Soviets Sound Grim Warning In Berlin

Soviet Official Says Force Is Only Answer To Dispute Over Germany

By OMER ANDERSON
INS Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Sept. 11—The Soviet propaganda chief in Berlin declared threateningly today that "force is the only answer"-to the United States and Britain in the struggle over Germany.

Significantly Col. Serge Tulpanov praised the battle-toughened Red army.

A short time later the Russians announced they will try four Germans before a military court Monday as a result of anti-Communist attacks Thursday on "Soviet citizens."

Germans To Be Tried

In the Thursday disorders German anti-Communists stoned Russian troops and Soviet sector police and were fired on by the Russians and the police. One German was killed and 30 to 50 others reported wounded.

The Russians said 23 others are held for trial, and that they also will try Dr. Curt Mueckenberger, Berlin city coal chief arrested by the Russians because he refused to "vacate his office."

Tulpanov, the propaganda chief, spoke at the opening of a two-day Soviet-sponsored "congress of the victims of Fascism" in Berlin. He said:

"With United States K.. Klux Klan methods the Red Flag was torn from Brandenburg gate.

Boasts Of Red Army

"All this is preparation for a new war.

"The power of the Soviet Union will smash all who intend to build a fourth reich on the principles of the third (Nazi) reich.

"No army has as much experience in battle as the Red army or has so many allies in the whole world.

I know I am not speaking diplomatically, but events of the last few days have shown that force is the only answer."

The reappearance of Tulpanov, who long has been out of the Berlin picture, quieted speculation that had been shunted aside because of previous "undiplomatic talk."

Trains To Bring In Reds

The Soviet press meanwhile made little effort to disguise Soviet concern over Thursday's gigantic anti-Communits rally which culminated in Russian firing on part of the nearly 300,000 demonstrators.

The Russians now are plugging a big Communist counter-demon-

Plumbing Group Ends Meet Here

The Associated Master Plumbers of Texas, in a one-day between-conventions executive council meeting here yesterday, voted to change the name of the association, launched a long-range public relations program, approved a highly stimulated apprentice training schedule throughout the state, and discussed measures of relief from what was described as critical shortages of fabricated plumbing materials and supplies.

The group of about 200 or more, representing the contracting and retailing phases of the industry throughout the state, gave unanimous approval in change in name of the association to Association of Plumbing Contractors of Texas (APC).

License Law Revision Urged

The name change was a proposal on which Frank Butcher, of San Antonio, state president, had concentrated, in order, he said, to more clearly set out the difference in the public mind between a contracting and employing

Grave Talks Are Underway

BY EDWARD BOMAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 — Top American and British leaders met today in an unusual series of conferences which may lead to a decisive new turn in the crisis with Soviet Russia over Berlin.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) was among a group consulted by Secretar. Marshall at the State department on the next move by the western powers in the deadlock over the Soviet blockade. Vandenberg is a leading Republican figure in all major matters of foreign policy.

Amid indications that the long effort to reach a firm agreement with Moscow on lifting the Berlin siege faces a breakdown, Marshall and his advisers met also with Sir Oliver Franks, the British ambassador.

May Take Issue To UN

Meanwhile in Moscow the American, British and French envoys were standing by, dispatches said, apparently for final instructions before making the fateful next move—possibly a demand for a showdown session with Prime Minister Stalin. (London sources said that the three diplomats had been instructed to seek an immediate meeting with Stalin.)

If direct negotiations with the Kremlin collapse, the west is prepared to turn over the whole dispute of the issue to the United Nations. Marshall is making ready to leave eight days hence for the opening September 21 of the UN General Assembly in Paris.

The United States also is believed ready at the appropriate time to issue an appeal to world public opinion, in the form of an official white paper (government report) detailing the efforts in progress since July 30 to settle the Labor Outlook For Nation Remains Dark

(By The Associated Press)

THE battle-scarred dove of-labor-management peace got more slaps and pats Saturday.

The bright side: A union drive for individual settlements gained new ground in the New York truck drivers strike and the independent Aeronautical Mechanics union made preparations to return to work Monday at the Boeing airplane company's Seattle plant after a 140-day strike.

The dark side: New obstacles arose to settlement of the West Coast CIO Longshoremen's strike and movement of piled-up Army Cargoes. Threat of a new nationwide telephone workers demonstration appeared.

Jurisdictional Fight Seen

Making new inroads on the one-solid employers front, the AFL teamsters union announced that 285 New York operators, employing 2,278 of the union's 9,400 struck members, had signed up on the union's new scaled-down terms of a 17½-cent hourly wage boost. A committee representing all employers refused to go beyond 15 cents. The strike started 12 days ago, with the union demanding 25 cents plus an employer-financed welfare plan.

Possibility of a jurisdictional battle with the AFL teamsters union and a company ban on rehiring "a small number of subversives" complicated the Boeing plant strike setlement. Some 14,-800 workers struck April 22, but the company claimed more than 8,000 workers were on the job when the union voted to end its walkout.

Telephone Walkout Hinted

Possibility of a new telephone workers demonstration — like the four-hour strike of October 1945—was announced by several rival telephone unions preparing to open wage talks with the Bell Telephone system. The unions, claiming to represent 375,000 workers, called for another joint meeting Sept. 24 — eight days after negotiations are scheduled to start. A spokesman in Washington said the demonstration may be called to enforce pay demands for a wage boost "at least equal to the national pattern."

The West coast shipowners refused to deal with Harry Bridges' striking CIO longshoremen in Building Permits Pass $10 Million

Lubbock building permits for 1948 shot well above the $10,000,-000-mark Saturday with formal authorization of construction of the new $400,000 terminal and administration building at Municipal Airport.

Permit total for the year was increased to $10,246,500, or $2,-

546,641 more than during the same period last year.

The 1948 figure is within $884,-366 of the $11,130,866 for the whole of 1947, which now stands as the all-time record for any year in Lubbock history.

New Record Seen

It is a virtual certainty this record will be broken during October, with a strong possibility it may be surpassed this month. Estimates of the final total for 1948 range from $13,000,000 to $15,000,-000.

The airport terminal permit was written by City Building Inspector Lloyd Ross as ground breaking ceremonies were conducted for the new structure. The ceremonies were simple because an elaborate celebration is planned when it is completed within the next 15 to 18 months. W. G. McMillan is general contractor for the structure.

ECHO ELAINE McGUIRE
Would You Cut Golden Locks Like These?

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

Long Tresses Pose A Problem

WHAT would you do if you were a little girl and your hair hung in golden tresses 28 inches long and you had to choose between letting it grow or cutting it into a stylish bob? That was the quandry faced Saturday by Echo Elaine McGuire, above, 11½-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. McGuire, 2807 Twentieth.

A sixth grade student at Wilson school, Echo Elaine has worn her hair in pigtails, but with school starting and all the other girls wearing bobbed hair, what must she do? She decided she wanted it cut, so her mother took her to the photographer the other day for a picture before the whacking-off operation. But Echo Elaine exercised a woman's prerogative by changing her mind and decided as the time drew nearer that she would rather have long hair. But then the question of women's styles will be a constant bugaboo to her. What would you do? Maybe we can help Echo Elaine find some solution to her problem. Give us your opinion by postal card and we'll pass them on. (Photo by Chris Davis, Reeves).

FDR, Truman Warned Of Soviet Spies

Red Efforts To Get Atom Secrets Bared

BY ROSE McKEE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—Congresional spy probers declared today that Russian attempts to steal the atom bomb secret were successful "in some degree." They stated that Presidents Roosevelt and Truman were warned of the Soviet espionage efforts.

Information of the warning to the Chief Executives and of the success of the efforts was said to have been given the House un-American Activities committee by Lt. Gen Leslie R. Groves, wartime chief of the atom bomb project.

Truman Contradicted

Groves testified before the committee behind closed doors Friday.

Rep. Vail (R-Ill.), a member of the committee, indicated the atomic officer gave the information to the group at that time.

Vail's statement was issued as a "direct contradiction" of Mr. Truman's recent claim that Germans and Japanese—not Communists—were the spies in the U. S. during the war.

Groves was not named but Vail's statement made it clear that he was referring to him. He said:

"According to the testimony of the officer, he was certain that in some degree Russian efforts to penetrate atomic research safeguards were successful. To what degree he could not venture an opinion."

The statement was made as

First Fair Booster Trip Is Set Tuesday

Sixty-four reservations have been made for the first of four good neighbor trips Tuesday to boost the Panhandle-South Plains fair to be held in Lubbock Sept. 27-Oct. 2, according to reports Saturday to George Bond, assistant manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

Reports still were incomplete and the list probably will be increased before the chartered buses leave from the City Hall on their all-day journey at 7 a. m. Tuesday, Bond said. At least two buses will be required, he added.

Bond said additional reservations will be accepted until 5 p. m. Monday at the Chamber of Commerce, Telephone 4666. Accommodations will be provided as long as available, he added. Bond also asked ticket solicitors who have not reported to do so not later than noon Monday.

Tuesday's itinerary will be: Slaton, Southland, Post, Tahoka, O'Donnell, Lamesa for lunch, Seminole, Seagraves, Brownfield, Meadow and Ropesville.

Other trips are scheduled on Sept. 16, 21 and 23.

U. S. Army Vessel Removing Philippines Volcano Victims

MANILA, Sept. 11 (AP)—One U. S. Army transport was removing 8,000 refugees from the volcano-ravished island of Camiguin tonight and another was enroute to help resuce additional thousands.

Mt. Hibokhibok, which has been erupting since Sept. 1, continued to fume, but Philippines government experts said its noxious gases no longer were deadly.

A landslide had filled one of the volcano's craters, reducing the eruption but increasing potential danger.

States' Rights Group Scored At Fort Worth

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

FORT WORTH, Sept. 11—States' Rights sympathizers were accused here today of holding secret precinct meetings and of using "Communistic tactics", in their attempts to gain control of the Democratic party in Texas.

These charges were made as the credentials subcommittee of the State Democratic executive committee began hearings to determine which of a dozen rival delegations would be seated at Tuesday's state convention.

Group To Canvass Votes

It was the opening round in the battle between the pro-Truman or loyalist faction of the party and the States' Rights group that has elected to stay within the party as long as possible to urge Governor J. Strom Thurmond as the Democratic presidential nominee in Texas.

The convention also must formally declare either Coke Stevenson or Lyndon Johnson to be the party's U. S. Senatorial nominee. A subcommittee will canvass the runoff primary votes in the close contest Monday, and report to the entire executive committee. Then the executive committee must certify the winner in a report to be presented the convention Tuesday.

While the credentials committee considered contests from Harris, Harrison, Tarrant and Dallas counties today, a steering committee of the loyalist faction, headed by Byron Skelton of Temple, met in executive session to plan strategy. This is the group following Governor Beauford Jester and executive committee chairman Robert W. Calvert.

Meetings Claimed Secret

K. S. McNamee of Marshall, leader of a contesting delegation from Harrison county, told the credentials committee that States' Righters held secret precinct conventions there in order to control the Harrison county convention. I. C. Underwood, Marshall attorney representing the delegation certified by county party officials, said "there was absolutely no secrecy", about any precinct con-

Large Haul Of Beer Made Here

What was believed to have been the largest haul of contraband beer ever made in Lubbock county — 345 cases — was announced early Saturday.

Sheriff's deputies and members of the Texas Liquor Control board office here found the cache in a warehouse at Twenty-third and Ave. G, they said.

J. S. Lofant was fined $300 and costs of $24.90 in connection with the case, a judgment of County Judge Walter Davies showed. A plea of guilty was entered for the defendant by an attorney.

Officials said they never heard of J. S. Lofant before, had never seen him. Another source said, however, that Lofant was a resident of Odessa.

Officials said Lewis Thomas, jr., 28, a Slaton negro, had been fined $100 and costs on a plea of guilty of liquor law violation.

Before joining the police department, Patrolman Virgil Stephens, had roped coyotes and badgers when he ran across them as a cowpoke on a King county ranch

But never until Saturday had he roped a monkey—or had so much trouble keeping his loop on what he'd snared with it.

What happened was this:

The police got a call from 1611 Twenty-seventh. A monkey was in a tree there.

Officer Obtains Rope

Stephens and Patrolman Doyle Clark went there in their radio patrol car and attempted to get the monkey down.

Jo-Jo the ring-tail leaped from the tree and high-tailed it for the nearest garage. Into the rafters he went. He smirked down at the officers and wasn't about to be caught.

Stephens bethought himself of old times, so found a light rope. His first loop settled nicely over the ring-tail's neck but, quick as

Charges Of Fraud In Vote To Be Studied

Johnson Gets Order To Ban New Set Of Returns; Canvass Is Set Monday

By BO BYERS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Sept. 11—Lyndon Johnson and Coke Stevenson, opponents in one of the most bitter and closely contested statewide elections in Texas history, today headed for a possible showdown Monday on whether there was fraud in the Aug. 28 runoff for the U. S. Senate.

Saturday's rapid-fire developments in the contest were these:

1. Johnson secured a temporary restraining order in 126th district court to prevent a new set of election returns being certified from Jim Wells county to the state Democratic executive committee.

Hearing Set Monday

2. Judge Roy C. Archer, who issued the order, scheduled hearing at 10 a. m. Monday on Johnson's request for a temporary injunction in the district court at Alice in Jim Wells county.

3. Stevenson termed Johnson's action an "unusual proceeding" designed to keep the truth from coming out in Jim Wells county.

He welcomed the chance to tangle with Johnson in court, saying.

"We will be prepared to prove and will offer the necessary testimony in open court that fraudulent practices were committed in voting precinct 13 (Alice) in the runoff primary."

Coke To Present "Facts"

4. Johnson accused Stevenson of attempting "to impeach the returns certified by executive committees." Further, he charged that illegal ballots were used in Harris, Brazoria and Harrison counties.

5. Stevenson issued a later statement saying he and his friends have been diligently trying to determine where "additional votes" for Johnson came from in "bloc counties" several days after the election. Stevenson said "these facts will be presented to the executive committee when it meets in Fort Worth Monday."

Meanwhile, a sub-committee of the State Democratic commitee will meet in Fort Worth Monday to make an official canvass of the Aug. 28 vote and certify the winner of the runoff. What effect the court hearing and threatened other legal action would have on the Fort Worth meeting was not immediately known.

Headquarters of both candidates said the two men personally plan to be in Fort Worth—not Alice—Monday.

6. Attorney General Price Daniel said he and his assistants, aft-

Legislative Probe Hinted

(By The Associated Press)

ALICE, Sept. 11 — A member of the Jim Wells county Democratic committee said tonight if an injunction is granted against the committee several of its members may ask a legislative investigation of the U. S. Senate runoff election.

Lyndon Johnson, one of the candidates, obtained a restraining order today in 126th district court at Austin to prevent a new set of election returns being certified from Jim Wells county to the state Democratic executipe committee.

He sued for a temporary injunction, naming among defendants Coke Stevenson, his opponent, and members of the Jim Wells county committee. A hearing has been set here for 10 a.m. Monday on the suit.

Owes No Favors

E. M. Brownlee, chairman of precinct one, and a member of the Jim Wells county executive group said today, "of course we will abide by the order."

"However, if an injunction is granted, several of us will go to the state legislature's investigating committee and ask that some investigations be made," Brownlee said in a statement.

"I am not affiliated with any political clique nor do I owe any political favors. I am interested only in a fair election. I believe we are entitled to that.

Has Right To Find Errors

"The law would seem to be clear that the committee not only has the right but is duty bound to find any errors in tabulations or to report any discovered fraud.

"I am not at liberty to name the other members of the committee who feel as I do, but I can assure you it is a majority.

"We will take no action, of course, until after the Monday hearing here."

H. R. Poole, secretary of the committee, also said he would be inclined to carry the matter further if there is a legal way to do it.

District Judge L. Broeter, before whom the hearing will be held Monday, said he would postpone a case in Starr county in order

Plains Cotton Crop Outlook Again Drops

Another 150,000-bale drop in South Plains cotton prospects, due chiefly to hot and dry weather, was estimated by K. N. Clapp, area manager for Anderson, Clayton & Co., Houston cotton firm.

His new forecast of a 650,000-bale crop compared with approximately 800,000 on Aug. 26 and 1,-100,000 on Aug. 1.

While rain fell Tuesday and Wednesday, he said, most of it was in areas where irrigated acreage is largest, including Lubbock, Hale, Lamb, Floyd and Bailey. Those which needed moisture most got little, he observed.

Much irrigated cotton also has suffered, he said, chiefly due to heat.

The cooler weather of the last few days, he reported, has been beneficial. A good rain, he added, would improve crop prospects by causing bolls to mature more fully.

HST Maps Plans For Campaign In Strategy Talks With Aides

By ROBERT G. NIXON
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 — President Truman today mapped a "master plan" of campaign strategy in his bid for election.

The chief executive was secluded with top advisers and strategy planners aboard the presidential yacht Williamsburg on a weekend Potomac river cruise.

Note was made of the "coincidence" which will see Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican candidate, stumping in Iowa two days after the President speaks at Dexter, Iowa, next Saturday.

No Changes Seen

This was seen as the aparent determination by Dewey to follow up and deliver rebuttal arguments to Mr. Truman on his campaign tour all the way to the West coast.

No present changes are expected, however, in the President's plans for his first major campaign swing, and White House attaches appeared unperturbed.

Whether the President and his advisers will now make changes in the timing of at least three other major campaign swings around the country remains to be decided in this weekend's conferences.

Also To Visit In South

The President is going to "thump the political tub" in whistlestop campaigning throughout the middle West, Pennsylvania, New York State and lower New England. Likewise he will dip into the South on future campaign swings following the two-week western trip that will see him back in Washington October 2.

These trips are expected to keep Mr. Truman moving constantly until he winds up his campaign with a major speech in Madison square garden the latter part of October, followed by an election eve speech in Kansas City.

Thus far, careful attempts have been made to keep the itinerary and dates of future trips a close secret.

Neither the President nor the Democratic committee wants to "tip the opposition" ahead of time.

Even on the forthcoming coast-to-coast tour, the White House has refrained from announcing presidential plans beyond his appearance in Los Angeles September 23.

However, campaigning in Arizona, New Mexico, where former Agriculture Secretary Clinton P. Anderson is running for the Senate, in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas is indicated on the return trip to Washington.

Later in the afternoon he was joined by key members of his staff.

Clothing Market Dates Are Set

Saturday through Monday, Oct. 16-18, have been set definitely as dates for the revived Western Wholesale Clothing market which was suspended in 1943 because of war conditions, according to announcement Saturday by Newton S. Walton, market association president.

The dates are one week later than the tentative setting announced last month, Walton said. The change was made because hotel accommodations will be better during the later dates, he explained.

Most of the market exhibits will be on display at the Lubbock Hotel, where two floors and the mezzanine have been reserved. Others will be at the Hilton hotel.

Newton said invitations to attend are being mailed to 2,500 retailers within a 300 mile radius of Lubbock. More requests for exhibit space already have been received than can be filled, he added.

The market, staged under the sponsorship of the chamber of commerce, was created so as to provide a convenient meeting place in Lubbock for retailers of West Texas and New Mexico with wholesalers and manufacturers from style centers throughout the nation.

Air Force Sets Record In Filming Coast-To-Coast Line

DAYTON, Ohio, Sept. 11. (AP)—The Air Force said today it set an aerial photographic record by filming a strip of the United States from coast to coast in a single flight.

Photographers of the air materiel command at nearby Wright field shot 325 feet of film—390 individual photographs — in the Sept. 1 flight from Santa Barbara, Calif., to Mitchell Air Force base, N. Y.

The Air Force photographers flew the 2,700 miles at 40,000 feet, with a tri-metrogon K-17 camera installation firing approximately each 50 seconds. Such a camera, consisting of three six-inch cameras positioned so they record the earth from horizon to horizon, pictures about 130 square miles with each photograph.

Agreement Reached On Division Of Aid Plan Funds For Europe

By LARRY HALL
INS Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Sept. 11. — The West European nations ended their long dispute over splitting up nearly five billion dollars of the Marshall Plan "pie" tonight by agreeing on a distribution scheme.

W. Averell Harriman, roving ambassador for the rehabilitation scheme, termed the agreement a "momentous achievement of European cooperation."

But even so Greece and Turkey were disgruntled and said they "reserved the right" to seek larger allotments.

Britain Gets Biggest Total

A compromise also was reached on the clashing demands of "Bizonia" Germany, as put forth by U. S. military governor Gen. Lucius D. Clay, and opposed by the European nations.

Britain, France, and Italy will get the largest share of the four billion, 875 million dollars of American aid from July 1, 1948 to June 30, 1949.

The allotments in millions of dollars:

Britain, 1,263 millions; France, 989; Italy, 601; Netherlands, 496, including 84 million for the Netherlands East Indies.

The Anglo-American zones of Germany, ("Bizonia"), 414; French zone of Germany, 100; Belgium and Luxembourg, 250; Austria, 217; Greece, 146; Denmark, 110; Norway, 84; Eire, 79; Turkey, 50; Sweden, 47; Trieste Free Territory, 18; Iceland, 11.

The month-old quarrel over dividing up the aid had stalled machinery for applying the European Recovery program.

Gen. Clay's insistence on more dollars for Germany than the organization for European cooperation wanted to give him had caused bad feeling among the European officials.

The restoration of German industry is an integral part of the general Western European rehabilitation program, yet the French fear it. French Communists particularly propagandized this fear during the negotiations.

Gen. Clay originally asked for $450 million for the Anglo-American zones, then reduced it to $420 million. The Marshall Plan nations cut this in their estimates to $364 million before tonight's agreement on $41¼ million.

Sergeant Son Of Lubbock Woman Extends Enlistment In Army

Sgt. Buran Matthews, son of Mrs. Lora Matthews of 2116 Fifth, has recently extended his original enlistment in the United States Army to four years. He is serving at the Fontainebleau, France, depot of the American Graves Registration command.

The Fontainebleau depot of the registration command is responsible for servicing and maintaining the automotive equipment required in the former European theater area for the U. S. Army's searching and cemeterial operations, and its present program to return to the United States war dead of World War II whose next-of-kin so request.

Area covered includes 1,255,000 square miles and extends from Ireland to Russia and from the Mediterranean to the Arctic ocean. Thirty-seven temporary U. S. World War II military cemeteries in which were interred 145,880 American dead were formerly established in the area.

While carrying out the Army's program of returning World War II dead, the American Graves Registration command is continuing the search in the area for the remains of those war dead buried in isolated graves, 5,092 of which were still undiscovered as of July 30.

During 1947, personnel of the command travelled almost 11 million miles through 17 European countries on searching and return operations, and the maintenance of the temporary U. S. military cemeteries.

U. S. AIR POWER STRENGTHENED

More Than 400 Additional B-29s To Be Turned Over To Air Force

By WILLIAM KERWIN
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—Air Secretary Symington disclosed today that more than 400 inactive B-29 Superfortress bombers are being readied for worldwide duty with the Air Force.

Symington declared the Giant levelers of Japan are being drawn from the Air Force's "mothball fleet." He added they are being processed "through modification centers to increase range and payload" before being assigned to bomb groups.

To Expand Forces

The Air Secretary made the disclosure in an article in the Army and Navy Journal in which he gave a progress report of the 70-group Air Force expension program ordered by Congress.

Symington revealed that from next November to June, 1949, "we will begin equipping at least one additional group each month."

These, he said, will include two heavy bomb groups (presumably made up of B-36 bombers), four medium bomb groups and three strategic reconnaissance groups.

The Air Force chief added that by July the air arm expects to receive approximately 1,400 new airplanes.

These will include Lockheed F-80, Republic F-84, and North American F-86 jet fighters; North American F-82 twin Mustangs as all-weather fighters; Consolidated B-36 heavy bombers and Boeing B-50 improved Superfortress bombers, plus training, liaison and cargo aircraft.

New Jet Planes Planned

In addition, the Air Secretary said the Air Force has placed orders in the last few months for 2,201 airplanes with delivery running up to 1951.

He said that as soon as they become available newer jet fighters will replace the propeller driven F-47 and F-51 craft.

The Douglas B-26 light bomber will be replaced by the jet-powered North American B-45. The Northrop highly revolutionary B-49 flying wing jet bomber also will be placed in service.

Symington said that within the next 10 months a half dozen air bases will be reactivated while operations at "several others" will be expanded.

Four bases have already been ordered reopened to accommodate increased Air Force activity. Three of thes reopenings were announced this wek. The four bases will have a capacity of approximately 50,000 officers and men.

Symington, however, warned that the 70 groups called for by Congress and complementing Air Force reserves can "be considered adequate only for initial operations." He asserted:

"Their efforts will be wasted unless our air-force-in being combines our nation's scientific, educational, industrial and governmental resources in an intelligent interpretation of the needs of air power and the means by which it is best employed."

If Stomach Gas or Sour Food Taste Robs You of Sleep

Here's How You May Help, Whether You Eat 500 Pounds or 2000 Pounds of Food In a Year

You can't feel cheerful, be happy and sleep well, if your stomach is always upset. As age advances the "old stomach" needs more help. The reason is this:

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains very special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with over-doses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Negro Reported Shot Because He Wanted To Vote In Georgia

MT. VERNON, Ga., Sept. 11 (AP)—A negro father of six children was shot and killed because he insisted on voting in Georgia's Democratic primary election, Sheriff R. M McCrimmon said today.

The negro was identified as Isiah Nixon 28, of Alston, Ga. Sheriff McCrimmon said the man died in a hospital at Dublin from three gun shot wounds received the night of the election Wednesday.

McCrimmon said he was holding Johnnie Johnson, 22, an Alston logger, on a charge of accessory to murder and is seeking to arrest his brother, M. A. Johnson, on a charge of murder.

The sheriff said he was told Nixon went to a polling place in Alston Wednesday and asked if he could vote.

Nixon was told, McCrimmon said, that he had the right to vote but was advised not to do so. He said Nixon insisted, however, and was allowed to cast his ballot.

McCrimmon said the two Johnson brothers went to Nixon's home that night and that M. A. Johnson fired the fatal shots in front of the negro's wife and children.

According to the sheriff, Johnnie Johnson said he and his brother went to the house to get Nixon to work for them and that his brother fired in self defense.

Nishiyami will study at Pennsylvania's LaFayette college and will major in liberal arts.

Pilot Vihibly Moved

He was visibly moved today when he left Haneda airport aboard a Northwest airlines plane.

"I wish I had known him," he said of his benefactor. "If his body has been returned to America I must hasten to his grave. He had so much greater vision than we Japanese in the hysterical days of the war."

The Japanese pilot who had pledged his life to his country in a suicide dive on an American warship said farewell to his wife, Helen, a Stanford graduate, and his two-year-old daughter Rhoda.

When he completes his education, Nishiyami said he wanted to return to Japan as a teacher, even though the pay is small.

EAST-WEST DISPUTE BLAMED

Record Spending Program May Be Given Congress By Truman

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—The biggest government spending program in peacetime history will be laid before the next Congress by President Truman, authoritative sources predicted today.

Next January's budget, they forecast, will call for expenditure of at least $45,000,000,000 — the estimated minimum cost of carrying the U. S. through another year of an increasingly grim "cold war."

That is $4,000,000,000 above income as estimated by the administration. If its estimates are correct the newly-elected Congress would have to cut spending or boost taxes to prevent a record size peacetime deficit.

Not Affected By Election

Officials, willing to discuss the subject provided they were not quoted by name, said this outlook holds true regardless of the outcome of the November election. They said the election has nothing to do with it.

The budget they spoke of concerns fiscal 1950, which begins next July 1, eight months after the presidential and congressional elections. Not a cent will be spent on it before then.

President Truman would still have the duty of sending it to Congress some two weeks before the next presidential term begins January 20 even if he lost the election to GOP Candidate Thomas E. Dewey.

East-West Dispute Blamed

Final decisions will not be made on the 1950 budget until December.

Nevertheless, reliable officials say preliminary work on the budget clinches $45,000,000,000 as the minimum 1950 spending total—many figure it will have to be a million or two higher despite "hold-down" efforts.

They blame the cold war.

The final clincher of the $45,000,000,000 figure as they see it is increased military spending, a partly automatic result of contract authority given the armed forces by the last Congress under a growing strain in relations with Russia.

Payments for planes contracted for this year, will become budget expenditures in 1950 as the planes are delivered. So will the added costs of fueling, manning and maintaining them. Costs also will rise as draftees swell the numbers in uniform.

Right now, President Truman—represented as determined to hold down government spending for fear of its impact on an already inflated economy—has directed the military to trim their 1950 program down to a top limit of $15,000,000,000.

But this figure is $3,000,000,000 more than the military cost item in this year's $42,200,000,000 budget — and seemingly enough by itself to push the 1950 budget above $45,000,000,000 unless other costs go down.

Other Boosts Seen

Actually, the $15,000,000,000 limit takes into account further contract authority, and it's a fair bet that spending itself — which is all that counts in the budget — would run perhaps $1,000,000,000 less.

The foreign aid program, which also fits into the cold war scheme, is headed for a $1,000,000,000 or so budget increase too. Costs of European Recovery aid, steadily stepping up now, are scheduled to be at a peak in fiscal 1950, as Congress was told when it considered the subject.

Informed officials discount chances of other costs, taken altogether, going down to offset military and foreign aid programs.

Government support prices for crops may well jump in 1950 if the big harvests bring a price slide as its being predicted in some quarters.

A $45,000,000,000 spending program for 1958 would not only set a peacetime record but far exceed the $34,289,000,000 spent in fiscal 1942, which covers the first seven months of the recent war. The wartime top was $100,397,000,000 in fiscal 1945.

Only once in history have taxes produced enough to match that level of spending — in fiscal 1945, when the government's income was $46,457,000,000. Administration officials say the government couldn't take in anywhere near $45,000,000,000 in fiscal 1950 without new taxes.

County TB Association Gets New Equipment For Building Through Efforts Of Jaycees

When Lubbock County Tuberculosis association moves into its new building at 916 Ave. N, it will have new office equipment, made possible through efforts of the Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The association expects to move to the new building by Oct. 15.

The Jaycees underwrote costs of construction and equipping the building, up to the amount of its fund set aside for that purpose.

Additional funds raised by Dr. H. H. Bidwell for the Tuberculosis association supplement the Jaycee funds. Supply houses have donated much material and labor unions have donated labor for construction of the building, which is almost completed. The Tuberculosis association owned the lot.

The new equipment has been delivered to the present location of the Lubbock County Tuberculosis association at 1003½ Sixteenth and will be moved later to the new structure.

Equipment Listed

Equipment includes two new desks, two typewriters, two filing cabinets, one large and two small storage cabinets, typewriter tables, X-ray filing cabinet and other pieces of equipment. Hester's Office Supply Co., Haygood's Office Supply Co., Baker Office Equipment Co., Thomas Bros. Co., and Lubbock Printing Co., gave discounts on costs of equipment.

The Jaycees set aside the contributions it received last year from persons who had given $1 and in return received opportunity to win a car. When the organization halted the project, it offered to return money but numerous persons asked that the Jaycees keep theirs as contributions. Additional donations later were received for the same fund. The Jaycees voted to apply the fund to building and equipment of the Tuberculosis association building.

Chicago And Southern Airlines Announces New Rate Schedule

HOUSTON, Sept. 11 (UP)—Chicago and Southern airlines announced a new rate schedule today, including a seven percent boost on a ticket from Houston to Chicago.

Tomorrow the price will be up $4.45 on one way tickets, officials said. That hike, however, will be tempered by a five percent reduction on round-trip fares.

The Houston-Shreveport fare will be $25.90—80 cents lower than the present rate. The new round trip fare to Chicago will be $122.60, an increase of $2.40.

Democrats Off To Convention

Twenty-five delegates and a handful of alternates are expected to leave today and early Monday for the State Democratic convention to be convened officially Tuesday in Fort Worth.

L. C. Ellis, county Democratic chairman, left Saturday afternoon. He is a delegate.

"It is hoped that all delegates and alternates will reach Fort Worth in time for the big rally Monday night at the First Baptist church," he said. Rep. Sam Rayburn will speak. Earlier, Byron Skelton, Temple attorney who is pre-convention leader of the Truman forces, had sent out a plea that all delegations from the South Plains be at the rally.

Delegates Virtually Peldged

Ellis said the following delegates "virtually had pledged themselves to attend the convention":

G. H. Nelson, chairman of the delegation, J. H. Brewer, Arch Underwood, W. M. Barton, Homer L. Pharr, Homer Grant, Bill Collins, J. Ben Cole, C. L. Harris, Mrs. William G. Dingus, J. B. Walker, James H. Goodman, James O. Cade, L. Wesley Read, Charles Cobb, L. B. Wright, P. G. Meading, Clarence Whiteside, J. W. Jackson, and Lloyd Croslin.

Alternates To Attend

These alternates said they would attend, Ellis said: James Denton, J. S. Millerman, Dudley Brummett, Howard Billingsley, Jess L. Davidson, and Royal Furgeson.

All delegates and alternates are pledged to support the Democratic nominees, and to vote as a unit on every issue, Ellis said.

WHY CATHOLICS "Keep Running to Church"

You've probably heard people comment at times on the fact that their Catholic neighbors go to church so often. Perhaps you have wondered yourself . . . is all this necessary?

Catholics, you may be sure, have good reasons.

Going to Mass on Sunday is, of course, an obligation for every Catholic. Confession and Holy Communion at least once a year are a sacred duty. But most Catholics go to Confession and receive Holy Communion oftener . . . some every month, some every week, some every day.

There are also many other special services and devotions for which Catholics go to church. In the average city, the Catholic Church is always open—and seldom empty. Many will enter the church at any hour of the day to visit Jesus Christ present on the altar, mindful of His invitation. "Come to Me, all you who labor and are burdened, and I will give you rest."

But, you ask, is all this necessary? Catholics believe it is.

They believe that Christ not only called upon us to honor and serve God . . . but prescribed the ways in which we should do so. He did not say how often we must go to church . . . nor how many prayers we were to recite. But He did establish a Church with the power and authority to carry on His work . . . and He promised that His Church would last to the end of time—that it would have God's protection in teaching all men to observe all things He had commanded, especially to believe and to be baptized and thereby become members of His Church to attain the purpose of their lives.

