Youth Is Indicted

LAREDO, Mar. 23.—(AP)—The Webb county grand jury today returned indictments against Victor Benavides, 20, son of a wealthy Laredo ranchman, charging negligent homicide and failure to stop and render aid in connection with the death of Marcelino Cano, 50, city employee. Benavides was released on bond.

Cano was run down and killed by an automobile in the business district in February.

Third Victim Dies

GARY, Ind., Mar. 23.—(AP)—The third victim of a negro ax killer, Mary Gigl, 16, Milwaukee, died today.

The girl and her sweetheart, Chester Dibalski, of Gary, were attacked by Gillis Mack, 28, negro. Dibalski was expected to recover.

Clocks Set Back

JUAREZ, Chihuahua, Mar. 23.—(AP)—Clocks in Juarez were set back one hour today to make them conform to the time in effect at El Paso, Texas. Heretofore, clocks on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande have been one hour ahead of those on the American side, which is in the mountain time zone.

Amarillo Man Hurt

AMARILLO, Mar. 23.—(AP)—C. C. Copeland, 25, truck driver, was in a critical condition here today from knife wounds. Olive Owens, stock yards employe was held for questioning.

An argument over grain weights was said to have preceded the stabbing.

Negro Gets Death

BRYAN, Mar. 23.—(AP)—Matthew Sanders, negro, will receive a formal sentence of death Tuesday, it was announced today after Sanders had been assessed the death penalty by a district court jury on charges of criminal assault on Miss Sylvia Meredith, white girl, last Sunday.

Has Hole Full Of Oil

SAN ANGELO, Mar. 23.—(AP)—With a hole full of oil at 1,668 feet, 63 feet in the pay, the Phillips Petroleum company's number one Ramsey in Pecos county shut down today for storage.

Stars To See Revolution

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 23.—(AP)—A tour by air to see the Mexican revolution was started today by Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks. They took off in a chartered monoplane. They were accompanied by Lillian Gish, Mr. and Mrs. John Fairbanks, and three other guests. Three days will be spent cruising over the Mexican border where federal and revolutionary troops are drawn up in promise of battle.

Eaker Back In Angelo

SAN ANGELO, Mar. 23.—(AP)—Several hundred persons greeted Captain Ira Eaker when he landed here today from San Antonio in his tiny record seeking ship Pan American. The pilot announced he would take off early tomorrow for Los Angeles and hoped to reach Seattle, Wash., Monday night.

Another French Hero Dies

PARIS, Mar. 23.—(AP)—Death for the second time in three days has depleted the ranks of the World war heroes of France. General Maurice Emmanuel Sarrail, 72, who won the military medal for his courage and tenacity in holding Verdun, died quietly today.

Winter Frowns Down

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 23.—(AP)—Winter frowned on California sunshine long enough today to dash snow and sleet across some landscapes that for weeks had basked in the warmth of springtime. Points in the Rockies received a fresh covering of snow.

Americans Eager To Join In Fight

BRECKENRIDGE, Mar. 23.—(AP)—There is no dearth of young men in the United States who would like to take a hand in the revolution in Mexico, according to Captain W. B. Guinn, commander of the horse marines of America, composed of eight Breckenridge legionnaires who saw overseas service for two years during the World war.

Several weeks ago the horse marines announced their intention of going to Mexico in a body and joining the Federal forces if they were needed and Uncle Sam had no objection. Since then, Captain Guinn said he has received more than 150 letters from legionnaires all over the United States asking to join his "army."

The horse marines have about given up plans for entering the conflict, however, deeming their services apparently not needed.

Days Of Villa And Obregon Recalled As March Is Begun

Republic Sees Repitition Of Preparations As Troops Pour Out Of Torreon For Loyal Attack

Mazatlan May Fall

Mexican Rebel West Coast Army Marches On Seaport City; Attack Is Made During Saturday

BY JOHN LLOYD
Associated Press Staff Corres.

TORREON, Coahuila, Mex., Mar. 23.—The towering hills overlooking Torreon and this fertile cotton valley today surrounded intense military activity such as had not been seen here since years ago when Pancho Villa and Alvaro Obregon battled for supremacy in this strategic region.

Troops were pouring out of the city in two directions for a dual drive against the rebels. One column turned northwestward into Chihuahua to force the insurgents back into northern Sonora and the other went southward toward Irapuato, Guanajuato, thence to turn westward and finally north to force those rebels back up the Pacific coast. It was hoped to close in on the insurgents in Sonora from north and south and deal the final blow to the rebellion.

Campaign Changes

The northern campaign already has taken on the aspect of a chase and federal leaders, although fully prepared or any emergency, believe the rebels will continue to flee, rather than face overwhelming numbers.

The Pacific coast drive presents somewhat different characteristics since insurgents in that section have not yet been tested by serious federal resistance. They have been allowed to advance down the coast from Sonora to the very gates of the port city of Mazatlan while the government concentrated its attention on the northern campaign.

Now, since the rebel movement in the north seems to the federal officers to have become a rebel debacle, they are determined to bring such force to bear as will hasten a retreat. The fight, if any is expected in Sonora, and the government is confident that it will deliver the

Money Is Found In Bank's Vault

Examining Trial Of Youth To Be Held Monday For Robbery Of Brady Bank; All Money Recovered

(By Associated Press)

BRADY, March 23. — Hidden in one of the bank's books into which Harold Johanson, bookkeeper of the Farmers' and Merchants' bank, evidently placed it in excitement after being held up Thursday, $212 was found today.

With the $2,000 found the day of the robbery near town this accounts for about all the money reported missing from the bank.

The examining trial of R. C. Turner, identified by Johanson as the man who entered the bank, was set for Monday.

One man was said by Johanson to have entered the bank and to have made Johanson give up the bank's money at the point of a gun. He went outside and got in a sedan occupied by four girls and they drove away. An hour later, two of the girls and two men were arrested in another car. That night two more girls were arrested. All are charged with robbery.

Sinking Of Ship To Receive Probe

WASHINGTON, March 23. (AP) — Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador, called on the state department today in connection with the sinking of the British auxiliary schooner Imalone of Belize, British Honduras, as a suspected rum runner, by a coast guard cutter off the Louisiana coast.

The ambassador did not make any representations regarding the incident, but intimated that if press reports of the sinking were true the matter might be seriously considered. The department asked the coast guard for further information.

Coast guard officials, meanwhile defended the incident. Admiral F. C. Billard declared the ship was a "notorious smuggler with a record of nearly five years in rum running off the American coast."

Sante Fe Is Favored For Permit To Extend Line

Lovington Citizens Told Of Reasons For Extension

By AL HILL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

ALL FACTS and figures favor the Santa Fe, for a permit to extend its line from Seagraves to Lovington, N. M., any ordinary observer will decide, upon a close analysis.

As the group of Lovington chamber of commerce representatives were told Friday night, while in conference with a group of Santa Fe railway company officials, the natural and logical trade route travelled by practically every commodity shipped either into, or out of, the eastern New Mexico region to be served by the proposed extension, principally Lea county, is in the directions of north and east.

Stock Raising Leads

Stock raising, namely cattle and sheep, which is Lea county's major industry at this time, and which promises so to continue for many years, looks to the markets at Lubbock, Kansas City and Chicago for sales points. And, in shipping cattle out of eastern New Mexico for feeding, the objectives are manly Lubbock, the upper Panhandle, Oklahoma and Kansas. In the case of sheep, the objectiye is Colorado.

Commodities shipped into Lea county, such as coal, furniture, automobiles, farming implements, hardware, groceries and merchandise, come primarily and almost entirely from points north and east, either from Lubbock or by way of Lubbock.

Coal, now being used extensively as fuel, originates in Colorado or Oklahoma. Furniture and automobiles traverse from manufacturers in the Middle West, through wholesalers jobbers of this city. The same holds true of farming implements, hardware, etc., Lubbock being the nearest as well as a capable center

State Road Bonds Issue To Develop Into Big Campaign

R. S. Sterling Likely To Be Candidate For Governor So As To Carry Out Plan For Highway System

By R. W. BARRY
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Mar. 23. (AP)—Texans seem to be in for what may develop into an extraordinary campaign over the proposition of issuing state bonds in an effort to obtain a connected system of state highways. The pro and con sides are apt to be pretty evenly balanced and "the people" importuned by a flood of arguments for and against the innovation.

Action of the recent legislature in refusing to submit the constitutional amendment, under which authority to issue state securities would be delegated to the lawmaking body, served only to add fuel to the flames.

R. S. Sterling of Houston, chairman of the highway commission, who initiated a campaign to build state highways with proceeds from a bond issue some months before the legislature met, has stated that he has "just begun to fight."

This might be taken to mean that Mr. Sterling will become a candi-

L. J. Brabham Is Charged In Felony Indictments Here

Lubbock County Grand Jury Names Former Idalou Bank Official In 3 Counts; Others Charged

Eight Arrested

Bonds Are Made For Five Of Group Saturday; Pharr Sentences Two To Serve Terms In Pen

JAMES L. BRABHAM, former official of an Idalou bank, late Friday night was indicted on three counts of felony theft by the grand jury of the 72nd District Court. He was released yesterday under three bonds, which totalled $5,000.

Four other indictments were returned by the grand jury Friday night. Three charged violation of the prohibition laws and other was for swindling.

Eight Are Arrested

Eight of the nine persons indicted Wednesday had been arrested by yesterday, and five of the number have made bonds. The ones who were released under $1,000 bonds on charges of liquor law violations include: R. M. Harkey, H. J. Gentry, S. E. Davis, Arnett Morgan and DeWitt White. W. L. Seymour, Hershel Bean, and George H. Croker are still in the county jail, facing similar charges.

O. H. Gholson, indicted some time ago on charges of violation of the prohibition laws, also was released under a $1,000 bond yesterday. B. S. Bruce, negro, alias J. C. Mitchell, made a $500 bond on a aggravated assault charge yesterday and was released.

Joe Martinez, Mexican, convicted recently of theft of more than $50, and Sam J. Dawson, found guilty of swindling, yesterday morning were each sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary by Judge Homer J. Pharr.

Lynching Records Stolen In Houston

All District Attorney Records On Negro's Death Disappear; Grand Jury Makes Investigaton

(By Associated Press)

HOUSTON, March 23. —About five months after they had disappeared it was made known today that all the district attorney records of the lynching of Robert Powell, negro, were missing.

The grand jury began an investigation. Horace Soule, former district attorney, and Tom Shelley, captain of detectives, being questioned concerning the missing papers which included purported confessions of four of the defendants.

Soule said that during the trial of one of the defendants last October, the envelope containing the information was left on his desk during the lunch hour and when he returned it had disappeared.

The former prosecutor told E. T. Branch, assistant district attorney, that he supposed General Jacob Wolters,s pecial prosecutor in the case, had told the incoming district attorney's administration of the loss of the records. Wolters said he did not know they were missing.

Powell was found hanging from a bridge near Houston a few nights before the Democratic National convention. Seven men were indicted. Charges against one were dismissed, another was acquitted and the others have not been brought to trial.

J. C. Penney Plans Big Dairy Concern

Chain-Store Magnate Enters New Field In Organization Of Dairy Products Firm; Publicly Financed

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, March 23.—Organization of a $5,000,000 Southern Dairy Products company was announced today by J. C. Penney, founder and chairman of the nationwide chain store corporation that bears his name, the southern company is to be known as Foremost Dairy Products, Inc.

Although operations will be confined at first to the South, the business later is expected to extend to other sections.

Publicly Financed.

The company will be publicly financed. The capital structure will consist of $1,473,250 purchase money obligations, 500,000 shares of convertible preference stock, of which 125,000 shares will be outstanding and 1,000,000 shares of common stock of which 250,000 shares will be outstanding.

Dairy farming has been a hobby with Mr. Penney, who at the town of Penney Farms, near Jacksonville, Fla., is developing 120,000 acres on a co-operative basis with resident farmers. For the past five years he has been a breeder of prize-winning pure bred Guernsey cattle.

ELIZABETH, N. J., (AP)—Six men held up and robbed passengers on a Jew Jersey Central railroad train as it entered Elizabethport tonight. The men, each with two revolvers, escaped in a heavy fog.

Thousands Stand In Line To Pass Before Foch Bier; More Outside

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

PARIS, March 23.—France gradually is revealing her treasures of respect and affection for the man who brought about successful termination of the World War.

More than 20,000 people stood in line today to pass before the catafalque of Marshal Foch in silent homage.

At least 20,000 more, despairing of any chance to get in, had to be content with saluting or lifting hats as they walkked by the marshal's mansion.

Everyone To Pay Tribute

After the body of the marshal has been transported under the Arc de Triomphe tomorrow everyone will have a chance to pay tribute to the departed soldier.

Police are preparing for one of the greatest crushes they have ever had to handle.

Tuesday will be a day of real mourning. The stock exchange will be closed, theatres will not raise their curtains and horse races have been called off. The government is requesting all restaurants to serve meals without music.

Lubbock Climbs Nearer Top In State Building

City Ranked Third During Past Week With Total Of $162,440; Holds To 5th Place For Year

Again the city of Lubbock startles the building world with coming out in a high place among large Texas cities for the past week's building permit period. Only the cities of Houston and Fort Worth exceeded Lubbock. And, for the year, this city stands in fifth place. That is also remarkable.

The past week saw a total of $162,440 in permits recorded, with the year's total climbed to $1,102,393. Such cities as San Antonio and Dallas are beneath Lubbock for the past seven day period. There's not a city recorded in the accompanying list which has as few residents as Lubbock.

Below is a record of Saturday's permits, which totalled $3,500:

R. A. Coker, 2412 Sixth street, four-room brick veneer residence, $2,800; George W. Butler contractor. Elwin Wheelock, 1216 Broadway, addition to restaurant, $700; S. A. Taylor, contractor.

Twenty Persons Drown Last Night In Churning Mountain Waters Of Emery River In Tennessee; Flood Continues

Tornadoes, Rainstorms And Fresh Floods Over Week-end Continue Spreading Death And Destruction

Mississippi Rises

Many Communities Isolated As Waters Rise More; No Hope Given For Many; Levees Of River Watched

(By Associated Press)

ATLANTA, March 23.—Tornadoes, rainstorms and fresh floods which whipped the South from Louisiana to Virginia this week-end tonight had claimed at least 39 lives. Five were missing and probably were swept to their death.

The chief of police at Harriman, Tenn., told The Associated Press tonight that 20 persons were drowned in swollen Emery river, which covered the city to a depth of 30 feet with its churning mountain water.

FACES LONG FIGHT

MEMPHIS, March 23. (AP) — The Lower Mississippi Valley faces prospects of a long fight against high water.

"The levees are holding and that's about all," said patrolmen along the sodden banks of the raging Mississippi today.

White creek, near Rockwood, Tenn., caught a party of 21 boy scouts on the roof of a camping-bungalow today and swept eight of them downstream before rescuers could reach them with boats. Three bodies were recovered, five were missing, and 13 were rescued.

Many Tennessee communities were isolated tonight, as the waters of mountain streams receded after flooding the countryside. Rainstorms over the week-end brought the deluge of flood waters through gorge-like Piedmont river channels.

Three negroes were killed by a tornado at Harriston, Miss., and 2 negroes met death in a similar disturbance at Plains, Ga., today. Tornadoes yesterday took the lives of five negro children, in a church used for a school at Merrellton, Ala.,

Charges Against Wurzbach Quashed

Federal Court Ruling Made Saturday Relieves Texan Of Indictment; Appeal To Be Made

(By Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, March 23.—A federal court ruling today quashing an indictment against former Congressman Harry M. Wurzbach will be appealed to the United States supreme court, Federal District Attorney Hartman announced.

Judge Duval West held that section 208 of the United States criminal code, usually referred to as the criminal practices act, under which the former congressman was indicted, was not intended to apply to primary elections, and that if congress did so intend it to apply, it was his opinion congress exceeded its authority and that the law was uncontsitutional.

With Pres. J. A. Hill, of West Texas State Teachers colloge, was principal speaker over 200 students of Texas Tech and their guests attended a banquet at Cheri Casa last evening.

The affair was sponsored by the Baptist Student Union and Alvord Abernathy acted as toast master for the evening.

Before taking their places in the banquet hall, the guests sang songs led by Mancil Hall, after which Harry Lemaire's orchestra played. Irwin Coleman gave the invocation after which a four-course turkey dinner was served.

Guests Introduced.

A number of guests were introduced by Abernathy among them being J. D. Carroll, of the Baptist church, Miss Virginia McLean, student worker in the Presbyterian church, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Richardson, workers in the Methodist church, Jack Randall, Annie Bell Durham, of Hamilton, Clarence Whiteside, representative from the Methodist students; Lizzie Belle Clements, Hill Garrison, representative from the Christian church; Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Witt, Mrs. Erie Studeman, Dr. W. R White, pastor of the First Baptist church, Dr. Paul W. Horn, C. F. Litton and Margaret Turner.

Dr. White made a few remarks as did Dr. Horn, after which student talks were made by Miss Mary Hope Westbrook on "Why students leave the church"; Hal Lary on "Why students stay with the church," and Warren Huff on "How we may remedy this situation."

Following these addresses Dr. Hill spoke on the practical application of religion to education. "Religion is a philosophy dealing with problems that life presents and the church is a tool for the advancement of the cause of religion," said the speaker.

He cautioned the students against believing that the situation relative to the interpretation of Christianity is not one peculiar to campuses more than with other institutions. Dr. Hill maintained that their is no conflict in religion and education, but that if education is lacking in religious principles then it is not genuine.

The week-end disturbances came just as rehabilitation of 23,000 homeless had got a good start among flood ravaged areas of Alabama, Mississippi, Florida and Georgia. The rainstorms added Kentucky and Eastern Tennessee to the flood-ridden Southern list.

Thirty Feet Of Water Hits at Harriman, Tenn.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 23.(AP) The chief of police at Harriman, Tenn., told the Associated Press by telephone tonight that he was certain 19 persons had been drowned by floods in or near Harriman. He said "maybe 20 folks" lost their lives.

List of Known Dead.

His list of known dead follows:

Mrs. Maud Hill and four children; Bob Underwood, coal dealer; Mrs. F. O. Jenkins and four children; Lon Branham, his wife and one child; Will Wright, wife and one child; Jonah Smith, "an old gentleman," Jim Gryman, a factory night watchman.

No bodies had been recovered, the chief said.

The officer reported a few minutes later that "A Mrs. McElroy" also was drowned. He said most of the dead lived at or near Harriman but that no details of the deaths were available.

Five large plants, including an ice plant and woolen mill, "were wiped away," the police chief said. Sixty-eight homes were swept off their foundations, some floating away with the crest.

Box cars swept through low lying streets or floated about railroad yards changed suddenly to lakes. More than 30 feet of water swept through the factory section, the chief reported.

The water started pouring into town about 3 a. m., and within three hours reached its crest. There was no warning. Most of the residents were asleep and awakened only by cries of neighbors or water pounding against their homes.

After reaching its crest, the water started falling rapidly and tonight was receding about one foot an hour.

Four Members Of Fishing Party Drowns In Alabama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 23. (AP) — Four members of a fishing party drowned in the Warrior river late today, when their boat capsized. Two occupants of the boat who swam to a tree-top were rescued.

The dead are Marvin Harris, Arvin Harris, Felix Parsons and Harrell Gilbert, all of Birmingham. Henry La Foy and Reuben Humphrey were taken from a tree-top to which they made their way.

Relief Train Is On Way To Stricken Area

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 23. (AP) A relief train was being made up here tonight to be sent to Harriman where it was reported 15 or more persons perished in flood waters sweeping the town.

Doctors, nurses, medical supplies and food will be on the train.

C. J. Burnell, of the Tennesseans staff, who flew over sections of the Middle Tennessee flood area today, reported on arrival here tonight that flood water was nine feet above the top of the Tennessee Power and Light company's dam at Rock Island and that the plant had ceased operations.

The strain on the dam was "terrific," Burnell said, and the situation was "alarming." McMinnville is protected by the dam.

Races From Snowy Peaks To Tropics

"Redskin" Holds Entertainment Of Action Sort

"Redskin," starring Richard Dix, will have the kids of Lubbock running and leaping and playing redskin, same as "Robin Hood" had 'em going wild over the bow and arrow, or this reviewer misses a guess. It's a great picture, with plenty of action, yet there's a story that is entrancing, with a dramatic tension throughout.

It's also a beautiful picture, with Navajo Indian blankets, costumes, the Arizona mountains, desert and streams, in natural colors. Indian ceremonials and a Pueblo Indian town on top of a mountain is used for part of the setting.

The story is of an Indian boy, brought to a U. S. government school, educated with the white man's civilization. As "Wing Foot," Richard Dix steps on it to get into college with the fastest track team in America, only to be driven back to the Indians when the clash of race against race throws him back. Yet, his own father and tribe disclaim him. He is in love with a "hated" Pueblo Indian girl.

MOTIONS ARE DENIED

Dawson, Martinez, Frost Case Appeals Downed

Three motions for new trials were denied and one motion granted, by Judge Homer L. Pharr, in the Seventy-Second district court here Saturday. The three denied were those of Sam J. Dawson, convicted of swindling; Joe Martinez and August Frost, convicted of thefts of more than $50.

The Motion granted was that of Jim Henderson, who had been convicted of transporting intoxicating liquor illegally.

Facing Wheat Surplus

KANSAS CITY, Mar. 23.—(AP)—J. J. Kraetli, president of the Kansas City board of trade, today informed T. V. O'Connor, Washington, chairman of the United States shipping board, that through failure or inability of the board to supply vessels at gulf ports the Southwest, faced with the greatest wheat surplus in its history, has been denied the possibility of a foreign outlet of from 15 to 20 million bushels in the early crop year.

Fascist Push Campaign

ROME, Mar. 23.—(AP)—Fascist Italy pushed home its campaign for the election of 400 fascist candidates to parliament in a last minute drive tonight, refusing to rest on its oars on the eve of elections.

After a festival day commemorating the tenth anniversary of the foundation of militant fascism, party leaders spoke in every town and city of Italy tonight.

Carnahan Is Safe

CADIZ, O., March 23. (AP)—Kidnaped Monday night by Mexican bandits, at San Benito, Zacatecas, Thomas L. Carnahan, native of Cadiz, is safe and well, said a message received by Cadiz relatives, they announced today.

The mining company by which he is employed, is negotiating for his release.

Dawn-to-Dusk Flight To Be Made To West Coast

KANSAS CITY, March 23. (AP)—Arrangements for a dawn-to-dusk airline between Kansas City and Los Angeles were completed today at a conference between Silas A. Morehouse of the Western Air Express and Kansas City officials.

Although no schedule has been arranged it is planned to begin operations by May 1, Morehuse stated. He said tri-motored planes would be sent each way daily, changes of pilots and planes to be made at Amarillo, and either Albuquerque or Hlbrook, Arizona.

Time required for the trip would be about 12 hours it was estimated.

GAS PRICE LOWERED

Lubbock Dealers Cut Cent From Gallon Here

Lubbock motorists realized a savings of hundreds of dollars daily yesterday when local gasoline dealers slashed the price of gasoline one cent a gallon.

The current price at practically all local dispensaries is now twenty cents a gallon. It had been twenty-one cents for several months.

SHOULD KNOW HOW

Miss Leake Says Woman Should Support Self

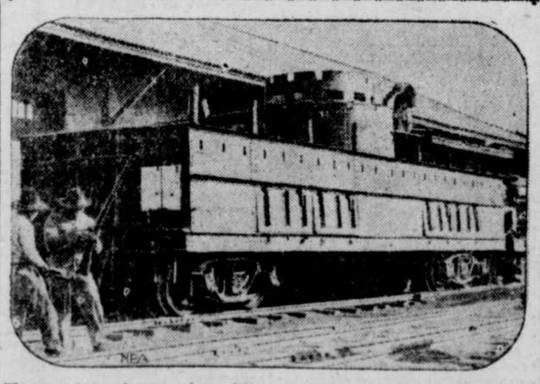

SAN ANGELO, March 23. (AP) — Every woman in the United States should know how to support herself in case of necessity, Miss Daisy H. Leake, Temple, president of the Business and Professional Women of Texas, told members of the fifth district of the organization at their meeting here tonight.

CANYON, Mar. 23. (AP)—The finals in the One-Act Play contest of the First District of the Texas Interscholastic League will be held here on March 29-30.

Fifteen schools will compete. They are: Pampa, Canyon, Groom, Shamrock, Panhandle, Miami, Perryton, Booker, Kelton, Texline, Dalhart, Happy, Tulia, Quitaque and Amarillo.

Fate Of Mazatlan Hangs In Smoke Of Battle

(By Associated Press)

The fate of Mazatlan hung in the smoke of battle as the Mexican rebel West Coast army threw its full strength on the seaport city efore heavy federal reinforcements could arrive. W. T. Blocker, American consul, was reported killed in the fighting, but later denied this rumor.

Hot rebel attacks began Friday night and lasted all through Saturday.

Expect Speedy Capture

Insurgents expected speedy capture of this key city in the West Coast campaign after their headquarters at Nogales were informed insurgent troops had occupied the Mazatlan cemetery which faces a long bridge, the only land entrance

In Mexico City the government confirmed news of the fighting but had no casualty figures.

Rebel headquarters claimed a federal airplane had been brought down and that fire of the federal gunboat Progreso was ineffective. They gave no list of casualties.

Route Federal Infantrymen

Meanwhile rebels at Jiminez with their main army declared 300 federal infantrymen had been routed at Colorado, state of Zacatecas, south of Torreon, in the rear of the Calles army.

Federal troops were moving into three fields of action against the rebellion, north against Escobar's main army at Jimenez or Chihuahua City, west to relieve Mazatlan, and south against what the government described as "fanaticos" a term to designate so-called Catholic rebels.

Five thousand cavalrymen from Torreon are participating in this new expedition. They were sent by General Calles' orders into the states of Guanajuato and Jalisco, where the "fanaticos have been active for several years."

General Calles announced that General Almazan was preparing an overland advance against Escobar forces at Jimenez which have wrecked about 100 miles of railway tracks between Torreon and Chihuahua City. Trucks and automobiles commandeered at Torreon will be utillized.

Bombing Planes Take Off For Monterey

LAREDO, March 23. (AP)—After a brief halt here for fuel, three armed bombing planes, purchased by the Mexican government in the United States, took off late today for an unannounced destination in Mexico, presumably Monterey. The hips were flown here from New York by three Mexican government pilots

United States army pilots from Kelly field, San Antonio, escorted the planes here today.

Six other similar ships have been purchased by the Mexican government for use against the revolutionists.

American Aviator Is Captured By Rebels

NOGALES, Ariz., March 23. (AP)—An American aviator, said to be from the Mexican federal air base at Naco, Sonora, was captured this afternoon when he landed and attempted to set fire to a railroad bridge near Santa Cruz, between Naco and Nogales, a statement issued at Rebel headquarters at Nogales, Sonora,

Cavalry Troop To Attack Garrison At Nogales

SAN LUIS, Sonora, Mexico, Mar. 23. (AP)—A federal cavalry force, 800 strong, was dispatched from the government garrison here late today with orders from General Abelardo Rodriguez, of the northern district of Lower California, to attack the rebel garrison at Nogales, Sonora.

General Rodriguez said twelve bombing planes for use in the attack on Nogales, had landed here. An airport base sufficient for 20 planes has been established, he said.

The infantry stationed here will follow the cavalry within several days, the general said, being transported by trucks and tractors which already have penetrated a large section of the desert and pounded down a semblance of a road for marching formation.

Future Looks Bright

As to the potentialities of the Lea county oil field development, which appears to be "just around the corner," it is well known that the big percentage of heavy machinery, steel for derricks, pipe, and other equipment, originates in the steel mill district centering at Pittsburgh, Pa. Distributors of these commodities extend throughout the country southwest from the steel mills on a direct route towards the Panhandle.

The Santa Fe proposal is for the extension of its line now terminating at Seagraves, on a straight shoot westward for 46 miles to Lovington, and the construction of trackage, beginning on this line at a point about 12 miles east of Lovington, southward through the area of Knowles, Nadine, Hobbs, and terminating at a station named Henry. This part of the project parallels the Texas and New Mexico line, being a few miles west of the Texas side and traverses oil territory.

Have Same Mileage

The Texas and New Mexico project, is routed from Monahans, by way of Kermit, into the oil section and terminating at Lovington. Both lines would have about the same mileage of trackage in Lea county.

Presiding at the conference in Lovington, was Tom B. Gallaher, general freight and passenger agent of the Panhandle & Santa Fe Railway company, whose headquarters are at Amarillo. Other Santa Fe officials included H. C. Pipkin, of Amarillo, who is attorney for the road; M. C. Blanchard, chief engineer for the western lines of the Santa Fe; J. A. Gillies, of Slaton division superintendent, and Roscoe Wilson, attorney; W. S. Posey, T. B Duggan, R. J. Murray, France Baker, Charles H. Read, Spencer Wells.

The Lovington group was headed by Seth Alston, cattleman, president of the chamber of commerce; W. M. Snider, banker; G. W. Witt, livestock; Charles Fairweather, hotel owner; Wesley McAllister, real estate and capitalist; O. Beaty, county extension agent; R. R. James, loans, and Luke Roberts, newspaper publisher.

H. C. Pipkin, general attorney for the Santa Fe, was first to speak, declaring the purpose was to look over the situation. "It's no cinch even one road will come here," he said. "The reason for the Interstate Commerce commission hearing is to gather the facts of whether or not a railroad would be justified, a necessity, a convenience for the public. The issue to be fought out at Lubbock on April 1 will be this need, and the desires or votes of any community will have any bearing on the case.

"If Lovington citizens feel they can continue an attitude of neutrality, that might keep either of the lines from getting a permit. The best interests of this country, in railroad service, comes from the Santa Fe's project."

For Lovington, Seth Alston was first to speak, stating that they were anxious to have a railroad and that the Lovington chamber of commerce was busy at collecting all possible data to show the justification for building one. He said they had not reached any conclusion as to whether or not they would back either applicant.

Tom B. Gallaher, for the railroad, explained that under the 1920 transportation act, the railroads had been reduced more than ever to the status of a public servant. "They can't exceed a six per cent profit made on their investment," he said, "and this act will not permit railroads to enter into building competitive lines through jealous cause, or to put down competitive lines to kill some other corporation We must show the investment will pay for itself. This Lovington extension can not be made, unless there is absolute justification."

The Santa Fe, Gallaher declared, estimated the Hobbs oil field would last 10 or 15 years. "The I. C. C. has held that dependence upon traffic from oil fields must be stipulated in the railroad's application, for a number of years. We figure that by the time the oil plays out, the development of the country around Lovington and north of our main line will have then become self-supporting. The Santa Fe project has several advantages for Lovington It gives the Santa Fe the opportunity of going on from Lovington in any direction. We might desire to build to our line which runs from Clovis to Pecos, connecting with the Pecos valley."

A saving of more than 35 miles is offered by the Santa Fe project, from Lovington to Sweetwater and points east of there, by way of Seagraves and Lubbock, as compared to the proposal of the T. and N. M. More than 100 miles is saved on almost every commodity shipped into or out of the Lea county territory, via the Santa Fe to Lubbock.

With an average cattle shipment of around 60,000 a year from Lea county, a similar number of sheep, the fact that 711 carloads of cattle shipped from the Seagraves section during 1928, only 27 carloads went to Fort Worth, all others going north and east, it was shown the Santa Fe is the most logical line to get a permit to build to Lovington.

Without a railroad, cattlemen and sheepmen all state they lose hundreds of thousands of dollars every year in shrinkage, which is occassioned because of the long trek across country to a railroad point. One Lovington man told of losing an average of $10,000 a year on sheep. There are about 80,000 head of sheep in the county, about the same number of cattle, some years the cattle being around 150,000 head.

Welfare Workers To Appear Here

Under the direction of Dr. and Mrs. Tom V. Elzey, of Amarillo, former general secretaries of the Alabama Council of Christian Education with headquarters at Birmingham, a social welfare program will be given for the Lubbock high school and junior high, April 2 and 3, Supt. M. H. Duncan announced yesterday.

During the first period of April 2, Dr. Elzey will talk to the entire student body. The next period Mrs. Elzey will talk to girls alone, and Dr. Elzey will talk to the boys alone during the third period. Private consultation with school children, will be held throughout the remainder of the day. Dr. Elzey will address the patrons of the school at 8 o'clock in the evening.

The same program will be carried out on April 3 at the Junior high school.

date for governor early next year so that he might better advocate his plan.

Whether Mr. Sterling becomes a candidate or not, the bond issue suggestion is almost certain to be one of the principal planks in somebody's gubernatorial platform.

This surmise brings to the surface the activities of Lynch Davidson, Houston, former lieutenant governor, one of the most uncompromising opponents of the state-wide bond issue.

Mr. Davidson has had an ambition to serve as governor. He was a candidate four years ago and again two years later.

This speculation brings Lieut. Governor Barry Miller into the picture. He is regarded as a sure entrant in the gubernatorial marathon next year, and if he has any decided views as to whether Texas should or should not issue bonds for building highways, he has not paraded them in public.

IN THE REALM OF SPORT

WITH ALLAN CARNEY
Avalanche Sports Editor

Tech tracksters have but four days left in which to prepare for the Austin and Dallas relays they will enter this week end. Coach Payne will enter both his 880 and mile relay teams in both events. in Austin Friday, the cream of the track and field talent of the Southwest will gather for the Texas relays and on the following day, practically the same contestants will compete in the S. M. U relays at Dallas. The locals have encountered several severe handicaps that has hurt their chances, but there is still high hope in the Matador camp.

While the Tech speed merchants are in Austin and Dallas, demonstrating their wares, an army of high school and rural school lads will gather in Lubbock to compete in the annual Interscholastic League county meet. R. L. Hooten of Shallowater is county athletic director. He has already placed programs in the hands of all county schools who are expected to enter the meet. Entries in both literary and athletic events should be mailed as soon as possible to the various directors named on the program.

Class A honors in the county will likely rest between Lubbock and Slaton. These two aggregations afternoon with the result that the tangled up in a lively melee Friday superior numbers of the Westerners carried off honors. Other schools were entered in the Slaton meet but the chief rivalry lay between the Tigers and Westerners. The Tigers were dopes to carry off honors in the invitation affair, but the locals proved the best sand-eaters and romped home with the big end of the score.

The 440-yard dash should prove one of the most interesting events of the meet next Saturday, with Simmons of Slaton and Creighton of Lubbock both entered. The Tiger star nosed out the Lubbock quarter miler by a mere stride when they hooked up Friday on the Slaton track, and if the latter continues to improve during this week, he may turn the tables.

MEMBERSHIP UNCERTAIN

Baseball moguls of Lubbock should know by Wednesday night the teams that are to enter the City Baseball League this season. Teams representatives are to meet at the chamber of commerce offices to loop and vote on the sixth club. The entrance of the American Legion team remains a question. In case the ex-soldiers are not able to put over a team, there are several other concerns dickering for a berth in the league. The carpenters are still up a tree concerning their club. Negociations are under way between the carpenters and lumbermen on going together on a team, but this is also undecided.

In the event the local carpenters' union does not enter a team in the league, the lumbermen will likely take over the berth which has been assigned to the former.

* * *

The latest organization to seek entrance into the league is made up of Santa Fe employes and express employes. All persons connected with these two organizations are called to meet at the Santa Fe freight office Monday night to perfect an organization to bid for a berth in the loop. This team will probably replace the American Legion aggregation if the war vets do not enter.

