Nixon Reportedly 'In Deep Depression'

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — A member of Richard M. Nixon's family says the former President is "in a deep depression" which was not lifted by the full, presidential pardon he received.

In addition, Nixon was said to be in physical pain from a phlebitis condition that had publicly been described as resolved last July.

This family member said that Mrs. Nixon and other relatives are worried about the condition of the ex-president.

The family member sought out a telephone interview on Tuesday night saying that "this is something someone should talk about," but asked not to be identified by name.

This person has seen and spoken with Nixon both before and since the President resigned Aug. 9 and talked with Nixon by telephone as recently as Monday night.

"From the way reports are coming back (from San Clemente, Calif.), I just feel there is something more. It bothers me," this person said.

"It is enough to worry Mrs. Nixon. The worse it would be, the less he would talk about it.

"In other words, he's obviously in pain. He's obviously concerned about his health, but he's not talking about it."

This family member said, "Emotionally he's still way down and that's what bothers me even more.

"He is in a deep depression. I would hope the pardon would eventually lift that but I just haven't noticed that. There was no sudden elation."

Nixon's mind, however, remains acute, this person said. Since the resignation, the former president has discussed his financial affairs with this member of the family.

"I went over some things and he kept right up with them," this family member said. "He has a strong mind and it was as strong as ever. He grasped the specifics, recalled them and even caught me up on a few things."

Asked Nixon's feelings about the events that led to his resignation under fire, this family member recalled that Nixon had said the resignation was "abhorent to every instinct in my body."

"He is a fighter and he wanted to stay there, but his mind overcame his emotions. His mind and reason, his sense of values, his concern for the country, and his sense of realities won out in the end," the family member said.

"After he made his decision he had to live with that other feeling, though. That's a very tough thing to do. In talking with him, his consolation is in saying it was the right thing for the country.

"He has said that on numerous occasions and when going over it again he always comes back to that. It's going to be a long time before he finds peace for himself."

Aid Money Already Earmarked

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford announced today he has ordered the spending of $415 million to finance 85,000 public sector jobs in state and local governments.

Ford said he will ask Secretary of Labor Peter J. Brennan to immediately disburse $65 million to those communities in which unemployment is highest.

By the end of the month, Ford said, another $350 million will be made available under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

Ford made the announcement to labor leaders and Senate and House members attending the second round of pre-economic summitry aimed at solving America's twin problems of inflation and recession. The session was part of a continuing series of meetings leading to the White House economic summit conference Sept. 27-28.

The President said the effect of today's actions will be to double the number of federally funded public service jobs — to 170,000 by this coming winter.

He said that in addition $1.3 billion will be available to state and local governments for manpower programs.

Ford noted the unemployment rate in August was 5.4 per cent and said that "we certainly cannot be complacent about any American lacking work" and "the present situation calls for full use of available tools and dollars."

His remarks were released in advance of delivery.

Ford emphasized there will be no controls imposed on wages and prices.

"To leaders of our labor unions, and to the captains of industry, I make a sincere appeal for restraint," said Ford. "And

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — More than 100 persons have been killed in street battles in the past 24 hours in Lourenco Marques following the collapse of a white settlers' rebellion, the official radio station in the Portuguese territory reported today.

A Portuguese government communique issued in Lisbon reported "racial violence" and said the army was flying reinforcements to the capital from northern Mozambique.

White settlers in the capital of the southeast African territory seized the radio station, the airport and other key points Saturday.

The action came following the signing of an agreement to give control of the territorial government to Frelimo, the African guerrilla movement that in 10 years has fought the Portuguese army to a standstill in Mozambique.

Almost no violence was reported on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, and on Tuesday Portuguese authorities announced that the rebels had surrendered peacefully following an ultimatum from the government in Lisbon. But the communique issued today indicated street fighting broke out when crowds of black and white demonstrators met.

Newsmen and other sources in Lourenco Marques said the city of 140,000 blacks and 70,000 whites was tense but comparatively calm today after more than 24 hours of near-anarchy.

Beira, Mozambique's second largest city and chief port, was reported quiet after two days of noisy demonstrations.

The Lisbon newspaper O Seculo reported that the leaders of the three-day revolt had fled

Jet With 82 Persons Aboard Crashes

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — An Eastern Air Lines jet carrying 78 passengers and a crew of four crashed today as it approached fog-shrouded Douglas Municipal Airport here. There appeared to be only 13 survivors.

Area hospitals reported treating 13 persons, including Stewardess Collette Watson and the jet's first officer, James M. Daniels Jr, both based in Atlanta.

"We are pretty assured that is all the survivors," said William Rawlings, the airline's sales manager for the Charlotte district.

Rescue officials set up a morgue at the National Guard Armory, near the airport.

Rawlings said Eastern ground personnel were in contact with the jet moments before it crashed.

"Our Eastern people had no idea anything was wrong. Everything appeared normal. There was fog this morning but the exact cause we do not know," he said.

The plane, a DC9-30, was Eastern Flight 212, which had left Charleston, S. C., on schedule at 7 a.m. It crashed at 7:33 a.m. about two miles from the Charlotte airport.

Shattered pieces of the plane's fuselage and wings were scattered over a wide area. Rescue workers and spectators who reached the scene before police blocked all traffic in a two-mile radius said the jet appeared to have exploded after landing.

Mrs. Thomas Cox, whose home is less than a mile from the crash site, said she heard the jet as it passed her house. She said there were "three big booms when it went right over our house. I never heard it (a plane) sound like that before," she said.

"They brought one person down and put him on my porch. He was pretty badly burned. He lay there for a long time," Mrs. Cox said.

John McDowell, who lives near a ravine where the plane crashed, drove his farm tractor to the scene and used it to carry five persons to safety.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A California prosecutor, Joseph Busch, says the chance that former President Richard M. Nixon could be prosecuted in the Ellsburg break-in case is "almost nil."

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The newspaper Beirut reported today that the Soviet Union has supplied Egypt with 50 MIG23 fighter bombers, its most advanced operational warplane.

AUSTIN (AP) — The Socialist Workers Party said today it will sue Secretary of State Mark White to get 10 candidates on the November election ballot even though White maintains he has given the party "every benefit of the doubt."

Sending All Sophomores To Midland High; Juniors, Seniors To Lee High Proposed At Trustee Meeting

By LUANNA CROW

Sending all junior and senior students to Lee High School and all sophomores to Midland High in an effort to eliminate current and future reshuffling of students to attain numerical and racial balance between the two schools was proposed Tuesday in a meeting of the Midland public school trustees.

The meeting, held in the administration building of the Midland Independent School District, drew contingents of persons interested in the boundary discussion as well as rural residents seeking relief from what they regarded as "unfair" valuation of their property.

The five-hour confab also included passage of a resolution approving a conditional proposal that the MIST partially fund the Human Relations Council.

The study session on possible boundary changes included presentation of six other solutions which were:

— Add Fannin, Emerson, Bowie and Milam Elementary Schools between the alley west of Ward and its extension to FM 868 and Big Spring Street to MHS.

— Add Burnet and Henderson to MHS.

— Add Burnet and Long to MHS.

Zoning OK'd For Proposed Shopping Center, Housing Project

By GEORGE MASSEY

The approval of Rochester's Skyline Terrace Addition came on the heels of a notice given by Mayor Ernest Angelo that Midland developer L. H. Hahn had pulled out of the shopping center race.

Both developers' site proposals were annexed into the city recently, and now that the requested zoning has been withdrawn by Hahn for his tract, that proposal will assume temporary single family zoning in accordance with city ordinances.

No reason was cited for the Hahn pullout on his 78.6-acre tract proposal for a shopping center complex. Hahn gave notice of his decision in a letter to City Mgr. James Brown.

Rochester now has the council's approval to start construction "as soon as possible."

The developer told council members Tuesday that he would be in contact with the mayor, city manager and city planners during the ensuing weeks to draw up a final plat proposal for the project. The platting of the 155-acre tract has been required by the council in an effort to establish definite street and housing placement guidelines.

The council told Rochester the four-year clause is now in force and his shopping center has to be under construction within that length of time.

In other action on planning and zoning issues, the council routinely approved two requests and denied one proposal. An apartment complex that will include approximately 80 units received approval for multiple family zoning on all of block 1 in the 3800 block of Andrews Highway. The request was proposed by Midland Realtor John Williams who represented a Miami Beach, Fla., developer.

The council also approved a request for multiple family zoning to allow the renovation of several old duplex units in the 1700 block of North Marienfeld Street.

The request of Mike Kelly for local retail zoning in the 3300 block of Douglas Street was denied by the council. Kelly had proposed building a car wash on the site and was denied a favorable recommendation by the Planning and Zoning Commission before the request came before the council.

Langdon Blasts Possibility Of Regulating Texas' Gas

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission responded today to the possibility of the federal government controlling Texas' intrastate natural gas by saying Texas "is not a colony or a conquered province to be raided and raped."

"The reconstruction days are over," Jim Langdon said in a letter to Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., the chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee.

Magnuson had asked for Langdon's reaction to questions the senator posed in connection with proposed hearings on natural gas curtailment policies of the Federal Power Commission.

Langdon said, "The natural gas shortage will last as long as the Natural Gas Act of 1938 is construed to compell the

Cool Front Heading For Texas

A new cool front headed southward from Canada today with a promise of more showers and thunderstorms for the Texas Panhandle and neighboring parts of North Central Texas.

Downpours set off earlier by the dissipating remnants of Tropical Depression Carmen in the north central and northeast sections of the state generally dried up during the night. There were still a few showers, however, near the Upper Texas Coast, around the south tip of the state and at a spot or two in the Panhandle-Plains sector.

The National Weather Service at Midland Air Terminal recorded a maximum temperature of 91 degrees Tuesday and a low this morning of 67.

The forecast for the Tall City this afternoon calls for a high in the middle 90s and a low tonight in the middle 70s. The high Thursday should be in the low 90s, the weatherman said.

Before the heavier rains abated, as much as 3.35 inches drenched the Paris area and 3.10 filled streets at Mount Pleasant. Moisture amounts elsewhere included Kanawha Waco 1.29 and Tyler .87, according to The Associated Press.

Texas Oil & Gas Corp. intends to drill No. 2-A White Estate, a 10,000-foot searcher in Pecos, eight miles southeast of Bakersfield.

Drillsite, 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 97, block 194, GC&SF survey, is ¾ mile northwest of the firm's No. 1-A White Estate, recent Ellenburger gas discovery in the Zimmerman (Strawn) oil sector.

The strike was completed March 10, for a calculated, absolute open flow of 3.25 million cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations at 9,534-9,540 feet. Top of the Ellenburger was picked at 9,532 feet, under ground elevation of 2,753 feet.

Andrews Try

Desana Corp., Midland, plans No. 1 Fasken as a 4,900-foot searcher, ⅞ mile north of the depleted one-well Serio (Grayburg) field, but separated by the one-well Lowe, West (Strawn) pool.

Gaines Test Yields Oil In Second Pay

Tool was open 3¼ hours on the test taken from 11,320-11,350 feet. Recovery was 1,000 feet of oil-and gas-cut water blanket, 400 feet of 45-gravity oil, 1,200 feet of oil- and gas-cut drilling fluid, 300 feet of salt water and 100 feet of salty drilling mud. Sample chamber yield was 200 cubic centimeters of oil, 1,700 cubic centimeters of salt water and 3.615 cubic feet of gas.

Earlier, it recovered 311 feet of gas, 10 feet of 28-gravity oil and 85 feet of gas-and oil-cut drilling fluid on a drillstem test from 8,690-8,750 feet.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of labor 1, league 303, Dawson CSL survey, 15 miles east of Seminole.

Confirmer Finals In Reeves Sector

The Worsham, North (Devonian and Fusselman) gas field of Reeves County gained its second Fusselman well and a 1½-mile southeast extension to that pay, with completion of American Quasar Petroleum Co. No. 1-48 Worsham, 12 miles east of Pecos.

It gauged a calculated, absolute open flow of 24 million cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations at 17,292-17,393 feet, which had been acidized with 15,000 gallons.

It assured Devonian production earlier, with the flowing of gas at the daily rate of

FPC Reinstates Gas Sale Rules

The commission also proposed to allow small producers of natural gas to charge 50 per cent more than large producers.

MAJOR TEST OF HIS PERSUASIVE POWERS WITH CONGRESS—

Ford's Postponement Of Federal Pay Raise Draws Labor Protest

By LEE BYRD

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's deferral of a 5.5 per cent pay boost for federal employes has drawn a fusillade of protest from labor, and shapes up as a major test of his persuasive powers with Congress.

Ford has postponed the scheduled Oct. 1 raise until Jan. 1, thereby saving the federal payroll $700 million in the name of fighting inflation. Federal employes unions want Congress to restore the original date.

Beyond that, such groups as the National Federation of Federal Employes, the American Federation of Government Employes and the National Treasury Employes Union are lobbying for a larger boost. Most are united behind an AFL-CIO proposal of 8.4 per cent.

Their reasoning centers on an inflation rate hovering around 12 per cent, plus government surveys showing increases in private industry wages of 6.3 to 7.1 per cent—surveys which are six months out of date.

Under the Federal Pay Comparability Act, Ford's delay of the pay hike—affecting 1.4 million civilians and 2.2 million military employes—can be overturned by a simple majority in either the House or Senate.

As president, Richard M. Nixon succeeded in postponing similar boosts for two successive years, but his third try in 1973 was overturned by the Senate.

"As far as federal employes are concerned, President Ford is a second-hand Nixon," says Nathan Wolkomir, president of the 120,000-member National Federation of Federal Employes. "Ford had the opportunity to prove to the career service that he really cared ... but he blew it. He showed he really doesn't understand."

Vincent Connery, president of the 50,000-member Treasury Employes Union, vowed "a rather massive protest" to Congress. The law allows 30 days for Congress to act, and Sept. 30 is the deadline.

Already the wheels are turning. Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, has introduced a resolution to overturn the delay, joined by Sens. Frank Moss, D-Utah, J. Glenn Beall, Robert Dole, R-Kan., and Mike Gravel, D-Alaska.

Chairman Gale McGee of the Senate Civil Service Committee is sympathetic, and has set hearings on the proposal. The Wyoming Democrat believes both that the increase should be higher and that it should come Oct. 1.

Even Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., a frequent critic of inflationary federal spending, has endorsed an October implementation. So has Senate Majority Whip Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va.

While the federal bureaucrat can point to a number of statistics to show that his standard of living is slipping, there is still evidence aplenty that his lot isn't all that bad compared to other American workers. For example:

—A comprehensive survey by the Commerce Department showed that in 1973 the average salary for the federal civilian worker, including blue-collar jobs, was $13,000. In private industry it was $8,900.

—A Civil Service Commission survey of 12 leading private employers showed that none provided better fringe benefits than the federal service. Most notable in that area is the government's pension plan. It provides the retired worker up to 80 per cent of his salary, with guaranteed cost of living protection. While that's four to five times better than Social Security, the cost to the worker is about the same.

—A Library of Congress report showed that while average military pay was $6,587.14 a year, a factor which tends to lower the salary averages government-wide, the man in uniform collected thousands in supplementary advantages. These included $1,440 for housing, $508 for food, $473 in federal tax benefits, $631 for "special items" such as hazardous duty, clothing and proficiency, $770 for medical care, $98 in commissary and exchange discounts and $1,266 in retirement credits.

The salaries of federal workers began a dramatic surge during the Kennedy administration in an effort to attract better-qualified applicants. In the past decade, the civilian branch has received a dozen substantial raises, and boosts for the military, particularly since its conversion to an all-voluntary force, have more than quadrupled pay levels in some cases.

The result is that while the entire government payroll, including the now-independent Postal Service, has remained static at about 5 million employes, the cost has more than doubled to $60 billion.

White-collar jobs for college graduates start at the GS-5 level, where "step 1" will pay about $8,500 presuming the upcoming increase holds at 5.5 per cent. Almost automatically, such an employe will be promoted to GS-7 after one year, GS-9, in another year, GS-11 two years after that, and then GS-12 in another two years.

Hence in seven years, he would be at a level with a salary range now set for $18,500 to $24,000.

While unions and some congressmen complain that that's not enough, the Civil Service Commission is swamped with applicants. Last year, 450,000 persons applied for 83,000 clerical openings; 187,500 applied for 12,500 junior executive slots; and 24,000 applied for 7,800 openings in engineering and scientific jobs.

Loan Company Reports Rate Of Approval For Customers Down By 20 Per Cent

By JOSEPH R. TYBOR

CHICAGO (AP) — Household Finance Corp., which traditionally counsels "Never Borrow Money Needlessly," is beginning to tell some prospective customers they're better off not borrowing at all.

HFC says its rate of approving new customers is off by almost 20 per cent, and there are signs this is the trend throughout the $44 billion-a-year consumer loan industry.

This could hurt lower middle-income families, who often use consumer loans to get through economic tight spots.

While officials of HFC, one of the largest firms in the industry, say they have no policy to constrain credit, the approval rate of loans to new customers has gone down from 37 to 30 per cent.

One of the reasons, says HFC vice chairman P.C. Nagel, is that "our standards, because of money costs, have tightened up a bit."

The problem lies in the interest rates finance companies have to pay for money they themselves loan out. The short-term rates to the companies have risen to the point where the squeeze is being felt in sharply lower first-half profits.

There are more than 1,000 big and small finance companies operating out of more than 20,000 offices around the nation. Consumers who need extra cash to meet emergency expenses or to consolidate debts are charged interest rates of up to 36 per cent.

That rate depends on the size of the loan and regulations which vary from state to state.

Most borrowers who go to finance companies have annual incomes under $9,000, industry statistics show.

Much of their business is with high-risk customers. Delinquent loans are routinely considered part of their overhead.

If a person can't get a loan through a finance company, he probably can't get a commercial loan through any legitimate means, said Robert Gibson, head of the nonprofit National Foundation for Consumer Credit in Washington.

HFC made more than $64 million last year on its finance operations. First-half profits this year were down by 12 per cent.

"Obviously, the industry is hurting very badly," said Carl Hawver, executive vice president of the National Consumer Finance Association, the industry's trade organization.

He said if interest rates stay high for an extended time, loans will be cut back until states allow them to jack up the interest rates on consumer loans.

Gibson said most loan companies have already begun to cut back and he is worried about the possible social implications.

Nagel says persons with low seniority in the automotive and related industries are more likely to be rejected this year because of possible layoffs.

Bicycle-Taxi Business Starts In Copenhagen

COPENHAGEN (AP) — For the first time since World War II, Copenhagen has a licensed bicycle-taxi offering "sightseeing in slow-motion" and plastic raincoats in case of rain.

Jens Nielsen, a 22-year-old bearded student of medicine, and Preben Palsgaard Jensen, a 21-year-old mailman, window decorator and semiprofessional ventriloquist, are partners in the 800-kroner ($135) venture that is part fun, part business and part provocation.

"Frankly, we expect to get more fun than money out of this," Nielsen said while soliciting fares for the two-passenger "taxi-bike" among reluctant tourists in Copenhagen's Town Hall Square.

The first weekend in business brought just two paying passengers — an elderly, but sporting, American couple who paid $3 to ride through the city to their plush hotel in relative splendor on the cushioned plywood seat mounted on the old, red-painted, three-wheel carrier-cycle-turned-taxi-bike.

Nielsen and Jensen, who will go from weekend to regular daily service if the business picks up, see the taxi-bike as the answer to many current problems.

"It consumes no fuel, it's noiseless, it doesn't pollute and the pace is less than nerve-wracking," Nielsen said.

The two taxi-bike owners, who take turns at the pedals, admitted police are still frowning at their vehicle. But after several initial brushes with unsympathetic patrolmen they now have the Ministry of Justice's written word that "nothing in the traffic laws forbids the use of this vehicle for passenger transport."

The basic fare is 80 kroner ($14) per hour, somewhat less for "pretty females," more for "overweight males."

There is a fixed price of 30 kroner ($5) for the standard trip from Town Hall Square to the Little Mermaid statue on the Langelinje pier. This is more than the fare by ordinary taxi.

Few Upsets In 13 Primaries

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

Rep. Hugh L. Carey scored a smashing victory in New York's Democratic primary for governor, while nine governors and five senators won easy renomination in the last big round of primaries to pick candidates for the Nov. 5 elections.

Although Tuesday was generally a good day for incumbents, three congressmen were defeated: Democrats Bertram L. Podell of New York, who goes on trial for perjury today, and Robert O. Tiernan of Rhode Island, and veteran Republican Glenn R. Davis of Wisconsin.

In the major races in 13 states and the District of Columbia, however, there were few upsets.

In Maryland, former state Sen. Louise Gore scored an unexpected victory in the Republican primary for governor over Rep. Lawrence W. Hogan, the first GOP member of the House Judiciary Committee to support impeachment of former President Richard M. Nixon.

Miss Gore will be a distinct underdog in November against Democratic Gov. Marvin Mandel, who easily won renomination. Other Democratic governors who won renomination were Reubin Askew of Florida, Wendell R. Anderson of Minnesota, Patrick J. Lucey of Wisconsin and Thomas P. Salmon of Vermont.

Also victorious were four Republican state executives, Govs. Francis W. Sargent of Massachusetts, Meldrim Thomson Jr. of New Hampshire, John Vanderhoof of Colorado and Malcolm Wilson of New York.

