Family loses everything in New Year's Eve blaze

A landmark home, on Hwy. 37, burned to the ground December 31, destroying all the belongings of Nathan Nichols' family.

The home, owned by Bill Daniels, of Floydada, was a two story wood frame home, located four miles south on 62 and three miles west on 37.

"Mr. Nichols was burning some grass on the south side of the house," said Fireman Carroll Sims, "and the fire got up under the house and went up the wall into the upper story. We got the call at 2:00 p.m. and we were there within 15 minutes, but the fire was already very involved and there was nothing we could do."

Three units and 12 firemen responded to the scene.

The Nichols had no insurance. All the families clothing, furniture, beds, linen, towels, dishes, kitchen appliances and utensils were lost in the blaze. The family is in need of any and everything.

The sizes of Nathan, his wife, Lukretia, and his children are as follows:

Nathan: Shirt size 17-17 1/2; pant size, waist 34, length, 32; boot size, 10-1/2 D;

Lukretia: Shirt size 40; dress, 18 or 20; pants, 38 waist; shoes, 6-1/2-7;

Christina: Age 7; shirt size, little girls 7; pants, 6X; dresses, little girls size 7; shoes, 2;

Amy: Age 4; Size 5; shoes 10-1/2;

Shane: Age 3; Size 4 Toddler; shoes 8 1/2.

All donations can be taken to the home of Lanny McMurrian, 327 W. Jeffie, Floydada, phone 983-2342.

A view from The Lamplighter

By Ken Towery

Well, what's it gonna be? The January 15 deadline is fast approaching with almost no sign of progress toward any sort of settlement in the mideast matter, short of an all out war.

If we had to place bets on the matter we would bet on war. Neither our own President or Saddam Hussein has allowed much room for maneuver, and all the factors are in place for conflict. Troops on both sides appear to be ready and willing, if not eager.

We wouldn't feel so reluctant about this whole affair if we had a better fix on why we are there and what our long-range projections are. We've never been opposed to war as an instrument of our national policy when our vital interests were at stake. But in this particular case we have a difficult time coming to grips with that central question. Just what is our national interest in this instance?

Secretary of State Jim Baker says the bottom line is that it's all about "jobs." Any number of Congressmen, including Democratic Congressman Charlie Stenholm, says it's about oil, nothing else. (And he is most supportive of our involvement there.) Then there's the group in Congress, and in the media, who seem to care less about jobs and oil, they just want to get rid of Hussein lock, stock and barrel, lest he pose a threat to Israel in the future.

Then there's the President, who says it's all about a bigger, more powerful nation waging aggression against its tiny neighbor, and that this can't and won't be tolerated.

In a moral sense the President's position is the stronger. . Certainly Mr. Baker's assertion that it's all about jobs makes no sense. And the argument that it's all about oil makes little sense when we consider that the world is almost awash in oil. And the argument that we must lose thousands of American lives to stave off a possible future war between Israel and Iraq makes no sense, to this writer at least. Surely Iraq could be as easily contained in the future as was China and the Soviet Union in the past, when those two nations were loaded with nuclear weapons and guided by expansionist tendencies.

And even Mr. Bush's argument that a larger, more powerful nation cannot be allowed to invade, occupy and incorporate its neighbor would have more legitimacy if we had a record of championing that idea throughout the middle east. But Israel still occupies the Garza strip. They still occupy the Golan Heights. They still occupy the West Bank. They still occupy, for all practical purposes, the southern part of Lebanon, a poor, helpless neighbor if there ever was one. And about all the U.S. has done, over the years, is tut-tut and exercise its veto power whenever the United Nations, our new-found ally, sought to bring up the matter. To Mr. Bush's credit, he has at least seemed more inclined to consider an even-handed approach to matters in the mid-east than any of his predecessors.

All of which means little when the die is cast, as it seems to be in the Iraq situation. It looks as if we will go to war. If not on the 15th, then sometime soon.

After that will come the task of rebuilding. And you know, gentle reader, who's going to pay for that.

We no not envy the President as he wrestles with the problem of what to do. About all we can do is hope for the best, and offer up prayers for our troops.

Schaffner accepts Seymour position

After serving through some turbulent times at Caprock Hospital, Leroy Schaffner, the administrator since 1987, is moving on to a larger hospital in Seymour, Texas.

Effective Friday, January 4, Schaffner will relocate to the 50 bed Seymour Memorial Hospital. He will officially begin as Seymour's administrator on January 7.

"The hospital in Seymour averages 15 patients a day," said Schaffner. They have two physicians and a third one coming in the middle of June."

