SPRING-LIKE WEATHER Tuesday afternoon was a good time for Colby Collier, five, and Misty Lollis to do one of Colby's favorite activities: feed bread to the dozens of waterfowl that live at Lake Gordon.

City council receives good news, bad news about walking track

The news concerning the 1.2-mile walking track around Lake Gordon is both good and bad, it was reported during the city council's meeting Monday night.

The good news: an old 180-foot bridge is being donated to the city by the Texas Department of Transportation (DOT), to be placed on the north end of the lake.

The bad news: the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department has rejected the city's request for matching funds to build the track.

The city's request for $42,300 in matching funds from the state was rejected because of "limited funds."

Iowa Park had pledged its funds, labor, equipment and materials, along with private donations of cash, to develop the trail, along with 14 park benches and signs.

City Administrator Mike Price said he had been informed that DOT is to replace an old, but usable, three-span bridge over Beaver Creek, north of Kadane Corner, which could be used for the track over the north end of Lake Gordon.

The bridge was built in 1926, and likely will be declared eligible for an historical marker.

The state will deliver the bridge to the lake site, but the city will be responsible for its installation, as well as replacing its concrete flooring with wood.

Council members were unanimous in agreement with Price, that the city continue its plans to develop the trail, using funds when available.

In other business, the council approved an ordinance which extends its extraterritorial jurisdiction further to the north of the city, approved a request to continue funding to the North Texas Regional Drug Enforcement Task Force, and authorized the administrator to purchase a communications repeater for the police department.

The council's ordinance was in response to a petition to extend the city's ETJ to include the 186.5-acre tract of land owned by the Cleo Nipper Estate.

Funding for the Task Force could be as much as $7,158, aldermen were told.

Under the program, cities and counties participating in the region pledge an equal amount, which could be paid next fall.

The amount can be, and is often less than the pledged amount, because confiscated monies and property taken during a drug arrest is used to offset the budget, aldermen were told.

Representing the Task Force was Sgt. Jerry Riley, a graduate of Iowa Park High School.

The communications repeater for the police department, to cost less than $7,000, will enhance the ability of officers to make contact with other units while on duty. Funding for the equipment was included in the city's budget for this year.

Because of a problem to have the city's advertisement for police chief candidates published in the Texas Municipal League's monthly magazine, aldermen agreed to a proposal that the deadline be moved one month, to March 15.

Price told the council he had received seven applications for the chief position thus far, but anticipated considerably more after the next TML publication is printed.

Prior to the business session, Mayor Tim Hunter administered the oath of office to Jesse Frazier, who has previously served as a police officer, worked at the Allred Unit for a period of time, and sought to return to duty here.

Local police have extra busy week

Iowa Park were kept exceptionally busy during the past week, with five arrests on outstanding warrants, one for driving while intoxicated, one for public intoxication, one assault, and complaints of criminal mischief and theft.

Two of the outstanding warrant arrests occurred when police stopped a vehicle late Thursday evening in the 1400 block of Johnson Road.

The driver, Leland Bruce Wood, 41, was found to have a warrant against him issued by the Wichita County Sheriff's Dept., for capias pro fine driving while license was suspended, with a bond of $720, according to the police blotter.

Wood's passenger, Mary Katherine Duren, 42, also had a warrant issued by the sheriff's office, for capias pro fine DWI, with a bond of $742.

Both were transported at 1:41 a.m. to the county jail.

When an officer checked out Bruce Lee Diaz, 17, Saturday afternoon, it was determined he had two locally-issued warrants; capias pro fine no drivers license and capias pro fine failure to maintain financial responsibility. Total fines amounted to $420.50.

Diaz was released after signing a promise to appear in municipal court the following Tuesday, and released from custody.

Melvin Denton McKnight, 46, was stopped in the 700 block of East Washington at 4:28 p.m. Monday, and a computer check found two outstanding warrants against him had been issued locally.

One warrant was for capias pro fine expired motor vehicle inspection, and the other capias pro fine disobedience to a police officer. The fines for the two were $411.50.

McKnight was later released after signing a promise to appear the next day in municipal court. When he did, the court's judge had him committed to the county jail.

Clifton Kelly Hager, 18, was stopped Monday night by an officer in the 1700 block of Wigley Road, and a computer check found an outstanding warrant against him issued locally.

The warrant was for parking in a handicap parking space, which carries a fine of $94.75. He was later released after signing a promise to appear in municipal court.

