NEW 6 STORY BUILDING PLANNED Lynch Davidson Lustily Greeted At Tech FIRE DAMAGES TWO BUILDINGS HERE

MAIN STREET IS SCENE OF EARLY MORNING FLAMES

RESTAURANT AND TAILOR SHOP BURNED; OTHER BUILDINGS SMOKED

Fire, which was discovered about 4 o'clock Friday morning in the rear of the White Rose cafe on the north side of the square here gutted the cafe, the Ideal Tailor shop, and did considerable damage to the Simms Oil company station and the Economy Store, adjoining buildings before it could be brought under control by the Lubbock fire department.

The origin of the flames is not known, as no one was in the building. An explosion, presumably caused by the dense smoke which gathered in the cafe sent the plate glass considerable distance from the scene. No one was hurt in the explosion, but in an effort to break into the rear door of the building, Earl Martin, volunteer fireman sustained a severe cut on the hand. He attempted to break through a tin panel of the door with his fists, and his hand was caught in the metal leaving a deep laceration on the side of the member just behind the little finger.

Ford Escapes injury
Vernice Ford, Deputy Sheriff, miraculously escaped injury when he was dragged several feet on the pavement by the fire truck which was laying a string of hose. The driver, attempting to stop in a hurry, slammed the machinery out of gear, and in his haste overlooked the fact that the gears had meshed in reverse. When the clutch was released, the truck lurched backward, knocking Mr. Ford to the ground, but he caught the running board, and was dragged for some distance uninjured.

The cafe and tailor shop were gutted by the flames, which had gained much headway before they were discovered, but the damage to the two adjoining buildings was mostly by smoke and water. The Economy Store was completely filled with smoke, but no water was put in the building. The flames threatened the Simms Filling station for a time, but were checked before they had made any headway.

Carpenters were busy Friday making an estimate of the damages for insurance firms, and no definite statement has been obtained in this connection early this afternoon.

Mrs. Ferguson Goes To Open Her Drive

AUSTIN, May 21. (AP)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson left today for Sulphur Springs, where Saturday she will open her campaign for party were her husband, James E. Ferguson, Miss Dorrance Ferguson, Mrs. Lena West Guinn, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Fanklow, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Smith.

Texas Army Lands Offered For Sale

WASHINGTON, May 21. (AP)—The Secretary of War has been authorized to sell 25 acres of Fort Ringgold military reservation at Rio Grande City, Texas, under a bill passed by the Senate and sent to the House.

Blaylock Pleads For Support of Air Mail

DALLAS, May 21. (AP)—A special appeal to Dallas business interests and the citizenship in general to support the Dallas-Fort Worth-Chicago air mail was issued today in a proclamation by Mayor Louis Blaylock.

"The early support given by Dallas and the Southwest will perpetuate or kill the air mail line in the Southwest," he said. "The city is sending its correspondence by air route. Dallas has been under the guaranteed amount of mail since the first day."

WACO MAN DIES

WACO, May 21. (AP)—Isaac Sammons, 70, prominent Waco retired business man, died at the home of his daughter today. He has been a resident of Texas for 51 years.

Property Here To Be Sold Soon For Delinquent Taxes

Approximately 100 judgments for delinquent state and county taxes in Lubbock county were rendered against defendants during the regular April term of district court here, and District Clerk Louie Moore has been instructed to issue orders of sale on the property involved wherein judgment has been granted. It was announced here Friday. The sale of all properties is scheduled to be held on the second Tuesday in July.

The date of sale was fixed as the second Tuesday in July in order to allow ample time to advertise the property after the writs are placed in the hands of the Sheriff, and the defendant in each suit will be called upon to relinquish his property involved in the judgments.

700 Suits Are Filed
Approximately 700 suits were filed early in the year through the County Attorney, some of which were redeemed before coming up for hearing, and in numerous other cases, service on the defendant was not completed in time for the Spring term of court. Hence, judgment could not be taken at the term just closed, but will be entered at the August term if service has been completed in the meantime, Mr. Moore said Friday.

Contrary to the general opinion of the public in the matter, officers of the court cannot be arbitrary in connection with the suits. Under a recent act of the Texas Legislature, the County Attorney has no choice in filling the suits, but must proceed at the end of each year with the filings or suffer the consequences.

Up until the last session of the Legislature, the filing of tax suits was optional, and no special pressure was brought to bear, but under the present statute, suits must be filed at the end of each year for the previous year if taxes went delinquent. All suits now pending in the court cover delinquent taxes for the years 1925 to 1926 inclusive, Mr. Moore said.

Gober To Manage Team At Littlefield

Elmer (Emma) Gober, well known baseball man of Lubbock, has entered into a contract with Littlefield as manager of the amateur ball club there, effective immediately, and will take over the managerial reins at the Lamb county capital Sunday when the club from there meets the Lubbock Hubbers at the Merrill park.

Gober said Friday that he knows virtually nothing yet of the material that will be at his disposal, but he has promised South Plains fans that a good game is in store for them. He said that he will have the services of Vernon Brown, another Lubbock man who will wear the Littlefield uniform.

Republican Bosses Rally For Meeting

FORT WORTH, May 21. (AP)—Preliminary meetings in connection with the state-wide republican conference which meets here tomorrow began with Walter P. Napier of San Antonio, attorney, as a strong possibility for temporary chairman. For permanent chairman Orville Bullington of Wichita Falls, N. H. West of Brownsville and G. N. Harrison of Brownwood have been mentioned.

Early arrivals said that two men had been eliminated from consideration as gubernatorial candidates, H. Rogers of San Antonio and Mike H. Thomas, Dallas.

Journal News Reel

W. A. Myrick will build six-story building on Avenue J. Two buildings on Main street gutted by fire early today and two others damaged by water and smoke from early morning blaze. Lynch Davidson, candidate for Governor, speaks at Tech this morning and at courthouse tonight. Property here will be sold soon for delinquent taxes. City commission will rush building of extension at the city light and power plant. Nude chorus girl and champagne at Earl Carroll's bathtub party. Two held after attempted burglary of Northside grocery here last night. Maurice Powell, Lubbock student at New Mexico Military Institute, receives appointment to West Point. Babe Ruth hits homer number 15.

SONGSTERS MAKE CANDIDATE FEEL CITY'S WELCOME

HOUSTON MAN WILL TALK TO VOTERS IN CITY AT 8 TONIGHT

A Lubbock quartette today claimed the honor of introducing the first campaign song into the 1926 gubernatorial race of Texas, when it appeared before a thousand students of Texas Tech and Lubbock citizens, gathered to hear Lynch Davidson, Houston, and sang a ditty entitled "Don't Let Pa Drive No More."

The final verse ran:
"Pa wants some vindication,
He thinks our hearts will soften;
His plate is going empty,
He passed it once too often."
The tune was that "Ain't Gonna Rain No More," and the refrain was to the effect that—
"We'll ride with Lynch
'Cause he's a Cinch.
Don't let Pa drive no more."

Members of the quartette were Vernon Eagan, Shelton Etheridge Eagan and Horace Grady Moore.
Mr. Davidson Speaks
After appearing before the Tech audience, Mr. Davidson was the guest of Lubbock business men at Tech cafe and afterwards drove to Slaton, where he addressed a large audience and will return again to Lubbock for an address tonight.

Denies Attack On Capital
In his addresses at Lubbock and Slaton, Mr. Davidson denied that he is attacking corporations or capital. "I am only attacking such corporations and capitalists as attempt to piffle nature's strong-box, and gobble up the resources which have been stored there for future generations," he said. Taking a leaf from his own experience as a sawmill hand in East Texas, Mr. Davidson told of the time when he was struggling to get the little patch of pine trees on which he built his financial independence. "I did not know it, but Jim Hogg was fighting my battles for me, by having the alien land laws and the anti-trust laws of this state passed, which prevented a Michigan corporation from coming in and seizing the timber lands of the state as the Standard Oil Company today is seizing the oil lands. My intention is to do the same."

Parrish Is Speaker At Firemen's Meet

Mayor Pink L. Parrish, of the city of Lubbock, was the principal speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Lubbock Fire department Thursday night when approximately two dozen of the boys, including volunteers, gathered around the council table.

Mayor Parrish commended very highly efforts of the fire department in keeping the fire loss of the city down to the low mark that has been maintained here, and said that city officials would co-operate in every way possible with the department.

Appointment To West Point Is Offered To Maurice Powell, 16

William Maurice Powell, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Powell, 1202 Avenue N., yesterday received an appointment to the United States Military Academy, at West Point, New York, through Congressman Marvin Jones, of Amarillo. Whether or not he will accept the appointment is not known at this time.

The appointment, which came unsolicited, arrived by telegram yesterday, and the required information returned to Congressman Jones. Maurice Powell is completing his third year of high school work at Roswell, New Mexico where he is spending his second year as a cadet in New Mexico Military Academy. He is a product of the ward school system here and attended Lubbock high school prior to going to Roswell, where he has been prominent both in musical and athletic activities.

