Construction Begins On Pee Wee Park

Work has begun on the construction of a Pee Wee League baseball park. The facilities are just west of Little League Park.

Additional work is scheduled for Saturday and any volunteer help would be appreciated. Help was in short supply Wednesday when three workers welded pipe to be used in constructing the backstop and dug-outs.

Approximately $1100 has been raised and plans now call for a fence to be erected completely around the park. Previously, it was felt that funds would not be sufficient to complete the fence this season.

Additional donations to the Pee Wee Park fund since last week's issue of The Enterprise include Mr. and Mrs. Joe Harrell, Bill Kelley and Wallace Mathews.

More Players Needed For Little League

Johnny Hodges, president of Olton Baseball Association, announces that May 5 has been set as a deadline for registering to play in the summer baseball program.

Little League players have been slow in signing up and quite a few more players are needed if Olton is to continue to have four Little League teams.

Little League is composed of boys 10, 11, and 12 years of age. The minimum age for Little Leaguers is 10 years of age on or before Aug. 1, 1969. Boys who will not be 13 on or before July 31, 1969 are eligible for Little League play.

A few more players are needed in the Babe Ruth League. Boys who are 13 years of age on or before Aug. 1, 1969 and those who will not be 16 before July 31, 1969 are eligible for Babe Ruth League baseball.

Boys who have not signed up and who wish to play in Babe Ruth, Little League or Pee Wee League may sign up at Olton State Bank on or before Monday.

Dear Editor

One Of Best

Dear Sue:
CONGRATULATIONS on a beautiful front page Thursday, April 24, and the announcement of a new feed lot for Olton.
To me, it's one of the best examples I've seen of how people can get together, work together and build a dynamic, growing home town.
Maybe I'm prejudiced, but Olton is still one of the best towns I've ever known, and I'm proud of the spirit it shows.

And the Olton Enterprise is one of the best papers in the country, thanks to you and your fine staff.
Again, congratulations.

Welfare

PAUL HARVEY

Welfare recipients have now formed their own union - the National Welfare Rights Organizations (NWRO).
In 45 states, 30,000 families are taking part of their welfare checks to pay dues to this union so they can hire lobbyists in Washington, D. C., to lobby for more something-for-nothing.
As with most such organizations, poor people pay the bills so that the leaders can live mighty comfortably.
Last February, 54 members of the "National co-ordination committee" for this outfit held a convention in Jackson, Miss. They converged by jet from all sections of the country, to wine, dine and convene at a downtown hotel.
Jackson News Editor James Ward, intrigued by the way 20- and hundred-dollar bills were free-flowing around this poor people's gathering, invited himself to interview some of the delegates.
"Do you have any idea what that aged U. S. prime steak you're eating is costing?" "I don't know and I don't care!"
Not all delegates feasted so conspicuously but hotel records show there was some high-on-the-hog room service delivered to delegates that weekend.
Normally it would be none of our business, yours and mine, how these delegates comport themselves privately-except that you and I are buying those steaks.
We tax ourselves mercilessly in a conscientious effort to help the deserving poor and too frequently they get beans while the undeserving get steak.

NWRO delegates said they had summoned this national convention "to develop strategy for dealing with the Nixon Administration."
The convention adopted resolutions demanding a guaranteed annual income.
We have "the right to live," Chairman Johnnie Tillmon said frequently.
The NWRO also voted to boycott Sears stores nationwide "because that chain does not extend credit to welfare recipients."
The NWRO also demanded other fringe benefits, including special clothing, basic household furnishings, so forth.
"Present welfare assistance is destructive of dignity." They want to make it dignified.
"Instead of forcing welfare recipients to work," The NWRO resolution said, the Nixon Administration should guarantee every family $7,000 a year whether it works or not.
And if that isn't enough to rot your socks, Second Vice Chairman Mrs. Bruce Sanders was asked:
"If all 50 million persons you say are eligible for membership in the NWRO should join, what would your organization do?" "Then," she said, "you might have to come to us for jobs."
"Welfare is a human right, a social right, a right under law," say these professional parasites.
They say they have a right to your money and they demand it.

Sue's Views

Mixed Up World

BY SUE CANNON

As if this world wasn't already mixed up enough---the lawmakers had to go and mix it up a little more.

I have never seen so many sleep, yawning people! It's that cockeyed daylight savings time again!

