Inflation surges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shock waves from the Persian Gulf crisis rippled through the economy in August as record increases in oil prices sent wholesale inflation surging and pushed retail sales into a nose dive.

The Labor Department said wholesale prices were up 1.3 percent last month, the steepest rise in seven months. Private economists were pessimistic about future reports.

The government blamed virtually all the increase on higher oil costs that followed Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

Ticket time

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Scalpers fanned out from Georgia to New York on Friday to hawk tickets in Saturday night's $100 million Lotto drawing. Other out-of-staters flocked to Florida with wallets bulging.

Most of the action for the nation's second-highest jackpot was from locals, though, and it was predictably brisk. Lines at lottery terminals grew longer and conversations about the nine-digit prize began taking on the quality of questions in a math quiz.

"I have got 10,000 $1 tickets sold for $2 apiece," boasted David Douglas, a salesman from New York City in Miami on business.

How much money is Douglas making? Ten thousand dollars, minus any money he plunked down on the Lotto game. What are the odds of any one of his tickets winning? About 1 in 14 million. Lot-to officials say.

Senator Bono?

PALM SPRINGS, Calif.

(AP) — Mayor Sonny Bono says he's thinking of taking his political act on the road — to Washington.

"If I made a move, I would decide for the Senate," said the former restaurateur, singer, television star and husband of Oscar-winning actress Cher.

Bono said he had talked with Sen. Pete Wilson, "about going beyond this point in politics."

If Wilson, a Republican, wins his bid for governor, he would be in a position to choose his own Senate replacement.

Odessa boy turns in $100 bill

By Michael Kashgarian
Staff Writer

It was hot Tuesday afternoon when Blythe Bales, 11, was riding his bicycle home from Austin Elementary School and stopped at the 7-Eleven in the 800 block of Golder Avenue in Odessa.

"I went inside to get an (free) ice cup to cool off, but I didn't get one because they were out," Blythe said.

So the 6th grader, with his pockets penniless, went on his way — but not as soon as he thought.

"I went outside and got on my bike and when I was riding off I saw the money on the sidewalk," he said.

What Blythe saw was a bill — maybe a one or a five, he figured — folded up.

"I was shocked I even found money and when I opened it up to see that it was a $100 bill I was really shocked," said Blythe, whose mind began racing despite the unquenched heat of the day.

"Just a bunch of things went through my mind ... what could I do with $100?" he said.

"I sat there for about 20 or 30 seconds and just thought and then brought

Iraqi troops raid homes of foreign envoys

■ Friday's raids on the diplomatic compounds in Kuwait of the French, Canadian and Belgian governments is seen by most as act of aggression — and could prompt strong response.

By David Crary
Associated Press Writer

PARIS — Iraqi troops raided the diplomatic compounds of France, Canada and Belgium in Kuwait on Friday, briefly detaining five Western consuls, capturing four French citizens and provoking calls for retaliation.

One of the four, France's military attaché, was freed after several hours. French President Francois Mitterrand called an emergency Cabinet meeting for Saturday, saying the raid "is an aggression, and we will respond to it."

"We will have to decide and show very clearly our obligations," Mitterrand said.

Iraq's official news agency denied Iraqi soldiers stormed the compounds, which it referred to as "former diplomatic missions in the province of Kuwait." Since invading and annexing Kuwait in August, Iraq has referred to it as an Iraqi province.

There was no word on the fate of the three French civilians seized with the attaché, Col. Edouard Crespin. They had been hiding in the embassy compound to avoid being taken hostage.

The Canadian Embassy in Paris said special Iraqi forces entered the ambassador's residence, which is part of the compound, before dawn. The consul was briefly detained but later released, along with consuls from the United States, Ireland, Britain and Australia, according to a Canadian diplomat in Washington.

The consuls had been meeting to discuss the evacuation of additional Westerners from Kuwait, said the diplomat, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Belgian officials said three Iraqi soldiers entered Belgium's diplomatic compound and ordered the two remaining diplomats to leave the embassy. The soldiers left after the diplomats fled into the ambassador's adjacent residence.

The Belgian Foreign Ministry said the intrusion was "an unacceptable act going against all international laws."

The Netherlands disclosed that Iraqi troops had forced their way into its ambassador's residence in Kuwait earlier this week. It said Iraq's ambassador was

Gas stations owners still feel squeeze

By Michael Kashgarian
Staff Writer

Although gasoline prices at the pump haven't jumped substantially since the initial runup shortly after the Mideast crisis began in early August, local service station owners said they have felt effects from their distributors.

And most said they have felt the squeeze trying to sell the fuel at competitive prices.

"The price to me has gone up four cents this week but I haven't raised the street price because I can't," said Blaine Bushman, owner of Bushman's Chevron in Midland, who sells regular unleaded at $1.27 per gallon.

Bushman said he isn't the only one holding out.

"The dealers have not passed all the increase on to the customers," he said.

Not only is Bushman's price margin between what he buys the gasoline for and what he sells it for narrower than before the crisis, but many of his usual full-service customers are purchasing their fuel at the self-service pumps, he said.

Among about 10 other area dealers interviewed Friday, most said their price margin has been trimmed since the beginning of August.

"The cost of the product has risen much higher than the cost to pass on," Bill Kent, president of Kent Oil, which owns Kent Kwik convenience stores in Midland, said.

Bob Hubbard, gasoline operations manager for E-Z Mart Stores Inc., based in Texarkana, agreed. "Our margin is down, we are not making

MC enrolls more than 4,000 students

■ Midland College reaches a milestone, enrolling 4,005 students for its fall semester as modest annual growth continues.

Staff Report

Midland College hit the 4,000 student plateau for the first time with its 1990 fall semester enrollment headcount.

A final count of 4,005 students taking credit courses was compiled when registration closed after the 12th class day.

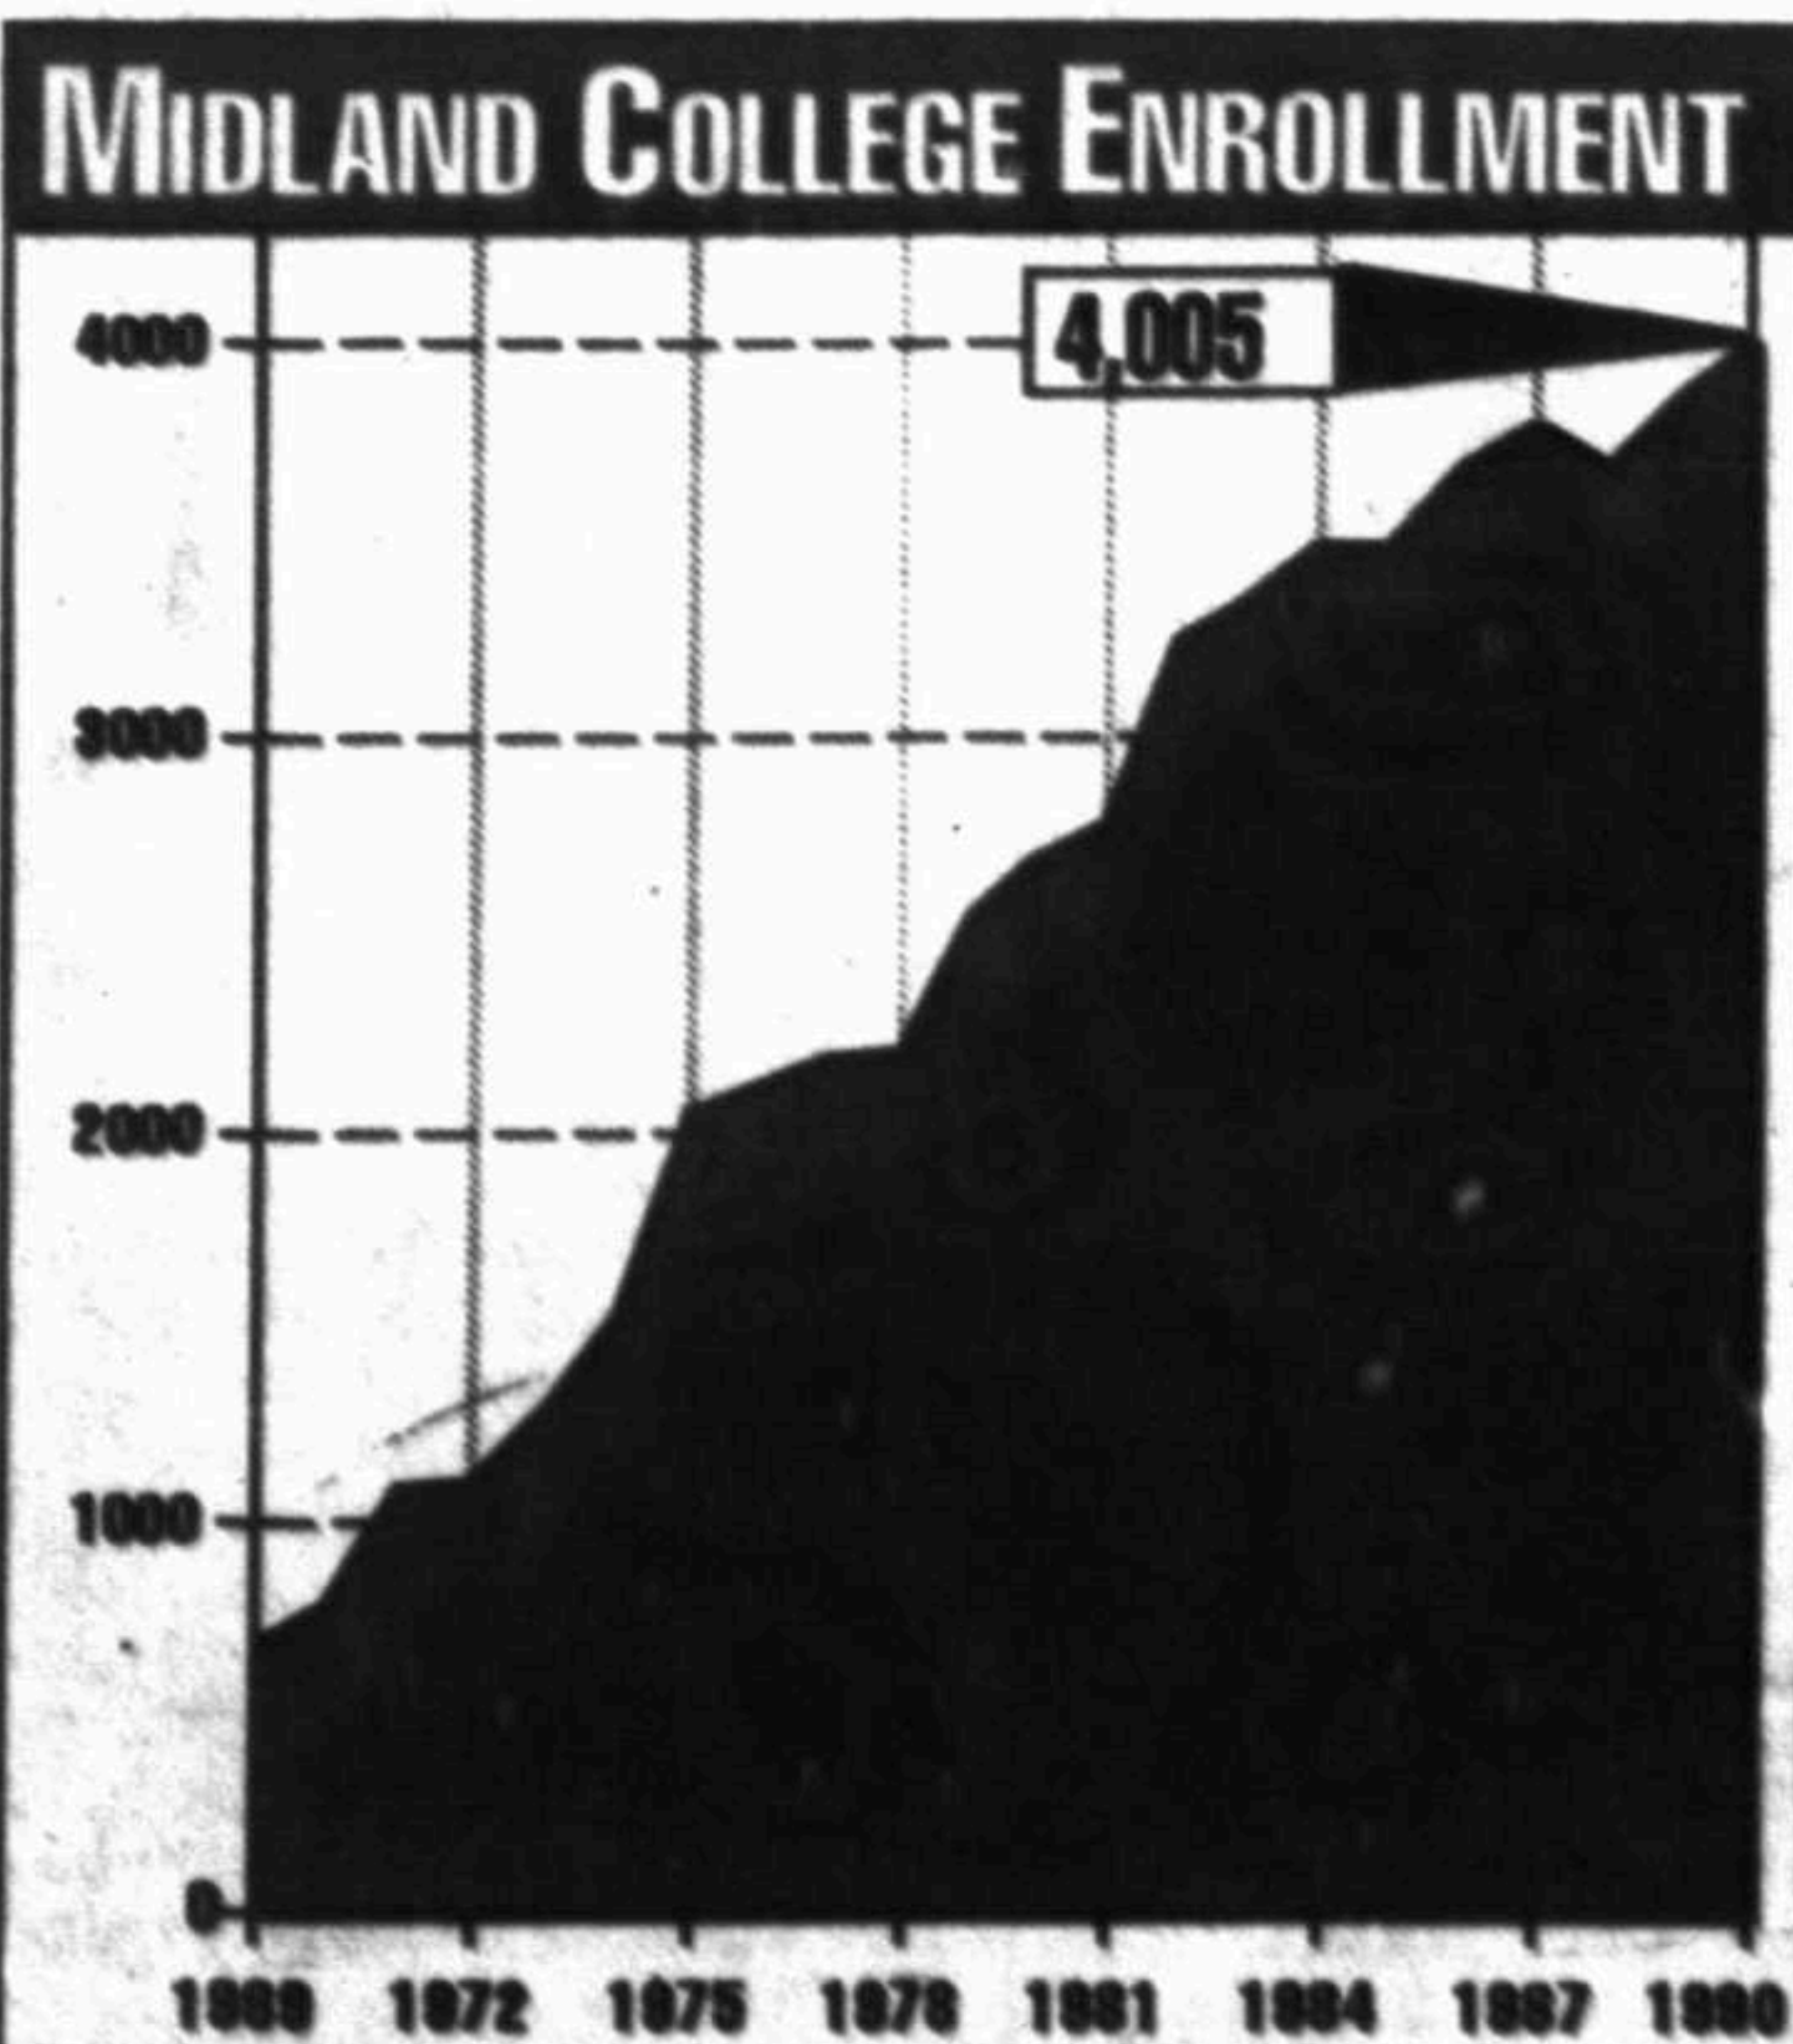

"We are excited about this milestone for Midland College," said Dr. Jess Parrish, president. "It represents another step in the growth of the college and in its service to Midland and the Permian Basin. And like the four-minute mile, it has represented a record which we have strived to break for the past couple of years."

The 1990 fall semester enrollment is 3.5 percent higher than the 3,863 students who comprised the previous record in the 1989 fall semester.

When Midland College opened in the fall of 1969, its enrollment was a modest 688 students. They attended classes at night in borrowed facilities, mostly at Midland Lee High School. By 1971, when the college was able to offer some daytime classes along with a few vocational courses, enrollment went to 1,065.

Enrollment grew slowly until the 1975 fall semester. That's when the new campus was opened at 3600 N. Garfield and 2,039 students registered. Growth continued at a relatively even pace until 1982 when the college experienced the largest single

Souter says mind open on abortion

By Dan Freedman

Reporter-Telegram Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — U.S. Supreme Court nominee David H. Souter told senators at his confirmation hearing Friday, "I have not made up my mind" on whether the court should overturn the 1973 landmark ruling that legalized abortion.

