Flags For Veterans

Government Issuing Flag At Time
Of Death To Any War Veteran
At Post Office

A flag of the United States will be issued to the family of any war veteran at the time of his death, to be kept by the family, according to information received at the local post office.

A supply of the flags will be placed at every county seat post office, the Perryton office being supply headquarters for Ochiltree county. The flags are five by nine and one-half feet.

This ruling applies not only to world war veterans but to veterans of any war.

12 FIRE CALLS IN SIX MONTHS

FIRE MARSHAL GAMMEL'S RE-PORT SHOWS EXCELLENT
WORK OF FIRE DE-PARTMENT

During the first six months of 1931, there have been twelve fires, two a month on the average, according to the semi-annual reports recently prepared by Fire Marshal R. H. Gammel. The loss from the twelve fires amounted to $6,650 to contents and buildings, an average of $554 each.

According to the report the fires have been divided as follows: residences, 3; mercantile, 1; produce, 1; lumber yard, 1; trash, 1; vacant house, 1; hotel, 1; filling station, 1; automobile, 1; coal house, 1. Three of these fires were put out by the reserve tank on the big truck four by the pumper, two were out on arrival and three were extinguished by the chemical tank on the small truck. Five of the fires were at night and seven in the day time.

For the twelve fire calls, there was an average of fourteen firemen present. They laid 3,700 feet of two and one-half inch hose and 200 feet of small hose. The value of the buildings was $28,450 with $15,200 insurance on them. The loss to the buildings was $2,755. The value of the contents was $27,500 with $14,200 insurance in effect. The loss to contents was $3,895.

In addition to the fire calls, the volunteer fire department held twenty-six fire drills. Fire Marshal Gammel reports that during this period he made 549 inspections and thirty-two re-inspections.

The data for this report was compiled from the monthly reports kept by Mr. Gammel and briefly tells of the splendid work being done by the volunteer fire department and Mr. Gammel. Both are to be congratulated for this splendid showing.

Helps Foreign Students

American Students in Allied Nations are Helped in Finding Homes by Fidac

American students wishing to live in European homes while studying abroad will be aided by the Women's Auxiliary of Fidac, the International World War Veterans' Federation, according to Mrs. Paul Bowen, Fidac Chairman of the local unit of the American Legion Auxiliary. Under a plan advanced by Madame Julia de Mazaraki, of Poland, International President of the Fidac Auxiliary, the organization will place students in suitable homes where they will have excellent opportunity to study the language and customs of the country.

"Our aim is to guide and protect the young men and women who wish to come over to Europe to dwell for any period of time in one of the allied countries in order to study its language or to otherwise complete their education," Madame de Mazaraki said in outlining the plan to the American Legion Auxiliary. "We will place them in the homes of honorable families who, for a reasonable fee, will receive them as guests and enable them to get acquainted with the customs, ways and language of the country."

"The first case we have handled has proved very successful. A young American whom we have placed in a French family has written thanking us for our assistance and the family has also expressed great satisfaction at having him as a guest."

The project is being sponsored by the Fidac Auxiliary as a means of developing better international understanding and good will. Mrs. Bowen explained. The American Legion Auxiliary is the American member organization of the Fidac Auxiliary, which is composed of similar women's groups in the principle allied countries.

Mrs. Emil Hearn and baby, Mrs. E. Lambert and baby and Mrs. A. C. Nies were Sunday visitors in Shattuck, Okla.

NAIL PICKING MACHINE HERE

STATE HIGHWAY MACHINE GOES
OVER STATE ROUTES
AND CITY STREETS
PICKING NAILS

Thousands of dollars in tire repairs and time was saved the citizens of Perryton and Ochiltree county during the past few days when the nail picking machine of the state highway department was run over No. 4 and No. 117 and the city streets of Perryton. It is impossible to estimate in dollars and cents just how much these machines do actually save the motorists, for every piece of metal, every nail, tack, bolt and wire that they gather up is a potential source of a puncture.

R. L. Keith of this city, who is maintenance supervisor for this division of the state highway department, states that a total of 1,575 pounds of metal was picked up on the dirt streets of Perryton. On the five block running from the courthouse to the schoolhouse, 115 pounds was collected in two rounds.

The nail picker has a highly magnetized steel plate which is swung beneath a truck and run over the highway about six inches above the surface of the ground. Power for the magnet is generated by a large motor mounted on the truck. The magnet will pull nails and metal that are imbedded from two to three inches in the earth.

WILL BE QUIET HERE ON FOURTH

NO CELEBRATION IN PERRY-
TON; MANY WILL ATTEND
CANADIAN RODEO AND
BEAVER PICNIC

Independence Day, Saturday, July the Fourth, gives every promise of being a case of "all quiet in Perryton." No celebration of any kind is planned and many "folks" from this community will attend "blow-outs" in other towns. Some will go to the rodeo at Canadian, others are planning attending the Beaver celebration, still others will go to the creeks and shady spots for private picnics and not a few by any means will be in the harvest fields and looking after business affairs in town and country.

In Perryton many business houses will be closed, the banks will not open at all. The parcel post and general delivery windows at the post office will be open from 8:30 to 10:00 in the morning, being closed the remainder of the day. Post office officials request that parties that are expecting repairs, etc., to please be at the office during the above hours. Very few business houses that cater to the harvest business expect to close.

Mrs. Arthur Hackett and Miss Maie Hackett, Miami, are visiting in the home of old friends, Judge and Mrs. J. M. Grigsby, while they are in Perryton with Mr. Hackett, who is a patient in the Plaza hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Duncan, Shattuck, Okla., were Sunday guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Sheets.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Allen and children visited Sunday afternoon with relatives in Liberal, Kans.

ONE DOLLAR PER BUSHEL FOR WHEAT IN PERRYTON

That's one form of farm relief that the Ochiltree County Herald is offering to the people of the Perryton country. Read the big page advertisement elsewhere in this issue. The regular price of the Herald in Ochiltree and adjoining counties is $2.00 per year; any where outside of Ochiltree or adjoining counties, it is $2.50. Here's how to get one dollar for your wheat. We are trading subscriptions for wheat, figuring the Herald at the regular price and allowing you $1.00 for your wheat, which should be the regular price. The wheat must be in sacks, you weight it yourself, we'll take your word for the weight. Wheat subscriptions will be taken for only one year to a party, but there is no limit to the number of separate subscriptions that any individual can take. Bring in your wheat, we'll take it at a dollar a bushel until August 15.

Freeze Damaged Elms

County Agent Sheets Discovers
Some Trees Here Are Dead;
No Cure For Disease

County Agent Guy R. Sheets reports that he has examined a number of Chinese elm trees in Perryton that appear to be either dying or looking very unhealthy and has come to the conclusion that they are probably suffering from Cytospora. Dr. W. H. Long, a government pathologist, examined a number of trees in Amarillo Monday, and he came to this same conclusion.

