B-1 Bombers, MX Missiles...

House Oks Pentagon Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, urged to strengthen President Reagan's hand at the bargaining table with the Soviets, is overwhelmingly backing a record $197.4 billion Pentagon budget complete with the B-1 bomber and MX missile.

On the day Reagan launched a major arms-control initiative, the House approved the measure 335-61 Wednesday night.

Rep. Joseph P. Addabbo, chief sponsor of the bill as chairman of the defense appropriations subcommittee, sought to delete $1.9 billion each for the B-1 bomber and the MX missile — the backbone of Reagan's strategic modernization program.

Addabbo, a New York Democrat, argued that the Pentagon didn't need the money because it could dip into more than $30 billion in unobligated funds left over from previous years.

But the House preserved the B-1 money, 263-142, and the MX funds, 264-139, as member after member alluded to Reagan's offer earlier in the day to cancel plans to deploy mediumrange nuclear missiles in Western Europe if the Soviets remove their own theater nuclear weapons trained on European targets.

"I think it would be unconscionable for the Congress on this very day to pull the rug out from under the president," declared Rep. Elliott Levitas, D-Ga.

And Rep. Robert H. Michel of Illinois, the House Republican leader, referred to the nuclear weapons systems as "instruments of peace and instruments of negotiation."

Addabbo was shouted down earlier in the floor action when he moved that $219 million for procurement of the Pershing missiles be stricken from the bill.

He contended that he was just trying to introduce some savings because the missiles are still under development and the money to buy them will not be needed for more than a year.

The appropriations bill totaled $196.6 billion when brought to the floor, but a net $836 million was added through amendments largely to bring it into compliance with the policy-setting defense authorization bill that had been approved the day before.

Defense stalwarts did have a brief scare on the way to passage.

An attempt to cut procurement and research and development funds by 2 percent except for spare parts, repair parts and ammunition failed by just five votes, 202-197.

Rep. Marge Roukema, R-N.J., who offered the amendment, said it would have saved $1.65 billion and would have helped "bring the Defense Department in line with budget realities" elsewhere in the government.

The House-approved bill was described by the Appropriations Committee as containing the largest dollar amount ever enacted by a legislative body.

It calls for about $26 billion more than the Pentagon had in the last fiscal year, and that increase alone is more than the total budget for many Cabinet departments.

But it still was $3.4 billion less than the $200.8 billion package sought by the administration and $11.1 billion less than the $208.5 billion version that cleared the Senate Appropriations Committee earlier this week.

Much of the House floor debate was devoted to arguments over the six-year, $180.3 billion strategic program Reagan announced Oct. 2.

The president proposes to build 100 B-1 bombers to replace the aging fleet of B-52s and eventually supplement the B-1s with new bombers using radar-eluding Stealth technology.

Reagan's plan also would put up to half the 100 MX missiles, each of them carrying 10 nuclear warheads, in reinforced Titan and Minuteman underground silos beginning in 1984 until a permanent basing plan is developed.

Proponents argued that these weapons were needed to close a perceived "window of vulnerability" to Soviet attack in the mid-1980s.

Opponents said the B-1 program, with cost estimates ranging from $21 billion to $40 billion, and the MX, bearing a price tag of up to $60 billion, are too expensive and unneeded.

NASA Move

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration should consider moving mission control from the Johnson Space Center to Florida and California, the agency's deputy administrator says.

But Dr. Christopher Kraft, director of the Johnson Space Center near Houston, said a plan like the one Dr. Hans Mark suggested was rejected as impractical in 1976.

Mark's idea, in a memo prepared by Mark and aide Milton Silvera, was published in a trade journal, Aviation Week & Space Technology.

The memo proposes duplicating mission control at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida and Vandenberg Air Force Base in California after a Space Shuttle launch facility is built there. It advocates making the move by 1984.

Obesity Theory Questioned

BOSTON (AP) — A widely publicized theory that some people are fat because they do not burn up calories as fast as slender folks is under fire by a new study.

The latest report, like the one it challenges, was published today in the New England Journal of Medicine.

A year ago, doctors from two Boston hospitals reported some fat people have lower levels of an enzyme that regulates the exchange of sodium and potassium ions inside the cells.

This is one of the basic chemical processes of the human body, and it uses up large amounts of calories.

The Boston doctors found that the red blood cells of fat people contain, on average, 22 percent lower levels of sodium-potassium-ATPase, an enzyme known as the sodium pump.

The latest study, directed by Dr. M.A. Mir at the Welsh National School of Medicine in Cardiff, Wales, came up with far different results that they say "are contrary to what would be expected if there were a metabolic basis for obesity."

The Welsh doctors found that levels of the enzyme were more than twice as high in the fat people. They said they used a different method of measuring the enzyme.

Paisley Defies Order

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Defying a British threat to crack down on Protestant vigilantes, the Rev. Ian Paisley went ahead with plans for a big rally Monday to demand stronger action against the Irish Republican Army.

The fiery Protestant political and religious leader told reporters he has "50,000 Ulstermen at the ready" in his "Third Force" to protect Protestants from attacks by the guerrillas of the IRA, most of them Roman Catholics.

The upsurge of Protestant militancy is in reponse to the slaying by the IRA of eight Protestants in the past 10 days, including the Rev. Robert Bradford, a Belfast member of the Britise Parliament.

Controller Convicted

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — An attorney for a former air traffic controller on trial for illegally striking says he will continue arguing the case even though the same defense resulted in the conviction of another former controller.

U.S. District Judge Eldon Mahon set closing arguments for today in the trial of former controller Harry Lee Grant. The former union leader is charged with participating in an illegal strike against the government when members of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization walked off their jobs Aug. 3.

Defense lawyer G. William Baab says he will pursue Grant's case, even though a federal jury on Wednesday found union leader Gary Greene guilty of illegally striking against the U.S. government. Greene is the third controller in the nation to be convicted of participating in the illegal strike.

Video Cops

SATELLITE BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The kids who used to hang around the Atlantic Ocean beaches drinking beer, smoking marijuana and making residents nervous have stayed away ever since they showed up on television in school.

The police are watching the beach with a videotape camera, and the kids now know the tapes might be played in school, at a city council meeting or on television news programs — because it's been done.

A television station heard about the project, requested the videotape and ran some clips on its news show Wednesday night.

The videotaping experiment has been so successful, cutting the number of young lawbreakers nearly to zero in one part of the beach, that the city council has voted to buy the police department its own camera to replace a borrowed one, said City Manager Dick Shinn.

If Soviets Delay...

Medium Range Missiles To Be Deployed By '83

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will go ahead with plans to deploy mediumrange missiles in Europe in 1983 if the Soviets drag out negotiations on President Reagan's proposal to slash nuclear and conventional weapons on the continent, administration officials say.

The Soviet Union rejected the Reagan initiative Wednesday, but U.S. officials said the initial reaction wasn't surprising and one added: "The door is still open as far as talks are concerned."

Official reaction from U.S. allies in Europe, where many television stations carried Reagan's speech live, was laudatory, reflecting relief that the administration was stressing peace, rather than engaging in hypothetical discussions of war.

There was bipartisan praise in Congress as well.

Reagan, noticeably avoiding the harsh tones that characterized his early stance toward the Soviets, proposed a "historic step" by the superpowers to reverse a trend toward growing military arsenals. The United States, he said, would cancel plans to deploy medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe if the Soviets would dismantle the 600 missiles they have trained on European targets.

It will be the initial U.S. negotiating position in talks with the Soviets on restraining deployment of medium-range missiles in Europe. The theater nuclear force negotiations open Nov. 30 in Geneva.

Meanwhile, U.S. officials said they believe the United States and the Soviet Union will decide to resume strategic arms limitations negotiations next March, also in Geneva.

In Moscow, the Soviet news agency Tass scoffed at Reagan's proposal for a Europe free from the threat of medium-range nuclear missiles, saying it was "propagandistic" and Gross Figures Surge...

Sales Tax Rebates In Sharp Increase Here

Snyder's city sales tax rebate took a big jump for the period ending Nov. 8, State Comptroller Bob Bullock reported.

The latest monthly rebate check totalled $153,543, which kept Snyder's increase for the year at approximately double the state-wide average.

Bullock reported that rebates for the state as a whole are running about 16.6 percent ahead of last year's. Snyder's latest rebate check pushed its total for the year to $810,928, compared to $606,867 at this time last year, a gain of 33 percent.

