Texas Oil Allowable Increased

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission responded to buyers demands today by raising the statewide oil allowable for August to 69.9 per cent of potential, halting a three-month decline in the allowable.

There were reports that the increase was due to uncertainty again about the availability of oil from the Arab countries.

The August allowable will permit maximum production of 3,602,296 barrels a day next month, compared to 3,267,033 this month under a 55.5 per cent production factor.

Eight of the 14 major purchasers of Texas crude oil asked for more oil in August than this month, five sought the same amount and only one requested less oil next month than in July.

Written nominations for Texas crude totaled 3,201,532 barrels a day in August, an increase of 107,179 from July. The U.S. Bureau of Mines forecast for August that the demand for Texas crude was 3.4 million barrels daily, an increase of 50,000 from this month.

Nominations were raised an additional 18,997 barrels a day from the floor, however, as Texaco raised its request by 15,000 and Rock Island Oil Co. sent a telegram asking for 3,997 more barrels a day.

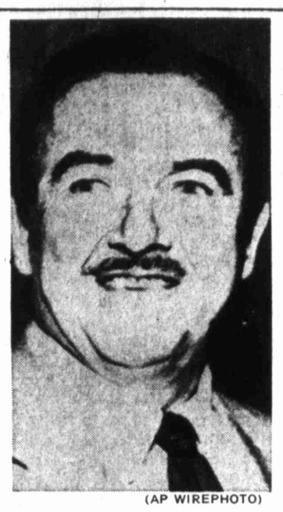

Commission chairman Ben Ramsey confirmed reports that the higher allowable was due to rising tanker rates and the need for "more cheap domestic oil."

The soaring world tanker rates reportedly were brought about partly by Libyan government orders for foreign companies in that African nation to cut production. This has forced European countries to seek oil from the Persian Gulf and shifted oil tankers from the short Libya-Europe trek to the long haul around Africa.

Refusal by Syria to permit the repair of a pipeline system from the Persian Gulf to eastern Mediterranean ports also has forced more long tanker trips around Africa and it has become a seller's market for the tanker owners.

The Arab-Israeli War also resulted three years ago in higher Texas oil production as the flow of foreign oil was interrupted.

The allowable had dipped from 68 per cent in April to 64.5 for May, 59 in June and the current 55.5 per cent factor and no upturn appeared in sight until the effects of the African situation reached here.

Church Views Decline In Finances

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Declining membership, inflation and widespread rebellion against authority were blamed Tuesday for a $1 million decline in contributions to the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ).

Dr. Spencer P. Austin of Indianapolis, executive secretary of the denomination's financial unit, told the church General Board that operating fund contributions were down 5 per cent and capital project receipts declined 20 per cent.

Austin said a 10 per cent membership loss and widespread rebellion against teachers, police, politicians, "every form of leadership," helped cause the decline in income.

"It would be unthinkable that the church would not reflect any of these struggles," Dr. Austin said.

S. Viets Launch Major Attack On Base Camps

American Advisers Assist Operation

SAIGON (AP) — Nearly 5,000 South Vietnamese troops launched a major new sweep today, seeking to destroy North Vietnamese base camps in rugged jungle country west of Da Nang.

Kicking off one of the biggest operations in months in the northern provinces, waves of U.S. Marine helicopters landed the assault troops and their American advisers shortly after daylight in an area 25 to 40 miles east of the Laotian frontier. No major allied operations have taken place there in years.

Only light contact was reported in the early hours of the operation.

MERCENARIES

The attack force included three battalions of South Vietnamese marines recently withdrawn from Cambodia and two battalions of Vietnamese special forces troops, the mercenaries paid by the United States and trained and led by U.S. Green Berets.

Their primary targets were two North Vietnamese base areas west and southwest of Thuong Duc. It is the site of a Special Forces camp which was under sporadic rocket and mortar fire until about two weeks ago.

Col. Nguyen Van Thien, the commander of the operation, said his force was taking advantage of good weather to spoil potential enemy buildups for large ground attacks such as they have almost always made in August.

ANOTHER PUSH

South Vietnamese officers also took the wraps off another operation, a three-battalion push that began Sunday west of Hiep Duc, which is 35 miles south of Da Nang. A district town, Hiep Duc has been attacked repeatedly since the first of the year and during May was partially occupied for five days by North Vietnamese troops.

No contact with the enemy was reported in this operation.

Spokesmen in Saigon reported that enemy activity across the country was the lightest in several months, with the only sharp fighting involving U. S. forces. In four contacts, one American and 20 of the enemy were killed, and 13 Americans were wounded, the U.S. Command said.

IN CAMBODIA

South Vietnamese forces in Cambodia reported killing 27 enemy troops in a series of clashes northeast of Krek, a rubber plantation center along the border in the Fishhook area 70 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

While the Cambodian government in Phnom Penh was claiming that its forces had retaken most of Kiri Rom, the mountain resort 50 miles west of Phnom Penh, Associated Press correspondent John T. Wheeler reported from the battle zone that the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces that overran the mountaintop Saturday had savagely mauled government forces trying to retake the resort and had sent two battalions of troops reeling back down the mountainside.

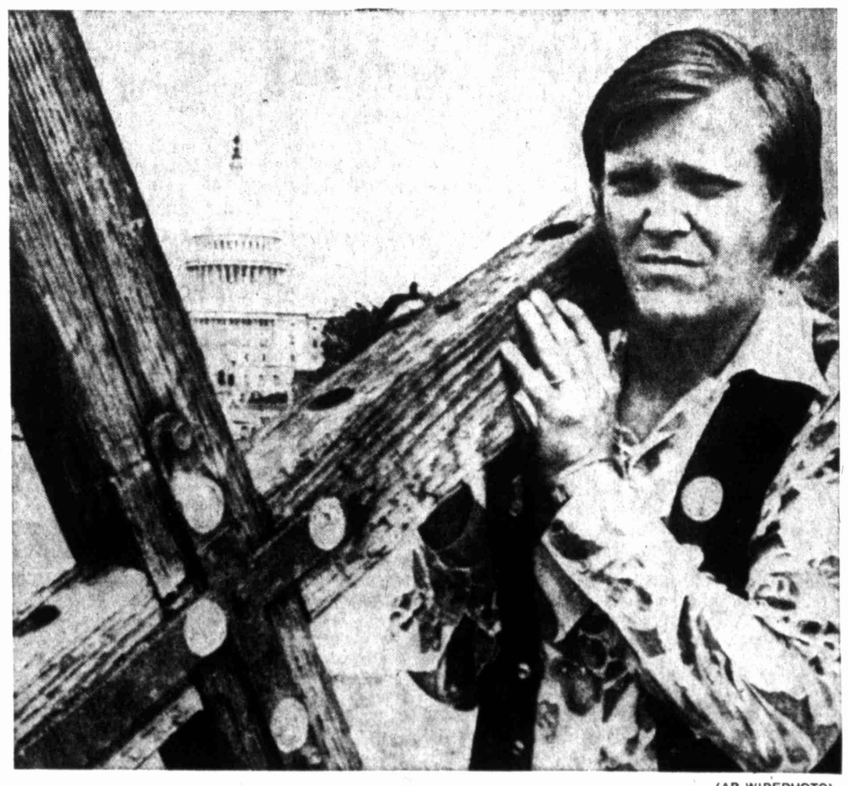

One commander told Wheeler the Communist forces struck Tuesday afternoon before any government troops could even reach the crest of the mountain.

IN COMMIE HANDS

"The entire hill has been in Communist hands since early Saturday," said one officer with the attacking force, adding that the closest any government soldier had gotten to the mountain resort was about two miles down the slope, on the road up the mountain.

The battle zone was quiet today as the government troops regrouped prior to a new attack Thursday, the officer said. Meanwhile, two battalions of the U.S.-trained Cambodian mercenaries from South Vietnam were reported pushing up another slope of Kiri Rom and were said to be about a day's march from the crest.

They have had no contact with the enemy, officers said.

Military Justice Under Attack

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The constitutionality of the entire U.S. system of military justice comes under a broad attack today in the case of a soldier charged with murder in the alleged massacre at My Lai.

At issue before a three-judge federal panel is whether the Army has a legal right to try Sgt. Esequiel Torres, 22, of Brownsville, Tex.

The hearing was on a petition filed June 24 by attorney Charles L. Weltner of Atlanta, the first civil intervention into the Army's jurisdiction over the My Lai case.

It contends an Army trial by court-martial would violate Torres' constitutional rights on 15 grounds and asks either that the Army be permanently enjoined from trying Torres or that the case be transferred to federal court.

The court was expected to hear Weltner's arguments in support of the petition. There was no indication whether the Army would present rebuttal arguments, or whether a number of Army witnesses subpoenaed by Weltner would appear.

U. S. Dist. Court Judge Albert J. Henderson, one of the jurists on the panel, issued a temporary injunction against the Army in Torres' case two weeks ago. Since then, similar petitions have been filed in other courts for two others also accused in the alleged My Lai massacre.

One of those petitions, for S. Sgt. David Mitchell, 30, of St. Francisville, La., was taken under advisement Tuesday by U. S. Dist. Court Judge Jack Roberts of Austin, Tex.

The other, in behalf of Spec. 4 Robert W. T'Souvas, 21, of San Jose, Calif., has not been set for hearing.

Henderson, in granting the temporary injunction for Torres, said the case "strikes at the very heart of military justice."

Government attorneys said it could prompt every person being court-martialed in Southeast Asia to seek civil stays.

Sources said it was highly unlikely that the three federal judges would take immediate action.

They indicated instead the panel probably would take the case under study and continue the temporary injunction until reaching its final decision.

The Army had set the pretrial hearing for Torres' general court-martial for 9 a.m. Friday.

Auto Wage Talks Getting Underway

DETROIT (AP) — Wage contract bargaining between the United Auto Workers union and major industry leaders opens today and the outcome is likely to have a bearing on the prices of 1971 model cars.

Both union and industry sources have said there probably will be a strike, although the auto firms and the union have vowed they don't want one.

The UAW and General Motors Corp. start the initial negotiations at a forenoon session, followed by talks with Ford Motor Co. Thursday and Chrysler Corp. Friday.

Both sides took tough pre-bargaining stances.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock said the companies would only be "getting warm" if they offered a 14 per cent increase in wages and fringe benefits.

Company executives, confronted with sagging 1970 sales and declining profits, indicated they had no intention of yielding anywhere near such a hike.

The current average hourly wage in the auto industry is $4.02. The Big Three companies estimate that fringe benefits, such as pensions and insurance, add $1.75 hourly per worker to their labor costs.

The UAW has a strike fund of $112 million, which is expected to grow to approximately $120 million by mid-September.

Union demands include "a substantial wage increase," an unlimited cost-of-living wage escalator, and a $500 minimum monthly pension after 30 years service, regardless of age.

To these demands, mandated by the union's 1970 convention, Woodcock has added a call for an increase in company contributions to supplemental unemployment benefit (Sub) funds, which support, among other things, a 1967-won guaranteed annual income.

The companies now contribute five to seven cents hourly per worker, the amount depending upon fund balance. There have been heavy drains in recent months because of layoffs and one fund, that of GM of Canada, is broke.

Change In Import Policy Could Bring Higher Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee has approved import quotas which could force American consumers to pay as much as 30 per cent more for shoes and shirts.

The action is a sharp break with the 37-year-old United States policy of freer foreign trade and reflects increasing House sentiment for protection of domestic producers.

The committee quotas, announced Tuesday night, are given an excellent chance of being ratified by Congress, despite evidence of consumer resistance.

A majority of House members are sponsoring legislation for limiting imports of textile products and shoes. In the past, the House has been the pitfall of quota legislation twice voted by the Senate.

The committee heard testimony that the consumer price of shirts, raincoats and shoes produced abroad is 15 to 30 per cent lower than the price of such items manufactured in the United States.

The Ways and Means decision must be translated into an omnibus trade bill, subject to approval of both houses.

Congress is reacting to reports of steeply rising imports and to irritation at continuing nontariff restrictions against U.S. goods in the European Common Market and in Japan, a major source of textiles.

The final straw was the breakdown of talks with Japan on voluntary restrictions—a failure which came just as the Ways and Means Committee was shaping trade legislation. It was at this point that the Nixon administration reluctantly dropped its opposition to textile quotas.

Preliminary figures indicated wool quotas would not result in a reduction in current import levels. Neither would cotton imports which are covered by a voluntary agreement. The committee proposal excludes silk—considered noncompetitive—and manmade fibers not made into yarn.

No figures on shoe imports have been released.

Major portions of the committee proposal would base quotas on textiles and textile products on the average of imports in 1967 through 1969. The formula could be modified later to give imports a share in any increase in domestic consumption.

United Fund 1970 Budget Is Approved For $109,975

A goal of $109,975 — $25 less than last year — was set for this Fall's United Fund campaign at a meeting of UF trustees Tuesday afternoon. The group accepted the recommendation of the screening and budget committee, which had conducted hearings with cooperating agencies.

Requests from agencies, together with requirements for conducting the campaign and maintaining yearly accounting, had run to $143,003. A report from committee chairman Clyde McMahon Sr. said "the committee fully realizes that the recommended allotment, in some cases, is not enough for the fullest operation of some of the agencies, but the committee had to balance its recommendation between what it thought the community was capable of raising and the asking of the agencies."

WEST SIDE CENTER

Trustees actually added $1,800 to the budget at first submitted, since a request for the West Side Youth Center for that amount had been withdrawn and then reinstated. The Council of Church Women, which organizations operate the recreation facility in a low-income area, said "this is the only place these children have, and we will make it work again this year, expecting to get broader support among volunteers."

Agencies in the main were granted the same allotments as last year. A couple were reduced, and two raised.

ALLOCATIONS

Following is the sum allocated to each agency, the amount each had requested, and the allocation it received in 1969, with figures in that order:

YMCA, $16,500, $19,110, $16,500; Lakeview YMCA, $6,000, $6,625, $6,000; Girl Scouts, $9,000, $12,023, $7,200; Salvation Army, $17,000, $20,000, $17,000; West Side Youth Center, $1,800, $1,800, $1,800; Summer Recreation Program, $1,175, $1,175, $1,175; Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, $10,500, $14,000, $10,500; Boy Scouts, $12,600, $25,070, $13,600.

Also Texas United Community Services, $300, $650, $300; Milk & Medicine Fund, $2,000, $2,400, $2,400; Red Cross, $15,000, $21,400, $15,000; Texas Rehabilitation Center, $750, $1,000, $500; Air Force Aid Society, $2,750, $2,750, $2,750; Halfway House, $600, $2,400, $300; USO $1,000, $1400, $1,000.

EXPENSES

Total for agencies, $96,975, $130,003, $96,025.

Campaign expense and year's operations are budgeted for $10,000, against $9,500 last year. A figure of $3,000 is included in the budget to cover shrinkage in pledges.

A treasurer's report showed pledges from last fall's campaign of $110,695, with $16,826 showing as uncollected up until June 30. (Many pledges come in regularly on a monthly basis). There was a balance and interest earnings totaling $11,570.

Payments so far to agencies this year have totaled $65,224, and $30,800 is still owing.

The UF's total resources were listed at $45,954 as of June 30, with obligations amounting to $32,214, with an estimated reserve (depending upon pledge collections) of $13,740.

FBI To Join In Probe Of Mathis Death

MATHIS, Tex. (AP) — Hundreds were expected to pay last respects today to a doctor whose death touched off a stormy controversy. Officials said the FBI and state police will investigate the slaying.

Dr. Fred E. Logan Jr., whose friends said he was an "inspiration" to Mexican-Americans of this small South Texas town, was to be buried in what is described locally as the "Mexican cemetery."

Plans called for the casket to be hand-carried about six blocks from a Roman Catholic church to the cemetery. Some said more than 2,000 persons might attend the funeral services.

Logan, an osteopath, recently was named medical director of the county migrant worker health program here.

He was shot Saturday night after he was taken into custody following a report that a man was firing a gun in the parking lot outside a steakhouse.

San Patricio County Sheriff Wayne Hitt said Logan, 31, and Deputy Eric Bauch, 48, scuffled shortly after the doctor's arrest. Hitt said tests showed Logan had alcohol in his bloodstream.

The Mathis city council met in special session Monday and adopted resolutions calling for the sheriff's resignation and the deputy's dismissal.

The council also blasted Gov. Preston Smith and the county grand jury in another resolution. It referred to the council's unsuccessful attempts last month to have highway patrolmen transferred for alleged discrimination against Mexican-Americans.

"Actually, I'm too busy working to worry about what anyone has to say," the sheriff said. "I have absolutely no intentions of resigning now or any time in the future."

City Rejects Damage Claim, Arranges For Sealcoating

The city commission Tuesday evening approved an ordinance closing an alley, denied a $300,000 damage claim, and authorized the Public Works department to buy gravel for the sealcoating program.

