Hauptmann Counsel Offers New Evidence In Court Fight

Two Workmen Claim German Was On A Job

Motion For Introduction Of Testimony Is Scheduled To Be Made At Appeal Hearing In Court Today

State Is Unmoved

Former Construction Superintendent In New York States He Recalls That Hauptmann Was Employed

BY R. H. HIPPELHEUSER
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann was granted permission by an appellate division justice tonight to move for the introduction of new evidence in his fight against his client's extradition to New Jersey, where he is charged with the kidnap-killing of the Lindbergh baby.

James M. Faucett, chief defense counsel, appeared before Justice Francis Martin, of the appellate division, and was told he might make the motion before the hearing on his appeal against the dismissal of a habeas corpus writ by the Bronx county supreme court.

Would Leap Barriers

Hauptmann's counsel went to the appellate division in an effort to surmount legal barriers to the introduction of new evidence after his appeal had been taken.

Justice Martin told Fawcett the motion would be taken under advisement, but did not indicate whether new evidence would be admitted. The appeal hearing is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon.

The new evidence, the attorney disclosed, involves the statements of two men that Hauptmann worked at a New York apartment building until 5 p. m. on the day the Lindbergh baby was abducted a further effort of the prisoner to establish an alibi.

Does Not Appear

Joseph M. Furcht, formerly construction superintendent at the Majestic apartments, and one of the new witnesses, accompanied Fawcett to the appellate division, but did not appear before Justice Martin.

Fawcett had conferred with Supreme Court Justice Ernest E. L. Hammer, of the Bronx, earlier in the day regarding the new evidence. At that time he believed it would be necessary for him to institute a second habeas corpus action to get the latest disclosures into the record.

Furcht told court attaches that he recalls Hauptmann distinctly and that the prisoner continued for

Peter Ascends To Yugoslav Throne

BELGRADE, Oct. 18. (AP)—Young King Peter II ascended Yugoslavia's throne for the first time today as his father, the murdered King Alexander, was placed in the grave he himself prepared at Topolo.

A hastily erected throne was prepared for Peter in the national cathedral, where his father's body lay in state, and Peter, from its height, looked down on the dead king and his weeping royal kinsmen.

Not yet has the bereaved young monarch, hurried from his quiet studies in England to rule 16,000,000 southern Slavs, mounted the great golden throne in his father's big palace. Nor has he put upon his head the golden crown that Alexander never wore.

Definite Trace Of Trail Left By Kidnaper Found

Special Grand Jury To Meet On Saturday; Father Of Fugitive Lunatic Is Jailed

BY S. V. STILES
(Copyright, 1934, By Associated Press)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 18. —One definite trace of the trail left by the discharged lunatic sought as the kidnaper of Alice Speed Stoll was found today in Springfield, Ohio, and countless clues continued to pour in from other parts of a nation aroused to the great manhunt.

The car in which Thomas H. Robinson, jr., the man sought, fled from an apartment where Mrs. Stoll was held a prisoner six days, was found abandoned in Springfield. A $5 bill given to a rooming house keeper where he is believed to have stayed last Tuesday only long enough to shave was turned over to police. Three people reported they saw a man there this morning they thought was Robinson.

The remarkable luck that attended the abductor from the start continued for the time. It kept him from having to return to Louisville to face the government's determined efforts to send him to the electric chair. Three or four times before Mrs. Stoll was released federal agents missed catching him by minutes. They were confident such luck could not continue.

In Nashville, Tenn., notes to Robinson's father were made public in which he was warned that failure to carry out details as requested by his son would mean that Mrs. Stoll "will never be seen alive." The note said the writer was "the kidnaper of Alice Stoll."

As the relentless hunt by federal, state and city forces methodically went on a special grand jury was ordered to meet Saturday to indict Robinson, his young wife and his father, Thomas Henry Robinson, sr. All three were named late yesterday in a warrant charging kidnaping and conspiracy to kidnap the young society woman here Oct. 10.

Elder Man Arrested

The elder Robinson was arrested late today in Nashville on the federal warrant in line with the determination expressed here by department of justice investigators to prosecute all three.

Bond of $25,000 was fixed by a U. S. commissioner, after the elder Robinson had been arraigned and had entered a formal plea of not guilty.

A close adviser of the family in Nashville said today the father had become convinced last Saturday that his son was the kidnaper and was going to do everything he could to effect Mrs. Stoll's release and his son's capture. Young Mrs. Robinson said she had worked with the authorities toward the same end. She cried that she had "been double-crossed" by federal agents, saying she had worked with them.

Mrs. Frances Robinson, in jail here in default of $50,000 bond, pleaded for counsel again today and Clem W. Huggins, a leading criminal lawyer, gave her his services. He said that for "old time's sake" he also would defend the elder Robinson, with whom he went to school in Nashville as a boy.

"I will not defend young Robin-

Senators Chop Three Million From Proposal

Saving Looks Good And Members Of Committee Agree Generally That Their Reductions Were Justifiable

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Oct. 18.—Seven Texas senators comprising a sub-committee to redraft the $8,972,174 Texas centennial appropriation bill whetted their pruning knives today and unofficially sliced off $3,614,250.

The saving looked so good, they generally agreed their reductions were justifiable. Official decisions of the committee, however, will not be made until after they have heard delegations from communities seeking historical celebrations.

Revenue Is Factor

Another factor which the committee indicated likely would control final decisions on amounts was the revenue to be raised from tax bills passed by the house .It was strongly indicated the appropriation bill either would be held in the committee or action delayed in the senate until the revenue bills arrived from the house.

With a tentative agreement to limit expenditures at cities other than Dallas to pageantry, eliminating permanent buildings and improvements, the committee sliced off $2,065,500. Another $1,050,000 was lopped off by eliminating and reducing several items proposed for depicting advancement of Texas negro life.

Trend of the committee's general discussion indicated sentiment toward liberal funds for presentation of pageants depicting the state's history and of attractions characteristic of a fair. Doubt of validity of appropriations for permanent buildings was raised by Senator Walter Woodul of Houston.

Indian Head Charged With Favoring Pagan Ceremonies

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 18. (AP)—Charges that Indian Commissioner John Collier favors return of the Indians to the "peyote" ceremony and pagan forms of religion were made in an interview here today by G. Lee Phelps, Wetumka, superintendent of the Baptist Indian missions.

"Mr. Collier seems to be encouraging modern peyote religion rather than Christianity," Phelps said. "He has proposed radical changes in the Indian school system, making no provision for religious education, which has been taugh Indian school children since there have been schools for them."

President To Offer Hope To War Veterans

Important Message Will Be Delivered Today At Dedication Of $1,700,000 Soldier Hospital In Virginia

Visits Scheduled

Some Speculation Has It That Chief Executive Will Touch On Bonus Issue And Explain Plans For Future

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. — President Roosevelt will seek to reassure tomorrow thousands of needy veterans of America's wars, delivering a message to this effect at the dedication of a $1,700,000 soldier hospital at Roanoke, Va.

Spending much of today in work on the address, the president sought to complete it tonight prior to departing for the south in the morning. The journey will be extended to keep the executive out of the capital until late Sunday.

Will Be General

Since his words tomorrow precede but a little the American Legion convention at Miami next week, some speculation had it that Mr. Roosevelt probably would touch on the bonus issue. There was a general feeling, however, that he would not mention it, at least by name, and that the address would be both brief and general in nature.

Ever since he took office, aides declare that the executive has maintained a generous attitude toward veterans injured in actual combat, and a less liberal policy toward those who could not trace their diseases and hurts to war duty. He already has promised that distressed veterans and their families would be assisted in every way possible along with the needy in urban, farm and mountain centers.

Policy Was Over-Ridden

In the last session of congress his veterans policy was over-ridden to the extent of putting back on the pension and compensation thousands of world and Spanish war veterans whose presumptive service-connected disabilities had been disallowed under the economy act.

Frank T. Hines, veterans administrator, who went over final arrangements for the president's trip at the White House today, has estimated that an additional $104,000,000 would be required to pay the expanded pension bill voted over the

Man Forgets All About Repeal And Destroys Evidence On Cops' Car

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18. (AP)—Hal M. Halvorfen walked briskly across a downtown intersection early today, a package under his arm.

Two policemen, in a patrol car, called on him to halt. He ran to the rear of their automobile and smashed the package. Wine ran out.

"Hey, what are you doing that for?" asked one policeman.

"Destroying the evidence," grinned Halvorfen.

"Haven't you heard of repeal?" the officer exclaimed

"By golly, I forgot all about it," said Halvorfen ruefully.

And so Halvorfen pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking glass in the street, and received a suspended $10 fine.

City Election Draws Others

Two Persons Toss Hats In The Ring As Candidates; Fickas And Taylor Offer Views On City Government

Two persons yesterday filed applications as candidates for a city post vacated by John F. Bacon, who resigned. The election is October 30.

W. R. Fickas, manager of Lubbock Drug company, filed notice of candidacy soon before noon. Walter E. Taylor, retired architect, who came to Lubbock in 1917, was the other candidate.

Six Seeking Post

Entrance of the two increased to six the number of candidates.

"If elected, I will serve the interest of the people of Lubbock to the full extent of my ability," Mr. Taylor promised.

"Every nation and country has had periods of depression, and each one climbed back to prosperity in the course of time. I believe we should so shape our work as to meet the needs of our city when that period of expansion comes. I confidently look forward to the time when the music of the hammer will greet our ears again. I am in favor of a clean city and a square deal."

Mr. Fickas has lived in Texas 57 years, nearly all his life, and in Lubbock the last 10 years. He was reared in Hamilton county and lived in Scurry and Hall counties before coming here. He was born in Missouri.

Favors Cooperation

Expressing a conviction that governmental business should be conducted as sanely as is that of a successful private enterprise, Mr. Fickas said he believed in "cooperation to attain a fair and impartial administration" and in continuation of policies that will enhance improvement and development of Lubbock.

He has been in the drug business 30 years and is chairman of the retail drug code authority in this district.

Famed Disciple Of Gandhi Walks In White House; She Emerges With New Friend; Gives Praise To Americans

By BESS FURMAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18—On bare, sandalled feet, Madeline Slade, famed English woman disciple of India's Mahatma Gandhi, walked into the White House today and emerged with a new friend.

Brilliant brown eyes flashing beneath the white cotton sari that covered her erect shoulders and much of her rough skirt of pleated brown, Miss Slade proved herself as democratic as her hostess.

Immensely Delighted

"I was immensely delighted with the democratic atmosphere," she told the Associated Press. "No pomp and ceremony. You could just walk up to the White House as to any homely establishment.

"I found Mrs. Roosevelt so charming. I enjoyed talking to her like I enjoy talking to a dear friend. One cannot say more."

Downtown Washington, which gasped 18 months ago when Mrs. Roosevelt walked from the Mayflower hotel to the White House for a pre-inauguration visit, cast even more amazed glances at the British admiral's daughter, who discarded luxury to live the humble, self-effacing life of Gandhi, when she swung along the same route.

Given Warm Welcome

Barefeet may be barred from courts in Reno, Nev., but stockingless, sandalled feet walked right into the White House front door, and swiftly through its lobby to a warm welcome in the Roosevelt family quarters.

Miss Slade expected only five minutes with Mrs. Roosevelt. She was held more than half an hour by the first lady's interested questions.

Then out she went again into the busy city, to the clicking of cameras on the White House steps.

"Certainly Americans beat every one else for press people!" she laughed.

She Wants Vegetables

"Can't you tell me of a place where one may get a simple vegetarian lunch?" she appealed, as she neared the White House gate.

And so, about a block away she

Explosion Is Fatal To One

Brother Of Local Residents Believed Fatally Burned In Blast At Breckenridge On Thursday Morning

(By The Associated Press)

BRECKENRIDGE, Oct. 18.—One man is dead and another is in the hospital in a critical condition from burns received here today in an explosion at the Lone Star company plant.

Herbert Shahan, repairman, was so badly burned he died at 5 o'clock this afternoon, eight hours after the accident. L. A. Eubanks, engineer, is in the hospital here so seriously burned that physicians give him little chance of recovery.

The explosion occurred when gas vapors exploded, it was believed. A portion of the plant was wrecked.

RELATIVES LEAVE

Three Lubbock relatives of L. A. Eubanks, critically burned in an explosion at Breckenridge yesterday, went to Breckenridge as soon as they received word of the tragedy.

They were Alfred M. Eubanks, a printer employed by the Avalanche-Journal; his sister, Miss Phyllis Eubanks, a Texas Technological college student, and an uncle, Sam T. Davis.

L. A. Eubanks was a chief engineer of the company by which he was employed.

Great Britain Stands Behind United States

Japan Appears To Be Alone In Seeking Abandonment Of Washington And London Naval Ratio Plan Treaties

(Copyright, 1934, By Associated Press)

LONDON, Oct. 18. — Great Britain stands with the United States, France and Italy—against Japan—in wanting to continue basic principles of the Washington and London naval treaties, an official British source said today.

That was Britain's reply to Japan's demand that the treaties be scrapped and other means of limiting navies be set up.

Want Equality

"Japan wants equality," Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto, Japanese delegate to tri-power naval talks starting here next week, said yesterday as he disclosed that he would ask for obolition of the 5-5-3 ratio, long irksome to Nippon, and seek limitation of the global tonnage basis instead.

As the British and American delegates to the conversations established their first contact, the British spokesman said his government wants the treaties continued with only relatively minor changes.

At the same time, he said, the British will favor reductions in naval tonnages.

Would Discuss Plan

Although Britain has opposed the global tonnage plan at previous conferences, the government is willing to discuss that phase of Yamamotos program with an open mind, he stated. It was indicated Great Britain would be willing to consider the glocal plan if it could be worked out so as mutually to satisfy the United States, Japan and Britain.

The American plan, authoritative sources have stated, involves substantial reduction in naval armaments and renewal of the Washington and London naval treaties.

Hopes for getting the differing viewpoints together rest largely on the belief that Japan may accept limitation along present lines provided she is given tonnage equality in "principle" if not actually, and the word "ratio" is left out of future agreements.

White House Sanction Given Federal Drive On "Hot" Oil

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. (AP)—White House sanction was given today to the government's attempt to plug the holes through which illegally produced oil is streaming from East Texas.