Snyder's rebate total for the month is far ahead of other area cities in its population bracket, and its total for the year leads the area also.

Figures for other cities of comparable size, with the latest monthly check and the total for the year, in order:

Levelland, $89,995 and $608,613; Andrews, $84,441 and $477,914; Sweetwater, $83,053 and $549,957; Lamesa, $73,187 and $422,963; Pecos, $67,736 and $452,656; Brownfield, $65,008 and $389,897; and Monahans, $63,012 and $442,963.

In area towns, Post received $30,254 for the month, running its total for the year to $158,749; Colorado City received $26,967 this time, for a year's total of $180,725; Rotan got $10,432, making a total for the year of $52,642; Roscoe received $6,790 for the month, making a total of $32,297 for the year, and Roby's latest check was $2,188, increasing its total for the year to $12,577.

Bullock's office also has released figures on gross retail sales for the second quarter of this year, which show Scurry County leading area counties of comparable population.

Scurry County's gross retail sales for the quarter totalled $77,802,200, according to the comptroller's records.

Figures for other counties include Hockley (Levelland) $58,407,541; Nolan (Sweetwater-Roscoe) $57,841,312; Ward, (Monahans) $52,920,871; Andrews, $49,551,466; Dawson (Lamesa) $41,184,699; Reeves (Pecos) $33,283,551; Mitchell (Colorado City) $19,174,850; Garza (Post), $10,330,201; Fisher (Rotan-Roby) $5,972,294.

Price Support Levels Cut Back In Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Faced with mounting concerns that the House might reject a compromise farm bill, congressional negotiators are cutting back price support levels for sugar and peanuts. But the measure still faces a possible presidential veto.

The cuts in sugar and peanuts supports were made after the House-Senate conference committee agreed Wednesday on grain supports, a major stumbling block during the last two weeks of negotiations.

The committee, hoping to finish work today, still must resolve differences over food stamps and meat import inspection.

The negotiators have been trying to reach a compromise between the $16.6 billion House farm bill and the $10.6 billion Senate version endorsed by President Reagan.

But they have been working under the double threats of a presidential veto if the price tag on the compromise exceeds the cost of the Senate bill and rejection of the compromise by the House if sugar and peanut programs are included.

House critics of those programs, claiming enough support to kill the overall farm bill, say the conferees' concessions Wednesday will do nothing to dilute their strength.

"All they're doing is paving the way to defeat a farm bill," said Rep. Peter Peyser, D-N.Y. "We've got this bill beat right now."

Supporters and critics of the conference committee's work to date both claim to have a majority of the House. Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Texas, the chief House negotiator, admitted, however, that there continues "to be considerable controversy with regard to this legislation."

The government, through loans, payments and purchases, supports commodity prices to give farmers minimal income protection so they will continue to provide consumers with adequate supplies of food.

But in trying to reach agreement on a new price support package, replacing the one that expired in September, Congress has been caught between the mandate to cut federal spending and producer demands for increased income protection at a time when farm income is at one of its lowest levels.

William Lesher, the Agriculture Department's top economist, has refused to endorse the overall compromise ironed out so far because it exceeds the four-year cost of the Senate farm bill by at least $600 million. Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., has speculated that Reagan might accept a bill costing as much as $500 million more.

But Peyser, one of the leaders in the successful campaign in the House to reject supports for peanuts and sugar, readily told the committee that the compromise remains in jeopardy despite the latest concessions on support levels.

Withdrawal Urged

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly demanded for the third time that Soviet troops withdraw from Afghanistan.

The resolution was adopted Wednesday by a vote of 116-23 with 12 abstentions.

The James W. Greene who brought the film of the Moscow Olympics opening ceremonies here for a Monday night showing is known by old-timers around here as Wade Greene.

As hospitality chairman for the Amateur Athletic Union, he has attended 13 consecutive Olympiads, which is quite a record.

While on the WTC campus Monday to show the film, Greene told the unusual story of how he met his wife. Their first contact was in an airport limousine traveling from the San Francisco airport into the city. That is when they learned that both were from Snyder, Texas, and it was but a short time before they began dating.

Mary Edith Scarborough asked her father, the late Hardy Scarborough, if he knew a Jim Greene from Snyder. Her father said he thought he knew all of those Greenes, but he couldn't remember one named Jim.

Meanwhile she learned that Greene had been an athlete at Snyder High School, playing on the school's first football team and also claimed to have been a pretty fair baseball player.

Later, after learning more about Greene, she asked her father if he remembered a Wade Greene.

"You bet," he replied. "Go ahead and throw him your best curve. He can't hit it."

"I had to go to Lubbock last Sunday and I started out listening to the preaching service on the radio, but it faded out about the time I got to Slaton," said one.

"Well, I was at church and it faded out there earlier than that," the other member replied.

Orders Woman Brought Forward

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The sister of a New Zealand woman allegedly held captive by the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church gasped with joy when a judge threatened church leaders with jail if they don't produce the woman in a week.

Anna-Lyn Hall said the judge's unusual order made her "in a word ecstatic, over the moon."

In New Zealand, she explained "over the moon" means extremely happy.

San Francisco Superior Court Judge Ira A. Brown Jr. told church attorney Frank McCabe on Wednesday that the church must bring 22-year-old MaryLee Hall to court Nov. 25 so she can be questioned about whether she is being held against her will.

"If my writ is not obeyed, then I'm going to jail them," Brown said. "I cannot jail a church, but I can jail its leaders."

McCabe said the church would appeal the order.

Anna-Lyn Hall told reporters the order "will mean that so many other parents will be able to come forward and do the same thing."

"We were always optimistic about how the case would turn out."

Anna-Lyn Hall and her mother, Lena Hall, came to San Francisco five weeks ago and sought the order after several unsuccessful attempts to meet with Mary-Lee Hall.

The Halls' attorney, James Mahon, said he believed it was the first time an order had been issued directing the church to produce an adult.

"We're not attempting to obtain custody," Mahon told a reporter. "We are simply attempting to terminate an illegal detention. This is absolutely the last resort of my client. If it weren't for this, they'd never see this kid again."

Mary-Lee Hall, one of nine Hall children, left the famify's dairy farm in Tarawaki, New Zealand, to come to the United States nearly three years ago. Church officials say she is living freely in New York.

McCabe said Matthew Morrison, the church's northern California director, had urged Ms. Hall to meet with her parents but she had declined to do so.

But Mahon said the church has used mind control, peer pressure and possibly physical restraints to prevent a family meeting.

"We believe that once she gets away from those people, at least she'll be able to talk to her mothernd sisternally," he said.

After Mary-Lee Hall testifies in Brown's court, Mahon said, "It's up to her if she wants to go back to the Unification Church. As long as it's of her own free will."

Fonda's Movie Met With Praise

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) "On Golden Pond," starring Henry Fonda and Katharine Hepburn, had its premiere showing before a movie industry audience that responded with applause and predictions that the film and its performers would be favorites in the 1981 Academy Awards.

The reaction Wednesday night was warm and emotional, the audience aware that Fonda, 76, was in a nearby hospital following a relapse in a heart condition.

Fonda was admitted to the hospital Nov. 17 so doctors could monitor a change of medication, according to his wife, Shirlee. He had undergone exploratory heart surgery last May, and suffered the relapse six weeks ago. The actor had a heart pacemaker implanted in 1974.

In the film he portrays a retired university professor facing his 80th birthday and welcoming the prospect of death until a 13-year-old boy revives his will to live.

Fonda was represented at the $150-a-seat benefit premiere for the American Film Institute, "aiding fund by his daughter Jane Fonda, who also plays his daughter in the film and who put the project together through her production company.

"I suppose you expect me to say that my father wishes he could be here," she told the gathering at the Goldwyn Theater of the Motion Picture Academy. "But he really hates these kinds of affairs. He'd probably say simply that he feels real lucky to have gotten the job."

When Miss Hepburn met Henry Fonda for the first time at rehearsals for "on Golden Pond," she remarked, "It's about time!" She plays his wife in the film.

Thanksgiving Theme Slated

The theme of this year's community Thanksgiving service will be "Thanks Be to God for His Unspeackable Gift."

The service has been set for 7 p. m. Sunday at First Baptist Church. It is held each year under spnsorship of the Scurry County Ministerial Alliance.

The order of worship will be organized around Psalm 103 with its familiar verses of "Bless the Lord, O My Soul" and "As high as the heavens are above the earth, so great is (God's) love."

