Winter weather blows across the state

Storms bring both rain, tragedy to local families

From local, wire reports

Weekend winter storms came with mixed blessings — an early Christmas present for farmers and ranchers who needed the rain, but tragedy for others as a couple heading to Snyder was killed in an accident.

A Dallas couple, 70-year-old R.C. Cook, and his 50-year-old wife, Joan, was killed in a two-vehicle accident Sunday on Interstate 20 in western Callahan County. The couple was en route to Snyder for the funeral of Mrs. Cook's brother, John Allen James, who had died Saturday.

Cook was driving west on I-20 when his vehicle went out of control and became airborne across the median, crashing into a Jeep driven by Eddie Lee Brogdon of Whitewright. Brogdon and his sister, Barbara Cantrell, are in stable condition at Hendrick Medical Center in Abilene. The Cooks were pronounced dead at the scene.

Weather was blamed for numerous accidents throughout the area over the weekend, including two at the overpass on U.S. Highway 84 and Highway 180 here. Neither of those resulted in injuries.

The Texas Department of Public Safety issued hazardous road condition warnings throughout the Big County on Sunday, urging people to postpone travel.

Scurry County was spared much of the sleet and snow other areas received.

Wintery precipitation, including ice pellets in Killeen, along with snow in San Angelo, freezing rain and fog in Abilene and light snow and freezing drizzle in Denton and Fort Worth made Texas a wintery wonderland Sunday.

Temperature extremes across the state ranged from 28 at Abilene to 73 at McAllen.

Gusty north winds blew at 10 to 20 mph, causing wind chills in the teens and single digits.

The weekend's weather was embraced by many, though, particilarly Scurry County farmers and ranchers, who received up to 2½ inches of rainfall on Saturday.

The City of Snyder reported 2½ inches, while residents residents in northern Scurry County received about 2 inches. Paymaster Gin also reported 2½ inches.

Farmer's Co-op Gin reported 1½ inches and the Inadale Gin recorded 1 inch.

Residents of Dunn received 1.6 inches while Ira residents received between 2 and 1.5 inches. Fluvanna reported 1.25 inches.

The southern edge of Lake J.B. Thomas reported 2.2 inches with elevation up about a quarter of a foot from 2,209.52 to 2,209.74.

Students gear for the holidays

Most students in Scurry County will enjoy a long holiday for Thanksgiving this year.

Students at Snyder and Hermleigh public schools and Western Texas College will begin the holiday when classes dismiss on Tuesday.

Ira public school students will be dismissed at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Classes will resume Monday morning at all three public school districts and WTC.

Inmate volunteers to get 'thank you'

Thanksgiving will come early for about 30 Price Daniel inmates who will be fed a turkey dinner on Tuesday at the coliseum.

The inmates are those who volunteer their time to the county, city, public schools, college and the Development Corporation of Snyder.

"What they do is strictly volunteer on their part. They can lay up and serve their time just as easily, but they choose to restore some self pride to themselves, as well as saving the community thousands of dollars in labor every year," said Donna Fowler, chamber of commerce manager.

Some of the projects the inmate volunteers have been involved in include building and maintaining the Deep Creek walking path, remodeling Humble-Smith School, planting flowers on the square in the spring and fall, constructing the White Buffalo Park northwest of town, building the horse shoe pitching courts, cleaning and maintaining Snyder Cemetery, placing lights on the courthouse, helping with events such as the July Fourth Celebration and White Buffalo Days, and making Christmas angels which will be placed on the square during the holidays.

"We (chamber staff) would literally not be able to do so many of these things without their help," said Fowler. "I think this is what Thanksgiving is all about, to remember a small thing like thank you for a job well done. We want to tell these people thank you for the hard work they have done for our community."

About 80 people are expected to partake of the meal, including the 30 volunteer inmates. Others include correctional officers and others at the prison and representatives of entities such as the city and county. The cost, paid for through private donations, is expected to be about $500.

Thousands protest in Yugoslavia

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Chanting "Red Bandits!" 70,000 protesters marched in the Yugoslav capital today and hurled eggs at government buildings to protest court rulings that erased an apparent opposition election win.

People stood on balconies to cheer and applaud the biggest protest against Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic since one in March 1991, on the eve of the wars that tore apart the old Yugoslav federation.

Today's protest was the latest in a week of demonstrations against court rulings that canceled local election victories in dozens of cities by the four-party opposition coalition Zajedno. The courts that annulled the vote are widely thought to be controlled by Milosevic.

In 1991, Milosevic brought tanks onto the streets of Belgrade to squelch the protests, in which two people died. Few police, however, were evident today.

About 20,000 students, waving copies of their grades and shouting "Strike! The students have risen!" marched through downtown Belgrade this morning. Later, more than 50,000 opposition party supporters followed, chanting anti-Communist slogans as they braved the freezing weather.

The protesters hurled eggs at government buildings, and yellow covered the facades and windows of Milosevic's office, the City Hall and the state-run TV. Some windows were broken from the impact.

Opposition leader Zoran Djindjic said people were "revolted" by the government's actions. "They want to protect their civic right and dignity," he said.

Acting on complaints by Milosevic's ruling Socialists, a court Sunday also annulled election results for the Belgrade city council, where Zajedno appeared to have won a majority.

Official results from a Nov. 17 runoff vote gave the opposition 60 of 110 seats in Belgrade's city council, and the chance of having its first non-Communist mayor since World War II. A court ruling Sunday erased 33 opposition seats.

"It's an outrageous decision," said another opposition leader, Vesna Pesic, who compared it to actions of the "darkest anti-democratic regimes."

The court then ordered a third round of voting in more than 210 polling stations in Belgrade. Opposition leaders called for a boycott of Wednesday's runoff.

Iraq says it will accept issues on oil-for-food

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Iraq has reached "full agreement" with the United Nations on the remaining issues standing in the way of implementation of an oil-for-food deal, the Iraqi U.N. ambassador said today.

Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali must give the formal go-ahead, which would allow Iraq to re-enter world oil markets for the first time in six years.

The U.N. Sanctions Committee also must sign off on a formula for setting the price of Iraqi oil. On Friday, U.S. officials said the committee would approve the formula, perhaps this week.

"We have reached full agreement with them," Iraqi Ambassador Nizar Hamdoon told reporters after meeting with U.N. Undersecretary-General Chinmaya Gharekhan.

There was no immediate comment from the United Nations.

In May, Iraq accepted a U.N. offer to allow Baghdad to sell $2 billion worth of oil for an initial period of 180 days to buy food and medicine for its people, who are suffering the effects of international sanctions.

Iraq has been barred from exporting oil since its 1990 invasion of Kuwait. The Security Council has refused to lift the sanctions until it is satisfied that Iraq has complied with U.N. orders to dismantle its weapons of mass destruction.

Implementation of the oil-for-food deal has been delayed by a number of issues, including details on the number of U.N. observers and their "freedom of movement."

In September, Boutros-Ghali put the deal on hold after Iraq sent troops into protected areas of Kurdish northern Iraq to intervene in fighting between Kurdish factions.

Hamdoon said today he thought oil could begin flowing in December, pending completion of repairs on an oil pipeline through Turkey and approval of the committee.

WTC sets planning workshop

Western Texas College trustees have a dozen or more topics to discuss in a work session set for 6 o'clock this evening.

There are no specific agenda items and action cannot be taken by the board.