This whole week I have dressed my little one without his knowing anything about it!

Naturally, they are not accustomed to going to bed immediately after sundown and they are sure not used to getting up at 5 o'clock!

This may be the greatest thing on earth according to some people, but not for me!

Of course, we open the office at 8 a. m. (which is really 7 a. m.--I'm sure you know that by now). But then at night, when most of the activities occur that makes up news for the paper, everything has to be put off an hour later because if the farmers are expected to participate, they just simply can't walk out of the field in the middle of the afternoon. Therefore one hour extra is chalked up of a morning and also an hour of an evening.

Well, I guess I'm not as young as I used to be, but I am just about passed going already and we still have three more weeks of school!

If they had to do this to us, why couldn't they wait until after school? At least I could sleep a little longer and then jump out of bed and get myself ready to come to work and wouldn't take quite as much time as it does to try and get six sleepy heads out of bed in time to get to school by 7 a. m. (really).

Oh, well, guess we'll just have to learn to live with it -- at least for this summer. I sure hope some strings can be pulled in Austin next year so we won't have to go through this again!

There are always so many activities about this time every year and it sure is a bad time to try to break in daylight savings time.

Take for instance, this weekend. There is a wedding Friday night, and also an eighth grade banquet, Saturday morning we are supposed to attend a breakfast in Amarillo at 8

a. m. (7 -- remember?) and get an award for a prize won in the Panhandle Press Association Newspaper Contests, then be back to shoot pictures of another wedding at 3 p. m. then attend a banquet at Hart at 8 p. m.

This is the way it will be until school is out....And boy, do I love it! (Except for getting up an hour earlier and going to bed an hour later!)

SWPS Receives Safety Award

Employees of the Plains Division of the Southwestern Public Service Company, of which Olton is part, have been honored by the Texas Safety Association for working the entire year of 1968 without a lost-time injury.

The division received an award of merit from the Texas Safety Association for Group C, organizations working 200,000 to 1,000,000 man-hours a year.

Jerry Hays of Plainview is the division safety and personnel supervisor, with the safety program carried on through local safety units.

The division's 255 employees worked 549,022 man-hours last year without a disabling injury. In addition to accumulating the perfect safety record for last year, the group recorded an exceptional improvement over their 1967 effort which showed a frequency rate of 5.13 disabling injuries for every million man-hours worked.

'T WAS

A month before vacation
When I looked at my car,
The model was old and
The model was old and
Had been driven too far.

The inside was all ripped,
The seat it was torn,
The brakes didn't work
And also the horn,

The windshield was busted,
The old clutch was broke,
The gas line was clogged
And so was the choke.

I cried and I moaned
And started to cuss,
Something had to be done
About my old bus.

So I went to Thompson's
And am now all aglow,
It's like their ad said
I got more for my dough.

Now I laugh at the bumps
And get mileage galore,
My new car looks swell
And here's something more

Thompson's sold me my car
On a long easy plan
My payments are low,
I'm a happy man.

Now my worries are over
I'm no longer in dismay,
This vacation I'm driving
A snappy new Chevrolet!

Cook Of The Week

A pretty little miss from Thailand who's grown to love Olton and her people, Sunee SaeHOW, shares two recipes for foods native to her land.

Sunee, 18, has made her home this year with her "American parents," K. Y. and Jolene Stevens, and adopted sisters, Myrie and Kay.

A member of Future Homemakers of America, she is no stranger to the subject of home-making. In her country, she first took home ec as a fifth grader.

Thai homemaking classes are very similar to those taught in her adopted land although classes in Thailand also teach flower arranging and needle-crafts, such as knitting, crocheting, tating and embroidery.

Sunee began sewing as a freshman and made many of her clothes that she brought when she arrived in Olton last August. She loves to sew but has little time to do so with the frequent public appearances she's called to make as a foreign exchange student.

Rice dishes are the foods, the pert teenager misses most. Rice is eaten daily, in some form, by most Thai people. Sea-foods, in plentiful supply in her native land, are also basic items in the Thai diet.

Other foods used abundantly in Thailand include "lots of mangos" and "lots of cashews".

Sunee has become "Americanized" in acquiring a "sweet tooth". Unaccustomed to cakes, pies and other sweets, she has developed a genuine liking for the calorie laden foods.

