

Eleven Airmen Die as Flaming Bomber

Santa's Sallies

Santa Claus seems to have given the City Drug a present three days before Christmas. It is Bobby Tucker, a student at West Texas State College, who is helping out at the drug during the holidays. Incidentally, all of the City Drug girls sound like Christmas. They have tiny bells tied to their shoes.

One of the largest Pampa Christmas parties this year was held last night at the Country Club. Seemed as if about half of the town was at the formal dance there that was given by Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Imel, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Atkinson and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thompson.

Dr. Joe Donaldson's home decorations at 1137 N. Starkweather have everything. Scenes—lights and all the trimmings.

Girl Scout Troop 3 held an unusual kind of a Christmas party the other night. The Scouts presented a Nativity pageant after constructing the setting, arranging the lights and making the costumes.

Missing Dallas Girls Picked Up in Pampa

A 12-day search for two Dallas teen-age girls ended yesterday afternoon when they were caught shoplifting at McLellans' Store by Gale Childers, store manager.

The girls had helped themselves to two pairs of woolen socks and were spotted by Childers as they stuck them into their pockets and walked out. The girls were allowed to get on the outside and then nabbed by the manager.

Juvenile Officer H. A. Doggett said he first ran on to the two 15-year-olds on Tuesday night when he answered a call to Sie's Old Barn with Deputy Sheriff Louis Holmes. They told him that they lived in Amarillo. Doggett told them to get back to Amarillo and stay there.

When picked up yesterday they gave their names as "Catherine Johnson" and "Glorie Swinson." Both names were false.

The girls tried out some more lies on the officer, but somehow got tripped up each time. Finally Doggett found an address book on one girl and learned they were from Dallas. Later Doggett told them their pictures were going to be in all the Dallas and Fort Worth papers today. That, plus fingerprints and mugshots, should make the girls break down and give their right names, tell where they were from and what they had been doing. Evidently the two had been shoplifting to no small extent in Pampa.

Their look consisted of lipsticks, compact, wallets, and purses. A radio call to Dallas last night revealed the two were wanted as "missing" in Dallas since Dec. 8.

This morning they were on their way home with their parents after spending one night in the Pampa City Jail.

Former Dean At WT Dies

CANYON — (AP) — Dr. D. A. Shirley, 67, former dean of West Texas State College here, died yesterday afternoon at his home here.

Dr. Shirley retired as dean of the college more than a year ago because of poor health.

He had been associated with West Texas State for 35 years—since two years after the school was founded in 1911.

Dr. Shirley was head of the Physics Department, until the early 1920's when he was made associate dean and registrar. He was named dean in 1946 upon the death of Dr. R. P. Jarrett.

An early-day coach of the West Texas State Buffalo football team, Dr. Shirley was chairman of the Faculty Athletic Committee from 1915 until Sept. 1, 1948.

Pope Gives Yuletide Message to World

VATICAN CITY — (AP) — Pope Pius XII appealed today to all who believe in Jesus Christ to unite under the Roman Catholic Church in a solid front against militant advances of atheism.

The Pope's address, his annual Christmas message, was addressed to the whole world on the eve of the 1950 Holy Year. There seemed little doubt that the address was an invitation to all those professing Protestant faiths to join with the Church of Rome.

This coming Holy Year, the Pontiff said, "must be decisive, especially for the longed-for religious renewal of the modern world."

"Oh that this Holy Year could welcome also to the great return to the one true church, awaited over the centuries, of so many who, though believing in Jesus Christ, are for various reasons separated from her," he said.

"With unspoken groanings, the Spirit, who is in the hearts of good people, today cries out imploringly the same prayer of our Lord: that they may be one."

"With good reason, men are anxious about the effrontery with which the united front of militant atheism advances, and the old question is now voiced aloud: Why are there still schisms? Why will all the forces of the spirit and of love be harmoniously united?"

The Pope also expressed hope that those who have been members of the Roman Catholic Church and stayed away would return to the fold.

The Pope made a strong plea for social justice, asking both social systems of capitalism and communism — though he did not mention them by name — to return to Christianity and legitimate liberties and rights.

He criticized the negation of fundamental rights and the enslavement of men to totalitarian states.

The Pope expressed the hope that the 1950 Holy Year will be a year of peace and not of war, a year of justice and not of national egoism.

He spoke in Italian from the Vatican's consistorial hall. The speech (See POPE, Page 2)

A Good Idea

OAKLYN, N.J. — (AP) — A bar in Oaklyn today displayed this sign:

"This taproom will be closed at 9 p.m. Christmas Eve — go home and give your children a break."

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A show-down on whether to cut excise taxes appears certain to come in the early days of the session of Congress which starts Jan. 3.

The test is shaping up in the Senate where the first scheduled order of business is action on a House-passed bill to repeal the federal taxes on oleomargarine.

Pending in the Senate is a series of amendments which would slash or repeal the excise levies collected on such items as telephone bills, transportation tickets, jewelry, furs and cosmetics.

At the start the amendments were being pushed mainly by some dairy state senators who are opposed to the oleomargarine repeal.

They figured that President Truman would veto any bill which provided for a sizeable reduction of excise taxes. And they felt quite positive about it after Mr. Truman said he knew of no way to wipe out the federal deficit without a tax increase.

But just last week the President said the treasury and House Ways and Means Committee were at work, with his blessing, trying to find out whether some excise levies could be trimmed without too big a strain on the federal purse.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman's statement that he doesn't expect General Dwight D. Eisenhower to run for president brought this reaction today from Senator Humphrey (D-Minn.):

Mr. Truman could win another Presidential election right now whoever his Republican opponent might be.

Humphrey voiced his views to reporters after Mr. Truman told a news conference yesterday he and Eisenhower are friends and are going to remain friends, even if the general runs for president.

Mr. Truman said he doesn't think the wartime commander is seeking a presidential nomination, adding that he is taking Eisenhower at his word. The general's word has always been good, the President observed.

Eisenhower, who heads Columbia University, said recently he has no political angle and is not going to let talk by others make him a presidential candidate.

Some Republicans have been discussing him as a possible 1952 nominee.

Mr. Truman confirmed Eisenhower's statement that the President believed the general when the latter said in 1948 that he wasn't a candidate. At that time certain Democrats made lusty efforts to get the general in the race for their party's nomination.

The President left open the question of whether he will be available for nomination again.

Mrs. W. B. Frost Dies at Hospital

Effie Jane Frost, 86, died at 7 p.m. yesterday in a local hospital following an illness of about two years.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p.m. tomorrow from the First Christian Church with the Rev. H. H. Tyler, pastor, officiating. Graveside services will be held by the Royal Neighbors.

Mrs. Frost was born March 21, 1863, in Ohio, and married W. B. Frost in 1885. She was 64 years old when she came to Pampa from Muskogee, Okla., in 1928.

Mrs. Frost was a member of the First Christian Church and of the Royal Neighbors.

Besides her husband, she is survived by one son, Charles O. Frost of Russell, Kans.; by nine grandchildren, including Charles Madeira of Pampa; and six great-grandchildren.

Funeral services for tomorrow's services will be held at 3 p.m. today at the Blackburn-Shaw-Sims Chapel. Burial was in the Baby Garden at Fairview Cemetery.

In addition to his parents, the child is survived by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Collins and Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Stone, all of Pampa.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Seven Texas Democratic representatives just back from home say they look for a turbulent session of Congress starting Jan. 3.

