It is planned that this will be on a continuing basis.

The ambulance building, located on the grounds of Collingsworth General Hospital, was built largely with volunteer labor.

C-C Awards for Service Given

There is a four-fold philosophy, which includes the physical, mental, social and spiritual, by which both individuals and towns can grow, industrial developer Keith Winter told a Chamber of Commerce banquet audience that crowded the 400 mark Monday night, February 12.

Guests from Massachusetts to California were present, but a majority were from the Southeast Panhandle, when the 37-year-old speaker told what Wellington means to him, and then set forth some solid suggestions its leaders may use in its development.

It was the first time a native son has come home to address the C-C banquet.

Preceding Mr. Winter's talk, four awards were presented, two of them not announced previously.

To dainty Helen Marie Patterson, wife of Kenneth Patterson, went the award for the most courteous sales person. She fought back tears as her former employer, Sandy Parsons, made the presentation. Mrs. Patterson is the youngest person to receive this traditional award. She is now in the office of O'Hair Plumbing.

County Judge Zook Thomas almost missed receiving his own award - that for Outstanding Community Service. In the early part of the dinner

LETTERS from the People

Dear Mr. Wells,

We always enjoy reading your column, and recently noted your mention of flying from Lubbock to Amarillo, and the description of Palo Duro Canyon.

My husband had a recent occasion to fly from Las Vegas to Dallas on a bright, clear, winter morning. They took off with the sun over beautiful, blue Lake Mead and the impressive Hoover Dam; then over the length of the majestic Grand Canyon, which was filled with early-morning clouds, making it appear to be brimming with snow. Then over Albuquerque, the rosy-red Sandies, and Conchas Dam.

Past Amarillo and Canyon, the captain of the plane, who had been pointing out these passing landmarks, stepped back into the cabin with the passengers. Noticing my husband's obvious interest in the landscape below, he then informed him, "Now, there's nothing else down there between here and Dallas."

"What do you mean, nothing? That's my home down there!" Spencer then proceeded to show him the outline of the Cap Rock, the new Greenbelt Dam, the river bridge north of Quail, the town of Wellington, and other points of interest to him!

There must be a moral in there somewhere ..... Perhaps, "Beauty is in the eye of the beholder." Or, perhaps, as I occasionally am moved to remind my husband of that old-fashioned truism, "You can take the boy out of the country, but you can't take the country out of the boy."

Best wishes for your recovering health.

Most of your phone system is invisible. However, your phone company is not.

