DEPUTIES SMILE AS CO-OFFICER KICKS REPORTER

Sheriff Smith's Aids Continue Warfare On News Gatherer; Beat and Stamp Him While Down

The Wichita county sheriff department's pugilistic campaign against The Record News continued Saturday without abatement and again brought about the spectacle of a newspaper representative being attacked in the corridors of the court house by an officer supposed to be sworn to enforce the law.

A second fistic attack on A. D. Hallman, court reporter for The Record News, was made Saturday morning by Dennis White, deputy sheriff, who earlier in the day entered a plea of guilty to an assault and battery charge sworn out after he had attacked Hallman in the court house Friday afternoon.

Deputies Look On.

Deputy Sheriffs Baker and Robinson, standing in the door of their office, looked on with interest Saturday morning while White knocked Hallman to the floor, stamped and kicked him while he was down, and then repeated the process. No move for intervention was made until Assistant County Attorney John G. Humphrey appeared and pulled White away.

A moment or so after the attack, Sheriff Fred K. Smith appeared from around a corner with a genial smile and inquired solicitously into Hallman's health.

He made no inquiry as to the cause of the disturbance.

This second attack, like the first, took place in the main first floor corridor of the court house, a few feet from the door of the sheriff's office. It was provoked, primarily, by stories printed Saturday morning in The Record News telling of the first attack on the reporter. Incidentally, White remarked during his battle with Hallman that he intended administering a beating every day or so as long as The Record News continued printing stories about the sheriff's department.

Attack Unprovoked.

The whole difficulty originated when The Record News, in pursuance of its policy of publishing all news matter of importance in which the public may have an interest, told of efforts of the sheriff's department to secure a 60-day furlough for Jack Jackson, convicted murderer. White's active solicitation of aid from county officials in a clemency appeal to Governor Ferguson was duly chronicled by The Record News, with the fact that out of a dozen or more persons approached by White, he secured endorsement of the movement from not more than two.

Later, after Sheriff Smith had gone to Austin in Jackson's behalf and the furlough had been secured, The Record News reported this fact. Jackson was granted a 60-day period of freedom "to put his personal affairs in shape." Two weeks after he was freed he was arrested on a hi-jacking charge with one of Sheriff Smith's deputies. The Record News again chronicled all this pointing out once more the activity of the sheriff's department in Jackson's behalf.

White's second attack was, if anything, far more unprovoked than the first. Friday afternoon Hallman entered the sheriff's office with a request for some information concerning the report of the grand jury which adjourned earlier that day. He was attacked then without provocation.

Saturday morning White waited in a corridor until Hallman returned to the main floor after a visit to the court rooms on the second floor. The officer, without a word, swung on the reporter and knocked him to the floor. Before Hallman could jump up he was kicked and stamped. Half-a-dozen more blows were struck after he gained his feet.

FEEDS FAMILY ON $18 WEEKLY

Canadian Housewife Shows Women's Congress How To Ecoromize

CHICAGO, April 17.—(AP)—A Canadian housewife knows some secrets about feeding a family of five on $18 a week. An aged Danish woman builds and carves furniture that money can not buy. An American woman banker grants no quarter to male contempories in fashioning budgets to fit every family purse.

And these three queens of kitchen, studio and counting house are among several thousand women who are glorifying their sex at the women's world fair which opened today.

The woman wood carver is Miss Charlotina Jensen of Chicago. For thirty four years she has been building from black walnut and carving in exquisite designs furniture for which she has refused many thousands of dollars, although her income is but $35 monthly. Her living rooms are crowded with products of her toil, but she has never sold any, preferring to leave it all, at her death, to some charity. Three pieces of her work are on display in the Danish booth of the exposition. It was in Denmark that she learned her art.

The woman banker is head of the budget branch of a Chicago bank and her computations on balancing of family incomes are in national use.

Former Police Commissioner Becomes Candidate For County Place

PROMISES EFFICIENCY

Courteous And Capability Pledged If Selected For Position

W. G. Bralley, for 12 years a resident of Wichita Falls, announced Saturday afternoon that he is candidate for sheriff of Wichita county, subject to the democratic primaries in July.

In making his announcement, Mr. Bralley stated he was actuated by motives of service to the community, and was prompted in his decision by the belief that the sheriff's office was one which could be developed into a post of real value and usefulness to the county.

For the past three years Mr. Bralley has been juvenile officer of Wichita county, a position in which he was rendered extremely efficient and valuable service in handling of juvenile questions.

He is not resigning this post to make his campaign for sheriff, Mr. Bralley stated, and for that reason will be unable to give as much personal attention to his race as he would like. He will, however, assume an active part in the primaries.

American Troops Bring Inspiring Aid To Texans

Detachments Marching To Relief of Stricken Army of Freedom

By STAFF CORRESPONDENT
(Special Courier Dispatch to The Wichita Falls Record News.)

CENERAL HOUSTON'S HEADQUARTERS NEAR SAN FELIPE, April 17, 1836.—New hope elated General Sam Houston, commander of the army of the republic, and revived the spirits of a disheartened band of patriot soldiers today.

American intervention, the last-ditch hope, seems to be assured.

The Texas army, now dwindled to 800 soldiers, camped tonight on the saw-grass covered flats a few miles from Harrisburg; and will tomorrow resume its march toward the enemy. Houston expects to catch up with General Santa Anna, usurper-dictator of Mexico, who is now reported moving toward Galveston in pursuit of President Burnet, who fled Harrisburg before it was burned by the invaders last week. A great hope surges in the hearts of the Texans, after weeks of black dispair. The moon seemed to shine brighter tonight for the hope of saving a republic in the fair land southwest of the United States seemed to be relighted late today.

A Message Inspired.

A message to General Houston from Sam P. Carson, secretary of state, has changed the entire situation and is responsible for the promise of transcending importance to the future of the army and the future of the cause.

"News—good news," this message began. It reached Houston late today by an exhausted horse-back courier who rode from the border in the past thirty-six hours.

"I have just heard," Secretary of State Carson told Houston, "by a source in which Judge Martin has confidence, that a company or battalion of U. S. troops left Fort Jessup

No missing airmen have been reported in this section and no other fliers rave been known to stop here recently.

Boy's Itch Is Expensive To City of Houston

Scratching Back on Alarm Box Calls Out Department In Force

HOUSTON, April 17.—(AP)—A small town boy visiting Houston late Thursday proved an expensive itch. The fire department scratched it and the city paid the bill.

The boy was standing at Texas and Milam when his shoulder itched. He scratched it simply by rubbing it against a nearby post and kept on reading his newspaper. With a scream of sirens $100,000 worth of fire apparatus rolled up. He learned he had scratched his itch on the handle of a fire alarm box. Fire department officials told him it cost the city considerable money to answer a false alarm like that.

The boy told the judge he was sorry, that they didn't have such contraptions in his town and that the next time his back itched he would take off his coat and roll in a gravel street like a "hoss." Police Judge Lucien Andler said he would take his word for it and turned him loose.

DALLAS SNIPER KILLED

Detectives Make Quick Work Of Apparently Crazed Black

DALLAS, April 17.—(AP)—Armed with a heavy caliber rifle with which he was sniping at passersby in the street of a suburban section of Dallas tonight, Andrew James, negro, about 35 years old, was shot to death in a fight with officers who were called by residents. The negro had fired several shots before the officers arrived.

Detectives Walter Hanson and Leonard Pack went to the scene in a motor car. They had scarcely alighted when the negro opened fire upon them, one bullet passing through Hanson's coat. The negro had been caught between the fire of the detectives and two patrolmen.

Postal Pouches Will be Sent To Dallas For Relay To East

PASSENGER PLANES

Aero-Taxi Accommodations Will be Provided By Line

Establishment of daily mail and passenger airplane service between Wichita Falls and Dallas May 12 by the Texas Airway, Inc., was announced Saturday by H. C. Ferriot, general manager of the company, who has been in Wichita Falls for some time in connection with the project.

The company has now reached a point, Mr. Ferriot stated, where daily service between this point and Dallas is assured. At Dallas connection will be made by the Wichita Falls planes with those of the National Air Transportation company, operating air lines between Dallas and Chicago via St. Joseph, Mo., where these in turn connect with the cross country air lines. Connections are also made, of course, at Chicago with the government's transcontinental mail planes. This will give Wichita Falls prompt connections for all mails with the air lines now established in all parts of the country.

Only Private Airport.

Wichita Falls is now receiving wide publicity through all army flying posts of the country which have been bulletined to the effect that the Call field station here is a public airport where servicing and supplies may be obtained for all planes, Mr. Ferriot said. Incidentally, he

WOMEN TALK CURB MARKETS

Frederick Federation Of Farm Clubs Discuss Sales Plan

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, April 17.—The discussion of curb markets was one of the most important questions that came up before the quarterly meeting of the Tillman county federation of farm women's clubs in session Thursday in Hollister, according to Mrs. Eva M. Mosteller, county home demonstration agent.

Three hundred and fifty women were present to participate in one of the most interesting sessions the federation has known. Seven hundred women in the county are identified with the organization.

An excellent program was staged by those in charge of the entertainment division and extension workers from the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college discussed problems of importance to the farming industry.

A further investigation of the advisability of establishing a curb market in Frederick is to be made, and it is probable that such a market will be started during the summer.

AMERICAN

eight or 10 days since, crossed the Sabine and were marching toward the Neches. I believe it to be true. General Caines is there, and doubtless my letter by Parmer had the desired effect.

"Jackson will protect the neutral ground.

"General Gaines has also ordered thirteen companies of the American troops which recently reached Natchitoches, La., to march this evening (Friday) to the Sabine, with two field pieces, and with provisions for a long march. General Gaines has issued a requisition upon the governor of Louisiana to furnish a brigade of volunteers."

Aid From America.

This means General Houston said, American intervention, putting the resources of a powerful nation behind its struggling sons who seek to build a republic here.

Houston, though he did not at length discuss the situation, was so revived by the news that the long-hoped for American assistance, that he was late tonight walking from tent to tent of his majors and captains, talking to a few of the officers at a time.

Houston disclosed to The Record News that he will not turn toward the border to meet the American soldiers, but will wait here, holding Santa Anna between here and the coast. The infantry of the American army will come directly across from Natchitoches, La., to Nacogdoches, Texas, he said, and will then have an easy ride with their well-equipped provision trans, southwestward to Harrisburg.

He tonight dispatched three couriers to Nacogdoches to give verbal information to the Americans, and to ask them to come directly to the settled section between Harrisburg and Washington.

Even the two or three companies of American troops which are now within striking distance, would have tremendous effect in turning the odds of the coming conflict with the 1500 or more Mexicans, General Houston said. The effect of America's joining the Texans' fight, though it had been expected, will almost demoralize the ruthless campaign of Santa Anna, whose success in usurping the power of Mexico is based largely on his success in driving the Texans back from San Antonio. Santa Anna will probably start back to Bexar, realizing that with the vast power and the many trained soldiers of the United States, he will never win in Texas.

On the message from Carson, the hope for help from America, a hope which was early held but had weeks ago been abandoned, welled again to revive the soldiers. Houston is anxious to get word on to President Burnet of this news; but tonight he knew not whether Burnet has reached Galveston Island, has indeed been slain, or has sailed on some friendly boat for an American port.

To March At 5.

Instead of going to the border, Houston tonight gave orders that the army be ready to march at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning for Harrisburg, where will probably make camp and wait until he has definitely located Santa Anna.

The march today from near Donohue's settlement was the most difficult the army has encountered. The soldiers crossed numerous bayous and lagoons, and waded, knee-deep in water and mud, across several miles of marshes.

General Cos has been deployed by Santa Anna with about 500 men, probably to circle back to get in the rear of Houston's column. Reports tonight informed Houston that in the past few days probably 100 of the unarmed stragglers who are on their way from the New Washington settlement, have been killed by the Mexicans. One case, a mother was snatched from the small wagon in which she and her two tiny children were riding, and held by a soldier while her children were burned to death in the blazing wagon, set on fire by the heartless ruffians, and that then the woman was stabbed through the body with a bayonet, and her body thrown into the burning pyre.

The air is full of the significant prospect of a definite battle. Indeed, Adjutant General Wharton today declared that in the present mood of the soldiers, they will gladly engage the entire Mexican forces of double their own strength, before the American troops join them, if the opportunity offers.

"You're dad-whopping right," shouted Deaf Smith, when he heard Wharton say this.

Marching Wife And Escort to Call by Police He Is Wounded

FORT WORTH, April 17.—(AP) J. W. Kimbroll, cement burner, was wounded in the thigh twice late last night by a policeman who mistook him for a highwayman as he marched Mrs. Goldie Kimbroll, his wife, and a man who had been her escort last night ahead of him at the muzzle of a pistol.

Kimbroll declared that he was taking the couple to a telephone to notify police and obtain proof that his wife had been out with another man. He attached no blame to Officer Tom Poe for shooting him, saying that it was natural he should have been taken for a holdup man at the time.

Several shots were exchanged but the officer was not hit. Kimbroll's thigh bone was shattered. He is in a hospital here.

Kimbroll alleged that he had been warned by a friend that his wife was in the company of another man in an automobile a block from the Kimbroll home, and that he found them just as described.

Mrs. Kimbroll denied the accusations of her husband and made others in her turn.

ALTUS

San Tone "Grass Roots" Wild Now

SAN ANTONIO, April 17.—(AP) Two oil test wells will be sunk on property lying about one mile southwest of the city limits, next week, it was announced today after the discovery of gas in an abandoned well, which is being sold in tracts of one and one-half acres.

C. J. Lecomte, who drilled the water well with the gas showing on the Panhandle Coast property, D. Urquhart, a geologist, and Ralph G. Girand., are promoting the oil tests. Lecomte says 600 acres have been sold in the vicinity.

Urquhart said he is positive oil in paying quantities will be found at a depth of 400 or 500 feet. Lecomte, who sank the water well to a depth of 600 feet before it caved in at the 200 foot level, said he had a good showing of oil in his well.

The gas from the Panhandle Coast well was burning today, the flame coming up several feet above the surface of the ground. It was coming up through 200 feet of mud, Lecomte said.

Another well was brought in in San Antonio's "back yard oil field" in the Mission Grove neighborhood.

NOTED WOMAN DIES.

SAN ANTONIO, April 17.—(AP)—Miss Delphine Drouserts, 82, sister of Bishop Arthur J. Drouserts of the San Antonio Roman Catholic diocese, died today at the Santa Rosa infirmary. Heart disease was the cause of death.

Funeral services will be held Monday morning at San Fernando Cathedral.

Miss Drouserts was a native of Holland but had lived in the United States for 56 years. Virtually all of this time was spent in San Antonio.

Pope Pius Sorry For Mexico's Act

MEXICO CITY, April 17.—(AP) The Mexican archbishopric today published an apostolic letter from Pope Pius to the Mexican Catholics in which the pontiff expresses regret over the situation in Mexico and raises the people and clergy for their fidelity to the church.

The letter instructs the clergy and Catholic societies to diligently avoid political participation and expresses hope for a peace and harmonious settlement of the Mexican problems throughout religious and spiritual activities.

PLAN EGG SHOW

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, April 17.—An egg show to encourage the use of the hen fruit in Tillman county, is to be held in Frederick Saturday, May 1, in which uses of eggs will be demonstrated. Merchants will dress appropriate windows for the occasion. Late equipment for brooding chickens will be demonstrated and a generally educational display on poultry handling shown. The chamber of commerce, Lions club and the agricultural interests are behind the move.

Religious Council To Study 'Youth' At Alabama Meet

BIRMINGHAM, April 17.—(AP) Nearing the end of its quadrennial session the International council of Religious education turned its entire attention today to the discussion of the problems of youth.

Nationally known religious leaders led the discussions, while all forces joined in the interpretation of a campaign which council leaders believe argues well for future generations.

While the council discussed the problems hundreds of young people from all sections of the nation and other countries gathered in separate meeting styled a "congress of youth."

The general religious education problem of the 36 denominations federated in the council centers about the education of children. Council leaders consider the concluding sessions of the convention as of great importance to protestantism.

Among the speakers today was Edmund D. Soper of Duke University, Durham, N. C., who exhorted the council to meet the call of Christian young people "with open mindedness and courage."

Joseph A. Moore Forsakes Hearst

NEW YORK, April 17.—Joseph A. Moore, president of the New York American Inc., publishers of the New York American and treasurer of the majority of the various Hearst organizations, announced his resignation today.

No reason was given and Mr. Moore declined to comment on reports that he would enter the magazine publishing business.

GARDEN BOOKS AT LIBRARY

Spring Weather Brings Out Details of Planting Season

With the coming of spring days and the subsequent planting of gardens, the Kemp Public library has kept pace with the season, and has provided a list of books on better gardens, with a notation that "Your garden will give back to you just what you put into it."

Miss Lucia Powell, librarian, has compiled the following list of books on gardening:

Busy Woman's Garden Book, by L. D. Bennett: A book that aims to give a plain every-day language sufficient and clear directions for caring for an ordinary home garden in a way the least consuming of time and strength and with all unnecessary expenditure eliminated. Some of the chapters most interesting are: Hot beds, cold frames and flats, planting seed in the open ground; early spring vegetables; late season vegetables; fall work in the garden.

Gardner by L. H. Bailey: A book of brief directions for the growing of the common fruits, vegetables and flowers in the garden and about the home. As the author puts it a plain little book that will seem good to those who like simple things that they can grow themselves.

Gardening With Brains, by H. F. Fluck: Quoting Author Burbank for his epigram on this book, "One of the best that has so far been written on garden subjects. You get at the facts in such a pleasing human way that they are irresistible."

Growing Vegetables by R. L. Watts: The author is Dean of the school of Agriculture of the Pennsylvania State university. He offers the reader the newest 'innovations and the best methods of getting the highest possible yield in vegetable growing.

Land Drainage by W. L. Powers: Deals with the subject of drainage primarily from the agricultural standpoint, and the subject has been developed largely as a matter of applied soil-physics.

Landscape-Gardening by O. C. Simmonds: A most helpful manual for making our country more beautiful. Some of the chapter headings are: Aims of landscape-gardening; Saving of natural features and resources; arrangement of plantings; Public thoroughfares; Parks and city squares; Golf grounds; School grounds; A plea for landscape-gardening.

Landscape-gardening as applied to home decoration by S. T. Maynard: To the many who are trying to beautify their homes this book will add in their present knowledge of the most beautiful trees, shrubs and plants and how to plant and care for them. While supplying the above knowledge the author has striven to emphasize the home ornamentation. He has considered the architecture of the house, the location and natural features of the surroundings.

Little Garden the year round by Gardeners Year: A useful book for every person who looks forward to making a garden of his own. Table for spring flower planting and individual chapters on: Dahlias, Cosmos, Peonies, Gladioli, etc., with several chapters on the vegetable gardens.

Planting and Planting of Little Gardens, by George Dillistone: Object of this book is to assist the owners of small garden plots to determine the best ways of laying them out as to utilization of space and the picturesque effect.

Principles of Fruit-growing by N. H. Bailey: The art of raising and handling fruits and fruit-plants, and the applications o fthe various sciences thereto. Chapter grouping t: Location and climate; surfacing frut lands; care of frut plantations.

HOME BEAUTIFUL

acting for the builders, to Taylor Brothers, who in turn announced that ground would be broken tomorrow morning and work started at once. Excavation of the basement will be completed the first week.

Other contract on the Garden of Dreams awarded are: Plumbing and heating, Wichita Hardware company; wiring, Hudgins Electric company, painting and interior decoration, the Chas. E. Watson Paint company; interior and exterior hardware, Noble Little Hardware company.

Intimate details of the elaborateness of the Garden of Dreams will be disclosed as work progresses. Suffice it to say that nothing has been omitted, nothing has been overlooked, to place "El Jardine De Los Sueños" among the front ranks of the most beautiful examples of Spanish architecture in America.

An Electrical Home Beautiful.

Artistic service engineers of the Wichita Falls Electric company collaborated with architects in applying electricity to advantage in the beautification of the entire home. Needless to say that every practical electrical device able to save time, labor and to increase efficiency will find its place in the Garden of Dreams.

All Furniture Spanish.

Ivan Murchison of the Freear Furniture company, while in New York recently, enrolled in a special study course in Spanish treatment under several of the leading Spanish authorities in America. Following this course he arranged with a selected group of manufacturers, who have furnished scores of beautiful Spanish homes in Florida and California, to supply him with every piece of furniture, each typically Spanish, to go into the Garden of Dreams.

The floor plans, the arrangement of the grounds, the thousand and one little special treatments that will surprise and delight the thousands who will inspect this home will be disclosed from time to time during the construction of the home. Giant Flood lights have been erected on the site by the Electric company and an illuminated sign will be placed on the site of the home early this week.

declared, this is the only city in Texas with a privately owned airport, all the other such stations in the state being municipally controlled.

At the field now, oil, gasoline and spare parts for which the greatest demand is felt, can be supplied to all transient planes. This is a service the company is offering in addition to its regular work of transporting mail and passengers.

Dallas-Wichita Falls service, Mr. Ferriot said, will include automobile transportation from any point in either city to the flying field.

Planes Are Safe.

A passenger bound for Dallas, for example, may, by calling the company's headquarters here, have a car come to his home or office and take him to Call field. An automobile will be waiting at Love Field, Dallas, where the planes will land, and will take the arriving passengers to any place in Dallas. All this is done without extra cost.

Right now, Mr. Ferriot asserted, his company is conducting an intensive campaign to impress on the public the fact that safety is a factor as successful in airplane operation as in that of a railway or automobile. Advances made in aviation and the requirements under which pilots operate has practically eliminated the danger of accident.

In line with this idea, the company plans this fall to visit 300 or more county and district fairs in Texas to give demonstrations of airplane safety.

R. M. Brooks is president of the Texas Airways, Inc., while Murrell Brock is chief pilot.

Cowboys and Band At Rodeo

One of the many outstanding features of the rodeo to be held here April 30, May 1 and 2, is the Simmons College Cowboy band. This band has enjoyed exceptional popularity on its many tours throughout the state and their entrance into the rodeo entertaining will enhance greatly this feature. Another unlooked for surprise will be the entrance of about 75 cowboys and cowgirls with their own private horses for trick riding and bulldogging. The railroads have offered as a special inducement to those who wish to come to Wichita Falls for this event, a special fare and one-third for round trips.

active ni the business life of Wichita Falls. He served as commissioner of public safety for the city for two years and has also served in various capacities as a peace officer in Wichita county and other Texas points for the past 20 years. He accordingly brings into the race the experience and training of a veteran official whose records in the past has attested to his ability and honesty or purpose.

In making his announcement Mr. Bralley asserted he would give attention equally to enforcement of the criminal statutes and also to attention to such civil matters as may properly come before th esheriff's department.

"Absolute and impartial law enforcement without favoritism is the only plank on which I offer myself as candidate for sheriff," Mr. Bralley stated.

Promises Courtesy

"I believe I can serve the public in a proper manner and that the sheriff's office will be administered in a capable and efficient and courteous way under my direction.

"I believe as firmly as any man in showing leniency and mercy in cases where it is due, but with hardened criminals who expect nothing more and deserve nothing more than a stern accounting from the law, I have never been in sympathy. If elected it will be my purpose to see that every person with whom I have dealings is given a square deal, but one which will not be tempered with personal sympathies where such feelings are not warranted."

Army Officer Charged With Indiscretions With Girl.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—(AP)—W. E. Baldock, proprietor of a Lawrence Kan., lodging house was the principal witness today in the court martial of Captain Orville Clampitt, United States army chaplain, charged with undue intimacy with Lucille Swallow, a Kansas girl.

Baldock quoted the girl as having admitted familiarities with several men and with having said she had never been out with Captain Clampitt.

Ideas For Which Forum Stands Is Justification Enough For City's Proposed New $50,000 Club House

Mrs. J. C. A. Guest Asserts Campaign For Funds Is a Challenge to Pride of Every Wichita Falls Citizen

That the building of a Woman's Forum building in Wichita Falls is a challenge to the pride and ambition of every woman in this fast growing city to do something for its uplift, is the belief of Mrs. J. C. A. Guest, prominent in the club life of the city, who is now actively engaged in the campaign for raising $50,000 with which to erect a magnificent club building in Country Club Estates, on the site recently given by the Hamilton Martin Investment company.

Start Monday, 26th.

The campaign for the fund will begin Monday April 26 and continue for four days. An unusual interest in the work is being manifested. Committees are being organized and other details necessary in carrying the campaign to a successful conclusion are being developed. These details will be announced within the next few days.

Some of the details in connection with the character of building proposed will also be announced before the start of the campaign, but all of these plans will not be known until the campaign is over, at which time architects will be employed to draw the plans for the building. It is now proposed to erect the building in sections, building one at this time and in the other in a few years, when the work of the Forum has grown to that extent that additional rooms will be necessary.

"Forum" Is Excuse Enough.

"Having been asked to give some reasons why I thought a Forum building was needed in Wichita Falls I know of no better reason than that which the word forum stands," said Mrs. Guest. It is a place for the display of the art of public speaking in the discussions of such questions as conduce to the general public welfare, as: public education, public morals, civic righteousness, state rights, democratic government, etc.

"Since the privilege of the franchise has been granted by law to the women of America, they are becoming more and more interested in all questions pertaining to the uplift and benefit of humanity generally and are making rapid progress in qualification for efficient service in all departments of our national life.

"The ladies of Wichita Falls, having an abiding interest in the upbuilding of our own city in a domestic, social, moral, intellectual, civic, and political sense, are happy to state that we have a generous offer by Messrs. Hamilton and Martin of a choice lot in the Country Club Estate addition to our city for the erection and maintenance of a Forum building for the benefit of our people, both in the city and surrounding country. This is to be a center of culture, education, and refinement, to be owned and directed by the ladies of Wichita Falls.

A Challenge To Pride.

"Surely this is a challenge to the pride and ambition of every woman in this fast growing city to do something for its uplift. An institution like this, by proper management like this, would offer an opportunity for the development of our citizens as well as to command the best talent of the country in the discussions of the most vital subjects of the community, state, and nation.

"The proposition of Messrs. Hamilton and Martin has been accepted and we now propose to raise a sum of $50,000 to finance this enterprise."

SCHOOL APPORTIONMENT

AUSTIN, April 17.—(AP)—The two dollar apportionment made to the schools last Saturday by S. M. N. Marrs, superintendent of public instruction, was distributed to the common school districts this week and the independent school district will receive their portion Tuesday. L. W. Rogers, assistant superintendent announced today. This makes a total of $12 of the $14 per capita total apportionment.

ELECT GEORGE TODD

Credit Men Pick President and Adjourn Convention

AUSTIN, April 17.—(AP)—Geo. W. Todd of Austin, was unanimously elected president of the Texas Wholesale Credit association by the new board of directors at the close of the two day convention today. Dave Tardy of Fort Worth, was named vice president.

The secretary will be elected later by the board. The president fills the office of treasurer.

MARS THE ETERNAL

THERE is no reason to suppose that the present agitation for international harmony will show any more results than all the efforts toward world peace in the past.

There doubtless will be more wars, with millions of men the bloody toys of a few so-called statesmen.

Hope there is none that the savage instincts of man, coupled with the natural desires, pride and hunger, which have embroiled the world for so many centuries, will not again disturb it.

The late Anatole France, ardent pacifist, admitted this. He said that—"The human masses have so far not found their equilibrium. The sagacity of the nations is not yet sufficiently methodical to secure the common welfare by means of the freedom and the facility of exchanges.

"Man has so far not come to be looked up to with respect everywhere by man.

"The several portions of humanity are not yet about to associate harmoniously for the purpose of building the cells and organs of one and the same body."

It is to be doubted that nations will ever cease to hate and fear one another.

If war ceases, what would become of patriotism and love of country?

To have forced men to kill each other is the disgrace of emperors and republics alike, the crime of crimes.

In the so-called barbarous ages, cities and princes entrusted their defense to mercenaries who make war deliberately and prudently; in some great battles there were only five or six slain.

And when the knights engaged in war they were not forced to it; they were killed of their own free will. It is true they were good for nothing else.

Anatole France observes that in the days of Louis the First of France, no one, even a king, would have dreamt of sending a man of learning and intelligence into battle.

"Neither was the laborer dragged from his plough and forced to join the army.

"Now it is considered the duty of every peasant to serve as a soldier.

"Now he is driven from his home. In some miserable barracks he is taught how to kill men methodically; he is threatened, insulted, imprisoned; he is told that it is an honor, and if he desires no such honor, he is shot.

"He obeys, because, like all the gentlest, gayest, and most docile domestic animals, he is afraid."

Anatole France spoke these words while France was at war; yet he was not imprisoned. Men have wasted away in Leavenworth or Atlanta for less.

WORTH EMULATING

SOMEBODY PROBABLY IS

JONES AND THE CENTENNIAL

THE election of Jesse Jones, millionaire Houston business man, as director-general of the Texas Centennial Exposition, is a long step forward, and an assurance of a vigorous, statewide campaign leading up to a successful centennial.

All Texas should be pleased that Jones has accepted the leadership of the Centennial movement. The Houston man is of the calibre, the broad vision and the ability needed for the post of director general.

The selection of the director-general was that on which further activities toward laying the foundations for the Centennial waited and the work, mapped out for the next two years of "Telling Texas its opportunity," should now move forward without delay.

The Centennial Exposition board is fortunate in having a man of statewide prominence at the head of the organization a man broad enough and interested in Texas on a scale to obviate any local advantage or claim of any of the Texas towns which may seek the Centennial.

Texas should not wait the 10 years until the final year of the century period for the exposition, but should hold it about 1930 or 1931. Approximately four to five years will be needed to make preparations for the Exposition on the world scale and magnitude which is the aim of the Board.

PIKERS

Paris hotel keepers are going to boost prices twenty-five per cent. If they make it a hundred, visitors from New York will begin to feel at home over there.

THE COMMON PASSION OF ALL MANKIND

IT IS not without justice that Americans have a wide world reputation for being money-mad.

But this disease, this passion for the accumulation of riches, preferably without earning them, imbues all of mankind, savage and civilized.

Let us pass over the question of whether it is a sin; for it may be a blessing. What is the reason for it? The mere desire to possess? To be powerful?

The answer given us by the philosophers is even simpler.

The human sees wealth as a release from work, from activity, from motion.

He doesn't understand, or forgets, that we exist physically, because our organism is the seat of constant motion; and if we are to exist intellectually, it can only be by means of continual occupation—no matter with what so long as it is some form of practical or mental activity.

Our nature is essentially restless in character; because life in all its infinite varieties, consists in movement. We very soon get tired of nothing to do; it is intolerable boredom.

The "idle rich" are never idle for long.

Activity—doing something, if possible creating something—how fortunate it is that men cannot exist without that!

A man instinctively wants to use his strength to see if he can, what effect it will produce.

From this point of view, those are happiest of all who are conscious of the power to produce works animated by some significant purpose; it gives a higher kind of interest to the whole of their life.

GREATNESS' MAKINGS

SOME are born great, some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon them, as Shakespeare observed. It is not true that all great men and women are so because of certain qualities born in them: many of them are great because of the very lack of those qualities at birth.

The meaning of this is explained by Harvey O'Higgins in his new book, "The American Mind in Action," in an examination of Mark Twain which throws light on some of those qualities of the American mind for which he was most noted and most esteemed.

"He was born a seven-month child, 'a puny baby with a wavering promise of life,' according to Albert Bigelow Paine's official biography; and to the new psychology, this fact is of prime importance.

"A premature birth makes the struggle for survival hard on the vital organs of the infant and he begins life in timidity.

"He has, of course, on intelligence, no conscious mind whatever; but he has the unconscious animal mind which is to remain with him throughout his life.

"In this mind, physical inferiority will produce a mute recognition of inadequacy and insecurity; and if the feeling is not carefully nursed out of him by the affectionate protection and encouragement of his parents, it will continue as a basic strain of unconscious fearfulness that will plague him as long as he lives.

"It has been found that such a hidden feeling of inferiority is at the bottom of most of the vagaries of what we call 'artistic temperament.' It is the mainspring of much intellectual achievement and the origin of a great deal of erratic genius.

"The ego of the child desires to dominate. If he is physically a weakling, he will try to win by other than physical means; that is to say, he will use his wits.

"The inferior child, timid and fearful, will become as alert as a wild animal in the woods. He will be sensitive, affectible, responsible, precocious, foxy. He will develop his intelligence, his faculties of protection, his sympathetic imagination.

"He may make a great success of his life, consequently. But no matter what success he achieves, his pride in himself will always be insecurely supported on the shaking foundation of an unconscious sense of inferiority."

That says O'Higgins, was true of Mark Twain.

And Then Along Came the Charleston!

Cordial Greetings from Pola. Dinner With Chaplin—Private Movie—Ring

To the editor:

Armed with letters of introduction from what I have dubbed the Big Town, we swept down on Hollywood one March morning and was rec'd. by most of the screen celebrities with well concealed enthusiasm. At the Famous Players studio we run acroot old acquaintances in the person of Alan Dwan, Charlie Furthmann and Marshall Neilan. The pictures in the making were "The Rainmaker," "Beau Geste," "Naughty Cinderella," and Rex Beachs "Padlocked." This was my first visit to a big studio during the filming of heart griping romance.

I had read and heard that these giants of the film world could not even begin to start to act unless a orchestra was playing "Humoresque" or "Barcarolle," but always thought it was just a gag till I seen it with my own eyes. I asked one budding star if the music really did have any effect on her and she said she couldn't do anything without it. Afterwards I watched her in a scene with full orchestral accompaniment and it seemed to me like she must be almost stone deaf.