Two arrests were recorded shortly before midnight Saturday, when police stopped a vehicle on US 287.

The driver, Michael Laverne Pumfrey, 42, was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated, and taken to the county jail.

His passenger, Dara Lynn Wallace, 39, was taken into custody on a charge of public intoxication. She was released at 4:17 a.m. Sunday, after signing a promise to appear in court.

Chamber adopts aggressive route

An aggressive program called "Projects '98" was unveiled during Monday's monthly meeting of Chamber of Commerce board of directors, by President Robert Palmer.

During each regular meeting, three, three-person committees are to report on topics to which they have been assigned.

Directors have been assigned to the committees on a rotating basis, in order for each to serve on different topics to be discussed.

Topics of the three committees include "Projects to Help Businesses," "Projects to Boost Community Spirit," and "Projects to Gain New Members."

The first of the committee reports is to begin at the February meeting, which normally is held the third Monday of each month.

Also at that meeting, directors are to set the dates for the annual spring city-wide garage sale, as well as Clean-Up, Fix-Up week.

Palmer also reported on meetings he is attending monthly with representatives of Chambers from Electra and Burkburnett, at which discussions are held on "common interests."

He said the February meeting will be hosted by Iowa Park.

Purpose of the sessions, Palmer explained, is to "keep lines of communications open." He also said plans are in the working to have a golf tournament involving representatives of the three organizations.

Equipment to enhance work in the Chamber office by Secretary Susan Dillard, has been donated. It includes an electric typewriter from O.N. Newman and a computer from State National Bank.

Directors approved a proposal to allow members of the Iowa Park Lions Club to hold their weekly luncheon meetings at the Chamber, beginning in February.

Also discussed was the Chamber's annual banquet held earlier this month, and ways to possibly improve it in the future.

POLICE INVESTIGATED a one-vehicle accident Sunday morning at Johnson Road and US 287. The driver, Daniel L. Cannon, 31, of Boguechitto, Miss., said he went to sleep as he approached the overpass, traveling toward the east. Though the vehicle suffered serious damages, Cannon, who was alone, experienced only a bleeding nose.

Amity hears program on flower arranging

A program on flower arranging was presented by Marge Childers at the January meeting of Amity Study Club.

Members met in the home of Michelle Byrne, with Valerie Dillard serving as co-hostess.

Childers showed the members a variety of arrangements in which all types of flowers and ribbons were used. She said the use of silk flowers and natural elements are endless, limited only by the mind of the artist.

Members answered roll call by naming their favorite crafts.

Mary McIlroy gave the meditation, "Silver Boxes and Bows," and the Federation Counselor's Report was made by Sheri Kennedy.

A nominating committee for new officers was appointed, and it was announced that Evelyn Ward, Mary Mynatt, Sue Manes and Sheri Kennedy will be judges for the FFA Leadership meeting Feb. 27 at Ryder High School in Wichita Falls.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostesses.

NEWS OF THE IOWA PARK GENEALOGICAL & HISTORICAL SOCIETY

We all seem to have ancestors who served in the military, and can be a great source of information.

One of my great uncles graduated from the military academy at West Point, N.Y. I first wrote to the Alumni Association, no reply. Next to West Point Military Academy Library and Archives and received a wealth of information, copies of Alexander's application, recommendation and acceptance, military campaigns and military posts he was assigned to.

I had wondered what influenced my relatives to go to Washington State, then I read he had been stationed at Fort Townsend and Vancouver Barracks in Washington Territory.

Alexander's military career ended in San Antonio, where he died of pneumonia in 1888.

Wanting more information I wrote to Fort Sam Houston National Cemetery, but received no reply. One never gives up, so my next quest will be to write to The Cemetery Service, National Cemetery System, Veterans Administration, 810 Vermont Ave. NW, Washington DC. 20422. It's records, from 1861 to the present identify almost all soldiers buried in national cemeteries, and other cemeteries under federal jurisdiction.

There are many sources for military information and some of these may have additional family data on your ancestors siblings, uncles or other family members.

Always preserve family military records, they are valuable documents in your family's history.

If you are interested in trying to locate a family member's personal military record, write the Iowa Park Genealogical and Historical Society for URLs and others in your search for ancestors who have been in military service. IPGHS, PO Box 553, Iowa Park, TX. 76367.

