Overwhelming Red Army Encircling Allied Positions

Bridges, Equipment Burned in Retreat

TOKYO —(AP)— Overwhelming Chinese Communist armies closely threatened the entire United Nations forces in North Korea with twin entrapments Saturday.

In the northwest, U.S. Eighth Army troops literally burned bridges and other vital equipment behind them as they pulled southward through the former Red capital of Pyongyang. The Reds were 25 miles from that military and political prize

In the northeast, Red regulars were within 25 miles of the vital port of Wonsan, and guerillas were a dozen miles closer threatening the U.S. Tenth Corps rear.

General MacArthur estimated the enemy already at the fronts or quickly moving up totalled 500,000 Chinese, plus 100,000 to 150,000 North Korean Reds being regrouped in the rear.

The UN commander bluntly admitted the "overwhelming strength of the enemy completely outnumbers us on the ground."

He declined to estimate allied forces, but earlier unofficial estimates have been about 200,000, of whom approximately half are South Koreans.

The sharpest immediate crisis was in the northwest, before Pyongyang, which the allies liberated Oct. 20.

While a new United Nations defense line, north of the former Korean Communist capital, remained intact, Chinese poked three divisions directly at the center. Eight more Chinese divisions moved in a sweep around the right end.

Field dispatches said huge fires marked the destruction of bridging material airlifted from Japan to Korea, and other vital equipment which the reatreating Americans were unable to move.

Associated Press Correspondent Tom Lambert reported that withdrawal of United Nations forces south through Pyongyang gained momentum in the allies' fifth straight day of retreat. He said some units stationed in the city itself began leaving.

Red fifth columnists were reported active in Pyongyang.

U. S. FIRST CORPS HEADQUARTERS IN KOREA — (AP) — A spokesman said today allied forces are making a general withdrawal south of the defense arc set up about 30 miles north of Pyongyang, former North Korean capital.

"We are trading space for time," a First Corps spokesman said.

The spokesman reported "we are gradually pulling back south" of the Sukchon-Sunchon line 30 miles due north of Pyongyang.

The Ninth Corps on the right flank east of this line also was making a general withdrawal.

Sen. McCarthy Asks Use of Nationalists

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) told President Truman that Congress ought to "immediately impeach you" unless the administration sanctions use of Chinese Nationalist troops against the Communists in Korea.

"If this treasonable farce of insisting that only American boys can die, while refusing the help of the soldiers of our allies continues, then the time is long overdue for the Congress, in the name of America, to stand up and be counted and immediately impeach you," McCarthy said in a statement directed to the President.

McCarthy added it "is beyond conception that your State Department, which either bungled or planned us into this war, now bars the use of any" of Chiang Kai-shek's troops in Korea.

The Wisconsin senator said Chiang has 358,000 well-trained and well-equipped soldiers on the island of Formosa, and that they are "willing and eager to fight the hordes of Chinese Communists who are killing our young men."

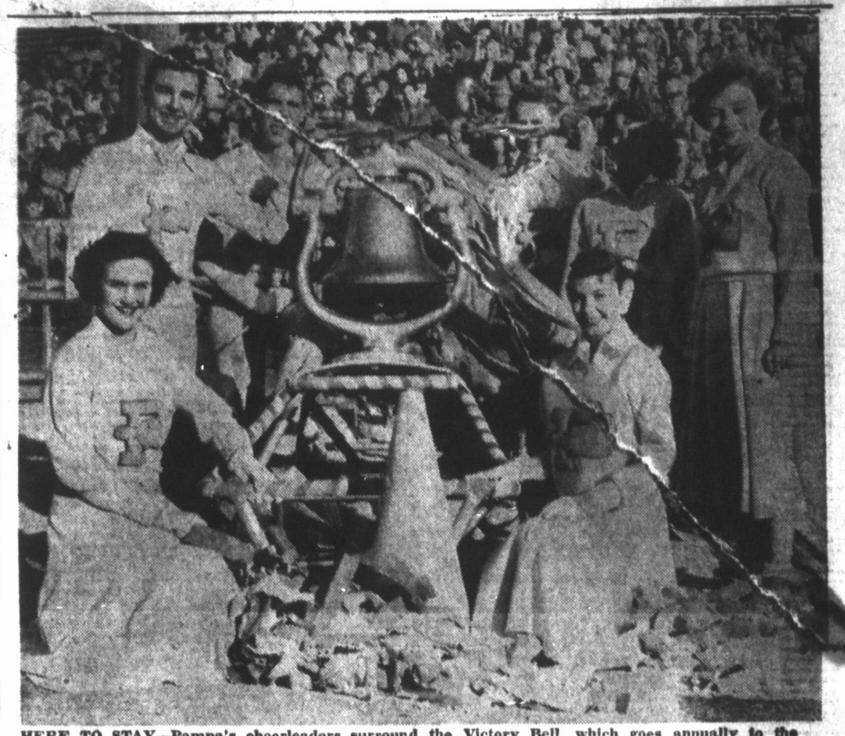

When the Korean war started last summer, Chiang offered to send about 33,000 Nationalist troops immediately to the assistance of the United Nations forces.

This government expressed the view that this might weaken the defense of Formosa, the last stronghold of the Chinese Nationalists, and Gen. Douglas Mac-

HERE TO STAY—Pampa's cheerleaders surround the Victory Bell, which goes annually to the winner of District 1-AA. It's here to stay another year, and possibly for good with the new district classifications. It was retained by the Harvesters yesterday by their crushing 71-6 win over Borger. Victory Bell Rings For Pampa Again

The victory bell stays in Pampa!

The Fighting Pampa Harvesters made sure of that fact Saturday afternoon at Harvester Park as they sent their supporters into near hysterics with a resounding 71-6 victory over what was expected to be a Borger Bulldag team that had a chance. But the first quarter indicated what was in store for the biteless Bulldogs. And the happy Pampa fans were screaming for more at game's end.

"Make it 11" and "Get a Coyote" read the signs on the dressing room walls as the battered and bleeding but all-conquering Harvesters returned to their dressing room. It was a very rough game despite the lopsided score and Dr. Charles Ashby, the team's physician, took off his coat and went to work on the boys when they started to undress.

Buzzy Tarpley, husky senior tackle, with one eye closed by a bad cut, smiled through the sweat and grime and then added "Get a Coyote" through the spot in his mouth where two teeth were knocked out last year.

Tollie Hutchens, reserve center who blocked one punt and then ran it over for a touchdown, was telling that he had played at halfback in former years, and never got to score. And then he bragged to the coaches that he even centered the ball straight a couple of times today.

Gerald Mathews, outstanding senior center who blocked the first two punts to set up Pampa scores, was moaning over the fact that he failed to cover one of the blocked punts for a tally.

Buddy Cockrell, giant sophomore tackle, couldn't wait to get his shoes off and dig out the nickel that he had found on the field during the game and tucked into his size 11 brogans for safekeeping.

Coach Nooncaster, whose backs had a field day behind the terrific and superlative play of the linemen, was telling Charley Ely what he's supposed to do after scoring a touchdown like he did, running 11 yards to score without a hand being laid on him. "Stick the ball in the air after you score and tell the boys where it is so they'll know," he jokingly said.

While the players were replaying the game inside the building the joyous supporters, students, parents and friends, were happily fighting their way through the crowd to head home. The victory bell, donated to District 1-AA by the Santa Fe Railroad, was once again in good hands, for the second straight year.

Pat the Harvesters were looking ahead. This weekend it will be the Wichita Falls Coyotes in

Santa's Friday Appearance Is Said Best Ever in Pampa

Amid the fanfare caused by a dozen or more bands, an estimated 35,000 persons saw Santa Claus and his reindeer go parading through the streets of Pampa, Friday night, in a colorful torchlight parade.

The parade, which began at 7 p.m., consisted of 16 bands, several floats, Boy Scouts and pet entries, and was said by some observers to be the best parade ever presented in Pampa.

Led by a delegation of Boy Scouts carrying the American flag, the parade moved down W. Foster, north on Frost to W. Francis, east to Cuyler and down Cuyler to Thut, breaking up at the Fort Worth and Denver station house. Visitors and residents lined the streets from the point of departure until the parade broke up.

Highlight of the event was the appearance of Santa Claus and his reindeer, all decked out in traditional red and green. Following the parade, Santa parked his sleigh on the vacant lot at the corner of Cuyler and Kingsmill and passed out 5,000 sacks of candy to the younger generation.

For weeks, chamber of commerce officials have been making plans for this event, sending out invitations to area bands, school officials, chambers of commerce and other organizations to attend or take part in the parade.

Visiting bands came from Canadian, Briscoe, Shamrock, Lefors, Phillips, Amarillo College, Clarendon, Borger, Wheeler, Panhandle, Spearman, Dumas and Wellington. Pampa had three bands in the parade and Borger two, making a total of 17.

One of the outstanding bands was that of Phillips, whose members had small lights on their hats and feet.

The torchlight part of the parade was, on the whole, successful, except for a few torches that fell off into the street and gave the crowd a few laughs when Boy Scouts tried to extinguish said torches. Observers said, however, that the torches gave a special added touch of color to the parade that made it more successful.

De Ann Whatley, 1101 S. Clark, was given first place in the pet entries with Carvie Latus, 905 E. Beryl, being awarded second.

Of the floats, the Holy Souls float, with the children kneeling at the altar and choir singing placed first of the religious floats. First of the general class was given to Beta Sigma Phi's jack-

This program, featuring a layman, a woman, a girl, a boy and two ministers, was to be sponsored by the Pampa Ministerial Alliance.

We Were Glad to Have You All:

Pampa Hospitality Draws Appreciation

Pampa truly lived up to its long-worn slogan of "The Friendly City" the past two weeks through its treatment of visiting towns while their football teams played championship games here. The full extent of their appreciation has been shown in remarks made and letters received from the school officials.

George L. Graham, superintendent of Hereford High School, wrote his thanks to the Chamber of Commerce and added:

"You and your citizenry made perfect hosts and we sincerely appreciate your generosity and all of the nice things you did. We realize there was much time involved in working out all the details and feel indebted to you for the very commendable manner in which everything was conducted."

Hereford's Mustangs lost to Shamrock in bi-district play in Class A.

Elmer J. Moore, superintendent of the Shamrock schools, wrote:

"In behalf of the Shamrock Schools and the people of Shamrock, we wish to thank you for the many courtesies extended to us while we were in Pampa for our bi-district game.

"We had a very enjoyable day and hope to have many other opportunities to visit your city."

Supt. Ray Vineyard of the White Deer-Skellytown Independent School District, wrote:

"On behalf of all the people directly or indirectly connected with our school system I want to express our appreciation to you for the hospitality extended to us this past weekend. It is gratifying to know that we have such good neighbors living adjacent to us.

"We will welcome the opportunity to reciprocate this hospitality, and if at any time in

Attlee, Pleven Seek Early Settlements

LONDON — (AP) — War-shy Britain and France agreed today to press for an early settlement with Soviet Russia and Red China of the Korean warfare and other danger-packed quarrels.

Qualified officials said the accord came in a five-hour meeting of French Premier Rene Pleven with Prime Minister Attlee, on the eve of Attlee's flight to Washington for face-to-face talks with President Truman. Pleven flew to London with his foreign minister, Robert Schuman, and other aides to see Attlee. After the parley Pleven decided not to go along with Attlee to Washington.

In the Washington discussion on the issues stemming from the Korean crisis, the British leader will be buttressed by the knowledge that seven commonwealth nations as well as France share his government's views on what United Nations objectives should be.

Borger Names Book Probers

BORGER — (AP) — More than 30 persons met here last night to organize a committee to investigate teachings and textbooks in Borger schools.

One of the leaders said the investigation would involve reports that classwork had been slanted to favor socialized medicine and that children had no opportunity to give the pledge to the American flag.

The leader, Mrs. H. D. McCormick, said no charges of communistic teachings had been made. She is chairman of the Americanism Committee of the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary.

She said the probers would seek out any possible communistic propaganda in textbooks.

The Rev. Amos R. Meador, Nazarene Church pastor, was named committee chairman.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

Work With Your Partner

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The other day I sat in back of a rather good canasta player who suffers from one terrible fault. He does not cooperate with his partner. Furthermore, if his partner of the moment happens to be a weak player, this man tries to play the whole hand himself with almost uniformly bad results.

This was the first hand of the game. My man had a bad partner and a bad hand. No wild cards and no set of three of a kind. No one melded for a while and my man managed to acquire three kings, but still no wild card. He had discarded a couple of sevens early in the play and at this turn his discard gave away the pile.

The player who took the pile melded the minimum and now my man's partner melded two deuces with two sevens.

It was not hard to sense my man's rage. He had a bad hand which obviously did not include any sevens and yet his idiot partner had wasted two deuces with two sevens.

I must admit that the play looked terrible to me, but I wondered if maybe the partner did not have some method in his madness. I said to myself, "What would I do if I held five or six wild cards but only one natural pair — sevens."

The answer was that I would meld just as this player had done in order to beg my partner to put down anything he could in hope that we could find a base, make a canasta and meld out.

My man drew a nine giving him three nines in addition to the three kings he held already and I wondered if he would have enough sense to meld. He didn't, but merely discarded.

Now, I walked around the table to see if my analysis of the partner's play had been correct. It had been. The seven cards remaining in his hand were a king, a jack, a five and four more deuces.

He drew a second five. He would have been able to go out then and there if his partner had put down three kings. As it was all he could do was to meld deuce-five-five and unfortunately he chose to discard the king.

Now my man woke up, but one play late. He melded his kings and nines. Unfortunately, for him, the king that would have made a base for the essential canasta had been discarded and he and his partner were unlucky enough not to draw a base for several rounds. In the interim the opponents managed to make several canastas, and wound up with a fine score whereas a little real partnership cooperated would have set them back.

Illinois Pay-Phone Rates Up To Dime

CHICAGO — (AP) — The price of local telephone calls from public pay booths in Illinois is going up from a nickel to a dime after Jan. 1.

A court order has been issued granting the increase that does not apply to residential coin box telephones. The Illinois Bell Telephone Co. estimated that only 3 percent of its 2,556,000 telephones will be affected by the new rate. The new rate will be for 48,000 pay booths in Chicago and 17,000 downstate.

Q. and A.

You and the Service

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Q. Will a man whose wife is pregnant be [illegible]granted the same status as fathers?

A. Married men have the same status as fathers under the present re[illegible]gulations so you don't have to w[illegible]orry — about the draft, that is.

Q. I have just been appointed regular carrier in the Postal Department. I would like to volunteer for service. How would that affect my job rights when I get out?

A. If you get out of service before the end of three years your postal status will be kept intact by law.

Q. My husband and I are separated but he has been helping in my support under protest. If he goes in service will he be forced by the Army to give me an allotment out of his pay?

A. The Army does not force members to allot part of their pay to dependents. The Army will inquire into any case where the legal dependent of one of its members claims non-support. Each case is decided on individual merits and there is no general rule.

Q. What about the car I have just bought on time if I go into service? And can I raise my GI insurance from $5000 to $10,000 if I go back in?

A. There is a law which protects service men in case of legal action or debts. Arrangements for easier payments are made. You can raise your insurance if you go back in.

Q. What are the chances of a business school student getting deferred from a call to active duty?

A. Good.

Q. Will reserve Army nurses be recalled to active duty?

A. Army has already announced it will recall 650 nurses.

Q. I got a dishonorable discharge from the Army. Will I be called to active duty? I have reformed since then.

A. Chances are good that you won't be recalled. You can volunteer.

Bureau Reports More Strikes This Year

WASHINGTON — (AP) — There were more strikes during the first ten months of 1950 than in any recent year except 1946, the Bureau of Labor Statistics has reported.

The number of work stoppages in October remained about the same as in September, 525, but the number of workers involved dropped from 275,000 in September to 180,000 in October.

Total work stoppages for the 10-months period were 4,010, compared to 3,240 in 1949 and 4,470 in 1946.

Coach John Hansard of the Canadian Wildcats thanked the citizens of Pampa at the banquet given for both teams after the Friday afternoon game. Said Hansard:

"We sincerely want to thank Pampa for all that they have done for us these past two weeks. No more could possibly have been done by anyone.

"And it made Amarillo do something they've never done before. They got smart."

Coach George Peterson of Happy dittoed Hansard's remarks and added that "we couldn't have been treated more royally anywhere. We'll be favoring Pampa over Amarillo anytime. And that goes for the Harvesters over the Sandies at all times, too."

Down at Canadian, Ben Ezzell, publisher of the Canadian Record, writes:

"The Pampa Chamber of Commerce, incidentally, came in for a lot of bouquets for both their treatment of both teams, school officials, and fans. And while we feel a touch of envy at seeing all those Christmas shoppers pulled into Pampa at the expense of our home-town merchants, we'll cheerfully admit that the Pampans are A-1 hosts, and salute their on-the-toes action in luring the bi - district playoff game to Harvester Field. Pampa C-C president Gene Fatheree, ex-president Pinky Vineyard and secretary Red Wedgeworth, sparkplugs of the Pampa welcoming committee, were on hand for the game ready with a new invitation before the timer's whistle had stopped echoing across the field at game's end."

RED ARMY

miles of Pyonyang late Saturday after capturing Songchon, some 30 miles to the northeast. More than 1,000 Reds were killed by U.S. First Cavalry troopers and by air strikes in heavy fighting in the sector.

If successful in turning the right flank of the new UN defense line, the Chinese would threaten to pin most of the Eighth Army, including four U.S. divisions to the coast in the northwest.

In the northeast, elements of 80,000 Chinese menaced the big east coast supply base of Wonsan, headquarters of the Tenth Corps. This base largely supports three U.S. divisions and two Republic of Korea (ROK) divisions spread over 23,000 square miles.

Field dispatches from both fronts took a gloomy overall view.

Gen. MacArthur, answering Tokyo correspondents' written questions, estimated that more than one-half the 500,000 Chinese were in the front echelon while the remainder were moving up rapidly from Yalu River bases on the Manchurian border, in an "undeclared war, against the United Nations."

AP Correspondent Don Whitehead on the northwest front said there was no end in sight to the United Nations retreat in Korea. He pointed out that the first week of the huge Chinese counter-offensive had separated the Eighth Army in the west and the Tenth Corps in the east.

Each, he said, was fighting to escape destruction and neither could aid the other.

A still more gloomy opinion came from correspondent Leif Erickson at Eighth Army headquarters. He said the plain truth was that Communist commanders believe they can destroy both the Eighth Army and the Tenth Corps.

The U.S. Eighth Army commander Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, issued stern orders Saturday night to destroy all bridges and buildings restored in Pyongyang if and when the city is finally evacuated.

General MacArthur's headquarters in the war summary late Saturday said that U.S. Second Division troops withdrew to new defensive positions south of the Chongchon River. The positions were not pinpointed.

The U.S. 24th Division, and the British, Turkish and South Korean troops attached to it in the U.S. First Corps, likewise pulled back to undisclosed points. The war summary said there were indications of enemy activity in front of the "outpost line of resistance."

The plight of UN forces in the northeast was almost equally serious.

At Yangdok, 42 air miles west of Wonsan, Chinese forces built up strength on the main supply road crossing the narrow waist of Korea to Pyongyang.

Some 25 miles northwest of Wonsan, a trainload of 1,000 Chinese troops was hit by marine airmen.

The ROK Capital Division was last reported moving slowly northeast toward the Siberian frontier, about 40 miles away. The U.S. Cruiser St. Paul provided close gun support offshore.

U.S. planes of all categories continued heavy close support Saturday, smashing at a 250-vehicle convoy moving south from Sinanjui on the Manchurian border, and hitting railroad communication lines and supply dumps.

ager for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., said Friday the company wanted to have a full city commission present to hear informal testimony by top level company officials.

The meeting is to be held with the City Commission, the citizens' committee, and the general public, the latter urged to attend by City Manager Dick Pepin.

Individual letters have already been mailed to members of the citizens' committee, urging them to attend what may be the final parley before the commission acts on a rate boost for telephone service here.

McCARTHY

Arthur concurred. After conferring with Chiang, MacArthur issued a statement at Taipei, Formosa, Aug. 1 saying:

"Among the problems which were discussed was the prompt and generous offer of the Chinese government to send troops to join the United Nations forces in Korea.

"The belief of all concerned, however, was that such action at this time might so seriously jeopardize the defense of Formosa that it would be inadvisable."

In addition to the officially stated reason, it is known that the Truman administration felt use of Chiang's forces might give the Chinese Reds an excuse to intervene in Korea, which they now have done anyway.

Frank A. Hecht of Chicago, president of the Navy League of the United States, also urged in a letter to Mr. Truman that Chiang be invited to send a large army to Korea.

Hecht also proposed that MacArthur be authorized to bomb enemy supply bases in Communist China; that the United States reaffirm its recognition of the Nationalist government, and strengthen the Seventh Fleet to help defend Formosa.

Rep. Vursell (R-Ill) in a statement proposed using Nationalist Chinese troops to fight on the mainland of China against the Chinese Communists.

Such a plan, he said, would "compel the Communists to fight a war on two fronts."

In his statement today addressed to "Mr. President," McCarthy also again bitterly criticized Secretary of State Acheson.

And he said the leaders of the Chinese Reds are "the same Chinese Communists whom Marshall, under Acheson's orders, tried to force into positions of power in Chiang Kai-shek's government."

That was a reference to Gen. George C. Marshall, now Secretary of Defense, and apparently an allusion to the period after World War II when Marshall went on a mission to China at Mr. Truman's request. Acheson then was undersecretary of state.

"You will recall," McCarthy told Mr. Truman, "that when our ally, Chiang Kai-shek, refused (to cooperate with the Reds) on the ground that the Communists could not be trusted as partners, Marshall placed an embargo on all ammunition to those Chinese who were fighting communism."

McCarthy demanded that Mr. Truman "get rid of that group (in the administration) whose hatred for Chiang Kai-shek and love for Chinese Communists is being demonstrated by an ever increasing mountain of American dead." He added:

"You have asked for unity in this crisis, but you can not expect honest Americans to unify behind the blunderers or traitors who set the stage for what may be America's greatest military disaster."

Long-Time Pampan Succumbs Saturday In Hospital Here

Mrs. Julia B. Ayres, a long-time resident of Pampa, died in the Highland General Hospital at 8:30 Saturday evening after an illness of five years. She had been confined to the hospital for the past 15 days.

Mrs. Ayres was born on Sept. 5, 1875, near Cleburne, Tex. She moved to Pampa with her husband, John B., in 1917 from Sterling City. They resided at 903 E. Browning.

Survivors include three sisters, Mrs. J. H. Ayres of Pampa, Mrs. Henry Blackburn of Sterling City and Miss Ada Davis of Fort Stockton, Tex.; one brother, J.L. Davis of Elk City, Okla.; and several nephews, three of whom were reared in Pampa. They are John B. Ayres, and James H. Ayres of Pampa, and Henry Ayres of Wickett, Tex.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 Monday morning at the First Christian Church. Rev. James Todd and Rev. H.H. Tyler will officiate. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery beside the body of her husband, who died in April 1939.

Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home is in charge.

Pallbearers will be Bill Green, Gus Green, Billy Taylor, Ewing Cobb, Harry McWaters and Coyle Ford.

Penn State Slips Past Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Penn State slipped and slid through mud Saturday to eke out an upset 21-20 victory over a University of Pittsburgh football team that made a thrilling but futile second half comeback fight.

It was Penn State's fourth straight victory of the season and its first over Pitt since 1947. A meager crowd of only 7,000 rode trolleys to the Forbes Field battle where parking lots were still blanketed with the city's record snow.

Notre Dame Dumped Mississippi Tips

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Southern California dumped favored Notre Dame Saturday, 9-7, to wind up a disappointing season in victory. A crowd of 70,111 saw a rough game in which Irish backs Bob Williams and John Petitbon had to be carried from the field.