Schaffner, who was previously employed at the hospital in Springfield Colorado, as the director of lab and x-ray, was hired at Caprock Hospital Oct. 31, 1984, to work as the lab director. He continued at that position until Aug. 13, 1987, when he assumed the duties of Administrator.

While working at the Hospital, Schaffner earned his bachelors at Wayland in 1987. He then went on to obtain a Master's degree in Health Care Administration, from Wayland, in 1989.

When asked if he had any suggestions for Caprock Hospital, after their landslide victory in the tax-rollback election, Schaffner smiled and said, "Well it is obvious they have local support, but I believe there are some things the board needs to do for the future of the hospital, and some of them are already being done.

"I believe it is necessary to recruit a young physician who needs and wants to build a practice. The more doctors we have the more hospital use we will get.

"All the rural areas around here have the same problem with getting people admitted into the hospital. People's insurance deductible is so high they don't want to spend the money for a hospital stay. Also a lot of the people around here are self employed and they can't be away from their farms or businesses.

"I think the hospital should have specialty clinics here. Specialists in their fields such as a cardiologist or a foot doctor could come to the hospital and see people. If it was done in the hospital, then we could get some revenue out of it.

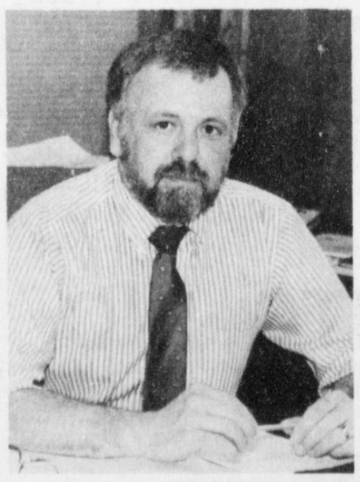

"I also feel that for the economic good of the area, there needs to be more cooperation between the two towns. There will have to be more cooperation between the two hospitals and six doctors. I don't necessarily feel that there should be just one hospital for the county, but we could have one board of directors, one administrator, one director of nurses, one lab director, rotate nurses, and have two campuses.

"It would be difficult because the laws creating both hospital districts would have to be rewritten, but I believe it should be explored."

Schaffner's wife, LuAnn, his three sons, Landon, 16, Logan, 7, and Leif, 3, will be joining Schaffner in Seymour at the end of the semester in January.

"The kids are a little worried about changing schools, but we are all looking forward to going. It is going to be hard, though, because we have made a lot of friends here and we are going to miss Floydada and our friends."

Mr. Steve Grappe, Vice President of Regional Services, at Methodist Hospital, will serve as interim administrator at Caprock, until a replacement in hired. "The board is currently working on finding a replacement," said Grappe.

Ashes cause Lockney dumpster fire

The Lockney Volunteer Fire Department was called to the 400 block of Southwest 6th street to extinguish a blaze in a trash dumpster. Ashes from a fireplace had been emptied into the dumpster and in turn set the trash in the dumpster on fire. Damage to the trash container was extensive and it had to be replced.

Spokesmen from the Triple C Trash Collectors would like to remind the citizens of Lockney that they are not supposed to put hot ashes or coals in the containers. According to a spokesman for the company, "Replacement of the dumpsters is quite expensive."

Customers are also reminded;

1. Not to burn in the containers, it is not a barrel.

2. Do not put hot ashes or coals into containers, be sure they are cold before disposing of them.

3. Do not put tires in the containers, the landfill will not accept tires.

4. Do not put toxic waste, hazardous waste, or industrial waste in the containers.

5. Do not put heavy metal items (such as auto parts) in containers.

6. Do not put seeds, dirt, rocks, or sand into containers.

7. Do not put tree limbs longer than 3 ft. in length and 3 inches in diameter or trees (such as christmas trees) into containers.

8. Do not block the containers or alleys.

9. Do not move containers from original location.

10. No one from outside the city limits will be allowed to dispose of their trash in a city container within the city limits.

11. Do not put building materials (sheet rock, shingles, concrete and etc.) in container.

12. Do not put concrete blocks in containers.

Please be reminded that the contractor is not required to dump the container if any of the above items are placed in the container.

City warns of cold weather problems

When cold weather brings problems to the delivery of water to your house, please call Floydada City Hall, 983-2834, before you attempt to shut off the water supply. No citizens should build a fire in their meter box.

The City of Floydada has a water department employee on call 24 hours a day. During extreme cold spells, additional personnel are called out as needed. When a citizen attempts to turn off or turn on a frozen stop, they sometimes bust the stop, causing the water department to have to dig up the box and correct the problem.