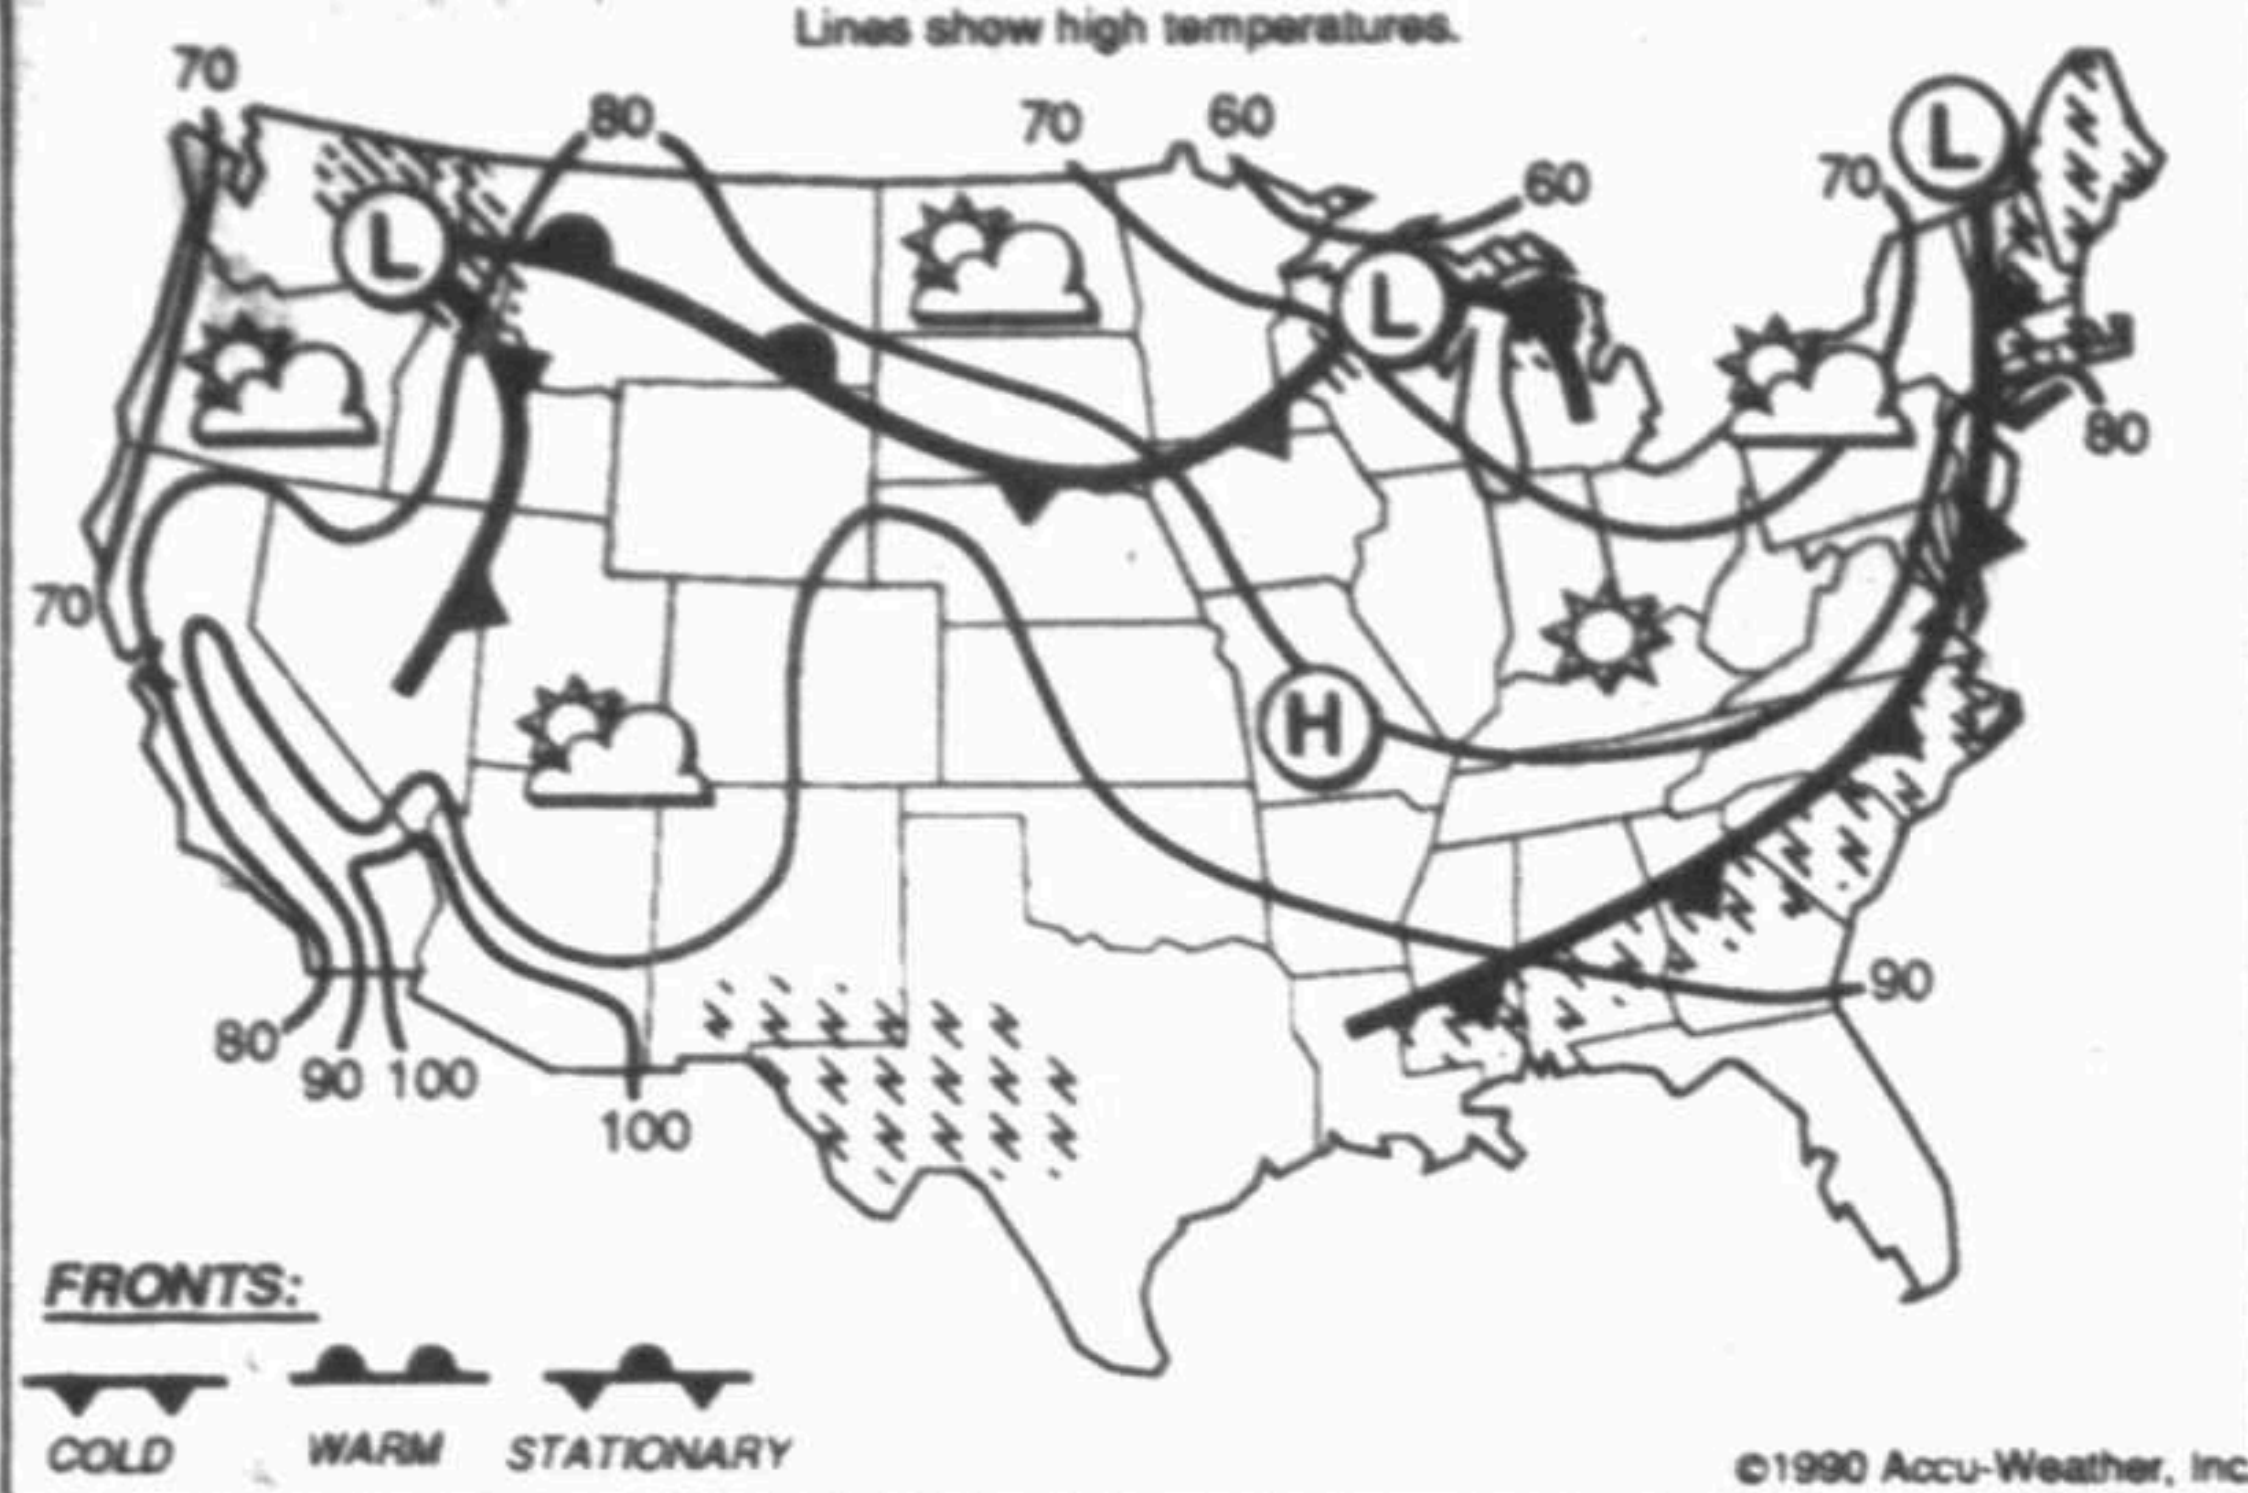

Although he dodged most questions about abortion in his second day before the Senate Judiciary Committee, Souter volunteered under questioning by Sen. Herbert Kohl, D-Wis.: "I have not got any agenda on what should be done with Roe v. Wade, should it come before me."

Souter added: "I have not made up my mind. I would not go on the court saying I must go one way or I must go the other way."

GAS: Some prices holding as much money."

E-Z Mart on Big Spring Street in Midland boasts one of the lowest prices in town with regular unleaded at $1.19 per gallon.

In addition to tighter profit margins per gallon sold, several dealers said sales are down slightly, although not for all.

Thorne Service Center Shell, of Midland, a full-service-only station — which sells regular unleaded at $1.51 — hasn't felt any decrease in sales and has remained within the same profit margin as before the crisis.

"They (Midlanders) are not taking a panic view of anything ... customers think gas prices should be up to stabilize the Texas economy," Ada Thorne, owner of the 1118 N. Midkiff station, said.

For Southland Corp., owners of 7-Eleven stores, sales are down across the nation from 5 to 10 percent since the Iraq crisis, Jim Keyes, general manager of company's national gasoline sales based in Dallas.

But not in Midland. "Midland is unique to the rest of the country. The Frequent Filler program is helping us hold our volume," Keyes said.

Midland is a test market for the Frequent Filler program, which gives customers a free fill up after filling there tanks 15 times.

Aside from Midland, 7-Eleven has lost out their once low-price leading status to the major oil companies, Keyes said.

"The major oil companies take advantage of a situation like this and keep their prices down," Keyes said, adding that most independent dealers have lost their traditional low-price place to the major oil companies' stations.

But despite dealer's cost and dealer's prices, customers are still buying but more selectively, a representative from the American Automobile Association said.

"I think people are looking around, they just don't just pull into any station now," Gretchen Truitt, public affairs officer with AAA in Houston, said.

According to AAA, the present average price for regular unleaded in Texas — the lowest price throughout the United States — is $1.21 a gallon.

"On a statewide average prices are remaining static ... they have been averaging at $1.21 for the last few days," Ms. Truitt said, adding that there has been only an increase of about three cents since Aug. 28.

According to AAA, the average price for regular unleaded in Texas has gone from $1.03 on Aug. 3 to the present price.

IRAQ: French citizens seized

(From 1A)

summoned to hear a "sharp protest."

France vigorously protested the Iraqi action, and the European Community called it "intolerable." French political leaders demanded retaliation, and some called for an emergency session of the U.N. Security Council.

No specific moves were discussed, but there was speculation a response could entail the Iraqi Embassy in Paris, which is still operating normally.

NATO chief Manfred Woerner, on an official visit to Poland, called the incursion into the French compound "another outrageous violation of international law."

In Brussels, the European Community called on Iraq to release the French citizens and respect the 1961 Vienna Convention on the inviolability of diplomatic missions.

After Iraq invaded Kuwait on Aug. 2 and later annexed the oil-rich nation, Baghdad ordered embassies in Kuwait closed, saying the nation was part of Iraqi territory. Iraqi troops surrounded the missions, and power and water were cut to many in an effort to force their closure, but 17 embassies have defied the Iraqi order.

American and British officials denied rumors their embassies had also been attacked.

"We have been in contact with the embassy and reports that troops overran the embassy are not true," said a State Department official who spoke on condition of anonymity. "The situation hasn't changed since yesterday. Water and electricity are cut off but they have supplies."

The staffs of more than 30 other foreign missions have left since the Aug. 24 deadline, but some of the countries insist their embassies technically remain open.

The French Foreign Ministry said troops entered the residence of the French ambassador about 7 a.m. Friday, taking Crespin and three others to an undisclosed location.

Iraqi authorities had earlier cut off water and electricity to the French Embassy in Kuwait and at one point knocked down part of its wall. The ambassador's residence and the embassy are separate buildings.

MC: Enrollment up by 3.5 percent increase in its history. Enrollment jumped from 2,784 in 1981 to 3,254 in 1982, an increase of 470 students or almost 17 percent.

(From 1A)

Growth since then has been more modest, but continued higher almost every semester.

"We are most appreciative to the community, which supports this college with its taxes, its moral support, its attendance at our special events, and with its continued presence at our classes," Parrish said. "As a comprehensive community college, we endeavor to provide a wide range of educational opportunities ... academic courses, vocational and technical programs, continuing education classes, Kids' College and Teens On Campus for youngsters, College Classics for more mature residents, and even the Child Development Center."

"Chaparral Center, the tennis center, McCormick Gallery, the lovely grounds, the special amenities, all are reflective of this community's investment in Midland College and our faculty, administration, and staff are grateful to be entrusted with this investment of funds and the education of this area's residents," Parrish added.

Enrollment for the fall term includes off-campus classes which are conducted at Big Lake, Fort Stockton, and Iraan. Concurrent enrollment classes also are being taught at Midland Lee High School and at Midland High School.

MONEY: Boy felt action 'right'

(From 1A)

it to the clerk in the 7-Eleven," Blythe said.

Why? "I was just thinking what if it was someone's money who really needed it ... it would be honest to turn it in," he said in a pragmatic sounding tone.

"I told the clerk I had found a $100 bill on the sidewalk. She told me to let her have the money and I asked her what she was going to do with it," Blythe said, adding that he didn't remember her response.

On the way home, Blythe couldn't help but think about the $100. "I went home and called my mom at work and told her I found a $100 bill at 7-Eleven and turned it in," he said.

When Joan Bales, an employee at Western Temporary Services, received the call from her son she sensed deep concern in his voice. "He didn't feel right and didn't think that's the way things should be done," Ms. Bales said, talking about the fact that the store clerk didn't ask for her son's name.

So to ease her son's concerns — and hers — she called the store manager.

The manager told her a man, Danny Wayne Halbrooks, recovered the money about 10 minutes after it was turned in.

"The manager told me exactly how they handled it ... verified it (the rightful owner) ... and felt it went to the owner," Ms. Bales said.

Blythe's conscience was at ease. "A lot of people said they would have kept it and it was stupid of me to turn it in," Blythe said. "If I would have lost the money, I would hope somebody would find it and turn it in ... $100 is a lot of money."

Blythe hesitated when asked if he would return the money if it were to happen again.

"Well ... yeah ... it'd be the right thing to do."

LOCAL/AREA REPORTS

Firm cited

Staff reports

Following the accidental death of a construction worker in Midland this summer, the Big Spring company he was employed by was recently cited for nine safety violations at the worksite where the fatality took place.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) issued the citations Aug. 28 alleging that Cline Construction Co. had not taken certain precautions to prevent cave-ins of a trench they were digging to lay telephone cables.

Solomon Zepeda, 57, of Big Spring was cleaning dirt out of a ditch located about a half a mile north of Wadley Avenue off Lamesa Road on July 18 when the wall caved in on him smothering him to death.

Cline Construction Co. has 15 days to contest the citation. Fines for each violation may be as high as $1,000 each.

If the company decides to contest the citations, the case will be presented before an OSHA review commission. If the issues still remains unresolved, they will be brought before a hearing under an administrative law judge.

The issuance of the citations was not necessarily related to the fact that a fatality was involved, an OSHA representative said.

Bus robbery

ODESSA — Two robbers got away with an undetermined amount of cash from the Greyhound bus depot, 500 N. Jackson Street, about 4:30 a.m. Friday, police said.

According to reports, a man entered the depot and asked Frank W. Taylor, 45, a clerk at the ticket counter, for a nickel for 5 pennies. After the clerk complied, the man then went to a vending machine.

Taylor then went into the back room and sat down. A second man entered the back room, grabbed the victim and put a screwdriver to his neck.

The first man then jumped the counter, unlocked the money box and took the cash. He then pulled the phone off the wall.

Both men exited through a freight door and ran off in a northeast direction.

Both of the suspects were described as black men with Hispanic accents. One was about 19 years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall, 135 pounds with short black curly hair. The second was in his early to mid 20s, about 5 feet 7 inches tall, 220 pounds and short black curly hair.

Armed robbery

Police are investigating a Friday afternoon armed robbery at Dellwood Mall's DinoSafari gift store, 3303 W. Illinois Ave., a Midland Police Department spokesman said.

Police said the robber, described as a white male in his early 30s, entered the store around 3:15 p.m. Friday and threatened a clerk with what appeared to be a semiautomatic handgun.

The man then escaped with between $150 and $190 from the store cash register, police said. No one has been arrested in connection with the incident.

Retirement

ODESSA — Odessa Police Chief Allan R. Stewart has announced his decision to retire from the force, officials said Friday.

Stewart's retirement takes effect Dec. 31. He has been in law enforcement work for the last 25 years.

David H. Souter

SOUTER: Hearing continues

(From 1A)

Kohl responded, "I think that's a significant statement."

That statement was as close as Souter came to full disclosure on the major topic underlying his confirmation hearings — whether he represents a crucial fifth vote on the nine-member high court to overturn Roe and give states the power to regulate or ban abortions.

Abortion rights activists said they were not impressed with Souter's pledge to remain open-minded.

Kate Michelman, president of the National Abortion Rights Action League, said Roe v. Wade "should be as settled an area of law as Brown v. Board of Education," the 1954 case in which the Supreme Court banned school segregation. Late Friday, NARAL announced its formal opposition to Souter's nomination.

The eight Democrats who dominate the committee, however, generally approved of Souter's strategy of showing sensitivity to privacy rights, individual rights and religious freedom without delving into specific cases.

"You are a listener, you are astute, and I like that," said Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill.

Under questioning by Simon about civil rights law, Souter said that giving a legal boost to minorities and women in affirmative action programs can be an appropriate way to make up for "generations of discrimination."