And how do Catholics know theirs is Christ's Church?

Because it possesses the distinguishing marks Christ gave His Church. It covers the earth as Christ said it would. Unchanged after nearly 2,000 years, it continues to live and grow, in fulfillment of His promise that His Church would last to the end of the world.

But the most convincing mark that He gave it is its unity of faith, worship and obedience under the authority of the lawful and historical successor of Peter, the first Bishop of Rome and the "rock" upon which Christ built His Church. Just as Peter was the first Pope and the first Vicar of Christ, so also is Pius XII the 262nd Pope and the Vicar of Christ today.

If you would like to know more about the distinguishing characteristics which Christ declared His Church must have and which the Catholic Church possesses today, we'll be happy to send you without cost or obligation an interesting and enlightening correspondence course in the Catholic Religion. A touch and you GO— that's DYNAFLOW!

YES, it boils down to just about that. You start your engine, set a lever — and from then on your treadle foot takes over.

You press the accelerator — and move softly and smoothly away.

You speed up, slow down, halt completely — and your right foot alone, operating gas treadle and brake, does it all.

How come? Simply because Dynaflow Drive* is the one passenger car drive in America that gets completely away from gears which function in fixed stages.

Changes in the way oil flows, instead of changes in gears, adjust your engine power to your driving requirements.

Whether you are starting out, climbing a hill, surging past others or cruising easily, there's nothing for you to do except feed gas.

For very fast starts, extreme pulls, reserve braking power, you flick the selector lever—and your engine seems suddenly to double in size.

For parking, there is a very special setting, exclusive to Dynaflow Drive, that rigidly locks rear wheels.

Even rough and chattery roads are made smoother by power that flows along through a cushion of oil — your whole car is "sweeter" in its feel, far silkier in its actions.

Quite rightfully is Dynaflow Drive called the most important development since the self-starter.

It's a basically different way of transmitting power — and one you should know about firsthand.

See what your Buick dealer can do about arranging that for you. The merest sample of Dynaflow magic will make you want to place an order pronto, whether or not you have a car to trade!

What's different about DYNAFLOW DRIVE?

To an efficient new pump (left in picture), Buick engineers have added a true turbine (right) and an ingenious new supercharging assembly (in hand) which produce a torque-boosting action in starting and accelerating. The result is the first device on any American passenger car which employs liquid to fill the function of both the clutch and the usual low, second and high gears. The clutch pedal is eliminated and a simple control gives you manual selection of power ranges and direction.

FACULTY MEETING MONDAY TO OPEN FALL TERM

Texas Tech Prepares For Largest Enrollment In History As Plans For Registration Completed

By OPAL DIXON
Avalanche Staff Writer

Indications point to the largest enrollment in the history of Texas Technological college as the college moves into activities preliminary to official registration to be conducted Thursday through Saturday of this week.

Approximately 5,500 permits to register for the fall semester had been issued when the registrar's office closed Saturday.

Since pre-registration by mail has been conducted this year for the first time, there is no basis for comparison, but the fall semester total is expected to reach 6,500 to 7,000 and the 1948-49 long session total is expected to exceed 7,000, Registrar W. P. Clement said Saturday. Enrollment in the fall semester last year was 6,114 and in the long session, 6,689, both record figures thus far.

Faculty Meet Slated

A general faculty meeting will be conducted Monday morning, the freshman counseling program will open Monday afternoon and dormitories will open Monday.

The faculty meeting, which will be conducted at 10 a. m. in the Aggie Memorial auditorium, will offer the first opportunity for the general faculty to meet with Dr. D. M. Wiggins, president who began duties last week.

O. B. Ratliff, member of the board of dirctors, will introduce Dr. Wiggins to the faculty. President Wiggins met with deans and administrative officers Saturday morning, discussing plans and procedure.

A new aviation course for veterans, Economics 233, not formerly offered at Tech, was discussed and a statement of justification by the dean of a veteran's division was added to procedure necessary before a student will be approved as an enrollee in the course. The statement of justification, added in keeping with Public Law 862, must state that in opinion of the dean the student is taking the course in preparation for use of the training in present or contemplated business. He must be planning to use the training in a vocation rather than avocation, H. A. Anderson, coordinator of veterans affair on the campus, explained.

Counseling Program Slated

Eldon F. Fuller, chief vocational and educational rehabilitation officer of the Veterans administration, was present at the meeting. The Veterans administration is to approve each individual student before acceptance for the course.

The course is to consist of ground school instruction and flight training leading to a private license from the Civil Aeronautics administration. The college catalog states there will be a maximum of 50 hours of ground school instruction and a maximum of 45 hours flying.

Officials have announced that freshmen not reporting Monday for opening of the counseling program will be delayed in registering.

The freshman counseling program will open with a general assembly of all entering freshmen at 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon in the gymnasium. Freshmen later will be divided according to divisions they will enter. The counseling program, which will continue through Wednesday, will include the testing program.

During the orientation period, schedules of freshmen are to be made. Each freshman is to be assigned a time to report on official registration days, when final approval of schedules will be given.

Nightly Meetings Planned

Nightly meetings and recreational and social events have been scheduled for freshmen through Thursday.

Freshmen in each dormitory will meet with supervisors and counsellors at 7:30 p. m. Monday. At 8:45 p. m., a motion picture, "Boomerang," with Dana Andrews and Jane Wyatt, will be shown on the lawn south of the administration building.

At 7:30 p m. Tuesday, freshmen men and women are to attend a reception in the recreation hall in honor of Dr and Mrs. Wiggins and Dr Edward N. Jones, vice president of the college, and Mrs. Jones.

Separate convocations for freshmen men and women will be conducted at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, with men meeting on the lawn south of the administration building and women meeting in the recreation hall. At 8:30 p. m., a "mixer" for both groups will be conducted in the recreation hall.

Party Slated Thursday

A freshman party is to be conducted at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the recreation hall.

Pre-registration consultations for all students wishing to talk to faculty members have been scheduled for Wednesday, when the faculty is to be on duty in campus offices.

Registration process is expected to be speeded Thursday, Friday and Saturday, because of preliminary pre-registration activities by mail. Prospective students have been mailing applications for registration to the registrar's office and, in return, receiving packets of cards they will need in entering college. They have been assigned times to register. Those students who have been assigned such times will not need to report to the registration desks in the west side of the administrative building, said Registrar Clement. They will go directly to their respective divisions.

Students who sent in applications to register late the last week, not having time to receive packets in return by mail, may call at registration desks.

Those who have not applied for permits also are to report to the registration desks between 8 a. m. and 12 noon and 1 and 5 p. m. registration days.

This year, students will pay fees at five places rather than at one place. Fees will be paid in agricultural, engineering, home economics and administration buildings and in the basement of the library building.

Classes will open Monday, Sept. 20. A late registration fee will be charged after 5 p. m. Tuesday, Sept. 21. Friday, Sept. 24, will be the last day a student may register for the first semester.

Additional Housing Needed For Incoming Tech Students

"We would like to have more listings of rooms and apartments —efficiency or large," James G. Allen, dean of men at Texas Technological college, said Saturday.

Many students already have made arrangements for rooms or other housing facilities, but some will arrive this week who will need rooms or apartments, he said.

Mrs. Margarette Wible Walker, dean of women, said Saturday that as far as was known at that time dormitories would accomodate women students. So far, no housing facilities outside the dormitories have been listed for women students.

Dr. Wiggins To Attend Annual Meeting At Spokane Oct. 1-5

Dr. D. M. Wiggins, president of Texas Technological college, plans to attend the 26th annual meeting of the Association of Governing Boards of State Universities and Allied Institutions Oct. 1 through Oct. 5 at the Davenport hotel in Spokane, Wash., and on the campus of the State College of Washington at Pullman.

Six Faculty Members Added To Texas Tech Plant Industry Staff

Six new members were elected to the faculty in the plant industry department including two graduate assistants, one assistant professor and three lecturers to begin classes at Texas Technological college in September.

Archie W. Sullivan from the faculty at Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn, Ala., will be an assistant professor in agricultural engineering. He holds BS and MS degrees from the Alabama institute and was a faculty member there one year. He has completed extensive work in planning a college curriculum for teachers of farm mechanics in vocational agriculture.

Illinois Man Joins Faculty

Sullivan holds membership in the following honorary organizations: Phi Kappa Phi, Gamma Sigma Delta, Alpha Zeta and Scabbard and Blade.

G. A. Lynch from the University of Illinois is replacing George O. Elle, on leave of absence at Cornell university, as a lecturer in horticulture. Lynch will teach particularly vegetable crops. He has both BS and MS degrees from the University of Illinois and was a research assistant in horticulture at Illinois before coming to Texas Tech.

Replacing E. L. Mader as a lecturer in agronomy is Judd Morrow. Morrow has both BS and MS degrees from Texas Tech in agronomy, and was employed last year as part-time instructor in range grasses and range management. Mader has joined the agronomy staff of Kansas State college.

Earl Burnett is returning to Texas Tech as lecturer in crop production in vocational work from Pampa where he has been employed as soil scientist with the soil conservation program. After completing his degree requirements for a BS degree at Texas Tech, and most of the requirements for a MS degree, he taught one year at Cameron College, Lawton, Okla., and then joined the soil conservation program staff. He replaces Cecil Ayers, on leave of absence to work on a doctor's degree at the University of Minnesota.

The graduate assistants include Don A. Lewis, jr., of Midlothian, who is completing degree requirements for a MS in horticulture, and Lavon Ray, who is working toward a MS degree in agronomy. Ray was the highest ranking agriculture student in 1948.

Seven Hurt In Street Battle

DALLAS, Sept. 11 (U.P.)—A surging gang fight that lasted 30 minutes on a street in East Dallas sent seven persons to the emergency hospital shortly after 1 a. m. today.

The injured included a city detective who shot one of the participants and emptied his gun at the remainder.

Police spread a city-wide net for the participants in the fight and a robbery that followed in the confusion of the brawl. By daylight, nine men had been jailed. Three were arrested at the emergency hospital.

The injured detective was J. W. Fuller.

Fuller, accompanied by his wife and two friends, was leaving a Worth street cafe when the street brawl was in progress. He ordered the fight stopped and showed his badge. One of the brawl participants meanwhile attacked the two women in the Fuller party, snatching their wedding rings.

Fuller attempted to arrest the assaulter, but the remainder of the gang surrounded the detective and began beating him.

He pulled his gun and shot one of his attackers in the upper, right arm and then emptied his pistol at the rest of the gang.

The wounded brawler was hospitalized under guard. The man who snatched the rings surrendered peacefully later this morning.

Increase In Students Seeking Part Time Employment Seen

More students of Texas Technological college will be available for part time employment than in other years, it was announced Saturday.

Troy Enis, a graduate in recreational leadership from the University of Texas, is new assistant to the dean of men and director of the recreation hall at Texas Tech.

"In his handling of part time employment for men students, he will be able to serve a great many more employers who need part time employes than in other years," said James G. Allen, dean of men.

Working with Enis in the recreation hall will be Mrs. Eleanor M. Chitwood. She left the dean of women's office to assist in the recreation hall. Mrs. Chitwood has served as assistant to two deans of women, Mrs. Mary W. Doak, dean emeritus, and Mrs. Johnnye G. Langford, retiring dean.

Francies Bearden resigned as assistant to the dean of men and recreation building supervisor to do graduate study in recreational leadership at Columbia university.

Big Sorghum Crop In Southwest Creates Grain Storage Problem

BY CHARLES HASLET
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 — A bumper grain sorghum crop forecast for the southwest has renewed concern of Agriculture department officials over that area's grain storage problem.

A serious situation may develop with the grain sorghum harvest in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas because many terminals, country elevators and farm storage bins still are filled with wheat from this summer's harvest, the department said. Part of the Texas crop has already been harvested.

"Building of more storage facilities on farms is the only answer we can see," one official told a reporter.

Farm Storage Is Answer

"If a farmer cannot get his grain in terminals which are filled, or in country elevators, the only thing left is for him to provide storage on his farm. It is possible that in some cases he can build temporary storage and protect his grain until we can market it."

The wheat storage situation is no longer "acute" in Kansas or Oklahoma, the official said, and it is not now necessary to keep wheat on the ground.

The Federal Crop Reporting board yesterday said Sept. 1 conditions indicated the second largest grain sorghum crop of record. It listed probable Texas production at 82,478,000 bushels, compared with 68,000,000 last year, 8,512,000 for Oklahoma compared with 5,000,000 and 24,488,000 for Kansas, compared with 11,000,000.

U. S. Tries To Move Grain

In an effort to ease the storage problem in the three states, the official said, the government has been trying to move out grain allocations to foreign countries from gulf ports earlier than might have been necessary.

Although there have been several years of bumper crops, the expert said the department estimates there is no more farm storage available now than in 1942 While some storage has been built on farms, he said, about the same space has been destroyed by fire, weather or deterioration.

The department's loan and purchase program provides that the grower must furnish the storage for grain on which he obtains loans, and protect the commodity from damage

The air force and War Assets Administration recently notified regional offices to cooperate in making available any unused airplane hangar, warehouse or other such space for storage grain sorghums in the southwest.

The agriculture official said, however, that he doubted if even this space would be sufficient to handle all grain for the area.

International Group Makes Study Of Soil

DENVER, Sept. 11. (U.P.)—A first-hand study of typical soil conservation problems in the western states today was afforded delegates of 21 American republics attending a conference here.

The delegates were taken on the second field trip of the two-week conference, viewing a watershed, good and bad land conditions, irrigated farms, dry-land farms and grazing lands. Included were areas which had been treated for soil erosion and those in need of treatment.

Delegates to the Inter-American conference on conservation of renewable natural resources were divided on the question of creating another agency to advance the scientific use of the natural resources of North, South and Central America.

Carlos A. Fynn, chief of soil classification and conservation, Montevideo, Uruguay, proposed the creation of an "Inter-American National Resources Conservation Administration." The organization would be divorced from local or general political influence, and would be financed through quotas from all the Americas he proposed.

California Farm Federation Protests Cotton Quota Plan

BERKELEY, Calif., Sept. 11 (AP) —The California Farm Bureau federation announced today it had protested the government's plan to impose cotton marketing quotas for 1949.

California's allotment under the plan would be 355,000 acres, the same as it was in 1942. This year 804,000 acres will be harvested.

The national acreage allotment, however, would be increased 3,500,000 acres.

Federation President Ray B. Wiser, protested to Secretary of Agriculture Brannan against such a reduction in the state's acreage.

Grain Sorghums Will Benefit From Rains

Most grain sorghums in Lubbock county will benefit from rains of the past week, but little effect will be shown on dryland cotton, according to the weekly crop report yesterday by County Agent D. W. Sherrill.

Surface moisture from rains of three-fourths inch to an inch and a half in most parts of the county is described as only fair, and subsoil moisture is said poor except on irrigated land.

Dry land cotton showed further deterioration on the basis of probable yield, with this now set at an average over the county of one-sixth bale per acre, compared with 1-4 to 1-5 a week earlier. Forecast for irrigated cotton held at three-fourths bale per acre, same as the previous week.

Sherrill said probably three per cent of the county's dry land acreage will be abandoned.

He reported that 10 per cent of the county's grain sorghum on dry land is "no good," but that much of the balance will benefit from the rains. And, contrary to a normal assumption, he finds that only 33 per cent of the irrigated crop can be called "good."

Sherrill's report indicated that farmers are responding to the campaign for construction of farm storage for grain, in order to be eligible for the government loan under the price support program. Many are building storage, he said.

Plans For Building Facilities Approved By Power Commission

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11. (AP)— Facilities costing more than $66,000,000 have been authorized by the Power commission in California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas.

The commission approved building plans of the Southern California Gas Co., the Southern Counties Gas Co. of California, and the El Paso, Tex., Natural Gas Co

The southern California companies were authorized to build 88 miles of 30-inch pipeline to loop partially the existing pipeline from the California-Arizona boundary near Blythe to the Los Angeles area, and to build 15 miles of 30-inch pipeline from a point on the Texas-to-California line near Rivera, Calif., to a measuring and regulating station at Slauson blvd. and West Ave. in Los Angeles.

This construction, costing $10,040,000, would add 4,000 horsepower to the compressor facilities of the system and would increase the capacity of the two companies' Los Angeles line from 305,000,000 to 405,000,000 cubic feet daily.

Woman Hurt In Auto Mishap Near Lubbock

Mrs. Lorraine Steffek, 30, of Lake Jackson received treatment at West Texas hospital Saturday morning for minor injuries received about 10:35 a. m. when the car driven by her husband, John A. Steffek, 33, was in collision with a pickup truck on the Slaton road at "cemetery curve," where the old Slaton highway crosses U. S. Highway 84. She was dismissed following treatment.

Steffek, his wife, and son, John Charles, 4, were riding south in a 1948 Chevrolet coupe, when they were in collision with the pickup, driven by James B. Durham, 66, a farmer of Lubbock route 7, who was attempting to cross from the old Slaton route to the dirt road leading to his residence, about a mile off the highway.

The collision caused an estimated $200 damage to the Steffek car, and about $50 to the pickup, which was turned on its side by the impact.

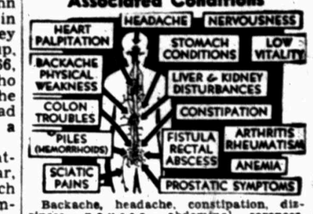

Investigating highway patrol officials said Durham was charged with running a stop sign and having no drivers license.

What shall we use to paint our house?

Is isn't a question of SHALL we paint, for the necessity of painting is inevitable. Thrifty home owners, proud of their homes and anxious to preserve their beauty and value, long ago discovered that it costs less to paint than NOT to paint.

Years ago, COOK'S asked themselves a question or two about House Painting . . .

There are special undercoats for enamels, varnishes and wall paints . . . why not then a special primer for House Paints? No painter would think for a minute of putting a finish coat directly on an unprimed surface, however much oil or turpentine he might add . . . he knows that any finish coat gives maximum service as a FINISH COAT is not intended for use as a primer.

Then another question was asked . . .

Why expect a House Paint to serve equally well as a primer and finish coat over house surfaces that vary so greatly in porosity?

All of these surfaces, and others, may be found on the same house . . .

There is no possible mixture of ordinary house paint, oil and other thinners that can seal all of these surfaces uniformly and provide an even foundation for the finish coat. Each surface differs in porosity.

An obvious conclusion was reached . . .

House surfaces cannot be changed . . . so Cook Chemists began a search for a new paint oil . . . one that would not soak into the wood!

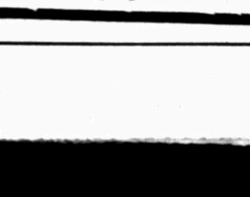

The success of this research and its application in the manufacture of exterior paints has revolutionized house painting practices.

The Discovery of This Amazing New Paint Oil Made Possible the Development of Cook's SUPERWHITE PRIMER . . . a Universal Undercoat with Controlled Penetration!

HERE IS THE DIFFERENCE!

A few drops of ordinary house paint, reduced as customary for priming, and a similar quantity of SUPERWHITE PRIMER are dropped side by side on a porous surface representing an exterior house surface.

ORDINARY HOUSE PAINT

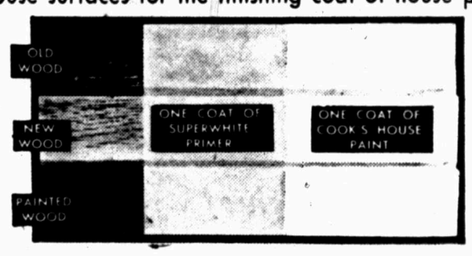

Note how the oil has soaked out into the surface, robbing the paint of essential oils . . . a loss which the first coat of paint will in turn try to replace from the next coat.

SUPERWHITE PRIMER with CONTROLLED PENETRATION

The oil loss from SUPERWHITE PRIMER has been CONTROLLED . . . making for a uniform foundation for the finish coat in which the balance between oil and pigment is maintained for longer and more uniform wear.

Just as we have fire insurance to protect against loss of our property through fire, so should the cost of painting be regarded . . . it is insurance against DEPRECIATED VALUE . . . insurance against destructive forces that are inevitable, not merely possible.

Here is photographic proof of how perfectly Cook's SUPERWHITE PRIMER prepares all types of exterior house surfaces for the finishing coat of house paint.

COOK'S HOUSE PAINT

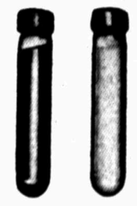

is a definitely superior product that possesses many outstanding characteristics not usually found in other house paints!

To Have a Good House Paint, You MUST have good oils . . .

Here is how COOK'S Specially Processed Oil compares with ordinary linseed oil used in most paints

ORDINARY LINSEED OIL

Raw linseed oil, used in the manufacture of many first quality paints, has a dark, yellowish natural color which in turn darkens the paint.

Cook's Specially Processed Oil

The same linseed oil, after treatment with an exclusive COOK refining process, permits the manufacture of whiter white, brighter colors.

The pigments used in COOK'S HOUSE PAINT are definitely superior, too, making it incomparably fine.

- Paint film cleans itself with rainfall.
- Presents an ideal surface for repainting.
- Whites are whiter because of pale oils.
- Continues to hide as film wears off.
- Chalks at an even and CONTROLLED rate.
- Gives 3-coat value at only 2-coat cost.

COVERAGE . . .

The illustration at the left compares the greater coverage of Cook's Paint with ordinary paint. By virture of conscientious manufacture, greater coverage of good paint is always assured.

HIDING . . .

A highly opaque pigment finely ground in a smooth flowing oil defines a good hiding paint. The accompanying illustration compares the relative hiding power of Cook's Paint and any ordinary paint.

DURABILITY . . .

The durability of a house paint remains an unknown factor until the film has been allowed to weather. At that time the false economy of "bargain" paint is disclosed and costly surface renovation is necessitated. 2-coats of COOK'S surpasses the wearing qualities of 3-coats of ordinary paint.

is the only thing you know about the paint you buy . . . and when compared with coverage, hiding and durability, the least important. Don't let a low price-per-gallon tempt you . . . the best paint costs no more in the long run.

what shall we use to paint our house? . . . Cook's 2-Coat House Paint System

SURVEY RATES COUNTY HIGH

Lubbock Rural Population Found To Be Industrious, Progressive

By A. B. SLAGLE
Avalanche Staff Writer

The level of living in rural Lubbock county, especially as measured in terms of household conveniences, is high, but community ties are unsettled and new community alignments have not yet definitely taken shape.

This information, along with much other data concerning people and conditions in rural areas, is contained in "The Lubbock County Study," a compilation of results of a survey conducted in the county last year by the extension service to determine effectiveness of work done by county farm agents and other agricultural education agencies.

Many Families Interviewed

The report, a 32-page booklet, was prepared by E. J. Niederfrank, rural sociologist, division of field studies and training; Mary Louise Collings, home economist, division of field studies and training, both with the Federal Extension service, Washington, D. C. and Miss Kate Adele Hill, Texas Extension service district agent, who was chairman of the working committee and in charge of the study.

Data was obtained from two sources. One was by means of interviews with 336 rural families selected by random sampling methods from open country areas in the county, which was roughly 15 per cent of the total farm households. Strictly non-farm rural settlements and suburban subdivisions were eliminated.

The other source was a supplementary survey among home demonstration club members in the county through assistance of the clubs themselves. In reply 130 records, 40 per cent of all club members were obtained.

The 1945 census of agriculture lists 2,121 farms in the county.

In the general survey sampling methods developed by the bureau of Agricultural Economics were used. The county was divided into clearly definable areas, each having five to eight houses, and each area was given a number. From a list of these areas at random sample sufficiently large to provide the desired number of records was drawn, and all households in the sample areas were visited.

People Comparatively Young

The survey disclosed that the people are comparatively young, with farm operators in the survey averaging 44.4 years, and the women 41.8 years. Nearly 30 per cent of the families have preschool children. In the age brackets, 22.8 per cent of the men, and 31.4 per cent of the women were under 35 years of age. In the 35 to 59 year bracket 64 per cent of the men and 59.9 per cent of the women were tabulated.

There were not quite twice as many men as women 60 years and over. In that group were 13.2 per cent men, and 8.7 women.

The average size of farms in the county is larger than in most areas. Among the 336 families in the survey, farms averaged 265 acres, compared with 262 acres average throughout the county as shown in the 1945 census of agriculture.

Of the 336 in the survey 44 per cent were tennants, compared with 47 the county over.

Living Standards High

What about standard of living and education?

Measured in terms of conveniences in the home, the level is high. More than 90 per cent of farms in the county have radios, 88 per cent have autos, 71 per cent electric or gas refrigeration, 70 per cent running water, and 60 per cent have electricity.

The survey shows that only 8.6 per cent have telephones, but this is attributed not to lack of desire for this convenience but to the fact that such facilities are not available. More than four-fifths of the families subscribe to a newspaper, but only half of them regularly read farm articles.

Schooling of the people is above the state average, and in fact above the general average of the county as a whole. The survey showed that farmers (men) averaged 9.1 grades of schooling, and women 9.5 grades.

Nearly half the county's farmers are tenants as shown above, but farm population is fairly stable. About 56 per cent of the families surveyed had lived on their places five years or longer, and many of those with shorter residence were young families starting out, not migrant or short-term tenants.

Main Food Items Raised

Nearly all the families surveyed produced at home some of the main food items used; 65 to 85 per cent produced all the milk, eggs, meat and poultry they use, and 30 per cent all their main vegetables.

However, about 60 per cent of the farmers milked less than two cows, and 71 per cent marketed less than two beef calves during the year.

The survey indicates that nearly half the farms in the county have irrigation wells. Of those in the survey 43 per cent had one or more irrigation wells, and 40 per cent hoped to start irrigation or increase existing irrigation facilities to water more land. That was about a year ago, and many wells have been added in the meantime.

The survey pointed up sharply that agriculture is the basis of the economy of the South Plains, with a large variety of products. About 93 per cent of the families living in the open country make 75 per cent or more of their income by farming a well diversified plan.

Last year Lubbock county was the fourth largest cotton producing county in the United States and the largest in Texas. Grain sorghums, wheat, alfalfa, irish potatoes, and sugar beets are other leading crops. Commercial dairying, poultry and beef cattle also are major enterprises.

20 Rural Churches

And what about morality and generally full life?

The survey found that there are 20 rural churches, mostly Methodist and Baptist, in the county, and that "the Church is the most important local institution."

About 89 per cent of the families interviewed have one or more family members at least fairly active in church, and 29 per cent are affiliated only with a church—no other group of any kind.

Social differentiation revolves mainly around tenure, income or scale of farming, and to some extent nationality background and church affiliation, but there are no conflicts.

The survey found that "in general people in Lubbock county are industrious and alert to changes in farming and homemaking. Mechanization and other developments are readily accepted. Work is highly regarded. The people work hard when there is work to do, yet they enjoy life when there is time to do so. Recreation, participation in local events, sociability and vacations, including travel, are common among the country people. The whole tone of life in the county is progressive."

And, since the survey was primarily in the interest of the extension service, the report finds that "all this has implications for extension work in Lubbock county and similar areas. There are many youths in the county, and young families and newcomers. There is a desire for knowledge and a willingness to accept new ideas and changes; there is expansion and opportunity for guidance and education. . .The rapid changes in agricultural practices and development of the county have and will continue to challenge the service to keep alert to the values and interests of the people and to develop organization and methods that fit the changing conditions of the county."

PERFORMING ELEPHANTS HERE WEDNESDAY — Pictured above is one of the performing elephants—or had you seen the elephant yet?—to be here Wednesday, Sept. 15, with the Cole Brothers' Circus, which will offer an afternoon and night performance on the East Broadway showgrounds. Tickets will be on sale on circus day only, at Wylie's Drug store, 1106 Texas Ave.

Three Big Herds Of Performing Elephants To Be Seen With Cole Bros. Circus Here

The more the elephants, the bigger the circus—that has long been the rule by which the size of a circus is judged. In the old days, the days when circuses moved by wagon train—one or two elephants were considered a lot. Today, a herd of five or six is nothing more than a beginning.

With the Cole Brothers' huge circus, coming to the East Broadway showgrounds for 2:15 p. m. and 8 p. m. performances on Wednesday, three great herds of performing elephants will be seen in what is conceded to be the most thrilling and spectacular elephant display in America.

Outstanding Feature

They are an outstanding feature in themselves, and also serve to introduce three of spangleland's most beautiful and talented "elephant girls," Mae Belleau, Patricia Scott and Bonnie Donovan, who present the powerful beasts in the rings.

Everything about this new circus of 1948 is of gigantic proportions. Hundreds of stars and performers take part, among them many of circusdom's greatest attractions.

Heading the features are the Christiani Family of bareback riding fame, with Lucio, greatest of all riding comedians; Hubert Castle, noted tight-wire star; the Flying Thrillers, breath-taking performers on the high trapeze; the Aussies, an all-woman acrobatic troupe from England, and many others of equal note.

Tickets will be on sale at Wylie's Drug store on Sept. 15 only. Ducats are priced at $1.20 and 60c, but children will be able to get afternoon performance tickets for 40 cents at Wylie's between 10 a. m. and 1 p. m. on Wednesday, according to advance circus notices.

The Japanese have salvaged 980 sunken vessels, aggregating 317,386 tons, during the three years since the end of war.

News Commentator To Speak At Tech

Raymond Graham Swing, radio commentator, is to be one of a trio of outstanding speakers to be presented during the fall semester on the all-college recreation program at Texas Technological college.

Swing will lecture in the campus recreation hall Nov. 19. He will be preceded on Oct. 16 by William A. Lydgate, editor of the Gallup Poll.

William H. Upson, author-commentator, best known for his articles in Saturday Evening Post, Esquire, Collier's and other magazines, will close the entertainment series Jan. 18.

Thus far, 20 different features have been scheduled during the fall semester including the lecturers, dances parties, shows and concerts. These are to be offered students at the nominal cost of 16 and a half cents each, or an overall cost of $3.30 for the student for the entire semester.

Johnson, Stevenson Heading For Court Showdown In Senate Vote

er a 10-day study of Texas election laws and court decisions, concluded the laws "need re-study and overhauling from stem to stern." They give the attorney general no authority to investigate or prosecute alleged election irregularities, Daniel said.

In his suit for a temporary injunction, Johnson named as defendants, Stevenson, Frank Hamer of Travis county, a special Texas Ranger; Kellis Dibrell, San Antonio attorney, Bexar county campaign manager for Stevenson and former FBI agent; H. L. Adams, chairman of the Democratic executive committee of Jim Wells county; H. L. Poole, secretary of the committee; and 17 county committee members.

Intimidation Charged

Johnson alleged that the defendants have entered into a conspiracy and are acting together to cause Adams to alter the returns from the county as originally canvassed.

He charged Stevenson, Dibrell and Hamer have gone into Jim Wells county "and by threats and intimidation have attempted to have the votes of one or more of the voting boxes of said county eliminated from the official canvass of the official returns."

They sought, said Johnson, to have new returns forwarded to the state executive committee taking votes from him "in sufficient numbers to change the results of the election."

Votes Claimed Illegal

The temporary order restrains the Democratic committee of Jim Wells county from recanvassing election returns or eliminating any votes on the ground of illegality, Irregularity or fraud.

Stevenson promised to show at both Fort Worth and Alice "beyond a reasonable doubt" that the complete returns published in the newspapers in Jim Wells county as the total vote cast in Precinct 13 in both the U. S. senatorial race and in the only other race on the ticket was 202 votes fewer than the vote announced a week later.

"We have evidence to show that these 202 illegal votes were added after the polls had closed," Stevenson said in a prepared statement.

Refused Photostatic Copy

"When this evidence was presented to me I made a visit to the city of Alice Friday for the purpose of examining the voters list, tally sheets and election returns.

"The person having custody of the poll list, tally sheets, and election returns showed them to me in the presence of several witnesses but refused to allow me to copy the names of any of the additional 202 voters and refused to permit me to have a photostatic copy of all the names on the poll list and the tally sheet and the returns.

"I advised him that I was being deprived of my rights under federal law and of the consequences thereof."

Stevenson noted that his opponent has mentioned several times that "certain of these bloc voting counties (have) cast their votes for me (Stevenson) in former elections."

Vote Change Charged

Continued Stevenson: "My opponent denies that he bought any votes. A statement appearing in the press attributes the change to the facts that I as governor, refused to appoint a district attorney in Laredo who had been endorsed by the political machines in Duval and Webb counties.

"Whatever the reason, it is apparent to every citizen of Texas that I could not be controlled by the machine and it was further in evidence that whenever the machine votes have been cast for a candidate for governor they usually vote against him the next election.

"This is the first time, however, that the returns have been amended several days after the polls had closed, to the point of trying to control the election of a state official."

"Illegal" Ballots Hit

Earlier, Stevenson said his representatives would be prepared "to prove and will offer the necessary testimony in open court that frauludent practices were committed in voting precinct 13 in the runoff primary. We will show the way and manner in which 200 names were added to the voting list in that voting box long after the polls were closed."

"If the plaintiff's lawyers will be there and meet the issue forthrightly in open court without attempting to delay or dodge the issue, we will settle once and for all and quickly the question of fraud being committed in the election returns from Jim Wells county and to what extent," he added.

With reference to his charge of illegal ballots in three counties, Johnson said: "The statute plainly provides what shall be on the ballot, and in absolute defiance of the statute and the directions of the state Democratic executive committee, the local election committees of these counties framed a ballot designated to invite non-Democrats into the primary. A vast majority of these non-Democrats opposed Lyndon Johnson."

"Special Interests" Scored

He apparently referred to the placing of referendum on the ballot to let voters express their choice between Democratic nominees Truman and Barkley and States Rights Democratic nominees Thurmond and Wright.

"Knowing, however, that questions of this sort can be raised only in an election contest in a court of competent jurisdiction, I have observed the law, and have asked my friends to see to it only that the law is observed," Johnson added.

"This unfair attempt illegally to count me out is being fostered by certain special interests and their lobbyists who are directing this effort, to deprive me of the office to which the voters had nominated me, and if they persist in their propaganda campaign, I will expose the companies and the men by name.

