OHIO STATE CONVENTION.
Columbus, O., March 18.—The Democratic Central Committee calls a State Convention in Cincinnati, May 17th.

REPUBLICAN MEETING IN BOSTON.
Boston, March 18.—A conference of prominent Republicans was held at Worcester yesterday. Between thirty to forty percent were present from different parts of the State. It was understood that the object of the meeting was to secure a delegation to the National Convention which will give the vote of Massachusetts for a candidate whose character will be guaranteed of purity and ability. In reference to candidates for Presidency, a majority of those who expressed their views favored Bloomer or Adams.

THE BIG HORN EXPEDITION.
Chicago, March 18.—The following telegram was just received at Sherman's Headquarters, from Gen. Terry, commanding the Department of Dakota:
"The following was received here, dated March 18th, 5th of March:
I arrived at Fort Pease on the 4th of March and relieved the garrison. The Fort was evacuated to-day at noon. The original garrison consisted of 46 men of whom five were killed and eight wounded.
Thirteen had left for the settlements. By night found in the Fort eight or nine white men and one negro, save the Indians, but found five lodges here of about sixty Sioux who fled southward. I think they were watching the Fort to pick up men who returned out. Will start for home tomorrow. (Signed) BLESERMAN.

CHICAGO, March 18.—On the evening of the 15th, Mr. Fielding came into the Fort from camp at old Fort Reno, having just returned from the battle of the 15th, and brought letters from the main command.

On the 7th Crook left the main camp at Fort Reno, taking with him a pack train and fifteen days' rations for cavalry, and struck out for the Indians known to be north of that place, since which date nothing has been heard of him.

Fort Reno command was attacked several times by Indians.

THE BANK OF NEW YORK.
New York, March 18.—President Belmont, of the Bank of the State of New York, authorizes the statement that at the first strict examination of accounts and assets it was found that the bank will be able to liquidate all its debts. The officers are arranging affairs, and prospects are that the bank will resume business on Monday.

GOV. AMES.
Memphis, March 18.—The Avalonch Jackson, Miss special says, in the Court of Impeachment to-day, Gov Ames appeared by counsel, Thomas A. Dwyer, and the State was represented by John A. Davis.
Gov Ames has resigned and Ames will appoint a successor. Cardozo, Sec'y of Public Education will also resign.

STATS CONVENTION POSTPONED.
Richmond, March 18.—The State Convention of the Democratic Party has changed the date of holding the State Convention for nomination of delegates to the National Convention on the 21st of May. The change was made on account of the of the latter day occurring upon the day previous to the State election.

SUPREME COURT DECISION.
Oklahoma, March 18.—Judge Moore of the Supreme Court delivered the opinion to-day, affirming the decision of the Judge of the District Court, granting the injunction against the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railroad and Galveston County.
This decision places the road on a solid basis and it is hoped the work will now be pushed rapidly forward to completion.

SHOT AND KILLED.
New Orleans, March 18.—Wash Beck-well was shot and killed by R Despatto to-day.

NOON DISPATCHES.

SPAIN.
Madrid, March 18.—The Foreign Minister has submitted to the Senate the text of the memorandum, communicated to Cushing on the 21st of August last, and the Senate will reply to-day.

IT IS STATED that the cargo of the yacht Ostia, recently captured by a Spanish vessel near Porto Rico, comprised 400 muskets.

CUBAN AFFAIRS.
Havana, March 18.—The Government has determined to issue a compulsory loan for military purposes and exact immediately with the strict rigor.

King Alfonso arrived at Villa Dado yea-sterday.

The Serbian Ministers seem to favor an immediate war. They are seriously aggravated by the continued raids by Turkish troops on the frontier.

The Austrian Representative at Belgrade had another interview with Prince Milan on Thursday, and urged him to make declarations in favor of peace. The Prince said that he had delayed, because he could not trust the Pacific assurances of Montenegro. He said if Montenegro entered into action he would remain behind, and preparations for war were all the more necessary, as the Turks were again concentrating on the Serbian frontier.

Long Cabinet Councils are held daily.

IMPORTANT FRENCH PRINCE.
Paris, March 18.—M. Louis Bonaparte has been elected to the Chamber of Deputies for the thirteenth arrondissement of Paris.