Souter said the appropriate response of government to discrimination is "not just to say 'stop doing it.' The appropriate response is to undo it."

Still, there were moments of tension between senators and Souter.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., asked Souter why, as New Hampshire's attorney general from 1976 to 1978, he defended the state's literacy requirement for voters.

Kennedy quoted a statement from Souter that the votes of illiterates "dilute the votes of those people who can read." Souter responded: "That is kind of a statement of math," implying that he was not being critical of illiterates.

Kennedy appeared to be startled, and asked Souter to repeat himself.

Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., asked about a 1986 case which Souter considered as a New Hampshire supreme court justice in which Souter wrote that a clause in the state constitution prohibiting fees to probate judges should be interpreted exactly as the framers of the document intended it in 1784. Specter said, if governed by that logic, the U.S. Supreme Court might not have been able to ban school segregation in 1954.

Souter responded that analyzing the text of either the federal or state constitutions is an appropriate "starting point," and that the framers of the state constitution intended only to prohibit bribery of probate judges, not to prohibit fees.

TU Electric files refund application

Staff Report

TU Electric has filed an application with the Public Utilities Commission asking authorization to refund about $68 million, including interest, to its customers.

The money was overcollected from March through July this year primarily because of milder-than-expected weather in the company's service area.

Mild weather means less electricity use, which means TU Electric is able to use less of its higher-priced fuel supplies to meet customer needs.

Under the company's proposal, the refund would be credited to November bills. Residential customers who use 1,000 kilowatt hours would receive refunds averaging about $13.

The exact refund amount will depend on when PUC approval is received.

TU Electric provides electric service in 87 counties in Texas to more than 2.1 million customers, or about one-third of the state's population.

DEATHS

The event is scheduled for 7-10 p.m. today at the Northeast YMCA, 2300 Butternut Lane.

More than 100 students and mentors are involved in the PASS program.

Project Blueprint, a leadership program for minorities, is funded by the W.K. Kellogg Foundation and United Way of Midland. Each class, known as a Board Institute, is required to work on a community service project following completion of the 12-hour training program.

This class chose to work with Casa de Amigos PASS students for its project because most of the PASS participants are minorities, said Patricia Gonzales, Project Blueprint coordinator.

"They want to be a support system for the PASS students," she said.

Today's bash will feature games, refreshments, music and dancing. Local merchants have donated more than 60 door prizes for the event.

Perry continues to berate Hightower

By David Morris
Staff Writer

Rick Perry slammed his opponent in the agriculture commissioner's race Friday, accusing incumbent Jim Hightower of being a "showhorse" unwilling and unable to establish effective programs.

Perry, a Republican from Haskell, said Hightower has sabotaged efforts to expand Texas agriculture markets to foreign countries and has failed to bring agriculture-related businesses to the state.

"Jim Hightower is probably the biggest trade barrier that Texas has," Perry told about 15 supporters at a Midland Airpark news conference.

Perry said Hightower has sided with Japanese and Mexican government officials in opposing the elimination of trade barriers which impede Texans' ability to export products to those countries.

He said the U.S. embargo of Iraq has had a negative impact on export of Texas rice and wheat. Hightower's complacency means there are few other foreign markets in which the grain can be sold, he said.

Meanwhile, Perry said, Hightower has spent more time furthering his own political career and supporting union activities than in promoting Texas agriculture.

Hightower campaign officials were not available for comment Friday evening.

Perry said that if elected, he will use Department of Agriculture discretionary funds to lure agriculture-related businesses such as tanneries and textile manufacturers to Texas.

"The commission also has some funds available that they can guarantee some loans with," Perry said.

State Rep. Tony Fraser, R-Big Spring, was traveling with Perry Friday. He said 99 percent of the state's agriculture groups, including the Texas Farm Bureau, support Perry's candidacy.

"Hightower has absolutely no backing in the agriculture community," Fraser said. He predicted Perry will do well in West Texas in the November election.

Perry said a recent Texas Medical Association poll shows him with 31 percent of the vote, compared with 41 percent for Hightower. Another 27 percent of those polled remain undecided, and Perry said a planned media "blitz" should bring some of the undecided into his camp.

Midland was Perry's last stop on a one-day West Texas campaign tour.

Petroleum Museum sponsoring musical performances

The Permian Basin Petroleum Museum is sponsoring three free performances of "Dinosaurs, Dinosaurs: A Mesozoic Musical" today in Midland and Sunday in Odessa.

Two of the performances are set for 2:30 and 7 p.m. today at the Allison Fine Arts Auditorium, Midland College campus. The last performance is set for 2:30 p.m. Sunday at Bonham Junior High, Odessa.

"Taking us back to a time when those fascinating and enigmatic creatures ruled the earth, 'Dinosaurs, Dinosaurs' is a show for the whole family," says a release from the museum. "This non-stop 40-minute show incorporates the best of Broadway theater in an educational format."

The show is a blend of science and entertainment which teaches sophisticated concepts of fossilization, evolution and extinction while the actor dramatizes five different species of dinosaurs.

Dinamation International Corp. in association with the Slim Goodbody Corp. of New York has produced this "enormously successful" show at museums across the country.

"Small children, teenagers, parents and grandparents alike joined in the fun — 'rapping' with Terrible Tyrone or exploring dangers with Mama brontosaurus," said Susan Shilling, program coordinator of Science Spectrum in Lubbock of the 'Dinosaurs, Dinosaurs' appearance there.

Museum members may ask for preferred seating at any performance. For reservations call the museum, 683-4403. General seating is provided on a first-come, first-serve basis.

STATE IN BRIEF

Turf club gets track rehearing

AUSTIN (AP) — A state judge has ruled the Houston Turf Club should get a new hearing before the Texas Racing Commission on its license application to build a major thoroughbred horse track.

State District Judge Paul Davis Jr. said Thursday he saw no error in the commission's plans to rehear the Turf Club application when it hears an application from a competing group.

"The Turf Club is very excited by Judge Davis' order," Turf Club attorney Stuart Collins said. "I don't think Judge Davis would have entered this order if he had not thought the Turf Club did not get a fair hearing the first time."

No date was set for the rehearing.

Rape suspect sketched

EL PASO (AP) — A composite sketch has been released by police here of a suspect in the rapes of at least three women who were assaulted at knifepoint.

Women were advised by police to be careful and not to walk alone. All of the victims were alone when they were assaulted, said Sgt. Ray Niblett of the northeast El Paso police substation.

"We just want to start warning people: he's done this before and he's going to do it again. You know how these guys are — they keep doing it until they get caught," Niblett said.

Niblett said the suspect has not injured the women with the knife.

Aliens found in train car

COTULLA (AP) — Twelve dehydrated aliens "in pretty bad shape" were found locked in a train car Friday afternoon, Border Patrol agents said.

They had been in the semi truck trailer piggy-backed on a railroad flat car for more than 13 hours when agents found them about 3:30 p.m. Friday, said Mario Ortiz, a spokesman for the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service.

"Probably later on, they would have been in a much worse state," Ortiz said.

Consumer group wants ClayDesta bank probe

By Rick Brown

Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — A consumer watchdog group called on the State Board of Insurance Friday to investigate alleged improprieties in auto loans in Houston and Dallas made by ClayDesta National Bank.

Annette LoVoi, president of the Texas Consumer Association, asked Insurance Commissioner Woody Pogue for the investigation in the wake of reports from low-income residents that they were required to purchase costly insurance as a condition for receiving an auto loan.

The so-called credit-life and credit accident and health coverage would have paid premiums owed the bank if purchasers became incapacitated.

ClayDesta National Bank is owned by Republican gubernatorial candidate Clayton Williams, a Midland entrepreneur. Neither the candidate nor his campaign spokesmen could be reached for comment.

"The allegations that ClayDesta Bank preyed upon consumers who had difficulty obtaining credit and used their vulnerability to force them to purchase expensive and often unnecessary insurance are serious," LaVoi wrote Pogue.

She requested "an immediate investigation of fraud" with results turned over to Attorney General Jim Mattox for a possible lawsuit.

Dixie Evatt, spokesman for the board, said giving consumers the option of purchasing the coverage is not a violation of the state insurance code, but companies may not require the coverage over other options.

She said the board would have to see actual documentation of the sales before making a decision on the investigation. "It's not clear to us that there's a problem, yet," she said.

Witnesses testify in waste dump trial

EL PASO (AP) — A network of irrigation canals and reservoirs deliver much-needed water to farmers in Hudspeth County, where the state hopes to build a nuclear waste dump, a water district official testified Friday.

The irrigation system is essential to the livelihood of local farmers, said Jake Cline, general manager for Hudspeth County Conservation and Reclamation

District No. 1.

Last year, Hudspeth County produced crops, mostly pima cotton, valued at least $11 million with the help of the irrigation system, Cline said.

Without the irrigation system, he said, there would be very little farming in the area.

Cline is one of several witnesses who have taken the stand this week to testify for El Paso and Hudspeth counties. The counties are trying to prevent the state from locating a nuclear waste dump near Fort Hancock.

Testimony in the non-jury trial before 34th District Court Judge Bill Moody will continue on Saturday and likely last through next week.

"The purpose of the reservoirs is to keep the water flowing through the system to distribute water to the farmer as often as he needs it," Cline said.

Darcy Frownfelter, attorney for the counties, said he asked Cline to testify to support the counties' claim that the state didn't apply the same rules throughout the state when it eliminated sites.

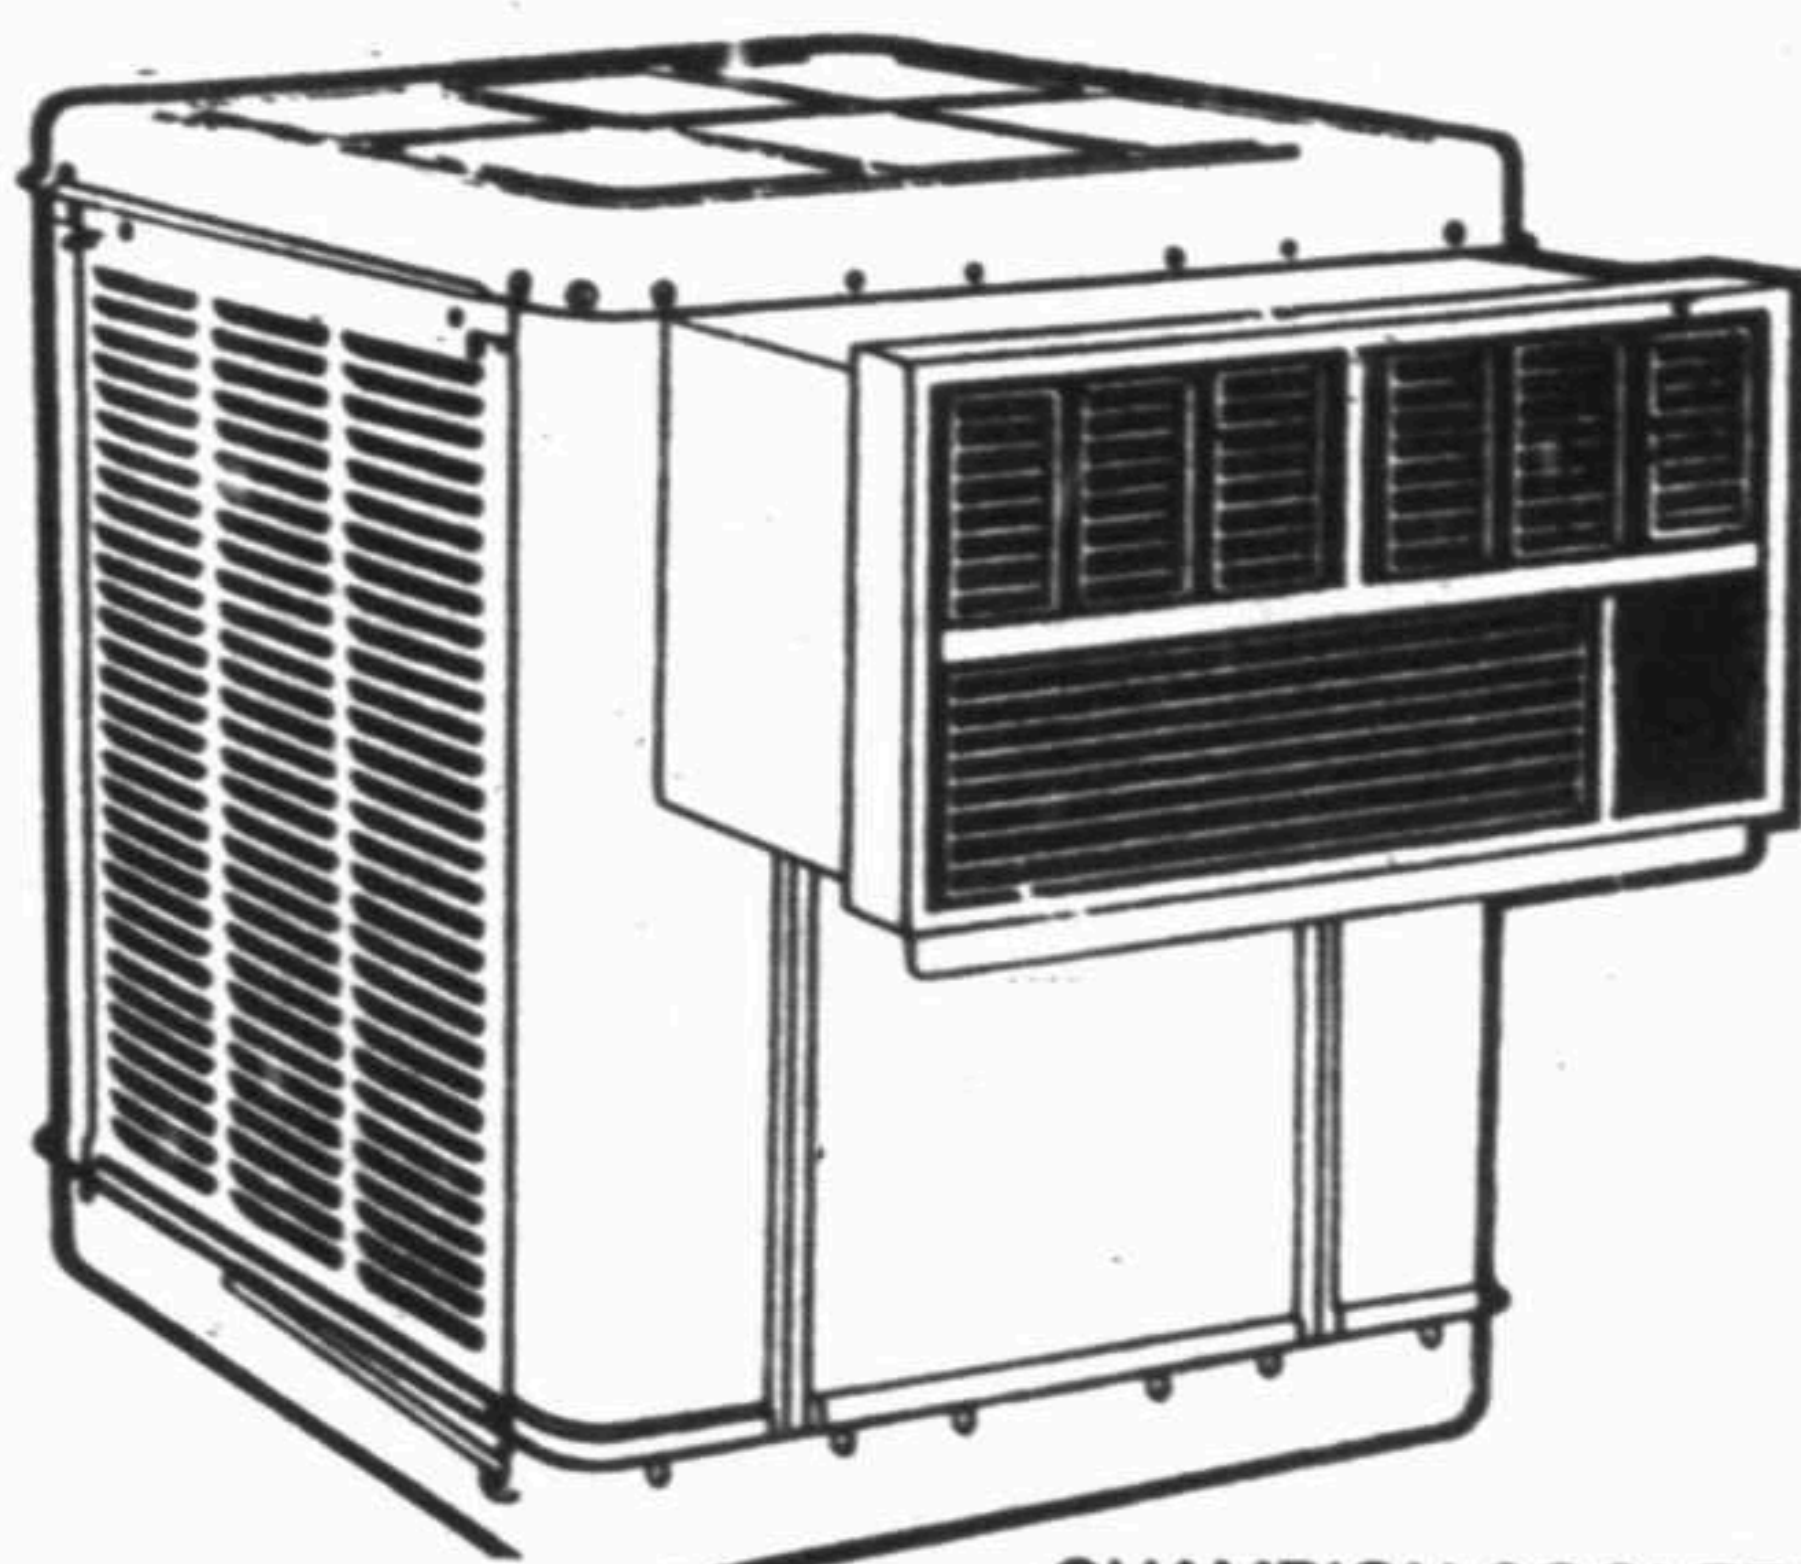

"The authority has excluded hundreds of sites all over the state without regard to who built the reservoirs," he said.

Republicans say leaks threatening budget talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Angry Republican budget negotiators accused Democrats on Friday of giving reporters details of privately offered GOP tax proposals and said the disclosures were threatening deficit-reduction talks.

"We are trying to do a difficult job in cooperation with our Democratic colleagues," Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., said on the Senate floor. "It is not going to work if this garbage keeps piling up day after day."

Dole spoke as bargainers began their second week of confidential talks at Andrews Air Force Base in Maryland, just outside Washington. They spent much of Friday's session complaining about the leaks, said one official who asked to not be identified.

"The mood was basically ill-will," the official said.

After a spurt of movement earlier in the week toward a package saving $50 billion next year and $500 billion through 1995, progress has slowed.

"Up and down like a roller coaster," was how President Bush described the talks.

Republican leaders angrily took to the Senate floor Friday after some reporters obtained copies of analyses of tax proposals Democrats and Republicans have made at the negotiations.

