Yeats named parade marshal

Entries being accepted now

By BILL McCLELLAN
Managing Editor

Christmas Through the Ages is the theme for this year's Big Spring Herald Community Christmas Parade, set for Saturday, Dec. 7. "We believe our theme this year opens the door for just about any type float imaginable," said Rick Nunez, Herald advertising manager and parade coordinator. "Ideas that come to mind are a Model T Christmas scene, a nativity scene, the Roaring 20's, a sock hop — just any decade or year your group would like to concentrate on. And, this fits with the Heritage Museum, which is planning a 1930s and 40s Christmas 'Tree Forest.' Categories are Individual/Family, Civic/School, Commercial, Individual and Mounted.

Prizes include:

- Best of Show, $100, for best interpretation of theme,
- Publisher's Award, $75 for best use of lighting,
- * Grand Marshal's Award,

$50, for best costuming.

Speaking of the grand marshal, District Judge Tim Yeats has agreed to serve in that capacity this year.

"We are pleased the Honorable Mr. Yeats has agreed to be our grand marshal. He's well known in the community and a very active proponent of Big Spring and Howard County," said Nunez.

Parade entry forms are available in most issues of the Herald. They should be filled out and brought in to the SAND SPRINGS — Howard County Sheriff's Office is investigating a shooting early Saturday which left one man dead.

Commissioners ready to OK tax rate Monday

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

Howard County commissioners are expected to formally approve a 3-cent tax rate increase when they meet at 10 a.m. Monday on the third floor of the county courthouse.

After much debate, commissioners recently reached tentative agreement on a tax rate of 36 cents per $100 valuation, which is 3 cents above the expiring rate but will bring in the same amount of revenue as the previous fiscal year.

Commissioners had seriously considered a tax rate of 38.7 cents per $100 valuation, mainly because of the uncertain fiscal climate facing the county. Mineral values, which had been expected to increase this year, instead went down and there was no guarantee they would stabilize in the near future. However, commissioners backed away from the idea and decided to go with the proposed rate.

Adopting the new rate means the county would have to go with a deficit budget this coming fiscal year, but County Auditor Jackie Olson said the shortfall can be handled by reserve funds.

The recently adopted county budget features several new expenditures, including $500,000 to pay the county's share of costs for a new landfill and an increase of more than $240,000 to help pay for ambulance services.

The major increased expense, however, is in

Howard College to add district dean position

By STEVE REAGAN

Staff Writer

Howard College trustees are close to naming a new dean who will be responsible for teaching and learning throughout the junior college district.

Trustees will consider naming a District Dean for Teaching and Learning when they hold their monthly meeting at 12:30 p.m. Monday in the student union building's Tumbleweed Room.

College President Dr. Cheryl Sparks said five candidates — all from within the HC system — have interviewed for the position.

The new dean will have a wide range of responsibilities, Sparks said.

"The position will be involved in professional development and planning for faculty ... and will work with deans at the individual campuses on curriculum design and development."

With more and more emphasis being placed on student success rates, Sparks said it was necessary to create the new position.

"This is a variation on the traditional dean of instruc-

Pa. man charged with DUI on riding lawn mower

MURRYSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — A western Pennsylvania man has been charged with driving drunk while carrying an open can of beer — on a riding lawn mower.

Murrysville police say they found 55-year-old Thomas Marrone driving the mower along a road just before 1:30 a.m. Aug. 30.

Police say Marrone smelled of alcohol and had an open can of Coors Light beer in the mower's storage compartment. They say he told them he was driving to his Murrysville home — some 6.4 miles away.

Marrone faces a preliminary hearing on charges including driving under the influence and driving with a suspended license.

College student helps pay tuition by eating

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A University of Wisconsin student with a nickname of "Silo" is eating his way through school — competitively.

Computer engineering student Eric Dahl now ranks third in the world of competitive eating as determined by All Pro Eating rankings, though he once held the top spot. Dahl has earned more than $18,000 in prize money or merchandise to help pay for his education.

"I'm eating for my education," he said. "It helps me get through."

Dahl was drawn to competitive eating in 2011, at the former Big Red's Steakhouse in Madison. Dahl didn't want to pay for his meal so he signed up for a challenge: eat a three-pound cheesesteak sandwich in less than 10 minutes and skip the bill. He finished in 5 minutes, 50 seconds.

DAILY PRAYER

Let us rejoice in your every Word, oh sweet Lord.

Amen

Las Vegas, New Mexico is just a little over five hours away by car and we love to go there for a weekend.

We left Friday morning around 9:30 after our daily workout at the gym and arrived in Clovis around lunchtime. We really didn't have an agenda, which I think is the ultimate way to travel.

You seem to notice more that way, like the attractive visitor's center at Clovis. We had never been there before.

We had planned to have a picnic lunch and the visitor's center had some covered picnic areas, so we stopped there.

Unbeknownst to me, my wife had brought Sushi. So we had a Sushi picnic. Different.

We bought gas in Muleshoe, thinking it would be more expensive the closer we got to New Mexico. Wrong.

Farwell and Texico both had better prices.

We arrived at the motel a little after 3 and visited with the manager, who suggested some things to do.

TUMBLEWEED SMITH

We asked about the Pecos National Monument, the only place we had planned to visit. She suggested we wait 'til tomorrow morning to go there while it was cool. She told us to be sure and eat dinner at Dick's, where the locals go.