Dallas Supporters Of Time Change Lose

DALLAS, May 21. (AP)—Proponents of daylight savings time in Dallas, who have been leading in a mail referendum being conducted, were losing their lead today, Mayor Louis Blaylock said. The mayor and some other city officials oppose the change.

Nude Chorus Girl And Champagne Both In Bathtub, First Testimony In Earl Carroll's Trial Reveals

Preacher Shiek

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, May 21.—Testimony that Joyce Hawley, a show girl, actually was in a both tub from which men drank champagne at a party given by Earl Carroll, theatrical producer, was recorded in his trial for perjury today. Arthur F. Irwin, a reporter for the Daily Mirror, gave this testimony after introductory testimony yesterday.

Carroll is charged with having testified that liquor was served in his testimony before a grand jury which investigated the "bathtub party" given on the stage of his theatre.

He Took Two Drinks.
Irwin said he took two drinks of champagne from the tub before Miss Hawley entered it. In his testimony yesterday he named several prominent persons among the guests and before adjournment of court for the day had just testified that he saw some one in the tub.

He said on the stand today that Carroll himself invited the guests to line up and have Miss Hawley serve them drinks from the tub in which she was sitting.

Philip A. Payne, managing editor of the Daily Mirror, testified Carroll told him the tub was filled with wine. "Don't go away," Irwin said to a little wail of a stunt, "Carroll told him as he was about to leave the theatre. 'I'm going to have a girl take a bath in a tub of wine.'"

Okays Newspaper Story.
Payne said he asked Carroll if it would be all right to publish the story of the wine bath.

"Go as far as you like," Payne said Carroll replied.

Guests were sitting in orchestra seats Payne said. The bathtub was in the center of the stage. A girl in negligee approached Carroll who was standing by the tub, he said. Carroll removed from the shoulders of another girl a green cloak and placed it on the girl in negligee.

As Carroll held the green coat over her shoulders, Payne said, the fluffy negligee garments were seen to drop to the floor. With Carroll still holding the green coat, Payne said, the girl stepped into the tub and Carroll removed the cloak.

"The line forms to the right," Payne said Carroll shouted, turning to the guests in the orchestra seats.

Guests formed in a line to the right of the tub, Payne said, and drank from glasses filled with the wine taken from the tub.

City To Cut Off Delinquent Patrons

All users of light, power and water from the utility lines of the city of Lubbock who are delinquent with their payments, will be deprived of the service immediately unless accounts are squared up, it was announced Friday by W. H. Perkins, Public Utility supervisor as a result of authorization of such a move given him by the City Commission in regular session here late Thursday.

City officials are making an effort to give the people of Lubbock an economical administration, and do not believe it is fair to make one patron pay his accounts regularly while another does not do this, with both getting the same service, Mr. Perkins said.

Two Held After A Burglary Attempt

E. E. Whitehead and "Toughy" Utley, who were arrested by City Patrolman Strassere in the wholesale district late Thursday night in connection with attempted burglary at the Northside Grocery, were turned over to county officials Friday morning by the police department, and the two are being held in the Lubbock county jail for investigation.

They will probably be called upon to face a charge of burglary in connection with the Northside Grocery case, Deputy Sheriff Vernice Ford said Friday, and the possibility that they may be charged in connection with other similar cases.

The two were scared out of the grocery establishment late Thursday night by C. R. White, owner of the business who said he saw them enter through the side door. White rushed them with a gun, he said, firing two shots which went wild, and they bolted through the front door into the arms of the patrolman, who lodged them in the city bastille.

Utley is well known to the police here, Sergeant Motcal said Friday.

W. A. MYRICK TO PUT SKYSCRAPER UP ON AVENUE J

SECOND HIGH STRUCTURE WILL HORN SKYLINE IN LUBBOCK

The Myrick building, on Avenue J between Broadway and 13th St., here is to be six stories in height instead of four as was the original plan, it was announced here Friday following the return from Dallas of W. A. Myrick, Sr., who with his two sons, Walter, Jr. and Russell, own the property.

Mr. Myrick returned from Dallas last week where he had been to close a contract for steel that will be used in extension of the building.

The structure, construction work on which is now under way, is to be of reinforced concrete throughout similar to the new Lubbock Hotel that is fast being brought to completion, and will feature a fireproof through-out as it is possible to make it, the announcement said.

Peters and Haynes, local architectural firm, are now busy with plans for the extension, which will be made in conformity with the portion of the structure that already has been built.

The building, which will equal Lubbock's skyline established by the new Lubbock Hotel, is looked upon as a concrete evidence of the faith that Messrs. Myrick have in the future of Lubbock, both from a standpoint of progressiveness and from an investment standpoint, and the few friends of the builders who have yet heard of the plans join the Daily Journal in extending congratulations for the progressiveness exhibited by the move. It is the plan of the owners to rush construction work all that is possible.

English Mine Fuss Not Yet Ironed Out

LONDON, May 21. (AP)—The mine owners today informed the government that Premier Baldwin's compromise suggestions for ending the coal tie-up would limit freedom of administration and would not increase the efficiency of the industry.

The owners urged restoration of the eight hour day to reduce cost of production. They maintain that if this were accepted the reduction in wages would be less than at present. The seven hour day is now the standard in the mines.

The miners have already rejected Premier Baldwin's proposals refusing to accept increased hours or reduced wages.

American Captain Is Released By Chinese

PEKING, May 21. (AP)—After two days captivity in the hands of bandits in the Northern Yunnan province, one of the most remote parts of China, Captain Thomas J. Betts, United States army, is again a free man, the American legation was informed today.

Myrl S. Myers, United States consul at Yunnan-Fu, telegraphed the legation he had been advised by the local magistrate of Lawow, scene of Captain Betts' capture, that the bandits had leashed their prisoner on May 19.

Mrs. J. C. Granbery
Suggests Activities
For City Federation

Things which the City Federation might do to improve the social, civic and cultural phases of Lubbock life were discussed by Mrs. J. C. Granbery Thursday afternoon at a regular meeting of the organization at the First Baptist church.

Mrs. Charles Franklin Smith, of Amarillo, who is to sing this evening at the Baptist church under the sponsorship of the Delphian club, gave two songs which were well received and Edgar Shelton sang two songs. Miss Lois Pressley accompanied Mrs. Smith and Prof. W. R. Washburne accompanied Mr. Shelton.

A program outlined by the executive board in session Monday afternoon was accepted by the federation. This program included the appointment of committees on location and tentative plans for a club house and a committee to plan an art exhibit for next winter. Mrs. Tom Stone made the report from the executive meeting. Mrs. J. V. Conner and Mrs. Fred Snyder were appointed on the art exhibit committee and another member is to be named.

After suggesting a number of things that the club might do, Mrs. Granbery admonished the members not to undertake too many things at once but to do each thing well. It will be necessary for the federation members to practice what the federation is "preaching" in its program, she said.

Among the suggested activities for the federation, made by Mrs. Granbery, were the following: welcome meeting for new citizens on July 4, new citizens being recent arrivals in the city and boys and girls who have become of voting age; meetings in which each candidate for an office is given an opportunity to state his platform; citizenship schools in which the machinery of voting and such things are taught; cooperation with the schools in securing the services of public health nurses and assisting the city in enforcing the ordinance prohibiting the sale of junk.

Miss Frances Hoffman
Is Reception Honoree

Invitations have been received here announcing a reception at 2215 Main street, next Thursday afternoon honoring Miss Frances Hoffman, of Station. Hostesses are to be Mrs. R. J.

Murray, Mrs. A. L. Robertson, of Station, and Mrs. Kenneth Kimbro.
Spanish Club Enjoys
Picnic by Moonlight

A moonlight picnic was enjoyed by members of the Tech Spanish club at Buffalo Springs Thursday evening as the last regular meeting of the year. Spanish "games" were played after which a Mexican dinner of hot tamales, frijoles, tortillas, ginger ale and ice cream was served. A called meeting will be held next week for the election of officers. It was announced that those who attended the picnic were Mr. and Mrs. Harry N. Roberts, Dr. J. C. Granbery, C. B. Qualls, Miss Frances Whitbey, C. W. Ratliff, Richard Cavitt, Inez Medlock, Agnes Brown, Wayne Burkhardt, Iris Crawford, Ilene McFarlane, Mildred Bagley, Maude Deen Skeen, Coleen Parker, Fumelle Lyle, Margaret Bell, Minyard Roberts, Claiborne Bell, Ray Waller and Vivian Burran.

1911 Needle Club In Enjoyable Meeting

One of the most enjoyable meetings of the 1911 Needle club this spring was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. P. Patterson, on Main street, with Mrs. O. D. Hargis as joint hostess. Red and pink verbenas in bowls made the rooms very attractive. Following sewing and chatting, strawberry ice cream, coconut cake, salted almonds and mints were served to the following: Mesdames Will Murray, J. S. Johnson, W. E. Bush, T. R. Prudeaux, T. W. Sawyer, J. H. Hankins, R. Q. Pierce, Fred Snyder, Floyd Beall, R. L. Ragsdale, of Childress, Glen Hess, W. H. Bledsoe, F. A. Norman, F. R. Friend, W. C. Rylander, R. A. Barclay, M. C. Overton, J. T. Hutchinson and the hostesses.

