There she blows!

Photos needed for oil, progress edition in Oct.

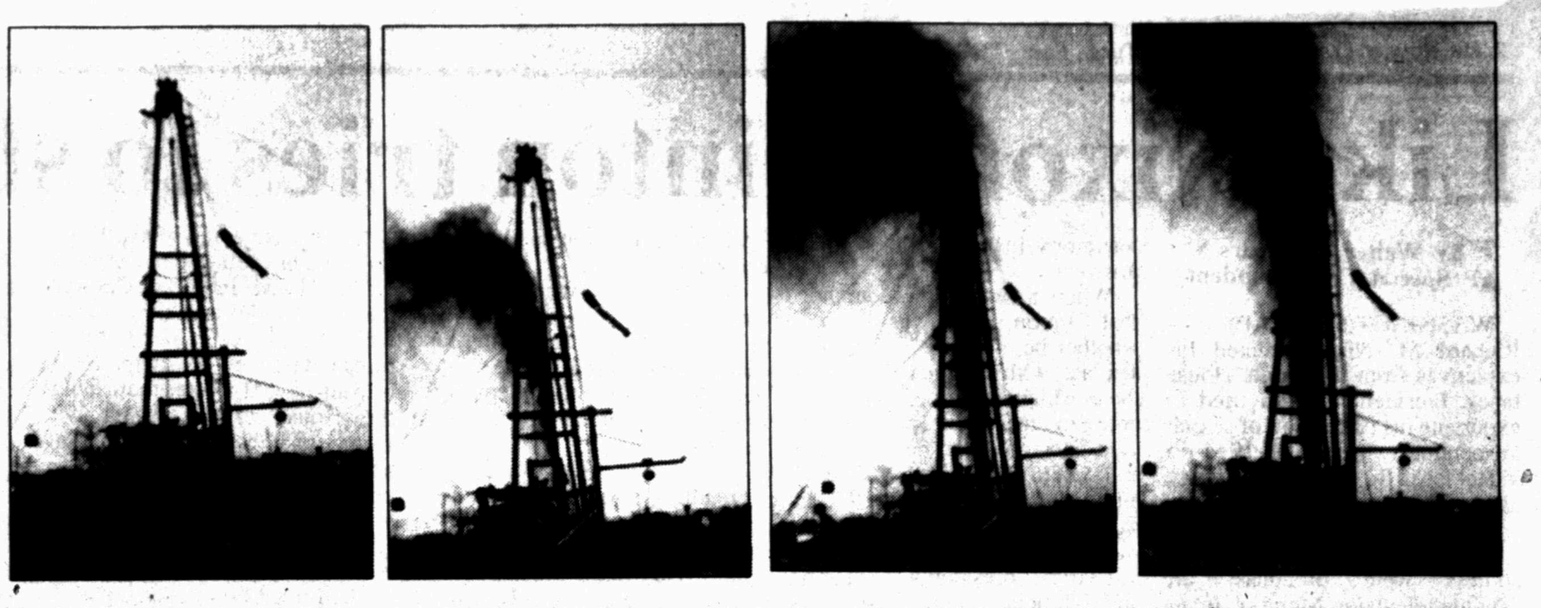

The four photographs to the right are of the Stinson #1 well which blew out in the late 1940s south of Ira. The well was drilled with a cable tool rig and it was quite a sight to see, according to Mary Jimm Floyd who provided these photos.

"It sounded like a giant firecracker when it blew," said Mrs. Floyd.

Photographs like these are needed for the Oil and Progress Edition to be published by the Snyder Daily News on Oct. 17.

Photographs can be scanned while you wait and credit will be given to the provider.

Speaker Pete Laney

Food, festivities at coliseum...

Counts to be honored this evening

House Speaker Pete Laney, the most powerful West Texan in state government, will be on hand tonight to help show appreciation to State Rep. David Counts.

Laney, praised by Gov. George Bush for his bipartisan work with the governor and Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, will be the keynote speaker for the appreciation dinner which starts at 6 p.m. in the Scurry County Coliseum.

The dinner, open to the public, is sponsored by some 20 statewide business and agricultural organizations.

Food will be served and admission is free, said Ross Wilson of Amarillo, representing the Texas Cattle Feeders.

Others scheduled to be present will include Dr. John R. Abernathy, dean of the college of agricultural sciences and natural resources at Texas Tech University.