Cook of the WEEK

Rena Bever

Newlywed Rena' Bever said she didn't do much cooking until after she and husband Travis were married Oct. 4, at Lakeview Church of God.

Rena's dad taught her to cook potatoes, deviled eggs, and other simple dishes during the holidays. But her husband, who is a good cook, taught her how to cook more complicated recipes after they married.

Rena' said Travis is a "Yankee from Indiana and has to have meat with every meal." She doesn't like fried food and prefers food that is cooked in the oven or a crock pot.

Rena' loves outdoor activities, and she and Travis do a lot of hunting and fishing together. As a result, they have a lot of deer meat in the freezer, and this week's recipes all focus on ways to prepare venison.

The recipe for "Venison Parmesan" was given to them by a friend, and uses Italian or seasoned bread crumbs.

Rena' moved to Iowa Park when she was in the fifth grade, and is a graduate of Iowa Park High School. She has attended Vernon Regional Junior College for one semester, and plans to go back and major in pre-law. She is employed as a receptionist at Williams-Dwyer Insurance Co. in Wichita Falls.

Travis, who moved here from Anderson Indiana in 1994, works for Howmet Casting.

In addition to hunting and fishing, Rena' likes to watch movies and read. She also likes to spend time with her mom and dad. "To make up for when I was a teenager," she said.

She is a member of the Academic Booster Club and Lakeview Church of God.

Venison Parmesan

4 deer steaks
1/2 cup Italian bread crumbs
1 jar spaghetti sauce
2 cups grated Mozzarella cheese
1 egg

Place deer steak into egg, then batter both sides with Italian bread crumbs (or seasoned bread crumbs). Place into lightly sprayed pan. Bake in 350 degree oven until cooked all the way through. Then cover with jar of spaghetti sauce. Bake another 10 minutes, cover with cheese, and continue baking until cheese is melted.

20-Minute

Venison Casserole

1 lb. ground venison
1 box or small pkg. macaroni noodles
1 cup grated cheese
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
1 can cream of mushroom soup

Brown meat and onion; drain. In separate pan bring macaroni to boil; drain and pour into meat. Stir in soup (add water a little at a time to make creamier). Pour into casserole dish, top with grated cheese, and place in oven until cheese is melted.

NOTE: You can use ground beef in place of venison.

IHS News

by P.J. Berry

Okay, I played hookey and didn't write a column last week, please don't give me a hard time. Sometimes I get busy and just can't get a column written. I will try not to miss any more.

I guess that's why someone is having me put in jail, for Jerry's Kid's. That's ok, because I can't think of a better reason to get put in jail! I sure hope some of you will donate money in my name to the Muscular Dystrophy Assoc.

The contribution is tax deductible and goes to a really worthwhile cause. So open your hearts and pocketbooks on February 4th or before, by coming by IHS or call me at 592-4139 with a pledge. Be sure to ask for me - the others have to raise their own money.

This past week we were very fortunate to have gospel singer, Tommy Lane come and sing for our residents. It was one of the most moving performances I believe we have witnessed since I have been here. He was so wonderful and, a time or two, there didn't appear to be a dry eye in the house.

When we have him back again, I want it to be during warm weather so we can have it outside and invite everybody to join us for a real spiritual experience. The residents really got into things when he played their favorite gospel tunes and sang along with him. We can always use more of that type of entertainment.

Mike Merrill will be returning to entertain us on Wednesday, February 11, at 1:30.

We would like to welcome newcomers; Rev. E.J. Williams, Inez Lively, and Ida Parker to our home. We hope all of their friends will drop by and see them.

I have put out ballot boxes at the nurse's stations for people to nominate and vote for our King and Queen of IHS nursing home for 1998.

We will crown the winners and runner-up on Feb. 13 at our Valentine's Day party.

The winners will represent IHS at the annual nursing home picnic in May, among other North Central Texas nursing home kings and queens.

The participants will be judged on wit, humor, and how well they answer the judges questions.

Iowa Park has never been represented at the area picnic as far as I know. They usually just have their own picnics here. We will be there in full force this year and raring to give area towns a run for the title.

Helpful Hints

The running or roaming at large of any dog, cat or other animal within the city has been declared a nuisance and positively prohibited, and it has been made unlawful and deemed a Class C misdemeanor for the owner or keeper of any dog, cat or other animal to allow the same to run or roam at large within the city.

