MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

By H. N. F.

Frank A. Vanderlip of New York is a banker of international reputation, a financier of international fame, a citizen of the world as well as a red-blooded American. New York is a home but he isn't a product of New York. Illinois is his native state and he was born and reared in a little village in the corn belt. Having completed a tour of Europe, Banker Vanderlip declared in an address before the Economic Club in New York that the Treaty of Versailles was "the most unwise document ever struck off from the minds of men." Before the world could be restored to normal conditions Banker Vanderlip said the treaty would have to be "rewritten and the map of Europe redrawn." He asserted that Germany would not be able to meet her indemnity payments and when she failed to meet them "anything might happen from a revolution in Germany to the breakdown of western civilization in Western Europe." As a remedy other than the redrafting of the treaty and the redrawing of the map he suggested a federalized Europe something like a United States of Europe. Lloyd George and Tiger Clemenceau dictated the harsh terms of the Versailles Treaty. They stripped Germany of all her possessions, including her cables. Then they imposed an indemnity of thirty-three billions after having shut Germany out of the markets of the world. If a nation is without money it must pay its debts in goods. If it is without raw materials it must purchase the raw materials, turn out the finished product and find a market somewhere for the sale of the finished product. Frank A. Vanderlip is a very rich man; this makes him a very bold man and gives him the courage to speak his convictions.

Colonel John Henry Kirby was not born with a silver spoon in his mouth or in the vicinity of a golden cradle. Financially speaking he fought his way to the top of the ladder. Everything he touches gushes gold. The Houston Post carries the following: "The Monarch Oil and Refining Company-Kirby Petroleum Company joint well on the Harris 16-acre tract at Mexia, came in Sunday morning for 12,000 barrels, according to advices received in Houston. The flow is said to be clean oil. The well, which came in at a depth of 3,015 feet, is located 1,000 feet east of the Coyle well and 1,500 feet south of the Kirby Petroleum well. It is in proven territory and does not extend the field. Considerable interest in Houston is attached to the success of this well, as practically all of the stock of both companies represented is owned by Houston people." Colonel A. E. Humphreys must have changed his mind. He promised to spout oil from Mexio into the front door of Fort Worth, now John Henry Kirby is spouting it from Mexio into the front door of Houston.

There should be a great fair and live stock show given at Wichita Falls every year. It should be known as the Texas-Oklahoma Fair and Exposition and Fat Stock Show. Colonel Porter Whaley of Stamford has pledged all of West Texas to a proposition to enlarge an annual fat stock show in an East Texas city into a big West Texas fair. Well, H. N. F. is for a big West Texas fair, but he insists that the West Texas Fair should be in West Texas—in the County of Wichita, in the city of Wichita Falls, in the center of the wheat belt, in the center of the cotton belt, surrounded by the oil and gas belt and in the very home of the stockmen and progressive farmers of Texas. Of course H. N. F. speaks for himself. He is unable to expand, like his friend, Colonel Porter Whaley, to such an extent and high degree that he dares to say "West Texas is solidly behind the movement." On with the Texas-Oklahoma Fair. Now is the time and Wichita Falls is the place. Call Field has the ground; Call Field has the buildings and Wichita and surrounding counties should furnish the men and the money necessary to put the movement over.

According to the Washington correspondent of the Dallas News it is almost certain that John W. Philp will be appointed to the Dallas postmastership. H. N. F. made the announcement in this column early in October. John W. Philp is a native Texan. His father was a Confederate soldier. His mother was Mary Carroll Philp, a decendant of Charles Carroll of Carrolton, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. An uncle, Dr. B. H. Carroll, was the founder of the Theological Seminary Baylor University. John W. Philp became a Republican in 1896 and has been a Republican stalwart in Texas ever since. He has spent his money for his party, given his time to his party and has never been offensive or effusive about it. He is college bred, a noted club man and has been identified from boyhood with the business interests and civic affairs of his city. It is said that B. M. Burgher was an applicant for the Dallas office. He has held it for eight years, he was appointed as a Democrat and he owed his appointment to Charles A. Culbertson, the senior senator from Texas. John W. Philp's friends are confident that he will make a model postmaster and will give the people of Dallas a business administration.

Governor Neff will issue several Christmas pardons. He has already ordered clemency to 59 convicts—38 on Thanksgiving and 20 on his birthday Saturday. With two exceptions the 58 convicts were penniless and friendless and all had clean prison records. Waco is the home of the governor. George Robinson of the Waco Times-Herald is a townsman of the governor, a regular Democrat,

OBREGON GOVT. DENOUNCED BY WM. F. BUCKLEY

Head of American Association, Expelled From Southern Republic, Arrives in San Antonio.

Mexico Is Worse Off Now Than It Ever Was Under Diaz Regime, He Declares in Statement.

By Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 29.—William F. Buckley, expelled from the Republic of Mexico because of his activities as president of the American Association of Mexico in opposition to recognition of the Obregon regime by the United States government arrived tonight in San Antonio en route to Austin, where he will devise future plans.

Mr. Buckley stated that after having lived in Mexico for thirteen years and acquiring property valued at several million dollars, he was ordered to leave the country last Wednesday. He remained in the American embassy at Mexico City under the care of the American charge, George Summerlin from last Wednesday until Sunday night when he was granted "safe conduct" from Mexico City to Laredo.

"My expulsion from Mexico is due to my determined opposition to the Obregon government," Mr. Buckley said. "I sent several memorials regarding conditions in the Republic to the state department at Washington and the Mexican administration ordered me to leave the country.

"While in the embassy last Thursday morning I received a message from De La Huerta, minister of finance, asserting that if I would discontinue my efforts as president of the American Association and would dissolve the organization I would be permitted to remain in the country. This I refused to do. I did not answer the minister's communication."

When asked what he thought of the action of Governor Neff inviting President Obregon to visit San Antonio to meet Marshal Foch, next week, Mr. Buckley said that the governor had not the right to extend an invitation to an official not recognized by the federal government and that he was assuming the power granted only to the president of the United States.

Mr. Buckley in a lengthly statement issued tonight declared that the situation in Mexico with reference to American interests has not changed since Obregon assumed presidential duties.

"The Obregon government has refused to treat American citizens with justice and I understand that negotiations between Washington and Mexico City regarding recognition have been called off," he said.

Mr. Buckley attacked the methods employed by representatives of the American chamber of commerce to further trade in Mexico.

"American industries can obtain the same amount of trade by telling the truth about Mexico as they can by putting out Obregon propaganda which propaganda is doing much toward making the American people look upon recognition favorably."

"Mexico's finances are in no better condition than they were before the revolt which resulted in the overthrow of Carranza. Bonds are far below par and there seems no chance for liquidation of the public debt. The republic's only hope went glimmering when Thomas W. Lamont of the John P. Morgan and company firm refused to advance funds for the financing of any more government controlled projects.

"The country is worse now than it ever was under the Diaz regime. Foreigners are given no respect under the law. Their property is subject to confiscation at the will of Obregon. They are subject to expulsion at his desire. Their lives are in danger as long as they seek their rights and refuse to toady to the present administration."

"I am going to Austin tomorrow where I will remain several days. Then I will proceed to New York and Washington," Mr. Buckley said tonight. He added that he would consult his New York bankers and their counsel to ascertain what steps to follow.

COLLAPSE OF THEATER KILLS SIX WORKMEN

Four Missing Are Believed to Have Lost Lives and 18 Injured Are Removed From Debris.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The collapse today of the steel girded roof and one brick wall of a theater under construction at Park and Bedford avenues, Brooklyn, killed at least six workmen and injured eighteen others, many of them so severely that they may die. Four others are missing and believed to be buried in the ruins.

Following a preliminary investigation, Sylvester Rosenthal and Samuel Moskowitz, owners of and contractors for the building, were arrested and held without bail on charges of manslaughter in the first degree. More arrests tomorrow were predicted by District Attorney Harry E. Lewis.

PRINCE HIROHITO, REGENT OF JAPAN

EVIDENCE ALL COMPLETED IN BOUNDARY SUIT

Texas and Oklahoma Representatives Bury Hatchet Temporarily and Celebrate Together.

Special to the Record News

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The last bit of evidence in the $100,000,000 Texas-Oklahoma boundary dispute was completed late today. Tonight Commissioner Tyler, who has heard all the evidence, attorneys for Texas and attorneys for Oklahoma celebrated the close of the long, tedious part of it by gathering around a big table at the University club in a banquet.

For the time being, Oklahoma and Texas representatives forgot their differences and had a good time. The next step in the case is the argument before the supreme court on March 6. Attorney General Kealing will argue for Texas and Attorney General Freeling for Oklahoma. C. M. Cureton, who as Texas attorney general argued the case before the supreme court on the first phase of the case, has retired to become chief justice of the Texas supreme court.

Commissioner Tyler will at once begin preparing a digest of the hearings he has held for the use of the supreme court.

MEYER PRESCRIBES CURE FOR NEEDS OF MID-WEST FARMERS

By Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 29.—Solution of the needs of farmers in the corn belt for financial assistance rests with local bankers and farmers co-operating with the state committees of the government's war finance corporation, Eugene C. Meyer Jr., managing director of the corporation, declared here today in addressing a meeting of Indiana bankers and farmers.

"Unlimited government funds may be made available for the credit of the farmers," Mr. Meyer said, "while Governor Warren T. McCray of Indiana, chairman of the corporation's advisory committee on the needs of the corn belt farmers, estimated that a minimum of $200,000,000 would be required to finance farmers in holding their surplus corn on the farms for an orderly marketing of this year's bumper crop.

BOY KIDNAPPED AT ST. LOUIS IS FOUND AFTER LONG SEARCH

By Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 29.—Vincent Castelli, five years old, who was kidnaped November 17, has been found, police announced today. No details were forthcoming. The Castelli boy was abducted three days after Dominick Di Franco, seven, was kidnaped. Police expressed belief that the same band was responsible for both kidnapings.

JAPAN'S RATIO NOW LESS THAN PLAN PROVIDES

Intention of Americans to Accept No Modifications, Backed by Comparative Figures.

Head of Japanese Delegation Declares Kato's Statement Merely His Personal Opinion.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The intention of the American delegation to the arms conference to accept no modification of Secretary Hughes' proposed "five-five-three" ration of naval strength as the fundamental basis of any limitation agreement was authoritatively reiterated today. The statement was backed by disclosure of the facts as to existing naval strength.

This showed Japan to have less than the sixty per cent status to which the "5-5-3" plan would entitle her, no matter what method of calculation was applied. It showed also that the American delegates had been over the whole field before offering the plan and that their figures were correct.

Meanwhile Prince Tokugawa, of the Japanese delegation, declared that the statement yesterday of Vice Admiral Kato of the Japanese advisory staff, contending for a seventy per cent status for Japan, was based on "personal opinion" alone. The prince said it was not sponsored by the delegation of which Vice Admiral Kato is not a member.

Prince Tokugawa would not reveal, however, the actual view of the Japanese delegates as to what percentage Japan would insist upon in fleet strength.

Because over uncertainty over the Japanese position a meeting of the international sub-committee of naval experts was adjourned without action today and another meeting was called for tomorrow. Meantime there were suggestestions that a plenary session of the conference might be held early next week to receive the sub-committee report, but no formal call was issued.

In any event, it is expected that the real issue will be decided in the individual conferences now proceeding between the delegates of the United States, Great Britain and Japan. In American quarters there was optimism that the agreement would be reached within a few days, but no one would make a definite prediction.

On side of actual progress the day's developments were confined to the Far Eastern negotiations, the representatives of the nine participating nations agreeing to a declaration for abolition of their extra-territorial rights in China. The acceptance of that principle through application of the American "four points" was regarded generally as a long step toward the liberation of China from foreign administration, although the exact date of withdrawal is to be determined by each of the nations for itself after an international commission has investigated the facilities of the Chinese judicial system.

RAISE OVER HALF BUDGET ON TUESDAY

Total of $21,315 Reported as Result of First Day's Work on Campaign for United Charities.

With a total of $21,315 toward the $35,500 budget reported by workers at the evening luncheon as secured during the first day of the United Charities campaign, it was hoped by those directing the work that Wichita Falls' support for the seven organizations for the coming year will have been accorded by the end of the second day.

At tonight's dinner it is expected that the actual solicitations will have been closed with the exception of some of those listed who might be away from the city, or of some organizations whose donation is awaiting instruction from a headquarters away from here.

Generous gifts which represented real sacrifices on the part of the donor were frequently received, according to worker's reports, while a few reported experiences of an opposite kind.

The generous givers have been found among the wealthier men, and among those of moderate and modest means, with some reported in the class with means just below those of the wealthier and above those classed as moderate as among those deaf to the appeal of the work they were asked to support. Oil companies and oil men as heretofore have proven generous—one of the largest of the companies and its officials here setting an example in liberality and promptitude. A contrasting report was returned for a worker holding a responsible position in another big office here, who was reported to have flouted the institutions and the city and insulted the solicitors—themselves business men giving both time and money to the cause.

The incident called for caustic comment from workers at the dinner, some of the more prominent of the

Frank A. Vanderlip, photographed on his recent return.

Frank A. Vanderlip, American banker, has returned from a trip to Europe with, it is reported, a plan for the settlement of the inter-allied debt to America. He also brings a message of cheer. "Compared with Europe," he says, "America is so well off that this country has every reason to be thankful at this season of the year."

RESIGNATION OF SUPT. KING IS ACCEPTED

Boad of Contol Holds That Gatesville Head Had No Right to Withdraw His Resignation.

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Nov. 29.—The board of control today accepted the resignation of Superintendent C. E. King of the juvenile training school at Gatesville by a unanimous vote of the three members.

The board held that Mr. King had no right to withdraw the resignation after presenting it formally to the controlling body of the school and refused to consider his request of yesterday that it be withdrawn.

KING'S SUCCESSOR WON'T BE NAMED IMMEDIATELY

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 29.—The successor to Superintendent C. E. King of the Juvenile Training school, whose resignation was accepted by the board of control today, will not be selected immediately, Chairman S. B. Cowell announced today. By law, Mr. King is allowed sixty days in which to complete arrangements for his departure after tendering his resignation. It becomes effective January 18.

In considering Mr. King's successor the board will abide absolutely by the provisions of the law which created the institution and which sets out the requirements of the superintendent, Mr. Crowell said.

The board now has approximately twenty applications for the place on file which will be considered when the successor is selected, Mr. Crowell continued. However, a great number of the men applying do not meet the requirements of the law and their applications will be rejected as will all other similar ones, he pointed out.

The provisions of the law he referred to holds that besides being a man of high moral character, education and training the superintendent "shall have had experience in handling wayward and delinquent boys." The ineligible applicants have had no previous experience.

ONE FULL STRENGTH TEXAS GUARD UNIT NEARLY COMPLETED

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 29.—Texas will be able to present the war department with one full strength national guard infantry regiment as a Christmas present in the opinion of Adjutant General Barton, and it is only a matter of a few months until three other regiments, now organizing, will be completed. These regiments will be units in the thirty-sixth division.

