

MUTSCHER'S AXE

Legislators Slap At Dallas Split

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — What they call a move by Speaker of the Texas House Gus Mutscher to again use his axe on them has angered three state representatives from Dallas.

All three — Reps. Bill Braecklin, Chris Semos and Jim Stroud — formerly were in the Mutscher camp in the House but disavowed him when the Texas stock scandals broke, implicating the Speaker and some of his aides plus other state officials.

Their anger with what they believe is Mutscher's latest move for revenge pointed up a growing split in Dallas County's conservative Democratic majority.

The new redistricting plan which upset the trip was drawn up by Reps. Jack Blanton and Dick McKissack of Dallas County, both of whom continue to support Mutscher.

Blanton denied there was any ulterior motive behind the plan. He said he drew it up at Mutscher's request "in anticipation the courts may knock out the big-city at-large legislative districts."

Mutscher, meanwhile, was reported to have said in Austin that Blanton initiated the new plan.

Blanton's plan would divide the county into three six-member districts. He said he delivered the plan to Mutscher in Austin last week.

Braecklin, a member of the House Redistricting Committee, said Mutscher would use the plan to "get rid of everybody who isn't going to support him for a third term as Speaker."

CARR, OTHERS PLACED UNDER TRADING RESTRICTIONS

Judge Sarah Rules Against Texas Stock Suit Defendants

DALLAS (AP) — U.S. Dist. Judge Sarah T. Hughes decided today that defendants in the Texas stock suit, including former Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr, had pledged unregistered stock in violation of the federal securities law.

She enjoined them permanently from any future actions which could act as "a fraud or deceit" in stock transactions.

Carr, former state Insurance Commissioner John Osorio, six other men and one corporation were the targets of the injunctions. The civil suit against them had been brought by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission in January. Nineteen other defendants in the case had previously signed consent agreements.

HONEST CONDUCT

In delivering her judgment, Judge Hughes noted that Congress had passed the Securities Act to enable the public to rely on honest conduct in stock transactions. She said only through "strict adherence to the laws and regulations" could the public have confidence in investing.

After the decision was rendered, bringing to a close the lengthy investigation that involved the names of Texas' top politicians, Waggoner Carr told newsmen:

"Naturally I am very deeply shocked and disappointed that the judge would find against me on some of the technicalities. I know that I'm not guilty of what the SEC said that I was. I will confer with my counsel and will make a very early decision on appealing. And we will, because we know we're right. As long as we know we're right, we'll continue to fight this to the very end."

Judge Hughes issued seven groups of permanent injunctions prohibiting the sale of unregistered stock of National Bankers Life Insurance Co. and other companies.

In addition to Carr and Osorio, the remaining defendants were David Hoover, an investor; J. Quincy Adams, a stockbroker; Tom Max Thomas, a Dallas attorney; Andy Byram, former president of RIC International Industries; Jim Farha, a securities trader; and Phillip Proctor.

The ninth defendant, South Atlantic Co., a Delaware corporation formerly controlled by Osorio and Carr, is now under different management.

Depositions filed in the case included the names of top state officials, including Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and Gus Mutscher, speaker of the Texas House of Representatives.

KEY FIGURE

The key figure in the probe was Houston financier Frank Sharp, who received a $5,000 fine and three-year suspended sentence after pleading guilty to charges of selling unregistered stock and making a false bank ledger entry.

The SEC alleged that Sharp used a get-rich-quick scheme to influence Texas officials in the passage of banking legislation which would favor his financial operations.

Most of the defendants were in the crowded courtroom with their wives when the permanent injunction was handed down.

Judge Hughes read her 11-page judgment and then issued permanent injunctions against all principal defendants in the case. She asked Robert F. Watson, chief of the legal team from the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, to draw up additional findings of fact and conclusions of law for submission to the court.

CIVIL SUIT

This has been only a civil suit. The judge specifically found that Carr violated the provisions of two sections of the Securities Act prohibiting the sale of unregistered stock while he was a controlling person of Nashwood Corp., Dallas Bank & Trust and the South Atlantic Co., and as a vice president and controlling persons of RIC, a subsidiary of SAC.

"Waggoner Carr aided and abetted in the pledging of RIC stock by SAC and by David Hoover at various banks, in the pledging of 5,931 shares of NBL as collateral for a loan from DB&T, in the pledging of 66,666 shares of NBL acquired in the merger of West Virginia Life and NBL at Sharpstown State Bank, and in pledging of RIC stock as the only asset of SAC pledged at the Exchange Bank for a $550,000 note," Judge Hughes found.

Judge Hughes' seven injunctions were:

—Carr, Osorio, Nashwood Corp., Hoover, Adams, Byram, Farha, Proctor, Sharp, Sharpstown Realty Co. and Oak Forest Investment Co. were all enjoined from violating the Securities Act, prohibiting the sale of unregistered National Bankers Life Insurance Co. stock.

—Carr, South Atlantic Co., Hoover, Thomas and Byram were enjoined from violating the same law by selling unregistered RIC stock.

—Osorio, Thomas, Adams, Farha, Proctor, Sharp, Sharpstown Realty Co. and Nashwood were enjoined from violating the same law by selling unregistered Master Control stock.

—Adams, Farha, Proctor and Sharp were enjoined from selling unregistered Olympic Life Insurance stock.

—Osorio, Adams, Farha, Hoover, Carr, Proctor, Thomas, Nashwood Corp., South Atlantic Co., Sharp, Sharpstown Realty Co. and Oak Forest Investment Co. were all enjoined from "employing any manipulative device in any transaction which would operate as a fraud or deceit upon purchasers of stock of Master Control, Inc."

BANKERS LIFE

—The same parties, with Byram in addition, were put under the same permanent injunction in regard to purchasers of National Bankers Life stock.

—Finally, Adams, Farha, Proctor, Sharp, Sharpstown Realty, Oak Forest Investment were enjoined from employing any manipulations to deceive or defraud purchasers of stock of Olympic Life Insurance Co.

FEW RESIDENTS RIDING OUT THE STORM

Edith Smacks Louisiana Coast

CAMERON, La. (AP) — Hurricane Edith, packing winds of 100 miles an hour, struck the virtually deserted lowlands of the western Louisiana coast today.

The storm hit shore about 30 miles east of Cameron just before 10 a.m.—moving northeast—the Weather Service reported.

Its rains and winds were expected to be felt deep into central Louisiana and Mississippi but where it would go beyond that and how long it would last was not clear at midday, weathermen said.

Nearly all the residents of the Cameron area had fled.

But a small crew of Civil Defense workers stayed on to ride out the storm in the boarded-up Cameron City Hall, a strongly built structure which has weathered much stronger hurricanes than Edith promised to be.

Warnings were posted that winds and rains would die out suddenly as the eye passed—but then a strong backlash could follow.

DISTRESS CALLS

The Coast Guard reported three vessels in distress just off the coast in the Cameron jeties.

Rescue units were unable to penetrate the hurricane, a Coast Guard spokesman said.

About 30 small boats sought refuge at the Port of Lake Charles, which is about 30 miles inland. Officials said they were lined up four and five abreast.

The hurricane was carrying sustained winds of 100 miles an hour near its center with higher gusts around the edges.

The flatlands where it came ashore were low-lying marshes and rice paddies, only slightly above sea level.

It found landfall near high tide, with water levels approaching 10 to 12 feet higher than normal.

A few tornadoes were expected along the coast.

Some 200 persons were in Lake Charles centers, and officials said many more than that were staying with friends or in hotels. Refugee centers were set up all along the Louisiana coast.

BABY DAUGHTER

Mr. and Mrs. James Trahan of Cameron took refuge in a high school gymnasium in Lake Charles, bringing diapers and bottles for their 8-day-old daughter Dana who was sleeping on a pallet on the floor.

The refugees while the time dozing and talking quietly. Many had been up all night, or had taken to the highways long before dawn after only a few hours sleep.

Heavy rain was falling in Cameron, where winds early in the day were hitting 80 miles an hour.

Roland Trosclair, Civil Defense Director for Cameron who was among the officials remaining, said, "Rain is blowing heavy into us, but it is nothing alarming yet."

Contacted by shortwave radio, he reported, "We've got some water in the street, maybe ankle deep. Most of that is from the rain, however, not tides."

He reported power was out in the area and telephone communications no longer working.

Cameron Parish (county), which has about 5,000 residents, was virtually deserted. So was much of the coastal area of the east and west.

In 1957 Hurricane Audrey killed 390 people at Cameron with a surge of water from the Gulf of Mexico 12 feet high. In this area, barely above sea level, the drowning tides raged inland for miles.

STEADY EXODUS

During the night a steady stream of cars loaded with people and trucks loaded with cattle moved along the lone highway which heads north out of Cameron Parish.

The exodus also included thousands from the coastal area between Cameron and Morgan City. Public shelters were set up in the cities near the coast.

Tornado conditions extending up to 80 miles inland were forecast along the breadth of the hurricane warning area.

Except for Cameron, the evacuation pace was slower than Civil Defense officials liked in some areas. Inland water backed up by the rising sea flowed shallowly over highways in some areas when evacuation got under way.

Evacuation of Sabine Pass,

Tex., was ordered as Edith pounded by. The town of 2,000 people, on an exposed promontory and only four feet above sea level at its highest point, is 30 miles from Cameron.

Onshore and off, the whole Louisiana coast was battered down and buttoned up as much as possible.

The billion-dollar offshore oil facilities were shut down or placed on automatic controls.

Drilling rigs as far east as the offshore area south of Biloxi, Miss., were prepared to head for harbor in case Edith kept edging east.

In cities all across south Louisiana, from Lake Charles to New Orleans, grocery and hardware stores did brisk sales to people stocking up on emergency supplies such as flashlight and radio batteries, canned goods and masking tape for reinforcing window glass.

NO SCHOOL

Schools closed across most of the area, including those in New Orleans and other eastern areas not included in the first hurricane warning area.

In addition to high tides, expected to range up to 10 feet near her center, Edith carried heavy rains. Up to 12 inches was forecast for areas already saturated by Fern, the tropical storm which soaked the Louisiana coast before moving west and becoming a hurricane.

Flooding was expected in many areas.

'Look' Out Due To Costs

NEW YORK (AP) — Look magazine will cease publication with the issue of Oct. 19, it was announced today.

Mounting costs, particularly postal rates, and declining advertising revenue were cited as the reasons by Gardner Cowles, chairman of the board and editor in chief of Cowles Communications, publishers of the magazine.

Cowles said that Look had 28 million readers, and the response to subscription offers and renewals during the first nine months of 1971 was the best in the magazine's history.

"But reader interest and desire for a publication like Look is not enough to insure its survival if advertising volume is insufficient and costs continue to rise," he said in a statement.

Is School Tax Illegal In Texas?

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — A special meeting of the Texas Legislative Property Tax Committee was scheduled here today to discuss the recent California Supreme Court decision on local property taxation.

"We will discuss how Texas will finance its public schools if the courts follow a recent California Supreme Court decision and knock out our present system of local property taxes," Chairman Jim Bates, of Edinburg, chairman, said Wednesday in calling the meeting.

The California court recently declared the California public school financing system unconstitutional because it said the local property tax provided a better education to children in wealthy areas than those in poor school districts. Presently, the 1,200 California school districts get about $3 billion from local property taxes and another $1.6 billion from state aid and federal funds.

Two cases challenging the Texas school financing system, where the state furnishes about 80 per cent of the operating costs and local funds about 20 per cent, are pending in San Antonio and Fort Worth federal courts.

McCAMEY OIL FLAMES QUENCHED

McCAMEY, Tex. (AP) — Flames which broke out three days earlier were quenched Wednesday at a blazing oil well eight miles south of here in Crockett County.

The well is Humble Oil & Refining Co. No. 1 H. J. Cowden.

The Red Adair oil well firefighters from Houston extinguished the blaze about 4 p.m.

There were no injuries when the well blew out in flames early Sunday while drilling at 7,000 feet. The drilling company said its $300,000 rig was destroyed.

'WE ALL LOST' IN ATTICA BATTLE

Congress Enters Prison Riot Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has begun probing the bloody suppression of the Attica prison riot amid calls both for reform and criminal investigations. The White House has reiterated President Nixon's support of methods used to quell the rebellion.

Chairman Claude Pepper, D-Fla., of the House Select Committee on Crime, announced Wednesday he and three other committee members will talk with New York state officials and prison inmates to find how to prevent a recurrence of the Attica riot. Hearings will follow, he said.

The 13 black members of the House called on Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell to appoint a special federal grand jury to investigate the "questionable circumstances" surrounding the decision of officials to storm riot-held portions of the prison Monday.

White House spokesman Ronald Ziegler said the President has not withdrawn his support for New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's handling of the affair, despite subsequent findings that slain hostages were shot to death instead of knifed as previously reported. Rioters were reported not to have had guns.

"The governor had the responsibility to deal with a very difficult situation," Ziegler said.

Pepper, whose committee is empowered to investigate prisons and draw up proposed legislation, announced it already has questioned California Gov. Ronald Reagan on the deaths of three convicts and three guards at San Quentin prison Aug. 22.

The black caucus said available evidence seems to indicate the loss of 42 lives in the Attica riot could have been avoided.

"This incident alone points out the extremely low value that America places on human life in order to preserve its rather meaningless and shallow law-and-order ethic," the black congressmen said.

The black caucus said outside observers should be allowed inside the prison to investigate reports that many "inmates have been the target of violent reprisals at the hands of prison officials" since the rebellion was put down.

Both Pepper and the black caucus made calls for reform of prison conditions.

Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeir, D-Wis., head of a House Judiciary subcommittee that last spring held hearings on correctional institutions, said he will try to get subcommittee members to tour jails and prisons within 30 days.

Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-Ill., sponsor of a broad prison-reform measure, took the floor of the House to call for its passage.

"The inside of each prison is a battleground which pits men against themselves and other men, and ultimately against the society which put them there," Mikva said. "One such battle was fought this week at Attica, and we all lost."

The dog was operated upon to remove a peach stone he swallowed and then proceeded to rip out the stitches. A veterinarian suggested the collar by cutting the bottom out of a plastic basket. Textbook Art Removed; It Means 'A Million'

AUSTIN (AP) — The stakes were high—an estimated million dollars to the publisher that won approval of its social studies textbooks for grades 1 through 6.

Four other publishers garnered the necessary 10 votes on the first ballot by the State Textbook Committee Wednesday. Only one more from the remaining 12 publishers would be picked.

On the sixth ballot the vote narrowed to two, Laidlaw Bros., a division of Doubleday & Co., and Jones-Kenilworth Co. Laidlaw led, 9-6.

Laidlaw's representative, Felix Laiche of Dallas, a blue-eyed fat man with a snug coat, watched from a front row seat in the crowded committee room.

A committee member mentioned a drawing of the evolution of man on page 40 of Laidlaw's sixth-grade textbook. They asked Laiche about the drawing.

"I have been authorized by the president of Laidlaw if that question came up to say we will remove the drawing," he said eagerly, then waited for further questions.

Publishers' representatives do not speak to the committee unless spoken to. There were no more questions. Laiche sat down.

The committee cast its seventh ballot. Laidlaw won, 13-2.

Other publishers' representatives crowded around Laiche and shouted congratulations. A huge grin lifted Laiche's heavy cheeks.

'A MILLION'

Asked what it was worth to his company for its social studies textbooks for grades 1 through 6 to gain the committee's approval, Laiche said: "Oh, about a million."

He estimated the company would spend $3.5 million on printing the books and would make a net profit of about one-third.

In response to a question, he said he worked on commission.

Final approval must come from the State Board of Education at its Nov. 13 meeting, but the board normally accepts the committee's recommendations.

Schweitzer's presentation opened the second and final day of the Group of Ten, conference of finance ministers and central bankers from the non-Communist world's 10 richest nations.

Conference sources said the plan included these points:

Approval means only that the company may offer its books to individual school districts. If all five sets of social studies books for elementary schools are okayed by the State Board of Education, that means each school district has a choice of five publishers it can go to for social study textbooks.

Three of the approved publishers were among those who had books that drew protests at a committee hearing Tuesday.