Secretary Ickes and Attorney General Cummings left Mr. Roosevelt's doorstep with this word to reporters:

"We have been conferring with the president and are at work consolidating our lines for action in connection with the East Texas oil situation."

Many Democrats Are To Gain Support; Records Given

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. — The American Federation of Labor has turned thumbs down on six Republican senatorial aspirants as a result of its scrutiny of records and campaign pledges of congressional candidates on their attitude toward organized labor.

Contrarywise, however, the Federation made known today it would support Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin, former Republican who is running for re-election on the progressive ticket against a Democrat.

To Support Robison

It pledged support also to former Senator John Robison, Republican candidate for the house in the ninth Kentucky district.

Terming them "enemies of labor," the Federation called upon its members to seek defeat of Senators Herbert of Rhode Island, Fess of Ohio, Reed of Pennsylvania, Hatfield of West Virginia, and Walcott of Connecticut, along with George Bourqin, Montana Republican senatorial nominee.

Calls were sent to organized labor to seek the election of Vic Donahey, Ohio Democratic opponent of Fess; Rush D. Holt, young Democratic liberal, contesting Hatfield in West Virginia. Peter G. Gerry, Democratic opponent of Hebert; Representative Francis T. Maloney (D), adversary of Walcott in Connecticut; and Senator Wheeler (D-Mont), opposing former Federal Judge Bourquin. Inferentially, it threw its support to Joseph W. Guffey (D) contesting Reed in Pennsylvania.

The position of the Federation was made known in circular letters sent to labor groups in the various states under the signature of William Green, president.

Within a few days, a spokesman said, Green would announce the federation's positions on other senatorial and house candidates in letters to labor in the respective states.

In his letters on Fess, Reed, Walcott, Hebert, and Hatfield, Green recited their records. He said all had voted against the 30-hour work week bill, and for reduction of wages, and confirmation of Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina to the supreme court after the latter had "upheld the 'yellow dog' contract." The letters reminded the workers to "stand faithfully by our friends and elect them."

Penalties For Overdue Taxes Would Be Cut

Plans To Develop Texas Rivers For Power And Conservation Purposes Also Are Pushed Forward In Legislature

Provisions Cited

Graduated Scale Of Penalties Would Be Imposed; Discount For Prompt Payment Would Be One Feature

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Oct. 18.—Means to ease the burden of taxation and to develop certain Texas rivers for power and conservation purposes again swept to the fore at the special session of the forty-third legislature today.

The house of representatives passed a bill designed to establish a permanent policy with regard to payment of taxes after having previously passed a measure regarded as giving temporary relief to persons whose taxes are delinquent.

Debate Is Started

The house also began debate on a bill which would remit taxes in certain counties on the Brazos river looking toward construction of a series of dams on that stream largely through federal financing assistance.

The house committee on conservation and reclamation gave a favorable report, by a vote of 10 to 2 to a bill already passed by the senate under which the Buchanan, or Hamilton dam, on the Colorado river would be completed by means of a federal loan.

The senate marked time most of the day, although a hearing on three bills proposing remission of penalties and interest on delinquent taxes was set for tonight.

Near Fight Seen

A short session of that body was marked by a near fist fight between Senator Joe Moore of Greenville and Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston over the latter's bill to appropriate a small sum for two treasury department clerks. The bill was killed.

Under a bill by Representative Sarah Hughes, of Dallas, which the house passed by a vote of 105 to 8, penalties on delinquent taxes would be reduced from ten to six per cent and the interest rate from six to four per cent. A discount for prompt payment of taxes would be granted.

A four per cent discount would be allowed if taxes were paid in October, three per cent if paid in November and two per cent if paid in December. A graduated scale of penalties would be imposed and would reach the maximum of six

From The Woman's Angle

BY MARGARET TURNER
Avalanche-Journal Woman's Editor

KENNETH OBERHOLTZER has been running around in circles trying to keep all his appointments to make speeches. It was our good fortune to hear him Thursday at the Central Ward P.-T. A. meeting. He came in, a trifle late and almost out-of-breath, explaining that he had just left another meeting where he had spoken.

It is not hard to understand his great popularity in this city, once one make his acquaintance. Much has been said already about his affable personality and intelligent appearance. We have heard teachers praise his judgment in school matters and we have heard some say that they have to work hard under him. One said that it was like going to school again, working under Oberholtzer because he requires much studying on the part of the teachers.

OFF TO A GOOD START

HIS influence, possibly, can be noted in the dynamic start with which the work of local P.-T. A. units have been launched this year. He has addressed, or is scheduled to address in the near future, each unit in the city. His talks are all interesting because they are dealing with the children of his listeners. He chooses a different subject for each lecture and, by reason of his human treatment, each mother and teacher present is conscious of the fact that the school superintendent has a personal interest in her children, one feels.

Two outstanding comments which we have to make concerning local P.-T. A. work since the beginning of the season is the enormous amount of interest which, seemingly, the public has in the parent education project which the City P.-T. A. council is sponsoring this year and the large attendance at P.-T. A. meetings. There was a record attendance at the Dupre meeting Thursday when 163 mothers and a total of 171 persons were present.

Mr. Oberholtzer discussed "The Wise Use of the Radio," at the Dupre meeting and about an hour later he spoke on "The Community's Responsibility to the School" at the Central Ward meeting. That is the one we happened to hear.

PURPOSE OF P.-T. A.

THE educator said that the P.-T. A. association was the one force which can influence a better understanding of what schools are working toward. He outlined several pointers which he said should prove helpful toward that end: one, parents should learn the purpose of the school; two, see that a curriculum is provided to meet the aims expressed for the school, see that teachers are provided who are capable of carrying out this purpose and that other conditions are such that the aims can be realized; three, see that schools are supported properly, financially, and that their interests are safeguarded.

Helpful suggestions, too numerous to mention here, he gave regarding each of these pointers. One should really go hear one of these talks if one is interested in public school work.

Miss Lillian Peek Approves Program

The occasion was to give Miss Lillian Peek of Austin, state superintendent of home making education, an opportunity to meet home economics teachers in Lubbock High school and the college.

Miss Peek discussed plans for parent education work during a round table meeting.

Those attending were Misses Jonnie McCrery, Gertrude Daniel, Mabel Erwin, Vivian Johnson, Gertrude Watson, Fern Hotton, Esther Sorensen, Mesdames Grace Hardy and D. T. Harkrider. Mrs. Harkrider is president of the City Parent-Teacher council.

Lubbock Participation In The National Rehabilitation Program Is Discussed

Western Texas Official Here

Federal Housing Act Explained W. Alston Johnston; Benefits To Be Derived Are Also Enumerated

Lubbock's participation in the nation-wide rehabilitation of houses and business buildings, under the federal housing act, was discussed yesterday afternoon before members of the recently named advisory and executive committee by W. Alston Johnston, Fort Worth, executive assistant of the federal housing administration, western Texas division. The meeting was held in the Hilton hotel with John D. Mitchell, local chairman, presiding.

In presenting Mr. Johnston, Chairman Mitchell said that the "banks of Lubbock will cooperate," adding that just the extent of cooperation could not be determined until bankers had conferred on the regulations. There are some technical phases yet to be worked out.

Red Tape Removed

The federal housing act, Mr. Johnston explained, "is for those who live in houses, for those who build houses and for those who invest in houses." Red tape in making of loans for improvements has been removed. "This act provides credit by easy means for those who have credit and who have a reputation for paying their bills," he added.

"One third of those people on the relief rolls of the nation were formerly in the construction industries," he explained, adding that to the extent Lubbock, or any other town, participated in the rehabilitation work, to that extent would the proportion on the relief rolls be reduced. "Seven out of ten houses are badly in need of repairs," he explained.

Most Goes To Labor

Mr. Johnston pointed out that "seventy-five per cent of the money thus spent, goes to labor," the money circulates from 10 to 25 times before it gets back to the vaults, where it now is."

Lubbock, the speaker said, "looks in better shape than the average city."

A. B. Davis of the chamber of commerce discussed the Lubbock program, outlining the pre-campaign program and the setup, with dividing of the city into zones. Every effort will be made to reach all property owners. The campaign "is not a gravy train," he pointed out, "the money is to be paid back."

Chairman Mitchell said members of the committee, including one of speakers, finance, women, a field campaign manager and zone managers and assistants, would be named. The executive commiittee and the advisory committee will assist in selection of these.

Building contractors, building supply men, hardware men, lumber dealers, carpenters, and other artisans, insurance men and others engaged in the construction industry, were present. Mayor Ross Edwards and several city officials were also present.

Where Legionnaires Will Parade

The climax of the American Legion's national convention in Miami, Fla., will be reached October 23 when the annual big parade will be held. The huge grandstands, shown above in course of construction along Biscayne Boulevard, will seat thousands of spectators. More than 100,000 World War veterans are expected to attend.

Allred And Woods Clarify Opinions

AUSTIN, Oct. 18. (AP).—Attorney General James V. Allred in a statement today clarified his position and that of State Superintendent of Education L. A. Woods with reference to two proposed tax amendments to the constitution.

"Apparently some question has been created in the the minds of some of the mutual friends of Mr. Woods and myself," Allred said. "Some of our citizens seem to think that the amendment which I favor is the one opposed by Superintendent Woods and other friends of education.

"This is incorrect. I have talked with Superintendent Woods and there is no difference between us."

Allred said the amendment he favored would give the legislature "authority reasonably to classify property for taxation purposes," while Woods opposes the amendment "designed to limit the total amount of taxes collected by the state to $22.50 per capita each biennium."

"As a matter of fact," Allred said, "I am in accord with Superintendent Woods and friends of education in opposing the adoption of this tax limitation amendment

LIST CANCELLED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. (AP).—The presidential engagement list was cancelled today to allow President Roosevelt to work on the speech he will deliver at Roanoke, Va., late tomorrow in dedicating a new veterans hospital.

The address is expected to be brief, requiring not more than ten or fifteen minutes.

Superintendent Woods tells me he is in favor of the adoption of the constitutional amendment advocated by me to permit the legislature reasonably to classify property."

Allred will speak tonight on the subject of the amendments.

REGULARITY

PUNCTUALITY is an important part of the training that your carrier boy is undergoing. Both in his school work and in his task of delivering your daily paper regularity is emphasized and required. This boy is one of 588,000 boys in this country who are engaged in the sale and distribution of newspapers. Their task requires less than an hour and a half a day, but in it they are receiving training in the fundamentals of business.

The newspaper boy of today is receiving an education plus. His task and his school work go hand in hand, supplementing each other and developing him along the lines that will be most beneficial to him in the future. It has been found that the close co-operation which now exists between newspaper and educational authorities is a most efficient and effective means of producing boys of the highest character and intelligence.

Your carrier boy buys his papers wholesale and sells them at retail. His earnings depend entirely on collections. You can help him by paying him promptly each week.

Governors' Southwide Cotton Conference Scheduled At Memphis On Monday

Bankhead Law To Be Attacked

Representatives From Number Of States Are Expected To Attend; Group Was Formed Four Years Ago

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 18. (AP) — Chairman Tait Butler of Memphis has called the governors' southwide cotton conference to meet here next Monday.

Representatives will attend from Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, South Carolina and probably Texas.

The conference group was formed about four years ago before the government began its cotton restriction program, and has advocated controlled production since its organization.

Attack Expected

An attack on the Bankhead act is expected. W. B. Roberts of Rosedale, Miss., a member of the conference, has attacked the measure.

In a recent declaration, Roberts said the south could ask the continuance of subsidies to cotton producers "only by extending it to all other farm products, including livestock, and such a burden added to require subsidies to industry, would produce such a burden that it could only result in a collapse of our governmental fabric."

He suggests a law levying a tax of $20 a bale on the privilege of planting cotton and exemption from tax of all farms upon which not exceeding 50 per cent of their planted land is planted to cotton.

Houston Selected As Next Convention City By Texans

WACO, Oct. 18. (AP)—Houston was selected today as the 1935 convention city of the Southwest Water Works association as the twenty-third annual meeting closed here. New officers elected yesterday were installed, reports were read and resolutions were passed.

The association adopted a resolution advocating that programs for development of drouth - exhausted municipal and school water supplies, started by relief commissions in various drouth-stricken states, be resumed.

Another resolution passed favored development of additional water storage facilities in the southwest where needed and advocated a program which would have for its objective the control of salt water from refineries and producing and abandoned oil wells, to the end that fresh water streams be not further impaired.

SAD CELEBRATION

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., (AP) — Expecting the best price for his cotton in several years, Jess Johnson, farmer, decided to take his wife and small son to town on his cotton wagon as a sort of celebration. En route, the son, Ralph, aged 2, fell from the wagon and was killed.

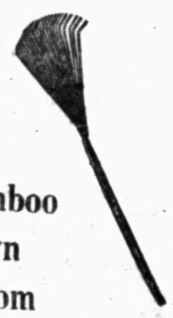

According to an expert, it will require at least five years before television is established commercially in this country.

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us gloomy, grouchy and no good for anything.

What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our bile juice can't digest it. What is the bile juice? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and ¾ of our food decays in our 28 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes.

When our friends smell our bad breath (but we don't) and we feel like a whipped tomcat, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently start the flow of your bile juice. But if "something better" is offered you, don't buy it, for it may be a calomel (mercury) pill, which loosens teeth, gripes and scalds the rectum in many people. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for—25¢. ©1934, C.M.Co.

Legion Plans "Fun And Business" At Its Miami Convention October 21-25

When the American Legion gathers for its annual convention at Miami, October 21-25, one of its jobs will be to elect a new national commander. Among the candidates mentioned for the post are (left to right) Vilas Whaley, Milwaukee; Frank Belgrano, San Francisco; Edward Neary, New York; Ray Murphy, Ida Grove, Iowa. The Legion parade is routed down Miami's Biscayne boulevard, shown in the background.

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 18. (AP)—Fun is to be mixed with business when veterans from all parts of the nation gather here October 21-25 for the annual meeting of the American Legion.

While the serious side of the convention presents such questions as the selection of a national commander—there are five potential candidates reported — the leisure moments are to be filled with a varied entertainment program.