This disease develops most rapidly in a warm spell of weather following severe freezing weather in the late spring so it is very probable that the infection was caused by the late freeze this spring. There seems to be nothing to be done, except to cut back all dead limbs to the healthy wood, and it may help some to cut out all dead spots along the trunk and limbs.

LEGION AND AUXILIARY MEETING MONDAY NIGHT

Regular meeting of the Pierce Johnson American Legion Post and the Auxiliary Unit will be held at the Legion Hall next Monday night, July 6, starting at eight-thirty. Visiting members and persons eligible to membership are always welcome.

Mary Jane Conley, who has been visiting the past two weeks with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Conley, returned to her home at Oklahoma City Friday. She was accompanied by Myrtle Conley and Arch Talley, who visited in the C. N. Conley home over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Duncan, Shattuck, Okla., were Sunday guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Sheets.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Allen and children visited Sunday afternoon with relatives in Liberal, Kans.

HARDESTY MEN IN CAR WRECK

RAY TINDLE AND L. BROWN
SERIOUSLY HURT; LIGHT
ROADSTER RUNS INTO
REAR END TRUCK

GUYMON, Okla., June 30.—Three men were injured near this city last night, one probably seriously, when a light roadster crashed into the rear of a wheat truck one mile east of town on the Trunk Line highway shortly after 9 o'clock.

Ray Tindle, driver of the roadster, received severe lacerations about the face and body. His companion, Lowden Brown, was the most seriously injured of the three, having suffered a badly crushed chest and bruises. Both are from Hardesty, Okla.

Grandle Rhoades of this city suffered a badly bruised left leg and other bruises.

The accident occurred when the roadster, going in the same direction overtook the truck. Rhoades was returning to his home after having deposited his last load of wheat in a local elevator and was "just killing along taking a rest."

Tindle, driver of the other machine said they failed to see the truck until too late to avoid the crash.

The men were brought to this city by passing motorists where they received medical treatment, and later were removed to their homes. Both machines were damaged.

ELLIS IS CITY GOLF CHAMPION

CAR ELLIS DEFEATS SHUPE
ONE UP IN FINAL PLAY
OF CHAMPIONSHIP
FLIGHT SUNDAY

Carl Ellis, president of the First National Bank and owner of the Ellis Theatre, won the crown of golf champion of Perryton in the final play of the first annual membership tournament of the Perryton Golf Club, when he defeated E. E. Shupe, principal of the Perryton High School, in a hotly contested game by the narrow margin of one up in eighteen holes of play.

Shupe gained the privilege of playing in the finals by taking Arch Talley, four up, in the semi-finals. Ellis defeated Nick Acker, one up. The finals were played Sunday. Virby Conley won the second flight. The finals in the third flight have not been played, neither have any of the consolation matches.

Mrs. W. W. McLarty, Miss Charlene and Miss Esther McLarty visited Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. J. M. Blasingame, south of town.

Mrs. J. K. Barnes, Fort Worth, and Mrs. Walter Bowman, Woodward, Okla., visited Friday with their mother, Mrs. H. W. Lusher, who accompanied them to Woodward for a short stay.

Miss Suzanna Sellers was a guest for the night Saturday with Miss Anita Jackson.

Observe 44 Hour Law

Effective July 1, Postal Clerks and City Carriers Given Shorter Hours

Effective July 1, all city carriers and postal clerks will take advantage of the new forty-four hour law and will get one afternoon a week off duty, and when ever possible, this day to be on Saturday, according to Postmistress Fannie Mae Black.

Postmistress Black also wishes to remind box holders that rent must be paid at once if they wish to hold their present boxes. Box rent is coming in very slowly for this quarter, it is reported.

200 ACRES OF WHEAT BURNED

TUESDAY NOON BLAZE LARG-EST REPORTED IN THIS SECTION; SEVERAL SMALL FIRES

A wheat fire, starting on the Roy Orrill place northwest of Perryton on Tuesday noon was responsible for the burning of around two hundred acres of wheat, according to reports, the most serious fire reported so far this season.

The blaze was thought to have started from either the tractor or the combine motor and burned about forty acres on the Orrill place, extending into wheat belonging to Mrs. Leila Apple destroying about eighty acres and about eighty acres on the Allen place.

The Roy Orrill wheat was covered by insurance. Alton Williams is cutting the wheat, no damage being done to his machinery.

Several small fires have been reported, one on the Holmes place and Roy Bateman had a small fire on the Hogland place. The extent of damage has not been determined.

PROTEIN TESTS OF WHEAT TO BE MADE BY COLLEGE

Goodwey, Okla., July 1.—Announcement is made by the director of the Panhandle Experiment Station of the continuance of the free testing service by the station for holders of wheat who may be in a situation to realize benefits from information as to the protein content of wheat.

In order to make this service of the greatest possible usefulness those who send in samples of wheat for analysis are requested to observe the following suggestions.

1. Limit the number of samples to lots of wheat which are being held in storage in sufficient quantity to permit separate commercial handling.

2. If a commercial sampler is not available take a dozen or more small quantities of grain from different parts of the bin mixing thoroughly together and send two and a fourth pounds of this mixture as a sample.

3. Mail or bring samples to H. W. Houghton, chemist, Panhandle Experiment Station, Goodwell, Okla., with full name and address of the person desiring to receive the report attached.

4. If more than one sample is submitted each sample must be plainly marked with letter, number or other designation whereby they may be identified.

Reports of analysis will be sent by mail as soon as the tests have been completed unless request is made to receive same by collect telephone or telegraph message.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hyde and son, Bobby, Miss Eula Lee Gilbert and Miss Mazie Patton, all of Higgins, were guests for the week-end in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Kelly.

Mrs. A. C. Witt and son, Willard, returned Wednesday from a few days visit in Amarillo.

Mrs. Paul Patton, Higgins, spent the week-end in Perryton with Mr. Patton.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Blue and family of Sitka, Kans., were in Perryton from Sunday until Tuesday visiting in the home of his brother, F. A. Blue, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Portwood, Amarillo, Pandan Cobb and Oliver Riley, McLean, and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Flowers visited Sunday afternoon in the I. R. Buchanan home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Cropper and children of Burk Burnett and Mrs. M. E. Wakefield and daughter, Mrs. Juanita Hunter, and little granddaughter, Joan, all of Brownwood, came in last week for a visit in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Cropper and Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Brillhart. Mrs. Wakefield and Mrs. Brillhart are sisters of Ted and H. T. Cropper.

WHEAT HARVEST IS IN FULL SWING

ALMOST FIVE HUNDRED CARS HAVE BEEN SHIPPED TO MARKET FROM OCHIL-
TREE TERRITORY

The harvest of golden (color only) grain is now in full swing in the Perryton territory. Hundreds of combines are at work but the mad rush of previous harvests is missed for much of the grain is staying on the farm of the producer. Almost five hundred cars of new wheat have been shipped from the county. Up to Wednesday afternoon, Perryton elevators had shipped slightly over two hundred cars, Farnsworth 75, Lord 10, Twichell 75, Hinton 60, and 35 from Waka.

