Red Air Power In Pacific Tops Allies

HONOLULU — UP — Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, commander of the U.S. Far East Air Force, told a press conference that Communist air power still outnumbers the allies in the Pacific today.

But Kuter said that despite the numerical odds the United States and its supporting forces continue to maintain the same air superiority over the Reds they demonstrated during the Korean war.

"We are substantially outmanned and outnumbered," he said. "We are well below Communist strength. But I feel we have a marked qualitative superiority—a superiority which was convincingly demonstrated in the kill ratio of MIGs versus Sabrejets" during the Korean war.

Kuter referred to Air Force statistics showing that Fifth Air Force F-86s destroyed 802 Russian-made MIG 15s during the Korean conflict against 58 American planes lost.

The general spoke at a press conference Wednesday at Hickam Field where he and other top Air Force officials in the Pacific and Far East are holding a two-day strategy conference.

Kuter, asked about reports of a Communist air buildup in North Korea and on the Chinese mainland, said "I don't believe there is anything to say beyond what's been said frequently lately."

"There no doubt has been a buildup throughout North Korea and Communist China both in regard to more airfields and more planes," he said. But Kuter reemphasized that the quality of Allied air power was far superior to the Reds.

Kuter declined to give a yes or no answer to questions on a possible new outbreak of hostilities in Korea, but he conceded the peace there was "certainly most uneasy."

'No Contamination' Seen At Lab, Report Declares

WASHINGTON —UP— The government said Thursday that "failure" of its original safety tests was the probable cause of the polio outbreak among children who received Cutter vaccine.

The U.S. Public Health Service said these safety standards — since overhauled — apparently failed to prevent live virus from getting into some Cutter vaccine shots. This caused at least some of the 169 polio cases connected directly or indirectly with the Cutter vaccine.

In a six-page report on its four-month investigation of the Cutter incident, the health service frankly conceded that the "exact reasons" for live virus found in at least three Cutter lots "could not be found."

But it declared that its investigation "produced nothing which pointed to contamination as a source of the live virus." Scientists had checked the possibility that this might have occurred during the bottling of the vaccine by Cutter and after final safety tests had been made.

On the contrary, the health service said, the evidence suggested that "the cause of the trouble was inadequate inactivation (killing of the virus) coupled with failure of the safety test to demonstrate the presence of virus."

The health service pointed out before May 27 that inadequate killing of the virus "was not unusual in the experience of several of the manufacturers." It also said there were "fundamental weaknesses in the safety testing procedures which failed to assure what is now believed to be a satisfactory degree of sensitivity."

On May 27 new safety standards were put into effect by the government.

Both inactivation and the testing are governed by the government standards which were drastically overhauled in the wake of the Cutter incident.

A spokesman said that the license of the Cutter laboratories, Berkeley, Calif., to manufacture the vaccine has not been revoked and that, to his knowledge, no such action is contemplated. He said Cutter officials will meet here next month to consider the company's future plans.

Previously, the government permitted Cutter to resume production of the vaccine which was halted when the Cutter cases broke. So far, however, it has not submitted new batches for approval.

The health service report said 79 persons suffered polio within 90 days after receiving Cutter vaccine. Forty - six of these, it said, occurred among six suspect lots from Cutter's laboratories.

In addition, the report said 90 cases occurred among household contacts of Cutter - inoculated children. Fifty - seven of these cases were connected with the six suspect lots.

The nature of these cases, the report said, warranted the presumption that "the cause of the disease in some of the individuals who received vaccine from these six lots was infection with poliomyelitis virus contained in these lots of vaccine produced by the Cutter laboratories."

Jap Leader Seeks Release Of Prisoners

SAN FRANCISCO —UP— Japanese Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu departed for Washington Thursday for top level talks which he hopes will "wash up any trace" of hostility between the United States and Japan.

During his one-day stay in San Francisco, the 68-year-old diplomat told newsmen he would plead for the release of 577 of his countrymen still held in prison for war crimes. Shigemitsu himself served two years in prison as a war criminal.

He said that of the 577 prisoners in Sugamo prison, 210 were under U.S. jurisdiction, 149 under Australian, 131 Dutch, 80 Great Britain and seven under the jurisdiction of the international military tribunal of the Far East.

Shigemitsu will talk with Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Chairman Arthur Radford of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and other top officials.

The official portion of his Washington stays does not begin until next Monday. Friday he will go to Hot Springs, Va., for a brief rest before returning to the capital Sunday evening.

Shigemitsu is reported to want the United States to give him a definite timetable for the gradual withdrawal of American forces stationed in Japan under the terms of the mutual defense treaty between the two countries.

In return, he is prepared to promise a specific schedule for increasing Japan's armed forces, a point the U.S. has been insisting upon before there can be any considerable American withdrawal.

Super Sabrejet Sets New Mark, Over 800 MPH

WASHINGTON —UP— An Air Force Super Sabrejet fighter has set a new world speed record over a measured course. It flew between 800 and 900 miles an hour.

The new mark, disclosed Wednesday night, was set by a North American F-100C last week over a 15-to-25 kilometer course at Palmdale, Calif. Col. Horace A. Hanes, flight test director at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., was the pilot.

The record was the first in the faster-than-sound class. The present official fastest speed on a measured course if 755 miles per hour attained in October, 1953, in an F-100 by Lt. Col. F. K. Everest.

A number of planes, including the Super Sabre, have flown faster than the new record, but they did so only for short spurts and not over a measured course. The X-1A rocket plane which flew 1,650 miles an hour, for example, had an endurance of only about four minutes.

Two Sisters Re-United

Two little girls, 7 and 9, were happy together for the first time in quite a while yesterday.

The girls, Carol Ann and Jeanette Gibson, are sisters who lost their parents in a tragic car wreck last November.

After the accident, the grandparents took Carol Ann and Jeanette, splitting them up, to make their home.

Carol Ann lives with her father's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Gibson, who live in Lefors, and Jeanette lives in Bellevue, Wash., with Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Pendleton, also relatives of their parents.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Gibson moved to Lefors just recently.

The girls also have four brothers, older than they, who live with other relatives.

All the unfortunate memories were wiped out yesterday when the two girls got together again—for the first time in nine months.

The five-round Swiss System event will start at close of registration at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Caprock Hotel, W. C. Marshall, president of the Lubbock Chess Club, announced. Entry fees are $3 for the open division and $1 for juniors. George Koltanowski, international chess master, San Francisco, will be tournament director.

Trophies will be awarded the tournament champion, the highest ranking player residing in the Panhandle area, and the junior champion. Cash awards also are scheduled.

Main trophy is one given by the Amarillo News-Globe and must be defended each year, unless one person has won it three years in succession. This trophy is now held by Shane O'Neill of Dallas, who won it last year at Amarillo.

Suffering Eases In Flood Areas

By UNITED PRESS

Suffering eased in the flood stricken northeast Thursday under one of the most effective rehabilitation programs ever undertaken in the United States.

The hungry were being fed, the homeless were given temporary family shelters, communications functioned almost normally, most roads were cleared and open to traffic. And industries began digging out debris and drying out equipment in preparation to resume operations.

The U. S. Army Engineers, charged with handling a $10 million government relief program, gave notice that rehabilitation was already well in progress.

New Storm Brews

Reports of partial recovery were made as a new storm, Hurricane Edith, built up in the Atlantic Ocean about 750 miles east-northeast of San Juan, P. R. It was Diane, that created weather conditions causing driving rains that brought on the disasterous floods.

Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker announced in Washington that "all relief requests to the Army have been or are being met."

Further plans were made to remove debris, health and safety hazards and restore public facilities in the six state flood area.

The Agriculture Department opened surplus food stores in the stricken states for use as needed by flood victims.

Trailer homes, prefabricated houses, factory space and other shelters were offered to the 100,000 homeless.

Money Pours In

Millions of dollars, from the government, the Red Cross, companies, unions and thousands of individuals poured into the flooded states.

Residents of the flood area themselves contributed the greatest effort to the rehabilitation.

They pitched in to clear debris from factories and business forced to close by high waters. Many of them left daytime cleanup jobs in industries to perform similar tasks in their own homes.

President Eisenhower's appeal Wednesday for "spontaneous" contributions to flood relief brought widespread and immediate results.

The New York chapter of the Red Cross alone reported 5,000 contributions totaling more than $200,000.

CIO President Walter Reuther pledged $100,000 from the United Auto Workers Union. The United Steel Workers (CIO) contributed $25,000. The CIO Textile Workers Union prepared to contribute a "substantial sum" for relief and rehabilitation.

Navy Tries New Device

WASHINGTON —UP— The Navy announced Thursday it is testing a new British system of mirrors for landing jets on aircraft carriers. The new system, called the "deck landing mirror sight," is being tested aboard the carrier Bennington in the Atlantic. The apparatus cost the United States $30,000.

Gray County Flood Fund Quota $740

Two telegrams have been received by the Pampa chapter of American Red Cross, one setting a minimum quota of $740 for the local chapter, and the other relating to the Eastern states flood disaster.

E. Roland Harriman, of the Midwestern headquarters, said in his telegram . . . "Your Chapter has been assigned a rock bottom quota of $740, and expect you will make every effort to have it substantially oversubscribed."

Jack Bassett, ARC service director for the Midwest Area, stated that the Red Cross has sent into the six-state flood areas chapters trained workers to assist chapters in meeting emergency needs and preparing for the major rehabilitation program to follow. He has received first hand reports from most of the stricken communities.

Bassett says ". . . it is estimated that Red Cross relief expenditures might well reach or exceed five million dollars.

Homer Craig, Gray County chapter chairman, urged support for relief of flood victims. He requests that contributions be marked Red Cross disaster fund, so that funds may be remitted to the area office in St. Louis. A check for $25 was received this morning.

Harriman stated in his telegram that the need continues to grow in the disaster affected areas. He estimates that the number of families who will register for assistance will exceed 10,000, and is continuing to grow. "This will require funds in excess of eight million dollars," he added.

Mrs. F. W. Shotwell, Red Cross executive said that anyone wanting to assist should mail contributions to Box 1036.

Father Charged With Beating Tot

Fred Smith, a new Pampa resident, pleaded not guilty to charges of aggravated assault in County Court this morning.

Smith, who was arrested as a result of a complaint charging that he beat his two year old daughter, Patricia Ann, was retained in County jail in lieu of $5,000 bond set by County Judge Bruce Parker.

Hurricane Hits Again

MIAMI —UP— A new hurricane churned the Atlantic with winds of 80 miles an hour Thursday and the weather bureau rushed planes to investigate still another tropical disturbance in the Gulf of Mexico.

Hurricane Edith was found only Wednesday 1,500 miles from the twice-ravaged eastern U.S. Coast. Weathermen expressed the hope it would blow itself to death at sea.

The weather bureau here ordered plans to check the Gulf disturbance off the northwest tip of Cuba, only about 400 miles southeast of Miami.

Navy hurricane hunter planes were ordered out of Jacksonville, Fla., at 5:30 a.m. est to survey "a large area" in the southern Gulf.

"We have no definite information as yet whether anything is out there, but it is worth a check," a forecaster said.

New York Youth Ends Texas Stay

By JOHN COLTON

HOUSTON —UP— N. Bryce Marden Jr., a boy who sold stock in himself — at $5 a share — to come to Texas, flies home Friday with little more than the assets he started out with — himself.

But Bryce, a quick-witted lad of 16, has learned something, and he has a new romantic interest. And stockholders who put up $100 to finance his trip here needn't worry about their "investment."

"I'm going to get another job back home and pay back every cent I owe, including the interest," Bryce said. He promised a $6 return on every $5 share he sold.

Bryce, a high school senior in Briarcliff Manor, N.Y., wanted to come to Texas on his own when school let out this summer. He hit on the idea of selling stock in his venture to foot the bill.

"Since my hobby is watching the stock market," said Bryce, who is the son of a vice-president of Institutional Securities, Inc., "I thought I'd raise money by selling shares. Since I had nothing to sell, except myself, I sold shares in me."

Bryce arrived here by bus two months ago and got a $130-a-month mail runner job at T. J. Bettes Co. a mortgage firm. He quit the job Thursday, with a $20 surplus after buying his plane ticket back east.

"I owe $120," he said, "but I'll get a job soda-jerking or something and pay it all back before school begins. Maybe I can get out of hock quick on a radio quiz program."

Bryce said he wrote to the radio "Welcome Traveler" program, hoping to get on it when he arrives in New York. "The least you can win is $100 and that's good for one minute's work," he said.

Bryce confided that his first month in Houston, although "people are friendly here," was lonely. But a week ago he met a "young lady." He wouldn't identify her or go into details.

"She's real nice — and kinda cute," he said. "I hope to see her again when I come back next summer."

Bryce said he won't sell any more stock to finance his next trip.

The Little Woman Was Really Taking Care Of Her Man

By ROBERT C. MILLER

ANGUAR, Caroline Islands —UP— Honest, Senator Johnson, things aren't as tough down here with the Coast Guard as Mrs. Joe Click of Abilene, Tex., thinks they are.

Who says so? Mrs. Click's husband, Jesse, electronics technician second class, USCG.

Jess, 23, of Hereford, Tex., loves his wife dearly, but wishes she'd stop writing letters to Sen. Lyndon Johnson complaining about the tough time Jesse and his buddies are having on this South Pacific Coast Guard Loran station.

"Darn it," Jesse protested, "Jo just misunderstood my letters, and now nobody in the state of Texas, Washington, D. C., or the Coast Guard will believe that we're getting along fine down here. What's worse is that they all seem to think I'm being pressured and threatened because I told Joe to stop writing to Senator Johnson."

The trouble all started about six weeks ago when Jo got a couple of gripe letters from Jesse who grumbled about the delayed mail and how much he missed her good Texas cooking.

Jo wrote Johnson demanding the Coast Guard speed up its mail service, and treat Jesse and his 15 shipmates lots better than they had been.

"Sure I wrote Jo, griping about no mail and no milk," Jesse explained. "Everybody writes gripe letters home once in awhile, but my wife is the one in a million who decides Washington had better do something about it.

"The bad part about it," Jesse said, scratching his red goatee and sideburns, "was that Jo would send me copies of the lettrs she was writing Washington. It got so I was afraid to open her letters, wondering who all would get into the act next."

It got to be quite an act, too.

Johnson's office queried the Coast Guard commandant, Vice Adm. A. V. Richmond. Richmond messaged Rear Adm. Frank Kenner, commander of the 14th Coast Guard district in Honolulu, who radioed Capt. Elmer Comstock, commander of the Coast Guard's Marianas section.

Comstock personally flew from Guam to Anguar to check the trouble and put his staff to work investigating.

The wires carried the explanations back through the chain of command and Jo got a letter from Richmond assuring her the shortages were only temporary, but try, as it might, the Coast Guard just couldn't provide all the niceties of life on Anguar that were available in Abilene.

Everything would have ended happily right then and there except that Jo wasn't through writing letters. Jesse had asked his wife to stop her letter writing to Washington. It was embarrassing him.

So Jo, with Jesse's best interests at heart, pleaded with Johnson to stop his investigation as she was afraid he was going to cause Jesse to be disciplined severely by the Coast Guard.

The steering committe will meet tomorrow, at Johnson's Cafe at 7:30 p.m.

Sen. Johnson Starts Vacation

He left it up to his physicians to decide whether his heart condition will permit him to continue as Democratic leader in the second session of the 84th Congress.

"I'm going to get a great big rocking chair and just sit and rock and think," Johnson told newsmen at National airport.

In December, he said, he plans to go to Atlanta, Ga., and to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., for medical check-ups before the second session begins.

"If the doctor gives me an okay," he said, "I'll be back to work in January. Whatever they decide, that's what I'll follow."

The tall Texan, who will be 47 on Saturday, said he felt good but expects to feel better after two or three months of rest on his ranch near Johnson City, Tex. He said he weighed 183 pounds in contrast to the 200 when he entered Bethesda naval hospital after suffering a heart attack on July 2.

Johnson flew to Texas in a twin-engined plane owned by Wesley West, Texas lumberman. He was accompanied by his wife, and his brother, Sam H. Johnson and his wife. They were scheduled to land at Fredericksburg, Tex.

Before taking off, Johnson called Mrs. Glen Stegall, a secretary in his office, to the plane and gave her a kiss. She beamed.

Airman And Re-Wed Wife Together Again

PORTLAND, Ore. —UP— Airman Daniel C. Schmidt and his wife, Una, were back together again Thursday in a honeymoon hideaway.

