Court nixes Gramm-Rudman

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special three-judge federal court today struck down as unconstitutional a central provision of the new law designed to balance the budget within five years.

But the judges, who said the law illegally vests excessive power in an employee of Congress, delayed the effect of their ruling pending an anticipated appeal to the Supreme Court.

If upheld, today's ruling said the first $11.7 billion round of spending cuts under Gramm-Rudman, ordered by President Reagan to take effect March 1, is "hereby declared without legal force and effect."

The three-judge panel unanimously overturned the section of the Gramm-Rudman law requiring that mandatory, across-the-board spending cuts be triggered when Congress fails to meet specified deficit-reduction targets.

The panel overturned the key provision of the law on the grounds that "it vests executive power in the comptroller general, an officer removable by Congress."

A quick appeal was expected directly to the Supreme Court.

Even in advance of today's ruling, Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., one of the law's original sponsors, had said a such a ruling was expected, but predicted that the law would eventually be upheld by the Supreme Court.

On Wall Street, where analysts have persistently warned of the perils of the huge federal budget deficit, the Dow-Jones Industrial Average fell almost 10 points in the minutes after today's ruling.

Open market interest rates rose minutes after the court released its decision.

In the credit markets, bond prices, which move in the opposite direction of interest rates, fell sharply.

A second round of cuts, with the start of the 1987 fiscal year on Oct. 1, would take effect if Congress fails to cut the deficit, now estimated at $208 billion, to $144 billion.

Today's ruling left standing the targets themselves as well as a back-up provision that lets Congress trigger each year's set of cuts with a single vote in each chamber.

The ruling came on a lawsuit filed by 12 members of Congress and a federal employees' union. The suit contended the automatic trig-

Texas jobless rate falls under national level to 6.4 percent

DALLAS (AP) — The Texas unemployment rate for January fell to 6.4 percent, down from 7 percent for December, the southwest office of the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

"It's positive news for Texas, but we have to be careful in the interpretation," said Bryan Richey, southwest regional commissioner for the bureau.

The January figure for Texas is lower than the national unemployment level of 6.7 percent and is the same as the jobless rate for January of 1985.

Richey said that while the unemployment rate is down from December and no worse than last year, he noted 1985 was not a very good year for Texas.

In addition, he said the bureau's statistics show there were only 58,000 more workers employed in January, compared with January a year ago.

Richey said the state needs "twice that growth in any given year just to take care of the population force and normal expansion necessary to hold the unemployment level at 6 percent."

Adding to Richey's caution is the fact that many of the recent layoffs announced are not reflected in the January figures, such as the loss of 1,000 Atlantic Richfield Co. jobs in the Dallas area.

The same signs of sluggishness evident last year don't appear to be changing, said Richey, and the latest labor report also hasn't had a chance to absorb the fall in oil prices.

Other factors hurting the Texas economy, Richey said, are in the manufacturing and electronics segments, construction, transportation and public utilities.

And the minimal growth in trade, services and financial, insurance and real estate sectors is slower than the national growth.

"It's all linked to the relatively slow growth for the Texas economy," Richey said. "We just haven't had time to work our way out of it."

"I think the problems are too deep-seated and pervasive for one to be overly optimistic about (the lower jobless rate)."

Burn victim found dazed near blaze

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

A 61-year-old Big Spring man was hospitalized this morning with second-degree burns on his hands, back and head after a house he was staying in caught fire shortly after 5:20 this morning.

Eusebio Fierro, of 509 N. Aylford St. was taken to the Veterans Administration Medical Center this morning after a police officer found him walking burned and dazed several blocks from the burning house, said Assistant Fire Chief Burr Lea Settles.

"When our people got there they could not tell if the structure was occupied or not," Settles said. Apparently, Fierro had wandered away from the blaze before firefighters arrived.

Meanwhile, ambulance personnel summoned by police transported Fierro to the hospital as firemen were extinguishing the flames that had engulfed the two-story structure by the time they arrived, Settles said.

The blaze apparently began after Fierro lit a fire in a sheet metal drum he was using as a fireplace, Settles said. The house was without electricity, he said.

The owner of the structure is not yet known, according to the fire department report. Damage estimate was set at $5,000. Settles said the building was a total loss.

Mullins enters race for college trustee

Curtis Mullins, who is running for re-election to the Howard County Junior College board of trustees, said the district should broaden its horizons by serving more students who desire a college education.

Howard College has seen a slight increase in enrollment and that trend probably will continue over the next several years, he said. The Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf also is expecting a higher enrollment for fall because of decreased out-of-state tuition.

Increased enrollment and changing times may make policy adjustments necessary for the district, but he has no specific adjustments in mind, Mullins said.

"The role of a board member is primarily to set policy and work with administrators and teachers to provide the best possible education opportunities," he said.

Mullins has been on the board for one six-year term. A Howard County resident for 22 years, he is the executive vice president of the First National Bank.

He, his wife, Chris, and three children all attended Howard

36-year wait proves rewarding

BOSTON (AP) — A mother and son were tearfully reunited after 36 years, ending a cross-country search that began at an institution for pregnant teenagers and made its way through four states and the halls of Congress.

"It is a miracle. It's like a dream or a fairy tale," Florence Coolidge said after being reunited Thursday with her son, Ernie Richardson, at Salvation Army headquarters here. "But I never gave up hope. I never stopped praying."

Richardson said he, too, was stunned. "I was under the assumption my mother was dead. I spent years trying to accept that," he said. "Now we're going to go home and live together."

"We're going to start all over again."

Mrs. Coolidge, 50, of Willingboro, N.J., said she was forced to give up her son in 1950, when he was 3 days old. She was 15 at the time and a ward of the state at an institution for pregnant girls in Vineland.

"I named him Ernie Harry after my grandfather," she said. "I wanted him for my own, so I ran away (several times)."

They put me in ice showers. They punished me pretty bad."

Not knowing where her young son was, Mrs. Coolidge moved to Newark, N.J., where she worked in a bean factory, then settled in New York, got married, had another son and took a job as a night club dancer.

"I lit a candle for Ernie every day," she said.

Garn urges donations to rebuild Challenger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jake Garn, the Utah Republican who was a passenger on the space shuttle last year, says Americans can demonstrate their interest in continuing the manned space program by contributing to a fund to replace the shuttle Challenger.

The lawmaker said Thursday that the contribution of a significant amount of money "will be a rather stirring message to the Congress of how deeply we care about the space program."

At a news conference, Garn introduced Richard Macleod, executive director of the United States Space Foundation in Colorado Springs, Colo. Macleod said his educationally oriented organization is ready to serve as a collection point for a national fund-raising drive.

Macleod said the private foundation had already collected more than $41,600 in contributions for the space program since Challenger exploded Jan. 28 shortly after takeoff from Cape Canaveral, Fla. All seven shuttle crew members died.

Texas toymaker

Retired biology professor trades lab for workshop

LAREDO (AP) — For 33 years, he was a Laredo Junior College biology professor with a special interest in botany, but nowadays, Jorge C. Salazar's main interest is toy making.

Salazar left the biology laboratory for good after his retirement in 1981, and began to spend his spare moments in his garage woodwork shop constructing a fabulous array of wooden playthings.

The college professor-turned-toymaker says his training as a biologist-botanist has been helpful in his new career. He attributes his enjoyment of his hobby to an appreciation of nature — wood in particular — that he developed as a botanist many years ago while conducting field research in South Texas.

Another habit acquired from his days as a scientist, is the tendency to embellish his speech with dry humor and technical terms.

"I've learned that sometimes my customers are very unusual. If I tell them that I'm going to spray a plastic varnish finish on a toy, they say 'Oh, no! Don't do that?' But if I say I'm going to spray a coat of poly-urethane finish, well, then that's OK."

"Sometimes I feel like telling them that I don't sell toys made out of the best Ponderosa pine available, but that I use the finest quality North American xylem," he jokes.

The feisty and witty Salazar, who will turn 65 this year, picked up a wood carving knife long before he knew the difference between a carve and a peck. His knack for the woodcraft, he says, came naturally.

"I've been playing with wood since I was about 7 years of age. I learned a lot from my brother, Jose," Salazar said.

Up until the last 15 years or so, Salazar preferred to use hand tools to carve his toys. But, alas, the lure of modern technology and the pains of old age became unbearable so he began outfitting his garage workshop with electric band saws and drills.

