Reaction To Smith's Talk Varies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gov. Preston Smith's war on runaway spending announced Sunday night in his "state of state" address produced plenty of "me tooism" from state legislators but also a lot of criticism.

A survey of Tarrant County (Fort Worth) legislators showed favorable reaction to Smith's veto of the second half of the 2-year state spending bill.

But Dallas County politicians, although largely supporting Smith's austerity, complained of a lack of leadership in Austin and the governor's "inconsistency" on budget matters.

House Speaker Gus Mutscher said Smith may rely on "the cooperation of the Speaker's office" in drafting a new budget for 1972-73.

Sen. Oscar Mauzy said Smith left unanswered more questions than he answered regarding Smith's personal affairs in stock trading.

Mauzy said it's unfair for a public officer to make the statements Smith made when he is not subjected to cross-examination.

Tarrant County Rep. Gibson Lewis said Smith's remarks were excellent.

"I voted against the state spending and tax bills for the very reasons the governor gave in his speech," he said.

"His reasoning was sound and his delivery was the best I've seen since he became governor," Lewis added.

Republican Sen. O. H. Harris said "the governor is very unpredictable and erratic."

"Smith offered no leadership at all toward writing any spending bill," he said.

Rep. Bill Hillard agreed with the governor's views on economy, saying: "We've got to start saying no to more requests for state funds and give greater consideration to the burdens of our taxpayers."

Rep. Dick Reed said Smith "failed to deal with the procedure which feeds this kind of a growing budget."

Rep. Fred Agnigh said: "I fail to see how a special session in 1972 will come up with anything but another tremendous increase in taxes over what was passed this time."

Mutscher said the governor's veto came unexpectedly while Rep. Joe Hawn said "it comes as no surprise to me we will have a special session."

Concerning his involvement in the National Bankers' Life Insurance, and Sharpstown Bank affair, Mauzy said Smith made a "classic mistake" by even mentioning the case.

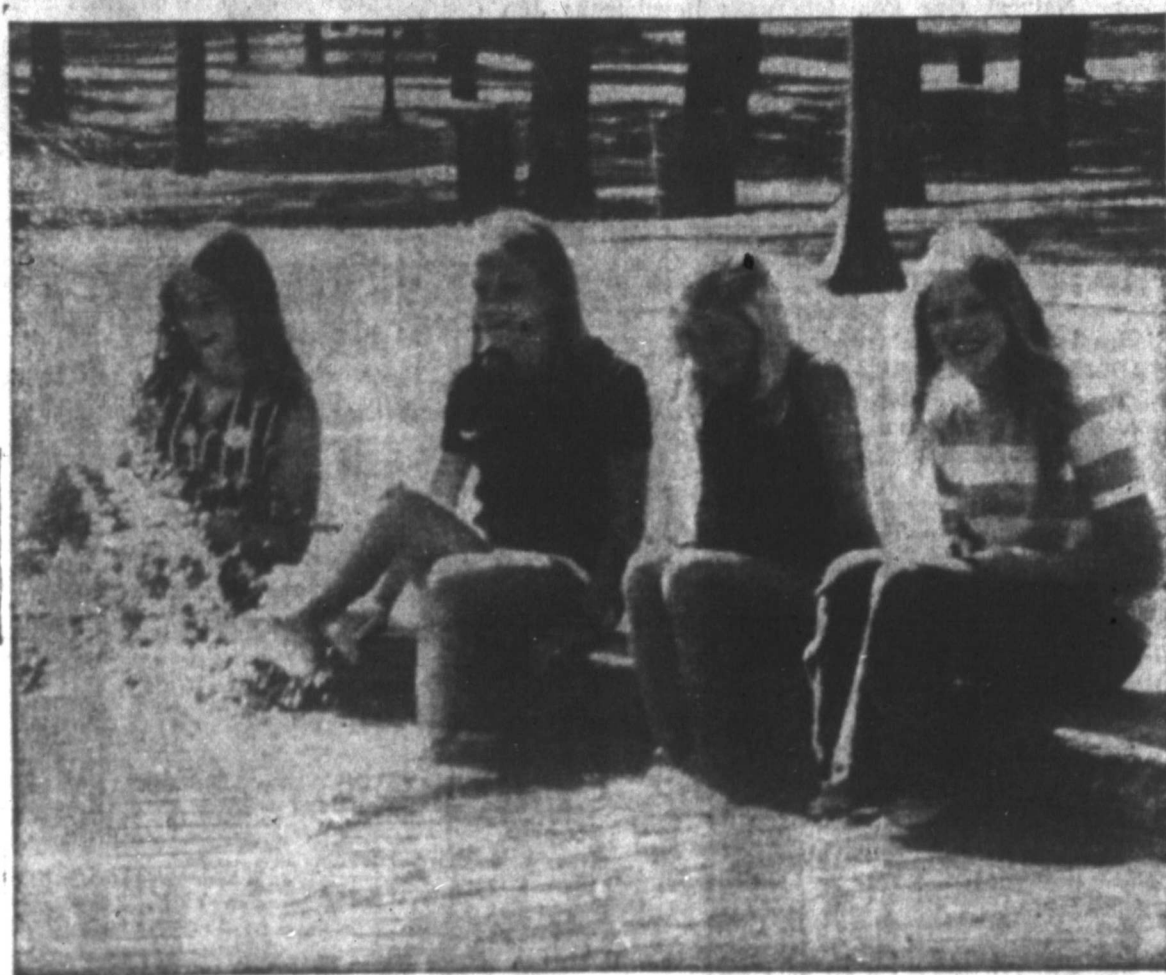

He said his public acknowledgment of the affair leaves

Smith open to legitimate questioning by the news media, and the public.

Mauzy said Smith should have said whether he reported his $62,500 stock profits on his 1969 federal income tax return.

He said Texans have a right to know.

Smith admitted he had earned a handsome profit on the sale of National Bankers Life Insurance. See Governor on Page 2

Weekend Violent Deaths In Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A watery grave awaited 15 Texans over the weekend as widespread violence claimed lives in drownings, traffic accidents, shootings and other incidents.

The Associated Press began its regular tabulation of weekend violent deaths at 6 p.m. Friday and continued the count until midnight Sunday.

The death count by midnight Sunday stood at 12 killed in traffic wrecks, 15 drowned, 3 shot to death, with the remainder killed in miscellaneous accidents.

Three children of a Wichita Falls family drowned Sunday while swimming in Lake Arrowhead in North Central Texas.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Dale Hurley, 11, Kenneth Dale Hurley, 8, and John David Hurley, 7.

James Rikman, 59, of Princeton drowned Sunday while swimming in Garza-Little Elm reservoir near Frisco Park. The mid-afternoon mishap occurred in Denton County.

Mr. and Mrs. Drew Findley of Conroe were killed Sunday in a pre-dawn accident when their automobile left the highway and smashed into a tree. The accident took place about 15 miles east of Huntsville.

James Edward White, 35, of Plainview was shot to death and three other men wounded when gunfire erupted at a lodge hall dance early Sunday in Hereford. Wounded were Chester Collins and Harold Sanders, both of Hereford, and Raymond Lemens of Lubbock.

Donna Gail Goss, 3, of Keller Tex. drowned late Saturday while wading with a brother at Lake Dallas.

First Couple Celebrates Anniversary

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP)

President and Mrs. Nixon observed their 31st wedding anniversary today as they neared the end of a quiet family holiday.

The Nixon's long weekend stay at their compound on the shores of Biscayne Bay marked a respite after a busy month of official concerns and the tensions of overseeing the wedding of daughter Tricia to Edward Cox.

The Nixons received Father's Day telephone calls from Mrs. Cox, who is still honeymooning, and from their younger daughter, Julie Eisenhower, who is visiting her husband's parents in Brussels.

The chief executive and wife Pat also attended Sunday services, worshipping at Key Biscayne Community Church. Chatting with newsmen after the service, the Nixons reminisced about their wedding 31 years ago at the Mission Inn Riverside, Calif., a structure that now is being razed.

Spotting a Miami Herald reporter he knows, Nixon said he wanted to take the opportunity to volunteer "a commercial for Florida's summertime attractions."

In June and July "there is really great water," he enthused, reporting he and his wife spent two hours swimming on Saturday and would do more of the same Sunday.

BIGGEST SINCE JACK RUBY

Trial Of Accused Gunmen Begins

BELTON, Tex. (AP) — A murder trial described as "the biggest since Jack Ruby" was to begin today in district court as a barrage of reporters, police officers and curious hit this Central Texas town.

Rene Adolfo Guzman, 33, and Leonardo Ramos Lopez, 25, are charged with murder in the shooting deaths of three sheriff's deputies last Feb. 15 on a Trinity River levee in West Dallas.

The execution style killings and the manhunt that followed drew more news coverage than any criminal event since Ruby gunned down accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald before a television audience of millions in 1963.

Dist. Atty. Henry Wade of Dallas County, who will join state prosecutors Doug Mulder and Jon Sparling in trying the case, said he will ask that Guzman and Lopez be sent to the electric chair.

It will mark the first time Wade personally has taken charge of a case since he sent Ruby toward the electric chair for killing Oswald.

Guzman and Lopez were captured in an East Dallas apartment only four days after Dallas County deputies Samuel G. Infante and W.D. Reese and Ellis County deputy A.J. Robertson were slain.

The three officers were among five deputies who were overpowered at frame house in West Dallas when they tried to arrest two burglary suspects.

All five officers were taken to the secluded spot near the Trinity River, but Ellis County deputy Wendell Dover survived a chest wound and Dallas County deputy A.D. McCurley escaped unhurt.

Both Dover and McCurley should figure prominently in the state's case against two accused men.

The two deputies already have identified Guzman and Lopez as the ones who took them captive and executed their fellow officers.

Additionally, the state has subpoenaed four Dallas residents who reported they were near the spot where the shooting took place and witnessed the slayings.

Both Guzman and Lopez have signed statements admitting they killed the deputies, but the prosecutors have said they may not seek to present the statements into evidence.

Another key to the case will be two revolvers belonging to the captured deputies which were found with Guzman and Lopez when they were arrested.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Mulder said he will call no more than 10 or 15 witnesses and expects the state's case to be completed in two days.

John J. Solon, hired to defend Guzman and Lopez, court-appointed lawyers, Don Metcalfe and Florentino Ramirez, have given no indication what course they will follow in defending the two men.

However, Solon has obtained the services of a Dallas psychiatrist who has examined Guzman.

The decision to move the murder trial to Belton was made by Dist. Judge R.T. Scales of Dallas last month after he determined the case had received too much publicity in Dallas.

Judge Scales decided to preside at the trial in Belton, saying it would not be fair to force the case on any other jurist.