"If the losing candidate has any evidence to support his charges against the officially canvassed returns, he is entitled to his day in court. At that time, I will present my evidence."

In Fort Worth, state Democratic chairman Robert W. Calvert commenting on Johnson's reference to Harris, Harrison and Brazoria counties, said:

"Just because a county executive committee puts something illegal on the ballot we could not let that disfranchise a lot of voters."

TABULATION OF VOTES TO BE MADE IN OPEN AT MEETING

FORT WORTH, Sept. 11 (AP) — Tabulation of votes from the hot U. S. Senate race will be made in an open meeting, State Democratic chairman Robert W. Calvert said tonight.

There will be two seven-member subcommittees of the State Executive committee named to tabulate votes Monday. One will be devoted exclusively to the senatorial count. The other will handle the district races.

Calvert said the state executive committee would meet promptly at 10 a.m. Monday. The subcommittees will be named, and the full committee will recess until 2 p.m. The sub-groups will go immediately to work after they are named.

Presidents Warned

another committee source said "grave developments in the atomic espionage case may force a postponement of the public hearings set for next Wednesday.

Vail referred to President Truman's repeated charge that the House spy inquiry was a "red herring," and said:

"It would appear from facts obtained during the executive hearings of the past week that the President was either unaware of the true wartime espionage situation or is desperately endeavoring to shield his administration through such a generalization from justified public censure."

He cited Mr. Truman's news conference statement that wartime spies were not Communists because Russia was America's ally.

Warned FDR, Truman

Vail said the atomic officer was so "deeply concerned" over Soviet espionage that he made a "personal report" to both the late President Roosevelt and later to President Truman. The congressman added:

"According to the statement made under oath during the hearings of the past week by a high-ranking Army officer who was closely associated with the development of the atomic bomb, Japanese espionage was either non-existent or unworthy of mention during the wartime period, while German espionage was of negligible and relatively unimportant proportions.

"He was, however, so very deeply concerned over the intense activity of Russian espionage agents in their efforts to penetrate atomic research safeguards, both before and during his association with the project, that he made a personal report of the nature of their activities first to President Roosevelt and subsequently to President Truman.

Situation Grave

"This statement is a direct contradiction of Truman's contention that Communists were not involved in wartime espionage."

The committee's closed-door hearings recessed over the weekend but will resume Monday. Vail said the group, headed by Rep. Thomas (R-NJ), wants to "develop further certain leads that have come through the hearings."

This, it was said, may necessitate a postponement of the scheduled Sept. 15 public hearings.

One committee member said that testimony so far on the Communist atomic espionage case had developed a situation "which can be described as 'grave'."

Groves himself hinted that security on the atom bomb project had not been perfect. He pointed out that the Manhattan district had 600,000 employes and said that "anyone who thinks you can get 600,000 perfect people just isn't intelligent."

handling Army cargoes piled up in Pacific ports. The union had agreed to work Army shipments on a pre-strike basis.

Employers' Demand Rejected

Secretary of the Army Royall Monday referred a union-Army agreement Friday to West coast firms to resume work on Army cargoes on the same conditions existing before the strike.

The employers said they would not deal with Bridges' union until union leaders sign non-Communist afidavits in compliance with the Taft-Hartley act.

Earlier, Bridges announced his union had rejected by secret ballot employers demands for the signing of non-Communist affidavits. However, he proposed that negotiations be resumed on union wage demands

No signs of early settlement appeared as the CIO oil refinery workers strike against six major California producers went into its second week.

In Detroit, the Briggs Manufacturing company appealed to its 25,000 idle production workers to return to work Monday.

Berlin Conference

quarrel over the German capital.

In some Washington quarters, there was talk of a possible proposal to Stalin that the foreign ministers of Russia, France, Britain and the United States get together on the Berlin issue. This would mark a change in U. S. tactics as contrasted with the idea of direct talks with Stalin and foreign Minister Molotov.

Should a meeting with Stalin produce results, or should the foreign ministers take over after such a meeting, any reference of the Berlin matter to the UN would be delayed, said the officials who discussed such tactics. It likewise would delay the issuance of any white paper.

The presence of Vandenberg, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee and a leading adviser on foreign affairs to Governor Thomas E. Dewey, added to the gravity of the State department conference. It also gave the talks a bipartisan status. Whether he was consulted in advance on the next move or was informed of a decision already made by President Truman and Marshall was left unanswered.

Vandenberg Confers

Vandenberg came publicly unannounced to the capital from New York where last night he put potential aggressor nations on notice that America is united against them regardless of the political partisanship of the presidential campaign.

He talked for more than two hours today with Marshall, Undersecretary Robert A. Lovett and Charles E. Bohlen, State department counselor. Vandenberg himself declined all comment to reporters but responsible officials said the Berlin crisis was the main topic.

The British ambassador talked first with Gohlen, Marshall's principal adviser on relations with Russia. Later he returned to the State department for a brief meeting with Marshall. He made no secret of the principal subject matter of his talks.

Envoys Confer In Moscow

Russia is solely responsible for the breakdown of the week-long negotiations among the military governors, at Berlin, in the view of American diplomatic authorities. Marshall himself has said the Communist-led disorders during the talks were inspired from outside of Germany as well as within the country.

The dispute over the blockade was referred to the military governors in Berlin to work out details, after the western envays had feached a general agreement with Stalin and Molotov. The failure of the military governors to settle their differences over detail had the effect of returning the dispute to Moscow.

In Moscow, dispatches said, Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith was awakened at 3:00 a. m. by Minister Counselor Foy Kohler to answer messages from Washington.

Smith and the special British envoy, Frank Roberts, and French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau were reported to be exchanging urgent messages with their respective capitals on the next move. Indications were that the situation in Moscow would not change materially over the weekend unless new developments took place.

Monkey Lassoed

a flash, Jo-Jo reached up and removed it.

"He'd get rid of the rope faster than I could throw it," (Stephens said, "then get mad and screech and chatter at us."

Finally Jo-Jo wasn't fast enough, and was yanked out of the rafters. The end of the rope was fastened into his collar and the monkey, apparently convinced his jag was up, hopped contentedly to Stephens' shoulder, curled his tail around the officer's neck. He changed position only to jump to Clark's shoulder.

Owner Is Located

At the police station a call soon came in. The monkey belonged to Mr. and Mrs. Glen Teal of four miles south of Smyer. Jo-Jo had broken or unsnapped the chain which bound him to a tree, soon after his owners had gone Friday afternoon to the 1714 Twenty-eighth residence of Teal's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Teal.

You can guess at the rest of it —a country monkey on the loose in the big town. Jo-Jo headed for the nearest tall timber. He was still in it when the police got there.

At the police station he grimmaced for the photographers. But when Major, the police tomcat that has had tree run of the station since removed half-starved at the age of one month from the pocket of a drunk, walked stiff-legged over to examine the newcomer, the tom got batted down. He lost interest and retired to sleep in a file basket.

The Teals said Jo-Jo, 3, is the surviving member of two monkeys they ordered to keep in a cage on their farm.

Others in the big field of brunette finalists included Miss Atlanta, Jerry Long, 18; Miss Chicago, Lois Nettleton, 21; Miss Detroit, Doris Johnson, 22, and Miss Florida, Rosemary Carpenter, 18, of Miami Beach.

Contract To Finish Road Work To Be Let

The contract for completion of Lubbock's traffic dispersal system will be let by the state highway department Sept. 28, according to an Associated Press report ffrom Austin Saturday night.

The local project, according to The Associated Press, calls for 3.3 miles of grading, structures, flexible base, curb, gutter, and hot mix asphaltic concrete pavement from Broadway and Ave. A to intersection of U. S. Highway 87 north of Lubbock.

S. C. McCarty, district engineer of the state highway department here, who verified the wire report, said the project will complete the paving of the traffic dispersal highway from north of Lubbock near the Country club to the traffic circle south of town.

Dixiecrats Accused

vention in Marshall. He said McNamee and his group bolted the county convention without cause and that the second convention had no legal status.

McNamee told the committee that he and some others were unable to locate the precinct three convention and they proceeded with their own session "unaware that any other precinct convention was being held". He contended this was the only legal precinct session, and that it pledged support to the national party nominees. The rival precinct session, he said, was dominated by States' Rights Democrats.

Statement Repeated

Coy Turlington, chairman of the county convention from which McNamee walked out, said that statements made in a resolution passed af the convention merely reiterated basic Democratic principles, that he was not a bolter and that the regular Democratic organization in Harrison county included such long-standing Democratic stalwarts as Myron G. Blalock, recently-retired national committeeman. He emphasized that the resolution objected to by McNamee called for settling the states' rights issue within the party.

To this McNamee replied: "They wanted to settle it within the party by turning the machinery of the party over to a rival political organization—the States' Rights Democrats."

The talk about Communistic tactics came at the hearings on the Harris county dispute.

Charges Are Exchanged

W. A. Combs, Houston attorney said the States' Righters were using such tactics to infiltrate and destroy the Democratic party from within. O. A. McCracken, jr., representing the anti-Truman delegation headed by R. W. Milner, jr., called this accusation "window dressing" and referred to the delegation led by Sam D. W. Low as "boltingcrats."

Low said that pro-Truman or loyalist Democrats were met by locked doors in many precinct conventions. "In some cases, they (the States Righters) grabbed the official papers and ran around the corner", Low charged.

McCracken's counter charge was the contesting group was just an outvoted minority claiming the rights of the majority.

"Is it democratic for those in the minority to come here and contest the majority?" he said. (The loyalists were outvoted 1,185 to 509 in the Harris county convention.)

"What's this country coming to when a man has the audacity to compare honest, rugged Texans with Communists," McCracken continued.

Combs contended that most of the Milner delegation had demonstrated publicly by their open advocacy of Governor Thurmond that they are not loyal to the Democratic party.

stration for tomorrow in their sector, and will run special trains into Berlin loaded with Communists from surrounding areas.

Observers said this special transportation effort belies Soviet claims that there are enough Communists in Berlin to match the western sector demonstration which led to the tearing down of the Red flag and stoning the Soviet war memorial.

Precautions Taken

Lt. Col. E. R. Kelly, the provost marshal's executive officer, revealed that U. S. military police and German police are taking unusual precautions against possible disorders tomorrow.

The anti-Communists this week marched on the Allied Control council building to protest alleged Soviet atrocities and to appeal for protection from the "Communist terror of the hammer and sickle."

Asked if he expected a Communist march on the Allied Control council building, which is in the American sector, Col. Kelly said:

"They may attempt it, but I can assure you they'll never reach there."

The British-licensed Telegraf said 5,000 members of the Communist-indoctrinated army of former German war prisoners are scheduled to return to Germany next Monday to take over "key positions" in the Soviet zone police organization.

Air Lift Roars On

L. S. airmen, undisturbed by Soviet threats to increase plane maneuvers in the air corridors, today poured 3,423 tons of food and coal into Berlin in 447 flights.

With RAF aid in yesterday's record 24-hour haul the Allies landed approximately 5,000 tons of food in 714 flights.

Simultaneously with Tulpanov's threat of Soviet force and his reference to the Red Army, the Russian press in Berlin accused German city assembly officials of "open warmongering."

DR. HARVEY IMPROVED

Dr. Marshall Harvey of 2311 Thirty-first, who has been a patient in West Texas hospital several days, was reported as improved in condition and no longer in serious condition Saturday.

Bennett of Lamesa, assisted by W. E. Renfrow, a Texas ranger of Lubbock, studied clues in connection with a burglary of Clark's Rexall Drug store in Lamesa. Late Friday or early Saturday.

Mrs. Pearl Clark told officials the loss probably would exceed $1,000.

Jewelry Is Taken

She said from $9 to $10 in money was taken; two men's wrist watches valued at $59.95 and $49.50; three wedding ring sets valued at from $80 to $150 each; and 24 rings with Masonic emblems, some of which had stones mounted.

City Policeman Shank Costin discovered the burglary about 2 a. m. Saturday. He said entry to the store was made through a barred window in the rear, the bars were pried loose and the glass shattered with a chunk of concrete.

Lonnie Houston of 2206 East Ave. F reported to city police Saturday afternoon that someone came through the window of his room at the King hotel and took a green sports jacket and $35 in cash sometime Saturday morning.

Two men were ticketed for failure to give right of way in two minor accidents. No one was hurt in either of the mishaps.

Horse Reported Stolen

Ben Lyles, 2103 East Ave. E, reported the theft of a bay horse with a white spot on its forehead. Police were told the horse was stolen from its lot at 1826 Ave. A. He valued the animal at $100.

George Stewart, who gave his address as 1303 Ave. R, reported to police that a billfold containing $250 had been stolen from him. He gave police the name of a possible suspect.

An employee at Camp Dixie Service station, 2302 Ave. H., reported to police that a man driving a Ford automobile attempted to pass a counterfeit bill.

In minor incidents late Saturday night a negro was jailed for reckless driving after a chase through the negro residential district; a Lubbock man was ticketed for negligent collision after a minor accident; in another mishap a man was ticketed for negligent collision and failure to have a valid operators license on his person.

Twelve persons had been arrested by law enforcement officers Saturday afternoon and night for minor offenses; nine for drunkeness, two for fighting, one for vagrancy, one for reckless driving, and one for disturbance.

Southern Demos Gain Strength

ATLANTA, Sept. 11 (AP)—States' Rights Democrats today jubilantly claimed 45 electoral votes from six states and, in addition, had a place on the general election ballot of four others.

Their campaign of opposition to President Truman's civil rights program also was bolstered during the week by Herman Talmadge's "white supremacy" victory for the governorship of Georgia.

In the face of the new party's growing strength, Truman gave up his plans for a southern campaign tour and said he would appear only at strategic spots, for one-night stands.

Win Court Action

The States' Rights ticket of J. Strom Thurmond and Fielding L. Wright won 10 more electoral votes in Louisiana when Democrats there removed Truman's name from the presidential ballot.

The action, in effect, gives the state's 10 unpledged electors to Thurmond, now governor of South Carolina. However, court action in behalf of Truman is expected.

Already pledged to Thurmond for president were 11 electors from Alabama, nine from Mississippi, eight from South Carolina, four out of eight from Florida and three out of 12 from Tennessee.

A court action in North Carolina finally was won by the States' Rights party. Originally denied a place on the November ballot ov the board of elections, the party appealed to the state supreme court.

Georgie Picture Confused

The court rejected the board's position that the States' Righters, had not complied with laws governing the creation of new parties and awarded them equal biling with the regular Democrats.

Thurmond and his running mate, the governor of Mississippi, will appear also on the ballots of Virginia, Kentucky and Texas. Arkansas States' Righters have until Oct. 13 to name electors.

In Georgia the picture is confused.

Minority Demos Organize

His supporters were busy, as well, in the border state of Maryland where they started a petition to get his name on the ballot. Only 2,000 names are needed but ordinarily they must be filed with the secretary of state in the spring before the general election.

Inasmuch as the secretary of state is expected to turn down the petition, a court case may follow or the States' Righters may conduct an intensive write-in campaign.

A group of "minority" Democrats in South Carolina, mearwhile, came out for President Truman. The states electors are pledged to Thurmond but the minority members of the party's executive committee want to name rival electors pledged to Truman.

Master Plumbers

plumber, and the journeyman workman.

The group approved a campaign for revision of the plumbing license law in Texas, after Butcher explained in open meeting what he called seven weaknesses of the law.

Butcher said among other things that the licensing law is discriminatory; that it allows many incompetents to obtain licenses since qualifications for examinations are not specified; that the provision exempting communities under 5,000 population from adherence to the code is unfair.

Butcher also would tighten up procedure under which licenses can be revoked; he would increase license fees in an effort to keep out some of the most unstable; and would rewrite and clarify that part of the code pertaining to licenses and general supervision.

Attend Barbecue

Sam Lane, editor of the association's official publication, said the public relations program, admittedly badly needed, would be drawn on a long range basis in an effort to educate members of the association as well as the public concerning the benefits of adequate regulations, and to convince the public that contracting plumbers are employers and are entitled to retail business privileges the same as any other type of business.

Business sessions yesterday were preceded by a barbecue at Mackenzie Park Friday night. Another part of the entertainment program was a tour of the city just before the luncheon yesterday. Several West Texas distributors joined in sponsoring the luncheon for the men's organization at Hotel Lubbock, while the Western Windmil. Company here was host at a luncheon for the ladies at the Hilton.

The meeting was the first of two attended by contracting plumbers from over the state between annual conventions, in an effort to keep informed on constantly changing conditions in the industry.

Lane lauded efforts of the local association group, of which O. B. Ray is president, fo rthe "wonderful preparations and reception" accorded the visitors.

A dinner dance, with floor show by the Lubbock barbershoppers, at the Hilton Hotel last night, climaxed the meeting.

Big Four To Discuss Fate Of Italy's Former Colonies

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—The big four powers will discuss the fate of Italy's pre-war colonies in Paris Monday although Russia insists it won't be a top-level review.

The Russians took that position because Secretary of State George C. Marshall will not attend. They said that would make it something less than a council of foreign ministers.

The announcement on Douglas almost coincided with a Moscow broadcast heard in London, which said the U. S. and Britain have made a big four foreign ministers meeting impossible by refusing to send their top men.

Plainview Youth Injured In Fall From Pickup Truck

PLAINVIEW, Sept. 11. (Special) —Neil Dudley, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Dudley of Plainview, was injured about 5 p. m. today when he fell from the back of a pickup truck on a farm road south of Lockney.

The youth was taken to Floyd County Co-operative hospital at Lockney for treatment. He suffered face injuries, an injury of the right hand, and possibly a broken left shoulder.

Hospital authorities said his condition was fair, although he was still in a state of shock late tonight.

The youth, it was reported, was riding with friends in the back of the truck, and was holding two bicycles to prevent them from falling out. It was thought that he fell out when the truck swerved to avoid a bump in the unpaved road, or when it hit a bump.

West Texas Schools Are Warned To Provide For Added Students

Hopes that additional West Texas schools will take steps to provide for increased enrollment resulting from the accelerated birth rate since 1941 was expressed Saturday by Dr. Doyle D. Jackson, president of the West Texas Teachers association.

Figures he has received from the Texas State Teachers association show that the increase in the birth rate in the last few years will increase enrollment in Texas schools approximately 82,000 pupils four years from now and 152,000 in 1957.

Must Provide Facilities

"Texas must adequately prepare for 150,000 more children in its schools in the next decade or suffer a general decline in its educational standards," Dr. Jackson stated.

He said that "Some West Texas towns, including Lubbock, have already recognized the impending situation and it is hoped that others will take steps to meet the ever-increasing demands before it is too late to give the war crop of babies their rightful educational heritage.

"The vastly accelerated birth rate throughout the United States since 1941 has cheered business men, but it is causing great concern among educators. This war crop of babies is now coming into the primary level in overwhelming numbers and it is impossible to secure a sufficient number of adequately prepared primary teachers to meet this demand."

Texas Also Affected

Texas, he said, is no excepiton, with enrollment increasing 7,000 in Texas schools last year and indications that an additional 8,000 pupils will enter the primary level this fall.

"That is just the beginning," he added. "Enrollment will snowball from now on The situation will become even more acute by 1953.

The expected increases do not seem so tremendous until it is realized that "we shall need 2,719 additional teachers by 1952 and 5,066 more classroom instructors by 1957," he said.

Stating that leaders in school districts and state government should take note, he said the situation "calls for planning along practical lines in order that adequate provisions be made for education of these children."

Dr. Jackson is professor of education and psychology and director of the teacher placement service at Texas Tech. He was elected president of the West Texas Teachers association last spring.

Wildcat May Be Forerunner Of New Caliornia Oil Field

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 11. (U.P.)—A wildcat oil well discovered by Barnsdall Oil company in the Guijarral hill on the western side of the San Joaquin valley may possibly be the forerunner of a new California oil field the company announced today.

The "Fred Smith No. 1" on a satisfactory test, indicated a well of from 1,000 to 5,000 barrels daily potential, according to Frank Fuller of Barnsdall's land department.

The company has 1,280 acres under lease—1,060 acres in seven contiguous leases which it hopes may contain one-half to three-fifths of the play.

Standard Oil of California, Honolulu Oil corp., Seaboard Oil co., and the Robert Lytle interests all have holdings in the field.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Sept. 11. (AP)—The cotton market was firm today with trading quiet. A carryover of Friday's textile mill buying and some commission house replacement demand encountered only limited hedge selling.

Dealers reported that a considerable portion of the 1948 cotton crop was moving into government loans and as a result selling from the south was held to a minimum.

Expectation of increased buying against future export sales and predictions for a pickup in textile business contributed to the upward movement.

Futures closed unchanged to 60 cents a bale higher than the previous close.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Sept. 11. (AP)—The shorts in September corn didn't get any encouragement today out of the Agriculture department's forecast for a record-breaking new corn crop. Instead, the shorts found themselves again buying on a rising market. September spurted a couple of cents.

Action of September did not have much influence on the new crop months. They sold at slightly lower levels most of the day.

Wheat did quite well, particularly the July, 1949 delivered. Reports circulated of a small pick-up in domestic flour business. Oats were slightly easier much of the session, largely on the agriculture department's crop estimate, which raised output by 22,963,000 bushels.

Wheat closed 3/8-8 1/4 higher, September $2.23; corn was 3/8 lower to 1/4 higher, September $1.72 1/4-3/4, oats were 3/8 lower to 1/8 higher, September 72.

RED RAIDER BOOTER—Zac Henderson of Quanah is expected to do a lot of the Texas Tech punting this fall and the slippery halfback seems to be ready. Zac suffered from malaria fever last year and never hit his peak, but this summer he took treatments and is in top condition. His running is expected to help the Raiders and his educated toe is counted on to get off those long, high spirals. Staff phoo by C. W. Ratliff).

Raider Squad Sees Action

Tech, ACC Gridders In Scrimmage Drill

Texas Tech's football squad was given its first baptism under gridiron fire yesterday afternoon in Jones Stadium and the results left a good deal to be desired, although Abilene Christian college wasn't the strongest that Tech will face this year.

But the ACC eleven will do plenty of damage in the Texas Conference, if what they showed yesterday is any indication. And the scrimmage against the Red Raiders did both squads a lot of good, giving the coaches a better line on their material.

The two squads, substituting freely, used up almost every player on the bench and the only group that looked formidable was Tech's first, or supposedly first, string. They scored twice and held ACC pretty much within midfield before Coach Dell Morgan took them off the field for the remainder of the afternoon.

Second String Plays

The second Raider eleven showed a good many errors, but managed to hold ACC most of the time, although the visitors drove down the field while they held the ball. Against the third and fourth string, the Wildcats punched over two scores, equalling the number Tech's reserves made.

Most serious fault seen was the weakness of Tech's reserve ends, ACC making consistent yardage on reverses and end sweeps against the scrubs. But it is also this group that will have to see action to give the starters a breathing spell and the outlook wasn't cheerful.

ACC also managed some hefty yardage through the center of the line against the reserves, while the deception on a few plays completely fooled the Raiders, opening holes through which the backs plowed for good distance. Tech's pass defense was alert and few enemy aerials were completed.

Backs Ahead Of Line

The Tech backs, as indicated in practice most of the past ten days, are way ahead of the linemen. Line blocking generally was ragged and assignments were missed too often, but the backs ran pretty well. However, even the backs failed, at times, to show their advanced stage over the linemen, with failure to run being the biggest and most irking failure.

Several times Tech backs caught short passes and did a Whirling Dervish act, rather than straightening out and setting sail for the goal line. And there often was a tendency to start slowly on line plunges, with the result that quick-opening holes were plugged by the time the backs reached them.

There was a good deal of head shaking by the coaches, who realize that West Texas will have had one game under its belt and will be aiming for Tech in an all out effort to win

The following players saw action yesterday, practically in the order named: Ends, Luke Thompson, J. L. Gulley, Bill Kelley, Frank Ottmers, Walter Edrington, Elbert Johnson, Dingy Davis, Joe Buck; tackles, John Andrews, Marshall Gettys, Don Williams, Doug McSwane, Bob Broyles, John Tom Baker; guards, Don Orr, Milburn Haydon, Bobby Garner, Hayden Haby, T. Parnell Hurls Sox To Double Win Over A's

BOSTON, Sept. 11 (AP) — Boston's Red Sox moved three games ahead of the rest of the field in the American League flag chase tonight by shading the Philadelphia Athletics 2-1 behind the slick pitching of Lefty Mel Parnell.

The Sox had defeated the A's 9-1 in the daylight half of this afternoon-night program.

Parnell, who won his 12th game of the season, his ninth at night and sixth in succession, got into a bad hole in the last of the ninth when the bases became loaded on two walks (one intentional), a hit and a sacrifice.

But he brought a great shout from 34,002 fans when he grabbed Ferris Fain's high bouncer and pegged home to start a game-ending double play.

Texas To Meet LSU Squad Saturday

SWC Opens '48 Slate

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
AP Sports Editor

A Southwest Conference football campaign heavy with intersectional games and expected to be the best-balanced in history in the championship race, begins to move this week.

Four conference teams have their first games Saturday, three of them facing intersectional foes. The other — Arkansas — clashes with Abilene Christian college of the Texas Conference.

Texas A. and M., making its start under Harry Stiteler, the ex-Aggie brought home to put the Cadets back on the glory road, journeys to Philadelphia to battle veteran and awesome Villanova.

Texas opens its rebuilt stadium, now seating 66,000, in a tussle with Louisiana State.

Texas Christian, one of the top-rated teams of the Southwest, engages Kansas at Lawrence, Kans.

Most Open Next Week

The other three members of the Conference—Southern Methodist, Baylor and Rice—do not swing into action until next week. Defending champion Southern Methodist plays Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh, Baylor gets Tulsa and Waco and Rice encounters Sam Houston State at Houston Sept. 25.

Texas A. and M. is hoping for a good beginning and has an excellent chance of beating Villanova despite its big bulge of veteran material. The Aggies figure this would be a fine way to make the start back upward. The A. and M.-Villanova game will be the only one in the east Saturday and the following week Villanova meets Army, one of the east's top-rated elevens. Victory by the Aggies would be a feather in the Southwest's camp in the event Villanova were to lick Army.

Texas, rated in most quarters as the favorite to win the conference championship, will meet a L.S.U. team that doesn't fall in the usual class of Tiger teams. Louisiana state this year isn't expected to be very strong and Texas will be highly favored.

Westerners Meet San Angelo In Non Title Tussle Friday

Lubbock Schoolboys Face Tough Battle Against Heavy Bobcats

Lubbock High's surging Westerners, who surprised Texas schoolboy grid fans by battling Odessa's highly-rated Broncos to a 7-7 tie last week, will tangle with the San Angelo Bobcats of District 3-AA in their second non-conference tilt of the season Friday night at Jones stadium.

The Westerners moved into the state spotlight with their deadlock with the potent Broncos, but the Lubbock schoolboys are slated for a rough tussle against the heavy Bobcats The San Angeloans boast a powerful forward wall headed by several 200-pound veterans, backed by a speedy secondary. The Bobcats, like the Westerners, are hampered by inexperience, but should show steady improvement with each game.

Denison Beats Bobcats

Denison's explosive Yellowjackets, rated as one of the strongest elevens in the North Texas area, rolled over the Bobcats for a 25-6 triumph last weekend. But reports from San Angelo indicate that the 'Jackets piled up their points on aerials and wide plays, and found the going through the Bobcat forward wall very rough. The San Angeloans just missed scoring touchdowns several times, as the inexperienced quarterback on the Bobcat "T" failed to hit his receivers after they were in the clear.

Lubbock Head Coach C. R. (Pat) Pattison reported last night that the Westerner gridders had escaped any serious injuries in the tilt with Odessa, although Halfback Bobby Brown and Fullbock Malcolm Young received minor bruises. Charley Williams, speedy blocking back absorbed a heavy battering at a linebacker slot, but is expected to be in uniform Monday.

Heavy Drills Scheduled

A heavy drill schedule is on tap at the Chapman field practice gridiron this week, as the Westerners prepare for the Bobcat tussle. Practice sessions, slated every afternoon, will be closed to fans and observers No one will be permitted on the field or in the stands.

The present Westerner-Bobcat non-title series opened in 1942 and has continued unbroken through six consecutive years. The Lubbock representatives have won three of the tilts — In 1942, '44 and '46 — and have tied in two games. The Bobcats tallied their lone victory in 1943, when the San Angeloans swept to a state championship All of the encounters except the 1943 clash have been extremely close, however, with scores of 7-6 and 13-13 being chalked up in the last four games. Lubbock beat the Bobcats 7-6 in 1944, tied 13-13 in 1945, took another 7-6 win in 1946 and repeated the 13-13 tie last fall.

Tickets for the Westerner-San Angelo tilt will be on sale all this week at the Senior High school athletic office, Business Manager E. J. Lowrey has announced. A crowd of more than 10,000 persons is expected for the tussle, as a result of the long rivalry of the two schools, but the attendance will probably not hit the 14,000 mark set at the opening tussle.

Four other District 1-AA elevens will swing into full-scale grid warfare this week. Amarillo's Golden Sandies, favorites in the district title race, play host to the Childress Bobcats of District 2-AA in a feature setto. Plainview's Bulldogs, losers to strong Poly of Fort Worth last week, tackle the rebounding Lamesa Tornadoes of 3-AA on their own gridiron.

Two other 1-AA teams move outside the district for tough competition. Borger's Bulldogs journey to Oklahoma City to battle the potent Capitol Hill squad, and Pampa's surprising Harvesters tangle with Graham at Graham.

The Brownfield Cubs, losers to Pecos of 5-A in their opening encounter, have an open date.

Four District 3-A Grid Teams Win

District 3-A high schools broke even in their opening engagements Friday night, four teams turning in victories and four elevens taking it on the chin.

All games last Friday were non-conference affairs, with conference tussles not scheduled for another week or two.

Lockney's Longhorns set the pace in the district, turning in an impressive 20-6 victory over Tulia. The Steers showed power to burn and Coach Curtis Kelley had little trouble taking his first 1948 victory. The Lockney eleven definitely will cause trouble this year, if its first game is any indication.

In other games, Crosbyton's Chiefs, co-holders of the district title, sent their season on its way with a 9-0 victory over Hale Center, bearing out reports that the Chiefs would be tough this year. Paducah edged Chillicothe 13-12 on the margin of an extra-point and Abernathy had its hands full beating Class B New Deal 6-0 on an intercepted pass.

Floydada's Whirlwinds held Slaton's strong Tiger squad pretty well before going down 21-12 in an exciting game. And Floydada will bear watching this season.

All three of the other schools in the district absorbed severe beatings. Turkey trounced Matador 19-0, Haskell took Spur into camp 26-6 and Post rolled all over Ralls' Jackrabbits 40-6.

But none of the coaches is ready to call the season off just because of one week end. They will try to bounce back this week end and for some the task should not be too difficult.

Lockney takes on Kress at Lockney; Crosbyton is asking for trouble in meeting Tahoka's Bulldogs at Tahoka; Paducah goes to Crowell to play a team they beat 19-12 last year; Abernathy plays host to a Petersburg eleven that is tricky; Floydada goes to Phillips; Matador visits Estelline; Spur journeys to Post; and Ralls has an open date.

BLACK HUBBERS TO PLAY

Lubbock's Black Hubbers will tangle with the Hobbs, N. M., Tigers at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Memorial park in Hobbs, Black Hubber officials have announced.

RALLS TO INVADE LEVELLAND

Non-Conference Tilts Feature Weekend Schedule For 4-A, 5-A

South Plains Class A and B grid teams, still dazed by a series of surprising upsets during the initial games of the 1948 season, move into the third week of competition this weekend with a full slate of non-conference — and a few conference — tilts.

Sundown, with two consecutive triumphs over non-title foes, journeys to Hale Center Friday night for a clash with the Owls of loop 3-B. The Roughnecks have chalked up wins over Denver City of 5-A and Tahoka of 4-A (south half), and will be heavy favorites to defeat the Hale Center gridders.

Inter-District Tussle

Levelland, another north half 4-A contender, will play host to the Ralls Jackrabbits of District 3-A in an inter-district setto. The Lobos, defending regional champions, were handed a one-touchdown defeat by the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes of 3-AA last week, but Coach Truett Rattan's crew will be expected to enter the win column against the Ralls eleven.

Sudan's Hornets of 4-A invade Dimmitt, District 3-B member, in another inter-class tussle. The Sudan boys have won a single game, but lost last week's battle with Andrews. One north half 4-A conference game will be unreeled, with Littlefield's Wildcats tangling with Morton at Morton.

All Due Action

All five members of the south half 4-A loop will see action. Seagraves' youthful Eagles will play host to the Lubbock Cowhands, while Tahoka tangles with Crosbyton of 3-A on the Bulldogs' home turf. Slaton, surprise winner over Floydada last week, meets New Deal of 4-B at Slaton. In other games Spur goes to Post and Meadow journeys to O'Donnell.

Seminole's powerful Indians, pace-setters in District 5-A, have an open date Friday, but two conference tilts are carded on a six-game loop slate. Pecos, strong eleven moves to Andrews for a loop tussle, while Wink goes to Denver City to battle the Mustangs.

Non-conference 5-A tilts send Rotan to Monahans, Fort Stockton to Sonora, Iraan to McCamey and Kermit to Austin of El Paso. The Kermit-Austin clash will be a Saturday game.

Bradshaw, Trout To Meet In Cup Finals

Veteran Chick Trout, sr., and Kay Bradshaw will meet in the 18-hole final match of the annual Directors' Cup golf tournament this afternoon at Lubbock Country club, Pro Herb Schroeder reported last night.

The finalists, two of Lubbock's top strokers, will tee off at approximately 1:30 this afternoon on the championship round. No gallery fee will be charged and the public is invited to follow the match.