Dr. Harry Krenek, college president, said he does not anticipate new funds coming in next year, and discussion of any new proposals will have to include how to fund them.

Among the topics to be discussed is use of the Kmart building materials. One proposal is to use the materials to cover the arena at the college farm complex.

Another topic is a proposal from the Faculty Association and classified-clerical personnel for a 5.8 percent cost of living wage increase. Administrators said that would amount to about $175,000.

Also on the list for discussion is renovation of the old auto-diesel area on the east side of the campus. It is currently being used to store building materials from the Kmart building. Proposals include a ceramics lab or a meats judging lab.

Personnel will be discussed — particularly the need to hire additional instructors or extend some part-time positions to full-time.

Other topics for discussion include:

—Facility renovations, repairs and upkeep.

—Possible expansion of athletics to include another men's sport.

—Auxiliary enterprises such as the golf course and museum, and planning for their future.

—Technology, to include interactive video systems, campus e-mail and the Internet.

—A proposal to go to four-day instruction week for fall and spring.

—Recruitment and retention efforts.

—Recruitment of athletes.

—Future of the GED and E/SL programs due to a cut in funding.

Trustees may also have other items they wish to discuss. Dr. Krenek said that tonight's meeting may evolve into a series of workshops instead of one lengthy one.

Weather puts two interviews on hold for now

Tuesday's interviews with two candidates interested in becoming executive director of the Development Corporation of Snyder have been postponed, due to bad weather.

The interviews had been set for 9 a.m. and 1 p.m., and will be rescheduled. Three other interviews have been scheduled for Dec. 5, the first starting at 9:30 a.m.

Last Thursday, the board agreed to interview at least five persons from a list of 19 who had applied to fill the vacancy left when Doug Hutchinson took a similar job in Glen Rose.

The DCOS board last summer contracted with Ralph Andersen and Associates, a Dallas-based search firm, to assist in finding Hutchinson's replacement.

Chuck Rohre, senior consultant with Andersen and Associates, has interviewed the five candidates that he has recommended for personal interviews.

The board said it expects to narrow the list but also reserves the option to expand the scope of the interviews.

All of the interviews will be conducted in executive session.

Paid inmate labor is used by Keesee for personal projects

LUBBOCK (AP) — When Lubbock County Sheriff D.L. "Sonny" Keesee needs someone to landscape his mother's yard or wash his shirts he turns to county prison inmates.

"There's a lady out there right now that's helping my wife (at home)," Keesee said last week.

Keesee says the program employs county jail inmates as a way to save thousands of taxpayer dollars on community projects.

Despite questions raised by the county's civil attorneys about the appearance of the program, Keesee defends it as legal.

Other sheriff's departments frown on the practice.

"That is totally disallowed by our sheriff (Jimmy Don Boydston)," said Lt. Joe Morris of the Potter County Sheriff's Office in Amarillo. "No employee of the Potter County Sheriff's Office can use any inmate labor for any purpose that's personal. That's our system here, either paid or otherwise."

The same holds true in Odessa.

"None of that goes on here," said Lt. David Byerly of the Ector County Sheriff's Office.

Midland Sheriff Gary Painter said the same of his department.

Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard said, "I would be very cautious about such a program. But we do not have it, and I don't anticipate that we ever will."

Keesee said he began the work release program about a year and a half ago after attending a Texas Department of Criminal Justice conference in which he heard about the Piddler Program. Under that program, inmates in state penitentiaries are allowed to contract with other individuals to make crafts, such as leather wallets, belts or wooden items, said Gary Johnson, director of TDCJ's institutional division.

'Star Trek' tops box office as "Jingle" movie clunks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Buoyed by legions of loyal fans, "Star Trek: First Contact" came in first at the box office with $30.45 million in ticket sales — the best opening of any of the eight Star Trek films.

The first movie without one cast member from the original 1960s TV show passed "Space Jam," which had $16.6 million and Mel Gibson's "Ransom," with $13.7 million, according to industry estimates Sunday.

The critically praised adventure pits Patrick Stewart as Capt. Jean-Luc Picard and the rest of the "Next Generation" crew against the deadly man-machines collectively called the Borg.

Arnold Schwarzenegger's new comedy opened in fourth with $12.2 million. "Jingle All the Way," which had mixed reviews, stars Schwarzenegger as a father trying to get his son the hot Christmas toy of the year.

In a limited opening, "Shine" took in $164,000 at seven theaters. The film, based on the life of brilliant, emotionally troubled Australian pianist David Helfgott, had a respectable $23,429 per theater — more than double the screen average of "Trek."

Meanwhile, "The First Wives Club" cracked the $100 million mark. The total for 10 weeks was $101.65 million.

Here are the estimated grosses for Friday through Sunday. Final figures were to be released Monday:

1. "Star Trek: First Contact," $30.4 million.
2. "Space Jam," $16.6 million.
3. "Ransom," $13.7 million.
4. Jingle All the Way," $12.2 million.
5. "The Mirror Has Two Faces," $8.2 million.
6. "Set It Off," $3.4 million.
7. "William Shakespeare's Romeo & Juliet," $3.2 million.
8. "The English Patient," $2.7 million.
9. "Sleepers," $1.4 million.
10. "First Wives Club," $720,000.

Henry Cisneros finds himself in demand on lecture circuit

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Headed for private life after resigning from President Clinton's cabinet, Henry Cisneros is in great demand on the lecture circuit, according to his business agent.

"There is a tremendous market out there for him," Carlton Sedgeley, president of Royce Carlton Inc. in New York, told the San Antonio Express-News in Sunday editions.

"He is probably the leading Hispanic spokesperson in America."

The 50-year-old former San Antonio mayor resigned his post as U.S. housing secretary last week, saying he needs to seek a higher-paying job outside government. He has one daughter in college and another in law school.

He also has legal bills from the ongoing probe into whether he lied to the FBI about payments to a former mistress.

Cisneros, whose government salary was $148,400 a year, owed between $375,000 and $950,000 to law firms and financial institutions at the end of 1995, according to his most recent financial disclosure statement.

His foray back into private enterprise, with lecture fees and boardroom salaries, is expected to help considerably. He already has accepted several speaking engagements, Sedgeley said.

Raul Yzaguirre, president of the National Council of La Raza, and other Hispanic leaders say corporations will aggressively pursue Cisneros because of his accomplishments and his prominence.

"I think he will be a candidate for several boards. And I think those offers will come fast," Yzaguirre said.

Cisneros told the newspaper that, with the election over, "It is now time to get serious" about new job prospects.

"I would love nothing better than to go home. We have a home in San Antonio," he said. "But first things first. I may have to spend the next couple of years addressing the financial obligations as well as the legal underbrush that needs to be completed."

Sedgeley said Cisneros is considering all options, including a book deal.

Woman pushes children; jumps off roof

NEW YORK (AP) — On a chilly, overcast morning, Chicqua Roveal marched her three young children up to the roof of their 14-floor building and methodically hurled them and herself into a trash-strewn courtyard.

Roveal and her 7-year-old son, Andre, were killed, police said. The boy's twin sister, Andrea, and 2-year-old brother, Shando, were critically injured.

A man who lives on the 14th floor was making oatmeal for his children Sunday morning when he saw the first child pass by his window. He looked disbelievingly at his wife, turned and saw a second child come down.