One arch of the railway bridge over the river Ill gave way under the pressure of ice, and the crossing of a passenger train, which was precipitated into the river. The carriages were dashed to pieces and the passengers all crushed to death or drowned; thirty corpses have already been recovered.

The programme of the Ministry is as follows: ten or twelve most obnoxious provisions will be removed in 2 or 3 days; night will be replaced by men sincerely devoted to serve the Republic, carefully selected and particularly calculated to attract the support of the middle class.
The remaining officials will be carefully

What Professor Baldwin will positively do!
I defy Marshal Dobbin to produce a pair of hand cuffs from which I cannot escape.
I will allow a committee of four gentlemen, (selected from the audience) to tie me with ropes and I will escape inside of one minute.
I will be looked back and handle in a pillory and the key-hole filled with sealing wax, and I will escape in thirty seconds without breaking a seal.
The committee will bind me hand and foot, and while in this condition, a coat from the back of one of the audience will be transferred to my back, and not a knot untied or a seal broken!
I will cause water to turn to wine and vice versa to water in full view of the audience!
I will cause blood to issue from the bill of the audience, to appear upon my naked

WASHINGTON NEWS.
Washington, March 18.—The Commission on Expenses for the Treasury Department convened this afternoon and decided to go into an extensive examination of the expenditures in the Treasury Department, of engraving and printing.
Numerous witnesses have been summoned to appear, including Dist. Atty.

Marsh will return here next week, pardon having been issued for him as well as immunity for his wife. He consented to come on these conditions.

NEW YORK FOR CONKLING.
A telegram was received here to-day from the chairman of the Republican State Convention stating that Conkling was almost unanimously voted for President.

THE SPENCER INVESTIGATION.
The Spencer investigation was resumed to-day. Robert Barber, clerk of the house of delegates of Georgia, called the court house legislature, testified that Spencer promised him the appointment of Marshal when Healey's term expired. The promise was made long after he had begun to labor for Spencer. The witness stated that he kept guard over two colored Republicans who, it was feared, were dissatisfied with the association. He told them, in the presence of Spencer, that Spencer had made up his mind to get them out of office. Spencer said he could make a direct promise, but there was a route against a vacant on a certain railroad, and they should wait until the railroad was opened. The witness was asked whether Spencer furnished any money for the Lewards county, to which ex-Senator Spartan, for Spencer, objected. The witness said that no money was given for the committee holding that any one had been bribed; that bribery was unlawful by statute. The witness was distinguished to answer the question, and did so by stating that Spencer furnished one of the party $300 for expenses. The reason they went there was to defeat Maj. Stanwood, an enemy of Spencer. Most of the colored man, who was elected in his place, was also interested to go into other counties and induce persons to run as independent candidates, of course, to be paid by Spencer, or the State committee. Several letters were introduced. One of them was written by Spencer and stated that Healey's time would soon expire and you should have the place; that the office would be worth $50,000 a year. In his letter he added that in case the United States government was with Spain, Alabama will come in for a good share of patronage as he, (Spencer) is in the Military Committee, and thus can get many officers, by telling Barber he could get him a good place in the army if he wanted one. The witness said he was appointed Inspector of Customs at Mobile at a salary of $150 per day, although he never applied for it, but thinks Spencer got it for him; he was removed, say, perhaps, but drew his pay; he had the position three months.

YOU CAN GO.
Wilmington, March 18.—Gen W R Cox, Chairman of the Democratic State Executive committee, who was brought here from Raleigh, in charge of a Deputy U S Marshal, was yesterday arraigned before U S Commissioner Casey, charged with a conspiracy to obstruct the election of two electors in the election for a Constitutional Convention. The District Attorney stated to the Commissioner that he did not think there was evidence sufficient to justify the arrest of Gen Cox, whereupon he was discharged.

Four of the County Commissioners of Robeson county are also before the United States Commissioner on the same charge.
These latter cases have been adjourned to next Tuesday in order to secure the attendance of additional witnesses. The County Commissioners on trial are all Democrats.

LONDON CIVILIZATION.