Fast Cheesy Enchiladas

1 pkg. taco seasoning
1 lb. ground venison
Flour tortillas
Grated cheese
1 can tomato sauce

Pour tomato sauce into pan (just enough to cover the bottom). Brown meat with taco seasoning. Place half of the meat into tortillas, roll up, then cover with tomato sauce and remaining meat and grated cheese. Bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees, or put servings onto plates and put in microwave 3 1/2 minutes or until cheese is melted.

Venison Quesadillas

Flour tortillas
1/2 lb. ground venison
1 cup cheese, grated

Spray skillet with non-stick spray. Place tortilla in skillet. Put cheese and ground meat on tortilla and cover with another tortilla. Turn over and brown on both sides. Cut into quarters and serve.

Water, recycling, subject of Garden Club meeting

The importance of preserving clean water and recycling was the subject of this week's Iowa Park Garden Club meeting.

Louise Clapp, committee member, spoke of Texas estuaries, their importance and our responsibility in preserving the clean water in the system and maintaining a healthy ecosystem, by protecting our creeks and rivers from contamination.

A clean waterway not only assures our well being but supplies an abundance of food and habitat for wildlife. The beauty of healthy rivers and lakes flowing through Texas to our estuaries and into the gulf, adds to our enjoyment both in food and beautiful scenery.

Committee member Marita Holdsworth reminded of the necessity of recycling to conserve our natural resources and to extend the use of a landfill for many years.

Total recycling can be time consuming and no doubt will add to our garbage bill, but when weighed against the increase in property values and construction of a new landfill, can be cost effective.

Littering remains a problem and members explored ways of stimulating the interest of Iowa Parkans to work together to keep our city neat, clean, attractive and a healthy place to live.

Jo Gilbert showed an unusual philodendron plant with small spathe shaped leaves. This lush green house plant is non-veining, of medium height.

Refreshments were served by hostesses Polly Spruiell and Frances George.

Following the meeting members went to the nursing home to hang Valentine hearts on the residents' doors.

As I See It...By Bob Hamilton

This is absolutely the most frustrating time of the year for me.

I like to play golf, and during this time of the year the weather seldom cooperates -- at least on days I could make it to the course.

No, I'm not going to try to blame El Nino, because this happens every year at this time.

I watch the weather forecast and hope. On the days when it looks like I'll be able to play, the temperature will likely reach a playable reading, but that doesn't happen until mid-afternoon, when there's not enough time to get in a full 18 holes.

Oh, there are guys who play just about every day. But I've got a problem, besides my swing, that prevents me from being like them.

I can't play if the temperature is much below 60 degrees. My old body just doesn't cooperate if I'm cold, or have layer after layer of clothing on.

I really thought I had the situation in hand last Friday.

We traveled way down south, to Houston, to attend a meeting of the Texas Press Association. I figured it would easily be nice enough for a round of golf down there.

Wrong.

Our tee time was early in the morning, and I had to back out when I read the thermometer: 43 degrees!

We came back Saturday afternoon, and I was licking my chops about the prospects of getting to play Sunday.

Wrong.

Oh, we teed off, but I had to quit after four holes. As badly as I wanted to get a round in, the temperature was just below 55 degrees, and the wind of about 25 mph drove the chill factor well below my tolerance.

Mentioning this frustration about weather interfering with my playing golf reminds me of a situation we had here several years ago.

You may remember when we had a solid covering of ice that lasted about four weeks.

It was the middle of the third week, on Wednesday, when we were getting the paper ready to go to the press, when I got a telephone call.

It was Dan Spruiell, who said, "Bob, there's some more bad weather coming in. Why don't the four of us get in our motor home and go far enough south to play a round of golf."

Man, Dolores and I jumped on that idea. We finished up with the paper, got it off to the press, and rushed home to make the trip.

We went far enough to find weather where we could play a round of golf, all right -- McAllen.

There are times when I feel I'm ready to do that some more. Especially when I develop a serious case of "fourwallitis."

Oh, well, according to the calendar I've got on the wall, we are nearing the season when I'll be able to play as much and often as I like.

I can hardly wait.

SOCIAL SECURITY NEWS

Check Wage Reports

Workers and their employers are urged to make sure wage reports to the Social Security Administration are accurate.

Workers should check the W-2 statements of their yearly earnings they receive by the end of January and employers are reminded to double-check the report of wages paid to employees they are required to file with Social Security by the end of February.