Fires in meter boxes melt parts of the meter causing different problems. When a meter is melted, it must be replaced, again tying up personnel.

To help yourself, check some of the following items:

* Is the meter box lid on?
* Are outside faucets wrapped or covered?
* Are all foundation openings closed?
* Leave a faucet running if going to be gone.
* Open cabinet doors.
* Leave thermostats turned up.

Your help in preventing freeze ups is appreciated by the Floydada Water Department.

By The Way

By Alice Gilroy

The days have gone by so quick. I probably say this every year and just don't remember it, but this year seemed to go by faster than any other year that I can remember.

The new year really hit home for me on Monday, when Jon LaBaume came in to the Hesperian with information about this years stock shows.

Here we go again! First comes stock shows, then comes Valentines Day, then Easter, then graduation, Old Settlers Day, graduation, Floyd County Fair, summer vacation, Punkin Days, Thanksgiving, Christmas and then we are done again.

At least this year we don't have to put out a Centennial issue. This year is going to be a breeze!

On New Years Day at our house, we had the traditional cabbage and black eyed peas. I think the cabbage is for health and the peas are for wealth. I get those two confused.

Anyway, Brandon and I ate our black-eyed peas pretty good, but the cabbage is a different story. Just when Brandon got up from the table, his daddy said, "Wait a minute, take one bite of this cabbage and you'll have good health all year long."

Brandon crinkled his nose and said something to the effect of, "I'd rather be sick."

My sentiments exactly!

Check out the This Week box in this week's paper. There is a reminder about the EMT classes which are going to be held at the hospital. The volunteers who drive the ambulance are in desperate need of some help. You don't have to have any training. They will train you and it is sure to be a rewarding experience for anyone who helps out.

Everyone in my family has been after my dad for years to write a book. Lots of his friends have been encouraging him to write one too. (I want him to write several).

He has been too busy all his life to ever have had time, and now he is sort of slowing down. (For anyone else his pace would not be considered slow, he is just at a low roar).

He would always tell everyone that he probably wouldn't write a book because he didn't think anyone would care about what he had to say, and he didn't think anyone would buy it. He said at one time, he thought he could change the world with his words and now he knows better. I don't know about the world, but I do know he has made a lasting impression on his children and grandchildren.

I told him it didn't matter if no one bought the book. What mattered, is his life and thoughts being recorded for his grandkids and great grandkids.

I don't know who finally convinced him, but I want everyone to be on notice, that as of December 31, Ken Towery started his book. He's got the hardest part done—the beginning paragraphs. Now he is on a role. He even has a title. It is going to be called "The Emperor's Guest".

I didn't know what he had been typing on Monday afternoon. I figured he was working on another blazing Lamplighter.

When I went in to talk to him about something, he showed me what he had started.

I was so proud, I almost started to cry. After I had read the beginning, I told him that I thought it was great.

He smiled and said, "The only problem is that it is going to take a little longer than I thought. I have been working on it a couple of hours and I'm not through yet."

In Memory of Ruby Davis

By Artie Webb

She was truly a good Christian person.

She lived up to the standards taught in the Rebekah Code of Ethics.

She visited the sick, took food to the needy, always lending a helping hand.

She was Chaplain in our lodge and attended faithfully.

We at the Rebekah Lodge will miss her very much and as a close friend I will miss talking to her each day on the phone.

Yes, we will all miss Ruby Davis, our friend, but as her daughter Gwen Holliday said, "She and daddy can spend Christmas together with the Lord and I know she is happy."

We miss you Ruby.

Amnesty offered for Social Security misuse

Legalized aliens who used false documents to obtain a Social Security card or used a fake card will receive amnesty from prosecution if they stop using the fraudalent cards by January 3, 1991.

About 2.5 million of the 3.1 million people who applied for amnesty under the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 and subsequent immigration legislation could be affected by the Social Security provision. The 60 day amnesty was a little known provision included in the budget bill passed by the Congress in October, 1990.

Aliens who have qualified for legal status are eligible to receive valid Social Security cards, but many of them have not taken steps to correct their earnings records. Be reporting work they did using previous Social Security numbers, workers can get credits to qualify for higher Social Security benefits in the future.

Officials said legalized aliens can adjust their work records at any time so long as they are not using any fake cards after January 3.

The current amnesty period is an exception to the laws covering use of fraudalent Social Security cards. Normally, the offense is punishable by a maximum of five years in prison and a $250,000 fine. People suspected of trafficking for profit in counterfeit Social Security cards will continue to be prosecuted.