Attorneys for Betty Harmon Rose, who is asking the city for damages of $300,000 as a result of an auto accident, were in trial and unable to attend the meeting according to city attorney Herb Prouty.

Prouty reviewed the terms of the claim, which alleged that an oil slick was created on Johnson near East 10th by spillage from a city sanitation truck on May 22, and that this caused the woman's car to skid out of control as she left a residence at 1007 Johnson around 1:20 a.m. May 24.

Prouty recommended that the commission deny the claim.

ALLEY CLOSED

The commission also approved the closing of an alley through property where National Building Centers plans to build a warehouse. The ordinance closing the alley running half a block east from the middle of the 100 block of Johnson includes the proviso that the city retain an easement for the purpose of servicing the sewer lines beneath the alley.

None of the three bids on precoated gravel for the sealcoat paving program were accepted by the commission. City manager Larry Crow announced that Big Spring Gravel Co., the low bidder, had withdrawn its bid "because of complications."

Crow also said that the figures on the other two bids would be only about half the cost of getting the gravel to the paving sites, because the city would have to unload the gravel from railway cars and pay for storage and transport.

UNCOATED GRAVEL

Acting public works director Bo Anderson recommended buying uncoated gravel, which has been used in the past and can be obtained locally at about $2.60 a cubic yard. The commission authorized this.

A right of way permit was granted to the Phillips Petroleum Company for the construction and maintenance of a gas pipeline under Moss Lake Road. Tom Robinson, representing Phillips, said the line is needed to tie in a well.

A contract change for the Five Watters radio club was made in connection with their lease of an acre of land on US 87. The commission elected to give the club 90 days notice should the city ever want to terminate the lease contract, and to give the club permission to remove any existing structures at such a time.

MUSEUM FUNDS

A request by the Howard County Historical Survey Committee for a $10,000 budget allotment from the city received favorable comment but no final action.

The committee wished to use the old library building for a historical museum, with a salaried curator. Jerry Worthy, spokesman for the committee, said an annual budget allotment would assure the success of the venture, since reliance on donations in the past was unsuccessful in running a perpetual museum.

Worthy said the museum will rely on part-time and volunteer help but a full time trained curator will be necessary to maintain the quality of the museum.

He also thought that there would be no admission charge at the museum, at least in initial stages of development.

A request by the Salvation Army for waiver of a street assessment levied against the organization was tabled until city attorney Prouty could report on legal problems involved.

The commissioners also approved a Traffic Commission recommendation for a yield sign on Robb at Twenty-fifth Street.

Mrs. C. D. Herring presented the commission with a problem not on the agenda. She would like the city to rectify a situation which she said has been going on for "seven or eight years." Her problem is a drainage ditch dug by the city along the edge of her property on East Second, which periodically backs up and floods her property.

Mayor J. Arnold Marshall questioned the ability of the commission to act on the problem, since she has a lawsuit pending against the city at this time.

After the closing of the meeting, Commissioner Eddie Acri proposed a clean-up campaign against messy alleys, and said he hopes the city and citizens can work together to get the alleys in better shape.

Negro Leader Shot To Death

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Missouri state Rep. Leon M. Jordan, a Democrat and one of the most powerful Negro leaders in Jackson County, was shot to death early today.

Police said Jordan, 65, was struck three times by shotgun blasts, apparently as he was about to enter his car shortly after 1 a.m. Dr. William Bryan, coroner, said Jordan was hit in the stomach, the hip and knee at such close range that wadding from the shells was in the wounds and on the car.

Witnesses told police that a late-model car with three Negro men, one armed with a shotgun, sped from the area. Police issued a pickup order for the car and its occupants.

The shooting occurred just outside the Green Duck Tavern, which Jordan owned and operated. His wife and a family friend had left the building only a few minutes ahead of Jordan.

Jordan was elected to the state legislature in 1964 and was a candidate for a fourth term. He had long been active in Freedom Inc., the major Negro political group in Jackson County and was president at the time of his death.

British Dockers Nearing Strike

LONDON (AP) — Representatives of Britain's 47,000 longshoremen rejected a pay raise offer today and set the stage for the first complete shutdown of the nation's docks in 44 years.

The vote against the management offer was 48-32.

More than half of Britain's dockers were on strike before the vote was taken. Some were still at work as the vote was announced.

Terms of the offer have not been made public but it was believed to include a proposal for an extra $2.40 a week for each docker.

A spokesman for the Port of London Authority said the decision would mean "total stoppage" at the docks.

School Trustees Okay New Sick Leave Policy

A revised sick leave policy, made necessary by the enactment of a state minimum sick-leave program by the 61st legislature to become effective with the 1970-71 school year, was approved Tuesday night by Big Spring Independent School District trustees.

"We have combined the state program with our present local program to take full advantage of the state's provision," Supt. S. M. Adnerson told trustees. The plan gives coverage to all full-time employes of the district.

Employes will receive 10 days of sick leave per year, with five days meeting requirements of the state programs and the remaining five days granted under the local program.

Under the state program sick leave accumulates at the rate of one-half day for the first 10 days of employment in the school year and at the rate of one-half day for each succeeding 20 days of service until the maximum of five days for the year has been reached. No limit is placed on the number of days which may be accumulated in the long-run. Unused sick leave from other Texas school systems, when shown on properly certified service records of new employes will be honored here. A three-year absence from public school teaching in Texas eliminates any accumulated sick leave.

Sick leave applies only to personal illness or because of a death in the covered employe's immediate family. Death leave is limited to five days. Immediate family has been defined as husband, wife, son, daughter, father, mother, brother, sister, grandchildren or other persons living in the same home.

Local sick leave accumulates at the same rate as state sick leave, however it is limited to 20 days. Local leave will apply to personal illness or illness of persons defined as in the immediate family.

Partial sick leave is granted at the rate of one day for the first 10 days of employment and one day for each succeeding 20 days until a maximum of 10 days have been reached.

All unused local sick leave is forfeited upon resignation of an employe.

Mine Blast Kills Israelis

TEL AVIV (AP) — An Israeli military vehicle set off a mine Tuesday in the Sinai Desert town of El Arish, killing one Israeli soldier and wounding two, the military command announced. A curfew was clamped on the town of 30,000 and a number of suspects were rounded up.

A military spokesman in Cairo said Egyptian ground fire struck an Israeli Phantom jet during a raid Tuesday on Egyptian positions in the central and southern sectors of the Suez Canal and the plane was seen heading eastward in flames. But Israel said all planes returned safely from day and night raids Tuesday on Egyptian positions along the canal.

On the Jordanian front, mortar shells were fired from Jordan at two Israeli border settlements Tuesday night, and Israeli artillery hit back with a heavy barrage.

Some of the mortar shells landed inside the villages of Beit Yosef and Yardena, south of the Sea of Galilee, causing some damage but no casualties.

Lloyd McKee Named As C-City Superintendent

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Lloyd McKee was named superintendent of Colorado City Schools Tuesday after board members accepted the resignation of James G. McMath.

McMath resigned to become superintendent at Brownwood, replacing Guy T. Smith.

McKee, as assistant superintendent the past two years, worked in the area of federal aid programs and was director of adult education.

"McKee's principal duties as assistant were to stay familiar with the multitude of government programs offering aid to schools and McKee has been highly successful in obtaining such aid and grants," said Tom Rees, chairmen of the board.

McKee said this morning he is "very pleased to have an opportunity to serve Colorado City as superintendent."

McKee is a graduate of Texas A&M University where he received bachelor's and master's degrees in educational administration and psychology. He has done additional graduate work in the area of administration and guidance at the University of Texas, New Mexico State University and Sul Ross State College.

He came to Colorado City from Odessa where he worked 12 years in all levels of education. WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Slumping commercial aircraft sales, high labor costs and high start-up costs were blamed for a $7 million net loss by Beech Aircraft Corp. in the first nine months of its fiscal year 1970.

Following a meeting of the Beech Board of Directors Tuesday, company officials reported total consolidated sales of $130,516,809 for the first nine months ended June 30 compared with sales of $153,319,639 for the similer period last year.

The company reported a net loss of $7,090,918, equal to $1.53 per share for the nine-month period.

Net earnings for the first nine months of 1969 after taxes were $5,332,412 at $1.15 a share with 4,548,351 shares outstanding.

'Cover-Up' Charged In Massacre

WASHINGTON (AP) — The alleged massacre of Vietnamese civilians at My Lai was deliberately covered up under an agreement by military and State Department officers in the field, a special House subcommittee has charged.

Reports of atrocities by U.S. soldiers promptly spread through 13 different command levels in the Americal Division, support units and U.S. adviser groups, the subcommittee said in a report released Tuesday. But there is no evidence they ever reached headquarters in Saigon, the report added.

SUPPRESSED

"The subcommittee believes the explanation lies in a concerted action among military and State Department officers to suppress all evidence of the allegation and its investigation," the report said.

"... The subcommittee," the report said, "was unable to determine when, and by whom, that decision was made, and consequently is unable to describe the scope of the agreement."

The report, based on still-secret testimony by 152 witnesses, was released by a special four-man House armed services investigating subcommittee headed by Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La.

FINDING

Other principal findings of the investigation into the Task Force Barker sweep against the suspected Viet Cong stronghold at My Lai March 16, 1968:

—Helicopter Pilot Hugh C. Thompson testified that when he landed to rescue Vietnamese civilians from a bunker, a lieutenant in charge of GIs standing over bodies in a ditch told him: "The only way I could get them out is with a hand grenade or something of that order." But Thompson denied having helicopter guns trained on GIs during the rescue.

—Acts by individual GIs were so wrong and uncharacteristic "as to immediately raise a question as to the legal sanity at the time of those men involved."

—The Uniform Code of Military Justice should be revised to prohibit court-martial for such acts in combat until the accused man's mental responsibility at the time has been determined.

RECORD HIDDEN

—The sole written record of a field investigation—concluding only 20 Vietnamese civilians were killed in artillery, helicopter gunship and ground crossfire and that none were rounded up by GIs and killed—was found hidden in a sergeant's desk drawer. If other documents ever existed, they have disappeared from the files.

—An order by Capt. Ernest L. Medina, commander of the company that made the main My Lai sweep, to return to count civilian dead was countermanded by Maj. Gen. Samuel W. Koster, then Americal Division commander, from a helicopter flying overhead. Koster said Medina's estimate of 28 dead sounded about right.

—U.S. intelligence dismissed allegations of up to 570 civilian deaths in My Lai and nearby areas as "Communist propaganda" even though most of the allegations were coming from South Vietnamese officials and detailed time, place and U.S. units involved.

NO CONCLUSIONS

Hebert's subcommittee drew no conclusions on what actually happened at My Lai and made no reference to criminal charges against 12 GIs, including Medina and platoon leader Lt. William L. Calley Jr. The charges range from officer responsibility for the deaths to murder, rape and maiming.

The initial field inquiry was as much concerned with reports of a "machine gun confrontation" between helicopter pilot Thompson and an unnamed platoon leader, one officer testified, as with Thompson's report of civilian killings.

Thompson denied ordering guns trained on the GIs or believing he was threatened by them, the report said, even though he said the platoon leader had told him the only way to get civilians out of a bunker to rescue them was with a hand grenade.

Two Teachers Retire From Local Schools

Retirement for two teachers in the Big Spring Independent School District was approved Tuesday night by trustees. Trustees also accepted nine resignations and approved 11 new teachers for employment.

Submitting resignations were Max Beevers, high school general mechanics; Mrs. Cleta Faye Coffey, elementary librarian; Mrs. Kay Emmons, Goliad physical education; Mrs. Sue Estes, Goliad physical education; Derrell Froman, high school physical education teacher and coach; Bobby Jack Gray, high school health and physical education teacher and coach; Mrs. Claudia Turner, high school English; Don Turner, high school assistant band director; and Mrs. Ruth Webb, Marcy fifth grade.

Teachers approved for employment include Mrs. Nita Jean Cheairs, Goliad English; David M. Dansby, Runnels mathematics teacher and coach; Kyle Ellison, high school assistant band director; Donna R. Fleming, Goliad mathematics; Mrs. Norma Jean Hester, Goliad physical education; Novice Charles Kniffen, high school world history teacher and tennis coach; Deborah Ann Luellen, Goliad physical education; Charlotte Ott, high school government and history; Mrs. Terri L. Price, special education speech therapist; David E. Verner, high school history teacher and coach; and Mrs. Norma Jean Wilder, Marcy sixth grade.

Reformers Fight For Public Voting

WASHINGTON (AP) — After losing a fight to restrict secret committee sessions, supporters of congressional reform legislation hoped today to fare better in their fight to abolish the practice of nameless voting.

The reformers want each member's vote to be recorded publicly when the House acts on amendments to major bills. Existing rules permit a head count only and names are not recorded.

With the backing of influential House leaders, proponents of the proposal said chances for success are good.

The antisecrecy proposal was one of scores under consideration on a bulky congressional reorganization bill affecting both the House and the Senate.

The bill was laid aside temporarily today so the House could consider compromise versions of three other measures.

It may not be passed until next week.

Advocates of more far-reaching reforms than those provided in the pending measure won two battles Tuesday and lost one.

They lost on an amendment to require committee meetings to be open unless a panel decided against it publicly at each session. The vote, a nonrecord one, was 132 to 112.

An amendment to ban proxy voting in committees was approved 71-54 and a requirement that roll-call votes of individual members in committees be made available to the public was adopted by voice vote.

Cooler Weather In Panhandle

By The Associated Press

Cooler air shoved southward into the Texas Panhandle this morning, accompanied by gusty north winds and occasional thunderstorms and showers.

There were still a few showers, meanwhile, along the Texas coast and ranging 150 miles inland. Heavy rains soaked parts of that area Tuesday and tornadoes spun menacingly close to Angleton and Lake Jackson but apparently caused no damage.

Rainfall amounts in the southern sector included Alice 1.33 inches, Beaumont-Port Arthur .92, Houston .87, Victoria .57, Palacios .42, San Antonio .37, College Station .22, Corpus Christi .18, Galveston .13 and Cotulla .10.

Youth Draws 300-Year Term For Slaying

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — School dropout Charles Dennis Easley, convicted of murder with malice in the shooting death of an 11-year-old Denison girl, faces a 300-year prison term today.

A district court jury deliberated 1 hour Tuesday before assessing the sentence.

The nine-man, three - woman jury deliberated 2 hours and 45 minutes earlier in the day to find Easley guilty in the April slaying of Frances Laurie Stevens.

Easley, 18, showed no sign of emotion when the punishment was announced.

Prosecutors had sought the death penalty.

Defense lawyer Don Jarvis said he would file a motion for a new trial.

The teen-ager also is charged in the slaying of Donna Marie Golish, 7, of Sherman last September.

Frances Laurie disappeared while returning home from school. Her schoolbooks and purse were found near her home, and her body was found three days later in a rural area.

Investigators said the girl had been shot several times.

Jurors asked to see color slides of the area where the body was found after they were given the case Tuesday morning. Lawyers had introduced the slides into testimony.

The jury also asked for a tape recorded segment of testimony to be replayed.

The jurors also heard testimony again about pistol shells found near an outbuilding where Easley resided for a time in Sherman.

Gun experts testified they were unable to link the bullets with a pistol taken from the defendant.

Charles Madden, 23, testified that Easley told him he killed the child and ran a drill bit through the pistol barrel to make ballistic comparisons impossible.

The defense rested Monday without calling any witnesses in the trial, which began July 6. The case was moved from Grayson to Wichita County on a change of venue.

Atlantic Queens' Items Go To Variety Of Collectors

DALLAS (AP) — They're selling off the innards of Britain's once proud Atlantic Queens and the bits and pieces are finshing up in some odd places and uses.

Frank Sinatra has his Minton china chamber pot from the Queen Mary prettified with plants and hung on the wall.

Paul Newman uses his china teapot from the Queen Elizabeth for pouring martinis.

Dean Martin has two of the Queen Mary engineroom gauges. Paperweights? Glenn Ford has an outsize nut and bolt mounted on a plaque. Conversation piece?

Steamer deckchairs, still salty with sea air, dot the shady patios of sun-broiled Texas. Yellow Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth lifejackets bob in the speedboats on its lakes.

INSATIABLE

The American taste for what some call "heritage memorabilia" seems truly insatiable.

One romantic, who honeymooned in the Queen Mary, bought the ship's bridal suite for $5,000 as a 20th wedding anniversary present for his wife.

A vibrator chair from the ship's gymnasium, which supposedly once caused Winston Churchill to remark, "My pudding is a-shaking," went for $175 to a Detroit hotel.

Not only the Americans are avid for souvenirs of the ocean queens.

A German, who travelled in the Queen Mary as a prisoner of war during World War II, took back bits of the ship mounted on plaques for all his friends.

The Queen Mary was sold as a convention center and has been at Long Beach, Calif., since 1967. The Queen Elizabeth is at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. For both it is the end of the road.

But the ships' stores were not included in the deal. They, with some of the stripped fittings, remain in a 300,000 square foot warehouse at Southampton, England.