The market has been running from 33c to 35c, with 34c being paid Wednesday and everyone expecting a drop. The yield is running around a twelve bushel average over this trade area, some fields going as high as twenty-five, others falling below ten bushels to the acre. The quality is good, practically all wheat testing above sixty.

Many wheat growers have already started plows right in behind their combines, and hundreds of acres of wheat stubble have been turned under getting ready for the 1932 crop. The greater part of this year's crop is going to be held in hopes of an advance in price. The granaries are being filled and where storage is not ample, the wheat is being piled on the ground.

LENGTHEN TERM OF DIST. COURT

INCREASE IN LITIGATION IN DISTRICT COURT NECES-
SITATES THREE WEEK
TERM OF COURT

Another indication of the growth of Ochiltree county during the past few years is the great increase in the number of cases in the district courts. So heavy has the litigation become that the regular spring and fall terms of the court will be increased to three weeks, instead of two, at the next session, which will open on Monday, September 7.

It has only been a few short years since Ochiltree county only had two weeks of district court each year, a week in the fall and another week at the spring term. In those days, as a rule, only two or three days of each week was required to dispose of the few cases on the docket. Then with the settling up of the county, came more court business and more people. The regular terms were lengthened to two weeks and now another week is necessary.

Frank Maxwell and Dr. Amond, both of Alva, Okla., were in Perryton Sunday looking after their wheat crops. Mr. Maxwell is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Minnie Blank and they visited a short while in the Blank home.

Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Sibley and baby left Tuesday morning for Sweetwater for a short visit with their parents. J. Lee Funk accompanied them and will take the train there for Austin, where he will spend the next few months.

Miss Ideline Winfrey, who is attending P. A. M. C. Goodwell, Okla., spent the week-end visiting with home folks. Misses Elois Moon and Rosie and Rachel Webb, classmates of Miss Ideline, accompanied her home.

Mrs. S. D. Johnson and sons, Joseph and Goulden, of Edinburg, R. J. Cook, Kingsville, and Guy R. Sheets were dinner guests Thursday evening of the W. B. LaMaster family.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Huselby and daughter, Isabelle, of Mobetie, were in Perryton the first of the week looking after their wheat interests.

Mr. and Mrs. Vance Apple, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Dodd and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kent enjoyed a swimming party at Beaver, Okla., Sunday afternoon.

International Sunday School Lesson for July 5

THE GIFT OF THE HOLY SPIRIT
Acts 1:6-9; 2:1-8

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.
During the next six months the lessons will be in the Acts and the Epistles. Jesus set forth principles pertaining to the kind of a life that He said should be lived. The Acts of the Apostles demonstrate that such a life is possible. In His ascension to heaven there was a conscious loss to His followers, but He had promised them that a wonderful experience would come to them, and in preparation for this event directed that they should abide ten days in prayer.

The place was probably the room where the Passover had been observed and the Lord's Supper instituted. Many think that this was the home of Mary, the mother of John Mark. All the apostles were present during those days and in addition many who were aggressive followers of Jesus. All did not understand the fullness of teaching which the Master had presented. Some were still looking for the erection of a visible kingdom that would overthrow the power of hated Rome.

On the day called Pentecost the dispensation of the Holy Spirit began. There were spiritual and visible signs, described in the lesson text. These manifestations are mere incidents compared with the divine power evidenced in the preaching of Peter, who explained how prophecy was being fulfilled in their midst. The sublime truth of the Trinity of the God-head is evidenced. Christ was declared in the Old Testament and His life was known in the Gospels. Even so, the Holy Spirit, though always present, came into special relationship with man on that day of Pentecost. His ministry is to make the work of the sons of God effective.

Anvil Park Rodeo at Canadian Will Be Real Attraction Again This Year

Canadian, July 2.—No expense has been spared to make the 9th Annual Anvil Park rodeo a success. One year ago a big grandstand was constructed where plenty of seats are provided for the thousands that will attend and enjoy other features added for the comfort and convenience of the patrons. The best talent and the best livestock the ranges produce have been secured. There will be thrills aplenty from the minute time is called until the last bronc has been fanned. And, you must remember that no horse can be trained to buck. Some horses are just naturally mean like some folks and when they buck it is because they want to—and enjoy it. Rodeo livestock gets just as good care as is given any other pet stock and are used only for the type of work they can best perform.

The country has been combed for the best livestock including bucking horses, and everything is in readiness for a good show so far as livestock is concerned. Brahmas, the thick hided Zebu, sacred cow of India, have been bred in South Texas for years because they are immune to the scourge of the fever tick, that ravaging disease which made cattle raising in that part of Texas, in the old days, such a precarious business. As a result of this breeding a new development was brought about. Not only were these Brahmas, which they call the new breed, immune to tick fever, but they proved to be immune to just about everything else on the calendar, including human kindness. The cowboys soon discovered that anything wearing leather leggings and walking on two legs was a sure-fire irritant to a Brahma. Nor did it take them long to find out that when it came to a question of swapping ends with great dexterity and speed, these tan colored old "sacred" steers could out-swap anything on four legs. The management has provided this type of cattle for the contestants to try and ride.

The association owns its own string of bucking horses, and they include some of the saltiest equines on foot. There will probably be a bunch of cowboys get their backs dirty trying to ride these animals. The calf roping is going to be especially good this year. The association owns a herd of Brahmas, and the calves are wild and rollicky. They can run so fast that it takes a race horse with a wild Indian riding him to catch one of them, and they are going to know a few tricks by the time they are called into the arena, because the Morris Brothers, famous clowns, are training them every day, and while there will be some scientific work in catching the calves, there will be something to laugh at every minute when these calves are trying to kick the breeches off the boys that attempt to wrap them up.

There will be trick riding and trick roping by some of the best talent, whose names will appear on the program. Among the outstanding artists in this line will be Ted Elder, Lonnie Rooney, Florence Randolph and Florence Hughes, along with other notables. You will wonder at their riding and roping skill. They have been attending all the important Rodeos over the country and come to Canadian this year with a number of new tricks that they will perform. Ted Elder was with Ringling Bros. Circus one year; and the 101 Wild West, from which he has just returned. He is the only living cowboy that rides two horses Roman over an automobile, and he is going to show this as one of his stunts at this show. The cowboys making this show have made the larger shows from Pendleton to New York, but this will be as good as anything they ever participated in, because, in the first place, we are near the range where we raise cowboys and cowgirls, and can have the pick of the country; then too, the contestants can do better work when they can hear the old cows bawling, and the stock is taken right off the range and put in the arena without a long haul over the railroads.

LUTHERAN CHURCH NOTES

What Kind of Church-Goer Are You?

There are four kinds in every community:

1. Sporadic Church-Goers. Attend when they feel like it, but do not often feel like it.
2. Periodic Church-Goers. Attend Easter, Christmas and on special days, but are afraid to get into the habit of going to church.
3. Occasional Church-Goers. Attend when nothing prevents, but are satisfied to fall back on any old excuse for staying away.
4. Loyal Church-Goers. Allow nothing to keep them away from church that would not keep them away from their work.