Wilson was unopposed for nomination to a full term in the post he assumed when Nelson A. Rockefeller resigned last December.

And Sens. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo. and Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., were all unopposed for nominations to new six-year terms.

In the District of Columbia, which is electing its mayor for the first time this year, appointed Mayor Walter Washington led the Democratic primary over attorney Clifford L. Alexander Jr. The Democratic primary winner will be heavily favored in November.

In New York, where Rockefeller led the Republicans to four straight gubernatorial victories, Carey had strong labor backing as he easily defeated former offtrack betting boss Howard J. Samuels.

Samuels lost his fourth bid for governor despite backing of both the state Democratic organization and many party reform leaders in a primary that saw Democrats reject all major candidates chosen at a party convention last June.

They chose a woman, state Sen. Mary Anne Krupsak of upstate Canajoharie, as Carey's running mate for lieutenant governor and gave the party's Senate nomination against Javits to former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, a transplanted Texan running on a platform of political reform.

Here are other primary results, by states:

—FLORIDA: Askew swamped three opponents, winning some 75 per cent of the vote. His November opponent is Republican Jerry Thomas, a conservative former Democrat. In the Senate race, millionaire drugstore owner Jack Eckerd defeated Public Service Commissioner Paula Hawkins for the Republican nomination to succeed Sen. Edward J. Gurney, who chose to retire after his federal indictment on charges of bribery, conspiracy and perjury. Rep. Bill Gunter led the 11-candidate Democratic field. He faces an Oct. 1 runoff against Secretary of State Richard Stone.

—MASSACHUSETTS: Sargent easily defeated his conservative rival, Carroll P. Sheehan. Former state Rep. Michael S. Dukakis won the Democratic primary over state Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn. In an upset, veteran Secretary of State John F. X. Davoren was ousted by a Democratic reformer, state Rep. Paul H. Guzzi.

—MARYLAND: Mathias routed perennial candidate Ross Z. Pierpont and will run in November against Baltimore Councilwoman Barbara Mikulski, the winner of an 11-candidate Democratic race.

—COLORADO: Vanderhoof, who became governor when John A. Love resigned last year to become federal energy chief, defeated Denver millionaire Bill Daniels. State Rep. Richard Lamm, who led opposition to holding the 1976 Winter Olympics in Denver, won the Democratic nomination. Dominick will be opposed in November by Gary Hart, George McGovern's 1972 campaign manager and victor over two Democratic rivals.

—NEW HAMPSHIRE: Thomson, a conservative, won renomination over a Republican moderate, State Senate President David L. Nixon. The Democratic primary was won by former State Sen. Richard Leonard. In the race to succeed retiring Republican Sen. Norris Cotton, Rep. Louis C. Wyman easily won the GOP primary and will face Democrat John A. Durkin, former state insurance commissioner.

—VERMONT: Salmon, an easy winner, will face House Speaker Walter L. Kennedy, who defeated two GOP rivals. In the race to succeed retiring Sen. George D. Aiken, the Senate's senior Republican, Rep. Richard W. Mallary defeated former Federal Power Commissioner Charles Ross in the GOP primary. Patrick J. Leahy, state's attorney of Chittenden County, won the Democratic nomination.

—ARIZONA: Democrat Raul Castro, who narrowly lost in 1970, and Republican Russell Williams were nominated for the governorship being surrendered by Republican Gov. John R. Williams. Goldwater's November rival will be Scottsdale newspaper publisher Jonathan Marshall.

TWICE THOSE MADE AVAILABLE TO LYNDON JOHNSON—

Ford Administration Proposes To Combine Two Laws To Increase Funds For Nixon's Expenses

By MICHAEL PUTZEL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration proposes to combine the benefits of two separate laws in order to provide Richard M. Nixon more than twice the funds former President Lyndon B. Johnson received for his period of transition to private life, government records show.

General Services Administrator Arthur F. Sampson is to defend the $850,000 Nixon budget proposal before a Senate appropriations panel today.

GSA figures obtained from congressional sources show that the Nixon budget for his first 10 months out of office compares with a total of $1.1 million spent for Johnson, his immediate predecessor, during the four years Johnson lived after retiring as president.

Of that total, Johnson received about $370,000 for transition expenses and $37,000 in pension funds during his first 17 months out of office. The presidential pension has since been increased to $60,000 annually.

The Nixon proposal, worked out by Nixon aides and Sampson in unannounced meeting in San Clemente, Calif., immediately after the resignation, would take full advantage of both the Former Presidents Act of 1958 and the Presidential Transition Act of 1963.

The Transition Act provides a former president with up to $450,000 for office, staff and other benefits during his first six months out of office. The Former Presidents Act provides for a pension, to begin immediately after a president leaves office, plus up to $96,000 for staff salaries and "suitable office space, appropriately equipped" to begin at the end of the transition period.

A Justice Department memorandum prepared at Sampson's request indicates that Nixon is not eligible for full benefits under both laws at the same time.

The Nixon proposal, however, would extend the transition period from six months to more than 10 months, ending on June 30, 1975, the end of the current fiscal year. At the same time, Nixon would be receiving $400,000 in pension, staff salaries and other benefits under the Former Presidents Act.

A GSA spokesman cited the Johnson transition as a precedent, noting that he was the only president to receive the benefits of both acts and pointing out that he extended his transition period from six months to 17 months.

But GSA documents show that Johnson received only his pension and Transition Act funds during that 17-month period and didn't begin getting staff and office money under the Former Presidents Act until the transition ended.

Calculations based on the GSA figures show that Johnson received an average of about $31,000 a month during the transition period and about $17,000 a month after that. This compares with $85,000 a month Nixon would receive during his first 10 months and $33,000 a month after that if his level of spending under the Former Presidents Act remained stable.

Tropical Storm Slams Into Mexico; Three Die

CHILPANCINGO, Mexico (AP) — Tropical Storm Norma, packing winds above 50 miles per hour, slammed into the state of Guerrero early Tuesday and was blamed for three deaths in Acapulco, police reported.

A mother and her two small children died as their home was crushed in a mud slide after hours of torrential rains pounded the jet set resort. A teen-age girl in the house was injured, the police said.

The storm pushed ashore at 9:30 a.m., spreading rains and high winds throughout three states.

The weather bureau said winds for a short time reached hurricane force, uprooting trees and ripping away roofs of low-income homes.

Wood Chair Arms Need Sprucing Up

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Association

DEAR POLLY — How do you clean the wooden arms on a vinyl arm chair? I tried washing these with a cold water soap and also a furniture cleaner but the marks did not come off. I hope someone can tell me a better way. — ANN.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the designers of many items we use daily. No matter what they produce from a kitchen range to lunch buckets they persist in putting in as many grooves and crevices as possible. These collect grease and dirt and don't offer smooth, cleanable surfaces. — MRS. W.J.K.

DEAR POLLY — Like Elaine I, too, had a problem with my carpet pile being flat. My children are both under three years and we have mini-shag. I do not have time to keep picking up toys, clothes or just junk. I use the rug rake our rug man gave us to rake up everything left on the rug out into the hall where the articles are separated into different piles. This makes only one trip to each room necessary to put them away. I also use a rug spot cleaner with a brush on the can and all the spots and spills come off easily. I do enjoy your column the most. — YVONNE.

DEAR POLLY — Being a do-it-yourselfer I always wash my own car and finish the job by washing the windows with vinegar and water. Recently I tried this on the chrome trim. After rubbing them dry with a soft cloth the bumpers and trim sparkled like mirrors. — REV. E.P.R.

DEAR POLLY — My husband was watching my friend make broom-stick lace. I am learning to do this and asked him to make me a dowel to do the work on. He suggested that I get a new toilet plunger (large or small) and use that instead of the broomstick because it would hold on to the table or wall and I would have an easier time making this lace. If I get a Polly Dollar it goes to my clever husband — MRS. R.B.

DEAR POLLY — When a garment, especially polyester ones, gets a snag use a needle threader pushed up from the underneath side right where the snag is. Thread the needle threader whith the snag thread and pull through to the back. — JANET.

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

Second Husband Wills Everything To Ingrates

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for nearly two years. This is the second marriage for both of us. I was a widow with very little money, and he was a widower with quite a lot. We both have married children.

He just told me that he is leaving everything he has to his children. I get nothing. His children practically ignore him. They are just waiting for him to die. On those few occasions when he sees them, they show him no respect or consideration at all. My children treat him much nicer than his own do.

I am not a rich woman, but I made out my will to leave three-fourths of everything I have to my children and one-fourth to him. Should I change my will and leave my children everything?

He is 70, overweight and has high blood pressure. If he dies first and leaves me nothing, I will have to eat up my capital, and I am afraid I won't have enough to bury him. What should I do?

REMAINING ANONYMOUS

DEAR REMAINING: Leave everything to your children. If he dies first, his children will be only too happy to bury him.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I and our infant daughter recently moved into a new home. A friendly neighbor told me that if I needed a sitter, her 16-year-old daughter, Mary, was available. Last evening I hired Mary from 8 p.m. until 10:30 p.m.

When I left, the baby was asleep, so that all Mary had to do was sit. I instructed her NOT to accept any collect calls because my husband was out of town and the call would be wasted. I told her to help herself to a soft drink and some cookies if she wanted a snack. She said, "No thanks, I'm on a diet." (I believed her because she is terribly overweight.)

When I returned, Mary said, "Oh, your husband called. I forgot and accepted the call."

After she left, I noticed that my drawers had been rummaged through and that a whole month's supply of birth control pills was missing! Later, I found two empty spaghetti cans and the carton from a half gallon of ice cream in the trash.

My question: Should I tell Mary's mother? That little sneak needs to be punished. My husband says to skip it.

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: Tell her mother. But not so she'll punish her daughter. (The last thing Mary needs is more punishment; she's already brutally punishing herself!) The girl obviously has some serious emotional problems which desperately require professional treatment. It would be kind of you to urge that mother to get her daughter into therapy. My question: If she were YOUR daughter, wouldn't you want to know?

DEAR ABBY: Is there anything really improper about a single female walking into a top-notch restaurant to lunch or dine alone, aside from the fact that it takes a certain amount of nerve to do so?

I am a lover of good food, and I don't always have an escort to take me where I'd like to dine. However, I wouldn't want to look like I'm trying to pick up someone because I came in alone.

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Quit wondering and treat yourself to a lunch or dinner wherever you can afford to go. As long as you mind your own business, you need not worry about giving anyone the wrong impression.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this newspaper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Mrs. Rawlings presented a slide program on Rio de Janeiro, which covered points of interest visited during the time she and Mr. Rawlings resided there.

Refreshments were served to 14 members and two guests, Mrs. Ronald Overend and Mrs. B. L. Young.

Alpha Iota Delta Reports Meeting

Plans were discussed for a wine tasting party Sept. 28 in the home of Mrs. Reagan and on selling Beta Sigma Phi cookies and having a garage sale in October. Newspapers will be collected Saturday morning.

Midland Branch Of AAUW Awards UTPB Scholarship

The Midland Branch of the American Association of University Women has awarded its 1974 The University of Texas — Permian Basin scholarship to Mrs. Jack R. Felts Jr. This scholarship is designed to help a Midland woman further her education at UTPB. Mrs. Felts is the Midland Branch's first recipient of the $350 scholarship.

Mrs. Felts was selected for this scholarship in recognition of her outstanding academic record and her desire to receive a bachelor of business administration degree in accounting at UTPB. Graduating in 1959 from Midland High School, Mrs. Felts has attended Odessa College, Midwestern University, Sul Ross State University and Midland College, where she was twice named to the honor roll. Since beginning her studies at UTPB in 1973, she has been on both the President's list and the Dean's List.

Mrs. Felts will be a candidate for a B.B.A. in December 1974 and will take the Certified Public Accountant exam in Lubbock. Hats Are Coming Back As Fashionable Accessory

NEW YORK (AP) — The hat is definitely coming back. Accessories are fashionable. And the younger woman feels the freest to express herself. These are the opinions of hat designer Frank Olive.

The designer, Olive says, is now left to interpret society rather than dictate, and as a result there's a hat for everyone. What with the jet age and television, Olive points out, it doesn't take the six years it once did to make the transition from creativity to mass production. Now fashions cover America in a matter of minutes so the girl in Gary, Ind., can be as together as the girl in New York City.

"The hat is a finishing touch," says Olive, who travels 22 weeks a year checking out the life-styles of women in order to incorporate these differences in his hats. "And actually," he adds, "the hat is more of an identification — a signature."

Commenting that while in the '30s and '40s hats were used to create personalities such as movie idols, with hats being manufactured to create a certain mood or mystique, he says this is no longer true.

"We had a lot of liberation in the '60s," he says. "We had defiance, we had terror, our cities were unsafe, there were problems at universities, and we had women's lib. Then, right after the war propriety vanished, and the old way of life changed so drastically there wasn't room for an old hat. There just wasn't room for this formal type of living."

Olive explains the mood today as being experimental, with the younger woman the one who's trying on hats for size. Seeing her as sitting on the edge of the Aquarian age, going from a flower child to gypsy woman, he says his buyer is in her 20s and 30s.

"Wearing her gypsy scarf and granny dresses she was all things. She has personality and she's playful. She skis and goes to discotheques. So that young girl is living with expression. She's the one who buys the hats, for the rain, for skiing or just walking in the winter snow."

What type of hats are these young ladies wearing? Anything from the mood-making mystiques to "being seen" hats or "hide under" hats. But what Olive has noticed in hat buying trends is that the "pretty" hat is becoming "in."

"I think what happens is when the cycle of the economy changes, during affluent times you sell the most sophisticated styles in the world, but when there's tight money, people buy differently. They buy soft things and pretty things. I think it has something to do with the psychological aspect of spending. The '60s is gone, along with the hard leather and militant look.

"Clothes are becoming soft and sensual. The hat brim is here because the brim is very soft looking. But hats are not the show pieces they were in the heyday of millinery, when Joan Crawford and that type of woman wore them. That type of fashion is not here, not the ostentatious fashions, but there is a softer mood. In clothes you'll find crepe dresses that mold the body. The heels and toes of shoes are more delicate, not quite as clumsy. So it's all changed."

Olive sees the accessory aspect in today's women's wear as a reaction to the classic look in clothes. Clothes, he says, are becoming basic, not fancy or stuffy. They can be with a collar or without, have long sleeves or short, perhaps patched pockets or maybe a flare pleat. Clothes are taking on a leisure look.

"So if a woman was well groomed by the standards of grooming during the early '70s and latter '60s she looked stuffy.

"She would then take off the pin she had in her lapel, or she would take off her earrings, and she left off the hat as well. She did something because she knew she looked wrong.

"But today she's putting the accessories back on but differently. I think today she's doing it more tongue-in-cheek by not being as serious about it as were her predecessors. She has a lot of imagination. She knows how to tie her scarf and what hand bag to carry. Now when she puts on that hat she knows exactly which one to choose."

One thing Olive doesn't take credit for is selling a woman a hat. He says he "can't," not today. "I can offer it, but she chooses. I don't think anyone buys anything anymore because we have to. And we buy things for different reasons."

Drastic Reshuffling Proposed For Midland, Lee Schools

approximately two blocks to the northeast and west.

Any boundary change would be the result of high school enrollment declining more rapidly at Midland High than at Lee.

Among the other statistics presented was a 16-page breakdown of students involved in extra-curricular activities involving male, female, city resident, rural and racial considerations.

Also presented was a comparative listing of valedictorian scores for 1974 between the two high schools.

Despite the continuing study of possible boundary changes, trustee Jim Winget stated, "I want to go on record as saying I have not yet seen sufficient justification for making the change."

He added that "our community is in a tremendous state of flux right now, particularly in things that concern the racial balance."

Bill Gesell, 2201 Gulf St., said he has observed a "feeling" circulating among Midlanders that "scholastically MHS is going down."

He went on to say he thinks "we have a fine school system and I'd put it up against any in the U.S. I just don't want to see this thing get all out of proportion."

Dick Gaddy, 3200 Lockheed St., also attending the study session on possible boundary modifications, urged trustees to take a broad view of the city as a whole in reaching a decision after having seen "problems in other cities which have arisen from school boards' redistricting."

The proposal to send 11th and 12th graders to LHS and 10th graders to MHS came from board president Wallace Craig.

"If there s a problem, it's that the problem goes on and on," he said.

"I honestly believe this city is such that geographically we'll have to do something like this. To me, it's another option and we should take a look at it."

Craig requested Supt. Dr. James H. Mailey to make available for the next board meeting, Sept. 24, studies on "what kind of problems logistically we'd have."

Following the session on proposed boundary changes, trustees met with a group of 21 rural property owners in an amicable exchange which yielded several suggestions in alleviating their problem.

The property owners, with Don Edwards and Mrs. Pat Whisnant as spokesmen, are displeased with the recent upward valuation of their property and resulting higher school taxes.

The group spokesmen said the land owners knew the MISD trustees have no legal authority to alter judgments of the Board of Equalization, to which many persons in the group had already appealed.

After hearing complaints by the 21 presons represented, trustees decided to invite city tax assessor-collector Virgil Jones to the next board meeting in order to gather additional information and to ask him if the BOE might reconsider their decisions on the properties in question prior to approval of the tax roll, expected to take place in October.

Among the suggestions tossed out by the rural residents Tuesday were creating a separate Board of Equalization for the school district, adding a rural resident to the existing board or the MISD combining forces with the county.

Regarding the establishment of a separate BOE, Craig asserted that the school board's inability to change taxes is "an insurance policy for every single one of us," by preventing the board from becoming a political force.

While noting that the idea of adding a rural member to the BOE "certainly has some merit," Craig added that provisions in the city charter call for all members to reside within the city.

The rural contingent present at the meeting also complained that many persons who made the effort to go before the BOE were never heard because of time limitations.

Another complaint was that some persons were heard by the BOE and promised that the board would "come out and take a look" at the property, but that no BOE member ever appeared, according to several persons.

Craig, saying that although the school board is unable to change BOE rulings, it "probably can do something about the scheduling before the BOE."

Dr. Mailey later said this might be accomplished by establishing a schedule for people to appear without such inconvenience.

In closing the discussion, Craig said trustees "will look at it carefully, thoughtfully and as honestly as we can to keep this sort of thing from happening again."

Dick Schmidt, executive director of the Human Relations Council, was also present for the Tuesday meeting, presenting trustees with a 24-page report on the HRC.

Included in the report were the number of persons benefiting from the program, types of functions, past activities, present financial and programmatic situation, and program and services with operational monies.

The trustees' approval of the funding would be subject to the proportional financial support of the City of Midland and the Midland Junior College District, and be subject to obtaining a contractual document.

MISD's portion of the support would be $19,100. MISD Business Manager Donald R. Furgeson said, if approved, the funding would be entered as a budget amendment to the new school budget, with finances coming from the surplus fund.

In other business, trustees approved the appointment of six new teachers, accepted with thanks a gift from Anson Jones PTA, awarded bids on used typewriters being sold by the district and heard a report on tax collections.

Board members, in addition, approved without qualification the use by the City of Midland Swim Team of MISD facilities, the financial statement as of Aug. 31 and settlement on two delinquent tax suits.

Ford Orders 85,000 New Jobs Be Created

"Cold and impersonal numbers and percentages cannot describe the impact on people's lives," Ford continued. "While everyone is hit by inflation, some are struck harder than others. I am thinking of families on low and moderate incomes, of older Americans who are struggling on modest pensions, and of young people whose experience with the employment scene may not generate real confidence in our economic system."

The President said that care must be exercised to "prevent our recently overheated economy from cooling off too fast. We must avoid a damaging recession."

Ford said he is watching the unemployment rate very closely.

Despite the broad range of views presented by economists last week, organized labor is expected to present a fairly united front with the emphasis on a lowering of interest rates and an easing of tight money policies. Labor also is concerned about sacrificing jobs to cure inflation.

AFL-CIO President George Meany invited today's participants to a breakfast caucus to discuss their proposals beforehand. In addition to AFL-CIO union leaders, he sent invitations to the heads of two major independent unions — United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock and United Mine Workers chief Arnold Miller.

Organized labor has pledged to cooperate with the new President but there are signs the honeymoon with Ford may be coming to an end.

"The new management looked fairly good until a couple days ago," Meany told a union meeting in Kansas City on Tuesday as he criticized Ford for granting Richard M. Nixon Nixon a ful pardon before any changes were brought against the former President.

Snelson Endorses Common Market For Education

AUSTIN — A common market of higher education programs in the southern states Tuesday was endorsed by Midland's Sen. W. E. "Pete" Snelson, who may sponsor a bill during the 1975 session of the Texas Legislature to enact such a program.

Snelson, the Texas representative of the Southern Regional Education Board (SREB) was attending the Southern Governor's Conference near Austin, to hear presentations on the idea.

The SREB, through its chairman, Gov. James E. Holshouser Jr. of North Carolina, has advocated a program of southern states allowing students from other states to enter their colleges without out-of-state tuition.

Gov. Holshouser has told the Southern Governors' Conference that 11 of the 17-member southern states have already instituted such a program.

Pardons Not Under Active Consideration

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is not at present actively considering pardons for all Watergate figures, but will weigh any request for pardons which reaches his desk, House minority leader John Rhodes said today.

Rhodes and Senate minority leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., clarified Ford's Tuesday stand on Watergate pardons after meeting for one hour and 45 minutes with the President at the White House today.

