Have you made out your income tax report yet? If you have been reading the article "Your Income Tax" on this page the past few weeks you know by now whether or not you will have to file a return.

Are you among the hundreds of men who will have to register on February 16th? If you are between the age of 20 and 44 you will be included in the number.

The editor's brain is about like his pocket book this week—its empty. Since we are not having any brainstorms we're going to give you a few pointers for Texas Agriculture as put out by Texas A and M College.

About 45 cents of each dollar spent by consumers for food goes to the farmer. The remainder pays for processing and distribution.

Farmers do not need to get priorities for ordinary small farm structures which do not use critical materials. No priorities control is on lumber, concrete, stone, brick, glass and nails.

Liver contains a good supply of vitamin A, is rich in riboflavin, iron and phosphorus, and contains thiamin and nicotinic acid.

The million and one half men in uniform will absorb 312,000,000 pounds of wool, or about one third of the quantity being used in the United States this year.

Among the foods which are valuable sources of nicotinic acid are lean beef, corned beef, chicken, liver and rabbit. Lesser amounts are found in milk collards, kale, green peas, tomato juice, and turnip greens.

U. S. are now included in the boundaries of soil conservation districts.

Despite wartime reductions of shipping space, importation into the United States of purebred animals for breeding purposes increased 4,175 during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1941, as compared with the previous 12 months.

THE W. S. C. S. The W. S. C. S. of the Methodist Church met Monday with 3 women present. Mrs. E. C. Raney gave the devotional using John 17. Mrs. T. C. Wilson made a talk on "Holden Institute."

OIL AND GAS PLANTS TO COOPERATE IN PRODUCING AVIATION FUEL AND RUBBER

Successful carrying on of the nation's war effort will require maximum production of all grades of aviation fuel and synthetic rubber and all owners of plants producing products vital to their manufacture have been requested to give information as to the largest quantities of these products they can produce. N. C. McGowen, chairman of the Natural Gas and Natural Gasoline committee for Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama and New Mexico said following a meeting of this Committee in Houston.

"In order to assure the greatest possible production of all grades of aviation gasoline, and also production of synthetic rubber, it is essential that there be maximum production of those products which are necessary in their manufacture such as butane isobutane, and isopentane," Mr. McGowen stated.

"Existing and proposed natural gasoline extraction plants, cyclizing, pressure maintenance and repressuring plants are prime sources of butane, isobutane and isopentane and should be so constructed and operated as to facilitate the recovery of these elements in as large quantities as possible."

Owners of plants manufacturing these three components of aviation gasoline and synthetic rubber, whether as products or by products, are being requested to increase their production to the maximum quantity economically possible. Persons or companies planning new plants have been requested to design and construct these plants so as to make the greatest use of scarce materials and to provide for the efficient extraction of these vital elements.

Butane, Isobutanes, and Isopentanes are produced in liquid form and shipped to refineries making aviation gasoline where they are blended with gasoline refined from oil, the resulting product having an octane rating far above that of average motor fuel. The Committee has established offices at 801 Mellie Esperson Building, Houston, Texas, and has mailed questionnaires to all owners of plants in this district. It is expected that these questionnaires will be filled out and returned immediately so that the committee may have this information available for the office of Petroleum Coordinator for National Defense.

Your Federal Income Tax

Many people will be liable for filing income tax returns and paying of tax for the first time this year. The term "farmers" includes livestock raisers, fruit and truck growers, and operators of plantations and ranches. Farmers may maintain their records and file their returns of income on either the cash receipts and disbursements basis or on the accrual basis of accounting. A consistent method must, however, be employed. If a cash basis is used, Form 1040F, "Schedule of Farm Income and Expenses," is required to be filled out and filed in conjunction with Form 1040.

Deductions for expenses include such items as cost of feeding and raising livestock (except the value of farm produce grown upon the farm and the labor of the taxpayer); cost of seed, minor repairs to farm buildings (other than the dwelling of the farmer); small tools used up in the course of a year or two; fuel and oil used for farm work; repairs and maintenance of farm machinery; hired labors and hiring machines, and cost of commercial fertilizers the benefit of which is of short duration. The cost of farm machinery, equipment of farm buildings; amounts expended in the development of farms, orchards and ranches, as well as the amounts expended in the restoration of soil fertility preparatory to actual production of crops and the cost of liming soil to increase productivity over a period of years or capital expenditures. Losses incurred in the operation of farms as business enterprises are deductible from gross income. If livestock has been purchased for any purpose, and afterwards dies from disease, exposure or injury, or is killed by order of the authorities of a state or the United States, the actual purchase price of such livestock less any depreciation allowable as a deduction in respect of such perished livestock, may be deducted as a loss if the loss is not compensated for by insurance or otherwise. If gross income is ascertained by the use of inventories, no deduction can be taken separately for livestock or products lost during the year.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

Japanese Lose Heavily at Macassar When Dutch and U. S. Forces Unite; Compromise Price Control Passes; Additional Food Rationing Forecast

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed by these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper. (Released by Reuters Newspaper Column.)

There was no sightseeing for these Axis evacuees from South America as they went through the Panama Canal Zone to the United States. Part of the group of 111 persons, including seven German and seven Italian diplomats, are pictured debarking from the special train which carried them across the isthmus. Uncle Sam took no chances of any Axis sightseeing, which would have been possible had the passage been made by boat.