Common errors include a misplaced digit in the Social Security number, failure to reflect a name change in the newly married and incorrect or misspelled names, particularly in the case of Hispanic surnames.

Social Security remains a lifetime earnings record for each worker on which retirement, survivors and disability benefits are based.

WORTH QUOTING

I have about had it with people asking for my "E-mail" address. Everywhere I turn -- suppliers, government agencies, pollsters, etc. -- they want to know how to send me something through the World Wide Web.

Though we do have a telephone, a post office box and a fax machine, that is not enough. For some reason they try to treat me like some sort of second class citizen if I am not connected to the Internet.

A few years ago I was connected to an online computer service. After a few months I dropped out.

Why? Well, the entire thing reminded me of the CB craze a few decades ago. A sizeable group of people on the service were totally consumed with their hardware. They could spout megabytes of memory, gigs of storage and the speed of their computers.

I can remember listening to the CBers of the 1970s endlessly discussing the power and range of their radios. I am of the type that as long as it works, I am not too interested in how.

The other thing that reminded me of the CB days was the "chat room." People with similar interests type messages to each other in a certain part of the net.

Predictably, the result is very much like talk radio. Everyone gets to express an opinion, whether it makes any sense or not.

I did attempt to do some research on the computer network, but I found that it is much faster, easier and more complete to do research the old fashioned way by looking it up in a book.

One of the problems with searching for things on the net with key words is that the serendipity factor is lost. I don't know how many pieces of information I have come across by accident while looking for something else.

The newspaper business has also become fascinated with the net. I have yet to go to a newspaper convention that there was not one part of the program devoted to using the web.

Of course not everybody is sold on an electronic information future. After one conference, a newsman stood up holding a box about the size of a box of file folders.

He told the collected group of newspaper people that he had in his hand the newspaper of the future.

"This is the answer we have been looking for," he said.

"It can be purchased for 50 cents. Once it is used, it can be recycled to use again. It is totally portable and requires no connection to a power source or batteries," he continued.

"It is light -- less than a pound -- and no special skills are required to use the thing. Information can very easily be delivered directly to the home and the readers can access the device at any hour of the day or night," he concluded.

By this time the audience was very interested. Slowly, the newsman unwrapped and opened the box. Then he waved a copy of today's newspaper in the air for all to see.

Just because something is electronic, it is not necessarily better. Just because something is new does not mean that it is more effective than the old.

Would you believe that less than one-third of U.S. high school seniors can fully comprehend the information presented on the front page of their local newspapers?

Sounds unbelievable, but one of the nation's foremost educational test publishers released those findings recently. By contrast, the sports pages fell within the reading ability of about 50% of the 12th graders.

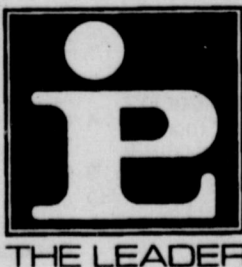

Touchstone Applied Science Associates, Inc. (TASA), produces "Degrees of Reading Power" tests used in statewide testing programs in thousands of U.S. school districts. Included in TASA's database are studies of USA Today; The Wall Street Journal; four major metropolitan Texas dailies; nearly all dailies in New York state, and newspapers in several other cities.

"Under no circumstances should our findings be interpreted as a call to editors to dumb down the materials," said the TASA chief executive officer. "Rather, it is our intention to lend support to those who are calling for higher academic standards and expectations for all students in our nation's schools."

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Third-grade students who fail the reading section of the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills test would move into "appropriate instruction to advance" and barred from promotion under a proposal by Gov. George W. Bush.

Such a program, Bush said at a news conference last week, would be devised by local school officials and funded by a $32 million program approved by the 1997 Legislature. Bush also wants to bar promotion for fifth- and eighth-graders who fail any portion of TAAS.

"I think it would be incredibly cost-effective for the state," Bush said of the proposal. "Any time you solve a problem before it gets too late, you save taxpayers money. But I am willing to spend the money to get the problem solved."

The 81,000-member Texas State Teachers Association, however, does not support Bush's proposal.

Annette Coates, TSTA spokeswoman, said that offering students who fail a second chance to pass would make Bush's plan more acceptable.

Bush Leads in Finances

Campaign finance reports filed last week show that Republican Gov. Bush is maintaining a big lead over gubernatorial challenger Garry Mauro, who is running unopposed in the March Democratic primary.