The tourist information center is in an old depot building in Las Vegas. The friendly woman there reminded us that Las Vegas had more than 900 homes on the national historic register. She also mentioned the scores of movies that had been made around Las Vegas.

The Plaza Hotel in Las Vegas is just across from a park with a gazebo and shade trees. Some of those trees have succumbed to the drought, but a group of enterprising citizens had tall woodcarvings made from some of them. They really decorate the park.

When we were there Friday afternoon, a band was playing so we went to the hotel's wine bar and sampled some area production.

At Dick's restaurant we walked through the liquor store and lounge and took a seat in the restaurant. Great food. Great fun.

A local hangout for sure.

Saturday morning we went to the Pecos National Monument between Las Vegas and Santa Fe and toured the remains of a large pueblo where the Pecos Indians lived.

We returned to Las Vegas and had lunch at our favorite eating place called Charlie's Spic and Span Café. It's next door to Dick's.

We had planned to pick raspberries at Salmon's Farm but they were a couple of weeks away from being ready. A motorcycle group was there.

Dozens of motorcycles.

Colorful group.

We toured the campuses of the three upper level schools in Las Vegas: Highlands University, Luna Community College and United World College.

A castle is on the UWC campus. Armand Hammer founded the college. Alongside a highway near the campus are hot thermal baths, open to the public.

Most unusual.

The baths are up the bank from a river that has cold water.

We left Sunday morning after breakfast at Charlie's. The sopapillas are out of this world.

Excellent care

TO THE EDITOR:

My husband, Edward Slate, was in a terrible bicycle crash July 20 at Comanche Trail Park. He was participating in a mini-triathlon. When we saw that he had fallen, Hospice Chaplain Cheresse Felty and Jacqueline Roland ran to his side, knelt with their hands on him, and began to pray for him. Even through his pain and shock, he was aware of their prayers. That was the beginning of an amazing experience.

The EMTs who came were able to load him in the ambulance without changing his position. At Scenic Mountain's Emergency Room, Dr. Eric Koch and their skilled nursing staff evaluated him carefully. Xrays showed that he had seven broken ribs and a separated shoulder. He was sent to the medical floor. During the evaluation, the receptionists in the Emergency Room welcomed the friends who came to check on Edward. They were friendly and patient. What a neat group of people!

Edward was hospitalized for three days at Scenic Mountain Medical Center on the third floor. During that time, we were treated wonderfully and professionally. Dr. Koch checked Edward numerous times. Every employee, from the nursing staff to the cleaning staff, was cheerful, helpful and professional. The meals were excellent. Requests from the nurses' station were answered promptly. Every one who came to our room took time to visit and answer Edward's every need.

After three days, he was sent to HealthSouth in Midland.

Best of times, worst of times

Given that timing is everything, the Lone Star State's flagship universities — The University of Texas and Texas A&M University — are once again at extremes. Could UT have picked a worse time to get its own TV sports network up and running? Or could the Aggies have selected a better time to get their own law school?

At UT, they'd love to be "caught on the horns of a dilemma," but this isn't possible, since mascot Bevo is now "hornless," having given up one to Brigham Young and the other to Ole' Miss. So much for the 2013 UT football team lighting up the Longhorn TV network.

Remember when angry fans bombarded NBC with phone calls protesting interruption of a professional football game's final minute with the movie "Heidi"? Well, word has it that hardcore UT fans are signing petitions for the Longhorn Network to show "Heidi" instead of UT football games....

Meanwhile, my 101-year-old Uncle Mort thinks Aggie brain trusts were brilliant in buying Texas Wesleyan University's law school.

With NCAA rumblings, adaptation to new membership in the Southeast Conference, and Texas A&M attempts to keep its star football player on the "straight and narrow," he believes they can keep the law school busy running two shifts — maybe three.

My uncle may be defying the aging process. At age 101, when dying brain cells typically accelerate, his seem to be multiplying. Mort opines the law school might do well if its scope is limited to athletic issues. He figures it could clock many hours defending Oklahoma State concerning football infractions alleged by Sports Illustrated.

Texas Coach Mack Brown might well be a client as well, what with his fortunes sagging.

Worst case, Mort says, is that if and when the law school no longer is needed, they can "flip it," like high rollers in real estate.

Danny Snyder, owner of the Washington Redskins, may need Aggie Law School help with his latest hot potato. Many Native Americans insist that the team take on a name other than "Redskins."

Snyder has dug in his heels, and the arrows of many quivers may fly before this issue is settled. (Watching from the sidelines are the Kansas City Chiefs, holding their breath that their mascots continue to blaze trails under the radar.)

The NCAA has pressed the issue with numerous smaller schools that had "Indians" as mascots. McMurry University in Abilene and Midwestern University in Wichita Falls no longer are "Indians." Bigger universities with stronger alumni bases — like Florida State University — seem untouchable.

Such reminds me of the Indian tribe that built an airport in record time.

National politicians were astounded that it was finished months early and millions of dollars under budget.

"How did you manage it?" a senator questioned the chief.

"We didn't get bogged down in white tape," he responded.

The way pets are being pampered, it may soon become common for angry pet owners to sue veterinarians.

"The Aggie fleet of lawyers would be most helpful in defending malpractice suits if Fido don't make it," Mort clucked.

I heard of one visionary Aggie who had a double major in doctoral study—veterinary medicine and taxidermy. His printed cards had this message: "Either way, you get your dog back."