MACASSAR: First Victory

Americans had hailed the Battle of Macassar straits as the first definite American victory over the Japanese, worked out in conjunction with the indomitable Dutch.

The action amounted to the virtual trapping of a large Jap convoy in the straits, probably heading for a frontal assault on Java or Sumatra, and its virtual decimation with heavy losses in men and ships for the Nippon forces.

The fight lasted several days, and a number of Japanese warships were engaged by light American naval vessels including destroyers and submarines, and by considerable forces of airplanes.

One of the earliest ships sent to the bottom in the engagement was a Jap aircraft carrier, and if she was not sunk she was immobilized by a direct torpedo hit, and that meant she was useless as a carrier.

This meant instant air supremacy for the American-Dutch forces, and they went to work without mercy. One vessel after another was destroyed and as others were damaged and the Japs attempted to keep their convoy intact by slowing their pace to that of the slowest vessel, they were hopelessly trapped.

It apparently took more than six days for the Japs to negotiate the less than 500-mile journey through the straits, and the toll was upward of 31 vessels.

The engagement showed several things—first strong air reinforcements had arrived from the United States into the area, that they were being deployed effectively to prevent a further southward Japanese invasion of the East Indies; that American naval units, once at grips with the Japs, could give a good account of themselves; that the early toll of two ships a day could easily be enlarged to a steady amount of shipping an amount which the Japanese could not lose and continue their pace in the South Pacific.

PRICES: Bill Passed

The passage of the compromise price control bill, setting ceilings on 74 commodities, brought to a head a situation which now was in the hands of the government, namely inflation of the commodity prices.

From this point on it would be a criminal offense to sell anything above the ceiling price. The senate vote had been at a higher ratio than the house, 65 to 14. President Roosevelt had been expected to name Leon Henderson to the post of price administrator, set up in the bill.

Henderson had been doing what he could along this line from his OPACS office, and had been placed in the War Production board under Nelson.

All Henderson's previous work, wherever it did not conflict with the ceilings in the bill, immediately was validated, and became the law of the land, just as though congress itself had announced the ceilings.

Maximum penalties were one year in prison and a $5,000 fine for willful violations of the law.

A fight had been expected against Henderson on the grounds that the former administrator had been close to the President, who himself had been chief critic of the bill.

U-BOATS: Active in Atlantic

A constant succession of sinkings of American and allied vessels in the north Atlantic, many of them close to the coastlines, had revealed that U-boat activity was being pressed to the utmost.

The U. S. navy reports from the eastern ocean had been that their efforts were being redoubled, and that certain successes had been scored. The policy of not announcing U-boat sinkings was being followed, however.

LUZON: MacArthur's Fight

Though MacArthur's men were admittedly in a desperate position, it had become evident that he was getting at least some reinforcement, as his latest communique had told of American "fighter planes" and also of the work of PT boat squadrons in Subic Bay and at other points, probably near Corregidor.

But it had not been believed that MacArthur's army had any airplanes left, therefore his report that Curtis P-40 fighters had downed a number of Jap bombers led many to think that they might have been flown in there from a distant base.

How many of the Japanese estimated Luzon army of 300,000 was able to get at MacArthur's men in their tiny front on Bataan peninsula was a problem, as many of them naturally would have to be holding the rear and supply lines against constant harassment of guerrilla bands of Filipinos.

RATIONING: To Increase

Additional rationing was deemed a certainty, with the placing of sugar on a pound-a-week basis.

In fact, it was known that those who controlled the priorities were frowning even on some of the civilian defense activities.

Among these were the "indiscriminate knitting of sweaters" which was said to have a bearing on a possible shortage of wool.

Another was the selling of commodities in parcels when they could be otherwise packaged or sold in bulk. Among the list was baking powder, beer, biscuits, candy, confectionery, cereals and flour, chocolate and cocoa, coffee, dog food, petroleum products, spices and condiments and tobacco.

Shipbuilders were being asked to design their ships that they could use steel of the type needed for automobiles—somewhat narrower plating.

Leon Henderson would be in charge of retail rationing, and James S. Knowlton in charge of that which occurred in industrial quarters, it was announced.

RUSSIANS: Find Going Tougher

As the Russians announced that the "last live German" had been removed from Moscow province, and that the invaders in the Rzhev area were trapped and doomed, and as they swarmed ever closer to Smolensk, they reported that the Nazi resistance was growing stiffer.

This, the Red high command said, was to be expected, but they drew much cheer from the fact that one victory was following another still, and that the general tactical campaign was shaping up well.

One expert in Red tactics said much credit was being given to a new Russian system of putting fairly heavy artillery into the front line with the infantry.

This, he pointed out, was a bold procedure, but one which the Germans, with nothing heavier than trench mortars in the front line, were finding it difficult to combat.

The Russians have 46 mm. guns and some 76s in the front lines, and though they are not so mobile, they are even being handled by manpower when horses cannot be found to draw them.

These guns fire at point-blank range, and were given much credit in winning the battle of Mzhaisk, a heavily fortified point.

The death toll is terrific in warfare at 40 below zero. Correspondents at the front state that wounded die within 10 or 15 minutes unless kept immediately warm, as their wounds instantly freeze.