Other state representatives who will be in attendance include three area Republicans — Gary Walker of Plains, Delwin Jones of Lubbock and Warren Chisum of Pampa.

At the rally, Counts will receive awards from Texas Tech, the Texas Association of Business and Chambers of Commerce and the Texas Agricultural Council.

The Rev. Miller Robinson, retired Baptist minister, will serve as master of ceremonies. Robinson, along with his wife, Sandra, are co-treasurers of the Counts Re-election Committee.

Counts, a Knox City Democrat, is seeking re-election and is being opposed by Big Spring Republican Scott McLaughlin. Counts serves as chairman of the House Natural Resources Committee.

Sponsors of the appreciation rally include Texas Farm Bureau, Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers, Texas Agricultural Cooperative Council, Texas Cotton Association, Texas Cotton Ginners' Association and Texas Electric Cooperatives.

Texas Cattle Feeders Association, Dairy Farmers of America, Texas Farmers Union, Texas Poultry Federations, Texas Association of Dairymen, Texas Pork Producers Association and Trans Texas Heritage Association.

Others are Texas Rural Water Association, Texas Agricultural Aviation Association, Southwest Heritage and Implement Asssociation, Livestock Market Association of Texas, Texas Quarter Horse Association and the Ag Workers Mutual Auto Insurance Co.

Laney, 71st House Speaker, was first elected to the post in 1993 in this 11th term as representative from House District 85 which includes Hale Center and Plainview.

A Hale Center farmer, Laney received a bachelor of science degree in agriculture economics from Texas Tech. He and his wife, Nelda, have three children.

Republicans see an evasive Clinton on videotape, but no knockout blow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some Republicans said President Clinton's videotaped testimony contained no explosive confrontations or telling gaffes that could prompt a dramatic shift in the public's view of the Monica Lewinsky affair.

A Democratic supporter said Monday that Clinton's behavior with the young intern suggests he may have an illness.

Other Republicans said Clinton's testimony lacked a clear-cut, decisive blow that would seal his impeachment.

"It will just compel us to go forward," said Rep. Lindsey Graham, R-S.C., a member of the House Judiciary Committee, which will help decide the president's fate.

Graham said the tape shows Clinton evading questions about whether his behavior with former White House intern Monica Lewinsky constituted sexual relations, a key element in determining whether he committed perjury. To resolve that question, the judiciary panel will have to question other witnesses in the matter, he said.

"I don't think you'd make a case for impeachment based on this tape," Graham said in an interview. "There is not a knockout blow" on the tape by itself, he added.

One dark note was sounded by Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, who said he was beginning to draw a conclusion about the president's actions with Ms. Lewinsky.

"I'm coming around to the belief that there's something deeper here, that the president maybe has something wrong with him in terms of how he approaches this," Harkin said in an interview with a Des Moines television station.

"I don't know whether it's an illness or something like that, but I don't know how else to explain what he did," Harkins said.

Kubena top picker in football contest

Three misses was the best any of the SDN Football Contest entrants could do last week. Six participants had three misses, and the tie-breaker procedure was used to determine the three prize winners.

Terry Kubena of 2904 Westridge won the $50 first prize by picking the winner of the tie-breaker game and predicting 38 total points (actual total was 39).

Melissa Martinez of 100 37th St. predicted 35 total points and won the $25 second prize.

David Martinez of 1001 13th St. predicted 29 total points and won the $15 third prize.

Winners will be mailed their checks.

Another contest appears on page 10 of this issue.

Cool front, Fall follows hot day

It was cloudy and cool this morning, but Monday's temperature was more like July as Snyder's water treatment plant recorded 101-degrees — five degrees hotter than the 96 recorded on the Fourth of July.

A year ago on the same date, the temperature only reached 72 degrees.

On that date, a small amount of moisture fell which brought the year's total rainfall to 21.90 inches.

So far in 1998, only 6.51 inches of rain have been measured at the treatment plant.

With 100-plus temperatures late in September, who knows what Autumn will bring when it arrives on Wednesday.

Chamber votes use of hotel/motel funds

Snyder Chamber of Commerce board members Monday voted to disburse hotel/motel tax funds totaling $2,800, in addition to discussing several upcoming events.

Among the events to receive funds are the Oil Appreciation Celebration and Show set for Oct. 17 at Scurry County Coliseum.

The board voted to give the celebration committee $1,000 for expenses and promotion.