The man who scented a profitable deal to be made from the American love for souvenirs is 46-year-old Gene Darcy, a package deisnger living in Los Angeles, related in Dallas.

He scraped together $20,000 as a down payment on the Queen Mary's fittings. With the profits he made, he invested in the Queen Elizabeth, too.

He opened first in Los Angeles, then moved on to San Francisco, New Orleans, Houston and Tulsa, Okla.

This week he opened in Dallas, Tex., offering new thoughts for jaded oil millionaires still furnishing the walls of their dens. He'll be around here until December.

COATHANGER

Everything sold from a dollar coathanger, bearing the words Cunard Line, to a thermal caviar crock from the captain's table ($25 large, $18.50 small) is accompanied by a certificate of authenticity saying that the customer has purchased "an integral part of the RMS Queen Mary (or Queen Elizabeth)."

The store clerks sign with code names which are frequently changed as a guard against the counterfeiting of Queen souvenirs. They answer the telephone with a brisk "Stores of the Queen."

Prices range as widely as the goods displayed. A copper ship's lantern costs $495. An officer of the watch telescope in leather case is $150 or $175 mounted. But the steamer deckchairs of English oak with pads and covers are only $42.50 and the life jackets $5 each.

A Queen Elizabeth faucet mounted on a wooden shield made from ship's panelling and with a gilded name plate costs $8.50, a 2-foot spanner similarly mounted $22.50. There are ship's survival biscuits and supplies from the kosher kitchen.

ROPE LENGTHS

But Darcy's most profitable deal was the five miles of rope he cut into lengths and mounted on plaques. They sell, with the authentic accompanying tarred rope smell of ships and the sea, at $22.50 (knotted) and $10.50 (plain).

His next project is to melt down the 35-ton propellors from the Queen Mary and strike around four million memorial coins. He hopes to have those by Christmas.

Next year Darcy takes his travelling curio store to Denver and Atlanta. He reckons he still has about 10,000 tons of merchandise to sell.

"I don't like to discuss profits," he said. "But my ship came in and it's changed my way of life."

Bilingual Unit Will Be Kept In Reserves

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 92nd Tactical Airlift Group at Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio, a bilingual unit, will be continued, Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., said Tuesday.

He said the Air Force sent him a letter telling him the group will not be deactivated.

The only reserve group in the country with a bilingual Spanish-English capacity, it was one of five units originally to be deactivated because no replacement aircraft had been assigned to follow the C119s.

Program changes now allow for C130 aircraft to be available and the Kelly Group, along with four other reserve units, will be kept intact.

Yarborough had emphasized to Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird in March that the 922nd is "the only one of its kind in the Air Force that has a bilingual capacity."

Louisiana Governor Wants Offshore Leasing Renewed

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Gov. John McKeithen told Interior Department officials today that suspension of offshore oil and gas lease sales not only severely hampered south Louisiana economy but resulted in a serious movement of offshore drilling equipment to foreign shores.

McKeithen's testimony was at the opening session of hearings scheduled by the Interior Department to consider whether to resume the sale of leases on 127 tracts in the Gulf of Mexico off the Louisiana coast.

The lease sale was suspended after a Chevron Oil Co. drilling platform caught fire in February and eventually dumped thousands of gallons of oil into the Gulf. Chevron has been indicted by a federal grand jury for failing to follow prescribed safety procedures.

"We'll be glad to assume the responsibility of policing those wells," said McKeithen. "It would be a disaster for us in Louisiana if we don't allow offshore drilling."

The governor was the second witness to appear at the two or three-day hearing, involving approximately 150 witnesses.

Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., was the first to testify. He said the United States faces an energy crisis in oil, natural gas, electricity and coal. "Come next winter many cities in the Northeast will be cold," Boggs predicted.

Boggs said the major supply of natural gas for most northeastern cities comes from Louisiana and Texas. Natural gas industry spokesman have said gas reserves are seriously depleted.

Interior Secretary Walter Hickel touched on this problem when he indicated earlier that the offshore lease sales under consideration at the rearing are believed to involve areas with potentially high gas production.

Five Interior Department officials are sitting on the panel hearing testimony. One of them is Dr. Leslie Glasgow, former director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission.

"We're going to be tough on the polluter, you can be sure of of that," Dr. Glasgow said. But he added that he believes the oil and gas industry and fishing and conservation interests can be compatible.

McKeithen said there are four main aspects to problems surrounding the lease sales: The adverse economic impact on Louisiana, the question of whether mineral drilling and production can be conducted in the Gulf without harm to other natural resources, the shortage of domestic natural gas and the need for the nation to maintain an adequate supply of domestic oil to avoid being at the mercy of foreign powers because of the need to import oil.

Open Probe Of Bombings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan, opening hearings into the 5,000 bombings reported across the nation in the past 18 months, says the violence may mark the beginning of domestic guerrilla action.

"These are criminal acts," the Arkansas Democrat said in an interview. "But they are not crimes for profit. These are crimes committed out of an attitude of rebellion against society and against all constituted authority.

Since Jan. 1, 1969, McClellan's investigators said, there have been more than 1,000 bombing cases involving the use of high-explosives and more than 4,000 involving incendiary devices, an average of more than nine bomb incidents a day.

The result, they said, has been up to 40 deaths, about 300 injuries and more than $23 million in property damage.

Committee sources said the recent bombings appear to be the work of white and black extremists, anti-Semites and labor racketeers.

Parleys Held On Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Department officials are meeting with Texas school authorities in an effort to work out plans to eliminate any discrimination against Spanish-speaking students.

This was disclosed by Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerris Leonard in testimony Monday before the Special Senate Committee on Equal Educational Opportunities.

Leonard, head of the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, said that Spanish-speaking minorities have not historically received the attention in the whole school desegregation process that they deserve but that he and his colleagues are engaged now in a program they hope will remedy this.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., the committee chairman, said testimony has been received that Spanish-speaking Americans "are actually in a worse system of racial isolation than any other minority" and asked if the Justice Department has a policy of dealing with that as fully as with other minorities.

Leonard replied that one problem is a shortage of complaints. The Justice Department must rely on complaints to bring school desegregation suits, he said.

Another problem up until some weeks ago, he said, was that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare had difficulty in determining the degree of discrimination because of the failure of report forms to identify Spanish-speaking minorities as a minority.

However, Leonard testified that about five or six weeks ago the Justice Department received a list of cases from HEW involving Texas school districts that they believed to be in noncompliance.

Leonard did not identify the districts or say how many were involved, but he said that a notice letter was sent to the state superintendent of schools in Texas about ten days or two weeks

"We are now meeting with officials from that department with respect to those districts," he said. "We are also informed that many of the districts that are involved there do have plans and are prepared to implement them come this fall."

Eggers Discusses Narcotics With Local Service Clubs

A problem which has had an erosive and contagious effect on elements of society and which is still to peak, the use of narcotics, was discussed at length by Republican gubernatorial candidate Paul Eggers at a joint meeting of service clubs, held at noon Tuesday in the Settles Hotel.

If the more than 100 members of the Kiwanis, Rotary, American Business and Lions' clubs had massed to hear political issues of the governor's race examined, they were to be disappointed.

Eggers never once mentioned the race in which he is involved but the issue he chose as his subject kept his audience entranced.

The Wichita Falls resident has served as the general counsel for the U.S. Treasury Department. As the fourth highest ranking officer in the agency, he sat in on cabinet meetings conducted by President Nixon. He functioned as part of a task force named to come to grips with the narcotics menace.

Eggers said investigation proved that 60 to 70 per cent of students in colleges and high schools across the nation have experimented with marijuana at one time or another. Of that number, no more than one in 10 would become regular users of the drug, he said.

The speaker expressed a conviction that kids on campuses today can't be kept from experimenting with drugs through fright programs but that the government had taken the attitude that more good could be accomplished through enlightenment as to the dangers that exist through continued use of narcotics.

Most of the illegal drugs being marketed today, Eggers stated, are coming across the U.S. borders from other countries. The speaker added that it was going to be society's job to seek out the source of the opiates and destroy them before they could be harvested.

That, of course, would be impossible unless the countries where they originate offer unlimited support with American officials.

Eggers said he was convinced last year's Operation Intercept, when rigid border inspections were set up for a 30-day period, accomplished much good.

Eggers said he read of the criticism resulting from the closed ports of entry but he was sure Operation Intercept had worked to establish much closer ties with the Mexican government.

The speaker warned his listeners that the crisis in the use of heroin would continue to grow and urged cooperation in helping to combat it.

Eggers pointed out that the nation had recently employed 915 more border inspectors and had added substantially to its fleet of patrolling airplanes to try and neutralize the traffic in illegal drugs.

One area sadly neglected, Eggers said, was in the rehabilitation of drug addicts, most of whom demand psychiatric help.

Eggers terminated his talk by lauding the service clubs for the part they have played in combatting the problem and orienting the general public about the unceasing fight against drug addiction.

No Move To Avoid Draft

By The Associated Press

There seems no great movement in Texas to claim exemption from military service because the draftee objects to war on moral, political or philosophical grounds, since the U.S. Supreme Court June 15 decision made this permissible.

New guidelines permitting young men to avoid the draft have caused a marked increase in applications in Dallas and some increase in Fort Worth, a survey of key points in the state shows.

Mrs. Johnnie Edmundson, chief secretary of the Dallas County Selective Service boards, said 67 conscientious objector applications were filed in June.

"Normally," she said, "we average six to ten a month."

But Mrs. Marie Merritt in Houston said there has been no apparent increase in the 11 boards with which she deals. Each averages three to four objectors a month.

Mrs. Elizabeth Fisher, Selective Service director for the San Antonio area, also failed to observe any notable increase.

ASKS FOR FUNDS FOR INDIANS—Walter Broemer, superintendent of the Alabama-Coushatta Indian Reservation in the Big Thicket, as he laid out a $949,880 budget request in Austin. Broemer points out that the reservation is one of the state's top tourist attractions and the budget included $470,000 to improve and expand it.

Indian Tribe Asks Self-Sufficiency

AUSTIN (AP) — The Alabama-Coushatta Indians asked for funds today to help them regain the condition they had before the white man came: Self-sufficiency.

Supt. Walter Broemer, of the Alabama-Coushatta Reservation in the Big Thicket of Southeast Texas laid out a $949,880 budget request.

"The Alabama-Coushatta Indian Reservation budget request for fiscal year 1972-73 has been planned with the objective of terminating state aid by the end of fiscal year 1974," Broemer said.

state's top tourist attraction.

The budget includes $470,000 to improve and expand it. State funds, bank loans and federal loans were used to build it up as a drawing card for visitors.

If the U.S. Economic Development Administration grants a loan to the Indians next year, the $470,000 will be taken out of the requestion.

"The Indian people. . .felt it would be a good idea to become self-sufficient and not have to turn to the legislature for support," Broemer said.

"People are aware there is a reservation, and they are coming in great numbers."

He said average family income has increased from $1,200 in 1957 to $3,600 today.

"There has been a tremendous change, but we need this final punch to reach the goals we have set," Broemer told examiners from the governor's office and the legislature.

One goal is to have jobs available on the reservation for everyone who wants one, eliminating dependency on outside work in the pulpwood industry.

Broemer said the reservation so far has been unsuccessful in getting a federal loan. He noted that the area administrator changed when Nixon administration came in.

Although Rep. George Bush and Sen. John Tower, both Republicans, are "sold on it, we haven't been able to budge them to get a loan," Broemer said.

The bidding:

Opening lead: King of ♡

Today's hand aroused considerable discussion when it was dealt in a National Team-of-Four championship a few seasons back. Altho North and South can take 13 tricks at a club contract, neither of the pairs who held the cards ever bid that suit.

At one table, the bidding proceeded as depicted in the diagram. North chose to pass his hand altho he had 13 points and two defensive tricks. It has been our experience that with a distributional holding where a convenient rebid is available, strategic considerations dictate a quick entry into the auction before the level of bidding becomes too advanced.

East's opening bid of two spades is a preemptive call employed by some tournament players to designate a holding that includes a good six card suit with little outside strength. It is similar in principle to an opening three bid, however the latter call is usually based on a seven card suit.

South chose to overcall with three diamonds, for tho he had enough to make a take-out double—the singleton heart deterred him from inviting partner to name a suit of his own. West raised East to three spades, however this mild competition did not inhibit North in the slightest and he proceeded directly to six diamonds. He reasoned that his trump fit, wealth of controls and good six card side should provide sufficient playing strength to make the slam contract a reasonable undertaking. West thought otherwise and doubled the final bid.

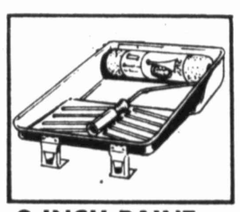

The king of hearts was opened and South won with the ace. If diamonds are divided three-two, declarer has 12 top tricks, however West's double indicated that the trumps were stacked. As a safety play to retain control of the hand, South led the nine of diamonds and when West covered with the ten, the latter was permitted to hold the trick. He continued with the queen of hearts which declarer ruffed.

A spade was trumped with the six of diamonds and the ace was cashed, East showing out. South led a club to his hand, intending to draw the remaining trump and then run the clubs and discard his last two spades. West administered a rude jolt by ruffing away the king of clubs and then putting his partner in with the ace of spades to get another club ruff. The outcome on the deal was an 800 point deficit for North and South.

East and West were confident that they had netted a substantial swing on the deal, however they were in for a surprise as we will see tomorrow when we examine the result at the other table where their teammates held the North-South cards.

Count me out of the Women's Protest Movement on Aug. 26. I don't have anything I want to discard to show what bugs me.

It has been suggested that women could throw their mops in the trash can, not cook for the day, let the house go without picking up or cleaning up, not wash dishes, etc. Now what in the world makes those leaders think that would be any different than any other day in the life of a housewife?

Unless she does these things herself she either will have a filthy house after a few days or she will have to hire it done. Who is she going to hire? Another woman? What about her rights as a woman? She might hire a man who will probably think that this work is a lot easier than the oil field job he has, or the lumberjack work, etc. Of course, he won't make as much to take home but maybe his 'liberated' wife can fill in the gaps.

It was also suggested that some women may even deposit their husbands in the waste can. They'd better think twice about that. There are a lot of women who have been on their own for a long time and they'd just love to have a man around the house to look after and cook for.

I think I should enjoy knowing MRS. MALCOLM PEABODY who felt so strongly on her Civil Rights views that at age 77 she spent two nights in a jail rather than to give way to another plan. I like her attitude about women helping their husbands provide for the family, not only in the caring for their children, but in other ways that might bring in financial help if it is needed. Certainly, most mothers expect the father to help with their part of the disciplining. Said Mrs. Peabody who reared five children and has been married 54 years: "Although my husband and I don't find quite as much to say to each other as we used to, it's nice to just sit in a room with him and know he's there." She's my kind of feminist . . . but I'm not joining the movement.

How does one go about ridding the area of locusts? I am told that some are poisoning about their premises hoping to clear their land of the pests but are finding their efforts meaningless unless their neighbors join in the fight.

The BOB BOADLES have two beautiful Baltimore orioles that frequent their trees but they are fearful that the birds might partake of the poisoned locusts and bring about a sudden demise, not only for the orioles but for all the other birds in the vicinity. Many homeowners are also distressed over the plight of their trees that are being stripped by the noisy pests.

It is to be hoped that there will be no paving over the top of Scenic Mountain where so many names are carved by those long gone from our scene. Those carvings are dear to the hearts of all the oldtimers in this area and should be of great importance to all who hold area history close to them. I should think any rank stranger would find them most interesting. If you know newcomers to this part of the county, why not take them to the mountain and give them a looksee. These are not Indian pictures or such . . . they are just names of people who took a hike to the mountain and spent much time chiseling their name or initials and a date. But the dates are interesting and some of the artists were a little fancy. Anyway, it would be an injustice to cover them over. It couldn't be undone.

TO MARRY — The engagement of Miss Deborah Carol Carothers and Airman 1.C. Richard E. Pace, of Webb Air Force Base, is being announced by her mother, Mrs. R. O. Carothers, 1405 Stadium. The bride-elect is the daughter of the late R. O. Carothers, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Pace, Roseville, Minn. No wedding date has been set.

Mrs. J. R. Petty presided at the meeting. Plans were made to hold a picnic Aug. 18 for Unit 9-B of Big Spring State Hospital in Birdwell Park. It was reported that the county-wide HD club barn sale raised approximately $300. Members also discussed having a family ice cream supper in August. Mrs. B. Riddle was welcomed as a new club member.

The Rev. Elra Phillips, guest speaker, discussed "The Great Messages of Jesus," explaining that Jesus spoke in terms which were understood by all men regardless of their status.

Other guests were Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Belton Yarbrough, Fort Stockton; and Mrs. Gladys Norman, Arlington.