At least 80 animal diseases also affect man.

in-the-box. Other floats were entered by the Pampa Girl Scouts, Pampa Girl Scouts, Assn., Inc., Jaycee-Ettes and the Pampa Rebekah Lodge. One of the funnier entries was that of the B.P.O. Elks, Pampa Lodge No. 1573, featuring Kenneth Williams and Isabell, the Model A. The entry advertised the Elks' future show for underprivileged children, "Aunt Silly," which will be produced in Pampa soon.

Following the parade, the Pampa Chamber of Commerce fed all members of the various bands in the VFW - American Legion Hall. The young people were fed hot dogs, potato chips, candy and soft drinks, all for free. A number of prominent men assisted in feeding the hundreds of uniformed band members.

Leslie Hart was chairman of the parade committee of the chamber. Others on the committee included Huelyn Laycock, Paul Beisenherz, Charles Robinson, Dale Pinson, Billy Davis, Johnny Schoolfield, Phil Solberg and Ross Buzzard.

Shortly before the parade, the Pampa Jaycees turned on the lighted Christmas street decorations. In observance of the event, Pampa merchants kept their stores open until 9 p.m.

ATTLEE

between Attlee and Pleven and their aides brought out this broad understanding, qualified officials said:

Britain and France want an early Korean settlement based on an agreement with Red China.

Britain and France want an early big four parley at which the West can discuss with Russia the issues which might touch off World War III.

Britain and France want to widen the military command of the Korean war — by giving more say to countries which have forces fighting alongside Americans and South Koreans in the field, this, possibly could be done by a small military committee which the UN general assembly could set up.

Finally Britain and France believe only the UN — and not the United States on its own — must decide whether to use the atom bomb in a UN war.

UN STANDS BY

NEW YORK — (AP) — The United Nations Assembly was reported today preparing to stand by during the winter and spring so it could act quickly on the Chinese Communist-Korean crisis or any other world problem.

French Will Reopen African Copper Mines

BRAZZAVILLE, French Equitorial Africa — (AP) — An agreement has been concluded for the exploitation of French Equitorial Africa's copper deposits located on the railway about 180 miles insland from Pointe-Noire harbor. The deposits were mined previously between 1905 and 1930 but the world crisis in 1930-32 compelled the exploiting company to close the workings.

Gas Seen as Giant Of U. S. Power Supply

BERKELEY, Calif. — (AP) — Natural gas may soon be more important than oil in the United States says James J. Parsons of the University of California. He estimates that six trillion cubic feet were taken from the ground in 1949. Known gas reserves are bigger than oil reserves, he says.

In 1949 the marketed production of gas increased 12 percent with eight percent reduction in oil and 28 percent reduction in coal.

Donald B. Lively, QM3, USN, whose parents live at 109 S. Wynne, arrived back in the United States Nov. 22, after seven months of action in the Korean War. He was aboard the attack cargo ship USS Union, a unit of the Pacific Fleet Amphibious Force.

The Union was among the first in the Pacific Fleet to engage in operations against Korean Communists. She left San Diego early in April as a part of amphibious group one, headed by Rear Admiral J. H. Doyle, to train elements of the Eighth Army in Japan in amphibious techniques.

The Red invasion of South Korea brought a hasty end to the scheduled training program and the union was pressed into combat service carrying U.S. troops from Japan to Korea. It was among the ships of the Pacific Fleet Amphibious Force which took part in the large scale invasion of Inchon. Most recently, the Union was among the amphibious vessels which landed supplies at the thickly mined port of Wonsan to support the rapid advance of U.N. troops.

Paul E. Tollison, former Pampa Golden Glover, and G. B. Crawford of Skellytown, enlisted in the Air Force and went to Lackland AFB, San Antonio recently.

McLEAN — (Special) — Larry R. Ledbetter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Ledbetter of McLean, has recently been promoted to sergeant at Tyndall AFB, Panama City, Fla. He enlisted in the Air Force in Sept. 1948.

RHEIN MAIN AIR BASE, Frankfurt, Germany—Staff Sergeant Jack C. Grant, until recently stationed at Wiesbaden, Germany, has just been transferred to Rhein Main Air Base. Sgt. Grant of Lefors, was with Special Services in Wiesbaden. He is now the club steward at the Rhein Main Officers' Club where he will supervise club activities, arrange for show and take care of celebrities.

Well suited to be associated with entertainment, Sgt. Grant was in civilian life an entertainer, himself, a club manager, and a show producer. His first professional appearance, at the age of 14, was at the Hippadrome Theater in Baltimore, Md., where he played a banjo. Working with name bands later on, he branched out into solo work in night clubs all over the country.

Sgt. Grant entered the Infantry in March, 1941 where he became a staff sergeant. He transferred to the Air Force in 1943 and from 1945 to 1948 was a civilian, entertaining in major cities throughout the country.

Before entering the service, Grant attended Mt. St. Joseph College in Baltimore, where he has two years credit.

Mrs. Grant, son Robert, and daughter Beverly, are also with Sgt. Grant in Germany.

McLEAN —(Special)— Lt. Burrel W. Wingo, son of Howard F. Wingo of Denver, Colo., formerly of McLean, has been recalled to active duty with the Air Force. He will be stationed at Ft. Monroe, Va.

KELLERVILLE — (Special) — Pfc. Chalres H. Boyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Boyd of Kellerville, has completed his basic training at Sheppard Field, Wichita Falls, and has been assigned to Chanute (Ill.) Air Base.

Six Pampa area men, recently completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif., and are now available for assignment to a fleet unit or to one of the Navy's schools for specialized training.

The seaman apprentices are: Julian I. Parnell, USN, of Route 2, Box 146, Pampa; James Darrel DeMoss, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Patrick of 940 South Schneider, Pampa; Raymond E. Barrett, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Barrett of Pampa; Gerald Lloyd Knutson, USN, of Skellytown; and James T. Crawford, Jr., USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Crawford of Route 1, Skellytown.

The seaman recruit is Eldon Glen Turnbo, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Y. E. Turnbo of 318 North Faulkner, Pampa.

During this period of training, they underwent intensive drill in such subjects as signaling, navigation, basic ordnance and seamanship. They also were indoctrinated into the ways of the Navy and learned the customs of the service.

Melvin D. Strickland, 34, has been called back to active duty by the U.S. Marines. His wife, Ruth, lives at 529 N. Hazel, with their 5-year-old daughter, Susan. Strickland had been employed by Home Builders Supply.

He served in the anti-aircraft battery of the Third Marine Division in World War II, seeing action at Peleliu, Boiganville, Saipan and Tenian, serving a total of 33 month. He is now stationed at Camp Pendelton, Calif.

McLEAN — (Special) — Pfc. Edward Scott McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray L. McDonald of McLean, is home on 30-day furlough. He is stationed with the Marine Corps at San Diego, Calif.

Three White Deer men, Elbre G. Hess, seaman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Hess of Box 505; John L. Harvey, seaman recruit, USN; and Tommie A. Thornburg, seaman recruit, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Thornburg of Box 144, recently completed training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif.

Rangoon Discovers Elephant Rustlers

RANGOON — (AP) — Elephant rustling is an increasing racket in Burma, according to Commerce Minister Kyaw Myint. In a speech here he explained the elephants are driven across the Indo-Burma border and sold at high profit.

He urged the registration of all elephants in the country. Burmese elephants are invaluable to the timber industry where they are specially trained to haul and pile logs.

Giles Will Address County Attorneys

BASCOM GILES

Gray County attorneys and their wives Dec. 14 will hear an address by State Land Commissioner Bascom Giles when the Gray County Bar Association holds its annual ladies night dinner at the Country Club.

Commissioner Giles is expected to center his talk around the highly controversial Texas Tidelands decision of the U. S. Supreme Court; the decision that robbed Texas of a highly contributory income to its state school system.

Bar Association President Aaron Sturgeon said prominent attorneys and judges from the Panhandle and South Plains have also been invited to attend the dinner - meeting. The reception will start at 7 p.m. with the dinner following at 8 p.m.

The general committee on arrangements added a new wrinkle this year for the benefit of the ladies, Sturgeon added, by appointing a committee of six wives of attorneys to act as the ladies welcoming committee. They are: Mrs. Curtis Douglass, chairman, Mrs. W. R. Ewing, Mrs. Clifford Braly, Jr., Mrs. F. A. Cary, Mrs. Sherman White, and Mrs. Aaron Sturgeon.

Attys. Clifford Braly, Jr., and J. B. Maguire, Jr., were appointed to the reception arrangements committee.

In addition to the main speaker, entertainment will be furnished by the Squeaky Door Four, local barbershop quartet composed of Dude Balthrop, E. O. Wedgeworth, Mack Hyatt, and Bunny Shultz.

Sturgeon said he was requesting all members to get their dinner reservations in early so the general committee would know how many to prepare for.

One tenth of Florida's total orange crop was used in concentrated frozen juice in 1949, says the Encyclopedia Americana.

Community's Elders Perform Own Trial

KARACHI — (AP) — A young Karachi laundryman guilty of bigamy received "justice" at the hands of elders of his community. They gave him a "trial," tied him up and whipped him. Then the police arrived.

The self-appointed judges are now in jail, waiting for justice to take its course.

Western Europe Feverish as World War III Seems Near

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The Korean crisis has thrown Western Europe into a state of high nervous tension reminiscent of those never-to-be-forgotten eves of two world wars.

This is quite understandable when one stops to consider that the development of a major conflict involving China might easily precipitate a Communist upheaval in western Europe. Bolshevism is opportunist and is quick to profit by favorable situations.

And western Europe is, in a manner of speaking, sitting right under Moscow's big guns.

Wes Gallagher, AP Chief of Bureau in Frankfurt, Germany, tells us that Soviet armies stationed in East Germany are in position to grip Europe by the throat. He quotes allied intelligence officers as stating there are six such armies comprising 33 divisions, including ten which are heavily armored. They could overrun the western continent.

Britain, with her vast interests in the Orient, is particularly concerned and is going all-out to try to prevent any attack on Chinese territory by United Nations forces, or use of the atomic bomb. As a matter of fact, not only Britain but the British Commonwealth Nations and France were opposed to MacArthur's launching of his latest offensive.

Britain is advocating the inauguration of peace conversations with Red China. This desire for peace naturally finds an echo in the United States — if it can be achieved without appeasement, which also is the British aim. However, there is a very real obstacle in the way of such conversations.

Communist China is not a free agent. She speaks solely with the tongue of Moscow.

Thus any effort to open peace conversations with Peiping would be comparable to trying to make an agreement with Russia — a feat which has been undertaken many times without any sign of success.

FIRST GIFT—Santa gave his first gift to Pampa boys and girls Friday night. A huge throng crowded about his truck stationed at Cuyler and Kingsmill for candy and a "Merry Christmas" from the old boy and three of his elves. The line, which was formed around 7:30 p. m., ran swiftly until 9 p. m., with approximately 5,000 youngsters reaching up to get their candy. (News Photo and Engraving)

Pipes Thrown Out

LONDON — (AP) — Britons, from Bond Street gentlemen to gruff Cockney dockworkers, are laying aside the pipes which once were closely linked to their way of living. An ounce of tobacco costs 56 cents, 7 cents more than a pack of 20 cigarettes. So more men are smoking cigarettes.

The men who make and sell pipes and tobacco are highly disturbed. They've formed the National Pipe Smoking Conference from representatives of associations of retail tobacconists, pipe and tobacco manufacturers and other allied industries.

Pilgrims Ill Housed Counsillor Declares

SINGAPORE — (AP) — Moslem pigrims to Mecca have to put up with dark, stuffy rooms, totally inadequate sanitary arrangements, lack of ambulances and doctors, a Malayan Federal Councillor charged on his return from Mecca.

Tuan Shiek Ahamad asserted "as every pilgrim paid $56 to the Saudi Arabian Government, it should be the duty of that government to provide sanitary comforts."

Icelandic Santa Is an American

REYKJAVIK, Iceland — (AP) — To many Icelandic children Santa Claus is an American. This is particularly true in and around the Keflavik Airport which is operated by Americans. During the war American soldiers held Christmas parties for the local children with big successes and the habit was kept by the civilians who took over the base.

Airport Engineer Flies Over Sites

Activity in the coming airport location showdown was underway late last week when members of the Pampa Civil Air Patrol and Chester Burr, district airport engineer for CAA, flew over several possible sites for Pampa's permanent airfield.

Burr was shown the present site and two others, one south of town and the other southeast of town, from the air and from ground level. Although the engineer made no definite statement he reiterated former opinions of CAA officals that the present site of Pampa Municipal Airport is the spot for the city and county to develop into a permanent airfield.

However, CAP members admitted they did not fly the engineer over the old auxiliary airport northwest of town that is owned by the county. The field there has paved runways but no buildings.

The recent authorization of a $55,000 grant by the federal government brought the dormant airport improvement and location question back into the limelight. Aviation interests in Pampa last week showed a group of municipal leaders a sound film in the Palm Room, City Hall to start "the ball rolling" again and bring the airport subject sharply into focus.

Irrespective of the two sites south and southeast of town, the impending battle for location of the airport will, in all probability, rest between the present location on E. Browning and the auxiliary field, seven miles northwest of town.

Two schools of thought still exist on location of the field with neither, so far, being able to convince the other on advantages and disadvantages of their pet choice.

In the meantime Ed Myatt, commander of the Pampa CAP and other members of the unit were gathering information on both sites to present to the Aviation Committee when it holds its next meeting.

Date of the meeting has not been set by Chairman Hugh Burdette.

Burdette stated the committee is anxious to arrive at an agreement as quickly as possible because of the strong possibility that the 82nd Congress may withdraw all authorized funds next year due to emergency defense spending.

Shavings from cork stoppers are used to make cork tile flooring and wall covering.

Maiayas Study

ALOR STAR, Malaya — (AP) — A new, strange cult known as the "Seven Houris" (virgins) is being investigated by the government of Perlis state in northern Malay. A committee of eleven religious leaders is inquiring into what's behind the cult which seems to promise virgins to all who remain faithful to its principles.

The organizer of the cult is said to have come from abroad, possibly from Arabia. Tuan Haji Ahmad, president of the state religious council, said leaders of the cult were committing criminal offenses by victimizing the poor and illiterate and asking followers to "surrender their property to the cult."

How can you pass up our prices?

As we've been saying for quite a spell—"Whatever your price range—Better buy Buick."

But maybe we'd better get down to brass tacks, as to just what this suggestion means.

In the lower-price field, this has been happening:

Four out of ten Buick SPECIALS—bought by people with a car to trade in—have been bought by folks who formerly drove one of the so-called "low-priced three." They found they could afford a Buick!

In the fine-car field, something even more impressive has happened:

Four out of five people who looked at a ROADMASTER and another very distinguished automobile decided in favor of ROADMASTER!

So—whatever your price range, take a look at our prices—and at what you get for your money.

What you get is the thrill of owning the greatest Buick of all time—as registered by record-breaking sales.

What you get is power and style and comfort and performance that are hard to match in any other automobile.

More specifically—you get the power-with-thrift of Buick's famous Fireball high-compression engine—a style that stands out in any company—a ride with the comfort of coil springs on every wheel—and performance that makes you feel like the head man on any highway.

Better come in today—and see what can be done about getting quick delivery.

Only BUICK has Dynaflow drive* and with it goes:

HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball valve-in-head power in three engines. (New F-263 engine in SUPER models.) • NEW-PATTERN STYLING, with MULTI-GUARD forefront, taper-through fenders, "double bubble" tail-lights • WIDE-ANGLE VISIBILITY, close-up road view both forward and back • TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE, less over-all length for easier parking and garaging, short turning radius • EXTRA-WIDE SEATS cradled between the axles • SOFT BUICK RIDE, from all-coil springing, Safety-Ride rims, low-pressure tires, ride-steadying torque-tube • WIDE ARRAY OF MODELS with Body by Fisher.

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

"TOO PRETTY" PORTRAIT—Dale Kushner, 5, of Chicago, looks at a portrait of herself which now hangs in solitary splendor amid garden tools in her family garage. Dale's father, Arthur Kushner, wanted his money back because, he charged, artist Eileen Eckman had made the portrait "too pretty" to look like his daughter. When the judge denied him the refund of $135, Kushner hung the painting in the garage in disgust.

Amazing Meat-Packing Outfit Hunts Beef Cattle in Alaska

PALMER, Alaska — (AP) — They're hunting beef cattle with longrange rifles on a wild Alaska island once used by the Russians as a penal colony.

It's part of one of Alaska's newest industries — an amazing meat packing enterprise whose operators are slaughtering wild cattle that have roamed unmolested for nearly 75 years.

The island is Chirikof, lying west of Kodiak and about 100 miles south of the Alaska peninsual. Treeless but covered with thick, high grass, it is roamed by some 800 head of cattle, first planted there in 1888 by the Semida Propagation Co.

Now three men have formed a company to "harvest" the beef with an ingenious combination of surplus army vehicles, expert riflemen and airplane transportation.

They aren't bothered by stories that the Russians used Chirikof as a sort of "Devil's Island" penal colony before the United States purchased Alaska, although there still is a graveyard with evidences that Russian prisoners may have been left there to die.

The men are Harry and Walter Cooper of Palmer, and Charles Waller of Kent, Wash. Their company, with headquarters here, flies processed beef from Chirikof to a Palmer cold storage plant.

The "Roundup" on the island has most of the thrills of an Alaska big game hunt. Three beef animals in a day is a good bag for two men.

Army surplus weapons carriers are used to carry "cowboy hunters" through the deep grass over marshes and rough terrain. Driving within two miles of the herds, the men then stalk the wild cattle and shoot with telescope-equipped rifles. They usually get only one shot before the herd stampedes.

The beef is dressed on the spot, hauled aboard the winch-equipped weapons carrier and taken to a slaughter house near the beach for processing. Then it's loaded on a plane and flown 500 miles to Palmer.

Long smooth beaches provide perfect landing fields for planes at the island, where ships cannot anchor because of shallow water.

Operators of the project say they have long-range plans to build up the island as a first-class cattle ranch, introducing Hereford bulls to improve the strain.

Another lure of the island is beachcombing among debris piled up by the Japanese currents. Every piece of lumber for the slaughter house was picked up on the beaches.

North Sea breakers destroyed 400 houses at one time in the 14th Century in the now-vanished city of Dunwich, England.

SPEAKING OF Furniture

By DON FOSTER

DESIGNED FOR TODAY

Our approach to room planning today is a far cry from that of a few decades ago. The evolution of our parlors . . . those closed-off-and-saved-for-company rooms of the past . . . into our modern living rooms of today, is the logical outgrowth of our changing way of life.

One of the most noteworthy changes is the absence of fuss and clutter which always gives a room a restless and crowded feeling. Today we plan our rooms so that they are easily cared for; and to be comfortable, practical and chic at the same time.

Furniture selection and arrangement plays a major role in the room 'keyed to today'. Pieces are chosen for their decorative flexibility, and with the greatest number of uses in mind. They are then arranged to give a feeling of restfulness and spaciousness to the room.

The corner grouping in the above sketch is a typical Modern space-saving arrangement. Note the interplay of light and shade—pale lime upholstery against deep cocoa-colored walls and wool broadloom carpet. Lamp and picture (centered above sofa) provide needed balance and wall interest.

We'd like to tell you about other arrangements that will help you with your room planning. Pay us a visit soon, won't you?

...N THE COST of living reached an all-time high last week, ...ed wishing we could apply the law of gravity to our present economic situation — you know, "everything that goes up, must come down."

WE HAVEN'T BEEN anywhere this week except to the movies a couple of times, and what more relaxing an evening can you spend? Spied the W. E. Jordans buying tickets, and saw Mrs. Sarah Scott make an early feature in a gorgeous chartreuse striped jacket combined with black skirt. Her coloring is just right for all the vivid color she has in her wardrobe.

JUDGE SHERMAN WHITE really presented some fine thoughts for Thanksgiving in his speech at the B&PW "turkey dinner." Sometimes I think the local Business and Professional women are the closest knit organization in town. Seems they always have a lot of fun getting a lot of work done. 'Fer instance, they're doing a "bang up" job in encouraging locals to participate in the house decorating contests for Christmas. They've invited a Life Magazine man to come here for the Dec. 15 festivities, and I'm working like everything to get my lights strung by that date. That way, IF Life comes to Pampa for a Christmas party, I'll definitely feel like one of the hostesses.

INCIDENTALLY, if you are wondering where to get your decorations or even where to get ideas for such, well, call up some of the clubwomen—Mary Patton, Gladys Howard, Mrs. H. B. Landrum, or maybe 'twixt and 'tween wedding plans, Jean Anderson could give you some hints. Looks like all we have to do is the work!

PANORAMICALLY: You know, Pampa's slogan, "The Friendly City," is not just something those people over at the Chamber of Commerce thought up ... Pampa is a friendly town ... People like Mrs. Frank Shotwell make it so ... bet if we saw her three or four times in a single week she'd still act as though she hadn't seen us in ages ... and that's what real friendliness is ... Frank Leder is ...ke that ... so is Jeff Bearden and Mrs. Clarence Qualls ... all of ...m just bursting with those great, big friendly, "Howdy do's" ... ... Mel Davis in smart little navy felt hat the other day ... ...e darling ... low wedge heels with all sorts of col...red orn...on them ... The Walter Deans are back from a trip ... Pampa never looked so good" they say ... Mrs. K. W. Pieratt was rushing to make her hairdresser's the other morning ... Close friends of the young Bill Bralys are simply raving over the adorable all-yellow layette they had ready for the little one ... understand the baby is using a crib that has been in the family for years and years and it's a profusion of delicate yellow net and satin ... And getting away from the traditional pink and blue, when the Curt Billings redecorated they had the nursery done in chartreuse ... by the way, they're sporting a new car, too! ... Mrs. George Casey is a popular teacher over at Sam Houston, and your kiddies, if they're like ours, have probably brought home lots of good talk about her ... here's one thing they probably haven't told you ... she's an inthey knocked out walls, painted, papered and made their home the genious decorator ... hear that she put George to work and together cutest imaginable ... and everywhere you look there's color, color, color ... Janis Sills (Mrs. L. G.) and Mrs. Norman Fulps sound like two nice people ... heard some flattery on them ... they've both pledged Beta Sigma Phi this fall ... Country Club members are still talking about the fall formal at the club last Saturday night ... Finis Jordan and Dr. Frank Kelley planned the affair and it was fun "clear to the end" ... Great big pat on the back to everyone who contributed time and talent in the Santa parade ... we had as much fun as the kiddies did!

EVERYONE'S ALWAYS crying for local color in the news and seems like we have an abundance of it—more people are dipping into colored paint buckets and applying everything from green to blushing pink on their houses. I love it. Makes it seem like our whole town is in technicolor. Just noticed that "pink" house up on Williston in the 1200 block. Green seems to be the most popular new color, but gray is running a close second. The Walter Rogers ...dded yellow shutters to their gray exterior, and even the brick ...omes are getting a little perked up. I'm not certain, but isn't that ...e R. B. Fagan home there on the corner of Mary Ellen? They've ...dded a lot of green trim, and even painted one whole side of the ...rage green.