No Music But Laughs Instead.

The thing that impressed me the most in this and the other big studios was that everybody that is getting more than a beginner's salary, say $6,000 per wk., has their own chair to set in with their name painted on it and though the chairs is all exactly alike, no real artists can feel they's a load off his ft. unless he is setting in his own chair. As picture actors does more setting than anybody except ball players it is no more than natural that they should want and have chairs, but it come to me like a bolt from the blue that a chair with your name on it would be any more settable than a anonymous chair.

My first act when I get back home will be to have my name in full on the chair I generally always set in and if I catch one of the kiddies setting in that chair I will have one of the hired help give him a kind of a hint that he is de trop. I gleaned that this is proper procedure from a episode that took place wile we was watching Buster Collier and Georgia Hale do a love scene in "The Rainmaker." The young lady with me was setting in a chair inscribed with the name of Ernest Torrence, who was also playing in the picture but not in that scene. A polite attendant come over and asked her would she mind changing chairs and he give her Buster Collier's chair so Mr. Torrence was being got in readiness, Charlie entertained us with imitations of various nuts and finely overwhelmed us with a invitation to dine at his house on the following Saturday night.

So we dined their en famille with Mr. and Mrs. Charlie and the mother-in-law and Harry Crocker, a genial friend of Charlie's who doubles as his secretary and also gives him advice which he don't take. Charlie has got his own screen and projecting machine and after dinner he said he had 3 new pictures which we could take our choice. The 3 was "Tumbleweeds" and "The Devil's Circus" and something else and we chose "The Devil's Circus." This was our mistake.

Danger Looms Before Film Stars.

Another feature of the Chaplin home is a big pipe organ which Charlie played on it for us. His taste runs to soft, foreign sounding tunes and improvisations and he plays everything in the key of F. All and all this was as nice an evening as we spent in the West and from now on I will be a Chaplin booster. You remember how I used to pan him.

We dropped in for a few minutes at a midnight party given by Mr. and Mrs. Conway Tearle, she being the former Adele Rowland and one of my favorite musical comedy gals. We got Buster Keaton and Trixie Friganza and renewed a old acquaintance with Nora Bayes and seen 4 or 5 of the Talmadge girls and etc., but by this time we was so immune to brushing shoulders with different notorieties that I swear I can't remember a fraction of those we was introduced to.

And our last day in Hollywood we was taken in toe by Teddy Hayes who used to train Jack Dempsey. Teddy can get in more places than Houdini can get out of and is welcome everywhere he goes. His chief enjoyment in life seems to come from doing things for people and the only time he gets mean is when you try to pay a check. Well, anyway he introduced us to Valentino and Vilma Banky and Syd Chaplin and "Chuck" Reisner, who is directing Syd in "The Better 'Ole," and finely, in the Famous Players studio, he asked me if I wanted to meet Pola Negri and I said yes and Miss Negri was resting between scenes of "Naughty Cinderella," which they are ging to call "Good and Naughty" for no reason, and she was reading a magazine and I will hardly forget the self-control she exhibited when the introduction was made.

"Miss Negri," said Teddy, "this is Mr. Lardner, the writer."

"Oh," said Miss Negri, and never raised her eyes from the magazine.

At the University City we had our photograph taken with Norman Kerry who was busy with a picture called "The Love Thief." I asked him what the story was about and he said he didn't know as he had only been working on it 2 months. Wile he was there a lady come up and asked for his autograph and he wrote it for her. It is no novelty for screen stars to be asked for their autograph by mail, but the practice of movie fans coming right up to you and asking for it in person is liable to cause a upheaval in the lives of Hollywood's artistes, many of who will half to take a course in penmanship and spelling.

RING LARDNER.

"This Is Mr. Lardner, the Writer," said Teddy. "Oh!" said Miss Negri, Never Raising Her Eyes From the Magazine.

Now They Assert Shakespear Could Not Write Plays

LONDON, April 17.—"Bakespearean" is the title London Truth has conferred on those who continue to proclaim from the housetops that Bacon wrote the Shakespearean plays.

Brig. Gen. S. A. E. Hickson is the latest writer to produce a book designed to prove that Bacon and no other could have written the dramas attributed to the poet of the Avon.

General Hickson not only claims the Shakespeare plays for Bacon, but also the work of Marlowe and other contemporary English dramatists. He is even willing to accept the opinion of a German professor that Bacon wrote Cervantes "Don Quixote."

General Hickson calls his author the "prince of poets and most noble of philosophers." He accepts the theory that Bacon was really the prince of Wales, son of Queen Elizabeth, and because of his high social position, dared not acknowledge the authorship of practically all the masterpieces produced during the Elizabethan era.

How Long Should The Big Trams Be?

LONDON, April 17.—(AP)—The lord chamberlain's office and fashionable modistes of the west end of London and in Paris are at great variance as to how long the skirt of a fashionable gown should be.

"Four or five inches from the ground" is the edict of Queen Mary, which has remained unchanged for several years, in spite of the exposed knee which Paris designers have been favoring.

Women presented at the court of St. James have been compelled to listen to the dress regulations set forth by the lord chamberlain's office and there is no indication that there will be any modification in the rule about skirt lengths.

Many dressmakers have made requests that the regulations be altered to allow this year's court dresses to be eight inches from the ground but their request has been refused by the queen, who thinks that enough consideration has been shown to present fashions by allowing trains to be 18 inches long instead of the former regulation length of four yards.

The Married Life of Helen And Warren

Waves of gloom engulfed her. Huddled in bed all the gray afternoon, Helen could have cried sheer despondency.

"Now, no gunning around the shops today!" had been Warren's parting admonition. "You stay in and nurse that cold. Get in shape for that dinner tonight."

She had stayed in—a long, dreary day. But her cold no better. Those shivery chills down her spine. A touch of the "flu."

And tonight—the dinner Sir Charles Dring's.

She MUST go! Sir Charles, the head of a London firm Warren represented.

"Is that you, Judkins?"

"Did I wake you, madame?" now at the door, gleaming coal scuttle in hand.

"No, I wasn't asleep. Will you fill this jug? And throw that quilt over me—I just can't get warm."

"Yes, it's a bit raw today. Why, you didn't drink your tea, madame," taking away the tray.

The behested jug at her feet, Helen cuddled down for another cough-broken, trying-to-doze hour before time to dress.

Only a few moments' sleep would rest and refresh her. But the strained-after oblivion would not come.

Her head ached, her throat ached. And those icy shivers down her back. But worst of all—the crushing sense of depression.

To have wasted the day, with all London calling. Her favorite haunts—the out-of-the-way antique shops. Dingy treasure troves on forgotten side streets. Then, when tired, a bus-top ride through regions still unexplored!

Surely a day "antique-ing," doing the thing she loved most—would have been better than these brooding hours in bed.

With her all ailments were so mental. Just to get out, to forget them, was to throw them off.

Fumbling under the pillow for her handkerchief. How sore and swollen her nose! She would look horrid tonight.

And her hair. Should have washed it today—but not dared. Over two weeks now. Always hopeless when oily.

To have time to wave it—she must get up now. But still she lay there. Too wretched to move.

Big Ben. Six.

The door—Warren!

"Hello, all dark in here?" peering into the bedroom. "How's the cold?"

"Oh, dear, I feel wretched," with a verifying cough.

"Huh, been out again?" switching on the lamps. "Gettin' your throat full of this confounded fog."

"I haven't been anywhere! This morning I wrote letters—and in bed all afternoon."

"Great. Just what you needed. You'll feel all right when you get started. What'd you have to eat? Good lunch?"

"Oh, yes," evasively, shrinking from the thought of food. "But, dear, I don't see how I CAN go—I look so wretched."

"Nonsense, you look fine," without glancing at her. "Come on now, pep up," peeling off his coat and vest. "Got to leave here by 7."

As he swung into the bathroom, Helen forced herself out of bed.

"Where's my shavin' soap?" came his brute shout.

"There somewhere—just look," for once not running to wait on him.

"They must be there. Oh, it hurts me so to cough."

"What'd you have for lunch? No wonder you get run down—won't eat anything. Have to stoke up in this climate. Hello, what's burnin' there?"

"My curling iron! Quick—put it out!"

But the blazing wooden handle was beyond rescue.

"Now I can't fix my hair! And it's HOPEless!"

And I'm a sight. Look at my eyes and nose—Dear, I just CAN'T go!"

"Powder your map—you'll pass. These blamed English laundries," assaulting his collar. "Always glue these button-holes. "Speed up now, haven't got all night."

"I can't do a thing with my hair! If I could only wear a hat! Why can't I wear my black tulle hat. That's evening—"

"Don't wear hats to formal dinners in London. Might get away with that in New York—but not over here."

Now groomed and distinguished in his dinner coat, Warren strode into the sitting-room.

Her arms ached from the exhausting struggle with her hair. No, she couldn't take it down again! And powder refused to subdue her inflamed red nose.

To sit opposite her tonight! And the other guests—

No she couldn't. She WOULDN'T.

"Almost ready? Just five minutes more!"

"What in blazes does this mean?"

"I'm 'not going—I CAN'T! I'm a sight. I just won't—"

"So damn self-centered," he snorted. "Nobody there's going to care a tupence how you look. Now, you get up and dress."

"Warren, I'm NOT going. I won't go anywhere looking like this—"

"Now, you can pull that sort of thing at home—but not in London. Take engagements seriously over here. Don't break 'em at the last minute 'cause the can't get their mugs fixed to suit 'em."

"It isn't only my looks—I'm I really sick. You'll have to go without me. Dear, just this once—it won't happen again."

"You bet it won't!" grimly. "Next time I come over—paris you at home," jerking on his muffler. Told you to stay in and take care of your cold. But not you! So dippy 'bout this devilish fog—had to bum around in it all week. Hope you're fed up with it this trip."

A shrilling bell from the sitting-room.

"Darn that phone!" shrugging on his overcoat, he stumped in to answer it. Hello. . . . What's that? . . . A late night session? . . . Monday? Can't say now. I'll let him know."

Shedding his overcoat, Warren came stalking back.

"Dinner's off! That lets you out. Sir Charles held up at the house—late night session. He introduced some labor bill. Had a lively squabble there this afternoon—in tonight's paper."

"Oh, dear, I'm SO glad. That makes everything right."

"Huh, took an all-night session of parliament to do it. Your dumb luck again! Well, now we can do what we darn please. Want to go down for dinner—or have it sent up?"

"I can't go down," thinking of the expensive room service, "if I don't have to dress—I can wear a hat. It's my hair—I was afraid to wash it—"

"Your hair!" he snorted. "Ready to gum the works because you can't wear a lid. Wonder you wouldn't get a wig to slap on when your own mop don't suit you. But guess that'd be most of the time. Forever fussin' 'bout it—either 'cause you have washed it or you haven't!"

"Beg pardon, sir," the maid at the door. "Could I turn down the beds now? It's my early night off. Oh, I don't want to disturb you madame."

"No, I'm getting up. You can fix this bed, too. Hand me that negligee."

"Here, that flimsy thing's not enough. Put this on," warren flung her his bathrobe. "You got to keep warm. We'll have dinner sent up. No use trottin' you through these cold halls. Judkins, you send the waiter for the order."

"Yes, sir," now drawing the crimson curtains. "Right away, sir."

"No, hold on, we won't bother to order. See William, the head waiter. Just tell him to send up two dinners—the long dinner. He knows what I like."

"Wait, dear, not a long dinner for me? Why, I only want a cup of broth."

"That's all right, Judkins. You order what I say—two long dinners," hurrying her out.

"But, Warren, a seven-course dinner when I feel like this! Why, I couldn't eat a thing all day."

"Huh, thought so. No wonder you're sick. Now, here's where you sink a real meal. Starve a fever and stuff a cold. Ever hear that?"

Helen smiled wanly. The countless times he had thrown at her that mother-eaten adage.

"Glad we can stay in—rotten night out. Looks mighty comfy in here," turning into the lamp-lit sitting-room. "Where d'you want to sit? That side?"

His robe over her chiffon negligee, she settled down in the big chair by the fire.

"There, all set for a real feed! Friday, isn't it. Always have curry here Friday—and that chef knows how to make it. Been in India. Perk up now, you'll feel a darn sight better when you get something in your little Mary."

Then as he poked the fire to a cheerful blaze:

"Need a lot of nourishment in this climate. 'Stuff a cold'—that much is dead right. But I've my doubts 'bout starvin' a fever. No matter what ails you—I believe in stokin' up. That's my prescription—good grub and plenty of it."

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

Today's planetary aspects are good until early in the afternoon. They then change and become rather dubious. During the early part of the day the signs although good are not actively favorable. They indicate, however, that the usual observances and recreations of a Sunday will be fraught with beneficent results. Later on, great self-restraint must be exercised, as the temptation will be ever present to find fault and become unduly critical. There will also be sensed an urge to look disparagingly on the well-meant efforts and good intentions of others. This attitude, unless effectively curbed, is prone to cause disagreement and disharmony and a feeling of resentment on the part of those who have, in their own way, strived to please.

Children born today, are destined, according to the signs, to pass through the infantile period with little or no trouble. All their baby ailments will be slight and need not occasion either worry or alarm. In their "teens," they will not be so fortunate and great care will be required to steer them through their disabilities, so that they may attain physical normalcy. Temperamentally, they will be nervous and highly strung. They will do everything they attempt, whether it be good or bad, with their whole heart and soul. Early environment will play a conspicuous part in these children's welfare and, if properly guided and counselled, they will develop into good and intelligent citizens.

If today is your birthday, you are very self-willed and, at times, obstinate. The more you are opposed, the more stubborn you become. This glaring defect has very frequently operated to your material disadvantage. Such a condition is most unfortunate as you possess a high grade of intelligence, are laborous, and persevering. If you could only realise that others can safely lay claim to some knowledge and are fully entitled to the opinions that they profess, although they may differ from those held by you, your progress in the world would be accelerated.

Your home life, inasmuch as you are so self-opinionated, cannot be expected to be very harmonious or happy. If, however, your mate were born in July or December a pleasing combination may exist.

Successful people born this date are:

Henry P. Tappan, educator.

Sanford E. Church, jurist and politician.

Beriah Magoffin, ex-governor of Kentucky.

John Henry Dolph, artist.

Richard Harding Davis, author.

CLEAN NECKS FOR KIDS.

BERLIN, April 17.—(AP)—German children are being taught to do such usually unpopular things as washing their necks, brushing their teeth and going to bed early through the use of illustrated texts of Mother Goose fairy tales. The government is using the texts in connection with National Health Week, which begins tomorrow.

The press, stage, screen, platform and pulpit has been requisitioned to carry various health rules to grown up, as well as the youngsters.

Magnolia Opens Wildcat Pool In Stephens County

Magnolia Petroleum company No. 1 Charleston, in the northeast corner of the northwest of the southwest of 32-1n-5w, about 12 miles east of Duncan in Stephens county, encountered 4,000,000 feet of gas and 75 barrels of oil in the sand from 1,685 to 1,717 feet. The nearest production to this wildcat is the Velman pool in 1s-5w.

Gasoline Usage Is U pThis Year

TULSA, Okla., April 17.—Gasoline consumption in the 33 states that make monthly reports to the American Petroleum institute increased 20.2 per cent in January and February, this year, compared to the two months of 1925, says a telegram to W. J. Wollman and company.

The total gallonage for the two months is given at 581,228,000 gallons, as against 483,454,000 for the same months of 1925.

Eastern Stock Decline

Crude oil stocks east of the Mississippi river decreased 141,102 barrels during March to a total of 9,438,202 barrels, says word from the Oil City Derrick. Runs of crude oil by eastern pipe lines amounted to 1,910,950 barrels, a gain of 219,917 barrels over February. March deliveries amounted to 4,657,395 barrels, an increase of 191,733 barrels.

Big Lime Pool Is Throckm'n Forecast

Red Bank Oil company No. 1 Parrott, in the southeast corner of the northeast of section 970, Premium survey, Throckmorton county, Central Texas, located six miles north of the town of Woodson and three miles northwest of the Reiter-Foster Oil corporation and Humble Oil and Refining company Stubblefield wells, is regarded as one of the best bets in Texas, say oil men home from that area. The last 24 hours the well made 470 barrels natural from sand at 3,939 to 3,949 feet. It is producing from the Breckenridge lime and geologists forecast 60 feet of lime pay yet to test.

Setting Pipe On Woodbine Test

A highly saturated oil core has been taken from the No. 1 T. D. Ross of the Transcontinental Oil Oil company, on Pedro Varela survey, Limestone county, east central Texas, and six miles due west of the old Mexia field. Reports say that the Transcontinental is setting pipe at 2,950 feet, on top of a sand that appears to be the Woodbine. Should the Transcontinental get a commercial well there it may result in a new major field being opened.

Brownsville And Matamoras Active

Telegrams fromb Houston indicate that the Dutch Shell, the Transcontinental, Humble and Mexican Gulf companies have geologists at Brownsville, Texas, and Matamoros, Mexico, making a study of structures and exploring the vicinity. Preliminary investigations there point to the presence of oil in the area, and the geologists and rechecking. Some 125 miles to the northwest is the Laredo oil field and around 150 miles to the northeast is the Gulf Coast field.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, April 17.—(AP)—There was fairly active trading today for a short Saturday session and although prices slumped off 10 to 12 points in the early trading on the execution of overnight selling orders and in sympathy with much lower Liverpool cables, the decline was all recovered in the later trading due to covering for over the week-end. The rally was also helped by the barometer lines on the weather map holding out the possibility of a recurrance of unsettled weather over Sunday. The close was called very steady and within a point or two of the best, showing net losses for the day of only one to three points.

At the start as Liverpool was four to ten penny points worse than due the market here opened easier and first trades showed loses of 6 to 12 points. Prices continued to ease off after the opening call under the pressure of overnight selling orders and eventually May traded down to 17.30, July to 17.35 and October to 16.34, or 10 to 12 points below yesterday's close. These prices proved to be the lows of the day. During the second hour of the two hour session prices rallied on covering by shorts for over the week-end and on more or less buying based on the barometer lines of the map holding out some prospect for a change in the weather over Sunday.

All the early loss was recovered, active months eventually paralleling the close of yesterday.

The close was within a point or two of the highest with the undertone very steady.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP)—Renewal of yesterday's selling movement based primarily on better weather conditions for the new crop start in the south led to further declines in the cotton market today. All new crop months made new low ground for the season, but the decline was checked by trade buying or covering around 16.51 for May and 17.00 for October. May later rallied to 16.61, and October to 17.14. The market closed steady net seven points lower to two points higher.

The opening was easy at a decline of seven to 13 points, active months soon showing net losses of 13 to 15 points, active months soon showing net losses of 13 to 15 points. Selling on the better weather was stimulated by relatively easy Liverpool cables, poor trade advices from Manchester and reiterated talk of domestic mill curtailment. Covering in new crop months and trade buying of the old, checked the break at about the 18½ cent level for May, however, and the market was less active with forenoon prices decidedly steadier.

The official forecast for partly cloudy or cooler weather in the south probably disappointed recent sellers and there may have been a little buying on apprehensions that unsettled conditions would develop over the week-end. July sold up from 17.05 to 18.12 and December from 16.66 to 16.76, and the market closed within a few points of the best.

Private cables reported hedge selling and liquidation in Liverpool on the better weather news from the south and unsettled labor conditions in England, adding there was only a small demand for cotton cloths in Lancashire and that yarns were depressed.

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP)—Stock prices continued to fluctuate within a narrow trading area in today's market, but the undertone was firm and both rail and industrial averages showed moderate gains on the day. Fluctuations in the active issues reflected mainly the usual week-end readjustment of speculative accounts. Total sales barely exceeded 350,000 shares, making it the dullest half holiday season since October 4, 1924.

Business uncertainties continued to exert a restraining influence on constructive market operations. Trading was confined largely to the dealings of professional traders, most of whom were more concerned in "catching the turns" in individual stocks than in building up a permanent market.

Several items, capable of bullish interpretation, made their appearance in the day's news. These included the weekly report of the federal reserve bank showing another sharp drop in brokers' loans for the week ended April 7, bringing the total below $2,500,000 for the first time this year; the publication of the annual report of the Pan-American petroleum and transport company, showing earnings of $30.91 a share (par $50) as compared with $5.87 in 1924; the announcement that the Canadian plant of the General Motors corporation would resume operations on Monday and that the Canadian tariff would not particularly affect the parent company and the report of the American Petroleum institute, showing an increase of 20 per cent in gasoline consumption in the first two months of this year as compared with the corresponding period of 1925.

Offsetting these influences, however, was the establishment of another new low record by French francs at 3.36 cents; a further drop in silver prices, bringing them to the lowest level in two years and the report of the bureau of labor statistics showing a drop of 2¼ per cent in wholesale commodity prices last month, one of the sharpest monthly declines on record.

Motors fluctuated rather erratically in today's market, opening heavy rallying sharply, losing part of their gains and then bounding upward again at the close. General Motors, Hudson, Mack Truck, Stewart-Warner, White and Fierce Arrow preferred all closed one to nearly two points higher.

Rails were practically neglected. Texas and Pacific the most active issues advanced over a point with similar gains being recorded by Atchison, Atlantic Coast Line and Delaware and Hudson on much smaller turnovers.

Trading in the foreign exchange was quiet. Demand sterling held steady at $4.85¾ and most of the European rates showed litle change. The so-called "silver currencies" were heavy but Japanese yen about three years. Peruvian exchange advanced close to 47c, the highest price in touched a new low for the year but Argentine exchange was strong.

Frederick Schools In Commencement

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, April 17.—A baccalaureate sermon and commencement exercises on May 21 are to mark the graduation of 70 students of the Frederick high school, according to J. O. Shaw, city superintendent of public instruction.

Plans for the approaching event are being made by the senior class at this time, Shaw says.

The class recently ordered two valuable paintings and two reliefs of Washington and Lincoln, to leave in memory of their high school days. The pieces of art are to be paid for from funds raised by the class during the year.

Frederick Children Injured in Crashes

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, April 17.—The condition of Clayton Bellah, 13, and Ethel Pritchard, 10, school children injured in two accidents near Frederick Friday morning, is continuing grave at hospitals here.

Bellah was injured when he fell from a land disc as his four-horse team ran away with him. He received a badly crushed skull and a broken leg.

The Pritchard girl suffered a serious laceration on her skull when she was struck by her school teacher's car as she was proceeding to school Friday morning.

EARNING DECREASE.

AUSTIN, April 17.—(AP)—A decrease of 25.06 per cent in the net operating income for Texas railways during January 1926, as compared with the same month for 1925, was reported today by the Texas railroad commission.

The net operating income for last January was $2,300,134, and for January 1926, was $3,069,171, a decrease of $769,037.

Operating revenues for last January totalled $18,150,366; total operating expenses $14,013,938; taxes $782,729; uncollectible revenue $5,703; equipment rents, debits, $974,875; and joint facilities rents, debit, $70,120.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, April 17.—(AP)—Immense export dealings in North American wheat led to a steep new upturn today in wheat value here. Engagements of ocean vessel room for grain the first week of May were reported to be the largest ever known.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 2¼ to 2¾c net higher. May (new) $1.68¾ to $1.69¾ and July $1.44¼ to $1.44¾, with corn ¾ to 1¼c up oats showing ½@¾c to 1c gain, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a rise of 12c.

Corn and oats advanced with wheat. Prolonged cool weather counted also as a bullish factor in the corn market. Further delay to oats seeding was reported.

Provisions were responsive to grain strength and to the upward trend of the hog market.

Livestock

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, April 17.—Livestock arrivals were small, even for a Saturday market. The estimate was 500 cattle, 100 calves, 500 hogs and 175 sheep. Cattle receipts included six cars of steers, late in reaching the yards and the run of hogs figured in 350 head that came on direct packer billing.

Trading was active, yards being cleared early of everything for initial inspection of buyers. Sales on all classes were at least steady. Shorn lambs were 15c higher.

Nothing in way of slaughter steers, small lots excepted, here for the early trade, but buyers remained in their offices to look over late arrivals.

Three full loads cows here in addition to few cars mixed type. Everything met good demand, market entirely satisfactory. Two loads $5.50, small drafts $6.00. Canners $3.25.

Sale of heifers $3.60, remainder was package lots.

Bull holdings too small to afford test of market. Few single heads $4.50@5.25.

Very few calves available, nothing very good, one lot $6.75.

Nothing on sale in hog carlot division. Few head brought in by truck in line with Friday's general market. The best available $12.90; most of the run $12.00@12.75. Quality offered wide range.

Good conditions developed in sheep and lamb division. Package lot genuine lambs sold $13.50 and 150 shorn spring lambs $11.50, the latter showing $1.25c advance.

Cattle 6,000, including 100 calves; market steady; beeves $5.50@8.50; stockers $5.00@7.50; fat cows $4.00@6.00; canners $3.50@3.85; canners $3.5" @3.35; heifers $5.00@8.50; yearlings $7.50@9.50; bulls $3.75@5.50; calves $4.00@8.00.

ALTUS CHURCHES FORM SOCIETY

Organize Welfare League To Function as County Charity Unit

ALTUS, April 17.—Approximately 25 representatives from the churches of Altus formed a Civic Welfare league when they conducted a meeting this week under the direction of J. W. Williams, county judge.

Arrangements were made for tag days to be conducted Thursday and Friday, when contributions for the league will be collected in the different wards of the town.

County funds allowed for that work are exhausted as well as the funds donated by different civic organizations, and through the co-operation of the churches and entire town.

Committees selected to assist in the work include Mrs. A. C. Fagin, of the Christian church, Mrs. Clarence Baker of the First Methodist church; Mrs. J. A. Lyle, First Baptist church; Mrs. J. H. McNeil, of the First Presbyterian church; Mrs. Stallings of the church of Christ; Mrs. M. D. Johnston of the Episcopal church; and Mrs. C. E. Keener, of the Nazarene church with Mrs. McNeil as chairman of the committee.

Chairman selected to sponsor the tag sale in the different wards of the town were Mrs. J. A. Lyle for ward one; Mrs. C. L. Johnson for ward two, Mrs. Stallings, for ward three; and Mrs. M. D. Johnston for ward four. Assistants will be named by each of the women to assist in the sale.

HASKELL

P. T. A. ELECT OFFICERS.

The Parent-Teacher association met in regular semi-monthly meeting last Thursday afternoon in a business meeting. The president, Mrs. Chas. Parsons presided and before going into the business meeting Superintendent H. D. Neff in a short talk brought before this body some vital facts concerning the Haskell schools. Then reports of the year's work were made by heads of all of the departments and special committees. Then the president reminded those present of the two special goals set for the year's work, not to make the year entirely materialistic but to foster high class programs, which the association has certainly done, the other was the establishment of a student loan fund and this too has been done. At this meeting after several hundred dollars worth of supplies have been purchased for the Haskell schools it was found that there was money in the treasury and $25 was donated toward buying a piano for the north ward school and a check for $25 made in favor of the city's federated missionary societies for the beautifying of the school grounds. Mrs. H. M. Smith is chairman of this work. The P. T. A. indorsed the movement of the city's federated missionary societies in going before the Haskell school board and asking that some action be taken toward building a new ward school. It was voted to have open house Thursday the 22 of April at 3:30 o'clock at which time every lady in Haskell is invited to be present and hear the delegate to Eastland, Mrs. Date Anderson's report. Officers for 1927 school year are as follows: President, Mrs Date Anderson; first vice president Mrs. B. M. Whitaker; second vice president, Mrs. H. M. Smith; third vice president, Mrs. H. D. Neff; treasurer, Mrs. J. E. Bernard; corresponding secretary, Mrs. John Oates; recording secretary, Mrs. Press Baldwin; publicity, Mrs. C. M. Kaigler.

MRS. CLYDE GRISSOM HOSTESS.

Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Clyde Grissom was hostess to the two bridge clubs of Haskell, the Tuesday Bridge club and the Thursday Bridgeclub. Early spring flowers from the yard, brightened the reception suite and the lovely Easter frocks of the guests added charm to the bridge tables. Mrs. Clayborn Payne made high score and was given a telephone book and Mrs. J. E. Bernard was consoled for making low score with a hand-painted bud vase. Mrs. Grissom served her guests apricot sherbert and white cake and her favors were made umbrellas of dainty handkerchiefs in pink and orchid. Members of the two clubs present, Mrs. Joe Broadus of Tyler; Mrs. Marlin Wilson and Mrs. Jess Campbell of Rule, and Hesdames J. E. Bernard, W. H. Murchison, Wayne Koonce, Roy Shook, C. V. Payne, John Oates, Hill Oates, J. P. Payne, Wallace Cox, Theron Cahill, Bailey Post and Miss Mildred Shook.

MRS. NEFF DIRECTS "COLLEGE DAYS."

College days as the name indicates, is a truly college play with all of the high points that make college life so interesting, baseball and college romances, even among the faculty, was a big success last Friday evening at the Haskell high school auditorium. Mrs. H. D. Neff directed this play and that it was such a decided success not only in production but in door receipts will be fully appreciated when it is generally known that the proceeds are to go toward buying a piano for the north ward school. Those in the cast were: Iola Taylor, Mary Sherrell, Frances Grissom, Kenneth England, Carlton Wyche, Lewis Pearsey, Earnest Wright, M. B. Lebo, Milton Simmons, Ray Eastland, O. E. Patterson Jr, Kirby Kirkpatrick, Homer Ferguson and between the acts there were two splendid readings by Mrs. Ward Boyce and Miss Brucile Bryant.

HANCOCK-CAHILL WEDDING.

Haskell's newly elected mayor, T. C. Cahill and Miss Harby Hancock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Hancock, surprised their closest friends last Monday by driving quietly off to Breckenridge where they were married, sending word back to friends that they were off on a fortnight's trip to Central and North Texas and to the Rio Grande valley. On their return to Haskell they will be at home to their friends at the Cahill residence on Main Street. All join in wishing for the mayor and Mrs. Cahill a happy voyage on the matrimonial sea.

CALDWELL-SHRIVER.

A wedding of interest in Haskell was that of Miss Sallie Caldwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Caldwell and Mr. James Shriver, which took place last Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. They drove to the First Christian parsonage and were united in marriage by the pastor, Rev. G. R. Forrester and left immediately on the train for Wichita Falls where they spent a few days before continuing on to Oklahoma City where Mr. Shriver is in business. Both the bride and the groom are well and favorably known in Haskell where all join in wishing for them happiness and prosperity.

PUPILS IN RECITAL.

Tuesday evening Mrs. Ila Brock presented her piano pupils in recital to an appreciative audience. Mrs. Brock is one of the oldest music teachers in the county and does be part to maintain a high standard in the world of music. This classical recital was given by the following pupils: Julia Baughmenn, Avis Lawson, Geneva Williams, Eloise Couch, Minnie Ola Davis, Mildred Simmons, Mary Pearsey, Chester Strickland, Mamie Jones, interspersed by a vocal solo by William Young and tenor banjo accompaniment to a number of the piano selections by Mrs. Brock.

HARMONY CLUB.

The Harmony club is practicing daily on the opgretta, "Miss Cauthers Return," which will be put on in the very near future, the date to be announced soon. It is a musical comedy and is filled to the brim with fun and unique dances.

PRAISE VOICED FOR SPEAKERS

Branch of School System Commended by Local Business Men

Commendation of the public speaking department of the Wichita Falls public school system is made the basis for a letter signed by twelve local barristers and business men received by the Record News Saturday. The twelve signing the letter are those who acted as judges in the recent declamation and public speaking contests held in the schools.

In the letter it is stated there is a wealth of talent among the students here and the work of Miss Juanita Kinsey in fostering and developing this talent is especially commended.

The letter follows:

Dear Sir:

We, the undersigned, desire that you shall publish this letter in your paper and consider it addressed as well to the board of education of the Wichita Falls public schools and the citizenship of Wichita Falls as to yourself.

Privilege to Act.

It has been our privilege and pleasure within the past week to act as judges in the public speaking contests staged in this city, to determine what students should represent the Wichita Falls high school in the district meets. We each desire to state that it has been a delightful surprise to us to find the wealth of talent in public speaking in all its branches, declamation, debate and extemporaneous speeches, that exists among the students of our schools. From what we have seen of the work that has been going on in the public speaking department of our schools, we have no doubt that Wichita Falls will be ably represented in any contest in which she may be entered.

We were unaware of the truly great work that has been going on under the direction of Miss Juanita Kinsey, head of the public speaking department of our schools, and we feel that she is indeed to be commended for the capable manner in which she has rendered her services and for the splendid results she has obtained. We feel that these are indeed extraordinary, especially when we consider the large number of boys and girls under her guidance, and the fact that she has no assistance whatever in this department.

Would Be Proud.

We feel sure that if the people of this city and the patrons of our schools would visit Miss Kinsey's department they would come away feeling that they had profited much, and proud indeed of this branch of our educational system.

(Signed.)

Smiles as He Goes With 339 Others to Devil's Island

World's attention again is centered on Devil's Island, French penal colony where medieval methods of punishment survive, as another shipload of convicts slowly makes its way from France to the island. Aboard the ship are 340 men doomed to the "dry guillotine," the unfortunates' name for the hell-hole, where they are subject to tortures of equatorial heat and the worst of tropical insects as well as the extreme cruelty of keepers. One of them (arrow) can be seen smiling as he goes aboard the ship, shown above.

