Attempt To Land Convention Here

Concerted Effort Is Being Made For 1930 National Session Of Postal Supervisors Association

A concerted effort is being made by interested parties in Lubbock to land the 1930 convention of the Texas State Association of the National Association of Postal Supervisors, according to an announcement yesterday.

Jno. R. Green, local superintendent of mails, and second vice-president of the state association, yesterday mailed out letters to all officers and directors of the organization urging that they vote with him to bring the state meeting to Lubbock this summer at the same time the conventions of the Texas Rural Letter Carriers association and the Texas branch of the National Association of Post Office clerks meet here. These gatherings are expected to be held some time in July.

The national meeting of the organization is to be held in Dallas and the officers have been asked to have the state meeting there also the day before the larger group gathers.

The local chamber of commerce is also sending out letters to the officers and directors of the association asking that they hold the meeting in Lubbock if they think that it will be to their best advantage to do so.

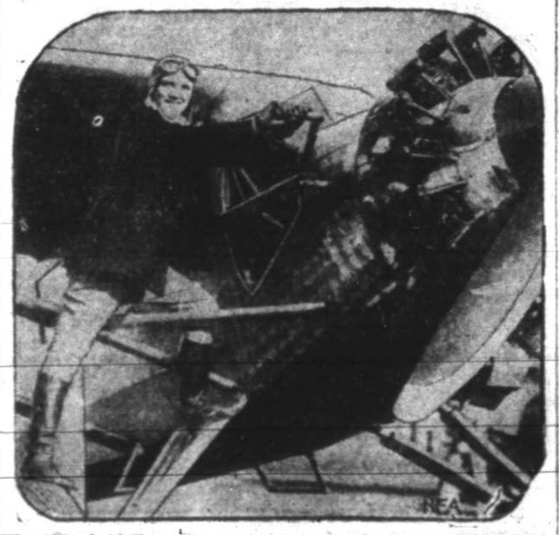

HELD RESPONSIBLE

Firms Blamed For Cotton Depression By Probers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP) — Testimony that dominance of the markets by Anderson, Clayton and Company, and three other allied firms was responsible, along with hand-to-mouth buying, for the present depressed price of cotton was heard today by senate agriculture sub-committee investigating cotton exchanges.

Taking the stand late in the day, Arthur Marsh, former president of the New York exchanges, maintained emphatically that the Houston, Texas, firm, whose name has figured prominently in this and previous investigations, was the leader in an effort to keep the price down. W. L. Clayton, member of the Texas firm, had denied the charge in previous testimony.

Selection Of Headquarters And Election Of Officers Faced By Group; Legge Is Pleased With Start

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—With $800,000 of the $30,000,000 authorized capital stock subscribed within a few hours after incorporation at Wilmington, Delaware, the American Cotton Cooperative association got away today to what Chairman Legge of federal farm board declared to be the "finest start" made by any of the national commodity marketing associations.

Selection of a headquarters city and election of officers still troubled the national organization committee, which automatically became the cotton corporation's first board of directors. Frank Buford, attorney, said it had laid the question of selecting officials aside until tomorrow. He declined to say whether the knotty problem that has hung fire since last Friday would be sent to the farm board for solution.

Senator Smith of South Carolina was a caller today, but whether he came in connection with his previous plea for Spartanburg was not revealed.

Chairman Legge expressed gratification for the harmony with which state and regional cotton cooperatives were coming into the new association.

Members Ask Letters Withdrawn From Church Rolls

WITH formal announcement Sunday night by Rev. S. H. Erwin of his resignation as pastor of the local Nazarene church, two members of the official board tendered resignations and several members of the church asked that their letters be withdrawn from the rolls according to a statement last night by Rev. H. C. Cagle, superintendent of the Abilene district.

The Rev. Cagle, while reluctant to announce the resignations and withdrawals, admitted that such had been the case following a several days controversy, during which time dissension has been in evidence and which resulted in Rev Erwin's resignation.

Salary Paid In Full

Rev. Erwin yesterday afternoon stated that his resignation had been tendered after the church board had paid his salary in full and also the amount of a note at the Citizens National bank of $352.50, which he stated he paid for the church on December 16.

"I was recalled to the local church in July of last year," said Rev. Erwin, "having received only nine dissenting votes from the membership. There was some dissension among the members who desired a pastor who would serve the church for a smaller salary.

"Desiring to see success for the church and wishing to carry out the building program inaugurated.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—A great gale raging over England last night and today and then sweeping on to Northern Europe caused the death of 42 persons in England, on the Continent, and at sea. This list of kown dead is supplemented by a longer one of those suffering from injuries.

Harlingen Man Killed In Liquor Loaded Truck; His Companion Makes Escape In Dense Brush

(By Associated Press)

BROWNSVILLE, Jan. 13.—Juan Gomez, Harlingen, riding in a truck loaded with liquor, was fatally shot and his companion, driver of the truck, escaped into the dense brush south of Los Indios today when they failed to halt at the command of customs inspectors.

Four officers were guarding the river road when they heard the truck approaching it. A stop sign was stretched across the road.

Runs Through Fence

Just before reaching the sign, the truck swerved and ran through a fence to the left of the road. Shots were exchanged and Gomez rolled from the driver's seat with bullet wounds in the neck and chest.

Leaping from the truck, the driver raced for cover, firing his rifle as he ran.

Later as one of the inspectors in the officers' party was en route to town to call a coroner, he was fired upon from the brush. Additional officers were called and the brush was searched, but no sign of the man was found.

In dead man's pistol two snapped shells were found.

Drastic Changes In Machinery Of Pro Laws Sought

Hoover Calls On Congress To Reconstruct Means Of Coping With Difficulties Of 18th Amendment

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.— President Hoover called upon congress today to reconstruct the prohibition enforcement machinery as a means of coping with difficulties encountered by the Eighteenth amendment, which was put into effect 10 years ago this month.

He sent to the senate and house the first conclusions returned by his law enforcement commission and backed these up with similar reports from Attorney General Mitchell and Secretary Mellon, the two cabinet officers most directly concerned with enforcement.

Speculation Created.

Stipulating that its preliminary recommendations were made "without prejudice to any ultimate conclusions," the commission created greater speculation than ever as to its precise attitude toward the Volstead act.

Hardly had the documents been read before wet and dry leaders expressed conflicting views. The outlook tonight was for a prolonged continuance of the dispute over prohibition which has racked congress since the dry laws first were proposed and which again reached the acute stage in recent weeks.

Most drastic of the changes proposed were:

Transfer of the prohibition enforcement unit from the treasury to the justice department.

Creations of a unified border patrol to operate as a part of the coast guard.

Prohibition against the entry of all persons into the United States except at points of entry designated by the president.

Health Officials Requested To Aid In Parrot Malady

Federal Authorities Report Thirty-Four Cases And Three Deaths As Direct Result Of Psittacosis

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. —Surgeon General Cumming of the public health service tonight telegraphed health officials in nine states asking for cooperation in a nation-wide investigation of serious illness attributed to "parrot fever" or psittacosis.

Federal authorities said unofficial reports today showed 34 cases of the malady in addition to three deaths already recorded.

Disease Explained

To answer numerous inquiries, Dr. Cumming issued a statement explaining briefly that the disease is "an acute, often fatal disease of parrots usually occuring in newly acquired birds, but rarely transmitted from man to man."

After conferring with assistant surgeons general, Dr. Cumming said he believed the situation warranted "serious attention." He placed Dr. Charles Armstrong, veteran epidemiologist in charge of a field investigation of cases and suspected cases of the fever, ordering him to follow the trail of infected parrots and human sickness from state to state to make first hand observations.

Dr. Cumming ordered the research and domestic quarantine divisions to join forces in "determining the channels through which the disease has spread and is spreading and the means of controlling it."

Thousands Dying Daily From Famine, Exposure In China; Two Million Doomed Within Few Months

By JAMES P. HOWE,
Associated Press Correspondent

PEIPING, China, Jan. 13. (AP) —The China international famine relief is confronting the most hopeless situation it has ever faced in famine-ridden China in the northern province of Shensi, where thousands of persons are dying daily from famine and exposure.

Grover Clark, a former Peiping newspaper editor, returning from a six weeks inspection trip in the Wei river district, said today that 2,000,000 persons were doomed to die within a few months. He asserted that after investigating whether the famine relief could be of aid, he had absolutely no hope of saving them.

Thousands Frozen

He estimates that 2,000,000 persons out of 6,000,000 in the area, which extends on both sides of the Wei river, died during the past eight months. Thousands were frozen to death during the recent cold wave, when with the thermometer at 32 below, Shensi providence suffered the coldest weather recorded in its history. The people, accustomed to a minimum temperature of fifteen above for more than 40 years, were caught unprepared.

Clark reported "the most disheartening scenes I have ever witnessed in all my years in the Orient and in all my travels in the interior."

"Thousands begged for a piece of bread, for coppers, for anything I could give them," he said.

Near-Riot Staged By Unpaid Extras

Morris Gest, Theatrical Impressario, Is Named Defendant For Alleged Unpaid Bills

DALLAS, Jan. 13. —(AP)—Morris Gest, theatrical impressario whose venture at making a road show of the spectacle "The Miracle" ended in Dallas with a near-riot by unpaid extras Saturday night, was made defendant today in a suit filed by Villaume Box and Lumber Co., St. Paul, Minn., for alleged unpaid debts.