Menus
for the Family

BY SISTER MARY
Breakfast—Grapefruit, cereal cooked with dates, thin cream, broiled salt mackerel, delicate muffins, crisp toast, milk, coffee.
Luncheon—Baked macaroni and tomatoes, toasted muffins, rhubarb gelatin with whipped cream, caramel cookies, milk tea.
Dinner—Broiled fish steaks, potatoes in parsley butter, creamed carrots and peas, cherry salad, lemon meringue pie, graham bread, milk, coffee.

The breakfast menu suggested takes care of juniors under school age as well as adults. Small "runabouts" should be served orange juice, the cereal suggested with cream, toast and milk.
Cherry salad is rather out of the ordinary and, while it may be a bit fussy to make, it's really most delicious.

AMARILLO CONTRALTO WILL SING
HERE TONIGHT; PROCEEDS WILL GO INTO CITY CLUB HOUSE FUND

Mrs. Charles Franklin Smith, prominent Amarillo club woman, will be presented in contralto recital at the First Baptist church at 8:30 o'clock this evening under the sponsorship of the Delphian club. Local artists will assist in giving the recital and the proceeds will go into a fund for building a club house in the city. Miss Lois Pressley will accompany the singer.

Mrs. Smith is president of the Harmony Club, of Amarillo. She sang at the Children's convention of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, seventh district, in April and was well received by the delegates. It was because of her singing there that she was brought to Lubbock to sing. She sang at the City Federation meeting yesterday afternoon and expressed opinions were that her singing was especially beautiful as to tonal qualities and ease in singing.

She sings especially for clubs in raising funds and in club programs as she is particularly interested in the work of women. In this way she has appeared in many Texas cities as well as those of other states. Her singing has always received hearty approbation from her audiences.

The program for this evening follows:
Caro Mio Ben.....Giordani
Im Kahne.....Grieg
Mrs. C. F. Smith

Cherry Salad
One cup white cherries, 1 package Neufchatel cheese, 1 teaspoon finely chopped English walnuts, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon cream.
Wash and dry cherries and remove stones. Chill. Combine cheese, nuts, lemon juice and cream and work with a fork until perfectly blended. Fill cherries with cheese mixture and serve on hearts of lettuce with French dressing.

Sections of grapefruit can be added. If dark red cherries are used the contrasting color of the grapefruit makes an unusually pretty salad. Let grapefruit stand in sugar for at least an hour before combining with the cherries.

S. S. Class Enjoys
Moonlight Picnic

Members of the Stevens Memorial Class of the First Presbyterian Church entertained members of the Sunday school class of H. D. Woods with a picnic north of town Thursday evening. Games were played and winners rewarded over a bon fire. Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Wilson were chaperones. Those who were present were the following: Misses Viola Guy, Bill McCauley, Alice

12:30 to 2 p. m. — Dinner on the grounds. (Bring a basket of food.)
2 to 2:45 — Community singing class, led by W. P. Florence.
2:45 to 3:15 — Bible questions and answers. (Write out your questions or ask them in meeting.)
3:15 to 4 — "A Gospel address" by Rev. Graves Darby, of Wilson.
4 to 4:45 — "The Meaning of Bible Symbols," by Mrs. Page.
4:45 to 5:15 — "Blood Atonement — Why?" by Mr. Page.
5:15 to 8 p. m. — "The Place of Prophecy in Practical Christianity," by Mr. Page.

A special musical program arranged by Miss Guffin, violinist. Mr. A. C. Moody, of Greenville, and Miss Lucy Smith, of Lubbock, will render several special selections.
A colored choir of Slaton, will sing several times during the day.
The invitation states that this is free to all, no need to dress up, friends and enemies are invited, and a Bible and note-book should be provided.

LONGHORN HURDLE MAN TO COMPETE AT CHICAGO

AUSTIN, Texas, May 21.—One of the greatest athletes ever to skin over a hurdle completed his Southwest Conference competition at Fort Worth Saturday when Stuart Wright raced to victory in the high and low hurdles his coach, Clyde Littlefield of Texas University, said today. Wright will wear the orange and white the last time when he competes in the National Collegiate track and field meet at Chicago, June 11-12.

Wright had a "golden leg" when he ran the high hurdles in 15 seconds, clipping three-tenths of a second from the old conference record. Littlefield told The Associated Press. "He couldn't even walk without limping badly, but his great courage, always most evident when the need is greatest, enabled him to win the high hurdles, and to retain his championship in the low hurdles, which he won in 1925 at College Station, setting the present conference record of 24.4 seconds.

"If his leg improves considerably between now and time for the national collegiate meet, I should not be surprised to see Wright capture the national collegiate championship in the 220 yards low hurdles. At his best, Wright is capable of doing the 'low sticks' in 24 seconds or under."

With Sandi Esquivel of El Paso, Wright, who comes from Dallas, was co-captain of the conference championship 1926 Longhorn track and field aggregation. Last fall he captained the football eleven that lost the conference title when it was defeated in the final tilt of the season by the Texas Aggies, who thereby won the championship. Wright is a long distance runner, a fair quarterback and dangerous ball "toter."

He is one of the few Longhorn athletes versatile enough to win a letter in three sports during one year. He turned the trick during the long season of 1924-25, lettering in football, basketball and track. He came to Texas University in 1923, transferring from Dartmouth, where he was a member of the football and track squads.

In basketball, Wright played forward in the 1925 quintet, being a basketballer of only fair ability.

After competing in the national meet, Wright likely will aid in the management of his father's large ranch near O'Donnell in Lynn county.

Merrill Park To Get Water Connection

Water from the city mains will be available at once for the Merrill baseball park in the southeast part of the city as a result of action taken by the City Commission in regular session here late Thursday in authorizing that connections be made.

Lateral lines from the main already are down to the park, having been placed more than a year ago when the park was being used regularly by the local club, and it was said here Friday by leaders in amateur baseball that water lines sufficient to adequately handle the situation on the park will be installed.

PETE LATZO, 23 YEAR OLD MINER, WALLOPS MICKEY WALKER TO WIN WELTER TITLE AT SCRANTON, PA.

PRAYERS OF PEOPLE ANSWERED AND BLOODY BOY POUNDS WAY TO VICTORY AND ADDS TO THE SAVINGS OF HIS POOR FRIENDS

(By the Associated Press)

SCRANTON, Penn., May 21.—Anthraxite miners of the Wyoming Valley, home of Pete Latzo, went into the earth today with smiles and bulging pockets—the fruits of an amazing conquest.

Pete Latzo, 23-year-old son of the miners, is welterweight boxing champion of the world. He got the decision in ten rounds last night over Mickey Walker, of Elizabeth, N. J., a 2 to 1 favorite.

Walker, who won the crown by a decision over Jack Britton in New York three years ago, lost it in a desperate struggle before 12,000 spectators, most of them friends of Latzo. Prayers said in the mining region for Latzo's victory were answered. The hunch of his bride that he would become champion was correct.

At times blood spurted from the faces of the combatants. But neither gave an inch. Too late, the youngsters, one the product of the city, the other of the country, lashed out at each other, first one and then the other seeming to have the advantage.

Lanzo had met Mickey Walker before and suffered.

But, knowing that many a slender purse had been staked on his chances, Pete fought last night as never before. In the first round, blood came from his nose after a pounding at close quarters.

He Changes Style

Lanzo soon learned that he was fighting the champion's way and shortly he began to step away, throw in and out with stabbing jolts to the head which time after time drove his adversary to the ropes.

In the fifth, Walker's short right opened a cut under the challenger's left eye, but Latzo rained blows and drove Walker to a corner.

From that the miner appeared gaining strength and courage. Every charge was met with a shower of jolts, although he accepted terrific punches to head and body.

With miners standing on their chairs and shouting, the last two rounds were terrific, and the final bell found the boxers slugging away at each other with the referee trying to pry them apart. Two judges voted for Latzo and the consensus at the ringside gave him five of the ten rounds, Walker three, and two even.

Ruth's Homer Number 15 Aids In Shoving Yanks Five Full Notches Ahead In American League Derby

(By the Associated Press)

Five full games ahead of Cleveland, its nearest rival, after a string of nine straight victories and fifteen home runs for Babe Ruth, the New York Yankees are joyful.

Yesterday they defeated the St. Louis Browns on six hits, but two of them were crashes to the bleachers by Ruth and Pat Collins. A similar belt, by George Sisler, put his team in the lead for a couple of innings. The final verdict was 5 to 4.

Harris pitched behind a heavy barrage from the bats of the Philadelphia Athletics and turned back Cleveland, 10 to 2.

Gordon inserted a home run. The Indians made only six hits off the big right hander. There was a slug fest at Boston, where Chicago downed the Red Sox, 13 to 4. Eddie Collins and Earl Sheely had perfect days at the bat. Sheely getting three doubles. Mostil also registered a brace of doubles. 18 safe blows being made off four Boston hurlers.

