Draft Registration To Hold At City Hall

First Rule For List Revised

The registration of men who turned 21 since the first registration last October 16, will be held at the city hall here beginning at 8 a. m. and 9 p. m., next Monday, July 1st, according to Pevey, chairman of the draft board.

The new selective service rule requires that one place of residence be chosen by the registrant, and that this choice be recorded and thus definitely established by local board selection over him, Gen. J. Pevey, state director, said today.

The first registration day, July 1, 1940, such registrants were confused as to which list, General Page as was especially true in instances where men had legal residence in one community but had a dwelling place in another. The residence listed on the registration card determines the local board that determines the selective service regulation such changes.

The second registration on General Page continued, registration cards will contain the name of the registrant to list his residence. In the event a man had more than one place of residence, he must list his choice as his residence without interference or objection from a registrar.

In addition, the registration card will have space for recording the address. This may be the place of residence or another address the registrant would prefer to mail more readily.

Commissioners Court Approves Health Unit

Wichita Falls, June 24—It was voted Monday by the commissioners court and the city council in their respective sessions that a county health unit be put into effect immediately in Wichita county.

Both bodies approved the program without dissenting votes following recommendation of such action by civic leaders and officials. A week earlier the commissioners court had rejected the proposal. The plan has been approved by the board of education.

F. M. Hemphill, representing the state department of health, told the council Monday night his organization would do everything possible to have the health unit in operation by July 1.

Total cost of the unit will be approximately $18,000 a year, of which the state will pay approximately $9,000. The remainder will be furnished by the county and city governments, the Wichita Falls school system, the county Red Cross agency and the Tubercular association.

During Monday morning, efforts to bring a county vote on the proposed county health unit failed when County Judge Guy McNeely declined to put the question. Commissioners H. H. Haynes of Electra and W. T. Holman of Burk Burnett declared themselves not yet ready to vote on the matter.

On Monday, June 16, Haynes and Holman had voted against the proposed health unit; Commissioners Lee Cooper and Miles Hines for it. McNeely voted against it at that time, breaking the tie. He at that time insisted upon "a united court" on so important a measure.

When the court convened after luncheon, unanimous approval of the health unit was voted. The county's part in the expense will be $1,300 annually.

Dr. M. W. Caskey, with experience in health unit operation in two other states, told the court that such a unit means a decrease in the number of communicable diseases, fewer infant deaths, better sanitation, and inspection of rural milk, meat and food establishments.

An army doctor of high rank was quoted as urging emphatically that a county health unit be established in view of the impending opening of Sheppard Field.

More than a score of civic leaders and officials were present urging adoption of the county health unit.

F. M. Hemphill, representing the state health department, warned that the state's $9,000 pledge would expire unless the unit was approved by July 1.

The unit will be staffed by a full time medical director, one or more sanitary engineers, a supervising nurse, three staff nurses and two clerks.

It will operate over the entire county in the interest of preventive health measures.

Burk And Nocona Tie In Round Robin Tourney

AL RAGSDALE SHOOTS PAR TO SAVE BURK FROM DEFEAT

Al Ragsdale's woods were hot Sunday and he shot the Nocona course for an even par thus keeping Burk Burnett in a tie with Nocona in the round robin tournament. Ragsdale was on the green for thirteen birdies of the 18-hole match. If his putter had been working he would have come in under par by several strokes.

The score at the end of the 18-hole match was Burk, 6; Nocona, 6. This was the last away-from-home game for the local golfers. The rest of the tournament will be played with Burk Burnett as hosts.

Others winning in the tournament were Don Chesnut, Bob Qualls, Harry Goble, Jack Brumley and Jack Grubbs. Those attending other than the above were Neal Hall, Truman Garland, Carl Morrison, Jim Pogue, Glenn Howard and Bob Browning.

Burk Sewing Room To Close July 1st

70 Lose Jobs

Closing of the three sewing rooms in Electra, Iowa Park and Burk Burnett will take 70 persons out of work, it was said. The sewing room in Wichita Falls will continue to employ 75 certified workers. Under the new quota the county community service projects are allowed a total of 195 certified and eight non-certified workers.

County commissioners protested the closing of the three sewing rooms, insisting that the reduction should be prorated among the four sewing rooms in the county. Mrs. Guyer said this was impossible because of the reduced supervising personnel.

Other Cuts Due

It was announced that a 30 per cent cut also was scheduled for the operations divisions of WPA, which includes roads, bridges, buildings, utility plants, and similar jobs. Other district officials were expected to arrive in Wichita Falls Thursday to determine where such reduction will be applied.