They expect legislation affecting civil rights, labor, taxes and cotton to afford plenty of fireworks, they said in separate interviews today.

"I think the administration is getting ready to give civil rights measures the priority over everything else," said Rep. Ed Gossett of Wichita Falls.

"That will endanger the success of all other legislation in this Congress. It is a political appeal to the prejudice of minority groups in the big industrial areas. They may get somewhere, but I'm against all such moves."

Rep. Frank Wilson of Dallas agrees that the civil rights issue will cause bitter fights.

He commented that this issue also likely will arise in regard to the federal housing program.

"This plan of barring federal financial aid for housing where deeds contain clauses as to who shall occupy a property could wreck building programs in the South," he added.

"A federal agency is trying to put into effect by its own regulations a basic policy that Congress turned down. We rejected amendments offered by Rep. Marston (AL-NY) and Rep. Powell (D-NY) to put anti-segregation amendments into the housing and other legislation."

Rep. Wingate Lucas of Fort Worth and Grapevine said he expects hot arguments on labor bills. He added he believes the Taft-Hartley Act should be strengthened, if any change is made. The administration seeks repeal of the law.

Farm Legislation Argument Certain

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A roaring ear-splitting argument about farm legislation appeared certain today at the next session of Congress.

Congress comes back Jan. 3 and farm-minded lawmakers already have started the verbal sharp-shooting. At stake are votes of farmers and consumers in the 1950 elections.

The main prize is political control of Congress with all 435 House and 96 Senate seats at stake.

Both Republicans and Democrats expect President Truman, who often has called himself a Missouri farm boy, to increase the agricultural discussion next month in his state of the union message to Congress.

He is expected once more to urge Congress to pass the controversial farm subsidy plan proposed by Secretary of Agriculture Brannan.

This same Congress, under Democratic control, flatly rejected the Brannan plan earlier this year. Instead it ground out a complicated farm price — support program intended to continue through the vital 1950 election year the relatively high — level wartime price props.

But all congressmen remember the bitter and successful 1948 campaign in the farm belt staged by Candidate Truman and Secretary Brannan against the farm act of the 80th Republican-controlled Congress.

Actions of both the White House and Secretary Brannan point to an effort to sell the Brannan plan to farmers, consumers and other voters during the coming year.

Even its sharpest critics admit the Brannan proposals have political appeal. Instead of taking major food products that are perishable off the market with government funds in order to keep prices up, Brannan suggested consumers benefit from lower prices for milk, meats and similar farm products.

If this should reduce farm incomes below pre — determined "fair" levels, Brannan said farmers should get cash subsidies called "production payments."

Two key Republican senators, Taft of Ohio and Wherry of Nebraska, already are guessing that the Brannan plan will be a major issue next session and are sipping at it in almost every speech.

The Story of the Savior by William E. Gilroy, DD

"The Son of Man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many." (Matthew 20:28)

Jesus showed his love for children. He told his disciples, "Suffer little children, and forbid them not to come unto me: for of such is the kingdom of heaven." (Matthew 19:14)

And Jesus healed the sick: "At even ere the sun was set, The sick, O Lord, around thee lay: O, with what divers pains they met; O, with what joy they went away."

To save mankind, He died on the cross.

Special Session Stated Jan. 31

AUSTIN — (AP) — Jan. 31 looks like a good bet for the date of the special session of the Legislature.

Gov. Allan Shivers yesterday told reporters if they wanted to make a guess, that date would be "fairly accurate." Then he added:

"You wouldn't miss it over a day, if that much."

The session's primary purpose is to provide for eleemosynary support and buildings. Shivers reiterated he would try to limit the session call to that, and not open up the entire question of second year appropriations.

He said again he favored a broad base tax to meet an anticipated shortage of funds, but said he wasn't able to say yet how much would be needed.

Polio Patients Will Fly Home For Christmas

GONZALES — (AP) — Sixty polio patients today were to fly home for Christmas.

The flight was to begin this morning from the San Marcos Air Field.

Another 60 patients from the Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation will be driven to their homes in ambulances.

The fleet of planes flying the polio patients home were loaned for the purpose by various companies and individuals. Pilots and other crew members are donating their time and services.

Last year 38 patients were flown to their homes.

Youngest patient to get the Christmas vacation is Loretta Henk of New Braunfels, four months. The oldest is Mrs. Ruth Ford of Carrizo Springs. She is 28.

Norwegian Ship Made Into Propane Carrier

BEAUMONT — (AP) — A second ship converted to carry propane gas will be ready for the seas next Wednesday, Bethlehem Shipyards announced.

The company has converted the Freighter Ultrazig into a propane carrier for the Sobral Company of Oslo, Norway.

could be coupled with a request for offsetting higher taxes from other sources, including new ones.

At the last session, Democratic leaders in Congress were inclined to cold-shoulder proposals to trim excises. But support for the idea has been increasing and the prospect for a reduction now looks fairly good.

The Senate Finance Committee already has approved an amendment which would cut most excise taxes back to 1942 levels — a reduction of 50 percent or more on many items. That amendment was tacked onto a House-passed industrial alcohol bill which the Senate shelved at the last session.

The amendment, sponsored by Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.), is sure to be offered to the deomalgam measure when it comes up in the Senate.

Cabinet and held a news conference.

Opening the news conference, the President wished newsmen a merry, merry Christmas and a happy New Year and remarked that the vast majority of them have been as kind to him as he deserved.

Mr. Truman told newsmen: 1. That he does not regard Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as a candidate for president, but agreed a lot of people have been trying to make him one ever since Eisenhower left the Army. He remarked that Eisenhower himself had disavowed presidential aspirations, and said that his word is good; that it always has been.

was rebroadcast around the world in 23 languages.

The Pontiff declared the church had made advances in some parts of the world, particularly in Africa.

But he said Christians cannot ignore the grave dangers which religion faces in some countries of Europe and prostrate China.

Tomorrow the Pope will mount the steps of St. Peter's before an anticipated crowd of between 300,000 and 500,000 gathered to witness the opening of the 25th Holy Year in the church's 20 centuries of existence.

Before the year is ended more than 6,000,000 pilgrims are expected to visit Rome.

The Pope's Christmas message today, devoted almost entirely to the Holy Year jubilee, voiced more hope than did his 1948 address when he said that "souls were oppressed by the nightmare of a new war."

"Tomorrow," he said, "in opening the Holy Year, we shall be conscious of performing no mere traditional act. . . . It is a symbolic rite of high import not only for Christians but for the whole human race."

The Pope pleaded that the Holy Year "this encounter of love" might be one in which "men would pardon men."

"Let blame be destroyed," said the Pope, "May joy smile again."

Four Divorces Are Granted

Four divorces, all on grounds of cruelty, were granted during the past week by Judge Lewis M. Goodrich in 31st District Court.

Granted decrees were: Jack R. Parker from Erma Ann. They were married in May, 1931 and separated in April, 1948. The mother was awarded full custody of two minor children but no support order was entered by the court.

J. W. Helbert from Nettie E. Helbert. They were married in December, 1947 and separated in April, 1949.

Wilbert C. Wade from Mary Lou Wade. They were married in August, 1947 and separated in November, 1949.

Cynthia Irene Foran from Lois Foran. They were married in November 1921 and separated in November, 1949.

try as well as from Texas. A House agriculture subcommittee recently proposed that remedial legislation be enacted.