Scott read a presidential statement which he said Ford asked him to give to reporters.

In it, the President said: "The announcement yesterday by Mr. Hushen concerning a study of the entire matter of presidential clemency and pardons was prompted by inquiries to the White House press office concerning Mrs. John Dean's reported statement in reference to pardoning of her husband and similar public statements on behalf of others.

"Such a study is, of course, made for any request concerning pardon of an individual. However, no inference should be drawn as to the outcome of such study in any case. Nor is my pardon of the former president, under the unique circumstances stated by me in granting it, related to any case which is or may be under study."

Hushen is John W. Hushen, the President's acting press secretary.

Hushen said Tuesday at a White House news briefing the President was making a study of possible pardons for all Watergate figures, those already convicted and facing trial.

The announcement draw a tidal wave of criticism. Later, in discussing the possible pardons, White House Counsel Philip W. Buchen declined to set a timetable for a final decision by the President.

But Buchen indicated Ford's study might not be completed by the scheduled Sept. 30 start of the trial of six former aides and associates of former President Richard M. Nixon on charges stemming from the Watergate cover-up.

Scott was asked by reporters if there was indeed a presidential study of Watergate defendant pardons.

"I think there are none," Scott replied.

Scott said if and when the President receives any request for action by Watergate figures he would react by considering them and considering the request "most carefully."

Rhodes said that the President wanted to make clear that any request for a pardon "would not be thrown in the wastebasket."

Both Scott and Rhodes said they supported the President's decision to pardon Nixon.

Rhodes said that continuing the "Watergate matter is not in the best interest of the country." He said he has doubts that President Nixon could get a fair trial any place in the United States because of the publicity.

Scott said his mail is running very heavily critical of Ford's decision, but he said he supported the pardon because to continue the Watergate controversy would divide the country. He said he believed a Nixon trial would have taken from one to 1½ years and appeals three to five years.

In talking to reporters Tuesday, Buchen had rejected a reporter's suggestion that disclosure of the pardon study intruded on the judicial process and threatened the defendants' right to a fair trial in the Watergate cover-up trial.

"I don't think so," he said, "because it is well known that a president can pardon anyone at any time."

Lawyers for the six defendants conferred for nearly two hours Tuesday to discuss a joint strategy in view of Ford's controversial unconditional pardon of Nixon on Sunday.

The defense lawyers were elated at the disclosure by acting White House press secretary John Hushen that Ford has "the entire matter . . . now under study."

"Pardoning all those connected with Watergate would complete the cover-up of the cover-up," objected Senate Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia.

Rhodes, who conferred with Ford on Tuesday, said he agrees with the pardon for Nixon but "it does not necessarily follow that a similar pardon be issued to those individuals under the former president who participated in criminal activity."

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., who headed a Senate committee investigation of the Watergate scandal, said: "I can't imagine that he could possibly make such a mockery of the principle of equal justice under law by pardoning these men who undertook to steal from the American people their right to a free election. . . ."

House Speaker Carl Albert of Oklahoma said such pardons would "be viewed as an abuse of presidential power."

"Where would he stop?" asked Albert. "Would it mean that all politicians in trouble would be pardoned?"

Holdup Man Gives Part Of Loot Back

Midland County sheriff's officers are still looking for a bandit that took a family's money and give part of it back.

Deputies said Leon Calvin Davison of Los Angeles, Calif., was robbed of between $140 and $200 early Tuesday at a rest stop east of Midland. The robbery occurred while other members of the Davison family were asleep in the family camper. Davison said the man accosted him in the cab of the camper truck.

Officers said the bandit took the man's money and then returned $20 to him.

The victim told officers the man poked a .22-caliber rifle through the window of the cab and said, "This is a holdup. Give me your money."

After the robbery the culprit got into a waiting green-colored 1965-model car and headed east.

No one was hurt in the incident.

The holdup man was described as 18-20 years old, 5 feet, 8 inches tall, 150 pounds and having short reddish hair. Davison was unable to give a description of the man's clothing.

Raids Net 100 In 10 U.S. Cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal narcotics agents arrested nearly 100 persons early today in nationally coordinated raids against an illegal network of amphetamine sales in 10 cities.

In a simultaneous attack, Mexican authorities closed four laboratories where the pills were produced and illegally shipped to the United States.

A U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration spokesman said the operation — described as the largest of its kind—"is a very great success."

In all, 125 indictments were returned in the 10 cities and most of the suspects were described as middle class men in their mid-20s.

By 10:30 a.m. EDT today, 98 persons had been arrested in the United States and 25 in Mexico, officials said.

Drug enforcement investigators expected to make more arrests during the day and the agency's spokesman said the operation would continue at a slower pace over the next two or three days.

He said most arrests were made without incident, but in Arizona two suspects escaped in a high-speed chase with highway patrolmen.

In Seattle, officials said they are seeking a father and son team, Allan N. and James A. Ingman, whom they described as running one of the biggest amphetamine-pushing operations in the country.

The DEA spokesman said the raids were the result of an eight-month investigation.

Bonds were set by Justice of the Peace Jimmy Harris.

Officers said three pounds, 10 ounces of a substance believed to be marijuana was recovered in the raid which was held after a tip from an informant.

Asked if the gas shortage could be "equalized nationally" by allocating gas among pipeline companies, Langdon said, "The short answer is no."

"What incentive is there for an interstate natural gas transmission company to increase its gas acquisition program if any supplies that it obtains are subject to allocation away to a pipeline with no acquisition program or a poorly managed acquisition program?" said Langdon.

As to whether FPC curtailment authority should be extended to intrastate commerce, Langdon said, "The obvious purpose of such a move would be to seize gas flowing to the citizens of Texas and other gas-producing states, who are already suffering severe curtailment, and to divert it to users in other states."

"The simple truth is that the predemption and divison of intrastate gas would not add one additional Mcf (thousand cubic feet) to the nation's supply. It would only substitute politics as the criteria for expropriation of lifelihoods and human needs."

In conclusion Langdon said, "What we need is increased supply, and it should be clear that the deregulation of natural gas offers the best hope of increasing supplies."

Maybe Pennies Not Being Hoarded But Are Just Put Out Of The Way

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

The next time some character spies you with your eyes focussed a thousand miles away—the well-known Marine Corps bulkhead stare — and offers, "A penny for your thoughts," give him a big, fat lip, otherwise known as a knuckle sandwich.

That's about like saying your brain is somewhere on the same wave length as the village idiot's.

A penny is nothing but a nuisance.

If pennies are such a sorry coin, why all the panic about a shortage of them for several weeks in mid-summer?

People paid premiums for them. The federal government would give you an Exceptional Public Service Certificate if you surrendered them. Grocery stores issued penny paper script.

The sales tax, if nothing else, mandates vast use of pennies.

Mint Director Mary T. Brooks contends that people are hoarding pennies in the belief the price of copper will make them more valuable than their face value.

Maybe. But copper must go to $1.56 a pound to break even and it is not near that yet.

Or suppose you're dropping pennies in a jar as a way to save money for that fur coat or a boat.

To acquire $2,000 in pennies, the saver would need 200,000. They would weigh 1,500 pounds and the $2,000 would barely cover the cost of repairs when that three quarters of a ton broke through the floor.

We don't believe that much hoarding and saving is going on. Mostly it is people who drop pennies into dresser drawers just to get them out of the way.

Mrs. Brooks estimates that 30 billion are being held out of circulation.

The mint has made 63 billion pennies in the last 5½ years and is turning out 35 million to 36 million each working day trying to keep up with the demand.

It might be cheaper to make pennies out of a lower-cost metal. The United States spends $10 million to mint one billion copper pennies.

Mrs. Brooks briefly contemplated making pennies of aluminum, thereby causing the slot-machine industry to have a collective heart attack.

But the main reason that idea was dumped in the old garbage can was the objection of the baby doctors.

They noted that a good many children do their own hoarding by swallowing coins. And aluminum pennies would not show up on X-ray films.

If you could collect a few thousand of the 31 U.S. pennies, you would really make money by melting them down although this would give the coin collectors the shakes.

These pennies were almost as large as dollars and were not minted smaller until 1856. There also was a two-cent piece of bronze and a three-cent piece of nickel. A half cent coin was issued.

Coins, like bills, are simply tokens. The only time in the United States that the metal in money was worth more than the face value was in the North in the Civil War. Goodness knows how much good metal would have been in Confederate paper money which became worthless long before Appomattox.

Coins other than pennies largely are made now of a copper alloy although some still in circulation are of silver or a sandwich of copper covered with silver.

The quarters being minted now, for instance, have a metallic value of 1.7 cents—only twice as valuable as a penny. But the silver quarters minted until 19 are worth $1.04.

A silver dime once had 41.6 cents of metal but after 1965 they became copper, worth seven tenths of a cent.

The silver half dollar, minted until 1966, has $2.08 in metal. The silver-clad half is worth 97 cents. A copper half dollar, made since 1971, is hardly worth carrying around. Its metal is valued at 3.4 cents.

The losers at Las Vegas, where silver dollars are a major medium of exchange at the gambling tables, can console themselves by saying that the cartwheels they shove across the table to the pros are worth only 6.8 cents each if melted down.

Displayed was a shocker—an ordinary-looking $1 bill priced at $45.

Asked the salesman if this was some new sort of inflation and he said no, it was a special dollar bill. It was the first issued in the current size, was a federal reserve note of 1928—a type discontinued after one year—and it was uncirculated, meaning it was in perfect condition.

The store had a small number of $2 bills. They aren't particularly old and are of standard size. Yet they were for sale at $9.50 each, plus tax.

The Treasury is considering reviving the $2 bill because it would save $2.1 million a year in printing costs if it replaced half the $1 bills.

The $2 bills are considered unlucky in some circles for reasons not immediately apparent. But if a fellow had a million of them, he could laugh at luck.

Free Ballooning Becoming Newest Fad In Aviation

By STEVE GRAHAM

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Free ballooning, the oldest form of man-made aerial transportation, is rapidly becoming the latest fad in aviation recreation.

In recent years, the recreational revolution has sent increasing numbers of people into the skies for personal enjoyment.

Some fly ordinary aircraft. The sky diver is a special sort of individualist, who arrives at the local airport before the wind comes up, buckles on heavy boots, a helmet and two parachutes, and crams himself into a waiting airplane that will take him several thousand feet into the air. After the aircraft climbs to the proper altitude the sky diver is out the door and falling gently under a canopy of silk.

Sailplane enthusiasts disdain the thought of a roaring, smelly engine dragging them through the sky. The sailplane pilot endures the ignominy of being dragged aloft by a powered craft just long enough to get sufficient altitude to catch rising currents of air that can take a powerless craft thousands of feet into the air for hours at a time.

Then there are the balloonists.

Balloons have been around ever since the brothers Montgolfier first defied the law of gravity in 1783. The two Frenchmen simply saw smoke rising from a chimney and decided if they put a bag around the smoke, the bag would rise too.

They did and it did. The hot air balloon was born.

The hot-air balloon flies simply because hot air rises. The hot air inside the bag is lighter than the surrounding air so up it goes.

Early balloonists were a hardy lot. The balloons themselves were made of paper. The passengers were carried in a wicker basket suspended below the bag.

Often one passenger was kept busy stoking the wood fire that provided the hot air for lift while the other passenger tried to keep the paper balloon from catching fire itself.

The gas-filled balloon was developed shortly after the hot-air variety. Another Frenchman, Jacques Charles, produced a 12-foot-diameter hydrogen-filled balloon by inflating the bag with the "flammable air" produced by heating iron filings and acid.

As years went by helium replaced hydrogen as the "lifting gas." Hydrogen is more efficient than helium but helium doesn't burn.

Modern balloons are of the hot-air variety. Propane burners have replaced a bonfire in the basket and tough rip-stop nylon has replaced paper as the bag material.

Other than that, not much has changed. You heat the air in the bag to go up and let it cool to come down.

The key to successful ballooning is a good ground crew. It takes help to fill the 85-foot bag with hot air — without having the whole thing take off like a child's balloon at the county fair. But the biggest job of the ground crew is to get you, the pilot, back.

In ballooning, you never really know where you're going. The airplane pilot chooses his destination. The sky diver pretty much hits what is under him. The glider pilot can do amazing things to get back to the airport.

But the balloonist follows the wind.

As a matter of fact, you usually plan on winding up in somebody's back yard or cornpatch. Your ground crew, which has been in hot pursuit, comes charging up to meet you.

A modern, nylon, hot-air balloon costs about $7,000. For that you get the balloon, an aluminum gondola (wicker baskets are out of style) and the propane burners.

Like everything else that carries passengers off the ground, free balloons are regulated by the Federal Aviation Administration. Before you load up and lift off, you must pass a written test, gather a few hours of instruction from a qualified teacher and demonstrate to a friendly FAA inspector that you can handle the 85-foot-tall device without being a menace to earth-bound people or property — or yourself.

Once you receive your pilot certificate you're off as part of a very select — but growing — fraternity. There are about 125 registered balloons and 375 licensed balloonists in the U.S.

Tall In 'Safety', Too!

Coal Township, Pa., has received a great deal of publicity the last several days as a result of its having been declared one of the safest small towns in America, population 11,789.

This is great and we would not detract in the least from the honors bestowed upon Coal Township, which hasn't had a murder in 15 years and which last year reported no manslaughters, no rapes, no assaults and no robberies.

This is a right difficult record to equal, particularly in the face of an increasing crime rate "almost everywhere," but there are other cities which also have earned enviable "safe city" designations . . . and the Tall City of Midland, Tex., is one of them.

• • •

"Modern Maturity," a publication of the American Association of Retired Persons, in its August-September issue, publishes a list of the 50 safest cities in America, taken from David Franke's book, "America's 50 Safest Cities."

Midland is ranked 24th in the listing, which is a most significant rating, since David Franke, in his book, ranks all United States cities of 50,000 or more persons according to their crime rates.

Only two other Texas cities are included in the Top 50—Odessa in 33rd place and Wichita Falls, 36th. This would make Midland the safest city in the Lone Star State.

This is something of which all Midland residents justly may be proud. At the same time, Midlanders may and do feel much more secure from the safety from crime standpoint.

The ratings are based on the number of crimes per 100,000 population, calculated on statistics collected annually by the FBI.

• • •

Law enforcement in Midland must be credited with playing a major role in earning this noteworthy safety designation. The Midland Police Department, long-known for its continuing training program, is recognized as one of the most efficient and best-trained anywhere.

Citizen support also is an essential ingredient of good law enforcement. Without it, law enforcement cannot do the job expected of it. Midland also is fortunate in this respect.

The "safe city" rating is a major consideration of anyone, particularly older persons, in selecting an area in which to establish a new home. It likewise is important to business and industry in selecting locations for new offices and industrial plants.

The Franke listing also speaks exceptionally well for Wonderful West Texas, since the only Texas cities listed in the Top 50 are located in this great region of the state.

The Chicken's Come Home To Roost

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jack Anderson Says: Let's find the right words for Bicentennial slogan.

WASHINGTON—In times past, Americans have been able to distill the cause of the hour into a phrase, a rallying cry, a stirring slogan.

To recite them is to review our history. Give me liberty or give me death . . . United we stand, divided we fall . . . Millions for defense but not one cent for tribute . . . Remember the Alamo . . . Government of the people, by the people and for the people. . .

We must make the world safe for democracy . . . The only thing we have to fear is fear itself . . . Praise the Lord and pass the ammunition . . . I have a dream . . . Ask not what your country can do for you; ask what you can do for your country.

At this time, as we emerge from the Watergate nightmare into the dawn's early light, as we near 200 years under a common flag as a free and progressing people, are there the right words to reaffirm our faith in America?

Slogan Needed

The Bicentennial has need of a slogan, which will capsulate the last 200 years and ring down through the next 200 years. Amid all the hopes and conflicts that distract and divide us today, is there a unifying phrase, a grand motto for our Bicentennial year?

The words ought not to be forced effort of a political ghost writer but the spontaneous eruption of some grateful citizen, some struggler in the field. We, therefore, invite the citizens of America — the school children, laborers, housewives, veterans — to express their feelings about America in a slogan.

We have an anniversary to celebrate. If you have a motto for it, a phrase that can catch the spirit and the cause of America 1976, by all means send it to Jack Anderson, 1401 16th St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

From The People

Such patriotic and civic organizations as the American Legion and the Jaycees will help us screen the slogans. The best will be selected as the slogan for the Bicentennial. The Spirit of 1976 cannot be imposed upon the country by the government but must come from the people. Putting into words our feelings about America may help to shake off the dirt of Watergate and think constructively about our country.

For a time, it appeared that Watergate would ruin on our Bicentennial parade. How could we celebrate the good old words, the hallowed guarantees, if each day was to disclose a new mockery of them? But we always thought, and sometimes wrote, that Watergate would end in a reaffirmation of the American system.

So it has. The Republic stands, stronger, more tested, than before. It stands amidst the ashes of numberless attempts at democratic government in other lands. For our people who had begun to doubt, for the world at large which has usually given short shrift to free governments, the American Bicentennial has a potential impact that ought not be lost.

Something we have — a division of powers, an idea that won't die, a faith deep in our souls — has brought freedom with order, change with stability, dissent with unity, the hazards of the free market yet, for most, a decent home and a full table.

We have survived 200 years ruled mostly by laws we collectively agreed to, rather than by the truncheons of unaccountable men; two centuries of comparative unletteredness that enabled us to unleash the greatest explosion of human energy and inventiveness in all history.

Endemic Statecraft

We have developed an endemic statecraft, on prairie, mountain and valley, that sprang up because people were allowed to practice it, statecraft that democratized the energy explosion and largely civilized it.

There has grown a cohering trust grounded in the belief that we have had our say, whether it prevailed or not, and will have it again; a trust that has legitimized power here and permitted its peaceable transfer, by the book.

Oh, there is much we have not caught up with — swindling in our counting houses; crime, drugs and litter in our streets; a too-small share in our ghettos. But there are no tanks, no armored trucks hauling critics off to concentration camps. And in the main, Americans have a fairer share, a freer field, a better chance than was ever offered anywhere.

Liberty For All

So let us rest from contemplating the betrayals of the dream, the exploitations of the people, the chances lost. Let us, rather, reflect, reflect on that long, torturous ascent toward the unlikely goals set by the Founding Fathers: Liberty, equality, order — not for one city or one breed, but upon a continent whereon would dwell all the cantankerous races of man.

We see a progress, fitful, faltering, backsliding but ever resilient, at length discernible and in the end majestic.

Scientist Reports Cancer Fight Gain

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A scientist at the National Cancer Institute said Tuesday he has found a way to change the surfaces of certain cancer cells, making them less potent in one strain of mice.

The finding represents work at a very fundamental level of research into the immunology of cancer, why the body does or does not reject cancer cells.

It was described as part of an "intensive international research effort" aimed at unraveling the differences between the surface membranes of normal and malignant cells.

In the long run, such work could lead to new ways of treating human cancer.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

In the first Culbertson systems the jump raise to three of partner's suit was not quite forcing. Oswald Jacoby was one of a group of young experts who decided to play it as forcing. Culbertson followed along and today the jump raise is forcing in standard American.

The experts have gone back to using it as almost forcing and the chances are that within a few years the standard bidders will have changed back also.

The bidding in the box is that of the losing team. South decided to use Blackwood and settled for six when North showed just one king. Six is the right contract and South made it.

At the other table, South went into a series of complicated bids after the three-heart response. Eventually he landed in seven.

South won the club lead; ruffed a club; led a trump; ruffed his last club and ran all his trumps to wind up with one spade and three diamonds while dummy hung on to the ace of spades and three diamonds.

West had never thrown a diamond and East came to the mistaken conclusion that South had started with two spades and the ace-king of diamonds. He unguarded his queen of diamonds and the grand slam made.

Anonymity Termed The High Price Of Success

NEW YORK (NEA)—Here is a truly disturbing commentary on the times we live in.

Top business executives, who have worked hard to achieve prominence in their fields, now are being urged to work equally hard to achieve obscurity and become just another face in the crowd. The idea is to help prevent would - be kidnapers — either political terrorists or ransom-seeking criminals — from zeroing in on them as prime targets.

"It all boils down to us never doing the same thing once, or reversing what comes naturally like eating in a favorite restaurant, or being expected regularly at the club at a certain time, or taking the same route home after work," observed one business leader at an executive protection seminar in New York.

Such seminars are being conducted in major U.S. cities by Burns International Investigation Bureau, whose director, M. Fred Rayne, has testified on anti-kidnap techniques and urban guerrilla tactics before the House Committee on Internal Security.

Private Briefings

Corporate managers at seminars or at private briefings at company locations are provided with a 26-page manual covering some 200 dangerous situations, including actual kidnaping, and how to react to them.

Some of the rules include:

—Staying out of the office, unless others are there.

—Keeping vacation plans within the family, and not even telling the friendly barber about the mountain retreat.

—Alerting the family to watch for and report to police any strangers in the neighborhood — in parked cars, afoot or slowly bicycling about.

—Personally writing for hotel reservations without mentioning company affiliation and picking up tickets at the airport when traveling, and even then purposely arriving earlier or later than expected.

—Shunning all publicity and eliminating name and picture from company advertising.