New Homes To Be Built Under Plan

A telegram from Ed Gossett, congressman from this district, notified Burk Burnett the first of the week that this city had been approved as a national defense area under title six of the Federal Housing Act.

Higher Loans Available

Under title six of the FHA, corporations and individuals of Burk Burnett can build homes now, for rent, and receive FHA loans on a 90 per cent basis instead of 80 per cent as has heretofore been the case.

Federal housing financing under title six also differs from procedure under title two and the facilities available in the past. Homes may be built with 90 per cent loan commitments for rental purposes on a more favorable basis in regard to required cash payment than has existed before, the communication said.

There has been nothing on the radio for the past week but political speeches. Each candidate lambasting the other and O'Daniel lambasting the newspapers and singing his hillbilly songs.

The State of Texas has been under six flags and a flour sack, but I would hate to see the United States flag changed to a flour sack. However, here is about the way the election will go.

O'Daniel will go to the senate and Hal Collins will be elected governor next term and the people will be wearing shirts made of flour sacks and going down the street with a package of Crazy Crystals in one hand and—well, you know what they will have to be carrying in the other hand.

I Give You Texas

By Boyce House

"This might happen to you—subscribe" the moral of the following fanciful sketch, author unknown:

A man who was too stingy to subscribe for his hometown paper sent his little boy to borrow a copy from a neighbor. In his haste the boy ran over a $4 stand of bees and in ten minutes looked like a warty summer squash.

His father ran to his assistance and failing to notice the barbed wire fence, ran into that, ruining a pair of trousers.

The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence, got into the corn field and killed herself eating green corn.

Hearing the racket his wife ran out, upset a four-gallon churn of cream into a basket of little chickens, drowning the entire batch. In her haste she dropped a $35 set of false teeth.

The baby having been left alone, crawled through the cream into the parlor, ruining a brand new $25 carpet.

During the excitement the oldest daughter ran away with the hired man, the dog broke up 11 setting hens and the calves got out and chewed the tails off four fine shirts on the clothes line.

Moral: Don't borrow your neighbor's paper. It's too risky.

Not permitted to run in their home state, Texas thoroughbreds are "burning up Northern and Eastern tracks: three entries of Mrs. Edward Haughton, Dallas, taking first money at Suffolk Downs, Mass.; John L. Sullivan, San Antonio, capturing two firsts, one at Belmont Park and the other at Lincoln Fields, Ill.; E. F. Woodward of Houston, a first at Lincoln Fields, and Teco Tack (owned by Collins & Stroube, Corsicana) capturing "the Million Dollar Baby" purse at Lincoln Fields—all these victories in six days. Thousands of Texans are hoping the time is not far distant when they can see their favorite sport again.

When you think of Llano, you think of granite. Around the town are 12 plants and quarries, employing 200 men or more. Some time ago, your columnist was shown over the plant of the Premier Granite Quarries by C. R. Stoltz, the proprietor. The huge blocks of granite are cut with saws, which can handle a chunk 16 feet long, eight feet wide and seven feet high. The actual cutting is done with shot, the saws forcing the shot down. The shot is of chilled steel and look like the kind used in shotgun shells. As many as fifteen blades can be used at once but the fewer the blades, the faster the cutting. For instance, with 10 blades, the granite is cut at the rate of six inches an hour.

At the time of the visit, this plant was employing 60 men. The company's three quarries have a virtually unlimited supply of granite. The colors are varied: pink, light gray and blue (or dark gray.) Among the jobs of which Stoltz is proud are the granite for the beautiful Austin Tribune building, the semi-circular rostrum in El Paso (presenting a problem because of the unusual shape) and the Washington municipal center group, for which 40 cars of granite were shipped, one block weighing 26 tons. This was so big that it extended beyond a railroad flat car by a foot and a half on each side.

The plant also does sculpturing from models, which looked like a difficult task to me but I was told that it wasn't. Impressive work along this line includes the New London School Memorial and the Fannin Memorial at Goliad.

He who fears death enjoys no life.

With the end of the United States Senate race at hand as these lines are written, the latest Belden poll shows Congressman Lyndon Johnson is first. More significant than the mere figures is that Johnson started out six weeks ago with only 5 per cent of the vote and he has gone forward by leaps and bounds whereas all the others have lost ground. Apparently thousands who have heretofore voted for Governor O'Daniel think he should stay in Austin so the professional politicians will not regain control of the State government. Lyndon Johnson, whom the President has called "my old and close friend", has made a dynamic campaign with his slogan, "Roosevelt and Unity" in this time of national emergency.