BETWEEN THANKSGIVING and Christmas we're supposed to ... our fruitcakes baked and put away, and also sort of look ahead ...ur menu during the holiday season. For the week of Christmas, ...ing would taste better than the gum drop cookies Mrs. Ralph Sloan makes. She just mixes 4 eggs, 2 1/4 cups brown sugar, 2 cups of flour, and 1/4 tsp. salt, and adds some little gum drops and vanilla and sprea... the whole thing on a cookie sheet. Sound good to cut into? If you're ...ish... ...day meals are not complete without mince pie, well try borrowi... stealing Mrs. J. W. Palmer's recipe. It's good. Mrs. John Hankins makes good coconut pies, and if you want a good cranberry salad recipe, get Mrs. W. B. Franklin's. I haven't tried it, but I heard a friend of hers raving about it. Ummmm, this makes me hungry. I've been clipping recipes out of magazines and pinning them on the bulletin board and my caloric chart is way dawn underneath, but who cares? Calories

Miss Kitchens, Donald Yarbro Wed

MIAMI — (Special)— In an impressive formal ceremony on Thursday afternoon in the First Baptist Church, Miss Donna Lee Kitchens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee M. Kitchens, became the bride of Donald D. Yarbro, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira E. Yarbro of Abilene.

The Rev. Marvin D. Kilman, pastor, read the double-ring services at 2 o'clock. As a nuptial prelude, Miss Juanita Haynes, organist, played, "Liebestraum." Mrs. Lloyd Wilkens of Scott City, Kans., sang "I Love Thee" and "Because." The traditional wedding marches were used for processional and recessional, and during the ceremony Miss Haynes played "Clair de Lune."

White candelabra flanked the altar, and basket ararngements of white and pink gladioli and fern palm trees completed the decorative setting. Wallace Locke and Robert Alvis lighted the candles.

Attending the bride as maid-of-honor, Miss Jacqueline Bishop, of Paint Rock, wore a rose-glow satin dress and carried a tufted bouquet of white carnations, surrounded by lace.

The bridesmaid, Miss Barbara Pogue of Abilene, wore a matching gown of autumn-green and carried a pink carnation bouquet. The junior bridesmaid, Kay Arrington, cousin of the bride wore a dusty-rose satin dress with a deeper rose bouquet of carnations.

Doyle R. Gray of Abilene, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man, and ushers were Wallace L. Locke, cousin of the bride, and Robert Alvis of Abilene.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown of fitted bodice styling. Bows of seed pearls outlined the illusion yoke and the long fitted sleeves terminated in points over the hands. Her finger-tip veil of illusion was attached to a fitted cap of satin trimmed with pleated illusion and embroidered with seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with a tufted bouquet of gardenias outlined with lace. Her only jewelry was an heirloom diamond and pearl lavaliere.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Kitchens chose a suit of plum wool, with black accessories, and her corsage was of pink carnations. Mrs. Yarbro, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a blue crepe dress with matching blue hat and

Double-Ring Ceremony Unites in Marriage Mary Elizabeth Caudle, William Harley Spurgeon, Fort Worth

CANADIAN—(Special)—Nuptial vows were solemnized at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, Nov. 24, in the First Methodist Church in Canadian, for Miss Mary Elizabeth Caudle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Caudle of Canadian, and William Harley Spurgeon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Spurgeon, of Fort Worth.

The Rev. A. A. Kendall, pastor, read the double-ring service before an altar decorated in autumn colors and flanked with baskets of giant yellow and bronze chrysanthemums and candelabra holding yellow tapers.

Attending Miss Caudle as matron of honor was Mrs. Fred Brown of Groom, a former college roommate, who was attired in a rose colored street-length dress and carried a nosegay of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums.

Bridesmaids, Miss Joy Williams of Pampa, and Mrs. Bob Dillman of Canadian, wore street-length dresses and carried bouquets identical to that of the matron of honor.

Mrs. Charles Teas played an organ prelude preceding the ceremony and played the traditional wedding ma... Mrs. Herschel Fielder sang "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Mrs. Teas.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a street-length gown of grey crepe, accented with designs of beading on the draped bodice, and a three-strand necklace of grey pearls and rhinestones. She wore a gray hat trimmed with French illusion dotted with silver, with matching mitts of illusion, and carried an arm bouquet of long-stemmed Talisman roses.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was James P. Caudle, brother of the bride. Wayne Cox of Amarillo and J. B. Reid, Jr., of Canadian acted as ushers.

Mrs. Caudle, mother of the bride, wore a black gabardine suit and black accessories, with a pink carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents, 311 Panhandle Street, in Canadian.

The serving table was covered with silk brocaded damask centered with the traditional wedding cake and crystal holders with yellow tapers.

Members of the wedding party did the honors at the serving table with Mrs. Brown at the punch bowl, Miss Williams serving the cake, and Mrs. Dillman registering the guests in the bride's book. Assisting in the serving were Mrs. Lewis Merry, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Grady Norvill, and Miss Barbara Norvill.

Mrs. Orrin J. Gross, aunt of the bride, attended the gift display.

The young couple left for a wedding trip through South Texas, and will be at home after Dec. 2 at 3500 Georgia Street, Amarillo.

For her traveling costume Mrs. Spurgeon chose a green gabardine suit, winter white hat and gloves, and black shoes and bag.

Mrs. Spurgeon attended Canadian High School and is a graduate of Texas Technological College in Lubbock.

Mr. Spurgeon attended North Texas in Denton, and received his degree from Texas Christian University in Fort Worth. He is employed with the United States Treasury Department, in the Amarillo office.

Out-of-town guests attending included Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Spurgeon, Mrs. A. J. Hicks, and Mrs. Bob Hutson, of Clarendon; Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Merry and Jim Bill of Amarillo; and Mrs. Jimmy McCasland of Groom.

Sherman White Tells B & PW CLUB UN Has Not Thoroughly Proved Self

Sherman White discussed "The United Nations" at the Thanksgiving dinner for the Business and Professional Women's Club in the City Club Room Tuesday night.

Judge White thoroughly explained the reasons for such a body and the steps leading up to the present organization. He named the instances in which the UN has stepped in and proved successful. But he did not call the UN a success. He said it has not yet been thoroughly tested — that only time can tell definitely whether it will fully serve the purpose for which it was created — to insure world peace.

However, Judge White stated "If we have avoided a third world war it is because the nations of the world have had this opportunity to sit down and talk things over." He said also "We know this organization has many faults and many characteristics of which we do not approve, but any organization made up of people will have human faults."

He told his listeners "The UN is not a form of government, it is not a legislative body, it is for the sole purpose of offering recommendations."

Judge White said he disapproves of the manner in which men from other countries are permitted to hurl criticism at this nation, yet the people in those countries are given only the translation their leaders want them to hear. He concluded his talk by saying that the UN is a step toward peace and any step toward peace is worth while.

The turkey dinner was served to club members and their guests from tables festive with autumn leaves and candles. Flower and fruit arrangements in rich fall colors decorated the club room. Decorations were planned and carried out by Minnie Barnes, Mildred Williams, Lois Patton, Sigourney Waters, Almita Coonrod, Jean Anderson and Bea York.

The president, Gladys Howard, opened the program by telling the story of the first Thanksgiving. She introduced the guests, then turned the meeting over to Margaret Nash, legislation chairman, who introduced the speaker.

C.E. Wards, Married 50 Years Ago, Will Observe Their Golden Wedding by Holding Open House Today

From 2 until 5 o'clock this afternoon friends of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ward will call at their home at 906 Christine, to congratulate them on their golden wedding. The Wards will hold open house in celebration of their 50 years together.

This afternoon, Mrs. Ward will wear a gray dress, just as she did on another Sunday afternoon 50 years ago, when she went to the altar to become the wife o... ...ies Ward—that one was made of cashmere and had a high neck and long sleeves. Mr. Ward recalled that he wore a dark suit "quite a bit like the ones we wear now." As they received their guests today Mrs. Ward will wear a gardenia corsage and Mr. Ward will have a white carnation in his buttonhole.

Golden wedding gifts will be used at the reception. The table will be covered with a gold colored cloth presented by Mr. Ward's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Art Ketcham of Denver. The gold chrysanthemum centerpiece was presented by Mrs. W. C. Jones and the gold candles by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sullivan. The guest book with its handsome designs in gold, was decorated and presented by a granddaughter, Diane Seelye.

Present for the celebration will be the Wards' three children, Mrs. J. C. Seelye of Pueblo, Colo.; M. V. Ward and E. V. Ward of Pampa. They will also have most of their grandchildren with them. They are Diane and Charles Seelye, their daughter's son and daughter; Patsy and Peggy, twins, and Jim Ward, children of their son, M. V. Ward, and E. V. Ward's son, Bobby Ray.

Mrs. Arthur Rankin and Mrs. Aubrey Jones will preside at the silver tea and coffee services and the three-tier wedding cake, topped by a gold 50, will be served by the Wards' daughter and daughters-in-law. Presiding at the guest register will be Mrs. E. V. Ward.

When Charles E. Ward and Jennie Brown met more than a half-century ago, they soon learned that their lives had followed a similar pattern. Their families had both traveled by covered wagon through Texas and the Indian Territory in the 1880's in search of a new home.

Though the Browns lived in Indiana when Jennie was born in 1882, when she was a small child they decided to move to Texas, along with several other families, all relatives.

The caravan included seven covered wagons and settled in

Fidelis Class Has Installation Rites

An installation banquet was held by members of the Fidelis Class of the Central Baptist Church Tuesday night in the church basement.

Mrs. Hal Upchurch conducted the installation.

New officers are Mrs. Dorothy Sikes, president; Mrs. Floy Crites, secretary; Mrs. Mary Jo Long, vice president; Mrs. Ruth Hogan, Mrs. Frances Lamb, Mrs. Geneva Cobb, Mrs. Helen McClendon, Mrs. Janice Thomas, group captains; Mrs. Ina Ray Burrows, reporter.

L. L. Palmers of Alanreed Will Greet Friends, Relatives Today in Observance of Fifty Years of Wedded Life

Observing their golden wedding anniversary Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Palmer will hold open house to their relatives and friends from 1 to 6 o'clock this afternoon at their home near Alanreed. Their actual wedding day was Nov. 28, 1900.

There should be a host of callers at the Palmer home for this celebration, for they have lived in Alanreed since 1918 and their lengthy list of friends represent a large section of the Panhandle.

As the youthful-looking Mr. and Mrs. Palmer greet their guests this afternoon he will wear a white carnation in his buttonhole and she will wear an orchid pinned on the shoulder of her black crepe dress.

Mrs. Palmer is a little reluctant to discuss her wedding dress as they "eloped" and she didn't have much time to "fuss," but her husband likes to remember that he had a fine new suit for the wedding. Although the wedding was an elopement, it had been planned for sometime, awaiting the opportunity and he had been to town

'Big Government' Is Subject for 20th Century Club

Mrs. Raymond Harrah and Mrs. Lloyd Hicks were on the Twentieth Century Club program Tuesday afternoon, using a report on the Hoover Commission as basis for discussion of the program topic, "Big Business."

Mrs. Harrah, leader for the afternoon, quoted from the commission report: "Big government is inherently dangerous to human liberties." She continued "For many years memorable congressional committees have struggled to reorganize the executive branch of our government. They have sought to eliminate the expensive overlapping, the red tape, the confusion and waste that have multiplied with every new assignment given the Federal government.

"If the plan the Hoover Commission has submitted should be adopted it would result in an average saving in taxes of about $100 per annum per family. Wasteful governments cannot survive. Unless our republic, with the burden it must carry, can conduct its business with more economy and efficiency than it is now doing its government will fail, and with it will go the last hope of the liberties of mankind."

Mrs. Hicks gave a digest of the findings and recommendations of the Hoover Commission and a report on the progress that Congress has made up to the present date in reorganization according to the plans submitted.

Mrs. George Scott, delegate to the state convention in Fort Worth, gave a report. She was assisted by Mrs. Harrah and Mrs. J. W. Garman, Jr., who also attended the convention.

The meeting was in the home of Mrs. H. R. Thompson, 412 E. Browning. The president, Mrs. Scott, was in the chair. During the business meeting, Mrs. Clifton High, international relations chairman, reported that the committee had mailed a Christmas package of food and clothing, valued at $50, to Mrs. Eusebia Kassopogon of Athens, Greece. The contents of the box were for six elderly women — all over 75 years of age, whose only means of support is the Zappidon Association, of which Mrs. Kassopogon is president.

Present for the meeting were Mmes. Guilford Branson, E. L. Campbell, W. R. Campbell, Frank Culberson, J. M. Fitzgerald, J. W. Garman, Jr., J. W. Gordon, Ray Hogan, Raymond Harrah, Lloyd Hicks, Clifton High, I. B. Hughey, James Massa, Roy McKernan, Fred Neslage, George Scott, Frank Stallings and George Vineyard.

Refreshments were served.

get the proper attire. He had a little trouble persuading the storekeeper to sell him one of his best suits. But, to the man's statement that the $20 suits were only for very special occasions, he promptly answered that he wanted it for a very special occasion — to get married in.

Cora Riley, fourth cousin of James Whitcomb Riley, and daughter of John Riley, a Methodist minister and cotton farmer, helped in the fields at cotton picking time. At 19 she had her husband picked out, but met with the opposition of her parents who did not want her to marry at that time. But that didn't stop the dark eyed girl who boasts a lot of Irish and a little Indian blood; she just decided to elope. She and her young man took a neighbor into their confidence and it was that neighbor who went after young Palmer when Cora's father took a bale of cotton into town, leaving the coast clear.

Asked if he went right away, Mr. Palmer said "Oh yes, when she said 'go' I went, just as I've been doing ever since."

The young couple started looking for a preacher and finding several away from home finally went to the home of "Brother" Post, a Baptist minister and grandfather of Wiley Post, and found him at home. He married them in his yard under a big oak tree before a group of neighbors that included the small Wiley Post and his mother. Also among the witnesses to the ceremony was Mr. Palmer's brother, F. H. Palmer, who now lives at Grand Saline and who, with a wife he acquired later, will attend the celebration this afternoon.

Mrs. Palmer, a native of Texas, having been born in Fayette County, and Mr. Palmer, who came from Georgia, first met and became acquainted in church. They came to the Panhandle in 1907.

Assisting at the serving table at the reception will be Mrs. John Hessey and Mrs. A. H. Mormon, nieces of Mrs. Palmer. The table will bear a large tiered wedding cake topped with a gold 50.

Among the relatives present will be the Palmers' children, Coy Palmer of Pampa, Herschell Palmer of Sanford, Mrs. J. P. Elms of Lubbock and Mrs. H. E. Guill and Mrs. B. L. McKee, both of Pampa. There are also two granddaughters and four grandsons.

Other relatives will be Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Riley, Clarendon; Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Sibley, Mr. and Mrs. Luke Hart, Miss Lurline Bowman and Miss Alma Hall, all of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Deweese, Melrose; and Mrs. D. D. Mendenhal, Falls; Mr. and Mrs. ridge, Dimmitt and Mr. L. Knowles of Lelia white gloves. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Mrs. Rene R. Ratliff was at the bride's book.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Locke. Mrs. Locke is an aunt of the bride. The white lace - covered table was centered with a crystal bowl of white carnations and gladioli. Mrs. Lloyd Wilkens served the cake and Mrs. Rene R. Ratliff presided at the punch bowl.

Other members of the house party were Mmes. Mark Arrington, Wallace L. Locke and Dare Locke.

For a short wedding trip the bride traveled in a French cashmere suit of autumn green with black velvet hat and black accessories.

Mrs. Yarbro was graduated from Miami High School as valedictorian of her class. She attended Hardin-Simmons University, where she was sophomore favorite in her second year.

Mr. Yarbro is a graduate of Abilene High School and of Hardin-Simmons University. He served two years in the United States Navy. He is a member of the Dallas Symphony Orchestra.

Beside those in the wedding party, out-of-town guests attending were Mrs. I. E. Yarbro, Mrs. Doyle R. Gray and daughter Dinah, Charles Mohr and Kyle Crain, all of Abilene; Mrs. C. H. Reed, Amarillo; Mrs. Sid Landers, Dumas; Mmes. Kelley Kitchens, Aubrey Kitchens, of Pampa, and J. H. Osborne and Miss Rose Osborne of White Deer.

Miss Donna Kitchens was honored with a pre-nuptial shower in the home of Mrs. Jim Johnston. Mmes. Dale Low, W. D. Allen, Rene R. Ratliff, Theo Jenkins, Bill Forman, E. J. Barnes, Bill Lard and J. C. Williamson were hostesses.

Miss Jean Carol Low entered names in the bride's book. Mrs. Rene R. Ratliff, who presided at the coffee service, was assisted in the dining room by Miss Mary Lynn Allen.

The bride's table was laid with a white cut-work linen cloth and centered with a large bowl of white carnations and gladioli. Favors were miniature corsages.

The honoree and her mother were presented with white carnation corsages.

Mrs. E. J. Barnes read a letter of advice to the bride and presented the gifts. Miss Kitchens was assisted in displaying the gifts by her mother, Mrs. L. M. Kitchens and her aunt, Mrs. W. F. Locke.

lbs. butter frozen, 46 panels and 10 pairs curtains washed.

Eight members assembled all spraying equipment in one place, four members rearranged their refrigerators, five members made Master Mix, 94 non-club members were helped, 44 club members helped and help was given to six home demonstration clubs.

All club committees turned in 100 percent reports at the end of six months and again at the end of the club year.

Playlet, 'As the Home Goes' Given For El Progresso

A playlet entitled "As the Home Goes," written by Mrs. D. V. Burton for El Progresso Club was given Tuesday in the City Club Rooms. This continues the club's study of "Peace Town, Today's Challenge," the examination of a mythical, ideal town. This program was on "Residental Drive." "Church Avenue" has been studied, and future programs will be on "School Street," "Leisure Lane," "International Highway," "Fine Arts Center" and "Capitol Hill."

Mrs. Burton's play had as its theme "Each Home of Today, a Workshop for Building Citizens of Tomorrow." It illustrated that the good home has the following characteristics: obedience to law, good social behavior, responsibility to duty, and spiritual training and that the home with these principles makes good citizens for tomorrow and happy homes for today.

Mrs. Alex Schneider, Mrs. Hardy Pitts, Mrs. Henry Tyler and Mrs. D. V. Burton acted in the play and it was directed by Mrs. M. H. Wyatt.

Mrs. G. L. Dauner was hostess, and refreshments were served to the following: Mrs. Orion W. Carter, Mrs. W. R. Ewing, Mrs. Knox Kinard, Mrs. P. C. Ledrick, Mrs. Hardy Pitts, Mrs. Dave Pope, Mrs. John Pitts, Mrs. Alex Schneider, Mrs. Henry Tyler, Mrs. George Walstad, Mrs. M. H. Wyatt, Mrs. D. V. Burton, Mrs. G. L. Dauner and a guest Mrs. J. F. Evans from Stroud, Okla.

Mrs. George Tolbert Is Honored Guest At Bridal Shower

Mrs. George Tolbert, the former Miss Mary Jo Coffman, was guest of honor at a bridal shower last Saturday afternoon in the home of Mrs. C. P. Pursley.

When the bride entered she was presented a corsage of pink carnations, and her mother and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Lowell Osborn, received corsages of white carnations.

Mrs. Dona Cornutt presided at the bride's book. After the guests had registered they were directed to the dining room where refreshments were served. Mrs. O. E. McDowell poured tea.

Hostesses were Mrs. O. E. McDowell, Mrs. W. L. Campbell, Mrs. A. C. Houchins, Mrs. A. C. Cox, Mrs. Jessie Burns, Mrs. J. L. Spencer, Mrs. Ervin Pursley, Mrs. J. T. Cornutt and Mrs. C. P. Pursley.

Miss Gaye Nell Carter played several piano selections during the afternoon. Miss Erwina McDowell took snapshots during the party and Mrs. J. L. Spencer gave a reading, "Mary Jo's Romance."

WELL, AFTER the game yesterday, I decided that the weather has its most unpredictable moments during football season. Honestly, haven't we had extremes this year—too cold or too hot. Those early season night games were perfect, but lately you have to just go loaded with equipment. Mr. Peg carries the blankets, thermos of coffee, and heavy coats; I carry sun glasses, thermos of water; the oldest of our brood carries the rain coats. We've found that's the best way to enjoy the game. We can sit there and know that regardless of how the weather turns off, we'll be equipped to cope with it.

TALKING ABOUT THE MOVIES, weren't you surprised when you first noticed the neatly packaged toothpicks in your popcorn box? Two toothpicks, no less. Reminds me of a half century ago when Mr. Peg and I shared ice cream sodas with two straws. Times have changed because now you only get one straw at the soda fountain, but finding those two toothpicks reminded me that probably nowadays young couples share a box of popcorn. You learn a lot from soda sharing—mainly that one person can always "sip" faster than the other. But really, sharing is the secret of courtship and later marriage—Mr. Peg and I share everything, including the deep, dark secret about

'Your Best Lines' Demostrated for Jr. High 4-H Club

Miss Joy Williams, assistant home demonstration agent, gave a demonstration on "Your Best Lines" to the Pampa Junior High 4-H Club which met at the junior high school Wednesday.

Miss Williams said "There are four types of figures that require different lines. They are short and slender, short and stout, tall and slender, and tall and stout. Vertical lines make a short person look taller and a stout person look more slender. Horizontal lines tend to cut the height of a person, thus making a tall person look shorter. Lines are created by the construction of your dress, lines are formed by the decoration of your dress, and silhouette lines are made by the outline of your figure."

New demonstrators were elected as follows: clothing demonstrators, Sally Cahill and Margaret West; and food demonstrators, Arlene Hazel and Janice Frazier.

The president appointed a program committee to plan their part of the program for the county wide Christmas party, to be held in the VFW-American Legion Hall Dec. 15 at 7:30 p.m.

Those present at the meeting were Sally Cahill, Arlene Hazel, Janice Frazier, Barbara Blackshiar, Norma Jean Balch, Gwendolyn Burnett, Nancy Harrison, Sandra Jean Hollis, Dale Hoover, Leta Laverty, Nonna Marie Leland, Marilyn Moore, Jessie Noel, Marie Porterfield, Iva Powell, Iola Turner, Margaret West, Allegra Wheeler, Florence Heathington, Vicki Osborne and Mrs. L. Delta County. The Browns moved on west and in 1893 they moved to the Indian Territory, near where the Wards were living. However, they made a trip back to Indiana and returned West before the young couple met. Jennie was teaching school at that time.

They were soon married and the 20-year-old native Texan and his 18-year-old bride began housekeeping in a one - room log house which he built on his father's farm. The next year they rented a larger farm and later bought land in the community.

In 1919 the Wards moved to Burkburnett, Tex., where he worked as a carpenter, and in 1922 they moved to Trinidad, Colo., for Mr. Ward's health, where the children finished high school. Their daughter married there and in 1928 the remainder of the family moved to Pampa.

In 1937 Mr. Ward and his sons established the Ward's Cabinet Shop, which they still operate.

Miss Stevens Tells Kappa Kappa Iota Of Life in Japan

A new member, Mrs. Homer Bowers, was initiated at a meeting of the Gamma Conclave of Kappa Kappa Iota in the City Club Room.

Hostesses were Mrs. Sam Baggert, Mrs. Teresa Humphries and Mrs. B. G. Gordon. Miss Kay Stevens, who recently returned from Japan, served tea from an antique silver tea service. She wore a Japanese kimono.

The tea table was covered with lace and had silver appointments. Silver candle holders held blue candles and the center arrangement was of yellow chrysanthemums in a silver bowl.

Special guests were Mrs. J. O. Dumas and Miss Stevens, her granddaughter. Miss Stevens told of her life in Japan and exhibited several interesting items collected while she lived in Japan. They included a collection of old fans and a group of dolls.

Mrs. B. G. Gordon, president, was in charge of the business meeting. Plans were made to attend the state meeting at Lubbock.

Other members present were Mmes. Kenneth Cable, Herbert Gallman, Scott Hatcher, Charles Meech, B. R. Nuckols, Ben Ogden, J. L. Spencer, C. W. Stowell, Weaver, and Misses Frances Huff, Edna Daughetee, Ruby Johnson, Faye Ann Porter, Allene Weatherred, Alma Wilson and Martha Fleming.

