Brannan To Submit Support Plan Today

New Farm Program Ready For Congress

By DARRELL GARWOOD
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 6 — Agriculture Secretary Brannan is expected to present the administration's proposals for changes in farm price supports to Congress tomorrow.

Brannan will submit the new farm program when he appears at 9 a. m. (CST) before a joint session of the House and Senate Agriculture committees.

The agricultural program will include long-delayed details of how the administration hopes to conduct the vast business of holding up farm prices.

Storage Bin Plan Okayed

Meanwhile, one phase of the administration's agricultural program cleared the House Agriculture committee with a large margin to spare today when that group approved, 19 to 5, a bill to permit government construction of grain storage bins.

The bill, previously approved by the Senate Agriculture committee, would restore the government's power to store farm surpluses in its own bins. It would also permit the exchange of surpluses abroad for strategic war materials.

Brannan's plan is expected to involve:

1. An entirely new system of determining "parity," with a sliding scale for computing support levels on a basis of production. The wartime system of guaranteeing prices at a flat 90 per cent of parity appears to have been definitely scrapped.

New Benefit Program Slated

2. A new system of paying benefits to farmers who will reduce major crop acreages, conserve the soil, and convert marginal land to "grassland" agriculture.

The key economic problem in the new program is to prevent the production of surpluses of such size that it would strain the government's resources to dispose of them.

A political "must" is to present a program satisfactory to the farmers, who are generally credited with helping to give Mr. Truman his margin of victory in the last election.

Mr. Truman vigorously attacked the action of the 80th Congress in banning government-own-

73 Feared Dead In Hospital Fire

EFFINGHAM, Ill., April 6. (INS)—The toll of dead and missing in Effingham's St. Anthony's hospital fire was revised upward to 73 late today by the Catholic church's emergency information center.

Sixty-eight persons, including 12 infants, are known to have perished in the nation's second worst hospital disaster.

Information center officials feared the bodies of five others still missing would be found in the ruins of the 62-year-old building. The information center based its estimate on the first complete cross-check made in the disaster.

Governor Visits Scene

According to the check, 128 persons were in the hospital when it was swept by flames early yesterday. The information center said there are 55 survivors.

The bodies of 63 persons have been recovered from the ruins. Five others died of injuries after escaping the three-story building.

The rescue efforts today were watched by dazed townspeople, still unable to realize that the fire and tragedy were realities.

Officials at the scene said 59 of the victims have been identified.

Gov. Adlai Stevenson rushed to Effingham today and ordered the state fire marshal's office to begin an immediate investigation.

State fire marshall Pat Kelly also was ordered to begin inspections of all hospitals.

New Hospital Planned

Some experts expressed the belief that the cause of the blaze never will be determined. The three-and-one-half story, 62-year-old building is only a blackened, scarred, hollow shell.

But Kelly was of the opinion

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 6. (INS)—The top floor of a three-story structure housing the Red Cross headquarters in Birmingham was destroyed by fire tonight.

The fire was discovered after the roof of the old building blazed up and quickly spread in a large area.

The adjoining YMCA gymnasium was threatened when the flames leaped to the roof. Firemen were able to extinguish the flames on the YMCA before serious damage was done.

Firemen estimated the damage at "thousands" of dollars.

Attempts To Change Aid Bill Beaten

By ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 6—Senate administration leaders won all tests today in their fight against major changes in the $5,580,000,000 bill for European recovery, but failed to get to a final vote.

Sharply rebuked for keeping the Senate in session late at night, majority leader Lucas (D-Ill) recessed the chamber at 6:08 p.m.

But once again, he called the senators back at 11 a.m. tomorrow—an hour early—to resume the debate which has been droning on for 11 days. Nearly 20 amendments still await action.

Would Deny Aid To Dutch

In seven hours today, the Senate rejected a Republican move to toss the whole question of how many billions in American aid should be spent in fiscal 1950 into the hands of the Senate Appropriations committee.

The bill they have been debating since March 23 merely puts a ceiling on the money to be appropriated later.

The lawmakers adopted an administration-approved amendment by Senator Brewster (R-Me) to deny American aid to any nation singled out for punishment by the United Nations for violation of the UN charter. This was aimed at the Netherlands, arising from the failure of the Dutch, so far, to obey a United Nations request for settlement of the Dutch-Indonesian strife in the East Indies.

Nerves Are Frayed

Angry words crackled as floor leaders of both parties tried to speed up the pace of the slow-moving debate on the proposed bill for carrying on the Marshall plan another 15 months.

The fraying of senatorial nerves was highlighted by an explosive clash between Senator Morse (R-Ore) and majority leader Lucas (D-Ill) with Morse accusing Lucas of "cracking the whip" and treating senators "like kindergarten kids."

Morse went on:

"Some of us happen to be prima donnas enough not to want to be treated as grade school kids by a strong master who says if we

Boost In Airlift Funds Approved

WASHINGTON, April 6 (INS)—The House Appropriations committee today allotted the Berlin airlift an extra $43 million to "keep 'em flying" on the major cold war front.

The committee's earnest support of "operation vittles," slated for approval by the full House membership Thursday, precluded expected over-the-budget appropriations for the entire Air Force next week.

The additional airlift funds were included in a deficiency appropriation measure also carrying money for the Atomic Energy commission and for stockpiling critical defense materials.

The bill carried $671 million in all to finance these and other non-defense agencies and projects until the new fiscal year begins July 1.

The appropriations committee in a report to the House stated that the airlift, which has flown food and fuel over a Rusian blockade since last summer to keep two million west Berliners alive, will cost $153 million by June 30.

The Air Force paid $100 million of the bill out of its regular appropriation but asked the committee for extra money when funds ran low.

The committee granted the re-

FBI Arrests Houston Man In Bank Hold-Up

HOUSTON, April 6. (AP) — A 40-year-old unemployed man was arrested by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents tonight and charged with the Monday robbery of the suburban Almeda State bank.

Galen N. Willis, special agent in charge of the Houston FBI office, identified the man as Sigmund Weil. The man was arrested in a Houston apartment.

A lone gunman robbed the bank of $4,550 in cash shortly before noon Monday after threatening the bank's vice president and cashier, W. P. Traylor, with an automatic pistol.

Willis said Weil will be arraigned before U. S. Commissioner W. F. Carothers at 10 a. m.

The FBI agent also said all of the stolen money has been recovered.

Scientist Announces Discovery Of Important 'Man-Ape' Fossil

(By International News Service)

BERKELEY, Calif., April 6. — Discovery of a new fossil of a "man-ape" was announced for the first time today in Berkeley.

Dr. Robert Broom, 82, noted South African scientist, exhibited at a news conference the cast of the upper jaw of a female "man-ape" which died more than a million years ago.

The jawbone was found in a South African cave by Dr. Broom while working with the University of California African expedition.

Dr. Broom who has discovered more fossil "man-apes" than any other scientist said the female jawbone belonged to a member of the Swartkrans group who were apparently ancestors of man.

Teeth in the upper jaw were typically human and unlike those of the apes.

Dr. Broom pointed out that from the shape of the palate it was assumed that the woman had a large nose unlike apes. He said marks on the specimen indicated the female had been dragged to the cave and devoured by a saber-tooth tiger.

East And West Renew Clashes In UN Over Churchmen's Trials

By GEORGE PALMER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LAKE SUCCESS, April 6—East-West clashes began in the United Nations today over the Communist prosecutions of Josef Cardinal Mindzenty in Hungary and 15 Protestant churchmen in Bulgaria.

The United States led off by proposing that the UN study the cases in the light of peace treaty guarantees and UN pronouncements on civil and religious rights.

The Soviet bloc came back with the contention that these cases were internal matters and no business of the UN. Its Polish spokesman pointed out that besides that neither Bulgaria nor Norway belongs to the UN and neither has responsibilities toward the world organization.

The argument flared as expected in the 14-nation steering committee of the General Assembly.

The committee recessed until 9:30 a.m. (CST) tomorrow without reaching a decision on how the cases will be presented for full-dress debate in the 58-nation political com-

RED BLAST LABELED PROPAGANDA

U. S. To Ignore New Soviet Atlantic Alliance Protest

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 6. — The United States today brushed aside Russian protests against the North Atlantic defense pact as sheer party-line propaganda.

The Moscow note claiming the pact is an aggressive move against the Soviet Union will go unanswered beyond the 12-power statement rejecting the charges last week.

Simultaneously, however, the State department viewed with concern the recent series of Soviet-inspired border incidents against Iran. Officials frankly were at a loss in determining what evaluation should be placed on these militant gestures.

German Problem Discussed

Neither situation deterred the United States, Great Britain and France from proceeding with their plans to set up a separate government in western Germany. Russia has been fighting this partition with every means short of war.

Secretary of State Acheson, British Foreign Secretary Bevin and French Foreign Minister Schuman discussed the German problem for two hours today and reported "excellent progress."

The 12 western foreign ministers who signed the Atlantic pact already have joined in a public statement branding the Russian objections to the alliance as a propaganda move.

No Statement Necessary

Today, State department spokesman Michael J. McDermott again called attention to the fact that Moscow began this line of attack long before the Atlantic treaty had even been reduced to writing. He noted that all of the signatories are fully agreed it is purely defensive in nature, and added:

"In view of the many public statements which have been made on this subject, it is not believed that any further statement is necessary."

Reports from the U. S. embassy at Teheran were being carefully studied by top officials here to ascertain the significance of half a dozen clashes on the Russo-Iranian border in the past few weeks.

Decision was reserved as to whether they could be discounted as the activities of "trigger-happy" border patrols, or whether a calculated reason was behind them.

U. S. Resents Charges

Some officials thought the Soviets were either deliberately intensifying the war of nerves against Iran, or were probing the border with a view to future infiltration.

McDermott expressed the U. S. government's resentment over

Gem With Tragic Background Swaps Hands In New York

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, April 6.—A mailman stepped from a heavily-guarded armored truck today with a small, paper-wrapped package. Passing through lines of policemen he handed it to Manhattan jeweler Harry Winston.

Winston opened the package and took out a rare jewel collection valued at more than $1,000,000. Thus began a new chapter in the long, tragic story of the Hope diamond.

Purchased From Estate

The diamond was part of the collection Winston purchased from the estate of the late Evalyn Walsh McLean, prominent Washington society leader.

It cost $159.87 to send the collection by mail from Washington to New York at an insured value of $1,100,000.

The Hope diamond—44½ carats, of rare, deep sapphire blue and flawless purity—is an oval gem one and one-eighth inches long by seven-eighths of an inch wide.

It was smuggled out of India in 1642 by a French adventurer who was later torn to pieces by wild dogs. Numerous French historical figures associated with the gem had tragic ends.

"Looks like we will have to start raising our temperature forecasts now," the forecaster declared, "as spring seems here to stay." Yesterday's low was 43 degrees.

Fair and mild weather was forecast for today and Friday. Readings near 80 degrees are expected today and tomorrow, the station said. Minimum readings in the low 40's are predicted. Gentle winds are expected to blow.

U. S. Urged To Share Power With Europe

By MORGAN REYNOLDS
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 6—America's military leaders urged the nation today to share its armed might and forces with western Europe and thus help forestall a war which Secretary of the Army Royall said might last 20 years—"perhaps more."

While declaring that war is not imminent nor unavoidable, top officials of the Army, Navy and Air Force laid heavy stress on the need for unified preparation now as they joined in the nationwide observance of Army day.

They spoke out on the eve of a new attempt to weld this country's three armed services into a better fighting team through smoother operations of the unification system. This effort is to be made under direction of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower at closed door sessions with the joint chiefs of staff starting tomorrow at Key West, Fla.

HST Reviews Parade

President Truman himself pointed up the new unity drive in telling Chairman Tydings (D-MD) of the Senate Armed Services committee he is anxious to bring about a "complete team atmosphere." Mr. Truman talked with Tydings at the White House before the Senate committee opened hearings on the President's plan to give the secretary of defense specific authority to enforce the unification program.

Later in the day, the President reviewed an hour-long parade of Army forces along Constitution avenue. Joning the marching troops were Marine, Navy and Air Force units in what observers said was a symbolic farewell to the separate observances of special days for the three armed services.

Henceforth, they said, there will be only a National Security day on which all the military branches will be honored. This would do away with Navy day, on October 27 and Air Force day on September 18.

Although today was set aside for special tribute to the men of the Army, speakers put greater emphasis on present and future needs for team strategy and operations—both here and abroad.

That theme was set forth last

Board Members Assume Duties

Clyde G. Tatum, re-elected Saturday to his second term on the board of trustees of Lubbock Independent School district, was named chairman of the group for the second time at a called meeting of the board last night at the school tax office.

Tatum's election as chairman, along with those of Vice Chairman M. M. Ewing and Secretary G. C. Dowell, followed a canvass of the votes in Saturday's election and the passage of a motion declaring Tatum, Don L. Jones and Ruel C. Martin duly elected as members of the board.

Official Canvass Made

The oath of office was administered to Tatum and Martin by A. C. Jackson, business manager, in his capacity as notary public. Jones was out of the city last night and will be sworn into office on his return.

Martin and Jones replace E. J. Parsons and C. H. Brownie Hamilton, retiring members of the board. Neither of the two latter men sought re-election for another term. Parsons served 12 years on the board prior to retiring, and Hamilton had completed one three-year term.

The canvass of votes made official the results of the election on

Search Planned For 'Lost' Gold

(By The Associated Press)

HOT SPRINGS, N.M., April 6—A story of gold bars "stacked like cordwood" in a lost cave spurred a treasure search near here today.

The tale—about a miner who stumbled on the cavern, found it filled with metal ingots and gems, subsequently lost it attempting to blast a larger entrance and then was killed—came to light with the extension of a prospector's permit.

Mrs. Ova E. Noss, middle-aged widow of the slain miner, supplied most of the details. The Hot Springs woman is directing the hunt. Of its prospects she said:

"We should know the answer within a few days."

Death Strikes Party

Mrs. Ross said her estranged husband, M. E. (Doc) Noss, continued a companion search until he was fatally shot March 5. His financial backer, Charlie Ryan of Alice, Tex., has been charged with murder. Peace officers said the two argued before the shooting at nearby Hatch.

Another party to the treasure hunt died violently just the day before. He was Curtis Noble, jr., of Edgewood, N.M., killed in a plane crash while trying to drop a note to a ground party.

The search centers in a rugged San Andres mountain area about 40 miles northeast of Hatch. Mrs. Noss' state permit to prospect there for another month was issued yesterday.

Stumbled On Entrance

The woman's story involves the fabulous Padre Lareu mine, one of the legendary hidden treasures of the Southwest, the International News Service said.

(Guy Shepard, state land commissioner, granted Mrs. Noss an additional 30 days to find the lost mine, approving a one-month extension of her prospectors permit which was scheduled to expire Sunday. Mrs. Noss said her husband had contended that he had found the mine which contained an estimated $22,000,000 in gold bullion, the INS added.)

She told this story in answer to an Albuquerque Journal reporter's questions:

Her husband stumbled upon the entrance to the cave during a 1937 deer hunt. It was a vertical hole with inscriptions, apparently Indian, carved in the walls. Noss descended several times. A bottomless crevice and an underground stream halted him twice, but one day he worked his way into a big cave.

Efforts For World Peace Are Stressed

By ROBERT G. NIXON
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 6.—President Truman declared tonight he would not hesitate to use the atomic bomb again to save the democracies of the world from destruction by an aggressor.

The Chief Executive made this unequivocal statement on Army day evening to an assemblage of cabinet members, leaders of both houses of Congress and more than 100 new members of Congress who rode to victory with him in November.

At the same time, the President expressed the hope and belief that the world is now progressing to the point where the atomic bomb may never have to be used again in war.

Speaks At Dinner

The President said fervently:

"I hope and pray that (use of the atomic bomb) will never be necessary."

The presidential bombshell came during an extemporaneous talk to a get-together dinner arranged by the Democratic national committee for Mr. Truman to meet the "freshmen" members of Congress.

The buffet dinner was held in a downtown Washington hotel.

Would Use Bomb Again

The President, after telling of the decision he had to make in July, 1945, to use the then secret atomic bomb against Japan, said:

"I made that decision because I thought 200,000 of our young men would be saved by making that decision, and some 300,000 or 400,000 Japanese would be saved by making that decision.

"Now I believe that we are in a position where we will never have to make that decision again, but if it has to be made for the welfare of the United States—and the democracies of the world are at stake—I wouldn't hesitate to make it again.

"I hope and pray that will never be necessary."

U. S. Offered Secret

The President said he believes that the North Atlantic mutual defense pact "is a step that will prevent our having to make a decision to use the bomb again."

Mr. Truman said that the United States has repeatedly offered to give the world the atomic secret to guarantee peace, if only a world agreement on control of the weapon could be reached.

The President did not mention the fact that Soviet Russia has vetoed such an arrangement for control of the fearsome weapon.

He said:

"In the history of the world there has never been a republic, a monarchy or a totalitarian state

Tech Group To Hold Army Day Program

A parade, luncheon club speech, and open house at Texas Tech's military science department today will highlight a belated observance of Army Day in Lubbock.

Army Day was celebrated throughout the nation Wednesday, but special activities here were postponed so that they would coincide with the regular Thursday drill period of the Tech ROTC.

The 15-minute parade, featuring more than 500 Tech ROTC members including the unit's 28-piece band, will form at 3:45 p. m. at Main and Ave. O, march east on Main to Texas, then south on Texas to Broadway. Then it will march west on Broadway to the Tech campus. The 132nd Field Artillery battalion, Lubbock National Guard unit, will also take part in the parade.

The military science department at the college will complete its two-day "open house" observance today.

Lt. Col. Ross Ayers, commanding officer of the National Guard here, will be featured speaker at the weekly Kiwanis club luncheon in Hotel Lubbock at noon.

Local American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars officials have indicated that their organizations plan no special programs.

PRODUCTION NEARING DEMAND

Auto, Steel Price Cuts Point To End Of Last Major Shortages

By RAYMOND H. WILSON
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 6—There were unmistakable signs today that the last of the major shortages — steel and automobiles — may be near an end.

Steel production is rapidly approaching demand, and genuine competition is returning to the automobile industry for the first time in more than eight years.

In addition, Inland Steel company, a big independent producer, announced that it is cutting its price on steel rails $6 a ton. The move brought predictions from industry observers that widespread price breaks may be in the offing.

'Buyers' Market' Returning

These developments coupled with the return of a buyers' market in nearly every other phase of the domestic economy, are making the sledding continually tougher for President Truman's anti-inflation program.

But the Democratic party leaders have an answer for anyone who says controls are not needed.

National Chairman J. Howard McGrath maintains that the program is not so much an anti-inflation measure as it is an "economic stability program." He insisted that "drops in prices, even though scattered and not of major importance, are just as much an argument for the economic stability program as are sudden rises in prices."

Biggest news of the week in the steel industry is the price of steel scrap. At the beginning of 1949, steel producers were paying $43 a ton for both No. 1 and No. 2 grade heavy melting scrap.

Now, however, the No. 2 grade is selling for $25 a ton at Pittsburgh. While no one has purchased any No. 1 grade in the past few days, it is believed it would bring less than $30 a ton.

Recent developments in steel have been reflected in the auto industry. There, manufacturers are vying with one another in cutting prices. They say the cuts have been made possible, in part, by lower material costs.

General Motors was first, and was followed by Willys-Overland, Kaiser-Frazer, Ford and Nash. The spotlight is now on Chrysler, the single holdout among the "big three" of the automobile industry.

Price cuts in the metals industry have not been restricted to steel. Lead prices have dropped from 21-½ cents a pound to about 17 cents since early March. The trend has spread to some other important metals, including zinc and copper.

CARACAS, Venezuela, April 6 (U.P.) — The daily newspaper El Nacional probably will be ordered to cease publication for three days because of the government's dissatisfaction with its handling of a news dispatch, officials of the newspaper said today.

The dispatch concerned the resumption of diplomatic relations between Spain and Venezuela.

The suspension was ordered by the military Junta now in power.

The Communist weekly Tribuna Popular was suspended for a month because of its report on the matter.

All other directors and officers were re-elected at the annual stockholders' meeting.

Federal Licenses For Colorado River Projects Are Ruled Out

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—The power commission ruled today that two hydroelectric projects on the Colorado river in Texas do not require federal licenses.

The commission made the same ruiling concerning an existing dam on the same river.

Technically, the commission said, the two proposed power dams would not affect interstate or foreign commerce. This eliminates the necessity for federal licenses.

The Lower Colorado River authority proposes to construct dams known as Marble Falls and Granite Shoals, and to maintain a third dam at Austin.

The Granite Shoals dam would be 16 miles upstream from Marble Falls, forming a 7,320- acre reservoir. The Marble Falls dam would be three miles below Marble Falls and create a 620-acre reservoir.

The Austin dam, built in 1893 by the city and rebuilt several times, forms 5,000-acre reservoir.

States' Rights Demos Vote To Organize In All Texas Counties

FORT WORTH, April 6 (U.P.)—States Rights Democrats of Texas, soundly beaten in last fall's elections, gathered up their forces today for another try.

The States Righters' 62-member executive committee has voted to set up a formal organization in every Texas county. Curtiss Douglass of Pampa, chairman of the committee, said the aim would be a "vigorous educational program" dedicated to upholding principles of the "original" Democratic party.

Lloyd Price of Fort Worth took exception to use of the name "Dixiecrat" as applies to the States Rights movement. It was, he said, a "smear term" applied during last fall's presidential campaign.

Fort Worth To Honor Globe-Circling Fliers

FORT WORTH, April 6 (AP)—The men who made the non-stop flight around the world will be honored here tomorrow.

They will be paraded, dined, and made honorary lifetime citizens of Fort Worth. Amon G. Carter, Fort Worth publisher, will present special awards for aeronautical achievement.

Capt. James Gallagher and the crew who flew the B-50 bomber, Lucky Lady II, around the world, will arrive by plane here at noon tomorrow. Since their globe-girdling flight, which ended here March 2, the fliers have been on leave to visit their families.