Rep. Teague of College Station said he will press for prompt passage of such measures but he foresees opposition from a realtors who fared well under the new law.

The Texans generally said they are inclined to support the move to repeal or at least reduce war-time excise taxes. They also said they don't like the idea of any tax boost.

Rep. Albert Thomas of Houston said government spending and taxes should both be reduced.

Rep. Paul Kidd of San Antonio and Eugene Worley of Shamrock both expressed views generally similar to those of their colleagues.

And recently, Rep. John Lyle of Corpus Christi, who was here "but went home for the holidays," predicted the new session would "see some of the bitterest debates" ever held in Congress. He said they would center around civil rights and taxes.

WSCS Members Have Husbands as Guests At Yuletide Party

Husbands of members of Circle Five of the First Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service were guests at the Christmas party at the Cities Service Recreation Hall Monday night.

Mrs. Rufe Jordan gave the story, "The Cowboy's Christmas." A picture of "The Littlest Angel," illuminated by candles, was used while the group heard the story "The Littlest Angel."

After the program was concluded the members and their guests exchanged gifts. Refreshments were served.

Those present were Mrs. Rufe Jordan, Dr. and Mrs. Orian Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Pinkie Sims, Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt Lemons, Mr. and Mrs. Don Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Joe L. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Maguire, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. E. A. McLennan, Mr. and Mrs. Don Duggan, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Balknap and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Boosa.

'Peace of Christmas' Is Program Subject At YWA Yule Party

"The Peace of Christmas" was the subject of the program for the Christmas party for the YWA of the Central Baptist Church. The party was in the home of Freda Worley and Juanita Prescott.

The program was opened with prayer, followed by group singing of "O Little Town of Bethlehem," and "Silent Night." The Scripture reading was by Patty Williams, and was followed by group discussion of "Peace" and the song "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," sung by all of the members. A prayer closed the program.

Gifts were exchanged and refreshments served. Those present were Reba Killian, Marilee Conklin, Patty Williams, Fara Mae Roenfeldt, Evelyn Patterson, Edna Gint and the hostesses.

First Baptist Esther Class Has Christmas Party and Program

The home of Mrs. A. Z. Griffin was scene of a Christmas party for members of the Esther Class of the First Baptist Church. Mrs. Griffin is teacher of the class.

The program opened with a prayer. Miss Inez Clubb gave a Christmas reading, "And Hear the Angels Sing." Miss Evelyn Clayton sang "I Wonder as I Wander," and led the group in singing carols.

Mrs. Owen Johnson gave the devotional, using the story of the Nativity from Luke.

Gifts were exchanged from a lighted tree, and gifts of food, clothes and toys were taken for a needy family.

Date loaf cake, nuts and coffee were served, and marshmallow Santas were given as plate favors.

There were five guests present. Miss Inez Clubb, Miss Evelyn Clayton, Mrs. C. E. Mullican, Mrs. Tom Duvall and Mrs. Owen Johnson.

Members present were Mrs. Mark Fabre, W. A. D. W. Mitchell, Mrs. H. S. Taylor, Jr., Mrs. H. M. Phillips, Mrs. Alice Shafer, Mrs. F. L. Bullard, Mrs. Virgil Swisher, Mrs. M. X. Students Entertain

At P-TA Meeting

Students of the first and second grades presented a play entitled "The Christmas Bells" and sang carols at the meeting of Holy Souls Parent-Teacher Association in the Parish Hall.

Plans were made for the annual Christmas party and membership cards were distributed to those present. Also, the resignation of Mrs. S. E. Morosco as city council representative was accepted.

Mrs. Appling Hosts Baptist-WMU Group At Yuletide Party

McLEAN — (Special) — The Elizabeth Pool Circle of the WMU of the First Baptist Church met for a Christmas party Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. R. J. Appling, with Mrs. Homer Abbott as co-hostess.

The program was given by Mrs. Guy Pharis, Mrs. George Colebank, and Mrs. Frank Howard. The women exchanged gifts and were served refreshments.

Attending were Meses Leo Gibson, Eunice Kunkel, E. L. Minix, S. A. Cobb, Luther Petty, R. L. McDonald, T. N. Holloway, T. B. Windom, Homer Abbott, George Colebank, T. A. Langham, Frank Reeves, Frank Howard, Ruel Smith, Boyd Reeves, E. L. Price, Guy Pharis and the hostesses.

The Girls Auxiliary of the First Baptist Church met Tuesday afternoon for a Christmas party under the leadership of Mrs. Guy Pharis.

Gifts were exchanged and refreshments served. Present were Nedra Graham, Frankie Tucker, Peggy and Retha Bragg, Alma and Carolyn Pool, and their counselor.

Holiday Fete in Anderson Home

The home of Barbara Anderson, 708 East Kingsmill, was setting for a holiday party for members of the Order of Rainbow for Girls. Mary Beth Wright was co-hostess.

The girls sang carols, exchanged gifts and presented a gift to their mother advisor, Mrs. Loleat Byars. Fruit cake and hot chocolate were served.

During a short business session, plans for financing the next term of office were discussed.

Those present were Gloria Combs, Valda Welch, Sally Cobb, Gaye Marlow, Virginia Qualls, Sue Lynn McFall, Mary Jo Stevedard, Jo Ann Hash, Mae Jo Hankhouse, Mrs. Carl Anderson, Mrs. Byars and the hostesses.

No Evening Service At Church of Brethren

There will be no Sunday evening services at the Church of the Brethren on Dec. 25 and Jan. 1, due to the absence of the pastor.

Following the Sunday morning service on Christmas day, the Rev. Russell West, Mrs. West, Mr. and Mrs. Russell West, Jr., and their son, Donald, will leave for a visit in Virginia. They plan to return Jan. 2. While in Virginia they will visit the Rev. West's father, A. E. West, in Roanoke, and relatives of Mrs. West near Washington City.

The Rev. West will preach at 11 a. m. Sunday on "The True Meaning of Christmas." On Sunday morning, Jan. 1, the pulpit will be filled by Fred Thompson, with Clyde Carruth presiding.

Grace Friend...

WARD DAUGHTER
Dear Mrs. Friend,
I don't know where I have failed as a mother and wife but at this moment feel that I have somehow ruined the lives of my husband and daughter. Surely I could have found a way to avoid the terrible situation which we are now facing. It is this:
My 16 year old daughter believes herself to be in love with a young man of 22 who seems to be nothing but a wastrel. She threatens to run away and marry him or even to take her own life. I don't welcome him into our home and accept him as my future son-in-law.
My husband feels that she must do as she wishes in the matter and that we must not force her into running away. We have the most bitter quarrels over the matter and I am afraid that I will lose him as well as our daughter.
How can I cope with the situation without accepting the young man?

MRS. J. S.
I don't know anything about your financial situation but if your problem were mine and I could possibly afford it I would send my daughter to school some place far away. Or not being able to do that I would send her elsewhere to live with a relative and go to school where she would be in completely new and different surroundings.

At her age it shouldn't take long for her to find a new love. Her being away from home also would give you and your husband a chance to reconcile your differences regarding her conduct. If you can't send her away by a while, why not ignore the affair as much as possible. At 16 most girls feel that they are Julietts faced with a deathless love. They nearly always recover and next year have another Romeo.

