The absence of winter rains has cut down on the size of some of the state's wildflowers, including the Bluebonnet Trail array, but some are adding color to the roadways, nevertheless.

In fact, Texas has some flowers which require little water and these almost span the calendar with their blooming seasons. There are desert plants in Southwest Texas that bloom and bloom and bloom. Jack Skiles, supervisor of the Texas Highway Department's Judge Roy Bean Visitor Center at Langry, reports that there are desert plants in that area blooming every month, except December and January.

However, he notes: "Anyone who tries to predict what Mother Nature is going to do in Texas is either a newcomer or a dang fool. I've lived in this area a long time, so it is obvious which category I would be placed in if I attempted to predict when the various species of cacti will be blooming at the visitor center."

The hard freeze of last week may have been one of those infrequent instances in which the old mesquite trees were lured out of hibernation before it was absolutely safe. Some ancient specimens around two feet in diameter had put out luxuriant foliage only to have it shrivel as if a blow torch had been applied following the snow and frost of last Thursday and Friday mornings.

The freeze pattern appeared to be erratic, however, so far as vegetation is concerned. Some fruit trees with heavy crops of small fruit were literally devastated, while others near by were by-passed.

The Borden County Museum at Gail has had visitors from Alaska, Hawaii, New Jersey, Missouri and New Mexico, according to a report in the March issue of the Borden Citizen, the publication of the Borden County Historical Survey Committee.

One of the recent acquisitions of the Borden Museum is a painting of the Gail Community Church by Sue Rogers of Oklahoma City. The church was built in 1900 and burned in 1936.

The museum also is starting an exhibit of shaving mugs and mustache cups.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, April 5, the 96th day of 1972. There are 270 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1792, President George Washington exercised the first presidential veto, refusing to sign a bill dealing with the apportionment of representation.

On this date:

In 1827, the English surgeon who founded modern antiseptic surgery, Sir Joseph Lister, was born in London.

In 1869, the last surviving soldier of the Revolutionary War, Daniel F. Bakeman, died in Freedom, N.Y. His age was said to have been 109.

In 1939, all German children between the ages of 10 and 13 were ordered to serve in the Hitler Youth Organization.

In 1951, Julius and Ethel Rosenberg of New York City were sentenced to death as atomic spies for the Soviet Union.

In 1955, Prime Minister Winston Churchill, then 81, submitted his resignation to Queen Elizabeth II.

Ten years ago: President John F. Kennedy said the federal government must play a bigger role in easing the problems of urban transportation.

Five years ago: Eleven persons were arrested in West Berlin and charged with plotting to kill U.S. Vice President Hubert Humphrey during a visit to the city.

One year ago: Foreigners were being airlifted from East Paksitan as fighting increased.

More B52s Sent To War Zone

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is sending additional B52 bombers to help offset Hanoi's invasion of South Vietnam, but it remains uncertain if the administration has decided on a resumption of widespread air attacks in the North.

The some 20 new Stratofortresses, sources indicate, augment the 80-plus B52s already operating over Indochina and will be used to bomb troop concentrations and other targets in South Vietnam, along the demilitarized zone and in Laos and Cambodia.

The Pentagon refused comment on the report of the beefed-up American air power for Southeast Asia. "We don't discuss operational matters concerning B52s," said spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim.

"We are prepared to take whatever steps are necessary to assure that Gen. Abrams (Creighton W. Abrams, the U.S. commander in Vietnam) is able to protect the remaining Americans in the war zone."

Apart from letting the situation ride as it is with U.S. air power limited to the DMZ and the South, Nixon appears to have only one realistic option and that is new and extensive bombing of North Vietnam.

The 7,000 U.S. combat troops are too few to make much of a difference if the North Vietnamese attack continues in force.

In addition, they are committed to protecting key American air bases and other facilities, and U.S. officials would be extremely reluctant to reduce that shield.

The domestic political climate is acknowledged by government officials as practically ruling out sending American forces back into Vietnam, although they refuse to publicly deny such a possibility.

Earlier this week, after the size of the North Vietnamese onslaught became evident, the United States ordered two more aircraft carriers to join two already off the Vietnamese coast.

LIGHT VOTER TURNOUT

Council Members, Mayor Take Oaths

Snyder got a new mayor, one new city councilman and returned two incumbent council members to office following a canvass of returns in Tuesday's election.

Bill Seale was sworn in as mayor, Winifred Poyner as council member, Place 2; William A. Vestal as council member, Place 4; and Charles Blakey as council member, Place 6. Seale succeeded Bobby McCormick as mayor, while Blakey succeeded Seale as the Place 6 council member. None of the candidates in the election was opposed on the ballot.

The election drew a light turnout, with only 94 ballots being issued. The final tally gave Seale 89 votes, Poyner 88, Vestal 88 and Blakey 86. A sprinkling of write-ins included Otis Archie two votes and Bobby McCormick one vote for mayor; Joe Sentell one vote for council member, Place 2, and J.W. O'Banion Jr. one vote for council member, place 6.

The newly-elected officials took the oath of office at the conclusion of a regular council meeting in which action was taken on a lengthy agenda. Bobby McCormick, the retiring mayor, presided over the session.

Final action was taken on a request to rezone property in Block 6 of Parkway No. 2 Addition to clear the way for construction of a building by Aileen, Inc. The council also approved a request of Bill Lillard, Aileen's construction engineer, to close portions of Coleman Street, Scott Street and an alley on the Aileen plant site. Also approved was a request to extend water and sewer lines to serve the plant. Aileen had requested a six-inch water line, but the city elected to install an eight-inch line which would be capable of taking care of future development in that area.

New Front Is Opened

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The North Vietnamese broadened their seven-day-old offensive today, opening a new front 60-75 miles north of Saigon with tank-led infantry assaults, and threatening the provincial capital of Quang Tri in the north.

The South Vietnamese also reported the enemy sent MIG19 jet fighter planes across the demilitarized zone for the first time in the war.

Brig. Gen. Vu Van Giai, commander of South Vietnamese forces defending Quang Tri Province, said the two enemy planes had flown over South Vietnamese frontline positions at Dong Ha Tuesday. They took no offensive actions and dropped no bombs.

In Saigon, however, reliable sources denied Gen. Giai's assertion, though acknowledging that MIGs have been sighted just above the DMZ recently, in their most southerly appearance to date.

The enemy attacks now are spread across three fronts, the north, the Saigon area and in the central highlands, where North Vietnamese tanks drove to within four miles of a government base.

Of all the fronts, that in the north was the most critical. The North Vietnamese were striking south of Quang Tri and its nearby headquarters' base in an attempt to cut off the city, 19 miles south of the demilitarized zone.

Farther south, the North Vietnamese attacked South Vietnamese troops defending the western approaches to the old imperial capital of Hue.

The North Vietnamese scored initial successes in the drive north of Saigon. Official reports said South Vietnamese troops and their eight U.S. advisers were withdrawn by helicopters from the base camp of Quan Loi, 60 miles north of Saigon.

The attacks in the area were aimed at towns and bases near the Cambodian border.

"This is the decisive battle," President Nguyen Van Thieu declared in a nationwide television and radio address. "I call on the army to defend our country. I call on the people to do your best to support the battle front."

While the Saigon government's northern defense line held along the Cua Viet-Dong Ha River 10 miles below the DMZ, Quang Tri, the provincial capital nine miles to the south, was threatened by fighting on the southeast, south, southwest and northwest.

Two fights erupted six miles south and nine miles southeast of the town in the French Indochina War's "Street Without Joy" area along the coast and Highway One. Government forces reported 47 of the enemy and two of their own men killed and six South Vietnamese wounded.

Ten miles southwest of the province capital, Fire Base Pedro was under heavy attack, but a marine battalion was reported holding on. Pedro was Quang Tri's last major defense position in that direction.

South Vietnamese bombers attacked tank columns on the move 12 miles northwest of the threatened town and 40 miles to the southwest, just over the Laotian border.

MIGs Fly South Of DMZ

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer

QUANG Tri, Vietnam (AP) — A South Vietnamese general said today that North Vietnamese MIGs have flown south of the demilitarized zone for the first time in the war.

Reliable sources in Saigon promptly denied the report. But informants reported that MIGs have recently been sighted just above the DMZ in their most southerly appearance to date.

Brig. Gen. Vu Van Giai, commander of South Vietnamese forces defending Quang Tri province in the North Vietnamese invasion, said two MIG19s crossed the DMZ Tuesday and flown over South Vietnamese front line positions at Dong Ha.

There was no immediate word on whether the enemy planes were intercepted by allied aircraft.

They did not drop any bombs or engage in any other hostile actions, Giai said.

There have been other reports in recent days, none of them confirmed by official sources, that North Vietnamese MIGs were sighted over the western end of the demilitarized zone and farther south in the Laos panhandle than ever before seen.

U.S. military sources said a week ago there were indications that North Vietnam was considering committing its air force to the fighting in the south.

One source said the Communist command might use its MIG17s and MIG19s in an air-to-ground support role for its troops.

The runway at Dong Hoi, 45 miles north of the DMZ and thus the farthest south air installation in North Vietnam, was recently widened to accomodate the Soviet-built MIG21, the most advanced interceptor possessed by Hanoi, the informants said.

They reported two new airstrips were under construction in Laos, one near the Plain of Jars and the second at an unspecified location further south.

President Nguyen Van Thieu, in a national radio and television speech Wednesday night, said that if the North Vietnamese suffered too heavily in the current fighting, they might use their air force.

Powell Dies In Miami Tuesday

By TAD BARTIMUS
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI (AP) — Adam Clayton Powell, the flamboyant former congressman who swept through life with beautiful women on his arm, a sermon on his lips and an adoring Harlem at his feet, has died after a long illness. He was 63.

His death at Jackson Memorial Hospital Tuesday night was attributed to complications stemming from an earlier prostate operation.

He had been confined to the hospital's intensive care unit since he was airlifted by the U.S. Coast Guard from his Bimini, Bahamas retreat March 7.

The first black elected to Congress from the East, Powell also became the first congressman in modern times excluded by a vote of the House.

He was turned out in 1967 for misusing funds and defying the courts, some 22 years after he was first sent to Washington.

Powell was re-elected in a special election one month later by his New York constituents who packed his 10,000-member Abyssinian Baptist church on Sundays hearing him admonish, "Keep the faith, baby."

However, he did not try to reclaim his seat.

In 1968, without making a single campaign appearance in Harlem, Powell was re-elected again, by a 7-1 majority—the same margin by which the Supreme Court ruled the following June that Congress had exceeded its constitutional power in barring him.

But he got neither the $55,000 in back pay nor restoration of the seniority that made him chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee.

Following a bout with cancer in 1969, Powell announced he would run again. But he was narrowly defeated in a six-man Democratic primary by Charles Rangel.

Powell's will specified that his body be cremated, with the ashes to be scattered over the island of South Bimini.