Lemay To Attend Rites

Lt. Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, chief of the Strategic Air command, will arrive from Omaha to take part in the ceremonies.

After a ceremony at Carswell field, the airmen will ride in open cars through downtown Fort Worth.

At a dinner tomorrow night, Edgar Deen of Fort Worth will confer lifetime Fort Worth citizenship on the fliers. Six hundred persons are expected to attend the dinner.

Captain Gallagher and his men will come to Fort Worth in two transport planes. REDS THREATEN TO OPEN ATTACK

Chinese Communists Demand Nationalist Army Surrender

By SEYMOUR TOPPING
Associated Press Staff Writer

NANKING, April 6—The Chinese Communists today handed the government an ultimatum to surrender its army by April 12 and acting President Li Tsung-Jen reportedly refused.

Official Chinese quarters said the Communists threatened to drive across the Yangtze into south China by the deadline. The Red radio kept up a propaganda drumfire, calling for immediate government surrender.

Semi-official sources said Li still is trying desperately to strike a better bargain with the Reds. He was keeping the diplomatic corps in Nanking informed of the grave turn of events.

Li is said to have informed the diplomats that the Red ultimatum amounted to virtual surrender. He could not accept it in that form.

The harsh terms were brought from Peiping, where the peace talks are in progress, by the Communist representatives.

Political observers speculated that even if Li gave in he could not deliver the 200,000-man garrison in the Nanking - Shanghai-Hangchow triangle

Chiang May Return

The garrison is commanded by Gen. Tang En-Po, whose loyalty is to Chiang, not Li.

Shielded by the triangle is the retreat of "retired" President Chiang Kai-Shek at Fengwha, 100 miles south of Shanghai.

Observers said if Li surrenders Chiang may emerge from his retreat and lead the final struggle against the Communist tide in south China.

Li then would be in a position to surrender only the somewhat smaller force guarding the central Yangtze front around Hankow.

Gen. Pai Chung-Hsi, an old crony, commands there. Pai is said to have been given a copy of the Red terms by Li who later rejected them.

Government quarters said the Red ultimatum actually was directed mainly at gaining control of Pai's troops, which are the best left on the government side.

Li also is reported to have turned down a proposal that he go to Peiping to serve on a joint committee for supervising the transfer of Nationalist armies to Communist control.

The ultimatum said the committee would have to be set up by Saturday. The army transfer would have to be completed three days later. Failing that, the powerful Red armies might cross the Yangtze.

Tech Students Will Visit Oil Locations

The senior petroleum engineering students at Texas Tech will make a field trip to the Stanolind Oil company's off-shore drilling locations near Galveston during the Easter holidays at the college.

W. L. Ducker, head of the P. E. department, said only 45 students would be allowed to go. They will leave Lubbock by chartered bus Thursday, April 14, and arrive in Galveston early the next morning. The group will then proceed to the locations on the continental shelf. The operations are about two and one-half hours by boat off the coastline.

After an all day examination, the students will return to Galveston to spend the night. They will return to Lubbock April 16.

Ducker said Saturday noon was the deadline for students who wished to make the trip to turn in their names. If there are not enough seniors able to go, some underclassmen will be allowed to make the trip. He also said expenses on the trip would not exceed $20, which includes lodging and transportation.

This is the second year the department has gone on a field trip. Last year they visited Tulsa.

Less than 1,000 people now live in Virginia City, Nev., which in the gold rush days of the 1870s had a population of 30,000.

Reports Show U. S. Men Live More Dangerously Than Women

NEW YORK, April 6 (INS)—American men live more dangerously than their women—and here are some figures to prove it:

The Metropolitan Insurance company said tonight the death rate from accidents among white males is 2.3 times that of women.

In 1946—the latest year for which detailed figures are available—the death rates from accidents were 97.7 for men and 42.8 for women, per 100,000.

The company attributes the disparity to man's "generally greater venturesomeness, and his greater exposure to risk in occupational activities and in sports and recreation."

TEXAS LADY LOSES 47 POUNDS

The following remarkable story shows conclusively that Barcentrate DOES take off fat.

It contains nothing harmful. In fact, it contains ingredients that make you feel better. No starvation diet—no weakness—no hunger. Barcentrate, the original grapefruit juice recipe, takes off fat quickly, safely and you can eat plenty.

Here is what Mrs. H. P. Bishop, Route 2, Stamford, Texas, wrote us:

"I am very glad to endorse Barcentrate, so please accept my sincere thanks and appreciation for the great benefit I derived from its use. I not only lost weight, but also looked and felt better in every way.

"I had to have a very serious operation and was told that I must lose a lot of weight before the operation could be performed. I went on a diet and tried very hard to reduce, but wasn't losing much weight until I heard of Barcentrate. I began taking it and could soon tell the difference in the way I felt and the weight I was losing. I weighed 200 pounds when I started and I lost a total of 47 pounds and was able to undergo my operation. I can truthfully recommend it to others, since it did so much for me."

At all druggists

If you are overweight and want to take off ugly fat, just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take just two tablespoonfuls twice a day. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, safe way to take off weight, return the empty bottle for your money back.

NO harmful drugs, NO dope — is NOT habit forming. Contains ONLY Nature's minerals, the oldest, most reliable remedy for rheumatism, arthritis, kidney and stomach ailments — highly recommended by the medical profession.

FOR THOUSANDS of years ever since Hipocrates was the father of medicine, minerals and other natural medicines were a reliable remedy for most of our common ailments. GEO-MINERAL will enrich your blood, help to make you strong, full of pep, life and energy. If you suffer from nutritional anemia, nervousness, lack of vitality and energy see what GEO-MINERAL will do for you.

Amazing Results

MEDICAL records show 65% of men and women over 35 suffer from nutritional mineral-iron anemia. When you feel nervous, dull, tired, lazy, have dizzy spells, no ambition to work or play, a poor appetite, when your eyes lack that bright spark, and your mind brilliance, when headaches get the best of you, and you feel old before your time, and life seems not worth living, with worry wearing you down—it may be simply lack of minerals in your blood. GEO-MINERAL is then what you need.

RHEUMATISM, arthritis are dreadful diseases. Acid coddition in the blood is often their cause. What could be the remedy? For thousands of years, minerals have been used to relieve the pain and suffering of these ills. People, on the advice of their doctors, go to mineral springs to find cure, or relief. The late President Roosevelt used to go to Warm Springs in Georgie. He was helped or would not have gone there twice a year.

Wonder Minerals

YEAR after year, people rush to mineral springs and spas, to drink and bathe in their miraculous water. We have all heard of the wondrous springs of Lourdes, France, and famous Thronion in ancient Greece where, according to legend, Hercules, the god of eternal strength and youth, drank its waters and bathed to be forever young.

GEO-MINERAL contains minerals you get at the world's best springs. Watch your elimination from your bowels a day or two after using it. The waste, black as the color of your shoes, will start to break away, and you will SEE it! Also examine your urine. You may see impurities — poisonous waste — coming out of your kidneys, relieving you. And then realize the priceless value of GEO-MINERAL.

Read What They Say!

"We wish to state that after selling Geo-Mineral for eight months, this product has broken all sales records in the medicine line in our drug store"—reports Jack Wright, owner of Economy Drug Co., Anderson, S. C. "Users report almost miraculous results helping sufferers with rheumatism, arthritis, weak kidneys, and various stomach ailments. We believe that there exist very few items on the druggists' shelf with the merit of this natural mineral medicine. Of thousands of bottles sold on guarantee basis, there have been very few refunds."

100% Guaranteed!

WE URGE everyone to try GEO-MINERAL. Do not hesitate one moment. Go to your drug store now. Get one bottle. Use it one week. If you are not 100 per cent satisfied, we will refund your money.

REGARDLESS of how long you have been suffering, and how many medicines you have tried before, GEO-MINERAL may be the remedy you need!

The Woman's Angle
By Ellen Miller

NEW note in introducing a speaker was struck by Mrs. O. M. McGinty of Spur, new first vice-president of Seventh district, Texas Federation of Women's clubs, when she introduced Tech Pres. D. M. Wiggins as guest speaker before the district convention session Wednesday morning.

Mrs. McGinty introduced Dr. Wiggins in the usual manner, and then declared she would introduce the audience to him. And the words she spoke impressed us as worthy of being passed on:

"A club woman," Mrs. McGinty said, "is a woman who believes that a rainbow is as real as an oil derrick. She is a woman who believes that it is not impossible to walk on water . . .

"Many of us have been making plans to attend this convention for an entire year, and it means a great deal to us. Yet, important though it is, there is not one of us who would not pick up our heels and speed home as fast as ever we could if we had any hint that a certain guy or a certain group of children needed us in any way . . .

"This is the contradiction of being a club woman—or of being any woman."

COMPARES WITH STATE

Seventh district, TFWC, can well be proud of its membership and convention attendance.

Mrs. John J. Perry of Sweetwater, president, who had attended six preceding district conventions this year, reported that attendance at none of the others had reached 300, while more than 600 women appeared for the programs here.

Seventh district is largest, both geographically and in number of clubs, in the state. But a true estimate of its size can be seen very clearly by comparison to the entire state of Delaware, where only 40 federated clubs are active. There are probably that many in Lubbock county alone.

LAST IMPRESSIONS

THE convention was impressive in many ways—with delightful luncheons, dinners and teas, inspiring reports of women's activities over the 49-county district, and interesting talks . . . but what we noticed first and will probably remember longest was the charming appearance of those who attended.

Seldom have we seen a large gathering of women when all the women were perfectly groomed and looking happy . . . but this was one outstanding time.

Belva Jean Blake was accompanist.

Spring flowers arranged in drift wood, greenery and Easter eggs decorated with faces were placed on the table. Dolls wearing Easter bonnets topped with sweetpeas decorated the speakers' table. Two hundred twenty-five persons attended.

Winners Listed

Mrs. Guy Smith of Tulia, district Folklore chairman, named Mrs. Chester McElrath of the Chillicothe Blue Bonnett Study club, as winner of a Folk story contest. Announcement was made by Mrs. Roy Barber of Amarillo that $90 has been contributed by the district to the state Penny Art fund; she presented the 1913 Study club of Memphis $5 for contributing the most to the fund. Mrs. Stone is retiring first vice president of Seventh district.

Memphis To Be Host To 1950 Convention

The 1950 convention of Seventh district, Texas Federation of Women's clubs, will meet in Memphis, it was decided at the closing session of the three-day district convention here Wednesday morning.

Installation of new officers, an address by Dr. D. M. Wiggins, president of Texas Technological college, a talk by Mrs. J. Howard Hodge, presidential nominee, TFWC, Midland, a memorial service for club members who have died during the past year, and a resume of club reports highlighted the final session.

The convention ending Wednesday is the largest district meeting ever held in TFWC history, it was announced. Mrs. Harry Sharp of Lubbock, chairman of the registration committee, reported that attendance included: 56 district officers, 13 state officers, 147 official delegates, 224 registered visitors and 169 other Lubbock women.

Installation Held

Mrs. James A. Allen of Childress was installed as president; Mrs. O. M. McGinty of Spur, as first vice-president; and Mrs. A. B. Boyd of Plainview, as second vice-president.

Appointive officers installed were Mrs. Kenneth E. Fink, Childress, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. J. H. Jernigan of Childress and Mrs. Raymond W. Harrah of Pampa, appointed members to the executive board; and Mrs. J. M. Crews of Childress, trustee of Seventh district, to the state executive board. Mrs. John J. Perry of Sweetwater, president of the state federation, acted as installing officer.

Date of the state convention in Austin, Nov. 16-18, was announced.

Dr. Wiggins, speaking on "A Look at the World Today," said that refusal to accept individual responsibility is among the grave dangers currently facing people of the world.

As people move from a rural to an industrialized society, the tendency is to turn responsibility over to others to a great extent, he said. When responsibility is delegated on and on, until it reaches state capitals and eventually Washington, the people at home then criticize the state of the world, but make no effort to remedy bad conditions, he declared.

"Individual responsibility is not a magic thing, and it is not innate in us," the college president stated. "It is a very important trait that each person must learn.

"It is not the duty of the school to save society or to build a new social system. Rather, the school should help individuals learn proper thinking, good attitudes and acquire abilities.

"Education at its highest level is that education teaching individuals to accept responsibility. We should teach our children responsibility on a world-wide basis, but it must start at home. Responsibility is within each individual, or it does not exist at all," Dr. Wiggins concluded.

Salute Given

In a salute to Texas club women, Mrs. Hodge paid tribute to their work in varied fields, especially their international goodwill program, citizenship programs and welfare activities.

"Achievements of Texas club women are many," Mrs. Hodge declared, "and deepest and finest of all is their sincere desire and earnest efforts to make their homes, communities, state and world a better place."

Memorial services for eight club women who have died during the past year were conducted by Mrs. James H. Goodman of Lubbock. The late members of this district were Mrs. Tommy G. Lyle, Ralls, past president of Ralls Study club; Mrs. T. D. Hobart, Pampa, charter member of El Progresso club; Mrs. Lucy Ford Myers, Amarillo, member of Pierian club; Mrs. Lera Watson Shugart, Spur, member of Twentieth Century club; Mrs. Annie Stone, Memphis, member of Delphian club; Mrs. E. M. Easter Togs Designed For Little Boys

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

The very young man about town who knows his P's and Q's is demanding functional finery for this year's Easter parade.

He has discovered those smooth and comfortable garments designed by Merry Hull, a young woman who has created two major revolutions in the fashion field—the first by inventing "finger-free" gloves, the second by a new conception of clothes for little boys.

When the resourceful Merry couldn't find the kind of clothes she deemed suitable for her own son and heir, small Christopher, she set out to design her own, and now is doing a landoffice business.

Small wearers of her "merry mite" togs have found that the suspenders don't slip, the pants don't sag, and the pockets are big enough to hold money, marbles and chalk, and the grownups like the way a feller looks in them.

For spring, 1949, Miss Hull presents a junior wardrobe keyed to a master color plan, with everything a boy needs, from sandbox shorts to Easter Parade suits. Most of the clothes are expandable, with tucks that can be let out to broaden shoulders or lengthen sleeves, all are tailored with the precision that goes into Dad's suits, and besides, they're cute.

SOME FOOD PRICES TO RISE UNDER PROGRAM

British Hopes For Tax Reduction Fade As Labor Government Unveils $13 Billion Austerity Budget

By CHARLES A. SMITH
INS Staff Correspondent

LONDON, April 6 — The Labor government jolted Britons tonight with a $13 billion "austerity budget" that offered no basic tax relief and even will hike the cost of some foods.

The overall defense part of the 1949-50 fiscal year expenditures will be $3,039,452,000.

Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the exchequer, warned a sobered House of Commons "there's no doubt whatever as to the need of continuing American aid." Commons was warned "no magic formula can take the place of hard work and disciplined action" to put Britain on her feet before Marshall plan aid ends in 1952.

Tax Relief Expected

The approaching 1950 election and last year's bookkeeping surplus of $1,408,000,000 had led many, including Laborites, to expect tax relief.

Sir Stafford wagged a finger at his silent Laborite colleagues and said: "We are not going to court electoral popularity . . .we have chosen our benefits in the form of extended social services."

The budget fixes estimated revenue at approximately $15,112,000,000, and expenditures at $13,232,000,000.

Net capital expenditures will shave the apparent surplus of $1,880,000,000 actually to a surplus of $56 million.

Sir Stafford warned of the "grave and baffling problem of our formidable dollar deficit" despite last year's sterling budget surplus, and said the dollar deficit still was running $1,440,000,000 yearly.

Food Prices Hiked

Reduction of food subsidies will raise cheese and meat prices six and two-thirds cents a pound, margarine, one and two-thirds cents, butter, three and one-third cents a pound.

Sir Stafford said subsidy reduction was needed because the system was "steadily getting out of hand."

"There is no room," he said, "for any substantial alteration in taxation in a downward direction," and added that heavy sales taxes will be maintained.

The chancellor noted a "degree of disinflation" in the United States and Britain and appealed to workers for restraint in making wage claims.

Beer Price Reduced

Sir Stafford reminded his Socialist comrades that they could not expect reduction of taxation when the regime has to find money to pay for the heavy cost of social services. This cost, he said, must be shared by all, including the workingman and housewife.

One item announced by Sir Stafford caused cheers — the reduction by one and two-thirds cents of the cost of a pint of beer.

The chancellor claimed the government's handling of 1948-49 finances resulted in a "far healthier situation," and listed these coming changes:

A new computing method whereby death duties on estates of over $140,000 will be increased moderately; heavy increases of telephone rates; small increases in postage rates, mainly in registration fees; the closing of minor loopholes in income tax dodging; a hike in the football betting tax from 20 to 30 per cent.

NO MAIL—William Allen of Long Beach, Calif., is fairly certain the postman won't call. When he went out to get the mail he found that a swarm of bees had taken over, inside and out. Now he's thinking of going into the honey business and building another mailbox. He lives in one of Long Beach's suburban areas. (AP Wirephoto.)

United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 6 — If the two great collective security treaties signed by the United States work out as expected, this nation will be committed to help defend against armed attack the borders of 30 other countries.

This commitment would cover the entire western hemisphere, all of Western Europe except Spain, Switzerland and Sweden, the islands of the North and South Atlantic, and a chunk of Africa called Algiers which belongs to France.

Setup Is Outlined

The treaties are the North Atlantic pact, signed here this week, and the Rio De Janeiro pact of 1947. The United States stands in the middle the strongest member of either group and the only nation eligible to both treaties. There never has been a commitment like this one before in the history of the world.

The commitment is qualified to this extent.

1. The North Atlantic treaty still must be ratified by the Senate. Ratification is probable.

2. The Rio pact is in effect with only 16 of the 20 eligible central and South American nations.

Of the 21 American republics including the United States, all but Ecuador signed the Rio pact. Argentina, Bolivia, Guatemala and Peru signed the pact but have not yet ratified.

Others Sign Pact

The nations which have ratified the Rio pact in addition to the United States are: Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Dominican Republic, Haiti, Honduras, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Salvador, Uruguay and Venezuela.

The nations which this week signed the Atlantic pact were: United States, Canada, Denmark, Iceland, Portugal, Great Britain, France, Italy, Netherlands, Norway, Belgium and Luxembourg.

This country, with 145,000,000 people whose industrial, technical and agricultural combination exceeds that of any other is the foundation of both collective security agreements. Population of all nations involved is about half a billion.

Methods of effecting the defense apparatus of the two treaties are somewhat different. But their objectives are about the same. The Rio pact says that all parties "agree that an armed attack by any state against any American state shall be considered an armed attack against all the American states."

The North Atlantic pact nations agree "that an armed attack against one or more of them in Europe or North America shall be considered an attack against them all."

Chairman Tom Connally, (D-Tex), of the Senate Foreign Relations committee has set April 18 as the tentative date for starting hearings on the treaty. Some committee members had insisted that hearings could not begin until the administration has detailed the arms-for-Europe program which is the backbone of the pact.

It appears there has been a hitch in the arms program somewhere. Budget Director Frank Pace called on Mr. Truman yesterday but got no word on how much the President wants to spend in arming Europe. Pace told questioners he expected to receive the figures from the State department shortly and had been instructed by the President to examine them with great care. It has been estimated that Mr. Truman will ask Congress to spend about $2,000,000,000 to help arm Europe against aggression.

Attorney Rebuked By Texas High Court For 'Disrespect'

AUSTIN, April 6 (AP)—The Supreme court today formally rebuked an attorney for submitting what it called a brief "couched in language disrespectful to the court and unbecoming a member of the bar."

It ordered a brief submitted in a motion for rehearing a West Texas land case stricken from its files and returned to the signer, Sterling Holloway of Fort Worth.

The expunged brief said the court's opinion in the case included "misstatements of fact and misstatements of law." It said the Supreme court had overruled a former opinion in the case "and did so without even a casual consideration of the authorities and arguments of the respondent."

Holloway was attorney for John Bryan Bryson, jr., in litigation with the Connecticut General Life Insurance company and others over lands in Concho county.

Westerners Drop Boys Club

Hamilton Hurls 9 To 0 Victory

Westerner Jimmy Hamilton set Boys Club down with four hits to win a shutout victory, 9-0, in a seven inning baseball game at the club diamond Wednesday afternoon.

Combined with timely hitting on the part of his teammates, Hamilton was never in trouble, issuing only one walk in the seven-inning stint on the mound. Joe Hall started for Boys Club, giving up three runs in the second frame on a walk and four solid hits, one by Hamilton which produced two runs. He was relieved by Jackie Martyn, but the Westerners had their eyes on the ball and kept hitting, although Martyn struck out the first four men to face him. He walked seven men in five innings.

Hinson Leads Westerners

Leading the hit parade for the Westerners was Powell Hinson with a double and a single in four times at the plate. He knocked in two runs with the double in the fifth inning. Jimmy Sexton, who has been a little weak in hitting to date, came through with two solid singles and also knocked in two runs in the fifth on his second single.

Jessie Fullerton hit his third home run in six games with nobody on base in the sixth inning. The lefthander lofted the ball on top of the Boys Club building in deep right field. Bob Brown, besides playing a sparkling game at his shortstop position, also hit a double in the second inning which scored one run.

First baseman Gerald Hise of Boys Club led their hitting with two singles in three trips to the plate. Buddy Manor got a one base blow in the third, and Martyn made the other hit.

Only one error in the field was made, and that was by Mayner of Boys Club, which allowed a run to score in the last inning. Fielding by the Westerners was noteworthy, and the infielders showed lots of hustle. Charles Galey showed up well at second, handling eight chances without a bobble.

Hitting for the Westerners showed lots of improvement, and some of the boys who have been having trouble at bat had a complete reversal of form.

Lubbock, Slaton To Meet

Galey led off the Westerner half of the second inning with a single, and advanced to second when Morris Turner walked. A single by Sexton with two outs filled the bases, and Hamilton drove in Galey and Turner. The next man up, Brown, doubled to score Sexton, and Jimmy Richards went out pitcher to first to retire the side.