Sometimes a parent's opposition to a daughter's love affair only makes her more determined to continue it.

Yule Party for Young Church Group

A song, "Star of the East," presented by Mrs. L. L. Stovall, was a part of the program at the Christmas party for Juniors Two Sunday School Department of the First Baptist Church. The party was in the basement of the church Thursday evening.

Group singing and prayer, led by Floyd Yeager, opened the program. Marilyn Moore, Mary Lynn Miller, Marilyn Tucker and Macy Batson sang "White Christmas," and "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town."

The story of the birth of Christ, from Luke, was read by Mary Lynn Miller and a story was told by Mrs. T. J. Worrell.

The children played games, directed by Mrs. Charlie Millett and Mrs. S. O. Danham. Gifts were exchanged and each child received a treat. Gifts were also taken for the Buckner Orphans Home.

There were 67 children and 18 adults attending.

Add Fancy Touch for Clever Giving and Scoop Old Saint Nicholas

The value of gifts can be made priceless if charm and wit are added to Christmas wrappings. This girl turns a cardboard suit-box into globe-trotter's luggage with cellophane and stickers; puts goodies behind the bars of a circus-animal cage and adds an amusing clown's head to a conical package. A pipe-cleaner skier guards the gift held between candy-cane skis (upper right) and straw-sippers are clustered to make a "laper" for candlestick package (lower right).

By MARJORIE SCILKEN
NEA Staff Writer

Let your Christmas offerings be decked in wrappings that bespeak your cleverness. Many a low-priced gift gets a stamp of value, plus a brand of charm that can't be bought, from an amusing, original or imaginative package.

Are there big or bulky gifts to wrap? Turn a cardboard suit-box into a globe-trotter's traveling case. Use Christmas stickers in the guise of steamship or airplane stickers. Make luggage-like handles of twisted cord. String a Christmas card from the handles, as steamship companies do, on which is written the recipient's name and a (phony) cabin number and deck letter.

Have you homemade goodies to corral into one box? These will take on real importance if they're put behind the bars of a bright red and green circus-styled "animal cage."

A square breakfast cereal box with clear cellophane windows becomes a cage if red strips of scotch tape are taped over the windows. Round wheels from cardboard cheese boxes, which may also be filled with candies, can be used to turn the box into a wagon. Wheels can be taped on with scotch tape.

An amusing clown's head will add his bit of fun to any cylindrical package. First wrap it with candy-striped paper. Top it with a plain rubber ball to make the clown's head. Give him his funnynman features with cut-out bits of adhesive tape. Use printed cellophane paper whirled into a cone to give the clown a hat and another one to encircle his neck with a ruff.

Prosy household items like cellophane glass-sippers and pipe cleaners can be given a double-duty role in this Christmas play. Enough glass straws clustered together to form a candle can be used to glamorize any round, flat gift wrapped so as to fake a candle holder.

Pipe cleaners may be used to make a tiny ski-figure straddling a boxed gift anchored between a set of skis. The skier's head may be a jinglebell, and of course his body and legs are pipe cleaners. For skis, pink and white striped candy canes wrapped in cellophane may be used.

Our wild sheep herds are not in very healthy shape from the standpoint of numbers. After years of protection, their numbers still decrease. Game management men are puzzled about what to do. It is a grand animal living among grand surroundings, and we hope someone finds the solution soon.

The Rocky Mountain bighorn ranges through the Rockies, from British Columbia and Alberta, southward through Montana, Wyoming and New Mexico. Subspecies of the bighorn type sheep extend into Mexico; these include several kinds of so-called desert sheep.

The true Rocky Mountain bighorn is a sturdy built animal, where a man must pick his way with care. Keen of sight, hearing and smell, he is wary, but not quite enough, or his numbers would not be dwindling.

He is still found in good abundance in British Columbia and Alberta, and it is there that the hunter must go to experience the supreme thrill of bighorn hunting. A few are still hunted in Wyoming, but only under special permits.

They will eat about any kind of vegetation. In the summer they feed on the short grass and mosses of the high slopes; in the winter they retire to the valleys and meadows. Here mountain lions, wolves and coyotes prey on them, and in the summer when they are on the high peaks, eagles are said to take their toll of the young lambs. This last is disputed by some naturalists, but wildlife artist and hunter Walter J. Wilverding writes this:

"All I can say is wherever I have found flocks of bighorn ewes and lambs, I have also seen eagles soaring close overhead. It is hard to believe that with hungry young in a nest, a golden eagle will pass up a lamb to go hunting further for mammals and ground squirrels."

The lambs, often twins, are born on the most awful and precipitous peaks, usually from the middle of May to late June. Rarely will you find a ram with ewes and lambs. Usually they band together and roam by themselves, wanting nothing to do with nursery troubles.

The wild sheep's life is said to be about 12 years. If a ram succeeds in keeping his head that long, his horns will grow into a double spiral, which is rarely seen these days. The growth rings on the horns are quite distinct, and accurately show his age.

DALLAS — (AP) — Rice and North Carolina each will receive at least $126,000 for playing in the Cotton Bowl Game Jan. 2.

Dan Rogers, chairman of the board, said today, wondering if any other bowl game could match that figure.

Rogers said the increased amount ($1 paid $108,000 last January) resulted from an enlarged bowl and the fact that there would be fewer student tickets than before. Rice has a comparatively small student body; the distance from Chapel Hill, N.C., to Dallas will hold down the North Carolina student attendance. Student tickets are one-half price.

Rogers said he figured the Cotton Bowl would have $300,000 net receipts (after federal tax) and that only rental on the stadium, $45,000, would be taken out.

The Cotton Bowl, director-general James H. Stewart explained, does not take expenses from gate receipts, all of which go to the competing teams after rental, but depends upon radio rights, concessions and programs. Not a fund of about $60,000 has been built up which eventually will go to the Southwest Conference, which sponsors the Cotton Bowl.

Rogers speaking last night at the annual dinner for committee chairmen, bowl officials and the press, predicted the Cotton Bowl would have no further trouble getting top teams — declaring that, in fact, the teams would seek the Cotton Bowl.

He pointed to the elaborate program of entertainment for Cotton Bowl week inaugurated this year. There will be basketball tournaments, ice hockey, musical entertainment, banquets, dinners and luncheons a dime a dozen, and entertainment for the football players in which theaters, night clubs and transportation facilities will be to ed over to them.

Rogers recounted the trials of the Cotton Bowl this year in landing the visiting team, declaring that he tried every way to get Oklahoma which he said was "wanted by popular demand," that he had talked to Oklahoma as many as 100 times and that he thought it would have come here but for wives of married players on the team.

He said Oklahoma actually could have been obtained after Tulane lost to Louisiana State and the latter got into the Sugar Bowl, but it was too late then. North Carolina, which Rogers last year, was enthusiastic at the start this time about coming here.

He revealed that Virginia never accepted an invitation to play in the bowl despite reports that the winner of the Virginia-NC game had been offered the bid. In fact, he added, had Virginia won the game the Cotton Bowl would have been in a predicament.

Rogers said 10,000 tickets had gone to North Carolina for the game and none had been returned. The North Carolina squad will arrive by plane Dec. 28 and Rice will come here by train Jan. 1.

Sports Round-Up
By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK — (AP) — Frank Boucher resigned in 1945 as chairman of the National Hockey League's Rules Committee. The other day, thereby confirming the impression that Frank is one of the finer guys in the sports business.