Treasurer of her senior class, she is an honorary member of the National Honor Society. She is also a member of Future Teachers and the Pep Squad.

SWEET-AND-SOUR FISH

- 1 med. catfish
- 2 T. Wondra flour (Gold Medal flour) - add some more if you like it thicker
- 1 med. onion
- 2 T. sugar
- 1/2 lemon
- 1 large cucumber
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 c. water
- 2 T. tomato paste

Cut onion into eighths. Mix water, flour lemon juice, sugar, salt and onion together.

Season salt to the fish and leave it about 10 minutes. Brown fish in hot fat in skillet.

Peel the cucumber and slice into thin pieces. Decorate the plate with sliced cucumber.

Remove fish and some fat from skillet, leave about 2 T. of fat. Add the flour mixture and cook until it is thick, mix in tomato paste. Place the fish on the plate, and pour the mixture on the fish. Serve with white bread or dry-cooked rice.

This recipe is even better if you use fresh salt water fish.

RICE SOUP

- 1 c. long grain rice
- 1/2 small chicken
- 3 green onions
- 1 garlic (optional)
- 1 tsp. salt
- a small amount of fat

Boil chicken in 2 cups of water with 1 tsp. salt. Let it's cooked until it is easy to remove meat from bone. Drain chicken and save the soup water. Tear the drained chicken into little pieces. Cook rice with water, after it's done add soup water as much as you like (about 1 1/2 inches over rice). Chop the garlic very fine and fry in hot oil until it is golden brown (leave some fat in it). Chop onion real fine. For serving, put the onion in the bottom of the bowl, then rice, then chicken add some salt and pepper and accent according to individual taste. Serve when it is hot for 4 servings.

SELECTIVE HERBICIDE

- Beats annual grasses and nutgrass
- Beats the weather
- Beats the soil residue carryover problem

Stauffer's new SUTAN, "the grass getter" is here... ready to work for you.

It controls giant, yellow and green foxtail, barnyardgrass (watergrass), crabgrass, goosegrass, purple and yellow nutgrass and Johnsongrass from seed.

Applied and immediately mixed into the soil just before planting, SUTAN does not depend on rainfall to move it into the weed seed zone. It's already down there working to control weed seeds germinated by soil moisture. Control starts early, keeps on working in wet weather when you can't cultivate.

When used as recommended, SUTAN does not leave harmful soil residues... does not interfere with cover crops or rotation.

In most cases, SUTAN can be applied with liquid fertilizers or soil insecticides. Come on in and let us give you full details.

Choose this brand and you still have plenty of choices

For yield power where it counts, Texas grain sorghum producers have been choosing Pioneer varieties year after year. Such Pioneer hybrids as 846 have been breaking yield records from the top of the Panhandle to the South Plains. Besides popular 846 here are five other top performers from Pioneer:

828
This new full-season hybrid frequently yields above the five-ton level with plenty of water and ample fertility. Texas A&M tests and farm reports show 828 to be one of the highest yielding hybrids you can plant.

820
An old reliable, 820 has been a favorite on the high plains for six years, turning in some of the top yields in Texas year after year. This full-season variety is medium height with outstanding stalks and roots.

845
Another new Pioneer brand hybrid, 845 is a medium-maturity variety that yields with most full-season varieties. In the 1967 Texas A&M performance tests, the highest official yield for any variety, any maturity and any test was recorded by 845—a whopping 10,570 pounds per acre.

848
This medium-maturity hybrid rates exceptionally well for standability and easy harvesting. Short, uniform plants have very strong stalks and roots. Open heads are loaded with heavy, red grain. An outstanding yielder for its maturity.

866
A medium-early hybrid, 866 yields along with many later varieties. Its uniform height and good head exertion make it easy to thresh. 866 performs well under dryland or irrigated conditions.

Pioneer has many other high yielding grain sorghum hybrids. Pioneer also has performance-proved seed corn hybrids for grain and silage. See your Pioneer dealer now and pick the variety that's best for you.

NEW WAY TO SERVE POTATOES—Mr. Newton of Roundup suddenly found himself astraddle a fence, in a manner of speaking and when the excitement was all over, this was the result. Newton lost control of his truck which was loaded with seed potatoes and the vehicle tore up the fence at the Athol Light home on the Hart highway before coming to rest on its side.

spilling potatoes all over the lawn. The house suffered two broken windows from the flying pieces of the concrete fence. Newton, who has a heart condition, was able to climb out of the truck, but not before he took the precaution of taking his "nitro" to ward off another heart attack. He is shown here talking with Athol Light.