Brooklyn Drops Notch

Brooklyn dropped a notch in the national league, with a setback at the hands of the circuit leading Cincinnati club, 7 to 2. Bob McGraw proved no puzzle for the Reds, Bressler leading the attack with a triple, double and a single. The defeat put the Dodgers in third place.

Pittsburgh lost to the struggling Giants, 5 to 4, a ninth inning rally falling short. McGraw shifted his batting order.

Vic Keene of the St. Louis Cardinals won his sixth game of the season by holding the Phillies to five hits and one run. His mates scored four times off the pitching of Knickerbocker, Rogers Hornsby, who was spiked in Wednesday's game, was back in the line-up, but failed to hit safely.

Charley Root served a good game for the Chicago Cubs and downed the Boston Braves, 5 to 4. Freigan of Chicago poled a homer.

GOLF COURSE HERE BEING GROOMED FOR TOURNEY

The golf course at the Lubbock Country club here is being given the final once-over in preparation for the free-for-all tournament Sunday, qualifying rounds for which are now under way.

The "fairways" are being mowed, greens are being brought into the best condition possible, and everything will be in readiness for the biggest and best tournament that has been witnessed in this city. It was said here Friday by Lee M. Duggan, secretary of the Country club, who is taking a leading role in preparations for the tourney.

The tournament is open to all golfers of the city, regardless of their affiliation with any organization, and qualifying rounds are now being played by entrants. Each entrant to the tourney must play an 18-hole qualifying round before Saturday night, and the sixteen low medal scorers will be eligible for the main tournament that will start at 8 o'clock Sunday morning.

It is expected that between 35 and 40 Lubbock golf devotees are to play, and many already have made their qualifying round.

The exhibition will be free and open to the public, and one of the largest galleries ever to witness a similar tournament is anticipated. Play in the main tournament will start promptly at 8 o'clock Sunday morning, and will continue throughout the day. Pairings for the match play will be announced Saturday night following preliminaries. It was said Friday.

The new taxes seem to have aroused very little enthusiasm among the French.—Boston Globe.

CITY BUS LEAVES BUS TERMINAL ON THE QUARTER HOUR, IS BEFORE AND 15 AFTER THE HOUR

interesting article in Golfers Magazine recently in which Griffith Bonner drawn a comparison between golf and baseball. He says:

"In golf one usually plays 18 holes, while in baseball one plays nine innings. These innings in the mind of the golfer might represent nine holes. In baseball the object is to make as many runs or points as possible, while in golf the fewest strokes determine the winner."

"But boys in baseball are the equivalent to caddies in golf, and like golf, baseball has its direction flags. In golf a player must drive straight down the fairway to keep from going out of bounds, while in baseball a hit is fair or foul as to its direction after it passes the bases or over the fence. Baseball has its putt similar to the putt in golf. A 'Texas Leaguer' in baseball might be likened to the approach shot in golf."

The writer goes along in this vein and draws many interesting conclusions between the two sports. He also makes several suggestions, one of which would hardly meet with the approval of the baseball fans. Here it is:

Scoring Reform

"Since the sport public is always looking for short cuts and thrills, we wonder if a baseball game played according to the formula of golf would speed up the situation."

"For example, play the game as if it were nine holes, each inning a contest. Thus:

"Chicago and New York scored a run in the first inning, this would be a halved hole."

"In the second inning Chicago scored a run and New York none, putting Chicago one up."

"On this basis we reach the eighth inning with Chicago three innings or holes to the good and only two innings or holes to play, since nine innings constitute a game."

"Golfing speaking, at this stage the game would be over. Chicago winning three up and two to go. Thus the fans would be spared sitting around while the two unnecessary innings were played."

Billy Evans Says

Baseball Golfers

Is golf a good thing for major league ball players?

Ten years ago the playing of golf by big league stars was a matter of no great concern because only a limited few indulged.

However, in the last five years the golf problem has become a serious one for most big league managers. It was encroaching so much on the game that with some of the athletes golf conversation had the call over baseball.

In spring training, and during the regular season, golf attire became so popular that the athletes, while loitering around the hotel lobby, looked more like Walker cup golf stars than big leaguers.

On some clubs golf became such a menace that an absolute ban was placed on the game. While not all managers treated the subject so seriously, golf in moderation was the slogan of the majority.

The chief objection to golf during the season was not that the game impaired the ability of the player, but rather it took too much out of him physically and thereby affected his diamond play.

Compares Sports

Along these lines I read a very in-

He Wins Title

Robert Weida (above) may be an Olympic champion in years to come. He won the all-round title at a recent boys' meet held in Philadelphia. Competition was unusually keen and the youngster was forced to put forth his greatest efforts in order to lead the field.

Thrill of Sport

While I realize the writer was treating the situation humorously when he suggested changing the baseball scoring to the golf system, such a stunt would never make a hit with the fans.

One of the biggest thrills in baseball is made possible by the method of scoring used. That is, in one big inning a team that has trailed throughout the game can overcome a big handicap to win.

The home team, beaten 3-0 going into the last half of the ninth, still has a chance to pull the contest out of the fire. Evening the score provides the game by sending it into extra innings, while making more runs turns apparent defeat into victory.

CARPENTIER WILL MEET HOFFMAN TONIGHT

NEW YORK, May 21. (AP)—Handsome Georges Carpentier of France tonight makes another effort in the ring. The former light heavyweight champion of the world, veteran of the World War, who has been a pugilist since he was 18 years old, will tackle Sailor Hoffman of the Pacific Coast in a ten-round contest at Madison Square Garden.

Georges is 32 years old. In all of his battles, he has given weight to opponents. Four times he has gone before the American public and only once has he been victorious. That was against Battling Levinsky.

When he returned to America last winter, he said that he would not accept engagements to box. But he was lured and a victory tonight will place him in line for another chance at the light heavyweight crown.

A PRACTICAL SOLUTION

Yesterday afternoon the Journal printed a story in which Fire Chief W. E. Twitty made another earnest appeal to the citizens, asking in the name of his department that people not rush better-shester behind the fire trucks on every call and thus interfere with the work of the fire fighters.

Some time ago the Journal published an editorial against this practice, showing its effect on the firemen struggling to control a blaze and while the editorial certainly must have had little effect on the general public, this newspaper is "at it again," hoping against hope that the rank and file of the people will view the matter in the right light and stop making nuisances of themselves at every fire.

Keeping the curious away from fires in Lubbock—at least far enough away to allow the firemen to work efficiently—seems almost hopeless. All the warnings in the world issued by the Journal and all the entreaties made by the fire chief will not have much effect. It is feared, so—therefore it becomes a matter for the police department. Here's one idea on the subject:

The only practical solution to the problem, the way the Journal sees it, is to have policemen make each fire run with the trucks and after they arrive at the scene of the conflagration see that the spectators do not crowd too closely around the blaze. It might also be a good idea, whenever possible, to have a motorcycle patrolman lead the fire trucks and order autoists and pedestrians to keep out of the way of the onrushing firemen. A few well distributed fines would no doubt greatly clarify the situation.

THEY DID NOT FAIL

Seven members of the Lubbock Retail Merchants association attended the state convention of similar organizations recently and waged a campaign to bring the convention here next year.

Eleven members of local labor unions made a similar trip to Houston several weeks ago to the State Labor convention with the avowed intention of bringing the organized workers to Lubbock in 1927.

In neither instance was Lubbock chosen for the next meeting place, but in spite of that fact the delegates did not fail, for when they waged their battles on the floors of these two great conventions they aided in putting "Lubbock further on the map" and paved the way, for those meetings in the years to come, when the city will be even better able to take care of the visitors.

W. E. D. STOKES

W. E. D. Stokes, multimillionaire and hotel operator, died Wednesday. His divorce suit, entered against his youthful wife, from the slums, Rose Pastor Stokes, will be remembered by many Lubbock citizens who waded through its muck and slush two years ago.

We cannot help but wonder if W. E. D. Stokes has not had to answer for his share of the nasty proceedings and if he will not be a long time doing penance for it. There is a quotation from a very great Book which reads "As ye sow, so shall ye reap." Perhaps W. E. D. Stokes is reaping now the crop which he sowed in court.

What a Lovely Hitching Post It Is Going to Make

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

By CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON. — Congressman George Huddleston's suggestion that the voters of the country be sorted out into five or six groups, instead of only two, has things to be said in its favor, when you stop to think.

Take the present session of Congress. Everything the Coolidge administration has accomplished it accomplished with democratic votes. It had not a republican majority — at any rate, a dependable one — in the Senate, counting out progressives and democrats.

So the republicans asked the democrats to vote with them. This the bulk of the democrats, having no party principles of their own, any more than the republicans, did, figuring that the republicans, some time, would do the same thing for them.

The trouble is, there are issues to be settled, and how can they be settled if the two nominally rival parties, which ought to meet in battle array and scrap 'em out, pal up with one another instead and agree to straddle, mutually, on everything?