With the change of venue, the Dallas prosecutors will be assisted by Bell County Dist. Atty. Stanley Kacir and the defense lawyers will be aided by Frank Holbrook, a veteran criminal lawyer from Killeen.

The move to Belton also has required additional preparations by Bell County Sheriff Lester Gunn, who said he is strengthening his jail guard staff to insure the security of the defendants.

Guzman and Lopez were driven to Belton under heavy guard Wednesday by Dallas Sheriff Clarence Jones and nine deputies.

One hundred prospective jurors have been summoned for the start of jury selection today, 100 for Wednesday and 100 more for Friday.

Times, Post Continue To Fight For Publication Of War Story

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times and the Washington Post go back into the courts today in their legal battles for the right to publish more material from a secret Pentagon study of the Vietnam war.

Federal appeals courts here and in the capital kept the two newspapers under temporary restraining orders over the weekend, blocking them from resuming publication of new material from the classified documents.

In each case, a federal district court judge has ruled that the government failed to prove its contention that further publication would result in irreparable injury to the national security.

A three-judge Court of Appeals will hear arguments here on the government's decision in favor of the Times.

In Washington, the Post faces District Court Judge Gerhard A. Gesell for the second time. Gesell refused to grant a temporary restraining order Friday but the Court of Appeals, in a 2-1 decision, reversed his decision.

The court granted the temporary restraining order and directed Gesell to hear the government's evidence and give his decision by 5 p.m. today.

Before publication was suspended by the court order, the Times had printed three instalments of its series based on the study.

The articles said the United States conducted clandestine warfare against North Vietnam prior to the 1964 Tonkin Gulf incident, that the Johnson administration decided before the 1964 election to bomb North Vietnam and that Johnson decided to use American ground troops offensively in secret early in 1965.

The Post printed two instalments after the Times' series was suspended. The articles said the Saigon regime prevented elections throughout Vietnam in 1955 without U.S. connivance.

They also said the Johnson administration had little hope that bombing raids between 1965 and 1968 would produce peace talks but believed they would placate world opinion.

LBJ Feels Secret Stories

'Do Not Tell True Story'

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson believes the secret Pentagon study of the Vietnam war does not reflect the true picture of his role, according to reports in Time and Newsweek magazines.

Time, in a report on the Pentagon study controversy, said that Johnson feels the documents "do not tell the true story because they are mostly contingency plans."

Newsweek said Johnson believes the study presents a dishonest, distorted and biased picture of his role and that the circumstances surrounding its being leaked to the New York Times "come close to treason."

Quoting "those in Austin privy to his feelings," Newsweek said the former president sees "the ghostly hand of Robert Kennedy" on the Pentagon study.

According to this view, Newsweek reported, the late New York senator needed an issue for his intended 1968 challenge to Johnson for the Democratic presidential nomination and "pinned his hopes on Vietnam."

The study was ordered by then Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. Newsweek said Johnson considered McNamara "a Kennedy man." Time, which noted that it gave no source for Johnson's views, said Johnson feels that his greatest mistake in the war was waiting until he had been in office 18 months, before sending American soldiers into battle "for by then he felt that Vietnam was almost lost."

Solons Accept Bids For Project At Lefors Field

Gray County Commissioners today accepted four bids for a construction and remodeling project at Perry Lefors Field, northwest of Pampa, in a meeting held this morning.

The commissioners officially accepted a $55,000 grant from the Texas Aeronautics Commission which will finance a part of the project.

Construction bids were accepted from Lewis Co. Dumas submitted a bid totaling $81,175 for alternate one, a penetrating asphalt treatment or alternate two, a hot mix surface at $92,936.

E. D. Baker Co., Borger, submitted a bid $75,091 for alternate one, and $79,981 for alternate two.

J. Lee Miller of Amarillo bid $61,366 for plan one and $68,716 for plan two.

Cooper-Woodruff Co. bid $65,512 and $108,742. Bid for the project will be awarded June 28 at 10 a.m.

County surveyor Gene Barber told the court that the bids included improvement to damaged existing runways, weed clearing and leveling of a crosswind extension and resurfacing.

Recommendation of the type surface will be made when the court convenes Monday. Barber further endorsed the project by pointing out the need for the airport improvement and outlined features including the availability of land and facility improvement feasibility in relationship to the economic betterment of the county.

'Dirty 30' Wins Victory Of Sorts When Smith Vetoes 'Pork' Items

AUSTIN (AP) — The "Dirty 30" won a victory of sorts when Gov. Preston Smith line-vetted several appropriations items Sunday night they had criticized as "pork" or worse.

Smith vetoed the entire second year of the 1972-73 state budget, plus items totaling $5.5 million in the appropriation for the fiscal year starting Sept. 1.

He also criticized numerous "liberal raises for already well-paid (state) executives," which he was powerless to reduce.

"The items I am vetoing for fiscal year 1972 are unnecessary and can be postponed without jeopardizing the delivery of essential services by the state," he said.

Several of the vetoed items were criticized as "pork" or unnecessary by members of the "Dirty 30" House coalition of liberal Democrats and conservative Republicans.

But an aide said Smith had not "to my knowledge" been contacted by any of the "Dirty 30" about vetoing certain items. Smith vetoed a $100,000 appropriation to the attorney general to fight suits challenging the redistricting bills passed by the legislature this year.

That item particularly was criticized by the "Dirty 30," some of whose members plan to contest the House and Congressional redistricting bills.

Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin said he did not request the money.

Smith also vetoed a pet project of Rep. W.S. Healy of Paducah, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. It was $150,000 for a "Quannah Parker Interpretive Center" at Copper Brakes State Park in Healy's district.

Also vetoed was $50,000 for "An Oral History of Members of the Legislature and Other State Officials," Smith said it was unclear what the legislature wanted done with the money.

Smith vetoed $219,929 to build a research center and museum at Clarendon, saying it had not been requested by the Historical Survey Committee.

He vetoed $700,000 item to build a "Spindletop Museum" at Lamar State College in Beaumont, calling it "a needless expenditure and burden on the taxpayer."

Another vetoed item would have provided $800,000 to buy and remodel the Stephen F. Austin Hotel in downtown Austin for a state office building.

"No open discussion of the items occurred. A detailed analysis of the cost of converting this hotel into office space has not been conducted. A reasonable cost estimate for conversion of the hotel to office facilities is three times the amount appropriated," Smith said.

The governor eliminated $1.8 million to build a neuropsychiatric institute at Dallas—an item he also vetoed in 1969.

"There is no evidence at this time that would indicate that the ultimate role and scope of the institute has been clearly defined or justified," he said.

Two Warning Sirens Will Be Ready Soon

Pampa should be "in business" with its new disaster warning system within the next week or so.

City Manager Mack Wofford said today the two warning sirens to be added to the city's current system arrived Saturday.

The two new sirens will be located in North and South Pampa. One will be installed in an alley just east of the intersection of S. Somerville and W. Albert.

The other will be in the alley near E. 22nd Ave. between Aspen and Beech streets. Wofford said the new sirens and installation will cost the city approximately $4,000.

The city manager added that two or three more sirens will be purchased for other locations next year when money is available.

The two new sirens will be in addition to the current warning system atop the Hughes Bldg. and city fire stations.

Tests will be run on the new sirens when the installation is completed, Wofford said.

Governor Denies Wrongdoing In Connection With Stock Fraud

ance stock but said he had committed no wrongdoing.

Lieutenant Governor Ben Barnes said today he was gratified that Gov. Preston Smith approved a one-year state budget, but he wished Smith had indicated this sooner.

Barnes issued a statement commenting on the governor's television address in which he disclosed he was vetoing the entire second year of the two-year 1972-73 appropriations bill.

The lieutenant governor will run for governor next year. He is a long-standing advocate of one-year budgets.

"It is gratifying to see Gov. Smith support a one-year appropriation bill and I fully intend to cooperate with him and the members of the legislature during the special session in another effort to write an appropriation bill that causes the least financial burden on our citizens and at the same time will provide all the necessary services required of our state," Barnes said.

"My only regret is that I wish he had supported a one-year appropriation bill during the regular session or, at least, given an indication that he would not veto another one-year bill as he has done previously (in 1969). Had he given the legislature this indication earlier, I am confident the majority of the members would have thought that a one-year spending bill was much more realistic and economical for 1971 as they did in 1969."

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith told Texans on statewide television Sunday night that he was innocent of any wrongdoing in connection with his purchase of National Bankers Life Insurance Co. stock in 1969.

It was his first public statement on the subject, other than news conferences, and he said his name had been smeared unjustly.

Smith told U. S. securities and Exchange Commission investigators last year that he made a $62,500 profit from NBL stock bought with money borrowed from Sharpstown State Bank of Houston in 1962.

The SEC alleged in a civil suit in Dallas that certain legislators and public officials were provided loans from Sharpstown to buy NBL stock. These transactions, the SEC alleged, were designed to help win passage of two banking bills that would have exempted Sharpstown from inspection by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

Smith opened the 1969 special legislative session to the bills, but vetoed them after they passed.

The governor said his investment in NBL was made for him by his business partner, State Democratic Chairman Dr. Elmer Baum.

Area Sportsmen Adopt Resolution To Deal With Action Of Park Unit

A group of Panhandle area sportsmen organized during a meeting conducted in Borger in an effort to curb action taken by the Parks and Wildlife Commission which closed the Canadian River, from three miles west of the Highway 70 bridge north of Pampa, westward to Lake Meredith, to hunters.

Officers were elected from the 435 attending sportsmen, and a resolution was adopted which has been forwarded to the executive director of Parks and Wildlife Commission, James Cross, Austin.

The resolution states the hunters' objections on the basis that no statistics have been recorded regarding safety of hunters in the area. The group contends that there is no overcrowding of hunters because of the split of game hunting seasons in the area. The sportsmen also endorse a complaint against the lack of any control to other sports in the area, namely motorcycle operation. The group also points out by resolution that the riverbed is self-supporting for the wildlife although they do migrate between the riverbed and private property.

Canadian River Sportsmen's Association also point out that the Canadian River is the sole remaining area of public land in the area. To hunt in the area, excluding the riverbed, hunters must obtain expensive hunting permits or pay lease rights.

A petition circulated in Hutchinson County resulted in obtaining 2,200 signatures for the resolution; 1,069 names were obtained in Gray. A signature total from Roberts County was not available, according to the association.

Listing the group's objectives for submission to the commission concluded the association meeting.

Robert M. Carp, president of the CRSA stated that a hearing to reconsider the public land closing had been requested, and the association is waiting for word from the state office concerning the matter.