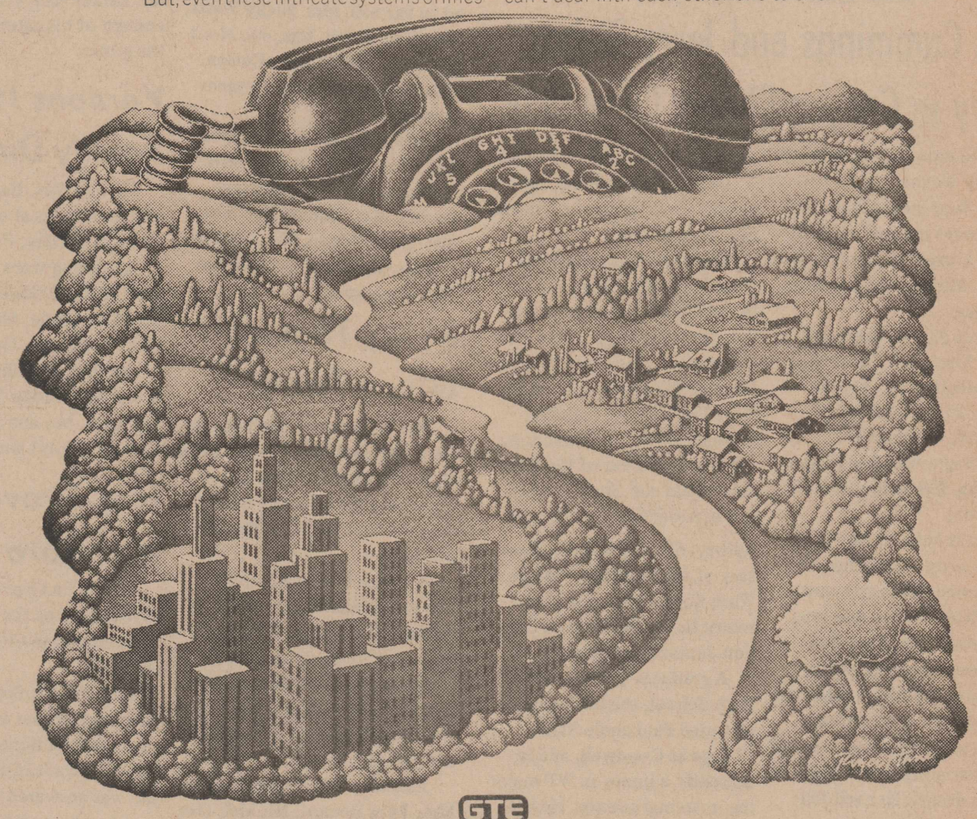

You never see the complicated electro-mechanical gear that makes your phone work. For example, we have machines that periodically check every line.

They look for trouble even when there isn't any. It's one form of automated preventive medicine we use to keep your phone ready to use when you need it.

But, even these intricate systems of lines and devices are just a part of our operation.

We're mainly people. Thousands of us dedicated to service. For every one of us that you see there are 8 others doing the behind-the-scene jobs that keep your phone buzzing.

We are all committed to our "One-to-One" service policy. So, even though you may not see us all face to face doesn't mean we can't deal with each other one to one.

Small Helped Save Famed Austin Hotel

When the famous and the powerful in Texas gathered at the gala marking the reopening of the historic Driskill Hotel February 10 and 11, a former Wellington man was especially interested.

C.C. Small, Jr., Austin attorney, and a member of a pioneer Collingsworth family was one of the small group that saved the 87 year old hotel from being demolished after it was closed in 1969. Now that it is open again, Mr. and Mrs. Small have sold their home in Austin to take an apartment in the Driskill, friends here said.

The formal reopening, with tickets for the grand ball selling for up to $100 a piece, was sponsored by the Austin Heritage Society.

The reopening comes after a publicly-owned company, headed by R. Max Brooks, rebuilt part of the old building and renovated the rest. The new hotel is operated for the company by Braniff International Airlines.

The refurnished rooms include the Grand Ballroom, the Maximilian Room with its famed mirrors, the marble mezzanine and the ornate Jim Hogg Suite.

Perhaps more history has been made in the Driskill than in any other hotel in Texas.

Lyndon B. Johnson used it often as a state campaign headquarters, and while he was president of the United States, the Driskill housed the traveling press, the White House press briefings were often held there.

Chili Supper Raises $370 for Satellite Center

The response to the Satellite Center's Groundhog Day Chili and Bean Supper was so fine immediate needs to supplement the budget will be met. For the co-operation of the many local citizens, the students and instructors and aide of the Satellite Center are grateful. The members of the Collingsworth County Board of Human Development echoe this appreciation too.

Many compliments were exchanged on the food whose ticket count came to about $370.00. It is believed that more than $250 was netted.

Although several clubs make monthly contributions to the Satellite Center, the monthly budget is sometimes victim of unforeseen necessities. It is for such that the other citizens are looked to for help. As time goes by, more and more people are finding ways which they as individuals or as groups can share time and/or talent with the Satellite Center. Each hour and each dollar donated are spent wisely. The previous fund-raising project of the Satellite Center was a concession stand at the County Fair.

Firemen Attend Zone Meeting

Three members of the Wellington Volunteer Fire Department attended the zone meeting held in Friona Saturday, February 3.

These were Buster Hughs, president of the Panhandle Firemen's Association; Jim Sikes and Bob Watson.

A highlight of the meeting was the open house for the new $50,000 Friona Fire Station.

Roland Black of Canyon, vice president of the association, presided.

The topic of discussion was "Certification of the Volunteer Fireman's Training Program."

The purpose of this program is to improve the training and efficiency of the Volunteer,thereby reducing the fire loss to the community, which in turn will save money for the property owners on lower losses and cheaper insurance rates, Mr. Hughs explained.

C-C Drive Nets 102 New Members Since January 1

One hundred and two new members have been added to the Collingsworth Chamber of Commerce since January 1.

The membership drive is not over, says Membership Chairman Dan Hiett. It will, in fact, go on all year, but the major push will continue through the weeks immediately ahead.

When the goal was set calling for 100 new members by the time of the annual banquet February 12, almost everyone thought it was impossible. By the end of the month, the figure is expected to rise considerably higher than that.

