House Wrangles Over Big Relief Bill

Texas Recovery Program Furthered By Action Of Senate

Eight Of Nine Acts Asked By Allred Passed

Opposition Of Sen. Holbrook Interposed In Vivid Speech Against Easing Bands For Housing Participation

Court Bill Passed

Examination Into Investment Of Permanent School Funds Proposed In House; Probe May Be Result

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 23.—The recovery program of Governor James V. Allred received a big boost in the senate of the Forty-fourth legislature today.

In the house appeared the first indication of a serious investigation by the legislature with a proposal by Representative Alfred Petsch of Fredericksburg for examination into the investment of permanent school funds by the state board of education.

Objection Is Heated

Over the strenuous, but solitary opposition of Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston, the upper chamber passed eight of nine bills advocated by Governor Allred as essential to Texas' participation in the national recovery plan.

In general, the bills would ease restrictions on state-chartered financial institutions to enable them to take advantage of benefits of the national housing act. Action on one bill pertaining to building and loan associations was delayed to permit additional study.

New Courts Bill Passed

The senate also passed a house bill completing Governor Allred's plan of establishing additional courts in the oil fields of East Texas to relieve serious congestion of the dockets.

Committees also appeared to be working with the new governor. The senate finance committee approved an appropriation of $8,390, requested by Governor Allred, to aid the attorney general in law enforcement activities. A house committee voted to give the governor two additional stenographers at a cost of $1,800.

Holbrook Battles Bills

The big fireworks of the day centered in the senate where Senator Holbrook battled against the bills designed to conform restrictions on the state financial institutions to the national housing act.

Senator W. K. Hopkins of Gonzales, sponsor, with Senator E. J. Blackert of Victoria, of the series, asserted the bills were "most worthwhile" if Texas was to obtain the real benefits of the national housing act. He was challenged by Senator Holbrook with the declaration the bills would give the approval of Texas to the "wildest socialistic

State Through In Trial Of Sickles

PANHANDLE, Jan. 23 (AP) — The state rested tonight in the murder trial of W. L. Sickles, who is charged with the fatal beating of W. E. Wright, city meter reader, last November.

Five witnesses testified for the state. J. G. Wadsworth told of a previous fight between Sickles and Wright, and Ralph Randel, a city commissioner, testified the defendant had threatened Wright.

J. W. McCormick, Texas Ranger and former sheriff of Carson county, said Sickles told him that he beat Wright with a hoe handle.

A written statement in which the defendant was alleged to have admitted the beating, and a wooden club said to have been found in Sickles' yard were introduced as evidence.

Caucus Forced By Democrats Ired At Patronage Handling

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23. (AP) — House Democrats—in a disgruntled mood over what they say is the poor way some New Deal chiefs have handled patronage — today forced their leaders to call a caucus for tomorrow night to discuss the matter.

Representative Taylor of Colorado, chairman of the caucus, was presented a petition today by Representative McFarlane of Texas, with 75 names calling for such a meeting.

Field Guns, Armored Cars And Planes Rain Shells And Bombs On Border Towns

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)

PEIPING, Jan. 23. — A fever of apprehension gripped this ancient walled capital tonight as dispatches from Kalgan described sudden Japanese attacks on three fortified cities in Chahar, China's northeasternmost province.

Twenty field guns, eight airplanes and armored cars, supported by infantry, participated in attacks on Tuhsikou, Kuyuan and Tungchetze cities near the boundary line separating Chahar and Jehol.

The wildest rumors flew through Peiping, throwing residents of the city into consternation, and Chinese sources expressed the opinion that events of the greatest importance were underway to the north.

The contrast to the mounted Mongols and Manchus who swept down from the plains of Mongolia in past centuries to subdue China, the new invaders the official dispatches from Kalgan said, came

Jury Reports After Less Than Three Hours' Study

HOWELL DAVIS, 42-year-old Hale county farmer, was acquitted of murder in the slaying of his father by a 99th district court jury about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

O. R. Davis, 66, was shot fatally here last Oct. 28.

The younger man had pleaded self-defense and testified that his father had beaten him as a youth and threatened his life many times. Two of Davis's sisters corroborated that testimony. Neighbors of O. R. Davis and his son in Panola county, where the family resided more than 35 years, declared the elder Davis was a man of ungovernable temper, "violent and dangerous."

Two Deaths Alleged

Testimony revealed the father had slain two men, one a brother-in-law, and the other a negro, and had served a penitentiary sentence for murder.

Jurors received the case at noon, but waited until after lunch to begin deliberations, at about 1:30 o'clock. They debated the case about two and a half hours before reporting to Judge Clark M. Mullican. Arguments were given Wednesday morning.

Make Strong Appeals

Prosecution attorneys did not make a request for infliction of the death penalty but both District Attorney Dan Blair and his assistant, Burton S. Burks, made strong appeals for conviction. Mr. Burks opened the arguments. He was followed by W. D. Wilson of the defense. Chief defense attorney, Durwood Bradley, closed the defendant's case and District Attorney Blair brought the final plea for the state.

The defendant sat unconcerned throughout the arguments as he did during presentation of testimony Tuesday. Members of the family were present in the courtroom.

Jurors Cautioned

The charge to the jury read by Judge Mullican before arguments began cautioned jurors to study the self defense plea of Davis closely. It also charged jurors to consider malice aforethought in connection with the slaying.

State Works Toward Close Of Hauptmann Trial; Ladder And Wood Joined To Seal Charge

Completion Of State's Case Following Cross-Examining Of Witness Early Today Is Believed Likely

BY JOHN FERRIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 23. — Bruno Hauptmann's carpenter tools, a piece of his Bronx attic floor and the Baby Lindbergh kidnap ladder were joined today before a Jersey jury to seal the state's murder charge.

Anxious to close their direct case, Prosecutors put Arthur J. Koehler, federal wood expert, on the witness stand—a witness who even worked with Hauptmann's own plane to show the jury that its faulty blade scarred the grim and broken ladder.

State Does Not Rest

The state still was drawing upon the expert's direct testimony when court adjourned, and he had yet to face a cross-examination that promises to be lengthy.

Thus, it seemed improbable that the prosecution could rest and the defense begin its own side of the story before late tomorrow.

Hauptmann's eyes, usually cold and indifferent, snapped in annoyance as his tool chest was thrown open to the gaze of a crowd that braved a driving snowstorm to jam the tiny Hunterdon county courtroom.

Hauptmann Braces Self

He hunched his shoulders and braced himself in his chair as Koehler calmly improvised a little work table on a corner of the judge's bench and sent crisp pine shavings curling to the courtroom floor with Hauptmann's well worn plane.

Carefully, he explained to the jury how an upright of the ladder from which the famous baby allegedly fell to his death matched perfectly a piece of flooring taken from the attic of the Bronx house in which Hauptmann lived at the time of the kidnaping—March 1, 1932.

Evidence Damaging

"As a result of a careful study of the two," the expert testified, "I have come to the conclusion that those two pieces at one time were

Death Penalties Assessed Against Two Are Set Aside

AUSTIN, Jan. 23. (AP)—The Texas court of criminal appeals today set aside the death penalties assessed against James "Gus" Pappas at Houston and Glenn Warren at Lufkin.

Pappas, former Galveston confectioner, was convicted of murder of Mrs. Bess Burt in January, 1934. He first told officers that he shot Mrs. Burt because she would not "make up" with him. Later, he denied he killed her.

Gainesville Policeman Shot Accidentally By Cop Friend

GAINESVILLE, Jan. 23. (AP)—The accidental discharge of a revolver held by another policeman caused the death today of Night Patrolman Charles Tune, 54.

Bailey illustrated an arrest narrative by placing his revolver in a sack and "drawing" it on Tune. As he did so, the weapon fired and a bullet hit Tune under the heart. He died in a hospital.

He Didn't Think Patrol Was Out

Weather or no, the state highway patrolmen seemingly are on the job. And to the dismay of at least one trucker.

Patrolman John C. Keller and Other Johnson, special ranger, stopped a truck driver at Brownfield early Wednesday morning. The truck was overloaded by about 3,900 pounds.

"Yeah, I knew it was overloaded, but, by golly," the driver grinned, "I thought it was too cold for you fellows to be out."

He will pay a fine.

Methodist Lay Leaders Meet

Missionary And Evangelistic Institute To Be Conducted In Lubbock Friday; Whole District Invited

Lay leaders of the Methodist churches of the Lubbock district will meet Friday, for a district-wide Missionary and Evangelistic institute, in the First Methodist church.

Pastors, missionary society presidents, missionary committee members, lay leaders and others engaged in active church leadership have been invited to attend, Rev. W. M. Pearce, presiding elder, said in announcing the meeting. Four or five lay workers from each charge are expected to attend.

Former Elder Speaks

Rev. C. A. Bickley, Big Spring pastor and former presiding elder here, is conference board of missions secretary. He will speak.

Principal speaker from out of the conference will be J. F. Rawls, Nashville, Tenn., treasurer of the general board of missions of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. Mr. Rawls will discuss in detail the church-wide mission program and also the 1935 church program.

Luncheon Served

Dr. Pearce will outline the district program, as well as several other district leaders and ministers.

Luncheon will be served at noon by the ladies of the First church. The afternoon session, which follows immediately after lunch, is expected to close at 4 o'clock.

PERSHING AT MIDLAND

MINERAL WELLS, Jan. 23. (AP)—Gen. John J. Pershing, on a leisurely motor trip to Tucson for the winter, planned to spend tonight at Midland. The wartime commander of the American expeditionary forces in France, now retired, was accompanied by his sister, Miss May Pershing.

EXTRADITION HONORED

AUSTIN, Jan. 23. (AP)—Governor James V. Allred today granted the request of Governor J. M. Futrell of Arkansas for the extradition of James M. Herid, charged in Conway county, Arkansas, with highway robbery and assault with intent to murder and now held at San Angelo.

State And Defense Clash Over Kennamer Evidence

TULSA, Jan. 23. (AP)—State and defense clashed tonight over the introduction of written evidence relating to an alleged bribery attempt in the case of Phil Kennamer, youth charged with murder.

Holly Anderson, county attorney, announced he would oppose an attempt by the defense to bring the "bribery documents" into court.

"And if necessary," countered Flint Moss, chief defense lawyer, "we will ask Judge Hurst for a court order to force them to be produced."

Pioneer Lawyer Of Pecos Victim Of Heart Ailment

PECOS, Jan. 23. (AP)—Judge Ben Randals, 65-year-old pioneer cattle man and lawyer and relief administrator of Reeves county, died late today of heart attack while driving his automobile on a highway near Kent, about 60 miles west of here.

Physicians attributed his death to a heart attack after first reports said he had been killed when thrown from his automobile after it careened into a ditch.

NO COMPROMISE SEEN

BATON ROUGE, Jan. 23. Records Fall Before Front Of Icy Wave

All-Time Marks For Mercury Readings Broken In Some Sections; Minnesota Town Reports 51 Below

Property Loss Big

Frigid March Affects Great Territory, Extending From Arctic Circle To Gulf And More Victims Added

(By The Associated Press)

INTENSE cold, floods and storms beset the nation Wednesday as winter launched its most bitter assault of the year.

Minnesota temperature records—some of them extending back 50 years—were toppled by a frigid wave that drove the mercury down to 51 below at Eveleth. Hundreds of families were marooned in the flood stricken districts of Mississippi and Tennessee. Rivers roared out of their banks in western Washington, sending scores to places of safety and tying up transportation.

Death Toll Mounts

Unusual cold reached across the continent from the Arctic circle to the Gulf of Mexico. Damage running into hundreds of thousands of dollars was wrought. New names were added to the roster of more than 70 fatalities.

Communication lines in Minnesota were snapped, work outside was halted, schools in many parts of the state were closed. Eveleth, with its -51 reading, was the coldest point in the coldest state. The -38 registered at Duluth set a 50-year record for the date. Albert Lea, with -30, experienced its worst siege since 1904. Minneapolis and St. Paul reported -31, the lowest mark in 23 years. North Dakota recorded a minimum of -40.

All-Time Marks Fall

The thermometer dived to -73 at Iroquois Falls, Ont., threatening the all-time Canadian mark of -78 1-2 established in December 1910, at Good Hope on the Mackenzie river. Blizzards were reported at some points on the Canadian prairies. Railway and wire services were disrupted as the mercury went to -60 at Fort McMurray and -46 at Prince Albert, Sask. Fifty children were put to bed at the Winnebago Indian school to protect them from -34 degree weather.

Warnings were hoisted from Virginia to Maine as a storm swept up the Atlantic seaboard. A new snow mantle stretched from the Ohio to New England. New York put more than 32,000 men to work shoveling

Governor Flies To Bedside Of Brother, Judge At Tyler

TYLER, Jan. 23 (AP) — Governor James V. Allred arrived here late today on an airplane trip from Austin to visit his brother, Judge Renne Allred, jr., who is ill. He was accompanied by a brother, Raymond, and R. B. Glass, Dallas and Beaumont theater man, who piloted the plane.