The group will meet again Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the

Price Joins In Backing Substitute Bill On House Welfare Reform Plan

Congressman Bob Price of Pampa has joined with a group of Republican House members in introducing a substitute bill for the welfare reform plan recently approved by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The Ways and Means Committee proposal, which was authored by Committee Chairman Wilbur Mills (D-Ark), expands the current system in numbers and in tax costs, institutes guaranteed annual income maintenance, and federalizes the welfare program.

Price and his colleagues are strongly opposed to the Mills' bill and are working to prevent Mills from tying his welfare proposals to the social security amendments and forcing the House to vote for both issues at the same time.

The substitute bill introduced by Price, Barry Goldwater, Jr. (R-Calif.), Bill Scherle (R-Iowa), Philip Crane (R-Ill.), Texas Republicans Jim Collins and Bill Archer, among others, embodies the President's special revenue sharing concept and turns the welfare program over to the states.

In addition to instituting state welfare control, the Republican substitute provides strong work incentives rather than a guaranteed annual income, a feature of the Mills proposal which Price contends will "in many cases guarantee idleness and shiftlessness." The bill also provides mechanisms for reducing welfare case loads and lowering welfare program costs to the taxpayer.

In commenting on the proposal Price stated, "This bill, which is also gathering momentum on the Senate side will allow states for the first time to totally operate their own welfare program without federal strings attached."

Two Oklahoma Youths Arrested On Burglary Charges In Pampa

Police officers conducting a routine check-out of an automobile parked behind a local restaurant resulted in the arrest of two youths on burglary charges early Sunday morning.

Officers checking the car observed a quantity of different brands of beer in a car parked behind the restaurant and began unraveling a pattern of burglaries which occurred Saturday night.

Two youths, both listing Oklahoma residences, were arrested and charged with the burglary of three Pampa businesses and listed as minors in possession of alcoholic beverages.

Seventeen-year-old Randall G. Branscum, Holdenville, Okla., and his 16-year-old companion were jailed on charges of burglarizing It Faces North, on N. Hobart, Penny's Lounge and Stapleton's Boot Shop. Clothes and accessories valued at $250 were reportedly stolen from It Faces North. Two pairs of used cowboy boots and an American Flag were taken in the boot shop break-in, police reports said today. Beer, cigarettes and chewing gum had been removed from the lounge.

A report from Malcolm McDaniel, owner of Panhandle Motors, advised police full bottles of beer had been heaved through the window of a car on his lot next to the lounge. The youths were also questioned concerning that incident. The car reportedly sustained $125 in damage. Full bottles of the beverage were recovered from inside the damaged vehicle.

Three Pampans To Attend NEA Annual Meeting

Three Pampa educators will attend the 100th annual convention of the National Education Association June 26-July 2 in Detroit, Mich. Delegates are Bill Potts, Karen A. Slate, and James Malone.

Malone, superintendent of the Pampa schools, is one of four members of the NEA board of directors from Texas. Potts is president of Pampa Classroom Teachers Association.

The Texas delegation to the NEA convention also will include Texas State Teachers Association state officers Archie Roberts of Beeville, president; Mrs. Patsy Duncan of Amarillo, president-elect; and Mrs. Jewell Harris of Abilene, immediate past president.

Elliot L. Richardson, U.S. secretary of health, education, and welfare will speak at the convention.

Issues in education to be discussed will include performance contracting for school instruction services, public aid to non-public schools (which is opposed by NEA and TSTA), student drug abuse, educational priorities, and school integration.

LHS Graduates Invited To Attend Alumni Meeting

LEFORS (Sp) — All graduates of Lefors High School, classes of 1929-1971 are invited to attend an alumni meeting at City Park in Lefors on July 3.

The homecoming event will be conducted from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

All exes and their families are urged to make plans to attend the first summer reunion conducted by ex-students.

Homemade ice cream and cake will be served during the course of the afternoon.

Exes living in the area have been asked to contact classmates concerning the homecoming.

Amateur Radio Operators To Set Up Emergency Unit

Local amateur radio operators will set up two radio sections on the Billy Davis Ranch near Lefors at 2 p.m. Saturday as a part of a giant non-commercial emergency communications facility which will be in operation Saturday and Sunday all over the United States.

The local group will consist of 18 ham operators which expect to operate continuously from 2 p.m. Saturday until 2 Sunday, according to Pampa Amateur Radio Club president, J. R. Poston.

All equipment at the Field Day site will be supplied by gasoline-driven electric power generators, just as would be used should local power fail in a real emergency. The main objective of the exercise is to check out equipment and test procedures that would be used in actual emergencies, such as a tornado. During such an emergency local hams probably would provide the only communications with the outside.

From the Yukon to Puerto Rico, and Nova Scotia to Hawaii, amateur operators will be taking part in a "picnic" 5,000 miles wide, and enjoying competition to see which Field Day operation is most effective.

The clean-cut Vietnam veteran says he got into undercover work after seeing a friend who "was doing drugs."

House Unit OK's $12-Billion Bill For Programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee last week approved a $12-billion environmental and consumer protection programs for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The total is $2.5 billion more than was provided last year for comparable activities, but $22 million less than President Nixon requested.

The bill subject to House action next week, provides $6.2 billion for agricultural programs, $932.8 million for rural development, $3.1 billion for environmental protection and $2.76 billion for consumer protection and services.

Largest chunk of money for agricultural programs is $3.6 billion to reimburse the Commodity Credit Corporation for its price support and production and marketing activities.

He said the process, dubbed FRAT for free radial assay technique, will be able to detect heroin users among the average 1,000 servicemen who are leaving the country each day.

Individuals whose urine samples are positive will be subjected to what officials called confirming tests. The entire process takes about 25 hours.

Heroin users then will be sent to special holding centers for a period of five to seven days. There they will receive medical and psychiatric treatment and counseling, on the same order as the 19 amnesty centers for soldier drug addicts now in operation in Vietnam.

"Medical authorities will make the determination that individuals have been treated sufficiently to be returned to the United States for follow-up rehabilitation," the command said.

Last Week In Business

By DAVID BURKE

NEW YORK (AP) — New evidence that the economy is on the upswing showed up this past week as the government reported gains during May in housing starts, personal income and factory output.

The good news was somewhat tempered, though, with announcements by several banks of increases in their prime lending rates. Higher interest rates reduce corporate borrowing and new spending, thus acting as a brake on continued economic growth, economists generally contend.

Furthermore, President Nixon's chief economic adviser said the economy was moving too slowly to cut into the high rate of unemployment. Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, said the President will have to decide this summer whether to propose new economic stimulants, such as a tax cut.

The Federal Reserve Board reported that industrial output rose 0.7 per cent last month.

Part from a similar increase in January, when output was still rebounding from the effects of the strike at General Motors, this was the sharpest rise in nearly two years. In June 1966, production also rose 0.7 per cent.

The Commerce Department reported moderate rises in personal income and housing during May. Personal income last month increased by $6 billion, $1.4 billion more than in April. More than two-thirds of May's increase was in wages and salaries, reflecting the growth of total employment as well as some rise in wage levels.

DEAR ABBY: My grandson starts to college next fall. His guidance counselor at school is advising these young teenagers to leave their homes and live some place else if possible. Now my grandson is pestering his mother to ask me to let him fix up a room in my attic!

I am an old woman and my health is none too good, and my attic is a junk pile and it would take hours of hard work to make it livable. Besides, I can't see myself waiting on a teenager, cooking and doing his laundry and cleaning an attic room every day at my age. The I'd have the responsibility and worry every time he went out at night.

His parents are in very moderate circumstances. They both work and it's a hardship to just put him through college here in his home town, much less pay for him to live away from home.

I think this guidance counselor is a nut. I know most young people are more independent than they used to be, but to put the idea into their heads of moving out of good homes without a dime in their pockets sounds like an adult fool trying to advise a lot of immature young fools.

Maybe I am wrong, but just who is the nut, the guidance counselor or me?

WORRIED GRANDMA
DEAR WORRIED: You don't sound like a nut to me, and neither does the guidance counselor for advising young people to live away from home if possible. Your grandson ought to be told that, since in his case it's not possible, he should get off his mother's back and give up the idea of moving in with you.

The Quira Girl Scout Council has ended its second session of day camp, under the direction of Mrs. Walter Hill. The entire session was conducted at the Red Seitz Ranch, Miami.

Other adult staff members were: Mmes. Leo Rhoten, nurse; William Mackey, business manager; and Mmes. Jim Bean, Lacy Lee, Gary Hill, Virgil Beard and Charles Spangler, unit leaders.

Assistant leaders were: Celia Smyth, Rita Gull, Kathy Taylor, Barbara Casey, Mrs. Max Robbins and Mrs. Glen Knight. Barbara Whiteley was the headquarters P.A.T. and senior aides were: Becky Tinsley, Susie Stowers, Regina Stucchi and Linda Casey.

The P.A.T.S. or Program-Aides-in-Training, were: Theresa Walsh, Dreka Weatherly, Jill Atchley, Janet Flowers, Cathy Bailey, Susie Ehmman, Vickie Hoover, Janice Bean, Kim Hoover, Melanie Miller, Debbie Kirk and Mollie Jackson.

During camp the girls earned the Gypsy, Observer and Rambler Proficiency Badges. As part of a varied crafts and nature program, Scouts made rings, leaf plaques, headbands, sand paintings, bug cages, squaw dolls, terrariums, bird feeders, potato prints, footprint casts and macramé.

Providing transportation, a vital part of Day Camp, were:

Clyde Carruth, Mark Buzzard, Jack Skelly, Tony Evert, Robert Craig, Myron Marx, Jo Edd Mackie, Jo Don Biggers, Thomas Collins, Jerry English, and Bill Mackey.

Also driving buses were: Dale Largent, Wayne Lemmons, David Hutto, Bill Hagerman, Ralph Palmer, Walter Hill, Lonnie Richardson, Neil Laycock, and Dan Johnson. Mmes. Frank Stofa, C.C. Hoover, Ralph Busse, Quenton Nolte, J.L. Miser, Michael Voss, Danny King, Tom Collins, H.C. Johnson, Robert Craig, Donald Gandy, W. R. Pope, Charles Browder, A.C. Parsley, Gage Robertson and Charles Casey drove these bus drivers back and forth to camp.

Mothers checking to be certain each camper was picked up at the end of each day were: Mmes. Gerard Leger, J.D. Grider, James K. Russell, Alvin Alexander, Jim Summers, C.G. Casebier, Don Riddle, Alvin Dauer, Harold Comer and William Basham.