Recent new members include John Coffee, Jack Campbell, E.W. Clement, Earl Patterson, Caterlin Nursery, Reeves Grocery, Truett Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Birchfield, Dwane Scott and Pete Nipper.

Seven Register At Draft Board

Seven Collingsworth County youths were registered for selective service during January, 1973, according to Bill Hatch, a member of Local Board No. 20.

They were Clifton Dale Sullivan, Otis Leon Tate, Earl Wren Hartman, Donald Thurston Judd, Rocky Ray Hill, Barry Allen Long and Ronald Kim Wauer.

Community Service Award Goes to Judge Thomas

The recipient of the 1973 Chamber of Commerce Community Service Award is County Judge Zook Thomas. Few have served Wellington and Collingsworth County so long and so many ways.

His selection was not revealed until the C-C banquet Monday night, Feb. 12.

In reviewing Judge Thomas activities, one thing is common to all of them -- concern -- for groups and for individuals.

The latest of his activities serves a wide area, the Multi-County Juvenile Probation Program, which he put together and saw through to its approval by the State Criminal Justice Council. Those schools and counties participating attest to its success.

Since the day he sat down in the county judge's chair, Zook Thomas has been concerned for children, especially those who are handicapped physically, mentally, economically or who have run afoul the law.

Because he saw tiny children whose working mothers left them all day alone, or in the care of another child scarcely older than themselves, Judge Thomas went to work for a day-care center. What he got is more than he had in mind.

In the Community Action Center, he got care for children of low income working mothers. But there is also a whole program, part of it aimed at helping teen-agers, more work with adults on such elementary things as making a garden. Then there is the tie-in with Texas State Technical Institute Mid-Continent Campus at Amarillo for a whole series of courses now being offered to 172 adults in this county. These courses are to help men and women up their wage earning skills.

The Wellington Satellite Training and Work Center offers training for children and young people who cannot attend public schools, yet are most capable of accomplishing many things. This, too, is one of Judge Thomas accomplishments, and is part of the Amarillo Center for Human Development, a state agency.

Summer work with the National Youth Corps has enabled a number of County boys and girls to remain in school and pay for their clothing and supplies.

The public announcement recently that application has been made with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department to partially fund the county park came a few weeks ago, the result of much work with the commissioners court and forethought in acquiring land just north of Salt Fork River on US 83. The development of this park will come with the widening of US 83, and it undoubtedly will be one of those things travelers will remember about Collingsworth.

Boys and girls in trouble worry Judge Zook Thomas. He has briefed himself on what happens to these youngsters in other states and often it is not good. If at all possible, local youngsters are rehabilitated here at home. To protect them, for most are never repeaters, Judge Thomas work with juvenile offenders goes on quietly. Long before legislation was passed in Texas requiring every juvenile be represented in court by an attorney ad litum, Judge Thomas required that such a representative be required in his court. As a result, there was not one Collingsworth youth among the more than 500 released from state training schools recently because they did not have a legal representative in their hearings.

For a man who has spent most of his life on a deep sandy farm, paved roads are a passion. Zook Thomas has worked that this county gets its share, and in doing this he has led the Commissioners Court in establishing fine relations with the Texas Highway Department and Texas Highway Commission.

This capsules the more recent community work of County Judge Zook Thomas.

Through the years, it has penetrated many parts of the county's life.

Another of his concerns is the preservation of this county's way of life and the fertility of its soil.

Zook Thomas helped to organize Salt Fork Soil Conservation District and served on its board of supervisors. On his own farm, he has tried and introduced many of the methods that are now standard procedures in Collingsworth farming.

He may be considered the man responsible for the introduction of guar -- born of necessity when a hail storm destroyed cotton one year in the early 1950s. And when weather conditions turned the beans black before harvest -- which at that time made the unacceptable for sale -- Thomas conducted almost single handed the campaign that singled them out as one of the best of soil builders as well as a high protein stock feed.

He has received awards for his work in soil conservation on both the local and area levels.

In few men has service been so versatile.

As a bank vice president, Thomas persued an aggressive policy of the advancement of farming and livestock raising in the county.

He also has worked for the development of the county's water resources, personally seeing to it that the county's water rights on its streams are not allowed to lapse.

He has been a member of the Wellington Volunteer Fire Department, president of the Rotary Club, and a leader in that organization's volunteer work with the Collingsworth General Hospital.

