Three Men Cling Desperately To Overturned Boat; Two Of Victims Slip To Death But One Is Rescued

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, June 9.—At least three lost their lives in a violent storm which broke with sudden fury over Texas last night .

James C. Case of Dallas and A. J. Watson of Stephenville were known to have perished when the small boat in which they were fishing capsized at Lake Dallas, 30 miles north of Dallas.

Gives No Warning

Their companion, Ben Clark of Arcadia Park said they had been running trot lines. They had no intimation that storm was brewing. Without warning high wind and rain swept the lake.

Towering waves swamped and overturned their boat in a few minutes. They clung to the craft for hours. Finally Case and Watson weakened and were swept away to death. Clark was rescued just as his strength was ebbing.

Others Are Seen

Campers on the lake shore told of of seeing four other fishermen in a boat on the lake when the storm struck. Calls for help were heard, then silence. No trace had been found of this party and it was feared they also were drowned. The lake was being dragged today for their bodies. They were said to be from Wichita Falls.

(By The Associated Press)

PALO PINTO, June 9. Preparations for building the Bankhead highway cut-off from Weatherford to a point three miles south of Strawn will be resumed immediately, Chairman W. R. Ely of the state highway commission said here this afternoon after District Judge Sam Russell had denied an injunction to restrain the road construction.

Lindy Is Called In Curtis Trial

(By The Associated Press)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., June 9.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and the navy flier, Lieut. George L. Richard, were named in subpoenas issued by County Clerk C. Lloyd Fell today, calling for their appearance to testify as defense witnesses in the trial of John Hughes Curtis, accused hoaxer in the kidnaping case.

Colonel Lindbergh has been quoted as saying he "would be ready at any time" to testify against the Norfolk ship builder who led him on phantom sea chases in search of mythical kidnapers.

The move of Lloyd Fisher, Curtis' attorney, in summoning him for the defense, was unexplained.

Conditions In Camp Of Vets Being Decried

Health Officer States Living Conditions Are Frightful; Steps Taken In Congress To Get Army Rations

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 9.—While leaders presented petitions at the White House and capitol urging immediate bonus payment, Dr. William C. Fowler, District of Columbia health officer, today pronounced the veteran army's living conditions "frightful."

A committee representing the former service men called at the White House and placed their communication to the president in the hands of one of his secretaries.

Message Is Read

Earlier it had delivered the petition to Vice-President Curtis and, finding Speaker Garner busy presiding over the house, left a copy at his office. The message was read to the senate and incorporated in the Congressional Record at the request of Senator Thomas (D., Okla.). Later it was read to the house at request of Rep. Connery, (D., Mass.).

Dr. Fowler said the open air encampment at Anacostia Flats was the worst menace to the city's health since he took office. A marine corps medical detail, after inspecting the camp pronounced the quality of food "poor" and general camp conditions "fair."

Meanwhile, the district commissioners sent telegrams to governors of all the states urging them to do

Delegates And Committeemen Are Openly Expressing Belief That Republicans Will Have A Moist Plank

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, June 9.—In an atmosphere vibrant with demands for prohibition repeal or resubmission, Republican chieftains gathered in force today to clear up a mass of minor details for the national convention beginning next Tuesday.

Hotel lobbies were jammed with national committeemen and delegates openly expressing opinions that the Republican platform would be wet; dry organization leaders arrived but kept their plans secret.

Contests Put Off

Delegate contests were put off until tomorrow, and the name of James R. Garfield, of Ohio, chairman-designate of the convention resolutions committee, was the latest passed around as the probable new chairman of the national committee.

A White House denial that President Hoover had committed himself to any specific prohibition plank was echoed by Chairman Fess, of the national committee here. Republican leaders in the national capital insisted, however, the president had indicated acceptance of the resubmission principle.

Recruits Added

Elsewhere, the anti-prohibitionists continued to add recruits to their cause, although sharp disagreement arose in both Republican and Democratic camps as to how a change

WASHINGTON, June 9. (AP)—A few scribbled words under which Mrs. Edward B. McLean wrote her name in her South Carolina cottage last March became the focal point today in the trial of Gaston B. Means on charges of defrauding the society woman of $104,000 given to him to recover the kidnaped and murdered Lindbergh baby.

The note on which Mrs. McLean, estranged wife of the Washington Post Publisher, identified her signature in the District of Columbia supreme court read:

Banks And Trafficways Are Guarded As Presence Of Bandit Is Rumored

(By The Associated Press)

MUSKOGEE, Okla., June 9. Guarding banks and trafficways, peace officers of the Oklahoma-Arkansas border country fingered their firearms tonight in anticipation of a new clash with Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, slippery outlaw.

Machine guns were mounted today to protect Fort Smith, Ark., banks; a bridge from Oklahoma was guarded and other officers scanned roads leading from a wooded spot near Warner, Okla., where three desperadoes believed led by the much-hunted bank robber robbed a negro family of a motor car this morning.

E. W. Wood, principal of the Booker T. Washington high school at Tulsa, recognized a picture of Floyd as one of the men who transferred machine guns and other weapons and ammunition to his car, fleeing in it toward Fort Smith. The trio abandoned another machine which resembled the one in which Floyd and a pal believed to be George Birdwell shot their way out of a police trap near Stonewall, Okla., two nights ago.

Philanthropies Of Late Tech President Recalled

Estate Is Estimated At $25,000; Widow Is Executrix

PHILANTHROPIES of the late Dr. Paul W. Horn were brought to mind Thursday when his widow estimated in probate court that the estate of the first and only president of Texas Technological college was valued at about $25,000.

Mrs. Maude K. Horn, his widow, named in his will independent executrix without bond, was appointed to that place yesterday by County Judge E. L. Pitts. W. S. Posey, banker; W. T. Gaston, Tech business manager, and C. A. Sanford, long-time friend of the Horns, were named by the judge to appraise the estate.

Gave Liberally

"Doctor Horn gave quite liberally to the Y. M. C. A., to athletic endeavors, to the church, and to countless programs," an associate of the late president said last night.

"I never knew of his refusing anyone money who asked for it," a former Tech student recalled. "When some of the Tech clubs were sorely in need of funds, their representatives went to Doctor Horn. Not infrequently he sat down and wrote out a check for $25 for them. He was most liberal with his funds."

His will, which yesterday was admitted for probate, left the estate to Mrs. Horn and her daughter, Ruth.

Mayor William B. Harrison told them the city had no funds with which to purchase them a supper.

It is reported that the emperor's soldiers are deserting him in favor of the former ruler.

Final Chapter Given In Lubbock County Highway Case

FINIS was written Thursday by the state supreme court in the fight of Mrs. W. G. Nairn and other property owners in Lubbock county to compel the county and the state highway commission to route highway No. 24 north on Avenue H. The court yesterday overruled a motion for rehearing made by Mrs. Nairn, after her suit had been ruled against April 21.

Routing of the highway east on Broadway, as outlined by the state highway commission representatives, was favored in the decision in the case. The approved plans route the highway east on Broadway through the underpass to a point about two and one-half miles east of the city near the state experiment station. From there, the route will angle northeast to near the intersection of the Fort Worth and Denver South Plains and Santa Fe railroad tracks. Here the present highway will be used on into Idalou.

Mandate Expected

Mandate of the court is expected here in about a week or ten days, County Judge E. L. Pitts said Thursday night. The county has not completed the right-of-way, between three and four miles of easements not having been secured.

Vaughn E. Wilson, county attorney, represented the county, and other members of the legal staff were Tom Garrard and T. S. Christopher. Lamesa, assistant district attorney. Vickers & Campbell represented the plaintiffs.