The Rev. David Robertson, pastor of First United Methodist Church, will begin with a meditation reminding all to be thankful for the gifts God has given to eacn as individuals. Dr. Don Newbury, president of Western Texas College, will continue with a meditation reminding all to be thankful as a people and a nation for God's blessings.

The guest speaker, Dr. J. W. MacGorman, will present the sermon on the main theme of God's greatest gift of all for the world.

The Thanksgiving theme also will be proclaimed in song by the Snyder High School Choir as it sings "God Bless America," an anthem titled "Praise Ye the Lord," the choral benediction "The Lord Bless You and Keep You," and with congregational singing of the hymms "We Gather Together" and "Now Thank We All Our God."

The Scurry County Ministerial Alliance invites the public to to attend the serivce and worship together as a community.

Weight Factor In Pregnancies

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A woman's weight before pregnancy and the amount she gains while carrying the fetus are factors in her risk of having a stillborn baby, a study says.

The study released Monday of 13,000 pregnancies says women who gain less than 10 pounds or more than 39 pounds during pregnancy run a greater risk of having stillborn babies.

Dr. George Tokuhata, director of the state Division of Epidemiological Research, said his study showed that the highest fetal mortality rate was among women who weighed 175 pounds at the start of pregnancy and who then gained more than 39 pounds.

at wits end

What with my social life being somewhere to the right of Henry Thoreau, my husband and I have never succumbed to the machines that record a television program while you're out and can be played back at your leisure.

But I know a lot of people who have and who do.

Now it seems a suit has not only been brought against the manufacturers of home video recorders, but makes those who tape shows in their homes liable for criminal action.

Right away, my mind conjures up a picture of a family of four sitting around their living rooms, eating popcorn, playing with the dog and watching an illegal tape, when the door whips open, a couple of federal agents yell, "FREEZE!" and the father runs to the bathroom trying to flush Laverne and Shirley down the commode.

Keeping "little people" in line seems to be the American way. Big business and their tax shelters get by with bilking the government out of billions of dollars while the IRS tracks down a woman who did not declare a $87.65 profit on a garage sale.

The scare tactic assuring people they would break the law if they used a video recorder worked exactly as predicted. The public went out and bought every video recorder they could put their hands on before they were banned from the marketplace.

It's interesting what funny things will happen to this proposal on its way to the Supreme Court.

Maybe we'll be driving home one night and flashing red lights will pull us to the curb. We'll get out of the car and an officer will say, "Where have you been?"

"To mother's house watching television."

"Live or illegal video tape?"

"Live!"

"No, no, Skipper, you're wrong."

"Why did you call me Skipper?"

"It was a ship...I mean a slip."

"Maybe you'd better come downtown and we'll get a statement."

Hours later they will have made their Video Bust. I can somehow see my mother saying as she leaves, "Mind if I record the Osmonds while I'm gone?"

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

There are a lot of ways to bid this hand from "Popular Bridge."

If played in a duplicate game you would see all sorts of contracts including some sacrifices at six clubs and possibly a couple of tries at six diamonds by players who just hate to let their opponents play the hand.

Someone might even make six diamonds. No one would make six clubs.

Anyway, you are playing rubber bridge and have let South play in five diamonds. You open the king of clubs and it holds. What do you lead now?

There is no point in leading another club or a trump. You are going to lead a spade or a heart. A little analysis will show that a spade lead can't hurt you. If declarer holds two small hearts your partner is not going to lose his king, but if declarer holds the king of hearts and your partner the ace of spades, a heart lead will let declarer romp home with all the tricks.

So you are going to lead a spade. Which one?

The king, of course. There is an old principle of bridge which is not to give your partner a problem. If you lead your six or nine he will take his ace and just might lead back a heart.

So you lead your king of spades, continue the suit and wind up with a plus.

Beta Sigma Phi...

Two Pledge Sorority In Candlelight Ritual

Members of Beta Sigma Phi met November 16 at the Martha Ann Woman's Club. New members to the chapter were honored with formal rituals.

The candlelight Pledge Ritual for Betsy Griffin and Margaret Corkran was conducted by Wanda Early, president, assisted by Donna Fowler and Judy Grimmitt.

Transferees to the chapter were honored with the Welcome Ritual. Those receiving the ritual were Marsha Cribbs, Georganne Conway, Kathy Dacy, and Jackie Buckland.

Following the ceremonies, Mrs. Early presided over the business meeting. Roll call was answered by 24 members. Donna Fowler, membership chairman, welcomed Marie Boone back into the chapter from a leave of absence and reported that several new transferees to Snyder would be contacted.

Social chairman, Mona Bryan, reminded members of the couple dinner party to be held Friday evening, November 20 at 7 o'clock in the ranch home of Barbara and Joel Hamlett.

Due to delays in shipping, the chapter voted to cancel the Christmas paper sale project for this year. Other reports were given by Barbara Hamlett, Judy Smith, Gloria Myers, Nancy Ballinger, and Carolyn House.

The next meeting of Beta Sigma Phi will be December 1 at 6:30 p.m. at the Martha Ann Woman's Club. The group will meet for a sandwich supper and a program on Christmas crafts. Chapter members will make Christmas wreaths during the meeting for the Martha Ann Woman's Club Christmas Bazaar.

Hostesses Judy Grimmitt and Nancy Ballinger served pie and coffee to those attending. The meeting was adjourned by Mrs. Early with the Mispah and Closing Ritual.

"MY DOG'S NOT BEEN FEELIN' TOO GOOD AN' I'D LIKE TO BRING HIM A GET-WELL BONE."

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Please help. I'm too embarrassed to ask my doctor. My husband died two years ago after 25 years of a good marriage. My children are all grown and flown from the nest, and I am dating again. I'm a young 46, still very vital and healthy, and I'd like to marry again one day and live out my years with the love and companionship of another good man. I had a wonderful sex life and I miss it.

After four children and 11 miscarriages (I am not putting you on), my vaginal canal is too loose (stretched) for my partner to enjoy marital relations. Can this be remedied? Please ask your medical consultant if anything can be done to tighten me up should I marry again. Sign me . . .

GRAND CANYON

DEAR GRAND: I called a gynecological surgeon who serves as my consultant.

He said: "The woman's question is one I have answered often. Tell her that the vagina can be tightened by a surgical procedure, and there are also a series of exercises to keep it that way. She should consult her gynecologist."

DEAR ABBY: As a reformed smoker, I feel qualified to comment on a reader's recent complaint that people objected to his smoking in a public place. You replied negatively, pointing out that people had a right to breathe clean air.

Isn't it odd that these same people don't object if the gentleman's eardrums are being shattered by rock music blared at him, or worse, if his nervous system is being assailed by their own small children creating a ruckus in the same public place? It seems to me that he has as equal a right to keep his ears and nerves intact as they have to preserve their lungs.

If we're going to eliminate public nuisances, let's not be hypocritical and single out the smokers — let's be fair and go after the other two as well. And if you're fair, Abby, you'll print this just to show the other side of the record.

FAIR'S FAIR IN PENNSYLVANIA

DEAR FAIR: You are absolutely right. No one should be assaulted in a public place by rock music or ill-behaved, unsupervised children. My advice: Don't tolerate it. Go to the source and complain loudly!

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I need to learn how to drive a car, but I have a terrible fear of driving in heavy traffic. Just seeing heavy traffic on television terrifies me! I have heard that people who have had a paralyzing fear of flying have been cured. How is this accomplished? It's awfully hard for me to believe.

Is there any hope for people with my kind of phobia?

FLORIDA ODDBALL

DEAR ODDBALL: There is "hope" for every kind of phobia. A behavioral modification therapist can help you. (The phobic patient is exposed gradually to that which he fears until he finally conquers his fear completely.) Your local mental health facility can assist you in finding the right therapist. Good luck!

• • •

DEAR ABBY: You frequently say, when someone asks a question pertaining to weddings, "It's the bride's day, and she is entitled to have anything she wants." This may be true as far as invitations and the type of dress are concerned, but as a pastor in a Lutheran church, I must disagree.

Many churches (ours included) have definite guidelines on the type of music allowed. Since it is a church service, the music should be church music — not popular love songs as some have requested.

I consider myself fairly open-minded, Abby, but I had to put my foot down several years ago when an obviously pregnant bride asked the soloist to sing, "I'm having his baby." I think it makes a mockery of the sacred vows when people say "I do" after they have already done it.