Schroeder also warned that all first round matches in the President's Cup tourney must be completed today. Second round settos will get underway Monday and continue through Sept. 19

Between . . . The Lines

— By JOE KELLY —

The Hubber bus, damaged by fire once this year, nearly was wrecked on the trip to Borger Sunday through the negligence of a truck driver. To hear Rooster Mills tell the story, the Hubbers were lucky to escape with a stove in front end Roland Miller was leaning on the door 'rod, looking ahead, when Mills overtook the truck, which had a long length of steel rod extending behind it. Manager Jackie Sullivan was sitting in his usual seat on the right side of the bus. The Hubber vehicle, to avoid hitting an on coming car, was braked hard and the steel rod barely missed going through the front windshield.

After viewing the bus in Amarillo, we were convinced that it was a narrow escape. The steel rod scraped the side of the bus and did little damage, but running into the rear of the truck damaged the bus badly, cracking the shatterproof glass, ripping some of the metal front and throwing the right front side of the bus out of line. The incident unnerved two or three of the players, at least, and may have been one of the reasons Chris Haskins didn't have all his stuff against Borger in that first game.

Haskins also was struck in the chest by a bouncing line drive early in the game and it was painful, so painful that he sports a black and blue chest as a result. That didn't help his hurling any. But the two games in Borger turned out to be more fun than the final night in Lubbock. The Hubbers played for keeps in both games, but when the score got ridiculous in the second tilt, both teams cut up. One instance came in one of those seven-run Hubber innings. Don Moore came to bat again with two out and swore that he was going to either fan, or lift a fly to the outfield to end the frame. So he took an easy, lazy swing at the ball and boom the ball sailed high and handsome over the fence for another of his three home runs!

Then, when Leon Mitchell was pitching, Mills called to him to groove one so that he could get his second homer of the year. Mitchell, grinned, nodded his head and grooved his pitch. Mills swung for the fence, but only trickled a single through the infield. When Mitchell came up to bat, Mills told him to dig in, that he was going to give him a break. Mitchell set himself, dug his foot into the ground and swung. A little, easy hopper went down to Frank McAlexander and that was all for him. Mills said he didn't throw over a half dozen curves throughout the game, but Borger still only got five hits!

A little publicized fact concerns the 70th home run the Bob Crues hit at Abilene, but for which he didn't get credit. The same thing happened to Chick Fowler. Crues hit a long ball to the outfield and it bounced on one of those advertising signs atop the Abilene fence, bounding back into the playing area. Crues got a triple out of it, but the scoreboard man and two Blue Sox outfielders said that it hit the scoreboard. As such, it was a home run, but the umpire did not see it. Fowler did the same thing and was robbed of another four-master when the umpire failed to see the ball hit the sign.

Another fact not generally publicized is that Crues played the major portion of the final six weeks with a side that was encased in tape. The Amarillo outfielder strained his side badly and was in pain much of the time. At the same time, he broke Bill Serena's home run record and lost most of his incentive to bust the minor

Haskins Hurls Eight-Hit Victory; Moore Leads Hubs

By JOE KELLY

Home looked good to the Lubbock Hubbers, so they stole a page from Manager Buck Fausett's book, slamming four home runs out of the park and swamping the Amarillo Gold Sox 13-3 under a barrage of 14 hits before 3,615 highly delighted Lubbock fans.

Neither team got started in the first, but in the second the fun began and before the game was over, Chris Haskins had himself a well deserved eight-hit victory. Haskins only fanned one man and walked two, but he was chary with his hits.

Dick Gentzkow, who broke up Friday night's game with a grand slam homer in Amarillo, nicked Haskins for two circuit clouts last night. But the bases were empty in each case and the drives were swallowed up by the Hubber attack.

Every Hubber except Jackie Wilcox hit safely at least once and Don Moore, who drove two balls out of the park, led the parade with three hits in four trips. Moore's first clout sent the Hubbers out in front and his second merely cemented the damage. In addition to his blow, Chick Fowler had one with one man on base in the second and Virgil Richardson had one in the fifth with two men aboard.

GAME STARTS 3 P. M.

The Hubbers and Gold Sox will meet again this afternoon at Rosenthal Field, with the game scheduled to begin at 3 p. m. Roy Pannenman probably will hurl for Amarillo, with either Roland Miller or Bob Clodfelter going for Lubbock.

All Hit Except Wilcox

The Hubber infield performed with customary brilliance, three fast double plays helping Haskins on his way to victory And the game ended the same way the first two games in Amarillo had come to a close, with a double killing, this time by the Hubbers.

Gene Hixson in centerfield turned in the sparkling fielding gem of the game in the third inning, going far over into right centerfield to make a brilliant running catch of Earl Harriman's hit that looked certain to be good for extra bases. Richardson, Manager Jackie Sullivan and Frank McAlexander all started double plays and Fowler made a fine catch of Ted Clawitter's short fly in the seventh.

Gentzkow started the Gold Sox off with a lead in the second, when he hit a 3-2 pitch over the centerfield fence. That merely seemed to irritate the Hubbers, who stormed back with five runs. Richardson walked, but was thrown out on Jack Mayfield's fine recovery on a passed ball. Floyd Walker and McAlexander both strolled and Moore leaned into a nothing and one pitch, sending it over the centerfield fence. Haskins singled and Fowler hit the first pitch over the leftfield fence, making the score 5-1.

Amarillo came back in the fourth to score one run on a walk to Doug Lewis, a single by Paul Halter and another bingle by Gentzkow, before Fausett hit into a double play to end the inning.

Moore got that back with his second homer, again sending the ball over the centerfield fence on a nothing and one pitch.

In the fifth, Wilcox and Fowler grounded out before the trouble started. Hixson walked and went to third on the hit and run, when Sullivan slammed a drive to rightfield. Richardson promptly hit the first pitch into the clock on the Avalanche-Journal scoreboard.

Another counter scored in the sixth when, with two away, Hixson singled and went to second on an error, crossing the plate on Sullivan's drive through the box.

The final three runs were charity affairs in the eighth, when three Gold Sox errors allowed two tainted runs, although three solid singles didn't help the visitors' cause any.

OILERS RAP ALBUQUERQUE DUKES, 9-5, IN PLAYOFFS

PAMPA, Sept. 11 (AP) — The Pampa Oilers rapped four Albuquerque pitchers for 12 hits and a 9-5 victory tonight to take a two-game-to-one lead in their West Texas-New Mexico League series.

Jack Riley clouted a first-inning homer for Pampa, scoring Bob Bartholmew ahead of him. Bartholomew got five hits for fives times at bat.

Kilgore, Sept. 11 (AP)—Kilgore defeated Henderson, 4-2, here tonight to even their Lone Star league Shaughnessy playoff series at one game each.

Kilgore scored twice in the sixth on singles by Marshall Brown, Oscar Engel, Joe Kracher and Blabber Sanders. The Drillers pushed across their other two in the eighth on singles by Kracher and Sanders and Walks to Engle and A. B. Cross.

Sunbeams Score Win

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 11 (Special)—Willis James' home run smash in the sixth inning, with Bryan Clark on base, gave the Lubbock, Tex., Bluebonnet-Sunbeamers a narrow 2-1 victory over the Pahuska, Okla., nine in the first round of the National Softball Congress tournament here tonight.

The Oklahomans had gone ahead in the third frame on a single by Second-sacker Si Enyart and a double by Catcher Larry Hedley, but James' crucial circuit clout gave the Texans their margin of victory.

G. W. Warden hurled a steady four-hitter to notch the mound win for the Lubbock crew, but he was given shaky support by the Sunbeamers. The Texans made three errors during the seven-inning setto.

Paul Snyder gave up just three safeties in going the route for the Pahuska representatives, but the Lubbock nine bunched two of the hits in the sixth for the winning runs. Warden struck out 10, while Snyder whiffed two men.

Sunbeamers Advance

The victory boosted the Sunbeamers into the second round of the double-elimination tourney. The Texans are slated to meet the Boston, Mass., team at 7:45 o'clock Monday night at the Sooner softball stadium.

"Stringbean" Pope, who hurled for Odessa in the Texas Softball loop this summer, will handle the mound chores for Lubbock Monday night. He will replace ace Jackie Neel, who left the Sunbeamer squad yesterday. Neel will hurl for a Houston nine in the national tourney at Portland, Ore., later this week.

H-SU Material Is Inexperienced

ABILENE, Sept. 11. (Special)—Six sophomores and two inexperienced juniors are busy at work on the Hardin-Simmons university drill field, vying for the halfback positions on the Cowboy eleven. Although seven of these have the discouraging task of competing against Wilton (Hook) Davis, the nation's leading ground gainer of 1947, there appears to be plenty of competition. Brooks Allen, fleet footed runner from Port Neches, has started the season as first named candidate for the right halfback slot Davis and Allen are sophomores.

Four other sophomores—Nolan Harvey of Bermuda, Verne Stamper of Ysleta, Nolan (Chief) Tiger of Altus, Oklahoma, and George Leja of Holtville, California—and two juniors, Paul Petty of Clyde, and Bill Murphey of Abilene—complete the octet which Coach Warren B. Woodson has on deck. Under any circumstances it will be a young, comparatively inexperienced, and light weighing halfback, right or left.

Davis, of course, with his national record of 1173 yards in ten games plus 236 yardage in the San Diego Harbor Bowl game, will play a major role this year at left halfback, barring injuries.

Harvey is a diminutive 138 pounder who saw limited action in the ball carrying department last season. Harvey, formerly of California and now of Bermuda, can claim a 55 yard touchdown run against Arizona last year and is practically as fast as Davis.

Leja, although not eligible for competition last year, has been at H-SU for a year and is familiar with the T-formation used by Woodson. He has shown well in early drill, although a minor injury kept him on the sidelines a major part of the first month.

Moving up from the 1947 Cowboy "B" team to the 1948 varsity are three halfback aspirants — Paul Petty, Verne Stamper, and Bill Murphey. Stamper, Ysleta sophomore, sparked the reserves over their season in 1947.

Texas League Playoff Will Open Tuesday At Fort Worth

DALLAS, Sept. 11. (AP) — The Texas League play-off will open Tuesday with Houston at Tulsa and Fort Worth meeting either San Antonio or Shreveport at Fort Worth.

The league office today announced the schedule that will be followed.

Tulsa, second-place club, will entertain Houston Tuesday and Wednesday, then the clubs shift to Houston Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Dallas Announces Working Agreement With Gladewater

DALLAS, Sept. 11 (AP) — Dallas of the Texas League and Gladewater of the Lone Star League have made a working agreement, Dallas Business Manager Bobby Goff announced tonight.

At the same time, he said two rookie pitchers, Southpaw Fred Groth and Righthander Wally Stevens, have been released to Gladewater. He said the Lone Star League club will be supplied at least six more players.

Goff said the Rebels have bought two righthanded pitchers and a second baseman from the Saginaw, Mich., club of the Central League.

Robert Upton, 21, had been farmed by Saginaw to Clarksdale, Miss., where he won 21 games and lost five in the Cotton State League this year. Edward Arthur, 20, spent his first season in pro ball at Odessa, Texas, of the Longhorn League this year, winning 13 and losing seven. Louis Farotto, 24, is the third baseman. He batted .331 for Saginaw this season.

SPOTLIGHT on SPORTS

The Story of Baseball

Some say that a game called "baseball" was played in America and in England before 1839, but the popular tradition has it enshrined in the Hall of Fame and in a National Museum of Baseball to the credit of Abner Doubleday, of Cooperstown, N. Y. He "invented" the game in 1839, but its growth is associated with the close of the Civil War.

Soldiers returning hame from the war spread the game they had learned to play in camps. The whole country was playing baseball. The Cincinnati Red Stockings were the first all-professional team, and in 1869 they played and won 64 games. The same size and weight of the present baseball was adopted in 1872. The National League was organized in 1876. The American League came into being in 1901. These two leagues appointed Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis to be Commissioner of Baseball in 1921, and he served in this capacity until his death in 1944. There have been few and minor changes since the pitching distance was increased to 60½ feet in 1893.

A good ball player starts out with good equipment . . . and good equipment finds its place in the bettersporting goods houses throughout the country, such as the ——— Sports Center!

Rockets Capture Second Victory

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP) — The Chicago Rockets were in the All-America Football Conference record books today with their second victory in as many seasons.

They upset the favored and over-confident Baltimore Colts last night, 21-14 before 14,642 fans who rattled around in huge Soldier Field, Chicago.

The Rocket resurgence meant that only the Brooklyn Dodgers have still to win their first game in the Conference's third season. The Dodgers went down last night at Los Angeles against Coach Jimmy Phelan's Dons, 17-7.

Last night the Rockets shot into a 14-0 halftime lead, saw the fired-up Colts come back to tie it up in the second half, then sent Sam Vacanti across from a yard out in the last four minutes to put the game in the deepfreeze.

league mark. Then, after he hit one or two more, he decided to go after it in earnest. He failed, after tying the record of 69, and went into the two-game Hubber series with a chance to get his mark. The Hubbers did everything in their power to help him and the umpires even called a couple of pitches strikes, just to keep the count running. No one doubts that it was only his overanxiousness that prevented him from busting at least one out of the park to shatter Joe Hauser's 1933 mark.

Curious incidents continue to happen to men who were in the service during the war and one of the more curious happened on the recent Hubber trip to Borger. The team was staying in Amarillo and had a night off Saturday, when the lights failed. Royce Mills was in a cafe, sitting with another player, when an enlisted man walked in with the new Air Corps stripes. Mills, who was shot down in Germany and finished the war in a prison camp, asked the other player to find out what the stripes were. Just as the player did, the soldier turned toward Mills. And almost in the same breath they shouted each other's name. They had bunked next to each other in prison camp! Mills returned and his friend went on over to Japan, where he spent two years. He had returned to Borger, his home, only that day!

Bobby Layne is proving to the critics in Chicago and other points that he is somewhat of a football player. He wasn't given any chance at all in the Cardinals-College All-Stars game and even when he reported to the Bears, he was under the shadow of Johnny Lujack. Then the Bears started playing football — and so did Layne, to the joy of the spectators and George Hallas. Last Sunday Layne pitched heaves of 62 and 68 yards for TDs, besides playing a whale of a contest. It didn't take the blond, eager youngster long to establish himself and the Mid West sportswriters now are learning why he was so feared in the Southwest.

West Texas Buffalo fans are pretty high on a pair of boys in the center of the line, whom they feel confident will be in the top running for All-Conference honors. They are Billy "Pete" Bromley, a 195-pound guard, and Homer "Buck" Garrett, a 190-pound center. And another lad they say not to sell short is Lloyd "Blackie" Johnson, a 180-pound fullback. Johnson is the type of player who can't understand why anyone doesn't want to play football, or why they want to play anything else. He'd rather play football than eat and he's a rough, bruising fullback for his size.

HACKER JOINS CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Sept. 11 (INS) — The Chicago Cubs announced today they have purchased Warren Hacker, ace Texas League pitcher, from Shreveport after outbidding "six or seven" other big league clubs for the 23-year-old righthander's services. Cub officials said Hacker will be allowed to remain with the Shreveport team so long as the club has a chance to make the post-season playoffs. Should Shreveport fail to make the playoffs, Hacker will probably join the Cubs before the end of the National League campaign.

Brough Paces Play In Women's Singles

Tom Brown Trounces Brink In National Tennis Tournament

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 11 (INS)—Seattle's Jim Brink, roused himself from a habitual languor today in time to challenge Tom Brown's progress into the second round of the National Tennis Singles.

The challenge was both semi-serious and temporary, however, with the result that Brown, former Wimbledon semi-finalist, went on impassively to win by 6-2, 6-8, 6-3, 6-2.

In other words the feature of the 1948 National Tennis Championships' first day was that something nearly happened.

Otherwise, all was so fratted quiet and peaceable—and "form" was so steadfastly preserved—that 5,000 customers drowsed throughout in companionable silence.

Briefly, it was a day for setups, instead of upsets, as evidenced by this cursory run-down of developments.

Louise Brough, Wimbledon and American champion, vouchsafed a 6-1, 6-1 brush-off of Charlotte Decker, Washington, D. C., by way of opening her '48 title defense.

Talbert Wins Game

Second-seeded Davis Cupper Billy Talbert "took" another Washingtonian, Bernard Welsh, in the men's first round—though not with the facility and eclat featuring the Brough performance. Talbert's reading on the board was 6-2, 6-1, 4-6, 6-1; a bit surprising that third set to many, possibly including Talbert.

Jaroslav Drobny, the Czech master; Colin Long, the Australian; Vic Seixas, Intercollegiate champion; Eric Sturgess, South Africa; and Earl Cochell, fifth-seeded in the domestic list, won breezing, for the most part.

So did all other top featured ladies—"Pat" Todd, and Shirley Fry, Wightman Cuppers; and those engaging, winsome Britons—Betty Hilton and Joy Gannon.

Magda Rurac, registered as the Romanian champion but now said to reside at Allentown, Pa., didn't find the going quite so frivolous, however.

Day Of Near Happenings

She finally defeated Lois Felix, Meriden, Conn., 6-4, 4-6, 6-2, but not before the girlish, teen-ish Miss Felix gave the continental expert a mild 1-3 scare in the first set. And a definite walloping in the second.

However, it was that kind of a day. It specialized in near-happenings, the last of which was the calling of the first round singles between Tony Mottram, No. 1 Britisher, and Budge Patty, Los Angeles, at the close of three sets.

As darkness set in, Patty led Mottram by 6-4, 6-8, 6-1—largely through dominance at the service line.

Meanwhile, top-seeded Mr. Frank Parker, master of the neutral gesture, drew a bye thus exceeding himself. Anyhow, he won't appear until tomorrow, but thousands indicated they would be able to master their emotions in spite of the delay.

Other first round results were:

Among the men, Colin Long, Australia, defeated Diehl Mateer, jr., Philadelphia, 6-3, 8-6, 6-4; Bernard Bartzen, San Angelo, Tex., defeated Irv Dorfman, New York, 6-0, 6-2, 6-4; Eric Sturgess, South Africa, defeated Clark Taylor, Hamden, Conn., 6-0, 6-1, 6-2; Tony Trabert, Cincinnati, defeated Bob Kerdasha, Woodcliffe, N. J., 6-1, 6-4, 8-6.

Juan Weiss, Cuba, defeated Alex Hetzeck, Detroit, 6-2, 6-3, 6-6, 8-6.

Greene Makes Ruling On Heavyweight Title

PATTERSON, N. J., Sept. 11 (AP)—Rumors to the contrary, President Abe Greene of the Natiinal Boxing Association said today no new heavyweight champion will be declared until Joe Louis retires officially.

That puts the damper on any hopes of matching the winners of the Jimmy Bivins-Ezzard Charles and Jersey Joe Walcott-Gus Lesnevich fights and calling it a title contest. Bivins and Charles tangle in Washington Monday, and Walcott is slated to meet Lesnevich in Jersey City, Sept. 21.

Greene, however, did leave the door open. He said that the heavyweight muddle probably would be the main topic on the agenda when the NBA convenes for its annual meeting for three days starting Monday in Philadelphia.

"Obviously, the winners of the two fights would be considered the outstanding fighters in the heavyweight division," Greene said, "but that's not news. Who else is there?"

Greene said that Louis would be the guest at the NBA's dinner Tuesday night, and that he expected some definite word to be forthcoming from the champion at the time.

"We hope to have the whole thing straightened out by then," Greene commented. "However, until we hear from Louis one way or the other we certainly can not and will not declare another man the heavyweight champion."

Wichita Falls Takes Third Series Game

WACO, Sept. 11 (AP)—Wichita Falls pounded out a third straight victory over the Waco Pirates in their Big State League playoff series, 8-1, here tonight before an overflow throng of 2755 fans.

Al McCarty poled two round-trippers to account for five Spudder runs. Another pair of tallies came on Frank Pawlik's homer.

Sid Peterson limited the Pirates to six hits. Wichita Falls chased Tom Encinas from the mound, and Jodie Howington replaced him with none out in the seventh. Encinas was nicked for 11 hits.

Claude Horton is scheduled to oppose Bill Monahan on the hill in the fourth game, tomorrow afternoon.

South Plains grid teams not only upset the famed "dope bucket" Friday night—they kicked it full of holes and then dropped it down a deep well. Early season games are always unpredictable, but the surprises turned in last week outdid anything recorded in the last couple of years by a wide margin. Lamesa's Golden Tornadoes socked the defending regional champs, the Levelland Lobos; unheralded Andrews rolled over Sudan; Slaton defeated a strong Floydada eleven; and Pecos edged out Brownfield of 1-AA. It was enough to cause the area mentors to stay awake nights trying to figure out the favorites in the races.

As a result of the first two weeks of play, Seminole of 5-A and Sundown of 4-A loom as two of the top Class A grid powers of West Texas. The Indians followed up their initial triumph with a conference win over strong McCamey, while Sundown dropped Tahoka 19-7. Several other teams show promise, but until more games are on the record books the Seminole and Sundown crews will have to put up with a favorite's rating.

Of course, Lubbock fans are still talking over the Westerners surprise 7-7 tussle with the mighty Odessa Broncos of District 3-AA Friday night at Jones stadium. Odessa boosters may take consolation in the fact that the Broncos emerged from the tilt with a tie score, but Hub city fans class the game as a triumph for the Lubbock gridders. If there ever was such a thing as a "moral victory," the Westerners gained one against Joe Coleman's Red Hosses. The Odessans were supposed to walk off with a three-touchdown triumph, and downstate grid experts confidently predicted that Odessa would start a new win streak against the youthful Westerners.

But Coach Pat Pattison's well-coached crew outlasted some natural mistakes in the early part of the game and battled the Broncos on even terms down to the final whistle. The Westerners gave up some yardage in mid-field, but in their own territory they were rugged. Their goal line defense in the last two minutes of the setto was one of the highlights of the game. And the Broncos were just as "lucky" as the Westerners were to get a tie. Bad breaks were just about equal, with the Westerners getting a larger number of costly penalties. That is no criticism of the officials. On the contrary, Lubbock coaches, players and most of the fans agreed that the officiating was extremely good.

Lubbock fans should consider a few cold facts before they put the Westerners "on the spot" with too many brave predictions during the next few weeks. The deadlock with Odessa, as impressive as it was, does not give the Westerners a clear path through the rest of their non-conference games or to the District 1-AA title. The Lubbock gridders are still handicapped by inexperience, and the Odessa tilt showed up expected flaws in the offense and defense. The boys still have a long way to travel and a lot to learn. We can take pride in the way the Westerners performed Friday and hope that they continue to develop into one of the top teams in the state, but there is nothing to be gained by "going overboard" at the present time.

There was one unfortunate angle to the Lubbock-Odessa encounter. Many fans were not familiar with the seating arrangement at the new stadium and wound up in sections far fram their goals. There was some confusion at the ticket gates, with many fans having to stand in line past kick-off time, and many persons found it difficult to get information. Lubbock High officials hope to remedy the situation before the next home game, against San Angelo's Bobcats Friday night, with more detailed instructions and a larger stadium ticket force.

New Mexico Lobos Stress Punting

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 11. (INS)—The New Mexico Lobos have been concentrating on punting, with Coach Berl Huffman proud of the improvement in that department.

Gerald Gatewood, Bill Geter and Jerry McKown will be punting from the quarterback niche and Harold Wimberley from fullback. McKown has been getting off the longest punts and will probably bear the brunt of the season's assignments.

Coach Huffman said the Lobos will place kick for all conversions this season, rather than rely on drop kicking.

Black Tarquin Cops Rich British Stakes

DONCASTER, ENGLAND, Sept. 11 (AP)—American-bred Black Tarquin staged a storming stretch drive today to capture Britain's richest racing prize, the classic St. Leger Stakes, for owner William Woodward of New York.

Jockey Edgar Britt booted the Yank flyer, a 15-to-2 third choice, home first by a length and a half over the international field of 14 to pick up a purse of 15,368 pounds ($61,472).

Lord Derby's Alycidon was second at the end of the grind of a mile, six furlongs and 132 yards, with Solar Slipper third. The French-bred favorite and English derby winner, My Love, was a well-beaten sixth in the last of the season's three-year-old classics.

Black Tarquin's triumph made it a black day for English racing in every department. Britt is an Australian and the brown colt's trainer is Capt. Cecil Boyd-Rochfort, an Irishman, who trains at Newmarket.

Jordon Olivar, who is only 34 years old, is in his sixth season as head coach of the Villanova football team.

Richardson Top Batter

First Sacker Hits .397 For 136 Tilts

Virgil Richardson, in his second year as first baseman for the Lubbock Hubbers, captured team batting honors for the 1948 season with an unofficial average of .397 for 136 games.

Statistics released Saturday by Bill Chick of Abilene, official West Texas-New Mexico League statistician, showed Richardson barely failed to climb above the .400 mark for the year, as he nosed out both Manager Jackie Sullivan and Floyd Walker. They finished with .381 and .379 respectively.

Royce Mills, veteran relief hurler who turned starter toward the close of the season, topped all hurlers in the league with a percentage average of .842. Mills won 16 games and lost only three to post the best average in the circuit, although there were four pitchers with 20 or more games won.

Martin Tops League

Manager Herschel Martin of Albuquerque won the league batting title with .425, the highest average ever compiled in the loop. Four other batters also ended the year over .400, including Ted Clawitter of Amarillo, .420; Tony Fiarito of Lamesa, .411; Manager Eddie Carnett of Borger, .409; and Bob Crues of Amarillo, .404.

In the pitching department, Avon Driggers of Pampa, Frank Shone of Albuquerque and Jim Heller and Joe Budny of Amarillo ended the season with 20 or more games won. Driggers had a 20-6 record; Shone followed with 21-7; Heller posted 20-9; and Budny came in with 21-10.

Crues, of course, busted Bill Serena's record of 57 home runs for one year when he slammed 69 circuit clouts to tie the minor league record established by Joe Hauser of Minneapolis in 1933. Len Attyd of Albuquerque also wiped out the old mark for triples with 22 three-base clouts, while Martin's 61 doubles were enough to capture the crown for two-base hits.

Crues Tops In RBI

Crues ended up with the runs batted in crown, driving home 254 runs this season to far surpass Serena's mark of 190. He also scored 185 runs to bust Serena's mark of 183, setting another league record. And his total base production of 479 erased his own 1947 league mark of 427.

Attyd and Rocky Stone of Abilene ended the season deadlocked for stolen base honors, each with 41, while Verdun Gilchrist's 170 bases on balls brought him first place in that department. Eddie Skrabacz of Lamesa ended the season with 228 strikeouts to earn the dubious distinction of the leading whiffer.

The Hubbers ended the regular season on top in club fielding with

Is Jacobs Beach Slipping?

T. C. Challenges Boxing Monopoly

By BOB ONSIDINE
INS Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (INS)—The only interpretation which can be made of the impending climax of this slightly sterile outdoor boxing season is that a tremendous showdown is at hand.

Something is going to snap in the gruelling battle over the big league boxing monopoly. And to give you some idea of the money concerned, Mike Jacob's fights have grossed better than $25,000,000 since he seized control of the muscle market—with the connivance of a few friends—15 years ago.

The aggressive gentlemen of the clumsily named Tournament of Champions Group, Inc., challenging for monopolistic rights, are shooting the works Sept. 21 to consolidate their gains on Jacobs Beach.

The house that Mike built disclaims the presence of hot breaths on its collective neck. It rests its claim to continued pre-eminence in this quaintly sordid flesh bourse on the fact that it has contracts with the world's best fistic stages—Madison Square Garden, the Yankee stadium and the Polo Grounds, plus substantial tie-ups with radio and television.

Contracts Can Be Broken

What Mike's boys may have forgotten is that the contract, as an instrument of law, can be as fragile as Bruce Woodcock's jaw. Jacob's crowd won its current high place in boxing by pouncing on a misplaced comma in a solemn-looking contract which the old-time monopolist, the Garden, had with Jim Braddock. The comma is hardly a static hook. One could shake itself loose again especially in the boxing business, where the word "code" is often mistaken as a synonym for something you get in the head or chest.

Joe Louis' retirement is a tremendous blow to the Twentieth Century club. Equally as rough on that organization is the fact that it has no one under contract who can carry on in his stead . . . nor, we understand, does any more or less independent star owe Mike enough money to be bound to fight for him in order to pay off.

A Curious Coincidence

It is a curious coincidence that the rise of the other crowd has been chiefly the result of the aid it received from two Chicagoans—Sam Pian and Art Winch—who, 15 years ago, did so much to launch Jacobs. At that time they ordered their then champ, Barney Ross, to take a powder on the garden and fight Billy Petrolle for Mike at the Bronx coliseum. It was Mike's foot in the door.

More recently, they ordered their champ Zale to fight Rocky Graziano for the new fellows, after Rocky was barred in New York for—as Tom Meany put it—not accepting a $100,000 bribe from a fellow he didn't know for a fight that wasn't held.

The new fellows are following a traditional pattern in their quest of the considerable gold that is in boxing (their show at Roosevelt stadium in Jersey City on Sept. 21 might have been planned by Rickard or by a younger and more active Jacobs.

They have a good foreign fighter, Cerdan, fighting the best we have to offer in the middleweight division, Zale the champ. To stimulate the memories (and ticket-buying propensities) of the oldsters, they've imported Georges Carpentier to lend an aura of magnificence and munificence to the proceedings.

That would be enough to carry a card, but they've also come up with Joe Walcott and nearly got Freddie Mills to fight him. I saw Mills beat Gus Lesnevich in London and he's not the bum he was cracked up to be. Gus did well to stay the route with him. Failing to get Mills, the gents came up with Gus—who wants to be heavyweight champ in this, the evening of his career. And could be, times being what they are.

BILLINGS WINS HANDICAP

CHICAGO, Sept. 11 (INS) — R. W. McIlvain's Billings, a supposedly sick outsider, got up in the final 50 yards today to burst home a $35 winner in the $20,000 added Speed Handicap at Hawthorne. Beaten a neck was a Field horse, Carrara Marble, while a third outsider, Bullish, stormed in for the show ahead of the favored Delegate.

The first intercollegiate basketball game was played between Yale and Wesleyan on Dec. 10, 1896, at New Haven.

Dempsey Will Referee Here

DEMPSEY

Jack Dempsey, the famed "Manassa Mauler" of two decades ago who battered his way to the world heavyweight boxing crown, will make a return appearance as a referee in Lubbock Wednesday night — this time on the regular wrestling card at Sled Allen's arena.

Although he fought his last title battle 21 years ago, Dempsey is still one of the outstand- attractions in sports today. Now 53, Dempsey is a successful business man in New York. He lives in Beverly Hills, Calif.

As an active fighter Dempsey earned $3,163,144. In five title fights he grossed $9,067,986. The Dempsey-Tunney fights set two records which have not even been challenged, the Chicago bout grossing $2,658,660 and the Philadelphia clash recording an attendance of 120,575.

Top Grapplers Perform

Holding the spotlight with Dempsey will be two of the top grapplers of the Southwest, Al Getz of Pittsburgh and Boston Billy Weidner, who will tangle in the two of three falls main event.

The match is slated as a "grudge bout," since Weidner was awarded the decision in their setto last week after Getz threw him out of the ring. Getz protested strongly and obtained another pairing with the Boston strong boy on the feature card.

Rod Fenton of Edmonton, Canada, and Rex Mobley of Borger will clash in the two of three falls semi-final match. Fenton and Mobley have both chalked up impressive records in the local arena, with Mobley defeating Mexico's George Lopez in an upset triumph on last week's card.

Detton Meets Curtis

Popular Dory Detton of Amarillo battles speedy George Curtis of Vicksburg, Miss., in the one-fall, 20-minute preliminary. Detton, the clean-cut grappler from the Panhandle city, is one of the favorites of the Lubbock fans and will probably have the support of most of the crowd. Curtis has a reputation for using a fast clean wrestling style, however and has a large following here.

Tickets for the matches will go on sale at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning at Wylie's drug Ringside seats will be priced at two dollars, with the reserved seat ducats selling for $1.50. General admission pasteboards will be sold for one dollar.

Matches will get underway at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night.

Browning Ross, only American to reach the finals of the Olympic 3,0000 meter steeplechase run, will compete for the Villanova cross-country team. He's a junior at the University.

TRIPLE—Snuffy Stirnweiss hits the dirt on a triple to left center in the third inning at Yankee Stadium beating the relay from Pat Seerey to Luke Appling to Floyd Baker. The Yankees went on to smack the White Sox, 8-2, and remain in the thick of the American League pennant chase. The umpire is Bill McGowan.

CONNIVER WINS RACE

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP) — Conniver won the $68,300 Beldame Handicap for fillies and mares today before 31,282 fans at the final meeting of the Aqueduct season.

CAMPBELL MAY REPLACE LAYNE

Cherry Says Longhorns Will Have Polished Grid Machine

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Sept. 11.—The University of Texas will have a more polished football machine this year, says Coach Blair Cherry, who hopes the polish doesn't rub off during one of the toughest of Longhorn schedules.

The Texas team will boast a versatile attack—excellent passing, and strong running — and shapes up as a better defensive unit than last year.

It also will again be among the fastest teams in the country. "You just say how fast you'd like it and I have the boys to do it," the frank headman of Longhorn gridiron fortunes comments.

But Cherry, starting his second year as Texas coach, is quite conscious of the loss of one of the greatest backs the Southwest Conference ever saw. Replacing Bobby Layne, the mightiest passer in University of Texas history, is as much concern as the back-breaking schedule facing the ambitious Longhorns.

Hopes Placed In Campbell

Cherry says he thinks it will be done and that he wouldn't be a bit suprised if it didn't come about without missing a beat. He puts his hopes in slender Paul Campbell, who sat on the bench most of the time last fall. Anybody with an eye on Layne's job sat on the bench during Bobby's brilliant career at Texas.

Campbell didn't feel bad about it; he could afford to wait, and besides he learned a lot watching the masterful Layne pilot the Longhorns to one of their best seasons—10 out of 11 victories, including a smashing win over Alabama in the Sugar Bowl.

Cherry added, however, that Campbell could have been used a lot more and it wouldn't have done Texas any harm. "Mechanically, Campbell is a better quarterback than Layne," Cherry says.

Have More Know How

The Texas mentor thinks his 1948 Longhorns will have more "know how" than the 1947 outfit and he's quite certain it will be stronger defensively.