Top o' Texas Medical Auxiliary Meets for Program on Southwest

The "Hisory of the Southwest" was the subject of a paper given by Mrs. Ed Williams o' Pampa at the Top o' Texas Medical Auxiliary meeting at the Pampa Country Club, Tuesday, Nov. 1.

The southwest, as described, was comprised of western Oklahoma, Texas, southern Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and southern California. It told of the hardships and trials of the Pioneers in the development of the great southwest. Such notables as Chisholm, Charles Goodnight, Black Jack Ketchum, Laura Bullion and the cowboy were some of the colorful characters described.

The next meeting will be held in Borger, Tuesday Dec. 19.

Members present were Mmes. Oscar Huff, Karl Pieratt, D. P. Bonner, M. McDaniel, Frank Kelley, F. J. Vendrell, Joe Donaldson, R. D. Falkenstein, J. F. ...vity Unveiling ...mittee Meets

...m committee in ...veiling the nativity ...ark, Friday, Dec. 15, ...nday and planned for an ...ted program this year. The event will feature the voices of about 1,000 singers from various churches, schools and organizations within the city.

Rev. Henry Tyler, pastor of the First Christian Church, has been selected as narrator and master of ceremonies. Harley Bulls, director of music for the First Methodist Church will direct the combined choir. Mrs. May Foreman Carr will serve as accompanist at the electric organ.

Charles Thomas and his crew of artists have already started to work building two new scenes for the event. One will be entitled, "No Room at the Inn," depicting the arrival of Mary and Joseph at the inn in Jerusalem, only to find that there were no rooms available. The other will picture the appearance of the angle Gabriel to Joseph.

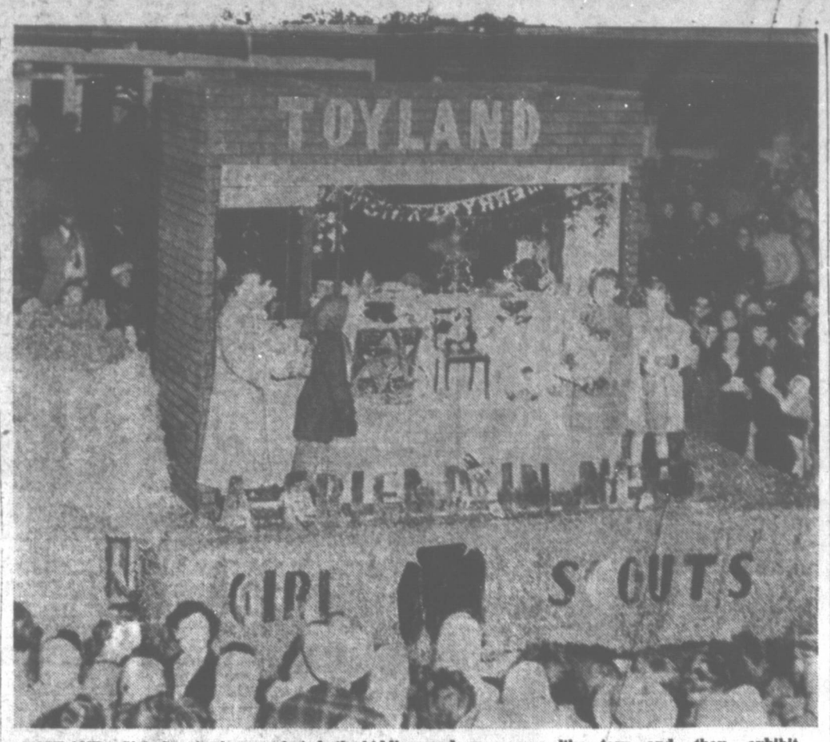

Invitations are going out to all towns in the area to send special delegations to Pampa on the opening night of the nativity scenes.

Gloria Jorene Jay Is Named Nominee In Beauty Contest

DENTON, Tex. — Miss Gloria Jorene Jay, daughter of Mrs. Hazel Jay, 512 East Browning, has been selected as beauty nominee of the senior class of Texas State College for Women.

Sixteen students, four from each class, were nominated recently by their classmates. The beauty of each class will be selected by a judge not yet named. All nominees will be presented at an all-college dance Dec. 9.

Beauty pictures will appear in a special section of the Daedalian annual, college yearbook. The final choices will not be announced until the annuals are distributed in May.

Miss Jay, a senior occupational therapy major at the college, serves as president of the Baptist Student Union and is a member of the Delian Club, Panhandle Club and the Occupational Therapy Club.

New Bathing Suits a Fret to Australians

SYDNEY — (AP) — Australian migrants from Europe who appear on Sydney's beaches in French-style bathing costumes, or undress in the open are causing beach inspectors concern.

Inspectors say, in most cases, the new Australians have protested that in the countries from which they came they had been accustomed to such habits.

U.S. Cattlemen Gambling on Meat Demand

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The nation's beef producers are gambline that the consumer demand for meat will remain good for several years to come.

The cattlemen's confidence in the future is being expressed by wide withholding of cattle from the current slaughter market with its favorable prices. Some cattle being kept on ranges and farms will be used for breeding purposes to increase beef cattle numbers for slaughter two and three years from now.

Likewise, some are being held off the market for further fattening.

This withholding practice has both its favorable and unfavorable angles for consumers. It reduces the current supply of beef.

Yet, by increasing ultimate cattle numbers and adding more weight to those being fed longer, the practice will provide larger supplies of meat during the next three years.

Helping to give the cattlemen confidence is the prospect of prolonged heavy government buying under the national defense program and the possibility of another war. They remember how the last war boosted the demand for meat.

In reporting on cattlemen's efforts to increase future supplies of beef, the Agriculture Department said meat production for the winter season may reach its peak about the middle of this month.

That would mean a reduction in consumer supplies in the first quarter of 1951. Compared with the same quarter last year, there may be a little more pork, about the same quantity of beef, less veal, lamb and mutton.

Library Group Plans Meeting

A library meeting will be held at the Marine Grill in Amarillo at 5 p.m. today for all persons interested in furthering libraries.

A detailed report of the Southwestern Library conference will be given and plans will be laid for what Panhandle people can do to make local, state and national libraries better.

The report will be informal and will be led by Alice Green of the Amarillo Public Library. Plans will also be made for a workshop to be held next spring.

Texan Wears Cowboy Hat to Army Game

ANNAPOLIS, Md. —(AP)— Navy halfback "Cowboy" Bill Powers of Texas will wear a genuine Texas hat to Philadelphia for the Army-Navy game tomorrow.

Fellow Texans at the Academy got together and presented him yesterday with a real ten-gallon cowboy hat to "Ride Army."

Powers has played three years in the Navy backfield. He is a former student of Texas A&M and was a star high school athlete at Bryan, Texas, in 1944 and 1945.

Nine Pampans in Baylor University

WACO — Nine students from Pampa have enrolled in Baylor University this fall, Truett K. Grant, registrar, has announced.

A total of 5,182 students, including 1,056 out-of-Texas students and 49 foreign students, are in the 1950-51 student body, the registrar said.

Pampa students enrolled in Baylor include: Silver Carroll Chisum, Derral B. Davis, John Meredith High, Julia Elice Hobbs, Martha Anne Hopkins, Charles Claude Morris, Edrie Aliene Morrison, Jimmy Wayne White, and Joy Jeneane Worrell.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL — BY CHARLE

Whisking him away from the Fezziwigs', the Ghost took Scrooge back to the scene of his broken engagement. His fiancee rejected him because another idol had replaced her—a golden one.

And then, Scrooge saw what might have been.

With that, the Ghost of Christmas Past deposited Scrooge in his bed, utterly exhausted, and disappeared.

But it seemed only seconds until Scrooge was awakened by weird sounds from the next room.

Old Army Post Goes on Block

MARFA, Tex. — (AP) — A fort at American fighting men in two world wars called their military home, soon will be just another memory of the Old West. Dec. 7 the remaining buildings will be auctioned.

The establishment is Fort D. A. Russell, which was opened in 1916 as World War I got under way. Then it was called Camp Marfa.

During World War II and until it was declared surplus the fort housed mechanized units and was headquarters for a chemical warfare unit.

The 80-acre plot on which the buildings stand was purchased late in 1948 by David Kerr of Marfa and Marshall Geer of Colorado City, Colo., operating a partnership known as the Fort D. A. Russell Ranch Co.

The firm sold all the dwelling units which formerly housed officers' families, but retained the larger buildings for cotton storage. The gymnasium was sold privately and is not up for bids.

Still remaining are more than 140,000 square feet of brick and concrete structures. To be sold are 10 barracks, 80 acres of improved land, the former commandant's home, theater and chapel combination, the water and sewage system and various other buildings.

Ex Prize Fighter Dies in Fort Worth

FORT WORTH — (AP) — Dick Griffin, 52, an old-time bantamweight boxer who later went blind and turned promoter, died yesterday.

He was found on the floor of his room by a sister, Miss Lucy Griffin.

While preparing for a bout with national bantamweight champion Johnnie Buff about 1920, Griffin was blinded in one eye by resin. The fight was called off but he continued to fight for several years.

He went completely blind in 1934 and turned fight promoter.

Korea the day continued into the

It was washed through Kunu, threatened by the red horde to the northeast and east, and along the cold and dusty roads into and out of the town.

It had flowed past the outpost battalion of mustached Lt. Col. Charles F. Kane of Caldwell, Ida., a desolate post manned by soft speaking men on the northeast outskirts of the town. There the withdrawal was only a trickle of vehicles but a steady stream of refugees.

There were hundreds of these, the little girl holding a cold ear in each hand, the tired, bearded elder tugging at a bullock. They walked the fields and the icy river's edge and the railway trestles over the dust-choked roads among American vehicles moving away from the river. They spoke only occasionally but their mood was reflected in the mournful lowing of their few cattle.

The sun dropped in the west, glaring through the dust with its dying rays.

The Americans shivered and fastened the last buttons on their coats or jackets. Drivers, their faces masked heavily with dust, switched on their lights.

The darkness softened the tortured spines and peaks of the mountains and the headlights stabbed at the blackness.

CHEERLEADERS—Pampa's vivacious cheerleaders, in costume, were the beginning of the end for Friday's huge Santa Day parade. The cheerleaders led the Pampa Harvester Band, which in turn, wound up the colorful procession. In addition to the Harvester Band, Pampa schools contributed the junior high band and all-school band. Borger sent two groups, while Lefors, Clarendon, Wheeler, Panhandle, Phillips, Spearman, Dumas, Amarillo College and Wellington sent others. The band from Phillips came with their own lights to aid a bit more color to the parade. (News Photo and Engraving)

Fighting Harvesters Bury Bulldogs, 71-6

Wilson Scores Five TD's; Whole Team Shares Honors

Borger still retains possession of its title, "the carbon black center of the world," but the District 1-AA football crown stays in Pampa for the second year in a row.

With a stiff north breeze, a razor sharp Fighting Harvester eleven cut the Borger Bulldogs to ribbons Saturday afternoon in Harevster Park, 71-6, (CORRECT), to retain possession of the district title. It was the first time a Harvester eleven has gone through a season undefeated.

The Harvesters will meet Wichita Falls next Saturday afternoon at 2. Tickets will go on sale early this week.

Coach Tom Tipps' fighting gridders were as smooth as a Swiss watch in punching out their highest score this season.

Pampa ran up 64 points before the Bulldogs were able to cross the double stripe, and the Harvesters' third string was in the ball game when that happened.

The hard charging Harvester line contributed heavily to the tasty triumph, and the Pampa backfield operated like surgeons in rolling up 425 yards rushing.

Scooter Elmer Wilson, who chalked up the first five Pampa touchdowns, displayed running never seen in Harvester Park.

Pampa kicked off and stopped Borger in its tracks in three running plays. Gaylon Overton attempted to punt on fourth down, but center Gerald Matthews blocked the kick and the ball rolled back to the two-yard line. Wilson knifed through right tackle for the touchdown on the first play from scrimmage for the Harvesters. De Wey Cudney's kick was wide.

Borger received the next kickoff, and again the pesty Matthews blocked Overton's attempted punt and the ball rolled out of the end zone for a Pampa safety, and the Harvesters led, 8-0.

The Bulldogs kicked off from their 20, and Carl Kennedy returned the ball back 25 yards to the Borger 36. Jimmy Hayes picked up 13 yards to make it first and ten on the Bulldog 23. Wilson zipped around right end, side stepped three Bulldogs, and raced into the end zone. Cudney's kick was good.

Wilson scored touchdown number three on another end sweep from the Borger 24. Kennedy and Jerry Walker broke Wilson clear with key blocks on the five-yard line. Cudney split the uprights to make the score 22-0.

Wilson scored again in the second period with an 18 - yard scamper. Wilson kicked the extra point. Cudney was injured early in the second quarter when he intercepted a Borger pass and ran it back 39 yards to Borger's 46-yard line. He was kicked in the head on the tackle and didn't play the rest of the first half.

The Harvesters got back into their scoring harness early in the third quarter. Again it was number 21 crossing the double stripe. Wilson squeezed through right tackle and raced 24 yards to pay dirt. Cudney's kick was good.

Guard Bill McPherson signed his name to the touchdown list when he intercepted a Bulldog pass. McPherson pulled the pass in after Darrell Wilson slapped it down. Bill took off like a scalded cat and sped down the west sidelines for 50 yards to score. Cudney chipped in an extra point to make the scoreboard read, 43-0.

Another lineman signed his name in the Borger end zone. Tollie Hutchens knocked down Overton's attempted punt, and the ball rolled back to the three where Hutchens picked it up and stepped across the double stripe. Cudney didn't miss, and the Harvesters built their lead to 50-0. By this time the press box staff was running out of fingers and toes.

Fullback John Young added six more points with a one-yard plunge. Cudney again split the uprights. The TD was set up by halfback Billy Davis, who raced 48 yards down to the seven.

With the third string getting in its licks, the Harvesters scored again. It was fullback Charles Ely this time. Ely broke through right tackle for 11 yards. Cudney couldn't miss and the Harvester led, 64-0.

Borger finally got out of the doldrums when Cleburn Bybee threw a touchdown pass to end Troy Mason. The Borger end took the pass on the Pampa 35 and raced the rest of the way to score. The kick was no good.

Darrell Wilson scored the last touchdown of the game when he cracked left guard for one-yard Cudney whose right leg was tiring by this time, split the uprights to make the final score, 71-6, Pampa.

Playing their last game in Harvester Park, Matthews, Hayes, Buzzy Tarpley, Dale Gantz, Kennedy, E. Wilson, Eddie Scheig, Tommy Martin, and Dawrence Rice, bowed out in a blaze of glory. It was a team victory throughout.

Harvester Cagers Upset Elks, 59-41

Coach Cliff McNeely's Harvester cagers romped past a favored Stratford Elk team, 59-41, at Stratford Saturday night. It was the first loss of the season for the Elks.

The Elks defeated the powerful Borger Bulldogs earlier in the season, 56-55, in an overtime.

Pampa took the lead and held on to it throughout.

Forward Marvin Bond arched in eight field goals and four charity tosses to lead the Harvesters with 20 points. Center Duane Jeter was next high man with 18 points. The elongated Jeter hit six field goals and six free tosses.

The Harvesters led at halftime, 28-21. They built the lead to 44-34 at the end of the third quarter. It was the first game of the season for Coach McNeely's cagers, and the powerful Stratford five was expected to handle the Pampans easily.

The Guerillas lost a close game to the Stratford B, 66-62. Jimmy Bond singed the nets for 33 points for the Guerillas.

Tulane, LSU Fight to Tie

NEW ORLEANS — (AP) —Powerful Tulane came from behind in the last two minutes Saturday to tie Louisiana State's fired up underdogs 14-14 before an estimated 74,000 fans.

Tulane's tieing marker came on a quarterback sneak by substitute quarterback Bill Bonar, and Tommy Comeaux's conversion.

The crowd was in a frenzy during the last quarter, when LSU tied the score, tallied what they thought was the winning marker, but had to settle for a deadlock.

LSU took a 14-7 lead when quarterback Jim Barton sneaked over from the one late in the fourth period.

Tulane had scored in the third when fullback Ronnie Kent blasted center for one yard. The touchdown capped a 61 - yard drive. Bonar converted.

Louisiana State came back later in the period, starting on the Tulane 40 and climaxing in Billy Baggett's 51 - yard touchdown dash. Kenny Konz converted both times.

bi-district play. The game will be played in Wichita Falls, on Dec. 9. Tickets for that game will go on sale in Pampa early this week, at the school business office.

The Harvesters were with their coaches most of the day. They ate a breakfast of steak and scrambled eggs at the school cafeteria at 10 a.m. Borger's Bulldogs pulled into town at noon and dressed at the high school. The Borger rooters as well as the team were highly fired up at the start of the game, but by halftime many were already picking their way homeward. They had sat stunned through the first half, watching their Bulldogs getting bit at every turn.

At the game's end, the two teams headed back to the dressing room arm in arm, many already talking about when they would meet in basketball. Coach Tricky Ward of the Dogs solefully took the long walk back, alone part of the way and then with some of his players the rest of the way, lamenting about the breaks of the game.

The game was aired by three stations, KPDN of Pampa, KHUZ of Borger, and KTRN of Wichita Falls. So the Coyote fans heard a bit about the team they will meet next weekend. Some fans were entertaining the faint idea of running a special train to Coyoteland this weekend in order to avoid the driving.

Incidentally, the lone Borger touchdown was scored by Troy Mason, who formerly went to school in Pampa with most of the members of the present Harvester team.

A flag-raising ceremony was held before the game, with local Boy Scouts doing the honors while the Harvester band played the national anthem. A fine halftime ceremony with a Christmas air about it was put on by the bands of both schools.

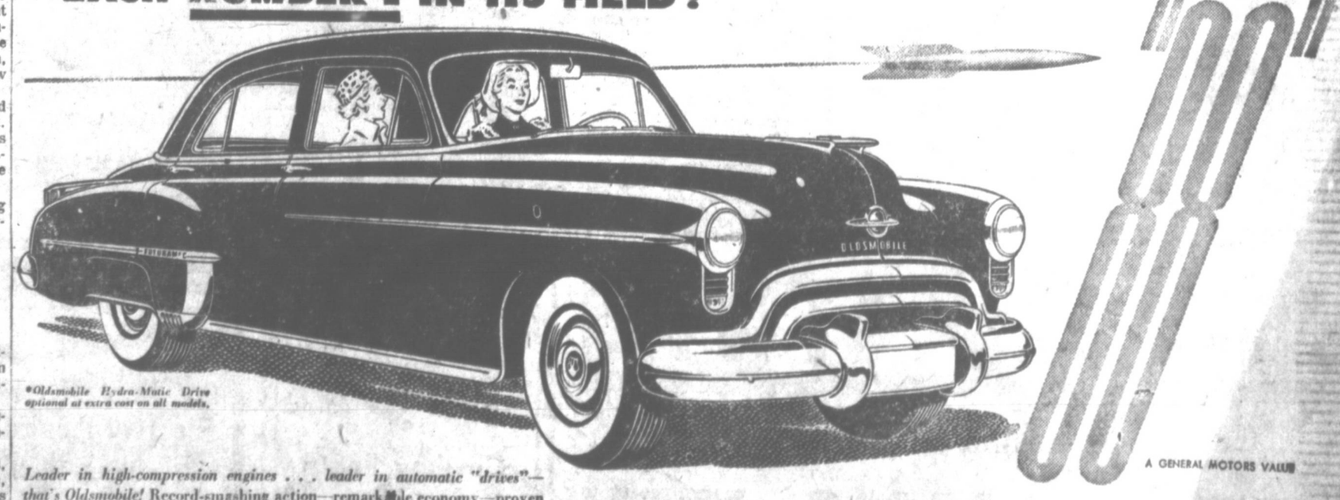

But the real color of the day lay behind the scenes in the hearts of the boys and coaches themselves. Perhaps it lay in the dressing room after the game when Coach Tipps stuck his big right hand out to Coach Nooncaster and said "Congratulations, coach. Your backs ran fine today." And then Coach Nooncaster explained why they ran so well when he said "Coach Tipps, it was your line that made the backs look great."

Happy Edges Canadian in Class B Grid Clash, 3-2, on Penetrations

Adcock Races 63 Yards to Set Up TD

Two undefeated Class B teams fought to a 6-6 draw Friday afternoon in Harvester Park before 2,500 fans, but Happy edged Canadian on penetrations 3-2, to walk into the regional finals.

Coach Jim Peterson's Happy Cowboys and Coach John Hansard's Canadian Wildcats battled for three scoreless quarters before they could solve each other's tight defense.

With two minutes gone in the fourth quarter, fullback Tommy Schaef bulled his way into the Happy end zone from the one-yard line. Canadian attempted to run the ball over for the extra point but failed.

The Cowboys came back to knot the game with a 66-yard touchdown on a pass play. Quarterback Don Magness flipped an aerial to fullback Buddy Selvidge on the 34, and the Happy back raced down the west sidelines 66 yards for a TD. The Cowboys tried to run over the extra point but failed.

Canadian lost a scoring chance in the first quarter when Bobby Fry fumbled on the Happy five-yard line and Magness recovered for the Cowboys.

With first and goal to go on the Happy four, Fry split right guard for three down to the Happy one, but he fumbled on the next carry to erase the scoring chance. Neither team threatened until the second period, and it was the Happy crew who was stopped this time.

Moving from their own 24, the Cowboys traveled down to Canadian's two-yard line. But the Canadian forward wall tightened and stopped the Cowboys cold. Magness threw a fourth down pass but it fell incomplete. The Happy quarterback completed 12 of 20 passes during the afternoon, and most of the march was covered through the air.

A personal foul against Canadian robbed it of a scoring opportunity in the third quarter. Clay Adcock intercepted one of Megness' passes on his own 34 and scamped down the sidelines to Happy's 24, before he was run out of bounds. But the play was called back and Canadian was penalized 15 yards.

Adcock's spirits weren't dampened because he came back in the fourth quarter to set up Canadian's touchdown. The Wildcats stopped Happy on their own ten, and then traveled 90 yards for a TD. Fry circled right and for nine, Schaef added six, and Adcock five to move the ball out on the 30.

With escond down and ten, Adcock took a handoff from Fry and raced around left end 63 yards down to Happy's seven-yard line where he was shoved out of bounds by Tom Henry.

Schaef picked up four yards through left tackle and Fry went around right end down to the one. One running play was stopped, but Schaef went into the end zone on fourth down. Fry attempted to run over the extra point but was stopped one-yard short.

It looked like Canadian had a 6-0 victory, but quarterback Magness pulled the game out of the fire for Happy with three minutes left in the ball game.

After an exchange of punts, Canadian moved from its own 26 down to Happy's 25. Canadian lost nine yards in three running plays, and Happy took over on its 34 when a pass fell incomplete.

Magness threw one pass which fell incomplete, but his next aerial toss shattered Canadian's hopes of a 6-0 victory. Magness faded back and pitched a flat pass to Selvidge on the line of scrimmage. Selvidge cut over to the west sidelines and sped 66 yards for a Happy TD. The Happy fullback faked the Canadian safety on the Wildcat 40, and then he had an open field to a touchdown. Happy tried to run over the extra point, but they were stopped one yard short of the double stripe.

Canadian failed to make a first down after they took the kickoff, and Happy had the ball in Canadian's territory when the game ended.

Mustangs Tripped By TCU

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS — (AP) — Talented Gilbert Bartosh, a piano-legged sophomore who runs like a tank and passes like he was shooting a rifle, carried Texas Christian to a 27-13 victory over disheartened Southern Methodist Saturday in the season finale for both teams.

The irrepressible Bartosh passed for one touchdown, ran for another and engineered a lusty drive for a third, meanwhile being the leading ground-gainer of the day.

