Census To Double By 2000

WASHINGTON (AP) — While predicting that the world's population will double within 30 years, Census Director George Hay Brown has advocated giving to the question of limiting population serious study.

Brown said research shows it would take another 60 years for the earth's population to stop growing even if births declined so families were barely replacing themselves within 10 years.

"There's obviously got to be some limit to the total number of people that can be accommodated on a limited-resource institution, the spaceship world," Brown ssaid.

And, he declared in an interview, the question of limiting population "deserves study and debate."

Birth rates have slowed in the United States, Western Europe and Japan to between 1 and 1.5 per cent, Brown said, indicating a 50 per cent population growth in the next 20 to 30 years.

But, when considering both industrialized nations and the rest of the world, indications are world population will double by the year 2000, Brown said.

Even though population growth in the United States is declining more than in the rest of the world, Brown said, "it appears unlikely that the U.S. will reach zero population growth in this century."

Kennedy Makes Gain

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has gained a four-point margin as the favorite among registered Democrats for the 1972 presidential nomination.

According to the latest Gallup Poll, Kennedy got 26 per cent of the vote compared with 22 per cent for Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine.

A party newcomer Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York, got 6 per cent of the votes.

The poll was taken in late August among 656 Democrats.

Kennedy and Muskie were tied in July with 22 per cent each in Gallup polling. Kennedy had 29 per cent in June when Muskie had 21 per cent.

UN Opening To Have Look Of Fashion Show

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly often has the look of a fashion show.

It will be evident Tuesday when the several hundred delegates step off the escalator from the delegates' entrance and walk into the hall for the assembly's 26th session.

There'll be delegates from palaces and delegates from South Sea islands, women in saris and women in pantsuits, men in pin stripes and maybe, men in feathers.

African delegations give the most color to the pageantry.

Liberia's Angie Brooks, president of the assembly in 1969, is apt to cover her ample figure with a long costume of gay print called a lappa, plus plenty of pendants, bracelets and earrings.

Seven members of the Swaziland delegation arrived one year in red, black and white robes that bared their left shoulders to below the armpit. Three had feathers in their hair.

They almost didn't make it when New York police spotted them heading this way. They were held until the U.S. delegation vouched for them.

Paul Bamela Engo of Cameroon wore robes of white, turquoise and other bright colors flowing from his shoulders throughout the last assembly. But when he rose to speak the sounds were pure Oxford.

People have come in red togas, bone necklaces, Moroccan caftans—and barefoot.

Though they won't be here for this opening, the mainland Chinese—when they come—can wear just about anything they like, even the "little blue suit."

It will be the first appearance of Mao couture. Tanzanian delegates have long worn a collarless version of it.

Treasurer Appointed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today nominated Romana Banuelos, of Mexican-American origin, to be the new Treasurer of the United States and got a sample signature of how she will sign America's currency.

Mrs. Banuelos, who started her career running a tortilla stand and is now chairman of the board of directors of Pan American National Bank of East Los Angeles, will succeed the late Dorothy Andrews Kabis in the $36,000-a-year job.

The post has been traditionally filled by a woman; its chief function is to sign currency.

Mrs. Banuelos, 46, a native of Miami, Ariz., raised and educated in a mining village in the High Sierras in the state of Chihuahua, Mexico, said she was "very grateful and happy" at her appointment, which requires Senate approval.

With Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally alongside, Nixon laughingly asked for a pen so Mrs. Banuelos could give him a sample of her signature that eventually will go on the nation's paper money. "We want to see how that signature's going to look," the President said.

She signed her name with some flourishes and Nixon said it was "much more neat than my writing."

Mrs. Kabis died July 3.

State Republicans Condemn Busing

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Republican leaders are more united in their opposition to public school busing than they are in support of re-electing President Richard Nixon.

The 65-member State Republican Executive Committee voted unanimously Sunday in favor of a resolution condemning busing to achieve integration.

But three Houston Republicans voted against a resolution urging Americans to re-elect Nixon. Two mentioned they did not like the President's recent overtures toward Red China, and the third said he wanted to wait awhile to make his choice for president.

Mrs. Richard Sowell of McAllen, a committee member, asked other members to come by her room prior to the committee meeting and tell her what they thought about her idea to draft Rep. Fred Agnich of Dallas to run for governor.

Agnich also was here as a committee member but said he did not attend the draft meeting. He said chances that he would run are "remote."

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., a candidate for re-election in 1972, urged the executive committee to give Nixon's economic policies a chance—even after the 90-day wage-price freeze ends.

"Whatever follows the freeze, we should intially support it whether we, at first blush, agree with it or not," said Tower.

He admitted, "I don't know and I can't predict with any degree of certainty what will replace the freeze ... But whatever is done that 91st day will be done with every special interest in the United States borne in mind."

Tower said political success next year "will rest almost entirely on the state of the economy. Vietnam has been pretty well defused as a critical campaign issue."

There was no discussion on the resolution putting the committee on record as "unequivocally opposed to busing of school children for the purpose of racial balance." But the number of persons seconding the motion to adopt the resolution indicated the committee felt strongly about it.

The resolution urged Nixon and all congressmen to support a proposal by Tower to put a prohibition against massive crosstown busing in the U. S. Constitution.

Camdodia Fuel Supply Attacked

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy forces destroyed a large part of Cambodia's fuel supply today in an attack on the outskirts of Phnom Penh and dealt a sharp blow to a base in South Vietnam for operations inside eastern Cambodia.

Diplomatic informants in the Cambodian capital reported that as much as 40 per cent of the nation's available fuel stocks may have been lost. They gave this figure after consultations with oil company officials, but added it was only an estimate. Earlier reports said about two-thirds of the supply was gone.

Apparently slipping in on boats across marshlands, about 30 enemy troops hit the fuel tank farm at Phnom Penh with rockets that set fire to millions of gallons of gasoline and oil in 15 tanks, owned by Esso and Shell.

The loss of the fuel could mean a harsh blow to an already limping economy in Cambodia.

The attack on the South Vietnamese base was the third setback for the Saigon command in three days.

Official reports said 21 South Vietnamese troops were killed and 64 wounded in coordinated mortar and commando attacks on the headquarters of the South Vietnamese 43rd Task Force and two other positions ranging from two to five miles northwest of Tay Ninh and about 10 miles from the Cambodian border.

The South Vietnamese command said 52 enemy troops were killed and 25 weapons captured in a nightlong battle.

Tay Ninh, 55 miles northwest of Saigon, is the forward base for South Vietnamese operations inside eastern Cambodia. It is 80 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

Field reports said the 13th North Vietnamese and Viet Cong Sapper Battalion, perhaps a total of 300 commandos, launched the attacks around Tay Ninh early today after a 100-round mortar barrage hit South Vietnamese positions. The sappers withdrew before dawn.

Field reports said most of the South Vietnamese casualties came from the shelling attack against the permanent positions. One infantry battalion of about 400 men suffered the most severe losses with 17 men killed and 43 wounded.

In Phnom Penh, about 30 sappers with rocket launchers blew up 15 large oil storage tanks, striking a heavy blow to Cambodia's struggling economy.

The tanks containing millions of gallons of gasoline, diesel and fuel oil went up in a roar of flames. Black smoke billowed more than 100 feet into the night sky and fire lit up the northern quarter of the Cambodian capital.

Associated Press correspondent Robin Mannock reported from Phnom Penh that the fires were still burning out of control at noon, spouting high-octane aviation gasoline and threatening to ignite new explosions.

Three Hurt In Mishap

Three men were injured when their 1963 Model Buick crashed into a utility pole at the southeast corner of College Avenue and Thirtieth Street at 11:14 a.m. Sunday.

Taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Snyder Ambulance Service were Jerry Mack Peddy, 29, Route 5, Abilene; Louise J. Parker, 30, Amarillo; and, Donald Ray Kirkpatrick, about 35, Route 3, Snyder. Peddy was transferred to Hendrick Memorial Hospital in Abilene for treatment of serious head and chest injuries. Parker was transferred to a hospital in Lubbock for treatment of serious facial injuries. Kirkpatrick was reported in good condition at Cogdell Memorial Hospital after treatment of possible neck injuries.

Investigating patrolman Bill Roach said Peddy was driving the car north on College Avenue when the car ran over the curb to the east and crashed into the utility pole. Damage to the car was extensive. The traffic signal light at the intersection was knocked down.

Volunteer firemen were called to the scene to guard against fire, and they also directed traffic.

City Police also investigated a two-car collision on Twenty-fifth Street at Avenue R at 10:30 p.m. Saturday.

Involved were the 1968 Model Dodge of Karen Sue Bailey, 2904 Avenue W, and the 1967 Model Chevrolet of Alisia Morena Borrego, Route 2. Officer Melvin Sanders investigated the mishap. Damage was minor.

Kerwin Papers Prompt Probe

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A briefcase found near Toronto, Canada, has prorppted an investigation of a dead man whose associates ranged from Mafia figures to millionaires, it was reported here.

Lengthy reports published over the weekend told how U.S. and Canadian authorities are studying documents and letters crammed in the briefcase of Leroy Kerwin, an Atlanta, ga., insurance executive.

Kerwin, said to be a one-time associate of Chicago mafia hoodlums, disappeared last December. His body was discovered in a shallow grave near Toronto last June, about 2½ months after an Ontario farmer found his briefcase in a ditch.

The San Antonio Express-News said Kerwin conceived a maze of swindling schemes, including one using the firm of a San Antonio millionarie.

Others who came in contact with Kerwin in some way included Houston millionaire John W. Mecom Jr. and Oklahoma rancher E. C. Mullendore III, the newspaper said.

Mullendore was shot to death last fall and his slaying remains unsolved. About $9 million in creditors' claims have been filed against his estate.

As reports on Kerwin circulated here, Mullendore's herd of buffalo, Longhorns and bulls was being auctioned Saturday at Tulsa, Okla., under federal bankruptcy rules.

The Express-News reported these details Sunday:

—Kerwin and insurance salesman Leon Cohen operated an Atlanta insurance agency, which wrote $15 million in policies for Mullendore and arranged more than $1 million in loans for him. He was charged $74,500 for the loan service, which was largely handled by Kerwin.

—Mullendore's widow has sued a combination of insurance firms that refused to pay the $15 million claim on grounds the rancher misrepresented his worth when he obtained the policies. Details of transactions involving Mullendore and the Cohen-Kerwin firm were revealed in deposition hearings held in the suit.