The petition alleged Gest owed the firm $1,003.84, due Dec. 4, 1929, and that despite promises, had never paid anything on account.

Similar Suit Filed

A St. Louis firm filed a similar suit last week, in connection with the showing of The Miracle at Milwaukee last fall.

After the first act of the performance Saturday night which ended a run of several years, union musicians, stage hands and electricians went on strike. They were placated and paid.

Most of the members of the New York cast were paid, but about 300, many of them Dallas residents, had received no salary since last Thursday. It took two squads of police to disperse them when they milled about the manager's office.

Yesterday, happy in the thoughts of salaries and hotel bills settled, the New York troupe left for home while a few lingered for motor trips to Hollywood.

Today the still unpaid actors were asking company Manager Milton Stifel: "When?" In response to his statement that only $800 in salaries were outstanding and this amount would be paid as soon as it could be obtained from New York.

Everybody is talking about liver. Everybody is eating liver. At least, everybody who isn't eating liver, should be, and why is all this? What is it about liver that makes it the aristocrat of the menu?

The story of liver is something like the story of the House that Jack Built. A sequence of chemical and physiological facts which dovetail one into another to make the completed structure. Let's look at it.

Now the first thing that I want to emphasize is the fact that before any food can be digested and assimilated it must be broken up into its various component parts. This must be done to enable wise old Mother Nature to pick out those parts which she can use for this, and the parts she can use for that, and discard the rest.

Some parts of the food she will build into bones, some parts into blood and some parts into muscle. But before she can get down to this business of building the food into the body, she must sort it out so she can see what's what.

This sorting out process is called oxidation. As a matter of fact, it is a burning process, and is managed in about the same way as the lighting of a fire in the grate.

If you want to light a fire in the grate you first have to have some wood or coal. And you also have to have a match, a flame to apply to that wood to make it burn.

Now in the body the food corresponds to the wood in the grate. Before it can be burned—oxidized—broken up—we have to have something to correspond to the lighted match. Oxygen in the body is the lighted match.

But how is that? We aren't oxygen tanks, expleding into flames after our meals, How is it accomplished?

In the tiny microscopic red cells of the blood resides the oxygen-carrying power. These little fellows bring their wee mite of oxygen to the cell of food, and there occurs this wee chemical flame. Any food which does not have brought to it this little lighted match passes out of the body, unused, unassimilated.

And that's how it is that folks sometimes eat and eat and eat, but can't gain weight or strength. Don't you know people who eat prodigiously, of good rich fod too, but just can't gain?

So it turns out that the good our food is going to do us is dependent on the red cells of the blood. And isn't it the most sensible thing in the world to say that folks who are underweight and undernourished ought to manage to get more red cells in their bloodstream—so that all the food they eat can be sure to be turned into flesh and energy.

Well, how can we get more of these so-important red cells? What makes them? Where do they come from?

Red blood corpuscles are made from the iron that is contained in food. Iron contained in food is called organic iron, as distinguished from inorganic iron which is found on old-fashioned druggists' shelves. Don't bother with that kind of iron. It hasn't a good reputation. Listen:

It has been found that liver contains the richest supply of iron of all foods, more than that, it is in a highly available form. That is to say, it is in such form that Mother Nature can get her hands on it very quickly and easily and move it into red blood-cells. Also liver is rich in vitamins of exceptional value, but we'll discuss that another time.

And so, to trace our House that Jack Built back the other way. We eat liver, or take liver extract. The iron which it contains is quickly converted into red blood cells. These red blood cells are equipped with oxygen. They carry this oxygen to the food we eat, and by the process called oxidation, cause that food to be made usable for the body's development and strength and beauty.

Liver should appear in one or another form on the table two or three times a week, especially where there are children in the home.

3 simple Suggestions for Telephoning between Cities

HERE are three simple suggestions that are almost sure to help you in getting the most out of your telephone calls between near and distant towns.

Call by number, whenever you can; it will save your time. It is useful to know the number, especially for calls that you may make frequently. "Information" will gladly give you the number of any person or concern you wish, so that you can make a note of it for the future.

Make your calls when the men you want to reach are likely to be less busy. Try calling before 9:30 in the morning, between noon and 2, or shortly after 4.

Third, speak distinctly into the telephone, keeping your lips close to the mouthpiece. A natural speaking voice such as you use in talking to a man across your desk, makes distant calls as clear as local calls.

Remembering these three points will make your telephone service easier and better than ever. Inter-city calls are ideal for making appointments . . . following up visits . . . clearing away misunderstandings . . . completing buying and selling transactions. Southwestern Bell Telephone Service is Convenient . . . Economical . . . Universal.

THE SPIRIT OF YOUTH

carry on—Avoid that future shadow

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Avoid the snags along the common-sense path to fitness and fashion. Don't let over-indulgence deprive you of the tantalizing contour of the modern figure. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately—when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain the graceful, modern figure with its captivating curves.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

"It's toasted"

*Be Moderate!... Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

AN OLD TIMER'S SCRAP BOOK

BY TIM McGRATH

RECALLING THE FIGHT IN WHICH KID McCOY'S TEETH PLAYED HIM FALSE

When it came to craftiness in taking advantage of an opponent, or making a split-second decision, Kid McCoy was in a class by himself. He battled any and all, and used wits as well as fists

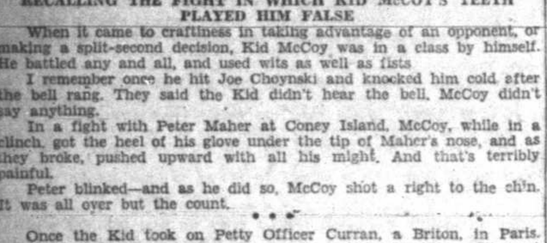

I remember once he hit Joe Choynski and knocked him cold after the bell rang. They said the Kid didn't hear the bell. McCoy didn't say anything.

In a fight with Peter Maher at Coney Island, McCoy, while in a clinch, got the heel of his glove under the tip of Maher's nose, and as they broke, pushed upward with all his might. And that's terribly painful.

Peter blinked—and as he did so, McCoy shot a right to the chin. It was all over but the count.

Once the Kid took on Petty Officer Curran, a Briton, in Paris. Thinking the battle easy, he'd kid Curran, and let his blows slide past his ears. But once he didn't bend far enough, and a punch floored McCoy and knocked his false teeth down his throat. The bell saved him. He was in a bad fix, even so, for the teeth were wedged in his throat, and he couldn't tell his seconds what was wrong. His gloves prevented his pulling the teeth out himself.

He had to fight for several rounds in that predicament. Then he noted a glass of brandy and soda beside the timekeeper's table. The Kid got busy.

McCoy stepped around until his back was to the timekeeper. He feinted Curran into leading at him, caught a punch on top of the head—and went down on his face, his head close to Colonel Boone, the timekeeper. He started to get to his knees. The referee started to count, but he only reached "deux" when the Kid reached through the ropes, grabbed Boone's drink in his gloved fists and began drinking it. The crowd shrieked. The referee forgot to count. All of which gave McCoy more time to drink.

McCoy drank no liquor. The brandy, burning his throat, caused a cough that ejected the false teeth! He arose and squared off but bedlam reigned. There were cries of "foul." Finally, the referee decided to let the fight go on. McCoy made such a clown out of Curran that he got the decision.

"I never saw such an excited crowd," McCoy told me, "and the most excited was Colonel Boone—when I drank his brandy and soda."

Gene Tunney Takes 25-Minute Count As Operation Is Performed on Kidney

NEW YORK, Jan. 13. (AP)—Flanked by white robed specialists in an operating room of the Presbyterian hospital, Gene Tunney took a 25-minute count today and awakened minus a troublesome stone that had formed at the entrance of his right kidney.

A minor operation, performed by Dr. George Winthrop Fish with Dr. J. Bentley Squires and Dr. Carnes Weeks in attendance, removed the obstruction. It was feared at first it might be necessary to take out the kidney itself. The former heavyweight king rallied splendidly from the operation which was described as "entirely successful."

Operation Simple

The operation proved far simpler than the surgeons in charge had expected, X-ray pictures, taken at intervals during the past few days, revealed an obstruction in the ureter at the juncture with the kidney. An exploratory operation, wherein surgery was not necessary, was performed last Wednesday, but failed to dislodge the stone.

Today an exceptionally deep incision was necessary to penetrate the thick muscles of Tunney's heavily developed back, but a slight incision in the ureter revealed the obstruction. A jagged edged stone, about the size of a bean, was removed. The former champion laughed on the operating table as the ether cone was placed over his face and he thought of the newspaper men gathered in the lobby below.

"The best front page story for the reporters," he said, "would be 'Tunney passed out on the table.'"

In High Spirits

Gene smiled as he was about to be wheeled from the suite to the operating room, took the hand of his wife and said: "Don't worry dear, everything will be O. K."

Tunney first suffered pains in his back during the trip home from a lengthy honeymoon in Italy with Mrs. Tunney.

Crimson Dribblers Go On Rampage To Outscore Texas Conference Five In First Game Of Two-Game Series

Maxwell And Hodges Set Pace In Scoring Jamboree; Marecek And Wolf Shine For Invading Aggregation From Brownwood

By ALLAN CARNEY
Avalanche-Journal Sports Editor

With their scoring machinery oiled to perfection, the Tech Matadors went on a rampage at the college gymnasium last night to smother the invading Yellow Jackets from Howard Payne college, 53 to 31, in a fast exhibition that was packed with all the thrills known to the hardfloor pastime.