Report Says...

FBI Cleared Allen Of Wrongdoing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Department lawyers are reconsidering that the case against national security adviser Richard V. Allen be closed because he committed no crime in receiving $1,000 from Japanese journalists who interviewed Nancy Reagan, it was reported today. The White House, meanwhile, says the FBI already had found no administrative action necessary.

The Washington Post, quoting unidentified sources, said attorneys in the Justice Department's public integrity section recommended that appointment of a special prosecutor was not warranted.

The report came as the White House, in another reversal of its statements, acknowledged that the FBI told President Reagan's top aide that an initial investigation appeared to absolve Allen of impropriety.

D. Lowell Jensen, an assistant attorney general in charge of the criminal division, said Wednesday night that the case remains under review. He refused to comment on the Post report.

The newspaper said no final decision on the recommendation to close the case will be made until Attorney General William French Smith returns from an out-of-town trip next week.

Nevertheless, one source was quoted as saying of Allen: "He may have been negligent for not making sure the money was turned in, but that's not a crime."

Reagan seemed to say the same thing Wednesday when he told reporters that the Allen matter had been "investigated" and "everything was fine."

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said Reagan was relying on an "initial oral FBI report."

In a written statement, Speakes said he understood that the report given to presidential counselor Edwin Meese III indicated that all the witnesses involved had been interviewed and that "everything checked out."

"The FBI felt they could indicate to Ed Meese that no administrative action was necessary," Speakes said.

Meese "presumably briefed the president on the conversation, Speakes added later, saying that was what Reagan was talking about Wednesday.

He said the report was made before the matter became public Friday and the Justice Department announced its investigation was continuing.

The Post also reported today that some presidential advisers are urging that Allen be dismissed because, in their opinion, he showed bad judgment in accepting the gift.

A Tokyo newspaper reported — and the White House confirmed — that Mrs. Reagan had received a lacquered stationery box from the journalists as a thank-you gift.

According to usual practice, the gift has been stored at the National Archives, Speakes said, adding that a private gallery specializing in Asian art had estimated its value at $75. But Fuyuko Kamisaka, one of the reporters who inted Mrs. Reagan, told The New York Times that it was worth 60,00 yen or $270.

Speakes could not explain why, if the box was presented to Mrs. Reagan, that there would also be an envelope containing $1,000 in cash for her.

Brother Killed Out Of Mercy

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The widow of a man shot to death on his sickbed says she wants mercy for the brother-inlaw charged with the murder of her husband.

Jim Collums, 72, was shot five times in the chest and abdomen as he lay in his bed Monday at the Oak Hills Care Center.

Collums, free on $10,000 bond, wrote from the seclusion of his ranch at nearby Poteet that he did it because his brother "had suffered enough."

"I could not stand to see him suffer any longer," Collums wrote in the letter his daughter, Janet Bartek, released to San Antonio newspapers.

Helen Collums, the dead brother's widow, told the San Antonio News she wanted mercy for her brother-in-law and said she blamed the Veterans Administration for not allowing her husband, who suffered from a debilitating nervous disease, to die with dignity.

"Woodrow shot Jim K. strictly out of mercy. I'd have made his bail myself if I had been able to get hold of myself and drive downtown," she said.

Mrs. Collums charged the VA "dumped" her terminally ill husband in a nursing home.

Traveling Class Planned At WTC

"Travel Without Troubles" will be the topic of a three-hour continuing education course scheduled by Western Texas College on Dec. 10.

The class will meet from 6:30 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. at Snyder Travel at 3018 Varsity Square with Mrs. Peggy Hamm as intructor. Fees will be $4 per person for an individual or $5 for a married couple. The class will be limited to 25 persons, with a minimum enrollment of 10 required to form the class.

Mrs. Hamm is a member of the American Society of Travel Agents. She and her husband, Kenneth, own Snyder Travel and an agency in Houston. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim W. Brown of Ira. Her brother, James R. Brown, and his wife are also associated with Snyder Travel Agency as travel consultants.

The travel course will give tips on traveling the most economical way with the help of an experienced agent, what a travel agent is, packing tips, things every overseas traveler should know, and travel for fun or for business. Students who decide to use the services of Snyder Travel after taking the course may deduct the tuition paid from their first use of the agency.

Students must call 573-8511, extension 240, to reserve space in the class. Registration will be held at 6:15 p. m. on Dec. 10 at Snyder Travel.

$5 Million...

Maintenance Man Wins Lottery

NEW YORK (AP) — A lightbulb-changer known as "Louie the Lightbulb" to his friends at a Manhattan skyscraper strung together numbers from his childhood addresses and gambled them in the state lottery on Friday the 13th.

"Sit down Bernice, I have something to tell you," he said to his wife after the winning number was drawn. "I think we're millionaires."

It was an understatement.

He had won $5 million, the biggest known lottery prize in history, on a $1 Lotto ticket.

At 53, Louis Eisenberg was a multimillionaire, a sudden celebrity, the one who hit where millions had missed, and after flashing a smile for the cameras Wednesday he announced that the lighting-maintenance career that had brought him $225 a wee was to be terminated. Today.

"I'm gonna retire," he said when he was named the official winner Wednesday at the State Lottery office in the World Trade Center. "For 53 years I've been eating bread. Now I want to try eating cake."

Eisenberg said he didn't realize he had won the Saturday drawing until late Sunday. He gave himself Monday off, but he went back to work in Rockefeller Center the next day.

But then something dawned on him: "What [illegible] Who walks around screwing in light bulbs that's a millionaire?"

Eisenberg's first check will be for $219,000, then he'll get $239,000 a year for the next 20 years, said state lottery director John Quinn.

Eisenberg said he and his wife will probably stay at their 2½-room apartment in Brooklyn, but that he will retire immediately to "complete freedom to do what we enjoy." They plan to take some trips, perhaps to Hawaii.

Mrs. Eisenberg, "who has recovered from cancer," will now be able to buy all the things she's wanted, Eisenberg said, and "I can do everything I've always wanted for her."

"I don't have to wait for Reagan's 'trickle down' now," referring to the administration economic program of tax cuts that officials say will benefit the poor as well as the rich.

Eisenberg put together six numbers — 3, 14, 22, 24, 25 and 29 — taken from Brooklyn addresses where he lived during the Depression.

He said he called the Lotto telephone number Sunday night to verify his ticket against the Saturday night drawing. Incredulous, he "made six more calls to be sure," he said. Then he told his wife.

His wife didn't believe it either. She called the Lotto telephone number seven more times.

[illegible] lottery officials said the chance of hitting the correct combination of six numbers from 1 to 40 on a $1 two-game bet was 1 in 1.9 million.

"What is money? It's toys and now I can buy more than I ever dreamed of," Eisenberg said.

Smokers Asked To Quit Smoking For One Day

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas smokers will be urged to join others across the nation in snuffing out their cigarettes, at least for 24 hours, during the Great American Smokeout today.

"Quitting smoking will improve the health of Texas more than anything else will," said Dr. Elvin Adams, of Fort Worth, who is chairman of the Texas Interagency Council on Smoking and Health.

Adams and State Health Commissioner Robert Bernstein hope they can persuade 800,000 Texans to put out their cigarettes for 24 hours during the American Cancer Society's daylong smokeout.

"Quitting for one day is the first big step," Adams said. "If they find they can quit for a short time, maybe they will keep it up the rest of their lives.

"This is a great way to start if people really want to live longer and happier lives," Bernstein said. "If they will quit one day, that brings on an awareness that they can do without cigarettes if they really want to."

Mary Kay Products Comes To Snyder

Mary Kay Cosmetics is coming to Snyder. The direct sales cosmetics company was founded by Mary Kay Ash.

Alice Rhoades of Sweetwater, sales director, is in charge of setting up the unit. Several demonstrations are planned at local banks during the first week in December. A demonstration has already been held at Snyder High School.

Weekly unit meetings are held each Tuesday from 10-11:30 a.m. at K-Bobs. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

Local Mary Kay representatives may work either full or part time, depending on their schedules.

According to Rhoades, the Mary Kay philosophy is "God first, family second, and career third." She said they also follow the golden rule.

Consultants are trained locally, and even though they work individually it is a team effort, Rhoades said.

Local representatives will be Zelda Atwood, Mary Bruns, Margie Sharp, Mavis Pantoja, and Louise York.