Robert H. Bean, Lubbock attorney, at the time of the origin of the suit was county judge and the case was styled Mrs. W. G. Nairn et al vs. Robert Bean et al. Plaintiffs in the case besides Mrs. Nairn included J. M. Hettler and his sister, F. A. McGee, P. F. Brown, Mrs. Mollie Abernathy, and J. F. Hufstedler.

The supreme court Thursday denied a motion to advance the case of W. W. Williams vs. H. E. Byrne et al, appealed from Lubbock county, the Associated Press reported .

Governor Roosevelt Begins Task Of Reading Testimony

ALBANY, N. Y., June 9. (AP) — Governor Roosevelt tonight began a two to three week task of reading the Hofstadter investigation record on which Samuel Seabury bases his arguments for removal of James J. Walker, Tammany mayor of New York City.

In the light of Mr. Roosevelt's remark today, "it is of course necessary to check all the testimony with the allegations," it is probable the Democratic national convention will be in session at Chicago before the governor completes a scrutiny of the 600,000 words of testimony.

Harry Fleisher Walks Into Police Headquarters To Give Self Up; Denies Connection With Kidnaping

(By The Associated Press)

DETROIT, June 9. — Harry Fleisher, dapper Detroit gangster wanted for questioning in the Lindbergh baby kidnaping case, walked into police headquarters today and gave himself up.

He refused to talk, but his attorney, Edward H. Kennedy, Jr., declared emphatically that Fleisher had "absolutely nothing to do with the Lindbergh case."

New Jersey officials were notified of the gangster's surrender, and from Lieut. Walker Coughlin of the New Jersey state police made a request for permission to question Fleisher. Detroit officials said the permission had been granted.

Eight Men, Three Women Plead Guilty To Handling Liquors; Judge Gives Light Sentences

Hale County Loses Suit To Recover Public Funds Deposited In Closed Plainview National Bank; Instructed Verdict For Defendants Is Rendered After Three Days In Trial

EIGHT MEN and three women faced Judge William H. Atwell in United States district court Thursday afternoon on charges of violation of the prohibition law, entered pleas of guilty and were sentenced to terms ranging from five days to 40 days.

Two of the women, because of small children, were given suspended sentences on probation while the third, because her parents were alive, was given 15 days.

All Of Plainview

All of the parties gave Plainview as their home address. They were arrested recently in raids by federal agents. They were arraigned before Victor Lindsey, U. S. commissioner here and some released on bond. Arnold Davis, deputy U. S. district attorney, conducted the cases for the government.

Robert E. Bruce, World war veteran who is suffering of tuberculosis alleged to have resulted from injuries while serving with the A.E.F. in France and who has been drawing $75 a month compensation for these injuries and $25 for his child, was given 15 days in jail. He entered pleas of guilty to two charges of sale and one of joint possession with his wife.

Large Amount Is Involved In Case

An instructed verdict for the defendant companies in the case of Hale county by E. C. Abernathy, county judge, vs. American Indemnity company, et al., was returned by a jury in United States district court late Thursday on instructions of Judge William H. Atwell after defense attorneys had moved for an instructed verdict.

The surety companies were sued by the county in an effort to recover on surety bonds which the Plainview National bank, now closed, had posted in February, 1929, when it was named county depository. The amount involved was approximately $300,000. Hearing of the case began Wednesday morning.

Holds For Defendants

At the close of the plaintiff's testimony late in the afternoon, the defense attorneys moved for an instructed verdict. At that time Judge Atwell held for the defendants, National Surety company and Equity Casualty company and in part the American Indemnity company.

J. D. Steakley, executive vice-president of the closed bank, was the only witness for defendants. He denied purported statements by three members of the commissioners courts as to alleged statements credited to him concerning the alleged solvency of the bank in the spring of 1931.

Following this testimony and the hearing of arguments by defense attorneys on motions, Judge Atwell gave his charge to the jury. He criticized the commissioners for their failure to act in view of what they claimed Steakley had told

Cut Medical Aid

"Why did you do it?" Judge Atwell asked. "The government cut off my medical aid," the veteran explained.

Judge Atwell severely censured Bruce for violating the federal law while at the same time drawing money from the government for his support. Bruce admitted doing wrong.

Mrs. Bruce was given a 30-day sentence and placed on probation, to take care of their 15 months old child. "I take all the blame for her," said Bruce when his wife in response to the question of the court for a reason for her acts, had replied, "I don't know why."

Two Sick Children

Mrs. Sylvia Moore, charged with sale and possession, said she had three children, two of them sick. "I found it impossible to get enough work," she told the court. "I sold 'home brew' in order to buy bread for my children. I have taken in washing and sewing."

"Thirty days, and I am placing you on probation," Judge Atwell said. "Write once a week to the probation officer in care of the district clerk here. Tell him what you are doing."

Mrs. Bertha Hillis, a widow, said she was unable to get food for her three children and her father, 75, and mother, 68, so she sold liquor. Because her parents could take care of the children, Judge Atwell gave her five days in jail.

Given 15 Days

J. D. Thornton was the first to make a plea of guilty. He was given 15 days in jail. Frank Ricks on his plea of guilty was given 30 days and Angus Dasher received 35 days. D. Smith received 30 days

Home For High School Boy Is Being Sought By Lubbock County Officers

THERE is a 15-year-old high school boy in Lubbock county jail who might make a good citizen if given an opportunity, officers believe. The lad and a youth his own age stole a car here April 14, they were arrested in Socorro, N. M., and yesterday in county juvenile court both pleaded guilty.

Judge E. L. Pitts is deferring sentence in the hope of securing some one to whom to parole the lads. But one of them, a tenth grade student in Clovis, N. M., high school, has no relative to be responsible for him.

"His parents are dead, and his only living relative is a sister, and we do not even know her name since she was married in California," Judge Pitts declared.

The judge wants to know if there is a Lubbock business man who would take charge of the boy, give him work during the summer and aid him to finish his high school education.

"His record is bad, but his mind is keen and he has a good countenance. He has the making of a good citizen, but he needs some one to help him out," the judge declared.

WHAT nature doesn't do to make us all alike, a flock of beauticians are doing. So now over in Paris they are transplanting hairs from the scalp to the eye brows and eye lashes and claiming that they can make them grow. The only inconvenience is in having to go to the shops occasionally for a clip as these hairs grow too long!

The next thing we know, the bald headed man or woman who doesn't desire to be that way can go down and have his scalp cultivated, plant some new hairs and come away to watch them grow, we suppose. A sort of gardening process!

The method is about the same, one judges. With delicate instruments, the beautician removes a few hairs, root and all, from the scalp, opens the hair seat of the eye brow and, presto, the thing is done. A brow grows where none grew before.

MISCELLANY

PICKED up here and there: If you are banding any of your summer hats with white pique, linen or other fabrics, fasten the bandings shut with snaps so they can come off for washing and be replaced in a hurry.

To restore luster to cloudy glassware, wash in water to which a dish of ammonia has been added.

Before washing a sweater, place the soiled garment flat on a large piece of brown paper, straighten out its sleeves and body and then trace its outline with a pencil. After washing and rinsing, place the garment back on the traced outline and stick pins through it on some hard board surface and let it dry to its proper shape.

When washing colored fabrics, remember to wash quickly, using luke warm water and a mild soap. Rinse well and dry quickly in the shade. Hang up immediately after removing from the rinsing water. Do not let them lie in a heap in the basket, or the colors may run.

For comfort or blanket protectors use an old sheet or old cotton blanket ends as they are just as wide as the other bedding. These can be tinted to match the color scheme of a room. Pin them on instead of sewing and they are more quickly removed.

Here is a sandwich filler: Cut stoned dates very fine, soften some cream cheese and add the dates with a dash of lemon juice. Spread on rounds of Boston brown bread.

The lace evening dress is always a good bet for the traveler as wrinkles acquired in the bag are easy to shake out.