Bob Price Writes

Dear Friends:

Because of the alarming increase in the traffic of obscene materials, I am devoting this newsletter to a review of my efforts in Congress to fight pornography. The following is taken primarily from my remarks on the Floor of the House of Representatives as recorded in the Congressional Record, April 28, 1969.

PORNOGRAPHY

The United States Post Office Department estimates that more than $500 million worth of obscene material is sold to young people through the mail each year. J. Edgar Hoover, the Director of the FBI, warned more than a year ago: "The publication and sale of obscene material is big business in America Today... It is impossible to estimate the amount of harm to impressionable teenagers and to assess the volume of sex crimes attributable to pornography, but its influence is extensive." FBI statistics show that sexual violence is increasing at an alarming pace, and Mr. Hoover states that pornography in all its forms is a major cause of sex crimes, aberrations, and perversions.

A factor complicating the legislative attempts to deal with the increasing flow of pornography has been the uncertainty in the law caused by the U. S. Supreme Court decisions in the area of anti-obscenity legislation. State legislatures do not know, and the U. S. Supreme Court has not stated with certainty what legislative regulations will be upheld.

Since obscenity is not protected by the first amendment of the Constitution and since Congress has a responsibility to protect the public interest, I believe there are compelling reasons for Congress to take the initiative and deal with the problem. It is for these reasons that I introduced a bill on Monday, April 28, 1969, to suppress traffic in obscenity, particularly pornographic material that is sent to young people through the mail.

The bill I introduced makes it a Federal crime to disseminate through interstate commerce or the mails obscene matter to minors under the age of eighteen. Moreover, to protect families my bill prohibits the unsolicited mailing of obscene material to people with minor children living with them. Presently, adults are protected under the pandering advertisement statute (39 USC 4009). Under this statute, adult patrons decide for themselves what they consider is sexually offensive publications, and legal orders are issued directing the mailer to remove the complaining patron's name from the company's mailing list.

To enforce its provisions, my bill provides a penalty much higher than in similar bills introduced by other Congressmen. A penalty of not less than $1000 nor more than $5000 AND imprisonment for not less than one year nor more than five years is provided for the first offense. For each additional offense, the penalty is not less than $3000 nor more than $20,000 AND imprisonment for not less than three years nor more than ten years.

My bill would further bar Federal courts from hearing appeals of local jury findings on obscenity cases. Thus, under the provision, if a movie, a theatrical production or publication were found obscene by a jury under local law, no appeal could be taken to the Federal courts. This provision still retains the right of appeal on questions of law to protect "due process." Moreover, the Congress is clearly within its constitutional powers in so limiting the appellate jurisdiction. Senator Everett Dirksen recently introduced a senate bill containing a similar measure to bar such Federal court appeals.

I am hopeful that committee action can soon be taken on this proposal so that the youth can be protected from the ever-increasing traffic in obscene materials in this country.

Everything But

The Kitchen Sink

BY MOZELLE TROTTER

It just beats all! It wasn't enough that our lawmakers messed up our clocks—they're even trying to goof up the calendar!

It isn't that I'm against progress! But if it were okay with the Washingtons to celebrate George's birthday on the anniversary of the day he was born—then, by George, why shouldn't we?

Same thing applies to that poor old sailor Christopher. Poor thing! First, they wouldn't name his new country "Columbia" or "Christopherland" or something like that. After all these years, someone's trying to fix it where no one will remember his birthday.

And don't think they won't forget. "Now, let's see, Chris's birthday is the 10th or is it the 15th?" If a guy can't keep up with the birthday of the gal he's been living with 20 years, then we sure can't expect him to remember when Christopher Columbus was born. And remember how we came to celebrate Veteran's Day? They've already messed around with that day. Time was when we celebrated Nov. 11 as the anniversary of World War I Armistice. Why didn't they pick another day to honor America's veterans?

If the governor does okay the bill that our senators passed earlier this week to make these holidays Monday observances, will they come back again in a few years and tell us we're going to celebrate New Year's and the Fourth of July on Mondays?