Newspaper Industry Asks Congress For Tax Break

WASHINGTON (AP) — The independent local newspaper industry asked Congress on Wednesday for a tax break aimed at preventing the forced sale of family-owned papers because of estate taxes.

The Treasury Department opposed the legislation on grounds it "would simply permit independent newspaper owners to 'have their cake and eat it too.'"

Morris J. Levin, counsel for the Independent Local Newspaper Association, told the Senate Finance subcommittee on estate taxation that without some relief, "in 10 years the independently owned daily — now an endangered species — may be extinct."

"While the number of daily newspapers has remained fairly constant, at 1,750, the growth of groups or chains has become predominant," Levin said. "Today, almost two-thirds of the daily newspapers are owned by chains and media conglomerates. More significant is the fact that these chains control more than 73 percent of all daily circulation."

Rather than establishing new papers, he added, groups are buying existing newspapers, and "each purchase results in the loss of an independent, community-based 'voice' and base of opinion."

Newspaper groups are paying 40, 50 or 60 times annual earnings for the independents, Levin said. And it is price escalation that the Internal Revenue Service considers when it assesses the value of an estate left by a newspaper owner, he added.

The bill favored by the independent newspaper group would permit such a publication to set up an independently administered tax-exempt trust fund from which estate taxes would be paid when the owners died. The newspaper and its owners would never pay any tax on that money and the fund would not be subject to estate taxes.

David G. Glickman, deputy assistant secretary of the treasury, said of the bill: "There is no comparable provision in the Internal Revenue Code providing such a complete and permanent exclusion for income earned by a private trust for the benefit of individual beneficiaries."

Book Tells Story Of Mary Kay Ash

"I'm often asked what my financial objectives were when we first started," says Mary Kay Ash, founder and chairman of the Board of Mary Kay Cosmetics. "Well, I didn't have any. My objective was to give women the opportunity to do anything they were smart enough to do. To me, P. and L. meant more than profit and loss--it meant people and love!"

MARY KAY ASH

"Mary Kay" (Harper and Row, $10.95, illustrated; Nov. 25, 1981) is the story of an indomitable woman who turned a $5,000 investment into a multimillion dollar international skin care and beauty business--with an approach unique to corporate america.

The youngest of four children, Mary Kay was born in the rural town of Hot Wells, Tex. At an early age she learned to be independent. While her mother woked 14 hours a day managing a restaurant, Mary Kay stayed home cooking, cleaning and caring for her invalid father.

A post-war divorce left Mary Kay with three children to support alone. She acquired experience working for various direct sales companies, before she and her husband decided to found their own direct sales company. But a month before their project was to be launched, her husband died of a heart attack.

Mary Kay's son Richard Rogers decided to join in the new venture, and on Sept. 13, 1963 with one shelf of cosmetics and nine sales people, the company opened its doors.

Mary Kay Cometics has become one of the nation's outstanding business success stories.

For her achievement, Mary Kay Ash was given the Horatio Alger Award in 1978. "Business Week" named her as one of America's top corporate women. And in November 1979, she was the subject of a "60 Minutes" television profile.

Pluto is not as big as it once seemed. The most distant and coldest planet, Pluto also became the smallest in 1978, when astronomer James Christy discovered that it has a moon so close that telescopes had blurred them together.

Avoid saturated fat

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I understand that we should eat fish and poultry and less red meats because they contain less saturated fat. I'm not fond of fish and was wondering why I couldn't just eat chicken.

For that matter why can't a person just eat foods that contain no fat or very little fat? Is there anything beneficial in fish fat that you need? Is it really something that people should have, or is it just recommended to avoid the saturated fat problem?

DEAR READER — You are right that the idea is to avoid saturated fat. Only about one-third of the fat in fish is saturated fat. Another one-third is monounsaturated and the other third is polyunsaturated fat.

For readers who want a refresher on these terms, the saturated fat is a carbon chain of a fatty acid that is completely loaded with hydrogen. An unsaturated fat has one or more places on the chain without hydrogen. The monounsaturated fatty acids have only one spot on the chain where hydrogen is missing (involves two adjacent carbon atoms) and a polyunsaturated fat has at least two spots where there is no hydrogen.

The story doesn't end there. There may indeed be something in fish fat that we need. There is some evidence that we need a limited amount of polyunsaturated fat in our diet. There is very little in red meats. The polyunsaturated fat in chicken and vegetables is almost all from fatty acids that have only two spots on the carbon chain that don't have hydrogen.

Fish fat is about the only source of "highly polyunsaturated fat" in our food. It has even five or six places on the carbon chain without hydrogen. These highly polyunsaturated fats may be important. There are recent studies that show people who eat salmon tend to develop lower cholesterol levels. Eskimos who eat lots of fish are less likely to have coronary artery disease.

Of course, the fish you eat have to contain fat to get any of this benefit. Salmon is a good choice, about once or twice a week. To help you identify the fish that contain fat and those which do not, I am sending you The Health Letter number 11-12, Fish and Shellfish as Health Foods. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can anything be done to prevent the constant recurrence of Baker's cysts? In the past three years I have had four removed. All of these cysts have developed in my left knee. Otherwise I am in good health, 73 years old. I teach organ and play occasionally in various churches and theater organ demonstrations. Does diet have anything to do with the formation of these cysts?

DEAR READER — We have a clear fluid in little sacs around tendons and in the joints, called synovial fluid. Some of this leaks out of its normal space and is surrounded by a membrane of tissue to form the cyst. They are not dangerous but they can be annoying if they are large or press on nerves and ligaments.

They have nothing to do with diet and if draining a cyst is not successful, then the only other alternative is to surgically cut away the cyst, to remove the membrane that has formed the cyst-sac. But such surgery is no guarantee that you will not have another.

To Co-Sponsor Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 70 members of the House will co-sponsor legislation introduced by Rep. Charles E. Bennett to name a future nuclear-powered aircraft carrier after Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, the Florida Democrat says.

Bennett, chairman of the House seapower subcommittee, introduced the proposal Monday. The action follows a Pentagon announcement Friday that Rickover, 81, will not be given another extension of active duty when his current term expires in January.

If you have occasional power outages, you can't afford to be without a Moonlighter. The Moonlighter gives both safe heat (9000 BTU-hr.) and light.

Wells, England...

Cathedral Scrubbed, Washed

WELLS, England (AP) — St. Eustace, St. Erkenwald and St. Ethelburga of Barking are clean and fit for another century on the tower of Wells Cathedral.

Statues of bishops and hermits on the south tower, now hidden by scaffolding, await cleansing from hot lime poultices.

Solomon, casting a longing eye over his shoulder at the Queen of Sheba, will lose his black coat of grime in the final phase of a 10-year program of cleaning and conservation.

The aim of the $5.6 million effort, begun in 1976 and funded entirely by voluntary donations, is to preserve what remains of statuary carved in the mid-13th century.

If an arm or leg is missing, so be it. There is no attempt to restore the paint and gilding which once must have dazzled pilgrims. Previous repairs, however well intentioned, are removed.

"Even if we find a Victorian nose or finger, we take it off," said the Rev. Patrick Mitchell, the cathedral's dean. "The policy here is very much to keep what we've got in Wells."

What Wells has is the world's largest collection of Gothic sculpture: 127 life-size or larger statues; 35 scenes from the Bible; 21 busts of angels; 85 panels depicting the resurrection; 12 apostles and more.

The Cathedral Church of St. Andrew, the first English church built entirely in the Gothic style, enjoys a setting of uncommon beauty and serenity in the Mendip Hills 115 miles west of London.

Behind the cathedral are the wells of St. Andrew, springs really, which gave the town its name and which feed the moat around the walled bishop's palace south of the church.

The statues stand in three tiers of covered niches across the 147-foot wide west front, and around the north and east [illegible]

As the cleaning progresses, the pale yellow tones of the locally quarried stone are revealed.

Some statues were lost to wind and weather, some to Puritan rage. By the 1970s, the 297 survivors were in peril.

A photograph taken in 1975 showed St. Matthew with a luxurious double beard. Seven months later, the beard, along with the chin and the lower part of the face, had disintegrated and fallen off.

In the cleansing process, the statues are covered with a thick poultice of hot lime putty, which is kept moist and in place for three weeks. The putty softens dirt and encrustations and draws out acid, while lime — a natural constituent of the stone — seeps in.