Polo Is Popular As Big Six Sport

NORMAN, Okla., Mar 23.—Polo as a collegiate sport in the southwest is pushing its way toward a place on the Big Six conference program.

Fleet army ponies from the remount station at Fort Reno have replaced draft horses with cowboy saddles on the University of Oklahoma's team.

Oklahoma was the first school in the conference to play polo. Students started the game by playing on work horses. Now regulation polo equipment is used in polo classes as well as by squad members.

The University of Missouri and Iowa State, following Oklahoma's example, also have begun instruction in polo. Major E. P. Parker, commandant of the R. O. T. C. at Oklahoma, coach of the Sooner players, believes polo soon will become a regular Big Six sport.

Boston Judge To Sit On Bench In New Profession

Club Certain To Hustle With Johnny Evers Pushing 'Em; Fuchs To Take All Blame

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
NEA Service Sports Editor.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 23.—Two things are almost obvious to the traveling correspondent who saunters into the quaint training camp of the Boston Braves.

The first is that the Braves are not going to win the pennant and the second is that Emil Fuchs, president of the club, is going to manage his own men on the field. However, there is no connection between the two observations.

EMIL FUCHS

The Judge can manage his own club if he wants to. Uncle Wilbert Robinson is the president-manager of the Brooklyn club, and he hasn't done such a worse job with his men, but the point about the reference to the Boston judge is that nobody believed him when he announced after the departure of Hornsby that he would succeed him.

"No one else but," the judge replied, when I asked him if he really meant to manage the club. "And why not?"

And we confessed we had no nots to present.

To Sit On Bench.

When the late Tex Rickard was negotiating for the purchase of the New York Giants we asked him if he wanted to get into baseball or just wanted the Polo Grounds.

"I want the stadium most, but if I have to buy the ball club with it I'll buy it. I don't know nothing about baseball, but you can always hire smart fellers to run things for you," he replied.

I mentioned this to the judge and it didn't find a humorous spot.

"I'm going to be on the bench every day," he said. "I have some fine assistants, partciularly Johnny Evers, but I know something about baseball. I played it and I always have been a fan, and if I didn't want to make a business of it I wouldn't be in it."

If the judge needs a board of strategy he certainly should get some help from a round table session with Evers, Fred Mitchell, Jack Slatery, Joe Dugan, Rabbit Maranville, George Sisler, Hank Gowdy and others. They represent almost as much baseball as Connie Mack had around him last year.

The story of Judge Fuchs and his ambition is about the only one in the camp. Hornsby has gone and such a raft of assorted players have been recruited that the judge must be right when he says that he hasn't made up his mind about a starting lineup.

Too many of the players had to be introduced before the bosses knew even who they were.

Three Old Stars In Camp.

There is some romance in the reassembling of three of the old stars—Evers, Maranville and Gowdy—who helped the old 1914 Boston team in its inspired drive for the championship. With the good team of 1914, that won the only pennant the Braves have owned. Evers, Maranville and Gowdy didn't think they had a pennant winner that year. They said they would go out and try and that's their attitude this year.

They know what the experts think of their ball club and they will not give the experts a violent argument.

"We didn't start out for the pennant in 1914. I don't think any of us thought in July when we got going that we could win, but we kept hustling," Evers said.

"All there is to get some place in any business is to keep hustling. Especially when you're losing.

"We old-timers have the same feeling this year. We're going out there to hustle. We won't stand for any pushovers in our bunch. There are a lot of clubs that look better than we do, but we're not going to quit to them."

It is probable that the infield will consist of Sisler at first; Maguire, who came from the Cubs, at second; Maranville, who was fired by the Cardinals, at short, and Joe Dugan, given the gate by the Yankees, at third base. It's not a fast looking bunch and not a hitting combination.

Of the rookies nothing definite can be told.

The outfield will be led by Lance Richbourg, who is a very good outfielder, and then there are George Harper, picked up from the Cardinals, Heinie Mueller, Earl Clark and a couple of others.

With the exception of their old men and their judicial manager, the Braves are a colorless outfit and it's impossible to get any inspiration out of them. But it's a dead cinch, with Johnny Evers around, that it will be a fighting ball club.

They won't win the pennant, of course. They haven't a chance, but they might figure in the pennant race in this way—they might win enough games from some of the higher standing teams to knock them out of the race.

Three Romantic Figures

Are these veterans of the only championship team the Boston Braves ever had. Johnny Evers, Hank Gowdy and Rabbit Maranville are wrking together again to make the Braves into a winner, and while their chances for success this season seem slim, they have hopes of making the Braves a fighting outfit. "We didn't expect to win a pennant in 1914," says Evers. "All we did was hustle and that is what the 1929 Braves are going to do."

Expect Six Clubs In Lone Star Loop

PARIS, March 23. (AP)—President T. H. Fisher of the Lone Star league said today he had assurance that six clubs would apply to enter the 1929 race at tomorrow's meeting at Dallas. Unless plans are altered at the meeting the league roster will consist of Tyler, Sherman, Palestine, Corsicana, Texarkana and Paris, he said.

Spring Training To Start April 22

Matador Gridders To Have Five Weeks To Initiate Training For 1929 Season; Staff Available

Spring football training for the Texas Tech Matadors will begin this year on April 22, Ewing Y. Freeland, director of athletics announced last night. This will give the gridders five weeks of training for the 1929 season.

In choosing this date to begin football training, the Tech athletic head took into consideration the prospect for more favorable weather toward the end of the school term and the fact that football candidates who are working on baseball and track will be able to join the football camp soon after this date.

Other members of the football coaching staff will also be available during that time, Mr. Freeland pointed out.

AGGIES GO ON HITTING SPREE

COLLEGE STATION, March 23. (AP) — The Aggies had on their hitting clothes today and overwhelmed the Southern Pacific nine from Houston, 13 to 1. Three railroad pitchers were rapped for 16 hits, including a homer by Bell, Aggie outfielder.

Goats To Appear Here In Initial Baseball Contest

Daniel Baker Nine Coming To Lubbock For Three Games, April 16, 17, 18; Schedule Complete

Although the baseball schedule for the Texas Tech Matadors has not been completed, Coach Higginbotham's diamond crew will likely see their first action of the season here on April 16, when the Daniel Baker Hill Billies come to Lubbock for a three-game series.

During the second week in May, the locals will make a trip downstate to meet Texas A. and M., St. Edwards university and Daniel Baker. Beginning on Monday with the Farmers, the Matadors will play two games each in College Station, Austin and Brownwood.

The date for the series with the Roswell cadets has not been set, according to those in charge of the baseball schedule, but it is likely that the N. M. M. I. aggregation will appear in Lubbock during the last week in April. Games are also pending with the New Mexico Aggies.

Tech baseball aspirants will enter their second week of training Monday, facing a strenuous week of work. Coach Higginbotham will probably sent his cohorts through a practice game before the week is over.

Gar Wood Fails To Break Record

MIAMI, Fla., March 23. (AP)—Gar Wood late today failed by seven-tenths of a mile an hour to break the world's straightaway speed boat record, with his trim-motored craft "Miss America VII." His average over the Indian river course was 92.12 miles an hour.

The previous record, 92.838 miles an hour, set at Detroit last fall, was by Gar Wood's brother, George, in the same boat.

Hornsby Starts Well With Cubs; Team Sees Him As Pennant Cinch

BY VICTOR O. SIDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

AVALON, Santa Catalina Island, Cal. Mar. 23.—A punch that will go a long ways towards fulfilling the pennant hopes of the Chicago Cubs rests in the blugeon of Rogers Hornsby.

Fortunately for the Cubs there is little doubt but that the "Rajah" now training with the Cubs here, will swing his war club with all of the destructive force to batting records of past seasons. The great batsman of the national league has been acclaimed by the club's followers as the man to lead them out of the darkness that has been theirs for many years.

Last year the cry of the Cubs' followers was, "we have 'Kiki' Cuyler with us now." This season it is "we have Hornsby with us now.' It is generally believed among his teammates that Hornsby will bring to the Cubs the punch to put them over the top.

Hornsby who cost the Cubs a quarter of a million dollars in cash and players, is not as taciturn as is his manager, Joe McCarthy. The second sacker has been very quiet since he donned a Cub uniform but his piercing eyes have not been idle.

The man who piloted the St. Louis Cardinals to a national league pennant, captained the New York Giants in 1927, and managed the Boston Braves last year has his own idea of what the 1929 season will bring. He believes that the forthcoming race will be between Pittsburgh, New York, and Chicago, with the Cubs having the big edge.

"I do not expect the Cardinals, winners last season, to finish better than fourth or fifth," he says "In fact, I believe Cincinnati will beat out the St. Louis club. The Cardinals are experimenting too much."

Hornsby has brought to the Cubs a spirit and confidence that will make the Chicago club a formidable foe. The nearest explanation might be in the fact that there is a sense of conscious pride in having him in their midst. He appears well liked by his teammates, and a tendency to turn to him for leadership is evident.

The quiet-spoken Cuyler believes that his successor to the popular leadership will give the Cubs their first pennant.

"Last year we lost the flag by four games, and dropped many contests through the season by a one run margin." he said. "Hornsby alone will add many games to the Cubs' win column with his long punch, and his fielding, overshadowed in the eyes of the fans by his marvelous hittin. will greatly strengthen the defensive power of the club."

PAMPA NOSES OUT AMARILLO

PAMPA, Mar. 23. (AP)—Pampa high school won the invitation track and field meet here today by nosing out Amarillo, 68 to 64. Borger placed third and Canyon fourth. The meet was decided in the final event, the mile relay, won by Pampa. Walstad of Pampa led the individual performers with 15 points.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

By Henry L. Farrell

TWO NICE FELLOWS

Walter Johnson and Billy Southworth are regarded by the major league ball players as two of the swellest fellows in the business and because of their nice, easy-going disposition a lot of experts think that neither will succeed as a major league manager.

Johnson is having his first trial as the manager of the Washington Senators and Southworth is making his debut as the manager of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Because of the affection that Washington has for Johnson his spot is much easier than the one into which Southworth has fallen. If Jonson fails to win a pennant there will be no dire penalty put on him. His Washington club does not stand as a pennant winner and evenn if Walter doesn't finish the club higher than it finished last year they will love him just the same in Washington.

JUST A TOUGH SPOT

But Southworth is in a much more critical position. He is assuming the management of a team that won a pennant last year and one that is given only a fair chance by the experts to win this year.

If the team doesn't finish in first place, off will go his head in the fall. They lop off managerial heads in St. Louis as an annual fall function.

Bill McKechnie led the club into the world series last fall and his reward was a demotion to Rochester, where Southworth won an International league pennant last year. And if Southworth doesn't finish ahead of the Cubs, the Giants and the Pirates this year he will be farmed out to one of the many rural clubs that the St. Louis men own.

HAVE NO WORRIES

Johnson does not admit that he is in a tough spot and neither does Southworth. They are smilers essentially. Johnson had a tough experience last year with Newark when three or four bad actors on the ball club took advantage of his nice disposition, but he says he has learned his lesson.

Southworth says he had no serious trouble with the Rochester club, but the ball players of the International league say his men worked on his easy disposition until he got hard with them.

SPOKEN LIKE A MAN

"That is not correct," Southworth said. "I didn't get hard with that ball club last year. I just asked them to play ball with me and I went out and played ball with them.

"I want to play the outfield every day with the Cardinals, if one of those other fellows don't beat me out of the job. I think a playing manager is the best. He can lead his men when he is on the field and he doesn't have to drive them. I have had experience under rough driving managers and I don't believe that it works.

"The average ball player in the major leagues is an intelligent grown-up man and the younger fellows are smart fellows with good education. You can't drive them. But you can show them.

CLUB WILL HUSTLE

"I know all the ball players on the St. Louis club and they know me. And there isn't a bad actor on the club," he added, using almost the identical words that Johnson

Centenary Race Won By Gallant Light Blue Crew

Win Is Sixth Straight For Cambridge And Nine Out Of Ten Starts; Win By Seven Boat Lengths

PUTNEY-ON-THAMES, March 23. (AP)—Cambridge outclassed Oxford in the centenary of the varsity boat race on the Thames today. A gallant light blue eight rowed superbly all the way to Mortlake to win by seven boat lengths. It was the sixth straight Cambridge victory, the ninth in ten starts since the war, and pulled the boatin from the Cam up to even terms with their rivals of the Issi for the first hundred years of inter-varsity rowing.

Oxford Track Team Goes Down In Defeat

STAMFORD BRIDGE, England, March 23. (AP)—Despite valiant efforts of two Americans, Oxford's track and field team was defeated by Cambridge in the 61st annual meeting of the two famous English universities here today. The score was seven firsts to four.

Two of Oxford's four firsts were the fruit of fine performanses by former American college stars.

Ritchie Sold To Indianapolis Club

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23. (AP)—Pete Ritchie former San Francisco Seals catcher, received word today that he had been purchased by Indianapolic of the American association. Ritchie was the property of Shreveport, but had refused to report to the Texas League club and was turned over to Indianapolis for $500. Ritchie will leave Monday for Sarasota, Fla., to join the association outfit in training.

French Net Star Wins Tennis Title

NEW YORK, March 23. (AP)—Jean Borotra, a gallic whirlwind in a blue beret, won the United States indoor tennis championship for France today. He fought off a gallant closing rally to defeat America's second ranking player, Frank Hunter, 6-4, 6-0. 4-6, 8-6, in a thrilling final match.

American players gained consolation in the doubles final when Hunter and his partner, Bill Tilden, who did not enter the singles, defeated Borotra and Watson Washburn of New York, 6-4, 6-2, 1-6, 6-2.

Boys Need More Parks, Say Vets

MELROSE, Mass., Mar. 23.—(AP)—Give the youngsters more baseball grounds so that they can develop themselves, say two city firemen here, and there will be more good ball players.

The two city firemen know whereof they speak, for one is Joe Harris, and the other is Dominick Mulrenan, both former big league pitchers and now fellow members of the fire fighting forces of the same community. They don't choose to talk a great deal about baseball, these veterans, but they are emphatic in their opinion that young lads who want to play baseball in Melrose and in other cities should have more playgrounds and better conditions for playing.

FROGS TRIM BILLIES

TCU Cops Fracas In 10th Inning From Goats

FORT WORTH, March 23. (AP)—Texas Christian university defeated Daniel Baker college of Brownwood here today in 10 innings. The Frogs went into extra innings when Daniel Baker hurlers couldn't locate the plate in the ninth inning.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Mar 23.—(AP)—Jock Cattell, 18 year old Jacksonville golfer, today won the annual winter amateur championship of Florida by defeating Harold Webber, Toledo, Ohio, 4 and 3 in the 36 hole final.

Bush Feels Strong Pitching Will Keep Club In Race

Pirate Manager Has Dedicated Third Year As Manager Of Pittsburgh To Repeating Performance Of 1927

Pittsburgh Pilot Bases His Hopes On Hard Hitting Team And Fine Hurling Corps

BY RUSSELL J. NEWLAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

PASO ROBLES, Cal., Mar. 23.—Donie Bush has dedicated his third year as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates to repeating what he did in 1927, namely, winning of the National league pennant.

The little leader, without making any exaggerated claims, indicates by inference that 1929 is a Pirate year.

Hitting Power

He bases his belief on a potentially hard hitting team and a fine pitching corps.

"The Pirates start this season with a stronger pitching staff than in 1927. To me it stacks up the equal of or better than any in the circuit.

"All of the men are in condition and we will open the season without a handicap so far as the pitching department is concerned. I am satisfied with the rest of the team.

"I feel that the cub that beats out the Pirates will win the pennant."

Three veterans — Burleigh, Grimes, Ray Kremer and Jess Petty—will carry the burden of the pitching attack. Carmen Hill and Lee Meadows, another pair of old timers, give evidence of attaining form approaching that of past years.

From half a dozen youngsters Bush feels sure he will recruit three more capable hurlers. Steve Swentonic, right hander, from Indianapolis, and Larry French, left hander, from Portland of the Coast league, have practically clinched twirling berths.

Bush says his outfield "will do until another comes along."

He is figuring, of course, that the Waner brothers, Paul and Lloyd will have settled their salary differences and joined the squad.

George Grantham, all round man, will hold down the other outfield berth.

Strong Infield

The infield will be cared for by Earl Shelly at first, Sparky Adams at second and Pie Traynor at either short or third.

The remaining position will be filled by one of three youngsters—Dick Bartell, Jim Stroner or Harry Riconda.

Charley Hargreaves and Ralston Hensley, the latter a peppery recruit, will handle the catching department.

used in talking about the men on his Washington club.

"Everyone told me," Southworth went on, "that I was falling into the hardest job in baseball when I accepted the promotion to St. Louis. Maybe it is a hard job. Any manager's job is not a cinch, but I took it. I am young and I have ambition.

"Baseball is my business and the only place for a ball player to be is in the major leagues. The minor leagues, for a man who has been up in the big time, is just a place where you work for a salary. To the rookies, with ambition, it is different, of course.

"I don't know what success I will have with the club. Perhaps I should put it that I don't know what success we are going to have because I intend to make a 'We' proposition out of the club. I think we have a very good ball club. I didn't see them last year. But I know that any club with as many good men as we have can win if they hustle, and I know we are going to hustle."

SPUDDERS GO WILD

WICHITA FALLS, Mar 23. (AP)—Spudder batters went on a rampage today, rapping 17 hits to defeat the Oklahoma City Indians of the Western League, 15 to 6, in their exhibition game.

Crouch and Turgeon smacked homers for the Spudders, and McKenna, Guppy and Dewey for Oklahoma City.

Batteries: Tubbs, Darrow, Horgans and Dewey; Payne, Smith and Crouch, Dewey.

CHICAGO, Mar. 23. (AP)—Two Illinois teams, an Indiana five and a Mississippi quintette today entered the semi-final round of the national Catcholic high school basketball tournament at Loyola University.

The four teams, survivors of the elimination play, which 32 teams started Thursday, were: Spalding, of Peoria, Ill., State Catholic champions; De La Salle of Chicago, runner-ups for the city title; Decatur Catholic high of Decatur, Ind., and St. Stanislaus of Bay St. Louis, Miss.

ROLLY WINS FOR CUBS

LOS ANGELES, March 23. (AP)—Blazing a seven-run rally in the ninth inning, the Chicago Cubs came from behind for an 11 to 8 victory over the Detroit Tigers, making it four straight wins, here today.

MEN'S ENSEMBLES

Paris stresses the ensemble for men's accessories. New angora knitted vests in a fine weave of beige and soft blues, have ties and handkerchiefs of crepe de chine that repeat the angora's pattern.

A scarf and handbag ensemble for smart spring use is made of royal blue shantung, hand-painted in squares of beige, vivid red and soft light blue.

Mary Horton, little daughter of Mrs. M. M. Horton of Lamesa, has returned to her home after being released Saturday from the Lubbock sanitarium.

Three Of A Kind—And Three Pairs

No, It's Not A New Kind Of Poker Hand; It's Twins Found Pursuing Knowledge At Texas Tech

Three of a kind—and three pairs.

Wouldn't that delight a poker player if the rules of the game made such a thing possible.

Out at Texas Tech, however, the rules permit such a situation and the student body and faculty alike are proud of it.

What are we talking about? Why three sets of twins, all pursuing knowledge at the state's youngest educational institution.

A perusal of the rolls at the college shows that the three sets of twins come in stair-steps, 18, 19 and 20 years old and that the girls are in power, for only one set is composed of boys. Two of the sets of twins are freshman students and the other set is composed of sophomores. Here they are:

Jessie and Jimmie Isom, twon daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Isom, of Idalou, 20-year-old sophomores, Baptists.

Dena and Lena Perkins, wards of Mrs. Lee Perkins, 2321 16th street, 18-year-old freshmen. Methodists.

Clyde and Claude Thompson, sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Thompson, 1812 7th street, 19-year-old freshmen. Methodists.

L. O. Moad Dies Of Gastric Poisoning

GALVESTON, March 23. (AP) — An autopsy last night revealed that Lewis O. Moad, 35, of Electra, found Wednesday night with his head hanging over the sea wall, died of gastric poisoning. The cause of the poisoning was undetermined and an examination of the stomach will be made.

Police have been unable to locate Moad's automobile which an unmailed letter to his wife said was in a garage for repairs. A legal representative for Mrs. Moad is investigating the death and the disappearance of the automobile. Moad's letter mentioned ill health and a proposed fishing trip but gave no hint of suicide.

GO TO SOME CHURCH TODAY

Down through the ages no institution has exerted a greater influence on humanity than the church. It stands for what is right in the relationship of individuals, states and nations. It is a living symbol of the life of Christ and His teachings. The individual who attends church in today's world not only recognizes one of the greatest forces for good, but gives to his fellow man a clear picture of his own character. He is supporting a great cause. The individual who attends church improves and indicates his character. Go to church somewhere today.

President Hoover Orders Mayflower Decommissioned

WASHINGTON, March 23. (AP) The presidential yacht Mayflower has been ordered decommissioned by President Hoover so that her officers and crew may be available for manning new warships and an annual savings of $300,000 in federal funds effected.

Although Mr. Hoover has been an extensive traveler, he has no particular liking for the sea and prefers fishing to yachting.

The cost of maintaining the ship has been $300,000 a year, a sum which Mr. Hoover feels the government could use advantageously in other ways. In addition, he believes that with new ships coming into the navy and with a consequent need for an increased personnel, the officers and crew of the Mayflower should be free for new assignments.

When President Roosevelt used his good offices to end the Russo-Japanese war, it was the Mayflower that carried envoys of the two countries to Portsmouth, N. H., for the negotiations and on board the ship at Oyster Bay they were presented to each other by the president.

President Wilson frequently rested on cruises down the Potomac and after his illness had an elevator installed on the ship.

RATES ARE UPHELD

Texas Steel Company Loses In Application

AUSTIN, Mar. 23. (AP)—Rates on manufactured steel fixed by the railroad commission were upheld in an instructed verdict here Friday in the suit brought by the Texas Steel company to prevent the order from applying to its product.

The company alleged that rates made by the commission denied it a basis for the general shipment of its manufactured products to Texas points in competition with out-of-state fabricators.

FIND IT AND MORE TOO

Still Found On Island As Boys Are Sought

GALVESTON, Mar. 23. (AP)—Finding what they had gone after and more too, police visiting Cat Island, near Galveston, in search of articles alleged to have been stolen by two boys, located a fully-equipped 50-gallon whiskey still. It was rigged up aboard a small launch.

The boys were arrested for theft, but no arrest was made in connection with the still.

HAVE TOUGH SLEDDING

Jurors To Be Picked From Business Houses

BEAUMONT, Mar. 23. (AP)—So-called "professional" jurors are to have hard sledding here from now on.

Under an edict of Sheriff W. W. Covington, jurors will be picked from business houses after the regular venire is exhausted. It has been the policy in the past to pick up persons on the street to serve on juries.

The sheriff said he will communicate with heads of business firms and allow them to name some one who can be spared from their companies for jury service. If this fails, he said, a deputy will be sent to subpoena the required jurors.

Spring Gives Gain To Retail Trading

NEW YORK, Mar. 23. (AP)—Bradstreet's today said:

Spring weather, anxiously awaited for some weeks, has been registered in a marked gain in retail trade; a perceptible stepping up in jobbing trade at secondary markets, and many times mentioned increases in the speed of operations in factories catering to Easter trade needs. This has occurred despite continued complaint of rain and flood damage in the southeast and eastern gulf states; a very high stage of water in the upper Mississippi and its tributaries, and reiteration of reports of bad roads, especially in central-western states, where wet soil conditions are a bar to agricultural operations, as, indeed, they still are in a wide area of the eastern and central south.

Collections are a shade better. Trade and industry alike return much better reports than a year ago at this date.

FIND OLD BAYONET

Rusty Old Weapon Found On Farm Near Galveston

GALVESTON, Mar. 23. (AP)—A rusty bayonet, with several inches of the point broken off and the hilt cracked, an instrument perhaps used in the days of Santa Anna or battles before or since his time, has been found on a farm near Alta Loma in Galveston county. The discovery was made by County Agent J. C. Yeary.

HANDLE VAST AMOUNT

Galveston Customs And Exports Are Large

GALVESTON, Mar. 23. (AP)—The Galveston customs district with exports handled valued at $713,135,268, ranked second in the United States in value of commerce conducted for the calendar year 1928, official statistics show.

The New York customs district stood first, and New Orleans third.

SELL GUINEA PIGS

Beaumont Zoo Realizes $50 Profit In Sales

BEAUMONT, Mar. 23. (AP)—Nature has come to the front in the matter of profits to the Beaumont zoo.

Moody And Marrs To Act On Books

AUSTIN, Mar. 23. (AP)—Governor Moody and S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction, within a few days will decide what disposition to make of awards recommended by the state textbook commission last October, Marrs said today.

Approval of the contracts, drawn up on the commission's recommendations, has been withheld pending investigation by the attorney general of prices paid by other states for textbooks. Under the Texas law, this state is forbidden from paying more for its texts than other states pay. The attorney's general's investigation showed that some of the publishers who were to receive contracts under the awards were selling texts to other states under the figure quoted Texas.

FORM GIANT POOL

Chicago Stock Exchange Creates Big Fund

CHICAGO, March 23. (AP)—The Herald and Examiner today said that a $40,000,000 pool is being raised to off-set the drastic forced calling of brokers loans by local banks acting under pressure from the Federal Reserve Board.

Ten million dollars of the pool was to be available today and the balance will be raised by Monday, the newspaper said. The pool is being raised by corporations whose stocks are listed on the Chicago stock exchange, out of town banks, and individuals.

The raising of the pool was disclosed last night, The Herald and Examiner said, at a conference between prominent bankers and governors of the exchange behind closed doors.

YOUR ATTENTION IS
Called to the two very best lots for the money in town. They are not such awfully high-powered stuff, that is they are not worth $1,000 each, but they are worth every dollar of $400 each cash money, and we can sell them to you at $325. You will like the location.
Have a dandy good seven room brick all complete in the Ellwood Place, with equity of about $2,000 to exchange for raw or improved farm land. You can get a good trade here.
We call your attention to what we believe is the best purchase of a medium priced home in Lubbock. It is on Avenue Q between 8th and 9th. It faces east on pavement, pavement paid. The lot is unusually large, 55 by 148 feet, plenty of room for the home as it stands and also for a suburban store of any kind, and on account of its location it is well worth $4,250.

$3,150.00

will buy it, and while it takes a little money to handle it on account of its reduced price, still that operates to make the buyer's profit that much larger. Take it from us; Avenue Q property is a good buy, if bought right. Come to see us.

Stocks Go Into Gentle Retreat On Wall Street

Increasing cloudiness Of Credit Outlook Throws Market Into Orderly Retreat Saturday

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Mar. 23.—(AP)—The increasing cloudiness of the credit outlook, with another meeting of the Federal Reserve Board in Washington today, threw the stock market into a general but orderly retreat.

Selling was heavy throughout the two-hour session, and scores of representative issues were depressed 2 to 5 points, many reaching new low prices for 1929. The Associated Press index of 50 leading industrials sagged more than 3 points, making a loss for the week of nearly 9 points, and the index of 20 rails dropped nearly a point to a new low for the year. Trading was moderately active for a Saturday session, with total sales aggregating 2,144,520 shbares.

Wall Street has grown extremely easy over the frequent meetings of the Federal Reserve Board. Sharp break on the Chicago stock exchange, attributed to Federal Reserve pressure against Chicago member banks, was interpreted as indicating that the reserve officials are prepared to take drastic measures, although no changes have yet been made in the reidscount rate.

A severe test is predicted for the money market next week, as preparations are made for the April 1 quarterly disbursements. The demand for funds at the end of the first quarter is usually the heaviest of the year, save for the year-end. April 1 disbursements last year were estimated at more than $500,000,000, and they are expected to run much higher this year. The call money rate touched 10 per cent this week on light calling of loans, so considerable uneasiness is felt over the possible flights of the rate next week.

Daily Markets

MID-WESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Mar. 23. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Cattle trade this week around the 11-market circuit was featured by further price upturns on the lighter weights of fed steers and yearlings, some centers reporting gains of 25 to 50c on light yearlings. Low grade steers of lightweight occupied especially strong position. Demand remained narrow for medium weight and heavy steers, with weak to lower values prevailing at markets where this contingent formed a fair proportion of the supply. A liberal movement of dairy calves at northern livestock centers prompted sharp declines on vealers, prices on this class previously having been relatively high. Stockers and feeders ruled unevenly higher with country demand broad for thin light weight stockers. Aggregate receipts were around 180,609 as compared with 163,099 last week and 168,506 the corresponding period a year ago.

Prices Of Cotton Goes Off Slightly On Gotham Market

NEW YORK, Mar. 23. — (AP) — Moderate demand, promoted by rain reports from the Eastern belt and firm Liverpool cables, was supplied by continued realizing or liquidation in cotton today, selling appeared to be influenced by the action of the stock and grain markets and expectations of improving weather over the week end. May contracts sold off from 20.85 to 20.72 and closed at 20.80. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 1 to 5 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 6 points to a decline of 3 points. Near months were higher on covering and some local buying. This demand was encouraged by the showing of Liverpool, a favorable view of week-end reports from the cotton goods trade and reports of further rains in Eastern belt sections, where dry weather is believed to be urgently needed.

Demand was in comparatively moderate volume, however, and was readily supplied by selling, attributed to renewed liquidation or realizing on long accounts. A little southern selling also was reported and prices soon eased off from 20.35 to 20.23 for July and from 20.15 to 20.05 for the new October contract.

This seemed sufficient to attract some profit taking by recent sellers, while offerings tapered off somewhat and fluctuations later in the morning were rather irregular. Week-end covering was sufficient to cause rallies but they were not fully maintained. The close was within 4 to 8 points of the lowest.

Mixed Loads Are Brought In Texas

FORT WORTH, Mar. 23.—(AP)—Saturday's cattle market here was of little consequence as well as light volume as trading limited to mixed loads of rather common quality. Buyers cleaned the yards at an early hour at values in line with yesterday's quotations.

No steers included in the day's trading and only a few head of bulls. The better bulls sold at 8.00 to 8.50 and the light commons around 7.00.

Trade in cows limited to package lots. Canners and cutters sold mostly at 5.25 to 6.25 and butcher and beef cows at 6.50 to 8.75.

A few lots of rather common slaughter heifers changed hands at steady values with most sales in the 9.00 notch.

Calves sold fully steady with the week's advance and at prices that showed a spread at 7.00 to 12.00. Bulk of the cull calves cleared around 3.00 while a few of the better heavy calves sold at 11.25 to 12.00.

Stocker cattle lacking in the day's trade except for an occasional small package. They sold at unchanged values from those in effect yesterday.

Sheep steady with two decks of fall shorn feeder lambs, yearlings and wethers at 9.25 to 13.25.

Hogs steady to fifteen cents lower, rail hogs showing the decline. Rail top was 10.85, with no hogs of a good kind offered. Best truck, butchers sold at 10.40; bulk 175-250 pound averages at 10.20 to 10.85; packing sows at 8.50 to 9.50.

Influenza germs are blue. Those of pneumonia look like strings of minute pale sausages and those of scarlet fever like ropes of scarlet rings, under a microscope

Cotton Prices Seek Low Levels On Orleans Board

NEW ORLEANS, Mar. 23.—(AP)—Continued liquidation induced by yesterday's report of a larger crop prediction by the department of agriculture caused cotton prices to seek lower levels today. Some covering for over the week-end checked the decline for a time but the market weakened again in late trading and July dropped to 20.03 and closed at 20.07, or 7 points net lower. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 7 to 10 points.

The market appeared to be still under the influence of the report issued yesterday that the department of agriculture repredicted larger acreage and crop for this season, despite the department's emphatic denial of the issuance of any such report.

Prospects for favorable weather in the belt added to the selling which ultimately carried May off to 19.99, July 20.03 and October 19.88, or 11 to 13 points under the previous close. Offerings were absorbed at the decline by shorts covering for over the week-end and prices rallied 9 to 12 points from the lows but the market weakened again in final trading under renewed liquidation, losing 6 to 8 points of the gain. May closed at 20.03 and October 19.91.

Thousands To Be On Hand To Help With Ceremonial

New Floyd County Town To Show World How Progress Is Had On The South Plains Of Texas

BY ED BISHOP
Floydada Correspondent

FLOYDADA, March 22.—With between 1500 and 2,000 friends from South Plains towns as their guests the citizens of Dougherty, newest town on the new rail lines in this section, will celebrate its first birthday next Tuesday, March 26 with a huge barbecue and an all day celebration. Plans for the big event were completed at a meeting of the Dougherty Chamber of Commerce recently and invitations were sent to all Chambers of Commerce in this section by Miss Lottie Ellison, secretary.

Committees for the birthday celebration were named at the chamber meeting and have been earnestly at work perfecting their plans The entertainment committee is composed of J. E. Newton, Bob Spence, L. L. Collins, and Frank Dougherty. E. S. Foster and O. L. Britton have charge of the advertising and the finance committee is composed of Walter Newell, J. N. Brownlow and J. L. Bradley, Arragnements for the grounds are bein gmade by G. C. Brister, Buck Brownlow and W. E. Oden.

Growth Is Wonderful

That within a year's time a town can develop from a wide open space on the prairie to a rapidly growing trade center, with a city plan, fire limits and protection, sanitary restrictions, water system, telephone system, graded streets, can hardly be realized yet this is true of Dougherty. The town was organized by Frank Dougherty of Fort Worth, who has large holdings in this particular section of Floyd county, and its growth has been watched with interest by South Plains people.

Embracing approximately 350 square miles of trade territory in which the farmers produce a large portion of the wheat rasied in this county and much of the cotton. Dougherty has every indication of developing into a real West Texas town. During the past season there have been 1473 bales of cotton shipped from the Dougherty station and there are 222 more on the cotton yard, according to O. L. Britton, agent for the Quanah, Acme and Pacific railway company, which serves the town.

Is Well Developed

Two grain elevators, one cotton gin, two brick business houses and a number of frame and stucco business establishments, two lumber yards, one brick veneer residence and a large number of frame and stucco homes, represent the town at the present. The Quanah, Acme and Pacific has spent a large amount of money on improvements in Dougherty and have one of the neatest railroad stations seen on their line.

Dougherty is seventeen miles east of Floydada and is connected with the county seat by a highway and railroad.

Woman Kills Ohio Priest In Church

Mrs. Mamie Guerrieri, 27, of Canton, Ohio, who has admitted, according to police, the fatal shooting of Father Joseph A. Riccardi, 32, pastor of St. Anthony's Catholic church at Canton, is pictured at the top with her baby. The shooting occurred in the church. Below are Mrs. Guerrieri's daughter. Palmena whom the mother said was mistreated at the parochial school, and Father Riccardi. A physician, to whom Mrs. Guerrieri said she had taken the child for examination, said no evidence of mistreatment had been found.

Airplanes Not So Dangerous, Wreck Figures Indicate

Fifty-one Texans Killed, 287 Injured During Week Of March 8 to 15, Safety Survey Shows

DESPITE all the talk about airplanes accidents, the air was as safe as the home parlor in Texas during the week of March 8 to 15.

A total of 51 persons were killed and 287 were injured in the state from accidents of all descriptions during the week.

The automobile snuffed out the lives of nine and injured 161. Grade crossing accidents claimed six lives and injured ten. Interurbans and street cars killed three and injured five. The airplane had a clear record with none killed and none injured.