OBJECTION

Charles H. Dahlstrom of Austin found objection to this passage in Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, Inc.'s first-grade textbook: "A project: Teach the children the song, 'Our Beautiful Earth,' by Francis E. Jacobs, which is about friendship. 'How beautiful is the green earth, the stars in the heaven above! but what would the whole world be worth if we did not fill it with love, if we did not fill it with love?'"

"Why teach that love is the primary value in the world?" Dahlstrom asked in his written protest. "I object to students being taught to love all forms of government in the world when some of them are bent on destroying us. Why not use one of our country's songs such as 'America the Beautiful' and point out some of the beauty and love in our own country?"

The publisher said Dahlstrom had taken the project suggestion out of context. "The objective of the lesson is to help children appreciate pure air (oxygen content of the air related to the maintenance of the 'green earth')."

DISAPPROVED

One of the books that failed to win approval, "The Human Adventure," a fifth-grade textbook published by Allyn and Bacon, Inc., contains a line that says, "From his background, Jesus gained his ideas about God."

Mrs. H.G. Vanderlee of Tyler argued that, "The Bible teaches that Jesus was God in the flesh on earth and knew God from the beginning. The book is teaching religion—a form of religion contrary to fundamental Christian belief."

More than 300 teachers from kindergarten specialists to university professors, will focus attention on the school day of the five-year-old.

Britain Tries Compromise In World Monetary Crisis

LONDON (AP) — Pierre-Paul Schweitzer, managing director of the International Monetary Fund, today urged the United States and its major trading partners to adopt a four-point compromise plan for overcoming the world monetary crisis.

Schweitzer's presentation opened the second and final day of the Group of Ten, conference of finance ministers and central bankers from the non-Communist world's 10 richest nations.

Conference sources said the plan included these points:

1. A general realignment in the exchange rates of the world's leading currencies, including an upward revaluation of the major European currencies and the Japanese yen and a devaluation of the U.S. dollar.

2. A new reserve system in which special drawing rights in the IMF would assume some of the reserve role backing currencies now held by gold.

3. An effort to swing the U.S. balance of payments from its current deficit to a surplus, in which America's allies would assume a share of the burden.

4. After the achievement of these steps the time would be ripe to remove the 10 per cent surcharge on U.S. imports ordered by President Nixon Aug. 15.

Schweitzer's plan combined some of the key elements of rival positions outlined yesterday by U.S. Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally on one side and European and Japanese spokesmen on the other.

The plan was immediately welcomed as a good one by German Economics Minister Karl Schiller. It contained some of the elements Britain's chancellor of the exchequer, Anthony Barber, was expected to put forward as a compromise later in the session.

Nixon's decision to cut the dollar's tie to gold and impose the surcharge triggered the monetary crisis.

The President's representative to the conference, Connally, surprised the delegates Wednesday by announcing the United States intends to reverse its balance of payments deficit, turning a current annual loss of $9 billion into a $4 billion surplus. He mentioned no time limit for the turnaround.

To achieve this goal, he said the United States wants the Europeans and the Japanese to revalue their currencies upward. Such action would make their exports more expensive and give U.S. goods a competitive trade advantage in world markets.

But Italy's treasury minister, Mario Ferrari-Aggradi, speaking for the European Common Market nations, said it was overambitious for the United States to expect a swing to a massive surplus in its overseas transactions.

The Italian urged instead that the United States aim for a reduced deficit and participate in a general realignment of currencies by devaluing the dollar against gold.

But Connally ruled out such a devaluation.

Phosphates Not Choice, But Better Than Others

WASHINGTON (AP) — Finding the cure worse than the disease, the government reluctantly has advised housewives to use phosphate detergents instead of nonpolluting substitutes.

Federal officials still say phosphates are a major water pollutant because they lead to a depletion of the oxygen supply in water.

But newly developed substitutes "are highly caustic and clearly constitute a health hazard, which phosphates do not," Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld said Wednesday.

"My advice to the housewife," he said, "would be to use a phosphate detergent. It is safe for the household."

Some of the nonphosphates on the market, he said, contain ingredients that, if swallowed, inhaled or introduced into the eyes, might injure humans, particularly children.

Steinfeld read the joint statement at a news conference with William D. Ruckelshaus, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, and Dr. Charles C. Edwards, Food and Drug Administration commissioner.

Two years ago the Federal Water Quality Administration called for removing phosphates from detergents to combat water pollution.

The detergent industry turned to substitutes, and some cities banned the use of phosphate detergents.

Ruckelshaus urged the cities Wednesday to reconsider their phosphate bans and said the government will help finance removal of phosphates at sewage plants, at a cost of perhaps $500 million.

He said one of the first proposed phosphate substitutes, called nitrilotriacetic acid—NTA—still should not be used in manufacturing detergents.

The industry had asked the government to reconsider its position that the acid may have an adverse effect on animals and in some cases may have produced birth defects.

The joint statement Wednesday said NTA should not be used "because of unresolved questions concerning its possible long-term effects on health and the environment."

Ninety per cent of detergents contain phosphates but none is made with NTA.

More Rioting In N. Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — British troops clashed early today with rioters protesting Northern Ireland's clampdown on the Irish Republican Army.

Bombs exploded in scattered sectors of Belfast, an electricity tower was blown down near Omagh and another blast shattered the front of a police station at Lisburn, injuring a young constable.

The string of incidents came in apparent response to Prime Minister Brian Faulkner's decision, announced Wednesday, to keep suspected IRA terrorists under indefinite internment without trial. The IRA wants to bring down Faulkner's Protestant-based government by force and reunite the British province with the Roman Catholic-dominated Irish Republic to the south.

Running battles between soldiers, gunmen and rampaging youths went on into the early hours of the morning in Belfast.

An army patrol was ambushed while clearing away a truck being used as a street barricade, but the troops fired back and "one man was seen to fall," military spokesmen said.

Four IRA men brandishing submachine guns kidnaped an Ulster policeman, drove him blindfolded into the Irish Republic and then set him free to stumble back across the border late Wednesday night.

Constable Cairns Culbert, 52, was unharmed after being held for six hours by the gunmen, who set his police car ablaze on the border between the north's County Tyrone and the republic's County Monaghan.

Local Teachers At Workshop

Twenty-three representatives from the Big Spring unit of the Texas State Teachers Association participated in a District 18 workshop at Anson Jones school in Midland Wednesday evening. It was described as the largest workshop the district has ever had.

Jim Holmes, Big Spring, district president-elect, led a discussion on unit leadership. Patsy Duncan, Amarillo, TSTA president, addressed the group. The Big Spring delegation, headed by Ernie Boyd, placed the name of Love Phillips, Big Spring, in nomination for a spot on the executive committee. All counties, including the new ones of Terrell and Pecos, were represented at the parley.

More Gifts For Class Reported

Additional contributions to the Bible Class fund were received by The Herald today, although the formal appeal was closed last weekend. Among them were gifts from the Ada Bell DeMent Civic and Art Club, $5; the Mary Zinn Circle of WSCS of First Methodist, $10; and anonymous, $25. This brought to $4,486.22 the amount given by individuals and groups and does not include several hundred by churches on budget pledges.

Low-Keyed Spiro May Have Enhanced Stance

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew may have enhanced his political standing among Republican governors with his low-keyed performance at the 63rd National Governors Conference.

Agnew had stirred controversy at two earlier conferences of the governors. But this time his profile was low, his tone drew liberal GOP praise, and he went away as the conference choice to take full charge of their liaison with Washington.

There was no talk of any movement to dump Agnew from the 1972 GOP ticket. Only one GOP governor said he thought Agnew should be replaced, and he declined to be quoted by name.

"I don't know there's any indication he isn't going to be the candidate, unless it is by his own choice," said Gov. Ronald Reagan of California. Reagan said President Nixon and Agnew would present the strongest ticket the GOP could field in 1972.

"I wouldn't have any trouble supporting Agnew on the basis of 1971," said Gov. Tom McCall of Oregon, who had been sharply critical of Agnew's campaign tone and style in 1970.

When Agnew defended his campaign in sharp terms at a conference of Republican governors in Sun Valley, Idaho, McCall termed it "a nasty, bigoted little speech."

But McCall said he found a new tone in Agnew's San Juan appearance. In his speech in San Juan Monday, Agnew called for a positive approach to the administration's new economic policy, and an end to "petty bickering... and partisan jockeying."

"It's a new Agnew," said Gov. Daniel J. Evans of Washington.

McCall termed it "sort of a reinstatement of the old Agnew, the old Gov. Agnew." Agnew was governor of Maryland when Nixon chose him to run for vice president.

"I'm a Nixon-Agnew man," said Gov. Linwood A. Holton of Virginia. "A good constructive speech like this one helps."

Agnew himself joked about speculation that Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally, a Democrat and former Texas Governor, might supplant him on the Nixon ticket next year.

"I'm a little bit worried about my phone," the vice president said. "I get a voice in a Texas accent that says your four years are up. Will you please signal when through."

Gov. Thomas Meskill of Connecticut said Agnew should stay, "but it's the President's decision."

"To drop Agnew for Connally would make the conservatives angry without making the liberals happy," Meskill said.

Muskie's Political Position Gaining Strength For '72

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie says he is gaining strength among Democratic governors in his undeclared quest for the 1972 presidential nomination.

"I think my political position among them and as viewed by them is stronger," Muskie said after talking politics Wednesday with 20 of his party's 29 governors.

"I haven't tried to twist anybody's arm," the Maine senator said, "... but commitments have been offered, earlier and today."

New VA Surgeon

Dr. Vithal Y. Kasbekar has joined the Veterans Administration medical staff here as a surgeon.

He came here from St. Louis, (Mo.) County Hospital where he completed 36 months of residency in general surgery. Prior to that he had a year residency in surgery each at Houson Road Hospital in Cleveland, Ohio, and Narir Hospital in Bombay, India.

A native of Karwar, India, he attended Ruia College in Bombay, then the TN Medical College in Bombay University where he received his BS and MD degrees in April, 1964.

His internship was in Nair Hospital and Columbia Hospital in Pittsburgh, Pa., spending 12 months at each.

Dr. Kasbekar's residence is at the VA Hospital quarters.

Family Services Slates Personal Affairs Program

A personal affairs orientation for military wives will be held between 9:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., Sept. 28 at the NCO Club. It was announced this week by family services personnel.

Those who attend the orientation will be provided free lunch, and the base nursery will provide free care for all children under three months old. Infants under three months will be cared for at the NCO Club by volunteers.

All dependent wives are encouraged to attend. It also is important for those who have never attended an orientation or who have not attended one in the past three years.

Items to be discussed at the orientation include financial and legal aid, recreational facilities, survivor benefits, shipment of household goods, as well as medical facilities and benefits. Reservations may be made by calling 267-2511, extension 2446, before noon, Sept. 27. Not more than 120 reservations can be accepted.

The National Governors Conference that ended Wednesday was a so-so performance for Muskie. None of the other Democratic presidential prospects even sent an agent to woo the state leaders. And Muskie made the most of it, conferring privately with a procession of party leaders.

A political aide said Muskie had gained commitments of active support from four governors during those sessions. The commitments were said to be private ones, but Democratic sources indicated Govs. Calvin L. Rampton of Utah and Robert Docking of Kansas were among those offering aid.

Govs. Kenneth M. Curtis of Maine, Robert Scott of North Carolina and Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri already had been counted as Muskie allies. It was Hearnes who invited Muskie to address the conference.

Muskie said he put no pressure on anyone for support. He said he is willing to accept the political judgment of governors as to whom they will back and when.

A political lieutenant said Muskie is far ahead of any Democratic rival in the support among governors.

Democrats who had sought to push through the governors conference a statement critical of President Nixon's new economic policy were quickly rebuffed Wednesday by Republican governors.

"It is clear the Republicans want no other view but their own," said Gov. Marvin Mandel of Maryland, after the Democratic resolution was blocked. It would have taken a three-fourths majority to gain approval of the statement, and the Democrats didn't come close.

Ten of the governors meet with President Nixon at the White House today to discuss economic policy. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew extended that invitation, saying "The President will be most interested in your views as to what will replace the 90-day wage-price freeze."

The Democratic statement had asserted that the freeze unfairly demands the greatest economic sacrifices of the working man, the small-business man and the consumer. Their statement advocated profit restraints as part of any new program.

Snyder Burglary Parallels Heavy Loss By Local Store

Another burglary, similar to the one on the Prager's Men and Boys Shop, 102 E. 3rd here Sept. 6, was reported by local police to have occurred Wednesday night in Snyder.

Methods of operation was identical to the Prager's burglary, police said.

Approximately 212 men's suits, sizes 38 to 50 and 20 to 39 pairs of men's trousers, sizes 33 to 38, were taken in the burglary at Rogers Mens Wear Inc., Snyder.

Snyder authorities also reported that a check from a customer in the amount of $534 was taken in the burglary. Law enforcement agencies in West Texas are making an all-out effort to crack the burglary ring, said Detective Avery Falkner.

Local police have uncovered several leads since the burglary at Prager's, in which owners estimated an excess of $10,000 in men's suits and trousers was taken. A witness reported last week that he had seen the local Sept. 8.

In each of the burglaries the possible identification of the car and the same type of merchandise has been taken.

The burglary in Snyder makes the fourth burglary of this type this month in the West and subjects are in custody in Northwest Texas area. On Sept. 6 burglars broke into a shop in Merkel, 10 miles west of Abilene. Also a shop in Borger, that had labels of the Borger north of Amarillo, was reported store on them.

PIGGY BACK SPACE SHOT—This is an artist's preliminary drawing of the Boeing Co.-Grumman Corp. proposal for a completely reusable shuttle to carry man and supplies into space. The two vehicles would be hooked together as shown for a vertical takeoff. Once in space, the smaller orbital units would separate for missions of up to seven days, while the larger booster unit returned to earth where it would land like an airplane. The smaller unit would land later under its own power.

Reusable Rocket Next Step In Space Project

SEATTLE (AP) — A rocket as big as a 747 jumbo jet, carrying a smaller rocket the size of a 707 jet on its back, could be blasting into space and returning to earth to be launched again within the next few years.

The nation's major aerospace firms are now preparing final proposals for a reusable space shuttle that could cut the costs of the nation's space program drastically. At present, each Saturn 5 rocket launch costs roughly $200 million and leaves very little that can be used again.

The space shuttle design calls for two separate vehicles—a booster and an orbital unit—that will be launched vertically into space while hooked together. At a height of about 40 miles they will separate and return to earth to land in the manner of conventional jet aircraft.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration could award the final contract for design and development anytime after October, when the current phase of development funding expires.

Speaker Extolls Concert Series

A balanced program of entertainment is represented in the Community Concerts series for 1971-72, Mrs. Sue Laird told the Downtown Lions Club Wednesday at the Settles.

Mrs. Laird is here assisting in the annual membership enrollment. She is a field representative for Community Concerts, a national organization which works through more than 100 booking agencies. Local boards, she explained, selected their season offerings.

Booked for Big Spring this season are the highly acclaimed "Little Angels of Korea," a folk ballet troupe praised for its perfection and for employment of 50 ancient instruments; the Broadway American pop musical success, "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," based on the "Peanuts" comic strip; and the popular piano duo, Ferante and Teicher, who have scored smash hits in two previous appearances here.

She stressed the importance of success of this year's enlistment effort on future years. So far, she said, response has been good. Offices are being maintained at Hemphill-Wells Co., and after this week there can be no enrollment, except for newcomers or those who were out of town. No single show admissions are available.

Bob Hickson, president of Big Spring Community Concerts, urged support of the offerings on their own merits, also because a cultural series such as is planned is a key community asset.

Church Argues Federal Loans

FORT WORTH (AP) — A move to let Baptist hospitals accept federal loans and grants drew fire Wednesday from a leader in the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

James Dunn, secretary of the Christian Life Commission, declared such a recommendation by the convention executive board represented a breach of separation of church and state.

Speaking at a chapel service, he said, "If ours are religious institutions, they should not take tax money. If they are not religious institutions, they should not take tax money from the church."

Last Friday the executive board passed on recommendations to the convention's next annual meeting in Houston that the nine Texas Baptist hospitals be granted the right to apply for government aid.

The annual session, which has repeatedly denied requests for federal aid for Baptist institutions, will decide the issue Oct. 26-28.

Local Heritage Keys That For Nation, Says Speaker

"If we start with what a child knows in his own town and community, he will develop a genuine interest in the history of his state and nation," said Mrs. C. W. Tanner at a meeting Tuesday of the Howard County Historical Survey Committee.