Known more for his money-losing schemes that were supposed to be "get rich quick" plans,

Mort admits that Johnny Manziel's brilliant play in the Aggies' single TD loss to Alabama may have cost him a bundle.

"I was about to come out with a 'block-head' doll for 'Mr. Football,' but now don't have the heart to do it," he moaned.

I asked him if he perhaps meant "bobble-head doll."

"Read my lips," Mort repeated. "block-head' doll."

Now, he's working on a Manziel doll with interchangeable heads — one that bobbles for outstanding play and another for non-game days that simply stares back — as block-heads do.

"So far, his play on the field has dazzled, easily qualifying for 'bobble-head' status," Mort admits. "But 'block-head' best fits his zany away-from-the-game antics covered well by sports media."

My uncle thinks strongest sales will be to Longhorn fans.

Mort predicts they'll buy the doll, then toss out the "bobble-head," greatly favoring the "block-head" option.

Leadership, Ag Luncheon topics for Chamber

By ANDREIA MEDLIN
Staff Writer

Leadership Big Spring was a popular topic at the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce meeting this week.

Chamber guest Cy Perry, who had participated in Leadership Big Spring, had only positive things to say about the program.

"I learned a lot and it was a great experience," Perry said.

Chamber member Manny Negron, who had taken part in the program in 2012, commented that Leadership Big Spring has gotten better.

"I think you guys are getting to do things I didn't when I went through it. It's just getting better and better every year and they have an awesome group this year."

New members to the Chamber were approved and include the Howard County A&M Club, Merrill Lynch and Park Village Apartments.

Executive Director Debbye ValVerde spoke extensively about the upcoming Ag Appreciation Day/Leadership Big Spring to be held Oct. 10, at the Broughton Ag Building on the Howard College Campus.

Breakfast that day will be at 7:30 a.m. and lunch will be at noon. A guest speaker, Jonathan Jennings of Project Meteorologist West Texas Weather Modification Association, will be giving a presentation on cloud seeding.

Tickets to attend the event are free to producers and $15 for non-producers.

The 2014 Health Fair may see some changes as ValVerde explained, "We need to find out more about Obamacare and what we can and cannot do and whether or not we need to start charging people."

Planning for the Health Fair is still in the works.

The Comanche Warrior Triathlon proved to be a resounding success with a lot of positive feedback from participants.

"They all say wonderful things about Big Spring," said CVB Director Debbie Wegman. "People who return say it's the best."

ValVerde reminded everyone that the first Big Spring Symphony concert is Saturday at 8 p.m. and encouraged everyone to attend.

"It's a wonderful, relaxing experience," said Howard College Director of Institutional Advancement Jan Forsyth. "Everyone should go and see what a beautiful job the city has done to the inside of the Municipal Auditorium."

Iva Jo Hanslik, communications director of the Big Spring VA reported that the old quarters are going to be torn down and replaced with cottages that will feature a common area.

A mental health summit is also being planned in partnership with Howard College to discuss how to serve the patients better.

Howard College has several events slated, according to Forsyth, including the Fall Festival, Empty Bowls VII and a concert on Oct. 14 that will feature both the band and the choir of which both departments have new instructors.

Classes for Empty Bowls VII at Howard College start Sept. 30 and Oct. 1 at Big Spring High School. For more information about Empty Bowls VII contact the United Way office at 267-5201 or 935-1604.

Again, we were treated like special guests. The food was excellent, and all the employees were attentive and caring. Edward especially enjoyed the physical therapists. They obviously enjoyed what they were doing and were able to strengthen him and treat his painful injuries.

After 11 days at HealthSouth, Edward returned to Big Spring, where he began outpatient therapy at Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. Again, he has been treated professionally and cheerfully.

The medical facilities here in West Texas are phenomenal! We could not have had better care anywhere. Thank you to the caring professionals at Scenic Mountain Medical Center, HealthSouth and Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. You are amazing!

Experience the Nutcracker

TO THE EDITOR:

I write to acknowledge a magnificent event in the performing arts that approaches Big Spring — The Nutcracker Ballet by the Midland Festival Ballet with the Big Spring Symphony Orchestra at the Municipal Coliseum on Dec. 14.

My lady friend and I love ballet and we attend the Houston Ballet, one of the top three ballets in the world, practically every month for the past several years. Susan Clark, artistic director of the Midland Festival Ballet, is the very finest in ballet. It is awesome that West Texas has her to represent the most beautiful of the performing arts, ballet.

My lady friend and I know personally and directly that the Houston Ballet respects Susan Clark. She includes the world's top ballerinas and male dancers in ballet performances. Ballets by Susan Clark are the very finest and especially because of her own touch in choreography such as Giselle at the Wagner Noel Performing Arts Center in Midland.

A couple of years ago, my lady friend and I arrived at The Nutcracker Ballet by the Midland Festival Ballet and Big Spring Symphony Orchestra at the Big Spring High School Auditorium and hour and 20 minutes before performance. The auditorium was not only packed, but hundreds of folding chairs had to be brought into the auditorium.

I shall never forget the expression on her face, Melissa Hough, ballerina and choreographer of the Houston Ballet, who was the Sugar Plum Fairy at curtain fall. It was as though she had never experienced such an accolade as in Big Spring. A few weeks later, after the La Bayadere ballet in Houston, my lady friend and I got to visit Ms. Hough. she said, "I remember Big Spring!"

