ANSWERLINE

Q. Does Colorado ISD pay for their high school coaches to go to college football games?

A. According to Colorado ISD superintendent Don Nimmo, all staff members of the school district are encouraged to attend clinics and seek 'positive activity' in their field.

The district provides transportation to such activities, but does not pay any expenses.

Feds charge fraud in check 'kite' scheme

Fraud charges were filed against four persons associated with First Western Savings and Loan Association of Colorado City (First Western), in Dallas on Wednesday.

Neva C. Turner, Roy and Katy Byrd, and Marilyn Roberts were charged by the Department of Justice and have agreed to plead guilty to charges of bank fraud and conspiracy to commit bank fraud, according to information released by the department.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Jon L. Gant said that several aspects of the investigation being continued and that further indictments may follow.

One aspect of the ongoing investigation deals with illegal loan proceeds in the amount of $736,000 that Federal officials seized last November from several brokerage accounts at Prudential-Bache Securities in Dallas.

Gant would not comment on the pending investigation, other than to note that it was ongoing.

The two-count information - similar to an indictment, but used when a case is not taken to grand jury - was filed against Turner in U.S. District Court in Dallas.

Turner is a former chief executive officer and executive vice president of First Western.

The other three who were charged are former employees of First Western.

Turner and Katy Byrd face maximum sentences of 10 years in prison and/or fines of $500,000 or twice the gain or loss caused, the Dallas Bank Fraud Task Force (Task Force) reported.

Roberts and Roy Byrd face maximum sentences of five years in prison and/or fines of $250,000 or twice the gain or loss caused, the report indicates.

The charges are the result of a continuing investigation of suspected fraud in the Texas savings and loan industry being conducted by the Task Force.

Turner and others associated with or employed at First Western, including Roy and Katy Byrd and Marilyn Roberts, initiated a scheme to use First Western funds to make personal investments in the stock market and keep the profit as their own, a Task Force release said.

The Task Force release said that more than $500,000 was defrauded from First Western by using overdrafts to purchase stock and then concealing the scheme through the use of internal check kiting and false journal entries.

Between March 1985 and July 1987, hundreds of checks were written on various personal accounts knowing that the accounts had insufficient funds to cover the checks.

The checks were used to fund stock purchases at a brokerage firm in Amarillo, Texas, and were paid by First Western at the direction of Turner the report states.

The individual accounts were consolidated into a single account in the name of Western Crest Inc.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation seized over $102,000 in May 1991 - the account balance - pursuant to a warrant sought by the Task Force.

Business tax rate adjusted by CISD

Businesses will notice an increase in their school taxes next year as voters approved exemptions which will lower the tax bill for residential homeowners.

Colorado ISD board members are considering a rate of .455 per one hundred dollars of valuation, and will meet on Sept 23 to set a tax rate for the district.

The Mitchell County Education District (CED) has set a tax rate at 77 cents per $100 of valuation.

The rates of these two entities when combined will result in the 'school tax rate' of $1.225 per $100 of valuation.

The average tax roll value on businesses in Mitchell County for this year is $78,000, according to Appraisal District figures.

The school taxes on a $78,000 business will be $955.50.

The total is arrived at by adding the Colorado ISD taxes of $354.90 and the CED taxes of $600.60 together.

Last year, a business with a value of $78,000 would have paid Colorado ISD taxes of $822.90.

Because the tax roll has seen a devaluation of approximately 5 percent, a business that now has a value of $78,000 would have probably had a previous year value of closer to $81,900.

A business with a value of $81,900 would have been billed for taxes of $864.04 by the Colorado ISD in 1990.

Home owners will see a break in their taxes, even though the school tax rates have gone up.

Appraisal board meets

Approval of the 1991-92 budget in the amount of $181,000 and a request concerning 9-1-1 maintenance faced board members of the Mitchell County Appraisal District at Thursday nights meeting.

Board members were told that the 1991-92 budget was "within a few dollars of last year's."

Employees of the district will receive a 2.7 - 3.3 percent raise under the plan to go into effect as of the first of the year.

This year's budget lists an increase due to the requirement need of a mapping computer and printer that is needed by the district.

Board member Warren Lee Zant expressed concern of the pay increase noted in the budget and noted that, "Very few taxpayers had an increase in salary in the past year."

With no other comments, the

Figures on a $50,000 home reveal that even without an elderly or disabled exemption, taxes would fall from the 1990 billing of $474.75 to 1991's combined CED and Colorado ISD taxation of $451.15, even if the value of the house did not dip on the tax roll.

Exemptions and an approximate 5 percent valuation drop across the county will lower the residential homeowner's rates even further.

A homeowner over aged 65 would see taxes fall from 1990's $369.25 to this year's billing of $313.25.