It's the Loyal Church-Goer whose personal religion brings them happiness and who enjoy life to the utmost. BE A LOYAL CHURCH-GOER.

kerchief ordinarily hangs loosely about the wearer's neck, but when a cowboy rides behind a herd of moving livestock, the neckerchief is pulled up over the mouth and nose. This mask guards against the suffocating dust. It also protects against sleet and freezing wind.

"As every true Westerner knows, it isn't vanity that prompts the rancher to wear high-heeled boots. The heels keep the wearer's feet from slipping through the stirrups or becoming entangled in them. The tall heels and peg-like shape likewise are of service in giving effective anchorage to the wearer when he throws his lariat about."

Because of his first-hand knowledge of life on the modern ranch, Cooper acted as technical director, as well as star, of "I Take This Woman." This picture will show at the Ellis Theatre, Monday and Tuesday.

NORMA SHEARER HEADS ELLIS PROGRAM TONITE

Norma Shearer will be seen tonight, Thursday, at the Ellis Theatre in her newest picture, "A Free Soul," adapted from the best-seller novel by Adela Rogers St. Johns and directed by Clarence Brown.

In support of the star are Leslie Howard, Lionel Barrymore, Clark Gable, James Gleason and Lucy Beaumont. The picture marks the first appearance of Barrymore in an acting role since "The Mysterious Island." Howard, who came to the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios after a highly successful stage career, has been previously seen in "Never the Twain Shall Meet" and "Five and Ten." Gable is considered the most up-and-coming leading man on the screen today, having received unanimous critical praise for his work in "The Fastest Way," "Dance, Pools, Dance" and "The Secret Six."

Double Conflict in Plot

"A Free Soul" is reported to give Miss Shearer the strongest role in which the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer actress has been seen in talks. She is involved in two separate conflicts, one concerning an agreement with her father in which she consents to give up her lover if he will give up drinking; the other involving a decision between two men of entirely different types, one a society sportsman and the other the head of a gambling ring.

A sensational murder trial scene on the order of that in which Miss Shearer scored in "The Trial of Mary Dugan" is a highlight of the production. Information is both the star and Lionel Barrymore have been given outstanding opportunities for dramatic performances in this episode.

The story opens in the hotel suite

'YOUNG DONOVAN'S KID' POWERFUL SCREEN DRAMA

Following up his history-making "Cimarron" performance, Richard Dix again shatters film tradition and upsets precedence in the leading role of "Young Donovan's Kid", attraction at the Ellis Theatre, Friday and Saturday, July 3-4. Dix's new roles, that of a New York East Side gangster of a decade ago, provides a perfect characterization for this ever-popular and decidedly talented screen favorite.

Jackie Cooper, lovable child actor and seven-year-old star of "Skippy", shares honors with Dix. Jackie contributes a gem of a performance, one which shapes up, in the opinion of this reviewer, as the most remarkable screen work ever done by a juvenile. This boy certainly is destined to become an outstanding fan favorite following his role in this production.

"Young Donovan's Kid" is Radio Pictures' adaptation of Rex Beach's popular novel "Big Brother." Dix as Jim Donovan, monarch of a New York gang, is forced through the death of a pal to take over the rearing of a young boy. Out of this association comes a great love and the desire to send the boy straight. But his every move for good is misinterpreted and he is hurled into a maelstrom of trouble which tears the boy from his arms. The climax, in which the boy is restored to him, is one of the most dramatic situations ever transferred to celluloid.

Theme a Welcome Relief

"Young Donovan's Kid" is a far cry from the usual gun-popping, men-dropping gangster pictures. It deals with reformation, not degradation. The film comes as a welcome relief from the hackneyed crook pictures of the machine gun and racketeering type.

The picture has been admirably cast. Dix reaches supreme heights as the steely-eyed killer who undergoes complete regeneration through the love of the little waif and the beautiful Marion Shilling. His is a role which combines ruggedness, gentleness, tender love, bitter hatred and stark drama, and Dix always the master of any characterization, contributes a performance as effective as that of his Yancy Cravat in "Cimarron."

Entire Cast Scores

Jackie Cooper more than successfully makes the change from his light comedy "Skippy" role to the pathos of the Midge Murray characterization. His interpretation is superb. Marion Shilling is a lovable heroine, while Frank Sheridan makes an ideal Father Dan. Fred Niblo directed in workmanlike fashion.

"Young Donovan's Kid" is ideal entertainment for the entire family. It should not be missed.

YOUNG DONOVAN'S KID BRINGS GREAT CAST

A New York East Side Robin Hood who killed as lightly as he kissed.

A parish priest who packed a Bible in his left hand and a wallop in his right.

A beautiful young girl of gentle breeding in love with a notorious gun man.

A seven-year-old boy steeped in the wickedness of adult gang life. A narcotic fiend with a mad desire to teach others to use his pernicious drug.

These are only a few of the amazing characters with which Rex Beach's classic novel, "Big Brother" is peopled, the Radio Pictures' version of which titled "Young Donovan's Kid", will be screen at the Ellis Theatre Friday and Saturday, July 3 and 4.

Interpreting the role of the gang leader is Richard Dix, whose brilliant performance in Radio Pictures' epic of western empire building, "Cimarron," places him among the greatest stars of all screen history. He again covers himself with screen glory, in a part radically different from that of Yancy Cravat.

Jackie Cooper, seven-year-old boy who leaped to stardom overnight in the title role of "Skippy", plays the incorrigible Midge Murray. His performance is said to be one of the most outstanding ever contributed to the screen by a child actor.

Playing the priest is Frank Sheridan, grand old Irish trouper of fifty years' dramatic experience.

Marion Shilling, beautiful daughter of the noted stage director-producer, Edward Shilling, with a half dozen leading screen roles to her credit, plays opposite Dix.

Cast as "Cokey Joe" is the sterling, vigorous actor, Boris Karloff. Fred Kelsey is the laughable, "square-toe," Collins. Bob Wilber, Congressional Medal of Honor man, plays the murderous Monk Manilla. Fred Niblo, distinguished director of "Ben Hur," and scores of recent talking pictures, directed "Young Donovan's Kid" with a keen instinct for the original Rex Beach story values.

Mrs. Harry Miller and Mrs. T. E. Miller visited in the J. A. Pugh home Sunday afternoon.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The subject of the lesson-sermon was "Christian Science" in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, June 28.

"Arise, shine; for thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee," was the golden text; from Isaiah 60:1.

The lesson-sermon included the following passage from the Bible (Isaiah 9:2): "The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light: they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined."

This paragraph from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, was also included in the service (p. 546):

"Christian Science is dawning upon a material age. The great spiritual facts of being, like rays of light, shine in the darkness, though the darkness, comprehending them not, may deny their reality. The proof that the system stated in this book is Christianly scientific resides in the good this system accomplishes, for it cures on a divine demonstrable Principle which all may understand."

DID YOU SAY FARM RELIEF?