Governor Allred decided to make the trip by air when Judge Allred developed symptoms of pneumonia. Judge Allred's condition, which was considered serious, was reported unchanged tonight.

Louis Payne Is Saved From Death When Insanity Pled

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23. (AP) — Louis Rude Payne, 21, was saved today from hanging for the murder of his mother and younger brother. A superior court jury found that he was insane, and he was committed to a state hospital.

Payne was convicted several months ago of killing Mrs. Carrie Payne, and his brother, Robert William, 15 with an ax last May.

Ex-Ranger Of Ft. Worth Is Made Captain

Tom Hickman And Abilene Man Appointed By Governor As Ranger Shakeup Results In Commission Losses

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 23.—Adjutant General Carl Nesbitt announced today the appointment of Tom Hickman of Fort Worth as a captain of Texas Rangers.

Appointment of H. M. Kirby of Abilene as a private in the Ranger force also was announced.

Hickman for many years was one of the most colorful members of the Rangers. Two years ago he resigned as captain of Company B following the election of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson.

Fought Lawlessness

The governor is commander of the Ranger force. After the election of Governor James V. Allred, reports immediately were current that Hickman would be given his former post.

In recent years, prior to his resignation, Hickman was assigned to assist in suppressing lawlessness in oil fields. He saw service both in the Borger and the East Texas areas.

He teams frequently with Frank Hamer, former captain of Rangers, in hunting down law violators. Hamer was a member of the group of officers which last summer shot down Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker, notorious outlaws, in Louisiana, but at that time was not a member of the force.

Hamer also left the Rangers two years ago with the election of Mrs. Ferguson. Reports also have been heard that he would return to the Ranger force, but have not been confirmed.

Nesbitt said Hickman probably would be stationed again at Fort Worth. Kirby formerly was a member of Hickman's company.

Previously Nesbitt announced he

Eccentric Leaves Money To Persons Who Hate Felines

CHICAGO, Jan. 23. (AP)—Executors of the will of Rockwell Sayre, who spent most of his life and his money hating cats, today closed his estate after carrying out the queerest of its requests.

They bought and shipped boxes of candy to 150 persons whom Sayre in his will had listed as not friends to cats, including Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, who once, he said, ordered White House felines executed to protect the songbirds.

Robbers Loot Postal Truck; Make Escape

Richest Haul In New England History Nets $129,000 For Well Armed Bandits; Plan Nicely Executed

(By The Associated Press)

FALL RIVER, Mass., Jan. 23.—In the largest postal robbery in the history of New England, five bandits today held up a United States mail truck and tonight had apparently made good their escape with $129,000 in currency.

The bandits were armed with machine guns and pistols.

Apparently in conformance with a carefully prepared plan, a sedan was driven ahead of the small truck, forcing it to a halt. Two of the sedan's four occupants jumped out and leaped aboard the truck. At pistol point, Herbert B. Reid, 43, for 20 years a postal employe, who was transferring registered mail from the railroad station to the postoffice, was forced into the sedan, bound and blindfolded.

The truck then was convoyed by the sedan, out of the city to South Somerset, a distance of about 2 1-2 miles, where a fifth member of the gang waited in another car. The truck was driven thrice its length off a back road and the sedan driven in behind it.

Loot Transferred

Reid was forced to surrender the key to the rear door of the mail truck, the loot was quickly transferred to the waiting automobile and the five sped away.

On departure of the bandits Reid succeeded in freeing himself. He hailed a passing motorist and came to Fall River.

Reward Posted

The post office department immediately offered rewards totaling $10,000, or $2,000 for information resulting in arrest and conviction of each of the five robbers.

The loot consisted of bank notes and silver, being sent by the federal reserve bank in Boston to the B. M. C. Durfee Trust company of Fall River.

Partial Salary Restoration Asked For Texas Judiciary

AUSTIN, Jan. 23. (AP)—Partial restoration of salaries of the Texas judiciary, trimmed 25 per cent in the 1933 economy program, was proposed by Senator John S. Redditt of Lufkin, chairman of the finance committee, in a bill introduced today.

Senator Redditt said restorations would amount to approximately 12 1-2 per cent. Supreme court justices would receive an increase from $6,000 to $7,200 annually, compared to the previous scale of $8,000. Judges of the court of criminal appeals and members of the commission of appeals, who now receive $6,000 and $5,500, respectively, would be increased to $6,500.

CLARENDON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Will Rogers, the humorist, spent this afternoon inspecting the JA ranch, 20 miles southwest of here. He said he planned to leave late tonight for Amarillo, where he would take a plane for Kansas City.

Asked if he was negotiating to purchase the 425,000-acre ranch, Rogers replied: "Thanks for the compliment. I didn't know they were giving ranches to comedians for a laugh".

House Slices Part Of Plan; Fight Is Seen

Proposed Power Delegation Is Basis Of Rousing Battle And Several Democratic Leaders Go To Opposition

War Lines Drawn

In Spite Of Assurances FDR, Not Ickes, To Administer Money, Curtailment Looming In House Action

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—The administration's $4,880,000,000 relief program today was shorn of some of its proposed presidential power grants and faced a severe battle for further curtailment before house action tomorrow that will send it to the senate.

The way was smoothed somewhat today for the Democratic leaders by definite assurances from the White House that Secretary Ickes would not administer the new work relief fund.

Demos Join G. O. P.

Nevertheless, several stalwart Democrats, including Representatives Bulwinkle of North Carolina, Driver of Arkansas, and Connery of Massachusetts, joined Republicans in attacking the measure's vast delegation of power to the president. They served notice they would propose amendments tomorrow to further curb the delegation of authority still retained in the measure.

Connery plans to demand the prevailing wage be paid instead of the $50 a month contemplated for the 3,500,000 men to be transferred from the dole to work relief.

Finish Fight Seen

Democratic insurgents, still discontented with the measure, set themselves for a finish fight tomorrow.

Meanwhile, Speaker Byrns and his chieftains carried out their compromise proposals. They brought in a liberalized "gag" rule that was finally adopted by a vote of 249 to 146. More than two score Democrats sided with Republicans and ten progressives and Farmer-Laborites.

Amendments Adopted

Still yielding to insurgent demands, the house appropriations committee adopted amendments it will submit tomorrow, aimed at Public Works Administrator Ickes and otherwise curbing presidential authority.

The concessions the committee made, which have to be passed on tomorrow, are:

Names of types of projects to be considered would be eliminated, thereby making all federal and non-

Lubbock Resident Dies In Hospital

James Brundrit, 66, father of Mrs. A. Maitland Jones of Lubbock, died early Wednesday afternoon in a local sanitarium, where he had been treated for about a week. He had been in ill health for several years.

Born in England, Mr. Brundrit had lived in the United States 47 years. He was survived by his widow; three daughters, Mrs. Jones of Lubbock; Mrs. Ralph Ortiz, Oak Park, Ill., and Mrs. Edward Meelbusch, Chicago, and two sisters, one in England and one in Denmark.

Funeral services for Mr. Brundrit had not been arranged yesterday, Rix-Bynum Funeral home said.

Mr. and Mrs. Brundrit, who lived in Oak Park, Ill., had been visiting here since September.

Solution Of Underworld's Most Gory Crime Rumored; Statements Conflict

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Jan. 23. — Reports were published here today that the underworld's most gory crime—the 1929 mass massacre of seven gangsters—had been solved by the statement of Byron Bolton, held as a member of the notorious Karpis-Barker mob.

The Chicago American in a copyrighted story said Bolton had named all participants in the crime and that his written statement was now in the hands of J. Edgar Hoover, head of the division of investigation of the department of justice at Washington.

Dissemination of the story brought immediate and conflicting statements. Said Hoover, "There's not a word of truth in it." Said Police Capt. John Stege, underworld authority of the Chicago force, "It sounds probable." Said D. M. Ladd, agent in charge at the Chicago division of investigation, "Federal agents have not questioned Bolton about the massacre."

In view of the conflicting statements it was recalled that for ten days federal agents denied having in custody Mrs. Lester Gills, "half pint" widow of the slain "Baby Face" Nelson and the refusal of local federal officers for days to admit they had custody of Arthur "Doc" Barker, apprehended the same night Bolton was taken after a raid in which Russell Gibson, another Karpis-Barker satellite was slain.

ON ADVERTISING

"IF THERE'S better food on American tables today than twenty years ago, it's not so much because we have teachers of home economics who train a few thousand students in colleges, but because we have educational advertising that is read by millions. Much improvements can be traced to the recipes and food combination hints offered in national advertising."

That's what Anna Steese Richardson, director of the Good Citizenship bureau of the Woman's Home Companion told members of the Dallas Advertising league Tuesday. She also told them that claims for products are less fantastic and extravagant than they were six months ago. If you'll compare advertisements for certain universally used products of six months ago with those of this week, for instance, you'll agree with Mrs. Richardson.

THESE HAVE HELPED

ADVERTISING clubs of America, the federal government, the Tugwell bill fostered by the food and drug bureau of the U. Planned endeavor is contributing to prosperity. But the courage, determination and honesty of individual firms, individual men and women, must lie at the foundation of national business recovery.

WALLACE BEERY'S RECIPE

Speaking of recipes, a great favorite of Wallace Beery's is said to be butterscotch delight. Divide a sponge cake into as many pieces as you have people to serve. Place a slice of vanilla ice cream between the split slices. Pour over butterscotch sauce using 1-2 pint cream, one cup corn syrup, one cup sugar, which has been cooked in double boiler and stirred every ten minutes. After removing sauce from stove, add lump of butter and vanilla and almonds if desired.

PEASANT'S INFLUENCE

THE PEASANT influence in beach wear, hinted at in Paris cables last year, is definitely coming into its own this year. Natural colored linen blouses, gaily embroidered in greens, burgundies and yellows, are worn with novelty cotton skirts and bright wool capes. Accessories include a large, wooden-framed handbag covered in a woolen-tufted fabric, a beach umbrella in natural wood and colored belts featuring wood buckles. Separate bolero jackets in solid colors complete the ensembles.

WHAT NEXT, WE ASK

SPEAKING of spring styles, we saw an advance notice that tells of bright turkey red chosen for finger nail coloring and tints extending to eyebrows. You have your brows tinted to match your dresses. THE ROOSEVELT WEDDING

YOU'VE seen the notices calling attention to the simplicity of Anna Roosevelt Dall's wedding to John Boettinger. There were no attendants, no bridal boquet and a traveling suit so unobtrusive that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt couldn't describe it afterward. The marriage was at the Roosevelts' New York home.

We think this shows excellent taste. If we know our Emily Post, a second wedding should be simple; it's not polite for the bride to wear white satin and a veil, and the more dignity that can be achieved the better.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. © 1934 C. M. Co.

Local Girl Scouting Work For Year Planned At Luncheon For Trainers In Home Of Mrs. W. A. Jackson

Plans for the year's work in local Scouting were discussed when members of the leader's training personnel committee of the executive council met for luncheon at the home of the committee chairman, Mrs. W. A. Jackson, 2515 Twenty-second street, Wednesday afternoon.

The group planned to send representatives to a regional meeting of leaders in Muskogee, Okla., this spring and to arrange for local scout troops to attend camps during the summer. They also hope to send representatives to the national convention of the Girl Scouts of America in San Francisco next fall, Mrs. Jackson said.

Tentative plans were made for securing a six-week's leader's training course at Texas Technological college either this summer or next fall.

The committee, which is in charge of tarining leaders for girl scout work, plans and checks the local procedure.

Attending the meeting was Mrs. H. F. Godeke, council chairman, Miss Margaret Weeks, Mrs. C. C. Crenshaw and Mrs. Elizabeth Young. A social hour followed the business session.

Emergency Oil Acts Hurried

Plans To Control Hot Oil By Regulatory Statutes Which Would Replace Nullified Ones Are In Connally Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23. (AP) — Emergency legislation to dam the flow of "hot" oil was rushed toward the law books today to replace regulatory measures held invalid by the supreme court.

Bearing the approval of the senate, the Connally bill prohibiting interstate shipments of oil produced in excess of state quotas went to the house where leaders predicted early and favorable consideration.

Permanent Plans Laid

Efforts to draft permanent control legislation also were started. Representative Disney (D-Okla.) said he would revamp his rigid control measure of last session and submit it to the White House. President Roosevelt strongly endorsed the Disney bill last year, but it was cast aside in the closing days of congress.

A subcommittee of the house interstate commerce committee headed by Representative Cole (D-Md.) was ready to continue its study of the entire problem of petroleum regulation, and its findings undoubtedly will have influence on the final character of permanent legislation.

Sent To House

With only a voice vote, the senate yesterday passed the Connally bill, designed to plug the hole made by the supreme court's unfavorable decision, and shot it to the house where it probably will be referred to the interstate commerce committee.

Its language is phrased to comply with the court's ruling that a policy of congress must be stated before it can delegate authority to the president to enforce regulations he may promulgate under it. Amendments by Senator Robinson (D-Ark.) give the president or the attorney general power to apply to federal district courts for enforcement of the act.