—Mullendore's sister had married John W. Mecom Jr., Houston oil tycoon and owner of the New Orleans Saints. Mecom met Cohen and Kerwin through millionaire San Antonio developer Morris Jaffe.

She's sick of playing the piano for guests

By Abigail Van Buren

(c) 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: When we have company for dinner, my father asks them in front of me how would they like to hear me play the piano. What can they say? So I have to play the piano for them. I didn't mind it so much when I was younger because it was cute, but I am 15 years old now, and it's embarrassing.

I have told my dad I would rather not play for company anymore, but he asks me anyway. I know he's proud of me, but it is evident to everyone in my family [except him] the guests are bored and they could care less how I play the piano.

What shou d I do? DADDY'S LITTLE PIANIST

DEAR PIANIST: Appeal to your father again, and enlist the support of your family. P. S. Your company is lucky. Ours had to listen to my twin sister and me play violin duets until we were 18 years old.

DEAR ABBY: My problem sounds something like a letter out of your column, but here it is: I have a very good friend [call him "Bill"] whom I've known all my life. We are more like brothers than friends. Bill married a girl I'll call Sue six years ago. Sue's a terrific girl and we three get along just fine.

Well, Bill and Sue didn't want any children for the first three years of their marriage, but for the last three years they've been trying without success. They saw several doctors who agreed that Sue was okay, but the trouble was Bill's.

Last week, when I was at Bill and Sue's for dinner, they knocked me cold with the suggestion that I father Sue's child! Bill said he would prefer bringing up the child of his wife and best friend than adopting one of unknown origin. He said it was not unlike artificial insemination, only the test tube phase was eliminated and he'd know who the father was.

Abby, I've always had a special thing for Sue, but only in my dreams, and I couldn't bring myself to go thru with such a scheme, and I told them so. They thought I was foolish. What do you think? MIDDLEMAN

DEAR MIDDLE: I think you're right, and they are foolish.

DEAR ABBY: Our son was playing ball and accidentally broke a huge picture window in our neighbor's home. I'll call these neighbors the Smiths.

The Smiths immediately taped the window and put boards over it so nobody would get cut. That evening my husband went over there and expressed his regrets and gave the Smiths the money to get the window replaced. The Smiths are very well off and could have afforded to replace the window themselves, but we felt responsible.

Well, it has been over three months and that window is still taped and boarded, and it is a terrible eyesore to this lovely neighborhood. Since the Smiths accepted the money from my husband, aren't they obligated to fix the window? Have you any suggestions on how we can get them to do it?

MAD IN L. A.

DEAR MAD: Of course they should repair the broken window at once. Remind them! Your mistake was giving them the money. You should have made arrangements to replace the window at once, and paid for it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WONDERING IN EL PASO": Quit wondering. He is telling you the truth. There is indeed an exchange program between Greek and American airmen, and the Greek men are not permitted to marry anyone who is not a citizen of Greece.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Schools Take Woes To Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Southern school officials, hit with the high cost of busing, are coming to Congress seeking ways around President Nixon's ban on the use of federal funds to help meet the cost.

In at least one case, congressional sources report, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has agreed to match a school district's busing costs with a federal grant if the busing program is paid for out of local funds.

The money the school officials have their eyes on is the $1.5 billion Nixon has asked Congress to provide to help defray the costs of desegregation. Until Nixon announced on Aug. 1 that the money could be used for busing many school districts were planning to spend it for just that purpose.

The announcement, which was coupled with Nixon's repudiation of a desegregation plan prepared by HEW for Austin, Tex., was criticized by civil rights groups as a bid for Southern political support. But it has not made the President popular with school officials or congressmen representing school districts carrying out busing plans.

In their view, since it is either the federal courts or HEW that is requiring the busing, the federal government has an obligation to help pay the costs.

That refrain is being heard frequently these days at meetings between Southern congressmen and members of the House Education and Labor Committee, which has the desegregation bill before it.

One such recent meeting involved a congressman and school officials from a large Southern city facing heavy busing costs, a representative of HEW, and a member of the Education and Labor Committee.

A participant in the meeting, who did not want to be identified, said that after the school officials explained it would cost $2.2 million to pay the busing costs, the HEW representative agreed the district could get a $2.2 million grant under the desegregation bill if it paid the busing costs out of state and local funds.

An education committee member, Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., who has long opposed busing and regards such an arrangement as "just hypocrisy," is preparing an amendment to the desegregation bill designed to block it.

Groups Say Advice 'Unsound'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eleven consumer and environmental groups have described as "unsound" the government's advice to continue using water-polluting phosphate detergents.

"We suggest that it would have been better to advise housewives to use low phosphate detergents," the statement said, "or better yet, to avoid the use of phosphates altogether by using soap products."

Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld and William D. Ruckelshaus, head of the Environmental Protection Agency, said last Wednesday that phosphate substitutes may be more unsafe than phosphates.

The statement was signed by representatives of the Natural Resources Defense Council, Ecology Center Communications Council, Metropolitan Washington Coalition for Clean Air, Public Interest Research Group, Zero Population Growth, Environmental Action, Wilderness Society, Concern Inc., Sierra Club, Clear Creek and Friends of the Earth.

Andrews Youth Is Held Here

David Lynn Lewis, 17, 306 Southeast First Street, Andrews, was arrested at the football game here Friday night on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was charged in Justice of the Peace Court this morning with illegal possession of marijuana.

He was remanded to county jail in lieu of $5,000 bond which was set by Justice of the Peace J. P. Billingsley. Officer Jim Hudson made the arrest at Tiger Stadium. Lewis was assessed a $15 fine in Corporation Court on the disorderly conduct charge.

Officer Melvin Sanders discovered a penny match box containing a substance that looked like marijuana when he searched the youth, Detective Paul Alexander said. The substance was sent to the Department of Public Safety in Austin for an analysis.

Sadek Issues Hit Back Order

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

War Minister Lt. Gen. Mohammed Sadek of Egypt has issued an order to the armed forces to "hit back immediately and violently and silence any Israeli attempt to fire at our positions," the Egyptian press reported today.

Sadek's order went to all units on the Suez Canal front and said that they should "use all kinds of weapons to immediately stop the Israeli attempt."

The order followed fighting Saturday in which Egypt charged that Israel attempted to attack Egyptian positions with Shrike missiles.

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram reported that one of these missiles hit an Israeli position at Ferdan, in the northern sector, causing an explosion.

Later, the official Mideast News Agency reported that the Egyptian armed forces were at "maximum degree of alert."

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad is scheduled to go to Washington Sept. 29 to talk with U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers, informed sources said today.

Egypt has been increasingly critical of America's quiet diplomacy trying to negotiate a settlement to the Middle East crisis.

Riad is to depart Tuesday for the opening session of the U.N. General Assembly.

President Anwar Sadat of Egypt has pledged that 1971 will not pass without progress, through diplomacy or force of arms.

The downing of an Egyptian and an Israeli warplane along the Suez Canal in the last 10 days adds urgency to diplomatic efforts.

In Tel Aviv Sunday, Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan was quoted by the newspaper Haaretz as saying he "would not be surprised if in the period after the U.N. General Assembly meeting the Egyptians would resume firing at the canal."

In Jerusalem Sunday, a terrorist grenade landed in the midst of a group of American pilgrims and Arab schoolchildren, killing a 5-year-old Arab girl and wounding 12 other persons, including Americans.

New Egypt Cabinet Sworned In

CAIRO (AP) — President Anwar Sadat watched today as Egypt's new streamlined 29-man Cabinet was sworn in. One appointment was aimed at improving Egyptian-Soviet relations.

The Cabinet, five men less than the old one, and with four new faces, was formed following the adoption of a new constitution earlier this month.

Egypt's ambassador to Moscow for 10 years, Murad Ghalib, has been appointed minister of state for foreign affairs with the special assignment of improving Soviet-Egyptian relations.

It was the fourth cabinet formed by Premier Mahmoud Fawzi since Sadat apointed him a year ago. The president dissolved the previous group of ministers on Sept. 11, after Egyptians overwhelmingly approved a new constitution calling in part for government reorganization.

32 Killed In State Violence

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic crashes, shootings and other violence combined over September's third weekend to kill at least 32 persons in Texas, 24 of them in traffic collisions.

In one 15-hour period beginning Saturday night, five Fort Worth area residents died in three motor vehicle accidents.

Dallas and Houston, nearly always among the top localities for violence varied it with shootings and other violence.

The Associated Press began the death count at 6 p.m. Friday and continued it until midnight Sunday.

An unidentified pilot was killed Sunday when he flew a silver and red Cessna Skylark into the east side of Guadalupe Peak in far West Texas. Parties were to attempt to reach the wreckage Monday morning.

Robert L. Lichten, 50, of Dallas was killed Saturday when his car overturned on interstate 35 about 16 miles south of Waco. Lichten was an engineer at Bell Helicopter in Hurst.

Willie Smith Coleman, 56, of Houston burned to death Sunday when his home was destroyed by fire. Coleman ran outside after discovering the blaze but was trapped when he reentered the flaming residence.

Ruby Watts, 71, of Fort Worth and Beatrice Gregson, 67, of Grapevine were killed and a 15-year-old Roanoke boy, Matthew Newsom, seriously injured Sunday when their car slammed into a concrete pillar on a city freeway.

Gary Newman, 30, and John C. Price, 29, both of Fort Worth were killed Saturday when their car crashed into a utility pole in Fort Worth where both resided.

John Fergason, 61, of Fort Worth died Saturday when his automobile overturned on a city street.

Bill Dale Lane, 22, of El Paso was killed Saturday when a truck and a pickup collided on U.S. 80, 18 miles east of Van Horn. Two men were injured, at least one of them critically.

Carl Fred Davis, 22, of Splendora was killed Sunday in a headon collision on U.S. 59, about two miles south of the Montgomery town. The driver of the second car was seriously injured.

Gilbert Saldana, 48, of Austin was killed early Sunday when his car overturned on a rural road curve about four miles east of the capitol city. Saldana apparently died instantly.

Bennie Jerry Watson, 17, of Lometa died Sunday in San Saba when the pickup truck in which he was riding hit a utility pole.

Barbara Harper, 35, of San Antonio was killed Sunday in a three-car collision on U.S. 87 east of San Antonio.

Catherine Morrison, 34, of Nacogdoches suffered fatal injuries Sunday night when her car hit an embankment a mile south of Nacogdoches on Farm Road 1275.