In a switch - ending to the well-publicized "Enoch Arden" case, Una, who said she married another man in the belief Schmidt had died in Red China, flew to Portland from California Wednesday night for a reconciliation with the 23-year-old airman.

The Enoch Arden of Tennyson's poem returned from the sea to find his wife happily married to another man and silently slipped back into oblivion.

'This Time for Keeps'

The face-to-face meeting at the home of Schmidt's mother, Mrs. Nellie Peters, culminated in their decision to go back together. Una said, in an exclusive interview with United Press, that this time it was "for keeps if Danny wants me."

Schmidt, who said it was "one of the happiest moments of my life," smiled at his 20-year-old wife's remarks and indicated he was in complete accord by soundly kissing her on the cheek.

After a short stay at Mrs. Peters' home, the couple left late Wednesday night for a hideaway at an Oregon beach.

Asked if it was a second honeymoon, Schmidt replied that "it is a first honeymoon." He said he and his wife didn't have time for a honeymoon when they were married in May, 1952.

Schmidt was sent to Korea only five weeks after he and "Tippy," as he calls his wife, were married at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.

Shot Down Over Korea

It was while on a flight in Korea that Schmidt's plane was shot down and he was taken prisoner by the Red Chinese. He spent 32 months in a Communist prison and only recently was released along with 10 other airmen.

When he returned to this country, Schmidt learned that his wife had married Alford Fine, a Sierra lumberjack. Una said she thought Schmidt had died in prison.

As for her other husband, Una said "Mr. Fine is completely out of the picture."

Pressed for further details of how Fine was being disposed of, Una said she couldn't "tell that."

Telephone Companies May Merge

SAN ANGELO, Tex. —UP— General Telephone Corp., and the Theodore Gary and Co., which operate a third of the nation's non-Bell system telephones in 31 states, will join forces if stockholders approve a merger agreement reached by the companies' boards of directors.

W. G. Wright, president of General Telephone Co. of the Southwest, announced Wednesday the directors' decision to merge. Stockholder meetings of both companies will be held on Sept. 29 to vote on the action.

General Telephone Corp., with nearly 2 million telephones, is the largest system of independent (non-Bell) telephone companies in the nation. The Gary company has a total of 500,000 telephones, meaning that the merged companies, if approval is granted, would operate 2.5 million telephones or a third of the country's non-Bell system telephones in 31 states.

Both systems have subsidiaries in Texas and Oklahoma, General Telephone Co., of the Southwest, with 179,000 telephones in 232 exchanges in Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas, has its general offices in San Angelo.

Hubby Is Threatened Over Steel Strike

CHICAGO —UP— Mrs. Esther Quigley, a modern "Lysistrata," issued a "no paycheck, no wife" ultimatum to her strikeleader husband Thursday. Her husband's union promptly called it a company plot.

Mrs. Quigley, a 35-year - old blonde, served notice that if her husband, Andrew, isn't back at the job by Monday he doesn't ever have to come back home.

She's already locked the 230-pound shop steward out of the house.

The strike bound Harrison Sheet Steel Co. meanwhile added fuel to the fight by announcing that it will go out of business unless the men get back to work by Monday.

Union Leaders Mad

Leaders of the CIO United Auto Workers Local 1214 were just as mad at Mrs. Quigley as they were at the company. They called her one-woman war a "vicious plot" thought up by a company official to split up the Quigleys and break the strike.

Mrs. Quigley's strategy against her husband and the UAW followed the tactics established centuries ago by "Lysistrata," heroine of an ancient Greek play.

Lysistrata was a determined Greek lady who got fed up with her husband always trotting off to the wars. She persuaded the other women of the town to take he romance out of their marriages until the husbands quit fighting. The plot worked like a charm and the war ended.

Organizes March

Mrs. Quigley is putting much the same strategem to work on the economic front. She has already organized a march of workers' wives on strike headquarters, proclaiming "we're not for either side, but for the weekly paycheck."

So far none of the other wives has joined Mrs. Quigley in showing a striking husband the door.

But her campaign has won her trans - Atlantic fame. Television equipment clogs her backyard and her son by a former marriage telephoned her from an Army post in Germany Wednesday that "you made the headlines."

4-H Group Back From Area Tour

Four 4-H boys and Jerry Mobley returned yesterday from a tour of grain marketing facilities in Amarillo. Several counties in the Panhandle were represented with 75 4-Hers.

The groups assembled at Producer's Grain Corporation Elevator and made six stops. The first stop was at the elevator and laboratory of Producer's Grain Corporation where they were shown how a terminal elevator operates. Wheat being converted into flour was observed at General Mills Flour Mill. At Uhlmann Grain Co., future markets operations and orderly marketing of grain was explained.

At noon the group was guest of the Amarillo Grain Exchange, co-sponsors with the Extension Service of Texas A&M, at Rice's Dining Salon.

A demonstration of the functions of the Amarillo Grain Exchange, was presented by Frank Rose, superintendent, and price quotations of wheat were written on a blackboard. How the final product of wheat is made into bread and other bakery products was demonstrated at Mead's Bakery, along with distribution over this area.

Jerry Mobley said that the trip was educational and interesting.

Chess Club Sets New Meet Time

The Pampa Chess Club changed the weekly meeting night back to Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. after a recent survey taken by Ronald Waters, secretary.

Dr. R. H. Rutledge, president, announced yesterday that brief business sessions would be held every other week at the beginning of meetings.

Plans call for a match with the chess club at Borger this fall.

Ike Resumes 'Vacation' In Denver

By WARREN DUFFEE

DENVER —UP— President Eisenhower resumed his "vacation" Thursday with a conference on reclamation policy.

Having approved $100 million in federal aid for flood - damaged areas in the East on his mercy mission, the chief executive turned to the big problem in the West — too little water.

The Presiden managed a week of fishing, golf practice and painting at his mountain vacation retreat near Fraser, Colo., before flying east Monday night. Mrs. Eisenhower remained at their Gettysburg, Pa., farm to rest last week, but came to Colorado with the chief executive Wednesday night for a "quiet visit" with her mother, Mrs. John S. Doud.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower arrived here at 7:48 p. m. after a five and one-half hour flight from Washington. During the previous 48 hours the President had flown over the flood-stricken Eastern Seaboard, conferred with governors of those states on flood relief, made a freign policy speech before the American Bar Association in Philadelphia and then returned to Washington for conferences on the international situation.

Despite the busy schedule, the President appeared rested and relaxed. But he still had to contend with another busy schedule at his summer White House offices on Lowery Air Force Base.

Mr. Eisenhower conferred with the secretary of interior, Douglas McKay, U.S. Commissioner of Reclamation W. A. Dexheimer and Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (Utah) on administration policy concerning the stalled upper Colorado River project and the so-called small small projects bill.

The President also was to review late reports on the huge flood relief program.

Dr. A. J. Welker and John Wills played a closely matched game at last night's meeting in Lovett Memorial Library, attended by 11 members.

Czechs Report Army Cut

VIENNA —UP— Communist Czechoslovakia announced Wednesday night that it will reduce the size of its army by 34,000 men.

A Prague Communist radio announcement, monitored here, said the Czech government had issued an order that the size of "the Czech people's army" be reduced by $34,000 men, effective Dec. 28, 1955."

The Czechs' move followed the lead of Soviet Russia.

On Aug. 13 Moscow announced that the armed forces of Russia would be cut by 640,000 men by Dec. 15.

Western powers were not greatly impressed by the move either of Russia or her satellite. They pointed out that Communists only now are beginning to do what the western powers did immediately after the end of World War II and that Russia still has given no indication how great an armed force will remain after the promised cut.

Suicide Try Thwarted

MOBILE, Ala. —UP— A woman's suicide plans were thwarted by a newsman who stalled her in a telephone conversation about the heat until police arrived.

Hal Brown, news editor of the Mobile Press-Register, received a call from the woman Tuesday afternoon. She said:

"I want the newspaper to take care of my son. I'm going to leave everything I have to him. I'm tired of living and I'm going to end it all right now."

Brown, sweltering in 96-degree heat, replied:

"Now lady, it's too hot to do a thing like that."

"The temperatpre hasn't got anything to do with it" she replied. But Brown continued talking about the heat. He finally learned her name and jotted it down for another man to pass on to police.

Officers rushed to her home and found her, by then unconscious, in a room with all the windows shut and filled with gas. She recovered.

Helen Hayes' Son Makes Debut In Acting Tonight

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD —UP— Helen Hayes' son, James MacArthur, makes his big-time acting debut on television Thursday night — but he confessed Thursday he came close to not getting the job.

Seventeen-year-old James' lead on "Climax!" is a "second chance" for him. Being the adopted son of the famous actress, and playwright Charles MacArthur, he admitted isn't a sure-fire wedge into television.

"When I first read the part they gave me that, 'don't call us, we'll call you' ", he grinned as he sat in the quiet, nearly bare rehearsal hall at CBS.

"And I'd thought I'd had the part for sure. They had called me to come into CBS in New York to pose for publicity pictures for the show, and then do a reading. I figured that reading was just some formality.

"After I went home they phoned and said, 'we don't want you'. They didn't think I could handle it. So I packed my bags to leave for a visit with some friends. My mother said, 'that's the breaks of show business.'

"Just before I left, they called and asked me to fly to California to read for the part again and work with the director. Then I got the job."

James is a nice - looking senior at Solebury prep school near Philadelphia. Whether he'll follow in his mother's footsteps and take up acting as a life career, he hasn't decided.

"I'll go to college first," he said. "It's better for kids just to be natural and on their own, and not get mixed up right away in show business, anyway. It looks so romantic, but it's really a lot of hard work."

Young James made his acting debut when he was eight during a summer stock performance of "The Corn is Green." Last summer he went with his mother to another summer straw hat theater. While she acted, he got a job as chief of the parking lot. He graduated to electrician and later won a small role in "Life with Father."

"I've read for a lot of other parts I haven't gotten," he said. "My mother never tried to get me a job and I never tried to get one through her.

"I was considered for this 'Climax!" role because I met the producer, Martin Manulis, when mother was doing a 'Best of Broadway' show at CBS. Later he telephoned he had this 'Climax!" script and he remembered how I looked."

Many an established star pales at thought of acting on a live television show. But neophyte MacArthur shrugged, "I'm not scared because I don't know anything about TV — and ignorance is bliss!"

Four American Students Freed

JERUSALEM, Israel —UP— Syria Tuesday freed four American theological students who were seized by Syrian soldiers while they swam in the Sea of Galilee but refused to let them return to Israel. The four were identified as Paul Mayer, Arthur Rithinger, and Fred and Tom Freudenhauer, all naturalized Americans who were born in Canada of German extraction. Their home towns were not given.

Prof Asks For CAB Revoke

WASHINGTON —UP— An economics professor Wednesday urged congress to strike an effective blow for free competition by revoking the "death sentence" of North American Airlines, a non-scheduled carrier.

Prof. Walter Adams of Michigan State College also told the Senate Anti-Monopoly committee that the trucking industry "should be deregulated forthwith."

He said the government, in many instances, promotes rather than discourages monopoly by "unwise, discriminatory, privilege-creating governmental measures which throttle competition and restrict opportunity."

"If government wants more competition," he added, "it can make a start by stopping its grants of privilege, immunity and subsidy to monopoly."

He said congress should reduce the power of the Civil Aeronautics Board to "crush competition and protect the established position" of scheduled airlines.

Adams said the "monopoly-minded" CAB ordered North American to cease its operations in November, although he said competition had forced Trans-World, American Airlines and United Airlines to cut their coast-to-coast fares to meet North American's rates.

Sugar Must Be Certified

WASHINGTON —UP— The Agriculture Department said that after the close of business Wednesday Cuban sugar for direct consumption may not enter the United States without certification by the department.

The requirement will remain in effect until Jan. 1. The department said the action was imposed because more than 80 per cent of the quantity of direct - consumption sugar which may be entered in 1955 from Cuba already has arrived.

The certification method is a means of preventing entry of sugar in excess of the quota.

The Catholic College of Cardinals, when complete, is composed of 70 members

Reds To Buy Texas Cattle

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. —UP— Three Russians will come to Texas Wednesday night to start a buying trip for Santa Gertrudis cattle and possibly Shorthorns and Herefords.

The three are Youri Golubash, livestock specialist with the Russian farm group now touring the United States; Dimiri Kosuchin, commercial counselor to the Russian embassy in Washington, and Georgi Bolshakov of Tass News Agency.

The Russians will either stop in Houston Wednesday night and go on to San Antonio Thursday or go directly to San Antonio Wednesday night.

They will be met at San Antonio by Bob Briggs, a San Antonio contractor who is also vice president of Santa Gertrudis Breeders International, and R. P. Marshall, executive secretary of the organization.

They will visit Briggs' ranch at Catarina, Tex., and probably some other ranches near Luling and Lockhart, Tex. After buying at least 40 head they will come to College Station.

In College Station they will look at the college herd, talk with staff members and plan a further tour to see Shorthorns and Herefords.

Four-Lane Road Is Proposed

AUSTIN —UP— The State Highway Commission has approved programs of work leading to eventual completion of State 73 as a four-lane expressway for its entire length from Houston to Port Arthur.

"This highway will not be completed at once over the entire distance and will not be the perfect traffic facility when it is first opened, but it will be a usable highway permitting the movement of traffic between Houston and Port Arthur," a commission statement said.

Highway Commission Chairman E. H. Thornton Jr., told a Baytown delegation Tuesday that he hopes construction of a $3 million loop on the highway through Baytown can be programed "soon."

He said under present conditions it would probably have to be projested two or three years from now, but might be done sooner if congress adopts a highway construction program next year.

Views Russian Farmers

NEW YORK —UP— One of the American farmers who toured Russia said Monday Russian farmers prefer private enterprise to government help. Charles J. Hearst, Cedar Falls, Iowa, said Russian farmers like to own a small plot of land, rather than help cultivate large farms and receive government bonuses for their efforts.

Texans Adopt 7 Germans

DALLAS —UP— Seven German children ranging in age from five weeks to 10 years arrived in Dallas at 4:15 p.m. Wednesday en route to new homes in Texas.

They are being adopted by Texas Methodist families: Four in San Antonio, two in Austin and one in Dallas. The Rev. Laurenz K. Brown of Lockhart, Tex., and the Texas Mission Home and Training School, which arranged the adoptions, declined to identify the foster parents.

The children arrived in Dallas aboard American Airlines flight 9. Six of them departed Love Field at 6:15 p.m. aboard Braniff Airways Flight 57 for Austin and San Antonio.

Brown, his son, Sarl, and Rudolf Keller accompanied the children from Frankfurt, Germany. They flew to New York Wednesday morning and took the American flight for Texas.

The German children, and their new Texas homes, are Claudia Mayer, 10 months, Dallas; Joachim Leister, 4, and Ernest Thomas, 21 months, Austin; and Antonius Reuschler, five months; George Essmert, 8, Waltrund Fimkembener, five weeks, and Peter Chrust, five months, San Antonio.

Man, 95, Has Wife Trouble

FORT WORTH —UP— At 95, John Boose, Fort Worth Negro, is as active as most men half his age.

Tuesday he fed his mule, trotted down to the store for some provisions, and returned home. But that's not all.

He picked up an iron pipe and made a vicious pass with it at his 74-year-old wife, she told Assistant District Atorney Conrad Florence. Only her nimbleness kept her from being hurt, she said.

Boose told Jailer Carl Harmon he got angry when his wife refused to fix his supper. Restless in Tarrant county jail Wednesday, he faced an aggravated assault charge.

Delay Sought In Libby Meet

NEW YORK —UP— The independent stockholders committee seeking control of Libby, McNeill & Libby, Chicago food packing concern, has moved to push back the company's annual meeting, now scheduled for Sept. 7.

The committee asked the U.S. district court here to postpone the meeting indefinitely in order to give the insurgent group time to appeal an injunction signed last week by Judge J. Edward Lumbard.

The injunction prevents the committee from voting any proxies it obtained before Aug. 16, forbids it to solicit any more proxies unless cleared with the Securities and Exchange Commission, and put off the Libby meeting to Sept. 7 from its original date of Aug. 17.

The SEC obtained the injunction on charges that the committee's original proxy material contained "false and misleading" statements.

Mitchell May Jr., New York insurance broker, resigned as chairman of the insurgent group after the SEC obtained the injunction. Still active on the committee are Alfred W. Parry Jr., New York ship broker, and Wilbur E. Dow Jr., New York admiralty lawyer.