The board also approved $1,000 for the annual White Buffalo Festival on Oct. 3.

The Scurry County Museum will receive $800 for its upcoming holiday exhibits.

Donna Fowler, chamber executive director, said help would be needed from chamber members for the country and western concert set for Oct. 10 and the Western Texas College appreciation reception set for Rep. David Counts on Oct. 15.

Fowler made note of several upcoming dates, including the decorating of the Scurry County Courthouse on Nov. 1.

Wendell Sollis was introduced as a new chamber board member.

Sollis, an assistant superintendent with the Snyder Independent School District, replaces Brenda Hedges who resigned in July.

President Keith Hackfeld appointed Bill Dryden, Gary Landes, Trent Driggers, Helen McLeod, along with himself, to serve on a nominating committee to replace out-going board members Jeffery Martin, Rod Waller and C.R. Perez.

The board also discussed the contract with the county for the lease of the coliseum for a three-year period.

Fowler said a three-year contract will allow the chamber to schedule activities on a more timely basis.

She said the coliseum already has bookings for the year 2001.

The chamber currently operates the coliseum under a two-year contract with a $165,000 subsidy from the county.

The county considered the contract in Monday's commissioners court meeting and appointed Roy Idom and Howard Limmer to discuss minor changes with the chamber board.

United Supermarket was recognized as a new chamber member and Edward D. Jones was named Business of the Month.

THE SDN COLUMN
By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "An expert is a person called in at the last minute to share the blame."

We sat across the table from R. C. and Amy Patton recently and she inquired about a book of Texas sayings.

We couldn't find a copy that we once had, so it sent us back to the bookstore to look for another. There we found a new one by W.C. Jameson called "Bubba Speaks."

We lifted a few items before passing the book on to Mrs. Patton.

--It's so dry the Baptist are sprinkling, the Methodists are spitting and the Catholics are giving rain checks.

--It's as dry as an old maid's kiss.

When there's too much rain it's a:

--Duck drowner.

--Toad strangler

--Fence lifter.

And concerning the heat:

--It feels like hell ain't half a mile away and the fences are all down.

--It's as hot as a run-down billy goat.

--It's as hot as a black Cadillac in July.

--It's hot enough to fry spit.

--It's hotter than a revival in July.

And concerning thrifty folks:

--He wouldn't loan you a dollar unless the Lord co-signed.

--He's so cheap he wouldn't pay a nickle to watch an ant pull a freight train.

--He crawls under the gate to save the hinges.

Concerning lack of common sense:

--He's got the brains of a roach in a bathtub.

--He ain't got much north of his ears.

--He's got as much sense as last year's bird nest.

Concerning skinny cowpokes:

--He's as thin as Depression soup.

--He could stand under a clothesline during a rainstorm and not get wet.

--She could take shade under a barb wire fence.

--He's as thin as a slice of boarding house pie.

And about the ornery.

--He's as mean as a bulldog on a gunpowder diet.

--He's as mean as a bobcat in a burlap sack.

There's enough sayings in the book to keep you busy "until your get up and go has done got up and went."

Like Nixon, Clinton tries to stop the words

By Walter R. Mears
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon deleted his expletives from the White House tapes. President Clinton tried to expurgate his admission of sexual misconduct when he testified on videotape in the Monica Lewinsky affair.

It didn't work, then or now.

The words Clinton wouldn't confess were broadcast on daytime television Monday, in an extraordinary airing of grand jury testimony, in the questions, not the answers.

When a prosecutor demanded that Clinton say — yes or no — whether he engaged in a specific sex act with Monica Lewinsky, the president said only: "I am not going to answer except to refer to my statement." as he had again and again during 4 hours and 3 minutes of questioning. "I did have intimate contact with her that was inappropriate."

Two presidents facing impeachment charges, 24 years apart, both with tapes to be used against them — but so far, with a crucial difference.

No legalistic wording could save Nixon in 1974 when he finally had to yield the clinching tape that proved his role in the Watergate cover-up, the so-called smoking gun that forced him to resign the presidency.

There was no comparably compelling evidence for impeachment against this president, in the grand jury testimony taped on Aug. 17, nor in the 3,183 pages of documents sent to the House by special prosecutor Kenneth Starr to support his finding that Clinton committed 11 impeachable offenses.