Service Today For Mrs. Minnick

Funeral service was set for 2 p.m. today at the Fluvanna Church of Christ for Mrs. Willie Minnick, 76, who died early Tuesday in a Lubbock hospital.

Bob Mize, minister at the Vandalia Village Church of Christ in Lubbock, was to officiate. Burial was to be in the Fluvanna Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Mrs. Minnick had been a resident of Scurry County for the past 67 years.

McGovern Wins In Wisconsin

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Sen. George McGovern has established himself as a major contender for the Democratic presidential nomination by scoring a smashing victory in a Wisconsin primary that knocked New York Mayor John V. Lindsay out of the race for the White House.

The South Dakota senator, making the breakthrough he had forecast here, ran strongly in both urban, blue-collar areas and rural, farm regions Tuesday to capture seven of Wisconsin's nine congressional districts.

He won 54 of the state's 67 votes at the Democratic national convention, increasing his total to 94.5 of the 3,016 convention votes, one behind Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine.

"It clearly establishes me as a major contender in the public mind," McGovern told a reporter who asked what he thought the results meant. "I really think we received a boost tonight that could take us all the way."

Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, in another strong showing after his Florida primary victory three weeks ago, rode late rural returns into second place by a narrow margin over Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota.

Humphrey led in two districts with 13 convention votes.

President Nixon easily won the state's 28 GOP convention delegates in the Republican primary.

In the Democratic balloting, returns from 98 per cent of Wisconsin's 3,294 precincts gave McGovern 30 per cent, Wallace 22 per cent and Humphrey 21 per cent. The other nine Democrats trailed far behind.

Muskie, once the overwhelming Democratic frontrunner, suffered another smashing setback with a fourth-place finish and only 10 per cent of the vote.

Republican Vote Totals

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Here are the final unofficial vote totals in the Wisconsin Republican presidential primary, with 99 per cent of the 3,294 precincts reporting.

Nixon 275,851-97 per cent

Democratic Vote Totals

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Here are the final unofficial vote totals in the Wisconsin Democratic presidential primary, with all but 4 of the 3,294 precincts reporting.

McGovern 332,298-30 per cent
Wallace 248,191-22 per cent
Humphrey 233,914-21 per cent
Muskie 115,512-10 per cent
Jackson 87,944-8 per cent
Lindsay 77,519-7 per cent

Can husbands forgive and forget?

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Six years ago, my husband [whom I'll call John] was caught "in the act" by the other woman's husband. [The husband brought the facts to me.] I was hurt and emotionally torn to pieces, but I loved John, so I said, "Maybe it was my fault. Let's forget it, and start over." In the meanwhile, the other woman's husband blew town and no one has seen him since. Not even their kids.

Last week my best girl friend [married], and a male co-worker [also married], were found by my girl friend's husband in a warm embrace in a parked car. My girl friend netted a broken jaw and a divorce suit. Her coworker now won't even look her way.

Abby, what's with men anyway? Are understanding, compassion and forgiveness qualities that only women possess?

Do you know one man who would be willing to sit down with an erring wife, discuss the problem, forgive her and suggest that they start over? If you know such a man, please nominate him for sainthood.

CONVERTING TO WOMEN'S LIB

DEAR CONVERTING: I don't happen to know his name, rank and serial number, but I'm sure there's at least one such candidate.

DEAR ABBY: This letter is in support of our country's USOs. I am a 23-year-old working girl who has been active in the USO for a number of years. One of our problems is finding other girls to attend the dances and other activities, such as skating, buffets, decorating, skiing, etc. One of the big reasons is their parents' attitude toward the USO. They seem to have the idea that it is an unfit and indecent place for their daughters; yet these girls are allowed to visit the local discotheques, fraternity parties and so forth.

The activities of the USOs I have attended are always chaperoned. When our local USO has a dance, it is over by 11 p. m. so the girls aren't out all night. Also no alcoholic beverages are ever allowed in the club. The girls must be between 18 and 25 years old, and must have three names for references, one of which should be a clergyman. The majority of girls already belonging to the club are looking for some good, clean fun and this is the place to find it. If a girl doesn't meet the standards, she is asked to leave. As for the men these daughters will meet, they are the same ones who left home as sons and brothers.

Maybe this letter won't help much, but it is a way of asking these parents to come in and see for themselves before they condemn the USO because of stories that have been passed along thru the years when somebody needed something to talk about. A JUNIOR VOLUNTEER

DEAR VOLUNTEER: Thanks for a most illuminating letter. And since you did not mention that the USO is not a government funded project, the next time we are called upon to give to UNITED CRUSADE [or that one-big-community gift], we'll remember that the USO depends on that donation.

DEAR ABBY: So, for the past 10 years you have been advising those who could not dance or sing to learn how to play an instrument!

Perhaps that accounts for the fact that most of the pop music of the past decade sounds as tho the musicians had no sense of meter, and couldn't carry a tune.

For the next 10 years, how about advising those who can't sing or dance to try snapping their fingers? Or better yet, to simply listen! What the world needs is more good listeners—not tone deaf musicians.

EAR-MUFFED IN BANGKOK

DEAR EAR-MUFFED: It's a comfort to know that it's the same in Kenosha as it is in Bangkok.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Apollo 17 May End Moon Visits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. James C. Fletcher, space agency administrator, says there are no plans whatever for Americans to visit the moon again after the two remaining Apollo missions.

Fletcher said this will leave the moon exclusively to Soviet expeditions for at least 10 years.

He said he looks for some headline-making Soviet manned space flight after termination of the U.S. Skylab project, in 1973 or 1974, and would expect a lunar landing of cosmonauts in 1975.

While this Soviet manned-space activity is at a high pitch the U.S. astronaut program will be at a low level, Fletcher said. This might lead to loud complaints, reminiscent of those which accompanied the Soviet achievement of the first satellite launchings in 1957, and the first manned space flights in 1961, said Fletcher, chief of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Fletcher, as a dinner host to a small group of newsmen Tuesday, was asked what U.S. lunar-research programs are on tap following Apollo 16, to be launched April 16, and Apollo 17 next December.

"After Apollo 17 we have no plans to go to the moon, ever," Fletcher said. "There are studies, of course, but no actual plans.

"We have the three earth-orbital Skylab missions scheduled for next year, and no manned space flights then until the space shuttle in 1978."

"We are ahead until we phase out Apollo," he said. "We'll have a slow period after that, but then with the Shuttle we will be ahead again."

Fletcher said one concern of U.S. space leaders will be that of using the pool of astronauts to good effect.

He said NASA is working on this and one possibility is the operation of earth orbital missions with left-over Apollo command service modules.

There is also the prospect of missions involving rendezvous and docking of those vehicles with cosmonaut-manned Soviet spacecraft, he said.

CITY COUNCIL

Co. was approved on second and final reading. Approval came on a split decision, with council members Poyner, Seale, Vestal and John Boren voting for the increase and Joe Sentell voting against it.

A request to rezone 4.51 acres out of Section 13, Block 1, J. P. Smith Survey was withdrawn by J. L. Wadleigh.

Rezoning of lots three and 4, Block 31, T. N. Nunn Addition, from an R-2 (two-family residential) to an R-2MH (mobile home zone) was approved. The change had been requested by Wade Garrett and had been recommended by the planning and zoning board.

Later in the meeting, the council passed on first reading an ordinance which will permit mobile homes in R-2MH and R-3MH zones only. At present, mobile homes are permitted in commercial and industrial zones, but this will cease under terms of the new ordinance.

Also, the council indicated approval of plans to extend the city fire zone from the central business district to include business areas and potential business areas on through thoroughfares, including streets designated as state and federal highways.

The council agreed to name two blocks of Avenue T between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-seventh Streets "Hide Town Drive" for historical purposes. Those two blocks are on the east bank of Deep Creek. The council also agreed to participate in History Appreciation Week events planned by the Scurry County Historical Survey Committee. The special week is set for April 23-29.

A request by Lone Star Gas Co. to approve plastic pipe for installation of gas grills and yard lights was referred to the city's plumbing committee for study and a recommendation. Norman Mayes, local manager for Lone Star Gas Co., displayed samples of the type of plastic pipe proposed.

The city manager was authorized to seek bids on 100 blocks of street seal-coating, and the audit report submitted by Buster Anderson, CPA, was approved.

A request for water service to property just outside the northwest edge of the city was received from Mrs. R. W. Webb. The council voted to annex the property and provide the water service.

Fifteen feet of an unused portion of Avenue N immediately south of Thirty-first Street was closed at the request of S. W. Clark of Lubbock. No action was taken on a request to close the south end of Avenue T in Block 8 of the Dodson Addition, which had been requested by Robert Fikes.

The council voted unanimously to authorize the removal of a partially constructed building at 609 East Highway which has been declared unsafe and substandard.

A request by Union-Fluvanna Water Corp. to make any required changes in its water rate each year with the November billing rather than the October billing was tabled for further study.

Convention May Sue Navy

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The American Baptist Convention says it may sue the U.S. Navy for damages on behalf of Cmdr. Andrew Jensen, the chaplain who was acquitted last week in a court-martial on adultery charges.

In addition, according to a spokesman, the convention will not provide new chaplains for the Navy until full restitution is granted Jensen.

"Until there is a satisfactory resolution of difficulties, we will supply no further chaplains to the Navy," the Rev. Dr. Paul O. Madsen said at a news conference Tuesday at the convention's headquarters in nearby Valley Forge. He is associate executive secretary of the American Baptist Home Mission Societies, which endorses chaplains for the armed forces.

Jensen was acquitted at the Jacksonville, Fla., Naval Air Station on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer by committing adultery with the wives of two Navy officers.

The convention has demanded that the Navy reimburse Jensen for the costs of his defense, estimated at $15,000, and effect an immediate promotion and transfer.

"We want the transfer to indicate the Navy still has confidence in him and we want to make sure his family is able to go with him," Dr. Madsen said.

The convention, the fourth largest Baptist organization in the nation with a congregation in of 1.5 million, has supplied 130 chaplains for all branches of the military service.

It has been withholding chaplains from the Navy since March 15. Dr. Madsen said the decision to continue withholding chaplains would not affect clergymen now in the Navy.

Judgement Is Upheld

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court upheld today a $158,651 judgment against a railroad company which allegedly built a roadbed in a way that permitted high water from rains to flood two apartment complexes in Lubbock.

The high court agreed with the 140th district court and the Amarillo Court of Civil Appeals that Lubbock was not guilty of negligence and did not have to pay damages.

Durward Mahon filed the lawsuit, contending that Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Co. had constructed a roadbed for its tracks without first providing culverts or sluices to drain the land.

The roadbed was built in 1917-18 east-west and parallel to the Brownfield highway.

Mahon's Normandy Terrace and Orlando apartment complexes were flooded when heavy rains overflowed a playa lake in July 1968 and September 1969.