If the masses of the people of London have made any advance on the civilization which existed at the time of the death of the great Duke of Warwick, the "Last of the Barons," we cannot perceive it. The picture given of the recent progress of the Queen to the East End of London, to open a new wing of the London Hospital, supports this view. The most remarkable thing about this progress through Whitechapel was the great unwashed who live by tens of thousands in the pillboxes of that malarious locality in every degree of poverty, squalor and wretchedness. Royalty is a rare sight there, and as such an attraction causing nothing but the progress was sure to draw. There was apparently some doubt as to the loyalty of the denizens, but it was soon seen that there was no danger to be apprehended on that head. Immense crowds drawn from the whole localities of old Rattlebone Highway, Limehouse and Poplar on the right hand of the royal route and from the wide districts of Hackney, Bethnal Green, and Spitalfields on the left hand poured in upon Whitechapel.

From early in the day anxious throngs, among whom the fair sex was represented, lined the sidewalks. As the time for the passing of the royal cavalcade drew near the masses of people pouring in upon the route became denser and denser. Cavalry and policemen kept the crowds back so that there was a space for the carriage and escort to pass. As the crowds from the outlying districts, composed of decent workmen, with their sweethearts and wives, gangs of horse playing roughs and troops of boys came up they packed the sidewalks away back from the line of route. The cheering from the masses on the street and the waving of handkerchiefs from the windows of the main thoroughfares were continuous; but at the cross streets, as the cavalcade passed the hoarse whirling of hurrahs was followed by shrill, coarse and groans of pain as the pressure from behind became more intense and the people in the main street turned to crash their way home again. The scenes that ensued were shocking to human nature. Women were crushed, many fell and were trampled on, and those who got out of these crushes with only torn clothes thought themselves lucky. Numerous accidents are reported, but of course they are only the serious cases. Thus, in a manner the Queen could never have desired, the progress in the East contributed a large number of patients to fill the London hospital wards.

SENATOR GORDON'S THOUSANDS MILLIONS.

Senator Gordon of Georgia, frightened at the effect on the public mind of the anti-national speeches of Gen. Toombs, and softened by the sentiments and encouraged by the success of his younger brother Southern, Col. Lamar of Mississippi, has ceased the sectional speeches with which he signified his entrance into Congress, and settled down to the work of national statesmanship. The New York Herald says that his speech on the subject of revenue reform has produced a decided sensation. That the country is likely to be thoroughly stirred by the matter is evidenced by the deluge of letters which has already poured in upon Senator Gordon, commending what he has proposed. The Senator claims to have shown from the records of the Treasury Department the startling fact that the government has been robbed of $1,000,000,000 in the past thirteen years, no matter what has been the political stripe of the several administrations in power during that time. In this connection the calculation is made that, had the money thus misappropriated been put where it belonged, the questions of the currency and of the national debt would not now distract the country. Had the thousand millions stolen by these officials and the bodies of placemen under them been honestly handled, the national debt would be less than half its present size and the finances of the country would be on a specie payment basis. Even now the sources of revenue are so broad and yielding that an honest collection of the revenue, such as Mr. Brislaw's efforts bring about, is only necessary to insure the easy payment of the national debt, the reduction of the taxes and the restoration of the currency to a specie payment.

THE SILVER QUESTION.

At a recent meeting of the Political Economy Society of Paris, the subject of discussion was the decline in the value of silver. It was generally agreed that the solution of the problem is to be found in the immense production of American mines. It was also said, in the course of discussion, that the monetary policy of the United States is not yet understood. M. Chevalier declared that the present glut of silver was predicted by Humboldt in 1802, while he was investigating the Mexican mines, of which he then wrote that they were only "skimmed," and when worked by enterprising people would produce enough to inundate Europe with silver.

In this connection we may be again permitted to repeat former remarks of the Express in reference to the promised great development of the silver mines of our Western Territories and of Mexico upon the further extension of our railroads; and also in reference to making this immense production of silver available in the redemption of specie payments in this country. The silver mines of Mexico, but little beyond the Rio Grande, which were only skimmed by the Jesuit fathers, the only men who knew how to work them, in the old days, are only awaiting the advent of our railroads to give forth their fabulous wealth. Hundreds of American miners and speculators are even now daily passing through San Antonio in quest of those mines. The International railroad will develop them.