It seems Boucher had discussed possible rule changes with hockey writers and league President Clarence Campbell objected. It's a harmless subject and this dept. is inclined to view with considerable alarm that tendency to clamp rules on sports.

As we see it, a manager, coach or player has a perfect right to air any beefs about rules, officiating or administration, and it's especially bad to require him to "clear" them through the same guys he may be criticizing.

The fans are interested in those debatable subjects as much as in the reasons why the rightfielder isn't hitting. And a guy who squawks unnecessarily or too often is quickly recognized as a hatchman or a publicity-seeker and is ignored.

CLEANING THE CUFF
Louisiana State's Gaynell Tinsley is the first Sugar Bowl footballer to return there as coach of one of the contesting teams. He played there three times.

Bill Sharman, the Southern California basketball player, was coach, captain and star of the Navy basketball champs of Shanghai in 1946.

As they'd say in Shanghai, he didn't have an American's chance when he hit New York.

In the only meeting with the colorful House of David basketball team, the West Texas State Buffs won.

COURT patterns

By JACK GARDNER

Kansas State Coach

MANHATTAN, Kans. — (NEA)

—Having possession out-of-bounds and under the basket being attacked, Kansas State's forwards, F1 and F2, line up for the set play shown in the accompanying diagram.

On a signal from the center, who is off the court, they fake as if to cross, spread toward the sidelines. The center passes to whichever one is open, to F1 in the diagram. F2 immediately comes back into the basket area for a quick pass from F1, who then cuts off F2 for a return pass if F2 isn't open for a shot from under the basket. The pass may be a safety pass out to G2, who cuts off the screen set by G1.

Jack Gardner

Kansas State out-of bounds.

The center moves under the basket after passing to be in a good rebound position. G1 stays back for defensive balance.

As a variation, F1 and F2 may cross to set up the play.

WARREN'S WARMUP

By Warren Hass—News Sports Editor

QUESTION: What famous major league slugger holds the record for striking out the most times the most seasons in his career?

"He's making a list, and checking it twice. He's gonna find out who's NAUGHTY and NICE, Santa Claus is comin' to town."

Dear Santa,

I know that you have already been around to my house this season, but if you do stop again this weekend please leave me a couple of fast, and I do mean fast, backs. If we had had them this year I would be in Fort Worth today. That's all I ask; the rest I can build.

T. T.

Dear Whiskers,

I maybe didn't behave the way I should last season, but when ever I was ornery I was just askin' up for my rights. They can't throw me outa the ball park when I ain't done nothin' wrong. Just leave me a couple pitchers that can win and let the rest of the boys play the ball they're apable of and I'll be happy.

R. L. E. Sr.

P.S. Some people think I'm windy, so while I got the floor I wish you'd leave a couple of our close neighbors a little more playing room for their parks.

Dear Santa Claus,

All I want for Christmas is my two front teeth. One of Tom's buzzing tackles.

G. T.

Dear Mr. Claus,

I've got about everything here that I need. But just make them a little bigger and longer. Every team we meet has bigger and longer boys than we have. And while you're making things bigger and longer, see what you can do with our so-called gymnasium.

C. McN.

Dear Santie,

I have been a bad boy this past summer. I got stuck in the corner for ten days just because I was trying to kick a mosquito off the infield grass. If you could just send some super-strength glasses to next year's little cherubs in blue so they'll call them the way I see them, all will be okay.

G. S.

Dear Santa Claus,

I've got the makins' of a good ball club this year. And so far we have won 14 straight games. Please don't let the same thing happen to them that happened to Tricky's team. I want to win a conference game, too.

T. H.

Dear Santa,

I had a terrific football team this year for Class A ball. We rolled over everybody until we got all banged up for the quarter-final game. I would like to get some replacem' enfor all those fine Seniors I will lose through graduation and also a few good reserves in case some of the boys get hurt. See what you can do. Your ever-loving friend,

J. L.

Dear Mr. Claus,

You surely did bring me the ACME LUMBER COMPANY Your DuPont Paint Dealer 110 W. Thut Phone 257 material this season, but those one and two point losses brought us out on the tailend of the list. I'm going to have some good boys back next fall. Just let me be on the long end of those one-point margins. The alumni might get restless.

B. C.

Dear Kris Kringle,

I got no complaints left now. I was worried a couple weeks ago that I was going to be out job-hunting this Christmas. But the Wolf has left my door and everything looks rosy. I just Bearily got things straightened out in time. Maybe the alumni will need something. Thanks.

B. W.

Dear Santa Claus,

You and I have been around this old world for ever, it seems. Each year I hope will be the last that I have to ask you for help. This season I should have a good chance of retiring, that is if Eddie Joost doesn't get hurt again and the rest of the players can come through. Some of those baby Athletics you left me a couple years ago are starting to really go now. Just don't let them suffer a setback. I'm getting too old, at 87, to keep getting such a letdown around midseason.

C. M.

Dear Kris,

Had a lot of trouble with the doctors last season. Seemed they all wanted to get into a higher income bracket off of my players' aches and pains. Still we won. Just quit Yanking my boys off to the doctors all the time, and get Joe's heel fixed for good.

C. S.

Dear Mr. Santa Claus,

There's nothing I need. You made your visit the last week of November and did a good job. Been sort of rushed lately, so I wish you would do me a big favor and wish each and every one of my readers a big and joyous Christmas. Thank you.

Bears Look Good Against 'Ohio'

BERKELEY, Calif. — (AP) — The California Bears' offense "murdered" Ohio State yesterday. The big trouble was, it wasn't the same Ohio State team the Bears will meet in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena January 2. "Ohio" was the California Rambler reserve team, aided by several varsity linemen.

Tigers Look Bad In Last Drill

BATON ROUGE, La. — (AP) — Louisiana State University's football Tigers have had their last pre-Christmas workout, but Coach Gaynell Tinsley doesn't seem at all happy about it.

Priddy Finally Gets His Chance to Fulfill Promise

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — What easily could be the most vital deal made during the baseball meetings sends Gerald Edward Priddy from the Browns to the Tigers for $150,000 and Lou Kretlow, a right-hand pitcher of considerable ability. With the Detroit, Jerry Priddy, 30 and after a nine-year wait, finally gets an opportunity to fulfill his tremendous early promise with a winning club. Priddy could spell the difference between fourth place and the flag for Red Rolfe. Since Eddie Mayo cracked up, second base and a double play combination has been the one big chink in the Detroit armor. Priddy is a stylish glove man and his strong, right-hand two-base bat won't hurt, either. Priddy hardly got a fair shake with the Yankees who brought him up, and the Senators and the Browns weren't going anywhere.

Flight of Drobny Rankles Czechs

PRAGUE — (AP) — The flight into exile of Jaroslav Drobny, Czechoslovakia's No. 1 tennis player, still rankles in Communist circles here. Recently a newspaper printed a letter from Dasa Lerchova, one of the nation's top ice figure skaters, to her parents and used it for an attack on Drobny and other Czech athletes who "deserted" to the West. In introducing the letter, the paper said: "What a completely different and correct attitude to life and duties as a citizen and a member of society she has in comparison to such types as Drobny, who were spoiled by capitalism, who sold their honor for money and are an unnecessary burden to the nation."