For more information, call or visit a Social Security office. The telephone number is 1-800-234-5772.

"Cry From The Mountain" to be shown at Floydada 1st Baptist

A Billy Graham film, "Cry From The Mountain", will be shown in the First Baptist Church of Floydada on Sunday, Jan. 6, beginning at 6:00 p.m.

In a split second, their lives will change forever. From the producers of The Hiding Place, Joni and The Prodigal, Cry From The Mountain, a World Wide Pictures production, is an adventure film set in the majestic wilderness of Alaska by screenwriter Daniel L. Quick. Scene after scene portrays the beauty and wildlife of this "last frontier" state.

The story centers around the Sanders family. Larry Sanders takes his 10-year-old son, Cal on a camping trip where he is to break the news that he and his wife, Carolyn are getting a divorce. Meanwhile Carolyn, filled with bitterness and unable to forgive her husband for an affair he has had with a woman in his office, considers the option of abortion. Through a life-threatening accident and an old hermit living in a deserted mining camp, the course of events is changed for the Sanders.

The principal roles in Cry From The Mountain are played by four outstanding performers.

James Cavan plays Jonathan, the old hermit who is the caretaker of a deserted mining camp, and who lives alone with his dog Jake. The old man resents the intrusion of Larry and Cal Sanders, but eventually comes to share his Christian faith.

Wes Parker plays Larry Sanders whose marriage is on the brink of disaster because of his unfaithfulness and his wife's unwillingness to forgive.

Rita Walter is Carolyn Sanders who is unable to forgive her husband and contemplates having an abortion.

Chris Kidd plays 10-year-old Cal Sanders. When his father is seriously injured in a kayaking accident, Cal seeks the help of the old hermit, Jonathan.

Billy Graham appears as himself with a message of hope.

Notable in the supporting cast is Coleen Gray, who plays the mother of Carolyn Sanders.

"YOU WILL LOVE OUR LITTLE TINY PRICES!"

Carl Lemon's News and Views From Cedar Hill

"Take no thought of tomorrow, for ye know not what tomorrow may bring," is a truism that was dramatically demonstrated here at the Listening Post over the week-end! On Friday morning your writer had not the slightest idea that Saturday would find him in one of Dallas' fringe cities; that satellite to the east they call Mesquite.

The first inkling was a telephone call from daughter-in-law, Linda Fay, at 10:00 A. M. Friday morning, "Phil just called from work and he wants us to be ready to leave for his sister Frances' place in Mesquite as soon as he gets off work around 3:00 P. M. He said there would be room for you too, so get ready!"

If you slam harness on a young horse when he dosen't expect it invariably he will buck and pitch considerably, but older horses more often just kinda sull up and get balky! So, guess what! After we had sulled and balked, almost completely rebelled for a while, we packed our razor and tooth-brush in a zip-lock bag and off we went to Mesquite. Of course the razor and tooth-brush got left there in the bathroom at Cedar, lying by the lavatory.

You never forget your readers at any time, nor do you ever forget it is winter. So along to Mesquite went our current "news disketts" in a brown grocery bag together with our warmest pair of coveralls.

About the first thing noticed after getting home was that the bag containing our warmest coveralls and the "news diskettes" had been left leaning against the leg of a piano in Mesquite!

WEATHER

In Mesquite the pre-dawn hours of Sunday morning saw temperatures drop to twelve degrees and every flat surface in the residential areas of the Metroplex had a glaze of ice and snow. Thrill-seekers, finding themselves alone on a stretch of icy road, were deliberately fish-tailing their vehicles in order to experience that rare swaying sensation that we have much too much of here in the Panhandle!

Here at home, in all likelihood records have been broken that no one has noticed and has not made the headlines! It seems nobody has bothered to check the average temperature from this year's first day of winter to Jan. 1, but, no question, that time period has been a first class doozy!

THE HOLIDAY CEDARS

Dec. 23: The JD Buzbys had one of their best Christmas celebrations ever on Sunday. In addition to all their children and grandchildren they had a nephew who suffered a broken neck at the age of 15, and has been confined to life in a wheelchair since that time. With him in his special vehicle for the handicapped, which he handles expertly, were his wife and children.

Dec. 25: Edna Gilley joined all members of her family at daughter Deliece's home in Plainview for Christmas dinner. Later the tree and package- opening took place at Edna's home at Cedar. At long last, now that Edna has regained much of her mobility, Santa has finally brought her a cordless telephone!