Bush, who had a 50 percentage point lead in a recent Texas Poll, raised almost $8 million in the last six months of 1997, while Mauro, who entered the race in November, took in about $800,000.

"Governor Bush's support comes from every part of Texas, from Republicans, Democrats and Independents," Karen Hughes, the governor's spokeswoman, told the Austin American-Statesman. "And," she added, "it's a clear sign that the people of Texas appreciate the job he is doing as their governor."

Hughes said Bush's finance report shows the governor has about $12 million in his re-election campaign war chest.

Last week, Mauro said he had spent about half of the $800,000 he had raised, but that he was "going to spend my money a lot better than (Gov. Bush) is going to spend his money."

Sex Education Law Clarified

The State Board of Education does not have the authority to adopt required curriculum or textbooks for sex education, but it can adopt guidelines for such classes and books, Attorney General Dan Morales has ruled.

In a legal opinion released last week, Morales said state law leaves it up to local school boards to determine what, if anything, will be taught about human sexuality, sexually transmitted diseases and HIV.

Education Commissioner Mike Moses and Jack Christie, president of the State Board of Education asked Morales for a ruling after the state board adopted a health curriculum that included sex education.

Debbie Graves Ratcliffe, agency spokeswoman, said Christie and Moses wanted the law regarding the state board and local boards' powers clarified.

Taxes Rebates Up 12 Percent

Texas Comptroller John Sharp last week delivered a total of $155.7 million in monthly sales tax payments to 1,090 Texas cities and 118 counties.

"We're beginning another promising year," Sharp said. "Sales tax rebates to cities and counties are 12 percent higher in January than those for the first month of last year."

Other Capital Highlights

■ More than 50,000 Texas students enrolled in low-scoring schools will be eligible to transfer to better campuses this fall under the state's school choice law.

The Texas Education Agency has released a list of 575 campuses where students have the right to transfer out next school year. The list represents 8.4 percent of the 6,875 campuses in the state.

■ The U.S. Supreme Court refused to revive a lawsuit seeking to make certain that Texas voters who are blind or otherwise disabled get to cast a secret ballot. The court let stand a federal appeals ruling that said state officials have no legal duty to make sure local election practices comply with a federal law barring discrimination against disabled people.

■ The state Board for Educator Certification last week backed off a plan requiring current teachers with lifetime certificates to renew their state certification every five years. The proposal would have required all teachers to complete 150 hours of continuing education every five years to keep their certificates active. Board Chairman Jim Nelson, said the board still intends to require those who later enter the profession to be subject to renewal requirements.

■ Texas upland cotton production for 1997 is expected to total 5.3 million bales, 22 percent above 1996, according to figures released by Texas Agricultural Statistics Service. The harvest is practically complete, however, some modules remain to be ginned on the Plains, State Statistician Dennis Findley reported.

Ag Agent's Report

By JOE RAFF, Wichita County Agriculture Agent

Stock Show Season

It's cold, windy, and icy, which means two things: one, it's January, and two, it must be close to stock show season.

We will be traveling this week to Ft. Worth with the goats and heifers to the 102nd Ft. Worth Stock Show and Rodeo (providing we can get to Ft. Worth).

The first week of February we will be back in Ft. Worth for the steer, lamb and hog shows. We have a good representation from Wichita County 4-H with a total of 154-H's showing 25 animals for the two weeks. We will have results of these shows as soon as the show is finished.

Speaking of stock shows, entries for the Wichita County Show are due on Feb. 24. The stock show board will meet at the Iowa Park Ag Building and all entries are due by this meeting. As everyone remembers, we have already validated these animals for the county show in December. Now it's time to make your entries.

If you're in FFA contact your FFA instructor and get your cards filled out and turn them back to them ASAP. If you're in 4-H, stop by the office and return them by Feb. 24. There is a $5 charge for each entry and please have this ready when you make your entries.

There were only two small changes in the Wichita County Show for this year.

One, we will weigh the hogs by breed this year and not by pens or rows. This will help the classifier and paperwork a great deal. The other of weighing will be the same as the show order to eliminate confusion, and this order will be posted the day of weighing.

The second concern is having all the kids ready to sell their animals at the time of the sale. If you are unable to be at the sale, make arrangements with the stock show board ASAP to eliminate any confusion at the sale.

We have not set a rabbit tattoo date as of this date, but as soon as we know, we will pass it along.