The Associated Press received the data from sources who demanded anonymity.

The studies — performed by Congress' nonpartisan Joint Tax Committee — showed that GOP tax proposals would raise taxes by $4.1 billion on people who earn $50,000 a year or less. They would cut taxes by $11 billion on those with higher incomes.

The analysis said the proportionately largest tax increase — 2.6 percent — would go to people who earn less than $10,000 annually. The biggest tax cut, 5.5 percent, would go to those who earn $200,000 or more a year.

The Democratic plan would cut taxes by $4 billion for people earning $20,000 or less annually, and boost them by $26.8 billion by anyone else, the study said. People with incomes surpassing $200,000 yearly would shoulder the greatest burden, a 6.7 percent tax boost.

Republicans complained that the disclosures of confidential proposals are designed to make the GOP look bad.

"There is a deliberate effort by some on the other side ... to cast this as Republicans for the rich and they are for everybody else," Dole said. "I am not certain we ought to continue to negotiate on this basis."

GOP lawmakers also warned that the leaks could make it harder for a budget-cutting plan to be crafted.

"We have to make some tough choices, and so occasionally somebody puts a very tough proposition on the table," said Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M. "That's courage. But there won't be much courage out there if the next day that tough proposition is all over the country."

Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, condemned the leaks but added: "The leaks have not all been one way."

One of the biggest remaining disputes is over the Bush plan to slash the capital gains tax rate.

The president wants to drop the maximum tax rate on sales of property from 33 percent to 15 percent, a move he says will increase government revenues by encouraging transactions. Democrats say the idea is a money-loser whose main beneficiaries would be the wealthy, and are demanding higher income tax rates on the rich in return.

The Republicans have proposed a penny-a-gallon tax on all petroleum products except feedstock and limiting the deductibility of state and local income taxes to $10,000.

Democrats have suggested an 11-cent-per-gallon gasoline tax increase and a 4 percent tax on other forms of energy above its current level of 9 cents.

Both sides have offered to tax luxury items such as expensive cars and to increase alcohol and tobacco levies.

The negotiators planned to take today off and return to work Sunday.

Hearing set on Hinckley's voting rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge on Friday ordered city election officials to conduct a special hearing to consider whether presidential assailant John W. Hinckley Jr. may vote this fall.

U.S. District Judge June Green issued the order after Hinckley sought court permission to attend an administrative hearing that had been scheduled for Friday at a District of Columbia office building.

Hinckley, found innocent by reason of insanity for the 1981 shooting of then-President Ronald Reagan, claims he has been unfairly denied a right to vote in the district.

Hinckley has been confined to a mental hospital since 1982.

He must obtain court permission to leave the St. Elizabeths Hospital complex and prosecutors have vehemently opposed his requests over the years.

Green ordered election officials to conduct at the hospital the hearing on Hinckley's voting rights claim.

By law, Hinckley is entitled to a public hearing. But St. Elizabeths officials said they could not allow reporters or other members of the public to attend the hearing.

Green, therefore, ordered that a transcript of the hearing be made public.

Parents hope daughter allowed to die

WASHINGTON (AP) — The parents of a comatose Missouri woman who was the subject of the Supreme Court's first decision on a person's right to die said Friday they hope a new legal effort will allow their daughter to die.

"The bottom line is we haven't stopped fighting yet because we believe in what we're doing," said Joe Cruzan, a sheet metal worker from Carterville, Mo.

Nancy Cruzan, 33, has been in a coma-like state since she was injured in a 1983 car accident. The Supreme Court in June blocked the Cruzans' request to end their daughter's life.

Cruzan and his wife, Joyce, spoke here at a law and medical symposium on the right to die.

The couple asked a Missouri state court last month for permission to remove the tube that provides food and water to their brain-damaged daughter. They said three people had come forward recently with information about her wishes concerning life-sustaining medical treatment.

No hearing has been held on the latest request.

The Supreme Court said the Cruzans lacked "clear and convincing" proof that their daughter would want to die. In the 5-4 decision, the justices said states have broad power to keep patients on life-support systems when they have not made their wishes known conclusively.

"I feel like that the new witnesses coupled with the existing testimony, if that's not clear and convincing then I don't know how you're going to achieve that unless Nancy can raise up from her bed and write out something and then lay back," Cruzan said.

Nancy Cruzan can breathe on her own and at times her eyes are open and move randomly. Her body is rigid, with her hands and feet bent into claw shapes.

"Looking back, if I had to do it over again I'd probably do exactly the same thing I did then," her father said. "If I knew then what I know now, I would have probably tried to take her home and do it quietly because I know that it's done."

Carter's former pilot released from prison in Iran

ATLANTA (AP) — A Savannah businessman who once worked as a pilot for former President Carter arrived in the United States on Friday after spending about a decade in prison in Iran.

E. David Rabhan had been arrested during a business trip to Iran and charged with spying for the CIA, a charge both he and Carter denied.

Attorney Phillips Hamilton said the 64-year-old Rabhan left Tehran late Thursday on a flight to Zurich, Switzerland.

Rabhan arrived in Atlanta on Friday but he was whisked away for a private meeting with Carter, who has worked for years for his freedom.

"I look forward to being reunited with a friend," Carter told The Atlanta Journal. "He's really an extraordinary person. I'm very proud of David."

Rabhan's mother, Frances, reached in Savannah, praised Carter for his efforts to win her son's release.

"President Carter has been like another son to me — you can't have a better friend," Mrs. Rabhan said.

Rabhan's sister, Joan Jacobson, told The Philadelphia Inquirer that Iranian authorities had agreed Sept. 3 to allow Rabhan to leave the country. He was reportedly released from Iran's Evin Prison on Aug. 6 and issued an exit visa Thursday, hours before boarding the flight to Switzerland.

The Swiss Embassy, through which the U.S. government maintains contact with Iran, would not confirm the Inquirer's report, which said Swiss authorities looked after Rabhan's interests and guaranteed he would not flee before being given a visa to leave Iran.

Rabhan went to Iran in the mid-1970s to begin a business using a fish protein concentrate to make breads and snack foods. Various reports have listed his arrest date as 1981 and 1979. The exact date could not immediately be determined.

"He was a prisoner. He was never a spy. He never had any kind of connection with the CIA or with any sort of espionage or spying," Carter said.

Rabhan was imprisoned with another American, John Patis of Aiken, S.C., said Patis' sister, Ellen. Patis, a telecommunications engineer who is accused of spying, apparently remained in Evin after Rabhan's release.

Rabhan became Carter's pilot during his second campaign for governor of Georgia.

After leaving the presidency, Carter described Rabhan as a "hostage," but neither the Reagan nor Bush administrations considered him a hostage and his plight went largely unreported.

Mrs. Rabhan objected to calling her son a hostage.

"He was a prisoner, but he was not a hostage," she said. "Nothing was offered for him and that made it harder (to win his release)."

According to letters he managed to get out of Iran, Rabhan was physically abused and his weight once fell by 44 pounds. He spent part of his imprisonment in solitary confinement in a windowless cell, the letters said.

"His physical condition is good," said Ms. Jacobson, who said she has spoken to her brother by phone.

Patis, 53, was arrested after the satellite ground communications system he was working on was bombed by Iraq in 1986 during the Gulf war.

UAW, GM agree to extend national labor contract

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers union and General Motors Corp. agreed to extend their national labor contract Friday, hours before a midnight strike deadline, local union leaders said.

The world's largest automaker and the union have been negotiating a new three-year contract for about 300,000 active GM workers in 29 states. It also would serve as a model for talks with other major automakers.

"They're going to negotiate through the weekend," said Charlie Gledhill, acting president of UAW 549 at GM's metal stamping plant in Mansfield, Ohio. "We're not going to walk out tonight."

"We are continuing our efforts to reach a settlement," UAW Vice President Stephen Yokich said in a statement released about 10:45 p.m. "UAW-represented workers have been advised to stay on the job and report for work on their regular shift until further notice."

GM spokesman John Mueller declined comment on the extension.

The UAW's contracts with GM, Ford and Chrysler Corp. all were to expire at midnight. They cover more than 450,000 active auto workers in the United States and Wallaceburg, Ontario.

In Toronto, contract talks between Canadian Auto Workers union and Ford Motor Co.'s Canadian subsidiary ended for the day without a settlement, paving the way for a walkout. Those talks also faced a midnight deadline, but Canadian Ford plants are closed weekends. The CAW represents about 12,800 Ford workers.

The Canadian workers make a variety of components for Ford's U.S. assembly plants. A strike in Canada, would likely affect the company's U.S. operations within a week.

In the United States, the UAW chose on Aug. 28 to focus its bargaining on GM. Talks with Ford and Chrysler have been put on hold since. UAW leaders have said they plan to use a contract ratified by GM workers as a pattern for agreements at Ford and Chrysler.

As the talks entered their final hours, unresolved issues included job security, wages and pensions. Union leaders contacted Friday said they were not told details about the unresolved issues.

Tentative agreements had been reached on a variety of mostly non-economic issues including health, safety and attendance policy.

Dramatic changes in the auto industry during the 1980s, especially the growth of Japanese automakers' shares of the U.S. car and truck market, have affected labor relations between the UAW and the Big Three in general and GM specifically.

The Big Three's collective market share dropped about 6 percentage points during the decade to about 68 percent last year. During the same time, the Japanese companies' share rose by about the same amount to over 25 percent.

That has forced GM, Ford and Chrysler to shrink their operations and their work forces. In response, the UAW's primary emphasis has shifted to job security from wage increases.

As the companies worked to cut costs, they adopted a parts delivery system called "just-in-time." Under such a scheme, automakers ship parts and component systems to assembly plants just before they are needed, sometimes within hours of installation.

At the same time, automakers consolidated manufacturing to reduce redundancies and expenses.

That opened a new strategy for the UAW — one whose effects were shown last month.

Because of just-in-time delivery, the UAW can shut down assembly plants, some of which have more than 5,000 workers, by striking a critical parts plant that employs far fewer people.

Last month, the UAW struck GM's AC Rochester West parts plant in Flint for six days over local issues, including an employment level guarantee. Before the walkout ended, GM was forced to close seven assembly plants because of parts shortages. Those shutdowns, in turn, resulted in layoffs at other component plants.

4-year-old girl first to receive gene therapy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 4-year-old girl received an intravenous injection Friday and made history by becoming the first patient to receive gene therapy.

"The patient is doing beautifully," said Dr. French Anderson, a scientist at the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute.

"The family now has new hope for their child," said another researcher, Dr. Kenneth W. Culver of the National Cancer Institutes.

During the 28-minute infusion procedure, the girl — who was not identified — sat up in her bed, played and put stickers on the lab coats of her doctors.

The therapy, being conducted at National Institutes of Health (NIH) in Bethesda, Md., involves inserting curative genes into human cells. Its first therapeutic use was given final approval only hours before by the Food and Drug Administration.

"This is a small but crucial step to treating a whole array of genetic diseases," said Dr. R. Michael Blaese, another researcher.

Success could lead to use of the procedure against cancer, hemophilia, sickle cell anemia and AIDS.

The child suffers from a rare genetic disease called ADA Deficiency, which weakens her immune system so that it cannot fight infection and disease.

About 1 billion cells — approximately a small thimbleful — were mixed in a saline solution in the first infusion, which took about a half hour.

Anderson said he would not expect to see results for the first several months but that within a year they should know whether the treatment is working.

The NIH has approval to treat up to 10 patients with ADA Deficiency. The afflicted children were born with a gene that does not produce the enzyme adenosine deaminase, or ADA, which is essential for an immune system to function normally. This leaves them vulnerable to infections and diseases.

The best of the current treatments for the 10 children born in North America each year suffering from the disease, is a bone marrow transplant with a donor whose tissue type matches the child's. But most of the children don't have a matched donor, and success with an unmatched donor is about 50 percent.

Untreated, children with the disease die within the first two years of life. They usually don't live into their second decade even with current treatments.

Weeks ago, researchers took white cells from some of the 4-year-old's blood and began growing them in tissue culture. Then they inserted a normal ADA gene into these cells with a genetically engineered virus. The virus has been disabled and is no longer infectious, but is a vehicle to get the normal gene into the cells where it produces the required enzyme.

The treatments will be given once a month for about two years.

FDA recommends against using raw eggs

By Jim Abrams

WASHINGTON (AP) — Warning! The federal government says homemade eggnog can be hazardous to your health.

So can homemade mayonnaise, caesar salad and other dishes containing raw eggs.

The Food and Drug Administration recommended Friday that raw eggs be classified as a "potentially hazardous food" and said that improperly cooked eggs raise the danger of salmonella food poisoning.

Specifically, the agency urged people to stop using raw eggs for such dishes as caesar salad, homemade mayonnaise, eggnog and ice cream.

The warning was contained in 3,500 notices sent to state and local food regulatory agencies.

Labeling a food as "potentially hazardous" doesn't mean "that a food is inherently unhealthful," FDA spokesman Chris Lecos said.

He said other perishable but "perfectly wholesome, nutritious" foods such as meats, dairy products and cooked vegetables are also considered "potentially hazardous."

But he said the FDA, in conjunction with the Agriculture Department, is trying to halt the spread of the salmonella enteritidis bacteria, which has entered the genetic systems of some layer hens and contaminated their eggs.

Agriculture Department figures show there were 6,604 illnesses and 43 deaths attributed to salmonella from January 1985 to last October. Eggs were implicated in 73 percent of 189 recorded outbreaks.

The FDA notice advises that eggs be refrigerated at temperatures of 45 degrees Fahrenheit or less and thoroughly cooked at 140 degrees Fahrenheit.

It says whole eggs should be cooked until the white is completely coagulated and firm and the yolk begins to thicken. Scrambled eggs need to be cooked until firm throughout.

Restaurants and food service operations are told not to use raw eggs in uncooked, ready-to-eat menu items and cooks are urged to substitute pasteurized eggs and egg products for shell eggs in recipes for salads, sauces, mayonnaise and ice cream calling for raw eggs.

Louis B. Raffel, president of the American Egg Board, said egg producers agree on the need for precautions. "The industry's feeling is that eggs should be refrigerated and that proper handling at all levels is important to avoid any food-related diseases."

Cathy McCharen, vice president of the Egg Nutrition Center in Washington, said the industry has been giving similar advice for the last two years. The recommendations "will force food handlers and restaurateurs to treat the egg with the kind of respect it deserves."

USDA spokeswoman Margaret Webb said 56 salmonella outbreaks have been confirmed since February, with 22 definitely linked to eggs. She said eggs may also be implicated in other cases, which have centered in the Northeast and Mid-Atlantic states.

Thousands of trees planted on Bering Sea island

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — In an age of shrinking forests, people on the Bering Sea island of St. George are trying to extend the forest's frontier, planting thousands of trees in a place where even one is a novelty.

The trees' chances of survival are uncertain, and some environmentalists fear that introducing them to a treeless area may harm existing species.

But scientists backing the project disagree, as does Anthony Merculief, president of the native corporation St. George Tanaq, who suggested the idea to the Alaska Division of Forestry.

"I'd just like to see trees," he said. "A lot of places have trees. Why shouldn't we have a few of our own? I can't imagine anybody not liking trees."

Recently, officials with the state agency and the U.S. Forest Service planted about 2,500 Sitka spruce, Chinese larch and lodgepole pine seedlings on land owned by the corporation on St. George, one of the Pribilof Islands, about 225 miles north of the Aleutians. (An additional thousand trees were left with villagers to plant.)

The officials were joined by St. George's 33 schoolchildren, who, along with their successors, are charged with taking care of the trees and sending progress reports to state foresters.

"Many of them have never seen trees before, although they see a lot of it on TV," said Beverly Mierzejek, who teaches kindergarten and first grade in the village of about 140 people.

"They're looking forward to seeing them grow. They say: 'Well, I'm going to be an old man before this thing's grown up. Our grandkids will get to play on them and we can't.'"

Residents hope the trees will provide scenic beauty and also act as windbreaks around homes.

State and federal researchers plan to set up research plots to study trees at high latitudes.

Each child was given one tree to plant at home. A few hundred seedlings will be planted around the town and about 2,000 are marked for Garden Cove, a recreation area on the south side of the island that includes a rare freshwater stream.

About 100 more will be planted near an old Russian Orthodox shrine, and another hundred or so at the site of an early settlement, said Bill Beebe, who is spearheading the project for the state forestry division.

"We can't guarantee they're going to have a big beautiful forest, but we think most of the trees will do pretty well," said Beebe. "We were careful to pick the species with the best chances for survival."

The Forest Service is contributing about $5,000 to the project from its urban forestry program. The state paid about $500 for 2,000 larch trees; the Forest Service paid about $90 for 500 pines; and the rest of the trees were free, Beebe said.

The species were selected for hardiness in subarctic climates by John Alden, a tree geneticist at the Forest Service's Institute of Northern Forestry in Fairbanks.

The St. George project may be the largest in a string of efforts to plant trees in Alaska's Aleutian and Pribilof islands, Alden said.

As early as 1805, Russian fur traders tried planting a forest at what is now Dutch Harbor in the Aleutians so they could have wood for ships, fuel and homes, he said.

Visiting nurses meet challenges

By Anton Reicher

ENNIS, Texas (AP) — Nurses who visit patients' homes face emotional problems that nurses in hospitals are often spared.

"You get to know patients as they live," said Agnes Burris, registered nurse with the Baylor HomeCare program. "We don't know about them in the hospital."

Getting to know the patients and their families more closely means having to deal with the grief when the end comes.

"I'm a very emotional person," said registered nurse Debra Griffin. "I sit down and cry with the family and then the next day go on."

The rewards are when patients overcome sometimes insurmountable odds against recovery.

Baylor HomeCare nursing supervisor Becky Lucas' favorite example is the diabetic truck driver who survived heart surgery and then endured months with an open chest wound.

"I told him 'If I ever catch you with a cigarette, I'll stomp your socks off,'" Mrs. Lucas said.

Baylor HomeCare provides registered nurses, nurse assistants and therapists skilled in the same techniques used in hospitals.

The trend in health care today is to limit the patient's hospital stay, Mrs. Lucas said. Restrictions set by private insurance or Medicaid often determine if a patient will benefit from home care.

In the Baylor program, registered nurses serve as case managers, visiting five or six patients a day. The nurses manage up to 15 cases at a time, initiating therapy prescribed by doctors and setting tasks for nurse assistants.

The nurses also are on hand to assess the patient's condition, with a hotline to the doctor if immediate care is indicated, Mrs. Lucas said.

"We can catch things that may be the patient has ignored or isn't aware of," Mrs. Lucas said.

Nurse assistants, or home health aides, take care of the daily chores of bed baths and other personal care, Mrs. Lucas said. Nurse assistants are certified and are required to have one year's experience.

Despite the potential personal attachments, or perhaps because of them, the home care nurses interviewed say they prefer their jobs to the hospital grind.

"At first, you have a scary feeling going into their environment," Mrs. Griffin said. "You don't know what it would be like, but you try not to let it bother you."

The work is more challenging in that "you have to know a little bit about everything," Mrs. Griffin said. "You don't have another nurse down the hall to run to."

Treatment at home often is different from the ideal hospital conditions.

"Some families think they've got a better home remedy and start changing things," Mrs. Griffin said.