The poultice is removed inches at a time, the surface is cleaned with brushes and fine sprays of water, and old repairs are removed. Cracks are filled, and each statue gets a protective spray of lime wash.

Work stops in October, when freezing weather begins to threaten.

Only one of the 13th century statues has been replaced. It was a statue of a king which had acquired a new head and shoulders in the 1840s. Rather than leave an empty niche by removing the repairs, a new figure was commissioned.

The occasional conflicts between the demands of preservation and worship are illustrated by a pair of legs at the summit of the central gable — all that remains of a statue of Christ in Majesty. Carved in the 15th century, the figure apparently succumbed to erosion at least three centuries ago.

The dean hopes to place a new statue there [illegible] he recently told the Friends of Wells Cathedral, "Hackles will be raised."

Mitchell said his sympathies are "95 percent" preservationist, but he explained, "We are also concerned about the Christian message."

For the same reason, a 20th century statue of Christ hangs indoors beneath a 14th century clock, which marks each hour with jousting knights whirling around, knocking each other down. The statue is there, Mitchell noted wryly, "for all the visitors who come to do clock worship in the summer."

The cathedral has dropped earlier plans to put up two new statues above the central door depicting the Coronation of the Virgin. They were decapitated by Oliver Cromwell's iconoclasts in 1685.

"For better or worse," Mitchell said, "This act of vandalism is a part of the history of the cathedral."

Although the statues are the focus of the cleaning project, more money is being spent repairing or replacing mouldings, foilage carving and other stonework around them. New stone, like the original, is quarried eight miles away, in Doulting.

Much of the work is done by cathedral masons, whose own stone yard has been in operation since the cathedral's first stones were laid in 1180.

Funds are being sought to repair the cloister, several glass windows, the cathedral's roof. And there are already plans to put up a scaffold around the smaller central tower in 2010, for routine repairs.

Man Charged In Shootings

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A 25-year-old man charged with the shotgun slayings of a young boy, his mother and a teen-age girl apparently held them captive for 90 minutes before shooting them, police said.

Robert Garcia, held without bail in the Sedgwick County Jail, also was charged with aggravated battery in the wounding of a 23-year-old woman in the attack.

Division Plans Saturday Reunion

Snyder's World War II National Guard unit, Co. G of the 142nd Infantry, 36th Division, will hold its annual reunion Saturday at Western Texas College.

Members of the company are scheduled to begin their annual session at 8 a. m. in the science lecture hall. Their reunion will conclude with dinner in the college cafeteria at 6:30 p.m.

Co. G was mobilized into active service on Nov. 25, 1940, and trained at Camp Bowie in Brownwood. The unit fought first in Africa and then in Italy before it spearheaded the invasion of France and fought for 122 days without relief in Europe.

During 19 months of overseas service, the 36th Division fought in five major campaigns, spent more than 400 days on the front lines and took some 175,000 prisoners of war. They won 14 Medals and 12 distinguished Unit Citations.

All who served in the unit and their friends have been invited to attend the reunion.

Set Powder Puff Mechanics Class

A Powder Puff Mechanics course offering 12 hours of instruction has been scheduled by the continuing education department at Western Texas College.

Classes will meet from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays from Dec. 1-10 in the WTC automotive shop. Fees will be $20 per person, Jerry Dennis, instructor, said.

The course is planned to provide women with basic knowledge of the operation and maintenance of automobiles. Course content includes familiarization with the automobile and identification of and repair of unsafe and substandard operating conditions. Students use their own automobiles for lab and learning activities. Such basic items as changing tires and checking oil will be included in the topics covered.

Persons wishing to enroll are to call the continuing education office at 573-8511, extension 240, to reserve space in the class.

Felines Competing In Roosevelt Meet

ROOSEVELT -- Snyder girls were scheduled against New Deal at 3 today in round one of the Roosevelt High School Tournament here.

The Tigers opened the season by defeating Clyde 53-32 earlier this week.

Winner of the contest is slated to meet the victor of a Roosevelt JV and Idalou game at 3 p.m. Friday. The losers will vie at 9 a.m. Friday.

Saturday's action begins at noon with the consolation matchup, followed by the game for third place at 3 and the championship tilt at 6 p.m.

A boy's tournament will be in conjunction with the tourney. Snyder boys will not compete, however.

AUSTIN -- The 1972 Snyder High School Class 3A state championship volleyball team will be honored here during this year's State Volleyball Tournament, hopefully about an hour and a half after the 1981 Snyder team wins its second straight Class 4A crown.

As a part of between game ceremonies, the 1972 team will be introduced 30 minutes before the scheduled Class A finals match at 6 p.m. Saturday, or approximately 5:30. The team represents the first SHS volleyball team to win a state championship. Snyder also won the 3A title in 1978, the 4A title in 1980, and will compete in this year's tournament.

Snyder is slated against Waxahachie at 3:10 Friday in a first-round match. The finals in Class 4A are set for 3:15 p.m. Saturday.

Among those to be introduced to the fans with the 1972 team will be former SHS coach Pam Hess and principal Ray Courtney. Maiden names of the state-winning squad are Hollye Crenshaw, Norma Duke, Vicki Hinshaw, Penny Jones, captain Janis McMullan, Merilou Moore, Robin Nail, captain Marcia Shields, captain Patti Sims, Sue Jane Sullivan, Terry Watson, and Christy Suttle. Managers were Mary Ann Richardson, Julie Rhodes and Andrea Falls.

Among those team members still living in Snyder are Robin Nail, Penny (Jones) Bane, Norma (Duke) Miller, Vicki (Hinshaw) Johnson, Janis (McMullan) Key, and Sue Jane (Sullivan) Mayes. Coach Hess now teaches history at Lamesa High School.

Snyder's 1972 Class 3A champs constructed an 18-8 record and defeated Lamesa in a playoff to represent the district. The Tigers defeated Graham and Fort Stockton in regional play at Lubbock, and took victories over Dulles-Stafford and Gregory Portland to claim the state crown.

Other championship teams to be introduced during the two-day tournament, all from 1972, include Port Neches-Groves (Port Neches) of 4A, Kountze of 2A, Wink of 1A and Orchard of B.

The tournament is being held at Gregory Gym on the University of Texas campus.

Dusters Top WJC Field: Westerners Ranked 6th

South Plains' men and Western Texas' women are the teams to beat in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference this year, according to a recently compiled Amarillo Globe News basketball poll.

WJCAC coaches gave South Plains College 85 points and six of a possible 10 first-place votes to take the championship by a micro-meter over Midland College in men's loop action. Western Texas' women received 57 points and three first place nods to edge out Howard County College.

Western Texas' Westerners were picked to finish sixth in the men's poll.

Midland got 84 points and three first place votes for second behind SPC, while Odessa received 78 points and the other lone first place vote.

Amarillo is pegged fourth with 50 points, followed by Frank Phillips 46, Western Texas 44, Clarendon 43, New Mexico Military Institute 41, New Mexico Junior College 39 and Howard County 32.

While Howard is picked a somewhat surprising last place in the men's division, its Hawk Queens are expected to battle it out with Western for the women's WJCAC championship. The Queens received 54 points and two first place votes. Amarillo College was the coaches' third choice with 48 points and one vote, just ahead of Odessa, with 46 points and a vote.

Other women's teams are Clarendon with 45 points for fifth, South Plains in sixth with 35, and Frank Phillips in seventh with 30.

Meanwhile, the WJCAC was showing its strength through last Tuesday's games. The men boasted an aggregate 39-12 record with SPC's 6-0 mark leading the way. Midland and Amarillo were also undefeated with 2-0 and 5-0 records, while Odessa and Clarendon had one loss apiece at 2-1 and 6-1. Those with 4-2 records were Western, NMJC and Howard, while Frank Phillips and NMMI were 3-1 apiece.

Only two women's teams have below .500 records after the first three weeks of the season. Howard, though picked second, is a surprising 2-4, while Frank Phillips was 0-4. Western is 5-1, Odessa 4-1 and Clarendon 3-1, with South Plains 5-2 and Amarillo 3-2.

Western Cagers Tourney Bound

BIG SPRING -- Western Texas College sends its basketball teams tourney-bound to Big Spring and Waco this weekend, with the women tipping off the action today.

The Dusters, 5-1, recently won the Cisco Classic in Cisco and try to make it two in a row as they invade Big Spring for the Hawk Queen Classic, hosted by Howard College.