Jerry Lee Hart, 23, was shot and killed Saturday night in Dallas. Police said he went with a friend to get his companion's belongings from an apartment and was shot by an 18-year-old youth who answered the door with pistol in hand. They held the teen-ager without immediate charge.

Jimmy Jackson, 18, of Houston was killed Saturday as two cars collided in Galveston. Four other persons suffered injuries, none serious.

Economic Program Has Few Visible Results

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The new economic program is more than a month old now and some people already are becoming a bit impatient for some visible results. There aren't an awful lot.

Internationally, the floating of the American dollar has permitted about half the revaluations sought, but foreign governments are attempting to thwart further adjustments through activities of their central banks.

At home, the unemployment picture hasn't brightened noticeably. Retail sales are a bit better but there has been no spurt. Consumer confidence has stopped deteriorating but it hasn't rebounded.

The economic scene really hasn't taken on much additional color since the President's sudden announcement that the dollar would no longer be pegged to gold, importers would be forced to pay a surcharge and prices and wages would be frozen.

But who said it would? People have short memories, and now the panic that seemed to be developing in mid-summer seems years away. Had no action been taken, some economists now feel, there would be no color to talk about except that of a sickly pallor.

As it is, there is considerable news to brighten prospects. Interest rates seem to have reached a peak, which is good news for individuals, corporations and state and local governments—if not for lenders.

Whether they head downward from here is difficult to tell now, mainly because few people can fathom what will be the attitude of borrowers once the freeze comes off. If prices spurt, then interest rates might also.

Foreigners have not as yet retaliated with surcharges of their own, as had been forecast by some pessimists, and therefore that threat to international trade becomes more remote each day.

Housing is decidely a bright spot, brighter even than some officials even dared to dream. For two months in a row starts have set records, and the rate now is 2,3 million units a year.

Considerable credit must go to the government for spurring such a rate, mainly through moves to make more money available to this market, which in the past has always been victimized by erratic flows of funds.

Should this rate continue—and some industry and government officials feel that housing trends in the future will be longer, more stable than those in the past—it will help to alleviate one of America's most pressing social problems.

Sufficient food, adequate clothing and decent shelter are prerequisites for a strong society. In the case of housing, it is obvious at even a casual glance to realize how much needs to be done.

Perhaps the main reason for any indecision and impatience among Americans is that the focus has shifted from Aug. 15 to Nov. 13. That is the date when the freeze is scheduled to end. And nobody knows precisely what happens then.

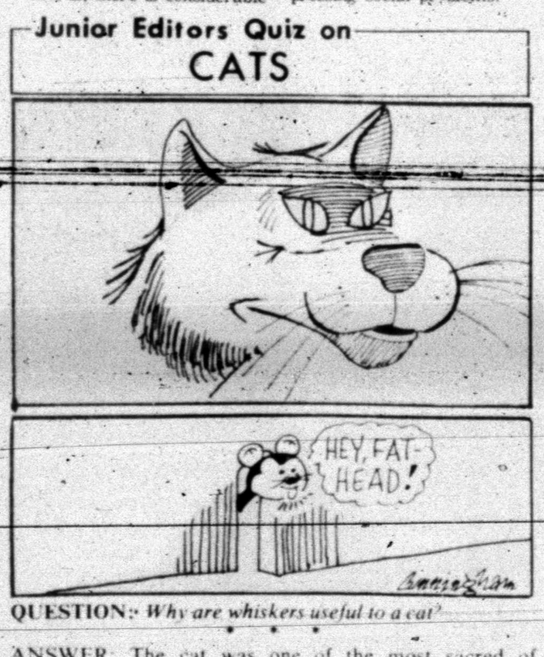

There will be, we are assured, some form of controls. And as Paul McCracken, the White House economist says, they will have both "clout and teeth." But that still leaves to the imagination just what sort of an animal combines these attributes.

Meanwhile, the stock market is not taking events quite as indifferently as one might suppose. True, prices continue to bounce up and down through the "900 barrier" on the Dow Jones industrial average almost weekly and sometimes daily. But there is spirit in the market nevertheless.

New issues, for example, are reaching an energetic level. Prospective entries into the stock market generally await a buoyant mood in order to obtain the best price. Many of them feel the time is now ripe.

Last week there were at least 13 new issues brought to market. Nine of them rose, two were unchanged and two dropped. It was one of the best receptions in a year.

Junior Editors Quiz on CATS

QUESTION: Why are whiskers useful to a cat?

ANSWER: The cat was one of the most sacred of Egyptian sacred animals. Thousands of bodies of embalmed cats have been found in temples and cemetaries. In early times, people believed that witches could turn themselves into cats. Many people still believe a black cat is an omen of bad luck. Early Norsemen had reverence for the cat. So did the Chinese and Japanese.

The cat is a popular house pet and one of the smartest animals. It is also a faithful companion since it is playful and clean in its habits.

The long whiskers of cats are delicate sense organs. Most cats have from 25 to 30 whiskers that grow in four rows, from the side of the mouth to above the eyes. The whiskers are attached to nerves in the skin. They help cats feel their way through bushes and avoid bumping into walls and trees. Cats do not use their whiskers to measure a space through which they can walk. This was the old theory concerning the whiskers. It was thought that the cat measured a hole through which his body could pass by the whiskers. The fact that they entered holes to chase mice most likely prompted this theory. Cats often touch whiskers with each other to communicate or "talk" back and forth.

Things We Could Do Without

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things we could do without:

People who hold wedding receptions under tents on stifling hot days.

Drugstore coffee.

Dried-up apple pie.

Anybody who has fooled himself into thinking that a college education has made him smart.

The same old blah-tasting glue on government stamps.

Blanketwide men's neckties in colors that would pale a peacock.

People who believe that patriotism is proved merely by flying a flag.

Any husband who says he doesn't mind doing the dishes because he says it gives him time to think.

A pimple on the tip of a girl's nose the day she's supposed to graduate from high school.

All jokes about the relationship between undertakers and doctors.

Anybody over 25 riding on the seat of a motorcycle.

Anybody who rides a bicycle to work simply because it is the "in" thing to do.

People who call you by your first name when you can't even remember their last names.

Hospital nurses who ask patients after a restless night, "Well, well, well—and how do we feel this morning?"

Two-bit Broadway musicals that charge $15 a seat.

Anybody who makes a point of saying toe-mah-toe when you've just finished saying tuh-may-tuh.

Anybody caught playing a harmonica in public between sunrise and sunset.

Clods who get up bright and early on Monday morning so they can grab you by the lapels and tell you what an interesting week end they had.

Girls who try to make every Tom, Dick and Harry they meet fall in love with them just so they can later write him a "Dear John" letter.

Secretaries who can't spell any better than a sauer apple.

Babies that just lie in their cradles and stare at you balefully when you try to make friends with them.

Truck drivers who can't address a remark to a pedestrian without using at least two four-letter words.

Any new government bureaus.

Any new predictions about why, when or how the world will end.

All recipes for what to do with leftover breaded veal cutlets. The only ensible thing to do with them is to see how far you can skip them across the nearest lake or river.

Woman Gets Free Ride

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A young woman stopped a Salt Lake Police car to ask for a ride to the Utah State Fair. Instead, she got a free trip to the city jail.

Officer Nord Halls said after the young woman asked him Sunday for a ride to the fair and he told her he couldn't because it wasn't police business, she replied:

"If I went down the street and picked up some rocks and broke all the car windows, would this make the police take some action?"

The officer said he replied: "Unfortunately yes."

The woman then picked up two or three rocks, and tossed them through a store plate glass window, Halls said.

He said she then "gallantly stepped into his car" for a ride to the city jail.

She was charged with destruction of property.

Matador Gored

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — Matador Arturo Ruiz Loredo was seriously gored as a bull hooked him in the groin Sunday before 5,000 persons in the downtown bullring.

Ruiz Loredo, 23, of Hacienda de Cohapa, Mexico, underwent surgery in the bullring infirmary and was transferred to a private clinic.

Another matador killed the bull during the annual benefit corrida for the city of Tijuana in which the matadors fought bulls for half pay.

Bengals Score Big Victory Over C. City

Snyder High School's junior varsity Bengals struck fast and furiously as they built up a 31-0 lead in the first quarter and coasted to a 45-12 triumph over Colorado City's JV team here Saturday night in Tiger Stadium.

The Bengals probably could have named their own score, but Coach Milton Ham began sending in the reserves in the second quarter and all of the local lads got in the act in the second half.

Wilbur Thompson recovered a fumble at the Colorado City 17 on the kickoff, and the Bengals scored in two plays. Tommy Welsh went up the middle to the 13, then Hubert Crayton crashed up the middle, cut to his right, and stepped the remaining distance with 11:20 remaining in the period. Quarterback Tim Jones skirted left end for the two points.

Following a short punt about four minutes later, the Bengals traveled 28 yards in seven plays. Crayton and Welsh did most of the damage, and Welsh plowed over from the two for the touchdown. Jones passed to Greg Godair for the bonus points.

One minute and 14 seconds later, Welsh bulled across from the one to cap a 3-play, 18-yard drive set up by another fumble recovery. V. T. Roberson contributed 11 yards in this march. Jones rolled to his right and crossed the goal line for two more points.

Then, with 4:19 remaining in the quarter, David Yearwood, Lee Costello and Willie Smith blocked a Colorado City punt at the Wolf 13 yard line. Smith recovered the ball in the end zone for another touchdown. Mickey Gonzales kicked point as the first period margin soared to 31-0.

On the second play of the second quarter Paul Norred ran 68 yards for a touchdown on a trap play. The try for extra points failed as the count remained at 37-0.

With 1:21 remaining in the half, Norred charged across from the two to cap an 11-play, 76-yard drive. Richard Gorman raced around right end for the two extra points as the Bengals posted a 45-0 advantage. Norred and Roberson collected most of the yardage in this drive, but Gorman contributed a completed pass to Kerry Smith.

Colorado City took the kickoff opening the second half and drove 60 yards in 10 plays again st the Bengal reserves. Johnston and Hertenberger alternated carries, and Johnston got the touchdown on a 3-yard plunge. A fumble on a pitch out ruined the bid for extra points.

Ivory Grear intercepted a pass to stop the visitors at the Bengal 15 later in the period, and Snyder was able to drive to the Colorado City 25 before it lost possession in the fourth quarter. The march included nice runs by Grear and Widgeon Emerson and a completed pass from Emerson to Wilbur Thompson.