Another reason we think hay fever is a modern ailment is that the ancients had time to say "God Bless you" every time they sneezed.

Oh well, some good has come out of the study up at Cornell university. Research in brains, in which some famous brains have been studied, has developed the theory that women's brains are as good as men's.

It takes an awful lot of study for some people to discover things that are pretty obvious to a lot of others.

For your summer punch, here is a recipe that will serve 50 people:

One quart boiling water, four tablespoons black tea, five cups sugar, more or less; one teaspoon salt, two quarts loganberry juice, juice twelve lemons, three quarts dry ginger ale. Pour boiling water over the tea leaves and let stand 10 minutes. Pour off the infusion over the sugar and salt and stir until dissolved. Cool and add fruit juices. Dilute with ginger ale just before serving and pour into the punch bowl over a large block of ice. This quantity is very strong and may be diluted about half by the ice.

Slightly mash one quart of berries and add juice of two lemons and two cups sugar. Set in refrigerator about an hour. Add one quart water and place in ice trays to freeze. Serve with whipped cream.

When Pimples Mar Your Skin

Getting rid of horrid pimples, blackheads and sunburn is quite easy, and simple for those who use Artesia Cream. Its mild and soothing antiseptics quickly clear up these troubles. It also "neutralizes" sallowness, dinginess, tan and splotches, making the skin crystal clear, much lighter, healthful and amazingly beautiful. Artesia Cream draws poison from bloated pores causing the skin to become soft, pliable, close textured. 25c and 50c sizes at all drug stores.—Adv.

Singers To Be Heard Tonight

Deep River Plantation Singers To Be Presented In Lubbock As First Summer Number On Artists Course

Those songs of the old South--many of them composed in Dixie's cotton fields verse by verse through generations—will be heard by a Lubbock audience when the Deep River Plantation Singers appear Friday night at 8:30 o'clock at Lubbock high school auditorium. The program is the first of a series of three offered this summer on the Texas Technological college artists course.

The singers have in their large repertoire many of the old favorites, which include "Roll, Jordan, Roll," "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," "Hallelujah," "Old Black Joe," "Youse My Honey I Love so Well." There also will be selections from "Show Boat," as well as a score of tuneful melodies which are offered because of their rhythic excellences.

Professor C. S. Mast is in charge of ticket sales, and town residents are being offered the artist course for $1, the same sum which college students will pay.

Praise of the singers is high in cities where they have appeared. One critic wrote. "They simply charmed their audience with a variety of typically negro music which included jubilee chants, plantation melodies, religious hymns, voodoo songs, old tribal melodies and spirituals."

Three Persons Are Killed As Burglar Is Reported

SAN FRANCISCO, June 9. (AP) — A suspected burglar, a policeman and a bystander were killed last night when police entered a house in which two burglars were reported.

HIS HEALTH IMPROVED 40%

After Use of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

If you are constipated, read this letter which Mr. Murray had attested by Notary Public:

"Two months ago I commenced using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN to relieve constipation. I am in better health today than I have been in years, due to the use of your wonderful bran. My bowels move regularly, and my general health has improved 40%." — George A. Murray, 288 K Street, South Boston, Mass.

Laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN brings two things needed to correct common constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently it clears the intestines of wastes.

How much better to use ALL-BRAN than to abuse your system with pills and drugs—often harmful.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation—in serious cases, with every meal. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Use as a cereal with milk or cream, or in cooking. At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Midland Raps Gov. Sterling

Friends Of Governor Surprised At Attitude On Highway In West Texas; Sterling Gives Answer To C Of C

AUSTIN, June 9. (AP) — Governor R. S. Sterling today wired the Midland Chamber of Commerce that he had "never gone on record as saying" that the Weatherford cutoff of the Bankhead highway should not be built "some time."

Considerable controversy between towns in the community affected has arisen over a proposal of the Texas highway commission to construct a cut-off from the Bankhead highway from Weatherford to Ranger, a distance of 46 miles. It was claimed the new construction would save 14 miles travel from Fort Worth to points in West Texas.

The Midland chamber telegraphed Governor Sterling that his friends there were "surprised at your attitude on Ranger-Weatherford cutoff."

"More people favor road than oppose," the message stated. "No desire to hurt Mineral Wells but we are fighting for self-preservation, not asking your support but asking you remain neutral and let highway commission act as it sees fit."

Governor Sterling replied he had "repeatedly said and do so now that I am opposed to the spending of any money either by the county, state or national governments that is not absolutely necessary."

"I feel that at this time it is not right, proper or just to the taxpayers of this state to spend money for unnecessary improvements," Governor Sterling said. "I believe in straightening out our highways but I feel that it is best to get a connected all-weather system of roads before we begin to spend millions of dollars for the purpose of shortening roads. Knowing the financial situation of the counties, our state and our nation I am firmly of the opinion that we must curtail the expenditures of public money if for no other reason than that the people have not the funds with which to pay taxes. I am indeed sorry if my attitude has displeased my friends at Midland, though I would not be fair to myself or to you if I did not express my candid opinion regarding all questions."

Vic Sorrell Beats Yanks And Tigers Go Third As A's Drop To Fifth Place

Sam West Homers As Sens Beat White Sox

(By The Associated Press)

DETROIT, June 9.—Vic Sorrell, ace of the Tigers' pitching staff, today broke the spell the New York Yankees have held over the western clubs of the American League, and with aid from the hitting department, sent Detroit back into third place with a 5 to 4 victory over the Yanks.

It was the first game the Yanks have lost in 12 starts against the western teams, and the triumph put the Tigers a half game ahead of the defeated Philadelphia Athletics, who were third, and a few points above the Cleveland Indians, who are virtually tied with Detroit.

Sorrell received official credit for the victory but he failed to complete the game. Elon Hogsett was called in to relieve him and finally retired the side.

The Tigers did all their scoring and made all their 11 hits off Danny MacFayden, the bespectacled flinger from Boston who was making his debut as a Yankee. He worked six innings before giving way to a pinch hitter and Ed Wells, who finished the game.

CHICAGO, June 9. (AP)—Washington took advantage of some loose defensive play in the early innings today to win the third game of the series, 6-5, and gain a full game on the New York Yankees who lost to Detroit.

Errors by Red Kress and Bill Sullivan helped Washington set up a lead that White Sox rallies just failed to match. Sullivan partly atoned by making two doubles and two singles.

REDS 2; GIANTS 3

NEW YORK, June 9. (AP) — Due principally to the home run hitting feats of Melvin Ott, the New York Giants today won their fifth game in seven starts since Bill Terry became manager, turning back the Cincinnati Reds, 3 to 2.

For the second time in three games against the Reds, Ott provided the winning runs by hitting two homers in a game and the pair of four baggers brought his total for the season up to 11.

Three homers were about the only important blows of a tight mound duel between Mooney and Owen Carroll. Mooney, hurling his first complete game of the season, gave only four hits while Carroll allowed one more. Mooney, however, handed out six walks.

The defeat was Cincinnati's eighth in succession.

Gene Sarazen Commands British Open At Halfway Mark With Score Of 139

SANDWICH, England, June 9. (AP) The old story of American domination in the British open golf title chase went into its second stirring chapter today as chunky Gene Sarazen equalled the Prince's course record with a 69 for an aggregate of 70-69—139 and a commanding lead at halfway.

Sarazen's brilliant exhibition today, equalling the mark set by the young Britons, Don Curtis and Eric McCruvie in the qualifying round, gave him a three-stroke margin over Percy Alliss, closest of the British contenders.

Only ten professionals had much chance left for the crown Tommy Armour won last year. The "Black Scot" himself was among them, along with MacDonald Smith, another threat. Technically there were 60 players left in the field for the final 36 holes tomorrow, including those who aggregated 154 or less for the first two rounds.