Republicans in industrial New England are prosperous and well satisfied with what they've got. Republicans in agricultural west are in hard luck and all by the ears. Democrats in the fundamentalistic South are dry, protestant and anti-alien. Democrats in polyglot New York are wet, evolutionary and tolerant of foreigners.

These folks require a party apiece, Huddleston argues—parties with convictions. He mentions others, too, but that's a sample.

Journal Jabs

If the ingenuity some men display in dodging creditors were devoted to productive purposes there'd be a fortune in it for the bill dodger.

Speaking of noblemen, we much prefer those who have endeavored themselves to mankind by conspicuous usefulness, to the ones who merely took the trouble to be born.

Posthumous fame is the only kind that really is worth having, but nobody is in a hurry to get it.

The only genuine pleasure in this world is in satisfying real needs.

SALESMANSHIP

A town, like a commodity, must be sold, for benefits to accrue.

In fact, a town is a myriad commodity. In it are bound up industrial opportunities, home opportunities, educational and social values, features that make home ownership attractive, pleasure, conveniences, market facilities, trade territory outlets and any number of things that serve to make it a desirable place in which to live.

Now a store realizes that advertising is the greatest single force in moving its goods; advertising begets turnover, and turnover begets profits. A merchant who neglects advertising may carry his stock an indefinite length of time — spiders may really weave their webs over the door.

A town can no more afford to neglect advertising than can the merchant. True enough, fortunate circumstances may be a large factor in overcoming the handicap of non-advertising. San Angelo with its streams of living water, its peacan timber in the adjacent territory, oil fields nearby and coming nearer, farm development, prospering range industries, rail and road facilities, and a spirit that has meant civic progress in street paving and sewer development, possesses certain advantages that are luring residents at a very rapid rate. However, it ill behooves any one to think that San Angelo would develop no more rapidly were advertising judiciously used.

Advertising ordinarily costs money. Seldom is it that it can be had for a song, yet San Angelo with other cities in West Texas has the opportunity to sing its little song to the West Texas

Chamber of Commerce. The "My Town" contest offers this opportunity, and yet with opportunity presenting itself there is only one entry for the honor of selling San Angelo to that convention and the thousands of visitors that will be there from all of West Texas and from other portions of the country. Perhaps the lone entrant may be the best one of all that might enter, but it should be decided by a contest at home that would arrive at such conclusion through the process of elimination.

Such an opportunity should arouse something of the spirit of civic loyalty among those eligible to enter the contest. Opportunity of a free trip to one of the gala events of West Texas, of course, should furnish some incentive, but there is a far greater one than that—the opportunity to be San Angelo's salesman, the chance to attain profitable recognition for one's self as well as for the city. Great good might come individually as well as for the community as a whole. The chance that is offered is a real challenge to the youth of this city. It is worth the effort. After all service to one's fellow men and to the community is one of the greatest things in life, and the youth who at this time heeds not the call of service to San Angelo, is thankful indeed for the opportunities E-n Angelo has recently voted him in the way of improved secondary schools and in the junior college.

Boys and girls, San Angelo has grown to what it is through the co-operation of all who live here. Let's have yours in this opportunity to give added impetus to the city growth. — San Angelo Standard.

NEIGHBORS' WIVES

ERNEST LYNN, author of THE YELLOW STUB

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JOHN MILBURN, partner in the advertising firm of GRAHAM AND MILBURN, hails the birth of a baby girl to his wife, FAY, as a big event and a turning point in their marriage.

JOHN is a romantic sort of fellow, whose forte is writing advertising copy. He is impractical. In his family his wife runs the budget, just as in the advertising agency all the financial matters are run by GRAHAM. The firm is small, being just two years old. There is one artist, BRIGGS, and a secretary and stenographer, MISS KNEELY.

John is visiting with Fay in the hospital, discussing their plans for a home of their own, now they have a baby. In the midst of their discussion a nurse enters with a telegram.

While Fay is in the hospital, John is invited to a swimming party at the country place of PAT FORBES and his wife, John goes, and on his way to the pool, sees a beautifully dressed woman driving off the spring board. Pat tells him it is NELL ORME, and that she is a friend of his.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Come on down and meet the crowd," urged Pat, scripping John's arm. He cupped his hands and yelled. "Oh Nell—Howard, Nell, here's a man. Hurry up."

He grinned. "Wait till you get a good look at her, John."

"You don't have to tell me that," laughed John, his mouth filled with a mustard-covered "hot dog." I've been married long enough to know something about the peculiarities of women."

"Well," retorted Pat, "you'll learn a lot more as you go along." And went on to explain about his neighbors. "The Frays," he said, "have two kids. The Smiths had one—a boy—and he died. Since then they've developed an unusual fondness for the little Fry children. I think it's Mrs. Smith's bitter complaint against life that she can't have any more children."

"The Ormes?" asked John. "Have they had any children?" "Nope. Might be a good thing if they had. They've been married eight years."

The daylight had almost vanished, and the wood fire beneath the little brick oven cast a cheery light. John saw Nell Orme rise slowly to her feet and stretch luxuriously and experienced a pleasure in watching her movements that was hard to account for.

An indolent languor seemed to be in every step she took. "You hinted," he reminded Pat Forbes, "that all was not well between Howard and Nell Orme."

Forbes lighted a cigarette and blew several lazy wreaths of smoke before he answered. "No, they don't seem to get along. Doggoned if I can understand it, either. They've got a little money—he's a fairly successful contractor—and they've both got looks; but privately they fight like cats and dogs. You'd never suspect it to meet them in a crowd."

She extended a friendly hand

The Ormes emerged dripping rivulets of water. John quietly appraised the well-knit, muscular figure of Howard Orme, getting a fleeting impression, as he scanned the other's face, of a mouth that was tight-lipped and set in a straight line.

Pat said, "This is John Graham, Howard. Good friend of mine and a regular fellow." Their hands met, both murmuring some commonplace of greeting. Then Howard Orme's wife came up, and Pat, still "doing the honors," made an elaborate introduction. Her hair, John saw, was hidden by her tight-fitting bathing cap, but her eyes were light brown beneath black, or dark brown, eyebrows. She extended a friendly hand and grasped his in a firm clasp, and he had an opportunity to take in the tight one-piece green bathing suit and her figure, which seemed all molting curves.

Others arrived, all of whom John had to meet. There were the Smiths, of which couple the man was portly and well-fed in his bathing suit and smoked a cigar; and the woman so colorless that John kept forgetting her name all evening. There was a couple named Fry, with two wandering youngsters, a boy and girl, who seemed as much at home in the water as two little water spaniels.

Fry, John gathered, was the comedian of the little community. He dived down into a basket and brought up a string of smoked sausages, barking the while in imitation of a dog. He also had a habit of kneeling down on the sand behind a person and having someone else push the unfortunate victim over his back. At the first opportunity he got the men off in a little group of their own and regaled them with alehouse stories, laughing uproariously at his own jokes. For all of his boisterousness and cheap humor, though, John rather liked him; and was immensely amused at the apparent feud between Fry and the sturdy Smith.

The two snapped and snarled at each other and took every opportunity that presented to turn a joke on the other. They stole each other's sandwiches, put salt in each other's coffee, and finally Fry crept up behind Smith's back and rubbed the other's face thoroughly with watermelon rind, running desperately into the water as the enraged fat man gave pursuit. "You're actually doing them were mad at each other sometimes," Pat remarked to John as the rest of the crowd, the children especially, laughed uproariously at their antics. "As a matter of fact they're the closest friends imaginable. The Smiths and Frays have been neighbors for fifteen years. I think one would cut off his right hand for the other. And the funny thing about it is that their wives got along just about as well as they do. When you've been married as long as I have you'll appreciate that as being something unique."

An equity in the lake goes with each lot."

"You might buy a piece yourself, John," suggested Pat.

"Sure," agreed Fry. "Glad to have you."

"Well, I might, at that—some time," said John.

Howard Orme, who had been silent for a long time, remarked, "Bring your wife out some time and see how she likes it. I think this stuff out here is bound to increase in value."

"Why, thanks," John looked at him curiously, a little surprised at Orme's friendliness.

Pat Forbes got up to throw more wood on the fire. It crackled cheerfully and sent up showers of sparks. Smith miraculously produced a bottle and passed it to John.

"Let's kill it quick, before the ladies get back," he said. "Needn't be afraid of it, Milburn. It's pretty good stuff. Not enough to pass around to the whole crowd. It'll take the chill off."

"They don't appreciate it, anyway," said Pat. "They'd want to mix it with ginger ale."

"Smith, old socks," said Fry, "every once in a while you perform some little act which stamps you as a human being. This is one of the times. Pat, pass the bottle, you run gusher."

Pat, after a loud smacking of the lips, sighed regretfully and passed the bottle to Fry. "Not bad, Smithy," he announced judicially. "Where'd you get it?"

"For five dollars I'll give you my bootlegger's phone number," answered Smith. "Fry, for God's sake mix me some of it!"

John noticed, after the bottle had been emptied and buried deep in the sand that Howard Orme had not taken any of the wintery stuff. He was, in fact, still as one of the statues, staring after him any, but had only half-hastened before passing him by.