The Russians, however, being adept at life under such conditions are reportedly suffering much less than the ill-equipped and prepared Germans.

History's Future Course Hinges on U. S. War Aid

Deciding How American Fighting Materials Are to Be Divided on World's Battlefronts Is FDR's Grave Responsibility.

By BAUKHAGE National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1242 H Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

Washington has at last waked up to the solemnity of the task America has before it. Donald Nelson has begun his assignment of sweeping clean the Augean stables of the inefficiency and selfishness which block our defense production. But suddenly there is revealed a new responsibility which rests upon the President's shoulders, as great spiritually as Nelson's is materially.

On every front men are dying and armies and fleets are impotent for want of the sinews which America alone can forge. We can forge them; but how are we to decide how our aid shall be divided while, as yet, there is not enough for all?

That is the problem which the President and his advisors face today.

When Winston Churchill came to America at least one-half of his task was to convince President Roosevelt and the latter's military advisors that the main objective is the defeat of Hitler. That we must not permit the Nazi strategy of forcing Japan into the war to accomplish its aim—namely, to divert American supplies from Europe to the Far East and neglect the battle of the Atlantic for the battle of the Pacific.

Litvinoff's Purpose Had Same Objective

Soviet Ambassador Litvinoff came to Washington for a similar purpose. He had two powerful weapons, his own persuasiveness and the knowledge that he had something we want—possible Russian aid against Japan. This aid, if not in the form of actual Soviet military assistance, could mean at least permission to use Russian soil—Kamchatka, the nearest Asian land to the Aleutian islands, and perhaps even the Siberian port of Vladivostok—as bases of operation against Japan.

Although neither Roosevelt nor Churchill stated flatly for publication that one of the "public enemies No. 1" should be defeated first as against the others, certain lesser lights rushed into print with interpretations. Secretary Knox was much more specific. He said that "Hitler was the enemy who must be defeated first."

There was immediate and outspoken protest from the Chinese over making the Far East a secondary theater of war. Earnest and equally emphatic protest leaked through behind closed doors—objections by the Australian and Dutch ministers.

The feeling was so evident that there were questions at a White House press and radio conference. The President answered in general terms, said he couldn't reveal military secrets but that if we looked at a map of the world he thought we would find that American aid ("supplies" or "manpower") were "there." I can't describe his tone or the atmosphere but my own inference was that America was deeper in things, or on the way to more active participation in military activity at many points than most laymen guessed.

That same day, Lieutenant-Governor General Van Mook of the Netherlands Indies had left the White House saying that the President had encouraged him, that he felt more optimistic.

The President agreed that this was the impression he had tried to give and added that America was making real progress in strengthening the defense of the United Nations.

Goebbels Can See Only the Surface

The day that the Japanese propagandists boasted that Singapore's days were numbered and that Maj. Gen. Gordon Bennett, in charge of the Australian forces in Malaya said that the situation was serious, Senator Connally, chairman of the foreign relations committee, called a press conference. Senator Connally had always favored war against Germany. But at this conference he said:

"Great Britain is in the Atlantic and with her navy ought to be able to command that area. We're more vulnerable in the Pacific."

In Berlin, Propaganda Minister Goebbels probably smiled his cynical smile. Truly this looked like the dissension which has been the Nazis' favorite ally.

But Herr Goebbels fortunately can see only the surface. Underneath there is a realistic policy being pursued which is based on certain facts. No one can predict the fortunes of war, but the picture as the persons in responsible position here see it looks something like this:

It is generally believed that the stories of violent dissension between the Nazis and the German High Command are largely party propaganda. In any case there is no evidence of a serious internal breakdown in Germany.

The Nazi invasion of Russia has failed of its two objectives: First, destruction of the Red army as a fighting unit. Second, the capture of large quantities of supplies such as oil and foodstuffs. The German losses have been heavy. Nevertheless, the German military machine is intact, and it still has oil and supplies for at least a year.

On the other hand, although the Russians have made a masterly defense and are conducting a successful counter-offensive, they have regained little more than one-tenth of the ground the Germans captured. There is no evidence that any permanent German winter line has been cracked.

This means that a German offensive is still possible in the spring and since Russia is exhausting her supplies it is doubtful if she will be either willing or able to attack Japan from Siberia.

In the Far East, Singapore has been the hot spot from the time the Japanese established their superior air power in the western Pacific. From then on, Singapore was no longer valuable as a base because its docks were no longer safe from air attack. Military men said from the first, however, that as long as it stood, it had a powerful nuisance value for it immobilized Japanese air, sea and land power and prevented successful invasion of the Netherlands Indies, or at least the key island of Java. Even if it fell, they said, that did not mean that the defense line of the United Nations based on Java would crumble.

As a result of this overall picture, those in charge of getting aid to the United Nations have worked out this division of supplies:

Continue to send to Europe (Britain and Russia) the amount of supplies which she has been receiving.

Send the increased production to the South Pacific. Reinforcements are now arriving in the Pacific in greater numbers. As the tide of battle changes it will rest with the President and his advisors to make the choice of where and in what volume America's contributions to the defense of democracy shall go. On the wisdom of this choice will depend the future course of history.