Mrs. Cunningham presided, outlinging the 1971 study program focusing upon the theme, "Risk And Reality." She announced that the annual Ceta Canyon retreat for the Wesleyan Service Guild of Northwest Texas Conference will be held July 25-26. Planning to attend are Mrs. W. E. Moren, Mrs. Lina Flewellen and Mrs. Cunningham. The Women's Society of Christian Service School of Missions will be July 27-31 at McMurray College in Abilene. Mrs. Keese plans to attend. The next regular guild meeting will be Aug. 10.

WMU Continues Mission Study

Mrs. N. M. Hipp conducted a missions study Tuesday at the Women's Missionary Union meeting in Westside Baptist Church.

"Each generation of Christians makes its own response to the missions as Jesus commissioned his followers to 'disciple' the nation," Mrs. Hipp explained. "From the time He spoke this mandate, men, women and youth have been caught up in the world mission movement. Leaders in WMU must accept this appointment and must work together to help the church fulfill its mission in local and foreign areas."

Mrs. Sallie Sanders worded the closing prayer. Men's clothing was donated to Big Spring State Hospital.

Soviets Step Up Missile Building

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has stepped up construction of missile firing submarines and now is building them at the rate of eight to 10 a year, defense officials say.

If the Soviet construction rate continues at the upper range, Russia's missile firing submarine fleet could achieve parity with the 41-boat U.S. Polaris sub force by mid-1973.

That would be a year earlier than Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's forecast only three months ago when he calculated Russian submarine construction as running at about six to eight boats a year.

Dr. John S. Foster, director of defense research and engineering, told a briefing of young political leaders at the State Department Tuesday the Russians had accelerated the rate of missile-firing submarine building, but he gave no figures.

Pentagon officials later provided the new estimate of eight to 10 boats a year.

At present, the Russians are understood to have about 12 missile-launching submarines in operation, some within striking range of the United States.

American strategists believe Soviet submarine-launched weapons would be targeted on American bomber bases.

This is why the Safeguard antimissile system is intended, in part, to counter a sub-launched blow at the nation's nuclear bomber force.

According to current calculations, the first U.S. Safeguard antimissile sites will not be operational at least until 1975.

The new information on the increased Soviet sub-building rate was disclosed after fresh intelligence analyses in recent days prompted defense officials to conclude the Russians have maintained the momentum of their land-based intercontinental ballistic missile buildup since last year.

Kennedy Says Only Peace Will End Campus Unrest

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential commission aimed at pacifying the nation's campuses was told today it will not succeed until the Vietnam war is ended.

"It may well be," said Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, "that the only line in the commission's report that will have any real meaning for our colleges and universities is the line 'hat reads: 'This war must end'."

The Massachusetts Democrat and Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott were among the six witnesses called at the opening hearing of the President's Commission on Campus Unrest.

The others: San Francisco State President S. I. Hayakawa, University of Michigan President Robben Fleming, National Student Association President Charles Palmer and Otis Cochrane, president of the Black American Law Student Union.

Scott declared in prepared testimony, "We must retreat from demagoguery in all its oratorical fulmination. It is time to show each other our humanity, our human goodness.

"Student awareness does this generation credit, as does their idealism. Their anger at the system, the establishment, is evidence of this awareness," he said.

The commission, headed by former Republican Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, was named a month ago by campus uproars which followed the U.S. move into Cambodia.

Spurred especially by the shooting deaths of four students at Kent State University in Ohio and two youths at Jackson State College in Mississippi, Nixon asked the panel for full recommendations by Oct. 1.

Cochrane, a Yale law student from Atlanta, said "there should be no doubt in anyone's mind that the ultimate source for the growing tension in the United States rests squarely with President Nixon.

"The blame for the atmosphere of hysteria and fear that produced the murders in Ohio and Georgia and Mississippi is also his."

Cochrane said before he began his testimony that he had little faith the President would heed the commission's report.

In his prepared remarks he said, "The rebellion on college campuses is a rebellion against hypocrisy of an establishment that . . . demands silence of all its young critics . . . and yet sends them to die by the thousands in a senseless war to support a despotic dictatorship."

Kennedy said in his prepared statement the recommendations of the commission "can be issued none too soon," if further upheaval is to be headed off.

"I urge this commission not to back away from its own confrontation with the issue of the war," he said. "An analysis of campus unrest cannot look solely at the acts of students as disruptive and lawless.

"They are the ones who face the draft. It is their friends who are dying in the war. It is their lives and careers that are being disrupted."

Kennedy, however, deplored "the violence and various confrontations that have become the hallmark of too many campus demonstrations.

But he declared that "the most destructive campus violence has not been student violence. It has been official violence—the official violence of the National Guard at Kent State, the official violence of the Highway Patrol at Jackson State."

Scott, whose remarks were considerably briefer, said, "The concern of the student activists is expressed in the search for means to influence the decisions which most directly influence their lives—the war, the draft, the rights of people, the conditions of living."

But, he said, "at the same time, one feels that students are generally more aroused than informed, and often more frustrated than constructively involved."

Scranton, the chairman, said, "We are approaching our task with open minds. We are determined . . . to do everything possible to prevent these tragedies from recurring."

OIL REPORT

Dawson Venture Indicates Pay

A second pay, the Canyon, has been indicated in the Flower Grove (Fusselman) field of Dawson County with the recovery of oil on a drillstem test at Allen K. Trobaugh of Midland, No. 1 Loretta, ⅜-mile southeast offset to the opener and lone producer.

The one-hour drillstem test from 10,135 to 10,240 feet, surfaced gas in five minutes, no gauges, and recovered 5,000 feet of fluid, being 4,900 feet of 33.2-gravity oil and 100 feet of drilling water. Flowing pressure ranged from 207 to 822 pounds; one-hour initial and two-hour final shut-in pressures were 4,418 pounds.

The project drilled to 10,457 feet, on a 12,000-foot contract, and operator was preparing to run a 7⅝-inch liner from 8,977-10,457 with 290 rocks. Top of the Canyon was picked at 10,090 feet, on ground elevation of 2,817 feet.

It is located 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 43, block 35, T-4-N, T&P survey, 18 miles south of Lamesa, and spots on some maps in Martin County.

The Fusselman discovery, Lone Star Producing Co. of Dallas, No. 1 R. C. Koger, was completed in February, 1968, to flow 353 barrels of 36.7-gravity oil and 158 barrels of water per day, through a 12-64-inch choke and perforated interval at 11,610-11,613 feet.

Federal Deadline Extended For Exhaust Modifications

WASHINGTON (AP) — Auto manufacturers have been granted an additional two years to meet a weakened version of federal exhaust standards because government certification tests failed to measure half of the tailpipe pollutants.

John T. Middleton, administrator of the National Air Pollution Control Administration, Tuesday announced the extension with evident embarrassment. But he promised improved testing of 1972 cars.

Because present tests measure only half of the hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide emissions, he said, all 1970 model autos fall significantly short of required federal exhaust reduction standards.

New cars are now certified by the government as meeting emission limits of 2.2 grams of hydrocarbons per mile and 23 grams of carbon monoxide.

But the actual figures, determined by more accurate testing procedures, are 4.6 grams of hydrocarbon and 47 grams of carbon monoxide, Middleton said.

Middleton weakened the current standards 60 per cent for carbon monoxide and 10 per cent for hydrocarbons and gave auto manufacturers until 1972 to meet them.

"Despite the higher figures, the actual quantity of pollutants emitted by cars complying with the proposed 1972 regulations will be less than some 1970 cars that comply with current regulations," he said.

"This results because the much-improved measurement capabilities of the proposed 1972 procedures produces considerably higher readings for given quantities of emissions," Middleton explained.

The tightened test procedure includes direct measurement of all emissions rather than the present system of partial measurement.

The new procedure also calls for improved detectors for hydrocarbons, and new driving patterns with stop-and-go stresses and cold start ups that better reflect normal, city auto use.

Middleton said automakers will not be prosecuted for falling short of 1970 regulations because the standard was framed in terms of the faulty test procedure. Technology necessary for the new testing procedure was not available until this year, he contended.

In addition, Middleton said the government will stand by its previously announced plan to enforce more stringent standards for carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons for 1975 cars.

He conceded the testing defects compound the existing problem of one-time government certification of finely-tuned prototype cars rather than periodic checks of production line models.

"It may take a little gut-busting" by manufacturers to pass the new tests, Middleton said. But he said consumers should not have to pay more than $10 for the necessary modifications.

Federal Funds Confirmed For Riot Equipment

City Manager Larry Crow has received confirmation on two action grants made to the city for the purchase of advanced law enforcement equipment.

Crow and Chief of Police Jay Banks recently worked out two requests for funds under Federal grants designed to improve the quality of police forces nationwide.

Funds have been allocated through Gov. Preston Smith for the purchase of recording equipment and riot gear for the Big Spring police.

One grant of $3,164 to be supplemented with $1,055 in city funds, will be spent on riot training and control equipment.

Police Chief Banks said the equipment will be used as a teaching aid at police academy sessions at Howard County Junior College.

The equipment would also be in reserve for use by city police if needed.

The second grant of $1,586 will be used with $1,057 of city money to purchase dictation recording equipment. Banks said the electronic equipment would enable patrolmen to make reports from the field.

Secretaries Say Thanks

Randy Banks, a local youth, earned the thanks of six educational secretaries when he took a few minutes to help them out.

The Herald received a letter from Linda Odell, one of the secretaries, expressing their gratitude for Banks' help. Miss Odell, Levelland, and the rest were traveling from Austin to Levelland when they stopped at the local Gibson's Store. Miss Odell accidentally locked the keys in the car.

Banks "graciously volunteered to open the door. It took a while to do this and he had unselfishly given of his time," said Miss Odell. When offered money for the task, Banks refused it, according to Miss Odell.

In her letter, Miss Odell said, "I decided to take this means of showing our appreciation to Randy and to the majority like him and not to the minority who get most of the attention of the news media from their protests and riots. We all give Randy a big thank you and wish him the best."

Brownsville Local Quits Anti-Discrimination Suit

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — One of the defendants in a federal anti-discrimination suit against the International Longshoremen's Association in Texas will switch sides today and support the government's contention, their lawyer said.

D. J. Lerma of Brownsville, representing the all-Negro Local 1368, said Tuesday his union local will ask U.S. Dist. Judge Reynaldo Garza to withdraw the local's opposition to merging with its all-white sister local in that city.

The trial, brought by the government to force the merger of segregated longshoremen's locals in Texas, entered its third day of testimony today.

The government has asked Judge Garza to order the 37 segregated white, Negro and Mexican-American locals in 10 Texas ports to merge into 13 integrated units.

A victory for the government could affect similar ILA union locals in Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, Georgia, Florida and North and South Carolina.

Lerma said Tuesday the Negro local now regards a merger as the only way blacks can get half of the longshoremen work in Port Brownsville.

The work in Brownsville has been split so that whites are supposed to get 75 per cent of the work and Negroes 25 per cent. Work in other Texas ports is supposed to be split equally between white and black locals.

My Lai Ruling May Take Days

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Court attaches say it may be several days, possibly next week, before U.S. Dist. Judge Jack Roberts acts on a motion to block the first court-martial in the My Lai case.

He had been expected to rule Tuesday on a request to stop the impending military trial of S. Sgt. David Mitchell, 30 at Ft. Hood, Tex.

Roberts' clerk reported, however, that the jurist said, "I don't know when it (the decision) will be made."

Mitchell is charged on two counts of assault with intent to murder in an attack by U.S. troops March 16, 1968, on a village called My Lai 4 in South Vietnam. He has denied the charges.

Birth Control Measure Approved By Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Without debate or dissent, the Senate has passed and sent to the House a bill to set up a federal birth-control assistance program to make family-planning services and information available to all Americans who want them.

The five-year birth-control assistance and research program is expected to cost $1 billion and will be administered by a new Office of Population Affairs under the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The measure was approved Tuesday by the Senate.

President Nixon has declared family-planning services should be available to all Americans who want but cannot afford them.

An estimated 5.4 million American women are unable to afford these services, the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee said.

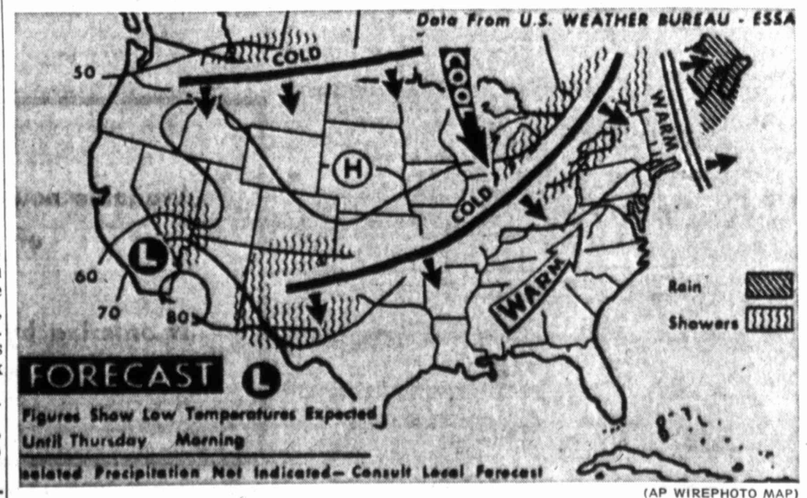

The services will be made available only on a voluntary basis, the committee added.

WEATHER FORECAST — There will be scattered showers Wednesday night in areas of the Southwest, the Midwest and northern New England. It will be warmer in the Southwest and cooler in the northern portions of the Midwest.

DEAR ABBY: My brother asked me to write to you to see if you can help him get any closer to marriage with his girl friend of 10 years — I'll call her "Zelda."

Zelda loves the big city and my brother likes the quiet of the countryside. Zelda doesn't come alive until 10 p.m., and at that hour my brother is ready for bed.

Even though they live 300 miles apart, they see each other on weekends and holidays. (My brother flies his own plane.)

Zelda is jealous of anyone who looks at him twice, but she doesn't care for sex herself. (She was in a concentration camp when she was young.) My brother would like a family, but since he is 40 and Zelda is 43 and they aren't married yet, that looks doubtful. What do you think, Abby? HIS SISTER

DEAR SISTER: I think if your brother wants marriage, he should look for someone who likes the quiet of the countryside, sex, and won't take 10 years to make up her mind. A 40-year-old man who flies his own plane should have no trouble landing a GIRL.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a middle-aged professional woman. Several months ago a person whom I considered to be a loyal friend accused me of repeating some confidential information she told me about another person. I did not repeat the information, but I know who did, and if I were to tell my friend who repeated it, she would be terribly upset.

My friend just assumes that I am the guilty one, and she refuses to believe otherwise. This has hurt me deeply.

It is impossible to communicate with someone who has a closed mind. Is there any way I can reach this friend? I want to set her straight to clear myself, but in so doing I will have to put someone else on the spot. A SINCERE FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Too bad your friend with the "closed mind" doesn't have a mouth to match. If she passed on "confidential information" which created trouble (which appears to be the case) — shame on her. To you, I say, in the future don't listen to that kind of "information," and for the present, don't knock yourself out trying to prove your innocence.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I know you can't give any medical advice, but my daughter-in-law and I are so worried about my son that it is becoming a serious problem.

My son was buried in a mine cave-in about a year ago. Thank God he has recovered from his physical injuries, but we think something else may be wrong with him and we're afraid the doctors will laugh at us.

His whole personality has changed. He is so depressed, impatient and moody. No one in his family can get along with him. We are all so thankful to have him alive, but he's making everyone around him miserable, and he is miserable, too. Could it be the lack of oxygen he suffered a year ago, or is this just a coincidence? SO WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: The shock of such an experience could easily have upset your son emotionally. Don't be ashamed to discuss this with your doctor. I promise you he won't laugh. There is no more "shame" in admitting an emotional disorder than a physical one, and treatment to correct it is equally as vital.

'Ole Rip' Tale True, Swears Local Resident

By GORDON ZEIGLER

"Aw, heck, I believe you about as much as I believe that tale about Ole Rip, that horned toad they buried in Eastland County Courthouse.

"Yeah, they say he came alive after 30 years bein' entombed there. I don't believe it."

If Big Springer T. E. Cantrell overheard this conversation he would dispel any doubts.

"It's pure truth, fellows," he would tell them.

You see, Cantrell as a young man was working in the corner drug store across the street from Eastland County Courthouse when the cornerstone was cracked open.

Cantrell carried the limp body of Ole Rip across the street and placed it in the window of W. H. Madden's drugstore for all to see.

Rip was "white as cotton and just about as thick as a silver dollar." Just three days later he began to look a little better and fill out. Yes, Rip lived. Cantrell saw it.

When Cantrell, who is a bread salesman, overhears people discussing Ole Rip, he gets real interested He likes to try to convince people the story is truth and not legend.

He relates his story to them, then later shows them a book which tells Rip's story. Cantrell is featured in the book.