The fourth Horned Frog score came when smashing Bill Moorman, line star of the afternoon, picked up a blocker kick and sprinted 25 yards for a touchdown. It was a sorry finish for the Methodists, who five weeks ago were rated No. 1 in the nation. Since then they have lost four games.

Southern Methodist got the consolation only of setting a new national record for pass completions. The Mustangs connected on eight Saturday to make their season total 157, seven more than Washington, which eclipsed the record only this season.

A crowd of 55,000 was in the Cotton Bowl to see the Methodists, led by Kyle Rote, who closed his college cereer with a fine game, take a 13-0 lead in the first period, then he thoroughly outplayed the rest of the way.

Rote ground out 58 yards in a 65-yard drive for the first SMU touchdown. He made it on a smash from the three-yard line. Then SMU put on a 64 - yard surge for another score, with Rote passing to Johnny Champion on a 39-yard gainer for the touchdown. Bill Sullivan kicked the extra point.

After that the Horned Frogs got down to business.

Their first touchdown was on a 78-yard drive, with Bartosh scoring on a run from the Methodist 13. Homer Ludiker converted. Next came the blocked punt for the second TCU score. Herb Zimmerman did the blocking and Moorman the picking up. Ludiker missed the conversion try and the half ended 13-13.

The third Frog touchdown was on a 44-yard push with Bobby Jack Floyd crunching over from the SMU seven and Ludiker converting.

The final came when Keith Flowers intercepted a Rote pass on the SMU 29. Floyd picked up a yard then Bartosh passed to John Medanich across the goal line. Ludiker kicked the extra point.

TCU romped to 164 yards on the ground and 125 passing. SMU made 74 on the ground and 98 in the air

Fired-up Navy Sinks Army In Major Grid Upset, 14-2

By GAYLE TALBOT

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— An underdog Navy team which had tasted the football dregs all season rose to majestic heights this grey day to crush Army's glamorous forces, 14 to 2, in one of the greatest upsets ever registered in the 51 meetings between the two service rivals.

A thundering crowd of 103,000, including President Truman, shook the Municipal stadium with roars as the fired-up Middies, winners of only two previous games this year, took command from the start of the contest, scored twice in the second period and throttled every effort by the nation's No. 2 team to get back in the ball game.

The stunning defeat, largely engineered by Navy's 209-pound quarterback, Bob Zastrow, who scored one touchdown and passed for a second, snapped a streak which had seen the Cadets batter their way through 28 straight games without defeat. They were three touchdown favorites at the kickoff Saturday.

The last team to defeat the Black Knights was Notre Dame, in 1947. They were tied by Penn, 7-7, the same year and also deadlocked by another fighting Navy eleven, 21-21 in 1948. This victory Saturday was a tremendous personal triumph for youthful Eddie Erdelatz, who took over as Navy's head coach only this season.

There was nothing in the nature of a fluke about it. The Middies were much the better team. They rattled the Soldiers' teeth with the ferocity of their tackling, holding the West Pointers vaunted attack to a single first down in the opening half.

They plunged and passed their way for amazing yardage through Army defenses which had yielded only four scores in eight previous games this season. Toward the close, when the Cadets threatened several times, the Tars rose up and tossed them back on their moleskins.

Zastrow, the big junior, scored the Middies' first touchdown midway of the second quarter by bulling his way smack through the center for seven yards, climaxing a drive of 27 yards after recovery of a fumble by Army's Al Pollard.

Twenty seconds before the first half ended he ran far to his left, dodged two Army tackles, and rifled a scoring pass into the arms of Jim Baldinger, tall end from Pittsburgh, who "outrasseled" two Army defenders for the ball in the end zone. Roger Drew of Kenilworth, Ill., placekicked both extra points.

Army's two points came in the third period when Zastrow, chased behind his own goal line as he tried to spot a receiver, had to "eat" the ball rather than risk an interception.

The Middies ripped for 13 first downs against Army's five. The Tars smashed an even 200 yards on the ground to Army's 77. They passed for 68 yards to Army's 60. It was a good, solid, nourishing demonstration of superiority. It didn't seem possible, but it happened here.

Sooners Breeze Past Cowboys At Stillwater

STILLWATER — (AP) — Oklahoma's Claude Arnold pitched four touchdown passes to bypass a fighting underdog Oklahoma A&M football team 41-14 here Saturday in the 45th meeting of the state rivals.

Sugar Bowl bound Oklahoma —the nation's No. 1 team—was a six touchdown favorite. But the Aggies put up a fighting defense that might have paid off it it hadn't been for Arnold's passing.

The victory is Oklahoma's 31st straight and makes it the favorite against Kentucky in New Orleans New Year's Day. Kentucky's Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant scouted the game as the personal guest of Oklahoma Coach Bud Wilkinson.

Bryant saw an eye-full of Oklahoma versatility.

The Aggies, with only a thin squad of 30 men, matched touchdowns with Oklahoma in the first quarter for a 7-7 tie before 33,000 persons.

In the second quarter the Sooners broke loose for 28 points. Arnold, doing a beautiful game at quarterback, evaded the Aggies 8-man line with a spectacular aerial barrage.

Three of Arnold's touchdown passes were caught by end Jack Lockett. End John Reddell scored on the other toss. A one-yard buck by halfback Billy Vessels and a nine yard spring by fullback Leon Heath took care of the remainder of the Sooner scoring.

Jim Weatherall made five out of six conversions.

The Aggies' first touchdown was scored with less than two minutes remaining in the first quarter when halfback John Grabko cut left tackle 12 yards to end a 70-yard march. Odie Biggs made the conversion, first of two.

Tulsa Has Hard Time Getting by Houston, 28-21

HOUSTON — (AP) — Tulsa's Missouri Valley Conference champions had to grind out a rough 73-yard, final period touchdown Saturday before handing ambitious University of Houston a 28 to 21 defeat.

Halfback Dwight Redmond skirted left end on a handoff for the winning score but only after three roughing penalties had figured in the drive.

Houston had tied the count at 21-21 in the third period on a 49-yard pass from quarterback Jolly Hartsell to halfback Max Clark after Tulsa had overcome an early 14 point deficit by striking for three touchdowns in the second quarter.

Georgia Upset By Tech, 7-0

ATHENS — (AP) — Georgia Tech had one scoring punch and threw it with everything in its power Saturday to win a wild and rough 7-0 upset over fumbling Georgia.

Each of Georgia's thrusts ended in ignomy and Tech's lonely touchdown, scored by second string Darrell Crawford on a two-foot quarterback sneak, in the second period stood the test throughout.

A big crowd of 50,000 fans came to little Athens expecting to see six-times beaten Tech take at least a two touchdown defeat.

But the once beaten Georgia Bulldogs, bound next week for the President's Cup game near Washington against Texas A&M, made far too many mistakes to whip smart and lively Tech.

Georgia committed at least six deadly football sins — two fumbles and four passes thrown straight into the open, happy arms of Tech intercepters.

Tennessee Rips Vanderbilt For 43-0 Gridiron Victory

NASHVILLE — (AP) — The Tennessee Volunteers made their game with Vanderbilt just a whistle stop on the road to the Cotton Bowl Saturday with a 43-0 football victory over their ancient rivals.

Tennessee, ranked fourth in the final Associated Press poll, drove to a 10-0 lead in the first half, then scored almost at will in the final periods. A crowd of 28,000 watched Tennessee administer Vanderbilt the worst thrashing it had suffered since 1945.

It was the tenth victoy in 11 starts for Tenessee and the loss was Vanderbilt's fourth in 11. But Tennessee was the first team to hold Coach Bill Edward's T-formation scoreless..

Several scouts from Texas, the Vols' Cotton Bowl opponent, got an eyeful as they watched Gen. Bob Neyland's power - studded single wing eleven score two touchdowns through the air, four on the ground and add a field

Halfback Harold Payne scored two touchdowns for Tennessee and Basil Drake added two others. Their scores were made by rushing. End Vince Kaseta and quarterback Bernie Sizemore grabbed touchdown passes, one hurled by Hank Lauricella and the other by Payne.

Vanderbilt managed to make a game of it in the first half but faded badly in the fourth period when Tennessee racked up 20 points.

Pampa Glovers Go To Lefors Friday

Coach T. C. Watt will take his glovers to Lefors Friday night for a team bout with Lefors in the high school gym at 8 o'clock.

The bout was scheduled to give both teams an opportunity to tune up before the coming golden glove tournament.

Seven bouts have already been matched for the Friday night card. However, Coach Watt said there would probable be some more fighters ready to go when weighing time comes around.

Pairings include:

50 pounds — Dickie James, Pampa, vs Boker Bigham, Lefors.

65 pounds — Wyland Holtman, Pampa, vs James Warner, Lefors.

70 pounds — Gerry Watt, Pampa, vs. Cecil Sanders, Lefors.

75 pounds — Frank Smith, Pampa, vs. Cecil Sanders, Lefors.

80 pounds — Ronnie James, Pampa, vs. Jerry Herring or J.D. Redus, Lefors.

135 pounds —Bobby Wilhelm, Pampa, vs. Friday Todd, Lefors.

155 pounds — Jimmy Bennett, Pampa, vs. Bob Newsome, Lefors.

SHOOTING FOR IT—George Dempsey threatens the national collegiate scoring record. With two seasons to play, the sharpshooter of King's College, Wilmington, Del., has 1316 points. He is near-sighted, too.

McLean Cagers Divide With Clarendon Friday

McLEAN — (Special) — Clarendon's High School cagers stopped the McLean Tigers here Friday night, 31-23 in a basketball contest. The McLean girls defeated the Clarendon girls, 34-26, in the opening game.

L. M. Watson sparked the Tiger attack, scoring 12 points. Wilson Lane was high point man for Clarendon with 12. The Clarendon quintet led at halftime, 16-7.

Dorthy Gudgel poured in 22 points for the McLean girls. McLean led at halftime, 20-14.

A three day tournament will be held in the Municipal gym starting this Thursday.

Baylor Places Second In Southwest Loop

(By The Associated Press)

The Southwest Conference football race ended Saturday with Baylor winding up in second place through a 33-7 defeat of Rice.

Texas clinched the championship several weeks ago.

Texas A&M and Texas Christian tied for third and Southern Methodist, which lost to Texas Christian 27-13 Saturday, and Rice tied for fifth.

Only one game remains on the conference schedule. It is an intersectional tilt between Texas and Louisiana State at Austin next Saturday.

Rod & Gun

by ED FOSS

The first thing I want to do this week is thank the many readers of this column who lent their support to my column of last week. I have received many letters, telephone calls, and personal assurances of continued support in the event of any further difficulty. I trust that there will be no difficulty, because in talking to wardens, and through correspondence from Austin, I have been assured that such practices as I described are not tolerated by the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission. I again wish to state that the Commission and its employees can count on me for full cooperation in any way possible. They may also count on continued fair criticism, be it for good or for bad, whichever the topic may warrant.

Quail season opened Friday, and most of the hunters I talked to killed their limits, but not without difficulty. The dry Fall has made it extremely tough for the dogs to pick up a good enough scent to work at top efficiency. The birds aren't holding to the dogs very well either. Even the Bobs are running a lot this season.

Another big difficulty is the heavy growth of burrs. If a man uses boots on his dogs, they suffer from lack of traction, which causes undue exertion. If the dogs aren't booted, the burrs cut their feet to shreds.

Permission to hunt on many of the ranches in the Panhandle is tough to get. The ranchers are hesitant because of the dry conditions which are so conducive to fire. I can't say I blame them.

Another reason the ranchers don't care to have hunters on their land is the carelessness and the poor sportsmanship displayed by a few hunters. There have been far too many cattle killed, fences cut, and damage done in general by a small group of hunters who have hurt hunting for the rest of us. When a landowner lets you in on his place this season, show your appreciation by considerate treatment of his property, and by courteously heeding his wishes. Don't forget to ask permission. . .and don't forget to thank him.

The wildlife biologists of the Game Department are conducting studies of quail populations through examinations of quail wings again this year. The Executive Secretary, Howard D. Dodgen, requests hunters to cooperate in this work by sending one wing from each bird they kill the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission in Austin. A study of quail wings will show the percent of young birds and indicate the production and survival for the year.

To facilitate mailing of wing collections, the Game Commission will supply special business reply envelopes on request. These provide space for recording pertinent data and require no postage from the hunter. The active help of hunting clubs and other groups is being solicited.

It is essential that wings from cocks and hens be placed in different containers, but any number of wings from birds of the same sex may be placed together. Only one wing from each bird should be saved. The date and county of collection is also necessary. If you don't send for the official envelopes, any kind of paper sack which is properly labeled will do.

The number of coveys found per day of hunting is also requested. This will add to the total picture of quail population.

Duck hunting was mighty slow last week, and it doesn't look much better for the coming one. There were plenty of ducks on McClellan Sunday, but the weather was so clear that they left the lake at daybreak and stayed out. The few singles were too high to decoy.

Morris Pollard writes that hunting was also slow on Lake Marvin. He says that a few flights came in during the week, however.

That's all the news from this corner for the week. Don't forget to drop me a line and let me know what's happening. I depend on the sportsmen in this area to keep me posted, so that I may pass the information on through this column. I'll see you next week.

Levelland Defeats Shamrock In Class A Contest, 34-14

AMARILLO — (Special) — The Levelland Lobos ground out a 34-14 regional Class A victory over the Shamrock Irish here Friday afternoon in Amarillo Stadium before 5,500 fans.

The powerful Lobos struck early, scoring three touchdowns in the first 12 minutes of the game.

Perry Heard led the Levelland ground attack, piling up 178 yards rushing.

The Irish fought back in the second quarter with a 50-yard touchdown march.

Levelland scored its first touchdown when quarterback Zack Reid went 17 yards for a TD. Guard Mack Terry smashed through to block the try for extra point.

The Lobos kicked off and Vernon Tarbet took the ball in the end zone. He handed off to Kenneth Kidwell and end Neil Atchison tackled the Irish ball carrier in the end zone for a safety.

Levelland scored its second tally on Shamrock's free kick from the 20 traveling 54 yards, Reid climaxed the drive with a two-yard plunge, and he ran over the extra point to put the Lobos out in front, 15-0.

The Hockley county lads scored touchdown number three when Sneed blocked Donald Lea's punt on the Shamrock 40. The ball bounced all the way back into Shamrock's end zone where Heard gathered the interception in on the Irish 48 and ran it back to the 29. Waltrip went over from the one to finish the drive. Sneed's kick was good to make the score 34-7.

Dunnam passed to end Van Pennington for the Irish final counter. The play covered 75 yards. Pennington made an acrobatic catch and raced into the end zone to score. Dunnam split the up rights to make the final score, 34-14, Levelland.

Texas Tech Grid Mentor Resigns

LUBBOCK — (AP) — Dell Morgan, head coach at Texas Tech, announced this Saturday afternoon that he was resigning his post as mentor of the Red Raiders at the expiration of his present contract Aug. 31, 1951.

The announcement was made in a letter written in Abilene, today where the Red Raiders were playing Hardin-Simmons University, and addressed to Gordon Thompson, manager of station KFYO, the Avalanche Journal station in Lubbock.

The announcement, rumored in Lubbock for the past several days but given no official status by any college official, came as a suprise. Tech board directors had met in Amarillo only Friday night and no hint of such a move was given following the session.

Baylor Bears Claw Past Owls, 33-7

WACO —(AP)— Larry Isbell's precision passing and magical ball handling led Baylor to a ridiculously easy, 33-7 victory over Rice Saturday.

Three times his passes made the score board click and another set the stage for little Frank Shannon to get in on the touchdown parade.

With this win Baylor, the team doped to finish in the cellar of the Southwest Conference, ended in second place behind champion Texas.

One touchdown in the first period, three in the second, and another in the fourth left the crowd of 20,000 partisan Baylor fans glowing with pleasure.

It took a recovered fumble late in the final quarter to start Rice toward its only touchdown.

Isbell tossed two touchdown passes to Stanley Williams, who made spectacular catches, and hit James Jeffrey in the end zone with another.

An 84-yard punt return by little Johnny Curtis and a one-yard plunge by Shannon accounted for the other Baylor touchdowns, with Henry Dickerson carried to Baylor's 18-yard kicking three extra points.

After Hardy Dean recovered Don Carpenter's fumble for Rice on Baylor's 17-yard line, Harmon Carswell climaxed a goalward surge by scoring from the half-yard line. Bill Wright kicked the extra point.

When Isbell wasn't shooting deadly passes over the charging Rice line, he was befuddling it with slight-of-hand ball handling, sending Richard Parma, Jeffrey, and Buddy Parker ripping through.

It was not until the game was nearly over that Rice penetrated Baylor's 20-yard line. It never got inside the Bear 30-yard line the first three quarters and only at one time—just before its touchdown — did it put on a sustained drive. This one carried to Baylor's 18-yard marker.

Shortly before the end of the first quarter Baylor struck for its first touchdown, Isbell passing to Williams on a play covering 33 yards.

Early in the second period, he climaxed a 75-yard drive with a 25-yard scoring heave to Jeffrey and then moments later Sonny Wyatt punted to Curtis, who took the ball on his own 14, broke through the entire Rice team and scampered like a scared tomcat downfield.

Baylor's next touchdown came almost immediately afterwards. Shannon, whose primary purpose on the Baylor squad is to race downfield on the kickoff, did just that. He recovered Dickerson's kickoff off the shin of Emanuel Braden.

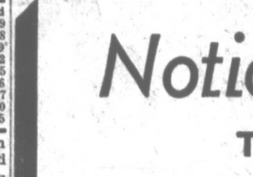

With Isbell tossing, Baylor moved to Rice's 20 yard line and here the Bear quarterback passed to Harold Riley on the Owls' one-yard line. Shannon came romping back into play to finish the damage he had started.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

He's More to Be Blamed Than Pitied

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Here's one for your pity-or-blame department," writes a Cincinnati correspondent. "This little tragedy brought about much weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth — especially since East-West scored the rubber on the very next hand!

"South had visions of a grand slam when his partner made a jump bid in clubs and then showed a very strong preference for spades. However, the Blackwood four no-trump bid got a response of only five hearts, showing two aces; and South had to be satisfied with a small slam contract.

"West opened the ace of diamonds, dropping South's singleton king. He then continued with the five of diamonds. South played the ten from dummy, East covered with the jack, and South ruffed.

"South then led a low trump from his hand! West made haste to put up the nine of spades in order to force out dummy's king of trumps. He didn't really expect South to take a fancy trump finesse, but West saw no reason to take a chance against a slam contract.) That was the end, of course. South had to lose a trump trick, and he was therefore set one trick.

"South claimed that he thought West had opened a long diamond suit. In that case it was a little more likely that East would have long trumps than that West would have long diamonds and also long trumps. Was there anything in this reasoning? In any case, was South more to be pitied than blamed for losing his slam?"

I'm sorry to say that South deserves more blame than pity for booting this slam. It was hard luck, of course, to find all the trumps in one hand, but South might have delved a little more deeply into the opening leader's psychology.

When does a good player lead an ace against a slam contract? Very seldom. If he has an ace, he will usually try to set up a trick in a different suit so that he can cash that other trick when his ace is knocked out.

However, a good player will lead an ace if there is great danger that he will lose it if he doesn't take it at once. And a good player will lead an ace against a slam if he has prospects of a trump trick.

There was nothing absolutely sure about this case, but there was a distinct possibility that West had led his ace because he hoped to get a trump trick later. Because of that possibility, South should have begun the trumps by cashing his ace. Then East's failure to follow suit would dictate a trump finesse through West.

Culmone Leads Willie

(By The Associated Press)

Jockey Joe Culmone, already holder of the modern day one-season riding record, set his sights today on Walter Miller's all-time mark of 388 winners set in 1906. Through yesterday Culmone has 354. He has one month left to get the 35 winners necessary to shatter Miller's mark.

Little Joe rode two winners at Bowie yesterday while his nearest rival, Willie Shoemaker, was blanked for the second straight day at Hollywood. Culmone, who several weeks ago, trailed Shoemaker by seven, now leads Willie by ten.

Voluntary Stabilization Held As Chairmen Study, Appoint

By MAX HALL

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Defense Production Act of 1950 says that the President, in stabilizing prices and wages, may encourage and promote "voluntary programs and agreements."

And the President, creating the Economic Stabilization Agency in September, instructed it to "encourage and promote voluntary action."

To date, the ESA has done this in vague and general terms only.

Alan Valentine, the ESA administrator, has made a couple of speeches in which he strongly urged industry and labor to use restraint with respect to prices and wages.

But the agency has not come out with anything resembling a voluntary "program."

No standards have been set up for the guidance of industry in setting prices, or of labor in demanding wage raises.

No "formula" has made its appearance.

Meantime events have marched forward. The cost of living has risen to the highest point in our history, and wage raises have swept through industry.

No one in the government was suprised wihen the U. S. Steel corp. agreed to give a wage increase averaging 16 cents an hour, and immediately announced a 5 1-2 percent boost in the price of steel.

There are reasons why the government's efforts toward "voluntary" stabilization have not taken more definite form.

One reason is that the ESA is still a tiny skeleton organization. Much time is being consumed, and many problems encountered, in getting a staff together.

The ESA now has 130 employes, including stenographers. Only 50 of these empoyes are "permanent." All the rest are on loan from other agencies.

The ESA came into being —on paper — Sept. 9. Valentine was appointed Oct. 7, and took office Oct. 17.

On Oct. 10 Cyrus S. Ching was appointed chairman of the Wage Stabilization Board (a part of the ESA), but it was Nov. 24 before the other eight members were announced.

G. Griffith Johnson is on the job as assistant ESA administrator for economic policy. Francis P. Whitehair has been named ESA general counsel, but he hasn't yet arrived to take up his duties. A number of other important jobs are still vacant, or are being occupied temporarily.

The government has had trouble filling one of the highest positions in the agency, that of director of price stabilization.

Finally, Mayor Michael V. DiSalle of Toledo was appointed to the position.

So the heads of the agency have spent much time in recruitment.

Besides, they have devoted much time to long-range planning. They are supposed to advise the President on the question of whether, and when, to order price and wage controls, and on what basis. They must be ready to administer such controls when the time comes.

Those tough questions take a lot of study, a lot of consulting.

Under the circumstances, there has been little time to draw up a specific program for voluntary action.

But even if there had been time, it is unlikely that any "formula" for prices and wages would have been announced.

Even a full-sized agency, fully staffed and with nothing to do but work out standards for voluntary action, would have found it difficult to agree upon a fair and workable formula during the last three fast-moving months.

The wage and price movements have been in full tilt.

When the effects of the steel settlement become clearer, it is possible that the ESA can arrive at a better understanding of what ought to be done.

W. B. Weatherred, Pampa postmaster, presented a color film on the Explorer Scout trip to Canada last summer at the noon meeting of the Lions Club, Thursday. The film pictured scenes of local Scouts and their leaders engaged in canoeing on the lakes of Minnesota and Canada, fishing, and doing camp chores. About 30 young men from the Adobe Walls Council made the trip.

O. E. McDowell led a discussion concerning the annual Lions Club minstrel and passed out a short questionnaire for each member to fill out concerning the type of show the club desired. The show, regardless of the type, will be presented sometime in April, 1951.

H. M. Luna, boss Lion, presented a gift to the November sweetheart, Phoebe Osborne. The December sweetheart will be Mary Hawkins and will be presented at the next meeting.

Hurricane Henry Reveals Private Opinions About Life

By HENRY McLEMORE

Private Opinions Made Public: Some sort of medal should be struck and presented to the U. S. members of the Security Council for their patience in the face of the violent untruths of Russia's Malik — How our fellows hold their tempers, and restrain themselves from whacking Malik over the head with the handiest stick, is a miracle to me — Can't help wondering what would happen at Lake Success if, say, Harold Ickes, Leo Durocher and Westbrook Pegler were our representatives — School would soon be out.