Radio Censorship And News Casting

Sometimes the radio commentator grows very wrath at those who steer the censorship of state. Recently into every broadcasting station which has a news service came a dispatch telling of the crippling of an American ship by a submarine off the coast of North Carolina. It was official. The censor had passed it for publication but NOT for radio.

Immediately, as president of the Radio Correspondents' association, I was stormed by colleagues demanding that I protest at such discrimination. But the decree was logical. If we had broadcast that the crippled ship was putting into port, the submarine could have picked up the message and pursued and perhaps caught its limping prey.

Next morning, when the papers came out with the story the battered ship was safe in harbor. It isn't likely that the submarine commander gets the morning papers.

What irked me as a commentator far more than this incident was my inability to tell you Washington's little secret of how spring came to the capital in January. I couldn't say anything about it at the time, because that might have helped the enemy, too. Now that it can be told, it doesn't seem so interesting. In fact it seems improbable.

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

More than 2,000,000 acres of land scattered from Alaska to Florida have been made available by the United States department of the interior for national defense activities in the United States.

It has been said that America has become a tired, footless nation. If so, it won't last. With autos rationed few will be tired and then we'll have to use our feet.

While the house and senate fought over the painful questions of ceilings for farm and other prices, the Washington press and radio corps had some problems of their own. Byron Price had been named censor and had issued his instructions. A reporter observed: "The rest of the country may not have it but at least the press has its price control!"

Honeymoon

By JOSEPH M. GORD

WHLI Service

As soon as Vince left the room, Larry said soberly to Jacqueline: "I'm not going to interfere with things too much. But as soon as you shake that job of yours . . . next week, to be exact . . . you're going to start being Mrs. Larrimore H. Cutter in the right fashion. Until we know about this Jacobs affair, we'll find a furnished apartment for the time being. Why don't you begin now by putting on your ring? It will save announcements."

Jack's eyes twinkled wickedly. "I haven't got it."

"Where is it?"

"Down in the Second National Bank."

"Of all things! Saving it for evidence, were you?"

"Exactly. It's in my hopeless chest along with the contract, our marriage certificate and some beautiful but worthless stock certificates."

"Tear 'em all up . . . except the ring and the wedding document. The one the clerk wrote . . . not mine."

"Larry . . . I'll have to tell you something. I almost forgot. It's about those stock certificates. I bought them at Mr. Jacobs' urging. They were to make me rich."

"What! Larry almost shouted. "Do you mean to tell me that old curmudgeon got into you! Now I do have it in for him! For how much did he nick you?"

"For about all I had . . ."

"I'll take it out of his hide," Larry promised. "Don't worry."

"But, Larry . . ."

"Don't go standing up for him. He isn't worth any pity."

"But, don't you see? I never thought of it myself . . ." Jacqueline appeared somewhat panic-stricken. "If it hadn't been for Mr. Jacobs . . ."

Comprehension dawned in Larry's dark eyes.

"Ah, I see! You were broke. All through the evil advice of the old villain in the piece. Own up, now! That's why you took me on, wasn't it?"

Jacqueline's cheeks flamed. She had intended to tell Larry all about . . . everything. But to hear it stated in that bald fashion was almost too much. Her head came up gallantly.

"It had something to do with it, Larry."

"Darling! As if it made any difference! I told you that fate was in it all. I believe it more than ever now."

"Larry . . ." She came close to him. "Are you really happy? Do you truly love me?"

"On my sacred honor, Mrs. Cutter. Shall I demonstrate?"

"No! Just wait a minute until I wash my face. We're late now!"

CHAPTER XVI

Announcing her intention of leaving the Rayneer proved to be a more difficult task than Jacqueline anticipated. She would miss her little office, miss the pleasant acquaintances, the activity of the lobby. Fortunately, she knew a competent stenographer who would like her job. She would recommend the girl to Mr. Potter. That might make him more willing to let her go. Otherwise, it would be just like Larry to take matters into his own hands.

Archibald Potter was genuinely amazed when Jacqueline walked into his office and explained that she must leave the first of the week.

Archibald elevated his brows quizzically. "You are extremely fortunate, Miss Anthony, that your investments are allowing you to retire so early. We shall miss you greatly."

"Oh, it isn't that . . ." She broke off in rosy confusion.

"No?" Archibald queried. His fingers played with the carnation in his buttonhole. "When is the wedding?"

Jacqueline surrendered with a laugh. "I can't tell you the date," she evaded. "It's a secret. But I'd rather no one knew . . . Do you mind?"

"You can trust me. But you must let me wish you and the fortunate young man every happiness."

"Thank you."

That much was settled. The main thing was to keep the Rayneer staff, particularly Virgie Blake, in darkness as to the resignation.

Larry's shoulder was doing nicely now. He was very busy, spending much time in conference with his lawyers. He had little to say about the progress they were making, only that "things were moving along."

That was his excuse for turning the house hunting over to his wife. Larry proposed that she select a furnished apartment for the time being. He didn't care where it was, so long as it was roomy and "nice."

Quite to her consternation, he took her to his own bank and introduced her to a teller. She was given a small check book and a deposit book which indicated that Mrs. Jacqueline Cutter's account was in the amount of ten thousand dollars.

"Thought you could get away with it, didn't you?" Larry jibed.

"Try to get any of this," she retorted saucily.