Mrs. Raymond Laycock, official camp visitor for the first session, and Mrs. Richard Stowers, second session, filed reports that will be forwarded to the Girl Scout National Branch Office in Kansas City. A word of thanks is due to Miss Cathie Deist and the members of Junior Troop 20 who helped clean up around the Girl Scout Little House.

Mother's Fashion For Bathing Baby

Trying to keep dry while giving the baby a bath isn't the easiest thing in the world.

But here's an idea for a terry cloth apron that'll cover the mother from head to knee while she's bathing her youngster. An added feature of the unusual design is that it converts into a hooded wrap-up for the baby when he's taken out of the tub.

Made from a square yard of cotton terry, the apron has a triangular "pocket" on the front that forms the hood. As the baby is lifted from the tub, the mother covers his head with the hood and wraps him in the apron skirt. Then with her free hand, she can slip the neck loop of the apron off her head and dry off the baby with the "towel" apron.

A roomy and versatile style, the apron also is ideal for backyard barbecuing, car washing, or any clean-up chore requiring an absorbent and washable cover-up.

To make the apron, you'll need 1 1/4 yards of 36-inch cotton terry, five yards of double fold cotton bias tape for binding apron edges, and 1- and two-third yards of half-inch cotton cable cord for neck loops and waist ties.

From the terry, cut a triangle with a 12-inch base and 9-inch sides. This will make the hood pocket for the apron's bib front. Use a zig-zag machine stitch to sew bias tape along the 12-inch base of the triangle. Now match the 9-inch sides of the triangle to the top point of the apron square and sew in place, leaving the long side at the bottom open.

Bind edges all around the apron square with bias tape using a zig-zag machine stitch for decorative effect.

Creative Play Areas Make Backyard Fun

Play areas needn't be lavish layouts with an array of expensive equipment. Many play items most children seem to enjoy can be built easily at home with western wood, as a way to keep children from roaming too far in search of fun.

One basic for smaller children is a sandbox. It should be big enough for several tots to move about in without crowding.

A solid box can be built of 2x12-inch western pine or fir, on 4x4-inch posts set 18 inches in the ground. The wood should be surfaced to avoid splinters and treated with a preservative to resist decay.

Seating can be added with a cap of eight or ten-inch boards around the box or on two sides, or by adding triangular pieces at corners. These also will lend strength to the box.

A sandbox should be built where it will be in the shade of a building or tree during the hottest part of the day. A cover of plywood or chicken wire on a lightweight wood frame will keep cats out at night.

A variation is the sand table, about five by three feet, and set on 4x4-inch posts about coffee table height. The sides are of 1x6-inch boards, with a 1x2-inch cap. Bottom is 3/4-inch plywood.

The table can be moved into carport or garage on rainy days.

Another attraction children look for is something to climb, swing on, and jump from. This can be a simple T-shaped or rectangular frame of 4x4 or 4x6-inch fir or pine posts and beams, set securely in concrete. Ropes can be secured to the beams for climbing, and ladders of 2x2-inch wood built onto the ends. A row of heavy dowels or pipes between two beams make a good hand-swinging area.

The climber can be built on several levels to suit children of various ages. It's good to cover the ground below climber with bark chips or sand, to cushion landings.

Youngsters also like structures ranging from tree houses or platforms to a set of boxes, built of 1x10-inch pine or fir and about three by four feet in size. Imaginative children soon stack the boxes into trains,

SPACE AGE CROP—Ron Rogers "listens to tomatoes grow" in a hydroponic garden west of Pampa. The hothouse growth of the plants depends on warm air and chemicals, bypassing earth completely in producing the near perfect specimens of the fruit. (Staff Photo)

Texas' 'Hot Air' Feeds Space Age Crop Garden

A lot of hot air, the right combination of chemicals, a special hot house, and a lot of know-how goes into the production of tomatoes in hydroponic gardens west of Pampa on the Borger highway. This garden is one of two units owned and operated by Ron Rogers and J.A. Whiteside both residents of Pampa.

Rogers began this operation in 1965 when he theorized the old Columbia Carbon black buildings would make good hot houses. One of these buildings was purchased and moved to Fritch where he set up the first hydroponic garden. In 1965 Rogers expanded by buying the unit he is presently operating. Since that time the industry has grown to a point requiring four men employed in Fritch, the owners operating the Pampa branch.

The tomatoes are grown suspended from trellises about 15 feet high, with roots in a fine gravel-filled trough. Once a day the troughs are flooded with water that contains a chemical mixture essential to the plants. The solution is allowed to stand for a maximum of 15 minutes per day before being drained off.

Hydroponic gardens are a forecast of the future because of the lack of needed space to grow crops in a crowded city. In Rogers' greenhouse, the equivalent of ten acres of tomatoes can be grown and cared for by half the personnel.

Not only do these plants grow and thrive in the solution of water and mineral, but they produce tomatoes that have been recorded to weigh one and three quarters pounds each. Plant growth has been measured up to an inch a day during prime growth. This is what could be classed as "bearing the plant grow."

Constant care and replacement of crops require the help of the entire Rogers family. Becky, ten, is convinced that working at home is definitely the wrong approach to making a living. To Becky, and her younger brother, Brent, who is nine, the tomato patch is just a big headache. Carla, 5, the youngest member of the family, is just now learning that tomatoes can run into a bunch of work. The greenhouse is open to the public, through the growing season, which is nine months of the year.

AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market suffered one of its biggest setbacks of the year this past week as the Dow Jones industrial average fell to a level some 60 points below its 1971 high.

A quarter-point rise in the prime rate by a major Pennsylvania bank prior to the opening of trading Monday followed by a California bank's 1/2-point increase set the stage for the sharp market decline Friday.

Although few other banks raised their prime rates, the uncertainty of whether they would weighed heavily on investors.

In addition, the international airlines' fare war and action by the Venezuelan congress to ensure that foreign oil company concession would revert on the state at the end of 1983 drove airline and oil stocks sharply lower.

The effect of these developments and special situations in other areas combined to press the Dow average below the 900 support level Friday, after it had withstood the pressure for three sessions.

As analysts had predicted, when the Dow dropped significantly below 900, more selling developed.

The closing Dow of 889.16 Friday was the lowest since March 3's finish at 882.39 and represented a fall-off of some 60 points since the high Dow close for the year, 950.82 on April 28.

For the week, the Dow lost 27.31 points.

Other indices were off sharply as well. The Associated Press 60-stock average declined 7.1 to 317.2. The New York Stock Exchange index of more than 1,300 common stocks lost 1.17 to 54.63.

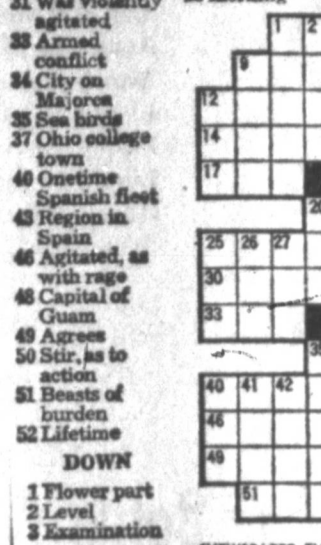

Big Board volume of 68.43 million shares compared with 66.38 million shares the previous week.

Burlington Industries, down 3 1/2 to 3 3/4 on 988,000 shares was the most actively traded Big Board stock this past week. It was followed by Pan American Airways, off 2 1/2 to 13; American Telephone down 1 1/2 to 44; Xerox, up 2 1/2 to 114; and Telex, off 1 1/2 to 144 on 502,400 shares.

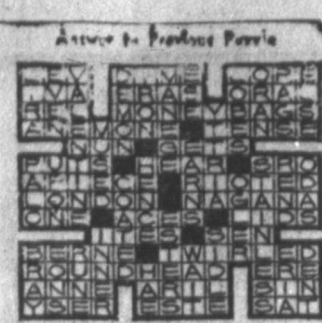

The most actively traded Big Amex stocks included: RSC Industries, up 2 1/2 to 4 1/2; STP Corp., down 11 to 42 1/2; and Loew's Corp.'s warrants, off 2 1/2 to 24 1/2.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird would be happy to appear on a CBS special on prisoners of war—but live, not in a pretaped interview as proposed by the network.

Defense Department spokesman Daniel Z. Henkin said Friday Laird believes "very deeply he ought to be allowed to say his own words."

CBS recently set off controversy with a documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon." Henkin has charged that producers of the program distorted his statements in their editing of a taped interview with him.

William Small, CBS bureau chief in Washington, said in a statement, "When newspapers and magazines concede to a similar request by granting Mr. Laird a certain number of column inches to fill as he sees fit, then CBS News will consider granting a certain amount of time for him to appear live within an otherwise filmed documentary."

"After such consideration," the statement continued, "our answer will still be no."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Barbara Hutton, Woolworth heiress who fractured a thigh bone when she tripped on a carpet in Rome, has undergone successful major hip surgery, her doctor says.

A team of orthopedic surgeons operated Friday at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center.

Dr. Edward Kantor said Miss Hutton, 58, would convalesce for "quite some time." The physician said the fracture was complicated by the lapse of time before Miss Hutton had the injury treated. She left Europe June 11 to come here for treatment.

WINCHESTER, Mass. (AP) — Comedian Frankie Fontaine lost his home in an Internal Revenue Service auction but got it back moments later from a group of friends who had submitted the high bid for it.

"It's great to have buddies like these guys," Fontaine said. "There's nothing like having friends like this."

The house was auctioned Friday by the IRS to pay off some of the $450,000 it says Fontaine owes in back taxes and penalties.

A group called "Friends of Frankie Fontaine Committee" raised nearly $60,000 at a benefit for the comedian in May. Frank Shilesky of Arlington, committee chairman, said the bid on the house "used up all the monies derived from the benefit."

The amount of the bid was not announced. The auction was held at the IRS office in Lowell.

It takes a great car to make a great car deal. And right now your Pontiac dealer has both.

Ventura II Coupe

Buckle up for safety.

He's dealing on every Pontiac. Including our big Catalina and our new Ventura II—the small Pontiac with the small-car price.

There Is No Dad Like Grandad

We felt it was time that somebody put in a special word for Grandfather, for often Mother, Dad and even Grandmother pick up all the headlines. A great many grandfathers come into our pharmacy and they always seem to have an extra special step—a good word and a twinkle in their eyes.

All older people get extra special attention from us. We carry a large stock of products, from geriatric medicines to home care convalescent aids. We realize that it is much more difficult for the elderly to recuperate from an illness or broken home.