Personal Safety

"Business leaders come to our briefings hoping they can learn all about personal safety in one easy lesson," says Rayne. "It comes as a jolt to them when they realize they and their families have to adjust to virtually a new lifestyle by figuratively looking over their shoulders endlessly."

It Rayne's opinion, international terrorism poses a greater danger than skyjacking did before security measures at airports eliminated that peril. He points out that kidnaping has been developed into a fine art in South America, notably Argentina, where kidnapings have escalated to 500 or more a year and ransoms go into multimillions for American businessmen. He sees an imminent threat of terrorist groups overseas joining forces with those in this country.

The business community apparently agrees with him. So far, about 1,000 companies have requested the antikidnap handbook.

Paranoia, anyone?

WITH 35,00 DOCTORAL dissertations being written each year, it shouldn't be surprising that the obvious subjects have been pretty well raked over and that scholars are being forced to devote their attention to the fine details of human knowledge.

Still, some of the dissertations for which people are earning degrees are rather strange-sounding. Consider, for example, a "Study of Some Physical Chemical Factors Affecting Shrinkage of Ice Cream," whose author was awarded a Ph.D. by the University of Illinois.

It's one of a number recently dug up by the National Enquirer from the massive "Comprehensive Dissertation Index." Filling 37 volumes and more than 35,000 pages — and selling for $2,495 — the index lists virtually every doctoral dissertation accepted by American universities since 1861.

Other examples of forgettable research along the less-trodden paths of scholarship:

Purdue University conferred a Ph.D. for "Flavors and Other Quality Attributes of Pre-Cooked, Wet-Chilled and Dry-Chilled Fried Chicken."

TIMELY QUOTES

"I like to think my kids weren't brought up by a father who preached to them, because I never did. But just sitting at the dinner table, they'd hear their parents talking and they'd pick it up."

"Women who were willing out of patriotism to come into the armed forces became suspect. We've spent 30 years trying to reverse this."

— U.S. Army Brig. Gen. Mildred C. Bailey on women's opportunities in the military.

BUCHAREST CONFERENCE—

World Delegates Deny Population Crisis

By NEA/London Economist News Service

LONDON (LENS) — This is World Population Year; and there is a lot of it about.

When Kurt Waldheim, the United Nations secretary-general, opened the World Population Conference in Bucharest, he pointed out that during its 12-day session the planet's inhabitants would grow by a number equal to twice the city's population.

Undaunted, many of the 149 governmental delegations turned down, or simply chose to ignore, the arguments for a new worldwide campaign to prevent the world's population doubling over the next 35 years — as it will, if present trends go unchecked.

In the draft "plan of action" offered at Bucharest by the UN secretariat, it was claimed that a "majority of the world's people live in countries whose governments are attempting, as a matter of urgency, to reduce significantly their rates of population growth." But the delegates didn't appear to be listening.

The spokesmen for India and other countries that are already trying to encourage birth control wanted the richer nations to do their bit towards easing the strains on world resources by curbing limitless consumption.

Revealingly, Argentina and the Soviet bloc states, which are trying to boost their birthrates for military reasons in a style once associated with Nazi Germany, were conspicuous champions of amendments intended to purge the draft test of references to the population explosion or to targets for the reduction of growth rates.

Almost grotesquely, the Chinese, while claiming that their own population had risen from 550 million to 800 million since 1950, accused both superpowers of having sinister motives for talking about "the so-called population crisis."

In point of fact, nobody really knows how many Chinese there are, or have been; but an enlightening feature of Bucharest's parallel nongovernmental conference last week was a Finnish obstetrician's account of the strict disciplines that now are being used to curb China's birthrate quite as effectively as would any of the proposals that Huang Shu-tse was denouncing in the governmental conference.

Wool, Lamb Men Set Referendum

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wool and lamb producers will vote Nov. 4-15 in a mail referendum whether to continue checkoff contributions to help advertise and promote their products.

The Agriculture Department says producers will vote on a new agreement which would be in force on 1974 through 1977 sales.

The money is deducted from federal wool payments due producers at the rate of 1.5 cents per pound on shorn wool sold and 7.5 cents per 100 pounds for unshorn lambs sent to market.

The deductions were authorized by 1954 legislation setting up wool payments and have been approved in five referendums the past 20 years. In the most recent vote, held in 1971, 87 per cent of the producers who voted approved the program.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Estivation is a process, similar to hibernation, used by some animals under excessively hot or dry conditions. When food is scarce, the animal reduces its normal activity, lowering its body temperature and metabolism rate, thus enabling it to subsist on less food. The World Almanac notes. Alligators, snakes, land-snails, and some mammals and insects are animals that practice estivation.

AIR TERMINAL RENOVATIONS—

Bond Issue Question Facing City Council

Midland City Council Tuesday was faced with the question of bringing a bond issue before the public in order to pay for the costs of Air Terminal renovations.

The question of the bond issue was not acted on, however, as the council wanted more study conducted on the airport planning to see if some short-term improvements to the parking lot facility could defray the inflationary construction costs.

It was proposed by the representative of Park, Hill, Smith and Cooper, a designing firm, that an increase of some 250 extra parking spaces be added to the present parking lot. The main portion of the proposed addition would be to the immediate west of the present lot and would require the alteration of the entire parking facility and adjoining streets.

The council proposed that more study be incorporated into the design plan, and suggested that some form of short-term parking addition be made to limit the cost of the proposal. The council thought that the entire 250-space addition was possibly too much for the present requirements of the airport facility.

The council also called for an extended study into the Air Terminal building alterations and agreed to hire an architect to further develop the Phase One expansion of the Terminal Building.

Mayor Ernest Angelo said the Federal Aviation Administration is continuing to work at getting the $2 million in funding needed for the airport runway paving projects. The mayor noted that the federal money was expected to be in hand by the city by mid-October.

Airport Manager Wilson Banks told the council that limousine service to the air facility is still out of operation, but that local and area taxi services are handling the passenger service.

In other action the council noted that the Midland Traffic School for first offenders was in need of some supporting funds to defray the cost of operating the school. The council agreed to instigate a $5 fee for attendance by offenders to pay for the cost of the instructor and class room rental from the public school system.

Mayor Angelo said the traffic school had received good attendance and noted that future use of the traffic offender classes should be maintained.

The council also agreed to adopt the 911 emergency telephone system for the city by 1976. The emergency number will be corrected through the public safety building operators but cannot be added to the city's communications at present because the new telephone building has not been completed. The service will cost the city $150 per month.

Councilmen also agreed to meet with county officials in an effort to outline plans for the proposed use of the old post office building. The council noted that the General Services Administration had been notified of the cities interest in obtaining the structure. The GSA offers the surplus federal building at no cost to the city and or county if a desireable use can be outlined by the interested parties. The city has proposed several possible uses for the structure including storage, police academy, civil defense center or possibly a municipal office complex.

Tyler Nominated For District Rotary Governor

Dr. Emil Proft of Tahoka presently is serving as district governor.

Tyler, district production superintendent of Union Oil Co. of California, has been active in Rotary a number of years.

He is a past president of the board of directors of the City of Midland Swim Team and served as chairman of its building committee during the period of planning, financing and construction of its fine new swimming facility.

Mercury Introduces Monarch

Introduction of the all-new Mercury Monarch will be the feature attraction at the debut of the 1975 Lincolns and Mercurys Sept. 27, at Village Lincoln-Mercury, 2803 West Wall St.

"The new Monarch is an innovative concept in luxury sedans that combines distincitve styling, roomy and elegant interiors and precision engineering in an automobile sized for today's market," Fred Stella, dealership owner said.

"In addition to the new Monarch, we will highlight the dramatic new Lincoln Continentals. Both two-and four-door models have the most significant changes since 1970. They are the finest Lincolns we have ever offered.

"The Mercury car line has been realigned for 1975 and medium-priced car buyers will find that the new Marquis models, especially the new top-of-the-line Grand Marquis, are richer and an even better product value.

We have the cars — Mercurys, Comets, Capris, Cougars, Lincolns, Mark IVs, Montegos and Monarchs — to meet the needs of any new-car buyer."

The Mercury Monarch is available in four models; a two- and four-door sedan in two series — Monarch and Monarch Ghia.

Women's Group To Protest Textbooks

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A women's group that objects to what it calls housewife and weaker-sex stereotyping of its sex gets its turn today to object to proposed public school textbooks.

Tuesday, Brockette heard from Mrs. Mel Gabler of Longview, a perennial textbook critic, and Mrs. R.C. Bearden Jr. of San Angelo, representing the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Both Mrs. Gabler and Mrs. Bearden stressed the greater need for positive approaches and patriotism. They urged the elimination of mention of what they called unpatriotic, anti-religious and pro-evolution persons or themes.

Mrs. Bearden brought with her much "documentation" to prove her points, such as a quote from the Texas A&M ROTC manual in 1935: "The government of the United States is not a democracy but a republic."

"We believed that Texans still believe in moral absolutes of right and wrong," Mrs. Bearden said. Texans reject "the Communist crackpot philosophy that everything changes," she said.

Mrs. Bearden objected to the use of such symbols as the raised clinched fist, which she said was internationally recognized as the Communist salute.

A hand symbol she found noxious was "the sign for benediction, the V, whose shadow is the symbol for Satan."

She asked for the elimination of any mention of Martin Luther King Jr. She showed a picture of King in he company of "known Communists."

Publishers' representatives were given equal time to respond to criticism of their books, but most of them said they would stand on written replies previously submitted.

Brockette will make recommendations to the State Board of Education's Textbook Committee. The committee also will hold hearings and in turn make recommendations to the board.

Two Burglaries, Theft Investigated

Midland police Tuesday investigated two burglaries and a theft.

In the theft Carol Edwards, 3500 Apache St., reported that while she was in a local night club someone took a billfold, containing $54, from her purse.

Dennis Sheppard, 2900 W. Illinois St., told officers three stero tapes and two radio knobs, valued at $22, were taken from his car while it was parked at his residence Tuesday.

Firemen Continuing Sickout In Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Fire stations are fully operational, officials say, as a sickout by about half the department enters its third day.

Protesting firemen ignored disciplinary threats Tuesday and failed to report to work for the third straight time Tuesday night.

The firemen are asking for a 20 per cent jump in their pay of about $12,000 a year and a reduction in their work week from 56 to 52 hours. They are also protesting the promotion of some firemen serving as emergency medical technicians to junior captain status.

About 45 per cent of the normal strength failed to report for work Tuesday night. The department has about 1,800 men in the fire suppression division.

Fire Chief John Little ordered all firemen reporting sick during the first day of the unauthorized strike to submit medical reports from their doctors. He said those failing to meet the deadline would face disciplinary measures.

Mayor Fred Hofheinz said Tuesday he had authorized the chief to dock pay of the strikers, suspend and demote them, and forfeit re-employment and pension rights of the strikers.

Strikes by police and firemen are illegal in Texas but most strikers contacted appeared unconcerned.

"They threatened us when we didn't show up for work Monday and they're still threatening us," said one firemen.

The department has been calling men in on overtime to staff stations and Little said all equipment is being adequately manned.

Hofheinz said in a news conference Tuesday, "Houston has never had a pattern of public service strikes in its history and this administration does not intend to tolerate development of that pattern now. There may be legitimate grievances but no grievance justifies an illegal walkout."

Cold Front Pushes Across Central Plains, Upper Mississippi Valley, Temperatures Drop Into 40s

By The Associated Press

Temperatures dropped sharply today as winds gusting up to 30 miles per hour pushed a cold front across the upper Mississippi Valley and central Plains.

Overnight readings plummeted into the 40s in some areas while ahead of the front — through the lower Missouri Valley and west central Plains—more seasonable 70s were the rule.

Light snow dusted the higher elevations in the northern Rockies.

The cold front sparked thundershowers as it rolled across Nebraska, and showers and thunderstorms also splashed over parts of the Atlantic Coast and the lower Mississippi Valley.

Dense fog hid a large section of the country early today, from southern New England to the lower Great Lakes and through the upper Ohio Valley. Fog and low clouds also were prevalent along the Southern California coast.

For the rest of the nation, skies were clear and temperatures generally mild.

Some other reports: Atlanta 71 clear, Boston 63 cloudy, Buffalo 66 haze, Chicago 70 cloudy, Cincinnati 69 fog, Cleveland 65 cloudy, Dallas 73 clear, Denver 59 clear, Detroit 63 clear, Honolulu 79 clear, Indianapolis 67 partly cloudy, Kansas City 68 clear, Los Angeles 65 cloudy, Louisville 67 fog, Miami 81 rain, Minneapolis-St. Paul 73 clear, Nashville 70 clear, New York City 69 clear, Philadelphia 72 cloudy, Phoenix 86 clear, St. Louis 68 clear, San Francisco 60 clear, Seattle 55 clear, Washington 73 cloudy.

Agreement Reached On Longshoremen's Contract

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Negotiators will try to wind up contract language today after reaching tentative agreement Tuesday night on a new three-year longshoremen's contract for the west Gulf coast.

J. H. Raspberry of Houston, secretary-treasurer of the South Atlantic and Gulf Coast district of the International Longshoremen's Association, said agreement was reached affecting more than 5,000 union members from Lake Charles, La., to Brownsville, Tex.

He said only final contract language needs to be decided before submitting the proposal to a union vote.

Negotiations have been in progress since March.

The wage package approved will be similar to one already approved for the North Atlantic ports, a source said.

That contract gives longshoremen, who currently make $6.10 an hour plus $2.35 an hour in fringe benefits, a base pay increase of 70 cents an hour the first year and 60 cents an hour for each of the following two years.

The contract also calls for increasing vacation and insurance benefits by 10 cents an hour the first year, 11 cents the second year and 12 cents the third.

Increases for the pension fund would be 15 cents the first year, 16 cents the second and 18 the third.

About 60 per cent of the longshoremen in the West Gulf area are in the Ports of Houston and Galveston.

The West Gulf Maritime Association must still negotiate contracts with ILA clerks and checkers, warehousemen and foremen locals. Contracts expire Sept. 30.

ALSO CHARGED WITH MAIL, WIRE FRAUD—

Five Men Indicted In Penn Central Funds Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two former Penn Central Railroad officers and three other men have been indicted on federal charges of conspiring to misapply $4.2 million in Penn Central funds.

The Justice Department said today that the five also were charged with mail and wire fraud in a 23-count indictment returned in U.S. District Court in Philadelphia Tuesday.

The defendants are David C. Bevan, former chairman of the finance committee and chief financial officer of the now-bankrupt Penn Central Transportation Co.; William R. Gerstnecker, former corporate vice president of Penn Central; Fidel Gotz, a West German financier who lives in Vaduz, Lichtenstein; Joseph H. Rosenbaum, a Washington, D.C., lawyer, and his brother, Francis N. Rosenbaum.

The indictment charged that from July 1969 until about Nov. 1, 1970, the defendants conspired to misapply Penn Central funds through a scheme involving a $10 million loan Penn Central obtained from a German bank syndicate.

The defendants allegedly arranged the loan by falsely representing the intended use of the money and then diverting $4.2 million of the loan to Gotz through a dummy Lichtenstein company, First Financial Trust.

The Lichtenstein corporation also was named a defendant in the conspiracy indictment.

"Under the stated terms of such loan, the loan proceeds were to be used to finance the rehabilitation of rundown railroad cars and equipment used by the Penn Central Transportation Co. in its business," the indictment said.

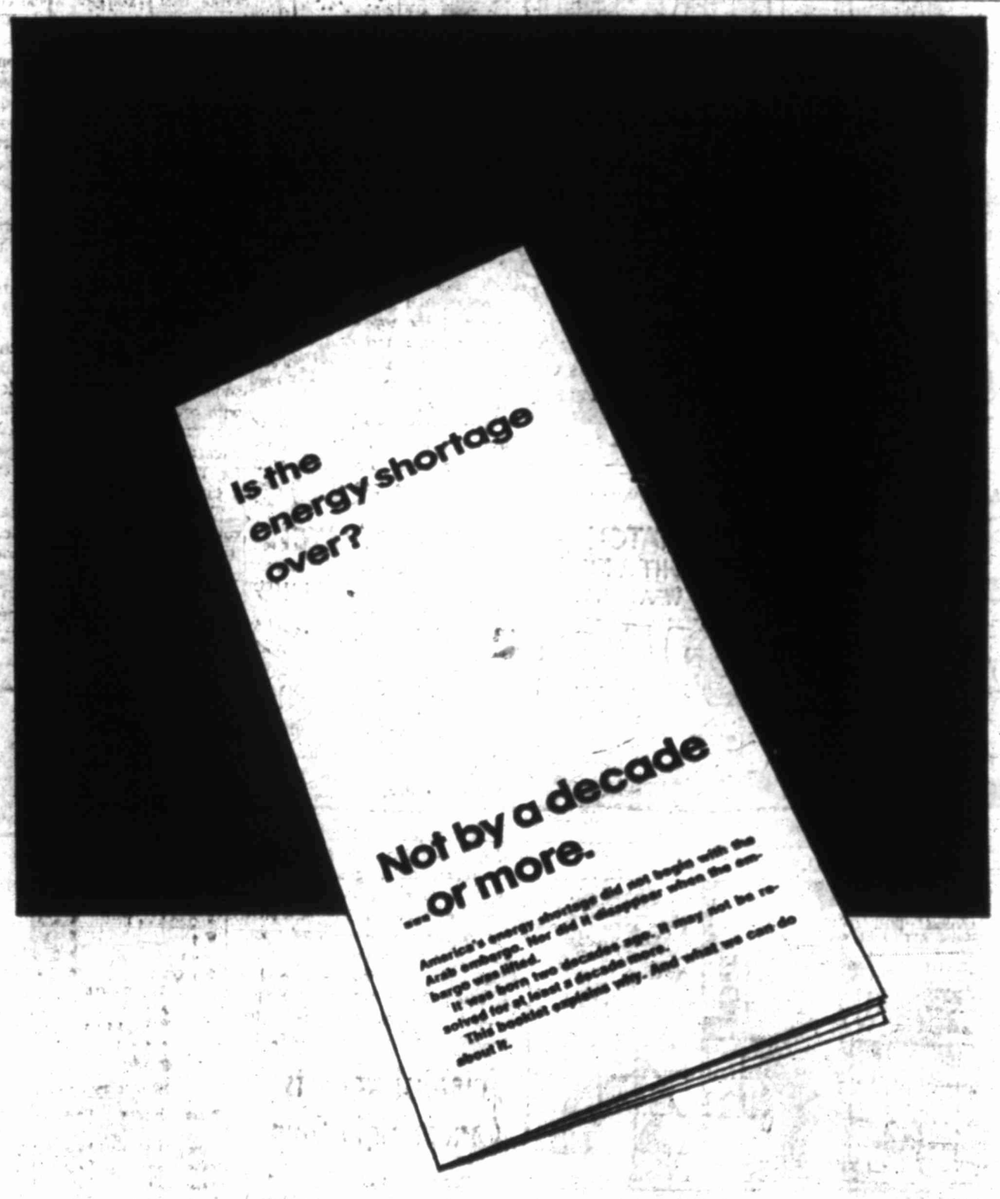

Despite that statement, the defendants actually intended to transfer $4.2 million to Gotz or a corporation under his control "for his permanent use instead of applying such portion of loan proceeds for the stated and agreed upon purpose ...," the indictment charged.

Gotz was to obtain the money to satisfy a debt which he claimed the Penn Central Transportation Co. owed him, a claim the company disputed, the indictment continued.

The five men were charged with mail fraud and wire fraud for using telegrams and the mail in furtherance of the scheme, the grand jury alleged.

The defendant engaged in a cover-up in a year-long effort to keep railroad and bank officials from learning of the misapplied money, the indictment said.

In addition to the conspiracy count, seven counts of mail fraud and 14 counts of wire fraud were brought against each of the five men. Bevan and Gerstnecker were charged with one count of misapplication of funds.

Simon Urges Effort To Remove Curbs On Energy Development

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon urged Tuesday "an all-out effort to remove government restraints" on energy development.

As an example of those restraints, Simon cited what he termed "environmental controls of questionable validity" on energy production and use.

Simon spoke at a meeting of the National Petroleum Council, an industry group which officially advises the Interior Department.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton joined Simon in advocating removal of federal price regulations from oil and gas.

Morton also said he hoped Congress would act to create a Department of Energy and Natural Resources in its next session.

Also addressing the meeting was Alan Greenspan, new chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

Greenspan said that to fight inflation, the government should tighten the money supply, cut its own borrowing and strive for federal budget surpluses.

Greenspan, Simon and the administration's other top economic officials are to join President Ford today in a day-long White House conference with major labor leaders on ways to combat inflation.

The meeting is another of the sessions leading up to Ford's economic summit set for later this month.

Specific Outline

Simon offered the most specific outline of proposed energy policies, urging the removal of federal regulation over natural gas interstate pricing.

He went on to suggest:

—Exploration of Naval Petroleum Reserve No. 4 in northern Alaska.

—Removal of price controls from oil and gas.

—Phasing out of federal allocation of petroleum.

—Acceleration, already in progress, of federal land leasing for energy development.

Meanwhile, the National Petroleum Council itself issued committee reports suggesting stand-by preparations including large-scale oil storage, to reduce the impact of any new cut-off of oil imports.

One committee recommended that the administration develop standby emergency plans, including a coupon rationing system.