Jacqueline finally selected an apartment with five rooms in a new and lofty building not far from Courtland street. She was quite overawed with its seeming magnificence and rather fearful when she took her husband to inspect it one evening.

"Not very big," was his comment, "but it'll do, if it suits you. I want to get away from the hotel."

"Don't you like it any more?" she asked demurely.

"No. It gives me the willies every time I pass through the lobby and see that other dame in your little office. Makes me feel like throwing her out. And your cigar peddling friend was asking me about you yesterday. She seems all broken up because you disappeared without saying good-by."

"Poor Virgie. I must run in and say hello to her. You didn't explain?"

"Who? Me? I told her I had been on the point of asking the management where you were. She gave me a dirty look for that . . . thinking of Alma, my blonde, of course."

"Are you sure you weren't?"

"No. I was thinking of my wife. You haven't so much to move, have you?"

"Just my clothes . . . and a few other things."

"Send them over in the morning. Tomorrow night the Cutters will be in their own home. Please . . . Jack?"

"Yes . . ."

The first Sunday afternoon in the new home took the nature of a housewarming, with Vince as guest.

right, her eyes shining. "Am I going to cross the ocean! Am I!"

"Unless you can think of some other place for a honeymoon. We haven't had one yet, you know."

"I can hardly believe it," she breathed. "It's too wonderful!"

"And, after we come back, I think we'll find ourselves owning old Fairlawn. I've always dreamed of living there again . . . and now, I'll have someone to share it with me. One bad memory won't spoil it for you, will it, dear?"

"Oh, I'd love it, Larry. I've wanted to live there ever since I saw it that first time in the moonlight. I was planting roses around those old pillars when that man scared me."

"Then we'll have roses," Larry declared. "Vince, you'd better plan to voyage with us. How about it?"

Vince wriggled uncomfortably in his chair.

"No . . . I guess not. Thank you, just the same."

"Too busy on the invention? Heard anything?"

"Yes . . ." Vince cleared his throat. "Hate to tell you, Larry . . . but somebody else beat me to that thing . . . five years ago."

Larry threw his head back and laughed. "Excuse me, Vince," he apologized. "That sounded so tragic. You'll have to come along now, while you're thinking up another."

Vince shifted his position again. "No. I think I'm through inventing . . . I've always wanted to take up farming. I guess, maybe, I will."

"Thinking of buying a farm? That's fine."

"Well . . . not exactly. You see I . . ."

"It's Mother Brown, eh?"

"Well . . ."

"Jack," Larry said with a grin. "Vince and Mrs. Brown have been carrying on a shameless romance ever since I sent him up there from the hospital. That's what he's trying to tell you."

"Oh, Vince!"

"Well, maybe . . ."

Jacqueline flew to her father's side and flung her arms about him. "I think that's wonderful! Please . . . please, be very happy!"

"Sure, sure . . . and I think I'd better be starting back."

"Car all right, Vince?" Larry inquired.

"Why, yes."

"Then you'd better keep it. You'll need it. We'll pick up another one when we get back."

"Thanks!"

After Vince went, Larry laid more wood on the fire, then drew Jacqueline back to a seat on the couch. They sat for a time, gazing into the flames, busied with their thoughts.

"That ring gives me a lot of satisfaction, Mrs. Cutter. Now I know I'm not dreaming."

"Are you sure?"

"Positive. Did you do what I told you with that contract?"

"No, Mr. Cutter. It's in my dressing table."

"Get it, will you?"

When she complied, Larry studied it thoughtfully in the flickering light. You must have thought me mad, didn't you, Jack?"

"No. Wonderful!" She leaned closer to look at the paper. "Do you remember how you made the dotted line with your pen so I could sign, too?"

"Yes, you blessed little trump!" He held the paper aloft, grasping two corners between thumbs and forefingers.

"Here she goes, Mrs. Cutter. Okay?"

"Okay, darling."

The sound of paper. Torn.

[THE END]

Becoming an American

Within the last six years more than one million persons cut their last ties with the "old country" and became citizens of the United States. And now, with America at war, there is a rush to be American. Nor is there anything difficult about attaining citizenship in the U. S. The following series of photos shows you some of the steps taken by the foreign-born in becoming American.

Awaiting their turn to file first papers in one of the ante rooms of the naturalization bureau. Many of these applicants have known oppression and are eager to cut ties with the past.

RSVP—This huge pile of applications is only a small part of the year's total. The girl is sorting them for further action.

A courtroom scene during the naturalization of a group of applicants. The judge (back to camera) is administering the oath of allegiance to the United States of America.

Last step. Accompanied by two witnesses, an applicant for naturalization is shown taking the oath at time of filing petition for citizenship. This is the application for the final papers.

A veritable tower of babel is this room of a naturalization bureau, where skilled linguists question the applicants.

PATTERNS

SEWING CIRCLE

DO YOU like to sew? Then here is a grand new pattern to try your talents on—an apron which is as simple to make as ABC! Pattern No. 1518-B shows too, an apron which is different, slenderizing, unusually becoming and as efficient as a modern kitchen! The shoulder straps continue as side panels and end as good sized, properly placed pockets—and the side panels are so shaped that they give a wonderfully slenderizing effect right where you want it most—at the waistline!