In the fifth inning Richards, Fullerton, and Galey walked, after Brown struck out, and Hinson sent two runs across the plate with a double. Turner struck out, Garnet Reeves walked, and Sexton singled to score the other two runs in the inning.

Fullerton homered in the sixth, and Hinson scored on an error in the final inning after getting on base with his second hit.

Today at 4 o'clock at Chapman field diamond, Lubbock High school will play Slaton. A game with a Texas Tech nine is scheduled for Saturday.

Tulsa Expected To Lead Texas League

TULSA, Okla., April 6. (AP) — With the material on hand . . . plus reinforcements expected early in April from the parent Cincinnati club—the Tulsa Oilers should finish in the first division in the upcoming Texas league race.

More seasoned pitching and some outfield help already have been promised the Tulsa club which wound up just a game and a half out of first place last season.

Much of the success of manager Al Vincent's Oilers depends upon whether Cincinnati returns Johnny Lane, the diminutive sparkplug second baseman.

Last season Lane hit .321, drove in 50 runs, drew 118 bases on balls, and scored 115 runs. He is scheduled to open the season with Cincinnati—but there is a chance he will come back to Tulsa.

Five of the big stick men of the 1948 Tulsa club which led the league practically all season in hitting are gone. The Oilers finished with a team average of .282.

Gone to higher classification baseball in addition to Lane are Al Unser, catcher; Charlie Kress, first base; Tommy Tatum, outfielder, and the league's leading hitter, and Al Usher, outfielder.

Loss of those men along with pitchers Harry Perkowski and Bud Lively, who between them won 37 games, leaves the Oilers—and Cincinnati—with a big replacement problem.

A blind bogie featured play in the Ladies Weekly Golf association meeting at Lubbock Country club Wednesday.

In the 18 hole flight Mrs. T. E. Patterson won the blind bogie, and Mrs. George Soash was low in putting on the greens.

Winner of the 9 hole flight was Mrs. C. E. Hunley, and Mrs. Culver Hill carded the low putting score for the round.

Report Says Louis Not Paid For Bout

DALLAS, April 6. (AP) — The State Labor Commission tomorrow will investigate a report that Joe Louis was not paid for an exhibition bout here with Tex Boddie.

Deputy commissioner Alton Erickson said today a hearing will be conducted here by State Labor Commissioner M. B. Morgan.

Erickson said the Commission, which administers boxing and wrestling in Texas, was notified by Louis' manager, Marshall Miles, that the retired heavyweight champion was not paid his $3,500 guarantee for the fight.

He said at least five witnesses will be called for the hearing. They are Joey Rey, Southern Methodist university student who promoted the fight; Bill Hughes, deputy labor commissioner; Don Roby of Houston, and George Parker and Leon Woods, both of Dallas.

Louis outpointed Boddie, Omaha negro, decisively in the four-round exhibition last month.

Weaver Wins Main Mat Event

Buck Weaver won the main event at Sled Allen's wrestling arena Wednesday night, defeating Gene Blackley.

After 16 minutes of fast, hard fighting, Weaver was awarded the first fall after being thrown out of the ring by Blackley. The two grapplers were both in the ropes, and when they broke Weaver was thrown out and could not return as Blackley kicked him.

With his famous Texas bulldogger, Weaver made short work of the second fall, downing his opponent after six minutes.

Alex Kasaboski lived up to his reputation for rough-and-ready wrestling in the semi-final, but he almost had the fans in the ring before he downed Elmer Davis. The customers did not like his methods of fighting.

With a full crab Kasaboski took the first fall in 13 minutes, but Davis came back determined to win the second fall and succeeded in subduing the Russian with flying mares and a body pin in six minutes. But Kasaboski won the match with another full crab after 12 minutes of the third fall.

A substitution occured in the preliminary event when Johnny Carlan filled in for Glen Detton against Steve Nenoff. Detton's car broke down, and he arrived too late for the match.

Nenoff and Carlan fought to a draw in the 20 minute preliminary.

Tech Trackmen Suffer Injuries

With two top performers on the shelf with injuries, Coach Maxey McKnight of Texas Tech doesn't expect his track team to do too well in the quadrangular meet in Abilene Saturday.

Charles Reynolds, Border Conference sprint champion, broke a blood vessel in his foot and tore muscles Monday afternoon in practice. Ben Wilson, quarter and half miler, pulled a muscle in his leg. Both men will be out a week, Reynolds possibly longer.

Squad Handicapped

As a result of the injuries, Tech will be handicapped in the relays, as well as individual events, in meeting Abilene Christian, McMurry and Hardin-Simmons. Reynolds has been running the 100 and 220-yard dashes and on the mile relay teams. Wilson has been running the 440 and 880 yard runs and on the mile relay team.

Coach McKnight expects to use Ed Clepper, James Mullins and Seth Murphey again on his sprint relay quartet, with Joe Wilson, a quarter miler, replacing Reynolds. On the mile relay Costin Bufkin and Joe Wilson, regulars, will run along with Seth Murphey, a sprinter, and Harold Barber, a distance runner. Neither Murphey or Barber have run the quarter this year.

Clepper Is Wheelhorse

Clepper will be the wheel-horse in this weekend's meet, entering the high and low hurdles, broad and high jump and running on the sprint relay team. Charles Pinnell will run the hurdles and enter the pole vault and high jump.

Others on the team will be: Barber, distance runs; Bufkin, 440 and mile relay; Henry Briscoe, javelin; Jim Elliott, javelin and weights; Edgar Hawkins, distance runs; Mullins, sprints; Murphey, sprints; Ted Peabody, weights; Joe Overton, high and broad jumps; Ed Wilson, 880 yard run; Joe Wilson, 440 and mile relay; Frank Douglas, broad jump and 440; Claude Freeman, 1947 Border conference two-mile champion, distance runs; and Gerald Davis, weights.

Tech's team will travel to Abilene by bus Saturday morning.

Texas Sportsmen's Meet Set This Week

BROWNWOOD, April 6 (Special)—Winners at the Texas Sportsmen's Competition in Brownwood this coming weekend will go home well-stocked with every kind of equipment valuable to the hunter, fisherman, shooter or dog fancier, the prize list announced today by the Texas Wildlife Federation revealed.

Registration for the four-day competition gets underway Thursday, April 7 on the old Camp Bowie grounds, where all events will be held. State champions will be selected in skeet shooting, trap shooting, plug casting, fly casting, pistol marksmanship, and both small bore and big bore rifle marksmanship.

Bench shows will be held for the selection of champion pointers, setters, coon hounds and fox hounds. In addition there will be coon hound races.

The only restriction on entries in the meet is that entrants must be members of a club affiliated with the Texas Wildlife Federation. Conrad Fath, general chairman of the competition, points out that, sportsmen wanting to participate can join the affiliated club from their localities on the grounds of the competition and that unaffiliated clubs may affiliate during the event.

HENDERSON TO MEET GUERRERA

Juarez Fighters Will Arrive Here Today For Bouts At Arena

A quartet of Juarez, Mexico, boxers are due to arrive in Lubbock today for the fight card at Sled Allen's arena Friday night which matches Bill Henderson against Paul Guerrera. Tickets are still available at O. C. Foster's gym or Wylie's Drug store.

The young Texas Tech student has won 14 of his 15 professional fights in a little more than a year in the ring, but the last start resulted in a knockout victory for Jean Mougin, former French lightweight champion.

Guerrera has had more ring experience than Henderson, having had 32 pro bouts, and he enjoys the advantage of having seen Henderson box on several occasions in El Paso.

Another local boy, Charley Neff, Petersburg, takes on Conrado Castunou of Juarez. Neff said Wednesday that he was in good shape and ready to go. Against Castunou, he will be up against a good fighter with six bouts behind him. This match is a six-rounder.

Gene James, Lubbock, will make his first pro appearance before home crowd when he steps into the ring with Jack Wortham of Amarillo as a light heavyweight. Wortham will be outweighed by James, but he has more experience than the local boy who won two Golden Glove regional titles.

In a welterweight bout, Bill Pollard, Lubbock, meets Frankie Guzman. Pollard has improved rapidly, but he will have experience against him. Guzman has won 13 fights in 18 starts, three ending in draws.

The last fight preceding the main bout will have Dickie Weinhold, Amarillo, facing Jessie Robles, winner of 21 of 23 fights. The other two ended in draws.

Weinhold has been appearing in bouts in New York under the management of Denby Woodring.

AGGIE NETTERS MEET TCU

COLLEGE STATION, April 6. (Special)—Texas A&M's tennis team will shoot for its second straight conference victory when it engages the TCU Horned Frog netmen here Thursday afternoon. Coach W. M. Dowell's Aggie netters won both doubles matches and two singles events to trim SMU, 4-2, here last week.

Tech Grid Teams Are Announced

Johnson Will Give Punting Exhibition

Teams for the intra-squad football game, highlight of the Double T Sports Parade Saturday night at Texas Tech, have been selected and Coaches Glenn Lewis of the Ranchers and Bill Kelley of the Farmers are all set for the fireworks.

The two coaches are content to let the regular Tech mentors handle the boys this week, and Coaches Dell Morgan, G. B. Morris, and Tipp Mooney have been struggling along without their assistance. Kelley and Lewis have so much confidence in their teams they have not been to practice recently. However, as game time approaches their offers of spotting the other team to a handful of points have not been heard so loudly.

The halftime show should be one to please all the fans. There will be races in football uniforms between high school teams, and Bobby Layne, one of the greatest passers in Southwest conference history, will exhibit his skill with the ball with Tech players as his targets. He has been assisting with the spring football practice in a coaching capacity.

Punting Show Slated

Something new has been added in the form of a punting exhibition by one of the best all-time punters, Preston Johnson The Southern Methodist university product once booted the ball 92 yards in the air in a game against Pitt while in college. Now he can still give the ball a 60 to 70-yard ride. In addition to his demonstration he will be one of the game officials.

A wide open, high scoring tilt is in prospect, and tickets may be bought at the Tech athletic office and in the Hilton hotel lobby. Adults will be $1, students 60 cents, and children free if accompanied by their parents.

All proceeds of the game will go to the Tech athletic department, and funds will be used on the construction of a new dormitory for athletes.

The Rosters

Named to the Rancher team are Centers Bobby Williams, Robert Hix, and Joe L. Thompson; Guards Dan Pursel, Bobby Garner, Don Anthony, Jackie Cockburn, and Charles Williams; Tackles Marshall Gettys, Jerrell Price, John Tom Baker, Rex Pinson, and Bobby Broyles; Ends Hugh and Dick Jackson, Frank Farrar, Jack Davis, Bud Henderson, and Charles Allen; Quarterbacks Bill Lyman, John Moughon, and Albert Salem; Left Halfbacks Calvin Steveson, Ike Stuver, and Denton Lambert; Right Halfbacks Tim Hatch, Harold Haynes, Judson Brawner, J. O. McClellan, and Ross Brown; and Fullbacks J. W. Thompson, and Earl Jackson.

Playing for the Farmers will be Centers J. B. Mahler and Aubrey (Red) Phillips; Guards Bill Stallings, Don Williams, Walter Edrington, Dick Cavazos, and Wilburn Gray; Tackles Douglas McSwane, John Andrews, Henry Deford, Bill Glidewell, Herbie Sammons, and Don Gray; Ends Luke Thompson, Elbert Johnson, Lewis Crossley, Gerald Davis, Dick Pirtle, and Bert Hester; Quarterbacks Ernest Hawkins, Eural Ramsey, and Milton Rathbone; Left Halfbacks Walter Maloney, Herman Bailey, and Bobby Close; Right Halfbacks Bill White, Bill Barbee, Gene Doss, and Jack Young; and Fullbacks Bud Conley, George Worrell, and Ralph May.

Westerners Drill For District Meet

The weather the past two days has been to the liking of Westerner track coaches, Fred Brown and Pat Ferris, and the sun has been just what the doctor ordered for the thinclads.

Preparing for the district meet the track squad put in a hard day Wednesday, and many more such workouts would have the team in good shape. Injuries have been healing rather well, and Charlie Williams should be able to give a good showing Saturday.

Still limping from a pulled muscle is Malcolm Young, but he is the only man likely to be hindered appreciably.

Westerners should have no trouble qualifying their men for the regional meet which will be held Saturday, April 23. A man must finish third in one event to be eligible for the regional.

Four Class AA schools will be here for the meet. They are Lubbock, Brownfield, Lamesa, and Plainview. The preliminary events will begin Saturday morning at 9:30 with District 4-A schools qualifying. Preliminaries in Double A events will be held in the 100-yard dash and 220-yard dash. All other senior division events will be held in the afternoon.

Expected to appear for the District 4-A meet are Seminole, Levelland, Andrews, Littlefield, Abernathy, Denver City, Morton, Muleshoe, O'Donnell, Olton, Post, Seagraves, Sudan, Sundown, and Tahoka.

The Westerners scored 100 points to win the meet last year, and Seminole took the Class A title with 58 points.

Brownfield Jaycees To Sponsor Oil Belt League Baseball Team

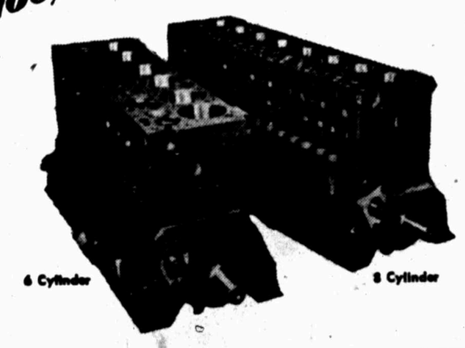

BROWNFIELD, April 6 (Spl.)—This season's Oil Belt League baseball team will be sponsored by the Brownfield Junior Chamber of Commerce. Home games will be played on a new diamond now under construction in the east part of town.

Members of last season's squad expected to be candidates for positions on the 1949 team include Denver Kelly, catcher; Blue Graham, Prentice Walker, and Boots White, infielders, and J. O. Burnett, jr., Harold Crites, Bill Anderson and Dunc Warren, outfielders.

LEAGUE MEETING SET

McALLEN, April 6 (AP)—The Rio Grande Valley baseball league will meet here Saturday morning to select a president. William Osley, who was named to head the league when it was organized this year, died at San Antonio this week.

Owen Testifies In Damage Suit

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 6—(INS) — Mickey Owen, former Brooklyn Dodgers catcher, said today that if Mexico's Jorge Pasquel had "made peace" with organized baseball, all players who jumped to Pasquel's outlaw Mexican league could have been reinstated in the United States.

Owen is on trial before a federal court jury in Springfield as defendant in Pasquel's $127,500 damage suit for breach of contract. Owen, in turn, has sued Pasquel for $93,000 on similar grounds.

The 33-year-old catcher, who was barred from baseball for five years after joining the Mexican league in 1946, asserted today that Pasquel could have exerted a lot of influence on U. S. baseball had he sought a working agreement with organized baseball.

The reserve clause, now a prime topic of baseball and legal debate, also entered into today's proceedings when Owen said he did not have a Brooklyn contract at the time he "jumped" to Mexico.

Pasquel's attorney, Victor Harris of St. Louis, said he understook that Owen was "under a reserve clause" at the time.

Owen explained later that under a reserve clause, a player may not sign with another club even though his contract has expired.

The legality of the reserve clause has been questioned through the action of other disbarred ballplayers, notably Danny Gardella of the New York Giants.

The Associated Press first chose an All-America football team in 1925.

SNEAD WILL BE TOUGH TO BEAT

Masters Golf Tourney May Be Most Competitive In History

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 6 (INS)—Golfdom's wisemen peered into the crystal ball on the eve of the Masters Tournament tonight and predicted that the play tomorrow would be the most competitive in history of the event because of three personal battles.

The friendly feuds involve Dr. Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, amateur Frank Stranahan, of Toledo, and Slammin' Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Tournament chairman Clifford Roberts pointed to the shuttle contest between Mangrum and Middlecoff for top money honors among the professionals. Mangrum is presently the official leader with $8,607.50 on the credit side of the ledger.

The Memphis dentist, however, would move into first place if he won the Masters $2,500 first prize.

Snead Improving

Host professional Ed Dudley, meanwhile, pointed to Sam Snead's battle as the most personal. Slammin' Sam has been fighting himself for the past ten years.

Golfers have said that from tee to green Snead could beat anyone. They added, however, that on the green there wasn't anybody Sam could beat.

Snead isn't really the world's worst putter, but he thought he was.

It took his recent playoff victory in the Greensboro, N. C., Open to bring him out of the doldrums. Snead's triumph at Greensboro was a result of his fine putting.

He now predicts a victory for himself. Dudley added:

"He's definitely not the same man who shot an eight and lost the National Open on the final hole ten years ago. Sam's new confidence is going to make him tough to beat."

Stranahan Has Incentive

Other tournament officials who asked not to be quoted recalled that Stranahan was ousted from last year's tournament and that the Ohio muscle man might have an extra incentive to "show the boys what they lost."

Stranahan tied for second in 1947 with Byron Nelson. The Champion Sparkplug heir has had several fine practice rounds.

Nelson played virtually no tournament golf the past two years, but he has not lost his magic touch. In fact, Lord Byron of the links has taken this tournament quite seriously. He has practiced long hours for two weeks.

The 58 players themselves say that it will take a record-tying 279 or a 280 to win the 72-hole tournament.

Apaches To Play At Madison Square Garden

Champion Tyler Cagers Plan 4,000-Mile Tour Next Season

TYLER, April 6 (AP) — Tyler Junior college, champion of all it surveys in baseball, is really feeling its oats. Last whistles of the National Junior College Tournament scarcely had died out when the Apaches, who won the championship, announced plans for a 4,000-mile tour next season.

The Apaches, who should be even stronger in 1949-50, are going to show the nation what they can do on the court and also give booming junior college basketball another push upward.

Included in the schedule, which will take the team to the west coast, are plans for an appearance in Madison Square Garden in December.

Won 38 Out Of 39 Tilts

The Apaches still are receiving tribute from over the nation for the greatest team in the history of the 23-year-old school.

Tyler won 38 out of 39 games, taking all of its last 34. Included was the national title at Hutchinson, Kas.

The proposed western trip was arranged at Hutchinson. The tentative schedule has the Apaches playing at Hutchinson; Ogden, Utah; Bremerton, Wash.; Sacramento, Calif.; Marin, Calif.; Compton, Calif.; Pasadena, Calif.; and Phoenix, Ariz.

Tyler college officials say the success of this year's national tournament served as a shot in the arm to junior college athletic activities. There were over 20,000 paid admissions to the five-day tournament and Hutchinson officials now are planning a million dollar field house seating 6,000 fans in hopes of getting the tournament again next year.

Other schools of the National Junior College Athletic Association also began making plans for intersectional contests. Compton will go as far as Colorado for basketball and as far east as Little Rock, Ark., for football. Campbellsville, Ky., has a date with Compton Dec. 29 and plans to play Tyler and other schools on the way to the coast. Olympic Junior College at Bremerton wants a home-and-home agreement with Tyler for basketball and Hutchinson wants to play more Texas teams in football.

In 1947 Compton started the upsurge of interest in junior college athletics with an invitational basketball tournament that had teams from Texas, Louisiana and other states to the east entered. Compton officials then suggested a national association. This was quickly formed. The nation was divided into eight regions.

The first year, 1948, had poor results. The national basketball tournament at Springfield, Mo., where there is no junior college, brought out only about 800 fans per night. This year, it was a different story. The association gave the tournament to the Hutchinson American Legion post for $5,500 and before the tournament started over $6,000 worth of tickets were sold.

The association changed its division lines and has named 16 regional vice-presidents who hold athletic meets, with the winners gaining berths in the national play-offs. This year teams from California, Utah, Washington, Minnesota, Michigan, New Jersey, Kentucky, North Carolina, Georgia, Kansas, Iowa, Texas, Illinois, and Oklahoma competed for the national basketball crown.

NBA Sanctions Walcott Bout

WASHINGTON, April 6 (U.P.)—For the first time in 14 years, the National Boxing Association failed to list a heavyweight champion in its quarterly ratings today.

It declared the NBA version of the title vacant because Joe Louis retired to go into the promotion end of the business and said it would recognize the winner of next June's Ezzard Charles-Jersey Joe Walcott bout as the champion. Louis and his associates are promoting that bout in Chicago.

Along with Charles and Walcott, the NBA listed Lee Savold as a logical contender for the title.

Only other changes made in the ratings of the eight weight divisions was re-installing Willie Pep of Hartford, Conn., as featherweight champion and once again relegating Sandy Saddler of New York as the only logical contender. Pep regained his title from Saddler this winter after having lost it to him last October.

Doctor Says Ben Hogan May Return To Big Time Golf

NEW ORLEANS, April 6 (INS)—The surgeon who performed an emergency operation on Ben Hogan said today that the golf star probably will return to the links.

Dr. Alton Oschner said that Hogan, who was injured recently in an automobile accident, will come to New Orleans in two or three weeks for a check-up. The surgeon added:

"No one can say definitely, but I think there's little doubt Ben will play again."

Dr. Oschner flew to El Paso, Tex., to perform an emergency operation after Hogan was injured.

Fretz Is Top Aggie Hitter

COLLEGE STATION, April 6. (Special) — Blond Bobby Fretz, who is at home on first base, in the outfield or on the mound, has been the Texas Aggies' top hitter through their first seven baseball games.

Fretz has collected six hits in 16 trips for a .434 batting mark. Five of those hits were doubles. Runnerup to Fretz in the batting department has been lanky Johnny DeWitt with eight safeties in 19 trips for a fat .421 mark. Three of DeWitt's hits were doubles and he's the Aggie RBI leader with eight.

Clifford (Cotton) Lindloff tops the Aggies in extra base hits. He has one homer, one triple and three doubles included in his seven hits. Guy Wallace leads in stolen bases with three. Wally Moon and Lindloff have one triple each; Lindloff and Bill McPherson have a home run apiece.

