BANK COMMISSIONER PATTERSON SHOT

Wilson Ask Congress for Federal Train Service

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Present train crews operating railroads under military draft is the definite prospect before the country for handling traffic if strike set for Monday by brotherhoods takes place.

It was made known today that this is the course President Wilson has in mind. It means nothing more nor less than the federal control of railroads and their operations, and with such plans put into effect the country will not be disturbed by the strike.

After a conference with President Wilson this morning, Senator Newlands took up the question of such plans with Attorney General Gregory, Commissioner Clark and Chairman Adamson of the House Interstate Commerce committee, and immediate preparation for taking such action are being rapidly formed.

President Wilson addressed a joint session of congress on the strike situation at two-thirty this afternoon, and impressed the law makers with his intention of doing everything possible to prevent a tie up of the railroads, which would demoralize commerce and probably cause suffering.

President Wilson reached this decision late yesterday after a conference with the committee of eight railroad heads and four brotherhood heads. Following the conference it was soon made known that all hopes for settling the strike was gone, and the representatives of both the railroads and brotherhoods began leaving Washington.

The strike order as it now stands is for a walk out at seven o'clock a. m. on September 4th, which is Labor Day. The strike order has gone out to all the brotherhood members and is subject to re-

FIRST WORK FOR KIDS PLAY GROUND

The ladies of the Civic League made a god showing on the new play ground for the Central and High school Tuesday morning when about one dozen hands all toll met and spent several hours cutting brush and cleaning off the lots. The helpers were not as plentiful as the ladies had hoped for, but they are not discouraged and announce that the work will continue with another meeting at eight o'clock in the morning.

Mrs. Pyburn said to a Ledger reporter today that every effort would be made to get the lots cleaned off and in good shape before the school opened, and all who will aid in the work are requested to be at the school building in the morning at eight o'clock. The boys are urged to come, and the parents, and citizens in general who will send a hand, can help in the work.

Mrs. R. T. Williams sent a negro man to help Tuesday morning, and it is hoped that others will send hands tomorrow. If all the work cannot be accomplished in one day it will be done by "piece meal," and carried on until the grounds are in good shape.

The boys who responded to the call and who put in some good liks cleaning off the lots this morning were: Roy and Bailey Mack, Robert and Billie McAlpine, Billie Sharp, Chas. Miller, Clarence Smith, J. V. Rhodes. A number of girls were present and did their part.

Remember another effort will be made tomorrow, and if you can not come, send a hand.

Paint Rock Line Gets New Engine.

Santa Fe locomotive No. 5, sent out from the Cleburne shops, has been pressed into service on the Sterling City-Paint Rock branch. The engine is one of the old type which was used in the earlier days on the Cane Belt in Southwest Texas. It replaces No. 159 which will be sent to the shops for a general overhauling.—San Angelo Standard.

HELP FOR HELPLESS GRADUALLY GROWING

In contributing $2.50 to the charity fund, one lady stated yesterday that she had just visited some homes in Ballinger that were most pitiful, where poverty was causing suffering. The charity committee investigates all claims made on the board for help, and when it is determined that help is needed.

The winter season is rapidly approaching and it is the desire of the committee to be prepared to take care of the worthy calls for help when the cold weather comes, and in order to do this they are calling for contributions.

Up to date seven individuals have contributed $22.50. All these contributions have come through The Ledger and are listed below. Some people object to giving this way, desiring that their donations be private. In such cases we withhold names, and only publish the amount. It is much better to make your offering voluntarily than to be called on by the committee, and unless the funds come in by volunteer subscriptions, the committee will go out and call on the people.

R. T. Williams is president of the charity board and C. R. Crews is secretary. You can hand them the money, or leave same at The Ledger office. Don't wait, contribute today by phoning your name to The Ledger, and help the committee get this work off their hands:

R. T. Williams	$5.00
C. J. Lynn & Son	2.50
Cash	2.50
H. L. Mobley	2.50
Scott H. Mack	2.50
Mrs. W. W. Fowler	2.50

TEAGUE, Texas, Aug. 29.—State Banking Commissioner, John S. Patterson who was shot while posting a closing notice on the door of the Farmers & Merchants State Bank here late yesterday afternoon, was carried to Waco on a special train this morning and will undergo an operation in the hopes of saving the man's life. The latest statement issued by the attending physicians was that Patterson was in a critical condition and the wound may prove fatal.