Miss Lerchova wrote from London: "Friends are telling me to devote myself only to skating and not to go to the university. They tell me I could be the best ice skater in the world, but do they really think that I could be happy? To have a title and have an empty mind, that would be a disgrace to me. I must have a profession, because a sportsman without a profession is only a half-sportsman and I do not want to become that. "I know such sportsmen. Can their dry artistic skill be sufficient, if it is not based on morale and ideological consciousness? Can someone educate youth, who for a handful of gold exchanges his freedom and throws away the greatest of honors — to be a representative of the state?"

Rough Buckeyes Slow Workouts

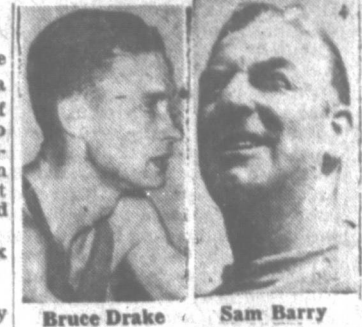

PASADENA, Calif. — (AP) — Admittedly pleased by a surprise rough scrimmage, Coach Wes Fesler today slacked the reins on his Ohio State Rose Bowl squad. Only one workout was scheduled, and only one more hard scrimmage is planned before the Bucks' Jan. 2 date with California.

Two-Minute Rule Has Basketball Fans Walking Out at What Should Be Climax

By JIM O'LEARY
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Bruce Drake watched his Oklahoma team hold off City College of New York, which had moved to within five points at the 38-minute mark, then sat back in his Madison Square Garden seat and relaxed as spectators started reaching for their coats. It should have been the climax of the game.

Instead it was the end. Though the Sooners coached by the District Five representative of the National Basketball Rules Committee had all the edge in the last two minutes of a 67-63 victory, it didn't alter his opinion of the rule which has shortened the game, made it entirely void of spectator interest in the last two minutes. "The rule is not for the good of the game," said the progressive Drake, who single-handedly led the national fight against goal-tending in 1944, succeeded in having that rule, which had plagued coaches for 38 years, stricken from the book. Due to the intentional fouling in the last few minutes of play, the coaches felt legislation was necessary to preserve the continuity of play, prevent excessive

Big 10 and Coast Football Finally Even; California Picked in Bowl on Statistics

By LAWRENCE ROBINSON
NEA Special Correspondent

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The psychological factor of Bob Zupke's funny bounce of the football, could be the difference in the Rose Bowl game, Jan. 3. Not since the Western and Pacific Coast Conferences tied up in their Pasadena pact four years ago have the teams, Ohio State and California, been so evenly matched. This despite the divergence in the 1949 records of the all-conquering Bears and the once-beaten, twice-tied Buckeyes. Toss out the Bucks' four-touchdown defeat by Minnesota, and you can hardly tell the two apart. That goes in everything except speed. Wisconsin and Southern California, Berkeley has the heavier line, Columbus the bigger backfield. Lynn Waldorf of the Golden Bears probably has a distinct advantage in psychology. He can invoke not only spirit, but the pride of the coast. For three years, golden slope teams have been subjected to shellackings at the hands of Big Tenners, to wit: 1947-Illinois '48, University of California at Los Angeles 14, 1948-Michigan 49, Southern California 0.

1949-Northwestern 20, California 14. The Bears lack speed, even the backs. Jim Monahan, nominally a right half, but able to play left half, and fullback, too, is probably the swiftest, and carried the ball oftenest—125 times for 694 yards, an average of 5.55. The man who mainly was responsible for everything was Bob Celeri, 173-pound quarterback, who throws, runs and fakes with celerity. Pappy Waldorf has the highest praise for his signal-calling. The Bears were not overly addicted to passing, throwing only 149 in 10 games, 62 complete for 1258 yards. Nonetheless, Celeri, who completed 45 of 109 for 975 yards, set six all-time Bear records, as follows: Most passes completed in one game (12); most yards passing one game (214); most passes completed one season (45); most yards passing one season (975); most yards passing three seasons (2080); most yards, total offense three seasons (2395). Ohio State features speed. All three of its starting ball-toters—Kral and Hamilton at halfbacks, Morrison at full—have it over any of the Bear operatives in a foot race. Hamilton, only sophomore starter, is the fleetest, but Jerry Kral at tailback is the swiftest. Then there's a soph whiz, Vic Janowicz, who was hampered with injuries. Pandel Savic, Yugoslavian-born quarterback, does most of the EARNED-RUN averages show the first five National League pitchers to be southpaws. . . .Motto for next season: Any old portlander in a storm. . . .Moscow will undoubtedly headline that story: AMERICA SEES BIG TREND TOWARD THIS LEFT.

The New York Nationals pull the year's biggest surprise three months after the major league season ended. The top pitcher, based on earned-run figures, turns out to be Dave Koslo, who lost 14 while winning 11. From now on he'll be known as David the Giants' Killer. An anticipated crowd of 70,000 didn't like the weather, so only a highly disappointing 22,245 showed up for the National Football League's play-off at the Los Angeles Coliseum. Not enough people, it seems, saved for a rainy day.

Girls, the Philadelphia Eagles and the Los Angeles Rams discovered a way to lose weight and become beautiful at the same time. Just play a championship game during a southern California rainstorm. The exercise takes off pounds, the mud pack is free.

BREAKING professional basketball's scoring record, Minneapolis beat Indianapolis, 121-85. The doesn't sound so much like a high basketball score. It sounds more like a low Canada score. . . .In the All-America Conference's big game, the Cleveland Browns romped over the New York Yankees, 31-0.

The Yanks have a good team, but they desperately need Casey Stengel. This all-star team proves, once and for all, that football players are just a bunch of animals. . . .LE-Batter, College of Pacific . . .LT—Collier, South Carolina . . .LG—Lyons, Tennessee . . .C—Wolfe, Tulane . . .RG—Steere, Haverford . . .RT—Mare, Nebraska . . .FB—Butler, Louisiana State . . .QB—Fox, W. Branch Rickey went to the major league draft meeting looking for a "sleeper." He evidently found what he was looking for, because he came back with a pitcher from Sacramento named Malcolm Mallette. All Brooklyn hopes that Mallette will wake up and do some pitching.

PAMPA AUTOMOBILE DEALERS' ASSOCIATION

This Year, It's Double Christmas for Wanda—March of Dimes Poster Girl

AUSTIN — (P) — Two Christmases are coming for March of Dimes Poster Girl Wanda Wiley. The little crutch-aided polio victim, like most other children, will enjoy Santa's regular visit Dec. 25.

Then after that, on Jan. 10, she'll leave on a long train trip to New York and Washington to meet the President and to help boost the nationwide March of Dimes campaign.

"Gee, won't that be a wonderful Christmas?" she said.

Her pensive smile hinted at her eight years. There's a new gap where a front tooth used to be.

Wanda was selected by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis after Foundation President Basil O'Connor met her in Warm Springs, Ga., where she was under treatment for the lingering effects of her polio last spring. She is one of six children of Mr. and Mrs. Earl N. Wiley of Austin — and the second of the family to suffer the dread disease which has staggered Texas with new record highs for two consecutive years.

In braces and on crutches, Wanda has been measured for a complete new wardrobe for her trip. The clothes are being made in New York and are expected by Jan. 1 to allow time for alterations if needed.

Meeting the President doesn't seem to impress quiet, good-natured Wanda very much. But just mention that train ride and New York and the two dolls she got while having pictures made, then Wanda's dark brown eyes light up like Christmas candles.