Mrs. Tanner, a history teacher at Runnels Junior High School, discussed the book

"Howard County in the Making," by John R. Hutto. A short business meeting, led by Mrs. Floyd Mays, preceded the talk.

The development of Big Spring was traced from the time when W. T. (Bud) Roberts first settled as a rancher near Moss Springs in about 1878 and buffalo hunters settled near Comanche Trail Park, through the building of the T&P railroad, the courthouse, the early homes, churches, schools and businesses to the discovery of oil.

Mrs. Tanner and Bob Zellars, also a history teacher at Runnels, are using the book in their history classes to teach the development of the community to their history classes.

The next display at the Heritage Museum will emphasize the place of the pioneer woman in the development of Howard County. Any donation or temporary loans of materials will be appreciated, according to Mrs. Mays.

"You can burn them or wash them or anything else, but enough arsenic may still remain in the barrels to kill almost any animal," he added.

Any chemical kept over the winter should be sealed in an air-tight and water-tight container, and stored away from feed supplies in a barn.

When a producer is disposing of left-over pesticides, he should be careful where he dumps the material, Clymer adds. A common practice in both aerial and ground spraying is to dump excess chemicals in draws or small grass areas. This can be extremely hazardous because cattle are often kept in these areas for short periods of time before working or shipment. They graze this grass that can have high amounts of dangerous pesticides, which may cause sickness or death to the animal.

Cubs And Scouts Sign Up Tonight

Tonight is the night for boys who would like to take part in the adventure of Cubbing and Scouting to enroll in the program.

Boys 8-9-10 who are in or who want to be in Cubbing are asked to come with their parents to any of the Big Spring elementary schools (except Gay Hill) and to Elbow. Boys who want to be in a Scout troop also are asked to report. School principals, neighborhood commissioners and unit leaders will be on hand in the various schools to answer questions and register boys on the spot.

Pesticide Containers Can Constitute Real Hazard

Pesticide containers pose a serious health hazard even when the containers are considered "empty," according to information from the Agricultural Extension Service.

Harold G. Knapp, inspector for the city-county health unit, warns that even the small, home-use aerosol-spray insecticides are potentially dangerous if not disposed of properly.

"If they're just left lying around, children can puncture the cans, and the gas left in the cans could injure their eyes or get into the lungs and make them ill," said Knapp.

Larger containers used in agriculture pose even greater problems, according to information from Bill Clymer, Agricultural Extension Service area entomologist at Amarillo.

Clymer said that a few grains of powdered insecticide or residue from liquid pesticides always cling to the sides of the container, and that proper disposal of the containers is necessary to prevent damage to crops and injury or even death to humans and livestock.

Glass should be wrapped in newspapers and then broken. Plastic and metal containers should be punctured and crushed, and then buried at least 18 inches deep in an area isolated from crops, livestock or people. The site should not be in an area where the chemical might leach down into underground water supplies.

Paper and other combustible materials can be burned, but one should make sure the fumes and smoke cannot damage plants or animals, Clymer said.

The question of using empty 55-gallon barrels always arises. Most people do not want to throw away containers that can be used for feed storage or as feed bunks, but the practice can be extremely dangerous, especially if the chemical had an arsenic base, according to Clymer.

"You can burn them or wash them or anything else, but enough arsenic may still remain in the barrels to kill almost any animal," he added.

Any chemical kept over the winter should be sealed in an air-tight and water-tight container, and stored away from feed supplies in a barn.

When a producer is disposing of left-over pesticides, he should be careful where he dumps the material, Clymer adds. A common practice in both aerial and ground spraying is to dump excess chemicals in draws or small grass areas. This can be extremely hazardous because cattle are often kept in these areas for short periods of time before working or shipment. They graze this grass that can have high amounts of dangerous pesticides, which may cause sickness or death to the animal.

Davis is charged with driving while intoxicated.

PATHOLOGISTS' FINDINGS NOT RELEASED

Special Exams To Determine Death Causes

ATTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Two widely known pathologists called in to determine causes of death of 42 hostages and inmates at Attica state prison have completed their post-mortem, the Monroe County medical examiner's office said today.

The pathologists—Dr. Henry Siegel of Westchester County and Dr. Michael Baden, acting chief examiner in New York City—did not, however, release any of their findings.

The two men were called in by state officials hoping to help clear up confusion over how the inmates and hostages died in the four-day rebellion. It ended Monday when the prison was stormed by about 1,000 heavily armed state troopers, sheriff's deputies, prison guards and National Guard troops. The dead included 10 prison employees and 32 inmates. Scores more were injured.

Meanwhile, in Washington, Congress began a probe of the riot and bloody suppression of it amid calls for prison reform and criminal investigations.

The House Select Committee on Crime announced that Chairman Claude Pepper, D-Fla., and three other committee members would meet with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller Friday morning in New York City and then travel to Attica.

As part of the widening inquiry into the carnage, Rockefeller planned to meet today with state legislative leaders in Albany. The governor has taken "full responsibility" for the way the insurrection was put down, and the White House has said President Nixon was "not going to second-guess him."

Also in Washington, Sen. James L. Buckley, C-R-N.Y., announced today he has sent his personal assistant for New York State affairs to Attica on a fact-finding mission. A spokesman for Buckley said, however, the senator still stands behind his statement Monday calling for swift punishment of those responsible for killing hostages, despite the new information.

"Of course, the senator isn't calling for prosecution of state troopers. They were just doing their job," the spokesman said. One guard's burial was postponed at the last moment.

Wednesday after a funeral director disputed a coroner's report that the officer had been killed by gunfire. The burial today of a second guard, Carl Valone, also said to have died from gunshot wounds, was permitted to take place.

The coroner's report had said that the guard and seven other hostages had been killed by gunshot wounds. The coroner's office stood firm on its findings today.

Earlier official reports, later acknowledged by the state correction commissioner as "misstatements," had said some of the hostages had died of slit throats.

In another development, a physician who examined inmates Wednesday said more than 100 prisoners claimed to have been beaten when led back to their cells Monday.

A copyright story in today's editions of the Rochester Democrat & Chronicle attributed the report to Dr. Lionel A. Sifontes, 36, of Buffalo, who served on a seven-man medical team that examined more than 500 inmates.

"They had quite a few body bruises... you don't get body bruises from a hand," Sifontes was quoted as saying.

Sifontes, however, would not speculate on how the prisoners were bruised and a prison official had no immediate comment.

NASA plans call for the first horizontal flight test in 1978 or 1979 and for the first manned shuttle flight in 1978.

Boeing is teamed with the Grumman Corp. in competition for the final contract award.

Although Boeing isn't predicting it will win, the Seattle firm developed the Saturn 5 rocket. Boeing later redesigned the rocket, adding wings and jet engines that would permit the four-man crew to land the booster stage on a 10,000-foot conventional airport runway on its return from space.

While Boeing was concentrating on the booster stage, Grumman worked on the orbital stage.

The booster would blast into space carrying on its back the manned orbital unit containing a 60-by-15-foot diameter cargo compartment capable of carrying a 40,000 pound payload.

After separation, the booster would return to earth immediately while the orbital unit remained in space to launch or repair satellites or do other work and then return and land on its own up to seven days later. The orbiter will be able to carry a two-man crew and up to 10 passengers.

Talent Fair Repeat Due

A repeat of last year's highly successful Talent Fair for elderly citizens has been scheduled for a repeat on Dec. 4.

Plans for the event have been mapped by the Howard County Council on Aging, which held its first meeting of the autumn season during the weekend.

John J. Clancy Jr., chairman, said that the event would be held on the Highland Mall and that all residents age 60 and over wishing to display or offer for sale wares they have made should get in touch with Sherry Mullin, county home demonstration agent (267-8649).

Bessie Love, who was project leader for the initial fair, said Clancy, and she will be assisted by Mrs. William R. Cashlon, Mrs. Fred Hyer and others.

Clancy made an appeal for all who can join with the council in working to brighten the days and outlook for the community's population. They may learn how they can help by calling Miss Mullin at her office in the courthouse.

U. S. Works To Retain Taiwan's Seat In U. N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States and a group of its U.N. allies are reported to have reached tentative agreement on a resolution revised to give China's Security Council seat to Peking.

MAIN AIM
U.S. officials insist that their main aim is to keep Nationalist China in the world organization and that all their tactics are designed with this in mind.

The special treatment of the important Security Council seat—one of the five with veto power reserved for major powers—has been under discussion for several weeks in private talks. The tentative agreement was expected to be formalized today at a meeting at the U.S. mission.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers acknowledged in a news conference Sept. 3 that the United States had found strong support for giving the council seat to Peking and that the proposal was under consideration.

Diplomatic sources said the only thing remaining was to formalize the revised resolution and submit it to the United Nations. The draft was expected to be made public today or Friday, depending upon how many countries were ready to sign immediately as sponsors.

DEBATE DUE

uled to come up in the General Assembly after the opening round of policy statements, probably around the middle of October.

The assembly already has before it a resolution sponsored by Albania and 17 other countries, calling for the seating of Peking and the expulsion of the Nationalist Chinese. A similar resolution received 51 favorable votes to 49 against last year, but was defeated because the assembly had decided this was an "important question" requiring a two-thirds majority.

TWO-THIRDS VOTE
The United States is expected to submit a second resolution declaring that any move to expel Nationalist China is an "important question." This would make the two-thirds requirement applicable to expulsion, but not to the seating of Communist China. The seating question would be handled by a simple majority vote.

All-Volunteer Force May Not Attract 'Quality' Men

WASHINGTON (AP) — Less than one-fifth of the Army's recent "true volunteers" scored high in intelligence-aptness tests, raising doubts the United States can field a quality all-volunteer force.

Army officials said they plan to concentrate on selective enlistment, but stressed it will take more than military pay increases to attract men equipped to handle today's complex military gear.

"There's got to be a dramatic change in the public's acceptance of the military," one general said.

One reason Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has urged renewal of the draft law for two more years is to stem "the decline in the quality of personnel needed to meet highly technical training requirements."

Officials long have acknowledged that, under the threat of being drafted, many talented young men have signed up for military service they otherwise would have shunned.

Therefore, considerable importance is attached to the "true volunteer" as distinguished from draftable men who volunteer in order to get a good assignment.

Army officials concerned about the quality problem cited the results of Armed Forces qualifications tests given to "true volunteers" in June and July.

Their figures show little more than 18 per cent of the 9,600 persons thus categorized in July scored in the top two test sections, ranging from 65 to 100 per cent.

Stray Round Kills American Noncom Aboard Helicopter

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese infantrymen reported killing 49 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong today in the heaviest contact since launching a "spoiling" operation to upset an expected enemy offensive in the Mekong Delta's U Minh forest.

A senior American noncommissioned officer was killed, field reports said, when a stray round struck him as he rode in a helicopter over a battle.

Officials said the helicopter carried a U.S. deputy senior adviser to the South Vietnamese 21st Division, but that the division commander and his senior U.S. adviser were not aboard.

Initial reports from the field, first confirmed by military sources but later denied by an official spokesman in the delta, said the U.S. helicopter was carrying Maj. Gen. Nguyen Vinh Nghi and Col. J. Ross Franklin, of Denver, Colo., and that the helicopter was shot down.

The spokesman said this report was untrue.

Those aboard the craft, he said, were the four-man crew, Lt. Col. Lowell White, of Fayetteville, N.C., and the sergeant who was killed. None of the others was injured.

The 49 enemy killed in fighting in the U Minh raised to 78 the number reported slain in two days of the operation.

Units began moving into the remote canal-laced region after intelligence indicated enemy forces were planning an offensive in the area, field sources said.

Twenty-nine enemy troops were killed Wednesday, 22 in an ambush that also resulted in

STANTON'S TWO-YEAR LETTERMEN — Pictured here are four boys who have already won two varsity football letters at Stanton High School and who must carry the burden of leadership for the Buffaloes this fall. Head coach Bill Young talks to Jackie Swanson, Frankie Barnhill, Bubba Standerfer

Giants And Dodgers Are Both Defeated

By The Associated Press

There won't be any payoff of World Series money for San Diego's Dave Roberts but the Padres' tough left-hander looms as a big man in the National League West pennant race.

Roberts pitched San Diego a 2-1 victory over Los Angeles Wednesday night, keeping the Dodgers a game back of the West-leading San Francisco Giants, who lost 4-2 to Cincinnati.

And he did it a day ahead of schedule.

Manager Preston Gomez moved Roberts up a day in his pitching rotation so that his ace lefty will be able to pitch twice in the six games the Padres have left with the Giants.

Roberts' record is only 13-15 but it's with a club that has a 56-93 mark—and his 1.92 earned run average is second only to New York's Tom Seaver among NL starters.

While the West race remained unchanged, Pittsburgh took a big step toward the East flag by beating St. Louis 4-1 and opening up an 8½-game lead over the second-place Cardinals.

Elsewhere in the NL, Chicago swept the New York Mets 6-2 and 3-2, Atlanta topped Houston 4-2 and Montreal edged Philadelphia 1-0.

"It's no disgrace losing to a guy like him," Los Angeles Manager Walt Alton said after Roberts scattered eight hits and pitched out of a bases loaded jam in the third inning to snap the Dodgers' winning streak at eight games.

The Padres, beating the Dodgers for only the fourth time in 17 meetings, took a 1-0 lead in the second inning when Leron Lee and Larry Stahl singled and Lee scored when pitcher Don Sutton threw wild after fielding a bunt.

Stahl homered in the sixth after the Dodgers had tied it in the second on Sutton's RBI infield single.

Pete Rose's run-scoring triple and Lee May's RBI single in the fifth snapped a 1-1 tie and sent the Giants to their third straight loss and 10th in 11 games. The Reds' Jim McGlothlin held the stumbling Giants to six hits, including homers by Willie McCovey and Dick Dietz.

Pittsburgh's Dock Ellis, pitching for the first time in two weeks because of elbow trouble, worked seven innings to run his record to 19-7. Most of his offensive help came in the fourth on Dave Cash's RBI single and Al Oliver's two-run homer.

Ted Simmons homered for St. Louis, which lost for the third time in four games while the Pirates were winning for the ninth time in 11.

Bill Hands pitched a five-hitter and drove in two runs as the Cubs beat the Mets in the opener. Then Burt Hooton yielded only three hits—none for 6 2-3 innings, and Billy Williams hit a ninth-inning homer as Chicago completed the sweep.

Trevino Won't Be In Action

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lee Trevino was on the sidelines for the morning rounds, but America's non-playing captain Jay Hebert remained confident as biennial Ryder Cup golf matches began today over Old Warson Country Club's 7,272-yard course.

"He's not that strong right now," the 48-year-old Hebert explained in omitting Trevino from the U. S. lineup against Britain's best. Trevino last month underwent an appendectomy.

"He tries to pretend he is," Hebert added in reference to Trevino, who this year made a whirlwind sweep of U. S., Canadian and British Open titles but has since played only sporadically.

"I think if we needed him badly enough he could play the opening round. We've got three days to play, however, and I imagine he'll see enough action."

Those selected to represent the United States during four morning Scotch foursome matches against the British included Billy Casper, paired with Miller Barber; Arnold Palmer, whose partner is Gardner Dickinson; and Jack Nicklaus, paired with Dave Stockton.

"If Bobby ever catches it, it's an upset. Sometimes I don't think he goes out as a receiver; he goes out to defend himself against the ball."

If you ever met anyone who was satisfied with the seats he occupied at a football game, you met a rare individual. If the pews are in a fine location, chances are some Fidgety Phil who has been drinking too much sits in front of him and is continually jumping to his feet to get a better view of the play on the field.

If Old Fidgety is missing, a party down his aisle develops an insatiable appetite and he's continually having to pass food and or drink along a human chain — and part of the mustard or the liquid refreshment winds up decorating his tie.

Then there are the two women seated nearby who prefer to talk about their bridge game and who interrupt their conversation only rarely to glance at the scoreboard.

If he's located around the 25 to 30 yard line on one end of the field, chances are all of the activity takes place on the other side of the 50-yard line.

Another problem is that there is a free loader or two who somehow has slipped by the usher and either has the guy's seat or tries to crowd in between him and his neighbor.