Seed-Purchasing Charter Granted

A group of Lubbock men, who are considering an organization for the co-operative purchasing of seed and feed for farmers of five or six counties of this area, yesterday were granted a charter by the secretary of state, the Associated Press reported.

R. C. Hopping is president of the association, W. P. Soash vice president, and M. G. Abernathy secretary-treasurer. Those men, with L. Wesley Read and T. B. Duggan, will form an executive committee.

The association will not compete in prices with feed dealers, Messrs. Read and Hopping said. Both men indicated the plan remained in an embryonic state. The charter was granted for an association with a capital stock of $100,000. About 75 per cent of the amount would be financed with federal funds.

"The general purpose is to make available feed and seed for the farmers of this section and have it ready for them when they need it," Mr. Read said. "It will be a non-profit organization. Cotton seed, for instance, would be shipped in carload lots."

The group also would help farmers to procure adequate financing.

Merriam Backs Bold Program

Man Who Administered Defeat To California's Socialist Candidate For Governor Is Urging New Procedure

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Jan. 23. (AP) The man who defeated Upton Sinclair at the polls last November spread before California today his program for rehabilitation of a crippled state government.

Gov. Frank F. Merriam, elected over the famous author-politician and his "end poverty in California" platform, submitted to the legislature a program which would impose an average increase in taxes of $125 a family for the next two years.

Suggests More Taxes

In his message Governor Merriam suggested a wide range of increased taxation beginning with a personal income tax and concluding with a one-per cent increase in the 2 1-2 per cent retail sales tax.

This revenue would be used to balance a budget which needs about $95,600,000 in new revenue and $47,300,000 for unemployment relief.

Would Acquire Utilities

Surprising many of his ardent supporters, the governor came out boldly for a state program looking toward acquisition of all privately owned water and power utilities.

On one of the most contentious subjects facing the government, the question of what kind of social legislation should be enacted, he made no definite recommendations. He told the legislature that after the federal government has completed its program for unemployment insurance and old age pensions he would submit his recommendations in a special message.

Cotton Meetings Held This Week

Members of the community cotton committees of Lubbock county will be chosen at a series of meetings this week, closing Friday night.

Thursday night community meetings will be held at Acuff, Liberty and McClung.

Friday night's meeting will be at: Becton, Carlisle Caldwell, Center, County Line, Estacado, Grovesville, Hardy, Hurlwood, Idalou, Monore, Northeast Ward, Northwest Ward, Slaton, Slide, Southwest Ward and Southeast Ward.

Previous meetings were at: Union, Wolfforth, New Hope, Canyon, Shallowater, Foster, Barton, Posey and Woodrow.

Voting in community elections is limited, under the constitution to the following:

A-All producers within a county who are parties to a 1934-1935 cotton acreage reduction contract and any producer operating land within the county who enters into a contract with the secretary of agriculture to adjust cotton acreage or production.

B-Only those members of the association who deprive the principal part of their income directly from farming on the farm or farms covered by contracts to which such members are parties eligible to serve as county or community committeemen.

Government Loans Are Not Available

Reports that government loans are available for the payment of student fees for the second semester at Texas Technological college are erroneous, according to W. T. Gaston, business manager of the college. A number of students have inquired regarding the reports at the business office and information office.

State laws require that fees be collected in full at the time of registration, Mr. Gaston said. State registration fees are $25 for each student. A medical service fee of $4 and a uniform breakage deposit of $7.50 are also required of each student. Registration will be conducted February 8-9.

County Needs Are Discussed

Executive Committee Of Farm Association Talks Credit Requirements Of County In Tuesday Meeting

Plans for the 1935 extension program in Lubbock county were discussed at a meeting of the newly named executive committee of the Lubbock County Farm association, Tuesday afternoon in the county agent's office. The committee met with P. T. Montfort, county agent.

Henry Mahoney, Shallowater, named Saturday as chairman to succeed W. M. Ross, Southwest Ward, presided. J. P. Meading, Posey, secretary, read the minutes of the meeting Saturday when new officers were named.

Credit Needs Talked

Credit needs of Lubbock county farmers this year were discussed. A resolution endorsing a bill recently introduced in congress by Marvin Jones, Amarillo, chairman of the house committee on agriculture, was adopted. The bill would make available immediately emergency crop loans. Early passage was also urged.

Major activities of the association for the year were recommended as: cotton, corn-hog and wheat programs; a terracing program covering every community in the county, boy's 4-H club work, turkey improvement work and keeping of farm records.

Officers of the association for 1935 are: Henry Mahoney, Shallowater, chairman; W. L. Brashear, Center, vice-chairman; P. G. Meading, Posey, secretary; E. L. Wheeler, Wolfforth, Precinct 1; J. W. Nesbitt, Slaton, Precinct 2; J. L. Thomas, Northeast Ward, Precinct 3; C. U. James, Grovesville, Precinct 4.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxines. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

GREATEST convenience for women drivers since the self-starter! That's what they're saying about the Electric Hand—the new, easier method of gear control on 1935 Hudson-built cars.

This exclusive feature takes all the work out of gear shifting. Makes driving safer. Clears the front compartment, too. No levers to trip you, to scuff shoes or smear grease on clothing.

The Electric Hand is standard on Hudson Custom Eights and optional, for a small amount extra, on all other 1935 Hudsons and Terraplanes. It's not an automatic shift. You shift gears as you always have, yet never take your hands from the wheel.

There's new styling in these 1935 Hudsons and Terraplanes. Longer, lower bodies, gracefully narrowed radiators, smarter lamps, louvres and trim.

There's new ruggedness and safety, too—in the first steel roof. Steel all around you—steel under your feet—steel overhead. And Bendix Rotary-Equalized Brakes—five years of brake advancement in a single year. Quicker, smoother stopping, in a short, straight line.

More power—flashing acceleration—bigger gas mileage—doubled oil economy .... But we can't tell you the whole story. Come and see—drive—and compare these new cars with the others.

LOOK FOR THESE 1935 FEATURES

New styling—another year ahead. New Bendix Rotary-Equalized Brakes. The first steel roof, on a body all of steel. More power from less gasoline. Full 3-passenger seats—front and rear. Longer, gentler springs—improved oil-cushioned shock absorbers.

Westerner Cagers Bow To Lamesa; Matsura Gives Gene La Belle The Works

Tornado Quint Shows Form In 32-23 Victory

Lubbock High Cagers Rally In Last Half To Make Game Of It; Tornadoes Promise To Repeat As Champions

A handful of spectators last night looked upon the basketball club that looms as this district's schoolboy champion for the second straight year, the Lamesa High school Golden Tornadoes who played a smooth game at Lubbock High gymnasium to defeat the Westerners, 32 to 23.

Although Lubbock's team looked much more potent than in previous engagements this season, what with three new and promising youngsters added to the lineup after becoming scholastically eligible this week, the Tornadoes were not extended in their victory march last night. They took an early lead, and when Lubbock threatened late in the second half, the Golden Tornadoes went into formations again to jump ahead and win going away.

Coach Gregg of Lamesa switched his lineup last night and sent Burkhalt, former forward, to a guard position with Boswell. Kidd and Walker held down the forwards, and Harrell played a fine game at center.

Harrell The Tallest

Controling the tip-off and executing a neat passing game to maneuver into scoring position, the Tornadoes played along without exerting themselves, played clean and smooth basketball.

Venable, Kerr and Odden were newcomers to Lubbock's lineup last night, and they conducted themselves in pleasing fashion. The Lubbock attack was not as smooth, perhaps as it should be when the new combination gets better acquainted with each other, but the two new forwards led the Westerner scoring attack and otherwise looked promising.

Burkhalt was scoring hero of the evening with five field goals. Harrell, lanky center, was second with four field shots and a free basket, leading Kidd, the other forward, by the margin of the charity shot.

New Forwards Lead

Venable and Kerr each scored three field goals for Lubbock. Venable added two free shots and Kerr one.

Lubbock exercised the edge from the toe-line, making seven of eight chances good. McWhorter missed one and made two. The others were 100 per cent in their attempts. Lamesa counted twice from the gift shot mark in six opportunities.

After three minutes of feeling each other out, Walker gave Lamesa the lead with a field goal. Three minutes later, Jones speared one for Lubbock, and Kidd added one for Lamesa for a 4 to 2 lead at the end of the quarter.

Both sides missed many crip shots in the anxious first quarter, and continued to miss them, on a lesser scale, in the second. Harrell led the second period off with a free toss. Venable made a long distance connection for Lubbock, and the score was 5 to 4 for Lamesa.

Take It Turn About

The teams alternated then at shooting goals, Burkhart scored for Lamesa, and Venable dribbled the length of the court to tally for Lubbock. Harrell added two points for Lamesa, and McWhorter made the count to 9 to 8 with a field goal. Kidd fired a field goal, and McWhorter counted one point for Lubbock with a free shot. Kidd scored again and Harrell hoistered a high one for two points to give Lamesa a 15 to 9 advantage at the half.

Lubbock counted one for two as the second half opened. Kidd fired one from scrimmage, and Jones tossed a free one for Lubbock. Harrell made a field goal, and McWhorter shot from the toe-line. Kerr made a long shot look good, and Venable added two points from the foul line. Lamesa was ahead, 21 to 16, as the third period ended.

Burkhart opened the final chapter with a field goal, but Venable rubbed it out with a crip shot. Walker tossed a free one for Lamesa, and Kerr dribbled down under for a crip and a two-pointer that left a four-point margin between the scores.

Too Close For Comfort

Lamesa ended the Lubbock rally by firing three field goals in a row, Burkhart, Boswell and Burkhart. Jones counted one point for the Westerners, Kerr made his third field goal and Harrell his fourth to end the tally making.

Lubbock plays the Amarillo High school Sandies here Saturday night in a Panhandle League game. The Sandies journey to Lamesa today for a game with the Tornadoes. Amarillo meets Levelland Friday night.

The box score:

LAMESA (32)	FG	FT	PF	PTS
Kidd, f	4	0	2	8
Walker, f	1	1	0	3
Harrell, c	4	1	2	9

Tennessee U. Likes Old Army Game

Major Britton, Neyland's Successor, 4-Starred At West Point

BY ROY E. HUTCHENS

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 23 (AP)—Army's football team was taking a licking at the hands of that fabled Notre Dame eleven of 1913 and a slender sophomore end was scooting about nervously on the bench.

Gus Dorais was tossing those new-fangled passes to Knute Rockne and the Irish were running the Army's ends ragged.

Coach Bill Daly of the Army spotted the 162-pound sophomore.

"Britton," he called, "go in there at end."

That, Maj. W. H. Britton, Tennessee's new football coach, recalls, was the first game of football he ever played.

"When I went to West Point in 1912 I had never had on a football uniform," says Britton. "I wasn't considered a prospect and no one asked me to come out for the team."

Lost But Seven In Nine Years

The genial, broad-shouldered Britton succeeds Maj. Robert R. Neyland as head coach at Tennessee. He was end coach under Neyland for nine years and they, together with Col. Paul B. Parker, line coach, established a nine-year record of 76 victories and five ties against seven defeats.

Britton says he will never forget his first game.

"Notre Dame led by 14 to 13 at the half, but in the second half they passed us to death," he recalls. "Dorais hit Rockne with passes 40 yards away. I've never seen anything like that passing combination from that day to this."

Ntre Dame won the game, 32 to 13, and Britton won a regular position at end. Before he was graduated he was recognized as one of the the greatest ends and one of the best all-around athletes ever developed at West Point.

MAJ. W. H. BRITTON

Britton was a star first baseman on the Army baseball team, center on the basketball team, and held the broad jump record in track. He hit in the cleanup position for Army's baseball team in 1915 and had a batting average of .500 for 10 games.

Britton, Neyland and Parker—the "three musketeers" — were classmates at West Point.

Neyland was the ace of the cadets' pitching staff and held a record of 22 consecutive victories.

Graduated from West Point in 1916, Britton was assigned to Honolulu with the Army engineers. While there he coached the Army-Y. M. C. A. football team to the championship of Honolulu.

Maj. Britton resigned from the army in 1920. He coached at Coe college in 1921. He and Col. Parker entered the real estate business in Florida in 1923 and then in 1926 came to Knoxville to assist their former West Point class mate.

A Bridge Expert

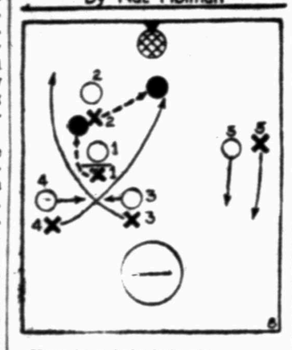
He says he will continue the so-called "Neyland" system of football at Tennessee, calling for a single wingback, with the quarterback under the center, behind a balanced line.

He will also continue the "telephone" system. One of the coaches sits in the press box, high above the playing field, and telephones observations and suggested lineup changes to the head coach on the sidelines.

Major Britton is considered the outstanding bridge expert in Knoxville.

WINNING BASKETBALL

By Nat Holman



Here is a held-ball play.

X-1, on the jump, taps to X-2, stationed directly in front. X-4 cuts in between X-3 and O-3, and circles around the jumpers. In doing so he seeks to maneuver his guard, O-4, into the paths of either O-3 or the jumpers.