"This is Children's Mouth"

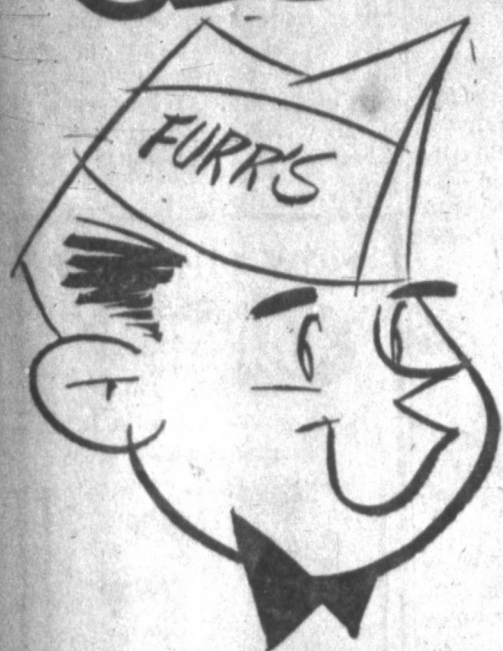

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service and charge accounts.

Your Horoscope

TUESDAY, JUNE 22
Your birthday Tuesday. A sense of adventure stays with you through most of the coming year since much of what happens is new in your experience. You'll go well ahead on any projects which depend on your own decisions and management, while self-discipline is needed to stay in step with activities led by others. Tuesday's natives are astute observers of cause and effect.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): — Concentrate on the more cheerful side of life. Anything like business and commerce is apt to be uphill no matter how ordinary.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): — Healthier interest in yourself, your personal welfare lead you to seek a more even balance. Prepare to try again on any recent setback.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): — Stop, look and listen includes restraint; if you cannot remain unruffled, at least don't rise to the bait.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): — Promises seem too good to be true — be wary of what you offer while staying away from dependence on the offers of others.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): — Pick your own occasion to plunge in though not yet; others are well ahead of you and will need a chance to move out of your way. Patient!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): — An old memory returns in lighter form and becomes a guide toward similar heights. The spark of romantic interests gleams.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): — Diligent search brings special rewards. Keep it the simplest path, then press forward with a positive program.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): — Whatever has failed of its purpose may be replaced or bypassed. Find and stick to the simplest path, then press forward with a positive program.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): — Again you have broad opportunity to attempt projects beyond your reach. There are no short cuts on matters of skill and accuracy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): — Settle for practical achievement along essential lines; make the best of it as ahead. Don't waste energy on extra details.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): — Advice from rather unlikely sources may be hard to accept but is of special value. Diligent effort yields good results and a few surprises.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): — Faraway and nearby interests clash and it seems you must neglect one or the other for the moment. Avoid haste and rash language.

News Brief

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Harris County Commissioner Jamie Eray proposed Friday that the commissioners court hold some of its weekly meetings at night to give citizens who work in the daytime an opportunity to attend.

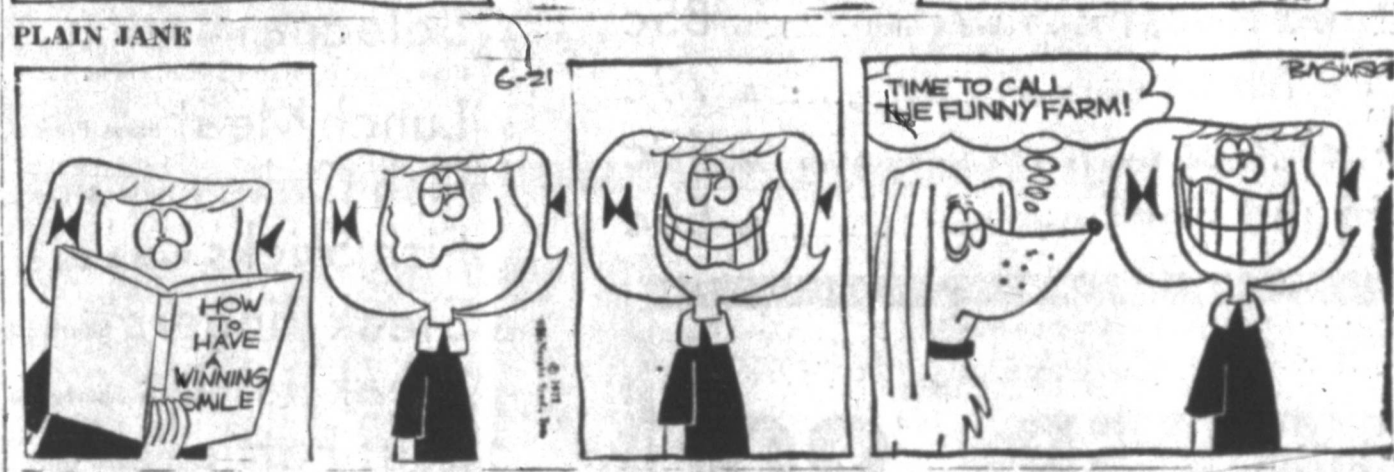

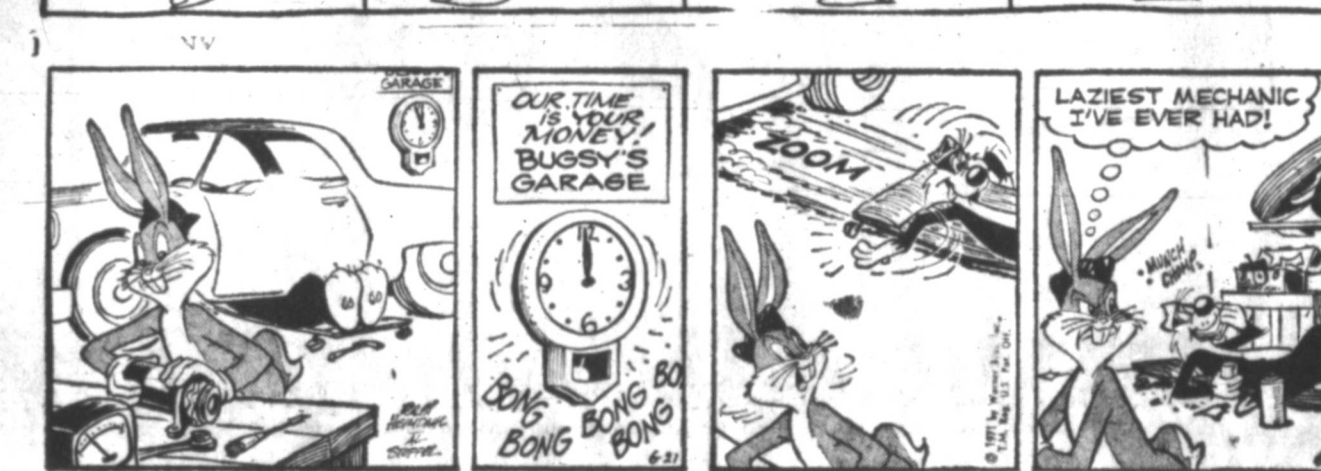

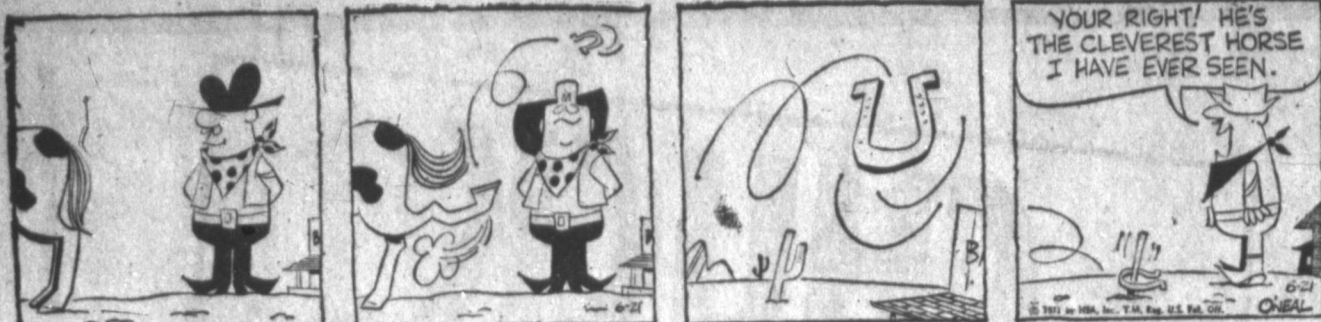

Eray also wants the court to consider holding meetings in city halls around the county from time to time instead of in the downtown courthouse.

He said such moves would give citizens a better chance to participate in county affairs.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Actress Carol Channing will present Lady Bird Johnson with a scroll honoring the former First Family as a "Great Love Story of the 20th Century" in ceremonies Wednesday at the Ted Freeman Library near the Manned Spacecraft Center.

The library is named for an astronaut killed in a plane crash. The award to Mrs. Johnson will be made at the library fund-raising show in which wedding gowns will be modeled by wives and daughters of American astronauts.

Nicklaus-Trevino Head Towards Open Play-Off

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
ARDMORE, Pa. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus plays his Frankenstein monster, Lee Trevino, in an 18 hole playoff today for the 71st annual U.S. Open Golf Championship.

Nicklaus and Trevino wound up in a tie Sunday after 72 holes, when Trevino missed a six foot putt and took a bogey on the 18th hole, while Nicklaus two putted for a par on the same green. They each scored a par 280 for the 72-hole test over Merion Golf Club's short but demanding course.

Nicklaus posted rounds of 69-72-68-71 and Trevino 70-72-69-68 to set up the 25th playoff in U.S. Open history.

Third round leader Jim Simons, the 21-year-old amateur from Butler, Pa., who led after three rounds, buckled under the intense pressure, double bogeying the final hole and winding up with a six over par 76, tied for sixth place.

The Frankenstein monster creation by Trevino after he shot a one under par 69 Sunday to come from four strokes off the 34-hole pace to a tie and playoff. They will play off starting at 1:45 p.m. EDT today.

Trevino told of how Nicklaus gave him words of encouragement last February. "And I've played unbelievably well," said the 31-year-old resident of El Paso, Tex.

It was after an exhibition in West Palm Beach, Fla., that Nicklaus and Trevino had a conversation in the locker room. Trevino recalled that he told Nicklaus that he was skipping the Masters because he didn't feel his game was geared to the course at Augusta.

"He (Nicklaus) said 'Let me tell you something.' He said you can play any place you want to. He said 'I hope you never find out how good you can play because it will give the rest of us a little better chance to win.'"

Trevino's record since that locker room conversation is two victories, twice he missed winning by one shot, lost one playoff, finished second, fourth, 10th, 12th and 37th and earned $110,000.

Trevino tied for the lead on the 12th hole of Sunday's final round over the 6,544-yard Merion Course, treacherous layout of 124 bunkers, rough as thick as hay and greens that had Nicklaus talking to himself at times.