The trees are in an area where small infestations of the black fly have been spotted. A tourist is believed to have transported the pest to the Valley inadvertently from Mexico.

British Set Jet Mark

LONDON —UP—Britain Wednesday held a record "breakfast-to-supper" round trip crossing of the Atlantic by a Canberra bomber and there were predictions such flights would be commonplace in the near future.

The Royal Aero Club said pilot John Walter Hackett, 32, established a record time Tuesday of 14 hours, 21 minutes, 45.4 seconds for the London to New York and back flight of 6,915.92 miles.

Hackett and navigator Peter Moneypenny, 28, guided the bullet-nosed Canberra at an average speed of 481.52 miles per hour although the twin-jet bomber often exceeded 550 miles per hour.

Chairman Sir Miles Thomas of British Overseas Airways sent congratulations to the crew on the "historic flight." He said he was "sorry that the Canberra was not carrying a payload of passengers or freight but that will come."

Hackett established or broke three records in the flight. He took off at dawn from London, arrived at New York's Floyd Bennett field in time for lunch and set down back in London in time for dinner.

He set the first there-and-back record between London and New York, and broke existing records for the London-New York and New York-London laps.

Farmer Income In Slight Decline

WASHINGTON —UP— The Agriculture Department said farmers' cash income totalled $14.3 billion in the first seven months of 1955, a drop of 4 per cent from the comparable period last year.

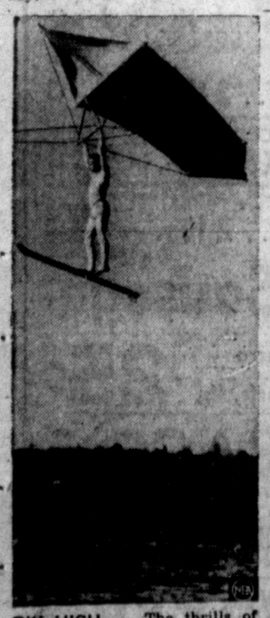

The department, which disclosed the figures Tuesday night in a demand and price situation report, attributed the decline to smaller receipts for livestock and livestock products.

It said such receipts totaled $9 billion, 6 per cent less than a year ago and 9 per cent below 1954. Meat animals were down sharply, mostly because of lower hog prices.

Crop receipts totaled $5.3 billion, slightly above last year. Increases were reported for vegetables, oil-bearing crops, and feed crops.

A Molded Fruit Salad With A Different Flavor

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Women's Editor

"Whenever we visit Aunt Mo, she always serves wonderful things to eat we never heard of before," explained Mrs. G. F. Branson, adding that she always brings back at least one recipe from each visit. She says she always marks the recipe "Aunt Mo" which is a sign of "something special."

From one of her visits, Mrs. Branson brought back a recipe for a molded fruit salad that she says looks like other molded salads but has quite a "different" taste. "Aunt Mo" is Mrs. Walter Ausler of Waco, Mrs. Branson's sister-in-law.

The Branson family moved to Pampa from Amarillo in the fall of 1943. Mr. Branson is a native Texan, but Mrs. Branson was reared in Illinois. A nurse during World War I, Mrs. Branson met Mr. Branson while she was stationed in Texas. The Bransons have two children — John, now a professor of music in Gulfport, Miss.; and Jane, now Mrs. Robert Ward of Crane. Mr. Branson is purchasing agent for the Cabot Companies.

Mrs. Branson is a member of the First Methodist Church, belongs to the Women's Society of Christian Service and to a Sunday School class. She is also a supply Sunday School teacher, and belongs to the adult education Spanish class.

Although Mrs. Branson said she knew how to cook some before she was married, she mostly learned afterward. Her specialties are roasts and pies.

MOLDED FRUIT SALAD
1 pkg. lemon jello
1 small can sliced pineapple
½ cup pecans, chopped
1½ cups water
8 red (maraschino) cherries
½ pint whipping cream
1 pkg Philadelphia cream cheese

Heat water with the juice from the sliced pineapples. Dissolve jello in it and put aside to cool.

Cut cherries and pineapple sliced into small pieces. Soften Philadelphia cream cheese with a fork. Add pecans, cherries, pineapple and mix. When jello begins to thicken, add pecan-cherries-pineapple mixture. Fold in whipping cream and mold in individual molds or in a large dish.

Mrs. Branson says you can serve the salad as is or with dressing. You can top the salad with a cherry or a pecan for decoration, or you can use a spring of parsley and a cherry. Mrs. Branson says the possibilities are unlimited.

Mrs. Branson has a special dressing that goes especially well with fruit salads which she uses.

DRESSING
1 can Eagle Brand milk
1 egg, beaten

Whip together. Whip and blend 1 tsp. salt and 1½ tsp. dry mustard to milk-and-egg mixture. Add ¾ cup vinegar slowly. Mrs. Branson says you can use white vinegar, regular vinegar or red wine vinegar. She says it is good enough to "eat with a spoon" and is "good as long as it lasts." It makes about 1 pint.

Ice Cream Pie Gives Pretty, Tasty Dessert

Imagine — a pie that's ice cream all the way through! It's done with flavored freezing mix. To one-half the ice cream mixture you add cocoa. Spread in an 8" pie pan, it becomes the crust. Marachino cherries are folded into the remainder of the ice cream and it is spooned into the lined pie pan. Into the freezer it goes for an hour or two. Then, before it's served, you add a garnish of shaved chocolate.

1 cup milk
1 cup heavy cream
1 pkg. vanilla freezing mix
2 tbsps. cocoa
¼ cup chopped maraschine cherries
Grated chocolate

Combine milk and cream; whip until a deep layer of foam forms. Takes 1 to 2 minutes. Add contents of package, whip 1 more minute to dissolve. To ½ of the mixture add cocoa. Fold in until well blended. Spread on bottom and sides of 8" pie pan. Fold marachino cherries into remaining ice cream and spoon into lined pie pan. Freeze until firm but not too hard. Cut in pie shaped pieces.

Rainy Day Picnic Indoors Is As Much Fun As One Outdoors

If your picnic day dawns cloudy
And the rain begins to fall
Just follow these directions and it won't bother you at all.

No need to fret about a rainy day. Your picnic can be as much fun indoors as out. Just spread your blanket on the basement floor and proceed as directed. Your menu calls for franks and franks you shall have. Instead of roasting try French frying them. Dipped in batter, then allowed to turn a golden brown in hot deep fat, batter-dipped franks are a treat that makes staying indoors a pleasure. With the franks go a Horseradish Sauce and Macaroni Salad.

FRENCH FRIED FRANKS
3 cups pancake mix
1-3 cup corn meal
½ teaspoon dry mustard
3 tablespoons sugar
2 cups water
20 franks

Combine dry ingredients. Add water and beat with a rotary beater about two minutes. Dip franks in batter holding with kitchen fork or tongs. Drain off excess batter. Fry in hot deep fat (375') two to three minutes. Drain. Insert wooden skewers. Serve with horseradish sauce. Makes twenty.

HORSERADISH SAUCE
Add one tablespoon flour to one tablespoon melted butter; combine well. Add one cup chicken broth (or one bouilon cube dissolved in one cup hot water) gradually, stirring until thickened.

Add ¼ cup cream to 2 beaten egg yolks. Pour thickened chicken broth over egg yolks gradually, stirring constantly. Add ¼ cup horseradish and cook 5 minutes longer, stirring very frequently. Chill thoroughly.

THE DELICIOUS chocolate cake originally created to hold a toasted marshmallow between two slices is equally good as an ice cream sandwich. Your home freezer supplies the ice cream and you're in business.

CHOCOLATE CAKE QUICKY
2 eggs, beaten
2-3 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1¼ cups pancake mix
1-3 cup milk
3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
2 ounces (2 squares) unsweetened chocolate, melted
1 cup finely chopped pecans

Add sugar to the beaten eggs, beating until fluffy. Add vanilla, pancake mix and milk, stirring lightly until combined. Lightly mix in butter, chocolate and nuts. Pour into two well greased No. 2 cans. When cool, slice each loaf into 10 thin slices. Place a slice of ice cream between two slices to make a sandwich. Makes 10 servings.

The toasted marshmallows called for at your picnic now take on a new role. With puffed rice and peppermint, they make a candy not only good to eat but entertaining. The gang at your rainy day picnic will have a wonderful time molding puffed rice candy into imaginative shapes. A prize goes to the most original creation. The prize, a "rain check" to the next sunny day picnic.

Ice Box Blueberry Pie Good All Year

Here's a Blueberry Pie with a "no bake — can't fail" graham cracker crust — it's a pie made in only minutes. Low cost, easily cooked, sweetened rice forms the filling of the pie. The bit of lemon juice is the flavoring secret.

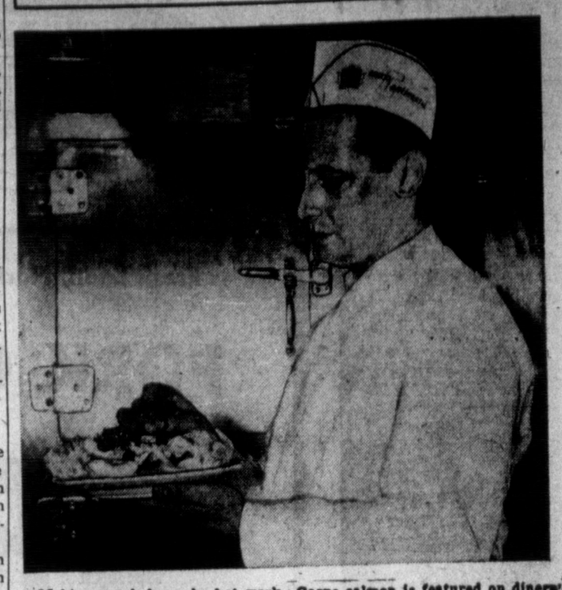

4 cups milk
1 cup uncooked white rice
1-3 cup melted butter or margarine
1 1-3 cups finely crushed graham crackers (about 16 crackers)
¾ cup beet or cane sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 cups fresh, frozen thawed or canned drained, blueberries
½ pint whipping cream, chilled
1 tablespoon beet or cane sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Put the milk and rice in a 2-quart saucepan. Stir well. When bubbles appear around the edge of the saucepan, turn the heat as low as possible. Stir well. Cover and leave over this low heat for 45 minutes or until the milk cooks into the rice. Stir frequently during the cooking.

While the milk and rice cook, mix together the butter or margarine and the graham cracker crumbs. Pack firmly into the bottom and sides of a 9" deep pie pan which holds about 6 cups of liquid.

After the rice cooks, stir in the 1½ teaspoons vanilla, ¾ cup beet or cane sugar, lemon juice and the blueberries. Place in the graham cracker crust. Cool and then cover and store in the refrigerator until time to serve. To serve, whip the cream. Fold in the sugar and vanilla. Spread over the top of the pie filling. Serve immediately. This recipe makes 6 to 8 servings.

Cool Salads Can Be Hot Work

Making a salad can be hot work. This is the claim of "Super Continental" Chef Gilles Toussaint of the Canadian National Railways.

"Take chicken salad, our most popular summer plate," he said, "the tasty white and dark meat has to be boiled more than two hours and then cooled. That's hot work." We buy chickens between four and five pounds each and boil them in the compact kitchens on the diners to ensure freshness. Tons of chicken are needed in a season."

"A boiled fowl of that weight provides only enough chicken for seven or eight servings," he said, "so it takes many chickens to supply the 'Super Continental' for one trip between Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver."

Chicken salad is not the only cold plate offered by the dining car department of the railway. Fresh cohoe and sockeye salmon salads are prepared on the west coast and Gaspe salmon is featured on diners throughout the Maritimes and Eastern Canada.

"People never feel as hungry during the heat of the summer months, but cool, fresh looking food, neatly arranged and served, can make the summer traveler relish the thought of tucking away a plateful."

Here is Chef Toussaint's Chicken Salad recipe:

Super Continental Chicken Salad
2 ounces Chicken with sufficient chopped celery to fill bouillon cup
1 Hard boiled egg cut in quarters
Dash of paprika
1 Teaspoon vinegar
2 Teaspoons salad oil
1 Small fresh tomato cut in quarters
1 Dash chopped parsley
1 Teaspoon mayonnaise

Serve unmoulded on lettuce leaf on dinner plate. Garnish with quarters of egg and tomato around side and two pieces of chicken on top of salad. INS

HUGE STATUE OF CHRIST IS PLANNED—Biggest statue in the world, depicting Christ the Redeemer, is being planned at Rocca Di Papa, Italy. Looking over the first test model of the project is sculptor Vincenzo Torre. The hollow bronze statue's interior will contain rooms and galleries with religious works of art. The uplifted arm and hand will hold a church accommodating 600 worshippers. The cross will have observation galleries overlooking Italy and the Mediterranean. An elevator will carry visitors to the various sections. The statue will be 328 feet high and will rest on a 138-foot-high base, as compared to the Statue of Liberty, which is 151 feet high and has a 154-foot-high base.

Biggest Industrial Show Has 14-Acre Stage, Cast Of 5,000

By ROBERT ZIMMERMAN

NEW YORK —UP— Saul Poliack, the P. T. Barnum of the industrial world, is putting on just about the greatest show on earth — a cast of 5,000 ... a 14-acre stage ... helicopter taxi service for visitors ... a production that will cost over $20 million.

Chances are you'll never get to see this extravaganza. It will run for only two weeks. The people who want to see it made their reservations months ago.

Poliack, an impresario of industrial exhibitions for 25 years, is staging the country's first machine tool show since 1947 in Chicago next month. At the same time, he is putting on what is probably the world's first automation show.

420 Firms Exhibiting

"It adds up to the biggest thing we've ever done — that anyone has done," said Poliack. "We expect an attendance of 100,000, and we'll have about 420 companies exhibiting at the two shows."

From an office suite in midtown Manhattan Poliack and the staff of Clapp & Poliack have been working for two and a half years on plans for the industrial double-feature that will play Chicago Sept. 6-16.

At the same time they're deep in preparations for two other productions — the annual plant maintenance and engineering show in Philadelphia next January and the national packaging exposition at Atlantic City, N.J., next April.

While the average citizen probably would rather stay home and watch television than visit a Poliack exhibition, the shows are high points of the year for thousands of manufacturers and businessmen. The exhibits inspire $3 millions worth of equipment sales.

Pretty Sober Affairs

The exhibitions are generally pretty sober affairs but there is room for showmanship. Poliack decided it would be a nice touch to have a helicopter taxi bussing back and forth between the two Chicago shows, which will be staged in arenas five miles apart.

"One big difference between putting on this kind of show and, say, a Broadway play is that you have to take care of the transportation and housing and feeding of the audience, too," Poliack said.

Clapp & Poliack has had a housing bureau open in Chicago for 18 months handling hotel reservations for the two-week period of the show. Foreign visitors began booking plane space a year ago. A special restaurant is being set up at the Navy pier, site of the automation end of the exhibition.

Poliack and a partner now retired, Truman Clapp, organized their exhibition management firm in 1929. It produces shows for a fee, or "owns" a show outright and makes its profit from rental of exhibition space.

New Presidential Car

PHILADELPHIA —UP— President Eisenhower Wednesday got his first look at his new White House limousine, a sleek black automobile capable of carrying seven passengers. The 1955 Imperial has a large sliding glass section in the roof permitting the President to stand up and be seen from the waist up when in motorcades.

DRESS TROUBLE—Mrs. Mary E. Williams faces eviction from a Rankin, Pa., Housing Authority project—because she paid her rent at the project office clad only in this "shortie" nightgown. Housing authorities refused to say whether their eviction order was based entirely on Mrs. Williams' attire. But they said noise from her suite annoyed other tenants.

Flood Insurance Is Proposed

WASHINGTON —UP— The flood disaster in the Northeast revived talk Wednesday of proposals for government insurance to help pay for flood damage in the future.

Rep. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.) made the suggestion to President Eisenhower at Hartford, Conn., Tuesday. Dodd said afterward that Mr. Eisenhower told him it was a good idea."

President Truman sent a similar proposal to Congress in 1952 after the disastrous Midwest floods. He asked that a $1.5 billion national flood insurance program be set up. But Congress never gave it serious attention.

New Udall Rises From Rubble Left From Terrible Tornado

EDITOR'S NOTE: Flash floods have taken more than 200 lives and left 34,000 families homeless in six northeastern states. The future is grim for the stricken towns and cities but steps already have been taken to get reconstruction under way. United Press asked its correspondent at Udall, Kan., which was laid waste by a tornado three months ago, for an up-to-the-minute report on how a disaster-struck community fights it way back.