Getting the jump on the Brownwood crew early in the first period, the Scarlet-clad dribblers set a furious pace throughout the first 20 minutes of play that gave them a lead which was never relinquished. With Clarence Hodges, flashy Tech forward sinking his shots from all angles of the court and Bill Maxwell, lanky sophomore center scoring consistently with his rebound thrusts, the homelings looked like the proverbial million dollars.

Jackets Fight Back.

The Jackets fought back doggedly toward the close of the opening period but all of their sinkers were matched with some to spare. The half ended with the Paynemen leading, 30 to 19.

Although slowed down considerably by the fast pace of the first period, the Matadors continued their scoring act in the second half while the Jackets were trying desperately to stage a comeback which never matured. Maxwell and Hodges continued to shine in this period, accounting for 16 of the 23 points scored by the Crimson during the last 20 minutes.

When the final whistle had sounded and the dust had cleared, Bill Maxwell topped the scorers for the night with 10 field goals and a total of 20 points. Hodges was close behind with 18 points. Neither of the offensive stars for the Matadors played the full game. Tadlock played a leading role in the Tech victory, turning in one of the best defensive performances of his college career.

Marecek Shines.

Marecek, bespectacled Jacket forward, led the visitors in scoring with 10 points to his credit, but it was Wolf, rangy guard on the Howard Payne quint, that stood out. Wolf proved a thorn in the side of the Matador forwards throughout the combat, jumping high into the air repeatedly to recover a poor shot from a Tech player.

Again it was clearly shown that Coach Payne has one good basketball team but no more. Each substitution weakened the club and only for the purpose of relieving the regulars can the reserves be used to advantage.

Tonight, starting at 8 o'clock, the same teams meet again in the second and final game of the series. Simmons Cowboys are here Thursday night for a single encounter with the Matadors.

Expenditure Of More Than $15,000,000 During 1931 For Enforcement Of Pro Laws Claimed Unwise

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP)—Expenditure of more than $15,000,000 during the fiscal year 1931 to enforce the federal prohibition law would be unwise in the opinion of Prohibition Commissioner Doran because of the congested condition of federal courts.

"The biggest problem right now that confronts the federal government in the enforcement of this law," Doran told the house appropriations committee, "is the congested condition of the federal courts."

Request Approved

The committee approved the commissioner's request and set the figure at $15,000,000.

Asserting the Jones law enacted last year providing for prison sentences of five years and fines up to $10,000 for liquor convictions had brought about better enforcement conditions, Doran said "Take it overall, with the known drop in smuggling, I say the situation is improving."

Doran said congestion of the courts was greater in New York, New Jersey, northern Illinois, Pittsburgh, and Philadelphia. Enforcement conditions at Detroit, he said, had improved about 50 per cent. Besides Wisconsin, which has voted against the dry law, Doran said, New York, Montana, Nevada and Maryland were not assisting the federal government in enforcing prohibition.

In southern states, Doran continued, the sheriffs generally stand from under because "they regard that more as a federal job."

Denny Shute Holds Lead In Open Golf Tournament At Los Angeles; Smith And Cruickshank Close Behind

Slender Ohioan Shows Way To Greatest Figures In Game Over Riviera Course —Third Round Completed

By RUSSELL J. NEWLAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 13. (AP)—While the gallery followed in the footsteps of the golfing elete today Denny Shute, young and little known pro from Columbus, Ohio, stroked his way over Riviera's picturesque course to retain an important if not impressive lead at the end of the third round of the 72 hole Los Angeles open championship.

Two years in the professional ranks, Shute and his total 222 showed the way to the greatest figures in the game. The slender Ohioan went around the par 71 layout in 75. His previous rounds were 73, 74. Today he was out in 37 and in 38, each nine being two over par.

Smith Close Behind

Three strokes behind Shute, followed two of the tournament's favorites, Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo., and Bobby Cruickshank of New York. Cruickshank came in with 74 and Smith took 76 to reach the 225 strokes station.

Within striking distance for top money were Tommy Armour, Detroit; Al. Espinosa, Chicago and Chet Beer of Bakersfield, Cal., all in the 227 class.

The rest of the field was scattered from 228 strokes well into the 240's. The end of the third round saw five notables of the game practically out of the running, so far as first money went. Leo Diegel of Agua Caliente, Mexico, P. G. A. champion, marked time with a total of 228 while MacDonald Smith of Long Island, N. Y., winner of the title for the last two years, had a 230 to show for his efforts.

Press Typewriters Silenced for One Hour in Tribute to Jack Fernandez

AUSTIN, Jan. 13. (AP)—Typewriters that grind out newspaper copy ceaselessly in the capitol press room were silent for an hour today. The correspondents deserted their desks while they paid final tribute to J. A. (Jack) Fernandez, dean of them all, who was buried from St. Mary's Catholic church, where requiem low mass was celebrated by Rev. J. J. O'Rourk, pastor.

Fernandez died last Friday, having dropped unconscious to the sidewalk while returning from his home to the capitol, and succumbed shortly afterwards. For 34 years he was correspondent for a string of Texas newspapers.

Newspapermen who had been associated with Fernandez for many years and fellow Knights of Columbus bore the body to its final resting place in the Catholic cemetery. They were Frank Pinget, John W. Byrne and Victor Pannell, of the Knights of Columbus, and William M. Thornton, Gordon Shearer and William J. Weeg, newspaper associates.

State officials from all departments were in attendance.

LEAGUE OPENS MEET

Police Guard Against Bomb Plots Of Anti-Fascists

GENEVA, Jan. 13. (AP)—With special police safeguards provided by the Swiss authorities because of reports of anti-fascist plots to bomb the Italian delegation, the 58th session of the council of the League of Nations opened here today.

The sessions began with a eulogy of Dr. Gustav Stresemann, the late German statesman, by Foreign Minister Zaleski of Poland, who presided.

Despite the rumors of anti-fascist plots, Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister and spokesman for Premier Musolini, sat calmly between Foreign Minister Briand of France and Dr. Von Schubert.

The council voted to appoint a committee to study and recommend measures for expediting ratification of international conventions.

Breckenridge Authorities In Austin To Confer With League Officials In Regard To State High School Title

Invitations Back From Seven Teams

Twenty Cage Aggregations Of Section Expected To Compete In Annual Tourney At Floydada

(Special To The Avalanche)

FLOYDADA, Jan. 13.—Seven high schools from as many South Plains cities have accepted invitations to compete in the annual South Plains tournament which is to be staged here on Feb. 7 and 8, it was announced here tonight by Floydada High school authorities, and present indications point to an unusually large and successful invitation tournament.

At least 20 teams are expected to enter the two-day event and competition promises to be stronger than ever before.

The tournament was inaugurated four years ago by high school athletic officials here and it is a strictly practice meet, the results having no bearing on the outcome of the county and district tournaments.

Winners in the tourney are to be presented with gold watch charms for each member of the winning club. It is the plan of officials here to follow the same plans that were carried out last year by presenting a set of silver basketball charms to the members of the runner-up team.

All games will be played in Andrews Ward gymnasium. A system of elimination will be worked out prior to the opening of preliminaries on the morning of the 7th. The final championship game will be played on Saturday night, Feb. 8.

Definite acceptances to the invitations mailed recently have come from Turkey, Plainview, Olton, Post, Dickens, Lamesa and Lorenzo. Ten or 12 more entries are expected by the end of this month.

Oil Belt City Bases Claim To Championship On Grounds That Bucks Penetrated 20 Yard Line Most

BRECKENRIDGE, Jan. 13. (AP)—Officials of Breckenridge High school were at Austin today to push the claim of the Buckaroos to the 1929 state football title.

T. L. Dyer, president of the local school board; N. S. Holland, school superintendent; and Coach P. E. Shotwell said they would ask the Interscholastic League to declare the Buckaroos champions.

The Breckenridge officials are basing their claim on the fact that the local eleven scored more 20-yard line penetrations than did the Port Arthur Yellowjackets in their scoreless battle for the championship at Waco.

It was agreed before the game, they declare, that inter-scholastic league rules would prevail. League rules provide that in bi-district and semi-final games the team entering its opponent's 20-yard line the most times is the winner.

Al. Sarafny Has Brand New Bride

AUSTIN, Jan. 13. (AP) Expectations of St. Edward's students were justified today when Al. Sarafny, football coach, arrived with a bride the former Miss Rose Golas of Iron River, Michigan.

The appearance of a second member of the Sarafny family came as a surprise to much of the residents of Austin. St. Edward's students however, suspected as much since Sarafny failed to return for the resumption of school Jan. 2. And a telegram saying he would be back had been signed by "Rose and Al."

Sarafny's home is in Caspian Michigan, near Iron Rover. The two were married December 28. They planned to be back sooner but encountered bad weather en route.

Lubbock Minister Says Newspapers Pay Too Much Attention To Athletics, Crime; Would Be Editor

Rev. Munger Wishes Church News to Be Played Up

Maintaining his position as one of right and stoutly rapping daily newspapers, Rev. H. L. Munger, pastor of the First Methodist church, yesterday declared in an interview that newspapers of today pay too much attention to athletics and other subjects of secular interest and give too little space to the church.

"I sincerely believe that where there is one person interested in a football story, there are from 10 to 20 interested in religious news," he said. "Please don't think I am knocking athletics, because I realize they play an important part in the lives of America's young people, but to my way of thinking the church as a whole is greatly underestimated in news value by most newspapers."