For anyone who has a cat, or cares for cats, Paul Gallico's latest, "The Abondoned," is a must — You'll learn more about cats than cats know about themselves — Incidentally cats—or my cat, Duffy, anyway—much prefer television to radio — Duffy will leave the room when the radio is on, but will sit for hours in front of the video set entranced.

Have never seen a dance team in which the male member wasn't a better dancer than the gal — And I have yet to hear anyone on radio or television laugh naturally — This goes double for announcers and MC's — Their laughs sound as if they had been stabbed in the back during a coughing spell.

Walking through New York's stores, all overflowing with Christmas goods of every kind imaginable, makes me wonder what citizens of countries behind the Iron Curtain would say about our vicious, broken-down capitalistic system if they could see the lavish display of the world's goods — Probably wouldn't say anything—just faint out of pure amazement.

There is no such thing as southern cooking outside of southern homes — Southern cooking in restaurants is enough to make Stonewall Jackson turn in his grave — To me, I'd rather be as fat as a blimp with mumps than eat yogurt in any form — Tastes just like it sounds, only worse.

I have a notion that the Red China delegation will hate to go back to Peiping and living in the Wagon-Lits Hotel there after their stay in the Waldorf-Astoria — The Wagon-Lits is Peiping's best, but compared to the WA it is little more than a big packing box with windows.

It is my guess that any attemp by Washington to throw J. Edgar Hoover out on his ear will meet with the same sort of reception that the effort to discredit the Marines was given — If my eyes aren't deceiving me the Veep's attractive bride has put on quiet a few pounds of late — Maybe she'd better try yogurt.

There never has been a decent cup of coffee served in a paper cup — Always tasts as if it had been stored in an empty shoe box for a week or so — Harvard has the worst-looking, but far and away the best football band in the country — While the other bands are showing off their knowledge by spelling out half the words in the English language, the Harvard boys are playing.

English sole is the most overrated fish that swims — It never saw the day it could touch Spanish mackerel, Lake Erie whitefish or shad — Joe Lewis really will get plastered if he fights Ezzard Charles again — I'd like to see Sugar Ray Robinson, despite his lack of poundage, fight for the heavyweight title — He wouldn't be as much of an underdog as you'd expect.

I'm getting a reputation as "Hurricane Henry" along the same lines as Typhoid Mary — Wherever I travel a hurricane is sure to come along with me — I left one in Flordia and it followed me right to New York.

Tax Collection In October at 84.2 Percent

Total county and state tax collections amounted to 84.2 plus percent by the end of October, county tax officials have disclosed.

Of the total state, county and common school district levy of $658,838.95 a net collection of $555,312.98 was posted in the county tax assessor collector's books.

The collection of $572,488.49 was less the discount allowance of $17,175.51 leaving the net $555,312.98, giving the 84.2 percentage figure.

Broken down, the tax office has collected $214,242.50 for the state's coffers; $306,252.79 in county taxes; and $51,993.20 for the county's three common school districts.

Discounts of three percent are allowed on county taxes if paid before Oct. 31; two percent if paid before Nov. 30; and one percent if paid before Dec. 31. An eight percent penalty is added plus six percent interest if the taxes are not paid by Jan. 31. County taxes are termed delinquent if unpaid by June 30, close of the county's fiscal year.

Stock Is Retired By Cities Service

The stockholders of Sunray Oil Corporation have converted into its common stock approximately $5,700,000 of Sunray's outstanding series B, 4 1-2 percent cumulative convertible preferred stock, $25 par value, it was announced here today.

All of the forty thousand shares of Sunray's series B preferred stock, except approximately 1200 shares, called for redemption between October 13 and November 20 were converted. In addition approximately 64,000 shares of series B stock not included in the called shares have been converted into common stock during the period October 13 to November 20. Consideration will be given by the Sunray board of directors to the call of an additional block of this series B preferred stock.

In these transactions the amount of outstanding series B stock has been reduced by conversion to approximately 570,000 shares.

As of November 20 there have been 963,595 shares of Sunray 5 1-2 percent cumulative convertible second preferred, $20 par value, converted into common stock, leaving 1,438,675 shares of this class outstanding, of which the first 637,919 shares to be presentare subject to conversion into common stock at $16 per share and the remaining shares are convertible into common at $18 per share.

Including the 719,881 shares issued under option on November 24, there are approximately 8,200,000 shares of common stock of Sunray outstanding and this will be increased by any additional convertible preferred stock submitted to the company for conversion into common shares at future dates.

Public Land Is Protected

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Interior Department said today it will put new regulations into effect next month to protect public lands that are leased for oil and gas development.

The department's Bureau of Land Management, effective Jan. 28, will require lessees to take "reasonable steps" to prevent their operations from unnecessarily:

1. Causing or contributing to soil erosion or damaging forage and timber growth.
2. Polluting the waters of reservoirs, springs, streams or wells.
3. Damaging crops, including forage, timber, or improvements of a surface owner.
4. Damaging range improvements, whether owned by the United States or by its grazing lessees.

Upon conclusion of operations, the holders of oil and gas leases must restore the surface to its former condition, so far as can reasonably be done.

The regulations are embodied in new streamlined oil and gas lease forms which the bureau is adopting. They are not applied to mining or other mineral leases except in special cases.

THE DRILLER'S LOG

By JACK COATS

On or about Jan. 1, 1951, The Pampa Daily News will put out a Progress Edition. This special edition will feature the history and progress of Pampa and surrounding territories since 1900.

It is my intention to have an Oil and Gas supplement, and we have a large amount of informative data including pictures and stories about the first activity recorded in this year.

Naturally, an immense amount of research will be put into this section. Watch for it. It will be worth your while.

Last call for tickets to the annual installation of officers banquet of the API. If you haven't made plans to go yet, better get in touch with some member for your ticket. You can't afford to miss it.

Jeff Williams, humorist and lecturer, of Chickasha, Okla., will be the guest speaker.

Remember, it's at the Bunavista Cafeteria in Borger Dec. 5. Refreshments will be served beginning at seven o'clock and the dinner proper will begin at eight.

This is not intended to be an announcement column, but too many things are happening this week. The regular meeting of the Panhandle Geological Society will be held in the Herring Hotel at noon Dec. 6.

E. L. Maxwell, guest speaker, will present a topic concerning the Diamond-M Reef in Scurry County.

A recommendation stressing the need of a broader tax base in Texas was the outcome of a meeting in San Antonio this week of the Governor's advisory council for the oil industry.

A tax subcommittee of the Governor's group was named to write the recommendation. It will be studied by the legislative council and may be presented to the state legislature.

Speakers pointed out the fact that since more than half the state's revenue comes from taxes on gas and petroleum, the state's financial condition varies with the production of oil.

They said a cut-back in oil allowable production during the past two years has hurt the state's finances. If legislative action is forthcoming, it will certainly mean an increased tax scale for everyone in the industry.

Harold Dunn, president of Shamrock Oil and Gas Corp. in Amarillo represented the Panhandle at the session.

Hope for definite action in solving the nation's tubular steel shortage seems a little brighter. The shortage is one of the most pressing problems of the oil industry at this time. It has been described as "one of the first and most serious problems to be considered."

Solving the problem seems to be in the hands of the Petroleum Administration for Defense, a new agency set up in Washington for this type of thing.

PAD, operating under the Department of the Interior, has primary responsibility concerning steel requirements and distribution for the oil industry. However, actual allocation of oil country pipe will rest with the National Production Authority, in the Commerce Dept.

Considerable time has been lost on the steel question because there seemed to be nobody to take formal action in talking to the NPA, which has charge of allocations. It is hoped that PAD will now make early recommendations to the Commerce Dept. agency.

The Interior Dept. has been advised on oil industry steel requirements, as well as means of correcting maldistribution of tubular goods.

Recommendations have also been made to the Interior Dept. for alleviating gray market selling of tubular goods by enforcement on an anti-stockpiling regulation in the Defense Production Act.

Therefore, NPA issued order M-6, which I discussed several weeks ago, providing for a more equitable distribution of steel production. It provided that tubular goods could not be sold to persons buying for re-sale, thus eliminating the gray marketer.

The only factor that has saved the situation in the past is an increased supply of material and the ability of oil producers to supplement this supply through the use of second-hand materials and improvised methods, which is both "uneconomic and costly" to the producer. This factor has worked to a certain extent, and it shows the ability of the industry to conform to all forms of hardships, but the cost is simply too great.

Many are the wells that have shut down because of a lack of tubular steel goods. Under increased demands of the NPA, the production without the necessary industry cannot hope to keep up materials.

Every indication is that the problem is growing more serious. Unless something is done soon that will assure proper distribution and use of pipe that is available it can be expected that there will be serious disruption in the exploration and development progress of the industry.

In view of the international situation that we face the nation cannot afford to permit this thing to occur.

Some drilling can be delayed, but in many instances a producer is forced to seek pipe through every possible means and at any cost if he is not to lose his lease and investment.

The pipe situation is so bad today that many producers are forced to resort to any type of arrangement that will tide them over.

Some factions state that the problem should be solved entirely by the oil and steel industries, with what little government help is needed to be supplied by the Petroleum Administration for Defense.

Why do I keep harping on this subject? This whole thing is serious. More serious than you think. It just doesn't affect producers and members of the oil industry, it affects every man, woman and child within the United States. We can't possibly hope to keep what world supremacy we tsill have when we can't produce the oil that we need so vitally.

Let's stop talking about the whole thing. Let's DO something.

Now let's look at the brighter side of the picture. It is true that the oil industry has a great many serious problems to face, but it is hoped, of course, that the industry will be able to cope with the situation.

Given adequate materials, an equitable tax base and assurance of operating in a free economy the American petroleum will meet all the requirements of the national defense program.

Many officials have voiced the opinion that the industry could operate free of any government restrictions.

They maintain that during the short breathing spell they had between the end of World War II and the beginning of the Korean War the industry had done so well and had produced results so valuable that "the perennial petroleum pessimists have almost been silenced.

It is hoped that government officials will give oil producers a free leeway so necessary production can be achieved.

We cannot solve a steel shortage at home by sending ton upon ton of tubular goods to England, Iraq and heaven knows where.

Tidelands Present Issue In Congress, Says Gov. Shivers

CHARLESTON, S. C. — (AP) — Texas' Gov. Allan Shivers has warned southern governors that not only oil, but nationalization of many resources, is the issue in the States' Tidelands fight.

He urged the governors to keep the battle going and said the outlook for favorable legislation in the 82nd Congress is more encouraging than in the 81st. Shivers noted that several federal sovereignty proponents won't be back in January and that at least two new Republican Senators are "staunch supporters" of state control.

"The legal battle having been lost, at least for the present, it is now doubly important for the States through their congressional delegations, to exert maximum influence in behalf of sound legislation that would confirm the States' rightful claims, Shivers said.

The Texas Governor was scheduled to leave Charleston early Tuesday, but he filed his report as Chairman of the Tidelands Committee with officials of the conference for presentation that day. Copies of the report were made public at his office in Austin, Texas.

"The Supreme Court of the United States has ruled, in the Louisiana case as in the California case, that the states do not own the submerged areas within their traditional offshore boundaries," Shivers said.

"In Texas we thought we had a special claim, because of the terms under which Texas became a state.

The Supreme Court decided 4-3 that we didn't, without hearing the evidence. As we say over in my part of East Texas, we couldn't even get into the Courthouse.

"In Congress we made a little more progress but still didn't score. To use football parlance, we made a first down but no touchdown. Even if we had, it would have been called back by the Big Referee in the White House."

Another effort will be made in the 82nd Congress to pass satisfactory legislation, Shivers said, adding:

"From one angle, our chances are improved. Perhpas I should not say this at a gathering of Democratic Governors, but it is true that the Republicans have always been more favorable to the States' viewpoints on tidelands than the Democratic administration."

"I personally know two of the new Republican Senators, former Governors Frank Carlson of Kansas and Jim Duff of Pennsylvania, as staunch supporters of State control of Tidelands," Shivers said. "Some of the more optimistic advocates of quitclaim legislation now feel that we have a real chance to pass a bill and rally enough strength to override the certain Presidential Veto."

"Over this propitious situation falls the long shadow of war. The danger definitely exists that military exigencies will be used by some of the smart federal boys as an excuse to take over the Tidelands without further ado. No state and no governor wants to be placed in the position of interfering with the defense effort.

"Actually the quickest, surest way to assure proper development of Tidelands oil resources is to leave the Tidelands in the control of our efficient and effective state regulatory bodies."

Oil is not the only issue, Shivers continued.

"Proponents of federal control have covered the Tidelands issue with a heavy coat of crude oil," he said.

"They have succeeded, partially at least, in isolating the oil-producing states and picturing them as mere selfish scramblers to retain the benefits of Tidelands oil for themselves.

"If that has been the feeling in any state represented here today, let me advise you to take another look. The Supreme Court did not limit its ruling to oil."

Shivers said any state with coastal fishing industries, wharves, docks or piers outside the low-tide mark, reclaimed land that was once under sea water, should be concerned.

Hydrocarbons Are Here To Stay, According to Expert

"Hydrocarbons will still be used 50 years from now to heat a house and run an automobile, and the oil industry will still be furnishing the fuel, whether it comes from crude oil, shale, coal or corn stalks!"

That was the prediction of Ira H. Cram, Continental Oil Company vice president in charge of exploration and production, Houston, when he opened the annual Fort Worth regional meeting of the Society of Exploration Geophysicists.

Cram advocated "drilling more wildcat wells on more imaginative prospects."

Citing the relentless hunger of the country for petroleum products, the Continental exploration executive declared that it is not a matter of whether or not the industry "can" afford more imaginative wildcatting — "It must afford it." Because the demand for oil is expanding so greatly each year, reserves must be found at a comparable pace, he reminded.

While the big job of oil finding "requires superlative geological and geophysical talent, the best, the most skillful, and the most ingenious, it also requires the most daring and most imaginative," Cram said.

"A given set of facts becomes a prospect worth drilling in the hands of an imaginative explorer," he continued. "The first well may be dry as a bone but may point the way to the second, which in turn may blaze a trail to the third wildcat and a discovery. The same set of facts in the hands of an unimaginative explorer is just something to fill the already bulging and insufficiently used files."

Cram pointed up his discussion by declaring that "the oil industry can boast of the finest geological and geophysical talent in the world and at the same time admit it is not even interested in geologists and geophysicists as such. The industry is interested only in oil finders, be they geologists, geophysicists, land men or office boys."

The executive explained that his suggested program for drilling more wildcats puts a greater strain on the imaginative efforts of all — the geologist, the geophysicist, the land man, the driller and others.

"In large portions of the areas to be discussed at this meeting the geologist cannot thusly pass the buck to the machine. Rather, he has to supply out of his head that which the machines are unable to supply. Under such circumstances, the geologist has at the same time his greatest responsibility and greatest opportunity."

"The geophysicist, obviously, is not supposed to imagine the presence of reflections, but he can improve his interpretations immeasurably by the exercise of controlled geologic imagination," he continued. "As he is forced to work in areas of poorer and poorer results, his imagination becomes a more important factor in his interpretations."

He added that the land man is called upon to make wiser deals so as to keep land and other costs down, and that the driller is called upon to drill cheaper holes for the same reason.

"An array of talent ranging in caliber from common laborers to highly trained scientists must be welded into a team," Cram cited. "This takes time. This team, properly financed, gains momentum with time so that the discoveries increase as the team gets to rolling."

Cram emphasized that an exploratory program is most fruitful when uninterrupted over a period of time. He pointed out the adverse effects of the depression period and World War II on efforts toward building up crude reserves. He warned that other interruptions can be just as serious, including governmental tampering with the industry and excessive imports of crude oil.

"It is the petroleum industry's job to produce oil and gas as fast as the nation needs them, always, of course, adopting every modern practice that prevents waste of these important substances." he said.

In the event that hydrocarbons other than oil are used in the future to furnish fuel normal competitive forces will see to it that a source of raw material is developed and that the desired products are forthcoming on a commercial basis.

"Under this conception of things to come," he concluded, "one does not worry about the size of the undiscovered oil reserve. He worries only about whether or not the economic and political climate will continue to be such that the industry will be permitted to do the job that it knows it can do."

Smoky Starts Trek To South America

SILVER CITY, N. M. — (AP) — Smoky Cameron, who's done a lot of walking in the past three years, has started on another trek — this time to South America "to find out what causes all the revolutions."

Pushing 65, Cameron's own count says he has walked 25,397 miles since 1947. His record for a day's walk, he said, is 45 miles — set in Canada through a below-zero snowstorm.

He stopped here on his way to Truth or Consequences. He will go to Laredo, Tex., and take the Pan-American Highway south toward the revolution country.

Wildcats Are Advocated

FORT WORTH, Texas — (AP) — Drilling of more wildcats on more imaginative prospects was advocated today before the opening session of the two-day regional exploration meeting of geophysicists and geologists here.

The proposal came from Ira H. Cram of Houston, vice president in charge of exploration and production, Continental Oil Company. He opened a program that included a series of discussions of the Delaware Basin, lying in West Texas and New Mexico.

Among those discussing the basin were Berte H. Haigh, University Lands, Geological Division, Midland; W. A. McFadden, Jr., Standard Oil Company of Texas, Midland, and H. Wayne Hoylman, Consultant, Los Angeles.

Cram declared that it was not a matter of whether or not the industry can afford more imaginative wildcatting — "It must afford it." He said that reserves must be found at a pace comparable with the expanding demand for oil.

Blow Received by Louisiana in Court

BATON ROUGE, La. — (AP) — The first blow to Louisiana's potential oil tidelands revenue because of a recent U. S. Supreme Court action was reported today by a state official.

Miss Lucille May Grace, register of the State Land Office, said $279,000 was paid to the federal government on a group of leases held by four oil firms.

She said the Continental Oil Co. reported to her office, collector of state revenue from oil leases, that it had paid the $279,000 prior to Nov. 19 to the United States.

Continental, she added, said it acted also for the Atlantic Refining Co., Cities Service Oil Co. and the Tide Water Associated Oil Co., who participated in the leases.

Sooner Oil Shows Banner Week

TULSA, Okla. — (AP) — Oklahoma oil field activity had a banner week as Beckham County took on added significance with entry of another major company in that area.

Carter Oil Co. staked out a 10,000-foot wildcat in Beckham's untapped Northwest, across county from Shell Oil Co.'s prolific Elk City field.

The Tulsa World found 131 completions during the week, including 75 oilers, seven gassers and 49 dusters, compared to 123 final last week. First reports, too, were up with 129 new tests underway in 29 counties.

Other data: average daily initial output of crude, 7,386 barrels; of gas, 47,162,654 cubic feet; and 496,385 total feet drilled.

Congress Faces Huge Session

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON — (AP) — Numerous oil industry problems can be expected to be placed before Congress next year.

Current trends indicate only the outbreak of another world war can prevent renewal of fights for state ownership of the Tidelands and a curb on foreign oil imports.

The government also is expected to renew its request for a reduction to 15 parcent in the present 27 1-2 percent depletion allowance given oil and gas operators on their income taxes.

Results of the November 7 general election caused increased optimism among advocates of state control of the Tidelands despite recent defeats before the Supreme Court. Several strong senate advocates of federal ownership were defeated and several new senators have supported state ownership in the past.

A 1950 congressional battle over foreign oil came to an abrupt end with the start of fighting in Korea. Imports opponents effected a truce once domestic production began to climb.

United States output reached an all-time record high in September but slipped slightly the next two months.

Talk of renewal of the fight for an imports curb began when more severe December cutbacks were ordered by the State oil and gas officials.

A 230,000 barrels per day slash became effective yesterday in Texas.

J. Ed Warren, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, this week said there is indication imports next year will exceed 1,000,000 barrels a day.

Should recent domestic production cutbacks continue into 1951, termination of the truce in the imports squabble would be inevitable.

There were Texas and Louisiana tidelands developments this week.

The Louisana State Land Office reported "the first blow" resulting from recent Supreme Court recognition of the federal government's paramount rights to the tidelands.

Continental Oil Company advised the office it had paid $297,000 to the federal government on leases held by Continental, Atlantic Refining Company, Cities Service Oil Company and Tidewater Associated Oil Company.

Texas Governor Allan Shivers told the Southern Governors Conference the outlook for state ownership legislation will be better under the 1951 Congress than under the 81st Session.

Bascom Giles, Texas Land Commissioner, left for Washington during the week to confer with congressmen on Tidelands matters. He said Congress must act on State ownership "at once."

Giles' office will offer 410,000 acres of state owned land along the Gulf Coast for oil lease sale Tuesday.

Included will be 392,000 acres in inland bays and 2200 acres in river beds.

Giles said some 25 companies have shown interest in the Tuesday sale.

Rotary Rigs on Decline in U.S.

Rotary rigs operating in oilfields of the United States and Canada during the week of November 27 showed a net decline of 25 from the all-time peak of 2515 units reported active a week ago.

In a report to American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors, the principal declines were in the Illinois area, down 19 units to 125, and in Canada, where 113 rigs were active, down 9. The Gulf Coast area reported an increase of 11 rctaries, to 585.

Nine Students To Exhibit Art

Paintings by art students of Mrs. B. A. McLarry will be on exhibit during the week of Dec. 18 at the Public Library.

Mrs. McLarry teaches nine students at her studio at 112 W. Browning. The paintings to be exhibited are all original oils, pastels, water colors, charcoal and pencil drawings by adults and children.

The instructor has been teaching here, since February. She was a student of Anthony D. Young of San Antonio, Dolly Nabinger, Chicago and Eleanor Crow.

Her students are Mrs. Tom, Anderwall, Mrs. J. H. Enloe, Don Millsap, Ann Pollard, Roy Smith, Becky Dodson, Lonnie Nichols, Charlene Moore and Danny Phillips

Strike Is Planned By Oil Company

DALLAS — (AP) — A union official announced today that a strike on the Texas-New Mexico Pipeline Company's facilities had been voted by the workers but that no date for the strike has been set.

The pipeline funnels oil from West Texas and New Mexico to big refineries on the Gulf Coast — the Texas Company plant at Port Arthur and the Sinclair Refinery at Houston.

The union official was Floyd Smith, international representative of the CIO Oil Workers International Union.

Smith said negotiations, carried on at Midland, had broken down and he saw no chance of a settlement without a strike.

The union official said that in his opinion the planned strike of the 250 employes will stop the flow of oil in the 2,000-mile pipeline.

Smith reported that the union is seeking the same settlement reached over the week-end by Texas Company refinery workers at Port Arthur. These employes won a 12-cent across the board wage boost and improved security plans. He said the company has offered the pipeline workers a six percent wage boost with a 10-cent minimum.

Present wage rates on the pipeline range from $1.42 to $2.03 1-2 an hour, Smith said.

The pipeline is owned by Sinclair, Empire Gas and Fuel Company, Tidewater Associated, and the Texas Company. The Texas Company manages the line.

Slash Given on Allowables

AUSTIN, Texas — (AP) — Allowable crude oil production in the four important canyon reef fields of West Texas today was slashed approximately 70,000 barrels per day for December.

The cut means that allowable production in all Texas fields for the month will be approximately 230,000 barrels daily less in December than it was in November. Under the Railroad Commission's original proration order for December, permissive production was trimmed 160,000 barrels daily for the entire state.

Today's order was based on evidence heard Nov. 3. It involved the reef-lime fields in Scurry and Kent counties.

The order found that production from the Cogdell, Kelly-Snyder, Diamond "M" Canyon Lime, and the Sharon Ridge Canyon Lime areas is obtained from one common source of supply.

Per well permissive production in the fields involved was decreased from 160 barrels daily to 100 daily on 20 producing days.