Not only will Big Spring have the very finest in the performing arts on Dec. 14, the Midland Festival Ballet and the Big Spring Symphony Orchestra, but my lady friend and I will again be very early to get premium seats.

We are so fortunate to have the absolute finest of the performing arts in the world to come to Big Spring.

Exquisite additions

TO THE EDITOR:

The members of the Big Spring Art Association would like to take this opportunity to thank Brint Ryan and the Hotel Settles for the exquisite fine art additions on the east side of the hotel. We urge the people of Howard County to view the two bronze reproductions of Remington's "The Cowboy" and "The Rattlesnake." It is fantastic to see these bronze statues in downtown Big Spring and we hope everyone appreciates these great artworks. If you have not yet seen the memorable paintings and nostalgic photos displayed throughout the hotel, you are missing a real treat.

We also thank the United Way for holding the Empty Bowls now in its seventh year. The people of Big Spring who have joined in to create the ceramic bowls have expressed how they look forward working on this unique art project.

Lastly, the Art Association appreciates the various businesses who continue to display our artworks in their lobbies and foyers throughout the city. Please support the arts in Big Spring!

Thank you,

City, West Texas Centers ink contract for treatment center

Special to the Herald

A year-long planning effort involving West Texas Centers, the city of Big Spring and Scenic Mountain Medical Center culminated in last week's signing of a lease agreement bringing an innovative treatment center to Big Spring for people living with mental illness.

West Texas Centers will move its Howard County Mental Health Center from downtown to the Malone and Hogan Clinic on or before April 1.

Scenic Mountain Medical Center will begin remodeling the first floor of the Malone and Hogan Clinic in early winter 2013 making way for the new clinic.

More than 20 employees from the Howard County Mental Health Center, including psychiatrists, physician assistants, nurses, medical records and telemedicine will move into the new space.

"This was a long, but very fruitful process that involved Scenic Mountain Medical Center CEO Larry Rodgers, Mayor Larry McLellan and his staff, and my staff," West Texas Centers CEO Shelley Smith said.

"It went very smoothly and I look forward to

This type of project is on the cutting edge of healthcare transformation, Smith said.

"We were very timely in pulling this project together just as healthcare began focusing on the integration of behavioral and primary care medicine," she said. "The objective here is for persons with mental illness to have integrated care in which their mental illness is treated side by side with their physical healthcare needs."

Dr. Nekesha Oliphant will join the medical team at the new clinic, Smith said.

"The Big Spring community is very fortunate to have Dr. Oliphant join our medical team. She has two specialties — primary care and psychiatry."

Treatments for individuals living with mental illness has evolved tremendously the past 10 to 15 years, and she is extremely qualified to lead this new integration project, Smith said.

"We are very excited about this new partnership and after stakeholder meetings and public input, we saw that this was something our patients desired," she said.

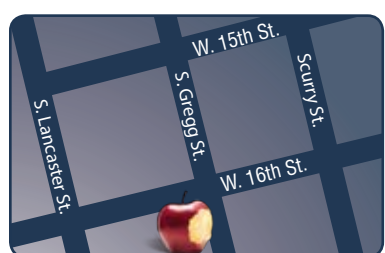

West Texas Centers serves as the mental health authority for 23 counties in rural West Texas. West Texas Centers operates 15 mental health clinics in 15 counties.

Steers outlast Andrews

Big Spring survives shootout, spoils Mustangs' homecoming with 61-48 win

By BRIAN MCCORMACK

Sports Editor

ANDREWS — If you're the type of football fan who enjoys watching two high-powered offenses clash, then Friday's battle between rivals Big Spring (3-1) and Andrews (3-1) would have been your kind of game. The final score more closely resembled a six-man outcome than an 11-man, but in the end, it was the Steers who came out on top of the shootout, defeating the Mustangs 61-48 to ruin their homecoming.

The two talented teams combined for nearly 1,200 yards and scored 109 points. Big Spring's Hunter Hill found the end zone five times while recording more than 150 yards on the ground and the Steers outlasted Andrews, but if you ask Head Coach Phillip Ritchey, one of the most important plays came late in the first half when the defense made a goal line stand, halting Andrews at the one to keep a 19-point lead — as well as the momentum — before returning to the field in the third quarter.

"That was the biggest play I have seen on defense here in a long time," he said.

The start of the second half didn't look too promising for Andrews, either.

A fumbled kickoff put the ball back in Big Spring's hands and the Mustangs' mistake was quickly converted into a touchdown 21 seconds into the third stanza after a 21-yard pass from Toby Tannehill to Devin Roberson, putting the Steers up 30-7. Hill tackled

Forsan drops homecoming to Jim Ned

By BRIAN MCCORMACK

Sports Editor

FORSAN — It may have been Forsan's homecoming, but it was Jim Ned who left town with a 21-14 win as the banged up Buffaloes dropped a close one, as well as saw quarterback Zane Sanders and veteran linemen Ausden Medrano knocked out of the game with injuries.

Medrano reagravated an ankle injury which has plagued him for past few seasons and Sanders went down with what are suspected to be bruised ribs at this time. Covan Davidson suffered an elbow injury at Stanton last week, so FHS Head Coach Jason Phillips — whose 1A roster's strong point has never been depth — found himself with even less options than usual.