Should Be Familiar

"Theological subjects should be handled by someone who is familiar with such," the minister said in referring to a statement made in his pulpit Sunday morning regarding his refusal to be interviewed on ideas concerning Heaven. "When a minister talks about questions of such vital importance he should be quoted directly.

"I believe it would be a good idea for our local papers to publish one minister's sermon every Monday evening and in that way each would get a fair showing and those who were unable to attend the church services would have the sermon.

Claim Sensationlism

"The great trouble with newspapers, as I see it, is that when they do quote a minister's statement they try and make it appear as sensational as possible, carrying out the policy to give the people what they want. It is probably true that readers do want sensation, but that is because they have been educated to like it. If the papers would feature the best along with the crime news, which plays such a prominent part on its front pages, there would be fewer crimes committed."

"I believe advertising is a good policy and that it does not have a tendency to commercialize the church," said Rev. Munger, pointing out that church notices carried in Sunday papers should carry a brief statement with hours of their services. He declared that notices which are handed in are cut too short by news editors.

Wants to Be Editor

"I would like to be an editor of a newspaper if I could edit it without interference," he continued. "I would relegate crime, divorce and suicide news to a much smaller space and let the people know there are more upbuilding influences in America."

Predict Interest In Next Election

With the announcement yesterday that already 1,330 persons have paid poll taxes this year at office of County Tax Collector A. J. Clark, warm interest is expected in elections for 1930.

There will be approximately 7,000 eligible voters in the county this year.

The January rush in the tax collector's office has necessitated employment of four additional men. Those who are now aiding Mr. Clark and his assistant, Hurley Carpenter, are Paul Crouch, W. F. Hartzog, Frank Kerr and George Adams.

Three thousand and five persons have purchased automobile license plates for the year.

FUNERAL HERE SUNDAY

Mrs. Rebecca Standefer Is Buried In Lubbock

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at Bynum Brothers funeral parlors for Mrs. Rebecca Anna Standefer, 81, of Lubbock with Rev. G. E. Lefler, of this city, officiating. Burial was in the Lubbock cemetery.

Mrs. Standefer died Sunday night at 11:45 o'clock at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Agnew, 1404 Avenue U, following an extended illness.

Survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Agnew, a son, I. E. Standefer, of Canada, a sister, Mrs. M. E. O'Hara of Kendale, and two brothers, L. B. Smith, of Loretta, and M. T. Smith, Colorado.

Opportunity of Speeding March of Great People Seen in Presidency

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 13. (AP)—Herbert Hoover finds in the presidency an "opportunity for speeding the orderly march of a great people" and "in the inspiration of that moving host" such compensation as is vouchsafed to few.

This was set forth by the chief executive in a letter to Dr. W. C. Thompson, President Emeritus of Ohio State university, written in reply to the New Year greetings of the educator.

Majority For Success

Although asserting that there were many partisans who would like to see the president fail, Mr. Hoover drew much satisfaction from "the majority, who regardless of party" earnestly wish that success attend the president's administration of the affairs of the nation.

Dr. Thompson had incorporated in his New Year message "a bit of council growing out of a half century of observation." This was that the chief executive should not be misled or disheartened by the partisans working for his failure and by those who seek to obscure the truth by the dissemination of falsehood.

"The human flood, which flows through the White House," the president replied, "shows all the dark colorings and the flotsam that you mention, but it is brightened more than you think by the majority who, regardless of party, genuinely wish to help the president to succeed in his task. Of course, it is true that malice is sometimes the road to newspaper headlines, and there will always be partisans desirous that the president should fail even if their strategems injure the country or whose daily toil is to mix mud pies. But if these blots were other than exceptions, this nation would not have swept to a mightier and mightier destiny every year since the independence."

He asserted that the "discovery and promulgation of the truth" was "a vital question of public action." We can and must, he said, "greatly increase the production of truth, and we must know the truth before the grave interest of 120,000,000 people is involved in government policies."

The chief executive went on to link his creation of investigative commissions with this search for the truth, and indicated the establishment of "more and more" of them might be expected. They are, he said, "one of the sound processes for the search, production and distribution of the truth" and a means of spreading cooperation with the government "among our best citizens."

SEARCH CONTINUED

Western Air Express Pilot Object Of Hunt

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Jan. 13. (AP) — Search by air and land for Maurice Graham, western air express pilot, missing since he left Las Vegas, Nev., last Friday night, was continued today from numerous points in the face of a new snowstorm.

Two planes left St. George, Utah, this morning, and two others left Las Vegas for St. George, while yet another was at Milford, Utah, ready to join the hunt.

Meanwhile ground parties set out from St. George, Leeds, Hurricane and Anderson's ranch, all in Utah, to comb the rough country about Leeds, where it was believed Graham might have been forced down.

Mazatlan, Mexico, is to have an athletic tournament next summer, and baseball, basketball, volleyball, boxing, tennis and other sports will be featured.

Six Killed, Four Hurt In Far West During Week-End

Several Missing, Hundreds Marooned As Cold Wave Swoops Down On Pacific Coast Section

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Jan. 13 (AP)—Winter snooped down upon the far west during the week-end, leaving in its wake today six persons dead, four critically hurt, several missing and hundreds marooned by snow.

Bitter cold accounted for three of the deaths—two in Arizona and one in Washington. Heavy snow fell in many places in California. Fresno received its first appreciable snow in 20 years, and San Francisco its first measurable fall in 8 years.

Freeze To Death

In Arizona, Timothy Kirkpatrick, 35, stage company manager of Jerome, and David King, 32, truck driver, were found frozen to death three miles from their stalled automobile near the summit of Mingus mountain of the Jerome-Prescott highway. Several other persons were reported missing.

Washington counted two fatalities. In Seattle, Ray Whiteman, 15, was killed and six companions injured, four critically, in a collision between their bobsled and an automobile. Sixteen young people were coasting on the sled, and most of them suffered injury.

Body Found

At Walla Walla the body of a middle-aged man, presumably frozen to death, was found in a Snake river cabin.

California likewise reported two fatalities.

Hiram Shearer, 73, city marshal of Nevada City, died from a fractured skull received while directing traffic. He was struck by a sled.

In Los Angeles, Morris Feldman, his vision obscured by rain, drove his automobile in front of a Pacific electric train and was killed.

In the Sierra foothills, 300 automobiles were abandoned between San Andreas and Angels camp, while their occupants, estimated to number in excess of 1,300, sought refuge from the falling snow and bitter wind in farm houses.

TANLAC WINS!

Two More Victories Over Stubborn Stomach Trouble—Joyous News For Other Sufferers

SO HAPPY MUST TELL WHAT TANLAC DID FOR HER

FINALLY FINDS RIGHT THING IN TANLAC

First Bottle Proof Enough

FROM old and young they come, letters overflowing with words of praise and gratitude telling of wonderful, almost unbelievable relief they received from this matchless medicine. Local people, many of whom you know, are highly endorsing Tanlac. Take for instance, Mrs. Mary Bond who writes: "The moment food entered my stomach I would have such terrible pains that I could hardly move. Although I had doctored and taken all kinds of medicines I had never been able to find anything to help me until a boarder recommended Tanlac. I have now taken five bottles and am delighted with the way it has helped me. You can imagine how good I felt when I ate a nice big steak and didn't have a bit of trouble after having lived on dried toast for almost a year."

THOSE who have found only disappointment and failure in their search for health will do well to profit by the experience of this well-known man, Mr. Patrick O. Keefe. "For a number of years," says Mr. Keefe, "I suffered from stomach troubles. I could hardly eat anything without suffering gas and terrible bloating and I was always constipated. I heard about the benefits others derived from Tanlac, I admit I was skeptical for I had tried so many different medicines without results. Finally I was persuaded to try Tanlac and I will say the first bottle was proof enough for me. I have now taken several bottles and a wonderful change has come over me. My bowels are regular, digestive organs have been toned up, and I can eat three meals without gas, bloating or any misery." Tanlac is not only a wonderful stomach medicine but a great tonic.

LUBBOCK IS JUSTIFIED IN SAYING 'HAPPY NEW YEAR' WITH RECORD BUSINESS

Bank deposits, postal receipts, freight and express business in Lubbock during 1929 have justified the united expression of "Happy New Year."

Deposits in the three banks of the city at the close of business December 31, 1929, exceeded those of the same period of 1928 by $333,432.53. Total deposits of the institutions are $5,584,954.79, as compared to $5,249,522.26 for 1928.

Postal receipts at the end of 1929 approximated $115,980.10, exceeding the business of 1928 by $15,565.64.

Basis Substantial

Satisfactory liquidation of loans and a sectional response to increased diversification have placed economic conditions in the Lubbock area on a substantial basis, bankers say. They also point out that the business personnel of the area will enter 1930 in the face of reasonable security.

While the year just past has been considered a prosperous one for Lubbock and the South Plains, expressions of prominent business and professional men of the city indicate that 1930 has a far more prosperous outlook and that conditions throughout the section will be greatly improved.

Outlook Bright

With building permits for 1929 decrying the greatest expansion program ever witnessed in the city, the concensus of opinion is that 1930 will experience even greater activity in this line.