For the position of national commander, held during the last term by Edward A. Hayes, of Decatur, Ill., candidates have been boomed in five states, reports at headquarters show.

These candidates were named as Forest G. Cooper, Indianola, Miss.; Ray Murphy, Ida Grove, Iowa; Edward Neary, New York; Frank Belgrano, San Francisco; and Vilas Whaley, Milwaukee.

Meantime, four cities are reported ready to bid for next year's convention — St. Louis, Atlantic City, Cleveland and Los Angeles.

While the legionaires are transacting their business, the women's auxiliary is to hold a separate convention. Mrs. William H. Biester Jr., national president, of Drexel Hill, Pa., will preside.

Two bathing beauty contests — one serious, the other comic—are on the entertainment program, as well as horse and dog racing, boxing, wrestling, bowling, style shows, golf, tennis polo and water sports.

Lindbergh Family Believed To Be Preparing For Move

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Oct. 18. (AP)—The Brooklyn Eagle said today that it is generally believed that the Lindberghs will move within thirty days to a cottage on the estate of the late Daniel Guggenheim in the fashionable Sands Point colony on Long Island.

The cottage is in the course of remodeling and Col. Lindbergh has been seen frequently at the site during the remodeling. Members of the Guggenheim family refused to confirm the report, according to the Eagle, and spokesmen for Col. Lindbergh could not be reached.

At present the Lindberghs are living at the home of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's mother, at Englewood, N. J.

The Guggenheim estate adjoins that of Vincent Astor, on which there is a private flying field.

Housing Plan Is Furthered

Architectural Service Being Offered By The Government; Suggestions For Planting Also Are Given

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. (AP) — Forty plans for inexpensive small houses, designed especially to accomodate families in rural and suburban areas, were disclosed today to have been drawn by federal subsistence homestead officials to spur the decentralization of industrial populations.

Officials expect this architectural service, scheduled to blossom next week, to encourage hundreds of families to build new homes of their own on small tracts of land where they can raise most of their food.

Suggestions for the planting subsistence gardens over a three-year period will be included in a booklet containing the house plan. The move will tie in with President Roosevelt's housing and decentralization drives.

Brown Rolston, chief architect in the subsistence homestead division, told the Associated Press that plans for three, four, five and six room houses would be presented.

Anyone interested in a particular plan shown in the booklet, he said, could write in and obtain a blue print sheet showing the four elevations of the house, the floor plan and a construction section.

Mickey Mouse Is Making Children Forget Troubles And Fear Of Doctor

Mickey Mouse entertains Lubbock children at Saturday morning movies, greets them from magazines, comic sections and cereal boxes, and now he is making them forget their troubles when they go to see one of Lubbock's doctors.

Children fascinatedly watch a Mickey Mouse and a large ball hanging over the examining table in the children's examining room at Lubbock sanitarium and forget their pain.

"Mothers sometimes scare their children by telling them if they aren't good they will be taken to the doctor who will give them a large dose of castor oil or cut off their ears. For that reason many children have a horror of doctors," Dr. M. C. Overton, physician of child's diseases at the sanitarium, said. "Every child has heard of Mickey Mouse and the Big Bad Wolf and when they see them, they forget what they came for."

A Big Bad Wolf toy overlooks the examining room from the top of a case, and there is a musical clown, crowing rooster, teddy bear, negro baby and other toys about the room.. A red clock on the face of which is a Big Bad Wolf who seems to walk when the clock ticks, is shown to children while their parents give the history of the case, putting the children at ease before the examination is begun.

Aromatic Turkish tobacco

On the sunny slopes of Smyrna . . in the fertile fields of Macedonia . . from the shores of the Black Sea . . that's where the best kinds grow . . the kinds used in making Chesterfields.

THERE are about as many kinds of Turkish tobacco as there are kinds of apples—but they all have a spicy aroma and flavor which seems to "season" a cigarette better than any other kind that grows.

The right Turkish is costly—but it adds something to Chesterfield's milder better taste.

When you go on your next cruise, stop at Smyrna and visit our tobacco factory. We think you will find it interesting.

France Moves For Extradition Of Two Men Suspected In Assassination

Pair Held In Jail At Turin

Two Leaders In Terror Plot Believed Held; Search Now Said To Have Been Narrowed Down To Three

BY RICHARD G. MASSOCK
Associated Press Foreign Staff

PARIS, Oct. 18.—France tonight moved to extradite and try for complicity in the Marseille murders two men arrested today at Turin, Italy, as alleged leaders of three confessed Croat terrorists held here.

A suretee nationale inspector hurried off to Turin to identify the two men as Dr. Ante Pavelich and Eugene Kvaternik, named respectively as "The Brain" and "The Delegate" of the band charged with assassinating King Alexander of Yugoslavia and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou of France.

Held In Custody

He will also arrange to face the two men held in custody until France arranges for their extradition to stand trial at Marseille along with Mio Kraj, Zvonemer Pospechil and Ivan Ratich, the confessed Balkan revolutionaries held here.

Seizure of Pavelich and Kvaternik by Italian police, acting on tips from French authorities, narrowed the active search for accomplices of the Marseille murderer to three.

They are the mysterious and beautiful Czechoslovak "gun girl," Marie Voudroch, the supposed chief of the band's camp in Hungary Gustave Perec, and another man whose name popped into the case today for the first time, Mio Bzik, the "beetle-browed glassmaker."

Police suspect Bzik was the man who furnished Rajtich, Pospechil and Kraj with Hungarian passports in Hungary and sent them to Switzerland to meet Vladimir Georgieff Tchermozemsky, the assassin of Marseille, and Kavternik.

Called Master Mind

The authorities today disclosed that Pavelich was called the "master mind" of the assassination plot in confessions of the three men held at Marseille.

He was described as the chief of the Croat separatist terrorist organization, the Ustashi. A former Yugoslav deputy, the 50-year-old Pavelich fled Yugoslavia after the assassination of Stephan Radich, peasant leader in 1928, the authorities said. They added that in 1929 he was condemned to death in absentia by Yugoslav courts for conspiring against Yugoslavia.

French authorities were informed that Pavelich, during recent years, has been almost constantly on the move in Austria, Italy and Hungary.

House Cat Coming To Aid Of Science In Solving Of Problems Of Deafness

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

BOSTON, Oct. 18. — The house cat is coming to the aid of science in solving some of the problems of deafness which aflict ten million Americans.

How the cat's ears furnish natural, living laboratories where human deafness is almost exactly duplicated came out in one of the clinics of the American College of Surgeons holding its annual meeting here this week. The work was demonstrated by H. Davis, H. A. Derbyshire and M. H. Lurie of Harvard Medical school.

Not Sacrifices

These cats are not sacrifices to science. They come by their deafness naturally, the same as humans, and have nearly all the same afflictions because their ears work very much like human hearing organs. Their ears are not so well protected as man's, so that it is easier to see the puzzling causes of deafness.

A cat cannot tell man that it is deaf, but the scientists are able to read the animal's troubles on a pair of fine electric wires. One of these wires touches the "round window" in the middle ear, and the other, the animal's auditory nerve.

Messages Detoured

Sound travels over this nerve to the cat's brain in nerve impulses which are partly electrical. These nerve impulses readily switch to the wires in the form of measurable electric currents. The wires detour the messages headed for the cat's brain and register them on the dial of a galvanometer.

If the cat is deafened, the electric current shows it by weakness, or by absence. The faintest sound which the cat appears to hear is equal, after it has been converted by the ear into a nerve impulse, to a current of about a two-millionth of a volt of electricity.

By reading the current on the wires, the scientists discover whether the cat is deaf. Examination of the ear then reveals the cause.

Writing from her home in Festus, Mo., Mrs. Anna LaPlante says: "I am a practical nurse and I recommend to some of my patients that they take Black-Draught, for it is such a good laxative. Because so many people know from having used it that Thedford's Black-Draught is a good, purely vegetable laxative, millions of packages of it are sold every year.

Royal Claims Being Cleared

Wife Of Claimant To Vacant Throne Of Hungary Has Set Political Circles To Buzzing By Divorce Action

BUDAPEST, Oct. 18. (AP)—Stunning 26-year-old Mme. Irene Lelbach, morganatic wife of Archduke Albrecht, Hapsburg claimant to the vacant throne of Hungary, has set political circles buzzing here by filing suit for divorce from her royal husband.

"I would rather that you be king than be my husband," she is quoted as having told him.

The suit charges desertion but political wiseacres see in it an adroit move to checkmate the cause of her husband's cousin, Archduke Otto, son of Ex-Empress Zita. Otto's chances were measurably advanced by his recently reported bethrotal to Princess Maria, youngest daughter of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy.

While Otto has been discussed chiefly as a possible future ruler of Austria, legitimists here have not forgotten that he is the oldest son the ill-fated Emperor-King Carl, and therefore in direct line of succession to the throne of St. Stephen.

Women Back Claimants

A real flavor of romance is lent to this "battle for the crown" by the fact that each of the two archdukes is backed by a talented woman.

At Otto's elbow stands his ascetic, nun-like mother, Zita, who never once has softened her campaign to regain for her son the fallen glory of the 700-year-old Hapsburg dynasty.

Behind Albrecht is the lovely Irene, daughter of a wealthy Hungarian landowner. She was the divorced wife of Ludwig von Rudanay, former Hungarian minister to Bulgaria, when Albrecht married her August 16, 1930, at Brighton, England.

The union had to survive much criticism both because of the archduke's royal blood and because of her being a divorcee. It was not sanctioned by the Vatican until February, 1933.

Otto Called 'Alien'

Legitimists point out that dissolution of the marriage will restore fully Albrecht's technical rights to the throne. It will make him eligible to marry a princess of the blood, some one who might later sit beside him as queen of Hungary. Irene's birth bars her from that place.

Albrecht has one advantage over Otto in that he was born in Hungary and is on the ground. Nationalistically minded Magyr legitimists argue that Otto is an "alien" because he was born in Austria. They assert too that the latter's education has been under French influences and they mention the fact that his mother, Zita, a princess of the house of Bourbon-Parma, has in her veins French, Spanish and Portuguese blood.

Both young men face opposition from the neighboring countries of the Little Entente—Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania. Repeatedly that alliance of "succession states" has enunciated a "No-Hapsburg-restoration" dictum, seeing in such a development possible attempts to regain for the ancient dynasty control over territories which passed to them at the end of the world war.

But placing either archduke on a throne in Budapest would involve less of an upset than doing the same thing in Austria. The latter has been a republic since Otto's father abdicated both thrones in 1918.

Hungary, on the other hand, after going through the 100-day terror of the communistic regime of Bela Kun in 1919, sanctioned a return to monarchial form of government under the regency of Admiral Nicholas Horthy.

CALLS JAPAN'S YOUTH

DAIREN, Manchoukuo (AP)—"Go West, Young Man" has its oriental counterpart with Manchoukuo calling as a new frontier to all the adventurous, reckless or merely homeless young men in Japan. Most of them land here without a yen and usually the police try to persuade them to go back.

The yak is as essential for milking and transportation in the Himalayas of Asia as is the buffalo in southern India.

Heiress To Marry

Charlotte K. Dorrance of Radnor, Pa., (above) heiress to the late soup king's millions, will soon marry William Coxe Wright of St. Davids, Pa., it was revealed on announcement of their engagement. Miss Dorrance is the youngest of four sisters.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep . . . Vigor . . . Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backaches, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS . . . a doctor's prescription . . . which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes, for they may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS . . . the old reliable remedy that contains no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

Federals Tune Up For Fights

Quick-Muscled Young Men Of Secret Service Prepare For Possible Battles With Bad Men Of Nation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. (AP) — Within pistol shot of the White House, cool, quick-muscled young men of the secret service whose paramount duty is to protect the person of the President are banging a bull's-eye in the basement of the treasury department.

In the same basement, located directly beneath the office of William H. Moran, chief of the secret service, veteran guardians of Uncle Sam's gold and greenbacks are tuning up their trigger fingers.

Taking shots at the target under the skilled instruction of coast guard marksmen are men of the customs bureau, alcohol tax investigators, internal revenue collectors, guards at the bureau of printing and engraving and agents of the narcotics bureau.

4,000 "Federals" To Train

Some 4,000 "federals" who operate under the ancient aegis of the treasury department in battling moonshiners, rum runners, counterfeiters, smugglers and sundry other violators of the United States statutes soon will be pumping pistol shots into targets throughout the country.

Shooting galleries similar to the one in the treasury building will be set up under order of Secretary Morgenthau from New York to Miami, from Pembina, N. D., to Galveston, Texas, from Seattle to San Diego and even in Honolulu, away out in the Pacific.

A young woman in the narcotics bureau at Baltimore has qualified already as an expert "pistoleer" and several other women in the service are expected to participate in the training. Many of Morgenthau's musketeers are reported to be enthusiastic over their improvement in marksmanship since they started target practice and a number of units are forming teams for inter-bureau competition.

To Cope With Desperadoes

Department officials say the training was not inaugurated in anticipation of gun battles on a wide front but rather with the objective of increasing the emergency efficiency of agents who frequently have to cope with desperate criminals.

The men of the secret service, whose major responsibilities are guarding the President and his family and combatting counterfeiting, which has increased almost four-fold since the depression began, are noted for their ability to "shoot quick and shoot straight" when shooting is the need of the moment.

The operations of internal revenue agents, particularly alcohol tax investigators and those bureau "aces" who have the dangerous work of ferreting out the income tax delinquencies of gangster chieftains, often call for adept handling of firearms as a measure of self-protection.

A "revenuer" recently was shot from ambush in broad daylight while raiding a still in Maryland less than 20 miles from the capital. his would-be assassins escaping in a thickly wooded swamp.

Smugglers, whose illicit operations range from the smuggling of silk, cigarettes and diamonds to rum-running and "border-jumping" with Chinese immigrants, often are desperate men who will take a chance on "shooting it out" rather than surrender and go to prison for a long term.

Stern, But Not Too Stern

Cinema censors are stern, but not too stern, when they pass on "stills" of the celluloid stars. They thought this one of Toby Wing would pass the modesty test and a million fans will give it a devouring glance and shout "Aye."

LAYS RAILS TO COAST

ANKAKA (AP)—Turkey has begun the two-year task of building a railway from Afion-Karahissar to Adalia which, connecting with existing lines, will give Ankara its shortest routes to the Mediterranean.