While he was meditating on this a woman's voice, low-pitched and vibrant, broke in on the silence. He recognized it as Nell Orme's although she was hidden from view by the intervening firelight. "What's going on?" she asked, emerging from the darkness. "I'll race anybody across the lake and back."

She stood silhouetted against the crackling light, her weight on one leg and a hand resting gracefully on her hip. Again John noted the seamstress of her bathing suit and the flowing curves of her. He glanced sharply at Howard Orme and was curious to know how he regarded this careless exhibition his wife was making.

But Orme's face was an inscrutable mask. The firelight cast flitting shadows across his features, and played on his thin-lipped mouth.

"Well," Nell demanded, moving indolently across the fire-lit circle, her lips smugly.

"I've had enough," remarked Orme. "How about you, Pat?" said John.

"I can swim a stroke, John," and he stirred lazily. "Besides, I'm too well content right here."

None of the other men made a move. Fry snored insistently, and Smith, stretched at lazy full length, reminded John of a quotation from Shakespeare that he couldn't correctly remember—something about the judge whose belly was lined with fat capon.

John got up. "Well," he said, hesitantly, "I haven't been in yet, and I think I'd like a little swim."

"Go on," urged Fry. "Try to keep up with Nell and you'll get enough." He laughed. Orme smiled.

Nell led the way down to the water's edge and John paddled around experimentally with his feet, then waded out with Nell to the springing board.

An orange moon hung low in the sky, and Nell's wet skin gleamed like silver beneath its light. She moved out to the edge of the board and turned her head to ask, "Across and back?"

"Sure," he said.

"All right!" she called provocatively. "Try to catch me." She poised for an instant and then her lithe body cleaved the air like an arrow in flight.

PUT HIM TO WORK

There are many parents in Lubbock today wondering what they're going to do with their school age son this summer. There's only one practical answer.

Put him to work.

Put him in some job where he'll learn something essential if possible. But if that's not possible, put him to work anyway — he's bound to learn something valuable if he has any sense and judgment at all.

The weather and the more essential is it that that boy be put to work. Unless he is taught to look at the world from the right angle he is likely to get the wrong ideas of the whole business and if he gets that idea in youth he'll have to pay to get rid of it when he's older.

And in putting him to work see if he can't get his own job.

Of course any job is better than no job but one a boy gets for himself, without the "pull" of Dad or some friend, is likely to mean more to him and certainly won't give him that mistaken idea that he can do as he pleases on the job because he has a "pull" and Dad will see that no matter what he does he is retained.

Don't lie awake nights figuring on what to do with that energetic boy of yours. Close the incident by deciding that he's going to work.

If, as is proposed, a coin should be authorized bearing the likeness of President Coolidge it might help to refute the saying that money talks. — Chicago Daily News.

SIoux CHIEFTAIN TEACHES TRIBE CUSTOMS

RAPID CITY, S. D., May 21. (AP)—An ancient Sioux legend of the creation is the most popular story in the repertoire of Chauncey Yellowrobe, son of a Rosebud Sioux chieftain and a teacher in the federal Indian school here.

"When the Great Spirit had created his wonderful here of mountains and prairies and streams, Wilhelm Yellowrobe tells his students, 'he sought to fashion a human being worthy to enjoy its grandeur. He shaped the clay in his hands, and baked it in his campfire, but when he drew it forth it was pale and had not baked rapidly enough, and he threw it behind him. 'He moulded another form, and laid it in the hot ashes, but when he drew it out it was blackened and crisp. So he tossed it to one side. Then he modelled a new figure, even more carefully than before, packed the red coals around it, and when he lifted it from the fire it was red and sound and perfect."

"And he put it into the great wilderness of the west, and it multiplied its kind and was the tenant of the Great Spirit's own garden."

America Is Center Of Music, Famous Conductor States

BERLIN, May 21. (AP)—No other musical center can match America and especially New York, insofar as technical perfection of the rendition is concerned, declared Hermann Furtenberg, just returned from his second season as guest conductor of the New York Philharmonic Society.

"In the course of the last few years," Herr Furtenberg said, "the musical life of America has so developed in intensity and grandeur of conception that it cannot be compared with any other musical center."

"There is a possible source of danger in the fact that the supply of musicians is greater than the demand. That may interfere with the steadiness and unity of development, but I believe that the sound instinct of the American public will overcome this danger. After all, the advantage America enjoys of being able to offer the best—both the best orchestras and the best soloists—is too great to need further comment."

Indians Like To Travel With Big Shows, They Find

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, S. D., May 21. (AP)—The circus and the carnival are on the road again, and officials of South Dakota Indian reservations are making their annual effort to keep their wards from flocking to join the performers under the big tent.

Every spring circuses and carnivals send scouts out here in quest of Indians for pageants and wild west shows and for every man they seek, a dozen braves respond.

Federal and state officials frown on the recruiting of Indians for traveling shows, but often their pleas are ineffective. The Indian, migratory by nature, is easily beckoned from his little farm. His guardians have no objection to his departure for permanent employment elsewhere, but they have found that when he leaves in the spring, to join a carnival, he comes home penniless and throws himself again on the beneficence of the reservations, seeking to reclaim his land.

DOOLITTLE IS TO FOLLOW LEAD OF MacCREADY

DAYTON, O., May 21. (AP)—The McCook field personnel has set its heart on having "the top of the world" reached by a plane which sets out from its greenward.

The resignation of Lt. Macready will not stop the effort to set a new world altitude record to exceed that of Lt. Col. O. G. G. French, flyer, at 39,586 feet. Fifteen attempts were made by Macready to surpass this record but he fell short each time, sometimes by only a few hundred feet.

Succeeding Macready as chief test pilot will be Lt. James Doolittle, and it is understood that he will become the altitude flyer.

Officials at the field consider asking the French government for information on its test instruments so that competition between French and American flyers will be on the same basis. This has been urged by Orville Wright, co-inventor of the airplane, who pointed out that unless the instruments are identical, there can be no assurance that an altimeter with a lower reading might not have been carried to a greater height.

Officers at the field declare Doolittle is the best fitted to succeed Macready. He first attracted national attention when he made the first Atlantic-Pacific airplane flight with but one stop at Kelly Field, Texas.

In 1925, Doolittle won the Jacques Schneider trophy in competition with naval flyers in an event which therefore had been an exclusively navy event.

Lt. E. H. Barkdale, hero of several narrow aviation escapes, will be assistant chief test pilot.

CROPS DAMAGED AT BRADSHAW BY HAIL STORM

BRADSHAW, May 21.—A hail storm swept a portion of this country Tuesday night, doing considerable damage in this section. In an area of about ten square miles, all crops that were were totally destroyed. In some instances chickens and hogs were killed. The storm played some freakish tricks, as in one field the crops were beaten to the ground while only a hundred yards away to another field, not even a sprinkle of rain fell, and the farmers are busy this morning plowing as usual.

It is estimated 25 percent of all crops are planted, and about 50 percent of the crops are up. Prospects for a good crop this year are flattering. An unusually large acreage in feed stuffs is being planted, and poultry dealers of the town state that a survey of the poultry business shows it will be increased nearly 200 percent.

Southern Baptist Mission Work In 17 Fields Attains New Record In Baptisms, Secretary's Report Shows

HOUSTON, Texas, May 21. (AP)—Despite the revolutions in China, uncertainty in Mexico, active warfare in Syria, and vicious persecution of Baptists in Italy and Roumania, Southern Baptist foreign mission work on 17 fields attained a new record in the number of baptisms, according to the annual report of the foreign mission board presented to the Southern Baptist convention by Dr. J. F. Love, of Richmond, Va., corresponding secretary.

More than 12,000 baptisms were administered throughout the territory occupied by the board. This is a gain of more than 1,000 over the record of last year. The increase in the number of baptisms in Africa was 15 percent of the previous year's membership while the average for most of the other countries was 10 percent.

Heathenism is breaking down in all directions in Africa, the reports from the missionaries show, and especially are the young men and women turning away from their idols. So active are the native Christians in Africa, that in some places they are winning new converts more rapidly than the missionaries can examine and baptize them.

In Argentina the native Christians are also active, having organized an effective home and foreign mission work of their own. The foreign field in which they are operating in Paraguay, in the capital city of which they have established a successful work and are going from there into the interior. The work in the interior of Paraguay is exceedingly difficult as yet because the language of the natives is one of the few into which the Bible has not yet been translated.

More than one-half of the native churches in Brazil have become self-sustaining and they are maintaining $55 out-stations many of which will later develop into churches, the report indicates. A building and loan fund for Brazil has made possible the erection of more than 60 churches within the last few years, 24 having been helped during the past year. The Brazilian Baptists are undertaking to carry the gospel to 800,000 native Indians in the interior who do not speak Portuguese, and are also supporting several foreign missionaries in the mother country, Portugal. On their own initiative and with their own resources, the Baptists of Brazil recently opened a modern hospital at Niteroy, the first Baptist hospital in South America.

Child leads all other fields in evangelistic results during the year, reporting one baptism to every five members.