Dec. 25: The Ware families observed their formal Christmas at the home of Dara's parents, Mr. & Mrs. Wayne Garvin, in Silverton. Lisa (Ware) Baldwin, her husband, and son were there from Tulia. For Cody and Clay the pendulum has swung away from the sophisticated electronic, forever out of order, toys of 1989, back to the more dependable people powered toy tractors and trucks of long ago. Hey! Sounds good! The boys should get more work done in '91!

Dec. 25: Charlie, Shelia, and Nick Joiner of Irving, were here from Sunday for Christmas with her parents, Junior and Martha Taylor. They went on to Hamlin, Texas, early Tuesday morning for the Joiner's big annual Christmas.

Dec. 25: Many of Milledge and May Taylor decendants met in Lubbock for a family Christmas. Originally planned as a backyard arbor affair at the 2504 59th street home of Walton and Gayle Wesley, inclement weather caused the plans to be changed and the meeting place was switched to a gun club building in the vicinity of Reese Air Force Base. Approximately fifty Taylor relatives and friends were there.

Dec. 25: Kelly and Kim Mixon, of Arlington, and Donnie and Linda Turner of Flomot, Tx. visited with Lindsey and Billie Ruth Lackey over the Christmas holidays.

Dec. 31: Bud, Penny, and Erin Taylor returned Monday from accompanying Penny's parents, Rex and Wanda Davey of Plainview, on a trip to Garnett, Kansas. The occasion was the celebration of their 63rd wedding by Penny's Davey grandparents.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR MAKES EVERY MINUTE COUNT.

Athena Study Club gathers for Christmas party in Providence

By Vera Jo Bybee

The Athena Study Club met Tuesday night, Dec. 12, at 7:00 p.m. at the Providence Lutheran Church for their annual Christmas party with their husbands as guest. All members were present with only two husbands being absent.

El Jardines of Plainview served a delicious Mexican food dinner. Everyone then enjoyed the entertainment which was Lori Gonzales presenting her rendition of the Mexican Hat Dance. After the entertainment members and guest had lots of fun playing games.

Then comes the "Highlight" of the evening, "Who wins the Christmas Friendship Quilt?" The 1990 winner of the quilt was Vida Hrbacek. Instead of exchanging gifts with each other everyone brought articles for the Ronald McDonald House in Lubbock.

This reporter was negligent in writing our November news. We met in the home of Tanya Covington with Barbara Cawley as co-hostess.

A wonderful program on India was brought by Lolita Patel and her sons. Lolita cooked several different dishes of Indian food and brought them for us to sample. She also brought clothing and fabric for us to see.

Everyone enjoyed the program very much.

Our next meeting will be Tuesday, January 8, 1991, in the home of Mary McCarter with Rhonda McCain as co-hostess.

The program will be, "A Magic Brush" brought by Mary Lynn Lewis of Plainview.

COUPLE CELEBRATE 50TH ANNIVERSARY—Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Moore of Floydada, celebrated their 50th Wedding Anniversary, December 28, with a dinner at the 50 Yard Line in Lubbock. The dinner was hosted by their children, Carolyn Moore of Lubbock, Vernie Moore of Floydada, Randall Moore of Naples, Florida, and their granddaughters, Shayla, Eden and Lindsey Moore. Doyle Moore and Sue Jordan were married December 28, 1940 in Crosbyton.

Quilt design selected by 1990 Study Club

The fourth meeting of the 1990 Study Club was called to order in the home of Sherese Covington, with 20 members present and two members absent. Roll call and minutes were read by Tammy Wilson.

Committee reports were given by Brenda Heflin, who proposed that the group try to reschedule their Bridge Tournament for the spring. Sandra Schwertner thanked everyone for bringing their wrappped Christmas gifts for the Child Welfare. Their party was December 19 and these gifts helped to make Christmas brighter for the children.

Brenda proposed a few quilt designs for everyone to vote on for the club's yearly club quilt. A beautiful Amish design was selected and all will be learning how to make it at the January meeting.

The group then had an ornament exchange and exchanged secret sister gifts.

Hostesses for the evening were Sandra Schwertner and Julie James. They served chili and cornbread and for dessert they surprised Sherese with a beautiful Italian Cream birthday cake. They also passed out goody bags of delicious spice tea mix.

Members present were Dana Anthony, Lori Battey, Jan Beedy, Shawnda Brown, Christina Chesshir, Sherese Covington, Cindy Fortenberry, Brenda Heflin, Traci Helms, Julie James, Holly Lee, Pam Lewis, Vanell Littlefield, Gayla Marble, Sandra Schwertner, Mendy Shurbet, Sandra Trevino, Dara Ware, Tammy Wilson and Tami and Austin Wofford.