UDALL, Kan. —UP— A new Udall is rising from the rubble left by the terrible tornado three months ago.

Volunteer labor—in the spirit of the early settlers who helped their neighbors when there was trouble—has helped make the rebuilding possible.

The money has come mostly from insurance, the federal government and the Red Cross.

Workmen from Wichita, 20 miles north of Udall, donated their time to pour concrete for a new city hall. Contractors charged nothing for the material. This brick building will give Udall space for a fire station, the public library and offices for the mayor and city clerk.

Spirit Kept Up

The sight of the new city hall going up has helped keep up the spirit of Udall residents.

It took only one minute, on the night of May 25, for a twister to reduce this town to debris. Eighty persons were killed, one-sixth of the population. Scores were injured.

E. B. Harvey, the town blacksmith who also ran an automobile agency, lost his wife in the tornado and spent six weeks in a hospital recuperating from injuries.

Harvey's home and some of his new cars were partly covered by insurance. With the insurance money and a government loan he has started to rebuild.

'Lois Worse Off'

"What's done is done, and there's nothing I can do about it, so I just go about my business and try to be happy in my work," said Harvey. "There are lots of people worse off than I am."

Most of Udall's citizens will be in debt for several years to the government and to banks and private loan companies. Officials estimate the indebtedness will amount to about two-thirds of the total cost of reconstruction.

Many were left with only the clothing on their backs after the tornado. At least half the population had some kind of insurance, but it covered only a small part of their losses.

One father and two children (the mother was killed in the storm) were not eligible for a government loan so the Red Cross replaced their small home.

Another family was left homeless when the wind reduced a six-room frame house to kindling. The house, valued at $7,000, has been replaced by a new one that cost $11,000. Insurance paid for $4,500, and the remainder was covered by a personal loan. The Red Cross provided furniture for the new dwelling.

Convertiplane Takes To Air

WASHINGTON —UP— A bizarre new aircraft that can act like a helicopter or an airplane has been flown for the first time, the Army announced Wednesday.

It is the XV-3 Convertiplane, development for the Army by Bell Aircraft Corp. and the Air Force.

The vehicle features tilting rotor-propellors at the tips of its 30-foot wing. For takeoff, hovering and landing, the three-bladed rotors give the ship the capabilities of a helicopter. For forward motion, the rotors are tilted forward 90 degrees, becoming conventional propellors.

The Army said the XV-3 can fly as fast as a DC-3 airliner — 150 to 165 miles per hour — compared with the 110 mph of regular helicopters.

On the first flight, at Fort Worth, Tex., with Bell pilot Floyd Carlson at the controls, the Convertiplane rose vertically to 20 feet and maneuvered in all directions as a helicopter.

Later it will make the conversion to an airplane while in flight.

The Army said the Convertiplane "will be of great value in gaining the mobility which the Army must have in modern warfare." It can carry four persons, or two litter patients and a medic in addition to its pilot.

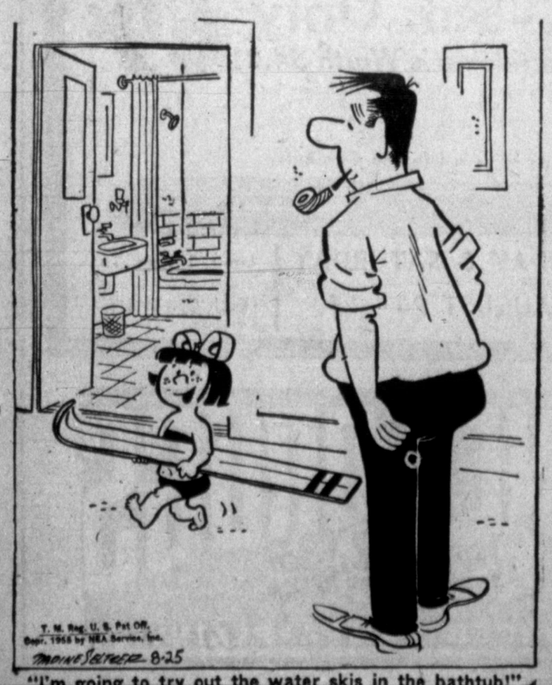

Another type of convertiplane, under development for the Army, is the McDonnell XV-1. It has a helicopter - type rotor for vertical flight and wings and propellor for forward flight.

Little German Auto Beats US Makes In Foreign Sales

By SUMNER AHLBUM
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Most American car owners who catch a glimpse of more and more foreign cars on U.S. highways are likely to brush off the invasion as a fad followed by sporty young men who wear checked caps with a buckle in back.

But in the race to capture the imported car market here, the familiar and racier foreign cars such as MG and Jaguar have fallen behind in traffic. Out in front is a homely little number aptly described as a cross between an anteater and a beetle, the Volkswagon.

Five years ago, when Volkswagon was first offered on the U.S. market, only 157 were sold and those who drove it weathered incredulous stares and ridicule. Today the little German car, a Hitlerean dream that was realized only by his defeat, has captured 46 per cent of the U.S. foreign car sales.

Latest industry figures, covering the first five months of 1955, put Volkswagon sales at 7,730, more than its 1954 total of 6,343 which in turn represented a sudden spurt of 412 per cent over the previous year.

VOLKSWAGON SEDAN — Through 'Iron Curtain' of convention.

Of the 16,801 new foreign car registrations this year, VW's nearest competitor was the standby of road-racing, the MG, with 1,918. Jaguar sold 1,466 and Hillman, which like the VW is a family car rather than a sports job, 1,010. English Fords, available in several sizes, ran fifth with 784.

Both Jaguar and Hillman are having slightly better sales than last year. MG sales are off, mainly because of a wait for a new model.

Harvey James, editor of the authoritative "Auto News," sees the shift in the foreign car market from the racier models to the utilitarian as a "falling off from an enthusiast's standpoint."

Volkswagon's boom had nothing to do with Hitler's dream. German automan Heinz Nordhoff, pre-war boss of General Motors' German subsidary, pulled it out of the rubble, by 1954 made it the top-selling car in five European nations. His formula was somewhat like Henry Ford's original Model T idea — basic family transportation without frills.

But even Nordhoff guessed wrong on the U.S. market. Up to a year and a half ago, he felt the VW was too small for its price (about $1,500) except for two-car families, and figured the most he could sell here would be 4,000.

Nordhoff also reckoned without U.S. salesmanship, as typified by VW's largest American distributor, World - Wide Automobiles, Inc., which took over sales in five eastern states last year.

World-Wide's two young partners are as strange in the automobile business as the VW's sudden lead in its field. Arthur Stanton was an editor for a book publishing house when he and architect Victor Elmaleh decided there was more excitement in foreign trade. In 1948, cashing in on Elmaleh's family contacts, they began selling Chryslers and GE products in Morocco.

They soon branched out, adding VW to their Morocco line and (with other partners) also became the biggest U.S. importers of Japanese toys.

Right now VW occupies most of their time. Their territory covers 115 of some 300 U.S. dealers. Of the estimated 2,000 VW's now selling here each month, Stanton and Elmaleh expect to account for 30 per cent.

They figure they're getting more and more one-car buyers. "Once you penetrate the Iron Curtain of convention," as Stanton explains it, "you're in. We've broken away from the sports-car enthusiast and the individualist. Our rightful market are the people we find coming in every day — families in the $5,000-$7,000 income bracket—looking for basic transportation."

The price plus economy of upkeep (32 miles per gallon, an air-cooled engine-in-the-rear) are major Volkswagon points. Once one is sold in a community, the VW population begins to multiply.

Parking is another advantage; for town and city driving, the bug-like car slips into spaces that frustrate drivers of conventional cars. Even some city garages charge $10 less a month for a VW.

"If all the cars get small again," says Stanton, "maybe we'll have something to worry about. Right now the factory can't ship us enough."

Hearing Set For Man, 78, Charged With Killing Girl

TEXAS CITY —UP— A preliminary hearing was scheduled Thursday for Robert J. Wallace, 78, who is charged with beating his blonde, nine-year-old granddaughter to death with a ballpeen hammer because her singing kept him from taking a nap.

Wallace, charged with murder with malice aforethought, was being held in the Texas City jail. The victim, Frances Jean Wallace, died in her home Wednesday from numerous blows on the head with the heavy hammer.

Her father, G. W. Wallace, was at work at a Texas City refinery and her mother was working at a supermarket when Frances was killed. Wallace, who had lived with his son and his family for 14 years, was calmly rocking in a chair three or four feet from the body when police arrived.

Wallace told Assistant District Attorney Archie Alexander he was trying to take a nap but Frances' singing kept him from going to sleep. Police said she was sitting at a table coloring a paint book when she was attacked. The book was open and her colors were scattered about it.

In a statement made to police, Wallace said he went into the kitchen, drank a glass of milk and got the three-quarter pound hammer from a tool box. He said he returned to the living room and started hiting Frances on the head.

She fell to the floor after several blows and Wallace said he dragged her body to the center of the room "so I could get a full swing."

"I hit her in the head with a hammer about 20 times," Wallace said.

Frances' sister, Linda Faye Wallace, 13, was outside the house playing when she heard the commotion and ran into the house. She saw her little sister lying on the floor, her head covered with blood.

Linda Faye ran screaming from the house and across the street to the home of a neighbor, Mrs. Gay Archer, and told her: "Grandpa has hurt Frances."

Mrs. Archer ran across to the house and found the grandfather rocking in his chair near the body. She asked him what happened and he replied:

"Nothing, I just killed her."

The little girl's mother had to be hospitalized for shock when she learned of the slaying.

The union is asking Southwestern Bell for a pay reclassification that would put San Antonio workers on a par with those in other large Texas cities, a spokesman said.

They will visit Briggs' ranch at Catarina, Tex., and probably ranches near Luling and Lockhart, Tex.

AUSTIN —UP— Attorney General John Ben Shepperd Wednesday filed three suits in 53rd District court seeking recovery for the state of $287,248 spent from the scandal-ridden Veterans Land Board.

The latest actions brought to more than $2,362,000 the total amount sought by the state in 21 suits now filed.

One suit, seeking $21,969, named W. T. McLarty and T. J. McLarty, Cuero, as defendants.

Another, asking $40,471, named both the McLartys and Henry (Shorty) Robinson, also of Cuero.

A third suit, asking return of $224,808, named as defendants the Alamo Development Co., C. O. Hagan, Yoakum; C. P. Ernster, Cuero; C. L. Carey, Lavaca county, and Robinson.

T. J. McLarty is named in 39 indictments stemming from Veterans Land Board investigations. Six indictments have been returned against W. T. McLarty, C. O. Hagan is named in three indictments; Carey in four, Robinson in 26, and Ernster in 53.

The civil suits allege fraudulent representations by the defendants in order to obtain approval of the sale of land to the Veterans Land Board.

Airman Happy To See Mom

PORTLAND, Ore. —UP— Airman Daniel C. Schmidt said Wednesday "it feels wonderful to see mother" after spending 32 months in a Red China prison camp. But the 23-year-old modern day "Enoch Arden" refused to discuss his mixed-up marital life.

Schmidt, who returned to the United States recently with 10 other airmen released from Communist Chinese prisons to find his wife remarried to a Sierra lumberjack, slipped into Portland Tuesday night and immediately went into seclusion at his mother's small auto court apartment in suburban Hillsdale.

In an interview Wednesday, Schmidt said, "It feels wonderful to see mother. I was very worried about her. She seems in much better health than I expected. It's wonderful to see her as happy as she is."

But concerning his marital troubles with his 20-year-old wife, Una., the airman had little to say.

"I still can't say anything," he told a newsman. "My problem still isn't worked out. When it is, I'll be able to say something."

Schmidt last week filed a divorce action in Red Bluff, Calif., charging his wife was an unfit mother for their 2½-year-old son, Danny Jr. Schmidt said he would seek custody of the child.

Schmidt's mother, Mrs. Nellie Peters shared his joy at their reunion.

"I couldn't be any happier," she said. "I was crying all over the place when he pulled in. I thought he would be a lot thinner. He looks like he is in pretty good shape." Mrs. Peters added that her son "looks real good."

Man, Wife Are 'Hermits' In Wilds Of Northwest

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

Atop Mount Dubose, B.C.—(NEA)—Talk about round pegs in round holes, Herb Skuce and his wife take the cake.

Their job is to sit up on this mountain, guard the flow of water through the intake of the 10-mile tunnel to the gigantic power plant of the Aluminum Co. of Canada's new smelter at Kitimat, give daily weather reports and be ready to shut off the reservoir water if necessary.

The Skuces have been up here more than a year and have only had a handful of visitors. They consider this an ideal working condition. The helicopter which brings up supplies and mail every two weeks frequently doesn't even shut off its engine, thus making conversation unnecessary.

"It's just that I don't have much hankerin' for people," Herb explains. "That's something we don't have much of up here, which makes it real nice for the few of us concerned," he points out.

One chore of his unique responsibility is chasing away curious pilots who land seaplanes on the big lake-reservoir near the tunnel intake. He has great talent for this.

"We're really not anti-social," explains Mrs. Skuce. "It's just that we find we like this kind of private life and don't need a lot of people around for company."

Herb is 55 and a native of Vancouver. He got the job from having been a guide in this part of Canada, slightly south of Alaska, when the Alcan first decided to build a new smelter five years ago. He was the first man on the job.

Mrs. Skuce is a native of Wyoming and has two married sons there and a married daughter in Colorado. She was a widow when she met Herb on a huning trip several years ago. Their mutual interest in solitude, the outdoors and hunting and fishing makes it the ideal match.

In addition to relishing isolation Herb's special talents for the job include being an excellent mechanic, a good weather observer and a radio technician. He has telephone connection with the power house but also has to relay many radio messages between distant points of the whole complex smelter project, which includes 5,500 square miles of lakes and mountains.

As far as Mrs. Skuce goes there is only one small annoyance about the assignment.

"At least twice a day I go fishing or out to inspect our traps and when I return I frequently find a bear on the front porch," she explains. "I don't like to shoot them when it's not necessary, but sometimes I have to get in the house," she says.

Most of them are fairly small black bears but there are a lot of huge grizzlies, too. Both Herb and his wife have had to kill several of the big ones in the past year.

The aluminum company, delighted with the couple's job, has given them the best equipment and furnishings possible. There are two, two-story quonset houses located about 200 yards from the lake. That's in case one should burn down or be damaged by the storms or snow.

The winters are severe up here and the snow just begins to melt off to show green in June.

They have a year's supply of canned food, if needed, and get fresh fish and meat from hunting and other fresh foods from the helicopter ever every two weeks.

Equipment available to them includes a couple of power boats, two small trucks, a snow plow, a tractor, oil heaters, emergency generators and a virtual arsenal of small arms and ammunition.

Their hunting gives them a sizeable side income. The martens they trap in great numbers have top quality fur, for which there is a demand. And what they do for vacation?

"We've never thought about that," Herb says, "and when you get right down to it this is a sort of a vacation all year around."

HERB SKUCE AND WIFE — "We don't need a lot of people."

MAKING A GO OF LIFE

By ROY L. SMITH

Read John 8:53-59

Jesus trusted God. Because he trusted God he trusted the life God had given him. It was to him a divine gift to be used to God's glory. Instead of trying to squeeze it dry he filled it up and handed it back as his tribute to God.

Life did to him everything it ever did to any man. It imposed burdens upon him; it came crashing down over his head; it developed storms and tempests; it revealed itself at times as seamy and bitter; it surrounded him with the ungrateful, the callous, the careless, and the contentious. It confronted him with difficulties and proposed questions he could not answer.

The amazing thing about Jesus, however, was not what life did to him, but what he did to life. He accepted blows as matters that could be compelled to contribute to the great central purpose of living. Any person who will follow his example, adopt his attitudes, and live in the same confidence, will experience the power he enjoyed. It will be in them like "a well of water springing up into everlasting life" (John 4:14). The proof of the doctrine appears not in its logic, but as we live it.

It was this consciousness of the possesion of power that made the first-century church so effective. Those first Christians were men who believed in Jesus as the divine Son of God with all their hearts, but they were also men who believed that they themselves were new creatures because the spirit which had been in Jesus had found an entrance into their own lives.

This day has been given me out of thy hand, O God. Thou hast come with it. There is not an hour of it when thou art not present. Nor is there one circumstance in it bigger than thou art. I will accept it with the confidence that the two of us can manage it. Amen.