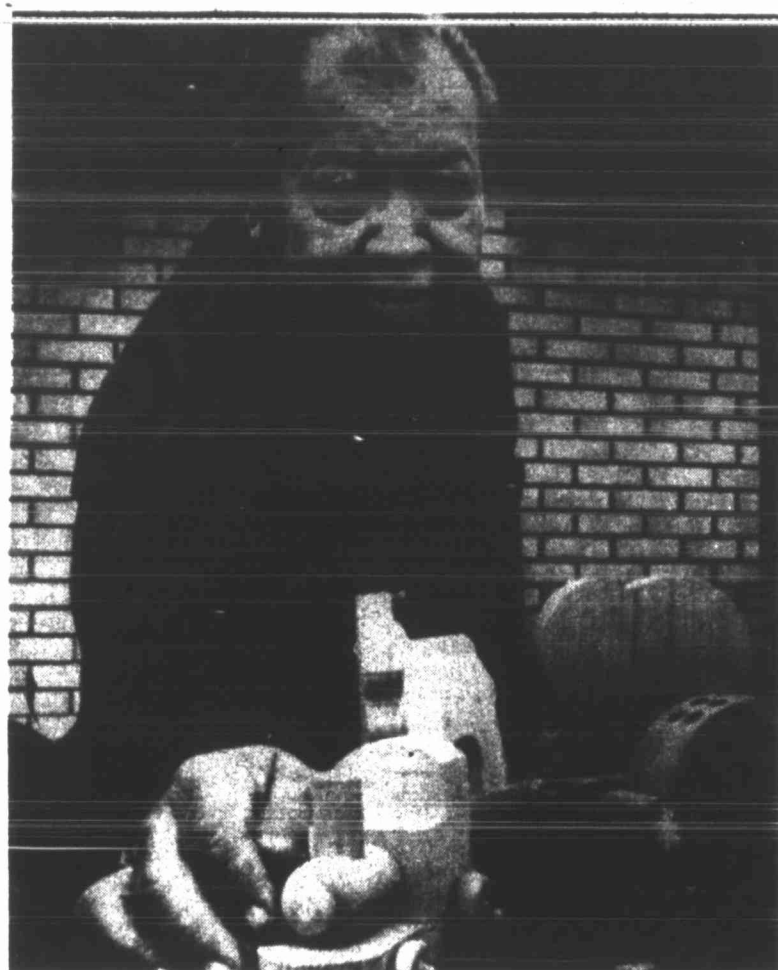

For Salazar, toymaking is not work, but a leisure-time activity.

"I can only play at this for maybe an hour or so, and then I have to rest. I get a lot of help from my wife and some friends who once in a while come by," he said.

Although woodworking has been more or less a lifelong hobby for Salazar, he didn't become serious about toymaking until he had children of his own. During the years when his children were young, many gifts under the Salazar family's Christmas tree were his own handiwork.

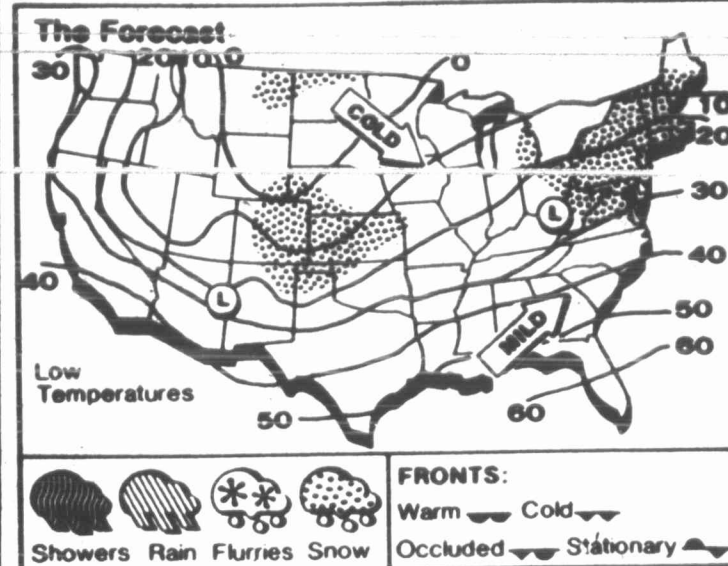

"They always thought Santa Claus had done it," he recalled with a chuckle.

When Salazar and his wife, Genevieve, display their woody wares on the front lawn of their residence, admiring passersby often stop to look. Often, the quality craftsmanship and beauty of the toys transform an admirer into a customer.

Jorge Salazar shows off some of the toys that have come out of his workshop. Salazar left his work in the biology department at Laredo Junior College in 1981 when he retired. Salazar now spends time in his toy workshop.

gering mechanism was unconstitutional.

Today's ruling could gut enforcement of the law.

On Capitol Hill, Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., said, "The pressure will still be on Congress, and I hope we will not worry about Gramm-Rudman and put together a budget we can all support."

Under the Gramm-Rudman Act, the comptroller general, head of Congress' General Accounting Office, was given the authority to determine the size of the automatic spending cuts that would be triggered.

The judges said in their ruling: "The automatic deficit-reduction process established by the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985 ... hereby is declared unconstitutional."

An elated Alan B. Morison, attorney for the congressional plaintiffs, told reporters, "We're pleased."

The court found that the remainder of the law, signed by Reagan on Dec. 12, "passes constitutional muster."

Meantime, Richardson said, he was being raised by foster parents in Louisiana.

"All my life, I lived a lie. They told me that my mother had given me up because she couldn't afford to raise me," he said.

His childhood was very painful, he said. "I was never adopted. I was even considered retarded."

At 18, Richardson left home and drifted around the country.

In recent years, Richardson said, he has worked as a radio disc jockey in Louisiana and Mississippi and as a food server in the cafeteria at the Salvation Army in Boston.

Mrs. Coolidge said she had tracked her son down by writing to President Reagan late last year. The Department of Health and Human Services wrote her back, urging her to get in touch with Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J.

Man arrested on 5 warrants

Scurry County sheriff's deputies arrested Melvin W. Biddle, 23, of 1509 Main No. 4 Thursday morning on five Howard County warrants after his bondsman withdrew bonds.

He initially was arrested on charges of escape, failure to maintain financial responsibility, driving while license suspended, driving while intoxicated and revocation of probation for DWI.

He was released on new bonds totaling $6,000.

Deputies released Shane Allen Kraeger, 20, of Mayo Ranch Motel Thursday night to a Midland County sheriff's deputy who was to transport him to Snyder to face criminal charges.

District Judge James Gregg authorized Kraeger's release to law officials in Scurry County, where the man faces a burglary charge and is suspected of violating his probation for a prior burglary conviction.

Kraeger also has been charged in Howard County with theft over $20 and under $200.

Deputies released Sammy Gamboa Lara, 22, of 909 N. Gregg Thursday morning after he served time in jail for a second offense of DWI. Also, his probation was revoked for the initial DWI conviction.

Lara pleaded guilty Jan. 7 in county court to second offense of DWI and was sentenced to 30 days in jail by County Judge Milton Kirby.

A Department of Public Safety trooper arrested James Percy Rhone, 59, of Clyde Thursday night on suspicion of DWI.

Harte-Hanks layoffs include three locally

Staff and wire reports

Three persons at the Big Spring Herald are among those to be laid off at Harte-Hanks Communications holdings nationwide in an expense-cutting move by the corporation.

The staff reductions here came one day after Harte-Hanks laid off 32 San Antonio employees. Corporate officials said layoffs are necessary to reduce payroll expenses 5 percent companywide.

"In order for the Big Spring Herald to meet its targets for payroll reduction, we have been able to hold separations to three persons," Publisher Tom Watson said this morning. The newspaper employs 62 persons, he said.

The corporation owns 27 daily newspapers, 90 non-dailies, four VHF television stations, several cable television systems, six marketing services and 25 direct mail systems.

In addition to the Herald, Harte-Hanks owns the San Angelo Standard-Times and Abilene Reporter-News in West Texas. Executives at both those newspapers have said they are evaluating their local situations before making cutbacks.

Skeletal remains identified as former Merkel resident

Skeletal remains discovered in a pasture north of Big Spring Tuesday have been identified as a Merkel man who was a patient at Big Spring State Hospital at the time of his disappearance in 1980.

The man was identified as 67-year-old Bartie Brinkley Reynolds, Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard said Thursday afternoon. The family has been notified by the sheriff's department, Standard said.

Initial identification was made by leg bone fracture, Standard said. His identity was confirmed by denture plates found in the remains, which were identified by a Big Spring dentist who made them, Standard said.

The State Hospital reported Reynolds missing Dec. 15, 1980, and the family reported him missing shortly thereafter, according to files in the sheriff's department.

Dr. Robert Rember, local pathologist, said cause of death was probably due to exposure to the elements, though other causes "cannot be absolutely ruled out."

During the period Reynolds was reported missing, temperatures here ranged from the 20s to the 50s, Rember said. "The wind and ground chill factors were pretty significant," he said.

Standard said his department would continue investigating cause of death.

The remains were discovered about noon Tuesday five miles north of Big Spring off U.S. 87 by members of a seismographic crew.

Rate hike withdrawn

AUSTIN — The Lower Colorado River Authority is in such good financial shape it is withdrawing a request for a $40 million electric rate increase, according to its general manager.

David Freeman said when he informed a briefing of LCRA's wholesale and retail customers of the company plans, the customers applauded.

The proposed increase would have raised retail customers' rates by approximately 25 percent and wholesale rates by 13 percent, Freeman said.

Hobby allays tax fears

AUSTIN — Texans are in no danger of a quick tax hike and probably well-insulated from a state income tax for quite awhile, says Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

But the oil slump and a statewide economic decline are cause for state revenue concern, he said in a Thursday talk to an Austin Lions Club luncheon.

He added, "No, we are not going to need an immediate tax increase. But undoubtedly in the future we will have to build revenue from other sources. This process began two years ago when the base of the sales tax was broadened."