Nearly 40,000 Texas oil wells have had to be abandoned because of unfavorable producing or economic conditions.

Lessons In Health

By Artie McGovern
TAKE IT EASY—LEARN TO RELAX

One day two women were sent to by gymnasium by their physicians. Their positions in life offered a striking contrast but their physical conditions were almost identical. Both underweight, suffering from nervousness, tired most of the time, and quite certain that exercise was the last thing in the world they needed. The first is prominent in New York society, a leader in several charitable movements, a popular hostess and a much-sought-after guest. The second is a housewife, the mother of three young children, doing most of her own work, devoted to family and home.

Both women have been energy wasters. Neither of them has given a thought to saving her priceless store of vitality. They have spent it like prodigals on so many and such unnecessary activities that they have literally exhausted their physical resources. Committee meetings, benefit affairs, dancing parties and bridge lunches kept one in a frenzy of hurry. Cooking, dusting, bed-making and dish-washing were equally as exhausting to the other.

There is no excuse for such extravagance. You can dance, play bridge, prepare a meal or iron the children's clothes without making a marathon of the job. It's all in the way you do it. Take it easy. Learn to relax. Never stand up for any chores that can be done just as efficiently while you sit down. Save your energy for the most important things. Your health comes first. If you cannot attend to all your social affairs, pass up a few. When your work piles mountain high, let some of it go until another day. It's fun to be popular and nice to have an attractive home, but what good is either if you don't feel well enough to enjoy it?

This Week IN WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C. (NWNS)—Plans to clean out the "reds" from defense industries are flying thick and fast here with all responsible officials favoring immediate action but expressing widely varying views on the best method of handling the problem. The department of justice is studying the situation and the plan most likely to be adopted is expected to come from that department. One proposal known to be under consideration is the creation of a special unit under the department of justice which would hunt out suspects, examine the charges against them and notify the manufacturer employing them if their activities were found to be dangerous to the best interests of defense work. The manufacturer would then fire such suspects.

It is believed that in such cases, if the dismissed men were union members and appealed to the National Labor Relations board, that board could tell them it couldn't consider their cases because their dismissal had been directed by a government agency.

This is one of the many plans under consideration, but it is evident that some plan will soon be adopted to serve as a dragnet for employees believed to be engaged in subversive activities. Growing public anger over the defense delays caused by reds is clearly evident and many labor union leaders are just as anxious as the general public to do something about it. They realize that activities of "reds" in labor groups are creating strong sentiment against labor itself, whether it is justified or not. A recent Gallup poll shows there is more feeling against labor unions today than at any time for the last five years. The much-debated measure, recommended by administration the right to seize any property, forces, which would give the President the right to seize any property, is expected to get much more support than it would have six months ago because it is seen as a means of guaranteeing continued production in the face of labor difficulties.

Sentiment for labor legislation in congress, just as with the public, grows and wanes according to the number of strikes that are current, but there have been so many strikes consistently in the news recently that there is no doubt the majority of congressmen would now vote "Yes" to any reasonable proposal to remedy the situation. It is believed that the freezing of Nazi and Italian funds in this country will be of some help in curbing anti-American activities, but the funds of the nationals of those two countries here are not over $400,000,000 and a good proportion of them are probably in cash form and may be impossible to find. However, it does give the administration a new tool to use against Axis groups in this country, since the freezing makes it possible for the government to stop German bunds and such organizations from operating.

The agreement of Eastern shipyard workers to ban strikes for two years has shown the public that certain labor groups are willing to work for the best interests of our country, but the continued strike of West coast shipworkers, in spite of a plea for settlement by President Roosevelt, offsets any increased popular feeling sympathetic to labor. As the new tax program for paying part of our defense bill reaches completion, indications are that the whole tax structure of both the nation and the states may be in for a major overhauling. The treasury department has set up a board of experts to study all taxes and to make recommendations as to what should be taxed by the federal government and what by the state government and what by a plan for centering more of taxation in the federal government, part of which will be distributed to the states. The present taxes on gasoline, for instance, which are levied by day, the thirteenth, is indeed a lucky day for him.