"We really didn't play badly," Phillips said of his team's performance. "We caught some bad breaks, made some mistakes and had a few costly penalties, but the guys played well overall. The injuries definitely didn't help, but we had some guys come in and really step up." Kade Fannin assumed duties at the quarterback position upon Sanders' removal, but Jesse Cervantes played for most of the second half.

"(Cervantes) came in as a sophomore and did a good job for us," Phillips said. "It was a loss, which is bad, but there were some bright spots. Our run defense was really good. Hopefully we can get our guys who are hurt back by the time district begins."

Senior Kolby Self again accounted for almost all of the Buffs' offense, contributing both touchdowns, while rushing for 114 yards and receiving for 34.

"Kolby's stats are great and he scores a lot of touchdowns, but the thing that impresses me most is his leadership. He's such a positive kid. He encourages his teammates. He come off the sideline and get the offensive linemen and receivers and encourage them."

Phillips' veteran defense was also strong again.

"Our defense has played well in every game," he added. "They're getting better and playing their hearts out. Our offensive line catches a lot of flak, but they have improved in every single game. We've had to slide some guys over and move some guys around a bit, but they get better every week."

Now 2-2, The Buffaloes will welcome Crane next week to try to get back above .500, but the 4-0 Cranes will be no easy mark.

Coahoma falls to Denver City

Coahoma lost its fourth straight game to Denver City Friday. The Bulldogs will face Ballinger this week.

By BRIAN MCCORMACK

Sports Editor

COAHOMA — A young team is going to take its lumps. And that's what's happening to the Bulldogs (0-4). Most recently, it was Denver City who upended the inexperienced Bulldogs, shutting them out 47-0 on their home field.

CHS Head Coach Trey Gardner's team was stricken with injuries throughout the 2012 season, putting a damper on his squad's play with the loss of key starters at the skill position. This year, Gardner knew he was in for a rough one after being hit hard by graduation. The majority of his team is comprised of underclassmen, including many first-year varsity starters.

"We knew this was coming two or three years ago," Gardner said during an interview earlier in the season. "Our biggest strength is heart. And we will have to outwork our opponents. I'm a firm believer that's how we can win games."

Coahoma opened 2013 with a close game against rival Forsan and lost by only three points. From there, it has gone downhill. They scored 12 points against Coleman in the second game, then only eight last week against Colorado City and now a shutout loss to the Mustangs.

Gardner, however, expected issues with the exceptionally large, talented Denver City crew.

"Trying to prepare for them is like trying to prepare for Alabama," he joked earlier in the week. "They are huge, they're monstrous."

The Bulldogs showed some silver linings Friday. Again, they had few penalties for a young team — only four for 20 — running backs Paul Cortez and Kody Barber carried much of Coahoma's offense, with Cortez racking up 40 yards and Barber 37 on the ground. Also recording rushing stats were Tyler Franks with six carries for 21 yards, Christian Ven Wey with five carries for nine yards, Devin Ruiz, who had a six-yard carry and Brandon Coker, who added one five-yard rush.

Junior quarterback Braxton Iden had eight carries for 24 yards and completed one-of-eight passes for two yards. Jordan Harrison was the recipient.

Coahoma was outgained by a total of 475 yards to 144.

Gardner and Co. will make the trek to Ballinger (1-3) on Friday, where they have a chance to pick up a win against what should be a softer opponent.

on another score — this time on an eight-yard rush — and just when it looked like the game was out of Andrews' reach, the 'Stangs came roaring back, putting 21 points of their own on the board to make it a 47-28 affair by the end of the third quarter.

Ritchey cites a worn out defense as part of the breakdown, but also credits Andrews and Shane Dolgener, its dangerous quarterback.

"I was very nervous, whenever you play an offense like that, you can't let your guard down or the next thing you know, they will score three touchdowns in a row, which they did," Ritchey explained. "We had every intention of running the clock down and giving the defense a rest, but we were scoring on two plays at times. We were glad to get the points, but the defense was definitely tired. And you have to give Andrews credit. They never gave up."

The outing also lasted more than three hours, with both teams taking to the air an inordinate amount of time for a West Texas high school football game. Tannehill's versatility allowed the Steers to exploit what Ritchey thought was a weakness in the Mustangs' pass coverage.

"I saw some formations we could get into," Ritchey said. "Andrews is pretty consistent on how they line up on defense. They made some adjustments in the second half, but for the most part it worked out exactly how we planned."

According to Ritchey, the unsung heroes of the game were his offensive linemen.

"We couldn't have done it without them," he said. "Those guys are forming a very special bond. I give them all the credit, they're down there doing the dirty work. Any time you can score that many points and gain that many yards, you know your offensive line is working hard. You know, Ronnie Bell, Jahari Vanover, Chris Lindem — those guys are down there fighting their guts out.

"Of course, Toba, Devin and Tate Kennedy did a great job, Garrett Wigington had a catch on offense, an interception on defense and recovered an onside kick while playing with what we call a "club" on his arm. He's going to be a good football player. He's making big plays as a sophomore while he's injured. I couldn't be happier.

"Hunter continues to impress me. He's not very big, but he's tough. He runs well and has good speed. He sees holes and he has that burst of speed that can get him through those holes. Last night was a team effort. It makes me happy because we've been preaching the concept of coming together as a team. There's no individuals."

The Steers never relinquished the lead, but weren't out of the woods until Hunter Hill added two more touchdowns in the fourth to keep pace with Andrews' late game offensive explosion.