Plea Is Entered

Raymond Gonzales pleaded innocent in county court yesterday to a charge of malicious mischief. He was tried before county judge Preston Wilson, who returned a verdict of innocence. The offense allegedly occurred March 19.

Farenthold Says Voters Awake

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Frances Farenthold predicted in Dallas Tuesday that the Texas electorate will not be "sleepy" this year.

"I think the people have finally woke up to the fact that the merging of the private and public interest in Austin has got to come to an end," she said.

"Since 1957," Mrs. Farenthold said, "only six states have done worse than Texas as far as putting taxes on consumers goes.

"The time has come for Texas to become a broad-based consumer-taxed state like every other large industrial state in this nation."

Mrs. Farenthold made her remarks along with several other political candidates, including U.S. senatorial candidate Ralph W. Yarborough, at a meeting of retired former employes of Ford Motor Co. who are members of United Auto Workers Local 870.

Gov. Preston Smith predicted in Austin he'll win renomination in the May 6 primary without a runoff but said that if he is forced into a runoff it will be against Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes.

Smith scoffed at a statement by Mrs. Farenthold that the Texas Rangers should be abolished.

"The Texas Rangers are a landmark just like the Alamo," the governor said. "It would be just as hard to eliminate the Rangers as to eliminate the Alamo."

Dolph Briscoe, another contender for the Democratic nomination for governor, said at Paris that he favors a two-year term for House speakers and limits on the power of legislative conference committees to add new items to bills.

Barnes took verbal shots at Briscoe and Mrs. Farenthold at Barnes while Sen. Ralph Hall aimed some remarks at Sen. Wayne Connally.

Sen. Jose Christie, running for lieutenant governor, took a swipe at Houston publisher Bill Hobby, another of Christie's Democratic opponents along with Connally and Hall.

Christie responded to Hobby's comment Monday that Christie "has been a special interest lobbyist for the natural gas industry."

"I don't think Texans will accept the political filth of a man who has no public record at all," Christie said at Texas City. "This poisonous language is clearly dripping with hate and I for one feel that these scurrilous attacks must be the products of fatigue, tension or pre-occupation with a malicious hatchet job."

McGovern To Start Over

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Sen. George S. McGovern, happy to be the Democratic front-runner for a night, says he's starting over again today to capitalize on his victory in the Wisconsin presidential primary.

"I'll take that status for tonight, but tomorrow morning we'll have to start over," McGovern told a news conference Tuesday night.

Less than two hours after the polls closed, McGovern strode into a packed ballroom at the Pifster Hotel and proclaimed:

"We have won a great victory today, there's no question about that."

He called it "a giant step" toward the nomination.

"And it was a victory over polls, predictions and pundits," McGovern said.

In later interviews, McGovern rejected claims that he draws strength only from the left wing of the Democratic party. He called such labels obsolete.

"Never get the idea it's left wing to be against a senseless war, or waste in government, or lying," he said.

Student Elected To City Council

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP) — A senior here at Southwest Texas State University has become the first college student elected to the San Marcos city council.

Bill Cunningham, 23, polled 1,682 votes Tuesday to defeat Ruth Thomas with 962 and incumbent Frances Emery with 549.

Incumbent Eddy Etheredge was returned to the council with 1,873 votes against 1,322 for Newman Gibbs.

Cunningham campaigned on a platform that students shold have a voice in city government and that the city government should have a voice with the students.

Nearly 3,000 college students have registered to vote here this year, the first time that they have been eligible.

Heavy Equipment Taken In Theft

Some bold thieves made off with $25,500 worth of vehicles and equipment from McDonald Welding Company, 1110 College Avenue, last night.

They stole a 1963 Model Chevrolet 2-ton truck and Loboy utility trailer loaded with a 1968 Model John Deere tractor. The tractor was equipped with a front blade and back hoe. The tractor was loaded on the trailer and the trailer was attached to the truck. The thieves took a key from another truck on the yard and simply drove off with their loot.

City Police said tracks from the vehicles indicated they traveled north after leaving the yard.

Varied Characteristics Of Carpets Explored

COLLEGE STATION — Outdoor carpet. Indoor carpet. Outdoor-indoor carpet. Kitchen carpet. It's enough to confuse anybody.

Why is there such confusion about types of carpeting available? Just exactly what do these terms mean? Which is what and which is good for what?

"If your head's in a whirl from trying to sort out all the information and misinformation about the new carpets' wearability, minimal cost and effortless upkeep, it's a small wonder," said Pat Bradshaw, housing and home furnishings specialist at Texas A&KM University.

"The term 'indoor-outdoor' carpet is misleading," she said. "It implies that one kind of carpet can be used both indoors and outdoors, but there's no single carpet with built-in characteristics that make it desirable for both uses."

The specialist said that it's a mistake to assume that the characteristics which make a carpet practical for outdoor use will make it even more practical indoors.

Let's take a closer look.

Outdoor carpet is constructed differently from indoor or kitchen carpet and has different properties and different maintenance problems. An outdoor carpet has definite requirements.

To qualify for outdoor use, a carpet must be made of 100 per cent synthetic fiber that's resistant to moisture, sun, soil, mildew and pests. Solution-dyed polypropylene olelin and acrylics meet these requirements best and are the most-used fibers.

Some outdoor carpet is flocked with nylon, which has the highest abrasion-resistance of any fiber. But since nylon can't be solution-dyed, it's apt to fade.

The construction of the carpet is as important as the content," Miss Bradshaw claimed. "It must be made so that drainage is possible during wet weather and cleaning."

Most outdoor carpet is made by needlepunch construction. The result is a felt-like, non-resilient mat similar to carpet underliners. Liquids penetrate rapidly and drain right through the carpet. An outdoor carpet must never have a foam or sponge backing because such a backing would be unable to withstand the elements and would eliminate the possibility of drainage, according to the specialist.

Tufting is another type of construction used to make outdoor carpet. Both polypropylene and acrylics are used.

"Tufted carpets are aesthetically more pleasing than those made with needlepunch construction because they look less like mats and more like traditional pile carpeting," Miss Bradshaw said. "But the relatively non-porous latex backing can turn the carpet into a water trap after a heavy rain or a thorough 'hosing down.'"

She said that a new set of standards is needed to evaluate outdoor carpeting fairly. First, it must be viewed within the proper frame of reference — the outdoors.

"When used as originally intended, outdoor carpeting is a long-wearing, economical utilitarian product. It could also be considered a luxury item in that it's softer, warmer and more attractive than what it replaces."

Care of outdoor carpet is relatively simple. Regular vacuuming (except when wet), quick attention to spots and stains and a periodic "hosing down" should keep it in good condition.

WOMEN

The Weeders Guide

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Because some flowers and vegetables need a longer growing season than northern climate provides, your only chance to raise them is to start them indoors early, then move them outside when the weather permits.

Some of these items are snapdragon, coleus, petunia, pepper, eggplant and melon. Of course, you can buy seedlings started in greenhouses by others, but half the fun is in raising them from seed.

Needed are seeds, containers with drainage holes, a growing medium and a sunny window. The container may be a plastic pan, aluminum pie plates, clay or peat pots or wooden flats. Later you'll want small clay or peat pots into which to transplant seedlings.

The growing medium may be sterilized soil (baked for an hour in a 250 degree oven); vermiculite or perlite and peat, vermiculite or perlite with milled sphagnum moss (any of these on a 50-50 basis), or a ready-to-use mixture.

Wet, then drain the medium and fill container almost to top, level and firm down. Scatter seed or plant in a line made with a pointed stick or pencil. Cover seeds lightly with spagnum moss and then label them.

Water only when the growing medium is dry on top. Fertilize once in 10 to 12 days and turn container fairly frequently to keep seedlings straight.

When the plants are about two inches tall or have three leaves, transplant to small individual pots that will be ready for sinking into the garden as soon as the soil warms in spring.

Before plowing or rototilling the garden, broadcast two to three pounds of complete fertilizer (10-10-10 is good) per 100 square feet. Smooth with rake after plowing. If you planted seed not treated with a protectant fungicide, apply fungicide. Use disease resistant seed varieties whenever available.

Trees and shrubs should be fertilized after the frost is out of the ground, using two pounds of a complete fertilizer such as 10-6-4 per 100 square feet of surface.

Reminder about your tulips. After they bloom this spring, don't cut the stems and leaves (except) to remove the seed pod that remains on top if you have not cut the flower). The stems and leaves provide food to produce flowers next year.

You may leave the bulbs in the ground and plant colorful annuals around the tulips. You do not have to dig up the bulbs each year—only when they show inferior flowers or none at all. Then, when the foliage is dying, dig up, store until September, October or November and plant.

Don't plant tulips directly against a building since the warmth may make the bulbs start growing earlier than normal.

'Bank Shot' Is Volume Of Capers

BANK SHOT. By Donald E. Westlake. Simon and Schuster. $5.95.

Troubles? The world too much with you? Skip the martinis tonight. Dip into this wonderfully funny little book instead and escape for a few hours.

Crime buffs probably won't like this novel. It doesn't follow the purist line. Forget them. Go along on one of the wildest bank robbery capers of this still-new year. Join Dortmunder, the crook who longs for cash in a credit card age; Victor, the ex-FBI agent who left the agency because of an argument about a secret handshake, and a choice assortment of other oddballs as they rob a bank.

And what a bank job it is. This group doesn't just walk into a bank with guns drawn and rob it. Much too normal. Instead they piek a bank housed in a mobile home, swipe a truck, hook it onto the bank and roar off with the entire bank.

To tell more would be to reveal too much of the plot, but it's a beauty. And the ending is unbelievable.

Try it, you'll like it.

Inflatable Houses Unbeatable

COLLEGE STATION—"An inflatable bubble-like structure supported by air may solve the housing problems of the future," said Pat Bradshaw, housing and home furnishings specialist at Texas A&M University. "The major problem seems to be that there aren't enough of them now.

"Designers, architects and manufacturers have known about inflatables for quite a while and claim that they're unbeatable."

A bubble is easily erected, portable and economical with costs running as low as $1.00 per square foot. Inflatables might solve a number of problems including the dire lack of low-cost housing.

"Inflatables offer the possibility of environmental control," the specialist noted. "They may present our refuge from pollution."

For example, an exhibit in Germany last spring entitled "Cover Survival in a Polluted Environment" displayed inflatables. These ranged from a house enclosed in a large pollution free structure to a plastic head cover inflated with eucalyptus-cleaned air.

In Wooster, Ohio, stands an enormous inflatable greenhouse constructed in 1968 by Goodyear. It covers a full acre and is free of the pipes, beams and trusses found in traditional greenhouses. This extra space allows the use of heavy farm machinery in the enclosed seasonless environment.

"What's next for inflatables? The specialist explained that Antioch College is presently planning a new satellite campus, enclosed in a 44,000 square-foot inflatable in the downtown area of the new city of Columbia, Maryland. The mylar-coated vinyl bubble will house 300 students and contain classrooms, administration space and even a campus green.