"The second time, I heard the kid scream," he told The New York Times. He yelled at his wife, "That was a kid! That was a kid!"

Paramedics called to the scene discovered the children and the body of a 23-year-old woman neighbors called "a good mother."

The children had been bathed and dressed in warm coats before they were thrown off the roof at around 10 a.m., witnesses told the Daily News. The twins were carrying Buzz Lightyear dolls, the astronaut from the movie "Toy Story" who thinks he can fly, paramedics said.

Andre was declared dead shortly after arriving at Jacobi Hospital. Andrea, suffering from internal injuries, was in "very critical and unstable" condition at Montefiore Medical Center, said hospital spokesman Fred Yaeger. Shando was in critical but stable condition.

Shando suffered abdominal injuries but was expected to live because his mother jumped with him in her arms, then let him go, the New York Post reported today.

The boy bounced off his mother's body and landed on a patch of grass, the Post said. After landing, "the baby was sitting up crying and yelling with chewing gum in his mouth," neighbor Shirley Hughes told the Times.

Relatives said Roveal had been under stress from a breakup with a boyfriend, and the reappearance of her mother, who had recently moved in with her after being released from prison.

Neighbor Darryl Johnson said Roveal "always used to tell us her mother was never there for her."

On Sunday, she said she didn't want to live anymore and begged her mother to kill her, said her cousin, Michael Roveal.

Police said Roveal had no history of mental illness and that child welfare officials had once checked on the family and found no signs of abuse.

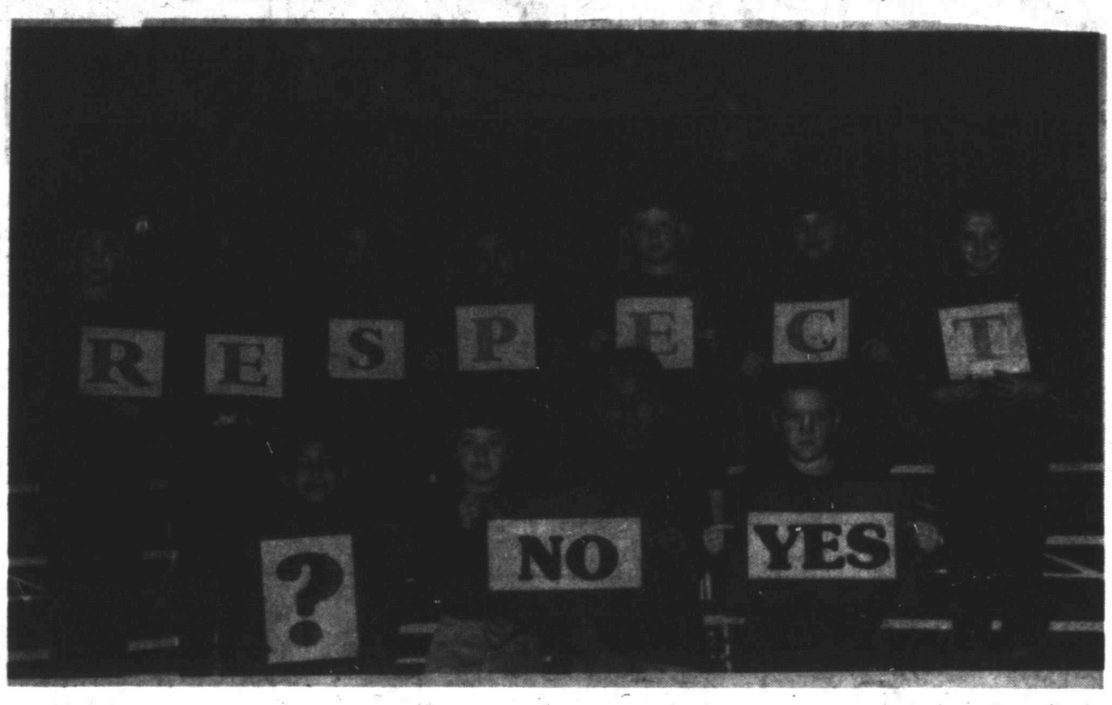

A woman who lived near Roveal's 11th-floor apartment and would not give her name said Roveal "didn't seem depressed. She was a good mother."

"Her kids were always dressed nice and everything," Johnson said.

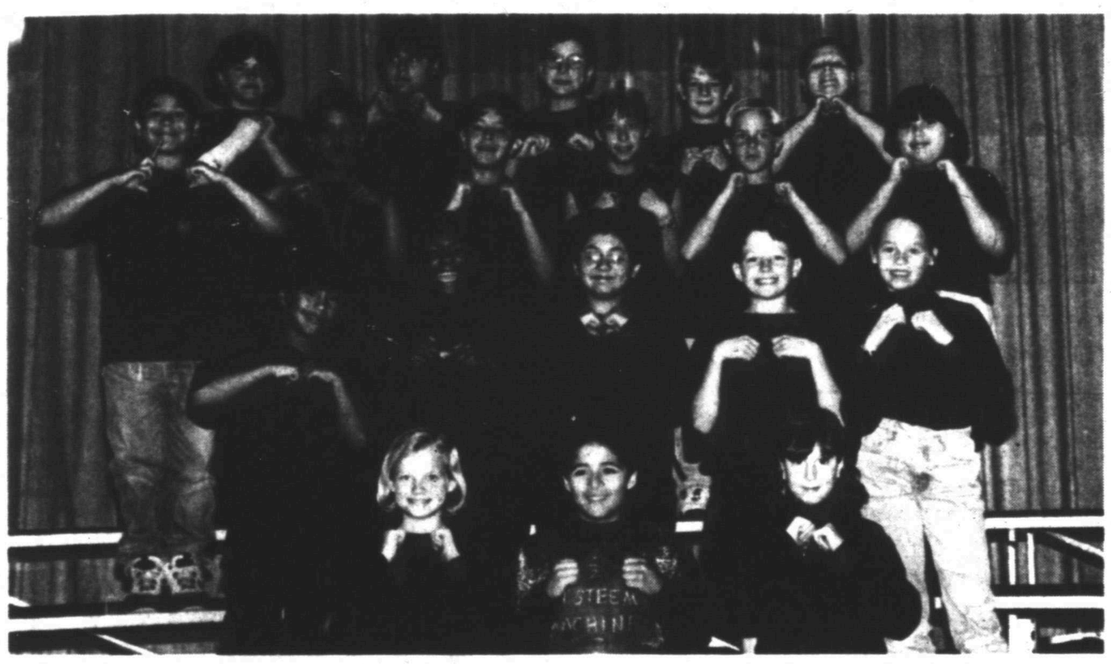

Police spokesman Doram Tamari said Roveal had been "distraught for some time," but said he did not know why. The Post reported that police found a rambling, despondent note near Roveal's body.

Hughes said she saw Roveal on Saturday night, when she came up to Hughes' 13th-floor apartment to watch television and borrow cigarettes.

She said Roveal had appeared listless and had a strange look on her face. "Maybe it was a goodbye look," she told the Times. "It was a sad look that I never saw before."

Accidental death

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — A mother accidentally sprinkled rat poison instead of pepper on her 18-year old daughter's lunch, killing the woman the day before her wedding, a newspaper reported Sunday.

Um Hashem Abu Mahmoud died Saturday after suffering from severe stomach pains, Egypt's state-run newspaper Al-Gomhuriya reported.