Engine checks ordered

WASHINGTON — Airlines have been told of a new potential problem with the industry's most widely used jet engine — the Pratt & Whitney JT8D — after 35 reports of serious cracks being found, including two cases in which the engines broke apart.

The Federal Aviation Administration ordered new inspections of most of the engines Thursday and gave airlines a timetable under which the examinations must be made.

Workers' deaths probed

FAIRVIEW, W. Va. — Mine safety and company officials began an official investigation today into the deaths of five workers sucked deep into a large coal bin after a conveyor belt was turned on.

The five men were standing on a coal pile in the bin Thursday when a switch thrown at the wrong time sent a conveyor beneath a stockpile into motion, officials said.

Unemployment drops

WASHINGTON — The civilian unemployment rate fell to 6.7 percent in January as the improving economy created 565,000 non-farm jobs, the government said today.

The rolls of those officially listed as out of work fell below 8 million for the first time in Ronald Reagan's presidency, to 7,831,000 from 8,023,000 in December.

The 0.2 percentage point drop from December's 6.9 percent rate was paced by an influx of new service-related jobs that raised the number of working Americans.

Duvalier gives up

Haiti's destiny may be in junta's hands

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Embattled President-for-Life Jean-Claude Duvalier left Haiti for France today on a U.S. Air Force plane, relinquishing power over the impoverished Caribbean nation his family had ruled for 28 years.

"I have decided to pass the destiny of the nation into the hands of the military," Duvalier said in a taped message broadcast on national television and radio at 7:20 a.m., almost four hours after he left the country.

A member of the entourage that accompanied Duvalier to the airport said the new government would be run by a civilian-military junta.

In Washington, the U.S. State Department confirmed Duvalier was headed for temporary asylum in France and said the Air Force plane was provided at Duvalier's request.

Duvalier's flight came one week after the White House erroneously reported he had fled the country, prompting him to declare he was "strong as a monkey's tail." His government has been the target of mounting protests nationwide since last November.

Port-au-Prince was calm today following Duvalier's departure. Telephone and telex communications had been apparently cut with the outside world, Associated Press correspondents reported by ham radio.

State Department spokesman Gregory Lagana said 23 people had left with the 34-year-old Duvalier, mostly family members. The spokesman said "a couple of military escorts" also accompanied Duvalier in "an orderly departure."

Lagana said the Air Force plane had picked up Duvalier at Francois Duvalier International Airport in the capital city of Port-au-Prince.

In Paris, the French Foreign Ministry announced that "in cooperation with the United States," it would temporarily accept Duvalier in order to allow a "transition" to democracy.

The French communique said the Haitian leader would go to an unnamed third country. However, a ministry spokesman later said that no country has yet agreed to accept Duvalier.

Talks make progress

CAIRO, Egypt — Israeli and Egyptian delegates ended two days of talks on the Tabá border dispute Thursday and negotiators said some progress was made.

The Israeli, Egyptian and U.S. delegations agreed to meet next week in Israel to remove remaining obstacles to international arbitration, which Egypt demanded and Israel finally accepted last month.

Tabá is a 250-acre strip of beach along the Gulf of Aqaba that Egypt and Israel both claim is theirs.

Nine die in poll fracas

MANILA, Philippines — Unofficial results trickling in from today's bitterly fought election between President Ferdinand E. Marcos and Corazon Aquino showed locked them in a seesaw battle, amid reports of fraud and violence the government said claimed nine lives.

Hours after voting began, the armed forces chief indefinitely extended a "red alert" that was originally to last 24 hours. The alert, declared at noon Thursday, is customary for Philippine elections.

Khadafy retaliates

TRIPOLI, Libya — Moammar Khadafy announced today he has ordered his air force to intercept any Israeli civilian airliner within range over the Mediterranean and force it to land at a Libyan air base.

The Libyan leader told a news conference any Israeli planes forced down would be searched for "Israeli terrorists," mentioning such names as former Prime Minister Menachem Begin or former Defense Minister Ariel Sharon.

Iranian rocket kills 4

MANAMA, Bahrain — An Iranian helicopter gunship fired a rocket into the crew's quarters of a Cypriot oil tanker Thursday off Qatar in the southern Persian Gulf, killing four people and setting the ship ablaze, marine salvage executives said.

Both Iran and Iraq have attacked commercial shipping in the gulf as part of the war that began in September 1980. Lloyd's, the London insurance exchange, said the Avocet was the 171st vessel attacked or damaged.

U.N. resolution vetoed

UNITED NATIONS — The United States vetoed a Security Council resolution that would have condemned Israel's interception of a Libyan civilian plane, but said that it deplored the Israeli action.

Ten of the 15 U.N. council members supported the resolution and four U.S. allies — Britain, France, Denmark and Australia — abstained in Thursday's vote that came after three days of often heated debate on a Syrian-Libyan complaint.

It's an exciting story of a pharmacist who developed a wrinkle cream which women all over the country are clamoring for.

Dr. Robert Heldfond is making cosmetic history with his EB5 cream. His dream since Pharmacy School has resulted in a wrinkle cream which is enjoying record sales in department stores and which cosmeticians and customers are praising very highly.

Research lab tests show that by daily use of EB5 cream, morning and night, facial lines, lines around the eyes, lines on the forehead and around the mouth are smoothed. Thousands across the country are so pleased that EB5 is 5 creams in 1 jar. EB5 is a wrinkle cream, a night cream, a moisturizer, an eye-cream, and a makeup base. All in One.

EB5 appears to be the natural way to help aging skin. It contains natural Liprogen, collagen and lipoprotein (natural skin oil) with Vitamins E and B5, A and D, and other ingredients. Dr. Heldfond's EB5 cream is greaseless and leaves the skin soft and velvety and younger-looking.

If you are concerned about your skin appearing to be aging too quickly, hurry and find some EB5 cream. One jar lasts for months.

Toxic scare seems to be unfounded

Dioxin, often called the "most toxic chemical known to man," creates panic wherever it appears. When it was found in the soils of Times Beach, Mo., the Environmental Protection Agency spent $33 million to move the residents out for good. For years, Vietnam veterans exposed to the defoliant Agent Orange, which contains dioxin, pressed to be compensated for ailments it supposedly caused. In 1984, they got a $180 million out-of-court settlement from the manufacturers.

Panic, in this case, is the child of misinformation. The chemical, an unwanted byproduct of the manufacture of some herbicides, has been proven highly toxic to a variety of laboratory animals, causing birth defects, spontaneous abortions, kidney damage, cancer and death. But there is no evidence of similar hazards to humans. In fact, all the information compiled by scientists suggests that the dioxin scare is a false alarm.

The latest evidence is summarized in the February issue of the respected Scientific American by Fred Tschirley, a retired Michigan State University professor of botany and plant pathology who is now executive director of the Michigan Agriculture/Business Council. "Exposure to low concentrations of TCDD (dioxin) in the environment," he concludes, "appears not to have serious chronic effects on human beings."

The basis for this judgment lies in several studies of people exposed to large doses of dioxin. Two industrial accidents — one in Nitro, W. Va., in 1949, which exposed more than 200 workers, and one in Seveso, Italy, in 1975 that affected about 37,000 people — provided a rich vein for research.

Among the 122 workers in Nitro who developed the symptom of high exposure (a skin rash known as chloracne), who were examined for the next 30 years, "the total number of deaths ... did not differ significantly from that expected in the population at large, and there were no excess deaths due to cancer or diseases of the circulatory system" — which are suspected to be two of dioxin's dangers.

In Seveso, some of the victims suffered transient effects — chloracne, headaches, digestive ailments — "but no long-term effects such as birth defects and chromosome damage have been identified," notes Tschirley. It's too early, though, to detect any possible cancers caused by the exposure.

An EPA study claimed to show a connection between the spraying of a dioxin-contaminated herbicide in Oregon and spontaneous abortions among local women. A group of scholars at Oregon State University looked at the data and replied that it proved nothing. Several other studies show no such connection.

One Swedish study of forestry workers who had come in contact with dioxin showed an abnormally high rate of a cancer called soft-tissue sarcoma. But subsequent investigation found that two of the seven people cited had in fact died of other types of cancer, and three of the others may not have been exposed to dioxin.

By contrast, studies of American soldiers exposed to Agent Orange found a lower than normal risk of soft-tissue sarcoma. The judge who presided over the Agent Orange lawsuit said the plaintiffs had "in no case ... shown causality for the health effects claimed."

None of this has calmed public fears, which are inflamed every time someone discovers a parcel of land contaminated with dioxin. Nor has it had much effect on attitudes in the federal government, which plans to spend an estimated $1 billion in further study. If Times Beach is any indication, the EPA will spend still more in an effort to protect Americans against dioxin.

Given the wealth of evidence acquitting the chemical of any serious hazard to human health, at least in the low concentrations found so far, it's hard to see why. Instead of squandering huge sums of money indulging popular alarm, the federal government should concentrate on educating the public about the facts. Panic, especially unfounded panic, is a bad guide to policy.

Soviet clients now have supplier for spare parts

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — As certified critics of the Pentagon's penchant for extravagant projects and hidebound suspicion of new ideas, we are delighted to break the news of an ingenious, small-budget program the military has been running without fanfare for more than a year. It even has a catchy nickname: "Bear's Spares."