It also recommended that the legal conflict-of-interest and antitrust statues be revised to allow oil company executives to serve temporaly in government during energy emergencies.

The panel contended that "a substantial volume of petroleum security storage is needed within the United States and that efforts to implement such a program should begin immediately because of the long construction lead-times involved."

It estimated that storage of 500 million barrels of oil, in addition to normal inventories, would provide an emergency supply that could last 90 to 180 days.

The committee suggested that crude oil could be stored efficiently in underground salt domes near the Gulf of Mexico.

Lots Of Telegrams

NEW YORK (AP) — Western Union says 21,000 telegrams and mailgrams were sent to the White House by 3:30 p.m. EDT Tuesday, the day it was announced that President Ford was considering pardons for all those charged with or convicted of Watergate offenses.

RECOUNTS SHOOTOUT — Father Joseph O'Brien, chaplain at the Huntsville State Prison, who was wounded in the Aug. 3 shootout there said a Texas Ranger would have needed "the longest legs in the world" to kick the bullet-proof helmets from two inmates who were shot to death. (AP Wirephoto.)

Priest Says Officials Haven't Tried To Influence Testimony On Shootout

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Father Joseph O'Brien says penitentiary authorities have not tried to influence his testimony about the Huntsville State Prison breakout attempt in which he was seriously wounded.

The prison chaplain also said Tuesday that a Texas Ranger would have needed "the longest legs in the world" to have kicked helmets from two inmates' heads and shot them execution-style.

He was interviewed after giving the invocation at the Southern Governors' Conference, held at a posh lakeside resort near here. Gov. Melvin Evans of the Virgin Islands, conference chairman, called him a man who "is in his second life now."

No Offical Position

"There can't be an official position (on the shootout). Mr. Estelle doesn't interview me and say, 'What are you going to say?' What I say is on my own. I have to live with it. He has not talked to the hostages. I think we learned at Watergate what an official position means. There can't be one," Father O'Brien said.

He referred to prison system director W. J. Estelle.

A grand jury at Huntsville has been investigating the Aug. 3 shootout in which four persons died. Atty. Gen. John Hill says he will ask a district judge to convene a public court of inquiry when the grand jury finishes its work.

A third-hand allegation, supposedly based on eyewitness accounts, is to the effect that a Texas Ranger rushed in, kicked the helmets from fallen inmates, Fred Gomez Carrasco and Rodolfo Dominguez and shot them in the head at close range.

"Between the overturned shield and where we were laying, there was a rail, a big thick brass rail; in fact, there were two of them. The rangers were on the other side of that rail. As soon as the shield was overturned, I had been laying on Dominguez and I knew he was alive underneath me. I felt his arm move, and I figured it was his gun that he was getting ready," Father O'Brien said.

"And as I rolled off of him, I pointed to him, and he was shot at that time. Now, I did not see him shot, because he was behind me, and the same officer called for Carrasco, and I pointed the other way where Carrasco was, and I heard another shot. Now, if they kicked off those helmets from that position, they had the longest legs in the world."

He said the first shots were fired from inside the shield Carrasco and his two accomplices had fashioned for their escape attempt.

"The woman next to me was shot four times in the back, and the gun was so tight in her back that the kick of the gun ripped her skin—that was in the autopsy," the Roman Catholic priest said.

The killing began, he said, as soon as prison guards and law enforcement officers turned a fire hose on the shield.

He said the shield was turned over by a combination of water pressure from the hose and by a strong push from a ladder that was extended from a dining hall window.

Father O'Brien said he was convinced one of the escaping inmates shot him.

"There was a brick wall to my left, and between that was one of the escapees; well, I was shot from the left side. It had to be; that's where it came from," he said.

Father O'Brien was shot through the left arm. A bullet entered his lungs. He said seven fragments remain embedded in his back, since "they required too much surgery . . . and they are not doing me any harm as yet."

Two More Convicts Are Investigated For Possible Roles In Escape Attempt

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Prison authorities here are investigating an additional two convicts at the prison system here for possible complicity in an Aug. 3 escape attempt in which four died.

Don Kraemer, a deputy district attorney, said Tuesday no evidence has been found to link the pair to a gun smuggling scheme.

Three convicts used smuggled pistols to hold over a dozen bostages in the prison library for 11 days. Two of the bostages and two of the convicts died in an escape attempt Aug. 3.

Six men charged with capital murder in the case are scheduled to be arraigned today. A seventh man has also been charged in the case but is still at large.

Kraemer said an active investigation is continuing and more indictments will be returned if proof is found about any other inmate investigation.

Five of those indicted on the murder charges were involved in smuggling the guns it is charged. A sixth inmate Ignacio Cuevas, participated in the escape attempt which ended with the death of the other two inmates trying to escape—Fred Carrasco and Rodolfo Dominguez. Also killed were two women prison employes.

The Walker County grand jury which indicted the men heard testimony Tuesday from seven inmates who saw portions of the shootout which ended the incident. They also heard from Henry Joseph Lewis of Houston, a parole who also witnessed the affair.

Lewis has said he saw officers execute Carrasco and Dominguez.

However, Dist. Atty. Jerry Sandel said none of the witnesses who testified Tuesday contradicted versions of the shootout given by officers.

Meanwhile, in San Antonio associates of Carrasco are expected to ask today in federal court that their cases be moved to another city because of excessive publicity.

The change of venue motion will be heard by U.S. District Court Judge Adrian Spears.

Carrasco's half-brother Juan Zamora and seven others were indicted by a federal grand jury for conspiring to distribute heroin while Carrasco was held in the Bexar County jail. Carrasco also was indicted.

Crackdown Set On Traffic Violations In School Zones

The Midland Police Department has issued a warning that it will enforce all traffic regulations in Midland's school zones.

Lt. H. M. Wicker, head of the department's traffic division, said the crackdown would include parking violations in the zones.

There are laws that govern both parking and driving around the schools and Lt. Wicker said the police department will definitely enforce the laws.

Lt. Wicker said the two main problems the department is having is parking in passenger loading zones and unloading passengers from traffic lanes.

"We do have a city ordinance against unloading passengers from a traffic lane. You have to pull as near the right hand curb as possible to unload passengers," Lt. Wicker said.

He explained there are signs at the school that say, no parking, passenger loading zone. This is where the adult should pick up his child, but these zones are not for parking.

Can't Wait

"This means that the cars can pull in there and pick up their children, but they can't pull up there 30 to 40 minutes and wait. Or they can't park in these zones to go into the school to attend to business," Wicker added.

"The limit to wait in a passenger loading zone is three minutes and this is true all over the city," Wicker said, and then added that the driver must stay in the car.

Seventeen Midland crossing guards patrol the school zones, three crossings are controlled by flashing lights, Wicker said. These are located at the Hillinder School for west bound traffic, one at Big Spring St. and Dakota St. and there's one at Neely St. and Lanham St.

"The responsibility is on the driver to slow down to that 20 miles per hour and watch for the children and not to park in the middle of the street to load and unload, the officer said.

The 20-mile speed limit is effective only during the times posted on the signs. "If it says 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. it will be effective all day, even though there will be no children on the streets possibly during that time. The reason for this is because these zones are adjacent to the schools."

The school crossings away from the school carry signs with hours effective from 7:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. and from 2 p.m. until 4:30 p.m. Outside of the effective hours, the speed limit is 30 m.p.h.

Lt. Wicker explained that the crossing guards have no arrest powers, but they can take license numbers and file a complaint just like any citizen.

A lot of times the guard will blow her whistle at someone they think is speeding. This is just to call the driver's attention to check his speedometer, Wicker said.

"We want to ask the public not to get offended at the crossing guards if they blow the whistle at them, because all they're there for is to protect the children, Wicker added.

The officer also explained that tickets will be issued for loading or unloading from a traffic lane, for parking in a passenger or bus loading zone or for double parking.

The bus loading zones are so marked and no one is allowed to park in there at any time. In regard to double parking, Wicker said the offense is being committed if you stop in the street and cut your motor off or if you just sit there in the line of traffic. This is a parking violation and carrys a fine of up to $3.

If a person gets in or out while the car is sitting in the traffic lane, that's a moving violation and that carrys a fine of up to $200.

Wicker also urged the parents to work with the children in getting them used to using the crosswalks, "because this is the only place they are legally protected."

"Vehicles must legally yield to anyone in a crosswalk, but they do not have to yield to someone crossing at a place other than a crosswalk," Wicker pointed out.

He strongly urged the junior high school and high school students to use the marked walks.

Texas Baptists Set $20-Million Budget

DALLAS (AP) — A $20 million budget, the largest ever approved, was passed Tuesday by the Executive Board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

The board also voted to seek strengthening of Baptist institutions—it operates 26 ranging from child care facilities to universities.

The board's recommendations will go before the annual convention Oct. 29-31 in Amarillo.

The board's report calls for turning the Human Welfare Commission and the Christian Education Commission into coordinating boards.

Board members also heard reports on Dallas Baptist College and from five other institutions.

Dr. James Harris of Fort Worth, head of a special group appointed to study the problems of financially troubled Dallas Baptist College, said enrollment at the college is up over last year.

He said, the operational problems continue however.

Board members also approved a change in the name of Howard Payne College at Brownwood to Howard Payne University.

Two hospitals—Hendrick Memorial Hospital, Abilene, and High Plains Baptist Hospital, Amarillo—received approval for building programs.

Hendrick sought approval to borrow $4 million to build additional facilities and renovate some present buildings, and High Plains requested authorization to borrow $3.2 million for a building project.

Baylor Medical Center in Dallas sought approval for a $10 million building and expansion program which will require no long term indebtedness.

Board members also approved construction of a building adjacent to Midwestern University in Wichita Falls. The Baptist Student Union is located on the front of the property and the new building would house offices of the North Texas Baptist Area.

Lower Rio Grande Cotton Harvest Best In 6 Years

WESLACO, Tex. (AP) — The best cotton harvest in the past six years has been completed in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, according to a report issued Tuesday by the Valley Chamber of Commerce.

The cotton harvest yielded 283,432 bales of cotton, compared with 179,354 bales in 1973. The 1974 harvest was the best year since 1969 when cotton farmers in the four Valley counties harvested 304,951 bales.

Cameron County growers harvested 112,956 bales, Hidalgo County had 94,988 bales, Willacy County had 71,800 and Starr County had 3,688 bales, according to the report.

Woman Convicted In Mileage Case

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston woman has been convicted on charges of illegally rolling back auto mileage.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Mike Schneider said this was believed to be the state's first criminal conviction in this type case. He said authorities in the past have taken civil action against companies.

Ann Rasco, 40, pleaded guilty to three charges of deceptive business practice while operating the Best Sales Co. from her home.

County Court-at-law Judge Billy Ragan sentenced her to five days in jail, assessed a $400 fine and set a one-year probated jail term on the three convictions.

Stock Market Prices Mixed At Level Near Low Point

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today in a holding pattern not far above its lowest levels in years.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 3.99 at 662.16, but losers maintained a 6-to-5 lead over gainers in very light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said continuing worries over inflation and economic prospects were putting a damper on the market's efforts to rally, despite the technical upward impulse generated by the deeply depressed prices of many issues.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was up .07 at 66.44. The broadly based NYSE composite index showed a .11 gain at 36.28.

ASA, Ltd., which traded as high as 104½ only a few weeks ago, was down 1⅛ at 72; Homestake Mining fell 2⅛ to 39¾, down from a 1974 high of 65⅝; and Campbell Red Lake lost 2⅛ to 25⅝ despite a dividend increase.

Ryder System fell 1½ to 6⅛ in active trading. The company said it expected writedowns and related losses on the order of $7 million in its Toro Petroleum Division for the third quarter.

Permian Basin OIL & GAS LOG

12 million cubic feet, through a 1-inch choke, and perforations at 16,732-16,827 feet, however, four-point tests have not been taken on that zone.

The dual strike, American Quasar No. 1-19 Worsham, was completed in December 1973, for 9.6 million cubic feet of gas daily, through Fusselman perforations at 17,110-17,196 feet, and for 12.8 million cubic feet of gas per day, through Devonian perforations at 16,611-16,670 feet.

Prospectors Slated In Hockley, Gaines

Exploratory tests have been scheduled in Hockley and Gaines counties.

W. H. Fulton of Lubbock will drill No. 1 Phillips as a 7,750-foot venture in Hockley, within the townsite of Levelland.

It spots 1,980 feet from south and east lines of labor 11, league 28, Hood CSL survey, 2¼ miles southwest of the depleted lower Clearfork opener in the Levelland multizone field.

Gaines Searcher

The discovery, Gulf Oil Corp. No. 2 P. Walker, finaled May 30 from the Fusselman for a calculated, absolute open flow of 43 million cubic feet of gas daily, through perforations at 17,098-17,143 feet, and on August 16, from the Ellenburger, for 11.270 million cubic feet of gas daily, through perforations at 19,270-20,150 feet.

The field has one Pennsylvanian gas well.

Wildcat Slated In Eddy Region

Doctor Surplus Possible By 1980s

By JOHN LUMPKIN

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — There may be too many medical doctors in the United States by the 1980s, says Dr. Clark Kerr, whose foundation council once warned of a doctor's shortage.

Kerr, 63, former president of the University of California whose discipline is economics, spoke to the 40th annual Southern Governors' Conference on Tuesday. He appeared in his capacity as chairman of the Carnegie Council on Policy Studies in Higher Education.

Speaking of council studies which began in the late 1960's, Kerr said in an interview, "We recommended a 50 per cent increase in output of doctors, which was shocking to the AMA (American Medical Association).

"But since we were the first group to recommend a major increase, we have a moral obligation to say it may be going too far. There are some indications that it is."

To the governors, Kerr also sounded warnings about impending crises in other branches of higher education besides medical training.

He said higher education weathered students unrest of the 1960s but faces problems as enrollments stabilize after steadily increasing since Harvard was founded in 1636.

"Some institutions will not survive," he said.

About the possible surplus of medical doctors, Kerr said, "We clearly have too many surgeons in the United States and too much surgery as a consequence."

What if there is a surplus in other medical areas?

"Aside from the cost of training of doctors, to what extent then do you have doctors overtreating—doing more than necessary? They'll do marginal things," said Kerr.

Why does he and the council feel there may be a surplus?

"The over-response is building now," said Kerr, referring to the reaction by the nation to a shortage of doctors.

Kerr said the council urged in 1969 that nine new medical schools were needed to combat the shortage; however, "since then, 12 have been started.

"Others are being planned and that's what concerns us," he said.

He mentioned the doctors' situation briefly in a summary of all higher education, but governors were concerned because, as Gov. Arch A. Moore of West Virginia, said, there still is a shortage of physicians in rural areas.

Kerr agreed there is "a maldistribution" of medical doctors but he said the Carnegie council proposes area health education centers outside urban areas with medical schools and research facilities. Such centers might encourage doctors to practice in less populated areas, he said.

The centers, Kerr envisoned, would be satellites which could work with community colleges to train nurses and other paramedics, be linked with medical schools so that medical doctors could update their education and have consultation on difficult cases and allow interns to work and graduates to have their residencies in an outlying community.

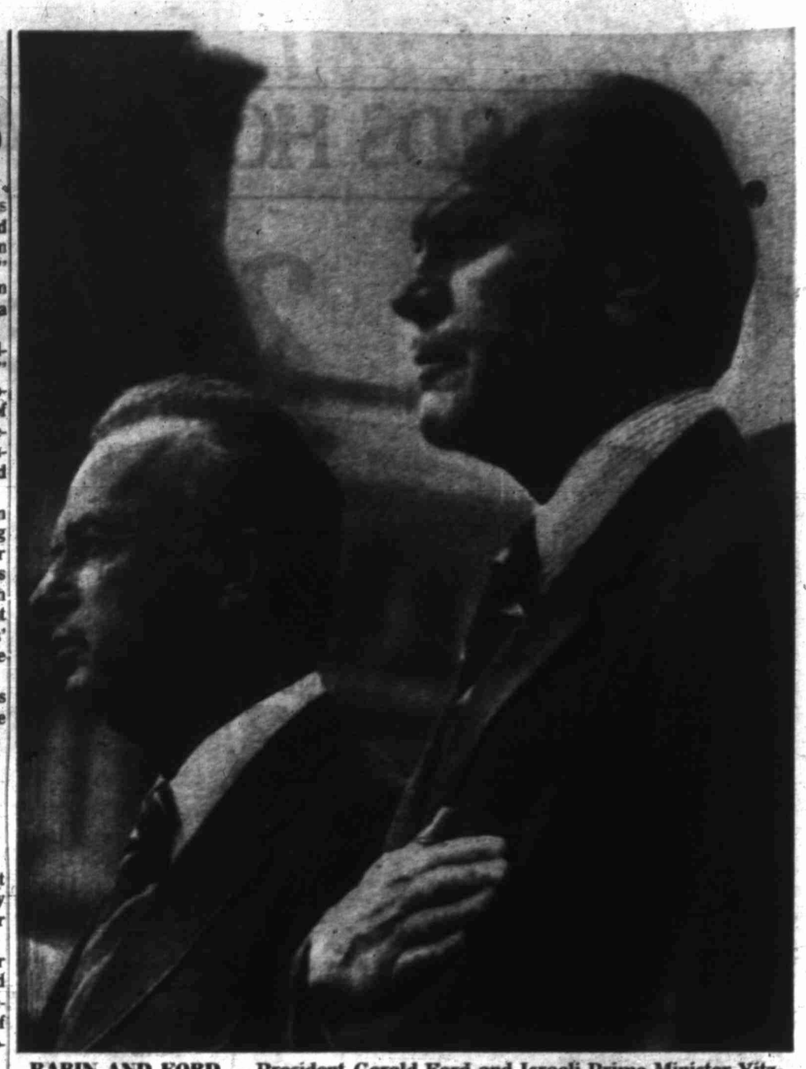

Now, "most doctors go into practice where they had their residency," said Kerr, meaning the areas in which medical school graduates entered the profession by their required attachment to a hospital.

Kerr said the possible surplus of doctors may follow a trend in the academic environment in which "too many Ph.D's" emerged from the 1960's when universities expanded with a large dose of federal help.

"In the 1980's, almost no college professors will be hired," he said. At least two factors apply, one being the oversupply of academic doctors granted degrees in the 1960's and the other being the decreased need due to stabilizing enrollment.

With the current generation bearing children at a declining rate, there will be less need for teacher colleges in the 1980's and 1990's, Kerr said. With community college enrollment increasing, other institutions' enrollment will decrease, he said.

"What's called steady state is going to be an unsteady state for many institutions," he said.

White Parents To Protest Boston Busing

BOSTON (AP) — Thousands of white parents are expected to keep their children home on Thursday when Boston public schools open under a court-ordered integration plan which requires the busing of 18,200 pupils.

Even the parents of pupils who are not scheduled to be bused say they will keep their children out of school in sympathy for those who are. Officials say some schools will be virtually empty.

Fran Johnnene, one of the boycott leaders, predicts that about 40 per cent of Boston's 94,000 public school pupils will skip first-day classes. Other antibusing spokesmen such as City Councilor Thomas P. O'Neil predict an even higher figure.

The integration plan was ordered by U.S. District Court Judge W. Arthur Garrity. He said the city's schools were segregated both through housing patterns and official manipulation. Of the total number of pupils to be bused, 8,500 are white and 9,700 are black.

Violent opposition to busing by many parents manifested itself on Monday when Sen. Edward M. Kennedy was booed and splattered with a tomato when he attempted to speak to an angry crowd of some 8,000 to 10,000 demonstrators in front of Boston's federal building.

The Home and School Association, similar to the Parent-Teacher Association, has led the drive to thwart the integration plan. Its strategy is to arouse enough opposition to force officials to give up on integration.

Boycott organizers have asked parents to keep their children out of school for at least two weeks. They say they will map further plans after that.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has threatened legal action to enforce truancy laws if there is widespread absenteeism.

USDA Beef Regrading Proposal Could Cut Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — American Consumers could have leaner beef at lower cost under a regrading plan announced by the Agriculture Department.

The department unveiled proposed new rules Tuesday that would reduce the fat content required for the higher grades of beef.

The effect would be to increase by up to 20 per cent the amount of beef that would qualify as "choice," the grade most commonly sold at supermarkets.

The primary aim of the new rules, which are subject to revision before taking effect in December, is to ensure greater uniformity within the grading system, the department said.

"I don't think that even an experienced taste panel would be able to pick up the difference" after the change, said USDA Livestock Director John C. Pierce. Steak and hamburger may be a bit less juicy but would probably be more nutritious because of less fat.

The change, long sought by cattlemen, would encourage growers to market leaner beef, thereby cutting production costs by reducing the time cattle would have to be fed expensive grains on ranches and at fattening-up feedlots.

The American National Cattlemen's Association estimated that as much as $22 a head in grain costs could be saved by cutting feedlot time by two weeks.

While he could make no guarantees, Pierce said lower production costs "could be reflected in lower prices at the retail levels."

"Under competitive conditions, if there is less fat to cut off, it should be cheaper to the consumer," he said.

Gold Stocks Hit Mart Skids

NEW YORK (AP) — It's really tough to make a speculative buck in the marketplace.

That wisdom, which invariably is developed after the fact, has been the lament of broken speculators ever since man developed trade, but it has become a dirge sung by a million-voice choir in the past decade.