Texas will have what many veteran observers say will be the finest line in history. It has speed, power and experience. It is two and three deep in lettermen at all except two positions. At one of those, it has a big fellow rated by Cherry as of All-America caliber. He is George Petrovich, best known for his great tackle play in the Sugar Bowl.

Wingmen are most plentiful, with five lettermen available for those positions. Center also is thick with veterans, including Dick Harris, All-America at tackle last season and for the previous two years All-Southwest Conference center. Cherry is sending him back to the pivot post where Dick Rowan was such a stand-out last season. But the Texas coach will get the full benefit of both He plans to use Harris and Rowan at the linebacker positions on defense.

Talbert Wins Set In Court Tourney

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 11. (AP)—Play followed the book in the first round of the National Tennis Championships today. None of the seeded stars received even a momentary fright.

Billy Talbert of New York City, the second seeded star, dropped one set before he knocked out Barney Welsh of Rockville, Md., 6-2, 6-1, 4-6, 6-1, but the few who watched the match on an outside court figured that Billy was being charitable.

Jaroslav Drobny of Czechoslovakia, regarded as the main foreign threat to the crown given up by Jack Kramer, looked the part in smashing Tony Vincent of New York City, a student at the University of Miami 6-1, 6-1, 6-0.

Frankie Parker of Los Angeles, the top seeded favorite, drew a first-round bye as did also Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, and Bob Falkenburg of Los Angeles, seeded third and fourth, respectively.

Odd Techniques Are Used In Fishing At Offats Bayou Area

Dobu Islanders Are Suspicious Anglers

By HART STILWELL
Special Staff Writer

Up until the day I first fished in Kaney Creek and Offats Bayou in the Houston-Galveston area, I always thought the Dobu Islanders of the Southeast Pacific were the most suspicious, deceptive people in the world.

Now I know better.

The Dobu Islander's intentions are all right—on that score alone he would rank tops. But in the matter of technique the winter fisherman in the Kaney Creek-Offats Bayou country surpass him. For the Dobu Island relies too much, in my opinion, on magic. I doubt if he ever does all the damage he thinks he's doing throwing those evil spells at his neighbors and members of his family.

The Dobu Islanded will, for example, harvest his potato crop in the dead of night so that no one will see how many potatoes he has and maybe come around some day wanting to borrow a few to keep his children from starving. The Dobu Islander lives in constant fear that his neighbor is going to steal his potatoes by magic, and while fearing this he tries to steal his neighbor's potatoes the same way.

His whole pattern of life is based on suspicion, usually quite justified. He is suspicious of his wife, his parents, his children, his brothers and sisters, his neighbors. Any man among the Dobus who is so naive as to trust his fellow man or his wife is considered simple minded and is jeered at.

Well, I'll tell you what I've seen at Offats Bayou. I've seen a fisherman get a strike and pretend he'd hooked an oyster shell. Then I've watched him hold the tip of his rod low and work a trout as though he were doing nothing more than cranking in the lure. Then I've seer. him string the fish without ever taking it out of the water—just pretend he was unhooking his lure from his stringer.

Straight from the country as I am, this sort of big city technique floored me. Where I've done most of my fishing back through the years, down at the southern tip of the state around Port Isabel and Brownsville and on down into Mexico, you let out a yell when you hook a fish, then you keep telling everybody to watch what a fine job you're doing as you fight him. You want an audience.

Nothing like that at Offats Bayou or Kaney Creek.

And if you want to know why, I'll tell you. It's because of potlikkers.

And if you want to know what a potlikker is, why it's you and me and about everybody else who fishes. Some anglers do their potlikking with finesse and something of the grand manner. They ease in on you sort of crabwise while they're looking the other way, pretending they don't even know you're there. Others barge right in and shove you aside. The result is the same.

I discovered this the first time I fished Kaney Creek.

In that winter fishing hotspot, I was doing a little casting along with some Houston anglers—Jimmy Lingan, Felix Stagno, Joe Barkwell, Travis Gamble and some others.

I finally hooked a trout, so I let out a yell and leaned back on the rod enough to put a nice bend in it. I wanted everybody to see me fight my fish.

"Keep your rod down and be quiet, or the potlikkers will drown you," Stagno warned.

He was too late. Soon a stranger moved in on my right and cast across my line of flight. Then two anglers moved in on my left and cast across the line of the angler on my right. I looked around and saw fishermen swarming at me from every direction. So I said to the anglers nearest me, "Excuse me. Sorry I got in your way." Then I cleared out.

But I learn about things like that.

Now I'm as tricky as a Dobu Islander, whose fame is permanently established if he can trade off something he doesn't own. When a strike comes my way, my reaction is such as to win me the title of "Old Stone Face." When I work my fish in, I submerge two feet of my rod and pretend I'm probing for oil. When I get my fish in, I get my hands down in the icy water and make like I'm washing them. Then I hook the stringer onto my pants below the water line. Nobody even knows I carry a stringer.

It takes time to master these techniques, but I enjoy the task. I think it adds a lot of interest to the game, this business of trying to deceive fishermen as well as fish. And now that the winter season is getting close at hand, and trout are beginning to long for the lures they know they'll find in Kaney Creek and Offats Bayou, why I'm practicing up on my Dobu Island tactics.

And I know I've barely scratched the surface here in telling you of the tricks. If you've got a lure that's catching fish while other anglers are having no luck, never let anybody see it. Keep it in motion when it's out of the water, and cover it with your hand when you bring the fish in.

I'll be there before long. I'm in training now—I'm reading the story of the Dobu Islanders again.

Sporting News Picks Ashburn Rookie Of Year

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 11. (INS)—The Sporting News, national baseball weekly published in St Louis, announced tonight it has chosen Richie Ashburn of the Philadelphia Phillies as its "Rookie of the Year."

Ashburn, 21-year-old youngster who jumped to the Phillies from Utica in the Eastern League, led the National League in stolen bases and was third in batting when a broken hand recently put him out of action for the rest of the season.

Ashburn is the second Philly in three years to win the honor. Del Ennis was selected in 1946 Last year Jackie Robinson of the Dodgers was chosen.

Other Rookie Candidates

Others who were considered for this year's award were Hal Jeffcoat of the Cubs, Bob Chesnes of the Pirates, Robin Roberts of the Phillies, Satchel Paige of the Indians, Lou Brissie of the Athletics, Gene Bearden and Joe Tipton of the Indians, George Vico of the Tigers, Bob Porterfield of the Yankees and Dick Kokos of the Browns.

The Sporting News said it was citing Ashburn for this "thirty-two stolen bases, .330 hitting, thrilling catches, fast thinking, strong throwing, and courage." As proof of the latter characteristic the paper cited two anecdotes:

"After breaking his hand while sliding into second base for his thirty-first steal, Ashburn covered up the injury for four more innings and swiped his thirty-second base before the glove was knocked off his numbed hand by a low liner and manager Eddie Sawyer realized the nature of the injury. Even then, the rookie wanted to remain in the game."

a .952 average, nosing out Albuquerque and Pampa. But the Dukes copped the double play crown with 170, five more than the Hubbers could turn in. The Hub City crew had less errors than any other team with 253.

In club batting, the Hubbers ended up tied with Amarillo for second place on .323, just .001 point under Albuquerque, which won the club title. The Hubbers had the most sacrifice hits, 85, and had the lowest number of men left on base, 1152.

Burk Is Important Bear Addition

Baylor Will Field Experienced Squad

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

WACO, Sept. 11.—Baylor who has moved out of the giant-killer class, is something of a giant itself and should reach mature stature this season in Southwest Conference football.

It has been a long haul but Bob Woodruff's rebuilding program, now in its second year, has produced a team to be respected by the high and mighty of the Conference. It can not be figured as a championship contender, but it can tear down a lot of air castles for those that are.

Baylor will have its best team in six years and might beat that. Twenty-nine lettermen, even from a team that finished last in the conference race, means enough experience to be taken seriously. Baylor really had a good season, material considered, last year when the Golden Bears won half their games, taking all intersectional encounters, licking Stephen F. Austin and trimming Arkansas in the Conference race.

Will Have Smart Squad

Baylor will have a smarter and faster team and its passing and punting look very, very good.

The Bears are two deep in lettermen at all positions and 14 of the 29 have from two to three years experience.

Most important addition is tall Adrian Burk, who came to the Bears from Kilgore Junior college where he played two years. He is just the punter Baylor needed and he also looks like he will be its best passer.

Talented George Sims, playing his fourth varsity year, is as good as any ball-carrier in the conference—and that comes from Coach Woodruff. Sims heads a versatile backfield loaded with passers like Burk, Dudley Parker and Hayden Fry. The latter is the regular quarterback because of his generalship and ball-handling under the T formation, but it would be no surprise to see Burk push him out by mid-season.

Doubles In Backfield

Parker doubles in the backfield, being used either for quarterback or left half but probably will see most action at the latter. Sims and Frank (Jitter) McKinney are the halfbacks and Jerry Mangum offers top strength at fullback But a youngster named Frank Boydstun, up from the freshmen, is attracting much of the coaches attention. He may give Mangum a tight race for starting fullback. Boydstun, a 190-pounder, can run, block and back up the line in very capable fashion.

Other well-regarded backs are Lyle Blackwood, Bobby Griffin and Ben Hall

There are four letterman ends—G. M. Nevill, the top hand; Henry Dickerson, Jasper Flanakin and J. R. Closs. And there are five at tackle—Clark Heironimous, R. P. (Buddy) Tinsley, Wes Roberts, Rupert Wright and Cecil Massey. Ken Hubbard, twice a letterman at tackle, has been shifted to guard this season.

Huebner Heads Pivot

Baylor coaches and fans are convinced the Bears will have to give no ground to any Conference team at center with massive Ben Huebner heading the pivot corps. Immediately behind the 228-pounder Huebner is Bucky Qualls, playing his third varsity season.

The Bears should have guard play of top class despite some pretty heavy losses at these positions from last season. Chuck Stone is regarded as one of the best if not the best guard in the Conference. Don Mouser, Bentley Jones and Clarence McGaw are other lettermen at these positions.

Baylor has mapped one of its toughest schedules, including Tulsa, Mississippi State, Texas Tech and Tulane in addition to the six Conference foes.

West Virginia College To Play Raider Quintet

The Marshall college basketball team of Huntington, W. Va., one of the most colorful fives in the nation, has been booked to play the Texas Tech Red Raiders in Lubbock the night of Dec. 22, Polk Robinson, Tech coach, has announced.

The Marshall college team won the annual Los Angeles invitational tournament from leading quintets of the nation last season, and will be enroute to the west coast to defend its title when in Lubbock.

Coach Robison said the visitors are noted for plain and fancy ball handling and fancy shooting. He expects to use his tall team, averaging 6 feet, 4 inches, for part of the game and a smaller and faster five for the remainder.

The Lubbock game will be open to the public, Robison said, since it will come during the Christmas vacation at Texas Tech and few students will be on the campus.

TEXAS, LSU GAME HAILED

AUSTIN, Sept. 11 (AP) — The Texas-Louisiana State football game here next Saturday is being hailed by Longhern backers as the best opener the Texas school has scheduled in its 56 years of football history. The contest figures to be one of the standou: games of the nation from a preseason point of view. Memorial stadium, enlarged to take care of more than 63,000 persons, will be re-dedicated. Business officials anticipate a crowd of 45,000 to 50,000.

Daniel Urges Restudy, Complete Overhaul Of Election Statutes

AUSTIN, Sept. 11 (AP) — Need for a complete restudy and overhauling of Texas election laws has been pointed up by the current senatorial controversary, Attorney General Price Daniel said today.

Present statutes, the attorney general noted, give him no authority to make investigations or prosecutions of alleged election irregularities. This power under present statutes remains with county and district attorneys.

Candidates Interested

Daniel said friends of both Lyndon Johnson and Coke Stevenson have approached him and his assistants within the past ten days in connection with charges and counter-charges of such irregularities, although neither of the senatorial candidates has appeared in person.

"In my opinion," Daniel said, "Future legislation should leave such investigation and prosecution for offenses committed in a single county or district as a primary duty of the local county or district attorney, but add a provision that the attorney general shall step in if the local officials fail or refuse to do their duty. For offenses alleged on a state-wide scale, it seems to me the attorney general should be given authority to investigate and prosecute.

"But this is only one of the many changes which have been needed for a long time in our Texas election laws. The majority of the present laws were great improvements over their predecessors when enacted in 1905-1919, but they now need restudy and overhauling from stem to stern."

Daniel believes two of the most needed changes are to rewrite and "put teeth" into the campaign expenditures law, and to withhold announcement of election returns by precincts and counties until all the votes have been officially counted, duly sworn to and filed with the proper local officials.

"Under this plan," he said, "no one would know how any candidate stood until after the returns from every box had been certified and delivered. It would be too late then for a precinct to find or be suspected of finding additional votes needed by any candidate."

The attorney general made it clear that "this proposal infers no particular suspicision against either candidate nor any particular occurence growing out of the recent contest. It is to prevent what both candidates suspected and charged as unfair and unlawful.

"Both Senate candidates at various times alleged unlawful vote finding and being counted out after the unofficial returns came in. There is no way now to distinguish readily between honest corrections and dishonest changes, if any. The unwarranted suspicion and doubts cannot readily be separated from the justified complaints. In my opinion the only way to restore faith and respect to this particular phase of our election procedure is to eliminate completely the announcement of returns until all have been officially filed and publicly opened in each county."

State Aid Problems Discussed By School Administrators

Public school administrative personnel from the county South Plains disrict discussed their state aid problems with officials of the state department of education in a meeting at the courthouse here yesterday afternoon.

Equalization of state aid, student transportation, and the school lunch program were primary topics, but the session was called by host officials here as wholly routine, involving details of administering the laws governing state aid.

It was estimated that more than 100 from all parts of the area participated. Attending were county superintendents, local school superintendents, high school principals and some bus operators.

NEW AIRPORT BUILDING GROUND BREAKING—City officials and members of the City Airport board gathered at Municipal airport Saturday morning for official ground-breaking ceremonies for the city's new $400,000 airport building. Public Health Comes First, Official Says

DALLAS, Sept. 11 (AP)—"Dirty restaurants should be closed," Patrick D. Moreland of Austin, executive vice president of the Texas Restaurant association, declared here.

Moreland came here yesterday after charges had been filed against several cafe owners by state health department inspectors.

"We cannot be negative about public health" Moreland said. "Public health must come first."

Moreland said he called a meeting of Dallas restaurant owners to advise them of two things: (1) Keep clean and (2) If the cafe man thought purely technical charges had been filed against him, the association stood ready to provide him with an attorney to defend him.

"We have never defended a man who had a dirty restaurant," Moreland said.

"But there are almost 100 statutes with which eating places must comply Inspectors could find some violations of one of them almost any time. A man can come to our attorney only on the basis that a purely technical charge has been filed against him."

Jackets Which Glow In Dark Now Considered Must For Kids

During the depression, most kids were lucky to have a jacket to wear at night. Now it's different—they gotta have one that glows in the dark. And they can get 'em, too.

Hemphill-Wells company now has a large supply of "Scotchlite" jackets for the kids — they're stripped with the same stuff that makes highway signs light up the night.

The advertisements say the glow in the dark jobs protect not only the boys' health, but their lives. How about when the lads are out after dark snooping around in a watermelon patch?

Open House Planned Today In Country Club's New Clubhouse

A DREAM of three decades will be brought into realization this afternoon from 1 until 5 p. m. when members of the Lubbock Country club hold an open house in their new spacious and beautiful clubhouse.

The clubhouse, costing an estimated $225,000, has been under construction the past six months and is still not fully furnished for today's inspection, but President Cliff Dean and the club directors decided to hold the open house in advance of the opening of several of the rooms, including the dining room and grill.

Catering Service Delayed

The catering phase of the club's operation will be delayed for several days, but serving of meals and refreshments and scheduling of parties are expected to be started within the near future.

The new clubhouse is one of the finest buildings of its type in the Southwest and represents the latest in country club architecture and design. The architecture is modernized early Texan with the exterior of colonial pink face brick and Austin limestone. Constructed of tile, brick, concrete, steel and stone, the building is fireproof and incorporates 18,000 square feet of floor space.

Committees Are Given

Page, Southern and Page of Austin were the architects. The building was constructed by Robt. Maxey, Lubbock contractor and member of the club's directorate.

Members of the finance committee on the building project were: Spencer A. Wells, Geo. E. Benson, Roy Riddel and Paul Hardwick. Building committee members were Geo. W. Gray, Chas. H. Read, O. A. Terry, and J. D. Hassell.

Colorful And Functional

Furnishings throughout the building are colorful and functional and in exquisite taste, carry-

COFFEE bags, same size and shape as tea bags may be available soon. The army has developed one that you dip into a cup of hot water, just under boiling, and let stand for four minutes. What could be better than that, with no grounds to throw out and no pot to wash? . . . An attractive young car hop at a mid-town drive-in in Lubbock says you meet all kinds of people in her business. She laughed about a couple who argued so over the menu one night recently she left them to wait on another carload. When she came back, the man was starting the motor and said with some impatience, "Well, she doesn't like what I suggested, so we are going home to eat breakfast cereal."

Here's a new sentence for stenographers to practice on when they want to use every letter in the alphabet: "A quick movement of the enemy would jeopardize six gunboats." . . . Wouldn't it be a nice gesture, if an official day could be set aside for the shut-ins, etc., who of course include many of our service men . . . Included in fashion comebacks are garters to be worn around the skirtsleeves, just as Granny did. The sets are colorful and fancy and include a pocket for "mad money." . . . During the war when service men stayed active, most of them developed trim waistlines, but now many appear to be afflicted with armchais-itis and look over-fed and under-exercised.

When pyracantha berries turn orange in the late summer, such as this year, doesn't it mean there will be an early fall? . . . Announcement is being made of the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Knowles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Knowles of San Antonio, and James Fergerson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Fergerson of Shamrock, which took place Saturday, Sept. 4, in the Asbury Methodist church with Dr. C. A. Bickley performing a double ring service. White gladioli, palms and tapers burning in candelabra decorated the altar.

Mrs. Roger Walker and Miss Velma Rogers sang "Because" accompanied by Gene Harton who also played wedding marches. "I Love You Truly" was offered during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her uncle, E. W. Jarrott, the bride wore a white satin gown made with a deep rounded net yoke, long fitted sleeves which tapered into points over the hands and full skirt which extended into a train. Her shoulder length veil of illusion fell from a coronet of white carnations. She carried white gladioli. For something borrowed, she carried a white linen handkerchief belonging to her mother, and for good luck, she wore a penny in her shoe.

Sister Is Attendant

Miss Ima Gene Fergerson, sister of the bridegroom and maid of honor, wore an aqua taffeta dress fashioned after that of the bride. She wore a matching aqua headdress and carried pink gladioli. Candlelighters were Kenny Lou Jackson and Betty Frances Taylor.

A reception was held in the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. T. A. Jarrott following the ceremony. Asters, fern and white satin ribbon decorated the bride's table which was laid with a lace cloth. A two-tiered wedding cake topped with pink confection roses and a miniature bride and bridegroom was served. Aunts of the bride, Mesdames J. C. Jarrott, E. W. Jarrott and Spencer Brewer served guests.

For a wedding trip to New Mexico, the bride wore a blue gabardine suit with black and white accessories. Mrs. Fergerson is a graduate of San Antonio High school and has attended Texas Technological college. Mr. Ferguson finished Shamrock High school and is a senior student at Tech.

ON SELECTING TOYS

IN SELECTING a plaything for a child of pre-school age, weight of the toy is a most important consideration. Through years of experience, a director of a manufacturing company found that toys must have a certain amount of weight and a feeling of stability to win the full acceptance of the youngsters. Such toys give a feeling of security, it is said.

Color and size are other major factors. The younger the child, the brighter the desir color — with blocks for instance, being made generally of solid pastels. For younger children, size of the objects is important.

Through the Coral Doors

Hi Folks:

It seems that Bee made out fine in Dallas last week and came home more inspired than ever. Anne, Bee and James all report that we can expect some striking new china, pottery and accessories this fall. Oh yes, I was about to forget to report about Josie. She is taking her vacation near Chicago and spent last week in the market. I'll give a detail report on both the Dallas and Chicago trip next week.

I could barely get in those Coral doors this week. The entire place was being re-done since many pieces were going out to El Paso as a result of Fredda's trip there last week besides all the new pieces coming in.

Most exciting was a shipment of new lamps. This time taller and more exquisite than ever. If there are any left by Monday you should see them by all means, which reminds me just in case you haven't come up to these newer tall lamps —the Studio still has a drastic reduction on most of their smaller ones (large ones perhaps to most of us but not so to the Studio, where they always show you 1959 pieces in 1948). That's no joke, it takes most of us a couple of years to see what Fredda is talking about but when we do realize it, they were five years ahead of us.

The Studio recently acquired a new station wagon and James was loading it up to install a job in Abilene—No, Lubbock is not being neglected—Anne and Durwood were busy seeing that three houses were in order before Anne leaves next week for New York to put the finishing touches on her decorating. She will be away nine months. Everybody will be looking forward to her return. Nine months soon roll around, that is if it comes as fast as Christmas and let me remind you it's just around the corner. So meet me next week at Decorators Studio, corner Broadway and N, and let's buy that little woman's Christmas present—may not go in her stocking but I'll bet a new carpet or a dining room suite would make the little lady happy. Be seeing ya!

Grandpa Nosey

P.S. We're looking forward to the Lions Club "Queen for a Day" program—See you at the fair grounds

Club Open House

ing out the wishes of the decorating committee to create a comfortable and homelike atmosphere.

The foyer and halls are in light green and have terrazzo tile floors. On either side of the entrance is a pine chest, bearing a bowl of ivy and over which hangs a watercolor picture of a man and a woman golfer. These pictures were the work of Paul Whelan, former Tech student, who designed the prints for the draperies that hang in the social room and in the "Nineteenth Hole" room and which were made in Lubbock.

Soft Green Is Featured

Soft green is featured in the walls and woodwork of the large ballroom and lounge which has identical groupings of furniture at either end. Huge copper trays and candelabra decorate the mantels of the wood burning fireplaces of limestone which have fender benches upholstered in green leather and are flanked with end tables topped by handsome lamps.

The fabric covering the divans is repeated in the draperies which are in rust and green floral design on a beige background. Green and rust colored chairs are placed about to further create a homelike atmosphere and the heavy pile wool rugs are in soft green. Large white wrought iron plant stands are a feature of the room.

Terrace Overlooks Pool, Course

The floors are in maple. Gold cathode lighting is set in the ceiling of acoustical plaster and acoustical tile.

From the ballroom one steps to the terrace which overlooks the golf course and the swimming pool. This is finished in quarry tile floors and green wrought iron furniture and comfortable canvas deck chairs are placed about.

The dining room, which opens off of the north end of the ballroom has paneled walls finished in dark green and beech block flooring. Green hand-blocked printed fabric, featuring large rust colored birds, hang from large gray cornices. Fruit wood arm chairs upholstered in rust are placed at tables set with colorful china. Fine Audubon prints grace the west wall.

Grill Room In Chartreuse

One of the most handsome features of the clubhouse is the grill room, located in the northwest wing and done in yellow and chartreuse. Draperies in Chinese floral design hang over bamboo blinds at the windows which cover two sides of the room. Two Chinese water colors hang on the west wall and the dark oak tables, with comfortable arm chairs, are laid with bright yellow cloths.

The Party room, which opens off of the south, and which will be in French provincial with rose and gray the predominating colors and the Card room, on the first floor, which is to be in Early American maple, have not been completed. These will be the rooms used by the Ladies Association for social functions.

"Nineteenth Hole" Cleverly Designed

The Social room on the first floor has walls of antique pine and draperies in a western motif with brown leather cornices adding a decorative note. The chairs are finished in antique brown leather. Antique prints depicting scenes of the Early West are hung on the walls.

The "Nineteenth Hole" room, where golfers will gather to moan or boast about their scores, is cleverly designed in yellow, green and red. Sketches of golf scenes add interest to the draperies and green lamps cast a glow over comfortable yellow arm chairs and a Lazy Susan table which will accomodate eight persons.

Ladies Supervised Decorations

Furnishings are from Dunlap's and on the decorating committee from the Ladies association were Mesdames Roy Autry, Bill Honey, Harry Holcomb and Don Mitchell.

Mesdames Hassell, Fenner Tubbs, and C. L. Dean supervised purchase of the club silver service, furnished by Hemphill-Wells company and Dunlap's. John Kattmann supervised purchase of catering equipment.

Dean Is Honored

Painting was done by John R. Hall, Lubbock painting contractor. Other sub-contractors on the project included: Samson Plumbing company, Nelson Electric company, Frank Wallis, plastering; A. W. Brunson, masonry; and roofing, sheet metal and air-conditioning by Hamilton Roofing company.

Directors of the club met for a luncheon Friday to lay final plans for today's event. At the Friday luncheon, President Dean, who has served two terms as president was presented a handsome gold wrist watch by the directors in appreciation of his work in steering the building project to completion.

Besides Dean, other club officers are: Fenner Tubbs, vice president; Paul Hardwick, secretary-treasurer; Wright Kerr, Mayer, Olen Stewart, Hassell, Chas. H. Read and O. A. Terry, directors. Bill Overton is club manager, and J. E. Ausburn is club auditor. C. M. Trout is chairman of the club's golf activities.

Under new All-America pro football Conference rules teams must get the ball in play 25 seconds after the ball is dead, instead of 30.

CLASS PLANS TEA

In the home of Mrs. W. R. Trice, 2304 Ave. U, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, First Baptist Homemakers class will give a tea for new officers and group captains.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Booker of 2801 Twenty-fourth have returned to their summer lodge at Red River, N. M., and will remain there until the close of the season which will be about Oct. 1.

MRS. BUDDY KEETON HUGHES

Dana Lou Harrison And Buddy K. Hughes Are Married In Bride's Home In Dallas

Miss Dana Lou Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee C. Harrison of Dallas, became the bride of Buddy Keeton Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Hughes, 3901 Thirty-fourth, in a double ring ceremony read Wednesday at 7 p. m. in the home of the bride's parents by Rev. Frank Dunn in a setting of wrought-iron candelabra and white floral arrangements before an altar of huckleberry and magnolia leaves.

Carrying a bouquet of stephanotis and white orchids on a white Bible, the bride was gowned in ivory satin designed in a Victorian feeling with a high neckline edged with a rick-rac design of the satin, long fitted sleeves tapering to points over her hands, and a fitted bodice fastened down the front with tiny self-covered buttons. The very full gathered skirt repeated the rick-rac motif down the front of the skirt and swept into a formal train. Her fingertip veil of imported French bridal illusion fell in tiers from a halo of illusion caught at intervals with a delicate sprinkling of seed pearls.

Mrs. Dale A. Webb of Dallas, sister of the bride and matron of honor, and Misses Sylvia Whitacre of Lubbock and Betz Latimer of Dallas, attending as bridesmaids, carried arm bouquets of better-times roses and wore identically styled dresses fashioned with off-shoulder necklines and deep berthas, long shirred bodices and full gathered skirts. The honor attendant wore shell pink satin and the bridesmaids were gowned in ice blue satin. Bob Magouirk of Bonham, cousin of the bridegroom, served as best man.

At the reception held after the ceremony in the Harrison home, the couple were assisted in receiving by their parents, Mrs. John Hamilin of Bonham, and Messrs and Mesdames T. A. Mitchell of Fort Worth and Reed Henderson of Longview.

The bride's table held a three-tiered wedding cake and was decorated with clusters of gardenias and sprays of stephanotis, streamers of white satin ribbon and maline, and white tapers in crystal candlelabra. The stairway railing was entwined with garlands of fern and white flowers, and the newel posts were topped with white satin bows. White floral arrangements were used throughout the reception rooms.

Lubbock guests attending were Mesdames J. C. Street and Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Hughes.

After a wedding trip to New Mexico, the couple will be at home on Sept. 11, in Lubbock. For traveling the bride chose a brown broadcloth suit trimmed with amber beading with brown suede accessories and a green orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Lubbock High school and Hockaday Junior college, where she was a member of Tau Gamma Epsilon honorary society, and she has attended the University of Colorado. The bridegroom graduated from Lubbock High school and attended Texas Tech.

IT WILL WAVE

A permanent wave can be successful at any time even during the months of pregnancy, say researchers for a permanent wave company (Toni.)

They claim there is no truth to the fact that ether will react on the hair to prevent a satisfactory permanent or that pregnant women's hair will not take a permanent.

It is the condition of the hair that counts. If hair is normal and healthy that's all that is necessary to achieve a good permanent, they say.

WOMEN AND FARMS

Only approximately a tenth of the persons owning land in the United States are women, it was established in a nationwide survey taken in 1946, says the Department of Agriculture. It also shows that the women who do own farm land are more likely to be landlords than operators.

Jimmy Stewart Loves Planes And Wants Plenty Of Gadgets

By RUTH BRIGHAM
INS Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 11 — If there's one thing that Jimmy Stewart loves more than his bachelordom, it's airplanes. And if there's anything he loves more than airplanes, it's airplanes with gadgets. So when the tall, lanky actor sponsored a plane in the Long Beach, Cal., to Cleveland air races last week he was more jittery than an expectant father. He paced the airfield—after kissing Pilot Joe De Bona goodbye. And the plane was a beauty—A P-51—equipped with everything. Robert Taylor, who started off the races, called it a "madman's dream."

Yep, the plane had everything. But it gave out of gas after getting only half way! . . .

Luck In Pictures

Two Hollywood directors believe that their personal appearance in each film they direct adds luck. It's even gotten to be a trademark in the John Huston and Alfred Hitchcock films.

So that's not Edword G. Robinson's shadow you see pacing back and forth across the worried face of Lionel Barrymore in "Key Largo." It's Director Huston's.

With Alfred Hitchcock getting into "The Rope" wasn't so easy, since there are only a handful of characters in the entire picture. To inject himself would be to introduce an unnecessary and superfluous person—so he's the face on the neon sign flickering outside the apartment where the action takes place.

Among the pieces to be shown will be an 88 carat diamond priced at $150,000.00. In all there will be over two million dollars worth of jewels shown.

"ROUNDING" THE DIAMOND . . . the diamond is imbedded in molten lead to hold it securely. It must be examined every few seconds to see what results are being obtained during the process. The final cut of a diamond is always determined by its original crystal structure.

ACTUAL SIZE

THE MYSTERY DIAMOND

The name of this 88 carat diamond is THE DIAMOND OF GOOD HOPE, but despite the voluminous records, written and unwritten, factual and legendary, no one has been able to trace the precise origin of the stone. The diamond is mounted in a platinum and baguette clip, and will be shown attached to a platinum necklace of graduated baguette diamonds. Complete it is priced at $150,000.00.

"DIAMOND CUTS DIAMOND!" Here the Winston expert impregnates the cutting wheel with diamond dust. The abrasive in this process must be diamond dust because only a diamond can cut a diamond. Watch the cutting process yourself . . . it's a fascinating one!

Wildcat Explorations Over South Plains Fail To Show Any New Signs Of Production; Prospectors Abandoned In Gaines County

THE oil activity on the South Plains failed to develop any outstanding features during the past week. There are a number of important wildcat explorations drilling in various sectors of the region, but none of them had any new shows of production during the past seven-day period.

Locations were reported for two stepouts to the new producing area in east-central Hockley county, three miles north of the town of Smyer. Three wildcat prospectors were plugged and abandoned in Gaines county.

Operations are to start soon at Honolulu Oil corporation No. 3-13-A Ellwood estate, which is 660 feet from east and 1,980 feet from the north lines of section 13, block A, R. M. Thompson survey.

This semi-wildcat is three miles northwest of Smyer, and is one quarter of a mile north of Honolulu 1-13-B Ellwood, and three-quarters of a mile east and a quarter of a mile south of the discovery well for that field, Honolulu No. 1-13-A Ellwood.

It is scheduled to drill to 6,100 feet with cable and rotary tools.

One location diagonally northeast of the No. 1-B-13 Ellwood, another stepout to the Spade field was staked as Cooperative Refinery association, of Wichita Kansas, No. 1 Ellwood estate.

It is 660 feet from west and 1,980 feet from north lines of section 12, block A, R. M. Thompson survey, and is contracted to go to around 6,000 feet to test the Glorieta section of the middle Permian lime.

Hockley Well Plugged

The deep Ellenburger failure in southeast Hockley county, Honolulu Oil corporation and Signal Oil & Gas company No. 1-24 Ellwood, was on a plugged back depth of 9,602 feet in a Pennsylvania lime section and was swabbing on perforations at 9,445-75 feet.

This interval showed some slight signs of oil and gas when it was drilled through, and operators hope that it will show for commercial production.

The Ellenburger was barren, except for some water which was developed, when the prospector was bottomed at 11,633 feet in granite.

It is four miles north of Ropesville and 660 feet from north and west lines of section 24, block 5, Wilbarger county school land survey.

The wildcat exploration in east-central Hockley county, Woodley Petroleum company No. 1 J. J. Alderson, et al, had penetrated below 5,585 feet in lime and was going ahead.

This slated 6,300-foot venture is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 10, block A, R. M. Thompson survey, and is about three miles northeast of the town of Smyer, and one mile west of the nearest completed oil well in the original Smyer field.

Honolulu No. 1-B-13 Ellwood, another east-central Hockley county development, was taking an official potential test. This prospector has shown on preliminary tests that it will be completed as some sort of well from the Glorieta section of the middle Permian.

Location Is Given

It drilled to 6,043 feet in lime and was plugged back to the current depth of 5,995 feet, after getting water in the lower zones.

This southeast flanker to the discovery well for production from the Glorieta, to open a new field, is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 13, block A, R. M. Thompson survey.

Honolulu No. 2-A-13 Ellwood, 660 feet from west and 1,980 feet from north lines of section 13, block A, R. M. Thompson survey was at a total depth of 5,969 feet. It had set 5½ inch casing at 5,900 feet with 450 sacks of cement, and was drilling the plug preparatory to drilling ahead into what is hoped to be th. pay zone. This project is a one quarter of a mile pany's stepout from the same company's No. 1-A-13 Ellwood.