There is more to come, 16 cartons of Starr documents and another Clinton videotape, of his deposition in the Paula Jones sexual harassment case, with the denial of the Lewinsky affair that triggered the Starr case.

But Starr's impeachment report to the House on Sept. 9 made his case with the most compelling evidence he had.

It's evidence, not proof. That is up to the lawyers and to Congress.

The House Judiciary Committee will decide, probably quickly, whether to recommend formal impeachment proceedings. Republicans have the votes there and in the House to go ahead, with Democrats defensively nervous about that and the off-year congressional elections now only six weeks away.

Nixon was convicted by his own words when the Supreme Court forced him to surrender the tape recording in which he'd told aides to invoke the CIA to stop the FBI from investigating the Watergate burglary. It proved he'd been part of the cover-up all along, and his shrinking Republican support against impeachment vanished, persuading him to quit.

Clinton was trying to explain away his words, admittedly dishonest in his denials of a sexual relationship, to his closest aides and to the American people, after Starr took on the Lewinsky case eight months ago.

His other cases against Clinton, including Whitewater, alleged abuse of FBI files, questionable firings in the White House travel office, were not raised in his impeachment report, or in the questioning of Clinton.

Nixon's offenses involved the misuse of presidential powers over federal agencies to cover up the scandal. Clinton told his interrogators they were trying to criminalize his private conduct, something he couldn't have claimed about the other, unraised phases of the Starr case.

Starr accused Clinton of abusing presidential powers by claiming executive privilege against testimony by White House aides and lawyers. Clinton said in the grand jury appearance that he hadn't been trying to keep them quiet. "I did not want to put the presidency at risk of being weakened as an institution," he told Starr.

It has been. Clinton lost the executive privilege claim in federal court, and the Secret Service lost its attempt to keep presidential bodyguards off Starr's witness stand.

Just as Nixon lost in court when he tried to shield the White House tapes under executive privilege. So he issued transcripts, claiming that was full disclosure that should end the case. It wasn't, and it didn't. He edited out his own crude comments and curses, making "expletive deleted" part of the language of Watergate.

What he deleted, incidentally, was tame stuff compared with the graphic and explicit sexual references in the Starr documents. Times change.

Clinton's testimony shows the president evading questions, and arguing that he hadn't perjured himself in denying sexual relations because of his understanding of what that meant. He sparred over the meaning of the word "is" and the word "alone."

Keeping you in the dark

If you must take an examination, practice on as many earlier tests as possible. You will become accustomed to the types of questions asked, which will make it easier to score well. Similarly, in a bridge column, if at the start the author gives you a big hint as to the right approach, it will be simpler to find the key play.

So, today, no hint (unless you read yesterday's column!). How would you have bid the North-South hands? How would you play in five diamonds after West has led the heart king?

The best contract is three no-trump by South, which has 10 top tricks. Yet it is very difficult to reach that contract. Here, North's three-diamond response is a limit raise showing some 10-12 points with at least four diamonds.

If East has the spade ace, there are no problems — you will lose one trick in each black suit. But if West has the spade ace, you will have to hope the clubs are splitting 3-3. Also, you must establish the 13th club without letting East win a trick, or else he will poke a spade through your king.

How can you establish the 13th club while guaranteeing that East never gets the lead? The secret is to duck the opening lead.

Win the second heart, discarding a club, draw trumps, cash the club ace, play a club to dummy's king, and ruff a club in hand. When they split 3-3, return to dummy with a trump and discard a spade on the last club. But if the clubs don't break, cross to dummy with a trump and lead a spade, hoping East has the ace.

Sanders, Cowboys rout Giants, 31-7

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Thanks to Deion Sanders, the NFC East is back the way the Dallas Cowboys think it should be — with them on top.

Sanders broke a scoreless tie with a 59-yard punt return, caught a 55-yard pass that set up another score and returned an interception 71 yards for a TD as the Cowboys beat the New York Giants 31-7 Monday night.

Jason Garrett, making only his third career start for the injured Troy Aikman, connected with Billy Davis on an 80-yard TD pass and Sherman Williams ran 18 yards for a score after Sanders' long reception as Dallas (2-1) became the only team in the division with a winning record.