Can't you just see us in the late 1970's writing a story something like this? "Monday, July 7. Residents of Olton today celebrated the anniversary of the fourth of July signing of --"

Or? "Monday, Jan. 5. Oltonites enjoyed a full day's menu of bowl games today when businesses were closed to observe New Year's Day."

I suppose there's not a thing wrong with all this. It's just that I'm agin' change! I might be the one Imogene Sorley and Jo Carr had in mind in one of the prayers in their new book, "Bless This Mess."

"But, Lord, I've always bought brown sugar in square boxes with brown letters on the box."

"I saw the plastic bags of sugar in the grocery store yesterday. I could tell by looking that this was a better way. The strong, air-tight bags would keep the sugar soft and usable."

"But I've always bought brown sugar in boxes. And I reached for the box."

"Now, back at home, I wonder why, Lord, why are we... why am I... so reluctant to change old ways? Some old ways are valid, but some need changing."

"And I cling to square boxes with unthinking tenacity, just because I've always bought square boxes."

"That is not reason enough. Times have changed - and are changing so fast it makes my head swim. I am obligated to face my days intentionally!"

"The container that brown sugar comes in is no great thing. But there are other, weightier matters that require rethinking - and perhaps revising. If I am going to live significantly, I must make my big decisions purposefully, intentionally, comprehensively."

"Forgive my square boxes, Amen." (Reprinted in part.) The little volume of prayers is a wonderful book to read and own. I recommend it wholeheartedly.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

Nowhere has the tragedy of American higher education and irresponsible and fearful leadership demonstrated itself more clearly than in the case of the Harvard Corporation, which runs the university, yielding to the demands of the extremist left-wing Students for a Democratic Society.

The Harvard Corporation gave way in accepting a Harvard University faculty proposal to reduce the Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) to an extra-curricular activity. This is precisely what the SDS had demanded in seizing the university's administration building and sparking a student strike.

This appeasement of the SDS is all the more shocking inasmuch as Harvard is America's oldest university and long was considered its finest educational institution. This no longer can be considered the case. A university that regards instruction in defense of the United States of America as no more than an extra-curricular activity certainly is not entitled to respect and does not stand for the moral values that underlie a free society.

The ROTC is an institution that every college and university should be proud to have on its campus. Without ROTC, the United States would have had an extremely difficult time finding the officers necessary to lead the countless formations fielded in defense of American freedom in World War II, and Korea, for instance. The service academies cannot begin to supply the number of officers needed in times of national emergency.

The American people, viewing the action of the Harvard Corporation and faculty, have no choice but to conclude that love of country, faith in American institutions—patriotism, in a word, has been terribly eroded at Harvard. Who now would want to send a son to Harvard? What would he learn there? Certainly, there is no evidence that he would learn love for this great Republic or gain any understanding of the importance of service to his country.

Some of the radicals involved in protests at Harvard have expressed resentment of defense studies conducted at the university and at other colleges. Perhaps the time has come to remove defense studies from Harvard and other institutions where patriotism seems to be discounted and to transfer the study programs to other institutions where American values are cherished and where there is an environment of faith in the United States.

Indeed it may be time for the Congress to consider stripping all federal aid from Harvard and other institutions that demonstrate they will not stand by America in its hour of danger.

It is unlikely that many patriotic citizens, reading of the downgrading of the ROTC, will want their tax dollars to be channeled to Harvard for any program whatsoever or under any conditions. If Harvard won't treat the ROTC with the dignity and respect it deserves, then a good case can be made that Harvard doesn't deserve a dollar in federal assistance. Let other institutions, where patriotism is cherished, have the benefit of the federal activities.

Fortunately, the U. S. is not without academic leaders who are willing to condemn current trends and developments at Harvard. Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, president of embattled San Francisco State College, has spoken out against the Harvard faculty for failing to support use of the police against campus hoodlums. "A bunch of kids come in," he said, "and bodily carry out the dean. They occupy the building and start rifling secret files. That's the time and place to call the cops." He pointed out, however, that the faculty wouldn't support use of police. Dr. Hayakawa accused the Harvard faculty of "deep-rooted prejudice" against policemen.

It is tragic that university trustees or faculty members should condone violence by radical students but instantly condemn use of lawful force by policemen. The trustees and faculty members in effect uphold mob rule.