More Rye And Wheat Go Into Liquor Since Repeal; Corn And Malt Lower

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (AP) — With figures on consumption of grain for alcoholic beverages now available for the last fiscal year, officials are able to gauge the effect of repeal upon demand for farm products.

Repeal became effective December 5, 1933. Unrevised estimates from reliable government sources show the following amounts of grains were used in the production of whisky and gin for the year ending June 30, a year made up of nearly seven months of repeal and the five months that immediately preceded:

Corn—7,830,000 bushels.
Rye—4,415,000 bushels.
Malt—2,190,000 bushels.
Wheat—47,000 bushels.

These figures show that the amount of corn used the last fiscal year, including seven months of repeal, for manufacture of whisky and gin was only slightly more than one-fourth as much as was used for alcohol and distilled spirits in the full year of 1917. The consumption of malt was about half that of 1917.

Twice As Much Rye

The amount of rye, however, was nearly twice that used in 1917. The amount of wheat used, small as it is was roughly about 23 times that used in 1917.

The 7,830,000 bushels of corn used for whisky and gin is a little less than four-tenths of 1 per cent of the total corn crop of 1933. The rye used for distillation was nearly a fifth of the 1933 crop of 21,184,000 bushels.

The amount of grains consumed for manufacture of fermented liquors, such as beer, is not yet available even in unrevised form from government sources.

However, production of fermented liquor for the year ending June 30 was 1,158,000,000 gallons.

Far More Beer In 1914

This is approximately three-fourths as much as was produced in 1918, and considerably less than the 2,051,000,000 gallons produced in the peak pre-war year of 1914.

In 1918, brewers used 1,227,000,000 pounds of malt, of which the bulk, it is assumed, was made of barley, and 459,000,000 pounds of corn and corn products.

Although repeal may not be opening up a relatively important market for such grains as corn and wheat, it has resulted in brewers paying a premium price for malting varieties of barley, Merritt N. Pope, barley specialist in the department of agriculture, says.

Takes Fourth Of Barley

Approximately one-fourth of the barley crop is used for brewing beer, Pope says. The 1933 crop was 156,000,000 bushels and the 1934 crop is estimated at only 119,000,000 bushels.

As a result of feed scarcity and good prices, Pope is warning growers that barley seed, especially of the malting varieties, will be scarce for the 1935 planting. The danger is that farmers will "sell short" or feed up their supplies, he says.

Most malting barley is grown in the upper Mississippi valley where the drought was severe. Mixtures of varieties are a disadvantage to brewers whose requirements are strict. It also is difficult to determine the variety of shipped-in barley seed as the grains differ little in outward appearance. For these reasons, Pope is advising farmers to be careful about protecting their supplies of adapted seeds of malting barley.

Work Of Housewife Irks Woman And She Takes Up Cotton Ginning Tasks

HORSESHOE LAKE, Ark., Oct. 18. (AP)—The work of a housewife irked Mrs. Thomas J. Johnson, 31, so she took up the cotton ginning business and has come to be regarded as one of the best compressors in the south.

Some say she is the only woman in the country to hold such a job. Every morning she goes about the business of bossing the gin crew on the Thompson plantation near here—a slim, girlish person dressed in white riding breeches and blue shirt, a white cap atop her curly black hair.

Nobody ever thought of a woman serving as gin superintendent until the idea occurred to Frank Thompson of Memphis, Tenn., owner of the plantation.

She demurred when he first offered her the job. But he persisted and she finally accepted, although protesting that "it's a man's job."

She ginned 65 bales the first week she worked. Compress experts say her bales are better wrapped than any they have ever seen.

"I've always liked to stay outdoors and I've never been especially crazy about cooking or house work," explains Mrs. Johnson, who is the wife of the plantation storekeeper and the mother of one child.

Stewart Selected Kiwanian Leader

Lubbock Kiwanians, meeting at Lubbock hotel yesterday, elected Dr. Allen T. Stewart president for 1935.

Ray Mowery was named first vice president; G. E. Damewood, second vice president, and T. E. Buckner, re-elected secretary.

Directors elected were Amos Howard, R. C. Pace, W. C. Pryor, J. B. Maxey, Chas. Whitacre, Bo Sexton, Garnet Reeves, Geo. Brewer, Dr. J. H. Smith and W. H. Rodgers. The new officers assume their duties on January 1.

An informal program, with the election holding the spotlight, was given during the luncheon.

Charles Ponzi Is Full Of Political Predictions About The United States

NAPLES, Oct. 18. (AP) — Charles Ponzi, laughing and rollicking, and in his own words "glad to be home again," burst from the third class quarters abroad the liner Vulcania today full of political predictions about the United States.

The get-rich-quick genius whose plans brought ruin to investors in the United States and 12 prison years to himself, made his fellow passengers happy they said, during his deportation trip to his native land.

In a moment of solemnity Ponzi said, "the destiny of the United States is either fascism or communism. Roosevelt is a good man and I hold him in great esteem, but America cannot go ahead under his present political system."

The penniless Ponzi said he would not return to his native Parma in southern Italy but would go to Rome, where "I hope to open either a tourist agency or a hotel."

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 18. (AP)—A letter from Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll addressed to "Dear Mr. Intermediary", while she was in the hands of a kinnaper was published today by the Nashville Banner in photostatic form.

The letter had her wedding ring attached to the upper left hand corner to show that the communication was genuine.

Another Published

Also published was a letter, signed "Kidnaper," to Thomas H. Robinson, sr., directing him to turn over the $50,000 ransom to "your daughter-in-law who was to "follow out exactly the plans which are made known to her."

Robinson, sr., and his daughter-in-law are accused in connection with the kidnaping, for which the former's son and the latter's husband, Thomas H. Robinson, jr., is sought. Warrants for them have been issued at Louisville Robinson, sr., is accused of helping his son to kidnap the society matron, and Mrs. Robinson, jr., is charged with complicity.

Mrs. Stoll's letter was dated last Saturday and said: "If you haven't already done so, please pay over the money to the one who this man tells you too." It was written in longhand.

Signed "Kidnaper"

The letter signed "Kidnaper," written on a typewriter, was mailed special delivery from Indianapolis at 5:30 p. m., last Saturday.

"I am the kidnaper of Alice Stoll," the letter began. Then it outlined the plan for delivering the $50,000 to Mrs. Robinson, jr., who was to be given instructions "secretly." The letter advised that "she will have to take a trip."

Robinson, sr., was warned that failure to carry out the details would mean that "Mrs. Stoll will never be seen alive."

Additional Grant Is Made Brownsville Navigation Area

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. (AP)—The public works administration today informed Representative West (D-Tex) it had approved additional grant of $222,000 to aid in construction of the Brownsville, Texas, navigation district.

The original allotment of $2,472,000 had been found insufficient, West said, adding the supplementary grant would be enough to "do the job."

Present Mail Plan Rapped

Former President Of Eastern Air Transport, Inc., Takes Stand; Says Lines Will Go Into Bankruptcy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. (AP)—Thomas B Doe, former president of Eastern Air Transport, Inc., today assailed the air mail set-up with the assertion that "at the present rate all the lines will be in bankruptcy not later than June 30, 1935."

Doe, one of the executives postmaster General Farley charged with attending a "spoils conference," appeared before the president's aviation commission. Charles A. Lindbergh this week told the commission that what he termed the post office "black list" was one of the most disturbing factors in the industry.

Refuses To Say

Doe reddened when Franklin K. Lane, jr., of the commission asked him is opinion of the black list.

"Being one of them," he replied. "I think I won't say what I think about that."

"The popular opinion that the so-called Wall street crowd is being hurt is not correct," said Doe. He now is vice president of the Sperry corporation.

Doe said the public had lost faith in air transports "in its present state," and that the industry was "hampered by buck passing and departmental jealousies which were always present when authority was scattered through several departments."

District Lions Meeting To Be Held At Matador Tuesday

Members of the Lubbock Lions club are expected to have a large delegation to a district meeting at Matador Tuesday night, October 23, according to John D. Mitchell, club president. District Governor E. L. Pitts will head the delegation.

A banquet of clubs from groups 4 and 7 will be held in the Matador Methodist church at 7:30 o'clock that night. It will be a ladies night for the several clubs. The date was originally set for October 16 but was changed because of a conflict at Matador.

Making Of Historic Spots Is Sought By Parks Board

Dr. E. Colp, chairman of the state parks board, has asked legislators, newspapers, chambers of commerce, and representative Texans to aid him in searching out and marking historic spots in Texas.

The board was authorized to undertake that work, but no appropriation was made, Mr. Colp has informed the local chamber of commerce. During the 11 years of the board's existence Texas has acquired 72 state parks containing 258,405 acres, all donated without cost. No funds ever have been appropriated for the board's work, it was pointed out.

Chairman Colp has co-operated with the Civilian Conservation corps in procuring state parks.

Abilene's Heavy Line, Light Backfield Bid To Give The Westerners A Busy Evening In Annual Game

Coach Dewey Mayhew and about four tons of his Abilene Elephants arrive in town late this afternoon. They have business in this community.

Tonight at Matador Field the Elephants meet the Lubbock High Westerners in what may prove one of the decisive contests of this season's schoolboy football campaign. The game starts at 8 o'clock.

The sports authors started designating Abilene gridmen as Elephants back in '27 and '28 when the Eagle forward wall looked as if it consisted of seven heavy-weight Grecian grapplers and when the backs were either of the fullback type or were squad fellows with legs thick as the underpinings of yearling rhinos.

At Least One Elephant

This autumn only Mayhew's left tackle, 225-pound O. T. Schupbach, may be, with any justification, called an elephant, and he would probably resent it too strenuously.

The rest of the Abilene line, like the Lubbock frontier, is composed of well set-up light heavies or senior middleweights. The Eagle secondary averages about 135 pounds according to coaches' weights.

Outcome of the game is difficult to prophecy. Both outfits have played four games thus far. In these games opponents succumbed rather easily. Abilene has mowed down Coleman, San Angelo, Sweetwater and Wichita Falls. The Westerners hold heavy decisions over Ranger, Big Spring, Borger and Austin of El Paso. The Westerners got their severest test against Borger, but finally outclassed the big Bulldogs by a pair of touchdowns. The Eagles found the San Angelo Bobcats to be tough antagonists, but triumphed 19 to 0.

Would Even Series

If Lubbock wins tonight's game it will be to even the "modern" series between the two schools. Abilene, led by slip-footed Glen Wyatt defeated a jaded Lubbock team 13 to 0 in a semi-final game of the state championship eliminations of 1931. In 1932 the Eagles defeated Lubbock 7 to 0 in a close contest on the site of tonight's game. Last fall, on their own grounds, the Eagles succumbed to Chapman's team, 6 to 0.

A backfield battle is in the offing. The first string Eagle backs are adept handlers and carriers of the ball, but none have the all-around versatility of Lubbocks right wingback, Morris White. Ray Moser, left half, has so far, taken the leading role in the invading secondary. He made touchdowns until it became tiresome last week at Wichita Falls. Other backs are Kenneth Walter, dimunitive field general, Gubo Galbraith, blocker and ball-carrier, and Grady Shytles, line-backer.

Injuries May Slow 'Em

Minor injuries to squad members has been Coach Chapman's chief worry this week. A half dozen of the boys are suffering with hurts which are serious only in that they may handicap them in their work tonight.

Ocie Griggs, left end, is bothered with his ankles. Morris White has a bruised leg. Othie Upton, fullback, hurt his neck in scrimmage last night. Robert Allen Hill has been limping for last three weeks with a twisted leg muscle. He was not in uniform last week, but the leg has responded to treatemnt, and Hill will start at quarter tonight. When Charles Calhoun blocks and tackles it is in spite of a badly bruised shoulder. He also will start in the Westerner secondary.

Regular Lubbock line, consisting of Whitehorn and Griggs, ends; Dowell and White, tackles; Aycock and Phillips, guards; and Young, center is to start, Coach Chapman said.

Longhorns To Be Honored In Big Send-Off For Gent Game

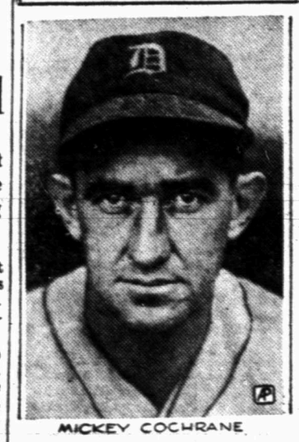

AUSTIN, Oct. 18. (AP)—The University of Texas Longhorns, conquerors of Texas Tech, Notre Dame and Oklahoma, will be given a royal send-off in their first home game of the season Saturday against Centenary's Gentlemen.

Plans have been completed for a parade in honor of Coach Jack Chevigny, the coaching staff and the fotball squad. The coaches and team will be accorded places of honor in the parade. Several Central Texas towns, which are coming under the spell of the revived football spirit at the University of Texas, will send delegations to participate in the celebration.

Fraternities and sororities have entered floats. Officials of neighboring towns will participate flanked by high school football elevens.

The coaching staff and the team will be given a guard of honor of city policemen and state highway patrolmen. Mayor Tom Miller and other city officials will lead the way.

Tiger Boss In Close Contest

Detroit Second Sacker, Chas. Gehringer, Two Votes Short As Writers Pick America's Most Valuable Player

CHICAGO, Oct. 18. (AP)—For the second time in six years Mickey Cochrane today was named the most valuable player in the American League by a committee representing the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

The Detroit manager, who piloted the Bengals to their first American League pennant in 25 years only to lose the world's championship in the final game, won the honorary award by a two-vote margin over his star second baseman, Charles Gehringer. Mickey's vote total was 67 to Gehringer's 65. Other leaders were Vernon Gomez, New York, 60, Schoolboy Rowe, Detroit, 59, and Lou Gehrig, New York, 54. Jimmie Foxx of the Athletics, winner of the award during the past two years, was tenth with 11 votes. Babe Ruth was missing for the first time while not a Washington player was named in the complete roll of 38 names.

Some Battery

Cochrane's selection gave the major leagues a great battery combination with their respective "most valuable" player awards as Jerome Herman "Dizzy" Dean, St. Louis Cardinal star, won the National League award with an almost perfect score.