In a statement made to the sheriff shortly after the shooting Mr. Patterson stated that T. R. Watson, president of the bank done the shooting.

J. E. McKinnon, bank examiner, working with Mr. Patterson was shot at three times, but the bullets went wild.

T. R. Watson, president of the bank, and two sons, J. E. Watson, vice president; and W. R. Watson, cashier, who were present when the shooting took place, were all arrested immediately following the shooting, and charges of attempt to murder filed against them. The men were later released under $500 bond each.

Commissioner Patterson and Examiner McKinnon arrived at the bank a few minutes after the institution closed for the day. It is understood that the men went over the books and announced to the officials of the bank that it was necessary to close the doors of the institution until further investigation could be made.

Shortly before six o'clock five shots were heard, and Patterson and McKinnon ran from the bank. Patterson walked to a nearby drug store and told parties who rushed to his aid that he was posting notice on bank door when the elder Watson opened fire upon him from behind.

Now Comes the High Cost of Bibles.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 29.—Now comes the high cost of Bibles. Dealers here today have notices from the Church News Association, that on account of the high cost of paper, they are urged to make last year's edition of the Bible do for this year. The European war, the dealers say, has increased the demand for Bibles, along with the limited supply.

Harris County Fighting Hook Worm.

Houston, Tex., Aug. 29.—Elimination of the hook work and malaria from Harris county is promised by officials of the International Health commission of the Rockefeller Institute, in a joint campaign which will be staged with the county health officers. The county commissioners' court recently appropriated $2400 for the campaign which an educational health demonstration at Humble.

Republicans In Rough and Tum- ble Primary Fight in Ohio

Detroit, Aug. 29.—Political parties in Michigan today named their candidates for the November election. For the Democrats, the primary balloting was merely the formal ratification of the selections of the party organization chiefs, but Republicans were waging a rough and tumble scrap for nearly every place on the ticket.

Candidates were being selected for governor, lieutenant governor, United States senator, congress, the state senate and house of representatives.

Five men sought the Republican nomination for governor. They were Frank B. Leland, banker, of Detroit; Albert E. Sleeper, former state treasurer, of Bad Axe; Gerritt J. Biekema of Holland, ex-congressman; Washington Gardner, former congressman and former commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. of Albion; and Sybrant Wesselius, of Grand Rapids.

Democrats cast their ballots for Charles H. Bender of Grand Rapids for governor; following the refusal of Gov. Ferris to seek a third term. Bender's name went on the primary ballot despite his protest that he did not want the nomination and "could not think of accepting it" because of business responsibilities.

United States Senator Charles E. Townsend, of Jackson, was opposed for re-election on the Republican ticket by William H. Hill, Detroit drug manufacturer, and Theodore Joslyn, of Adrian, both former progressives.

Theo Kre, of the Pony creek country, was marketing cotton in Ballinger Tuesday and sold for 15-10, and says that is the first time he ever sold cotton for as much as 15 cents per pound.

Shortly following the shooting Gov. Ferguson was notified by long distance phone, Examiner McKinnon calling up Mr. Ferguson and telling him of the shooting. Gov. Ferguson immediately wired Sheriff Burleson to close the bank and make a thorough investigation of the shooting.

The Farmers & Merchants State Bank of Teague was organized about seven years ago. It had a capital stock of $60,000, and a recent statement showed it to have a surplus of $20,000. Recently the bank was reported in trouble and Mr. Patterson arrived here yesterday to assist Examiner McKinnon in looking into the affairs of the institution.

No intimation of any quarrel between the bank officials and the state officials previous to the shooting had been made public, and it is not known yet, whether any words passed between the men before the shooting or not.

Mr. Patterson was shot in the right side about four inches below the shoulder, the bullet passing through the upper part of the right lung and possibly entering the left lung also. It was a .38-caliber bullet, fired at close range. The attending physician, Dr. Harrison of Teague, said the wound was very dangerous, but not necessarily fatal unless internal bleeding should be excessive. He thought there was little internal bleeding.