The idea, like most good ones, is simplicity itself: Offer Third World countries maintenance and American-made spare parts for their Soviet military hardware. The aim is to make it easier for these nations to cut the strings the Soviets always attach to their military aid, yet avoid the need to buy new weapons they can't afford.

The Pentagon has deliberately kept the modest program under wraps. But we've learned that the two sparring partners of the Reagan Cabinet, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and Secretary of State George Shultz, both approved the plan in April 1984.

A small staff from the Pentagon's security assistance program was given the task of developing and implementing "Bear's Spares," and has supervised nearly $50 million worth of the imaginative contracts already.

The program has concentrated on Africa, where the Russian bear's pawprints have been a disturbing feature of the political landscape for years. The idea originated with Noel Koch, deputy assistant defense secretary for African affairs, who pointed out that problem that poor African nations have when they decide to back out of the Soviet bearhug but are then stuck with quantities of deteriorating military equipment.

Reagan administration officials were quick to grasp the potential of the United States stepping in with maintenance expertise and spare parts. As Koch explains, the Soviets "deliberately seek to develop a dependency that requires a large presence in the country as well as an umbilical relationship with Moscow."

The Soviets do this by "providing only the most rudimentary training in maintaining equipment, some of which — by design — cannot even be maintained locally, but must be returned to the Soviet Union or elsewhere," he said. This system, plus the rapid accumulation of debts, soon result in a relationship like that between "field hands and the company store," Koch said.

Two countries that nearly became docile Soviet satellites through military aid were Egypt and Somalia. But both faced a hard choice when they booted the Soviet out: learn to live with crumbling, unreliable weapons or spend money they didn't have on new Western hardware.

The beauty of "Bear's Spares" is that the former Soviet clients now have a third option: for a relatively modest sum, learn from U.S. experts how to maintain their Soviet arms, and buy needed spare parts from American companies.

Small U.S. contractors are understandably enthusiastic about the program; more surprisingly, the big boys are, too. A Pentagon source explained: "They know the countries can't afford the big-ticket items, so it's a way for them to make a few bucks they wouldn't have made otherwise."

Another advantage of the program is that it probably saves American taxpayers a bundle by preventing the necessity of U.S. military aid grants to buy new, expensive weapons.

The possibilities of the program are truly exciting. In the next decade, it would not be farfetched to imagine that "Bear's Spares" could play a major role in prying loose from the Kremlin's embrace such countries as Mozambique, Guyana and Suriname. Even Libya might be susceptible, once Muammar Khadafi is gone.

Billy Graham

Tongue can cause trouble

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My two sisters and I were together during the Christmas holidays, for the first time in several years. Unfortunately, we got into several arguments and said things that really hurt. We have had problems getting along before, but this time I'm afraid the wounds won't ever heal. Can I do anything? — Mrs. W.B.V.

DEAR MRS. W.B.V.: The Bible warns, "Consider that a great forest is set on fire by a small spark. The tongue also is a fire, a world of evil among the parts of the body. It corrupts the whole person, sets the whole course of his life on fire ... no man can tame the tongue. It is a restless evil, full of deadly poison" (James 3:5-6, 8).

But that same chapter also says this: "But the wisdom that comes from heaven is first of all pure; then peace-loving, considerate, submissive, full of mercy and good fruit, impartial and sincere. Peacemakers who sow in peace raise a harvest of righteousness." The passage then continues, "What causes fights and quarrels among you? Don't they come from your desires that battle within you?" (James 3:17-4:1). You see, by nature, we are selfish and this leads to conflict when we don't get our own way. Only God can take away that selfishness and replace it with love for others.

What should you do? First, you need God's forgiveness for whatever you did to contribute to this problem — and for all your other sins as well. Turn your life over to Christ, and then ask Him to give you the wisdom (and patience) to be a peacemaker in your family.

The first step may be to admit you were wrong (perhaps in a letter) and ask your sisters' forgiveness. Then pray for each one in your family, that they will see their need of Christ and turn to Him. When emotions cool down, you may want to visit them separately, to listen and to encourage them to forgive each other.

Billy Graham's religious column is distributed by Tribune Media Services.

Today is Friday, Feb. 7, the 38th day of 1986. There are 327 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Feb. 7, 1964, the Beatles' invasion of the United States began, as thousands of screaming fans welcomed John, Paul, George and Ringo at New York's Kennedy Airport.

On this date:

In 1812, author Charles Dickens was born in Portsmouth, England.

In 1827, the first ballet to be performed in the United States, "The Deserter," was presented at the Bowery Theatre in New York. It featured a ballerina in such flimsy attire that many women in the audience walked out.

In 1885, author Sinclair Lewis was born in Sauk Center, Minn.

In 1904, a fire began in Baltimore that raged for about 30 hours and destroyed more than 1,500 buildings.

In 1931, aviator Amelia Earhart married publisher George P. Putnam in Noank, Conn.

In 1936, President Franklin D. Roosevelt authorized a flag for the office of the vice president.

In 1944, during World War II, the Germans launched a counteroffensive at Anzio, Italy.

In 1948, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower resigned as Army chief of staff and was succeeded by Gen. Omar Bradley.

In 1971, women in Switzerland won the right to vote.

In 1974, the island nation of Grenada won independence from Britain.

Ten years ago: China disclosed that Hua Kuo-Feng, a relatively unknown deputy prime minister and minister of public security, had been appointed acting prime minister.

Today's Birthdays: Actor Eddie Bracken is 66. Author Gay Talese is 54.

Right to life is for unborn, too

To the editor:
Mr. Tim Appel's title to his article, (in Monday's Herald dated 1-27-86) "Abortion is About Rights" is well taken.

Having stated that a decision could possibly be made this year (on the abortion issue) Mr. Appel then places himself on the bench, and writes the judgement "Right to life" argues about protecting a supposed life.

That my conviction, well-based on medical evidence, that life begins at conception is referred to as supposed life, is something that I object to. For me it is life — an individual life.

Who is the individual? You and me and the unborn child of every race and color. That child is an individual with a life of its own. Albeit dependent on the mother — another individual — to sustain him/her until birth, and is entrusted to her by God Himself.

Since the test tube birth of "Baby Louise Brown", and the development of new technology that reveals life as it grows in the womb from conception, there is no longer a question of when does life begin.

You mentioned Wade vs. Roe. In my opinion that decision was a blunder that violates my rights, and needs to be rectified by the people. Meantime we need to stop this senseless, merciless, hideous killing of innocents in the womb via abortion.

Until we can see what we are doing in allowing destruction of the unborn through abortion to continue; until we stop killing our unborn innocents, we as individuals will not be at peace with ourselves or anyone else.

Life is God-given and precious in all its stages from beginning to end. Yes we all have a God-given right to life.

Doctors' building is sign of growth

To the editor:

Tuesday's article about a significant increase in building activity in the community was a positive note. Malone-Hogan Hospital Inc. is proud to be a part of the growth taking place in Big Spring. Regarding the comment by the newspaper that the new professional building would house physicians who would "be in competition" with Malone and Hogan Clinic, however, I take issue.

In the first place, the Malone and Hogan Clinic group of doctors have a reputation for practicing a quality of medicine in the area that impresses most medical professionals and local residents. Theirs is a diversified clinic practice that attracts patients from Midland, Odessa, Andrews, Lamesa, Pecos, Fort Stockton to name just a few.

This is the reputation they justifiably enjoy. As the primary hospital for their patients, we are more aware of this fact than are others. A 1985 health survey by a consulting firm reveals that local residents overwhelmingly preferred our hospital in case of serious illness. This is in large part due to the confidence in our medical staff, which is made up primarily of the Malone and Hogan Clinic doctors.

The purpose for HCA building a professional office was twofold in nature. First it allowed us to recruit needed specialists into the community to take care of patients presently leaving Big Spring for their medical care. An example is a cardiologist which we have recently recruited and which is the only such specialty in Howard County.

The second reason was to provide office space to physicians moving into Big Spring who preferred to be a solo practitioner (i.e., not part of a multi-specialty clinic).

We believe that the addition of the professional office building on the hospital campus was to meet a community need similar to the Alcohol/Substance Abuse unit opened in January and our Home Health Service which began in 1984.

Editorial wrongly ties draft, loans

To the editor:

Your lead editorial of Monday, Feb. 3, "Press on to get draft registrants," addresses two distinct issues: draft registration and student aid and attempts to link one to the other.

As a former recipient of both programs, I heartily disagree with your opinion.

Since the draft was abolished and the military services have become all-volunteer forces we have not lost the capability for waging war in any part of the globe. We have had a reorientation of our thinking and hopefully will not involve ourselves in wars to bolster the economy or obtain re-election for a particular politician or party.

Should we ever be called on to again fight a conventional war similar to the national emergency of WWII, then we will institute a draft to meet that emergency. Until that time, the Selective Service System has outlived its usefulness, i.e., no draft for nearly 13-years, and should go by the board with other useless government programs.

I take especial exception to your second paragraph: "It is inexcusable to allow Americans who would shirk the duty of defending their country to receive taxpayer aid to further their education." You have just excluded every female in need of an educational loan. Females do not have to register for the draft.