He also has been a member of the Quail School Board, president of the Chamber of Commerce and one of those who kept Scouting alive in Wellington.

Religion is vital to his life, as is evidenced by his leadership in First Christian Church.

Thomas working life has been equally varied. He once was a printer for The Wellington Leader. He has helped operate several service stations, worked in a dry goods store, was a butcher in a grocery store, operated a tailor shop, worked for the Mill Iron Ranches in Colorado.

But he came back to the farm in Lillie Community that is still his home, and for a number of years, he also operated a cotton gin during the fall months.

How he accomplishes all of this is a minor mystery to his friends.

Energetic Heart Fund Campaign Needs Support

Your support of the annual Heart Fund Campaign is needed, as February is designated as the month for this activity.

Young Wellington women, and others in the outlying areas, will be asking for your contributions, Mrs. Stephen Schmidly, chairman, has reminded. But there will be other activities as well, some of them fun. One of these is the benefit basketball game Saturday night in Skyrocket Gym. For all sport fans, and especially those who were not quite ready for the basketball season to end, this will be a welcome activity, with the sole purpose of providing fun and funds for a worthy cause.

If our response equals the enthusiasm of the young women conducting the drive, it will be successful indeed.

Those Who Know

A survey made by the Dallas Police Department is revealing.

More than 500 jail prisoners were asked what they thought was at the root of the lawlessness, and they estimated that 46 percent of the index crimes in Dallas were drug related.

They disclosed that aggravated assault was the most drug-related crime, with 60 percent of those interviewed linking the pair. Robbery followed with 54 percent.

Thirteen per cent of the prisoners admitted to previous drug arrests and 28 per cent said they currently were using some type of drug, with heroin and marijuana leading.

Results of the survey should be of interest to state legislators as they consider recommendations for stiffer penalties for drug pushers and for those who commit crimes while under the influence of drugs. This evidence is particularly compelling when it comes from those who have an intimate knowledge of the problem.

A Thorough Operation

The Capital News

By Bill Boykin

AUSTIN, Tex. -- The Texas Legislature swept away some of the clouds last week and made important moves toward "government in the sunshine."

In addition to passing the revised "open-meetings" law -- patterned after Florida's famous "sunshine law" -- House committees approved a new "open records" law for Texas and placed on the House calendar a "free flow of information" bill.

Changes in the Texas open meetings law will allow the public and press to be informed of all "quorum" meetings of public bodies. It was approved 132 to 13 by the House of Representatives and moved over to the Senate Jurisprudence Committee.

Closed meetings will be held to a minimum under the exemptions in the new law. It was authored by Rep. Carl Parker of Port Arthur and submitted as a part of House Speaker Price Daniel Jr.'s "reform package."

A marathon five-hour hearing by the House Judiciary Committee -- chaired by Rep. DeWitt Hale -- was held on the "free flow of information" measure. This proposal is H.B. 10, sponsored by Rep. Dave Allred of Wichita Falls.

It grants a "news source" confidential privilege, and allows Texas journalists to get more information about governmental, law enforcement and other matters important to the public.

The House Judiciary Committee approved the bill 16 to 4 and sent it to the House floor for debate this week.

H.B. 6, the "Open records" measure, will allow the public and press access to most all records of government, city, county and state, that are not closed by state statute. A few other restrictions were placed on the bill -- sponsored by Rep. Lane Denton of Waco.

All of these "government in the sunshine" measures follow the pattern of new House rules which open committee meetings, and follow the trend toward "openness."

PEOPLE'S WATCHDOG PROPOSED -- AGAIN -- Legislators from Houston and Fort Worth have introduced legislation proposing to create the office of "Ombudsman" in the State Government in Texas.

The idea has been put before the legislature in previous sessions only to receive a cold shoulder. The Ombudsman would be an independent and politically neutral office with the sole duty of investigating and recommending action on citizen complaints about state government administration, under the proposed legislation.

The two sponsors, Rep. Hawkins and Rep. David Finney said the Ombudsman would be able to protect individual citizens by giving them recourse for their grievances against unfair or abusive administrative practices.

The Ombudsman, however, would have only the power to criticize and publicize, but not reverse, undesirable administrative actions.

MICKEY MOUSE DISCRIMINATION? -- Houston Rep. R.C. (Nick) Nichols has introduced legislation which he says will eliminate the "Mickey Mouse" discriminatory practices of some insurance companies when it comes to selling automobile and fire insurance.