La Verne College near San Diego plans to enclose a six-to eight-acre campus in a similar inflatable structure.

"Perhaps there's an inflatable in your future," Miss Bradshaw said. "If your home and gardens were covered by an inflatable, you could breathe unpolluted air, and the next garden party you planned couldn't be rained out."

Rearranged Figures Present New Patterns

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Like the bits of colored glass in a kaleidoscope, figures have a way of rearranging themselves into brand-new patterns. Ask anyone who charts stock market performance.

Consider mutual funds. Based on objective, funds usually are grouped as growth, growth & income, balance, or income, ranging in risk from high to low.

Low risk funds, such as those in the income category, are generally thought to have the least prospect for substantial appreciation. They are conservative; they seek steady dividends rather than price appreciation.

At the other end of the classification, growth funds are assumed to grow fastest of all. Greater risks are taken, of course, but in the long run it is widely believed that a good growth fund will outperform others.

Figures just released by the Arthur Lipper Corp. now subject such assumptions to some doubt. Measured over a five-year period to March 30, the different fund categories showed these percentage gains:

Growth 37.65
Growth & Income 37.35
Balanced 34.42
Income 38.39

The biggest percentage gain was by the supposedly slow-moving income funds, not by the growth group, although there were hardly any significant differences among the four.

But before making another assumption—that this test is conclusive—consider that these averages are made up of performance extremes, of the good and bad. Nothing as deceptive as an average; you cannot buy it.

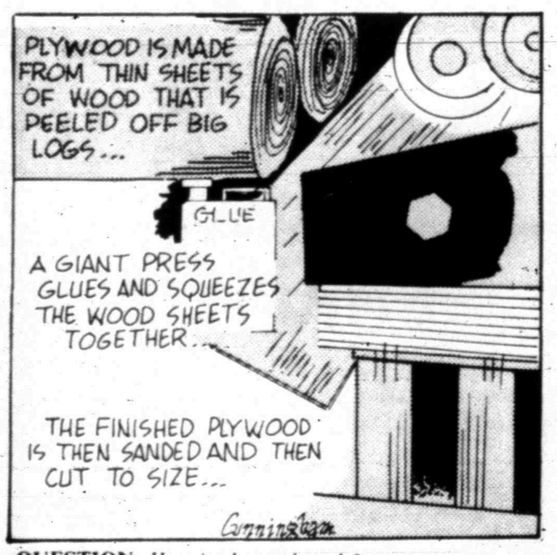

In the growth category, for example, greater risks are taken in order to enhance the potential for big capital gains. Sometimes, in fact, outright gambles are taken. Sometimes they pay off; often they do not.

While the growth average was only 37.65, gains of the 10 best growth funds ranged from 123 to 244. Growth funds simply can't make those kind of gains without violating their investment philosophy.

Moreover, significant performance differences for each category are contained within that five-year period. In general, growth funds have more pronounced up-downs than the others, and often look good for short periods.

For the first quarter of 1972, for example, growth funds show gains of 11.07 per cent, compared with 5.94 for growth & income, 4.23 for balanced funds and 2.97 for income funds.

Junior Editors Quiz on PLYWOOD

QUESTION: How is plywood made?

* * *

ANSWER: The use of veneer is the basis of making plywood. In making plywood, a number of veneer sheets called "plies" are placed in layers with the grain direction of the wood of each layer at right angles to that of the layer next to it. This alternating the grain of wood makes for great strength. The layers of wood are glued together and then compressed under heat.

From early times man used veneer in the making of fine furniture. The log was peeled, producing sheets of wood of paper-like thickness. The veneer was taken from expensive hardwoods, such as rose wood, mahogany, walnut or other attractively grained woods. Since about 1900 plywood has become popular in the construction of buildings. It is valued for its great strength and its ease of application and it shrinks and swells less than ordinary wood. It is used for floors, to line roofs and walls and for wall paneling. A marine plywood with well seasoned wood and a special water resistant glue is used in building boats and for other outside construction where the plywood is exposed to the weather. Plywood is used extensively in the making of kitchen cabinets and for office furniture.

Possible Pearse First Pilot

By NEALE McMILLAN

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — Almost 70 years after Orville and Wilbur Wright made their epic flight at Kitty Hawk, N.C., people here are still claiming that the first man to fly an airplane was a New Zealander named Richard Pearse—and that he beat the Wright brothers by more than a year.

Their evidence is inconclusive, and there seems no prospect of anyone producing irrefutable proof now to support the claim.

But stories from old-timers and Pearse's indisputable brilliance as an aviator still arouse some hopes that he might have been the first man in the world to pilot a heavier-than-air machine.

Pearse's latest champion is the executive director of Auckland's Museum of Transport and Technology, R. J. Richardson, who intends building a memorial pavilion to house the pioneer's remaining aeronautical exhibits.

Richard Pearse was labeled "Mad Pearse" by his turn-of-the-century neighbors at Waitoho Valley, near Timaru, because of his fascination with flying and his study of aeronautics as he did the plowing on his parents' farm.

Sometime between 1900 and 1904 he designed and built a high-wing monoplane of steel and bamboo, with aileron and elevator controls, and powered by his own four-cylinder engine.

It had a wingspread of 700 square feet and weighed 700 pounds.

Pearse controlled pitch by moving his body in conjunction with the application of an elevator mounted on the trailing edge of the wing.

Small flaps on the wingtips enabled the plane to be banked. There was no rudder, although the front wheel of the undercarriage could be steered.

With his ailerons, which he patented in July 1907, Pearse was undoubtedly ahead of the Wright brothers. But did he actually get airborne before their flight on Dec. 17, 1903?

No records are able to show with any certainty that he flew any distance before March 31, 1904.

He made several flights that year, and on two occasions traveled 150 yards at a height sufficient to clear a 12-foot hedge.

Some believe he flew as early as 1902. But if Pearse deserves recognition for actually accomplishing this, he has only himself to blame for not receiving it.

There would be no mystery at all if he had confided in his contemporaries, left detailed records of his progress, or been a less secretive man about his activities.

Feedlots Own Less Cattle

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Major feedlots in West Texas are finding it is more profitable to feed cattle without having to buy them. Less than 10 per cent of the cattle in feedlots now are actually owned by feedlot companies.

According to a study by Dr. Raymond A. Dietrich, a researcher in livestock marketing at Texas A&M, most cattle on feed are owned by farmers and ranchers in the same region. Other cattle are owned by speculators—Doctors, lawyers, cattlefeeding clubs and cattle dealers. These people may live anywhere in the country.

Dietrich said the practice of feeding cattle for clients, called custom feeding, has stimulated the cattle feeding industry's growth. The number of cattle in the Panhandle-Plains area has increased by more than 4,500 per cent in the last 12 years. The growth is due also to abundant grain supplies, climate, large slaughtering plants and national systems of distribution.

The number of cattle owned by custom clients are predicted for even more growth, perhaps as much as 50,000 head by 1975, compared to about 20,000 head today.

Steaks Given To Inmates

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An anonymous donor gave $3,200 worth of catered steak dinners to inmates at the San Francisco County jails.

About 1,200 inmates at the jails in San Bruno and the downtown Hall of Justice received the special Easter meal of sirloin steak, baked potato, salad, vegetables, rolls and cake.

Sheriff Richard Hongisto said the donor, who wanted to remain "totally anonymous," provided the dinners because he "felt good about the things we've been doing and the way the inmates have been responding very positively."

Nets Trip Kentucky At Home

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Nets have picked a fine time to start beating the Colonels at Kentucky.

After losing all five games on the Colonels' home court during the regular season, the Nets won their second straight playoff game at Kentucky Tuesday night, defeating the Colonels 105-90.

Kentucky, which set an American Basketball Association record by winning 68 regular season games, now will have to battle to avoid elimination from the playoffs in the East Division semifinals.

"I didn't think we'd be two down at home," said a disappointed Kentucky Coach Joe Mullaney.

"It doesn't look good for us," he continued. "We're two down, and now we have to face them twice at their place (the new Nassau Coliseum). And you know they're going to play like tigers."

"We've got to win the next one," he declared. "That's the big one for us."

In other ABA East Division semifinal series, Julius Erving tied a league playoff record by pouring in 53 points to lead the Virginia Squires to a 118-113 decision over the Floridians. Virginia now leads that series 3-0.

In a West Division semifinal, Freddie Lewis hit a driving layup with 45 seconds remaining to lift Indiana past Denver 122-120 in overtime and give the Pacers a 2-1 edge in the series.

Utah and Dallas, idle Tuesday night, resume their series Wednesday night in Dallas. Utah leads 2-0.

The Nets moved ahead of Kentucky 16-15 with 3:23 to play in the first period and were never again headed. They outscored the Colonels 16-2 in the last 5½ minutes of the first half to take a 52-34 halftime lead and Kentucky never came closer than 10 points in the second half.

Littler Is Recovering

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Veteran golfer Gene Littler was recovering today from a two-hour cancer operation which left his professional future in doubt.

He was reported in satisfactory condition.

After having a malignant tumor removed from under his left arm March 15, Littler had all the lymph gland-bearing tissue beneath the arm removed Tuesday to see if the disease had spread.

"The tissue removed at surgery will be analyzed in detail by the laboratory and results of the study should be available by Friday," a spokesman at Mercy Hospital said.

Littler, a 41-year-old former winner of the U.S. Open, said before the operation he did not know how removing the tissues would affect his ability to perform on the professional golf tour, but admitted it could end his 18-year career.

The hospital spokesman said it wasn't yet known how long Littler would have to remain in the hospital, or how long it would take him to recuperate at his home in suburban La Jolla.

Howsam Blames Strike On Miller

Howsam had charged earlier in the day that without Miller there would be no players' strike and that baseball would be better off without him.

"Mr. Howsam is a liar," said Miller. "I appreciate the compliment, but it isn't true. I could go to Timbuctoo and it wouldn't make any difference. He assumes this is a one-man organization.

"But these are not the same players as there were in the game 20 years ago. Howsam and some of the other owners and general managers are living as it was 20 years ago. The players today are more concerned, more sophisticated, more educated. They are aware how much money there is in this game, despits the owners' cry of poverty.

"This is ridiculous and absurd. Fortunately, not all of management is this way."

Howsam was not immediately available for comment. He was at an owners meeting in Chicago.

Miller said he was convinced the owners are not interested in reaching a settlement even though it will cost them money if the strike continues. He said he believes they are more interested in "breaking the back of the players association."

Miller met with 12 Cincinnati Reds players. The Reds had been scheduled to meet the Houston Astros today in their season opener.

Miller maintained the money is already in the pension plan to fund the players demand for a 17 per cent increase in benefits. He said the actuary money belongs to the players but the owners must agree to release this fund and they won't do it.