In his first year at the helm of the Tigers, Cochrane led the team from fifth place to the pennant. The Detroit club was so pleased with his record that it handed him a $10,000 bonus.

The results of the voting follows:

Gordon S. Cochrane, Detroit	67
Charles Gehringer, Detroit	65
Vernon Gomez, New York	60
Lynwood Rowe, Detroit	59
Lou Gehrig, New York	54
Henry Greenberg, Detroit	29
Hal Trosky, Cleveland	18
Wesley Ferrell, Boston	16
Marvin Owen, Detroit	13
James E. Foxx, Philadelphia	11
Al Simmons, Chicago	9
William Werber, Boston	8
Roy Johnson, Boston	8
Leon Goslin, Detroit	6
Sam West, St. Louis	5
Mel Harder, Cleveland	4
Frank Higgins, Philadelphia	3
Earl Averill, Cleveland	3

Cowboys, Slaton Juniors In 7 To 7 Tie Thursday

The junior high school teams of Lubbock and Slaton have played twice against each other this season, and they're still tied.

The Cowboys of Coaches Mule Davis and Lovie Liston came from behind in the second quarter of their game at Tech Field yesterday to score a touchdown, carry the ball around end for extra points and tie the game, 7 to 7.

There was no more scoring. With a minute to go in the fourth period, Walter Lamb, Lubbock Cowboy tackle, stood back on the Slaton 38-yard line and attempted a field goal. It was up the middle, but a few inches short of the cross bar.

In a game earlier in the season at Slaton, the Cowboys and Tiger Kittens played to a 13-13 stalemate.

Yesterday's was a good game, the future Westerners and Tigers putting out their best before a small crowd of paid customers. Thurman Williams scored Lubbock's touchdown after a long and sustained drive down the field. He went over on a spinner from the one-yard line.

Late in the first, a Slaton back got loose through center and ran, assisted by neat blocking, 70 yards for a touchdown.

Melvin Billings, Dutchy Cawthon, Harold Parsons and Bill Sessums played a good game in Lubbock's backfield, with R. J. Herbst, Sam Martin and Neil Armstrong showing up well in the Cowboy line.

Special Train Hopes Bright; Need 20 Sales

Officials Say Train Will Run If Band Makes Trip; Fans Urged To Reserve Railroad Tickets Today

Only a few difficulties — among them the selling of less than two dozen tickets—remained to be solved before Texas Tech and the railroad company could announce definitely the chartering of a special train to take Texas rooters to Los Angeles next week for the Tech-Loyola football game.

Authorities last night were working on a plan whereby the Tech band could make the trip on the special train. If this works out satisfactorily, officials believe that the remaining necessary tickets will be sold promptly.

Rate Is Reduced

With the announcement yesterday that the railroad company would put into effect a round trip rate of $35, several potential Texas fans reserved tickets. If the Tech band, consisting of 42 musicians, travel by train, more than 75 places will be guaranteed. Railroad officials said that less than 20 reservations were needed before the train could be chartered, and they felt certain that at least that many, possibly 30 or 40, would be reserved today, more if the special is certified.

Fans who plan to make the trip by special train are urged to communicate with the Santa Fe office in the Myrick building or with authorities at the Texas Tech athletic building today, as it must be known by tomorrow if the train is to run.

Three Days In L. A.

Three full days in Los Angeles will be afforded fans who ride the special, which will leave Lubbock early Wednesday morning and arrive in Los Angeles 24 hours later. The game is scheduled for Friday night, at Gilmore Stadium. The return trip will start at midnight Saturday, Oct. 27, and 26 hours will be required for the trip home.

Coaches Cawthon and Smith again ran their Matadors against the freshmen gridders in offensive and defensive drill yesterday. The head coaches leave tonight for Tucson where they will scout Loyola Saturday in its game with University of Arizona. Both teams appear on the Tech schedule this season, the Arizona game being the only Border conference game on the card. Loyola is a favorite to defeat the Arizonians.

Loyola Best On Coast

Reports continue to drift in from the Coast relating of the power of Loyola university's Lions, ably coached by Thomas J. Lieb, a former Notre Dame gridder and assistant coach.

In the opinion of Pacific Coast experts, Loyola "is the best team in Southern California—better than either University of Southern California or University of California at Los Angeles," and the writer for the Los Angeles Times continues:

"A little later on the Trojans may become a stronger team than Loyola, but had these teams met on any Saturday to date, including this coming Saturday, Loyola would probably pin a nifty shellacking on to the Trojans. And if Loyola is our best Southern California team, it behooves the populace of this town to get out there and give Tom Lieb's boys a big hand. Lord knows we can't depend on the Trojans or Bruins to bring us any gridiron titles this year. Let's cheer for the boys who may—Loyola."

Thus it appears that Texas Tech is in for nothing less than a battle, a battle they stand to lose if they do not click from start to finish. A heavy line, considerably heavier than Tech's, and a faster backfield will be Tech's opposition. In California they would consider a Tech victory very much of an upset.

Spec Goldman Named Captain Texas Amateur Cup Squadron

DALLAS, Oct. 18. (AP) — David "Spec" Goldman of the Dallas Country club will captain the 1934 Texas amateur cup team. Goldman's appointment to the leadership was announced tonight by the cup committee. The second annual cup matches will be played Sunday over the Houston Country club links with the first 12 ranking Texas amateur shot-makers competing against the ranking 12 stars of the Texas Professional Golfers association.

Goldman, former Dallas county club invitation champion, went to the finals in this year's National amateur and Western amateur. He tied for medalist in the Trans-Mississippi. He was not a member of last year's Texas cup team.

BROTHER VS. BROTHER

STILLWATER, Oct. 18. (AP) — It will be brother against brother when Oklahoma A. and M. and Southern Methodist university meet Saturday at Dallas.

Captain Ray Fuqua of the Mustangs is a brother of Lamar Fuqua of the A. and M. Cowboys.

The Fuqua brothers hail from Louisiana.

They're With Us Again--The Abilene Eagles

In this corner, the Abilene High school Eagles, or an important part of them. This is an Abilene cartoonist's-eye view of the Eagles and their coach, Dewey Mayhew, who take Texas Tech Field this evening against the Lubbock High school Westerners. In the picture with Mayhew are six of his most dangerous players, and they are names familiar to local fans who have followed the Lubbock-Abilene rivalry. Predecessors of the same names help make history for the Eagle team. They're here tonight to avenge the 6 to 0 defeat handed out by Coach Chapman's team last year.

Slaton, Lamesa And Levelland At Home Today

Tahoka Renews Rivalry Today At Slaton; Midland Engages Lamesa And Brownfield Goes To Levelland Field

SLATON, Oct. 18. (Special) — Football fans of Slaton and Tahoka will glare at each other from opposite sides of the gridiron here this afternoon while their favorite teams likewise glare at eacn other from across the line of scrimmage.

This annual tilt between veteran rivals is attracting considerable attention. It is a Class B conference game, and neither team has been defeated in conference competitio.

Slaton holds the edge if comparative scores go as a basis for dope, having defeated the Post Antelopes, 12 to 0. Tahoka was able to beat Post only 7 to 0.

It has been a long time since a Tahoka team defeated Slaton, and the odds of tradition are with the Tigers of Coach Paul Wright tomorrow afternoon. The game starts at 3 o'clock.

Tornadoes In Final Practice Contest

LAMESA, Oct. 18 (Special)—Once more taking on opposition from outside the District 3 boundary lines, the Lamesa High school Golden Tornadoes will meet the Midland High school eleven here Friday night in a game that promises an eyeful.

Undefeated so far, and with their victory belts hanging heavy from the large score made against the Lubbock High school Cowhands last week, the Golden Tornadoes are playing their last "practice" game tonight before launching into the district schedule. Defending champions of District 3, they start the 1934 title race next week against the Post High school Antelopes, Tahoka's Bulldogs, the Slaton Tigers and the Brownfield Cubs follow in that order, and if they sweep through that schedule, they are due to meet the winner of the northern half of the district in a game to determine the championship.

Levelland Set For Cubs Invasion

LEVELLAND, Oct. 18. (Special) —Coach Bill Stevens' high scoring Levelland Loboes are to be at home Friday afternoon to the Brownfield High school Cubs in a non-title ball game.

The football bug has bitten this town with a vengeance this season, and there is no lack for fine support and spirit. Under the direction of Coaches Stevens and Smith, the Loboes have developed into what looms as a real contender for the district title this season.

Tomorrow afternoon's game is scheduled to start at 3 o'clock.

PORKERS OFF FOR GAME

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 18.(AP) Twenty-six Arkansas Razorbacks, including two crippled backfield stars, will leave here tomorrow for Shreveport, La., and a Saturday game with Louisiana State university, seriously handicapped because of two days inactivity brought about by showers that kept them inside.

Art Lasky, On Baer-Hunt, Shuns Small Fry; Eager For Title Tilt

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 18. — Art Lasky, local heavyweight, is going to fight "no more small fry" in his trail to get a shot at the titleholder, Max Baer.

That at least is the statement of Lasky and his brother-manager, Maurice, who came here following Lasky's victory over King Levinsky at Los Angeles.

The two have made it clear there is no intention of accepting the many bouts they have been offered all over the country with fighters outside the circle of those given consideration in the title picture.

"We are willing to fight Steve Hamas" (former Pen State athlete and conquerer of Max Schmeling last fall) Maurice said, "but he and his manager aren't so anxious. They figure they have a claim on a title fight right now, but I don't see how they should come first.

"We are willing to take on Schmeling or Walter Neusel to prove our right to a Baer fight. I don't think so much of Madison Square Garden's plan for a heavy-weight elimination tournament, however, because these fights held in various parts of the country would draw more than if all were held in New York.

"I know Art, against Hamas or Schmeling, could draw $100,000 in Los Angeles."

They are not interested, Maurice declared, in any fights other than those that will lead directly to a championship fight with Bear.

"We figure that right now we are as much entitled to a crack at Baer as anyone, but if they insist on us proving it, we'll take on some of the other challengers. No more fooling around with the small fry, though."

Local fight fans, however, still are not thoroughly convinced as to Lasky's ability, although his only knockout defeat was at the hands of Charley Retzlaff of Duluth.

A Leipzig doctor has developed an antitoxin, known as "antikenatoxin," which after being injected into the skin, is said to relieve fatigue.

If You Don't Like Or Can Not Spell His Right Name Just Call Him "Caribou"

By NEA Service

OAKLAND, Calif., Oct. 18.—A tall, lean-hipped gridder sidled up to Coach Slip Madigan of the St. Mary's Gaels and meekly stated that he wanted his name spelled correctly in the roster this year, inasmuch as it was incorrectly listed last season.

"My name is Francis Brickner," he told Madigan.

"Very well, Francis it will be then", said Slip. "But have you any nickname we can use on the field? It's much easier, you know."

"Well," drawled the lanky one, "just call me 'Caribou' on account of the 17 critters I bagged one summer up in Alaska."

STAGG CANS SMOKER

STOCKTON, Calif., Oct. 18. (AP) — Amos Alonzo Stagg the white-thatched gridiron patriarch has dismissed from his college of Pacific squad a star player for an infraction of rules which in many other colleges would be viewed as of only minor importance.

To uphold a principle, Coach Stagg probably weakened his team by dismissing Bob Randall, who has proved his worth both as a pass thrower and receiver. Randall broke training rules by smoking.

FROGS TO AGGIELAND

FORT WORTH, Oct. 18. (AP) — Having held a complete rehearsal of their offense and defense this afternoon, the Texas Christian university Horned Frogs, 27 strong, will leave Friday morning for College Station where they meet the Texas Aggies Saturday afternoon.

They will take a light drill on Kyle field.

The players left behind Friday will ride the special train to College Station, which is expected to carry 500 fans.

Aggie Gridder Reported Lost

Pete Barber, Star Tackle At Texas A. & M., In Strange Disappearance; Is Missing Since Last Tuesday

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Oct. 18. (AP) — Texas A. and M. college authorities tonight had received no further word of Charles (Pete) Barber of Abilene, star sophomore football tackle, who had been missing from the campus since Tuesday afternoon.

School officials were investigating the report of two students that they saw a youth resembling Barber board a train here Tuesday.

Homer Norton, football coach, said he learned of Barber's absence only after he did not report for football practice. He said Barber was doing well in football and he had no idea why he might have left school.

Invited Family To Game

A check with Barber's mother, Mrs. Bertha Barber of Abilene, revealed that she did not know he had left school, but, on the contrary, that she received a postal card written from him Monday, asking her to attend the football game Saturday between A. and M. and Texas Christian university. His brothers in Austin, Truett, employe of the state highway department, and Perry, law student in the University of Texas, likewise, could advance no motive for his disappearance. Truett Barber said Charles wrote to him last Friday, inviting him to attend the T. C. U.-A. and M. game Saturday.

Barber's roommate at A. and M. college here told school authorities Barber did not tell him where he was going but said he would "get in touch with him later in the year."

Heydler Says National Loop Will Not Insist On Ban For Post-Season Barnstorming

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. (AP)—While not giving three cheers for the extra-curricular activities of big league baseball players, John A. Heydler, president of the National League, is inclined to doubt that club owners in the older of the two major circuits will place a ban on post-season barnstorming.

Such action has been advocated by President Will Harridge of the American League, who proposes to bring it up at the annual winter meeting of both leagues in New York in December. Harridge cited the head injury suffered by Jimmy Foxx of the Athletics in an exhibition game in Winnipeg and the reported soreness of Paul (Daffy) Dean's arm from ceaseless twirling, as reasons for such a curb.

Heydler said the National League is not likely to discuss barnstorming at its annual meeting unless the matter is brought up at the joint session of the leagues. Even then there is some doubt that the head of the National circuit will encourage a ban.

"For the present I can't see that it is a serious or grave matter," Heydler said, "and unless a proposal for such a ban is forthcoming from the American League at the annual joint meeting I am inclined to believe that our league will not touch the matter."

Bruin-Cowboy Melee Starts Weekend Card

Aggies And Frogs In Southwest Conference Game Saturday As Owls Play At Omaha, Porkers Meet L.S.U.