$1.00 Per Bushel
For Wheat

Through the present harvest season, the "Ochiltree County Herald" is offering $1. per bushel for wheat, in payment of subscriptions.

Regardless of when your subscription expires, now is the time to take advantage of this exceptional opportunity.

The Herald is not lowering its subscription rate which is $2. per year in Ochiltree and adjoining counties. It is offering a bounty for wheat in lieu of money for the subscription price.

There are certain conditions of course, to this offer. The Herald cannot accept payment for subscriptions longer than a year in advance, to the subscriber. In other words, for each name only one year's subscription will be taken. However if one individual wishes to pay for more than just one person, that will be permissible.

And another condition is that the wheat must be in sacks. We have no storage facilities and for convenience must have it in sacks. Weigh it yourself. We'll take your word for it.

If you are not a farmer or do not have your own wheat, the Herald will allow you to purchase the wheat, but we insist that you buy it direct from a farmer and that you pay the farmer at least 50c a bushel for his wheat. Please don't pay him less—you are getting a bargain at that and we will appreciate your helping the farmer and in turn helping the Herald make the most of this drive.

We are offering real farm relief. Wheat $1. per bushel in trade for subscriptions.

The Old Black Hen

Said the little red rooster, "Gosh all hemlock, things are tough. Seems like worms are getting scarcer, and I cannot find enough; What's become of all those fat ones is a mystery to me; There were thousands through that rainy spell but now where can they be?"

The old black hen who heard him, didn't grumble or complain. She had gone through lots of dry spells, she had lived through floods of rain;

So she flew upon the grindstone and gave her claws a whet. As she said, "I've never seen the time there weren't worms to get."

She picked a new and undug spot; the earth was hard and firm. The little rooster jeered, "New ground! that's no place for a worm." The old black hen just spread her feet, she dug both fast and free, "I must go to the worms," she said, "the worms won't come to me."

The old black hen hopped to her perch, and dropped her eyes to sleep. And murmured in a drowsy tone, "Young man, hear this and weep. I'm full of worms and happy, for I've dined both long and well. The worms are there as always—but I had to dig a spell."

Here and there red roosters still are holding sales positions. They cannot do much business now because of poor conditions. But as soon as things get right again they'll sell a hundred firms—Meanwhile the old black hens are out and gobbling up the worms!

Opening the letter he found a six page missive, the like of which has never yet filled the pages of the most fascinating literature.

Bulls intended for heavy breeding service need some extra feed for about 30 days before and during the breeding season to be in good condition. Experiments over the United States show that whether or not lettuce will respond favorably to lime depends almost wholly upon local conditions. In some cases an application of lime has increased yields—and in others has decreased them. Lime should be applied only after careful tests. Other pointers on lettuce growing are found in a new Farmers' Bulletin, 1609-F, entitled "Lettuce Growing." It can be procured from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Spanish Omelet

Here's the way to make Spanish omelet. Four eggs, four tablespoons hot water, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, three tablespoons butter, two tablespoons chopped onion, two cups canned tomatoes, one tablespoon chopped pepper, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one teaspoon capers if you like them. Beat eggs slightly, add hot water, salt and pepper. Melt one tablespoon butter in omelet pan, when sizzling add egg mixture, and cook slowly until brown on the underside, add tomato sauce, turn and serve. For the tomato sauce, melt two tablespoons of butter, add onion and cook until a golden yellow; add tomato, pepper and salt; and boil five minutes; add capers.

Carrot marmalade is considered by many equal to orange marmalade, and it is not difficult to make. Put two lemons, which have been scrubbed, into the scales, and add enough carrots to weigh a pound and a quarter. Then grate the carrots and cook them until tender, and cut the lemons in bits and cook in a double boiler for fifteen minutes. Drain the carrots and measure the carrots and lemons combined. Add an equal amount of granulated sugar, and boil carefully until thick—which will be only a few minutes. Put in jars as you would orange marmalade.

Rice Pudding

One quart milk (heated), one cup raisins, one cup sugar, two cups cooked rice, three eggs. Cinnamon and salt to taste. Add butter size of an egg. Place in buttered pudding dish and bake for one hour.

Rice Balls

One cup cold boiled rice, pressed through a vegetable sieve. Add two tablespoons flour, a beaten egg and salt, nutmeg and cayenne pepper to taste. Roll into small balls and cook in boiling, salted water until they are hardened on the outside.

Rice balls may be served in soup or with a meat stew.

Scalloped Dishes

Allow one cup of sauce, one cup cracker crumbs moistened in one-fourth cup butter, for two cups of meat or fish or any of the mixtures you may use. Line a deep baking dish with one-fourth of the crumbs, another layer of each and cover with the remaining half of the crumbs. Bake till crumbs are brown. Oysters may be used alone, with their juice and the crumbs.

Rhubarb Jam

Weigh four pounds of rhubarb after the leaves and waste have been removed; cut up in short pieces, and cover with same weight of sugar. Leave till next day. Chop finely one-half pound of candied peel and mix this and three teaspoons of ground ginger with the rhubarb. Bring to the boil, and cook until a nice red color—probably about one hour. Put in jars or glasses in the usual way.

ABOUT WOMEN

Miss Helen Hicks of Long Island, N. Y., was awarded a diamond wrist watch emblematic of first place in the annual women's invitation medal golf tournament held in Augusta, Ga.

To Mrs. Marie Meyers goes the honor of being the first woman to win a post as traffic representative for the Eastern Air Transport.

Signorina Maria Stragni has received the official appointment of dental surgeon to the King and Queen of Italy and the crown prince and his wife.

Placerville, Cal., known as Hang-town in gold rush days, has elected its first woman official, Mrs. Maude Horn, justice of the peace.

Elaire V. Sheffer of Fremont, O., took an active part in state politics in 1930 as Democratic committee woman and she has just been appointed state organizer and manager of the Ohio Traveling Library Association.

WOMEN WEAR COTTON

Thousands of women throughout the South are joining the "wear cotton" movement, with a view to creating a greater demand for cotton fabrics and consequently increase in cotton prices.

In many communities style shows featuring cotton wearing apparel have been held, and women's organizations generally are backing the Mississippi Federation of Women's Clubs. The Georgia state congress of Parents and Teachers voted unanimously to request public school authorities to rule in favor of cotton for graduating dresses this year.

New industrial uses for cotton are being sought by organizations of growers and manufacturers, aided by experts of the Department of Agriculture, and considerable success in this direction has been attained.

In spite of these laudable efforts to increase consumption, the South is faced with a great surplus, and unless the acreage can be drastically reduced through cooperative effort the price of cotton is likely to remain low for a long time to come.