"All we're saying is the money in the plan has the capability of paying the increased health and pension benefits," he said.

"We have put our money where our mouth is," he said, noting that it was "strange" that the owners did not accept the contention that there was $800,000 available in the fund.

"The plan employs and actuarial firm, Retirement Plans Inc., Cleveland. They have been doing this job for 17 years and were hired by John Galbreath, an owner. In the past 17 years no one has challenged its figures. Now we ask them to use these figures and they won't accept them.

"The solution is for the owners to stop the nonsense of trying to break the association and to sit down and negotiate. If they did we'd have a settlement within an hour... no, within 15 minutes."

West, LA Beat Bulls

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

They don't call Jerry West "Mr. Clutch" for nothing.

West was held scoreless in the first half Tuesday night—and the Chicago Bulls took a 50-46 halftime lead over the Lakers.

West erupted for 23 points in the second half—and Los Angeles came on to beat the Bulls 108-97 and sweep their National Basketball Association Western Conference semifinal playoff series, four games to none.

The Lakers now advance to the Western Conference finals, where they'll meet the winner of the Golden State-Milwaukee semifinal.

Milwaukee took a 3-1 lead in that series by beating the Warriors 106-99 Tuesday night. The Bucks will try to wrap it up at home Thursday night.

In Eastern Conference semifinal series, Baltimore took a 2-1 lead by edging the New York Knicks 104-103 behind Archie Clark's 35 points, while Pete Maravich tossed in 36 points to power Atlanta past Boston 112-110, tying that series 2-2.

West did not score any points in the first half, but did commit three personal fouls. So Coach Bill Sharman decided to sit his star backcourtman down after 14 minutes of first half action.

"We had some words, Jerry never wants to leave a game," Sharman later explained. "But he had three personals and I didn't want him stuck with four or five in the last half, when the going could have been rougher than it was."

West's first basket came at 7:40 of the third quarter and put the Lakers ahead 60-59. The Lakers led 77-75 after three periods, then outscored Chicago 31-22 in the fourth quarter. West had six of his baskets in that final period.

West's backcourt mate, Gail Goodrich, led all scorers with 27 points and Jim McMillian equalled West's 23 points for the Lakers. Center Cliff Ray topped Chicago with 20 points and 17 rebounds.

The Bucks got only 26 points for their two best-known stars, Kareem Abdul Jabbar and Oscar Robertson, but their "other people" came through in big fashion.

Forward Bob Dandridge led the Bucks in scoring with 31 points, and reserves Wally Jones and John Block came off the bench to score three baskets apiece as Milwaukee outscored the Warriors 16-6 at the start of the second quarter. Milwaukee held only a 33-32 lead before that spurt.

Jabbar was held to 15 points but did come through with 20 rebounds, while Robertson had 11 points and the same number of assists.

Jim Barnett tossed in 29 points and Nate Thurmond, the veteran center who reportedly received a $2 million offer to jump to the Carolina Cougars of the ABA, added 26.

Forward John Tresvant blocked a shot by ex-Bullet Earl Monroe with 26 seconds to play and recovered the loose ball to preserve Baltimore's victory. Monroe scored 28 points against his former teammates.

Baltimore Coach Gene Shue pointed to the play of center Wes Unseld as a key to the victory. Unseld sank nine of 11 field goal attempts in scoring 19 points, and also had 12 rebounds and nine assists.

The game was close all the way.

Dierker Sees Lengthy Strike

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astro players view the cancellation of their season opener at Cincinnati as a bad sign.

Larry Dierker, the club's player representative, believes it means prolonging of the negotiations between the players who struck for a 17 per cent additional funding of their pension plan.

Astro outfielder Bob Watson feels the delay in the season will prove harmful to the Houston team.

The big righthander said public opinion started out strongly against the players.

"When you read about baseball, you read about Hank Aaron signing for over $100,000 and Willie Mays signing for over $100,000. What you don't read about is Bob Stinson (Astros reserve catcher-utility man) who spent eight years in the minors and now is making $13,500 a year. He's the one really trying to get something out of this pension. And he deserves it."

Watson said the team was hoping for a fast start.

"The one thing we wanted to avoid this year was a sputtering start," Watson said. "If it hadn't been for this, I think the team was ready for a fast getaway. I just hope we can come up with some sort of settlement. We've gone this far. No need of backing down now. We all had hoped it wouldn't go this far, but it did. So now we all have to stick together."

Pitcher Dave Roberts had praise for Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association.

"Really, I think they (owners) are out to get rid of Marvin Miller," Roberts said. "This guy hasn't hurt baseball, but he has done a lot for the players, accomplished benefits they wouldn't have obtained otherwise."

Astro General Manager H.B. "Spec" Richardson said he doubted the Astros' weekend series in Atlanta would be played if the strike ended.

"Even after this thing is settled, I want to see my pitchers throw," he said. "That is, I want Jim Owens, our pitching coach, to look at them and be convinced they are ready to pitch."

Richardson also doesn't want to start the season without his regular centerfielder Cesar Cedeno or any other player on his 25-man roster.

"As far as I know," Richardson said, "Cedeno and "Jesus" Alou are in the Dominican Republic. If this thing is settled, I can get through to the Dominican, I think.

"But that's not the easiest country to get out of. They don't have regular daily flights. The planes come out only two or three times a week, the way I understand it. It could take time getting them back. I'd hate to open the season without Cedeno in centerfield."

The Astros worked out Tuesday at a city park but they had no batting cages and had to chase down their own foul balls.

Shoots An Ace

Pop Kidd shot a hole-in-one on the 168-yard par 3 hole at the Snyder Country Club golf course yesterday afternoon, using a 4-iron.

It was his eighth hole in one. He was playing in a three-some with Lanny Wadleigh and Mickey Nunley.

Rupp Receives Cage Offer

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Adolph Rupp says he's not bitter because the University of Kentucky turned him out to pasture after 42 years as head basketball coach. But the 70-year-old "man in the brown suit" says he's considering an offer that would put him back on the court.

In a telephone interview from his home in Lexington, Ky., Rupp told the Orlando Sentinel that he had received an offer to coach a basketball team, but Rupp wouldn't say which team that was.

"I've got some business interests around Lexington, and of course, I'd have to be allowed to keep them running—have the time to give them some attention," Rupp said. "I'd also like a say in the hiring of the help."

Rupp said that if the problems could be ironed out, "Yes, I'm considering taking them up on their offer."

On March 27, the University of Kentucky athletic board voted to retire Rupp involuntarily because he had reached the mandatory retirement age of 70.

Rupp had compiled a string of 879 victories and 190 defeats, took his team to NCAA championships four times and won one National Invitational Championship.

Rupp said he had several job offers, including broadcasting positions offered by radio and television stations and an offer from "someone who wanted me to write a syndicated column, and things like that."

Crowder Dies At Age 73

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Alvin Floyd Crowder, who played in three World Series during his years as a major league baseball pitcher, is dead at the age of 73. He was a native of Winston-Salem.

Crowder became ill at his home Monday night and was pronounced dead at a hospital. He had suffered a heart attack some years ago.

Ashe Expects Fine, Drysdale Is Upset

HOUSTON (AP) — Arthur Ashe Jr. says he expects to be fined for failing to show up opening day at the $50,000 River Oaks Tennis Tournament.

Ashe, fifth seeded and the first black ever to compete in the 38-year-old tournament at the exclusive River Oaks Country Club, defeated Ismail El Shafei of the United Arab Republic 6-3, 7-6, in one of Tuesday's matches.

However, Ashe, a member of World Championship Tennis' pro stable, was supposed to be on hand Monday for his match with El Shafei.

"It was the fault of our offices, collectively," Ashe said. "I should have been defaulted. I expect to be fined."

He said he did not know how much the fine would be since there are no set fines for infractions.

He said he didn't know he was supposed to report until Tuesday.

Ashe said when he was a freshman at UCLA in 1961 he couldn't play River Oaks "probably because I was black."

He said he wanted to play in 1964, his senior year, but final exams kept him from it.

"In other words, Blacks could play since 1964," he said.

Most of the favorites came through Tuesday but fourth seeded Cliff Drysdale of South Africa was the victim of one of two upsets.

Unranked Mark Cox of England, winner of last week's WCT meet at Macon, Ga., took out Drysdale 6-3, 6-2. In another mild upset, Tony Roche of Australia defeated 10th seeded Roy Emerson of Australia 6-3, 6-1.

First seeded Rod Laver of Australia easily defeated Fred Stolle of Australia 6-1, 7-5; second seeded Ken Rosewall of Australia defeated Terry Addison of Australia 6-4, 6-1; and third seeded Tom Okker of the Netherlands defeated Bob Carmichael of France 6-1, 6-0.

In other Tuesday action, sixth seeded Bob Lutz of the United States defeated Allen Stone of Australia 3-6, 6-3, 6-3; ninth seeded John Newcombe of Australia defeated Jeff Borwiak of the United States 6-2, 7-5, and John Alexander of Australia defeated Brian Fairlie of New Zealand 6-0, 6-0.

In today's second round Ashe was to meet Nikola Pilic of Yugoslavia; Lutz plays Alexander; Roche meets Okker; Laver meets Bob Maud of South Africa; Rosewell plays Graham Stillwell of England; Newcombe meets Charles Pasarell of the United States; Roger Taylor of England meets Cox, and Bill Bowery of Australia meets Marty Riessen of the United States.

Youngsters Hold Key To Future Of Soccer

DALLAS (AP)— When Joe Echelle, general manager of the Dallas Tornadoes soccer team, drives around the city and watches thousands of young Texans playing soccer he has visions of turnstiles clicking merrily at the brand new Texas Stadium.

"Those are our future fans," says Echelle, 31, a Yugoslav-born former soccer player at Notre Dame. He is confident that soccer has come to the United States to stay.

He may be right. Just as across the border in Mexico the growing band of American football fans are positive that the increasing number of American football teams in Mexican universities will bring the game to Mexico.

But soccer faces an uphill struggle in the United States.

It will establish itself when these young, growing American legs used to the stiff kicking of an American football, display the grace of a Brazilian-dribble, and the grunts and puffs of an off-tackle plunge draw the same response as a flying save by a goal keeper.

Echelle and the organizers of the North American Soccer League base their confidence in the tremendous interest in the game created at school level, the first step in the development of a dyed-in-the-wool fan.

The Tornadoes, by the way, are the national champions in a league that includes St. Louis, Atlanta, Miami, Rochester, New York City, Montreal and Toronto.

"But the parents are a problem," Echelle said.

The parents are the legions who grew up with baseball and American football and the idea that junior would turn out to be another Joe Namath or Sandy Koufax.

"But now the kids are getting to know the game and getting their parents to go to the games with them," Echelle said.

Average attendance this past season for the Dallas games was 3,300, which may not sound like a full house at Azteca Stadium or Wembley, but it was a 50 per cent improvement in Dallas over the previous year.