?Nutrition?

Answers by Miss Beatrice Hall Nutrition Expert of the Red Cross

Send all questions pertaining to nutrition to Miss Beatrice Hall, care court house, Red Cross. Answers will appear in the following Sunday paper.

Question: "Please tell me something about food values—that is, which ones build tissues, etc."—Mrs. T. O. T.

Answer: First, we must have foods for body building—replacing worn tissues as well as for building new ones; also food for building bones and teeth.

Second, we must have foods for energy and heat.

Third, foods which regulate; and fourth, foods for growth and health promoting.

In order for you to now which foods build, etc., I am going to give you a recipe for food selection—all good housekeepers can follow a recipe. For body-building we depend largely upon this brief list, milk, eggs, cheese, fish, dry beans, peanuts, almonds, lean meat. Milk is put at the head of the list because no one should dare omit it from a child's food list, and every adult should use milk daily.

The notable energy-yielding foods are the pure fats, sugars and starches; also fatty foods, such as fat meat, cream and nuts, sweet foods, such as molasses, preserves, candies and cakes; starchy foods such as flour, meal, cereals and potatoes.

To regulate the body we must have foods containing certain mineral matters. Milk heads the list in furnishing lime. Also, there must be some material taken which will give bulk to the food and help to keep it moving during digestion. Fortunately for the housekeeper, the fruits, vegetables and cereals which contain valuable mineral matter also may contain certain bulky cellulose which is not digested, so that part is easy.

Now, we come to the need for growth and health promoting foods, and it is right here that we set up the guards against under-nourishment, poor teeth, susceptibility to tuberculosis and other infections, scurvy and inefficiency in general. Here again the problem is not difficult, but the one who plans the meals must do some thinking and do it every meal every day. The key foods are milk, vegetables including the green, leafy ones, fresh fruit and whole cereals.

If it ever happens that you cannot obtain fresh milk be careful to make up the difference by use of dried milk, butter, cheese and green leafy vegetables, such as spinach and lettuce.

Use milk in every meal, every day. Use eggs, even if you must cut your meat bill. Be sure you use vegetables, fruits and home-cooked cereals every day.

Three are Injured In Plains Smashup

LUBBOCK, April 17.—(AP)—Willis J. Edwards of Dallas, Miss Francis Harris, Snyder and E. E. The couples will form a chorus. They will sing three groups of old hymns and anthems.

LIFT BARS IN FLORAL HEIGHTS

Property Owners Planning Restrictions Against Church

Perpetuation of building restrictions in the Floral Heights addition with some minor changes in the restriction code, was voted unanimously by property owners of the area in a mass meeting held in the 78th district court room Saturday night. Some 50 persons were in attendance at the meeting, these, however, holding proxies from those absent.

The restriction code as adopted and perpetuated by the body prohibits the building of any except residences in the section, places a minimum value of $5,000 on such construction, and allows the building of only one such structure on every 50 feet of property front.

Formal papers agreeing to the restriction code will be drawn up at once and presented the property owners for their signatures, it is understood, the paper finally to be entered on the county records and held binding thereafter.

The meeting was called particularly to stop construction of the proposed new Floral Heights Baptist church at the corner of Buchanan and Avenue F. Property owners claimed that the church in that location would detract from the value of the property.

VARSITY STAGES DRUNKEN PARTY

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—(AP)—Reports of drunkenness and a "general bowery dance hall atmosphere" at recent dances sponsored by University of Pennsylvania fraternities have caused President Lynn H. Harris, of Beaver College for Women, Jenkentown, Pa., to refuse further permission for young women of his college to attend university affairs. Beaver college has an enrollment of 358 students.

Dr. Harris said promiscuous drinking at the recent inter-fraternity ball of the University of Pennsylvania given at the Bellevue-Stratford hotel precipitated the decision to "black list" future university events. He added that Provost Josiah C. Penniman of the university, replying to his complaint of conditions reported told him the inter-fraternity affair was being investigated.

"I do not mean to imply that all the couples were drunk," Dr. Harris said in explaining his reference to the inter-fraternity affair. "But there were numerous men and women who plaintly showed the effects of liquor, and no effort was made by anybody, so far as I could learn either to stop the drinking or to keep them off the floor unless they began fighting or could not stand up according to the reports made to me."

"At all of these dances, some at least are from Christian homes and are of decent rearing," Dr. Harris wrote in his letter to Provost Penniman. "It seems scarcely proper to subject these to the sight of contact with the open drunkenness, among both men and women, and the general bowery dance hall atmosphere that has been increasingly characteristic of the university dances.

"We know that the majority of our students are from respectable homes and we trust these are ladies, at all events we do not feel justified in sending them, with our permission into conditions which might tempt them, or afford them opportunities to be other than ladies or which are contrary to all the principles which we are endeavoring to inculcate."

Dr. Penniman was out of the city today but other university officials expressed great surprise on being told of Dr. Harris' complaint. They pointed out that the inter-fraternity ball was not under university jurisdiction although attended by university students, having been entirely supervised by the various fraternities.

Tree Protection One of Greatest Needs in America, Says Elbert In Endorsing National Forest Week

Values of Forests as Economic And Natural Asset Cannot be Overestimated, He Says; Hoo-Hoo Clubs Sponsoring Movement

"One of the most important problems confronting the people of North America is that of protecting and perpetuating Forest resources and the rugged out-of-doors which has contributed so largely to spiritual, physical and aesthetic advancement."

This statement was made Saturday by Fred J. Elbert of the Galbraith Fozworth Lumber company, local vicegerent snark of the international fraternal order of lumbermen, the concatenated order of Hoo-Hoo, which is sponsoring the forestry educational movement.

The friends of the forests is a purely educational movement and is endorsed by the government forest services of the United States and Canada. It was originated by Hoo-Hoo and receives the co-operation of civic organizations, clergymen, educators and others.

"The health and prosperity of every person of every age and sex and of every strata of society, depend very much on the services forests render us," Mr. Elbert said. "We receive either directly or indirectly from the forests food, clothing, shelter, health, happiness, recreation and inspiration.

An Aid to Transportation.

"Trees have a large part in our systems of transportation and communication lumber entering into the building of ships, railroad cars and automobiles and more than five million trees being cut each year for telephone poles.

"Trees shelter the birds and the birds destroy the insects which do such tremendous damage to our crops and vegetation. Trees diminish the force of wind, protecting our homes and buildings. Trees have an important influence on climate giving moisture in dry weather and thus preventing parching temperatures. Trees beautify the country and make the out of doors an attractive place for the motorist, the hunter, the camper, the hiker and the nature lover.

Ten billion dollars is invested in the lumber industry alone and more than a half million men labor in forest and mill. Other wood using industries represent an even larger investment and the number of men employed, counting carpenters, cabinet-makers, planing mill workers and the host of men and women directly dependent on wood products for employment, exceeds the number engaged directly in the lumber industry.

Heavy Damage Caused.

"Tremendous damage is wrought in the United States and Canada every year by forest fires. The real tragedy, however, is that 85 per cent of these fires are man made, the result either of human carelessness or human cussedness. We must stop forest fires.

"Realizing the necessity of enlivening the public interest in the forests, the United States and Canada are jointly observing forest week, April 18 to 24. In the states, it is American forest week and in the Dominion save the forest week. Every citizen should take an active part in the observance of the week here."

The 52 Hoo-Hoo clubs in the United States and Canada and their officers are sponsoring the local events during forest week in co-operation with public spirited citizens and organizations.

Homesites Selling In Country Club Estates Division

The Country Club estates, Wichita Falls' largest restricted residential sub-division, is meeting with excellent success since being put on the market about two weeks ago, in pre-development sale.

Already more than $200,000 worth of property has been sold, according to Walter S. Curlee, general sales agent of this sub-division.

Recent Purchasers.

Among the purchasers of homesites in the Country Club estates during the past week are some of Wichita Falls' most prominent citizens. J. J. Perkins has purchased lot 5, block 6, consisting of 240' front, 460' deep, facing the large park being developed by the Hamilton-Martin Investment company, and overlooking the Golf links of the Country club, near the entrance to the Municipal park. L. H. Cullum has purchased lot 4, block 6, on the north and the same size as the one purchased by Mr. Perkins. W. J. Grisham has purchased lot 5, block 16, facing 155 feet on Clarinda avenue and 200 feet on Harrison boulevard. J. G. Dixon of Voelker and Dixon, has purchased lot 3, block 22. Roy Hammond has purchased lot 6, block 15. Mrs. Wm. A. Huper has purchased lot 3, block 26. T. A. Wilson has purchased lot 8, block 1. Chas. Rhader has purchased lot 7, block 15, facing 130 feet on Berkeley drive and 170 feet on Harrison boulevard.

Each to Build

Each of these purchasers has announced the intention to begin the erection of residences on their respective lots as soon as the architectual plans can be completed.

There are a number of other purchases made and homes planned," said Mr. Curlee. "But for various reasons the purchaser has requested that no mention be made at the present time of contracts having been entered into." "Approximately 15 other persons have selected their building sites and contracts for the purchase will be executed the coming week."

Spudders Drop Last Game of Series To Shreveporters, 8-3

Sports' Find Batting Eyes at Expense Of Sutherland and Morgan, Brainard Drives in Runs

SHREVEPORT, April 17.—The Sports came out of their batting slump that had existed since early in the spring and hammered their way to an 8 to 3 win over the Spudders in the final game of the series. Both clubs departed from here Saturday night with a percentage of 500.

Suds Sutherland and Morgan were the hurlers that the locals picked on. In the early inning the Sports were helped along to gain a lead by the wildness of Sutherland and when the Louisianans found their batting eye against Morgan and by solid base knocks scored three runs off Morgan. In the sixth Don Brown, hit a homer over the left field wall with a runner on base and in the seventh after Taylor had walked and stole second, Hoffman singled to left and Taylor scored.

Suds Wild.

Sutherland put three runners on base via the four-ball route in the first and escaped unhurt. A walk and a double had him in trouble in the second and again he came out unscratched. He walked Hoffman in the third and in this period he was not so fortunate. Brown and Bonowitz singled and two runs resulted. Adkins singled to open the fourth and Sutherland went up in the air and pitched three balls to Donovan and then Morgan went to the mound. Donovan walked Morgan and Adkins at third on Benton's roller but Brainard dropped the ball. Adkins scored on Taylors out and Hoffman singled to clear the sacks. That ended the running until Brown hit his homer.

Brainard Slams Ball.

Adkins pitched good ball and his fast ball had such a peculiar hop the visiting athletes kept calling on the ump to examine the sphere. Brainard was the trouble maker for Adkins, getting two doubles in three times at bat. He drove in the first run. In the fourth Turgeon walked and after Washburn flied out, Bodie singled, Brainard doubled and Turgeon scored. Brainard helped in the run making in the eighth. Washburn singled and Bodie skied out. Brainard doubled and Bodie went to third. Lamb hit for two bases and two runs counted.

After the sixth Adkins was the master. He was in rare form and the heavy Spudder hitters were asked to look at some good pitching.

"One Eye" Thrown Out, But Finally Crashes Through

EL PASO, Texas, April 17.—(AP) "One Eye" Connelly, who always crashes gate at sport events, was thrown out of the national guard armory into the street last night when he attempted to see a boxing contest without buying a ticket.

Connelly left off his disguises, water buckets and customary bag of tricks and tried to storm his way through the turnstiles. He was halted by R. R. Landrum, chief gate keeper.

"Show me your ticket," said Landrum.

"I'm One-Eyed Connelly," shouted the gate crasher, "you can't stop me."

Landrum did, however, and a few seconds later Connelly was sprawling in the street.

"I would not come into your club now if you pay me a thousand dollars," shouted Connelly.

But a few minutes later he did as a special guest.

Aggies Smear It On Owls, 8 to 2

COLLEGE STATION, April 17.—(AP)—Heavy hitting in the first two innings gave the Texas Aggies an easy victory over Rice Institute here today. The farmers counted four times in the first and added three more in the second, driving Ables to the showers.

The Owls retaliated by knocking Wyman, farmer twirler, from the box in the sixth. Grandpa Woods relieved Ables and held the Aggies at bay for the rest of the afternoon. Four errors by the Rice nine aided the Aggie scoring.

DOPESTERS LOSE MINDS UNTYING HEAVY TANGLE

Situation Apparently Becomes More Muddled With Each Dawn

By SPARROW McGANN
Special Correspondent.

NEW YORK, April 17.—One good way to lose your sanity is to try to make head and tail out of the present heavyweight championship situation.

Affairs just now seem to be more muddled than ever and while undoubtedly the pot is boiling nobody knows just what is cooking.

There is one promising sign, Jack Dempsey is unusually quiet just now. One reason for this may be that he is awaiting a favorable word as to the real intentions of his former manager and erstwhile bosom pal, Jack Kearns, in making his eastern journey.

Ostensibly Kearns is piloting a new heavyweight in the person of Napoleon Dorval, but this young man is not sufficiently important to stand as the sole reason why Dapper Jack should hit the long transcontinental trail.

Of course, Kearns is manager of Mickey Walker and rumors persist that Benny Leonard will renounce his filial piety and return to the ring for that long talked of million dollar battle with Mickey Walker, he welterweight king. This would easily account for Kearns' trip from the west coast. But he may well have another big iron in the fire.

Rickard Clever.

Tex Rickard has been sufficiently clever to keep in the good graces of both Dempsey and Kearns. He is playing for high stakes and it is not to his interest to offend either man.

Rickard holds a contract signed by Kearns binding Dempsey to fight Harry Wills and another to fight Gene Tunney. If Dempsey meets either man on his own hook, Kearns says he will go to law to make certain he receives his percentage of the purse. Again, Kearns' contract with the champion, which does not expire ununtil next September, is so worded as to make the title holder liable for an estimated percentage of the purse in case Dempsey fails to honor the contracts signed by Kearns.

Just how much he could collect in case Dempsey were to fight is a hard question to answer but the chances are that Kearns would get a pretty penny from the promoter staging the battle, in order to avoid legal entanglements that waste a lot of temper, time and money.

Dempsey could hardly sign to fight Wills or Tunney before September and sidetrack his former manager without a long and costly legal fight.

But it is hardly likely the pair will ever get into court as rivals, since each may know things about the other that were best kept away from the public. Very few, if any, squabbles between an important manager and his fighter have been aired in court probably for this very reason.

But as to Dempsey's activities after the contract has expired, it looks as though he certainly will meet Tunney in September. No one in authority has denied that the fight will take place and Tunney has written to friends that everything is set.

Rickard has the inside track on this bount, regardless of what any publicity-seeking promoter may say. Dempsey has done business with Rickard in the past and has always been paid in full—which is more than can be said for the battles in which the champion has participated.

The New York boxing commission is on record as holding that Harry Wills is the logical contender for the title. But wait an' see what happens. Political influences may have something to say and it would not be surprising if some radical change occurred in the personnel of the commission as a result of the Wills matter. The whole thing is due to be thrashed out shortly.

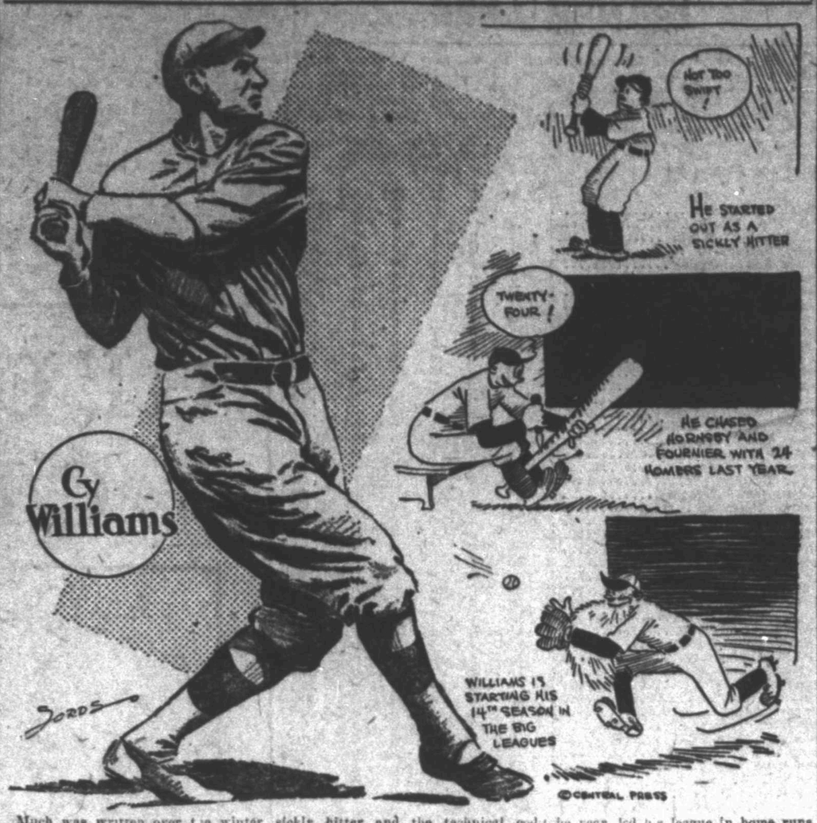

Dempsey, they say is land-poor and needs cash. If he decides to fight he knows from experience that he must take on a few opponents before he can hope to step with a real fighter.

Here is where Kearns figures again. Dempsey has said he will be willing to give Kearns 25 per cent of any purse he receives for a fight but will not stand for Kearns making matches for him. Should Dempsey care to test his contract with Kearns in court, he could sign to meet an obscure fighter and then see what the courts do. In this way the path might be cleared to his indulging in one or two big time bouts in late summer. It is said that this is what the champion will do.

STECHER PINS JUDSON

WICHITA, Kan., April 17.—(AP) Joe Stecher, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, defeated Frank Judson, former wrestling coach, here last night, taking two straight falls with his famous scissors hold. The first fall was recorded after 31 minutes of grappling and the second in two minutes.

BASEBALL'S STILL PLAYED
With Usual Ball and Bat, So Old Cy Is Ready Again

Much was written over the winter months concerning changes expected in baseball—changes to the so-called resin ball rule, the alteration in the composition of the ball, the change in the sacrifice fly rule, the influx of new stars from the minors, etc.

But after all the haranguing and whatnot the season opened with the game still much the same as it was a year ago. Which was about what one could expect.

"Cy" Williams, grand oud beacon-light of the Phillies, expected it. He hove into the training camp resting easy in that thought and has now proceeded to play baseball "as usual."

As long as the main part of baseball seems to be the ability to sock with regularity and much gusto a horse-hide ball with a wooden club Mr. Williams will be in the game, judging by his record to date.

Started With Cubiets

Williams is starting his eighth season with the Phils and his fourteenth in the big leagues. For six years before joining the Quaker City outfit he played with the Cubs. With the exception of the first three years with the latter and his first year with the Phils he has galloped through well over a hundred games each season. He lacked experience when he joined the Chicago team direct from Notre Dame. And Uncle Sam cut short the 1918 season, his first in the eastern ball yard.

The odd feature about Williams' career to date is that while he has been known for some time as a behemoth of swat he started out as a sickly hitter and the technical cod liver oil the Cubs bosses fed him for six years failed to improve his hitting strength. He hit .279 one year and didn't recover from the surprise until the Christmas holidays. His first two years with the Phils he hit .276 and .278, and felt this a dizzy pace to maintain.

Different Next Year

The next year out he must have taken a new grip no the bat or moved up his hind sights. Anyhow Mr. Williams' hitting was all that prevented the year being a perfect bust for the Phils.

He collected an average of .325 for the year, led the league in home runs with 15, and slammed out 36 doubles and 10 triples.

He collected an average of .325 for since, in 1923 when he hit seven points under the line. The other years have found his average well above the charmed circle margin. Last year he slapped the apple for a .327 average and gave Jack Fournier and Rogers Hornsby a battle for home run honors. Cy grabbed 24, Hornsby 25, Fournier 27.

This is just another year to Cy.

And that goes. Even if the resin becomes so thick on the ball he has to dust it off as he swings.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

BY NORMAN E. BROWN

The battle is on.

Not, possibly for the home run championship, although that may come later.

But for the spotlight.

The tall, rangy Pacific coast star, is already "set" in the hearts of many Yankee fans. The stories concerning his work and his likeable personality, eminating from the southern training camp, started him on the right road. Fortunately he was unaffected by the early notices.

Now New York fans have had a first hand look at him, afield and at bat, they like him still better.

Huggins has trained the Yank fans to like husky ball players who can maul the ball. In the heydey of the Yank machine Huggins exhibited a wrecking crew that could ruin any day for any pitcher. Pipp, Peckinpaugh, Pratt, Meusel, Ruth himself and others all were feared when they stepped to the plate.

Lazzeri is that type. He may take some months to get on to the intricacies of big league pitching. He may pull a few bobbles in the Yank infield under pressure, but he seems to have the stuff.

And if he does start socking out home runs as he did on the Pacific coast to the tune of some sixty last season it will take some herculean belting by that worthy Babe Ruth to keep Tony, the tall one, from grabbing the major part of the calcium.

BEARS AVENGE WACO BEANING

Wildness Coupled With Errors Give Santone Final Game

SAN ANTONIO, April 17.—(AP) Four bases on balls, coupled with an error and hit, gave the Bears three runs in the third inning to take the lead and win the final game of the Waco series 4 to 2 today. Elliott walked two Bears in a row with the bases full, forcing in two runs, and was relieved by Cannon. Julius Kaiser kept the Waco hits scattered, and but for an error would have had a shut out. Brilliant fielding by Flashkamper, Segrist and Najo kept down the Waco hits. In the fourth inning Earl Wolgamot, Waco catcher, was hit in the back of the head with a pitched ball and knocked out. Knox went behind the bat. The game was played during a slight drizzle.

Boosters Play Today

FREDERICK, April 17.— The Frederick Booster baseball team is to open its season here Sunday.

Reinforced by a likely bunch of youngsters, and with many of the old-timers back in Frederick uniforms, it is believed that the locals will get away to a win over Tipton, their first opponents.

"HAIR-GROOM"

Keeps Hair Combed, Glossy Well-Groomed all Day

"Hair-Groom" is a dignified combing cream which costs only a few cents a jar at any drugstore. Millions use it because it gives that natural gloss and well-groomed effect to the hair—that final touch to good dress both in business and on social occasions. Even stubborn, unruly or shampooed hair stays combed all day in any style you like. "Hair-Groom" is greaseless; also helps grow thick, heavy, lustrous hair.

Electra Wins By Large Margin In County Track And Field Meet At Park

Classy Little Hawk Outfit Battles at Stiff Clip, But Finishes in Second Place Position

The Electra high school track team won the Class A county track championship with a total of 78 1-2 points while Iowa Park was runner up with only 46 points. Electra also won the Juniors meet with 31 points. Burkburnett was runner up with 18 points. The meet was staged at Iowa Park Saturday.

Clara high school won the Class B championship with 102 3-2 points while Fairview was runner up with 23 1-2 points. Larwise won the banner for the rural schools, while Waggoner ward of Electra won in the ward schools with Thompson ward of Electra runner up.

The results of the Class A events on the track were very pleasing to followers of the track teams here, and from the time made the Wichita county entries should be strong contenders for the district crown.

Carnahan of Electra, won the 120-yard high hurdles with 16.2 time. Wolfe, of Burkburnett, was second. Preston, of Electra, was third, and Fields of Iowa Park was fourth.

Pat "Bananas" Hood of Burkburnett, won the mile run with ease. This youngster is becoming one of the best mile men the county has ever turned out. Hood made the mile in 5.14. Troutman of Iowa Park, was second, Culpepper of Electra, was third, and Tinnon of Electra, was fourth.

Corder of Iowa Park won the 100-yard dash in 10.2 seconds. Tiffin, of Burkburnett, second, Gillum, Electra, third, and Hockney of Electra, fourth.

Carnahan of Electra, won the 220-yard low hurdles, 28.4 seconds was his time. Fillmore of Iowa Park, finished second, Preston, of Electra, and West, of Burkburnett, finished third and fourth respectively.

440-yard dash was won by Grant of Electra, Grant made the distance in 54.4. Foster of Electra, was second. Fields of Iowa Park, third and Wolfe, of Burkburnett, was fourth.

Killum, of Electra, won the 220-yard dash making 22.2. Moore of Electra second, Corder, Iowa Park, third, and Tiffin, Burkburnett, fourth.

De Mott of Electra, won the 880-yard run in 2.14. Jones of Electra, was second. Hurd of Burkburnett, was third, Dorris of Iowa Park finished fourth.

Electra won the mile relay in 3.52.4. Burkburnett was second and Iowa Park third.

Cloninger of Electra, won the pole vault with nine feet and two inches. Head of Electra was second. Penn of Iowa Park was third, and Moore of Burkburnett, fourth.

Corder of Iowa Park won the shotput with 37.8. Gilger of Electra, and Patterson, of Burkburnett, tied for second place. Enloe of Iowa Park, won third place.

Sanderlin of Electra, heaved the discus 111 feet and 6 inches to capture first pdace in this event. Fields of Iowa Park won second. Patterson of Burkburnett, won third.

Fillmore of Iowa Park, won first place in the high jump when he went over the bar at six feet two inches. Wigley of Iowa Park was second, Hall of Electra, was third and Bird of Electra, fourth.

Hockeney of Electra, won the broad jump with 19 feet. Tiffin, of Burkburnett, won second place. Bird of Electra, won third, and Cheeves ofw Iowa Park, won fourth.

Loy Nichols of Clara, beat the Class A heights in the Class B field events when he cleared the pole at nine feet, three inches. Griffin, of Fairview, was second. Pierce of Fairview, was third while Mathews of Clara, and Dodd of Fairview, tied for fourth.

Again in the shotput the Class B boys beat the Class A work when J. O. Sehon of SClara, heaved the shot 38 feet and 10 inches. King of Harwise was second, Schroeder of Clara, was third and Jordon of Clora, fourth.

Schroeder of Clara and Jordon of Clara, handled the discus with no opposition. Schroeder took first place with a throw of 84 feet.

J. O. Sehon of Clara, won the broad jump with a leap of 19 feet. Loy Nichols, we second. Leroy Nichols of Clara was third, and King of Harwise, finished fourth.

Nichols of Clara, won the high jump with five feet one inch. Griffin of Fairview was second. Dodd of Fairview, was third and King, Harwise was fourth.

Schroeder of Clara, won the javelin throw with 118 feet and 10 inches. Nichols of Clara, was second. Griffin of Fairview, third, and Muller of Clara, was fourth.

Nichols of Clara won the 120-yard high hurdles, Muller of Clara, was second and Engleman of Clara, was third.

Sehon of Clara, won the 100-yard dash. Walkup of Clara, was second. Walkup ran in this event only, and he did this to be allowed to enter the district meet. Kalkup has been ill for the past few weeks.

Griffin of Fairview, won the one mile run. Bunston of Fairview, won second place. Jordon and Engleman of Clara won third and fourth.

220 low hurdles were won by Loy Nichols of Clara. Griffin of Fairview won second. Sehon of Clara, won the 440-yard dash. Schroeder of Clara, was second.

Sehon of Clara, won the 220-yard dash and Nichols of Clara, finished second. Loy Nichols of Clara, won the 880-yard run, and Rule of Fairview, finished second.

Eddy of Burkburnett, won the Juniors 50-yard dash. Alexander of Electra, was second. Eddy and Alexander also finished in the same order in the 100-yard dash.

Electra won first in the junior 440 yard relay, Burkburnett second Electra Waggoner ward, third, and Clara fourth.

Cheaves of Electra, won the chinning of the bar when he chinned the bar thirty-seven times. Jones of Electra, won second place.

SKULL PRACTICE

"Toronto Ready for Big League Club," says newspaper headline. Somebody from Toronto has been watching the Red Sox play.

Just when George Sisler and Rogers Hornsby were all set to wake up St. Louis the government beats 'em to it by discussing a plan to open the mammoth brewery there.

The rate at which big league clubs are canning rookies these days indicate how hard it is to live up to a reputation.

It's a good bet that when Jack Dempsey does enter the ring the fans will get a bigger workout fighting for tickets at $15 a pasteboard than he does for something like $200,000.

Harry Greb believes he can come back. Which remark places him for the first time on a plane with the average fighter. Up to that remark Greb had been an original chap.

Some pitchers must come from medical families. They're about as deliberate in their actions as doctors.

Cardinals Take 3-2 Verdict From Cubs

ST. LUUIS, April 17.—(AP)—Bottomley's infield hit following closely upon an error and a double broke up a pitchers' battle between Sherdel and Kaufman and gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 3 to 2 win over the Chicago Cubs. Kaufman yielded but four hits, but his wildness in the first inning contributed to his downfall. The score:

Wichita Falls Ball Loop Opens Today On Twilight Field

Water Department Nine Starts Title Drive In Contest With Electrics, Game Called at 3 o'Clock

Wichita Falls Twilighters open the 1926 race this afternoon on the Twilight field at 3 o'clock with the Electrics tackling the Water department nine.

The game is to be started in big league style. Mayor R. E. Shepherd opens on the hill, serving up the first pitch to P. B. Curd, public utilities commissioner. It was not announced who the batter will be.

The game is expected to be a battle of pitcher. Both Compbell of the Water gang and Kollman of the Power outfit are classed as sweet amateur slabsters. Base hits are expected to be scarce.

TOP O' MORN STUFF
By Blondy Cross.

The present moment (providing, of course, you're reading here before 4 o'clock this Sabbath p. m.) is what might be called the zero hour!

* * *

Our noble athletes are resting on their weapons, so to speak, preparatory to storming the stockyards stockade.

* * *

It's Atsmen versus Brainard bludgeoners this afternoon at Fort Worth in the first 1926 sally of the domestics against the Cowtowners, erstwhile champions of the Texas league.

* * *

WE WON, 3-1.

Well do we recall this same day in 1925, the first battle of the summer between Spudders and Panthers. And it was Long Bob Osborn who stood on the mound for Wichita Falls, sorely beset by runners on the paths in nearly every inning, nevertheless flailing 'em calmly, almost phlegmatically back at the Ats crew, deadly in the pinches, and bearing down all the way until he had put the ferocious Fort Worth brigade to wild rout.

* * *

AND TODAY ? ? ?

What'll it be today. Instead of Long Bob it looks like Long Jim Roberts to do the heaving chores. Skipper Fred failed to use Jim in the Shreveport series. No word has come from the Spudder detachment announcing Jim has met an accident. So Brainard, it's fair to hazard, must be saving the big fellow to fling at the Cats.

* * *

The Veteran Carl Williams worked the first Shreveport encounter. By natural rotation today would be his turn to clamor atop the hillock. But Brainard declared before he went to Shreveport that he doubted the possibility of starting Carl at Fort Worth, expressing it his opinion that since none of the Spudder slabsters are in condish yet it would be hardly good baseball to shoot Carl back even after a full four-day rest. It all depends on how Carl and Jim are feeling.

* * *

Don't forget that opening day engagement with Sec. J. Will Gray at Spudder park Tuesday. Got to beat Waco, Shreveport, and Beaumont out for, what might be termed, the junior attendance trophy.

* * *

AD GOING TO ANTIPODES.

Ad Santel, the light heavyweight wrestling king, is booked for a tour of Australia this year. The popular "Flying Dutchman" says he's going to depart these U. S. in June. Matchmaker Alec Ross hopes to line Santel up with Joe Stecher in that long-deferred championship bout here before he checks out. If successful in carding the match, the date will have to be set late in May.

* * *

DUKE HEADS EAST

Duke Trammel has a chance to go east. Says he's going to snap up the opportunity. The hard-hitting Fort Worth welter, however, writes in declaring he wants just one more whack at Tom White and Clyde Hull before journeying where the boys can not only hit hard but are just as fast in proportion.

* * *

You have to admit Duke is a persistent lad, anyhow. It is possible he will be given a shot at the winner of the Hull-White fight Tuesday.

* * *

Tramel plans going into the same stable with Sully Montgomery under Frank Churchill's wing. The Fort Worth boy could not make a better move. He'll learn a few. Loosen him up and teach a some boxing lessons and with his wonderful hitting power, Tramel should be able to stop many a mighty good boy.

* * *

Sunday school leaguers are planning on an organization session next Sunday, says Frank Craighton. It appears that was all bunkum broadcasted recently to effect the younger loop wouldn't function this season. Frank says he has three teams ready to go now, but withholds their names.

Detroit Defeats St. Louis by 5-4 Count

DETROIT, April 17.—(AP)—Detroit defeated St. Louis, 5 to 4, in the first game of their series here today. The Browns, after trailing three runs behind for six innings, got their eyes on Hollidway's twisters and scored two runs in the seventh and eighth from seventh hits. Vangilder after a bad first inning in which the Tigers scored three runs from as many hits bore down and allowed only one more hit until he was relieved for a pinch hitter in the eighth inning. Miller Hands White Sox Initial Licking

CHICAGO, April 17. — (AP)—The White Sox took their first defeat of the season today when "Lefty" Miller of Cleveland shut them out, 2 to 0. The game was a brilliant pitching duel between Miller and Thomas, former Baltimore player, who made his major debut for the Sox. Miller allowed but three hits, and only once did a Chicago player get as far as third. Thomas also pitched a good game. Burns' double and Lutzke's single gave the Indians their first run while singles by Summa and Lutzke, coupled with an error by Harris brought in the other. The score:

Ping Pushes Cohen For Batting Lead

Andy Cohen, Waco's flashing shortstop, set the pace for Texas league hitting in the first few days of the race. Through Friday's games, he had made 8 hits for an average of .615, bettered only by the numerous pinch hitters who have been delivering. He is closely pushed by Bodie of Wichita Falls and Elwood Wirts of San Antonio. Wirts has started the home run furor with two in Waco's small park.