Jones gives program to NSDAR members

Buffalo Grass Chapter NSDAR met Dec. 11 at the Floyd County Historical Museum. Mrs. Don Marble, Vice Regent, presided in the absence of the Regent, Mrs. Don Bybee. After the opening ritual, Mrs. Marble introduced Mrs. Ann Jones, who gave the program on "Quilting Our History."

Mrs. Jones gave a short talk on some of her quilting projects and also told how our family history relates to quilts, especially those made by our grandmothers' generations, saying the quilts made in the early days were made for use and that now, they are made more for display. She showed a quilt block which she had won at the quilting club meeting and she will have the quilt finished and quilted by her club in 1991. She displayed a quilt she has made, saying the material was wool linen. This was a beautiful work of art.

After the program, the hostesses: Mmes M.G. Bethard and R.F. Zablieski served refreshments to two visitors, Mmes. Ann Jones and Nailee Bowden and members, Mmes. Buiel Neff, Ewell Norris, Henry Bollman, Billy Don Colston, Phil Dunavant, Tommy Sherman, Norman Reed, James Lovell, Arnold Hodges, Clinton Denning and Miss Carolyn Cunningham.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Arnold Hodges gave the report on National Defense, speaking on Education in our Public Schools.

Mrs. Marble reminded members that copies of obituaries of persons born before 1900 need to be given to Mrs. Tommy Sherman. These are to be put on file at the museum.

The next meeting will be Jan. 22, 1991.

1990 was milestone year for Texas A&M ag research

By Kathleen Davis

Cotton with high quality fibers, rice that yields two crops a year and a grass that seldom needs mowing were among this year's developments from the $100 million agriculture research program at Texas A&M University.

"This was a milestone year" said Dr. Robert G. Merrifield, deputy director of Texas A&M's Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. "In research, we continued on a growth curve that has been climbing for a number of years."

Merrifield said the investment of public funds in research yields about a 44 percent annual rate of return.

"Results in 1990 will confirm that," he said.

Merrifield said the research successes in 1990 aim at the university's long-term goal of finding answers to issues in food safety and the environment, for example.

"One of the most exciting areas in research now is molecular biology," Merrifield said. "We have tremendous germ plasm resources in cotton, wheat, rice, sorghum and peanuts — a fantastic reservoir that can be exploited rapidly through molecular biology."

Texmont, the double-crop rice, is an example. The variety was developed through another culture, a biotechnological first for grain research in the United States. Researchers used the method to genetically install a trait to ripen the variety faster than typical varieties. Texmont was created in less than one year whereas normal rice variety breeding can take more than six years.

"We can deal with so many issues through molecular biology," Merrifield said. "We can develop varieties that require less pesticides and less water or change nutritional qualities.

"A lot of the research done in molecular biology is universal, meaning that it can be applied to either plants or animals," Merrifield said.

Texas A&M was the location this year for the first planting of a bio-engineered cotton with insect resistance, for example. The so-called Bt cotton was created when scientists inserted a widely used, naturally occurring bacterium, Bacillus thuringiensis, into the cotton plant's genetic material. That made the cotton plants produce a protein that kills certain types of worms that try to feed on the plant. Bt cotton is still in the developmental stage.

Developing crops with natural insect resistance will lower the amount of chemicals needed, thus preserving the environment, Merrifield noted.

HQ95, another Texas A&M cotton variety, was released to commercial seed companies in 1990. It answers the call from U.S. textile mills for a stronger cotton fiber to spin. That trait was bred into the variety along with natural resistance to eight diseases and four insects, according to Dr. Kamal El-Zik, a cotton breeder in College Station.

Although crop research is a major effort at Texas A&M, researchers also are addressing urban needs, Merrifield pointed out.

Prairie buffalo grass, developed by turf grass breeder Dr. Milt Engelke of Dallas, is the dream of anyone with a yard: a dense grass that needs 50 percent to 70 percent less water and only two or three mowings a season.

Engelke said prairie buffalo grass, already available from many nurseries in the state, can be grown successfully from Nebraska to the South Texas plains.

While lots of new varieties were added in 1990s, at least one research project at Texas A&M devised a way to help a beloved old plant — the live oak tree — stay healthy.

Dr. David Appel, a plant pathologist, found a way to inject a new fungicide, Alamo, into oak trees as a prevention against oak wilt, a deadly disease that has cost millions in lost trees since it was first diagnosed in Texas in the mid-1970s.

Appel said three years of research showed the product, which came on the market in the late spring, prevents oak wilt if the fungus has not already begun infecting a tree.