Longworth Wins Texas Pro Title

FORT WORTH, June 9. (AP) — Ted Longworth of Texarkana won the annual Texas Professional Golfers' association tournament over the Ridglea Country club links today, posting a 292 score for the 72-hole medal play. Trailing by one stroke at the end of the first 36 holes Wednesday with 148, Longworth moved into the lead this morning with a par 71 and bagged a 73 in the afternoon for the victory.

Longworth's winning score was four strokes ahead of Jack Grout, young Fort Worth pro with challenger. Grout had 296 to finish second. Tom Sockwell, Dallas came in third at 298.

Joe Curran of Flint, Mich., veteran soccer player, has returned to England.

Golf STARS play it

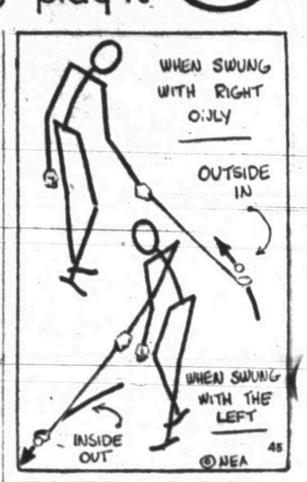

by ART KRENZ

Many golfers have asked: "Why can't the right hand control the swing as well as the left?

Now every golf bug — especially the man who has tried to improve his game by reading or taking golf instructions from a professional—at some time or other has had it impressed upon his mind that the good golf stroke is one that comes into the ball from the inside.

In swinging the club with the right hand alone, you can see for yourself that the club will travel in a path from right to left, from the outside in. But, swung with the left, it will travel in the proper path, from the inside out.

Of course, the shot is not entirely a left-handed affair. The right hand does its share when it whips the clubhead through as the hitting region is reached.

Mexico Towns Will Be Aided

Plans Of W. R. Ely Are Told To Afford Highway Facilities For Eastern New Mexico And Texas

CLOVIS, N. M., June 9 (Special)—Eastern New Mexico towns and other portions of the Sunshine state will be greatly benefitted by tourist travel and Clovis will become the entrance into the state from northeast and southeast, if the plans of W. R. Ely, Abilene, Texas, chairman of the Texas Highway commission, are carried out.

The commission, it is reliably reported here, has offered to the commissioner's courts of Parmer, Bailey, Lamb and Deaf Smith counties, in Texas to build highways provided the counties secure right of way for a 100 foot road.

Two roads would be built, one to Lubbock, known as No. 7 and affording an outlet for New Mexico people to Lubbock, Sweetwater, Abilene, San Angelo, Fort Worth and Dallas and the other to Hereford and thence to Amarillo. The two roads join at Farwell, ten miles east of Clovis, on the Texas state line.

All traffic entering New Mexico here would be routed either south on state 18 to Portales, Roswell and Carlsbad or west.

Lubbock county is completing paving of 17 miles northwest of Lubbock. Bailey and Lamb counties will soon have a 15 mile cutoff between Sudan and Muleshoe, in Bailey county, under construction. Hockley county between Lamb and Lubbock, will have a short stretch of highway paved if the former county paves and the court of Hockley county provided its right of way.

Northwest from Farwell, through Friona and Hereford, No. 60 will be paved towards Canyon. Randall county is planning a paving program west to the Deaf Smith county line.

New Locations In Field Being Made

CONROE, June 9. (AP)—The second producer for the Conroe field was assured late yesterday. The Heep Oil corporation's No. 1 Freeman came in flowing by heads and immediately was placed on a three-eighths inch choke.

Estimates as to probable daily production ranged from 2,000 barrels upward.

The oil was said to be similar to that of the Strake number 2 South Texas Development company, the discovery well, of 38.9 gravity.

Meanwhile, the Humble Oil and Refining company was engaged in a deal to take over properties of the Eagle Oil company in the field, but President W. S. Farish of Humble denied in Houston today that the deal had been closed.

The Heep-Freeman well was drilled to 5,120 feet. Pay was topped at 5,100 feet. One joint of screen was set. The new producer is roundly one and one-half miles northeast of the Strake discovery well.

Four new locations had been made today in the field.

Dallas Officer's Removal Is Asked

DALLAS, June 9. (AP) — The immediate removal of County Auditor Charles A. Gross was recommended today by the special grand jury which has been investigating reported irregularities in Dallas county financial operations.

The jury reported it had found the county auditor's office so "unconscionable in its inefficiency and so utterly lacking in its capacity for the discharge of its legal functions that no moments should be lost in placing the work in capable hands."

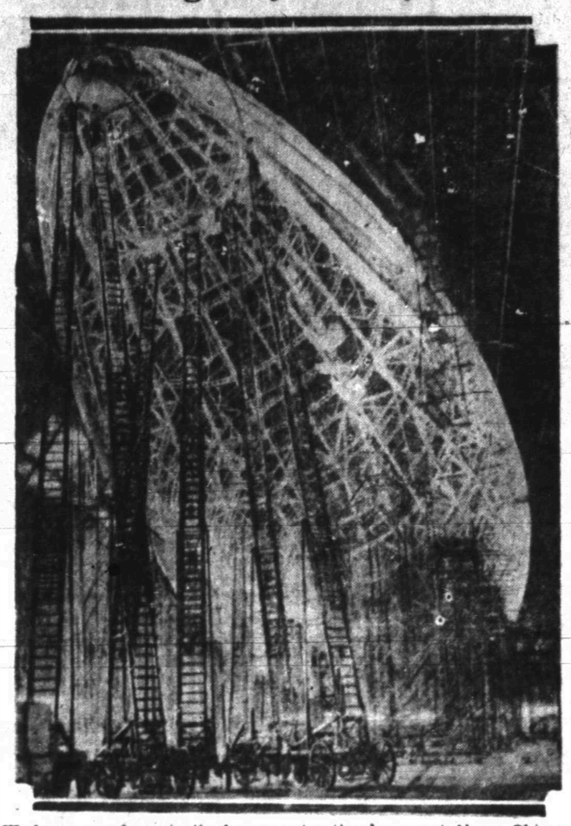

The sweeping inquiry resulted from an audit of county books by a private auditing firm. The auditors report indicated that the county had been paying outrageous prices for groceries used at the county detention home.

There also was evidence to indicate fraud in other expenditures, such as purchases of asphalt for county roads and food for road camps. All of this was being studied by the grand jury.

Great News Is Found In Old Paper

O. W. Harrah, White Deer Man, Has Copy Of Panhandle's First Newspaper Published In 1884; Has Big News

(By The Associated Press)

PAMPA, June 9. A copy of the Panhandle's first newspaper, The Texas Panhandle, of July 4, 1884, published at old Mobeetie was recently exhibited here by O. W. Harrah of White Deer.

In the advertising columns was a political advertisement of the late Temple Houston, who then was a candidate for the state senate. The paper also carried the announcement of the late Emanuel Dubbs for Wheeler county judge. Dubbs, who was buried recently at Clarendon, was subsequently elected and became the Panhandle's first county judge.

A news item read: "Henry Hamburg's ox train arrived from Dodge City last Friday in charge of Geo. Adkins, with 34,500 pounds of merchandise. Chas. Rath's mule team also came in Friday from Dodge City, in charge of Leo Harlan, and unloaded 33,000 pounds."

Another item said, "Horse stealing is all the rage throughout Kansas and it begins to look as if there was an organized band in the business." The paper contains advertisements of saloons "with stables in connection."

A news story told of a new ice-making machine for which scientists and inventors were predicting a bright future. It concludes: "With this apparatus the heated plains and the burning sands of the torrid zones may be made not only habitable but comfortable for the average man of the temperate regions of the earth."

The late W. E. "Bill" Edwards was editor.