In the pitching department, Pat Hubert has worked the most innings, 29, while winning two and losing one game. Bruce Morissee also has sacked up two victories against one defeat and leads Aggie moundsmen in strikeouts with 17 in eleven and two-thirds innings.

Oil Refineries Face Changes

HOUSTON, April 6 (AP)—A New York oil executive tonight said the nation's refineries must face a changing pattern in demand for petroleum products.

Chester F. Smith, vice president of Standard Oil company (New Jersey), said the industry must improve the quality of gasoline, increase production of light fuel oils and turn out more by-products.

"Future refining operations will increase both in complexity and flexibility," Smith said in an address prepared for delivery 6 p. m. (CST), before the fourteenth mid-year meeting of the division of refining of the American Petroleum institute.

Wage Plan Urged

The New Yorker is vice-president for refining for API.

The 600 refiners also heard Harold G. Osborn, vice-president of Continental Oil company, Ponca City, Okla., recommend adoption of a wage-incentive plan as a means of increasing efficiency of plant employes.

The refiners also honored three veteran petroleum technologists who were presented certificates of appreciation in recognition of contributions to the advancement of petroleum arts and sciences.

Accept Certificates

Accepting the certificates from John W. Newton, vice-president of Magnolia Petroleum Corp., Beaumont, were Walter Samans, Sun Oil company, Philadelphia, and Kenneth G. Mackenzie, The Texas company, New York City.

The third recipient, Thomas G. Delbridge, retired, Atlantic Refining company, Philadelphia, was unable to attend the four-day Houston meeting.

Smith predicted there probably will be no need for a vast synthetics program for production of fuels for "at least a generation anyway."

Military Conference

night by Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Army chief of staff, in calling for action now to strengthen European members of the Atlantic pact. He told a New York audience:

"I know of no other expenditure that can produce greater security at a more reasonable cost than investment in a timely defense of the borders of western Europe."

Long War Feared

Then speaker after speaker elaborated on that theme today.

Secretary Royall said in Chicago that the Atlantic pact nations are counting on American arms for their own troops—and also counting on the support of an American army overseas.

"If in the first stage of any future war," he said, "we should lose all foothold on the Eurasian continent and in North Africa, then a victory—if achieved at all—would require 15 or 20 years of war— or perhaps more."

Troops Are Symbol

Former Undersecretary of War William H. Draper also called for retention of American forces in Europe as long as the cold was lasts. In a talk prepared for a St. Louis audience, Draper said "if western Europe is to be defended from attack we dare not accept a strategic plan that depends on air bombardment alone."

In Germany, the U. S. Commander Gen. Lucius D. Clay told an assemblage of American troops:

"You are the symbol of our country's still-firm will to fight for the rights of free men. We have joined the Atlantic community and pledged ourselves to secure peace and prevent aggression by force if necessary."

Co-Operation Pledged

The Air Force chief of staff, Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, meanwhile promised reciprocal co-operation, in Baltimore.

These pledges of inter-service co-operation will be put to the test during the coming week at the Key West conferences. Although the unification differences were supposed to have been ironed out at similar sessions in the past, the Air Force-Navy rivalry over air assignments still persists.

Eisenhower reportedly was recalled temporarily to active duty for the specific purpose of getting more real unity among the armed services.

While the top military leaders are in Key West, the civilian secretaries of the three branches are due to testify on the administration's proposal to give Defense Secretary Johnson greater overall control of the National Military Establishment.

Wyoming Wildcat Drilled To Record Depth Of 18,734 Feet

CASPER, Wyo., April 6 (INS)—The Superior Oil company in Casper today announced drilling of the world's deepest oil well, more than three and one-half miles straight into the earth.

Company officials said the drill bit churned past the depth of 18,734 feet in a wildcat test being made at remote Pacific Creek in Sublette county, Wyoming.

Though the drilling rig itself is at an elevation of 7,087 feet, the bottom of the hole is now more than 11,000 feet below sea level.

The Superior company, a pioneer in vertical frontier, previously held the record depth of 17,823 feet in its Weller No. 1 at Fort Cobb, Oklahoma.

Ball Game Offers Clue In Case Of 'Missing Student'

New excuse department:

Police Wednesday were vinced more than ever that baseball hatches tall fabrications, after investigation into the story told by a second-grade Lubbock youngster in explanation of his absence from school Tuesday.

The youth said he was taken prisoner by a man and held several hours at the city dump ground.

Wednesday afternoon, police said they had "just about decided that the 'dump ground,' in this case, was Rosenthal field," where more than 6,000 fans gathered to watch the New York Giants dump the Cleveland Indians.

73 Feared Dead

that paint stored in the hospital basement was the tinder that enabled the flames to sweep through the building so rapidly.

Msgr. J. L. Gatton, in charge of Catholic hospitals in the Springfield diocese, disclosed that St. Anthony's was insured for $300,000. He said much of the operating room equipment was salvaged.

Monsignor Gatton announced immediate efforts would be made to build a new hospital and Gov. Stevenson pledged all possible state aid.

The governor peered from a ladder through a charred hospital window frame and then told newsmen:

"It's a ghastly disaster. The extent of human suffering and damage is appalling."

Records at the fire marshal's Springfield office revealed that an order was issued in November, 1940, to make certain changes to increase St. Anthony's fire safety.

The marshal's office in June, 1942, reported that all recommendations had been complied with.

First evidence that the building was ablaze was discovery of smoke about midnight Monday. Flames mushroomed through laundry chutes before fire fighting equipment reached the hospital grounds.

Grief stricken relatives today began burying their dead. Funeral services were held at nearby Farina for twin girl victims of the holocaust, Eileen and Irene Segrist, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Segrist. Eileen and Irene were the third set of twins born to the Segrist family.

Other funeral services are scheduled for tomorrow.

Ancient Calculating Machine Reduces Sydney Clerk's Work

SYDNEY, Australia, April 6, (AP)— By using an abacus a Sydney clerk can answer in less than 20 seconds a question like what is 13½ percent of $262.46.

An abacus is a counting frame with colored beads strung on wires. It was used by the Babylonians, Egyptians, Greeks and Romans and still is used in China. The Sydney clerk, Mr. C. T. Browne, uses the abacus at his job and claims it reduces his work considerably.

In a test he multiplied two four-figure numbers by each other and checked the answer twice before another clerk, skilled in arithmetic, could get the answer once.

quest, stating that "it is not disposed to do anything that might jeopardize this very necessary operation."

To Boost Air Force

The Atomic Energy commission was given $110 million in the deficiency appropriation measure. Forty million dollars was authorized for purchase of strategic and critical materials for the defense stockpile. Authority to contract for another $270 million worth of critical materials was also granted.

The appropriations committee is slated to report out the overall armed service bill on Saturday with action on the multi-billion dollar measure assured by the House next week.

It was learned reliably that the bill will include $800 million over President Truman's $4 billion, 600 million recommended for the Air Force.

Congressional air powers advocates, led by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga), of the House Armed Services committee, say this will permit continued expansion of the Air Force from its 59 groups (plus the airlift group) toward the 70-group goal.

This objective was set by the last Congress but Mr. Truman's budget directed a cutback to 48 groups to preserve "balance" among the armed services, prevent a deficit, combat inflation and insure fulfillment of U. S. foreign aid commitments.

The $800 million addition to Air Force funds will not upset the budget as the committee plans to save that amount in the military service program. Vinson has stated flatly that his committee will not consider UMT at this session.

School Board

Saturday. The five candidates and number of votes each received are as follows: Tatum, 1,482; Martin, 1,404; Jones 1,457; Byron Terrell, 236; and James C. Sharp, 151.

Former Members Commended

Tatum, as chairman of the board, Jackson and Superintendent of Schools R. W. Matthews made short speeches congratulating Parsons and Hamilton upon their efforts and accomplishments during the time each was on the board.

Matthews pointed out that the board has assumed greatly increased responsibility during the last seven years. "Since 1942, more buildings have been added to the Lubbock public school system than in all the years prior to that date," he said.

Parsons, in commenting upon his 12 years on the board, said that he had seen the school enrollment grow from 100 students to 400 students during his membership, and expressed the belief that the growth would continue in coming years.

Glenn Woody and W. H. Evans, two members of the board, were absent from last night's meeting.

were black and he thought they were pigiron."

Although the bars weighed 40 to 70 pounds, Noss lugged one outside.

"It was yellow under the black when we cut it with a knife," his wife related. She was not clear about what became of the bar.

On other visits to the cave Noss found jewels, a crown encrusted with dozens of diamonds and a "pigeon blood" ruby, coins and old weapons.

War Halts Efforts

After laborious exploration, Noss undertook to dynamite a wider shaft into the cavern. A slide sealed the passage.

War interrupted his efforts to find a way back underground, and in the meantime he and Mrs. Noss separated. Later Noss interested Ryan in a mining venture. When the two sought a prospecting permit in the locality, Mrs. Noss said they found she already had obtained one.

Ryan and Noss then pursued their search over the tracts bordering that of Mrs. Noss on three sides.

At his arraignment on a murder charge last month, Ryan said he had objected to Noss using trucks owned by Ryan for "illegal" activities.

Heightening the mystery is the report from a Secret Service agent, Jim Hirst of Albuquerque, who obtained a metal bar from the effects of Noss after he was slain.

The ingot "definitely is not gold," Hirst said, although it has not been analyzed yet. He said the bar is yellow and tarnished and apparently as hard as brass.

Loan Bill Signed

However, the President was silent on the 80th Congress plan to let the support price level decline gradually, at a rate of five per cent a year, to as low as 60 per cent of parity if surpluses continue to increase.

Thus the possibility is left open that, while devising new methods, the administration plan will retain the principle that support levels must go down when surpluses go up.

Meanwhile, Mr. Truman signed a bill today authorizing the use of a $44 million fund for loans to western farmers and stockmen who suffered during last winter's severe storms.

The legislation makes available for the purpose funds held by the regional Agricultural Credit corporation.

that has met the situation as we have.

Welfare "Our Responsibility"

"We have offered to give up the greatest weapon in the history of the world for the welfare of mankind.

"We have offered to surrender the most powerful thing we have under our control if the world will come in and set up a control of that weapon to prevent its use for the destruction of mankind." He added:

"Whether we like it or not, we have been forced into that position by two world wars, both of which could have been avoided if we had been willing to assume the place which God Almighty intended us to assume back in 1918 instead of having to assume it after two terrible wars.

Praises Atlantic Pact

"I know that there is not a man here who wants to see a third war necessary to make us believe what our responsibility is."

Commenting on the North Atlantic pact, Mr. Truman said:

"The meeting we had the other afternoon in which we signed the Atlantic pact I think is a step that will prevent our having to make a decision of that sort.

"We have made decisions at Rio De Janeiro and Bogota, and this is another one along that same line.

Objective Is Peace

"And I hope that every one of you young congressmen and senators will study the history of the world from Greece and Rome and France and Britain when they were on top—and Germany, Germany made a mistake in two instances—and understand that our only objective is peace and the welfare of every nation and every race in the world."

The new secretary of defense, Louis Johnson, was at the dinner, but left shortly before the President made his talk in order to keep another dinner engagement.

The President spoke extemporaneously, to a get-together of the "freshmen" members of Congress —known as the "81st club."

The buffet dinner was given in honor of the President and the new members of Congress by the Democratic national committee at a downtown Washington hotel.

Note Of Peace Sounded

The President's talk was on a note of peace. He said:

"The welfare of the world is now our responsibility. Whether you like it or not, we have been forced into that position."

The President said that had this nation assumed that responsibility earlier, the world might not have become embroiled in "two terrible world wars."

The Chief Executive continued: "We have offered to give up the greatest weapon in world history to get peace."

Praises Atlantic Pact

He then told of the decision he had to make for use of the atomic bomb in the closing months of World War II. He added:

"I pray to God I will not have to make that decision again."

The President said that he believes the North Atlantic pact "is a step to keep us from making that decision again."

He also mentioned the hemispheric defense agreement signed in Rio De Janeiro two years ago. He then fervently declared:

"Our only objective is peace and the welfare of every nation in the world."

Abandoned Sailing Vessel Is Reported Off South Carolina

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 6 (INS) — The commander of the Charleston Coast Guard depot said today that a mysterious abandoned scooner reported drifting 300 miles off the South Carolina coast is "without doubt" in the gulf stream.

Commander T. B. Christiansen said his latest information indicated the vessel is 300 miles out to sea. The original report placed the deserted schooner at 70 miles off the coast.

The Coast Guard officer said he had not yet received a report from the cutter Travis which was sent out to search for the mysterious two-masted craft.

Polish Army Officers Told To Be Faithful Marxists

WARSAW, Poland, April 6, (AP) —Polish army officers have been told they must be devout believers in Marxist-Leninist principles. Furthermore, they have been ordered to use all "propaganda devices" to sell that doctrine to all men under their command.

Col. Leon Grosfeld, writing in the Polish army newspaper "Polska Zbrojna," said:

"Our officers must come to realize that to work on the broadening of his mental horizon, to definitely shape his outlook upon life, that to study Marxism-Leninism is not something remote from the army and having no connection with it.

"He must realize that the better he has mastered Marxism-Leninism, the more rapid will be his pr gress along the path of military excellence, the better will he perform his professional duties, the better will he serve his country."

WANNA GET AWAY FROM IT ALL?—Tired of your job? Sick of the climate? Mad at the boss? Here's your chance to buy that tropical dream island. The Puerto Rican government is offering Isla Verde for sale—with a preference to "cartoonists only." It's a one-palm-tree island Shangri-la, a quarter of a mile off the coast with an area of one-fourth acre at low tide, one-eighth acre at high tide. The government showed a sense of humor in offering the island to illustrators whose lonely island cartoons have brought chuckles the world over. Price? Make an offer, says San Juan. Incidentally, the bathing beauties don't go with the bargain.

mittee and the Assembly itself.

Warren R. Austin, chief U.S. delegate, proposed that the assembly decide whether the prosecution of Cardinal Mindszenty by the Communist government in Budapest had violated the Hungarian peace treaty. The American delegate also appealed for an assembly discussion of the trial of the Bulgarian protestants.

Austin's proposal brought a quick reply from Juliusz Katz-Suchy of Poland, one of the Soviet bloc's most persistent orators. He challenged the Assembly's right to deal with either issue.

"The UN," Katz-Suchy said, "is not a watchdog over the implementation of the peace treaties."

Australian Foreign Minister Herbert V. Evatt, assembly president, maintained that the assembly has the right to consider any question within the scope of the charter, including the observation of human rights.

EMPEROR HAILE SELASSIE SEEKS ITALIAN COLONIES

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., April 6 (INS)—Emperor Haile Selassie asked the United Nations today to award Ethiopia the colonies of Eritrea and Somaliland and the United States supported him in part.

The communication from Addis Ababa to the UN arrived 24 hours after the negus addressed an identical message to International News Service.

Shortly after, John Foster Dulles took the floor in the 58-nation political committee to open general debate with a United States declaration that eastern Eritrea should go to Ethiopia and the smaller western part to be reserved for disposition in line with Anglo-Egyptian considerations.

Italy To Join Talks

Dulles added that the territory to go to Ethiopia should include the port of Massawa and city of Asmara in order to give the country access to the sea.

For the remainder of United States policy on the former Italian colonies, Dulles proposed a return of Somaliland to Italy under UN trusteeship and the preparation of Lybia as a whole for early independence.

On that point, however, Dulles stressed that strategic Cyrenacia, with the famed Mediterranean bastions of Tobruk and Bengasi, should be placed under British administration.

Before Dulles opened general debate, the political committee without opposition invited Italy to participate in the discussions. Italian Foreign Minister Carlo Sforza will take a seat at the table at tomorrow afternoon's meeting.

Cotton Ginners End Convention; Lubbock Man Re-Elected To Post

DALLAS, April 6 (AP) — Texas cotton ginners closed their annual meeting here today by re-electing officers and going on record for a two-price program for marketing cotton.

H. P. Donigan of Whiteright was re-named president and W. O. Fortenberry of Lubbock and Jay C. Stilley of Dallas vice presidents.

A resolution urging the two-price system, as opposed to acreage restriction or discontinued price support for cotton, was passed.

The resolution asked that Congress provide legislation which would guarantee cotton farmers a full parity for their alloted portions of production for domestic consumption.

A second resolution called for the ginners to get behind any legitimate effort to improve the rural road building program.

Jack Criswell of Kilgore, field representative of the National Cotton council, led a panel discussion concerned with cheaper and better ways of ginning cotton.

Fortenberry introduced the resolution on rural roads.

The two-piece plan, backed for years by State Commissioner of Agriculture J. E. McDonald, was explained to the ginners yesterday by McDonald.

V. C. Cunningham of Abernathy, Hale county, headed the resolutions committee.

Officers Probe Theft Of $175

Theft of $175 from a residence in the Queen City negro residential section was under investigation of the Lubbock county sheriff's department last night.

Arlene Hemanes of 2312 East Ave. C told Deputies Sheriff B. F. Forrester and John Barnett that the house was not entered by force, and she named suspects who had access to the home.

A $250 peace bond was set Wednesday by Justice of the Peace C. E. Lynn for Fred Lewis, jr., 25-year-old Lubbock negro, after a charge of threat to kill had been filed against him on complaint of a negro woman.

Suspects Are Returned

Roy Small, 38, a negro, named in a similar charge on complaint of Marion Small, was arrested last night by Chief Deputy Sheriff George Eubank. A peace bond hearing will be held in justice court of D. W. Robertson.

Samuel Lee Rutherford, 45 of Waco, charged with two counts of swindling, and Matthew Moore, 38-year-old Austin negro, also charged with swindling, were returned to Lubbock Wednesday by Sheriff Grady Harrist. Rutherford had been arrested in Oklahoma City, and Moore was held by Amarillo authorities.

A. A. (Andy) Tipton, 38, of Lubbock, was held in lieu of $1,000 bond set by County Judge Walter Davies after Tipton had pleaded innocent of a charge of aggravated assault upon a 14-year-old Lubbock girl.

Officials said the charge supplanted an earlier complaint accusing Tipton of a Feb. 6 sex assault upon the girl.

J. S Bowers, 34, of Dalias, was fined $5 and county court costs on a guilty plea of check law violation.

L. B. Gaither of 109 Hub Homes reported theft of a $50 bike from the Boys Club, police reports showed.

Amendment Rejected

Lucas, who has charged that some Republican leaders are trying to block Senate progress in an effort tostymie President Truman's legislative program, acknowledged that perhaps he had been "a little overzealous."

Vice President Barkley, the Senate presiding officer, broke off the exchange by calling for a vote on a pending amendment.

By a 59 to 23 vote, the Senate rejected a proposal by Senator Fulbright (D-Ark) to use an unspecified amount of the new multi-billion dollar program to encourage "closer economic unity" among the 16 Marshall plan countries.

Supported by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), Fulbright urged passage of the amendment on the ground that it would aid the economic and eventual political unity of European nations.

But Senator Connally (D-Tex), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, opposed it as not being "in the public interest."

Lamesa Resident Is Awarded Damages Of $8,137 By Jury

LAMESA, April 6 (Special)—A verdict in favor of the plaintiff in the case of Dewey Koslosky versus the Texas Electric Service Co., has been returned here by a 106th District Court jury. Plaintiff was awarded damages of $8,137.50.

The plaintiff alleged that the electric company erected a power line across his Forrest Park addition in suburban Lamesa and thus lowered the value of the area as residential property.

The jury was charged to answer issues which would set the value of the property before and after the power line was erected and the amount awarded the plaintiff was set as the difference between the two prices.

It was reported here that attorneys for the electric company have filed notice of appeal.

MILITARY MIGHT DISPLAYED

Sailors, Marines Join Soldiers In Texas Army Day Celebrations

(By The Associated Press)

Wednesday was Army day — but in Texas, sailors, marines — and even Boy Scouts got into the act.

The big state — with war records to match its size — honored members and veterans of all its services.

Dozens of military installations welcomed the public. Flags flew. Military might was on parade and the plamp plamp of marching feet echoed through scores of cities. The Air Force in some instances sent out dramatic escorts of planes. And there were lots of speeches.

Houston Has Parade

Houston had a big parade and some top brass to watch it. On the reviewing stand were Gen. Thomas T. Handy, commander of the Fourth Army, San Antonio; Rear Admiral Karl J. Christoph and Maj. Gen. Roger M. Ramey, commander of the Eighth Air Force, Fort Worth. In the parade were members of the high school and University of Houston ROTC units and the Ross volunteers from Texas A&M college. General Handy spoke at a noon luncheon.

The old fortress city of San Antonio called on Fort Sam Houston for an impressive parade, and the great fort was thrown open to visitors.

Nine tanks and 30 other motor vehicles of the 49th Armored division clanked through Fort Worth and trailer trains hauled thousands of visitors through the Army Quartermaster depot south of the city. Planes droned over Fort Worth during the parade.

Fire Power Demonstrated

Visitors sat on bleachers at Camp Hood, near Temple, while Second Armored division artillery units demonstrated their thunderous firepower. Spectators could see the targets and watch the belching guns.

Forty-Ninth Armored division units and 2,300 students of high school ROTC units paraded at Dallas. In the parade, too, were members of the Air Force ROTC unit at Southern Methodist university.

At Austin, the Travis county American Legion Drum and Bugle corps gave an exhibition and the University of Texas ROTC Cadet corps was reviewed. Mustang fighters from Bergstrom air base buzzed low in salute.

National Guard units at Hillsboro and Whitney held open house.

Community Meet Held

Greenville held a community meeting, honoring the fighting forces, Wednesday night.

Veterans organizations and National Guard units of the Rio Grande valley paraded at Brownsville.

Two school bands, National Guard units from Nacogdoches, Timpson and Lufkin, American Legion and VFW color guards and Boy Scouts marched in a parade at Lufkin.