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Portals of the Southwest conference football campaign will swing open Saturday for one conference and four intersectional games. The preliminary to this week-end program will be Friday night at Abilene where the Baylor university Bears battle Hardin-Simmons university in what promises to be a victory for Baylor.

In spite of their unimpressive record this year, the Texas A. and M. Aggies are ready for their first 1934 conference game Saturday at College Station against Texas Christian. This melee tops the schedule. Aggies coaches have spent the entire week on their running offense. Stopping such Chirstian stars as Sam Baugh, Taldon Manton and Jimmy Lawrence is something the Aggies will find difficult to accomplish. It has been ten years since A. and M. whipped Texas Christian, and there doesn't appear much hope for the Cadets Saturday.

Owls Are Favorites

Jimmy Kitts' Rice Owls are at Omaha, Neb., where they will work out Friday night in preparation for their Saturday night game against Creighton university Blue Jays. With Bill Wallace and John McCauley in touchdown form, the Owls are confident of victory over a team they dropped a 14 to 13 decision to last year.

With Bohn Hilliard out of the lineup because of an injured hip, the University of Texas Longhorns are whistling in the dark while waiting for their game against Centenary at Austin. Irvin Gilbreath, husky back who scored three touchdowns against Oklahoma last week, will shoulder the load for Texas. The Longhorns have an unblemished record to defend and realize it may be spoiled by the Gentlemen from Shreveport.

Sooner Ags Meet SMU

Southern Methodist and Oklahoma A. and M. will stage an aerial show at the Dallas Fair Park stadium. Hundreds of A. and M. supporters plan to accompany the Cowboys to Dallas. The Mustangs will rely on their usual passing and the running of Robert Wilson, elusive halfback.

The University of Arkansas Razorbacks, pacing the conference race with wins over Texas Christian and Baylor, will engage the powerful Louisiana State Tigers at Shreveport. Fred Thomsen will have o steam his Porkers high to prevent their first defeat of the year. Louisiana won last year, 20 to 0, against practically the same Arkansas team that will take the field Saturday. LaForge and Criswell, mainstays of the Arkansas offense, are in excellent condition and ready.

Centennial "Sectionalism"

WERE it not such a serious proposition to us out here, it would be amusing to see some of our East, South and Central Texas statesmen throwing up their hands in holy horror at "sectionalism" in the state whenever it is intimated that West Texas does not get its just desserts.

The thing cropped up again in the Senate the other day when Senator Walter Woodward, of Coleman, pointing out that 150 West Texas counties are being asked to defray 40 per cent of the cost of the Centennial splurge in Northeast, East and Southeast Texas, demanded that West Texans at least be invited to the ceremonials. Senator George C. Purl, of Dallas, one of that daring band who can see little good west of the Trinity, took exception to the Woodward resolution which, never-the-less was passed.

Whenever West Texans seek to band together to safeguard what little rights they seem to have in state affairs, it is "sectionalism" and the action is subjected to scathing criticism from representatives of other parts of Texas.

But whenever South, East and Central Texas band together to hog all the gravy", it is "patriotic" to the nth degree.

As The Morning Avalanche has so often remarked, West Texas will get nowhere until West Texans band together for the common weal, cut old ties with other parts of the state and, with a united front, go forth to do serious battle for their rights. The Centennial question offers us a "cause libre" and might well be used as a "showdown" vehicle.

This newspaper is in sympathy with a Centennial observation in 1936—a dignified, common-sense, educational observation—which is just another way of saying that we are unalterably opposed to the present plans which include expenditure of vast sums of public money for froth and foam while the state is "running in the red" and we are told that many of our citizens are in dire need of the necessities of life.

If Dallas and other interested points wish to stage a great carnival in connection with the Centennial, all well and good and we wish the sponsors every success in their project.

But we do not favor paying the bill with public funds blackjacked out of the taxpayers of the state as a whole—overburdened taxpayers who have other uses for their slim funds than offering them as a burnt sacrifice for use in making "whoopee."

If this be sectionalism, make the most of it!

EXPENSIVE DEFENSE

If naval technicians had not evolved their art to such a high degree of complicated and costly perfection, the price of building a first-rate battle fleet would be a great deal less than it is—and the economic argument for armament reduction would lose much of its force.

Construction was begun the other day at the Philadelphia navy yard of two new 1500-ton destroyers, the Cassin and the Shaw. Each boat will cost approximately $2,700,000 for hull and machinery.

Contrast that with bills that were incurred a generation ago, when the United States bean to rebuild its fleet following the post-Civil War letdown. The Olympia, a heavy cruiser used as Admiral Dewey's flagship at Manila Bay, cost almost exactly what one of these new destroyers will cost.

In other words, the cost of building one of the lighter craft, which a first rate navy must number by the dozen, is equal to the cost of a main unit of the fleet a generation ago. No wonder modern navies are expensive!

One statistician reports there are 2,000,000 golfers in the United States. Another lets us know that 1,655,847 golf balls were manufactured last year. Now, what did some of the players use?

If Professor Tugwell will bring back from Europe the money European nations owe us, we'll no longer hold against him the fact that he is a Brain Truster.

Someone stole two mountain lions from the Salt Lake City zoo. Some gangster probably wanting to show how tough he was.

Today's One-Minute Sermon

Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord: though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool.

If ye be willing and obedient, ye shall eat the good of the land:

But if ye refuse and rebel, ye shall be devoured by the sword: for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it.—Isaiah, 1:18-20.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

THE free-for-all fight to succeed the late Henry T. Rainey as speaker of the house has now reached the whispering-campaign stage. Getting away from sotto voce stuff it may be reported that all other candidates are working hard to either beat Rep. Joe Byrns of Tenn., or make an advantageous deal involving the floor leadership or chairmanship of the rules committee. Byrns, as leader under Rainey, has summoned up precedent to prove he should be elevated to the speaker's chair. His followers claim he has 30 per cent of last session's Democratic membership already pledged.

At the moment backers of Byrns are busy undermining the candidacy of Rep. Sam Rayburn of Texas. It has been reported frequently that Rayburn would be the White House choice if the other end of Pennsylvania avenue was going to get into the fight.

Byrns adherents are passing the word around that Ray Moley overplayed his hand when he journeyed to Texas recently to see Rayburn—following which the two of them went into consultation with Vice President Garner.

The Byrns men are reasoning—perhaps too hopefully—that Secretary of State Cordell Hull will get mad about Moley's alleged activities and take a hand in the situation himself. Hull, as a former Tennessee senator, is a power in southern politics and it is well known he has no love for Moley.

Hitting at the candidacy of Rep. William B. Bankhead of Ala. the Byrnsites are pointing out to their southern brethren what would happen if Bankhead should step out of his present job as chairman of the powerful Rules committee. Rep. John J. O'Connor of New York would succeed him.

O'Connor is a Tammany man. So is Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, who leads the senate rules committee. Two Tammanyites regulating congresional procedure is calculated to scare southern congressmen.

On the other side, opposing candidates are muttering that Byrns is taking an unfair advantage of his job as chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee.

With elections drawing near they point out how easily Byrns can lend aid to a man pledged to vote for him and withhold it from one who refuses to line up. Those who promote this story decline to mention specific instances, however.

Some observers are beginning to think such a cat-and-dog fight will develop among those originally in the field that the speakership ultimately will go west. In that connection, Rep. Clarence F. Lea, of California, has just tossed his hat in the ring.

PROPHET: Senator James Hamilton Lewis, one of the keenest men on the Hill, foresees radicalism in the next congress. He predicts that increasing left-wing sentiment will result in these demands in 1936:

Creation of a central bank with countrywide branches and abolition of private banking.

Collection of all taxes by the government and apportionment of taxes to the states for their needs.

Establishment of one system of courts under federal jurisdiction.

Creation of a federal constabulary to supersede to a large degree the state and local police forces.

This is thinking ahead with a vengeance, but present tendencies point in the direction indicated by Senator Lewis.

BRAINS: If the Federal Housing Administration fails to click opponents of the New Deal won't be able to lay it on the Brain Trust.

President Roosevelt very carefully let Administrator James A. Moffett, former vice president of the Standard Oil company, pick his own top personnel. There isn't a so-called theorist or college professor among them.

Deputy Administrator Albert L. Deane in charce of the home renovizing and repair campaign is on leave of absence from the presidency of the General Motors Holding corporation. Deputy Administrator J. Howard Ardrey in charge of the new-home drive is a retired vice president of the Guaranty Trust company.

Steward McDonald, special assistant to the administrator, was a banker and auto manufacturer. Roger Steffan, director of modernization credits, is a vice president of the National City bank on leave. W. D. Flanders, director of field organization, was vice president of the Congoleum company. James D. Dusenberry, director of construction and real estate, is still president of the United Fire-Proof Construction company. Miles L. Colean, director of the technical department, has his own firm of architects in Chicago. Comptroller Theodore D. Nickson was a tax specialist and accountant with a national practice.

FHA is one alphabetical agency where brains trained in big business are in complete command.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

YOU hear caustic comment in financial quarters about the sudden revival of inflation talk last week. The President's remarks about the need for higher prices, Senator Bulkley's intimations of devaluation below 50 cents and Professor Warren's White House visit—all at virtually the same moment—don't particularly alarm conservatives but do irritate them plenty.

The timing is the point. On Monday October 8 there was a strong hint from responsible Washington quarters that price-raising experiments had been abandoned. On Wednesday, October 10, this attitude was apparently completely reversed. Wall Street sharps ask if it was pure coincidence that inflationary sentiment was given a boost at the precise moment when the treasury's books had been closed on its operation of converting 4th Liberties—"before the ink was dry."

Anti-New Dealers complain that such opportunism was a trifle too flagrant and ask, how they can believe any statement of policy that comes out of Washington. Actually they do not take the inflation threat seriously—believing it will again be mostly taken out in psychology.

Meanwhile the Commitee for the Nation and other inflationary groups are preparing for a strenuous siege of congress on this issue as well as on the central bank. They haven't been exactly idle while congress was out of session and are set to cut loose with a continuous and devastating barrage. Astute New Yorkers predict that inflationists of one sort and another will be the president's special hair shirt early next year.

BETTER: Retail trade has improved amazingly in the last few weeks. An informed and conservative New York authority estimates that current business for department, chain and mail order stores is showing signs of going places. J. C. Penney & Co.'s record earning statement indicates the trend. So does the fact that Sears Roebuck has had to step on the gas to keep its southern stores stocked with goods. Wall Street is optimistic and sees a basis for a sounder and more sustained rise in industrial earnings and security prices than any which has been visible since the depression began.

New York skeptics still find two aspects of the gain to criticize. One is their contention that the principal impetus for all this spending comes from government largese. Statistics show that trade is relatively strongest in the districts which have benefitted most from federal generosity. Conservatives still preach the doctrine of a balanced budget but many of them are frankly fearful of the deflationary effects if their advice were heeded.

The other is that improvement si strictly confined to consumers' goods. Heavy industry still shows no sign of emerging from its rut and it isn't safe to bet that permanent recovery is here until it does.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE TOMBS OF THE LIVING

The Greeks who inhabited Sicily in ancient times built a rockhewn necropolis (burial ground) near Syracuse. In modern days the necropolis has been employed to house the living instead of the dead. Generations have been born, lived and have gone to their reward within the same tombs formerly occupied by Greek corpses. Here the order of life is curiously reversed. The inhabitants of the tombs leave them only after they die, when they are interred outside the Tomb City.

DRUNK AS A LORD

This description has been coined in derision of Henry Baron Brougham and Vaux, one of the greatest English statesmen and one of its most powerful orators (1778-1868).

As Lord Chancellor he delivered one of the longest and most impressive speeches on record on behalf of the Reform Bill of 1832. He spoke for eight hours, keeping up his energy with draughts of port and cognac. At the end of the oration he fell on his knees and remained kneeling to pray that the Reform Bill be passed. His friends who noticed that he had drunk 15 water tumblers full of the beverage, thought that he was unable to rise. He was picked up bodily and seated on the woolsack. The opponents of the Reform Bill seized upon this incident the next day when the expression came into being.

BEACH CLUB GIRL

By Mabel McElliott

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BOOTS RAEBURN, 18 and pretty, belongs to the younger set at Larchneck, fashionable New York suburb. The Raeburns have had financial reverses. SYLVIA RIVERS, richest girl in town, is giving a party at the Yacht Club and Boots is heartbroken because she is not invited. She accepts a last-minute invitation to a dinner to be given the same night as Sylvia's party by MRS. WATERMAN, one of Larchneck's social arbiters.

Boots overhears her crowd laughing about her acceptance of the dinner invitation and is crused by this unkindness. That night at the Yacht Club she meets HARDY WHITMORE, one of Sylvia's guests, and he urges her to come for a ride in his sailboat.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IV

At Sylvia's table the glasses were filled and emptied and filled again. Great red roses in a crystal vase drooped in the heat and smoke and scattered their petals on the white cloth. Food cooled on the plates while girl and boy laughed, talked, danced and wandered back again.

Meanwhile, Hardy's absence did not go unnoticed. Patty's sharp eyes instantly caught it. Isabel was conscious of his departure and Sylvia herself, although apparently ignoring it, was perfectly aware of his defalcation.

One of the boys, with the male's delicious usual obtuseness, inquired casually, "Where's Hardy got to?" Isabel pressed her small slipper against his instep, signaling for silence.

It did not matter, really, Isabel said to herself, annoyedly. There were more than enough men to go around. Why did they always have to kowtow to Sylvia—save her feelings? She would not admit, even privately, the hold that Sylvia had on the crowd. Sylvia's parties, Sylvia's money and her big car and the orchids that she wore so unconsciously, impressed them. Some of them were in her debt, in a way, and had to curry favors. Laddie's father worked for Mr. Rivers and when Patty's allowance fell short it was Sylvia who came forward, Isabel happened to know, and paid for luncheon tips, trips into the city, even silk stockings somtimes.

"As for me, I don't owe her anything," Isabel reflected, with satisfaction. Ah, but didn't she, really? Sylvia had made her accept that black chiffon dress, when they were in the play together. Isabel had borrowed it to play Mrs. Hustings, in "Not for a Day," up at the high school, and later Sylvia had said, with apparent carelessness: "I want you to keep it. No, but really, I mean it."