ADVERTISING CREATES EMPLOYMENT

"We'll Re-Open the Factory in the Morning!"

"OUR advertising is beginning to click, Jones—orders are coming in, by the dozen, by the score. Call back one hundred men. . . We'll start the wheels rolling again in the morning!"

When business starts on the up-trend—as it certainly will—the artillery of advertising will move to the front and swing into action, clearing the way for industrial victory. Already, many of the big guns are heard booming in the distance. Owners of closed-down factories, tired of twiddling their thumbs, are meeting the challenge of depression with courage and action. They are launching vigorous campaigns of advertising. Consumers will respond, merchants will send in more orders, the wheels of industry will begin to hum again.

The result . . . thousands of men going back to work, drawing their weekly pay checks, meeting old obligations, buying the things they have needed.

What advertising has done in the past to level out sales peaks and valleys, thus *eliminating seasonal unemployment, it will do on a vastly larger scale to turn the tide of depression.

Inducing people with money, to buy, is the best way possible to get other people employed. Stocks become depleted; retailers send in orders for more; manufacturers take on help to fill these orders. These laborers then have money and, themselves, become buyers.

Watch the vigorous new trend in advertising. It is one of the hopeful signs of returning prosperity.

*The packers of Dromedary dates have extended the holiday demand for their product over the whole year by advertising. Sherwin-Williams Company has stimulated fall and winter painting. Coca-Cola has been made a year-'round drink through constant advertising.

There Must Be A Deterrent

OUT of the economic debacle which has plagued the world for more than two years have arisen many social problems, which may well be described as "depression by-products" and not the least among them is the appalling increase in the suicide rate. What to do to bring about a decrease in self-destruction is a question which may well be attacked by our best brains everywhere.

As an Oklahoma City man wrote a Lubbock friend recently, "things are so tough here that they're putting bullets in their brains and pumping out of windows", suicide is increasing by leaps and bounds as sickened humans, facing ruin, decide in a moment of frenzy to "end it all". The epidemic of self-destruction is attacking every strata of society, in every city and hamlet, and if there is anything to be done about it, it should be done.

England has tackled the problem by the passage and infliction of severe penalties, among which are:

Estate of any suicide, whatever it may be in the way of property, lands and personal effects, reverts to the state.

Public or semi-public funerals, by the church or officials of the church, are denied.

All suicides must be buried at night.

Whether it is because the bulldog tenacity of the Briton rarely gives way to self-destruction, or because of the stringent laws covering the action, England's suicide rate is greatly less than our own; is likewise less than that of all civilized nations with the possible exception of Japan where, in some cases and under many conditions, suicide is considered as "the correct and honorable act."

It is not the idea of The Morning Avalanche here to argue suicide as an honorable or dishonorable act. In some cases and under some conditions, death—even by one's own hand—may oftimes appear preferable to remaining on this earth as a target for Hamlet's "slings and arrows of outrageous fortune". It is our opinion, never-the-less, that the great majority of suicides can and should be prevented if man will only summon the method to satisfactorily prevent them.

Human life, after all, is the world's most valuable possession.

Every human, no matter who he is or what difficulties he finds himself under, possesses that precious spark of life which some day may lift him to a position where he may make the world a better place in which to live.

One thing is certain: in practically every conceivable situation, "while there's life, there's hope." Certainly a civilization which has gone as far as ours can hit upon some way to further that ideal and to put at least a partial stop to the wave of self-destruction which seems to have fastened itself upon us.

EARLY TO RISE

Senators do not relish the thought of being left to hold the fort in Washington while members of the House attend their respective national conventions. So the Senate has adopted a schedule that is undoubtedly rigorous to many of its members. Their presence is demanded on the floor by 10 a. m., which does not permit leisurely breakfasts, since most of the office work and a good deal of committee deliberation must be wound up before that hour. Prolonging the sessions until 7:30 p. m. has likewise limited evening work or entertainment.

A number of senators are habitually hard workers, putting in long hours for $10,000-a-year men. But others are having to apply the "early-to-rise" principle with the aid of alarm clocks. And golf courses frequented by senators are being neglected. With responsibility for adjourning Congress in decent time resting exclusively upon their shoulders they can no longer afford to be deliberative—at least about getting down to work.

A London critic believes people are too poor now to read novels, although you find others who hold to the theory of vice versa.

Practical Health Problems

GOOD NEWS FOR HAY FEVER SUFFERERS

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, And of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

IN 1924 a Dutch physician developed a room for the treatment of asthmatic patients. This room was absolutely dust-free and the air in the room was pumped in through a filter. He found that many of his asthmatic patients who slept in such a room were partially relieved and could go about their work during the day with comfort.

Since that time various devices have been developed for use in the home. The devices consist essentially of a filter of woven wool and cotton cloth through which air is forced by a fan. In another device a cellulose product, resembling filter.

Recently investigators in the University of Illinois School of Medicine have made experiments with such devices, counting the pollens present in the room near the machine and at a distance from the machnie as contrasted with those found in rooms in which the machines are not in use.

It was found that the pollen in the room is small in amount and remains constant as contrasted with the rise and fall outside the room. The efficiency of the machine seems to be between 95 and 98 per cent.

One hundred and five patients with hay fever or asthma and with positive reactions to ragweed were chosen for a test of the device. In 83.2 per cent of the uncomplicated hay fever cases, relief of the symptoms was obtained on entrance into the room, either completely or partially, in three and a half hours or less.

In 7 1-2 per cent no relief was obtained, and in 13.9 per cent night attacks of hay fever occurred. Ten patients who had combined symptoms of hay fever and asthma obtained relief from hay fever symptoms in a little over an hour.

Most of the asthmatic attacks developed during the night and many of these were sufficiently severe to require administration of drugs for belief.

Humidity seemed to be an important factor in all of the asthma cases that were observed. The symptoms were much more severe during and following rainy days. On rainy days hay fever patients improve through settling of pollens by the rain.

It is obvious that air filtration relieves most of the symptoms of hay fever and may be tried in all cases not benefited by the usual methods of treatment. Asthmatic patients are more comfortable when receiving filtered air, but they respond slowly to treatment.

When patients with asthma are relieved by receiving the filtered air, they are found to develop attacks within half an hour to an hour after leaving the room.

Apparently the pollens taken in have a prolonged action. No doubt, associated with the influence of a pollen are the effects of low-grade infection of the respiratory tract.

Today's One-Minute Sermon

The wicked borroweth, and payeth not again: but the righteous sheweth mercy, and giveth. — Psalm xxxvi, 21.

May Still Be In The Red

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Considering how hard congress has worked for the last six months at its job of budget-balancing, it comes as a shock to discover that Uncle Sam may find himself "in the red" again at the end of the 1932-'33 fiscal year, maybe by as much as a billion.

Ogden L. Mills

Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, who furnished the estimates with which the lawmakers have been struggling so desperately, seems, it is true, to have been approximately correct in his arithmetic at the time he did his original ciphering. That, however, was away back last December. As of the present writing, certain of Capitol Hill's financial experts argue, conditions are altogether different from what they were when he worked out his problem.

PRESUMABLY most folk are aware that today's treasury deficit is due to a shrinkage in tax collections which were ample during the boom period of high prices, princely incomes and a perfect ferment of revenue-yielding activity.

That is to say, there have been no reductions in rates since the Coolidge administration, but the same old taxes have not brought in as much as they did before the depression hit the country.

To meet this situation Secretary Mills, while still Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon's undersecretary, suggested a schedule of new imposts, which he assured congress would raise enough additional money to cover the government's requirements, provided economies were affected to a total of about 300 millions.

IN ACCORDANCE with this program, congress waded into its job of budget-balancing.