The visitors drove 67 yards in eight plans for their last touchdown after they stopped the Snyder drive. Hays, Hertenberger and Johnson collected all of the yardage, and Hertenberger scored the touchdown on a one-yard run. The run for extra points was stopped short.

The victory leaves the Bengals with a perfect 2-0 record.

Rated Teams Get Impressive Wins

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Texas Longhorns, who were the top-ranked college football team in the country until midafternoon last New Year's Day, apparently have their sights set on a return to the heights.

Darrell Royal's sophomore-spiced club, ranked third behind Nebraska and Notre Dame in last week's Associated Press poll, opened its season impressively Saturday with a 28-10 road victory over UCLA. Barreling over land like the longhorn steers for which they are nicknamed, the Texans gulped down 428 yards rushing from their fearsome Wishbone attack. Quarterback Eddie Phillips, whose 34-yard pass to Jim Moore with 34 seconds left in the first half snapped a 7-all deadlock, led the way with 142 yards on 20 carries and scored once himself.

Texas, however, probably will have a tough time closing in on the leaders when this week's poll is counted. Nebraska, No. 1, trounced Minnesota 35-7 and runner-up Notre Dame thrashed Northwestern 50-7.

Fifth-ranked Ohio State was idle but the rest of the Top Ten continued on their merry way behind offensive fireworks galore: Michigan, rated fourth, battered crippled Virginia 56-0 and sixth-ranked Arkansas downed a talented young Oklahoma State club 31-10.

The Nos. 7-8 teams, Auburn and Tennessee, warmed up for their important Southeastern Conference battle next weekend by crushing UT-Chattanooga and UC-Santa Barbara, respectively, 60-7 and 4-6. Alabama, No. 9, buried Southern Mississippi 42-6 and 10th-ranked Oklahoma whipped Southern Methodist 30-0.

Royal had to be impressed with the way his youngsters performed.

"I thought this was a especially tough game physically," he said. "We got into hot water early in the second half when we blew an assignment, lost yardage and threw an interception.

"But after we goofed and UCLA scored, we came back with a 23-play touchdown drive and when you have that many plays without a fumble, penalty or interception it shows you're jelling."

Isn't that great news for the rest of the Southwest Conference? Michigan outdid Texas, piling up 495 rushing yards against hapless Virginia with sophomore Ed Shuttlesworth accounting for 104 and Billy Taylor adding 89. The Wolverines cleared their bench, using five quarterbacks and 15 ballcarriers.

Nebraska's Jerry Tagge hit flashy Johnny Rodgers with touchdown passes of 28, two and 37 yards and Minnesota's Murray Warmath, who was leery of the Cornhuskers' ground game, commented: "We didn't expect them to execute or throw that well. We just got beaten by a good football team. I don't think they are going to get beaten."

Notre Dame finally decided to go with two quarterbacks—Pat Steenberge and Bill Etter—against Northwestern but it really didn't matter. The Irish defense beat the Wildcats all by themselves.

While the offense accounted for 356 yards, the defense rolled up 185 on interception returns alone—seven of them. Ken Schlezes picked off three Northwestern passes while Mike Crotty and Ralph Stepaniak raced 65 and 40 yards, respectively, for touchdowns after pilfers.

Still, Coach Ara Parseghian wasn't satisfied.

"This was our first game and our quarterback situation is a big transformation (from All-American Joe Theismann). We have a lot of work to do and we're rusty. We won't be misled by this score.

"We're not that good and they're not that bad. They made it easier for us by making those mistakes (two fumbles, a blocked punt and a bad snap, in addition to the interceptions)."

Joe Ferguson's 228-yard passing and the running of Ferguson, Jon Richardson and Dicky Morton led Arkansas past Oklahoma State. Auburn's Pat Sullivan sat out the second half against Chattanooga after completing 13 of 16 passes—two others were dropped—including touchdowns to Terry Beasley and Dick Schmalz.

Tennessee's defense produced a touchdown against Santa Barbara on Bobby Majors' 71-yard punt return and set up another touchdown and a field goal with an interception and fumble recovery. Johnny Musso gained 65 yards in one period and Terry Davis completed all six of his passes before turning Alabama's rout of Southern Mississippi over to the scrubs.

Oklahoma's Texas-style Wishbone accounted for 342 yards on the ground with Jack Mildren, Greg Pruitt, Joe Wylie and Leon Crosswhite leading the way and the Sooner defense shut down SMU's own version, the Flying Wishbone.

Among the Second Ten, No. 11 Georgia got its offense in gear for 10 fourth-period points and a 17-7 victory over Tulane. Colorado, No. 12, ripped Wyoming 56-13 with little Joe Duenas scoring three touchdowns and passing for one.

Don Bunce, Jim Plunkett's successor at No. 13 Stanford, passed for three quick scores late in the first half en route to a 38-3 triumph over Army. Lydell Mitchell led No. 14 Penn State past Navy 56-3 by scoring five times. Syracuse, No. 15, tied Wisconsin in the final minute but had the conversion attempt blocked by Ed Albright.

Arizona State, No. 16, nipped No. 20 Houston 18-17 on Don Ekstrand's 46-yard field goal with 19 seconds left. Southern California, No. 17, intercepted five passes in blanking Rice 24—0. Georgia Tech checked No. 18 Michigan State 10-0 and Duke toppled No. 19 South Carolina 28-12 as Ernie Jackson scored on a 74-yard punt return and 30-yard interception.

Penn State and Alabama have agreed to start a six-game football series in 1981.

Plunkett, Manning Shine In Debuts

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rookie quarterbacks Jim Plunkett and Archie Manning made spectacular pro debuts to spice an incredible opening Sunday in the National Football League.

Plunkett and Manning, the No. 1 and No. 2 picks in last January's pro draft, led the New England Patriots and New Orleans Saints to the two most startling upsets on an opening day replete with surprises.

Plunkett, the Heisman Trophy winner from Stanford, threw two touchdown passes as the Pats stunned the Oakland Raiders 20-6.

Manning, who starred for Mississippi in college, sprinted around left end from the one on the last play of the game, to give the Saints an astounding 24-20 upset over the Los Angeles Rams.

Another rookie, cornerback Tom Hayes, from San Diego State, played a major role as the Atlanta Falcons humbled the favored San Francisco 49ers 20-17.

In other surprises the San Diego Chargers whipped the Kansas City Chiefs 21-14, the New York Giants edged the Green Bay Packers 42-40, the Washington Redskins overcame the St. Louis Cardinals 24-17, the Chicago Bears tripped the Pittsburgh Steelers 17-15, the Cleveland Browns routed the Houston Oilers 31-0 and the Denver Broncos held the Miami Dolphins to a 10-10 tie.

Elsewhere, form stood up as the Super Bowl champion Baltimore Colts whacked the New York Jets 22-0, the Dallas Cowboys, the only unbeaten, untied club in the preseason schedule, downed the Buffalo Bills 49-37 and the Cincinnati Bengals trampled the Philadelphia Eagles 37-14.

"Now we're winners and we want to keep it that way," said an elated Plunkett after his two TD passes in the second half upset the Raiders. His first scoring pass was a 33-yarder to Ron Sellers and the second a 20-yarder to Tom Beer.

Before his toss to Beer on a fake handoff Plunkett had set up the play with a 39-yard aerial to Randy Vataha.

"I might have made a mistake, but I never really thought about the pass," said Manning after his winning end run against the Rams on a pass-option play.

"I thought 'only one yard' and doggone it I knew I was going to get good blocking," Manning continued. "I saw a crack and dove and I knew I got over."

Manning had completed three passes for 42 yards to set up his winning sprint and give the Saints their first NFL victory after 12 consecutive losses.

Four interceptions of John Brodie passes, coupled with two Atlanta scoring passes from Bob Berry to Ken Burrough, helped the Falcons upset the 49ers.

But it was the rookie "Mr. Hayes" as coach Norm van Brocklin called him, that preserved the Falcons' triumph. He scooped up a fumble in the last three seconds on a play that erupted into a brawl as players from both benches spilled onto the field.

"I guess I started it," said Hayes who earlier had made two key interceptions. "One guy hit me when I was falling. I threw the ball at him because he hit me after the whistle. Then the fists started swinging everywhere."

A 26-yard run by Mike Garrett, a former Chief, gave the Chargers their victory over Kansas City. The Chiefs led 14-0 at halftime, but the Chargers rallied to tie on two TD passes by John Hadl before Garrett's winning scamper.

Down 42-24 the Packers almost pulled it out against the Giants, but an interception by linebacker Jim Files with 1:14 left preserved the New Yorkers' 42-49 triumph after a winless exhibition season.

Dan Devine, Green Bay's new coach, suffered a broken leg on the sidelines in the last quarter when Doug Hart of the Packers was shoved out of-bounds near the Green Bay bench while running back an interception. Devine was caught in the pileup.

The Redskins capitalized on four interceptions and three fumble recoveries to trip the Cardinals. The Bears scored twice in the last four minutes after recovering Pittsburgh fumbles to down the Steelers.

Leroy Kelly scored twice as the Browns whacked the Oilers. Miami tied the Broncos on Bob Griese's 31-yard TD pass to Paul Warfield with little more than two minutes left.

Raiders, 'Horns Tangle Saturday

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The soap opera folks could have a world of fun with the buildup for Saturday's Southwest Conference clash between the defending champion Texas Longhorns and Texas Tech.

Will Longhorn quarterback Eddie Phillips overcome a pesky hamstring muscle pull in time? Can Texas Tech Jim Carlen eliminate the costly mistakes that have cost the Red Raiders two intersectional clashes? Are Texas Coach Darrell Royal's sophomorish troops too green?

Goodness. What prime time competition for As The World Turns.

Royal is deeply bothered about Phillips' hamstring problems and said after the Longhorns returned from a 28-10 victory over UCLA: "I am concerned that he may not be able to work out or play against Texas Tech."

But Phillips, who gained 142 yards rushing and completed a 36-yard touchdown pass against the UCLANS, said, "I pulled a muscle in the second quarter and it stretched out in the last touchdown. It's not serious just one of those nagging things."

Royal said Phillips pulled a muscle about two and one-half weeks before the season began.

Phillips was sore after the game and admitted the leg "was a little stiff."

Royal was proud of the way his sophomore-laden troops rallied after losing to UCLA 7-0.

"We looked a little ragged at times but you can expect that in an opening game when you have several inexperienced players," Royal said. "The pleasing thing was that after they got their field goal, we moved the length of the field not making any mistakes. That's jelling into an outstanding offensive football team. It's something you can hang your hat on and know you can do it again."