On the 12th, Trevino said he made a shot he almost didn't believe. He hit a nine iron that almost ran over the green, but the backspin and downward slope of the green left the ball inches from the hole. He sank the putt for a birdie three tying him with Nicklaus and Simons, who were playing together.

Trevino took the lead at the 14th where he put his drive in the fairway and his second shot about 12 inches to the left of the pin and made the putt to go one under for the tournament, a stroke ahead of Nicklaus.

The 5-foot-7 Trevino only had to make par at 15, and he would have forced Nicklaus to birdie at least one of the last two holes to tie. His second shot, however, went to the rough near the right rear of the green. He chipped to within six feet and missed for a bogey.

Nicklaus, who is seeking his 12th major golf championship, only one behind the record 13 earned by bantam Ben Hogan, had trouble all day with one of his best clubs, the three wood.

He couldn't keep the ball in the fairway.

Nicklaus knew that he could win it all with a birdie at 15, and he gave it all he had. His booming drive was the best he hit all day, and he hit a four iron to the green 12 and 15 feet from the pin. The crowd of better than 16,000 hushed as he studied the putt.

"Actually it was an easy putt," Nicklaus related. "It was straight and I must have pulled it a few inches off." Then he tapped in for his par and a tie.

Nicklaus also had clutch putts at 15, 16, and 17, rolling them in from about six feet twice and four feet. "You've got to make some putts along the line to have a chance," he said.

Bobby Allison Phoning In Race Results Early

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Lots of practice and an electronic gizmo have provided Bobby Allison with a new nickname in stock car racing: "The Untouchable."

The 33-year-old Allison used a two-way walkie-talkie-type radio Sunday to capture first place in NASCAR's 400-mile Golden State Grand National Race for stock cars. The 100-degree-plus heat barely affected him.

Touring Riverside International Raceway's 2.6-mile road course at an average speed of 93.62 miles an hour, the resident of Hueytown, Ala., notched his fourth victory in a row on this grueling circuit which Richard Petty once owned.

Inside Allison's helmet was a small receiver through which the driver listened to his brother Eddie in the pits tell of cracksups and rough spots on the track. Allison, using a voice-actuated microphone, was able to let his pit crew know what he wanted done on his next pit stop, saving precious seconds.

Bobby is a devout Catholic and race day being Sunday, he made sure things were squared away in that corner by attending church in the morning. And appropriately, the name of the church was "Our Lady of Perpetual Help."

And just for added insurance, Bobby got in a little practice for the 400-mile event by spending Saturday night relaxing behind the wheel of an older-vintage car on a small track in nearby San Bernardino, P.S.—He won that sportsmen's race too.

All in all, it was quite a weekend for Allison, who now has won nearly $100,000 in his last four weeks of racing and is fourth in NASCAR point standings behind Petty, James Hylton of Inman, S.C. and Cecil Gordon, Arden, N.C.

Petty, of Randleman, N.C., blew an engine on the 110th of 153 laps and wound up 13th. The winner was happy about the victory but happier about the electronics.

"The radio worked really, really well," said Allison. "I wasn't startled by it and once it really helped me out."

Next race on the NASCAR circuit is a 150-mile at Houston this week. Another victory by Allison and he can start "phoning in" the results in.

Bumpy Turn Bounces Roller Coaster Track At Pocono

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
MT. POCONO, Pa. (AP) — Al Unser calls it a "roller coaster" course, and that may be the reason only three drivers got their cars on the new Pocono International Raceway during the first two days of practice.

Most drivers entered in the July 2 Schaefer 500, a $400,000 event that is the mid-point of championship racing's "triple crown," said their machines either weren't ready for the first weekend of shakedown runs, or hadn't arrived.

But Unser, a double Indianapolis 500 winner and current leader in USAC point standings by a whopping 1,180 points, wasn't really critical of the $6 million facility that opened for the first time Saturday.

"It needs a bit of seasoning," the dark-haired, 32-year-old, youngest of the two driving brothers from Albuquerque, N.M., said. "Right now, I'd be concerned with some very definite ripples that you experience in the surface in the third turn. Maybe, with the right suspension on the car you wouldn't notice it."

Bill Simpson of Hermosa Beach, Calif., took several dusty laps in his Wynn's turbo-charged Eagle-Offy and once complained of the bumps in the sweeping third turn.

Men's Singles Contests Kick Off At Wimbledon

By JOHN FARROW
WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Hot pants for the girls... A big bid by the World Championship Tennis group to get more prize money... possible clashes about the rules on all white outfits.

Those are the outside issues as the two-week Wimbledon Lawn Tennis championship gets under way today.

The women's group, formed in the United States by Mrs. Gladys Heldman, is dedicated to advancing the cause of women's tennis throughout the world.

Some stars like defending champion Margaret Court of Australia, third-seeded Evonne Goolagong, also Australian, and fifth seeded Virginia Wade of Britain, don't belong to the group. There's some hard feeling between the independents and the organizer players. It could lead to some angry scenes on the courts.

There's talk about some of the girls wearing hot pants and some of them plan to wear mauve in contrast to the obligatory all white outfits.

Major Jack Mills, secretary of Wimbledon, did not receive Arthur Ashe's idea of a yellow ensemble with much enthusiasm.

"The rule about all white is perfectly clear," Mills said. The WCT outfit, including stars like Rod Laver, Ken Rosewall, defending champion John Newcombe and Ashe, is campaigning for a bigger say in the running of affairs and for more prize money.

There have been suggestions that the WCT might boycott Wimbledon if the prize is not increased from its present total of $90,696.

The men's singles first prize carries $9,000 and the women's singles $4,320.

The first prize for men at Forest Hills last year was $20,000.

Laver, four time winner of the men's crown, is the No. 1 seed with Newcombe second, Rosewall third and Smith of Pasadena, Calif., fourth.

Ashe of Gum Spring, Va., is fifth seeded followed by Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., Ilie Nastase, Romania, and Cliff Drysdale, South Africa.

Men's singles are the only matches on the agenda today. The women open their campaign Tuesday.

Top U.S. Tracksters Unhappy With Seattle

By CHARLIE BAROUH
Associated Press Sports Writer
SEATTLE (AP) — The top United States track and field athletes take their running and jumping show to Eugene, Ore., for the AAU championships this weekend, some hoping for a little more happiness than they found here.

A few expressed dissatisfaction in last weekend's NCAA track and field championships held at the University of Washington stadium.

Steve Prefontaine, Oregon's long-distance machine seemed the unhappiest despite successfully defending his three-mile title in a meet record 13 minutes 20.1 seconds. He said he disliked the track, which he said was too hot and left his feet blistered.

"I got out of this nothing more than just a good hard workout," the 20-year-old sophomore said.

Ralph Mann managed to control his elation also after he won the intermediate hurdles in 49.6.

Miller Marty Liquori and shot put champ Karl Salb of Kansas won their events for a third straight year.

"Three days running on this hard concrete track will take something out of you," Mann said. "And that wind down the stretch was something else again. I'm looking forward to the AAU meet in Eugene."

The college athletes will be joined by open athletes in that one.

One of the glamor meetings is a return match between Li-quori and world record holder Jim Ryun. The big question is the pollen count. Ryun suffers from hay fever and says he may not enter if the pollen count is high.

If Prefontaine was unhappy at one end, UCLA Coach Jim Bush balanced the scales after his Bruins won the team title, scoring 52 points to 41 for Southern Cal and 38 for Oregon despite an unsteady performance from vaunted sprinter Willie Deckard.

Harvester Gym Open To Public

Sweden Let, Athletic Director for the Pampa Schools, has announced the opening of Harvester gym on the Pampa High School campus from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday of each week.

All persons desiring to play in the gym are invited. No dressing facilities or equipment will be furnished. Tennis or basketball shoes or bare feet will be required on the floor. A school employee will be on duty to supervise play.

Nebraska Coach Faces Pleasant Dilemma In All American Game

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Nebraska Coach Bob Devaney faces a pleasant dilemma in deploying his West forerunners in the nationally televised All American football game Saturday night.

For starters, he's got Heisman Trophy winner Jim Plunkett of Stanford and Southern Methodist's quarterback Chuck Hixson to choose from to direct the assault.

Additionally, says Devaney, "I think we have some of the finest receivers I've seen in one of these games."

This group includes J.D. Hill of Arizona State, Chuck Dicus of Arkansas, Ernie Jennings of Air Force, Bob Moore of Stanford and Otto Stowe of Iowa State.

Devaney, opposing a defensively tonight, East squad coached by Louisiana State's Charley McClendon, noted that fullbacks Bo Cornell of Washington and Dan Schless of Nebraska are also fine receivers.

Hixson, in looking over the array of targets, said: "They are so fast and elusive and surehanded. It's a quarterback's dream, really."

Then NBA greats Earl Monroe of Baltimore, Cazzie Russell of San Francisco and Connie Hawkins of Phoenix combined with ABA stars Jimmy Jones of Memphis, Larry Jones and Mack Calvin of the Floridians and Willie Wise and Zelmo Beaty of the Utah Stars to give the fans plenty of fireworks for the West.

Finally, young John Brisker of the ABA's Pittsburgh team, the game's high-scorer with 21 points, put a topper on the show with some dazzling play for the East.

Other focal points included Calvin-led fast breaks, some sleight-of-hand passing by Monroe, Russell and Indiana's Roger Brown, and soaring dunk shots by Hawkins.

"The Hawk" was voted Most Valuable Player by the press, the second time he's won that honor in the four-year history of the game.

Six players scored in double figures for the West, led by Jimmie Jones with 14 points. Wise, Larry Jones and Monroe scored 13 each. Brown followed Brisker in the East scoring with 14 points.

The game was dominated by the West, but there were a number of features to keep the folks interested.

First, the East, coached by former pro and college coach John McClendon, started five hometown Indiana Pacers,

Alcoholic Inheritance

Denes de Torok, professor of biological science at Carnegie-Mellon University in Pennsylvania, recently reported that his study of three groups revealed that alcoholism causes genetic damage.

Permanent brain damage due to alcoholism was found in the first group of 100 patients committed to a mental hospital near Pittsburgh. Of this group 100 per cent showed evidence of serious and permanent brain damage, combined with damage to the chromosomes of their cells.

Professor de Torok has little doubt that alcohol-damaged genetic matter can be transmitted to offspring, and, perhaps, even to the following generations. When the genetic damage occurs in a man's reproductive age, he can pass on only damaged material to his children. He found some grounds for believing that the alcohol damage may be partly repaired by time and abstinence.