San Antonio leads in club hitting with .381 against Waco's .330. Eleven pitchers have begun the season auspiciously with victories. .300 hitters and pitchers winning games through Friday follow:

Baylor County Track Results

County track meet finals from Seymour late Saturday night: Seymour hogged the most of the honors through out the meet. Cosin of Seymour, won the 100 yard dash in 11 seconds.

Cockrell of Westover won the pole vault with ten feet and two inches. Catty of Westover won the mile run in 5.7 minutes. McKenzie of Borloton won the high jump with five feet seven inches. McClure of Seymour won the 220 yard dash in 24 seconds. Crawford of Seymour won the discus with 82.3 feet.

McKenzie of Borloton won the broad jump with 18.5 feet. Owens of Seymour won 880 yard run in 3.07 minutes. 440 yard dash was won by Howd of Seymour in 1.03 minutes. McKenzie of Borloton put the shot 36.4 feet to win the shot put. Seymour won the mile relay in 4 minutes 14 second.

All of these winners will be in the district meet to be held in Iowa Park next Saturday.

BURK HAS LEAGUE

Burkburnett has formed a four team league for present baseball season and hopes to make the organization a great success this year. The clubs in the league plan to join the Texas Amateur Athletic federation and enter the championship play-off games.

The four teams registered are Texhoma, Gulf, and McNann refineries and the Tidal Western. These four clubs will open the season May 4 and close August 12 with each team playing twice a week.

* * *

TWICE A WEEK

The games will be played on Tuesdays and Thursdays and all four clubs are to play each day. The three refinery clubs will offer their grounds for the games, and two diamonds will be put in play each day of the contest.

* * *

N. R. Vaught was elected president of the league at a meeting held in the Oil City News stand at Burkburnett. Vaught has been one of the leading sportsmen of Burkburnett for several years and is an ideal man for the position.

* * *

Vaught has lined up two men to handle the umpiring of the games and will add two more men to his list. The two are Dewey Pence and Bill Thomas.

* * *

The four clubs have been shaping themselves for the season and are in good condition, but none of them has arrived at good enough condition to play its best ball.

The Texhoma club is managed by A. L. Turner and is counted upon to be well up in the race. This club will battle the Texhoma club from Wichita Falls, this afternoon in Burkburnett.

* * *

M'MANN STRONG.

The McMann Refinery nine under the leadership of Louie Routh has lined up the strongest looking club at present. Routh has signed almost all of the last year Newtoown Terrors. The Terrors will be remembered as the team that whipped all opposition and won 58 out of 62 games played in 1925.

* * *

A. H. Miller has a fast team at the Gulf Production company, one that should be a strong contender for the championship. The Gulf has lost two games to the American Refinery team, of Wichita Falls, but has plenty of time to strengthen.

* * *

The Tidal Western at present is the weakest looking club in the league, but there will be lots of time before the opening date for them to strengthen. D. J. Carey is managing the club and will put in lots of work between now and the opening game to get a club on the field that will play its best and become a contender for the leadership.

Teh addition of Burkburnett gives Wichita county three Twilight leagues and should give them plenty of competition for the play-offs at the end of the season.

Electra's Twilight League Opens On New Field Monday

U. S. Machine Shop Hooks Up With Texas Hardware Club, Mayor Ragland Pitches First Ball

Electra's Twilight league is scheduled to stage its 1926 grand opening, deferred a week because of bad weather, Monday evening at the new Sunset ball park. Incidentally, the game will serve as the park inaugural. Several contests have been played on the new diamond, but christening of the park was postponed until the long awaited Twilight opener.

The Texas Hardware and Supply company's team tangles with the U. S. Machine shop aggregation. Contest is to be called at 6:10, according to League Secretary Hubbard.

A parade of Twilight officials, fans and uniformed members of all six league teams along with the Electra band, is to be held shortly before the game through the city's business section and over to the playing field.

The game is to be started in pompous manner with Mayor George Ragland throwing the first balls. O. C. Baker, league president and ardent sportsman, is to catch Ragland's curves, C. W. Coffey, prominent Electra sportsman and league treasurer, is to be at bat with Ben Myer, editor of the Electra News, serving in the capacity of umpire.

Bob Candler, league umpire in chief, will name an assistant and call the game after the opening rites have been completed.

Cook Versus Mullens.

Cook, for the Machine shop team, and Ed Mullens, Hardware southpaw, have been announced as the probable starting pitchers. It is doubtful the game will run more than five innings before darkness forces a halt. Five-canto contests are to be in vogue until later in the summer when the sun stays up longer.

At last reports there was just a wee bit of doubt about the status of Charley Williams. Williams, it was understood, is to catch for the Texas club today. But it was intimated at Machine shop headquarters Charley has been lined up there. In case Williams doesn't work for the hardware boys, it is possible Chris Scheurer will do a little backstopping. Scheurer, however, has been a bit under the weather this spring and may not crack down yet if another good catcher can be obtained.

Probable starters:

Machine Shop:	Texas Hdwe.:
LUnderwood, ss	Freeman, 2b
Lininger, 1b	Swofford, 3b
Rhea, 3b	Scheurer, rf
Taylor, cf	Winston, 1b
Crites, rf	Gibson, ss
Moddrell, lf	Brown, lf
Hipps, 2b	Ligon, cf
Havens, c	Williams, c
Cook, p	Mullens, p

Schoelberg, catcher, and Russell, outfielder, may appear in the Machinists' linenp. It is possible several changes will be made in both clubs. The above batting orders were announced as only tentative.

Six Games a Week.

Mullers is a newcomer in Electra baseball circles. He hails from the Panhandle where he was a very effective pitcher in amateur and semi-pro circles. Charley Williams, the disputed player, is both a catcher and pitcher. He was with Ling Motors in the Electra Twilight league last summer.

The league intends to play six days each week. Other games carded for this week are:

Ed Hughes' Column

HOW GIANTS GOT MERKLE.

The beginnings of famous ball players in the big leagues represent some of the most interesting baseball stories that can be told. Every one must get to heaven his own way, and there are just as many weird courses winding to the gateways of the majors. All of the big league scouts are not on official payrolls by a long shot. Which recalls how Fred Merkle, victim of a bonehead play that lost a flag, but a great player who lived it down, began his colorful career.

John T. Brush, late owner of the Giants, signed up Merkle unbeknown to McGraw. And he did it in a manner that has never before been duplicated to this writer's knowledge. It was this way. Mr. Brush went to Mt. Clemens, Mich., in search of health. While in the resort the Giant owner formed the habit of patronizing a certain barber for his daily shave. He lixed the stubble-texterminator because he was a man of few words, one who spoke only when he really had something to say.

* * *

The barber learned that Mr. Brush was the owner of the Giants, and it so chanced that he himself was a hot fan and took considerable interest in the doings of the local nine. One day, as Mr. Brush reclined in his chair, the barber broke his almost habitual silence with:

"Are you looking for a great ball player, Mr. Brush?"

"Well, then, I know where you can get hold of a corker. He plays on our team here, but he comes from Toledo. Merkle is his name, Fred Merkle."

"What does he play?" queried Brush.

"First base," was the answer.

* * *

Brush thought a bit before replying. Fred Tenney, his own first sacker, was getting slowed up by advancing years. So he submitted to the hunch.

"Send for Merkle to come here to the shop," instructed the mogul. "I'll sign him right up."

The sud-stirrer thought Brush was joshing, but discovering otherwise, he picked up a phone and sent for Merkle. Fred rushed to the shop and his name was actually affixed to a contract before Brush left the barber shop. It was a quick decision on the part of Brush and Merkle's rise to fame was almost as rapid.

Later, when Brush arrived in New York, he mentioned casually to McGraw: "I've got a new first baseman for you, John."

"That so? Who recommended him?"

"A barber in Mount Clemens."

"Great Scott. Does he know anything about baseball?"

Brush meditated a bit, and then answered: "Can't say as to that. But I'm inclined to think he can be relied on."

"How come."

"Well," concluded Brush, "I was attracted to him because he didn't insist on a shampoo and the rest of it after he finished shaving me."

CHILDRESS

READY FOR MEETING

The plans of the district meeting of the 7th district G. F. W. C. on April 19-21 are prefected and from reports coming in the attendance promises to be as large if not larger than at any meeting of the district since it was organized some five years ago. It is thought that about 200 delegates and visitors will be present. Mrs. J. A. Field of Haskell, state president, will be present and Mesdames R. I. Lee, state treasurer, L. A. Wells, I. D. Coke, J. L. Young, W. S. Douglass, state chairman of a number of district chairmen; Mrs. W. B. Pierce is president of the seventh district and presided over the business sessions.

CHILDRESS, April 17.—A petition was presented at the meeting of the city council, asking that the name of N. W. Second street be changed to Commerce street. This was granted.

The city auditorium built in the Fair Park was accepted by the city this week. The building cost $17,278. The swimming pool under construction at a cost of $8,000 has not been completed as yet.

SOVIET AGENTS OUSTED FOR LIVING IN LUXURY

PARIS.—More than a score of soviet agents in France and Italy have been notified to stop their work and return to Moscow at once. Most of the mwill disregard the summons of recall, as they know they would be placed on trial for violating the laws of communism. Instead of living plainly and using the funds intrusted to them for propaganda work, they have been living in luxury and paying their personal bills with government funds. It is reported that soviet funds amounting to more than $2,000,000 have been embezzeld by these agents.

Tom Defends His Laurels Tuesday

The popular Clyde Hull, St. Paul welterweight speedster, has popular Tommy White's claim to the southwestern welterweight championship. Hull, as all rabid ring bugs know, has defeated just about everything in this section with but one exception—That exception is Tom White. The two have never met.

What Clyde's chances are to dethrone White will be decided Tuesday night in the Majestic theatre when the athletes mix it in a 12-rounder, the feature battle of the Kiwanis club day nursery benefit fight program.

It appears general opinion White will come away the victor. However, there're a number of the sharpshooters who can't see it that way, one of whom is the veteran trainer, Barney Morgan.

Hull, it is agreed, has improved very much since his last appearance in Wichita Falls a year or so ago when he was all the fistle rage.

Mercy Monroe, the San Antonio lightweight, and Wildcat Monte, Wichita Falls, tied in a 10 round affair are splitting up with White and Hull. Cortez works with Monte is doing his training with White.

Pug Humphreys of Lawton and Johnny Sherrod, Fort Worth welter, are carded in a six-rounder. Battling Cossey mixes with Bobby Jones, Lawton bantamweight protege of Speedy Sparks, in a four-round go.

WICHITA FALLS POLO QUARTET TACKLES DALLAS HERE TODAY IN PLAY FOR CROWELL CUPS

Wichita Falls and Dallas poloists open hostilities this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on the Weeks' field situated just between club houses of the Country club and Municipal golf club.

Play will be for the Crowell cups, individual trophies which go to members of the winning quartet. The cups have been on display in the Joe Art Jewelry company windows.

The teams are believed to be fairly evenly matched, thereby practically assuring a very stiffly contested battle.

Dr. J. H. Fletcher and G. B. Pendegrast will officiate. The well known Al Ellis serves as official time keeper and star reporter of the match.

The lineups:

Dallas		Wichita Falls
Budley Mayer	(1)	H. D. Cowden
A. C. Adkins	(2)	O. H. Featherston
W. A. Green, Jr.	(3)	Horace Robbins

A Set of Matched Wood Clubs

The UNI-SET is a set of three Wood Clubs—Driver, Brassie and Spoon—which have been carefully matched at the factory through every process of manufacture by Golfer-Workmen.

MACGREGOR

For the best results, your three Wood Clubs should be absolutely uniform as to weight, length, balance and "feel". Thus, when you change from one club to another, you do not have to readjust yourself to it.

Step in our store and see MACGREGOR Uni-Sets. They give you exactly the right club for each and every wood shot requirement—and knowing this gives you greater confidence, which helps your game.

The popularity of the Uni-Set idea is steadily growing. You owe it to yourself to see these sets.

Our store is headquarters for golf supplies as well as sporting goods of all kinds. You are always welcome.

STEERS AGAIN TROUNCE CATS UNMERCIFULLY

Herd Drives Wachtel Off And Continue Their Stampede

DALLAS, April 17.—(AP)—Dallas took the first series of the season from Fort Worth by smothering the six time champions by the score of 9 to 3. Paul Wachtel, Fort Worth spitballer, who won from Dallas on opening day attempted to repeat but was driven to cover in the second inning. Fort Worth drove Shuman out of the box in the third, but Joe Victor, who relieved him, kept the Cats from scoring. Wildness on the part of two rookie Fort Worth pitchers and two costly errors each by Foss and Windle contributed to the Cats downfall. Jim Riley for Dallas was the star of the game, getting three hits and ending Fort Worth's ninth inning rally with an unassisted double play. Bauman for Dallas cracked out two doubles in a row. Foss for the Cats got a home run in the second with no one on. The score:

Wichita Falls Youth Makes Hit at Terrill

DALLAS, April 17.—Ralph, "Red" Walker, former player with the Wichita Falls Coyotes, is being called the best pitcher to wear the black and gold of Terrill school in recent years as a result of his hurling Wednesday against Texas Military college of Terrill, Texas. Walker opened the Dallas season of Terrill school by holding the hard-hitting collegians to six scattered hits in nine innings. He went the full route and allowed two hits in only one inning, the sixth. Every hit garnered off his delivery was a single while two of these were scratch infield hits. Red struck out six men. T. M. C. did not earn a single run although Terrill nosed out a 4 to 3 victory. The one dark spot on Walker's record was a poor throw to third which allowed one unearned tally.

Walker is large and powerful with an ideal build for a pitcher. His injured foot does not seem to bother him as he fielded seven balls perfectly against T. M. C. fans who have watched the baseball fortunes of Terrill school for several years are unanimous in pronouncing Walker the best pitching prospect in several years. He has speed, control and a fair assortment of curves. Walker is five feet and eleven inches in height, weighs 185 pounds and throws and bats right handed. He is a member of the senior class.

WIFE'S FOOD LOCKED UP, HUSBAND'S ACT UPHELD

CARDIFF.—Is a husband justified in withholding food from his wife when she refuses to perform her household duties? A magistrate at Narberth, Wales, answered this question in the affirmative when Mrs. David Ewen had her husband arrested on a charge of cruelty. She said he locked up all the food in the house. Ewen said his wife had absolutely refused to perform her duties. She admitted this and the court released Ewen.

TRIP TO U. S. TO REFORM HER HUSBAND A FAILURE

ACCRINGTON, Eng.—Mrs. Elizabeth Mullin was granted a separation order here when she summoned her husband for desertion. After 10 years of unhappiness owing to her husband's drinking habits, she said, she persuaded him to go with her to the United States in 1923 because of the prohibition law there. But here husband set up a brewing plant in his home there with a capacity of 15 gallons, which amount of beer he brewed and drank every week. He lost his work through taking drink to his work and the reformation effort having thus failed they returned to England.

Dennis of Memphis High Point Man As He Leads His Team Into Second Place Honors

VERNON, April 17.—Vernon high school won first in track and field of the interscholastic meet of district No. 3, which closed here this afternoon. Vernono made a total of 43 points in the athletic contests. Memphis was second with 27, Childress 25, Knox City 18, Estelline 11, Harrold 6½, Chillicothe 6, Crowell 5, Quanah 4, Kirkland 3, Truscott 2, Oklaunion 2 and Paducah 1.

Dennid of Memphis was high point man of the meet with a score of 16 points. Ryan of Vernon was second with 12½ points. Nichols of Childress 10 and Waldrip of Knox City 10.

Results in the athletic events were as follows:

120-yard high hurdle—Ryan, Vernon, first; Waldrip, Knox City, second; C. Key, Vernon, third, and Frazier of Quanah, fourth.

CONNIE'S CLUB LOSES ANOTHER

Lowly Red Sox Humble Athletics by 6 to 1 Score

BOSTON, April 17.—(AP)—Victory greeted the opening of the Red Sox series with Philadelphia today and the work of Ehmke, who held the visitors to two hits was responsible for a 6 to 1 win. Flagstead's single to left in the second scored Herra and Gaston and a bunch of hits and bases on balls accounted for four more tallies in the eighth. Philadelphia's only run came in the second inning, Dykes' double over first scoring Hauser. The score:

Texhoma Wins, Rosser Injured

Texhomas defeated Wichita Falls high school on the Coyote diamond Saturday afternoon, 16 to 2, in an eight-inning game.

Jimmy Parker worked four frames and allowed one hit and one run. Rusty Trout and Dinty Moore divided the last four rounds on the hill for the Oilers.

The biggest features of the game was a triple by Andy Taylor with the bases loaded and a home run by Paul Enloe with the paths in the same condition.

Jelly Rosser was seriously injured when hit in the face by a throw from the outfield. He was rounding first at the time. The blow knocked him unconscious. Rosser was taken to the hospital still out.

I sometimes buy bargains, and then rent them. Will pay commission to anyone giving me what I deem real bargains. I don't care whether you have paid a high license, believe in monopoly or don't. Self-dependence, self-reliance and independence have made America, not special favors, high tariffs and monopoly privileges. One who can't stand the gaff of any honest competition from any source ought to retire to a monarchial or special privilege country. Most people think they ought to have right to undertake anything. I concede that right to all others. If you want to trade direct—find your sellers; if you want to write your own contracts, do it—lawyers have no right to anything not cheerfully granted them; if you want to live without your doctor or die without your preacher, do it. Stand on your own feet, and perhaps learn the truth of Bryon's comment, "They have rights who dare maintain them." No lawyer (in a democratic country) can consistently ask for rakeoffs on everything. Realtors ought to be ignored if sellers or buyers don't want them, and doctors often collect for nature's cures on account of having given sugar-pills, with or without which the patient was bound to recover, oftentimes. Phone 3248 to sell your bargains, and buy on rent terms.

IN ALL CITIES

Occasionally there are fine expensive homes placed on the market at prices much cheaper than it would cost to buy a lot and build, and very often they are much better located to conveniences and high class neighbors. Oftentimes the great pleasure and satisfaction we anticipate in planning and building our own homes turns out to be a source of worry, delay and disappointment. Not only is the cost much more than we figured, but we also find that it takes time and expense to beautify our lawns like those around homes already built. Building is an art in itself and takes lots of study and experience. In purchasing a home already built you know exactly how it is going to look and what it will cost. The other fellow's home is often just what you are looking for and at a figure much less than it would cost you to build. We have two exceptionally fine homes listed with us this week at a saving of several thousand dollars to anyone able to live in this class of homes. We will not undertake to describe these beautiful homes in detail but will show them by appointment to those able to handle.

LARGE TWO-STORY HOME

We offer this large two-story home, either vacant or completely furnished at a great sacrifice. It is well located in a high-class neighborhood, surrounded by other large homes this side of Brook street. Has nine rooms, sleeping porch, large bath, hardwood floors. There is a nice driveway under porte cochere leading in double garage, with servant house above. The furniture is practically new and cost the owner $5,000. You can purchase this home with furniture thrown in for less than it would cost to duplicate the improvements today, or you can buy without the furniture. If interested in a real first-class home with beautiful yards and surroundings, see us for particulars.

BEAUTIFUL BRICK HOME

This lovely home with 1½ acres of ground, located on prominent paved street in one of the most fashionable and rapidly developing portions of the city is now offered you for $4,000 less than its real value. There is also beautiful brick garage and servant house. You can't help but fall in love with this ideal home. You will enjoy the nice drive from the business district and life will be worth living in this vicinity, where rapid development will make your surroundings grow more beautiful each week and consequently enhance the value of your property. It will be a pleasure to show you either of these two homes.

Criminal Cases In Court Monday

Total of criminal cases will begin Monday in the 30th district court before Judge H. R. Wilson with a full list of settings announced for the week.

The trials of R. C. Cade, H. G. Helms, W. E. Carter, held on indictment in connection with the hold-up of the City bakery on Holliday street in March are all set for Monday and will probably be tried beginning on that day. Retrial of the Folsom case, wherein the defendant was once before convicted on a statutory crime and sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary will come up before a grand jury from a special venire.

May Day to Have Observance Here

May day, traditionally a day for the children, will be observed here as a child health day—one set aside for concentrated and constructive thought on behalf of the community for the American child. The elden, originated by Herbert Hoover, has the endorsement of national, state an dcity officials.

Measures for improving and safeguarding the health of the child are the principal things the movement seeks to stimulate.

T. K. Irwin, Here for Address On Attorney's Race, Cancels It And Raps Ferguson's Administration

Dallas Candidate Delays His Address Out of Deference To Jimmy Allred Who Opens His Campaign Monday Night; Returns Later

A slam at what he termed "Fergusonism" and a statement of a paramount issue in his platform, that the capitol building at Austin needed a "housecleaning," were made Saturday by T. K. Irwin of Dallas, candidate for attorney general, in an interview here. Irwin was in Wichita Falls all of Saturday morning, leaving in the afternoon for Dallas to be at home over the week-end. A speaking engagement in Wichita Falls for Saturday night was cancelled, as he said, out of deference to James V. Allred, local attorney also making the race who does not open his own campaign until Monday night. Mr. Irwin upon his departure stated that he would be back in Wichita Falls later in his campaign and outline the issues at that time upon which he is making the race to succeed Dan Moody.

Wants Such a Session.

In commenting on the agitation for a special session of the legislature to consider legislation validating district road bond issues Mr. Irwin stated he was in favor of such a session and had been active in agitation for it. The plan of one member of the legislature to possibly aid in securing the call for such a special session by means of a petition circulated among the legislators themselves in which signers were bound not to attempt an investigation of the Ferguson administration was termed compromising by Mr. Irwin, however, who remarked that he could not see his way clear to "compromise much on such a matter." He said that as he saw it, a special session would have no other course open to it except investigation.

Thinks Moody Will Win.

Mr. Irwin expressed the opinion Dan Moody would be elected governor, stating his own preference in the matter in the words, "The Fergusons are my second selection; anyone to beat the Fergusons is my first choice."

T. K. Irwin is a resident of Dallas, having practiced law there for the last 10 years. He is just completing his fourth year as a member of the legislature, in the activities of which body he always actively engaged.

SCOUT POLICE DO GOOD WORK

Traffic Cops on Guard At Most Crowded Street Corners

Boy Scout traffic cops of the safety councils organized in five schools of the city to protect the children before and after school in crossing streets and around the buildings are doing effective work, it was said yesterday. The scouts were sworn in as traffic officers by Chief of Police George Hodgins. Numbers turned in by the scouts for cars that do not observe traffic laws around school will be prosecuted.

The following schools now have Boy Scout representatives:

Sam Houston: Howard Miks, Frank Kelly, Paul Durham, Graham Fears, Vester Baton, Harvey Evans, Bob O'Connor.

"Stop" signs, whistles and badges have also been delivered at the Austin school and the system will be installed that school on Monday.

Parents have expressed their appreciation for this measure of protection for the children in going to and ment is being congratulated on the effective working out of that system.

Those instrumental in installing this system at the various schools are Frank B. Creighton, city scout executive; Lester Jones, chairman of the civic service committee, and Leon Horn of the Wichita Falls safety council.

DEATHS

M. P. MILLER

The body of M. P. Miller, 60, who died in a local hospital Saturday morning, was forwarded to his former home in Haskell Saturday afternoon by the Burris-Dalton Undertaking company for burial.

MRS. DORA McKEAN

Mrs. Dora McKean, 44, 1202 Twenty-first street, died in a local hospital early Saturday morning following a year's illness. The funeral is pending the arrival of relatives. She is survived by her husband, J. E. McKean, two sons, Jack and Alfred of this city; two daughters of Wichita Falls, Misses Nona and Eula J. McKean; and two other daughters, Mrs. Ruby Mahan of Lusk, and Mrs. Mary Fox of this city.

C. C. MATHEWS

Funeral services for C. C. Mathews 50, who died at his home, 1111 Polk street, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, was held from the First Christian church Saturday at 3 o'clock with Rev. Randolph Clark of Stephenville in charge. Burial was in Rosemont.

The local lodge of Odd Fellows of which Mr. Matthews had been an active member had charge of the burial service.

Plans Being Made For Entertainment of Delegation

Plans for entertaining the five hundren dentists and their wives who are expected to meet here in the Texas State Dental association in its forty-sixth annual convention, Dr. F. F. Brown, president of the association, said yesterday.

The convention opens Tuesday, April 27 and continues through Thursday. A trap shooting contest has been arranged for Monday, for delegates who arrive then, and a golf tournament may be scheduled. Those who wish may have the opportunity to drive over the oil fields or to the big lake. A banquet is planned for Thursday night at the Kemp hotel for visitors and the delegates.

"Home Town" Case Tried By Wilson

A "home town" divorce case was brought to trial in the 30th district court Saturday before Judge H. R. Wilson, the contestants, both negroes, and practically all of the witnesses being from Pilot Point, in Grayson county, Judge Wilson's old home. Everybody in the case represented a memory of the days gone by to Judge Wilson, he stated, when the suit was over.

The suit presented the peculiar situation of a husband seeking a divorce, withdrawing his action when a cross suit was filed by his wife, and a subsequent contest of the wife's suit.

In his verdict Judge Wilson found for the wife, ruling also that she was entitled to a fair division of the community property of the marriage.

GIDDY YOUTH IN H. S. PLAY

"17" To be Senior Class Offering Tuesday Evening

Youth in the giddy age of the upper teens will have the stage in the noted Tarkington comedy "Seventeen," to be presented as the annual offering of the Senior class of the high school, Tuesday night, April 20, at the Junior college auditorium. This particular event is always the culmination of the extra class activities of the graduates' year.

Well Known Novel.

"Seventeen" in drama form is based on the well known novel by the same name, one of the books most in demand by folk of all ages during the past decade. It is the story of the boy who has just awakened to that interesting age in which he has to be stopped from polishing himself up instead of having to be coaxed and beaten into washing his ears or straightening his tie. Willie Baxter, seventeen summers of youth-marked up in his calendar, meets Miss Pratt, a visitor, and promptly adjudges her to be the very creation for him. Life seems heavenly when she is near and dull blackness when she is absent. Of course there are also the other boys and girls who see the humor in the situation in doing their part in making life more varied and miserable for him by their teasing and trickeries.

Miss Juanita Kinsey, director of dramatics of the junior college and high school, is directing the play. Any Kinsey directed play has the assurance of quality and needs little introduction to the people of the city. Business arrangements of the play are taken care of by J. W. Williams, sponsor of finance of the Coyote.

Two Tiny Tots In Need of A Home In Wichita Falls

Two little blond headed girls, sisters, three and five years old, wards of the Texas Children's Home and Aid society, are looking for a home. Although theirs are short lives, there has been in them enough of tragedy to make them deserving of the best. Bright they are, though, and happy as the rosy days of childhood makes them. They have been tested physically and mentally, and they both measure high.

The two little girls were brought to Miss Katherine Henricle, district head of the society, and the story concerning their lives, has been found bit by bit, with the names and birthdays first clues with which to work.

Offered for Adoption

Several months ago there was an advertisement in a local newspaper offering two small girls for adoption. The man who had these children stayed in a local hotel and waited for some one to take the girls. Finally, a big hearted woman offered to take them to see if she could keep them permanently.

Time went by, and she found she could not keep the little tots. She wrote repeatedly to the man who offered the children for adoption but no answer came. One day, last week, his widow wrote the Wichita Falls woman he had died. Since no institution had been provided for my them, she could not take the children, hence the children went to Miss Henricle.

A release was sent by the children's mother and by their former guardian's wife, and they are now looking for a home. Their father deserted the young mother who is unable to care for them, and now the tow-headed baby girls are looking for a permanent home.

Bullington Gives Porto Rico Talk At U. Club Here

A vivid description of Porto Rico, its topograph, soil, climate, people, and historical places, was given to members of the University club at noon at the Kemp hotel. Orville Bullington, local attorney, who talked from his experience on a recent trip to Porto Rico, Cuba, South America, Panama and Mexico.

S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction, was introduced and made a short talk.

Floyd Ard, Jr., talented young pianist of the city who leaves early in the summer for Vienna, Austria, to continue his study of music, entertained with two numbers.

Announcement was made that Fred Elbert, manager of a local lumber concern, will speak at the meeting next Saturday on "Preservation of Forests."

Give the Rural Child Diversion, Is Borden's Plan

"Give the rural child ways of doing his work that obliterates the drudgery of doing his farm chorses, L. D. Borden, chief rural supervisor of the department of education at Austin, stated in the concluding meeting of the conference on public education which has been held Friday and Saturday in Wichita Falls. "Give him scientific means of performing these tasks and show him skillfull ways of using his hands and the farm child will get the kind of education he needs."

Continuing provision for high school equipment may be obtained by consolidation, which forms a unit of larger strength, and the organization of the entire county in a school district presided over by a board of trustees, five of which are elected by the people and have full executive power," Mr. Borden said.

A point brought up concerning the standardizing of rural schools emphasized the fact that standardization established the affiliation of small country schools and the larger surrounding schools. Mr. Borden stated that industrial training in country schools wa sincreasing and that such advanced schools as C. I. A. and the state normal at Huntsville were tending to hurry their establishment.

"Education for the country student holds the following seven aims: The fundamentals of study, or the three R's; character development; training in citizenship; health and physical efficiency; worthy use of leisure time; training for home life; and general mental ability," the speaker said in concluding the last talk of the two-day conference.

ALLRED OPENS DRIVE MONDAY

First Rally to Be Held At Majestic With 7 Addresses

The first shots in the campaign of James V. Allred, Wichita Falls attorney, to succeed to the post to Attorney General Dan Moody, will be fired Monday night at the Majestic theatre at a rally to be held in support of Allred's candidacy. Final arrangements in the matter were announced Saturday, following a postponement from the original date of Thursday of last week due to conflict with other event scheduled in the city.

Delegations from Iowa Park, Electra and Burkburnett, are expected to be in attendance at the meeting, which will start promptly at 8:15 o'clock. Leslie Humphrey, Wichita Falls attorney, will be in charge. Addresses by Luther Hoffman, attorney, J. H. Allison, connected with the Times Publishing company; J. T. Harrel, vice president of the City National bank, J. S. Dickey, attorney, and W. B. Hamilton, former president of the Texhoma Oil and Refining company, are scheduled for the evening, with a short closing address to be delivered by the candidate himself. Mr. Allred's address is expected to contain the statement of the platform on which his candidacy is based.

A large attendance of women voters is expected for the meeting, it is stated by those in charge.

JACK GANT IMPROVES.

Jack Gant, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Gant of Eleventh Street, who has been seriously ill of pneumonia for the past six weeks, is reported to be improving at the Hargrave-Walker hospital where he is being treated. The lad has had pneumonia three times during his illness and following an operation several days ago he has rallied and it is believed he will regover.

A Fortune in Hogs for Farmers

The production of hogs is now low, and the price is high and will probably go higher.

Texas especially is badly in need of hogs. Every year our state pays out in actual cash $30,000,000 for pork, which ought to be raised at home at a profit to our farmers.

The Washington Hop — The New Movie Hits
Ellis-Drinkard Party — Pretty Heads, and Clothes

DEAR KITTY: Well we have had fine weather for the past few days for a change and the afternoons as well as the mornings saved their brightest smiles for the many delightful affairs which have filled the social calendar the entire week. You may have thought we were a busy lot before Easter; I really thought so, but when you hear of what's been going on in this city since, and what is scheduled to take place, why I guess you'll say spring has come sure 'nuf with its lawn fetes, garden parties and dances.

But speaking of dances, society had the chance twice the past week to trip the light fantastic when the members of the Country club formally opened the spring season out there with a delightful dinner dance for the members and their guests on Thursday evening, and on the same evening Harry Bunnenberg, prominent young attorney at law, was being honored with a dance at the Municipal club when his friend, Shields Heyser, was host to about 16 couples. Mr. Bunnenberg is leaving soon for Germany, the old home of the family and expects to be over there for some time, on business.

HOWEVER, Wichita Falls is not the only place they're having balls, for up in Washington I hear the annual Polo Ball given recently by the war department polo team, scintilated with brilliancy and novelty, being given at the Willard hotel, where Vice President and Mrs. Dawes, the Secretary of War and Mrs. Dwight F. Davis, and the Chief of Staff and Mrs. Hines received the guests. The ball was attended by the Ambassador of Brazil, Mr. do Amaral; the Ambassador of Germany and Baroness Maltzan and the Ambassador of France and Mme. Berenger, all of whom occupied boxes with the flag of their country forming a background, while the chairs in the boxes were arranged under huge, gay striped umbrellas with the edges outlined in little electric lights of gay colors, and the rails of the boxes draped in varicolored streamers, and wasn't the entrance of the guests novel? For they came into the ballroom as they would a paddock or polo field through a latticed-work gate in brilliant blue, flanked cedar trees. Goal posts were at either end of the ballroom, and a side rail in white encircled the room.

Among the features that attracted particular attention were the horses in the stalls at the far end of the room, where they showed human but decorous interest in the proceedings for the greater part of the evening. The orchestra was stationed on a platform in the middle of the ballroom and was surrounded by a white picket fence, set in little cedars.