FRAUD

These funds were forfeited to the United States as a result of bank fraud.

Turner and others engaged in a "check kite" scheme between and among themselves in order to conceal their actions.

One of the conspirators would write a check to another for the amount of the overdraft in the latter's account at the end of each month.

This would temporarily cover the negative amount and indicate a balanced account on the books.

The check would be "floated" until it became necessary to cover that check.

The process would then be repeated using another's account.

This domino effect was executed regularly in order to make it appear that the accounts balanced.

These fictitious paper transactions were designed to conceal the true negative nature of the account balances and the existence of the investment program.

The conspirators also used fictitious journal entries to clear overdraft negative balances in addition to the check kiting.

Turner authorized false journal entries in the various accounts which made it appear as though deposits were made to balance the account while no monies were in actuality deposited.

The entries were merely an accounting fiction designed to "cook the books" and make it appear to regulators that the accounts balanced.

The defendants have agreed to cooperate fully with federal authorities in their continuing investigation of First Western and have agreed to make restitution to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) for losses suffered as a result of their misconduct.

The investigation dealing with the aspect of the case involving Prudential-Bache Securities in Dallas deals with illegal loan proceeds.

It has been reported in a U.S. Attorney's from the Dallas office that the former chief executive officer and vice president of First Western initiated a plan to remove a growing number of problem loans from the books.

When a loan secured by property or business defaulted and First Western was faced with repossession, a plan was devised to have shell corporations purchase the properties or businesses.

The plan provided that the borrowers, in conjunction with receiving new loans for the purchase of the non-performing assets, would receive additional loan funds which were placed into brokerage accounts, first with one brokerage firm and then later with Prudential-Bache.

The funds were invested in the names of the shell corporations, but account statements were sent directly to First Western.

Bank officers allegedly retained discretionary use of the funds.

Brokerage funds were supposed to pay off the underlying loans as well as the brokerage loans, but this did not happen.

Funds were occasionally used for unrelated purposes or to make payments on other delinquent loans at First Western.

The true nature of the non-performing loans was misrepresented to federal regulators. Records reflect that all funds invested in these accounts were First Western loan proceeds.

Despite fluctuating balances in the accounts as a result of brokerage activity, balances never exceeded the amounts originally established by loan proceeds.

The brokerage activity or withdrawals resulted in the accounts declining to the levels present at the time of seizure.

The remaining account balances were traceable to possible criminal violations.

The case is being handled by Assistant United States Attorney Jon L. Gant and Fraud Section Attorney Karen L. Taylor of the Dallas Bank Task Force.

The Task Force includes attorneys from the Dallas Regional Office of the Fraud Section, Criminal Division; attorneys from the Tax Division; Assistant United States Attorneys from the Northern District of Texas; examiners from the Office of Thrift Supervision; and special agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Internal Revenue Service and the United States Secret Service.

Charges have been brought against 119 defendants so far by the Task Force with 93 persons being convicted.

budget was taken for a vote and approved by the board members.

County Assessor/Collector, Mike Burt, told the board that the budget would be sent to the taxing entities for their approval.

The proportion that the entities pay will not be available until after the tax rolls are completed and mailed out, Burt said.

After the completion of the rolls the jurisdictions portion will be divided out - as by state mandates - and the billing of appraisal district budget requirements can be made.

In other action:

Karen Holman, 9-1-1 rural addressing coordinator for the county, met with board members to discuss the standards that have been adopted by the county for her job.

She asked the board to consider the appraisal district as a site for being a continual maintenance center for the 9-1-1 addressing after the completion of her initial work.

The initial addressing for the 9-1-1 system is expected to be completed by November 1 of this year and the system is expected to go on-line at the first of the year, board members were told.

The maps and information that has been accumulated by the rural addressing project will need to be housed and continual maintenance will be required.

The board discussed the possibility of housing the project - which would involve giving addresses to new structures in the rural parts of the county - in the appraisal district, but made no decision.

More information dealing with what other counties are doing and the requirements of time and expense for the district were sought by the board.

The board called for an election of board of director members, approved payment of bills and the minutes of the May 23 meeting in their business session.

Board chairman Ronald Bruce, secretary Eddie Gregory and directors Frank Brownfield, Warren Lee Zant and Ed Roach were in attendance at the regular stated meeting. Vice chairman Elmer Martin and directors Dickey White and Mike Hemphill were absent.

Drug, alcohol problems exist in county

Alcohol and drug abuse remain a constant and serious problem in the nation and locally in Mitchell County.

Deputy Phillip Rodriguez said that according to a survey in 1990 by the Texas Commission on alcohol and drug abuse, 81 percent of secondary students have drunk alcohol in their lifetime.

