovered in Michigan, where thirteen men, allegedly members of the Black Legion, were held in the murder of Charles Poole, a twenty-two-year-old WPA worker of Detroit. Authorities there claim that in a district of 135,000 persons there are at least 3,000 and possibly 40,000 Black Legionnaires. Three state employees have been dismissed because of their membership, and twelve others have been suspended from state, city and county pay rolls.

In some 15 or 16 states, investigations are now under way, probing into past, unsolved cases of mob violence, and into complaints by citizens that they are being terrorized.

Detroit's own case probably began last August, when a ballot box scandal reeked with charges of terrorism by a secret masked brotherhood; but police laughed at the idea. When Poole was killed, however, the police, in seeking some clue to the murder, discovered that he had been a member of a club which met in a little meeting hall and celebrated weird rites. Dozens of witnesses questioned revealed that the Black Legion had existed since 1933, at least, although there were a few who insisted that it dated from the Mayflower or from the Boston Tea Party.

It is considered possible that the organization may have been an outgrowth of the Ku Klux Klan. The officers dress in white garb somewhat similar to that of the KKK, and the ritual is said to be similar. Detroit authorities are inclined to believe the story of Dr. William Jacob Shepherd of Bellaire, Ohio, who claims that he was an Exalted Cyclops of the KKK, and organized a Black Guard which developed units in Ohio and Indiana and then spread like wildfire.

"Provided Interest in Life."

There were many groups who were attracted by the black robes and mystery of the new offsprings. Doctor Shepherd said, Arthur Lupp of Detroit, who seems to have been the chief recruiting officer of the Black Legion, insists that it never countenanced violence of any sort. He explained its growth by declaring that, during the depression, it gave thousands of men an interest in life that they would not otherwise have had.

Other witnesses claimed that the primary purpose of the organization was the securing of jobs for its unemployed members, and to keep employed members in their jobs. Each member was "sworn by holy and terrible oath" to do his best to secure a job for another member in the place where he worked.

One of the complainants against the percentage of employment exists among the witnesses charged with being members.

The principal fear which was instilled into the hearts of honest citizens by the Black Legion was the possibility of their appearing at some time a great leader able to organize the Legion to transcend regional boundaries and make of the order a general Fascist movement, difficult to measure or control because of its under-cover operation.

Precedent in History.

Authorities are virtually certain that members, wherever they are, are burning their hoods and robes at a rapid rate, and that the organization will die as others before it have, in the light of public discovery and disapproval.

The United States, like many another country, has in its diary many records of secret fraternal orders whose members cloak their identity. Indeed, what group of small boys has not formed its "secret" and fearful society, like that of Tom Sawyer and his friends, signing covenants full of misspelled words in blood painfully pricked from their little fingers?

Every section of the land has had its secret orders which were an important phase of its history. The West was saved from "bad" outlaws largely by a band of "good" outlaws, the Vigilantes, who took the suppression of crime into their own hands when the law proved inadequate. The Ku Klux Klan has seen two periods of activity in the South and Middle West. The Middle Mollies fought the introduction of foreign miners into their area and stopped not even at murder to achieve their cause. But in time the outfit, its need outgrown, became nothing but a great extortion ring.

One of the principal figures in the breaking up of the gang, Charles A. Wingert, died only three years ago. Upon his death the New York Sun carried the following editorial (in part):

"The Molly Maguires had long before abandoned the original philanthropic purpose of its organizers and had become known, early in the '70s, as a system of extortion. . . Its method of operation has been copied, perhaps somewhat unconsciously, by some of the modern racketeers."

LUKE TRAMMELL LOOSE

(Cont'd. from first page) detective work of Sheriff Parker, evidence was collected and adduced that sent him to the penitentiary for a long term of years for the murder of the night watchman at Blackwell in Nolan county, the night watchman being a brother-in-law of our own B. J. Emanuel of the Magnolia community. Trammell was also convicted in Coleman and other near-by counties of various crimes, his penalties aggregating 162 years. The escape from the Retrive Prison Farm last Friday was effected while guards were taking a squad of convicts out to plow. Felix Smith guarding the reaf was abruptly jerked from his horse and shot to death before he had a chance to resist. The three desperadoes, two of them mounted on mules and the other on Smith's horse, then galloped into the brushy swamp lands before other guards could interfere. Trammell's companions were T. N. Atkinson, a habitual criminal under life sentence from Hidalgo county, and Forrest Gibson under a ten year sentence for theft in Limestone county.

A day or two after their escape, the three men stole a car and tried to make their get-away, but officers were in such hot pursuit that they were forced to abandon their car and take to the swamps again on foot. They still had not been captured Wednesday afternoon.

"THE HARVESTER" WILL BE AT THE ENGLISH NEXT WEEK

"The Harvester," third Porter book to be brought to the screen, opens a three day run at the English Theatre Sunday with one of Hollywood's finest casts, headed by Alice Brady, Russell Hardie, Ann Rutherford, Cora Sue Collins, Frank Craven, Emma Dunn, Eddie Nugent, Joyce Compton, and a dozen other important players.

Because of the instant and great success of the first Porter picture, "Girl of the Limberlost", Republic has spared no expense in making the "Harvester" of greater excellence in cast, dramatic story, settings, photography and direction than its earlier hit.

"The Harvester" tells dramatically the simple but poignant story of a fine young Limberlost farmer, Russell Hardie, struggling with the problem of picking the right wife for the new farmhouse he's building. Miss Brady, as the ambitious mother of Joyce Compton, smart small town beauty, shrewdly steers them into an engagement that surprises and confuses the slow-stirring young man.

Frank Craven, the hen-pecked but not docile husband of Miss Brady, shares with Hardie a secret love for the soil and the country. He secretly puts the youth on guard against manipulating mothers with the advice to stick to his farm at all costs. Hardie, holding an unvoiced affection for a sincere little country girl, Ann Rutherford, knows not which way to turn. Complications, both humorous and heart-stirring, awaken him to a realization of feminine fraudulence, to his own deep emotions, and he is stirred by a chain of circumstances into self-defensive action which brings him into dominance over climaxing, dramatic events.

More than 600 people were used in the big barn dance, cornhusking, and country village scenes, while this important picture boasts of no less than forty two speaking parts. Thirty-seven interior sets, delightfully bringing back middle-aged people to the scenes of their youth in the early 1900s, and twenty-one exteriors, many in the beautiful, wide vistas of the country, went into this lavish production. Beautiful panoramic views will be seen in which the covered buggies of 1900 and the funny little motor cars of the age roll along country roads. Homer Croy, humorous author of the Will Rogers hit "They Had to See Paris" and "West of the Water Tower," injected his own down-to-earth humor into the script when revising the Porter novel for the screen.

Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui

Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Hunt, of Hallsville, Texas, describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just drag around, so sluggish and 'do-less.' My mother decided to give me Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me." ... If Cardui does not help YOU, consult a physician.