The Southern-Pacific railroad will, with the help of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, develop the rich mines of the San Juan country in Colorado. The mineral resources of the San Juan country are very justly exciting the attention of capitalists in various sections of the Union. For over one hundred miles along the main range of the Rocky Mountains there seems to be one continuous belt of silver ores of a higher grade than was ever known to exist in any former discovery. The best run of Green & Co.'s smelter at Silverton last summer averaged 674 ounces per ton, or $449 24, and the average run for the entire season was about $220 per ton. This fact can be ascertained by writing Green & Co., at Silverton, San Juan county, Colorado.

The average of the famous silver mines of Nevada is not to exceed $60 per ton. This can be ascertained from published statistics. The County Records of the San Juan country show nearly 2,500 mines located within the last three years, and a large proportion of these are of paying grade. It is the theory of all geologists that the highest grade ores are the easiest worked.

PRINCIPLES, NOT ACCIDENTS.

The Republican party are anxiously laboring to prove that Belknap was a Democrat. Suppose he was; his present position only proves how low a man may fall by getting into bad company. Next, we suppose, they will charge that Grant, with all the corruptions and infamies attending it, is only the outcropping of Grant's early Democratic bent and affiliation. —Galesburg News

The Republican paper that would try to excuse the administration because Belknap was a Democrat until he was appointed Secretary of War, and the Democratic paper that would account for his fall on the ground that he had got into bad company among the Republicans, are equally illogical and wrong, and treat grave public matters with equal unworthiness. Tweed was a Democrat, and stole millions where Belknap stole tens of thousands, and he exercised a controlling influence over the Democratic party that Belknap never dreamed of in the Republican party; but this was only the misfortune, and not the disgrace, of the Democratic party. Such arguments, and such reliance for success in getting control of the government, are unworthy of either of the great parties of the Nation. The time has passed for the success of such tricks. The principles and tendencies of the respective parties, and their bearing upon the welfare of the country, are the things to be considered, and the people of the Union are now intelligent enough to judge by these alone. The hard money attitude of the Republicans, and the inflation tendencies of the Democracy, determined the recent contest in New Hampshire, and will do the same thing in all New England, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and several other States.

THE BRITISH EMPRESS.

As the Express predicted, first of all the papers in the country, as soon as we saw the intimation in the Queen's speech from the throne of the opening of the British Parliament, Victoria will soon be styled "Empress of India," as well as Queen of Great Britain and Ireland. Although the question is raising considerable doubt in the House of Commons at the present moment, as we are informed by telegraph, yet there is no doubt of the ultimate result. The correspondent of the New York Herald informs us that the new imperial title has been officially accepted by the second reading of the bill in the House of Commons. There was an animated and somewhat bitter discussion. Disraeli and Gladstone, even Kenealy participated in it. Disraeli made a strong point of Spencer's dedication of the "Pillar Queen" to God Queen Victoria. He also quoted Gibbon's passage on the happiness and greatness of mankind under the Antonine emperors. The division resulted in an overwhelming victory for the government. So Victoria, by the grace of God Queen of England, will soon be, by the interposition of Disraeli, Empress of India.

A correspondent of the Galveston News writing from Brazoria county, says that last year some government contractor procured a large amount of live oak from the lower Brazos in Brazoria county. The trees were sold to the contractor by the land owners at $5 to $8 each. It probably cost him $5 each to place them at the landings, and these trees cost the government $250 to $300 each. How much could the contractor afford to pay for his contract?

THE PRESS.

L. A. P.'S YOUNGEST BROTHER.

(To the Editor of the Chicago Evening Journal.)