Members and veterans of all services attended a luncheon at Waco. Fighting equipment was on display.

Mayor Harold Jones made a speech at Wichita Falls. Sheppard field staged a concert in that city and a concert was held Wednesday night.

At Alice the local National Guard unit displayed an array of arms and equipment.

And at Pampa, Sgt. Davis A. Brown, recruiter had an idea.

He urged veterans to "wear as much of your uniforms as will still fit."

Some did.

The industry operated at 83 per cent of potential refining capacity, running 5,269,000 barrels of crude oil to stills daily, compared with 84.3 per cent of capacity and 5,475,000 barrels a year ago.

Heavy fuel oil production last week was 8,351,000 barrels, against 8,305,000 the previous week and 9,084,000 a year ago. Light fuel oil production was 6,658,000 barrels, compared with 6,167,000 the previous week and 7,586,000 a year ago.

Threatened Walkout Of Rail Line's Conductors Averted

CHICAGO, April 6 (INS)—G. F. Stephens, personnel manager of the Northwestern railroad, announced today that a threatened Easter Sunday strike of the line's conductors has been postponed indefinitely.

The National Railway Mediation board told Stephens it obtained the postponement through the co-operation of H. W. Fraser, president of the Order of Railway conductors. Intervention of the mediation board had been requested by the railroad.

Union officials said the scheduled strike resulted from disagreements over "grievances which accumulated over the last four years."

Fiction-Documentary Film Based On Activity Of U. S. Food, Drug Administration Planned

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
INS Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, April 6—Something to get excited about is Eagle-Lion's plan to make a fiction-documentary on the Pure Food and Drug law administration in the U. S. along the lines of "T-Man."

The men who enforce the pure food and drug laws in this country have been neglected by publicity—but the work they do is great, guarding our national health every hour in every day.

Aubrey Schenck, the producer, tells me this thriller is temporarily titled "Marker X," but it will be changed. The first actor signed is Robert Preston, who will play an inspector.

Let's have more and more of these pictures which take us behind the scenes of government and advertise to the world how carefully Uncle Sam takes care of his citizens.

A druggist accused of a poison murder is the framework for "Tension," a thriller in which MGM will team Audrey Totter and Richard Basehart.

Audrey, who goes from one job to another so quickly she could be called Miss Hopalong of 1949, starts this new one as soon as she returns from Phoenix where she's been appearing on the stage in "Born Yesterday."

She is in good company with Basehart as the druggist, Barry Sullivan playing the detective, and Robert Sisk as producer. I still remember Basehart for his below freezing portrayal of the ruthless criminal in "He Walked By Night." What an actor.

I commend Maxwell Shane for his efforts in concentrating on films that try to correct the juvenile delinquency evil. "City Across the River," Shane's last picture, is being followed with "The Big Frame," which deals with the adults who teach reckless youths to steal and commit crimes just for the thrill.

Leo Genn, last seen as the psychiatrist in "Snake Pit," is the latest victim of yellow jaundice in London! In a letter to a friend in Hollywood, he writes:

"I was on the verge of sailing for New York when I fell victim to this ailment which seems to be reaching epidemic proportions here. Now I don't know when I will be on your hospitable shores again.

"The British censors are still holding out against 'Snake Pit' in this country. Some old law about dramatizing the insane or something. Anatole Litvak has been around and I saw him a couple of times before I turned yellow!"

Chilean law now provides for seven days' pay for a six-day work week.

British Doctors Concerned Over U.S. Ambassador's Eye Injury

SOUTHAMPTON, April 6. (INS)—Dr. E. C. Zorab, well-known eye surgeon, said late tonight that the condition of U. S. Ambassador Lewis W. Douglas' left eye "is causing grave concern."

A fish hook caught in the ambassador's eye Monday in a freak accident in Hampshire.

Dr. Zorab examined the eye today. He was accompanied by Dr. Maurice Whiting, prominent Wimpole street specialist.

Another consultation was arranged for Thursday to get the opinion of Dr. Stewart Duke-Elder, another top eye specialist, on whether vision will be impaired or lost.

Douglas himself was reported in good spirits today despite severe pain suffered after the removal of the hook from his eye.

The ambassador to Britain is footing all medical bills although he is enabled to participate in the free socialized British medicine scheme.

The private ward room costs $43 weekly, plus surgical attention. The operation cost was estimated at $450, plus travel expenses of the surgeons.

American Scientist Says Atomic Energy Saved Many During War

By JAMES E. BROWN
INS Staff Correspondent

LONDON, April 6 — An American scientist disclosed today that one Atomic energy development saved thousands of American lives in World War II.

Prof. John W. Irvine of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology told International News Service of the development in discussing the myraid non-war uses of atomic energy.

He said the new technique resulted in preserving "whole blood" used in transfusions for a period of 21 days or more, whereas before it could be kept for only five days.

Radio-active iron to keep the blood in its original strength was developed by M.I.T., group of experimenters, with clinical work done by Harvard Medical school and Bryn Mawr hospital.

Prof. Irvine, who is in England for the Oxford university international atomic energy research conference, said one war front officer reported he successfully used 30-day-old blood for a transfusion.

The professor added:

"People are prone to think of the atomic bomb as the only contribution. That is an error. Many of the discoveries are still on the secret list. I, for example, have never worked on the atomic bomb, nor have I visited the New Mexico plant, but I have done a great deal of work on atomic energy.

"For example, one of our inventions which the Army never tried was the use of radio active materials to mark non-metallic land mines."

Professor Irvine explained that non-metallic mines are harder to detect, and said:

"We solved this by having a small amount of radio-active material buried with each land mine. It was placed inside a synthetic rock so that the Germans could not detect the device if they dug up the mine. But, like a lot of other discoveries, the invention was not used."

The M.I.T. professor said some of the best American scientists believe it will be 20 years before atomic energy can be used to generate power, but he personally thinks it might be sooner.

A new plant of experimenting along these lines, he said, is now being built in Idaho.

Reserve Unit Of Air Force Group Will Meet Tonight

The reserve unit of the 707th Bombardment squadron (VH) will hold its regular meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in building 62 at Lubbock air base, according to Capt. C. E. Jennings, commander of the group.

He said training films would be shown and urged all members to be present because this meeting would be counted toward reserve pay. There will also be a meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary at the same time in the squadron clubhouse.

Recent addition of two twin-engined AT-11's to the squadron have made it possible for more reservists to get in flying time according to Jennings. All persons interested are invited to the meeting.

Senate Debates Citrus Proposal

By MAC ROY RASOR
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, April 6—Deadlocked in debate and horseplay, the Senate battled over a proposed citrus commission all day today without ever reaching a final decision.

It marked the beginning of the second week that senators have fought vigorously any promotion of business on their calendars.

Some of today's debate was apparently genuine opposition to the citrus bill. Some senators speculated that much of it was to keep proponents of other more controversial measures from getting the floor. Down the calendar is the hotly-contested basic science bill.

House Bill Changed

Five changes were written into the House-passed citrus bill by Rep. Joe Kilgore of McAllen. They changed from 28 to 27 the number of members on the proposed commission, restricted the commission from receiving gifts and donations, required approval of the legislative audit committee for employment of assistants and limited the commission to the attorney general for its legal advice.

Attempts to require an election on the measure, to strike out a section subjecting commission actions to anti-trust regulations, and to bring tomatoes, cantaloupes, watermelons and peanuts under the bill failed.

Citrus Tax Proposed

The bill would empower a commission to regulate and advertise the citrus industry. Administration would be paid by a three-cents per box tax on citrus fruit.

Senator Rogers Kelly of Edinburg, Senate sponsor, said the commission would answer "a local problem peculiar to our sector."

Senators Dorsey B. Hardeman of San Angelo, Hill D. Hudson of Pecos, Warren McDonald of Tyler, and Wardlow Lane of Center, led lambasting of the bill.

Hudson saw it forcing upon the individual farmer "whatever arbitrary regulation is set up by this commission."

Amendment Tabled

Lane fought out of the measure its provision for acceptance of gifts and donations.

McDonald said opposition in the valley warranted subjecting the proposal to an election. His amendment was tabled.

Carlos Ashley of Llano called it a "price fixing" bill.

Kelly urged that the commission membership was so divided as to prevent "monopolistic control" by any special interest. He denied that it had anything to do with price fixing. He said he had lived in the Valley 25 years and "should know the sentiments of all walks of life in the district."

Founder Of America's 'Town Meeting' To Talk At Tech Friday

George V. Denny, jr., founder and moderator of America's "Town Meeting of the Air," public service radio program, and president of New York's Town Hall, Inc., will be the final guest to appear on the Texas Tech recreation hall program for the spring. He will give a lecture at the college Friday night.

Denny, who has become very popular as a master of ceremonies for some of the hottest disputes ever heard in radio, has brought back to life a program he claims would, "revive our native tradition of a free and unfettered exchange of opposing views."

Appeared On Broadway

A soft-spoken Southerner, Denny has often been called the "political educator of America." He was born in North Carolina and attended the University of North Carolina. As a student he joined the newly-formed Carolina Playmakers which subsequently grew to national fame as a student acting group.

The Playmakers stirred Denny's acting ambitions but, after appearing in several Broadway failures, he left the stage to take a position as manager of a lecture bureau. This lead to the directorship of Columbia University's Institute of Arts and Sciences and it was here that the League for Political Education heard of him. Contact with this organization lead to his present radio position.

His lecture will begin at 8 p.m. Tickets will be on sale at the door and the admission is $1 per person.

Chicago Police Make Arrest In Alleged Vice Ring Setup

CHICAGO, April 6 (INS)—Chicago police believed they cracked a multi-million dollar vice ring today in a raid which netted them names of an international clientele.

Police said a preliminary check of two lists included the names of an Illinois state senator, a band leader, a prominent stage and screen star, business leaders and medical men.

The lists named men from England, Argentina, the Philippines, Mexico, Canada, Norway, Alaska, India, Australia, the Union of South Africa, Hawaii and China.

Capt. Thomas Harrison and five detectives arrested a 24-year-old woman, Mrs. Norma Wire. They said she was handling two telephones at the alleged vice ring headquarters.

House Rejects Plan To Speed Vote On School Bill

Added Hearings On Plan Sought

By BO BYERS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, April 6 — The House refused today to bring the first of the Gilmer-Aikin school bills to a vote on second reading.

The vote against such action was 98 to 40. It apparently indicated that House members want an opportunity to consider more amendments before taking a final vote for the measure.

Backers of Senator Jim Taylor's school reorganization bill had scored a victory earlier in the day when the House rejected, 85 to 54, an effort to postpone consideration until next Monday. That vote came on Rep. Doyle Willis' motion to recommit the bill to the committee of the whole House.

Immediate Vote Sought

This parliamentary move would have let the House call witnesses for further public hearing on the measure.

There were signs the House is still up in the air on what to do about the reorganization plans.

It killed a complete substitution for Taylor's bill offered by Rep. W. R. Chambers of May. That was a victory for Gilmer-Aikin forces. Chambers' proposal essentially would have maintained the present administrative setup of the state's public school system. Then the House turned around and said no to the request of Gilmer-Aikin leaders who wanted to settle the issue by bringing the Taylor bill to an immediate vote.

To Resume Study

Chambers said the first of the Gilmer-Aikin bills would give one man—the proposed commissioner of education—the right to spend over 200 million dollars a year without having to answer to anyone on how he spends it.

"When we let one man spend over 200 million dollars a year, I want him to have to come back and account to the people for his stewardship of 'hat money," Chambers said in support of his argument that the state should keep the superintendent of education as an elective officer.

Mrs. Rae Files Stull of Waxahachie, House sponsor of the Senate-passed bill, said: "The heart of our bill is this—we set up one administrative agency to run the schools of Texas. The superintendent has to be appointed by the board (of education) to be responsible to the board.

"That's the only way you can get them to work together."

Debate of the issue will be renewed at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

The House and Senate acted swiftly to approve a bill aimed at barring Louisiana commercial fishermen from shrimping in Texas waters. Gov. Beauford H. Jester immediately signed the emergency legislation into law.

Deadline Nears In Derby Signing

South Plains youngsters were remined Wednesday by officials of Lubbock's second annual Soap Box Derby that Saturday, April 9, is the deadline for registering for the big race to be run here on Monday, July 4.

And as the deadline approaches, it appears that this year's race will break the record set in last year's inaugural, which set a record for the entire United States. For entries in the big race Wednesday afternoon had already totaled 271 boys.

With registration nearing a close, members of the Lubbock Exchange club, who with The Avalanche-Journal and Kuykendall Chevrolet company are co-sponsors of the Derby, are concentrating their efforts on securing of sponsors for boys and contributions of labor, materials and cash for the building of a permanent race course in the northeast section of Mackenzie State Park.

Full Backing Sought

Sponsors will pay a fee of $17.50 for each car they have in the race. This fee pays for the wheel sets and steering gear and other incidentals for running the race. Each boy must not spend more than $6 on materials for his car and he must build it by the use of hand tools alone. No power tools will be allowed on construction of the cars.

Derby officials are hopeful that every boy in this year's race, as was the case last year, will be driving a sponsored car. It adds interest to the race from the competitive standpoint and also keeps interest up in the younth's construction of his car. Each sponsor is supposed to visit his boy regularly to watch the progress on his car.

Two more out-of-town boys entered the race this week. They were: Don Pressley, 12, route 1, Abernathy, who is to be sponsored by the C. H. Brown Lumber company; and Darrell Fletcher, 14, route 4, Tahoka.

Entries this week included the following boys:

Robert H. Miller, 12, 2424 Twenty-sixth; Larry L. Panzer, 11, route 3; Royce Don Tankersley, 12, 3509 Twentieth; Charles Hass,

Texas Solons Delay Final Decision On Commission

Good Neighbor Group Attacked

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, April 6—A House committee tonight put off for two weeks its decision on a bill to abolish the Texas Good Neighbor commission.

Rep. J. F. Gray of Three Rivers, author of the bill doing away with the commission said the body "fails to serve any useful purpose and is a useless expenditure of state money."

R. E. (Bob) Smith of Houston, chairman of the commission, said the group was doing a good job to educate Texans to the point where there would be no discrimination among races.

To Make Report Today

Members of the State Affairs committee argued among themselves whether consideration of the bill should be postponed until after a report on the Felix Longoria reburial incident at Three Rivers is returned. Then they voted to send it to a sub-committee for two weeks.

Named to the sub-committee were Reps. Louis J. Ivey of El Paso, Carleton Moore of Houston and W. R. Chambers of May. Ivey and Moore indicated by questioning during the hearing that they were against the bill abolishing the commission. Chambers spoke for the bill.

Rep. Cecil Storey of Longview, chairman of the House Investigating committee which looked into the charge of racial discrimination at Three Rovers, said his committee's report would be ready tomorrow.

Commission Under Fire

(Earlier tonight Storey said three members of his committee had signed the six-page report but one member wanted to discuss the report further. Rep. Frank Oltorf of Marlin said he would not sign the report and would submit a minority report.)

"We find in South Texas that the only good thing about the Good Neighbor commission is its name," Gray told the committee. "Rather than help the good neighbor cause, this commission is a stumbling block."

Gray charged that the commission issued erroneous statements in connection with the Longoria incident.

Gray said he found from a personal investigation that Thomas Sutherland, executive secretary of the commission, received $4,140 salary from the state but received a total annual salary of $7,200.

Smith testified that Sutherland received $4,140 from the state and members of the six-man commission personally paid him $250 a month extra.

Gray said in his opinion members of the commission might be trying to help conditions in Texas but he believed that Sutherland had neglected his job as executive secretary.

"Don't let the visionary intent of this commission overshadow its actual work," he said.

Smith said he believed that education was the only way Texas could overcome discrimination in the state.

Iowa Professor Finds Adults Prefer Short Words In Writing

CHICAGO, April 7 (U.P.)—Words of four letters or less make up 50 per cent of adult writing, a professor of education reveals.

Dr. Ernest Horn, professor of education at the University of Iowa, in an article for Childcraft books, writes that I, the, and, to, a, you, of, in, we and for make up about 25 per cent of adult writing.

Horn based his article on a survey of 5,000,000 words written by adults.

However, Horn said the average American six-year-old has a 2,000-word vocabulary.

RENTAL PROVISIONS CLARIFIED

New Rent Act Adds Strength To Former Controls, Official Says

By EDWARD WELSH
Avalanche Staff Writer

"We are finally getting a clear interpretation of the rent control extension act," Roy B. Carnes, manager of the area rent control office of the housing expediter said today. "There were scores of inquiries while the act was taking shape in Congress. Many of these questions had to go unanswered because of the tug-of-war that took place over the wording and extent of the bill."

According to Carnes the extended control has some improvements over the old act. At the same time he said that there are some points that can easily be interpreted as a weakening of the act.

"These changes in most cases represent new approaches to certain old problems but they do not necessarily mean that the act has been weakened or watered down," Carnes said.

One of the examples that fell in the latter category was the authority which the act delegates to states, incorporated cities, towns and villages to decontrol certain areas. Such decontrol would have to have the approval of the Governor.

Carnes said that this was merely an extension of the principle of granting greater discretion to local authorities who are in closer touch with their own specific problems.

Tighe E. Wood, national housing expediter, is in accord on this point. In a release from his office in Washington, Wood states that local authorities can make "on the spot" studies of the problem and recommend whether or not federal rent control is necessary for a healthy economic situation in their respective communities.

One of the points that will have a variety of interpretations is the "fair net operating income" provision. Both Carnes and Wood believe this is only a liberalization of the existing regulations for making financial adjustments in specific cases.

"In many cases there are land-

Reports Indicate Civilian Has Been Chosen For Moscow Post

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

Reports from Washington and Moscow indicate that President Truman has selected a civilian to succeed Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith as ambassador to Russia.

Eddy Gilmore, Associated Press correspondent in Moscow, says the ambassador's residence and automobiles there are being refurbished, a good indication that a new occupant is about to arrive.

He adds—and in this he agrees with reports current in Washington—that the new envoy is expected to be a diplomat who is already in the State department's foreign service.

Secret Closely Guarded

Beyond this, the identity of whoever the President has in mind has been a closely guarded secret.

There have been reports for some time, however, that the President was still clinging to the idea that the United States should make another effort to explain its position to the Kremlin and see if there is any possible avenue of approach to a settlement of east-west difficulties.

The object would be to convince Russia that what may appear to be warlike moves on the part of the United States are really only a reaction to Russian attitudes and due to fear of what may be in Kremlin minds for the future.

Chance For Accord Seen

The President is represented as being very personally interested in preventing the arrival of a day when he would have to decide when and where to drop atomic bombs.

Gilmore says "diplomats here agree that the new American ambassador will come at a time which may offer singular opportunities for reopening many troublesome issues between Russia and the U S.

This follows by only a few days a Gilmore dispatch which started out by saying that "some diplomats not directly involved in the four-power dispute over Berlin speculated today there may be a new move to settle that issue."

Considered against the Russian system of censorship, which interests itself not only in the protection of Russian policy but also, sometimes, refuses to pass dispatches which it considers actually erroneous, transmission of these Gilmore dispatches could have more than ordinary significance.

Britain Counts Cost Of Refugee Poles

LONDON, April 6 (AP)—A government committee recommends that the Polish resettlement corps, an outgrowth of Gen. Wladyslaw Andres' Polish refugee army, be disbanded by the end of next September, when it will be three years old.

The Committee says the corps has cost Britain's three services 110,333,935 pounds ($445,335,660) and handled 114,037 Poles. A late count showed it still had 11,015. Of these, 5,837 were officers—old or disabled and hard to place in jobs.

Most of the Poles have balked at going back where they came from, because the Communists are in power there now. Only 8,912 have been repatriated, with 50 waiting to go.

Of the others, 11,409 have moved on from Britain to other countries, 71,563 have taken jobs in this country, 2,066 have turned students and 2,066 have joined the armed forces.

The tag ends are expected either to go abroad or to settle in Britain.

Members of the corps have drawn pay by rank, two-thirds to three-quarters of that for the British services. The committee says the old and disabled should be put on public assistance.

Collector Of Pitchers Faces Huge Problem In Dish-Washing

CHRISTOPHER, Ill., April 6. (AP)—Mrs. Lillian Porter has collected so many pitchers that it takes her three hours to wash 'em. She hasn't counted them since she passed the 700 mark.

The hobby Mrs. Lilliam Porter started six years ago now fills a corner of the kitchen in her home here. Each pitcher has a story. Her prize came from Ireland and it's been in the family of her husband, Russell, for 115 years.

The pitchers range in size from a half-inch one to an 18-inch piece. Mrs. Porter, formerly of Indianapolis, Ind., says there isn't a piece of glassware among them. They've come from most of the 48 states and from several foreign countries.

She has pitchers shaped like cows, pigs, chickens, birds, miniature heads, and other oddities. With all these, she's on the lookout for more. Mrs. Porter says she would especially like a red pitcher shaped like a devil.

Rotterdam, Holland, is well on its way to regaining its position as Europe's leading port.

Vice-President Barkley Lays Down The Law; Senator On Floor Is Not Required To Yield

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—Vice-President Barkley, who presides over the Senate, has given the senators fair warning he intends to enforce the rules of debate.

He said that heretofore some of the rules have been violated by unanimous consent, because the issue seemed trivial, or because some senators were reluctant to make a point of order against another senator who may be violating rules.

So, Barkley said, it appeared to be up to the vice president to enforce the rules.

He warned the senators that when they have the floor for a speech they are not compelled to yield to another senator.

"During debate on a motion (to take up a bill or resolution) . . . or matter which may be pending, the rules of the Senate provide that a senator can yield to another senator only for a question," the vice president explained.

"He is not required to yield for any purpose. He may yield only for the purpose of permitting another senator to ask him a question.

Stand Not Clear

"If he yields for any other purpose and running debate ensues, which frequently happens, more or less by unanimous consent, and in violation of the rules, he may be taken from the floor by reason of the violation of the rules."