The second well for the Landon-deep field of south-central Cochran county, Stanolind Oil & Gas company No. 2 Birtie T. Brown, has proved that it will make a commercial oil producer from the Strawn lime section of the Pennsylvanian, the same formation from which the first deep well in that region gets its oil.

According to an official report, it flowed for 15 minutes at the estimated rate of 30 barrels oil per hour, on a drillstem test in the top of the pay at 10,371-430 feet.

Pay Section Expected

The tool was open one hour. The 1,170-foot water blanket started flowing at the surface in 29 minutes. Oil came to the top of the drill pipe in 44 minutes, and flowed for 15 minutes before the tester was closed. No water was developed.

Based on the geological structure of the first well, it is expected that there is at least 60 feet more of the pay section, and operator plans to drill the rest of that zone and then run casing and complete.

This second well is a long location, or approximately one-third of a mile, stepout from the lone producer in the Landon Deep field. It is 2,655 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 4, block L, psl survey.

In southwest Cochran county, C. U. Bay No. 1 Walter Houston, 440 feet from north and west lines of unit 20, F. O. sub-division No. 2, league 131, Carson county school land survey had been completed for a 24 hour potential of 57.27 barrels of 27.6 gravity oil, with no water, and a gas-oil ratio of 2845-1.

The petroleum was pumped from the zone at 4,957-5,004 feet which was treated with 8,000 gallons of acid.

This new oil producer is a one location stepout from the recently completed new field opener, C. U. Bay No. 1 Ralph Gardener.

Cochran Test Awaited

In southeast Cochran county, Honolulu No. 1-B Dean, 660 feet from north and west lines of the west 441.75 acres in the east three-quarters of league 89, Lipscomb county school land survey, was waiting to take a potential test.

This project drilled to a total depth of 5,120 feet, and was then plugged back to 5,105 feet. It has shown on tests that it will be completed as a small producer, but no gauges have been reported.

It is 18 miles west of Sundown, and two miles west of the nearest producers in the southwest side of the Slaughter field.

The southeast Parmer county wildcat, Sunray Oil corporation and Skelley Oil company No. 1 Kimbrough, had penetrated below 8,270 feet in shale and was continuing.

Sun Oil company No. 1 A. L. Harber, 10,000-foot prospector in Castro county 660 feet from north and east lines of section 8, block 2, W. E. Halsell sub-division, was drilling lime at 5,457 feet.

In northeast Lubbock county, Amerada No. 1 Stribling, three and one half miles northeast of Idalou, and 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 9, block D-7, psl survey, was going ahead at 6,705 feet in lime.

In northwest Garza county, three miles southeast of Southland, Honolulu No. 1 Shelby county fee, had reached 3,672 feet in lime and was making more hole.

Dawson Drilling Continues

The slated 5,400-foot wildcat is 440 feet from east and 3,360 feet from north lines of the Shelby county school lands survey, abstract 397, which make about three and one half miles north of the nearest producing wells in the PHD field of northwest Garza county.

Seaboard Oil company of Delaware No. 2 Lee, 440 feet from north and east lines of section 47, block 34, T-5-N, T&P survey, was drilling below 6,381 feet in lime and shale. This venture scheduled to go to 10,600 feet to test the Ellenburger is 15 miles southeast of Lamesa.

In extreme southeast Gaines county, Magnolia Petroleum company No. 1 Hicks, had penetrated below 6,549 feet in lime and was going ahead. It is 14 miles southwest of Lamesa and 660 feet from north and west lines of tract 16, league 273, Loving county school land survey, and is contracted to dig to 12,500 feet.

Argo Oil corporation No. 1-N Jones, in northeast Gaines county, and 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 496, block G, CCSD&RGNG survey, had progressed under 10,817 feet and was making more hole.

It is about 10 miles southwest of the town of Denver City, and is due to go to around 11,500 feet to try to find and test the Devonian.

Honolulu No. 1 Riley, in central-northeast Gaines county, 660 feet from the north and 1,980 feet from the east lines of the southeast quarter of section 123, block G, WTRR survey, was pulling casing preparatory to completing.

Wildcat Abandoned

This development reached a total depth of 7,522 feet and has been plugged back to 5,585 feet in the San Andres lime, where it failed to make oil—but it is to be finished as a gas well.

In northwest Gaines county, Texas Gulf Producing company No. 1 Oil Development company fee, 660 feet from south and east lines of section 315, block G, CCSD&RGNG survey, had reached a total depth of 8,043 feet in lower Permian lime and shale and was plugged and abandoned.

The wildcat had no shows of oil or gas in any of the sections it penetrated. It is about ten miles northwest of Seminole.

In south-central Gaines county, about 13 miles south of Seminole, Shell Oil company, Inc., No. 1 Hawkins, slated 12,000 foot test, was drilling ahead below 8,158 feet in lime and chert. It is 1,983 feet from north and 665 feet from east lines of section 8, block A-23, psl survey.

Cities Service Oil company No. 2 Proctor, in west-central Gaines, 10 miles west of Seminole, had reached 6,729 feet in lime and was drilling ahead. It is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 355, block G, CCSD&RGNG survey, and is a quarter of a mile stepout from the Cities Service No. 1 Proctor.

Two Others Plugged

Cascade Petroleum company No. 1 McMurry, in northeast Gaines county, eight miles west of the Cedar Lake field, and 2,200 feet from north and west lines of section 80, block H, D&W survey, drilled to 5,192 feet, and had no signs of petroleum, or of water. It is plugged.

W. P. Luce and C. O. Ice No. 1 Webb, eight miles west of Seminole, in central-west Gaines county, and 660 feet from north and east lines of the south half of section 332, block G, CCSD&RGNG survey, penetrated to 5,192 feet in lime and found sulphur water. It did not log any possibilities of oil or gas production. Operators have ordered it plugged and abandoned.

In northeast Terry county, Seaboard No. 1 E. M. Hinson, 660 feet from north and west lines of section 91, block 4-X, psl survey, was drilling ahead below 10,546 feet in lime with streaks of chert.

This exploration has already shown for small production from the Cisco lime in the Pennsylvanian, and operator is now continuing to the Ellenburger to try to produce it from that formation.

Lubbock Re-tests Made

The discovery wells, and lone producers for the Lubbock county field in central Lubbock county, and the southeast Hale county Petersburg field, have been cleaned out and re-tested, and put back on production.

Tobe Foster, et al, No. 1 Nairn estate, in section 25, block A, John H. Gibson survey in Lubbock county was re-tested and made a 24-hour pumping potential of 155 barrels of 23.7 gravity oil, with three per cent water, and a gas-oil ratio of 110-1. Total depth was 5,002 feet. Top of the pay was 4,860 feet.

The Petersburg field discovery well, Stanolind No. 1 E. L. Fisher, 1,210 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 5, block DT, EL&RR survey, pumped 24 hours on a re-test to make a daily potential of 71.64 barrels of oil. There was an additional production of 98.12 barrels of water. Gas-oil ratio was 195-1. Gravity of the oil was 39 degrees. Plugged back total depth was 6,966 feet. The total drilled was 6,992 feet.

The semi-wildcat in south-central Hale county, Humble Oil & Refining company No. 2 T. E. Lutrick, 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 17, block D-8, EL&RR survey was drilling at 2,905 feet in dolomite. It is a one location outpost to the recently completed Humble No. 1 T. E. Lutrick, a small producer from the Cisco lime.

New Producers Found

The Anton-Irish pool gained three new oil producers and one new location or oil exploration during the past week. All of those projects were in the Hale county sector of that field.

The new oil wells are:

Stanolind No. 3-B J. L. Harral, 660 feet from south and east lines of section 13, block DT, HE&WT survey, pumped 24 hours to make a daily potential of 224.49 barrels of oil, with 7.4 per cent water and a gas-oil ratio of 138-1.

The petroleum was taken from the zone at 5,380-6,160 feet which had been treated with 36,000 gallons of acid. Gravity of the oil was 28 degrees.

Hermann Brothers No. 1 Huftstedler, 330 feet from north and 380 feet from east lines of section 32, block DT, HE&WT survey, was completed for a daily potential of 198 barrels of 30.7 gravity oil, with no water, and a gas-oil ratio of 50-1.

The producing section at 5,550-6,000 feet was acidized with 32,000 gallons.

Stanolind No. 4-A J. B. Snead, 660 feet from south and east lines of lease in section 18, block DT, EL&RR survey, pumped 24 hours to make a daily potential of 203.32 barrels of 31 gravity oil. There was no water and the gas-oil ratio was 216-1.

The pay zone at 5,391-6,010 feet which was treated with 18,000 gallons of acid.

The new location is Stanolind No. 6-A Lee Irish, 1,980 feet from the south and 660 feet from the west lines of section 18, block DT, EL&RR survey, to go to 6,200 feet with rotary tools.

Stanolind Status Given

Stanolind No. 3 Arnold was taking a potential test after drilling to a total depth of 6,130 feet.

Stanolind No. 7 Blackmon was drilling dolomite below 5,380 feet.

Stanolind No. 8 Blackmon had progressed under 5,718 feet in dolomite, and was going ahead.

Stanolind No. 4 Durrett had reached a total depth of 6,100 feet and was treated with 10,000 gallons of acid. It swabbed at the rate of ten and one half barrels of new oil, and is continuing to swab.

Stanolind No. 3-A Harral was taking bottom hole pressure tests

Ferdinand I, Former Bulgarian King Dies

COBURG, Germany, Sept. 11. (AP)—Ferdinand I, who abducted as king of Bulgaria in 1918, died here yesterday. He was 87.

Ferdinand, a German prince of the house of Saxe-Coburg, sided with Germany in the first World war. He abdicated when the central powers were defeated, saving the throne for his son, Boris, who died during the second World war.

A grandson, King Simeon II, fled to Egypt in 1946 when Bulgaria voted to become a republic.

Ferdinand was offered the throne of Bulgaria when Prince Alexander of Bulgaria was forced to flee because of Balkan intrigue. Most of the European powers refused to recognize him but in 1908 he proclaimed Bulgaria's independence from Turkey and called himself King Ferdinand the first. He won Russian recognition by having Boris baptized in the Greek Orthodox church.

Ferdinand outlived many assassination plots and revolutions. He found it advisable to keep a pistol on his desk for protection in fending off attempts of Macedonian plotters, revolutionists, would-be assassins and foreign coalitions to remove him from the throne.

He returned to Coburg, his birthplace, after his abdication. He devoted himself to collecting minerals, rare birds, tropical fauna and gems. Many of his collections were donated to the Coburg museum.

NEURITIS
Case History No. 1449

Man: Age 30; Symptoms: Left shoulder and elbow ached severely making it impossible to sleep. X-Ray pictures were made of his spine and Neurocalometer analysis revealed a severe pinched nerve leading to his left arm. Chiropractic Adjustment removed the pressure from the nerve so the nerve energy could get to the affected part. He thinks it's wonderful that there is a science to correct a pinched nerve which may cause trouble in the body, and do it in a scientific way.

Voters Back Jester In Decision To Support Truman As Nominee

By JOE BELDEN
Director, The Texas Poll

AUSTIN, Sept. 11—At least for the present, Governor Beauford Jester can count as a political asset his stand in support of President Truman as the Democratic presidential nominee.

In a statewide survey of Democratic voters, The Texas Poll finds that only 55 per cent give Jester's administration a vote of confidence, but 64 per cent say the governor is doing right in backing Truman for president.

The poll asked these questions:

1. "In general, do you approve or disapprove of the way Beauford Jester is handling his job as governor of Texas?"

Approve	55%
Disapprove	38
No opinion	7
	100%

2. "As leader of the Democratic Party in Texas, do you think Governor Jester is doing right or wrong in supporting Truman for president?"

Doing right	64%
Doing wrong	22
	100%

Jester was opposed to nominating Truman at the National Democratic Convention because of the president's stand on civil rights legislation. After the convention, however, the governor said he would not bolt the party but would support the nominee out of a sense of duty. This brought down on Jester the wrath of the Dixiecrats, who contend that he double-crossed them.

In the face of a strong statewide campaign which the Dixiecrats are threatening to wage in Texas this fall, it is a matter of speculation at this time whether or not Jester's stand will remain a political asset.

The Texas Poll's latest measurement shows that public confidence in Jester's administration has dropped to 60 — the lowest point since he took office two years ago. The Poll's index of public opinions, the undecided omitted.

	% Approval
March, 1947	92%
May, 1947	81
July, 1947	81
September, 1947	83
January, 1948	80
March, 1948	63
May, 1948	70
TODAY	60

The biggest drop in Jester's popularity, between January and March, 1948, came when the governor announced he was opposed to a state bonus for veterans, adding he thought a bonus would be "un-Texan." In its May survey, The Texas Poll found that this was what voters disliked most about the governor.

In the July Democratic primary campaign, Jester's principal opponents made capital out of his "un-Texan" remark. After the primary, however, they joined in pledging the governor their support in his stand for Truman. Jester's majority in the primary was 54 per cent.

Here's Some Information That May Make You Feel Better During Next Heat Wave

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11. (AP) — Save this for the next heat wave. It may make you feel better.

The Army today announced the results of some studies it has made in California's Death Valley. Whew!

Go there in July and sit down on the ground, said the Army, and you're in "the hottest place in the North American continent."

Observations over the past 36 years indicate that one day every seven years that desert floor heats up to a maximum temperature of 180 degrees.

It's much cooler five feet above ground. Only 125 degrees.

On July 10, 1913, Death Valley thermometers—presumably set at least five feet off the ground level—registered 134. That's the highest reading ever reported for the area.

For that whole week—July 7 through July 14—the maximum temperature stayed above 127.

The study was prepared by Arnold Court, meteorologist in the quartermaster general's office, for presentation to the American Meteorological Society.

Susan Peters Given Divorce From Quine

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 11. (AP)—Actress Susan Peters has divorced Richard Quine, actor-producer, to whom she was married some 13 months before she was paralyzed in a hunting accident.

Testifying from her wheelchair and dabbing at tears with a handkerchief, Miss Peters, 27, told superior Judge Thurmond Clarke yesterday that Quine, 28, was moody and sometimes refused to speak to her for days before they separated last March 1.

"Our temperaments were different," she said. "Our discussions always ended in arguments. We didn't agree on anything."

Her aunt, Mrs. Mary Carnahan, was her corroborating witness. Quine did not contest the decree.

The couple was married here Nov. 7, 1943. Miss Peters was shot in the back and paralyzed from the waist down in a hunting accident New Year's day, 1945. She has since made a film comeback.

Quine was directed to pay $300 a month support for their adopted son, Timothy, two. Miss Peters asked, and was granted, only $1 a month token alimony. Attorneys said community property was being divided.

Postmen Learn About Biting Dogs But Not Psycho Studies

By ARTHUR EDSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 — Everybody in government these days gets psychological studies to help him in his human relations.

Everybody, that is, but the postman.

That's what a scientific report out of Boston says. And it must be so for it comes straight from the American Psychological association.

The armed services, this report says, will spend more than $6,000,000 for psychology and social science. The postoffice department won't spend a nickel.

Why skip the postman? Isn't a postman's psyche as important as anyone else's?

Attempts To Find Answer

In an attempt to find an answer to these questions, I put in a call to Bill Allen, the big Q. and A. man for the postoffice department.

"Why don't we have psychological studies, too?" repeated Allen. "I don't know. I don't think anyone here ever thought much about it, one way or the other."

So he thought for a while.

"But I'll tell you one thing," he said. "We take good care of our men."

"For example, do you know how many manhours are lost each year because of postmen getting bit by dog.?"

"No."

"Well, I don't either," confessed Allen. "But it's a lot of manhours. Studies are being completed in Chicago right now to show the postman how he best can cope with biting dogs.

Safety Director Called

"But psychological studies—. Wait a minute. I'll call Edward Landry, director of safety for the department. Maybe he knows."

Landry speaking:

"Psychological studies? Hmmm. No, I never heard of such a thing." Pause.

"But we have an interesting experiment going on right now in Chicago. We're trying to find ways and means of preventing our postmen from getting bitten by dogs.

"But psycho — who'd want to psychoanalyze a postman?"

So there you are, folks. It looks as if your postman will keep on in the same old way: delivering the mail, and doing his best, with the help of the postoffice department, to prevent dog-bite.

Exportation Materially Reduces Natural Gas Reserves In State

By HARVEY SCANDRETT
Associated Press Staff Writer

DALLAS, Sept. 11.—Easterners who give thanks for the natural gas that cooks their meals and fuels their factories may be surprised to hear that many Texans will not say "you're welcome."

Those Texans are afraid that the day is not too far off when the state will run out of gas for their home use.

Nearly half—45 per cent—of the natural gas used in the United States now comes from Texas wells. A spider web of huge pipelines carries it to the eastern seaboard and the Great Lakes region. Another big line is reaching for the Pacific coast.

Pipelines Carry Gas

The "Big Inch" and "Little Big Inch" pipelines, built under war pressure to assure the east and oil supply when German submarines were preying on tankers, are now carrying gas. Within the last few days the Gulfcoast Northern Gas company of Tulsa asked a federal permit to build a 1,184-mile, 26-inch line to carry gas from Texas to the Chicago area.

Where oil men talk in millions and governments talk in billions, gas men talk in terms of trillions. (One million million). They are talking not of dollars, but of cubic feet of gas. Texas produced nearly 3,000,000,000,000 cubic feet of gas last year. It piped out of the state 525,000,000,000 cubic feet.

Culberson Outspoken

One of the most outspoken opponents of increasing exports of gas to other states is Olin Culberson, member of the Texas Railroad commission. That body rules on the amounts of oil and gas that may be produced daily in the state's fields.

Culberson said in New York last week that the life expectancy of the state's gas reserves, set at 43 years by "most optimistic" estimates, has been materially reduced through the building of new pipelines and the continued granting of permits of others by the Federal Power commission.

Culberson did not contend that Texas has any legal right to refuse to share its gas supply with other states. But he stated he firmly believed "that to deplete this great natural resource with its resulting impact on our local economy would work a great injustice on Texas posterity."

Area Has Fuel Supply

The Texas official's contention was that gas is being exported into an area "that already has approximately 1,000 years of fuel supply." He referred to the eastern coal fields. Texas has only lignite coal, a low-grade fuel which can not now be mined economically.

Gas is one of the bases of the booming new chemical industry on the gulf coast, particularly in Texas. It is a fuel and a raw material. Gasoline, carbon products and chemicals are refined directly from gas.

Referring to this new industry, Culberson said that "whatever products are made in these plants are useful and necessary in the everyday life of the citizens of every state."

Meanwhile, the well owners, the producers and the distributors are being paid for the gas and presumably are satisfied with the situation. The citizens of the state benefit through taxes levied on the gas. Taxes totaling 2.4 cents per 1,000 cubic feet are levied on the gas produced and sold. At three trillion cubic feet, that's 72 million dollars.

The day when the nation's oil and gasoline tanks will go dry is set back nearly a year in a study just completed by the Oil Advisory Information committee.

The committee estimated the known volume of crude oil underground at 21,487,685,000 barrels, with additional total reserves of condensates, natural gasoline and other liquefied petroleum gases to bring the overall total to 24,253,975,000 barrels.

Senator George W Malone of Nevada told the Interstate Oil compact meeting in New York last week that total reserves were estimated at 23,000,000,000 barrels. The present rate of use is about 2,000,000,000 barrels a year.

U. S. Turns Over Property And Credits To New Korea Republic

SEOUL, Sept. 11. (AP) — The United States turned over property and credits worth hundreds of millions of dollars to the new republic of South Korea today.

The first financial agreement between the two countries was reached after three weeks of negotiation. It was signed by U. S. Ambassador John J. Muccio and representatives of the military government will be taken over at noon Monday by the Koreans.

Some $250,000,000 worth of rehabilitation supplies was written off as a gift to the new republic and distributed in south Korea as one part of the agreement.

Another, covering the settlement of a $25,000,000 Foreign Liquidation commission loan, provided that part of it be liquidated as payment for the Seoul buildings the U. S. state department will use.

EARLY INDIAN TRACES

ELLSWORTH FALLS, Me. (U.P.)—Archeologists believe Wasp Island in the Union river was used as a camp site by nomadic Indians about 1,500 years ago. Gorgeous Hunk Of Cheesecake To Be Uncrated In Hollywood

By RALPH DIGHTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 11.—The most gorgeous hunk of cheesecake to come from Germany since Marlene Dietrich is about to be uncrated in Hollywood.

She's been in town since last March but has been kept closely guarded by Producer David O. Selznick.

Her name is Hildegarde Neff.

She was discovered by American newsmen who streamed into Berlin after the war. They found her singing in German cafes, or acting in German stock companies—and wrote home that she was like a flower blooming amid the rubble of a bombed-out city. She was so photogenic that national picture magazines spread her face and figure over uncounted pages.

Dropped Out Of Sight

Then all of a sudden, Hildegarde Knef (her real name) dropped out of sight. She was no longer to be seen in music halls and theaters and those who sought her were forced to concede that maybe she was, after all, just a 10-day sensation.

Now the truth can be told. She came to this country last January, was met in New York City by Selznick and placed under contract. At the same time, she was placed under wraps that have not yet been officially lifted.

The trouble was, Miss Neff couldn't understand English. That's been remedied now. She can even say "goose-pimples" and know what it means. In the intervening months Selznick has given her the same treatment with which he conditioned Greta Garbo, Ingrid Bergman and Elida Valli for professional careers in this country.

Tragic Story Told

In an exclusive interview, Miss Neff told a story of personal tragedy which, in a movie, would be considered corny. She escaped being Nazified, or imprisoned, during the Hitler era only because she was a victim of infantile paralysis.

Now only 22, she spent her adolescence struggling to survive in a society that had no use for crippled girls. Often separated from her parents, she lived a hand-to-hand existence with any relative or friend who could and would feed her. For recreation she turned to painting.

She was working in the art department of a German movie studio during the war when an executive spotted her. Her slow recovery from paralysis by then had become nearly complete, and she became an actress. The two movies she made for the Germans were destroyed in bombing raids.

THIEF DINES IN

EVERETT, Mass. (U.P.)—Police, investigating a break into the home of Mrs. Marie De Angelis, discovered the remains of a hearty meal on the kitchen table left by a hungry thief who not only raided the icebox but also ransacked the rest of the house and escaped with $40 worth of jewelry.

Food Prospects Brightened With Forecasts Of Bumper '48 Crops

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11. (AP)—Official forecasts of bumper 1948 harvests—both in volume and value—brightened food prospects today for consumers and farmers alike.

The Agriculture department's latest crop survey indicates that farmers may get about $13,388,000,000 for this year's production of wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco, peanuts and rice. Last year these crops were valued at $12,287,517,000.

Record Is Topped

The department's forecast yesterday noted that production of all crops this year tops the record set in 1946 and is 135 percent of the 1923-32 average.

Although the tally sheets made no breakdown in the figures to show that the record output will mean to the consumer, Agriculture department spokesmen have said that meat supplies will become more plentiful next year with more feed grains available for livestock. Such an increase could be expected to bring some reduction in prices.

Here is how the department sized up this year's harvest: (cash estimates are unofficial):

Corn — 3,528,815,000 bushels, more than a billion bushels above the output last year, with a value at the farm of about $6,740,000,000 as compared with $5,432,785,000 in 1947.

Cotton—a 15,219,000—bale crop worth about $2,785,000,000. Such a return would be half a billion dollars above last year's and break the record of $2,348,526,000 set in 1919.

Peanuts — 2,302,405,000 pounds as compared with last year's crop of $2,187,985,000. At the government support price this fiures about $249,000,000 worth—which would break the record return of $227,606,000 last year.

Rice Crop Lower

Rice — a 76,993,000-pound crop as against 1947 production of 79,345,000. At the August 15 average price to farmers, the new crop would bring in $197,000,000. Last year's crop brought a record $218,523,000 return.

Tobacco—1,787,723,000 pounds as compared with 2,107,763,000 in 1947. At the August 15 average price to farmers, this would mean a value of about $847,000,000. Last year's crop was worth $912,169,000. The record of $1,046,442,000 was set in 1946.

Wheat — 1,284,995,000 bushels. Last year's production of 1,364,919,000 bushels set a record value of $3,155,233,000. This year's crop, based on the August 15 price, would be worth about $2,570,000,000.

The department reported larger than average production of crops such as oats, potatoes, peaches, grapes, cherries dry beans and citrus fruits.

Among major crops only rye, buckwheat, peas, sweet potatoes, broom corn, apples and pears are below average production, the department said.

Social Worker Faces Charges

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 11 (AP)—Edwin B. Lowell, 39-year-old superintendent of Marion county juvenile center, was charged with rape today for alleged intimacies with a 15-year-old girl at the center.

Maj. Robert A. O'Neal said Lowell signed a statement admitting he had sexual relations with two girls at the institution. The rape charge was filed after it was determined one of the girls was under 16 years.

Maj. O'Neal said Lowell, married and the father of two small children, stated that he had relations with the girls because they had become emotional problems in the institution.

Inquiry Launched

O'Neal said investigation was started after the two girls were transferred to the Indiana girls' school and told the school superintendent that Lowell had been intimate with them. He said the older of the girls was 17.

Lowell has a long record of social work. He majored in psychology at the University of Wisconsin and did graduate work at George Williams college.

From 1934 to 1942 he supervised a boys club in Chicago. During the war he was a field director and supervisor of personnel for the Red Cross, serving in the Pacific.

There are 75,000 fires in U. S. motor vehicles each year.

Most Of Filipinos On Volcanic Isle Being Loaded Aboard Ship

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

MANILA, Sept. 11—Most of the Filipinos still on the volcanic isle of Camiguin were being loaded on a U. S. Army troop ship today in the ominous shadow of erupting Mount Hibokhibok.

The mile-high volcano still blew out dangerous but not deadly gases, and geologists saw a possibility of a new and violent eruption, but for the moment at least the situation appeared in hand.

A U. S. Navy flying boat flew down the 450 miles from Manila with a load of dehydrated food for the hungry still lining Camiguin's beaches.

Refugees Picked Up

Capt. Walter Williams of the 17,812-ton U. S. Army transport Gen. William Weigel messaged that he had picked up an unspecified number of refugees at the east coast port of Binoni, main evacuation point.

The transport, which interrupted a voyage to Manila for this mercy mission, then proceeded to Sagay, on the south shore, where other refugees waited.

Arturo Alcaraz, government volcano expert who ordered the general evacuation when acidic ash began raining down late Thursday, radioed that the volcano still was blowing dangerous gases.

He said these were not deadly. However the radio station at Mahinog, the island's last link with the outside world, appealed for gas masks so its operators could stay on to the last.

Estimate Is Upped

It had been hoped the General Weigel could take on all refugees. But Filipino Red Cross disaster relief officials upped their estimate of the number still on the island from 14,000 to 20,000.

That will necessitate all available ships. The Philippine Naval patrol commandeered all available small craft in the area to help bring off the islanders.

The patrol advised Manila that even after the burning ashes fell the islanders still wanted to stay on, but forced evacuation was declared to avert any panic if the volcano's violence increased.

Alfredo Cruz, a Filipino on Camiguin, in a message to Manila gave for the first time some of the details of the events of Thursday and Friday.

Acidic Ash Erupted

Late Thursday night, he reported, Hibokhibok, which had shown signs of subsiding after nine days of action, suddenly erupted acidic ash. The ash settled over the island, burning the skin and inflaming the eyes, noses and throats of those who had stayed behind.

Along with the ashes came the gases. The smell of sulphuric acid hung over the island.

Then with a thunderous roar came a gigantic landslide. There were repeated landslides through the night and into Friday morning.

At daylight, geologists found the slides had plugged up the new crater on the east slope which had been letting the pent-up gases escape.

Sometime during the night a new crater had opened on the west side but geologists still feared gases were jamming up inside. They warned a major eruption might come at any time.

New Possible Means Of Tracing Infantile Paralysis Virus Shown By Two Scientists

TORONTO, Sept. 11 (AP) — A new possible way of tracing infantile paralysis virus in the human body was opened here yesterday.

Two research scientists showed pictures of tiny dots that may be polio virus moving inside a nerve. If these dots actually are the virus, the pictures are an important discovery.

They might be a new way to learn how the virus gets into the body and how it moves along nerve pathways to do its damage.

The photographs were made by Dr. E. Derobertis and Dr. Francis O. Schmitt of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, with a powerful electron microscope. They were shown to the Electron Microscope Society of America.

Scientists Take Picture

The scientists took pictures of the sciatic nerve of a monkey which had been infected with polio virus. The tiny, oval dots could be seen in the tubule of the nerve, an inner portion of the nerve which may be hollow. The pictures indicated the dots moved along the nerve tubule.

"We do not claim that these particles that appear as dots in the nerve tubule are necessarily the polio virus, but the pictures do suggest that they are the virus or else are intimately connected with it," Dr. Derobertis said.

A great handicap in polio research is that the polio virus is much smaller than most disease organisms. Using the electron microscope, which can magnify things 50,000 to 100,000 times, scientists have been able to photograph particles which they suspect are the polio virus. The dots shown here yesterday conform in general with what other scientists have seen.

Viruses are smaller than bacteria. They have to take something from living tissue to reproduce. Bacteria are self-sufficient.

Communal Bloodbath Is Possible In India And Hyderabad Dispute

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

A situation fraught with potentialities of widespread bloodshed has developed out of the dispute between the Dominion of India and the powerful nizam of Hyderabad, paramount prince of the Indian sub-continent and reputedly the world's richest individual.

The background of this crisis dates back to just over a year ago when Britain granted independence to all India which, apart from the principalities, was split into two dominions—Pakistan (mainly Moslem) and India (largely Hindu). England advised the hundreds of princes to join either one or the other of the dominions and most of the rulers have done so, the nizam being the outstanding exception.

Two Reasons For Demand

India has insisted that his exalted Highness, as the prince is known, join that dominion. This demand is based on two grounds: (1) Hyderabad lies wholly within the Dominion of India, and (2) the state presents the anomaly of a Moslem prince ruling over a population of some 16,000,000 which is more than three-quarters Hindu.

However, the nizam long has been noted as proud and resentful of interference with what he regards as his prerogatives. Moreover he has a sizable standing army of his own. The British always handled him with kid gloves, as I learned as far back as 1916 during my first visit to India.

Nizam Stands Ground

So his Exalted Highness has stood his ground in the face of insistent demands from the Dominion. Relations between the Dominion and the state have gone from bad to worse. There have been clashes between Hyderabad police forces and Indian troops on the borders. Finally a few days ago Prime Minister Nehru of India demanded that nizam outlaw his police army and permit Indian troops to enter the state to maintain order. This the nizam curtly refused to do.

The latest development is a blunt statement by Nehru at a press conference that Indian troops will be stationed at Secunderabad, capital of Hyderabad, regardless of what happens. He added significantly:

"We do not expect an easy march to Secunderabad."

Only Half Of Story

That's a grim picture—but it's only half the story. The dispute between the nizam and the Dominion of India interlocks with the bitter politico-religious clash between India and Pakistan.

This hostility has all but brought the two dominions to open warfare over the princely state of Kashmir whose population is mainly Moslem but whose maharajah, a Hindu, elected to join predominantly Hindu India. Troops of both dominions are in Kashmir and there has been fighting which has threatened to become general. A United Nations commission on the ground has been unable to achieve peace.

With the foregoing as a preface it is easy to understand the meaning of the statement by the foreign minister of Pakistan, Sir Mohammed Zafrarullah, who charges that India's policy in the Hyderabad dispute will lead to a "communal bloodbath" which could engulf the subcontinent. Of course he is viewing the situation through the hostile eyes of Pakistan, whereas India holds the nizam responsible for the crisis.

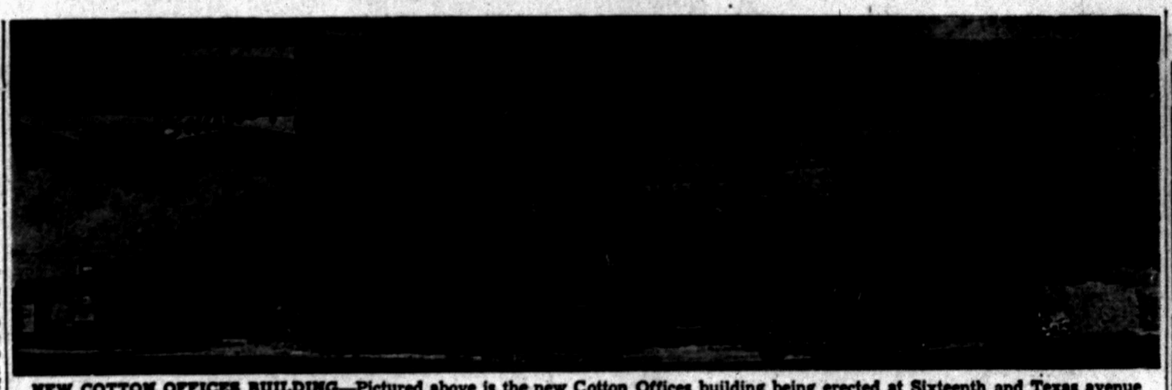

Bloodbath Is Possible

Irrespective of responsibility, however, the fact remains that the consensus of observers seem to be a "communal bloodbath" is a possibility. The Indian peninsula has seen this bloody communal strife for generations, but never before has there been such a mighty and formal division of the country as exists in the dominions of Pakistan and India.

The position is so grave that the United States embassy at New Delhi has announced aerial evacuation of American and British nationals from Hyderabad will begin in a few days. It is estimated that there are 40 British and 300 Americans in the state.

NEW COTTON OFFICES BUILDING—Pictured above is the new Cotton Offices building being erected at Sixteenth and Texas avenue by Dr. A. H. Rogers, Lubbock dentist. The two-story structure, of steel, brick and tile, will cost an estimated $175,000 and will provide space for 12 stores, shops and offices on the ground floor and 12 cotton suites of two offices and a sample room each on the second floor. The building will be air-conditioned and central heated and will have asphalt tile floors. It is being built by John T. Glover & Son, contractors. Fronting 130 feet on Texas avenue and 100 feet on Sixteenth, the building contains 26,000 square feet. Completion is scheduled for mid-November. (Staff Photo.)