Mrs. Burris, a native of Scotland, said she often has to repeat herself for older patients who find it hard to get past her Highland burr. Caring for patients in their own homes calls for "a lot of improvising," she said.

Licensed vocational nurse Nita Killins said the opportunity to visit the patient's home and make new friends makes the job "better than any place I've ever worked."

However, Killins acknowledged that "the job can be sad."

Every nurse handles the death of a patient differently, Mrs. Lucas said.

"I ask myself three questions: did I keep them comfortable, did they die with dignity, and is the family coping," Mrs. Lucas said.

Miller unhappy with Lee win

■ Despite the Rebels' 31-12 hammering of the Del Rio Rams, Lee head coach Earl Miller expresses his displeasure with what he sees as coach-induced mistakes.

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

The Midland Lee Rebels got into the win column for the first time in their 30th football season with a 31-12 victory over the Del Rio Rams at Memorial Stadium Friday night, but Coach Earl Miller is in no mood to take in congratulatory words.

"I feel like someone bombed my car and I was in it," was the way Miller put it even though his team scored 31 points after a three-point effort the week before in a stunning upset to El Paso Aardvarks.

"I have no idea where we go from here. I've never seen a team make so many mistakes. That isn't the kids' fault. That's a coaching problem. I'd buy a bus ticket and leave town if I had the money."

The Rebels took up where they left off in El Paso to open the game — with mistakes. A bad snap from center on a fourth down punt put Lee in one hole they climbed out of and came back with a fumble to set up a 6-0 Del Rio lead when quarterback James Simmons threw a perfect strike to Freddy Ortiz for a 31-yard touchdown.

The stunned Rebs came back and saw sophomore Demond Robinson drop a pass from Derrick Turner in the end zone with not a defender around him. It was a woeful start for a team wanting to turn things around in the early season.

"By all rights, we should have been down 14-0 early in the game and if you are playing a great team, you are then in trouble," said Miller.

Brian Adamcik/Reporter-Telegram

Midland Lee quarterback Derrick Turner threw for 166 yards and one touchdown in the Rebels' win.

But Lee did come back. Junior half-back Brett Sullivan ripped off a 28-yard touchdown run to open a 21-point second period for Lee. Turner then dialed Reggie Webb for 31 yards to set up Sullivan's second TD, a one-yard run with 5:42 left in the half. Turner came back to hit senior wide receiver Kyle Sullivan with a 62-yard pass to the Del Rio one and Jovan Teliez scored three plays later with a two-yard run for a 21-6 lead.

It was explosive for sure, but you had

Bulldogs win in waning seconds, 17-14

MONAHANS — As — in his own words — David Worley phrased it, the Midland High senior has had trouble digesting pressure situations for the first six quarters of the 1990 football season.

But after a pair of errors in the first half here at Lobo Stadium Friday, Worley made the transition from goat to hero by breaking a tied ball game and nailing a 37-yard field goal with 14 seconds left as the Bulldogs upended Monahans 17-14.

"Last week against (Lubbock) Monterey I choked and missed three field goals. So tonight I just told myself to keep my head down, kick straight and kick hard," said the 195-pound Worley, who routinely makes kicks from that range in practice.

"He's been kicking well in practice. There was no doubt in my mind he had the range, I just worried that he might try to over-kick. But he came through," said MHS head coach Davis Corley.

The win over the Class 4A Lobos made MHS 2-0 for the season while Monahans dropped to 1-1. But, as the score indicated, the Lobos never seemed in awe of playing the Class 5A Bulldogs.

As a matter of fact, Monahans scored first after Worley could not keep the handle on a punt return that saw the ball heavy and slippery from the rain that fell steadily throughout the first half.

The Lobos recovered the ball on the MHS 40-yard line, and produced a march that ended with Randy Ramsey scooting around the left end for a 15-yard touchdown with 4:56 remaining in the quarter.

The 'Dogs, who were outgained in total offensive yards 317-237, answered in the second quarter, though, as James Lee capped an 11-play drive that ate up 85 yards with a two-yard plunge 3 minutes and 46 seconds into the quarter. Worley's extra point kick was true to tie the game at 7-7.

The score stayed that way through the rest of the half, as the Bulldog defense repelled Monahans late in the second quarter. The Lobos had driven to the MHS 7-yard line, where they had a first down. Frank Ordonez carried for three yards then MHS linebacker Israel Fernandez came from nowhere to break up a TD pass on second down. Ordonez got the call twice more, but was able to get only three of the required four yards, leaving the game tied at halftime.

The Lobos took the lead again with 2:07 left in the third quarter as Mario Sotelo dashed into the end zone from four yards out and Monahans took a 14-7 edge.

But the fourth quarter belonged to MHS. After tak-

FORT STOCKTON — Quincy Carlisle's 25-yard touchdown catch broke a scoreless tie midway through the second quarter, but it was his fourth-quarter interception that sealed a 21-15 victory for Greenwood here Friday night.

Carlisle snatched a Shannon Beeles pass with 31 seconds to play, ending Fort Stockton's final scoring bid and upping the Rangers' record to 2-0 in the process.

"We needed a big play, and they had been throwing that pass to (Flo) Garcia all night," said Carlisle of the clutch grab at midfield.

"He's a three-year starter, so I guess he's supposed to make big plays like that," smiled Ranger head coach Bob Purser. "But he definitely had a big game for us tonight."

Carlisle's interception helped support a Greenwood running game that accounted for 240 yards, as well as a defense that recovered five Fort Stockton fumbles.

Six different Ranger ballcarriers gained double-digit yardage, led by Jerry Gay and Ed Lara, who each had 53 on the night.

Still, even when Lara's 10-yard TD run midway through the fourth quarter upped the lead to 21-7 and appeared to put the game out of reach, Fort Stockton fought back.

It was a gutsy effort by the Panthers, who trailed 14-0 at the half and are now 0-12 under Gierhart since he took over the reins last season, 0-2 this year.

Midland Christian's Patrick McAdams had 115 yards on 11 carries while scoring two touchdowns.

Adams, McAdams lead MC, 50-22

By Bill Grimes
Staff Writer

Midland Christian head coach Homer Jackson and Ira mentor Don Jones differ on how their six-man football game was decided Friday.

But there's one thing on which the coaches must agree. Midland Christian wiped out the visiting Bulldogs 50-22 at the MCS field to run its season mark to 2-0.

The Mustangs got off to a good start by scoring twice on their first five plays from scrimmage in the first period.

After the Mustangs received the opening kickoff, Andy Bayley put the Mustangs into Ira territory on the first play with a 18-yard bullet to lanky end Alan Weaver. Patrick McAdams then sliced through the Bulldog defense for a 26-yard scoring run only 36 seconds into the game.

Ira, which has been outscored 114-40 in its first two losses, kept the ball for eight plays on its first possession, but the drive stalled when middle linebacker McAdams nailed running back Bryan Luna in the Bulldog backfield on fourth-and-one at the Mustang 21.

It didn't take the Mustangs long to make good after that hit.

After Tim Adams rambled 13 yards on first-down to set up second-and-short at the Mustang 34 (it takes 15 yards to make a first down in six-man), Bayley found Aaron Awtry well behind the Ira defense for a 44-yard gain to the Ira 2. Drew Akins scampered into the end zone on the next play.

Kennedy, Devils use run to bewitch hapless Forsan

By Charlie Dowd
MRT Correspondent

RANKIN — The Rankin Red Devils defeated the Forsan Buffaloes 34-0, utilizing a bruising running game led by junior quarterback Kirk Kennedy.

Kennedy led Rankin with 94 yards rushing and two touchdowns as Rankin wore down Forsan's overmatched and undersized defense.

Rankin, coming off a tough loss to Iraan last week, wanted to get in tune for next week's showdown with Garden City. It took them all of two plays to score on their first possession via a 28 yard touchdown pass from Kennedy to end James Watson.

The Red Devils never looked back as they rolled up 296 yards rushing while their defense allowed the Buffaloes to cross into Rankin territory only twice. Forsan never managed to mount a serious threat to score.

Despite the lopsided score Rankin coach Troy Kennedy was concerned with some sloppy play on the part of his Red Devils. They fumbled eight times, losing the ball three times and had numerous other bobbles. In addition, Rankin was penalized 8 times for 80 yards.

Francisco Gonzales was the unlucky recipient of some sloppy play on his mates' part. Early in the first quarter he had a 62 yard punt return for a touchdown nullified by a clipping penalty. Later in the half he had a dazzling 22-yard punt return called back because of the same infraction.

Overall, Coach Kennedy was pleased with his team's performance, citing their toughness and execution when it mattered. For a team that was down this week in practice as a result of last week's loss, tonight's win may be a good omen for the remainder of Rankin's season.

COLORADO CITY — The Stanton Buffaloes ran into some tough luck in a 18-14 loss to the Colorado City Wolves in non-district football action here Friday.

The Buffs, 0-2, led 14-10 going into the final minutes, but C-City took possession on the Stanton 23 after a blocked punt, and fullback Bobby Silva gave C-City the lead on a 1-yard run with 11 seconds left. Silva also ran in the two-point conversion to eliminate the chance that a field goal would tie.

Stanton got touchdowns from wingback Jim Bob Kelly and tailback John Paul Barry. Barry led all rushers with 137 yards, while fullback Garry Don Thompson added 67 yards.

Stanton travels to Greenwood next Friday for their second game in as many weeks against a District 6-3A school.

Younger Bush, partner loses in Oilman's tennis

Presidential son Neil Bush, in competition Friday at the Southwest Oilman's tennis tournament.

Staff Report

The doubles team including Presidential son Neil Bush was eliminated from championship contention in the A-1 semifinals of the Southwest Oilman's Tennis Tournament Friday.

Play concludes today with finals in all eight divisions of the double-only tournament.

Bush, who lives in Denver, and partner Bob Zorich of Houston, lost a 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, match to Rick Wertz of New Orleans and Houstonian Mike Senich, who is also the tournament director.

Wertz and Senich will face Lamar Roemar and Steve Swanson of Denver in the A-1 finals. Roemar and Swanson defeated Midlanders Kirk Farquhar and Neill McClung in their semifinal.

Farquhar did win his A Scrambled semifinal match.

Farquhar and fellow Midlander Tim Leach knocked off Midlanders Terry Miller and Paul Shukis, 10-4.

RANGERS: Greenwood enjoys 2nd straight win

From 1B

Carlisle, a 4-yard run by Mebane and the three first-half fumbles. Mebane's run came with just 28 seconds to play in the half and capped a 10-play drive that started at the Greenwood 26-yard-line — when Carlisle broke up a Beesles pass on fourth and long.

But Eddie Bustamonte's 89-yard return of the second-half kickoff put the Panthers suddenly and squarely back in the chase.

"You think their motor wasn't running right there?" declared Purser.

"I thought they whipped us in the first quarter and early in the second. They've got good players and good coaches. I'm just glad to see that we could play with someone that physical," Purser said of the Rangers' first-ever 4A opponent.

Phillip Houston's one-yard TD plunge narrowed the gap to 21-13, and Beesles' two-point run made it 21-15 with 4:47 left to play.

Greenwood ran off seven plays to the 50-yard line, where Jason Swopes, who punted five times for a 36.4 yard average, got off a mere 18-yarder with 1:56 left.

A big pass interference penalty moved the ball to the Greenwood 40 with 30 seconds left, but Carlisle nabbed the next one and the Rangers ran out the clock.

"I can't blame Shannon (Beesles) for that interception," said Panther coach Mel Gierhart. "We were moving down the field, and at that point in the game you've got to take some chances."

The Panthers had already enjoyed a 181-yard passing effort from Beesles, who finished 11-of-20 with the one interception, and they were 0-11 under Gierhart so any chances were well worth taking.

Bearcats use late score to shoot down the Grandfalls Cowboys

Staff Report

GRANDFALLS — The state-ranked Garden City Bearcats needed a trick play to eke out a 21-20 win over the unheralded Grandfalls-Royalty Cowboys in non-district football action here Friday.

Garden City, ranked fifth in the latest state Class A poll, trailed 20-14 with less than three minutes left when Steven Jost caught a short pass from Allen Hoelscher, then lateraled back to tailback James Soles, who traveled the remaining 49 yards for the touchdown.

Soles, who gained nearly 2,000 yards last season, had a rough go of it overall, finishing with only 50 yards.

Grandfalls took a 20-0 lead in the first three quarters with the help of two TD's by Rene Vasquez, who led all rushers with 55 yards.

Garden City got on the board with two minutes left in the third quarter on a two-yard pass from Shae Scott to Allen Hoelscher. Bearcat passers completed nine of 12 passes for 188 yards.

The 2-0 Bearcats host similarly undefeated Rankin next Friday.

Gonzalez' homer lifts Rangers over Brewers

Associated Press

Rookie Juan Gonzalez hit a one-out homer in the bottom of the 10th inning off reliever Chuck Crim, giving the Texas Rangers a 2-1 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Kenny Rogers (9-5) got the victory in relief for the Rangers, their eighth in nine games, while Crim dropped to 3-5.

It was the 12th time this year that Texas won a game in the bottom of the ninth or later.

Gonzalez, with only 49 at-bats, hit a 20 pitch off Crim for his fourth homer.

Jamie Navarro shut out the Rangers on two hits for seven innings before they tied the score in the eighth with four singles, including a run-scoring hit with two outs by Jeff Huson.

Nolan Ryan, who allowed four hits and struck out 11, left after eight innings. The only run he gave up was a sixth-inning homer to Robin Yount.

Indians 6, Royals 3

Chris James homered and was one of six Cleveland players had an RBI as the Indians beat Kansas City for their fifth victory in six games.

Rookie Kevin Appier (11-7), a rare bright spot for the Royals this year, lost for only the third time in nine starts. Appier was knocked out in the fifth after giving up five runs.

Sergio Valdez (4-5) was the winner, allowing eight hits and three runs in 7 2-3 innings. Jones pitched the final inning for his 35th save.

George Brett, in a virtual tie with Oakland's Rickey Henderson for the American League batting title, went 0-for-4 and his average dropped from .327 to .324.

Blue Jays 8, Orioles 7

Pinch-hitter Rance Mulliniks tied the score with a two-run single and John Olerud drove in the winning run with another single as the Toronto Blue Jays scored three runs in the ninth inning for a victory over Baltimore.

One-out singles by Tony Fernandez and Kelly Gruber and a walk to Fred McGriff set up the rally off Gregg Olson (5-5), who has 31 saves but now has blown five save opportunities.

White Sox 4, Red Sox 0

Sammy Sosa hit a two-run homer and Jack McDowell won for the seventh time in nine starts as the Chicago White Sox beat Boston, the Red Sox' eighth loss in 12 games.

The loss — coupled with Toronto's come-from-behind, 8-7 victory over Baltimore — cut Boston's lead in the AL East to three games.

Yankees 5, Tigers 2

Mike Blowers' two-run double capped a five-run third inning that lifted the New York Yankees over the Detroit Tigers.

Tim Lincecum (9-18), trying to avoid becoming the first pitcher in 10 years to lose 20 games in a season, held the Tigers to one run on three hits in seven innings for the victory. The last pitcher to lose 20 games was Brian Kingman of Oakland in 1980.

Dave Righetti pitched the ninth for his 32nd save.

LaNell Guelker and Toyua Parrish teamed for a best-round score of 64 to take the low gross title in the Women's Crystal Classic Golf Tournament Wednesday and Thursday at Green Tree Country Club.

The event used an eclectic format, where the teams had the option of taking the best score from each round in the two-day event.

NL East still tight as ever

Associated Press

Tim Wallach doubled home the tying run with two out in the eighth inning and rookie Larry Walker followed with a two-run homer as the Montreal Expos continued to dominate Pittsburgh Friday night.

Montreal is 11-5 against Pittsburgh this season. The Expos trailed 2-1 on two home runs by Barry Bonds and were held to five hits in seven innings by Bob Walk.

But Neal Heaton (12-9) relieved to start the eighth and walked Delino DeShields with two out. Wallach, celebrating his 33rd birthday, doubled DeShields home and Walker hit a 1-2 pitch over the right-field fence for his 18th homer.

The victory went to Steve Frey (8-2), who pitched two scoreless innings in relief of left-hander Brian Barnes, who made his major league debut. Barnes held Pittsburgh to four hits in seven innings — home runs by Bonds in the second and fourth and a double by Bonds in the sixth.

That gave Bonds seven consecutive hits over two games. He grounded out against Frey in the ninth.

Phillies 4, Mets 1

Pat Combs, ejected after igniting a bench-clearing brawl in his last start at Shea Stadium, quieted New York on four hits and the Philadelphia Phillies ended the Mets' 11-game home winning streak.

The Mets, the best home team in baseball at 50-23, tied a team record with their success streak at Shea. They had won four straight games to pull within 1 1/2 games of Pittsburgh in the National League East. They didn't lose ground Friday night when the Pirates lost to Montreal 4-2.

Lenny Dykstra drove in one run, scored another and regained the league batting lead. Dale Murphy hit his 22nd homer and later scored on Charlie Hayes' single for the Phillies' other runs.

Combs (8-9) sparked a full-scale fight on Aug. 9 when he hit Mets ace Dwight Gooden with a pitch. Gooden charged the mound and both pitchers and three others were ejected and Combs left with a facial cut.

Dodgers 10, Reds 4

Kal Daniels' third grand slam of the season completed an eight-run rally in the sixth inning as the Los Angeles Dodgers finally beat Tom Browning and cut the Cincinnati Reds' lead to 5 1/2 games in the National League West.

The Dodgers trailed 2-1 when they broke through Browning (13-8), who had yielded just nine earned runs while beating the Dodgers in his four other starts this season.

Eddie Murray started the uprising with a one-out homer, his 24th.

Cardinals 4, Cubs 2

Bryn Smith pitched six shutout innings for his first victory in almost two months and Pedro Guerrero had two RBI doubles as the St. Louis Cardinals ended the Chicago Cubs' three-game winning streak.

Smith (8-8) gave up four hits — all singles — in his second start since coming off the disabled list and won for the first time since July 17. Smith, who was sidelined from July 28 to Sept. 5 with a sore right shoulder, stryck out three and walked one.

Astros 2, Giants 1

Mark Portugal overcame early wildness and held San Francisco to three hits in six innings and rookie Karl Rhodes hit two doubles and scored twice, leading the Houston Astros over the Giants.

The victory snapped San Francisco's winning streak at five games and left the Giants 6 1/2 games behind Cincinnati in the National League West and one game behind Los Angeles, which beat the Reds 10-4.

Sanctuary rededication set Sunday

First Presbyterian Church is celebrating the rededication of its newly remodeled sanctuary at 11 a.m. Sunday.

"This service will serve not only as a rededication of the sanctuary, but also to remember the proud history of First Presbyterian Church," says a release from the church.

Harriet Hanna Caldwell, author of the first history of First Presbyterian Church, said, "Presbyterians are determined people. Hardships and discouragement do not stop them."

"The history of First Presbyterian Church is splendid evidence of that tradition and experience," says the release from First Presbyterian.

Before August 1885, all protestants in the newly founded town of Midland worshipped together, first in the little red school house, then in the second floor of the courthouse. The Methodists were the first to organize a church in August of 1885. The Presbyterians followed in December of 1885 and the Baptists in January of 1886. In March of 1886, the Baptist built the first church building in Midland on the southeast corner of North Baird and West Illinois streets.