Colonization of the unsettled territory also comes in for attention with oil activities receiving considerable interest. The old standby, agriculture, seems destined to come into its own again, according to forecasts made and prices this year will greatly exceed those of 1929, assuring the farmer a living wage for his products. This fact is pointed out through the interest taken by the federal government in its efforts to aid marketing conditions and by the age-old law that prices run in cycles. Market peaks were reached in 1924 and since that time it has been pointed out, prices have varied with only slight increases. Diversification is cited as one of the greatest booms to the modern farmer, living at home with poultry and cattle as a means of livelihood, while crops come in as a profit.

San Antonio Man's Body Found In Camp

GALVESTON, Jan. 6. (AP)—With his head torn away by a shotgun load, the body of Austin Miller, 45, a resident of San Antonio, was found today in his camp near San Leon.

Near the body was a shotgun. Miller came to the vicinity of San Leon a few days ago and camped on Galveston bay.

The body was discovered by Constable Ellis, who said the wound indicated that the shot entered Miller's mouth.

THRIFT WEEK AND LUBBOCK

THE ANNIVERSARY of Benjamin Franklin's natal day, is quite appropriately, as The Morning Avalanche sees it, the first day of National Thrift week.

We say 'quite appropriately,' because of all the many virtues possessed by Franklin none of them is more worthy of emulation by the people of the South Plains—and the nation at large for that matter—than the practice of thrift. Thrift, you'll remember, was the practice which enabled Benjamin Franklin to turn from a poverty-stricken tramp printer to one of the wealthiest and most influential men of his time and has boosted countless other men, some of them who live right here among us, up the ladder of financial independence and affluence.

One might properly ask, "What is thrift?" and "why do they start a campaign to try to persuade me to start a bank account, own my own home, make a budget, carry life insurance, pay my bills and make a will?" These are fair questions and here is a fair answer:

"Thrift is vision. Vision is thrift."

At times the idea of starting a bank account or taking out life insurance or buying your own home, or making budgets, or wills, occurs to all of us, but, with our usual human frailty and procrastination, we lack the quality of decision and determination to crystallize the idea into concrete action.

Therefore, a number of nationally prominent men and women have banded themselves together to concentrate the minds of Americans on the things we ought to do—things that we owe to ourselves and to our relatives to do—and for the next seven days they will preach the gospel of thrift, which is the gospel of good sense, so as to focus our attention on our plain duty.

National Thrift week, which begins Friday, January 17 and continues through Thursday, January 23, will mean just as much to the men and women of Lubbock and this section as they themselves wish it to mean. Throughout that period all of us will find bankers, insurance men, realtors and others whose advice you may need, ready and willing to be of unusual service. The opportunity of expert counsel along the lines of thrift is presented. Those who use it will profit.

MALE INCONSTANCY

Philosophers and poets have mused on the inconstancy of woman, but very little on the inconstancy of man. Tradition pictures man as a great positive creature selecting a goal and going straight for it; of knowing what he wants and getting it.

How different is this from the man that every wife knows! Try as she may to do the thing that pleases him she will find herself going continually wrong. His only constancy, as she sees it, is his inconstancy.

Does a husband complain that he is dragged away from the quiet and comfort of his fireside too much at night? Let his wife arrange to go out without him and he will feel hurt and insist on tagging along.

Every husband tells his wife that certain of her kitchen preparations he has no taste for. The same detested dishes served away from home he will eat with relish and embarrass his good wife by demanding in company to know why she never cooks such delicacies. Moreover, the appetites and tastes of the inconstant male are so variable as the color of feminine hosiery.

Let men speak wisely of the business barometer and underlying causes, and trends and tendencies. His wife knows that these are just the result of the ruminations of husbands who haven't the faintest idea what they want, and no wives about to tell them.

BUMPER EXPORTS

The United States came out on top in world trade in 1929. Both exports and imports reached unprecedented figures. Exports valued at $5,300,000,000 and imports of $4,450,000,000 leave a huge trade balance in our favor.

Imports increased 3 per cent and exports about 4 per cent. That disparity in favor of foreign producers should cause no concern here inasmuch as it enabled foreign markets to consume more American goods and indicates, more than anything else, that European production is returning to normal.

In all the facts relating to world trade last year there is nothing to substantiate the idle talk that has been going on in connection with revision of the tariff. The expansion movement which has been in progress since 1921 was continued without the slightest interruption. It should be comforting to alarmists who feared that the bottom was going to fall out of the nation's foreign trade anyway and therefore congress should double the tariff on everything, to note that their fears were quite unfounded.

Our leadership in the exporting of manufactured products makes it clear that the foreign trade of the United States continues to grow because of the efficiency of American factories and the gradual improvement of conditions in customer nations.

As long as the world continues to buy made-in-America goods in increasing quantities the United States should bother its head about foreign embargoes and retaliatory duties.

WHY AND WHEREFORE OF ALL THE DISCUSSION AT PRESENT TIME TO CHANGE STATUS OF ISLAND DEPENDENCY—AS VIEWED BY WASHINGTON OBSERVER

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Rudyard Kipling had a big influence in sticking the United States with the Philippines.

The Spanish-American war occurred just about the time the Briton's stories of his countrymen's activities in India were at the height of their popularity—good yarns, but full of imperialism, Anglo-Saxon superiority to everything else under the sun, the fun of colonial rule and oddles of additional picturesque hokum that we were in precisely the right frame of mind at the moment to try out for ourselves.

The Filipinos were an ideal inferior race for us to boss, we had plenty of "younger sons" who were aching for some place "overseas" to swank around in, like the Kipling boys, and we fell for the opening same as a thousand bricks.

Of course the game palled after awhile, but by then a lot of American business interests had horned in at Manila and vicinity, and they refused to let us crawfish out.

They kept reminding us of our responsibilities—meaning their investments.

And it is, for a fact, difficult to pull down the flag.

Besides, even yet the islands are convenient as a place to provide for a "good party man" as governor general—and get him out of the way at home.

However, the original pep of the thing has all gone out of it.

We know the Philippines today as just what they are and always have been—an infernal pest and danger and expense to us.

They are a pest because they have the poor taste to prefer independence even to the prosperity we have given to them. Such a silly preference no doubt proves conclusively that they are "unfit for self-government," but they are continually yowling about it, nevertheless.

As for an expense—no one disputes that we have put ten times the money into them that we ever have taken out. A few individuals have taken some out—for themselves. But Americans, as a people, have blown millions on them without getting a cent's worth of anything in return—and quite the reverse of thanks from the Filipinos themselves.

And a danger!

There they have lain all these years, 7,000 miles away from us, but only a dozen hours' steaming, for battleships and transports, from the southern end of Japan's island of Formosa — a standing invitation to the mikado to grab them any day, and plunge us into a war at sea, that might last a decade and cost us billions, for a stake that we ought to be grateful for a chance to pay him to take off from our hands.

Ever since 1898 what has been the great obstacle to any reduction in the size of our navy?

Why, the Philippines, to be sure.

Who would have expected our selfish American sugar interests to raise a squawk in favor of Philippine independence?—at this late day.

A fat lot they care about Philippine independence!—"per se."

All they want is a higher sugar tariff—so as to soak us harder for sweetening for our coffee.

The trouble is:

How are they going to keep Philippine sugar out?—no matter how high the tariff—while the Philippines remain an American dependency—and consequently entitled to their products' free entry into the United States.

True the sugar folk did propose a tariff wall against the islands, regardless of their dependent status; but that was a trifle too raw—nearly everyone gagged at the idea of hanging onto them as dependents and yet denying them tariff equality.

The upshot is that our domestic sugar barons have developed into about the best Philippine independence boosters that we have here in Washington.

Indeed, even though the sugar tariff increase fails to go through, and is beginning to look pretty dubious now, the prospects are middling good that the Philippine independence campaign will forge ahead to victory.

It always has had some faithful pluggers in its favor in congress.

The sugar interests also are committed to it, whether they get their tariff advance or not. A responsive chord has been struck in the bosoms of the vegetable oil and tobacco interests, too.

We have lost our enthusiasm for our "little brown brothers" and "the white man's burden" anyway.

GOOD DIET IS BETTER REGULATOR OF BOWELS THAN CATHARTICS

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

In a consideration of normal physiology and the advice that is to be given to a patient following periodic examination, a distinguished committee of physicians has given special attention to the frequency with which the cathartic and enema habits are found among American people.

Instead of attempting to control the activities of the intestines by suitable diets and the establishment of good habits, the person tries drugs, moving on from stronger to stronger preparations and then, disgusted by the failure of some of these preparations, begins the use of enemas, which are gradually made more and more irritating.

The committee advises that definite measures be taken to break up these habits and it points out that a considerable amount of time and trouble will be required for the purpose.

It is usually customary to advise the taking of mineral oil and prunes as mild aids during the reconstruction process. A suitable diet includes orange juice, stewed prunes or figs at breakfast and also such substances as oatmeal, whole wheat cereals and Scotch oak cakes.

The luncheon should include vegetables, whole wheat bread, figs stewed or raw, buttermilk and similar substances. The dinner should consist of at least two green vegetables and fruit as a dessert in addition to the other courses. It is also well to eat some fruit before going to bed.

One of the important factors is the establishment of proper muscle tone and there are suitable exercises for strengthening the abdominal muscles. These include lying on the back and raising the feet over the head slowly and lowering them slowly, also lying on the back and assuming a sitting posture slowly and lowering the body slowly without the aid of the arms.

It seems a little strange that none of the statisticians has gone in seriously for tabulations on the number of married men who were endurance flyers.

Man's origin is put back 50,500,000 years by Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn. And doubtless there are times when all of us feel that old.