A long discussion followed. Some senators weren't quite sure they understood the rule. They were afraid they would be "taken from the floor" by violating a rule without knowing they were violating it.

The vice president suggested they might protect themselves by asking the unanimous consent of the other senators to permit another senator to interrupt them while they were talking.

Senator Hayden had the floor at this point. With the vice president's warning still fresh in his mind, he opened his speech this way:

"Mr. President, I now grant myself unanimous consent to proceed."

Polish Militiamen Are Killed By Underground Organizations

Warsaw, Poland, April 6 (AP)—Gen. Franciszek Jozwiak, commander-in-chief of the Polish militia, reported underground bands killed 122 volunteer militiamen in the last three years.

Jozwiak said the citizens' volunteer militia reserve, generally known as "Ormo," included among its membership 84,000 peasants and workers.

The militiamen killed lost their lives in battling underground bands preceding the national referendum in Poland on June 30, 1946, and the general parliamentary elections on Jan. 19, 1947.

The "Ormo" also was widely used in 1948 to smash illegal distilleries of vodka. A total of 836 moonshine stills were seized by the militiamen.

Cities Warned On Loss Of Revenue

DALLAS, April 6 (AP)—Officials from six Texas cities heard a warning today: American cities may be in for a bad time because of falling tax income.

The statement came from Miner Phillipps, executive director of the municipal finance officers association of the United States and Canada.

He conferred here on city financial problems with officials of Dallas, Fort Worth, Hillsboro, Tyler, University Park, and Highland Park.

"Prices are beginning to go down and the cities may find their revenues will go down too. That will mean budget cuts," Phillipps said.

If that happens cities should trim operations to protect the most essential services, he said.

He advised that with construction costs high cities should limit their improvement bond spending to things that are necessary—they may get more for their dollars "later when bond funds may be used on projects which will prevent unemployment."

The conference was arranged by Dallas City Auditor E. Lynn Crossley, state chairman of the international organization.

Among those attending were Hillsboro City Secretary A. M. James; Fort Worth Commissioner of Accounts H. C. Michael, and Tyler's Assistant Finance Director G. N. McNallie.

Court Says Police Could Be Bandits

MAIDSTONE, England, April 6 (AP)—Plainsclothesmen just had to investigate when they spotted a young farmer parked with his girl in an unlit car.

In the chase that ensued, one got pushed off the running board of the automobile.

In court, the youth explained, "I didn't know they were police. I thought they were bandits."

Good enough, said the court.

Charged with assaulting and injuring the detective, he was acquitted.

Kansas Cities Vote To Permit Package Liquor Store Operation

TOPEKA, Kan., April 6 (INS) — Voters in 20 Kansas cities have decided to permit the establishment of package liquor stores in their communities, tossing aside results of elections last fall which swung them into the dry column.

Latest returns from yesterday's wet-or-dry balloting show the following communities now approve of liquor stores:

Baxter Springs, Caldwell, Caney, Cedar Vale, Clay Center, Dexter, Elkhart, Fort Scott, Garnett, Horton, Holton, Anthony, Medicine Lodge, Phillipsburg, Sabetha and Sedan.

Cities that voted dry in November must hold special elections before liquor stores may be opened. Elections last November ended a 56-year dry span for the state which once was the target of Carrie Nation's hatchets.

Lindbergh Returns Home After Secret Visit Of Bomber Bases

By BOB CONSIDINE
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, April 6 — Sideglances:

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, back home after a hushed-up world tour of current and former U. S. bomber bases, is engaged in work of a nature so secret that not even his closest associates know what he is doing.

They presume that the remarkable man, now becoming plumpish and more mellow, is at work on some aspect of the atomic bomb. Lindbergh's recent world tour was made at the personal request of Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, chief of the Air Force.

Now Important Figure

Lindbergh's work for the Air Force during the war, despite the hostility of FDR, made him a figure of tremendous importance in that arm of the service. He remains important.

Immediately after his return to his home in Darien, Conn., Lindbergh flew to Detroit to visit his mother—a practice he has religiously followed after all his trips.

Friends report that the greatest hero of his time, who later became one of the country's most controversial figures, has seldom been more at peace with the world than today. His almost mystical book, "Of Flight and Life," got something off his chest that apparently had worried him for years. It is an almost unparalleled self-examination, superbly written.

Pleasantly, but firmly, he turns aside all requests for interviews. "Things are going so well I don't want anything to change them," he said recently to a reporter who sought his views on a controversial matter.

Circus Debt Nearly Paid

John Ringling North, the dapper circus owner, this week begins paying off the last $750,000 of an almost unique debt.

Claims amounting to more than $6,000,000 were filed against the circus corporation after the appalling fire at Hartford, Conn., July 6, 1944. North refused to contest a single claim. He informed his partners that the mammoth Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey would henceforth be operated solely for the benefit of the claimants, so far as all profits were concerned.

North has paid off at better than $1,000,000 a season since making his decision. By the end of this season the burden finally will be lifted.

Star of the show this year, by the way, is a gentleman who calls himself "The Great Swanson." He hangs himself at all matinee and evening performances. With a noose around his neck he dives off a platform set at a dizzy height — and somehow survives the bone-jarring jerk when the rope pays itself out.

"The Great Swanson" is the second such performer the Ringling show has had. The other succeeded in hanging himself, for keeps, a dozen years ago.

Andrei Gromyko, the deputy foreign minister of the USSR, was staring moodily out a window at Rockefeller center's cloud-bursting rainbow room. It was raining, and a heavy overcast obscured the view of those who had assembled for a UN cocktail party.

"Too bad, Andrei, it's a lovely view from here—when it's not raining," his wife said.

"Yes," he mused, unhappily. "And tomorrow the New York papers will blame me for the rain."

Winning Argument

Bill Gargan, the excellent Hollywood actor, found himself embroiled the other night with a boiled New York reporter. The reporter was shouting that Ireland was nuts not to come into the Atlantic pact.

"Give me one good reason why Ireland doesn't belong in the pact?" the reporter asked the good natured Irishman.

"Sure, she's too busy defending those countries," Bill said.

British Foreign Secretary Bevin on the revitalization of German industry:

"I take the view that if German industry before Hitler had been owned by the public instead of by Krupps there would never have been a war. I cannot see the German people with the control of those industries in their hands handing the money over to Hitler to build up a party fund to destroy them.

"I base my case on that, and other people on both sides of the ocean are coming round rapidly to that point of view."

School Proposal

for fire hazards was approved by the Senate and sent to the House.

A bill creating a Texas Citrus commission ran into Senate opposition. The House-passed measure underwent amendment during the morning, and the Senate returned to debate it further in an afternoon session.

With school teachers again filling the gallery to watch the Gilmer-Aikin proposals thrashed out, Willis suggested the House should hold new public hearings beginning next Monday.

The Fort Worth legislator said he was principally concerned with how much the new system of education would cost Texas taxpayers.

"I think any taxpayer that wants to be heard on this thing should have the opportunity even if it takes five years," Willis declared.

Delay Is Opposed

Rep. William George Richards of Lockhart didn't think the House had time "to listen to every taxpayer in Texas who might want to be heard."

Rep. Still, Teacher - legislator sponsoring the Taylor bill in the House, said the people of Texas have been urged to study the Gilmer-Aikin proposition since the committee first began its work some 18 months ago.

"It's a matter right now whether you are for or against the bill. Delay of any kind is detrimental. Delay could hurt the schools of Texas worse than the way you vote," she said.

She observed that the bill at hand has nothing to do with how the school program would be financed. That matter is handled in the second measure, yet to be taken up.

"Senate Bill 115 (Taylor's) could easily be passed without 116 and 117, and we would have made a very good change because you would have changed the administrative setup," Mrs. Still continued.

The Taylor bill abolishes the elective office of State Superintendent, creates a 21-man elective state board of education. The board would appoint a State Commissioner of Education.

Creation of a central agency—composed of the board, the commissioner and the State Department of Education—is designed to eliminate present confusion caused by overlapping authority of various education agencies, proponents of the bill say.

The House tacked on an amendment calling for election of the 21-member board this year. Elections then would be staggered so that seven new members would be elected each year beginning in 1950 for three-year terms.

Bavarian Is Success In Salvage Venture

PUEBLO, Colo., April 6. (AP)—Eugene Untermayer has made a long and successful jump from making fine linen in Bavaria to salvaging iron at Pueblo's steelmills.

The 63-year-old man fled Germany with his family in 1940. He left behind one of Bavaria's largest linen plants which he'd owned for 40 years.

He tried selling books in New York City to maintain his wife and two children. But at the suggestion of a third son he trekked westward to Colorado. The son was with U. S. ski troops in training at Camp Hale near Leadville.

Untermayer took a job at Pueblo with a New York metal salvage company. It was trying to recover metal from the slag dumps of the Minnequa steel mills of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Corp. The New York firm abandoned the work because it couldn't make a profit.

Untermayer decided to tackle the job himself. He obtained a contract from the CF&I and took up where other firms had failed. He is directing a big operation now in the recovery of the metal. The project involves the eventual working over of about six miles of dumps which are mountains of blast furnace slag.

Powder charges blast loose the material and four bulldozers push it aside in swaths while workmen pick over the dislodged scrap. Most of the recovered metal is in small pieces but some recoveries weigh a half-ton. Trucks haul the accumulations to the steel mills where they are used with other scrap in the open hearth furnaces in making steel.

Untermayer speaks five languages and is an etymologist—an expert in the derivation of words. He is also a metallurgist.

America is the land of opportunity, he says. "Any man can learn to do anything."

Swiss To Evict Polish Legation

BRISSAGO, Switzerland, April 6 (AP) — The Swiss are about to get back two of their islands, but they may have to wait nineteen years to get their hands on famous old Rapperswil Castle.

The two islands of Brissago in Lake Maggiore have been owned privately for approximately 75 years. They lie off the small Swiss village of Brissago. The closest villagers ever came to them was the boat landing where a large sign says: "Entry Forbidden."

Bought By Countess

The islands were purchased first by a Russian Countess, known locally as the Princess St. Legere. Before her death, she sold them to a wealthy warehouse owner in Hamburg, Dr. Max Emden, who built a palatial home on the largest of the two islands. Rumor in Brissago had it that the doorknobs in the mansion were made of pure gold.

Dr. Emden's heirs are now trying to sell the islands and the Swiss towns and villages along the shore of Lake Maggiore are trying to raise the $172,000 necessary to keep them available to the Swiss and to tourists.

The countess and Dr. Emden built up a rare collection of Mediterranean and oriental trees and shrubbery on the grounds. Swiss botanical experts say the islands may become one of the famous gardens of southern Europe.

The Rapperswil castle is another and more difficult matter. It is a forbidding, medieval mass of stone with a clock tower in the village of Rapperswil on the Lake of Zurich.

Lease Is Given

Back in 1869, Rapperswil officials gave the Polish state a 99-year least on the castle. Poland at that time was partitioned among Prussia, Russia and Austria. Refugee Poles wanted to establish a national museum in the castle and assemble the documents and historical background of their country.

The Swiss authoritics maintain that the rebirth of Poland after World War I and the removal of the exhibits to Warsaw removed the original basis of the lease. They say further that they are entitled to evict the tenant on three months' notice.

But the Polish legation in Bern says it won't budge from the castle until 1967 and considers the original lease stil lin effect. Some Rapperswil officials take the view that the Poles are more interested in establishing a propaganda center in the castle than in enlightening the world on Poland's past.

New Rent Controls

lords who are not getting an adequate yield from their property," Carnes said. "The provision for adjustment to a fair operating income will relieve an unnecessary burden without allowing a runaway rental increase."

The law leaves it up to the housing expediter to determine just what a fair net operating income might be. It does not mean that over-all rent increases would be handed out to all tenants on a landlord's property. Landlords who obviously have been operating at a loss will be able to secure redress. Adjustments will be based on a study of 100,000 rental units throughout the United States and over a period of eight years.

Evictions Regulated

The eight points that are considered as having added strength to the previous rent control act are:

1. The housing expediter now has authority to regulate evictions. Since June 30, 1947 he has not had such authority. This is considered a curb on "black market" operations and a step toward eliminating the fear of eviction.

2. The housing expediter again has the power to sue for treble damages in cases where there have been ceiling violations. This is looked upon as an added curb for ceiling violators.

3. Authority to recontrol areas that have been released from the provisions of the rent control act. It also means that new areas can be controlled upon recommendation of the local rent advisory board.

4. The decontrol of conversion units will now rest with the expediter in the same manner as in the past. Such dwellings as homes that have been converted into apartments fall in this category.

5. It brings back under control certain trailers and trailer space, hotel and other transient accommodations that have been automatically decontrolled since June 30, 1947.

6. It removes the provision from the present law calling for voluntary leases with rent increases up to 15 per cent. This eliminates pressure from landlords to require tenants to sign such leases and eliminates extra burdens on tenants who wish to vacate units.

7. It authorizes the expediter to obtain necessary information by direct testimony or from records. It also gives the power to subpoena witnesses for such testimony.

8. It requires all landlords who receive rent adjustments to certify that they are maintaining and will continue to maintain all the services furnished on the maximum rent date.

Chinese Christian Insures During Religious Crusading

SINGAPORE, April 6. (AP) — Hsu Chiant Tsi has started a one-man religious crusade in the face of ridicule and insults.

The Chinese merchant tagged a large board on the rear of his motor car. On it is written in both English and Chinese the words, "Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners."

His tribulations are many. Attempts have been made to smash the board. Other persons have scribbled obscene words all over it. Hsu simply erases the offensive language and repairs the board.

His reaction is to say, "There are at least some people in Singapore who are taking notice of my crusade."

ANTI-SPY LEGISLATION SOUGHT

FBI Director Urges Tightening Of U. S. Laws To Block Red Activity

By ROSE McKEE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 6 — FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover urged Congress today to tighten U. S. espionage laws quickly because of recent scientific developments and the "growth of subversive forces."

Hoover's recommendations, which he called the "very minimum" the government needs, were read to a Senate Judiciary subcommittee by Attorney General Clark.

Hoover said the experiences of U. S. intelligence agencies in World War II schowed that "the internal security of this nation could not be safeguarded without correcting weaknesses in existing legislation."

Statute Change Asked

Among the six main provisions in the requested legislation was a plea to outlaw the present statute of limitations — now three years — on war or peacetime acts of espionage.

Meanwhile, Chairman Eastland (D-Miss) disclosed that the committee expects to approve new security legislation this week.

Eastland said the group then will consider separate "Communist control" legislation.

Three anti-spy bills aimed at Communists already have been tossed into the House hopper. No hearings, however, have been held on them.

Red Curbs Proposed

One is the Mundt-Nixon anti-Communist bill. Another, sponsored by Rep. Walter (D-Pa), would deprive Americans of their citizenship if they joined the Communist party. A bill offered by Rep. Wood (D-Ga) would make it illegal for a Communist to engage in defense work.

Hoover said his program was based on "the fundamental premise that our security can best become a realtiy through preventative measures."

He explained that this idea is coupled with the improvement in offensive weapons and "the harsh fact that damage done in time of peace resulting from acts of espionage is as great, if not greater, than such acts in time of war."

The FBI director pointed out that present legislation was designed mainly for prosecutive action "after the damage had occurred or made prosecution impossible by virtue of existence of situations not anticipated by legislative bodies."

He said intelligence agencies were compelled "to take stock" because of scientific developments and the growth of subversive forces which potentially could endanger security and the troubled international situation."

For the second successive day, Clark clashed with Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) over President Truman's refusal to provide congressional committees with requested executive department secrets.

Ferguson asked if Hoover's bill would give these agencies a further "excuse" for withholding information. Clark replied:

"What the executive agency will give Congress is well known. There is no use going into it here."

Clark was asked if news stories under certain conditions might be considered violations of the proposed law. He said that only if they revealed a war secret, and then it would be up to a jury to decide.

African Diplomatic Question Could Be Settled By A Dam

ADDIS ABABA, April 6 (AP)—If at long last a dam is built across the headwaters of the Blue Nile at Lake Tsana in Ethiopia, as has been reported recently, an old and complex diplomatic question will have been settled in this part of Africa.

The Blue Nile dam problem has long occupied a prominent and permanent place in Anglo-Egyptian relations, and sometimes in Anglo-Italian relations. Ever since the turn of the present century England's diplomatic activity in this particular part of Africa has been postulated on a Lake Tsana dam concession, or at least a guarantee that no other interest should be permitted to tamper with the Lake Tsana water supply.

Between World War I and World War II, Italian influence was strong in these parts. At the present time, with England no longer responsible for Egyptian affairs, Egypt has replaced Italy and is now directly and independently involved.

England and Egypt have long desired to dam the headwaters of the Blue Nile in order to regulate and insure water for the great Gezira irrigation project and the entire Nile water system.

Jennings R. Arnce Claimed Wednesday At Hale Center

HALE CENTER, April 6 (Special)—Funeral services for Jennings Russell Arnce, 40, are set tentatively for Friday afternoon here.

He is survived by his wife; one son, J. R. Arnce, jr.; and three daughters Verbena Louise, Billie Joan and Barbara Ann all of Hale Center. There are also five brothers.

Burial will be in the Center Plain cemetery.

Former Soldier Hailed As One Of Top Violin Manufacturers

ROME, April 6 (AP) — A 35-year-old ex-soldier who started making violins as a pastime while he was a prisoner of war in Africa thinks he may have rediscovered some of the lost secrets of Italy's great craftsmen of the past.

At any rate, the instruments that Franco Ponzo has been turning out in his tiny shop on Rome's Aventine Hill are increasingly in demand among professional musicians.

With age, the knowing say, they may even compare favorably with the violins the Amati, Stravari and Guarneri put together centuries ago.

Ponzo—short, stocky, swarthy, moustached and modest—himself makes no such claims, merely expressing belief that his experiments with new formulas for varnish have developed something better than modern Italian violinmakers are using.

Although he has unfilled orders, Ponzo expects to sail soon for Buenos Aires. An application he made long ago to emigrate to Argentina, where he has relatives, has just been approved. He expects to continue his trade in his new homeland.

BODY OF SOLDIER FOUND

Escaped Convict Back In Prison

HENDERSON, April 6 (AP)—Lifetermer Walter Lemay was back in prison today after a meek surrender near here last midnight.

The 41-year-old convict stepped dripping wet from a creek to give himself up after losing a race with a pack of baying bloodhounds.

He and another convict sawed their way to freedom from the Clemens state prison farm in Brazoria county Monday night.

Second Man Sought

Search for the second fugitive, Willard Ward, 35, centered in the Nacogdoches area. A negro told officers that a man answering Ward's description ate a meal at his home late Tuesday.

Lemay was cornered in a briar thicket on the outskirts of Henderson after two Henderson officers spotted him in a stolen car.

The convict ran into the thicket after he crashed the car into a pick-up truck in a futile attempt to outdistance the officers.

In their flight from the prison farm the convicts kidnapped two oil well drillers and commandeered their automobile. The drillers later were released unharmed.

Lemay was serving a life sentence for burglary, theft and robbery. Ward was in for 50 years for robbery and forgery.

Murray Blasts CIO Longshoremen Head

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6. (AP)—CIO President Philip Murray sharply blasted Harry Bridges today at the convention of the longshore leader's CIO left wing union.

A statement by Murray, read to the convention, accused Bridges and his colleagues of circulating "unwarranted rumors" about the national CIO; in one case of stating "a plain and unmitigated falsehood."

Murray's blast pointed up the mounting dispute between Bridges and national headquarters. Bridges had opened the convention by saying his ILWU (International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union) was left wing and would stay that way.

Then he called a closed session yesterday over relations with the national body—a tempestous meeting at which a national CIO spokesman reportedly said if Bridges' union didn't like the national's policies "why not get the hell out."

Prospector Develops Additional Pay Section In Borden County

More pay section has been proven in the Canyon lime of the Pennsylvanian for Seaboard Oil Company of Delaware and Pan American Production Company No. 1 T. J. Good, wildcat discovery from that formation in South-Central Borden County.

After cementing a string of 5½-inch casing on 7,940 feet, to the bottom of the zone which primarily showed production, the prospector made hole to 7,970 feet.

With packer set at 7,940 feet, the development drillstem tested and had gas in three minutes, drilling mud in 14 minutes and oil in 16 minutes.

Through a ¾-inch bottom hole choke, the well flowed 176 barrels of 42.5-gravity oil in 10 hours. On last report, operator was coming out of the hole with the test tool.

This strike is about six miles northwest of the Canyon-Pennsylvanian production in the Vealmoor field of North-Central Howard County and 1,985 feet from south, 2,004 feet from west lines of section 37, block 33, T-4-N, TP survey.

Extension Completed

An extension to production from the Devonian in the Dollarhide field of Southwest Andrews County has been completed by Union Oil Company of California.

The concern's No. 1-H E. P. Cowden, 330 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of the Cowden lease in section 14, block A-55, psl survey, flowed 24 hours through a one-half inch choke to make a potential test of 408 barrels of oil.

Gas-oil ratio was 1,242-1. Gravity of the petroleum was 40 degrees. There was no water.

Production was through perforations opposite the Devonian at 8,215-8,280 feet and 8,319-8,352 feet, following a 3,500-gallon acid treatment in that formation. Total depth of the well is 8,370 feet. Top of the Devonian pay was called on 8,215 feet.

Two Tests Run

Humble Oil & Refining Company ran two drillstem tests in a Pennsylvanian lime and shale formation, probably Canyon, at its No. 1 Edmondson, wildcat two and one-third miles west and one-quarter mile north of the North Snyder-Canyon pool in North-Central Scurry.

The first examination was for 33 minutes at 7,148-7,190 feet, showing a slight blow of air for five minutes and recovering 15 feet of drilling mud. There were no shows of oil, gas or water.

On the second test, the tool was open one hour at 7,199-7,210 feet. A fair blow of air reached the surface immediately and continued for 54 minutes. Recovery was 150 feet of gas cut drilling mud.