The wail of the goldbug is now heard in the land, the latest victim of that diabolical tendency of the market to collapse without warning. Who said gold doesn't deteriorate? Owners of gold stocks will claim otherwise.

Long promoted as the only investment vehicle that could withstand the malaise of world economies, gold stocks this week turned out to be no different than others. Some lost as much as 20 per cent in one day, Monday.

Homestake Mining shrunk $10.25 to $45. Campbell Red Lake fell $8.50 to $30.12. ASA Ltd. lost $10.37 to $79.25. Dome Mines declined $8.25 to $47.12. And International Mining declined $2 to $9.50. All were heavily traded.

Why such devastation occurred isn't entirely clear. An advisory service did send a bearish report to customers, claiming that possible tax increases and inflation were fouling the gold investment climate. But there was more to it than that.

As in almost every fad or mass craze, there is a beginning and an end. Whether or not this is the end of the gold stock boom cannot be forecast, but what obviously happened is that many stockholders declared it was the end for them.

That is the way the end always begins. It has happened in commodities of almost all kinds, in "glamor" stocks, in mutual fund shares. And it probably will occur sometime in the government securities market, where thousands now seek refuge.

In the beginning of a fad a few people claiming to be in the know lead the way. Other insiders and a few outsiders join. The word goes round and the mass of people jump aboard. The newest fad has thus matured.

At this point the first ones in are eager to be the first out. They've made their money and they're ready to depart, which they do. Those remaining are forced to assess their position realistically rather than romantically. They do, and they sell.

The very largest mass movement of this sort occurred in the 1967-1968 bull market, when millions of Americans plugged into the stock market, many for the first time. During the 1960s the number of shareholders doubled to 30 million.

This was, of course, the signal for earlier investors to clear out. Ever since then the stock market has been in a recession.

The losses made financial conservatives out of millions of people. It convinced them, as it was so often put, "to get back to the basics," to measure real rather than imagined value.

And that, ironically, is why so many people bought gold stocks.

DESPITE SOVIET ARMS SHIPMENTS—

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence estimates are that Soviet arms shipments have substantially improved the quality of Syria's military forces and more than made up the losses suffered in the October war with Israel.

But the Soviet aid, including a new line of jet fighters, is not enough to tip the balance against the Jewish state, and Israel would triumph should fighting resume between the two countries, it is believed here.

This assessment of Syrian strength, however, does not take into immediate account the likelihood that Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin will convince administration officials during his four-day visit that Israel needs a further upgrading of its air and ground strength.

In an arrival ceremony Tuesday on the White House lawn, the former general stressed that "only a strong Israel, able to defend itself against aggression, has a chance of winning a peace."

President Ford, at Rabin's side, seemed to give the kind of assurances the Israeli leader is seeking. "We are committed to Israel's survival and security," he said.

The Soviets are known to be replacing Syrian equipment on a one-for-one numerical basis — except for the additional bounty of a new line of jets.

U.S. Begins Review Of Policy On Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indirect signals from Havana that Fidel Castro may be interested in talking with the United States have inspired the Ford administration to begin an extensive review of U.S. policy toward the Caribbean island.

The Cuban premier is thought to be more receptive to a dialogue with Washington in order not to remain totally dependent on the Soviet Union, which supplies his regime with some $1 million a day in aid.

The feelers are being conveyed sometimes through the occasional American visitors to Cuba and also by a less hostile posture generally by Cuba toward the United States.

Although no firm decision is imminent, the policy review could eventually lead to a reversal of the U.S. effort to isolate Cuba from the rest of the hemisphere.

The United States broke relations with Cuba in 1961, imposed a trade embargo in 1962, and joined with all other hemisphere nations except Mexico in 1964 in trying to isolate Cuba both diplomatically and economically.

However, six nations have since repaired relations with Havana, Panama has announced its intention to follow suit, and Colombia, Costa Rica and Venezuela have asked the Organization of American States to convene foreign ministers in Quito, Ecuador, in November to consider a reversal of the embargo.

At this point, Cuba seems to prefer reopening direct channels with Washington to re-entering hemisphere councils, including the Organization of American States.

If these talks develop, they could consider such topics as lifting travel restrictions that prevent most Americans from traveling to Cuba, trade barriers that also limit other countries which deal with Havana, or even an exchange of diplomats.

Since many of these anti-Cuban measures were written into the law, the administration would need Congressional support to accomplish a policy reversal.

"MUSIC IN WORSHIP"

The church of Christ does noe use instrumental music in the worship of God. Sometimes people inquire as to why we don't. We shall try to explain in these brief lines why we use only the human voice to praise God in song.

First of all, let me say that it is a matter of Divine authority with us. When we turn to the pages of the New Testament we cannot find a command to authorize the use of instruments in the worship. We cannot find an example of such being used in the worship, nor can we find the use of instrumental music even inferred as practiced by first century Christians. As a matter of fact, it was 600 years AFTER the apostles died that it was introduced into the worship and 1,000 years before it became a common practice. That alone should tell people that God never authorized such in worship.

In understanding some things about authority we need to realize that there is such a thing as "specific" authority. That is, when God gave the command He specified in the command the elements. For instance, who among religious people would even consider having steak and beans as elements in the Lord's Supper? The reason (and the only reason) for one objecting would be the fact that Christ SPECIFIED the elements ... the bread and the fruit of the vine. This will exclude any other element in the Supper. When God told Noah to build the ark of "gopher wood" He made no provision for Noah to substitute some other KIND of wood, and had Noah done so, his ark would never have left the ground when the flood came. (Gen. 6) Just so, God has specified the kind of music to be used in worship to Him, and KIND of music is VOCAL. Eph. 5:19; Col. 3:16)

Friends, we try to do things in Bible ways in all of our acts of worship and work. We make no claims to perfection, but we do claim that whatever we do in word or deed we should do "in the name of Jesus Christ." (Col. 3:17) We cannot use the organ, or any other instrument, and justify it by the Word of God, hence such is omitted from our worship service. We can worship God without it and we cannot worship Him with it and do so by faith.

Shrine Circus Coming To Town

The George Hubler International Circus will come to Midland this weekend for Saturday and Sunday performances under sponsorship of Midland Shriners.

Performances are scheduled for 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. both days in Cub Stadium at Hogan Park. Advance tickets are now on sale in several Midland locations, including the chamber of commerce office at 211 N. Colorado St., and the Paper Clip, 108 N. Loraine St. Shrine members also are selling tickets.

Purchased in advance, tickets are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children. They will be priced at $1.75 for adults and $1 for children at the gates before each performance.

Most of the acts in this year's Shrine Circus will be making their initial appearances in the Tall City this weekend. Headline acts include Gina's Royal Palace Leopards, going through a host of clever tricks and routines under direction of the Beautiful Miss Gina, their trainer; Bucky's marielously matched "Liberty Ponies," the epitomy of perfection as they go through intricate maneuvers; Steele's Elephants, one of the fastest moving elephant displays in the circus world; and Jons and Company, with a combination act of chimps and dogs.

And, since no circus is complete without its breath-taking aerial acts, Hubler's Shrine Circus offers the high cradle work of the Braun Duo, who work without the aid of a net or any safety devices, and the super sensation, Bobby Holcum on his death defying cloud swing. In a more relaxed aerial mood will be the International Aerial Ballet and the Flying Astros, a group of newcomers on the flying trapeze from Santa Monica, California's "Muscle Beach."

Last, but certainly not least, the circus will offer several great trampoline acts, the high-perch pole performance of the Dubsky Quartet from Holland, and the Hungaria Troupe and their German-taught risky acrobatics.

And finally, the circus will keep children and grownups alike amused with the antics of Al Ross, "King of the Klowns," and his small army of mirthmakers.

George Segal, Son Of Humphrey Bogart?

By BOB THOMAS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — George Segal, son of Humphrey Bogart?

It is happening on the stages of The Burbank Studio with the fourth film flight of the Maltest Falcon.

Dashiell Hammett's mystery novel, which set the standard for two generations of detective story writers, was filmed by Warner Brothers in 1931, with Ricardo Cortez as Sam Spade and Bebe Daniels as the femme fatale. In 1936, the plot was refurbished as "Satan Met a Lady," with Warren William and Bette Davis as stars.

"The Maltese Falcon" was given the classic treatment in 1941 by John Huston in his debut as a director. Humphrey Bogart played the definitive Sam Spade, supported superbly by Mary Astor, Sydney Greenstreet and Peter Lorre.

Now Columbia Pictures is making "The Black Bird ... or The Maltese Falcon Flies Again." But it is not quite the same. George Segal is Sam Spade Jr. in contemporary San Francisco. He inherits his father's private-eye business, along with the longtime office secretary, Effie. The role is again being played 33 years later by Lee Patrick. Another holdover from the 1941 cast is Elisha Cook Jr.

"But this isn't a remake of 'The Maltese Falcon,'" said director-writer David Giler, who is making his own directorial debut. "It's more of a comedy treatment of the same material."

When interviewed he had just finished a bedroom scene with the sultry leading lady, Stephane Audran. In his dressing room, he offered to share a supply of champagne and caviar with his visitor.

"I'm treating myself," Segal said exhuberantly. "After all, when you have a splendid boudoir scene, you should live it up — champagne and caviar!

"We actors have it better today — sex on the set. Poor Errol Flynn and all those chaste little kisses from Olivia DeHavilland!"

He was kidding, one must believe. Upon reflection, he admitted there is no thrill in before-the-camera passion.

"It's all very controlled," he said. "I remember when I did my first kiss in a movie: it was 'The New Interns,' and the girl was Inger Stevens.

"I was terrified. Her hair was beautifully done, and I didn't know whether to put my hands under it or on it. Did my nose go on the right side or the left? Would our noses hit?

"It's always that way — simply a matter of hitting your marks. You're uncomfortable, and the actress is just as uncomfortable. Through your mutual discomfort, you get to be friends. That's all. Friends."

Six Shows Premiering On Tv Tonight

Three On Sharbutt's Dog-Alert Warning List

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — Six premiere shows of as many series are coming up tonight on the three networks. As previously noted, three of the sagas are on our Dog-Alert advance warning list of wretched opening shows.

These are programs you can miss without undue harm to mind or spirit. They are CBS' "Sons and Daughters" and "The Manhunter," and ABC's "Get Christie Love."

On the vaguely brighter side, you might find some good moments in NBC's "Little House on the Prairie" and "Petrocelli." A third NBC show tonight, "Lucas Tanner," wasn't available for advance screenings until after deadline time. It will be mulled over later if the mull is working.

"Little House," based on the classic collection of childhood memories by Laura Ingalls Wilder, stars Michael Landon as the head of a Kansas family which has moved to rural Minnesota in the 1870s to start life anew.

Tonight's effort, dealing with that start, is a simple, straightforward and unexciting yarn emphasizing all of the positive virtues of rural America — hard work, honesty, attendance at church and neighborly ways.

It centers on how an impoverished Charles Ingalls (Landon) begins from scratch, first building a home for his wife and three daughters and then striking a cashless bargain with a hard-hearted local merchant to buy seed and a plow for the Ingalls' farm.

The show is beautifully photographed and Landon, co-star Karen Grassle, and their colleagues all turn in sympathetic, low-key performances. But several things seem wrong with this effort.

And the show seems excessively virtuous, almost as if the producers rounded up a 19th century version of "Apples' Way" and told the cast, "Now, dang it, get out there and be decent."

"Petrocelli," starring Barry Newman as a pinstriped big-city lawyer who sets up his shingle in a Southwestern town called San Remo, has a different kind of problem that eventually does it in.

The first 30 minutes are fairly lively and involve a murder, a frightened millionaire's wife charged with the murder, and the arrest of Petrocelli's wife (Susan Howard) on trumped-up prostitution charges.

The millionaire is properly power-mad and evil and the local lawman who makes the prostitution arrest appropriately corrupt and sinister. But the plot thins later on.

Newman's performance is wholly believable, despite the feeble chance the script gives him. And the other mummers are equally good.

But if tonight's show is any indication, "Perry Mason" is still with us, even if under a new name and in a new setting. The only difference is that Petrocelli got in a fistfight in the show. Perry would never do that.

Vincente Minnelli's Autobiography Out

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I Remember It Well" is the title of the new autobiography of Vincente Minnelli, who has sometimes been remembered less for his superbly styled movies than for being husband and father of two superstars.

Minnelli was married to Judy Garland from 1945 to 1951. They collaborated on four films and one daughter, Liza, born by Caesarian section on March 12, 1946.

He has also directed such films as "Meet Me in St. Louis," "Madame Bovary," "An American in Paris" (Oscar for best picture, 1951), "Father of the Bride," "The Bad and the Beautiful," "Lust for Life," "Gigi" (best picture, best direction, 1957), "Some Came Running," etc.

With collaborator Hector Arce, Minnelli deals in frank and instructive detail with the hazards of directing for a major studio — he made all but two of his 35 films for MGM. Also the problems of dealing with the industry's censors.

The Production Code Administrator objected to the making of "Gigi" because "all of the characters were unmarried and opposed marriage as an institution," and "the boy had immoral relations with many women and the girl was being trained for life as a mistress."

Father and daughter had hoped to make a film together, but so far it hasn't materialized. Minnelli is considering other projects, admitting that he works to please himself — "but I'm the hardest person to please that I know."

In "I Remember It Well," Minnelli adds revealing data to ever-growing Garland lore. He writes of their first meeting at MGM when he was newly arrived from the New York stage and she was an established, if personally insecure star at MGM.

Septemberfest Evaluation Meeting Slated Tonight

According to Mrs. Ben D. Johnson, president of Las Manos — "The Hands" — museum volunteer service organization which sponsors Septemberfest each year, the evaluation session will be open to all Septemberfest committee chairmen and workers — and to all others interested in attending and giving their views on the fund-raising event and how future Septemberfests might be improved.

Septemberfest this year drew well over 10,000 city and area residents to the museum grounds Saturday night and was termed "the most successful ever" by Las Manos spokesmen.

Tonight's evaluation meeting will begin at 7:30 in the museum's Turner Memorial Gallery, 1705 W. Missouri St.

Organization Is Helping Adopted Children To Find Natural Parents

NEW YORK (AP) — Katrina Maxtone-Graham is 39 years old, the mother of four. She has wealth, a blonde sort of Ali McGraw beauty, a devoted husband, wit and intelligence, a Manhattan townhouse, summers in Europe — or wherever — and all the household help she wants.

Katrina Maxtone-Graham was also becoming suicidal.

She wandered in front of cars, she was terrified of elevators, she isolated herself from her children. She invested over 13 years on a psychiatrist's couch and $15,000 in legal fees in search of her identity.

Katrina was adopted.

Parents Now Dead

She grew up as one of three adoptive children of a wealthy Michigan family. Her adoptive parents are now dead. But there were shadow memories of another place . . . a piano . . . a certain field . . . a woman yelling at her.

Katrina wanted desperately to find her real mother, just to touch her, to see her, to find out who she really was. It was becoming an obsession. She said didn't care if her mother turned out to be the proverbial 42nd Street lady of the night. At least she would know. She also wanted to find the foster homes in which she had lived until she was adopted at age 3½.

Katrina Maxtone-Graham and others involved in a fight to get such records opened maintain that, as adults, they have a constitutional right to know the identity of their natural parents. They say they don't want to intrude on their parents; they just want the truth. More importantly, they say there is a strong psychological need to know one's roots, one's ancestry, the history of the genes one carries.

The issue is fought with strong feelings on both sides. Some say adoption records are a Pandora's box which, if opened, could rock the entire concept of adoption. How many women, now middle-aged, would fear the child they bore at 16 or 17 — and perhaps never mentioned to their husbands — would come knocking at the door? Or, how many women would welcome the chance to look once again upon the child they were forced by circumstances or society to give up, a baby whom they never gave up in their hearts?

The agency that handled Katrina's adoption predictably denied her request for records. In most states, such records can be opened only by a court order. Adoption agencies say the records are sealed to protect the confidentiality of the mother, child and the adoptive parents.

Then Katrina discovered the Adoptees Liberty Movement Association, (ALMA), founded in 1971 to help the adopted and their natural parents find each other. At last she had found someone sympathetic when she explained she simply wanted the answer to a very simple question: "Who am I?"

She took the adoption agency to court. Her psychiatrist testified that she was becoming more and more despondent, that the court would have the blood of her self-destruction on its hands if the records remained sealed.

But the social worker assigned to the case wrote that Katrina "has hostile feelings towards her natural mother and a reunion would have a detrimental effect on the natural mother and her family."

Nothing Turned Up

The two sides agreed an investigator would look for the mother and the mother would be able to choose whether she wanted to see Katrina. Katrina agreed to pay for the search.

Katrina's mother was living in Mexico City. She received the first contact — a telephone call — in the middle of a dinner party. It was long distance from New York, and a strange voice asked to speak to Ruth Williams Ketiladze Jason. The caller, hearing the voices of the guests, suggested the recipient might wish to take it in another room.

A sixth sense told the mother who the caller was.

"I hope this is what I think it is . . ." were Mrs. Jason's first words. "I hope I have found my little girl."

Ironically, Mrs. Jason had written a letter the week before to ALMA, which is Spanish for soul. Their letters — and the mother and daughter — would have found each other anyway, and without a court fight.

In the letter, Mrs. Jason wrote: "Perhaps my baby, now 39, will never look for me . . . But please tell other adoptees that sometimes they are relinquished from love — and not from rejection at all."

Mrs. Jason caught the first plane from Mexico City to meet and hug the daughter she last saw when the child was two years old and calling another woman "Momma."

As Ruth Williams, she had wanted desperately to keep the baby born out of wedlock. But it was 1935, and her family had insisted that sort of thing was simply not done. It was arranged that she sign adoption papers at birth. She refused. Instead, she volunteered for work in a Salvation Army hospital to be near her daughter. After three months the baby was put in foster homes. Ruth Williams got passes to visit her on Saturdays.

One Saturday, she went to a home with her white slip of paper to visit the daughter she had named Judith Virginia Williams. But the baby wasn't there. She had been moved, once again, to another foster home. She would have six homes in all.

"What an awful, awful life for this infant, this lovely little child, to be shunted from one place to another," Mrs. Jason says. So she signed the papers — out of love, not rejection — papers that would assure her daughter a stable home, papers that would assure she would not see her again.

Until the plane from Mexico City landed in the United States.

Case Still In Court

Katrina's case is still in court. Katrina and her mother say they want the records opened. But the adoption agency says no. It says it must protect the confidentiality of the foster parents. The adoptive parents are dead.

"What nonsense," says Florence Fisher, founder of ALMA. "Whoever heard of the confidentiality of foster parents?"

Katrina's case is a dramatic one — and a happy one. On the other hand, a young woman who lives on Long Island tracked down her mother recently. The mother, upon hearing the news that her child had found her, said: "My god, I wish you had told me I had terminal cancer instead."

The push to break open the records began more than 20 years ago when Jean Paton, an adopted child who successfully found her mother, wrote a book called "The Adopted Break Silence" and founded an organization called "Orphan Voyage."

Momentum Gained

In 1971, the movement gained new impetus when Mrs. Fisher put the following ad in the New York Times: "Adult who was an adopted child desires contact with other adoptees to exchange views on adoptive situation and for mutual assistance in search for natural parents."

Mrs. Fisher says more than 8,000 persons have written since she started ALMA. over 1,800 persons have become members. One-third are mothers looking for the babies they gave away. The rest are adopted adults searching for real parents. A handful of adoptive parents have joined to help their adoptive children search.

Psychological need to gain the records has not been established in the courtroom. The Children's Welfare League, parent organization of some 400 adoption agencies, says the agencies may think about changing their position if sufficient proof can be established regarding the psychological need of the adoptee.

Coeducational Correctional Center Under Construction

CHESHIRE, Conn. (AP) — Connecticut correction officials say coeducation behind bars is one way they hope to make life easier for inmates when they are released.

The state's first coeducational correctional center is under construction here at the site of the old boys' reformatory. The $43-million project will have room for 360 men, aged 16 to 21, and 72 females. The women will be transferred from the Niantic center for women, which is being phased out.

"It's a more normal, a more healthy environment for people to function in. It's more natural than segregating by sex," said Dr. Joseph Hickey, special assistant to Correction Commissioner John Manson.

The new center will have separate sections for men and women, but many of the programs — educational, industrial and recreational — will be coed. There will be no sharing of beds, Dr. Hickey said.

"The more you tend to isolate people from what life is all about in the larger world, the more difficult it is for re-entry for that individual.

"If an individual is absolutely terror-stricken by coming out of prison after three years because clothing styles have changed or he has not had the opportunity to interact with other individuals in a healthy way, with people of the opposite sex, clearly he will have a more difficult time adjusting to life on the outside," said Dr. Hickey.

He said the vast majority of people who return to prison after release fail within the first 90 days of release. He said those who fail knew nobody, had no skills, didn't know how to talk to a woman.

Full details of the coeducational program have yet to be worked out. The male section is supposed to be finished in early 1976, with the female side scheduled to open later that year or early 1977.

Another reason for the two-sex facility is economics. Running a large facility such as Niantic for a relatively small number of people doesn't make sense, said Dr. Hickey. By consolidating services, maintenance and programs at Cheshire, taxpayers save money and the service to inmates is improved.