Sort out the experiences of your day. Some of them you could have managed alone. Others of them have been beyond the combined power of you and God. If you and the Father can cooperate life can be kept under control.

Search Started For Aged Man

LAS CRUCES, N. M. —UP— Federal authorities launched a nationwide search Wednesday for a frail, 70-year-old Chicago man after arresting a 20-year-old youth who allegedly stole his car.

The youth, Leonard La[illegible]l of Milwaukee, Wis., was arrested at Truth or Consequences, N.M., on an FBI warrant charging him with stealing a car owned by Lewis A. Finn of Chicago from a highway in Kentucky.

LaFond brought the car to El Paso, Tex., about Aug. 8, the FBI said, and traded it in on another car. He drove to Truth or Consequences where he was arrested when he was unable to show identification at a bank where he was trying to cash the used car lot's check for Finn's car.

LaFond was jailed in lieu of $1,500 bond after his arraignment before U.S. Commissioner R. R. Posey here Wednesday. Meantime, the FBI searched for the elderly Finn, who has not been seen since his car disappeared.

Federal authorities described Finn as "about 70 and not weighing over 115 pounds."

Deputy Jim Flanagan of the Dona Ana sheriff's office said LaFond claimed to have picked up Finn's car when he spotted it "sitting along a highway in Kentucky" with the keys in it. Flanagan said LaFond claimed he thought the car was abandoned.

South Wants Industries

NEW YORK —UP— The New York World-Telegram and Sun said Wednesday that some southern states were laying plans to ask industrial plants, damaged by floods in the northeast to rebuild in the South rather than on the former sites.

The Scripps - Howard newspaper said it learned that a "reverse carpet - bagger" was being sent by South Carolina into storm-battered Connecticut next week to talk to manufacturers about re-settling in the southern state.

The newspaper said that its telephone survey showed that "at least one southern state"—South Carolina — was "reaching out" for New England's stricken industries. It said it found another — Georgia — which said it would "wait for the dust to settle" and a third — North Carolina — admitted that "local citizens had been sending out lures" to industries in the damaged areas.

The leading rice-producing states are Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, and California.

Satellite May Be Launched In Florida

By ALFRED LEECH

EVANSTON, Ill. —UP— The man-made earth satellite probably will be launched from Patrick Air Force Base in Florida, rocket experts agreed Wednesday.

James J. Harford, executive secretary of the American Rocket Society, said this is the consensus of experts attending a symposium on gas dynamics sponsored jointly by the society and Northwestern University.

Harford said the Air Force missile testing center at the base near Coca, Fla., has the trained crews and the facilities for firing longer range rockets.

Worked Under Braun

It has test-fired such missiles as the Snark, the Bomarc, and the Redstone, a larger, more efficient version of the German V-2 developed under the direction of Werner von Braun, noted German rocket specialist.

Harford said the satellite, plans for which were announced recently by the White House, would be the "first step" toward interplanetary travel.

"A short, faltering step to be sure, but nevertheless a step," he said.

Likened to Model T

Harford said the satellite might be likened to the Model T in the evolution of the automobile.

In all probability, he said, it will be destroyed by friction when it plunges back into the earth's denser atmosphere at the end of its journey.

Looking beyond this first satellite, Harford said the next step probably would be the building of a "returnable" satellite which would not burn when it re-entered the dense atmosphere.

After that would come the development of a man - carrying satellite, he said.

Striking Hubby Locked Out

CHICAGO —UP— Mrs. Esther Quigley used lockout tactics Wednesday in her battle to make her husband quit striking and go back to work.

The redoubtable housewife is waging a one-woman battle against her husband and other leaders of CIO United Auto Workers' strike at the Hamilton Sheet Steel Co.

The slight, blonde housewife told her husband Tuesday that their home was too small for both off them so long as the walkout lasted.

She said she was leaving. Like a dutiful husband, Quigley left instead.

Mrs. Quigley said the "sight of my empty refrigerator is keeping me going" in her battle against the strikers.

What's more, she isn't too use she will take her husband back when the strike ends.

She said he promised her three years ago that he would give up union activities, but "now I find that he's been a shop steward for a year and a half and is partly responsible for the fact that the workers didn't stay on the jub during negotiations."

Mrs. Quigley, the mother of two small children, is rallying other strikers' wives in her fight to get the 400 Harrison employes back on the job while negotiations are in progress.

The men walked out last week, demanded a 20 cent pay boost and other benefits. Mrs. Quigley, 35, said she had already had enough of it.

"Our kids need milk and so do the families of all the other strikers," she said. "We got our last pay checks Friday and there won't be any more money until this is settled."

Foreign-Made Auto Is Sought

HOUSTON — UP — Police launched a search for a foreign auto, a German-made Volkswagon, Wednesday in the belief it may have been involved in a hit-run accident.

However, no victim was apparent and police had only the word of a filling station employe, Billy Ray Stewart, that the car had some "bloodstains and bits of flesh on a wheel."

Stewart said a man drove the car in and asked to have it washed. He said he asked the driver what happened?

"Guess I ran over a plum," Stewart said the driver told him. The man added, Stewart said, "maybe it was a bag of plums."

Stewart said the man locked the car while he washed it, then unlocked it and drove off.

Downed Pilot Has Fracture

ASCOM CITY, Korea —UP— Second Lt. Guy H. Bumpas, pilot of the unarmed trainer plane shot down by Red gunners last week, suffered a "bad fracture" of the skull in the crash, an Air Force spokesman said Wednesday.

The 23-year-old Air Force officer from Jackson, Miss., was released by the Communists Tuesday. At the same time, the Reds delivered a wooden casket holding the body of Army Capt. Charles W. Brown, West Louisville, Ky. Brown, a passenger in the propeller-driven T-6 trainer plane, was killed in the crash.

Bumpas was under treatment at the 121st evacuation hospital here for the injuries he sustained when his plane was shot down by Communist anti-aircraft gunners when it strayed over the demilitarized zone.

"His condition is fair and he is resting well," the Air Force spokesman said. He said Bumpas had a "bad fracture" and a gash that extended from the hairline to the right eye. The cut was stitched by the Reds after his capture.

"He might be a little incoherent," the spokesman replied when asked about Bumpas' mental condition.

BEFORE THEY ARE A YEAR OLD, many babies want to feed themselves. When your baby gets fired with the ambition to manage his own feeding affairs, by all means encourage him no matter how much quicker and less messy it is to feed him yourself.

THIS IS THE EXPERT advice given mothers by pediatricians and nutritionists associated with the Nutrition Service of the famous Beech-Nut Packing Company. They also warn mothers that the longer you put baby off, the less exciting self-feeding may seem. It pays from the start to encourage him to do things for himself.

A good first step is to give baby a spoon of his own to hold. A demitasse spoon is ideal — it is small, and its straight handle makes it easy for baby to grasp. Spoons with loop handles may be more decorative but they're harder for the baby to maneuver to his mouth.

Let baby hold the spoon in whichever hand he seems to prefer, Beech-Nut pediatricians say. He'll probably switch from one to the other at first. Mothers must remember it is important to let baby make the decision. Let souhpaws be southpaws.

It may take baby days or even weeks before he can proficiently manipulate his spoon. Be patient and give him every opportunity to develop this difficult feat. It's a complicated business for him and he may lose all interest if motner continues to go on feeding him rapidly anyhow. When baby finally manages to connect with a spoonful or so, it's a good idea for mother to withdraw frm the scene — or at least look away! His appetite will urge him to keep on trying. He'll gradually be more and more successful.

"Mothers might as well relax and learn to close their eyes to the mess baby makes," Beech-Nut experts say. "Remember your baby wants to learn to eat like grownups and he will, in time. The less fussing mother does about mess, the less time it's likely to take him to learn. It's perfectly natural for him to daub food around with his fingers or squeeze strained applesauce through his fingers. He's curious at this age about his food. While carrying on these antics, he may and most often does continue to eat happily. However, mothers must use some friendly discipline. If, for example, he tries to tip over his dish, mother should simply hold it down firmly or else move it away from his reach for awhile."

A big piece of plastic, oilcloth, or just newspapers, placed around the "danger zone" will eliminate some of mother's headaches if baby manages to spill or fire his food on the floor. A sponge kept handy for quick mop-ups also helps. As for baby, see that he has a comfortable, good-sized bib that covers him well, and then resolutely look the other way. From the looks of the baby's face and hair when he's learning to feed himself, many mothers are convinced that none of his food is hitting the target!

"Above all, though," say the Beech-Nut people, "mothers must take advantage of the golden opportunity when baby first shows signs of wanting to feed himself. Encourage him from the beginning and avoid self - feeding problems later."

Fresh Cultivated Blueberries Make Team With Meringues

Big juicy cultivated blueberries are around now. So let's get right down to the serious business of enjoying them.

Blueberries with
Simmered Meringues
(Serves 5 to 7)

Two pints fresh cultivated blueberries, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 cup granulated sugar, 2 egg whites, 4 tablespoons granulated sugar, few grains of salt.

Wash and drain blueberries. Bring to boil with lemon juice and nutmeg. Simmer five minutes. Stir in sugar, remove from heat. Chill thoroughly.

Within a few hours of serving time, beat egg whites to soft peaks. Add salt and sugar. Beat until stiff and glossy.

Fill a wide flat pan to within an inch of the top with water and heat until bubbles cover the bottom. Drop the egg white and sugar mixture by spoonfulls into the water dividing it as equally as possible into the desired number of portions. (Wet spoon before dipping into egg white.) Cook about four minutes to a side, making sure the temperature of the water does not increase. Lift meringues gently from water and drain on paper towels. Serve blueberry sauce in individual dishes and place a meringue in each or serve in large bowl of sauce garnished with meringues, whole berries and leaves.

Blueberry-Macaroon Parfait

How Iced Coffee Began

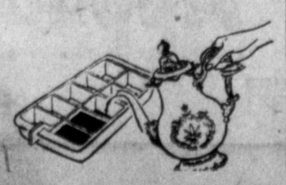

We can thank the French for iced coffee. More than 125 years ago, French colonial soldiers stationed at Mazagran, Algeria, found that drinking coffee syrup mixed with cold water made the desert heat more endurable. The soldiers carried the vogue back to Paris, where it is to this day called Cafe Mazagran, with the added fillip of ice in tall, frosty glasses.

Americans ice their coffee for summertime meals, socials, or coffee breaks. Perfectionists make it double strength to avoid dilution, and pour it hot over ice, while others brew their coffee as usual, and allow it to cool before serving.

Many hostesses make coffee regular strength, and use coffee ice cubes. Cream and sugar may be used with iced coffee as preferred.

MANNERS MAKE FRIENDS

When you are vacationing you may run into one or more persons serving the public who don't treat you with the courtesy you think they should display. Don't make the mistake of meeting their abruptness or rudeness with a matching manner.

Why should you spoil your own vacation by letting some other person's rudeness get under your skin?

Search Begins For Father

SOUTH SAN GABRIEL, Calif. —UP— A 29-year-old father, who allegedly threatened to blow up both himself and his infant son when they disappeared last January, was sought again Wednesday after reportedly vanishing with the same boy and an older son.

Sheriff's deputies sent out an all-points bulletin for Harold Lewis after his ex-wife, Olga M. Lewis, reported her husband took their two sons, Gary Wayne, 2, and James, 10, to visit Disneyland in nearby Anaheim Tuesday and failed to return.

Last January Lewis disappeared with little Gary. At the time, Mrs. Lewis said she allowed her husband to take the child because he threatened to blow up both himself and the boy with a vial of nitroglycerine.

Shortly afterward, however, while a nationwide search was underway for him and the boy, Lewis surrendered to police in Chicago. Little Gary was unharmed.

When Lewis was returned here by authorities, Mrs. Lewis refused to prosecute him on kidnaping and child stealing charges.

Mrs. Lewis said she allowed her husband to take the two boys Tuesday because he has visitation rights

FBI Holds Auto Thief

LAS CRUCES, N.M. —UP— The man who stole a 70-year-old Chicago chemist's car was in FBI custody here Thursday, while police across the south and southwest checked on the possibility that the frail old man has been slain.

The chemist, Lewis A. Finn, has not been seen since late July, when he left a brother's home in Florida to drive to Yuma, Ariz. Finn has not reported his automobile missing or stolen.

Leonard LaFond, 20, of Milwaukee, Wis., was being held by the FBI here. The FBI said LaFond admitted that he drove Finn's car from somewhere in Kentucky to El Paso, sold it for $800, bought a cheaper car, and sold the second vehicle for $75.

LaFond was arrested by the New Mexico state pplice at Truth or Consequences when he tried to cash the $75 check through a merchant.

The FBI said that in Finn's car, sold to a used car dealer in El Paso, and in the second car they found the elederly Chicagoan's photographic equipment, camping gear, billfold, $150 cash, $200 in travelers' checks and fishing equipment. But there was no bed roll. LaFond had a pawn ticket in his pocket, showing that he had hocked an expensive movie camera at Little Rock for $30.

LaFond claimed he found Finn's car, abandoned, on a Kentucky highway and never saw the owner.

Finn was described as only five feet, three inches tall and weighing 112 pounds. The FBI said there was a strong likelihood that his body lies somewhere between Florida and Arizona, shrouded in his bed roll.

Pampa News Sports Editor

PRIOR TO THIS SEASON, the West Texas-New Mexico League had three players to hit four homeruns in a single game.

And already this season the league has matched this total. In other words, the WT-NM has accomplished a feat in this season alone that took 15 years to accomplish.

This season, Paul Mohr of Amarillo, the "Rookie of the Year in the WT-NM;" the Oilers' Sonny Tims; and Manager Jodie Beeler of Plainview, have added their names to the "four-homers in one game" list.

Turning in this feat previously were Len Attyd of Albuquerque (now of Amarillo) and Joe Fortin of Pampa, in the 1948 season; and D. C. Miller of Lamesa in 1949.

When Beeler whacked four round-trippers last Sunday, it set a new league record of most "four homer games" in one season at three.

We don't have the information available on what parks the "four homer games" were hit in previous to this season.

But Tims' feat this year was a little more difficult to achieve than it was for Mohr and Beeler. The latter two collected their roundtrippers in Gold Sox Park in Amarillo where homeruns come "dime a dozen" because of short fences.

Tims' four homers, however, were hit at Lubbock where the fences are much further back. The left and right field fences at Lubbock are 345 feet as compared to 324 at Amarillo, a difference of 21 feet. The centerfield fence at Lubbock is 380 to 360 at Amarillo, a 20-foot difference.

We're not trying to take anything away from Messrs. Mohr and Beeler. Four homers in one game is a remarkable feet, indeed, regardless of the size of the park.

But you can see that Tims had to pack much more wallop in his homers than did Beeler and Mohr.

Tims, incidentally, set a new league record in his four-homer performance. The Oiler outfielder preceded his four circuit clouts with a single that gave him 17 total bases, one over the record.

The previous record was 16, which, of course, was shared by the fellows hitting four homers.

SEVERAL HAVE ASKED us if Putt Powell has ever accepted our challenge on predicting the District 1-AAAA and Southwest Conference football races this fall.

As far as I know, the Putter is still holding out.

That still seems funny to me, a guy who "pokes fun" at another guy's predictions and then refuses to come out with any predictions of his own.

I sure was looking forward to that free steak dinner.

Dodger Starters Requiring Relief

BROOKLYN — UP — It's an amazing thing on a team leading the league by 12 1-2 games, but Russ Meyer is the only Brooklyn Dodgers starting pitcher to win a game in the month of August.

Meyer finally ended the 18-game string in which starters failed to win when he got credit for the Dodgers' 9-5 win over the Chicago Cubs. At that he needed help, with relief by Clem Labine in the eighth inning.

Maxwell One Of Odessa Favorites

ODESSA, Tex. —UP— The first round of play in the $7,500 Odessa Pro-Amateur golf tournament got underway Thursday with E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of St. Louis and hometowner Billy Maxwell leading the favored teams in a record-breaking field.

Maxwell will team with Bill Roden, another Odessan, in the 72-hole best ball play which winds up Sunday. Maxwell and Roden have turned in scores of 66 and 64 in practice rounds over the 6,661-yard, par 35-37—72 Odessa Country Club layout.

Harrison's partner is Doug Sanders, a Georgia amateur who recently won the All-America and "world" titles at Chicago.