The commission ordered the schedule to remain in effect for six months, and directed that a bottomhole pressure survey be conducted in the area beginning Jan. 1.

Most operators in the fields objected at the early November hearing to any cut in allowables.

Bank Loan Paid Off

Sunray Oil Corporation will immediately prepay an additional $9,600,000 of its bank loan with proceeds from the sale of 719,881 shares of its common stock to the Atlas Corp. and other company funds, it was announced here today. Sunray has reduced its bank loan obligation by $22-million since last June 23.

Option to purchase 30,119 shares of authorized but unissued Sunray common stock previously held by Ogden Corp. has been released by Ogden for a negotiated consideration and cancelled.

The stock purchased by Atlas Corp. will be placed in a voting trust in accordance with the original stock purchase option agreement between Sunray and Atlas executed at the time Sunray purchased from Atlas the controlling interest in the former Barnsdall Oil Co., and merged Barnsdall into Sunray.

The trustees of this voting trust holding the Sunray stock purchased by Atlas will be Floyd B. Odlum, president of Atlas Corp., Lloyd B. Gilmour, partner in Eastman, Dillon & Co., and C. H. Wright, president of Sunray Oil Corporation.

Early experiments in color photography were conducted as far back as 1848.

Biggest Question Confronting World

The biggest question confronting the world today is whether the atomic bomb is going to be used or not to attempt to stop the fighting in Korea.

There are arguments both ways on the subject, and all bear listening to. We won't attempt to list all of them here, but let's just look at a few of them.

"A London-based group says that we will be hitting at our friends that haven't the bomb if we decide to use it against the United States in the event we go into it.

"They say that to drop the A-bomb would give Russia the excuse it wants to attack the United States of being the instigator of World War III.

"They say that our top military officials who are overseeing the fighting in Korea say that the A-bomb isn't necessary . . . yet.

Now let's look at some of the arguments used by the drop-now faction. They say that World War III is already underway and the quicker it can be ended the better. If the atom bomb would stop hostilities in Korea right now, let her go.

They say that the fight in Korea is being carried on by the United Nations forces, and that force is composed of 95 percent American boys. Why should they die to save Korea when the rest of the United Nations isn't interested enough in stopping communism's spread to send their soldiers there. If the A-bomb will bring our boys home, let's use it, they say.

Another argument used in favor of dropping "the" bomb is that it will show Russia that we aren't afraid and that we mean to deal with them in the strongest way known to mankind. The atom bomb was given to America by God, and though using it now would cost many lives, in the long run it would be a saving in human lives. Those are some of the arguments advanced by the other group.

We can't say whether it is right or wrong to drop that lethal weapon now. But one thing is certain, the decision, whatever it may be, is going to have an effect on Pampa, Texas, USA.

How about the boys who are doing the fighting over there? They've been told that no man is to be removed from combat until he becomes worthless. Christmas is soon here. They've been gone a long while and seen a lot of fighting. They haven't had the most pleasant of conditions. They've had their buddies shot down by their side, and many have been wounded, frozen, starved and gone dog-tired. They have left wives, families and sweethearts behind. Many don't know what-in-hell they're doing in Korea in the first place.

Having been in somewhat similar situations three different Christmas times during WW II, we can guess how those boys feel about dropping the atom bomb.

We'll wager a chicken dinner against the hole in a doughnut that they want ALL of the fighting power and equipment that is available. Heaven knows that those brave American heroes have given their all against overwhelming odds long enough.

Russia Steps Up Drive to Force Poles to Love Master

By JOHN FISHER

As the German international crisis thickens, Stalin is discovering that Poland has not yet been hewed into a submissive satellite, dependable in the event of war in northern Europe.

Hence a new program of organized high pressure has been inaugurated "to deepen," according to Adam Rapacki of the Polish Politburo, "the feeling of love and esteem for the Soviet Union."

Previous synthetic solidarity gestures failed to erase bitter memories of Russian treachery to General Bor-Komorowski's World War II Home Army, the massacres of Polish officers in the Katyn forest and more recent outrages. Poles — as they must — sullenly bow to police clubs and machine guns, but in their hearts they are still anti-Russian.

The latest instrument to influence Polish public opinion has been the Second World Peace Congress, transferred to Warsaw from Paris after London refused to allow the phony Congress to meet there.

The ousted delegates poured into Warsaw and stoned themselves hoarse denouncing "Anglo-American warmongers" and accusing America of invading Korea with the blood of children and perpetrating all sorts of fascist bestialities.

These malicious pro-Soviet fabrications were the most remarkable Propaganda feature in October ordered by Communist nations everywhere to celebrate the 33rd anniversary of the Russian Bolshevist Revolution.

In September a National Peace Congress was held. About 25,000 local bigwigs meetings preceded the climactic assembly in Warsaw. The stellar role at this hate fest went to Lieutenant Colonel Wu Han Bun, a North Korean officer, who regaled an audience of 300,000 with fresh lies about American aggression in the Orient.

In addition to these three major events the month of November was reserved for local efforts to cement Polish-Soviet friendship.

Such super-doses of prolonged, high-pitched ballyhoo are deemed necessary by Communist psychologists because the Polish people, next door neighbors to veritable Russia, show scant signs of adoration of their masters and display many indications that in case of war and the opportunity came they would give Russia the swerve.

Again and again at various mass meetings Red tub-thumpers urged their listeners to be on guard against a rising tide of "subversive activities" — open admission that Poles are not turning into Communists despite propaganda, bribes and Red terror.

Nevertheless the Bierut government, obedient to Moscow, uses every possible means to force its recalcitrant subjects to conform to the Soviet pattern. A recent Warsaw broadcast set as a goal of the new Six-Year Plan the "elimination of the capitalist element in our economy through curbing, expulsion and liquidation."

Communists are absorbing the entire educational system so that hereafter youthful minds will be Poland has the power and the will to drag her heels, Stalin cannot count on reliable military support for his martial completely molded by the Reds. A commission of Russian and Polish Communist educators have injected the party line into all school textbooks, except histories.

This latter subject also is being doctored. But the visiting savants had some difficulties in persuading their Polish comrades to distort in Russia's favor the record of Polish victories over the Bolshevist armies in the local war of 1920.

College professors are held strictly accountable to political mentors on faculties. Most older students are not Communists. But party membership is on the up in lower classes as high schools now are dominated by the ZMP, the Polish Communist Youth organization.

A high school student no longer can gain admission to a university unless sponsored by his local ZMP. College members of this order receive all the scholarships, free meals, inexpensive lodgings and other advantages and they run nearly all student activities, including state-financed vacation trips.

Equally powerful pressure is exerted to make Communist zealots of soldiers. Since ironfisted Soviet Marshal Rokossovsky assumed supreme command, the organization of the Polish army has been patterned on the Soviet army system. The two top generals of the ground and air forces are Soviet citizens. In fact, the entire officer class is saturated with Russians. Promising young Polish officers are sent to military schools in the Soviet Union.

The equipment of the army was poor when Rokossovsky took over. He introduced a few Russians jet fighter planes and some modern artillery which is displayed for propaganda purposes. But most units are below combat strength and are armed with Polish, Russian and German wartime left-over weapons.

Rearmament was not the most pressing problem. Rokossovsky found the army so indifferent to communism and so cold toward Russia that his chief efforts have been directed to indoctrination. Lectures on Marxist ideology consume more time than even drill. Communist youth cells are being organized in every unit. The soldier's oath now reads: "I swear to stand steadfastly guarding peace side by side with the Soviet Army."

But even this concentrated indoctrination has not solidified the bonds with Russia. The Polish military arm has a long tradition of patriotism and pride. Most younger officers and their men resent taking orders from arrogant Soviet majors and colonels.

When United Nations forces in Korea commenced to demonstrate their hitting power, Polish soldiers in barracks sang old, tabooed Polish army songs filled with anti-Russian sentiment.

A rumor that Polish units would be sent to bolster the North Koreans sparked a surge of desertions. In July 200 Polish naval officers were arrested on suspicion of disloyalty to Russia. Moscow is so doubtful of the Polish army that the Kremlin has recently heavily increased Soviet garrisons in Lower Silesia and Pomerania.

Polish antagonism for Russia should not be construed to mean an early peoples' revolt or a military mutiny. But so long as

Washington . . . by Peter Edson

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA)—Plans for a 90-to-100 group Air Force are now being prepared in Washington. Present authorized strength of the Air Force is 70 groups. As this congressional authorization is being carried out by the Air Force, it will be a 69-group organization, with a number of separate squadrons for rescue, troop carrying, weather reporting and other special missions.

Up until the Korean crisis broke, Department of Defense plans called for expansion of the present 48-group-plus Air Force to 58 groups by the end of 1951. In a second stage, the 58 groups were to be increased to 69 by the end of 1953.

The 69-group Air Force was based on support for an Army of 800,000 men. Now that the Army is talking about ground force strength of 1,500,000 men, a doubling of Air Force strength might seem to be in order. Present authorized strength for the 48-group Air Force is 416,000 men. For the 58-group Air Force, 568,000 men would be needed. No figures have been given on how many men would be required for a 69 or a 100-group Air Force.

There have, in fact, as yet been no official admissions that the 100-group Air Force was under consideration. Closest thing to an official statement on this subject so far has been Air Secretary Thomas K. Finnleiter's recent "Battle Report" broadcast. In that he said: "Even with 69 groups we must not become complacent, but must be constantly on the alert to develop better planes, better men, better techniques."

EXPANSION HINTED

Even here, it is noteworthy that the air secretary did not talk about "more" planes, but about "better" planes. In fact, the 100-group plan goes far beyond the reports prepared by Sen. Owen Brewster's joint congressional commission in 1947 and the President's Air Policy Commission report of 1948.

First semi-official leak on the 100-group plan came from retired Adm. Dewitt C. Ramsey, now president of the Aircraft Industries Assn. In testimony against the excess profits tax, before the House Ways and Means Committee, Admiral Ramsey disclosed that the industry was expecting plane production to be stepped up from the present 2018 planes on order to 7785 for the coming year.

One reason there have been no official statements on this subject is that all the involved calculations necessary to balance air, ground and sea forces have not been completed. But President Truman has indicated that requests for additional military funds will be presented to the lame duck session of Congress. The full 90-to-100-group program may not be presented to Congress till after the new Congress meets in January.

Principal immediate need for more money for the Air Force is to meet price rises. Air Force Undersecretary John A. McCone testified on this subject just before Congress adjourned in September.

Secretary McCone said then that increases in the prices of aluminum, copper, tin, rubber and other materials used in aircraft manufacture, plus certain wage increases then in sight, would average out to an increase of from 7 to 8 percent in plane costs.

The present Air Force budget for the fiscal year ending next June 30 is $9 billion. Of this roughly $4,500,000,000 is for procurement of 4428 new aircraft. Eight percent of this latter figure would mean that the Air Force would need $360,000,000 more to complete the 58-group Air Force. This is, of course, exclusive of the $2,278,000,000 for Naval aircraft and the $1,148,000,000 now authorized for foreign military assistance aircraft procurement.

FEWER PLANES

Asked to translate the increased costs into terms of how many planes the Air Force would lose, Secretary McCone said that if the whole $360,000,000 cut were taken in one type of plane, the F-86 jet, it would mean 750 fewer planes by the end of 1951.

Under the 69-group program, the heaviest expense for aircraft procurement was to be the $4,500,000,000 in the current fiscal year. Costs for next year, at pre-Korean prices, were to be $2,500,000,000, then $1,200,000,000 in 1953 and $2 billion in 1954. For the years after that, in replacing worn out and obsolete aircraft, costs were expected to level off at about $2,800,000,000 a year.

The 70-group Air Force was originally conceived by the President's Air Policy Commission to include four groups of heavy (B-36) bombers, 10 groups of medium bombers, 11 groups of light bombers, 25 fighter groups, 10 reconnaissance groups and 10 groups of troop carriers and transport aircraft. These figures do not include some 22 separate squadrons and 27 National Guard groups.

A Word About Eleanor

By DAVID BAXTER

I generally try to avoid retching in public but I couldn't quite stomach a writer's statement the other day that Eleanor Roosevelt is "rated by every poll the leading private citizen of this nation and the world, and now respected and admired by every American who ever felt the glow of patriotism or honor in his heart."

If that is true it is odd that our only really patriotic and honorable citizens did not show more respect for Mrs. Roosevelt's election choices. It seemed to me that, on the contrary, her endorsement of a candidate or measure was a political kiss of death. In many cases I try to avoid reflecting upon personalities unless they are so obvious and obnoxious that it is in the public interest to do so. Mrs. Roosevelt is not just a "private" citizen. She has been "representing" you and me in the United Nations and she has also been gadding about advising people how to vote. She'll probably be bouncing around in 1952, so we might as well mention some facts.

Eleanor has attacked both Catholic Cardinal Spellman and the late beloved Protestant leader, Dr. Walter A. Maier. The only so-called "Christians" she seems to find favor with are Socialistic leaders of the notorious Federal Council of Churches.

Recently she has posed as an anti-Communist but not one of acts indicate it. She helped bring into this country, by full co-operation with Communists, some of the most dangerous Red spies and propagandists we have thus far located. I need only mention the Eislers as examples. Hanns Eisler and his wife were deported. Gerhardt Eisler escaped from the United States after being convicted and heads the Red propagandist bureau in Communist-occupied Cermany.

She has fraternized with traitors. As one example I offer you Alger Hiss. Even after his conviction she acted as an apologist. Few people remember the degrading spectacle of young Communist leaguers at the White House some years ago, at Eleanor's invitation. She has even attempted to advise young girls on how to hold their liquor. At no time have I known her to be a high moral influence, discouraging dissipation. In a way, I think she symbolizes the dissolution into which this Republic has fallen. The lives and affairs of her own children might disqualify her as an authority on how other people should bring theirs up.

She fraternized with the notorious Marxist, Joe Lash, traveled with him. He slept in the White House. During the war, when Lash was stationed on a Pacific island, she called on him, having been hauled half way around the world by an army bomber when other people couldn't even get gas for their cars. Few Americans can forget that other friend of hers who also lived in the White House for quite a spell until he got married and flew the coop, the late, unlamented leftist, Harry Hopkins.

Remember when Congressman Martin Dies and the Congressional Committee on un-American activities began exposing some of the more obvious traitors, including people close to Mrs. Roosevelt? We remember, too, when Eleanor visited a Dies committee hearing and actually heckled and ridiculed these men who were trying to locate Russian agents and Red spies. The President's wife!

By entertaining Communists in the White House, Mrs. Roosevelt was actually providing them with more prestige and influence than high officials of the Communist party. It is almost superfluous to mention her part in helping get Mrs. Earl Browder (an alien Russian and wife of the American Communist party leader) into this country.

By exploiting her position as a wife and later a widow of a president, she has made millions of dollars ballyhooing coffee, mattresses, soap, etc. no other first lady has ever used her position for such mercenary purposes.

Mrs. Roosevelt's moral influence in helping involve the United States in World War II on the side of Russia—a war which we never should have entered—should not be forgotten by the American people.

These are but a few—a very few—of the things I could remind you of concerning the "lady" so "respected and admired by every American who ever felt the glow of patriotism or honor," the "leading private citizen of this nation."

But there, my stomach's acting up again. It seems there are some things I can't digest very well. Ladies and gentlemen, I give you the one and only Anna Eleanor Roosevelt. You can have her.

Kaiser Wilhelm II fancied the dachshund.

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — "Will you tell me," asks P. F. of Charlotte, N. C., "why the Republicans persist in attacking Cabinet members like Acheson, Brannan and Louis Johnson before them, when they know that the man responsible for their policies is President Truman himself? Why hit at the subordinates and agents instead of the principal?"

Answer: It is entirely a matter of strategy. Many Democrats agree with the GOP critics in their low opinion of these members of the White House family. In some instances Mr. Truman's supposed congressional friends openly assist the opposition, while in others they furnish support and information on the quiet.

FLANKING — But if the political enemy concentrated on the President and titular head of the party, many Democrats on Capitol Hill would stand aside, leaving the GOP to carry the fight on their own.

The same situation prevailed when progressive Republicans were hounding Herbert Hoover, and when conservative Democrats opposed Franklin D. Roosevelt. In both instances the opposition resorted to flanking fire on the theory that if they could discredit the President's advisers, they would hurt him.

In Mr. Truman's case, there is a unique angle. Lacking any broad or firm grasp of national or international problems, he is not "responsible" for his Cabinet members' decisions and actions, save in a nominal way.

He relies on them utterly and, therefore, they are the actual principals. Not since poor Warren Harding's day has a chief executive been so dependent on the men around him.

ISSUE — "Do you think that the McCarthy issue cut any real ice in the November election?" queries Mrs. M.S. of St. Joseph, Mo. "More important, is there any basis to his charges?"

Answer: I think that McCarthyism, rightly or wrongly, was the dominant influence in many contests.

The suspicion he aroused, together with administration efforts to discredit him and to protect his targets, was directly responsible for the defeat of Tydings of Maryland, Lucas of Illinois, Thomas of Utah and Mrs. Douglas of California. There were, of course, other reasons, but the underlying factor was alleged coddling of Communists at Washington.

DOUBT — His indictment would not have been so effective if it had not been for Mr. Truman's "red herring" comment on anti-Communist activities by House committees, the Alger Hiss conviction, Dean Acheson's inept remark about "not turning my back on a friend," and the collapse of our Far Eastern policy. With these incidents in mind, millions of voters gave the Wisconsin senator the benifit of the ballot-box doubt.

As to the substance of his charges, I do not believe that any high official deliberately harbored or aided Communists to subvert American purposes and policies.

But the evidence proves that fellow-travelers, perhaps more idiotic than criminal, were permitted to serve in important advisory capacities in State, Commerce, Agriculture, the Treasury, Interior etc. And a smart adviser, no matter how humble his actual office, can always affect decisions at the top.

Finally, facts are usually irrelevant when human emotions are stirred.

BOMB — "General Bradley," writes C.R. of Houston, Tex., "says we stripped ourselves of troops so completely for the Korean 'police action' (what an understatement!) that we had no defense except the atom bomb. Since Chinese Communists are waging open but undeclared war on us, why don't we use that bomb against their harbors, cities, factories, transportation system etc.? What are we waiting for? Another Pearl Harbor?"

Answer: The atom bomb gives us both defense and a dilemma. As the Joint Chiefs of Staff suggested in their decision not to drop it on the North Koreans, it may prove utterly useless in the areas where Russia will make proxy war on us—the countries of China, Asia, the Middle East, even western Europe and the Balkans.

BRAWL — Moscow has made great propaganda among these peoples out of the fact that we dropped the only A-bombs in history on an Oriental race, and that we did not use it over occupied France, Germany or Italy.

If — again — we destroy Orientals and Asiatics, or inhabitants of any of the countries listed above, we will be accused of reserving our worst military horror only for those we consider "inferior," as Stalin would put it.

On the other hand, should Russia ever invade the more industrialized, civilized and older nations of western Europe, England and the United States, she need have no compunction about making atomic warfare against us. Indeed, she would try to gain capital among her satellites and Asiatics from her willingness to subject us to such devastation.

In short, we are in the position of a sensible and trained figther who is afraid to use his strength in a brawl for fear he'll hurt somebody.

The Nation's Press

TAFT'S WINNING WAYS

(CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE)

A few days after the election the United Press took the trouble to poll Republican state chairmen on their choice of a candidate for the Presidency in 1952. Forty replied and, as might have been expected, Mr. Taft was the favorite of an overwhelming majority of them.

Other things being equal, the horse to back in a race is the one which has a record of winning. So far as Mr. Taft is concerned, other things are much more than equal, for he is, of all the candidates likely to be considered, by far the best endowed in mind and heart for the Presidency. Beyond this, of course, he has a proved record of success at the polls. He has never been defeated, even in the days of the New Deal's greatest strength.

The chairmen know that Dewey can be defeated because he went down twice. After his second defeat Mr. Dewey defended his "me-tooism" by challenging any candidate to win on any other basis. Many Republicans have accepted the challenge and proved Mr. Dewey wrong, but none of them proved it so conclusively as did Mr. Taft the other day. Mr. Taft won by 430,000 in the heavily industrialized state which Mr. Dewey had lost only two years ago, and Mr. Taft accomplished this result in the face of an enormous expenditure of time and money by the labor bosses who were determined to crush him.

As for Gen. Eisenhower, he has never run for any office and is wholly without political experience. Many claims have been made for him, but nobody knows or can know whether he would prove to be a vote getter. It is certain that as the war recedes farther into the background, his popularity is not growing, for it has nothing to feed on.

Eisenhower was Marshall's man and Roosevelt's man and Truman's man. He is hardly the man, therefore, to make an issue of the New Deal's terrible failures in foreign policy and certainly not the man to attack the New Deal for its refusal to take Berlin and Prague when the roads were open or to assure the free movement of men and supplies for our army of occupation in Berlin. If Adm. Dewey, a much more popular figure after the Spanish war than Eisenhower ever was, couldn't make the grade to the Presidency, there is little reason to expect more of Eisenhower.

Gov. Warren in California was defeated in his campaign for the Vice Presidency two years ago and has no following to speak of outside the far west. He might have helped himself to become a national figure if he had campaigned vigorously for Nixon in the senatorial race, and his failure to do so is regarded by many Republicans in and out of California as unforgivable. Duff is little known outside Pennsylvania and nobody except Stassen takes Stassen's ambitions seriously.

Mr. Taft stands far above them in experience, in character, in knowledge, and in proved ability to conduct a winning campaign.

KING'S COMMENTS

By Dr. WILLFORD I. KING*

Nationally Recognized Economist, Economics-Professor Emeritus, New York University

SOME REASONS WHY YOUR TAXES ARE HIGH

According to The New York Times of November 10, 1950, a former naval officer now engaged in farming in Texas recently related to Senator Lyndon B. Johnson's Armed Services Preparedness subcommittee his accidentally profitable experience in dealing with the Federal War Assets Administration. He first bought from this organization some of their "war surplus" blacksmith and carpentry tools, some building materials, and some tractors. These articles proving to be cheap and satisfactory, he next searched the Government catalogues for additional items of interest. Among other things offered were 168 "aircraft computers." He inferred that these were probably cardboard or celluloid slide rules. So, he put in a bid of $6.89 for the lot. When his offer was accepted, he ordered them forwarded to him by parcel post. But officials at the San Antonio depot then informed him that the "aircraft computers" were much too heavy to be thus shipped. He thereupon tried to cancel his bid, but was told that he had contracted to buy the computers, and could not be released from his obligation. Soon, he discovered to his amazement that he was the owner of 168 parallax computers used on airplanes for fire control!

Later, when he knew that many new planes were needed, he wrote to the procurement office of the Air Force in Washington and inquired if they would be interested in securing the computers. Shortly, officers from the Air Force Materiel Command of Dayton, Ohio, appeared, and were delighted to purchase the 168 computers for $63,000. And well they might be, for it now comes out that to have bought 168 new computers from the manufacturers would have cost the Government at least $1,200,000.

This incident throws light upon the question of why it has taken many months to put into Korea an army of some hundred thousand men. In 1945, only five years ago, our army consisted of more than eight million men on active duty, and it possessed the finest and most complete the world had ever seen—equipment costing many billions of dollars. Now, we seem to be put to it to get half a dozen divisions ready for actual combat. What has become of the huge stock of materiel on hand in 1945?

Some of it has, like the aircraft computers, been "sold for a song." Some has been allowed to rot or rust away in Europe, the Pacific islands, or the United States. Great quantities or costly supplies were dumped into the ocean at the close of World War II. Now, American taxpayers are being asked to put up many more billions of dollars to replace the blankets and clothing, the trucks and guns, and the intricate machines that were wantonly destroyed, or otherwise wasted or sacrificed. Clearly, this is one of the reasons why your taxes are high and are destined to go much higher.