The county seat of Grimes county is the historic village of Anderson, population about 500. This is a town that every citizen of Texas should visit sometime as it has more historic landmarks than many of the more publicized spots. The old Fanthorp Inn is standing today just as it stood in 1840, the same timbers still intact with a fresh coat of paint on it. In 1850, the town had more population and much more business than it has today. Get Attorney Al Mayfield to tell you about the place if you ever stop there, as Al has spent much time in recent years in looking up historic facts about his town and county.

both the federal and state governments, may eventually be all collected by the U. S. treasury and reallocated to the states. It is the opinion of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau that while congress is planning the biggest tax program in our history it is the time to make our tax set-up as efficient and equitable as possible.

General satisfaction has been expressed by congressmen over President Roosevelt's Supreme Court appointments, particularly over the appointment of Harlan Fisk Stone as chief justice. Justice Stone has been a member of the court for 16 years. When the court convenes in October for its next session, Justice Stone and Justice Owen D. Roberts will be the only members not appointed by President Roosevelt.

The President's new appointees who will set in October, are both strong New Dealers. Sen. James Francis Byrnes, who replaces Justice McReynolds, who retired last January, has been a leading administration leader in the senate. Robert H. Jackson, present attorney general, only 49 years old, is one of the younger group of New Dealers who has been so instrumental in helping to formulate policies.

Colleges Want Low Draft Age

As the nation prepares to draft the year's new crop of 21-year-old men, a large number of heads of the nation's junior colleges favor President Roosevelt's proposed inclusion of a lower age group in the draft, a recent national poll revealed.

Their votes indicated they would approve reducing the draft age of 21 to 35 to the range of 18 to 25, provided that young men would be permitted to designate their year of service if the nation were not at war.

Hardin Junior college, Wichita Falls, was among the junior colleges participating in the poll. Altogether, 234 administrators, representing 43 states, took part. Of this number, 74 per cent favored the lower draft age.

Craterville Rodeo To Hold July 3-4

Craterville Park, June 25 (Special)—The 17th Annual Rodeo and Independence celebration will be staged here in the picturesque setting that has been the scene of cowboy thrills for the past sixteen years and will afford diversion and entertainment for thousands of defense workers who are now engaged with Uncle Sam's forces in an effort to maintain that independence which we are celebrating.

Cowboy sports or contests, catalogued as the most thrilling of all sports will be the wish that will be served to visitors, and this rodeo will take in practically the entire repertoire of cowboy stunts such as broncho busting, calf roping, wild bull and steer riding, steer wrestling or bulldogging and other sports and contests of the plains country.

Many thrilling and interesting special features will round out a program of two and a half hours in which thrills and spills will be plentiful, some of these features include Steve Clemento, the implement thrower of the movies, coming direct from Hollywood to thrill vast audiences with one of the most thrilling acts of its kind in existence. Dave Nimmo, famous trick and fancy roper, will head a group of expert lariat manipulators which will include that versatile feminine lasso artist, Norma Schultz, while a group of the most daring and clever trick riders ever to appear in an arena in this section will add thrills to the program.

Two performances will be held daily at 2:00 and 8:00 p. m. in the rodeo grounds said to be the most natural and scenic setting for a rodeo to be found in the entire Southwest.

There has been a decided reaction against any candidate who would go out and try to buy the office. And a little tip: Harold Young is supposed to go on the federal payroll at an early date. It is like the case of State Senator Hill of Henderson. The Senator has indulged in—2 time lately in castigating O'Daniel. UNUSUAL NEST SITE

A pair of ruby-throated hummingbirds picked an unusual place in which to nest, according to The Dallas Morning News. The nest is suspended upon a loop of wire three floors above a concrete patio between The News office and an adjoining building. Workers in the surrounding offices are gravely concerned over the birds.

Apparently oblivious to their surroundings, the birds are going about their business of hatching babies in a nest the size of a golf ball. No mistakes must be made by the tiny birds when they try their first flights. Under them is a drop of three stories to hard concrete.

Hummingbirds, especially brave during the nesting season, will rob spider webs and will attack birds much larger than themselves, including hawks and crows, and are practically always victorious, due to their speed.

Home-Stretch Spurt Any Time You Say

PLENTY of men can run a mile around a cinder track.

But those who win races—and championships—are the ones who can turn on the plus when it's needed.

Probably that's why you hear so much these days about Buick's exclusive Compound Carburetion.†

It gives you an engine that will cruise right along with the distance runners and pile up plenty of miles for your gasoline money.

But any time you want plus-performance—a home-stretch spurt—just step down on the gas treadle.

Instantly, you send an extra carburetor into action. You step up the supply of both gasoline and air—and virtually give yourself a bigger engine to get you places in a hurry.