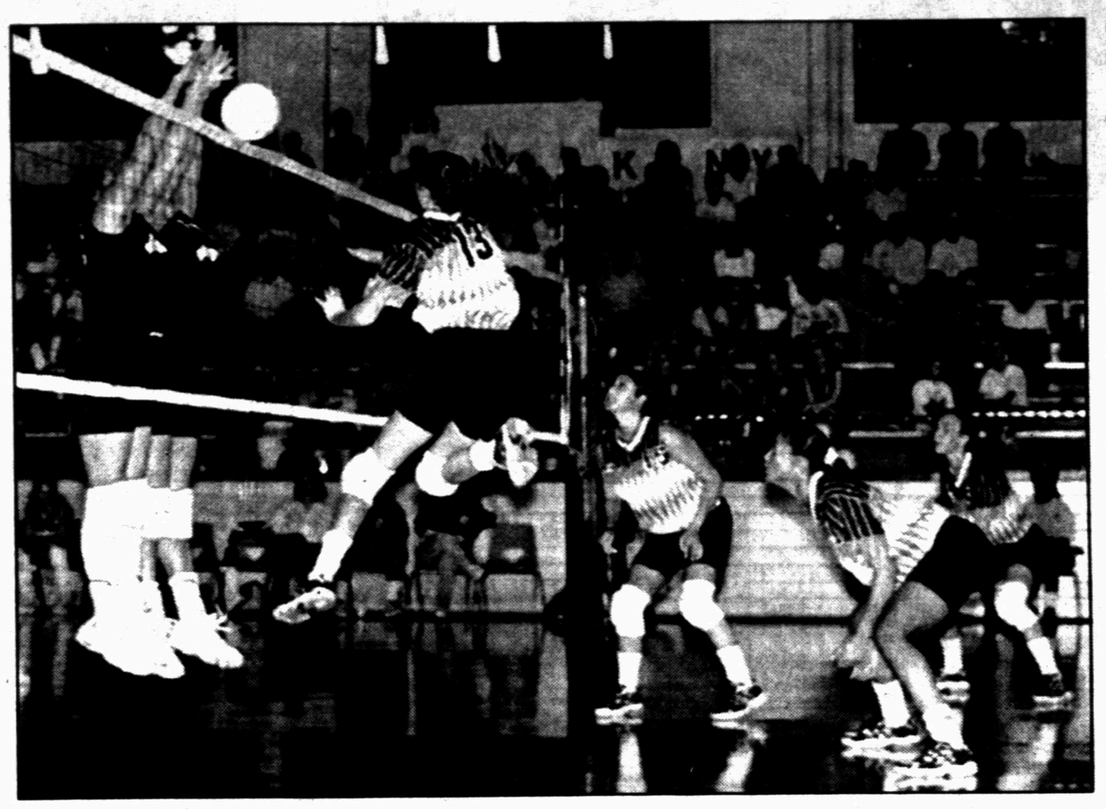

Neither team crossed midfield in the first quarter.

But after the Giants first series of the second quarter, Sanders struck. He took Brad Maynard's low punt, zigged left, then zigged right and zagged back into the middle of the field for the 15th return touchdown of his career, the fourth on a punt. That gave the Cowboys a 7-0 lead.

Garrett, who finished 12-of-28 for 222 yards, connected with Sanders on a third-and-8 from their 20 on their second offensive series in the second half that carried the ball to the New York 25. That set up Williams' touchdown dash up the middle.

Sanders' 71-yard interception return came with 2:25 left in the game. Hilliard slipped, Sanders grabbed the ball and ran untouched to the end zone, dancing over the last 10 yards.

For the Giants (1-2), the loss broke a nine-game streak without a loss in the division they won last season with a 10-5-1 record.

SHS netters open district with blowout

FT. STOCKTON — It was just the kind of start Snyder was looking for.

Snyder High's tennis squad trounced Ft. Stockton, 16-2, Saturday to open the District 5-4A season.

The Snyder boys notched victories in all nine matches, while the Lady Tigers dropped only two.

The victory puts Snyder into a three-way tie atop the standings with Andrews and Big Spring at 1-0.

Snyder will be back on the court today in non-district action at Frenship, before returning to 5-4A play Saturday at Sweetwater.

WTC opens event with a 303

RUIDOSO, N.M. — With 18 holes left in the High Country Shootout, Western Texas College had some ground to make up.

Playing in only their second collegiate tournament, the Westerners failed to have a player break par en route to carding an opening round 303, good enough for seventh place.