Side sashes hold the apron firm across the front, tie smartly in back. The straps stay up because they are fastened directly in back and the wide side pieces give your dress full protection.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1518-B is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 42, 44, and 46. Corresponding bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 (34) requires 2 yards 35-inch material, 5 yards trimming—tie-rac or bias fold. Send your order to:

Sophmore News--

Hi! Folks!
Here we are again to bring you some of the latest news.

The Sophmores are taking a great part in trying to make the annual a success. Most all of us are buying one and are looking very pretty for some of the pictures they are taking.

What if????
Mara Lee and Latrice could play Pierce and Lester in tennis? Rodney had got the tractor cranked?

Delmar didn't have to throw away his gum in Algebra?
Kathryn and Phanette, didn't fight all the time?

Your old reporter has just ran out of soap so until next week good-bye.

Band News

Oh, why has Mr. Corse been bothering the annual staff, well it's this way! They have a picture of him that is really very good, but he doesn't think so, in fact, in his opinion, its awful. If you really want to see the picture just look in an annual it is really very good.

The band's second overture "Two Admirals" has arrived. If you hear any weird sounds coming out of the band hall, it will probably be just sectional practice on our overture. It is pretty hard.

The band is entering a number in the Senior amateur hour. The "Five Sneezes" that's what they are, and we have no doubt that they'll win the prize.

The band is disappointed because we won't be able to go to the contest on the bus, but we hope to get enough cars.

BETTER CREAM WOULD MEAN $700,000 ADDED INCOME TO TEXAS FARMERS SAYS EXPERT

Texas farmers can enhance their income by approximately $700,000 during the coming year from the sale of cream alone merely by producing butterfat of a quality that will make high grade butter, it is estimated by Dr. N. W. Hepburn, nationally known dairy authority.

Dr. Hepburn states that not infrequently butter made from the highest quality butterfat brings three cents a pound over the price at which butter made from ordinary butterfat is sold. If it is only brought two cents a pound more, this would be roughly equivalent to an added yearly income of $727,480 for the 71,877 cream producing farms in this state.

Quite apart from the fact that the farmer can benefit financially by producing better cream for butter making, he will also be cooperating with the government in its all-out drive for the nourishing foodstuffs for the Army, Navy and civilian population, according to Dr. Hepburn. Outdated methods of production no longer yield cream coming up to the high standards of quality set by the revised federal food and drug act. The new regulations require government agents to seize and destroy unfit cream, to make certain that it will not be made into butter. The same regulations also place on butter-making establishments the responsibility of making no purchases of sub-standard cream under penalty of having the finished butter condemned.

Whether butter is high grade or just ordinary or even poor depends almost entirely on the care given the original cream on the farm, Dr. Hepburn states. Just what constitutes good care is well known and may be summarized as follows: 1. Clean cows, clean milking, clean utensils. 2. Immediate cooling of the cream and then keeping it cool as long as it remains on the farm. 3. Delivery of the cream often enough to insure its arrival at the market in good condition. Farmers wishing helpful information on proper care of cream should consult their local cream buyer, creamery, or state agricultural college.

Dr. Hepburn gives this cold weather hint to farmers: In order to separate cream efficiently in winter the separator bowl must be warm, and the most effective way of getting the parts warm is to run boiling water through the machine just before separating. This practice will at once prevent excessive loss of butterfat in the skim milk and lengthen the life of the separator. Tests made by Dr. P.-R. Theophilus, of the department of dairy husbandry of the University of Idaho, proved that butterfat losses in a separator unwashed for four days were 15 times as high as in a separator cleaned and sterilized after each separation.

Pontiac Motor Wins Navy "E" Award

Pontiac Motor Division of General Motors Corporation is the first automobile manufacturer to win the coveted Navy "E" pennant—contested for by units of the United States fleet since 1906—for exceeding production schedules on production of weapons for the Navy.

The pennant and the Naval Ordnance flag were presented to Pontiac's General Manager, Harry J. Kingler (right), by Rear Admiral John Downes, commandant of the Ninth Naval District. So that no working time would be lost a simple ceremony was timed to take place between shifts at the Pontiac plant, now working 24 hours a day. Pontiac soon will begin production in another completely new plant also devoted entirely to Naval ordnance.

Methodist Church

So says Dr. Roy L. Smith, Editor of the Christian Advocate: "A man's patriotism, like his piety, is not to be judged by the amount of talking he does." "Keeping the best and holiest things of life safe is the highest patriotism." "A quarrelsome church wins very few converts." "Almost any preacher will preach better sermons if the church is filled." Much damage has been done to the good cause of religion by people who are ignorantly sincere.

Let the public be ware. The patriotic and public spirited citizen who desires to do his bit in any time like these is confronted with a grave danger in regard to his benevolences. In every period of history like this there will arise many organizations professing to serve the soldiers and administer war and all other kinds of sufferers. The people who are to give are somewhat as they are during the Christmas season, they are soft, mellow, and are in the giving spirit due to the urgency of the times.

Some of the organizations called on the public are sincere and worthy of what one has to contribute and may contribute but there are others that are no more than rackets, designed only for those working them. Another is one that may be worthy but its management is too poorly qualified for its work that hard earned money should be held.

If a legally appointed representative of the Red Cross, YM or YCA calls he should have our sincere consideration. These are well known and while some who have been connected with these in some way have not always been true to their badges of service, yet the purpose of the management is to serve with out gain to the agents or the organization.