Shortly after the Watsons were arrested Sheriff Burleson issued the following statement:

"From all I can understand Commissioner Patterson had told the Watsons that he was about to close their bank and had ordered a notice posted on the door when the trouble started. I do not know what the trouble with the bank was."

"We are doing everything possible to save Mr. Patterson's life, but the chances are very much against him. Watson used a .38 automatic and fired three times at Bank Examiner McKinnon, according to reports reaching me, and twice at Patterson. The shooting occurred in the bank and as near as I can learn the three Watsons were there. Patterson had been most of the day at the bank with his bank examiner, McKinnon. There had been no run on the bank and we did not know that it was in any trouble until after the shooting."

"Mr. Patterson was immediately moved to the Yoakum hotel where he was promptly given attention by local physicians. We also ordered specialists from Temple and Dallas, coming on a special train. The Watsons are now out on bond and will not be arrested again unless Mr. Patterson dies and then the charge may be changed to more serious one."

Bank Examiner McKinnon had been at work on the Farmers and Merchants' State Bank books for several days, according to reports, and he found it necessary

Incendiary Caught in the Act and is Put to Death

Is it possible for mice to ignite matches by cutting them with their teeth and in this way cause destruction of property by fire? Yes, not only is such a theory a plausible one, and such a thing possible, but it is a theory that was verified in Ballinger Tuesday morning.

If what happened in Ballinger between six and seven o'clock Tuesday morning had happened an hour or two earlier, there would be a different story for us to write, and where now stands a modern two story business house probably would have been nothing but charred stone walls and runs.

It was while sweeping out the store Tuesday morning that some of the clerks in the A. J. Zappe store discovered smoke curling out of an overcoat hanging in the rear of the store. The coat was thrown out on the sidewalk and some water dashed on it, and as the fire was extinguished a mouse kicked its way out of the pocket of the coat.

The discovery of the burned mouse lead to further investigation and in the pocket of the burning coat was found the remains of two matches, one of which had been ignited, while the other was cut up in small bits. The fire started in the pocket of the coat, and the top of the lining of the pocket, and one side of the coat had been burned thru and the fire was rapidly spreading when discovered.

The hair on the mouse was scorched, and there is no question but what the rat started the fire. As stated above, if the rat had been on the job earlier in the morning, and before the store had been opened the store would have been set on fire.

Fire Marshal J. P. Martindale was exhibiting the proof of the incendiary on the streets Tuesday morning, and all those who were confronted with the facts can not say hereafter that a mouse can not start a fire by cutting matches. There is no doubt but what millions of dollars worth of property have been destroyed by rats in this way.

THE DAILY LEDGER

Avenue, Ballinger, Texas.

A. W. Sledge Editor

The American people are learning more and more every day to recognize in Woodrow Wilson the greatest president this nation ever had. Watch him handle the strike problem.

Men are kept from committing murder today more through the control of moral conscious than through fear of man made law. Our criminal laws hold no fear for the man who has murder in his heart, because he can, as a rule, clear himself through some technical loop-hole, or manufactured evidence.

The dove season opens next Friday, and some of the nimrods are preparing to go out and violate the law on the first day by killing beyond the limit. If it is a violation to kill birds out of season, the same law applies to the man who kills over twenty-five in one day, and it should be enforced. There is no use in a man making a hog of himself even over shooting birds.

Colquitt says in a statement issued following his defeat of last Saturday, that the second primary had served its purpose, and criticized the makers of that law. If our memory faileth not it was Gov. Colquitt who said he would not accept the governorship on a plurality vote, and at one time he was a booster for the second primary idea. He should take his medicine more gracefully.

Some people, farmers too, are continually cutting up about the cotton market. The cotton market is not so perplexing to us as the seed market. For instance, seed were selling in Ballinger last week for $30 per ton. Today they are selling for $37 per ton, a jump of $7 in one day, or $3.50 on the seed from a bale of cotton. Some towns are paying less while others are paying as high as $40.

We still contend that there is poor business management in depriving the citizens of Ballinger of water for irrigation purposes when the Colorado river is flowing millions of gallons to waste. Why should the people of Ballinger be forced to let their flowers and shrubbery suffer, when they are willing to pay for the water, and if the 20c per thousand gallons won't pay the cost they are willing to pay a higher rate. Water for irrigating is what we want. Why can't we get it?