Burns Claim Seven

Burns claimed seven lives, and injured seventeen. One died from a fall and fifteen were injured in the same way. One person was drowned, five were killed by firearms and two died from explosives. Other causes claimed seventeen lives and injured seventy-two.

Of the total of casualties seventeen were injured and six killed in home accidents; eighteen injured and seven killed in industrial mishaps.

"Safety First" in application is sorely needed in Texas if the figures mean anything. From January 1, 1929 to date there have been 426 deaths and 267 injuries and for a corresponding date last year 317 deaths and 1276 injured.

Lubbock's Vast Trade Territory, Stretching Off In All Directions, Pleasing To Business People

By MRS. W. A. McGEE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

IF THERE are those who are skeptical as to Lubbock's rating as a trade center, their skepticism will fade like a vapor before the morning sun, if the statements of a number of the city's business men and women are to be considered authoritative.

Speaking on the question of the trade territory for "Lubbock, the Hub of the Plains," these men see no reason why in 1934 Lubbock's population should be less than 50,000. With the spirit of cooperation thus far manifested through the citizens, and the volume of business received from the entire South Plains, there seems no doubt about Lubbock becoming the metropolis of the Plains.

Must Merit Business

J. W. Gamel, of the Minter-Gamel Dry Goods company, when asked regarding where their business come from, declared, "We have checks from Plainview, Floydada, Lockney, Brownfield, Tatum, N. M., and other towns covering a radius of some sixty-odd miles. Of course, we often get trade beyond these points, while our regular trade territory extends to Post, Lamesa, Plainview, Brownfield and Littlefield. Checks we receive reveal the figures that 35 per cent of our business comes from neighboring towns within a radius of 25 to 35 miles. These customers as a rule buy much larger bills at a time than do our customers who live in or near Lubbock, for they do not come to town as often. To our way of thinking, Lubbock is the best trading center on the entire South Plains, and growing all the while. These people who come here to trade do not owe us anything, therefore, we must merit a share of their business."

According to C. E. Gough, of the Gough Motor company, "We draw our trade from Roswell, Carlsbad, and Clovis, N. M., on the west; trade comes to us from as far as Midland and Big Spring on the south; as far as Amarillo on the north and as far as Abilene on the east. This represents business both wholesale and retail. As to what we think of Lubbock as a trading 'Hub' we think it is that already and that it is growing constantly and steadily, but not in a 'mushroom way.' We think it will be a distributing point for all kinds of merchandise, and even though we have only been in business here for six months, we can see a steady growth."

City Once Antelope's Home.

C. E. Hunt, business manager of the Lubbock Sanitarium, explained when asked regarding the territory from which their patients come. "We've had patients from 10 to 12 different states in the union and some from Old Mexico. We've had them come all the way from Chicago; and from many points in South Texas, quite frequently. Our regular business comes however, from a radius of 125 miles. Considering patients, and relatives or friends that accompany them, we average daily fifty out-of-town patients, who have an average of two relatives or friends with each, thus we feel that we are directly responsible for 150 people here all the while. I'm speaking of patients who come from outside of Lubbock county. Personally, I have seen Lubbock grow from an antelope race

"Si, Senor, There Is A Revolution"

But The Mexican Bartenders At Villa Acuna, Just Over The Border From Del Rio, Can't Be Worried

(The following article was written by a Lubbock resident who has just returned from a visit to Villa Acuna, Mexican border town, adjoining Del Rio, Texas.

"The revolution?"

Oh, yes, Julio Gonzales, sleek-haired waiter at Mrs. Crosby's cabaret in Villa Acuna, Coahuila, Mexico, has heard about it. He reads about it now and then in the newspapers and occasional travelers arriving at that border town bring stories of fighting and bloodshed in the interior. But:

Not Bothered Much

"We're not bothered," Julio says. "It doesn't affect us. We don't care, much, how it comes out."

Although to the west in the same state, rival armies of the federal forces and rebels are converging into what is expected to be a decisive battle, sleepy Villa Acuna, located across from Del Rio, Texas, is unperturbed.

Lazy peons still loll about the mud huts that line the narrow and bumpy thoroughfares of the little town. Sleepy peasants still drive their burros to farms nearby. The saloonkeeper with the scar over his eye still shines the ivory bar and asks if it will be a Ramos gin-fizz or a Tom-and-Jerry. Tourists still throng the cabarets, the restaurants —and chiefly, the saloons. The chief topic of conversation remains the Easter bull fight and dirty urchins still chatter in the streets.

They Don't Worry.

At Villa Acuna, one terminus of an international bridge, the populace is perhaps less perturbed over internecine tumult than are their neighbors across the lazy Rio Grande in Del Rio.

A government, or federal agent, inspects one carefully on the Mexican side of the bridge and it is dangerous to possess any sort of firearm.

The tourist can't help but get a creeping feeling when of the these Mexicans, outfitted in a battery of pocket artillery, gives him a sidewise glance and he realizes that the "law and order" were left on the Texas side of the river.

Revolt Is Unpopular.

The revolution is rather unpopular with the populace at Villa Acuna. It hurts business, because tourists stay away from the border. Not only that but it means more taxes whichever way the tide of victory may turn. If the federals win it means more levies to foot the bill of downing Escobar and his sombreroed hosts. If Escobar is victorious, it means they will seek to replenish their yawning treasury by a heavy tax.

In the end, say the mustached residents of Villa Acuna, the people have to pay for all the fun.

Villa Acuna is practically unaffected by the war. A few of the more adventourous citizenry have gone to Torreon, Chihuahua, Juarez and other points of strategic mili-

Blind Co-Ed Near Top of Classes

AUSTIN, March 23. (AP).—A blind University of Texas co-ed, Tina Lou Wallace, ranked among the 59 students making the highest scholastic averages for the first semester of this college year.

Miss Wallace, who intends to become in instructor in Spanish, believes that her report card might have been better.

"I don't study as hard as I might," she said, "because I like to get out in the open so much."

She lost the use of her eyes when six years old.

DIET STOPS DIVORCE

BALTIMORE.—More lime in the diet will stop divorces, according to Dr. George Walker. Absence of lime in the diet makes women nervous and men cruel, causing family difficulties, he says. A pint of milk every day for two weeks and two oranges, eaten by a wife and husband threatened by divorce, will straighten matter out.

College "T" Club Dance On Friday Is Outstanding Social Occasion At Tech And Many Former Students Guests

College Gymnasium Scene Of Dance Friday When Organizaton Entertains; About 200 Attend

Under a canopy of blue, bordered by myriad ribbons of red and black, and under the light of a fiery "T" which flashed on and off at intervals, some two hundred young people enjoyed the annual dance of the Texas Tech "T" club at the college gymnasium last night.

Dozens of former Texas Tech athletes and lettermen from out of town were in the city for the event and the dance will undoubtedly go down as one of the the high spots on the college entertainment calendar.

Club members wore scarlet "T's" on their coat lapels to distinguish them from the guests.

Leads Grand March

The grand march was led by Dennis Vinzant, president of the club with Miss Ruby Kennedy. Only members of the club participated in the march. Chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Stiles, Mr. and Mrs. V. Lorenz Ellis and Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Higginbotham.

Newell Hughes' Collegians played for the affair.

In addition to Vinzant, officials of the club are Carl Peterson, vice-president; Buddy Brothers, secretary; and Red Waller, reporter. Committees in charge of decorations was Ameral Payne, Glenn Coppage, Red Waller; invitations, Bruce Reed and Wilburn Eddlemon; music, Chubby De Witt, Sid Knowles, and Wilson McKirahan.

HONOR VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. Griffith Are Hosts To Cluy

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Caldwell, who are guests of Mrs. Caldwell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wilson, were named honor guests Friday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Frank Griffith entertained La Novia club in their home at 1629 Avenue Y.

The Easter motif was prettily carried out and plate favors were candy chickens. The honor guests received a favor, high scores were made by Claxton Draper and Mrs. Marlin R. Smith, jr. Mrs. Draper's score was low.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Draper, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Hale, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Lorenz Ellis and Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell.

MOONLIGHT PICNIC

Group Enjoys Picnic Friday At Buffalo Springs

Misses Clarice Adcock, Rachel Campbell and Allene Law entertained Friday evening with a moonlight picnic at Buffalo Springs, inviting several of their friends. Boat riding, music, dancing and other diversions were enjoyed during the evening and a picnic lunch was spread.

Chaperones were C. H. Willingham and Miss Mary McAnulty.

New Fiction Will Interest Readers Of Library Books

County Librarian Lists New Volumes That Have Been Received Recently For County Stacks

Volumes of fiction received at the County Library during the last two weeks represent types of stories to appeal to the various readers who patronize the institution, according to a report sent out by Mrs. Lyster Armstrong who is acting libarian during the absence of Miss Frances Hoyt Ford.

Short reviews of the books have been included with the list which follows:

"The Murder at Sea," by Richard Connell is an interesting mystery story that is different.

"My Dear" by May Edington, a simple love story, the kind everyone enjoys.

"Two Black Crows In the A. E. F.," by Chas. Mack. The adventures of the Two Black Crows in the war, with plenty of new wise cracks.

"The Father," by Katherine Holland Brown is a prize novel. It is a story of a father and his motherless children, written during the time of Abraham Lincoln.

"On Sweetwater Creek," by Conner. This author who has thrilled young and old in her previous novel has chosen the romantic setting of the early West for her second novel.

"Golobeddes Lane," by Bower certainly the discriminating will welcome this book. A novel of fine texture far beyond ordinary conception, of sustained feeling, of a sure and generous hand, with deft touches of pathos, humor and irony all in one story.

"Accident," by Arnold Bennett. Arnold Bennett this time writes a fine, slightly ironical, humorously tolerant story of human beings.

Apricot Blossoms Set Pretty Motif For Tea Saturday

Missionary Society Women Entertain Yesterday In Home Of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Dow, Broadway

Apricot blossoms set a pretty motif for a tea yesterday afternoon when women in District 4 of the First Methodist W. M. S. entertained in the home of Mrs. James L. Dow, 2003 Broadway. This was a silver tea and proceeds will be used in district activities.

A program was given during the afternoon and light refreshments were dispensed from a table which was centered with fern and Easter lilies and laid with silver and cut glass. White and green were featured in candles and other appointments and sprigs of apricot blossoms were plate favors.

Mrs. Smith At Door

Mrs. E. M. Smith, circle chairman greeted guests at the door and women in the circle were hostesses in the house with Mrs. Dow, Hrs. H. L. Munger, Mrs. D. B. Doak and Mrs. R. T. Campbell.

Tea was poured by Mrs. J. R. B. Cooper, Mrs. M. M. Dupre, Mrs. L. S. Mast, and Mrs. F. A. Norman.

The program consisted of the following selections: reading, Mollie Davis; vocal solo, Mrs. E. B. Wheelock, accompanied by Mrs. John Jarrott; piano selection, Alice Claire Teague; reading, Caroline Spencer; vocal solo, Mrs. Munger, accompanied by Mrs. Will Tucker; instrumental duet, John Gerald and Gwendolyn Thompson; piano solo, Miss Sue Brown; vocal solo, Lynn Grey Gordon; reading, Mrs. T. A. White; piano solo, Miss Jane Mast; vocal solo, Miss D'Aunn Sammons, accompanied by Miss Mast.

Lace Rules Trousseau For Easter As Betrimmed Clothes Are Shown

A Paris bridal gown features a deep flounce and wide, full sleeves of rich, Duchesse lace. Bridal slippers from Shoecraft Salon make much of lace. (Upper inset) A rich brocaded pump has a lacy design and a lace scallop trim in silver lizard. (Lower left) Fine Alencon lace makes the vamp and heel of a white satin slipper. (Right) The Colonial pump walks to the altar ornamented by a pearl inlaid heel and a buckle of lace outlined in pearls. The wedding handkerchief, hose and cornet are lacy, too.

BY JULIA BLANSHARD
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, March 23—The Easter trousseau this spring is the epitome of the new elegance and luxuriousness in styles.

A year ago the Easter bride was chic when she went in for modernistic severity. Things were untrimmed, depending on line, fabric and cut for smartness.

This year the Easter bride revels in the most feminine and much betrimmed clothes. Specifically, there is a return to lace that will delight the heart of the most up-to-date woman.

The Lacy Way to the Altar

Lace completely conquers the Easter trousseau with its profusion and beauty. The bridal gown itself often uses handsome and priceless lace for flounces, sleeves and other decorations. The lace cap is one of the most popular of Easter bridal veil arrangements. And the bride who has an heirloom lace veil can call herself lucky.

It is in the realm of accessories for the bride that the rout of the untrimmed is noted. Every bit of bridal lingerie has its own lace trim. The old-fashioned molded silhouette, the princess line as it is now called, is prevalent, and every princess envelope chemise ,nightgown, slip or step-in set has its flounce or its godets of lace. Girdles and new, decorative corsets for the bride use lase, also, in their composition.

Sneezing Etiquet

The lace handkerchief is imperative. A bride who sneezes into a wisp of plain linen, no matter how wispy and fine, is not up-to-date. It should be a lace dainty. Hosiery for the bride has had a way of using lace clox or a touch of lace. This year exquisite sheer wedding hosiery weaves priceless laces right into its texture and the correct pair has its whole instep a cobwebby thing of beauty.

Garters that top these stockings are just as meticulous in their fashioning.

Wedding Of Local Couple Announced

Miss Adline Bellah and F. Higbee Are Married Last Sunday In Ceremony At Slaton

Announcement was made yesterday of the marriage of Miss Adline Bellah and Fred E. Higbee, both of this city, in Slaton last Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock with the Methodist minister, Reverend Webb, of that city officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Higbee are at home at 1913 15th Street.

Both the bride and groom have been living in Lubbock and have been members of the local post office staff for several years. They have many friends in this section.

The groom's father, who was for many years postmaster at Slaton, named that town when it was organized. His mother lives at Slaton.

The bride was formerly a member of the public schools faculty here.

BYPU SCHOOL CLOSES

Federation Committees Named By Mrs. H. Jones

Themes for the County Federation program during 1929 and committees in the organization were announced yesterday by Mrs. Hub Jones of this city, president of the society.

A semi-annual meeting of the Federation is to be in Slaton on April 27, and club women of that city will be hostesses. Meetings probably will be conducted in the Methodist church there and lunch is to be served in the Slaton club house.

A rural beautification program is to be continued in the Federation this year and Mrs. R. A. Baldwin of Slaton, past president of the organization, is chairman of the committee in charge of this phase. Her assistants are Mrs. M. A. Pember of Slaton, Mrs. J. C. Stanford of Southwest Ward and Mrs. R. A. Powell of Becton.

Emphasize Marketing

The other item to be stressed in the year's program is cooperative marketing and Miss Mae Murfee of this city is chairman of the committee working toward this end. Others on the committee are Miss Louise Baird, county home demonstration agent, Mrs. J. M. Segave and Mrs. S. H. Adams of Slaton.

A market probably will be started in Slaton in the near future and some marketing is being done in Lubbock. Such a market has been repeatedly discussed in the Federation.

Other committees that have been named by Mrs. Jones include one for the revision of the constitution and by-laws, a program committee, a press and publicity committee and a good roads committee.

Mrs. Kimbro Chairman

Mrs. H. T. Kimbro is chairman of the constitution and by-laws group and her assistants are Mrs. W. H. Meador and Mrs. J. S. Johnson.

Mrs. A. L. Robertson of Slaton is chairman of the program committee and she is to be assisted by Mrs. W. B. Price of this city.

With Mrs. James H. Goodman of Lubbock as chairman, the good roads committee is made up of Mrs. J. C. Granbery and Mrs. G. C. Wolffarth of Lubbock and Mrs. Douglas Pounds of Acuff. Miss Blanche Bean is chairman of the press and publicity committee.

E. L. Robertson, manager of the City Drug stores here, has returned from a convention of Rexall druggists, held in Dallas. Mr. Robertson also stopped by Ranger, for the District Rotary conference, enroute home.

Sometimes in the fairytales which lurk between red and purple and gay orange covers, the fairy prince marries the kitchen wench because he sees the beauty in all her rags and ashes, needing but the fairy prince's gold for lovely gowns and jewels in order to bring forth in all its dazzling splendor.

But it sometimes looks—in real life—as if the fairy prince always marries the fairy princess who already has all those things which the kitchen wench thinks would make a life—money and clothes and jewels and education and good times and friends and love and high station.

Let us observe for instance, some of our nation's erstwhile most eligible bachelors and their recent capitulations to Cupid.

John Coolidge, the ex-president's son, is betrothed to the daughter of a governor. Miss Florence Trumbull, evidently doesn't have to worry about punching a time clock, nor whether she can find another $15-a-week typing job if she loses the one she has. She has probably never needed to decide between a spring hat and a new umbrella, nor bought her winter coat because, though not really pretty, she could "make it do" three or four years.

TO BE ENVIED

In fact, most Helens and Jeans of the ribbon counter or the punch press would decide that Miss Florence Trumbull was quite to be envied even without "copping" a president's son.

Some of you may remember Gene Tunney, once heavyweight champion of the world, though he is doing his best, what not, to make the world forget that he's anybody of importance (except when he gets pay for a testimonial or radio appearance). Gene married one Miss Polly Lauder, heiress to millions, another girl whom lesser girls would say was supremely blessed even without marrying handsome, rich and world-famous Gene.

And now—the hero and God divine of them all, Col. Charles Lindbergh himself, "Lucky Lindy," is to wed to Miss Anne Spencer Morrow, daughter of Dwight Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, a man of Wall street, millioned to an nth degree, with all the fairy tale gifts that station of name and wealth can give.

So, here you are, three of the world's most eligible young men engaged or married to three of the world's most matrimonially eligible young ladies!

So many observations could be made. No doubt there are many who, reading of these romances in the day's news, made comment to the effect that: "You men are smart these days. They pick for wives the girls that can do them the most good as wives—girls with money, name, social station, connections that will advance them to the highest pinnacle."

There's no use evading the fact that, beloved as "Lucky Lindy" is, there have been several rather bitter comments made to the effect that he didn't dare choose romance and love in place of "the best marriage."

There are doubtless thousands who reflect that Lindy probably has or probably could love some humble little girl as remote from the place in the world of an Anne Morrow as Texas Guinan is from Queen Mary.

But it is equally true that love flowers from propinquity, and that the very stations in life of the John Coolidges and Gene Tunneys and Colonel Lindberghs have naturally thrown them with the Florence Trumbulls and Polly Lauders and Anne Morrows more than with girls of lesser rank.

Let's believe, anyway, that real romance of the story book kind and not calculated wisdom and caution, motivates the Colonel's "flyer."

Mesdames Ragland And Gammill Are Bridge Hostesses

Spring Blossoms Contribute To Pretty Party Given Yesterday Afternoon By Two Hostesses

A delightful party was given yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Clayton Gammill and Mrs. Lee Ragland entertained with bridge in the home of the latter hostess at 2912 21st Street.

Sweetpeas, snapdragons carnations and Easter lilies contributed a spring note to the decorations for this affair and green and yellow predominated in table covers and other appointments. After the games, guests went to the dining room for lunch baskets which were tied with green and yellow tulle and filled with a delicious collation.

Bridge tallies were in the form of hat boxes and Easter favors were found in the lunch baskets.

Table cut favors were Italian lace handkerchiefs and high score prize was maderia napkins.

Bridge guests were Mesdames J. C. Powell, S. E. Cone, O. L. Nislar, Earl Moore, T. H. Carter, T. G. Waldrip of Lamesa, E. E. Swindell, M. C. Butler, Rhodes Ingerton, D. D. Cross, R. E. Nabors, W. E. ## Program Arrangements Continuing For Annual Sessions Of Seventh Club District In Snyder; Theme Announced

Plans For Meet

MRS. F. T. COLLINS

Arrangements for the annual meeting of clubs in the seventh district of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs are being perfected now through the direction of Mrs. F. T. Collins, of Amarillo, the president.

Mrs. F. T. Collins And Mrs. J. E. Griggs Send Letter To Club Women Telling Of Arrangements

AS PROGRAM plans continue for the seventh district meeting of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs to be held in Snyder on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 25, 26 and 27, interest in the meeting increases.

Local clubs continue to elect delegates to the meeting and it is probable that there will be an unusually large attendance because of the proximity of the meeting place.

Mrs. F. T. Collins of Amarillo, who is district president, and Mrs. J. E. Griggs of this city, secretary, are sending letters to various women in this eighth annual convention. The program is yet to be arranged.

Theme Is Set

With a theme of "Thinking, Planning, Building," this meeting will be of unusual interest, Mrs. Collins thinks, and she is asking that each club send at least one representative to the meeting.

The formal opening will be at 2:30 o'clock on the afternoon of April 25 and the convention is to adjourn at noon on Saturday.

All members of the board are requested to arrive in time for a luncheon at 12 o'clock on the first day and the presidents' dinner will be at 6 o'clock on Friday evening. A number of other specialties have been arranged for.

Miss Dorothy Greathouse, noted opera singer, is to be on the program on fine arts evening; there is to be an "Every Woman's" breakfast in honor of every club woman in the district, "expressing in a small way our appreciation for the contribution each one has made to the civic, social and cultural side of life in this great area which we love to call seventh district," according to the officers.

There is to be an annual singing contest and a number of other features.

To Elect Officers

One feature that is adding interest to the convention this spring is the election of officers.

Mrs. J. V. Connor has announced that an invitation will be extended at this meeting from Lubbock and the seventh district inviting the State Federation of Women's clubs to meet in Lubbock in 1930. This invitation will be further extended next fall when the organization has an annual meeting in Mineral Wells. Amarillo has been added recently to the list of towns which promise to support Lubbock in seeking this meeting, according to word received from Mrs. Collins.

Names of those who are to attend the Snyder meeting are to be sent to Mrs. Dixie Smith of Snyder who is chairman of the homes committee in that city.

Select Speakers For Annual Meet Of PTA District

Local School People Will Be On Program At Annual Meeting of Fourteenth District P.T.A.

Although a complete program is not yet available, speakers have been announced for the annual meeting of the fourteenth district P.-T. A., which is to be in Floydada April 8, 9 and 10. Mrs. J. E. Griggs, president of the district, who is now visiting in Amarillo, has sent letters to presidents of clubs and district officers urging attendance at the meeting.

A list of the speakers includes Mrs. Noyes Darling Smith, president of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations, Mrs. F. T. Collins of Amarillo, president of the seventh district Texas Federation of Women's clubs; Dr. A. W. Evans, head of the department of education at Technological college; Dr. R. P. Jarrett, West Texas State Teachers college, Canyon; M. H. Duncan, superintendent of city schools, Lubbock; Jessie T. Nicholas, U. S. department of census; Mrs. Emanuel Toomin, state director of humane education; Miss Mae Murfee, superintendent of Lubbock county schools; Rev. O'Brien, pastor of the Baptist church, Floydada; Mrs. J. I. Kendrick of Amarillo, fourth vice-president of the Texas congress.

All meetings are to be held in the Floydada Baptist church.

Reports and recommendations are to be given by all officers, directors of departments are to hold conferences and local club reports will be followed by round-table discussions, according to Mrs. Griggs.

Even though an association does not send a delegate, reports are to be sent to the annual meeting and blanks have been sent to presidents for this purpose. Names of delegates and credential cards are to be sent to Mrs. Lon V. Davis of Floydada.

HUSBANDS GUESTS

Special Services Are Planned In Lubbock Churches For Observance Of Easter In City

Baptismal Services To Be Features Of Sunday Morning Programs Here Easter; Musical Specialties Planned

Pre-Easter Revival To Be Conducted This Week In Presbyterian Church By Rev. Jack Lewis

SPECIAL music, baptismal services and sermons are to feature Easter services at local churches next Sunday although few of the programs have been definitely planned at this time.

Some of the churches have established customs which determine the Easter observances.

Pre-Easter Revival

A pre-Easter revival is to be conducted at the First Presbyterian church this week with sermons each evening at 8 o'clock to be preached by the pastor, Dr. Jack M. Lewis. Dean J. M. Gordon will be in charge of the music and there will be specialties each evening.

A special effort is to be made during this revival to reach all new members of the congregation here.

An Easter baptismal service will be conducted next Sunday morning and a special program will be given during the Sunday school hour.

Choir To Sing

Regular services will be conducted at the First Baptist church next Sunday and an anthem, "As It Began to Dawn" by Stults will be sung at the morning preaching service by the choir under the direction of J. D. Carroll. Easter sermons will be preached.

Mrs. Elbert Smith is in charge of a special musical program to be presented during the Sunday school hour at the 19th Street Methodist church on Easter and Rev. G. P. McCollom, pastor of the church, is preparing Easter sermons for the morning and evening services.

An orchestra which has been recently organized in this church is to play at both services and there will be a baptismal service in the morning.

Stress Attendance

The First Christian church has set a goal of 500 to attend Sunday school on Easter Sunday and there will be a special program at this time. Mrs. Joe Coursey and the church choir is arranging music for the morning preaching hour.

Infants are to be baptized at the beginning of the 11 o'clock preaching service at the First Methodist church, according to a custom observed yearly, and a class from the Sunday school is to be received into church membership. This will follow a decision day service today.

An Easter sermon will be preached in the morning and the church pastor, Rev. H. L. Munger, will make a short talk in the evening following a cantata which is to be given by the choir under the direction of C. J. Atchison.

Easter is to be a full days at St. Paul's Episcopal church, according to the rector, Rev. L. G. H. Williams. The church will be decorated for the occasion. There will be holy communion at 8 o'clock in the morning and a Sunday school festival at 10 o'clock is to be the feature program of the day.

At this time there will be a full choir, all mite boxes with lenten offerings will be returned, Easter carols will be sung and there will be a banner procession with the building of a floral cross.

A full service will be at 11 o'clock in the morning and there is to be a Sunday school pageant with special music at 8 o'clock in the evening.

TWO NEW MEMBERS

Hardy Demonstration Club In Meeting On Friday

Two new members were in attendance Friday afternoon when the Hardy Women's club met with Mrs F. Y. Henderson. The new members were Mesdames W. A. Fearrell and Miss Winnie Belle Fearrell. Mrs. Woodruff was leader of the program.

Baby Is Now Wise

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last article of a series on "Your Baby from Week to Week," which Olive Roberts Barton, noted authority on children, has written for the Avalanche and NEA Service.

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
NEA Service Writer

Children from one to three years old are the most interesting people in the world.

I heard a mother say to a friend the other day, "So your little boy is learning to walk. Well — I'm sorry for you! From one to three is the most troublesome age. He will be into everything."

It all depends on the point of view. Of course he is "troublesome," for it is his great period of investigation, and he is learning facts about this big world.

In a detached way he is storing up all sorts of information and impressions in his mind. "Objective relationship" is the keynote of these years. In the following three years his interest will not be so detached or impersonal. Then, what we call the "subjective relationship" takes place.

Let us follow his development up until he is three years old.

At 14 to 16 months a child learns to put a spoon into his mouth. Few people realize how difficult a feat this is. Mental and musecular coordination is involved By 18 months he can eat without spilling.

At this age he can carry objects, and rock a baby doll. He may rock any object indeed and not be particular about it being a doll.

At about this time he will start little plays: he will "go to market" with a basket (if he is walking, and most children do walk by 18 months), or he will wash a doll's face, try to pour coffee or play with dishes.

At 17 or 18 months if he sees a dog in a picture he may point to or pat his own dog. He is learning association, you see. Sometimes if you say, "Find the dog in the book," he will watch as you turn the pages and stop you at the place.

By 19 or 20 months he can cut with dull blunt little scissors and otherwise use his hands pretty well. He will attempt to pile up his blocks, too. By 2 years of age he will be able to build quite well.

Then his curiosity begins in earnest. Then is the time he will "get into everything." He will look into cupboards, pull open drawers and boxes, and learn to climb. The story-time begins now, also — particularly stories about pictures. He will be greedy for a little story about every picture he sees.

He will be able to amuse himself now for longer periods at a time. Instead of tiring of one thing in a few minutes, by 2 1-2 years he will be able to entertain himself for half an hour at a time with one interest. He should be given a variety of objects to keep him busy—safe ones, of course.

HITS HARD GREY LIME

Maracaibo Test Is Down 3975 Feet In Howard

BIG SPRING, Mar. 23.—The deep test being drilled by the American Maracaibo Oil company on section six, block thirty-two, two south is drilling at 3,975 feet in hard gray lime. The test will be drilled to the 5,000 foot level if oil is not found at a lower depth. The last showing of oil was encountered at 2740 feet, which was supposedly from the Roberts pay. Sulphur water was struck at 3,200 feet and drilled has continued with hole full of water since that depth.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McCoy and little daughter, Charlie Neil of Wilson have returned to their home after a business visit Saturday in this city.

Revolution

tary importance. The rest stay at home, smoke their Mexican-made stogies and prey on the "rubberneck" trade from across the "creek"—as they call it.

Plenty of Saloons.

Villa Acuna, with a population of perhaps 4000—one can never tell about these Mexican towns—has probably thirty or forty liquor dispensaries. The rest of the business section is curio shops, bazaars, and unmentionables. The streets are rough and rocky, most of the residences of adobe with thatched straw roofs, and the sewers—well there aren't any.

The population, as far as the outsider can fin dout, is men. Of course, there are a few women like Mrs. Crosby who operates cafes and the like. These Spanish or Mexican girls you read about in the novels aren't there—at least not where you can see them.

They city-slick you in the curio shops worse than at a Broadway auction sale.

There is practically no regular volume of business. It all depends on the tourists.

But back to the revolution. How do the natives think it will come out? Ask them. They will say: "Quien Sabe?" Or, in the ordinary vernacular, "who knows?"

FIRST NAZARENE CHURCH
14th Street and Avenue Q. Rev. S. H. Erwin, pastor.

Our Bible school opens at 9:45 a. m.
Morning worship at 11 a. m. The Senior N. Y. P. S. meets at 7 p. m. and the evening worship will begin at 7:45 p. m.
The pastor's subject at eleven will be "The Mission of the Church." He will preach an evangelistic sermon at the evening hour of worship. All of our services are evangelistic in spirit, but the evening message is a special service to the unsaved.

Trade Territory

track to the thriving city that it now is, and naturally I feel that it is a coming trade center and justly deserves to be known as the 'Hub of the Plains'."

Mrs. J. D. Aldrich, of the West Texas Hospital, declared, "We get patients from Roswell, Hobbs and Tatum, N. M., and also from Childress, Lamesa, Floydada and all the towns over the South Plains. We have an average of 100 or more every day for some sort of medical aid or treatment, and I'm sure this is quite a conservative estimate."

Mrs. O. H. Allen, superintendent of the Ellwood Hospital, said "We get patients from Amarillo, Clovis and Lovington, N. M., and quite a few from O'Donnell, Lamesa, Post and points over the Plains."

J. A. Rix, of the Rix Furniture Store, said his firm draws trade from the east, 100 miles; from the west 100 miles; from the north 50 miles and the south 50 miles. Our trade comes from points as far distant as Spur, Matador, Lamesa, Post, Plainview, Lockney, and Floydada and from Tatum and Lovington, N. M. He thinks for its size, Lubbock has the best trade territory of any town in Texas. A town of 20,000 population situated in East Texas, would only have a trade area of some 10 to 15 miles.

50,000 In Five Years.

Martin W. Moses, manager of Barrier's store, who came to Lubbock last January 1, said, "Lubbock has customers who live more than 100 miles apart, and our trade is very equally divided and distributed I would say that this store alone, one of many institutions that bring people here—from a distance exceeding 25 miles—has as many as 50 out-of-town customers daily. The reason is outstanding and is one I heard about before moving here. 'Go to Lubbock for Lubbock has it.' There is not a make of automobile, piano, radio, or other goods including dry goods, groceries and so on, that is sold in other cities, that is not sold here, and in the highest class merchandise. All of these are assets to Lubbock, forming a vertible trade magnet in other words. Therein lies the secret of volume business and why Lubbock is destined to be truly the "Hub of the Plains." That man is asleep today who does not see Lubbock a city twice its present size in five years. Other forces that contribute to this growth are its progressive citizenship and last but by no means least, Tech college which brings hundreds of families and students here every year. Lubbock is only in its infancy as compared to the seemingly bright future that is just ahead of us. That Lubbock will be a city of 50,000 within the next 5 years, seems a conservative estimate at the rate the city is now growing. That everbody here seems happy and contented, is another reason why Lubbock is destined to be a city and trading center for the great South Plains."

Transients from Everywhere.

Asked what he thought of Lubbock as a trading center from the standpoint of hotel patronage, W. E. La Fon, manager of Hotel Lubbock, said, "Our business is made up of people from all over the world. We get many people from foreign countries. Of course we get the largest percent of our transients from the larger towns in Texas, while many come from the cities of other states. We average approximately 175 room guests daily and an average of 75 to 100 transient guests register every day. We think Lubbock already a real trade center, and that it will continue at a steady and rapid growth."

South Plains

Snyder last week was a bridge luncheon given by Mrs. Fritz R. Smith and Mrs. C. H. Cooper complimenting Mrs. A. H. Sams, jr., a bride who is leaving for Pecos. There was a large attendance at this affair. Mrs. O. P. Thrame entertained the Sine Cura Bridge club of Snyder Tuesday afternoon.

To Attend P. T. A. Meeting

Littlefield has elected a group of delegates and expects to be represented at the annual meeting of the fourteenth P. T. A. district in Floydada, April 8, 9 and 10. This is the first time that Littlefield has sent a delegation, according to word received from that town.

Those who have been elected delegates are Mesdames Charles Harless, R. E. McCaskill, A. G. Hemphill, Rev. George Turrentine and B. M. Harrison. Alternates are Mrs. Baird, Mrs. J. S. Hilliard E. A. Bills Miss Thelma Killough and W. F. Fulton.

Miss Sydney Yantis of Littlefield entertained last Saturday night in her home with a party, having a group of her friends for guests. After the party, girls in the group went to the home of Miss Pauline Bell for a slumber party.

Bride Honored

Mrs. Bill McAlpin, recent bride in Spur, was honor guest last Saturday afternoon when Mrs. Faust Collier, assisted by Mrs. J. T. Baisden, entertained teachers in the Spur schools. On Thursday afternoon Mrs. W. D. Wilson and Mrs. Riley Wooten entertained with a shower A program was given during the afternoon and a large number of guests called.

Several bridge and forty-two parties were given in Floydada last week. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bishop entertained on Tuesday evening with a four-table party and Mr and Mrs. Buck Slaughter were hosts to the Night Ramblers club on Tuesday evening. Mrs. A. A. Bishop was hostess to the Wednesday Bridge club last week and had an Easter theme in appointments.

PLAN TERRACING SCHOOL

CANYON, March 23.—Farmers of Randall county and business men of Canyon will attend a terracing school on Monday at the Zita school house, 12 miles northeast of Canyon. The school will be conducted by A. K. Short of the Federal Land Bank and a representative of A. and M. college.

Texas Tech's Own Museum Presents Strange Exhibits

Little Known To The Folks Of Lubbock, Specimens Of Many Plants And Animals Are At College

TEXAS TECH college has a museum of its own, although it is not generally known to the public, and specimens having been added since the opening of the college. With the completion of the chemistry building, a room has been set aside for the sole purpose of storing the plant and animal specimens in a room to themselves. It is the plan of members of the department to have a display for public exhibition soon, but at the present time the room is not arranged for showing and only class use is made of the museum.