Her mother, whose name was not given, told police that the poisoning was an accident. The paper did not say if she would be charged.

The family lived in the village of Koum Hamada, 80 miles northwest of Cairo.

Pokes "Lett" down

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — It was Barry Switzer's worst nightmare.

Not only did the Dallas Cowboys have that feared letdown against the New York Giants, it was his biggest players who let him down — Deion Sanders, Michael Irvin, Troy Aikman and Emmitt Smith.

In more bad news, Dallas defensive tackle Leon Lett, who was suspended last November by the NFL, is appealing a second suspension for violating the league's substance abuse policy, sources said.

Lett neither denied nor confirmed his status after the Cowboys' loss Sunday leaving the Meadowlands with a terse "no comment."

Cowboys owner Jerry Jones denied that Lett is facing a possible ban.

Sanders, Irvin and Aikman made crucial mistakes that either led to New York points or took them away from Dallas in a 20-6 loss to the Giants on Sunday. The Giants' defense forced five turnovers and limited Smith to 18 yards rushing.

"We screwed up all night," said Switzer, who benched Smith in favor of Sherman Williams in the fourth quarter. "We stunk. We didn't take care of our business. We gave them four turnovers that led to points."

Actually, only two of the turnovers led to points, but one really cost the Cowboys (7-5).

Safety Tito Wooten broke the game open by returning an Irvin fumble 54 yards for a touchdown just before halftime for a 13-3 lead. Brad Daluiso kicked two second-quarter field goals, and Dave Brown added a clinching 4-yard touchdown pass to Brian Kozlowski with 6:01 left as the Giants (5-7) snapped a two-game losing streak.

"It was a combination of things, but basically they made the plays and we didn't," Irvin said. "You don't look past teams in this league, but we weren't as emotional as we had been the last two games. We were nowhere near the emotional level we need to be at to win this game."

Switzer had expressed concerns about a letdown all week.

Dallas had won six of seven, and was coming off a stretch were it beat Green Bay, San Francisco and Miami. The Cowboys were also looking forward to a Thanksgiving showdown against NFC East leader Washington (8-4).

Denver, 49ers Win

John Elway needed a little luck to pull off his latest fourth-quarter comeback. Steve Young just needed a clear head.

Elway's twice-deflected pass was caught by Ed McCaffrey for a 5-yard touchdown with 19 seconds left Sunday, giving the surging Denver Broncos a 21-17 win over the Minnesota Vikings.

"Luck always helps," said Elway, who has led the Broncos to 34 comeback victories in the fourth quarter. "I would like to, in about seven more games, tell you this is a team of destiny."

Young, who sat out last week's game while recovering from his second concussion in three weeks, led the San Francisco 49ers to a 19-16 overtime victory over the Washington Redskins. He was 33-of-41 for 295 yards, completed 20 straight passes during one stretch, and scrambled for 25 yards.

Young completed all seven of his passes on the 73-yard TD drive that tied the game with 1:57 remaining in regulation. The 49ers won it on Jeff Wilkins' 38-yard field goal 3:24 into overtime.

San Francisco (9-3) had lost its two previous OT games this season, to Green Bay and Dallas.

Elway drove the Broncos (11-1) from his own 16 to the Vikings' 5 in the closing minutes to set up the strange play that gave Denver its eighth straight victory.

Elway forced a pass over the middle for Shannon Sharpe, but Minnesota's Harlon Barnett batted the ball into the air. Then Barnett and teammate Orlando Thomas tipped it into the air again and the ball landed in the arms of McCaffrey, who fell into the end zone for the winning score.

"I saw it go up and I just ran to the ball," McCaffrey said. "I was thinking I'd have to make a tackle. It seemed like it was up there for about 10 minutes."

Elsewhere, it was Cincinnati 41, Atlanta 31; Carolina 31, Houston 6; Chicago 31, Detroit 14; New England 27, Indianapolis 13; Jacksonville 28, Baltimore 25 in overtime; Tampa Bay 13, New Orleans 7; Buffalo 35, New York Jets 10; San Diego 28, Kansas City 14; Oakland 27, Seattle 21; Arizona 36, Philadelphia 30; and Green Bay 24, St. Louis 9.

On Monday night, Pittsburgh plays at Miami.

College coaching shakeups begin

Baylor fires Reedy

WACO (AP) — Baylor coach Chuck Reedy was fired Sunday, one day after a blowout loss that left the Bears with their worst record since 1978 and a last-place finish in their inaugural season in the Big 12 South.

Reedy was in the fourth year of a five-year deal he received after Grant Teaff retired following the 1992 season. He received a contract extension last year.

The Bears were thought to be on their way up this year after going 7-4 last season, but mounting injuries and an over-reliance on youth sent the team plummeting to a 4-7 record. They were 1-7 in conference play.

Following Saturday's 37-17 loss to Oklahoma State, first-year athletic director Tom Stanton said he'd make a decision within a week about Reedy's future, but acted more quickly.

Former Aggie to head Irish

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Bob Davie, former Texas A&M assistant, was surrounded by cheering fans as he made his way into the room to be introduced as Notre Dame's new football coach.

"Obviously, it's a great day for me personally and it's a great day for my family," Davie said. "I promise to the Notre Dame family that I'm going to do everything in my power so that hopefully one day, people will look back on this and say it was a great day for Notre Dame football."

Davie, Notre Dame's defensive coordinator the past three years, succeeds coach Lou Holtz in the glamour job of college football. Holtz announced Tuesday he was stepping down after 11 seasons as the Irish coach.

Davie signed a five-year contract and his hiring was announced at a campus news conference Sunday, one day after the 10th-ranked Irish defeated Rutgers 62-0 in Holtz's final home game.

It's the first head coaching job for Davie, 42, who's spent the past 20 years as a defensive assistant. He becomes the 26th coach at Notre Dame, and the first assistant to be hired as Irish coach since Terry Brennan succeeded Frank Leahy in 1954.

Stallings throws in towel

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — When he announced his resignation, Alabama coach Gene Stallings suggested the school look at his staff for a replacement.

"There are some well-qualified people on our staff and I hope and pray that they will be given some consideration," Stallings said after No. 15 Alabama clinched the SEC West title with a thrilling 24-23 win over Auburn Saturday.

Defensive coordinator Mike Dubose, in his 11th year with the Tide, would be the most likely candidate on the staff to replace Stallings. Offensive coordinator Woody McCorvey is another consideration as is secondary coach Curley Hallman, the former coach at LSU and Southern Mississippi.

Others mentioned are Colorado's Rick Neuheisel, Miami's Butch Davis and former UCLA coach Terry Donahue.

Stallings said he thought it a good idea to have someone with Alabama ties as the head coach.

Stallings, 61, will coach two more games with the Crimson Tide (9-2, 6-2 SEC). Alabama's win put it in the SEC title game Dec. 7 against Florida. A bowl game will follow that.

Majors rumored "out"

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Johnny Majors' second tenure as Pitt's football coach may be nearing an end.

Pitt delayed its usual weekly football luncheon today and called a 4 p.m news conference, apparently to address Majors' status. The Panthers are 3-7 this season and 11-32 since Majors returned in 1993.

Snyder girls' streak on the line tonight

Thanksgiving could be a special day for the Snyder High School girls basketball team. On the list of things for which to be thankful is the team's best start in history.