"Our goal still is to keep getting better each week," Ritchey added. "We needed to see a game like that. We're going to have tough games on the road during district. I'd say we passed that test."

Big Spring has one more pre-district test as they head to Seminole on Friday. A bye week is slated to follow before the Steers' district opener on the road against Abilene Wylie Oct. 11.

Deliciously Scary Treats

FOR GOBLINS AND GHOULS OF ALL AGES

FAMILY FEATURES

This Halloween, throw a wickedly wonderful fete for family and friends. With help from the Wilton entertaining experts, you'll have all the tricks to treat your guests to a spooky celebration that will leave them howling with delight. Halloween's not just for the kids anymore, so before you put on your costume, grab your baking and decorating supplies and get ready to let the creepy crawlers loose.

"Halloween is the one time of the year that you can take your decorating skills to the dark side," said Nancy Siler, vice president of consumer affairs at Wilton. "From finishing pumpkin cookies with ghoulish grins to creating creepy cakes decorated like graveyard skulls, it's the perfect holiday to have some fun in the kitchen."

Try these tips from the Wilton test kitchen for tasty and terrifying treats:

- Creepy Cupcakes: Transform traditional cupcakes into other worldly creations by decorating with eyeballs, spider webs or candy corn. Set up a decorating table during your Halloween party and let kids make their own creepy creations.
- Trick the Treat: Swap out the standard packaged treat for homemade sweets. Wrap cookies, pumpkin cake pops and lollipops in decorative party bags for a fearfully fun take-home treat.
- Mummy Wrap: Dress up your Halloween treats with themed baking cups. Pumpkins, mummies and ghosts are an instant way to give your party extra personality.
- Stack the Skulls: Turn the crouque-en-bouche, a popular French dessert, on its head by replacing cream puffs with mini-skeleton skulls. To increase the scare factor, mix in bone-shaped cookies and antique the treats with Candy Melts candy and Color Mist food color spray.

Try these recipes for Pumpkin Cake Pops and Graveyard Crouque-en-Bouche for a spook-tacular Halloween party. For more unique decorating ideas and recipes visit www.wilton.com.

Opening lead — eight of clubs.

Many contracts fail solely because the wrong hand becomes declarer, but some of them can be saved by anticipating this possibility and finding an effective solution to it.

Consider this deal from the Great Britain-U.S. match in 1962. When the Americans were North-South, the bidding went as shown. It does seem that North should have been more aggressive after South jump-shifted in spades and then leaped again in spades. Presumably South was announcing a solid suit as well as slam interest, and on that basis North surely had the values for one more bid.

But had North carried on to six spades, South would somewhat unluckily have gone down one after a club lead. The odds against East having the A-Q of clubs were about 3-to-1, so if South had gone down in six spades, he would have had just cause for complaint. In practice, the American South made five spades and scored 650 points.

When Tony Priday and Alan Truscott were North-South for Britain, the bidding went:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1♦	Pass	2♠
Pass	3♥	Pass	4♠
Pass	4NT	Pass	5♦
Pass	6NT

Six notrump, played by North, was unbeatable, and when East chose a spade as his opening lead, Priday made all 13 tricks for a score of 1,470 points. Priday's tactical decision to protect the club king on the opening lead thus yielded an 820-point gain for the British on the deal.

Tomorrow: Famous Hand.

Just add water

Spinach among winter garden crops dependent on irrigation

ROBERT BURNS

AgriLife Extension Agent

COLLEGE STATION — While Hurricane Ingrid has been a terrible, destructive houseguest in eastern Mexico, Texas winter garden growers would have welcomed her with open arms, said a Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service horticulturist.

Most years, hurricanes and tropical storms are a mixed blessing to South Texas, but this year, with reservoirs critically low, heavy rains could have made a big difference, said Dr. Larry Stein, AgriLife Extension horticulturist, Uvalde.

One of the leading producers of irrigated winter vegetables in the U.S., the winter garden area has been particularly hard hit by the long-standing Texas drought, he said.

While winter garden vegetable farmers remain optimistic about this year's crop despite the drought, the hope was Hurricane Ingrid would turn north and bring in moisture from the Gulf to replenish water levels, Stein said.

"We actually got a little bit of moisture," he said. "It's been spotty showers, and it's been more so to the south of Uvalde and west of San Antonio. We're hopeful we'll get a little more later in the week."

However, a little rain, though welcomed, is not going to turn things around. Many rivers have stopped running, and though the Edwards aquifer still has "pretty good water," regional farmers are facing stage 3 or stage 5 drought restrictions, depending upon where they're located, according to Stein.

"Others are pumping out of the Carrizo Sands and that seems to be holding. And there are a few other wells that are also holding," he said.

"As far as the outlook goes, it's not good, but it looks like we're going to have water to plant some crops starting in October," he said. "There has been cabbage planted back in late July, the cooler weather has helped, and the brief showers have helped a bit too. We're okay, but we need help."

More information on the current Texas drought and wildfire alerts can be found on the AgriLife Extension Agricultural Drought Task Force website at <http://agrilife.tamu.edu/drought/>.