CHINA GRANTED FURTHER FAVOR BY DELEGATES

Resolutions Adopted by Committee Proposing Abandonment of Foreign Courts in That Country.

Chinese Delegates Press Point Declaring for Withdrawal of All Foreign Troops From China.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—China won further concessions today in the conference of the nine powers on questions affecting the Pacific and the Far East.

In conformity with the Root resolution declaring for the territorial and administrative integrity of China, the Pacific and Far Eastern committee adopted resolutions looking to the abandonment of foreign courts in China.

The resolutions drafted by the subcommittee, headed by Senator Lodge, provide for an international commission of jurists, which is to report within a year whether the Chinese laws and court practices warrant abandonment of the foreign courts created under treaties granting extra territorial rights in China.

Immediately after these resolutions were adopted the Chinese delegates pressed another of their "ten points"—that declaring for withdrawal of all foreign troops from Chinese soil and also for abandonment of foreign telegraph, radio and police wire systems. Dr. Sze, Chinese minister here and a delegate to the conference, presented detailed information regarding the number of troops and extent of foreign wire systems, in which the Japanese predominate, and there was wide discussion of the question by all delegates behind closed doors.

FATE PROHIBITION PARTY HINGING ON LEADERS' DECISION

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—The fate of the prohibition party was debated here all day today at a conference of party leaders. Tomorrow the national prohibition committee will take it up.

It developed in the day's discussion, that there was more sentiment in the party's rank and file that its work was done, and that its machinery had disintegrated in a number of states that some of its strongest contributors saw no further need of lending their support.

Sentiment for reorganizing the party and giving it a new name failed to meet with general assent.

At tonight's conference Dr. Charles Scanlon, of Pittsburgh, Pa., reported on prohibition work in foreign countries, declaring that the progress was much greater than was generally believed.

BAPTIST LEADERS IN PRE-CONVENTION MEETING AT DALLAS

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 29.—More than 300 clergymen and laymen forming the Baptist pastors' and laymen's conference today began a two-day meeting preliminary to the 73rd annual Texas Baptist convention, which will open Thursday. The women's missionary union, an auxiliary of the convention began its 35th annual conference.

The executive board of the convention met tonight to work on its report to the convention. Most of today's session was given over to addresses on various phases of church activity. The conference authoried preparation of a statement setting forth the doctrinal teachings that should govern in church schools, publications and institutions.

Organization of the conference was effected with the election of I. r. A. A. Duncan of Greenville as president and Robert Jolly of Houston as secretary.

NEW BOND ELECTION MAY BE OUTCOME OF ROAD DISAGREEMENT

Commissioner Jackson Urges Paving Road to Clay County to Keep Faith With State Highway Department; Wants Seymour Road Paved.

The possibility that another bond issue for the construction of concrete highways in the county might be submitted to the voters during the coming year loomed Tuesday as a result of the disagreements among members of the county commissioners' court Monday as to what roads should be paved with present available funds after the Burkburnett road was completed.

At the Monday session of the court it was apparent that none of the four members were in agreement as to the future highway program. Each apparently will contend that the precincts they represent should have the benefit of the additional paving.

The matter of another bond issue making it possible to enlarge the present improved road program so as to give all precincts additional concrete highways has been discussed by county officials and business men of Electra, Burkburnett, Iowa Park and this city for several weeks. The action of the court Monday served to add to this discussion.

Those favoring it point out that the county will have the needed equipment when its present contract is completed and in other ways will be in a position to carry on the construction at a minimum cost. The bond issue favored would be large enough to cover the program outlined by the engineer's department at the time the $750,000 bond issue was voted and it was expected that 110 miles of gravel roads would be constructed.

Would Give 110 Miles.

If carried out this would mean a paved road from the Clay county to the Wilbarger county line through this city, Iowa Park, Electra, now completed with the exception of the stretch from this city to Clay county; from Archer county line to the Red River through this city and Burkburnett, partially completed with work under way on the remainder; west of Burkburnett following the course of the Red River to the Wilbarger county line; roads leading north out of Iowa Park and Electra to connect with the latter road; Seymour road leading out of this city to the Baylor county line—the latter being the roads in construction.

Just what bond issue this would require is not known but it is not expected that it would exceed $1,500,000 and would give the county the best system of hard surfaced roads in the state, according to its supporters.

Against Bond Issue.

"I do not favor another bond issue during the coming year," declared Judge J. P. Jones, Tuesday, "our taxes are now too high and we will have spent enough on roads for the present when we complete our present immediate program."

"I will insist that the road from this city to the Clay county line be paved," J. P. Jackson, of this city, commisioner from precinct 1, declared Tuesday.

"It was generally understood throughout the county that it would be paved when the last bond issue was voted and there was no agreement in the commissioners court to the effect that we would not should the Lake road be paved."

It was Mr. Jackson's motion Monday that bridge work on the road to Clay county be ordered in preparatory to paving that brought to a head the disagreements existing among members of the court as to what roads should be paved. His motion at that time failed to receive a second.

"The road is part of the Colorado to the Gulf national highway and I sincerely doubt if there will be any federal and possible state aid for other roads if the county refuses to pave it," Mr. Jackson added. "I don't believe that state and federal aid can be obtained for the improving of some of the roads that have been suggested under any circumstances."

"And when the Clay county and Burkburnett roads are completed I will insist if there is any funds left from the present bond issue that the Seymour road be given consideration for paving. With the irrigation project under way it will be the most traveled road in the county and should be paved."

Although no accurate estimate can be made as to the amount of funds that will be available after the Burkburnett road is completed due to the fact the exact amount of state and federal aid is not known, it is expected that there will be enough to pave ten to fifteen miles, including the Clay county road.

ONE ARBUCKLE WITNESS HELD FOR PERJURY

Strenuous Efforts Made by Prosecution to Refute Testimony Introduced by Defense.

By Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—Prosecution rebuttal evidence occupied the entire day in the trial today of Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle on a manslaughter charge in connection with the death of Miss Virginia Rappe. The prosecution announced at adjournment today that it would continue this character of evidence tomorrow, despite its earlier announcement that it would conclude finally today.

Milton T. U'Ren, assistant district attorney, said that the commission of three medical experts who had been selected to examine the bladder of Miss Rappe, would not report Thursday. This commission will determine, if possible, if the organ was in a healthy condition before the fatal rupture, which the prosecution alleges Arbuckle caused by the application of external force during a party in the rooms in the hotel St. Francis.

The prosecution's effort to rebut the evidence offered by the defense continued throughout the day. The major portion of that rebuttal evidence was introduced to contradict evidence that Miss Rappe had suffered for several years from bladder affection.

Mrs. Josephine Bardebeck, housekeeper for Miss Rappe, was called twice during the day. It was her third experience as a witness during the trial.

Mrs. Catherine Fox of Chicago, testified that her acquaintance with Miss Rappe extended over several years time and that Miss Rappe was always well.

An attempt was made by the prosecution to swear out a perjury warrant against Mrs. Minnie Neighbors, a defense witness who testified she saw Miss Rappe at a resort in Los Angeles and tried to relieve her during a period of illness there. The warrant incident followed testimony by Mrs. Mary Paulin, the hostess of the resort, that Miss Rappe had never been registered, or had never been seen by her at the place.

Early tonight, however, Mrs. Neighbors was placed under arrest on the felony charge of perjury for which, under California laws, no warrant is required. The arrest followed a conference between District Attorney Brady and Captain of Detectives Duncan Matthews.

She was released on $2,000 bond to appear in police court probably tomorrow.

Other witnesses testified also that they had known Miss Rappe for varying lengths of time and that her health always appeared to be good.

SEVERAL CHANGES ARE EXPECTED IN MEXICAN CABINET

By Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 29.—The resignation of Secretary of Agriculture Villareal which, it is considered President Obregon undoubtedly will accept, is the forerunner of several changes in the Mexican cabinet, according to a number of Mexico City newspapers today which add, however, that the government's agrarian policy will remain unchanged.

It is generally believed that General Amado Aguirre, the present secretary of communications and public works, will be Senor Villareal's successor and that General Enrique Estrada, minister of war, will take over the post of minister of communications with his prsent under-secretary, General Serrano, moving to the head of war department.

The delicate health of the secretary of the interior, Calles, may cause him also to renounce his portfolio.

Senor Calles has just returned from the United States where he underwent treatment, but his condition will not yet permit him to resume his duties.

ENGAGEMENT OF PRINCESS SOLVES PROBLEM OF BRITISH ROYAL HOUSE

Princess Mary and Lord Lascelles.

The engagement of Princess Mary to Lord Lascelles solves one of the main problems of the British royal house. The revolutions that followed the war swept away practically all the Protestant reigning families of Europe and the question of arranging suitable matches for British royalty has been extremely vexing.

Princess Mary was twenty-four years old last April. Her fiance is thirty-nine years old and the eldest son and heir of the Earl of Harewood. The earldom was created late in the eighteenth century, although the family is one of the oldest in Yorkshire.

Negroes Tell Cops Came With Circus And Are Stranded

An ugly looking butcher knife with a ten inch blade, on which it appeared no cutting edge could possibly be ground and a number of hard luck stories were obtained by police Tuesday afternoon from a half dozen negroes and two or three Mexicans picked up by Officers Belcher and John Thomason in the flats district.

The hard luck stories were in the main narrations of how they had come here with the circus and had failed to have sufficient funds to pay their way to their homes. They were transported to the edge of the city limits and advised to keep going in the direction they were headed.

The butcher knife was found in the patrol by Officer Miller. Each and every one emphatically denied having had possession of the knife or of ever having seen it before.

Says Harding May Be Backer Of Direct Plan

Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve board may be very likely supporting Congressman Claud Hudspeth in his effort to secure direct loans for cattlemen, as indicated in Monday night dispatches to the Record News from its Washington correspondent, according to the belief expressed by Frank Kell Tuesday.

"He has always favored the direct loan, rather than the indirect plan of working through the finance corporations," said Mr. Kell, who has been closely identified with the movement from the first.

"In fact I got my first inspiration for the fight for this method from Governor Harding."

Mr. Kell deprecated, however, the charges by Hudspeth that the finance corporations were under packer control, expressing fear that it might hinder the working of the finance corporations, which although not all asked, are a great step toward the relief of the cattlemen. He said that he did not believe that the packers had any control over the corporations, and said that he did not believe that they had any control over any man on the board of the Texas corporation.

Enrollment in Schools Still Shows Increase

Continued gains in the number of students attending the day and night free schools of the city were announced Tuesday by Superintendent Lee Clark. The total attendance at the day schools reached at the close of the third scholastic month was announced to be 5410, a gain of 178 over that of last month and a gain of 520 over that of the same month of last year.

M. S. Hunsdon of Austin, director of industrial education and member of the state department of education and Charles Martin, field worker in the department of industrial education were visitors at local schools Tuesday.

Aproximately 100 employed local men and women are reported taking advantage of the educational opportunities afforded by the night vocational schools, in addition to those attending the night scholastic classes. Of the vocational classes the students are reported apportioned as follows: chemistry 40, auto mechanics 40, building trades 12, janitor studies 12 Over 300 are reported attending the night scholastic classes.

a philanthropist and a preacher of the higher life. George Robinson believes in tempering justice with mercy. His comment on the issuance of pardons is timely: "If we mistake not, Mr. Neff went into the governor's office in the belief that there had been too free indulgence in the pardoning power, and he let it be known, if we recollect aright, that he would be mighty slow in opening the gates to those in State's prison. But here on Thanksgiving Day—glory be!—Brother Pat issued quite a lot of pardons, and the other day, the same being his birthday anniversary, he held the prison gates open and bade a lot of the boys to walk out and enjoy their freedom. Blessings on your head, Governor; and here's hoping that you will greatly enlarge the number on Christmas Day. We are not going to stop to argue the matter with those who disapprove of the free exercise of the pardoning power, although we flatter ourselves that we could win the decision in an argument concerning this matter. Just now we are busy extending congratulations to Governor Neff on having changed his mind, and if he has had no occasion to change his mind, we at least know that he did grant the pardons, a goodly number of them, and we rejoice in that fact. Let us hope that the Christmas Day pardons will equal one for each day that Pat Neff has been the governor of Texas."—Me, too.

Labor Probe Is Cause Glass Co. Indictments, Say

Indictment of the Wichita Falls Window Glass company for alleged violation of the Sherman anti-trust law is a result of the Untermeyer investigation, officials of the concern here believe after puzzling over the press dispatches giving indication of this action.

This is believed from the fact that the president of the glass blowers' union was indicted at the same time, and that all the plants indicted use hand blowers, except for the local plant.

Members of this union were once employed in the local plant, but not since 1912 when the present machinery and non-union workmen were employed. It is believed here that the fact that the plant here once used this method is responsible for their being listed among those indicted.

It is contended that through this union and its head, who was indicted, that restriction of the output of glass was enforced. None of the present officers or employes of the glass company would give any definite information as to the contract made with the union up to 1912.

Obituary

JAMES BATESON

Funeral services for James Bateson, 78 years of age, resident of this city for over 30 years and familiarly known to old time residents as "Uncle Jimmy," who died Sunday morning at his little two room house east of town and near the brickyards, will be held Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Sacred Heart church, Father Boniface officiating.

Burial will be at Sacred Heart cemetery.

MRS. GEORGE A. PRENTISS

Funeral services for Mrs. George A. Prentiss, 48 years of age, who met death when she fell down a flight of basement stairs in the Martin Book Store Saturday evening, were held Tuesday afternoon at the Merkle-Lunn Undertaking establishment. The services were conducted by the Christian Science Society.

The body was shipped Tuesday night to Canyon City, Colo., for burial. The body was accompanied by the husband and by James and Miss Jeannette Prentiss, the two children, surviving the deceased.

QUEEN OF FRENCH BEAUTIES HAS DECIDED TO ABDICATE

Two views of Agnes Souret.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—The queen of French beauties has abdicated.

Agnes Souret, voted the loveliest woman in all France by her country women only two years ago, has decided to retire to her country home, and forget Paris with all its adulation, its gayety and its flattery.

Mlle. Souret awoke one morning to find herself famous. As the winner of France's greatest beauty contest, she was bombarded by theatrical and motion picture managers with tenders of engagements, and fortunes were offered her to appear in public. One of the most famous dressmakers in Paris undertook to make all her frocks if only she would consent to let the fact be known.

So Mlle. Souret, the daughter of a country lawyer, came to Paris. She posed for motion pictures and in one film, "The Lily of Mount St. Michel," she had a good measure of success. She was in demand at all social functions, many of which she attended clad wonderfully in the latest fashion. She dispensed flowers and smiles from a basket hung above the auditorium of the Folies Bergeres.