Something is very wrong with an "intellectual" who adopts such a double-standard, who has such a distorted psychological reaction. The Harvard decision reflects a sick academic society, an appeasement of brutal and irrational elements. Something, obviously, must be wrong with a Harvard "education" if basic logic and basic values of a law-abiding society are rejected by professors and trustees.

Americans cannot overlook the seriousness of the sickness from which Harvard is suffering. It needs to be dealt with before it reaches epidemic proportions.

YOUR VERSION

Lesson for May 4, 1969

Background Scriptures: Exodus 34:27; 1 Chronicles 29:29,30; 2 Kings 22:8-13; Jeremiah 36:27-32; John 21:24, 25; 2 Peter 3:15b-18; Revelation 11:19

In the year 1536 William Tyndale was chained to the stake, strangled, and then burned at the orders of England's King Henry VIII.

His crime? He was hunted down in Antwerp, Belgium, and discovered in the process of translating the Old Testament into the English language!

Of course, this was not a complete surprise to Tyndale. He knew that his life was endangered by his work. He had already translated into the English tongue the New Testament, which was smuggled into England in great numbers. Copies were hunted down, confiscated and burned at the direction of the Bishop of London.

Dangerous reading Tyndale was regarded as a subversive by both church and state. In those days, only the highly educated could read the Latin Bible, and there were no English versions allowed. Public notices in England warned: "No women, nor artificers, nor apprentices, journeymen, serving-men, yeomen, husbandmen, or laborers shall read the Bible in English to himself or another, privately or openly on pain of a month's imprisonment."

His work of translation was an act of disobedience to the laws of England. Yet, Tyndale's purpose was not to subvert his nation, but to convert it. He was consumed by one single-minded desire: to put the Bible into the language of the people. "If God spare my life," said Tyndale, "I will cauesth a boy that driveth a plow shall know more of the Scripture than thou (a learned man) dost."

His last words were, "Lord, open the king of England's eyes." His prayer was answered, for one year later, this same King Henry VIII commanded the Bible to be published in England and appointed to be read by all of the people. The English Bible came into being at a fearful price.

A risky translation In our nation today, bringing the Bible to people is not so dangerous a vocation. It can be bought in any department store, found in any motel or hotel, purchased at newsstands in paperback. Every public library carries a variety of translations and editions. Brides carry white Bibles as they walk down the nuptial aisle. There is little danger today in producing, selling, or owning this book.

Yet, perhaps this atmosphere of polite acceptance is deceptive. Perhaps there is as much resistance as ever to its message. There is at least one translation that may experience some resistance. Four clergymen were discussing the merits of various Bible translations. One preferred the King James Version because of its matchless Elizabethan English. Another chose the Revised Version of 1881 because of its literal and accurate translations of the original languages. James Moffatt's version was chosen by a third because of its up-to-date vocabulary. The fourth, however, said: "I like my mother's translation best." "Your mother?" someone exclaimed, "I didn't know your mother made a translation." "Oh yes," was the reply, "she translated it into life, and it was the most convincing translation I ever saw."

The gospel according to you It is also the most dangerous translation. Many people will not pick up and read hotel Bibles or take advantage of the reasonable prices and attractive editions. The only Bible translation they may ever read is "the Gospel according to you," the Bible translated into your life. And that can be dangerous, or at least risky. Just as the king rejected Jeremiah's prophecies, so people will reject the "treasure" in your "earthen vessel." And just as Baruch had to record that scripture again, so you may have to continue to make the Bible come alive for those around you.

LEWIS LLEWELLYN

Misunderstood, Misrepresented

The young people of our country are being grossly misunderstood and misrepresented.

They are being misunderstood by their elders, who have associated youth with irresponsible rebellion.

They are being misrepresented by the three or four percent of their age group who have rebelled so vociferously against all authority that they have created the impression among some of us that they constitute a majority.

The truth that often escapes our notice is that there are many reasonable, responsible young people for every one of the miniminority of militant malcontents.

What a Student Thinks

One of these young people—a high school senior—has told us what he thinks, in a letter to the editor of his home-town paper.

"The violence and disruption going on in colleges across our country today are a disgrace to the American nation," he says. "When I go to college, I don't want to be kept from classes by a few insane idiots. . . Millions of dollars are wasted each year by putting up with spoiled brats that want everything their own way."