BROWNING HARDWARE

We're Burying Our Dead—

By Albert T. Reid

few small towns have so died, but that most of them remain show we still want a location for our town to think lightly of that town but still we want a location for our churches, lodges and high schools. We still want a place close at hand where we can find a doctor, druggist, a veterinarian, a ball of twine or a plowshare. The sort of merchants we find in our town are the sort we support with our patronage. If we make a policy of dealing only with the man who carries a goodly assortment of dependable articles he will stay in business and prosper, and as he prospers he will naturally offer better assortments and better service. So with the kind of lawyers, doctors and dentists. In a city farmers may not have much influence on the character of business and professional men, but in the little town patronage is the confronting influence. The little town is more than a convenience for buying every-day supplies. It is more than a first-aid station in case of a broken leg or a broken binder. It is the community center where social life of the farm people finds its most natural and most potent expression. The casual contacts of people mingling with one another as they go about their errands are what bind a community with a character all its own. Quite apart from any formal organization, the community spirit that centers in the farmers' town is the fundamental unit in agricultural life of our country. Our little town represents us as do our red barns and tall silos. It is our responsibility and our opportunity. We can select its business and professional people almost as we cull our flocks and herds, retaining those we want and eliminating those who do not measure up to our standards. We can influence its citizenship by choosing the doorways we enter and the counters over which we buy our goods. The little town is ours and it will be what we make it.—Times, Monticello, Minnesota.

EDUCATION

Education is of various kinds and may be acquired in various ways. The usual way of acquiring an education, of course, is to attend school and afterward some college, but this is not the only way.

In fact, school an doctee are the lazy man's method of instruction—if one has sufficient ambition—enough gumption—he can educate himself. Some of the best educated men in the history of our country never attended college, and some of them did not even "enjoy" a common school education. Abraham Lincoln, for example, never even passed through what is known as the eighth grade—did not even learn all, or much, in fact, of what the ordinary country school had to offer him in a day when the country school in this country was at its worst. Yet Mr. Lincoln was a statesman and a scholar, whom no man would think of classifying as uneducated.

The easy way to acquire an education is to go to college, but if one has ambition, a college is not essential. Probably a hundred men who have made their mark in American history never saw the inside of a college, unless it were to be invited in and have college honors bestowed upon them for their achievements in education or in other lines.

Colleges nowadays are recognizing and are conferring degrees on men who have not attended college, but who have learned by experience many things not necessarily in the college course, but which even the colleges are recognizing now as being equivalent to the things taught, although these things may be of a totally different character. Colleges are thus admitting, by the conferring of these honors, that an educated man is an educated man, whether he has ever been to college or not, and is entitled to the credit actually due him.

Thus it is clear that no young man without the funds to attend college need despair of becoming educated. His ambition—if he has any—can take the place of the dollars which are not in his pocket, and he may have his valued education just the same, provided he is willing to work for it. Money for a college course is very desirable, but is in no sense essential.—News, Magdalena, New Mexico.

HOME HINTS

"Inside" Information

Can your vegetables and fruits as soon after gathering as possible. One hour from garden to can is the ideal time limit.

First on the list of important tools for the home dressmaker is a good pair of shears for cutting out fabrics. Never allow them to be used for miscellaneous purposes around the house. Hide them, if necessary.

Summer rugs should be down by this time and winter ones put away out of moth's temptation. Certain parts of a rug are walked on more than others, so it is a wise precaution to turn them about frequently to distribute the wear evenly.

High cooking temperatures make cheese tough and less easily digested, so always avoid spreading it on the top of baked dishes where it is subject to greater heat than when it is mixed with the food. Cheese is a concentrated food and consequently it is best served with bread or other cereals accompanied by tomatoes, lettuce, spinach, or fruit.

The Federal Food and Drug Administration has consistently discouraged the use of artificial preservatives in food products, but it permits the use of sulphur dioxide and benzoate of soda when these chemicals are not present in injurious quantities and when they are conspicuously declared upon the label. It is illegal, under the food and drugs act, to use boric acid, formaldehyde, or salicylic acid as chemical preservatives, because of their deleterious effects in many cases.

To The Public:

We regret that conditions are such that make it necessary that sell goods for cash only, or bankable notes.

For more than twenty years our firm had done an extensive credit business with a comparatively small loss, but during that period the financial conditions have never been such as we face this time. Banking institutions, wholesale houses and other organizations who have extended credit willingly in the past are recalling in their loans and ready money with which to do a credit business is not available.

We have not lost faith in humanity. We believe that conditions will improve in the future. We are not prophet enough to foretell just how soon, but the American people are too great a class of people to stay on the bottom always. We should be thankful that our financial conditions in America are splendid as compared with the conditions of most all foreign countries. Until they get on their feet with cash to buy our raw and manufactured products, we will not enjoy the prosperous times we have had in the past.

The American public throughout the past twenty years has become accustomed to not only the necessities of life, but the luxuries as well. We spend more money in a month than the past generation did in a year. We are going to be forced to change our extravagant ways of living and spend according to our incomes and for what we buy. It will be a bitter dose for many, but in our opinion it is the only thing that will restore confidence and bring about a revival of prosperity.

CHAPTER XXVII

Every one in authority realized that all resources the allies could muster would be required to meet successfully the great offensive of the central powers expected in the spring, but to use them effectively close co-operation among commanders would be imperative. With this in mind I proposed to Premier Clemenceau that the commanders in chief and chiefs of staff get together to examine the situation and if possible determine a general program of combined action.

M. Clemenceau at once approved the suggestion. It was also favorably received by General Foch, who, it will be recalled, was chief of the French general staff. I proposed that the meeting be held at my headquarters, but the French selected Compiègne, Petain's G. H. Q. At the meeting, January 24, 1918, Robertson, for the British, spoke first, and suggested a general statement as to: (1) Mutual support between allied armies. (2) Situation as to reserves. (3) Question of troops in Italy. (4) Situation as to the transportation of the American army and facilities given it in France.

Petain Favored Defensive
General Petain thought that for the present the allies would be forced to remain on the defensive because of lack of men. He said the French army had 97 divisions with an infantry strength of from 5,000 to 6,000 men each, some thirty odd of these divisions being in reserve and the rest in the trenches besides eight cavalry divisions, two of which were dismounted and six mounted.

All divisions he thought could be kept up until April if there should be no fighting, but later on, even without a battle, he would have to break up five divisions to maintain

The German offensive at Verdun was stopped not by our resistance there but by our offensive on the Somme in 1916," said General Foch. "Such an operation is possible only when foreseen and prepared beforehand. In planning the counter-offensive I think that the entire front must be considered as a whole and not the French as one part and the British as another. The plan must envisage them together preparing offensive action on a common battle field with all the forces at their disposal.

General Robertson expressed accord with Foch, but he did not see where or with that means such an offensive could be executed, and stated that the war could not be won by remaining on the defensive.

"Give us back the troops from Salonika and we will commence offensives," said General Haig. "We were not speaking of offensives, but of the counteroffensives," General Foch replied.

General Robertson remarked that of course the French and British could reinforce each other and make counterattacks, and then asked: "Could they do more than that?"

"Not without the Americans," General Petain answered him.

Dependent Upon U. S.
General Robertson then said: "I think our only hope lies in American reserves," and he wanted to hear from me.