Isabel had been tempted beyond her strength. The black chiffon had made her creamy skin look creamier; it had brought out every single glint in her copper-colored hair. It was the sophisticated sort of frock young girls dream about and their mothers refuse to buy for them.

So she had kept it. And she had found, after that, it was not so easy to be simple and natural with Sylvia. It was easier to fall in with her mood, play up to her, bite back the contradictions that rose to one's lips when Sylvia made one of her cool, outrageous, extravagant pronouncements.

Sylvia had not been able to buy Boots—had not, in very truth, tried. No, from the instant they had met, between the two girls it had been war—to the knife. And now (Isabel thought Boots was committing the crowning crime of all, walking off with Sylvia's man. At least, she supposed Hardy was with Boots. When last seen, his bright head had been bent over Boots' gilt one, their steps had melted together like so much liquid poetry. Boots, in her one pretty frock, Isabel said to herself loyally, was better than a dozen Sylvias.

"This party's died on its feet," Sylvia announced, suddenly in a silence. "Let's do something. How about Henry's?"

If she weren't the hostess, Isabel reflected, they'd all be perfectly frank about it and say they wanted to stay and see the thing through.

The party was as good as it had ever been, only Sylvia's long dark eyes were narrowed now, her mouth was set in a petulant line. Sylvia was very angry.

They gathered up their things; Sylvia's white and silver bag, her frothy wrap, Patty's compact, Isabel's lipstick. It was late, Isabel thought. The older women had begun to look tired. And Boots Raeburn was not at Mrs. Waterman's table. Oh, well—

Just as Isabel skirted the musicians' dais, a shout went up out of doors. One of the men who always hung around the club—not exactly an attendant, just one of the "regulars" in blue jeans and a battered cap, went running down the pier. Isabel heard the words, "Man overboard." She ran, too. Everybody, it seemed, was on the pier at once: hatless girls in frail frocks, men in dinner clothes, their eyes searching the black horizon.

"Young fools!" she heard a white-haired, moustached man say, angrily. Then someone cried, "They've got him," and the words ran from mouth to mouth. Hardy . . . it was Hardy . . . and everyone

E. B. Speck Gives His Opportunities Concerning Present Events

Editor, The Avalanche: Now, that the campaign of civic thinking and action is getting well under way, some further observations with reference to this matter might not be inappropriate.

The City of Lubbock has had a history of about 43 years of good citizenship, and good government. She is proud of the past, appreciative of the present, incurably ambitious and optimistic as to the future.

With her rapid growth, and ever increasing population, together with the reckless propaganda put over for the defeat of national prohibition and in an attempt to defeat local option, it need not be surprising that she is threatened with an epidemic of lawlessness. Law violations, like some other kinds of epidemics, when neglected, spread very rapidly and soon develop into a malignant stage with tragic results. The only remedy known to civilization for such condition is that of law enforcement. It is not law enforcement that gives a city a bad name, but a failure to do so, when needed will injure the character and reputation of any community.

A call to action has been made. After some healthy discussion, as to what the liquor law is, of proper jurisdiction, and some other matters, our officers both of the county and city have pledged themselves anew to better enforcement. In this matter they deserve to be and have been congratulated. These officers will have the intelligent sympathy and cooperation of every man who cares to make the right use of his citizenship.

We are indebted to the members of the Pastors' conference of this city for the initiation of this revival of good citizenship. These men need no commendation or defense from this writer but he does believe they deserve to be congratulated.

It seems to have been known by many of our people here, as well as by many citizens of other towns, that the liquor law was being openly, flagrantly and glaringly violated. Such condition, where local option has been so recently, and repeatedly maintained, with an increasing majority, is nothing less than the very antithesis of democracy itself. These pastors as responsible citizens, were not only within their right in calling for action in this matter but they were under weighty obligation to do so.

As citizens, preachers helped to found this government and give to the civilized world the first example of a free church in a free state. Why should they not be interested in helping to maintain that which they helped to found?

More important still, these pastors have a gospel of personal salvation for the individual, but not only that, they have a gospel of social purity, of public morality, and of national righteousness for all men, every where. The Book of Revealed Religion is shot through and through with this doctrine. The real preacher does not receive his commission or message, from men or government, but from the Divine Founder of christianity Himself.

It may, therefore, be expected that these pastors will continue to thunder from the pulpit, platform, and press the doctrine of the majesty, and moral dignity of the law and the righteousness of its observance and enforcement, until the civic character becomes crystallized and definitely set to the destiny determining task of maintaining an environment conductive to the education and character development of the teeming young life of this community.

These young people are already here by the thousands, and we can hear the tramp of the feet of other thousands who are coming to these fine city schools and to this great state institution of higher learning. The citizenship of this fair city of the Southwest has assumed a moral obligation for this young life which obligation, is simply inescapable. Nor will any chivalrous man or queenly woman undertake to escape it.

TARZAN AND THE LOST EMPIRE, No. 29

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The girl's heart was filled with admiration for this strange giant, who, though he was evidently a barbarian, looked more the patrician than Fastus himself. As Fastus attacked afresh, there was a swift movement on the part of his antagonist. A brown hand shot beneath the Roman's guard.

Fastus found his wrist gripped in steel fingers. An instant later his sword clattered to the tile walk of the courtyard. At the same moment, two white men and a negro hurried breathlessly into the garden and ran forward, two with daggers, and one, the black, with a sword.

They saw Tarzan standing between Fastus and the girl. They saw the man in the grip of the stranger. They saw the sword on the ground, and naturally they reached the one conclusion, that Fastus was being worsted in a valiant attempt to protect the girl against the giant stranger.

Tarzan saw them coming toward him and realized that three to one were heavy odds. He was upon the point of using Fastus as a shield against his new enemies when the girl stepped before the three and motioned them to stop. She addressed Tarzan in a strange language.

Famed Cellist To Play Here

Julien Blitz Enjoys Great Fame As Musician; Piano Accompaniment Will Be By His Wife

Julien Paul Blitz, artist cellist, head of the department of music at Texas Technological college, will be presented in concert at Lubbock High school auditorium Tuesday evening by the high school orchestra. He will be assisted by his wife, Flora Blitz, pianist and accompanist.

Mr. and Mrs. Blitz are well known in the field of music. They came here this year from Sherman, where Mr. Blitz was head of stringed instruments and director of choral music at Kidd-Key college. He taught at Austin college. Mr. Blitz, a native of Ghent, Belgium, was trained in the Royal Conservatory in his native city. He studied chamber music with Paul LeBurn of the Louvain conservatory. His father was Edouard Blitz, physician and composer, and his mother was the former Miss Mattie Miller, American pianist and pupil of Joseph Wieniawski.

Mr. and Mrs. Blitz came to Sherman from San Antonio where Mrs. Blitz, pianist for the San Antonio Symphony, was considered a rival of her husband in the field of music, according to newspaper clippings from that city. Mr. Blitz was director of the San Antonio symphony orchestra. Both were leaders in other musical circles in that city.

Gandhi Aide

got her first introduction to an American cafeteria, where she handpicked her spinach, grapefruit, lettuce and tomato salad and carrots and ate them without water, flavored with cream, talking American impressions all the while.

"Amazing really!" was her comment on the cafeteria. "Such a good idea, I think, to be able to see your vegetables, instead of trying to find them on the menu card."

Miss Slade doesn't like the heat of American dwellings or the cold of American ice water but she does thoroughly enjoy the American people.

"I do not like the headlong rush that the machine age has brought about. The wonderful thing is that people here are so delightful in the midst of such a mechanized life," she said.

Stocks

WALL STREET REPORT

By FREDERICK GARDNER
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Trading currents flowed sluggishly in financial markets today; Flashes of strength in packing shares and specialties brightened stocks a bit, but the main drift there, as in most categories, was toward slightly lower levels.

Speculation seemed to be marking time awaiting fresh incentive.

The Standard Statistics Co. average for 90 selected stocks slipped three-tenths of a point to 72. Turnover was a little lower, totaling 655,110 shares against 662,210 yesterday.

Gossip of inventory appreciation, predictions of higher meat prices next year and reorganization plans in brokerage quarters accompanied the advance of the packing shares. Oil stocks felt the bearish influence of spreading gasoline price cuts. Standard of New Jersey dipped to the lowest price recorded this year within a fraction of 40, but closed off less than a point.

Copper shares listed a bit as a move by Kennecott to cut domestic production called attention to the industry's current position.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 18 (AP) — The cotton market was quiet today and prices fluctuated within a narrow range with a slight tendency toward lower levels. After declining 5 to 6 points on hedge selling, the market rallied, gaining 9 to 11 points on covering and trade buying, but dropped again the late trading practically to the early lows on hedge selling and in sympathy with eastern stocks. The close was barely steady at or near the bottom with prices showing net declines for the day of 3 to 4 points.

December closed at 12.34, down 4 points net for the day, January at 12.38, down 3 points net and March at 12.45, down 4 points net.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 1 to 2 penny points down.

Port receipts 22,000, for week 160,488, for season 1,785,984, last season 2,843,389. Exports 26,316, for week 119,141, for season 1,045,379, last season 1,974,883. Port stock 3,021,289, last year 3,827,284. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 89,218, last year 155,865. Spot sales of southern markets 27,437, last year 39,587.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP) — Cotton was comparatively quiet today and prices moved irregularly within a range of 9 or 10 points. Rallies from an opening decline on covering and trade buying were followed by reactions and December contracts after selling up from 12.31 to 12.40 closed at 12.32 with the general market steady at net declines of 5 to 6 points.

The opening was barely steady at a decline of 3 to 6 points in response to disappointing Liverpool cables and some scattered southern selling. The light offerings were absorbed by trade interests however, and the market steadied up shortly after the call. Reports of a continued firm spot situation and overnight advices indicating a fair business in the cotton cloth market yesterday, probably contributed to the rally which carried May up from the early low of 12.45 to 12.56. Active months generally showed rallies of 9 to 10 points from liquidation and there was a little more southern selling or hedging in the late trading. Closing quotations were within a point or two of the lowest for the day.

Overnight reports from Washington that the agricultural adjustment administration is expected to announce its cotton control program for 1935 sometime next month, came in for discussion and the uncertainty in that connection was referred to as a restricting influence on general business. Exports today 31,009 making 1,71,723 so far this season. Port receipts 35,184. U. S. port stocks 3,022,829.

Choice weighty heifers went at 7.50-75.

Some reaction occurred in hog prices today from the low time of Wednesday. Trade was steady to 25, most 10-15, above Wednesday's quotations. Weights below 160 lbs. show the least advance, selling no better than steady at some centers. The best price around the circuit was 5.90 at Chicago for choice medium weights.

Slaughter lambs ruled unevenly weak to 25, mostly 15-25, under yesterday's figures at river points while at Chicago the bulk ruled strong to 25 higher in an active trade. Kidnap Trail son, though, if he is caught," the attorney added.

Huggins, after a talk with his client who had spent an almost sleepless night in jail, declared she was "absolutely in the clear," and that he would seek to have her bail reduced to "about $5,000."

"She knew nothing of the kidnaping until her husband telephoned her from Indianapolis that he was the kidnaper," Huggins said.

Worked With Officers

He declared she worked in cooperation with federal and state authorities in Nashville, went to Indianapolis, knowing she was trailed by federal agents, protected Mrs. Stoll and refused to flee with her husband, but came back to Louisville at Mrs. Stoll's request.

Mrs. Robinson had pleaded yesterday upon arraignment that she be allowed to get in touch with Mrs. Stoll. The latter's brother-in-law, George Stoll, and his wife, yesterday visited department of justice headquarters and requested she "be made as comfortable as possible," but there was no further known action on their part today.

New Evidence

some weeks on the carpenter job after March 1, 1932, the date of the Lindbergh kidnaping.

Hauptmann testified at the habeas corpus hearing that he either worked at the Majestic apartments on that day or waited at an employment agency for a job.

Whereabouts Fixed

Furcht's statements, which were substantiated by E. V. C. Prescia, employment agency head, definitely fixed the prisoner's whereabouts.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz, of New Jersey, who conferred with Bronx officials during the afternoon, said the prosecution was not concerned by the new disclosures.

"The prosecution," said Wilentz of these disclosures, "is not disturbed by the statements alleged to have been made. The employment agency head was questioned before by authorities and his evidence discarded as not being helpful. The reported statement, in our judgment, if made at the hearing on the writ of habeas corpus would not have affected the outcome of the case."

Wilentz was asked if authorities were still searching for accomplices in the kidnaping.

"We are not looking for anyone," he said.

"Are you convinced that Hauptmann acted alone in this case?"

"That's our feeling," he replied.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Oct. 18 (AP) — Notable rallying power showed itself in the wheat market today, and practically conquered an early downward trend of prices.

Recoveries were in line with action in foreign markets, especially firmness in Buenos Aires, where the prices of wheat and the price of corn became virtually identical. In various quarters, much attention was given to the fact that the new Argentine wheat crop is at the critical period of growth, and there were numerous suggestions that the quality of wheat at present on hand in Argentina may be somewhat inferior, a circumstance increasing likelihood of augmented demand for wheat north of the equator.

Wheat in Chicago closed steady at the same as yesterday's finish to 1-2 cent advance, May 81.06 1-4@1-4, corn May 86 3-8@1-2, oats 1-8 to 1-4 down and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2 cents.

Aproval Made In Tax Policy

Graated Scale Of Penalties Would Be Imposed; Discount For Prompt Payment Would Be One Feature

cent at the end of six months. Interest would be charged during the first six months' delinquency after which the four per cent charge would be added.

Relief Always Given

For the past several years the legislature has adopted at virtually every session, a bill to remit penalty and interest on delinquent taxes.

The bill would overcome the objection that the legislature is penalizing those who pay their taxes promptly and favoring those who allow their taxes to become delinquent," Representative Hughes asserted.

"It would get rid of the exorbitant penalties that accrue the first day of delinquency and permit taxpayers to pay at lesser rates during the first months of delinquency. Many taxpayers unable to pay during the tax period often could pay a few months later if they were not assessed present high penalties and interest."

Validity Questioned

Constitutionality of the discount provision of the bill has been questioned. It would be optional on cities, towns and independent school districts. It also continues the present provisions for split tax payments.