The mystery surrounding Texas Tech's early sinking spell was dissected by Carlen. The Red Raiders tumbled 13-10 to New Mexico after Joe Hartshorne's 33-yard field goal with three seconds left. A lost fumble by quarterback Charles Napper at the Lobo 16 late in the fourth quarter with the score tied 10-10 opened the door for New Mexico.

"I think the difference in this year's team and last year's team is that last year we got a lot of good breaks early," Carlen said. "This team just can't seem to get a good break. The best thing we have going for us is our kids' attitudes. We could have been 2 and 0 instead of 0 and 2."

New Mexico Coach Rob Winter has this warning for Texas: "They made some errors ... but Texas Tech is a tough team."

Arkansas was the only other SWC team to uphold the loop's proud intersectional football record Saturday with a solid 31-10 victory over Oklahoma State.

Texas Christian, in shocking tavendar, celebrated coach Jim Pittman's debut with a thorough 42-0 licking of Tarrant County rival Texas at Arlington.

One of the bright spots in the TCU victory—besides the classy light purple uniforms—was the performance of sophomore quarterback Kent Marshall who replaced veteran Steve Judy in the second half and wheeled the Horned Frogs to four touchdowns. Marshall zoomed 25 yards for a touchdown on his very first varsity play. TCU also displayed a most aggressive defense.

The other games were strictly off the obit page. Houston died 18-17 on a last second field goal to Arizona State but nobody else scored. Louisiana State massacred the inept Texas Aggies 37-0, Oklahoma bludgeoned SMU 30-0, Kansas blanked Baylor 22-0 and Rice tumbled 24-0 to Southern California.

That gave the SWC a 3-6 record against outside foes—not exactly a scrapbook weekend.

National Guard Facing Loss Of 100,000 Men

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army National Guard faces a potential loss of about 100,000 men before next summer as draft-induced volunteers finish their obligated service, Pentagon officials say.

This will be offset only partially by enlistments of men with prior service in the regular Army and by 17 and 18-year-old recruits.

The prospect now worrying defense authorities is that the Guard will fall significantly below its authorized strength of 400,000 men for the first time in years, even if the draft is extended.

Draft calls are certain to be lower, so that few young men are likely to sign up with the Guard to avoid conscription into the Army.

Defense officials say a weakening of the Guard has serious implications for national security. The Guard, they say, has been given a more important role in the nation's war plans than ever before, since the Regular Army is being slashed to its smallest size in more than 10 years.

The National Guard is starting a heavy recruiting campaign. But officials said they are not optimistic, despite Defense Department plans to ask Congress for money to pay enlistment and re-enlistment bonuses and to provide a number of incentives to join the Guard.

The wave of losses this fiscal year will come from the drop-off of most of the young men who enlisted in the Guard in 1965, at a time when the United States was building up for the war in Vietnam with increased draft calls.

These men were exempted from the draft when they chose to enlist for about six months of active duty training after which they returned home as civilians with an additional 5½ years of obligation to drill regularly with a Guard or Reserve unit.

Only about 10 per cent of these young men are staying in the Guard after their six-year obligation expires, Guard officials report.

This Reserve Enlistment Program was such a popular refuge from the draft during the Vietnam war that the Guard was filled up. The waiting list at one point contained more than 100,000 names.

Hot Times Are Ahead For UN

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

With Red China now apparently assured of seats in the General Assembly and the Security Council, it seems likely that hot times are ahead for the United Nations.

Over the years, Peking has been one of the organization's severest critics. It would be far from surprising if the Red Chinese, after feeling their way about, proceeded with a campaign that would attempt to place the so-called Third World in conflict with the United States and the Soviet Union.

The Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, in a study called "Issues before the 26th General Assembly," sees a possibility that Peking will assume the role of champion and protector of small nations against alleged mechinations by the Russians and Americans.

This might mean, it adds, that "the two superpowers might be forced to change their indifferent attitude toward the smaller states, in order to maintain their own influence in the United Nations."

For example, China could demand that disarmament talks no longer be the exclusive province of the big powers. Peking could insist that a commission be set up to include smaller nations; perhaps a large number of them, to talk about such things as disarmament and nuclear weapons. That might not enhance the chances for any meaningful agreement, but it would be a great opportunity for Peking politicking.

The Middle East is included in the area which Premier Chou En-lai calls the "medium and small nations." Red China long has been poking about the edges of that chronic crisis and giving aid and propaganda support to some Arab organizations.

As a U.N. member, Red China could thrust herself more forcefully into the Middle East situation. It could insist that the four power talks be converted to five power talks.

During the cultural revolution, when Red China had no real interest in getting into the United Nations, Peking insisted it would pose tough demands before even considering membership. It would demand expulsion of the Nationalists entirely, the lifting of the "aggressor" brand placed on the Red Chinese in connection with the Korean conflict, and the drastic reshuffling of the U.N. organizational structure.

After the cultural revolution subsided Peking muted those demands. It continued to criticize what it called the superpowers' "voting machine" and picture the United Nations as a site for backstage collusion between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Now, however, China might decide to forget about the more radical demands and concentrate on the real opportunities.

Armed with the veto power of a permanent member, Peking could immobilize the Security Council at will to thwart any peacekeeping effort or prevent any meaningful action. Or, if it chose, it could throw weighty support behind small nations and try to force strong action in certain circumstances.

The Carnegie Endowment study points out that Peking will have strong influence in the selection of a successor to U Thant, the secretary general who is retiring soon. Any candidate probably must have Red Chinese approval to make the grade.

These will be only a few of the possibilities ahead as Red China, for the first time, takes her place as the representative of a quarter of mankind.

Pensioner Feeds Birds In Park

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the stillness of early morning, thousands of wings rustle as the day's food arrives for birds in two city parks—thanks to a guant, sick 80-year-old man.

"I don't care about myself ... not anymore," says Raymond Lopez. "I'm only interested in helping all things that suffer and all things that are hungry."

Sometimes, friends say, Lopez himself goes hungry to provide feed for the birds at Echo and MacArthur parks.

A retired Hollywood makeup man, Lopez has lived alone in a small frame house since his wife died in 1965. He says most of his pension and Social Security checks goes to pay the delivery man who comes every Tuesday with 2,800 pounds of feed. The bill is about $150 a week.

"I spend everything I've got on the birds," says Lopez. "Life for me is insignificant except for the birds."

Last May heart trouble and other medical problems forced Lopez to stop making his daily rounds and a neighbor, Manuel Cerda, took over.

Cerda, a 64-year-old unemployed auto worker, says he's glad to transport the feed in his station wagon because Lopez cares so much for the birds. "My wife and I say, 'Mr. Lopez, why don't you relax and take a trip?' Well, he doesn't say much. He just says, 'I'd rather go hungry myself than let my birds go hungry.'"

Lopez keeps one pigeon at home as a pet and is nursing two cripples. All have the run of the house.

And as Cerda leaves each morning at dawn he sets out feed on Lopez' roof. About 150 pigeons, doves, sparrows and bluejays alight for breakfast.

Almanac Has Word For Young People

LEWISTON, Maine (AP) — The Farmers' Almanac, the 155-year-old prophet of weather and crop growing conditions, has a special message for young people in its 1971 edition, which comes out today.

Under the "Signs of the Times" section, there's a picture of a billboard with a mustachioed, long-haired youth and a blonde girl wearing granny glasses. Both are giving the peace sign and the slogan reads: "Love ... Try Some on Your Parents."

"We stand for the same thing that hippies stand for," said 61-year-old Ray Geiger, the editor. "We want love, wholesomeness and peace. The almanac has been saying this now for 155 years."

Geiger, in an interview, said he is committed to keeping the almanac "on a high moral plane."

"But we have to make changes each year to keep up with what's going on," he said. "We have to be especially concerned with attracting kids because they are our crop of new readers."

NASA Testing Plant Growth

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Tests started at the Manned Spacecraft Center Friday to determine what causes certain plants to either temporarily stop growing or accelerate growth rates when exposed to soil from the moon.

Plants, animals and certain human tissues were exposed Friday to lunar samples returned by Apollo 15 astronauts.

Previous tests with lunar samples from Apollo 11, 12 and 14 revealed the two different reactions, but no definite reason has been found. One theory was that certain chemicals in the lunar soil, just as on earth, causes the growth change.

However, no indications have been found that lunar material contains any life forms or is a threat to earth, scientists here said.

Jews Start New Year

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Synagogues throughout the world were filled today with Jews commemorating Rosh Hashanah, the new year, which began at sundown Sunday.

The new year brings with it a 10-day period of penitence and self-examination that culminates with Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement.

At the start of the Jewish Year 5732, Rabbi David Plish, president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, urged: "Let us not only pray for a better world, but more important, vow to do something about it." Rabbi Dr. Maurice N. Eisendrath, president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, sounded a similar note, saying: "let us join hands with our neighbors of all faiths in a new dedication to God's kingdom to be built, not with vows but with deeds."

The holiday is observed for one day by Reform Jews, for two days by Conservative and Orthodox Jews.

AMERICAN MOTORS' intermediate Matador line for 1972 includes a four-door sedan, two-door hardtop and a station wagon, all incorporating major mechanical improvements. The American Motors cars for 1972 will make their debut Tuesday at Dupree Motors, 2301 Twenty-fifth Street.

British Stop The Presses

LONDON (AP) — Millions of Englishmen were without their daily newspapers today as publishers shut down the presses over a pay dispute. The only paper Londoners could buy was a Communist one.

The Newspaper Publishers Association—NPA—ordered Britain's eight national dailies and two local London evening papers closed until a dispute is settled with a printers union. The 10 papers have a combined circulation of about 16.5 million.

Trying to mediate the dispute, Vic Feather, general secretary of the Trades Union Congress, Britain's labor confederation, was meeting today with officials of the union involved, the National Graphical Association—NGA.

But Feather said he was "not too optimistic" about an early settlement.

The NGA is demanding maintenance of a pay differential over less skilled men. Its members seriously disrupted newspaper production last week by holding meetings during work hours to discuss a proposed wage deal.

Further disruptions Saturday night led the publishers to order the shutdown, cutting off Sunday papers with total nationwide circulation of more than 24 million.

Strikers Armed With Fly Spray

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) — Strikers on a Birmingham picket line now march with fly spray and fly swatters. They claim management has enlisted wasps to break the strike.