Major General and Mrs. Charles S. Blakely entertaining at dinner that evening, took their guests later to their box at the ball. In the company were Senator and Mrs. Frederick M. Sackett, Major General and Mrs. Hanson E. Ely, Major General and Mrs. Herbert B. Crosby and Colonel and Mrs. C. E. C. G. Charlton.

And then other gents of interest in the social world the past week included many lovely little informal affairs for Miss Hallie Maude Neff of Austin, daughter of former Governor Neff, who was the popular and charming house guest of Mrs. Stayton Bonner, and for Mrs. D. C. Enloe of Sherman who spent two weeks with Mrs. W. B. Omohundro, besides three unusually large parties when Mrs. Claude Woods and Mrs. Joline entertained at bridge and "42" honoring Mrs. J. C. Hunter of North Carolina, who spent the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Walter Priddy, and Mrs. Sanders Walker, popular matron who has lived here a long time and is moving soon to San Antonio to make her home.

* * *

FRIDAY a party of especial interest was given at the Country club by Mrs. Albert Ellis and Mrs. G. T. Drinkard entertained complimentary to Miss Dorothy Ellis when the latter's engagement and approaching marriage to Hubert E. Barr, was announced. The wedding is to take place the latter part of next month, and I am writing you that this charming maiden will make a lovely bride. Her rich brunette coloring being just the exact requisites for tulle and orange blossoms, a beautiful bride.

Another large affair was on Saturday afternoon when Mrs. Joe Art and her sister, Mrs. I. A. Fine were hostesses at a "Musical Tea" when 400 guests were present.

Of course, you must not forget that sandwiched between all of these, were any number of charming club affairs, lectures, luncheons and small parties.

And while last week was an exceptionally full one, it has nothing on this week, my friend. For while dates for several affairs have not yet been announced, plans for something doing have been made for almost every hour. One of the really big affairs, however, which has been announced, is on Saturday afternoon when Mrs. J. A. Staley and her daughters, Mrs. W. L. Hawkins and Mrs. Chester Wynne, will entertain at bridge and "42" at the Country club.

I've written you about brides, dances, parties and guests, Kitty, but now I'm going to talk to you a little about two new movie hits which are all the rage right now, and which I understand will be shown here next month. One, "The Sea Beast" which it is claimed is one of the best picture ever thrown on the screen and the other, Colleen More in "Irene."

Those of us who have had the good fortune to see John Barrymore as Beau Brummel and declared that to be his best work and have since seen the Sea Beast, admit that the latter is his masterpiece. Isn't it a nice idea, this making pictures out of some of our best plays? Because some of us never do get to see the plays. Now along comes "Irene," and those who enjoyed the musical play which made such a hit a couple of years ago, have something more to enjoy in the showing of this picture which will come here next month, as those who have already seen "Irene" in preview say that there is a certain independence, a definite distinction which the all-American gowns have, that far surpasses the foreign-made things and that moreover that will be better liked by American women who are nothing if not independent in the clothes they wear.

OF COURSE, all pretty heads are full of clothes, and what with fine weather again and spring here at last, when one may enjoy one's things, and the dozens of parties coming on, they will be thrilled to learn that the biggest style show ever put into pictures is presented by Colleen More in "Irene."

We have been fed up on Paris fashions as the best in the world, but certainly this little American actress with her all-American wardrobe knocks the glittering fashion crown of the city-on-the-Seine somewhat awry. I wouldn't be surprised if folks won't say she has rather deftly kicked it off with those fetching little feet of hers. Colleen and her coterie of beauties literally sport a million-dollar wardrobe in "Irene," they say.

But by the way, what length did you say your Easter frock was, Kitty? I see over in European cities that a new law prohibiting the wearing of dresses shorter than seven and one-half inches below the knee for all married women and young girls over the age of 14 is to be rigidly enforced. Two women have been appointed by the police as inspectors. The law lays it down that fathers will be made responsible for their children and husbands for their wives.

I wonder what would happen if such a law was enforced here, 'cause folks say you look old timey if your skirt is not at least 12 inches from the ground.

While I write you, just heaps of things are going on, and here am I slinging ink and you are slinging back all sorts of questions at Peggy Piedmont.

Miss Ellis Guest At Brady Party At Country Club

Complimenting Miss Dorothy Ellis, whose approaching marriage to Hubert E. Barr was recently announced, Mrs. G. T. Drinkard, assisted by Mrs. Albert Ellis entertained at bridge Friday afternoon at the Country club.

A dainty color scheme was carried out in pink and white when a profusion of bridal wreath, and carnations were used in the decorations. Twelve tables were arranged for the games.

Mrs. C. C. Parfet won the high score favor, a lovely hammered brass tray; Mrs. Cress Van Millican won second high, a French steel beaded bag, while Mrs. Eva Rutledge was consoled for low with a novelty tape holder.

Two Assistants.

Misses Josephine Berryman and Thelma Lee Wynne assisted the hostesses in passing the tallys, and preceding a dainty ice course, Miss Margaret Fisher gave for a reading, "A Man's proposal," and Mrs. J. S. Pitman sang two love songs. The announcement of the approaching nuptials was made in the favors which were miniature traveling bags tied with maline bearing the inscription "Barr-Ellis." No date is set for the wedding which will take place some time next month.

The Guests.

Besides the honoree, others present were Mesdames Frank Van Wormer, O. J. McKnight, Melba Peters, Henry Roberts, O. H. Berryman, P. A. Rogers, A. A. Young, E. W. Carrigan School Children Will Give May Fete

Students of the Carrigan school, assisted by Miss Edna Rundell of C. I. A., who will give a group of readings, will entertain with a May program Friday evening at the school when they present "Mother Goose's May Garden."

Miss Alice Small is director of the program and is assisted by other members of the faculty of the school.

The characters are represented as follows: Mother Goose, Dorothy Martin; Bo Peep, Marjorie Ryberg; Boy Blue, J. B. Hubbard; Jack, Frank McElroy; Jill, Loraine Turner; Golden Hair, Imogene Caudle; Miss Muffett, Wynette Reese; Red Riding Hood, Celia Mantle; Jack Horner, Volney Martin; Tom Tucker, Wesley Lay; Mary, Quite Contrary, Norma Williams; The Gardner, George Stephens. A May pole drill will be given with children representing rain drops, sun beams, fairies, bees, butterflies, red birds and blue birds.

The story is that of Mother Goose, who decides to plant a garden and calls all children to help her. They willingly consent and run for flowers.

When the spring rain drops and sunbeams make their way into the garden, the weeds quickly spring up, but are found by the vigilant gardner and removed. The flowers now grow and bright living things are attracted to the garden.

Mrs. Abbott Hostess At Birthday Affairs

Complimenting her husband and Miss Emma Cordray on the event of their birthdays, Mrs. Bill Abbott entertained at "42" at her home, 1639 Pearl street Thursday afternoon.

Spring blossoms in pink and white were used profusely in the decoration scheme, and in the games Mrs. Floyd Randall won high score among the women and Miss Cordray, low. Winslow Beckham made high among the men, and L. E. Stine, low.

Strawberry ice and angel food cake was served to Messrs. and Mesdames Otis Hill, Floyd Randall, L. E. Stine, Misses Josephine Fisk, Emma Cordray and Winslow Beckham and Mark Lindsey.

Mrs. Abbott also honored her husband at luncheon the same day, when plates were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Abbott and Miss Josephine Fisk and Mr. Beckham.

The honorees were recipients of many lovely gifts.

French Cabinet Wants a Day Off

PARIS, April 17.—A "day off" has been demanded by the members of the French cabinet, who would like to enjoy the same privilege as the law grants to most other workers in France.

It is true that the chamber and the senate meet extremely rarely on Sundays, but a custom has grown up which robs the ministers of their rest on that day. M. Poincare when premier did much to propagate this custom. He used to make speeches almost every Sunday, inaugurating memorials to the war dead. Other ministers took to Sunday speaking and later cabinets seemed to use their members as propaganda agents throughout the country.

Now that the chamber so often meets mornings and afternoons and from time to time sits all night, the country speech has become such a burden to ministers and its effect as propaganda has so much worn away, that the custom is to be dropped.

STUDYING FRENCH, ANYHOW.

British and Americans Giving Careful Attention to Writings.

PARIS, April 17.—Some of the most learned and authoritative delvers into French literature are English and Americans who don't speak a word of French or speak only a few halting words.

This was revealed by the proprietor of a Montparnasse book shop dealing in rare and specialized editions, who is spending his spare time learning English, that he may take care of his non-French speaking customers.

One of his customers who is unable to make himself understand in two consecutive sentences has written a monograph, acclaimed by scholars, on the derivation of certain root words of the French language.

Women Now Invade Famed Rug Factory

PARIS, April 17.—The Gobilins Tapestry manufactory, one of the sights of Paris on every tourist's program, has admitted a second woman as a worker, and the manner of her admission is a testimony to the progress made in securing treatment for women as for men.

Five years ago Mlle. Andree Etevenon had to face all sorts of resistance and employ every kind of ruse before she succeeded in being accepted as the first woman pupil at the Gobelins manufactory. She is now a full fledged "artist," who works on the most important subjects.

Mlle. Marguerite Loger, the newcomer, is only 17. She did not have to meet the same difficulties as her predecessor, but was admitted to the entrance competition without question and passed in first. She is now a "pupil," and works on screens, hearth rugs and small pieces. In two years, she will rank as an "artist" and be allowed to work on Savonnerie carpets and large tapestries.

Paris to Give Us The Chignon Now

PARIS, April 17.—Paris, which gave the world the pompadour, is about to hand it the chignon.

Whether the world will accept it as it did the pompadour, is problematical. At present Parisiences' chief recognition of this small roll of hair worn low on the neck, is a protest that they'll "never wear the thing; and anyhow how do you keep it on."

Nevertheless at the famous sphingham fair in Paris, a chignon with a vacuum cup arrangement, warranted to hold it to shingled heads like a leach, attracted as big a crowd as free slices of country ham.

A number of dressmakers have announced that they will design no more gowns for shaven necks, and will refuse all orders from short haired customers, except from those who wear "chignons" as a compromise.

Bids Are Opened For Sabine Work

GALVESTON, April 17.—(AP)—The United Dredging company was low bidder for dredging the Sabine river from the mouth of the river to Orange, when bids were opened today at noon in the office of Major Julian L. Schley, United States district engineer. The company bid 20.67 cents per cubic yard, while the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific Dredging company, the only other bidder, bid 21.49 cents for the project.

The contract calls for the removal of 1,600,000 cubic yards of earth, making the channel 125 feet wide at bottom and providing thirty feet depth from the mouth of the river to the municipal docks at Orange.

Side Hurt

"I HAVE been troubled with a bad pain in my right side, which came on me at certain times and lasted for days," says Mrs. Sylvester Farmer, of Pikeville, Tenn. "Often it would be accompanied by a severe ache across my back.

"I worried along for years—never did anything for it, but last year I got so bad off I knew something had to be done. The pain across my back was very bad and my side hurt all the time. I had known about Cardui for years, but I dreaded taking any sort of medicine and had put it off as long as I could. One day, after I had been suffering an unusual lot of aches and pains, I said to my daughter, 'I think I will try the Cardui treatment.' I could not do my housework and had no strength at all.

"I started on the Cardui Home Treatment. It was not long before I began to pick up. I noticed an improvement from the beginning, but as my case had gone on so long it took some time before it was relieved.

"I continued taking Cardui. The pain across my back left me and my side no longer hurt. It did not hurt me to stoop over, as formerly. My appetite grew better. I could eat and enjoy my meals. Cardui certainly is a fine medicine, and I like to recommend it because it helped me so much."

THE WOODROW WILSON I KNEW

By MARY ALLEN HULBLRT

By MARY ALLEN HULBERT

In the preceding installments Mrs. Hulbert has given to the readers a new insight into the war president—a man of strange characteristics with unconventional views in many respects. As his close friend, Mrs. Hulbert, who was Mrs. Mary Allen Peck during the early period of her friendship with President Wilson, enjoyed his confidence to a remarkable degree. In his conversation with Mrs. Huibert, the late president was wont to express himself freely, divesting himself of his official dignity and reserve, and become Wilson, the man.

Through the force of circumstances over which she had no control, Mrs. Hulbert, the close friend of the then president, paid dearly for her friendship. From enjoying the privileges of a member of the Wilson family, Mrs. Hulbert became an object of espionage on the part of secret service operatives—at whose orders she never learned.

For a man who held so stoutly to singleness of purpose, I doubt whether American politics has ever contained a more paradoxical mind than Woodrow Wilson's. This is, of course, attributable to his lack of sophistication at the outset. He entered politics firmly convinced that he had something new to offer the world when, as a matter of fact, he was merely offering something that the selfish, professional politician has combated throughout history.

There was a naive quality to his early program as he outlined it to me. An upright man, he believed men upright.

"Congress is made up of thinking men," he gravely told me so often before he won political place. "They want the country to succeed just as I do. They wish to serve effectively and intelligently, just as I do."

This young-man faith in the country's lawmakers persisted in Woodrow Wilson's mind even in his governorship of New Jersey when it was his custom often to run in upon my mother and me while we were in New York.

"Congress believes that I am an honest man," he declared one evening with an enthusiastic elation. He had been told by men in whom he had faith that his chances of being the country's next president were good and that he was the man to lead his party back to power. "The country," he said, "has decided that I have no personal purpose of my own to serve except that if it be a sin to covet honor, I am the most offending soul alive."

How he changed in a few months! Or did he? At any rate, I have told how he began to shy at impending honors and disavowed a desire to be president. But in those early days of our association he was entirely at the service of his ideals, and disillusionment had not set in. Possibly his later repudiation of ambition for personal honors was a form of coyness which I had never observed in him. At any rate, my diary has him assuring me that "the country is willing to accept my guidance because it realizes that I am attempting only to mediate the people's own thoughts and purposes."

"Alas, though," he mourned in the dawn of his political career, "I do not know how to wield a big stick but I do know how to put my mind at the service of others for the accomplishing of a common purpose."

It was about this time that, one day, I asked him whether he were not trusting too implicitly in his own powers.

"As I have heard men talk," he said, "I am struck by the obvious fact that politics is tainted with jealousies. Men hate a man who does not take them into his confidences. No man can afford to forget that no matter what his stature he cannot assume that he is greater than all others. Even Moses was hated by his people at times."

This seemed to amuse him because he laughed quietly and told me that one of the joys of talking to a "real friend" was that the latter was certain to understand.

"You, for example, Mary," he told me, "will know just how I accomplish anything I do accomplish. What a pleasure it is to work with strong men, as I shall—men who do their own thinking and know how to put their affairs and the country's in shape.

"Why, a man could wish to be the whole show and surround himself with weak men, I can't imagine," he went on. I have since thought of that statement. "How dull it would be. How tiresome, to watch a play in which you yourself were the only actor!"

He then devoted himself to power—how it should be used and how easily it could be abused. I was moved to ask him what his definition of power was. And his answer, set down with unusual neatness in my battered diary, reads:

"Power consists in one's capacity to link his will with the purpose of others; to lead by reason and a gift for co-operation."

Let his enemies ponder that. Paradoxical is the least of the adjectives they summon. But he believed that "a foolish consistence was the bogoblin of little minds," and acted accordingly.

In point, I recall what he said to me when I was at the White House on Memorial Day in 1915. There was about him, as he spoke, the puzzled air of a small boy who is being threatened with punishment and does not understand why. Gradually the man was suffering the hardships of all crusaders. He spoke of the struggle he was having with congress. No longer was congress "made up of thinking men."

"But," he said in a troubled tone, "why there should be this struggle between us is hard to say. Just who should public men—senators of the United States, for example—have to be lead and stimulated to what all the country knows to be their duty? Just why should they see less clearly the straight path of duty?

"To whom are these members of congress listening? Certainly not to the voice of the people when they quibble, twist, and hesitate like this. They have strangely blunted perceptions. They exaggerate themselves in a most extraordinary degree."

It was on that day that the president made an address at Arlington. Before going to the cemetery we—Miss Helen Bones (his cousin), Miss Margaret Wilson, and I—motored to Arlington where our party sat in solemn array on the platform. We were photographed, but alas! they must have passed through the editorial councils because on the following morning, all of the pictures save the president himself had been carefully cut away.

"What a day in Washington," sighed one of the newspaper correspondents later. "What a day. And how the dear, devoted heads of the ladies ached that night!"

"Why?" I demanded.

"Even now," he said, "I think I can hear the humming of the tongues of Washington, and you are the cause. First, the feminine members at the White House drive out with Mrs. Hulbert. Later they are motoring with Mrs. Galt. One hour it is you; the next it is she. Can't you hear Washington whispering: 'Which will it be? Which will it be?'"

The urge to tell him ironic though his views was, that I was not a candidate, was strong, but I resisted it. But the fact remains that I was not. There was no real reason, you know, why those who found mental refreshment in mouthing the tales of Woodrow Wilson and "that dreadful creature, Mrs. Peck," should have balked at the story which had it that my real object in maintaining friendship with him was to lead him, willy-nilly, to the latar. And, to be sure, they didn't. It would have profited nothing to have met the tales with loud protests. To have done so would have been to deprive the populace of its then favorite after dinner pastime and one may not lightly trifle with such diversions.

But by no power of reasoning could Woodrow Wilson and Mary Hulbert have been mated. This was so apparent to both of us that, when we discussed it as impersonally as such a matter might be treated, it was never a subject of our conversation save in the abstract.

His sense of order, his insistence upon correctness in the most minute things —one's English (although he could mix a metphor with the best of them), the lay of a rug, the color of candles, the innocent vanity of a little superflous flourish in the "M" of my "Mary," very just criticism, I have no doubt, all making for simplicity and efficiency, but warranted to provoke temperamental outbursts, one fancies, if such meticulousness followed one all the days of one's life.

For example, if I should lay down my glasses with the convex side of the lenses touching the table or chair arm, he would leave off what he might be doing and primly come over and turn them so that the nose clasp and the outer edge of the lens rims were downward.

"Why that?" I asked on one of the numerous occasions he did this.

"It is the proper way," he remonstrated.

"This way the lenses will not be scratched."

Unhappily, I do not remember what brought up the question on the occasion when we discussed even so impersonally the business of marriage, but I do recall that I rather shocked him with:

"But you describe a doormat wife. Surely you can't admire that kind. I, for one would not be a wife of that sort."

He softened the dictatorial tone he had been using when he replied:

"Ah, my dear lady, I am sure if you were my wife you would be very pleased to do anything I should wish."

And just here let me say that the word "lady" never lost its proper and exact meaning in his thought. He may not have been the perfect speller (for I remember his "pitty" seemed much more generous and tender than the scanted t's) but the use of his great vocabulary was unfailingly and nicely discriminating.

There probably never was a man so unable to led himself to intrigue, or one so slow to appreciate the elements of intrigue. Of course, this in him bespoke his clean mind, his lack of appreciation for the secret liason. So far as I know, he met Thomas D. Peck but twice. Poor Mr. Wilson, how tragic his face was on that occasion!

The first time he met Mr. Peck was at Pittsfield, Massachusetts, whither he and Mrs. Wilson came to visit us in the summer of 1908. I think I have told you in an earlier installment how he was captured by the Wednesday Morning Club and made to speak to the members, and how immeasurably he was shocked by one of the women, who, after dinner, did the Spanish cigarette maker's dance.

Mr. Peck and Doctor Wilson were not only cordial but apparently sincerely interested in each other.

The second time was in New York. It was I who saw the humor. It was my turn to laugh at both of them.

I was in Bermuda. One of my two stepdaughters had fallen ill in Pittsfield, and there came to me a cable stating that she was dying.

I caught the next steamer for New York. Assuming, of course, that Mr. Peck would be at his daughter's side, and rather dreading the receipt of bad news when the boat should dock in New York, I had cabled Woodrow Wilson to meet me at the pier.

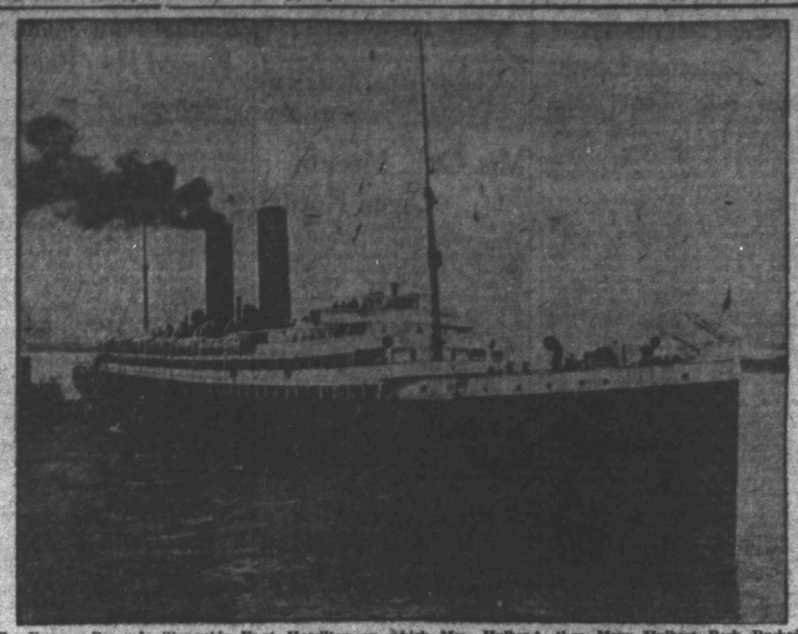

It was not my habit to cable him. One took no unwarranted liberties with Woodrow Wilson, close though the friendship might be. Therefore he knew it was an SOS. He met me, poor man! But, to my utter amazement so did Mr. Peck. I did not dream that he would leave the bedside of his dying daughter. It was not until afterward that the full humor of the situation dawned upon me, that being the customary way of such things. My chief concern was for the daughter.

"How is she?" was the first question I asked Mr. Peck.

"Better," he said.

"I thought, of course, that you would not leave her, and I cabled Doctor Wilson to meet me here to get me through the customs quickly, in event of the worst having happened."

"No, she is much better. And now that Doctor Wilson is here, let him take you to the hotel, while I take advantage of the chance to run over to our New York offices. Do you mind, Doctor Wilson?"

The Furness Bermuda Steamship Fort Hamilton on which Mrs. Hulbert, then Mary Hulbert Peck Rushed to New York where she was met at the pier by Dr. Wilson and her Husband.

Mrs. Mary Allen Hulbert as She Is Today.

"Certainly not." And with much dignity and ceremony he bowed me into a cab. After we were out of the hazardous thick of the dock traffic he turned to me, saying.

"Just what is it all about?" I got your cable, of course, and here I am, but it seems to me that there has been some misunderstanding."

I told him of the illness and how I had not expected to see Mr. Peck, and that I had looked to him to get me past the customs and on the first train. He nodded slowly and looked back as if wondering about Mr. Peck. It really was quite all right, but I am sure Mr. Wilson had a feeling that he had all but ruined his career.

Mr. Peck and I took the afternoon train to Pittsfield, however, happy in the thought of the daughter's recovery.

In defiance of the possibility of being accused of protesting too much, I go back to my note book for emphasis of my repeated statements that it was all but impossible that there could be any truth in evil gossip about Woodrow Wilson. His mental attitude toward those things which breed scandal was, probably, the most uncompromising human adjunct I have ever encountered.

I am reminded that I showed him a clipping from a New York periodical in which there was a flippant but not, to my way of thinking, unpleasant, but, as I recall it, Fisher was mentioned as "one of Mary Peck's attaches." To be sure, I couldn't applaude the sentiment and, if I had had my way about, the paragraph would never have been published. I wasn't so thin-skinned that life had soured on me.

But Mr. Wilson was quite furious at this.

"It is hard to put into words the feelings that come to me when I read slanderous, malignant lying paragraphs like that!" he stormed. "There is sorrow, anger and flaming passion in the realization that there is no way to right such a wrong done an honorable woman by an anonymous scoundrel."

"It is hardly worth while to take it very seriously," I said.

"How can one help taking it seriously? If one could only put one's heel on the vipers that do these things and grind their heads into the slime they love!"

However, his aversion to journalist of all grades, from the society periodicals up, was pronounced. To be sure, he made exceptions, being human, to those journals which supported him and his views; but as for the others—

"I am being forced to talk more than I like to a sentimental gentleman from Boston," he said one afternoon, after he had been nominated for governor. "Alas, he puts as little sound sense as possible into his discussion of public affairs. He is a writer, an amateur painter, too. What bores these harmless people can be sometimes! The dangerous men are much more companionable."

I was never privileged to know what he thought after reading a letter from me written, as I recall it, in 1915. Naturally, I hadn't the calmness of mind he must have had in that period; he was preaching neutrality and doing his lonely best, in the face of a country of dissenters, to enforce neutrality. But, of course, there was no such things as neutrals. The majority were eager for an Allied victory; a minority hoped for the success of the Kaiser's arms. And we must never forget that there were those who hoped that both sides would lose.

Frankly, I was with the majority. Among other excellent reasons was the one based upon my acquaintance in British official circles. Probably this, as much as any other thing, made me write the letter.

An English friend wrote to me criticizing, quite too frankly, President Wilson's refusal to become panic-stricken and declare openly for the Allies—in other words, to ask congress to declare war on Germany. As I have said, I was in accord with a great deal of my British friends and said. Mr. Wilson had asked me to write him quite frankly and everything I might hear that in my judgment would give added light upon the whole situation in general, and his own part in particular.

I realized that I couldn't write anything with authority or value so,

Curling and Waving Dries Life from Hair

The constant curling and waving demanded by present styles in bobbed hair, slowly burns the color, lustre and very life from the hair, leaving it dry, faded, brittle, and full of dandruff; then the hair roots shrink and the hair falls out fast.

Since girls just must curl and wave the hair to appear their prettiest, try "Danderine" to offset any bad effects. After the first application your hair will take on new life and that healthy, youthful lustre, become incomparably soft, wavy and appear twice as thick and abundant. Falling hair stops and dandruff disappears.

A 35-cent bottle of refreshing "Danderine" from any drug store or toilet counter will do wonders for any girl's hair. It goes right to the roots, invigorates, nourishes and strengthens them, helping the hair to grow thick, healthy and luxuriant.

Lemons Bleach the Skin White

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.—Adv.

WIDESPREAD OWNERSHIP OF PUBLIC UTILITIES

Public utilities throughout the United States are no longer the property of groups of capitalists. In fact, the large number of stockholders in these companies almost justify calling them co-operative affairs. The latest figures show that there are over 1,000,000 stockholders in the nation's public utilities exclusive of the railroads.

Along with this dispersion of ownership has come to exist on the part of the managers of such utilities a feeling of public duty, so that most public utilities nowadays are run for the benefit of the communities in which they serve. In fact, most public utilities are foremost in all plans for community betterment.

This company long ago adopted as its policy the purpose of giving the best of service at the lowest possible cost as its contribution to the growth of Texas, and it is glad that its 2100 stockholders have had a substantial part in the great growth of this wonderful state.

PATHOLOGISTS AGAINST FREE CLINICAL WORK

Assert Rich Should Pay For Laboratory Examinations

DALLAS, April 17.—(AP)—The relative merits of the "colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady" in free public health work were discussed here today by the American Societ of Clinical Pathologists.

The question of how far public laboratories should go with their free medical aid was the subject before the final day of the society's national convention. Many delegates voiced objections to public laboratories aiding every one, the rich and poor alike, declaring that a definite line should be drawn between those who can pay and those who cannot, as otherwise the private practice of the pathologists would be seriously injured.

"The question resolves itself into simply this: shall the colonel's lady get free laboratory service like Judy O'Grady?" said Dr. Frederick Sondern of New York, retiring president of the society.

Rich Should Pay.

"In the zeal of the physicians and the clinical pathologists to advance the interests of public health, state and municipal laboratories are now doing an enormous amount of free medical work to reach the rich and poor alike. No one questions the necessity of such a public service in the domain of contagious disease like small pox and diphtheria, where all are put on the same level.

"There is a serious doubt, however, whether such laboratory service should be rendered free by the state in ordinary ailments. Aside from its tendency to pauperize, there is a grave danger that the physicians who are devoting their lives to this most scientific and exacting branch of the healing art will be compelled to forsake this specialty for other and more lucrative fields of medicine thus depriving the profession and the public this much needed consultation and help."

Favor Examination.

Delegates expressed the opinion that the encroachment of state and municipal laboratories must be properly curbed in order to insure the continuance of clinical pathology as a specialty. All the pathologists, however, emphasize their firm purpose to help the public laboratories in their program for advancement of public health, and Dr. Sondern specifically said that the discussion in no way reflected on the great work the public laboratories are accomplishing.

Many delegates favored examinations in connection with health examinations, explaining that the laboratory should aid in every general examination of the individual.

The convention was to adjourn with election of officers and selection of next year's meeting place.

'MA' FINISHES HER PLATFORM

Miriam And Jim Laying Plans For Careful Campaign In Texas

AUSTIN, April 17.—(AP)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson has about completed her platform on which she will run for re-election as chief executive of Texas, and it will be made public soon, it was learned at the executive offices today.

The woman chief executive and her husband, formre Governor James E. Ferguson, are carefully laying plans for the coming campaign and the governor has said that no special session of the legislature will be called at present to consider the validation of the road district bonds. Several demands from members of the legislature, county judges and others interested in the Texas road district bond situation, have been made on the governor to call a special session seeking validation, but she said that the authorities differ and that a special session will be useless.

Governor Ferguson is preparing for a trip to Houston, to address the state labor convention Monday and to visit for the first time the state prison at Huntsville.

OPPOSE MODIFICATION

Texas Women Against Change In Volstead Law

DALLAS, April 17.—(AP)—A resolution opposing any modification in the Volstead prohibition law was before the second district convention of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs here today. Action on the resolution favored teaching social hygiene in city and rural schools of Texas.

Welfare work among negroes was discussed under the leadership of Mrs. J. C. Nagle of Dallas, first vice president of the state organization. Mrs. Day Mille of Texarkana, a director of the General Federation of Women's clubs, said she believed negroes should be urged to keep the races separated by discouraging intermarriage.

Oklahoman Reimburses Texas Fair For Gate Crashing

DALLAS, April 17.—(AP)—Because he "sneaked in" at the Texas state fair five times more than 20 years ago, an Oklahoma City man today sent $5 conscience money to the fair treasurer. He said half the money was for admissions and the other half interest.

The check will be returned with the suggestion that he attend the 40th annual fair here next October.

Political Bubbles

By S. Raymond Brooks

AUSTIN, Texas, April 16.— This column recently quoted the comment that Ferguson friends had urged the entry of Former Senator C. I. Brachfield into the attorney general's race. Mr. Brachfield announced last week. The comment further intimated he was regarded as an "administration candidate."

A state official who was among the group to whom Mr. Brachfield disclosed his intention to run, now says that Brachfield also told the group that he was supporting Attorney General Dan Moody for governor.

Mr. Brachfield, the candidate for attorney general, said that he was hoping to make the race on the issues of the office he sought, and without reference to the governor's race, if such were possible, according to the same official.

Close friends of John W. Hornsby, Travis county attorney, predicts that he will enter this race, as the eighth candidate. He has promised a final decision by April 20. J. V. Allred, Wichita district attorney, was the seventh to enter the attorney general's free-for-all.

Terrell Favors SAP Extension in Valley

AUSTIN, April 17.—(AP)—Granting of the application of the San Antonio and Aransas Pass to exend ino the Rio Grande valley would not injure the Gulf Coast lines, the only railroad now serving the valley, George B. Terrell, commissioner of agriculture, contends in a brief filed with the interstate commerce commission today.

"The increasing volume of business in the counties of Brooks, Hidalgo and Cameron in the next few years would furnish sufficient tonnage to give the Gulf Coast lines the volume it is now getting and give to the San Antonio and Aransas Pas srailroad enough business to earn a reasonable return on its investment," Terrell said.

WILSON

rather foolishly, I forwarded the Englishman's letter in one of my own.

In none of the letters I received from the president after that was there any mention of my comments or of the Englishman's. The rebuke was complete. I merited it. It occurred to me later, when among the other absurdities, I was accused of being in the service of the German government, that here I was open to the accusation of being a propogandist for the British.

History loses much through the law which forbids me to publish the letters he wrote to me. While I am quite sure that at no time did he reveal to me in his writing state secrets or facts which would have been of benefit to any of the embattled nations, yet he seemed to take such occasions to drop his austere, statecraft and talk of the war as if he were speaking confidently to a friend.

Humble as I was during the war years, I was at least destined to loom important in the minds of some politicians.

There was, for example, a former senator from Massachusetts who, it seemed to me, very nearly reduced himself to nervous collapse because of me. He was not zealous in the cause of Woodrow Wilson. On the contrary, he was one of those who must have lain awake of nights conjuring schemes which would encompass the ruin of the White House democrat.

But so eager was this patriot that he quite overreached himself on occasion. There were still a few of my former friends loyal to me. Ah, yes, even in Pittsfield. One of these was a relation of the senator and to her he talked of Woodrow Wilson and Mary Peck. I was never Mary Hulbert in the stories, but Mary Peck. Poor lady, she was torn by conflicting desires. She was loyal to me, but hated Woodrow Wilson to whom she applied her most virulent epithet—"That weak man."

I learned all this after I had been told that she and another Pittsfield woman were in California. I being in Los Angeles, wrote to her at once and back came her letter filled with warnings. I had asked her whether she had heard any or all of the scandalous talk about me. Alas, she had.