That means thrills—plenty of them.

It means, also, efficiency—proper use of every drop of fuel without useless waste.

It bears out the Big Point about this 1941 Buick—that on size, style, comfort, room and ability, it's far and away the top value of the year.

To see how true that is, just go size one up against the low delivered prices your nearest Buick dealer is asking.

Oil Industry Pays For Education Of One Out Of Four

June 25.—If your boy went to public school in the past year, one-fourth of his or her education was paid for by the Texas petroleum industry.

That is the report of a study made by the Texas Mid-Continent Gas Association. It shows that another way, if a school child has four children, the expense of schooling one of them was paid by Texas on a statewide basis that would amount to one-fourth, or nearly one-fourth, of the total cost of educating school children out of the state's 1,536,910, were education paid entirely by taxes on the petroleum industry.

The petroleum industry's contribution to the education of school children is shown in the official records of the state comptroller and assessor of Texas independent districts. Shows that last year the petroleum industry paid $22,652,912 for school purposes, or 14.6 per cent, or slightly more than one-fourth, of the total cost of educating school children amounting to $154,400,000.

The petroleum industry's percentage was higher in the matter of the education of school children in the state's 1,536,910, were education paid entirely by taxes on the petroleum industry.

Thirty-two per cent of the total cost of educating school children in the state was borne by the petroleum industry, the report shows. The petroleum industry paid the same amount of rural aid funds as one-fifth of rural high schools in Texas is getting a better education through the Texas petroleum industry.

The report points out that the figures show that the average cost of educating a boy or girl last year was $124 or even $271 for many independent schools in or near oil fields spent on education. Some schools expended as much as $246 or even $271 for education.

More Men Needed As Navy Officers

During their visit in Wichita, Commander T. A. Nicholas and Lieut. Tyrrell Krum explained the opportunities now being offered by the navy to young men who have college degrees to become officers in the navy. Due to a severe shortage of needed men, these opportunities are being offered to a larger class, which will start

Sept. 30, is now being formed, Lieut. Krum said.

Open Ranks to Collegians
"In order to obtain the needed officers," he said, "the navy department in Washington recently opened the ranks of the naval reserve to college graduates, men between 20 and 28, having college degrees, who would enlist in the so-called class V-7. This would enable these men to go either to Northwestern University, the old fighting ship "Prairie State" in the Hudson river, or to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis.

"Here they would be indoctrinated into the ways of the navy and would be given an intensive three-month course in naval science—such as navigation, engineering and the like. At the end of four months these men would be eligible to become ensigns in the naval reserve and being called to active duty aboard some ship in the fleet. As such they would take their place alongside the regular officers who are graduated from Annapolis.

Advantages Outlined
"Ensigns in the navy are paid $125 per month. In addition they are provided with their uniforms, are given quarters and meals—all at government expense. While in the service they have splendid opportunities to make excellent associations, which will serve them in years to come.

"Any young college man taking advantage of this opportunity will be held on active service only so long as the emergency exists. The secretary of the navy has stated officially that all reserves will be returned to private life as soon as their services can be spared.

"For the college graduate who is pondering the future and what it holds for him during the period of this national emergency, there is no opportunity in the entire defense picture equal to that the navy is giving him to become a commissioned naval officer. "All men who are interested in following through on this offer should see the local recruiting officer in the post office building, or write to the commandant, eighth naval district, New Orleans, La.

PROTECTION . . . scope

If hometown defense could be measured in terms of the number of agencies, bureaus, boards, divisions, offices and administrations working on it, our American towns would be prepared to handle any emergency imaginable.

I have just contacted about 30 government and semi-government agencies to ask them this one question, "What are you doing about home town preparedness?" Practically all of them claim to be doing something along this line and a good many of them consider the protection of small towns and rural areas to be their major job.

The thing that amazed me most was the scope of subjects which the government has tied up with our defense program. I was under the impression that local defense was pretty much limited to home guards, police emergency squads, fire brigade reserves, ambulance service and other things aimed at preparation for possible disasters.

But I found that the defense program enters into practically every phase of our living—the food we eat, health of our children, our farm production, unemployment relief, social security, our expenditure of money and the things our children learn in school.

It is an all-inclusive program which aims to combine social welfare and the welfare of democracy and freedom by relating our whole way of life to the defense of our nation.