One-fourth of all secondary school students (forty percent of the seniors) have used some illicit drug during their lifetime. "Almost one out of ten seniors had trouble with the law because of drinking or drug use or one out of 10 has at least tried crack or cocaine," Rodriguez reported.

Sixteen percent of the students surveyed in 1990 have used illicit substances on three or more occasions, indicating more than mere experimental use. Lifetime alcohol use among seventh graders has increased from 59 percent in 1988 to 69 percent in 1990.

Rodriguez says that young people who experiment with drugs begin with specific drugs which "lead" or "open the gate" to increased use of these specific drugs or use of a wider range of drugs.

Tobacco, alcohol, marijuana, and inhalants are identified as "get away drugs."

"The middle school child who experiments with tobacco is faced with approximately one-to-three odds of developing nicotine dependence," Rodriguez explained.

Of youths who experiment with only five to ten cigarettes, nearly 85 percent will become habitual smokers, according to information released by the Texas War On Drugs. 12 to 17 year olds who are current smokers are twice as likely to be current users of alcohol.

Youths may become alcoholics (dependent upon alcohol) in 6 months to 3 years versus the 10-15 year pattern of adults.

Excluding cigarettes or alcohol, which are illegal to youths, the first universally illegal drug most often

STOP 1 -PLANTING RATE TRIAL, FERTILIZATION TRIAL, GROWTH REGULATOR TRIAL -Gerry and Ray Ritchey

This stop on the tour offers three different trials to look at. The planting rate trial was planted with a 48 cell cotton plate in a John Deere 6100 planter. The planting rates range from 12 pounds to 26 pounds per acre. The fertility trial shows the difference between no fertilizer, a common rate of fertilizer and double the common rate. The trial has a check plot, a common rate plot of 20-10-0 at 180 pounds per acre and double rate plot of 360 pound pt./acre of 20-10-0. The plant growth regulator trial consist of skipping 6 rows of cotton for a check plot and spraying 3 ounces of the growth regulator PIX R on the remaining cotton on August 17, 1991. This field was planted on June 15, 1991 with Tamcot CAB CS variety cotton.

STOP 2 -CRP CONTRACT -Curtis Latimer
There are over 46,000 acres of highly erodible land enrolled in the conserv Mitchell County. A mixture of native grasses planted in two consecutive years.

STOP 4 -COTTON VARIETY DEMONSTRATIONS -Russell Erwin

Farmers are paid a premium for their cotton if the fiber has additional strength. This trial was planted on May 21, 1991 with 11 varieties that should possess added strength to the cotton fiber. There are many different cotton varieties available to the farmer and using one that produces the most saleable products is one of several important factors in producing cotton.

STOP 5 -PRESCRIBED BURN -Russell Erwin/Max Caswell

STOP 3 -COTTON VARIETY DEMONSTRATIONS -Todd Shaw
The 14 varieties planted in Todd Shaw's demonstration is intended to determine which varieties possess the most fiber strength. Also, because most of the varieties in this trial are longer season, this trial will determine which varieties can reach maturity in time to produce a favorable yield.
This field was planted relatively late on June 13, 1991.

STOP 6 -COTTON VARIETY DEMONSTRATION -Alton Raschke
The weather in West Texas has always been unpredictable. Because farmers on the Rolling Plains have a relatively short growing season, it is important to select cotton varieties that reach maturity as soon as possible. This has proved to be very true this year with many fields not planted until late June. Alton Raschke's variety trial includes 10 varieties that show early maturity characteristics. This test was planted on May 28, 1991.

Colorado City Wolves claim first victory, beat Stanton 9-0

Nine unanswered second quarter points gave Coach Tom Ramsey what he described as a "wide angle lens smile," as the Colorado City Wolves beat the Buffaloes by a score of 9-0 in Stanton.

Mark Smith put the Wolves on the board with 3:54 remaining in the second quarter to put Colorado City on the board and Frank Briseno completed the nights scoring minutes later by adding 3 points on a 35 yard field goal as the first half expired.

Chris Williams carried the ball 14 times for 70 yards and Coty Strain carried 14 times for 57 yards to ignite time consuming drives in a game plan that had to be changed due to the ankle injury of Kevin Green which kept him out of Friday nights game.

Both teams were forced to punt the ball away on their first possession of the game.

Stanton started their second possession of the game at their own 29 yard line and worked the ball to the Colorado City 3 before fumbling on a forth down and 2.

The Wolves moved the ball out to the 31 yard line but were forced to punt the ball back to the Buffaloes, but they got the ball back when the Wolves defense stood up to the call again and sacked quarterback Jay Huckaby for a 9 yard loss on a forth down attempt.

Colorado City came to the field again and was forced to punt the ball back after three plays.

Stanton moved the ball backwards in their next possession.