Workers who have been on strike for 35 weeks say officials of an engineering plant have spread jam and cake icing sugar behind the picket lines to attract wasps.

American Motors Showing Tuesday

DETROIT — American Motors cars for 1972 incorporate over 100 "under-the-skin" improvements in virtually all engineering and design areas affecting driveability, reliability, safety, comfort and convenience.

"We lined up on a priority basis the items of function and design that are important to car owners, whatever kind of car they drive. Wherever we believed we could improve customer satisfaction in our cars, we made the required changes," AM president William V. Luneburg said. The new AM cars for 1972 will show Tuesday in Snyder at Dupree Motors.

Improvements range from such unseen features as a plug-in socket for the main wiring harness to an all-new three-speed automatic transmission providing smoother shifting, quieter operation, less servicing and greater reliability, according to Luneburg.

Called "Torque-Command", the new American Motors transmission operates as a torque converter, which is known for smoother transfer of engine power to the drive train. It is standard on all '72 Ambassador models and optional on Gremlin, Hornet, Javelin and Matador lines. Band adjustments and oil changes are unnecessary under normal operating conditions.

The number of models offered for 1972 is 15. Six previous stripped-down versions have been upgraded, with "high-line" appointments.

All of the safety and emission standards required by the U. S. Department of Transportation are met, or exceeded, in the 1972 American Motors cars, Luneburg said.

In the safety area, braking systems are thoroughly checked on all cars leaving the production line by means of special testing equipment, a procedure not required by the government.

Turner Predicts Exciting Years

HOUSTON (AP) — A Humble Oil and Refining Co. official has told the Texas Industrial Development Council that the years until 2000 will be both exciting and fearful.

"It will be exciting because of the continued fields of knowledge," John B. Turner of Houston, told the group Thursday. "It will be fearful because of the trend of violence and the menance of hunger and environmental depreciation.

"But it will be hopeful because of the increasing capacity of the mind and spirit of man to cope with life in a time of dynamic change.

"This period will bring the people of Texas great challenges and great opportunities. Truly these will be our decisive years."

Boss Unaware Of Overdue Bill

CUMBERLAND, Md. (AP) — Keith Sisk, city water and sanitation commissioner, received a notice to pay an overdue water bill or have his water shut off.

Sisk, who said he was unaware of the overdue bill for his home, promptly paid the $49.

GI Barber Has Unusual Setup

CHU LAI, VIETNAM (AP) — When Glenn Hood went to war the gang at Earl Zeiner's barber shop threw a farewell party with visions of gory combat in the jungles of Vietnam.

Since then more than 100 showgirls have disrobed in his bedroom. Generals call him by his first name, colonels curry his favor. He sleeps in data and eats in the officers' club and has private, air conditioned quarters.

The 21-year-old soldier has never fired a gun in Vietnam. To him the enemy is a bald pate.

Hood is the general's barber, one of the most influential men at Americal Division headquarters.

"It's the Samson complex," he gloats. "No one messes with the man behind the shears. If the boys at Zeiner's could see me now!"

Hood came to Chu Lai from Coulterville, Ill. He started as a medical supply clerk, but a computer showed he'd gone to Belleville Barber College.

"At first I didn't want to do it, me a Spec. 4 cutting a general's hair. But they pressured me into it."

So Hood moved from barracks into two rooms behind the stage of the officers' club. He discovered that his bedroom also served as a changing room for show girls who entertain there every Saturday.

"At first it blew my mind, the whole setup," he said. "Now after eight months of having naked women in my room I'm kind of used to it.

"Of course I'm not supposed to be in there when they're dressing."

Although his only assigned duty is trimming three generals and their staffs, Hood welcomes all officers and civilian contractors based at Chu Lai.

"I cut about 80 or 90 heads a week," he said. "I'm not allowed to ask for payment but everyone tips about $1 a head. They know that if they don't they'll get a lousy haircut next time. I can tell when a lieutenant is feeling real stupid without him even knowing it.

"Most of them try to be nice to me. But I certainly don't have to be nice to them if I don't want to.

"When a man's in my chair he's my equal, whether he's wearing one stripe or two stars. As a barber it's my job to draw them out, make conversation, and I think I succeed pretty well. They confide in me, even the generals."

Majors and lower grade officers beg him to leave their hair as long as regulations permit. As he sees it, "only the colonels and generals are still square.

Craft Is Unsinkable

FARMINGDALE, N.J. (AP) — Theodor M. Box, 65, the only non-Briton to win the famed Henley double sculls rowing event—he and his partner did it in 1927—has designed the world's first allurethane boat, a 10-foot unsinkable craft that can be used as a sailboat, motorboat or rowboat.

Box claims the boat, when flooded with water and riding four passengers, will remain afloat.

Since victory on the Thames, Box has led a colorful life as lawyer, ad agency executive in Palestine and World War II British Intelligence officer. He is president of Tedruth Plastics Corp. here.

Hope Opens New Center

HOUSTON (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope, quipping "this is the first time I've ever paid to do a benefit," helped open the Edward H. White Memorial Youth Center near the Manned Spacecraft Center Sunday.

The center was named after White, one of three astronauts killed in a space capsule fire at Cape Kennedy Jan. 17, 1967.

Hope ramrodded last year's benefit at the Astrodome which raised $290,000 of the $330,000 spent on the youth center, which was originally proposed by White in 1966.

Sunday, Hope and others also pledged to give $300 a year for the next 10 years to help run the center.

Also kicking in $300 was Methodist Bishop Kenneth W. Copeland, who made the dedication address.

Copeland said, "Regarding Mr. Hope's comments, I can say this is the first time I've ever had to pay to hear myself preach."

After White's death, the board of stewards of the Seabrook United Methodist Church, which White attended, established the memorial youth center in his honor.

The center is built next to the church which owns and operates the facility but will be open to the entire community.

Mrs. Ed White, the astronaut's widow, attended the ceremonies.

Rural electric systems also serve where fish abound, where deer are plentiful, where dove fly low, where waterfowl winter and where javalinas, wild turkeys and pheasant live. The Midwest Electric Cooperative cannot promise that you'll get your limit on the game you hunt in their area, but they can promise rural hotels, motels, fishing camps, hunting lodges and other accommodations which offer all the comforts of home, thanks to a dependable supply of low-cost electricity which makes rural recreation a lot more fun while helping Texas grow.

Family Fun Is Big Business At Six Flags

Editor's Note: Amusement and recreation are part of the leisure time explosion Americans are enjoying everywhere. Fun time nowadays include the whole family. And it's big business for a whole new "family" of businessmen operating theme parks in several states.

By JIM BRIGANCE
Associated Press Writer

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — The smiles of patrons waiting outside the gates of Six Flags Over Texas could be no brighter than those of management in the main office.

In 10 years, Great Southwest Corp. has taken its theme park concept into three states.

Six Flags Over Texas celebrated its 10th birthday in August and there are new Six Flags parks in Georgia and Missouri.

The formula is wholesome fun, clean-cut and youthful employes with welcome smiles, and minimum expense to the "guests," as patrons are called.

The Six Flags story has been one of growing success, best expressed, says management, by a newspaper ad recently which solicited: "Wanted, young singers and musicians for auditions ... Six Flags type preferred."

"They are our personality," says James K. Jones, executive vice president. "The parks can be freshly painted, perfectly landscaped and ready for opening, but they just aren't Six Flags parks until you add the hosts and hostesses."

Six Flags Over Georgia, near Atlanta, has met with high public approval since it opened in 1967. Great Southwest Corp. management says Six Flags Over Mid-America, opened last June near St. Louis, shows promise of meeting the success of its sister parks.

Cattle once grazed the banks of Johnson Creek on the Waggoner DDD Ranch where Six Flags was born.

Great Southwest Corp. not only preserved the acreage but dressed it up with tile and stucco from Mexico and Spain, a complete woodmill from New York, rides from Europe, shops, entertainment shows, lighting displays, air conditioning, lakes, waterfalls and countless other attractions.

The park's name came from history—the six flags which at different times flew over Texas. They were the flags of Spain, France, Mexico, the Republic of Texas, the Confederacy and the United States.

Six Flags over Texas has been consistently profitable since it first opened," said Victor Palmieri, president of GSW.

"The American public has enjoyed amusement parks for well over 100 years and, today, there are 900 parks and fairs across the nation. It is projected within the industry that, counting repeat visitors, these parks will play host to over two million visitors who will spend between $400 million and $500 million at the parks in 1971.

"But," he continued, "since 1955 more and more of those dollars are being spent in theme parks. A theme park is best described as an entertainment center designed for the whole family, built around a unifying idea, with well-regulated policies, price structures and supervision carried out by a single company or management."

Palmieri said there are about 30 key theme parks in the U.S. expected to attract 30 million customers or 15 per cent of the total market.

He said these 30 million people will spend about $200 million at the theme parks, or 40 per cent of the total amusement park business.

In 10 years, more than 17.5 million persons have visited the Six Flags park here.

Great Southwest officials credit much of their success with the public to the image created and fostered by the young people who staff the parks.

Most are high school or college students. More than 9,000 of them applied this year for the 1,500 available jobs at Six Flags over Texas.

Applicants are interviewed and judged on the basis of their appearance, personality and apparent leadership qualities.

Dressed in bright costumes, they play host at the rides, maintain cleanliness around the park and staff the park's various shops and restaurants.

For youths, a fresh haircut is a must. Simplicity is the rule in hairstyles and makeup for young women employed at the parks.

Great Southwest Corp believes so strongly in the strength of its employes that special $500 scholarships are awarded each year to the top 20 young people based on their attitude toward job, guests and coworkers.

"Every visitor is a guest," says Palmieri.

Women Invade Stevadores

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Wearing hard hats, jeans and boots, Anna Tavares and Angelina Watkins have started working as stevedores.

They are the first women in that job at the Providence Municipal Wharf in the memory of anyone working there.

"They do it in Russia and all the other foreign countries," Mrs. Tavares said Tuesday.

Foreman Peter Silva was cautiously optimistic about his two new hands.

"I didn't think it was possible," he said. "We'll break them in from the ground floor up, show them the dangerous hazards of the job. I actually think they can do it once they're shown."

The stevedore business is not entirely unfamiliar to the two women, both 37 and the daughters of longshoremen.

Mrs. Tavares is divorced and supporting three children. Mrs. Watkins is separated and supporting six children.

"We need the money with school starting," they said.

"After they see the conditions and everything else it will be much too hazardous and dangerous for them," said stevedore Rudy Gomes. "I don't think they will be back."