Should we extend this negative thinking to include all non-veterans and non-registrants who receive all of the other so-called Entitlement Programs checks each month? Teddy Roosevelt would be shocked to see the number of welfare recipients that are able but not willing to pull his weight.

We military veterans earned educational assistance via the "GI Bill". This is the only social welfare program that has paid for itself. Educated people usually have better jobs. They make more money and pay far more taxes.

Even so with the student of today who may or may not register for the draft or ever serve in the armed forces of this country. They will make more money and they will pay more taxes.

Part of that tax money is used for the loans and grants that are necessary to keep our people in school and up to date in all the aspects of what it takes to run this society. And I fail to understand how registration for the draft has anything to do with that process.

Woman looks to reshape body

DEAR ABBY: Is it true that in Hollywood if an actress is good for a part but needs a few alterations (physically) they can fix just about anything? I read somewhere that if a woman is skinny or has bony parts, she can be filled in with silicone. Like in that song from "A Chorus Line," "T and A Is Where It's At." Well, I have plenty of "T" and "A," but the calves of my legs are very thin and my knees are bony. The rest of me is just fine, but my legs are so shapeless I hate to show them.

Plastic surgeons can perform miracles with a face-lift, so why should giving a woman shapely calves be so difficult? Where can I find a doctor who does this kind of work? I have the funds to handle it, so that's no problem.

Please don't give me any lectures about how I should be satisfied with what I've got. I've heard plenty of those. At 39, I'm old enough to know what I want.

NO NAME OR TOWN, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: Now that you're rejected my intuitive advice, here's my next choice. Consult with three of the top plastic surgeons in your area. (If you don't know who they are, contact your county association of plastic and reconstructive surgeons, and request referrals.) Discuss your desires with all three of these doctors, then make your decision.

DEAR ABBY: Can you stand one more letter from a waitress? (Don't worry, it's not about tipping.) If one more customer comes into the lounge where I work and asks me to serve an underage child an alcoholic beverage — orders two drinks and gives one to the child, then says, "Don't worry, I'll take the responsibility" — I don't know what I'll do.

What I'd really like to do is slap them upside the head and maybe knock some sense into them! If they realized what the penalties are for serving minors, they'd never ask me to do it.

Are they willing to serve my possible jail term, or pay up to $2,000 for my possible fine? Would they be willing to reimburse the restaurant-lounge for the money it would lose if its liquor license were suspended?

Abby, please tell parents who allow their underage children to drink, to do it in their own homes and not expect the cooperation of a bartender or waitress. Thanks. By printing this you may have saved my job and my sanity.

HAD IT IN FLORIDA

DEAR HAD IT: When you're asked to serve someone who appears to be underage, ask to see his/her identification. If an adult offers to accept the responsibility, say, "The responsibility is not transferable ... it's mine." Period.

DEAR ABBY: I'm so glad you told that man who had fallen in love with a young lady's voice over the telephone to go ahead and meet her. I would just like to say that you can never tell where a phone call will lead.

A good friend of mine from high school attended the U.S. Air Force Academy where I'd call him occasionally to see how things were going. As cadets do not have phones in their rooms, my calls were answered at the squadron desk by the cadet working there; one cadet in particular began to recognize my voice, and I liked him. We exchanged pictures and letters for four months, and when we finally met face to face, we felt as though we'd known each other for years. We are now engaged and plan to be married after he completes pilot's training.

Dr. Donohue

Cancer Drug attacks hair follicles

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am 77 years old and have leukemia. I have been receiving treatment for five months now. The reason I am writing is that I have to know what makes my hair fall out. My medicine is vincristine. I want to know why it makes hair fall out. I still have some thin hair, but that, too, is falling out.

Is there any drug to stop this? I have heard of putting ice on your head. Do you think that will work? Losing my hair is the worst part of being sick. Would it hurt me if I refused this medicine? Does it make a great difference? — Depressed.

Vincristine (Oncovin) is a drug that blocks multiplication of the leukemia cancer cells. But it does the same for many other cells as well, including those of hair follicles. So 20 percent of those on this treatment have hair loss. The hair almost always returns when the treatment is stopped, and that will come with time. Some patients have hair regrowth even while being treated.

I understand how upsetting this can be. One of the strategies tried to prevent the loss was application of ice to the scalp when administering the drug. The idea was to constrict blood vessels of the hair follicles and prevent the drug from reaching them. Others tried putting a tight rubber band around the scalp for the same purpose. It didn't work for everyone. If I were you, I would accept the loss as temporary and look for the day when you get your brand new head of hair.

Regrowth is almost always 100 percent, and this reassurance helps most people weather the psychological shock of baldness during treatment. While it is growing back you can use a hair piece. Many are available that look quite natural.

Please don't talk about refusing your medicine. The drug is most important for your problem. I hope the next time you write you will have a more upbeat signature to your letter.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: How does one get deficient in magnesium? What kinds of food contain magnesium? What do diuretics have to do with magnesium deficiency? — Mrs. O.O.

Magnesium is an important body element, the normal adult requiring about 300 milligrams daily. Most people get it from a balanced diet.

When the body senses that is getting low on magnesium, the kidneys start conserving it. If a person is using water pills (diuretics) the conservation effort can be thwarted by the great release of body fluid.

Magnesium deficiency may arise in malnutrition, alcoholism, chronic diarrhea, or kidney disease. There may be a calcium deficiency in bones along with the low magnesium level, for it plays a role in bone calcium uptake.

Magnesium is plentiful in nature. Foods high in it include whole grains, dark-green leafy vegetables, corn meal, and brown rice. Soybeans and fish like clams, crab and shrimp have it, as do dried figs, apricots and dates. Most of these high-magnesium foods will provide from 50 to 100 mgs. of magnesium for each 100-gram portion.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of Dr. Donohue's booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is and what can be done about it. Hypersonic plane gets priority

WASHINGTON (AP) — It has taken on the name "Orient Express," and its supporters foresee the day not too far off when it will fly passengers across the country and on to Asia in a scant two hours.

The Pentagon sees it as a super-speed warplane that also could lift payloads into space as the next step beyond the space shuttle.

It is called the National Aerospace Plane by NASA and Pentagon officials, a project that gained little attention before being mentioned Tuesday by President Reagan in his State of the Union address.

The president's fiscal 1987 budget, sent to Congress on Wednesday, included $200 million — $45 million at NASA and the rest at the Defense Department — for early technological research to develop the super-speed aircraft before the end of the century.

Total cost of a prototype was put at $2 billion to $3 billion.

Several major aerospace companies have for years been quietly pursuing the so-called hypersonic aircraft, which would use new technology engines and strong, lightweight materials not yet developed.

Its initial use likely would be military.

But John P. McTeague, acting science adviser to the president, said the aircraft would be the end of the century have commercial value as well. His predecessor, George A. Keyworth, had been a strong booster of the hypersonic plane, arguing it could revolutionize travel across the vast Pacific.

Reagan pictured such a development in his address to Congress

Tuesday night:

"We are going forward with research (on an aircraft) ... that could by the end of the next decade, take off from Dulles Airport (outside Washington) and accelerate up to 25 times the speed of sound, attaining a low-earth orbit (and) ... fly to Tokyo within two hours."

The project, a joint venture by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Pentagon, calls for spending about $600 million during the next three years for early technological development, according to NASA officials.

While initial expenditures are low, Ray Colladay, NASA's associate administrator for aeronautics and technology, suggested spending in the following years could accelerate.

Mother accused of fraud

DALLAS (AP) — A mother of three who confessed to reporting only $120 of her $658 monthly earnings to qualify for food stamps has been sentenced to 25 years and a day in prison.

On Wednesday, a state district court jury of five women and seven men found Alfreda Dickerson, of Dallas, guilty of defrauding the state of $115 in food stamps.

In a confession taken by her welfare worker, Mrs. Dickerson said she reported her income at less than she actually was making as a nurse's aide in June 1983 because "at the time, the job was only part-time and I didn't know where I would be working next."

"I knew if I reported my earnings, I would lose my welfare benefits and I didn't want to risk that," she said.

Mrs. Dickerson faced a minimum 25-year prison sentence because she was tried as a habitual offender.

She has been convicted five times and sent to prison twice for welfare fraud, theft by check and burglary, officials said.

Defense attorney John Stauffer said Mrs. Dickerson was only trying to feed her three kids.

"Do you think there was some big attempt to defraud the pecuniary interests of the great state of Texas by this mastermind over here?" he said.

But prosecutor Cynthia Hayter argued that Mrs. Dickerson should be convicted for "old-fashioned stealing."

"She's not a run-of-the-mill welfare recipient," Ms. Hayter said. "She's a run-of-the-mill criminal."

Judge David Johnson said the sentence was a compromise between six jurors who wanted to give Mrs. Dickerson 25 years and six other jurors who wanted to give her 40 years.

Insulin pumps cause problems

CHICAGO (AP) — A device used to help diabetics control blood sugar may be more trouble than it's worth, and two drugs prescribed to diabetics for pain from nerve damage may be virtually ineffective, according to new reports.