H. V. Obrien Jr. was doing some research on Ole Rip but never found anyone who was a direct witness to the legendery story. Then he found Cantrell and weaved his account into a book complete with several pictures of the scene when Rip was recovered.

But what prompted putting Ole Rip in the stone to begin with? Legend has it the man responsible for sealing the stone had a son who had been chasing a horned toad across the lawn. When the boy saw the stone being set in place he asked, "Why don't you put this horned toad inside?" The man thought that would be a good idea, preserving the animal for future generations to see, so he put him in.

A likeness of Ole Rip is kept in the lobby of the courthouse in Eastland. He came to life after thirty years only to die later of, well someone thought it might be pneumonia.

Cantrell still takes pride in the fact he is one of the few to see Rip come back to life. His wife related her husband's first hand experience after reading a feature about horned toads in The Herald Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cantrell lived in Eastland until several years ago. She said they always liked the town. "It was always a real nice place to live," she said.

So if you're ever wondering whether that tale about Ole Rip is truth or legend, just check with T. E. Cantrell.

Peru Quake Toll Put At 70,000

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The death toll and missing persons in the May 31 earthquake now have been estimated at 70,000 by Peru's health minister.

Maj. Gen. Rolando Caro Constantini gave this figure to Galo Plaza, secretary-general of the Organization of American States, who visited the devastated areas in the mountainous valley of Huaylas today.

Korea Wants Air Defense

SEOUL (AP) — Air defense items head the list of what South Korea's armed forces need to get from the United States before a third of the U.S. troops in the country can be withdrawn, Defense Minister Chung Nae-hyuk said in an interview today.

Chung said he would present the list of needed items to Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard at a meeting in Honolulu July 21.

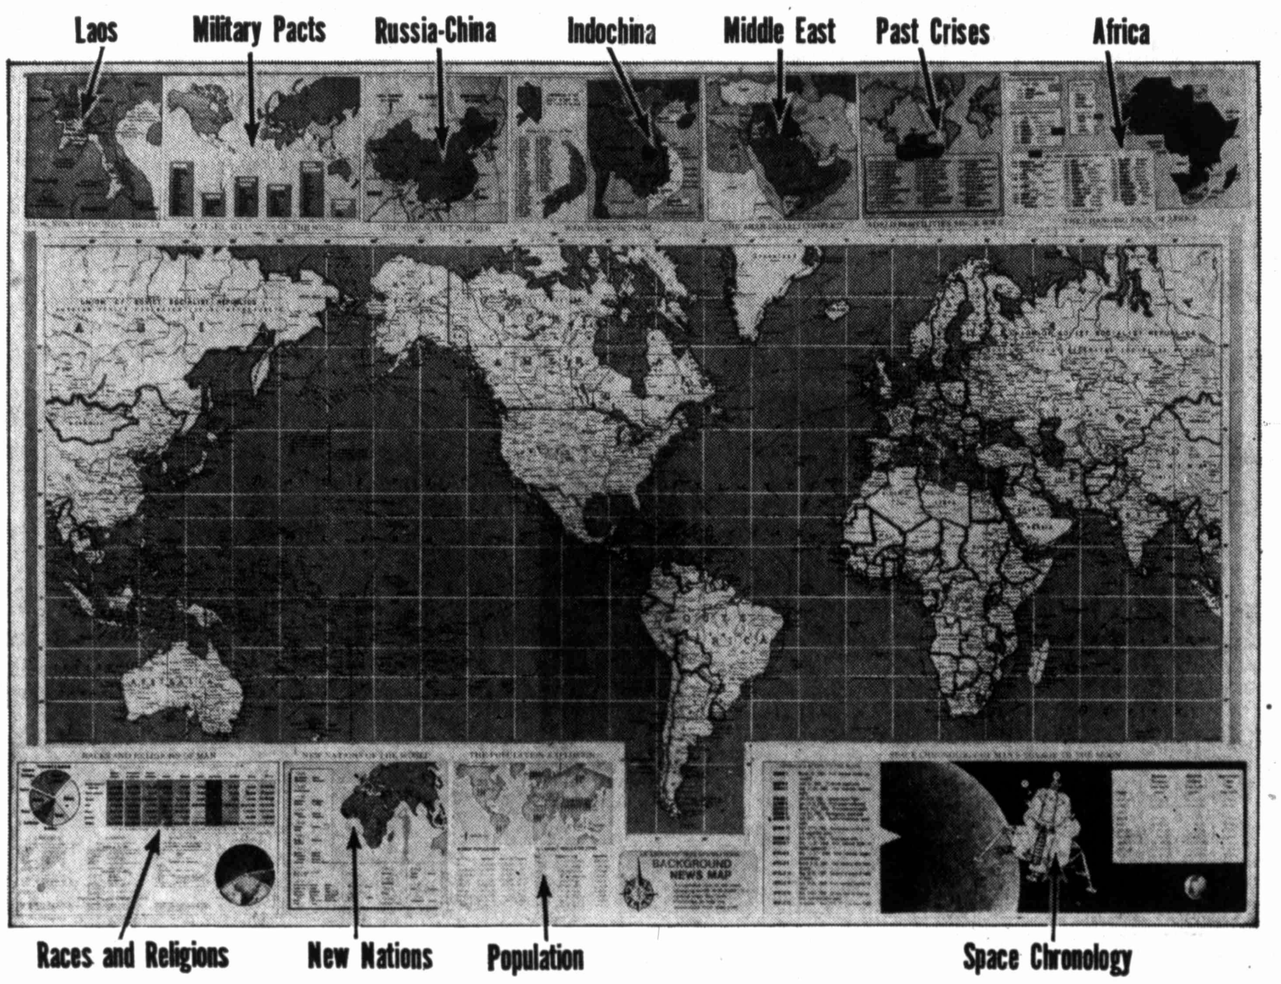

He also said he would ask for equipment needed to ward off seaborne infiltrations.

Chung did not estimate the cost of the military buildup nor the length of time it would require, but he is expected to ask for assurances of modernization to compensate for the planned withdrawal of some 20,000 of the 60,000 American troops stationed in South Korea.

Changes Name To 'United Way'

NEW YORK (AP)—The United Community Funds and Councils of America says it has changed its name to United Way of America.

"We wanted a simple name that would give people a clearer and more descriptive idea of what our organization is trying to do," explained a spokesman at the national headquarters Monday.

City Authorizes Pipelines For Cosden, Intech Plants

City commissioners authorized bid taking for the construction of two water pipelines at their meeting Tuesday evening, one for the Cosden refinery area, the other for the Intech site.

City Manager Larry Crow asked the commission to consider a proposal that he said also summarized the feeling of the Cosden people by calling for a 12-inch pipeline, to be paid for by Cosden.

Future needs of the refinery and people in that area were cited as justifying a 12 inch pipeline instead of the 8-inch line Cosden requested to satisfy present needs.

The increased cost of the larger line would be reimbursed to Cosden by reductions in their monthly water bills until the overage is refunded.

Reductions would be 18 per cent of each month's bill or $240, whichever is greater.

Crow said preliminary engineering estimates indicate that the cost difference would be about $18,600.

Another line is needed to provide fire protection and water service to the Industrial Foundation's industrial development area, including the Intech site.

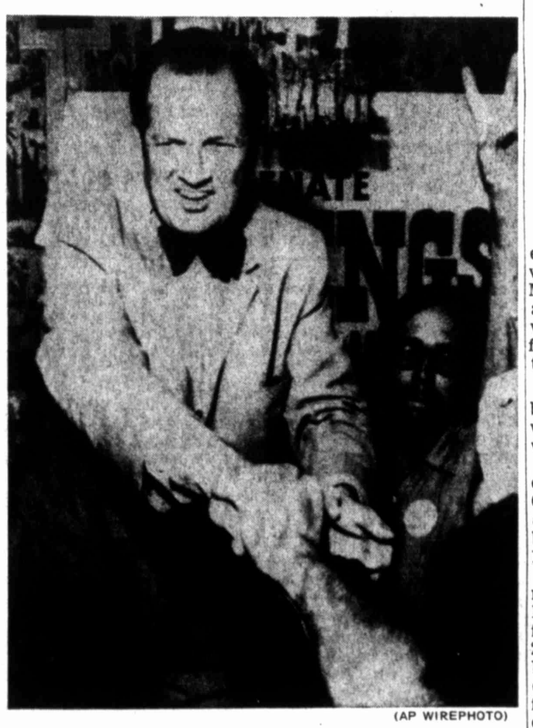

The city manager recommended that this line also be 12-inch, but pointed out that a 10-inch water line might be able to handle immediate needs at the Intech site.

Preliminary engineering estimates for the cost of this line were about $31,000.

Commissioner George Zachariah said, "I know saying anything against Intech is like talking about motherhood and the flag, but where is the money going to come from?"

Admitting the finances may be a bit "tight," Crow said that part of the cost could come from money budgeted for capital improvements in the water and sewer fund.

He also indicated that Intech would be a good water customer, with monthly bills in excess of $400, and that there was a good chance of additional businesses locating in the area and buying water carried by the line.

THE WINNER'S CIRCLE — A cheering, partisan crowd offers congratulations to former State Del. George C. Rawlings Jr., who just learned of his slim victory for the U.S. Senate nomination in the Democratic primary Tuesday, at Richmond, Va.

Liberal Is Winner In Virginia Voting

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Liberal George C. Rawlings Jr. has won a slim victory for the U.S. Senate nomination in Virginia's Democratic primary election. Voter turnout was very light.

Incomplete, unofficial returns gave Rawlings a 919-vote margin over Clive L. DuVal and the new moderate leadership of the party. Rawlings' lead was less than one percentage point.

A third candidate, Dr. Milton Colvin, a Washington and Lee University professor of political science, trailed far behind.

A runoff election is possible, but DuVal aides said he was not likely to seek one.

The winner will meet independent Sen. Harry F. Byrd and Republican Ray L. Garland in the November general election.

Republicans and the conservatives backing Byrd's independent candidacy took heart from Tuesday's meager Democratic turnout.

Only about 130,000 of Virginia's 1.75 million qualified voters —half the expected light vote— showed at the polls to give Rawlings, a 48-year-old Fredericksburg attorney, his narrow victory.

Has Anti-Inflation Campaign Of Own

Joseph H. Church Jr., 2800 Cactus, has his own campaign against inflation.

"People complain about high prices and high interest," he said. So his answer to that was to list in The Herald some 15 commercial and residential lots at "1940 prices and three per cent interest." The only difficulty, he said, was that persons interested must have figured there was some catch to it.

Church is the son of the former Ethel Read, the daughter of H. Clay Read, one of the earliest settlers in Big Spring. He said he figured that idle lots don't build a town, hence the offer.

Spain Can Wrap Up Cup Match

BARCELONA (AP) — Spain can wrap up the European Zone A Davis Cup competition against Yugoslavia today with a victory in the doubles after taking a 2-0 lead Tuesday with singles triumphs by Manuel Santana and Manuel Orantes.

Santana was expected to team with Juan Gisbert against Zeljko Franulovic and Nicola Spear in the best-of-five series, whose winner goes on to meet the winner of the American Zone final between Canada and Brazil.

Lands Safely In Crippled Plane

ALVORD (AP) — A Denver pilot safely guided his single engine plane containing his family to a landing three miles south of here near U.S. 287 after his motor quit at 2,000 feet about 2 p.m. Tuesday.

H. W. Harris, 44, and his wife, Donna, 28, received minor injuries when the Navion Super 260's nose gear struck a ditch near the end of the landing and flipped on its back.

Their children, Deirdre, 5, and Derek, 4, were not hurt.

The family, en route to Dallas for a vacation, was treated at Decatur hospital and released.

Harris, who said the plane was only slightly damaged, said the aircraft nearly had rolled to a stop in the field before it overturned.

Kosygin Stays As Premier

MOSCOW (AP) — The Supreme Soviet unanimously reelected Alexei N. Kosygin premier of the Soviet Union today. He is to present his cabinet nominations later in the current session of the Supreme Soviet, the Soviet Union's parliament, but there has been no indication whether there will be any changes.

Election of a government is a formality required because this is the first session of the new parliament elected last month. Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev nominated Kosygin at a joint session of the two houses, and he was confirmed by the usual show of hands.

Kosygin, 66, has been premier since Nikita Khrushchev was ousted in 1964. Because he is over 65, there had been some speculation he might choose this short summer session of parliament to retire, but no one was surprised when he continued in office.

Holds No Grudge Against Chinese

HONG KONG (AP) — Roman Catholic Bishop James E. Walsh says he bears no ill will toward the Chinese despite 12 years in a Red Chinese prison.

The 79-year-old American bishop, released last week, was quoted Tuesday by the Rev. John McCormack, superior general of his priestly order, as saying:

"I just could not be bitter towards the Chinese. I just never got mad at anything the Chinese would do."

GRANT BOARDMAN ROY WATKINS

Grant Boardman Quits School Post

A resignation from Grant Boardman was accepted with regret Tuesday night by trustees of the Big Spring Independent School District, and Roy Watkins was elected vice president of the board to replace Boardman.

Following the regular meeting trustees went into executive session to discuss filling Boardman's unexpired term until the next school election in April 1971. At that time the year left on Boardman's term will be filled by election.

Board members can replace Boardman by appointing a resident of the district to serve until the election.

Boardman, manager of Sid Richardson Carbon Co., has been a Big Spring resident since 1961 and is serving his second term on the school board. He came here with the opening of the new plant and was named plant manager in 1964.

He was named production manager of the Fort Worth office effective June 1.

A native of Monroe, La., he graduated from Lousiana State University with a degree in chemical engineering. Boardman and his wife, Maxine, have three children, Calvin, Barbara and Clint Boardman.

Watkins was re-elected this spring to a second term on the board. He is employed by Cosden Oil and Chemical Co. as an operator at the polystyrene unit.

Appalachia Urges Regional Aid Plan

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Appalachian governors have urged President Nixon to adopt a new regional concept of funneling federal money to the states, a proposal they say will boost his chances of getting his revenue-sharing plan through Congress.

Nixon was reported impressed with the governors' plan during a private three-hour conference Tuesday, but made no commitment.

Gov. Albert Brewer of Alabama, co-chairman of the Appalachian Regional Commission, said the regional approach would complement Nixon's revenue sharing proposals now tied up in the House Ways and Means Committee.

He indicated the governors told Nixon that adopting their plan would remove some of the congressional opposition.

"In revenue-sharing, there is a question of who is going to get the funds—the city, the town or the counties," Brewer said "In the Appalachian program, there is none of that bickering."

The Appalachian governors wanted Nixon to expand the concept behind their five-year-old regional commission into a nationwide network of similar agencies.

Brewer said the key advantage of the Appalachian program is its emphasis on planning and setting priorities, forcing local governments to band together to seek federal funds.

A Devotion For Today . . .

They who wait for the Lord shall renew their strength . . . they shall run and not be weary, they shall walk and not faint. (Isaiah 40:31, RSV)

PRAYER: O God, when the going becomes difficult for us, the burdens heavy, deliver us from self-pity. Grant us courage and sustain us by Thy power to go steadily on. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Those Personal Files

The federal government has compiled and is continuing to gather massive computerized and microfilmed files on "persons of interest" throughout the nation.

The subjects of this information are not necessarily persons who have broken the law; they are merely persons whom, for whatever reason, the government believes should be kept under some loose form of surveillance. Several federal agencies have such massive data banks, but the Secret Service has been the target of most of the criticism.

The Secret Service has at its disposal one of the newest and most sophisticated computers available. In its memory banks is information on untold numbers of persons, most of whom have not been accused of crimes. These subjects, rather, usually have been in some way associated with civil disorders, violent protest, assassination attempts and the like. Their links with such activites need not be direct, and the subjects have no chance to refute suspicion about them.

The foremost critic of computerized "surveillance" of this type is Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C. He has said that computerized files already in existence are leading the country toward a "police state." His concern was reflected by the American Civil Liberties Union last October when it spoke out against Secret Service guidelines on gathering information as being too broad.

Perhaps much of the information compiled will never be used in any way against the subjects. Perhaps such a mass of information can at times be helpful to authorities trying to avert civil disorders and those investigating past disorders. But one cannot help being grimly reminded of George Orwell's ominous prophesies in "1984."

Advances in computer technology have made it possible for various computers used by the government to "trade information," though authorities insist that this type of centralization is seldom utilized. But few people not directly involved in computerization have any idea how extensive information on U.S. citizens could be used, and few people outside government circles know just how extensive this information is.

It would seem a bit premature to foresee an imminent "Big Brother" state. But the existence of extensive files on law-abiding citizens unaware that they are under surveillance is cause for concern and reason for careful consideration by Congress of the possibilities for misuse of such data.

New Category Of Advertising

At the end of this year the three major television networks will be out more than $200 million in advertising revenue because of a congressional ban on cigarette commercials. So, naturally, they have begun to consider possibilities for making up this loss.

There is no official word yet, but some persons close to the broadcasting industry who spend their spare mental moments speculating on such matters say that the liquor industry is looking more and more tempting. For advertising purposes, that is.