"A person who has in some way offended or broken the law must in some way be incarcerated or his freedom must be limited in some way," said Dr. Hickey. "The question is, to what degree must we limit freedom and what things should not be limited for the good of the individual himself and again for the society at large.

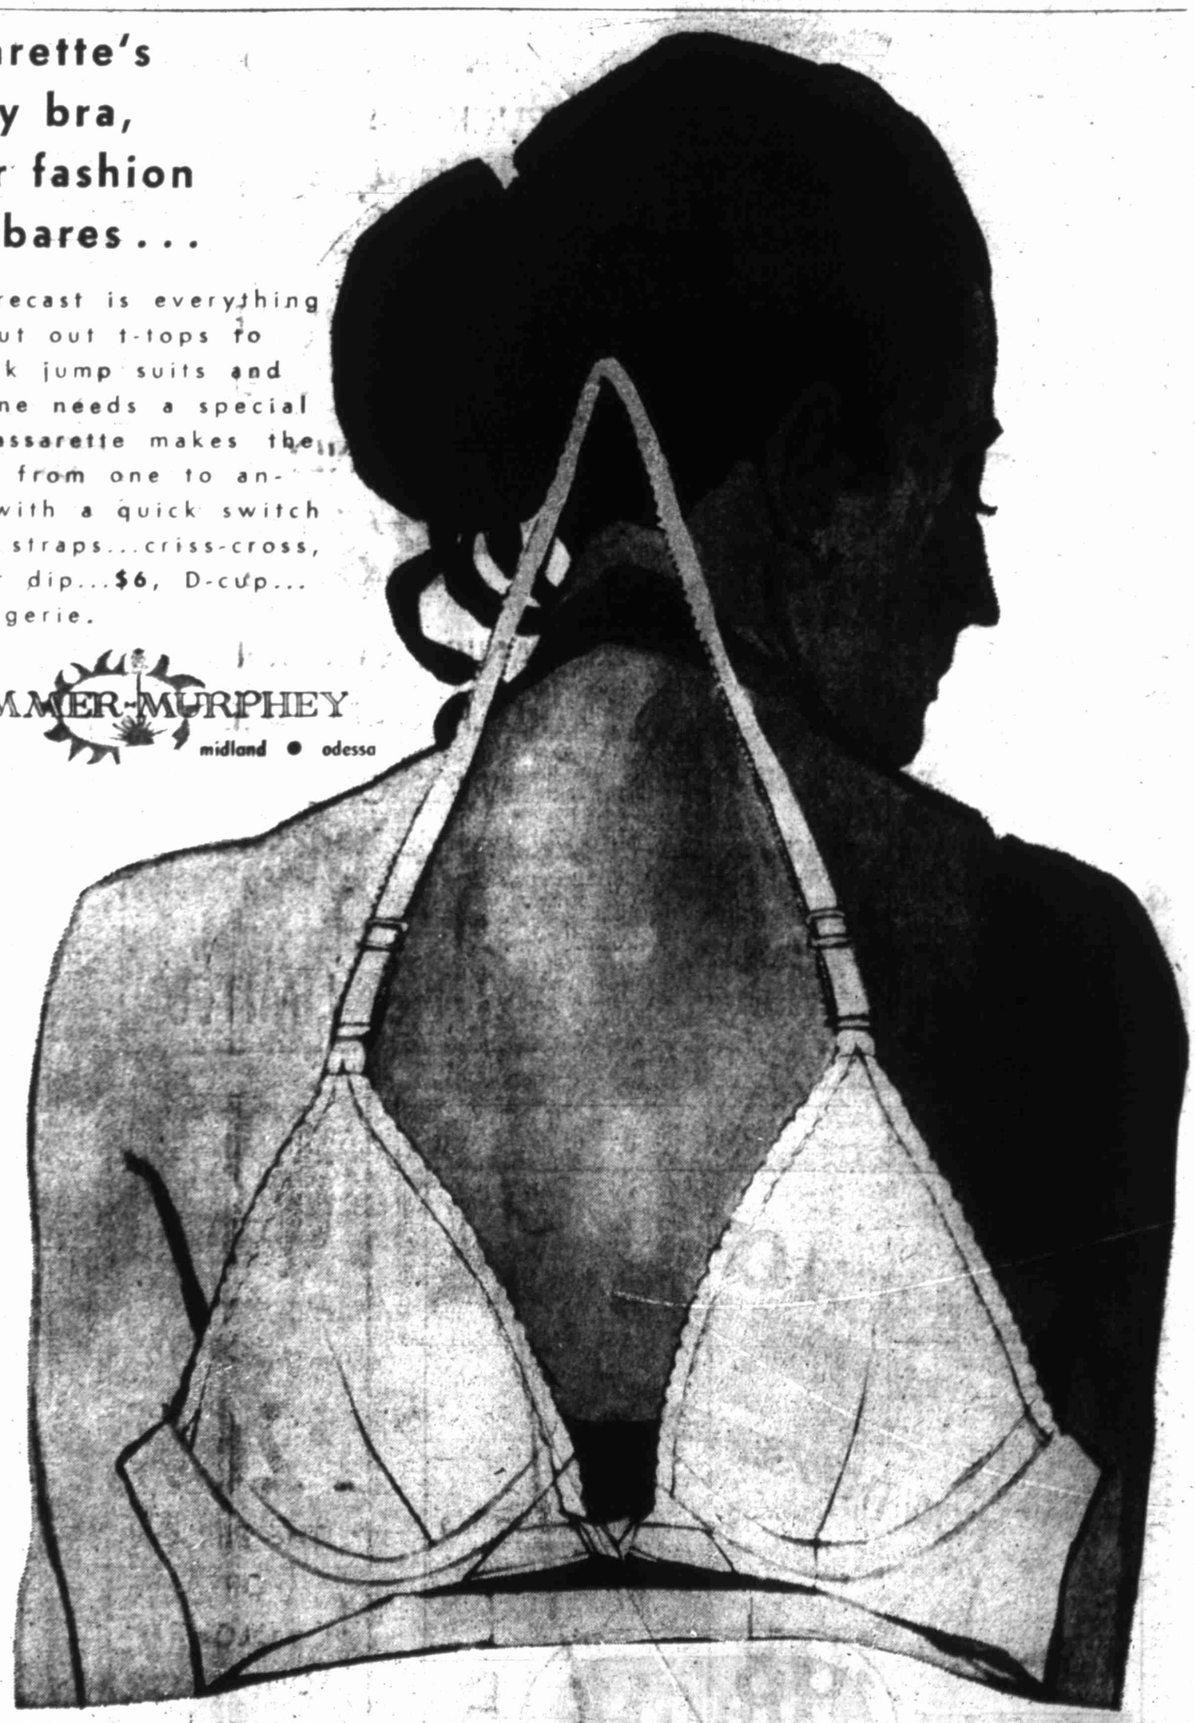

"In this kind of setting, by attempting to limit the number of restrictions or pressures placed on the individual, the chances for successful reintegration should be greater."

All About Weathervanes

In a steady breeze, the familiar weathervane on a farmer's barn may not move for days. But a weathervane in most large cities today would probably spin off its pole. Tall buildings lining canyonlike streets deflect the wind and cause gusts to blow from several directions at once.

Cardinals Lou Brock
. . . . slides into second with record-setting 105th

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

The Midland Reporter-Telegram
SPORTS
2B—WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1974

Brock, who had said he wanted to break Maury Wills' stolen base record before the home fans at Busch Stadium, did just that Tuesday night, stealing second base in the first and seventh innings to boost his season total to 105 — one more than the standard set by Maury Wills in 1962.

"I'm glad to get it over with, although I'd have liked it to be during a winning game," said the incomparable Brock, whose Cards were beaten 8-2 by the Philadelphia Phillies.

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh beat Chicago 12-4, Los Angeles blanked Atlanta 1-0, Cincinnati beat San Diego 5-2, Montreal defeated New York 6-4 and San Francisco edged Houston 6-5 in 11 innings.

Wills said he had mixed emotions about seeing his record broken, but hailed Brock's outstanding performance.

"My hat's off to him," the former Los Angeles Dodgers' infielder said. "I never thought anyone would approach the record this soon, probably not in my lifetime.

After leading off the first inning with a single, he broke for second on the second pitch by Philadelphia right hander Dick Ruthven and easily beat the throw from catcher Bob Boone, which bounced into center field as Brock went to third.

In the seventh inning, Brock again waited until Ruthven had an 0-1 count on Ron Hunt before streaking to second, once again well ahead of Boone's wide throw to the bag.

The thefts by Brock, who has been thrown out 29 times this year, also lifted him to 740 for his career, eclipsing the mark of 738 set by Max Carey of the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1929. Only Ty Cobb, who had 892, and Eddie Collins, who had 743, stole more bases during their major league careers.

Brock's baserunning efforts overshadowed the slugging of Phils third baseman Mike Schmidt, who blasted a two-run homer and two doubles and drove in four runs. He now leads the majors with 35 homers and is tops in the NL with 110 RBI.

Dodgers 1, Braves 0

Don Sutton blanked Atlanta on four hits to raise his record to 15-9 and Ron Cey drove in the game's only run with a single in the second inning.

Reds 5, Padres 2

Pirates 12, Cubs 4

Ken Brett, making his first start since injuring his elbow Aug. 6, tested his arm and his bat Tuesday and found both to be in good working order. He pitched the first six innings of the Pirates' 12-4 rout of the Chicago Cubs, and also rapped out three hits.

Expos 6, Mets 4

Willie Davis slugged a two-run homer and Larry Lintz drove in three runs with two singles to pace the Montreal attack as the Expos tripped the Mets.

15TH SAVE FOR MOFFITT—
Giants Scorch Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — Randy Moffitt earned his 15th save of the year Tuesday night and helped the San Francisco Giants close out their 1974 season in the Astrodome with a 6-5 victory over the Houston Astros.

Moffitt, who must get tired reading that he's Billy Jean King's little brother, came into the game as the Giants' fifth pitcher in the bottom of the 11th with the bases loaded, two outs and his team on the right end of a 6-5 score.

The two clubs had been locked in a 4-4 tie since the eighth inning until the Giants scored two runs in the top of the 11th to pull ahead.

In the Astros' half, Doug Rader doubled to open the inning and Cliff Johnson scored him with a pinch single. Another single by John Edwards and a walk to Greg Gross by reliefer Gary Lavelle filled the bases and brought on Moffitt to face Roger Metzger.

"I tried to pitch him sinking pitches," Moffitt said of Metzger. "I didn't want to strike him out by any means. I surely didn't want to walk him. He always hits me pretty good, but I got him this time."

The Giants scored in the 11th on a single by Ed Goodson, a double by Dave Rader, a single by Tito Fuentes which sent the first run home and a sacrifice fly to right by Bobby Bonds which scored the other.

"I just wanted to hit to the outfield," Bonds said after the game of his fly ball. "I think I hit a sinker."

The Giants scored single runs in the first and second and two more in the third, with Gary Matthews scoring one run and knocking in another.

Battle Scene

By Ted Battles

The game wasn't that close, but we'd kinda like to see more Monday night prime time college football. The pro games on Monday night haven't been all that good the last two years and the college game might prove a refreshing change of pace.

Monday's Notre Dame-Georgia Tech experiment started out like it might turn into a real rouser, contrary to pregame forecasts, when the Yellow Jackets marched to a touchdown from the opening kickoff. They still might have made it interesting if they'd been able to cash in from the three-yard line after a sparkling off-the-cuff scramble by quarterback Danny Meyers.

At the time, the score was only 10-7, Irish, and a touchdown by Tech would have altered the strategic tactics of both sides, although it's doubtful whether the ultimate winner would have changed.

• • •

More than anything else, the game was interesting as a vehicle for Darrell Royal's debut as a tv color analyst and he showed the same type homespun humor that has made Don Meredith a hot-commodity in the world of ex-athletes, who turned commentator.

• • •

When Royal finally wearies of winning Southwest Conference titles and spending his New Year's Days in Dallas, he might have a future at Keith Jackson's elbow.

In fact ABC's system of using a weekly guest college commentator quite possibly is a precaution against coming up with another Duffy Daugherty under a season-long contract. Duffy's post-game and press conference humor at Michigan State made great copy, but he never managed to come across in the same "sure-fire" style in the tv booth.

The present format amounts to an audition for future reference.

Royal must have been biting his tongue over Jackson's repeated references to Notre Dame fullback Wayne Bullock, "Who runs hard as any fullback in the country," exercising admirable restraint at the temptation to retaliate with a mention of his own Roosevelt Leaks.

Royal, however, after two circus catches by tight end Robin Webber, couldn't resist the temptation to mention that the junior from Dallas had been recruited by Texas and got away. One wonders, however, if at Texas he would have had the opportunity to make those eye catchers or the one that brought him national attention in the Sugar Bowl national championship against Alabama last Dec. 31.

• • •

If Royal is to become a household tv word, it's unlikely that he will be permitted to be as blunt as Monday, although we thought he brought it off pretty unobtrusively for a verbal karate chop.

• • •

Notre Dame had just scored to take a 31-7 lead and Darrell observed, "I notice Notre Dame still has its first team defense in there. I guess that's a case of too much being not enough."

Royal must have gotten cautioning word from the control tower in a hurry. With Notre Dame on the Tech five, an overzealous second string quarterback, anxious to impress, killed the clock with two seconds left.

The quarterback's attempt to extract the last measure from a mortally wounded foe even embarrassed Ara, who could hear the background chorus of boos. As the back came to the sidelines, you could see Ara wave the player back on the field and almost hear him say, "Call a quarterback sneak and get it over with."

Rebels Face Big Chore In Snyder's Cobb Friday

Snyder beat Midland Lee, 27-7 the Rebels' preparations this week, last year and if revenge is providing the motivation for to mentioning it yet.

That's probably because Welton Cobb is back and he's the kind of player who reduces football to a game of basics, such as winning and losing, leaving such luxuries as revenge a bonus that might be thought about after it's all over.

"One of the best running backs in the state," is the way Lee Coach Jim Acree ranks the six-foot, 200-pounder. "He has 9.5 speed and last week he got loose three times against Monahans and it was 21-0.

"The only question about Cobb seems to be whether he's a better offensive player or linebacker."

Cobb has a big, strong ball club as a supporting cast with a lefthanded quarterback named Win Bunch, who throws well and likes to run.

Acree was pleased with the Rebels' defensive play in last week's 26-0 win over Lubbock but "We'll have to do a super job this week."

Lee did about all that could be expected of a team last week, but Lubbock was down and hurting and really wasn't that much of a challenge. Still, it was one of those games a coach welcomes now and then since it provides an opportunity to give the reserves an opportunity to log some combat time and the Rebs did that in playing 41 of the 48 players suited up.

Lee came out of the game

Off To A Good Start

This corner knew better than to go against the Odessa High Bronchos last week, but picked Amarillo to keep from hitting all eight games involving District 5-4A teams. All was not lost however in hitting 39 out of 48 games for an .851 percentage.

So with a little bit more courage built up, here goes the second weekend of picking Class AAAA schoolboy games. Got to brag a little in picking Conroe over Austin Reagan and Killeen over Seguin.

• • •

Rebs, MHS To Win Again

Midland made a great debut in Amarillo, taking care of the Tascosa Rebels. This week the opponent will be weaker so the Purple Pack should roll to an easy 35-6 victory over Ysleta Eastwood's Troopers. Eastwood lost to Las Cruces Mayfield, 28-7. Mike Gaddy, Mike Hudspeth and Co. should win big.

Midland Lee also got off to an impressive start, but this week's opponent could be tough especially if Welton Cobb has a great night and the big 200-pound sprinter is a dandy. Lee to chalk up its second win of the season, 27-13 over the Tigers in Snyder.

San Angelo blanked a strong South Oak Cliff team from Dallas last week and faces an even tougher outfit in the Killeen Kangaroos. Got to go with the Bobcats to win, however, say 21-13.

Abilene Cooper opened with a 14-0 win over Brownwood and should have easier time with Fort Worth Southwest Friday night in Shotwell Stadium. The Cougars to win, 26-8.

Abilene, under new Coach Bill Shipman, meets Irving MacArthur Friday and not too much is known about the Cardinals. Going with Abilene to take a 20-14 victory to stay unbeaten.

Big Spring entertains the Hobbs, N.M. Eagles and this corner is afraid the Steers will be the first 5-4A outfit to fall. Going with the Eagles to post a 27-16 victory over Bob Burris' eleven.

Odessa Permian meets the Amarillo Sandies for the first time in history in the Panhandle City Friday night. The Sandies to fall to their second Odessa team in two weeks, 28-0. The Panthers still are having offensive troubles, but had some big plays against El Paso Coronado last week.

Odessa takes on Class AAA Andrews and the Bronchos have too much size and muscle. Last year OHS won, 27-20. This time around, it will be 27-7 in favor of the Red Hosses.

Johnson's Homer Sinks Sox For Yanks, 2-1

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Alex Johnson, acquired just Monday from the Texas Rangers, went to work on Tuesday night in a New York Yankee uniform and hit a game-winning home run.

"You have to get lucky sometime," said Johnson after his 420-foot belt in the 12th inning brought the Yankees a dramatic, 2-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

The tremendous blast gave the Yankees a two-game lead over both the Red Sox and Baltimore Orioles in the hot American League east race.

The Orioles lost a 6-5, 10-inning decision to the Milwaukee Brewers to fall into a second-place tie with the Red Sox.

In Tuesday night's other American League games, the Cleveland Indians bombed the Detroit Tigers 12-6; the Minnesota Twins beat the Chicago White Sox 8-7 in 15 innings and the California Angels trimmed the Kansas City Royals 8-2.

Johnson's game-winning blast, his fifth homer of the baseball season, came off reliever Diego Segui, 7-7. The victory went to Pat Dobson, 16-14, who won his sixth straight game with last-inning relief help from Sparky Lyle. Dobson gave up four hits in 11 innings.

Brewers 6, Orioles 5

Johnny Briggs walked to open the Milwaukee 10th and moved to second on a bunt sacrifice by Bob Coluccio. Lezcano then singled to right to score Briggs with the game-winner.

Indians 12, Tigers 6

Cleveland reached Detroit's Mickey Lolich for five runs on six straight singles in the second inning and went on to beat Detroit.

Lolich, who had won his four previous decisions against Cleveland this season, retired the leadoff batter in the second inning before Buddy Bell, Joe Lis, Frank Duffy, Angel Hermoso, John Jeter and Gamble singled. That put Cleveland in front 6-2 and chased Lolich, 10-13.

Twins 8, White Sox 7

Angels 8, Royals 2

Joe Lahoud drove in five runs to lead California over Kansas City. Frank Tanana, 11-17, was the winner with relief help from Orlando Pena.

Lee, MHS JV's Clash Thursday

The Midland Bullpups take on the Midland Lee junior varsity in Memorial Stadium Thursday at 4 p.m. to get the football season under way for the under classmen.

Both Lee and Midland are reported to have promising outfits with both Tall City elevens faring well in scrimmages two weeks ago against Lubbock Coronado and Snyder.

Four junior varsity teams got the jump on the rest of the district last week with Odessa Permian blanking the Hobbs, N.M. JV, 27-6, in Hobbs while Odessa beat Monahans, 28-13 and Abilene's JV bombed the San Angelo JV, 27-6.

All are in action this week with a full schedule of games on tap to get the season officially under way.

Aussies' Southern Cross Suffers Shocking Loss

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — An Australian real estate promoter made it known months ago he would spend as much as $9 million to dislodge the America's Cup from the United States.

He also may use a few more strong words to go with his money, the words being aimed at the Yankee crew manning the Courageous, a boat that very well may send him home in frustration.

Alan Bond already has spent an estimated $6 million in his challenge to win the 123-yearold Cup, but in Tuesday's first race in a best-of-seven series his gold-colored Southern Cross went down in shocking defeat.

Courageous, with crack helmsmen Ted Hood and Dennis Connor in control, outdistanced the Aussie challenger by 4 minutes and 54 seconds in light wind and came home at least one-half mile ahead.

The two boats were to race the second heat beginning at 12:10 p.m. today over a 24.3-mile course located some seven miles offshore in Rhode Island Sound.

"We're not discouraged," Bond said after the first race. "The crew hasn't lost its confidence. We made some purely human errors, and we won't make them again in the next race."

But Bond saved his strongest words for Connor. He accused the American of shouting such phrases as "false start, false start" as the two boats maneuvered around the starting line.

"I don't know what he was trying to do, or to prove, but if he does it again, I'm going to file a protest," Bond promised.

Better sailing weather was expected for today's start. The forecast was for winds up to 16 knots, giving both boats a chance to operate at peak efficiency.

The start of the first race was delayed by heavy fog on Rhode Island Sound and the two yachts didn't get away until 2:10 p.m., the latest possible time they could have started under terms of the match.

The Americans have successfully defended the Cup 21 times since it was brought to this country in 1851 and over that time have won 67 races to only seven by all the challengers combined.

ROUGH WEEK ON LEADERS—

Rankin Climbs To 9th In A

By The Associated Press

Nine teams in The Associated Press Preseason Schoolboy Football Poll took it on the chin in the first week of the season and two others played each other to a 6-6 tie.

But none of the mishaps involved the top ranked teams as John Tyler in Class AAAA, Brazosport in Class AAA, Newton in Class AA, Falls City in Class A and Big Sandy in Class B, all won and held their No. 1 positions in this week's poll.