The number of boys' teams sponsored by schools and civic groups has grown from 11 in 1967 to nearly 500 in 1971 with approximately 20,000 youths involved.

"It is an easy, inexpensive game where the star does not have to be a giant," Echelle said. "I think that is one of the things that attracts many kids."

Dallas coach Ron Newmann is the first to defend the quality of the game as played at the professional level, although he admits the American teams are not yet ready for some of the European or South American powers.

Most of the players in the eight teams come from second and third division teams in England, but there are at least twenty nationalities represented in the league.

"We play mostly the English brand of football, which is the best in the world," said Newmann in a statement that South Americans and Continental Europeans could debate for hours.

But Newmann, who played for Portsmouth and Cyrstal Palace, before coming to Texas, also has among his crew a couple of Brazilian veterans who have also played in Mexico. They are Luis Jurazi and Baldemar Rodriguez "Oreco".

"We have not been beaten by European or Latin American teams in our last six international matches," Newmann said.

But he feels that American soccer still lacks the main ingredient for success, and that is American-born players.

Some of them may be on the way. The Tornadoes just drafted their No. 1 choice—Kyle Rote, Jr., of Dallas whose father was a famous college and professional star in American football with Southern Methodist and the New York Giants.

Kyle Jr., was on his way to becoming another American college football star when he switched to soccer and is about to sign a contract with the Tornadoes.

"I have seen him play," Newmann said. "He is strong, and he knows how to move and he will become a good striker."

"What we need now," he added, "is to get the kids' parents interested, get them to understand things like the off-side rule and all the complexity of the game."

"Then, of course," he went on, "the other problem is to get the U.S. press to understand the game."

Spartan Rule

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Coach Gus Ganakas of Michigan State figures his Spartan basketball players ought to be much better than they are from the foul line.

"It's reached the point that we have a contest in practice every day," says Ganakas. "Before a player can take his shower, he's got to make three straight free throws or shoot for an hour—whichever comes first."

Some Legislators Admit Nepotism Law Violated

By ROBERT HEARD
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — State officials are forbidden to hire their relatives. But somewhere in the past members of the House and Senate got the idea it was okay to hire each other's relatives.

"It could be we've been wrong all this time," says Charles Schnabel, secretary of the Senate.

"It has been a longstanding practice. I guess it has gotten out of hand," says Speaker Rayford Price.

The nepotism statute says no legislator "shall appoint, or vote for, or confirm the appointment of "certain close relatives or, and this is the big or—persons closely related to other members of the legislature.

No distinction is made between the House and Senate. They are considered to be one body—the legislature.

Under the law, the husband of a first cousin of a legislator's wife is too close.

Violation of the law is a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of $100 to $1,000.

It has been argued that the relatives are employes of the House or Senate and not employes of the legislators, that they are actually hired by the speaker or the lieutenant governor or the secretary of the Senate.

Travis County Dist. Atty. Bob Smith says the courts probably would call this a subterfuge.

And Schnabel says he hires a lot of the senators secretaries, but he concedes he would reject a senator's choice only if the secretary was related to a senator.

Schnabel's application form asks if the secretary is related to a legislator or to a state official.

Asked what he does when the applicant answers yes to that question, he said: "I don't even ever look to see how they answer it."

"That's probably a holdover from a time when the nepotism law was more strictly enforced," said Schnabel, who has held his job for 17 years and says the relative-swapping flourished when he got there.

The practice has gone unchallenged. There are no court decisions or attorney general opinions on it.

An attorney general's opinion in 1945 said the governor could not appoint a relative to a House member to a river authority because the Senate must confirm gubernatorial appointees and Senators and representatives are members of the same body.

A similar question came up with the appointment of former Gov. Price Daniel to the Texas Supreme Court two years ago because Daniel has a son in the House.

But that case was distinguished on the ground that the constitution establishes qualifications for Supreme Court Justices and those qualifications may not be amended by the nepotism law or any other statute.

The nepotism statute specifically outlaws agreements between state officials to hire each other's relatives. Legislators' children may be hired as pages only when they will assist legislators with physical infirmities.

"We're going to do some work in this area," says Smith, the district attorney.

He suggested a possible solution that avoid prosecution.

"I may talk with the speaker and the lieutenant governor after the election and tell them we haven't been enforcing this law but that we're going to start and that we're giving everybody a chance to clean house," he said.

Asked why he would wait until after the election, he said: "I'm in a position to ruin people, and I don't want to ruin people just for the sake of ruining people."

Smith successfully prosecuted former Speaker Gus Mutscher and two associates on a charge they conspired to accept a bribe. His office also presented evidence to the grand jury in the case of former Rep. Walter Knapp of Amarillo, who has been indicted on a charge he used $1,200 in state postage stamps to buy a used pickup truck.

The most recent relevation of relative swapping involves the children of Sen. David Ratliff of Stamford and Rep. John Allen of Longview.

John and Lynnora Ratliff were paid $15,167 as employes of Allen over a period of five years.

Peggy and Barbara Allen received $19,456 over a comparable period as employes of Ratliff.

Wool Subsidy Hikes Forced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The lowest wool market prices since before World War II are forcing the Agriculture Department to boost direct subsidy payments to sheepmen by a substantial margin.

The payments are provided under the National Wool Act, passed by Congress in 1954 as an "incentive" program to improve the quality and boost production of U.S. wool.

Basically, the payments make up the difference between the average market price for wool in a year and a goal or "incentive price" determined by the department to be a fair return for growers.

The payments this year are expected to total $110 million, up $38 million from 1971 and more than double what they were two years ago.

Payments are for wool actually marketed by growers in 1971. Last year, the department said, the average wool market price was 19.4 cents per pound, the lowest since 1938.

The payments are made under a formula based on the price a grower received on the market. The payment rate for 1971 wool sold will be 271.1 per cent multiplied by the price a grower received. The percentage is the multiplier required to make up the difference between the national average of 19.4 cents and the incentive level of 72 cents per pound.

Officials say the formula is designed to encourage producers to improve their quality of wool sold. The higher the price a grower gets, the larger the incentive payment.

"For example," the department said in announcing this year's payment program, "if a producer got a 15-cent average return, his payment will be 2.711 times 15 cents or 40.7 cents per pound.

"On the other hand, a grower who produced better quality wool and received an average market price of 25 cents a pound would get 2.711 times more, or an incentive payment of 67.8 cents a pound."

The payment rate for 1971 mohair will be 166.4 per cent of sales returns received by growers, the department said. That formula is designed to make up the difference between a 1971 mohair market average of 30.1 cents and the support level of 80.2 cents per pound.

Wool production, reflecting fewer sheep and lambs, has declined steadily and last year was the smallest since the Agriculture Department began keeping wool records in 1873.

Preference of consumers for beef and pork, competition from manmade fibers, imports and shifts by producers into other livestock areas have been factors for the decline in sheep and wool, officials say.

Emergency Warning Is Abandoned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is abandoning the Emergency Broadcast System as a backup device designed to warn the nation of an enemy attack but will continue to use the primary warning network of telephones, teletypes and sirens, a White House agency says.

The decision came after a lengthy review of last year's snafu in which the EBS sent out an erroneous alert that was broadcast by some 2,500 radio stations and ignored by a number of others.

Clay T. Whitehead, director of the White House Office of Telecommunications Policy, Tuesday said a new auxiliary system to replace the EBS "warning option" will use the nationwide facilities of The Associated Press and United Press International to distribute warnings directly from the Office of Civil Defense to the broadcast stations.

Sloan To Head LubbockCenter

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)— Young T. Sloan has been selected to head the new weather forecast center to be established at Lubbock. Sloan is principal assistant in the forecast center at Little Rock, Ark.

A native of Texas, Sloan entered the Weather Service at Abilene in 1946 after weather duty in the Air Force during World War II.

He subsequently held weather posts at San Antonio, Honolulu, Wake Island, Washington, D.C., Fort Worth, Midland and New Orleans.

He obtained his meterological training at the University of California at Los Angeles following graduation from North Texas State University.

Check Those Fringe Benefits

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Dear Joyce: You sometimes mention fringe benefits are good in a certain occupation. How does one measure whether fringe benefits are good or bad? In other words, what would be normal so a comparison with particular jobs can be made. Do you have any figures on this? -- R.Q., Pittsburgh

Fringe benefits are going up, according to new government figures. In 1968, employer expenditures for pay supplements amounted to 25.1 percent of basic wages and salaries in private industry; in 1970, that figure rose to 26.6 percent.

The growth is even more dramatic in the Federal government where the 1968 fringe benefit figure was 24.3 percent of salaries – rising to 27.8 percent in 1970.

To illustrate, if you earn $100/week in private industry and don't receive fringe benefits worth at least $26.60, you're below average; if you get more, your fringe benefits are higher than average.

The main reasons for the Federal government's edge on fringe benefits is because Uncle Sam allocates more for paid leave (11.6 percent vs. industry's 8.8 percent) and for retirement (10 percent vs. 9.1 percent in industry).

The private sector is more generous though in health and insurance programs (6.3 compared to government's 5.6); unemployment programs (1.1 compared to government's 0.5), and savings and thrift plans (the government has no such program).

In general, I would consider carefully before accepting a job which offers little in the way of fringe benefits if the pay is not substantially higher to compensate.

Dear Joyce: Enclosed is the latest addition to our health career series. It describes the position of the hospital food service administrator -- a rapidly expanding occupational area that should be of interest to your readers. -- Barbara I. Bloom, American Hospital Association

A hospital food service administrator should have a college background, preferably in institutional management, nutrition or business administration. He or she can earn $8-25,000, or even more. For a copy of this brief booklet, enclose a stamped, self-addressed long white envelope and send to Joyce Lain Kennedy at this newspaper. Write "HFSA" on your outside envelope.

Dear Joyce: Your column on science and technical writing listed 2 institutions offering graduate programs, but omitted the name of Illinois Institute of Technology. For many years IIT has offered undergraduate courses, and since this past year now offers an M.S. in science information that emphasizes and integrates scientific writing into the total curriculum.

IIT recently received a 4-year $500,000 grant from the Federal government to train persons for this master's degree in health-related science information. Each year a group of 10 trainees will be awarded a full tuition scholarship, plus a stipend of $2,400. It is a new experimental and interdisciplinary program. – Professor Albert J. Brouse, Illinois Institute of Technology, Chicago

Sir Rudolf Bing Is Leaving Met

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Music Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Sir Rudolf Bing, 70, stepping out at the end of this season as general manager of the Metropolitan Opera, says he has thrown away his laugh machine. And, he adds that although he may be considered by some a tyrant, he actually has become mellow.

The famous Bing laugh machine, which he kept on his desk, was brought into operation to reply whenever a singer came into Sir Rudolf's office to ask for a raise. "It was a beautiful thing," Sir Rudolf said Tuesday in an interview. "but the battery has run down. It doesn't function any more. I must have thrown it away now."