If he's too close to the aisle, he finds it is treading with restless humanity — people on the go who can't even tell you which team is in the red uniforms. Such transients are either on their way to the concessions booth, have spotted friends across the way, have decided the altitude will give them a nose bleed or want to beat everyone to the exits.

Then there are those who delay their appearances at the park until after the opening kickoff. Weighed down by their cushions, their blankets, their top coats and their field glasses, they clear out people for two rows coming in for landings. Such individuals have to be brought abreast of the field developments by their neighbors, then must comment on the state of affairs before they can concentrate on what is current.

The people who steal a smoke during a game are prone to upset those who abhor the smell of tobacco, not to mention those who are trying to quit.

Maybe getting there 15 half the fun.

Dallas, Vikings, 49ers Conference Favorites

By BRUCE LOWITT

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With

Washington's dreams of glory as broken as Sonny Jurgensen's arm, Los Angeles' roster a patchwork quilt and Detroit's waning strength, 1971 appears likely to prove an instant replay of 1970 in the National Football Conference.

George Allen, who brought a flock of his Rams to Washington and traded away future draft choices to stock the Redskins with proven talent, will be without Jurgensen, his No. 1 weapon, for perhaps half the season, which all but guarantees the Dallas Cowboys another Eastern Division championship.

The Rams, under new coach Tommy Prothro from the collegiate ranks at UCLA, have been inconsistent at best—despite a preseason victory over San Francisco—and that opens the door to another Western title grab by the very consistent 49ers.

DEEP IN TALENT

And Minnesota—well, the Vikings are, simply, the Vikings, standing so deep in talent just about everywhere that they should breeze to the Central crown while Detroit's Lions, their only challenger last season, fade into the rest of the pack.

Here's how the races look from here:

Eastern Division—1, Dallas. 2, St. Louis, 3, Washington. 4, Philadelphia. 5, New York.

Central Division—1, Minnesota. 2, Detroit. 3, Green Bay. 4, Chicago.

Western Division—1, San Francisco. 2, Los Angeles. 3, Atlanta. 4, New Orleans.

Give Craig Morton or Roger Staubach the ball for the Cowboys and, with the wealth of talent they'll be quarterbacking and the lack of talent they'll be facing most of the year, Dallas shouldn't even have to look back.

St. Louis, whose inconsistent offense fell on its face through the final month of the 1970 season, will again fall short although new Coach Bob Holtz will bring a steadiness to the Cardinals.

Jurgensen will likely come passing to the rescue for the Redskins, not in time to make the revamped club a serious threat but early enough to keep them away from the cellar battle Philadelphia and New York are expected to wage.

The Eagles, who failed to win a preseason game a year ago and continued ailing most the way in regular play, have pulled a reverse in this season's exhibitions while the Giants have hit the skids—and that's how the bottom of the Eastern pack should finish.

The Vikings' staunch offensive line will have Norm Snead as well as Gary Cuzzo well protected and will again be opening gaping holes for the thundering running game that will have Minnesota rumbling away early.

LIONS PROBLEMS

A porous pass defense and an inconsistent running game will probably keep Detroit well out of solid contention but the Lions are still a long way from falling into the basement shuffle between Green Bay and Chicago.

The Packers, with old Zeke Bratkowski and young Scott Hunter vying for the quarterback slot in place of injured Bart Starr, won't be scoring much—but at least they'll have a bit more balance than the Bears.

The 49ers are so well-stocked in talent that they'll probably go with a virtually unchanged squad—unchanged except for maturity. John Brodie will once again be bringing it all together.

It could take quite a few games for the Rams to put their game together and they'll have some trouble keeping ahead of Atlanta's defense-minded Falcons. It'll take more than New Orleans' No. 1 pick, flashy quarterback Archie Manning, a state of rookies and Coach J.D. Roberts starting his first NFL season, to get the Saints going this season.

Williams, quietly munching a spaghetti dish and drinking a beer, described his first Oakland club as a "better unit, a better club all-around and with better harmony" than his Boston Red Sox of 1967.

"I know opening the playoffs at Baltimore puts pressure on us," said Williams, "but we have an outstanding road record."

Indeed the A's do, with a chance of topping the 1939 New York Yankee record of 54 road victories when they take a 52-game total to Milwaukee Friday for their final three road games.

POWs Make Anti-War Talks, Is Claim From Taped Voices

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time, American peace activists visiting Hanoi have brought back something relating to U.S. prisoners of war held in South Vietnam, tapes purported to carry the voices of four POWs.

The tapes, released Wednesday by antiwar groups, assert the prisoners are forming a peace movement of their own, including publication of a pacifist magazine.

The tapes concern prisoners of the Viet Cong and were released by North Vietnamese in Hanoi, where visits in the past have been limited strictly to matters relating to prisoners in the North.

SUPPORT REDS

Copies of the tapes and transcripts were given to The Associated Press by representatives of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War and the Committee of Liaison with Families of Servicemen Detained in North Vietnam.

Each of the four speakers on the tapes makes antiwar statements with a central theme of support for the seven-point peace proposal put forth by Communist negotiators in Paris and a call for Americans to pressure their government to end the war.

There also were references to the Pentagon papers, a Defense Department study of U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Two of the speakers were not identified. The others gave their names as Maj. Floyd Harold Kushner, an Army flight surgeon, and Army Special Staff Sgt. John Arthur Young, both captured by the Viet Cong in South Vietnam.

'BOTH SIDES'

"We as captured GIs have had the opportunity to see it from both sides," one of the unidentified speakers said. "We feel this makes us qualified to bring out the true nature of this war and our administration's policies."

"We have already started a program of action," the tape said. "We have sent letters and recordings to congressmen, the American people and the GIs, to the antiwar organizations and even the President to let everyone know we are opposed to this war."

Kushner's statement said: "I have been brainwashed, not by any physical torture or abuse, but by a confrontation with factual evidence, and most of it originated in the U.S.A."

"I have been brainwashed by the 1964 Geneva Accords," Kushner said, "by Life magazine, by Newsweek, by American documentary films of demonstrations, of the Winter Soldiers investigation, by statements of senior statesmen like Fulbright, Mansfield, Harman, Clifford and so forth."

"The recent disclosure of the secret Pentagon reports by a conscience-stricken research analyst was the last of a long series of laundry agents," Kushner added.

Kushner's wife, who lives in Danville, Va., said she had heard the tape of her husband and was convinced it was his voice.

"I'm positive," Mr. Kushner said. "It's not only his voice, it's his sentence construction, his wording. He not only read it, he wrote his own speech."

There have been three other messages from Kushner, broadcast by Radio Hanoi and picked up by Western monitors, since last May, his wife said.

Nixon Pondering Change In Policy On POW Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon may decide to modify opposition to the Viet Cong-North Vietnamese demand for a 1971 American withdrawal deadline, administration sources say, in order to obtain release of U.S. prisoners of war.

They indicated the Paris peace talks are at a full stop on the prisoner issue with each side "waiting for a break" from the other. "My guess is that this break will be that between now and 'day X' Richard Nixon will modify or change his position on the Viet Cong's first point," one government official said.

He was referring to the seven-point Viet Cong peace plan proposed July 1 at the Paris talks. The first point said all U.S. prisoners held in Vietnam would be released "if the U.S. government sets a terminal date for the withdrawal from South Vietnam in 1971..."

Nixon has said repeatedly final withdrawal will depend on release of the POWs as well as the ability of the Saigon government to defend itself.

The United States has not rejected the Viet Cong proposal outright but has demanded clarification, through secret or restricted discussions, of what is involved. The other side has insisted on continuing open talks, a stand U.S. negotiators deplore as a publicity stunt.

The best estimate, according to U.S. officials, is that Nixon may announce in November a substantial increase in the current withdrawal rate, perhaps amounting to virtually a total cutback in troops by spring or even earlier.

"The question then will depend on how or if it is put in such a way" as to bring about a positive response from the Viet Cong and Hanoi, an administration official said.

President Nixon is expected to make the next announcement concerning troop withdrawals about Nov. 15. At present about 215,000 U.S. troops are in Vietnam with the figure set to drop to 184,000 by Dec. 1 under a schedule the President announced last April. At the current withdrawal rate of 15,000 men a month a zero figure would be reached in early 1973.

'Dirty, Stinking Job,' Says Undercover Narc

BOSTON (AP) — Andy Moes, who filed marijuana complaints a year ago against Robert F. Kennedy Jr. and R. Sargent Shriver III, says of his temporary summer stint as an undercover narcotics agent: "It was a dirty, stinking job."

"You have to have a stomach of cast iron," Moes, 21, said in an interview Wednesday while describing his role as the hippie-clad undercover agent who worked for the police department in Barnstable.

He filed about 100 complaints, including those against the Kennedy family cousins.

Young Kennedy is the son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Shriver is the son of a Kennedy in-law, R. Sargent Shriver, the former Peace Corps director and ex-ambassador to France.

Wearing wire-rim glasses, leather vest, long hair and a beard, Moes mixed easily with the young crowd. To some, he was known as "Happy Andy."

"I found the work distasteful, sneaky, dirty, underhanded—distasteful both personally and professionally," said Moes, now a senior at a Boston-area college.

He still feels pressures from that summer. He said he once had three shots fired at him, and his apartment was fire-bombed. He has moved, has an unlisted number and has a license to carry a gun.

Looking back on the news coverage that young Kennedy and Shriver received, Moes said he would have acted differently.

"They (the media) destroyed him," he said. "If you or I were arrested for marijuana, nobody else would know. But by virtue of the fact that he was a Kennedy, he must pay forever.

"I liked Bobby Kennedy a lot. That's what tears you apart... The mistake he made was that I was a good enough con man to get him to trust me."

The decision to file the complaints did not come easily, said Moes, a New York City native.

"When I realized the position I was in—all the tragedies the Kennedys have been through—I sat there thinking, 'O my God, I'm going to bring another one on them.'"

Kennedy and Shriver were charged with being delinquent by reason of possession of marijuana and placed on probation for 13 months.

Moes said he came in contact with the two through another juvenile he had under surveillance.

When asked why he took the job as a police officer, Moes said: "I had to see what it felt like to be hated, detested, spat upon—all for $2.79 an hour." dentally," Moes said. "I handled him like any other investigation."

LITTLE BIT OF AMERICAN HISTORY STANDS ON MEXICAN HILLTOP

Castle Is Symbol Of Mexico's Patriotism

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Atop a wooded hill in the heart of this city stands Chapultepec Castle — a little known bit of American history.

To Mexicans, the castle is perhaps the greatest symbol of Mexico's patriotism and an everlasting monument to its nation's courage.

The year was 1847 and the castle which earlier had been the palace for many of Mexico's rulers including Maximilian and Carlotta now is called Colegio Militar—Military college.

It is filled with cadets aspiring to the armed forces. Their ages range from 13 to 20.

Mexico had undergone years of suffering with the government changing hands quite frequently. Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna during this epoch ruled the land 11 times. Poverty, illiteracy and political chaos were abundant.

Because of sovereignty problems with the United States over lands near the Rio Grande that began when Texas declared its independence from Mexico March 2, 1836, a U.S. invasion force entered Mexico after Congress declared war May 13, 1846, while James Polk was president.

MOVED SOUTH

One army under the command of Gen. Zachary Taylor left Texas and met little resistance as it moved southward through the scarcely populated northern half of Mexico. Another, under Gen. Winfield Scott, would enter by Sea at Vera Cruz.

When Scott's army reached the outskirts of Mexico City, about 15,000 soldiers were ready to defend their capital. Supplies were limited, weaponry was outdated, ammunition scarce.

On the morning of Sept. 8, the U.S. attacked and defeated Santa Anna's army in a fierce battle. At this time, most of the staff at the military college had left to join active Army groups.

On the morning of Sept. 13, two days before the 37th anniversary of Mexico's independence from Spain, many of the cadets had been ordered to abandon the school. A small group of about 50 stayed on and prepared to defend themselves against overwhelming odds.

Artillery opened up early in the morning from close range in the woods below. Mexico's flag waved in a soft breeze from a tower. Some cadets were on sentinel duty on the roof, at the windows and the main entrance and school grounds.

FIRE CEASED

Vicente Suarez, 17, was on duty at the main gate. By early afternoon, the sound of rifle fire increased until he could see the smoke from the rifle blasts at the edge of the woods only yards away. Suddenly, a group of soldiers ran from the woods toward his post.

He shouted "halt," but there was no reply as the soldiers in blue advanced. Before he could cock his rifle he was bayoneted by a soldier from a New York regiment.

U.S. soldiers entered the school and a close action battle was on.

Fernando Montes de Oca, 18, was at a window when the troops entered the building. He leapt from a first floor window, was shot and fell down a cliff on the side of the castle.

Augustin Melgar, 18, had been a cadet at Colegio Militar, but for some reason had left the school without permission in May. Around the end of August he returned and was re-admitted as a special student who would get no credit for his studies. This was because he had to face academy desertion charges.

On the day of the battle he was one of those who remained behind. He was shot dead as he stood by a window.

Lt. Juan de la Barrera, 20, a graduate engineering student, had been at the school since he was 13. He was ordered to help prepare the school's defense. He, too, died of bullet wounds within the castle walls.

Francisco Marquez, 14, was one of the youngest cadets to stay behind. A bullet found him and the youth died on the school grounds, his rifle by his side.

ASKS RIFLE

Juan Escutia, 20, pleaded for a rifle so that he could join Mexican troops at the city's edge. Finally, the school director issued him a rifle and ordered him to stay at the school.

Escutia was on the flat castle roof as the battle mounted. U.S.

troops were searching out the building room by room taking prisoners. Defeat was imminent.

Escutia looked to a tower where his country's banner was flying. He ran to the flagstaff and hauled it down. With the flag clutched in his hands he raced back across the roof to a stairway.

A U.S. soldier from a lower floor window fired and Escutia pitched from the roof to the rocks below. Mexico's flag still was locked in his hands.

Soon the battle was over. Some were wounded, others prisoners.

The war ended shortly and a treaty was signed Feb. 2, 1848.

From this portion of Mexican U.S. history the six youths who died for their country became known as the "Ninos Heroes" the boy heroes.

Monuments have been raised and their praise is sung in Mexico, amid many legends and accounts of their deeds.

Enrollment Has Odd Turn

Enrollment in Big Spring schools, instead of marking gains in the first few weeks, has taken a dip.

The 7,122 on roll at the end of last year was 86 under the corresponding date a year ago, but there is no set pattern on the decline. Both the kindergarten and special education totals show substantial gains.

The first, third and fourth grades showed a combined loss of 214, but there was a gain of 24 for the second, fifth and sixth grades. In the secondary level, Goliad with 662 was down 38, Runnels with 536 was up one, and senior high with 2,061 was down 60.

Another unusual aspect of the enrollment was that the 7,122 at the end of last year represented a loss of 12. Normally, in the first several weeks of a term, enrollment advances steadily.

Student Fliers Have New Head Of Aero Club

A former T-41 instructor pilot has taken over duties as Webb's Aero Club manager.

The new manager, Gary Bowersock, started flying in 1956 in his hometown, Lima, Ohio. He did some charter work, mostly flying from farm strips.

With more than 200 hours instructor pilot flying time, Bowersock fits well into the job of scheduling flying and maintenance for the Aero Club.

"With 100 members, two Cessna 150s and one Cessna 172, this is going to be quite a job," he conceded.

Before becoming the Aero Club manager, Bowersock had worked as an instructor in the T-41 program at Reese AFB for eight months, then in Webb's program four years.

"We're organized for any active military or civil service member. Since we are paid through non-appropriated funds, we are a non-profit organization, making our prices very low," Bowersock observed. He is available daily from 10 a.m. except Tuesday.

St. Mary's Will Burn Mortgage

Bishop Willis R. Henton, coadjutor of the Northwest Texas Diocese, will make his first visit in that capacity at St. Mary's Episcopal Church Saturday and Sunday to participate in the retirement of the building debt.

A "burn-the-mortgage" party and steak fry will be held Saturday at 6 p.m. at the Rich Anderson Ranch. Bishop Henton will be celebrant at the 8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. communion services Sunday.