But, she replied, she was glad that I had broached the subject because she and her friend from Pittsfield had decided to be utterly frank with me. Whereupon she wrote me all that she had heard, officially, semi-officially and at random. In my next article I shall reproduce her letter.

In such times I quite naturally rebelled that I should have to bear the onus of such innuendo. Frequently it occurred to me that I was partaking of the nature and fate of the sacrificial goat and there were times when I came very near to losing all my early faith in Woodrow Wilson. Was it possible, I would ask myself, that he does not know that I am being treated like a criminal? Why shouldn't he, president or not, come to my rescue?

What had I done to be trailed through the streets by skulking detectives? Why should I be forced to see so many erstwhile friends ignore me?

I could realize, of course, that Woodrow Wilson's enemies might hate so much that they would gladly make a Delilah of me to ruin him, but I was never able to understand what was being said—what nature of horrible thing—that could so cinally turn from me men and women who had been my friends.

"THE PERFECT FOOL"

He Knows All—He Sees All

ED WYNN'S QUESTION BOX ...

Dear Mr. Wynn:

While visiting New York City I was asked what I thought of the so-called "sausage" fashion the girls have of wearing stockings. I could not answer as I did not know what they meant. Can you tell me what they mean by girls wearing stockings "Sausage Fashion?"

Truly yours,

M. I. STUPID.

Answer—Wearing stockings "sausage fashion" means "below-knees."

Dear Mr. Wynn:

What does a "Union" mean when it's men go on a strike for more money and shorter hours?

Yours truly,

DELLA GATE.

Answer—That means the men want more money and more time to spend it in.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

When a business concern has a "failure" there are generally two kinds of creditors. Just a plain creditor and a preferred creditor. Can you tell me the difference?

Sincerely,

I. M. STUCK.

Answer—A preferred creditor knows immediately that he gets nothing, while a plain creditor has to wait 60 to 90 days to find it out.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

My husband was saying that he knows a man who uses "smokeless" tobacco. I've known of horseless carriages, wireless telegraphy, seedless oranges but what in the world is "smokeless tobacco?"

Yours truly,

IMA YAPP.

Answer—Chewing tobacco.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

My wife and I have saved up $40. Now she wants to buy a cow and I want to buy a bicycle. I claim she'll look funny riding around town on a cow. Am I right?

Truly yours,

WATTEL I. DEW.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I am 44 years of age and a single woman. Met a man last night who has asked to call on me. He is coming to see me next Saturday. I have never had a man call on me before. In case he wants to kiss me shall I call for help?

Sincerely,

MAY DIN.

Answer—By no means call for help. If you are 44 years old and have never been married and a man tries to kiss you don't call for help. Call for witnesses.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

Is it unlucky to postpone your wedding day?

Yours truly,

I. M. DOINGIT.

Answer—Not if you keep on postponing it.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I have lost all my money and am broke. A fortune teller told me that when the soles of my shoes wear out, I will be on my feet again. Do you believe it?

Yours truly,

CLAIRE VOYANT.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I go with a crowd of boys and girls and once a week we meet and those who can sing do so, while others just tell jokes and stories. I tell jokes. There is one girl in the crowd who doesn't like me and every time I tell a joke she always says: "That joke is 40 yars old." How can I cure her?

Truly yours,

JOE KING.

Answer—The next time you tell a joke and she says "That joke is 40 years old," you say to her: "And you remember it all this time?" That'll cure her.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

My wife fights with me, all the time, because I won't get my hair cut. I claim it looks good, but she says it is too long. Do you think I should have it cut short?

Yours truly,

BOB BURR.

Answer—The only trouble with a man having his hair cut short is that he is often mistaken for his wife.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I am a cook in a private home. There are no marks on the faucets in the kitchen to show the hot water and cold water. I have scalded my fingers nearly every day. What can I do to prevent this from happening again?

Yours truly,

I. M. DUMB.

Answer—Just feel the water first.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I go with a crowd of boys and girls and once a week we meet and those who can sing do so, while others just tell jokes and stories. I tell jokes. There is one girl in the crowd who doesn't like me and every time I tell a joke she always says: "That joke is 40 yars old." How can I cure her?

Truly yours,

JOE KING.

Answer—The next time you tell a joke and she says "That joke is 40 years old," you say to her: "And you remember it all this time?" That'll cure her.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

My wife fights with me, all the time, because I won't get my hair cut.

Answer next week.

Forbes Bondsmen Are Sued For Fine By Government

CHICAGO, April 17.—(AP)—Colonel Charles R. Forbes and his bondsmen were sued in federal circuit court today for a $10,000 fine which the government alleges that Forbes, serving a two-year term at Leavenworth, Kan., penitentiary, has refused to pay.

The suit was brought by Assistant United States District Attorney John Byrne, who names the Hartford Accident and Indemnity company as a co-defendant with the former head of the veterans bureau convicted of conspiracy to defraud the government.

The suit is a civil action, and one not often resorted to by the government.

Stolen Automobile And Bank Stock Is Found Near Duncan

DUNCAN, April 17.—(AP)— An automobile and $8,000 in stock of the Sherman, Texas, First National bank, both believed to have been stolen, were found six miles south of Comanche last midnight. The car had crashed into a ditch.

Two men are known to have been in the automobile when it was wrecked, but no trace of them has been found. The stock was issued to Lee Simmons of Sherman.

Simmons was called by long distance. He said that both the car and the stock had been stolen.

Vernon Scholastic Census Increases

VERNON, April 17.—Incomplete tabulations of the school census indicate that the final count will place the scholastic census of Vernon slightly i nexcess of 2,000, according to Superintendent W. T. Lofland. This is a gain of 300 over last year's census.

Superintendent Lofland commended the co-operaton shown the worker by the citizens, saying that a more complete canvass was secured this year tha nheretofore. Last year the scholastic census totaled only 1,700, although the total enrollment of the city schools was more than 2,000. With an enrollment of 2,100 this year, the census report is hardly 100 less than the actual enrollment.

MANY NOTABLES TO PARTICIPATE IN BRIDGE FETE

Governors of Oklahoma And Texas Will be In Vernon

VERNON, April 17.—Many prominent and state and national figures will take part in the formal opening ceremonies of the Vernon-Frederick free bridge at Davidson April 21, according to announcements received here from the executive offices of the Lee highway association, which is sponsoring the bridge celebration to be held in connection with the national convention of the Lee Highway association at Frederick April 20-22. Many are planning to attend celebration because of the fact that the Vernon-Frederick bridge is the only bridge on which toll is not charged over Red river between Texas and Oklahoma.

In addition to Governor Miriam A. Ferguson of Texas and Governor M. E. Trapp of Oklahoma, J. A. Johnson, general director of the Lee Highway association, and Major L. C. Barber, representing the Washington board of trade, will attend the celebration, coming from Washington.

A barbecue for 4,000 people is being prepared at Davidson, and extensive plans are being made for the greatest celebration in the history of this section of the state.

Lions' Governor Addresses Vernon Club Gathering

VERNON, April 17.—Members of the Vernon Lions club heard an interesting address by State Deputy District Governor Dugger of Waco at the regular luncheon Friday. He addressed the club on the aim and accomplishments of the Lions club.

The local club went on record as favoring the strict enforcement of the traffic regulations of Vernon, and voted to suggest that the policemen on duty at the stop signals wear uniforms and stand in the center of the street.

Lion W. A. Franklin reported on the athletic meet, giving the daily program of the meet, requested that all members of the Lions club attend the meet some time during the two days. After discussing the contests, he stressed the need of an athletic field in Vernon. He then emphasized the need of rooms for the visitors that are in attendance at the Interscholastic meet, and Lions M. G. Neathery, C. D. Greene, and S. A. White were appointed as a committee to assist in securing rooms for the delegates for Friday night.

"MA" CONSIDERS CALLING SOLONS ON BOND ISSUE

If That Procedure Will Suffice, She Will Convene Legislature

FORT WORTH, April 17.—(AP) Although Governor Ferguson does not believe a plan has been mapped out that will solve the road bonds tangle, she will consider calling a special session if a likely solution is offered, James Ferguson, husband of the governor said in a long distance conversation with the Star-Telegram here.

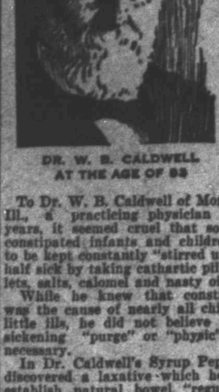

Ferguson insisted that the plan mapped out after the meeting here yesterday at call of the Texas highway association did not appeal to the governor as feasible enough to justify a special session. He said, however, that he was expecting a re-draft of the bill received from Senator Robert A. Stuart of Fort Worth which, possibly would suggest a remedy.

Clifford B. Jones of Spur, named chairman of the committee, to draft the memorial to Governor Ferguson, will be unable to serve, he advised today. He has just recovered from influenza and fears it may be necessary to undergo a sinus operation.

Copies of the rough draft of the validating bill sent Governor Ferguson by Fort Worth attorneys have been sent to leading bond examining council for large bonds over the country and they have been united in agreeing that it seems to answer the purpose for which it was drawn.

Mother! It's Cruel to "Physic" Your Child

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell of Monticello Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even if the child is chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens or upsets the most delicate system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Iowa Park Methodist To Dedicate New $50,000 Church Sunday

SELECMAN AND MOORE PREACH FIRST SERMON

Special to The Record News.

To those who work and wait there is always a reward, and such is the belief of the congregation of the First Methodist church, south, of Iowa Park, which today will hold special dedication services for the magnificent $50,000 church edifice, recently completed, furnished and completely paid for.

Bishop John M. Moore, president bishop of the North Texas conference, will preach the dedication sermon. At the evening service Dr. C. C. Selecman, president of Southern Methodist university, Dallas, will preach. Rev. H. C. Hand is the pastor of the church which has had splendid growth during the past few years.

Is 37 Years Old.

The history of the church covers a period of 37 years, from the time of the organization of a mission in 1889 to a thriving organization of more than 300 members today. A one-room structure in the south part of town served as a house of worship for many years. In 1910 a brick church, outclassed in this section only by the Wichita Falls building, was erected. Due to the rapid increase of the population of the city, the brick church proved inadequate for the needs of the city, and the present building was planned.

Thirty rooms and an auditorium are included in the structure which is equipped with modern facilities for the best type of religious instruction. The teaching force of the Sunday school consists of sixty trained officers and teachers including two general superintendents, superintendents of seven separate organized departments and four adult classes.

Two Cornerstones.

One feature unique with reference to the new Methodist church is that it has two cornerstones. The cornerstone of the old building was replaced in the enlarged building, and the new stone was properly placed. Names on the cornerstone of the old building include L. B. Winfrey, C. H. Clark, R. Hines, J. A. Moore, J. P. Sunday, A. B. Hancock, J. W. Dowlen and J. C. Ralston, with Rev. J. E. Roach presiding elder and Rev. C. P. Martin, pastor.

Names on the new cornerstone are: J. P. Sunday, T. J. Pace, Jno. C. Murphree, Mrs. J. E. Keller and Mrs. M. L. Hines composed the building committee for the present building with Rev. F. M. Richardson presiding elder and Rev. H. C. Hand, pastor.

Following are the general officers, superintendents, teachers and secretaries of the Sunday school and departments: Jno. C. Murphree, superintendent; T. J. Pace, associate superintendent; Geraldine Thurber, general secretary; Mary George, treasurer; Fern Burrows, librarian; Dorothy Arnold and Violet Shipman, assistant librarians; Mrs. C. M. Zink, pianist; Maurine McDonald, choir director; Mrs. Paul Zink, missionary superintendent. Nursery department: Mrs. B. L. Turner, superintendent; Mrs. T. L. MORE PAY FOR HINDY.

German President Due for Salary Increase as Government Favor.

BERLIN, April 17.—(AP)—The coalition government has decided that President von Hindenburg merits a salary increase. Under the executive budget, which has passed the finance committee, but is still to be submitted to the Reichstag, he will get a salary of $42,857 a year, an increase of $18,857 over his previous salary.

Although the German executive's salary, if increased, would be about $33,000 a year less than that of President Coolidge, he would still come out ahead because of the heavy expense allottment for travel, entertainment and charity given him.

A View of the Ladies Parlor

TREE PLANTING A HOME ESSENTIAL

Is First Step Toward Attractive Residence, Says Mrs. Parker

By MRS. R. B. PARKER
Chairman "Better Homes in America Week Committee"

Where is not possible to build the new house on a lot having good trees the first step toward an attractive home is tree planting. Even with trees already established, plants of smaller growth are required in addition if a home atmosphere is to radiate from the house. A proper combination of these gives the most pleasing result.

Locating the walk and the drive, if there is to be one, is a necessary preliminary to planting the grounds. The less conspicuous they are the better for the general effect. If the house is close to the street a straight walk is the least obtrusive and cuts up the lawn less than a curving one; but if the house is farther from the street than the width of its own front an unbroken lawn may be provided by curving the walk from one corner of the other. When a drive is needed it may often be used as a substitute for a walk. Walks and drives should be kept as few in number and as limited in area as conditions will permit.

Proper location of shade trees is probably the most vital of all the planting details. Where the house is placed close to the street the street trees are usually the only ornamental trees that can be used, but where there is room some are needed near each corner of the house as a frame but none in front to obstruct the view. On a large lot additional trees provide welcome shade but must not obstruct the picture of the front.

Shrubs planted in irregular clumps along the foundation give the house the appearance of nestling against the earth instead of protruding from it. This effect is heightened by having portions of the foundation showing so that the house has the appearance of stability instead of resting on foliage as would be the impression if none of the foundation line were visible. Irregularity of top or sky line is obtained by planting tall plants at the corners or in broad spaces of walls between windows while lower plants may be used beneath windows or at the porch. The ground line may be given pleasing irregularity by having the plantings narro at places along the walls and broad at others.

Groups of woody plants may be located at various points on the boundary of the lawns and especially at the corners and near the entrances of walks and drives, but they must not be high enough to hide approaching traffic. Other uses for plantings on the home grounds are as screens for work yards, private areas, or objectionable views, as well as to form a partial enclosure for the flower garden.

Plants of suitable height for the different locations should be selected, using lower kinds in front. Variety may ybe secured in habit of growth, in size, and color of foliage. It is well to select the flowering plants used so that blooms come at different times, prolonging the season of interest. Some kinds have the added attraction of showy fruits or of bright colored stems which may be utilized for increasing the interest in the plantings. Evergreens, both deciduous and broadleaf, have advantages for winter effect.

King's Men Have Their Innings

LONDON, April 17.—Contact with royalty means just as much in the kitchen as it does in the parlors. The royal servants who look after the wants of the tenants of Buckingham Palace, it seems, are the elite of their social circles—so much so that at the recent annual London servants' ball, the honor of being patron and of doing the receiving fell to the head butler of the king and his assistants.

And if reports are correct, the royal minions exhibited real hauteur. While ducal butlers unbent to dance with maids and cooks who work for just peers and Mayfair folk, the royal box reserved for the king and his company on the occasions was occupied by his servants who, for the most part, looked on.

About 1,500 servants attended the dance, which necessarily was one of the few functions given that night in the west end.

KICK ON RADIO TAX.

BERLIN, April 17.—Protests of thousands of Berlin radio fans have induced the administrative council to postpone consideration of a bill taxing radio receiving set owners 25c a month.

The council had hoped to add $3,300,000 a year to the city's income with the radio tax as there are 1,100,000 sets in operation in Berlin. Radio owners contended that they were paying fifty cents a month, or a total of $550,000, for the privilege of taking progema out of the air and that this sum was twenty times more than it cost the government and city for salaries of radio artists and broadcasting expenses.

The broadcasting stations, controlled by the government, are not rented out for advertising purposes. There are no private stations except those owned by amateurs and news agencies.

Davidson Assails 'Quackery' In Texas In Medical Address

WINNSBORO, Texas, April 17.—(AP)—Unanimous endorsement of the Texas Medical practice act and approval of the systematic aid the law-abiding doctors are giving the government in wiping out the medical underworld were pledged by a rising vote of more than five hundred citizens from ten counties at a banquet given here tonight by the Wood county Medical society. Cheers and applause greeted the reading of a telegram by Dr. C. M. Rosser of Dallas, president of the state medical association of Texas, from New Orleans announcing that the United States circuit court of appeals today refused to grant Texas chiropractors an injunction to prevent their prosecution for alleged violation of the Texas law.

Plans were perfected to aid the government in stamping out quackery throughout East Texas as a part of the statewide campaign.

Lynch Davidson of Houston and Dr. Rosser were the chief speakers. Mr. Davidson characterized the medical practice act as the wisest piece of legislation ever enacted. No person who cannot or will not comply with this law should be permitted to deal with the sick, Mr. Davidson declared, and all who minister to the sick, regardless of their method, should be amended so that it would be made easier to enforce.

Dr. Rosser asserted that it is not the purpose of the medical profession to drive any one out of practice but to give continuous and systematic support to the state in its efforts to see that all who treat the sick shall qualify first.

NO PLACE FOR MENCKEN.

German Police Rule French Magazines Too Spicy; Ordered Repressed.

BERLIN, April 17.—French humorous magazines, which have a big sale in Berlin, are getting a bit too racy for city authorities. The police have been seizing numerous issues. When, however, the sale of current issues of five French publications was stopped in one day, counsel for the publishers demanded an injunction restraining the police from further interference.

At the hearing the judge ordered the court room cleared of several hundred spectators. The procedure, however, was not necessary because no translated passages were read aloud. The court merely glanced at the pictures in the magazines and praised the police for protecting the morals of the people. He ruled that the magazines were indecent.

Royal Visitors To Invade London

LONDON, April 17.—(AP)—The visits of foreign royalty which will be common in London this summer have given those inclined to matchmaking at least three royal subjects for speculation, in which the prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George play prominent parts.

The largest number of foreign royalties are scheduled to visit England this coming season since the world war.

Princess Astrid of Sweden, whose name has been coupled with that of the prince of Wales by the king's subjects, will be the first to arrive. Another princess to visit the court will be the Infanta Beatrice of Spain, the 17-year-old daughter of the king of Spain whom some think a good match for Prince George, youngest of the English princes.

The king and queen of Spain probably will come to England at the same time, but not on a state visit. The queen of Spain is a daughter of the English princess Beatrice who lives in Queen Victoria's old residence, Kensington Palace, and they will visit there.

The visit of the young Spanish princess is causing much stir and great speculation, but all that is definitely known is that her parents are not anxious to have her marry so young. Her father will insist on her marrying a Catholic, or at least in the church, which, of course, may eliminate the British royal sons.

Queen Marie of Roumania, also is coming to London this spring accompanied by her very pretty and equally eligible daughter, the Princess Ileana, whose name has been coupled with that of the prince of Wales more than once.

A reserve fund set aside out of every sale of a lot is just as essential to perpetuate a cemetery as it is for a reserve fund to be set aside out of your premium to make good your life insurance policy.

It has been found by experience in old and settled communities that cemeteries operated by cities or individuals which do not have a reserve fund finally grow up in weeds, and in many places houses are built where the dead were formerly buried.

When you buy a lot buy in the place that gives you this protection. We will sell you a lot on easy terms to be paid for over a period of years.

Roaming The Air

BY S. D. FOX

The celebration of the 50th anniversary of the telephone and the recollection of its tremendous advances have increased interest in the future of radio. Television and transmission of power are some of the things classed as next in store.

Foreign countries are three years behind the United States in the development of radio broadcasting.

Indiana has but 14 broadcasting stations and only five of these are more than local in range. Eleven applications are now pending.

KOA at Denver will cover America's complete calendar of sporting events during the coming season, it is announced. Leading events in the sporing world will be given the right of way at the station. A network of leased wires has been obtained to cover the country for sports news.

The Swedish government is preparing to test the nation's fund of information. Questions like those appearing on Thomas A. Edison's mental test list will be broadcast from the radio stations, which are controlled by the government.

An Austrian newspaper announces the invention of a new means of radio communication which will allow the automatic connection of subscribers, as in a modern telephone exchange.

Increased power and improved broadcasting will do much to aid in establishing the permanency of radio for the benefit of agriculture, in the opinion of the department of agriculture. The increasing dependability of receiving sets also is given as a factor in the development.

Arthur Clifton, organist at WBZ, was "discovered" by W. Gordon Swan, the station's announcer while he was vacationing in Maine last summer. Hearing someone playing old southern melodies while he was passing a small hall, Swan introduced himself to the player with the result that another artist has been added to radio's list of entertainers.

Many listeners are voicing their disapproval of "hackneyed" programs. While popular numbers played by jazz orchestras are the most frequently repeated, classical music seems to be divided into two classes; the numbers that are broadcast often and the ones that are seldom heard. The few selections included in the first class are heard time after time, even by the best known artists, and the fans are demanding "something different."

Secretary Hoover has made an appeal to listeners to donate their discarded radio receivers to lighthouse keepers. About 1,400 men are employed in 700 stations guarding navigation, and bad weather often cuts them off from the outside world for long period of time. Under the secretary's plan listeners who replace their sets with later makes could do a great service to the guardians by giving the old sets to them.

There are more than 50 stations in the world broadcasting on wave lengths of less than 50 meters. Twenty-five of these are in the United States.

Radio is urging artists to strive toward higher and higher standards in their work in the opinion of Paul Specht, who has been heard in a number of concerts at KDKA. He declares that radio is the artist's critic for he is judged by his performance alone.

Matinee chats for women, a new tri-weekly feature of KOA, give "microphone snapshots" of human nature through Majorie Irene Bond, who solves heart problems in the newspapers over the pen name of Cynthia Grey.

Daily organ recitals, discontinued by WRC during Lent, were resumed last week.

WLW has been made official radio station of Cincinnati. Police information is being broadcast and special attention will be paid to dissemination of law enforcement messages. Work of the charter form of government now in operation in that city will be brought to the attention of the radio audiences.

Jean St. Anne, French baritone who is a Friday night artist at WJJD, includes many musicians of note in his "family tree". Two of them are Debusey, the famous composer and Nicholas Pausin, one of the composers of the court in the reign of Napoleon III. M. St. Anne studied in Paris with the late Jean De Riske, one of the leading tutors of Europe.

Nero, the Nubian lion in the Sincinnati Zoological Gardens roared his greetings to the radio audience recently. A microphone with special lines and amplifiers were provided for the occasion.

WPG will continue its program scheduled uninterrupted while the operating room is being reconstructed to make room for a new 5,000 watt station.

The oldest types of animals in the world are to be found in Australia, according to Sir James Elder, K. B. E. commissioner for Australia in the United States, who was a recent radio speaker at KOA.

"Five Minutes a Day to Store Knowledge Away," is the title of a noon feature widely acclaimed by KYW listeners. This feature started more than a half a year ago, has grown now to such a point that it would take months to answer all of the questions received in a week.

G.-C. ASSOCIATION

VERNON, April 17.—Ten officers and directors of the Colorado-Gulf Highway association are to convene in Vernon and set the date for the annual meeting to be held in Bowie, and discuss plans for advertising the highway, according to announcements received here from the executive headquarters of the association. Other important matters will be brought before the official meeting, it is announced.

The following officers and directors will be in attendance at the Vernon meeting: J. Allen Wickoff, president, Clayton, N. M; E. E. Jackson, vice-president, Colorado Springs, Colo; A. R. Davis, treasurer, Raton, N. M; C. H. Walker, vee-president, Dalhart; J. N. Riggs, Amarillo; George Sager, Memphis; Fred A. Young, Bowie; Ed McRae, Fort Worth; Fred Grimes, Hillsboro; and Fred B. I. O. O. F. SEEKS HONORS

FREDERICK, April 17.—The Frederick Odd Fellows lodge is planning to make a strong bid for honors in the third degree contest that is to be held as a part of the district Odd Fellow convention in Lawton on April 26.

The lodge, in a recent performance, in Altus only missed ten words in the entire ritual service.

RAIN DELAYS WORK

VERNON, April 17.—The work of moving the houses of the building site for the $150,000 Baptist church at Paradise and Pease streets has been delayed because of the recent rains, and will not begin until next Monday, according to J. V. Owens, chairman of the building committee. The construction of the building is expected to start soon after the houses are moved.

RETURNS TO PULPIT

FREDERICK, April 17.—Rev. T. P. Haskins, pastor of the First Baptist church here, will return to his pulpit next week, after closing a successful revival service in Magnum Sunday night.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REAL ESTATE BOARDS
REALTORS

WICHITA FALLS REAL ESTATE BOARD

WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS

Under all is the land. Upon its wise utilization and widely allocated ownership depend the survival and growth of free institutions and of our civilization. The Realtor is the instrumentality through which the land resource of the nation reaches its highest use and through which land ownership attains its widest distribution. He is a creator of homes, a builder of cities, a developer of industries and productive farms.

Such functions impose obligations beyond those of ordinary commerce; they impose grave social responsibility and a patriotic duty to which the Realtor should dedicate himself, and for which he should be diligent in preparing himself. The Realtor, therefore, is zealous to maintain and improve the standards of his calling and shares with his fellow-realtors a common responsibility for its integrity and honor.

In the interpretation of his obligations, he can take no safer guide than that which has been handed down through twenty centuries, embodied in the Golden Rule:

"Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye also unto them."

Ten Reasons Why I Am in the Real Estate Business

1. Because of the opportunities for service that are thereby offered.

2. Because I like to deal with so essential and basic a requirement as land.

3. Because of the hopes and aims the calling inspires, the ambition it stimulates, the spirit of resourcefulness it developes.

4. Because it is a vocation that calls for all the energy, optimism and staying qualities a man has in him, demands the utmost in initiative, tact and faith.

5. Because every day that I live I am more convinced that there is nothing more fundamental to society, nor of more economic importance to my country than wide-spread, and as nearly as possible, universal, home-ownership.

6. Because it enables me to assist in planning the future and developing the present for the city in which I live and to enjoy God's sunshine and life's benedictions.

7. Because of its broadening infuences, its contacts, its hold upon the creative instinct that dwells somewhere latent in every being.

8. Because it has developed the will to serve, given me courage and foresight and taught me that never to plan means never to achieve.

9. Because it has shown me what possessions are basic, helped me to acquire vision and strengthened my belief in my country and its institutions.

10. Because, dealing with constructive undertakings, charged with sentiment and the spirit of service, my business is one that my wife understands and appreciates, that my boy idealizes in youthful enthusiasm, that my friends consider sound, my neighbors find worthy and my wisest counsellors approve.

Ten Reasons Why I Am a Realtor

1. Because this selective body of those who follow the business of real estate, has made it a profession, not simply a business.

2. Because the Realtors of America have made the sale of real estate no longer a haggling matter, but a constructive enterprise.

3. Because the business of real estate has been placed on a higher and more honorable plane by those who compose this organization.

4. Because that title identifies me with an organization that has made the most notable ethical progress ever achieved by any profession in a short space of time.

5. Because being a Realtor distinguishes me from the unethical agent and those who discredit the business in which I am engaged

6. Because public recognition, so long withheld from an honorable calling has been given the real estate business through the efforts of the Realtors of America.

7. Because an organized movement to raise standards of practice and increase the efficiency of its members must appeal to any man who is earnest in his calling.

8. Because the research work and educational propaganda to which I have access, has increased my efficiency, made my business more profitable and enabled me to give a broader and better service to my clients.

9. Because of the value of a fellowship with men who, by exchange of ideas and development of systematic methods, serve the growing principle of interdependence that characterizes the age in which we live.

10. Because I know that it is only a matter of time until, in many communities, no real estate dealer will have the confidence of the public unless he possesses the title of Realtor.

GLORIA SHINES IN RICHLY-SET SOCIETY FILM

"Untamed Lady" Riot Of Pep And Humor Against De Luxe Backgrounds

Gloria Swanson sparkles through her latest picture, "The Untamed Lady," at the Strand this week, with all the brilliancy and polish of the finished actres sand all the buoyant independence and luxurious wardrobe of a society heiress, who has youth, beauty, social position and—twenty million dollars!

One would naturally think that life for a girl so richly endowed would be one grand, sweet song, but alas and alack! there is always a fly in the ointment. In her case it is an ungovernable temper, which frightens friends and fiances, and provides the framework on which the comic, dramatic and romantic experiences of the plot are builded.

It is this temperament that prompts her to cheer for Yale when she is sitting in the Princeton stand, during a Yale-Princeton football game. This same devil-may-care spirit tempts her to attend a fashionable society dance in a bathing suit, and on another occasion moves her to speak up while a famous musician is playing.

Three times she becomes engaged, and each time the engagement blows up. It is then that fiance No. 4 comes along and determines for her good as well as his own peace of mind to tame her. And then the fun—and action—and thrills, begin in earnest.

Some remarkable yacht scenes during a storm at sea, incidentally showing Gloria shoveling coal in the boiler room, and an exciting chase on horseback, feature the latter portion of the picture. Lavish staging and deluxe backgrounds add to the pictorial beauty of the photoplay, and Frank Tuttle deserves special commendation for his deft direction. Lawrence Gray gives a very spirited performance as Gloria's leading man, and the rest of the cast is more than adequate.

All These Elements Are Combined In Film At Queen

"Border Justice" the sensational western featuring Bill Cody, being shown this week as the special attraction at the Gem theatre, is, in the mind of this reviewer, everything that critics in other cities heralded it as being. It is a fast and furious melodrama interpreted by probably the most pleasing western star who has ever appeared on the screen.

Bill Cody as the young ranger is a distinctly pleasing character and he manages to put an unprecedented amount of personality into the role. He handles an uncommonly large share of fierce riding and daring gun play with so much grace and conviction that it is small wonder the audience sat tense throughout the showing.

The story departs from the conventional western and takes on many delightful twists that are in themselves thrilling. A young Texas ranger is sent out to round up a murderer and discovers when he finds him that it is his own brother. He sees his duty and cannot allow the relationship to interfere but in the chase which follows the brother falls down a cliff and is left by the ranger who believes he is dead.

As the story works out it is shown that the murderer was not killed but made a hopeless idiot by his fall and around this incident hinges a truly thrilling and colorful story. Patrons who are especially interested in westerns will find this one most pleasantly to their liking while even those who are indifferent to this type of story will find themselves thrilling to its rapid action.

"Chip of Flying U" Promises To Be A Great Gibson Film

With one of the best known novels ever written in America, one of the brightest stars in the cinema solar system, and one of the biggest casts that the star has ever had, "Chip of the Flying U," which comes to the Mission theatre today gives promise of being one of the season's best pictures.

The picture was adapted from the novel of the same name written by B. M. Bower. The book ranks as one of the most popular and widely read novels written in the last fifteen years.

Hoot Gibson, whose work in such pictures as "The Calgary Stampede," "The Flaming Frontier," "Let 'Er Buck," "Spook Ranch" and other pictures, has made him possibly the most popular western star on the screen, plays the title part of "Chip" Bennett.

The supporting cast contains many well-known film names. Virginia Brown Faire lends feminine charm to the leading role opposite the star. Philo McCullough offers another of his suavely villianous characterizations as "the other man."

"Chip of the Flying U" was directed by Lynn Reynolds, who made House Peters' latest starring production for Universal, "Combat." Harry Dittmar adapted the story to the screen from Bower's novel.

Takes Whole City Force to Buy Him

BERLIN, April 17.—The three man village police force, a chief and two lieutenants, the volunteer fire department and municipal court officials of Weisenheim, Bavaria, were needed to bury a man who had committed suicide.

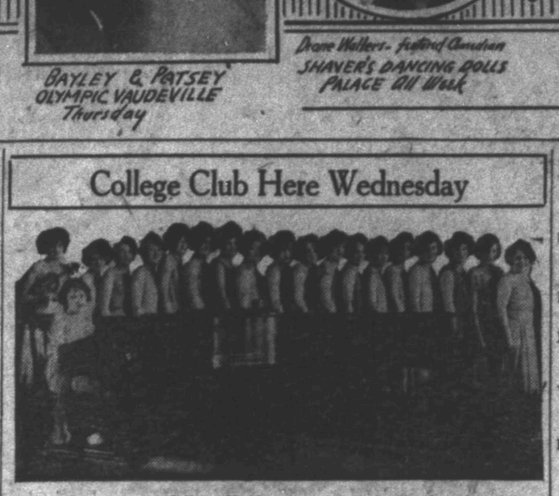

The pastor of the lone village church had refused to officiate at the funeral. He declared that he could not pray for one who had committed a sin by killing himself. He ordered the rope to the church bell cut, and the doors locked.

Relatives of the dead man obtained a court order for a church funeral, but the pastor stood pat. Police then battered down the church door. Firemen climbed into the belfry and replaced the rope so that the bell could be tolled. And the funeral took place without the city magistrate reading the service.

New Outdoor Film Pictures West of Today

Every once in a while there suddenly appears on the film horizon a motion picture that offers something new in the way of story and theme Originality in photoplay—especially westerns—is mighty rare, and for that very reason, "The Enchanted Hill," the new outdoor melodrama at the Strand Theatre, deserves to be singled out for special and honorable mention.

It is Paramount's screen version of Peter B. Kyne's vivid novel, and was produced by Irvin Willat with an all-star cast featuring Jack Holt, Florence Vidor, Noah Beery and Mary Brian.

The background of the story is the vast, picturesque Southwest, land of romance, adventure, golden girls and rugged men. The principal characters in this modern tale are Lee Purdy, a gay and gallant ex-army aviator, who buys and settles on a ranch in New Mexico, and Gail Ormsby, who inherits the adjoining ranch from her uncle.