This summer, the Met will negotiate with 14 unions representing its various employes, and, Sir Rudolf said, "Raises are no laughing matter at the moment."

The last negotiations, three years ago, deadlocked and the house opened the week after Christmas instead of the middle of September. "It's really the main reason why, a year ago when it was suggested to me that I should stay another year or two, with regret I declined. I couldn't face it again.

"Also, after 22 years, I have nothing new to offer any more and I feel it is time for somebody else with younger and fresher ideas to come in."

As for the Bing years, which began with a triumphant opening night "Don Carlo" in 1950, what have been the highs and lows?

"It is not for me to say what I've achieved or not achieved," Sir Rudolf said.

Others, commenting, would place bringing black performers into the Met, with Marian Anderson the first, as a high, and the dearth of first-rate conductors as a low.

"I have tried to bring the Met scenically, dramatically and stagewise into the 20th century," Sir Rudolf said.

"If I look back at directors and designers whom I've brought here over the years, I feel I've done some of that at least.

"And we've certainly had over the past 20 years more of the great singers of the world and for longer periods than any other opera house in the world. That is not a matter of opinion, it is a fact."

Next year, Sir Rudolf has been given a distinguished professorship at the City University of New York, Brooklyn College. "I'll be teaching graduates and undergraduates and a seminar on opera and performing arts management and that sort of areas which I fancy myself knowing something about," he said.

Bomb Rips Belfast Building

BELFAST (AP) — A bomb explosion ripped through a youth employment office in downtown Belfast today, setting the building on fire, but there were no casualties. It was the first bombing in downtown Belfast in almost a week.

Three armed men believed to be Irish Republican Army guerrillas were seen throwing the bomb into the office as morning rush hour crowds filled the streets, the British army said.

British troops and guerrillas traded shots during the night in Londonderry, where IRA leaders agreed to talk with Roman Catholic supporters who favor scaling down the violence.

The army said terrorists fired on an observation post and a patrol near the Londonderry city wall in two separate flareups. There were no casualties.

In Belfast, a 26-year-old man was hospitalized with a bullet in his thigh in a post-midnight shooting.

The gunfire followed an offer by the IRA Provisional wing's Londonderry command to meet with Catholics who feel Britain's assumption of direct rule in the province should be given a chance to bring results.

The guerrillas were reported saying they, too, want peace, "but not at any price." The IRA wants Northern Ireland united with the Irish Republic.

Chill Nips East Half Of Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An early spring chill nipped much of the eastern half of the nation today and dropped temperatures into the frosty 30s across wide areas of the South.

A cold wave warning was out for southwestern Pennsylvania, and frost warnings extended south to northern Alabama.

Temperatures near zero stung the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, while nearby sections of Wisconsin and Minnesota also registered readings in the single figures.

Snow or snow flurries swirled over Michigan and eastern New England. Three inches of snow fell of Pellston, Mich., while Traverse City, Mich., and localities in northern New England measured 2 inches overnight.

A storm off the Oregon coast scattered showers and some thunderstorms from Washington to northern California. Wind gusts in excess of 50 miles an hour swept some coastal areas.

Except for a few lingering showers along the Southern Atlantic Coast, fair and dry weather prevailed elsewhere.

High Risk Group

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Authors, social scientists and architects run the highest risk among professional people of having their marriages end in divorce, says a report in the journal of the California Medical Association.

Natural scientists, doctors, accountants, dentists, editors and reporters are likely to stay married once they've tied the knot, the report adds.

UT Ranks 16th In Graduates

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The University of Texas ranks 16th in the nation in production of baccalaureate degree graduates who went on to earn doctoral degrees between 1920 and 1970.

The University of California at Berkeley ranks first.

LBJ Picks Up Plane In Kansas

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Former President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson were guests at a small reception Tuesday when they flew to Wichita to pick up a new airplane they have purchased from the Beech Aircraft Corp.

Kansas Gov. Robert Docking greeted the Johnsons and welcomed them back to Kansas. The Johnsons were in Abilene last fall for the rededication of the Einsenhower Museum.

The Johnsons were picking up a new King Air A100, the fourth Beechcraft they have purchased. It is estimated the plane cost $700,000.

"We especially welcome the Johnsons taking Kansas products back to Texas with them," Docking said in the brief ceremony at the Beech plant here.

"I know the President and Mrs. Johnson will enjoy their new King Air A100 which will complement their fleet of Beech aircraft."

The former president declined to discuss politics but did say, "No other state in the union displays more good common sense and practical judgment that represents the best traditions of America than your own state of Kansas."

Johnson told Beech supervisory employes he had owned a variety of Beech planes over 30 years and added, "I can't calculate the hours I've placed my life in your hands.

"Now my life may not mean much to you but it means a whole lot to me.

"I have had 37 years with Lady Bird and 30 years with the Beech Corporation. I must say in both instances it has been a very fine relationship."

The Johnsons flew back to Texas Tuesday night after a private dinner with Olive Ann Beech, company president, and other company officials.

Average Day Oil Allowable Rises

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas' average calendar day oil allowable has risen to 4,135,663 barrels, an increase of 233,914 from March 15, says the Railroad Commission.

The commission also reported Tuesday that 15 wildca' oil wells and eight wildcat gas wells were drilled in Texas during the period of March 16-April 1.

A total of 68 wildcat oil wells have been drilled this year, compared with 70 at this time last year. Sixty-two wildcat gas wells have been drilled, or 77 fewer than a year ago.

The commission said 244 oil wells were completed during the two-week period for a yearly total of 1,275, or 174 fewer than a year ago. Eighty gas wells were completed for a yearly total of 454, or four fewer than a year ago.

US Action Leaves Issues Unsettled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Recognition by the United States is expected to bring important economic benefits to Bangladesh but it leaves several diplomatic questions unresolved.

U.S. recognition, announced Tuesday, will open the way for Bangladesh to become a member of the World Bank and International Monetary fund, where the United States has an important voice.

Administration and banking officials alike say this could mean important economic gains for the new country.

But the U.S. action is not likely to bring any quick reconciliation between the United States and India, according to American and Indian diplomats here, and it will not curb a potential Chinese veto when Bangladesh applies for United Nations membership.

Nor, according to the State Department, has recognition brought a U.S. decision on Pakistan's request for arms to replace losses suffered in the December war with India.

The war resulted in creation of Bangladesh in what had been East Pakistan.

Indian diplomatic sources in Washington have described U.S. recognition as long overdue and say it might have generated more goodwill in New Delhi had it come much earlier.

They also say that the Shanghai communique signed by President Nixon and Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, which called attention to the Indian alliance with the Soviet Union, aroused suspicion that Peking and Washington "made a deal behind our backs."

The Fordham-Drexel football game in Philadelphia Oct. 28 will mark the first game ever between these two schools.

Senate Ponders War Power Bill

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today begins consideration of amendments to a bill that would limit the power of a president to make war.

In prepared Senate speeches, Sens. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., the Senate majorit whip, and Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., joined in support of the measure to require prior approval o Congress for most use of the armed forces.

The bill would permit the President to commit U.S. troops for 30 days only to repel attack on U.S. territory and armed forces, forestall threat of attack, and to rescue Americans in danger abroad.

The bill is "needed to prevent the involvement of our country in future Vietnams," Byrd said in asserting that Congress has the sole constitutional authority to initrate war, declared or undeclared.

The measure, said Percy, will "serve to save presidents from undertaking military adventures contrary to the wishes of the American people."

Leading the opposition, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., told the Senate Tuesday the bill is "unrealistic, unwise and unconstitutional."

"It makes no sense from the standpoint of safe or intelligent military planning," Goldwater said. "It is disruptive of our entire mutual security system which now safeguards world order ... And it invalidly prohibits the president in the exercise of his constitutional powers of national defense."

Pending amendments include two by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

A supporter of the bill in the committee's unanimous vote bringing it to the Senate floor, Fulbright said he thinks it goes too far in that some provisions "could be construed as sanctioniong a preemptive, or first strike, attack solely on the president's own judgment."

Fulbright proposes that the bill simply authorize the president "to respond to any act or situation" for 30 days if it endangers the United States or its citizens. He would bar the use of nuclear weapons except in reacting to a nuclear attack.

Another Fulbright amendment would delete the exemption of current hostilities, lest it imply congressional sanction for the constitutionality of the Vietnam war.

Davis Trial Resumes

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — After a day's recess, the Angela Davis trial resumes today with testimony from a man who was gunned down and paralyzed during a shootout at the Marin County Civic Center.

No trial session was held Tuesday to allow a juror to attend her father's funeral.

Prosecutor Albert Harris Jr. said his first two witnesses would be Marin County Sheriff's Inspector Kenneth O. Irving and Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas.

Thomas was one of five persons taken hostage by three black convicts and an accomplice at the civic center. In the shooting that followed he was hit in the spine and permanently paralyzed from the waist down. A judge, two convicts and the accomplice were killed.

Irving was in the courtroom hallway when the kidnapers led Thomas, three women jurors and Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley to an elevator at gunpoint.

Joint Space Mission Seen By MSC Director

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Chances are three out of four that American and Soviet astronauts will meet in space in an earth orbit mission to test a common docking system, the director of the Manned Spacecraft Center said Tuesday.

Christopher C. Kraft, director of MSC, said the joint mission probably will be in 1975.

He said his estimate of the odds on the mission becoming a reality are "75-25 in favor of doing it."

Speaking in an interview, Kraft said it already was too late to have the mission on the earliest predicted date, June 1974, but the additional needed hardware could be ready by 1975.

He noted, however, "If we are going to fly in 1975, we'll have to get agreements from both countries with six months."

Kraft said agreement on final technical details could come this summer. A Soviet team of space experts that has held discussions with an American team is expected to meet here in May or June, he said.

The joint space mission would be a 14-day flight with two days spent in joint Soviet-U.S. operations.

An American command and service module would line up in space with a Soviet spacecraft that would include both a Salyut, which is a laboratory, and a Zoyuz, which is the Soviets' command and service module.

Crews from the two nations would exchange visits, using a docking module as a common link. The docking module would be carried into space by the American ship.

Kraft said the cost for new American hardware needed for the mission would be $100 to $200 million.

He said such a mission "would probably lead to cooperative missions in the future," possibly including the docking of a Soviet Zoyuz with an American space laboratory.

Kraft said the Nixon administration has encouraged the discussions between the U.S. space agency and its Soviet counterpart.

Delegations from the two nations met for discussions three times, twice in Moscow and once here.

'72 Vegas Recalled

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors is recalling approximately 130,000 1972-model Chevrolet Vegas to correct a carburetor defect which consumer advocate Ralph Nader charges could cause the subcompact car to burst into flames.

In a statement issued in Detroit late Tuesday, GM said the defect had been found only in cars with the optional 90-horsepower engine. GM said it had developed a method to correct the problem.