The networks have imposed a ban on themselves against liquor commercials (though beer and wine are fair game). But with $200 million on the way out the window, some broadcasters seem to be having second thoughts. Advertising Age magazine has reported that some liquor firms already are planning trial commercials.

Congressional action has brought us a long way in the battle against that which "may be hazardous to your health." Pardon us while we look up the spelling of . . . ah, yes — cirrhosis.

Last Survivor

PT Boat Heads Toward Museum

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — She used to be a beauty with a style reckless and deadly. Now, the last survivor of a vanishing breed, she just looked tired and somehow naked.

On her last patrol, handled by men who still love her kind, PT 796 was stripped for peace. No torpedo tubes, no machine guns, no cannon, depth charges or rocket launchers.

"They don't look quite so businesslike, do they?" said Andrew Higgins Jr., a man who knew the PTs very well way back when.

THE RETIRED New Orleans industrialist helped design and build the famed World War II motor torpedo boats — and some of the landing craft — that carved a name in naval history in the South Pacific.

Higgins, with an 8-year-old grandson in tow, was a one-man welcoming committee as the last of the PTs, her engines throttled to a grumble, edged alongside a Mississippi River wharf to tie up near a Brazilian freighter.

Unrecognized by the crew, the one-time executive of Higgins Industries served as a dockside hope handler as the 78-foot boat was snubbed to mooring posts.

"THIS ISN'T no place to dock a boat like this," complained Memphis, Tenn., industrialist John M. "Boats" Newberry as he climbed a ladder to the wharf. "They couldn't have picked a worse place. Oh, hello, Andrew. How does she look?"

Higgins, a sandy-haired man of 58, stood gazing at the last survivor of the Higgins Industries PT production, keeping a clutch on his restless grandson, Vance.

"Well she looks pretty good, considering," he said. "We built her back in 1945. That makes her 25 years old."

Higgins led Vance down onto the boat. Newberry, a former Navy Bos'un who is skipper of PT 796 on her final cruise, outlined her future.

SHE WAS headed for Memphis to rest in a PT museum. Volunteer crews of former Navy PT men were handling her on the run upriver. Some of them traveled far for their brief labor of love.

The proposed PT museum sprang from Newberry's PT All Hands newsletter, which he mails out two or three times a year to some 3,000 former PT men.

In one issue he wrote that there ought to be such a museum but, unfortunately, it was too late — the Navy no longer had any PT boats or gear to stock it with.

"Blam!" said Newberry. "After that issue guys started sending me all kinds of PT stuff. I've got rooms of it. My kids are grown and gone and I filled up their bedrooms.

"THEN WE located an old PT boat, all shot up. She was laying on the beach at Chin Hai, about 50 miles northwest of Pusan, South Korea. It was an Elco. There were two types of PT boats — the Elco and the Higgins. We had the Elco shipped to Memphis.

"Now we've got this Higgins. Admiral John Bulkeley — he's head of the Navy Department's Board of Inspection and Survey — spotted her in Panama City, Fla."

Both boats, dressed with all available armaments, will be mounted inside the museum building — if the project can come up with a building.

"We're talking about half a million bucks there," said Newberry. "We haven't got it yet."

DOWN ON the PT, Higgins was tyring to tell Vance how it used to be.

"They used to have torpedo tubes right here," he said, pointing at the pitching deck.

"Back there they had a 20 millimeter cannon. She had roocket launchers there, and 50 caliber machine guns here. See those big engines? Three of them. Twelve cylinder Packards . . . "

Vance couldn't quite visualize it. But some day he may see the PT in full fighting dress, lean and deadly, perched in a Memphis museum.

Billy Graham

Will you please tell me if Isaiah 2:3 and 4 means the first or second coming of Christ? F.J.

It was characteristic of Old Testament prophets to merge into a single prophecy aspects of the first and the second coming of our Lord Jesus. This particular passage seems to be one of them. The glorious things that are described in these two verses could never possibly take place had it not been for Calvary. But the complete fulfillment of them, it seems, must wait until the Lord Himself shall return.

Probably what you are thinking about is the closing phrase where it says: ". . .nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." In an age of warfare we love to contemplate such Scriptures as this one, and we sometimes indulge in wishful thinking Certainly this does not describe a state of affairs that exists at the present time, nor even in any foreseeable future. This only exception would be that our Savior Himself should return and bring about a complete and total fulfillment of all that He has promised in His Word.

There will be a day of peace — but not till the Prince of Peace is on the Throne in the hearts of men.

SCRAMBLED PLANS

John Cunniff

Penn Central Plight Still Makes Waves

NEW YORK (AP) — Opinions now circulating that the stock market and the economy have shaken off the shock of the Penn Centray Transporation bankruptcy reorganization appear to be superficial and incredibly premature.

The first shock perhaps; but in the bowels of the economy there are secondary waves that haven't surfaced, and government and business financial specialists are keenly aware of rumblings.

Effects will turn up for years, in American whistle stop hamlets and European financial centers, on campuses dependent upon dividend checks, in banks which made loans, on other railroads which need rolling stock but may find it almost impossible to finance such purchases.

What will foreign investors now think of the stability of American corporations? Will they lose faith in other companies as well?

Money from abroad has become a significant factor in American markets, the total rising to $17.2 billion in 1970 from $13.3 billion five years earlier. Such funds are a prop under some stocks. Will they be withdrawn?

And for students of corporate management: Does the Penn Central's troubles mean that the role of the director should be re-examined? Some Penn Central directors claim they were as poorly informed as the public about finances. Whose fault is that? Whose responsibility?

Can any smart investor henceforth be impressed by a "big name" board, knowing that its members might be performing a function little more than ceremonial while actually sitting in ignorance?

What may be said for the institutions that put millions upon millions of their customers' money into this railroad's stock without knowing the quality of the investment?

Can they simply plead ignorance, while at the same time retaining their dignity as professional managers? Or was there a violation of fiduciary trust?

Was the Interstate Commerce Commission, which amasses data by the ton—literally—unable by existing methods to ascertain the financial condition of a line that carries 20 per cent of the nation's rail traffic?

If this is so, will a mere study of the situation, as the ICC has already launched, be sufficient to protect the public in the future? Or should the ICC itself be studied?

More important, are investor-owned railroads possible in this day and age, or must the federal government, as in so many countries, take over the rails and run them? Are railroads anachronisms, made so by trucks and planes and pipelines? Or are they simply mismanaged and misregulated? A bit of both?

Things Not Done—

NEW YORK (AP) — Everybody's different.

Americans today are thought to be a very conventional people, alike as peas in a pod, sharing the dream of making a big buck and spending it in the same way.

There is some truth to this caricature—but it remains a caricature.

We may be alike in many of the things we do, but we are very much unalike in what we don't do or haven't done. To find how much of an individual you are, sometime take the trouble to sit down and make a list of all the things you haven't got around to doing.

When you then reread the list, you'll be surprised to find how surprisingly different you are from anyone else you know.

For example, after nearly six decades of steady living, I find that I have never yet—

Owned a home.
Bought a share of stock.
Learned to drive an automobile or a motorcycle.
Lived in the suburbs.
Seen a movie at a drive-in theater.
Read "War and Peace," "Das Kapital," or "Alice in Wonderland."
Detected a counterfeit bill.
Turned in a fire alarm.
Yelled, "Stop thief!"
Made a citizen's arrest.
Been on a government payroll.
Won a lottery prize, a medal for bravery, or a court-martial for cowardice.
Sent away a box top for anything.
Written a letter to my congressman—or yours.
Taken the Fifth Amendment.
Grown a beard.
Held anybody in the palm of my hand or known anyone who felt like putty in my fingers.
Walked with kings.
Been asked to cast my straw in a straw vote.

On reviewing my own list of things I haven't done, I find I'm different, all right. Too darned different.

Old Master Found

LONDON (AP) — Leger Galleries of London has just rediscovered by accident an old master which once belonged to the British royal family.

The painting is by the 17th century Italian painter Bendetto Gennari the Younger. It depicts the Holy Family and is dated 1682. It was commissioned by the then Duchess of York, wife of James, Duke of York, a brother of Charles II.

The duchess commissioned the painting for her private chapel at St. James Palace, but when James II lost the throne in 1688 he took the picture to France. It was bought in Rome in 1767 by an ancestor of Earl Poulett, but after that its history was lost.

"In a sense," said Stuart Leger, "we bought this picture by accident, not realizing the full significance of our purchase. We bought the picture because we were struck by the quality of it."

An outside expert tipped the Legers about what they had.

The Baby With A 'Constant Cold'

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My eight-month-old baby acts as if he had a cold all the time, a runny nose, constant loose congestion in the head, and at night it sounds like snoring, but he acts as though he had a hard time breathing.

We've had him in the hospital but nothing showed up. The doctor said it's probably from cutting teeth, but this has been going on for nearly six months and neither the baby nor I have had a good night's sleep. Could this be from teething? He also has swollen eyes. Mrs. G.A.G.

Sounds as though you've had him pretty well checked, but although teething can make little ones irritable, I doubt that it could cause the amount of breathing trouble you describe.

Increasing the humidity in his bedroom with a vaporizer may help make him more comfortable, but I would dig deeper for the cause of his miseries.

I wonder if allergy has been considered. Sensitivity to foods or a pet in the house or house dust or perhaps other things can cause all of the symptoms you mention. You might do well to consult an allergist.

* * *

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Concerning your reference to lithium carbonate for manic depressives, I would appreciate learning whether it is being used in connection with depressives who do not alternate into manic states but are perfectly normal until they enter a state of depression.

The patient I am referring to has had electroshock therapy, drugs, and psychotherapy but continues to fall into depressions. Lithium treatment has not been suggested. Is there any reason for this? — R.D.

Possible reasons are that the use of lithium carbonate is relatively new and its use primarily has been for manic-depressive states — situations in which the patient fluctuates from being very depressed to feeling abnormally exhilarated.

How it may work with depression alone, I can't say. The drug must be prescribed by a psychiatrist familiar with the dosage and toxic effects.

Around The Rim

They Didn't Know They Were Miserable

Some people say they have suffered from the recent stretch of an almost unbroken week of 100 plus temperatures — and doubtless they have. Alas, they don't know what suffering can be like compared with the "good old days." The big difference is that the folks then — not knowing better — didn't realize how abused they were by the heat.

OH, THEY had their ways of fighting back. Homes and businesses were constructed to allow in part for those upper-bracket readings. Residential rooms generally were large and always had a high ceiling — at least 10-feet. The hottest air rose to the top, presumably above the heads of sweltering mortals. Windows were generally deeper, too, allowing for air circulation from nearer the floor to nearer the ceiling. Flat roofs were out of the question for everything but shacks and sheds, and most roof lines were steeply pitched to allow for plenty of dead-air space in the attic. This was the insulation of a generation or two ago.

COMMERCIAL structures pretty much followed the same pattern, going for the super-high ceiling. Most of them managed overhead paddle electric fans which only slightly stirred the air. A few had exhaust fans; others used oscillating electric fans, such as were seen occasionally in homes, some of which also boasted an attic fan. Heat was heat, but it helped to keep the air moving.

AS FOR PUBLIC buildings, it was mostly torture in the heat box. Theatres learned early that it helped attendance to have a huge blower behind the screen, pushing great volumes of air past the audience. They were among the first to make use of water as a cooling agent. Churches cleverly gave parishoners a prevue of hell, fought back only by hand fans — fancy folding ones for the ladies and straw or paperones with mercantile advertising for men and boys. Sunday school quarterlies, magazines, papers served in a pinch to swat off an assault of heat exhaustion.

CONGREGATIONS frequently took to the brush arbors, an open-air contrivance supported by crude posts connected by beams and wire, overlaid with brush for shade. Some just put the benches out in the open for night serivces.

Picnics were more in vogue than they are now, for this was another way of beating the heat, especially when a barrel or tank of pink lemonade, cooled by big cakes of ice, were part of the plan.

PORCHES — long front verandas with a fancy swingor screened-in back rooms — were the casual dens of yesteryear.

Sleeping comfort depended upon the breeze. Something better than a zephyr cleared out most of the day's accumulated heat, and by bedtime, it was tolerable to comfortable. Occassionally, it was sheer misery, and natives were known to use wet towels or even soak sheets so evaporation would induce a bit of cooling.

PERHAPS THIS led to the combination of evaporative pad and fan, especially when an ingenious soul discovered that a simple circulating pump could lift water from a pan to the pads and keep them continually wet as air was sucked in by the blower. That is still our most widely used air conditioner. Changes in construction and insulation made refrigerative air conditioning possible. But let today's mechanical air conditioning fail and it's murder. Makes you wonder if those high-ceiling rooms weren't best after all.

United Nations — Still Object Of Hope

WASHINGTON — President Nixon decided to pay tribute to the United Nations with a dinner at the White House in honor of the 25th anniversary of the signing of the charter of the international organization, which actually took place before World War II was ended.

The conference of representatives of 50 governments, which was held at San Francisco, began on April 25 and closed on June 26, 1945, when the charter unanimously was adopted and President Truman addressed the assemblage. But all this happened prior to the time that an atomic bomb was dropped on Hiroshima on Aug. 6 of that year and on Nagasaki on Aug. 9, and the surrender of Japan on Aug. 14, and before Gen. MacArthur was able to take over the supervision of Japan on Sept. 9.

THE FIRST General Assembly of the United Nations opened in London on Jan. 10, 1946. Since then, earnest efforts have been made to develop the U.N. into a peacekeeping institution which would prevent further wars. Unfortunately, as early as 1950 it was discovered that the Soviet Union had been furnishing arms to Red China to help North Korea in its invasion of South Korea. This was frankly admitted at a meeting of the Security Council of the United Nations.

The United States still was the largest number of troops in the international detachment which is operating under the authority of the United Nations to protect South Korea from any violation of the 38th parallel by its northern neighbor.

THE KOREAN WAR shocked the world and caused a loss of confidence generally in the ability of the United Nations to achieve peace wherever the major countries were involved in any struggle.

Some of the difficulties that arose in other parts of the world in subsequent years were handled by peace-keeping detachments sent by the United Nations. But attempts to mediate as, for instance, in the Middle East have proved to be fruitless tasks, because, notwithstanding promises to refrain from warfare, there have been serious outbreaks over the years.

ALTHOUGH ENTRY into the United Nations was approved and the charter adopted in 1945, the United States has not found other nations as ready to share some of the responsibilities of peacekeeping. Also, since the charter of the U.N. gives the members of the Security Council — which includes the Soviet Union — a veto power, it is possible to prevent action by the organization. This in itself has proved a big stumbling block toward the consummation of peacemaking plans.

TODAY, THE biggest single factor in the maintenance of peace is the willingness or unwillingness of the United States to make sacrifices in behalf of the smaller nations of the world. The costly war in Vietnam has produced much uneasiness in foreign countries, where the belief is growing that help from the United States may not be forthcoming "next time." Under such circumstances, Communist aggression would be inevitable, and then the larger countries in Europe and Asia would become involved. Undoubtedly America would be drawn into the melee as the conflict widened into a world war.

THE MERE FACT that the President gives attention to the United Nations anniversary is significant. It means that the United States may in the future appeal through that organization to the peoples of the world to do more to help the cause of mutual defense in the hope that both Red China and the Soviet Union also will some day see the wisdom of cooperative policies.

Paying Everybody's Medical Bills

WASHINGTON — The best thing about the (roughly) $40-billion-a-year "Health Security Program" proposed by a panel of labor leaders, educators, health experts and Congressmen is that it would lend a hand to the people who need it most.

Not the poor; they're taken care of these days; but the so-called Middle American blue-collar workers. The proposed program, which would pay all doctor and hospital bills for every American, is right up the alley of middle-income folks because they work for a living and pay all their bills. There are some 70 million in this $5,000-to-$10,000-a-year group, and they need help.

HEALTH SERVICE for all would seem to be a must for the blue-collar group, whose members have discovered that while hard work often may be its own reward, it seldom offers financial security. As if they didn't know it already, their plight has been brought center stage by the much-discussed Labor Department report which focussed on the dead-end quality of their lives.

To give just one example, the report noted that when a typical steel worker reaches the age of 40 and has two children between 9 and 18, he has to spend 25 per cent more than he earns every year.

MEANWHILE, he looks around and discovers that it apparently pays NOT to work for a living. He is incensed by the swollen welfare rolls, by militant students on parental handouts, and by the easy permissiveness extended to stickup men, muggers and murderers. He sees militant, non-working blacks demanding forthwith niceties of life he has achieved only through years of hard labor.

THAT IS WHY health insurance for all is so vital. By now, no one doubts that the blue-collar workers are in non-violent political revolt. Non-violent, because they will not riot or burn or loot but will bring their outrage into the voting booth, and heaven help the expedient politician who has been cozying up the militants on such issues as drugs, street crime and more money for the congenital welfare cases.