Out of the turmoil and strife that has existed in China during the last year, there has come an unexpected advantage in the propagation of the gospel in that thousands of individuals driven from small towns in the interior have heard the gospel proclaimed in the more populous centers whither they have fled for safety.

Considerable inconvenience has been experienced in China by the missionaries, but all are persuaded that the disturbances there are only temporary. In no instance have the native Baptists renounced their faith because of the persecution of Christians.

Probably the outstanding event of the year in the European mission fields was the contribution of a special fund by Miss Virginia Brown of Anderson, S. C., for the purchase of an adequate building for a Baptist theological seminary at Budapest, Hungary. The seminary has been named in her honor.

Not in an experience of 25 years has there been such severe persecution of Baptists in Italy as during the last year, according to Dr. D. C. Whittinghill, senior missionary at Rome. He reports the burning of a preaching hall in a small town near Naples, the burning of residences of several native Baptists in northern Italy, while a number of native Baptist preachers have had their lives threatened if they continued to preach the gospel.

Although fighting between the French and the Druzes in Syria has surely handicapped the work in that country, and religious intolerance has proved a handicap in Palestine, Dr. J. Wash Watts, head missionary in Jerusalem, reports satisfying progress in the work in those countries.

Through a gift of Mrs. George Bottome of Texarkana, Ark., an adequate house of worship is being completed at Nazareth, while a Baptist church of 12 members has been organized at Jerusalem, the new converts in which were baptized in the River Jordan. The persecution of Baptists in Roumania that has been more or less marked for a number of years has been intensified this year, but the work continues to grow despite the opposition. The theological seminary at Bucharest has had 42 students during the year.

Work On Utilities Plant To Be Begun Immediately, Said

The City Commission of Lubbock in regular session here late Thursday afternoon authorized W. H. Perkins, Supervisor of public utilities of the city to proceed at once with preparation of plans for extensions to the municipal light and power plant, which, due to heavy demands being made upon the city for service along this line, is considered necessary if the plant is to be operated on an efficient basis.

Details in connection with the proposed work have not yet been worked out, and it is not known how much of an expenditure will be necessary for the extension program. A similar program was launched by the Commission here the early part of the year, but for various reasons the plans were not carried out. It is not yet known whether the extensions will be in the form of a new building for additional machinery, or an addition to the present building, but it was the consensus of opinion among officials that more machinery must be installed in the near future.

Program is Withheld Pending completion of plans for the improvements, which will be started by Mr. Perkins immediately through the engineering department, no statement as to the extent or manner of procedure on the proposed program would be made by officials.

Other action taken by the Commission at the session included passage of a resolution calling for the issuance of five per cent interest bearing warrants for the purpose of funding certain valid outstanding indebtedness, paying the necessary tax to pay interest on the warrants, providing a sinking fund to retire the warrants at maturity, and declaring an emergency.

Mr. Perkins was also authorized by the Commission to proceed at once in cutting off service to all patrons of the city who are delinquent on payments for light, power and water. Such action will be started immediately, and those who wish continuance of the service can halt the process only by paying up their accounts, Mr. Perkins said Friday.

Texas University's Doubles Team Wins

AUSTIN, May 21. (AP)—Clearly demonstrating their superiority, John Barr of S. M. U., Bill Powers of Baylor, and Albert Love and Ed Mather of Texas University here today won their way to the semi-finals of the Southwest conference tennis championship play.

Both Texas University teams, Love-Mather and Key-Wilkerson, Barr and Estep of S. M. U., Powers and Haynes of Baylor qualified for the semi-finals in the doubles.

TODAY'S MARKETS

Cotton Markets

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, May 21. (AP)—Cotton market opened tame with Liverpool lower than due and early weather news indicating rain in the Eastern belt, where needed and fair weather in the West. First trades showed no change to two points decline. Trading was limited during the first hour and prices eased off on the more favorable weather until July traded at 17.54c, October at 17.95c and December at 17.66c or 3 to 5 points below yesterday's close. Prices advanced later on, but there was little demand.

The market ruled quiet all morning with fluctuations within the early range. The forecast for unsettled weather in the Western belt checked all inclination to sell. Around mid-session July traded at 17.55c, October at 17.96c and December at 17.67c. Secretary Hester's pointer for the week's mill taking of 249,000 to 250,000 bales was larger than last year and better than expected, but had no effect on the market.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, May 21. (AP)—The cotton market was quiet and fairly steady in today's early trading. A little selling appeared on reports of rains in the Eastern belt but the prospect for showers in the Southwest was considered unfavorable and relatively steady. Liverpool cables brought in a little buying at the opening. First prices were steady at an advance of two points to a decline of two points and the market held within a point or two of yesterday's closing figures during the first hour.

The market remained quiet later in the morning and prices moved within a range of 5 or 6 points. At mid-day, July was selling around 18.28c and December 17.47c, or 1 to 2 points higher.

Mkt.—Second Add New York Cotton

Neither the detailed weather reports for the day nor the weekly statistics made any apparent impression on the early afternoon market. July contracts at 2 o'clock were ruling around 18.28c and October at 17.49c, or about two points net higher.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, May 21. (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady. July 18.27c; October 17.53c; December 17.47c; January 17.37c; March 17.47c.

Stocks and Money

WALL STREET REPORT
NEW YORK, May 21. (AP)—Stock prices made further recovery at the opening of today's market. Active short covering again took place in the motor group in further reflection of the increase in the regular Hudson dividend and the declaration of a 20 percent stock dividend. Initial gains of a point or so were recorded by U. S. steel common, National Biscuit and General Electric.

The cessation of bear pressure was accompanied by the appearance of strong buying support in several sections of the list with the oils, rails and merchandising stocks giving good demonstrations of group strength. Atlantic Refining quickly advanced 2½ points to a new high for the year at 125½ and Colorado fuel and General Asphalt advanced a point or so. Gotham Silk Hosiery, Montgomery Ward and May Department Stores, up 1 to 2 points. Here the strong spots in the merchandising group. The unusually favorable character of the first April earnings statements stimulated the demand for railroad stock. "Soo" common advancing 2 points and "Nickel Plate" and Gulf, Mobile and Northern 1 each. Dupont, Savage Arms, Marine preferred and U. S. Industrial Alcohol also recorded substantial gains. Another sharp recovery in French and Belgian francs, in sympathy with an earlier one in the London and Paris markets, featured the foreign exchange market. The demand rate on Paris advancing 13 points to 33½¢ cents and Brussels 17 points to 219 cents. Demand sterling ruled steady around $4.86 1-16.

GASOLINE GOES UP

NEW YORK, May 21. (AP)—The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey advanced the tank wagon price of gasoline 1 cent a gallon throughout its territory. New quotations are 19 cents in New Jersey, Maryland, the District of Columbia, Virginia and West Virginia, and 19½ cents in North Carolina. The Texas Company later made a similar advance.

WOOL REPORT

BOSTON, May 21. (AP)—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say: Wool moves with extreme moderation in the Eastern seaboard markets and not much faster in the West. Prices in both sections show little actual change, although it must be said that it is still a buyers market. The trade, however, hopes that the policy of delayed buying on the part of the clothing manufacturers will presently give way to a bigger volume of business in goods and with the mills higher. The raw materials would be rather speedy.

The English situation is still affected by the strike and mills have been forced to go on shorter time. Mohair is steady. Wool quotations: Scoured basis: Texas: fine 12 months (selected) $1.10 @ $1.12; fine 8 months 98¢ @ $1.00.

Rotarians And Rotary-Annes Have Gay Evening At Cheri Casa While Ladies' Night Program Is Feature

With between 130 and 140 Rotarians, E. Watson Simms, of Boston Tech, Tanhae P. Strang, famed all over Lubbock as the city's leading extemporaneous and humorous speaker, addressed the gathering, advising the teaching of evolution and dancing in Texas Tech. He also explained his invention which, he said, will cause the radio to supplant the saxophone in the hearts of America's music lovers.

Toscoe Wilson, a past president of the club, then made presentation of toys to R. H. Martin, Dr. J. T. Hutchinson, J. A. Raley, James L. Dea and R. M. Chitwood for their "distinguished service" to the club, which included a good-natured "razing" by Rev. Walter P. Jennings then made an address, which closed with the presentation of jeweled Rotary pins to Past President Walter S. Posey and Neil H. Wright, and of a fountain pen to Secretary Sam T. Davis, whose unselfish service to the club and to the city was rightly extolled. All three men responded in a fitting manner.

Miss Evelyn Posey, accompanied by "Red" Hamilton, literally "brought down the house" with two character songs. She sang "Cheatin' On Me," directed at M. R. "Bennie" Hilburn, and "Tie Me To Your Annon Stripes Again," to Acey May. A spotlight played on the features of the charming singer and her gentlemen victims throughout the two sketches.

We gather that one John Barleycorn is getting ready to make a posthumous race for public office. It will take more than a clove and a Turkish bath to make the old boy presentable.—Lafayette Journal and Courier.