Consignments To Beef Show Open

Dr. Ben Gearhart, vice president of the Southwestern International Livestock Show and Rodeo, and chairman of the International Range Bull Sale, announced that consignments are now being taken for the 1972 Range Bull Show and Auction in El Paso Feb. 5-13, 1972. The bull show and sale are set for Feb. 9-10.

Gearhart said there are classifications for registered Herefords, Angus, Brangus and, new for 1972, the Limousin breed, also a new classification "other beef breeds."

Four Officers Get DFC At Webb

Four Distinguished Flying Crosses were presented to four Webb officers here during the weekend by Col. Malcolm E. Ryan, wing commander.

Capt. Bertram J. Woodside was presented the award for directing ordnance against a hostile convoy in enemy territory. Despite poor weather and antiaircraft fire, his efforts resulted in damaging or destroying hostile vehicles. Capt. Woodside was also presented the first Oak Leaf cluster to the DFC for his professional competence as a forward air controller during another incident of directing a tactical aircraft against a truck convoy moving supplies down an infiltration route deep in mountainous territory, despite antiaircraft artillery fire. Five of the trucks were destroyed.

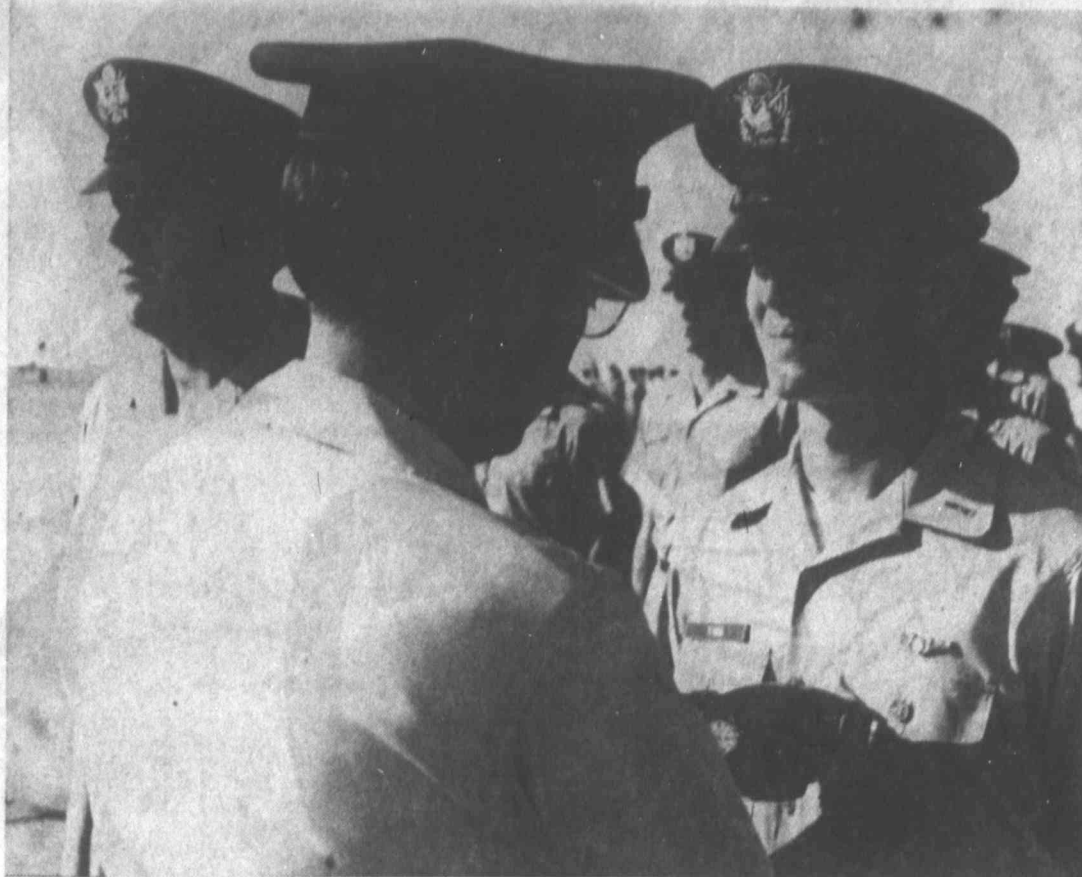

Capt. Michael R. Gallagher's DFC citation read in part "Capt. Gallagher distinguished himself by participating in aerial flight as a C-130E pilot in the Republic of Vietnam." He flew 140 Vietnamese troops into village to help provide security for the Vietnamese villagers attempting to vote in regional elections.

Capt. Charles Jung received the DFC for participating in aerial flight as an F-4D pilot in the Republic of Vietnam. Capt. Jung attacked an extremely dangerous, hostile location, inflicting five casualties and destroying 13 military structures.

1st Lt. James E. Tims distinguished himself as a forward air controller in Southeast Asia. In spite of adverse weather conditions and antiaircraft fire, Lt. Tims accurately and efficiently directed fighter aircraft on hostile positions. This led to the discovery and destruction of a major hostile storage area.

RECEIVES AWARD — 1st Lt. James E. Tims receives the distinguished flying cross from Col. Malcolm E. Ryan, wing commander, during ceremonies on the Webb AFB flight line.

Close Watch Is Kept For Snitching Shoppers

By STEVE HULTMAN
The shoplifter looked around for sales clerks before casually picking up the stockings and deftly putting them in her purse. She then picked up a blouse and went to the check out counter and paid for the blouse. Confident she had succeeded, she left the store and started for her car. Suddenly the inconspicuous shopper who had stood near her when she picked up the stockings said, "Excuse me, but you have some of our merchandise in your purse."

This is a scene repeated day after day in and near Big Spring stores by security agents who mingle with the shoppers, looking more like Walter Mittys than security agents.

ALL TYPES
They are part of elaborate arrangements designed to catch shoplifters or prevent shoplifting, a practice that costs the stores thousands of dollars every year. Shoplifters, according to one security agent, are of all ages and include both men and women.

"There are different types of shoplifters," said the agent. "The teenagers may be out for kicks, or want something badly and don't have the money. Some have even stolen as part of a club initiation. They start at about the junior high school level, although younger children do sometimes steal."

One of the bigger problems among both young and old is the drug addict, who steals to support a habit that may cost as much as $100 per day.

TEACH OFFSPRING
"Adults who steal may be housewives who are short on money or who want to get something for their kids," the agent said. "Perhaps the worst are the parents who come in with their children to steal. One woman brought her children in and would finger an article she wanted and then leave. One of the children would pick it up and then go to the next article she had handled. When the purse of the little girl was full, she went outside to the car and emptied it while the next child took over."

"Another type to steal is the professional shoplifter. We had three women come in one day with full skirts on and pillow cases under the skirts. Sometimes they use inner tubes with hooks to hold the merchandise. We only get six or seven professionals a year."

Clever ruses are employed, such as putting things inside a suitcase or something else they are buying and take it out that way. The kids put their clothes on over clothing they were stealing, but the word got around that they were being caught, so that doesn't happen much now.

OTHER WAYS
Shoplifting is not the only way people steal from a store. Sometime they change price tags.

"The security of a store depends on more than just the security agent and hidden observation points," said one agent. "We set up training for the sales personnel so that they will know what to look for. We teach them to look inside of articles, to check for price tag changes and for the other methods the shoplifter tries to use."

"When we have a shoplifter spotted, we wait until they leave the store, and then go out and detain them, politely, until police arrive. Many people don't know that the store representative has the legal right to detain people that we have reason to suspect as shoplifters. And we stop all the ones we find and file charges."

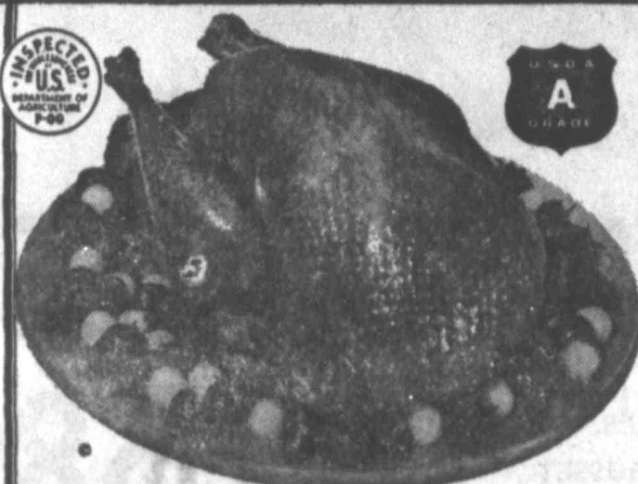

STEAL ANYTHING
Since the average shoplifter steals an article worth less than $1, the $30 fine is usually a pretty steep price to pay. Depending on the value of the stolen item, the fine or jail term could be considerably tougher.

"The shoplifters will try to steal anything. One man took a three-burner Coleman stove and two wrench sets out at one time. Another man took two large radios. But the most trouble comes from the clothing departments and the automotive department. The kids really go for some of the decorative automotive items."

"Ours is as much prevention of shoplifting as catching of the shoplifters. Perhaps we only catch about 10 per cent of the people that steal, but I have seen people come in, look around at the security set-up and walk out shaking their head."

Fort Madison was the largest rodeo to end over the weekend, with prize money totalling $13,454.

Cunningham August IP

Capt. Nevin Cunningham, 3561st Pilot Training Squadron, has been named that squadron's Instructor Pilot of the Month for August.

Lt. Col. Robert Reid, squadron commander, said "he possesses those qualities which exemplify the exceptional instructor pilot. His outstanding instructional ability, knowledge of systems, and operating procedures, and patience are reflected in his students' excellent progress."

"Capt. Cunningham's performance as O' Flight associate standardization evaluation officer has been especially noteworthy."

A native of Pomona, Calif., Capt. Cunningham entered the Air Force in April, 1968. Following Officer Training School at Lackland AFB, he was assigned to undergraduate pilot training in class 70-01 at Sheppard AFB. He then went to Perrin AFB to complete pilot instructor training, then was assigned to Webb as an instructor pilot.

Capt. Cunningham married the former Bambi Maloney. The couple has one child, Andrea Maria, eight months.

Horoscope Forecast

TOMORROW

—CARROL RIGHTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime has many problems and perplexities. You would be wise to stick to whatever course of action with consistency, otherwise you could have a considerable amount of disappointments. The evening is a lot better time and you can accomplish a great deal.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Stop fussing with others. You can now easily handle little details that are important. Take time to improve your health. You can get the okay of co-workers for a new project.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) If you make yourself more charming others will extend favors more readily. You can have the entertainment you seek, provided you do not spend too much money. Show that you have ability.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you are demanding instead of cooperative of those you could get into trouble. So, tone down. Keep busy at whatever you think is important in business. Then tonight all is fine.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 23) Start early with daily routines. They may have lost much of their appeal, but they must be done. Obtain important information you need. Study correspondence very carefully.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23) You need to save money so be careful not to make a real splurge that is good for your ego but not your pocketbook. Tonight you get a good idea on how to add to income. Follow through on it.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) There is a condition that does not please you, but don't get excited, since by evening all works out all right. Improve your appearance. The evening can then be a most happy one for you.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) While busy handling secretive matters that are somewhat of a bore, give some thought on how you would like the future to be. Greater success can be yours. More life with more happiness, too.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) Don't let demanding friends get you down in the morning since you find later they were only playing a joke on you. Personal goals seem a little impossible right now, but they really aren't.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Keep busy with personal aims since you would find business matters unprofitable just now. Not a good day for better credit arrangement. Tomorrow is fine, however. Show that you are wise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study a new plan well if you want it to be successful. You can relax and take it easy in the evening. Find the right persons to add to your list of friends. Stop trying to be a martyr.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can now find right systems for taking care of your responsibilities with more ease in the future. Make an effort to please more. Don't criticize so much. Be kind.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Daytime is not good for conversing with an associate but the evening is fine after important work is done. Be willing to reconcile with a longtime friend by taking the initial step.

Taxes Coming In, And Bars Are Staying Out

AUSTIN (AP)—Liquor by the drink has turned out to be a $1 million-a-month tax raiser with no significant increase in the number of bars—at least for now—and few law enforcement problems. That's the assessment of O. N. Humphreys Jr., Alcoholic Beverage Commission administrator, after the state's first three months of legalized mixed drinks. "So far we haven't had anything—only two administrative cases that I can recall. I think both of them were breach of the peace. One was a shooting. The other was a pretty bad fight," Humphreys said when asked about enforcement problems in the newly licensed bars. Texas voters approved legalizing public sale of mixed drinks last November, and the legislature wrote the details of how liquor by the drink would work in a bill that was passed April 21. Local option elections were held in several dozen cities, towns and counties May 18, and the first mixed beverage permit was issued shortly afterward. So far, 1,105 permits have been issued. About 700 private clubs renewed their licenses Sept. 1. Last year at this time, only private clubs could sell mixed drinks across the bar, and 1,730 about enforcement problems in 31, 1970.

OUTLETS NOT VARYING

The fact that the number of public bars and private clubs now licensed is about the same as the total of private clubs a year ago "would indicate that your outlets are not going to vary too much," Humphreys said. Legislators also repealed the nicker a drink private club tax and imposed a 10 per cent "gross receipts tax" on sales of mixed drinks. The tax raised $1,018,298 in July, the first full month in which the tax was collected. That means more than $10 million worth of drinks were sold. In July 1970, the nicker a drink private club tax yielded $358,263. The tax collections indicate most drinking still is done in private clubs, which collected $540,414 from the tax in July. Humphreys said the majority of mixed beverage permits were issued to former private clubs, with the bulk of the remainder going to restaurants and dinner clubs. Opponents of liquor by the drink contended it would increase drinking. "I don't think we have seen any appreciable decline or increase. Over-all, I don't think it has affected consumption. But we really haven't had it long enough to make any kind of comparison. It will take a year before we can tell whether it's increased," Humphreys said. One point used by liquor by the drink advocates was that mixed drinks would increase the state's tourist business. Frank Hildebrand, director of the Texas Tourist Development Agency, said his office has no evidence one way or another in this regard. But W. Price, director of the Texas Restaurant Association, which led lobbying efforts for the bill, said "the results have been tremendous." For restaurants, he said, "Tourist business increased 5 to 10 per cent, not only in liquor sales but in food sales." Price predicted liquor by the drink permits will total 2,000 by March or April. Humphreys said his commission is processing 8 to 10 permit applications per day. Humphreys' agents are devoting a good part of their time to investigating mixed beverage permit applicants. He says they are "bogged down" with applications, although the situation should ease when the 30 new agents authorized by the legislature are hired and put to work. Liquor board agents also are cracking down — although Humphreys avoids the phrase — on private clubs that openly sell drinks to anybody with the money to buy them. Agents made 47 cases of sales to non-members by clubs in Dallas, San Antonio and Houston the weekend of July 23.

DON'T CALL IT CRACKDOWN

"We don't call it a crackdown, but we are working these clubs and we are going to continue to work them," Humphreys said. "We plan to continue this type of operation. It will not be done in any systematic way. We'll do it a weekend, then maybe skip a weekend, and hit them during the week." "We want to let these people know that if they are going to run a private club, they must adhere to the private club law." He said there's no excuse for running an open bar under the guise of a private club since the new law allows clubs to issue $2 temporary membership cards to non-members who want to buy drinks. "It would be grossly unfair to a man who paid $2,000 for a first-year mixed beverage permit and operates within the law to allow a person across the street with a $500 permit fee private club to operate illegally," Humphreys said. "I don't think it's right." Humphreys says one thing his agency doesn't get into is drink prices — the law leaves that up to competition and what the traffic will bear. A spot check of several Austin bars and restaurants indicated quite a variation. A bar that charges a membership fee and features topless dancers charges $1.50 for all drinks, including tax. A seafood restaurant has a range of 90 cents to $2.50, plus tax, with a scotch and water and a bourbon old-fashioned costing $1 each. A popular Mexican restaurant charges $1 for a scotch and water and $1.25 for an old-fashioned, plus tax. Private clubs tend to be about the same, or perhaps a little cheaper. One well-known club charges 90 cents each for an old-fashioned and a Scotch and water. Another charges $1 for the same drinks. "As a general rule, in the push places, they are paying $1.25 to $1.50 for a drink and getting a full measure of alcohol ... In the Valley, there is a spread of 65 cents to $1.10 because of competition with Mexico," Price said. He said bars and restaurants make a net profit of 10 to 15 per cent on the price of a drink. The legislature and the control board made it clear they didn't want any of that money going to criminals, organized or otherwise. And they outlawed bar ownership by liquor store proprietors or hidden financial backers.