Required parts for the recall are scheduled to be in the hands of dealers during the latter part of the month, GM said.

The automaker's announcement coincided with release in Washington of Nader's letter to the National Highway Traffic Safety Association detailing the charges. Nader said they were based on "numerous" reports he has received of fires in Vegas.

GM said preparations for the recall were under way before it learned of Nader's letter. The Vegas are being recalled at company expense and make up about 40 per cent of the 1972 model year production, GM said.

Nader said the fires start because of the design of the carburetor. He said the top cover of the carburetor is so insecurely fastened it easily works loose, permitting so much air to get into the fuel mixture that the engine backfires, blowing out the exhaust system.

A fuel line is near where the exhaust system blows out, and the fire can result, Nader said.

Nader charged GM was trying to conceal the problem from Vega owners by carrying out "an illegal silent recall campaign" through dealerships to repair the defect—a charge GM said it "categorically denies."

Control Critics Plan Hearings

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional critics who say the Nixon administration has mishandled wage-price controls are planning a cross-country series of hearings to provide a forum for complaints.

While there has been no official announcement, it was learned that the House Banking Committee is gearing up for public hearings that would begin in Washington, then move to various cities throughout the country.

The groundwork was laid last month when Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., wrote President Nixon that the control program was not being carried out in accordance with congressional intentions and that, unless changes were made, the committee was prepared to reopen hearings and possibly recommend amendments to the Economic Stabilization Act which it steered to passage at Nixon's request in 1970.

Since Patman wrote the letter, controversy over the economic-control program has been sharpened by the resignation of four of the five labor members of the Pay Board and by an abrupt rise in food prices.

One set of hearings on wage and price control, on a somewhat lower key, is already assured.

The Senate-House Economic Committee has announced it will call witnesses beginning April 18 for an overview of the control program. Among those testifying will be members of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, the heads of the Pay Board and Price Commission, and AFL-CIO President George Meany, who led the labor walkout.

The joint committee's jurisdiction is limited to studies and recommendations. It cannot, like the Banking and other legislative committees, report bills for action.

If current plans are carried out, the Banking Committee's hearings probably would begin in May and extend over several weeks, a timetable that would keep the economic issue simmering until the political-convention season opens in July.

Price Gets Hero's Welcome

PALESTINE, Tex. (AP) — A hero's welcome greeted Rep. Rayford Price, newly elected Speaker of the Texas House, Tuesday.

Some 200 well-wishers clustered around the Anderson County Courthouse where Price was described by District Court Judge R.W. Lawrence as the "brightest star in Texas' political galaxy."

"I am dumbfounded that anyone would come out and listen to an East Texas politician on a day like this when you could be out fishing," Price said.

He was brought to the courthouse ceremony in a motorcade accompanied through the downtown business district by bands from Palestine High School and Henderson County Junior College of Athens.

Judge Lawrence, who served as master of ceremonies, said that Price's acceptance remarks after being elected to the high office during a special session of the legislature last week "ushered in a welcome calm in the troubled sea of the House and that storm has now abated."

"Anderson County is humble proud of him," Judge Lawrence said of Price. "And the first county in our state is pleased to share his talents with the entire state."

Houston Engineers Settle

HOUSTON (AP) — Operating engineers have ended a two-day dispute with contractors but some construction projects remained shutdown as workers honored cement mason picket lines.

Tentative agreement was reached Tuesday on a new contract for the 2,500 members of Operating Engineers Local 450 and the Houston Chapter of the Associated General Contractors, the largest of the local contractor association and responsible for about 80 per cent of union construction jobs.

Meanwhile, the AGC reached agreement with Houston teamsters. It previously had reached a settlement with union roofers.

Cement masons and ironworkers contracts expired along with the other three at midnight last Friday.

Monday's walkout took place in a 13-county area and idled more than $200 million in construction projects.

A spokesman for the contractors said the strike situation is changing too rapidly to accurately assess the extend of work stoppage after Tuesday's agreements.

The three AGC settlements are subject to ratification by union rank and file but Ty Bloodworth, business manager for the engineers, predicted routine approval within a week.

Bloodworth said terms of the new three year contract includes a 5.5 per cent first year wage boost and adoption of work rules suggested by national construction union leaders.

Vaccination Of Horses Is Urged

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The president of the Texas Veterinary Medical Association has issued a reminder to South Texas horse owners, advising them that colts and horses not vaccinated last year against Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis should receive such protection before summer.

Dr. Wallace R. Larson of San Antonio estimated that about 50,000 horses went unvaccinated in Texas during last year's outbreak of the sleeping sickness.

He said this represents only a small percentage of the state's horses, "but if these are close enough together to get it rolling, there might be another outbreak. We will know very soon."

The mosquito-borne disease is generally fatal to horses.

Research indicates horses vaccinated in 1971 are safe this year, but no one yet knows how long the protection lasts, Larson said.

He said he is not recommending re-vaccination of horses that were vaccinated last year, but he is sending letters to his clients outlining these government recommendations:

Any colt born this year should be vaccinated at about six weeks of age; any colt that was under six months old when vaccinated last year should be re-vaccinated; and any horse whose owner is not "absolutely positive" that it was vaccinated last year should have the vaccination.

Rancher Cleared Of Wife Stealing

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A jury has cleared a retired rancher of charges that he stole the affections of the wife of a Pentagon official who once served as former President Lyndon Johnson's pilot.

Asked to consider six questions in the $1 million suit, the jury found in favor of Samuel Berrey, 59, on each issue after deliberating for 1½ hours Tuesday.

The suit was filed by Col. Billy R. Wright of Alexandria, Va., a branch chief of the Joint Chiefs of Staff operations directorate.

Wright, 45, served as helicopter pilot for Johnson while he was vice president and President.

The verdict came after six days of testimony in which Wright's lawyer attempted to show that Berrey broke up Wright's marriage to Mary Burke Wright while the officer was serving in Vietnam during 1968 and 1969.

The defense maintained the Wright's relationship began to deteriorate after Wright returned from Korea in 1966 and imposed military order in the home.

The Wrights were divorced in 1970 after 22 years of marriage.

Mrs. Wright, who was not a party to the suit, admitted that she had intimate relations with Berrey when she was placed on the witness stand by Berrey's lawyer. She also testified to similar affairs with three other men before dating Berrey.

The last witness to testify was the younger of the Wrights two son, William, 17, who was asked by Wright's lawyer why he was living with his father.

"Because I could not stomach the way my mother was carrying on with Mr. Berrey," the youth replied.

Wright claimed his wife told him when he return from Vietnam that she did not love him and that Berrey had promised to marry her. Berrey denied any such intentions.

Berrey, now of San Antonio, is a former cattleman in Atascosa County south of here. He was divorced in 1948, the year the Wrights were married.

The Wrights had one other son, Charles, 22, who is serving with the Army in Vietnam.

Berrey offered little comment after the trial. Asked if he was glad the ordeal was over, he said only: "Wouldn't you be?"

Bessent Gets Post

AUSTIN, Tex. AP—Dr. Wailand Bessent, University of Texas professor of educational administration, has been elected president of the University Council for Educational Administration.

The organization, comprising 58 major U.S. universities, promotes research in educational administration and works toward the improvement of the preparation programs for education administrators.

GOVERNMENT GUARANTEES $50 MILLION

New Community Is Planned Near Houston

WASHINGTON (AP)—Plans to build seven Texas villages and a town center with the government guaranteeing $50 million toward the cost were disclosed Tuesday.

Population of the new community on a wooded 17,000-acre tract 30 miles north of Houston would be about 150,000 as now proposed. There would be 49,000 homes, of which about a third would house families of low and moderate income—including the elderly.

The federal government's guarantee of $50 million is larger than those made for any of eight previous new towns.

The tentative commitment to the developer of The Woodlands is subject to the findings of a study, due in two months, on the effect of ground water withdrawal on water table levels and soil settlement, the Department of Housing and Urban Development said.

In addition to 26 neighborhood and village shopping areas, the Woodlands plan calls for a major regional shopping area of 1.5 million square feet.

The Woodlands Development Corp. has donated a 400-acre site for a proposed 15,000-student branch of the University of Houston. Three elementary schools, two intermediate schools and a junior high school are planned for The Woodlands during the next five years. located west of I-45, the site will include 2,000 acres for industrial use. It is estimated The Woodlands will provide industrial and business jobs for 30,000 people, plus on-site construction employment.

About 3,350 acres of open space are being allocated for wildlife corridors through the development, parks, buffer zones, and pedestrian trails and pathways.

Urban activity areas of 1,263 acres are designed to include commercial, business, institutional and governmental establishment. A metro center will provide regional facilities, while a town center is proposed to meet the shopping needs of The Woodlands residents.

The 6,172 acres in residential land use will be divided into seven villages, each carefully planned to provide a mix of income and ethnic groups.

About 4,200 acres in The Woodlands will be retained as open space or developed as recreation areas. Sewage treatment systems, storm water drainage, roadways and paths have been designed to minimize air, ground and water pollution and to preserve wildlife.

A prepaid total health care plan, including preventative medical help and treatment, is being drafted for the new town by staffs of the Texas Medical Center and Baylor University medical schools.

A two-way cable communication system linking homes, community centers and schools also is under study. Programs of shared religious facilities within The Woodlands also are planned.

The city of Houston has included The Woodlands site in its area of extra-territorial jurisdiction, paving the way for possible annexation to that city.

Spring Returns To Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

South winds returned to shoving damp, warm air into Texas from the Gulf of Mexico today, all but erasing the last vestiges of a cold front which finished moving out of the state the day before.

Clouds covered much of East and Central Texas while skies were clear over other sections.

Early morning temperatures covered a spread from 41 degreee at Amarillo, Childress and Texarkana up to 70 at Corpus Christi and McAllen.

Top marks Tuesday afternoon went as high as 87 at Kingsville in South Texas. Longview was the coolest spot with a maximum of 62.

Forecasts promised mild weather and partly cloudy to cloudy skies throughout the state.

India's tigers have killed as many as 60,000 sheep, cows and goats in one year, but they help farmers by keeping down the number of crop-eating deer, antelope and wild pigs.

Waco Plant To Expand

WACO (AP) — An $18.5 million expansion and modernization at its Waco plant program was announced Tuesday by General Tire and Rubber Co.

Officials said the expansion will create 300 new jobs.

The announcement was made during a luncheon given by General Tire Vice President James H. Miller for representatives of government, business and labor.

"This is the 10th major capital investment that General Tire had made for additions to its Waco plant since it was built in 1944," Miller said.

"There is no question about this being the most significant of all the expansions ever undertaken in Waco by the company," he said.

The expansion will add 700,000 square feet of tire plant under one roof, raising the plant's total square footage to about two million square feet.

"When the expansion is completed," Miller said, "the Waco plant will be 8.5 times larger than the original plant."

Construction will start this month and be completed in 1974.