Most of the leading churches have special relief commissions to administer to the needs of emergency situations. And their membership should see that all the demands of such commissions are filled before they contribute to other bodies.

The Methodist church has such work on and the overhead is almost negligible as those working at it and get their pay in connection with other work. It is not enough to give but one needs to know that what he gives will go where he means for his gift to go.

Next Sunday is Race Relations day and we hope that we can get some of the irregulars to join the regulars in church attendance. Church school last Sunday and church services were both well attended but the absentees are always a concern to the church. Are they or their sick, is there trouble some way which holds people home, are they gone away for some reasons, or are they losing interest, and rather be somewhere else than at their church?

Community Singing will be held Sunday at the Methodist Church beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

Invitation to Dinner—Tasty Onion Soup

(See Recipes Below)

Let's Serve Soup

Something hot, something to warm up the system and something to stir the appetite into action so it can enjoy the meal itself—this is soup. Good companion to a dinner on cool nights or main dish for a luncheon, this is the reputation soup has acquired. So give a lift to your meals and get the appetites off to a brisk start. These savory soup recipes will help you:

*Onion Soup. (Serves 4 to 6) 2 slices bacon, cubed 4 sweet Spanish onions 2 tablespoons flour 1 quart milk Salt and pepper Stale bread Grated American cheese

Fry cubed bacon slowly over low heat, stirring constantly until fat is extracted. Lift out crisp bacon bits and set aside. Place thinly sliced onions in pan with some of the bacon fat and saute until clear and tender. Sprinkle flour over onions, blend, add milk and crisp bacon. Stir constantly over direct heat or cook in double boiler until soup thickens slightly. Season with salt and pepper. Serve in soup plates with croutons made by toasting stale bread in oven. Sprinkle grated cheese over bread just before serving.

Flavor's the important thing in soup, and you'll know just to what extent when you try: Split Pea Soup. (Serves 6 to 8) 1 cup dried split peas 2 quarts cold water Ham bone with a little meat on it 1/2 small onion Salt and pepper

Soak peas overnight, drain and cover with the cold water. Heat to boiling point, add onion and ham bone. Simmer 2 to 3 hours or until tender. Remove ham bone and season. Serve with crisp toast. If you're having a rather heavy meal and are considering omitting the soup, don't forego the pleasure of having a light, clear soup because it's just the thing for heartier meals. Here's a soup that can be made in advance and heated just before serving. Its excellent flavor is inspired by a careful combination of seasonings.

Clear Tomato Soup. (Serves 6 to 8) 1 quart brown soup stock 1 can tomatoes 1/2 teaspoon peppercorns 1 small bayleaf 3 cloves 3 sprigs thyme 4 tablespoons butter 2 sprigs parsley 1/4 cup each onion, carrot, celery 1/4 cup raw ham, diced Salt and pepper Cook onion, carrot, celery and ham in butter 5 minutes. Add tomatoes, peppercorns, bayleaf, cloves, thyme and parsley. Cover and cook slowly 1 hour. Strain carefully, add hot stock and season with:

Lynn Says: Good soups deserve attractive accompaniments. Here are some popular ideas: Thin slices of lemon, chopped parsley, thin slices of avocado, slightly salted whipped cream, toasted almonds.

In the bread line you can really do a lot of tricks, such as cutting the bread into fancy shapes with a cookie cutter, then toasting and sprinkling on soup before serving. Rings (made with doughnut cutter), animal shapes, hearts, stars and diamonds are popular. Cheese sticks are good too and are made by sprinkling grated cheese on bread strips, broiled and served hot. Chopped chives or chopped parsley either by themselves or sprinkled over the salted whipped cream add color to soup platters.

This Week's Menu

*Onion Soup Baked Potatoes Julienned Beets Cloverleaf Rolls, Butter and Jam Orange-Pineapple Salad Chocolate Peppermint Tarts Coffee Tea Milk *Recipe Given.

Chicken Bouillon. (Serves 8) 3 to 4 pound stewing chicken 2 chicken feet 3 to 4 quarts boiling water 3 stalks celery or 1/4 cup diced celery root 1 onion, sliced Salt and pepper Nutmeg

Clean chicken and cut into small pieces. Scald chicken feet. Skin and remove nails. Pour boiling water over chicken, feet, celery and onion. Cover and simmer about 3 1/2 hours. Remove chicken, strain stock and season. The chicken may be used creamed, in casseroles or wherever cut, cooked chicken is called for. Lentil soup has long been among the high-ranking favorites. Because it has substance such as the lentils themselves, meat or even sausage, it's excellent served as a main dish, especially for Sunday night suppers:

Lentil Soup. (Serves 6 to 8) 2 cups lentils 3 quarts cold water 2 pounds brisket of beef or ham bone 1 stalk celery, diced 2 onions, cubed 2 tablespoons fat 2 tablespoons flour Salt and pepper

Pick over lentils, wash, and soak overnight in cold water. Drain, cover with cold water, and cook with the meat for 1 1/2 hours. Add celery and onion and cook for 2 hours. Blend melted fat and flour, season, then add 1/2 cups stock and cook until thick. Add rest of stock and serve with a slice of rye bread, sprinkled with cheese and toasted until the cheese is melted. Lentil soup is good also with smoked sausage or frankfurters in place of the meat listed above.