But the strain was too much for a girl of seventeen, and especially she found the attention of her admirers too assiduous. When she went shopping she was forced to wear a thick veil and goggles to escape being mobbed, and at theater doors she needed a police escort through the crowds of would-be swains. Now her nerve has given away.

"My brief reign has ended," she confided to newspaper men who sought confirmation of the news that she was about to leave the stage. "Already after only two years, I fear I cannot any longer lay claim to being the most beautiful woman in France. Beauty, like everything else, comes quickly to an end, and I feel I must abandon my pretentious title.

"From America I have received many tempting offers, but I am afraid to go there, for they have so many beautiful women in America that I may appear to make claims which I cannot any longer make good. Of course, I may change my mind—that's a woman's privilege. But for the present I am determined to return to my quiet country life."

They are now ready to start the bridge at Point Isibel, Brownsville harbor. See M. T. Killion, Suite 8, Ward Bldg., for particulars.—Adv.

LOCAL ZONING LAW MAY BE FOUND LEGAL

Basing his opinion on the clause in the Wichita Falls Ordinance which demands that a business man have the consent of property owners before he erect a business house in the residence section, Judge William N. Bruner declared Tuesday morning at an adjourned session of the city council that in his opinion the ruling of the supreme court of Texas on the appealed case from Dallas does not effect the ordinance of Wichita Falls and that the ordinance is now valid.

Since the announcement of the court ruling on the Dallas case, which was declared by many to have invalidated all zoning ordinances there is reported to have been a rush of local men to establish businesses in hitherto forbidden sections. A number of groceries are reported to have been established since that time and several buildings under construction.

The Dallas zoning ordinance is now being held in abeyance, pending a rehearing of the case, which is expected to clear up several matters.

The ordinance authorizing pavement on Front street was passed on its second reading at the adjourned session and Commissioner Fitts asked consideration of two ordinances for further curbing the activity of certain cold drink dealers, whom he declared were suspected of serving liquors and of demanding a bill of sale by all second hand dealers in their transactions.

The proposed commencement of work for beautifying the tourist park, which was suggested by Dr. Reed was postponed by the council to await the coming of G. E. Kessler, city planner, who is expected here next week.

TEXAS FARM BUREAU AGREES TO SUPPORT WHEAT POOL PLAN

By Associated Press.

WICHITA, Kan., Nov. 29.—Setting a precedent differing from previous action of state farm bureau associations, the Texas farm bureau representatives today formally agreed to place thier organization and machinery behind the Texas branch of the national wheat growers' association for the organization of the wheat raisers of the state into the 100 per cent pooling plan, according to a message received here today by W. H. McGreevy, secretary of the national association. The Texas bureau is the first to come out for the wheat growers' according to Mr. McGreevy.

HOUSTON'S WELCOME TO FOCH TO BE ON ELABORATE SCALE

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 29.—The Houston chamber of commerce has given the American Legion of the Thomas Dumuke post of Houston authority to spend as much as $10,000 on the four-hour entertainment of Marshal Foch of France, on December 8, if that amount is needed, according to Texas state commander Wayne Davis who has been here conferring with Governor Neff as to entertaining the famous French general.

Marshal Foch will stop in Houston four hours on his way from San Antonio to New Orleans.

While it is thought that the $10,000 will not be necessary, the Houston post is planning a fitting reception for the marshal and his party, Mr. Davis said.

CASHIERS OF STATE BANKS ADVISED NOT TO DABBLE IN OIL

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Nov. 29.—Cashiers of state banks in Texas cannot engage in the promotion of oil companies and at the same time fill their positions with the banks, according to advice being given state bankers by Ed Hall, commissioner of insurance and banking. Such advice is being given following notices from various Texas points that bank cashiers are promoting oil companies.

The cashiers of state banks who also engage in oil promotion should either resign from the bank or quit the oil business, Mr. Hall said, pointing out that either business is large and important enough to merit undivided attention and that one business might be hampered by the other.

DALLAS U. EXPECTS BO M'MILLAN TO ACCEPT ITS OFFER

DALLAS, Nov. 29.—Officials of the University of Dallas expect Bo McMillin, famous Centre College quarterback, to accept the University's offer of $7,000 to coach its football team next season, McMillin conferred with the University authorities yesterday, but no definite agreement was reached, it was said. An announcement from the Centre star regarding his intentions is expected shortly. McMillin left Fort Worth today for Danville, Ky., to re-enter college.

Tell it to the World by Good Advertising

—"If a man can write a better book, preach a better sermon, make a better mouse trap than his neighbor, though he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door," once said a famous philosopher.

—Perhaps this is so—if some other man does not do these things almost as well in a more accessible spot, and—if the world be cognizant of the fact that he is in existence.

—The mission of your advertising today is clearly defined. Primarily, let the world know you are alive and tell what you have to OFFER.

—The Record News offers you an opportunity to accomplish these basic advertising principles with all the fine points and considerations that constitute modern advertising.

—The Record News simplifies your advertising problems, provides illustrations, copy and layouts compiled by experts and meets the merchandising requirements of the moment.

—You will find advertising of this kind—if consistently employed—to be an important sales factor and a constructive element in your business.

OIL MEN ARE ENTERTAINED AT LUNCHEON

Geographically there is a North and a South but to the members of the party of Pennsylvanians comprising the stockholders of the Keystone-Ranger Development company, and the Wichita Falls people present at the weekly luncheon of the University club Tuesday noon, the great God seemed to be more important a link of union than highflown protestations of brotherhood.

These citiens of Pittsburgh and other eastern cities who are on a trip of inspection of their properties in Oklahoma, Texas and Louisiana, guests at the luncheon were treated with some first-class exhibitions of oratory from Mayor W. D. Cline, who welcomed them, and Judge Edgar Scurry, commander in chief of the Sons of Confederate Veterans.

Responding for the visitors, were Howard Walters, attorney for the oil interests, and F. J. Hartman. Not the least of Mr. Hartman's response was his reference to "You all," which one would infer is characteristic of southerners and equivalent to the northern expression "Youse."

Judge Scurry, after being introduced my Mayor W. D. Cline, assured the visitors that the people of the South harbor no ill will against the brethren from the North and told something of the work and purposes of the Sons of Confederate Veterans.

"It was organized for three distinct purposes" he said, "that of historical, educational and benevolent. These purposes have been misunderstood in some parts of the country and some people have believed that we seek to keep burning the fires of sectionalism," he added.

"Such a purpose could not be further from the organization," he said, "for the sons of those who fought and died for the South have respect ahigh for those descendants of the other side, who fought to preserve the union."

"In the educational side of the matter he said the S. C. V. seeks to see that the biased and untrue stories of the war are kept from the public schools, so that the children may not be influenced to look with malice on the other side.

In regard to the historical side, he said the efforts are closely affiliated with the educational, in that they seek to preserve the memory of the brave soldiers and set them up as an ideal of those who fought for what they believed to be right."

Those of the party besides the speakers and A. H. Sunshine, a director in the company and in charge of the movement of the train included the following: J. F. Browne, general field manager, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Younger, Mrs. Fred Lohnhofer, Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Koch, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. The party left Wichita Falls at 2 p. m. Tuesday for Burkburnett, returning here later in the afternoon, and departing last night for San Antonio. From San Antonio the route will be to Houston and Galveston, thence to the Mexia oil fields, thence to Shreveport, where they will inspect their Louisiana holdings, thence to Cincinnati and then back to Pittsburgh.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The Italian destroyer Contrauro has gone down in the Mediterranean off the port of Adalia during a storm, according to a dispatch from Brindisi to the Daily Mail. "The Centrauro is not listed in available naval registers."

ROME, Nov. 29.—The strike of printers' union as a protest against the killing by fascisti at Triest last week of Signor Miller, president of the typographical union, left virtually the whole of Italy without newspapers today.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 29.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., returning here yesterday from the dedication of Union Medical college at Peking, endowed by the Rockefeller Foundation, expressed the opinion that China is "on the highway to national unity which will eventually solve the tangle of problems in the Far East."

HAROLD LLYOD IN "NEVER WEAKEN," IS HIGHLY ROMANTIC

Skyscrapers are the playthings of Harold Lloyd, the inimitable Associated Exhibitors comedian, in "Never Weaken," his newest release showing today at the Olympic theater.

Skyscrapers are beehives of romance, and "Never Weaken" is the amusing and amazing tale of the love of a youth for a maid, whom he believed untrue. They worked in adjoining offices. Her "boss" was a doctor without any patients—until Harold undertook to get some for him.

Business was thriving when Harold discovered the girl who wore his diamond ring, in the arms of another. He smiled upon death; he welcomed it with open arms—until he found himself sitting on an iron girder, twelve stories in the air, and nothing to grab hold of but the framework of a skyscraper in the making. Life then became sweet and worth scrambling, tumbling and falling for.

Harold Lloyd's feminine partner in fun is the petite and pretty Mildred Davis. Roy Brooks, Mark Jones and Charles Stevenson are splendid aids.

"Reached for a Star" When Told To "Put 'Em Up" by Hijacker Man Held Up Tuesday, Tell Police

"It hadn't been but a few hours since I had told the boys that if ever a highjacker told me to stick 'em up, that I believed I'd just stick 'em up and, Chief when those two men stepped out and one of them punched that gun in my ribs I just naturally tried to pull down a star," D. B. Cargile, employe at the Union Railway station told Police Chief Morgan early Tuesday morning in relating how he had a few minutes before been relieved of $50 in cash by two masked highwaymen.

The robbery was staged between Bluff and Broad streets on Tenth about 6 o'clock Tuesday morning and police were notified a few minutes later. The highjackers made their escape in an automobile which was evidently driven by a third man, Cargile told officers.

Cargile told officers that he worked at night and that he had received half a month's pay the day before. He was taking the money home to give his wife, so she might pay their household bills, he said. Mr. and Mrs. Cargile live at 1610 Myrtle street.

Cargile was unable to give any description of the bandits. He said they ordered him to stand still and keep his hands above his head until they reached Bluff street. When they reached Bluff, he said they got in a car and left.

Police also were notified Tuesday that two masked bandits robbed Y. B. Yeager, employe of a local abstract company of $2 and a scarf pin Monday night about 10:30 o'clock just after he had stepped from a street car in the 2400 block on Ninth street. The men were hiding behind a Ford automobile waiting for their victim and rode away in the same car, according to the report.

The Popular "USCO" TREAD 30×3½

$10.90

THE American public knows that United States Tires are never marketed on "price."

People look to the makers of U. S. Tires for quality traditions. They do not want to see a policy of superiority nibbled away for the sake of a mere price appeal.

So we say this to all those loyal followers of U. S. Tires—

Do not buy the 30 x 3½ "Usco" Tread because of its new price of $10.90.

Buy it because it is the greatest money's worth on earth today.

Buy it because of honest quality as against "bargain offers", "inside discounts" and "special trades."

An outstanding product—marked with the maker's name—the retail price quoted in plain figures.

A challenge to the tire-trader who would rather sell you an unknown tire on the basis of "so much off list"—and let you find out its real value afterward.

PRIZE FARMING COUNTIES.

According to the New York Times of the fifty leading agricultural counties of the United States thirteen are in California, seven in New York, five in Illinois, four each in Texas, Pennsylvania and South Carolina, three in North Carolina, two each in Washington and Wisconsin, and one each in Arizona, Colorado, Connecticut, Maine, Minnesota and Mississippi. The above information is contained in a census report just issued by the Department of Commerce, which lists the first fifty agricultural counties of the country and gives the combined value of the live stock products and crops of each of them. The crop products include cotton, cereals, potatoes, fruits of various kinds, forage, tobacco, corn, etc., while the live stock products include dairy products, chickens and eggs, honey and wax, wool and mohair, but do not include the value of domestic animals either on the hoof or slaughtered.

Los Angeles County, Cal., which is No. 1 among the fifty agricultural counties of the United States, produces annually crops and live stock products valued at more than $70,000,000, and of this the orange, lemon and walnut groves, and the hay and forage farms account for more than $60,000,000. Oranges represent a little more than one-third of the total money value of crops and live stock products.

Fresno County, California, is second with a total live stock product and crop value of over $55,000,000, of which more than 50 per cent is credited to the vineyards and the other half to the peach orchard, hay and forage and dairy products. In [illegible] took County, crops [illegible] Geo. known here in Texas.

Onondaga, N. Y.	19,395,000
Lamar, Tex.	19,305,000
Ventura, Cal.	19,160,000

The principal crops in the Pacific coast section are oranges, lemons, grapes and apples in the northern part and long staple cotton in the southern sections. In the counties of the Middle Western States cereals are the principal crops. In the counties of New York and other States of the East, hay and forage and potatoes predominate, while in the South cotton is, of course, the principal money-maker of the crops. In all sections live-stock products comprise an important item.

Governor Neff has invited President Obregon to come to Texas as the guest of the state to meet Marshal Ferdinand Foch of France and to enjoy the festivities of the occasion. CHATTERER IS SURE THIS IS HIS LAST DAY

There was no hope, not the teeniest weeniest ray of hope in the heart of Chatterer the Red Squirrel, as Farmer Brown's boy picked up the wire rat-trap in which Chatterer was a prisoner and started for the house, Black Pussy, the cat, following at his heels and looking up at Chatterer with cruel, hungry eyes. Chatterer took a farewell look at the Old Orchard and way beyond it the Green Forests from which he had been driven by fear of Shadow the Weasel. Then the door of the farmhouse closed and shut it all out. If there had been any hope in Chatterer's heart the closing of that door would have shut the last bit out. But there wasn't any hope. Chatterer was sure that he was to be given to Black Pussy for her breakfast.

Farmer Brown's boy put the trap down on the table. "What have you there?" called a great voice. It was the voice of Farmer Brown himself, who was eating his breakfast.

"I've got the thief who has been stealing our corn in the crib," replied Farmer Brown's boy, "and who do you think it is?"

"One of those pesky rats," replied Farmer Brown. "I'm afraid you've been careless and left the door open some time and that is how the rats have got in there."

"But it isn't a rat and I dont believe that there is a rat there," replied Farmer Brown's boy in triumph. "It's that little red scamp of a squirrel we've seen racing along the wall on the edge of the Old Orchard lately. I can't imagine how he got in there, but there he was and now here he is."

"What are you going to do with him?" asked Farmer Brown, coming over to look at Chatterer.

"I don't know," replied Farmer Brown's boy, "unless I give him to Black Puss for her breakfast. She has been teasing for him ever since I found him." Farmer Brown's boy looked over to the other side of the table as he said this and his eyes twinkled with mischief.

"Oh, you mustn't do that! That would be cruel!" cried a soft voice. "You must take him down to the Green Forest and let him go." A gentle face with pitying eyes was bent above the trap. "Just see how frightened the poor little thing is! You must take him right down to the m[illegible]reen Forest right after breakfast." advan[illegible]n't that just like mother?" cried tunities Brown's boy. "I believe it tional schools tending the night Of the vocational c[illegible] are reported apportio[illegible] chemistry 40, auto m[illegible] building trades 12, janitor 9.7 Over 200 are reported attending night scholastic classes.

would be just the same with the ugliest old rat that ever lived. She would try to think of some excuse for letting it go."