Here is the beginning of a firstrate love story that takes an unexpected turn when the girl, for some mysterious reason, evinces a strong dislike for her neighbor. Further complications set in, when a band of invaders attempt to kill Purdy so as to get hold of his ranch, on which, unknown to him, there is a buried treasure.

From that point the action is fast and furious. The subsequent events are charged with excitement and thrills, for Purdy uses airplanes and machine guns to fight his enemies to the bitter finish. Jack Holt gives a vigorous account of himself in the leading male role; Florence Vidor makes a charming heroine; Noah Beery is, as usual, a very effective "bad man;" and Mary Brian wins new laurels in a lovable characterization.

Her Pals Are Dog, Bruin and Horse

Louise Lorraine who plays the title role in the latest Truart production "The Wild Girl," had the time of her life throughout the making of the picture. She was always in the company of her animal friends and in her scenes with the bear, the dog and the horse, the girl of the quartette was the liveliest of them all.

Bears are known for the hugging proclivities and altho Sambo was a well-trained bear, no one ever knew just when he would like to do little hugging on the side. Miss Lorraine, however, made friends with Sambo immediately by having a generous supply of candy and sweets for the animal, who followed her wherever she went. It was a strange procession on location, to see Miss Lorraine with the bear on one side, the dog on the other, and Black Beauty in the rear taking a stroll.

SAXES, SONGS MAKE SNAPPY MAJESTIC BILL

Mirth And Melody Are Mingling on Stage Next Week

Mirth, melody, dance and novelties are combined to make the next Majestic program one of well diversified entertainment. The bill that opens at the Majestic with Wednesday's matinee performance features an eccentric comedy turn in the top spot.

Cliff Barggdon and Howard Morrissey, two funsters who until recently were featured in White's Scandals and other Broadway productions do the headlining job on the new bill. They have an act they call "Snapshots." It is one of comedy that runs entirely to the burlesque and eccentric. They have taken spots from big dramatic shows and through travesty given them laughter and life. Musical moments also enter into the turn's entertainment. Billy Trout famed as a saxophonist, assists the comics as does a pretty miss who, besides acting as foil for the clowns, turns in a performance of song and dance. The act is rated as one of the outstanding comedy hits of vaudeville and should prove a favorite with the Wichita Falls audiences.

Good Dancing Act.

A pretty dancing act is promised in the opening turn of the bill. This number introduces Al Allen, Louise Taylor and Jeanne Houston. All are specialists in song and dance and there's a touch of comedy to the turn too. Besides doing solo specialties the combination works in ensemble numbers.

Ray Hall, Edith Ermine and Louise Brice with their "A Night On Broadway," run the gamut of entertainment possibilities giving the customers a chance to see them in action in comedy and harmony. The girls are the musicians of the turn while Hall handles the comedy lines and business. The act comes to the Majestic with the repute of being one of the speediest bits of amusement that have been through this season.

A Versatile Round.

Pat Henning and his company are billed to do an act of versatile routine. Pat until recently was an added attraction in act with his parents. The last time he played Wichita Falls he did an interruption bit in his elders turn. This season Pat is featured and the parents assist. Pat specializes in comedy, song, music, dance and does a juggling bit.

For those who like humorous talk Neil McKinley should fill the bill. He has been featured as a monologist on most of the bigger vaudeville circuits.

The picture portion of the combination program for the three days starting next Wednesday features "The Earth Woman."

Marvel Dog Is Fire Fighter In Mission Picture

"The best dog picture yet"—that was the verdict of the many movie fans at the Mission theatre last night when "Thunder" the Marvel Dog made his appearance in "The Phantom of the Forest."

The picture is crammed with exciting incidents, one of the most spectacular being a forest fire with giant 300 foot forest monsters crashing to the ground ablaze. Through this inferno comes Thunder carrying a child in his mouth. It is a sight not easily forgotten.

New Portrait A Treasured Picture

BERLIN, April 17.—The most recent addition to the printings which cover the walls of the executive mansion is a portrait of Reza Khan, shah of Persia, encased in a frame of gold and ivory mosaic work, which was presented to President von Hindenburg by couriers of the new Persian ruler.

The portrait shows Reza Khan in mield marshal's uniform wearing the crown jewels, including a fragment of the historic mogul diamond which was found in Golconda mines in the 17th century. The kohinoor, weighing 106 carats and now in possession of the British crown, is said to be another fragment of the great Mogul.

LOVE STORY OF HUGE APPEAL AT OLYMPIC

Famous McCutcheon Story Has Been Picturized On Big Scale

"Beverly of Graustark" is Marion Davies' best picture. The star of "Yolanda," "Little Old New York," "Janice Meredith," "Zander the Great," "Lights of Old Broadway" and other big screen successes, has never appeared to better advantage than in this exceedingly popular tale of an American girl's adventures in royal court circles abroad.

George Barr McCutcheon is one of the most successful and popular novelists America has produced. "Beverly of Graustark" was a best-seller for years. Literally millions of people are familiar with the story and will flock to view its picturization. It was with his Graustark stories that McCutcheon established the current vogue for romantic stories dealing with mythical kingdoms abroad. "Beverly of Graustark" was among the first and best of these stories. It has played to big success on the stage, and holds an affectionate place in the memories of the thousands who viewed it behind the footlights. It was long popular in stock.

Opposite Marion Davies in this production appears one of the screen's most popular leading men, Antonio Moreno, now playing in Ingram's immensely successful "Mare Nostrum," boasts a tremendous following of his own, and is destined to increase it by the striking work which he has done in this film.

Sidney Franklin, director of "Her Night of Romance," "Learning to Love" and "Her Sister from Paris," has produced "Beverly of Graustark" on an elaborate and spectacular scale commensurate with its importance to the screen. As in every other Cosmopolitan production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, no expense has been spared to make the film a genuine milestone in motion picture progress. A distinguished supporting cast, headed by Creighton Hale and Roy D'Arcy, appears with Miss Davies and Moreno, and the entire troupe has been directed with that finesse and skill and understanding of action and dramatic continuity which is the key to Director Franklin's astonishingly successful career in the directorial field.

"Beverly of Graustark" is the most appealing love story ever screened. Advertise it as such. This tale of an American girl's adventurous perils amidst foreign intrigue, ending in her marriage to a crown prince, is compounded of the dreams and desires of every girl who ever lived. "Beverly of Graustark" is going over big. Do your bit toward helping it break your records!

"Rustlers' Ranch" At Garden Today

The best way for a girl to get in the movies is for her to become locally prominent in theatrical endeavors such as prologues, is the opinion of Clifford Smith, director of "Rustlers' Ranch," a Blue Streak western which is coming to the Garden theatre today with Art Acord in the starring role. Others in the cast are Olive Hasbrouck, Duke R. Lee, Edithe Yorke and George Chesbro.

Scene from "The WHITE OUTLAW" A BLUE STREAK WESTERN with JACK HOXIE

The Blue Cloche—By Jas. Montague

"It's the little blue hat second from the end of the counter," said my daughter. "I told them I would come back and get it if I didn't find anything that suited better, and I didn't."

"No, of course not, I didn't find anything that suited me better, and now I want it to wear tomorrow morning."

"Go on."

"Well, I shan't have time to go down there now, and I thought you might stop in and bring it home for me. It's right on your way."

"I never could find it. I always get lost in a store and have to send for somebody to lead me out to the street."

"Don't be silly. You can go right straight to the hat department, and the minute you face the long counter the hat will almost jump out and bite you"

"Well, anyway, I do need it dreadfully, and there wouldn't be time to have it sent out, and no one that I know is going down town this morning and it would be such a favor if you would, will you?"

I said I would. Good nature has been my curse from early childhood.

It occurred to me when I got into the shopping district that there was probably more than one store in the neighborhood that sold hats, and that I might be saved a lot of needless questing if I found out which one had this particular hat in stock. So I telephoned home, and inasmuch as the line was busy, probably with a conversation about this particular hat and how delightful it was, I lost considerable time.

"You amaze me," he said.

Somewhat startled by this rejoinder I took a second look at him. Then I saw that he did not belong to the place, but happened to be bareheaded because he was trying on one of several dozen hats which were piled up on a counter near by. None of these hats were blue."

I might, of course, have rebuked this person for insolence, but I find it easier to avoid trouble when convenient, and he was quite a large and fierce appearing person. So I repeated the statement I had put to him to a man who was standing behind the counter.

This man told me that blue hats were not being worn much by gentlemen this season, and suggested that I would be more likely to find one in the millinery department. So to the millinery department I went, and proceeded like an arrow from a bow directly to a counter where many hats were displayed on little uprights.

"Was there something?" she inquired.

"There is," said I, correcting her. "I am looking for a little blue hat."

"For my daughter."

She hesitated, evidently hating to hurt my feelings by saying that she didn't know my daughter's type, but presently she asked:

"Is she tall or short."

"Medium," I said.

"Come with me," she started briskly off toward the rear of the store.

"Just a minute," I said, restraining her by laying a hand gently on her shoulder. "She has already selected the hat. She said she would take it if she didn't find anything to suit her better and she hasn't."

"Which counter? There are twenty counters here."

Already I had begun to weary of that word "type." But I kept my temper.

"I am not so sure as to the type," I told her, hating myself for having to repeat the word.

"Toque or cloche? We have a number of types you know."

"I suppose I shall have to look."

"With her ready and tactful assistance I looked. I saw myriads of hats, all of them blue, and most of them, so the young woman told me, cloches. She insisted that my daughter would have chosen a cloche.

We finally narrowed the choice down to six, the saleslady remembering vaguely that some young woman who in some respects resembled my descriptions of my daughter had promised to come back and get a particular type of hat if she didn't find anything that suited her better.

We took these six from six different counters. All of them were blue and all of them were cloches.

Naturally I didn't want to carry six hats home. They would have made a big bundle unless they were "nested," and the trimmings made that inadvisable.

So I took the young woman over to a counter, and gaining with some reluctance her assent, matched quarters with her till the lot fell on a single hat. This I took home with me that evening.

My daughter was not at home when I came in. She arrived just at dinner time and frantically opened the wrappings which contained the hat.

"Wonderful," she cried. "How did you ever manage to find it?"

"Oh, it was easy enough," I said. "I just followed your directions."

"But didn't it take you a long time, in that great store?"

"Not me," I said. "I was born with an instinct for finding my way around."

HINDY TAKES A PART.

BERLIN, April 17.—President von Hindenburg's interest in outdoor sports, especially those requiring endurance and skill, has resulted in a flooding of the executive mansion with invitations asking his patronage of numerous athletic meets. The president has consented to attend the historic Kaiser regatta, July 24, where he will present an autographed photograph of himself to the winning crew. The kaiser regatta was founded in 1875 by William the First.

President von Hindenburg also will attend the national rifle competition at Hagen, Westphalia, July 3, in which he is particularly interested, since he himself is an excellent marksman.

WILD HORSES LEAD BY DOG

Spectacular Scenes In "White Outlaw" At The Palace

After an exhaustive search of the mountain valleys of the southwest, Cliff Smith, director of the picture, located in a beautiful long valley several miles in width, flanked with impressive snow-capped mountains, a short distance from the great Death Valley.

In this natural enclosure a herd of one thousand wild horses was found roaming at large. Scout, the favorite mount of Hoxie, seemed to take instinctive lead of the herd which followed him wherever he went. The entire herd was stampeded in one scene dashing madly down the valley. A hurricane of dust swirled up in its wake making the scene doubly effective. The panoramic views of this majestic sight seemed to render futile the attempts of a small band of men to head off and capture some of the choicest steeds.

The story concerns a wild horse captured and tamed by a cowboy, played by Jack Hoxie. The horse is beaten by a ranch hand and runs away, gathering about him many nomad horses of the western plains, who free other horses and cause Hoxie to be accused of rustling. With the stigma of guilt upon him he goes to the mountains to recapture the wild horse and prove his innocence.

WANT GERMANS RETURNED.

Mayor to Sponsor Move to Return Physicians to Good Grace.

BERLIN, April 17.—Dr. William Mayo of the Mayo institute at Rochester, Minn., is quoted in Berlin as saying that American surgeons will introduce a motion at the coming international surgical congress at Rome, requesting reinstatement of German and Austrian colleagues to the international organization, from which they were barred during the world war.

The German Society of Surgery is now observing its fiftieth anniversary. Among American surgeons who have contributed professional articles to the anniversary number of Deutsche Medizinische Wochenschift are Dr. Mayo, Dr. Dean Lewis of Chicago, Dr. Walter Dandy of John Hopkins and Dr. C. W. Crile of Cleveland.

MONKEY CRAZY IS RIGHT

Paris Has To Have The Monks To Be In Fashion These Days.

PARIS, April 17.—A craze for monkeys as pets on the Riviera has become so far-reaching that the private zoo at Cross de Cagnes, just outside Nice, has averaged one sale a day for the past fortnight.

Monkeys are seen everywhere. No popular cabaret can be considered well patronized unless two or three monkeys are numbered among the guests. A dozen monkeys may be found taking the sun on the famous Promenade des Anglais at Nice any morning. Irate auto bus conductors are daily forced to listen to the argument that monkeys are "so very much like us," that they are entitled to ride in the coaches with their owners.

Old Time Railroaders to Recall Candles in the Station Windows To Warn of Cows Asleep on Rail

Veterans of Texas Transportation to Meet Tuesday In Houston and Swap Yarns of Plug Hat Days Gone By

AUSTIN, April 17.—A cordial greeting to the "old timers" of the Texas railroading fraternity, a greeting which calls attention to the fact that this year marks the centennial of the railroad in America, has been sent by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis to the "Old Timers' celebration which will be held in Houston Tuesday.

The "Old Timers" reunion, planned by the railroad brotherhoods and those connected with the progress and development of railroading, as well as with the progress and development of railroading, as well with labor in all its branches, is to draw representative men from all sections of the state. Mayor Oscar F. Holcombe of Houston, Claude Pollard of Houston and Representative R. L. Bobbitt of Laredo, will be speakers. The ladies auxiliary degree team of the Denison B. R. T. will conduct a drill. B. C. Pitts will call the meeting to order, and Rev. John E. Green will offer the invocation.

One Big Feature.

"One feature of an occasion such as yours, Secretary of Labor Davis wrote to the leaders of the celebration, "which you as oldtime railroaders will appreciate, is that this marks the 100th year of the railroad in America. If comparing the past with the present gives us the best line on progress, what a comparison we have in the railroad alone!"

He gave a brief sketch of the railroads of the past: "The first engineers on the first locomotives were swallow-tail coats and plug hats. It was something of an occasion, and they felt like dressing the part.

"The first signal system was a candle placed in the window of the station-master's house, and was only put there in case a tree had blown down, across the track, or when a cow was asleep between the rails. Sometimes a lantern was placed on the last car of a train to keep the unwary pedestrain from stumbling into it."

After reviewing the progress of the railroad development, of the improvements to equipment, and the devices for protection of passengers and trainmen, Secretary Davis said:

Human Advances, Too.

"Human advances have been as plentiful and as great as the advances made in the mechanical side. The railroad employe was among the first to set an example in that greatest of all advances—harmony and good fellowship between employer and employed. That spirit of co-operation has been one of the greatest of all forces in building America's vast industrial power and riches. Everywhere I see that feeling of brotherhood spreading in our industries. We are nearing the day when every employer and every man employed in this country will be as two partners engaged in the same business—the business of mutual profit and prosperity. And we shall always have to thank the railroad men for their part in starting this spirit of harmony, and for their splendid example for all others to copy.

"More than a local benefit follows such reunions as you have organized. The whole country profits by every such contribution to the grand composite of good fellowship which makes life in America so sweet."

Land Booms Get Going in Florida

PARIS, April 17.—(AP)—France has her Florida, and if the boom does not present the same spectacular features that have been reported about the American resorts the two booms are running along somewhat parallel lines.

Painters and writers were the first to discover that the Riviera cou'd be more than a fashionable winter resort. They tried summer residence, as a measure of economy, and soon a number were living there all the year round. Bankers soon bought up the land between Saint Raphael and Monte Carlo. Then the boom began. Municipalities began selling off public lands as building sites and other municipalities, not possessing common land, formed improvement syndicates to take over the property and sell it in lots with the purpose of booming their towns.

RADIO RUINING LIBRARIES

German Readers Turning From Books To More Modern Diversions.

BERLIN, April 17.—Radio, sports and the movies are luring the German people away from books and the librarians association and book dealers are worried. They regret that the people are no longer the inveterate readers they used to be.

Librarians in Stuttgart report that even a free book delivery system has not increased the city library's book circulation. All a resident of the city has to do is write a card to the library asking for certain books and they are delivered to his home in a few hours. Librarians and booksellers are agreed that the influx of modern diversions such as sports, radio, movies and dancing are to blame.

LONDON, April 17.—Persistent rumors that crown Prince Olaf, of Norway may marry a British princess have caused much speculation. Lady May Cambridge, daughter of Lord Athlone and Princess Alice, is generally believed to be the young woman who is in line for the Norwegian throne. At one time Prince Olaf was known to be much interested in the Swedish princess, Astrid, who is generally regarded as the princess whom the prnce of Wales is most likely to marry.

MOTOR CAR ENDS DIFFICULT TOUR

Dodge Machine Makes Run From Mt. Whitney To Death Valley

In an adventurous and certainly one of the most unusual motor tours in automobile history, a Dodge Brothers touring car recenly completed a trek that led from the precipitous, snow-laden slopes near Mount Whitney, the highest mountain in Continental United States, to the heat-tortured floor of Death Valley, lowest point in the country.

Word to this effect was received by C. A. Schumacher of the J. E. French company, San Francisco Dodge Brothers dealers.

"Swirling over nearly 1,000 miles of desert roads, the adventurous party of motorists in their Dodge Brothers touring car succeeded in linking these two natural geographical extreme," said Schumacher, "Strangely enough, both Mount Whitney and Death valley are located within the confines of Inyo county and are scarcely more than sixty miles apart as the crow flies.

"Those unfamiliar with these continental landmarks will undoubtedly be interested to know that the jagged, saw-toothed crest of Mount Whitney, rising 14,501 feet above the level of the sea, was officially seen for the first time from Mount Brewer by members of the Geological survey of California in 1863, and was named for the distinguished head of that survey. Mount Whitney, despite its formidable aspect, has been a kindly giant and its toll of human life has been small, due to the lack of icy crevasses that distinguish other high peaks in the country.

"But not so Death valley; this dreadful sink, so appropriately named is tragically linked with the settling of this great west. Into its firey maw unwittingly trod the forty-niners, and Death valley took its toll. Lying directly east of Mount Whitney, between the Panamint and Funeral ranges this scorched depression is 284 feet below sea level at its lowest point. One hundred miles long and from two to ten miles wide, its utter desolation is truly terrifying. And yet it is not without fascination."

"Color Personality" Takes On a Greater Meaning For Motor Aristocrats

Color has attained a new importance in motor car building and this year the "color personality" of the aristocrats of motordom will be as authenic an index to character as design, according to automobile designers and builders. Development of color mediums which combine both a high resistance to the elements with depth of lustre and the appearance of warmth and life make possible the suggestion of speed and power, dignity or formality in color as well as body lines.

The loading dock of a builder of automobiles might seem a far cry from the fine car salons. Yet, daily over the loading dock passes a revue probably even more interesting than those seen with the velvet and marble background of the season's motor shows. In these unpretentious surroundings may be seen a constant parade of the designs and colorings which will be most popular this year.

At the Lincoln Motor company's Detroit plant, where color tone and individuality in treatment have been encouraged and developed to a degree probably without parallel in the realm of fine cars, this revue is particularly impressive. Even geography is a consideration in the selection of a Lincoln't finish and it is interesting to note how the car destined to be used in eternal sunshine differs from that which must be correct in either summer or winter.

A four-passenger sedan to be shipped into the great northwest is finish in the rich yet subdued tones duplicated from the plumage of the Chinese jay. The body is in two tones of warm brown with a bright blue stripe for the required touch of brilliance.

Contrasting sharply with that family type of car in a sport phaeton consigned to Mexico City. The body below the moulding line is royal chariot red with jet works, fenders and running gear and red wire wheels. A folding tonneau cowl and windshield suggest that the top will be folded most of the time. All metal is brightly nickeled.

Florida also demands striking shades in sport models. A sport phaeton for delivery in Jacksonville is finished in buckskin brown with Scotch gray stripe and upholstery in dualtone leather. Six wire wheels with the two spares carried forward in fender wells, tonneau cowl and windshield, mahogany top bows and all metal in nickel add to its suggestion of fleetness.

To Hollywood go two club roadsters, one with coromandel maroon body trimmed in granada maroon and jet with a fine maize stripe and the other combination of cream, black and orange chrome. Behind them follow a fully collapsible cabriolet in cotinga blue for Vermont and victoria coupe in the light brown and red of the red chatterer on its way to the nation's capital.

Day after day, the kaleidoscopic procession moves down the loading dock, through the 177 minute final inspections and into washed and weatherproofed cars. Finally, each Lincoln is encased in a heavy paper bag to protect it against dust, the compartment is sealed and the cars are on their way to the fashion centers of the world.

12 World Records Set In Culver City Speedway Classic

The fastest pace ever traveled by human beings on land climazed the final performance of 122 cubic inch racing cars on the country's speedways at Culver City, Cal., March 21. Twelve world records for the various calculated distances from five to 250 miles were officially broken. Race observers of the American Automobile association declares it the most remarkable race yet conducted.

"We naturally take particular pride in the fact that Champion spark plugs were in each of the three cars that broke all existing records," says R. A. Stranahan, president of the Champion Spark Plug company. "Though Champions have held practically every world record for the last four years, and now hold them all, their performance in this final event for the 122 cubic inch cars affords us extreme pleasure."

World records were broken by Leon Duray, Dave Lewis and Bennett Hill, each driving Miller specials. Hill was the eventual winner, averaging the tremendous speed of 131.295 miles an hour, according to re-checks, breaking the previous 250-mile world record of 129.531, established by Peter de Paolo at Miami, Feb. 22. Every car to finish save one used Champions and went through the entire race without change, as usual. Hill broke the first record, covering the original five miles at 137.931 miles an hour. Duray, passing him, average 136.054 in the first ten miles—another new mark.

Aside from eclipsing every world figure from five to 250 miles, the race's outstanding feature was the performance of Lewis' front drive Miller. It made 40 consecutive miles at an average of 136 miles an hour, another world record. Lewis' car was forced out at the end of the 117th mile with a broken valve spring, after he had driven one of the most masterful races, and the fastest, yet recorded.

Among congratulatory telegrams received by the Champion company because of the performance of its spark plugs was one from Hill himself, in which he declared that "it is almost unnecessary to say that Champion plugs did their stuff as usual, as only Champions can." Another was from Harry Miller, veteran designer of race cars, whose Miller specials have practically ruled the nation's speedways for four consecutive years. Reciting the list of twelve world records broken by his cars, all of them powered by Champions, Miller wired that "Champion spark plugs were used in establishing all these records, which verifies our utmost confidence in your product."

Willys Sets Two Records For Sales

Performance records of the Willys-Knight great six are greatly increasing sales of that car in Europe and shipments abroad are increasing each month, according to information received from the factory by Overland Motors company. Two outstanding performances mark the record achievements of this car abroad in the last six months.

"Recently a stock Willys-Knight great six completed the John O'Brout's land end run from one extremity of Great Britain to the other, in high gear. This established a new endurance record between these two points.

"Another stock model Willys Knight great six climbed the treacherous heights of Klausen Pass in Switzerland in high gear. Klausen Pass, which is in the Swiss Alps, has been the object of several attempts to scale its steep inclines by automobile manufacturers. Conquering this slope has emphasized to Europeans the enormous power of the Willys-Knight sleeve-valve motor."

Squarely behind the fast-increasing demand for this Nash model—the lowest-priced Nash Sedan—is the remarkable character of its brilliantly smooth and responsive performance.

Full force-feed lubrication likewise contributes to this greater smoothness by continuously immersing in a bath of oil all main bearings, connecting rod bearings and camshaft bearings.

As standard equipment, at no extra cost, are Nash-type four-wheel brakes—permanent of adjustment, impervious to extremes of heat and cold, the simplest and most practical four-wheel brake system the industry has ever known.

Gasoline filter, air cleaner, oil purifier, full balloon tires and five disc wheels are also included in the price.

NASH MOTOR CO. SHOW INCREASE

Business For First Quarter Of 1926 Is One Million Greater

The Nash Motors company today reported that for the first quarter of its 1926 fiscal year, covering the three months ending Feb. 28, 1926, after deducting expenses of manufacturing, including depreciation, selling and administration and providing for local taxes, and state and federal income taxes, the net consolidated income for the Nash Motors company and its subsidiary, the Ajax Motors company, amounted to $4,137,508.16, as compared to $3,099,292.02 for the same period a year ago.

In commenting on the condition of the Nash and Ajax companies and the business outlook, President C. W. Nash said, "We regard the earning record of the initial quarter as very satisfactory although it is a fact that we were unable to manufacture all the cars for which we had orders due to changes made in design and certain physical rearrangements in the plants.

"At no time in our history has our product been held in higher esteem by buyers and the demand is continuing to tax our production resources despite increased manufacturing facilities.

"Reports on retail deliveries of cars received during the past three weeks from our distributor points including the major cities of the country show that they were the biggest three weeks in consecutive order we have ever had since the company was founded.

"At the same time during these three weeks used car sales at these points were the largest ever achieved in our history and stocks of used cars declined 20 per cent, providing additional proof that consumer buying is increasing rapidly.

"Insofar as the future is concerned I can see nothing except conditions of good business which justify an attitude of sound and healthy optimism on the part of men in nearly all lines of commerce and industry.

"With regard to Nash and Ajax sales, we expect even bigger business during the coming months than we have ever had in any similar period."

Nice Soon to Be A Divorce Mecca

PARIS, April 17.— (AP)—The judges of the divorce court at Nice have decided unofficially that their decisions need never become public unless released by one of the parties, or when future litigation demands the publication of the court's findings. This decision, which apparently goes some distance in establishing a "perfect divorce center," is expected to more than triple the court's work during the coming year.

Americans can procure a divorce in Nice in the record time of 21 days, providing both parties have complied with the spirit of the law and have registered a declaration of intention as regards their future domicile.

Cleanliness In Steel As Necessary To Motor Car Building, As In Surgery

Cleanliness in steel is as necessary to the dependability of a motor car as sterilization is to surgery. To remove microscopic impurities from steel is just as important as to destroy invisible microbes on a surgeon's knife.

The comparison is made by L. A. Danse, metallurgist, of the Cadillac Motor Car company, who cites a number of striking examples of recent progress in the choice and improvement of metals used in highly stressed parts of motor cars. New discoveries have both increased dependability and lowered costs.

By setting up a standard of microscopic purity in steel, Cadillac engineers were able to explode the theory of crystallization and breakage which was used in the earlier years of industry to explain the failure of parts. Laboratory studies with powerful microscopes and with microscopic photography proved that the trouble was not crystallization but "fatigue," usually due to some kind of impurity in the metal. The engineers believed that if the steel was made clean enough these failures would be eliminated. They established entirely new standards for clean steel. Steel men from the mills were invited. Many others came of their own accord and asked for reports and photographs of the Cadillac findings. Metal was followed back to the steel mills where it was first poured into ingots and changes were made in methods there.

Today in the Cadillac laboratories samples of steel for highly stressed parts are most minutely examined under the microscope for inclusions of dirt. It takes at least twenty minutes to examine a sample of the size of a five-cent piece.

Chromium modlybdenum steel now used in the connecting rods by Cadillac and most other manufacturers has been a tremendous improvement. Former practice was to use high grade electric furnace steel, which proved very satisfactory. The new steel, however, is generally considered five or six times as good as the former.

In the manufacture of studs and bolts Cadillac was formerly using two grades of steel. In a tensile, or pulling, test one of these metals showed minimum elastic limit of 90,000 pounds per square inch of cross-sectional area; the other 105,000 pounds per square inch. A new steel has been adopted which shows a minimum tensile strength of over 105,000 pounds. It is easier to get. It is more quickly available. It machines more easily. It is stronger and stands more fatigue. With all it is lower in cost.

In highly stressed parts in which the surface is subjected to wear or abrasion, a special nickel steel is used which can be carburized. Carburizing is a process by which the surface, or skin, of the metal can be given an intense hardness to resist wear, while the body of the metal remains soft and ductile, so that it will resist shock and stresses of all kinds.

CHEVROLET FIRM BREAKS RECORD

Total of 65,041 Automobiles Were Produced During March

With a total of 65,041 automobiles produced during March, the Chevrolet Motor company smashed all previous monthly records for a single month's production of modern 3-speed transmission motor cars by any automobile manufacturer.

Originally the March schedule was set for 57,500 cars. It was increased when demands from dealers indicated sales would be far ahead of the proposed schedule.

The total March production, with 25 working days in the month, averaged over 2,601 cars daily, and represents a total increase in production over March 1925, of 23,658, when 41,383 cars were manufactured.

The two preceding months of January and February also set records. In January 1926, 46,182 units were produced, three times the cars made in January 1925. In February 1926, 51,303 cars were made, nearly twice the production of February 1925.

An unprecedented and steady demand during the winter months for the new improved Chevrolet models is responsible for the setting of new production figures, which have kept night and day shifts at the factory working at high pressure.

Proper Care Will Increase Tire Life By Many Fold

It is remarkable how a little air in a tire will increase the mileage. This is common knowledge to us all. Line after line has been written on this subject but too much can not be said as it has often been the sad experience of many of us that when this is neglected the results have often been—tires injured beyond repair.

Therefore proper inflation of your tires is absolutely necessary at all times if you are to receive the maximum mileage. This is especially true in balloon tires as they are more susceptible to injury when they are allowed to "run" under inflated. The next more commonly known tire injury is the "stone-bruise." This type of injury often results in a cut tread or else broken cord. In some instances the tire may receive a blow that will cause the inner layers of cord to be strained beyond their tensile strength resulting in a broken wall while the outer wall remains intact. In most cases, apparently without having received a blow.

Hard to Explain.

This type of injury, is hard for the tire merchant to explain to the customer who often mistakes the condition to be due to defective material which is not true as this will happen to tires of the very finest construction. It is economy to have this type of injury repaired. The repair should agree with the method used in the tire construction. It is essential to have the repair flexible and retaining enough strength to hold the inflated tube. The repair must distribute the strain of the road when the tire is in service.

Must Not Weaken It.

The application of the repair must not weaken the carcass at any point. The Durnal Tire company has found the repair which fills the bill in every respect is the "criss-cross," because it does not weaken the tire at any point. It will hold the tube. It takes up the load at one point of the repair, distributes it evenly at the center and then tapers off the road blow at the point where the repair merges with the tire again, furthermore the criss-cross repair is in accord with the construction of the casing and as long mileage tests have proven is the logical way to repair a tire.

COURT UPHOLDS PARENTS IN PREVENTING MARRIAGE

SURBITON, Eng.—Love's young dream was shattered when 19-year-old Eunice Allen had her parents cited before a court to compel them to permit her to marry C. H. Baldwin. The young man admitted on the stand that his wages were only $10 a week, and the court held that this was insufficient for a happy married life. The girl had thought Baldwin was making $27 a week, and as a result of Baldwin's testimony she immediately broke off her engagement. The parents were congratulated by the court for their "very sensible handling of a very difficult matter."

Firemen In Long Chase to Put Out Aurora Borealis

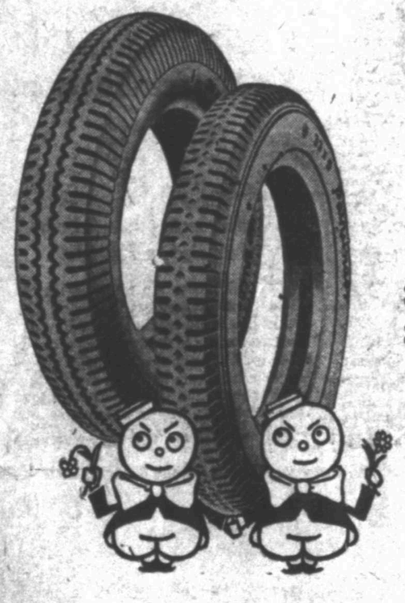

BERLIN, April 17.—Virtually the whole population of Baden is chuckling over the fact that Eppingen volunteer fire fighting force recently went racing on a midnight excursion, which, it was discovered later, had as its purpose the extenguishing of the aurora borealis.

From the market place it had the appearance of a nearby castle burning. When the horse drawn fire cart reached the place and the men found no fire, they raced on to the next village. Seeing an automobile in front of a saloon, the firemen dashed in, talked the driver into abandoning a card game and driving them on to the next village. But the blaze seemed to be farther up the valley. They had driven several miles farther before they realized that they were chasing rainbows at night.

ANOTHER FOR THE LADIES

PARIS, April 17—"One more sport where women need no longer fear men's competition" is the comment of the local press on the victory at the aristocratic Paris horse show of Mme. G. E. Lang, who took her mount faultlessly over a dozen difficult test barriers to win the Seine departmental council's prize. Mme. Lang won from more than 30 male competitors. This is the first time a woman has carried such a competition.

I Know What I Want

Visit the greatest auto show ever held in Wichita Falls, April 30, May 1 and 2 in connection with Rodeo.

Come to think of it, I never have gone into an automobile salesroom, picked out the car I really wanted and bought it . . . Always I have let the matter slide until some salesman I never saw or heard of before . . . and of whose judgment in motor cars or anything else I knew nothing . . . came in and sold me . . . Generally he succeeded in selling me a car I had not been considering either . . . and which I didn't like after I got it.