Western Texas was to play Ranger Junior College in the tournament opener at 2 p.m. today; a team the Dusters have already defeated 63-46.

At 4, McLennan Community College of Waco takes on Odessa College, followed by games at 6 featuring Temple and Abilene Christian University and at 8 featuring Weatherford and the hosting Hawk Queens.

Winner of the WTC-Ranger contest will advance to second round play to meet the MCC-OC victor at 6 Friday. The losers of the first round play each other at 2 Friday.

Saturday's action begins at 1 p.m. with a game for seventh place and continues at 3 with consolation, at 5 with the third place game and at 7 with the championship game.

WTC's Westerners are slated in the McLennan Community College Classic in Waco on Friday and Saturday. The Westerners play Temple Junior College at 7 p.m. Friday and Wharton Junior College at 5 p.m. Saturday.

FCA Chapter Meets

The Cowboy Chapter of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes will meet tonight at 7 in the Union Community Center.

Guest Speaker will be Kent Youngblood, PRCA cowboy from Lamesa.

Entertainment will be provided by Mr. and Mrs. Gary Jones and family of Lamesa.

Everyone is invited to the meeting.

Tickets On Sale For Grid Banquet

Today was to be the final chance for football fans to purchase tickets to the Snyder High School Football Banquet, sponsored by the SHS Football Booster Club.

The banquet, featuring former University of Arizona head football coach Tony Mason as the speaker, will be held 7 p.m. Saturday at Snyder Country Club.

Tickets, at $6 per person, may be purchased at Snyder Athletic Center.

Tigers To Challenge Big Spring Club At 8

BIG SPRING -- Snyder boys take a step upward tonight as they challenge Big Spring's Steers at 8 o'clock here. A junior varsity game will be held at 6:15.

Snyder tipped off its 1981-82 season Tuesday with a 53-46 win over Abilene Cooper - the first of four 5-5A schools the Tigers will meet this year in regular action. According to first-year coach Larry Scott, Snyder's opponents in that regard will get tougher each time out.

"Abilene Cooper isn't as strong a team this year as they've been in the past," he said. "Big Spring is expected to be a little better (than Cooper) according to what I've heard. They'll be quicker, I'm sure. This (Cooper) may be the only team we'll face this year that we're quicker than."

Snyder plays Abilene High Nov. 24 and Midland Lee on Dec. 1.

"Abilene High is supposed to be one of the better teams in that district and Midland Lee is picked to win it, so we'll kind of step up each time we play one of those (5-5A) teams," he grinned.

Big Spring is expected to be without its standout, Bobby Earl Williams, who is reportedly suffering from a knee injury.

"Williams is one of the key players for Big Spring, but I'm sure they'll have some good replacements for him," added Scott. "We expect they'll have a pretty good ballclub. They usually do."

Republicans To Avert Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans, trying to avert a veto of a stopgap spending resolution, are pressing President Reagan to accept deeper reductions in military spending in exchange for further cuts in domestic programs.

Senate Republican leader Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee set a vote today on a proposal to trim an estimated $3.6 billion from the stopgap measure, which must be enacted by midnight Friday to keep the government from technically running out of money.

Republicans were meeting privately before today's legislative session to discuss the situation.

Baker's proposal, designed to meet Reagan's conditions for additional spending cuts, would exclude reductions in defense beyond the $2 billion the president requested in September.

Congressional sources who asked not to be identified said Wednesday that Baker and other GOP leaders still were hoping Reagan would agree to further reductions in the military budget. If the president acquieses, the sources said, it would be easier for Baker to win approval of his proposed reduction in domestic programs.

Republican Senate sources have conceded that a veto, the first of Reagan's presidency, is likely without further cuts. Reagan, retreating from his initial request for a 12 percent across-the-board reduction, said Tuesday that he would be satisfied with a 5 percent cut.

"Baker would not bring the amendment up if he did not feel he could pass it," said one official, who asked to remain anonymous.

But the official, noting the proposal also would need approval from the Democratic controlled House, said, "We're still a long way from home."

The House on Monday passed a $415.4 billion measure that Democrats say encompasses the 5 percent cuts that Reagan wants and in, many cases, his original request for a 12 percent reduction.

The Senate Appropriations Committee said the measure it brought to the full Senate called for $417.4 billion in spending, or $2.2 billion more than the president's request.

But administration officials challenged those estimates, saying that while the bills might be close to Reagan's overall request, they were several billion dollars too high on the domestic programs the president wants cut.

By administration estimates, the Senate bill exceeds Reagan's request by $5.9 billion — meaning that so far, the Republican-controlled Senate has given the president only $2.5 billion of the $8.4 billion in cuts he requested on Sept. 24.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said Wednesday that, in any case, Reagan will reject the bill "to get a headline."

Explosives Are Blown Up

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP) — What happens when 10,000 pounds of explosives are detonated inside a military aircraft shelter? It blows up, obviously.

But the Department of Defense looks beyond the obvious.

At a cost of $4.5 million, the department blew up a shelter and an airplane Wednesday so that experts could study the rubble to see exactly what effects the explosion had.

The test was part of the DOD Explosives Safety Board's evaluation of the safety of aircraft shelters, which store planes and bombs throughout Europe.

Defense officials say they think current criteria for locating shelters away from expensive equipment and population centers are too strict. They hope the tests will allow those criteria to be relaxed, which would mean lower realestate costs.

There is a shortage of cowboys in Wyoming. More cowboys are riding off the range each year, according to the State Employment Service. In the past five years the number of cowboys in the state has fallen from 6,000 to 4,000 because they are being lured into mining and oil jobs.

Plans For Missiles

designed to cloak an American attempt to gain military superiority "through the back door."

The Soviets also said the plan was designed to trick it into unilateral disarmament in Europe because the United States would be left with a preponderance of European-based aircraft with nuclear capability.

The State Department said the Soviet reaction was "unfortunate and regrettably inaccurate."

"We hope that as the Soviets consider the president's proposal, they will come to accept the need to reach an agreement based on equality," it said.

A U.S. official, who asked not to be identified, said that while the Soviets probably will discuss Reagan's plan, they are likely to try to "drag out" the talks past the time scheduled to prepare for actual deployment of 572 U.S. Cruise and Pershing II missiles, starting in late 1983.

OBITUARIES

Betty Ryan

Funeral service has been set for 10 a. m. Friday in the Johnson Funeral Home Chapel in San Angelo for Betty Ryan, 44, a former Snyder resident. She died Wednesday in a San Angelo hospital, following a long illness.

She is survived by a daughter, Mary Ryan of San Angelo; a son, Bobby Ryan of San Angelo; her mother, Mrs. Grace Cranfill of Snyder; a sister, Mrs. Juanita Farquhar of Snyder; and two brothers, Don Cranfill and Clinton Cranfill, both of Abilene.

Local Firemen Are Kept Busy

Snyder firemen answered five fire calls on an unusually busy Wednesday afternoon.

At 1:35 p.m., firemen were called to the scene of a fire in a silage pit 15 miles northeast of town.

Between 2:50 p.m. and 2:35 a.m. Thursday morning, Snyder firefighters extinguished four cotton burr fires around the county. The first occured about 3 miles north of Hermleigh and it was followed by fires at the gin on the Roby highway, the Paymaster Gin and one about 5 miles north of town on Ennis Creek road.

No serious damage or injuries were reported in any of these incidents.

Police Probe Assault Tale

Snyder police officers investigated one assault and two minor traffic accidents Wednesday.

At 9:23 p.m. last evening, officers received a report of a woman lying in the street at the intersection of Gilmore and Ave. W. Upon arriving at the scene, officers discovered a woman lying in the street at that location. She had been assaulted and suffered a stab wound.

Acting on information from a unidentified individual at the Texaco Truckstop on U. S. 84, local officers and a unit of the Texas Highway Patrol arrested a suspect in the incident about one hour later.

In other action, officers investigated a minor hit and run accident in the 3400 block of Ave. C. In this mishap, a parked 1975 Ford pickup owned by Robert Hood was struck by a vehicle which then left the scene. Only minor damaged were reported in this mishap.

Officers also investigated another collision involving a parked car. At 12:37 a.m., police were called to the Texaco Truckstop where a 1975 Pontiac driven by Johnny Hermisillo was in collision with a parked 1975 Chevrolet owned by Nina M. Holt. Only minor damage was reported.