X-2 feeds either X-3 or X-4, choosing the one who has managed to elude his guard.

Matty Bell Is Favored As Head Mustang Coach By Body Of Former Gridiron Stars

DALLAS, Jan. 23. (AP) — Former grid stars of Southern Methodist university, members of the ex-lettermen's association, met today and named a committee of four to confer with Dr. C. C. Selecman, president, concerning the appointment of a head football coach to succeed Ray Morrison.

Gene Bedford, Stanley (Dog) Dawson, Sam Merrill and Logan Ford were named on the committee which will confer with Dr. Selecman tomorrow.

It was reported the ex-lettermen favored Madison (Matty) Bell, present line coach, to replace Morrison, who recently accepted an offer to coach at Vanderbilt, his alma mater.

Dr. Selecman's recommendations will be placed before the board of trustees next Tuesday.

Czech Star Is Amateur Saver

England's Tennis Problem Is Just About Solved By Action To Be Taken To Save Menzel From Money Ranks

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

LONDON, Jan. 23. — All because Roderick Menzel, of Czechoslovakia is a big fellow who combs his hair between games and would look very handsome in the movies, a blow has been struck for amatuer tennis which has developed world reverberations.

But for the fact that Menzel, the Davis Cup star, aspired to make a little pocket money by appealing in a series of action films, Czechoslovakia's tennis association never would have started a movement to have the rule banning such activity rescinded.

That Wouldn't Have Worked

And if the Czechs hadn't made the first move in that direction, the powerful British Lawn Tennis association never would have had the spunk to support it. Somebody might have accused them of acting through selfish motives — making an obvious effort to keep their most valuable star, Fred Perry, from turning professional — and that would never have done.

Perry, they knew (although it was supposed to have been kept a dark secret) had made a series of action films here before leaving on his tour of America and Australia. If that film ever were released, they realized, Fred would from that moment belong to the money clan and cease to be a valuable asset of the B. L. T. A. and Wimbledon, Inc.

British Are Happy

It is not difficult, then to picture the joy of the British association when it received a letter from the Czechs, saying that at the next general meeting of the international federation at Paris in March they would introduce a resolution to rescind that section of rule 23 which prohibits amateur tennis players, and particularly Menzel, from making movies.

Sir Samuel Hoare, president of the British association, called a meeting almost instantly.

H. Roper Barrett, captain of England's Davis Cup team and chairman of the meeting, paused only to hang up his hat before proposing that England's delegation to the Paris meeting support their dear colleagues, the Czechs, right up to the hilt.

Rest Is Easy

There was no need for a second to the motion.

It will be necessary at the regular Paris meeting to call an "extraordinary session" for the purpose of voting to rescind the rule, but that should be easy.

It is anticipated here that the vote to make potential movie stars out of all the tennis boys and girls will be virtually unanimous. The time has come for amateur tennis to hang together. The pros are at the battlements.

Sir Malcolm Campbell And Bluebird Head For America

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Jan. 23 (AP)—Sir Malcolm Campbell loaded his sleek new racing Bluebird aboard the Acquitania today and sailed for the United States and a new series of assaults on automobile speed for records.

A few weeks hence the British speed king hopes to send his re-modeled, streamline juggernaut roaring down the sands of Daytona Beach, Fla., at 300 miles per hour, or almost 28 miles faster than on his last attempt—Feb. 23, 1933—when he hung up a new record by traveling a measured mile at 262.108 miles per hour.

Bowling Scores

Myrick Building's entry in the Lubbock Bowling league swept all four points by winning all three games in a match with Hilton Hotel last night at the Lubbock Club alleys.

Swart, of the Myrick Building team, was high single game scorer with a third game mark of 236 pins, but Crites took the honors with games of 206, 212 and 184 for a total of 572. Swart's total was 558.

Hardy, with one game of 195 and a total of 511, led the hotel keglers, who rolled a total of 2359 pins to 2544 for the winners.

The results:

Betting Commissioner Finds There's Difference Between Bond Investments And Races

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 23. (AP) — Tom Kearney, St. Louis betting commissioner, found to his satisfaction today the difference between a bond investment and a horse race bet.

He complained about a loss on a bond transaction and a jury awarded him $7,080 against an investment firm with which he dealt.

The former president of the firm, John A. Love, was a witness in the case.

"I told Kearney I was sorry that he lost his money," Love testified. "I explained to him that my answer was the same he would give to a man who complained when he lost a bet on a horse race—'it's just too bad'."

Kearney testified he handled about $500,000 last year in bets on races, baseball games and elections. He was not asked what he told losers.

Japanese Wins First 2 Falls In Main Event

La Belle Can't Fight Clean So Matsura Applies Pressure To Win Rough Match; Van Bebber Draws With Fenton

Husky Gene La Belle, the angle-eyed Frenchman, might have made a wrestling match of it if he had so desired, but he couldn't refrain from cracking a few rules and resorting to uncouth practices. These irritated Matsuda Matsura after a while, and the capable little Japanese from Oregon gave Gene the works.

Matsura, who is all the rage just now in the Southwestern wrestling circuit, put La Belle away in two straight falls, to please again a large crowd of fans who came back for the second successive week to watch the Oriental sensation in action.

Shows New Tricks

The crowd, about 1600, was not as large as that which turned out to see Matsura give Sailor Watkins a lesson in modern grappling last week, but it was just as enthusiastic and it saw the 21-year-old Jap cut loose with several new tricks he withheld in the Watkins duel.

Taking his time and letting La Belle have his way for a good part of the first fall, Matsura occasionally mixed in a sensational play to keep the crowd on edge, anxious for the kill. The first round lasted thirty seconds over half an hour, and ended in a beautiful display of blocking as La Belle applied a Japanese crab, was sent hurtling forward with Matsura's legs around his neck. The next thing anybody knew, La Belle's shoulders were fastened to the mat as if they were nailed there, the Japanese perched placidly aboard. It was a pretty turn-over, just as it seemed that La Belle was about to win with the crab hold.

Fast Start—And Finish

La Belle, huffing and puffing and with fire shooting in opposite directions from under his shaggy brows, went to work fast as the second round opened. He fixed an arm bar that gave the Jap plenty of agony. When that was over, La Belle worked hard on Matsura's eyes and mouth, drawing blood from the latter and almost closing the former with gouges. Several times, as in the first fall, he caught on with good holds, but had to give up on account of fouling.

The Oriental took this for eight minutes, then whacked La Belle about the ring with resounding elbow nudges. He tired the Frenchman with a leg stretch and split and finished him up with a reverse

Agua Caliente Track Not To Stage Regular Spring Meet

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23 (AP) — Lou Anger, general manager of the race track at Agua Caliente, said today the Mexican track probably would not open its regular meeting on Feb. 24, but that "even more racing" was projected for the future.

The announcement came in the wake of a decision by the California horse racing board extending the meeting at Santa Anita, the new course here, until March 9, and ordering Bay Meadows near San Francisco, to open within a week from that time.

Twenty Grand And Mate To Resume Track Feud Friday

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23 (AP)—Two leading turf rivals of almost three years ago, Twenty Grand and Mate, were sent through paces at Santa Anita park today designed to point them for a renewal of their feud here Friday afternoon.

Nominated for a special $1,200 event over seven furlongs, the veteran thoroughbreds went six and seven furlongs, respectively. Twenty Grand, 7-year old Kentucky Derby winner of 1931, which has gained reputation hereabouts as a rain maker because showers four times delayed his comeback debut, stepped the six furlongs in 1:13.

Mate, which won the Preakness in 1931, showing his heels to Twenty Grand, was sent through the seven furlongs in 1:27.

NAVARRO WINS AGAIN

CORSICANA, Jan. 23 (AP) — For the second consecutive year the Navarro high school girls basketball team won the Y.M.C.A. invitation tournament here today, defeating Union High, 26-16. Pursley won the consolation title with a 29-20 victory over Frost.

Suggested Moratorium On Duck Hunting Voted Out

Game Conference To Rest Case With U. S. Government

BY BOB CAVAGNARO
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 23. (AP)—Voting down a proposal to declare a one-year moratorium on duck shooting in the United States, the 21st American Game conference, closing a three-day meeting today passed a resolution leaving final determination of the length of the 1935 season to the United States bureau of biological survey.

The resolution, offered by Col. Arthur F. Foran, president of the more game birds foundation, acting chairman of the resolutions committee, precipitated a sharp clash between John Baker, executive director of the National Association of Audubon societies—proponent of a one-year ban beginning September, 1935 — and opponents of the move.

Leave It To Darling

In an animated speech, Col. Foran revealed that as a member of the resolutions committee Baker yesterday withdrew the Audubon societies' proposal to close the season and join in a unanimous vote for the resolution entrusting the responsibility to J. N. (Ding) Darling's survey bureau for recommendation to the conference.

The conference also passed a resolution petitioning congress to appropriate sufficient funds to be made available to the biological bureau to provide adequate enforcement of all laws and regulations relating to migratory birds.

Petition President

Still another resolution asked President Roosevelt that "all renewable resources of the country be placed under the control of a single governmental agency headed by a man whose records shows him to be familiar with the facts and problems involved with renewable sources."

At the conclusion of the conference Aldo Lepold, professor of game management of the University of Wisconsin, was elected chairman of the conference for 1935-36, succeeding Hoyes Lloyd, supervisor of wild life protection in Canada.

Ross Defends His Title With Klick In Miami Tonight

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 23. (AP)—Only a snow or rain storm will prevent Barney Ross, champion of the lightweights, from meeting Frankie Klick, the California challenger, for Ross' synthetic junior welterweight title in Miami Stadium tomorrow night, the promoters announced today.

The promoters were unperturbed by the unusual weather upstate and a declining thermometer here.

Meantime, the advance sale proceeded heartily, they reported. The last of the 20,000 seats was in place.

Ross and the young challenger went through final light exercises today. Ross weighed 138; Klick 134.

Heavyweight Champion Max Baer will box four exhibition rounds with Jimmy Maloney, retired heavy.

Hagen, Sarazen Head Golf Aces In Frisco Tournament

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23. (AP)—Led by such golfing notables as Gene Sarazen and Walter Hagen, some 150 of the country's outstanding shotmakers will tee off here tomorrow for the first half of 36-hole qualifying tests of the annual San Francisco match play open tournament.

Of the huge list of professional and amateur stars on hand only three are exempt from a tilt with par 72 of the tricky Presidio Club course. They are Lawson Little, British and American amateur champion; Olin Dutra, National open titleholder, and Paul Runyan, Professional Golfers' Association champion.

Tom Creavy, who won the San Francisco tournament last year, also qualifies automatically. He is not expected to play however.

Tomorrow's hundred low scorers will play another eighteen Friday for the 29 of 32 qualifying places open. Match play rounds of eighteen holes will start Saturday with 36-hole finals next Monday.

A good team of reindeer will keep up a speed of 10 to 12 miles an hour for a full day in the early winter if they are in good condition after summer pasturing.

County Cagers Continue Meet At Tech Court

Second Places In Rural Class To Be Determined Tonight; Lower Class B Teams Gather Here Friday And Saturday

The Lubbock county interscholastic basketball tournament will be continued here tonight, Friday and Saturday when entries in the lower Class B department gather at the Texas Tech gymnasium.

All except runner-up positions in the rural school tournament were established last week when the Union boys and the Hurlwood girls won top honors. Tonight's games will determine second place winners.

The boys teams of Woodrow and New Hope meet tonight at 9:30 o'clock, at the Tech gymnasium, to play for second place in the rural division. Preceding that, at 8:30 o'clock, the girls teams of Hardy and Woodrow will meet, with second place title at stake.

Start Again Friday

Beginning at 6 o'clock Friday evening, members of the lower Class B division will play first rounds. Grovesville will meet Estacado, defending champions, in the first boys game. The girls teams of Wolfforth and Carlisle will follow. Foster and Liberty boys meet at 8 o'clock, Foster and Estacado girls at 9 o'clock and Wolfforth and County Line boys at 10 o'clock.

The tournament continues at 8 o'clock Saturday morning when Monroe and McClung girls meet in the first game. Monroe and Canyon boys follow, and the Liberty and Canyon girls play at 10 o'clock. The final game on the Saturday morning program is between the County Line and Grovesville girls teams. McClung boys drew a first round bye.

Drawings will be made for second round games, since the bracket does not embrace an even number of entries.

Slaton vs. Idalou

If time and opportunity permit, the Class A championship of the county will be determined in games between Slaton and Idalou boys and girls teams. They are the only Class A teams of the county. Lubbock

Arkansas Has Rural Colony

Twenty Thousand-Acre Project Is Being Made Into Model Agricultural Center; New Families Moved In

BY W. HOWE SADLER

DYESS COLONY, Ark., Jan. 23 (AP)—A new type of pioneer has come to the virgin "black lands" of Arkansas.

On a 20,000-acre wilderness tract in this northeast corner of Arkansas the federal emergency relief administration has established its first complete agricultural colonization project. Its objective is to offer a new lease on life to hundreds of families chosen from the state's relief rolls because of their proved ability to adapt themselves to the soil.