A bill by Representative W. E. Pope of Corpus Christi, passed yesterday by the house, was one of those up for hearing before a senate committee. It would be mandatory on all subdivisions and would release statutory penalties and interest, but would levy a light scale of penalties from one to six per cent for payment by Dec. 31, 1935. The penalty would be one per cent until next May 31.

A senate bill, by Roy Sanderford of Belton, would release all penalties and interest on taxes delinquent Aug. 1 until next Feb. 1. Remission would be mandatory on all subdivisions.

Probe Is Sought

As an aftermath to a demonstration by several hundred Travis county relief clients, who protested against alleged injustices of Travis county relief officials, an investigation of all phases of relief administration was proposed in the house.

A resolution favorably reported by committee would give a committee of five wide powers to inquire into relief conditions over the state. The committee would report to the next regular session of the legislature.

Hearings on five bills to raise revenue for the Texas centennial were set for Tuesday and Wednesday nights before the house committee on revenue and taxation.

Aged Fisherman Takes Treasure Secret To Grave

LUBEC, Me., Oct. 18. (AP)—Somewhere off the sandy shores of Nova Scotia lies the treasure of the British ship, Black Prince, its location a dead man's secret.

A Nova Scotia fisherman named Conley died in a small shack here, failing at the last moment to arouse himself sufficiently to draw a chart of the treasure's resting place.

The Black Prince, according to the ship's log found floating near the southern end of Nova Scotia, left London in 1840 with money to pay off of British garrison at Halifax. The last entry in the log said the vessel was in the teeth of a heavy gale.

Conley claimed the ship struck a sunken ledge and her crew drowned to a man. Fishing near Sandy Cove, he dragged up a piece of iron hoop, to which clung a stave of oak. On the inner side of the stave were milled edge markings of large denomination coins, Conley said.

For years Conley held his secret, fearing the government might step in and salvage the treasure. At last coming to this town, he cautiously opened negotiations for salvage operations, displaying the articles he had found.

A diver and a vessel were engaged for the search, but before operations started Conley died of old age. He left but a hazy verbal description of the spot.

Texas Real Estate Men Are To Push Retail Sales Tax

DALLAS, Oct. 18. (AP)—B. H. Majors, president of the Dallas real estate board, said today that a group of Texas real estate men representing the Texas Association of Real Estate Boards, would present at the next session of the legislature a sales tax bill, calling for the assessment of a 3 per cent tax on the gross receipts of all Texas retail stores.

He said the Texas association would meet in Austin January 17, 1935, for a final conference before offering the bill, which was prepared by a special committee of the association, headed by H. E. Dickinson of San Antonio.

Forty-Nine Persons Treated After Being Bitten By Dog

GRAHAM, Oct. 18. (AP)—First injections of anti-rabies serum were given today to 49 persons here after a small brown-and-black puppy which snapped at scores of school children and adults last Sunday and Monday was found by a laboratory in Fort Worth to have been suffering from rabies.

The dog was kept under observation and died yesterday afternoon. The animal's head was sent to Fort Worth for examination immediately. Serum was rushed from Dallas and by this morning, a list of 50 names of persons needing treatment had been compiled.

"Strike Oil" In Lowly Fish's Liver

Swordfish's Liver Produces Oil Said To Be One Hundred Times As Efficient In Vitamins As Cod Liver Oil

BY SIGRID ARNE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. (AP) — Just a few years ago American fisheries were dumping a potential million dollars a year into the sea in the form of swordfish livers. It was believed there was no use for them.

Now they are about to go on the market in the form of an oil said to have proved one hundred times as efficient in vitamins as cod liver oil.

This follows a few years intensive laboratory experimenting started by the bureau of fisheries' technical division headed by John Ruel Manning, and by collateral work in commercial laboratories.

Chemists Eyed Local Fish

Until recently there was an assumption that cod liver oil was in a class by itself, Manning points out. But the United States imports 90 per cent of the three to four million gallons of cod liver oil it consumes every year. That seemed like a lot of money going out of the country. Chemists cast an appraising eye on the fish caught along American shores.

They said they discovered other fish livers were not only as good as cod livers in their vitamin content, but better, and some oils could be produced less expensively.

Halibut liver oil has been the last flurry in the pharmaceutical market as a result of the experiments. Now comes swordfish liver oil for which are claimed even more vitamins.

Based on the price of cod liver oil, swordfish liver oil has a potential retail value of $400 a gallon, Manning estimates. And American fisheries can scoop enough swordfish from the New England, Middle Atlantic and Pacific shore waters to produce 2,500 gallons of liver oil a year.

Fishermen now get 30 cents a pound for the livers they once threw away.

Human infants are not the only babies that have to take their doses of liver oil. It seems baby chicks take an even larger quantity each year to make them grow and eventually produce bigger and better eggs.

Sardine Oil Cheaper

Fish liver oil is almost a necessity in a small child's diet, but many mothers never have been able to afford it. Farmers paid $1.50 to $2 a gallon for cod liver oil just to give their chicks the right start in the world.

Then the chemists found California sardine oil carried as many vitamins as cod liver oil and could be used for chicks. The sardine oil retails at 50 to 75 cents a gallon.

In all, chemists say they have found enough fish and fish liver oils from the American catch to keep the huge annual tonic business at home.

Letup Forecast In Heavy Rains In California Areas

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18. (AP)—A letup was forecast tonight in the torrential rains that have beaf down on Los Angeles and its suburbs for 48 hours, claiming one life, causing at least $150,000 in damage, and indirectly causing six deaths in traffic accidents.

One man was missing. He was Leo D. Dean, 25, who was in the flood's path in the foothills, and fears were expressed that he may have been drowned.

One body was recovered, that of Donald Butterworth, 11, who was swept down a big storm drain.

France Plans Shock Troops

Speedier And Bigger Professional Army To Be France's Contribution To The Military Forces Of Europe

PARIS, Oct. 18. (AP)—A speedier and a bigger professional army will be France's contribution next year to the military forces of Europe.

A body of shock troops, highly trained and lightning fast with completely motorized equipment, is envisaged by the general staff. Able to move at a moment's notice, it would be used to plug up the few remaining holes in France's frontier defense until her reserve army could be made ready for battle.

In order to test the capabilities of reserves to do such work, the general staff called out a complete division of conscripts for the first time in France's peacetime history.

The division, 9,000 strong, was pitted against seasoned regulars in a series of maneuvers along the German border. The conscripts were commanded entirely by reserve officers and non-coms, as would be the case in war.

Unprepared For Rigors

Two weeks of exhausting maneuvers convinced the general staff that, however excellent the reserves' morale, they were physically and mentally unprepared to cope with veteran professional troops.

Stressing the fact that it is often the first battle that decides the outcome of a war, military observers decided reserves are incapable of taking the offensive without a month or more of training.

"They can kill but they can't conquer," was the remark made by one observer.

Approaches Legal Limit

Next year France will have 174,000 professional soldiers and 285,000 conscripts on the war department's rolls. This year there were 162,000 professionals and 263,000 conscripts. In addition, there must be counted a number of colonial troops paid and recruited by the colonies themselves and nearly 50,000 members of the guard mobile, a sort of federal police force under the control of the ministry of interior. France's total armed forces will approach the legal limit of 603,000.

The plan for the shock troops calls for 78,000 men, divided into six armored-car brigades manned by 21,000 men, six motorized infantry brigades with 36,000 men, and six motorized artillery brigades with another 21,000 men.

Trio Held In Man's Slaying

Body Of Victim Found Friday Near Fairfield Is Believed To Be That Of Missing Witness In Trial

HOUSTON, Oct. 18. (AP)—Federal authorities here said today that they believed a body found near Fairfield Tuesday was that of Alton E. Gibson, 18, government witness in a counterfeiting case, and charged that three men had been charged with murder in state court at Fairfield in connection with the slaying.

Gibson, a Houston youth, had been summoned as a witness in the counterfeiting trial here yesterday but did not appear. At that time, Albert Thomas, assistant United States attorney announced to the court that it was the government's information that "Gibson was spirited out of the city."

Three Are Charged

The men charged at Fairfield were Grady Faulkner, 30, of Van Baden, and his nephews, Ellis Black, 19, and George Black of Houston.

A counterfeiting case against Faulkner was tried here yesterday and he was sentenced to four years imprisonment notwithstanding the person's absence.

Counterfeiting charges against the Black brothers had not yet been brought to trial.

Esthal Black at present is in the Conroe jail on a burglary charge. George Black was arrested at his home this morning and jailed here and Faulkner is held at Galveston awaiting transfer to the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth.

Bound With Wire

The decomposed body of the man believed to be Gibson was found bound with barbed wire to a motor block in the dense underbrush of the Keechi creek bottom, seven miles southwest of Fairfield. The man apparently had been slain about four weeks previously. Authorities were seeking to establish his identity through dental work done by a dentist.

Thomas asserted that four witnesses in the counterfeiting case had been intimidated.

The first intimation that Gibson might have been slain came about a month ago when relatives called U. S. Marshal M. Frank Hammond and said they feared for Gibson's life. They told him that Gibson had been seen with one of the members of the alleged counterfeiting gang in an automobile belonging to another member and that they feared the youth would be harmed.

BEACH CLUB GIRL

By Mabel McElliott

knew he was a whiz with a sailboat. What could have happened? The night was calm, the sound was running smooth as black glass.

Isabel's heart began to beat very fast. She was fond of Boots—always had been. What if anything had happened to Boots?

She had lost the others now: Sylvia and Patty and Laddie were nowhere to be seen. She tried to see over the shoulders of a tall man just in front of her and failed. Isabel was thoroughly frightened now. She pushed her way through the crowd, back toward the clubhouse. Some of the younger people were making a great joke of the whole thing.

"Well, if they will get sloshed!" she heard a high, giddy voice saying, merrily. Isabel was terribly angry. Imagine anyone making fun of anything so terribly serious.

Boots wasn't there. Oh, Isabel said to herself, wildly and despairingly—the worst had happened. Hardy had upset the boat. Boots, tangled in those fluttering skirts, had been lost. Boots was a fine swimmer, but you couldn't do much with a long dress wound around you. Foolish, foolish, unhappy Boots! Isabel felt somehow responsible for her. She had seen hurt and bewilderment in the girl's eyes that night, as she danced by. It was the fault of all of them. . . .

"I can't — can't bear it." Isabel sobbed soundlessly to herself, huddled against some hawthorn bushes in the bank of shrubbery surrounding the house.

Suddenly she heard her name called in the stillness, 'Isabel! Isabel!"

She trembled all over. Was it true, then, that ghosts came back to haunt you? It was a ghostly voice, faint and far away, and yet it was Boots' voice, surely!

"What?" she quavered bravely. "Who is it?" She peered into the blackness, unable to distinguish anything.

"It's me—Boots," said the voice readily. "I'm here in the summer house."

Isabel demolished the space between the shrubbery and the oldistic, embroidered summer house in two jumps. Yes, it was Boots Raeburn and not her ghost who sat huddled in the shadow.

"What on earth's the matter?" Isabel's teeth were chattering. She sat as though she were going to be sick.

"There's such a racket down on the pier," Boots said in a fretful voice. "I didn't know what to do. I've lost my shoes—"

"Lost your shoes?" The full tide of relief flowed over Isabel. She reached out a tentative hand, gripping her friend's shoulder. "You're not—not wet," she said with apparent irrelvance.

"No, of course not. Why should I be? I can't think what's wrong with everybody tonight," Boots complained. "The whole world seems to have gone crazy or something. Everyone ranting and screaming down on the pier like a crowd of Fijis. . . ."

"Oh, Boots, darling!" Isabel laughed aloud, from sheer relief. "I though . . . I was sure . . ."

"And now the thing is, I must get home—but how?" Boots demanded, unheeding. "That foolish boy! When I wouln't go sailing with him he picked me up and ran and my shoes dropped off . . . and I got away from him and dashed and hid here. He went off in the boat himself but I couldn't find my shoes anywhere and I guess I had a good cry—don't tell anyone I'm such a fool, Izzy darling, and I must have been asleep . . ."

The relief of hearing her say the commonplace words, plaintively, complainingly, was exquisite. Isabel hugged her.

"Oh, Hardy's boat tipped over," she said, "and I thought you'd gone with him . . . my mind was just in a whirl . . ."

"I hope he's all right," Boots contributed, "although he did act terribly and I was frightened for a minute, and Mrs. Waterman will never forgive me, that's certain. I can't explain . . ."

"The thing now," Isabel said, "is to get you home. Oh, if I'd only brought the roadster! I wanted to, but Laddie offered to drive me . . ." She considered the situation a moment, her bright eyes thoughtful.

"Look," she offered, in the silence, "I'll tell Mrs. Waterman you were taken ill—that you went off to the dressing room and didn't feel equal to coming back. That crab-meat at supper," said Isabel viciously, "was enough to set anybody off."

"No, no, he'd never believe it," Boots said despondently. "It sounds silly. If I had my shoes I'd go in and explain to her myself—tell the whole story. But I can't go back in there like this."

Isabel shrugged her shoulders. "I suppose you can't."

"Could you get Laddie or somebody and have him drive over into the curve and I'd make a dash for it?" Boots wanted to know.

"I'll drive Larry's car myself," Isabel decided. "He left the keys in it. He always does. I'll just run you home and come back later. Look, when I whistle you come. I'll have the engine running—"

Boots waited apprehensively in the darkness. The crowd on the veranda had thinned now. Attendants could be seen, moving about in the big lighted rooms, straightening chairs, clearing littered tables. The orchestra played "Home, Sweet Home."

Still Isabel did not come. Boots head ached. She was desperately trying to fend off thoughts of the morrow—of her apologies to an angry and incredulous hostess; of the giggles which would be her portion if the story got around. But just now all she could afford to contemplate was the immediate problem. Once home, safe in her own room, she could plan for the future. . . .

There was a low whistle from the vicinity of the hydrangeas, glimmering palely in the darkness. Boots ran in that direction. The dewy grass was damp to the soles of her thin stockings. She glimpsed the roadster, heard the blessed sound of the purring motor, jumped in.

But it was not Isabel at the wheel. It was Russ Lund, the swimming instructor at the club.