Ducks Relocated

DANIA, Fla. (AP) — The Broward County Humane Society decided to relocate some ducks in a little-used pond behind its Griffin Road Shelter.

The shelter director, Lyle Benjamin, said about 40 ducks which had worn out their welcome in residential areas were released in the pond about two weeks ago.

Then Benjamin began to notice the number of ducks seemed to be dwindling.

He said he had not known there were alligators in the pond.

Debate Over Effects Of Oilspills Continues

HOUSTON (AP)—The debate over the effects of oilspills on marine life and ecology still continues.

Studies of the past two years have not resolved differences but apparently are opening the way for more amicable discussions among government officials, industry executives, scientists, and strict conservationists.

The controversial oilspill of early 1969 in California's Santa Barbara Channel was followed by two major spills and fires—Chevron and Shell—off the Louisiana Coast.

First details of a year-long scientific study of effects resulting from the Chevron spill were submitted at the recent Interior Department hearing on a proposed December sale of additional federal leases in the eastern Louisiana offshore area.

The Chevron fire and spill dumped an estimated 30,000 barrels of oil into the Gulf of Mexico between Feb. 10 and March 31, 1970.

Dr. John G. Mackin, professor emeritus in biology at Texas A&M, has made studies of inshore and offshore Gulf of Mexico ecology and marine communities since 1947. At the Interior Department hearing, Mackin was a witness for the offshore operators committee which represents 50 companies that account for 95 per cent of the oil and gas produced from Louisiana and Texas offshore areas.

After the spill, Mackin took 230 bottom samples ranging from near shore to deep water south of the Chevron platform that is about eight miles northeast of the Mississippi Delta main pass area. A year later, he took 51 additional samples. The 281 bottom samples, he said, were arranged in such a manner as to test all areas which coincided with slicks caused by the spill.

Mackin said the fauna of the sound and shelf areas after the year-later samples "can only be described as fantastic."

"The extraordinary numbers of crustaceans, polychaete worms, mollusca, and other taxonomic categories encountered indicate this fauna is as rich as any ever studied in the Gulf of Mexico's north shores," he said.

He acknowledged, however, a possibility the fire and spill produced a temporary depression of bottom fauna within a three-quarter mile radius of the platform but emphasized the word temporary.

"In that area, complete recovery has been attained and a real limit of temporary effect has been established," he said.

Mackin said if any one procedure is capable of determining the effect of oilspills it is the testing for normality of the bottom community.

"This is because the bottom community is incapable of escape from alleged toxic pollutants and bottom communities are in a state of constant change—species appear, reach a peak and decline, to be replaced by other species," he said.

Russian Youth Are Disillusioned

MONTREAL (AP) — A Soviet seaman who jumped ship and swam ashore in British Columbia says young people in Russia are disillusioned "because of what the leaders promise, what they say and that's reality."

"The people of Khrushchev's generation really believed we'd be living in a Communist society by 1970, but the youth of today don't believe it," said Sergei Kourdakov.

Kourdakov, 20, jumped ship Sept. 7 and swam for five hours through stormy seas to reach the Queen Chatlotte Islands. He is being held in Quebec City while the Canadian government decides on his application for political asylum.

What does he miss most?

"I haven't been out on a date for six months. I've been told Canadian girls are very beautiful and all have long legs. The girls in Russia are too plump."

Williams On Red China Tour

HONG KONG (AP) — The Rev. Hosea Williams, a black American civil rights leader, and his wife are on a three-week tour of Communist China. The couple crossed the Lo Wu border Sunday.

The Rev. Mr. Williams is national program director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the civil rights group organized by the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Rates Reduced For Football Widows

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Two Waco movie theaters say they have a solution for Monday night television football widows.

The theaters are offering reduced $1 admission to all football widows each Monday night during the National Football League season.

All that is required for the reduced admission, the theaters say, is for a woman to declare herself a football widow at the box office.

TO HEAR VIEWS ON FARM PROGRAMS

USDA Summons State Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has summoned officials from 29 states to Washington later this month to hear their views on guidelines for the government's 1972 feed grains and cotton programs.

Members of two advisory committees—one on cotton and another on feed grains, wheat and soybeans—held closed-door talks with USDA policy makers last week on commodity prospects and requirements for next year.

The information from those discussions will be fed to this week's gathering—which will include one representative from each of 29 state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committees, the units which oversee federal farm programs at the state level.

Those invited for the sessions, expected to be held Tuesday through Thursday, represent major feed grain and cotton producing areas.

After that, a spokesman for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service said Friday, policy makers and program technicians will begin hammering out details of the 1972 programs for cotton and feed grains.

The department already has announced the 1972 wheat program.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Clarence D. Palmby told reporters following last week's huddle with advisors that the target for announcing the new programs is about Oct. 15.

However, Palmby said, the report could be delayed if the next crop production report by the department, set for Oct. 12, shows a drastic departure from output patterns indicated in August and September.

The most sensitive and perplexing task for USDA planners is to come up with new set-aside acreage requirements for 1972 that will do the job of cutting back on feed production and yet coax farmers into producing more soybeans.

The cotton situation calls for a different approach. Demand recently has been running larger than the annual crop, and both USDA and industry officials want to see more production next year.

Palmby said the cotton and grain committees universally applauded the "set-aside" concept in the administration-backed Agricultural Act of 1970, in effect this year. It scrapped stiff acreage allotments and lets farmers plant as much as they want after taking a percentage of their crop land from production.

Finance Ministers Test New Economic Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Finance ministers abroad and Congress at home are putting President Nixon's new economic program to its first major tests since its dramatic birth just over a month ago.

The ministers of 10 major trading nations, including Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally, are back in their capitals for more reflection after meeting last week in London. They failed to produce an agreement on a firm footing for the world monetary system, sent reeling by the United States' cutting the dollar loose from gold and slapping a 10 per cent charge on imports. They will try again later this month.

At home, Congress is starting surgery on Nixon's tax proposals, and the Cost of Living Council reports the wage-price freeze generally working well, although the council is discussing with the Justice Department possible legal action in 20 to 25 cases.

Recent indexes of the nation's economic performance are mixed and overall not particularly encouraging, still largely reflecting pre-freeze conditions.

Connally shook up his foreign colleagues with a hard-nosed demand: help in achieving a $13 billion improvement in the U.S. balance of payments.

He would not buy a proposal from other countries for priority discussion of a short list of items, including the price of gold and removal of the surcharge. And with that position set, the meeting broke up. Another is scheduled for Oct. 25.

In Washington, the House Ways and Means Committee today begins the closed door, rolled-up-sleeves phase of its work on Nixon's tax recommendations. Indications were it will approve the general outline, but with major modifications, including a $2 billion shift of tax relief from business to low-earning individuals.

To keep alive legislation extending the draft, Nixon gave in on postponing a $2.4 billion pay raise for the military. Its effective date is Oct. 3, right in the middle of the 90-day price-wage freeze.

The prospect of a big military pay increase is sure to have a strong effect on congressional consideration of Nixon's plan to postpone for six months scheduled raises for the government's civilian employes.

Foot Doctors Well Heeled

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

Dear Joyce: Is podiatry (foot doctor) a good field for women? -- G. N. C., San Bernardino, Calif.

You're on your toes -- this can be an outstanding choice for a man or woman. You can earn income roughly comparable to that of a physician with about two-thirds of the educational investment.

PROFESSIONAL standards stipulate at least 6 years of college (2 undergrad plus 4 at a college of podiatric medicine). Some students also spend an additional year in supervised clinical practice, although only a few states require internship.

However, most applicants accepted by the podiatric colleges have a bachelor's degree (4 years) or 3 years of college – which makes the average time 8-9 years after high school. (Becoming a physician takes 12 years, more or less, depending on specialization.)

NOT DOWN AT HEELS. Many podiatrists now earn in excess of $25,000 per year and incomes of $50,000 or more are not uncommon. It takes approximately 7 years to become established and to earn close to your maximum income. Practitioners in medium-sized cities earned more, on the average, than those in either larger or smaller cities, according to a past survey (a new earnings survey is in process).

CONFUSION between terms "chiropodist" and "podiatrist" persists. Years ago, a chiropodist treated both hands and feet. Thus CHIRO, (from the Greek "cheir," meaning hand) was combined with POD (from the Greek "pous," meaning foot). Since today's practitioners treat only feet, the term chiropodist is phasing out, in favor of podiatrist.

FOOT ROOM. The American Podiatry Association estimates there are some 8,100 podiatrists in this uncrowded field. Federal statistics (which differ slightly) say that nationally there are 3.5 podiatrists per 100,000 (compared to roughly 5 dentists per 100,000) – ranging from 1.6 in the South to 6.1 in the Northeast. Nearly 40 percent of podiatrists are over 55. There is, however, no mandatory age to quit practicing; that's one of the beauties of this career, along with the fact that you can work part time, if you choose. Only 15 percent of podiatrists report working 50 or more hours per week.

FOOTSORE HAVENS. The vast majority of podiatrists are in private practice. Only some 2 percent work for government agencies. Others are employed on hospital staffs; teach in colleges of podiatry, medicine and nursing; serve in the military service.

SOLE SURVIVAL. Podiatrists keep people on their feet by diagnosis and treatment of deformities and diseases – using drugs and surgery, prescribing proper shoes and fitting corrective devices. X rays, blood and other tests are employed.

HIGH STEPPING OUTLOOK. Podiatry is expected to grow, mainly because of two factors: (1) Expanding population with a great proportion of older people, the age group most needing foot care -- about 30 percent of patients are over 65, and (2) an increasing trend toward preventive foot care for children.

Johnson Considered Freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Lyndon B. Johnson came close to ordering a wage-price freeze six years ago, a former price controller disclosed Sunday.

"He should have done it," added Michael V. DiSalle, who was director of the Office of Price Stabilization in the Korean War years 1951-52.

DiSalle, former governor of Ohio and now a Washington lawyer, told an interviewer the date of Johnson's almost-freeze was July 28, 1965.

"I was attending a fund-raising meeting of the President's Club at the White House that day," DiSalle recalled.

"The president came into the meeting quite a bit late. He apologized to us, saying he had been busy—that he had just ordered an escalation of the war in Vietnam, today to get it ended sooner.

"He looked at me, sitting in one of the front seats, and said, 'Mike, you almost had another OPA on your hands.'

"I said: 'That would have been putting me in double jeopardy, Mr. President'."