As a related topic, I have seen an increase in sick animals this year. Most I attribute to the wild weather we have seen the last month or so. It stands to reason that when we have a 70 degree day, then 20 degrees the next, it causes problems. Coupled with the temperature changes we have had above average moisture for January, and all these factor into sick animals.

When taking care of your projects, be aware of withdraw times of the medication that you are using. Penicillin in cattle is 10 days, 9 days for sheep and 7 days for swine.

The long-lasting Penicillin is 30 days across the board. LA 200 is 28 days for cattle and 42 days for sheep. Most feeds that have Tylan is 0 days withdraw, but Tylan Sulf is 25 days. Micolil and Nuflo both have 28 days withdraws.

If you're crowding the withdraw times on some of these antibiotics you may want to consider Naxel. Naxel does not have a withdraw for slaughter animals.

Some feed medications range from Oxytetracycline, and Chlorotetracycline with 90 days withdraw, Mecadox and Carbadox both have a 10-week withdraw, which leaves Sulfamethazine, ASP or CSP in the middle with 15-day withdraws.

If you have any questions about these withdraw times, contact your vet, and remember my door is always open.

Hawks even district record at 2-2

After falling in their opening two district games, the Iowa Park Hawks have rebounded by winning a pair of games this week to even their district record at 2-2.

The Hawks, now 12-13 overall and 2-2 in league play, came up with a 74-65 road win over Jacksboro on Friday, then capped the week by beating Henrietta 75-59 at home on Tuesday night.

Iowa Park will travel to Bowie Friday night to close out the first half of district play.

Heading into the final game of the first half, Vernon looks to be the odds-on favorite to capture the first half, after beating both Childress and Bowie. The Lions are 4-0 while the Bobcats are 3-1. Iowa Park and Bowie are both 2-2, while Henrietta is 1-3 and Jacksboro is 0-4.

In Friday's game in Jacksboro, the Hawks snapped their three-game losing streak by pounding the ball inside as both Jonathan Horton and Jon Thomas each finished with 14 points to lead their team in scoring.

Jacksboro, on the other hand, lived and died by the three-pointer, making nine in all but missing on many others.

The Hawks took a 17-14 first-quarter lead by hitting on 8-of-11 shots from the floor as seven different Hawks scored in the period.

Iowa Park pushed the lead to six, at 20-14, on a three-pointer by Chad Wright to open the second quarter. Following Wright's shot, the Hawks went to their inside game with Thomas scoring Iowa Park's next six points, followed by Horton with four more, to push the lead to 30-21 with 3:50 left in the half.

An 8-2 run by the Tigers which included two three-pointers by Kyle Burkett pulled Jacksboro to within three at 32-29 with 1:49 remaining before Iowa Park scored the final five points of the half to take a 37-29 lead at halftime.

The Tigers trimmed Iowa Park's lead to four at 42-38 midway through the third quarter, only to see the Hawks bounce back to take an 11-point lead on a pair of baskets by Todd Yeager and a three-pointer by Ryan Huff to push the lead to 49-38 with 3:39 left in the quarter.

In the fourth quarter, it was bombs away for the Tigers as five of their six field goals came from behind the three-point stripe, helping Jacksboro score 20 points in the period. Iowa Park took care of business from the free throw line down the stretch to preserve the win by making 13-of-16 free throws over the final eight minutes of play.

Joining Horton and Thomas in double figures were Yeager and Huff, each finishing with 12. Wright added nine points for the Hawks in the win.

In Tuesday's game against Henrietta, Iowa Park jumped on top 20-11 after the first quarter and never looked back, as the Hawks led by 20 three different times in the game with the final being 75-59.

Again, Iowa Park had seven different players get into the scoring act in the opening period.

In the second quarter, the balanced scoring continued for the Hawks as Colby Bobbitt scored six of his game-high 20 points in the period, Yeager added five of his 11, and Huff scored four in the quarter, giving Iowa Park a 38-24 halftime advantage.

Iowa Park took its biggest lead of the game at the 1:57 mark of the third quarter when Wright nailed a three from the wing to push the lead to 55-32. In the period, Horton scored six, Wright five and Bobbitt 4, to help the Hawks enjoy a 20-point lead after three periods at 59-39.

The game was never close in the final period as Iowa Park continued to get production from several players. Bobbitt finished with six points in the period followed by Horton with five and Bryan Lyons with four.

Joining Bobbitt in double figures were Horton with 15, Yeager with 11, and Lyons with 10. Wright added seven points for the Hawks.