A total of 88 pro-amateur teams are entered in the meet, topping the 1950 record of 82. The tourney will have 18-holes a day through Sunday with the field being cut to the low 40 teams and ties after Friday's second round. The winning pro will receive $1,500, the runner-up $1,000.

Other top-rated twosomes are Andy Anderson and Chris Gers of Oklahoma City, Doug Higgins of Fort Worth and Wendy Green of Midland, Ernie Vossler of Fort Worth and Bob Goetz of Arlington, Dick Turner of San Angelo and Arlyn Scott of Odessa, Harty Todd and Don Schumacher of Dallas, Jackson Bradley and John Garrett of Houston, and Labron Harris and Ab Justice of Stillwater, Okla.

In pre-tournament play Wednesday the Carl Gustafson-Dudley Krueger Austin duo teamed with country club members Earl Kyzer and Spec Gammon for a best-ball 59 to win a $400 pot.

Oilers Clip EP, 7-1; Gain On Leaders

East Shades West In All-Star Tilt

By RUSS DALEY

MEMPHIS, Tenn. —UP— The one-two punch of Bobby Jackson and Bobby Craven and a last minute goal line stand gave the East a 20 to-14 win Wednesday night and kept its record clean in the All-American High School football game.

Jackson, a Mobile, Ala., quarterback who can pass and run like a seasoned performer, scored one touchdown and passed for another in the win for the speedy East team.

Craven, Owensboro, Ky., halfback, who runs like a deer, caught a scoring pass from Jackson and broke away for long gains all night to turn in a top performance.

The 190-pound Craven was unanimously named the game's top performer in a poll of sports writers covering the game.

Three fumbles in the last few minutes kept the crowd of about 17,000 in an uproar.

Halfback Don Stone of Fayetteville, Ark., recovered an East fumble on the East 45 as the game neared the end.

Vince Matthews, West quarterback from Houston, Tex., who turned in a top passing game, tossed to end G. F. Alsabrook of Galveston, Tex., but Alsabrook fumbled on the East six and the East recovered.

The East turned right around and fumbled itself and the West recovered. But time ran out as Matthews passed to end Ross Coyle of Marlow, Okla., on the five.

The West jumped to an early lead as it marched 65 yards after the opening kickoff for a score. Matthews tossed 20 yards to Alsabrook for the touchdown.

The East fought back and scored twice in the second period on a one-yard plunge and a pass.

Both teams scored in the third period with Jackson going over from the 15 after a long drive for the East and Matthews tossing three yards to fullback Dewey Bohling of Albuquerque, N. M. for the score.

End Murray Armstrong of Somerville, Tenn., and tackle Vince Lococo of Louisville, Ky., were defensive standouts for the East. The West line showed some good defensive play also with guard Dix Compton of Yukon, Okla., and ends Frank Geremia, Sacramento, Calif., and Don Usry, Cleburne, Tex., turning in some fine tackles.

Junior Oilers To Play Local Negro Nine

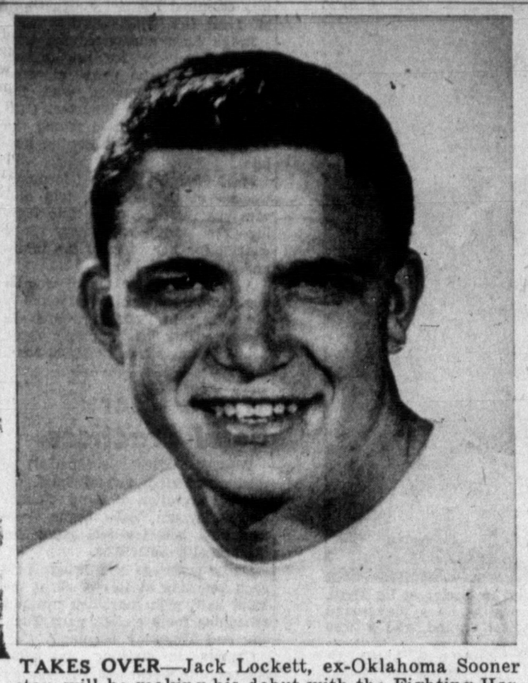

The Pampa Junior Oilers will play the Pampa Black Oilers next Wednesday night at Oiler Park, Junior Oiler manager Newt Secrest has announced.

The Junior Oilers had challenged the Black Oilers earlier and the local Negro nine accepted the challenge.

The Junior Oilers dropped a 3-2 decision to Woodward, Okla., last night at Woodward.

Secrest went the route for the Junior Oilers and was close to victory until the Woodward nine rallied in the ninth inning.

Woodward scored twice in the ninth to erase a 2-1 Junior Oiler lead. The Junior Oilers had snapped a 1-1 tie in the top of the ninth on a single by Ken Mumford.

TAKES OVER—Jack Lockett, ex-Oklahoma Sooner star, will be making his debut with the Fighting Harvesters tomorrow when the Green and Gold open their 1955 football workouts.

Harvesters Open Drills Tomorrow

The Fighting Harvesters will report bright and early tomorrow morning for their first workout of the 1955 season.

Jack Lockett, making his debut as the Harvester grid mentor, has set workout time tomorrow at 6:30 a.m.

Two workouts will be held tomorrow and for each succeeding day (except Sunday) until school starts. All morning workouts will be held at 6:30 with the afternoon sessions to begin at 4.

Lockett has been holding a session all this week with other members of the coaching staffs in making preparations for the coming season.

Lockett's aids are Dwaine Lyon, Marvin Bowman, Weldon Trice, Robert Fields, Deck Woldt, Marvin Phillips and Frank Craig.

Five lettermen are due to be among about 50 boys expected to answer the initial call tomorrow morning. The returning lettermen are tackle Ed Strickland; center Cecil Reynolds; quarterback Buddy Sharp; and halfbacks Gene Emerson and Dickie Mauldin.

Sharp and Strickland are two-year lettermen, the other three one-year numeral winners.

Lockett succeeds Aubra Nooncaster as the head mentor. Nooncaster resigned last winter due to health reasons.

The Harvesters, in a pre-season poll of sports writers around the district, have been picked to finish seventh in the eight - team District 1-AAAA.

The Green and Golders will open the season Sept. 16 against Austin of El Paso at El Paso.

Quarterfinals Set Today In Nat'l Doubles

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. —UP — Dark horse tennis tandems, who got their big break when rain drove all the big names out, scrambled today to stake out title to the 75th National Doubles crown as the ill-fated tourney sagged toward a climax.

Quarterfinal matches were scheduled for Thursday. There were only two seeded tandems left in the Longwood Cricket Club tourney, drained of top stars by rains that forced seven postponements, so nobody was counting out the upstarts.

Nobody, either, was counting out the two seeded entries remaining, Britishers Roger Becker and Robert Wilson and Japanese Kosei Komo and Atsushi Miyagi. The Japanese team, always a threat in any tournament, looked especially impressive in plays so far.

Al Harum, a 20-year-older from Coral Gables, Fla., and his 19-year-old partner, Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, served notice of their designs on the title Wednesday following their first tourney win. The lads, who drew a bye in the first round and one by default in the second, beat Seymour Hunter of Melrose, Mass. and Ralph Stuart of Osterville, Mass., 14-12, 6-3, 12-10.

The most serious dark horse threat, however, stemmed from another pair of American youngsters, Jerry Moss, 19, of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Bill Quillian, 21, of Seattle, Wash. They are already in the semifinals by virtue of a quarterfinal default.

Wehmeier To Try Again To Beat Cards

PHILADELPHIA —UP— Herman Wehmeier of the Phillies, a persistent sort of guy, is going to try it again Thursday night.

Righthander Wehmeier has been named to pitch one of the games of Thursday night's twi-night doubleheader against the St. Louis Cardinals. His lifetime record against the Cards is no wins and 13 defeats.

Dial Posts 19th Win With 4-Hitter

By BUCK FRANCIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

Red Dial got the Oilers back in the winning column last night with a fine four-hitter that beat the El Paso Texans, 7-1, before 1,385 paid fans at Oiler Park.

The game closed out activity between the Oilers and Texans for the season with the Oilers winning 11 of the 20 games played between the two teams this season.

The Oilers left last night after the game for Abilene where tonight they'll open a crucial series with the "red hot" Blue Sox. The Blue Hose have just completed a clean sweep of a series from the co-league leader, Amarillo.

Tom Pollet, 18-6, is Grover Seitz' piching choice tonight. Pollet will likely be opposed by tall Maurice Owen, who owns an 11-8 record.

By winning last night's game, the Oilers pulled to within 2½ games of the league lead. Albuquered and Amarillo are currently deadlocked for the loop lead.

Tonight's game will start a five-game set with Abilene. The locals play at Abilene tonight, tomorrow and Saturday and then the two teams come back to Pampa to complete the series Sunday and Monday.

Dial turned in a masterful performance to win last night's game, his 19th of the year against 14 defeats. The veteran red head allowed only four hits, all singles. He deprived himself of a shutout when he walked Jim Baldacci to lead off the fifth and then wild pitched him to second that allowed him to score on Tom Jungman's single.

Dial struck out five and walked two.

Art Perina absorbed the loss. Perina went the first seven innings before giving way to a pinch-hitter. Perina was touched for nine hits. His successor, Chuck Lerhmann, gave up two hits and one run in the only inning he worked.

The Oilers took a quick 2-0 lead in the first inning and were the master of the situation throughout. Rach Slider led off the Oiler first with a double, coming when second baseman Benny Dobbins and right fielder Tom Jungman collided in short right field.

Dobbins was shaken up on the play and was removed from the game. He was taken to the hospital via an ambulance for observations but was released and he left with the Texans for Clovis after the game.

Dub Graves, playing his last game for the Oilers, singled Slider home for the first run and Graves then tallied on a double off the right field fence by Joe Fortin.

Graves turned in a good performance in his farewell performance, getting three hits in four trips and driving in three runs. Graves reports today to his coaching job in Fort Worth.

The Oilers didn't score again until the fifth when Pete Carmona doubled and Graves singled, putting the Oilers ahead 3-1.

Curtis Hardaway's 38th homer of the season iced the game for the Oilers in the sixth, the blow coming with Paul Halter, who had singled, on base.

Last night's crowd was the 24th straight time the Oilers have drawn in excess of 1,000 at Oiler Park.

G-Sox, Dukes Remain Tied For Loop Lead

By UNITED PRESS

Amarillo and Albuquerque remained deadlocked for first place in the West Texas-New Mexico League for the third straight day after both teams lost Wednesday night games.

Abilene, the fourth place team, beat Amarillo 4 to 2 while Plainview disposed of Albuquerque 13 to 8. Pampa downed cellar-dwelling El Paso 7 to 1 and Lubbock edged Clovis 6 to 5 in 11 innings in the other two games.

The two top teams will fight it out between themselves for the lead tonight as Albuquerque and Amarillo square off in a new series. Other openers find Pampa at Abilene, El Paso at Clovis and Plainview at Lubbock.

Abilene moved into the fourth position as the Blue Sox took their second straight win over the leading Amarillo nine. Edd Kapp pitched a six-hitter for his 17th win against eight losses. Shortstop Scooter Hughes scored the winning run in the sixth inning on a passed ball.

Plainview got six doubles and home runs by Joe Dellamonica and I. B. Palmer in a 13-hit attack to down Albuquerque. Bob Swanson got credit for the win although he needed relief help. Manager Eddie Bockman and Pedro Santiago hit homers for Albuquerque.

Veteran Red Dial pitched a four-hitter to beat El Paso. He lost his shutout in the fourth when a walk and a single produced the Texans' lone tally. Curtis Hardaway blasted his 38th home run of the season for Pampa.

Red McQuillen singled home the winning run in the last of the 11th inning with a grounder to the Clovis shortstop. The see-saw game was tied four times, and featured three solo homers. Paul Flores hit a round tripper for Clovis while Pat Lorenzo and Nap Olitano homered for Lubbock.

Chisox Split; Turns Lead Back To New York Yankees

By UNITED PRESS

It may often seem that none of those Jekyl-Hyde contenders can win the American League flag but no less an authority than Leo Durocher thinks anyone of 'em can beat the Brooklyn Dodgers in the World Series.

"The way the Dodgers have been playing it won't make any difference who plays 'em in the series," Durocher stated. "You'd just have to pick the American League team to win. In fact, if the Dodgers hadn't just opened a home stand they'd probably blow sky high and lose the pennant."

The Dodgers won their second straight game at home Wednesday, beating the Chicago Cubs 9-5 and restoring their lead to 12 1-2 games but you still can't tell Dr. Jekyl from Mr. Hyde in the frantic AL struggle.

The New York Yankees, who only 24 hours earlier turned in one of their worst performances of the season, barged back into first place by a half-game when they beat the Detroit Tigers 3-2 on ninth-inning homers by Yogi Berra and Mickey Mantle.

Chisox, Orioles Split Two

The Chicago White Sox, "fresh" from a four-game sweep of the Tigers, meanwhile, split a doubleheader with the last-place Baltimore Orioles and managed only a disappointing 2-2 break in the four-game series. The White Sox played like world-beaters in the opener, rapping out 20 hits for a 14-1 conquest, then bowed 2-1 to Bill Wight in the nightcap.

And those Boston Red Sox, who looked so spectacular in walloping Cleveland Tuesday night, were limited to seven hits by Mike Garcia in a 2-0 loss to the Indians. The Kansas City Athletics shut out the Washington Senators 5-0 behind Arnold Portocarrero's three-hitter in the other AL game.

Wayne Terwilliger and Ray Katt homered behind Don Liddle's eight-hit pitching to give the New York Giants a 4-1 verdict over the St. Louis Cardinals and Dick Hall supplemented his eight-hitter with a homer in leading the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-0 win over the Cincinnati Redlegs. Milwaukee and Philadelphia were not scheduled.

Steve Gromek limited the Yankees to four hits in eight innings but didn't retire a batter in the ninth. Berra opened the frame with his 22nd homer of the year and Mantle followed with No. 33. The blows gave Bob Grim his fifth victory although Don Larsen finished up.

Look Good, Then Bad

Billy Pierce scored his 11th victory and lowered his ERA to 1.78 as four hits by Nelson Fox and three each by Chico Carrasquel and Jim Rivera paced the White Sox to their best offensive outburst since they clobbered the Athletics 29-6 on April 23. But the Sox scored only on a ninth-inning homer by Sherman Lollar and eight of them struck out against Wight's southpaw slants in the nightcap.

The day proved most costly to the White Sox because they lost their edge over the Yankees in the important "loss column." Both teams now have lost 48 games but the Yankees have won 76 to Chicago's 75. The Indians are third at 75-49, one game behind the Yankees in each column, while the Red Sox are 4 1-2 games out with a 71-52 mark.

Wednesday's Star

Mike Garcia of the Indians, who pitched a seven-hitter for a 2-0 win over the Red Sox.

Little League World Series To Semi-Finals

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. —UP— The Little League World Series moved into the semifinal round Thursday with Winchester, Mass., playing Morrisville, Pa., and Delaware Township, N.J., meeting Auburn, Ala.

Delaware Township advanced Wednesday with a 4-2 victory over Alexandria, La., while Auburn defeated San Diego, Calif., 4-1. Winchester and Morrisville had defeated Hamtramck, Mich., and Glens Falls, N.Y., respectively, in opening play Tuesday.

Home runs accounted for all five runs in the Auburn-San Diego game, which saw Paul Umbach strike out 15 batters and yield only two hits.

Auburn got off to a 1-0 lead on George Salter's homer in the first inning and added three more runs in the third when Ted Wilson hit for the circuit with his brother, Fleming, and Jim Neal on base.

TREE-TOP HIGH — Alfredo Mendoza was all of that and then some practicing jump at Cypress Gardens, Fla. He is a member of the Cypress Gardens team competing in the World Water Ski Tournament, ending Aug. 22 at Beirut, Lebanon.

World Tennis Rivals To Fight For Davis Cup At Historic Forest Hills Stadium

Photos—World Tennis

The Davis Cup surrounded by the Australian and American net stars who will compete for it. Upper left; Vic Seixas (United States), upper right, Lew Hoad (Australia), lower left, Ken Rosewall (Australia), lower right, Tony Trabert (United States).

FOREST HILLS, NEW YORK —Arch-rivals of world tennis, America and Australia, are expected to clash again for the eleventh consecutive time in the Challenge Round finals of Davis Cup competition at West Side Tennis Club here the weekend of August 26, 27 and 28.

The big guns of the Australian team are blond, block-busting Lew Hoad and his sharpshooting compatriot, Ken Rosewall, both veterans of Cup play at twenty years of age.