At various times during the year faculty members and students of the departments of Zoology, Biology and Anthropology make trips and bring back flora and fauna which is classified and used. R. A. Studehalter and Jessie Sealey have returned recently from the Davis mountains where they made a field trip.

Many Models Seen.

Included in the museum specimens are two gila monsters, one of which was kept alive for some time last year, common snakes and lizards, many turtles, a stuffed badger, skunks and many models of plants and animals to be used in class work.

Patrons of the college have given the department a number of things in the collection but only a start has been made to what the museum will be later, according to Mr. Studehalter, head of the department of Bilogy and gifts of loans will be accepted at any time.

In addition to the museum there is a flower conservatory and an animal room, although in the latter room at present there are many white rats and fish, with other animals to be added as soon as possible.

Flowers and varied plants are to be grown in the conservatory for class use only and not for exhibition purposes. The many windows in the room give a western and southern exposure with an abundance of fresh air and sunlight. There are many mosses in this room also and in a tub are to be found hundreds of toad eggs which are being watched in these stages of development.

RECOMMENDS AID

State School Inspector In Howard County Recently

BIG SPRING, March 23.—Six thousand dollars state aid will be recommended by state inspector William Ellers, who with Miss Pauline Cantrell, during the past week, have inspected fifteen rural schools in the county. According to Miss Cantrell, the Midway school will be recommended for standardization if requirements are met within two weeks. The schools recommended for state aid were R-Bar, Vincent, Gay-Hill, Center Point, Cauble, Moore, Knott, Morita, Morgan, Fairview, Richland, Green Valley, Biscoe, Soash and Coahoma.

MOVE FLAG POLE

Houston Seeks To Improve Traffic Conditions

HOUSTON, March 23 (AP).—A flagpole which has menaced downtown traffic here for the past ten years has been removed to the proposed Civic Center.

The pole was erected by War Mothers in memory of soldiers who died in the World War.

The staff was the direct cause of one death and a number of automobile crashes, the machines having skidded into the pole.

Tax on playing cards in this country in 1928 yielded 19 times as much revenue as in 1920.

Another Grafter!

But He Grafts In A Different Way

BEAUMONT, March 23 (AP).—Athough apples have never been grown successfully in the gulf coast section, Homer Walker, a farmer of Jefferson county, believes he has discovered a method by which their culture may be successful.

The plan tried by Walker is to graft apple branches on the native mayhaw, which is a branch of the apple family, and which thrives in this section.

The experiment was tried on 100 trees last year, and of these the cutting on from 25 to 30 "took," and bid fair to produce fruit, Walker said.

Southern Route For Air Mail Is Being Considered

Next Route To Be Considered By Post Office Department Will Be In Texas; Cities Co-operating

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

EL PASO, Mar. 23.—According to word received from Frank Hitchcock, former postmaster general, who is now in Washington on behalf of the Southern Air Mail Route association to get an airmail route through the southwest, the first new route to be considered by the postoffice department will be this route.

Hitchcock's telegram said that at present it did not seem as though a new petition would be necessary, although the first one was presented before the new administration came in. When the Southern Air Mail Route association was organized last October, D. A. Bandeen, general manager of the El Paso Chamber of Commerce, was made chairman of the association. The formation of the association was the culmination of more than two years work on the part of the El Paso Chamber of Commerce, the organization spending much time and money on the project.

Cities Co-Operate

Hearty co-operation has been given the cities along the proposed route which will extend from San Diego to Fort Worth and Dallas. Lately attempts to call other meetings have been made, in which some aviation companies interested in air mail contracts have wanted to sit in. Member towns of the association would not participate however, and those meetings have been postponed.

The association attitude, however, has been that it would weaken the cause if it were not purely a civic enterprise backed by the various cities along the route.

"We are not interested in telling the government to whom, or how the mail contract should," Brandon said. "We are interested in getting the route, and want it to go to the company that can give us the service."

The towns along the proposed route include: San Diego, El Centro, Yuma, Phoenix, Tucson, Bisbee Douglas, Lordsburg, Deming, El Paso, Abilene, Big Spring, Cisco, Pecos, Odessa, Midland, Sweetwater, Fort Worth and Dallas.

HE'S WISER NOW

Houstonian Will Be Careful About Who He Befriends

HOUSTON, March 23 (AP).—J. H Austin is one Houstonian who probably won't re-enact the Good Samaritan role unless he knows whom he is befriending.

Austin recently met a man who claimed to be broke. He looked the part, and Austin took pity on him to the extent of feeding him and giving him a place to sleep.

When Austin awoke the next morning, the man was gone, and so were his leather boots, umberjack, keys, knife and $2.

They're All Sisters Under The Skin

Comparison Of Mexican And American School Girls Given By Lubbock Visitor Who Taught In Mexico

A COMPARISON of the Mexican and the American school girl is another example of "Judy O'Grady and the Colonel's Lady," in the opinion of Deaconness Anna Newell, who until two years ago was head of the Hooker School for girls in Mexico City.

Deaconess Newell, who is now at the head of an Episcopal girls' school in Berkeley, Cal., was a visitor in Lubbock during the past week. But with all of her work and travel in America, she is homesick for Mexico City. Her time spent there became so vital a part of her life that she feels she is missing something when she is not there. But let her tell it:

Experience Is "Wonderful"

"It is wonderful to be part of another nation—to look at their problems through their eyes and to lead and aid them in solving these problems. I enjoyed my work in Mexico. It is a sunny, happy, colorful nation containing an affectionate, loyal, patriotic people.

"The Mexican school girl perhaps more ambitious and industrious than the American girl. While she is slower to learn at first, due to the lack of an educational background, I think her capacity is the same as the American girl's.

"The federal department of education in that nation is progressive, wise, and intelligent. It is developing a school system that will reach all sections of Mexico. Craftmanship is being combined with education. I have unbounded admiration for the plan and for the men behind it. When the new educational plan begins to bear fruits, uprisings will be eliminated.

Mexico Needs Time

"All Mexico needs is time to work out her problems. It is necessary that a feeling of democracy be created before the government is made stable. The revolutions are a result of old autocratic government. The department of education has advised teachers in the Mexican schools to give the present revolution to the students as an example for the need of a constitutional government.

"There is little difference in the young of the two nations, although there is a difference in the phychological approach. The Mexican girl is less used to discipline, although she responds readily to leadership. She is more affectionate than the American girl, and can be appealed to more through her emotions than her mind. Her love is deep and she will pay any price for it or for her pride. She is loyal and aesthetic with a well defined love for music, beauty, color and gayety.

"The object of the Mexican girl in getting an education is not to get ahead as is the case in this country, but to be of service to her country, and to her people. While love for gayety, social enjoyment, and the happy-go-lucky attitude are the striking characteristic of the Mexican girl, she is more serious minded and more responsible than the school girl in this country, and has a more clearly defined national feeling."

FIRE DESTROYS HOME HERE

The home of A. M. Huffstuddler on 10th street was completely destroyed by fire of undetermined origin. None of the furnishings was saved. The family being away from home, th fire made great headway before being discovered. The building was covered by insurance, but none was carried on the furnishings.

MRS. T. C. McCALL DIES

Mrs. T. C. McCall, 24, died at the Lubbock Hospital at Lubbock Friday morning at 6:55, after an illness of about three weeks. Following a spell of influenza she developed pneumonia, and was carried to the hospital a week ago.

She is survived by her husband and two little daughters, Metty Marie, 5, and Patricia, 2, of Slaton, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Green, six brothers, Raymond, Earl, Carl, Robert, Garth and Gail and one sister, Ruth, all of 2008 18th street, Lubbock. Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at the First Baptist church at Lubbock at 3 o'clock, with Rev. W. R. White in charge of the services. Interment was made in the Lubbock cemetery, with Bynum funeral directors in charge. Pall bearers were N. F. Cherry, W. M. Rust, W. G. Elkins, C. S. Green, R. W. Amic, all trainmen of Slaton, and Jack Burk, yardmaster of Lubbock. A score of Slaton people attended the funeral. Mr. McCall has been a resident of Slaton since the organization of the town.

SENIOR PARTY

Miss Maude Deen, senior sponsor, entertained the members of that class Friday evening. The class colors of purple and white were used in decorations and purple and white sweetpeas were used as table decorations. Progressive 42 was played till a late hour when delicious refreshments of purple and white ice cream and cake was passed to about 47 of the seniors. C. L. Sone, superintendent, was a guest.

SHOWER FOR BRIDE

Mrs. Carl George, who until her marriage March 10th, was Miss Grayce Pirtle, was complimented with a miscellaneous shower Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. George at 750 South 11th street. Miss Ruby Don Smith entertained with an appropriate reading "How to Manage a Husband." Mrs. Lillian Butler sang "When Love Comes Calling", accompanied by Miss Jenette Ramsey at the piano. In a cup towel hemming contest Miss Nora Sealy received the prize, a rolling pin, which was presented to the bride; and in a word contest, Miss Edith Marrs received the prize, which was a mixing bowl and spoon, which was also given to the bride. A refreshment course was passed to about thirty guests. Mrs. George received many useful and beautiful gifts.

CHILDREN'S PARTY

Mrs. J. A. Elliott entertained honoring her little daughter, Juanita, with an Easter party Wednesday afternoon. Several games were played, after which refreshments were served at little tea tables to Rebecca Wilson, Thelma Dual, Pauline Lokey, Vona Louise Erwin, Lena Lee Wilson, Osa Fern Wheatley, Ruth Dillard, Billie Lokey, a Charley Suit, jr. and Jack Dillard, jr.

Complimenting week end guests, Miss Josephine McBride entertained with a very pretty Saint Patrick bridge party at her home in west Crosbyton naming Misses Evelyn Stewart and Gussie Suggs, Tech students, as honor guests. In the game of bridge Miss Ruth Smith made high score and the honor guests each received honors.

A refreshing salad course with pineapple pudding, cake and coffee was passed by the hostess to the honorees and Misses Velma Crank, Evelyn Talliaferro, Ruth Smith, Ruth Dunnaway, Lucille Chase, Norma Hulme of Lubbock, and Mesdames E. M. Perkins, G. M. McKee, J. P. Hackley and W. B. Hearrell of Lubbock.

MRS. OLDHAM COMPLIMENTS HOUSE GUEST

A very pretty party of the week was a bridge party given by Mrs. C. H. Oldham at her home on College avenue Thursraw afternoon complimenting her sister-in-law, Mrs. George Oldham of Snyder who has been a guest in the Oldham home the past week. Mrs. Charles Emde was also named as honoree.

The Easter motif was used in all the appointments and score cards. In the game of bridge Mrs. Ed Haynes scored high and the prize, a compact, Miss Lucile Chase high cut and the favor, a linen towel. Mrs. Oldham was presented a linen luncheon set done in cut work and Mrs. Emde received a picture as guest prize.

The hostess served a delectable two course luncheon consisting of a salad course and refrigerator cake topped with whipped cream and iced tea to Mesdames Wesley and J. C. Parker, J. A. Parks, Ed Haynes, W. C. Chase, Sep Smith, C. M. Huddleston, Jack Cagle, E. W. Gregg, R. C. Carter, Ira Taylor, J. J. Taylor, Joe Brown, F. A. Green, Roy McDaniel, J. A. Buck, C. R. Westerman, E. M. Perkins, Edgar Hutchins, Zugg George, Olen Littlefield, Leslie Mitchell, Miss Lucille Chase and the honorees.

CIVIC LEAGUE MEETS

The Civic league met Tuesday with the president, Mrs. E. H. Hendricks, presiding in a business session. Nine members were present.

The league voted to sponsor two important projects this year. One project is the home beautiful contest, plans and rues will be announced in the near future. The league also took up the question of a chicken law with the city commission and a favorable report on this subject is promised soon. The league also voted to co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary club, and other organizations of the city in building a city auditorium and club house for Crosbyton.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY DINNER

At a meeting of the city council Monday night, the city marshal was instructed to erect posts and to place thereon the names of the streest at all street intersections in the city. Contract for the purchase of these signs was made several weeks ago but they had not been received until just recently.

The signs will be of great assistance to strangers as well as to residents of the city and the council is to be commended for this progressive action.

TAHOKA WINS DISTRICT CONTEST

Tahoka music pupils came back from Lubbock last Saturday were they contested with other towns for honors in the South Plains music contest, with the lions share of the laurels.

The Tahoka high school boys glee club won first place.

The Tahoka high school girls Choral club won second place, the first place going to Lubbock.

Miss Lucille Slaton of the Tahoka high school won second place in mezzo soprano, first place again going to Lubbock.

To Mrs. Jack Jackson is due almost entire credit for the splendid training that has been given these young people in music. She worked faithfully to cultivate the unusual musical talent that so many of Tahoka's young people possess, and her efforts have been abundantly rewarded.

Mrs. Jack Jackson and others accompanied this group of young people to Lubbock.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY HAS INTERESTING PROGRAM

About twenty-five members of the Baptist Missionary society attended the program given at the church Monday.

Mrs. H. P. Caveness gave a very interesting report of her trip to the mission study institute which met at Fort Worth. Then she took charge of the program.

Subject: "Where Races Meet."

Song.

Devotional—Mrs. Barnes.

Prayer—Mrs. B. N. Shepherd.

The Background of the American Negro—Mrs. Jackson.

Song.

PERSONALS

Rev. B. N. Sheperd, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Edwards, Mrs. Jack Applewite, Mrs. Windham, Mrs. Collenback and perhaps others from Tahoka attended the South Plains musical contest held in the high school building in Lubbock last Saturday.

Mrs. L. P. Teague, mother of Mrs. W. S. Anglin, is seriously sick at the Anglin residence. Her sons, E. O. and H. L. Teague of Littlefield, and D. B. Teague of Stephenville have been ere at her bedside much of the time this week.

Tahoka is to have a well equipped modern steam laundry soon. This announcement is made by Messrs. L. F. Craft and J. G. Burdette, who have already purchased the machinery and procured a part of the force to operate it.

W. L. Knight has the plans drawn and will this week let the contract for a new brick building on the lot now occupied by the City Bakery. He expects work to begin within the next week or ten days.

A box supper at the Baptist church at Redwine is announced for Friday night. The proceds are to be used to defray the expenses of a singing class to be conducted there.

Mrs. Taylor White was called to Muleshoe Thursday of last week by the death of a very dear friend. She returned to Tahoka the next day.

C. E. Hogan is in Archer City on business this week.

Mrs. L. S. Kuykendall visited her daughter, Mrs. Grady Beard, in Fort Worth last week.

1000 Letters Daily Are Returned

Most Of Us Have Violated The Postal Regulations At One Time Or Other, Postmaster Vaughn Says

"Is there any writing in this package," the postal clerk asks, and almost invariably he gets the answer, "No" and yet—according to Postmaster John L. Vaughan—nine out of every ten packages contain writing of some kind.

"To inclose writing in a package that is sent at a low class rate is a violation of the postal laws. The penalty is a fine of not more than $100, but it is a law that neither the public or the postal department has so far paid much attention to," Postmaster Vaughan says.

"The department recently began a campaign against short paid mail. If the office from where a package was sent failed to catch the short paid article the destination office would check up on it and report it to the heads of the department. The practice became so general that we had to open packages, which revealed that almost everyone of them contained writing.

Requires Higher Rate

When writing is discovered in a package, the package becomes first class mail, requiring a higher postal rate. If the package has been insured another complication is developed, as first class mail cannot be insured. If the sender cannot be located the only thing to do is to send the package on and collect the remainder of the postage from the receiver.

From the Lubbock post office about 1,000 letters or packages are returned daily.—many the result of incorrect and faulty addressing. Numerous letters are received here daily, addressed to persons of which no trace can be found. The letters remain in the office the required five or ten days then are returned to the sender. About fifteen or twenty each week are sent to the dead letter office.

Transient population is blamed for this condition. The large volume of uncalled for mail is a distressing problem to the post office. "If everyone would file their address or rent a box, most of this trouble would be eliminated," in the opinion of Mr. Vaughan.

Incorrectly addressed envelopes prove one of the chief problems of the post office. "We are taught how to correctly address letters when we are in about the fourth grade, and why the general public forgets all this, and refuses to do it right, is more than I can see," Postmaster Vaughan said.

Crosbyton Proud Of Fine Showing Of School System

Vast Strides Are Made By Educational I n stitutions Of That City During Past Four Years

CROSBYTON, Mar. 23.—As time is drawing near for the closing of the 1928-29 session of school the citizens of Crosbyton view with pride the rapid progress the school has made during the last four years. In the spring of 1925 the high school building and all equipment was lost by fire. At that time the school had only fifteen units of affiliation. During the summer a modern, well-equipped, $100,000 high school building was constructed and was ready for occupancy in the fall.

Superintendent C. R. Owen, one of the most successful school men in Central Texas, was employed as superintendent of schools. Prof. Owen comes from a family of school teachers distinguished in Texas, and has spent fifteen years in the school room, all of which time he has served as a superintendent. He holds both the A. B. and the M. A. degrees from the University of Texas. Supt. Owen believes that a teacher must devote his vacation time to preparation work, and has spent every summer in some recognized school studying new angles of the pedagogical and administrative phases of school work. He has paid special attention to selection of trained teachers to carry on the work, selecting each teacher according to his special training and qualifications for the work assigned. Supt. Owen has been prominent as a leader in civic affairs. He is an active member of the Rotary club and the Shrine. Last year the board of education sent him to the convention of the National Education association.

Supt. Owen's four years service as head of the Crosbyton schools has resulted in the system's being recognized as among the leading systems in West Texas. Housed in four modern buildings the schools have ample equipment to carry on the work of the varied curriculum. Twenty-five college-trained teachers constitute the faculty, and every teacher in the high school has a college degree. The school now has 25 1-2 units of affiliation with the University of Texas and is a member of the Southern list of accredited schools. Every subject taught in the high school is fully affiliated.

First District Of Schools Meet At Canyon

CANYON, March 23.—When 14 towns of the first district of the Texas Inter-Scholastic league meet in Canyon for the annual one-act play contest, four of the directors of competing teams will be graduates of the West Texas State Teachers college, who as students frequently appeared together in dramatic production. These are Miss Dona Hardin of Groom, Miss Opal Dutton, Mr. Darria Cheyne of Happy and Miss Dolphia Carmack of Tulia.

When the contests are over they will meet and criticise each others play production.

3100 Articles In Canyon Exhibit

CANYON, March 23. — The Panhandle - Plains Historical society, which is less than eight year old, has in its museum 3,100 different articles, according to a catalogue just being completed. Two hundred persons have donated valuable relics to the collection.

The list of more than 3,000 objects does not include books or manuscripts, which would add many hundreds to the total.

The library includes 220 books of special historical interest and thousands of pages of interviews given by pioneer citizens of Texas, many of whom have died since the interviews were granted.

Other materials of interest are 12 pairs of horns, including a pair of Texas longhorns eight feet, four inches in span.

Youths Caught, Then Sent to Pen

TAHOKA, March 23.—The three young men who were caught a few miles north of this place last Monday morning after they had visited four of the leading dry goods stores of Tahoka and helped themselves to a part of the merchandise of each, left Thursday of the same week for the penitentiary.

The three gave their names as O. C. Bass, W. L. Lester and Thomerson.

District court was in session, and they got a speedy trial. They were caught Monday morning, billed Monday afternoon, tried and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary on Wednesday, and started their journey to their new home on Thursday.

Thousand Placed At Lamesa

LAMESA, March 23. — Ten thousand shade trees have been placed in Lamesa and Dawson county for planting this spring by the civic department of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce. One thousand evergreens have been placed, which will be delivered in two-carload lots now being shipped and consisting of a majority of Arizona cypress.

The city of Lamesa looks at this time like an earthern excavation for the basement of a large building, there being so many holes dug for trees and evergreen planting.

Churches, school grounds, club grounds, home grounds, hotels and vacant lots are now being made ready for this mammouth tree planting. The rural school grounds of the county are to receive their share of this beautification program. Lamesa needs a nursery to aid in a continuation of this program.

Bouquets Branch Out In Latest Styles for Spring

For a wall bouquet, lavender irises, yellow and pink tulips and acacia are charming. Elizabeth Bowman wears a formal nosegay of Kordes roses, lilies of the valley, purply anemone, tan pansies and lavender sweet peas. For a sick friend, try a basket of pink snapdragons, euphorbia, and roses that are autumn colors. When Mr. Man steps out to dinner, he should wear a red carnation.

By JULIA BLANSHARD
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, March 23.—Dame Fashion has stepped into the garden! From now on it is not just a matter of having a bouquet here and there, of sending some flowers to one's girl, or wearing a bloom when one feels cheery.

There is, believe it or not, style in flowers. The current perfectly gorgeous flower show of the Horticultureal society and the New York florists proves it. Easter flowers are modish as never before.

In the first place, for house decorations, wall flowers are positively chic now, instead of being deplorably passe and in need of sympathy. There were many more arrangements of bouquets in wall vases, brackets and what-nots than for tables. If one wants flowers in the hall, the living room, bedrooms or study, the really up-to-date thing is to arrange a lovely picture of wall flowers, blooms arranged in some sort of container hanging on the wall. The dining table, to be sure, remains adamantly old-fashioned and insists on center pieces.

Flower Ensembles

Secondly, an really more important, the bouquet of a single kind of blooms is out-of-date. Nowadays, there is a tendency in arranging blooms to have an intricate plan of combining many flowers in a single "ensemble" of blooms. Whereas a vase of sweet peas is pretty; a woman can demonstrate her artistry much more effectively if she takes a couple of sprays of lavender sweet peas, a daisy or two, a bit of snapdragon, two blue irises, a daffodil, three tulips, some narcissus and perhaps some fuchsia.

This really is just one more indication that the whole world is trying its best to get away from the obvious, the dull and monotonous sameness that all tings have emphasized since the war. Women's fashions show this trend more than anything else. Why shouldn't flowers follow suit?

Arranging flowers in mixed groups this way allows a woman's ingenuity full play. There is the challenge to color combination offered by each new bouquet. There is the further and even more exhilarating chance to combine the fragrances of many blooms and get a perfume that might make Parisian perfumers envious. There is the third opportunity of building up extreme variety in bouquet shapes. Since line means so much to interior decorating, this is no mean bait to the average woman who appreciates beauty.

Flowers worn personally are changing also. The man smartly turned out now wears a single crimson carnation in the buttonhole of his dinner jacket instead of a gardenia. The Prince of Wales started this. It is no advocacy of Bolshevism.

Brides this spring will carry sheafs of calla lillies in ormal bouquets without a sign of ribbon trailing from them. With the classic beauty of the longer and more formal wedding gowns, could anything on earth be more magnificently appropriate and stunning?

Bridesmaids will have a tendency towards great shower bouquets of old-fashioned garden blooms, such as irises, acacia, double yellow tulips, sweet peas, anemone, pussy willow, snapdragons, daisies and larkspur.

The new shoulder bouquet is an elongated one that looks like a shower. The very last word in "what to send one's girl to really impress her" is a shower of orchids and lillies of the valley that, pinned on her fair shoulder, will reach to her waist. The only trouble is that to buy this you really should be the millionaire she would think you.

Nosegays Are Smart

Formal little nosegays are quite the nicest thing to send a girl. She can pin them on her shoulder or wear them at her waist. The newest one is of euphorbia—a very delicate spray of blooms in cardinal red—a gardenia, a yellow pernet rose and lavender sweet peas. Another might be lavender iris, lavender sweet peas, acacia, a daffodil, a red tulip and several different anemones in all the glory of their rich, deep purples, browns, rusts, purples and orange. Pansies are other blooms ever popular in nosegays since they are capable of adding such gradations of color.

Last but not least, the real guide in corsages is the color of one's girl's gown. Ask her what color she is wearing. And then, should she answer that it is the very latest spring shade, chartreuse, try a corsage of lilies of the valley, cream irises, apricot sweet peas and a wee rose bud or two and see if she doesn't rise up to call you blessed.

Soups Are High In Food Value

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

"Soup, soup, beautiful soup, soups of the evening, beautiful soup!"

While the Mock Turtle was probably singing about his own particular brand of soup, when we stop to weigh the many virtues of soup in general we must agree with him.

VEGETABLE CREAM SOUP

One cup sliced vegetable, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 cup milk, 1-2 teaspoon salt, pepper.

Melt butter, stir in flour and cook until bubbling. Add milk and cook until thick and smooth. Season with salt and pepper and add sifted vegetable with its juice. Cook two or three minutes to make very hot and serve.

There is no better way of serving ing vegetables and milk to little children than in a cream soup.

A soup made from milk and vegetables is highly nutritious. Milk is the most nearly perfect of all foods, lacking mainly iron, and is used as the basis for all cream soups. The vegetable chosen can supply iron, making this particular vegetable cream soup almost a complete food.

The mother who has difficulty in persuading her child to drink his necessary amount of milk will find these cream soups of great value.

Laboratory tests have shown that from 15 to 60 per cent of the food value of various vegetables dissolves into the water in which the vegetables are cooked. More than this a larger percentage of the minerals is lost in the water. So every time we use this water in a soup we have preserved these mineral salts for our own needs.

Vitamins also are lost to some degree in the water in which vegetables are cooked, but if this water is saved and used in a soup we are furnished with this nutrient so essential to good health.

Cream soups are simply made, the addition of butter and cream making them rich in fat as needed. Seasoning is important. A suspicion of onion, a bit of celery and a mincing of parsley often do much for delicately flavored vegetables. The seasoning must be used to accentuate the natural flavor of the vegetables, not hide it.

MARK HISTORIC SPOTS

Alpine Federation Of Clubs Start Movement

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

ALPINE, March 23.—The movement started by the Federation of Women's clubs some time ago to mark historic spots in the Highland—Big Bend area is to receive the financial aid of Brewster county, it was decided at a meeting of the county commissioners here this week when $140 was voted for the purpose of properly marking such spots in this county.

It is understood that other counties in this section have either agreed to assist in a financial way in the work or will do so in the near future.

BUILDS NEW BAKERY

S. Romback Opens Up Plant In Littlefield

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

LITTLEFIELD, March 23. — S. Romback is this week moving into the new building recently completed on Main Street for a bakery. The building is of brick, and one of the best in the city. The first floor is fitted up for a modern drug store in addition to the bakery. The second floor is occupied by Drs. Harris, Grice & Walthall, in addition to the six room apartment to be occupied by Mr. Romback's family.

The foundation of the building is made with a view to adding a third story, which is contemplated in the near future. Mr. Romback has installed modern equipment throughout, the bread mixer alone costing $2,500. The oven has a capacity of 350 loaves of bread every thirty minutes. Mr. Romback opened a bakery here about five years ago.

Final Plans Of Plainview Show To Be Made Thursday

All In Readiness For Annual Dairy Cattle Exhibition

Fifty-Four Counties Are Included In Territory To Be Represented In Plainview

A final check-up and discussion of plans and details for the second annual Texas Panhandle-Plains Dairy Show will be made Thursday, when the officers and directors of the dairy show association meet in Plainview, according to Dave F. Eaton, local county agent, and president of the association.

Everything is in good shape for the show which will be held in Plainview, April 2-5, and the interest manifest by exhibitors, dairy-farmers, county agents, and others indicates that the second annual show will be an unqualified success.

New show quarters have been provided by the city of Plainview at an approximate cost of $20,000.

54 Counties Represented

Fifty-four counties in the Texas Panhandle-Plains section are included in the area that will draw entries to the show, and this exposition is the show-window of the remarkable dairy development that has been taking place in this area during the past four years.

Officials of the show association point to the value of the dairy industry to this section, and are trying to promote the development of dairying in the Panhandle Plains section by encouraging the breeding of superior dairy animals and by holding annually a show.

Officers and directors of this year's show are: Mr. Eaton, president; O. L. Stansell, Floydada, vice-president; Maury Hopkins, Plainview, manager; R. M. Milhollin, Plainview, general superintendent; W. L. Stangel, Lubbock, R. C. Nicholl, Tulia, R. B. Davis, Brownfield, S. J. Underwood, Hale Center, and P. C. Bennett, Amarillo, directors.

County Herd Dept. Added To Show

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

PLAINVIEW, March 23.—To stimulate interest between counties of the Panhandle-Plains area in the breeding of pure-bred animals, a county herd department has been added to the Second Annual Texas Panhandle-Plains show at Plainview, April 2-5.

Three hundred dollars will be given as premiums in this department divided among the three breeds of dairy cattle, Jersey, Holstein and Guernsey.

Several counties are in the competition. Prominent among them will be Floyd, Hale, Lubbock, Swisher, Randall, Dawson, Terry, Lamb, Carson, Deaf Smith, and possibly Briscoe. There may be other entries in this department as the time of the show rolls around.

The county herd department is a new idea in livestock shows. This past year the state fair of Texas had its first. Hale county was a contestant with a large herd shipped for that purpose.

Expect Good Display Of Guernsey Cattle

PLAINVIEW, March 23.—While there are comparatively few Guernsey pure bred cattle in the Panhandle - Plains of Texas, George P. Grout, superintendent of the Guernsey department of the Second Annual Texas Panhandle-Plains Dairy show says that when the show opens in Plainview, April 2, a very creditable, and enlarged exhibit over last year will be on hand in the new barns.

Grout, who is recognized as the leading Guernsey enthusiast of the Panhandle-Plains as well as an authority on the breding of all pure bred livestock, is at present secretary of the Panhandle Chamber of Commerce, and teacher of vocational agriculture in the Panhandle public schools. He has been in the Panhandle-Plains country for the past two years, and prior to that time was head of the dairy husbandry department of Texas A. & M. College.

Seventeen head of pure bred Gurnseys will be brought to the show from Carson county. Since Grout has been at Panhandle, he has been instrumental in the importation of a number of pure bred Guernseys into that county.

Bull Circle Contest Is Feature Of Show

PLAINVIEW, March 23.—A special department of the Texas Panhandle-Plains Dairy show has been created this year through the courtesy of John E. Hill, president of the Panhandle-Lumber company of Amarillo which is a tribute to the work of P. C. Bennett, agricultural manager of the Board of City Development of Amarillo, in dairy development in the Panhandle-Plains area. It is known as the P. C. Bennett bull circle contest.

Bennett, while county agent of Swisher county, several years ago started the well-known bull circle plan of line breeding for the improvement of dairy herds. Now bull circles are found all over the country. Under the plan a farmer may for the price of one bull have ten years of bull service. Five farmers buy five bulls, and at the end of two years the bulls are changed from one owner to another. The time of usefulness of a bull to a breeder usually is two years. Under this plan for the price of one bull a man gets the services of five.

Bennet is a member of the executive committee of the Panhandle-Plains Dairy show. The trophy bearing his name will be given by Hill to the circle bull winning the get of sire first award at the show.

Boys To Have Their Own Department

PLAINVIEW, March 23.—The boys of the Panhandle-Plains area will have their own departments at the Second Annual Texas Panhandle-Plains Dairy Show at Plainview, April 2-5.

The Dairy Calf Club show has been added this year for their benefit, as well as the 4-H club boys judging contest. The show also has a department for vocational agricultural classes in judging.

R. C. Mowery of the Texas Technological College, long prominent in cattle judging contest work, is superintendent of the departments. Mowery is conducting the judging contest with the same rules of the state contests. Premiums totaling five hundred dollars are being offered in the three departments this year.

The dairy calf club show will be open to club boys and vocational students of the Panhandle-Plains area who have dairy calves as one of their projects.

Floyd County To Take Part In Show

Development Of Pure Bred Dairy Stock Has Been Major Project Of Lockney and Floyada C.C.'s

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

FLOYDADA, Mar. 23.—Welcoming the opportunity offered by the Texas Panhandle-Plains Dairy show to encourage the development of pure bred dairy stock in this section the Floydada and Lockney Chambers of Commerce have asked for a special day at the show at Plainview and are making preparations for the largest delegation that ever attended any event from this county to attend the show, Wednesday, April 3, was the day selected by the Floyd county representatives and on this day every farmer interested in dairy cattle and a large group of business and professional men will be asked to make the trip as a part of an auto caravan.

To Hold Meeting

At Floydada the interest in the show has been increasing to the extent that plans are on foot to hold a dairy meeting in this city and ask some of the officials of the dairy show and prominent dairy breeders to address a gathering here. Although this county now ranks among the leaders in the Panhandle in good dairy cows the industry is still in its infancy and every movement to encourage it is met with a ready response from leading business men and farmers.

The Floydada delegation to the dairy show will be headed by the presidents of the two banks here, E. C. Nelson and T. S. Stevenson. Both of these men have evidenced an interest in dairy cows and have been instrumental in assisting some of the farmers in securing purebred stock. The Floydada municipal band has been obtained for the trip to Plainview and those in charge of the caravan are of the opinion that the Floyd county delegation will be the largest and most enthusiastic in attendance at the show.

Stansell Local Leader

O. L. Stansell, director of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce and vice-president of the Texas Panhandle-Plains dairy show, is largely responsible for the interest in the event here. Stansell's excellent showing last year, when his Jersey herd won a majority of the ribbons offered, served to stimulate interest in this county and the development in this line the past year can be traced to the interest of this one exhibitor.

At the show last year a Floydada delegation made the trip and immediately following the show two bull circles were organized in this immediate territory. Both of these bulls will be on exhibition at the show this year. A county herd will also be shown by Floyd breeders.

Conservation Of Soil, Moisture Is Believed Secured

Beneficial Results Of The Terracing Campaign Are Outlined by County Agent Dave F. Eaton

Increased production and conservation of both soil and moisture is predicted by Lubbock County Agent D. F. Eaton for next year as a result of the county-wide terracing campaign carried on this year.

More than 5,000 acres have already been terraced by John Patterson, terracing expert of Idalou, who has been in charge of all the work. He hase been constantly busy with the terracing activities, and still has a long waiting list. Started early in February, the terracing work will continue throughout the month of April. Many other farms will be terraced during the period.

Terrace construction demonstrations will be given during the week, according to Mr. Eaton. These demonstrations will show farmers of the county the benefits to be gained by terraced farm lands.

An unusually high interest in terracing has been developed this year, which will be of much benefit to the farmers next year, Mr. Eaton reports.

BEG YOUR PARDON

INDIANAPOLIS.—Ben Eggleston was peacefully sleeping when a strong light, flashing in his face, rudely aroused him. A burglar stuck a revolver in his face and demanded money. "I have none," replied Eggleston. The prowler, carefully looking in Eggleston's face said, "Oh, you're not the man I'm looking for," and left. Eggleston went back to sleep.

Hard Work And Education For Farmers Will Bring To Lagging Agriculture Its Relief, Arthur Hyde Says

Arthur M. Hyde of Missouri, new secretary of agriculture, and his family—Mrs. Hyde at upper right and their daughter, Caroline, below.

By NEA Service

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Arthur M. Hyde, new secretary of agriculture, believes hard work is the salvation of farmers who are seeking relief from present economic conditions.

Hard work and education—those are the things he stressed as governor of Missouri.

Hyde, one of President Hoover's "supprise" appointees to the cabinet, devoted much of his four years as chief executive of the middle western state to urging before the legislature and advocating in speeches and interviews the importance of better educational facilities for farmers.

While governor he worked ardently for better rural grade schools "By educating the farm youth of the land, we will enable them to better their condition economically and the entire country will benefit," he said many times.

During the Hyde regime in Missouri the state agricultural college, which is a part of the University of Missouri, received only moderate financial support at the hands of the state, but it was hardly the fault of the governor. Uolitical exigencies demanded that state expenses and state appropriations be kept to a minimum. As a result the agricultural school did not receive anywhere near the amount asked by its officials.