The Baptists held services one Sunday a month. When they weren't using the church, other denominations were welcome to hold services there, which both the Methodists and the Presbyterians did. Ministers from other small communities would travel to Midland to hold the monthly service.

From the fall of 1885 until April of 1888, not a drop of rain fell in Midland.

"This was a tragedy for the small community whose economy was based on agriculture," the release says. "Many people found the conditions too discouraging and left. Within three years only two communicants remained on the church roll. Under these circumstances the Fort Worth Presbytery dissolved the Midland First Presbyterian Church April 16, 1897."

At the turn of the century, Midland was growing and the time seemed right to try to reorganize the church.

"Special thanks must be given to Mr. Winslow D. Watts, who was one of the two communicants left on the role in 1896," the release says. "He was wise enough, through previous experience, to recognize the need for a church building to tie any group together permanently and assumed the task of preparing a church home."

He appointed a three-member building committee that selected a site located at the present site of NCNB. The land was purchased for $200. The new church was organized with 16 members and was dedicated in May of 1900.

The church became too small for the congregation's needs. In 1937 this property was sold for $13,000 cash and a new property purchased at the church's current location, 800 W. Texas Ave.

The new church included the present chapel and the present preschool wing. The building cost $38,000. The first service in the new church was held December of 1937. By this time the church had grown to 307 members.

Through the years, expansions have been made to the church. Perhaps the most expensive came in 1959 when the congregation authorized construction of new buildings at a cost of $1,506,665. The old fellowship hall was remodeled into the present day parlor and the present chapel was remodeled by adding a foyer and removing the balcony. The new fellowship hall and Christian education wing were first used in October of 1960 and the new sanctuary in February of 1961.

To help commemorate Sunday's special rededication, ministers involved with the history of the church will participate in the 11 a.m. service. Charles Hollingsworth of the Tres Rios Presbytery will help celebrate the service along with Steven Schorr, William Borrer, Richard Braun and Russell Ritchel, current ministers of the church.

Several former ministers also will participate. They are Robert Smith of Atlanta and Ray Riddle of Midland. Also participating will be Robert Matthew Lynn, who first served First Presbyterian from November of 1947 to October of 1971 and led the congregation from a membership of 489 to more than 1,400.

Lynn also promoted and supported the establishment of three other Presbyterian churches in Midland and was instrumental in the development of Mo Ranch, Kerrville, a Christian retreat used by the Presbyterian Church and other denominations.

Following the 11 a.m. service and rededication ceremony, lunch will be served in the fellowship hall. The public is invited to attend the service and the luncheon.

Assembly plans special topics

First Assembly is presenting four Sundays of prophecy this month.

The remaining topics are Sunday, "God vs Gog," Sept. 23, "Anti-Christ & 666," and Sept. 30, "Time is Running Out." All are illustrated sermons.

The church's pastor, Sammy Hayes, is bringing the message. Associate pastor of First Assembly is the Rev. Homer Goodwin.

The public is invited to attend.

Fall Roundup under way

The Christian Church of Midland's 1990 Fall Roundup is being held Sunday through Wednesday.

Theme for the Roundup is "Fishers of Men," based on Matthew 4:18-20.

Guest speaker will be Gene Shepherd, president of Dallas Christian College, who will lead adult Sunday School classes along with the services.

Prior to coming to DCC, Shepherd served the 1,800-member Lincoln Christian Church, Lincoln, Ill., as youth and senior minister for a total of 10 years. Shepherd is a graduate of Lincoln Christian College with a bachelor's degree in Christian education and music and a graduate of Lincoln Christian seminary with a master's degree in preaching.

The Rev. Don Fankhauser, associate minister of Antioch Christian Church of Odesa, will serve as worship leader.

Fankhauser was associate minister at the East Bartlesville Christian Church, Bartlesville, Okla. He graduated from Ozark Bible College in 1981 where he received a bachelor of sacred literature degree. While attending college, he spent two years traveling for the Christ in Youth Ministries in the group "Carpenter's Crew," directed by Tom Lawson.

The Lighthouse Five will bring a special song service at 6 p.m. Sunday.

Each service will have a special theme including "Fisherman's Wharf" services at 7 p.m. Monday, "Cast Your Net" which refers to filling the pews is set for Tuesday and a fish fry will be held the closing night.

The public is invited to attend. Tickets for the fish fry dinner may be obtained at any of the services.

Jerri Savuto, former missionary to Central America and Nigeria, will be the featured speaker of the Annual Meeting of the Big Spring District United Methodist Women set for 2:30 p.m. Sept. 23 at First United Methodist Church, 409 North 3rd St., Lamesa.

Registration begins at 2 p.m. that day. Women from the 38 United Methodist Churches within the district are expected to attend.

"Witnesses for a New World" is the theme of the annual meeting. Other features include the adoption of the 1991 budget and highlights from the Women's Assembly held in Kansas City in May. Joan Cunningham, district president and member of St. Paul United Methodist Church, Midland, will preside over the business session following the program presented by Emma Mint, district vice president from St. Mark United Methodist Church, Midland.

Bond issue program set

Ted Miller, coordinator of communications for the Midland Independent School District, will present the case for a new bond issue at 11 a.m. Sunday at the Unitarian-Universalist Church, Neely and Midkiff.

A discussion period will follow Miller's presentation which is part of a regularly scheduled Adult Forum program.

Voting on the bond issue is scheduled for Oct. 6. The public is invited to hear Miller's presentation.

Special service set

The Rev. Gerald W. Redman, field representative for the Church of God Stewardship Department, will speak at special service Sunday through Sept. 23 at Church of God, 5300 Thomason.

A clergyman since 1958, Redman has served his denomination in various areas. For three years he was an evangelist and for 14 years he pastored in Michigan, South Carolina and Texas.

"His ability as a capable administrator has been demonstrated during his tenures as director of development for two Church of God colleges — West Coast Christian College in California and Lee College in Tennessee," says a release from the Church of God International office.

He also has served as director of alumni at Lee College and for the past two years directed both the development and alumni offices for the school.

In his present position, Redman speaks about scriptural stewardship, conducts estate planning clinics and seminars and gives instruction and consultation concerning personal finances and tax matters.

Redman and his wife, Linda, live in Cleveland, Tenn., and are the parents of three children.

The church's pastor, the Rev. M.R. Thomson, invites the public to hear him speak.

McLeod to speak

The Rev. Charles McLeod, director of evangelism for the Baptist General Convention of Texas, will preach in both the morning and evening worship services at Bellview Baptist Church, 1710 N. Big Spring St.

Bellview is observing Harvest Day. Each service will feature an evangelistic emphasis. The membership is asked to bring a friend.

A catered barbecue dinner in the church's new Christian Life Center will follow the service.

Service times are 10:50 a.m. and 6:40 p.m. The church's pastor, the Rev. G.A. Magee, invites the public to attend.

Prosperity workshop set

A light-hearted workshop will be presented on prosperity 2:5 p.m. Sunday at Permian Church of Religious Science, 2311 Elizabeth (across from Dennis the Menace Park).

Licensed Religious Science practitioners Marilyn Chilleen and Bill Ropple of Los Angeles will facilitate the workshop "Prosperity and Beyond."

Ropple is a practitioner at the Agape Church of Religious Science and the world-wide Ministry of Prayer in Los Angeles. Ms. Chilleen is a senior ministerial student.

The workshop will focus on concepts from "The Richest Man in Babylon" by George Clason, improving sources of income, getting out of debt, the Law of Attraction and tithing.

There is no cost for the workshop but a love offering (donation) will be accepted.

For information call 684-4230.

Women's Day set

The Greater Mt. Rose Baptist Church Baptist Church, 211 N. Tyler St., is holding its annual Women's Day Program Sunday.

Special guest speaker will be Sue Roseberry of Faith Temple Church of God in Christ. The public is invited to attend.

Shupp named pastor

The First Baptist Church of Allen, Okla., has announced that James Shupp has accepted the pastorate of its church.

Students rally around flagpole to pray

AUSTIN (AP) — Officials with the Baptist General Convention say final figures may show as many as 20,000 Texas students rallied around flagpoles to pray this week.

Chuck Flowers, youth evangelism associate with convention, said at least 15,000 students participated in Wednesday's "See You at the Pole" event.

"Our goal is to encourage young people, Christian young people, to pray for their campuses ... to claim their campuses for Christ ... and just to pray for their friends," Flowers said.

The students met at the flagpoles for both symbolic and logistical reasons, Flowers said. Each school has a flagpole, and the flag "is a symbol of our rights as Americans," he said.

By meeting before the official school day began, the students avoided violating the constitutional doctrine of separation of church and state.

Jim Harrington, director of the Texas Civil Liberties Union, said he has noticed increasing religious activity in Texas public schools during the past year.

"There is nothing wrong with students getting there early and standing around the flagpole and praying," he said.

In 1962, the U.S. Supreme Court declared that unofficial, non-denominational prayer in public schools was unconstitutional. A year later, the same court struck down rules requiring the recitation of the Lord's Prayer and the reading of Bible verses.

But a recent Supreme Court ruling found that any school that allows other student clubs to meet on campus must give student-sponsored prayer clubs equal access.

As a result, the clubs have been able to meet at school, but they cannot be sponsored by a church. Nor can they have a faculty sponsor, because of the separation of church and state.

Come Over To Your Place.

Ever heard someone say, "come over to our church"? Actually, that's not a true statement. You see, a church doesn't belong to anyone but God. It's His place, and He has made it possible for all of us to fit in. He has a place for you if you'll accept His invitation. Visit with us this Sunday... Come over to "your" place.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

(From 3C)

Shupp is a 1981 graduate of Midland High School. He is the son of Damon and Barbara Shupp of Midland, and his wife, Cherry Young, is the daughter of Don and Maryann Young of Midland.

Shupp enrolled at Texas Tech University following his high school graduation. In 1983, he transferred to Hardin Simmons University and in 1985 received his bachelor of arts degree with a major in Bible. He was licensed to the ministry by Wilshire Park Baptist Church, Midland, in 1983.

In August of 1985 he moved to Fort Worth where he enrolled in graduate school at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary. In May of 1988, he received the master of divinity degree. In January of 1988, he became the pastor of Valley View Baptist Church, near Nocona. He was ordained while he was there.

He was accepted into the doctorate program at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary and currently is working on that degree.

Convention planned

A Texas Baptist Regional Sunday School Convention is scheduled at Crestview Baptist Church Monday.

The Midland convention is one of 24 scheduled throughout the state by the Sunday School Division of the Baptist General Convention of Texas to help strengthen Sunday School work in local churches.

"Breakthrough: Reach to Win Texas" is the theme of the convention to motivate and provide information to help Sunday School workers "breakthrough" barriers in reaching people for Bible study.

Featured speaker for the Midland convention is the Rev. Jim Denison, pastor of First Baptist Church, Midland.

Age group, general officer and a variety of special interest conferences will be offered during the convention including conferences for Sunday School leaders who attend Hispanic congregations.

Schedule for the convention is 2 to 4:45 and 6:45 to 9:20 p.m. There is no registration fee and pre-registration is not required.

For more information call the Baptist General Convention of Texas, Sunday School Division, 1-214-828-5200.

Canned food needed

Area Methodist Outreach services is in need of canned foods.

"We especially need such items as peanut butter, rice, powdered milk, canned soups and canned vegetables," says St. Mark's United Methodist Church's newsletter.

AMOS serves about 200 families and 700 individuals per month who are in need of food. Those interested in donating canned goods may do so by taking the canned goods by the church office, 1701 N. Main St., where they will be collected by AMOS.

Building consecration set

Bishop Louis W. Schowengerdt will be the guest preacher during special building consecration services at First United Methodist Church Sunday.

Schowengerdt, leader of more than 80,000 United Methodists in Schowengerdt the Northwest Texas Annual Conference, will preach at both the 8:30 and 10:35 a.m. services. The building consecration will be held during the second Sunday morning worship service.

The $4 million building program, begun in 1985, was completed earlier this year. The three-phase project, financed in part through matching funds from the First United Methodist Church Foundation, included new music facility and children's playground, Phase One; new fellowship hall, 10 new adult classrooms and new kitchen, Phase Two; and new activity center and 12 new classrooms for children and youth, Phase Three.

The expansive additions to the church building were begun under the leadership of the Rev. Dr. Charles Lutrick, pastor of the congregation until 1988, and completed under the current pastor, the Rev. Dr. Russell Parchman.

Also scheduled to speak during the consecration service is Ted Johnson, chair of the building program.

First UMC, with 2,069 members, is the largest UM congregation in the Big Spring District, one of seven districts included in the Northwest Texas Conference.

Guest teaching slated

The Rev. James Denison, pastor of First Baptist Church, will be the guest teacher at Wednesday's meeting of the Downtown Bible Study.

Bunny Becker will begin a teaching entitled "Running to or Fleeing From God's Presence?" Sept. 26.

Each meeting begins at 11:30 a.m. at 312 E. Illinois Ave., and is structured to accommodate an 11:30 a.m. or noon lunch hour. For more information call 682-3415.

Revival services set

Asbury United Methodist Church, 106 N. Dakota St., is holding its revival Sept. 23 through 26 at 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. Steve Rogers, a United Methodist minister, appointed by the Northwest Texas Annual Conference as a full time evangelist and Bible teacher, will be leading the revival. Special music will be provided by Rogers and members of Asbury.

"He has stated that he believed God had called him into his ministry," says a release from the church. "His goal is to share the life changing message of the gospel by teaching the truth of God's word and lifting up Jesus Christ as lord. He also has stated that he is convinced the church's great need is for a clearer understanding of the gospel."

Rogers is a graduate of Texas Christian University and Asbury Theological Seminary. He has served eight years as a local church pastor and three years as associate conference council director. As a pastor, he taught both the trinity and Bethel Bible courses in three churches. He has led several seminars and Bible studies for district and local church groups.

He is active in the Walk to Emmaus Program.

Rogers is married to Denise and they have two sons, Nathan, 10, and Joshua, 4.

The public is invited to attend.

Friendship Sunday set

Grace Lutheran Church, 3000 W. Golf Course Road, will observe Friendship Sunday Sept. 23.

"Friendship Sunday allows a congregation to direct its attention and efforts toward the task given it by the Lord Jesus Christ, 'to seek and to save the lost,' says a release from the church. "The entire congregation has an opportunity to be directly involved in the mission of the church."

This year's Friendship Sunday emphasis is "Focus on Friendship." The sermon, children's message and order of service will focus on the congregation as a gathering of friends and emphasize how to be friends to one another and to others in the community.

Sunday School starts at 9:15 a.m. and the worship service begins at 10:30 a.m.

The Rev. Ray Johansen, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, and Tim Jank, intern director of Christian Education, invite the public to attend.

Parsons resigns post

Golf Course Road Church of Christ, 3500 W. Golf Course, has announced the resignation of Douglas F. Parsons as pulpit minister for the church.

Parsons, who has preached for the church since 1980, will be accepting a pulpit position for the Oak Ridge North Church of Christ, Houston-Conroe, in October.

Parsons and his wife, Sindy, helped the Midland congregation experience unprecedented growth, both numerically and spiritually during the past decade, and were instrumental in leading the church to become a great influence and force in the community, says a release from the Midland church.

"Parsons is looking forward to the move with great optimism and leaves behind a great legacy," the release says.

Parsons has been a minister for 30 years.

No replacement has been announced at the present. Weekly services will be led by other ministers of the church.

Personality study set

Adult Christian Education classes at Grace Presbyterian Church, 2801 N. Garfield St., continue to gear up for the fall.

Included in this year's courses is "Personality Plus," which studies which personality group each individual fits into and how those individuals relate with other personality groups.

The other adult Sunday School class is "Faithful Witnesses," and is a study of when and how the individual can use faith to lead others toward God.

All Sunday School classes begin at 9:30 a.m. A nursery is available.

Women's Day planned

The Macedonia Baptist Church, 201 S. Carver St., is holding its annual Women's Day Program at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Speaker for the occasion is Sophia Clifton of Odessa. Mrs. Clifton, a member of the Rose of Sharon Baptist Church, will speak on "Becoming Women of Excellence."

The public is invited to attend.

Talcott to lecture

Brian D. Talcott, a Christian Science lecturer, will speak on "The Priceless Value of Spiritual Integrity" at noon Tuesday at Midland Center, Main Street at Wall Avenue.

"To this Christian Scientist from Berkeley, Calif., 'spiritual integrity' involves self government," says a release from the Christian Science Lecture News, adding that Talcott bases his concept of honesty on the teachings and works of Jesus Christ.

"You'll never find anyone," Talcott says, referring to Christ, "with a deeper insight into the true nature of God and man and the power and domination that relationship gives us."

A Christian Science practitioner, Talcott is involved in the ministry of Christian Science healing and says he has seen time and again how the willingness to be obedient to God's demand for honesty brings healings and blessings.

Talcott's lecture will be informal. A time for questions and answers will follow the lecture.

He shares several instances of healing — physical and career-related — from his own experience, and from the lives of others.

The public is invited to attend.

St. Ann's sets fair

The 42nd annual St. Ann's Family Fair will be held from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Sept. 22 on the grounds of St. Ann's School, corner of Illinois Avenue and N Street.

The fair has become a tradition, featuring entertainment for all ages. Carnival rides run from 6 to 10 p.m. Thursday and Friday as well as Sept. 22.

St. Ann's Fair features more than 40 booths, including bingo, 17 refreshment booths and 25 game booths. Specialty areas include arts and crafts, sewing, books, jewelry, baking, canning items and an Odds & Ends Booth, which features one of the largest garage sales in this area.

De Klerk, Mandela suspect 'hidden hand'

By Greg Myre

Associated Press Writer

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Nelson Mandela said Friday that he and President F.W. de Klerk had concluded a "hidden hand" was orchestrating the black township fighting to undermine peace talks aimed at black-white power sharing.

Five blacks were killed in Soweto on Friday and 15 others were thrown from moving trains and injured in Johannesburg, police said. On Thursday night, youths with guns and machetes killed 26 people and injured more than 100 on a train traveling from Johannesburg to Soweto.

"We are dealing with highly professional killers," Mandela, the African National Congress leader, said at a Johannesburg news conference after meeting with de Klerk in Pretoria.

"The government is convinced this is no longer a clash between black and black," he said. "There is a hidden hand here the government intends to track down."

Asked who he thought was responsible, Mandela said, "We don't know ... but we have our own suspicions." He refused to elaborate.

Almost 800 blacks have died in the townships ringing Johannesburg since fighting erupted in early August. The main combatants have been Zulus loyal to the conservative Inkatha movement and Xhosas and other blacks supporting Mandela's ANC.

Anti-apartheid groups have alleged that police, rogue elements of the security forces and white extremists have spurred on the fighting. Witnesses in several townships have claimed that masked white men participated. But no proof has been offered.

De Klerk said in a statement that unidentified groups were attempting to sabotage government efforts to end apartheid and draw up a new constitution free of racial discrimination.

"There are forces which do not wish peaceful negotiations to succeed," he said. "All those forces desiring peace must stand together to identify and counter these forces."

The president promised "strong and comprehensive" action, but he did not elaborate.