Eye Of Woman Philanthropist Given To Blind Business Man

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11 (INS)—An eye bequeathed by a 70-year-old Auburn woman philanthropist and civic leader was given today to an elderly blind Encinitas business man in an effort to restore his sight.

Officials at the Greens' eye hospital in San Francisco, where the transplant was performed, said success of the operation will not be known for perhaps five days.

A year ago Mrs. Elizabeth Mary Roumage willed her eyes to the Stanford hospital eye bank. When she died Thursday the corneas were rushed to the San Francisco hospital and the blind patient, who is 65, was flown to San Francisco for the operation.

He was given one of the corneas.

Estimates Beat Down

... in one case after another, nations as a whole had to down one another's estimates, ce there was only $5,000,000,000 go around.

One of the sorest stumbling blocks was western Germany, or rather the two western zones of Germany occupied by the United States and Britain.

One of the main reasons for the Marshall plan is to stop the spread of Communism by getting western Europe on its feet.

And one of the main points in this country's foreign policy is to get western Germany back on its feet, and for two reasons:

(1) To stop the spread of Communism in Germany; (2) The belief that the rest of western Europe can't be prosperous unless western Germany recovers.

German Needs Given

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American boss in Germany, told the other nations in the Marshall plan that western Germany needed $465,000,000.

(Congress had provided that some of the Marshall plan money should go to Germany, but it didn't say how much.)

The other nations couldn't see Clay's figures.

Some of them—France, for instance—feared that a Germany that grew strong, or too strong too soon, might be a menace again.

Yesterday the western European countries finally agreed on how much of the $5,000,000,000 each of them should get, and also how much should go to Germany.

They agreed Germany should have $414,000,000, which is $50,000,000 less than Clay wanted and $50,000,000 more than some of the others had wanted Germany to get.

Agreement Finally Reached

It's taken the western European nations five and one half months to reach their agreement. While there is no guarantee each country will get precisely what the agreement calls for, it probably will.

The Economic Cooperation administration (ECA)—headed by Paul Hoffman, former auto maker—was created by Congress to run the Marshall plan.

It will have final say-so on who gets what. But Hoffman emphasized he wanted the European countries to agree on what they wanted from the plan instead of having ECA dictate to them.

From the end of World War II until last April this country had been helping Europe on a kind of stop-gap, piecemeal basis.

The Marshall plan was intended to eliminate that hit-or-miss kind of help and put it on a planned basis.

Supplies Are Sought

But what was Europe to do for help between the time Congress wiped out the stop-gap aid last April by setting up the Marshall plan, and the time when the European nations could finally agree on what they wanted?

To keep Europe going, the ECA since April has given those European nations an okay to buy about $1,500,000,000 worth of supplies out of Marshall plan help.

That leaves about another $3,500,000,000 to draw on before the total of $5,000,000,000 is used up by next June.

By the time June comes around and the money has been spent, Congress is expected to vote some more billions in help for Europe.

A delicious salad to serve with a fish dish is one made of pickled beets, onion rings and shredded lettuce or romaine; pour a tangy French dressing over the salads when the fish dish is ready.

From the Lubbock Album....

As Lubbock county holds the all time cotton ginning record in Texas, established with the 1947 crop, some of the county's pioneers look back to the days when range land was being broken up and the county was making its first steps in cotton production. The above photograph, made in 1903 on the west side of the courthouse, shows a portion of the county's cotton production on wagons pulled by oxen. Men who were taking the load to Colorado City paused for the photograph after leaving a gin of which the late F. E. Wheelock was manager and which was located where Lubbock Cotton Oil mill now stands. The gin was the only one on the Plains, said J. J. Dillard, Lubbock pioneer. Dillard estimated Lubbock county's production totaled about 200 bales that year. The ginning total for the 1947 crop was 180,935 bales, the all time record total for a Texas county. In 1903, Colorado City and Amarillo were the nearest railroad points, said Dillard. The windmill shown supplied the public well.

New Cinderella Love Story Is Said Shaping Up In New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (INS)—A new Cinderella story appeared to be shaping up today when it was reported that Francis Hitchcock, of the polo-playing family, will marry the daughter of a Windber, Pa., coal miner in Miami Sunday.

The bride-to-be was identified as Stephanie Saja, 23, a secretary for the Wall street brokerage firm of Dominick and Dominick.

Miss Saja, tall and willowy, left Newark, N. J., airport last night for Florida aboard an Eastern Air Lines plaine. She refused to confirm or deny the marriage report. She likewise declined to say whether she would join Hitchcock in Florida.

Wearing Huge Ring

Newsmen noted that she was wearing a huge engagement ring which she said was nine carats. But even this observation failed to bring any further information.

Miss Saja had booked passage on the plane under an assumed name, but was found when she answered a paging call for "Miss Saja."

Accompanying the attractive young woman on her flight were her sister, Nancy, reportedly slated to be maid-of-honor, another young woman, and a man, both unidentified. They were as closemouthed as Miss Saja about her plans.

The rich man-poor girl romance recalled the recent story-book marriage of millionaire Winthrop Rockefeller and the former Barbara (Bobo) Sears early this year.

Had Been Home

In the mining town of Windber, which lies north of Johnstown, residents reported that Miss Saja had been there last weekend and had told friends she was returning to New York "to marry a man about 40 years old."

The girl's father is dead, and her mother lives in New York.

Hitchcock, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock and brother of the late polo ace, Tommy, was divorced from the former Mary Atwell in 1934. His second wife was Mary Grammer, a model.

The report that he was headed for a third marital venture was the first indication that he had divorced his second wife.

Candidate For Governor In Georgia Spends Hour In Jail

ATLANTA, Sept. 11. (AP)—The Progressive party's candidate for governor of Georgia, James A. Barfoot, spent an hour in the Atlanta jail yesterday rather than post $17 bond.

Police Capt. J. F. Brown had charged him with creating a disturbance and violating the city's anti-noise ordinance. Brown said Barfoot operated a sound truck in the negro district "so loud it could be heard for blocks."

Barfoot, 34-year-old former professor of education at the University of Georgia, was released on copy of charges to appear in recorder's court next week.

Men Enlist To Take Advantage Of Volunteers' Opportunities

A large number of men eligible for the draft are volunteering here daily in order to take advantage of the many more opportunities available in the Army or Air Force through being a volunteer, it was announced Saturday by Major Harold Fulghum, local recruiting officer.

A three, four, five or six year enlistment entitles the volunteer to select the theater and the branch of service he desires to serve in. In the event the applicant is a high school graduate, he is given the opportunity to apply for one of the many Army and Air Force technical schools. All of these choices are given only to volunteers, Fulghum said.

It was also stated by Fulghum that many young men of draft age that he has spoken to personally are under the impression that when they receive their notice to report for induction, they can go to the recruiting office and enlist. They are entirely in error on this, he said. Once a man receives his notice to report, the recruiting office cannot enlist him; however, prior to receiving his notice, the man is eligible to volunteer and take advantage of the opportunities offered a volunteeer.

"PERMANENT PARTIES"

DAVENPORT, Ia. (U.P.)—Beauty operators here say "permanent parties" are illegal. A "permanent party," they explained, is a gathering at which the girls give each other waves with home sets. Operators hope to prove the parties violate the state's 1929 cosmetology law.

First Again with MERTOX
Now — A QUART of Medicine for $1.00

Now you can save $4.00 with the NEW Mertox. We know that the thousands of users of Mertox will welcome this drastic innovation. Better health —MORE medicine for LESS money.

Thousands of bottles of liquid Mertox were sold at $1.50. A few months ago we reduced the price to $1.25 because we realized incomes would not s-t-r-e-t-c-h far enough. This price reduction increased our sales volume tremendously. However, we were still not satisfied, for we felt that what was really needed was MORE medicine for LESS money.
But with constantly increasing costs of raw material, bottles, labor, freight rates, etc., we just could not see any possibility of a further reduction.
So we figured: why not eliminate the bottle, the high transportation costs, the extra labor costs of compounding, filling, capping, labeling and a great many other operation costs and put up Mertox in a simple form so that the user could make it himself? Here it is: Mertox in powder form, ready to make by simply adding water. For a few minutes' work you can save $4.00. It's simple; it's easy. Full, illustrated instructions on the package for making and taking.
The $1.25 bottle of Mertox contains 8 ounces. So do a great many other medicines. Thus, whether you used Mertox or some other 8-ounce bottle of medicine, here is the way it figures:

Four 8-ounce bottles (1 quart) at $1.25	$5.00
One carton the NEW Mertox (makes 1 quart)	1.00

BETTER HEALTH WITH MERTOX

It has been found by researchers that many physical discomforts often arise from the accumulation of poisonous waste matter in the system and from the lack of certain health-giving elements supplied in plants by nature.

Mertox Compound contains the following ingredients: Black Cohosh, Barberry, Burdock, Dandelion, Gentian, Licorice, Poke, Mandrake, Sarsaparilla roots, Cascara Bark, Buchu leaves, Juniper berries, Senna leaves, Aloes, Magnesium Sulphate, Wild Cherry Bark, Capsicum, Stillingia, Salicylic Acid, Glycerine, Oil Sassafras, Methyl Salicylate, 1/10 of 1% Sodium Benzoate.

Mertox goes to work quickly to help overcome the torturing pains of rheumatism. It tones the bowels into a more rhythmic action. Gas and Bloat, indigestion, sour stomach are quickly relieved. Kidney and bladder troubles are helped so that the annoying broken rest from having to get up frequently at night is lessened. Dizziness and run-down feeling is overcome quickly. Helps to build rich, red blood. Mertox can be taken by every member of the family. It contains no narcotics, opiates or calomel and will not make you sick or nauseate you in the slightest degree.

Ask your druggist for the NEW $1.00 Mertox package. All Texas wholesale drug houses have been stocked. If your retail druggist has not stocked the NEW Mertox yet, he can get it quickly from his wholesale house.

Magician Will Give Performances Here

Dr. Gaffney, internationally-known magician, will appear here for afternoon and night performances on Dec. 17 at the high school auditorium, under joint auspices of the 4-H clubs of Lubbock county and the Future Farmers of America.

Contract clinching the appearance was signed here Friday by N. J. Robnett, FFA head, Lee R. Colgan, 4-H club head, and C. A. Frank, booking representative for the Gaffney show. The contract calls for gross proceeds of the entertainment to be divided equally between the entertainers and the two sponsoring organizations.

Dr. Gaffney this past year was named as Academy Award winner by the Society of American Magicians for several illusions he has created, including that of the "disappearing princess," who vanishes into thin air on a brightly-lighted stage. He also received widespread acclaim for his untiring efforts on USO entertainment circuits overseas during the war.

The Gaffney show has also been booked for performances at Sweetwater, Abilene, Midland, Amarillo, Borger an Pampa.

He died enroute to the hospital.

Alleged Shortage Of Milk To Be Studied

AUSTIN, Sept. 11. (AP)—A conference of health officers here next week to look into an alleged Texas milk shortage has been announced by State Health Officer George W. Cox.

Dr. Cox said he would call "ten or twelve" health officers from over the state to discuss the matter after a Dallas delegation yesterday told him there is a milk shortage there which may grow worse during the winter.

"Our figures from the Dallas plants show there is no shortage and if there is a shortage anywhere in Texas we are going to try to find out about it," Dr. Cox said.

The Dallas delegation included City Manager Roderic Thomas, City Health Officer J. W. Bass, Milk Distributor Earl Cabelle and Attorney Hugo Swann.

Cabelle and Swann also called at the governor's office to discuss the milk situation. In Gov. Beauford H. Jester's absence, his executive secretary, William McGill, discussed the matter with them and promised to call it to the governor's attention, the governor's office reported.

Mystery Of Rubber-Collared Seals Solved After Years Of Work By Government Men

By ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The four-year-old "mystery of the rubber-collared seals" is on the dead-hook today, solved by tireless government sleuths.

The Japs did it—unintentionally.

The riddle has been secretly bothering the people at the government's Fish and Wildlife service ever since 1944, when they recovered a three year old fur seal sporting a ring-like piece of thin sheet rubber around its neck. That was in the U. S.-owned Pribilof islands, 300 miles off northern Alaska.

Nothing To Talk About

They didn't say much about that first one. Not a think to talk about. Seals wearing rubber collars? Nothing, really.

Then they found eight more in the same place, all bibbed out.

That sent the Fish and Wildlife sleuths into brisk action. They chased down all kinds of clues. They asked the Army and the Navy. Some new kind of a seagoing secret weapon, maybe? The Army and the Navy sniffed. Don't, said the Army and the Navy, be silly.

The Fish and Wildlife Hawkshaws turned next to rubber manufacturers. That helped. The rubber probably had been processed in a foreign country. Ha!

Believed To Be Study

"It was believed by some service biologists that Japanese or Russian scientists studying fur migratory habits had placed the rubber collars on the animals' necks for identification purposes," said Frank G. Ashbrook, chief of the Fish and Wildlife's wild fur animal investigations.

"But the service was unable to prove that theory."

The years passed.

Yesterday Ashbrook got word from the Air Force Air Material command at Wright-Patterson air base, Dayton, O. The Air Force had examined the collars. They could be fragments of rubber bags used by the Japanese during World War II for dropping food to their besieged troops in the Aleutian islands.

Ashbrook Figures It Out

Okay for the Jap troops. But the seals, the seals! Finally Ashbrook figured it out:

"Many of the aerial bags missed their mark when parachuted down and were blown out to sea where they floated on the surface of the water.

"The food attracted the small seal pups who probably plunged through the narrow openings of the rubber bags. Clinging to the pup seals' necks, the bags could not be dislodged and eventually crumpled away. The rubber rings remained on the necks of the fur seals as collars."

Well Of Lubbock Operators Brought In Near Rockwood

J. E. Alexander of 1922 Seventh announced Saturday that an oil producer was brought in early Monday morning, Sept. 6, on the Frank Bryan farm near Rockwood, in Coleman county.

The exact amount of production has not been determined yet, but according to the best record available, the well was producing a bailer and a half per hour, with prospects for a big producer after setting the casing and going deeper into the producing sand.

The well was drilled only two feet into the producing sand, which made the well drilled to a depth of 1,925 feet. The well is located on the old Rockwood highway, southwest of Rockwood, between Bull Creek and the Colorado river.

The operators are Alexander, James P. Posey, W. P. Soash and Jackson West, all of Lubbock, and others. The well was drilled by the C. L. Brock Drilling Co., of Big Spring.

Collision Near Round Rock Is Fatal To Georgetown Man

AUSTIN, Sept. 11. (AP)—A man identified from a union card as Eli Wilson King of Georgetown was killed in a head-on collision a mile south of Round Rock yesterday.

Justice of the Peace Jack Jordan of Round Rock made the identification.

King was in a pick-up truck which was in collision with a truck driven by A. A. Vilet of Dallas, who was unhurt. King was thrown out of the truck and killed instantly.

City And County Tax Rates On Increase Over United States

(By The United Press)

A survey of 20 U. S. cities shows that city and county tax rates are on the increase.

Twelve of the cities reported increases already in effect over last year or anticipated in pending new rates. Only four, Seattle, Kansas City and Omaha, reported decreases.

The other five either had rates unchanged from last year or were unable to forecast the new rate.

Minneapolis was highest among the 20 cities with a rate of $12.90 per $100 assessed valuation, while St. Louis was lowest with $2.74 per $100. The latter, however, has no county tax.

San Diego Highest

San Diego one of the smallest cities surveyed, made the biggest increase. The combined city-county rate there jumped 88 cents, from $5.83 last year to $6.71 for 1948. The next biggest increase was 27 cents in Buffalo, N. Y.

San Diego's city rate jumped from $1 90 to $2.05, and its unincorporated county rate rose from $1 92 last year to $2.41. Assessed valuation in San Diego is 50 per cent of the actual value.

Minneapolis reported that Hennepin county's combined 1947 tax rate amounted to $12.90 per $100 on non-homestead property and $12.52½ for homestead.

Decreases Noted

The rates, however, actually are based on $1,000 valuation, making it $129 for the first classification of property and $125.25 for the latter. The 1948 rate will be higher, it was expected, but the exact amount will not be known until a school tax amendment and other related matters are settled.

With no county tax in the city, St. Louis reported that its rate of $2.74 per $100 assessed valuation was unchanged from 1947. In 1946, the rate was $2.75 and in 1945 it was $2.73.

Among the four cities reporting decreases, Seattle said its combined rate with King county was now 49 6/10 mills per $100 valuation, a decrease of two mills. Kansas City's rate was $1.49 per $100, an increase of 10 cents, but Jackson county's rate went down from $2.39 to $2.07 for a total combined city-county decrease of 22 cents.

Oklahoma Boost Seen

The third city reporting a decrease, Omaha, said that its combined rate had dropped from $4.588 to $4.514 per $100 valuation. The fourth, Boston, reported that its rate had dropped from $4.528 in 1947 to $5 259 in 1948.

Oklahoma City's 1947 rate was $5.42 and its new rate will be higher, it was estimated. Los Angeles reported a rise from $5.22 to $6.06. New Orleans' rate of $3.67 has been static since 1941. Chicago, with a rate of 2.872 per cent per $100 valuation, has not set its 1948 tax.

Jackson, Miss., reported its city-county rate of $6.09 represented an increase of 21½ cents. Buffalo's city and county taxes are separate, but taken together they rose from $3.94 in 1947 to $4.21. New York's rate of $2.89 has been static for the last two years, while Dallas reported that its $3.93 rate included only one boost over 1947—a five cent increase in the school tax.

Mother Doesn't Think It's A Bit Cute For Her 22-Months-Old Son To Be Puffing On Big Cigar

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 11. (AP)—Other people may think its "cute" to see 22-months-old Lawrence Phillips, jr., smoking a cigar—but his mother doesn't.

Mrs. Phillips said last night she's trying to break him of the habit "but it's worth a year of my life to put up with the screaming" when she tries to take a cigar away from him.

Got Habit From Others

She said he acquired the habit from others—not from members of the family—who thought it humorous to see him puff on a cigar.

"As long as he doesn't see a cigar," she said, "he has no desire for one. But he comes into the restaurant where I work and other people give them to him.

"I think he'll outgrow it. He's just a little fresh right now. He's really a normal boy."

The Phillips home was flooded with letters or advice—some critical—after publication yesterday of the child's fondness for cigars. Telephone calls came from as far as Boston and Washington, the tot's mother said.

"Just Likes To Smoke"

A child psychologist, who requested that his name be withheld, suggested he be introduced to candy cigars to switch his taste from tobacco.

"There's nothing wrong with my baby except that he likes to smoke," Mrs. Phillips said. "And I don't like that."

HE LIKES CIGARS!—Twenty-two-months old Lawrence Phillips, jr., sits in a chair and enjoys a good cigar, an adult habit he picked up when he deserted nipples and teething rings. His mother says he smokes two cigars—twelve centers—every day. She adds that he doesn't speak very well yet but there is one word he knows clearly—you guessed it—"cigar."

Chronic Liars And Truthful Persons Caught By Detector

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Staff Writer

BOSTON, Sept. 11. — Chronic liars are not able to deceive Fordham university's lie detector one bit more than truthful persons, when the latter are trying to lie.

How this detector caught the lies of both kinds, all boys up to the age nineteen, was reported to the American Psychological association today by Doctors Joseph F. Kubis and Fabian L. Rouke, respectively of Fordham and of City College, New York.

The Fordham tests were made to find out just how much a lie detector can be trusted.

Electrode Tied To Palms

A German silver electrode, with beveled sides so that it is comfortable, is tied to each palm. This detector has a record of about 98 per cent accuracy in New York City criminal cases.

The chronic lying study was a very sharp test of possibilities, because it was used to discover only little lies.

Pairs of boys were left in a room with one quarter. They were instructed that one should steal the silver piece, anud afterward both should deny guilt. Half the boys so used were delinquents, and chronic liars. The others were truthful.

The questions were a mixture on emotional things, interspersed with two repetitions: "Did you take the quarter," to which answer had to be no. The truth could be told in all other answers.

The results showed conclusively that these boys and young men were able to fool the detector once, but if they were questioned several times, the fluctuating currents in their palms betrayed their lies. For a single set of questions the results of the detector were virtually no better than chance.

With two questionings the accuracy rose to 70 per cent, and with more repetitions went well above 90 per cent. The currents from palms were similar most of the time when the truth was told, but did not remain the same between one lie and its repetitions.

The scienists concluded that two questionings under this lie detector are not enough, but that if more are added even little lies can be picked up.

Pretty Dianna Cyrus Bixby Is All Set For World Speed Hop

By JAMES PADGITT
INS Staff Correspondent

BURBANK, Cal., Sept. 11—Pert and pretty Dianna Cyrus Bixby, California ranch girl, put her converted British Mosquito bomber through final shakedown hops today before attempting a history-making around-the-world speed flight.

Although many men have flown the globe in speed dashes, Dianna will be the first woman to try her luck on the gruelling 21,074-mile course.

The 26-year-old aviatrix and a bride since Aug. 9 plans to leave San Francisco on Sept. 26. She expects to complete her flight at the same airport 70 hours later.

Course Is Laid Out

She will fly the course laid out by the Federal Aeronautique Internationale in her history-making adventure, which has been approved by the National Aeronautics association.

Last woman to attempt a global flight was Amelia Earhart Putnam who disappeared in the tropical island region between New Guinea and Howland island in July, 1937.

Another woman flier, Mrs. Clara Adams of New York, made a leisurely flight around the world in 1939 in a little less than 17 days.

Apparently it is up to the plucky Santa Paula, Cal., ranch girl to complete the chapter in aviation history on women fliers.

Bought At Surplus Sale

Dianna purchased the British plane at a Miami war surplus sale six months ago for $4,500. Before she bought the bomber she was seriously considering flying the global route in her A-26.

However, after conferring with engineers and aviation specialists she decided on the De Havilland twin-engine plane which carved an enviable war record in the skies over Europe.

She admitted that at first she didn't like the plane, because it had "no personality."

For the past five months, mechanics have been working almost night and day on the bomber, readying it for its historic flight. The hop was originally scheduled for Aug. 25, but that date was cancelled when Dianna's advisers told her that more work was necessary on the ship.

No Room For Assistant

Every available space on the bomber will be used to store extra gasoline. There wouldn't be room for an assistant on the trip, even if she wanted to take one along.

MINNESOTA, UTAH ENTRIES WIN BEAUTY PAGEANT AWARDS — Miss Minnesota, BeBe Shopp (left), and Miss Utah, Marilyn Robinson, hold the trophies they won in Atlantic City, N. J., in the second round of contests in the Miss America beauty pageant. Miss Minnesota was the winner in the bathing suit competition and Miss Utah won the talent contest with a dramatic sketch.

The plane will be so jammed with equipment and paraphernalia that Dianna has even placed a limit on the number of covers she'll carry along for stamp collectors. She will take just 1000—and no more.

The bomber is equipped with a multitude of new equipment, much of it still marked secret. Five radios, including a 100-watt transmitter, also are packed aboard the twin-engined plane.

Dianna is especially happy about the flight because she's found a new kind of ear plug—a pair that will banish the roar of the engines and the whirr of the propellers. On one shakedown flight to Denver in the Mosquito, she couldn't hear for a day and a half afterwards.

The Stars and Stripes-bedecked bomber has been christened "The Huntress," after Dianna's first plane.

Will Carry Food

Besides flight equipment, Dianna will carry along sufficient food in hot cans, and a one-man life raft. She'll set her plane on the automatic pilot when she becomes drowsy over the Mediterranean, Arabia, Tibet or wherever she might be, and steal cat naps. She figures a pilot might get a mite sleepy on a 70-hour flight.

Initial leg of the global flight is the trans-continental jaunt from San Francisco to New York, a distance of 2562 air miles.

Then it is 1004 miles from New York to Gander, Newfoundland; 2532 miles across the Atlantic to Paris; 2000 miles from the French capital to Cairo; 2234 miles on the Cairo-Karachi leg; 1361 from Karachi to Calcutta; 2097 hazardous miles across the hump from Calcutta to Shanghai; 1107 miles from Shanghai to Tokyo; 2567 miles to Midway island from Tokyo; 1302 miles from Midway to Honolulu, and thence to San Francisco on the last leg of 2408 miles.

Married Aviation Cadet

Aviation became Dianna's chief interest when she was married to aviation cadet John V. Cyrus of Fort Worth, Tex., in 1942. She took up flying and when her husband was sent overseas she plumped toward joining the Wasps. The day she finished her training the women's flying unit changed their height standards and Diana fell short by 2 inches.

Cyrus was killed over Belgium and Diana continued in the flying game. She ferried aircraft and eventually bought an A-26 of her own.

Last November she began working as co-pilot for Eagle Air freight lines of Burbank. At the time she met Robert Bixby, a captain for the air freight company. With Bixby, who is a veteran of the RCAF and the Army Air Forces, she began regular runs for Eagle from Burbank to Seattle and Burbank to Dallas.

Last August 9 the two were married. Four hours later they took off on a regularly scheduled flight for Eagle flying a plane load of cut flowers to Dallas.

Protect Their Sight Too!

Better Light means Better Sight

Protection from traffic hazards is important, but just as important today is protection from eyestrain due to improper lighting.

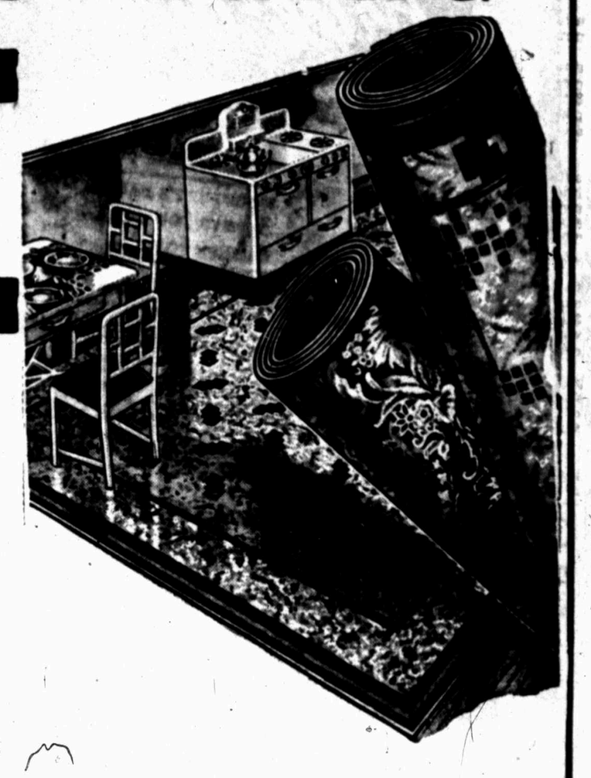

Growing children need more care than older folks when it comes to making sure that the light is right. Their eyes, still developing, need every bit of care and attention they can receive.

Make sure, wherever children work or play, that the light is right. Low cost electricity makes it easy—and economical too—to provide GOOD lighting—always.

Ralls Having Period Of Expansion; Basic Character Unchanged

Startling Population Change Since 1940 Is Noted; Many Pioneers Are Still Residing In That Section

By BILL CLARK
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

RALLS, Sept. 11—Although Ralls is a town that reached maturity two decades ago, it is undergoing a period of expansion that will add much to its appearance while not changing the basic character of Ralls itself.

Like most South Plains towns, Ralls has undergone a startling population chance since 1940. Its 1940 census figure of 1,512 has undoubtedly grown to something like 2,500, according to best estimates of two men who have analyzed utility connections—C. W. Mann, manager of the chamber of commerce, and W. H. Killian, city secretary.

The 1940 census figure, for example, occurred at a time when there were 240 water meters in service in Ralls. There are now 500 water meters, and other utilities have increased proportionately.

And yet, despite this great increase in population, one finds an unusual number of residents who have lived in or near Ralls for many years. Many of the businesses are still operated by men who were here in 1920, 1925 or 1930, and the sons of men who were here when Ralls was organized and named after the late John R. Ralls in 1911 still make Ralls their home.

Ralls is approximately at the population center of Crosby county although Crosbyton is the county seat. And the prosperity of Crosby county farmers is reflected in the commercial and public development that has added new life to the familiar landscape of the town.

New Car Agency

Among most recent additions to the city are a new motor car agency being completed by Abell Chevrolet company at a cost of $65,000; a $50,000 building under construction for Emma Church of Christ, a survivor of the former Crosby county seat, Emma, which now is the site of a productive farm; a $45,000 implement agency recently completed by the Ralls Implement company, owned by Ernest Kendrick; a group of civic buildings, including a new fire station, a Boy Scout building and an American Legion home.

Furthermore, fine new homes have been completed over a wide area of the Ralls residential districts.

The assessed tax valuation of Ralls this year is $985,128. There are 307 telephones in operation, according to the Southwestern Associated Telephone company. There are 418 gas meters in Ralls, 1,530 in the district served by the Ralls office of West Texas Gas company, said Frank Benson, manager. The gas company is currently installing nearly a mile of additional 3- and 4-inch gas lines and when that is completed 95% of Ralls will have access to gas service.

Industrial Concerns

Industrial concerns at Ralls include four cotton gins and a compress operated by United Compress and Warehouse company. The compress has an annual payroll approaching $75,000. It has been operating in Ralls 21 years and handles cotton from Crosby and adjoining counties. E. A. Henry is superintendent.

There are two grain elevators in the city.

Deposits at the Security State Bank and Trust company of Ralls were $2,836,360 at the close of business June 30. W. E. McLaughlin and M. A. McLaughlin are vice presidents, Carl D. Lewis is cashier and W. W. Wicks is assistant cashier.

Petroleum products are distributed by five companies in Ralls—Magnolia, Texas, Phillips, Panhandle and Cosden. Important east-west and north-south highways cross at Ralls.

C. of C. Is Active

Testifying to the civic progressiveness of Ralls is the chamber of commerce. Founded in 1917, the chamber has had a paid manager or secretary through the years, even in early 1930's. Mann has held that post since 1940.

Many projects have been completed or helped along by members of the chamber of commerce. Ralls has become nationally known as the site of the annual "Bill's Day" celebration, a day devoted to those men whose first name is Bill. Periodic rodeos, old settlers' reunions, and other get-togethers are also on Ralls' calendar.

Another active organization is the Ralls Rotary club, which has sponsored community improvement projects. Its officers are Emmett Lynch, president, Harold Priddy, vice president, John W. Thomas, secretary-treasurer; Roy Abell, jr., Priddy, Medlin Carpenter, J. Edd McLaughlin, Percy Eason, Al Roy Cooper, and Mike Wicks, directors; A. L. Winfrey, introducer, Tom Edd Benton, sergeant-at-arms; Mary McKee, pianist.

Four charter members of the club are still active in it: McLaughlin, P. B. Ralls, L. A. Wicks, sr., and Bill Marr.

Bond Issue Approved

Voters of the Ralls Independent school district recently approved a $100,000 bond issue to help improve badly overcrowded conditions in the schools.

Some of the buildings have been extensively overhauled and a six-room primary school building is planned for the near future to house first, second and third grade pupils.

Members of the school board are J. W. Gillon, chairman; H. Watson, vice chairman; Tommy Lyle, secretary; M. O. Greer, Ernest Kindrick, Estral McElroy and R. B. Danner. Sam Davis is superintendent and I. D. Moore is business manager.

Three consolidations have been effected since the war, New Home, Fairview and part of Pleasant Hill districts having been taken into the Ralls independent district.

Mexican Observer Will Check On Contract Workers In U. S.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 11. (AP)—An observer will be sent to the United States to see that contract workers (braceros) are treated properly.

The Intersecretarial commission which arranges for contract workers to help harvest U. S. crops, said Alfonso Guerra of the foreign office would go to the United States and check on braceros there. He will confer with Mexican consuls and make spot checks in various states.

The commission said he also would check on the illegal entry of Mexican workers into the U. S. Hundreds have crossed the border into Texas where Mexico has refused to send workers because of alleged discrimination.

The commission said border officials had been ordered to redouble their efforts to prevent workers from crossing the border illegally.

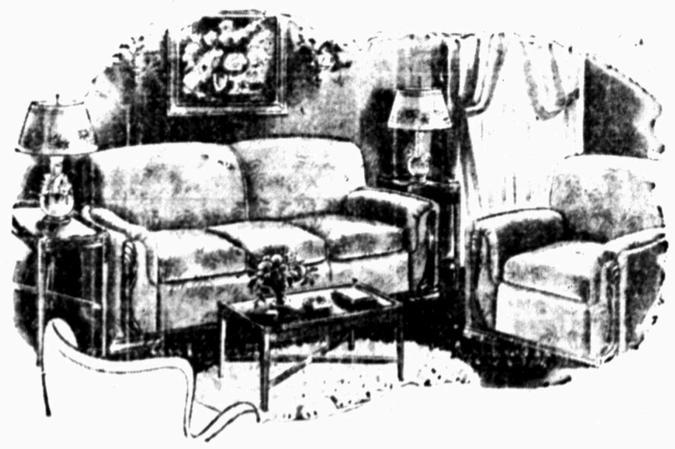

AS RALLS DEVELOPS—A $50,000 farm home, top left, is being completed south of Ralls by Marvin Greer, farmer who operates 2,100 acres of farmland. Top center is the new rock home of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Day in Ralls. Mrs. Day is standing on the porch. Top right, the new civic buildings, the new fire station in the foreground and the Boy Scout building to the left. An American Legion home is being completed nearby. Second row left is the new implement building completed at a cost of $5,000 by Ernest Kendrick. Walker and Son, contractors. Third row left, a new stalk cutter invented and manufactured by Thomas Starch, left, blacksmith who is talking with Charles W. Mann, manager of the Ralls Chamber of Commerce. Starch says demand for his product is heavy and he expects to sell several dozen this year. At right, steel is erected on the new $50,000 building of Emma Church of Christ in Ralls. At bottom is the newly completed home of Emmett Lynch, Ralls merchant. (Staff Photos.)

Sue Is Boss In Ladd Household

BY GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 11—You've written a story which you'd like to interest Alan Ladd in portraying? You'd like to buy one of his 15 race or saddle horses? Submit a bid on his proposed new house? Get him to endorse your product? You'll probably have to see Sue Carol.