Rolling Plains: Conditions remained hot and dry in most of the region, but temperatures started to inch down in the western counties, with highs in the 80s and lows about 70. Without any moisture, cotton was going downhill quickly. Cotton producers continued to run irrigation pivots to help the crop set bolls. Some fields showed signs of heat stress and began to drop bolls. A few cotton bolls are opening while some late plantings are still blooming. Pastures and rangeland were also showing signs of heat and moisture stress, leaving ranchers with only one option: Start supplemental feeding. Some producers had a small supply of hay, but that will not last long. Limited planting of wheat planting began. Most producers were waiting for cooler weather and more moisture to plant, though some producers were planting in dry fields, hoping for a rain to bring the crop up. Fall calving continued. Pecan yields were expected to be light.

South Plains: A couple of counties received from a trace to 0.25 inch of rain. All other counties reported warm, dry conditions. Crops continued to mature with light insect pressure. Some dryland crops, such as grain sorghum, were stressed and could use additional rain to finish. Most cotton was in the cutout stage, with some bolls opening. Producers will likely apply harvest aids to cotton in the next couple of weeks. Some producers were planting winter wheat, but the crop will need more moisture to come up. Early planted sorghum and sunflowers were being harvested, as well as corn silage. Much corn was in the dough stage. Rangeland and pastures were in need of rain. Cattle were mostly in good condition.

West Central: Hot, dry, windy conditions continued. Cotton was rapidly maturing and starting to showing signs of heat stress. Producers were preparing fields for small-grain planting; some producers were already planting winter wheat and oats. The corn harvest was nearly over with good yields being reported. The harvesting of early planted sunflowers and grain sorghum was completed. Rangeland and pastures were in fair to poor condition. Most pasture forages continued to grow slowly, with some fields starting to show signs of heat stress and declining. Live-stock were in fair to good condition, though the hot dry conditions were starting to stress them as well. Some producers are having to haul water for cattle as stock water-tank levels were critical in many areas.

Energy Watch

Bhupen Agrawal is branch manager and a managing director — investments for the Wells Fargo Advisors Midland office.

Bill Franks, AAMS, is a senior registered client associate and the senior associate to the branch manager.

Suddenly, within the course of 48 hours, the global economic storm clouds appear to have parted and allowed the sun to shine through — at least temporarily. Sentiment, burdened in recent weeks by fears over U.S. involvement in Syria and ongoing signs of sluggish emerging market growth, had weighed on the market and resulted in a modest pullback.

But then the forecast seemed to improve. China — whose future economic growth seemed highly uncertain as recently as early last week — reported better-than-expected exports as well as improved manufacturing and overall industrial output data. Emerging market stocks have suffered dearly as investors fled in the wake of slower economies from perennial growth leaders like China and Brazil.

And then came good news from Japan of all places. The country's relatively new Prime Minister, Shinzo Abe, promised policies when he was elected at the end of last year that would encourage growth and investment. While some doubted the effectiveness of his efforts, results in the second quarter were impressive. Economic growth was revised upwards to a 3.8 percent annualized rate from the initial 2.6 percent reading. This is from the world's third largest economy, which is still feeling the deflationary effects of a property bubble that burst more than twenty years ago.

And finally, quite by surprise, the Syrian confrontation with the United States was suddenly diffused, for the time being, by a Russian proposal to take hold of the civil war-ravaged country's chemical weapons stockpiles. While the exact details of such a proposal will likely take months to form, the bottom line is that tomahawk missiles will not be raining down on Damascus and the Assad regime anytime soon.

In response, the stock market celebrated with the S&P 500 index jumping meaningfully higher during each of the two following trading sessions. As it stands, the index is trading less than two percent below the recent, early-August record high. Chalk it up to one more quick and shallow pullback that offered a brief and not-all-that-attractive buying opportunity.

But for those investors who did not have itchy trigger-fingers and missed the chance to put some sideline money to work, do not fear. It is highly likely, at least in this strategist's opinion, that more opportunities will present themselves over the next few months as the Federal Reserve meets to decide whether to adjust the pace of the current quantitative easing program and the Congress begins to debate whether to raise the debt ceiling. And do not forget the German elections on Sept. 22. Any or all of these events could (we hope) bring increased volatility back into the stock market. And volatility frequently creates opportunities.

So, there does appear to be some light at the end of the tunnel. Investors have quickly pounced on good news from abroad. Our positive outlook on the U.S. stock market depends, in part, on a modest economic recovery in the emerging economies, Japan, and Europe. The light is getting a bit brighter.

Past performance is no guarantee of future results. Tomorrow's Horoscope

Autumnal equinox

When the night and day divide into equal parts, it's that magical time of the year celebrated by cultures ancient and modern, the autumnal equinox. The pagan name for the fall equinox celebration is called Mabon. The Druids celebrate with the festival of Alban Elfed, and other harvest festivals abound across the globe in the weeks to come. Happy equinox!

ARIES

(March 21-April 19). Here's one rule that will protect your time and happiness: Don't give unsolicited advice.

Share your expertise with those who ask or pay for it. They're the ones who will value it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). If you obsess and overanalyze, you will become tired before you've handled all of your work. If you start to feel anxious, shift your focus to the things that help you access your inner peace.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Of course doing the same things will produce the same results. The change you desire will begin because of a choice you make to try something unfamiliar.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Conforming to the rules of a culture is sometimes necessary to survive, fit in, influence others and more. But conforming all the time is soul-crushing. You need your moments of rebellion, too.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Everyone experiences things differently. But today, your experience will be completely different from that of others around you because your sensitivity causes you to feel things with great intensity.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept.