Planned as a model center costing $2,000,000 around which an agricultural community of small-farm families will live in their own homes on their own land, the project already has been prepared for 175 families. When finished, there will be accommodations for 450 more.

Smith Family Arrives

The first group of 40 families has moved into the newly built houses, gleaming with fresh paint under red and green roofs. Behind the dwellings stand acres that must be cleared of timber, stumps and thickets.

Harvey Smith, with his family of six, was one of the first to arrive. He has been a cotton farmer since he became old enough to work in the fields. But when the lean years came, cotton no longer paid. Gradually he lost his possessions until "all I had left was a wife, five children and 17 chickens."

Placed on rented land by his county relief organization, Smith grew enough marketable foodstuffs to keep his family. More than that, he paid back all advances made to him, bought a mule and a cow. So he arrived at the colony with his livestock, 105 chickens, and enough canned vegetables and fruit and livestock forage to last through the winter.

Each farmer is clearing his land this winter. The FERA will assist him through the cold months with necessities. He will be given part-time employment on new work projects at the colony so as to earn some money to repay advances.

Cuttings And Seeds Treasured

At planting time he will put his cleared land into cultivation. From then on he will work out his own problems, with FERA assistance, so that he may eventually build up his farm, maintain his family and repay the government for the initial investment.

Cuttings, plants and seeds from the flowers of their old homes were cherished parts of every homesteader's truckload.

"Just come back here next year," said Mrs. R. E. Malin. "I'm going to get out here and have flowers all over the place."

Produces Lumber

Bought at an average of $2.50 an acre, the land obtained for the colonization project is alluvial, river bottom type, although well above overflow level.

Already it has produced 7,000,000 feet of lumber—cypress, oak and pine—all of which has gone into homes, barns, bridges and the temporary quarters where 1,500 relief workers are housed while working at preliminary improvements.

While the families moved here will represent only a small part of the 77,000 on Arkansas relief rolls, the colony is planned to form the basis for a far-reaching set-up for the rehabilitation of small-farm families, says W. R. Dyess, state relief administrator.

Supplementing this project, the government will rent land for temporary rehabilitation, enabling many more families to produce a marketable cash crop.

Each Unit Costs $1,500

The total cost of each family unit, including home, land, barn, electricity, running water, bath and kitchen furnishings, averages $1,500. Under the plan, the government's investment will be amortized on a long-term basis, with no interest payments.

The units are of three types—a three-room house with 25 acres of land, a four-room house with 30 acres of land and a five-room house with 40 acres.

The life of the colonists will revolve about the community center where the administration building, the school, church, infirmary, commissary and warehouses will be located.

$800,000 Spent So Far

Already more than 20 miles of road have been cut through the dense woodlands.

Social workers, a nurse and experienced agricultural agents will lend assistance in crop planning, household work and social welfare.

Thus far, $800,000 has been spent on the colony, Dyess reports.

Poverty Is Given Heavy Blow By Large Farm Colony Project In Arkansas

Pioneering days have come again to northeastern Arkansas where families selected from the state relief roll for their ability to adapt themselves to the soil are moving into Dyess Colony, a 20,000-acre agricultural community project started by the FERA. The family of Harvey Smith (left) were among the first groups to arrive. They moved into one of the trim white bungalows (lower right) designed to be an efficient farm residence. Above, right, logs are shown en route to the saw mill as the timber is changed to lumber and forest to fields

Corn-Hog Meet Set For Today

Regulations Of Reduction In 1935 To Be Subject Of 2:30 Session Called By Hettler At District Court Room

Corn-Hog committee members will meet this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the district court room at the court house to study the regulations of the 1935 corn-hog reduction program and to make plans for the signup. Call for the meeting was issued by the county committee, Franz Hettler, chairman; J. A. Russell, Union and E. F. Reese, Shallowater.

Members of the 1934 committee will serve temporarily in that capacity during the signup and until the contracts are signed and the control association is formally organized.

Every Producer Eligible

Every corn-hog producer in the county, whether he has a contract, if he produced hogs in 1932 and 1933 and is producing hogs at this time, is eligible to sign a contract for 1935.

There is some difference in the 1935 regulations, County Agent P. T. Montfort explained. Reduction this year will be 10 per cent below the 1932-33 production, compared to 25 per cent last year. Payment will be $15 per head this year, the same as last, but the total will be only two fifths of the total last year.

Corn payments will be 35 cents a bushel instead of 30 cents last year. Acreage reduction will be from 10 to 30 per cent of the base acreage.

No Water Needed For Sailboat As Boys Use Wheels

Necessity is the mother of invention, 'tis said. So when Richard Darby and Jim Bill Clark, Lubbock school boys, found no water in which to operate their sailboat they equipped the vessel with wheels.

Their prairie schooner travels on concrete highways and has attained a speed of 27 miles an hour.

Richard and Jim Bill had a sail boat that was being neglected for want of water to sail it on in this West Texas country. Not to be outdone by a mere lack of water, the boys took a bicycle, rigged their sail on an iron mast and supplied two hind wheels. On this new schooner passengers ride on a seat between the hind wheels.

Some bright, windy day when you think you see a sail boat putting out to sea in the midst of sand and tumble weeds— it won't be a mirage—it'll be Richard and Jim Bill encouraging their craft to beat its present record of 27 miles per hour.

Bottom Of Hole In Welmes Test 3,520 Feet On Tuesday

CLOVIS, N. M., Jan. 23. (Special) Bottom of the hole in the Claudell Development company's No. 1 Welmes, 45 miles southwest of here, was last reported as 3,520 feet on Tuesday.

Drillers expect to pick up the Glorieta sand at about 3,570 feet. Location is in Roosevelt county. Gas showings were found at 2,960 feet. The test is in the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section 3, township 3 north, range 30 east, Roosevelt county.

Former Minister Is Interred Here

Ashes of the Rev. Luther G. H. Williams 58, a native of Georgia who was former minister of St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal church here, were buried in Lubbock cemetery at 3 p. m. Wednesday. Rev. Lyle S. Barnett, rector of St. Paul's officiated.

The minister died Sunday night at his home, 2518 Twenty-third street, after an illness of two years. He had been ill critically since Jan. 16.

Jack M. Randal, a son-in-law, accompanied the body to San Antonio for cremation. He brought the ashes to Lubbock by train, arriving at 2:35 o'clock.

Rites for Rev. Mr. Williams were said at St. Mark's Protestant Episcopal church in San Antonio Tuesday by The Rt. Rev. Bishop W. T. Capers of the Protestant Episcopal church.

Survivors were the widow, two sons, Cleveland Williams of Seattle, Wash., and Luther Williams of Lubbock; three daughters, Mrs. Randal, Mrs. Eugene Wilson of Bay City, and Miss Margaret Hallam Williams of Greensboro, North Carolina, and three grandchildren, Cleveland Deane Williams of Seattle; Sarah Janin Wilson of Bay City, and Jack M. Randal, jr., of Lubbock.

Commissions Of Notaries Expire

Commissions of Texas notaries public will expire June 1, it was said yesterday at the office of County Clerk Ed D. Allen.

"Prior to adjournment of the regular session of the legislature, the present list of acting notaries public will be submitted for re-appointment, and that term of office, will begin June 1, will be for two years," it was explained.

"Those who are not notaries public now can have their names submitted for appointment at the current session of the legislature, but such appointment and term will expire June 1. By waiting until appointments are made later in the term of the legislature persons can receive appointment for two years."

Open Pension Debate Asked

Senator Borah Demands Full Consideration Of Townsend Plan As Committees Pursue Security Hearings

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23. (AP)—A demand for "full and open" debate on the Townsend old age pension plan came today from Senator Borah as congressional committees pushed ahead with hearings on the administration's social security program.

Without endorsing the Townsend plan, Borah said in a statement that its widespread support entitled it to open consideration rather than being pigeon-holed.

The Idaho Republican is a critic of the aid proposed by the Roosevent administration for the aged needy. He has called for liberalization of the measure.

On the other hand Secretary of Labor Perkins said the administration plan was "not a 100 per cent panacea" but a "sound basis" on which the government could build later "in the light of demand and experience."

Besides Borah, some other senate Republicans were preparing to open fire on the Rooseveit plan. Senator Hastings (R-Del) took a lead in this move with a statement today suggesting the Wagner-Lewis bill as now drafted might "fool" the country.

Saxophonist Is One Who Suffers

Two reed-instruments were too many for Edward Reed. He was a crackerjack clarinetist until he started playing a saxophone. Now he must leave both alone for three weeks.

Lubbock High school bandmaster, H. A. Anderson, needed more saxophone players. Reed is as good a reed player as there is in the band, so he decided to master another reed instrument.

He set his clarinet aside and began practicing diligently on the saxophone. He practiced so long and so hard his lip became paralyzed. Now his whole law is paralyzed?

Doctor's orders are not to toot any horn for three weeks, so Edward has had to cancel all engagements to play the clarinet.

Gouldy Reelected Board President

PLAINVIEW, Jan. 23. (Special)—William Jennings Bryan (Bill) Gouldy, young business man here, has been reelected president of the Plainview Board of City Development. Directors named recently met with holdover directors and selected officers for the year..

J. K. Crews banker and E. C. Krykendall, railroad general agent, were named first and second vice-presidents, respectivly.

Grady Shipp, secretary-manager for the past four years, was reelected, as were Miss Clara Kelley, assistant secretary, and Jack Skaggs, treasurer.

Merrill Funeral Conducted Today

Funeral of J. J. Merrill, 76, of Abernathy will be conducted at 2 p. m. today in the Methodist Episcopal church of Abernathy. Burial, directed by Rix-Bynum Funeral home, will be in Lubbock cemetery.

Mr. Merrill died at 2:30 a. m. Wednesday in a sanitarium here. Death was attributed to pneumonia and a subsequent lung infection. He was a brother of M. E. Merrill of Lubbock and the late S. R. Merrill of Abernathy. He was survived by two sons, I. V. and Virgil Merrill, 10 grandchildren, and 4 great grandchilden.

He's Off To A Good Start

IN canceling all so called 'special ranger commissions' in Texas, Governor James V. Allred is acting wisely and in keeping with a campaign promise to 'overhaul the ranger force'. There is no excuse for 'the great majority of special commissions and, if The Morning Avalanche remembers correctly, holders of at least three such commissions have figured in occurrences of violence within the past year—occurrences not even remotely connected with law enforcement.

Another place where Governor Allred has made a hit with us is in refusing to interfere with the execution of police killer La Roy Lane, which is scheduled for early tomorrow. In permitting the verdict of a jury to go undisturbed the young chief executive is giving Texas something different from that which they have had in quite a spell.

Law violation in Texas will show a sharp decline, we think, if an end is put to executive clemency of all kinds and if the law enforcement officials of the state are improved upon while the decks are swept clean of 'hangers-on' who have no business with special warrants.

As far as we are concerned, Governor Allred is off to a good start in an important phase of state government.

UP GOES PORK

By 1936 the humble pork chop may become a luxury. In fact, meat of all kinds will be in short supply. The prediction is on authority of the farm credit administration.

C. G. Randell, livestock specialist of the co-operative division of the administration, says that the number of hogs made into pork in 1935 will be the smallest in 50 years. All this comes about through a curious chain of causes.

The government began it when it got the notion that to promote the welfare of the farmers it was necessary to kill 6,000,000 pigs. These little porkers that normally would have become progenitors of the nation's pork supply for 1936, were made into welfare sustenance, fertilizer or waste, according to condition.

Then followed the drouth and feed shortage and farmers in large numbers went out of the hog-raising business. Apparently even government experts in agricutural economics had to learn that a shortage in domestic animals, whether naturally or arbitrarily created, can not be replaced with an abundance within a year.

SURPLUS BUT NO JOBS

It must have given the Republican National committee a great tingle when it reported to a Democratic House that it was out of the red, while the Democratic National committee admitted that it had a deficit of half a million.

To be sure, the Repubican surplus is not large—only a few dollars and some cents. But, then, in these days a surplus, particularly a political surplus, is a surplus and no matter how small it may be it is not to be sneezed at.

Still, the Democratic committee has an obvious comeback if the Repubicans get too snooty about the matter. It can say, and say truthfully, that a surplus is about all its political enemies can show as a result of the last two yaers of campaigning.

And what are surpluses in politics when compared with jobs?

WITH OUR CONTEMPORARIES

"Camp out when you're young," advises Willard Bright in the Gaines County News. "When you are older you may not get the chance, or like it when you do."

"Uncle Ananias says that one reason he works so hard to earn more money is that poor people have to be so good," Ye Wyze Guye says in the Slatonite.

"Hot dog! The editor received an invitation to the inaugural ball," E. I. Hill shouts in the Lynn County News. "We were unable to attend but we understand they got along all right anyway."

"Dealers in this city tell us that people here are not drinking half as much beer as last winter," A. J. Stricklin says in the Terry County Herald. "There is no way to account for this unless from the fact that beer was voted in and started selling in November 1933 but by this winter people have become used to it here and were not trying to drink the town dry."