Henrietta was led in scoring by Anthony Hager with 13 and by Jim Walker and J.J. Pierce with 10 each.

The Bearcats fell to 16-7 overall and 1-3 in the first half of district play.

With the Hawks' 2-2 record in the first half and trailing both Vernon and Childress, Iowa Park will have to look to the second half of district play to get into the playoffs.

In the second half, Iowa Park will open with Childress at home on Tuesday, then travel to Vernon Friday, which should give the Hawks a good indication of where they stand in the playoff picture.

Lady Hawks seek change

Iowa Park closed out the first half of district on the right foot by beating Jacksboro 49-32 on Friday night to improve to 2-3, with the three losses coming to the three teams tied for first at the half-way point of district play.

Vernon, Henrietta and Bowie all finished the first half with 4-1 records to finish in a three-way tie for first. Depending on what happens in the second half, a playoff could be needed to settle the score from the first half before determining the two teams that will advance to the playoffs.

The first half of district play started Tuesday night with the Lady Hawks falling to Henrietta at home 33-21.

Friday's game in Jacksboro, the Lady Hawks took the lead with 41 seconds left in the first quarter and never trailed again, winning by 17 at 49-32.

After leading 9-6 after the first quarter, Jacksboro managed to tie the game at 14-14 with 5:06 left in the half before Iowa Park started to pull away. Wendy Bridwell, who finished with a game high 17 points, scored eight of those in the period to help her team to a 19-17 halftime lead.

Iowa Park came out of the locker room on fire, hitting on 6-of-8 shots from the floor in the third quarter to take a 31-22 lead into the final eight minutes of play. A pair of layups by Alisha Clements to open the quarter gave Iowa Park a 23-17 lead with 6:32 left in the third quarter. Following a basket by Jacksboro, Iowa Park went on an 8-0 run to push the lead to 31-19 with 2:55 left in the quarter. A three-pointer by Teresa Mathis pulled the Tigerettes to within nine at 31-22 at the end of the period.

Iowa Park used an 18-10 fourth quarter to slam the door as LeAnn Jordan led the way, scoring six of her nine points in the final period. The Lady Hawks' biggest lead was 22, after a six-foot jumper by Sharla Hughes with 2:38 left in the game.

Joining Bridwell in double figures was Clements with 10 followed by Jordan with nine. Jacksboro was led by Whitney Stockdale with 12 and Mathis with 11.

In Tuesday night's game to start the second half, Iowa Park came out ice cold from the floor while Henrietta was just the opposite, as the Lady Bearcats hit on 5-of-7 shots in the opening quarter to only 2-of-9 for the Lady Hawks.

Henrietta jumped out to a 15-2 lead with 1:30 left in the period thanks to the hot shooting of Kelly Murchison and Emily Stanford, each finishing with six points in the first period. Murchison's six came on a pair of three's. Iowa Park managed only five points in the opening period on a layup by Bridwell and a free throw and a short jumper by Erin Foster to make the score 15-5 after the first period.

Iowa Park's shooting woes continued in the second quarter as the Lady Hawks couldn't get the ball to fall for them, making only 1-of-11 shots from the floor. Clements scored all five points for Iowa Park in the period while Henrietta scored 10 to take a 25-10 lead at intermission. In all, the Lady Hawks shot just 15 percent from the floor in the first half while the Lady Bearcats hit on 9-of-15 shots for 60 percent.

In the third quarter, Iowa Park connected on only 2-of-7 shots while Henrietta made 5-of-7 to push the lead to 40-18 after three periods.

Things didn't improve in the fourth quarter as Iowa Park made only 3-of-15 shots to finish the night 8-of-42 from the floor for 19 percent, while the Lady Bearcats hit on 17-of-28 shots for the game to finish at 61 percent. In the fourth quarter, Iowa Park got nine of its 15 points from the free throw line as Bridwell converted on 7-of-8 to finish with 13 points. Clements followed with 11 for the Lady Hawks who fell to 13-11 overall and 0-1 in the second half of district play.

Henrietta improved to 23-2 overall and 1-0. The Lady Bearcats were led in scoring by Daniel Seward with 19, Christy Derzapf with 13 and Murchison and Stanford with 11 each.

Iowa Park will travel to Bowie Friday night to try and knock off another of the teams that tied for the first half lead before returning home to take on Childress on Tuesday.