HOME FRONT . . . councils

The government group which has undertaken the most widespread program of community defense is the division of state and local co-operation of the Office of Emergency Management. That division acts as a clearing house for practically everything that is done on the home front and guides many of the other agencies in defining the specific job which they are to do.

The division of state and local cooperation has set up a model plan which has been adopted by all but three or four states. It also has set up a council of local defense which has been adopted by over 1,000 communities and is being considered by thousands of others.

SERVICES . . . generals

Without writing a book on the subject, I can't hope to give an adequate picture of what dozens of other government branches are doing to aid defense. But here's an idea of the scope of it:

The Federal Security agency is co-ordinating health, welfare and related activities in our communities; the nutrition advisory committee is going to tell us how to eat better and cheaper; the health and medical committee is mobilizing medical resources in all towns; the citizens committee for the army and navy is arranging for recreational activities for the men in camps; the united service organizations will supply personnel for recreation centers (and that last one worth a contribution, if anyone asks you.)

Then there's the office of price administration and civilian supply, which is keeping prices from skyrocketing; the U. S. office of education, which guides schools in teaching defense-necessary subjects; the U. S. public health service which is supervising the health-building of men in service as well as of civilians; the children's bureau which is watching after the health of our next generation, and the social security board, which is taking care of our oldsters. Just to mention a few.

Whatever emergency arises, there are government agencies that can meet it if they don't step on each others' toes. But in the final analysis, our community defense will depend on the co-operation of the people who live in those communities. All we are sure of so far is that we have plenty of generals.

Aluminumware Drive Announced

As a part of the national defense program, a nationwide "old and unneeded aluminum drive" will be directed by the Office of Civilian Defense, it was announced by Director Fiorella LaGuardia Tuesday.

In a broadcast address, LaGuardia disclosed that the Office of production management had requested the defense agency to undertake the campaign on the basis of "very successful" experimental aluminum collections recently in Richmond, Va., and Madison, Wis.

Under the present plans the state governors will direct the drive in the states, passing responsibility to county, city and town officials, and finally to civic patriotic and youth organizations.

More And Better Holidays

Holidays are one of our greatest national institutions.

The people of this country, who spend the majority of their waking hours working in offices, stores, factories and in the fields, look forward to holidays for weeks ahead.

Each year, most of us look over the new calendar and are pleased if we find a lot of holidays falling on Fridays or Mondays and disappointed if they fall otherwise.

So year after year many of us grumble over the unfortunate set-up of the new year's calendar, but accept it as being as uncontrollable as rain or wind or sunshine.

But when we really analyze it, there is little reason why the calendar should not be changed.

With this purpose in mind, The World Calendar association, supported by well-known people in most every country in the world, has for years been working for calendar reform—a reform in which most holidays would fall on Monday and each month-date would fall on the same weekday every year.

Under the proposed World Calendar the first of January would always begin on a Sunday, Christmas (still celebrated on the 25th of December) would always fall on Monday, Easter would always be on the fifteenth Sunday in the year, which would always be April 8, Thanksgiving would always be Thursday, November 28, and non-religious holidays would all be changed to Mondays.

Taxpayers Pay Wage Increases

One of the favorite arguments of those who see any justification in defense strikes is this: "If a company is increasing its profits because of defense orders there is no reason why labor shouldn't share in that increased profit."

That is certainly the best reason offered for rapid wage increases, but it doesn't hold water under the present defense set-up. For when wages are increased above what they were when a defense contract was made, the government, not the employer, is billed.

The contracts aren't as simple as that, but that is what they amount to. Take the North American Airway Aviation company, for instance: in its contracts with the government that company has a clause which provides that the government will reimburse it for wage increases which are not above average wage increase for the airplane industry as a whole. If the wages for the airplane industry go up to 20 per cent and North American increases go up to 25 per cent, the company loses 5 per cent, if their wages go up 15 per cent, the company gains 5 per cent and if their wages go up the average amount of 20 per cent the government takes care of that increase.

The reason for such clauses in contracts is based on the fact that such contracts are made to cover cost plus what the government considers a fair profit. If the company had to stand the loss due to wage increases, it would not, in the government's opinion, make a fair profit and would probably suffer losses.

When wages are raised in defense industries, it is the taxpayer and not the employer who has to foot the bill.

Congress Must Not Fail

Congress is now working on a measure which will have much to do with determining the future welfare of every citizen of this country—and the country itself. That measure is the new tax bill.

This bill, as the New York Times points out in a fine editorial, "must not merely raise a large amount of revenue. It must raise that revenue in such a way as to safeguard our economy from the price dislocations inherent in a rearmament program. . . ."