The prospector has now deepened to 7,230 feet in lime and shale. Another drillstem test was in process.

Show Of Oil Logged

In South-Central Garza County, Plymouth Oil Company No. 1 Sims has drilled to 8,261 feet in chert. A fair fluorescent show of oil was logged on that depth and the venture was circulating for samples.

It is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 8, block 2, T&NO survey.

Water Develops

C. H. Murphy & Son developed water in the San Andres-Permian of Central Gaines County with their No. 1 E. T. O'Daniel, wildcat two miles southeast of Seminole and 660 feet from east, 1,980 feet from south lines of section 16, block C-44, psl survey.

A two-hour drillstem test was run at 5,309-35 feet, recovering 90 feet of oil and gas cut drilling mud and 310 feet of salty sulphur water. Operator was coring ahead.

The prospect has shown possibilities of oil in the San Andres at a lesser depth.

'Breakfast' Program To Be Conducted In City Today

The Aqui-Pri class of the Asbury Methodist church has the table set for "Breakfast in Hollywood" this afternoon at the Plaza theater, 2705 Twenty-sixth street.

Seventh Juror Is Chosen For Wichita Falls Man's Trial

WICHITA FALLS, April 6 (AP)—The seventh juror was selected late today for the murder trial of Ben H. Langford, 39, accused of shooting his former wife to death last Jan. 3.

Attorneys agreed on three jurors during the day. They began by choosing O. B. Mullins, city motorcycle officer. Then they picked Keith Bryant, carpenter, and J. W. Carter, caretaker at Hardin college.

Questioning of prospective jurors continued along the lines started yesterday.

The prosecution indicated it will ask the death penalty for Langford, oil man and member of a prominent Wichita Falls family. The state also questioned veniremen on their attitudes toward circumstantial evidence.

Attorneys for Langford based their questions on insanity as a defense and the veniremen's attitude toward the possibility Mrs. Langford might have committed suicide.

WRONG ANSWER

OGDEN, Utah (U.P.)—A husband here blames a New York radio network quiz show for starting a family feud. He said a network phoned his number and he replied: "You must have the wrong number—we're not interested in those things." He then hung up and reports his wife hasn't spoken to him since.

Banker Facing Misappropriation Charges Returned To New York

TAMPA, Fla., April 6 (INS)—Richard H. Crowe, New York banker accused of misappropriating nearly a million dollars, flew back to New York today.

Four FBI agents and a federal marshal hustled the husky 41-year-old banker aboard a National airlines plane at Tampa at 12:05 p. m. (CST.) They are scheduled to arrive in New York about 5 p. m.

Crowe told jailers at the Hillsborough county (Tampa) jail this morning he is "flat broke." He pulled two nickles from his pocket and said "this is every cent I have."

Arrested In Night Club

Crowe was arrested in a Daytona Beach, bar Monday night.

The former executive of the Lower Broadway branch of the National City bank turned over to FBI agents $54,788 of the $194,660 in cash that disappeared from the bank.

Crowe spent last night in the Tampa jail under $100,000 bond after waiving extradition. He retracted, in part, his earlier statement that he tossed $690,000 in bonds and securities into the Atlantic ocean "to make the bank officials angry."

Fate Of Securities Unknown

He told District Attorney Herbert Phillips today that he wasn't sure whether he threw the securities away. Crowe added:

"I think I did, but I'm not sure. I don't know why I did it or what went wrong. It will take a good psychiatrist—or maybe several—to find out."

Federal agents said they recovered $39,850 of the missing funds before Crowe's arrest, and had accounted for all but about $30,000 of the $884,600 in missing bank funds and securities.

Crowe is married and the father of three children.

KATYDID DID

A katydid, hitched to a paper sled, was able to pull a load consisting of 12 sheets of paper, two steel pens, a large screw, a two-ounce stone, and three and one-half lead pencils, but it moistened its feet in its mouth to get better traction.

Plans Are Completed For Show At Sudan

SUDAN, April 6—Plans for the Sudan Community Livestock show, Saturday, April 9, have been completed and more than 86 animals have been entered to compete for the $250 in premiums. The show is open to all farmers, Future Farmers and 4-H club members of Lamb county.

Entries have been made in the following classes; Duroc gilts, Poland China gilts, sows, miscellaneous gilts and fat barrows, sows and litters, board, dairy cows, dairy heifers, dairy bulls and beef heifers.

Sudan boys will act as superintendents of the various divisions this year to keep the show running smoothly. Roy McLaury will supervise the cattle entries and G. W. Maxfield will perform the same duties in the swine division.

W. H. Lyle, sr., president of the First National bank, has offered an added prize of $25 for the first place dairy cow. Lyle has been an ardent booster of the Sudan livestock show for many years.

NEW BUDGET STRAINS FEARED

Economist Offers New Plan To Finance European Arms Cost

By GEORGE DURNO
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 6—The Truman administration is striving to hold European arms aid spending within present budget limits by financing implementation of the north Atlantic pact from funds allotted for military and foreign aid spending.

The money-saving departure from President Truman's original budget proposals was voiced by the chief executive's top economic adviser Dr. Edwin G. Nourse yesterday, with prior White House approval.

Need For Economy Outlined

Nourse outlined the economic necessity for the new spending limitation at a closed-door session of the national military establishment. Text of his address was made public today.

Nourse came to the conclusion that the federal budget would have to be completely reworked so that all foreign aid could be included in the present $42 billion estimate for the nation's operations. He contended that the Atlantic pact implementation would have to be adjusted into the $15 billions for the U. S. military establishment and the $5.6 billions for world economic recovery. The alternatives he said are increased taxes or deficit financing. He said:

"We cannot afford to make the costs of (the Atlantic pact's) implementation a simple addition to other military plans as they stood before the new alignment."

Nourse's arguments found immediate favor on both sides of Congress, where advance opposition already has started to a large-scale budget increase for European re-armament.

Solons Praise Plan

Sen. Connally (D-Tex.) chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, commented:

"If, after study by responsible military and civilian authorities, it can be found to be practicable to include the proposed military aid to North Atlantic countries with a consequent reduction in defense appropriations that will not imperil U. S. security, it would be a wise and sound course to pursue."

Other comment:

Sen. Wherry (R-Neb.), GOP floor leader: "It is wise in the face of what has been brought out in the ECA debate that we examine military and all other appropriations because, if we authorize the North Atlantic pact, it will be a terrible drain on the U. S. economy. I am in complete accord with Dr. Nourse."

Sen. Gurney (R-SD), ranking Republican on the Armed Services committee: "I agree it's going to be a strain on our economy but there are other factors that have to be considered. I think our Armed Services committee should take complete testimony from the security establishment."

Warns Against Increase

Sen. Baldwin (R-Conn.),: "If we implement the pact, that's part of the cost of defending the country. It makes sense to me."

Dr. Nourse told the military officials:

"The economist approach to the analysis of the preparedness problem must now be applied to the newest development in the security picture, namely the North Atlantic pact and its effective implementation.

"Of course, we cannot measure the value of this pact merely in the amount of dollars involved. These expenditures are small in relation to the historical significance of the undertaking and also in relation to the total budget or the total productivity of our national economy.

"But it would be wrong to conclude that we can, without concern, add these expenditures, whatever they are, to present budget items for national security.

Reduces Danger To U. S.

"Any addition to the budget would contribute to the need for additional taxes or to the making of a budget deficit."

He described the basic issue as follows:

"Does the North Atlantic pact increase our national danger and, therefore, require us to make additional outlays to restore the proper measure of military security? Or do we propose, by joining in a plan of mutual assurance, to lessen the danger to each of the parties, and particularly to ourselves as the prime target of possible aggression?

"The latter seems the reasonable interpretation."

The President's economic adviser pointed to a further danger in unduly straining the American pocketbook.

This involves the prospect that Soviet Russia intends to continue the cold war with the deliberate idea of making the western powers spend billions for military purposes that might better go toward economic rehabilitation. He said:

"Preparedness for 'cold war' will accomplish its objective only if it clearly can be continued for as long a period as may be necessary.

"Preparedness for possible prolonged international tension should not borrow resources from the future but build up the economic potential and strengthen the social fabric."

Two Suspects Plead Innocent In Fatal Shooting Near Beaumont

BEAUMONT, April 6 (U.P.) — William Earl Pelham, 23, and Henry Robert Giles, jr., 36, pleaded innocent today when arraigned in connection with the fatal shooting March 25 of Elbert Langston, whose body was found in a rice field near Nome, Tex.

Giles was caught here the next day, and Pelham was taken into custody last Monday by officers in Bossier City, La. A third companion who reported the murder, John Brunson, was no-billed by a Jefferson county grand jury.

In a signed statement, Giles admitted holding the gun that killed Langston, and said Pelham stripped the body of clothing and money before it was dumped in a rice paddy in west Jefferson county.

Yesterday Pelham led officers to a side road near Highlands, Tex., in Harris county, where they found clothing belonging to the dead man. Pelham said Langston's clothes were thrown from a car after he was shot.

Giles was represented at the arraignment by Wyatt Baldwin, Beaumont attorney. Pelham had no counsel, and Judge Owen N. Lord indicated he might appoint one.

Production At International Harvester Plant Is Halted

ROCK ISLAND, April 6 (INS)—Production at International Harvester's Farmall plant in Rock Island was halted today by what plant management termed a wildcat strike.

The stoppage idled 4,200 workers.

Plant manager L. M. Gildea said the "wildcat work stoppage" occurred because of "disciplining of an employe for repeatedly refusing job assignments."

However, Chairman William Biscontine of the CIO-Farm Equipment Workers local at the plant declared:

"The dispute is a result of the company's policy of laying off employes for several days if such employes object to the company's method of reducing their average hourly piece-work earnings."

The worker involved was given a one-week lay-off.

U. S. Court Upholds Ex-Solon's Conviction

WASHINGTON, April 6. (INS)—The conviction of Andrew J. May for seeking munitions contracts for the Garsson brothers while he was wartime chairman of a congressional committee was upheld today by the U. S. Court of Appeals.

The court, affirming its decision of January, also upheld the conviction of munitions makers Henry and Murray Garsson. May is a Kentucky Democrat.

The three men were sentenced to eight months to two years in prison on charges of bribery and conspiring to defraud the government.

Now free on bail, the trio is expected to seek a review of their case by the Supreme court.

May was chairman during World War II of the powerful House Military Affairs committee. This group since has been merged with the House Naval Affairs committee into the House Armed Services committee.

The trial jury which found May and the Garssons guilty in July, 1947, heard testimony that the Kentuckian accepted $53,000 from the brothers for pressuring the War department to award contracts to their firms.

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, April 6. (INS)—The Dominican Republic announced today that it is resuming diplomatic relations with Venezuela. Relations between the two countries have been suspended since 1945.

FROZEN JUICE POPULAR

CHICAGO (U.P.)—Frozen concentrated orange juice is outselling all other kinds of frozen foods, according to Edward J. White, director of the frozen food industry convention. White said that within the last six months orange juice has dislodged frozen peas for the top spot.

WTCC Official Offers New Plan To Meet Area Water Problems

ABILENE, April 6 (Special)—A new approach to the West Texas water problem has been offered by John D. Mitchell, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in a letter to committeemen, in which he points out economic loss from lack of water as well as from flood water.

In this letter, addressed to Mayor Lawrence Hagy of Amarillo, chairman, and R. M. Wagstaff of Abilene, co-chairman of the WTCC Municipal Legal Rights committee, he urges a study to submit to Congress a plea for amending flood control laws so that economic loss due to lack of water may be compensated for on a parity with areas having an economic loss due to flood damage.

Economic Losses Cited

Staff of the WTCC, under General Manager D. A. Bandeen, has recently been making a study of this economic loss from lack of water, pointing to towns of the area that now are having to haul in water in tank cars.

"These towns not only are paying a higher price per thousand gallons for their water, but they are suffering other economic losses," Bandeen said. "Service stations can't wash automobiles, it is impossible to have yards or flowers, which not only eliminates nursery and floral sales, but reduces real estate value. There isn't sufficient water for air-conditioning units, and other necessary uses are curtailed beyond the safety margin. We believe assistance to towns suffering from lack of water is just as important as assistance to towns with flood problems."

Committee Is Supported

President Mitchell's letter also gave support to a program for the creation of an interim legislative committee to study Texas water problems and has offered the services of the various WTCC committees to aid in this program.

"Due to our objections to the proposed surface water code and also to other objections, it appears now that the proposed code is being held in abeyance for further study by an interim legislative committee," he said. "With the state having no inventory of our surface water; no definite formula for allotting such waters; no exact definition of riparian rights or stream flow, and since there exists a crying need among our cities for domestic water, while nine times as much water is being appropriated for hydro-electric power as for domestic use, and great quantities of our surface waters escape to the gulf, there can be no doubt that such an inquiry should be fruitful for the welfare of the state."

As another means of aiding municipalities in solving water problems, Mitchell asked his committees to aid in the passage of the $200 million state water supply and conservation loan fund plan, as now before the legislature. At the same time, he urged that support of this measure be offered only on the understanding that loans be confined only to political subdivisions not eligible for other government aids.

Army Officer Sees Need For Ground Troops In Atomic War

FORT WORTH, April 6 (U.P.) — Infantrymen and tank crewmen will be forced to fight guerilla fashion in another war, Lt. Gen. Raymond S. McLain, chief of the Army Information department, predicted today.

In Fort Worth for Army day celebration, McLain said also that induction of draft registrants would not be necessary "for at least several months" because of voluntary enlistments.

The atomic bomb will not mean the end of ground warfare, McLain said "but would force us to disperse and go underground."

Even scientists admit, he said, that it would take too many of the expensive bombs to knock out widely - dispersed ground troops.

"The atomic bomb is wonderful for what it is intended to do. But there are places where you can't use it. That's where the infantrymen with their rifles and bayonets come in," McLain said.

LAST BIKINI PIG GETS DISCHARGE—Pig No. 311, a 4-month-old shoat weighing 50 pounds when it was found swimming in radioactive waters of Bikini Lagoon after the first atomic bomb blast in 1946, is now a 600-pounder bound for the National Zoological Park in Washington. The zoo requested the porker when it learned that the Naval Medical Research Institute at Bethesda, Md., had concluded its scientific observation of her. Her only claim to abnormality has been her failure to bear offspring, but radio-biologists say that is not necessarily caused by irradiation. The little pig shown here with her is a grandchild of another surviving pig, but no relation to No. 311, the last surviving Bikini pig.

Four Killed In Chicago Blaze

CHICAGO, April 6 (INS)—Two children and two persons who vainly tried to rescue them suffocated today in a $10,000 fire which swept a pretentious 10-room house in suburban Northbrook.

The bodies of Ward Clay, jr., 43, and his wife, Florence, 34, were found outside the bedroom door of Robert, 2½, and Thomas McCracken, 1½.

The children were the sons of Thomas and Peggy McCracken, who were away from their home when a short-circuit touched off the flames.

Clay carried his own daughter Ann, 9, to safety and then dashed back into the house to save the McCracken children.

Other rescuers who attempted to save the four were driven back by intense smoke.

The Clays had been renting part of the McCracken home. Clay was an advertising salesman for the Crowell Publishing Co.

Winner Of Talent Show Found Alive In Plane Wreckage

ALLENTOWN, Pa., April 6 (INS) — A six-year-old musician, who last night won first prize on a nationwide radio talent show, was found alive today in the wreckage of a plane which crashed on a mountain near Allentown, killing his mother and two men.

The boy, Kenneth Bleckick, of Reading, Pa., was taken to Allentown hospital where he was reported in a serious condition as was Daniel De Turk, a banjo player, another survivor.

Authorities identified the dead as Kenneth's mother, Mrs. Irene Bleckick, 32; the pilot, F. R. Hostetter, 26, and Bernard Kenney, 29, manager of a Reading theatre.

Kenneth, who appeared on the radio show in Utica, N. Y., with his saxaphone, suffered possible fractures of the left leg and arm and shock.

The chartered plane carried five persons when it left Utica after the broadcast.

BAN ON TAXES?

Idea Has Its Merits

A constitutional amendment practically sure of approval if submitted to a vote of the people of Texas is one which would forbid the levy of state or city income taxes. Such an amendment pends in the Legislature, with indications pointing to its approval there.

Aside from the protection it would afford against further objectionable taxes, the amendment probably would be good business for Texas because it would attract high income groups fleeing income levies in other states. Florida does not have an income tax and residents of that state agree, apparently with little dissent, that the absence of a levy has attracted more income-producing wealth to Florida than could be derived from an income tax.

The undisputed claim is that many wealthy people from New York, Pennsylvania, the New England states and even California have established residence and businesses, many involving huge investments, in Florida because that State does not levy an income tax and the others do. Texas, with a constitutional ban against such levies, should fare as well or better.

About the only objection raised to the amendment in the Texas Legislature has been that it might hasten the imposition of a sales tax.

If that objection is valid, the answer to it is simple. Why not a constitutional ban against state sales taxes, too.

Texas, by constitutionally forbidding both income and sales levies, would become even more attractive as a place of residence and for investment by those who find it increasingly difficult to pay such taxes in their present home states.

It's Up To The Senate

THE U. S. House of Representatives again has done its part toward ending 60-odd years of discrimination against oleomargarine in favor of butter. It has approved by a more than 3 to 1 vote the repeal of unfair taxes on margarines and rejected "compromises" urged by the butter lobby even more flagrantly discriminatory than those now existing.

Enactment of the repeal into law is up to the Senate now. The expressed sentiment there endorses it overwhelmingly. Seemingly there should be no doubt of its passage by the Upper House.

But a similar bill went to the Senate with overwhelming House approval last year. The butter interests acknowledged it would be approved if the Senate voted on it. So they bottled it in a committee dominated by dairy state senators. Antiquated senatorial red tape enabled a small and selfish minority to flout the will of the great majority in this way.

Whether this will happen again remains to be seen. If it does not happen, it won't be for lack of effort by the butter lobby which demands, if taxes are repealed, a virtual ban upon the sale of colored margarines. The obvious idea is that shoppers usually would buy butter, most of which is colored artificially, rather than color oleos themselves.

The Senate faces a question more important than butter versus margarine. It is one of selfish interests against the public welfare and wishes. The selfish interests won last year. Will they win again? They will unless oleo taxes are repealed without butter lobby "compromises."

Overheard: "I do and don't know what I had for dinner. It was hash."

A scientist predicts that the moon will be colonized soon. We hope not. This would just mean another piece of territory for the world powers to scrap over.

"The human leg will soon disappear," says a biologist. We aren't surprised to hear this. For quite some time the human race has been on its last leg.

Pop Goes The Queen

By BOB WADE and BILL MILLER
Distributed By NEA Service, Inc.

(THE STORY: John Henry and Sin Conover, vacationing at a swank desert resort, are deeply involved in a murder. Mr. Barselou, who owns an exclusive cafe where the victim died, has trapped them in his gambling ranch into which they were chased by Gayner and Vernon, two of his employes. Barselou insists that Anglin, the murder victim, told Johnny something when he died, but Sin protests they don't know what the mystery is about. Then Johnny remembers Anglin's pencil, in which is hidden a cipher message. That pencil is in Johnny's desk drawer. But Barselou doesn't believe Sin.)

A SHORT stillness fell while Barselou turned something over in his mind. John Henry sat motionless, nerves taut. He fumbled with the beginnings of a plan.

Barselou had reached a conclusion. "Maybe," he said. "It's possible Anglin didn't tell you everything he knew. Or maybe you're lying. It won't cost me anything to refresh your memory." He linked heavy fingers before him on the table and leaned toward the young couple. "The story of the Queen is quite a story, Mrs. Conover. If you've read any California history at all, you should know it."

Sin shook her head several times in denial. John Henry kept silent, prodding his brain. He had something to bargain with—the all-important pencil — but how to use it?

"In the year 1744, a Spanish galleon left Manila, headed for Mexico. This ship was loaded with valuables — jewels, silks, gold and other precious metals. She was named 'La Reina' — the Queen."

"Okay," said John Henry against his wife's soft exclamation. "What does—"

"The Queen was commanded by a Spanish officer named Arvaez y Moncada. She carried a mighty rich cargo. To give you an idea, old records I've seen put the value of the pearls alone at four or five million dollars."

"Gosh," Sin murmered in an awed voice.

"An English pirate named Bledsoe fired on the Queen off the tip of Lower California. But Captain Arvaez was lucky. A storm blew up about that time and he was able to dodge the buccaneers. However, to be on the safe side, Arvaez decided to take the Reina north, up the Gulf of California. I guess he figured on waiting a few days until Bledsoe got out of the neighborhood.

WELL, the Reina sailed north, killing time. According to the old Spanish charts, she had reached the head of the Gulf. But as far as Arvaez could see to the north was a great inland sea.

"He decided to explore this new sea. So the Reina kept going north. After several days, Arvaez discovered the sea was getting hallower. So he turned back to the south.

John Henry said. "What has all this got to do with us, anyway?"

"Don't rush me, Conover. You wanted to know details. The Reina headed south. Then Arvaez got the shock of his life. The way was blocked. The water had disappeared and only sand was left. Desperately, he sailed back and forth. Everywhere he went, the inland sea was drying up. At last her keel struck bottom and that was that."

"I don't understand," Sin said slowly.

Barselou turned his shadowed eye-sockets on her again. "Here's what had happened. There'd been heavy rains and this made the Colorado river overflow its banks. The overflow flooded this desert country, most of which is below sea level, anyway. The Queen sailed in when the flood was at its height. Then when the waters receded, she was left high and dry. He surveyed the Conovers' expressions of incredulity. "It's not only possible—it's fact. The same thing—the floods, I mean — has happened three times since that we have proof of. The last time was in 1905. That's how the present Salton Set got there."

"Oh!" cried Sin excitedly. That's what you were doing with those maps!"

BARSELOU'S heavy lips curled ironically. "Brilliant," he murmured. "But let me finish the story. When the water was completely gone, the Reina was stranded in the middle of the desert. Arvaez and his crew were in a bad spot for sure. Hundreds of miles from civilization, a cargo worth millions and no way to get it out.