EASTHAM'S

SHADOW OF ONCE GREAT ARMY HAS PARADE IN ALA. CITY'S WELCOME

WITHERING FLOWERS OF PAST MARCH DURING CONVENTION

(By The Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 21.—The shadow of Lee's legions paraded again today.

It was but a breath of that great sweep which put the national government on its mettle in the sixties.

But in this demonstration by the surviving remnants, there were created an ardor and an enthusiasm resembling that of the day when young men put every ounce of their energy into the business of saving the Confederacy.

The very flower of the Southern army were these men who came in review before an admiring populace again today. They represented a few of the more rugged led.

A Changed Spectacle
It was a vastly different spectacle to remembrance of the past. The veterans occupied themselves. Some of them did not like the same afforded, but the commander overruled his militant charges. From comfortable, soft cushioned seats, they viewed the applauding thousands and were enabled to participate in every phase of the parade without loss of physical resources. Just a few more than 4,000 of the old warriors were in the line, the smallest contingent ever assembled in annual gathering.

Severals of the veterans wanted to walk and insisted upon it until the final orders were given. The line of march extended over several miles and it was agreed that the task was too great for even the hardiest of the lot.

NEVADA CONVICT PAYS WITH LIFE IN GAS CHAMBER

EXECUTION IS SECOND OF KIND IN HISTORY AT CARSON CITY

(By The Associated Press)

STATES PRISON, CARSON CITY, Nev., May 21.—Stanke Jukich, murderer of a 15-year-old girl, was executed this morning by lethal gas the second time this form of capital punishment has been used since legalized in 1921. He entered the cell at 10:55, the gas was turned on a minute later and he was unconscious in a half minute but his head was moving. Jukich was pronounced dead two and a half minutes after the gas was turned on.

Is Second Victim.

STATE PRISON, CARSON CITY, Nev., May 21.—Nevada's lethal gas chamber will claim its second victim today when Stanke Jukich, convicted of slaying a 15-year-old girl who refused to marry him, pays for his crime.

The small concrete execution chamber in the prison yard was robbed of one victim yesterday when the State Board of Pardons commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of John H. Randolph, murderer. Randolph made a desperate appeal for clemency after courts had refused to change his sentence. The pardon board decided Randolph's crime was not premeditated after examining a petition signed by 65 lawyers, including the District Attorney and Judge who tried and sentenced him.

Preparations Completed.

Preparations for the execution were completed yesterday. A final test last night revealed that the gas chamber worked faultlessly.

Prison attaches expressed the opinion that Jukich would die almost instantly.

A steam radiator will raise the temperature of the room to 29 degrees, insuring almost instant vaporization of the death-dealing hydro-cyanic gas, one of the deadliest known to science.

A special chair, built to accommodate Jukich, for he is a large man, has been placed in the cell. A slight hissing sound, possibly a faint odor which characterizes the gas will be Jukich's only warning of the invisible death which will overwhelm him when the executioner turns the valve. Scientists and doctors have said it will be a quick and painless death.

Slew His Sweetheart.

Jukich, a 28-year-old copper miner, was convicted of the slaying of Jennie Madek, in Ruth, Nevada. He lived with the Madek family and fell in love with the girl when she was but 13 years old. Soon her family had betrothed her to him and he turned over much of his earnings to purchase clothes and finery for the girl. Their marriage was to take place when she grew older.

Three years later Jukich asked Jennie for her hand and she refused him. He killed her.

N. Y. Cops Jail Five With a Machine Gun

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP)—Marine police who overtook a motor boat off Horton's Point, Coney Island, today found a machine gun and five hundred rounds of ammunition aboard the craft. Five men, four of whom gave New Jersey addresses, were arrested.

The men on the motor boat said they had been hired by a man named Goldberg whose address they did not know to test the engine, and that they knew nothing of the machine gun.

They will be arraigned in Magistrate's court in Coney Island charged with disorderly conduct.

AUTOIST IS KILLED

BATON ROUGE, La., May 21.—(AP)—Alvin Wilcox, 21, of Harrison, La., was instantly killed and three companions were injured when the automobile in which they were riding early today was struck by a train at a crossing.

individual fate didn't mean anything but it did mean something to keep alive and let Texas home builders and business men have the benefit of competitive prices. It is not the fate of the independent oil man that matters so much today, but the effect on the welfare of future generations if the underground resources of this state fall into the hands of one gigantic merger.

Stresses Oil Fight

He pointed to the fact that since the Standard Oil Company returned to Texas under senate bill 180, passed by the Ferguson administration, the Standard has merged with a number of the major oil companies of the state, and has advanced the price of gasoline four cents a gallon, which lifts an additional $20,000,000 from the pockets of Texas gasoline consumers or as much as the state spends annually on highway construction.

Mr. Davidson told of the break that has come between him and his home papers, and between him and many life-long friends, on account of his position on the oil matter. "But I am right," asserted Mr. Davidson, "and when those friends of mine get over this money-madness of theirs, they will realize that I am right, and we will be friends again."

Pledges Support To Tech

During his talk at the Tech Mr. Davidson also pledged his support to the maintenance and progress of that institution if he is chosen as the state's chief executive. That he is already highly interested in the college can be seen by the fact that he has offered a scholarship of $250 for the best orator within the confines of the college. This scholarship was offered last year before the school was opened.

Talks At Canyon

CANYON, Texas, May 21.—(AP)—Public sentiment is no longer swayed by big newspapers according to Lynch Davidson who delivered an attack here last night on what he termed "newspaper blarney."

He charged that many large newspapers were swayed by personal prejudices or business influences, adding that the larger dailies of the state had turned against him because of his attack on the oil act. The public must get its news from the smaller papers, he said.

JOURNAL ADVERTISING PAYS

Portland, Ore., May 21.—(AP)—Oregon voters at the polls today have a variety to pick from in choosing the Republican nomination for United States senator, there being eight candidates. For the Democratic nomination the choice must be made between two.

Senator Robert N. Stanfield, Republican, has made his campaign on this slogan:

"Present senator—member of powerful committees—helped secure largest appropriations in Oregon's history."

The other Republican candidates and their appeals as given on the official ballot are:

Mrs. Rose E. Barrett of Seaside—"Service of the people and constructive development of Oregon."

Alfred E. Clark of Portland—"I stand for popular government, constructive legislation and honest public service."

James J. Crossley of Portland—"Effective prohibition, agricultural legislation, ports, labor, industries, Federal reimbursement taxes, veterans' relief."

Clarence F. Evey, of Mountaineer—"America first, Oregon next, the will of the people via majority rule."

L. R. Sandhast, Portland—"Wine and beer under government control; no saloons."

A. R. Shumway of Milton—"Farmer cooperation between producer and consumer for the prosperity of Oregon."

Frederick Stelwer of Pendleton—"For America; for Oregon—first and always."

For the Democratic nomination for Senate Elton Watkins, former Congressman and Bert E. Haney, former shipping board commissioner, having been active campaigners.

There are two "wets" besides Sandhast in the primary running, Mrs. Louise Palmer Weber, who opposes modification of prohibition laws, M. E. Crumpecker, incumbent, and B. F. Mulkey, the other candidates are "dry."

A three-cornered race for the Republican nomination for governor is one of the outstanding issues of the primary. The opposing candidates are W. A. Carter, I. L. Patterson and Jayton H. Upton.

Norman S. Richards, one of the candidates for Republican nomination for Congress from the third district which embraces Portland, stands for modification of prohibition laws. M. E. Crumpecker, incumbent, and B. F. Mulkey, the other candidates are "dry."

Oregon Voters Find Variety When Eight Republicans Place Names On Ballot For Senatorial Nomination

PORTLAND, Ore., May 21.—(AP)—Oregon voters at the polls today have a variety to pick from in choosing the Republican nomination for United States senator, there being eight candidates. For the Democratic nomination the choice must be made between two.

Senator Robert N. Stanfield, Republican, has made his campaign on this slogan:

"Present senator—member of powerful committees—helped secure largest appropriations in Oregon's history."

The other Republican candidates and their appeals as given on the official ballot are:

Mrs. Rose E. Barrett of Seaside—"Service of the people and constructive development of Oregon."

Alfred E. Clark of Portland—"I stand for popular government, constructive legislation and honest public service."

James J. Crossley of Portland—"Effective prohibition, agricultural legislation, ports, labor, industries, Federal reimbursement taxes, veterans' relief."

Clarence F. Evey, of Mountaineer—"America first, Oregon next, the will of the people via majority rule."

L. R. Sandhast, Portland—"Wine and beer under government control; no saloons."

A. R. Shumway of Milton—"Farmer cooperation between producer and consumer for the prosperity of Oregon."

Frederick Stelwer of Pendleton—"For America; for Oregon—first and always."

For the Democratic nomination for Senate Elton Watkins, former Congressman and Bert E. Haney, former shipping board commissioner, having been active campaigners.

There are two "wets" besides Sandhast in the primary running, Mrs. Louise Palmer Weber, who opposes modification of prohibition laws, M. E. Crumpecker, incumbent, and B. F. Mulkey, the other candidates are "dry."