"In the case of individual income taxes, the desired objectives call for higher rates and a broadening of the tax base so as to include a large number of citizens, now exempt, who will receive a major portion of the government's increased contribution to purchasing power through higher wages and increased employment. . . . On the score of excess profits taxes the main question is to devise a basis of taxation that will really hit excess profits and not those normal profits, already subject to large taxes, which are essential to the proper maintenance of industry. The Treasury's suggestion of a single formula for calculating excess profits, based on average rate of return on invested capital, would not accomplish this."

"In any time, the power to tax is the power to destroy. In these disordered times, that power, if misused, can be infinitely more destructive. If we tax the profit out of business, it will mean, in the long run, that we tax business out of business. It will mean that industry will no longer have the financial nourishment which is essential to keeping it alive. It will mean, therefore, a collapse of our productive capacity.

Congress' job is to raise the revenue we need without endangering the very life of productive industry. Congress must not fail.

Many an American mother who did not raise her boy to be a soldier has a son in the army.

Cotton, wheat and tobacco growers are isolated—they have lost their foreign market. So what?

Burkburnett History

As revealed by the files of The Star, 10 Years Ago.

Postmaster Vaught states that the present postoffice lease will expire on the last day of September, and at that time Burkburnett will receive new postoffice equipment.

Practically all business houses in Burkburnett have agreed to close Saturday, July 4th. The business men deserve this day off and by agreement to close being almost unanimous they will not lose anything by it. It is thought that those who did not sign the petition will decide to close after giving the matter due consideration rather than place themselves in position to be criticised.

Up to last night there has been 3720 bushels of oats and 41,913 bushels of wheat marketed in Burkburnett from this year's crop. The first wheat brought 40 cents but later the market dropped to 35 cents.

Monday afternoon the rooming house of Mrs. C. J. Clarkson on Fourth street caught fire and only the quick and efficient work of the fire department saved the building from being a total loss.

Many people of Burkburnett and vicinity are watching with interest the flight of Harold Gatty and Wiley Post, Oklahomans, who are making a round the world flight and landed in Moscow yesterday. C. T. Post, a cousin of the pilot, is employed at the A & P store here, and both were raised at Grand Saline, Texas.

Palmer Shores won the miniature golf tournament last Friday night at the White-A-While course by defeating Francis Felty in the finals.

Mrs. Jack Brown was brought home from the General Hospital at Wichita Falls Monday. Mrs. Brown recently underwent a major operation. She is reported to be recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Goodwin and daughter, Maurine, spent Sunday with relatives in Oklahoma City.

The ladies of the Current Literature club will hold a cake and pie sale Saturday morning between 9 and 11 o'clock at the White House Grocery and Market. This will be an excellent opportunity to buy some real home-made cakes and pies.

Capitalize On "Your Chance"

In Detroit, in 1932, an expressman drove up in front of a small frame house and delivered a five-gallon tin can. A man named H. Tom Collord signed for the package and opened it. He had ordered paint from a company in Boston. But when he opened the can, he found something that looked like milk. He smelled it; there was a smell like ammonia.

He was about to start upstairs to write the company to send for their can when he dipped a paint brush in it and emeared some of it on a plank. In an hour it had dried. Then he noticed the bristles of his brush were stiff. Collord was down to his last cent. He owed his landlord a lot of money, but he was determined to keep busy; so he had sent for the paint, and was going to try to introduce it to Detroit industry.

He painted some of this new mixture on a piece of fabric and then on a board. Accidentally he laid the rubber-treated fabric on top of the board. The two stuck together. Why did it stick? he asked himself.

He wrote the company in Biston, and they told him their shipping clerk had made a mistake and sent him five gallons of latex instead of paint. Collord didn't know what latex was. When he looked it up, he found it was the milk from a rubber tree.

When he found that the board and the patch of rubberf stuff, an idea was born in his mind. A few months before this, he had been in the Chrysler factory and had seen girls painting a rubber cement on cloth. Maybe this new stuff of his was better, he thought.

He went into action. He read, he asked questions, he investigated, he experimented. A month passed by. Two, three. He went back to the same factory and asked to see the man in charge. The man said, "I have never seen anything like this." Those seven words changed Collord's life.

He perfected his idea of applying rubber to wood and metal. He was not a scientist; knew nothing about chemistry or physics. But there were men who did know.