Today's One-Minute Sermon

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

THE Wagner-Lewis bill providing old-age pensions and unemployment insurance is framed to cut deep into the roots of what once was defended on all sides as "state's rights." The federal government will have control of the funds and oversee state administration. Passage of the bill will virtually force all states to adopt accompanying legislation of their own.

Yet there is little or no outcry against it. Many congressmen think it does not go far enough and are demanding more generous treatment of the aged and jobless.

Economic views of members of both major political parties have changed vastly since the crash of '29. Social security is now regarded as an essential part of the recovery program. It is pointed out we actually are backward in not having adopted it before, as have most other major nations.

RETICENT: Politicians who would have shouted "violation of state's rights" at the Wagner-Lewis bill in days gone by would have been motivated by the same reason which lined them up consistently against a sales tax.

There are quite a few states in which a large section of the population never has paid direct taxes. A sales tax would have hit these poor people for the first time. Now the federal payroll tax will touch them—of course for their personal benefit.

Some of the old-timers who will vote "aye" on the final roll call aren't saying much at present. Senator Pat Harrison of Miss. before whose finance committee the bill is now being reviewed, dodged questions as to his personal views. He would say merely: "I presume the president's wishes will prevail."

LACKING: Senator Wagner made his original move in the direction of social security during the Hoover administration when he introduced a bill setting up a comprehensive national system of employment agencies. A big feature of the setup was that it would have made constantly available accurate statistics on the number of unemployed. Such figures are now needed in determining the necessary extent of federal aid but are now lacking.

Mr. Hoover weighed the Wagner measure for some time before finally turning a thumb on it and it never came to a vote. Curiously enough, back in the Harding administration, when Mr. Hoover was secretary of commerce and the nation was aghast at the idea of 3,000,000 unemployed, the former President was a member of a commision which studied the problem deeply and made recommendations roughly along the lines of the Wagner idea.

If that system of federal agencies were running today the task of inaugurating unemployment insurance and old-age pensions would be vastly simplified—so those confronted with the job say.

* * *

PEDESTAL: Letters continue to this desk chiding the writer for saying it would take a 42 per cent sales tax to finance the old-age pension plan of Dr. Frank E. Townsend on a basis of 1933 statistics. Many challenge the fairness of using 1933 as a basic year and request personal replies. Will those who asked the courtesy of an answer please accept the following:

It is true that 1933 was "no normal year of business," as quite a few dissenters wrote. Statistics for that year are the latest available.

Assuming that the prosperity of 1929 had returned—and it hardly has—Dr. Townsend would have a total of $123,000,000,000 in wholesale, retail and direct sales upon which to impose his 2 per cent sales tax, as against the 57 billion of 1933. And 2 per cent of 123 billion would only yield $2,460,000,000 per annum—about one-tenth of what would be needed to finance the Townsend plan.

Perhaps historians will one day place the good doctor on a pedestal as high as that now occupied by the Wright brothers—but not as a mathematician.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

THE President's social security plan went over remarkably well in New York. Most leaders here sincerely regard it as desirable in principle and sounder in its financial outlines than they had expected. They also rate it a timely and valuable offset to the mounting menace of the Townsend two-hundred-a-month idea. Of course there are some dissenters who bemoan "departure from American tradition" and woefully prophesy an intolerable burden on business—but they are definitely a minority.

Experts estimate that industry will have to contribute about $1,750,000,000 a year when the plan is fully effective. This figure is based on 5 1-2 per cent of an average annual payroll of 30 billion dollars—3 per cent for unemployment insurance and 2 1-2 per cent for old age benefits. It's a sum to be mentioned with respect but there's no reason to fear a business collapse in consequence. It would ultimately be paid either by consumers in higher prices or by stockholders in smaller profits. You don't have to be an oracle to predict which is more likely.

Applying this cost basis to U. S. Steel's payroll of $163,000,000 in 1933—it would be larger in normal times—you find that the company would have to shell out almost nine million dollars in premiums. This amounts to $1.03 a share—which isn't as bad as it sounds if business picks up.

GENEROUS: While it's generally conceded that the benefits of the present bill outweigh the cost, conservatives are a bit uneasy about the future. They suspect the principle now established will be invoked to support demands that Uncle Sam be much more lavish in his social donations.

This has not been true in European countries where various forms of social insurance have been operative for years—but there's no guarantee it won't happen here. Our government is historically more generous with public funds. Veterans' benefits illustrate the point. They have kept on rising for 30 years or more after every war in which we have participated. In England and France they reach their peak in six or seven years and then decline rapidly.

COUNSELORS: Utility opinion on the best way to cope with the New Deal's power policies is more divided than ever since Floyd Carlisle's overtures for peace were rebuffed by federal and municipal authorities. Some of the boys think Carlisle went as far as he reasonably could and argue that he should fight for public support on his present platform without further concessions. Others feel that he has made a bad situation worse by trying to bargain without proving good faith by specific moves toward rate reduction.

A high utility executive remarks off the record: "If Carlisle were really smart he'd make a cut right away—even if it meant a loss on the present volume of current sold. Chances are Con Gas would make it up in increased consumption before the stockholders even had time to worry and it would take all the wind out of LaGuardia's sails."

A keen observer comments that the utilities would probably stand a lot better with the public if they didn't use their lawyers as public relations counsellors. "They take legal advice on every statement they publish and every move they make. Those boys know their law but what they don't know about public reactions would fill a couple of dictionaries."

SHANGHAI

Probably no great city of the world has enjoyed a growth as phenomenal as that of Shanghai, China, which, in the short period of 90 years, has grown from a small town on the mud flats of the Whangpoo river to the fifth seaport of the world and the most important city of the Far East. It is the market place of more han 250,000,000 people of the Yangtze river basin, and today Shanghai's real estate values are second only to those of Manhattan Island in New York City—all because of the tiny portion of land set aside in 1843, known as the International Settlement, where foreigners live and trade free from the dangers of China's internal troubles.

This astounding growth, patterned after modern western cities, is reflected in Shanghai's metropolitan atmosphere of modern banks, theafres, social clubs, race courses and night clubs, but most of all in radio. There are more than 100 broadcasting stations in Shanghai while New York boasts of 20, and London has only two. This large number of broadcasting stations is due to the fact that there are no government restrictions on broadcasters and broadcasting in China. A great many of these broadcasters are free lance transmitters who constantly wander over the frequency band. As a result there is pandemonium on the Shanghai airwaves, all but half a dozen of the stations being Chinese.

I did not kill Osborne

By VICTOR BRIDGES

SYNOPSIS: The man who killed John Osborne, apparently, stole the formula for a new and valuable metal. Nicholas Trench, just acquitted of the murder, learns from Molly O'Brien, daughter of the inventor of the formula; that Osborne himself had stolen the formula from Molly's father. Molly also has saved Nicholas from two foreigners who had come to his studio demanding the ubiquitous formula by pretending to call the police. Nicholas and Molly are talking in the former's studio.

Chapter 12
THE SYNDICATE

I stared at the girl for a moment, without speaking. "To judge by appearances," I said finally, "it looks to me as if our friend Osborne had been chattering."

"He may have known Dimitri and he may have told him something. Perhaps they had arranged to work together, and then, at the last moment, when father died . . .?"

"That must be it," I cut in. "Osborne saw his chance and suddenly decided that if he were going to be a thief there was no point in sharing the plunder. I'm not surprised that the other lad was a trifle annoyed. He probably—by Jove! yes—now one comes to think of it that would explain everything!"

"How do you mean?"

"Put yourself in Osborne's place. Supposing you'd played a dirty trick on a man like Dimitri, and somehow or other you found out that he'd managed to get on your track. What would you do—what would anyone do?"

"Run away," she said.

"Exactly. And if somebody hadn't scattered Osborne's brains over the hearth-rug . . .?" I stopped. "But let's finish your story."

"There's not much more to tell. I'd already made up my mind that you were innocent, and I wasn't going to stop in there and see you tortured. I was waiting until Dimitri turned his back to me. Directly he did I meant to shoot him, and then I suddenly caught sight of the telephone by your bed, and that gave me the idea of pretending to ring up the police.

"I didn't even go near it as a matter of fact. I stopped just where I was, and if Dimitri had come upstairs as he wanted to, I should have fired at him as soon as he opened the door. With a man of his kind there was nothing else to do."

"I entirely agree with you," I said "but, taking it all round, perhaps we're better off as we are." I got up, and walking slowly across the room, stood for a moment looking down into the empty stove.

"I'm not much of a hand at thanking people," I began; "it always embarrasses me, but . . ."

"Please!" She rose too. "I don't want you to thank me. I only want you to believe that all I've told you is absolutely true. I know it sounds . . ."

"Of course I believe you," I in-

Lubbock Man Says Allred To Make A Great Governor

Editor, The Avalanche: I want to state to the people of Lubbock that we have a great man as governor and I know we are all glad to see this man where he is today. I have known him ever since he was two years old. My people moved from Washburn, Tex., to Sunset. His parents lived in Bowie. His father carried mail in Bowie for some 20 or 23 years. My opinion of this man is that he will make one of the greatest governors we have had in this state in the past 15 years.

John Garner Files Suit In Mortgage Foreclosure Case

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 23 (AP)—Mrs. Annie S. Cobb, Oklahoma City, today was served with notice of a mortgage foreclosure suit filed against her and several other defendants in Uvalde, Tex., by John Nance Garner, vice-president of the United States.

The suit asks a $15,810 money judgment against two lots in Uvalde, once owned by Mrs. Cobb's husband, E. L. Cobb. Mrs. Cobb is administratrix of his estate.

Armadillo Found And Captured By Lubbock Driver

An armadillo that wandered far afield from his native habitat up on top of the caprock, was captured Tuesday afternoon in Blanco canyon, south of Crosbyton, by W. Bogard, Lubbock man who was driving in the canyon.

The little animal was easily captured, although Mr. Bogard said he put up a fight.

Armadillos are not unknown in this section, although they are uncommon, Mr. Bogard said. The one he captured was the first one he had seen here. The captive had a tail about 15 to 18 inches long, with a body probably as long. He weighed about 15 pounds.

Mr. Bogard planned to present his captive to the Lubbock zoo.

BERLIN FAVORS DOGS

BERLIN. (AP) — In the German show rings and homes the dachshund remains first in favor. Of five major prizes awarded at the annual Berlin bench show, the underslung canines won three. The others went to a German shepherd and a German pointer.

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION, No. 28

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

"Too often already have you attempted to thwart the will of your queen," LA charged fiercely. "Know then, that she also holds power of life and death over you, Cadj, High Priest though you be, as well as the meanest slave of Opar. Our legends tell us that more than one High Priest has been offered upon the Flaming God's altar. Beware — lest you be added to that list!" Cadj sullenly sheathed his knife. But those who knew him best knew that he but waited for a propitious moment to have Tarzan's life blood.

Cadj had a strong following among the priests and people of Opar. LA had aroused their antagonism by her mad infatuation for the ape-man, years before. Furthermore, by their laws she had been compelled to mate with Cadj. But she made no effort to conceal her hatred and loathing for him. Cadj knew this, so it was not strange that he entertained treasonable thoughts toward his queen. Besides, there was another woman in the case. Oah, a lesser priestess, who aspired to the power and offices of LA.

If LA could be done away with, then Cadj had influence enough to have Oah made High Priestess. But as yet both were bound by the superstitious fear of their flaming deity. Because of this fact the life of LA was not in danger for the present. It would require, however, but the slightest spark to ignite the fire of treason dormant in the hearts of her enemies. So far she was well within her rights in forbidding the sacrifice of Tarzan by the High Priest. But her fate, her very life, she knew, depended upon her future treatment of the prisoner.

All this time Tarzan had shown no sign of life. Ignoring Cadj, LA now crossed to the ape-man's side and silently, for several minutes, looked down upon him. Who can say what were her thoughts? "If he still lives," she said at last, "construct a litter and bear him back to Opar." This the priests did, with enigmatic faces, laying their gigantic burden, still bound, on a litter which they made. Thus it was that once again came Tarzan of the Apes into the ancient city of the Atlantians. Come again a living sacrifice to be offered upon the golden altar of the Flaming Sun-god of Opar!

Japanese Wins

Indian stake hold and surfboard. Just as Watkins, who can take much sever punishment, cried out when that hold was fixed a week ago, so did La Belle give up the ghost last night.

Breaks Stake Hold

La Belle worked furiously and hard in the long first fall, and attached many good holds. Referee Pat Dowdy had to break most of them, because once he tied on, La Belle would wreck his chances with illegal eye gouges, biting or choking.

Three times La Belle came out of cradles with Indian death locks, but as many times the swift-moving Japanese came out with sudden movements that sent the big Frenchman sprawling ungracefully against the ropes.

It was apparent that Matsura, alert, fast and cunning, was master of the game all the way. He had to resort to open fighting in order to elude the Frenchman's choke holds, but he came out of these frequently with touches to the button.