"God made all the little people who wear fur," said Farmer Brown's wife, "and they must have some place in his great plan."

Farmer Brown laughed a big, hearty laugh. "True enough, mother," said he. "The trouble is they get out of place. Now this little rascal's place is down in the Green Forest and not up in our corn crib."

"Then put him back in his right place!" was the prompt reply, and they all laughed.

Farmer Brown's Boy Picked Up the Wire Rat Trap in Which Chatterer Was a Prisoner and Started for the House.

Now all this time poor Chatterer was thinking that this surely was his last day. You see he knew he had been a thief, and he knew that Farmer Brown's boy knew it. He just crouched down in a little ball too miserable to do anything but tremble every time any one came near. He was sure that he had seen for the last time the Green Forest and the Green Meadows and jolly Mr. Sun and all the other beautiful things he loves so, and it seemed as if his heart would burst with despair.

a philanthropist and a preacher of the higher life. George Robinson believes in tempering justice with mercy. His comment on the issuance of pardons is timely: "If we mistake not, Mr. Neff went into the governor's office in the belief that there had been too free indulgence in the pardoning power, and he let it be known, if we recollect aright, that he would be mighty slow in opening the gates to those in State's prison. But here on Thanksgiving Day—glory be!—Brother Pat issued quite a lot of pardons, and the other day, the same being his birthday anniversary, he held the prison gates open and bade a lot of the boys to walk out and enjoy their freedom. Blessings on your head, Governor; and here's hoping that you will greatly enlarge the number on Christmas Day. We are not going to stop to argue the matter with those who disapprove of the free exercise of the pardoning power, although we flatter ourselves that we could win the decision in an argument concerning this matter. Just now we are busy extending congratulations to Governor Neff on having changed his mind, and if he has had no occasion to change his mind, we at least know that he did grant the pardons, a goodly number of them, and we rejoice in that fact. Let us hope that the Christmas Day pardons will equal one for each day that Pat Neff has been the governor of Texas."—Me, too.

Negroes Tell Cops Came With Circus And Are Stranded

An ugly looking butcher knife with a ten inch blade, on which it appeared no cutting edge could possibly be ground and a number of hard luck stories were obtained by police Tuesday afternoon from a half dozen negroes and two or three Mexicans picked up by Officers Belcher and John Thomason in the flats district.

The hard luck stories were in the main narrations of how they had come here with the circus and had failed to have sufficent funds to pay their way to their homes. They were transported to the edge of the city limits and advised to keep going in the direction they were headed.

The butcher knife was found in the patrol by Officer Miller. Each and every one emphatically denied having had possession of the knife or of ever having seen it before.

INDUSTRIAL SURVEY OF VARIOUS TEXAS CITIES BEING MADE

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 29.—The state labor department under the supervision of Commissioner Joseph S. Myers is conducting an industrial survey of the various cities of Texas. The first survey to be completed was at Waco.

Twenty-four industrial establishments were investigated and showed an increase in employes of 171 over last year with a total this year of 1,315. There were 638 male employes and 677 females.

The greatest unemployment is among unskilled labor, the survey shows. Practically all domestics are able at this time, the report showed. Tabulations laid to the fact that the industries are practicing rigid economy. Moreover and skilled labor are nearly all at work.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

TUMULT YAS HE KNEW ME

By WOODROW WILSON.*

(*Mr. Wilson was President of the United States under Mr. Tumulty.)

Introduction.

Inasmuch as my name has been mentioned two or three times in the autobiography of Mr. Tumulty, naturally leading to some curiosity as to my identity, I deem it a duty to issue this little autobiography of my own. While it may not be generally known, the fact of the matter is that I was Mr. Tumulty's President during his two terms as secretary.

I have always had a high regard for Joe. He was, in fact, the best secretary I ever worked for.

CHAPTER I.

The Meeting.

I first saw Joe in Jersey City. That is a terrible place to first see anybody. In fact he is one of the few people I ever could "see" in Jersey City.

The first time I was attracted to him, however, was on the occasion of my nomination for the governorship at the Democratic convention. After the nomination I made a speech of acceptance. I shall never forget that after I had talked a couple of hours the delegates, most of them case-hardened politicians, began to weep and sob upon one another's shoulders. It was what might be called a crying situation, but I was pleased to see a young man suddenly grab a Turkish towel, several sheets of blotting paper, and rush among the sobbing delegates, mopping up the tears from their shirtfronts and dresscoats. He had them all dry in no time.

That young man was Joseph Tumulty. And for that I made him ruler in the (beg pardon, I was thinking of Gilbert and Sullivan)—for that I made him secretary.

CHAPTER II.

With Joe at Washington.

I remember the first question that came up between us when we reached Washington after Joe's election as secretary and his selection of me as President, was whether he should occupy the White House exclusively and I hire rooms in a rooming house. But Joe was very reasonable and we finally compromised; he agreed that I might live in the White House with him if I agreed not to disturb him.

Taking up the trying periods of my administration I wish to explain fully to the American people just what my thoughts and aims were; just why I did certain things at certain times and just why. . . . But, on second thought, I dare not do so; I must write Joe first and get his permission.

More later if his approval is granted.

HOME NURSING and HEALTH HINTS

By M. JESSIE LEITCH

THE AGE WE LIVE IN

By M. JESSIE LEITCH.

"I can't understand why so many young people of the present day and generation are forever paying doctor bills," said the middle aged woman, who had led a sheltered life and was in a stage of constant wonderment at the evidences on all sides that times had changed.

It seemed almost that she had expected time to stand still. And having said good-by to her own youth she had turned her attention to the youth of others, which is not always kind.

"Too much eating between meals," said the elderly woman who to a remarkable degree had retained her youth and her slenderness, in spite of her snowy hair.

"And another thing I've noticed," she added, "is the way folks abuse their stomachs nowadays."

Mourns Changed Conditions.

"Oh, it's a different age we are living in," mourned the woman who had not quite caught up. "And I think women are the worst. The poor men. It isn't their fault that they have to eat downtown, or snatch fifteen minutes for a meal when they should have an hour to eat. But I can't understand the girls who eat downtown from choice, when they don't have to."

"And the things they eat! Pickles, my dear, and chocolates, and ice cream, and rich pastries, and thick sauces, and gravies—made goodness only knows how. Foods cooked in grease! I always fry things in butter."

And the speaker looked around her with a certain amount of pride.

As the group of women passed on, the Business Girl, who had been forced to overhear the conversation, turned to her companion, another Business Girl.

"If you only dared challenge these older and determined people to a discussion of hard, cold facts," she said, "you could almost force them to admit that it is the Younger Generation that is really learning something about dyspepsia and indigestion—and how to avoid it."

"Certainly, we have instances of overeating among our elders as well as the juveniles," her friends remarked. "As for food fried in butter, or any other grease, I fail to see why that is anything to be proud of."

"I was a test of culinary skill at one time," the Business Girl said. "The more sugar and shortening your food contained, the better cook you were." And her companion nodded, as she said:

"I like to think that these dietary errors are becoming things of the past, like bustles and trained gowns and family albums. Rich foods that are full of grease and cane sugar, preserves and a million and one horrors that the young people of today have little interest in, are simply not eaten any more.

A Well Balanced Meal.

"The average person who reads at all can select a well-balanced meal, with due attention to the vitamines and the carbohydrates, the mineral salts, and all the rest of it. The average person masticates his food thoroughly because he knows it is the right thing to do.

"Thinking people no longer wash quantities of unchewed food down at meal times with quantities of strong tea or coffee. They drink quantities of pure water. They eat fruit for dessert, instead of heavy pies and puddings all cloyed with sticky sauces.

"Think of the salads and leafy vegetables, the whole wheat bread, and the great percentage of fresh fruits that are eaten today. While yesterday—our grandmothers were always baking quantities of indigestible food—and encouraging their families to eat more than was good for them."

TRAVEL AND PATRIOTISM

By DR. FRANK CRANE

(Copyright, 1921, by Frank Crane.)

Travel is as essential to Patriotism as sugar is to coffee.

For Travel means civilization.

In fact, civilization is nothing much more than transportation.

What civilizes people is getting a wider point of view and seeing themselves as others see them.

Any population that never leaves home and is hostile to visitors from the outside slumps into barbarism.

That is to say, it develops a monumental egotism and becomes cruel and monstrous cranky.

Every human being should get away once in a while out of the world and knock about a bit.

A rolling stone gathers no moss, but at least it knocks off its sharp corners and get smoothed up.

So the real civilizers of the world, materially speaking, are the railroads, the steamships, the newspapers, the telegraph, the cable, and the airplane.

Nations that are intelligent should do all they can to promote travel.

But, as a matter of fact, all nations are doing all they can to discourage it.

There is the passport nuisance.

When I went to the French authorities to get my passport vised I asked the official why in the world France wanted any passports at all and why they did not want everybody to come into their country, because the visitors brought money with them and spent it rather freely and thus constituted a crop that ought to be cultivated.

"But," he replied, "there are the boches. We have to guard against them."

I suggested that the best thing that could happen both to the boches and the Frenchmen would be that they freely travel throughout each other's country and get acquainted a little and stop the devilish business of hating each other and begin to try to understand each other a little bit. But he did not see the point.

In the matter of passports, tariffs and other artificial obstacles to the free movement of men and commodities between the nations, America is the chief of sinners.

It costs an American more to travel in the other countries than it costs any other national, simply because of the outrageous price which America puts upon its passports.

The whole passport business, now that the war is over, is simply an unmitigated, unrelieved, and untempered nuisance. It ought to be entirely abolished and people should be encouraged to travel instead of being discouraged from traveling.

If we could take 50,000 farmers, storekeepers, and mechanics from the Mississippi Valley and send them for a trip to Europe or Asia every year, it would do more toward making the mind of America sound and sane than any other programme.

Somebody suggested that America might take all her idle ships which she does not know what to do with, charter them and send abroad such of her citizens as want to go at cost price.

What the world needs is to get acquainted.

Just as any man's success in business is to get acquainted with his community, so every nation's success depends upon its ability to understand other nations.

RED KING OF COLORS.

Red has been called the king of colors. The bull is not the only creature that resents red; the elephant, the horse, the dog, the cock, are all alike in this respect. It is sufficient, for example, to cover the doors and skylights of a kennel with red material to cause incessant barking and commotion among the dogs confined therein. A spider and a wasp, confined in a glass case, are reported to have dwelt happily together until a red cloth was placed against the sides, when the insects tackled each other at once and a fight to the death ensued.—Brooklyn Eagle.

The Daily Story

ADVENT OF THE UNEXPECTED

Copyright, 1921, by W. Werner

Sarah Wilcox had been working since 6 o'clock that morning, scarcely pausing for a bite of bread and a cup of tea, and now at 3 she was "that tired her very soul ached," as she expressed it to herself. But she had finished her task. The whole house was in perfect order and no one's hands but hers had touched it.

Of course, there was much dirt in her house. She had scrupulous ideals of neatness. You could tell that by her own appearance. Even after hours of dusting and moving things about, her white apron and blouse were as snowy as when she had donned them, and her gray hair, a fitting frame for her gentle face, was as smooth as though it had just been coiled.

Sadly and tenderly her eyes roved over the friendly vista before her. She could see through the dining room into the kitchen and the other way into the parlor and hall. The faded old values of wood and fabric were restful and attractive. Sarah loved every nook and corner of her house and every stick of furniture with a love that had in it a good deal of memory and veneration. She had lived in the house all her life and, until a few weeks before, had expected to go on living in it until the end.

But the war, which had turned the world topsy-turvy, had lost for Sarah the one investment which yielded her an income. She had nothing except her house, and that she could neither sell nor rent. For the small town was going backward; more and more houses stood empty and unsalable.

Much as she loved her home, Sarah would have parted with it rather than be a dependent upon her niece, Elva Babcock, who had grudgingly offered her a home. It crushed her heart to be forced to live where she was not wanted because she was old and had no money with which to do for herself.

The thought of Elva brought tears to her eyes. She was sure to have a hard time with the sharp-tongued, sharp-eyed woman who spent her nights playing bridge and her days gossiping over the 'phone with her neighbors. But there appeared to be no other way for her.

She found herself asking this question aloud of the India ink portrait over the old vases. It was the portrait of a young girl with golden curls dangling over apple-blossomy shoulders. Sarah could remember the time when Sally Bland had looked like that. She had been a perfect beauty. In fact, the picture had been made by an artist who had fallen in love with her one youthful, joyous summer. He had made two pictures—one for Sally and one for Sarah. Sarah's had been a propitiatory offering, for she had not approved of the artist and would not have one done of herself. She could see now that she had been jealous, not because he preferred Sally to her, but because she could not bear that any one should step between her and the friend she adored. However, Sally's love for him had been only a passing idyl. She had married a stout business man with plenty of money. The last time Sarah saw her she had been wrapped in velvet and sable and looked complacent and well fed. That was years ago. Since then only casual letters or Christmas cards had passed between them.

"Well," Sarah said, still addressing the portrait, "I suppose I must go and slick up a bit and get ready for the train. And I ought to have a bit of something to eat. I shan't get to Elva's till long after her supper hour and I don't want to put her out any. I've some tea and a half loaf left." She laughed grimly. "Coming out pretty close. I don't know when I even sat down to three meals of bread and tea before. Howsomever it won't hurt; I've considerable meat on my bones."

She put her hand to her head. The portrait had begun suddenly to dance and swing; the whole room went round.

"I'm whirly," Sarah thought. "My land, what makes it? Can't be my stomach. I haven't eaten enough in two days to——I guess I better lie down." She groped her way to the couch and half fell upon it. And there she lay unable to move for more than two hours.

The train which was to have borne her away came and went.

"I'm as helpless as a lamb with its legs tied," she thought. "Nothing like this ever happened to me before. If I could get to the window I might be able to summon some passer-by. That's the only thing I could do. I'm out here alone by myself except for Addie Peters, and she's away. Well, if this doesn't beat all! What will Elva think when she goes to the train and don't find me? She'll make a stir likely. I wish I had something to draw over me. I expect the fire's out in the stove by this time, and it's growing cold. Sarah Wilcox, this is the queerest thing that ever happened to you."

She shut her eyes and shivered a little. "If I had the thick comforter off my bed upstairs I wouldn't mind so much," she said to herself.

At that instant she heard a sound. The front door had opened. Maybe Addie Peters had got home. She would ask Addie to get the comforter and perhaps brew her a cup of tea, then she would be all right.

She could not turn her head to see who was coming down the hall. She heard the person stop at the door, and now a bit of alarm seized her. Suppose it shouldn't be Addie after all, but some stranger? "Who is it?" she asked.

There was no answer save a few quick steps. And now the intruder was close to her. She twisted her eyes and they fell upon a stout woman puffing under her weight of furs and a most elaborate bonnet.