The fate of this World War II military equipment illustrates perfectly the wastefulness which inheres in stateism. Whether the system is fascism, socialism, or communism, it is characterized by the fatal weakness that, when waste occurs, the official responsible therefor is not likely either to have it charged to his personal account or to be dismissed. By contrast, in private industry, the concern which does not take effecti measures to eliminate employes habitually guilty of wastefulness soon finds itself unable to compete with more thriftly rivals and goes out of business. In Government, however, waste on a huge scale often goes on year after year; and the cost falls not upon the bureaucrat responsible, but upon the taxpayers.

The case of the aircraft computers bought by the Texas farmer well illustrates this principal. It is likely that the official in charge of the sale of the 168 computers for $6.89 had not the faintest idea of their nature or value; to him they represented merely one line on a sheet of paper. What they cost or what they sold for did not affect his bank account; so his only interest was to get rid of them as rapidly as possible.

Similarly, the officers responsible for dumping millions of dollars' worth of trucks in the Pacific were not interested in the fact that these trucks were much needed in the Philippines and that idle shipping to take the trucks there was available. The officers wanted to clear their accounts and get home to their families, and the higher-ups were presumably glad to get rid of all stock on hand so that Congress would have no occasion to question the necessity of making a large appropriation for the next fiscal year.

So, Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer, you may as well reconcile yourself to the fact that Big Government and wanton waste go hand in hand. Congressional investigations and public protests may temporarily check the most outrageous instances, but the effect will usually be transitory.

It follows that the only road to continued efficiency and economy is to limit the activities of Government to the maintenance of order and protection against our enemies, while keeping the production and exchange of services and material goods entirely in the hands of private enterprise. Only thus is your tax bill ever likely to be kept within reasonable limits.

Bid For A Smile

Dr. Cutter—I advise you to take a trip around the world.

Mrs. Flatpate—That is impossible doctor. I get terribly dizzy whenever I travel in a circle.

Doctor —You husband must have rest and quiet. Here's a sleeping powder.

Wife—When shall I give it to him?

Doctor—Don't give it to him. Take it yourself.

The pharmacist was politely interested in the man who came in coughing. "A bad cold, eh, Mr. Parmasan? Can I offer you anything for it?"

Mr. Parmasan (equally affable) — You may have it for nothing if you so desire.

Housewife—Did you see that pile of wood when you came in?

Tramp—No, I didn't.

Housewife—Oh, come now, I saw you see it.

Tramp—Lady, maybe you saw me see it but you are going to see me saw it.

Change Slight In Retail Food

(By The Associated Press)

Retail food prices showed very little change this week.

Eggs turned lower after rising as much as 10 cents a dozen last week, and were marked down two to six cents. Some beef cuts were boosted a few cents a pound.

Even in produce departments, changes were mostly minor. Cabbage, potatoes and tomatoes were a little higher in most places. Brussels sprouts, carrots, cucumbers, iceberg lettuce, peppers and sweet potatoes a trifle lower.

A spokesman for the Federal-State Frost Warning Service in Florida — important scorce of the nation's citrus and winter vegetable supplies — said considerable damage was reported to tomatoes and some damage to pole beans and eggplant on the lower West Coast. But otherwise, high winds, dry air and smudge-pots kept freezing temperatures from doing widespread harm, he said. Damage to citrus "probably was very light, generally confined to tangerines."

Here are the foods headlined on the Agriculture Department's national list of plentifuls for December: hens, broilers, fryers, turkeys, pork, fresh and frozen fish, cheese, cabbage, carrots, onions, Irish potatoes and sweet potatoes.

Also, apples, cranberries, oranges, grapefruit, eggs, honey and peanut butter.

Beans were cultivated from Peru to Canada centuries before the arrival of the white man.

Boys Ranch Representatives Give Kiwanis Music Program

Six young men from Boy's Ranch, near Amarillo, presented a program of vocal and piano music at the Friday noon meeting of the Pampa Kewanis Club.

Headed by Chief Youngblood, the group came to Pampa on the invitation of Foster Whaley, chairman of the agriculture committee of the Kiwanis Club.

With Bill Angus as master of ceremonies, David Ahs, "The Little Red Head," gave his rendition of "Heap Big Smoke but No Fire" and "Shortenin' Bread." Pete Wells, the crooner, sang "Dust" and "Old Man River."

Bill Heller, who is supposed to know all the catfish in the lakes on the ranch, by their first names, sang "Bluebird," in the best Roy Rogers style.

Since the program would not have been completed without a hillbilly singer, Fred Chick gave out with "Chocolate Ice Cream Cone," sans musical accompaniment.

The pianist, D. K. Young, accompanied all singers, except Chick, and also played a couple of numbers on his own.

Chief Youngblood was introduced by Fred Neslage, president of Pampa Rotary Club, and guest of the Kiwanis Club.

The next important event on the club agenda will be the annual installation banquet which will be held next Thursday, Dec. 7, at 7:30 p.m., in the basement of the First Methodist Church.

MARYLAND SCORES

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — (AP) — Maryland capped its 1950 football season with a 63-7 victory over Virginia Tech Saturday in a Southern Conference game witnessed by 11,773. Bob Shemonski set an all-time school record by scoring 25 points in the first quarter.

Star System Gets Changed

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Last week brought new indications that Hollywood's star system is undergoing an overhaul.

Gene Tierney and Linda Darnell were disclosed as having negotiated contract deals to do one picture a year for 20th-Century Fox. The rest of their professional activity would be strictly on their own.

This was rather a surprise, because both Miss Tierney and Miss Darnell have long been fixtures on the 20th-Fox contract list—exclusively. But their new deals are part of a trend. More and more top names are being signed to one-a-year contracts when their options arrive.

The reason is that studios can no longer afford to keep big stables of high-priced stars the year around. The trend to non-exclusive deals could bring two interesting results:

1. More diversity in co-starring teams. Sticking to their own contract stars, studios have overworked teams like Betty Grable-Dan Dailey, Walter Pidgeon-Greer Garson. With more stars available, more intriguing pairings could be made. Such as: Red Skelton-Betty Hutton, Clark Gable-Betty Grable.

2. More stars will be available to television. Without exclusive contracts, studios can no longer keep their stars off TV.

Seems to me the movie industry hasn't come up with the showmanship to beat the TV threat. I offer this suggestion free of charge: how about a movie co-starring Faye Emerson and Arthur Godfrey? Might even call it "The Ukulele and the Neckline."

Ensilage Cutter Is Homemade Job

DES MOINES — (AP) — A self-propelled ensilage cutter has been in operation on the Charles Shields farm south of Wales. Shields' son, Dean, used a number of car, truck and tractor parts in converting a conventional tractor-drawn, two-row cutter.

Shields estimated the cost of his new machine at about $1,000. It moves through the field at about four miles an hour and cuts from 25 to 30 tons of ensilage an hour. Shields says it is more readily maneuvered than the tractor-drawn type and easier to operate.

The 30-year-old Dean, a World War II veteran, also designed his machine so that, with a simple changing of parts, it can be used for a hay chopper.

'Aid' Address Made Monday

Knife and Fork Club members will hear Don Bolt, news commentator, newspaperman and lecturer, at their meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the high school cafeteria.

Bolt has recently returned from has recently returned from a a second tour of the Marshall Plan countries.

J. B. Massa, president of the club, will give the opening address, followed by an invocation by Rev. E. Douglas Carver. Curtis Douglass will introduce the speaker.

Bolt will give a picture of the conditions which exist in those nations being helped by the Marshall Plan.

Movie Mogul Runs Novel Charm School

LONDON — (AP) — British movie mogul J. Arthur Rank has opened a charm school to turn his cinema managers into perfect gentlemen. Starting from the bottom-in the boiler room — 24 fledgling managers are learning the niceties of separating the customers from their shillings graciously in a suburban Rank movie house that has been turned into a combination school and dormitory.

It's a 24-week course. Besides learning how to stoke a boiler and keep a theater at a comfortable temperature, embryo managers will have a crack at: Cleaning door handles and polishing windows; vacuuming the carpets; peddling ice cream speedily during intermissions so that it gets to the customer before it starts to melt; handling an usherette's torch so that it doesn't flash in the eyes of the patrons.

The Valley of 10,000 Smokes in Alaska was formed when nearby Mt. Katmia erupted in 1912.

THEY had been seasick all night getting there. All but Buck Sergeant Edward Engstrom. The responsibility of commanding a squad had doubtless lifted his mind above the internal turmoil stirred up by the sea.

In the lee of the island there was a calm approach to the beach. By the pre-dawn's early light it did not look like a very good place to land. Geysers of sand spouted into the air every few seconds as if detonated up by noisy subterranean monsters. The enemy artillery was hidden in the steaming jungle it was shelling on the range.

"I don't" said Private Jake Snyder fastening his belt again—this is the fourth time. "I don't know for sure what's the matter with me but I guess I'm scared part of it."

"Who ain't?" conceded Sergeant Eddie. He wished he could put his hand under his chin to steady it. "Put your mind on somping else. Pretend like the beach there is the shore of Lake Michigan near Westwaygo where we used to go swimmin'."

"You can take Westwaygo and stuff it under your nerkties," snapped Pfc. Joseph Smith.

Smith, the only man in the squad who hadn't belonged to the national guard company when it had been mustered in from the Michigan town of Westwaygo, was a replacement from Syracuse. Pfc. Joseph Smith never answered to that name except at roll-call. He was known to his immediate comrades in arms as Joe College. He had attended Columbia University a couple of years before his draft board had snatched him away to study geopolitics by the laboratory method.

"Only thing I wish," said Sergeant Eddie. "I wish I had my good-luck coin in my pocket."

"Yeah?" Joe College again. "Why ain't you got it?"

"I left it in Westwaygo," Sergeant Eddie explained, "in the bus I used to drive."

THE barge grounded on a bar. The landing-ramp dropped forward into the shallow water and the small tank which was up in the bow bobbed out and wallowed ashore. The infantrymen either dropped over the sides of the barge or followed the tank on the ramp. There was no comfort in being near the armored vehicle though because it immediately became a lightning rod for artillery fire.

Other barges were spilling soldiers and armored equipment along the narrow strip of beach. The Navy, standing off shore, was lobbing shells over their heads. Doing a good job too, because the enemy guns began to quiet down. Before that happened the Japs got a hit on the tank but none of Engstrom's squad was killed. Jake Snyder got a rifle bullet through the meaty part of his thigh but it missed the arteries and bones. Mostly it made him mad. Certainly it cured him of his seasickness and fear.

Eddie sent Jake over to the medical detachment to have them look at his wound. Jake came back in a minute. The Doc had just sprinkled sulpha in it and marked him "Duty." He couldn't have men with minor injuries cluttering up the place when life and death cases were apt to come in any minute.

An hour or so after sunrise the landing party had reached its objective. Orders were to dig in and wait for reinforcements. The Navy was going to go after more troops and equipment to help hold the beachhead.

Sergeant Eddie's squad added to the natural protective advantage of a huge fallen tree trunk and made themselves a cozy little home-away-from-home as the tourist cabin ads used to say. A couple of American machine gun posts were on the left and half of a mortar battery on the right.

EDDIE ENGSTROM was a good non-commissioned officer, not too long on brains but a good man to carry out orders. He looked after his squad with just the right shade of paternal solicitude. They all liked him, even Joe College who grumbled about everything—his natural disposition bubbling to the top.

Eddie, 30, was the oldest man in the squad. He was also the biggest, the tallest man in the entire company for that matter, and he had hands like steam shovels.

Most of the boys had never been away from their fathers and mothers until the war came along. Their families were the substantial middle-strata citizens of Westwaygo. Jake Snyder's father was foreman at the bus line shops. Oscar Mahoney's dad ran the Westwaygo News. Lloyd Nelson was the son of the superintendent of schools. Jim Hilton's family worked for the city, Mr. Hilton as a policeman and his wife as secretary to the mayor. The mayor himself had a son in the outfit, Private Orman Berglund. Sergeant Eddie was the only one who didn't have parents living. The nearest thing to a relative that Eddie had was Mrs. Downing who ran the boarding house where he slept and had breakfast.

Many of the families attended the Swedish Lutheran Church of which Carl Peterson's father was the pastor. Carl, the only married man on the squad, was Eddie's best pal.

"Chin up, soldier," advised Eddie when he caught Carl glooming. "Why ain't you in there pitching about Kirsten like you usually do when there's a bull session?" Kirsten was Carl's wife.

"Lemme alone," growled Carl.

"Sure. I just thought it might do you good to talk to somebody about that little house you're goin' to buy when you get back."

"No." Then all at once Carl's pent-up misery burst the flood gates. "I got a letter from Kirsten just before we left yesterday. She's goin' to have a baby."

"Swell." Eddie pounded his pal on the back. "That's what you wanted—" Eddie stopped. The sudden thought which had struck him blurted out. "But we been away over a year now."

"Yeah. Kirsten didn't want to tell me about it but you can't keep a thing like that secret—even with censors. Somebody would have written to one of the other guys sooner or later."

"Who—?" Eddie began.

Carl shook his head. "I guess maybe I don't want to find out. I'll kill a Jap instead."

Eddie tried to think of something consoling. "Well it's all over now. You'll forget about it."

Carl looked at him incredulously. "Good Lord, Eddie, a wife is a part of a guy and when a thing like this happens—" He let the primitive black lightning shuttle through his soul for a moment. Then he crammed the spectre back into his lacerated breast. "Even if nobody ever fired a shot at us, this is sure a tough war for married guys."

EDDIE was glad for the diversion. It disturbed Eddie to have his best friend unhappy. It seemed like an unnecessary addition to the physical discomforts of warfare. Why did women have to complicate men's lives — or vice versa? He supposed that probably girls got themselves in a state over guys. He had never had a girl himself excepting temporarily sometimes Saturday nights. In Eddie's lexicon women were strictly expendable.

"I know where I'd like to be," said Jake Snyder, mopping his forehead with a leaf—his handkerchief was worn out—"I'd like to be sittin' on the dunes out at Lakeview Beach."

"Yeah?" from Joe College. "What's Lakeview Beach got that's different from here?"

Jake was practically inarticulate he was so anxious to tell him. "There's clean sand there and water without any salt in it. No bugs, neither. No malaria. No snakes. Lakeview Beach is heaven."

"That," said Joe, "I would have to see."

The constant, buzzing hum of the insects was being slowly augmented by a deeper, sustained reverberation.

"Take cover!" warned Eddie. "Planes coming."

Crump!

"Not ours," repeated Jake. "That was meant for our field hospital back there. Another coming. Duck!"

That second bomb none of them heard.

At Syracuse, N. Y., a traffic light that talks has a loudspeaker hid by a tape recorder to ward pedestrians to be careful.

The first successful demonstration of a motion picture, made in 1889 at West Orange, N. J., showed a man sneezing.

In television a "flag" isn't always a flag, but a large sheet of material used to screen off light from the camera.

UNCLE SAM STEALS BIG LEAD—The United States turned out more steel in the month of October than in any previous month in history, according to the American Iron and Steel Institute. Newschart above shows the October output was more than one-third of the estimated 1950 production of Russia alone and nearly half as much as Great Britain is expected to produce this year. Steel spokesmen say the U. S. will turn out 96,000,000 net tons in 1950.

DOG NOTES
By PETER BOGGS

DOGS NOW GUARD PALACE

Recent robberies at Buckingham Palace have brought about an interesting addition to the normal guards protecting the residence of England's King and Queen. Four cold-nosed North Americans are now on guard duty there.

During World War II Labrador retrievers were discovered to be outstanding in tracking down land mines, reputedly doing the job better than any other breed. At the close of the war six ex-army dogs of this breed were assigned to the London metropolitan police force. This past fall, after a series of both successful and unsuccessful attempts at robbing the King's home. Palace security officials decided that human guards were not enough. A call was sent out for four Labradors, and since their arrival at the Palace there hasn't been a single robbery attempt.

BRANDING DOGS

All this talk about the government supplying each of us with a "dog tag" of material which detects radioactivity to be worn at all times in case of atomic attacks on this country is all very interesting. It reminds me of the method once employed by dog owners as a foolproof method of identifying their pets.

Years ago in England and other foreign countries, dog owners made a practice of branding their initials on their dogs as a means of identification and as a protection against theft. (What they did when a branded dog was sold I never learned. This branding was done chiefly by owners of large packs of hounds or other hunting dogs, but often the owner of a single dog had his pet branded. Usually, only one inital was used. This was about six or seven inches in height and could be distinguished at a great distance.

"TOUGHENING UP" PUPS

I have often heard people say that if you want good healthy dogs you should "toughen them up" when they are pups. Exposing a young pup to serve cold and hardship may, in a sense, harden such as live through the ordeal, but it doesn't strengthen their constitution or improve their physique. On the contrary, such treatment weakens them, stunts their growth (with the exception of their coat). and may be responsible for many physical defects.

Notice sometime a group of puppies that are cold. You will note they remain huddled together instead of playing about on their feet as they should do. Don't over-pamper your pup but expose him to the elements in moderation.

WHEN DOG RETURNS FROM TRAINER

Dog owners who send their dogs to professional trainers sometimes can't understand why it is that when the dog returns home he doesn't respond and exhibit the knowledge he is supposed to have acquired at the trainer's. The cause of this lack or display of knowledge is often really his owner's fault.

When your dog returns from a trainer, make it a point to get a list of the commands used by the trainer. The dog has been taught to respond to certain words and inflections of voice. Ask the trainer to, illustrate the method he has been employing in giving commands. Continue using the commands the dog has learned and you will then find you will benefit to the fullest extent from the investment you made in sending your dog to be trained. Many a trainer is unjustly criticized when it really is the owner's fault for not using the right commands.

FOOD IS MEDICINE

Not only will the proper food keep your dog in the best of health, but food can be used to cure certain dog ailments. It has been found that tomato juice will cure certain cases of paralysis of the hind quarters. A dog suffering form a film over the eyes can be helped by the liberal addition of cod liver oil in his diet. A small amount of fat in a dog's diet will help obviate and clear up a dry and scaly skin.

THE QUESTION BOX

Question: Am expecting litter of pups from my female Beagle. How long before pups are due should I stop hunting her?—K.N.

Answer: Stop hunting your Beagle at least three or four weeks before she is due to whelp. See that she is kept unusually quiet during the three-week period before she is due to have puppies.

Question: Do you advise having a dog inoculated against rabies? — T. O. V.

Answer: This treatment is not perfected as yet. It does help and I advise having it done. However, distemper inoculations are more important.

WORM 942 U. S. TREASURY DEPARTMENT, INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE

FORM FOR HOUSEWIVES' PAYMENT OF SERVANTS' SOCIAL SECURITY—The Bureau of Internal Revenue and the Social Security Administration have revealed the new combination envelope and report form by which housewives will be expected to report their servants' earnings every three months and to make payment of payroll deductions for social security. The flap of the envelope, at top, constitutes the report form. One line must be filled out for every maid, chauffeur, gardener, or other household employe earning more than $50 and working more than 24 days in every three months. Housewives are expected to deduct 1½ percent of each servant's wage, and make a similar 1½ percent payment themselves, as the employer. Housewives who prefer may pay the whole 3 percent tax themselves without making deduction from employes' wages. The new social security law provisions covering domestic workers takes effect on Jan. 1, 1951. First payment is due to be mailed to nearest Collector of Internal Revenue within 30 days after the close of the first quarter-year which ends March 31. Thereafter the form must be sent in every three months.

TEXAS GRAIN IN A JAM—An estimated 250,000 bushels of corn is piled on the ground before an elevator at Hart, Tex. The elevator holds about 225,000 bushels. Bumper production plus a shipping and storage jam have caused some 1,700,000 bushels of grain to be stored out in the open in this area near Amarillo.

GERMAN FLOUR (PAID FOR BY UNCLE SAM) TO YUGOSLAVIA—At Mannheim, Germany, workmen load the first shipment of German flour to drought-stricken Yugoslavia. Each sack of flour—destined to save Yugoslavs from starvation during this winter—bears the inscription, "This flour was shipped by the German Federal Republic and paid for by the U. S. government." Secretary of State Dean Acheson has stressed the "absolute need" of American food relief to Yugoslavia if the country is to be kept free of Soviet control. DEC 3 50

AFTER—Here is another shot which shows the crowds of people which thronged the streets after the last band had gone down the street in Friday's Santa Day Parade. The stores, which stayed open until 9 p. m. and after, were visited by this horde of potential shoppers. Many merchants reported doing half a day's work between 8 and 9 p. m. Some estimated 35,000 persons from Pampa and the surrounding territory. (News Photo and Engraving)

Thanks for Help in Parade Is Issued

At the request of Ken Meaders, chairman of the merchants activity committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and John Kinard, general chairman, of Christmas activities, a letter of thanks was issued today to all those who had a part in the Santa Day Parade, Friday.

The letter expressed appreciation to all the residents of Pampa, merchants, organizations, schools, police and fire departments, The Pampa Daily News, Radio Station KPDN, Boy and Girl Scouts, veterans organizations, National Guard, Texas Highway Patrol, city and county officials, churches, out-of-town bands, officials and residents, organiza-Gray Trucking Co. and individuals who helped in making the parade one of the most colorful events ever witnessed in Pampa.

The letter said, in part: "It is this type of cooperation that allows Pampa to live up to its slogan, 'The Friendly City,' in a big way."

Pampa Theatres Has Unique Christmas Gift

An unusual Christmas gift is offered by the Pampa Theatres. It is called the "Theatre Gift Book." It is not a novel, nor a biography—in fact it is of diminutive size and very unimportant looking.

But when one opens it, it is soon apparent that in reality, it is a "Book of Happiness." A beautiful holiday design and it fairly breathes the Christmas Spirit. Within are uages of coupons of varying denominations which may be exchanged for theatre tickets.

The Christmas Coupon Books, or "Theatre Gift Books," come in two convenient sizes and are very suitable for Christmas Gifts for children and grown-ups alike. Few gifts are more appreciated than these Coupon Books. They allow the recipient to spread the gift over many enjoyable weeks and bring the thoughtful donor to mind each time the coupons are exchanged at the treatres—for entertainment.

Offered as a gift service to patrons who have that perennial problem of "what to give," the books will be issued to purchasers with the understanding that the books are redeemable only by the Pampa Theatres. The books are transferable and the coupons may be exchanged at the box offices at any time for any attraction until used.—adv.

Midgets Have Good Positions

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — How would you like a job playing with Christmas toys all day?

The pay is good and the working conditions excellent. The only requirement: you have to be under four feet tall.

No use applying this year because three movie midgets already have signed up. They are Jerry Maren, 30, Billy Curtis, 33, and Tony Boris, 32. Their job consists of playing with toys six to eight hours a day in the street window of the J. W. Robinson department store.

Having stood in the crowd to watch them perform, I stepped inside to see how they like the work. Perhaps the job that any child would envy might pall the adult. But I heard them singing merrily as they tinkered with the toys. Maren, leader of the group, came out of the window and I asked if they really enjoy the work.

"You bet," he replied. "We're having a barrel of fun. There are three of us on the job, but usually only two in the window at one time. We can come back here and rest for 15 minutes whenever we want."

The three men, attired in elves' costumes, spend the day working the mechanical toys, putting on comedy routines, and making faces to amuse the children. As for the pay, Maren declared, "It's not as much as we get in the movies, but it's very good. I stipulated that when movie jobs come up, we can have other guys substitute for us here."

The manatee, or sea cow, is essentially a vegetarian.

The first cork tiles for flooring were introduced in the United States in 1904, according to engineers of David E. Kennedy, Inc.

The Smithsonian Institution says there is some evidence that plants which make up the great coal deposits grew along the shores of ancient oceans.