Well, the upshot of it is that he developed a brand new industry in America! He supplies a greater quantity of body trim cement and rubber-covered metal parts to the automobile industry than any other company in the world. In a single year the firm he founded turns out 25 to 40 million parts. He told me he had built and lined the longest plating tank in the world—162 feet.

H. Tom Collord has done a remarkable thing. Broke and out of a job, he capitalized on a bit of luck, caught a vision of the possibilities, and built a new industry. Had he lacked pluck and determination, he wouldn't have done that. Any day you may have luck, too. The important thing is what you do with your chance.

THE labor unions have made their demands upon the railways of the United States—and through the railways upon the PUBLIC. These demands are vastly larger in proportion than any they have ever made. The economical and efficient operation of the railways is vital to the nation's defense effort. Therefore, the Western Railways present to the public the following facts:

The labor unions representing engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen and switchmen are demanding a 30 per cent increase in wages, amounting to 190 million dollars a year—although their present rates of pay are the highest in history.

Other unions representing a greater number of railway employees are demanding wage increases ranging as high as 95 per cent—averaging 47 per cent—and amounting to 580 million dollars a year—although their present rates of pay also are the highest in history.

Thus the wage increases being demanded by the labor unions amount to 770 million dollars a year, an average increase in excess of 41 per cent.

In addition, certain of these labor unions have demanded advances in their pay not included in the above figures, and more rules for the creation of unnecessary jobs.

The situation, then, is this: The total cost of complying with all the demands made would be approximately 900 million dollars a year!

The average weekly earnings of railway employees are now 15 per cent higher than in the peak year 1929, while the cost of living is 12 per cent less.

The demands of the railway labor unions are being made when the entire nation has just been asked to make a supreme effort for National Defense.

The railways cannot meet these demands without a great increase in the cost of transportation. They exceed by more than 700 million dollars the income that the railways had left after paying their annual expenses, taxes and charges in 1940.

The railways have a vitally important job before them. They need all their resources to continue adequately to serve you and contribute effectively toward the National Defense Program.

WHEREAS, J. H. Brumley, a natural born citizen of these Good Old United States of America and a resident of a city noted for its wealth of flowing gold and good fellowship, situated on the South Bank of the Red River, in the Great, Free state of Texas, which has been under six flags and is now under a flour sack, known as Burkburnett; and, WHEREAS, the said J. H. Brumley, can beyond a reasonable doubt out-shoot, out-pit, and utterly defeat a certain man whose chief racket is robbing honest people by selling them unreasonably high priced insurance of a foreign town. This man comes from the House of Alexander and his front name is Burney Huland.

In consideration of the foregoing: the said J. H. Brumley, party of the first part, does without any reservations whatsoever, challenge the said B. H. Alexander Sr., party of the second part, to mortal combat on the Burkburnett Golf Course (the location of which is described in the opening paragraph of this letter) at 1:30 o'clock, Sunday afternoon, June 28, A.D. 1941. There and then to do battle until said B. H. Alexander, party of the second part does on his bended knees, beg for mercy and is willing to relinquish to the said J. H. Brumley, his place on the Golf Ladder, now on public exhibition in the Cannon Drug Store, together with a seventy-five cent golf ball, the brand of which to be named by the victor.

HEREIN FAIL NOT, but see that the body of B. H. Alexander, dead or alive, be delivered at the aforementioned Golf Club as the law provides. J. H. BRUMLEY, Given under my hand and seal this 24th day of June A.D. 1941 W. M. Green, Chief of Police, in and for the City of Burkburnett.

CATCHES "PREHISTORIC MONSTER" Catching of a twenty-five pound paddle fish, commonly, but erroneously called a shovellbill catfish, by H. F. Sims, an interior decorator of Electra, Texas, in Diversion Lake near Wichita Falls, not only created much comment in that part of the state, but caused considerable interesting data to be unearthed concerning this strange looking fish. The paddle, or snout of the paddlefish is shaped exactly like a duck's bill. The snout on the fish caught by Mr. Sims was fourteen inches long. The mouth was about six inches in diameter and the hooded gills made the head appear almost a foot wide. Paddlefish formerly were common, but due to the fact that their eggs are used as domestic caviar and that their flesh brings the highest premium on the eastern markets the species is becoming more rare each year, the executive secretary of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster commission points out. The flesh of the paddlefish, when smoked, tastes much like sturgeon. Too, the fish have no bones in their bodies, cartilage replacing bones. Paddlefish, along with gar, sturgeon and grindie, have survived all stages of evolution. Each is still shaped exactly as