"They did what they could. Arvaez took a sighting. Then they packed up what they could carry and hit the trail for Mexico. Only one man made it—Ferrelo, the navigator. Indians or thirst took care of the rest. Ferrelo didn't much want to go back and look for the Queen, but he passed on what he knew about her. So during the next sixty or seventy years, several parties searched all over this section of the country for the lost treasure ship. But they didn't find her. The galleon stayed lost — until very recently."

"You know where the Queen is now?" Sin asked unbelievingly.

"The general location, yes. From the dope I've gathered, I figure she's hidden somewhere in the Badlands. That's a section of desert between here and San Felipe Creek to the south. It's rocky, rugged country, chopped up with a lot of sublevel canyons that twist and turn every which way."

"If you know where it is, why don't you—"

"Because finding something in the Badlands is like looking for the needle in the haystack," Barselou replied coldly. "You can find it if you've got the time. I thought I had the time—until you showed up." His head tilted slightly so that his eyes caught the bluish-white light. "Now I can't afford to wait. From here on in, you help."

Looking At Life - - By Erich Brandeis

THERE are only two one-letter words in our language.

One of them is "a." The other is "I."

There isn't much to be said about "a."

But the other one, "I," is one of the greatest trouble makers in our lexicon.

BRANDEIS

Sometimes I wonder whether there should not be a law making that word illegal and its use a misdemeanor.

But, on second thought, that wouldn't help much. Congress may forbid its use, but it couldn't stop people from thinking about it.

Just as alcohol and many of its derivatives cause intoxication, if used to excess, so do "I" and its derivatives, such as "me," and "my" and "mine," if used to excells, frequently cause auto-intoxication.

All of us know people so impressed with their own importance and so occupied with their personal troubles and problems that they become intoxicated with themselves. After a while, they degenerate into hopeless addicts of that little word "I."

What are the symptoms of "I" intoxication?

Here are a few:

Let us say a friend is visiting you.

You start a conversation. Your friend doesn't seem to be much interested.

At the first opportunity she breaks in on you with "that reminds me of something that happened to me."

Then she goes on, all about "I" and "me" and "mine."

Her visit turns into an ordeal, and you wonder when she is going to stop talking about herself—so that you can talk a bit about yourself.

ANOTHER symptom is when a person weighs every happening on the scale of its importance to him or her.

So many people are criticizing our government because we are too soft with nations that insult and provoke us.

Such a person came to see us the other day.

"We should drop a couple of bombs on Moscow," he said, "that would teach 'em a lesson."

He didn't care. He was too old to be drafted. He didn't have any sons that might be killed. War would mean nothing to him personally. The "I" meant more to him than the you and the me and the millions who would be affected.

How about starting an "I-gotists Anonymous, Inc."

Maybe it would do for I-worshippers what Alcoholics Anonymous is doing for that other kind of intoxication.

FOR ARMED FORCES

New Leaders Sought

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The advancing age and illness of many of the outstanding commanders of World War II forces Louis A. Johnson, the new Secretary of National Defense, to attack the serious problem of training leaders capable of handling the vast administrative difficulties and large-scale units of troops in the field.

Possession and mastery of the atom bomb, push-button planes and the latest naval devices will not bring victory unless the key and top personnel behind the desk and behind the weapons are equally up-to-date. The new tempo of warfare, however, places an even greater premium on youth than did the recent conflict and its sire of 1914-1918.

But such heroes as Eisenhower, Patch, Marshall, King, MacArthur, Leahy, Halsey, Nimitz and Arnold are ill, retired or too old to be available after the lapse of only a few years. Even lesser known field commanders, including those who headed units of corps strength, are going down the hill.

ACTIVE: A military man on the wrong side of fifty will not be able to undergo the physical and mental strain of modern battle for long. Thus, if hostilities should not break out for five years, the brilliant leaders that planned and led the assault on the mighty Axis powers will be on the shelf.

The two most active of the great group of World War II commanders are General Omar N. Bradley, Chief of Staff, and Lieutenant General William Bedell Smith, former Ambassador to Moscow, and now head of the First Army with headquarters at Governors Island, N. Y. But Bradley is fifty-five and the none-too-well Smith is fifty-four.

CROP: Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, Chief of Naval Operations, is fifty-eight. Only General Hoyt S. Vandenberg Air Force Chief, is a comparative youngster. He is fifty.

As is natural, the top men in the flying arm are in lower age brackets than their counterparts in the other services. They have to be.

The British and the French face the same plight and predicament. Their heroes have grown old. Russia, unfortunately, recognizes youth more quickly than the older nations, and Stalin is fast growing a new crop. So will Secretary Johnson, according to his plans.

INSURANCE: George L. Harrison, the brilliant and personable president of the New York Life Insurance Company, is counted on by his frightened associates to stave off the McCarran-Celler demand for a Congressional investigation of the nation's foremost companies in the field of underwriting living prospects.

Mr. Harrison is too talented to attempt the ordinary lobbying tactics, although other men will try to exert that pressure. But his extraordinary contacts and friendships with dignitaries on and off Capitol Hill at Washington, as well as his ability to defend life insurance operations, practices and philosophy, are expected to convince leaders that such an inquiry is not needed.

FRIENDS: One of Mr. Harrison's charms is his dislike of publicity, and, as a result, he is not known to the general public and the ever-changing Capital family. But he has been secretary to the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, general counsel of the Federal Reserve Board, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank at New York and is now a University of Columbia trustee. He has been the friend and adviser, on the quiet, of every president since Wilson.

He was, perhaps, the closest friend of Admiral Cary Grayson, Wilson's physician and confidant, and he married Dr. Grayson's widow. He maintains a lovely country place in Northern Virginia, frequents the best clubs here and is an exceptional host. He is liked and admired for himself, and few men have more friends among Senate and House oldsters.

ENTHUSIASTIC: Congressman Celler is enthusiastic for the investigation, and Senator McCarran seems to be. He appointed an insurance subcommittee, even though the Senate has not yet passed the joint resolution. Congressional conservatives warn against the move at this particular time, arguing that it will prove economically disturbing.

Unless President Truman throws his remaining weight behind the demand, an inquiry which might match the famous Pecora probe of Wall Street will probably be blocked. There is no sign as yet that the White House is interested in the project.

SOUP: A woman photographer's use of a plate of Senate bean soup to crown a certain columnist has provoked discussion of this over-advertised Congressional dish. The general opinion of daily customers of Capitol Hill restaurants is that the camera girl showed an excellent sense of culinary values.

For years the society and chitchat writers, usually feminine, have romanticized about "Senate bean soup," which appears on both House and Senate menus every day. The fact is that no good housewife would serve the kind ladled out here. It is a thin pallid, tasteless thing. It does not appeal even to the eye.

There is supposed to be law requiring its daily presence on the menu, but this columnist discovers otherwise. The late Knute Nelson, a distinguished Seriator from Minnesota, had a craving for it. He insisted on its six-day-a-week place of honor. Ever since, it has been retained in tribute to him.

It is the most dastardly memorial to a statesman ever conceived and concocted.

If this is the postwar world paradise so many predicted, please pass the forbidden fruit.

In many of our dealings with Uncle Sam, he requires that we prove we were born by submitting a birth certificate, but when it comes to collecting taxes off us, it never occurs to him to doubt our existence.

BROKEN PACTS ARE RECALLED

Hopes For Permanent Peace Fade

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 6.—What a heap of pomp and ceremony about war and peace can humankind see in half a century, and how little seems to come out of all of it!

Periodically the rulers fall out and the guns begin to bark. Periodically, afterward, the diplomats gather solemnly about big tables, resplendent in their high hats and frock coats, and make pretty speeches and sign their names to elegantly phrased documents, treaties of peace or treaties of alliance which become, in time, just more pieces of paper for the history books.

STOKES

Or so it seems to us in what might be called the class of '98. For us the trial stretches back, a long way it seems, from the latest pomp and ceremony here as diplomats of a dozen nations signed the Atlantic Pact. The backward trail is strewn with dead bodies and wrecked lives, millions of them, and desolated cities and fields.

First Step Into World

We of the class of '98 were ushered into this world as the Spanish-American war broke out, a little war but nevertheless our nation's first timid and faltering steps into the stream of international events which had become our destiny, which we, of course, didn't know then.

This member of the class of 98 has vague memories of playing as a very small boy the game of Japs and Russians, a variation on cops and robbers and cowboys and Indians. The older boys, of course, chose to be Japs, for the Japs had won that war on the other side of the world—so far away then—and the smaller tykes had to accept the lot of being Russians, as it always has been in the eternal land of boyhood.

Then there were those "scraps of paper" that the Germans tore up in 1914, and eventually Woodrow Wilson stood before a joint session of Congress — just 32 years ago — and we got into that war and, after a period of carnage, there was another table in the Hall of Mirrors at Versailles about which the diplomats gathered and signed their names in pomp and ceremony. Only our signature didn't count for much because our Senate wouldn't back up the League of Nations, the one hope of the world.

But, with something like a twinge of conscience, we did sponsor here in Washington in 1922 another big round of pomp and ceremony to which diplomats of many nations gathered. We buried an unknown Soldier over in Arlington and afterward the gentleman gathered about the table and signed an agreement to scrap a specified number of battleships and limit other armaments, and signed treaties to keep the peace in the Pacific. That was the initiation of this reporter, then so naive and unknowing, to pomp and ceremony. It all looked so fine.

Other Pacts Signed

Then just a few years later that pomp and ceremony in the east room of the White House when the diplomatic gentlemen gathered around and signed the Kellogg-Briand pact swearing to preserve pease, a noble gesture. But, even while they were writing their names, there was the rumble of fighting faraway along the Manchurian border between Russia and Japan, a minor flare-up it turned out, but in time the Japs moved on China, and the League of Nations could, or did, do little about it, so weak an instrument had it become in intervening years. And we had a war there and in time we got one in Europe, too, and all over the world.

While this second world war was still going on the diplomats gathered again, this time in San Francisco, and with pomp and ceremony signed the covenant of the United Nations, and that looked like the hope of the world, even though it was timid and restrictive and not the bold document it might have been.

It was the right way. But in so short a time the world has lost the way again, for the Atlantic Pact, necessary as it may be for the world as it is, is not the way. It's just the old way that never worked. It's the old way of the diplomats, and they turned out to do it appropriately with pomp and ceremony.

We, the people, are still on the outside looking in, and nothing has changed for all the mothers and widows who weep.

Czechoslovakia has a new tax law aimed, observers say, at "further hampering private business."

German Shopkeepers Ordered By British To Cut Lighting

HAMBURG, Germany, April 6 (AP)—Because of the criticism of the British community here, German shopkeepers have been ordered to cut down their window lighting and neon signs.

Britons pointed to the difference between austere Britain, where electricity is severely rationed, and Hamburg where shop window lights were left on all night for display and the whole city had come out in a rash of neon signs.

A British official statement said the shops and signs used only one-half of one per cent of the total Hamburg load. The city was already exporting one-third of its electricity production and planning to export more, the statement added.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, April 6 (AP) — Wheat led an upturn in all commodities on the board of trade today, spurting around 3 cents a bushel at times active dealings.

Touching off the buying movement were pessimistic crop reports from Nebraska, where it was said brown spots in the fields indicating dead wheat have increased in the central and eastern sections of the state during the past week.

A part of the short-covering also appeared to be based on various rumors and forecasts concerning the agriculture department's new farm program, scheduled to be unveiled tomorrow.

Wheat closed 1⅞-2⅜ higher, May $2.17⅝-⅞; corn was ⅛ lower to ⅜ higher, May $1.33⅝-⅝; oats were ⅞-1⅛ higher, May 70⅝-¾; rye was 1⅜-1¾ higher, May $1.26; soybeans were unchanged to 1¾ higher, May $2.21⅛-¾, and lard was 5 cents lower to 10 cents a hundred pounds higher, May $11.47.

MARKET LOSSES SMALL

NEW YORK, April 6 (AP)—Buyers knew what they wanted in today's stock market.

Most issues were marked down fractions to around two points at the outside. Utilities, golds, and a good handful of other widely diversified issues advanced, however, some to new high prices for 1949. Gains ranged to above points.

Business was about on a par with previous sessions this week. Turnover of 930,000 shares compared with 900,000 yesterday and 920,000 Monday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined .1 of one point to 63.8. The industrial and rail components lost ground but the utility group advanced to a new high for the year at 40.5, a gain of .2 of one point.

Of the 979 issues which traded, 426 dropped and 299 gained.

Utility stocks have recently given a better-than-average performance. Brokers claim that earnings of utility companies providing vital services have a better chance of standing up during a period of deflation or recession.

North American Co. at 18⅞ and United Corp. at 3¼ were each at 1949 highs. Gains were also posted for Western Union, Consolidated Edison, Consolidated Natural Gas, and Public Service Electric and Gas.

Several gold stocks were given a play of sorts.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, April 6 (AP) — Cotton futures were firm today on Washington reports that Secretary of Agriculture Brannan will recommend continuance of high price supports on some basic export commodities, such as cotton in his statement on farm legislation to be delivered to Congress Thursday. Commission house and trade buying, coupled with short covering extended gains to 60 cents a bale before the market reacted partially on increased hedging and liquidation.

A good deal of offerings in nearby May came out on the advance partly in anticipation of first notice day April 26.

Increased hedging and profit taking depressed prices in the final hour.

English City Trying To Oust Starlings With Sound Waves

BIRMINGHAM, England, April 6 (AP)—This city is trying something people can't hear to get rid of birds they can hear only too well.

Starlings around the civic center, 20,000 strong by best estimates, chirp so loudly they're driving office workers and concertgoers to distraction.

The city tried to shoo them away with loud noises—but they wouldn't shoo.

Now, a council official says, engineers are experimenting with supersonic waves.

"The engineers believe," he said hopefully, "that if they can find the right wavelength they will send the starlings packing.

FPC Controls Over Producers Of Natural Gas Assailed By Attorney

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP) — Natural gas is not so valuable that its sale justifies the risk of subjecting all oil and gas producers' operations to government control, a Texas Oil company spokesman said today.

Hayden W. Head, of Corpus Christi and Austin, attornew for Southern Minerals Corp., said he took such a view "particularly when assumption of that control, in addition to its terrible burden, could destroy the sales value of the gas."

Advises Against Sale

Head testified before a House Interstate Commerce subcommittee which is hearing testimony on bills which would prohibit the Federal Power commission from taking jurisdiction over local production and gathering of natural gas by independent companies.

He said that after courts held the FPC could take jurisdiction over certain production and gathering operations, he had advised Southern Minerals not to sell its gas in the Richard King field to the Tennessee Gas Transmission company, which offered to buy at a "fair" price.

Court Rulings Cited

That company, which owns and operates a pipeline from South Texas to West Virginia, buys gas in South Texas and transports it and sells it in other states to distributing companies, he said.

The courts have ruled, Head said, that sale of gas by a producing company to a pipeline company carrying gas into other states makes the producing firm a "natural gas company" subject to regulation by the commission even though the companies are in no way affiliated.

He said he advised Southern Minerals it should "not take the risk of subjecting itself to the burden of federal regulation" unless Congress clarified the natural gas act "to remove the danger."

Based on that opinion, he added, Southern Minerals has "been forced to keep its gas wells shut in and suffer constant drainage from the wells in the Bentonville field with a possible loss of its entire gas reserve in the Richard King field."

It has been necessary to burn into the air some of the gas produced from its oil wells, he said.

The formal gas act specifically states its provisions shall not apply to production and gathering of gas, Head declared, and Congress did not intend that it should do so.

Fancy Pub Names Cause Confusion

BECONTREE, England, April 6 (AP)—The English like to call their pubs (saloons) by fancy names, like "The Marquis of Queensberry," and the practice sometimes leads to confusion.

The Rev. Ralph Stevens, vicar of St. Thomas's, wrote in his parish magazine that when he asked the telephone information girl for the new number of the Bishop of Barking, she replied:

"Oh! Is that a pub?"

Stone In Ireland Is Called Historic Fake By Librarian

LIMERICK, Eire, April 6 (AP)—The "Stone of the Broken Treaty," which many American tourists have photographed, is a historical phoney, according to the Limerick city librarian, Richard Herbert.

For many years the stone, on a bridge in Limerick, has represented "the perfidy of England." In 1691, legend has it, the stone marked the spot where King James and his Williamite followers signed a treaty which was broken by the English "before the ink on the document was dry."

"This hulk of stone is the greatest historical fake ever perpetrated," says Herbert.

He asserts there is documentary evidence to prove that the treaty was signed in the camp of King William's army outside of Limerick, probably on a table.

MOORE IS CONFIRMED

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—The Senate today confirmed Warren G. Moore as United States attorney for the eastern district of Texas. He succeeds Steve M. King, whose term expired.

The French chateau of Fontainebleau, about 35 miles from Paris, has been linked with the lives of French kings for more than 800 years.

Former U. S. Soldier Admits Turning Over Data To Soviets

OTTAWA, Ont., April 6—(INS) An American ex-serviceman told a Canadian court today he turned over U. S. military and Air Force information to a Russian spy for pay.

The admission was made by M. M. Kreiger, now a Los Angeles optometrist, who was a surprise prosecution witness at the trial of Sam Carr. Carr is alleged to be the key man in a Soviet espionage ring.

Carr, arrested by FBI men in New York last January after a three-year search, is charged with conspiring to obtain a false passport for the espionage agent, Ignace Witczak.

Met In California

Kreiger was preceded as a witness by Igor Gouzenko, former Soviet embassy ciphers clerk who exposed the operations of the Russian atomic spy ring in Canada three years ago. Gouzenko testified that three Russian espionage rings operated in the dominion in 1945.

The Los Angeles man said he and Witczak first met in the fall of 1938 when both were students at the University of Southern California.

Kreiger told crown counsel J. R. Cartwright that at the time he was writing "left wing" articles and was asked by Witczak if he would like to go to China to perform work for the Soviets.

Kreiger testified:

"I said I would, but after arrangements had been made to go there it was decided the war conditions were unfavorable for such work."

The witness added that later Witczak asked him to go to Japan and then to South America, but in each case he was prevented by circumstances from leaving the United States.

Asked For Information

Kreiger said Witczak once asked him to write the history of procedure in the Army and Air Force. Kreiger said he complied with this request.

In 1943, Kreiger said, Witczak asked him if he would like to have an office of his own. Keiger testified:

"Money was sent from Moscow for me to open an office, but it was understood that it was to be a 'front' for the work to be done for the Soviets. I was sworn to secrecy."

The witness said Witczak told him he was afraid his activities would be discovered by the FBI. Kreiger said:

"He gave me money and I gave him receipts, and then one day he asked me to sign a pledge of loyalty to Russia. I signed it."

Texas Soldier, Buddy Held By Czechs, Still Baffled By Conviction

By A. I. GOLDBERG
Associated Press Staff Writer

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, April 6—A Texas GI with "the miseries" and his Kentucky sidekick are languishing in a Czechoslovak prison, wondering how they landed there, the embassy reported today. They were convicted of spy charges.

The two strays, AWOL from their constabulary unit in Germany, wandered across the Czechoslovak border last December and got caught up in a web of international suspicion. Their wanderings were ill-timed. Across the border some Czechsolovaks had been arrested by Americans on spy charges.

Protests Lodged

Yesterday, for the first time, U. S. officials were allowed to see the two men—Clarence Hill of Pampa, Tex., and George Jones of Owensboro, Ky. There had been a half dozen notes and several oral protests to the Czech foreign office in their behalf.

Hill, who drew a 12-year prison sentence, was reported worried mostly about his family affairs at home. Jones got a ten-year sentence, mostly because he had wanted to go wherever his Army buddy went.

The embassy said the two men seemed in good health and did not seem to have been maltreated. The men complained that while they got enough to eat, they didn't like what they got.

Soldiers Questioned

A Czech foreign office attache, a ministry of justice official, the warden of Bory prison near Pilsen and an interpreter stood guard while Capt. Donald MacNamara, assistant U. S. military attache, and Consul Carrol C. Parry questioned the men in separate, brief interviews.

The U. S. ambassador, Joseph E. Jacobs, said that as a result of what the men said he has asked Czechoslovak authorities for more details, especially about the secret trial at which the men were sentenced March 26 in Prague.

Both men were in uniform when they crossed the border about midnight Dec. 8. They slept in a rail switching building near the border. Police found them there—asleep—five hours later and arrested them.

Original Stories Discounted

Neither man knows the Czech language and they were hazy about a lot of details. They knew they were being moved from jail to jail and were being questioned and tried in what seemed to be a civil court, but that was about all.

Their stories disposed of tales that they had crossed the border with German girls or that they were arrested while dancing in a Czech tavern.

The Czechoslovaks have insisted since February that the men were here on a special mission. When they told the embassy the men would be tried on spy charges the embassy left off asking for their release and sought specific information. It never came. Further steps now await the answer on the request for new information.

DALLAS, April 6 (AP)—A big truck and its valuable cargo is still missing and a reward has been posted for its recovery.

It belongs to the M and D Motor Freight lines and was stolen early yesterday while the driver had stopped for a cup of coffee.

President Frank E. Bacon, who posted the reward, said its cargo was valued at between $5,000 and $10,000.

The truck was completing a run from Oklahoma City when it was stolen.

Amarillo Youth Escapes Custody While Leading Officers To Loot

AMARILLO, April 6 (U.P.)—A 17-year-old youth who offered to show officers some hidden loot, broke through a window of his home last night and escaped.

Today, Bobby Craig, charged with burglary of an Amarillo jewelry store, was the object of an extensive hunt. Craig's record dates back several years including three terms at the Gatesville reformatory.

In 1947, when he was only 15, he fired at a Pampa officer who sought to arrest him and escaped in a police car.

Mrs. Ethel Baker today identified the youth's picture as resembling the armed bandit who entered her liquor store last night and took $159.