Mother and dad won't make the trip. They'll have to stay home and take care of the brothers and sisters. Dad, a house painter, also has some jobs that have to be taken care of. Her dog, two kittens, and a tame squirrel have to stay home, too.

But Wanda doesn't mind too much. She has been away from home before without her family since polio crippled her legs a year and a half ago. She's glad, though, that Mrs. Lewis Hatch, executive secretary of the Travis County Polio Chapter, will be along. She has helped look after Wanda all during her illness and treatment.

Wanda expects to be in New York until Feb. 1. That means she'll miss nearly a whole month from Goveale School where she's in the second grade. But that's been fixed up, too.

Her teacher, Mrs. Carol Thornton, believes that little girls can learn by traveling as well as in schoolrooms. Besides, she says, Wanda is so well up in her school work she won't have any to make up when she gets back.

Wanda Wiley was a victim of the 1948 polio epidemic in Texas. Stricken a week after her 16-year-old sister Joyce, both went to Brackenridge Hospital as respirator cases. Following this they were sent to Warm Springs.

Now able to get about on crutches and in a wheelchair, Wanda needs continuous treatment and care, possibly corrective surgery when she is more fully grown, to restore her limbs to greater functional use. Her sister, too, is making steady progress in overcoming the crippling after-effects of polio, although she still is confined to a wheelchair.

Wanda's favorite hobbies and pastimes are embroidery, weaving, sewing doll clothes, and working with leather.

New Wheeler Pastor Named

WHEELER — (Special) — Ernest Grizzard, who was recently called to the pastorate of the Church of Christ, preached both morning and evening services Sunday.

He arrived here late last week and he and Mrs. Grizzard have moved into the recently renovated parsonage.

Grizzard, who is 25, was born in Navarro County, Texas, and attended both grade and high schools in Ennis. He attended junior college at Kilgore and the George Pepperdine College, Los Angeles, Calif., and graduated from Abilene Christian College in 1947.

Though he has conducted services regularly for the past eight years, this is his first full charge, Grizzard said.

He succeeds B. M. Litton, who resigned to accept a pastorate in Gainesville.

Husbands Feted

LEFORS — (Special) — Members of the Methodist WSCS held a dinner for their husbands at 7 p.m. yesterday at the church. There was a gift exchange and carols were sung.

Christmas Is Swelling Of the Spirit

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — (P) — Christmas is a swelling of the spirit, a thaw in the heart.

It is a warm time for most of us, but a hard time for many. At dusk the other day I was walking with an old friend. Ahead of us strolled a rather shabbily dressed family of five. The mother trudged along carrying her youngest child. The father was having some trouble keeping the other two children in tow. They were brother and sister, and they kept running excitedly up to the store windows and trotting back to tell their dad what they had seen.

This rather depressed my friend. "It is awful to be poor at Christmas, and look into windows at things you can never have," he said.

I didn't feel that way, and I don't believe the two children did. The true curse of Christmas isn't poverty. It is to be alone and feel unloved.

For above all Christmas is a time of sharing. Neither the giving nor the getting of presents is as significant as the realization people have at this season that they are important to each other.

That is the true meaning of Christmas. For the rest of the year we tend too much to act as if we were all busy little atoms bumping each other about irresponsibly in a search for a better orbit. "Who you shoving?" is our motto.

But come December we suddenly realize how lost we all would be without each other, how dark the world would really be if the rule of fang and claw instead of the helping hand. It comes to us, often with the force of a hammer blow, that after all we have nothing in this life but one another — and the hope of something better together after this life.

The heart, indeed, is no hermit. Like any other pump it has to pour out as much as it takes in — or the darn thing won't work at all.

I Love My Doctor

By Evelyn Barkins

THE STORY: John and I, after an engagement, decide that our first big problem is to find a suitable place to live. We want four rooms, to accommodate both home and office, but we can only afford two. We want a satisfactory neighborhood, but can only pay for a poor one. But we are money-minded and these things don't bother us too much.

After almost two weeks of intensive house hunting, I was on familiar terms with most of the building superintendents within a five-mile radius, knew their favorite brands of beer and troubles, but little else.

"Lady," said one of them that very day when I had wandered into his territory again while making my usual rounds, "if you could only pay a higher price, I know where you can get a beauty of a place. On Linwood Street South."

"And that's exactly it," I said to John, after repeating my account that night, "if we could pay a higher price, we'd have no trouble at all."

That much was certainly true. It is all very well for us Americans as a nation to theoretically traditionalize contempt for material things. Poor but honest sound magnificent, and perhaps money is the root of all evil and surely isn't everything, but there comes a time in most young couples' lives when it seems like it is. Maybe Hollywood is right, John and I agreed.

Maybe the poor little rich girl gets nothing but weep; and maybe the millionaire is never happy until he meets the penniless stenographer who teaches him to do the jitterbug and sing, but did Samuel Goldwyn ever try to find a four-room apartment that costs like two dollars a week?

"Don't worry, darling," John consoled me as, womanlike, I complained the loudest, "maybe you'll find something tomorrow; and if not, we've still got a whole week in which to look. Besides, tomorrow's Saturday, and the fellows at the farm and in the combination wedding and farewell party, remember?"

"I almost forgot that," I exclaimed, jumping up off the bed to get my curlers, my one outstanding sop to all social affairs. Then I got a better idea. "Let's make a date of it," I said eagerly, "I'll meet you at the Chinese restaurant before the party; we'll eat and then go. And I bet I'll have good news to tell you about the housing situation!" I finished feverishly.

So the next morning, I started out especially early, determined on an apartment "or else." It was "or else." By 4 o'clock in the afternoon, I was hungry, heart-sick, physically harassed and still homeless. Since I was near my mother's house, I decided to drop in there and recuperate before meeting John at 5.

"Hello," my mother said pleasantly as I entered. "What's wrong with you?"

Nothing makes a girl feel as bad as to be told she looks bad; and since I was feeling bad in the first place, I began to feel worse. "Everything's wrong," I groaned. "No apartment yet?" my mother asked.

"Not a one." In an effort to emerge from my gloom, I opened up the refrigerator, and stood there appraising the contents for a good take. "I just can't find a thing within our means," I said, reaching for a likely looking chicken wing. "If only we had more to spend!"

My mother gave me that blessed-are-the-poor look as I swallowed my first bite. "You made your own bed," she said virtuously; and I will never understand why people who make their own beds aren't at least allowed to forget and enjoy them. "But, anyway," she continued as I silently munched my chicken, "I think I've heard of something worthwhile while. Interested?"

"Interested!" I jumped at her, so.

As I washed and powdered, my mother insisted on giving me detailed instructions on how to act and what to say when I would go to Longview Road the next day. "Don't show that you're too anxious," she said, "and don't accept the first price quoted. Mrs. Bodenheim said the rental was reasonable, but you say it's too high. They're always a few dollars out of the way anyhow. And wipe off some of that lipstick," she finished, handing me a tissue.

"Oh, Mom," I spoke impatiently, "you talk as if I were a child." To which she sniffed. "Have a good time, baby," she said and kissed me goodby.

I flew to Tum Foo's in a spirit of joy. Yesterday, time had been marching by to the tune of Chopin's funeral dirge, but today it was Alexander's Ragtime Band in Blue Heaven, and the difference was immeasurable.