The tick eradication work may not be carried on in this county in the most economical way, and there may be too many high priced inspectors, as some of the opponents of the law have suggested, but that is not the fault of the law, and is no cause why the law should be suspended and the work discontinued in this county. To turn ticks loose in this county would work a hardship on the livestock interest and close the livestock up in a county to themselves. Neighboring counties are eradicating the ticks, and where the work is being done no cattle from a ticky county are permitted to come, or even pass through.

Standing, Relieved by Cardui.

Mt. Airy, N. C.—Mrs. Sarah M. Chappell of this town, says: "I suffered for five years with womanly troubles, also stomach troubles, and my punishment was more than any one could tell."

I tried most every kind of medicine, but none did me any good.

I read one day about Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I decided to try it. I had not taken but about six bottles until I was almost cured. It did me more good than all the other medicines I had tried, put together.

My friends began asking me why I looked so well, and I told them about Cardui. Several are now taking it."

Do you, lady reader, suffer from any of the ailments due to womanly trouble, such as headache, backache, sideache, sleeplessness, and that everlastingly tired feeling?

If so, let us urge you to give Cardui a trial. We feel confident it will help you, just as it has a million other women in the past half century.

Begin taking Cardui to-day. You won't regret it. All druggists.

THE COMING OF THE PURE BRED.

The South is a land of fertile soil, And cherished memories. Oh, if it could only be dotted, With cattle and creameries.

The cattle tick is passing, No more this land to bleed, And now is the time to fill it, With cattle of the purest breed.

When the hot and sultry winds depart, Fresh air comes in its stead, So shall it be when scrubs are gone, The South will be filled with pure breeds.

The tick-eaten scrub will lose his hold, And cease to inhabit the land, And the white-faced Hereford take his place, A better price to demand.

The sleek fat Angus will chew his quid, And roam o'er meadows green, And shake his head at all who come, Within his vast domain.

The Shorthorn will be here "en masse," All hungry mouths to feed, And all the world will turn this way, When of meat they are in need,

The saucy little Jersey, Will also be around, With milk that knows no equal, And butter by the pound.

The large and comely Holstein, With udder full of milk, Shall roam through field of clover Her bloom as fine as silk,

With sheep and cattle plentiful, Milk and butter at the spring, The honest tiller of the soil, Will at last indeed be king.

Let every one get ready, For the hour when scrubs are dead, To usher in the coming, Of the wondrous thorough-bred.

"The Perilous Swing"

SCENE FROM "THE PERILOUS SWING"

If there is any one thing that makes a picture company rail at Fate it is to have a production contain a thrill so daring that it was not even possible to secure a "still" photograph of it to enable picture followers to know what they may expect to see in the picture. Attempts to enlarge small pieces of the actual film have never proven very successful, so it is the usual practice to have in addition to the motion picture camera man a photographer equipped with a high speed newspaper camera.

But in photographing the daring feat performed by Helen Gibson in "The Perilous Swing" it was necessary for this photographer to climb out on a dangerous perch at the end of a bridge girder and in the excitement of the scene that followed he suddenly lost his balance, and before he could recover the camera had toppled to the water.

A recounting of the thrill in this picture, which is an episode in Kalem's "Hazards of Helen," will show that the "still" photographer cannot be very well blamed for his lapse. Pursuing three men wanted by the sheriff Helen is apparently baffled when they reach the drawbridge before her and then raise it. Suddenly around the curve a speeding express train appears, and Helen sees that she must act quickly not only to continue her pursuit of the gang but to avert the terrible possibility of the train tearing over the bank to the river below.

Grasping the lariat hanging at her saddle, Helen whirls it to the end of the bridge as it rises in mid-air. Then, without a second's hesitation to consider the terrifying danger she slips from the back of her horse and swings through space holding a slim grasp on the end of the rope. Her weight carries her in a wide semi-circle through the air and as she nears the lower end of the bridge she suddenly allows her fingers to slip from the rope and grasps the bridge girder. The bridge is then lowered just in time to allow the express train to thunder across. It is brought to a stop, and the illustration above shows that Helen is later successful in catching her quarry.

REEDER-COHN
BALLINGER TEXAS.
OK NEER DO WELL SEPTEMBER 5TH PAPER SHIPPED.
V L S E INC. 542 PM.