Corpus Christi Moody, the preseason pick for fourth place in Class AAAA, lost its opener to San Antonio Roosevelt 13-7 and dropped to 10th this week. Houston Washington, tied for eighth a week ago, lost its opener and dropped from the list.

Iowa Park was the big loser in Class AAA, dropping from third place out of the poll after a 54-0 shellacking from Wichita Falls Ride, the fifth ranked team in AAAA.

Other first week casualties included Alpine and Magnolia in Class AA, West Sabine and Plains in Class A and rule and Sudan in Class B.

Groom, ranked fifth in Class B last week, jumped to fifth after battling Vega, last week's No. 9 team in Class A, to a 6-6 tie. Sundown knocked off No. 8 Sudan in a Class B game and moved into the standings at No. 9 this week.

without any serious injuries. Tailback Blain Murray suffered a leg injury early in the third quarter, was back in practice Tuesday and will be ready Friday. End Terry Nelson, who missed last week's game with a bad leg, is showing improvement but is a questionmark.

Among highlights of last week's win was the quarterbacking of Greg Rendall. "I think Greg answered a lot of those who wondered if he could handle our offense," Acree said.

Acree pointed out that nose guard Buster Mathis "did as fine a job as we have done at nose guard in some time. He added a lot of variety to our defensive play there."

Game movies showed that Max (Houndog) McLane's pressure from a defensive end did much to keep Lubbock from generating anything resembling a consistent defense.

On Milton Jones' 76-yard touchdown run in the second period, blocks by end Jim Kreuz, Rendall and center Roger Linton made it possible.

Redwings Know About No-Hitters

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The Rochester Red Wings of the International League know all about no-hit games. They have been involved in three of them this season. Chuck Ross of Pawtucket blanked them 4-0 on July 21.

Punt Returns

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Razorbacks football team specialized in punt returns during the 1960s. The UA had the Southwest Conference individual punt return leader for seven consecutive years, beginning in 1960.

Cougars Try Owls Next

HOUSTON (AP) — University of Houston Coach Bill Yeoman could dust off the Cougar football history book of the 1969 season to help inspire his team for Saturday's game against the Rice Owls.

The 1974 Cougars went into their season opener last Saturday against Arizona State as the 11th ranked team in The Associated Press poll and much preseason buildup. The Sun Devils blew it all away in a 30-7 victory.

"I think 1969 was somewhat similar," Yeoman told the Houston Sports Writers and Sportscasters Association Tuesday. "Nobody had ever talked about us and here were getting all this attention. We lost our first two games so quickly you wouldn't believe it."

Yeoman said the Cougars went into the Arizona State game "soft-headed" and they had better toughen up by Saturday's meeting with their cross-town foes.

WORK WITH JUNIORS — Seated, from left, Tournament Chairman Yvonne Garton and Keith Diepraam (MCC pro) and, standing, Jim Hill (Racquet Club pro) and Ronnie Houdek (MHS coach) are the coaches and pros, who along with Lee Coach Bobby Connell, will be working with junior tennis players in new tennis format. Juniors and their parents will meet at 10 a.m. Saturday at MHS to discuss the program and a week later a Mixed Doubles Tournament will be held to help raise funds to finance the program.

The first annual Midland Mixed Doubles Tournament will be held Sept. 20, 21, 22 at the Midland High and Midland Lee tennis courts with entries to close at 6 p.m. Monday. Entries should be made as a team.

The tournament will be for the benefit of the Texas Girls youth Development West Zone, which is now under the National Tennis Foundation Youth Tennis Grand Prix.

The tournament will be sponsored by the Midland National Bank.

Entries should be made as a team and the fee is $15 per couple. Entries should be mailed to Mrs. Donald M. Garton, 2903 Douglas, Midland.

Play begins Friday (Sept. 20) at 5 p.m. to determine flight and flight play begins Saturday and continues through Sunday. All teams are guaranteed three matches.

A field of 128 teams will qualify for either the Davis Cup (winners bracket) or Wightman Cup (losers bracket) flights. Tentatively, three rounds of play are schedule Sept. 21, which would leave eight teams in the championship and consolation brackets for Sunday's play.

The tournament is a relatively painless way to raise funds for the promotion of the junior tennis program which the executive committee of the Texas Tennis Assn. approved last month. The NTF Youth Tennis Grand Prix is a statewide competition program for both boys and girls and is the fourth in a series of national programs being developed by utilizing the NTF tennis rating system.

Texas will be divided into eight zones, in this program, and each zone will be divided into eight districts. A minimum of three rounds of competition will be scheduled the first year, with a round consisting of a district, zone, and section tournament, within a time frame of six months.

Mrs. Garton will serve as the chairwoman of the West Zone while James Bramlett and Stan Fox will be the district boys chairmen and Jean Henderson will be the district chairwoman. The West Zone will be comprised of eight districts, Midland, Big Spring, Andrews, San Angelo, Abilene the firm districts, while the other three districts will come from Monahans, Marfa, Brownwood, Snyder or Odessa.

The NTF program is the first attempt to standardize a national youth program wherein each section's top players meet in a national grand prix summer circuit leading up to and including the USLTA nationals.

Players benefit from this program format in that there is no absence from school (the draws are held on weekends), competition is at three levels, a minimum of travel, advancement for better players, a continuous feed in and good competition on a regular basis at their ability level.

Offensive Line Scores Well On Film

By BOB DILLON

Coach John Reddell narrated the Midland-Tascosa film and then warned the Bulldog fans not to take Ysleta Eastwood lightly Friday night.

"We were proud of the team and the offensive line graded out as high as any that I have coached," said Reddell during the Bulldog Booster Club Meeting Tuesday night in the MHS Cafeteria. Reddell cited the offensive line play of Bruce Smith, Tom Dunlap, Bill Newberry, Holt Cowden and Bill Rhotenberry. Smith and Dunlap graded 91s while Newberry, Cowden and Rhotenberry all received grades of 87 each.

"The defensive unit played real well too," commented Reddell with linebackers Mitch Irvin and Sam Zachery coming up with 13 tackles each. James Zachery also performed well," quipped Reddell.

Assistant Coach Arlen Dickson gave a scouting report on Eastwood, Midland's opponent Friday night in the Bulldogs' home opener. Dickson reminded Bulldog followers that the Troopers won't forget last year's whipping the Pack gave them in El Paso.

"They (Eastwood) are big and very capable. They scored first on Las Cruces Mayfield and the New Mexico power had to score twice on passes in the final period to win, 28-7. "Eastwood runs out of a broken wishbone offense and the wishbone too and has a big, strong fullback in Jerry Oxner, a 195-pound senior who runs with plenty of authority," said Dickson. Dickson went on to point out that scatback Carlos Tinajero was good and had good speed. "They line up and run right at you and have god size in

Fighting Irish Vault To Second

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Notre Dame's defending national champions climbed into second place in The Associated Press college football rankings today, closing in on preseason leader Oklahoma.

The Fighting Irish, No. 1 a year ago but third in the 1974 preseason poll, was the only member of the Top Ten to see action as the season got under way last weekend. Notre Dame defeated Georgia Tech 31-7 Monday night.

Oklahoma continued to lead with 22 first-place votes and 917 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. Notre Dame received 17 first-place votes and 863 points.

Longhorns Check Leaks

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Doctors will take another look today at the injured right knee of fullback Roosevelt Leaks and decide whether the All-American can play football this season.

Leaks was injured six months ago and doctors told Coach Darrell Royal that his fullback probably would miss the entire season. However, Roosevelt's rehabilitation is going at a faster pace than anticipated.

Royal has not included Leaks in his 1974 plans. He announced this week that Tyler superfreshman Earl Campbell would start at fullback in the Longhorns' opener against Boston College next Saturday.

"We will start Earl Campbell Saturday and we have no question of that," Royal said Tuesday. "If Roosevelt is given the go-ahead, we still don't know how he will react to contact."

Royal said Leaks would definitely see scrimmage action before he ever participates in a game. He said that playing a single down in a game would count against Leaks' last year of eligibility.

TURK CUTS DEEP SWATH—

NFL Exodus Gains Momentum

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

And some are just beginning.

Tuesday's exodus from NFL training camps resembled the mass departure of tourists from their last weekend of summer vacation. With uncertain futures ahead, nearly 100 players — who missed that key block, dropped that clutch pass or fumbled once too often — left pro locker rooms for the last time.

No respect for the past was shown as coaches pared their rosters to the 47-player limit. One-time stars joined one-time scrubs in the classless society of the also-ran.

Running back Leroy Kelly became the fourth most productive rusher in NFL history with the Cleveland Browns. But the Browns put him on waivers early this summer and Kelly latched on with the Oakland Raiders.

But even he couldn't cut fast enough to avoid the biggest tackle of all Tuesday. Although the Raiders' policy is not to announce squad cuts, a list of 14 departures was compiled from men absent from Tuesday's practice.

Green Bay Packers veteran center Ken Bowman, the team's player representative and an outspoken voice in the players association strike, was placed on the injured reserve list due to a back injury and won't see action this year.

The last of the original New Orleans Saints and another player rep, guard Del Williams, retired after he lost his job.

Ten-year veteran quarterback Pete Beathard suffered a similar fate at Kansas City's camp, but immediately signed with the World Football League Portland Storm. Another quarterback and WFL signee, Randy Johnson, was cut by the Giants, who then traded for Green Bay reserve signal caller Jim Del Gaizo.

The Giants also dropped their player representative. Running back Charlie Evans was cut, along with backfielder Rocky Thompson. Of the 40 players on the roster when New York's season ended last year, 24 no longer are with the club and 18 rookies have new jobs.

The Giants' cross-town rivals, the New York Jets, dropped safety Chris Farasopoulos, punter Julian Pagan, linebacker Rob Spicer and defensive tackle Joe Jackson. Eleven rookies made the Jets' opening roster.

Then there was more trading, which seemed as hectic as the wheeling and dealing on Wall Street.

The San Francisco 49ers sent punt return specialist Cecil Turner to the Philadelphia Eagles; the Minnesota Vikings swapped veteran defensive back Charlie West to the Detroit Lions for a draft choice, the Chiefs traded wide receiver Robert West to San Francisco for a draft choice, and the Dallas Cowboys acquired place kicker Mac Percival from the Bears for future considerations.

the line with their defensive ends weighing 211 and 205. "They have a big tackle in Tom Adams, a 245-pound junior," added Dickson. Dickson closed by reminding the gathering that three or four years ago, Midland whipped Eastwood in Midland and then the Pack went out to El Paso and lost, 31-15.

Reddell pretty-well summed up the meeting by urging the fans to come and see Friday's game, stating that it might be a better game than most people think. "We are capable of winning, but any team with the size that Eastwood has, is also capable of winning too, especially if they get the kind of breaks we got last year in El Paso."

Terps, Bucks, Trojans Picked To Win Openers

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

NEW YORK (AP) — With defending national champion Notre Dame already having opened its season, the rest of the Top Ten teams get a chance to play catchup this weekend.

Notre Dame's 31-7 triumph over Georgia Tech lifted the Fighting Irish from third to second in The Associated Press rankings and the 917-863 point margin is a little too close for comfort as far as No.1-ranked Oklahoma is concerned.

No it couldn't, Barry. Oklahoma . . . 42-14.

The 1974 forecasting began last week with a 14-4-1 record for a percentage of .778. Kent State's 21-14 triumph over Central Michigan was picked on the nose.

Notre Dame has this week off but No. 3 Alabama begins Bear Bryant's 30th season as a head coach — 17th at 'Bama — on the road against a Maryland team that has been picked in many quarters to win the Atlantic Coast Conference championship and is coached by Jerry Claiborne, one of Bryant's former players and pupils.

Bryant says he isn't happy with his team, and moans and groans like that generally portend an Alabama romp, but it says here this will be the first Upset Special of the Year . . . Maryland 27-24.

Southern California 28, Arkansas 14: John McKay says his offensive line "is not in condition to play" and pooh-poohs the Trojans' role as two-touchdown favorites by saying the oddsmakers "must think I'm lying."

Michigan 56, Iowa 0: Big Ten athletic directors won't have to vote on this one. Hawkeyes lost all 11 last fall and waiting behind Michigan for new coach Bob Commings are UCLA, Penn State and Southern Cal.

Nebraska 38, Oregon 21: "They've put in the Veer and we're not sure exactly what we're going to see," says Nebraska's Tom Osborne. Oregon knows it will see plenty of Dave Humm's passing and Tony Davis' running.

Louisiana State 24, Colorado 14: It's not true that Eddie Crowder turned the Colorado coaching reins over to Bill Mallory because the schedule starts with road games at LSU and Michigan. How could you think a thing like that?

Texas 35, Boston College 14: Ready or not, Roosevelt Leaks won't play. "There's no way I'd dare put a guy in a game without any contact work," says Texas' Darrell Royal of his All-American fullback. Hot-shot freshman Earl Campbell will take Leaks' place but the rushing star of the game could be B.C.'s Mike Esposito.

Briscoe Okayed Wine For Banquet

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — They worried whether Gov. Dolph Briscoe would allow wine. Then there was the problem of converting a giant indoor tennis court into "a Southern plantation garden."

In all, it cost $50,000 to put on a state dinner for the Southern Governors' Conference in keeping with somebody's idea of elegance—including strolling violinists and parading white-gloved black waiters.

A virtually all-white crowd of 600 governors, staff members, guests and reporters dined on lobster salad, beef Wellington and flaming baked Alaska. Then they watched "The Journey of Lyndon Johnson."

Despite initial worries about objections from Baptist host Gov. Dolph Briscoe of Texas and Mrs. Briscoe, they also drank glasses of California Cabernet Sauvignon wine.

As the orchestra struck up the "Col. Bogey March," two dozen waiters paraded single file through the doors behind the head table, each holding two bottles of wine aloft.

Carlo Morelli of Kansas City, who made the arrangements for the dinner, said he put together a menu that went light on the use of alcohol but did feel wine was necessary.

"I spent a lot of sleepless nights trying to figure out how best to present it to the governor. When I finally got the nerve to present it in writing, he said, 'That's excellent,'" Morelli recalled.

He said the food, wine and service cost $30,000, with a total bill of "around $50,000, turnkey" for the whole affair, counting decoration, planning, printing, entertainment and a multi-media slide show giving each governor an ego-massaging introduction.

Jetton's of Dallas prepared the meal, Morelli said.

Bill Crown of Houston, director of special events for Freeman Decorating Co., a Des Moines-based firm, said it was his task to find a way to transform the indoor tennis court into a banquet hall.

"I said, 'Let's turn it into a Southern plantation garden,'" Crown said.

His project included a 28-foot high by 60-foot wide backdrop behind the head tables, painted to resemble an ante-bellum plantation, complete with slave quarters—or, as Crown put it, "servants' quarters."

"To give it further cognizance, those trees you see on the side were cut yesterday afternoon . . . We cut them out back and almost got shot by the Texas Rangers," Crown chuckled.

Southern Governors To End Annual Conference Today

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Southern governors close out their 40th annual session today still agreed that their big regional problems are generally the same as the nation's inflation and energy.

New and old policy stands to be taken by the 17 states and the Virgin Islands in the Southern Governors' Conference will come in action on 16 proposed resolutions just before the meeting ends at noon.

Most attention was directed at a proposed demand for a national energy policy with oil-producing and coal-producing states differing on how strong it should be.

Social activities, which were a substantial part of the conference agenda, ended Tuesday night with the traditional State Dinner honoring the governors and their wives. After a gourmet meal, wine and flaming desserts, the chief executives watched a film on the life of former President Lyndon B. Johnson. Mrs. Johnson was a special guest.

During the three-day conference at Lakeway resort, on Lake Travis 25 miles northwest of Austin, much attention has been diverted from the planned program by current national affairs. First, there was the pardon given former President Nixon and then Tuesday the news that the White House was considering pardons for all Watergate principals. Comments were varied but those who supported President Ford in Nixon's pardon were much less sure on a blanket pardon for others.

Politics provided another diversion with the appearance Monday of National Democratic Chairman Robert Strauss for a closed door luncheon with Democratic governors. He was followed the next day by one of Ford's top advisers, Kenneth R. Cole Jr., who huddled with Republican governors, and any others who would listen.

Cole predicted the states would get revenue-sharing money again from the federal government but only after a fight in Congress. "There are some people who are opposed to it, who think Washington has all the answers," Cole said.

Odessa Council Sets Up Hospital Zoning District

The action followed a joint meeting of the council and the Planning and Zoning Board.

Councilmen and planning board members established criteria for types of land use that can exist in the hospital zone.

They said the action was necessary because a $20.4-million expansion and renovation of the county hospital will take in some property now being used for other purposes.

Letters From 'Porno Bombers' Given To FBI

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The Bexar County district attorney has turned over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation a letter from an anonymous writer threatening to blow up bookstores or movie houses dealing with pornographic materials.

Typewritten letters were received Tuesday by Dist. Atty. Ted Butler, the San Antonio News and KSAT-Tv from a person or group using the name Students to Overthrow Pornography.

Butler said there was no way to determine if the letters "were sent by a crank." He turned over his copy to the FBI and sent copies to the Sheriff's office and the Police Department.

The letter listed movie houses showing PG, R, and X rated movies, bookstores selling pornographic literature, and television stations showing "questionable" movies as targets of the group's sabotage campaigns.

"Violence is the only language being understood today," the letters said.

The group described itself as "concerned citizens" said it had waited for government, church and civic groups to improve the community.

The letters said the group would begin sabotage by bombing and other methods.

Lions District Governor Visits

Jim Lemmons of Big Spring, governor of District 2-A1, Lions International, was the speaker Tuesday at the meeting of the Midland Evening Lions Club at the Ramada Inn. It was a ladies-night function.

"If I had Only Known" was the subject of the governor's address.

In his message, Lemmons discussed "missed opportunities" of life and emphasized what could have been achieved if only the persons involved had taken advantage of them.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Nipp of Midland were special guests at the meeting. He is the immediate past district governor. A number of other district and zone officials also were introduced.

Dodge Dart One Of Era's Successes

Whether it comes in the conventional no-frills, four-door sedan, as originally introduced, the luxury-appointed Special Edition that rivals much more expensive European sedans, or even the semi-fastback, two-door coupe Dart Sport version, Dart retains an appeal that shows no sign of fading in 1975.

Counting the familiar Swinger two-door hardtop series and Custom sedans, and Sport coupes equipped with the Rallye, Convertriple or Hang Ten and Caravan Tan decorator packages, the Dart compacts continue to be Dodge's biggest selling nameplate.

"Dart's wide range of eight models, its compact economy, resale value and history of dependability provides incentive for many car shoppers to break away from traditional buying habits," said Richard D. McLaughlin, general sales manager.

Sports Order Of Day For Lions

Sports — with emphasis on football — was the order of the day at the meeting of the Midland Downtown Lions Club today noon in the American Legion Hall.

The speakers were head coach John Reddell of Midland High School; Jim Acree, head coach at Lee High School, and Chester Story, athletic director at Midland College.

Reddell and Acree cited highlights of their opening football games played last Friday night (both teams won handily), and discussed training, personnel, schedule, and season prospects of their respective teams.

Livestock Leaders Call Mass Meeting Friday In Texas City

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Tex. (AP) — Noting that some dairymen have been forced to quit business and others may follow suit, livestock industry leaders have called a mass meeting Friday in this Northeast Texas city.

One of the sponsors is the Texas Farm Bureau and its secretary, Vera Johnson, said, "This is not just scare talk—it's a real emergency. I don't know what we're going to do."

Arrangements for the town meeting on the county courthouse square were made after five dairymen here in Hopkins County—which boasts it is the home of the nation's biggest dairy herd—went out of business in the past month.

The fate of the dairymen was attributed to declining milk prices and climbing feed costs, and men close to the situation say more than two dozen other dairy operators could be driven to the same course before the year ends.

"There is going to be a milk shortage if we're forced to sell off milk cows for hamburger meat," Vera Johnson said.

She explained that dairy producers obtain $1.07 in milk for every $1 spent on feed and said the return must be $1.50 to $2 for even a slim profit.

Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has agreed to speak at Friday's meeting, which sponsors hope will draw about 10,000 persons.

Spokesmen for the dairymen have asked help from White to halt imports of dairy and beef products, restrain exports of feed grains 60 to 90 days or longer if necessary to determine the size of the present crop, and steps to gain farmers and ranchers more equitable shares of what consumers pay for farm products.

Dallas Voters Nix Commuter Tax

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas voters have decided that residents of suburban areas should not have to pay a commuter tax merely because they work in Dallas.

At the same time, the voters of this city rejected Tuesday another proposal that called for collective bargaining rights for policemen.

Official voting results late Tuesday indicated that the proposal to impose a commuter tax on residents of suburbs of Dallas was defeated by an impressive margin, 32,816 to 10,049. The proposal to grant policemen collective bargaining rights also lost by a wide margin, 31,807 to 11,163.

City officials described the voter turnout as heavy. Voters crowded the polling places in spite of the rainy weather that hit the metropolitan area.

The commuter tax had sparked a controversy since it was first proposed. Residents of suburban areas objected to it saying that they would have no voice on how their tax dollars would be spent by Dallas officials. The most vocal defender of the proposal was Mayor Pro Tem George Allen who said residents of cities around Dallas should pitch in to help maintain municipal services.