Midland JC held the top spot on the leaderboard after firing a 283. The Chaps were followed by Dixie College at 291 and Odessa at 296.

Leading the way for the Westerners were Cory Mahaney and Jason McGrath who turned in 2-over par scores of 74.

Martin Gustafson finished with a 75, while Brad Nutt turned in an 80. Cory Williams carded an 83.

The event, being played at the Links at Sierra Blanca, was to have finished up today.

Next on the WTC schedule is the Midland College Invitational at Ranchland Hills GC beginning Sunday.

Rangers grab AL West lead, 9-1

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — The start of the AL West showdown was all Texas.

The Rangers, behind late-season addition Todd Stottlemyre, took a one-game lead over Anaheim in the majors' only remaining division race by beating the Angels 9-1 Monday night.

Rusty Greer had four hits and Juan Gonzalez got his 155th and 156th RBIs as Texas won the opener of the three-game series.

Stottlemyre (5-4) gave up six hits, walked four and struck out seven in seven scoreless innings. He beat the Angels for the second time in six days.

Tom Goodwin drove in two runs and Texas scored a pair of runs on a wild pitch and a bases-loaded walk.

The Rangers jumped on Anaheim starter Steve Sparks (9-4) for five runs in the first four innings, with Todd Zeile doubling in one run and scoring twice.

Stottlemyre got off to a rocky start, giving up a one-out double to Randy Velarde in the opening inning, then walking Jim Edmonds and Tim Salmon. But the Rangers right-hander escaped by striking out Darin Erstad and getting Garret Anderson on a groundout.

Two of the Rangers' first three runs off Sparks were unearned.

Local golfers begin tourney

In the third flight, Peggy Hardin drew Martha Jones of Hereford as an opening round opponent.

Kathleen Stephens was to have faced Dolly Barker of Canyon in sixth flight action.

Play continues Wednesday with the title matches for each flight slated for Thursday.

Grand jury tape overshadows U.N. appearance

NEW YORK (AP) — He got a standing ovation from the United Nations and appeared at ease in a discussion of the global economy with three other world leaders. But at the end of the day, President Clinton had one question: Did anybody notice?

Clinton went through the motions Monday as if everything in his presidential world were normal. But he was obviously concerned about the American people's perception of him after they saw four hours' worth of him sweating, hemming and hawing about his relationship with Monica Lewinsky.

So, after sitting at New York University's law school for two hours, talking about democracy in the new global economy with the president of Bulgaria and the prime ministers of Britain and Italy, Clinton asked his aides whether the media reported what he'd done all day.

"He was assured that there had been coverage of, among other things, the warm reception he got here, and he was grateful for that," said White House spokesman Mike McCurry.

The president worked hard to appear on top of his job. He buttonholed British Prime Minister Tony Blair at New York University for a brief chat about Kosovo, Russia, the Middle East and the idea of continuing discussions, as McCurry described it, of "a centrist approach to dynamic governing in industrial democracies."

Then, Clinton called it a night. He and first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton enjoyed a quiet dinner together in their suite at the swank Waldorf Astoria hotel.

Today was another day, however, and the White House raised its guard against questions on grand juries and investigations. Reporters were not to be allowed in Clinton's meeting today with the prime minister of Japan at the Rockefeller family estate in Tarrytown, N.Y. They likewise were to be excluded from the tea before it and the luncheon after it.

McCurry denied any attempt to shield Clinton from controversy. "I think he's interested in talking to any reporter that would like to talk about U.S.-Japanese relations," the spokesman said.

Clinton himself was eager to appear relaxed and in charge Monday. At one point during the NYU roundtable, he agreed with Bulgarian President Peter Stoyanov that expensive international efforts such as Bosnian peacekeeping could be avoided if investments are made on the front end to educate and employ people in the first place.

"For a pittance of what that (Bosnia intervention) cost, we could send him a check and we wouldn't have a problem," Clinton said, pointing to Stoyanov — who jokingly reached for this check.

The president sucked actively on hard candy as he bemoaned Congress' tendency to "say it's a communist plot and hold hearings" each time he presses for environmental reforms. Later, Clinton admitted to the audience that he was "saying provocative things so you'll listen, because it's late in the day and you're tired."

Ironically, Clinton appeared more upbeat at that session than he did early in the day addressing the 53rd session of the United Nations General Assembly. But puffy eyes and lackluster voice notwithstanding, the president still drew a standing ovation from the world body when he took the podium.