One bill would prohibit any fire or automobile insurance company from cancelling, refusing to issue, or refusing to renew a policy because of the age, sex, race or place of residence of the person applying for insurance.

Rep. Nichols says "older people and younger people are the victims of automatic discrimination when buying auto insurance, even though they may have good individual driving records."

Another Nichols' bill would require that the only kind of life insurance policies which can be sold in Texas would be level term policies which are guaranteed renewable to age 80 -- without evidence of insurability.

"The typical cash-value life insurance policy is one of the most prevalent and least understood consumer frauds in existence," says Nichols. "The simple fact is, at the death of the insured the beneficiary automatically loses the cash value of the policy."

PRAY QUIETLY PLEASE -- Sen. Walter Mengden, Republican state senator from Houston, has dropped a bill in the legislative hopper to allow school boards to establish periods of silent prayer or meditation at the beginning of each school day.

The U.S. Supreme Court says a school district cannot dictate to a class of students the wording of a daily prayer. Mengden says that his bill would "get around that ruling through this bill which authorizes private prayer, not as a religious service or exercise, but an opportunity for silent prayer or meditation on either the anticipated activities of the day or -- by those so disposed -- on a religious theme."

DWI IS A NO-NO, OR ELSE -- Baytown Rep. Joe Allen has introduced legislation to require a mandatory minimum 30-day suspension of operator's license upon first conviction for driving while intoxicated, and a mandatory one-year sentence on second conviction.

Rep. Allen says Department of Public Safety officials tell him "almost a third of all fatal rural accidents were the direct result of drunk drivers.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

There is some complaint these days about it being hard to tell the boys from the girls, and sometimes this is an important thing to know.

My old gallant neighbor says he is grateful that some of the longhairs also wear beards or moustaches, which saves him the embarrassment of tipping his hat or opening doors for them.

But he says this differment may be outlawed if the Lib girls decide it should be their Constitutional right to grow whiskers.

LETTERS from the People

Deskins Wells
Wellington, Texas
Dear Deck,

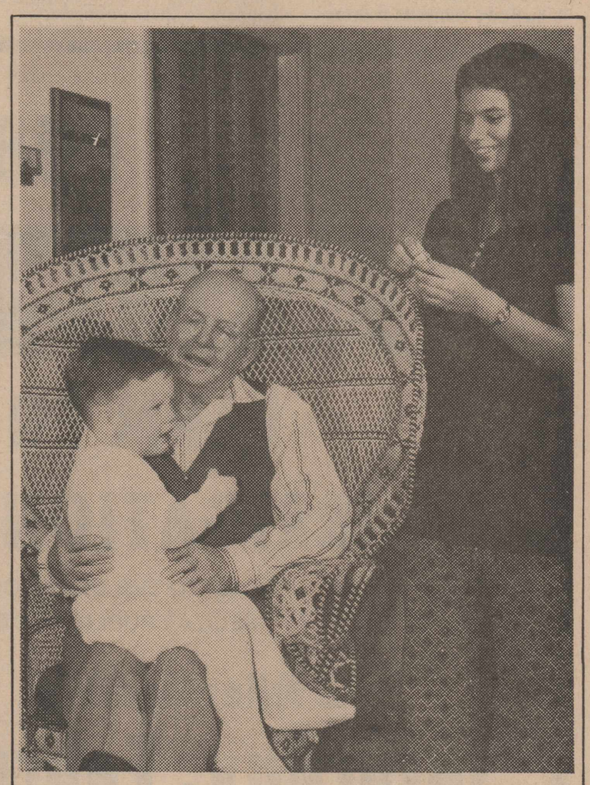

I appreciate the paragraphs written in your column about our mutual friend, Herschel Combs of Memphis, who recently passed on.

Herschel was a special person to me. He taught me my trade, and has been a staunch friend since I was in high school and working at The Leader as a printers devil under his direction. He was an exceptional teacher and loved to train young men.

This printer received technical information via telephone from Herschel on many occasions enabling The Leader to be published on time. His knowledge and advice was freely given. He asked nothing in return.

In one word—he was great.

Sincerely,
J. K. Porter

Thank You

We have sold Pete Scott Grocery on Highway 83 and want to say a Big Thank You to all our friends and customers for the 23 years of association with you.