Van Bebber Rougher

The fans were handed a slight surprise when Jack Van Bebber, once the local white-haired hope, former Olympic and national collegiate grappler and wrestling coach at Texas Tech, appeared on the program in a substitute role. Van Bebber, now making his home at Amarillo and long absent from the local arena, tied into "Lightning Rod" Fenton, one of Canada's title claimants, in the 30-minute semi-final.

Fenton and Van Bebber were still going at the bell, both pretty well tuckered out after a period of heavy going. Van Bebber showed more inclination toward roughing it with his opponent than he ever showed here, but Fenton could take it, and did, meanwhile dealing out misery in the form of drop kicks, hard body slams and strangle holds. They exchanged an assortment of holds, mostly illegal, and just before the bell were going pretty strong in butting and kicking tactics.

Brit Wins—Outside

O. H. Britain and Charles O'Sullivan battled to a 20-minute draw in the ring, but outside the enclosure the fight was continued. Britain, a former boxer, hung one on O'Sullivan that resulted in the latter's being carried to the dressing room for first aid treatment.

County Cagers

High school is not required to play in the county eliminations, but is automatically qualified to enter the district tournament.

The upper Class B division championship was settled last week in games between Shallowater and Ilecton teams, only entries in that division. Both Shallowater teams won, thereby qualifying for the final round in the county championship play on Friday and Saturday, February 1 and 2.

WALL STREET REPORT

BY FRANK MAC MILLEN
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 23. (AP) — Financial markets today mirrored the same quiet caution of traders and investors which has been in evidence in recent sessions.

Stocks were irregular during most of the trading period, with fractional losses predominating, although the electrical equipments and a few specialties made gains which shaded off from best levels toward the close.

Federal government bonds continued in good demand in the bond market, while corporate issues were irregular and neglected. Commodities showed little life. Wheat held about steady with gains of 3-8 to 5-8 of a cent a bushel and cotton was ten to 25 cents a bale better. Corn slipped 1-2 to 1 5-8 of a cent lower.

The new wave of gold imports still fails to buoy the gold bloc monies in the exchange market.

General electric appeared on the stock tape with considerable regularity at rising prices, but a little of the early firmness was lost at the close. The final value was 24 1-4, up 3-4.

Westinghouse Electric likewise found a few friends. American Can, Allied Chemical and Radio Preferred B in early dealings lifted a point or so each, but closed only fractionally better.

An encouraging note in the weekly review of the steel trade by "Iron Age" which estimated production at 51.5 per cent of capacity compared with 49 per cent in the previous week, found no reflection in better demand for shares of the producers. U. S. Steel common at 37 3-8, Bethlehem Steel at 31 1-4, and National at 49 5-8 gave up minor fractions.

A reduction in the dividend of United Gas Improvement to 25 cents quarterly from 30 cents previously paid came after the close.

Market turnover continued restricted at 619,850 shares while the Associated Press average for 60 stocks declined .12 of a point at 38.32.

Grains

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Jan. 23. (AP)—Stop loss selling developed in the corn market late today, and led to price setbacks not only for corn but wheat and oats as well.

Selling of corn apparently resulted from disappointment of future delivery holders that feeder demand failed to increase despite severe cold weather over the corn belt. Relative firmness of wheat at the last was because of buying on belief that the new domestic winter wheat crop had deteriorated owing to frigid temperatures.

Corn closed weak at the day's bottom level, 1 1-2 to 1 5-8 cents lower compared with yesterday's finish, May 84 1-2@84 5-8, wheat 3-8 off to 5-8 up, May 96 7-8@97, oats 1-8 to 3-8 down, and provisions varying from 17 cents decline to a rise of 9 cents.

Eastern sources were credited with most of the selling. Corn market weakness was more or less associated with a break of 15 to 25 cents in hog prices.

Provisions averaged lower.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Jan. 23. (AP) — Demand was slow for grain at Fort Worth Wednesday. Estimated receipts were only 13 cars of wheat and 29 cars corn. Prices quoted by the grain and cotton exchange, ranged as follows:

Delivered Texas gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points: Wheat Number 1 hard 1.17 1-2@1.19 1-2. Barley Number 2 nominally 93@97; Number 3 nominally 92@96. Sorghums Number 2 milo per 100 pounds nominally 2.10@2.15; Number 3 nominally 2.08@2.13. Number 2 kafir nominally 2.00@2.05; Number 3 kafir nominally 1.98@2.03.

Delivered Texas common points or Group three: Corn Number 2 white Mexican 1.05 1-2@1.06 1-2; Number 3 white northern 1.15@1.17. Number 2 yellow 1.10@1.11. Oats Number 2 red 63@64; Number 3 red 62@63.

David Bruce of New York in 1838 invented the type-casting machine which has revolutionized the art of type founding.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 23. (AP)—The cotton market was rather quiet today as traders continued uneasy over the anticipated decision of the supreme court in the gold case. After opening 1 to 3 points down on unfavorable cables the market rallied gradually on a bullish construction of the total ginning to Jan. 1 and swing to firmer stocks, gaining 8 to 10 points from the lows. There was a reaction of 1 to 2 points at the end on realizing and the market closed steady with prices showing net gains for the day of 4 to 6 points.

The opening was easier in sympathy with lower Liverpool cables than due and some selling orders in evidence at the start.

March finally traded up to 12.50. May to 12.57, July to 12.56, and Oct to 12.30. December sold at 12.57 right at the end. There was a slight reaction of 1 to 2 points at the end on realizing. March closed at 12.49, up 9 points net for the day. May at 12.55, and July at 12.57, up 6 points net and Dec. at 12.57, up 8 points.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 23. (AP)—Slight early declines were followed by moderate rallies in cotton today on trade buying and covering prompted by smaller crop figures from India and reports of comparatively smaller offerings. May contracts after selling off to 12.47 at the start, advanced to 12.57 and closed at 12.54, with the general market steady at net advances of 2 to 5 points.

Early offerings were absorbed by the trade and the market held fairly steady after the call. Prices held within a narrow range during the morning, but buying became more active in the afternoon, and the best levels of the day were reached in the late trading. March sold up to 12.52 and July to 12.57 with active months generally showing net gains of 4 to 7 points. Closing quotations were within 2 or 3 points of the best for the day on most positions.

A report from Washington said Senator Bankhead had introduced a bill repealing that section of the act under which the cotton pool is held, which requires disposition of the cotton by March, 1936.

Exports today 2,858, making 2,865,280 so far this season. Port receipts 5,984. U. S. port stocks 2,927,212.

Local Markets

The prices are furnished by the following Lubbock firms: Poultry Lubbock Poultry and Egg company, delivered Lubbock; Grain, Chas. Cobb Grain and Seed company following prices being bid by Lubbock grain dealers; Cotton, Plains Cotton company. All prices subject to change during day.

one piece. They have been cut in two."

With a calmness surpassing that of the handwriting experts who named Hauptmann as the author of the ransom letters, Koehler, a middle-aged man of average stature, bald, and mild of manner, demonstrated the experiments which led him to the conclusion that Hauptmann's tools built the ladder with Hauptmann's wood.

Lumber Is Traced

He recited his painstaking tracing of the ladder lumber from a South Carolina mill to a Bronx lumber yard and thence to Hauptmann's garage.

He demonstrated the use of Hauptmann's woodplane, revealing the similarity of its knife marks to the marks on the ladder.

He recounted how he had matched nail marks in an upright of the ladder with the nail marks in two beams in Hauptmann's attic, using enlarged photographs to make his statements more vivid.

Chisel Apparently Same

He testified, too, that a wood chisel, found on the Lindbergh estate near the ladder on the night of March 1, 1932, of the same size and make as one missing from Hauptmann's tool chest, had been used in cutting out the recesses for the ladder rungs.

He told how a saw and the wood clamps in Hauptmann's kit were similar to those used in constructing the ladder.

Board From Attic

Through three earlier witnesses, Detective Lewis J. Bornmann, of the New Jersey state police, and two New York police department carpenters, Charles F. W. Enkler and Anselm Cramer, the prosecution had established not only that a board was missing from the attic, but that the attic itself could be reached without difficulty only through Hauptmann's apartment after taking down the shelves of a linen closet.

KANSAS CITY REPORT

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 23. (AP)—Receipts of 34,000 cattle at 11 markets were 3,000 under last Wednesday's total and compare with 45,379 the same day a year ago. Slaughter steers and yearlings sold unevenly at the various markets. The better grades generally were unchanged from Tuesday's level except at Kansas City where good and choice kinds predominated and show a loss. Steers and yearlings selling at 8.00 and below at Chicago brought yesterday's prices but inbetween grades at that market and lower grades at other points cleared at weak to 25 lower rates. She stock moved at steady to strong prices with instances slightly higher on beef cows. Country demand for stockers and feeders has narrowed somewhat. Today's sales from first hand were slow and weak. Yesterday's top of 13.00 was equaled with several loads 12.50@12.75.

At Kansas City two loads of fleshy light weight feeders made 8.50.

The hog run of 82,000 was 23,000 more than last Wednesday's receipts and compares with 128,000 a year ago. Adequate supplies and narrow outside demand sent prices down 10 to 25 below Tuesday's quotations. The high mark around the circuit was 7.90 paid at Chicago.

Fat lambs decline 25 to 50 around the river while at Chicago the bulk were unsold at 1:00 p. m. carrying 25 lower bids. Sheep and feeding lambs were reported in limited numbers with a few sales firm. Better natives and fed wool lambs at St. Louis bulk at 8.75@9.00 to packers and 9.25@9.50 to city butchers with the same top of 9.75.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Jan. 23. (AP)—Hogs 1,400 including 500 directs; truck hogs mostly 10c lower; one load mixed grade rail hogs unsold late; top 7.90 paid by packers for most of the good to choice 185-280 lb. truck lots; good underweights averaging 150-180 lbs. 6.25@7.80; medium to good butchers that are expected to kill out soft and oily mostly 4.00@5.25; packing sows steady to 25c higher, mostly 7.00, few 7.25.

Cattle 1,300 commercial, 60 government; calves 1,000 commercial, no government; strong and active trade in all classes slaughter cattle shown; weighty steers lacking; several sales good fed yearlings 8.00@8.50 including heavy yearlings up to latter price; some fairly good light weight steers on 2-year-old order 7.50; odd head fat cows up to 4.75; butcher grades around 2.50@3.25; slaughter calves very active, unevenly 25c or more higher numerous car lots good heavies 5.75@6.00; plain weighty averages around 5.25 down with four loads at 5.35, odd head vealers up to 6.00.

Sheep 800; lambs and ewes steady; yearlings and wethers scarce; medium to good fat lambs 7.00@8.00; good aged fat ewes 5.00; fed lambs mostly 5.00@6.00.

LOS ANGELES REPORT

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23. (AP)—Hogs 178, holdovers 197, about steady; load light Utah butchers 8.25; heavier weights quotable around 8.50; locals 7.00@7.60; 160 lb. pigs 7.00; few packing sows 6.00@7.00.

Cattle 1,000 steady; few lots steers 7.00@8.00; strictly good quotable to 8.75 or above; few mixed yearlings 6.50; stock steers 4.50@5.50; few heifers 6.50; cows 4.50@5.50; odd head 6.00; strictly good quotable to 6.50; cutter grades 2.50@4.25; bulls to 5.25.

Would Trim Authority

Proposed authority of the president to abolish, consolidate or otherwise revamp any governmental agency, would be restricted to "emergency governmental agency."

Authority of the president to postpone until June 30, 1937, the termination of any governmental agency (including PWA which expires June 16, 1935) would be eliminated.

Charges Resound

The penalty provision for violation of rules and degulations issued by the president would be restricted to "wilful" violation. And the penalty provision of two years imprisonment would be dropped, but the $5,000 fine retained.

Republican charges rang through the chamber that bill gave President Roosevelt "the power of Hitler and Mussolini" and meant "regimentation of workers and socialization of industry."

Measure Defended

Democratic leaders defended the measure claiming it would end the dole and save the federal government billions in relief funds.

Democratic insurgents, who forced the liberalized rule, which allows amendments to be offered to three important sections but preserves intact the $4,880,000,000 lump-sum for the president withheld their fire for the fight tomorrow.

from the East.

Their coming heralded in recent announcement from Hsinking, capital of the Japanese-created empire of Manchouquo, that Chinese forces must evacuate Jehol, an estimated 2,000 Japanese and Manchoukuan troops swept across the border Tuesday, the reports said.

Hit At Border Cities

Simultaneously they smashed at the three border cities, an artillery barrage preceding the onslaught of the score of armored cars and the wave of infantry that followed.

At nightfall, the Kalgan advices said, the attackers withdrew. Wednesday, however, eight Japanese airplanes took up where they left off, raining bomb into the border cities and smaller villages in the vicinity. A short time later the airplanes withdrew, but the attack was reported to have been resumed at 4 p. m. today.

A cryptic message that said "Japanese troops are arriving in Kuyuan" was taken to indicate the possibility that that city had fallen to the reported invaders.

more than 11 inches of snow. Air traffic south and west from the nation's metropolis was suspended.