The Lady Tigers, 6-1, host Odessa Permian at 7 tonight in the SHS gym. Tomorrow night, Coach Rick Archer's squad travels to Slaton for a 6:30 tilt.

If Snyder is successful in both outings, the Tigers can be thankful and rejoice over a seven-game win streak.

Last Friday, SHS girls won their fifth straight game by blasting Big Spring Lady Steers, 56-47.

It will be the battles of the undefeated Tuesday night when Coach Bud Birks' Snyder Tigers travel to Seminole for a non-conference tilt.

It should be a powerful test for the Tigers as Seminole is led by sophomore Chris Ogden, one of the top-rated cagers in the state.

Snyder, however, counters with its own talent and is led by senior Rick Henderson who scored 30 points in the Tiger opener against San Angelo.

Snyder and Seminole have had two common opponents. Both have beaten Andrews, but Andrews did not have a full team since the Mustangs were still in the grid playoffs.

Last Friday, Snyder defeated Big Spring 67-56 for its fourth straight victory. Earlier, Seminole demolished the Steers, 67-56. Last Friday, Seminole walloped the Frenship Tigers, 72-43.

Red Raiders root for Aggie victory

DALLAS (AP) — So much for that dramatic late-season charge by Texas A&M.

The Aggies' hopes of bouncing back from a miserable start to become the first-ever Big 12 South champs were burst Saturday when Texas Tech beat Oklahoma 22-12.

The Red Raiders' victory clears up the importance of Friday's game between Texas and A&M. Now, a Longhorns win sends them to the Big 12 title game in St. Louis on Dec. 7; an A&M victory makes Tech the division winner.

Meanwhile, the Big 12 South's first last-place team was decided Saturday when Oklahoma State pounded Baylor 37-17.

The Bears finished the year 4-7 overall and 1-7 in league play. They lost seven of their last eight games to endure their worst record since 1978.

And on Sunday, it cost coach Chuck Reedy his job.

Meanwhile, the Texas-Texas A&M game will seem like old times for Southwest Conference fans. The grudge game that determined so many SWC champions will once again have title implications.

Although an Aggies win would force a three-way tie at the top along with Texas and Tech (all at 5-3), the deadlock would be broken in Tech's favor.

Yet, R.C. Slocum's 6-5 squad needs another win to ensure itself of playing in December. Texas (6-4) already is assured of a bowl berth.

"If we can beat Texas in Austin, we'll go to a bowl — and we'll certainly be deserving of a bowl," Slocum said Saturday.

The Red Raiders (7-4, 5-3) also will be "bowling", but must wait for things to shake out before knowing where they'll be headed.

They were almost headed out of the Big 12 race Saturday when the Sooners (3-8, 3-5) held a stunning 3-0 halftime lead.

Frosh girls look for first victory

Cool shooting in the first half was too much to overcome as the Snyder High School girls basketball team bowed to Abilene Cooper, 44-34, Saturday.

The frosh, 0-4, will try to get their first taste of victory tonight when they host Andrews in the junior high gym following the 7th and 8th grade games.

Snyder could manage only five points in each of the first two quarters, allowing Cooper to enjoy a 20-10 margin at halftime.

Snyder outscored Cooper 1-9 in the third quarter, but Cooper owned the final period by three points.

Laura Lewis was Snyder's leading scorer with 10 points while Jodi Dennis followed with nine. Lexie Beard pitched in four while Tessa Hildebrand and Renee Trevino each managed three. Kaycee Marricle and Felsha Biggers added two apiece while Whitney Owen hit one free shot.

WTC host to South Plains in coliseum

Western Texas College will have its hands full tonight when it hosts undefeated South Plains College in a Western Junior College Athletic Conference tilt.

Tipoff is 7:30 p.m. in the Scurry County Coliseum.

The Texans, 8-0 in season play and 1-0 in conference action, defeated Odessa College, 84-57, last Monday, the same night that Coach Anthony Portley's Lady Westerners were bowing to Midland College, 56-30.

WTC, 1-1 in conference play, also defeated Odessa College, coming away with a 58-43 victory last Thursday.

Against Odessa, WTC's Angelica Brooks, a 5-9 sophomore from Hobbs, N.M., led the Lady Westerners with 21 points. Celestine Otuoro, a 6-1 freshman from Edison, N.J., was also in double figures with 12 points and the same number of rebounds.

WTC's season record is now 2-4.

Ira girls win tourney

IRA — The Ira Junior High girls basketball team won the championship of its own tournament Saturday with victories over Abilene Christian and Borden County.

Ira girls opened the Pup Classic with a 35-5 victory over Abilene Christian. Ira held the visitors scoreless in the second and third quarters.

The hosts opened strong with 14 first-quarter points, led by Morgan Clements who canned 12. Others scoring for Ira were Tara Allen with six, Kacie Daves, Tosha Walker, Kristen Harless and Loryn Brown with four each while Kendra Krop added two.

In the championship game, Ira came from behind to upend Borden County, 39-31, with Morgan Clements claiming 16 points. Kacie Daves was close behind with 15 while Tara Allen managed 8.

In other games in the girls' bracket, Borden County defeated Westbrook, 44-26, and then Westbrook edged Abilene Christian, 38-35, in overtime.

In the boys' bracket, Ira bowed to Abilene Christian, 56-31. Ira had a slow start, scoring only four points in the first quarter while Abilene managed 22. Cade Tucker led Ira with eight points while Jerry Jamison had seven and Trey Shirley six. Todd Wall and Shade Everton added five each.

In the consolation game, Ira fell to Westbrook, 58-42. Cade Tucker paced the Ira scoring with 14 points while Shade Everton managed nine. Todd Wall and Jerry Jamison added six each while Josh Wilson scored two and Trey Shirley one.

In other games, Borden County squeaked by Westbrook, 47-42, and Abilene Christian won the boys' championship, spanking Borden County, 50-19.

Governors put their stamp on GOP agenda

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — GOP governors urged Congress on Sunday to make streamlining job training programs an early 1997 priority and promised swift help with ratification if a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget clears the House and Senate.

As they staged the first major post-election Republican gathering, the governors offered themselves as pragmatic, popular role models for a party reeling from a second consecutive presidential election defeat and some lingering image problems even though it successfully defended its congressional majorities.

The governors vowed to use their three-day meeting to put their stamp on the national GOP agenda, including its congressional priorities. And several stepped forward to question President Clinton's commitment to campaign promises to cut taxes and balance the federal budget.

"Republican ideology won the election," New Jersey Gov. Christine Whitman said. But she said Clinton also had talked of cutting taxes in his 1992 campaign only to turn around and raise them. "I'm not sure that the president is going to necessarily follow through on what he said," she said.

Echoing her point, Iowa GOP Gov. Terry Branstad said, "Bill Clinton only won because he convinced a lot of people that he thought like a Republican."

In private conversations, however, several leading governors voiced concern about the strength Clinton showed in their states and attributed it at least in part to the roller-coaster public image of the congressional Republicans led by House Speaker Newt Gingrich.

Several said it was critical that the 105th Congress that convenes in January not repeat the confrontational tone of the 104th.

Five arrested over weekend; one person on felony warrant

Five people were arrested over the weekend, including one person on a felony warrant.

Chris Silva, 23, of 506 29th St., was arrested at 1:40 p.m. at his residence on a felony warrant for motion to revoke probation.