We consider your friendship among our choicest possessions.

We hope you will continue trading with Jerry Lee and give him your much needed loyal support.

Addie and Pete Scott

Sonny, This Electric Heating is Sure 'Sumpin !

Warms your grandad's bones like you warm my heart.

No cold corners or drafts
No work—just flip a switch.

It's easy to convert to electric heating without remodeling—ask an electric heating contractor for details. Low cost operation, too.

WHAT COSTS LESS NOW THAN IN 1952?

The average cost of a kilowatt hour of electricity used by a residential customer served by WTU cost 29% less than it did twenty years ago. . . . (1952 - 1972) and . . . in 1972 the average customer used over three and a half times as much electricity as he did in '52."

It also included instructions in running a convoy, radio and telephone operations, and formations.

First Lt. Frank H. Worsham of McLean is Detachment commander, while Capt. Terry H. Pevehouse of Amarillo is Company Commander.

The training dates for March will be Saturday and Sunday, March 3 and 4, at the training site out of Silverton in Palo Duro Canyon.

CONGRATUALTIONS to the officials and the membership of the Collingsworth Chamber of Commerce on the largest and one of the most significant annual banquets held in recent years. Keith Winter was thought provoking and inspiring in his address. And he was correct in his emphasis on developing the resources we have in existence in our midst.

VISITORS to Wellington for the occasion were impressed with the percentage of young couples who were present at the meeting. That is one of the remarkable trends in the Wellington area in the last five years. The percentage of young people is increasing instead of decreasing as compared to ten and especially twenty years ago. A town is healthy economically when the young families are increasing.

MORE YOUNG couples would return to towns like Wellington if they could make anything like the money they earn in the metropolitan centers. Many have known the experience of two hours to get to work and two hourse to reach home after work. For most of these dwellers in the big cities it is one hour before and one hour afterward, which is a ten hour day. They also know the threat of crime in the streets and sometimes in their own homes. They also know something of the comparative security and serenity of the smaller towns. But words are idle in inducing them to return to towns such as ours until they can see an income somewhat in line with what they can receive in the metropolitan areas.

he was called out to help fight a grass fire in his pasture north of Quail. He got back only minutes before the presentation was made.

Mr. Winter was accompanied by his wife and his mother, Mrs. Arvazene Winter.

Industrial development is not necessarily going out and bringing in a new industry, he pointed out.

"Help local business and industry to expand. Find out their needs and find out how you can help them," he urged.

Eighty-five per cent of the industrial development in Amarillo comes from existing business, Mr. Winter continued.

He had reminisced briefly of the strengths he gained during his boyhood on a farm east of Wellington. Then he repeated his four-fold philosophy for growth on the physical, mental, social and spiritual levels.

"Do not say anything negative about the county. Visit plants and industry in other towns. Your market is in our cities -- Amarillo and Wichita Falls, just as our market is in Chicago and other cities. Invite business to move to Wellington," he counseled.

It takes two years from the time Mr. Winter makes his first call on an industry until he knows if it will be established in Amarillo. "Development is not a short time gain," he pointed out.

Set a standard of conduct and live by it, said Mr. Winter. Pray to accomplish your goals. Keep your mind open to guidance from within. Be identified with God, said the speaker.

Let young leadership have a place, he told the banquet crowd that showed more young people then any of recent years. Develop a city of thoughtfulness. Recognize each person as a person.

As he closed his talk, Mr. Winter again urged Wellington to develop what it has, and cited the Hay Camp Recreation project as an example.

Tithe for Wellington -- give one-tenth of your time to your city, he said.

Bill Spillman was master of ceremonies, welcomed the guests, and introduced out of county visitors.

Sandy K. Parsons, immediate past president, reviewed the year's activities, which were both city and county wide in scope.

Don Welch, 1973 president, called on the group to work for common goals. He announced that 103 members have been added to the Collingsworth Chamber of Commerce since January 1, bringing the total membership to 169 -- a 151 per cent increase.

He then introduced the directors and officers for this year.

Charles Waugh, minister of First Christian Church, gave the invocation, Mrs. Dan Henard Jr., presented the dinner music, and songs were by a group which included Mrs. Hiram Cudd, Mrs. Don Van Pelt, Mrs. Robert Lewis, Mrs. B.M. Sims, Mrs. P.M. Scott, with Mrs. Truman Estes as the accompanist.