Gracious Sue Carol, herself a former star, is more than Ladd's wife. She's his buffer against harassing outside business interruptions. Alan calls her his "liaison" with his radio show, his agent and others. "She takes a lot of responsibility off me so I can keep my mind on my work," the screen tough guy told me on the "One Woman" set. The director confided, "She does his worrying for him."

Sue, as his agent for three years, guided Alan to his first film fame as the killer in "This Gun For Hire." Alan was opposed to a picture career, thought his future lay in radio, when a friend got Sue to listen to this he-voiced, unknown actor on a local station. Sue took him to countless producers' offices. She got him a six-week moviepart, at $250 a week, when he was flat broke. It wasn't until some time later they fell in love. An erroneous impression is that Sue is still Alan's agent and collects 10 per cent of his salary. Another office does that now; Sue quit active agenting before their marriage.

Sue is brunette, blue-eyed, faintly freckled, slightly plumpish, a smart dresser, and a lively conversationalist She has lunch with her blond, more laconic husband at the studio every day he is working. Sometimes she brings the ingredients from home and prepares lunch, featuring hamburgers, on a hot plate in Alan's early-American dressing room. The hamburger meat must be small, thin, and well-done. "He's an awfully sweet guy but hard to feed," Sue says. The only dish he is incessantly fond of is beans.

Here's what Alan told me of Sue: "She does all the phoning. I can't talk business on a phone. She can stick to a thing better than I can. I get impatient and say, 'Aw, the devil with it.' She doesn't like to watch me work. She gets nervous and coughs and is scared to death she'll spoil a take."

A hard and fast understanding is that Sue never advises Alan on his acting. Says Laddie (as Sue calls him): "That's my department; I rise or fall on that." And Sue adds: "I never was a good actress. I wouldn't begin to tell him about that."

Hollywood On The Loose...

Facts And Fancies About Cinemaland

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 11.—Sonny Tufts. I've heard some people say, is slipping. Well, since Jan. 1 he's earned $150,000 and owns 25 per cent of the Columbia picture, "Untamed Breed." He's slipping, all right, only it's uphill . . . Enterprise is changing the title of "The Best Things in Life Are Free." It's hardly appropriate now that they've had to pay James Mason $150,000 plus a percentage to play in the picture.

Johnson

The ink was hardly dry on the Franchot Tone-Jean Wallace marriage disagreement when she started dating Howard Hughes.

Alexis Smith had to dye her hair red for her role in "South of St. Louis" and has decided to keep it that way. However, after thinking it over, young Dean Stockwell will have his locks restored to their natural color. Dean just finished the title role in "The Boy With Green Hair." . . . Mickey Rooney and just-divorced Barbara Lawrence have discovered each other.

The frost is still on the box office from Bette Davis' last film, "Winter Meeting." So Warner Brothers will release her next, "June Bride," in a hurry in the hope that the switch to warmer weather will thaw out the cash registers.

BIGGEST MISTAKE

PRODUCER Edward Small said it and he can do the ducking: "Next to trying to please New York reviewers, the mistake that has cost Hollywood the most money is producers making pictures to please studio executives' wives.

"These ladies generally have lots of influence and little knowledge. What they like best is a picture written by a literateur who's a good name to invite to their dinner parties and the devil with the box-office."

Lloyd Gough, who recently directed a Hollywood production of the play, "Shoemaker's Holiday," asked an agent what he thought of the play. "Never mind the play," said the agent, "But what a title for a comeback vehicle for Garbo."

WORDS FAIL TRIGGER

ROY ROGERS' Trigger receives between 75 and 100 bags of sugar every week from juvenile fans. Roy writes the donors: "Trigger is so grateful, he can't find words to express his thanks." . . . Gertrude Niesen nixed the lead in "That's the Ticket," the new Philip and Jules Epstein show Broadway bound. Gertie said she liked the script, said the play is sure to be a hit for at least two years in N. Y and she doesn't want to stay away from Hollywood that long.

Now that Melvyn Douglas' busy wife, Helen Gahagan, is home in Hollywood again, Mel has an appropriate sign posted above her studio door where she receives her friends and constituents. It reads: "Through These Portals Pass the Most People."

Bill Bendix's airshow, "The Life of Riley," will be filmed by Universal-International this fall. Bendix gets the lead. They decided he was the type.

Jayne Meadows (the wicked witch in Sam Goldwyn's "Enchanted") writes from Italy that she and her new husband, Milton Krims, have been double-dating with Ty Power and Linda Christian and several times she has been mistaken for Linda. Krims, however, reports somewhat sadly that at no time was he ever taken for Power.

Woman Dies, Others Injured In Collision

ARDMORE, Okla., Sept. 11. (AP)—Mrs. Malinda Mae Garrett, 91, Gainesville, Texas, was killed near here last night when an ambulance taking her home from Tulsa collided head-on with a truck.

Five others were injured in the crash, including the dead woman's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Geraldine Garrett, 46, also of Gainesville, who was riding in the back of the ambulance. She was listed in "very serious" condition in the Ardmore hospital.

Trooper Marcus Carter of the highway patrol said the 91-year-old woman was riding in an ambulance of the Parks funeral home of Prague, Okla., that was moving her from a Tulsa rest home to Gainesville. Her son, C. A. Garrett, was driving his own car behind the ambulance.

The truck driver was John E. Hale, 31, Gene Autry, Okla. His wife Doris, 31, and their two-year-old son, were taken to the hospital with minor injuries. Both vehicles were demolished.

Portuguese Wine In Customs Office May Not Go Down Drain

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 11. (AP)—Those 1,161 gallons of Portuguese wine which have been worrying the U. S. customs office may not have to go down the drain, after all.

The customs office has held the wine four years because of $10,545.40 unpaid taxes. The first announced sale brought no bids, but the customs officials are going to try one more.

There are two catches. The wine can't be sold for less than the tax due. And it must be sold in one 484-case lot.

Lana Turner Is Touchy About Weight As She Returns Home

NEW YORK, Sept. 11. (INS)—Blonde Lana Turner returned from a four months honeymoon in Europe Friday with a complete denial that she was "high-handed" with British newsmen and American occupation authorities, as was reported from abroad.

America's number-one sweater girl explained:

"All these incidents were due to misunderstandings."

Lana gave her own version of the skirmish with British reporters who charged that she kept them waiting more than an hour, then brushed them off without an interview. She said:

"We arrived in Southampton just 10 minutes before the British press conference was scheduled. Bob (her millionaire groom, Henry J. Topping) and I asked if the news conference could be postponed 45 minutes to give us a chance to wash up.

"The MGM press representative told us that was all right—so in 45 minutes we kept the appointment."

Other Stories Denied

Lana also denied stories that she had passed up three commercial planes provided by American occupation officers to take her to Germany to entertain American troops. Topping interjected:

"That's nonsense. We went to Germany by train and plane."

Lana said she and her groom had interrupted their honeymoon in the south of France so she could "entertain American troops."

Miss Turner was touchy on the subject of her weight. Asked if she'd have to take off a reported 20 pounds before she faced the camera again, she said:

"They always say that when you come back from a vacation."

Returning with the Toppings on the French liner De Grasse was Miss Turner's mother and Lana's five-year old daughter who accompanied them on the honeymoon.

Man Injured When Hit By Golf Ball Sues Fer $5,000 Damages

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 11 (AP)—J. Homer Houston of West Grove, Pa., is suing a Delaware man in U. S. district court for $5,000 damages for injuries received when struck by a golf ball.

Houston, in a suit filed yesterday, Charles John B. Escott of Lancaster Village, a suburb of Wilmington, struck him with a ball after teeing off on the 18th hole Sept. 21 at the Kennett Square (Pa) golf and county club

Houston, who said he was preparing to start a round of golf with three friends, claimed the ball fractured his left leg.

FILM STAR LOOKS FORWARD TO BECOMING U. S. CITIZEN

Greta Garbo, At 43, Still Is Glamor Queen And Rumors Of Her Marriage Are Finally Dispelled

By JAMES PADGITT
INS Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 11.—Greta Garbo, the glamorous Swede, today looked forward to becoming an American citizen.

Court records revealed that it was the second time that the "I vant to go home" film star had filed her intention of becoming a citizen.

In October, 1940, Garbo, who was born Greta Lovisa Gustafsson in Stockholm, filed to become a citizen of the land that had given her world-wide movie fame and a fortune reported to be one of the biggest in filmdom.

Allowed Action To Lapse

Her 1940 action had seven years to run. Garbo, for some reason never explained, allowed the action to lapse.

The lithe blonde actress, noted for her laconic statements to the press and for the secrecy with which she shrouds her private life, decided to take the step again.

Whether she meant business or not this time, no one knew.

The 43-year-old actress stepped unannounced in to the naturalization office. No one else was there and her visit created no furore as usually attends her rare public appearances.

Almost Bowled Over

Edith Gwartney, clerk at the naturalization office, said that Miss Garbo slipped into the building attired in gray slacks and a jacket. Miss Gwartney said that sight of "her favorite movie star" almost bowled her over.

"What can I do for you?" asked Miss Gwartney.

"I want to become an American citizen," Miss Garbo replied with a smile.

The clerk insisted that Miss Garbo said "want" and not "vant."

The clerk and Miss Garbo then embarked on a five-minute question and answer session.

Marriage Rumor Settled

A rumor bandied about in Hollywood for many years, to the effect that Miss Garbo had long been secretly married, was settled by the sworn statements on her application.

GRETA GARBO

The blonde actress, under oath, said that she was not married now and never had been.

Periodically since her ascension to film fame, Garbo was reported to be wed. Her statement apparently ended the rumors for all time.

During the interview with immigration officials, the actress proved her reputation for being one of filmdom's most photogenic stars.

She sat in a straight-backed chair and was routinely "mugged" by a camera that usually is cruel to subjects in its passport-type photographs.

Pictures Glamorous

The two pictures an International News Service reporter inspected were actually glamorous—as though they had been taken by some high-powered Hollywood studio portrait photographer and then retouched.

In the pictures, Miss Garbo looked more like a tender 30 than the mature woman of 43 she really is.

The screen siren of 25 film epics was accompanied by a "distinguished looking" man who was not introduced or identified.

Miss Gwartney said that he was an American who beamed when Miss Garbo swore that the statements she gave were true.

Miss Garbo also beamed when the papers were filled out.

"She was very kind and nice," said Miss Gwartney. "She was just what I expected her to be like.

Didn't Bat An Eye

"No. She didn't bat an eye when she said that she was 43."

Garbo was brought to Hollywood following an initial success in Swedish films when she was 21. She did not make her first lawful entry into the United States until 1933 at San Diego. At that time she was one of filmdom's top box office stars.

Absent from the screen for seven years, Garbo last month signed a contract to appear in an independent picture to be filmed in Europe sometime around the first of next year.

Title and plot of the picture have yet to be announced. If it is true-to-type, Garbo will play another femme fatale, the kind of role that made her famous.

Can Plains' Water Supply Be "Re-charged?"; Stassen Seen In Cabinet

IDEA IS UNPROVEN

It May Have Merits

EVERYONE has had the experience of facing seemingly difficult problems, only to discover the solution was right at their fingertips all along. Thus it might be with water problems of the South Plains.

As everyone knows, nearly all South Plains water comes from underground supplies. Most experts agree that the only source of these supplies is the rain and snow which fall on the area. Practical South Plainsmen recognize there is a limit somewhere to the underground supplies available and that we will be in a bad fix if they ever are exhausted, or seriously depleted. South Plainsmen, therefore, give much thought to any possibility of securing an abundant supply from any source, feeling that development of the area will be limited chiefly by the quantity of water available.

Probably no one knows how, or whether, the problem can be solved. But one highly intriguing possibility which has been receiving increasing attention of late conceivably might hold the answer. This possibility is through a practice known as "re-charging." This involves, simply, the drilling of holes to return surface water to the underground reservoirs.

WHEN rain or snow now falls on the South Plains, much of the water drains into streams and eventually winds up in the Gulf of Mexico. Much of it evaporates. All thus lost obviously is wasted. Some water becomes subsoil moisture and is used by plant life. Experts estimate that an average of less than one-half an inch a year dribbles down into the underground reservoirs, much less than enough to replenish those supplies.

So more and more people and organizations are asking the question: How can we get more of that wasted surface water into underground reserves?

One suggested answer is thousands of re-charging holes to put the water into underground reservoirs before it evaporates or runs off.

Official records show that the average rainfall on the South Plains amounts to nearly 10,000,000 acre feet a year—an acre foot being about 325,000 gallons. By the very highest estimates, present uses do not exceed 750,000 acre feet. Obviously, if a good portion of the water now going to waste could be saved, our problem would be solved.

THIS does not suggest re-charging holes are the solution. any experts doubt whether the plan is practical. They think such holes simply would fill up, and the water would stand there. Their idea is the water would go back into the underground sands too slowly to do any real good. They contend that the only way to make such a plan effective would be to discover, or develop, some method of rapidly forcing water back into the underground strata. Many sound engineers don't think it can be done.

But no one really knows whether the plan is practical. It never has been tried out, thoroughly. Certainly, considering the importance of the objective, it is worthy of such a trial.

Many individuals and groups are trying to obtain conclusive tests. They are seeking, with a good chance of getting, state and federal help. Lubbock and other cities might lend a helping hand in their necessarily extensive drilling operations.

The matter calls for consideration by farm organizations and individual irrigation farmers. Philanthropic persons might create a magnificent memorial for themselves through a relatively modest investment in an experimental re-charging test. A finer monument would be difficult to conceive than one which would insure plenty of water for the great South Plains and the dense and prospering population it unquestionably would support IF the water were readily available.

Assuredly the re-charging possibility must not be discarded unless and until proof seems positive that it is not the answer to the greatest of our problems.

Don't times change? Necessities now cost as much as luxuries once did.

SURVEY SHOWS DEMO PROBLEM IN SOUTHERN STATES

Thurmond Takes Heavy Lead In South Carolina Poll

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 11. — Governor J. Strom Thurmond, presidential candidate of the Southern States' Rights party, holds a long lead in his home state of South Carolina at present, although the Truman forces in the state are actively working to change the situation in the seven weeks remaining to election day.

GALLUP

The first complete survey report on South Carolina by the Institute finds that if an election were held today, Gov. Thurmond would poll nearly six out of every ten votes cast. In the same poll the voters expressed a desire to change the election balloting system of South Carolina, only state which does not have a true secret ballot.

The poll question on candidates was:

"If the presidential election were being held today, how would you vote—for Truman, for Dewey, for Thurmond or for Wallace?"

The following table gives the vote with the percentage of undecided voters included in the first column and eliminated in the second:

SOUTH CAROLINA

Thurmond	52%	59%
Truman	26	29
Dewey	10	11
Wallace	*	1
Undecided	12

*Less than 1 per cent

South Carolina is normally the staunchest Democratic state in the union, its electoral votes always being considered a sure thing for the party. But this year the Democrats face not only the possible loss of South Carolina but also the possible loss of electoral votes in Mississippi and Alabama, where the regular Democratic electors are reported pledged to cast their electoral votes for Governor Thurmond. In Florida, half of the electoral votes are reported pledged to the Thurmond ticket. This makes a total of at least 32 possible Thurmond electoral votes—a serious threat to the Democrats at a time when they will need every electoral vote they can scrape up.

South Carolina's election balloting system differs from other states in that the names of the opposing party candidates are not printed on the same ballot. Voters must ask for the ballot of the party they wish to support. If they ask for the Democratic ballot, they are handed a ballot with only the Democratic candidates listed, not the Republican candidate. If they wish to vote Republican the ballot they receive lists only the Republicans. Each party in the state prints its own ballots for use on election day.

The issue of whether this system should be changed was put up to South Carolina voters by the Institute poll as follows:

"Do you think voters in South Carolina should or should not have the right to vote by secret ballot in general elections—that is, to mark their choice of any presidential candidate secretly and on the same ballot?"

Should	80%
Should Not	8
No opinion	12

The unusual balloting system in South Carolina may be one reason for the one-sided vote usually found in the state. Many of its counties turn up with virtually unanimous votes for the Democrats.

In 1936 Lancaster County and Horry County went 100 per cent Democratic, not a single vote being cast for the G. O. P. In 1944 Calhoun County went Democratic by 99.8 per cent, and McCormick County by 99.7 per cent.

The whole state went Democratic by 98½ per cent in 1936, 95½ per cent in 1940 and 95 per cent in 1944.

Today's report on South Carolina is the fourth of a series of reports by the Institute on individual states. These have shown the following, with the percentages based on the number of voters expressing a choice, the undecided vote being eliminated:

	Dewey	Truman	Wallace
New York	47%	37%	16%
Pennsylvania	57	40	3
Missouri	41	59	*

*Failed to qualify on Missouri election ballot.

Looking At Life - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

"I NEVER hire a man for an important position until I have interviewed his wife," a magazine article I just read quotes the president of a Cleveland business firm.

I don't know anything about the firm. I have never heard of it, but that doesn't matter.

But I do know one thing: I wouldn't want to work for that fellow who wouldn't hire or promote me unless he approved of my wife.

BRANDEIS

That fellow apparently considers himself quite an expert on human nature, because, in the magazine article, he lays down some rules that are certainly novel.

For instance, he says that a man cannot make a good executive if his wife doesn't want to move out of her old neighborhood to move into a better one which fits in with her husband's status as an important member of his firm.

"What kind of a hostess would she make at an executive function?" this man asks himself and his "investigators."

If she doesn't look as if she could help her husband to "keep up with the Joneses' (the quotes are mine), he doesn't get hired or promoted.

Here are a few more criteria by which this sagacious (?) business tycoon shapes the careers of men: The wife must be a good mixer. She must be ambitious for her husband. She must not be too frugal. She must take an active part in the civic affairs of her community.

I wonder whether this fellow pays his executives enough to enable their wives to live up to all his requirements, particularly if they should happen to be the mothers of three or four or five children.

"Mixing" costs a lot of money these days. To take an active part in the civil affairs of the community requires clothes and time.

How many executives' wives have the time to attend to their community's civic affairs and to their home as well? That's all right if one can afford servants. But I don't have to tell you how much servants cost nowadays.

A WIFE should be ambitious for her husband, says this fellow from Cleveland.

I think that too much ambition on a wife's part is a curse to a man rather than an advantage.

I know of several cases right this minute where overambitious wives have nagged their husbands to failure, or by their constant egging, driven them to illness.

I know of one case where the wife of a man's partner had a mink coat while the other partner's wife could afford only a beaver.

So the beaver-wife kept after her husband, pounding it into his head that the mink's husband must be stealing money from the firm, else how could his wife have a mink if she could have only a beaver?

Suspicion and spying led to a

HE IS CAMPAIGNING

Claim Staked Out

By DREW PEARSON
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — After statuesque Harold Stassen conferred with Governor Dewey on campaign strategy, he came down to Washington to talk over future plans with close friends. Among other things, he confided that Dewey wanted him to play a most active part in the campaign.

PEARSON

Stassen asked his friends' advice as to what he should do.

"Go ahead and do a job for him," advised one friend, "but stake out your claims first. Tell Dewey what you expect in return."

Stassen replied that his ambition was to be secretary of state or secretary of national defense. His work as a delegate to the United Nations organization conference at San Francisco plus his foreign travels had given him a good background of foreign affairs, he felt, while his naval experience in the Pacific gave him a background for national defense.

Stassen also revealed that his agreement with the University of Pennsylvania, of which he is now president, had an escape clause, whereby he could take a leave-of-absence to serve the government.

The able ex-governor of Minnesota seemed to think his friend's advice was good. Since he is now one of Dewey's most active campaigners, it is a safe bet he has staked out his cabinet claim with Dewey in advance.

Brass Hats And Royalty

Plainspoken Brig. Gen. "Buck" Lanham was recently delegated to substitute for Chief of Staff Omar Bradley at an ultra-formal dinner in honor of Rumania's exiled King Michael and Queen Mother Helen.

Lanham, one of the best men Gen. Bradley has appointed on his staff, has been teaching Democracy in the U. S. Army. He also believes in Democracy when it comes to royalty.

Introduced to the queen, he blurted: "How do you do, queen? Glad to make your acquaintance."

The table of honor was set upon a dais, and Queen Helen murmured a polite protest as she mounted to her seat. Lanham shot back good-naturedly:

"That shouldn't bother you, queen. You're the only one of us who is used to sitting on a throne."

IT'S BEEN just three months since John L. Lewis's threatened coal strike sent fear of a coal famine up the backbone of industry. But today coal is a glut on the market, and some coal men are talking about the importance of having the government stockpile coal in case of future emergencies.

Just before Lewis was thumbing his nose at the operators, big coal consumers were buying at almost any price. They wanted reserves on hand in case of a strike. Result: They overbought. Meanwhile the export market has vanished. The German coal mines have begun to produce.

So right now some coal men wouldn't mind a strike—to use up reserves on hand.

Army Humanises Its Training has abandoned all-.

Contrary to general impression, the Army has abandoned all plans to give 18-year-olds separate military training and separate assignments.

At first, Army chiefs had considered shielding their youngest recruits from the influences of the regular Army, but Chief of Staff Omar Bradley finally rejected the idea. Instead, the 18-year-olds will be sprinkled throughout the Army according to where they are most needed—with one exception. They cannot be shipped overseas.

On the other hand, General Bradley has plans for "humanizing" the harsh Army training program. He has ordered that new techniques learned at Ft. Knox, where the Army set up a showcase training unit, shall be applied throughout the services. To this end, all new training commands, drill sergeants, etc., will be called in for a series of three-day seminars where new training methods will be stressed. Three of these seminars have already been held at Ft. Knox.

Meanwhile the training program has been cut from 12 to eight weeks to accommodate the rush of new men. Potential leaders will be picked from them during this indoctrination, to be given an additional five-week course right at the training center.

NOTE—The Army expected a flood of 18-year-old recruits, seeking to enlist for one year and thus avoid the longer 21-month draft. Accordingly a rigid quota was set, admitting only 10,000 one-year enlistments each month. But the 18-year-olds have surprised the Army by trickling into recruiting offices at only half that rate.

WHITE-HAIRED Mrs. Arne Ericksen, who operates a restaurant in upstate New York, called on Truman the other day to tell him that for the first time in her life she was going to vote Democratic in November.

"I've always been a Republican and worked hard for the party in the 1946 election," she said. "But this year I'm voting the Truman ticket because of the Republicans' failure to do anything about the high cost of living. All they did was mish-mash around during the last Congress."

The sprightly little lady added that a number of other Republicans from her town of Odessa, N. Y., were wrought up about G.O.P. "mish-mashing." They were "on the fence," she said, and could be won over by Truman if he made a campaign stop at Odessa. Then she added this special inducement.

"You know, I have quite a reputation for making pies. And I'll bake you one if you come up our way."

The President chuckled and said he might take her up. "My itinerary isn't completed as yet," he explained.

He added that he had tried to cooperate with Congress to bring down living costs, and expressed the hope: "Msybe there will be some changes made by next January and we'll get something accomplished then."

"I hope so," said Mrs. Erickson. "Goodness, hoy my friends have been putting me on the spot. They want to know why I'm supporting you if I call myself a good Republican."

NOTE—Mrs. Ericksen now has something else to explain to her Republican friends in Odessa. When she left the White House she carried a souvenir fountain pen, marked. "I swiped this from Harry S. Truman."

It's usually the person with the keen mind who makes the fewest cutting remarks.

EXCITING WAR STORY

"The Crusaders" Is All Too Human

"THE CRUSADERS," by Stefan Heym: (Little, Brown).

5½—The Crusaders by Stefan Heym: (Little, Brown).

SOME Americans, from Gen. Farrish, who talks and acts like a man named Patton,' down through colonels, captains, lieutenants and plain, ordinary GI's, fight their way from the Normandy hedgerows clear to the Elbe . . . a long drive, and a long novel.

They are carrying, in theory, and so we all once fondly believed, the message of democracy to the mislead and benighted Germans. For our time, they are crusaders; they represent the Four Freedoms.

HEYM

Their spokesmen, in Heym's story, are in particular Lt. Yates, an ex-professor, and Sergt. Bing, attached to a front-line propaganda unit whose risky duty is to get as close, unarmed, to the Germans as they can and, usually under fire, rig up loudspeakers and tell their enemy about the great U. S. A.

Contrasted with these two who are consecrated to their tasks some of their companions started out for Garcia but lost the message on the way. Both a bazooka and an idea are too heavy a load; it's difficult to be mud to the knees and pure-hearted and noble-minded, too. Furthermore, the democracy in which they were brought up taught them to fend for themselves. What if they are at war? A guy still has his future to think of; he can be ambitious even in uniform; he owes it to wife and children to bring back the bacon as well as a whole skin.

There are of course petty jealousies and rivalries, but the central tragedy is that men sometimes use the freedoms bestowed upon them by democracy to sully and demean it. They can be crass about it, like Dondolo selling victuals to the Paris black market or Loomis pocketing a rake-off on enterprises restored to operation in an occupied German city. Or they can behave in what is, strictly speaking, the reputable American way, mend their fences, make hay while the sun shines, pull off a big deal.

Too many of the crusaders try to carry water on both shoulders, and spill the wrong jug. There's blood and thunder, love, tension, action, and all the usual material of war novels here, but something else, too, new, exciting, sometimes all too human.

'Toward The Morning'

"TOWARD THE MORNING," by [illegible] Allen: (Rinehart).

THIS, after a lapse of four years, is the third installment in the eventual five-panelled saga which Allen is doing under the collective title of "The Disinherited." The novel is the Literary Guild selection for September.

The novel takes up the life and times of frontiersman Salathiel Albine at the point to which they had been carried in consecutive order by "The Forest and the Fort" and "Bedford Village." It is 1764 Pennsylvania across which gigantic Sal, clutching a new wife and assorted pioneering trophies, heads toward the relatively congested civilization of Carlisle.

Rare Historical Novel

It's a rare historical novel, not only for fleeing eastward, but for the degree of wordiness and lack of much of the usually inevitable plot and action. There are both the latter, of course, but also there are poetic fancies and turgid passages which may slip into better proportion when the eventual completed work is on the shelves. For the moment, Sal's reading fans may find the going somewhat slower than in the previous numbers.

"Toward the Morning" reminds us of some of our beginnings and thus helps to make it clearer what we are now and how we got that way," says Allen of his new novel.

"It is a picture of a part of our becoming. In such valuable 'reminding' lies the importance of any historical novel, and I can only say that I have tried to bring that kind of historical understanding in this book. "Toward the Morning" is not a simple adventure story in which a lot of things happen fast by contrived accident and the awkward distortion of history into personal romance. The people, the events, places and incidents have all been carefully chosen for their natural and characteristic importance."

"The Precipice"

"THE PRECIPICE," by Hugh Mc[illegible] (Scribner).

"PERFECT people don't need help," the wordly wise Marcia Lassiter tells her brother Stephen's wife Lucy. And this novel shows either that Marcia was right, or that there are no perfect people.

Lucy is close to perfect, however, though in the first pages we are as blind to it as her young neighbor Bruce Fraser in their little Ontario village near Toronto. Bruce's interest centers in Nina, her vivacious sister, for whom, and for their older sister Jane, a piano teacher, Lucy keeps house.

Lucy Attracts Him

When U. S. money takes over the local manufacturing company, Stephen, a Clevelander, with good looks, breezy manner, important job and new car comes to wake up the sleepy town. Nina is wide-eyed, but it is Lucy, sitting quietly at her desk in the library or working among her flowers, who attracts him.

If in her reserved way tending to the house, following Jane's guidance and yielding to the obviously pretty Nina, she had not seemed perfect before, she begins to seem so now, not only to Stephen but also to her younger sister and to Bruce. The moment Lassiter sets a high value on her, others accept his word for it and even discover worth that had escaped his vision.

Stephen takes his bride to New York, and almost overnight Lucy is thrust into an atmosphere, a way of life, an area of ideas completely foreign to her. How she and Stephen, molded in entirely different backgrounds, manage their marriage, how the war intervenes, how Bruce returns to the scene are related as the story develops.

It's comparatively easy to write about the sinner and the wicked, for the features of evil are not hard to describe. But it takes a good man to create a good woman, for the good is vague, intangible and difficult to blow full of the breath of life. MacLennan achieves a marked success; without being sentimentalized, cheapened, or left as dead as a doll, Lucy really is good. You understand why Bruce and Stephen love her, why Carl Bratian wants her, why Marcia admires her, because you love and admire her, too.

Forester Again

"THE SKY AND THE FOREST," by C[illegible] Forester (Little, Brown).

LOA, KING and god of an African village, his first wife and first son are the main characters of this romantic, not too improbable tale.

The villagers eat pygmies or, to satisfy justice as well as hunger, one another. They believe the moon rises at Loa's command. But the white man marches Loa and others away to slavery. From them, Loa, like old man Noa, learns a thing or two: the use of the whip, the advantages of cruelty and aggression.

Civilization strikes twice, however, and whether Loa could cope with it the second time you find out only by reading this Book-of-the-Month.

Regular Classroom Work To Get Underway In Schools This Week

With registration, necessary transfers, and the issuing of books practically completed, regular classroom work will be the order of the week in all of Lubbock's nineteen schools, according to Superintendent R. W. Matthews.

Because of crowded conditions and incomplete buildings, half-day sessions are being conducted in nine of the city schools. However, after the completion of the present building program six of these schools will be put on full day schedules for all students, Matthews said.

Schedule Is Given

Schools where half-day sessions are already being held or will start Monday are as follows: McWhorter, eight rooms; Overton, all 10 rooms; Roscoe Wilson, 10 rooms; Chris Harwell, two rooms; East Broadway, two rooms; O. L. Slaton Junior High all classes; J. T. Hutchinson, all classes; Thirty-sixth Street, four rooms; and Dunbar, eight rooms. With the completion of the new Overton and Thirty-sixth Street Elementary schools, and the J. T. Hutchinson and O. L. Slaton Junior Highs, and work being done on other buildings, full day sessions will be held in Overton, Wilson, East Broadway, O. L. Slaton, J. T. Hutchinson, and the Thirty-sixth Street school. Construction on an addition to Dunbar school also will be completed this year.

Monday the cafeteria at Roscoe Wilson school will be open, according to Mrs. Dora Nell Carroll, director of cafeterias. Two lunch periods are to be observed, with one group to be served at 12 o'clock and another at 12:25. On September 20 the cafeteria at O. L. Slaton Junior High school is to be open, Mrs. Carroll said.

Five rooms at Roscoe Wilson school will go on a full day schedule Monday morning, Matthews said.

According to G. E. Dawson and Jay Gordon, principals of Slaton and Hutchinson Junior Highs, junior high students in those two schools will attend full classroom periods during this week. Several days last week both schools ran short class schedules.

Olton Schools Look For "A Great Year"

OLTON, Sept. 11. (Special)—Olton is well under way on its 1948-49 schoo season and is looking forward to "a great year" in sports and other activities, Supt. J. T. Jones told a general "kick off" assembly of students, parents and patrons this week.

Several hundred were present for the meeting, at which Jones gave a brief outline of the year's work and explained steps to be enacted immediately to re-establish the Olton school in the Southern Association of Secondary Schools.

Enrollment in the elementary school was 507 the first day, with 170 reporting for high school class work. Others are expected to enroll when the current rush of farm work is over. All teachers were present on enrollment day.

Thirty-two candidates for the Olton Mustangs football squad reported to the coaches for a work out. In addition to the 32 boys, who spent a full week in training camp, several new candidates were present on school opening day.

The first scheduled game is with Muleshoe Sept. 17, the first conference game will be Sept. 24 at Olton.

Club work has become active. Paul Featheringill was elected president of the Quarterback club at its first meeting. Class officers will be elected this week.

School Coordinators Will Meet Monday

Coordinators in the secondary schools of Lubbock will hold their first meeting of the year Monday afternoon in room 110 at Senior High school at 3:50, according to Miss Dorothy Lomax, director of secondary curriculum.

Departmental work is carried on by coordinators, Miss Lomax explained, and it is their job to work with her in carrying out the work of the various departments.

At this first meeting a schedule of meetings for the year will be made and visual aid requisitions made. Coordinators include: Miss Claudia Neeley, art; J. H. Penn, instrumental music; Mrs. Elois Elliott, vocal music; Miss Bessie Bullock, commercial; E. E. Key, industrial arts; Miss Linjoel Hilliard, language arts; Miss Gertrude Watson, homemaking; Mrs. J. T. Baisden, mathematics; Marlin Hayhurst, physical education; W. C. Watts, science; and Miss Kathlene Ingram, social studies.

Reading Readiness Tests To Be Given First Grade Students

All children in first grade rooms in the Lubbock Public schools are to be given the Lee Clark reading readiness tests this week, according to Ishmael Hill, director of elementary education.

The purpose of the tests are to find out how much readiness work pupils need to be ready to read, and whether pupils are ready to read what teachers term "reading shorts" or formal book reading, Hill said. The tests will be given to children by one teacher in each elementary school building, and will be given by groups, with about ten children to a group.

The body of Pfc. Minard R. Griffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Griffin of Slaton route 1, is being returned from original place of interment overseas for reburial rites scheduled Tuesday, Sept. 21, at 1:30 p. m. in Fort Sam Houston National cemetery.

GRIFFIN

Griffin, a graduate of Slaton High school, was killed on Mindanao on July 1, 1942. He entered service Jan. 16, 1942, took basic training at Camp Roberts, Calif., and left for overseas service soon thereafter.

He was first stationed in Australia, saw action in New Guinea, and was returned to Australia for rest util the invasion of the Philippines. He was killed while fighting with the U. S. Army infantry.

Survivors other than his parents include three brothers, Chester, John and F. H. Griffin, all of Slaton route 1, and three sisters, Miss Iris Griffin of Slaton route 1, Mrs. Enid Holland of Fredricksburg, and Mrs. Floy Gaddy of 1612 Ave. E, Lubbock.

The Egyptians were the first to have cats as household pets, says the World Book Encyclpedia. Our word "pussy" comes from the name "Pascht," the Egyptian goddess who had the head of a cat.