HEALTH INSURANCE for all is important because it will ease the plight of the blue-collar workers. It will mean one less bill to pay out of their hard-earned wages. But there seems to be general agreement that more must be done for this sector of American life. That is why the Nixon administration is considering tax breaks, educational subsidies for children of blue-collar workers, on-the-job education to enable them to step up the economic ladder, and free child care.

FINALLY, it has dawned on both Republicans and Democrats alike that the real "silent majority" is these 70 million blue-collar people. In the past, they generally have supported the Democratic Party. Now they are up for grabs. Almost surely, their votes will decide this year's Congressional elections and the 1972 race for the White House.

U.S. Mediator To Be Sought

DALLAS (AP) — The National Football League Players Association will ask today that negotiations with league owners be turned over to a federal mediator, the Dallas Times Herald reported.

Sports writer Steve Perkins said a player spokesman in New York told him the proposal would be presented to the owners at their negotiating session there.

Both sides in a labor dispute must agree to submit an issue to a mediator.

The Times Herald also quoted its source as saying the players had agreed on the issue of exhibition pay along with a companion agreement that the NFLPA would withdraw its bid to have the NFL and Commissioner Pete Rozelle declared a joint employer.

In another move, the source said Detroit Lions team captain Alex Karras talked to the college all-stars in Chicago Tuesday and asked them to stop organized workouts for their exhibition game with world champion Kansas City.

The source said Karras told the players that it was unfair for them to practice twice a day when the Chiefs are locked out of their training camp.

The source said that in return for dropping their plan to have the NFL and Rozelle declared joint employers—a key point in the negotiations—the players received a 15 per cent increase in exhibition season pay.

NFL veterans now receive $350 for each exhibition game. The increase gives them $402.50.

The big stumbling block in negotiations remains the pension plan offered by owners.

The source said players have reduced their pension requests by $3 million since negotiations started April 13.

"We have made six moves and they haven't moved once," he source said. "This shows you which side is really interested in getting the season under way. But we're not going to move any more. The ball players are united. We are stronger this time than we were in 1968."

Tiger And Griffith Clash In Garden

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Tiger is 40. He hasn't fought since last November. Emile Griffith is 32. He is a busybody with three wins in a row in 1970, including a decision over previously unbeaten Tom Bogs of Denmark in his own home town.

The two men have met only once—April 26, 1966. All three officials agreed Griffith had won Tiger's world middleweight title although many newsmen—and Tiger—dissented.

Four years and many bouts later they fight again tonight in Madison Square Garden with no championship at stake and Tiger is favored.

Weight can be an important factor in this 10-round match to be carried on a special television network with the New York area blacked out. By ringtime at 9 p.m., CDT, Tiger may have a decisive edge in pounds although he is giving away at least eight years.

When they met in 1966, Griffith had just moved up from the welterweight division, and scaled but 150½. Tiger tortured himself to make 160.

After 15 rounds, referee Arthur Mercante scored it for Griffith 9-5-1 and judge Frank Forbes 7-6-2. Tony Castellano, the other judge, had it even in rounds 7-7-1 but gave it to Griffith on points 8-7, presumably because he floored Tiger for the first time in his career in the ninth round.

"It was torture for five or six weeks," said Chickie Ferrara, who still trains Tiger. "It was like he was on a desert, dying for water, and knowing each time he took some out of the canteen he was hurting his chance to get across the desert."

Despite that ordeal, Tiger still claims he can make 160 pounds again "if the price is right." The price would have to be $100,000 and Nino Benvenuti, loser to Tiger in an over-the-weight match last year, would have to put the title on the line.

If Griffith wins, he wants another shot at Benvenuti, who holds a 2-1 edge over him in championship fights. Although Emile is No. 1 in the Ring ratings and No. 2 in the World Boxing Association, he will have to wait his turn. Benvenuti already has agreed to make his next defense against Carlos Monzon of Argentina.

Griffith has a career record of 63-11 and is 18-3 in the Garden. Tiger's record is 61-16-3.

Both have held the middleweight crown, Griffith also was once welter king and Tiger was once the lightheavy champ.

Five Frosh Cut By Cowpokes

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP)—The Dallas Cowboys cut five rookies from their roster even before drills, officials stated here today.

Five of the 62 rookie prospects failed to pass their physical examinations Tuesday and were dropped.

The players were defensive tackles Dennis Petracek of California Poly and Mel Simon of Arkansas AM&N, defensive back Isaac Howard of Colorado, wide receiver Aaron Heard of Southern University and kicker Tony Jenkins of West Texas.

That leaves 57 rookies in the camps. It is probable that fewer than 10 of them will still be on the roster when the NFL season gets under way.

Banner Field Awaits Philadelphia Classic

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pro golf's great names, headed by British Open champ Jack Nicklaus, return to the American tour this week as the Philadelphia Classic ushers in the start of the big money season.

The $150,000 event is the first leg on a seven-week swing that ranks as the richest in the game's history. Approximately $1.4 million is up for grabs.

Almost all of the leading tourists are on hand to make their bid for a share of it, in sharp contrast to the last two weeks when most of the game's top stars were in Scotland for the British Open.

So many of them are here, in fact, that there is no clear-cut favorite, though the awesome Nicklaus must be given consideration. Nicklaus, however, is having putting troubles, even though he won the British Open for the second time. He three-putted five times Saturday in the final round at Scotland when he and Doug Sanders finished in a tie.

Nicklaus and Sanders weren't expected until late today.

Among the early arrivals was controversial Dave Hill, the defending champion who left the tour two weeks ago suffering from exhaustion.

"I wouldn't be here if I wasn't the defending champion," said the tough, skinny character who appeared to be even lighter than his usual 155 pounds. "I'm afraid to step on the scales," he said.

"I've only played nine holes four times in the last two weeks, and I was in a cart all the time. My legs are still weak."

Some of the top contenders for the $30,000 first prize, along with Nicklaus and Sanders, are leading money winner Lee Trevino, Frank Beard, Australian Bruce Devlin and Bob Lunn.

Masters champion Billy Casper said he was still bothered with a hand injury that knocked him off the tour for five weeks earlier in the year, but said he would compete.

In fact, all but three of the season's top 20 money winners are on hand.

Missing are Arnold Palmer, whose home course, Laurel Valley, will be the site of next week's National Four-Ball Championship, U.S. Open titleholder Tony Jacklin and Gary Player, who has returned to his South African home.

The site for the 72-hole test that begins Thursday is the rolling, 6,670-yard, par 72 Whitemarsh Country Club course.

North Boasts Brilliant QBs

HOUSTON — The old theory that it takes brawn and not brains to put a football team together will be dispelled when the 1970 edition of the Texas High School Coaches Assn. North and South All-Star teams meet August 6 in the Astrodome.

With each team fielding 32 players, a total of 64 players that will make up the two teams, 44 of these All-Stars graduated in the top 10 per cent of their senior class.

Coach Jimmy Keeling, head mentor of the North will have a tough time deciding on a starting quarterback, if he relies on either academic or athletic ability. Joe Barnes of Reagan County, an All-Stater as well as President of the National Honor Society and Jimmy Carmichael of Brownwood won every honor on the football field and also found time to carry high grades and become a member of the National Honor Society. To make things a bit tougher Pat Kelly of Lubbock, All-State and Prep All-American will also be vying for a position as a signal caller. In the academic field, Kelly won all honors in the classroom.

Cole Fraley, of Borger, All-American, Freddie Pattison of Honey Grove, All-Stater, Bryan Davenport of Burleson performed as champs in the classroom during their high school career.

The string goes on and on with the likes of Ted Hemmingson of Dallas Hillcrest, Leon Sellers of Seagraves, an "A" student, Tim Faulk of Weatherford, Bobby Giles of Amarillo, a standout in the classroom and Preston Anderson of Bonham all trying to break in the starting lineup on the football All-Stars.

When mentioning outstanding athletes, Jack Biggerstaff of Dallas, ranked third in his class, and Mike Weeks of Amarillo, an honor student for his entire high school career, will all have to be considered.

Sterling Wins 11-8 Decision

STERLING CITY — The Big Spring Merchants suffered one o ftheir infrequent 'off nights' here Tuesday and dropped an 11-8 softball decision to Sterling City.

Six runs in the fourth inning and four more in the sixth turned the trick for the home team.

Kenny Strickland gave the visitors a boost in the fifth when he belted a home run with two mates aboard but it wasn't enough.

Claude Fryar and Roland Fryar each had two safeties for the Merchants, who outhit the Sterling team, 10-9.

Yaz Is Named MVP

CINCINNATI (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski, the All-Star Game's most valuable player, thinks artificial playing surfaces will be a boon for hitters and has the evidence to back his claim.

The Boston Red Sox star tied an All-Star baseball record with four hits—three singles and a double—and played all 12 innings Tuesday night for the losing American League in the game won by the National League 5-4.

His four hits on Riverfront Stadium's Astroturf tied the mark belonging to Ducky Medwick and Ted Williams. Medwick rapped four hits for the NL in 1937 and Williams four for the AL in 1946.

HELP TO HITTERS

"I think it (artificial) is great for the hitter," Yaz said. "It's got to help some guys 30 points on their batting average and a lot of others at least 15 points."

"You can't believe the speed the ball picks up when it hits the surface," he said.

The Red Sox ace looked like a kissing target of exotic dancer Morganna Roberts when she bounced onto the field in the first inning. "If she was coming for me," Yaz said, "I was going to run over to the President's box."

Yaz wound up with his first single and the 44½-23-37 Morganna faced a disorderly conduct charge today in the court after the incident.

Carl had an explanation for the AL's eighth straight loss to the NL. "We had scoring opportunities and, bang, a base hit."

Ex-National League President Warren Giles hustled into the National clubhouse, congratulated Manager Gil Hodges and said, "They'll never beat us."

Jim Hickman, whose single drove home Pete Rose with the deciding run, said, "I was just trying to hit the ball anywhere. It was a fast ball (from Clyde Wright) down."

Rose barreled into Cleveland rookie catcher Ray Fosse for the winning run and both were hurt. Rose suffered a charley horse above his left knee and Fosse an injured left shoulder.

HAPPY IN WORK

Winning pitcher Claude Osteen worked three innings after going in as a pinch runner and was a happy southpaw.

"I've got to cut out this box score and show it to my teammates," the Los Angeles Dodgers' hurler said, referring to the pinch running and pitching stint.

"They call me 'Grand Dad.' They're always kidding me about how old I am."

Hodges wasn't particularly surprised that the AL pitchers stopped the power-laden NL batters for the eight innings.

"Here you've got the best pitchers against the best hitters and the pitchers can contain the hitters if they get the ball where they want it. That's what the AL pitchers were doing most of the night," he said.

A writer mentioned to American League Manager Earl Weaver that the Nationals had beaten the AL in extra innings for the sixth straight time.

"We just can't beat them period," he said. It took them 12 innings though and I'd call that pretty even."

Wright, the victim of three straight NL hits in the 12th, said, "They just hit the damn pitches for base hits. You hit three in a row and you get beat."

NICE GOING, PETE — National League's Pete Rose, (14) is hugged by teammate Dick Dietz after he scored winning run in the bottom of the 12th inning during Tuesday night's All-Star game in Cincinnati. Ray Fosse, catcher, lies on ground and was injured during collision with Rose.

National's Comeback Nets All-Star Win

CINCINNATI (AP) — When someone remarked on the eve of baseball's 41st All-Star Game that fans' interest in the inter-league tussle has been hyped this year, someone else said it was about time the players got interested.

Tuesday night, 56 of the major leagues' finest certified their interest . . . and then some . . . in a grueling, 12-inning struggle at muggy Riverfront Stadium.

When it was over, the National Leaguers had pocketed a 5-4 victory, their eighth in a row and sixth in as many extra-inning duels during the long series. But any talk of lethargy, or cop-outs was stilled after;

SUDDEN WINDUP

Pete Rose scored the winning run in a jarring collision at the plate with Ray Fosse that sent the Cleveland catcher to a hospital with a shoulder injury and left the Cincinnati flash nursing a painful charley horse.

Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente, castigated for suggesting he might pass up the game because of a pain in the neck, showed up, played and capped the Nationals' tying three-run rally in the ninth with a sacrafice fly.

Baltimore's Dave Johnson, hobbled by a damaged knee, labored through eight innings at second base for the Americans on the hot and hard Astroturf that blankets the Reds' new park.

Southpaw Claude Osteen of Los Angeles, who had worked eight innings three days earlier, got into the game as a pinch runner in the NL ninth and wound up pitching three scoreless frames to earn the victory.

President Nixon, who joined the crowd shortly before game time, stayed to the finish. So did Hank Aaron, Willie Mays, Frank Robinson and all the superstars who were out of their respective line-ups after the early innings.

The only drop-out was busty Morganna Roberts, the exotic dancer and compulsive player-kisser, who made a promised foray onto the playing field in the first inning . . . and was promptly hauled off to jail.

SHARE ATTENTION

Jim Hickman of the Chicago Cubs and Billy Grabarkewitz of Los Angeles two of the NL's top hitters who were overlooked in the fans' first balloting for starting spots in 13 years, shared the spotlight with Rose in the climactic 12th.

Rose, hitless in three previous All-Star appearances and a two-time strikeout victim Tuesday night, stroked a single with two out in the 12th and took second on Grabarkewitz' single. Hickman then lined a single to center and Rose barreled into Fosse before toeing the plate.

"It was a bang-bang play" said National League Manager Gil Hodges of the New York Mets. "It took someone like Pete to bull his way in there."

The All-Star Game has been the setting for crippling injuries to several top players in past years, but Rose plays every game this same way.

"If I can change the score, I'm not going to worry about getting hurt," he said.

Boston's Carl Yastrzemski, named the game's most valuable player after cracking four hits to tie the All-Star mark, delivered a run-scoring single in the sixth, giving the AL a 1-0 lead.

Fosse contributed a run-producing saerifice fly in the seventh and Brooks Robinson, Baltimore's 14-year All-Star fixture, drilled a two-run triple in the eighth.

SURGE IN NINTH

Trailing 4-1 in the ninth, the favored Nationals finally exploded. San Francisco catcher Dick Dietz provided the spark with a leadoff homer. Singles by Bud Harrelson of New York, Joe Morgan of Houston and Willie McCovey of San Francisco brought home another run and Clemente tied it with a long fly to center.

Osteen then held the AL at bay until his teammates broke through again in the 12th at the expense of Clyde Wright, California's no-hit left-hander.

Rose Suffers Leg Injury

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pete Rose bounced back from two strike-three counts and wound up with a knockdown.

The peppery Cincinnati outfielder bowled into home plate in the 12th inning of the major league All-Star Game Tuesday night with the run that gave the National Leaguers a 5-4 victory. But Rose suffered a charley horse on the play and injured a new friend of his—catcher Ray Fosse of Cleveland.

"He was doing his job but it was my job to score," Rose said in the clubhouse as he lay on the training table with his left knee packed in ice. "If I can change the score. I'm not going to worry about getting hurt."

But Rose, the National League batting champion in 1968 and 1969, was concerned about Fosse, who visited his home Monday night along with pitcher Sam McDowell of the Indians.

"We just talked baseball and Sam played the guitar," Rose said about the visit, joking that the two American Leaguers were trying to keep him up late. "They're both great guys."

Rose said that he called the American League clubhouse to see how Fosse was but he had been taken to Christ Hospital here for X rays for a shoulder injury.

Snyder Lines Up Partnership Meet

SNYDER — The second annual Snyder Partnership Golf tournament will be staged at the Country Club here Saturday and Sunday. Entry fee will be $20 per player. The linksters will be shooting for merchandise awards. Upwards to 64 teams will be accepted.

Last year's tournament lured 42 tandems. A shotgun start will be used both days of the meet, with play due to begin at 8:30 a.m. and again at 1 p.m.

Pros Acquire Ace

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky Colonels of the American Basketball Association have announced the acquisition of 6-2 Warren Armstrong, ABA rookie of the year in 1968-69, from the Washington Caps and 6-8 Walt Piatowski from the Denver Rockets.

Six Teams Play In San Angelo

The Sophomore District 5 tournament will be staged in San Angelo July 27-Aug. 1 while the Hi-Junior District 1 meet takes place in Odessa on the same dates.

Big Spring will have teams in both tournaments. The Big Spring Hardware club, managed by Tommy Walker, has clinched a spot in the Hi-Junior tournament but the race for the Sophomore title remains wide open.

Three Soph teams are involved in a post-season tournament here Friday and Saturday to determine the first half champion. They are the Red Sox, Yanks and Rebels.

The Soph State tournament will be staged in Freeport Aug. 3-8 while the Hi-Junior State meet is scheduled for Waco on the same dates.

Two defeats will be required to eliminate a team on the district and state levels.

In the Sophomore District meet, six teams, including Big Spring, will compete at San Angelo. Two will represent the host city while two Midland teams will be chosen along with one from Odessa.