Bucked By Legislation

But Hyde continued to stress the importance of educating the residents of the rural sections. Children of the cities and high school and college students of the larger towns already were receiving liberal educations at the hands of the state, he pointed out.

One Hyde measure was consolidation of the school districts in each of the 114 counties of Missouri into districts analogous with the county boundaries. That, he argued, would help the rural schools.

But the legislature, of which one house was Democratic, rejected the governor's suggestion. Residents of towns objected to helping support country schools to a greater extent than they already were supporting them through a system of state school taxation.

The new head of the department of agriculture has been called a farmer himself but his farm experience has been only as owner of three farms in Grundy county, Mo. He either employed managers for the farms or rented them to tenant farmers.

Law and Insurance

Attention of Hyde during the last four years since he left the governorship of Missouri has been given chiefly to the practice of law and organization of a life insurance company in Kansas City.

During a part of those four years his family lived with him in Kansas City. Last winter his daughter, Caroline, attended a private school for girls there.

But Mrs. Hyde desired to bring up her daughter in the small town atmosphere of the Hyde's home town of Trenton, Mo.—a town of less than 10,000 population. So in the fall of 1923 Mrs. Hyde and daughter reopened their home in Trenton and their daughter has been attending public high school there.

Hyde never has advocated such farm relief measures as the McNary-Haugen bill. He never has been quoted to any great length on agricultural relief except to the effect that he did not approve of a fee method of aiding farm relief marketing.

Specific views of Hyde on farm measures and farm legislation never have been given out by him, most of his attention having been devoted in public life to combining bureaus and departments of the state government in Missouri and to advocating better primary schools in that state.

Surprise to Farmers

Appointment of Hyde to the agricultural post in the cabinet came as a real surprise because of his lack of association in the past with agricultural activities. His activities have been mostly political, legal, educational and in connection with insurance business.

Mrs. Hyde is a quiet and attractive woman who made herself popular while wife of the governor through her tact in meeting and entertaining in the state mansion the members of the legislature and their wives, the officers of the state and their families and the politicians who journeyed to Jefferson City to see the state's executive.

After removal of the Hydes from the state capital—a city of approximately 15,000 population—to Kansas City, Mrs. Hyde never became very active in social circles. Apparently she preferred to give a great deal of her time to education of her daughter.

Just how active Mrs. Hyde will care to be in Washington society remains to be seen. Unquestionably she is capable of holding a high place in society there—but there are those who doubt whether she will care to do so.

Experts Tell Of Terracing Value

Short And Bentley Talk To Meeting Of Farmers From Hale And Lubbock Counties At Abernathy

ABERNATHY, Mar. 23.—R. M. Milhollin together with A. K. Short of the Federal Land Bank of Houston and A. B. Bentley of the A. and M. college, conducted a terracing school on the H. S. Wade farm, six miles west of Abernathy recently. Much interest was manifest by the farmers in this part of Hale and Lubbock counties.

Lunch was served at noon Mr. and Mrs. Wade, and after lunch short talks were made by Mr. Bentley, showing, by the assistance of charts, the effects of terracing experiments conducted at Spur, and at other places.

Mr. Short spoke on the obligations every man owed to his state, neighborhood and his posterity, by conserving the soil by terracing the land.

Several lines were run and terraces built, explaining why and how they should be built.

Holstein Display To Feature Show

PLAINVIEW, March 23—The Holstein-Friesian department of the Texas Panhandle-Plains Dairy show this year will rank second in size only to the Jersey department in the number of entries in the pure bred dairy cattle departments.

W. H. Upchurch of Canyon, the county agent of Randall county is superintendent of the department this year. Upchurch has been instrumental in organizing the first Holstein-Friesian bull circle in the Panhandle since his work began at Canyon.

The largest exhibit of Holstein-Friesians will come from the Texas Technological college. W. L. Stangel, head of the department of dairy husbandry of the college will be in general charge of the herd. Last year this herd topped the department in premium [illegible]

Praises Are Sung For Dairy Cow

Ex-Governor Malcolm Patterson, Tennessee, Thinks Cow Is Best Friend Man Has Among Animals Of World

ATTENTION of farmers and dairymen of the Panhandle-Plains area of Texas, as it is, now centered on the coming second annual Panhandle-Plains Dairy Show, to be held at Plainview on April 2 to 5, inclusive, it is indeed timely that something pertaining to dairying is broadcast.

Dairying depends upon the dairy cow. One of the best things ever written on this subject is that penned by ex-Governor Malcolm Patterson of Tennessee. Perhaps it could be classed as "the" classic among dairying literature. It appeared originally in the Memphis Commercial Appeal, and is reproduced below.

He Grows Eloquent

"Blind Homer sang of Trojan wars and heroes, Virgil of men at arms, Horace of love and Falernian wine, Dante of infernal regions, Milton of paradise, but if I had the genius of all these old masters combined, a harp with a thousand strings and the world for an audience, I would sing with all my heart and soul of the cow, proclaim her virtues and perpetuate her virtues and perpetuate her name to the remotest generations. If I was a sculptor and had the power to chisel my thoughts in marble, I would search the quarries of the earth for the purest white stone and somewhere in an enchanted land, which the skies are bluest, the waters purest and the birds sing sweetest, far into the moonlight nights, I would begin a work of love and duty.

"I would bid the cold marble speak for me as I plied the chisel to the sides until the rough face took the shape I wished, and at last a cow stood revealed, wide and kind-eyed, in a posture of patient waiting to give the rich contents of her swelling udder, and bless the receivers with joy and health and strength.

"Friend of Babies"

"I would make a base on which this spirit of my dream should stand, and around its rim I would carve the figures of dear little babies, their hands and expectant faces raised towards their best friend in all the animal world, the friend that never fails them—the one that brings dimples and smiles, like the touch of angel wings, when the sweet life giving milk trickles in a velvet, sugar stream down their tiny throats—until the bottle falls away and sleep comes to caress and hold them still in its protecting arms.

"The cow is an uncrowned queen without a scepter, and her kingdom is all the land between the seas.

"Her motto is service and she always gives more than she receives.

"When the children are well, she makes them better and they grow and flourish with her constant benefactions. When they are sick and wasted, she raises them up and starts them right again. Her milk is te perfect food for the young and old. It holds every element to sustain and strengthen life. The cow works for all humanity without complaint and was never known to strike for higher wages. All she wants in exchange for the myriad blessings she confers is enough to eat and a place to lie at night. The cow is a lady among all the four-footed creatures, a lady that doesn't need fine clothes or powder or lipstick to set off her infinite charms.

"A Thorough Democrat"

"She is a thorough democrat in habits and opinions. She gives to men and women and children of all races and creeds—is kind to all and favors none above the rest. She is dainty, too, in her tastes. She would rather die before she would feed on flesh. Her food is the clover, the grain and suculent things in the vegetable world, the grass with which God carpets the earth in living green as it springs fresh from the heart of nature.

"The cow is domestic. She loves home. She knows the place where she lives and is faithful to it.

"If she must wander away for food—when the shadows begin to lengthen in the evening, she will be standing at the gate asking for admission and the chance to yield her rich burden, which she has stored in the daylight hours. The cow is the poor man's chief reliance, his tried and trusted friend—she is true to him when all the world is cold. The cow does not seek strange society or run after the rich as some of her two-legged sisters do. That is not her ambition. She has higher and different conceptions of life.

"Her concern is to help all humanity and the man who lives in the cabin with seven tow-headed children to bring him joy and poverty is as much the recipient of her bounty as the rich man with three automobiles, two dogs and four servants, without one child to disturb his sleep or bring a smile of joy to his starving soul. I really believe a cow loves the poor man best, for he needs her most. If all the cows in the world would die or dry up tomorrow, it would bring untold calamity upon mankind.

"We would get along better without railroads, the banks or the cotton crop, for without the cow the race would sicken, decay and finally perish. May we honor and praise her as she deserves. I hope as we advance to knowledge, when we cease to be cruel and selfish, that we will quit murdering and eating cows that have given us strength and comfort and saved our babies' lives. When this happy day comes, I would like to see a large fund collected to build an "Old Cows Home," surrounded by luscious pasture and running water, where these old and tried friends could pass their remaining days and die in peace.

"In the fullness of age and thought of duty well done as they bow their knees in reverence for the last time and settle down for the last repose, may they pass easily and naturally into a better and fairer land, where te grass is forever green, and neither flies nor tiger men can molest them or make them afraid."

Campaign Kills Fifty Thousand Of Prairie Dogs

Extermination Drive In Progress Here Yields Results; Pests are Cleared In Many Communities

Approximately 50,000 prairie dogs have been killed in Lubbock county snce inauguration of the county-wide prairie dog extermination campaign March 1, according to an estimate of County Agent D. F. Eaton.

Under the direction of R. F. Powell state field asistant ,the prairie dog campaign has been carried to all sections of the county. About 2,000 pounds of poison grain has been mixed and distributed to the farmers of the county. It is estimated that one pound will effecrively kill twenty-five dogs, putting one tablespoonfull of the grain to each prairie dog hole..

Mr. Eaton reports that the Idalou, Acuif, Canyon, Becton, Estacado, and Monroe communities are now practically free of the pests. The chief trouble has been that non-resident land owners and land owners who live in the city of Lubbock have made no reservation for the grain. Farmers throughout the county have taken much interest in the work.

Prairie dog (towns) will be sprayed with a poison dust in about another week in a follow-up campaign, which is hoped to completely exterminate the prairie dogs.

Milking Contest Is Show Feature

Twenty-Four Hour Period To Be Used In Production Test At Plainview Dairy Event

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

PLAINVIEW, March 23—To stimulate interest in the official testing of dairy cows, and the weeding out of unprofitable animals from herds, The Panhandle-Plains Dairy Show maintains a production contest department making awards for cows tested at the show in a milking contest.

Entries in this department are placed on a test beginning the day before the show opens, and continuing through for a twenty-four hour period. The milk from each entry is tested for butterfat content, and the amount of milk obtained is recorded.

E. W. Thomas, manager of the Lockview farm at Plainview is superintendent of the production contest this year. Thomas was the first county agent of Hale county, and has the distinction of being the first extension worker in the South Plains to start a dairy-farming development program.

To him goes the honor for making the first importation of pure bred dairy animals into Hale county, and the organization of the first pure bred bull circle. He carried a well organized dairy farming decelopment program for several years as county agent, effecting the organization of the Hale County Dairy Association of some 400 members which organization has been a means of promoting the industry in this county farther than any other county.

Premiums totaling two hundred dollars are being offered in this contest. Karl Marsch of Amarillo, official tester for a testing association at that place, has been secured as official tester for the contest.

According to the W. C. T. U., the average age for forming the cigaret habit has fallen from 20 years to 11. There are 1,700 new smokers every day.

Night School Farmers Learn In Evening Class

ABERNATHY, Mar. 23—Prof. L. J. Young, vocational agriculture teacher in the Abernathy high school, is conducting a night school for the farmers and poultry raisers of this community on various phases of the poultry industry.

The classes are held each Tuesday and Thursday night from 8 to 10 o'clock. Every class is well attended which goes to show that the local people are interested in poultry raising.

This is an opportunity for this community which it has not had in the past.

Jersey Branch Is Leader At Exhibit

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

PLAINVIEW, March 23—The Jersey department of the Second Annual Texas Panhandle-Plains Dairy Show at Plainview April 2-5 will be the biggest department of the entire show because the Panhandle-Plains of Texas has more Jersey pure bred cattle in it than any other breed.

For this reason, major premiums are being offered for Jerseys. The total premiums on Jerseys this year are $1,850.00. The first premium in each class will be $20.00 and seven are offered scaled down to $5.00.

R. B. Davis of Brownfield, county agent of Terry county is the superintendent of the department. Davis was superintendent of the production contest at the show last year. He has been a tireless worker for the organization since its inception, and has served as a director, a member of the executive committee, and on the catalog committee for two years.

AINTREE, England, Mar. 22. (AP)—Rain all day long added a new and difficult hazard for Billy Barton and half a dozen other American-owned horses, due to start in tomorrow's steeplechasing lottery, the Grand National.

Yesterday's drizzle became a downpour which soaked the turf.

Mail Cow Testing Station To Serve Large Territory

Lubbock Quota Of 10 Members Sure To Be Reached, County Agent D. F. Eaton Asserts

All of the counties not already served by official cow testing systems will be included in the proposed "cow testing by mail" plan which it is planned to establish throughout the South Plains.

Lubbock County Agent L. F. Eaton and the other county agents of this section are making a survey to determine the number of farmers interested in such a system. If the interest justifies, a testing station will be established at some central point with some competent tester in charge. Milk samples will be sent in from all members of the system. The samples will be tested and graded.

Lubbock county's quota is ten members. Mr. Eaton reports that six have already been secured and he feels that the remaining four can be easily obtained.

This proposed system will not interfere with the territory already covered by official testing. No further action will be taken unless interest justifies establishment of the system on a twelve months' basis. No decision has been made as to where the testing station will be located.

Department For Grade Specimens

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

PLAINVIEW, March 23.—Recognizing that there are many excellent dairy cattle in the Panhandle-Plains area that are heavy producing animals and which are not pure-bred, the Texas-Panhandle-Plains second annual dairy show at Plainview will have a department with liberal premiums for grade cows.

W. O. Logan of Snyder, county agent of Scurry county is the superintendent in charge of this department which gained wide interest last year. The cow that won the milking contest in the first show at Plainview a year ago was an entrant in the grade cow department.

Mrs. G. W. Scott has returned from Galveston where she has spent some time.

Slick Is Staying With Oil Business

World's Greatest Individual Oil Operator Plans To Do Some Wildcatting In New Fields

(By Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Mar. 23.—T. B. Slick, known as "the world's greatest individual oil operator," is not getting out of the game, he said today in discussing the recent sale of his vast holdings for between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000.

Instead, he said, he merely was deserting the staid, routine of handling producing territory, for the lure of wildcat prospecting. Slick, too, sees this as an opportunity to further schemes for conservation—a subject which has occupied him for several years.

Known As "T. B."

Already "T. B." as he is known in the industry, is planning to expand his operations, with offices in Kansas and Texas contemplated. E. E. Kirkpatrick will remain in charge of the Tulsa office, and will continue to handle much of the Oklahoma business, although Slick says there will be no let down in any of his activities.

Slick plans to devote himself solely to large tracts of wildcat territory, which he intends to hold for development until the oil industry has had opportunity to stabilize itself.

Fort the past two years Slick has been an outstanding figure in conservation movements in Oklahoma and has contended that only one test well should be drilled in each 40 acre tract, pointing out that there is no advantage in having four wells drilling at a time on one 40 acre block when one well will prove the lease.

WHITE HOLDS SERVICES

Thirty-Five New Memebers Added In Snyder Church

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

SNYDER, March 23.—Thirty-five new members were added to the membership of the First Baptist church during a revival meeting that has just closed. Dr. W. R. White, of Lubbock, pastor of the First Baptist church, had charge of the preaching while Prof. E. L. Carnett of the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary of Fort Worth directed the music. Rev. W. F. Ferguson is pastor of the local church.

PLANES MEET TRAIN

Col. Hensley To Be Buried With Military Honors

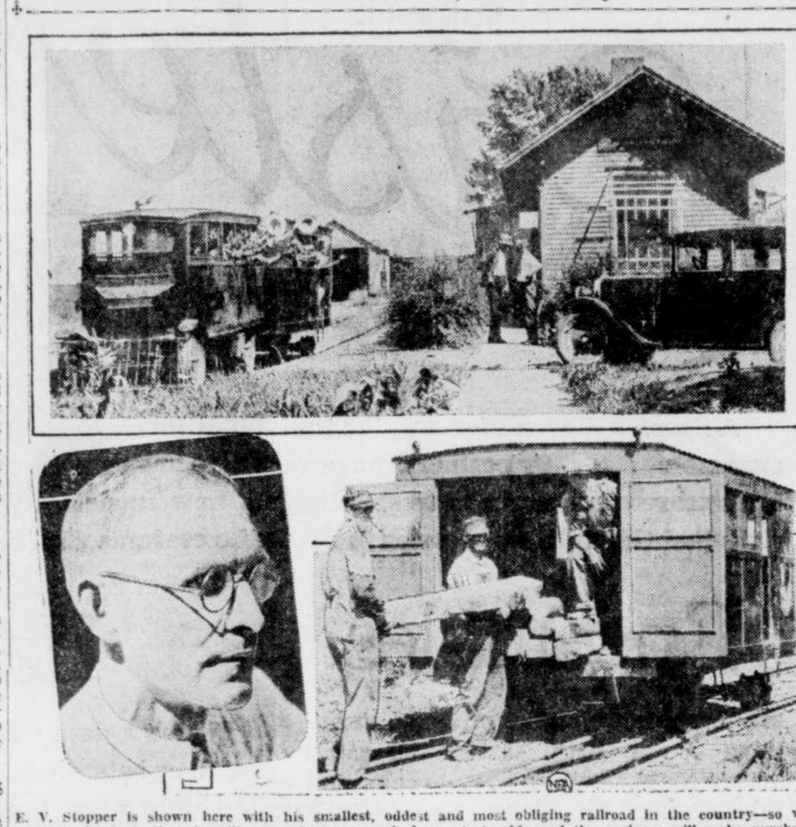

DALLAS, March 23. (AP)—A formation of five army planes, commanded by Lieut. Harry Weddington, executive officer at Love Field, flew here today for Greenville to meet the funeral train of Col. William Hensley, commander of air activities of the 10th corps area, who died Friday while on his way to Rochester, Minn., from the Walter Reed hospital at Washington.

The ships met the funeral train at Greenville at 8:30 a. m. and escorted it to Dallas, dropping flowers on the train as it proceeded. The body will be taken to San Antonio for burial with military honors.

FUR JACKET

The short fur jacket is extraordinarily good for early spring, especially if lined with the colorful silk of the frock it tops.

Here's The Smallest, Oddest And Most Obliging Railroad In The U. S.; Runs Only Eleven Miles

E. V. Stopper is shown here with his smallest, oddest and most obliging railroad in the country—so very obliging, in fact, that it will run whenever anybody wants to ride and the engineer will make purchases in town for housewives along the line. The pictures show the coaches, powered by Ford motors, that Stopper made, himself, and how they can be converted into freight or passenger cars as needs require.

(By NEA Service)

TABOR, Ia., March 23.—The town is the terminus for what is undoubtedly the smallest, shortest, oldest and most obliging railroad in the country.

The road is the Tabor & Northern line, with 11 miles of track, four cars and a personnel of one—E. V. Stopper, who combines in his own person the functions of owner, general manager, agent, conductor and—most of the time—engineer and fireman.

It was 40 years ago that the road was built, connecting Tabor with the town of Malvern. For a long time it prospered hugely; then came hard-surfaced roads, automobiles, motor busses and so on, and it almost went out of business.

Built Own Cars

But Stopper revived it. He built his own cars—miniature coaches powered with Ford motors. And he became the most obliging trainman in Iowa's history.

Housewives along the right of way will stop the train and entrust Stopper with the task of buying a pound of butter, a dozen eggs or a couple of yards of gingham at the town store. If there is a passenger in Malvern who missed the train, all he has to do is phone Tabor; when the train finishes its trip it will go back to Malvern and get him. Often Stopper has got out of bed at night to go to one town or the other to get a doctor for a sick patient along the line somewhere.

Is One Man Affair

When you embark here for a trip on this line, Stopper is the station agent who sells you your ticket. Then he goes out and helps you aboard. Then he mounts to the cab and guides the train to its destination.

Just at present, to be sure, things are a bit more complicated. The state is engaged in a huge road building program in this vicinity, and practically all of the material has to come in over Stopper's railroad, which connects at Malvern with the Burlington route. Recently Stopper even borrowed a sure-nuff locomotive from the Burlington to help haul loads of cement and machinery.

But, in the end, this very spurt of prosperity may kill the railroad for good. Farmers are loyal to Stopper and say they will continue to patronize him—but shipping by auto truck will probably be a little cheaper. Stopper realizes this, and is pessimistic about the future.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has put a valuation of $135,000 on the railroad, because that is what it would cost to replace it. But Stopper says he wishes someone would offer him just half that much for it.

KNEE FLARE

HEARTILY WELCOMED

Hughes Says Nation Does Much For World Peace

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 23. (AP)—Charles E. Hughes, speaking at Yale university last night, said that signature of the Pan-American arbitration treaty by the United States has a demonstration, "heartily welcome" by other republics of the Western world, of this country's "sincerity in renouncing war as an instrument of national policy and in pledging itself to settlements by peaceful means."

The address was the first of two lectures Mr. Hughes is giving here on "Pan-American peace plans."

As World's Third Richest Man, Mellon Is His Own Handiwork

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 23 — It frets Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon to be considered a hereditary multi-millionaire.

He inherited a paltry few hundreds of thousands only—less than a million all told. His heritage included a bank, but by no means the largest one in the Pittsburgh of that day. As the world's third richest man Mr. Mellon is his own handiwork.

He has roughed it in his time.

Once he and his brother spent several nights in their blankets on the Dakota prairie—when it was a territory—under the stars. They were looking over some land.

Parting from them, "I fu'st thought you two galoots was a coupla eastern dudes," said their guide, "but yer reg'lar guys, after all."

Mr. Mellon could have plenty of such yarn in circulation concerning him if he would loosen up and tell a few more.

Unfortunately he can not—too shy.

Half a dozen cabinet members already have a wider acquaintance in Washington than he, after two or three weeks in office—and Mr. Mellon is entering on his ninth year.

Nevertheless, the secretary of the treasury is not of the aloof, haughty type. True, he is dignified. No caller with any sense of the fitness of things would slap him on the back. Still, he is perfectly approachable. Only somebody else must make the approach. In matters of human contact it simply is not in Mr. Mellon to take the initiative.

Very well, then. Let's introduce ourselves. "The greatest secretary of the treasury since Alexander Hamilton"—as some say he is and others emphatically deny—is worth meeting, at any rate.

Of course, it must be done diplomatically.

However, the occasion is auspicious. On March 24 Mr. Mellon celebrates his 74th birthday. We will congratulate him on his anniversary.

He sits behind his desk in the treasury building, smoking a cigaret—the portrait of some long past secretary, in wig and ruffles, on the wall back of him.

Usually described as a little man, he is no midget—5 feet 8 or 9. Thin, to be sure.

Acknowledging our congratulations, we notice that he stammers slightly.

He looks his age—but healthy.

Formerly he played golf. Now the only exercise he gets is walking, but he does a good deal of that. He can walk rapidly and far.

On a recent trip he took to Europe, as he was traveling through Switzerland, his auto broke down. The spot was 12 miles from anywhere. There was a small mountain to cross, too. Mr. Mellon hiked it, mountain and all—and he enjoyed it and showed no signs of weariness. Pretty good for 70-odd.

His assistants evidently like him. So do other folk, who have succeeded in establishing relations with him.

All accounts indicate that he is particularly accomodating.

Every public man of much consequence gets stocks of requests in every mail for wierd favors of all sorts—trifles, generally, but a pest. They go into the discard in most government offices, as impossible to bother with. Mr. Mellon makes a point of examining his—and complying with them if he can.

One little girl, cast for the role of secretary of the treasury in a masquerade asked him for a pair of gloves, to give the stunt verisimilitude. Secretary Mellon sent her quite a complete outfit of haberdashery.

The secretary is more of a social success than his supposed reticence might seem to promise.

In a limited circle they say he is extraordinarily entertaining.

For one thing, he has an exceptional education. He complains of lack of time to read now, but he has done a deal of it. He has artistic tastes, which money has enabled him to improve until he is a real connoisseur, as well as a great collector. He has travelled everywhere, knows most of the world's celebrities intimately, and of course has had a hand in nearly every important national and international event in the last decade.

All these are highly interesting subjects to hear him discuss.

Aside from that, he lived through the romantic period of Pittsburgh's industrial development. There were mighty few enterprises which his bank missed taking a share in, and there are not many lines of human activity that he is unfamiliar with—from agriculture in the arid west to deep sea shipping.

Credited with holding Pennsylvania in the hollow of his hand politically, Secretary Mellon professes little real concern in politics—further than that his vast holdings in the Keystone state have forced him to give considerable attention to doings at its capital.

When he came to Washington eight years ago, he was a radical anti-red tape-ist. Today he concedes that he was partly mistaken. Government transactions, he says he has discovered, can not be expedited like private business, in which the individual who arrives at a snap judgment is the sole loser if he proves to have been over-prompt, to the extent of falling into an error.

Many an all-night ride Mr. Mellon takes from the capital, and back again the following night for a day with his son Paul, on the Yale campus.

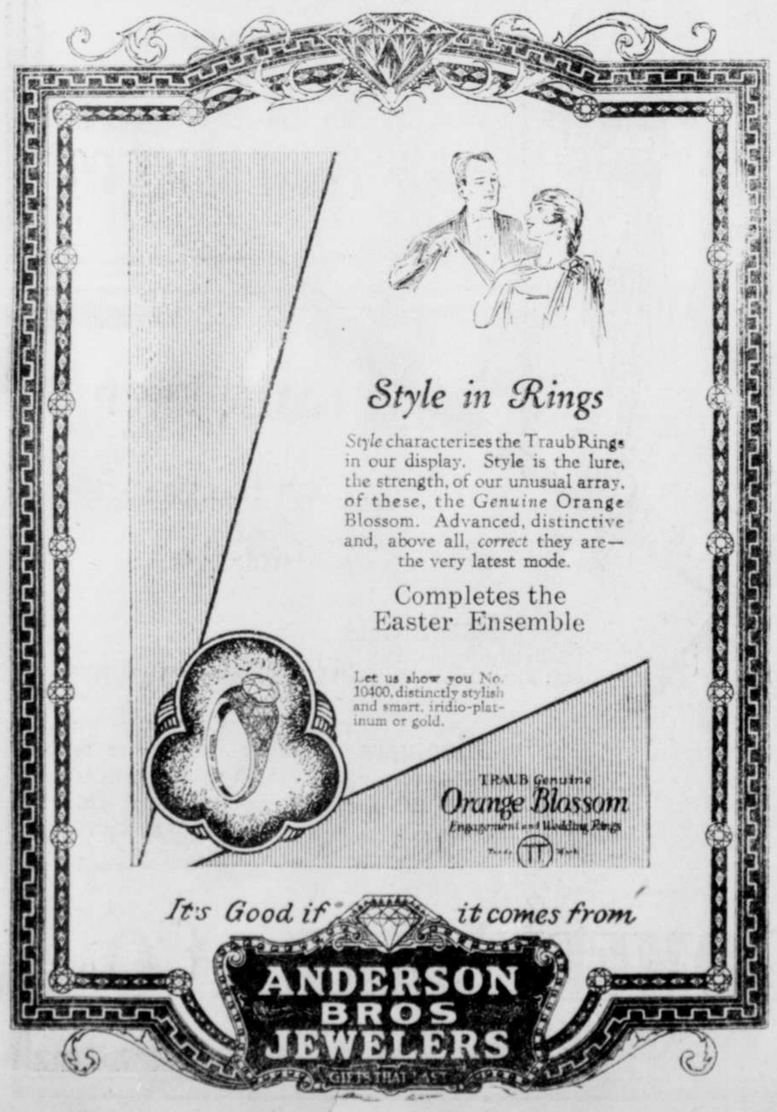

He was delighted with the marriage of his daughter Ailsa three or four years ago, to young David Bruce, son of the recently retired senator from Maryland—but it cost him his home-keeper.

He has lived by himself since, in his big establishment on Massachusetts avenue, the richest, but perhaps the loneliest, old man in Washington.

Damages Totaling $3,000 Asked In Suit Filed Here

Claiming total damages of $30,000, a suit was filed Saturday in the Ninety-Ninth district court by Frank Corn, against J. L. Brabham, and others. The damages were sustained, Corn alleges, from notes due him which were issued by Bradham last year, security for the transaction resting in chattel mortgages on several hundred head of cattle.

Corn alleges that on November 15, 1928, Brabham executed a promissory note to him for $14,437.50 due March 15, 1929, secured by chattel mortgage on 225 head of three to six year old steers. He claims that in December another note was made for $12,258.40 due April 7, 1929, mortgage being given on 199 head of three to seven year old steers.

It is alleged that the cattle were disposed of in breach and violation of the terms of the chattle mortgages. Besides Brabham, other defendents named are: J. W. Turner, T. B. Walker, H. B. Stewart, B. F. Hutson, E. T. Daniels and E. N. Harrison, all of Lubbock county. Charlie Daggett, A. M. Keen, Clarence Keen, Emmett Healy, George F. Healy, and John P. Healy, all of Tarrant county.

County 4-H Club Council Has Meet

One of the most enjoyable meetings of the Lubbock County 4-H club council was held at the courthouse here Saturday, with a large number of club boys and girls in attendance. The program included, music, by Miss Mangum and club boys; a reading, "A Good Club", by O. B. Hought; a questionnaire, conducted by Harold Smalley; a talk by R. L. Hooten, and a duet by the Colley sisters.

The program was in charge of the Shallowater 4-H boys club.

Mrs. G. W. McCleary, president of the Sorosis club, of Lubbock, announced to the gathering that her club is offering a prize, which they will award to the club girl making the most improvement in her bedroom during this year.

Young Canadian Gets Nine Years For Assault

OTTAWA, March 23. (AP)—Louis M. Auger, youngest member of the Canadian parliament until he resigned yesterday, was sentenced to nine years today for assaulting a young girl who went to his office to seek his advice. He protested his innocence, and asserted he had been convicted through perjury.

IDENTITY UNKNOWN

Employes View Mace And Clinto In Lamar

LAMAR, Colo., March 23. (AP) — Whether Charles C. Clinton and Ely F. Mace, accused bank robbers, have been identified as participants in the robbery of the First National bank of Lamar last May remained undisclosed.

Five employes of the bank and other witnesses viewed Mace and Clinton yesterday but the District Attorney refused to say whether anyone had identified either of the suspects, brought here from Kansas Thursday.

DECIDE ON VERDICT

Mrs. Janet H. Baker Met Accidental Death

NEW ORLEANS, March 23. (AP)—A coroner's jury late last night brought in a verdict of death by the accidental burning of an automobile in the death of Mrs. Janet H. Baker, whose charred body was found early Tuesday in a burning automobile in Audubon Park.

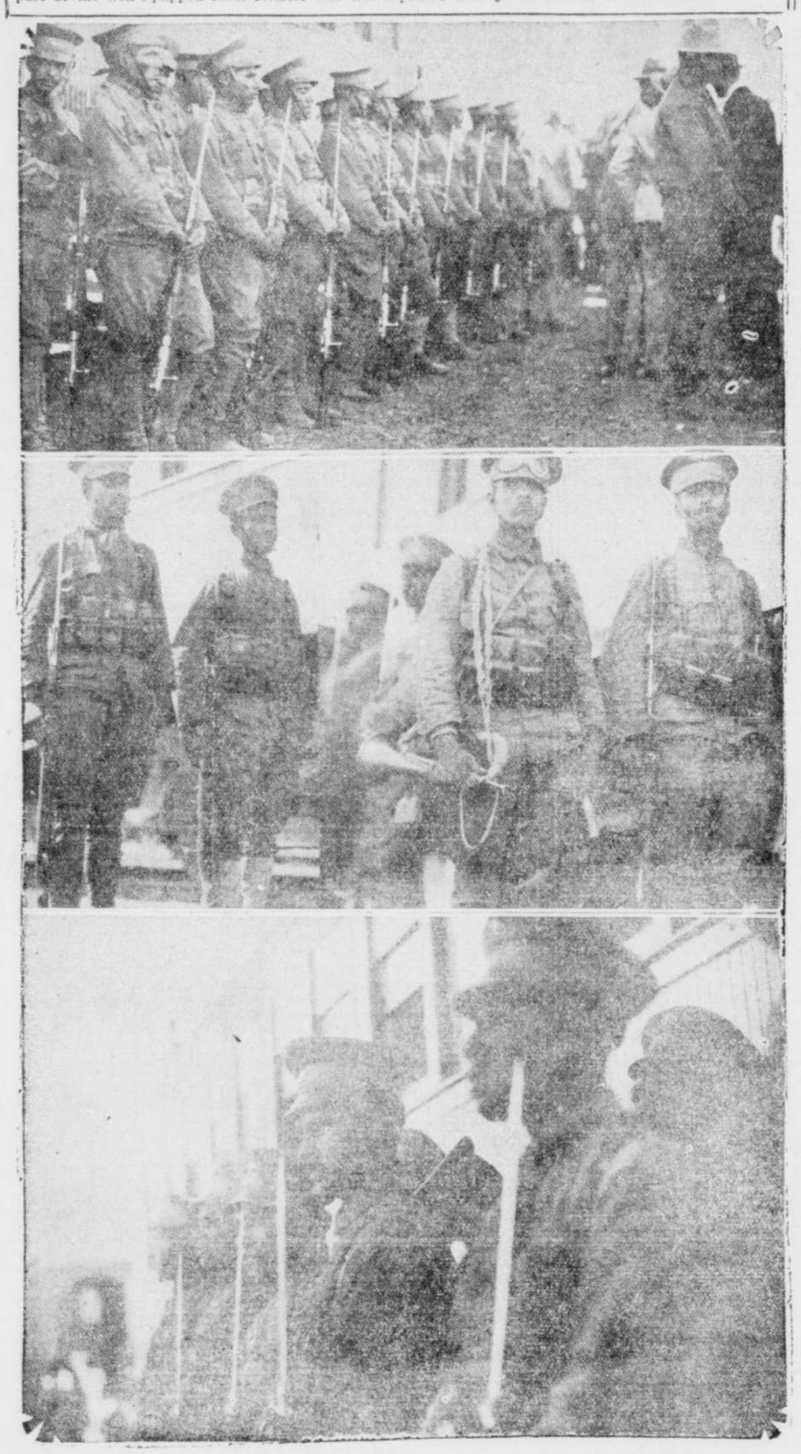

Despite the verdict, the district attorney declared he would go to the scene of the tragedy tomorrow morning when police dived into the park lagoon to locate the mysterious article a witness testified that a woman answering Mrs. Baker's description had thrown into the water a few minutes before the automobile burst suddenly into flames.

PLANE FORCED DOWN

SALT LAKE CITY, March 23. (AP) A storm in Eastern Wyoming forced a plane carrying Paavo Nurmi, the famous runner, from Cheyenne to Salt Lake to stop at Rock Springs last night, airport officials were informed.

WHEN ESCOBAR ARRIVED IN JUAREZ

CONVENTION ADJOURNS

FIGHTING BREAKS OUT

LONDON, March 23. (AP)—The Express today says that fighting has begun on the Hunan-Kiangsi border in China between the Kwangsi opponents of the Nanking government, and the old fourth army now supporting President Chiang Kai-Shek.

Juarez Becomes Battle Front

Juarez, spectacular frontier city just across the border from El Paso, has become a battleground in the Mexican revolution. Hundreds of people in El Paso sat on their housetops the other day and watched the struggle between rebels and federal forces for the city, which is regarded as one of the key cities in Mexico. Two views in Juarez are shown above; at the top the Church of Guadalupe, used as a fortress, and below the "Calle del Diablo" (street of the Devil), one of Juarez's main streets, so called because of gambling and vice that characterize it.