22). You'll be inspired by the people you meet and the stories you hear. Listening to others and mirroring their feelings and memories creates a great sense of satisfaction.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You are a comfortable person because you accept yourself and try not to judge anyone, including yourself, too harshly. Today you have a way of bringing out a side of people that they hide around others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Does energy that is directed at people really make a difference in what happens to them and how they feel? You do your fair share of sending out good vibes just in case.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Lay down boundaries to help you avoid having another one of those conversations in which someone else feels better after sharing their feelings and pain with you, but you feel worse.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). It's strange how being around certain people can cause you to act out of character. You may find this liberating now, as it's fun not to know exactly what someone is going to do next, especially if that someone is you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). The bear who craves honey strongly enough is willing to risk it with the bees. You're cleverer, though. You'll stand by and watch until you figure out how honey can be had with the least chance of getting stung.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). A new opportunity is masquerading as the same-old same-old. Once you give it a familiar label, you won't be able to see its potential. So observe more closely. What's different?

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Sept. 22). You're always watching out for a chance to make someone smile. You'll seek and find romance in October. November brings the end of a battle. In December, decisions fall in your favor, benefiting your professional status. You'll track down a long-lost friend in 2014. Rekindling the tie has long-term benefits. Pisces and Leo people adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 36, 24, 13, 20 and 48.

FORECAST FOR THE WEEK AHEAD: The solar return to Libra is the time of year when we celebrate the harvest both metaphorically and, in the Northern hemisphere, actually. This year the equinox happens under an appetite-stimulating Taurus moon, and so our appreciation of the culinary bounty of the season will be strong. As far as the spiritual component that accompanies the solar return to Libra, it will take a few days to kick in, as we are so busy with a new crop of fresh business that many will forget to slow down for a soul check-in. But on Wednesday, as the sun forms an introspective angle to dreamy Neptune in Pisces, the mental cogs begin to turn with questions like: Is it always true that you reap what you sow? I don't remember planting the seeds for some of these things that exist in my life.

As gardeners and farmers well know, many seeds look alike. Also, weeds sprout. The important part is to be grateful for what has come, the good and the bad, and to do our best to manage it. You can always "plant" differently next time if you don't get the desired result.

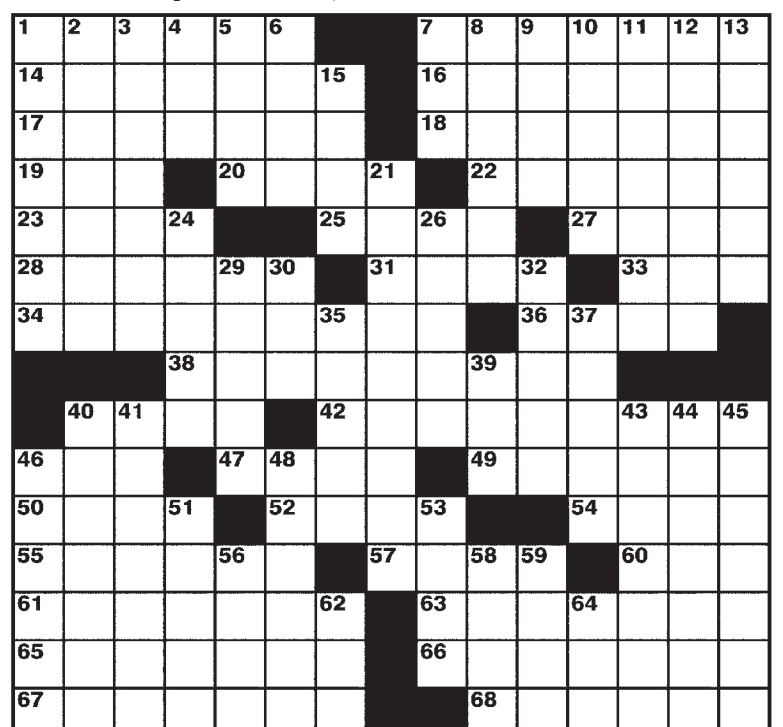

A square of Mars and Venus at the end of the week highlights gender differences. Trying to understand the opposite sex will require extra patience.

Makes Great Meal Any Way You Stack It

Weekday lunch breakers rejoice — the sandwich is making a comeback. Kick-start your lunch routine with these easy tips and craveable recipes that are sure to inspire lunch envy:

Prep the Week: Create a shopping list based on your week's menu, and prep your ingredients in advance so creating a delicious sandwich is easy. Have a little fun and experiment. Bet you didn't know that if you put two pieces of bread in the same slot of the toaster, the outside of the bread gets crispy and the inside stays soft and pillowy.

Spread the Love: Spice things up with a Smoked Bacon Ranch or Spicy Chipotle Pepper Hidden Valley Sandwich Spread & Dip — it's a simple addition and guaranteed to be tasty. For more recipes, visit www.hiddenvalley.com/sandwiches.

Nibble Ready: Stock your fridge with quick, grab-and-go snacks and sides. Fresh vegetables are a tasty treat when dipped in Country Herb Ranch or Oven Roasted Garlic Parmesan Hidden Valley Sandwich Spread & Dip. Made with white beans and cream cheese, each tablespoon has one-third the calories of mayonnaise. Cherry tomatoes, broccoli, cauliflower or bell pepper strips also make great dippers.

Leftover Magic: Repurpose boring leftovers into delicious sandwiches to take on-the-go for school and office lunches. Simply add spread and bread. Yesterday's roast chicken is today's tasty Chicken Bacon Club.