Brezhnev To Meet With President Tito

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The man whose name is attached to the "doctrine of limited sovereignty" is embarking on a diplomatic pilgrimage which worries influential Communists outside the Soviet orbit.

Leonid I. Brezhnev, head of the Soviet Communist party, will meet in Belgrade soon with President Tito. One aim may be to apply to the maverick Yugoslav Communists the sort of pressure implied by the "Brezhnev doctrine" which insists that no Communist party can endanger the interests of the whole Communist community.

The idea that this may be on Brezhnev's mind—since Moscow purports to command the whole Communist community—raises the possibility of another explosion on the horizon of international communism, perhaps not in the immediate future, but when Brezhnev is ready. However, Communists in Europe and Japan read it, they have been moved to warn the Kremlin rather directly that the day of total Soviet domination over other parties should be regarded as over for good.

East Europeans may get the feeling that the specter of Nikita S. Khrushchev, guffawing mightily at Brezhnev's problems and phobias, will be haunting the Belgrade meeting.

Brezhnev is, in fact, trying to undo what was set in motion when Khrushchev reversed years of Stalin enmity for Tito's League of Communists and conceded that specific national conditions could influence development of a "Socialist" society. The reconciliation never was total, but from then on "national communism" had a better chance of survival.

Lately Brezhnev has taken a prominent part in shaping a Soviet policy aimed in Europe at countering what the Kremlin seems to regard as a Chinese threat of penetration. This Kremlin concern makes Yugoslavia, along with Romania, a prime target of Moscow policy.

Moscow suspects China of trying to link Yugoslavia and Romania to Albania in an anti-Soviet entente allied with Peking. That would give the small countries better leverage for resisting Soviet dictates.

Burleson Would Include Pickups In Tax Removal

WASHINGTON — Cong. Omar Burleson, a member of the Ways and Means Committee of the U.S. House of Representatives, commented briefly today on his effort to include pickup trucks used as passenger vehicles in any legislation to remove the 7 per cent excise tax on automobiles.

As the Ways and Means Committee began its hearings on the President's economic proposal, with Secretary John Connally testifying, Cong. Burleson made inquiry about removing the tax on pickup trucks. Burleson pointed out that many farm and ranch families do not own an automobile but use their pickups for both pleasure and business. "It becomes the family car in a great many instances," he said, and indicated there is often little distinction between the use of automobiles and pickups. He continued, "It seems to me that it is discriminatory unless this type of vehicle is included."

The secretary of the treasury, responding to Cong. Burleson, said he would arrange to have some estimate of the amount of money involved, but cautioned that some limitation would necessarily be required. He agreed he would have a difficult time distinguishing between the two, as Burleson presented the case.

Cong. Burleson indicated he would continue efforts to remove the excise tax from pickups as the committee continues its deliberations.

GOP, Demos Fueling Up

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Warming up for a campaign year, Republican governors have accused Democrats of fostering uneasily partisanship at the 63rd National Governors Conference.

For their part, the Republicans unanimously endorsed President Nixon's new economic policy, and prepared to defend it today against a proposed Democratic resolution that complains of inequity and advocates restraints on profits along with wages and prices.

"We simply deplore the Democratic governors seek to use this bipartisan conference as a forum for what we believe is a narrow and partisan approach," said Gov. John A. Love of Colorado.

Love said partisanship was fueled, too, by the featured role of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine at Tuesday night's formal state dinner.

Muskie told the governors the killing of more than 40 convicts and hostages in a four-day uprising at New York's Attica prison "is more stark proof that something is terribly wrong in America."

Stars Booked For NTS Homecoming

DENTON — Al Hirt, the famous jazzman from New Orleans, will be sharing the spotlight at North Texas State University's 1971 Homecoming with a couple of well-known area beauties.

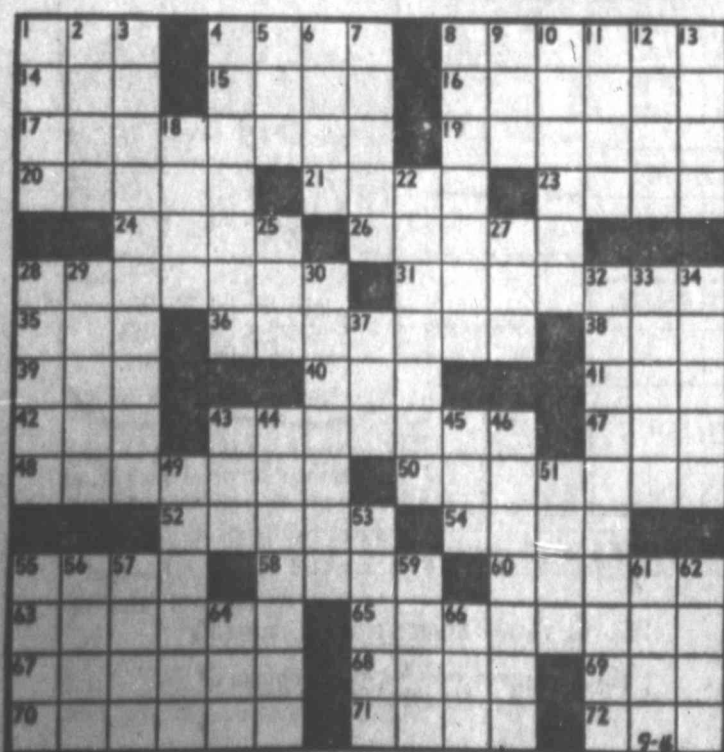

Hirt will be the featured entertainer at the 7:30 p.m. Homecoming Stage Show following the NTSU-Drake University afternoon football game at Fouts Field Oct. 30.

Sharing the spotlight will be the reigning Miss Texas Janice Bain, San Antonio, and the 1971 Miss America Phyllis George of Denton, both former NTSU students.

About VD Cases

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for putting that letter in your column saying doctors can treat kids for V. D. without telling the kids' parents. I never knew that. I am a 16-year-old boy who has been worried about having V. D. for the past four months but I was afraid to do anything about it.

After I read your article in the paper I called our family doctor and asked him if he would see me without telling my folks. He said to come right away and it would be confidential. I went, I did have V.D. (two types). I learned that a wonderful doctor treated me for it. He didn't charge me anything, but I am saving my money and he is in for it again outside of marriage. The girls who appear least likely to infect you are just the ones who can. God bless you.

DEAR ABBY: Three cheers for your answer to "PARENTS OF A MINOR" who were angry with the doctor who had treated their 15-year-old son for V. D. without telling them. I agree, they ought to kiss that doctor — not reproach him.

I am not a bad girl, I'm just human, and last summer I thought I was infected with V.D. Believe me, it was hard enough to confess my fears to a doctor, and had it been necessary to tell my parents I wouldn't have gone to a doctor at all.

I thank God every day for having found I was clean, and I add a special thanks to my doctor.

DEAR ABBY: I was pleased to see that letter in your column concerning minors and V. D. because I work in a clinic where V. D. is treated and I know how serious the problem has become. It takes a lot of guts for a kid to come in for treatment. If minors were told their parents would be notified, at least nine of 10 kids would walk out untreated. Then what? Unchecked, they might end up sterile, suffer blindness, a crippling disease or a serious nervous disorder.

And what about the number of people they might infect? Many girls never even know they have it until they are hospitalized with a serious pelvic infection.

DEAR R. N.: Many would agree with you. But read what another "R. N." has to say on the subject:

What's your problem?? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

'Like Heart Pain'

Your Good Health

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband had an attack about a month ago that came on like a heart attack, with severe chest pains. He had EKGs and nothing showed. Then upper and lower G.I. and gall bladder X-rays. Our doctor says it is "reflex esophagitis," but he still has chest pains when he exerts himself or does a lot of bending. Please explain treatment. He is 61. — Mrs. I.N.

Reflux (not reflex) esophagitis is irritation at the lower end of the esophagus or gullet — which is the passage-way that carries food through the diaphragm and into the stomach. The specific cause is acid from the stomach contents splashing up into the esophagus. The stomach is designed to tolerate these digestive acids. They belong there. But the esophagus, of a different type of tissue, is irritated if these juices get up there.

Hence the spasm, cramps and pain. This pain can very closely resemble a heart attack, hiatal hernia or gall bladder attack. That's why your husband had that variety of tests.

Incompetence of the sphincter muscle at the lower end of the esophagus can cause this reflux trouble. The sphincter is designed to prevent any of the stomach contents from rising into the esophagus.

The same trouble can arise from a hiatal hernia, which is an enlargement of the space through which the esophagus passes into the stomach. Bending and lying flat can exaggerate the reflux.

Not knowing more details of the case, I cannot elaborate on treatment, except to give several simple measures which can help in any event. Raising the head of the bed two or three inches can lessen discomfort at night. The use of antacid medication after meals and at bedtime can help. And if your husband is overweight, weight reduction is important since unseen fat in the abdomen crowds the organs, and puts pressure on stomach and sphincter muscle.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband says I do not eat enough. He says no human can survive on what I eat. We argue about it constantly.

I like to eat lightly and steadily and your figure. What other proof do you need that you're eating enough? (Sounds like a nicely balanced diet, too.) So what's your husband complaining about?

cheese, fresh cooked vegetables, maybe a steak or other small serving of meat.

Some days I eat nothing but cheese, an apple, some crackers or nuts, occasionally a chocolate bar or an ice cream float. I average two glasses of milk a day, or maybe fruit juice.

I am 5 feet 6, 43 years old, have weighed 130 pounds since high school, measure 35-29-35. I generally sleep five or six hours a night, work 8 to 10 hours a day as a dressmaker, keep our eightroom house, do my own shopping, cooking and laundry.

I feel wonderful. When I get tired muscles from sitting at the sewing machine, I get up and jump rope five or 10 minutes. We bowl, and I babysit with my grandchildren sometimes. We have one girl left at home, age 12, and she eats about the way I do. She feels fine, too. — H.N.

Help On Tax Returns

The Internal Revenue Service seems unduly alarmed about taxpayers getting commercial help in preparing their returns. An IRS task force is studying what, if anything, should be done.

There is nothing wrong with the individual citizen hiring someone else to do the returns. It is none of the government's business who does the work as long as the return is accurate.

Complicated tax forms and obscure regulations often drive the citizen to seek help. He should receive every tax break to which he is entitled and pay no more than he owes. Millionaires, using expert help, use loopholes and shelters to reduce taxes on their huge incomes. Some wealthy people pay no taxes at all, thanks to their hired experts and their investment methods.

There are two justified areas of concern about the commercial tax firms. One is the advertising of some, which the Federal Trade Commission has alleged is deceptive. Taxpayers should not be misled by advertising. The other is the practice of selling names and confidential information without the consent of the taxpayer. This practice should be halted.

The mere fact that more than half the nation's taxpayers hired help to prepare returns should tell the IRS something. That something is that paying federal taxes is more laborious and complex than it should be.

Deep Tragedy

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is beyond dispute in one observation about the Attica prison riot in New York when he referred to the "tragedy of the whole Attica affair." At this point he declined further comment, and that might be a pattern worthy of emulation in several quarters.

There have been extreme claims such as regarding the rebelling convicts, who seized (and killed nine) some 30 hostages, as harmless individuals petitioning for their rights; or at the other extreme, of circulating stories that the rebels had chopped up and even emasculated guards (the medical examiner's initial report showed all the victims had been fatally shot and that the convicts had no guns).

It should be obvious that you can't have convicts running the prison, or that you can grant amnesty to those who precipitated action resulting in multiple deaths. Nor can one condone demeaning conditions, if they existed, or scare stories to justify excessive reaction.

Attica is a deep tragedy and it will bear honest and penetrating analysis. It has no place as a political issue.

Child's Psychology

Around The Rim

Jean Fannin

If you are the shy, retiring type don't ever take your only nephew shopping.

PARTICULARLY is this so if the child happens not only to be your only nephew but is also his parent's only bundle of joy and both sets of grandparents' only grandchild. A situation like that just breeds problems.

Not being unfamiliar with the situation (since I am the aunt) I threw caution to the winds, bundled up the 2-year-old love-of-my-life and ventured forth into the wonders of a shopping center.

HAVING DECIDED beforehand that he needed tennis shoes, we ambled toward the shoe department of a store and proceeded to stun the entire assembly of clerks.

"Tennis shoes! Tennis shoes!" he shouted at the top of his lungs. And believe me, there is nothing louder than a 2-year-old shouting.

ONCE IN the shoe department I calmly faced another crisis. How does one fit shoes on a child? "How does that feel?" I asked him once the shoes were on and laced up. "Tennis shoes!" he beamed back at me. "I think we're supposed to stand him up and press down on the top to see where his toes come," the clerk, obviously new to the job, said uncertainly. Which does one do when one finds where his toes come to in the shoe? Rather bravely I surrendered. "We'll take them."

FROM THERE we ventured into a dime store, where he stopped three persons to show them his tennis shoes.

He really is a very good child though. We wandered down an aisle with nothing but toys on either side, and not once did he ask for any of them. He had a far more subtle technique.

It's easy to say no when a child asks for something. But what does one do when he merely picks up a toy and gazes longingly at it before putting it back down. Believe me, this kid has got a racket going and he's got all the angles covered. I'm not sure I can afford him!

WITH TWO aunts, two uncles and two sets of grandparents he's going to be a millionaire before he's 12.

Muskie's Honesty

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — It is another sign of the silly times that Sen. Ed Muskie's left wing advisers are still weeping and gnashing their teeth over Muskie's utterly realistic statement that it is too early for a black vice president.

In a burst of honesty and candor that set a new record for an American politician, Muskie told 35 Negro leaders in Los Angeles that although there are blacks who are eminently qualified, he didn't think he could be elected President with a Negro running mate.

WHAT HAD not been reported at this writing was that several weeks ago some Muskie staffers had urged him to announce he would welcome a black running mate. This, Muskie was told, would win him urgently needed points among Democratic leftists, who have been generally cool to the Maine man's candidacy.

"The hell with that," Muskie replied. "You can't fool the blacks. They're realists. They know the time is not yet ripe for a black vice president. I'd lose whatever respect I have among Negroes if I said something as ridiculous as that."

THUS, WHEN he was asked the question by one of the black leaders from the Watts ghetto, Muskie rejected the path of expediency. He reminded his audience, in effect, that politics is the art of the possible and that "what we needed to do was to elect a ticket that would be committed to dealing effectively with questions of racial inequality."

This was a man of integrity speaking, because it is possible Muskie's forthright stand could cost him the nomination.

BUT THERE also is the possibility that doing the right thing can be politically profitable. One of the black leaders who attended the meeting with Muskie, City Councilman Thomas Bradley, told reporters, "I appreciated the honesty and candor of Sen. Muskie. I believe that most people would."

Most people should. Muskie has shown himself as being above the usual shilly-shallying claptrap of the political game. There were, as Muskie pointed out, only three answers to the question — "yes, no, or maybe." He chose not only the honest answer but the down-to-earth one.

WE HAVE become, alas, a pretty foolish country, but I do not believe Muskie's rivals will make a political buck with their sanctimonious assertions that of course they would not rule a Negro off the ticket. By now, the black electorate has learned to be leery of candidates who promise the impossible.

A New Approach

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's announcement that the wage-price freeze will be over at the end of the 90-day period was one of the best ways to stimulate business at the present moment that could have been devised.

GRANTED That there will have to be some "voluntary" restraints sought — but these are likely to be in selective industries where the total effect would be constructive — there will, however, be an end to the confusion which has been current. Businesses haven't really known what prices might be adjusted upward and what pay increases under existing plans were permissible. The "questions and answers" tell a story of bureaucratic complexity that is reminiscent of wartime but also indicate why some companies have been puzzled as to what they can really do and when they can make their normal plans, so many of which involve an adjustment of prices.

THE AMERICAN economic system is the biggest in the world. It cannot suddenly be halted as to wage or price changes without slowing down the sales and production mechanism. At least now businesses can begin to take orders for products to be sold perhaps at slight increases in price after the end of the 90-day period.