During the 1990s, Merrifield said, the new biotechnology methods being applied in research should produce results more quickly than many conventional techniques.

Texas and U.S. cattle industry numbers continue below normal in coming year

By Mary Mahoney

A relatively low supply of cattle in Texas and the rest of the nation kept prices high during 1990, a situation likely to continue through 1991.

"With this continuing short supply of animals, ranchers saw record prices for virtually all classes of cattle and calves in 1990," said Dr. Ernest E. Davis, livestock marketing economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Davis predicted that in 1991, for the fourth straight year, numbers of cattle and calves in the United States will fall just below 100 million head — between 99.6 million and 99.9 million.

In 1990, prices paid to producers were the highest recorded. This year's prices for feeder cattle and calves will average $4 to $5 per hundredweight more than those received in 1989 and $7 to $10 per hundredweight above those of 1979.

"But high prices don't necessarily translate into high profits," he said, adding that many ranchers have found their costs rising as well.

Davis pointed out that the size of the Texas herd in January 1990 actually declined by 200,000 animals from the 13.6 million head counted the previous year.

As in other parts of country, two or three years of drought has forced numerous cattle sales and put some ranchers out of business in Texas, Davis said. Ranchers have been reluctant to restock on ranges that have become fragile with lack of rainfall. Tighter credit also has limited investments in cattle.

Beef supplies next year should be about the same as in 1990, Davis said, with increased beef imports likely to offset a slight drop in domestic beef production.

"Fed cattle prices will probably average $2 to $3 a hundredweight below 1990's average because of larger supplies of competing meats, particularly chicken and pork," Davis said.

Higher numbers of cattle on feed this fall and larger feedlot marketings in December, January and February, he said, will create a temporary glut on the market and bring down fed cattle prices in early 1991. Consumers also should see a corresponding temporary drop in beef prices.

Davis predicted that feeder cattle prices will continue strong in 1991.

"Feeder cattle supplies will be tight," Davis said. "Lower feed grain costs will partially offset lower prices received for fed cattle, keeping cattle feeder margins tight but for the most part profitable."

Davis said feedlot profit margins will be further squeezed in 1991 as feeder cattle purchase prices continue at about the same level as this year.

"Cattle prices should stay strong until ranchers get bullish on herd expansion," Davis said.

If the U.S. economy enters its predicted recession, the economist believes that cattle ranchers probably won't be hit too hard by consumer spending cutbacks.

"These (consumer) spending cuts usually occur with more costly purchases such as automobiles, televisions and furniture rather than food items," he said. Many consumers most sensitive to food prices already have switched to lower-cost beef cuts or to chicken, so any further change is likely to be minimal, he said.

Some positive factors impacting cattle numbers and prices and during the past year have been a general improvement in the demand of U.S. beef from international trade, primarily from Japan and other Pacific Rim countries and Canada, and the positive food safety and high quality aspects of U.S. fed beef.

In the coming years, there should be an increasing export demand and generally increasing worldwide demand for U.S. beef. This should provide more stability for the cattle market, Davis said.

He noted, however, that beef export sales could dip in the spring, chiefly because Japan may be buying less U.S. beef. Japan is expected to drop its trade barriers limiting its beef imports in April, Davis said, but the country has so much U.S. beef in storage that it may actually buy less in 1991.

Such an action would make more beef available for U.S. domestic consumption, tending to drive meat prices down.

For consumers, January sales will offer savings of about 10 percent on many beef cuts, said Dr. Dick Edwards, Extension Service food distribution specialist.

He said there will be special sales on beef cuts each week at meat counters of supermarkets throughout the year, many coinciding with holiday observances. Edwards recommended that consumers take advantage of the weekly discounts on beef cuts and stock up.

FmHA now taking loan applications

The Farmers Home Administration, preparing to ease its ban on granting emergency loans to farmers without crop insurance, has instructed local FmHA offices to begin accepting loan applications, says U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm.

"The 1990 farm bill specifically waives the crop-insurance requirement, and now FmHA is moving to reverse its policy as the law requires," Gramm said.

Specifically, FmHA's Washington office has advised its state directors, district directors and county supervisors to begin processing emergency loan applications from farmers who did not carry crop insurance in 1990.

"Clearly, FmHA intends to complete the procedure in January by revising an old regulation under which even accepting the applications was prohibited," the senator said.

In fact, the FmHA directive instructs local officials to advise farmers of the waiver and for those who appear to meet other eligibility standards, to process loan applications "to the point of approval."