Other arrests include a 32-year-old female arrested at 12:15 p.m. Saturday in the 2000 block of Avenue Q for driving while license suspended.

Officers arrested a 41-year-old male at 5:26 p.m. Saturday in the 1400 block of 17th Street on public intoxication charges.

A 29-year-old male was arrested at 12:49 a.m. Sunday in the 2000 block of West Drive for assault/family violence.

Officers arrested a 29-year-old male at 9:52 p.m. Sunday in the 800 block of East Coliseum Drive for public intoxication.

In other activity over the weekend, an officer was requested at Snyder Laundry at 10:10 a.m. Saturday in reference to tires being cut on a company vehicle. An offense report for Class B criminal mischief was submitted.

A person notified deputies at 10:23 a.m. Saturday of someone dumping roofing shingles near CR 253.

An offense report for a dog bite was submitted at 4 p.m. Saturday from the emergency room at Cogdell Hospital. A five-year-old male was treated and released.

Three juvenile prowlers were taken into custody at 4:20 p.m. Saturday at the Noah Project in reference to trying to open the doors at the facility. They were all taken to the police station and later released to their parents.

Two gas drive-offs were reported from Skinny's on Coliseum Drive Saturday evening. One was for $5 and the other was for $14.

A small grass fire was extinguished by the Snyder fire department at 8:05 p.m. Saturday on East 23rd Street, just outside the city limits.

A report of an automobile being egged was made at 8:35 p.m. Saturday from the 2800 block of 38th Street.

A report of a possible prowler was made at 9:27 p.m. Saturday from the Noah Project.

A citizen notified officers at 11:49 p.m. Saturday that a vehicle was creating a traffic hazard near the Phillips 66 station on East Highway.

A report for Class A criminal mischief was submitted at 12:06 a.m. Sunday in reference to a pick-up being damaged while parked in the 2500 block of College Avenue earlier in the day.

At 11:55 a.m. Sunday, the fire department responded to a fire alarm in a building some 11 miles southeast of Snyder on U.S. Highway 84. No fire was found in the building owned by Southwestern Bell.

An offense report for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle was submitted at 12:15 p.m. Sunday in reference to a 1987 Mercury being stolen from Lisa Melton of 508 32nd St. The vehicle had been located abandoned earlier on East Coliseum Drive.

City officers investigated two accidents Friday. At 12:01 p.m., a minor two-vehicle accident occurred at 1904 25th St. Involved were a 1971 Chevrolet pickup driven by John Armstrong of 5184 Longhorn Lane and a 1989 Lincoln driven by David Drum of 2902 34th St.

At 3:25 p.m., officers investigated a minor two-vehicle accident in the 2200 block of 25th Street. Involved were a 1985 Cadillac driven by Lester Liggett of 9390 W. Highway 180 and a 1985 GMC pickup driven by Jose Candia of 2507 Ave. Z.

DPS works two accidents

The Department of Public Safety investigated two weather-related accidents Sunday morning at the overpass on U.S. Highways 84 and 180.

At 7:35 a.m., a one-vehicle accident occurred involving a 1986 Ford pickup driven by Wade Garrett of 1112 33rd St. Garrett's pickup slid on the icy overpass and struck the guard rail on both sides.

At 9:02 a.m. at the same location, a one-vehicle accident occurred involving a 1992 Ford pickup driven by Jeremy Brown of Tyler. His pickup also struck the guard rails.

No injuries were reported in either accident.

Boorda did not want to dishonor 'my sailors'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dreading a new Navy scandal, Adm. Jeremy Boorda, in a note addressed "to my sailors," wrote that he was about to kill himself because "I couldn't bear to bring dishonor to you."

Boorda's suicide note is made public in a 20,000-word story in the December issue of Washingtonian magazine that also provides new details on the chief of naval operations' death — an event that stunned Washington.

Freelance writer Nick Kotz reports that Boorda had confided to his son, Edward, that he planned to resign two years early as the Navy's top officer. He mentioned the enormous demands of the job and the stress on his wife, Bettie.

Then Boorda shot himself in the chest last May 15, just hours before he was about to be questioned by reporters about two Vietnam combat decorations he wore but may not have been qualified to display.

The magazine says the decorations affair was only one factor.

Another, Kotz writes, was a drumbeat of hostility from the Navy's old guard, which considered Boorda a "political admiral" who had appeased politicians in his handling of the Navy's Tailhook scandal.

In the suicide note, whose contents the Navy has never disclosed, Boorda mentioned the decorations but also talked of "those who want to tear our Navy down."

Known for his camaraderie with sailors — he himself rose through the ranks — Boorda wrote to the sailors, according to the magazine:

"If you care to do so, you can do something for me. That is take care of each other. Be honorable. Do what is right. Forgive when it makes sense, punish when you must, but always work to make the latter unnecessary by working to help people be all they really can and should be. My idea of one-on-one leadership really will work if you let it and honestly apply it. We have great leaders, and I know you'll succeed.

"Finally, for those who want to tear our Navy down, I guess I've given them plenty to write about for a while. But I will soon be forgotten. You, our great Navy people, will live on. I am proud of you. I am proud to have led you if only for a short time. I wish I had done it better."

Kotz declined to say how he obtained Boorda's note. "I got the letter from sources in the course of reporting the story," he said. The Navy did not dispute the authenticity of the suicide note.

Rear Adm. Kendell Pease, the Navy's chief of information, said, "The Navy made a conscious decision not to release the letter, and that is still the Navy's position."

Kotz wrote that in the final weeks of his life Boorda was hurt when he learned that the midshipmen of the U.S. Naval Academy had given a standing ovation to a speech by former Navy Secretary James Webb that was a thinly veiled attack on Boorda. Boorda earned his commission in the four-month program of the Naval Officer Candidate School, the first CNO in the Navy's 198-year history who was not graduated from the Annapolis, Md., academy.

Webb said in the speech that some Navy leaders were "guilty of ultimate disloyalty. To save or advance their careers, they abandoned the very ideas of their profession in order to curry favor with politicians."

But the suicide's immediate cause may have been the interview scheduled that afternoon by Newsweek reporters on the medals issue.

"It was an honest mistake," Boorda told his aides when he learned of Newsweek's interest.

And before going home for lunch — and to write the suicide notes and shoot himself — he asked them, "What do we do?" He answered his own question: "We will tell them the truth."

He discussed the metals issue in the first part of his suicide note:

"What I am about to do is not very smart, but it is right for me. You see, I have asked you to do the right thing, to care for and take care of each other and to stand up for what is good and correct. All of these things require honor, courage and commitment ... our core values.

"I am about to be accused of wearing combat devices on two ribbons I earned during sea tours in Viet Nam. It turns out I didn't really rate them. When I found out I was wrong I immediately took them off, but it was really too late. I don't expect any reporters to believe I could make an honest mistake, and you may or may not believe it yourselves. That is up to you and isn't all that important now anyway. I've made it not matter in the big scheme of things because I love our Navy so much, and you who are the heart and soul of our Navy, that I couldn't bear to bring dishonor to you."

Financier's arrest ends 23 years as a fugitive

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A millionaire fugitive who fled Colorado 23 years ago to avoid a prison sentence assumed the identity of his wife's dead grandfather and lived a lavish lifestyle before his capture, authorities said.