"Why, Sarah Wilcox! What in the world ails you?" exclaimed the stout woman.

Thinking about it afterward, Sarah knew that she must have fainted. But the unconscious spell only lasted a minute. When she came to the air seemed to be full of ammonia and lavender and her lips tasted sour.

"I never travel without my smelling salts and spirits of ammonia," said the stout woman. She slipped off her fur coat and covered Sarah from toe to chin. "Stick your hands in my muff," she commanded, "while I get a fire built. What's to make it with?"

"There's some wood in the kitchen box," answered Sarah, trying to feel invigorated and cozy. "Oh, Sally Bland, I was just talking to your picture there."

But Sally Bland did not hear. She was slipping the wood and an old newspaper into the stove. For such a stout person she had wonderfully agile motions. Soon the fire roared and the temperature of the room began to rise. Sally closed the door and came back to Sarah's side. "How are you feeling?" she asked. "Do you think you need a doctor? Haven't you got a telephone? How do you live without a telephone?

"There's one on the corner at the drug store," Sarah answered.

"I'm going over there. Can you stand it too be left alone for a few minutes?"

"I can stand anything now," replied Sarah. "Here, take your coat. I'm real warm."

What followed seemed like the best dream ever dreamed. Sally Bland seemed to have done a thousand things with that telephone. Soon wood began to arrive and baskets of provision. Lights were lit, the house grew cozy and there was a smell of coffee.

"I'll help you to the table," said Sally. "I'm as hungry as little Tom Tucker. Traveling is hungry work. By the way, Sarah, you may as well know, I've shut up my house and come to stay with you this winter—if you'll have me."

It was not like Sarah to break down and cry.

An hour later a message went to Elva Babcock. Sally paid another visit to the corner drug store and sent it herself.

Watching the Parade

By JOHN PILGRIM

It was raining cats and a few dogs when Judge Henry Martin dropped into the office to waste an afternoon for me the other day. We told each other how much better and finer people used to be when we were young than they are now, and, specifically, how much better and finer we personally were than the rest of our generation. Then I began to wonder if the Judge had seen that "Don't Park Here" sign on my desk. So I said:

"What are you doing downtown today, Judge?"

"Down to take my daughter, Mary home from school," he said. "I'm getting her educated."

Mary Martin has had a fair whack at most of the current education. She is a college graduate and has a degree or two and can discuss things of which I do not even know the name, and is a good looker into the bargain. I couldn't figure out why the Judge wanted more education for her. She is to be married in a few months.

"That's just the reason," said Judge Martin. "I've heard a good many divorce suits in my time, and whenever I got the chance I used to talk causes with the contending parties. I made one discovery. Lots of husbands think they have their wives sewed in a sack because the poor women couldn't support themselves at any other job than marriage. Many a girl has said to me:

"I would have asked for a divorce long ago if I had dared. But I did not know how to earn a living."

The Judge says that Mary and her husband-to-be are both fine, sensible, common-sense young people. He isn't worried about Mary's future. But it occurred to him that if anything should happen to this matrimonial bark, and to the small estate the Judge will leave behind him, that Mary is wholly unfit to make a living for herself. The things she knows are interesting and valuable, but not readily salable.

"I'm not going to let my girl get married until she is not only fit to hold a job, but to get a better job as soon as her employer finds out about her," said the Judge. "When she can take dictation as fast as I can talk and write the stuff accurately on the typewriter, then she can marry—and not until then. I believe in insurance."

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

It is more blessed to give than it is to regret.

Wise men cultivate the art of taking things easy.

There are more ways than one for a woman to have her own way.

If you are ashamed of your calling hire a boy to call for you.

After hearing some men talk you are surprised at the small hats they wear.

Even your worst enemy probably has no idea how mean you could be if you wanted to.

It doesn't take the average man long to throw off the greatness that is thrust upon him.

One man believes everything he hears; another doesn't believe anything he hears. Both are foolish.

When the graduate from the domestic sciences college casts her bread upon the waters she hopes it will return to her in the shape of a wedding cake.

American army officers and enlisted men on leave to Great Britain are prohibited from wearing their uniforms. Instructions to this effect have been issued by the war department in response to a request from the British government. The same rule applies to military personnel of other countries.

EX-STUDENTS TO MEET FRIDAY

All ex-students of the Texas Presbyterian college are invited to meet at the home of Mrs. J. C. Presley, 1641 Pearl street, Friday afternoon, at 3:00 o'clock for the purpose of organizing a T. P. C. club. This will be a social get-to-gether meeting.

Fashions for Americans

Striking a happy medium between the very dressy and the severely tailored blouse, the little peasant model shown in the sketch is distinctly smart for a young and slender figure. It may be developed in any preferred color, of course, but would be good made of a soft white silk or crepe, smocked with silk thread in various bright colors and finished with a piping of black or bright color, the girdle matching the piping. The blouse is a slip-over.

Paisley effects are in high favor in the development of smart blouses, both of the tuck-in and tunic type, and it is said that these Paisley models will be very much featured in the spring. Both silk and wool materials appear, wool challis in Paisley colorings and designs being especially good. Pipings of plain color fabric constitute the trimming. Sometimes a plain color material is combined with the Paisley with very good effect. One smart model had a figured upper part, with black lower half.

The peasant sleeve, such as the one shown on the blouse in the sketch, is a favorite for blouses of both plain and figured fabric. A dainty Paisley silk blouse recently seen was cut on the lines of a Russian smock, with deep shoulder, the full peasant sleeves being gathered into a narrow band cuff of black velvet. The round neck was bound with black velvet ribbon.

The newest cotton fabric blouses are trimmed with lattice work of self-fabric, or with little panels or bands of ladder pleating.

The Peasant Blouse is a Favorite With the Younger Woman.

Civic League Starts Campaign to Get Women to Qualify as Voters; Also After Members for New Year

A drive for payment of 1922 dues, and for payment of 1921 dues by members who have overlooked the matter to this time, together with a drive for poll tax payment by the women of Wichita Falls, will be among the most important activities for December, according to the plans made at the board meeting, held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. A. Kemp, the president.

The board voted to have the next regular meeting a social affair, with a brief business session, and a short program, to be followed by a social hour, and refreshments. The place of meeting will be announced later in the week.

A request was made that members come to the meeting next week prepared to pay the 1922 dues, and also that old members bring as many new members as possible, at least one apiece.

Health Clinic Examines 1500 At Burkburnett

More than 1,500 school children have been examined at Burkburnett during the past two weeks by local Red Cross nurses, and a second health center conference for the year will be held there at the Y. M. C. A. building Friday afternoon between the hours of 2:00 to 4:00 o'clock by the nurses, according to an announcement made Tuesday.

The object of the conference it is stated is to raise the health standard among the babies and children of Burkburnett, and all mothers are requested to bring them during these hours for medical advice and attention.

Mothers of school children examined who wish to ask any questions are also invited to come.

Classes in home hygiene and care of the sick will be held at the Y. M. C. A. building at 4:00 and 7:00 o'clock.

The Woman Citizen

"Make haste slowly" is a proverb which has some sense to it—especially as it applies to women's progress in government. As a class we are entirely novices in politics and should take great care to inform ourselves very thoroughly on all sides of a question before we push it, to know all the ins and outs of a law before we back it, to know the needs and situation before we advocate a reform, to know a great deal more about government mechanism before we reach out after very responsible offices. In all these lines we want to be a real force for good, to advance; but it is wise to "Make haste slowly."

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS

Before freezing weather settles down to business, tuck in your choice roses for their winter sleep. Hill up the soil about them that they may not have wet feet. Mulch the surface for warmth, to keep in the moisture of the plants, and to enrich the soil. Wrap and tie the branches with burlap or loose straw that they may not thaw and freeze alternately with the warm days and cold nights of early spring. Most climbers need no protection, but if they do burlap may be used.

HAPPY THOUGHT.

It's a pretty sensible sort of a plan
Not to worry o'er what you can't help—or can.

Chapter XII.

Ruth's arms were about Betty.

"I will give you everything I can, dear," she said, holding her close. "Everything. Don't ever talk as you did just now. Poor old dad—he thought you meant it. But I knew you didn't."

"But I did! One would think you were an old woman to hear you talk, and you are only five years older than I am. I won't be poor! I hate it! If I can't have things one way I will another. All the girls have things, pretty clothes and spending money."

For half an hour Ruth pleaded. Finally the younger girl broke down and promised tearfully to be good, not to do anything wrong to get the pretty things she longed for.

"You're just naturally good, Ruth. You don't know how it feels to want pretty things and good times so you just ache for them."

"We'll do the very best we can, Betty, all of us. You study hard and when you get through school I'll ask Mr. Carr to give you a nice position. Then you'll have your own money and be independent.

"You bet I'll keep it, too, not turn it over to the family like you do. Dad ought to get something to do—we aren't to blame for being born. It's his duty to take care of us."

"Poor old dad!" Ruth said just as Susan called them to dinner. Then: "You'll keep your promise to me, Betty, won't you?"

"Yes." Betty was sullen now. But I won't promise to stay in school. Not unless I can have things like other girls."

Ruth sighed as she followed Betty down-stairs. Her feet dragged, her very spirit seemed to drag also. She longed to be alone, to lock herself away from them all.

"They wouldn't understand," she communed. "It would make more unpleasantness."

"Tired, aren't you, Sis?" Sam, who sat next her, laid his hand for a moment on her knee. "It's all a shame."

Tears blurred the brave eyes for a moment, only to be quickly brushed away.

"Don't, Sam. I can't stand sympathy—not tonight."

"I understand."

This feeling of understanding that Sam often showed had helped Ruth more than either of them realized. It was only the intense bitterness which occasionally cropped out in his speech that ever caused Ruth to question her right to keep him at home. The government was doing much for disabled men. But she felt sure that he improved faster at home. Mrs. Browning was a good nurse. She adored her son, stories of whose bravery she never tired of recounting to the neighbors. He was gaining slowly. Yet gaining. It had been Ruth who insisted he remain at home and be cared for there instead of at a hospital where he would feel he was a charity patient. She felt that in the bitter mood that occasionally swept over him he might do himself harm.

Dinner over, Ruth spoke of a headache and said she was going to bed at once.

"I should think you'd want to go to bed, or somewhere, after the pleasant time we all gave you this afternoon. For a real pleasant time give me a family squabble. Oh, gee! I suppose I must wash the dishes as usual. Betty is still afraid she'll spoil her hands so that millionaire won't want her," Susan volunteered.

"Stop your nonsense and get at the dishes. I'm going to the movies," Betty interrupted.

"Can I go, too, mother?"

"No, you can't! Home is the place for girls."

"Bet is going."

"Betty is older than you are."

"And the family pet." A dish broke under the emphasis.

"Make her stop calling me 'Bet,' mother. I hate it."

"Be careful of the dishes, Susan. The Lord knows where we will get any more when they are gone. And don't call your sister nicknames. It isn't ladylike."

"You always say the 'Lord knows.' Do you suppose he does, and that he cares?" Susan asked with a twinkle in her blue eyes.

"Don't be sacriligious, Susan."

"I think we were all pretty rotten to Ruthie," Susan went on, paying no attention. "I'd like to know what would become of us all if it wasn't for her? We'd slowly starve to death, I expect. Ruthie is the star of this family."

"Ruth deceived me—her mother. I hope neither of you will follow her example." Mrs. Browning still nursed her grievance.

"Bosh! It was her money. She earned it. She would keep it all and tell us to go hang if she was like a lot of girls. Ruth is pretty, too, and she's getting shabby because she don't buy herself any new clothes. I say it's a shame the way we all act—as if we had a right to what she makes."

"Keep still, Susan. A girl thirteen years old has no right to talk as you do. Get through with those dishes and go to bed."

Yankees Invited to Train in Wichita Falls

WALTER SALM AND WILL GRAY TO DEAL WITH COL. RUPPERT AT BUFFALO MEETING OF MINORS

BY C. F. C.

Acting on a suggestion from the Record News, Hubert Harrison, general manager of the Chamber of Commerce, yesterday wired Colonel Jacob Ruppert inviting the New York American league baseball club to train in Wichita Falls this coming spring. If the deal can be put over, and the Yankees make this city their 1922 training camp, Wichita Falls will receive more free advertising than any other city in the United States.

At present the American league champions are free to negotiate with any city in the country. Mineral Wells, Texas, originally was selected as a training camp site for Babe Ruth and his slugging companions, but the Cincinnati Reds beat the Yankees to it, and every day since then has brought a new rumor regarding the spring plans of the Yanks. Harrison yesterday put the proposition up to the Yankees' owners in the following telegram:

"Colonel Jacob Ruppert,
New York American League Baseball Association,
New York City.

"We invite the New York Yankees to train in Wichita Falls in the spring of 1922. The Texas league grounds are available. Our committee, Walter Salm and J. Will Gray will meet you in Buffalo December 6. Wichita Falls is a live city of 40,000, with a mild climate. Believe your club would enjoy staying here. Fine new hotel, modern in every respect. Do not decide training place until you see our committee and negotiate with us."

Walter Salm, skipper of the Wichita Falls Spudders, and Will Gray, secretary, are leaving tonight en route for the meeting in Buffalo, December 5 of the National Association of Minor League Baseball Clubs. No definite proposition has been made by the Chamber of Commerce to be submitted by them to the Yankees, but the matter has been left largely to the discretion of Walter and Will regarding the best possible deal. In all probability, if the Yanks consider Wichita Falls as a training camp, some sort of bonus will be asked of the Chamber of Commerce. If the demands are not too "steep," the chamber undoubtedly will gladly meet them. To have Babe Ruth in Wichita Falls next spring in itself would be the biggest piece of advertising any city in the country could get. The Yanks will be accompanied by sporting writers from the big New York dailies, and every bit of news of any kind concerning Miller Huggins' men, his rookies and his regulars, will be flashed all over the United States under a Wichita Falls date line.

Arrangements would have to be made regarding the use of the ball park, as the baseball association naturally could not be expected to permit the Yanks to "hog" the playing field, to the detriment of the Spudders' training. But those minor obstacles could be ironed out. It would be a big thing for the city if the New York American leaguers would plant themselves here next spring. It may be shooting rather high, but it isn't wasting ammunition to take one shot at it, anyway.

Salm and Gray will stop over briefly in Pittsburgh and St. Louis before the minor league meeting opens in Buffalo, and will talk business that may result in later help to the 1922 Spudders. Neither cared to discuss yesterday the question of the draft, which will probably create more than one stormy session before the Buffalo meeting closes. Many of the larger minor leagues are bitterly opposed to the draft system of upbuilding major league ball clubs from the ranks of the minors, and a hard fight on this subject will probably feature the meeting.