McCleary Issues Warning On Oil Waste In Sewers

City Manager G. W. McCleary announced yesterday that every manager of all garages, filling stations and wash racks, in Lubbock had been notified to stop the practice of permitting waste oils and greases to run into city sewers.

"Ordinance No. 406," says Mr. McCleary, "makes it unlawful for any person to pour or place any oil, grease or crank case drainings in any sink, trap or grating, pipe or other plumbing connection with the sewers of the city, or to pour or place oil and grease or crank case drainings at any place where they will run into the sewers."

Oils and greases drained into the sanitary sewer system prevent the proper operation of the city's sewage disposal plant. The police have been instructed to keep a close watch for violations of this ordinance, and those found guilty are subject to a fine not exceeding $100.

The city is willing to send a man to all garages and filling stations in the main business district, and within a reasonable distance from the center of town, as often as it is practicable to collect such waste oils from barrels or other suitable receptacles. This service is free.

GIN 26,000 BALES

Lamb County Cotton Crop Good; Gins Still Going

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

LITTLEFIELD, March 23.—A report from the different gins in Lamb county shows that up to-date about 26,000 bales of cotton have been ginned in the county, something over eight thousand of which were ginned at the Littlefield gins. The gins are still running, and the estimates for the season's ginning for Littlefield alone is 9,000.

for your confidence in our first year of service

The confidence of the people of the South Plains as exhibited in us during our first year of service, is a tribute to this young organization that we hardly expected to receive in such a short time, and a valued asset not to be gained with anything but the high character of service and equipment featured by this establishment.

Just a year ago we were new in Lubbock and the confidence placed in us as exhibited, speaks volumes for the careful attention to details and the assumption of a burden attained only by specialists.

Your confidence in us is not misplaced, and on the occasion of the ending of our first year in this territory, we pledge you a continuation of the kind of service that is alone worthy of the patronage of those who may require our services.

Seventh Annual Leuders Baptist Camp Is Planned

Several Thousand Members Of Stamford Territory To Gather For Vacation At Encampment In July

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

STAMFORD, March 23—With the approach of summer the minds of several thousands of Baptists in Stamford, and surrounding territory turn to the seventh annual Luеders Baptist Encampment which will be held this year from Tuesday, July 16, to Sunday, July 28, at the usual camp grounds at Lueders, 16 miles east of Stamford on the M. K. & T. railroad. The encampment buildings are located on a plot of about one hundred acres on the Clear Fork of the Brazos River, made easily accessible by the Texas Trans-Continental Trail.

Col. R. L. Penick of Stamford has been business manager of the Luеders encampment for a number of years, and it was upon his suggestion in 1923 at which time the camp was purchased that the site was located below the dam, so that there would never be a question as to whether swimming and similar recreations could be enjoyed in the waters of the beautiful Clear Fork.

Scarborough to Speak

Dr. R. L. Scarborough, of Fort Worth, president of Southwestern Seminary, will be the main speaker during the 1929 encampment. Dr. Scarborough, will draw an especially large crowd from this territory because this county is native to him. Anson having been his boyhood home.

Miss Juliette Mathes, Young Peoples' Secretary of the Southwestern Baptist Women's Missionary Union, whose home is in Birmingham, Alabama, will be present at the encampment and will teach classes in foreign missions the first week, and Mrs. J. E. Leigh, Dallas, and Dr. and a leadership course the second week. Mrs. B. L. Lockett, missionaries from Africa, will also teach during the earlier part of the encampment. Other teachers will be Miss Grace Comm, and G. S. Hopkins.

Skate To Classes

CIA Students 'Faw Down, Go Boom!'

DENTON, March 22—They may not drive "Leaping Lenas" around the campus as do the collegiate movie stars, but they are not so far behind as to walk to class! For, denied the privilege of riding in automobiles without permission, students of the College of Industrial Arts have resorted to roller skates in order to get to class on time.

Bruises and stiff joints have been in vogue at C. I. A. since the beginning of the new fad, with "I Faw Down An' Go Boom" as the temporary school song, and the steep inclines of Blue Serge Hill are not exactly conducive to safety for the beginner. But triumphant is she who can glide easily to the steps of the administration building, whirl around a few times before her surprised classmates, carefully park the skates and get to class in plenty of time!

SEEK CITY CLINIC

Beaumont Would Wage A Battle On Diseases

BEAUMONT, March 23 (AP).—An appropriation of $25,000 is sought for construction of a city clinic for examination of persons with infections or contagious diseases here.

Dr. L. O. Bernhagen, city bacteriologist, declared such amount is necessary in order to carry out the city ordinance in regard to examination of persons employed in restaurants and other places where examinations are required.

SEED SHIPMENT IN

Randal County Farmers Get Cost Price On Feed

CANYON, March 23 (AP)—The first shipment of certified seed to be purchased by the Canyon Chamber of Commerce and the Randall county agricultural agent is being sold to farmers at cost. The shipment included dwarf maize, Texas Blackhull kaffir and sumac (redtop) sorghum.

SPEAKERS PRAISED

Leading Educators Are To Talk At Huntsville

HUNTSVILLE, March 23 (AP)—Several of Texas' leading educators are expected to address the Fourth District Parent-Teachers Association's convention here on April 17-19.

Among those scheduled to speak are S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent; D. L. Caldwell, Dallas, president of the State Teachers Association, and Mrs. Edith Jones, state vice-president of the Parent-Teachers Association.

CONTRACT SIGNED

WASHINGTON, Mar. 22. (AP)—The contract for sale of the United States Lines and American Merchant Lines, which include the Leviathan and ten other ships, to Paul W. Chapman, inc., of New York, for $16,300,000, was signed today.

NEWS OF THE HIGH SCHOOL

Hub Hi-Lights, As Gathered by the Student Reporters

Group System Aid To Both Teachers And Pupils, Said

THE group system is a good way of finding out the qualities of a pupil. When working in the group system, a leader is appointed by the teacher to direct th eones in his or her group. The teacher, being acquainted with the quality of the student's work is able to appoint a leader who is able to "lead" his group. The group, being composed of girls and boys who are acquainted and can work together, can cover the ground much faster and do much more and better work than by trying to work individually. By this method, every pupil will have a hand in making the class what it is and will acquait the student with the idea of the responsibility he will carry when he gets out in life.

In an ordinary class, where the group system is not used, the teacher has to be troubled with every pupil. The teacher has to give all his time trying to find out the quality of the pupil's work, thereby not giving the needed attention toward each student to develop his ability. The group system is liked by many because it affords opportunity to broaden out and do much larger and better work, other than trudging along with the stragglers of the class and not learning as much as possible.

In an ordinary class, it is up to the teacher to teach the pupil what he knows. By the group system, the student works for what he gets, thereby upholding the quality of the class's work and making himself capable of shouldering more responsibility.

Every pupil who is in high school should know th evalue of self-education. The men and women employed in the schools today are paid to "instruct" and not to "teach". So it tis left up to us to "hustle" for what we get, and the best method to learn more and be more is through the group study plan.

CLUB ORGANIZED

Ruth Bell Heads Leifeste's Class After Balloting

Friday ,March 15, 1929, Sam Leifeste's sixth period plane geometry class organized a club when the following officers were elected: Ruth Bell, president; George Siover, vice-president; Sue Brown, secretary-treasurer; and Charles O'Neal, reporter. The class decided on "The Snoozers" for a name.

The discussion for the afternoon was to plan a picnic. The date was set for Friday, March 22, 1929, at Boles' Ranch. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Leifeste and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Brown ware chosen by the class as the sponsors. The period was continued with the study of plane geometry following the organization.

VISITS ARE HELD

Duncan Talks To Seniors After Morning Mixer

Tuesday morning different rooms visited other rooms and enjoyed their home room programs together. When the time was up the Seniors passed to the auditorium. M. H. Duncan, superintendent of schools, talked to them, his theme being "The Trend of Modern Education."

The oldest steamship in the world is said to be the barque Constance, built in 1723 and now in use as a training ship at Copenhagen.

Dr. W. R. White will deliver the commencement Monday evening, May 13, at the Tech gymnasium.

The Senior play will be given March 29, 1929.

The Junior play has been ordered and as soon as it comes the try-out will be held. All Juniors may enter the try-out. Miss Ethel Lawson and Harold Gordon are directing this production.

The county Interscholastic League Meet will be held here March 29th and 30th.

FUNDS ARE LACKING

But Relay Team Has Heart Set On Sooner Trip

Handicapped by a lack of funds, the relay team of Lubbock High school is making a valiant fight to take its annual trip to the Oklahoma Relays in about two weeks. On March 29, a paper, sponsored by these athletes, will appear on the high school campus, giving among other interesting articles the history of the different sports in Lubbock High school. Each student should feel it his duty to support this enterprise by buying at least one copy of this publication.

TALKS TO STUDENTS

Mrs. John Granbery Speaks To High School Girls

Mrs. John C. Granbery gave an illustrated talk Monday afternoon to about 150 students from the Mary Emma Latin clubs, and Girl Reserves. Mrs. Granbery told of her travels in Greece, most of her talk being centered around Athens. Her wonderful collection filled a part of the program. She showed colored and Sepia prints, household objects, and articles of dress which vividly pictured the characteristics and customs of the old European country.

MORNING PRACTICE

High School Bandmen Hold Early Sessions Daily

The students of the band are finding "early to bed and early to rise" is very profitable for their morning practices which they are engaging in each day.

The band gave a successful concert Friday night, March 15, 1929. In this concert a very fine, but difficult program was rendered.

STRENGTH DECLINES

Conservatives Lose Seats In Election In England

LONDON, Mar. 23 (AP).—The miniature general election held this week has shown a general decline in conservative voting strength as well as the loss of three of the five seats contested, all were held at the last general election by conservatives, but the liberals stepped in at Eddisbury and Holland and labor took North Lanark. The government party retained east Toxteth and Bath.

The claim of Lloyd George that the Liberel program offers a cure of the unemployment trouble in two years without cost to the taxpayer seems to be doing its intended work.

'Esprit De Corps' Manifest At High School Is Lauded

THE French have an expression "Esprit de Crops", which when translated literally means "spirit of the body". Translated freely, it may be interpreted to mean "a spirt of working together", and applies to any group of people who have the same interest in work or in play.

What about the faculty and students in Lubbock High school? Is there noticeable, when one enters our school for the first time, that spirit valuable to any school, "Esprit de Corps"? Without it, each one is for himself, lauding his own praise to the detriment of others, interested in only his few chosen friends, and while not actually discourteous or rude to those not in his clique, yet not making any effort to cooperate for the good of the school. He chooses one activity, and takes no active interest in the others, no matter how much the support of them would mean to the betterment of the school.

But with this spirit, this "Esprit de Corps", which binds together principal, faculty, and students, petty difference are forgotten, there is an atmosphere of kindly courteous, helpfulness and cooperation. Each forgets his unkind criticisms, his own aggrandizement, in the one ethical standard each should remember "the greatest good to the greatest number."

RACQUETEERS MEET

Westerner Tennis Bugs Are Planning Tourney

The Western Racqueteers met in their regular meeting place Wednesday evening in 107 Junior high.

Ten teams for the year were announced with a considerable change over the teams of 1928. Due to the fact that three members of the '28 team, James Whitesides, Edward Blackwell, and Voncile Gilkerson are not in school this year and Maxine Bradley did not enter this year, there are only two members left.

The teams are as follows: boys' singles, Gilford Scott; boys' doubles, Rob O'Hair and Pok Robinson; girls' singles, Eva Tyer; girls' doubles, Mary Beth Sheely and Pauline Cole.

Each afternoon these racqueteers meet and are planning to send all teams to the state contest.

TRYOUTS ARE HELD

Juniors And Seniors Name Declaimers After Trials

On March 15, the try-out for Senior Declamation was held in the high school auditorium. Five girls and one boy declaimed and the winners were Mary Geniece Hardburger and J. T. Stanfill. The judges were Dan Powers, Miss Dorothy Lomax and Miss Sutton.

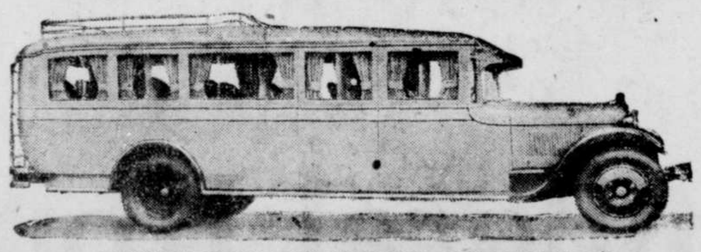

The Juniors had their try-out for declamation March 18. The first place was won by Maxine Burrus for the girls, and by John Shropshire for the boys.

In Senior High the winners were Marie Louie Shropshire and Roddy O'Neall.

Library At Tech College A Problem

Thousands Of Volumes Sought By Students Bring Decided Need For Larger, Quarters, Miss West Says

ANYONE who visits the Tech library since the beginning of the spring term will notice the extension of shelves and added tables as well as the removal of hundreds of books which formerly were to be found in the reading room. Whereas before the additional room was available and there was only room for 100 students at the tables, now 125 may be seated quite comfortably, and when tables which have been ordered arrive there will be room for 150 people at the 21 tables. Three new double stack shelves have been added, making an addition of 1,386 feet of shelving space for the books, and with all of this there are boxes of books in the basement and outside of the work room which cannot be opened because there is no room to place them on shelves.

"The only outlet I see to the situation," said Miss Elizabeth West, head librarian, "is to build a library."

To Add Another Room.

With the arrival of new tables it is the plan of the librarian to prepare a reading place in the stack room where faculty members and graduate students may study with stack privileges and study in quiet and comfort.

The old work room was contained in a tiny space where only artificial light was possible, and it was necessary to pile books and pamphlets on the floor sometimes until they could be catalogued. However, the new work shop has been fitted out of the room formerly used as a Chemistry store room and natural light, ventilization and plenty of room are available.

The present reading room has a large aisle space and is shelved with a few magazines, encyclopaedias, histories and volumes of Congressional Records by the score. The checking desk has been transferred to the doorway between the former Chemistry labratory and the library.

Congressional System Used.

The Library Congressional classification system of marking books is used in the college library and as far as is possible the printed catalogue cards are used. A foundation is being laid for a great library in the future and with as minimum amount of work to be retraced as possible. Miss West wrote to leading libraries both in this country and Europe in order to discover the most efficient method and this one was decided upon.

The personnel of the library is composed of the following persons and their assistants: Miss Elizabeth West, head librarian, Miss Emma L. Main assistant librarian and head cataloguer of books; Miss Ruth Budd, reference librarian and in charge of the desk; Miss Virginia West, secretary; Robert Martin and Ethridge Eagan, who assist at the checking desk and shelve books; Lola Mae Rozzell, who files cards and assists at the Desk, Annie Belle Collins, who does practically the same work, Vivian Watkins, bookkeeper; Horace Grady Moore, who checks the mail, and Rue Eubank, bookbinder and mender. Miss Eubank also collates books. Edna Yonge, who was the first student assistant to work for Miss West at Tech finished work toward her degree with the winter term and went home last week. Miss Yonge was stenographer at first and later specialized in marking books.

Miss West A Counsellor

Miss West acts as one in consultation rather than a dictator. The work is largely specialized and each individual is made to feel; a responsibility for his own particular job.

There is a branch library in the Engineering building where technical books and magazines are to be found. Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Randall is librarian in the Engineers library.

Just outside the librarian's office in the Administration building is a small room where trade bibliographies are available. These are from England, France and America. In addition many public documents are shelved.

The Harrison memorial library is in the stack room, and is composed of books which Mrs. Solomay Harrison, widow of the late R. C. Harrison donated, and the Whitman collection which members of the English department bought from Mrs. Harrison and gave to the library.

Growth Is Phenomenal

The phenomenal growth of the library may be observed from a study of the books in circulation during the years that the library has been in existence. During the first year that Tech was open there were 12,250 books used both inside and outside of the library; the next year 38,591 books were in circulation, while from September, 1927, to August, 1928, 54,205 books were in circulation. In March of 1927 the number of books used was 2,542, in comparison to 4,897 in circulation last year.

And according to Miss West there are 40,300 books, manuscripts, pamphlets, and maps both catalogued and uncatalogued, while 16,247 of these are catalogued.

WANTS OTHERS TO PROFIT BY HIS EXPERIENCE

Well Known Lubbock Water Works Employee Says After Taking Orgatone He Feels Better Than In Years

Mr. E. Denney, of 1806 Ninth St. is still another well known Lubbock man whose deep sense of gratitude and his desire to help others will not permit him to remain silent in regard to the benefits he has derived from the use of the remarkable medicine, Orgatone.

Mr. Denney, came into Bowen's Drug Store a few days ago, for more Orgatone and in a conversation with the Orgatone representative, said:

"I never thought I would give a statement for publication and I never have until now. But Orgatone is the only medicine that has ever benefited me and it has done me so much good I feel it my duty for the sake of others to tell about it.

"I had a tired languid feeling all the time for many years. I suffered terribly from nervous indigestion, and felt like I had a big hard knot in my stomach all the time. I could eat nothing without suffering afterwards, had severe headaches, and was so nervous I could hardly sleep at all. Many a night I would just toss and roll all night long and feel so tired and worn-out in the mornings. I could hardly get abut. I had the best of treatment and tried every kind of medicine until I thought nothing culd give me any relief. I got so I was afraid to eat anything except the very lightest of diet. I looked well and healthy and for that reason I got little or no sympathy, but I suffered more than anybody knows.

"Yes, I tried every kind of medicine I knew of but nothing helped me until I began taking Orgatone. At first, that is, before I tried it, I just thought Orgatone was like everything else I had used, and I tell you the truth, I had very little faith in it, but I read so many testimnals from people right here in Lubbock and all over Texas, that I decided to try it and I'm mighty glad I did.

"I feel now like I never had stomach truble, my digestion is fine and I am eating many things I have not been able to eat before in years. My head aches are gone, I'm not nervous anymore and I sleep like a child every night. Orgatone has relieved me of all that tired, languid, rundown, feeling and has built me up in every way so that I now enjoy living more than I have in many years."

Genuine Orgatone may be obtained in Lubbock by the Bowen Drug Stores, under the personal direction of an Orgatone representative. Adv.

A Sad Beauty

Hungary's Queen to Wear Black Gown

BUDAPEST, March 23 (AP).—When "Miss Hungary," the prize-winning beauty of Europe, contends at Galveston in May for the title of "Miss Universe," she will present the jury with several embossed copies in English of the muct-hated treaty of Trianon which reduced Hungary to one-third of its former size.

In making this dicision, the Hungarian League for the Revision of the Trianon Treaty has arranged to have "Miss Hungary" draped in black when she appears alongside of the other world beauties as an expression of the national grief over dismemberment of the kingdom.

"Miss Hungary" also will wear on her costume in large embroidered letters Hungary's national oath, "No, No, Never!" which refers to the acceptance of the Trianon treaty.

Man Drinks Poison As Wife Refuses To Return

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. Mar. 23. (AP)—Earl M. Johnson today made good a pledge to his estranged wife, Dorothy, that he would drink poison unless she returned in an hour.

He gave the message to two boys to deliver to his wife. She refused. The boys told Johnson and then went to police. Officers found Johnson dying.

PARIS, (AP).—A statue of Gustave Eiffel, the engineer who designed the 1,000 foot tower that bears his name, is to be unveiled at the base of the structure on its fortieth birthday this summer. Planners of the statue said people might forget that "Eiffel" was the name of a person and not of a mere mass of steel.

ATHLETIC CLUB BUILDING
DALLAS, TEXAS

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The bunch were filled with keen delight. Twas great to see the broad daylight, when they had been lost in a cave for days, and days, and days. "Oh, look," cried Clowny, "down below is where I'd really like to go. I see some lovely fields of green where cattle likely graze.

"Just think! If we can find a cow, we'll get a pail of milk somehow, and then we'll hunt for berries. They will make a dandy meal. We haven't had a bite I guess, for many days. I'm in distress. I never realized before how hungry one can feel."

"Sometimes," snapped Scouty, "you are rude. You never think of a thing but food. I'd like to see that valley too, but not to merely eat. The grass looks tempting I'll admit, and that's just where I'd like to sit. To loaf around for 'bout an hour would be a wondrous treat."

A coal man then spoke up and said, "Well, come on, lads, let's go ahead. There is no sense in staying here. Who's game to follow me?" "I am," yelled Coppy, "right away." And then he stopped and shouted, "Say! How we are going to get down there is what I can not see."

The little coal man fondly roared, "Leave that to me, boys! Hop aboard our funny little cave car and we'll have a speedy trip. If you will all hang on real tight, I know that all will be all right. Don't try to climb up on the edge you will likely slip."

So, when they all were sitting tight, the coal man pushed with all his might, and down the hill the coal car went. It almost brought a scare. But, Mister Coal Man had the knack of keeping it upon the track, and not a thing went wrong as they went sailing through the air.

Canyon Students To Work On Latin

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

CANYON, March 23 (AP).—Students of the Canyon public schools and the West Texas Teachers college refuse to believe that Latin is a dead language, and they are working to make the annual Northwest Latin tournament here on April 12 a very successful affair.

A banquet on the night of the tournament will be given, at which prizes amounting to more than $50 will be awarded to the winners.

Among schools competing will be Amarillo, Canyon, Hereford, Childress, Memphis and Clarendon.

Tulsa Has World's Youngest Organization; Wow Club Is Formed With Cooing Charter Members

TULSA, Okla., Mar. 23.—"Wow!" That's the name of Tulsa's newest club, composed of the youngest membership, individually and collectively, in the world, so far as can be ascertained.

The infants peeping coquettishly over the edge of the bed in the photograph are charter members of the organization, and not one is yet six months old.

The organization meeting, as far as the babies themselves were concerned, was just a pleasant afternoons social gathering—a few hours in which young mothers laid aside their "Guides to Babies' Health," and allowed their offspring to follow their own inclinations.

Babies Enjoy

The babies made the most of the occasion, too, laughing and cooing and kicking, uttering loud protestations only when a too energetic infant's foot shot out in the wrong direction.

They enjoyed getting acquainted with each other, apparently. Barbara Ann tugged goodnaturedly at Billy's pink toes; Mary Jean chortled gleefully when Jerry dived for the large red ball between them. It was a regular get-together affair, and that was just the purpose of the first club meeting.

The young mothers—seven of them—had enjoyed friendships of many years' standing, and now that each one had a child of her own, they want to perpetuate that friendship among their children throughout their lives.

The object of the club, according to the mothers, is to promote a bond of closest friendship among these babies when they have grown old enough to know what it all about.

To Start Fund

It is planned to start a fund, which, if maintained by the children when turned over to them by their parents, will serve to aid any of the club members at any time during their lives.

Should the families become scattered, the members, according to the plan, always will correspond and keep in touch with each other. They will be members of the friendship club for life, and in later years annual reunions will be held, no matter where the club members reside.

Thus, the Wow club became established.

Arrangements have been made by the Radio Manufacturers' association for the broadcast over an NBC nation-wide hookup of features to be presented at its annual banquet in Chicago on June 5.

BUY MANY PLANES

BIG SPRING, March 23.—As an indication of the rapid growth of the aviation industry in West Texas since the establishment of various airports, the Big Spring aviation company is purchasing airplanes in carload lots according to G. H. Byrne, manager. Two planes were reported as sold yesterday to local parties at Pyote. Blue prints are being made for the early construction of hangars, machine shops, and administration building at the Big Spring airport, two miles west of the city.

SYDNEY, Australia. # 'Woman Of Affairs' And 'Red Skin' Coming To Palace This Week

Quartet Of Famed Performers Found On Features Here

Michael Arlen's Great Play Is On Screen

SOUND, natural colors, and Richard Dix—can one imagine a more alluring cinema combination?

This is the menu carded for patrons of the Palace during the four days starting today. The attraction is "Red Skin," an epic of the Indian, filmed in color amidst a resplendent natural background.

The reigning film presentation for the other three days of the week at the Palace will be of equal magnitude. It is the film version of Michael Arlen's famous "Green Hat" and is titled "A Woman of Affairs." That stellar duo, Greta Garbo and John Gilbert, are the featured performers, and John Mack Brown has an important role.

Both of the features have sound effects an da perfectly synchronized musical score. They are both likewise accompanied by selected vitaphone acts, organ overtures, and special short features.

Romance, mystery, thrills — all these are promised in the feature cinema attraction starting today at the Lyric. It is entitled "Beyond the Sierras' 'and features Tib McCoy. There is also a selected comedy and news reel.

Tender Love Theme In 'Redskin,' Film

A love theme as tender as the story of Romeo and Juliet, enacted against the majestic background of the little known American southwest with all the brilliant coloring and beauty of the country revealed on the screen, is showing at the Palace theater. It is Richard Dix's new epic of the American Indian, "Redskin."

"Redskin" is the drama of a race of people, clinging to old traditions yet seeking to adapt themselves to the new. It is the struggle of youth against the caution of age; of youth seeking release from the chains of tribal custom. It is the romance of a boy and a girl of rival tribes, separated by the generations of ill feeling between their ancestors, who learn to love and rise above the restrictions of their environment.

Richard Dix plays the leading role, with beautiful Gladys Belmont, a new-comer to leading parts, opposite him. Dix has a dramatic role and the picture is a perfect vehicle for him. Hundreds of Indians appear in the picture and some of them play small parts. The cast contains many well known names such as that of Tully Marshall.

"Jazz Singer" With Jolson Is Coming

One of the idioms which has recently crept into the language is that a certain thing is a "natural." Coming out of the sporting world it means that a particular event is bound to happen because it is a logical or natural sequence. In other words, what is natural is bound to happen.

The triteness of the expression, appealing to Broadwayites, ran up and down the Great White Way whenever reference was made to Al Jolson in "The Jazz Singer" prior to the comedian's debut in the picture. Long before the premiere of the picture its success was discounted. "Oh, that's a natural," was the invariable remark, meaning that no "ifs" or "buts" stood in the way of success. It is to be said of Al Jolson's appearance in "The Jazz Singer" that never in the history of the theatre was any work touted so strongly as this one. It was foreordained a success from the time it was first announced by Warner Bros.

The picture will be presented here as a Vitaphone production, and Jolson sings five songs, "mammy" songs and popular airs being heard.

The film also has several talking sequences. It will be shown at the Palace four days starting Sunday, April 7th.

Gilbert and Garbo In Other Picture

John Gilbert and Greta Garbo have been given another opportunity to enjoy close-ups together in "A Woman of Affairs," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture which, synchronized with sound, and with an accompanying sound program, will open at the Palace Thursday.

The film is from a story by Michael Arlen, and was directed by Clarence Brown who, it will be recalled, also guided the two stars through what might modestly be described as the rather more than less affectionate sequences of "Flesh and the Devil."

Information is that the producers, after assuring themselves that the emotional temperature of the picture was not likely to fall very far below normal, decided that the occasion was worthy of an all-star cast. So they picked Lewis Stone, Hobart Bosworth, Douglas Fairbanks, jr., John Mack Brown and Dorothy Sebastian to take the more important roles.

McLean, Baritone, Coming Tuesday

The message of Cameron McLean, baritone, who appears at the high school auditorium Tuesday night at 8 o'clock, is a very big one, for his gift touches that which is universal. His contribution is one of ennobiement and understanding. To him belongs inspiration, lyrical gift, sense of color, marvelous diction and a simple tenderness, against which none of us are proof. He has a perceiving mind and a rich imagination.

You will never find a Scottish song which is unpleasant to listen to, when it is given expression by such an interpreter as McLean, cradled in the faith and genius of a great race.

He sings without effort, his phrases beautifully chiselled and controls his resources in a remarkable fashion.

Looking Ahead At Pictures Slated For Palace Here

"Jazz Singer" Is In Front Rank of Attractions

OUTSTANDING, of course, on the list of coming attractions at the Palace is the widely-heralded "Jazz Singer" marking Al Jolson's metamorphosis from the stage to the talking movies.

In "The Jazz Singer" Jolson relives his own life, amidst laughter and tears. In it he sings five songs and there are several skits of dialogue. The Jolson "Mammy" songs are especially featured.

Another outstanding attraction due in the near future is 'The Donovan Affair', an all-talkie in which a pear Jack Holt, Dorothy Revier, and Douglas Fairbanks, junior.

"Beware of Bachelors", a hilarious comedy drama of a shiek doctor and his flapper wife, is the third outstanding cinema attraction announced for future weeks at the Palace. Audrey Ferris and William Collier, jr. are featured and it is a Vitaphone production with sound and talking sequences.

Versatilitiy Of Dolores Del Rio Film Sensation

Vampire, Nun, and French, Or What Have You?

By DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., March 23.—About four years ago a wealthy young Mexican arrived in Hollywood to look the town over. His beautiful girl wife had received an offer to become a screen actress and he wanted to make sure first that the film colony was a fit place for her. Having assured himself that our village had some degree of respectability, he sent for his wife to join him. The young Mexican was Jaime Del Rio and his girl wife the now famous Dolores Del Rio.

Dolories was immediately hailed as a new screen vampire—a possible successor to Barbara La Marr—and cast as a French vamp in "Joanna." Then followed "Valley of the Moon," "The Whole Town's Talking," "His Wife's Honor" and "Pals First."

Dolores was beginning to be a success, but that fact bothered her scarcely at all. First and foremost she was Jaime's wife and it was her business to make his home as nappy as possible. If she was able to succeed in her own work on the side, all very fine—but pictures were a secondary issue.

"Wasn't the Type."

Then Raoul Walsh started looking for a girl to play Charmaine in "What Price Glory." Edwin Carewe, Miss Del Rio's manager and director, suggested his Mexican protege, but his only reward was a loud guffaw. Dolores just wasn't the type. However, the girl and Carewe had different ideas, so Dolores dressed up as Charmaine and went to see Walsh, whom she had never met.

As soon as he saw her the director exclaimed, "That's the girl I want!"

Dolores got the role and incidentally her first taste of real fame. That film with the fame it brought was the turning point in her life. Acting became the big thing to her. She was on her way to stardom and determined to let nothing stand in the way of attaining her goal. The rest of the story you know, her separation and the divorce. It was printed and reprinted at the time of Jaime's death in Germany a short time ago.

When Dolores decided that success meant more to her than anything else, her real acting talent came to the fore.

Russian, Spanish, French

Her next part was that of Katusha, a Russian peasant girl, in "Resurrection." That film also was a huge success and definitely established Dolores as a star. Then came "The Loves of Carmen," in which she was a Spanish girl. That was fololwed by "The Red Dancer of Moscow," in which she portrayed a Russian dancer.

One of her few American characterizations, that of Berna in "Trail of '98," came next. Following that she portrayed the Indian girl, Ramona, in "Ramona." And then she was the gypsy girl, Rascho, in "Revenge." At present she is playing the French Evangeline in the film version of the famous poem, "Evangeline."

Tolstoy, Son Of Famous Russian, Will Speak Here

Count and Arthur to Give Lecture at College

COUNT ILYA TOLSTOY of Russia, who is visiting America on the 100th anniversary of the birth of his father, Leo Tolstoy, the famous Russian writer and philosopher, will be the guest of Texas Tech College on March 30th it was announced today. Count Tolstoy has accepted the invitation to visit Lubbock and give a lecture here.

County Ilya Tolstoy is well known by his own writings, in which he displays the same keen sense of observation as his famous father, and in addition is a forceful speaker, so that in recent years he has given his ideas to the world in the form of lectures rather than in writing. The count is a man of over sixty and has lived a most interesting life in Russia and other parts of the world. His last tour of the United States was made in 1924, and he has helped to direct the motion picture "Resurrection" which was such a great success several years ago.

On the platform and in person Count Tolstoy is a man of the most extreme simplicity, shunning all forms of ostentation and display. He is a Count by birth, and comes from the most aristocratic Russian families, but regards his title only as part of his name. He likes America and like to drive his own car work in gardens, and otherwise get back close to mother earth.

Count Tolstoy in his lectures deals of the life and work of his distinguished father, and gives a vivid picture of the Russian peasant to enable his audiences to understand Russia before and after the revolution. He brings us the assurance that we shall never see Bolshevism in America, where, as he said, "every workman has a Ford and is as happy as if he owned an automobile," which in Russia the peasant and workingman have no hope of owning anything.

PLAN FOR HIGHWAY

Young Business Men Meet To Discuss Project

GALVESTON, March 23 (AP)—A joint committe from Galveston Lions club and the Young Men Progressive League will meet with the Freeport Lions club a Freeport on March 25 to discuss the proposal of a coast highway from Galveston to Freeport, via a ferry or drawbridge over San Louis pass at the southern tip of Galveston island. Such a route would shorten the distance about 40 miles.

Turns With A Bookworm

Time-Worn Best Sellers Are Yet Among Favorites

"Little Women" Is Nation's Fastest Selling Book

BELIEVE it or not—but Louisa May Alcott's "Little Women" remains the national best seller.

And "David Harum" continues a most profitable source of income to its publishers.

Thus, in the face of a growing deluge of new publications, the old favorites retain their hold, and have a constantly growing new audience.

On the other hand, I have just received some figures from the Book League of America which indicate how varied and high are the tastes of the avid readers of this generation. A poll of 5000 readers was taken and, heading the list, was Havelock Ellis' "The Dance of Life." The selection of such a modern and betautiful presentation of the sex cycle is surprising to say the least.

The two leading novels were Hardy's "Return of the Native," and Dostoevsky's "Crime and Punishment." In the travel field, Marco Polo leads. And not far from the top, one finds Herman Melville's "Moby Dick."

This rediscovery of Melville—that genius from the New Bedford whaling belt—has been going on for several years. And the latest Literary Guild book happens to the Louis Mumford's admirable portrait, "Herman Melville" (Harcourt, Brace). With the exception of Thomas Beer's "Stephen Crane," this seemed to me one of the finest biographies of an American literary figure.

It should serve to introduce read-

"MAN THE MIRACLE MAKER," is the title of a new book by Hendrick van Loon, recently published by Horace Liveright, Incorporated. This work, like others from the same gifted pen, is decidedly significant. Likewise it is unusual. Van Loon, whose interesting expositions and meaty observations have delighted hundreds of thousands of readers in his dozen or more previously published volumes, attempts to relate, in a manner both interesting and intelligible to the ordinary reader, the whole coure of human inventions. He shows how the hand, the eye, the mouth, the ear, and other bits of the human anatomy have given rise to inventions which have worked true miracles. Van Loon indulges in no scientific exposition; he sticks with ordinary words and phrases, but these phrases are packed with common sense and intelligible significance. The book is interesting and it is informative. One reads it almost as if it were fiction.

Scores of illustrations, done by the author and therefore poignant in their representations, are scattered throughout the book. They measurably enhance its effect .

"MAN THE MIRACLE MAKER": Hendrick Van Loon. Liveright, Inc., New York. Price $3.50.

Owen Davis' Play "Spring Is Here" Carries Critics

Glenn Hunter Star Of New Comedy On Broadway

NEW YORK, March 23.—The delicate and sometimes poignant comedy which has made Glenn Hunter a popular juvenile on the legitimate stage is still his forte as a musical comedy hero. In "Spring Is Here" he is surrounded for the first time in his career by hoofers and chorines and slapstick comedians, but his role enables him still to be a lad with an aching heart, spurned and made fun of by everybody until at last he wins the girl by his own perservering adoration.

Because it has Glenn Hunter; because it introduces to musical comedy a new heroine in Lillian Taiz, a discovery of George Gershwin, and because for the first time in his career Owen Davis has turned his hand to fashioning a musical comedy libretto, "Spring Is Here" is dissimilar in several respects to the run of musical comedies. Rodgers and Hart have written the music, and among the tunes to remember are "Yours Sincerely," "Songs In My Heart," and "Spring Is Here."