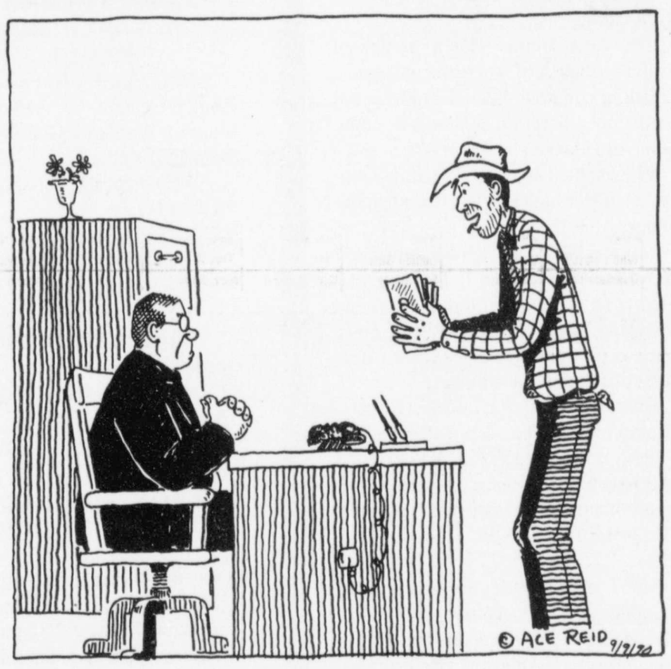

"Such applications will be held for final action by the County Committee and the loan approval official when the revised regulations are issued," says the FmHA directive.

The senator called the FmHA directive "a step in the right direction to help Texas farmers who did not have the benefit of federal disaster payments this year, even though the many Texas producers are experiencing their worst harvest in years."

Wheat yields good; corn, sorghum disappointing

Texas wheat farmers endured freezes, floods and drought to harvest one of their best crops in several years, but yields for corn and grain sorghum producers were disappointing.

Even so, experts in 1991 are looking for grain sorghum acreages to expand in Texas, and the plantings for wheat and corn to be less.

"At least 20 percent of acres now in corn will shift in 1991 to grain sorghum and cotton," said Dr. Norman McCoy, plant pathologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Dallas.

"Cotton prices have been good, and grain sorghum is a less risky crop than corn because of its resistance to aflatoxin. Weather conditions in Texas simply do not favor corn production."

A worldwide glut of wheat is driving prices down, and the expectation is that less wheat will be planted in Texas in 1991 as farmers opt for more profitable crops.

Farmers planted 6.7 million acres of wheat in the fall of 1989. The season was plagued by hard, prolonged freezes in much of the growing area during the winter, followed by a spring that brought flooding in North and Central Texas and drought and record high temperatures elsewhere.

Despite this, 4.2 million wheat acres were harvested, with yields averaging 31 bushels an acre. Total 1990 wheat production for the state was 130.2 million bushels.

The year before, producers had planted the same wheat acreage, but severe drought cut production to 60 million bushels. Only 3 million acres were harvested, with average yields of only 20 bushels an acre in 1989.

This year, the Texas Panhandle accounted for 62.5 million bushels, reported Rodney Mosier, executive assistant for the Texas Wheat Producers Association in Amarillo. Some producers in this area averaged 60-65 bushels an acre.

Extension Service economist Dr. Ken Stokes of Dallas said Texas corn production has been increasing since 1984 because of higher yields and only slightly higher production costs, resulting in higher income potential.

The 1990 Texas corn harvest totaled 1.5 million acres, up from 1.4 million last year. But yields declined to 95 bushels per acre, the lowest yields in six years, and down from 106 bushels in 1989.

The Texas corn crop was hit hard by aflatoxin in 1990. Half the samples of corn tested were found to have aflatoxin levels higher than 20 parts per billion, making it unfit for human consumption. Aflatoxin is a toxic fungus that attacks corn under droughty conditions. Contaminated corn can be fed to livestock, so long as the aflatoxin levels remain within federally mandated limits.

Total 1990 U.S. corn production at 8 billion bushels was the fifth largest harvest on record. Corn prices were up by 2 percent, but lower yields offset potential gains for Texas farmers.

"Reduced carryover stocks in both corn and grain sorghum makes the price very susceptible to market events," said Mark Waller, an Extension Service economist in College Station.

Texas' 1990 grain sorghum production of 72 million hundredweight was the smallest since 1956 and 22 percent below 1989. Yields for 1990 declined to 2,576 pounds per acre, off 392 pounds from 1989, and prices fell 2 percent from last year.