SCANDINAVIAN UNION

On Jan. 14, 1814, Norway and Sweden united.

This union was formed on the understanding that they should retain full liberty and independence within their own boundaries.

Subsequent relations between Norway and Sweden up to 1885 were marked by no violent conflicts.

Soon after 1885, however, there arose a movement in Norway aimed at transforming the bond between the two states into a mere personal union.

The anti-union movement died down for a time due to fear of Russia, but events of the Russo-Japanese war were regarded as removing all danger from Russia and the radical tendency once more made itself manifest.

On July 28, 1905, the Norwegian people voted for separation from Sweden by a vote of 368,200 against 184.

The Norwegian Diet and the Swedish Riksdag approved an agreement for dissolution of the union on Oct. 16, 1905.

FAITH

Better trust all and be deceived.
And weep that trust and that deceiving,
Than doubt one heart that, if believing,
Had blessed one's life with true believing.
Oh, in this mocking world, too fast
The doubting fiend o'ertakes our youth;
Better be cheated to the last
Than lose the blessed hope of truth.

Naval Delegates Enjoy Long Rest

S. S. GEORGE WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP)—After three days of almost complete rest, the American delegation to the forthcoming London naval conference today began the final round of consultation preparatory to opening of the conference one week from tomorrow.

First meeting of the delegation since the Washington sailed last Thursday was understood to have been called for today for a general survey of the task ahead.

Although these meetings will continue during the remainder of the voyage, it is unlikely there will be any public announcement regarding them, since all major points of the American position have already been determined and were announced before the delegation left Washington. The present discussions are concerned rather with methods and procedure.

Negro Attacks Two Persons With Hammer

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 13. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Franklin C. Pershing, were slightly improved here today, following an attack on them yesterday by a negro who beat them severely with a hammer, and demanded money. Blood hounds followed a trail to a negro apartment building.

Mr. Pershing, 71, was set upon while sleeping. Awakened by her husband's groans, Mrs. Pershing, 68, was forced to accompany the negro to the basement of the house and later to a bedroom in a search for money Mr. Pershing had hidden in the house. The woman was attacked twice during the hour the prowler remained in the house.

Three Prisoners Break Pampa Jail

PAMPA, Jan. 13. (AP)—Three prisoners, including one man awaiting an appeal from a sentence of life imprisonment for murder, escaped from the Gray county jail today.

The prisoners managed to pry open the lock on the jail, then they clambered over a high fence.

Johnny Bowman, convicted of slaying Bill Watkins last July 4 and sentenced to life imprisonment, was believed to have been the leader of the fugitives. With him were Pat Powell, held on charges of car theft and burglary, and Bud Jones charged with illegal possession of firearms.

Chicago's School System Bankrupt

CHICAGO, Jan. 13. (AP)—President H. Wallace Caldwell of the board of education said today the Chicago school system "is bankrupt and will probably be shut down within the next few weeks."

"I have learned positively," he said, "that tax anticipation warrants cannot be sold in Chicago or New York."

"Unless the teachers and other employes of the school system are willing to work for nothing for possibly a matter of months until the tax bills are mailed and the returns come in, the schools are doomed," he continued. "I have done everything that a human being could do and am at the end of my rope now."

He added that the present school board now owes nearly a half million dollars in bills, some of them dating back to last November.

Rash Romance

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JUDITH CAMERON, typist in a New York publishing house, who is snubbed by fellow workers, attracts the interest of ARTHUR KNIGHT, her employer. Knight is a reserved widower, lonely since his daughter, TONY, 18, and his son JUNIOR, 16, spend most of their time away from home.

Judith fascinates Knight. He takes her to dinners and concerts. Meanwhile the girl continues to keep mysterious appointment with a young man known only as "DAN." KATHRYN TUPPER, office executive, has acquired a dislike for the girl because of Knight's favor. Miss Tupper gives Judith the most distasteful tasks. At the end of a whirlwind courtship Knight asks Judith to marry him and she accepts. The next evening she is nervous and distracted and tells him she has something to confess.

He laughs and refuses to listen. They plan a six weeks' honeymoon in Bermuda. Knight supplies the money for an elaborate trousseau. They are married on a Saturday morning. When they board the liner to sail Judith is proud and thrilled. Suddenly in the crowd on the dock she sees Dan. Tears come into her eyes. The ocean voyage and arrival in Hamilton harbor are glamorous events for the young bride. She and Arthur swim and golf and enjoy all the island's outdoor sports. Arthur tells Judith he is going to make her care for him as he cares for her. One evening during the dancing Judith pleads a headache and goes to her room. Knight, stirred by a wave of jealousy, follows. He has just arrived when there is a knock on the door.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII

A bell-boy in blue uniform and brass buttons stood in the entrance way as Knight pulled the door back.

"A message for you, sir," he said.

Knight frowned, took the yellow envelope which the youth held forward and handed him a coin.

Judith had arisen and came forward anxiously. She was looking very lovely in her rose and pink draperies. She did not speak but stood waiting, concern written plainly on her face, as her husband tore open the envelope and studied the cablegram.

He must have read it through twice.

"Judith," he said then, glancing up quickly, "I've got to get back to New York!" His words clicked with decision.

"Business?"

Knight shook his head.

"No—it's Tony. Read it."

He thrust the yellow sheet of paper toward her and Judith's fingers closed over it. Something had caught at her heart—it seemed as though the heart had stopped beating —at mention of Tony's name. The jumble of words was meaningless but finally they straightened out into sentences. Then Judith understood. . .

The message had been sent to Knight's business address in New York and there forwarded. It read:

"Sailing tonight on Paris. Meet me in New York Tuesday. Helena tried to boss me too much. Your loving daughter prefers you to Europe. Much, much love. TONY."

"Oh!" said Judith. It was the only thing she seemed able to say.

Arthur crumpled the envelope which he was still holding and shot the ball of paper into a basket. He shook his head drearily.

"Tony's been up to mischief!" he sighed. "Helena's my sister. She was supposed to chaperone Tony during a year on the continent. Lord knows what they've rowed about! Well, it would never do to leave Tony Knight to her own devices in a mood like this! Judith —much as I hate to give this all up—we've got to go back."

Judith came nearer, brushing her fingers softly through the hair above his temple.

"Yes, of course," she said simply. "I'll—I'll be glad to meet Tony."

"Oh, you'll love her. Everybody loves Tony. Never been able to refuse her anything in the world myself," he mused. "I know I've spoiled her—but I couldn't help it! Well—let's see, if we take the boat here Saturday we'll be home Monday morning. Guess that'll give us time to get scrubbed up and meet the Paris when it docks."

He was smiling brightly. Judith felt that not for the world could she let him know the trepidation and despair which had settled over her. She went back to the dressing table and sat with her back toward him.

Five short days and she was to stand face to face with Tony Knight! Two days more and they would turn their backs on this paradise, these islands of turquoise and gold. The honeymoon —their beautiful, utterly, utterly perfect honeymoon—would be ended. Ahead would be New York.

Judith closed her eyes and caught her hands together as though in agonized, silent prayer.

"Aren't you going to send a reply?"

Knight shook his head negatively.

"No," he said. "Let her worry a bit. It'll be good for her. Don't you see I can't give in? Helena must have been right, of course. The only time in the world I can discipline Tony is when she's away from me. No—I won't answer her!"

Again apprehensions — chill and forbidding—swept over Judith.

She crept closer to her husband.

"Arthur," she said softly. "Say you love me—"

Knight's arm slipped about his lovely young wife. Warm, lingering kisses touched her forehead, her golden hair and then swiftly, hotly, he found her lips. Each of them— in that long, long caress—forgot about Tony.

Morning brought the same bright sunshine, the same restful breezes and beckoning sports of preceding days, but somehow everything seemed changed.

Judith and Arthur had breakfast in their rooms, Judith looking rather like a huge chrysanthemum in her dainty ruffled bed jacket. Arthur lolled indolently in a striped dressing gown.

Neither spoke of Tony's message. Both were thinking of it.

Finally Arthur suggested he should be dressing and getting over to Hamilton.

"Two or three little errands I want to take care of, dear. Anything I can do for you?"

She told him there was nothing. Judith was quite willing to remain inside while he was absent. She knew steamer arrangements for their return were the "two or three little errands."

After he had gone she dressed leisurely taking particular care with every detail of her toilet. Judith had scorned the attentions of a personal maid. She had no intention of subjecting herself to such a servant's disdain. But she had found it possible to stretch the process of dressing from half an hour (at the same time watching toaster and coffee pot) to three times that long. Results easily justified the longer process.

When Knight returned he found her in a short white linen frock, white shoes and hose, a colorful silk scarf about her shoulders. He told her they would take the boat sailing next morning.

"It's our last day, Judith," he added, trying to be casually cheerful. "It ought to be the best yet! What's the program?"

She decided on a long drive along one of the interior roads. It brought them back to the hotel late for lunch but with good appetites. After that they changed and went to the beach for their daily swim. In the evening instead of dancing they took one of the white-winged sailboats and floated far down the harbor. Lights from the town and remote cottages played about like fireflies.

"Arthur," Judith spoke softly, "it's been heavenly!"

He brushed her hair with a kiss without replying.

The moon, high overhead, rode in clouds—a pale, still lady revealing only a portion of her charms. The water, lapping in constant monotony, seemed very deep and black.

It was good to feel Arthur's arm, so close and protecting Judith thought.