MISSISSIPPI TO FACE BAYLOR U. IN DALLAS DEC. 3

WACO, Texas, Nov. 29.—Baylor university's athletic authorities have signed a contract with Mississippi college of Clinton, Mississippi, for a post-season game of football to be palyed in Dallas in Gardner park on Saturday, December 3. This fast Mississippi eleven has defeated some of the best football teams of the South, and the clash between the Bears and the Mississippians should prove an interesting aftermath to a season of colorful football in the Southwest. In the wake of defeated schools which this flashy eleven has worsted are such notable elevens as Tulane, Mississippi A. & M. and Mississippi university. A tie game was played with Florida. The schools which this eleven defeated had previously administered defeats to Texas A. & M., Alabama, South Carolina, Rice Institute, and other outstanding elevens. Tulane, one of the strongest teams in the South this year, the team that held the Detroit university eleven to a close score, which had in turn defeated the Boston college team 28 to 0, went down in defeat before the Mississippi college aggregation.

Baylor had originally planned to bring Sewanee to Texas for a post-season clash, but after her defeat by Tenessee and Vanderbilt, other teams were considered and the Mississippi college eleven appeared to be the best team in the South for such a clash.

The Bears have finished the conference season in fine fettle, Bridges and Crow have very few cripples on their squad, and with a week's ironing out the whole squad will be in excellent shape for the game with the Mississippians. Bradshaw, Tanner, Weathers, Kirk, Blailock and Strickland, Bridges' most dependable men, are in good condition. The team will work hard to round out a successful season by winning this last decisive game.

REJECT BIDS FOR ANNEX TO HOSPITAL

Declaring that bids submitted were too high the city council and county commissioners court in joint session Tuesday morning rejected all offered contracts for the construction of an addition to the Wichita general hospital for which the county and city have voted bond issues totaling $150,000.

The court after lengthy discussion failed to ratify the offer of Louis Jernigan, county farm superintendent to construct the hospital on a cost plus 10 per cent basis.

The members of the council and court were practically unanimous in the decision to reject the bids made by the contracting companies from the time they were opened Monday morning. It was thought however that the proposition of Mr. Jernigan who has supervised considerable construction work for the county might be accepted. It is understood to have the approval of a majority of the members of the commissioners court.

December 19 was set as the date when new bids will be received. The following bids were received:

Central Contracting company of Houston, $105,700; Reid & Costley of this city, $110,650; J. C. Jopling and company, Wichita Falls, $104,700; Henger & Chambers company, $99,900; Charles M. Blalkowski, $124,168; J. C. Buchanan, $106,000; D. H. Whitehill Construction company, $104,812; Crisman & Nesbit company, $118,486.

Fish Stories Not In It Now; Here's Latest One on Joe

Old Joe, the canine "side kick" of Patrolman White, has qualified for special mention again, according to officers at the police station.

Tuesday afternoon Patrolman White forgot to pay for his shave when he left a barber shop on Indiana street, until after he had walked a good distance from the spot and was talking to a friend.

When it came to mind he wrapped a 25 cent piece in a piece of paper and handed it to Joe saying, "Go! Go and pay the barber."

Of course Joe didn't exactly understand what it was all about, the officers say but he went in a long trot for the barber shop and up to the man who had shaved Patrolman White. The barber at first couldn't understand what it was all about, but directly accepted the bit of paper which Joe kept proffering. Unfolding it he found the tardy quarter.

Skeptics, who were standing near when White handed the money to his dog arrived at the shop, just in time to see the barber receiving his pay, officers declared.

MARANVILLE. PIRATES' SHORTSTOP. ALSO STAR BASKETBALL PLAYER

"Rabbit" Maranville, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, one of the best shortstops in the game, is almost as good a basketball player as he is a baseball player. When the Holyoke five finished their recent game at Madison Square Garden, New York City, against the Original Celtics, the Rabbit breathlessly exclaimed: "Baseball! That's a joke! This is work!"

Kell to Speak To Members of Women's Club

General routine business and announcements by the chairmen of the various standing committees, featured the monthly business meeting held by the Business Women's club at the Y. W. C. A. Tuesday evening.

Miss Carrie Webster, chairman of the program committee, announced that Frank Kell would speak to the club at the meeting next week, and Miss Francis Brooks, chairman of the social committee, outlined plans for the social program of the club for the next month, in which she announced that the club would be guests of the Golf and Country club at a Christmas party to be given on Tuesday evening, December 13, when the members would be costumed as children and have a Santa Claus, and all the joys of the yuletide.

On Thursday, December 8, the club will keep "open house" at the Y. W. C. A., games of various kinds will feature the entertainment for the evening, and men friends of the members will be guests.

Mrs. Sadie Carter, announced a contest in which all the members are requested to take part whereby plans are to be written on ideas for furnishing the club rooms at the Y. W. C. A. for the sum of $175.

A prize will be given for the most practical plans, and judges will be Misses Margaret Dubose, Rhea Gardner and Mrs. C. R. Hartsook.

Miss Anderson, club treasurer, read a letter from School Superintendent Lee Clark in which he expressed his appreciation for the donation received by the football team of the high school from the club.

In the contest for the evening, Miss Bruce Dickson, received the Y. W. C. A. cafeteria prize, an order for dinner for herself and five friends; also the Kimberlin prize, a beautiful Stone Martin neck piece. Mrs. Ramey Mathis received the Mary Gross prize, a handsome $25 hat.

Gift givers announced for next week include the Freear Furniture store and Little's Sporting Goods shop.

BIG BONES SECRET OF IOWA STAR'S DRIVING POWER

IOWA CITY, Nov. 29.—Science has solved the secret of the driving power that has made Gordon Locke, the Iowa full back, practically the unanimous choice of football critics for all-conference honors in the big ten.

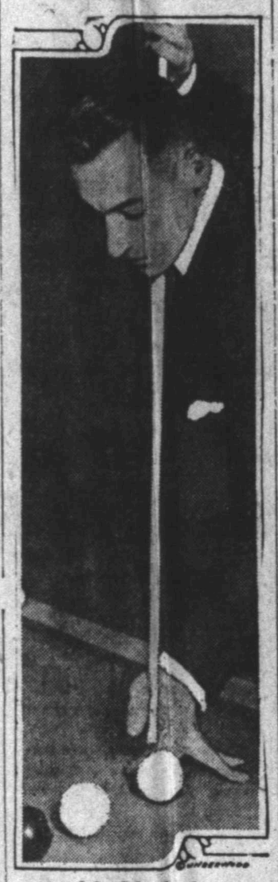

Professor Bundy Allen, head radiographer in the university hospital, has X-rayed the Iowa fullback up one side and down the other. He declares Locke's power is due to big bones.

"Locke has the largest bones I ever saw in a man of his size," Dr. Allen said. "Together with the further fact that he has practically no surplus flesh in his 175 pounds the explanation seems to be clear. He has the frame of a giant and no excess weight. The drive is there with nothing to hold it back."

TENNIS, OLD GAME.

Tennis, the forerunner of the lawn game of today, is a very old game. It was introduced into England about the fourteenth century. A line was chalked on a wall and a stroke below this was regarded a fault. Palm tennis originated in France. The ball was driven by the palm of the hand; at first the hand was bare, but later the players used a glove, and later still some form of racquet was used. In the time of Edward IV, Henry VII and Henry VIII a crude form of tennis was played in England, and it is on record that Queen Elizabeth was pleased at a game played by ten of the earl of Hertford's servants. Another story tells how a noble earl, becoming heated by the exertions of the game, wiped his face with the queen's handkerchief, and was rewarded with a crack on the head with her majesty's racquet.

NEW 18.2 KING STARTS ON TOUR

Jake Schaefer Jr.

Jake Schaefer Jr., who recently dethroned Willie Hoppe as world's 18.2 balkline billiard champion, has started on an extensive tour with Roger Conti, French star, as his partner. Conti played in the international tourney, just ended, in which Schaefer wrested the title from Hoppe.

T. C. U. GRIDIRON PLAYERS RECEIVE VARSITY LETTERS.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 29.—Eighteen football players, seven of whom were freshmen, were awarded their "letters" at Texas Christian university today. All will return and will be eligible for the squad next year, setting a record in T. C. U. athletic history.

AGGIES LOSE TEN LETTER MEN IN 1922

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 29.—The A. & M. College Athletic council acting on the recommendation of Head Coach D. X. Bible has awarded the official letter to seventeen members of the 1921 Aggie Football squad.

Those receiving letters were: F. K. Buckner, Weatherford; R. L. Carruthers, Fort Worth; A. F. Dieterich, Dallas; H. V. DuBois, Dallas; A. J. Evans, San Antonio; L. S. Keen, Kerens; W. G. McMillan, Calvert; A. B. Morris, Cedar Hill; T. L. Miller, Coleman; W. E. Murrah, Plano; H. Pinson, Proctor; S. H. Sanders, Franklin; M. V. Smith, Belton; W. C. Weir, Georgetown (Capt); F. T. Wendt, Sherman; W. E. Winn, Dallas; J. F. Wilson, Honey Grove.

Ten of these letter men will not return to school next year. They are: Carruthers, Dietrich, McMillan, Murrah, Pinson, Sanders, Smith, Weir, Wendt and Winn. This heavy loss of experienced men will make it necessary for Bible to start the training season again next fall with a search for new material to fill up the gaps.

Thus the team that A. & M. will put into the field next year will have no more advantage of experience than did the last, in spite of the fact that there were only five pivotal men on the squad the past season. This is true because Texas A. & M. has not in the past few years been getting her share of the high school football men.

The past fall Bible was forced to draw material from the reserve squad and the inter-organization league team, because there were no first year men qualified by training and experience to take a place on the squad. McMillan, Pinson, Winn and Wendt, four of the strongest men on the squad the past year, were recruited from the reserve squad and the battalion league teams, and they had only one year left in which to play. Their places will have to be filled again next year, and as long as Bible is forced to take third year men to fill gaps on the team, so long will A. & M. have an inexperienced team and so long will anxiety follow their work during the seasons.

Weir, Murrah, Carruthers, Dietrich and Smith are the men who have made letters before this year that will be lost from the team by graduation. Sanders has another year in which he is eligible to play but he is contemplating entering medical school next year.

INSTRUCTED VERDICT FOR BANK GIVEN

An instructed verdict for the plaintiff was given in the 89th District court Tuesday in the case of the City National Bank of Commerce against Carey Brothers Oil company and others which has been on trial since Wednesday of last week.

Judge Martin in dismissing the jury following the judgment said that the case which has been hotly contested was one of the most difficult civil cases in which he had presided as judge.

The suit was brought by the bank against ten defendants for the payment of a note for $25,000. The debt was not denied by any of the defendants, the disagreement being among the several defendants. It was shown that three of the original ten had sold their interest in the property concerned in the suit to five men who in turn had disposed of their interest to one man whose whereabouts are unknown. Several questions of law arose from the suit of intervenors and the suit of the ten men asking for an accounting. Before the trial of the case ended the three men took a non-suit and the accounting suit was also dropped.

It is understood that by agreement another accounting suit involving all the defendants is to be filed.

PRO GOLFERS WILL BE ASKED TO PLAY IN TEXAS TOURNEYS

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Efforts are being made by organizations in the south, it is reported here, to induce members of the Professional Golfers association to play in a number of winter tournaments in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi.

The proposed tournaments are to be held in New Orleans, San Antonio, Houston, Fort Worth, Dallas and unnamed places in Mississippi during January or February. An attempt will be made to set dates that will not conflict with the annual winter fixtures in Florida and the Carolinas.

THE UNITED CHARITIES

By "NICK" CARTER

Give a little to the Red Cross?
GIVE? No, neighbor, you mean LEND:
You can't GIVE away your money
When it goes to help a FRIEND.

Give a little to the Boy Scouts?
You can't GIVE to happy boys,
All you LEND comes back reflected
In a thousand simple joys.

Give a little to the Army?
No; you pay your Army debt:
There are just a million doughnuts
That we haven't paid for yet!

Give a little to the Nurs'ry?
Give a little? GIVE A LOT!
Gosh! I'd give my hope of Heaven
Just to own one little tot!

Give a little to the Children's Home and Aid? Come on, kick in:
Take those youngsters out of squalor,
Dirt, disease and filth and sin.

Welfare Council and Y. W?
Man alive! You've GOT to dig:
They have work to do, old timer,
Broad, unselfish work and big.

Life's a kind of game we're playing
Where the joy of play abides
In the gifts we make, to even
Up the two great playing sides.

Playing, playing, smiling, helping,
Down the stream of life we drift;
Lonely players in the current
Clinging to the rope of GIFT.

Give a little. Give it gladly,
With a cheerful, helpful grin;
Make believe that you're St. Peter
And some feller's "wantin' in."

Open up the gates of courage,
Help the little feller thru;
Say, if you were on your "uppers,"
HE'D GO BROKE TO COMFORT YOU!

CENTRE WILL PLAY COAST ELEVEN AT SAN DIEGO, DEC. 26

DANVILLE, Ky., Nov. 29.—Centre college's acceptance of a western game at San Diego, Cal., in the east vs west tournament, late in December, was formally announced today. Dr. Frank Rainey, chairman of the faculty athletic committee of Centre, indicated Centre's opponent would likely be the Leland Stanford university, University of Southern California, or Washington State.

The Centre squad will leave Danville December 14 with 22 men.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 29.—The opponent for Centre college will be selected Thursday and the game will be played December 26 in the stadium which has a seating capacity of 40,000 persons.

NORTHERN NAMED TO HEAD WEST TEXAS

ABILENE, Texas, Nov. 29.—At Sweetwater yesterday the directors of the West Texas Baseball league elected G. W. Northern of Fort Worth as president and voted Stamford in as a member of the league. Amarillo, Plainview, Ranger, Lubbock and one or two other towns may come in later, increasing the membership to eight clubs. The salary limit was raised from $1,800 to $2,000. Another meeting will be held some time in early December at Stamford to work out final details of the league's 1922 program. Abilene, San Angelo, Ballinger and Sweetwater finished the season last year, and these clubs will form the nucleus of the 1922 organization, with Stamford certain of a berth among them.

BAYLOR CAGE CREW ON TRIP THRU SOUTH

WACO, Texas, Nov. 29.—Baylor University's basketball quintet, under the mentorship of Head Coach Frank B. Bridges, will make an extended tour of the Southern states during the Christmas holidays. Coach Bridges and the Baylor five made this tour last year. The trip for this season will take in some new territory, but for the most part will cover the same states as were included on last year's schedule. In all, seventeen games will be played while the team is on this trip.

The training which the Bear basketeers get from this trip should put them in the best of form for the opening of the Southwestern Conference basketball season. This year with three varsity men from last year's quintet and with six good men from the ranks of the Cubs, Bridges expects to make a strong bid for conference honors.

The men who wil make the Southern trip are: Captain Dave Hill, guard; all-Southwestern center; Lyons; Scott, Varsity forward; Bradshaw, Woodson and Kelly, forwards; Burnell, Williamson, and playing manager, B. J. Pittman, guards.