Various complaints handled

Local law enforcement personnel handled a variety of calls Monday.

One arrest was made at 2:16 p.m. Deputies took a 33-year-old male into custody in the 1400 block of 23rd Street on warrants for issuance of bad checks.

At 9:22 p.m., an offense report for assault/family violence was filed and officers took a juvenile into custody.

In other activity, G.W. Armstrong requested an officer at the 300 block of 31st Street at 2:51 p.m. in reference to the burglary of his storage building. An offense report for burglary of a building was filed.

Officers also worked a two-vehicle mishap at 4:58 p.m. at the intersection of 26th Street and Avenue U. Involved were a 1997 Escort driven by 44-year-old Connie McDaniel of Loraine and a 1987 Cadillac driven by 62-year-old Mary Villarreal of 2308 29th Street.

At 5:41 p.m., Johnny Silva requested an officer in reference to someone possibly entering his residence while he was gone. An offense report for burglary of a habitation was filed.

An offense report for Class B criminal mischief was submitted at 7:21 p.m. in the 2000 block of KSNY Drive in reference to damage done to a window.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

Church conversion can't save husband from troubled past

DEAR ABBY: I met my husband in church where he had recently been "saved." While we were dating, I found out he had come from a non-religious, alcoholic home, but he told me how much he wanted to be a better husband and father than his father had been. The first few years I actually believed him when he said I had spiritual problems and was not submissive enough. I eventually realized it was his way of justifying emotional abuse toward me.

Over the years, he has become more and more distrustful and critical. Everything is black and white to him. Despite the fact that he says "no church I know of is worth going to," I have continued to raise the children in church. I refuse to allow them to become isolated and insist they participate in activities that interest them. I make sure they are around families who are good relationship models. I secretly went to counseling for a while. I have a lot of prayer support.

Why am I writing? Because I've known a number of women over the years who have found themselves in similar or even worse situations. They married a man from an alcoholic or abusive background who had a "religious experience." In every case, including mine, the man swept her off her feet and was in a big rush to marry.

No matter how much in love a woman is, if a man comes from a troubled background, she should be very careful. Some men truly change, but many slip back into patterns that are familiar to them, and then the wife and family become the targets of his anger and pain.

What I would have seen during a long engagement was that my husband swings between being the greatest guy in the world to being angry, depressed and controlling. It's not true that only women from troubled families will be attracted to such men.

Abby, please don't try to contact me, as I save "rocking the boat" for important issues, like those affecting the children. I just want to help others avoid what I have experienced. If I had known at the beginning what I know now, I'd have had a greater chance to get my husband into counseling, and we might have a better marriage than we have now.

FRUSTRATED, BUT COPING

DEAR FRUSTRATED: I agree with some — but not all — of the points you have made. The myth of "Prince Charming" is difficult to dispel because girls take it with them from early childhood into young womanhood. Long engagements and premarital counseling make sense, if both parties are willing to take off the rose-colored glasses and take a good look at each other. (Who was it who said that the marriage contract should be invalid, because both parties enter into it while they're insane?)

You have a keen insight into your husband and the core issues that trouble your marriage, and for that, I congratulate you. Obviously the counseling you sought was of value, and you are in this for the long haul.

Of course, women who are dating men from troubled backgrounds should look closely at what they might be taking on, but so should men who are dating women from dysfunctional families. Counseling is very helpful to people who sincerely want to change and are willing to work on their issues.

I hope one day your husband recognizes that with some effort on his part, you both could have a happier marriage.

Asthma root of persistent cough

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've had a cough for 16 years. I don't smoke and have received both allergy shots and the reassurance that I have mild chronic bronchitis. I am presently on an asthma inhaler and allergy pills. Is there any new remedy for chronic bronchitis?

DEAR READER: Chronic bronchitis simply means that there is a long-standing infection in your bronchial tubes, the structures that supply air to your lungs. The treatment for this condition is twofold: avoidance of air pollution and antibiotic therapy.

I don't believe that chronic bronchitis is your primary problem, and neither does your doctor, who is treating you for asthma.

Bronchial asthma, sometimes known as hyperactive airway disease, is a common condition, caused by spasm of the muscles that line the bronchial passages. It is a frequent cause of chronic cough, wheezing and shortness-of-breath. The incidence of asthma is increasing, especially among inner-city children.