PRESIDENT NIXON sweeps all this aside and asks instead that a council be set up to deal with the wage and price problem on a basis of voluntary cooperation with labor and business. This means undoubtedly that, as unions enter negotiations, they will be asked, after they present their demands, to sit down with management and perhaps mediators and discuss whether the raises can be accepted by management and by the purchasing public. The government will have a board to give advice, and there is no intention to impose governmental restraints by law.

ON THE WHOLE the idea of a compromise is a good one because it may open the eyes of both labor and management to the problems that arise when labor-union contracts are about to expire. Certainly it will afford an opportunity for an inside examination of the effects of higher wage costs on a company's earnings and profits, its ability to compete and, indeed, to maintain a means of supplying jobs.

LABOR LEADERS often know only too well the dilemma facing employers and the impracticality of forcing wage increases higher than an industry can bear. But the union members aren't aware of the facts, and the leaders, like politicians in public office, are fearful of losing their posts if they do not continue to push always for extreme demands. Government intervention and an intimate study of the controversy, with a possible distribution of some of the data to the membership in a generalized way, could alter the attitude of the rank and file.

MAN OF THE businesses affected by the wage-price freeze, however, are not so much concerned now about labor problems but about the opportunity to make plans for expansion. This relates primarily to the purchase of machinery and equipment. Investment credits for such a purpose are a part of the President's project, but planning is held up until it is definitely known that these tax advantages will be made available by Congress.

ON THE WHOLE, despite the many delicate problems that arise between management and labor, there is a probability that the presence of a government board, with a set of "advisers" from both sides, will do a great deal toward the prevention of strikes. The government needs a mediation influence — one that the rank and file of the workers can trust.

'Rule Of Thumb' Finances

John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — The most autocratic and unrealistic rules under which people conduct their financial affairs are the rules of thumb. Like folk lore medicine, such rules offer some help but often fail the big test.

While the origins of some rules of thumb may be self-serving, many people adhere to them as they would hold to a life preserver. As they explain, "They may be poor guides, but what else do we have?"

A banker was asked for a rule of thumb on how much mortgage debt a working person could assume. Quickly he replied: "Two and one-half times his income."

Net or gross? he was asked. He grinned. "I guess what you're getting at is that we used to use the same formula before people had big deductions for taxes, Social Security, insurance and so on," he said.

"How much life insurance should a person own?" an insurance agent was asked. "How can I say without knowing the individual," he replied. "But as a rule of thumb he should have a minimum of four to five times his annual income."

The fallacy of such a generalization, as the insurance man knew, is that a young family may need more than that and a retired couple less, and that a family with few debts may need less than the family with a mortgage on the house.

"How much should a family have in savings?" a banker was asked. "Twenty-five per cent of net income," he answered.

"Impossible," the questioner replied. "Any family capable of saving that much each week or month or year is either performing a miracle or unnecessarily depriving itself of the finer things of life."

"You must remember," he explained, "that I define savings not simply as an account at the bank but additions to the cash value of insurance, increases in home equity and the build-up of pension values."

Another rule of thumb for savings: You should have savings equivalent to six months of income. Such an amount is needed, it is said, in order to assure yourself of a minimum standard of living in case of job loss or other emergencies.

This rule has been expounded for decades, during which job security has become stronger, unemployment compensation has been developed, Social Security has spread to almost all workers and medical insurance plans have flourished.

But undeterred, the rule remains the same.

The Versatile Plywood

Hal Boyle

By JOY STILLEY
(Substituting for Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — The environmentalists may think they're on to something new, but my husband was way ahead of them. He's been recycling the same piece of wood for nearly 20 years.

This slab of 3-ply that has led such a long and active life was originally purchased to make a train board for our son. It was painted green to represent grass along the right-of-way and the tracks were permanently installed on it. When not occupying the choicest area of the living room it could be put out of the way against a wall.

But as it must to all, age crept up on our youthful engineer and streamlined girls began to interest him more than streamlined trains. That was the Christmas the train board metamorphized into the back panel of a fake fireplace my husband built and covered with brick-patterned crepe paper.

It served thus for two years, but by that time our young daughter had acquired a large family of small dolls that were in need of shelter. So the fireplace was dismantled and the slab of wood was sawed up to be used in part for a dollhouse.

The remaining pieces did not go to waste. Some were incorporated into hanging bookshelves for our daughter's room, the old green paint covered with pink to match her walls. As she grew older she acquired encyclopedias, records and schoolbooks, all of which were stashed away on these shelves. Eventually this weighty collection proved too much and one night the whole thing came crashing down, bringing significant chunks of walls with it.

The family carpenter then decided to try a different approach, so this time he used the faithful boards to create a free-standing bookcase. But the room, its wall having been restored to smoothness, had been repainted turquoise, so the bookcase too had to have a couple of new coats in that color.

Meanwhile, back at the garage, a number of odds and ends from the old train board were not being utilized, a situation abhorrent to my thrifty mate. He thereupon decided to build from them a shadow box to set off a city scene done with fluorescent paint.

He is so intrigued by this latest Rube Goldberg project that this particular part of the old train board may never be recycled. But I'm not betting on it.

The Percentages

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — There was good news out of Washington last week. According to Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, President Nixon's war on crime has been successful, and the results of the Administration's monumental efforts have been so great that "fear is being swept from the streets of some — though not all — American cities."

He was supported in his optimism by Jerris Leonard of the Justice Department's law enforcement assistance administration, who said the only ones who weren't happy with the decrease in the 1970 crime statistics were the President's critics.

THE REASON for the euphoria in the Justice Department is that FBI statistics for 1970 indicated that the rate of increase of crime had gone down from 12 per cent in 1969 to 11.3 per cent in 1970.

This sounded terrific until I read that the same statistics revealed that 566,700 more crimes had been committed in 1970 than in 1969.

Admittedly confused, I sought out my friend Prof. Heinrich Applebaum, the great Justice Department statistician, whose definitive book "Do Decimal Points Have a Sex Life?" is used in every math class in the country.

"PROF. APPLEBAUM, the Justice Department reports that the rate of crime has gone down in the country under President Nixon. Yet the same report says there have been a million more crimes in the past two years. How can that be?"

"It's quite simple," said Applebaum. "Percentage-wise crime has gone down, crimewise it's gone up."

"But where does that leave the average person?"

"IT DEPENDS whether you're a Republican or a Democrat. If you're a Republican you have nothing to fear walking the streets of our American cities. But if I were a Democrat, I'd stay home."

"Are you saying that the Republicans are trying to take the crime issue out of the 1972 campaign?"

"They have," Applebaum said. "The last year the Democrats were in office crime had gone up 13.8 per cent. When the Republicans took over in 1969, it only went up 12 per cent and last year 11.3 per cent. The Democrats can't argue with that."

"BUT STILL more people were robbed, mugged, murdered and raped in 1969 and 1970 than they were in the previous four years."

"We're not talking about people," Applebaum said, irritated. "We're talking about percentages. You can't think about the people who were molested in 1969 and 1970. You have to think about the ones who weren't. There are probably over 100,000 citizens who weren't mugged this year, thanks to President Nixon's leadership."

"It's hard to think in those terms," I admitted.

"THAT'S BECAUSE you're not running for election next year. You must understand the reporting of crime is a very serious business, and can cause great conflict. J. Edgar Hoover, in order to prove he is doing his job, has to show that crime is going up in the country. At the same time the Administration has to prove that crime is going down."

"The attorney general has solved the problem by reporting the percentages, which are lower, and Hoover by reporting the crimes, which are higher. That's the beauty of statistics. It makes everyone feel better."

Rennin Sub

JERUSALEM (AP) — Researchers at Israel's Weizmann Institute have developed a substitute for rennin, used as an agent for curdling cheese. The new agent is an extract from the alimentary canal of slaughtered chickens. Rennin used in cheese processing is extracted from the stomachs of suckling calves.

My Answer

Billy Graham

The church we have been attending favors modern theology. We are concerned as our children don't know what it means to be saved. Should we join another church?

If your children don't know what it means to be "saved," don't put all the blame on the church you attend. You, as a parent have a responsibility to teach your children the things of God. The Bible says to parents: "And thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children, and shalt talk of them (God's precepts) when thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up." Deuteronomy 6:7.

No church, regardless of how 'orthodox,' can do the whole job of teaching your children the things of God. The trouble with the average parents is that faith is a silent subject. Children unconsciously get the idea, by our silence, that it is not important. Their ears and eyes are open, and ready to receive impressions which create faith in their hearts. But, too often they hear everything except the things of God.

Let God lead you about the church you are to attend, but don't shirk your responsibility as a parent to live Christ, talk Christ, and exalt Christ in your life.

A Devotion For Today...

In every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God. —Philippians 4:6
PRAYER: Heavenly Father, teach us the lesson of being grateful to Thee, for Thou art the giver of every good and perfect gift; through Christ, our Lord, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

Mrs. Goff Treasures Live-In Housekeeper

By BARBARA LORD

When Mrs. Rex Goff comes home each evening from her full-time job at the Chamber of Commerce, she likes to have time for the one phase of housekeeping she enjoys most—cooking.

A live-in housekeeper takes care of most of the other home duties of cleaning and ironing, but the kitchen is Mrs. Goff's kingdom and she insists on doing all of the cooking herself.

Goff is a company pilot for Casch Brothers Construction Co. and travels a lot around southern Texas. Occasionally, if it's a weekend trip, and there's an extra seat in his seven-seater Navajo, Mrs. Goff accompanies him for a chance to "get away for awhile."

Although cooking is her greatest interest in the homemaking regime, Mrs. Goff doesn't imply that she comes home and prepares a gourmet delight every night. The family eats basic foods that have been spiced and "doctored up" to conform to their particular tastes. The children, Daniel, 2½, and Jonathan, 16 months, will probably grow up with the same spiciness tastes their parents acquired during their stay in Laredo.

Mrs. Goff learned to cook when she was quite young. She recalls that as a child she hated to clean house and would always "fight to do the cooking instead." She lived in Laredo most of her life, and the majority of her culinary talents were learned from her mother and a live-in Mexican housekeeper employed by her family. Many of the dishes she prepares today evidence the Mexican influence. Her family enjoys spicy, somewhat hot foods, and several of the recipes shown here are of Mexican origin.

"It's not really hard to come home and fix a meal if I don't have to worry about straightening the house, doing laundry and a lot of other chores," Mrs. Goff said. "I can fix dinner and still have time to relax with Rex and the kids."

"I love kids and I love to cook," she explained. "That's why I keep a housekeeper. If I had to come home to a lot of things that are pure drudgery, even the things I like to do would become chores."

Mrs. Goff said meat and potatoes are the mainstays of the family meals, but she has a wide variety of garnishments and accessory foods. She likes dishes that can be prepared in a hurry and casseroles that can be put in the oven for her family to "help themselves to" on nights when she has a meeting to attend.

The casual attitude toward simple but tasty cooking is carried over to family entertaining. They enjoy barbecuing and "after-the-game" socials. A party room in back of their home provides the perfect place for informal get-togethers. In the evenings, Mrs. Goff likes to crochet, sew or plan decorating changes for their home. She collects anything she considers "rustic" looking and is attracted to any items that look old. Goff is an avid hunter, and this, with flying, make up his two favorite pastimes.

The Goffs have lived in Big Spring about three years. He is former manager of Howard County Airport. Mrs. Goff is vice president of Mu Zeta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, and a member of the 1970 Hyperion Club. She also speaks fluent Spanish. The family attends St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

Cumin Seed Began In Pre-Biblical Times

The history of cumin seed began in pre-Biblical times; it has been used as a medicine and a flavoring for thousands of years. Babylonian and Assyrian doctors used it in drugs. Greeks and Romans found it to be a good food preservative.

The herb, from which cumin seed comes, is native to the Nile Valley; it has been cultivated in several Mediterranean and western Asian countries for many centuries. Today most of the cumin in the United States is imported from Iran.

Cumin is the small, yellowish-brown, dried fruit of an annual plant of the parsley family. Available both whole and ground, it must be used sparingly so that its flavor does not dominate. It has a strong, warm, earthy and slightly bitter flavor that combines with other spices very well. It is one of the important ingredients in curry powder and chili powder; it therefore provides a special character for chili. Cumin is used commercially in the preparation of meat, pickles, cheese and sausage. It is a very popular seasoning in dishes of Chinese, Spanish or Mexican origin.

Cumin seed may be substituted for caraway seed in and on rye bread. It goes well in cheese dips — ½ teaspoon cumin seed to one-quarter pound of cheese is a good proportion. It can also be used with cream cheese or cottage cheese in the same proportions. Also add it to guacamole. Try adding a few seeds to French dressing and other salad dressings for new interest.

Cumin seed improves the flavor of beef stew; use ½ teaspoon to 4 pounds of meat. Add ¼ to ½ teaspoon cumin seed to marinades and barbecue sauces.

Either ground cumin or the seed may go into split pea soup, mulligatawny and other hearty soups. The Orientals favor it with

Community Concert Membership Campaign Entering Final Two Days

The Big Spring Community Concert Association's 1971-72 membership drive is in full swing, with headquarters' spokesmen reporting good response during the first two days of the campaign. This year, the sign-up effort has been telescoped into five days, with the last day to purchase memberships being Saturday.

The headquarters is located at Hemphill-Wells Company, 214 Main. Robert Hickson, store manager and association president, said that as an added convenience to concert-goers, memberships may be charged to the buyer's Hemphill-Wells account.

"We must stress, however, that Saturday is absolutely the last day of the campaign, and no tickets will be sold after that day," explained Hickson.

Season tickets for adults are $10, and student tickets are $4. This enables the buyer to attend all three of the programs scheduled for the series. New, this year, is a reciprocal agreement with the Midland Community Concert Association whereby Big Spring members may attend some of the Midland programs, and they in turn, can attend those here. The arrangement depends, however, on how many seats are available for the shows, and this will not be known until five minutes prior to curtain time. Ticket holders in their own cities will be seated first.

Mrs. Wayne Kuykendall, membership chairman, noted that the memberships may be purchased by calling the headquarters, 267-8283.

Variety is the key word for the coming season. The opener on Oct. 9 will be the "Little Angels of Korea," 32 elaborately costumed children in a presentation of the traditional and legendary folk dancing and music of Korea. The second program, Oct. 30, will be the popular musical, "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," based on the comic strip, "Peanuts."

MOVIE THEME TEAM — Ferrante and Teicher, who changed their concert programs from classical to popular music, feature contemporary film themes in their recording repertoire. Their well-known rendition of "Exodus" established them as "The Movie Theme Team."

The final program, Feb. 10, will feature the duo pianists, Ferrante and Teicher, who are returning by popular demand.

How does a two-piano team come about? Both musicians must fit together like fingers in a glove. Two-piano artistry is not a matter of two performers playing the same notes together. There is seldom any duplication. Each must complement the other, and they must support and expand each other's ideas. Ferrante and Teicher work in just this way to create their amazing music.

Both Ferrante and Teicher were prodigies who started picking out tunes on the piano when each was about two years old. After seeking the advice and guidance of music council in their communities to verify that their children did indeed possess extraordinary musical talent, the Ferrantes of New York City and the Teichers of Wilkes Barre, Pa., decided to enroll Arthur and Louis in Julliard School. Thus, Ferrante and Teicher found themselves, each only six years old, at the school's Preparatory Center.

Here, they worked together with the same teachers, studying theory, composition, orchestration, and conducting. Another part of the curriculum was playing ensemble music with another pianist, and the two boys, matched so well in age and talent, began to play duets at one piano. A friendship grew and they determined that they should become professional two-piano team.

Many so-called experts predicted failure — "Two pianos? It'll never sell." But "The Apartment" sold 750,000 records in the first three weeks alone. As a result, Ferrante & Teicher changed their concert programs from classical to popular music, and today, nearly every jukebox in the nation features popular singles by F&T. They have recorded 51 albums, sold over 15 million records, and have won 10 gold record awards — seven gold albums and three million-seller singles.

Of course, the true measure of their popularity can best be gauged by their box-office success all over the country and the phenomenal list of recording hits which followed "The Apartment." Selections such as "The Knack," "Cleopatra," "A Man and A Woman," and "The Bible," as well as their famous rendition of "Exodus," which followed soon after their first hit, established them as The Movie Theme Team.