If it can hardly be said that it was progressing harmoniously with this task, at least it was progressing with a fair degree of hopefulness up to the date of President Hoover's recent conference, on the subject of the economic status of the Union, with a score or so of newspaper publishers from the eastern half of the United States.

It was at that gathering that something or other was said which precipitated an investigation to determine whether or not Secretary Mills' calculations are as sound now as it previously had been supposed they were.

Just what occurred to arouse such a feeling of skepticism is not at all clear—some chance remark, probably, that set one of the publishers a-wondering out loud, and presently all Washington was a-wondering similarly. This simply goes to show how important it is for White House visitors never to repeat anything they may happen to hear there.

ANYWAY, the puzzle is:

When Secretary Mills estimated, late in 1931 or early in 1932, that such-and-such taxes would yield such-and-such a sum, did he take into account the possibility that they might yield no such sum by mid-1932?—in the event of a still further decline in prices and the volume of business.

And if he did not take this contingency into account, can it now be so confidently predicted that the schedule he proposed will balance the budget?

SECRETARY MILLS showed signs of impatience when the foregoing questions were put to him.

He said:

"Admitting that the situation has changed since these estimates were submitted, we (the treasury) cannot undertake to revise them every month or two."

Nevertheless Secretary Mills has had to begin to revise them. In an estimate accompanying President Hoover's address to congress, the treasury head placed the shortage at $285,000,000 above his original computation. Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, who is a critic of the administration, has hinted that the shortage may run to $700,000,000—if business shrinkage continues.

Besides, the stipulated $300,000,000 in economics remains to be effected.

Seven hundred millions plus 300 of them equal a billion.

Naturally congress would be greatly disappointed, after trying so hard to balance the budget, to learn that it had missed it by a billion.

WHY ARE FASHIONS?

Man manages to get along with more or less standardized dress; why not women? Madame Paquin, the Paris authority, furtishes the answer from 33 years' experience with the foibles of fashion. "There can never be a set, uniform style for women as long as women wish to be beautiful and men wish to have them so." The great tragedy of a woman's life, she says "often is that she is not good-looking; the fear of not looking well has brought them to me in tears".

Of course, we all know that it did not require a generation of fashion making to discover the psychology of styles, but Madame Paquin has put it into epigrammatic brevity and pontificates with the air of authority. Women, especially, will stress the division of equal responsibility, that while women wish to be beautiful men wish to have them so. The fashions cannot be blamed on either alone.

Remember the good old days when the neighborhood grocer would give you a good five cent cigar when you paid your bill on Saturday night?

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SUSAN CAREY, 20 and beautiful, has become engaged to ERNEST HEATH, 45, her former employer. She has done so partly to provide for the future of her aunt who is ill and partly because she despairs of ever winning the man she really loves, BOB DUNBAR. DENISE ACKROYD, a debutante dislikes Susan and causes trouble between her and Bob. Ben LAMPMAN, a former admirer of Susan's, shoots at Heath and then turns the gun on himself. He recovers and the affair is hushed up. Susan realizes she doesn't love Heath enough to marry him but can not tell him so. She sees Bob at the theater and this awakes old memories. Denise tells Bob that Susan is a "gold-digger" and he becomes very angry. JACK WARING, Heath's assistant, advises Susan not to marry without love. She goes to a fancy dress party with Waring and there encounters Bob.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLI

The man's eyes, staring at Susan from beneath the powdered wig, were stern, almost accusing. She shrank from what she saw in them.

"Yes, it's I." said Bob quietly. "Why are you so surprised? You came here to torment me, didn't you?"

It was her turn to be angry. Why was he so stupid, spoiling everything the first chance they had to be together?

"I think you must be a little mad," she said coldly. "I hadn't the remotest notion I should see you here. Will you let me go now?" for he was still holding fast to her arm.

"No, I won't. I've been wanting to talk to you and by the lord Harry I'm going to do it."

Susan assumed a look of proud resignation but inwardly she exulted in his masterfulness.

"Very well, but can't we sit down some place?"

The boy nodded grimly. A splendid figure in the costume of an 18th century beau, he led her up a narrow, winding staircase to a little gallery overlooking the gay scene beneath. Never once did that iron grasp of his relinquish the girl's slender arm. She shook herself free petulantly and disposed her ruffles on the low seat.

"I don't know what this is all about," she said icily, "but perhaps you will be good enough to tell me."

"You don't eh? You haven't the remotest suspicion, I suppose." He towered over her, his brows black with anger. Susan could have laughed for sheer joy at the sight but she maintained her pose of aloofness.

"Whoever would have thought," Bob demanded, "that you were that sort of girl?"

"What sort of girl?" She gave him a look all innocent candor.

"You know what I mean."

"You'll have to speak more plainly than that, I'm afraid," Susan informed him. "I don't understand riddles."

He folded his arms and regarded her wrathfully. "When I saw you that night at the theater—when I heard what it was all about—I couldn't believe it."

"What was it you heard?"

He made a vague gesture, stumbling for a graceful way to say it. "You and that old man," he choked. "It's horrible!"

"He's not old," said Susan. "Lots of successful marriages are made with just such difference in ages."

"Marriages!" He was frankly taken aback.

"Of course." Susan drew herself up with hauteur. Her eyes flashed.

"I beg your pardon," the boy muttered. "No, I don't either. That's just as bad as what I thought at first. Even worse, in fact. What right have you—"

Susan rose. "I think you've said quite enough. I can't imagine what made you think you could tell me how to run my life. You've shown little enough interest in it up to now."

"Shown little interest! Oh, that's good! That's very good!" He laughed bitterly. "When I've been combing the town for you for the past month, looking for you in every crowd I passed."

Her hands flew to the laces at her breast. "Did you—did you do that too?" she asked with awe.

Dumbly they stood for a moment regarding each other, these two young things. The fury of their quarrel dissolved like snow flakes in the sunshine. For an instant they were wordless, then suddenly they were in each other's arms. Pale apricot brocade and biscuit-colored satin crumpled recklessly against each other. For a long moment they stood thus. Then the girl broke away.

"What are we thinking of?" she cried. "I must be losing m ymind."

"You can't go back now," Bob said. "You know it's all up. You can't go on with this monstrous notion."

She was trembling but her eyes were starry. "Whatever happens," she murmured, "we've had this minute of knowing we care for each other. That's a lot." She found herself seized again, her lips silenced in the way lovers know best.

"Stop that idiotic talk," the young man growled. "You know there's no use pretending."

They had not noticed that the music had stopped and couples had begun to drift toward the supper room, so absorbed were they in each other. Susan's back was toward the opening of the little alcove so she was not aware of intruders until she caught the annoyed expression of Bob's face.

"Well, well. Isn't this just too sweet!" she heard a mocking voice say. "But play time is over now. Drop your little girl friend and come along to supper." She whirled to meet the sardonic gaze and tormenting smile of Denise Ackroyd. Bob strode forward.

"You run along, Denise," he said fiercely. "Susan and I have important matters to settle."

Denise's laugh tinkled. "Really? What fun! I'll stick around and hear the secrets too. Denise loves secrets." Pouting, she slipped her hand into the curve of the young man's arm.

"Mustn't have secrets from Denise," she said prettily.

Bob shook her off as a mastiff shakes a terrier. "You toddle," he said coaxingly, "and I'll see you later."

Her smile vanished and with it the pretty, pouting manner. She

Street Car Fares By-The-Inch

Overgrown children won't enjoy riding on Detroit street cars any more. Height limit has replaced the age limit on Detroit's trolley cars and all children more than 44 inches tall must pay. Under 44 inches they ride free if accompanied by a grownup. A marker, indicated by arrow, has been placed on each car to avoid argument. It seems as though this fellow must pay.

planted her small feet squarely.

"I'm not going to budge," she informed him. Her contemptuous glance surveyed Susan. "Count me in on this conference. After all, I am your fiancee." At the word Susan gasped.