Rumanian Is Top-Seeded In Washington Tourney

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ilie Nastase, the Rumania Davis Cup team member who is the top seed in the $35,000 Washington International tennis tournament, said he was tired.

He said he didn't have an opportunity to practice on the clay courts which many of the players complain are too soft.

"I played in Athens yesterday and I flew 13 hours," Nastase said. "I arrived here at 11:30 last night. How can you sleep with the different times." He referred to the body adjustment in changing from one time zone to another.

Nastase, however, didn't show his weariness or his newness to the Washington court Tuesday when he easily polished off Steve Krulevitz of Baltimore, 6-2, 7-5 in the first round of the tourney.

Krulevitz, a 19-year-old Junior U.S. Davis Cup member, had Nastase down 5-3 in the second match but the top-ranked Rumanian player, winner of the U.S. Indoor championship, easily scored four straight points to take the set and the match.

The second round of the tournament, which offers a $7,000 first prize to the singles champion, will be held Wednesday after one final set is played between Mike Estep of Dallas and Ray Ruffels of Australia.

Each had won a set—Estep, 6-4, Ruffels, 8-6, in their match Tuesday but play was halted because of darkness.

Doubles competition also will begin Wednesday.

In addition to the winners purse, which includes eight points toward the new $200,000 17-event Grand Prix circuit, the runner-up receives $4,000, third place $3,000, and fourth $2,000.

Losing quarterfinalists make $1,000, third round losers earn $500 while those defeated Wednesday pick up $225. First round losers got $75.

All but one of the top 16 seeded players moved into the second round. In a mild upset, Frank Froehling of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., returned to the tennis tour after a five year absence and defeated 13th-seeded Frew McMillan of South Africa, 6-4, 6-3, in Monday's first round play.

All-Star Game Could Be Casualty In War

NEW YORK (AP) — The College All-Star Game may become a casualty of the deadlocked negotiations between National Football League owners and the NFL Players Association.

The NFLPA, in its second post-midnight statement in 24 hours, said early today that the College All-Stars, who've been practicing at Evanston, Ill., for the July 31 charity game at Chicago with the world champion Kansas City Chiefs, had voted unanimously to leave the official training camp.

The Dallas Times-Herald, meanwhile, in a dispatch from the Thousand Oaks, Calif., training camp of the Cowboys, said the NFLPA planned today to ask the owners' negotiating team to submit the contract hassle to a federal mediator. Agreement of both sides in a labor dispute to federal mediation is necessary.

In New York, an NFLPA spokesman indirectly confirmed the report by saying an announcement on the situation would probably be released in the early afternoon today.

The mediation proposals was to be presented to the owners committee headed by Tex Schramm of the Cowboys at today's closed - door negotiation session.

The NFLPA, through John Mackey of the Baltimore Colts, its president, said the organization had requested the All-Stars, all rookies from the various 26 NFL teams, to "consider leaving camp because of the owners' surprise lockout announced Monday."

A five-player committee of All-Stars, composed of Mike Reid, Mike McCoy, Steve Tannen, Cedric Hardman and Heisman Trophy winner Steve Owens, issued, through the NFLPA, a statement of its own:

"Due to the fact that the Kansas City Chiefs' veterans are unable to practice, we have decided to discontinue our supervised practices. We fully realize that the College All-Star Game is played for the benefit of a fine charity and for this reason we have agreed to remain in Evanston if possible and continue unsupervised workouts in the hope that the current dispute between the NFLPA and NFL owners will soon be resolved."

Roused out of bed, Otto Graham, the All-Star coach, said he was unaware of the statement and couldn't say offhand what effect it could have on the game.

"If the players do discontinue supervised practices, then we'll have to talk the matter of the game over with the Tribune people."

Chicago Tribune Charities sponsors the annual Soldier Field classic, which kicks off the pro football exhibition season each summer.

There was no reaction from the Tribune.

Alex Karras of the Detroit Lions, it was learned, visited the All-Star players Tuesday and asked for their support.

The All-Star Committee said if the contract negotiations "should continue to a point where the playing of the game becomes impossible, we shall then report to our respective NFL teams."

Rookies not selected for the All-Star squad have been checking in at various team training sites this week. The camps are scheduled to continue opening through July 26 when Denver, last to report, begins drills.

Veterans on many teams are holding workouts on their own near the official training sites as they did two years ago when contract disputes delayed the official start of preseason drills.

Germans Rate Good Chance

STUTTGART, Germany (AP) — Youth and speed clash with experience and finesse as a two-night track and field meet between the United States and West Germany gets underway tonight in Stuttgart's Neckar Stadium.

West German women, clearly superior in the weights and field events, are favored to hand a teen-ager-dominated U.S. women's squad their second loss in Germany in two years.

Very much up in the air is the men's competition, although experts concede a tested West German team its best chance ever to knock off the Americans, 133-101 victors over West Germany last year in Augsburg.

"It will depend on the outcome of several swing events—and the final score could be 10 to 12 points either way," American Coach Leroy Walker said today. "Over-all it will be our speed versus their finesse."

As "swing events" Walker named such traditional American strong points as the high jump, 800 meters, shotput and 400-meter relay. The United States lost the 400-meter relay last week against France because of a bad baton pass but still managed a 117-94 victory over the French.

Scratched from competition here was American distance star Frank Shorter, runner-up in last week's 5,000 meters. Walker said Shorter was not feeling well and he wanted to rest him. The former Yale student should be ready for next week's meet against the Soviet Union.

Also out is triple jumper Milan Tiff of the Cleveland Striders who was injured last week.

Golfer Arnold Palmer was named the Athlete of the Decade for the 60's but fellow divot digger Bob Goalby said he doesn't think Palmer or any other linkster is an athlete.

"I don't consider myself an athlete because I'm not in shape," the plain-spoken Goalby said recently, "and I'm only 41."

Goalby went on to say that golfers have too much time on their hands. Consequently, they drink too much and live too well. Goalby says Palmer couldn't be in good shape, not with all the booze he's seen him put away.

Julius Boros, the greybeard, could be a heckuva player, thinks Goalby. He has a good body and a healthy pair of legs — not a vein is showing — but he's carrying around 20 pounds too much beef.

The City of Big Spring will be happy to do business with wrestling promoter Don Slatton any time he comes around.

Slatton staged six grapple shows here last winter and spring and paid his rent each time — at $85 a pop. That means he anted up $510 for a facility that isn't used very much.

Like a lot of other people, Slatton would like to see a coliseum built here so that he could stage regular shows under more ideal conditions.

Slatton not only paid his rent but he ran an orderly house. No smoking was allowed on the stage during his shows — at first the city didn't want him to arrange chairs around the ring because it was feared safety rules would be violated. Slatton, however, saw to it that the customers observed the rules.

The Little League program here need take a back seat to no town, when compared to similar organizations in other communities. District 3 commissioner Jack Barber said he has found countless violations of Little League violations in other cities in the area, shortcomings which should be corrected before the governing body of the small-fry program takes action.

Netters Hope To Revise Interest In Game Here

Stewart Bunn and Martha Boadle, who are promoting the idea of a Closed Tennis tournament here, said the plan was conceived to generate interest in an endeavor which has suffered in comparison to other sports.

The two added they feel that there are lots of tennis buffs who are not active here simply because they feel there are not enough facilities available.

The July 24-25 tournament, which will be open to people of all ages, will be played in its entirety on the high school courts, will start at 6 p.m. a week from Friday and the lighted courts will be utlized at night so that men working in the day time can play at night.

Fee for playing will be $2.50 per event.

Bunn said that a surprising number of adults had expressed interest in the meet but he would like to see more youngsters commit themselves for play. July 22 is the deadline for entry.

Bunn, who has another season of eligibility remaining in the local high school, plans to conduct lessons in the sport the remainder of the summer.

Both Bunn and Miss Boadle were active in the Highway 80 tournaments last year but have been unable to compete this year. Both will play in the tournament, however.

Novice Kniffen, new high school coach, will be on hand to help supervise the meet.

Stewart also stated that the tournament would be open to local players only, that he had had to refuse the applications for play filed by two out-of-town boys recently.

Committee Studies Mafia Influence

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — State Adj. Gen. David Wade and Emmett Batson, chief counsel of the state Revenue Department, today testify before a legislative committee investigating reports of Mafia influence in state government.

The committee was set up to probe allegations in the April 10 Life magazine article that the underworld organization had connections with the Louisiana government.

Former Revenue Collector Ashton Mouton, Highway Director Leon Gary and Public Works Commissioner C. H. Downs, all mentioned prominently in the article, told the committee Tuesday they had never been influenced by organized crime.

Mouton, who was moved to the state Hospital Department last month, denied that Carlos Marcello, Jefferson Parish rackets figure, or any of his associates ever received special treatment in tax matters as claimed by Life.

In his only concession to the accuracy of the Life article, Mouton said an investigation promoted by a meeting with David Chandler, author of the Life article, revealed that Batson and some other employes of the Revenue Departmnt had failed to file state income tax returns.

Mouton said he gave Batson a severe reprimand and demanded that he pay his taxes. He said Batson paid.

Gary, who was identified in the Life article as "the man to see whenever a state legislator wants to line up free accommodations in Las Vegas," offered to tell the committee the names of two legislators who received Las Vegas hotel reservations through an alleged rackets figure, but the committee failed to ask for their names.

Hearing For Tech Student Hits Delays

FORT WORTH (AP) — A pretial hearing for Benjamin Lach, former Texas Tech student accused of killing a university cleaning woman, ran into delays today in the state court of Judge Byron Matthews.

The judge awaited the outcome of another case before starting the Lach hearing, which is expected to last two days.

Nine witnesses from Lubbock stood by awaiting the end of the earlier case.

The hearing is to get some preliminaries out of the way before the trial itself—tentatively scheduled to begin in September.

The defense has asked the judge to suppress certain information and to permit the defense to see some of the information of the prosecution.

The judge is being asked to withhold from the jury pictures of the murder scene and the victim, and statements by Lach about the slaying. The defense further asks that there be no reference to the death penalty.

The trial was moved to Fort Worth on the claim that a jury could not be obtained in Lubbock where the slaying took place.

Lach is accused of slaying Mrs. Sarah Alice Morgan, 54, with a scalpel and hacksaw blade Dec. 4, 1967 on the third floor of Tech's Science Building.

Authorities said she apparently was killed by a student she discovered stealing examination papers.

Lach was judged mentally incompetent to stand trial in December, 1968.

He was sent to Rusk State Hospital and was discharged last March as cured. On April 8 this year, a jury found him mentally competent to stand trial.

Lach had attended five other colleges and universities before registering at Tech as a graduate student. He is a Polish immigrant. Associates have said he is obsessed with making good grades in school.

States Have Until Aug. 3 To Meet 18-Year-Vote Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell has pledged to defend the 18-year-old voting bill despite President Nixon's serious misgivings about its constitutionality.

"Any good lawyer can take any side of a case and argue it with equal ability," he said Tuesday at his first Washington press conference in a year.

President Nixon signed the bill into law, but said he preferred to lower the voting age by constitutional amendment.

The attorney general said the 50 states have been asked to submit by Aug. 3 their plans for complying with the new law.

The 18-year-old age provision of the Voting Rights Act does not take effect until Jan. 1, 1971. Two other key provisions, banning literacy tests and dropping residency requirements for balloting in presidential elections, became law when Nixon signed the bill June 22.

"If we do not receive a positive response by Aug. 3, we will assume that the state does not intend to comply fully with the new federal statute and we, of course, will move accordingly," Mitchell said.

Such action would take the form of lawsuits filed before three-judge panels at the U.S. District Court level and proceed up through the Supreme Court, he said.

"We believe that certainly the 18-year-old voting requirement and possibly the literacy test and residency requirements will be determined only by a Supreme Court test," Mitchell said.

On other topics during the hour-long session, first with reporters in the nation's capital in a year, the attorney general said:

—The number of wiretaps in use by the government in cases other than national security has doubled from 33 last year to about 66, most of them in investigations of organized crime and narcotics traffic.

—His recent speeches urging authorities to encourage peaceful dissent were prompted by the "recognition that what we have been saying in the Department of Justice and other parts of the government have not been getting through to the students on the campuses." He contended the position marks no change in administration policy.

—He is disturbed by the unenthusiastic response of the black community to Nixon administration policies. But he contended charges of anti-Negro bias are "a lot of loose talk."

—By the end of the coming school year, "not only will the school districts in the South have converted from the dual school system to the unitary school system, but most of the irritants that were brought about by these conversions will be behind us and desegregation will be accepted as a way of life and the process of education can go on the way it should."

(AP WIREPHOTO)

'STATES MUST ACT' — Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell tells a Washington news conference that the states must show by Aug. 3 that they are taking steps to comply with new voting rights law — including the 18-year age provision — or the Justice Department "will move accordingly."

Kindergarten Program Will Up School Costs

Trustees of the Big Spring Independent School District Tuesday night added two amendments to the budget increasing expected expenditures but also adding to expected receipts.

The two amendments dealt with the special education program and the kindergarten program. Trustees also approved increasing substitute teacher pay from $14 per day to $15 per day, which is the rate on which the district will be reimbursed from the state sick leave program. No amendment was required since the budget was prepared with the increase in mind.

The special education program was estimated in the budget to cost the school district $2,250. Trustees raised expenditures to $17,878, but in effect saved the original $2,250 because the state will completely reimburse the $17,878 used in the program.

KINDERGARTEN COSTS

In the kindergarten program the district was not so lucky. Total operational costs are estimated at $19,906, of which only $15,260 will be refunded, leaving a cost of $4,646 to the district.

Over-all figures show a decrease in excess receipts from $41,355 to $36,410. The budget tentatively approved in May called for $5,220,788 in expected receipts and $5,179,432 in expenditures. Amendments Tuesday night increased the expected receipts to $5,253,926 and expected expenditures to $5,217,516.

The State Attorney General has designated the Big Spring school system as one of those districts that must begin a limited kindergarten program this year. Discussion at the board meeting centered largely on how many classroom units should be set up and how transportation to the kindergarten was to be provided.

Transportation will be provided for those who qualify for the kindergarten program. The Attorney General has stipulated that only those students who qualify as educationally handicapped must be accepted this year. Those youngsters who come from a low income family or who have difficulty with speaking English qualify for this year's program.

Students must be no younger than five years and five months old and must not be six Sept. 1.

The program will be set up in facilities at Lakeview Elementary. Pupils in other areas who are accepted to the program will be bused from a neighborhood pick-up point to Lakeview. Pick-up points will be at Airport, Bauer, Boydstun and Cedar Crest, according to the board's decision Tuesday.

In her motion to set up the kindergarten program Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper moved that one or two classroom units, determined by enrollment, be set up by the school district and that transportation be provided for pupils qualifying for the program under state guidelines. Mrs. Cowper's motion was seconded by Jimmy Taylor, and passed by the board.

The board also decided to leave the provisions for three classroom units and teachers in the budget in case the enrollment called for more facilities than anticipated. S. M. Anderson, superintendent, said there were approximately 75 youngsters eligible for this year's program.

The kindergarten program will continue under its present guidelines until the 1971-72 school year when pupil age will be dropped to five years and two months. The educationally handicaped stipulation will still be in force. In 1972-73, the age will drop to five years under the qualifying stipulation.

In 1973-74, the program will be opened to children aged five years and seven months who are not educationally handicapped. The age will continue to drop until, in 1977-78, all five-year olds will be accepted into the program.

Compact Car Sales Show Good Gains

DETROIT (AP) — American car buyers turned increasingly to compacts—particularly the Plymouth Valiant Duster—during the first half of 1970.

Chrysler Corp., sold 103,252 Dusters as it led the industry in sales for the period despite the flop of the luxury Imperial, off 55.3 per cent from the first half of 1969.

The compact Valiant line, which includes the two-door Duster and the older four-door Valiant, improve its first half sales 177 per cent from 1969.

Next best improvement was posted by the Plymouth Barracuda, a redesigned specialty car, at 58 per cent. Third was the Ford Maverick at 37 per cent and fourth was the Dodge Dart with a 9.1 per cent gain.

All the big gainers were compacts.

Ford Mustang sales were off 48.5 per cent.

Compacts as a class increased their share of the total car market from 10.3 per cent in 1969 to 16.6 per cent this year.

Total industry sales in the United States were down 9.5 per cent at 3,971,428.

Richard K. Brown, Chrysler-Plymouth division general manager, said Monday the success of the Duster reflected "the trend of consumer interest toward the more economical type car."

The Duster accounted for 83.7 per cent of the total Valiant line sales of 123,386 during the first half. A year ago—before introduction of the Duster—the Valiant sold 44,549 cars.

The Duster can be purchased for a low of $2,172 excluding delivery and state-local taxes. That's for the no-nonsense version with a six-cylinder engine.

While the Valiant line claimed the top percentage increase in sales, the Ford Maverick was No. 1 in compact sales with 204,397 and the Chevrolet Nova second with 145,454.