When at last they decided to go to their rooms she told herself that day had been as perfect, certainly as any last day can ever be.

There was bustle and stir next morning, getting the luggage off to the boat, saying farewells and listening to them, trying to remember where this was and what had become of that, finally stepping into the quaint carriage for the last slow ride to the docks, trying to drink in all the riotous, luxuriance of blossoms and trees and shrubbery and to paint them in memory against a background of sky and sea.

Judith Knight felt that she must remember every blessed detail of that picturesque landscape. She must, she must!

And though there were wrenchings at heart to leave it all behind and walk up the gangplank, still the good ship was familiar, too, and seemed to offer friendly greeting. There were men and women about with whom they had become acquainted at the hotel.

As the band struck up its spirited music and the ship eased gradually seaward, Judith and Arthur Knight were both at the railing waving and joining in the cheers of departure.

The six weeks' honeymoon had shrunk to only one.

That first afternoon they spent on the sun deck, joining in ship tennis and shuffleboard at which Judith made very, very bad scores so that Arthur jeered at her. To make up for that he had to buy her very special cakes at teatime.

Judith seemed overwrought with nervous energy. She wanted to be doing something every minute. Bridge was too quiet for her and so they danced after dinner. She wore her black gown and was easily the most attractive woman present. Partners flocked about her.

At 11 o'clock she said she had had enough dancing.

"But it's a fine night," Arthur protested. "Too fine to spend inside a stateroom."

They wandered up to the top deck. In a nook sheltered by lifeboats they found deck chairs. Full and insistent came the ocean's roar and the sound of churning spray. The moon's light cast a dripping golden path across the water.

The two sat silent for a time. Judith's heart was beating rapidly. There were things she wanted to ask Arthur Knight and which she dared not. She wanted to know things of which he had never spoken. She could not forces these confidences.

Many times Judith had wondered about the first Mrs. Knight, who was Tony's mother. Arthur had mentioned her but once, and then in a way to repel questioning.

Judith felt a natural respect for privacy. There was another, more powerful seal upon her tongue. Judith Knight could not ask questions because she herself refused to answer them.

And yet so much that she must know about Tony Knight depended upon the sort of woman the girl's mother had been. Judith wanted to ask questions. Instead she pressed Arthur's hand firmly.

The man spoke, proving that their minds followed similar channels.

"It's going to be — a trifle awkward," he said, hesitatingly. "Perhaps after all I should have written Tony and Junior about our marriage."

"Perhaps," Judith echoed.

Suddenly she clung to him fiercely.

"Arthur," she cried, "Arthur—you do believe in me—don't you?" In the dim light the man could read the measureless terror of those blue eyes.

VALLEY THREATENED

Influx From Melting Snow Increases Apprehension

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 13. (AP)—Continued rainfall together with prospect of a considerable inflow from melting snow in the upper reaches of the Mississippi today increased apprehension regarding high water in the lower valley.

From the Ohio river to Vicksburg, Miss., streams were rising, several hundred families in Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas and Mississippi had been forced to leave their homes and business was affected in at least two villages.

Forecasts of colder weather and clear skies which allaygd concern in the valley several days ago had failed to materialize.

Couldn't Do Lick Of Work For Many Months

Took So Many Treatments Without Relief That He Almost Lost Hope—Amarillo Ranchman Says After Taking Orgatone He Feels Like Different Man Now

"I was so crippled up with rheumatism for the past several months that I couldn't do a lick of work. In fact, I was confined to my bed, but since taking Orgatone I can jump up and crack my heels together like a sixteen year-old boy," said Wm. Louis Wilson, a well known ranchman and stockman residing on rural route 2, five miles of Amarillo, Texas.

"About a year ago," he continued, "I started having trouble with my stomach and a rheumatic condition and would have sick dizzy fainting spells. Rheumatism got me in its grip and the pain I suffered in my limbs almost drove me distracted. My nerves were all worn out so I could hardly get my rest and many a night I was too miserable to close my eyes at all."

"I had taken so much medicine the last few months without getting any relief that I had little faith left in anything, but when I read in the newspapers about what the people right here in Amarillo, were saying about Orgatone and they praised it so highly, I decided to try it and was certainly surprised when I noticed a decided improvement by the time I had finished my first bottle. I slept better, my nerves grew stronger and from then on my improvement was rapid. After taking it a few weeks I feel young and invigorating and a whole lot better than I have in a long time, I have full use of my limbs once more, which goes to prove that this medicine Orgatone helped me out of my bed after everything else had failed. My nerves are all right now, I sleep like a rock and my rheumatism has completely disappeared, I have every confidence in Orgatone and am going to keep it up for some time, as I am now able to get around once more like I used to."

Genuine Orgatone may be bought in Lubbock at Bowen's Drug Store. Adv.

Early Decline Is Followed By Rise In Values Monday

Renewal Of Trade Buying And Coverings Cause Of Advances; Opening Is Steady At 1 Point Up

NEW YORK, Jan. 13. (AP) — An early decline in cotton today under liquidation by some of last week's buyers and local or southern selling, was followed by advances on a renewal of trade buying and covering. March contracts sold up from 17.40 @17.57 and closed at 17.53 with the general market closing steady at net advances of 3 to 8 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 1 point to a decline of 4 points with March and later deliveries soon showing net losses of 7 to 9 points under realizing or liquidation by buyers of last week who seemed to be disappointed over the failure of Liverpool to show a greater response to the New York strength of Saturday, and an idea that last week's rally had eased the technical position of the local market.

Offerings Light.

The offerings were not heavy, however, and the market steadied on a renewal of trade demand and covering. The latter became more active in the late trading with prices making new highs for the day and the present movement when January sold at 17.39, May at 17.81 and July at 17.95, or about 6 to 10 points net higher. Closing quotations were a few points off from the best under realizing.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 13. (AP) — While moderately active cotton was nervous and erratic today; waiting for the inauguration of operations of the new co-operative sales corporation which was incorporated in Delaware, after opening 3 to 4 points or two more in early trading on the execution of buying orders carried over the week-end, prices eased 10 to 12 points on the absence of any further news from the Farm Loan Board but promptly rallied 8 points from the lows on advices that the sales association had been actually incorporated.

The market improved in late trading on buying on the news of the incorporation spreading and all the early decline was recovered. March after advancing to 17.42, up 6 points declined 12 points to 17.30, and closed at 17.40, or 4 points net higher for the day. The general market closed steady.

The explosion occurred near the Truesdale Colliery of the Glen Alden company. The payroll, containing $33,000, was intact except for a few bills which were torn to pieces by the force of the explosion. No trace of the bandits was found. An organized search of the section, which is isolated, immediately was begun.

reports. The majority of the prison centralization commission created by the second called session of the legislature has recommended a modern, industrialized plant to be constructed on a site of 1,000 acres within 20 miles of Austin. The plant, according to estimates, would cost $4,000,000.

Two Reports Up

There were two minority reports, one suggesting rehabilitation of the Huntsville prison and other proposing a modern, central plant on the Imperial state farm near Houston.

"The physical properties now constituting the Texas prison system are of such a nature as to make impossible the efficient operation of a modern penal institution, and are responsible for the failure of the prison system to accomplish the major and more important purposes of such an institution; and the nature of said properties are such as to encourage the escape of inmates, and the attempted operation of said properties as a prison system have constituted a continuous and expensive drain upon the resources of this state for years," the governor wrote in his proclamation.

Hog Prices Close Steady After Slow Start Around Eleven Market Circuit

MID-WESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 13. (AP) — Hog trade around the 11-market circuit, after a slow start at steady to 15c lower prices, closed steady to strong at most points with all interests buying. The top of 9.90 was paid at St. Louis. Offerings 153,200, a decrease of 26,500 from a week ago and 44,500 short of the corresponding day last year.

Fat lambs were tendered a price jolt of 25 to 50c and at Chicago matured classes of sheep slumped 50 to 75c. Most points reported steady values on aged stock. Choice light weight lambs at Chicago 14.15. The supply approximated 78,600 against 59,834 last Monday and 94,896 a year ago.

Receipts Lower.

Cattle receipts 82,200 or 7,000 less than a week ago and 14,000 under a year ago. Killing classes of cattle except better lightweight steers and yearlings were under pressure. Chicago reported a break of 50c on all grades of steers scaling above 1,300 lbs., with some sales off 75 cents. Choice 1,000 lb. yearlings at Chicago $16. Best heavy steers $15. There was a fairly broad demand of better grade of stocker and feeder steers, but at a few centers some weakness developed on off-quality kind. Choice 409 lb. white faced stock steer calves on the Kansas City market made $13.

Morning Sales on Cattle Are Steady

FORT WORTH, Jan. 13. (AP) — Morning sales at the Fort Worth stock yards today were about steady on cattle. Hogs about 15c lower, and aged wethers in the sheep division about 50c higher. The supply of cattle was fairly liberal.

Prices of Wheat Close at Lowest

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13. (AP)—Despite rallies in the late trading, Chicago wheat prices today finished at the lowest closing level shown here for some time. Among depressing factors was a surprise increase of 4,-60,000 bushels in the wheat supplies afloat, together with word that France, usually an importing country, is selling wheat to Great Britain. Announcement of 3,311,000 bushels decrease of the United States wheat visible supply failed to act as a counterbalance.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were nervous at 1c to 1 5-8c a bushel under Saturday's finish. Corn closed unchanged to 1-4 to 3-8c higher, oats 1-4c to 1-2c and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2c.