Boy said. Don't believe her. She's talking rot. There was never anything settled."

"Listen to him," Denise fluttered her hand, "as if we hadn't agreed an hour ago to an elopement! Wasn't that nice?"

Susan had gone very white. She stared at the young man, ignoring her tormentor. "Is that true?" she whispered.

"Of course it's true," Denise intervened. "Everyone knows about it. Bobby just gets brain storms now and then but he always comes romping home again, don't you darling?"

After one withering look Dunbar ignored her, turning his attention to Susan. "Don't believe her," he said huskily. "She's trying to sandbag me into this, God knows why."

With difficulty, Susan spoke. "You are engaged to her though, aren't you?"

He said uncomfortably, "In a sort of indefinite way—yes. It's nothing binding, nothing that can't be broken off by either of us at wi. She's always known that and acted accordingly."

"It's all too confused," Susan muttered. "I've got to think it out. Let me go, please."

"You can't go like this." He made a move toward her but Denise was too quick for him. She had his arm and was clinging to it. Susan slipped through the curtains and was down the stairs.

"Curse you! She's gone!"

"Of course she has." Denise patted her ruffles with complacence. "Aren't you being rather undignified?"

Bob did not answer. He was flying with long steps in the direction of those apricot colored panniers.

From the shadow of a curtain Susan saw him pass. She felt sick and faint. He came so near she could have reached out and touched him with her hand. Her only thought now was to escape without being seen. The other girl's cruel words kept ringing in her ears.

"He has brain storms but he always comes back home . . ."

Oh, she was bitterly ashamed. She found it difficult to believe that it was all true but after all hadn't he admitted a sort of engagement? The realization of her own folly broke over her. She had betrayed her pledge to the man whose ring she wore. In spite of this conviction of wrong Susan's heart was flooded with traitorous joy when she remembered that long kiss. She put her hands to her burning cheeks. It had not all been a dream. He had really clasped her, held her close, and there had seemed to be a surge of real emotion in his voice when he had spoken to her. How could all this be false! In her heart of hearts she knew it was not, could not be.

Somehow she managed to glide unobserved into the dressing room where she again assumed the protection of her mask. Wrapped in the concealing folds of the fur coat she waited for Waring. After what seemed ages she caught a glimpse of his feathered headdress through the crowd. His eyes were raking the scene, evidently in search of her. She bribed the maid to take a message to him. Susan wrote that she felt faint and wished to go home.

Waring was all solicitude as he put her into the car.

"I wondered what had happened to you. I hoped, perhaps, you had found some of your old pals." His eyes twinkled shrewdly.

Susan colored. "What made you think that?"

"Oh, I don't know." His gesture was airy. "You never know what may happen."

Why had he said that? How much, Susan wondered, did Jack Waring know?

Cotton Cotton Prices Very Erratic — Livestock Slight Weakness Seen For Cattle — Grain Wheat Reaches New Low Ground

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 9. (AP)—Cotton was active today with prices erratic and fluctuating widely. The general trend was downward and all active months made new low records for the movement and season reaching the lowest levels since 1897. Weakness in stocks and wheat and general liquidation were the causes of the decline, the close showing net losses for the day of 8 to 9 points. Middling spots also made a new season's low at 4.95.

The market turned weak in the afternoon in sympathy with fresh declines in stocks and wheat and made new lows for the day and season at 4.93 for July 5.13 for Oct. and 5.29 for Dec. or 18 to 20 points down from the highs of the morning. There was a slight recovery of 2 to 4 points at the end on covering and July and October closed at net declines for the day of 9 points and December at a net decline of 8 points.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 9. (AP)—New low records for all time were reached by cotton in the market here today under further liquidation and scattered selling promoted by favorable crop advices and weakness in the stock market.

After selling off to 4.95 at the start, July rallied to 5.10 on covering and trade buying but broke again, touching 4.92 in the late trading and closing at 4.93. The general market closed steady at net declines of 9 to 10 points.

Wide Price Movements Seen In Stock Changes; Recovery Right Behind Dip

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, June 9. (AP) — Stocks were subject to wide price movements today, but closed with changes that, on the whole, were small.

A dip at the opening was followed by a smart recovery, influenced by appearance of support for two or three pivotal issues, a short squeeze in Auburn auto and the much stronger tone of Brooklyn-Manhattan transit issues. However, after net gains in a number of leaders had been extended to 1-4 points fresh selling breezed over the list and the improvement was frittered away, a few prominent issues sagging to new lows. Another recovery just before the close, which looked like short covering, so evenly distributed gains and losses that the final price average was unchanged.

Volume increased to 1,188,040 shares.

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, June 9. (AP)—The first new wheat to make into the Fort Worth cash grain market in a sizeable volume was received Thursday. Eighteen cars of 1932 wheat arrived, and there was a good demand for all of it. There was a total of 31 cars of wheat received.

Quotations ranged as follows, basis carloads, freight paid, delivered Texas Gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points:

Wheat, No. 1 ordinary hard milling 51 1-2@52 1-2; No. 1 hard 13 per cent protein 53@53; 14 per cent 53@54; 15 per cent 54@55; 16 per cent 55@57.

Barley, No. 2 nominally 30@31.

Sorghums, No. 2 yellow milo and No. 2 white kaffir 69@70 per 100 lbs.

Delivered Texas common points, or group 1 rate:

Corn, No. 2 mixed 39 1-2@40; No. 2 white 39 1-2@40; No. 2 yellow 47@48.

Delivered Texas common points: Oats, No. 2 red 22 1-2@23 1-2.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 9. (AP)—Prostrate under offers far exceeding demand, wheat reached new record low prices this afternoon in a down sweep that has lasted eight consecutive days.

Selling of wheat was participated in by traders usually identified with allies of the federal farm board. Absence of overseas demand for wheat from the United States was emphasized by Canadian export sales of 1,000,000 bushels. Dispatches from Toronto quoted bank authority for assertions that low prices were largely due to the big government-financed carryover of wheat in the United States.

Unexpectedly bullish figures in the government crop report from Washington regarding wheat came too late to be a market influence today.

Wheat closed nervous, 1-4 to 3-4 under yesterday's finish, corn at 1-4 decline to 1-8 advance, oats 1-2 to 3-4 down, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents up.

should be brought about.

William G. McAdoo's suggestion for a national advisory referendum to determine the sentiment of the people was termed illegal by former Governor Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, who today received the endorsement of his state's delegation for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Plan Endorsed

Byrd's own plan for a new constitutional amendment to permit a direct popular vote on prohibition was endorsed by Gov. John G. Pollard in a keynote address to the Virginia Democratic state convention.

Later by an overwhelming majority, the convention adopted a platform favoring submission of the question to the states, "by a method which the national convention may deem best". It also commended former Governor Byrd's plan to the attention of the national body.

In the dry stronghold of Indiana, Republicans in state convention approved proposals for resubmission of prohibition and repeal of the state enforcement act.

Assertion Denied

An assertion that former President Coolidge would "condemn prohibition" in the Cosmopolitan magazine, made in the house by Rep. Celler (D., N. Y.), was denied by magazine officials.

John R. Mott, president of the worlds' alliance of the Y. M. C. A., told the Associated Press in London he would welcome "a nationwide, thoroughgoing reconsideration of prohibition as a policy" on condition that the popular votes were in no way related to politics and that they be taken upon retention of present prohibition or a definite alternative plan.

Postmaster General Brown, President Hoover's preconvention manager, said no one would know the definite language of the plank until the resolutions committee reported.

Five muskrats were introduced into Europe from North America in 1905. Today there are more than 100,000,000 on the Continent.