I stated that but few of the allied authorities seemed to realize that American participation would depend upon the amount of shipping available for the transportation of our troops, and that the time when they would be needed was near at hand. As there had been some reference to amalgamation, I also took occasion to emphasize the point that we expected as a matter of absolutely necessary. I then discussed our problems, calling attention to the delays at the French ports and other shortage of rail transportation, and touched on the backward state of procurement of equipment, munitions and airplanes. They all appeared surprised to learn of our difficulties, especially General Foch, although, even as chief of the general staff, he apparently could not interfere in matters handled directly by the ministry. It was astonishing to find how little comprehension any of them had of the enormous task that confronted the Americans.

Foch said: "None of the questions has been referred to me," whereupon Petain retorted that "one should not wait until such things are brought to his attention, but should look around and find them." Petain added at once that he would send an official to study our situation, and Haig later sent one of his officers, who offered many suggestions out of his own experience.

Bliss Favors British Plan

Conversations with General Robertson continued the next day at the Crillon hotel in Paris, with General Bliss present. The same arguments were repeated in favor of incorporating American units into British divisions, and General Bliss expressed himself in favor of the Robertson plan. I was forced to declare myself then and there. My stand was not quite what General Robertson had expected, and the meeting adjourned with the position of all concerned no longer in doubt.

General Bliss and I met later by appointment to talk the matter over between ourselves and, if possible, come to an understanding. After some discussion he suggested that each of us cable his views to Washington and ask for a decision. It was not my policy then or at any other time to put anything up to Washington that I could possibly decide myself.

This would have been the last thing to do in this case, especially as the secretary had left in my hands the determination as to how our troops should be employed. For two men in our positions to have appealed in this way would have indicated a clash, and Washington had enough trouble; besides, the secretary could not possibly have been sufficiently in touch with the uncertainty of these negotiations to make a wise decision.

So I said: "Well, Bliss, do you know what would happen if we should do that? We would both be relieved from further duty in France, and that is exactly what we should desire."

We then spent some time examining the question from all angles, until finally he came around to my view and said: "I think you are right, and I shall back you up in the position you have taken."

CHAPTER XXVIII

Once General Bliss and I had reached an understanding as to our attitude toward amalgamation of our troops with the British he gave me his support in later conferences. When he saw the British representative for further talks at Versailles January 29, 1918, all their argument, were met frankly and squarely. After they had presented their case Prime Minister Lloyd George asked Bliss for his views, to which he replied:

"Pershing will speak for us and whatever he says with regard to the disposition of the American troops will have my approval."

An agreement was then signed by Mr. Lloyd George, General Maurice and myself as set forth in the following copy of the memorandum submitted and later cabled to Washington.

"In order to meet the situation as presented by Sir William Robertson and hasten the arrival and training of troops, it is proposed that the British government use the available sea transportation in question for bringing over the personnel of entire divisions under the following conditions:

"1. That the infantry and auxiliary troops of these divisions be trained with British divisions by battalions, under such plan as may be agreed upon.

"2. That the artillery be trained under American direction in the use of French material as at present.

"3. That the higher commanders and staff officers be assigned for training and experience with corresponding units of the British army.

"4. That when sufficiently trained, these battalions be reformed into regiments and that when the artillery is fully trained all the units comprising each division be united under their own officers for service.

"5. That the above plan be carried out without interference with the plans now in operation for bringing over American forces.

"6. That question of supply be arranged by agreement between the British and American commanders-in-chief.

"7. That question of arms and equipment be settled in similar manner."

War Council Meets Again

The supreme war council began its third session January 30. At the opening session Mr. Lloyd George made a statement in some detail of the situation on the allied fronts. He then spoke of the large number of casualties the allies had suffered during 1917 and in a very pointed manner declared that the costly offensives had produced no tangible results. But instead, he said, the allies now found themselves short of man power at a critical period of the war. His sharp criticism was evidently directed at Sir Douglas Haig and General Robertson, but neither was given an opportunity to reply.

The military representatives presented a joint note with reference to military policy, as directed at the December meeting and the opinion given was identical with that of the conference at Compiègne January 24 and also in August at the meeting in Paris, except that the campaign under General Allenby, then in progress in Palestine, should continue.

The joint note was approved as the decision of the council, with the understanding, as suggested by the French, that no white troops should be sent from France to Palestine. It was decidedly the opinion of M. Clemenceau and of all others present who expressed themselves that the war could not be ended until 1919 when the American army, it was thought, would reach its maximum strength.

The allied forces at the moment were superior in all active fronts, except in the Balkans, but the Greek mobilization, when completed, would add sufficient strength to give the allies the advantage there also. The American strength was then negligible, but the prospect was that we should have a few more divisions ready for service by June, and by September possibly 17 or the equivalent of 34 French divisions.

The danger on the western front lay in the continuous increase of the German forces and in their ability to concentrate in turn against the French and British, and as neither had sufficient reserves of their own it was clear that unless some arrangement could be made between them for better co-ordination and support the war might easily be lost before the Americans should arrive.

Plan Allied Reserve

The study of this problem by the military representatives led to another joint note which proposed a plan for the organization of a general allied reserve. It provided that the British, French and Italian armies each set apart a certain number of divisions to constitute this reserve, which would be called into action only in a great emergency. The discussion of this question became acrimonious. Haig and Petain both pointed out that they would be short of divisions very soon in case of severe fighting and presented figures on the subject that were very disturbing.

But the council's scheme was cut and dried. The recommendations set forth in the note were adopted then and there by the council. The general reserve was created and its control was placed under an executive war board to consist of Generals Foch, representing the French, chairman; Bliss, the Americans; Cadorna, the Italians, and a British general officer to be named.

At this meeting Mr. Lloyd George designated Gen. Sir Henry Wilson as British representative, to the very evident disappointment of General Robertson, who was present at the session. The selection of Wilson was regarded by the British high command and the war office as open disapproval of their conduct of the war.

In the next installment General Pershing tells of the unpleasant methods of French bureau officials.

course that the American army would have its own front as an independent force and not be used merely as a reserve to be sent here and there. Plainview Hardware & Furniture Co. WILL SELL GRAIN BINS ON 5 TO 12 MONTH TERMS

LARGEST MANUFACTURER ESTABLISHES FARMERS' FIRST AID FUND TO HELP CARRY CROPS ON FARMS...

In readjusting their business to a new world-wide economic situation, many farmers have extended their working capital to the utmost. Many have splendid crops yet are faced with further losses if forced to convert their new wealth at this time due to sagging prices and threatened embargoes on shipments. The Butler Manufacturing Company does not feel such farmers should be forced to make this sacrifice for the want of efficient and safe grain storage. Instead they should have the opportunity of waiting for more equitable markets which may come as a result of threatening crop conditions in other wheat producing nations.

Consequently the rainy day reserve of the Butler Manufacturing Company has been made available to help farmers properly store grain by the establishment of the Farmers' First Aid Plan. It enables your local dealer named in this announcement to extend 5 to 12 month terms with out interest to maturity and at prices less than last year's cash prices on Butler Economy Grain Bins. This is the same ready-made steel bin with all improvements which the two large Butler factories have supplied for 30 years and on which owners report 20-year endurance records.