In addition to Hunter and Miss Taiz, the piece introduces to musical comedy Cy Landry, a mute clown whose caperings have hitherto been in vaudeville and movie houses;

Panhandle-Plains Pioneers Gather At Canyon Friday

Preparations Complete For Regular Banquet And Business Session; Will Open Museum To Throng Of Visitors

T. D. Hobart, Pampa, Is To Preside Over Session In North Plains City; Hope For Large Crowd

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

CANYON, March 23—Final preparations are complete for the annual meeting of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society which will take place here Friday, March 29. The tickets, which have been on sale for ten days will be available until Tuesday, unless all the space is sold out before that time.

The meetings will begin Friday afternoon with a business session at three o'clock, where routine matters concerning the welfare of the society will be discussed. The most important matter to come up at this time is that of securing funds for the erection of a museum building which will be a suitable permanent home for the organization. H. E. Hoover of Canadian heads the committee which will have this work in charge.

To Name Officers

Other features of the afternoon session, which is open to all who wish to attend, will be the election of officers, and the reading of two papers of great interest. Dr. W. P. Webb of the University of Texas will read a paper on "The Plains in the Civil War". Professor W. C. Holden of McMurry College will present his interpretation of "Frontier Defense".

T. D. Hobart, of Pampa, the president of the organization will preside at the afternoon meeting.

Art Exhibit and Inspection of Museum

An exhibit of the paintings by Harold Bugbee, of Clarendon, will be one of the attractions prepared for the visitors at the meetings of the society. Harold Bugbee is the son of one of the pioneer settlers of the Panhandle and chooses for subjects of his paintings those things which portray the life of his father and which he has known all the years he has lived. Among the paintings on display will be a portrait of Colonel C. C. Goodnight which was completed a few months ago; a picture called "The Chuck Wagon" which is said by critics to be one of the best picturizations of the subject that has been produced; "Sonora Longhorns" was painted by Mr. Bugbee in 1928 and "The Lucky Shot" was finished this year. These pictures will be on display for as long a time as they can be kept and persons wishing to see them may do so by calling at the administration building of the State Teachers' College.

Many Displays Ready

Following the afternoon meeting the museum of the society will be open to visitors. Here may be seen a large number of the 3,160 articles which have been placed in the care of the society by 200 different persons who are interested in Plains history. Among these articles are a pair of longhorns, placed in the collection by W. G. Baxter, of Dimmitt. These are eight feet and four inches from tip to tip and are said to be the longest Texas longhorns in existence. Not all the interesting articles will be seen on this inspection trip for the space at the disposal of the society is so limited that only a part of the collection can be shown at one time.

Banquet to be Closing Event

At six o'clock the annual dinner of the society will be held at Cousins Hall with Judge J. D. Hamlin of Texico, acting as toastmaster. Professor L. F. Sheffy, of the department of history of the State Teachers' College, will welcome the visitors and Horace Russell, of Amarillo, will respond. Judge L. Gough, of Amarillo, will introduce some of the interesting people who are present. Dr. W. P. Webb will discuss "The Search of Water in the Great Plains Region." A special number will be furnished by R. B. Smith of Crosbyton. Mr. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. "Hank" Smith, builders of the famous "Rock House" on Blanco Canyon which was the first home established in Crosby county.

It is reported that this year's meeting will be the largest in the history of the organization. Last year there were 182 guests at the dinner and many could not secure tickets. This year those in care of all who wish to come.

ers unacquainted with this tragic and brilliant figure to "Moby Dick," "Typee," "Omoo," "Mardi"—and the rest—all of them American classics.

To this time, the only comprehensive picture of Melville had been obtained in Raymond Weaver's biography. This, if my memory serves me, gave a sharper picture of Melville's youth. But in later life he picks up a great deal which Weaver dismissed too hurriedly. I'm inclined to encourage a reading of both works.

Certainly this book builds the stature of Mumford, who already had given an excellent account of himself in "The Golden Day"—in fact, this reviewer had looked upon him as the most sincere and important of the young intellectuals.

Perhaps the briefest commentary one could make on Melville has already been made by Van Wyck Brooks, who once summed his life in a phrase: "He was a man born too soon in a world too young."

And such a being, who sees too well for his times, will always be a miscast and somewhat of an outcast. It is this particular part of Mumford's picture which I liked best. He catches glimpses of a tragic and out-of-tune genius, who turns to high adventure and is completely overlooked by his times.

It was in Weaver's book, I believe, that I first read how Nathaniel Hawthorne's wife was cannier than most. Although her husband was the outstanding literary figure of the day, she was shrewd enough and feminine enough to recognize the collosal stature of his friend, Melville—and so, with hidden jealousy, would scold at the comradeship of the two.

For those star-spangled-banner wavers who have a true pride in the American achievements, here is a name to be mentioned whenever the world asks questions—which is just one of the reasons we should know him better.

Plump Girls Are In Demand Here

The critics marched en masse to Hoboken, N. J., to appraise the revival of "The Black Crook," which Christopher Morley and his colleagues have brought to life across the Hudson. Sixty years ago the piece was an epoch-making New York production. In its reincarnation the original plot is played without burlesquing, but its dancing and music have been augmented.

The plot involves the supernatural Stalacta and her Amazons, who come to the rescue of the humble lover whose finance is wrested from him by the evil count, and Stalacta and her beefy beauties are, as of yore, the most popular figures in the ensemble. Today, however, the broad curves of the sixties cannot be found in chorus ladies, and to remedy this deficiency the chorines are liberally padded.

Airplanes Break Onto The Stage

Although a horse race is one climatic incident of "The Town's Woman," the play also contains a stock market coup, a nonstop airplane flight from New York to San Francisco and back, an effort by night-riders to drive the tea room proprietress from town, and a conflict between the village hypocrite and the plain-speaking young clergyman. Critics gave their kind word chiefly to Helen Baxter, who plays its principal role.

Henry Hull appeared as "Young Alexander" in a play by Hardwick Nevin, studying the growing pains of the youthful despot of antiquity.

Eadie Tells Of Deep Sea Diving

Thomas Eadie, whom newspaper readers may remember as the individual hero who stood out amid the tragedy surrounding the S-4 and S-51 submarine disasters, is to tell of his experiences. A book from his rather untested pen, entitled "I Like Diving" is scheduled for publication by Houghton-Mifflin during April. Just to show that Eadie is essentially human, read the dedication: "To my wife, who worries about me."

India, Occult and Mysterious, Topic

That dark, forbidden, and mysterious land — India — ever symbolic of the occult and magic forms the subject of a new Century book, "The Last Home of Mystery." A few advance copies of the book have been distributed and the sensation it has already aroused promises a veritable flood of comment when the regular edition comes off the presses next week.

Rascoe's Book On Broadway Unique

Burton Rascoe, former editor of that learned journal, the Bookman and likewise a former newspaperman, has written that should be an interestign treatise: "A Bookman's Daybook." This work—while we have not as yet had the privilege of see it—is said to be a diary, a book of personality sketches and last but not least a literary history of New York for the period it covers.

We Can't State The Reason Why

While personally we don't care a trifle whether or not Maxwell Bodenheim ever unlimbers his typewriter again there may be some who will be interested to know that the author of "Georgia May," is once more into the book news. This time it is "Sixty Seconds," a book purporting to show the emotions of a convict in the last sixty seconds allotted before a scheduled death on the electric chair.

Howard County Pioneer Is Dead

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

BIG SPRING, March 23—Mrs. Martha Tamsitt, age 81 years, wife of the late Stephen Tamsitt of this city, died at her home here Wednesday night at ten thirty following a week's illness. Mrs. Tamsitt was born in Ashford Kent, England, on April 2, 1849, and was married to Stephen Tamsitt on April 6, 1874. She was the only surviving charter member of the St. Mary's Episcopal church of this city and was active in church affairs to the time of her death. She had been a resident of this city for the past forty-four years, her husband having served as foreman of the Texas & Pacific blacksmith shops here for forty years having resigned four years prior to his death on September 30, 1924.

Mrs. Tamsitt is survived by two children, Mrs. W. G. Nabors and J. O. Tamsitt, four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren of this city and a sister, Mrs. A. V. Arundel of Minneapolis, Minnesota.

Funeral services will be held in Big Spring, Sunday afternoon at 4:30 at the St. Mary's Episcopal church.

Spectators Barred Inman Divorce Case Is "Wild" Affair

RENO, Nev., Mar. 23 (AP).—Further evidence bearing on charges of Walker P. Inman that his wife "ran wild," and had affairs with other men before he separated from her in 1927, was presented here today in the divorce suit brought by the wealthy son of Mrs. James B. Duke, widow of the tobacco magnate.

Charles Miller, Inman's chauffeur, reiterated testimony he had driven Mrs. Inmon and others to various places were she had become intoxicated. On two occasions when Mrs. Inman drank heavily she tore at her clothing, Miller said, and he covered her with a table cloth.

Such parties, he said, also had been held on the Inman yacht.

Inman and his wife, the daughter of a Kokomo, Ind., clergyman, were seated a few feet apart in the court room, from which all spectators were barred because of the nature of the testimony. They took little notice of each other.

PLANS BIG ACREAGE

Howard County Farmer To Put In 2,000 Acres

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

BIG SPRING, March 23—J. E. Harding one of Howard county's most prosperous farmers plans to farm 2,000 acres this year, three-fourths of this acreage will be put in cotton and the other in feed. Early corn will be planted in April says Mr. Harding.

The recent rain have furnished a splendid season and farmers are plowing their lands. Planting will begin within the next twenty to thirty days. The cotton acreage will probably be large this year than last says Mr. Driver, banker due to no live pink boll worms being found in this section.

PRESIDENT HOOVER DECLARES FOR LAW ENFORCEMENT

Many people listened in to the President's inaugural address, and smiled with a bit of doubt as to his sincerity in his statements about the enforcement of the laws of the nation. Law enforcement and world peace were two of the outstanding objectives of the policies outlined by Mr. Hoover at that time. His utterances would indicate that he proposes to carry on independent of the eastern wing of his party which is avowedly opposed to prohibition, and that if he can have his way the "noble experiment" will cease to be an experiment. That the president accepts the fact that prohibition enforcement depends upon education of the public with respect to their duty in observing the law is evident from his statement that "the duty of citizens to support the laws is co-equal with the duty of their government to enforce the laws which exist." Considerable significance also attaches to the statement of the president that "rigid and expeditious justice is the first safeguard f freedom, the basis of all ordered liberty, the vital force of progress," and his advocacy of transferring at least part of the enforcement activities from the treasury department to the department of justice. The president also reiterated his determination to appoint a national commission for a searching investigation of the prohibition problem. The achievements of President Hoover during the years he served as secretary of commerce add weight to his statements relative to his determination to eliminate so far as possible disrespect for law. The president has repeatedly demonstrated that he mages no idle utterances very few Americans doubt he will sincerely and cnscientiously seek the solution of the prohibition problem, and the great majority wish him all possible success.

The president has encountered and solved difficult problems, but never such as now confronts him. In addition to the opposition of those who are opposed to prohibition and those who are convinced that it never be anything but a "noble experiment," he will encounter the opposition of many of the Eastern leaders of his own party who are avowedly opposed to prohibition. To achieve his objective will call for all the president's resourcefulness as an organizer, and if it is achieved, it will not be through the efforts f the party with which he is aligned, but through his own ability to organize the American public into a co-operative unit.

But the people who have watched Mr. Hoover in the accomplishments of many things that he has been able to add to his achievements in various ways, would indicate that he is a man of great resourcefulness and that he will be able to organize and put into effect an organization that he proposes to operate and make it effective, even over all of the opposition that appears to be as obstacles in the way.

There is one thing pretty certain. Mr. Hoover will be in close touch with every department, for that is his nature. He has served in executive positions long enough to know that it is of vital importance that he be in position to put his finger on his men any moment that he sees fit to communicate with them. Mr. Hoover is sincere, we believe, in wanting to enforce the prohibition laws as well as all, others of the nation, and will be actively on the job as long as he is president of the United States, and the people who are law abiding citizens should stand at attention and be ready to render him their undivided support and encouragement.

CLEAN UP TIME

The time of year has rolled around for all of the people of Lubbock to begin to think about cleaning up the premises and getting all of the rubbish that may have accummulated about the place during the month when it has been cold and disagreeable weather at time, and when clean up is in its inactive stage.

Now as the grass begins to peep through the soil, and the flowers begin to move in their bed and the buds begin to swell on the trees, we should begin an active campaign upon the trash in the alleys and about the fence corners, and in the yards where the wind has stacked papers, trash and other stuff. Lubbock is one of the cleanest towns of the western portion of the state, but there is still room for improvement. Let's begin now, and not wait for the mayor to issue a proclamation to clean up. If we will all get busy now, there will be no need for such proclamation.

BEING FRIENDLY

Having the reputation of being friendly is one that everyone should desire. This is not only true as individuals but as citizens of a city. There seems to be quite a difference in towns in this respect. Some cities the people seem to all be interested in you. They all seem to want to make you feel that you are welcome, and that you are not being looked upon as a bandit or a hijacker, but that you have their confidence, and therefore are inclined to appreciate the attitude, and will always remember the people of that community.

On the Firing Line at the Nation's Capital

CABINET REVEALS NO GREAT LEADERS OF MEN, BUT AS A GROUP HOOVER'S CHOICES LOOK ABLE AND COMPETENT

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Most of the new cabinet members, and possibly all of them, are able and competent men. That probably is the best that can be said of them as a group as they begin their new careers. The fact that there is no brilliant, inspirational leader of men among them probably is not important, because Herbert Hoover himself will provide the leadership.

One or two may attain great added prestige during their cabinet service and one or two may fall by the wayside, but there is no general howl against any one of them and most of the noise made has actually been directed at Mellon, who is now serving happily—orcontentedly, at least—under his third White House boss.

The Hoover cabinet is an easy cabinet to fire whenever Hoover gets tired of it. It has no member, except perhaps Mellon, whose dismissal would bring any anguished yelps from over a wide area. A row with and the subsequent dismissal of any really big man—Borah, Hughes, or Dwight Morrow, for example—would be fairly certain to react against a president. But not one of the new members has any influential group of admirers outside his own state. It's up to them to please the boss and do as he says.

Somehow one is reminded of the Wilson cabinet, nearly all of whose members were subsequently known to fame because of their association with Wilson. Wilson never had any doubt that he was going to dominate that cabinet and chose no one whom he wasn't sure would obey orders—if he could help it. The strain of approaching war produced two who preferred to resign rather than to serve, Bryan and Garrison, and even at the end Wilson was firing Lansing for what he considered insubordination.

Hoover seems unlikely to have any trouble with balky cabinet members, although there are some who profess to believe that he will have trouble in ever separating Mellon from the treasury, as he is said to desire to separate him in a year or so.

The critics of the new president contend that he would have had a stronger cabinet if he had been a bolder man and had been able to disregard the recommendations and objections of others. But there are certainly two ways of looking at that.

He might have feared to appoint Henry M. Stimson secretary of state because of Stimson's lack of popularity in Latin America and lack of diplomatic experience, but he didn't.

He wasn't afraid to name William D. Mitchell as attorney general because of Mitchell's comparative obscurity. He dared criticism of James Good and Walter F. Brown as secretary of war and postmaster general because they were politicians who owed any prestige they might have to Hoover himself. And he knew that there would be ill feeling and probably misinterpretation of motive when he denied Wild Bill Donovan his ambition to become attorney general. And so on.

Probably it takes courage for a president to name any cabinet at all. The notable thing about this administration, speaking of cabinets, is that responsibility will be centered and kept in the White House and that the fact that Hoover is the one and only main show in the executive branch of the government will always be recognized by the people.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR MAY BE REMOVED

"DEAR DOCTOR A: friend of mine, bothered with a growth of hair on the upper lip, remedies the trouble by the use of tweezers. I have always understood that plucking the hairs from the upper lip was dangerous. If it isn't, I should certainly like to follow her example. Please advise me.

"By the way, Petersizing does work both ways. I was, several years ago, 25 pounds underweight. I was too listless to count calories, but followed your general directions as to eating more than I wanted to, each meal. I added more butter, raw eggs and milk between meals (plenty of fruits and vegetables, of course). Alas! it worked only too well! I had failed to keep exact tab of my weight and found in a year or so (I had dropped in-between-meal refreshments long since that I was more than 25 pounds overweight. So I had to Petersize to lose! That worked, too, and I'm about normal now. I weigh twice a week, always at the same time of the day and in the same weight clothes. I find it is much easier to gain or lose one or two pounds than it is to gain or lose 25 pounds. MISS M."

The only permanent remedy for removing superfluous hair is the electric needle, Miss M. However, when that cannot be used, then the tweezers or an epilating wax can be used to temporarily remove them I have not heard of any danger from the use of these methods.

What is dangerous is to squeeze a pimple or boil on the upper lip, for in these cases there is an infection which may travel through the nose along the lymph passages and eventually get to the brain.

I am glad you had such good results with Petersizing. That it is easier to lose or gain a few pounds than it is many, is a truth so evident that it is surprising it isn't heeded oftener, but I suppose it is because it is only in recent years that the importance of normal weight has been realized.

For those who need instructions on how to reduce or gain weight, we have our Petersizing pamphlet which can be obtained by following column rules. We also have an article on superfluous hair.

"My teeth are in pefect condition, as I visit the dentist regularly. I am not troubled with constipation, yet I have a coated tongue. Why is this, doctor MISS B."

Do you sleep with your mouth open, Miss B.? Do you wash your tongue as well as your teeth after each meal. The warmth of the mouth and the small particles of food furnish good media for fungus growths, such as yeasts and bacteria, and they multiply very rapidly, especially if the mouth is long open and the saliva, which is antiseptic to a greater or lesser degree, is lessened.

A great deal more attention used to be paid to the simple coating of the tongue than is nowadays, although, of course, in intestinal and other disorders the tongue will more readily become coated; perhaps because the saliva has lost some of its antiseptic quality. The tongue should be cleaned when the teeth are brushed, especially in the morning and before retiring. This can be done with a little piece of whalebone or similar article. (You can buy tongue scrapers at the drug store.) Just be careful not to use it so roughly that it irritates.

Cleaning the tongue with the toothbrush is difficult and may make you gag.

SO THINK WE

We think if Mexico could fill all of the engagements that have been announced for battles, this revolution would have been rather interesting, but so many of the dates made have not materialized.

—o—

We think there is one thing that we would like to be certain of when we go up in an airplane, and that is that the pilot must know his business, for we certainly would not know what to do with the critter should it take a spell of cutting up

—o—

We think the Quakers at Washington will possibly not have to enlarge their church as was epected when President Hoover commenced to attend services there, as reports say that only a few people more then the ordinary congregation attending services there last Sunday to see the president enter. Even the presence of the president in the church will not bring people out to church.

—o—

We think since the prohibition law is ten years of age that it should be losing its milk teeth, and given some real honest to goodness grinders that will mean something when the matter of enforcement is brought about.

—o—

We think that with most women they think before marriage that there is not another man living like "him", and afterwards we imagine that many of them hope sincerely that this is true.

—o—

We think that if there is anything specially the matter with America it is declining romance. Just honest to goodness romance, like there used to be. People are too busy chasing the almighty dollar to even become interested in this wonderful pastime.

—o—

We think in this age you just simply have to give the other fellows better merchandise and better prices and better service if you expect to stay on top. This is an age of quality and service and not of business for old time friendship sake.

—o—

We think the main trouble in raising children now is that the parents too often have to ask the youngsters what they think about it. When we were being brought up we had very little to say about it. Fact the less we had to say the better it was for us.

—o—

We think there is one thing that can be said about these Americans and that is that most of them will fight for their church that they so regularly stay away from.

—o—

We think the trouble with the Golden Rule is that it has been amended till it is no longer effective as the "Golden Rule". The same thing is true of the federal and state constitution.

—o—

We think when a crowd of women get together the number who talk at the same time depends altogether on the number present.

—o—

We think it might be interesting news to some folks to know that scientists have announced that a salmon is nothing more than a gold fish grown large enough to be eaten.

—o—

We think it might be all right to follow Col. Lindbergh's advice and talk about aviation, but we are not sure that he was talking about aviation when he took a tumble with Anne.

The Way of the World

GROWING

Amiel, famous for his journal, said: "He who ceases to grow greater becomes smaller; the stationary condition is the beginning of the end."

To rest up and take it easy is well enough for a limited period. People who decide they have done enough or got enough and make up their mind to rest and take it easy permanently, have done much worse than they think. They haven't adopted a settled and stationary condition. They have started back. The garden of the mind can't be let alone and remain beautiful. It has to be cultivated.

SOUND CONSTRUCTION

A building with a beautiful front, but lacking in sound construction, top, bottom and rear, and faulty in foundation, will soon be found out by the tenants. It is a fake and a false pretention. An automobile that is all paint and no performance will soon be found out by the driver. Material things that are false don't "get by" very long. How is it that people who are all front and have no foundation, either in intellectual equipment or character, expect to go far without being found out? A good front is an asset for any man, but it can't last and it isn't even worth having if there is no sound construction behind it.

TRICKY WRITING

Said John Burroughs: "One fault I find with our younger and more promising school of novelists is that their aim is too literary; we feel they are striving mainly for artistic effects. Do we feel this at all in Scott, Dickens, Hawthorne or Tolstoi? These men are not thinking about are but about life—how to produce life."

Something like the thing Burroughs had in mind must have occurred to many in reading occasional examples of modern advertising. There seems to be an attempt on the part of the writer to produce a striking effect of words. He tries to do tricky things with language. He seeks to register with a phrase instead of trying simply and naturally to tell the reader about his goods.

Are we not more impressed by advertising which is simple and direct and obviously truthful than we are by tricky phrases?

NEW YORK, March 23.—Shortly after the dawn, when Manhattan is making those first yawning noises which announce the beginning of a new day, there comes from over the bridges and under the rivers a great parade of blossoming beauty.

When the first shots of light are breaking through a dirty early morning mist, this parade moves steadily toward a pivotal point on Sixth avenue—and comes to a halt.

And when the pampered ladies of Park Avenue turn luxuriously over in their beds and reach for the flowers which have just arrived by messenger, the vast flower mart of New York has all but ended its day's rush.

From the greenhouses of New Jersey they have come—from Connecticut and Long Island. Refrigerated trains have brought mimosa and orange blossoms from California; narcissus have arrived from Virginia—or perhaps from the Carolinas—and daffodils have come down from Canada. All the plant growing world has sent its finest wares to the mart where the demand never seems to end.

In this neighborhood of luscious perfumes and bounteous bouquets, little groups of foreigners wait hour after hour to tussle for the best remnants to be found when the "big buyers" from the ritzy uptown places have ended their bargaining. The uptowners arrive in sedans, limousines and coupes. For theirs is a profit of kings. Wandering into one of their shops upon the "avenue," the baskets of gift flowers are priced into the hundreds of dollars. Whereas the street vendors arrive, pushing little carts ahead of them, ready to take what is left. Then the bargaining begins—for the wholesalers well know that they must be rid of their stock unless they expect to take a loss. So the street vendors rate their bids according to the desperation of the dealers. For three cents, mayhap, they buy roses—and soon are sending their street cries and chants along, the highways and byways waking the sleepers and attracting the pedestrians.

Standing on the fringe of the bargaining, one learns many things about flowers—commercial things, which somehow make you want to get back to a little cottage in the country and fight with weeds and insects to bring forth a few modest bachelor buttons.

You can learn, for instance, that some of the big growers "play hunches." One has a hunch that there will be some heavy "spenders" arriving on Broadway and will arrive with several thousand orchids. It's a pure gamble—for if his hunch is wrong, the flowers will not "move." On one occasion, I was told, one of the best known plungers of the flower kingdom was able to dispose of a thousand orchids at a single sale—because of a wedding he had anticipated.

And so it goes—with the Manhattan instinct for gambling carried down to the very posies one wears in a buttonhole.

Some more "Big Town gossip." They do say that it was Nance O'Neil, the celebrated actress who taught Vilma Banky how to talk for the talkies . . . And Will Rogers, having worked without his lariat for years, has feared that his hand might lose its cunning and so has been rehearsing back stage for many days. . . . They say he almost stopped the show the other night by lassoing the tenor .

WANT MAIL DELIVERY

Tahoka Civic Clubs After Improvement In Mails

TAHOKA, March 23.—Plans are under way by the various civic organizations of Tahoka to secure city free mail delivery for this place. All the houses have recently been numbered and a contract is to be let Monday for the erection of the names of the streets at all street intersections.

A strenuous campaign is being waged by the Chamber of commerce and the Kiwanis club to get the necessary sidewalks built. When this is completed all the requirements will have been met to insure the free city mail delivery.

TO OPEN AIRPORT

CORSICANA, March 23 (AP)—Corsicana's airport will be formally opened on April 27, W. C. Strouse, president of the Navarro County Shrine club and aviation enthusiast, announced. A dedicatory celebration for April 27-28 is being planned.

NEA SERVICE © 1929 By NEA Service, Inc. By ANNE AUSTIN

THIS HAS HAPPENED

The body of "HANDSOME HARRY" BORDEN, promoter, murdered Saturday afternoon, is found beneath the closed airshaft window of his private office Monday by his secretary, RUTH LESTER.

DETECTIVE McMANN learns of five people who could have murdered Borden: MRS. BORDEN, estranged wife; RUTH LESTER; BENNY SMITH, office boy; JACK HAYWARD, insurance broker with office directly across the airshaft; and RITA DUBOIS, dancer, Borden's last sweetheart.

Suspicion is heaviest upon Hayward, Ruth's fiance, because of overheard threats against Borden, bloody footprints of a pigeon inside and outside the airshaft window indicate the window was open until after the murder.

Benny Smith, who has not reported for work, is sent for as are MINNIE CASSIDY and LETTY MILLER, scrubwomen. BILL COWAN strengthens suspicion against Hayward by telling of hearing Borden's angry voice when he, Cowan, called Hayward Saturday at 2:10 and was put on a busy line.

Ruth tells McMann about CLEO GILMAN, recent mistress of Borden's. She is sought. Rita Dubois arrives. She says Borden had failed to meet her at the station, that she had called him, found his line busy at 2:10, then called again and was told by Borden to come to his office. Did so and received from Borden second half of a torn $500 bbill, but left him alive at 2:30.

She denies having robbed his body of $500 more in smaller bills. ASHE, Borden's manservant, is sent for, but is preceded by FERBER, fingerprint expert, whose findings reveal fingerprints of unidentified woman on the glass panel of the door between outer and inner office. McMann suspects they were made by Cleon Gilman, now urgently sought by police.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVI.

Ruth lester's hand tightened concilsively over Jack Hayward's as she listened to McMann's half of the telephone conversation which the detective sergeant was carrying on with his superior officer at police headquarters.

"So Cleo skipped out Saturday noon, bag and baggage, eh?" McMann spoke into the mountpiece, his voice registering the frown which was beetling his thick brows and snarling the corners of his mouth. "Who's on the ob? . . . Clay, eh? Put him on the phone if he's there now, please. . . . Hello, Clay! What's the dope on this Gilman dame? Did she say where she aw sgoing? . . . No? . . . Oh, back Monday or Tuesday morning, huh? Well, be on hand to welcome her home and tell her that McMann wants a chat with her. . . . Sure, go through her apartment! What do you thing this is—a tea party?"

The detective slammed the receiver upon the hook, strode to the door between the private office and the outer office of the Borden suite. "Birdwell! Take Mrs. Borden and Miss Dubois down the hall and put them in Covey's charge until I need them again. He's still in that vacant suite, isn't he?"

"Yes, sir—interviewing tenants who could have heard the shot fired, sir." Birdwell answered in his weary voice. "Frank Ashe, Borden's manservant, waiting to see you."

"All right—show him in," McMan directed, as he held the door wide for Mrs. Borden and Rita to pass through, the widow thanking him with a faint, sad smile, the dancer wrapping her fur coat about her slim body with assumed nonchalance, utterly belied by the chalky palor of her face.

As a gray-haired, anemic-looking man was about to enter the private office, McMann held him back with an arm stretched across the doorway, anud turned his head to address Jack Hayward:

"That's all for the present, Hayward. Thans for the finger prints," and he grinned crookedly. "Guess you knew they wouldn't help us much, since you'd been here this morning after Miss Lester discovered the body. By the way, while you were out to lunch, I performed an interesting experiment." He reached out for the door and closed it in the man-servant's face.

Jack Hayward's steady bronze-brown eyes did not flicker, nor did his color change. "Yes?"

"Yes! . . . When I was in your office this morning, looking for the gun you seemed to be so sure I'd find in the bottom drawer of your desk, and which wasn't there— oddly enough!—I found something else. A missing link, you might say."

"That's interesting," Jack said evenly, despite the frantic warning of Ruth's tightened fingers upon his arm. "May I ask what it was?"

"Oh—nothing much," the detective grinned. "Just a nice long 10-foot pole with a hook on the end of it—the kind of pole that's ordinarily used to pull windows down from the top, but which—as I took pains to prove—can be used very nicely for closing windows across an eight-foot airshaft, if a chap gets ust the right leverage. A nice useful sort of pole, if a fellow very badly wants a window closed and doesn't want to be seen walking along the hall and unlocking another fellow's door in order to close it. You found it very handy, didn't you, Hayward?"

Jack's handsome face darkened with anger, but his voice was steady as he answered: "I did not close Borden's window with a pole or in any other manner, McMann. There was no reason why I should. But it must have been a very interesting experiment. Did you also demonstrate to your own satisfaction how I robbed the body and secured Miss Lester's automatic, all with this very useful window pole?"

McMann's grin widened. "I admit that at noon I was a little bit worried about those details, but a charming visitor has pretty well cleared them up for me."

Ruth could remain silent no longer. Her voice quivered with anger as she lashed out at the self-satisfied detective: "That's not fair, Mr. McMann! Rita Dubois has cleared Jack by insisting that Mr. Borden was alive when she came here Saturday afternoon at 17 minutes after two, at which time Jack was with me in the Chester Hotel dining room."

The grin left McMann's broad, thin mouth. He looked at the angry, trembling girl gravely, almost compassionately. "I'm sorry, Miss Lester, but what Rita Dubois says doesn't mean that to me!" and the detective snapped his fingers.

"You saw me catch her in lie after lie. The facts are all I'm interested in. Rita had a key to this office. She could have entered, whether Borden was alive or dead. She got from him—alive or dead—half of a $500 bill and $500 more in smaller bills. At least we know she got the torn half of the $500 banknote, and we can take the other money for granted, I think.

"Alive, Borden wouldn't have given her a cent until she'd come across—kept her part of the bargain, which was to go away with him and become his mistress. You heard him say so yourself. Therefore, she got the money from Borden, dead not Borden alive."

But Ruth was not defeated by the detective's logic. "Then you think she was so greedy that she stole my gun, too—walked out of here with the very weapon which she must have believed had killed Mr. Borden? And which did kill him! I know it did—"

McMann shrugged. "And Hayward's gun? What about that?"

Ruth tried to control her anger, to speak reasonably, convincingly: "Mr. McMann, I don't believe the disappearance of Mr. Hayward's gun has any connection at all with this case. He himself told you he owned it, where to look for it. Was that the action of a guilty man? Won't you work—ust for the sake of fairness—on the theory that Mr. Hayward's gun was stolen by a petty thief, prowling through the building Saturday?

"There was a gun in these offices—please don't forget that! We know, from the thumbprints on the bottom drawer of my desk, that Mr. Borden opened that drawer, in all probability to get the gun to defend himself against threatened attack. Maybe he always kept it handy when he was alone in the office. I don't know! But he almost certainly had it in his possession or on his desk Saturday before he was killed.

"An unknown woman was in these offices some time Saturday afternoon. You have the finger-prints. I believe that Rita was telling the truth when she said that Borden was alive, that he gave her his half of the $500 bill to make his peace with her, for having missed the train to Winter Haven. After all, she had kept her part of the bargain. She had waited for him at the station; he could not know that she would ditch him after getting the money.

"The $500, for some reason, was of vital importance to Rita Dubois. Either Mr. Borden gave it to her of his own accord, or — she killed him in desperation when he refused. That is the only reason why Rita Dubois would have taken my gun away with her—because she had used it upon Harry Borden."

McMann had listened patiently, even respectfully, to Ruth's long, passionately sincere speech. When she paused, breathless, he asked quietly: "You don't believe that Rita killed Borden, do you, Miss Lester?"

"No! I know she lied a lot, and that she was desperate for money, but I don't believe she killed him. Neither do I believe she robbed his dead body. What I do believe, Mr. McMann, is that Harry Borden's murderer—or murderess—has not yet been questioned."

McMann smiled, but not derisively. "Cleo Gilman? If she was here Saturday afternoon, she walked up—part of the way, at least. Moran, the elevator operator, seemed pretty sure that he had brought no other passengers to this floor."

"I wouldn't count too heavily on Micky Moran's memory, Mr. McMann," Ruth flashed. "And granting that Micky is infallible, isn't it reasonable to suppose that a person coming here to see Mr. Borden after a telephone quarrel with him, a person he feared and armed himself against, would have walked at least a flight or two, rather than be seen getting off the elevator right in front of Mr. Borden's offices?"

"Just a minute, Miss Lester," McMann brushed her question aside. "You refer to a telephone quarrel. Surely you're not forgetting that that telephone quarrel, or part of it, was overheard by Bill Cowan, when he was cut in on Hayward's busy line? How can you explain that? You don't think it was your petty thief, prowling through the Starbridge building, who called up Borden and quarreled with him, after stealing Hayward's gun?"

Ruth looked staggered for a moment, then triumphant. "Telephone operators have been known to give wrong numbers as well as plugging new calls in on busy lines. Mr. Borden's telephone numbers are Main

Today's Poem

SONG

Often I have heard it said
That her lips are ruby-red.
Little heed I what they say,
Ere she smiled on other men,
Real rubies were they then.

When she kissed me once in play.
Rubies were less bright than they.
And less bright than those which shone
In the palace of the Sun.
Will they be as bright again?
Not if kissed by other men.

3500 and 3501. Mr. Hayward's number is Main 3051. Mr. Cowan was formerly rather a close friend of Mr. Borden's. He could easily have given the operator the Borden number, which he must have called many times in the past thinking that he was giving Mr. Hayward's number. Remember, he did not hear Jack's voice—only Borden's!"

McMann chuckled. "You're very clever, Ruth Lester. You can have a job under me any time you like. . . . That's all for the present, Hayward. You can get back to your work."

"Thanks!" Jack bowed ironically. Then, to Ruth, in a low voice: "You're a darling and I love you."

"All right, Ashe!" McMann called through the door by which Jack was leaving.

The gray-haired, bloodless-looking little man who had been Harry Borden's man-servant slipped noiselessly, diffidently, through the door and took a chair which McMann indicated—opposite his own at Borden's desk.

"Sit down, Miss Lester," McMann invited. "I may need you. . . . Now, Ashe, how long had you been with Mr. Borden?"

"Ten months, sir."

"When did you last see your employer?"

Saturday morning, sir. He left his apartment at half-past nine, as usual. He told me he would be out of town for the week-end, and that I was to pack his bags. I was to expect him for dinner Monday evening—him and a young lady," the valet answered.

"Did he say who the young lady was?"