The black sheep of the Tomlinson family, of which Mrs. Belknap is a member, was John, the youngest child. He joined the rebel army, and for this dishonored was disinherited and disowned by his father. After the war he led a rambling sort of vagabond life, lived in New Mexico, and often boasted of having killed fourteen men in that unsettled country. In personal appearance he resembles his brother, Dr. Tomlinson, although in features resembling the present Mrs. Belknap. After his return from the Far West, and for four or five years before his death, he occupied the position of clerk in hotels in Cincinnati, and for several years second clerk and floor manager of the celebrated Put-in-Bay House, at the island of that name in Lake Erie. The fame of his sister, in their high position of State and society, was nothing to this youngest brother's stray lamb of the flock, and he rarely mentioned them, except in bitterness. With the consumption in his veins, which he longed to the family as truly as their gentle birth and breeding, and his indulgence in strong drink, he became an invalid, and strangers in deed servants—bestowed upon him the attentions which should naturally come from one's own kindred. A few days before he died, he was taken to the hospital, and when he came here I called upon him frequently. I sent my carriage for him to use, and I gave a dinner for her and her sister, Mrs. Bramlette.

FROM THE HERALD CORRESPONDENT.

INTERVIEW WITH MRS. BELKNAP—PENALTY OF THE MANY SINNERS. TIONAL STORIES AFOAT—HER HUSBAND'S AND HER OWN VINDICATION TO COME.

WASHINGTON, March 10, 1876. Rumor has asserted here that Mrs. Belknap has made threats against the peace of the Republican party; that she declares that there are facts in her possession which would ruin the government and show some high men to be the basest on earth, with much more of the same sort. A lady who visited Mrs. Belknap gives the following account of her visit.

A very checked English girl opened the door. I had pencilled a message upon the card I sent, and heard up stairs a hasty conference in low tones. Then Mrs. Belknap came down, greeting me in her own charming way—a way one can not resist. She was plainly dressed in a heavy black silk; a simple knot of cherry ribbon fastened the ruche at her throat; the soft, dark hair was simply parted and a dainty little cap of French muslin, with cherry ribbons, covered her head. Not a bit of jewelry was visible. We talked in low tones, as one would talk in the presence of death.

I said: "Mrs. Belknap, you must know that there are terrible rumors afloat, and I am very anxious to help you if I can. It is said that you are furious because those so much more guilty are striving to build upon your ruin, and the papers are full of statements purporting to come from you."

"They are utterly false," she replied slowly and sadly. "It is very hard to keep still, very hard to know how I am slandered and to be told that I must seal my lips. But I must obey General Belknap's counsel, and I have said nothing to any one."

"Did you know Mrs. Williams, the wife of the late Attorney General, was in town, and that, existing in your sorrow, she is telling the most infamous stories?"

"I did not know that she is here, but she may say what she likes. I only wish that every woman on earth, who knows anything of me or of my life, would come forward and tell all that she knows. I hope Mrs. Williams will say everything she chooses. My life has not been one of concealment."

"Did you not give authority for the story published by the Graphic?"

help in any matter. Of course I heard of the Kentucky Central Railroad, just as any lady in Washington hears of any claim which excites general attention. Mr. Pendleton was interested in it, and because he happened to be a friend of mine people maliciously connected his success with my position, but I never had one cent nor my husband either. The General only asks that all his affairs may be fully investigated. He hopes that they will summon from every post all the witnesses possible; that they will examine all the papers and records of the War Department. He has come out of this a poor man; he has not anything left; every penny we have belongs to me, and when this is done we shall have precious little. How we are to live or what we are to do is more than I can think."

"Some one has spread the report that you declare it is in your power to ruin the government; that you have said that the President, Mr. Grant, General Babcock, Secretary and Mrs. Robeson form a ring whose transactions are infamous, and that if they dare proceed against General Belknap you will publish affairs which will send others to the Penitentiary."

The sad eyes opened widely and a bit of gleam flashed into them, but Mrs. Belknap answered with quiet emphasis:

"I know nothing of General or Mrs. Grant but what is to their credit. I have never yet known anything wrong about him. He has always been perfectly honorable."

"Did you go to see Mrs. Blackburn, carrying your baby, and beg for mercy?"

"Never! Never! Mrs. Blackburn I have known all my life, and when she came here I called upon her frequently. I sent my carriage for her to use, and I gave a dinner for her and her sister, Mrs. Bramlette."

"Have you seen her since the action of the committee?"