The schedule is as follows: December 16 and 17, Red Triangles, at Houston; December 19, St. Stanislaus College, Bay St. Louis, Miss.; December 20, Mobile, Ala., Y. M. C. A.; December 21 and 22, Hattiesburg, Miss., Y. M. C. A.; December 24, Pine Bluff, Ark., Y. M. C. A.; December 26, Jonesboro, Ark., Y. M. C. A.; December 27, Memphis, Tenn., Y. M. C. A.; December 28 and 29, the Rambler Athletic Club, Nashville, Tenn.; December 30, Atlanta, Ga., Athletic Club; December 31, Macon, Ga.; Y. M. C. A.; January 2, Columbus, Ga., Y. M. C. A.; January 3, Gadsden, Ala., Y. M. C. A.; January 6 and 7, Gulf Refining Company team at Port Arthur, Texas.

VISITORS ARE PLEASED WITH STAY IN CITY

Declare Hospitality Extended While Here Exceeds Anything Encountered on Their Trip to Southwest.

In all the places they have visited they have yet to encounter hospitality such as that accorded them by Wichita Falls, members of the Keystone-Ranger party, composed of business men from Pittsburg, here Tuesday to inspect properties of the company here and in adjacent fields, declared before leaving.

The party came here after making a number of stops in other centers where their company has property, and left here to visit other oil fields in Texas, including the newest at Mexia, and the principal cities of Texas, before their return.

While here they were entertained by the University club at luncheon, after which they went to Burkburnett for an inspection of the plant of the Keystone-Ranger Refinery. Cars were provided there for a trip through the Burkburnett townsite and Northwest pools, several of the party taking the opportunity of inspecting producing properties in which they personally or the company was interested.

Returning to Wichita Falls, the partly was entertained at dinner at the Kemp Hotel, members of the local office force assisting in the entertainment.

Knox Finley, general manager for these interests in this section, introduced Foster Hartman of Pittsburg, who presided at the dinner. After dinner talks were made by S. Sargent, local attorney; by Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald, by Judge Edgar Scurry, and by Dr. Winslow, one of the Pittsburg visitors.

Several of the visitors made talks in which they discussed various properties belonging to the company and its subsidiaries, taking occasion to praise the management of the property.

Mr. and Mrs. Finley joined the party for the remainder of their trip over the state.

MERCURY HAS WIDE RANGE ON TUESDAY

Varying temperatures were registered in Wichita Falls Tuesday ranging from 47 degrees at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning to 63 degrees at high noon after which the mercury began a slow and steady decline arriving at 55 degrees at midnight.

Varying winds in surrounding towns and communities early Tuesday were taken as indication that Wichita Falls was the center of a low barometer. The temperature here reached its height at noon, shortly following which a light shower fell and the slow downward march of the thermometer began again. At midnight however the clouds were cleared away and all indications of rainfall vanished.

BAPTISTS TO BE ASKED TO MEET HERE

Every effort will be made to bring the 1922 convention of Baptists of Texas to this city, according to the announcement Tuesday of Hubert Harrison, vice president and general manager of the Chamber of Commerce. Invitations from the Chamber of Commerce and other local civic organizations are being forwarded for presentation before the 1921 convention, which is meeting in Dallas.

The Baptist convention is declared to be one of the largest of the annual conferences of the year and one that usually attracts some 2,000 laymen and ministers.

Stunts in Air And on Earth Staged Tuesday

Displays of airplane tactics in pursuit of the wily bootlegger and special acts by stars from the firmament of the Sells-Floto circus were staged Tuesday afternoon beginning at 2:30 o'clock at Eighth and Scott streets as a part of the trades day program of the local Retail Merchants and Chamber of Commerce, which attracted large crowds from the city and surrounding territory to the shopping district.

The airplane display included a scene for the movies being filmed by the Seymour Film Co., of Los Angeles. The plane descended to a level of the top story of the City National building with peace officers located on the wings firing at the bootleggers as they sped away down the street.

The circus stunts included various exhibitions of the human frog whose body seemed to have no joints and whose muscles seemed able to rival a rubber band. The program was opened by Miss Delno who delighted the audience with stair case stunts and was closed by the tumbling Monet Trio, who in addition to exhibiting some difficult acrobatic feats amused the onlookers with their side line of clownishness.

Music was furnished for the occasion and during the afternoon by a band provided through the Chamber of Commerce and Retail Merchants association.

Some Chest-Nuts

A clubman whose stammering tongue is the only slow thing about him accepted the week-end invitation of Warr Bullione, who has acquired an ancient mansion famous for its wonderful carved staircase.

On arrival he was conducted to his room. He shuddered as he mounted the stairs at the new gilding which disfigured the lovely old woodwork.

His room was sumptuous, but more wonderful was the bathroom, with its marble walls and tinted marble bath, let into the floor in Roman fashion.

"What are you doing?" asked a puzzled friend as he watched him pass his fingers around the bath.

Came the reply: "I w-want to be q-quite s-sure there are no d-d-diamonds incrusted in the d-d-darned bath; I might scratch my b-b-back on them!"

He was a famous hypnotist and as usual he was urged to relate some stories concerning the power he had at his command.

Moreover, he was very absent-minded.

"I remember once during my stay in New York I had the pleasure of saving a workman's life. I happened to be looking out of a window ten stories higher. I immediately concentrated my hypnotic influence on him and so arrested his fall in mid-air."

And the hypnotist, conscious that he had made a stir, sat back with a satisfied air.

"But," inquired one of his feminine admirers, "didn't the man publicly thank you for saving his life?"

"Heavens!" the hypnotist exclaimed. "Now I come to think of it, the poor fellow must still be waiting up there for me to free him from the influence."

An Australian was on a visit to London and in the course of his wanderings he got into conversation with a cockney. "You know," said the Australian, "on the other side of the earth it is a day later than it is here."

"I don't believe that!" replied the cockney.

"Ah, but it is!" responded the Australian. "Listen, and I'll prove it to you!"

The cockney listened, and the Australian continued:

"If you were in Australia and I was here, and you were to be shot today, I'd know it yesterday."

"Well, if you were a friend of mine you'd send me a telegram today, telling me I'm shot!" retorted the cockney.

In the cook's absence the young mistress of the house undertook, with the help of an inexperienced maid, to get the Sunday luncheon. The flurried maid, who had been struggling in the kitchen with a coffee grinder which refused to work, confessed that she had forgotten to wash the lettuce.

"Well, never mind, Marie," said the considerate mistress. "Go on with the coffee and I'll do it. Where do you keep the soap?"

Gasbag Jones stood on a soapbox at the corner of the street. A huge crowd surged around him. Surely his heart s hould have been glad. But he was dissatisfied.

Every attempt he made to speak was interrupted by some member of the audience. At last stamping his foot in anger, he bellowed at the top of his voice:

"Every time I open my mouth a silly fool speaks."

And the crowd agreed with him entirely.

SAFETY FIRST.

Irate Office Manager—You saphead Why the dickens did you buy anothe safe? Haven't we got one?

New Clerk—Yes, sir, but I read c o many robberies, thought we ough o put the office safe into the act na.

COFFEE

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—After opening 4 points lower to 2 points higher, the market for coffee futures steadied on renewed buying of December which sold up from 8.65 to 8.70 or within 5 points of the recent high record. This encouraged buying of later deliveries which sold 5 to 8 points net with March touching 8.43 but special cables reported reactions in Rio exchange rates and the market eased off during the afternoon with December selling down to 8.60 and March to 8.33. Later months were relatively steady with the market closing net 0 points lower to 2 points higher. Sales were estimated at about 45,000 bags. December 8.60; January 8.50; March 8.34; May 8.15; July 8.04; September 7.94.

Spot firm; Rio 7's 9@12. Santos fours 11 3-4@12 1-4. Firm offers were a little more numerous and lower on the average including Santos 7's and 8's at 11.30 to 11.50; Rio 7's at 8.50 and Victor 7's and 8's at 8.60, American credits.

Stocks

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Today's trading on the stock exchange was unusually active and broad as evidenced by sales of 850,000 shares and a turnover of about $26,500,000 par value in bonds. The latter exceeded any total in several months. Bonds were the center of attraction, especially government issues. No less than seven liberty series mounted to highest records for a year or two.

Railway shares again dominated the stock list and oils, coppers, motor specialities tobacco kept more or less even pace. Backwardness was shown by steels and equipments and heaviness of miscellaneous issues contributed to the market's uncertain trend.

Aside from rails which held firm the general list eased under liquidation in the final hour, call moneys rising to 5 1-2 per cent causing selling for business accounts.

Dealings in foreign exchange were light. European war issues did not share in the rise of liberty bonds, but South American issues, especially Chile 8's and Brazil 8's were strong. Many rails and industrials, including United States steel 5's, strengthened perceptibly and several new underwritings for moderate amounts were oversubscribed.

Cotton

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Early declines were followed by rather sharp rallies in the cotton market today but prices broke again in the late trading and closed easy at a net decline of 12 to 37 points. January sold up from 17.48 to 17.95 and broke to 17.46, closing at that price compared with 17.65 at the close of the previous day.

The market opened steady at a decline of over two points on May but generally unchanged to 13 points higher in response to relatively firm cables, but eased off right after the call under southern and scattering local selling. Reports of a continued dull demand with a sagging price tendency in the goods market contributed to the decline while the circulation of December notices representing about 2,900 bales caused scattering near month liquidation. There was also some selling on reports of an easier spot basis in the southwest and before the end of the morning December touched 17.53, or 37 points net lower, while later months showed net losses of 15 to 20 points with March selling at 17.40. Offerings were comparatively light, however, the market turning firmer during the middle of the day on reports that pink boll worms were being found in other sections of Texas, and talk of probable buillish ginning figures for the period ending tomorrow. Wall street was a good buyer on the rally which carried December up to 18.00 and March to 17.89 but the market weakened again, reaching the lowest prices of the day in the late trading under liquidation by early buyers and New Orleans selling. March sold off to 17.38 and closing prices were practically the low of the day.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 29.—A trading market prevailed in cotton today with fairly broad price swings both above and below the level of yesterday's close. In the late trading selling pressure increased and the close was at net losses of the session of 11 to 25 points. January closed at 16.84.

On the opening the tendency was to do better on favorable cables but after advances of three to five points there was a drop to levels 13 to 22 points under the final prices of yesterday as the result of telegrams from Houston stating that the spot basis there was easier. From this decline the market again was lifted to net advances by the rumors that a large spot concern was long of about 50,000 bales of December in the New York market, upon which it would demand delivery of cotton and by more favorable international political news, or what the trade construed as such. Soon after mid-session prices were 27 to 32 points up with January at 17.37.

In the afternoon, the market softened under attempts to realize on the part of early buyers and under the report that notices for 3,000 bales to go on December contracts in New York still were circulating.

New low levels were made by most months, the list showing net losses of 13 to 26 points. At this stage January traded down to 16.83.

LIVERPOOL SPOT COTTON.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 29.—Cotton spot quiet, prices steady. Good middling 11.89; fully middling 11.49; middling 11.09; low middling 9.79; good ordinary 8.04; ordinary 7.29. Sales 6,000 bales, including 4,800 American.

COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Buying by refiners and shorts covering on the firmer showing in crude oil and cotton lifted cottonseed oil 5 to 12 points early but a reaction followed under renewed liquidation in December and for want of outside support. Closing bids were four points lower for December and unchanged to two net higher for the balance. Sales 10,900 barrels. There were retenders of six hundred barrels on December contracts. Prime crude 7.00 asked; prime summer yellow spot 7.50@8.20; January 8.35; March 8.66; May 8.86, all bid.

Grain

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Wheat underwent a material decline in price today largely because of reactions from the recent advance of more than 12 cents. There was an unsettled close 2¼ to 3c net lower, with December 1.11¾ to 1.11¾ and May 1.15⅝ to 1.15½. Corn lost 1⅛@1¼ to 1⅛@2c, oats finished unchanged to ½c off and provisions down 2½ to 10 cents.

Many traders in wheat took the position that a setback in values was to be expected as the technical position of the market had been weakened by the big advance of late. With such an opinion current selling on the part of commision houses became more general and there was considerable liquidation of December holdings. Corn was depressed by lack of support and by predictions that colder weather would bring about enlargement of receipts. Oats were better sustained as a result of buying on the part of elevator interests.

Provisions averaged lower with hogs.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The local market for raw sugar was quiet and prices were unchanged at 3.87½c to 4.11 for centrifugal. There were sales to a Canadian refiner of 4000 bags of Venezuelas at 210 cif. New York, which represents a decline of 15 points from the last previous sale.

The raw sugar futures market was steadier with prices at one time 2 to 6 points higher on covering and commission house buying, although liquidation caused a partial setback near the close with final prices unchanged to 4 points net higher. January closed at 2.18; March 2.19; and July 2.38.

There were no changes in refined sugar with fine granulated listed at 5.20 to 5.30. Business is only moderate. There were no transactions in the refined future and final prices were unchanged, January, March and May closed at 5.22.

Livestock

FORT WORTH, Nov. 29.—Demand for cattle was broad today, but packers tried to force a decline through sympathy with losses reported at all other trade centers and the movement scalewart was not as active as on other days recently. However, the big end of the day's offering of 2,000 head sold on a steady basis. Some late deals on cows and steers looked 10 to 15c lower. An offering of 1,500 calves cleared readily on a strong to 25c higher basis. A car of corn fed heifers notched 7.00 and calves reached 6.50.

Packers purchased hogs at prices in line with Monday's shipper market, and the trade was very active on that basis. One car sold to a packer at 7.35 and shippers secured some hogs at the same amount. Bulk sales ranged from 7.00 to 7.30. Pigs were steady to strong, the best stockers going at 7.40 to 7.50. Hog house receipts amounted to only 800 head, and more than ten buyers were in atelon.

Nothing of importance developed in the sheep division. Receipts reached 1,200 head. Not enough trading developed to make a market quotable. Quotations:

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 29.—Cattle 17,000; beef steers and fat she stock dull, weak to 25c lower; few yearlings 8.50; best heavy steers 7.25; other early sales 5.00@7.00; cows bulk 3.50@4.00; calves strong to 50c higher; best vealers 8.00@8.50; other classes slow, mostly steady; canners 2.50; cutters 3.00@3.25; bulls 3.00@4.00; stockers 3.25@5.25.

Hogs 13,000; mostly 10c lower; top 6.85; bulk of sugar 6.65@6.85; packing cows 5.75@6.00; pigs 10c@15c lower; top 6.75.

Sheep 8,000; killing clases steady, 15c higher; fat ewes 3.75@4.00; Idaho lambs 9.40; fed westerns 9.35; natives 9.25.

DRY GOODS

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Cotton goods were quiet today with gray goods slightly easier. Yarns were dull. Woolen goods trade was quiet in anticipation of the new fall season to be opened in the next few weeks. Burlaps were dull with prices weak. Silks showed little improvement.

SAFETY PARADE TO BE HELD ON SATURDAY P. M.