ONE HALF OF FACTORY PRODUCTION WILL BE SOLD ON 5 TO 12 MONTH TERMS

Thousands of Economy Bins and Butler-Dixie Farm Elevators will be available but not more than one-half of the production of the two Butler factories can be promised at this time. Farmers are, therefore, urged to make reservations now.

SALE PRICES ON 5 TO 12 MONTH TERMS LESS THAN LAST YEAR'S CASH PRICES
The Economy Grain Bin offered at Farmers' First Aid terms is the same bin, with all improvements, which the Butler Company has sold for years. Millions of bushels of grain are protected in them annually from rats, fire and weather. Economy Bins preserve the protein content of grain, regulate moisture content and cut shrinkage loss. The 5 to 12 month term prices are lower than last year's prices. You pay no interest up to the maturity date.

BUTLER-DIXIE FARM ELEVATOR Handiest, greatest labor, time and money saver since the combine. Elevates 300 to 750 bushels per hour into storage or box cars. Airtight, clean and conditions all small grain. Makes turning quick and easy. Only one moving part and it is carried in Timken double roller bearing. Choice of truck or low, worm hopper. Also available on Farmers' First Aid Terms at new, low prices.

Mrs. J. Malvin Jackson played high and Mrs. C. B. Rogers second high. Each received a beautiful gift.

Mrs. Kenneth George Honored With Shower

Friends of Mrs. Kenneth George, who until her recent marriage was Miss Viola Shearer, gathered at the home of Mrs. R. W. Shearer Wednesday afternoon and surprised the new bride with a miscellaneous shower.

The room was attractively decorated with pink and white, formed around a lovely table centerpiece of a miniature bride and groom. The honoree was last to arrive and she was met at the door with a shower of rice and wedding bells.

After the opening of the many beautiful gifts, dainty refreshments were served.

Birthday Party

Ruth Ann Shearer celebrated her eleventh birthday Monday, June 29, by inviting a number of little playmates in to spend the afternoon. After several hours of pleasant games, Mrs. Otis Shearer and Mrs. Herbert Shindler served ice cream and cake to the guests.

Those present were Camille and Sammy J. Black, Eloise and Dorothy Bull, June Phelps, Virginia Holland, Helen May, Evaline Bryan, Eva and Lena Murray, Elaine Manwarren, Ruth Sharpe, Geraldine Burk and Herbert Shindler Jr.

League Banquet

The banquet rooms at the Methodist church were gaily decorated in red, white and blue for the League dinner entertainment which was given Thursday evening. The flowers and favors were in keeping with the color scheme.

Charles Pike presided as toastmaster at the three course dinner, which was served by several of the League members. Special music was furnished by Miss Ruby Neufeld and Lawrence Elizey. Several songs were sung by the assembly. Jep Todd of Canadian, was the principal speaker and his talk was enjoyed by each of the ninety guests present.

Enjoy Outing

Miss Beula Crum, Miss Louise Brillhart, Miss Francis Cropper of Burk Burnett, Miss Besse Crum, W. J. Miller and George Hood enjoyed an outing at the Hood ranch, north of town, Sunday. Swimming proved the favorite attraction.

WATER PLANTS WILL NOT STOP MOSQUITO BREEDING

Aquatic plants that will prevent mosquitoes from breeding in the water where they are growing have been sought and at present a group of plants known as stoneworts (Chara) is attracting attention. Entomologists of the United States Department of Agriculture admit that, under certain conditions, some species of these plants do prevent mosquitoes from breeding, but they say that this plan of mosquito control is far from practical and should not be substituted for the well-established methods of oiling water and drainage.

Vigorously growing stoneworts give off large quantities of oxygen which collects in the form of tiny bubbles at the surface of the water. This fact has been considered as a possible clue to the toxic effect of the plant on mosquito larvae, as it has been demonstrated that large quantities of oxygen are fatal to these larvae.

The plants also, in areas where they make luxuriant growth prevent mosquitoes from breeding by so completely covering the surface of the water with their leaves that mosquitoes can not deposit their eggs. The plants themselves, however, are not toxic to mosquitoes, since dead or dying plants furnish an excellent food for larval development.

David Whimpey, 14, of Lehi, Utah, raised $329 worth of cucumbers on a third of an acre.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

Blood Pressure

All people have "blood-pressure" of one sort or another, "high," "low," or "normal." Each "normal" pressure is peculiar to the individual; it is a gross error to believe that one's normal blood-pressure is 100 plus the age in years. A man may be 75; he should not have a pressure of 175, if his arteries are in first-class condition.

If you desire to know a little more than your neighbor, then learn that correct readings of blood-pressure are "systolic" and "diastolic." Because the contraction of the heart, to force the blood through the body, is called its systole; when the heart dilates, to receive the returning blood, it is said to be in diastole; and this "diastolic pressure" is, to me, fully as important for the patient as the systolic pressure.

This diastolic pressure the heart must bear every second of the time; the systolic force is exerted at each pulse-beat, and gives an interval for the heart-muscle to rest between beats. I feel safe in saying that a high diastolic pressure can alarm me quite as much if not more than a high systolic; the patient with a diastolic of 120 or more, must get down, or he will not live much over two years, for, as said before, the heart cannot stand that constant burden any longer than that, as a rule.

If you have an abnormal blood-pressure, it should send you to your physician at once; stay by his advice until he says you are well enough to navigate for yourself. Many people stop taking advice as soon as they get to feeling better—they are so busy, you know; and they frequently make the mistake of their lives by so doing.

My experience has been that kidney disease sends one's pressure up very positively, but there are other causes than kidneys—and these are easier remedied. Your physician will set you right as to your condition. Medical "cuits" are not safe to be trusted in conditions involving blood-pressure.

HOLINESS MEETINGS

Alice Thomas, who has just returned from California, has located in Perryton to take over the gospel work at Union Chapel, east of the old courthouse.

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend the services at the church next Sunday. Sunday school will be held at 10:00 o'clock with preaching services at 11:00. Evening services will start at 8:15.

HEALING THE POTATO

If newly harvested Irish potatoes, especially those somewhat immature, are stored in a humid place at a temperature of about 60 degrees F. for a week or 10 days before being placed in low temperature storage—open cuts, bruises, abrasions and other mechanical injuries of the tubers will heal over, if not infected with decay organisms, the United States Department of Agriculture says.

The explanation of this behavior is that the potato tuber is a living organism which under suitable temperature and moisture conditions is capable of producing new cell tissues over wounds similar to the original corky skin. Below 45 degrees F. it will not heal properly. Between 45 degrees and 50 degrees F. it will heal slowly, while between 50 degrees and 70 degrees F. it will heal rapidly. Hence, preliminary storage at 60 degrees F. permits normal healing of injuries and largely prevents shrinkage and the entrance of decay organisms.