Rick Posey stepped back on forth down to punt, but he fumbled the ball and Mark Smith of the Colorado City Wolves recovered the ball at the Stanton 15 with just under 7 minutes left in the first half.

It took Colorado City four plays to score on Mark Smith's five yard scamper.

Coach Ramsey described the play as an "outside veer into trips, that had caught the Buffaloes misaligned."

Smith went into the end zone untouched.

The extra point was missed, partly due to the Wolves only having 10 people on the field.

Stanton ran just three plays after receiving the kickoff, then punted the ball back to the Wolves.

Colorado City started the drive at their 48 yard line and in the space of a minute had moved the ball down to the 26 yard line.

The drive was marked by a 9 yard run by Tracy Lentz and two pass receptions, one by David Castillo for 4 yards and one to Mark Monroe for 22 yards to set the ball close enough for Briseno to try a field goal as the clock was stopped with :03 seconds in the first half.

Coach Ramsey noted that Briseno was "playing with a sore toe on his kicking foot."

The second half was controlled by the Wolves time consuming running attack and a denial defense.

Colorado City charged for 108 of their 157 total rushing yards on 27 second half rushes.

Chris Williams, Coty Strain and Mark Smith carried the ball on drives and the defense prevailed to keep the ball away from Stanton for all but 7 minutes of the second half.

Colorado City started their most impressive drive of the game from their own 20 yard line with 11:51 remaining in the game.

The Wolves ran 13 running plays and got the ball all the way down to the Stanton 19 yard line before a penalty thwarted the progress.

Colorado City ended up going for 4th and 15 at the Stanton 25 with 4:29 remaining.

Stanton had the ball for only three plays before giving the ball back on a punt that Mark Monroe returned to the Stanton 10 yard line.

The Wolves kept the ball on the ground and moved the ball down to the 5 yard line before turning the ball over on downs with :45 seconds remaining in the contest.

Colorado City is now 1-1 on the season and Stanton of district 6-2A falls to 0-2.

The next action for the Wolves will be Friday night as the Slaton Tigers come to town.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

DEAN WILLIAMSON

There's a serious problem I feel you should be aware of! There's a shortage of qualified limousine drivers in Mitchell County. I don't have much time to hunt for a qualified driver, since I need one by the end of the month. That's when 'my' $10,000,000 should be showing up.

The trouble in Mitchell County was compounded this week when I found out that my special friend - Robert H. Treller - has more money than he evidently knows what to do with.

Imagine my surprise when I found out that I'm not the only one 'guaranteed' to win ten million dollars.

It seems that some other people in Mitchell County have been contacted and - just like me - been guaranteed of an inside path to winning ten million dollars.

Good 'ol Robert H. Treller must be one heck of a guy!

Besides being interested in us riding around in limousines and taking trips to paradise, he wants us to be up on current events.

That's the only reason I can come up with him wanting us to subscribe to a magazine.

After the winnings start rolling in and we begin spending our time jetting back and forth between exclusive hideaways - that we've only seen before on The Lifestyles of the Rich and Famous - it might be to our advantage to read some of the magazines so we can impress our new jet setting pals with our current events knowledge.

It sure is nice to have someone such as the Publisher's Clearing House to be involved in such a literacy program.

It is probably a serious problem, people probably get ten million dollars and forget to renew their magazine subscriptions.

I didn't know that it was part of a literacy program until I got to thinking about it.

I had gone ahead and announced my good fortune last week, so it wouldn't take anyone by surprise when I showed up at the Wolves games in a chauffeured limousine.

But the elation of being the 'only' $10,000,000 winner didn't last long. Georgie Griffith informed me that she has also received the same letter and is 'guaranteed' - just like me - of being a winner.

It didn't take long before I ran into Joan Beach. She not only told me that she is a 'guaranteed' winner, but is already a member of the prestigious Presidents Club that I have just recently been nominated for membership inclusion. I looked around the court house for her President's Club BMW, but couldn't find it. I began to feel that something had to be wrong.

By the time I got back to the office I had talked to several others who had been contacted and heard that at least three residents at the Loraine Senior Citizen Center are also 'guaranteed' winners.

I thought; just what in the heck is going on? And what is this Robert H. Treller doing? He was supposed to be pulling some strings to get me on the list.

It was then I decided that Publisher's Clearing House has devised a great literacy program!

The fact that they are interested in multi-millionaires having something to read impresses me.

I started to wonder if something could be amiss with the program. But I didn't have much time, I quickly realized that there would be a lot of money and limousines coming into town the next few months.

I decided that I had better go ahead and hire a driver, knowing that there will be a last minute hiring rush as the limos begin pouring into town.

That's when I came across the pressing problem. I'm not exactly sure of what to do. I've found out that I may be forced to drive my own limo! Why have all the possible drivers received the same letters?