Mandela said he expected de Klerk to announce steps Monday to curb the violence. The ANC would not oppose an increased army presence in the township as long as the troops maintain law and order, Mandela said.

But he accused soldiers currently in black areas of behaving "like an army of occupation" and using live ammunition unnecessarily.

Many black township residents see the army as a more effective and neutral force than the police.

The ANC and Inkatha, the two largest black political movements, both oppose apartheid but differ over tactics and plans for a future South Africa.

The ANC waged a 29-year guerrilla campaign against the white-led government before suspending its armed struggle last month.

Swap for Waite discussed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Britain's ambassador has held talks with Lebanon's leading Shiite Moslem cleric on a plan for swapping Anglican church envoy Terry Waite for a Shiite cleric held by Israel, a magazine reported Friday.

Al-Shirra magazine said the talks were held Wednesday between Ambassador David Thatham and Mohammed Hussein Fadlallah and focused on "details of releasing the British hostage Terry Waite in return for the release of Sheikh Abdul Karim Obeid."

The story was not attributed to any source. Al-Shirra received international attention for breaking the story of secret U.S. arms sales to Iran in 1986 in return for the release of American hostages.

Its recent reports on Western captives held mainly by pro-Iranian factions in Lebanon have not been accurate.

Fadlallah, the reputed mentor of the pro-Iranian Hezbollah, or Party of God, called the magazine report "a lie."

Prince Johnson, ambassador meet

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — Rebel leader Prince Johnson met with U.S. Ambassador Peter de Vos on Friday and discussed how to end Liberia's tribal war following President Samuel Doe's death, the U.S. Embassy said.

Bursts of gunfire interrupted periods of calm in the war-ravaged capital as the rival rebel armies of Johnson and Charles Taylor raced to reach the fortified presidential mansion, Liberia's seat of government.

Johnson appeared to have pushed Taylor's forces back after they had advanced from the city's eastern suburbs to within a few hundred yards of the mansion. Johnson controls the city center and areas west of the capital — including the diplomatic enclave on Mamba Point — below the cliff-top executive mansion.

Chernobyl tapes taken

MOSCOW (AP) — Teen-age thieves stole computer tapes containing vital information on the 1986 Chernobyl nuclear plant disaster and erased data before officials could catch them, the Tass news agency said Friday.

Health data on 500,000 residents of the region surrounding Chernobyl and information on radioactive contamination of 20,000 towns and villages was blanked out of the tapes stolen from the Research Institute of Radiation Treatment in Minsk, the capital of Byelorussia, Tass reported.

"While an investigation into the theft was going on, Byelorussian doctors appealed to the thieves through the press not to wipe off the data," Tass said. "Their request was not heeded."

Assassination alleged

PARIS (AP) — A French court has charged a member of a mercenary squad with assassinating the president of the Comoro Islands when his group seized power there last year.

The French news agency Agence-France Presse, quoting an unidentified court source, said Jean-Paul Guerrier was ordered jailed by Judge Chantal Pedrix pending further proceedings.

Reagan praises Poland, urges political tolerance

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Former President Reagan praised Poland's democratic struggle Friday but warned post-Communist leaders that difficult times may come and they must treat each other "as opponents, not as enemies."

Reagan, making his first visit to Poland, was interrupted by applause 10 times during a 45-minute speech to Parliament members and political leaders in Warsaw's Royal Castle.

"I have always believed that where freedom is, any friend of freedom will feel at home. And I have been waiting a long time to say to the people of Poland, 'Today, on your soil, I feel at home,'" said Reagan, who imposed strict sanctions on Poland after the Communists imposed martial law in 1981.

Many current political leaders in Poland credit the sanctions with helping to pressure the government into democratic concessions.

Poland was the second stop on Reagan's 10-day European trip. Earlier, he visited Berlin and chipped at the Berlin Wall. He is scheduled to leave Saturday for the Soviet Union and also plans to visit Italy.

"Even though many Americans have never met a Pole, your struggle for liberty has moved us deeply," said Reagan.

Reagan also alluded to recent political discord in Poland between Solidarity Chairman Lech Walesa and Prime Minister Tadeusz Mazowiecki.

"It is natural that you will fight hard among yourselves on issues of great importance," he said. "To protect the liberty you have won at such a cost, you will need a full measure of the tolerance and openness that are Poland's tradition. For you historic transition means that you must fight as opponents, not as enemies."

Walesa thinks he'll win — if he seeks presidency

GDANSK, Poland (AP) — Solidarity chairman Lech Walesa says he will win if he decides to run for president of Poland.

Walesa said he will make up his mind shortly on whether to be a candidate in elections expected to be held by spring.

"My victory is rather certain," he said during his weekly news conference Thursday in Solidarity's home city of Gdansk.

"I am not worried about victory, but about its scale," Walesa said. "The situation is hard, and if the president is elected with only 50 percent of the vote, he will have to work 48 hours a day. ... Thus he must win 80 percent."

If his former ally and adviser, Prime Minister Tadeusz

Mazowiecki, decides to run against him, Mazowiecki would win 35 percent of the vote, Walesa predicted.

Mazowiecki has not announced whether he will be a candidate.

Walesa has split with his hand-picked choice for prime minister over the pace of economic and political reforms. Walesa charges that Mazowiecki's government is proceeding too slowly to remove communist holdovers from state industries and agencies, and has lost touch with society.

"The worse thing is society's non-participation and today, 60 percent of society doesn't participate in anything," Walesa said.

He has called for early fully democratic presidential and parliamentary elections, citing the current arrangement as dated.

Parliament was elected in June 1989 with the then-Communist authorities guaranteed seats for the party and its allies. Since then, a Solidarity-led government has taken power and the Communist Party has dissolved.

President Wojciech Jaruzelski, the former Communist Party leader elected to a six-year term in 1989, has said he is prepared to resign at the appropriate time.

Parliament is to discuss the election schedule next week.

Mazowiecki has agreed with the need for speedy elections. He said Thursday that "one should put an end to a state in which there are no elections but a permanent electoral campaign."

PERSIAN GULF CRISIS

Higher prices seem to stir oil-equipment thefts

By Kyle Pope
Hearst News Service

HOUSTON — Increases in the price of crude and a critical shortage of some oil-field equipment have brought the crooks back into the oil patch.

Law enforcement officials and industry executives say thefts of drilling parts, tools and even oil have inched up in the past month as the state's energy companies have begun gearing up for a new round of drilling.

The rash of thefts — many of them organized and some linked to the drug trade — recently have been focused on small companies operating in rural Texas, according to authorities.

Industry officials say, though, that they are bracing for a major, statewide problem if oil prices continue to soar and the demand for oil-field equipment goes up.

"Thieves are like any other businessman: They go where the action is," said Boyd Burdett, executive director of the Petroleum Industry Security Council, a trade group formed to battle oil-field crime.

While no agency collects oil-field crime data for the entire state, experts say a string of subtle indicators point to a crunch in the making.

A theft hotline manned by Burdett's group has received more than a dozen calls in the past month, the most in recent memory. Items particularly at risk, the group says, include drill pipe and production valves.

A Hobbs, N.M., company that brands oil-field equipment with special serial numbers is reporting a booming business, as companies begin to worry about tracking down pilfered equipment. Barry Roberts, president of Tool Branding Services, said 10 of the company's customers have since mid-August reported thefts costing them tens of thousands of dollars.

The oil-field theft problem has risen as much as 30 percent in Young County, in North Texas, prompting Sheriff Carey Pettus to call a meeting of the state's deputy sheriffs and oil rig operators. Pettus said he is organizing the Oct. 25 gathering in Graham, the county seat, to educate operators on ways to prevent theft and to improve the reporting process so authorities can track crime trends as they unfold.

The 14-person staff of the Texas Railroad Commission's investigations unit has assisted in a dozen convictions involving oil-field crime in the past year. The little-known division, headed by a former assistant district attorney from Lubbock, Texas, has two investigators in Houston armed with the same search warrant and arrest powers as most local law officers.

While the incidents of theft have so far been widely scattered and fairly small-time, they still have hit their victims hard.

Authorities say most firms affected by the problem are small drilling companies operating a handful of rigs in remote areas of Texas. These operators have struggled through the recent drilling slump and can ill-afford to lose $10,000 or $20,000 worth of equipment at a time when demand for their services is picking up steam.

"It's not going to put us under, but it sure does hurt," said Bill Laxton, safety director of Well-Co Oil Service Co. in Brownfield, a town in Terry County near Lubbock in Northwest Texas. "It's as bad now as it's been in five or six years."

Between the end of July and the middle of August, Laxton said thieves struck two of Well-Co's West Texas rigs.

The crooks, using what officials guess is a customized truck with a built-in winch to lift equipment, stole $45,000 in supplies, including tongs, tools and lifts used to drill oil wells.

Laxton guesses that the stolen goods were sold to a drilling company with a contract to work, but not enough equipment to do the job.

Equipment and parts used in the drilling business, from metal pipe and earth-chomping bits to complex regulators and valves, have been in short supply since well activity began to pick up earlier this summer.

To make matters worse, the used equipment market — once a haven for low-cost operators seeking to fill small orders — has virtually dried up.

"The oil patch has been down for so many years that it hasn't been worth it to steal," said Wayne Farmer, the sheriff in Andrews County on the New Mexico border. "But if there's a market, we've got people here who will jump right back in the middle of it."

Army reservist Arthur Grimaldo is photographed with his bride, Lisa Mendoza, after their rushed-up wedding.

Call-up triggers hasty wedding

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — It's hardly the kind of dream wedding Arthur Grimaldo and Lisa Mendoza planned.

Grimaldo, 22, a North Harris County College student, is being shipped out today after his Army Reserve unit was called up and a day after he and his fiancée scrambled to get married two weeks earlier than they planned.

On Monday, he and Ms. Mendoza, 27, were sending out invitations to their Sept. 29 wedding.

Tuesday, he found out he had 72 hours before his 302nd Military Police Company detachment was being called up.

Thursday, with his fiancée upset, his new mother-in-law in tears, the date on the wedding napkins scratched out with ballpoint and the order for the big tiered cake cancelled, he got married.

"She's been very quiet about it," Grimaldo said of his bride's reaction to all the changes of plans. "I think she's just anxious about me having to leave."

"We just wanted to get married," the bride said. "That's what's important."

Walker County Justice of the Peace Richard Hartnett married the couple Thursday afternoon at the Army Reserve Center in Huntsville.

"We knew this might happen," Hartnett said.

More soldiers, ships promised

Iraq turned up the heat Friday on diplomats refusing to leave embassies in occupied Kuwait, while Western nations promised more soldiers, tanks and ships for the military machine confronting Iraq.

American troops fired a warning shot at an Iraqi tanker, then boarded it briefly before allowing it to proceed when they found it held no "prohibited cargo," a U.S. Navy spokesman said. Americans troops fired twice before at Iraqi ships and boarded another on Sept. 4, when a tea-laden Iraqi-flagged freighter refused to divert its course.

In Kuwait, Iraqi troops stormed the French ambassador's residence, seizing four citizens, including a diplomat, the French Foreign Ministry said. Troops also burst into the Belgian compound and the Canadian ambassador's residence.

The consuls from the United States and four other nations were briefly detained.

While Iraq bore down on defiant diplomats, military pressure built on Iraq.

Britain said Friday it would send an armored brigade of more than 120 tanks and 6,000 combat troops to the Persian Gulf. British Defense Secretary Tom King said another squadron of Tornados ground attack aircraft and additional air defense aircraft would also be sent.

The British forces mark the first dispatch of tanks and significant ground troops by any Western country besides the United States since Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion and subsequent annexation of oil-rich Kuwait.

Canada on Friday committed a dozen fighter jets and a total of 450 fliers and ground crew. "This is not a conflict between Arabs and the West, nor is it a conflict between Iraq and the United States," said Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney. "It is Saddam Hussein against the civilized world."

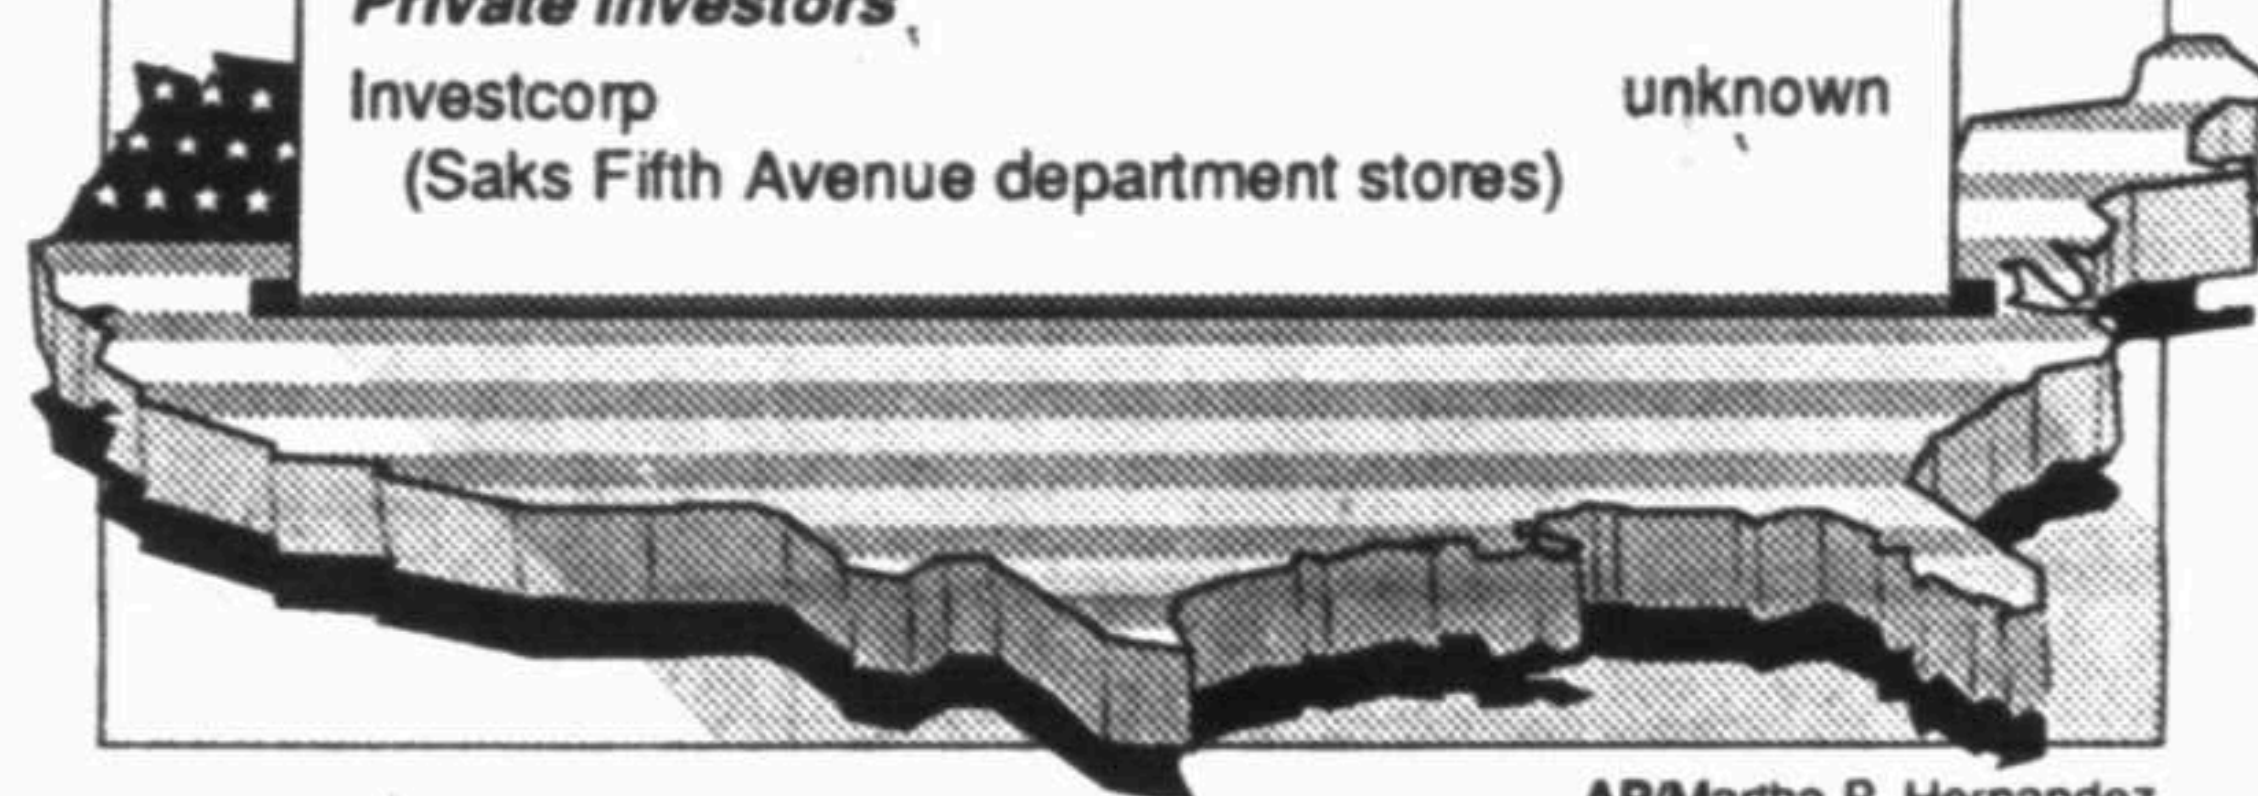

Several other nations, including West Germany, Italy, Belgium and South Korea, pledged either money or equipment Friday to support the multinational contingent in the gulf.

Japan, facing allegations it has been too tightfisted during the crisis, pledged $3 billion on top of $1 billion in non-military aid.

Meanwhile, the U.N. sanctions on trade with Iraq were taking their toll on the Iraqi economy. The ruling Baath Party newspaper Al-Tharwa said that starting Saturday, Iraqis will be limited to three pieces of bread a day. Rationing of sugar, rice, cooking oil, soap and detergent began in some neighborhoods earlier this month.

The 6-week-old Middle East crisis also was taking its toll on the U.S. economy. The government announced Friday that wholesale prices shot up 1.3 percent in August.

The Labor Department blamed virtually the entire increase on higher oil costs since Iraq's invasion, which led to a 4 million barrel daily shortfall of oil worldwide and pushed fuel prices up by about 20 percent. Oil prices moved higher Friday, to $32 a barrel.

Bush, meanwhile, asked Congress for $1.9 billion more to cover the costs of deploying the 150,000 U.S. troops in the Middle East. Operation Desert Shield is costing Washington an estimated $1 billion a month, officials have said.

Iraq has massed an estimated 265,000 troops along or near Kuwait's border with Saudi Arabia since Saddam sent his forces into the emirate in a dispute over oil, land and money.

Saudi officers have told of hundreds of Iraqis defecting from the forces in Kuwait. Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, the U.S. commander in Saudi Arabia, said Friday he had no solid numbers but was sure some had abandoned their posts.

He said some were sent back with food and water and told to convey the message that "things are pretty good over here."

The raids on the diplomatic compounds in Kuwait appeared designed to intimidate diplomats who have remained in their embassies to symbolize their rejection of Iraq's annexation of Kuwait. The diplomats also are trying to provide some protection for their citizens trapped there.