Another good soup that makes a meal in itself is this: Deep sea oysters are especially flavorful for this: Oyster Bisque. (Serves 6) 1 pint oysters 1 1/2 cups water Salt and pepper 2 cups milk 1/2 cup dry bread crumbs 1 tablespoon butter 1 onion, chopped fine 1 stalk celery, chopped fine 1 sprig parsley, chopped fine

Cook oysters in their own water and liquor until they curl. Add onion, celery, parsley and simmer gently for 20 minutes. Seald milk, add bread crumbs and cook for 15 minutes in double boiler. Put mixture through a sieve. Melt butter, blend in flour and seasonings. Add milk and crumb mixture. Rub oysters through a sieve and add to milk mixture. Serve with soda crackers.

Quick soups may be concocted from cans. Here are some combinations guaranteed to please: 1 can tomato soup, 1 can pea soup 1 can tomato soup, 1 can chicken soup 1 can chicken soup, 1 can celery soup 1 can consommé, 1 can tomato juice 1 can chicken soup, 1 can mushroom soup 1 can tomato soup, 1 can asparagus soup 1 can mushroom soup, 1 can chicken broth

A BUSY SABBATH IN CAPERNAUM

LESSON TEXT—Mark 1:21-34. GOLDEN TEXT—I was in the Spirit on the Lord's day.—Revelation 1:10.

The Sabbath of the Jew and the Lord's Day (Sunday) of the Christian were both intended to be days of rest. The ordinary activities of life were to cease and one was to be free to worship and to rest. The manner in which a man uses this God-given day of rest is a remarkable accurate indicator of his spiritual condition.

We have before us the account of a very busy Sabbath day which our Lord spent in Capernaum, the city in which most of His mighty works were done, but which ignored Him and His teaching to its own destruction (see Matt. 11:23, 24). As we look at our Lord's activity on that day we learn what we may do with our Sundays to make them bear fruit for eternity. We find Him in three places.

I. In the Church (vv. 21-26).

The Sabbath day found our Lord with His people in the synagogue, their place of worship. The service of worship was probably formal and lacking in spiritual vitality, but nonetheless He was there. What have we to say if we miss the opportunity for fellowship and service which church attendance brings us?

Observe that because He was there He (as a distinguished religious teacher) was called upon to teach the people. He taught them in the serene consciousness of His divine authority, and the people were delighted and astonished at His message. We may not serve exactly as He did, but if we present ourselves in God's house on His day we will find the way opening for us to share in the worship.

Jesus not only spoke, but He performed a miracle. Certain it is that we could not do what He did, but we can be ready to give ourselves in service as well as in worship, or in speaking. There is much work to be done in the church, and God's people should be ready and willing to do it.

II. In the Home (vv. 29-31).

From the synagogue Christ went into the home. How appropriate! We too should go from the church to the home, always bringing with us the strength and blessing of the worship service.

The daughter of a great preacher and Bible teacher said the thing she most loved in her father was that he did not give out the "cream" of his Christianity in his meetings and bring home the "skim milk." Too often we fall to bring into the home the power and beauty of the service in the church. We who have been very sweet and spiritual in the church should not come home to be sour and crabbed.

Jesus brought a blessing into Peter's home, miraculously healing his mother-in-law of a great fever, setting her free to serve. Here, again we cannot do what He did, but we can, in His name, bring power and blessing into our homes.

III. In the City (vv. 32-34).

From the home the ministry of Jesus reached out to the entire city. As the strict laws forbidding travel on the Jewish Sabbath were set aside by the coming of sundown, not only the city but the entire countryside brought their sick and needy to Him.

The scene staggers the imagination as one attempts to conceive of this coming together of troubled humanity to the Master's touch. Mark tells us that He healed many; Matthew, that He healed all, and Luke, the physician, is emphatic in saying that He healed every one of them.

We may learn from this incident that our Christian faith, which has been developed and strengthened by our time of worship and service in the church, should not only reflect itself in the home, but should reach out into the life of the community in which we live. The primary interest of the Christian in his city or the place of his residence should be spiritual, a desire to bring to bear upon the people of the community the power of the gospel.

There is, however, a secondary responsibility which is of much importance and that is the extending of Christian influence into every phase of school, social, political, and business life. It is said that when D. L. Moody came into a barber shop the entire course of the conversation changed. The Christian should have an influence on problems of social welfare, the work of the public schools, the proper conduct of business in the community, and surely upon its political life. It is said that if every Christian in America would vote according to his professed convictions we could put the saloons out of business in a single election. Why not do it?

Pomp and Ceremony

Nearly Floored Schuab

At a meeting of the British Iron and Steel Institute, Charles M. Schwab was presented with the Bessemer medal. It was a solemn affair, marked by much formality. Before introducing each speaker, the toastmaster intoned: "Mr. President, your Excellencies, my noble Lords and gentlemen—"

The guest of honor was accustomed to American business methods, but not to such ceremony. When called upon to speak, Mr. Schwab repeated: "Mr. President, your Excellencies, my noble Lords and gentlemen—" Then mopping his brow, he exclaimed: "Whew, I'm glad that's over. Back home I would just say, 'Well, boys—'"