Problems accompanied use of insulin pumps in half of 24 patients ages 8 to 26 treated with pumps for hard-to-control blood-sugar levels, doctors reported in Friday's Journal of the American Medical Association.

The pumps are cigarette pack-size, battery-charged, syringe-containing devices carried on a belt to deliver insulin through a tube to a tiny needle taped to the skin.

Difficulties included mechanical problems, skin infections and errors in using the devices, despite intensive training, said Dr. Stuart J. Brink of Harvard Medical School and Dr. Constance Stewart of Joslin Youth Clinic in Boston.

"One of our hopes several years ago was that this would be a very valuable way to deliver insulin to a lot of people," Brink said.

In another study in the journal, pumps were found to control blood sugar in pregnant diabetic women no better than conventional therapy: self-measuring of blood sugar up to seven times daily and self-injection of insulin up to four times daily.

Queens nipped; Hawks blasted

Tentative Hawks' troubles continue

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Sports Writer

If frustration could be measured with a thermometer the Howard College Hawks, and coach Ed Sparling in particular, would have blown the mercury right through the roof of Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Thursday night's game against South Plains College was the basketball equivalent of death and taxes for Howard as the visiting South Plains Texans routed the Hawks, 70-52, handing Sparling's charges their eighth straight Western Junior College Athletic Conference loss.

Simply put, the Hawks hit rock bottom.

It is not that they were beat physically. Collectively, Howard has talent equal with most teams in the WJAC, but the frustration of these losses has transformed the normally fluid Hawk players into tentative shadows of their former selves.

Much of the credit for the Hawks demise on this night must go to the Texans, who despite starting five freshmen, played with the aplomb of veterans. Without question, it was the strongest defensive performance of the season against the Hawks.

"Every coach in the league feels that these guys (South Plains) should be blowing people out with as good a defense as they have. (Ron) Mayberry (Texan head coach) has done a phenomenal job with those kids," said Sparling.

Through the first ten minutes of the game, the Hawks and Texans patiently worked their offenses. Neither team was able to build a lead of more than two points.

Midway through the period Howard forward Trey Hughes caught fire, at one point hitting four consecutive jumpers, giving the Hawks a 16-14 lead with eight minutes left in the half. Hughes scored all of his team-high 12 points in the first half.

The turning point for the Texans occurred with about five minutes left in the half, when down 22-18, they forced two quick turnovers and tied the game on breakaway layups. From that point the Hawks confidence was broken.

The Texans full court pressure forced nine of Howard's 25 turnovers in the final four minutes of the half enabling South Plains to take a 32-26 lead into the lockerroom.

Walter Reynolds led a short-lived

Hawk comeback in the opening minutes of the second period. The sophomore post scored three quick baskets to pull the Hawks to within one, 34-33, at the 18:03 mark.

But the South Plains defense, led by freshman sensation Darryle Rudolph, quickly regained control of the game forcing three Hawk turnovers, and the Texans took a 40-34 lead by the fifteen minute mark.

South Plains holds off Queens, 68-60

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Writer

It was only six minutes, but it was long enough; too long if you're a Howard Hawk-Queens fan. In a seven-minute span the Queens let a upset victory get away as the South Plains Lady Texans came away with a 68-60 win over Howard last night.

The fatal six minute span occurred in the second half of the Western Junior College Athletic Conference clash. It saw coach Don Stevens' Queens go from having command of the game, to the Lady Texans regaining control and holding on for the win.

The turnaround started with the Queens holding a 41-36 lead at the 13 minute mark, then switching to the visitors taking a 51-46 lead with seven minutes remaining. Shabby Howard defense and the inside play of South Plains forward Sally Walling turned the tide of the game.

It was really an unexpected turnaround since Howard had been playing excellent defense in the second half. In fact the Queens had to make a comeback themselves after trailing 32-29 at the half.

SOPHIA ISH
...19 points, 17 rebounds

"We had a defensive lapse," said Stevens of the troubled six minutes. "We had a couple of people to lose their man and they got some easy baskets. We stop putting pressure on the ball."

Walling, a 5-10 sophomore forward, rallied her team back as she hit four baskets in the six minute span which South Plains outscored Howard 15-5. After having a relatively quiet first half with 7 points, she came back in the second half and scored 14 of her game-high 21 points. She only missed two shots the whole second half.

...good game off bench

"We didn't play good man-man defense," Stevens said. "We were giving them too many drives to the basket."

Most of Walling and fellow forward's Shari Schilling's points were scored on drives. Schilling, who scored 10 of her total 16 points in the first half, was held in check most of the second half by Howard's Lorri French.

Ditka glad Ryan gone

CHICAGO (AP) — Coach Mike Ditka, saying he won't miss defensive coordinator Buddy Ryan, predicts his Super Bowl champion Chicago Bears will be even better next year despite the departure of the assistant coach.

"I'm not happy he's gone, I'm elated," Ditka said in an interview Wednesday with The Associated Press. "We'll be better next year."

Ryan, who put together the "46" defense that was instrumental in the Bears' success, left the team shortly after its 46-10 Super Bowl victory over New England to become head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles.

"Never again in history will an assistant coach get as much credit as Buddy did," Ditka said. "I handled it well. It will be interesting to see how he handles it now that he's head coach."

Ryan and Ditka never did hit it off that well, largely because of their differing defensive philosophies and approaches to handling players.

"We never went out social but then, I'm not much of a socializer," Ryan said of their relationship.

"I should be so lucky to have a Buddy Ryan around. I'd like to have somebody around to take care of me," he said.

Ryan was around because, after the 1981 season, late Bears owner George Halas kept him on as defensive coordinator after firing Neill Armstrong as head coach.

Halas then brought in Ditka to replace Armstrong.

Ditka was never a big supporter of Ryan's "46" defense, in which six or seven men can be used to rush the passer, leaving cornerbacks and linebackers in one-on-one situations with wide receivers.

And he criticizes Ryan for playing favorites and taking more than his share of credit for the Bears' successes.

"I believe in playing the best 11 players," Ditka said. "I don't believe in having favorite players. I want challenges, not preconceived situations. I want everybody to have a chance to play."

"The defense should have been great this season. They were on the field 20 minutes of the game. The offense was on the field the other 40 minutes."

Ditka and Ryan had numerous disagreements, but their one big blowup came at halftime of the Bears' only loss during the past season, a 38-24 setback at Miami in a nationally televised Monday night game last December.

"That was major. I wanted to know what we were doing on the field on defense, how we were trying to cover three different receivers," Ditka said.

BUDDY RYAN
...headed to Eagles

"He didn't know what was going on on defense and we cussed each other out," Ryan recalled. "But we'd do that every three or four weeks. Maybe it stands out in his mind, but it doesn't stand out in my mind."

Ditka said he backed Ryan even when he didn't agree with him.

"I even sat back at what happened at Platteville," he said, when Ryan called rookie defensive tackle William "The Refrigerator" Perry "a wasted draft choice."

Dallas to host first NBA All-Star game

DALLAS (AP) — To Dallas civic fathers, it's only fitting that the team leading the National Basketball Association in attendance is hosting the league's 36th annual All-Star game this weekend.

The expansion Dallas Mavericks got the NBA All-Star game in only their fifth year of existence.

Texas' other NBA teams haven't been as fortunate.

The Houston Rockets have been in business since 1971, but have yet to host the game.

The San Antonio Spurs came into the NBA in 1976 and haven't had their turn, either. However, the old American Basketball Association franchise entertained the dream game for the league with the red, white and blue basketball in 1975.

Norm Sonju, general manager of the Mavericks, began working on bringing the All-Star game to Dallas four years ago.

"This might be the last time the All-Star game is held in a facility as small (17,000 capacity) as ours," said Sonju. "The trend seems to be going to the large indoor domes like the ones at Detroit and Indianapolis."

Sonju pointed out that 43,146 fans saw the game in Indianapolis and said "If we had the availability of such a facility in Dallas, I'm convinced we could have sold as many tickets here."

Dallas is averaging just under 17,000 fans per game. The Mavs were second in the NBA in attendance last year behind Detroit.

"We've worked long and hard to get this game for Reunion Arena," said Sonju, "but by Monday we'll all know it was worth it. It's one more big event for the Texas Sesquicentennial year."

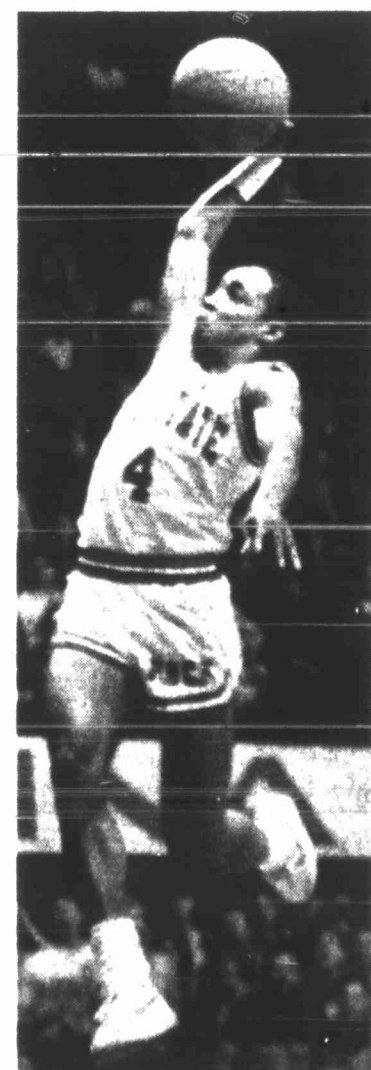

Dallas has an unmatched basketball doubleheader this year — the NBA All-Star game followed by the NCAA Final Four at Reunion in March.