America will depend once again on its tested combination of Tony Trabert, the reigning Wimbledon champion, and U. S. National champion Victor Seixas, with an assist perhaps from Rhodes scholar Hamilton Richardson, promising young Cup aspirant.

Visitors from all parts of the United States and from Australia will flock to the Forest Hills Stadium for the dramatic climax of the Davis Cup competition. The U. S. Vice President, Richard Nixon, will present the Cup to the winning team. Other distinguished visitors include Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, who will make the draw on the eve of the matches, and the Australian Ambassador to the U. S., Sir Percy Spender. Tickets can still be obtained from the West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hills, L.I. New York, for the three day series.

The Davis Cup wrested by the United States from Australia last December after five years' residence "down under," was contested for this year by thirty-four nations in preliminary rounds played in all parts of the world.

One of the greatest international sporting trophies, the Davis Cup was first placed in competition in 1900. Since then it has been won by only four of the many countries which have fought for it — the United States seventeen times, Australia eleven, England nine and France six. However, since 1939 only the teams of Australia and America have been able to reach the final round of Davis Cup play.

Murff Wins 28th Game For Dallas

By UNITED PRESS

Red Murff won his 28th game of the season Wednesday night, beating Oklahoma City 7 to 1 and keeping the Dallas Eagles on top of the Texas League by half game.

The San Antonio Missions stayed right behind the Eagles by blasting the Houston Buffs 13 to 0. In other games Fort Worth beat Tulsa 3 to 1 and Shreveport coasted by Beaumont 10 to 5.

Murff, who now has won more games than any other Texas League hurler since D. H. Hill, won 31 in 1937, got 10-hit support from his Dallas mates, including a two-run home run by first baseman Bill White.

San Antonio broke loose with a 14-hit barrage on three Houston pitchers. Starter Bill Greason took the loss, ending his winning streak at six. Don Ferrarese set the Buffs down on four hits to win his sixth straight.

Danny Ozark slapped a bases-loaded single in the third inning off starter and loser Dolan Nichols that provided the winning margin for Fort Worth. Carroll Beringer limited the Oilers to five hits.

Pidge Browne knocked a two-run homer in the first inning to start Shreveport to its victory over Beaumont. Arnie Atkins won for the Sports on a seven-hitter.

The clubs play the second games of the series Thursday night with Oklahoma City at Dallas, Fort Worth at Tulsa, Shreveport at Beaumont and San Antonio at Houston.

Carlsbad Player Shot In Brawl

CARLSBAD, N. M. —UP— William Jones, part owner of a saloon-bar, pleaded innocent Tuesday to a charge of shooting Pedro Osorio, first baseman for the Carlsbad Potashers of the Longhorn League.

Osorio, a Panamanian, was shot in the shoulder in Jones' bar Monday night and will be out of action the rest of the season. He is recovering in a Carlsbad hospital.

Jones was arraigned yesterday before Justice of the Peace Harvey W. Fort on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. He was released on $2,000 bond and a hearing was set for Sept. 1.

Assistant District Attorney Charles Feezer said the fight started over allegations as to Osorio's race.

Youth Taking Over In Fem Nat'l Amateur

CHARLOTTE, N.C. —UP— The Women's National Amateur golf tournament entered the quarter-finals Thursday with an entirely new cast of performers and the pairings gave youth a big chance to win the title.

The only players left whose exact age would not be polite to mention were Polly Riley of Fort Worth, a Curtis Cup member since 1948, and Mrs. Jane Crum Covington of Orangeburg, S.C., who has been winning Carolina tournaments over considerable span of years.

The others were all youngsters or at least novices to advance so far: Mrs. Scott Probasco, 25, of Chattanooga; Anne Quast, 17, of Marysville, Wash.; Jane Nelson, Indianapolis youngster; Barbara McIntire, 22, of Toledo; Margaret (Wiffi) Smith of St. Clair, Mich., 19, and 21-year-old Pat Lesser of Seattle.

The feature match Thursday put Mrs. Probasco against Miss Quast.

For high suspense, Miss Lesser's 21-hole victory over Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore was tops in the fourth round.

Mrs. Probasco has played the best medal golf of the tournament. She shot a two-under par 35 for her first nine Tuesday at the Myers Park County Club and licked along at par 37 through her first nine against Miss Grace Lenczyck Wednesday.

Not one of the girls in the last eight had ever advanced so far in the national amateur. Miss Lesser reached the fifth round last year at Sewickley, Pa., in a much bigger field that required an extra 18 holes of elimination.

Sinton 9 In Tourney Debut

WICHITA, Kan. —UP— Five teams were in the third round of the National Baseball Congress tournament Thursday with unbeaten records, but they are scheduled to be joined by a sixth club Thursday night.

The Milwaukee Falks and the Council Grove, Kan., Indians meet in the featured second round game on Thursday night's three-game program. Both won their opening game.

The Sinton, Tex., Plymouth Oilers, who won the tourney in 1951, will make their 1955 debut against the Holt, Ala., Rockets and the Auburndale, Fla., Athletics meet the San Diego, Calif., Disabled American Veterans in the other tilts Thursday night.

The Middletown, Ind., Middies (1-1) and the Roanoke Rapids, N.C., Robins (1-1) played an afternoon elimination game.

The defending champion Wichita, Kan., Boeing Bombers and the 1946 champion St. Joseph, Mich., Auscos won their second starts in the tournament Wednesday night.

Wichita Boeing defeated the Columbia, Tenn., Monsanto Chemical Maulers, 2-0, behind the five-hit pitching of righthander Mike Werbach.

Boeing got only six hits off Columbia pitcher Buster Rhames but scored a run in the second inning on a wild pitch, and another run in the sixth on two singles and a pair of stolen bases.

St. Joseph staged five-run rallies in the first and seventh innings to defeat the Great Falls, Mont., Air Force Base 10-0.

In other games the Albuquerque, N.M., Rio Grandes defeated the McGill, Nev., Copper Sox 9-5 and the Columbus, Ohio, Beulah Park Jockey Club won 9-1 over the Dennis, Mass., Hoboes.

Moore Gives Up Flying

NORTH ADAMS, Mass. —UP— Archie Moore finally has decided to give up his flying lessons, at least until after his heavyweight title bout with champion Rocky Marciano, Sept. 20. The promoters of the fight have been urging the 38-year-old Moore to postpone flying until the conclusion of the bout but it took a near accident Tuesday to convince the challenger he ought to stop flying for a while.

Canada's Richest Golf Tourney Opens

MONTREAL —UP— Canada's richest golf tournament, the $26,800 Labatt Open, got underway Thursday as 131 of the best pros and amateurs north and south of the border teed off in the first round of the 72-hole event.

The third annual Labatt Open, back at its original site of two years ago, the Summerlea Golf and Country Club in suburban Lachine, Que., was promised "perfect weather for the rest of the week." The 74 American and 57 Canadian players faced a "long" 6,515-yard, par-70 layout, beset by traps and streams.

PGA and All - American champion Doug Ford cut his professional teeth on the Labatt's — wining the first with a 15-under-par 265 and placing second last year at Toronto's Scarboro course.

"It plays longer than the last time I was here," the Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., pro said. "It's hard to figure what's going to happen in the next four days. Somebody might go wild and just tear the place apart, but I don't think so."

The curly-haired Ford, who the pros refer to as "daddy" because his family tours with him, shot practice rounds of 64 and 70 during the past two days.

Arnold Palmer, who bolted into the limelight last week when he won the Canadian Open at Toronto, liked the course "real well," but was unhappy about breaking in a new putter after someone walked off with his favorite.

Last year's U.S. amateur champion from Latrobe, Pa., wielded a hot putter to win the Dominion Open with a near record 23-under-par 265.

"But I don't think it will take quite that low to win this one," said Palmer, whose first major tournament win was last week's Open. "I'd settle for a 268 or 269 right now," the 25-year-old freshman pro said.

Bud Holscher, Apple Valley, Calif., pro was the defending champion but he appeared to be lost in the shuffle of top-drawer golfers shooting for the $5,000 first money.

Only Dr. Cary Middlecoff, the golfing dentist from Memphis, Tenn., and Jack Fleck, U.S. Open champion from Davenport, Iowa, were missing from the big field.

Drake Easily Outpoints Giovanelli

NEW YORK —UP— Middleweight Ray Drake, an easy winner in his first national TV fight, will have welterweight contender Chico Vejar as his next TV opponent on Oct. 14, at Syracuse, N.Y., if the match can be made.

Handsome Drake of Far Rockaway, N.Y., won a lopsided 10-round decision over middleweight Danny Giovanelli of Brooklyn Wednesday night in his first main event at Madison Square Garden. He was favored at 12-5.

Drake was dissatisfied with his showing, and so were some of the 2,000 customers. "I should have stopped him," said brawny Ray. "But I was rusty — hadn't fought since May. And I had to tie him up too much.

Matchmaker Billy Brown of the International Boxing Club named Vejar of Stamford, Conn., as Drake's next porbable opponent.

He added, "Everybody wants to fight Vejar because he's an attraction. Chico meets Tony DeMarco at Syracuse, Sept. 14, and St. Nicholas arena claims to have Chico for Pedro Helis on Oct. 17, but I know that match isn't closed."

Drake, weighing 156 3-4 to Giovanelli's 153 3-4, was too smart and strong for Brooklyn Danny.

Giovanelli's left eye was swollen shut at the finish, and he bled from his lower lip and from a scratch on his forehead. Drake suffered a nick under his left eye.

The ring officials favored Drake on rounds as follows: Referee Miller 5-4-1, Judge Frank Forbes 8-2 and Judge Joe Agnelli 7-3. The United Press had it 8-2.

It was the 21st and most important victory in 25 professional fights for 25-year-old Drake. And it was 23-year-old Giovanelli's fifth defeat in 32 scraps.

Miller warned Drake three times for hitting while holding, and he warned him once for hitting while spinning his man. Some of the fans booed Drake occasionally for repeatedly tying-up his opponent.

Angelo Hikes Lead In Longhorn Loop

San Angelo picked up a half game on second place Artesia Wednesday night to stretch its Longhorn League lead to three and a half games.

The Colts routed Roswell 15 to 3 while the Numexers were splitting a twin bill with Odessa, Artesia losing the opener 9 to 6 but coming back in the nightcap 6 to 5.

Big Spring's third baseman, Luis Caballero, took a turn on the mound to help bolster the pitching staff and edged Carlsbad's Don Fornall, 1 to 0, in a tight pitching duel. Hobbs eased by Midland 9 to 8 with the help of a last inning rally in the other game.

The current series continues tonight with Odessa at Artesia, Carlsbad at Big Spring, San Angelo at Roswell and Midland at Hobbs.

San Angelo's Herman Charles led off the first inning with a home run and before the inning was over the Colts had scored five runs and cinched the ball game. Also homering for San Angelo were Ben Lott, Elias Osoris, who had two round trippers, and Jeff Williams. Gil Guerra got credit for his 17th win of the season against nine losses, while Dean Franks took the loss.

Odessa's Mike Gazella stopped Artesia on an even dozen hits in the first game, but the Numexers rallied to take the second contest when Dan Howard singled in the fifth frame and later scored on a sacrifice fly. Tony York hit the only home run of the evening, driving one out of the park with a mate aboard for Odessa in the opener.

The only run of the Big Spring-Carlsbad game came in the third inning when Garland Turano, a pitcher playing outfield for the Cosden Cops, blasted a home run. Caballero blanked the Potashers on four hits to get credit for the victory in his first start.

Midland scored seven big runs in the fifth inning of its game with Hobbs, but the Sports staged a ninth inning rally that scored the tieing and winning runs with one out when Alex Crespo hit his second homer of the game.

Dallas Catcher Ray Murray Named TL 'Player Of Year'

DALLAS —UP— Ray Murray, whose timely hitting in the clutch helped keep the Dallas Eagles atop the Texas League much of the season, Tuesday was named the circuit's "player of the year" — the first catcher ever to be accorded that honor.

The husky, former big leaguer polled 20 of the 29 votes cast by the Texas League Baseball Writers Association and will be presented with a scroll and a $100 check by the league.

Murray, who is out for the season with a compound thumb fracture, was hitting .329 in 106 games and had driven in 80 runs with 119 hits when he was sidelined Aug. 5. He also was leading the circuit in home runs at the time with 25, but has since lost that distinction.

The 35-year-old North Carolina native had little competition for the honor, won last year by San Antonio's Frank Kellert. Outfielders Dick Williams of Fort Worth and Eddie Knoblauch of Dallas received four and three votes, respectively.

His selection gave the Eagles a complete battery for the league's honor roll since pitcher John (Red) Murff was announced Monday as the circuit's "pitcher of the year."

Murray came to the Eagles last spring from a five-year major league career that ended at Baltimore. He previously had been in the league as a member of the Oklahoma City Indians for four seasons and his last year there, 1949, saw him hit .319 and 16 home runs.

His handling of the Dallas pitchers as well as his hitting was held mainly responsible for the Dallas club's season - long success.

Since Aug. 5, the Eagles have lost 11 of 18 games, several of them of the one-run variety that Murray had been salvaging with his hits.

Yankees To Tour Japan This Fall

NEW YORK —UP— Manager Casey Stengel and the New York Yankees formally agreed Tuesday to tour Japan and the Orient this fall for a series of exhibition games against native professional teams and U.S. servicemen.

The trip will originate from New York Oct. 8, regardless of whether or not the Yankees participate in the World Series.

Members of the party will assemble at San Francisco from where they will be flown to Hawaii for 10 days, during which five games will be played. The party will then proceed to Tokyo for 16 games in approximately 27 days. Following exhibitions in Okinawa and Manila, the tour will conclude about Nov. 18.

The Yankees said the trip has been endorsed by both the U.S. State Department and the Japanese government as "an outstanding contribution to international understanding and good will."

Davis Cup Drawing To Be Held Today

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. —UP— Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will conduct the official draw Thursday for the long-awaited Davis Cup challenge round between the United States and Australia, and American hopes were that Tony Trabert's name would be picked first.

Dulles will dip his hand into the huge silver cup, emblem of world tennis supremacy which will go to the winner of the tension-packed best-of-five series opening at the west side tennis club here Friday.

The secretary will draw out four names, thus producing the lineup for the two singles matches on Friday's program. A doubles match on Saturday, and two more singles contests on Sunday will conclude the historic series, 12th in a row between the two nations.

Probably Trabert, Seixas

Billy Talbert, non-playing captain of the U.S. team, was expected to name Trabert of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Vic Seixas of Philadelphia as America's singles players. Harry Hopman, non-playing captain of the younger Aussie squad, was expected to counter with Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall. These four are the same players who met last year, when the United States remained the cup by winning the series 3-2.

Ham Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., and Gil Shea of Los Angeles are the other members of the U.S. team, but Talbert was expected to pass them by.

Richardson had a chance to be picked, until the last few days when Seixas — 32-year-old U.S. champion — started to play tennis much better than he has shown all year.

Something to Be Desired

"Seixas' game still leaves something to be desired," said Talbert. "But what is important to me is his attitude and hustle. Desire always increases his ability."

Hopman had nothing to say about his hopes for the draw, but Talbert admitted he hoped Trabert was drawn first.

"The only thing I hope is that Trabert can play the first match," explained Talbert. "Tony is happier when he has a regular routine and can eat his lunch on schedule. If he were to play the second match, there's no telling when he would get on the court and if he had lunch at an odd hour, it might burn off his energy just waiting around."

LUMBERMAN—Ernie Banks hones his pet club and swings all the bats he can get in his hands prior to swatting the long ball. The six-foot-one, 180-pound Chicago Cub was a cinch to break the major league record for home runs by a shortstop. His fourth grand slam homer this season tied a big league mark.

In Footsteps Of Rome

It is 165 years since Edward Gibbon, English historian published the fifth volume of his celebrated work "The History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire." Gibbon listed several reasons why the Roman Empire, the greatest civilization of its era and up to that time in history, came to an ignominious and catastrophic end. It might be well for America, without doubt the greatest civilization of this era or any other, to ponder over those reasons.

1. The rapid increase in divorce which undermined the sanctity and dignity of the home which is the basis of human society.

Let's take a look at the divorce statistics of the U. S. A. — they are certainly cause for alarm. In 1890, there was a divorce for every seventeen marriages; in 1900, one marriage in every fourteen ended in divorce; by 1910, one marriage in every eleven went on the rocks; in 1920, one in every eight; in 1930, one in every six; and in 1952, the last year for which complete statistics are available, one marriage in every four foundered on the divorce shoals.