The scientific discoveries of Professor de Torok confirm the folly of those who wantonly destroy their health by overindulgence. Some people become addicted to alcohol from social drinking, while others do not. Social drinkers should watch for the tell-tale signs: gulping your drink, drinking alone, hiding your supply, getting irritated from drinking instead of being relaxed by it, drinking in the morning, drinking more than you used to. These are indications of trouble ahead.

Drinking problems are not caused by social or financial or psychological pressures. They are simply caused by acquiring a physical addiction. It is folly to think a person has to be a moderate drinker in order to prove to himself that he is mentally sound. The soundest person in the world may not be able to drink moderately. The only cure for one who is addicted is total abstinence.

Father Hill Vs. Fanny Hill

The above heading appeared in Time magazine last year. It stood for love and taste vs. smut and pornography in the media.

Father Hill was a member of the Presidential Commission on Obscenity and Pornography. With Dr. W.C. Link of Tennessee, he issued a strong reply to the majority of that Commission, which recommended repeal of the obscenity laws.

Currently, Morality in Media is asking people to write. Attorney General John Mitchell urged that the Attorney General appoint a Deputy Attorney to work with a team of experts advising and aiding prosecutors throughout the country in the complex area of obscenity laws.

Pornographers are represented in the courts by highly paid defense attorneys. Prosecutors are often overburdened and understaffed, and must prepare obscenity cases under the most difficult circumstances. Result: the smut peddlers are let go, free to keep on spreading their pollution. A judge in Pennsylvania spelled it out in 1965: a massive effort should be made "at the Department of Justice level."

Jingle, Jingle....Jangle?

Cigarette commercials have been banned from the airwaves since the first of the year, but thanks to an enterprising company, those little ditties television viewers or radio listeners used to hear — and hear and hear and hear — may soon once again be heard — and heard and heard and heard.

The Costagna Electronics Corp. has put together a device that will play a tape recording of the appropriate jingle for 20 seconds whenever a pack of cigarettes is purchased from a vending machine. Cigarette manufacturers are said to be seriously interested.

The idea, apparently, is to psychologically "reinforce" the person who has made a selection from the machine as well as to suggest to others who may be within hearing that they might like to try that brand, if only to hear the jingle. Nonsmokers may be entertained or irritated, as the case may be.

It's a rather cute idea — but ah, what if the American Cancer Society demands equal time?

U. S. 100 Acres Larger

The United States is 100 acres larger than it was a couple of years ago and even has a new mountain.

Credit goes to Hawaii's Kilauea volcano, one of the world's most active volcanoes. "The longest sustained and most voluminous flank eruption" in the recorded history of Kilauea recently entered its third year, reports the U. S. Geological Survey.

Since the eruption began two years ago, Kilauea has produced about 250 million cubic yards of lava at Mauna Ulu ("growing mountain"), a spatter-and-lava shield being built over an active vent on the volcano's east rift.

Mauna Ulu, now about 300 feet high and a mile wide, is the largest volcanic landform in the United States in many centuries. Since last March, part of the river of lava has continuously cascaded over 2,000-foot cliffs into the Pacific Ocean, forming a flat stretch of new land almost a mile wide and extending nearly 1,000 feet beyond the old shoreline.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The tilt of the earth's axis with respect to the sun determines the seasons. The World Almanac notes that if the earth's axis were perpendicular to the plane of its orbit around the sun there would be no change of seasons. Day and night would be of equal length and there would be equal conditions of temperature.

GLOBAL VIEW:

Russian Bachelor In Trouble

By LEON DENNEN

NEW YORK (NEA)—Pity the Russian bachelor. The Kremlin rulers, alarmed by the declining birth rate, have now decreed that he is an "antisocial element" and possibly a traitor to the Communist cause.

The single man, to be sure, is not yet an outcast in all Marxist-Leninist dictatorships.

For instance, the Red Chinese, Russia's neighbors and enemies, are currently cautioning their young against rushing into marriage until they are 25 or 30.

But China already has a population of 700 to 800 million and Peking's problem is to control the birth rate. The Russians, who fear Mao Tse-tung and his "clique of expansionists," have not yet reached 250 million mark.

Young Soviet males are now urged by the Kremlin to marry at an earlier age and produce more children.

If Moscow's prestigious newspaper Literaturnaya Gazeta is to be believed, bachelorhood is harmful not only to society but to the individual, "causing all sorts of neuroses because of irregular habits."

Also, "part of a person's wages is intended for the support of children," Literaturnaya Gazeta writes. But the perfunctory bachelor spends that part on himself "playing around without sharing with anyone."

He therefore "simply robs others who are married and support children."

In addition to the anti-bachelor campaign, there has been a marked increase in Russia in studies and articles on sex, love and marriage. "Sex hygiene" is now the party line.

The scientist Igor Zabelin even warned that "love as an emotion will play a very important role in the future in the population of outer space."

Writing in the magazine Moskva, Zabelin predicted that "when mankind fulfills its mission of populating outer space, men and women will be sent in spacecraft somewhere for many years."

Therefore, he added, Soviet scientists "must not only deeply analyze love as an emotion but also try to regulate it properly."

Meanwhile, the Kremlin's educators have embarked on an experimental sex program for schoolchildren on earth.

The program appears to follow the general lines of similar programs instituted years ago in the United States and many Western school systems.

Russian educators explain this sex education lag by insisting that in the Soviet Union the subject "lacks the urgency it has in the capitalist countries."

Nevertheless, the Red rulers are increasingly haunted by their earlier propaganda which endorsed "free love" in an effort to undermine the "capitalist family."

They have discovered belatedly that the "smart set" among young Russians — and in other East European Communist countries — has shaken loose from moral convention, Communist or capitalist.

This is something a totalitarian society cannot tolerate.

Thus, the belated sex education program deals with conditions that "cement the family." It stresses the importance "of spiritual harmony and common interests of a happy family life."

Children now hold class room discussions on "manliness, femininity, the girl's honor" and related subjects. Teachers are even permitted to talk about the consequences of marital infidelity and of "psychological incompatibility" of the partners.

No wonder. According to recent statistics, Russia has the greatest rate of divorce of any major nation. There is only one new marriage for every 10 divorces. And many women who remain childless.

But it is the poor bachelor who has to pay the price for the declining birth rate. He is already penalized by paying a special tax of six per cent of income. Now he is castigated as a traitor.

"Brother, Can You Spare a Few Billions?"

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Diane's husband grumbles because he says she is such a sloppy housekeeper. So employ the "Agenda Plan." And learn how to use the same dramatic technique that I employed with my gang of three surgeons. Balance the obvious, impressive tasks with those that are time consuming but not as visually apparent!

CASE Q-585: Diane D., aged 28, is a housewife.

"But, Dr. Crane," she began, "my husband thinks I am the sloppiest housekeeper in America! He is one of those meticulous introverts whose office is always immaculate. But he also has an efficient secretary to help him keep up with his duties."

"Alas I have 3 small children, plus cooking, laundry, beds to make and the shopping. And I confess I am slow to get going in the morning, for I like to read the newspaper and even listen to a couple of TV shows. So what can I do to stop these constant quarrels with my husband?"

Use An Agenda. Use the "Agenda Plan." This means, write down your tomorrow's duties the night before you go to bed. And set yourself certain deadlines that you must accomplish before you permit yourself the luxuries of the newspaper or TV.

This written outline (agenda) will thus help you race the clock which injects desirable competition for everybody. If you housewives have an oven timer or an alarm clock, set it for 15-minute intervals, so when it buzzes or rings loudly, it will jog your memory about your agenda.

And learn the art of being dramatic! That means, performing chores that make a big visual impression. Make your beds quickly and keep the sink cleared of dirty dishes! For those are the two major irritations that catch the eyes of your meticulous mates.

Husbands are not so readily irritated by a little dust or the unironed clothes or dirty windows. But they also grow irate when they hurriedly try to dress for the office or factory and find buttons off their shirts! So be sure you become a good household detective and thus learn to outguess your husband's likelihood of spotting your defects.

When I was a college student at Northwestern University, I worked during the summers as a tree surgeon.

One season I was stationed at Terre Haute, Indiana, with a gang of 4 other young men. Since I was the foreman, it was my job to parcel out the duties to my crew.

We handled the trees on wealthy estates, such as the Hulman home. Many of the trees had decayed cavities and thus needed to be chiseled out and filled with concrete, much as dentists fill teeth.

But you can sit in a swing 30 feet above the ground and wield a mallet all day, yet not show more than a few bushels of chips at the foot of such a tree.

So I would have my crew trim the dead wood out of the trees until noon, for this made a dandy "show case" to prove we had been working diligently.

We'd have the lawns piled high with dead branches, so the clients didn't grumble about not getting their money's worth. Then, after lunch, we'd work on the less obvious "cavity" jobs.

Housewives, use this same dramatic approach. Impress your mates with quick, obvious evidences of your hard work.

H. L. Hunt Writes

POLITICS AND RELIGION
The founders of this Republic wisely separated the church and the state. They had seen in Europe the corrupt practices of the church-state and had felt the lash of the witch hunts, so with their immigrating to the new world they brought fresh and sound ideas for government and these were installed once the yoke of tyranny that stretched out to them from across the sea was broken.

But the immigrants and their successors never forgot God. He was the foundation of their strength and the inspiration for the legal apparatus that was set up for government. Man would govern himself in freedom and enjoy the blessings of Divine Providence. Our leadership could be stronger if it turned now to the faith of our fathers.

Although national elections are more than a year away, the minority party — the Republicans — should rededicate itself to the precepts of our forefathers and deliver to the people strong men of great moral conviction. These men are there, just as the great American public has produced them. Strong leaders who are Republicans sit in the governor's mansions of these 21 states. All should be screened by the other party members with nominating responsibility.

The Republicans are not without strength in the national houses of Congress. The service records of all should be put under the party microscope before the GOP chooses its candidates for the highest offices in the land.

A priceless service could be done the nation by this great minority party through a rededication to the Constitution and a meaningful public oath to defend our most priceless of public documents. This is our guarantee against future witch hunts.

Question Box

QUESTION: What is free enterprise? I couldn't find the term in my collegiate dictionary. Will you give an example?

ANSWER: The term "free enterprise" is so widely used, especially in the social-theory debates that rage in the classroom, one would naturally suppose that the phrase would appear in the dictionary most often carried by high school and college students.

We note that our 1945 edition of Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary does not carry the phrase either. However, it does carry a definition of socialism, which is the antithesis to free enterprise.

You can find a definition, however, in Webster's Third New International Dictionary, 1961. The definition follows:

"An economic system in which primary reliance is placed upon private business operating in competitive markets to satisfy consumer demand and to maintain equilibrium in the national economy and in which government action in this respect is restricted to protecting the rights of individuals rather than acting as a directing economic force."