"Yes, sir. He said Miss Dubois would dine with him."

"Where were you Saturday afternoon, Ashe?" McMann pounced suddenly.

The valet looked startled, then faintly indignant. "I sir? I had lunch with my daughter—my married daughter, Mrs. Bernard Williams, in Washington Heights, and took her to a neighborhood movie—my daughter and her two children. At half past four her husband met us in the lobby of the theater and all of us—"

"All right, Ashe!" McMann interrupted the iron-clad alibi impatiently. "Now tell me: have you any knowledge or suspicion as to who killed your master?"

The anemic little man straightened in his chair, then leaned forward slightly toward the detective as he said in a curiously impressive voice:

"Yes, sir, I think I have, sir!"

Broadcasters Meet Tomorrow To Plan Legislation

Proposals May Be Advanced At Special Session

Station Owners Desire Government Regulation Of Broadcasting Go On Stable Basis

CHICAGO, March 23. (AP) — Recommendations to be made to congress regarding radio legislation will be considered at a meeting here March 25 of members of the National Association of Broadcasters.

William S. Hedges, president of the association and manager of station WNAC, says the principal object of the meeting is to determine whether the broadcasters' proposals shall be submitted to the special session of congress which opens April 15.

Although included in the records of the hearings, the recommendations made by the association to the last congress were not considered, both senate and house committees confining their deliberations to the question of continuing the federal radio commission. While it is considered certain that congress will not enact any radio measure at the special session, Senator Dill and other radio leaders are planning to start the drafting of legislation to be introduced at the regular session next Dec. 3rd.

It is the paramount desire of broadcasters that the governmental agency regulating broadcasting be placed on a permanent basis as soon as possible, Mr. Hedges says. Orderly administration is impossible while the authority of the administering body is only temporary and of short duration, he contends.

While the association did not approve specific actions of the commission, it recommended that if congress was not prepared to designate a general agency for permanent administration of the radio law the commission be continued for another year. Members of the association, Mr. Hedges says, are strongly opposed to arbitrary changes in the broadcast structure such as the reallocation of last November. Such upheavals jeopardize the investments of participating broadcasters and tend to reconcile station owners who oppose it will have to abandon their project as incapable of success, he believes.

The association is opposed to mathematically equal distribution of broadcasting facilities as unworkable and favors an allocation of licenses, frequencies, powers and hours of operation of zones or regions throughout the United States.

Hoover Ready To Co-operate With Farm Committee

WASHINGTON, March 23 (AP)—President Hoover is ready to co-operate with congressional committees in formulating a farm relief bill but he will feel that presentation of a definite measure by him would amount to an encroachment on congress.

This word came from the White House today about the time representatives of the American Farm Bureau Federation arriving here for the opening of farm relief hearings called for a presentation of the administration's farm program to take the place of their old friend, the twice vetoed McNary-Haugen bill.

Meanwhile, Arthur M. Hyde, new secretary of agriculture, notified the senate agriculture committee today that he was leaving the city and would be unable to meet its request for his appearance at the opening of hearings Monday.

C. E. Hauer, New Orleans, La., thinks he has made a record for DX reception on a crystal set. He wrote WEBH, Chicago, that he heard that station distinctly on several occasions.

Amateur To Make Tests Far Asea

Brooklyn Youth Leaves On Experimentation To Be Staged In Far South Sea Islands

NEW YORK, March 23 (AP)—Eric Palmer, jr., Brooklyn amateur who is continually adding importance to his name in short wave territory, has left on another expedition.

He is to conduct intensive research into reception of short wave signals in the south seas with the fishing expedition of Gifford Pinchot on the schooner Mary Pinchot. Palmer, who is 17 years of age, will report as to the frequency which seems to penetrate the tropical static most effectively. He will attempt to keep in communication with "hams" all over the world, as was the case while he was in Rio de Janeiro with the American-Brazilian scientific expedition.

Palmer will experiment both with low power and 150 watts. He will use a special transmitter having two 852 tubes and a 2,000-volt DC generator for plate supply.

The expedition will collect specimens of birds, fish and flora for various institutions and societies.

CONTEST IS WAGED

Effort Being Made To Oust Mayer As Oil President

AMARILLO, March 23 (AP)—A contest for control of the Johnson Ranch Royalty company's $2,000,000 worth of properties being waged. Stockholders in Denver, New York, Fort Worth, Amarillo and other cities are involved.

The campaign centers around the efforts of Dr. Mary F. Bates and E. K. Whitehead of Denver to unseat Ed. R. Mayer of Amarillo, president and organizer, as president.

WACO, March 23. (AP). — Two armed men held up the manager and two clerks of a suburban grocery store here, locked the employes in a back room and escaped with less than $50.

Selection from the pens of favorite composers will be heard in the program Tuesday night, March 26, by the St. Paul association over KSTP.

Radio Advertising Censorship Urged

CHICAGO, March 23—Asserting that "the harm done by radio advertising is more serious than anything public through newspapers," the American Medical Association is urging censorship of radio broadcasting of medical advertising.

A bill providing for such censoring is under consideration now by the National Association of Broadcasters and the Better Business Bureau.

Secretary Wilbur Closes Down More On Oil Situation

WASHINGTON, Mar. 23—Secretary Wilbur today took another step in the development of the administration's oil conservation policy by issuing a general departmental order looking to its further execution.

Mr. Wilbur said that in reviewing permits, representative cases may be recommended for public hearing before the Secretary of the Interior to determine lines of policy. He said the holding of hearings would be an effort on the part of the department to deal fairly with all oil companies and prospectors involved in the recently promulgated policy of completely stopping the taking of oil from the public domain.

Cancellation Ordered

The order flatly instructed the committee appointed by Mr. Wilbur, consisting of Solicitor Finney, Director Smith of the Geological Survey, and Commissioner Sorg of the Land Office to cancel all permits where the expenditure of money in development work is not involved.

The general land office, the order said, will hold for cancellation, following 15 days in which to show cause, all permits on which there is no evidence that expenditure of money in development work has been made.

Mr. Wilbur instructed the geological survey to report to him on the likelihood of oil and gas drainage of government lands in various producing fields where claims of drainage have been made.

The export trade of the United States for the fourth quarter of 1928 reached $1,570,000,000, the highest since 1920.

One Radio Artist Masters Playing Of 12 Instruments

At 27, Composer-Director And Musician Is Featured Performer at $1100 Per Week

NEW YORK, March 23.—Everybody sings but "Sam" for radio entertainers. They work for what they get. And Andy Sannella is proof of that fact, for he works hard for everything he gets as a radio entertainer.

But he gets $1,100 a week!

Andy has so mastered his knowledge of music that he is proficient in the handling of 12 instruments, among them the guitar, piano, clarinet, accordion, violin, ukulele and saxophone.

At 27, he is a composer, orchestra director and a musician of national reputation. His working days are every day of the week. From Sunday to Sunday he toils in various musical roles and as director of orchestras in sponsored radio hours over the NBC system.

In the New York studios of the NBC he directs four of the most popular programs of the air each week. In seven others he appears as an instrumental soloist. He is recognized as one of the leading saxophonists and guitarists in the country.

Sannella's weekly routine is as follows:

Sundays he is the director and leader of the Dutchess hour. On Mondays he gives saxophone and guitar specialties in the General Motors hour. Tuesdays find him playing a sax and guitar in the Bromley-Carlson hour. As director and soloist for the Smith Brothers orchestra, a guitar soloist in the Parisian hour and soloist with the Davis Foresters, he puts in a hard day on Wednesdays.

Thursday he acts as director and soloist in the Halsey-Stuart hour and as sax, guitar and clarinet soloist in the Lehn and Fink program. The Armstrong Quakers claim him on Fridays as saxophone and guitar soloist. To round out the week he plays the saxophone and guitar in the Lucky Strike Dance orchestra Saturday night.

As a composer, Andy lives to [illegible] phone lovers the popular compositions, "Jack and Jill," "Aileen," "Millicent" and "Espanella." One of his recent releases is a guitar number entitled "Lotus Flower."

In between radio engagements, Sannella finds time to make records for recording companies.

Paul Reese, veteran announcer, has returned to the air over KNX, Los Angeles, after an absence of several years. Monroe Jockers and his concert orchestra have been added to this station's entertainers.

Charles W. Hamp, whose "30 minutes of sunshine" has been heard from stations in many sections of the country, is in New York for a series of programs, including WOR and WABC.

Average Price Of Radio Sets Down

WASHINGTON, March 23 (AP)—The average price of the receiving set sold in 1928 was $138.50 compared with $221 in 1927, a survey taken by the department of commerce shows. The sales of equipment by 6,569 of the 32,150 radio dealers from whom information was solicited totaled $70,877,137 for the year.

The volume of business per dealer averaged $10,800 in 1928 compared with $11,550 the previous year. The average number of sets sold per dealer was 68 in 1926 and 71 in 1927.

Radio Board Has Tough Time Of It

No Matter What They Do, It's Wrong Laments One Of Members of Broadcast Commission

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 23—The Radio Commission, no matter what it does, is wrong. At least that's the report of Louis G. Caldwell, former general counsel of the commission.

"At times," he says, "the mail is flooded against certain kinds of advertising, and yet when the commission proceeds to take disciplinary measures against such a station there is a flood of letters the other way.

"There are letters protesting against too much duplication of chain programs, and yet when the commission attempts to cut time of such a station a torrent of abuse descends upon it. Many inquiries reach the commission asking what is the best receiving set, and many complain indignantly that the commission do this or that with regard to local interference from ice boxes, dental machines, power plants and the like."

CASE IS PASSED

Delay Is Necessitated In Hidalgo Contest Suit

AUSTIN, Mar. 23 (AP)—The Hidalgo county injunction case brought by Gordon Griffin, contesting the election of J. E. Leslie as district judge, was passed today when called in district court. The delay was necessitated pending completion of the trial of another suit.

Griffin is seeking to have Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, secretary of state, restrained from issuing a certificate of election to Judge Leslie, claiming he did not receive the most legal votes. Contestees attacked jurisdiction of the court to try the case, but Judge George Calhoun held it had authority to go into it.

The staff of KGO, Oakland, mailed to Atlantic coast listeners 293 proofs of reception of that station during the first three weeks of February.

French have discovered, it is said, a fireproof petrol which they intend to use in their planes operating between Paris and London.

Book Tells How Sick At Sea Are Treated By Radio

Sailors Far In Ocean May Get Benefit Of Expert Attention Through Wireless Direction

WASHINGTON, March 23. (AP)—Complete descriptions of how sick sailors thousands of miles out at sea may be treated by doctors ashore —through radio communication—is contained in a new edition of "The Ship's Medicine Chest and First Aid at Sea," published by the public health service.

On hundreds of merchant vessels that put out to sea without a doctor aboard, the manual has served the purpose of a ship's physician since 1901. This is the first revision of it since 1904.

The outline of how sailors may be treated by doctors stationed in home ports will greatly increase this practice, public health officials said. It has been used and has saved lives on many occasions since 1921, but until now seamen have had no concise directions how to obtain aid.

Messages from merchant vessels, describing symptoms of sick sailors are received in New York, Key West, New Orleans, Galveston, San Francisco, Chicago, Cleveland, Sault Ste. Marie, Honolulu and Manila. With the consent of the ship's captain, the air may be cleared for emergency messages. Public health doctors stationed at these ports receive the messages, and by radio prescribe treatment.

The manual contains directions for treating simple ailments, and a glossary of medical terms. Radio treatment, officials said, is to be used when the situation is not covered by the manual.

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

BIG SPRING, March 23—Harry F. Guggenheim, president of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the promotion of Aeronautics Inc. New York, has sent to E. E. Fahrenkamp, postmaster, a certificate of appreciation to be delivered to the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce for its interest and activities in aeronautics and for having placed the aerial sign on the Fig Spring Compress giving the name of the city and the direction and distance to the airport.

This certificate was signed by Mr Guggenheim and Col. Chas A. Lindbergh.

Preacher's Idea Uses Radio, Scolds Audience

AMARILLO, Tex., March 23 (AP)—The Rev. Robert Allingham uses the radio to tell his parishioners they abuse the privilege of listening to church programs rather than attending services.

Speaking from WDAG, Mr. Allingham quoted Dean Charles R. Brown of Yale as saying: "The difference between listening to a radio sermon and going to church is the difference between calling a girl on the telephone and spending the evening with her."

Aviation Course From Broadcaster

Jacksonville Station Is Now Putting Regulation Instruction In Aeronautics On Ether

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 23 (AP)—Station WJAX is conducting an arm-chair course in flying in conjunction with the Reserve Officers association of this city.

The course is held at 6 p. m. each Wednesday and consists of simple lessons, designed principally for those with no previous knowledge of flying. Instructions in taking off and landing are given by noted civilian and army aviators.

At the close of the course an examination will be held and the papers graded by the Reserve Officers association. The best students will be awarded free flights and a chance to continue training in practical flights. A special award to the best Boy Scout student will be given by Capt. Sterling A. Wood, U. S. A., in charge of reserve activities in Jacksonville.

Forty Baby Chicks Die In Fire In Brooder

(Special To The Avalanche)

BIG SPRING, March 23—Forty baby chicks smothered to death in a fire here today when a lamp set fire to some seed in the brooder at the Big Spring Feed and Seed company. The lamp had been placed in the brood to keep the chickens warm. Fifteen chicks survived the smoke. The fire was extinguished before other damage was done.

A new series of orchestral programs featuring marches is being given each Wednesday night from KOA, Denver.

Huge Field Still Ahead For Radio As Main Industry

Radio, As Leadng Business Is Only In Infancy Despite Mounting Magnitude Of Sales

(By NEA Service)

NEW YORK, Mar. 23.—Although it is doing millions of dollars worth of business annually, radio is just starting toward the goal of comparison with the leading industries of America.

Bond P. Geddes, executive vice-president of the Radio Manufacturers' Association, reports that while gigantic strides have been taken by radio during the last decade, it is still far from its saturation point.

In round numbers there are in this country some 28,000,000 homes. Of this number, radio is in only 9,000,000. Naturally, the remaining 19,000,000 are potential sales, Geddes declares.

Of these 28,000,000 homes, about 19,000,000 are wired for electricity. About 7,000,000 of these own radios, leaving 12,000,000 wired homes and 7,000,000 unwired homes to be sold.

An important factor entering into radio sales is the alternating current receiving set, put on the market during the last year and a half.

This set has increased the selling prospects to include set owners who now own obsolete battery receivers.

A tabulation shows that out of the 7,000,000 wired homes having radios, only 2,700,000 have A. C. sets, which means that 4,300,000 obsolete sets are in the market for replacement. Adding this number to the total of 19,000,000 homes without radio, it figures out that there are 23,300,000 homes waiting to be sold or resold modern receivers.

Out of this mass of figures comes the final tabulation placing the saturation in the radio field at 32 per cent, leaving 68 per cent still to be exploited.

How Industry Grew

As an idea of the climb of the radio industry from a gamble in 1922 to a fixed position among the leaders in 1928, we get the following figures:

The number of homes with sets increased from 60,000 in 1922 to 9,000,000 at the beginning of 1929. The radio audience during this time increased from 75,000 to 40,000,000.

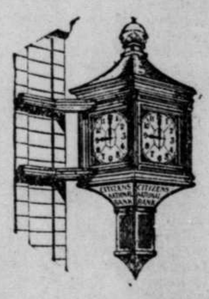

Radio exports increased from $2,800,000 in 1922 to $10,907,000 in 1928. In 1922 only 100,000 sets were manufactured; in 1928 this number increased to 2,550,000, worth $306,000,000.

The total sale value of radio and its parts and fixtures in 1922 was $60,000,000. In 1928 this had climbed more than 100 per cent, to $650,550,000—all in six years!

Motor Car Dealers Promising Great Things At Show

Opportunity To Inspect All Models And Gala Time Will Be Combined By Local Agencies On Thursday, Friday

Fourteen Dealers Planning Big Event: Dance Palace Will Be Scene Of Show On Two Days, Nights

A REVELATION is in store for the people of Lubbock and the South Plains section who visit the Lubbock Automobile Show which is to open next Thursday afternoon at the Up-Town Dance Palace, 803 Texas Avenue. Motorists are to be offered an opportunity such as has never before been given—an opportunity to view under one roof the various automobile models and compare these remarkable values of 1929.

Boasting values such as were never known in the automobile industry, Lubbock dealers will be hosts to what has been estimated at 10,000 visitors during the two-day session. In addition to Lubbock and Lubbock county folk, every nook and corner of the South Plains section has been given a part in making of the 1929 show the greatest ever staged in West Texas. Buses into Lubbock are expected to give special rates starting Wednesday of this week.

Believe Value Is There

The automobile show this year will prove to the buying public beyond a doubt, said a local dealer, that the consumer spends his dollar more wisely on an automobile today than any other form of merchandise. Automobiles stand alone in a field where the quality has been increased many times and the price to the used decreased. Increased efficiency, more conveniences and more beautiful designs are only a small part of the attractiveness of the products of modern day auto manufacturers.

A check-up on various other forms of merchandise which have taken the forefront in sales throughout the country shows that none have decreased in price, while the automobile, thanks to increased production, is being offered to the public at a lower cost and at the same time has been improved many fold from the standpoint of performance and beauty.

Entertainment Planned

Although the new models will hold the center of the stage during the show, visitors are promised special entertainment during the afternoon and night of both days. This will be withheld as one of the surprise features of the occasion.

Plans call for the doors of the pavilion to be opened at 2:30 Thursday afternoon following a demonstration in the down-town section led by a local band. Each dealer will be allowed space for three cars on the floor of the hall. The show will continue until midnight on both Thursday and Friday nights.

No charges will be made for admittance to the show room, local dealers have decided. All expenses, including entertainment for both afternoons and nights, will be paid by Lubbock dealers who will preside in the role of hosts.

$100,000 Estimated Value

An estimate of $100,000 was placed upon the valuation of the automobiles to be in the show by the fourteen dealers in their final meeting Friday night. This sum will include approximately fifty cars. The majority of the dealers voted to show four designs while some agreed on three.

Travis Bailey, the newest member of the local automobile fraternity, has arrived in Lubbock with his line of Packards and White Trucks. Mr. Bailey drew for position on the floor of the pavilion along with the other dealers Friday night.

To Hold Parade

The monstrous down-town parade will precede the formal opening of the doors to the automobile show Thursday afternoon. Led by the Lubbock high school band the dealers will follow with their demonstrators in the same order which they will hold in the show building. Packard, Chrysler, Graham-Paige De Soto, Buick, Oldsmobile, Whippet, Studebaker, Ford, Chevrolet, Nash, Dodge, Hupmobile and Hudson-Essex.

Business concerns on Broadway and Main street are expected to assist in the opening demonstration. Flags will be flown from the front of the stores and huge signs will direct the visitors to the Up-Town Dance Palace where the cars will await the inspection of the buying public.

HOW'S SHE HITTIN'

By ISRAEL KLEIN

THIS is the most deceiving time of year for motoring. Its sudden changes from cold to warmth and back again, its high winds and floods, cause considerable damage to the automobile if the proper attention isn't paid the car.

That attention must be guided by the thought that winter must be considered still with us, especially in the northern part of the country, as long as there is the least probability of a change to worse conditions. Farther south, the treacherous first day of spring with its floods and heavy rains and muddy roads point to trouble just as do the colder days up north.

What is so very disconcerting at this time is the sudden change of temperature from day to day. If there is alcohol in the radiator, instead of glycerine, as an anti-freeze that is particularly bad.

If it has become too warm, the motorist will discover steam emanating from the radiator cap and overflow pipe, just as though he were frozen up in cold weather. What happens is the boiling of alcohol in the cooling solution even though the engine heat may be quite low. Alcohol boils at a much lower temperature than water.

The only hard thing that may result would be the shutting of the engine hood if any of the alcohol vapor happens to condense over it. Alcohol is harmful to the pyroxalin finish of modern automobiles.

A further effect may be the total evaporation of all alcohol anti-freeze in the cooling solution leaving the car unprepared for any sudden change to cold weather.

It is therefore essential that motorists whose cars are supplied with alcohol, instead of glycerine, have the cooling system refilled with alcohol as soon as there is the least possibility of a change to cold weather. Otherwise a sudden cold spell will find the entire system frozen solid.

If you have been caught unawares in such event, take your time getting started in the morning and no harm will result. The engine can be thawed out easily, but it must be done slowly and carefully. The motor should be run at a low speed in the garage, but with the garage doors wide open, for about five minutes.

At the end of that time lift up the hood and feel the lower hose connection. If it is soft and warm, the cooling solution is no longer frozen and you may proceed with safety. But be sure to get your supply of alcohol at the next service station, or the solution will freeze again at your next stop.

Floods are particularly hazardous at this time of year thorughout the country. The first thaw brings an overflow of water from the melted snow in the hills and mountains to the lowlands. One effect is the flooding of low parts of roads, so that automobiles have to ford them to get through.

Fording a low flood is easy if the brakes are waterproof and the driver passes through slowly. But most drivers coming down hill at a good clip proceed to take the ford at the same rate of speed in order to get out of it in a hurry.

The result is not so much detrimental to the brakes as it is to the ignition and the entire motor. Many a car has been stranded just as it left the flooded part of a road, because of a wet distributor, wet spark plugs and a water-soaked carburetor.

In a case like this the only thing to do is to wait until the ignition system is thoroughly dry, to drain the carburetor and refill it with pure gasoline before starting off again.

The preventive against such trouble is slow and careful driving through any ford. Even before a ford is attempted, it is best to make sure the water isn't too deep. If it reaches higher than the bottom of the radiator it should not be attempted. Better turn back and try another route than take a chance and be stalled in the midst of the flooded road.

Europe Tests Rotary Valve, Crankless Motors, New Automatic Transmission

By ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service

EUROPE, laboratory for freak ideas, continues to play with all sorts of automotive innovations that come its way. Out of the thousand and one projects with which its engineers have been experimenting, a few have come to America to be accepted here on a massive scale.

A single pertinent example of this movement from European experiment to American production is that of four-wheel brakes. Now further improvements just as radical as this are being worked out by European engineers and may soon find their way to this country.

Development of the single sleeve valve engine, a purely European product, is now taking hold in the United States. In fact, Continental Motors has long held American patent rights on this type of motor. The simplicity of this motor, its fewer moving parts and its sturdy construction are well known to engineers.

Single Rotary Sleeve

In line with this type of motor is another now being tried out in Europe, in which a rotary sleeve valve along the top of the motor is used. It is a simplified adaptation of the sleeve valve principle. Here a cylinder with intake and exhaust ports for each operating cylinder is placed under the head, driven by gears from the main shaft. As it revolves it opens and closes the ports of the row of six or eight cylinders in the engine, permitting gasoline to enter or the burned gases to leave each chamber in order.

The advantage of this type of engine is that the single cylinder replaces six or eight sleeves in the ordinary Knight engine and therefore is simpler, cheaper and more reliable. It is the invention of M. Bournonville, a Belgian engineer living in New York, and has been experimented upon by the Minerva Company of Antwerp.

Even more radical than this development is the rotary engine that was recently displayed in England. Here is a high speed motor, much lighter in proportion to its horsepower than the kind we are using today, that does away with pistons, cylinders, connecting rods and crankshafts and still creates even more power than the orthodox poppet or sleeve valve motor.

Has Eccentric Drive

A double eccentric arrangement, turning on the main drive shaft, is the main working part of the motor. This eccentric, rotating in a single cylinder, has three abutments or partitions which create as many firing chambers between the eccentric and cylinder wall. The double eccentric produces six chambers, equal to the average six-cylinder motor.

The rotary engine is something like a rotary pump, although many new features advance it far beyond that class of power plant. It requires considerable experimentation and development before it could be considered available for automotive use, but it at least shows to what extent Europe is going to create further improvements in automobiles.

A new type of radiator that is believed to be much more efficient, as it is water cooled and less costly than the honeycomb varieties in use today, is another European development. Instead of minute honeycomb cells this radiator has a single row of tubes, each of which is encircled by a thin copper wire grid arrangement that quickly dissipates the heat of the water flowing through the tubes.

Better Cooling Efficiency

The entire radiator weighs much less than the conventional type. It takes up less room. It cools less and, most significant, it will keep a motor cool under hill-climbing and other conditions that ordinarily are too severe for the system now in use. It has already been adopted on a few European commercial vehicles and by the British war office.

Various types of transmission are being tried out in Europe for the relief of drivers. One is a free-wheel device back of the transmission, which enables one to shift gears under any conditions without fear of clashing them or ripping off a few teeth. The device does all the shifting, automatically and quietly.

Another automatic form of transmission is the Contantinesco torque converter, which does away with clutch and gears and has the engine itself shift to various speeds as the throttle control is varied. This is only one form of many that have been patented by European inventors for the same purpose.

Gear Shift a Habit Here

Europe, however, is still experimenting on them and while Europe is doing this America is standing by to await results. Whether adoption of a simpler form of transmission is needed in this country is still a matter of discussion among American engineers. Some contend America has become so fully motorized that the shifting of gears has become a habit to us.

However, some day we may see the introduction of some sort of automatic transmission, if only to do away with the cumbersome arrangement now in use.

In addition to these fundamental developments, there are all sorts of chassis and body improvements that Europe has caught up for experimentation. Such are various new systems of independent wheel springing, a ventilation system for closed cars, bearings that require no lubrication, cheaper fuel systems, movable or "sunshine" tops and a form of servo-motor drive for easier steering.

Oil-less Bearings

Henry Ford and Thomas Edison, it is said, are working on a form of bushing or bearing that would need no lubrication, similar to a type already in use in England. American engineers also are working on methods for improvement of wheel springing.

Europe, however, is the place to find almost as many different methods to achieve this end as there are nationalities. Out of all these, one may come that may eventually supplant the present system of springing and make motoring more comfortable.

The fact that Europe is working on all these new ideas for automotive improvement, however, doesn't diminish the importance of the work being done by engineers in this country. Their work, however, seems to be more conservative, on the line of easy and sure stages to the construction of better and finer automobiles.

Our engineers, our research laboratories and proving grounds are superior to all others and from them we may expect as dependable improvements in our automobiles as can be attained elsewhere.

Chevrolet Quota Set At 1,350,000

16 Manufacturing Plants Approaching Volume Of Output Necessary For Heavy Sales Demand

The manufacturing facilities of Chevrolet Motor company, numbering 16 great manufacturing plants in this country, are rapidly approaching the volume of output necessary to meet this year's revised annual quota which calls for the manufacture of 1,350,000 passenger car and truck units.

This was signified last week when W. S. Knudsen, president of the company, announced that March production would reach 140,000 units. Although no definite figures were issued it can readily be assumed that April's schedule will call for an even larger production, and that midsummer will witness a quantity output in all of Chevrolet's assembly plants never before equalled by a manufacturer of six cylinder automobiles.

Mr. Knudsen related that February production amounted to 121,249 units. With only 22 working days in the month, daily production for the period averaged better than 5,500 a day.

These figures lend further emphasis to the astounding achievement of the company last fall in changing over from production of fours to sixes with only a six weeks interim to effect necessary alterations.

Graham-Paige Line Is Given Approval

Immediate acceptance has been the record earned by the line of five new chassis models introduced by Graham-Paige at the beginning of the year, according to reports from the company received by A. W. Moore, representing Graham-Paige here.

Both production and registration figures indicate that the new cars are outstripping the previous models which called for Graham-Paige's all time record for sales volume for the first year of any make of car.

Dotson at Waco county, Michigan, a district that boasts itself as the wisest and best informed on automobile subjects in all the world, has greeted the new Graham-Paige models with enthusiasm, and sales in the first two months of 1929 more than doubled the figure for the corresponding period of last year.

Whippet Has High Second Gear Speed

With almost universal adoption of traffic signals, even in the smaller cities, automobile manufacturers year after year have given increasing study to building cars to meet the present congested driving conditions. This has resulted in the development of engines to provide speedier pick-up for fast getaway in traffic.

By merely watching the performance of various automobiles when the traffic lights at a street intersection switch from "red" to "green," one may readily note those cars having exceptional activity. Those cars with power plants permitting a faster get-away sweep far ahead of the cars employing a sluggish motor, and consequently their drivers are less bothered by heavy traffic conditions.

MAKE NO STATEMENT

Reserve Board Reticent On Brokers' Loan Record

WASHINGTON, Mar. 23 (AP)—The federal reserve board after a meeting last night, at which all members and ex-officio members were present, announced that no statement would be issued.

The session attracted interest as only Thursday the board announced that brokers' loans by New York federal reserve member banks for the week ending March 20 had reached a new high record of $5,193,000,000.

The prison population for each 100,000 persons decreased from 110 in 1880 to 95 in 1923.

Ride 'Em Cowboy Oldsmobile Cry

"Ride 'em, cowboy!" That famous cry of the western rodeos is decidedly appropriate when a test driver in motor an Oldsmobile over the bumps at the General Motors proving ground to show just how good the frame design and construction is and how well the hydraulic shock absorbers operate.

The "bumps" are no accident nor are they just a rough piece of country picked by chance and left unchanged. Instead they are the carefully planned bumps skilled engineers create and experts worm construct. There is a substantial reason why time, care and money have been spent in building what might be termed the worst piece of road in the world.

Pinned to a policy of "getting the facts," Oldsmobile engineers test every detail of their automobiles by putting them through actual driving under conditions far more rigorous than any owner would attempt.

Radio Purchase Of Hupp Feature

Message Approving Sale Was Sent Ten Thousand Miles From Ice Barrier By Member Byrd Party

Radio has been put to some strange and interesting uses since first Marconi made the ether waves do his bidding, but it remained for Hupmobile to receive perhaps the swiftest, long-distance endorsement that ever came to a product through the new channel of communication.

Hupmobile is today the proud possessor of a terse, but unqualified endorsement that traveled 10,000 miles from the Ice Barrier in the Ross Sea, and that came from the member of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition best qualified of all to pass upon the merits of an automobile.

Whits Hupmobile is treasuring this unusual tribute, Mrs. Ruth I. Mulroy, wife of Chief Engineer Thomas Mulroy of the Byrd Expedition that though her husband is ice-bound 2000 miles below the nearest human habitation, he never the less is so close to her that she can have his counsel and advice, and have it quick whenever she needs it.

General Motors Buys Opel Plant

German Auto Factory Is Purchased At Cost Of About $30,000,000, G. M. C. Head Announces

WIESBADEN, Germany, March 23.—Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors Corporation today issued the following statement:

"General Motors has formed an association with the Adam Opel company in Russelheim, Germany, a substantial interest in that company being taken at a cost of approximately $30,000,000.

"The Opel Company manufactures the Opel automobile as well as other Opel products. It enjoys a dominant position in the automotive industries of Germany, manufacturing about 45 per cent of the total number of cars produced in that country. Opel plants rank favorably in size with the Corporation's plants in the United States, are well situated for the purpose, and are favorably located. There are employed approximately 12,000 operators. The products are sold through a well established and extensive dealer organization throughout Germany and the surrounding country. Opel ranks among the first ten German industrial organizations.

Continues As Independent

"The Opel Company will continue to be operated as an independent organization by the present management which has already made it such an outstanding success. Through coordination and cooperation with General Motors' other activities Opel's already dominating position will not only be maintained but strengthened. General Motors will contribute engineering, manufacturing, financial and managerial cooperation to the end that it is believed that Opel's already high efficiency can be still further enhanced and its busines rapidly expanded.

"General Motors' analysis of the European economic situation justifies the conclusion that Germany has effected, during the past few years, great industrial progress. It is believed that insofar as the automotive industry is concerned, Germany's present position is now somewhat analogous to that of the United States at the beginning of the development of the industry."

New Sales Record Is Set By Oakland

Setting a new high record for the month, the Oakland Motor Car company during February sold 28,369 new Oakland and Pontiac Sixes, according to figures reported to the National Automobible Chamber of Commerce, W. R. Tracy, vice-president in charge of sales, announced today.

This compares with 25,786 units sold during the same month last year and 9,403 in February, 1927, Mr. Tracy stated. It also shows an increase of more than fifty per cent over the output in January of this year.

Current production schedules point to a new all-time monthly record during March in view of the popular favor which the new Oakland All-American Six and the new Pontiac Big Six are enjoying, Mr. Tracy declared. February came close to achieving this end, the record month having been June, 1928, with a total output of 29,477 cars.

FISK HOME COMPLETE

California Headquarters Is Ready For Occupancy

Work has recently been completed on the new three story building in Los Angeles, to house the Pacific coast divisions of both Fisk and Federal Rubber companies, and the Los Angeles branch of the Fisk Tire Company, Inc., consolidating departments that were formerly in three locations.

Fireproof construction of re-inforced concrete is used throughout the structure which is built in modern style, and which is equipped with large freight elevators, loading platform, tire chute, and other modern devices for facilitating the handling of tires. A railroad siding large enough to allow two cars to unload at once runs to the rear of the building.

Too Fast For Motor Bandits

These hard hitting Westfield, N. J., officers sent their Nash "460" Special coupe to seventy-three miles an hour the other day in a five-mile chase of fleeing automobile bandits. The thrilling race ended when the bandits, pressed to the last ounce of speed in their big sedan by the police car, overturned in attempting to negotiate a sharp turn.

MAKES BIG CATCH

CONROE, Texas, March 23 (AP).—A 61-pound catfish was the recent "fisherman's luck" here of C. H. Welsh and Dan Madely. The fish, caught at Grand Lake, a few miles from here, was said to have been one of the largest caught in this section in several years.

BIG SPRING, March 23.—Effective March 22, the Shell Pipe line discontinued running the 2500 barrels of crude daily from the Owen-Sloan lease in Howard county. This enables the Shell to handle more oils from other companies in the field. This 2500 barrels will be handled by the pipelines of the Great West Refining company and those of the Cosden refinery. The Great West Refinery has been handling 4000 barrels of crude daily since December 27.

PLAN MONUMENT

Anahuac Fort Will Soon Be Adequately Marked

ANAHUAC, Tex., March 23 (AP).—The old Anahuac fort site here is to be commemorated with a suitable monument as a result of a gift of five acres of land on the site of John Eneison of Pittsburgh.

It is now the only fort of importance in Texas history that is not suitably marked, according to A. W. Marshal, who is sponsoring the movement to erect the monument.

BACK RAIL EXTENSION

BIG SPRING, March 23.—At a call meeting of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce here it was decided to prepare a petition to intervene in behalf of the application of the Texas and New Mexico Railroad company to complete the construction line from the Texas-New Mexico state line to Lovington, New Mexico. The hearing will be held in Lubbock April 1st.

DESIGNED TO DO ALL THINGS WELL

It is a relatively simple engineering task to design a car that emphasizes only a few qualities at the sacrifice of others. It is an engineering achievement, however, to combine all desirable qualities to an outstanding degree in a balanced whole. Yet that is exactly what Oldsmobile engineers have done in the new 1929 Oldsmobile.

You have only to drive it to realize what brilliant all-round performance it provides. Its big high-compression engine now delivers 62 horsepower. And the piston pins are pressure-lubricated, a feature formerly characteristic of high-priced automobiles.

In appearance, this finer Oldsmobile is as beautiful and as smart as any car on automobile row. Its grace of line—its perfection of detail—its harmony of color—all bespeak the artistry of Fisher craftsmanship.

The interiors are luxuriously appointed and richly upholstered . . . they are roomy and restful as well. And the new Fisher adjustable front seat, combined with Oldsmobile's adjustable steering wheel, assures a comfortable driving position.