Federal marshals arrested George I. Norman, 66, on Thursday outside a Knoxville motel. His wife, Donna Sorbo Norman, 36, also was taken into custody.

"There are some estimates that he may be worth $50 million," said Bobby Lloyd, a deputy U.S. marshal in Denver. "They were big high-rollers, country-club types, golf and tennis every day, black-tie affairs," Lloyd told The Knoxville News-Sentinel.

The Normans surrendered to marshals who arrived just as the couple was getting into their car.

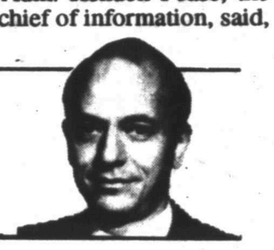

"I tell you, he almost seemed relieved," said Chief Deputy U.S. Marshal Doug Wiggs. "He was very cooperative, somewhat nervous, but he almost had a sense of relief."

Norman waived his right to a hearing Friday before U.S. District Judge James Jarvis, who ordered him returned to Denver. He was being held without bond in the Knox County Jail.

Norman's flight from justice began on March 13, 1973, when he was supposed to turn himself in the U.S. marshal's office in Denver to begin a two-year sentence for misappropriating more than $500,000 from a Colorado bank.

Disks and books

By Phillip Alder

As the holiday gift-giving season is moving ever closer, over the next three weeks or so, I'll review the best books and computer packages I have received recently. You might like to buy one or more as a gift for a friend or yourself.

Mike Lawrence's first move into the computer software arena, "Counting at Bridge," is admirable. Yet, like all computer packages, it is expensive compared to a book, costing $37.95, postpaid, from Mike Lawrence at 131 Alvarado Road, Berkeley, CA 94705.

After loading the software (which comes on one 3.5-inch disk and runs under Windows 3.1 or later), you play through about 100 deals in a question-and-answer format. Through the bidding and play, Lawrence asks the key questions and you answer from a list (with Tell Me as one option if you are feeling lazy). And as you are asked the right questions, this is an excellent learning tool. You are trained to observe and think correctly, which must improve your game.

In this example deal from the disk, you are in four spades, the defenders beginning with three rounds of hearts. How do you continue?

To get home, you must find the diamond queen. Leaving that suit for last, you ruff the third heart high, draw trumps and drive out the club ace. After winning East's club return and cashing the last club trick, what have you learned? That East began with three spades, six hearts and at least three clubs. So, he has at most one diamond. Cash the diamond ace, before finessing dummy's jack with complete confidence.

Dear Abby

Pride in Language Heritage Does Not Excuse Being Rude

DEAR ABBY: Your English-only-or-bust advice to "Annoyed in New Mexico" was yet another offense against those of us who do not fit the mold set for us by middle America. Why should it be considered such an offense for two people to use the language of their choice to each other? If these two couples are so close, the annoyed pair should understand the importance of the Spanish language for their friends. How the couple speak to each other is their own business, and their use of Spanish may go back to reasons that "Annoyed" does not try, or care, to understand.

There are many people here in New Mexico (and elsewhere) whose parents were severely punished for the use of their primary language, Spanish. As a result, the next generation was taught English only. Those of us who learned Spanish later consider it of the utmost importance to remember our heritage and to practice our language. Apparently, the New Mexico Legislature agrees with us: It is the only bilingual lawmaking body in the United States.

Perhaps "Annoyed" should learn a little more about the background of her friends. She may learn something that will make her a little more tolerant. Oh, and you, too, Abby. Sign me ...

HABLO ESPANOL EN NUEVO MEXICO (I SPEAK SPANISH IN NEW MEXICO)

DEAR HABLO: You will notice that after your signature, I added the English translation. That's because there are many very nice people who, for one reason or another, do not understand Spanish, but who might want to understand your signature.

I agree it's important for people to preserve their cultural heritage; however, speaking a foreign language in the presence of those who do not understand it excludes them from the conversation, which is considered inexcusably rude in any language.

DEAR ABBY: A week ago I purchased a hair coloring product. As I had previously developed a minor rash after using such a product, I performed the allergy test described in the instructions.

I developed a terrible rash, which is healing very slowly. The inside of my elbow is still itchy, scabby, puffy and red. If I had used this product on my head, I believe I'd be in the hospital right now, having lost all of my hair.

I'm sure there are many people out there who blithely apply such products without heed to the warnings. I have never been allergic to anything in my life. Your readers should take the time to do the allergy test before using any hair coloring or altering product. My rash took six hours to commence, so give it time. You might be very glad you did. I sure am.

Thank you for being there for us all these years, Abby. I'm sure I'm not the only person who, in trying to resolve a problem, tries to think of what Dear Abby would say.

LEARNED THE EASY WAY, JUNEAU, ALASKA

DEAR LEARNED THE EASY WAY: I, too, am sure that many people apply products without first reading the package inserts and warning labels. But I'm willing to bet that after seeing your letter, some readers will think twice about it and act more cautiously. I know I will. Thank you for the reminder.

***

DEAR ABBY: I liked your response to "A Friend Who Cares," who was concerned because her friend "Elsa" was apparently drinking again. Abby, it is important for her to speak with Elsa for another reason. If she is not drinking, her symptoms (slurred speech, repeating herself and argumentativeness) might be caused by a neurological disorder, and she should be evaluated by her family physician or a neurologist.

Wal-Mart building deal said expensive

HOUSTON (AP) — In the eyes of state prison officials, a vacant Wal-Mart store looked like a bargain.

The Texas Department of Criminal Justice was looking for extra office space in Huntsville. So they looked around and stopped when they came upon the empty Wal-Mart store.

Now the Texas Department of Criminal Justice is paying $40,000 a month in rent retroactive to Sept. 1. And the agency has also lost its ability to recoup almost all the money spent on the still-incomplete renovation project.

Under terms of a renegotiated lease — which Wal-Mart insisted upon after the prison agency tried to delay for at least a third time its move-in date — the state has begun paying rent on the 82,000-square-foot building before any employees have occupied it.

The building is being converted to office space for personnel and health service employees of TDCJ.

Although the project is incomplete, TDCJ moved 85 employees into the building Nov. 15 and is scheduled to move in 125 more this week. Another 110 employes are scheduled to make the move in January.

The new lease terms, signed Oct. 30, also limit recoverable renovation costs to $120,000 — less than what the original lease terms allowed and far less than the $707,000 the state has spent to date. The new contract also extends the lease until Nov. 30, 1998.

"It is still a good deal for the state," said prison spokesman Glen Castlebury, despite the fact that TDCJ ends up in the hole for $457,000 in nonrecoverable renovation costs.