No expense has been spared for the NBA All-Star weekend, which will draw some 500 national media people and thousands of other visitors to Dallas.

For example, seven separate banquets will be hosted at different locations Saturday night. The largest one is at the Dallas Convention Center where Texas country and western singing legend Willie Nelson will perform for some 7,500 people.

"What's happened here is a heckuva phenomenon," said Dallas Coach Dick Motta. "I never dreamed Dallas could lead the NBA in attendance without a championship being involved."

Basketball has come a long way in Texas and particularly in Dallas where football has been king. The old Dallas Chaparrals of the ABA finally moved off to San Antonio because of poor support.

Atlanta Hawks guard Spud Webb, shown here in a photo from his college days at North Carolina State, will be the crowd favorite in the NBA Slam Dunk Contest.

Spud will slam with big boys

By ED SHEARER
AP Sports Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — If you think a 308-pound running back scoring a touchdown in the Super Bowl is unusual, just wait until Spud Webb shows up for the National Basketball Association's slam dunk competition in Dallas Saturday.

Dominique Wilkins of the Atlanta Hawks will be there trying to defend his title with a series of spectacular slams, but he won't come close to being the crowd's favorite.

Webb, a 5-foot-7 rookie with the Hawks, sewed up that role as soon as the list of eight competitors was announced for one of the sideshows the NBA holds in conjunction with its annual All-Star game, which will be staged in the same Reunion Arena Sunday afternoon.

Webb's size will be the main reason the crowd should be on his side. He's the shortest player in the league this year and one of the smallest in the history of the NBA.

Not many people Webb's size can touch the rim, which is 10 feet above the floor, but, thanks to a 42-inch vertical leap, this 5-7 person can dunk a basketball.

"I'm very excited about it," Webb said. "I just want to try to compete, try to go out and win. It's a competition type thing."

Webb has been in competition a long time, proving there is a spot for the little man in a sport dominated by men a foot or more taller. He played high school and junior college ball in his home state of Texas and then spent two seasons in the Atlantic Coast Conference at North Carolina State.

Webb decided to go for a pro career, and, after being cut by the Detroit Pistons, landed a spot on Atlanta's roster as a free agent. He's been averaging about six points and three assists per game.

"The six to 10 minutes I play each game is great," Webb said. "Some rookies don't even get to play and I get to play every night. I've just been enjoying it. I'm glad to be a part of the team."

Webb has become a fan's delight throughout the NBA. He recently drew a loud ovation in Boston, where fans tend to show such favoritism only for their beloved Celtics.

"When you get an ovation in Boston, it's great," Webb said. "I've heard not many (visiting) players got an ovation there."

Webb knows his size is the reason he's become such a favorite around the league, but he's tired of talking about it.

"I don't ever think about size, but everybody talks about it," he said. "I hear it every day. I hear it all the time. I hear it too much. I just go out and do the things I do."

"It's going to be fun," Wilkins said of the upcoming slam dunk competition. "He'll (Webb) have a lot of people behind him. Nobody ever sees a guy that little in a contest like that."

The field will also include Roy Hinson of Cleveland, Jerome Kersey of Portland, Paul Pressey of Milwaukee, Terence Stansbury of Indiana, Terry Tyler of Sacramento and Wilkins' younger brother, Gerald of New York, who replaces the injured Orlando Woolridge of Chicago. Pressey and Stansbury are the closest players in the field to Webb in size, and both of them are 10 inches taller.

The five judges will score the contest similar to diving and gymnastics, with the difficulty factor playing a role, so that should help Webb.

Jim Valvano, who coached Webb at North Carolina State, already has his mind made up about the outcome.

"Everybody said he wouldn't make his high school team and he did," Valvano said. "They said he was too small to play college ball, and he did. Then they said there was no way he could play pro ball, but he did."

"So, I predict that he will win the slam dunk competition."

Steers to battle OHS

ODESSA — The Big Spring Steers will face the Odessa High Bronchos tonight in District 4-5A basketball action at 8.

The Steers (3-21, 2-9) are coming off a 60-57 loss to Midland last Tuesday night. In that game, district-leading scorer Brian Mayfield scored 30 points and hauled down 15 rebounds.

Odessa High (2-9, 8-18) is coming off a 74-61 loss to Abilene High Tuesday night in Abilene. Tracy Blaylock and Tim Deboskie combined for 33 points in the loss.

JV action gets underway at 6:15 p.m.

Lady Steers close out season

The Big Spring Lady Steers will conclude their basketball season tonight when they host the Odessa High Lady Bronchos in Steer Gym at 8.

Both teams are tied for fourth place in district play with 3-10 records. Big Spring, 8-18 overall, is coming off a 64-60 loss to Midland Lee Monday night in Midland. Forwards Monique Jones and Teresa Pruitt scored 23 and 18 points respectively.

Queens

French came off the bench and did a good job, especially in the second half, as she scored 10 of her 13 points in the period.

The loss offset a fine performance turned in by Howard freshman post player Sophia Ish. The six-footer from Forth Worth dominated things inside with 17 rebounds and a team-leading 19 points. She hit 9 of 14 field goal attempts while patrolling the boards for seven offensive rebounds.

Howard outrebounded its opponent 34-27.

One thing that hurt the Queens was that South Plains was whistled for only eight fouls the entire game. Howard shot only five free throws in the game, sinking four of them. Meanwhile South Plains went to the line 22 times, sinking 16 attempts.

Early going action looked like the game might be a high-scoring affair. Both teams came out smoking, bombing away at each other's zone. Eventually both teams would have to go to man-man defenses.

Midway through the half the score was tied at 16-16 and Howard was 8 of 15 from the floor while South Plains had sunk 8 of 13 attempts.

For the night Howard shot a respectable 45 percent from the floor while South Plains hit 51 percent of their attempts. Howard started out strong at the start of the second half, playing sticky defense and shooting the ball well.

French started things off with a basket, cutting the lead to 32-31. Next French fed Ish inside for a basket, giving Howard a one-point lead. Ish scored again and guard Terri Powell, who ended the game with 12 points, scored from the corner.

South Plains' first basket of the half came at the 15:55 mark. By that time Howard held a 37-32 lead.

But South Plains slowly crept back into the contest behind the play of Walling. The Lady Texans regained the lead, 45-44, with 9:34 left in the game. South Plains opened up a 61-52 lead but Howard battled back to cut the margin to 63-58 with 1:10 remaining. But that's as close as the home would get.

"This wasn't a eight point ballgame," said Stevens. We still had a chance in the final two minutes of the game but we mishandled the ball two straight times and they took it down and scored. We just made some freshmen mistakes; but we are getting better. We didn't collapse in the second half like we did in the last game against Western Texas."

The loss leaves the Queens with a 3-6 in conference, good for fourth place, and 9-16 overall.

Their next game will be a non-conference tilt Monday against Richland College in Dallas at 7 p.m.

HOWARD (6-0) — Terri Powell 6 0 12; Lori French 6 1 13; Carolyn Willard 5 2 12; Sophia Ish 9 1 19; Trina Allen 1 0 2; Windee McCullin 1 0 2; totals 28 4 60. SOUTH PLAINS (6-8) — Vicky McKenzie 3 2 8; Kami Schonerstedt 4 1 9; Sally Walling 8 5 21; Shari Schilling 7 2 16; Leona Gerber 1 4 6; Penny Elkins 3 2 8; totals 36 16 68.

HALFTIME — South Plains 32, Howard 29. RECORDS — Howard (3-6, 9-16) South Plains (4-2, 16-7).

Jabbar topples Twin Towers

By The Associated Press
Kareem Abdul-Jabbar started shaking and when he had finished, Houston's Twin Towers had come tumbling down.

Jabbar scored a season-high 46 points, leading the Los Angeles Lakers to a 117-95 rout of the Houston Rockets in a National Basketball Association game Thursday night.

NBA

In other NBA games, Philadelphia beat Cleveland 111-103, Detroit tipped Washington 111-109 in overtime, Atlanta downed Indiana 100-85, Milwaukee trounced Chicago 117-97, Denver beat San Antonio 100-95, Utah stopped New York 119-101, Phoenix tripped the Los Angeles Clippers 116-104, Sacramento defeated Seattle 115-106 and Dallas got past Portland 115-111.

Jabbar was perfect in the first quarter, scoring 20 points on 9-10 shooting from the field and 2-and-2 accuracy at the foul line. He did it against the so-called Twin Towers of Olajuwon, who finished with 18 points, and Ralph Sampson, who had 17.

The Lakers streaked to a 66-47 lead at halftime and cruised to victory, Houston managed to pull within 88-77 with 9:47 left in the game, but got no closer.