Police also made two other arrests Wednesday. Local officers arrested one subject wanted on a warrant from Post and collared another subject on charges of public intoxication.

Arrested Several Times...

Unemployed Laborer Is Loved For Opera Singing

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Anthony "Hercules" Garofalo ignored the gathering crowd including policemen with bullhorns. From his perch atop a gasoline storage tank, he expanded his barrel chest and launched into Verdi's "Deserto sulla Terra."

Garofalo, his powerful tenor voice competing with the commotion below, sang through the hot summer night, drawing from his wide repertoire of opera music.

The 40-year-old unemployed laborer finally climbed down at dawn, to applause from onlookers, and was whisked away by authorities.

The police, who thought they had a jumper on their hands, "sometimes don't appreciate opera," Garofalo said recently of his July 13 performance.

Garofalo, nicknamed "Hercules" for his feats of strength as a weight-lifter, is a legend in this city's Italian neighborhoods for his ability to lift cars and bend steel bars.

But he is loved for his opera singing.

For the past 20 years, the 40-year-old unemployed laborer has used the area's streets and high towers as an opera house, his rich voice treating passersby to arias from "William Tell," "Tosca" and "Otello."

"He has one of the most gorgeous voices I've ever heard," said Mary Langdon, a voice coach at the University of Rhode Island's Music Department. "It's a natural, God-given type of voice, a real robust tenor."

Marguerite Ruffino-Conner, artistic director of the Providence Opera, remembers first hearing Garofalo's voice from her hotel room in downtown Providence 10 years ago.

"This guy used to serenade from the sidewalk," she said. "He had a beautiful voice. It's a pity he never did anything with it."

To some, that doesn't matter.

"He makes people feel good, and that's all too rare in today's society," said William Tocco, police chief in nearby Johnston.

His men, along with Providence police, have arrested Garofalo more than once on disturbing the peace and trespass charges. "But I personally like the guy. He's harmless and he makes people laugh," Tocco said.

But Garofalo, a gentle, almost child-like man, has a problem. For all his strength and talent, he is terrified of the stage, and has never been able to perform before a formal audience.

"His eccentric shyness goes way back. As a kid, he used to sneak down into the school boiler room to sing," said his friend Vincent Fraioli.

Garofalo said his parents were not enthusiastic about his singing and neither were his teachers.

"They should have encouraged me, you know, as a special student. But in them days they didn't realize nothing," he said.

Fraioli, a music teacher and composer, has taken Garofalo under his wing, encouraging him to overcome his stage fright and enroll for voice lessons in Boston.

"I'm 40 years old," Garofalo says. "I'm getting too old now. I probably should have started earlier."

Ms. Ruffino-Conner agrees. "Last time I heard him he was a little rough. Besides, it takes years to become an opera singer, and a good voice is only part of it."

Garofalo's stunt last summer on the storage tank was, like the others, a way to relieve his compelling need to sing.

"When I was up there, I felt so good. I felt I was doing great," he said. "I was above everything. It was a great release.

"People the next day, they said 'Hey Herc, we heard you from two, three miles away.' It was so thrilling."

Angelo Marinosci, a Providence photographer, remembers the time years ago when he saw Garofalo "on the roof of a car barreling down the street at a hundred miles an hour singing opera."

Garofalo, who calls his talent a "curse" that must be fed, recalls singing arias from Verdi and Rossini on the sagging stage of the old Capitol Theater when it was being torn down. "I like to make believe," he said.

His roots in opera run deep.

His great-uncle, Giuseppe Martino-Rossi, was a baritone who performed on stages in New England and New York.

"We've all had vocal talents, but along wih Giuseppe, Anthony really turned out to be the prize," said Mike Garofalo, Anthony's uncle and a Providence barber. Opera music, he said is always playing in Garofalo households.

His nephew, the barber said, should have pursued his talent, especially after he was encouraged in 1966 to do so by the great Italian tenor, Giovanni Martinelli.

The younger Garofalo recalled his visit with Martinelli in New York and sadly shook his head.

"I sang for him. I sang from Puccini's 'Tosca,' from Giordano's 'Fedora.' He was impressed," he said. "He told me to come back and he would teach me a few tricks I never did."

Montemayor Family...

Landmark Case To Jury

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A federal court jury has heard two conflicting descriptions of the Montemayor family — either as high stakes heroin dealers or as successful construction company executives.

Jurors will decide today whether federal narcotics agents were justified in seizing close to $1 million in property on an April 28 raid on two McAllen homes belonging to brothers Matias and Benito Montemayor.

The agents obtained seizure orders under a 1978 civil law that allows confiscation without a hearing of goods purchased with profits from drug deals.

Agents from the federal Drug Enforcement Agency have testified that the Montemayors run a large heroin pipeline from Mexico to Chicago and Detroit.

The case of the Montemayors, who are Mexican nationals, is considered a test of the controversial law. The outcome is expected to be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Michael Guinan of Chicago, the Montemayors' lawyer, has challenged the constitutionality of the law and has charged federal agents with overstepping their authority in the seizure.

Matias Montemayor is in custody on an unrelated firearms charge. He has sat through the three days of testimony near his wife, Carmen, who was deported to Mexico as an illegal alien after the April raid.

Benito Montemayor has been at large since October, when he was named in a criminal complaint charging him with cocaine dealing. His wife, Eva, took the stand Wednesday.

She testified that her husband had legitimate sources of income from Montesa, a Mexican construction company, and a ranch in the Mexican state of Nuevo Leon.

She said after acquiring the Mexican ranch in a land grant program in 1975, the family cleared a $35,000 profit after one year.

Martin Perjury Trial To Move From Austin

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Rep. Mike Martin's aggravated perjury trial will be moved away from Austin because the prosecution has decided not to fight the lawmaker's change of venue motion.

A pretrial hearing was set for today to hear several motions, including Martin's request to be tried elsewhere. State District Judge Mace Thurman "automatically" will grant the request because the prosecution will not object, according to Assistant District Attorney Bill Willms.

The trial was set for Dec. 7, but could be delayed because of the move.

Martin, R-Longview, was indicted for allegedly lying to Travis County grand jurors when he told them he did not stage his own July 31 shooting.

Defense lawyer Frank Maloney told Thurman that Martin could not get a fair trial in Travis or any of the surrounding counties because of extensive publicity. Willms, contending Martin could get a fair trial here, initially promised to fight the move.

However, on Wednesday he said he had changed his mind "out of an abundance of precaution."

"Our position is he (Martin) can still get a fair trial here in Travis County. We're also sure he can get a fair trial any place else in Texas. The thinking is why take any chances with it. We just want to try this case once," said Willms.

A defendant has a right to have his trial moved if there is no objection from the prosecution, according to Willms. Thurman will pick the location, he said.

The defense, anticipating a battle on the venue question, subpoenaed about 45 Austin area reporters and news executives in an effort to show the amount of publicity about the case.

Martin was wounded in the elbow by shotgun fire during the early morning horus of July 31. He first said he did not know who shot him. Later he offered a story concerning hitmen from an occult group. In another story, Martin said the shooting was related to Gregg County politics.

Charles Goff, Martin's cousin, said Martin hired him to do the shooting in an incident staged as a publicity stunt. Martin denied that story, but the indictment alleged the lawmaker did stage the shooting.

18 Killed In Grandstand Fall

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Part of a concrete grandstand collapsed at a packed soccer stadium just before a semifinal game in the national soccer championship Wednesday night, killing at least 18 people and injuring several others, authorities said.

A spokesman at the local hospital confirmed that 18 people were dead and at least another 18 injured.

Police said the accident happened in the stadium at Ibague, 80 miles southwest of here, as an Ibague team and one from Cali were preparing to start the game.

The stadium has a capacity of 25,000 and police said it was filled. They said the casualty figures could rise.

Witnesses said one of the supports of the western grandstand broke and part of the stand fell over the fans.

The match was suspended.

Last year, the stadium was closed for several weeks after one of the stands collapsed while the stadium was empty.

Court To Hear Controllers In Canada

OTTAWA (AP) — The Supreme Court of Canada agreed to hear an appeal from air traffic controllers against a court decision the government used to take away their right to strike.

Bill Robertson, president of the 2,200-member Canadian Air Traffic Control Association, said the appeal may be heard as early as January. The union is appealing a federal court decision that said the government rsther than the Public Service Staff Relations Board has the right to decide how many air traffic controllers are designated "essential" and barred from striking for safety and security reasons.