Downturns in wheat values at Liverpool today did much to bring price setbacks here as soon as trading began.

I consented to serve on a salary which was reduced by $40 per month."

Loan Secured

He stated that there still remained some feeling among members regarding the church building program but that he was instructed to secure a loan and close out contract. "This was done," he continued, "contract let and deeds of church property placed in escrow at the bank with contract for completion of the building.

"Outside church officials called for a church meeting last Wednesday night and some seven members stated their objections. I immediately tendered my resignation to take effect two weeks after completion of the building but that was not yet satisfactory to the dissenting parties. I then tendered my resignation to take effect on January 12, tentative to the church board paying my salary to date. This was finally agreed upon."

Rev. Cagle last night stated that no pastor had yet been selected for the local church but that announcement probably would be made by Wednesday night. Mrs. Cagle is to preach at the worship hour Wednesday evening.

Trading Falls To Lowest Ebb Seen In Year And Half

Stock Exchange Monday Has Smallest Turnover Since July, 1928; Drives Unsuccessful

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13. (AP) — The stock market continued to dawdle today, trading falling to the lowest ebb witnessed in a year and a half. Total sales were 1,452,580 shares, the smallest turnover since July 23, 1928, when 1,407,500 shares were traded.

The outstanding item of the day's news was announcement of prompt over-subscription of the $150,000,-000 issue of American Telephone bonds, indicating that the demand for investment securities of the better grade still survives.

Bear drives have been dismally unsuccessful of late.

The market has not yet touched the lowest levels of activity reached in July, 1928, when the so-called Coolidge bull market received a blow with an increase in the Federal Reserve bank rate. On only three days of the month did total sales exceed 2,000,000 shares, and the minimum for a full session was less than 1,200,000.

CITIES NOT LIABLE

Importing Gas To Avoid Tax Allowed By Ruling

AUSTIN, Jan. 13. (AP)—Municipalities which import gasoline for their use from other states are not liable to the four cent occupation tax levied by the legislature, Assistant Attorney General Rice M. Tilley held in an opinion today.

The opinion declared the tax was levied against "wholesale or distributors," and that these were not compelled to add it to the price of gasoline sold to consumers unless they cared to do so.

Comptroller S. H. Terrell had asked for a ruling after the city of Fort Worth brought in a carload of gasoline from Oklahoma for use in its fire trucks, police cars and in other city functions.

RESTRICTION ASKED

Proposed Bill Would Hold Down Immigration

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP) — Drastic restriction of immigration from countries in the western hemisphere is proposed in bills sponsored by Chairman Johnson, of the house immigration committee, and Representative Box of Texas, the ranking minority member of that committee.

The measures, both of which plan to limit the total quota to 50,000 immigrants a year from Canada, Mexico, and Central and South American countries, will be brought up before the committee tomorrow. Arrangements are to be made for early hearings.

Although often at odds on immigration questions, Johnson and Box —both are recognized as authorized on immigration — are in agreement on the restriction plan.

ANSWER AID CALL

U. S. Engineer Corps Helps Flood Stricken Area

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 13. (AP) — United States engineer corps headquarters here answered its first call for aid today as tributaries of the Mississippi river continued the rise which has inundated lowlands in half a dozen states and driven hundreds of families to higher ground.

Rains over the upper watershed backed up predictions that the end is not yet in sight.

River levees throughout the valley were holding. In the bottom lands the water was spreading steadily over widening areas. Damage has been comparatively small, lowlands dwellers moving to higher ground in advance of the encroaching water.

Annual Treasury Supply Bill For 1931 Is Reported

No Increase In Outlay For Prohibition Enforcement Included In Treasury And Postoffice Measure

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP) — Carrying no increase in outlay for prohibition enforcement, the treasury-postoffice annual supply bill for the fiscal year 1931, providing $1,147,778,692 was reported today to the house by its appropriations committee.

The measure set aside $835,494,077 for the postoffice department, an increase of $17,478,352 over the appropriations for the current year and $312,234,615 for the treasury department, a decrease of $5,371,919. The total for the two departments, however, is $13,073,950 less than the budget estimates.

The permanent and indefinite appropriations for the treasury, which are made automatically, totalled $1,380,328,935, a decrease of $25,840,347. In this sum $619,000,000 is set aside for interest on the public debt and $395,624,000 is provided for the sinking fund.

Although only $15,000,000 is carried in the regular appropriations for prohibition enforcement, the same as provided for the current year, the sum of $32,123,040 is allotted the coast guard, of which $16,807,190 is designated for anti-smuggling work. The coast guard appropriation proposed is $2,452,869 more than that for the current year and provides for an increase of 110 enlisted men, 23 new commissioned officers, 35 additional cadets at the coast guard academy. The committee pointed out in its reports that the increase in enlisted men will be necessitated by the addition of three new cutters in 1931.

Increase For Customs.

The customs service was allotted $22,952,160, an increase of $579,300 over the current year to provide for additional personnel to take care of growing demands at ports.

Contrary to the usual treasury-postoffice supply measures the bill does not provide for the undertaking of any new public building projects. The committee pointed out that additional appropriations for new projects are expected later.

The bill reduced the budget estimates for the postoffice department by $3,256,500. The allotment for airplane contract mail service in this country amounts to $15,000,000, an increase of $1,700,000. In the outlay for ocean mail contracts the sum of $12,632,040 is set aside for carrying out 25 contracts entered into under the merchant marine act of 1928. The committee said these contracts provided for 21 new vessels in the American merchant marine, to cost $84,000,000. It estimated that 38 ocean mail carrying contracts would require 50 vessels to be constructed at a cost of $259,000,000.

It was estimated that the revenues from the postal service would amount to $754,400,400 during the fiscal year 1931, and the amount carried in the bill for that service is $835,500,000, showing a prospective deficit of $81,000,000.

Lamesa Luncheon Club Entertains 4-H Club Members of County; Eight Guests

(Special To The Avalanche)

LAMESA, Jan. 13. — Gaining an insight into work of 4-H club boys in Dawson county, business men of Lamesa at a recent meeting of the Lamesa Luncheon club entertained eight members of clubs in the county.

The eight club boys were introduced as "young farmers who had excelled in their agricultural projects and won distinction in state, district and nation."

Olgee Gowen, one of the eight boys, and a winner of a free trip to the National Livestock Exposition in Chicago, made a profit of $453.26 during last year with an average of 189 laying hens. The free trip was awarded Gowen by the Texas Cotton Seed Crushers association through their educational service. He attended the National 4-H club boys council while in Chicago.

Luther Peterson won similar honors with one dairy calf from which he developed a $200 animal, not counting show earnings. By meeting the requirements of the contest he made a record which is highly appreciated locally.

W. C. Wright inspired the members present with an interesting address of facts which he gained from three years club work. He demonstrated his speech with a beefroast, ham, one dozen eggs and a bottle of milk. By the side of each exhibit was a farm grown ration showing a required amount to produce beef, pork, eggs and milk. He has been the recipient of two free national trips for his excellent record in club work.

Olen Peterson, a pig and calf club boy, represented Dawson county at the A. and M. college short course recently. Peterson was among the eight boys present during the luncheon. Others were L. J. Hohn, who represented the county at the Panhandle and South Plains Dairy show, Howell Merrick, who won a gold medal for his outstanding sheep growing record, Doyle Ranson, who represented this county during a recent livestock judging team, Another club boy, Fred Rainey, illustrated a short talk with 1 1-2 pounds of line-bred bagged yellow maize which produced 2,100 pounds of milo seed from the planting.

In addition to the boys mentioned above who have represented Dawson county in state, national and district trips are a number who have won local awards. The business men were warm in their praise of the club work and excellent showing by the young 4-H farmers.

More than 100 out of the 150 club boys in the county showed a substantial profit from their projects in 1929, according to the county agent. Some of the beginners have turned out excellent showings.

W. H. McCulloch, a beginner, realized a profit above feed and labor of $108.63 with one pure-bred sow. Verney Towns realized an amount just four cents less with a pure-bred Jersey calf. Other members who made substantial profits during their first year are Fred and Roy Hughes and Travis Van Zandt. The Hughes brothers cleared a profit of more than $50 with hogs, while Van Zandt made clear money with hogs and milo.

Girl To Declare Testimony Untrue

Daughter Admits That She Testified Falsely To Send Father To Prison For Twenty-Five Years

TEXARKANA, Jan. 13. —(AP)—A girl who says she sent her father to prison by false testimony in his trial for attacking her today planned to swear to a deposition that her testimony was untrue in an effort to secure a pardon for him.

Viola Duke, 19, arrived here yesterday from Memphis, Tenn., where she was an inmate of the Home of the Good Shepherd, accompanied by Memphis' chief probation officer, Miss Beulah Wood Pite. Both prepared depositions which will be submitted to the Texas pardon board.

Served Five Years

James C. Duke, 62, the father, has served five years of a 25-year sentence imposed upon him in Navarro county district court. Duke and his daughter lived in Corsicana at the time of the alleged attack.

He pleaded guilty to the charge because he feared the electric chair in case of a conviction on a plea of not guilty. Duke asserted after the trial. An effort to secure a pardon when Miriam Ferguson was governor failed because the girl's deposition was not made in Texas.

The Duke girl in her deposition said two girls whom her father had forbidden her to go with suggested she accuse him after she had been intimate with one of a trio of boys with whom the girls were associated.