The best of contemporary film themes continues to constitute a segment of their recording repertoire. Their interpretation of these themes is always eagerly awaited by their many fans and welcome programming material on numerous radio stations across the country. Their annual concert tour continues to be a sellout attraction in over 100 locations where their appearance is a highlight of the concert season.

Today, when F&T play the classics, it is solely for their own pleasure in their own studios and at home. Once they were serious classical musicians. Now they perform a sophisticated concert of the popular music of today, but they have not sacrificed musical artistry for showmanship.

Sleep, Work Are Definitely Related

The less you sleep at night, the more efficient and hard working you're apt to be. Sounds strange, but that's what psychiatrists at Boston State Hospital found out in a study of 400 men aged 20 to 40.

Will Provide Scholarships

Continuing a practice of the past several years, Alpha Beta Omicron Chapter of Coahoma, Beta Sigma Phi, will begin raising funds to provide another scholarship to Howard County Junior College for a graduate of Coahoma High School.

The plans were announced during a meeting Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Jack Parrott, 605 George, where Mrs. Roe Fulgham presided. She reminded members of the area meeting in Abilene Oct. 8-10, requesting that those planning to attend make reservations by contacting her.

The chapter will assist with the multiple sclerosis fund drive in Big Spring and will attend a salad supper Nov. 4 which will be hosted by the Beta Sigma Phi City Council. A coffee for chapter rushers will be held in the Parrott home at 9:30 a.m., Sept. 23.

The program was given by Mrs. Jerry Myrick who spoke on "The Body Beautiful," concluding with the observation that the prime ingredients for a beautiful body are correct diet, plenty of exercise and a proper amount of rest.

Those attending, including two guests, Mrs. Cliff Riley and Mrs. Fred Burgess, were served refreshments from a table laid with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow roses. The next regular meeting will be Sept. 18 in the Fulgham home.

Provides Funds As Memorial

A memorial contribution in memory of Mrs. Blanche Hall was made Tuesday evening by the Past Matrons Club, Big Spring Chapter 67, Order of Eastern Star.

The group met at the Downtown Tea Room with Mrs. E. C. Boatler, Mrs. R. E. Stringfellow and Mrs. Paul Carroll as hostesses.

Mrs. O. C. Mason presided and introduced two guests, Mrs. Minnie Woody of El Paso and Mrs. Wayne Parrish.

Named to the visitation committee for October were Mrs. Albert Davis, Mrs. Isla Davis and Mrs. Raymond Dunagan. The hostesses for next month will be Mrs. Ara Cunningham, Mrs. Isla Davis and Mrs. Charles Graham.

The U-shaped table arrangement featured arrangements of fall-colored flowers. The invocation was by Mrs. Rogers Hefley.

Men's Garden Club Plans Special Week

The first announcement of the upcoming fall flower show was made at a Tuesday evening meeting of the Men's Garden Club at the U.S. Experiment Station.

Johnny Johansen, president, said the show will be held Oct. 23, a Saturday, in the lobby of the First National Bank. The show will be sponsored by the Big Spring Garden Club Council, with more details to be announced soon.

The men's club will join others over the nation in observing Men's Garden Club Week Sept. 20 through 26. It is the 39th anniversary of the founding of the organization. Bill Sneed announced that posters are being made to advertise the occasion.

Dr. Paul Koshi provided the program and ran tests of soil samples brought from the yards of members.

The next meeting will be Oct. 12 with the place to be announced.

A LOVELIER YOU Anti-Pollution Plans For Bad Air Effects

By MARY SUE MILLER

Dirt-laden air seems to have an extra-harsh effect on oily skin. The surface acts to trap fallout. Why even in pristine surroundings, excessive oil induces enlarged pores and blackheads.

While clean air in crowded areas is a sometime thing, anti-pollution skin care is here. The scheme is great for teens with oily troubles. For the 20's group, too. Here's the method:

As you might guess, deep-drench cleansing is the first step. It's updated via medicated quick foam for dissolving make-up and grime, instantly. You simply work up a lather with your wet hands, slide over skin and rinse; let air dry or pat dry on a freshly laundered towel.

Natural Gas Supplies Are Running Low

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation is literally running out of gas—natural gas, that is—but help may come from four promising processes for converting coal into "pipeline-quality gas," two researchers report.

M. P. Cocran of the Interior Department's Office of Coal Research and Frank C. Schora Jr. of the Institute of Gas Technology (IGT), Chicago, announced their findings Tuesday at a news conference.

They said that at the present rate of consumption of natural gas—and with a scarcity of anticipated new discoveries—the nation would run out of gas entirely by 1985.

But they told newsmen at the American Chemical Society that commercial plants based on at least one of the four coal-conversion processes should be in operation by 1980 at the latest.

URGENT NEED
Three of the four experimental processes are jointly funded by the American Gas Association and the Department of Interior, they said. And the anticipated public need for gas is so urgent, they said, that "plans are afoot by AGA and the Department of Interior to accelerate these programs and try to triple the funding for fiscal year 1973."

Present funding is $120 million over a four-year period including $40 million from industry and $80 million from the government.

Shora said the "IGT Hygas" process developed by his institute has reached the pilot stage "with the completion of a 1.5 million cubic feet per day facility now undergoing start-up operation."

COAL PLANS
And he said another among the three ABA-government backed projects—this one involving bituminous coal—is expected to reach the pilot plant stage sometime next year. Pilot plants each involve $10 million outlays, he said.

The Bureau of Mines is totally funding a fourth project, centered at the Bureau's Bruceton Laboratories, Pittsburgh.

Shora said the natural gas supply situation "will become increasingly" worse because:

—About 21 trillion cubic feet of natural gas—most of it pipelined from Louisiana and Texas—is being used yearly by the 48 contiguous states of the country. And——The rate of consumption is going up by between 1 trillion and 1.5 trillion each year.

—Known reserves—plus a relatively sparse 12 trillion cubic feet in economically recoverable "anticipated new discoveries"—would last only another 13 years at present and immediate future rates of consumption.

HOSTAGE BURIED — Some 200 New York Corrections officers stand at attention and salute as the body of William E. Quinn, 28, is carried from Attica's St. Vincent dePaul Church in Attica Wednesday morning after funeral services. Quinn, a Correction officer at Attica State Prison, was one of nine killed in the prison riot.

'I Am Sickened' Writes British Journalist In U.S.

LONDON (AP) — "I am sickened by America," wrote a British newsman who visited New York's Attica prison after the riot that took the lives of 41 convicts and prison employees.

Newspapers throughout Europe published lengthy accounts of the bloody end to the jail mutiny under headlines reflecting horror and dismay.

Several commentators blamed the rebellion on racial pressures inside the prison. One said the penal system "drove the inmates to their desperate uprising."

Another accused President Nixon and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of murder. And another called it the consequences of taking a soft line with criminals.

Ivor Key of the London Daily Express, the newsman who said America sickens him, reported from New York: "For the first time in four years of living and working here I am shocked to the point where I seriously question whether this is the country I want to raise my children in."

"True," Key added, "a nation's pulse cannot be taken from the thousand hardened criminals who took over the jail."

"But my fear is that the courts and politicians, mainly for their own ends, have become so liberal to the criminal that we are on the verge of wholesale anarchy."

Key said he did not believe the Attica incident could happen anywhere else in the world.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said in a dispatch from New York that the U.S. public "received the news of the brutal massacre ... with wrath and indignation."

It said the "unbearable conditions, brutality and terror of the prison authorities" had brought the prison inmates to despair and they took the situation into their own hands.

"But the authorities of the State of New York, with Gov. Nelson Rockefeller at the head, replied to these just demands with shots, bayonets and tear gas."

The Financial Times, Britain's business daily, commented: "The revolt was instigated

Hate Litter, Love Birds; See Sunday's Texas Star

A one-woman war against litter in Wichita Falls, ins and outs of a contempt citation as seen by a Central Texas Congressman, the winged residents of the Gulf Coast, and an introduction to hydroplane racing in Dallas lead off this Sunday's Texas Star magazine. It's a feature of the Sunday Herald.

Waging a soft-spoken, hard-hitting battle against litter, Mrs. Betty Morgan has encouraged her Wichita Falls neighbors to notice their surroundings ... to pick-up — or better yet, not to throw down — the bits of chewing gum, paper, straws, cans and bottles that don't belong on the ground.

This effective one-woman war led off Wichita Falls' fight against litter by urging the city's school children not to develop the litterbug habit. From Mrs. Morgan's dedicated efforts, the B.E.A.T. (Beautify Every American Town) drive has resulted in a successful, money saving civic campaign to stop careless trashing.

Cong. J. J. "Jake" Pickle of the Central Texas 10th District, guest comment columnist this Sunday, narrates an interesting chronicle about the recent contempt citation aimed at preventing deceptive editing of programs by the television networks. Pickle traces the motion's history in and out of the Commerce Committee, (of which he is a member) to its demise by House floor action.

Birdwatchers — from the serious ornithologist to the casual vacationer — are flocking to Texas to be educated and entertained by the coastal area's winged residents. An estimated 100-plus species now populate Gulf beaches, refuges and protected areas.

The world's fastest racing boats, hydroplanes capable of speeds up to 200 miles per hour, come to the Dallas area Saturday, Sept. 25. Enjoy racing champion Bill Muncy's description of what to expect when the boats turn on the power at the Garza-Little Elm Lake sports spectacle.

Demonstrators Supporting Inmates Of Attica Prison

By The Associated Press
Demonstrators in two cities have rallied in support of the inmates at New York's Attica State Prison as reaction continues to the bloody end of its prisoner rebellion.

About 150 persons paraded through the midday, 90-degree heat in Los Angeles Tuesday to show support for what they called the "Attica 1200" and to voice demands for nationwide prison reform.

In an orderly rally attended by many members of the Black Panthers and the Angela Davis Defense Committee, one speaker described the Attica inmates as "heroic brothers ... laying down their lives to human dignity."

At the University of Oklahoma in Norman about 75 black students blockaded a one-way street for about two hours to show sympathy. About 85 per cent of the Attica inmates are black or Puerto Rican.

"There is one way ... the right way ... but it ain't the white way," the protesters chanted. They posted a sign reading: "30 brothers dead, and things go on as usual."

In Buffalo, N.Y., state Assemblyman Arthur O. Eve wept as he told a State University audience that the inmates had refused to kill their hostages even when the police assault began.

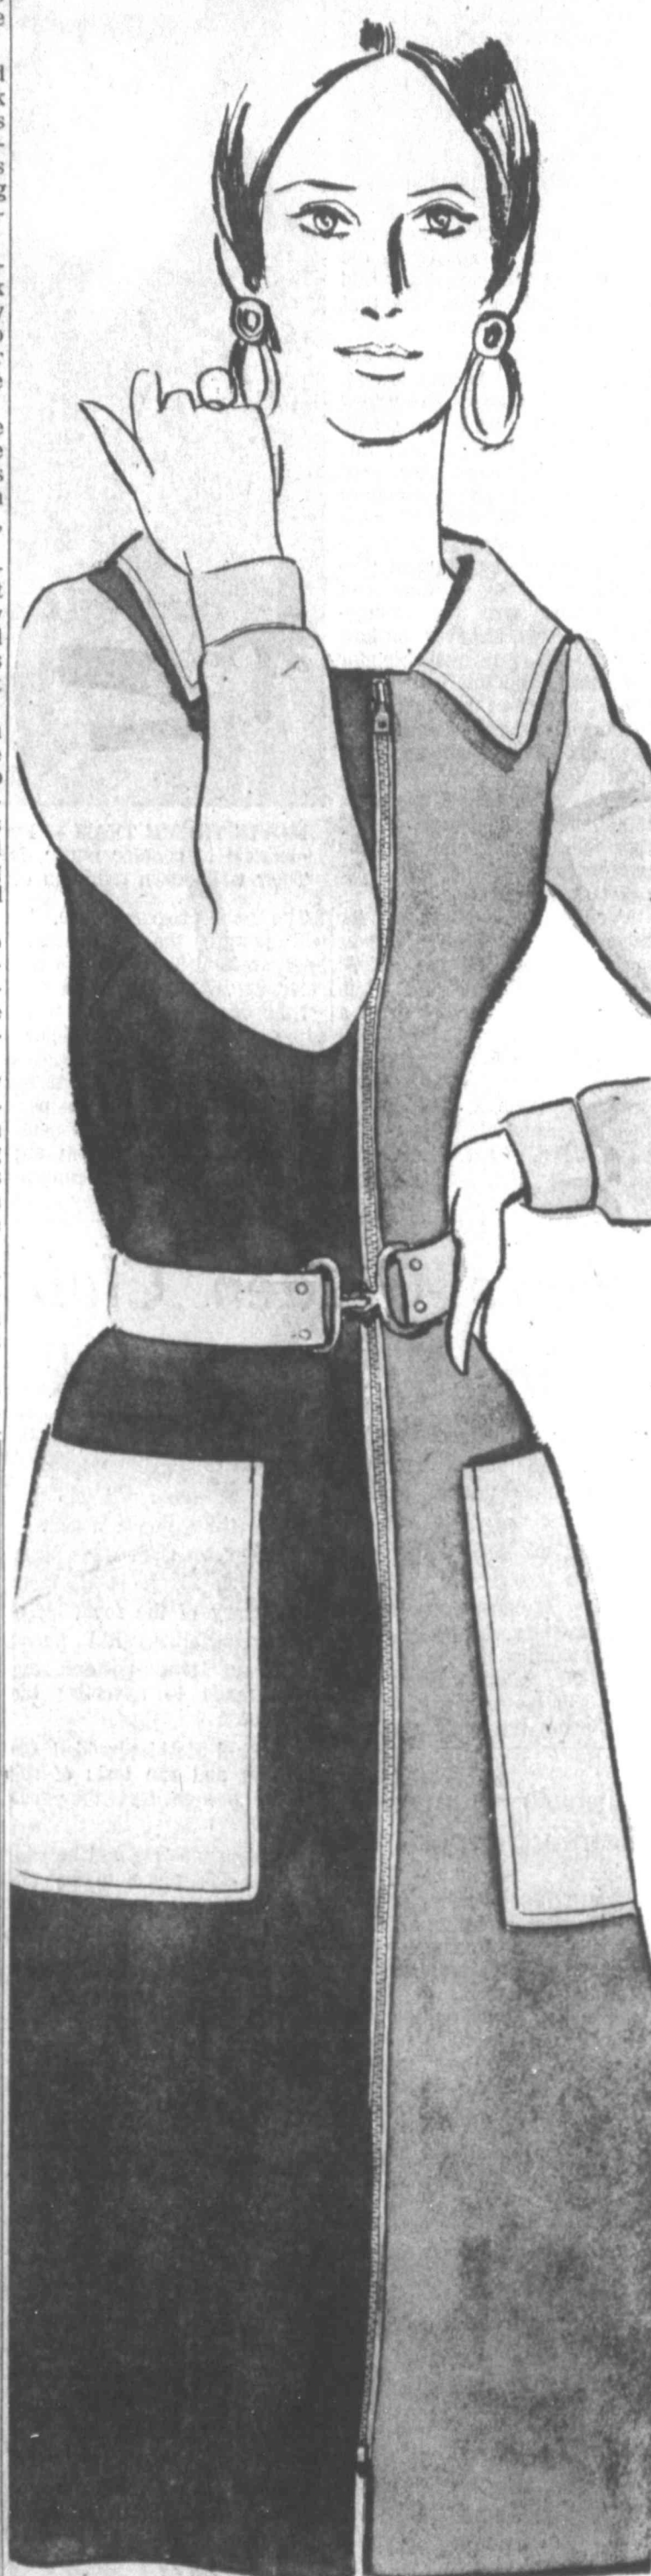

"Those were nonviolent men in there," Eve said. "When the attack began, they refused to plunge knives into their hostages. Even when the gas came, they refused to kill them. Even when the shooting began, they refused to kill them."

Eve, a black legislator who served on a mediating committee requested by the rebellious inmates, said he blamed Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the tragic outcome.

Rockefeller was supported by Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan of California who said in Sacramento that bargaining with convicts holding hostages would sentence "every prison employee and guard ... to the possibility of death."

Reagan compared the Attica riot with the bloody escape attempt Aug. 21 at San Quentin Prison in which three guards and three inmates died.

"In both instances it reflects the revolutionary tactic of tak-