"Yes, she came to see me as a friend. I told her the topic of our misfortune must not be discussed at all. I am saying more to you now than I have said to any one. Mrs. Blackburn wished me to see her husband, but I answered, 'No. Our husbands' lives are widely severed forever.'"

Said I, "It is contemptible and cowardly that public opinion has laid all the blame at your door because you are a woman. There are many who give you their pity; many who earnestly wish that the stain may somehow be removed."

"Thank you. It will all come right some day, though the waiting seems long. Vengeance is in better hands than ours. I am sure my husband will not be so severely blamed when all is known. For myself I do not care so much."

"Have your friends visited you at all?"

"Yes many of them come, but I make it a condition of our interview that this subject must not be broached. Some of them are afraid to come."

Just then she was called from the room for a moment, and I, looking at her portrait, taken only a year ago—a picture so fair that one might doubt that if its original existed—sat the piano where the baby was always thrown, and then, as she entered, I rose to take my leave, but she was anxious the General should hear the story about the President, so she called him and I repeated it.

"Do you hear that?" she asked; "I have told Mrs. — that we never knew anything about President Grant that was not good. Is not this true?"

"It is most certainly," said the General.

"There I wanted my husband to say that to you. Please be sure that that is printed. The report is an awful falsehood."

This closed our interview.

FROM HERALD CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, March 10, 1876. THE MISMANAGEMENT OF THE BELKNAP IMPEACHMENT BY THE DEMOCRATIC LEADERS—THE POSITION IN WHICH THEIR JEALOUSY AND INCAPACITY HAVE PLACED THEM—POSSIBILITY OF THE RE-SECRETAIRY'S ESCAPE. The impeachment of Mr. Belknap has caused a most singular and prolonged squabble in the House, in which personal explanations alternate with discussions about irrelevant questions. The matter in hand makes no headway, and in eight days the committee brought in their report but the articles of impeachment are not yet before the House. The committee is investigating itself, and it is not at this moment very certain that a shrewd lawyer could not restore Mr. Belknap to liberty on a writ of habeas corpus.

The fact that the Democrats on the committee set to work in a wrong way, and they are now reaping some uncomfortable fruits of a blundering course. They apparently thought it wise to suffer the Republican members of the committee to remain ignorant of the disclosures which they had made in regard to Mr. Belknap, and the first result of that was that they lost the benefit of the advice to the Republicans which might have saved them from some grave blunders, especially as Mr. Bass, one of the Republican members, has had much experience in investigating committees. The personal explanations which have followed for a week were begun in the very report of the committee, where Mr. Blackburn found it necessary for his good fame, not only to insert a letter of explanation, but added a certificate from his two Democratic associates. The Democrats appear to have looked at their discovery as a tremendous party victory which they feared the Republicans would snatch from them, and they have treated it from this standpoint in the House for the whole week. They made an entirely unjustifiable attack on the Cabinet, asserting that it had ordered the prosecution of Marsh and thus caused his flight; but they might, had they tried, have ascertained what is today stated by authority, that the Cabinet made no such order, and they ought to have known what Mr. Blaine pointed out to them that Marsh left Washington before the committee reported his testimony to the House, and more than twenty-four hours before the Cabinet met. Mr. Bass showed to-day that Marsh's going was expected by the chairman of the committee in a way that is laughable, and his recital of it made the House laugh.

Again, the sudden panic with which the Democratic committee-men screamed for protection against the summons of the civil court only made them absurd, for it was shown them that they not only needed no protection but that they would require the permission of the House before they could appear, even if they wanted to go; and, after all the fuss they made, the question was still asked, Why should they not have gone? They attempted also to get up a discussion on the question whether the House had the power to impeach Mr. Belknap after his resignation; but here they were stopped by the clear and timely assertion of this right by the Republican side. They forced on the House an acrimonious discussion about a bill indemnifying witnesses, with the apparent design to put the other side in the wrong. But Republicans are not fools. They do not mean to hinder in any way the impeachment and punishment of Belknap. They mean to help it all they can. They voted for the bill indemnifying witnesses, having first given notice that they would like to offer amendments to make it more effective, which offer was contemptuously rejected by the Democrats. But it now turns out that the bill fails of its intended purpose and does not, as it ought to and was intended to, protect Marsh.