The above telegram was received yesterday afternoon by Messrs. Reeder & Cohen, of the Queen and White City Theatres, from the Vitaphone-Lubin-Selig Essanay Inc. (V-L-S-E)—moving picture exchange, in re "The Ne'er Do Well," the big special film feature. The production is the largest and most pretentious ever to be shown here, and will mark time for picture fans in Ballinger.

"The Ne'er Do Well" was written by Rex Beach, who it will be remembered also wrote "The Spoilers," "The Auction Block," "Going Some," "The Iron Trail," "The Silver Horde," "The Barrier," and other novels besides many famous short stories.

It takes nine reels to tell the story and artistic action is present in every inch of the picture, which was staged in a beautiful natural background in the Canal Zone at Panama.

The Selig Polyscope Co., of Chicago and Los Angeles, produced the picture, and have also made other Rex Beach novels in film versions. The feature is released thru V-L-S-E.

Kathlyn Williams, who figured prominently in "The Adventures of Kathlyn," and Selig Red Seal plays released thru V-L-S-E, enacts the role of Edith Cortlandt, and is supported by a tremendous cast of favorite stage and screen stars. Colin Campbell, who directed other big features for Selig, supervised and directed Miss Williams, Thomas Sant-schi, Wheeler Oakman, Frank Clark, Sydney Smith, and Eugenie Besserer, in "The Ne'er

Do Well."

Ballinger people will view the most satisfying moving picture ever made, when this Rex Beach novel is screened here on Tuesday, Sept. 5th. Increased admission prices will prevail, owing to an iron-bound contract with the manufacturers and the distributors.

The picture will show all day at the Queen and at night at the White City. It was decided to book this big educational wonder before the opening of school so that all pupils would be able to view it.

WILL FREE U. S. OF TICKS IN 5 YEARS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Because of the spirit of co-operation among the people of the South in the work of eradicating the tick which transmits Texas fever to cattle, this destructive and expensive pest should be eliminated from the territory of the United States within the next five years, according to the Field Inspection Division of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Enthusiasm in the fight against the pest in running particularly high in several of the 11 tick-infested Southern States and these commonwealths will free their territory within the next year or so, the division predicts. In 8 of the States, it is believed, the work will be completed within four years.

An outline of conditions in the tick-infested territory, recently prepared, shows that Virginia, only 4 counties in which are now under quarantine, can be made tick free by one year's active work, and, that because of the interest now being shown there, the quarantine is likely to be removed from the last bit of previously tick-infested territory in the State early in 1918. South Carolina, which is pushing the eradicating work steadily forward, should achieve freedom from ticks the same year. By the end of 1917, it is calculated, there should be but 15 counties in Alabama remaining in quarantine, and these, at the rate the State has been working, should be cleaned up the following year.

For Mississippi probably the most accurate prediction can be made. The legislature of that state recently enacted a law requiring that all counties now in quarantined area shall eradicate the tick during 1917. The people showed their interest in this step immediately, and nearly all the infested counties already have appropriated funds for the building of dipping vats in preparation for the State-wide eradication campaign. State-wide tick eradication legislation also has been enacted in Louisiana. As a result, this State can expect to be free of fever ticks by the end of 1919.

Oklahoma, it is believed, will clear its territory of fever ticks within the next three years. In Arkansas, dipping vats are in course of construction in practically every county of the State and soon will be in general use. It is believed that tick eradication will be completed in this state by the end of 1920. The same year, it is predicted, will see North Carolina cleared of ticks.

Georgia, Florida and Texas have the hardest task before them in the work of tick eradication, and probably will require most of the five-year period to bring about the removal of quarantine from their territory. Texas has more counties quarantined because of the presence of the fever tick than any other state, and has almost as many square miles in the quarantined area as all the other states combined. It is probable, therefore, that the work of eradication there will take more time and that unless there is unforeseen activity, Texas will be the last of the States to claim a white era on the map. The finishing of the work of eradication in the other states, however, will release Federal agents engaged in the work and will make possible the concentration of effort on Texas toward the end of the five-year period. It is believed, therefore, that by the close of 1921 this concerted work, if properly supported by local co-operation, will result in tick eradication from Texas and the freeing, therefore, of all United States territory from the pest.