Fortunately, treatment (with various inhaled medications and prescription pills) is usually successful. If your family doctor has been unable to get your cough under control, you would be helped by seeing a pulmonary specialist, who can test you further (with lung-function studies) and modify your medication. Sixteen years is too long an interval to put up with a cough that could be eliminated.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I am a 64-year-old man with a problem with nighttime urination. I often have to relieve myself six or eight times a night. I have no other problems related to my urinary system and my doctor has pronounced me fit. Would I be helped by taking saw palmetto?

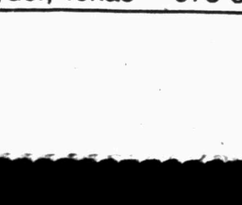

DEAR READER: Possibly. If your doctor agrees, I would encourage you to try this herbal remedy, which is available without a prescription. Several medical studies have shown that saw palmetto may relieve the symptoms of prostatic enlargement. Such symptoms include frequency, urgency and nighttime urination.

If the herb is ineffective, you should see a urologist for further testing and, perhaps, a prescription for medicine that is ordinarily more effective than saw palmetto. But, for now, see if the palmetto might solve your problem.

To give you related information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Bladder and Urinary Tract Infections." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

GOOD NEWS
By Wayne Horton
BASH THE PRESIDENT?
No, this piece is not in favor nor opposition to the President. This is just a comment to call us all to the table to examine our own lives. The Bible says "All have sinned and fall short of the glory of God." Our righteousness, at best, is "filthy rags." Check the secret things in our backgrounds and you'll find trash on all of us.
Not all have been sexually involved with their secretary or cheated on their wives in other ways, but all have growth left to do in the area of HOLINESS. Mostly we are just guilty of "respectable" sins. You know, like gossip or slander or little lies or lust or anger left undealt with or bitterness toward another -- even our enemy whom God has told us to love.
Strange how we point self-righteous fingers at others and excuse our own sin. We praise God one moment, then with the same tongue, we slander one of our neighbors made in His image. Why?
The President should clean-up his life. We should do the same. I know it rains on the "Just and the Unjust" but I wonder if our carelessness with the sin in our own life has anything to do with the lack of rain this year? One thing I'm sure of is this; If we are not faithful to God in the smallest matters, we will not be faithful to Him in the larger ones. And I read somewhere in the Bible that God "disciplines those he loves."
We've tried gathering to pray for rain. God heard and so far has said, "No." Maybe we should think about breaking down our prideful denominational (or "undenominational") walls and gathering together to ask God for nothing. And could it be possible that we need to find the humble honesty instead to say. "Oh, God, be merciful to me, a sinner.?"

"CONFIDENCE IN THE LORD"

Euripides, the ancient Greek dramatist, once wrote, "The only thing worse than fear is fear without reason." If there is any experience common to mankind, it is fear. And one malady which Christianity attempts to set straight is fear.

Hebrews 10:23 says, "Let us hold fast the confession of our hope without wavering, for He who promised is faithful." The New Testament contains frequent expressions of the opposite of fear for the Christian, confidence in the Lord. John wrote, "There is no fear in love; but perfect love casts out fear... (1 John 4:18). The same apostle said, "And this is the promise which He Himself made to us: eternal life" (1 John 2:25).

Then clip out the entry blank and send it to FOOTBALL CONTEST EDITOR, Snyder Daily News, Box 949, Snyder, TX 79550, or bring it by the news office at 3600 College Ave. Entries must be in the hands of the editor by 5:00 p.m. Friday. Games ending in a tie must be specified as a tie or else it will be considered a miss.

To avoid splitting the prize money a TIE-BREAKER slot will be provided on each entry blank. Pick the total points of the score for that game and in case of a tie the one who picks the winner and the nearest number of total points will receive the prize money. The same formula will apply to second and third place winners. In the case of a perfect score, the formula would apply for the $250 cash prize. To win the $1,000 cash prize, all twenty games must be picked correctly, plus the exact score must be predicted on the tie-breaker.

There will be fun for the entire family. Only one entry blank will be permitted for any one person. More than one will disqualify all that person's entries. Entries must be on the official entry blank (No Copies Please). Scores listed on the entry blank will have no bearing except in the case of the tie-breaker. Sign your entry blank and list your address and phone number and watch for the winner's story in next Tuesday's SDN. Employees of the SDN and their families are not eligible to enter.