"You've found it," John exclaimed as I reached our meeting place. It was the best kiss in nearly two whole weeks.

"Not exactly," I said, after I caught my breath again. "But this time we've got a real lead."

I told the story, and in three minutes he was equally enthusiastic. "After we had eaten, and while John got up to get my white jacket, I examined the check. The thought occurred to me as I did so, that such conduct would have been unpardonable before marriage when a girl was supposed to be totally blind to the pecuniary transactions taking place under her very nose. While after marriage, a financial statement in any form expects and receives the avid interest of a love letter."

"Let's take a cab," John said, when we stood on the street again. "We're a little late, and we're celebrating."

"Too expensive," I protested, "and we really don't have anything definite to celebrate yet," I finished, crossing my fingers behind me.

"A celebration," said John hailing a cab, "should have rhyme, but no reason, to be the nicest kind." And I quickly conceded the point. My best times have always been unpremeditated, unprovoked, and unquestioned.

THE ride was short, but pleasant. I and John and I did right by the taxi's backseat in the best of such tradition.

All too soon we arrived. The hospital, where the party was being held, was an old red brick building with the interns' quarters in a wing on the main floor. My mother always used to say, when we attended social affairs there during our engagement: "It's terrible! You young people carrying on downstairs, laughing and dancing, while upstairs those poor people are sick and may be even dying!"

But somehow it never seemed that way to any of us. To all the boys living and working there, the hospital was like home.

"Here we go," John said, and as we entered the interns' quarters it seemed that everyone else was already there. I was also glad, as I stood looking about, that I knew almost all of the crowd, because of my money, there is no worse ordeal for a young bride than to endure the scrutiny and appraisal of her husband's friends for the first time.

I will never understand why people who make their own beds aren't at least allowed to forget and enjoy them.

food and all, reviving suddenly like a drunk under a cold shower.

After a while, when she considered me reasonably calmed down, she casually completed her account, as if it hadn't taken her days to track it down. Like many other fortunate people, my mother always had a friend of a friend, a friend, who had a further friend, with the right information tagged at the end. To someone like me, who never in my life won at bingo, such ability was downright remarkable. In this particular case, it was a plain miracle.

"Mrs. Bodenheim told me that her cousin has a sister-in-law whose uncle lives in a house where the doctor just moved out," said my mother.

"Where is it?" I interrupted anxiously, as I gave up trying to follow the genealogy.

"42 Longview Road," she answered. "And it's got four rooms." I threw my chicken bones in the sink and went looking for my purse.

"Where are you going now?" asked my mother.

"To see it, of course," I replied automatically, as if she had asked me who was buried in Grant's Tomb.

"Look, dear," said my mother patiently, "it's too late now. Go tomorrow with John, and besides, I thought you had a date with him, it's almost 8 already."

"It is!" I had to look to be convinced. Reluctantly, I decided to wait until Sunday morning before inspecting the apartment, and settled instead on a 10-minute cleanup and personal redecoration drive before going to meet John.

AS I washed and powdered, my mother insisted on giving me detailed instructions on how to act and what to say when I would go to Longview Road the next day. "Don't show that you're too anxious," she said, "and don't accept the first price quoted. Mrs. Bodenheim said the rental was reasonable, but you say it's too high. They're always a few dollars out of the way anyhow. And wipe off some of that lipstick," she finished, handing me a tissue.

I flew to Tum Foo's in a spirit of joy. Yesterday, time had been marching by to the tune of Chopin's funeral dirge, but today it was Alexander's Ragtime Band in Blue Heaven, and the difference was immeasurable.

"You've found it," John exclaimed as I reached our meeting place.

Women in the Church

By MARY FOWLER

The Young Women's Christian Associations on 600 college and university campuses is an invaluable antidote to the efforts of "communist cells" to seduce the students of this land from their allegiance to American and Christian ideals. Dr. John Sutherland Bonnell, New York Presbyterian leader, told Y.W.C.A. leaders gathered in the Cathedral of Mount St. Albans, Washington, D. C., recently. He lauded the raising of $2,100,000 by the Y in America to send workers overseas after the war, to "bring encouragement and hope to the girls and women in suffering countries," and added that equally important today is the work of the "Y" for the youth of this country, especially the college students.

'Christmas in Other Lands' Feature of Service Guild Meeting
McLEAN — (Special) — The Wesleyan Service Guild of the Methodist Church met in regular meeting Tuesday evening December 13 with Mrs. Georgia Beasley as hostess.

The story of the Nativity was given as the devotional by Mrs. Eleanor Kritzer. The program leader, Mrs. Margaret Coleman, gave a talk on the topic, "Christmas in Other Lands."

Members of the organization brought gifts of food to be presented to some needy family during the holidays.

Refreshments of star-shaped sandwiches, coffee, and mints were served by the hostess to Mrs. Patty Denton, Loyce Sherrod, Maybelle Nash, Ruth Magee, Lavern Carter, Mary Mertel, Susie Hulsey, Maude Duncan, Mabel Rizzell, Margaret Coleman, Dorothy Beck, Eleanor Kritzer, Drusilla Hicks and Helen Black.

WHEELER — (Special) — Mr. and Mrs. Jack Garrison announce the birth of twin daughters, born Dec. 17 at the Wheeler Hospital. One, who weighed six pounds, eight ounces, has been named Clare Patricia. The other girl who weighed only three ounces less, has not yet been named. There are three other children in the family.

Miss Beulah Hubbard, teacher at San Jacinto School in Amarillo, arrived Saturday to spend the holidays with her parents.

Miss Peggy Jo Rogers, a student at Baylor University, Waco, arrived Saturday for a two-week vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Rogers.

Mrs. Allanne McCrohan, a teacher in Santa Fe, N. M., arrived Monday for a short visit with Mrs. Lee Guthrie. Mrs. McCrohan was enroute to Denton to spend the holidays with her parents.

twelve Vermont communities for the past six years these Vermont churches have been hosts to Harlem Negro children from the Abyssinian Baptist Church, Harlem, New York City, recently on the occasion of the 141st anniversary of the Church. The visitors were the leaders of what has come to be known as "The Vermont Plan of Action." Each summer visitors were led by the Rev. Dorothea Ann Weaver, of the Jericho (Vt.) Congregational Parish, and the Rev. Lillian S. Gregory, of the Johnson (Vt.) Federated Church.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY BEGINS IN THE HOME

A Father and his son

For this little boy, life is interesting and exciting. His father is helping to make it so.

Parents are fortunate who share their children's happiness and disappointments, who discuss their outside activities, their youthful friends and school problems.

With this companionship, a child's faith and trust in his mother and father . . . the mutual respect and love toward each other . . . grows deeper and more satisfying with the years.

Those who have not experienced this precious child-parent relationship are missing one of life's greatest pleasures.

As Good Parents You Should:

- 1--Give the love and companionship so necessary to your child's welfare;
- 2--Attend church with your children;
- 3--Support personally the many fine organizations that provide recreation for boys and girls;
- 4--Devote some of your time to personal service in the activities that minister to the young;
- 5--Help spread good cheer and human understanding to families not as fortunate as your own.

Wise parents know that duty to their children is more than food, clothing and shelter.
They know that the home life needs to be more attractive to childhood; that wholesome recreation for their own boys and girls and their neighbor's children is the best way to prevent trouble and sorrow when the critical years are upon them.