Selecting a time deemed consistent with the convenience of citizens of the surrounding communities and towns and of the students of the city and county schools, 2 o'clock on the afternoon of Saturday December 10, has been set for the feature parade to be staged under the auspices of the American Legion in the interest of promoting interest in the elimination of useless accidents and consequent loss of human life. This was the announcement on Monday of members of the general committee in charge of preparations for the campaign.

Two prizes have been offered for the most cleverly decorated float or automobile entered into the campaign. A gold pencil is to be given by the Halton-Friedly Jewelry Co., to the man having the winning design and a novelty beaded necklace is to be given by Dave Paul to the woman winner. The awards are to be made solely on the basis of the ingenuity shown in selection of design or educational qualities of the decorations.

In explanation of the seriousness of the existing conditions which it is the hope of the American Legion to in some extent combat, it is announced by Mrs. W. T. Woodfin, committee member that local undertakers assert that 26 people have been killed in Wichita Falls during the past year. Numberless others are said to have been seriously crippled, some of them maimed. Many of these it is pointed out could have been avoided by the application of proper care and caution. It is the aim of Legion members to in some manner cut down the percentage of these deaths and loss of limb and health.

Commenting on the proposed campaign, Mrs. J. A. Kemp is quoted as having said that no mother or father can consider they have done their full duty if they pass by an opportunity to participate in this campaign.

GENE AND OLGA IN ANOTHER BIG HIT, "MISLEADING LADY"

The performance of "The Misleading Lady" at the Wichita theater is marked by two outstanding features, the flawless acting of Gene Lewis, Olga Worth and Klock Ryder, and the magnificent scenery of Robert Bell the company's own scenic artist.

The perfect love making of Mr. Lewis will go down in the memory of those fortunate enough to see it as a monument of grace, good manners, and the deportment of a smart, well groomed man about town. He wears his evening clothes with the air of a man born to the purple, he speaks quietly and sincerely, and underneath his light banter is detected a thread of something that tells his hearers that here is a man not to be trifled with. There is something in his voice that warns "hands off," and the picture of him gracefully bending over the big white staircase in the soft light of evening, with the fire glow on his features, speaking of his love, will awaken romance in the heart of anyone no matter how long this quality has been sleeping. Here is a prince indeed.

Miss Worth is a graceful foil for the charming Mr. Lewis, exquisitely gowned in a creation that caused an exclamation when she appeared first, with the grace of a queen descending the ivory stairway. She set her trap and with all the snares a clever woman goes armed with, she lowered the lights and seating herself before the warm fire glow, she awaits the coming of the victim, whose proposal of marriage she is to extract from him in order to win a wager. The picture that "the victim" beholds on entering is enough to sweep any man off his feet. He walked right into it, and not a man in the audience blamed him, even if it meant instant annihilation, but in the cleverest dialogue ever written into a play he turns the tables and abducts her.

Miss Worth in the succeeding acts demonstrates that her ability comes from long study and hard work. Her changes and transitions as she sounds various heights and depths of emotion are a joy to hear. Miss Worth needs no press agent to proclaim her worthy to head the cast of "America's Finest Stock Company."

Klock Ryder runs the stars a close second in his flawless interpretation of the lunatic "Napoleon." He successfully plays on the heart strings of his audience and beneath the high art of his fooling there is a discernable streak of seriousness that gets to the hearers and in spite of the wealth of comedy in his antics they feel truly sorry for this man who imagines he was once at the head of the French army. Mr. Ryder's artistry must be seen to be fully appreciated.

"The Misleading Lady" is the most charming play that ever came to town and it requires the intelligent acting and direction of the Gene Lewis-Olga Worth company to do the author full justice. This they do with over flowing measure.

SHERIFF'S SALE.
The State of Texas, County of Wichita.
By virtue of a certain execution issued out of the honorable county court of Wichita county, on the 21st day of November, 1921, by W. T. Harris, county clerk, against E. E. Combest for the sum of $244.66 dollars and costs of suit in cause No. 4666 in said court, styled First National Bank of Wichita Falls, Texas, and placed in my hands for service, I, Fred K. Smith, as sheriff of Wichita County, Texas, did on the 22nd day of November, 1921, levy on certain personal property situated in Wichita county, described as follows, to-wit:
All of the interest that E. E. Combest holds in and to 21 shares of capital stock of the Hartford Trust Co., represented by stock certificate number 200, and levied upon as the property of said E. E. Combest. And on Tuesday the 6th day of December, 1921, at the court house door of Wichita County, in the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, between the hours of ten a. m. and four p. m. I will sell said personal property at public vendue for cash to the highest bidder as the property of said E. E. Combest by virtue of said levy and said execution.
And in compliance with law I give this notice by publication in the English language, once a week for two consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale in the Wichita Falls Record News, newspaper published in Wichita County.
Witness my hand this the 21st day of November, 1921.

AMOUNT BANK CAN DO FOR ONE DEPENDENT ON AMOUNT SAVED AND DEPOSITED, SHOWS

Your bank accepts money on deposit for safe-keeping and, in return, supplies those banking services which you require in the handling of your business and personal affairs, says the December business letter of the City National Bank of Commerce.

It lends out the funds at its command to essential business enterprises, and thus makes possible the carrying on of industry and commerce of every nature.

Industry and commerce grow with every year, for America grows, in wealth and strength and population. Banks have to grow, if they are to keep pace with the development of the communities they serve and to aid in that development. Their ability to aid depends very largely upon the funds at their command.

You ask much of your bank, and when you deposit money with it you enable it to do its proper work. Have you considered to what extent your bank's ability to work with and for you is conditioned upon the way you co-operate with it?

The larger your balance, the more the bank can do for you and for the business of your community. The more you help your bank to grow, the greater is its opportunity to work along with you, and the better it is for your business and for every other business.

It takes capital to make business go. When you influence to a bank capital which might otherwise lie idle, you are helping to supply the money which produces raw materials, meets pay rolls, lessens unemployment and stimulates business in every way.

When you work with your banker, you help him to work more efficiently with you.

Oil Cost Mounting.

Gasoline consumption, which fell far below normal last winter, is mounting steadily and production hardly keeps pace. Total decline in stocks from last May's peak approximates 30 per cent. Crude oil production is shrinking likewise, despite the fact that Mexico's exports hold up.

Authorities express the belief that American production cannot maintain the 1920-21 average despite the continued development of new territory. Oil men, as a result, are watching with interest the activity of the Standard Oil Company in Czecho-Slovakia, where the American concern has obtained a monopoly; the rapid development of the Venezuela fields in the Maracaibo basin; and the British ventures in Mesopotamia and Abyssinia. With the approach of winter, interest in the sub-arctic Fort Norman field has dwindled, although prospectors are no less active.

Another slump in the price of Crude seems hardly to be expected.

Coal Output Shrinkage.

There is no lessening in the world's demand for fuel, and probably there never will be, in this generation, but the year 1921 has witnessed a disturbing shrinkage in production. The first six months showed a falling off of no less than 250 million tons, less coal being mined than in any corresponding period in a decade.

The British coal strike, together with labor troubles in America, caused the slump and, as a result, experts are looking for a year's total of hardly 1,100,000,000 tons—just about the production of the year 1909.

The contribution of the United States is approximately 40 per cent—materially more than before the war, but less than between 1916 and 1920. Germany's production of bituminous coal is low, but her lignite output—thirty million tons— is greater than that of 1913.

British production is unfavorably affected by the fact that where mechanical devices are concerned, the Island is far behind the United States.

Philippine Development.

Whatever their political future, the commercial future of the Philippine Islands, as producers of raw materials which the world needs, seems assured.

The Philippine Bureau of Customs has just announced the shipment of nearly ten million kilos of copra cake, copra and coconanut oil, and points out that the ports of the Islands, unlike those of most other lands, are alive with shipping.

Attention is also directed to the fact that the standing timber of these island possessions exceeds two hundred billion board feet, while their wealth in hemp, sugar and tobacco assures a continuous and thriving trade.

The United States, of course, is the best customer of the Islands, but Germany, Holland and Great Britain are big buyers of cocoanut products.

Mother Bus Progress

Interurban trolley lines have been feeling the competition of the automobile for a decade. For half a dozen years the motor truck has been an inconvenient rival of the freight train, where short hauls are concerned. Now the New Haven railroad recognizes the competition of the motor bus. The New Haven is finding small branch lines unprofitable from the passenger standpoint, and it recognizes the economies of the motor-driven vehicle. By way of compromise between steam and jitney management is experimenting flanged-wheel motor bus... run on standard gauge... er and conductor ...

whereas any steam train requires four men.

Railroad men throughout the country are watching the New Haven's tests with the greatest interest. The result may affect our whole system of suburban transportation.

Not Enough Hides

Last year the United States imported no less than 700,000,000 pounds of green hides, against a home production of 849,500,000. Where cattle hides and calf skins are concerned, imports were hardly half the American output.

But all of these hides were not consumed at home. Exports balance imports of raw materials. There is no glut in the market.

Germany has run her production of calf skin, kid and patent leathers to 70 per cent of pre-war capacity. Great Britain, ever a great producer of boots and shoes, is busy in active markets. India, always an exporter of hides and importer of shoes, is doing her tanning and shoe-making at home.

Belgium's Complaint.

No belligerent in the Great War made greater strides in the matter of industrial rehabilitation in the first years after the war than did Belgium. The rebuilding and re-equipping of factories progressed with record speed and a year ago the little kingdom seemed well on the way to permanent prosperity—now Germany's competition begins to tell. German goods and materials are flooding Belgian markets at prices which defy competition. Longer hours, smaller wages and a depreciated currency make this possible. Belgian products are losing out in the home market, while unofficial figures indicate that imports of German manufactured goods are gaining at the rate of 10 per cent a month.

Tariff walls alone cannot cure this situation. Stabilization of currencies would seem the only cure and nothing could be much more difficult in the Europe of today.

South America Cuts Imports.

No overseas market has been more attractive to the American business man, and nowhere has he looked more hopefully in the post-war years, than to South America. Just now the shrinking of trade with Latin-America is causing comment.

Exchange conditions, of course, are largely to blame. South American warehouse stocks are largely exhausted, but depreciated currencies forbid more than hand-to-mouth buying, and foreign competitors, eager for the trade, are offering long time credits which few American exporters are prepared to extend. Europe, moreover, is not buying in Brazil and the Argentine according to her custom, and money is very tight.

Of course, no one questions the greatness of the opportunity which South America presents, but the great flood of trade of which we have heard so much has not yet come.

The Russian rulers have given up the idea of placing their currency on a metal basis and plan, instead, the issue of new bank notes at the rate of one ruble for ten thousand old rubles. So inflation continues.

Dutch rubber growers in the East Indies are unwilling to join with British producers in the restriction of output during 1922.

Bountiful crops have brought decided improvement in Canada's business situation. Dispatches from every quarter state that there is practically no speculation in the Dominion and that thrift seems to have become a household habit.

Egypt's cotton crop is commanding excellent prices as a result of boll weevil ravages and governmental ... striction of acreage. As ... cided business im... ported.

J. A. KEMP TO RETURN HERE LATE TODAY

J. A. Kemp is due to arrive today from Galveston, where he has been under treatment for some time, and is expected to be at home for an extended period, as considerable improvement is reported.

Mr. Kemp interrupted his rest period about two weeks ago by a hasty trip home to sign the 4,500 irrigation district bonds.

TEST IS MADE OF VALUE OF CHOPPED MAIZE FOR STOCK

Special to the Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Nov. 29.—An interesting test of young steer feeding is being made by Nelson and Morrison at Newlin, Texas.

Eighty-eight head of two-year-old Hereford steers averaging 800 pounds were put on feed September 17. They are fed chopped maize heads with cotton seed meal and one bundle of sorghum per day for roughness. The present ration is 20 pounds of chopped maize heads and 2 pounds of cottonseed meal.

The bunch has shown splendid progress and at present are taking on 3 1-2 pounds per day weight. Records and weights are carefully kept. They expect to finish in 90 days and at present progress the animals will reach 1200 pounds. Hogs are being run with the steers.

The maize is being bought at $7.00 per ton and a gasoline power chopper is used. Much interest is manifested in the experiment as it will demonstrate the value and safety of chopped maize as a flesh producer.

We call our store Toyland, these days. Come down and you'll see the reason why. Never have we shown such a wonderful stock of dolls and toys. Never were our prices lower than this season. Bring the kiddies in, we are always glad to show them. —Wichita Hardware Co., 804-806 Ohio avenue.—Adv.

BARRACKS OF MOTOR FACTORY BURN TUESDAY

The explosion of an oil stove was said to have been the cause of the blaze which Tuesday evening about 9:15 o'clock destroyed the one-story frame barracks in the rear of the Wichita Motors Co., during which Ralph Arbuckle, employe of the company and occupant of the barracks sustained serious burns about his face, hands and arms. The damage, including furniture and furnishings was estimated by G. S. Breneman, plant superintendent, to be approximately $8,000.

One report concerning the origin of the fire gave as from a gas stove burning in one of the rooms which became overheated and ignited a partition. Physicians, however, who attended Arbuckle at the Wichita General hospital quoted the injured man as declaring the fire was caused by the explosion of an oil stove.

The flames spread rapidly and firemen who rushed to the scene were unable to do more than prevent the spread of the flames to adjoining buildings. The nearest water plug was nearly half a mile away.

About a half dozen of the bachelor employes of the plant live in the barracks, which was formerly used in connection with the pottery plant. Leo Andrade, one of the occupants asserted that it was necessary to assist Arbuckle from the house after he had been injured. Physicians declared Arbuckle's condition not critical, although the burns were of a serious nature.

NO INCRIMINATING PROOF IS BASIS OF LANDRU'S DEFENSE

By Associated Press.

VERSAILLES, Nov. 29.—The backbone of the defense in the case of Henri Landru will be the absence of proof that any of the 11 persons the defendant is alleged to have murdered are dead and also the failure of the police to "find anything resembling the remains of a human body." When they first searched the villa at Gambasis occupied by Landru on April 13 1919, and that the bones and teeth produced by the prosecution were not discovered until the second search of the premises on April 29.

That statement was made today by M. Moro-Giafferi, chief counsel for the defendant, as he rose to address the jurors after M. Godefroy had finished his argument for the prosecution.

Landru, stolid and unmoved, listened to the plea of his defender as he had previously done under the attack of the prosecution—the coolest person in the court room."

OLD AGE, HIS MARK!

Oliver Wendell Holmes, in the charming discourses of "The Professor at the Breakfast Table," refers to an unmistakable sign of old age. It is three parallel lines between the brows. We can detect the first traces of disease by signs just as plain.

When a woman suffers from backache, nervous depression, dragging-down pains, and those ailments peculiar to women, it is plain that she needs a woman's medicine. What other medicine could she more wisely resort to than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for half a century has proved the natural restorative for these troubles?—Adv.