Astro-graph

By Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

Tuesday, Nov. 19, 1996

In the year ahead you might become enthusiastically involved in an exciting endeavor which may seem beyond your ability. Do not worry; if you are committed, you will succeed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Try to steer clear of bargain counters today, because you will not have the ability to resist a sale, and you may buy inferior merchandise you don't need. Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead make wonderful Christmas stocking stuffers for all signs of the zodiac. Mail $2 for each and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Make sure you state desired zodiac signs.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You can be productive today, provided you're left to your own devices. You do not perform as well when people tell you what to do.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today it might be difficult for you to keep secrets. Before making a disclosure, be certain the person to whom you're talking can be trusted.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Financial conditions will be difficult to read today, but you can still end up in the plus column if you keep close tabs on your expenses.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Instead of talking about what you intend to do for a friend today, surprise him by actually doing it. After all, the only thing that will count is the gesture.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) In order to gain support from others today you might be tempted to exaggerate your position. Even if you accomplish your goal, others may resent your tactics.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) An enthusiastic friend might try to include you in a new enterprise. If you are required to put up cash, don't make any impulsive commitments.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Avoid seeking assistance today from a talkative friend who doesn't usually produce. Instead, enlist a quiet, dependable pal who is a performer.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Timing will be extremely important today, especially in commercial affairs. If you tip your hand prematurely, one of your deals might unravel.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You might suffer a small loss today as a result of an oversight. To be on the safe side, count your change and make sure to get receipts.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Big issues will not disturb your mate today, but little things might. Close the garage door behind you, and wipe your feet before entering the house.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Pay extra attention today if the boss gives you special instructions to relay to co-workers. You will be held accountable if the job gets bungled.

Caladium carpets engineered for better wear

ENGINEERED PERFORMANCE. When some people hear that phrase, they may think of an exotic car, military aircraft or electronics product, but they seldom think of carpet.

That's too bad! Because the same kind of research that helped develop acrylic automotive finishes, aerospace materials and electronic circuitry has also contributed to the development of advanced fibers used to create this carpet.

Now, Carpets by Caladium are engineered to resist crushing, matting and staining.

We are so confident in our new Caladium Engineered Performance Carpets that we back them with a full five-year limited warranty against matting, crushing and staining.(See Warranty Brochure for Details.)

Naturally, we expect you'll take normal care, as you would with any household furnishings (i.e., no roller skating, mud wrestling or oil painting).

So, go ahead. Dine and dance til dawn. If you're up to that kind of performance, your Caladium carpet is too.

You'll find Caladium carpets exclusively at The Carpet Store & More, 1105 East Broadway in Sweetwater, Texas or give them a call at 915-235-8180. The folks at Carpet Store & More "believe in customer satisfaction."

Simpson asked about cellular phone call

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — A plaintiff's lawyer today challenged O.J. Simpson's alibi the night his ex-wife and her friend were slain, accusing him of making cellular calls to his girlfriend at the time he said he was at home.

Citing phone records, lawyer Daniel Petrocelli asked Simpson whether he called girlfriend Paula Barbieri repeatedly that night, including calls at 8:58 p.m. and 8:59 p.m.

"I may have," Simpson said.

"And you checked your messages on your message manager again, is that true?" Petrocelli asked.

"I never picked up a message from Paula that night," Simpson said firmly.

Petrocelli said Simpson told others, including psychologist Lenore Walker, about the message.

Relatives of Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman contend in their wrongful death lawsuit that the breakup message from Barbieri helped push Simpson into a rage that led him to slash the two to death on June 12, 1994.

"You told Dr. Lenore Walker you picked up a message from Paula, didn't you?" Petrocelli demanded.

"No," Simpson said in a loud clear voice.

Simpson acknowledged he called Barbieri's answering machine and heard her outgoing message which seemed directed at him since it mentioned him and golf.

Simpson acknowledged golf and his ex-wife were sore subjects with Barbieri.

"The truth is, you were desperate to get in touch with Paula because she had left you, true?" Petrocelli pressed.

Simpson denied that.

"The reason you were trying to get in touch with her is because you were feeling alone, true?" Petrocelli asked.

"That's not true," Simpson replied.

"You blamed Nicole for feeling alone, didn't you sir?" Petrocelli asked.

"No," Simpson responded.

Petrocelli asked a few minutes later: "You blamed Nicole because your relationship with Paula was all messed up, true?" Petrocelli asked.

Simpson denied that, too.

Petrocelli zeroed in on a call that was made at 10:03 p.m. from Simpson's cellular phone to Barbieri's phone.

Simpson initially told police he made the call from his Ford Bronco, but later changed his story.

"So, sir, you are in your Bronco calling Paula at 10:03 just as you told police?" Petrocelli asked.

"That's not true," Simpson said.

"And you say that after meeting with teams of lawyers and seeing there were cell phone records?"

"True," Simpson said.

"So your story now is that you didn't make this call from the Bronco?" Petrocelli asked. "You're now saying you took it out of the Bronco hours before, is that correct?"

"Correct," Simpson said.

As Petrocelli focused on Simpson's changing story about the cellular phone, Baker objected repeatedly and sometimes successfully that the plaintiff's lawyer was being argumentative.

"You don't want it to be there," Petrocelli said at one point. "If it's there at 11, it's there at 10. And if it's there at 10, it ruins your alibi, because you're in the Bronco and not at home."

Petrocelli stopped the first day of Simpson's testimony just before getting to the football Hall of Famer's actions during a critical 90-minute period when nobody saw him, including his claim he was chipping golf balls in his front yard.

Crew getting ready for science satellite

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — An orbiting telescope that was threatening Columbia's astronauts' goal of capturing a nearby satellite won't get in the way after all, NASA has decided.

To play it safe, however, NASA pushed up the retrieval mission three hours from early Tuesday to tonight. The astronauts prepared today to pick up the 4,600-pound steel saucer, which was set free Friday night.

Flight controllers had debated Sunday whether to send the five-member crew after the satellite, a semiconductor-producing disk, a day early to avoid any close calls. But after extensive number-crunching, Mission Control determined the gap between the satellite and the 3.5-ton telescope would be wide enough.

The space agency's concern was that the telescope was moving faster than expected through the thin upper atmosphere. Ground controllers wanted to make sure the telescope wouldn't be too close to Columbia if the crew waited until Tuesday to nab it.

Mission Control said late Sunday the space between the saucer and the telescope would be at least 14 miles. NASA safety rules stipulate the two be at least 12½ miles apart when the astronauts move in to get the saucer.

Early today, Columbia was 18 miles ahead of the 12-foot-diameter disk, which led the ultraviolet telescope by 23 miles.

The crew needs plenty of room, since the shuttle is supposed to make a 9-mile swing around the disk before capturing it. A collision could be a catastrophe.

Arctic air turns Texas very chilly

DALLAS (AP) — A two-fisted blast of arctic air smacked Texas with freezing temperatures and a blanket of snow from San Angelo to the Red River.

The storm system covered North Texas this morning, spreading a mixture of rain, freezing rain, sleet and some snow. A winter weather and wind advisory was in effect. Rainfall of 1 to 3 inches was common, with 5 inches recorded in Garland.

Wind chills were near zero or sub-zero.

Schools in Azle, Boyd, Millsap, Weatherford, Eagle Mountain-Saginaw, Sherman and McKinney were among those closed today. Fort Worth and several other districts delayed the start of classes because of slippery driving conditions.

North Texas law enforcers reported dozens of accidents on area freeways, particularly because of icy bridges and overpasses.

Freezing precipitation caused several thousand power outages in Fort Worth and Dallas, utility companies said. As of this morning, 2,100 customers in Fort Worth and 500 in Dallas were still without power, TU Electric officials said.

American Airlines canceled about 70 of its 600-plus Sunday departures from Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport. Other flights were delayed because planes had to be deiced.

The Fort Worth-based carrier thinned its schedule this morning, canceling another 70 flights and consolidating passengers when possible, spokesman Tim Smith said. The routes that were operating were generally on schedule and the airline expected to return to normal procedure by midday.

Weather also forced Denton officials to call off the search for Michael Sangster late Sunday.