Families Driven Away

The Coldwater river—described as eight miles wide in places — sent hundreds of north Mississippi families to housetops, box cars and railroad dumps in sub-freezing weather. Hundreds of other refugees in northwest Mississippi and West Tennessee sought safety. Fears of drownings and death from exposure were rife. Boats, hampered by ice, went to the rescue. The Red Cross provided succor.

The Pacific northwest, already raked by 60-mile gales, prepared for a new blow. Floods, record rainfalls, blocked roads caused untold damage and marooned many persons. The Chehalis and Nooksack rivers in western Washington surged out of their banks and drove scores to higher ground. Transcontinental rail traffic through the Cascades was cut off or reduced to a snail's pace. One line reported four feet of water on its rails. Two railroads halted service. Communities in Grays Harbor county and British Columbia were isolated.

Slightly Warmer Weather Expected

(By The Associated Press)

Promised renewal of severe weather in Texas failed to materialize Wednesday when only the tip of a predicted cold wave hit the state, and the general forecast was for rising temperature Thursday.

The U. S. weather bureau said the cold wave turned to the East but that its breath caused a slight drop in temperature late Wednesday after the first part of the day had brought relief from the severe colds that had gripped Texas since Sunday.

The Thursday forecast called for partly cloudy and slightly warmer weather in East Texas and cloudy and warmer in West Texas.

Another death attributed to this week's cold spell was reported Wednesday when the body of Golden Carter, 24, negro, was found in a vacant house at Longview, bringing the total to 11.

Abilene reported that a special forecast predicted another cold wave for that section. Amarillo's forecast was for fair and warmer weather.

Temperature was dropping in the face of a hard wind at San Angelo.

Lubbock's low temperature of 23 Wednesday morning returned to below that reading at night after a climb to 40 during the day.

Mercury Drops Below 20 Degrees Wednesday

Although warmer weather was forecast for today, the mercury had dropped below 20 degrees at Municipal airport at 11 o'clock last night. The reading was 19.5 degrees, W. C. Breedlove said.

The experiment station yesterday reported a minimum temperature of 23 degrees, and a maximum of 40 degrees.

A light wind from the east was blowing and skies were overcast.

His action was in conformity with the policy of Governor Allred to prevent promiscuous issuance of special Ranger commissions. Special Rangers were authorized to carry arms and had the same power as a regular Ranger.

"The governor and I have not gone into the matter of issuing new special Ranger commissions," Nesbitt said. "The cancellation was to clear the decks."

Ben Woodward of Lubbock escaped injury when a truck loaded with fruit was struck by a Santa Fe railway train at a crossing on state highway 24 about 1 1-2 miles west of here Wednesday morning. Woodward, driver of the machine, was temporarily irrational, a filling station operator near there said. The truck was reported to have been carried about 75 yards and fruit strewn about the scene of the crash, the second train-truck mishap in the vicinity in less than a week. It was mixed train No. 79, on the Bledsoe division of the Santa Fe, said R. F. Bayless, agent.

Baby Farm Investigation Is Ordered For Beaulah, Mich.

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 23 (AP)—An investigation was ordered today of an institution at Beaulah, Mich., described by Attorney General Harry S. Toy as a "baby farm," where at least 25 babies died, including one born to Evelyn Frechette, once the sweetheart of the late John Dillinger.

Edward L. Brooks, sr., proprietor of the institution, readily admitted today that he had attended the Frechette girl. However, he insisted it was "several years ago and only after a government agent brought her to my establishment in Chicago and asked me to do it."

Governor Not To Interfere In Doomed Man's Execution

HUNTSVILLE, Jan. 3. (AP) —La Roy Lane, doomed to die early Friday for the murder of a Dallas deputy sheriff in September, sullenly received the news on death row tonight that Governor James V. Allred would not interefere with his execution.

A month ago, when Lane first came to death row here to await execution, he jubilantly told fellow inmates that he hoped for a commutation of his sentence. In anticipation of the commutation, authorities said, Lane withdrew his appeal from the trial court sentence.

Proposal To Tax State And Federal Bonds Is Supported

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP) — Members of both parties in both houses of Congress today were backing a proposal to make federal and state bonds subject to taxation.

The supporters drew encouragement from word that in an executive session of the house ways and means committee yesterday, Secretary Morgenthau had made it clear the treasury supports the move. It never has been fomally requested of Congress, however, by President Roosevelt.

Code Writing Crux Of Probe

Chairman Connery Preparing Bill Allowing Labor Equal Representation On All Code Writing Authorities

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23. (AP)—While the Roosevelt administration debated what to do about NRA, a move started in Congress today for an investigation into blue eagle code writing.

Chairman Connery (D-Mass) of the house labor committee said he was preparing a bill for equal representation of labor on all code authorities. He said the measure automatically would be referred to his committee and then it could investigate the whole subject.

Richberg To Be Called

Donald R. Richberg, head of the executive council who was NRA counsel during most of the code writing, probably will be the first official called, Connery said.

"We will find that the manufacturers have been writing the codes," the chairman declared. "We will find that labor has been getting rimmed. We want to know why, and once we get this measure introduced we can find out all about it."

The American Federation of Labor has been urging equal representation with employers on the code governing groups.

The Roosevelt administration's exact plans for NRA's future remained undisclosed today. The president's advisers on business and lobar problems conferred with him several hours last night but had nothing to say afterward.

Apparently the only thing certain is that NRA is to be continued on some basis, and that it will provide for collective bargaining, ban child labor, and preserve rules for minimum wages and maximum hours.

Friendship School To Be Conducted

A school of world friendship emphasizing missionary education will be conducted at the First Christian church six consecutive Sunday evenings from Feb. 24 through March 31, Rev. W. R. Vivrett, the pastor, announced at a mid-week meeting last night.

The school will supplant the regular evening worship during that period. Each session will be divided into three periods, devotional from 6:30 to 6:45 o'clock, study from 6:45 to 7:30, and an illustrated lecture on a phase of missionary work by Rev. Mr. Vivrett from 7:30 to 8:15.

A series of talks before each department of the church will be made beginning Feb. 3 and that promotional work will close with a dinner for the church membership Feb. 22.

Courses of study for the six-week period will be announced later. Classes will be conducted for each age-group in the church.

I did not kill Osborne

terrupted. "It's much too impossible a yarn for anyone to invent, and, besides, a girl like you doesn't tell lies." I began to laugh quietly. "I'm thinking of Jerry," I explained. "He'll be absolutely all over this."

She looked a trifle bewildered. "Who's Jerry?" she asked.

"Oh, I forgot you didn't know him." I came back to where she was standing. "Jerry's a rather particular pal of mine. His full and proper name's Sir Jerrold Mordaunt — we were up at Cambridge together — the same time that Osborne was there. I got a wire from him this evening to say that he'd just arrived back in England and that he'd be round here first thing tomorrow."

"But" — she hesitated—"do you propose to tell him about—about tonight?"

"Why not?" I demanded. "He'll jump at the chance of coming in with us. He's always on the lookout for some fresh excitement—this will be a lot more amusing than potting snipe on a Dalmatian island."

"Then you do mean to help me?"

"Of course. Why, hang it all, we must work together. We're practically in the same boat. You want to find the man who's got your formula and I want to find the man who killed Osborne. Then there's the question of common or garden gratitude. After what you've done for me I couldn't possibly let you down. Besides, though I'm not quite so passionately fond of trouble as Jerry, a job of this sort does rather appeal to my boyish fancy."

With a faint sigh my visitor sank down again in her chair. "I thought I was right," she murmured contentedly.

"We'll make a kind of triple alliance of it," I went on, "like the three musketeers—you and I and Jerry. We can call ourselves the A. D. Syndicate; that will do either for Anti-Dimitri or Assassination Detectives."

She laughed softly. "There's one thing I absolutely insist on. You've seen the sort of people we've got to deal with and I'm not going to let you run all this risk and danger for nothing. If we do get the formula you and your friend will each have to have a share in it."

"Oh, that's nonsense," I protested. "Jerry's disgustingly rich already: it would be positively indecent to offer him any more."

"And you?"

"Money means nothing to a sculptor," I explained. "He lives entirely on the joy of his art."

Her lips set in a mutinous line. "In that case I shan't have anything more to do with either of you."

"Well, of course, if you're going to be obstinate . . ." I paused. "Look here, let's meet each other halfway. If we get this bit of paper back for you, and it turns out to be as valuable as you think, you shall contribute towards the expenses of my trip and buy Jerry a new car. How does that appeal to you?"

She shook her head. "I think it's very unfair. All the same, it's no use arguing about it now."

"Profoundly true," I agreed. "The first thing we've got to decide is what we're going to do next. It's not unlikely that by this time Mr. Dimitri and his whiskered pal have tumbled to your bluff. If they're watching the studio and they don't see any police turn up . . ."

"You think—you think they might come back?"

"I wouldn't put it beyond them. Persistent-looking gent, that blighter Stellman. I wonder what his real name is."

"He sounded to me as if he was a Russian or a Pole. I've met Russians in America who spoke very like that."

"Well, he's a nasty bit of work anyhow," I observed. "I should hate him to find out that it was you who had messed up his arrangements."

"He is bound to guess that," she said calmly. "We can't work together without the other side knowing it."

"No," I admitted. "I suppose not, but it's your going back all alone to that empty studio that I don't like. If they should take it into their heads . . ." I pulled up short as a brilliant inspiration suddenly struck me. "If it comes to that," I continued, "why on earth need you go back? Why not stop here until it's daylight?"

"Here!" She gave an almost imperceptible start.

"Yes, why not? It would be madness to risk more trouble just for the sake of a mere silly convention. Besides, as far as that goes, it's all perfectly proper and respectable. You can sleep in my bedroom and I'll curl up on the sofa. Even Mrs. Grundy herself . . ."

"Oh, I'm not stupid about that sort of thing. I wouldn't mind staying here; in fact, I should feel a lot less frightened if I did; what worries me is the idea of turning you out of your own room. Why shouldn't I have the sofa? I am sure you must want a good night's sleep after what you've been through today."

"I shall sleep considerably better," I said, "if I know that you're safely locked in there. As for my being comfortable—well, you needn't bother about that. Compared with a prison bed it will be absolute luxury."

Her blue eyes scanned my face. "It's queer how different people are," she said slowly. "I wonder why God makes some of them like you and others like Osborne and Dimitri."

I bowed. "It's a question," I said, "that has been much debated. And talking of Dimitri," I went on, "how do you feel about lending me that revolver of yours for the night? No one can disturb you unless they come through the studio first."

"Of course you must have it."

She handed it to me without hesitation, and slipping it into my pocket I glanced at my watch. "Close on half past ten," I observed. "Would you like to turn in now, or . . ."

"Yes, I think perhaps it would be best." She rose from her chair. "I don't feel up to much more tonight and we shall have lots of time for talking in the morning."

Chinese Teacher To Visit Lubbock

W. Y. Yang of China will address agricultural students at Texas Technological college while he is in Lubbock Feb. 1 or 2. While he is here, Mr. Yang will visit parents of a former Texas Tech student, Ogden King.

Ogden King, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. King, 2119 Seventh street, is an instructor in the University of Nanking. In correspondence to the college, he said Mr. Yang will come to the United States to do graduate work at Cornell university in agricultural economics. He is interested in the cotton industry and American agriculture and Mr. King arranged for him a travel schedule through southern agricultural states. A visit in Lubbock was included in the schedule.

Ogden King graduated from Tech in 1929, did graduate work at Cornell university, has partly completed work on his doctor's degree at the University of California, and went to Nanking last September to begin teaching there.

Irrigation Meets At Plainview Set

PLAINVIEW, Jan. 23. (Special)—Plainview is sponsoring an irrigation congress and school of information here Monday and Tuesday, Jan 28-29.

The purpose of this school is to gather general and definite information on the digging and equipping of wells, different types of power, etc. which will be covered by outstanding authorities on this subject Monday, among them being such men as D. L. McDonald, Amarillo, "Water Geology of the Plains;" "Our Water Supply," Capt. Winfield Holbrook, Plainview; Report of irrigation data gathered by Hale county irrigation committee by C. M. Smith, Chairman; Eugene Buie, Prof. of farm engineering, Texas Technological college, Lubbock; and Tuesday, "Methods of Irrigation." Joe Jennings, Manager, Lockview farms, Plainview; "Crops," Don Jones, Superintendent, experiment station, Lubbock; "Records," A. C. McGee, farm Manager, experiment station.

On Tuesday men in the shallow water belt will discuss different types of crops and methods of irrigating same. Authentic statements will be presented that will be of vital interest to those engaged in irrigation and those contemplating putting down wells.

A cordial invitation is extended by the irrigation committee of the Plainview Board of City Development to every interested citizen to attend both days of this school.

Meetings will be held in the City auditorium in Plainview.

Experiment With Plant Is Made By Student Of Tech

An experimentation in propagation, by cutting, of a species of Celastrus, a Chinese plant which has proved hardy in West Texas, is being made by William J. Burck, a freshman agricultural student at Texas Technological college.

The plant was sent to the college from Washington, D. C., by a government plant division. Burck uses different treatments to root the plant in sand, peat, moss and other media.