Texas Tech Graduate Sleeping After Hypnotic Test; Will Awaken Tonight

"You are perfectly at ease in every way. You will be safe. You will awake at exactly 9 o'clock tomorrow night. You are drosyw.'

Dr. de Zita, hypnotist speaking; Miss Helen Jackson, Texas Technological college graduate, his subject. In exactly two minutes after Dr. de Zita passed his left hand before her face, the school teacher's eyelids were drooping. In another minute she was sleeping lightly on on the ambulance cot on the Palace theater stage last night.

The hypnotist and psychoanalyst then awakened Miss Jackson and conversed briefly with her. Previously he had announced she would assume the role of a woman of noble birth; when she was awakened she conversed without hesitation with Dr. de Zita.

A Rix ambulance carried Miss Jackson, who taught English in Morton high school last year, to the Plains Furniture company window where she will remain for 24 hours. She will have breakfast furnished by the Glorieta at 10 o'clock this morning; she will undergo a facial treatment by Lubbock Beauty Shop operators at 11 o'clock; and at 4 o'clock she will have tea iwth de Zita.

Before she went to sleep, Miss Jackson was assured by de Zita if he died, if he were to be killed or kidnapped that she would be all right and would awaken at the appointed hour.

De Zita will climax his appearance here in a blindfold drive Friday in a Pontiac automobile. His route will be west from the Palace to Avenue Q, thence south to Broadway. Stops along his route east on Broadway and through the city will include the Glorieta, the Lubbock Beauty shop, Levine's the Avalanche-Journal, Drexel Tire service, Scoggin-Dickey Motor company, Rix funeral home, the new federal building, the courthouse and city police station and thence bac kto the Palace.

Delegates Asked To Wear Cotton

AUSTIN, June 9. (AP)—Delegates from the southern states to the Democratic national convention in Chicago June 27 have been requested to wear cotton clothes while on their political errand.

J. E. McDonald, Texas commissioner of agriculture and president of the Texas division of the national association for increased use of cotton, has written each delegate from this state suggesting they wear cotton. He said the association presidents in each of the southern state would make similar requests of those delegations.

USING HIS HEAD

MEMPHIS, Tenn., — A negro bandit entered the gas station of B. A. Perry and held him up. Just as the thief was about to take Perry's money, the attendant noticed a customer drive into the station. "There's the law," he said to the thief. "Better put that gun in your pocket now." The highwayman did just that, and beat a hasty retreat.

WHAT A JOB!

Members of the Allen Brothers post of the American Legion did not discuss the bonus question Thursday night at the regular program, it was said. A musical program, directed by Misses Beulah and Myrtle Dunn and planned by J. A. Raley, jr., was presented and supper was served.

Misses Thelma Moss and Marjorie Meloy Eaton gave duet numbers accompanied by Miss Myrtle Dunn, and Lyle Donaldson played two violin selections, accompanied by Miss Beulah Dunn.

Appeal Planned

Attorneys for the plantiffs said that an appeal will be taken from Judge Russell's decision.

Gibb Gilchrist, state highway engineer, said after the ruling that all field work for the cut-off has been completed and that plans which were being worked on in the state engineer's district office at Fort Worth will be resumed. During the trial he said that it was planned to begin construction probably about August and that the road should be completed about January 1, 1934. Contracts may be advertised for soon.

It is likely that the road will be of gravel foundation with an asphalt topping, Ely testified he did not think the road would be built of cement. He contends it will be a shortening of about 14 miles in the highway from Weatherford to Ranger, Eastland, Cisco and other cities in that section.

The marine medical depot reported numbers suffering with the cootie pest—made famous in doughboy days.

Hopes Are Opposite

The police hoped for rain to discourage the veterans and set them on their way home. The medical officers hoped for dry weather as salvation from disease.

To help them in their plight moves were made in congress to give the veterans food and shelter. A resolution introduced by Senator Brookhart (R., Iowa), would authorize the war department to furnish them army rations.

A resolution introduced by Rep. Keller (D., Ill.,), would authorize their being furnished with army equipment.

Unworried by the threats of disease or lack of proper food, the veterans had constructed effigies and hung signs on them reading "the only man who will leave the city."

tension line against the car in which she rode. She leaped from the car and as she fell to the wet ground the end of the wire whipped against her body, killing her instantly.

Weather Unseasonable

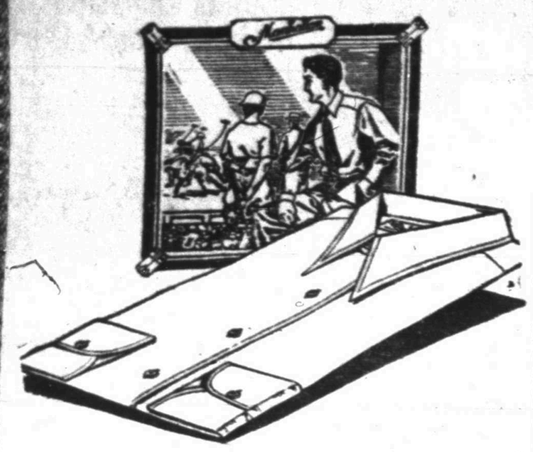

The storm terminated several days of unseasonably hot weather in many parts of the state. However, at Eagle Pass it had exactly the opposite effect. Weather there had been cool, until hot winds which swept in from the north sent the mercury many degrees higher.

Numerous reports of crop and property damage were received, especially in northeast Texas, where the storm seemed to have been most active.

Grain and other crops were beaten to the ground at many places by the force of the wind. A number of buildings were unroofed, trees were broken and telephone and power lines put out of service.

In the Chalk Hill oil field near Archer City all but three derricks were toppled over.

Killer Sought Among Thieves

Kidnaper And Slayer Of Joseph Hillop Being Sought Among Suspected Jewel Thieves By Police Officers

HAMMONTON, N. J., June 9. (AP) Police today sought among suspected jewel thieves the men who kidnaped Joseph Hillop, battered his face, garroted him with a sash cord, finally ending his suffering with pistol bullets and dumping his body into a ditch.

The 25-year-old gangster, who started his criminal career at the age of 10, was one of five men convicted of holding up a Camden Jewelry store in 1927. He and Frank Bielec assisted the authorities with information and drew lighter sentences than the others, who still are in prison.

Bielec was found slain near Oaklyn, N. J., last March. When three fisherman came across Hillop's body yesterday police expressed the opinion they both had been killed for revenge.

Hillop's bride of two months was questioned extensively but authorities said she threw no light on the slaying. Hillop was her third husband. Her first, police said, was a bandit who was killed and her second a motorcycle policeman who lost his life in an accident.

Millions Are To Be Written Off

CHICAGO, June 9. (AP)—The Tribune said today reports were current in LaSalle street that between 85 and 90 million dollars of assets in the three major utilities in Chicago and suburbs developed by Samuel Insull are to be "written off."

The paper said the sum represents about 9 per cent of the assets and its comparative smallness is looked upon by financiers as highly favorable and indicative of "the thorough soundness of the properties."

The three utilities are the Commonwealth Edison, Peoples Gas Light and Coke company and the Public Service company of Northern Illinois from control of which Samuel Insull adbicated this week in resigning in favor of James Simpson, prominent merchant.

The Tribune said $90,000,000 was reported to be the total which certified accountants who have been auditing for weeks have found in $947,300,000 of assets to "question, doubt" or "depreciate."

The sum was not looked upon as a total loss, it was reported, and the figures of the auditors were in the hands of eastern bankers for inspection.

New Government Starts Thursday

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 9. (AP) — Chile's new government began to put its socialist policies into operation today.

Provincial authorities were directed to suspend taxes on properties whose owners haven't enough money to pay them.

School teachers were informed by the minister of education that an important part of their duty henceforth will be to "direct education toward socialism in order to form a public conscience which will support the new socialist republic."