Now I know what I want . . . this time I am going to reverse the order, decide for myself . . . and give some automobile salesman the surprise of his young life.

I have decided I want to own a Rickenbacker.

Six . . . or Vertical-Eight?

Not sure on that point . . . some friends who own them tell me you get all you can possibly want in a Rickenbacker Six . . . Others insist there is a super-something in the performance of that Vertical Eight that sets the blood a'tingle every time you touch the accelerator.

All agree, tho, that the utmost in up-to-dateness in body design . . . quality of upholstering . . . finish . . . and other details that are dear to my heart and hers . . . are to be found only in a Rickenbacker . . . unless you pay two or three thousand dollars more . . . and they will have to show me the difference before I will pay that.

As for the chassis . . . I guess there is no contention on that score . . . For five years at least the Rickenbacker chassis has been held up as the most outstanding example of fine engineering . . . and beautiful construction . . . on either continent.

Every salesman I have talked to either openly admitted . . . or unconsciously conceded . . . that superiority to Rickenbacker . . . while trying to convince me his car was just as good.

I follow these fairly closely . . . a car is a mighty important thing in one's everyday life. I have observed that Rickenbacker was first to introduce (and prove) the advantages of all the great engineering discoveries since the war.

First to use two fly wheels . . . first with 4-wheel brakes . . . mechanical brakes, too . . . My experience of the last year tells me mechanical brakes must be the only kind . . . certainly must be safer . . . solid metal can't leak anyway!

Rickenbacker was proclaiming "Air Cleaners" three years ago . . . sounded foolish to me at the time . . . why clean air?

But this year I notice they are all hollering about their air cleaners . . . those very makers and dealers who then told me it was a useless appendage . . . now say it is vital to the life of the motor!

Interesting, when you think of it . . . how this post-war concern could have shown the way to the old fellows . . . in so many important improvements and inventions . . . Easy, tho, when you consider Rickenbacker engineers had nothing to discard . . . could design a post-war car from the ground up.

Here I sit selling myself this car . . . mentally I bought one long since.

I buy a Rickenbacker . . . mentally . . . every time one of the lithe things slides past me on the road . . . or jumps ahead of me in a traffic jam . . . or stop when I can't stop . . . never a sound from those brakes either . . . that shows they grab . . . no question in my mind about those brakes being better . . . friends who drive them say there are no other brakes in the world.

I know what I want . . . I crave the pleasure that comes from the ownership of a super-anything.

Yes, I admit, I like to see friends glance admiringly . . . and rivals look enviously . . . at my car as I glide by.

I know what I want—I want a Rickenbacker . . . and before another salesman gets hold of me . . . and diverts me from my desire . . . I am going to phone the Rickenbacker dealer to have a car ready for me to drive—right now. Let's see . . . dealer's name is . . . Victory Motor Co. . . . show room at 517 Indiana Ave. . . . and phone? Oh yes . . . 9150.

BE SURE YOUR LIGHTS WORK IS LAST WORD

Need of Proper Lighting For Night Driving Is Stressed

After reviewing several important elements of the headlight problem we come finally to consider the accomplishment of the sole purpose of establishing headlight regulations. We have seen how headlights can be made better for the driver and safer for the approaching motorist by properly focusing, equipping, and aiming them. And now we look to see just how we may actually accomplish the desired end.

That practically all cars in Texas will have headlamp equipment in proper condition at least once a year is assured by that provision of the Texas law which requires a certificate from a test station before registration is permitted. Headlamps on a large majority of cars will stay in adjustment from one testing period to another, but there are a large number which, on account of their construction or for other reasons, will not stay in adjustment.

Make Driving Dangerous

While such cars are in the minority, yet it is this minority that makes our night driving extremely unpleasant and in many cases hazardous. As is usually the case, it is the few that break the law and the great majority that keep it. There are many things which throw headlamps out of adjustment, running over rought roads continually, other cars backing into headlamps, and by replacing bulbs without having them focused. Trips to test stations at regular intervals are most desirable, and also whenever starting upon and returning from a cross-country trip, or when replacing headlight equipment, especially bulbs, the motorist should proceed immediately to a test station.

The individual motorist has a certain responsibility regarding the condition of his headlamps. Just as much care should be taken of headlight equipment as of any other part of a car, especially when we realize that the other fellow suffers from our badly adjusted headlamps as well as ourselves. Twisted lenses are bad offenders so far as producing glare is concerned. Reflectors covered with dust or rust give only a small portion of the light they would if bright. Water will rust reflectors in a short time, so broken lenses or front glasses should be replaced immediately. Besides permitting the twisting of lenses, loose doors will also allow dust and water to reach the reflector. Darkened bulbs should be replaced because they absorb a large portion of the light. Whenever equipment is replaced, the motorist should proceed to a test station and have his headlamps readjusted. This is especially important when bulbs are replaced, it being almost impossible to substitute bulbs and retain the proper focus.

Too Low Dangerous.

It should be remembered that headlamps aimed too low are nearly as dangerous and as inefficient as those aimed too high, and when such a condition exists, the car should be taken to a test station. The motorist should not try to raise the beam himself. The adjustment of headlights on Texas cars is such as to give the average motorist sufficient road illumination up to the speed limit, and somewhat above.

There is a certain per cent of motorists, however, who fail to realize their responsibility to other users of the road. The responsibility of protecting the person who complies with the law and keeps his headlamps in adjustment falls then to the officers in the various counties in the state. Texas has no state traffic police to look after violations of the headlight law, as have many other states, so the headlight conditions in any particular community will be good or bad according to the enforcement or lack of enforcement on the part of local officers.

The motoring public of Texas is demanding enforcement of the headlight law. Especially dangerous is the car with only one headlight burning. No doubt the average motorist cannot foresee just the time one of his headlamp bulbs will burn out. However, it is very easy to keep in the car at least one spare bulb for use in an emergency. It is interesting to know that experience in arresting such violators has shown that in practically every case the motorist was sure the bad bulb had burned out just a few minutes before he was stopped by the officer.

The whole matter of automobile headlights, so far as Texas is concerned, may be summed up by saying that at the present time the general condition of headlighting equipment is good, that means for adjusting this equipment has been provided by the installation of more than two thousand test stations (three hundred more than in any other state), and that the maximum good from the operation of the headlight law can only be obtained through the continued co-operation of individual motorists and local officers. Of chief importance is the responsibility of the individual motorist.

Tree Planted To Honor Laundress

BERLIN, April 17.—Not wishing to run the risk of having a duplicate of the statue "The Laundress," stolen as was the original, the city council has ordered the erection of something which thieves cannot easily cart away. It is a chestnut tree.

Five thousand marks have been appropriated for the purpose, a sum which the opposition press says is certainly large enough, in view of assertions that thousands of laundresses, whom the tree should honor, are on the verge of starvation.

The original bronze statue beside a fountain, representing a washtub, in Maerischer platz, was stolen in November, 1922, at a time when poverty was so widespread that even tin cornices were ripped off roofs and sold as junk.

Abilene Man Tests Mettle Of Chrysler Imperial 80 In Mid-Winter Motor Trip

When E. M. Little, Chrysler distributor in Abilene, Texas, received his first Chrysler Imperial "80" and saw what a fast, comfortable car it was to ride in, he promised himself a treat that he had looked forward to for a long, long time, and that was a trip to Detroit. Although he had been in the retail automobile business in Abilene for a number of years Mr. Little had never visited the motor capital, and now that he had one of the new Chryslers he determined to postpone the trip no longer.

The next day, February 28, with his service manager, John Boyd, and their wives, he pointed the nose of the Chrysler Imperial "80" northward. The first day they drove from Abilene to Texarkana; the second day from Texarkana to Blytheville, Ark., the third day from Blytheville to Effingham, Ill., the fourth day from Effingham to Dayton, Ohio, and the fifth and last day from Dayton to Detroit. Going home, they reduced the schedule to three days, leaving Detroit March 9, an darriving in Abilene March 12.

During the last 500 miles of their journey, between Arkadelphia, Ark., and Paris, Texas, they had 200 miles of extremely bad mud, but even this did not reduce to any great extent the high average daily mileage which they made. On straight roads where there were no railroad crossings nor intersections, they drove between 50 and 60 miles an hour steadily, and on the home stretch coming into Abilene, they polished off the last 85 miles in 77 minutes.

"The Chrysler Imperial '80' is the most comfortable car I have ever ridden in," said Mr. Little upon the completion of the journey, "and as far as getting over the road is concerned, you can just let your conscience be your guide for it will do anything you want it to, and more if you'll let it. The car is perfectly balanced, steers so easily and brakes so quickly that it seems absolutely safe at any speed."

Driverless Cars For Rent Must Be Heavily Insured

TRENTON, N. J., April 17.—As the result of a bill filed and sponsored by the American Drivurself association of Chicago, every drivurself operator will be compelled to carry compulsory insurance in New Jersey. The amount being $5,000 on each vehicle operated, or the law permits filing of a financial ability statement up to $200,000, this to have state approval.

New Jersey is the second state to so legislate, and according to H. C. Bradfield speaking for the drivurself association, plans are under way to get such a law on every state statute book.

In addition to getting the bill through the New Jersey legislature, Mr. Bradfield during the same week appeared before a committee of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety in Washington and made known the attitude of the Drivurself association on compulsory insurance. As a result the model uniform act, the product of this national safety body headed by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, advocated compulsory insurance for cars operated in the rent-a-car business.

"We believe in anything that protects the public," Mr. Bradfield declares. "We do not think the judgment proof operator should be allowed to ply his business. Compulsory insurance for this and the taxicab business is a good thing. We are going to do everything decently possible to see that every state enacts a similar law."

Mr. Bradfield many years ago sponsored what is now known on the federal statute books as the Dyer bill, which law has been declared a great help in prosecuting those who steal automobiles in interstate commerce.

BETTER DAYS FOR POETRY

Original Verses Now Being Used For Decorative Purposes in Homes.

LONDON, April 17.—The latest London society craze is likely to bring an era of prosperity to young poets. Mayfair dames' newest ideas of decoration consist of having the walls of rooms covered with verses specially composed and written to order. A fee of five guineas is the general price paid for each poem and the demand is so good for lyrics, which range between eight lines and twenty that prices are likely to rise.

Usually the rooms chosen for this fad are small music rooms, studies and boudoirs but several persons have started such decoration on the walls of drawing rooms.

OAKLAND CARS SET NEW RECORD

12,035 Oakland And Pontiac Sixes Shipped During March

PONTIAC, Mich., April 17.—The gigantic strides made by the Oakland Motor Car company were strikingly revealed this week when total production figures for March showed that more cars were built this one month than during the entire first four months of last year.

A record-breaking total of 12,035 Oakland Six and Pontiac Six cars was manufactured and shipped out.

Another factory record was smashed on March 31 when 750 cars were shipped to dealers—the greatest one day shipment in the history of the company.

These achievements were made possible, in great measure, by the phenomenal sales of the new Pontiac six which was introduced the first of the year as a companion car to the Oakland six. More than 10,000 Pontiac sixes were produced and sold during the first three months of this year—a record never before approached by any other new motor car in the annals of the automotive industry.

By mid-summer the number of Pontiac sixes produced will exceed the best record ever made by any other car during its entire first year. Pontiac sixes are now being built at the rate of 300 a day.

Officials of the Oakland Motor Car company point out that public acceptance of this new car has been so rapid and complete as to eliminate the usual probationary period This is due in great part, they believe, to the slow and careful development of the new car which was placed in production only after three years of intensive experiments and tests.

The sales of the Pontiac six in the United States has been so large that the company as yet has been unable to make any foreign shipments.

While the Pontiac six was establishing new production and sales records for a new car during the first quarter of this year, the Oakland six was likewise establishing new production and sales records, showing an increase of approximately 70 per cent over the corresponding months of 1925. All of the cars produced so far this year were required for immediate retail delivery.

Dodge Brothers Set New Retail Sales Record With Gain of 2646 In One Week

Another new high record in retail sales in the United States was established by Dodge Brothers' dealers in the week ended April 3, when 9,104 Dodge Brothers motor cars and Graham Brothers trucks were placed in hands of buyers. This is a gain of 2,646, or 41 per cent over the corresponding period of one year ago when the total number was 6,458 or 11 per cent over the week ended March 27, this year, when the total sales were 8202.

This unusual sales record is the more astounding when one considers the severe weather conditions which prevailed throughout the United States the past week, the most unusual in the history of the United States weather bureau.

The total sales for the week ended April 3 were 75 per cent over the last week of February when the total was 5,191. Week by week this year Dodge Brothers sales have shown a constant gain.

For the four weeks ended April 3 sales were 30,912, a gain of 67 per cent over the four weeks of February with a total of 18,516 units.

The weekly high sales record of 1925 was established during the week ended April 11 when 6,530 units were placed with the consumers. Compared with this the week of April 3, this year, shows a gain of 39 per cent.

Oakland Concern Enlarges Factory

PONTIAC, Mich., April 17.—Rapid progress is being made by the Oakland Motor Car company in the construction of the new factory addition which is to house the sheet metal stamping and rear axle housing departments.

This new factory addition, with machinery, will cost three-quarters of a million dollars, according to A. J. Brandt, vice president and works manager, and will be in operation the first week in June. Already the steel frame is up and walls, roof and flooring are partially completed. Approximately 400 more men will be employed in the new departments.

Due to the tremendous production required on both the Oakland and Pontiac Sixes, it was decided to take over the making of all sheet metal stampings, such as fenders, running board aprons, running board shields, hoods, gas tanks, oil pans, radiator shells, etc., for greater economy, greater flexibility in the control of production. All rear axle housings for the Oakland Six will also be turned out in the new building.

The new addition is of steel and brick construction, part of it one story and part of it two story and will give an increased floor area of approximately 55,000 square feet.

The building will be divided into three sections, a 326x70 foot one-story crane bay section containing the larger presses, a 326x20 foot, one-story, sheet metal storage section, and a two-story 220x80 foot section for light presses and stamping assembly.

AMARILLO GETS LEGION

Committee Chooses Panhandle City For This Year's Convention

AUSTIN, April 17.—(AP)— The 1926 American Legion convention of the Texas department will be held at Amarillo September 8-10, S. M. Hankins, state adjutant, announced today. Dates for the convention were selected early in the week at a San Antonio meeting of a sub-committee of the executive committee.

"All indications are the Amarillo convention will far surpass all previous ones in attendance and in spirit," Hankins said.

A Record Made a Verdict Rendered

70,599 Dodge Brothers Motor Cars and Graham Brothers Trucks sold in the United States from January 2nd to April 3rd, 1926!

The greatest quarter in the company's history.

This record was a foregone conclusion. Since the first of the year demand increased week by week. Each period showed greater sales than the one preceding and greater than the same period of 1925.

During the last week recorded, ending April 3rd, 9104 units were sold, against 6530 for the best week last year—a gain of 39 per cent.

Although the peak of the selling season has not yet been reached, the verdict has already been rendered.

DODGE BROTHERS MOTOR CARS

12:00 Fair

12:05 Rain

12:20 Fair

In 30 Seconds — open to the sunshine or closed against the storm

THE Studebaker Duplex gives you in one car the advantages of both an open and an enclosed car. There's a thrill in driving it as an open car that no closed car can ever give you. Thousands of open-car enthusiasts, forced for a time to sacrifice open-car enjoyment because of the inconvenient, unwieldy side-curtain arrangement, have now become Duplex owners.

Open or closed in 30 seconds

Roll-side enclosures are concealed in the top — out of sight — ready at a moment's notice to be drawn, giving you complete protection from rain, storm or cold winds. In 30 seconds the airy open Duplex becomes the snug enclosed Duplex. It's as easy as lowering the shades in your home. And just as easily, when the storm is over, the enclosures again roll up out of sight. The Studebaker Duplex has made the old-fashioned touring car obsolete.

Unlike the old-style touring car—the Studebaker Duplex has a sturdily built upper structure, an integral part of the body. Thus, in addition to double comfort, the Duplex offers double safety. Time and again, since this revolutionary type of body was pioneered by Studebaker, it has proved its sturdiness by saving lives in accidents which would have been fatal in the old-style, light-top touring car.

Leads quality open-car sales

Last year almost half of the open cars sold in the Studebaker price class—were Studebaker Duplexes. That's because it's the only car on earth that combines open-car freedom and closed-car protection.

Studebaker's unique facilities

Studebaker builds all its own bodies, all engines, all clutches, gear sets, springs, differentials, steering gears, brakes, axles, gray-iron castings and drop forgings. Only Studebaker in the fine-car field enjoys such complete manufacturing facilities.

These facilities enable Studebaker to manufacture quality cars on a One-Profit basis—eliminating outside profits. The savings thus effected are passed on to Studebaker owners in the form of higher quality and lower price.

Always kept up-to-date

Direct manufacturing control enables Studebaker to keep cars constantly up-to-date. We add improvements regardless of the calendar — we do not save them up for spectacular annual announcements which make cars artificially obsolete. Resale values are thus stabilized.

World's most powerful car of its size and weight

ACCORDING to the rating of the Society of Automotive Engineers, the Studebaker Standard Six Duplex-Phaeton, illustrated above, is the world's most powerful car of its size and weight. 24 five-passenger touring cars have less rated horsepower, yet sell for $5 to $5505 more than the Standard Six Duplex-Phaeton.

And no other make of car—regardless of price—offers the open-closed car convenience of its famous Duplex body.

The Standard Six Duplex-Phaeton is built to hold five passengers in real comfort. Seats are luxuriously deep and restful. Upholstery is genuine leather. Lights are operated from the steering wheel. Spark control is automatic. Complete equipment includes gasoline gauge on the dash, automatic windshield cleaner, rear-view mirror, cowl ventilator, stop light, air cleaner, gas and oil filters and coincidental lock to steering gear and ignition controlled by the same key used for the lock on spare-tire carrier.

A.Y.D. SLOGAN MAKING RAPID BID FOR FAVOR

Hudson-Essex Idea Takes Hold as New Auto Necessity

Forecasts made a month ago on the introduction by Hudson-Essex of the new price designation of "A' Y. D." or "at your door," that "F. O. B." quotations would soon enter the extinct class of the dodo bird, bid fair to become a reality, even sooner than was anticipated.

Such was the comment following the publication by one of the leading distributors of eight-cylinder motor cars of prices "at your door."

"The fact that another big distributor is using the 'at-your door' expression in connection with delivered prices—the exact wording of the phrase coined by the Hudson Motor Car company factory officials—proves that this happy slogan has caught on with the public," said Frank Queisser, Hudson-Essex distributor.

Stresses Point.

"There is one important point to be stressed in connection with Hudson-Essex delivered 'at-your-door' prices," continued Mr. Queisser. "That is the fact that our delivered prices embracing nothing except the actual factory price plus freight and the cost of the accessories as purchased by us in wholesale lots. There is absolutely no profit on the freight—no handling charge, so-called—so that the purchaser is not paying any concealed profits."

That this slogan, minted by Hudson-Essex, will, like the first coach brought out by Hudson-Essex, become a part of the universal nomenclature of motordom, is the opinion freely expressed by factory officials.

"We are especially glad to have this apt delivery phrase for use now since our prices on Hudson and Essex six-cylinder closed cars are so low."

Following the announcement by Hudson-Essex of the new "A. Y. D." plan, editorial comment all over the United States was most favorable, factory communications have pointed out.

Editor Commends Move.

Among the American editors who expressed the highest praise, that of the Nashville Tennessean probably struck the nail most squarely on the head.

"The old plan of price quoting has always been a vexing one to the man thinking about buying an automobile. He would see a pretty picture of a car, read the convincing exposition of its merits, and note the price of, say $900—with 'f. o. b. Detroit' in small type. Then when the had screwed his courage to the point of spending $900, he went to the store and found he couldn't get the automobile for that sum—there were freight and the war tax, etc., to be added on."

The editor concluded his remarks with the assertion that "it will be good for the men who buy automobiles and for the men who sell them when the phrase 'F. O. B. Detroit' is but a memory.

Young Generation Makes Two Cars In Family A Necessity

A marked and new demand for Overland touring cars has recently developed among the students at high schools, preparatory schools and at colleges, according to investigators, who have been studying the demand for Willys-Overland, Inc.

It is rapidly becoming the second car in families where the parent group have found the insistent demand for the family car on the part of the younger generation has made two cars or walking necessary on their part.

Where bicycle parking racks once served, parking spaces adjacent to the schools are now crowded with student cars.

Among the younger generation, the open car is still the great popular favorite with the freedom it affords as compared with the enclosed body type. A study of any school area in any city of size at the time school is opening or closing will reveal an astonishing number of the student body arriving or departing in groups in their automobiles.

From the viewpoint of the parent who buys the car, the investment in the Overland is sufficiently low to warrant his consideration of this car. From the viewpoint of the student who earns his own car, the same convenient figure is a compelling attraction and from the viewpoint of those who use cars, the big car performance ability and control features of the Overland are deciding factors.

The use of an automobile by the school-ging modern generation is a natural follow-up of the growing tendency to build homes in the suburban sections. It has been accentuated first by the delays of street car accommodations, then the inconvenience of bus transportation.

In the long run it is an economical investment in health, satisfaction and convenience for the whole family.

Hupp Experiment Station Is One Of Motordoms Oddities

The experiment department of the Hupp Motor car corporation presents one of the strangest sights in the entire field of motordom. Cars of every make and description, in various stages of completion or demolition, confront the eye of the person fortunate enough to be allowed entrance to it.

"Hupp, in its effort to find improvements that will better its motor cars, has for the last dozen years bought, tested, torn down, put together and tested again, practically every new model introduced both here and in Europe during that time." From its engineers' study of hundreds of different types of body and chassis engineering, coupled with changes it has devised in these types its engineering and designing departments have acquired information almost invaluable in the design, construction and manufacture of motor cars"

TEXAS CLASSES PLAN REUNION

Elaborate Events Will Be Held on Campus In June

AUSTIN, April 17.—Plans are being made for the five-year class reunions of eight University of Texas classes of graduates—the class of 1886 and of each five-year period including 1921, to be held on the University of Texas campus during commencement week, June 5, 6 and 7.

Secretary Fred L. Williams, Houston, has already issued the call for the 1926 convention of the 1911 class. President Rhodes S. Baker called attention to the old precedent that the quarter-century class, that of 1901, will be the honor class this year.

1911, T. B. Henderson, Cameron, academic; Fred L. Williams, Houston, Law; Joe Estill, Tyler, Engineering.

Leave the Garage Doors Open When You Start Motor

SACRAMENTO, April 17.—"Leave your garage doors open when you start your engine!"

This warning was issued by the division of motor vehicles to California motorists on receipt of word that another death had been caused by asphyxiation from carbon-monoxide gas. The death occurred recently in San Francisco and caused a coroner's jury to recommend the adoption of an ordinance compelling the owners of private and public garages to post signs warning against carbon monoxide gas coming from the exhaust of a motor vehicle.

"This gas is so deadly that it will kill any person overcome by it within a short time unless he is rescued," the division's statement said.

LOADING DOCK AN AUTO SALON

Lincoln Factories Turn Out a Wealth of Fine Car Beauty

The loading dock of a builder of automobiles may seem a far cry from the fine-car salon. Yet daily over the loading docks at the great Lincoln Motor company's plant in Detroit, according to the Langford Motor company, passes a revue which rivals that with the velvet and marble background of the motor show.

Discussing some of the exclusively colored and body-designed Lincolns which have been ordered by patrons of this vicinity, the sales executive told of his impressions on his visit to the factory.

"It was patent from the different colors and types of cars which were being loaded that even geography plays a part in the custom designing," he said. "I noticed a rather subdued four-passenger sedan consigned to the northwest; striking shades in open sport models for Florida, two swagger roadsters for members of the rich Los Angeles film colony, and a Victoria coupe for a distinguished ambassador at Washington. But what impressed me the most was a sport phaeton being shipped to Mexico City.

"Wealthy Mexicans have the continental habit of folded-down tops, and this one, with folding tonneau cowl and windshield, suggested that the top would be folded most of the time. Its color was royal chariot red, with jet black upper works and fenders—a splash of snap and beauty."

German Tourists Can Find Friends

BERLIN, April 17.—Summer tourists in Germany this season will be able to register themselves and look up friends in a chain of guest registration bureaus in railway stations of the larger cities, under a plan worked out by federal railway administration. The bureaus will be uniformly marked with signs showing an arrow within a circle.

Tourists or business ben expecting to meet friends in a city, can write their hotel addresses and telephone numbers in a book at the local registration bureau, for a fee of about four cents. The books, however, are not open to the public.

But when friends drift into town they are permitted to inquire for a specific person and obtain the address without trouble. Officials in charge of the bureau have been instructed to assist visitors in finding friends whenever possible.

Stearns Company Names O. T. Lawson Factory Manager

An important announcement from President H. J. Leonard this week names O. T. Lawson factory manager of the F. B. Stearns company of Cleveland.

Mr. Lawson comes to the new position with the F. B. Stearns company following many years of experience in factory management and other work which especially fits him for the new position. His introduction as an important member of the Stearns production organization indicates the additional strength being invested in this department of the company.

Just previous to his connection with the F. B. Stearns company, Mr. Lawson was in charge of all stock, material and purchasing for the Bendix Brake company of South Bend, Ind., as well as having charge of all plant production orders. Mr. Lawson's executive experience dates back to 1910 when he was in charge of purchasing of all material for the old Hennie Buggy company which was a branch of the Moline Plow company. When this concern began production of the Stephens automobile in 1915, he was named purchasing agent.

Mr. Lawson's executive experience has been closely associated with the factory and mechanical ends of production. In 1924 he became purchasing agent and stock and materials manager for the Trippensee Closed Body corporation of Detroit. He was later promoted to factory manager of this company in charge of the five plants then being operated, supervising all company purchases on the side.

The appointment of Mr. Lawson, together with that of J. T. Trumble to the position of chief engineer of the F. B. Stearns company, indicates the swift strides being made by this company to further develop their organization.

New High Record In Buick Sales

March saw a new high delivery record set by the Buick Motor company for the current series. In this month 23,224 cars went into the hands of owners. This is the largest month in deliveries since the present models were introduced last August, and closely parallels shipments for the same period.

March shipments of 25,305 cars broke all previous records, according to factory announcement. It is pointed out also that deliveries and shipments for March are almost the same. This bears out Sales Manager E. T. Strong's recent statement that Buick dealers throughout the country have been unable to stock many cars for the usual Spring demand.

Dressmakers Come To Fashion's Aid

LONDON, April 17.—London dressmakers have produced one panacea for social difficulties. It is a combination afternoon and evening frock which will be received without looks of scorn at any Mayfair gathering, before or after the sun goes down.

London dressmakers have brought out a labor and time saving dress. It is really a semi-evening frock, not too elaborate for afternoon wear, for the absence of sleeves is so dexterously affected that it will not command the attention which sleeveless dresses usually do. The new dresses will allow women to keep any engagement between the hours of three and midnight with impunity.

The reason for the new dress is a change in the habits of fair Mayfair. Now-a-days when afternoon teas and dansants are over, those who want to be in the swim, adjourn to some one's house for a "six o'clock" which means gossip and cocktails, or sherry for the more discriminating.

This allows no time for a change for the theatre or night club and here is where the new dress is worth its cost. These "six o'clocks" end with a respite of half an hour for necessary cosmeti application and so the trials of the society debutante or otherwise are neatly solved.

The Greatest Month

More commercial firms took deliveries of Graham Brothers Trucks in March than in any month in the Company's history.

January set a record, February brought another—and March surpassed them both.

BODIES BY FISHER

A Decisively New Order of Beauty

EXECUTED by Fisher, the bodies of the new Pontiac Six mark a unique development in the field of low-priced sixes. Contrasted with the creations hitherto available, they establish a decisively new order of beauty.

Until now, no six-cylinder closed car costing less than $925 offered the superlative craftsmanship that the Fisher emblem denotes. And in these new Pontiac-Fisher bodies have been achieved such richness of Duco finish, such beauty of line and color as to literally explode the theory that a low-priced six-cylinder car has to present a commonplace appearance.

Madge never failed her son in living up to the dramatic demands of their new roles when, at fifty-five, she gave up service behind a lunch counter in the town with the Mexican name, and went to live in the big suite at the Plaza. Madge's white hair was magnificently marcelled. She accepted the daily order of thirty-six orchids as if she had been born to them.

But the days—the days had to be filled, you see. Each and every hour to be accounted for.

WHAT had happened to Madge Tulliver and her son John, was one of those spectacular quirks of fate that really tax the credulities.

The first year of the war, Madge Tulliver was standing behind a Harvey Lunch counter in a town with a Mexican name and John Tulliver was freight engineer on the Santa Fe and lived with his mother in a one-story frame shack in the town with the Mexican name.

Sometimes, dog tired, he dropped off his engine in the yards, cleaned up at a pump outside the station and ate pork sausages, hashed browns, coffee and sinkers at his mother's supper counter before they both cut home through the stubble of sage-brush between the station and the one-story shack.

Madge Tulliver was a big woman with a soft rush of Irish bur through her talk. Thirty years before, she had buried her husband on a hillside thereabouts, on their trapse across country after iron ore. She had remained in the Santa Fe town because her baby was about to be born.

For thirty years Madge Tulliver and her son John had lived in the town with the Mexican name. Even after John began to earn railroad engineer's wage Madge kept her job at the lunch counter. Years of habit made the routine of life in the little cabin seem dull. For twenty years Madge had served up vittles at this or that lunch counter in the town.

More out of kindness than acumen, John Tulliver bought his last possession, forty shares of gold mining stock at four dollars a share, and the fellow died blessing him.

Three years later, the Tullivers sold their share in that mine for eight hundred thousand dollars, and a sister mine, bought in by John when the first began to show pay, yielded him another eight hundred thousand.

For ten years, now, the Tullivers had lived at the Plaza, overlooking Central Park. The Tulliver suite ran along the park side of the superb holstery, and every morning a bell boy delivered thirty-six orchids to Madge's sitting room.

It must be said for her that she had not failed her son in living up to the dramatic demands of their new roles. At fifty-five, Madge was tall, stately, white-haired but expertly marcelled, and her diamonds, if she wore slightly too many, were magnificently mounted in platinum, so that they glowed with startling whiteness on her own naturally fair skin.

John, gray-haired now, had broadened genially into the typically successful man of affairs. Gruff. Hale. A bit ostentatiously American when traveling abroad. Life, all in all, had agreed with him.

At slightly under forty, John Tulliver, in the easy-going, easy-spending set in which he moved, was one of the genial bachelors of the town. A hearty good fellow. Rich. Rich as Croesus. A good dancer and golfer. A fine fellow at bridge. Expert yachtsman. Motor boat racer. Not above following the ponies to New Orleans. Owner of a palatial houseboat anchored in a Florida harbor. A bachelor worth angling for.

John and his mother were desirable in a certain set. They were sought after. Indeed, it was rumored that the daughter of a copper king, whose family was well within the golden circle of a set to which the Tullivers never ever aspired, was setting her cap for John.

It was a fine dream. John married to Edith Poole.

It would mean, of course, the end of her life with him. In spite of everything it would mean that. Madge knew it. John knew it. The day that he came to tell her of his impending marriage to Edith Poole, John knew it, his protestations to the contrary notwithstanding.

Things would go on as before. But Madge knew better. John, through the ache in his heart, knew better. And, after all, Madge was so magnificently provided for. On his wedding day, John Tulliver presented his mother with a check for one million dollars.

Madge was invited to make her home with her children, but after all, at least so she told John, she was accustomed to the life of the hotel. Her apartment there suited her needs. Life was a fragrant, lovely performance at the Plaza and so Madge remained on.

Every so often John dashed up to see her, from his office, from his estates, from Palm Beach. From this or that outing. And Edith, too, occasionally. They got on famously.

But the days. There were the days to be filled, you see. Each and every hour to be accounted for. Now that John no longer shared the suite, it meant that there was no longer the sweet pleasure of breakfast with him. Now that John no longer shared the suite, it meant that he seldom, if ever, telephoned up from the office for his mother to jump in the car and meet him for lunch at his club. Now that John no longer shared the suite with his mother, it meant that John no longer dashed home in the evening to dress, dine with her in a glittering restaurant, rush her off to a review, a cabaret or a night club.

It meant that Madge was alone.

Of course she had plenty of money.

This is how she spent her days. Of course, if you overdid it a bit, there was the daily marcelle, although it did make the hair crimp too tightly. But Lottie, the girl who came up from the Beauty Parlor to do it, was a sweet, talkative soul. Sometimes she shared coffee and rolls with Madge.

Then, at eleven, there was always a walk down the avenue. The windows glittering with their luxurious provender killed an hour or two. A bit of shopping. Trying on coats, hats and furs.

Lunch at a smart Park Avenue restaurant. There was a Mrs. Wiggs from New Mexico who lived at the hotel two weeks out of the season on her annual trips to New York. When she was in town, it was great fun lunching Mrs. Wiggs. Sometimes, when Madge got into chatter with one of the women in the hotel lobby, she would join her for lunch or tea, but usually she dined alone. Smartly.

Evenings, there was always the excitement of dressing for dinner and coming down complacently handsome, marcelled, brocade-gowned to dinner.

Sometimes they just walked out, the two women, up and down the Avenue. A new, white-tiled lunch room had recently invaded the de luxe precincts of Fifth Avenue, near the Plaza.