DiSalle said Johnson never elaborated on the episode to him, but "I know that a wage-price freeze must have been seriously debated."

"I assume he had considered declaring a national emergency, and he should have done it. Monetary and fiscal policy alone cannot cope with the economic strain of military spending on such a scale."

Army Asks More Free TV Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is asking the broadcast industry for five to ten times as much free television time as it has been getting for recruitment announcements.

The personal letter to the heads of broadcast networks cited budget restrictions in the Army's paid prime-time advertising campaign.

Secretary of the Army Robert F. Froehlke said in the letter that stations "are licensed by the United States government" and "should provide effective public service time to support essential national programs.

"Therefore, I turn to you for assistance in increasing substantially the amount of public-service announcements, particularly in prime time, produced by your network and its affiliated stations to support recruiting," he said.

"I am not thinking in terms of just doubling the weight of public-service advertising; I am asking for a five to ten-fold increase."

The Army said there has been no response to the letter dated Sept. 1. A copy was made available to The Associated Press.

Broadcasting stations are obligated under Federal Communications Commission rules to devote a certain percentage of air time to public service announcements. However, free announcements seldom are run during the prime viewing hours of 7:30 p.m. to 11 p.m., when one minute of commercial time sells for between $45,000 and $65,000.

Foreign Ministers Meeting

BRUSSELS (AP) — Foreign ministers of the European Common Market nations met today on the world trade and monetary crisis touched off by President Nixon's Aug. 15 measures to defend the dollar.

Delegation sources insisted there was no question of Europeans taking retaliatory steps for the time being.

The meeting convened under its chairman, Italian Foreign Minister Aldo Moro in an atmosphere of concern over trade losses to Europe from Nixon's actions, including imposition of a 10 per cent surcharge on imports to the United States. Nixon also has refused to devalue the dollar against gold as part of a general realignment of the free world's major currencies.

Foreign ministers were reviewing a report from the Common Market commission that estimated Nixon's measures will mean a trade loss of some $2 billion to the six member nations.

The most the ministers were expected to do here, however, was to issue a strong statement condemning the American actions. Reprisals in the form of restrictive trade measures against the United States were all but ruled out.

Nassau County in New York has a population of 1,434,000.

CBS Chief To Receive Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Stanton, president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, will receive the Paul White Memorial Award for the most significant contribution to the advancement of broadcast journalism in 1971.

The Radio Television News Directors Association said Sunday it chose Stanton for his "courageous and determined efforts in defending the broadcast journalist's constitutional rights in the face of a proposed contempt of Congress citation, arising from the subpoenaing of nonbroadcast material used in preparation of the documentary, 'The Selling of the Pentagon.'"

Stanton, who also received the award in 1957, will receive the new citation at the association's International Conference Oct. 1 in Boston.

The award is named for a pioneering broadcast journalist who died in 1955.

Midwest Chilled

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cold polar air surged across the Canadian border today reinforcing the cool weather already chilling much of the Midwest and Northwest.

Temperatures plugned into the 20s and 30s in the central Rockies while portions of the Midwest and Mississippi Valley cooled down to the 40s and 50s.

Travel warnings were posted for northwest and central Montana with cold rain forecast and up to 4 inches of snow predicted for the mountain regions.

Rain also accompanied the chilly weather from eastern Texas to the upper Great Lakes.

Occasional showers sprinkled the region from New York and western New England to the Carolinas.

Mild temperatures and fair skies dominated the rest of the nation.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 25 at Flagstaff, Ariz., to 82 at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Sammy Davis Jr. Needs Rest

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Entertainer Sammy Davis Jr. will need about six weeks of complete rest to recover from a liver disorder.

Davis, 45, complained of abdominal pains Friday night, and was taken to a Sunrise Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said, "Mr. Davis is here for tests and observation of misalignment of the liver caused by too much exertion on his small frame."

Davis had one week left in a 3½-week engagement at the Sands Hotel and planned to leave for a Vietnam tour Sept. 25.

Heroin Found In Jaguar

NEW YORK (AP) — "Obviously the work of top professionals," said the head of the federal narcotics bureau, describing the discovery of 200 pounds of heroin valued at $40 million concealed in an imported Jaguar car.

Agents siezed the cache and arrested five persons on narcotics smuggling charges Sunday in what was termed the second-largest heroin seizure ever made in the city.

John E. Ingersoll, director of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, said the car arrived here last Wednesday aboard the Queen Elizabeth 2.

He said the heroin was packed in half-kilo glassine bags that were hidden under a false floorboard, filled an empty section of the transmission and were stuffed in hollow compartments in the doors.

"It appeared as if they had put the heroin in and then built the car around it," said one agent.

"This is obviously the work of top professionals, because by outside examination you could not tell that the car had been dismantled to secrete the heroin," Ingersoll said.

Charged with conspiracy to smuggle drugs were Jean Pierre Andre Huguen, 36, of Marseilles; Etienne Charles Gunther and his wife Raymonde, both 33, of Paris; and two Cuban refugees, George Warren-Perez, 48, and Luis Gomez Ortega, 37, both of whom now live in North Bergen, N.J.

The largest heroin seizure in New York City was 246 pounds taken in 1968.

US Troop Strength Cut

SAIGON (AP)—The U.S. Command cutback today 300 American troops from Vietnam last week, the smallest one-week reduction in troop strength since last January.

The command said U.S. strength was pared to 215,000 men as of last Thursday.

Maj. Richard Gardner said the command was working toward the goal of 184,000 by Dec. 1.

Troop cutbacks currently are running ahead of President Nixon's timetable and are expected to lower U.S. strength to about 175,000 men Dec. 1.

Last week's reduction was the smallest since the last week of January when no troops were withdrawn.

Substation Is Bombed

LONDON (AP) — An explosion ripped through an electricity substation under London's Chelsea Bridge early today. No one was injured police reported.

In recent months an underground group called the Angry Brigade has claimed responsibility for bombings at the homes of British officials.

Chelsea Bridge leads across the Thames from the fashionable Chelsea district to Battersea Park and the Battersea power station. It is about 1½ miles from the houses of Parliament.

FOR TALKS WITH GROMYKO

Rogers Going To UN

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers plans to go to the United Nations Friday for talks with Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko and other foreign ministers as the General Assembly takes up China seating and a successor to retiring Secretary General U Thant.

Efforts to trim the soaring U.N. budget, reform of the world body's economic policy and heading off some extreme anti-South African proposals also rank high.

The Mideast rates priority too. But Rogers is looking toward backstage talks with the Israelis, Egyptians and others to produce enough progress to ward off a heads-on U.N. confrontation over the issue.

With Gromyko, the Secretary of State intends to run through a lengthening list of items ranging from the Middle East to the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT).

The SALT negotiators made some headway at Helsinki this summer but more political decision making is needed before the superpowers achieve their avowed goal of a limitation on anti-ballistic missiles, (ABMs) and offensive missiles by the end of this year.

Meanwhile the two sides are preparing to announce side agreements on modernizing the Washington-Moscow hot line and on prompt consultation in case of nuclear accidents.

Rogers also wants to know more about the Kremlin's intent on a European Security Conference and negotiating mutual troop reductions in Europe, now that the Big Four have reached a Berlin agreement.

Rogers interrupts his U.N. stay Saturday to fly to Alaska for President Nixon's meeting with Japan's Emperor Hirohito. He is to return to New York to deliver the main U.S. speech to the General Assembly Oct. 1 and will meet with a number of foreign ministers in the following week.

The China fight is headed for an Assembly vote next month with U.S. officials saying they have a good chance of preventing Nationalist China's ouster while allowing Peking a seat.

George Bush, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, said "I think the important question resolution has an excellent chance to carry and I think that will do a lot to keep them (Taiwan) in the United Nations."

Bush, speaking on CBS television (Face the Nation) Sunday, referred to the U.S.-sponsored resolution which would require a two-thirds vote to expel a member.

Nationalist China's Foreign Minister, Chow Shu-kai, said on NBC's "Meet the Press" Peking's admission "would spell the end of the U.N. itself." But he refused to say whether his government will pull out if Red China comes in.

139,000 Attend Crusade

DALLAS (AP) — More than an estimated 1,000 persons answered a call to "commit their lives to Christ" at evangelist Billy Graham's Greater Southwest Crusade Sunday.

A crowd of 43,400 in Texas Stadium heard Dr. Graham warn: "Judgment Day is coming. Are you ready?"

"Do you think the Son of God is coming today?" Graham asked. "Most of you will say 'no,' but the Bible says, 'Watch, therefore, for you know not what hour the Lord will come.'"

The crowd, which sent the three-day attendance to 139,900, gave special guest Ethel Waters a standing ovation. She and the 5,000-member choir sang the song which Miss Waters made famous, "The Eye Is On the Sparrow."

A light drizzle fell during the service, and Dr. Graham talked about Noah and his ark.

"God had lost patience with the world as it was and decided to end the human race and start over," he said. "But He saw one man living for God and told him he would be saved...Noah built the ark by faith."

Dr. Graham said Noah tried to warn his neighbors to repent and join him, but he won no converts and when the rains came, "God closed the door of the ark."

Only Noah, the man "who dared to stand for God," was saved, Dr. Graham said.

Stolen Cubs Recovered

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A pair of five-week-old leopard cubs stolen from the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus were recovered Friday night—hungry but otherwise unharmed.

The female cubs were stolen early Friday morning from a cage in Memorial Coliseum.

One was found wandering on a street about a mile from the coliseum. The other was found in Overlook Park, about four miles away.

The circus had offered a $200 "no questions asked" reward for return of the cubs. A spokesman said two men who found one of them declined a reward. The man who found the other accepted part of the $200.

Laird Issues Warning

WARRENTON, Va. (AP) — The United States could fall behind the Soviet Union in military strength within two years if Congress cuts Pentagon spending, says Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird.

"I can assure you we are not going to be able to decrease military spending," Laird told newsmen Saturday at the conclusion of a two-day conference attended by top Pentagon military and civilian officials.

Laird said the Soviet Union has achieved tremendous momentum in its nuclear weapons growth and could be militarily stronger than the United States by 1973 if his proposed defense budget of about $80 billion for the year that begins next July 1 is cut even two or three per cent.

Laird did not elaborate on the basis for his statement about Russia's "tremendous momentum," the strongest such statement he has made about Soviet gains.

But Pentagon sources asid he was referring to bigger-than-expected growth in Soviet intercontinental ballistic missiles and missile-firing submarines.