Iraqi soldiers forced their way into the French ambassador's residence early Friday and seized four French citizens, including the military attaché. The diplomat was later released, but the whereabouts of the other three was not known.

At the Canadian compound, troops entered and briefly detained the consuls from the United States, Britain, Ireland, Australia and Canada, who were meeting there. Canada issued a formal protest with Iraq.

Soldiers also entered Belgium's diplomatic compound in Kuwait and ordered the two remaining diplomats to leave, officials said in Brussels. The soldiers left after the diplomats fled to the ambassador's residence nearby.

A day earlier, the Dutch government announced a similar incident at its diplomatic residence in Kuwait but refused to provide details or say when the incursion occurred.

Donation offers flood military

WASHINGTON (AP) — Generosity is overwhelming the military agency that ships supplies to U.S. troops in the Middle East.

The phones have been ringing off the hook at the Defense Logistics Agency this week. Callers are offering food, magazines, videotape recorders, Nintendo games — even fresh lobster. Many people want to donate water, said agency spokeswoman Pat Miller.

"Some even collected water with the misunderstanding or thinking that we needed it," Ms. Miller said. But Saudi Arabia has modern desalination plants and local water supplies have been more than sufficient, she said.

The calls show "a tremendous outpouring of patriotism," Ms. Miller said.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: You are able to strike a better balance between career and family now. Avoid taking on more than you can handle in November and December. There will be several happy surprises for you in January 1991. Children could play a more prominent role in the decisions you make. A scholarship or financial aid becomes available next April. An intense romantic relationship should become even more satisfying by midsummer.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: writer Agatha Christie, director Oliver Stone, actor Merlin Olsen, pianist Bobby Short.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Emotional or financial ups and down could unsettle you. Be careful not to overreact. Regular exercise helps relieve tension. Tempers may be short. Avoid adding fuel to the fire.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Many people appreciate your loving ways. Conserve your energy for exciting new developments. Make overdue changes in your domestic arrangements. Loved ones will provide valuable support.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Two heads are better than one when trying to solve financial problems. You are ready to make a bigger effort to achieve success. Romance enjoys highly favorable influences.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Your timing in business and social matters is excellent today. A long-distance call holds a clue to an impending change. Someone special will enter your life in the near future.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A neighborhood project leads to a surprising romantic encounter. You may be feeling more domestic than usual. Entertain good friends. You quickly fathom other people's motives.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Watch out for impulsive decisions. Impatience or carelessness could lead to added expense. Afternoon brings a big improvement in your outlook. Give innovative ideas a try. Heed constructive suggestions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Financial progress and improved self-esteem are part of the picture. Showcase your special talents to best advantage. Trying to advise a young person can be taxing. Socialize this evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Visiting a museum with friends could be part of today's plan. Others cherish your company. Get to places on time. Special patience is required when dealing with older relatives.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Getting overheated about the letter of the law could make you ignore the spirit. Be understanding with those who have erred. A long-standing problem can be solved.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You may have to choose between a romantic partner and a friend. Logic will play a major role in your decision. Curb a tendency to generalize or exaggerate. Limit spending on entertainment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Rely on your own efforts to sort out difficult matters. Be formal with acquaintances until you have established rapport. An analysis of your budget may reveal room for more expenditures.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Give those you love lots of time and attention today. A friend's or relative's goals may differ greatly from your own. Do not sacrifice your security to the impatience of other people.

TODAY'S CHILDREN tend to be reserved with newcomers, warm and chatty with people they know well. Although confident of their abilities, they are apt to be self-effacing in meetings. These Virgos play their hunches. Born leaders, they are adept at gaining the backing of influential people. Interested in the arts and the environment, they will work tirelessly for any cause they believe in. They have a lifelong commitment to bettering mankind.

'Spanky' seeking payment

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — George "Spanky" McFarland, the former child star of "Our Gang" and "Little Rascals," says he deserves about $100,000 from a bar that had used a logo depicting a chubby boy in a beanie.

Federal Judge James Rosenbaum on Thursday ordered the saloon, now called Checker's Nightclub and formerly Spanky's Saloon, not to use the "visage or name" of Spanky. It's not enough for McFarland.

Drawings of a round-faced kid wearing the beanie came down from the front of the building and from interior walls. Patrons no longer can buy jackets, T-shirts and hats imprinted with the Spanky's Saloon logo. Other businesses pay McFarland, 62, who lives in Fort Worth, Texas, for the right to use his name and childhood face. McFarland wants similar retroactive payments from the owner and former co-owner of the St. Paul bar.

"He's after 5 percent of their gross profits for 13 years and that's an exorbitant amount of money, even if they did something wrong," said Dennis Johnson, a lawyer for the bar's former owner, Michael Kalis.

Kalis sold his interest in the bar to his partner, Walter Engelhardt, in 1982. Johnson and Engelhardt, who represented himself in court, contend the bar's name had little to do with its business and that the connection with McFarland was unintentional.

"If every kid with a beanie on his head is him, this country is in trouble," Engelhardt said last year. "If there were actual pictures of him here, I could understand, but not when it's just some fat-faced kid."

Rosenbaum urged attorneys to work out an agreement regarding the merchandise and took McFarland's other claims under advisement.

SEATTLE (AP) — A leukemia victim whose search for a perfect bone marrow match inspired 50,000 people to offer theirs was recovering Friday after leaving the hospital.

Allison Atlas, 20, was discharged from the Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center's bone marrow transplant floor Thursday, about a month after receiving marrow from her mother.

She went to an apartment near the center that her family has rented since they came to the area for her treatment this summer. "She's at day 36 (after the transplant) today and she will not be going home until she's at day 100" or so, said the center's spokeswoman, Susan Edmonds.

It will be six months to a year before it is known if her immune system has returned to normal.

"The bone marrow graft is well established and functioning appropriately," said Dr. David Pearce, one of Miss Atlas' physicians. "At this time, there is no evidence of recurrent disease."

The transplant was conducted after her diseased marrow was destroyed by chemotherapy and radiation. A nationwide search for a perfectly matched marrow donor brought 50,000 would-be contributors, but none were suitable for her.

Miss Atlas, from Bethesda, Md., was a student at New York University before she became ill.

CHICAGO (AP) — An Academy Award statuette that cinematographer Karl Freund won in 1937 is being returned to his family 15 years after it was stolen, police said.

The Oscar was handed over to police Thursday after a businesswoman advertised it for sale in the Los Angeles Times. The unidentified woman told police she got the Oscar from a friend who owed her money. She asked $20,000 for it in her Aug. 29 ad.

The statuette was stolen from the Chicago home of Freund's daughter and son-in-law in 1975. Police said a friend on the West Coast saw the ad and contacted the family. No charges were filed against the woman.

"She had no idea it was stolen," said police Sgt. Donald Cowen.

Freund, who died in 1969, worked on such films as "Dracula," "Key Largo," with Humphrey Bogart, and "Camille," with Greta Garbo. He also was director of photography for television's "I Love Lucy" in the early 1950s.

He won the Oscar for "The Good Earth."

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Tom Fogerty, rhythm guitarist for the popular 1960s band Creedence Clearwater Revival, has died, a spokeswoman announced Friday. He was 48.

Fogerty, older brother of Creedence lead singer John Fogerty, died here Sept. 6 of respiratory failure due to tuberculosis, said Terri Hinte, a spokeswoman for Fantasy Records.

San Francisco Bay area-based Creedence, a rock 'n' roll band with eight top 10 singles and six gold albums, broke up in 1972. Their hits included "Proud Mary," "Born on the Bayou," and "Bad Moon Rising."

The Fogerty brothers and friends Doug Clifford and Stu Cook recorded under various names for nearly 10 years before scoring their first hit as Creedence, "Suzie Q," in 1968.

Tom Fogerty had released several solo albums in addition to his work with CCR.

In addition to John Fogerty, survivors include wife Tricia, six children and three other brothers.

Services were held in Scottsdale.

$100 million Lotto ticket-buying brisk

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Scalpers fanned out from Georgia to New York on Friday to hawk tickets in tonight's $100 million Lotto drawing. Other out-of-staters flocked to Florida with wallets bulging.

Most of the action for the nation's second-highest jackpot was from locals, though, and it was predictably brisk. Lines at lottery terminals grew longer and conversations about the nine-digit prize began taking on the quality of questions in a math quiz.

"I have got 10,000 $1 tickets sold for $2 apiece," boasted David Douglas, a salesman from New York City in Miami on business. "When I started buying tickets, the jackpot was $75 million, but in the last two days it's been going through the ceiling."

How much money is Douglas making? Ten-thousand dollars, minus any money he plunked down on the Lotto game. What are the odds of any one of his tickets winning? About 1 in 14 million, Lotto officials say.

It's a bit of a long shot, but plenty of people decided the gamble was worth it.

"Everybody who knew I was coming to Florida this week wanted me to buy them Lotto tickets," said Frank Greer, a Washington-based campaign consultant for Democratic gubernatorial candidate Lawton Chiles. "That's all anyone is talking about."

The state Lottery Department has been fielding calls from across the country and Canada, spokesman Ed George said.

One New Yorker who gave his name only as Mike flew to Miami on Thursday and gave the owner of a Shell station near the airport $10,000 and picked up his tickets in a shopping bag Friday. He said he would not be distraught if he lost.

"People lose in Atlantic City or somewhere else," he said. "They lose a couple of thousand. It's a chance. It's a gamble. It's a game."

The $1 Lotto tickets were being hustled for $3 to $5 at newsstands on New York's Wall Street and midtown Manhattan. A dry cleaning shop in Washington, D.C., was shut down Friday for illegal sales, and a Georgia couple who parked their pickup at a Macon shopping mall and posted a sign saying "Florida Lottery Tickets for Sale" was arrested Wednesday.

Connecticut businesses that deliver tickets for out-of-state lotteries were swamped with customers, most interested in the Florida drawing.

Thomas Wilkison, owner of the Manchester Lotto Express office, said his office took orders for 20,000 tickets Wednesday. By mid-afternoon Thursday, 17,000 more had been taken.

Michael LaBruno, a self-proclaimed "Lotto nut" from Jersey City, N.J., flew to Jacksonville and bought $7,600 in tickets at a convenience store. It took almost five hours for the tickets to run through the machine, and it cost him $600 in air fare.

Florida laws limit lottery ticket sales within the state through authorized retailers. Florida's law does not apply outside the state, although other states may ban the sale of out-of-state lottery tickets.

Lotto officials expect to sell 100 million tickets this week, more than half on Friday and today.

"I don't think there's a terminal that doesn't have a line," George said.

The jackpot was missed four weeks in a row, rolling over each time. The prize was estimated to be worth $75 million Sunday when it turned out none of the 44 million tickets sold last week had all six numbers drawn late Saturday.

But the pace of sales persuaded the Lottery Department to increase the projected jackpot daily through Thursday.

Although the department doesn't plan to increase its estimate before the drawing at 10:58 p.m. today, the jackpot could turn out to be worth more than $100 million, George said.

The state generally underestimates the size of the jackpot, especially when it's a big one. Only five or six times have winners gotten less than advertised.

It's very likely the jackpot will be won, but very unlikely only one player will get the entire prize, George said.

Last week, when 44 million tickets were sold, only 1.3 million of the more than 13 million possible combinations were not played, George said.

At 9 a.m. Friday, with only 37 1/2 hours left to buy tickets, the state was selling 433 tickets a second.

Bill Simmons, a marketing professor at the University of West Florida in Pensacola, had statistics, too — about how frequently lottery players can expect a $100 million jackpot.

"Everybody better enjoy it while they can," Simmons said. "The odds of this happening, based on the past four weeks and the number of players each of the four weeks, are 1 in 1,288. That is approximately once in every 24 1/2 years."

"That doesn't mean that it's not going to happen again until then, but statistically that's how often it will happen," Simmons said. "We've only seen this happen twice in the whole country."

The $115 million lottery prize Pennsylvania awarded in April 1989 — the U.S. record — was split by 14 winners who got $8.3 million over 26 years.

Florida's previous record Lotto prize was $58 million split between five winners in April. Each winning ticket was worth almost $11.7 million to be paid out over 20 years.

The record for a prize to a single winner of a computerized numbers game is held by Sheelah Ryan of Winter Springs, who won a $55.1 million Florida Lotto jackpot in September 1988.

Missing boy's body found in empty grain silo

CHICAGO (AP) — Five months after the disappearance of a 10-year-old boy, four young playmates revealed a dark summer secret: They saw their pal fall to his death while playing atop an abandoned 120-foot-tall grain silo.

Police said Friday the fatal plunge of Ricky Rodriguez in April was accidental, but his friends kept quiet in fear they would be blamed.

"They were scared," said Detective Eileen Guest, a youth officer. "They're just little boys and they thought they were going to get into trouble."

The body was discovered Thursday in an abandoned grain silo at a deserted Falstaff Brewing Corp. plant on the city's Southeast Side. Friends said Ricky fell to his death as the five youths bounced on conveyor belts spanning the silo, police said.

Investigators interviewed each of the four playmates separately and concluded the boy's death was accidental, Detective William Marley said.

One friend told police he spent a terrifying summer, haunted by the fall and fears police would not believe it was accidental.

"He said he couldn't sleep, that he had been having nightmares," Guest said. The playmates were all about 10 years old, police said.

Police scoured the boy's neighborhood after his disappearance, using helicopters and scuba divers in Lake Michigan. A picture of Ricky recently was sent to millions of homes as part of a campaign for missing children.

"We searched everywhere we could think of for this boy," Sgt. Robert Jones said. "It's really sad when a 10-year-old is laying out there for all that time."

Officers searching for the boy considered the deserted brewing plant virtually inaccessible, he said.

The mystery unraveled Thursday when a sister of one of Ricky's playmates overheard a conversation in which the boy said Ricky had fallen. She told her mother, who notified police.

The boys entered the silo, which had a locked door, and climbed 15 flights of stairs to get to the top, Guest said.

"The area was fenced. But these are little boys — they had no problem getting over the fence," she said. "It's still unclear how they got into the building."

Guest said the area had been abandoned for more than a decade. She said she knew of no other reports or complaints of children entering the area.

On the afternoon of April 26, Ricky stopped at home and asked his father what time he should be home for dinner. It was the last time his family saw the fifth-grader.

"Well, everybody can stop looking," said the boy's father, Steve Rodriguez. "I thought he was dead the night he disappeared. It just didn't fit his pattern. But ... I was hoping."

Ex-Miss America will be named to Council on Disability

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush announced Friday he would nominate actress Mary Ann Mobley-Collins of Beverly Hills, Calif., to be a member of the National Council on Disability.

Mrs. Collins, 51, who was Miss America in 1959, would succeed Joni Tada. The position is a one-year term.

Both Mrs. Collins and husband, television personality Gary Collins, have been active in charity and volunteer work.

Bush also announced he would nominate Leonard H.O. Spearman as ambassador to the African nation of Lesotho. He would succeed Robert M. Smalley.

Since 1989, Spearman, 61, has been ambassador to Rwanda. He is a former president of Texas Southern University in Houston.

Bush signs foreign debt bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush sent Congress a bill Friday to forgive some Latin American debt and to encourage more U.S. companies to invest there. Aides said he also was readying a bill to allow the lowering of trade barriers with Mexico.

The Mexican free-trade measure could be submitted as early as Monday, when administration trade officials testify before the House-Senate Joint Economic Committee, sources said.

Bush would like to have the authority to lower trade barriers with Mexico in hand when he meets with President Carlos Salinas de Gortari in Mexico City in November, said officials who spoke on the condition of anonymity.

The Persian Gulf crisis, in focusing attention on world oil supplies, has added to the impetus for such an agreement with Mexico, the officials said.

Mexico has the world's eighth largest oil reserves. A free-trade pact with the United States could spur oil production.

The United States already has a free-trade pact with Canada and Bush has voiced the hope that some day goods and services may be traded from Alaska to Argentina without trade barriers.

He repeated that goal Friday at a White House ceremony as he announced he was sending Congress a proposed "Enterprise for the Americas Initiative Act of 1990." Bush called the package "trade, not aid."

The legislation submitted would forgive about $7 billion in loans owed to the government by Latin American and Caribbean countries. Latin nations owe U.S. banks an additional $48.3 billion.

The bill also would set up a special fund within the Inter-American Development Bank to provide a variety of services to western companies wanting to invest in Latin America and the Caribbean.

The U.S. government would contribute $500 million a year to the fund and would seek contributions from other countries.

"We believe these measures together will boost trade, investment and growth in our hemisphere. This legislation is good for our neighbors, it's good for the hemisphere and I believe it is very good for the United States," Bush said.

Under the free-trade pact with Canada, tariffs, quotas and other trade barriers began to fall in January 1989 and will be removed by the turn of the century.

Mexico is the United States' third largest trading partner, after Canada and Japan. The United States exported $24.97 billion in goods to Mexico last year and received $27.19 in imports, for a deficit of $2.2 billion.

Bookstores sold out of Mossad book

NEW YORK (AP) — Bookstores were swamped Friday with requests for a book about Israel's spy agency that Israel tried to suppress, and stores that received shipments sold out almost immediately.

The publisher said originally it had received orders for 50,000 copies of the book, titled "By Way of Deception: The Making and Unmaking of a Mossad Officer," but this week that number had jumped to over 100,000.

"It is a recurring phenomenon that if someone wants to stop publication of a book, just the opposite occurs. Many people will read it who wouldn't otherwise," said Roy Gainsburg, president of St. Martin's Press, the publisher of the book.

A New York appellate court on Thursday lifted a ban on publication of the book that a judge had imposed the day before at the request of Israel. The country claimed the book could endanger its agents of its secret intelligence agency, the Mossad.

The book was written by Victor Ostrovsky, who says he was a Mossad agent for four years in the 1960s. He said in the book that Israel had detailed information about preparations for the bombing that killed 241 Marines in Lebanon in 1983 but gave the United States only a vague warning so that U.S.-Arab relations would be damaged.

The Associated Press called a sampling of New York City bookstores Friday and found most still waiting for their copies of the book. Managers said they had been swamped with requests.

"Every other call last night was a request for the book," said Jill Tardiff, general manager of a Doubleday bookstore on Fifth Avenue. The store has increased its order to over 500 copies, she added.

Four shops in the Waldenbooks chain said they had received shipments of the book and almost immediately sold out.

About 30 copies of the book arrived at a Waldenbooks store in the financial district Thursday afternoon after the appeals court lifted the ban, said Roman Schreiner, the store's manager.

"We sold out this morning, shortly after opening," he said.

of Ramsey and Bryan Chase, 18. She also was sentenced to six life prison terms for two counts of attempted murder, two counts of solicitation to murder and one count each of conspiracy to murder and armed burglary.

Chase was killed after allegedly shooting Fotopoulos' wife, Lisa Hunt, allegedly at Fotopoulos' bidding, hired Chase to kill Mrs. Fotopoulos so they could inherit her wealth along with $700,000 in life insurance.

Fotopoulos allegedly shot Chase after the 18-year-old broke into the house Nov. 4 and shot Mrs. Fotopoulos in the head. Prosecutors say he was shot to prevent exposure of the plot. Mrs. Fotopoulos recovered from her wound.

Hunt apologized to the victims' families Thursday and blamed Fotopoulos.