We don't find too much to quarrel with in that definition, although for the sake of retaining the purity of an idea, we would change the phrase "primary reliance" to "total reliance."

The definition given above speaks of an "economic system." Therefore, since no business is a complete system in an absolute sense, you won't find a perfect example of any private operation that doesn't have a measure of government interference to put up with. The nearest thing we can think of to perfect free enterprise would be the children's lemonade stands that spring up in the summer.

Technically, these are violations of manmade laws — no building, license, no health inspection, out of zoning, etc. — but they are tolerated by government meddlers because they wouldn't be able to extract enough plunder to make the effort worthwhile.

The Third New International Dictionary defines private enterprise as free enterprise. The two are not the same since you could have a privately owned enterprise in a socialized state such as Nazi Germany. We have much privately owned enterprise in the United States but the degree of government interference has reached the stage that our economy is more precisely described by the phrase "national socialism" than by "free enterprise."

Asks Teeth in Renegotiation— $11 B Plus Escapes Review

Robert Allen

WASHINGTON —Unnoticed amid the continuing complaints about weapons costs and price overruns, another two-year extension of the renegotiation act is quietly sliding toward final congressional approval.

More important, perhaps, is the word that a move is afoot to put some teeth in the renegotiation process. Such a step would really be news at a time when the nation and the Congress are viewing defense costs with increasing skepticism.

The extension of the present law, with minor revisions, was routinely approved by the House last week with very little debate. The Senate can probably follow suit, routinely, before the law expires at the end of the month.

At a cost of perhaps $10 million, the government's Renegotiation Board will get renewed authority to review the federal business of contractors, especially those in the space and defense programs. Past performance suggests that the Board will recover $20 million to $35 million in profits which are determined to be excessive over the two-year extension period.

And that isn't all. On notice by the board's criteria, some contractors voluntarily return profits or reduce prices which would clearly be deemed excessive. Moreover, the Board's very existence is a deterrent to the negotiating of profit margins on government business which are clearly out of line.

All this is to the good, of course, and even past opponents, who view the renegotiation process as a harassment to business, mounted no real opposition in the House last week. One such critic, Rep. Charles S. Gubser, R-Cal., said the public would surely "misunderstand" if Congress abandoned restrictions on defense industry in the present climate of public opinion.

WEAKENED BY EXEMPTIONS—Having said all this, however, it must be quickly added that the renegotiation process, which placed a very vigorous restriction on defense contractors when the concept was introduced during World War II, has been gradually withering away.

Especially since the Korean war, when its present pricing criteria were established, the board's powers have been eroded as its life has been periodically extended. A variety of exemptions have been approved.

For example, contracts for less than $1 million cannot be reviewed by the board. Neither can contracts for the procurement of "standard commercial articles."

Moreover, the board in its review must study itself to the total profit of each contractor on all his renegotiable government business. The board can not force return of profits which may be deemed excessive on one lucrative defense contract.

One way and another, in the complex exemption labyrinth, the Renegotiation Board estimates that $11 to $13 billion in prime government contracts escapes its review and redetermination process.

"ALMOST TOTALLY INEFFECTIVE..." — Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., chairman of a House Government Operations Subcommittee which has been studying the matter, "says the Renegotiation Board, 'under its present level of operations is almost totally ineffective in guarding the public's interests against excessive profits.'"

Brooks says the biggest space and defense contractors generally evade the renegotiation process. His subcommittee compared the 125 cases handled by the board this year with the list of 100 largest defense contractors for two and three years ago — when the contracts were negotiated.

"To our complete amazement, we found that, in year after year, the 100 defense contractors receiving approximately 70 per cent of all defense procurement contracts are seldom subject to redetermination," Brooks reports.

The congressman's subcommittee, which heard testimony from such supporters of renegotiation as the Navy's "Mr. Submarine," Adm. H.G. Rickover, is due to report soon on a series of measures designed to plug the renegotiation loopholes. Under present circumstances, says Brooks, the job of the Board is "next to impossible."

If the board's operations are not strengthened during the two-year extension period, says Brooks, then Congress should junk the renegotiation process and substitute "a simple but effective excess profits tax."

WASHINGTON

Labor Discipline Violations Causing Trouble In Russia

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—"Violations of labor discipline" are now so widespread in the U.S.S.R. that authorities from Leonid Brezhnev down are deeply concerned about economic repercussions.

Their worry is over the sharp increase in labor dissent, corruption, petty pilfering, parasitism, embezzlement, sloppy work and a cynical, don't-care attitude on the part of many workers.

These conclusions show up in Washington analyses of the proceedings of the 24th Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and associated party congresses in the major Soviet bloc countries.

The Brezhnev solution: Much stricter enforcement of the laws, to crack down on the "nonproducers" and a wider role for the political police in individual plants.

At the various Soviet republic congresses, every first secretary without exception emphasized law and order, as did many of the speakers at the 24th congress.

In these talks, law and order was seen as a principal means of enforcing stricter labor discipline.

Though in the past there has been much talk in the Western press of greater liberalization for Soviet industry, more independence for local plant managers and increasing influence of the "market place," these themes were not evident in Brezhnev's words.

Instead, he talked of the need for more centralized planning, more controls, more police and party enforced factory discipline, more supervision by government and party bureaucracy.

Despite the optimistic speeches at the 24th congress, the official figures presented showed that there will be a marked lowering of economic objectives over the next five years as compared with the five years just past.

Despite lip service to the needs of the people and the importance of consumer goods, the figures presented show that the real capita income of the working population is planned to increase at an even lower rate in the next half decade than in the 1966-70 period.

Economically, the major emphasis over the next five years will be as in the past: Defense and investment will get the same lion's share. No major shift is seen.

In investment, the major drives will be in agriculture (one-fourth of total investment funds over the 1971-75 period), electric power generation, the chemical and petrochemical industry, machine building, instrument making, automation, computers and equipment for mechanizing operations requiring considerable manpower.

These are, in the main, the areas in which the Soviet Union is lagging farther and farther behind the United States.

Radio & TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Justice in America," CBS' three-part series on the nation's current concern about law, order and legal rights, concluded Tuesday night by looking at crime and the courts.

No subject so huge and complex can be examined closely in 60 minutes. The program said an estimated 10 million serious crimes were committed last year although only about half were reported and fewer than one-tenth of those reached the courtroom.

The program handled the subject in just about the only possible way: by concentrating on conditions in one city—Denver—and applying facts, opinions and theories to the rest of the country.

It was a distressingly familiar story—at least half of the serious criminal offenders are 18 or younger and involved in everything from shoplifting to armed robbery; nervous and angered citizens demand stricter law enforcement; courts are reluctant to send young offenders to correctional institutions; courts and probation departments are overburdened.

While most of the program was a recital of the dilemma, there were some constructive suggestions. One Denver judge holds great hope for a system of volunteer probation officers, unpaid business and professional men and housewives, each with a single youthful offender upon whom to concentrate. Among the 5,000 who have reported to the 1,000 volunteers, the rate of recidivism has been cut in half. For the program included more efficient courts, beefed up police and probation departments better control of drugs and addiction and, of course, more money.

The program seemed to be primarily concerned with the problems of the offenders, and almost totally ignored the problems of victims and potential victims.

Bill Cullen, currently a panel member on the syndicated "To Tell the Truth," will return to NBC Aug. 2 as host of another game show, "Three on a Match." It will replace Joe Garagiola's "Memory Game." Garagiola's show never got off the ground. It was dull and complicated and came toward the end of a back of seven game shows, five of which are built on questions and answers. Cullen's new effort sounds as if it will come from the same general recipe.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The bond for Michael Douglas Lowe, 22, indicted by a grand jury which was probing into terrorist bombings in Harris County, was reduced Friday.

Lowe, named in a two-count indictment for possession of a bomb, had his bond released from $25,000 to $3,500 after an agreement with his defense lawyer and the district attorney's office.

ONE OF A KIND, Alex the white whale leaps from the water to nuzzle a ball, one of his bag of tricks at the New York Aquarium. Twelve feet long, 1,200 pounds and a native of Arctic waters, Alex is one of the aquarium's four white whales, the only ones in captivity in the United States, and the only one trained to act on signal.

War Study Shows That Planning For Active Role In Viet Began In Spring, 1964

Editor's Note: Before a federal court ordered a suspension of the New York Times' Vietnam articles, the paper reports on secret government studies described the origins of the nation's involvement in that struggle. The following story summarizes the major points in those disclosures and draws together the narrative of escalation.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When the United States sent combat troops to South Vietnam in the spring of 1965 it cast aside a policy born in the anguish of the Korean War more than a decade earlier: Never fight a land war in Asia. President Lyndon B. Johnson had decided after a month of heavy bombing of North Vietnam that air power alone never would bring Hanoi to its knees.

The consequence of his decision was foreseen with uncanny accuracy by George W. Ball, then undersecretary of State. He sent a memorandum to Johnson, shortly before the decision was made, proposing negotiations.

"The alternative—no matter what we may wish to do or be—is almost certainly a probacted war involving an open-ended commitment of U.S. forces, mounting U.S. casualties, no assurance of a satisfactory solution, and a serious danger of escalation at the end of the road," Ball wrote.

These events unfold in a top-secret study of the Vietnam war prepared by the Pentagon in 1967-68 on the orders of Robert S. McNamara, then secretary of defense.

The New York Times obtained part of the report and began a series of stories last Sunday covering the period 1965-65.

Two more installments appeared before a federal court ordered a halt on Tuesday, while the government sought an injunction against resumption.

The study shows that planning for an active role in the war began in the spring of 1964, a full year before the first heavy U.S. bombing strikes on North Vietnam and the introduction of combat forces into South Vietnam.

On Jan. 22, 1964, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, with Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor as chairman, suggested in a memorandum to McNamara that the U.S. involvement in South Vietnam be stepped up.

This was in a period when the government of South Vietnam was weak, and the Viet Cong was growing in strength, and dairing.

The memorandum said: "The Joint Chiefs of Staff are increasingly mindful that our fortunes in South Vietnam are an accurate barometer of our fortunes in all southeast Asia. . . . Returning in March from Saigon, McNamara painted a gloomy picture of South Vietnam. He proposed South Vietnamese raids into Laos against North Vietnam's Ho Chi Minh supply trail, plus air attacks on military and industrial targets in the north by South Vietnamese planes backed by a U.S. Air Force squadron.

Johnson approved the plan but parts of it apparently never were carried out.

William P. Bundy, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, sent Johnson a plan in May 1964 for increasing military pressure on North Vietnam culminating in full-scale bombing by U.S. planes. He suggested a congressional resolution "authorizing whatever is necessary with respect to Vietnam."