Jazz 119, Knicks 101
Adrian Dantley got 20 of his 36 points in the third quarter to lead Utah over visiting New York.

Thurl Bailey had 24 points and Karl Malone 19 as the Jazz took the lead for good in the second quarter.

The Knicks missed rookie Patrick Ewing, who was bothered by sore knees. Ewing scored nine points in limited playing time during the first half, and he sat out the second half.

76ers 111, Cavaliers 103
Charles Barkley scored 14 of his 23 points in the fourth quarter as Philadelphia sent Cleveland to its eighth straight loss.

Barkley scored the 76ers' first eight points in the final quarter, giving Philadelphia an 85-74 lead.

Pistons 111, Bullets 109
Bill Laimbeer made a foul shot with three seconds left in overtime and Detroit scored the final eight points in the extra session to beat Washington.

After Laimbeer made his free throw, Detroit's Earl Cureton knocked away an inbound pass and Washington never got off a final shot.

Mavericks 115, Trail Blazers 111
Mark Aguirre scored 29 points while Sam Perkins and Derek Harper had 20 apiece, leading

The Mavericks led by as many as 12 points in the second half before Portland closed within 107-102 on a three-point shot by rookie guard Terry Porter.

Kiki Vandeweghe led Portland with 22 points.

Suns 116, Clippers 104
Larry Nance tallied 29 points and Walter Davis 20, enabling Phoenix to roll to a big lead in downing the Los Angeles Clippers.

The Suns led by 20 points early in the third quarter before Marques Johnson scored eight points and Cedric Maxwell had six as Los Angeles pulled within 90-87 early in the fourth period.

World Council releases shocking report

The World Council of Churches on Wednesday released a report on what it called "shocking" human rights violations in the Philippines under President Ferdinand E. Marcos.

The report was released just two days before a presidential election in which Marcos is hard-pressed by opposition candidate Corason Aquino.

The 163-page report includes detailed testimony on killings, disappearances, and 81 cases of torture, most listed as occurring in the last two years.

Officials said a copy of the report, compiled by Protestant and Catholic human rights organizations in the Philippines, was to be sent to all delegates of the 43-nation United Nations Human Rights Commission.

The report said that "not surprisingly, torture techniques in the Philippines are strikingly similar to the ones practiced and taught by American soldiers during the Vietnam war, and used by other repressive states in Asia and Latin America."

The Reverend George von Hassell, of Big Spring, will be received as a deacon in the Episcopal Church Sunday at 7 p.m. at St. Mary's Episcopal Church by the Rt. Rev. Sam B. Hulse, Bishop of the Diocese of Northwest Texas.

Haines ministers at services

Evangelist Gary Haines, Colorado Springs, Colorado, has been speaker and singer at revival services this week at the Church of the Nazarene, according to Pastor Carl Powers.

Week night services are at 7 p.m. with Sunday's services slated for 10:30 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Powers says Haines is a gifted speaker with a unique pulpit style that captivates the attention of his hearers. Before being converted to Christianity, the evangelist was a nightclub entertainer.

His talents have been redirected to singing and preaching. On Saturday at 7 p.m. he will present a sacred concert with a variety of musical offerings which will inspire as well as bring listening enjoyment.

This concert will be in the sanctuary and is open to the public. Sunday will mark the closing of Haines ministry in the Big Spring Church. He will be singing and speaking at both services. Sunday school classes begin at 9:45 a.m. with the morning service to begin at 10:30 a.m.

Both sessions of Children's Church will meet in "big church" to share in this special service.

Studies in Christian Ethics

Studies in Christian Ethics and Practices of Preaching will be offered in eleven weekly classes beginning Feb. 10 at the Seminary Extension Center located at First Baptist Church.

Lee Butler, director of the center, announced that Clayton Hicks, Minister of Education and Senior Adults at College Baptist Church and Dr. Lee Butler, retired chaplain would be teaching these college-level courses. Classes will be held on Mondays at 6 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Interested persons may pre-enroll at First Baptist Church or by calling 263-3661. The courses are designed primarily for pastors, staff and others actively engaged in ministry, but they are also open to individuals desiring academically oriented study in the Bible and other subjects normally included in a theological curriculum.

The Big Spring Baptist Association Seminary Extension Center is one of about 400 extension centers in operation across the country under the auspices of the Southern Baptist Seminary Extension Department, a ministry of the six Southern Baptist theological seminaries. Locally, the center is sponsored by Big Spring Baptist Association.

Similar courses have been offered regularly by the Big Spring Seminary Extension Center since the fall of 1970.

Betty Reagan teaches lesson

The women of First Church of God met Monday in the church sanctuary for their monthly meeting.

Betty Reagan, Missionary Education Director, presented the second lesson on the study about Native Americans entitled "Toward a Brighter Tomorrow."

Worship program was presented by an Indian story using scriptures James 2:1-8, 12-13.

Members will serve refreshments to the patients of the Big Spring State Hospital today.

World Day of Prayer will be observed Mar. 1 at 10 a.m. at the First United Methodist Church.

The Texas WCG Spring Convention will be held Mar. 13-15 in Odessa at the Odessa Holidome. Guest speaker for the occasion will be the National President, Wanda Royer.

The next meeting will be March 3 in the church sanctuary.

Dixon speaks to mens group

Robert E. (Bob) Dixon, general secretary for the Brotherhood in the Baptist General Convention of Texas, will be speaker for an associational men and boys gathering Monday at 7 p.m. at Hillcrest Baptist Church.

There will be a deer chili supper and the admission is free, said Sam Robertson, association chairman.

Brotherhood work in Texas has been revitalized under Dixon, who has organized a number of mobile disaster aid units which have rushed material aid to Mexico City, Guatemala and to points in hurricane stricken Nicaragua.

Dixon has computerized a list of volunteers by professions and careers so that he can mobilize manpower for every situation. He has helped in setting up the Retired Baptist Men's group which forms crews and helps construct churches for congregations lacking in funds.

Also, he took the Southern Baptist men in Wisconsin and Minnesota and lets them operate under the Texas umbrella.

In addition to Dixon's address there will be singing by the Stanton First Baptist mens group.

Kohl holds Lenten services

Lenten services will be held on Ash Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the sanctuary of St. Paul Lutheran Church. Pastor Carroll E. Kohl will continue Lenten services on Sunday evenings Feb. 16 through Mar. 16 at 7:30 p.m.

The theme for this year's Lenten series is "The Cross and the Common Person." These services are tailored to meet the needs of everyday people who experience a vast number of conflicting emotions and feelings.

This series is designed also to meet the needs of our children. Thus, a segment of each service will call for the children to gather around Pastor Kohl for a meaningful "object lesson" which will suggest an application which will be similar to that offered in each sermon of the series.

The public is invited to attend these services. A nursery will be provided for younger children.

Forbes to preach on Sunday

The Reverend William R. Forbes of Houston will be the guest preacher for pre-Lenten services at First Presbyterian beginning Sunday and continuing with 7:30 p.m. services on February 16, 17 and 18.

Forbes is pastor of St. Philip Presbyterian Church in Houston. His sermon topic for Sunday morning worship will be "You Ain't Seen Nothing Yet!" Featured will be anthems by the Carol Choir and the adult choir under the direction of Mr. Keith Ross, director of music.

The services are planned as an introduction to the pre-Easter season of Lent which begins next Wednesday. Lent is an important season of spiritual preparation for the coming of the Easter celebration on March 30.

It will be observed at First Presbyterian by weekly prayer services each Wednesday beginning Feb. 12.

The service will be broadcast on KBST (1490) at 11:05 a.m. All in the community are invited to share these services.

Church's exchange pastors

Baptist Temple Church and Mt. Bethel Baptist Church will be exchanging pastors for their morning worship service Sunday.

The two churches will come together at Baptist Temple Church at 6 p.m. for an evening of sharing, praise and worship.

Reverend Karl Hockenbush of Mt. Bethel Baptist Church and Brother Logan Peterson of Baptist Temple Church invite everyone to join in this combined effort to disregard racial barriers and to worship as God's family.

Pastor Logan Peterson will be starting a special Sunday School class at 10:15 a.m. to 10:45 a.m. in the church sanctuary on Sunday.

This class will be studying God's word beginning in Genesis and thru Revelation. It will consist of 52 weeks of the highlights of all 66 books of the Bible.

Everyone is invited to come.

mark. The remainder of the game was agonizing for the Hawks. They were unable to get the ball inside to Reynolds and their perimeter shooting was woefully off the mark. The Texans seemingly inexhaustible supply of big men never gave the Hawks more than one shot at the basket, outbounding the Hawks in the game, 32-23.

South Plains also took good advantage of some liberal officiating in the game, going to the line 21 times and sinking 16 free throws, while the Hawks could only manage six of 15 from the line.

"I really don't know what to think. It's not that the boys aren't playing hard. They're trying too hard," admitted Sparling. "Our defense is respectable, but you can't win games unless you put the ball in the hole. It's going to be another sleepless night for me."

Rudolph led the Texans with 17 points and nine rebounds. Reggie Gibbs added 14 and Henry James scored 13 points off the bench.

Hughes and Reynolds each finished with 12 points for the Hawks. Walter Walker was the only other Howard player in double figures with 10 points.