As Gibbon so truly stated, the home is the basis of human society. With one marriage out of every four now culminating in divorce, in many cases causing broken homes, the basis of our American society is being dangerously undermined. With so many disrupted homes, it is small wonder that juvenile delinquency is running rampant. On the divorce issue America follows the dangerous course pursued by Rome prior to its fall.

2. Higher and higher taxes — the spending of money for free bread circuses

It is hardly necessary to state that in this category, the United States is emulating the tax situation that existed in Rome's halcyon days before the bubble burst. Our federal, state and local governments have been on a spending binge that inevitably must end in a severe financial headache

The Great White Father at Washington for the past 25 years has made the Roman Emperors look like pikers when it comes to free handouts. Paternalism, Roman style, is the order of the day along the banks of the Potomac. Initiative, self-reliance and thrift are rapidly being replaced by sloth, dependence on government, and waste. On the tax and wasteful spending issues, we are outdoing the worst efforts of the Roman.

3. The mad craze for pleasure; sports becoming every year more exciting and more brutal.

On this issue it can be said we follow the sad example of Rome only in part. As a nation we are fanatically pursuing pleasure. The shorter work week has given most of us an opportunity to indulge ourselves in that respect. However, we are not engaging in more brutal sports — the reverse is actually the case.

4. The building of gigantic armaments when the real enemy is within — the decadence of the people.

Well, America is building gigantic armaments to protect us from enemies abroad, the while we permit the enemies within — the Commies, the Fellow Travelers, the Socialists and the so-called liberals to undermine the "American Way" which has been the chief source of our national strength and well-being. Here again we follow closely the pattern set by Rome.

THE NATION'S PRESS

KING COTTON GROWS FATTER
(Chicago Tribune)

The August cotton crop report which became available last week was a sad one for the country. For two years Agricultural Secretary Benson has tried to reduce the huge stock of surplus cotton accumulated under the price support plan. The storage charges on the mountain of cotton, nearly all owned by the government, is a burden upon the taxpayer as is the interest on the money borrowed to pay off the cotton growers. The existence of a full year's crop in storage when a new crop is ready to move is a physical block to orderly marketing and storage at harvest time and undermines prices on future crops. A bountiful harvest is no blessing when it fails to bring down the price to the consumer. What it adds to the income of the producer is taken from the taxpayer.

Mr. Benson has asked for authority to sell some of the surplus abroad at prices below the market. It now seems that he will win Mr. Eisenhower's permission to try that out. The state department has been against this because of the harmful effect it would have upon our relations with other cotton growing countries. Moreover, spokesmen for New England cotton mills point out that cutting cotton prices to foreign clothmakers would enable them to undersell our manufacturers both here and in competitive markets abroad.

So the Agricultural department, in whittling down our oversupply of cotton while maintaining price supports, is almost entirely limited to getting farmers to produce [illegible] than this country consumes and our established customers will buy. The statutory means [illegible] bring about smaller production [illegible] acreage reduction.

[illegible] cotton plantings in this country totaled 35.3 million acres. Forecasting a carryover of 9 million bales of old cotton on Aug. 1, 1954, when last year's crop was ready for market, Sec. Benson ordered the farmers to cut their 1954 plantings down to 21.4 million acres. They not only complied but took out of production 2.1 million acres more. But on six million fewer acres of cotton land farmers raised nearly two million bales more than a year's requirements.

Anticipating an increased carryover last fall, Sec. Benson ordered a further cut in cotton plantings in 1955, this time to 18.1 million acres. Cotton state representatives tried to get Congress to raise this but Mr. Benson argued the lawmakers out of it. Again the farmers did what was asked of them and more. They cut plantings to 17 million acres. That was a third less than was planted with cotton in 1953, and the smallest acreage since the government began compiling such information 46 years ago.

But on this greatly reduced land area, the crop report now reveals, cotton production will once more top the year's requirements and result in an even bigger surplus a year hence than exists now unless Mr. Benson is able to dump some of the surplus cotton in markets now served by other producers. By the use of the better lands and more and more fertilizer the average cotton yield per acre has been raised to 367 pounds from the record breaking figure of 341 pounds in 1954. In the 1920s and 1930s a yield of 200 pounds was considered big.

The same thing is happening with wheat and corn. It is overproduction on less land confined to these crops nor to just 1954 and 1955. In fact, year after year, in crop after crop, with high price supports, government acreage restrictions have failed to bring about such a reduction in harvests as to adjust the supply to demand. The lesson should be learned by now. Only when prices are set by supply and demand are burdensome surpluses avoided.

BETTER JOBS

How Foolish Can We Be?

In reading an article in the First National City Bank Monthly Letter on how much price supports for agriculture have cost us, one wonders how foolish the American people can be. One also wonders how the believers in tax-supported Machiavellian education can believe that they are being very successful in teaching people to use a little common sense.

This bulletin remarks:

"Although President Eisenhower has reported that $1.2 billion of surplus farm products were sold for foreign currencies, bartered, or distributed for relief in the fiscal year ended June 30 last, the Commodity Credit Corporation investment in farm commodities during the past year has continued to pile up. CCC losses for the first eleven months of the fiscal year just ended totaled $644 million, a new record high

Loss On Butter

"While total CCC stocks have continued to increase, there have been some exceptions. Butter stocks, which at 461 million pounds a year ago constituted one of the biggest headaches of the price support program, have been cut to 179 million pounds, a reduction of over one-half in a year's time. Stocks of cheese and nonfat dry milk solids have also undergone sharp reductions. But of the $285 million worth of butter sold in the past year, 'give aways' and sales at cut prices caused a CCC loss of around $255 million or 90 per cent of its investment in this commodity."

Just think of it! Having laws passed that caused a loss in one year on one commodity alone, butter, of over a quarter of a billion dollars! If our schools were really educating the youth that become adults to use a little common sense,, we would let the price the consumer is willing to pay determine what should be produced rather than having the politicians set arbitrary prices in order to bribe the voters to keep them in power.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson stated that although net losses in connection with liquidation of the surplus of cotton seed oil amounted to about $70 million during the last year, that "taking the loss and moving the stocks was far better than the only alternative. This was to hold the surplus, pay heavy storage charges, run the risk of deterioration and spoilage, and let the CCC-held supplies overhang and depress the fats and oils market.

"Nevertheless, these experiences stress the problem of producing commodities in excess of market demand and being forced to take huge losses at taxpayers expense."

Livestock Production To Increase

Then the bulletin goes on to say:

"Cheaper and more plentiful supplies of feed grains are likely, in the absence of other alternatives, to encourage increased production of livestock and livestock products. The 1955 spring pig crop was 9 per cent above a year earlier, and June breeding intentions indicated that fall farrowings would be 11 per cent about 1954 and the largest since '43. In addition, cattle on feed and poultry and egg production are at record levels, while milk output, despite some reduction in cow numbers, is at a near-record.

"Because of record livestock production, total output of all farm products in 1955 may exceed the previous high set in '53. Continued heavy cattle marketings, along with the larger spring pig crop going to market this fall, suggest lower prices for cattle and hogs, unless market gluts can be avoided through effective sales programs for beef, pork, and other meats. However, larger marketings will in themselves partly offset the lower prices.

"Cash receipts from from marketings in the first half of '55 came to $12.2 billion, 4 per cent below the same period last year. Based on the present outlook, this year's total probably will be around $28 billion, against nearly $30 billion in '54. Assuming little change in overall farm costs, the farmers' realized net income this year might approximate $11 billion, against $12 billion last year. Since farm population continues to decline, any drop in per capita farm income will be less pronounced.

"While small, inefficient farms and inability to keep pace with modern technology have kept some farmers at or close to the margin, it appears that many, despite the drop in product prices, are operating profitably. Some farmers, particularly those in the part-time group, have income from outside work and investments. Average per capita net income of the total farm population in 1954 was $918, up from $914 in '53 and not far from the 1951 record of $970. For bona fide commercial farmers, of course, the average income would be much higher."

Spanish Ambassador Will Boost Vodka and Relations

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Don Jose Maria de Areliza, the personable and hospitable Spanish Ambassador to the United States, has two strangely contrasting diplomatic concerns on his new assignment — namely, the increasing popularity of vodka as an American drink and the improved relations between Washington and Moscow.

Besides representing the fiercely anti-Communist Generalissimo Franco, Spanish dictator, Ambassador Areilza must do part-time duty as a salesman of Spanish sherry. It is a matter of regret to him that, partially as a result of Moscow's more moderate foreign policy, sales of sherry are falling in direct proportion to an increase in American consumption of Khrushchev's favorite beverage.

The Ambassador does not expect President Eisenhower to serve imported wines at White House functions, inasmuch as that might throw California into the Democratic column next year. It would be a social, economic and political insult to Vice-President Nixon and Chief Justice Warren.

But he does pray — and so state — that our new sweetness-and-light attitude toward the Soviet will not be crowned by serving a "screwdriver cocktail" (vodka, vermouth and orange juice) at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

He has other and more serious problems. Altough the United States has taken Spain under its military wing as a "cold war" asset, the current relations between the two countries could stand improvement. They had deteriorated almost to the breaking point during the Roosevelt and Truman-Acheson regime.

World War II really began in Spain, when Franco's forces sought to overthrow the Loyalist (radical) Government. The Russians supported the Loyalists, while Germany and Italy backed Franco. Communists and Fascists — Stalin, Hitler and Mussolini — used the civil conflict to try out new weapons in a bloody rehearsal for the inevitable and greater struggle.

When Franco won out, Washington feared that he would side with the enemy. Had he done so, he might have closed the Mediterranean to the Allies and prevented Eisenhower's invasion of North Africa. He played it safe, remaining indifferently neutral.

However, Spain is still an international orphan under American guardianship. She has not been admitted to the United Nations or NATO. For a while, in condemnation of Franco's policies, the Western nations withdrew their diplomatic missions from Madrid. British Laborites, French leftists and American Liberals still have no use for the dictator.

Eisenhower reversed our critical and hostile policy for realistic, military reasons. The two nations are Allies today, and we are building vital air and naval bases on the Iberian Peninsula. We are also advancing technical and economic aid to rebuild industrial and transportation facilities.

But relations have once again become difficult, although outwardly friendly. France and England still resent our tie-up with Spain, fearing that we might withdraw behind the Pyrenees if the Russians conquered Western Europe.

We have skimped on our promised pledges to Franco. Spain has received only $159,000,000 as against billions advanced to Germany and Japan. Even Marshal Tito, who again flirts with the Communists, has had far more economic and military reinforcement than Spain.

Madrid's immediate concern is that easing of Russo-American tensions may mean abandonment of our alliance with Spain. In that event, Spanish liberals would probably renew their attack on Franco, precipitating turmoil in this key area.

Ambassador Areilza's special qualifications influenced his selection for this critical period. He is one of the few practical businessmen among members of the foreign diplomatic colony. He was Spain's former Director General of Commerce and Mayor of Bilbao.

He will need all these assets because of his double, diplomatic duties. It is no easy task to warn against Russians bearing gifts, as do so many foreign diplomats here, and to achieve a more profitable market for Spanish sherry.

The Doctor Says
By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

"Adhesions" often receive the blame for all kinds of pains and other symptoms for which no other cause can be found. In doing this people usually have only a vague idea of what adhesions are and what they can do.

Adhesions are made up of tissue much like that of an ordinary scar on the skin. Under the microscope adhesions appear as slightly elastic fibers. This is called fibrous tissue and the body tends to respond to many infections or injuries by forming it. This response is not related to the particular nature of the damage but is merely one of nature's attempts to heal injury.

AS AN EXAMPLE of adhesion formation, if a patient has acute appendicitis and the appendix has ruptured, spilling the infection into the surrounding tissue, adhesions will often form. The same is true of many other internal infections.

The adhesions, thus formed, may or may not produce complications later on.

The fibrous tissue has a tendency to contract; this if adhesions have formed around a loop of the intestines, they may draw tighter and tighter, thus preventing the free flow of intestinal contents. This, in turn, can produce symptoms and may require an operation to cut these bands of fibrous tissue and free the partly strangled intestine.

WHAT TO DO for adhesions depends on where the adhesions are located, what normal structures of the body they surround, and what this contraction is doing to the organs involved.

Mrs. B. asks whether adhesions can be cured without operation. The answer to this is no, but they need not always be operated on unless they are producing symptoms.

European People Are Enjoying Prosperity

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

GENEVA—I have been observing the peoples of much of Europe and their scale of living since the spring of 1916 and I have never before seen such prosperity and luxury as they are enjoying now. On this journey, I have not yet called on England, but, of all the people of Europe, I know the English best and today I find them in a typical English muddle. Their Daily Mail is viewing with alarm the almost total employment of employable Britons and, in fairly plain effect, is pining for the "queues" which consumed billions of man-hours during the dearth of merchandise and for the resumption of the dole for the unemployed. There are now only 185, unemployed, "the lowest peacetime rate on record."

Here, in Geneva, mine host, Gustav Luzy, who operates the Hotel A Residence, a pension in which I pioneered my own little patch of accommodation during the summit conference and defended it against glamorous, hastening waves of tourists, clapped his hands to his temples and howled: "Too much prosperity! Why do they all come at once? Last night we turned away 123. Some of them slept in the omnibuses, some in the parks. It is alarming!"

The London Daily Mail blames inefficiency of persons, methods and machinery in part for the menace of full employment, intlation and portended reaction and distress. It takes two clerks, pronounced clarks, to sell a kipper and this clumsiness is one of the reasons there are so few Britons on the dole. "Overful employment" has led to inflation and rising costs and prices and, as the Mail observes, with small comfort, that condition afflicts other lands, although not necessarily for the same reasons.

"When there are more jobs than men," the Mail cries, "the men can demand better terms. They can get more money for the same work or the same money for less work which is what the miners are demanding. That cannot go on but there is a better way than condemning thousands of men and women to idleness."

At this point, I fall off the sled and I warn you to hold tight because the Mail's logic goes into a slew. It says the correct idea is to raise output through more efficient use of the labor force. However, that would increase the supply of consumer goods on which the people are squandering millions of devalued pounds and increase the commerce in imports which is draining sterling into other countries. The pound used to be worth $4.87 in good American money and now is worth less than three of our 50-cent or 40-cent inflated dollars.

Last time I saw England, Nancy Astor had made a typical shrewish observation that the curse of Britaim was not booze but tea. British workers were swilling their lives away at tea and a crew of two painters sent to slop calsomine on the walls of a wretched flat required a bat-man, ostensibly to mix buckets of gruesome colors but actually to brew their tea. The aggregate was a great loss of production or efficiency, which amount to the same thing, and a rise in the prices of things these addicts had to buy. Nancy is still smarter than most of them but has slowed down since her husband died. She knows the English worker as a sulky, surly, political character easily appeased with spurious benefits and third-rate luxuries.

During the bank holiday weekend so many Britons stampeded to their crowded, tacky seaside resorts, that the drainage from small war savings accounts was estimated at 28,500,000 pounds. The Bank of England sent out an extra 16 million pounds in notes, bringing the total in circulation to 1,181 million pounds. Thousands of "holiday-makers" slept on the beaches and whoever has seen the average English seaside bed-and-breakfast house will agree that they were little worse off for that.

All summer, however, the roads of the Continent have been burdened with buses and little cars carrying Britons, Frenchmen, Belgians, Scandinavians and even some Germans hither and yon. One night, two big buses hove to at La Residence full of Belgians who, from the cut of their jibs, were miners or factory hands. They packed in the plue plate or "regular" dinner and, at dawn, were off, making room for American replacements. Young Frenchmen and girls, in shorts, slog along the shores of Geneva with packs hitched on their shoulders, hiking into the Alps. The Frenchmen, whose franc is now just a memory, took their summer vacances, nevertheless, most of them in their own country, however. The Parisian and other urbanites have our own longing for the realm of grass and flowers and in one-week-end more than a million left Paris, alone, the second such exodus of the season. For two weeks, as the Herald Tribune said, Paris had a "provincial look with shuttered windows and store fronts and traffic relaxed along the streets."

Food is abundant and rich and if this is not prosperity but only one terribly deceptive counterfeit, it is just as pleasant to people whose recent ancestors scrimped and saved and wound up in exile or mass graves or dispossessed by usurpers or inflation.

Mac Says Tanker Is Best Way To Travel

By HENRY McLEMORE

The next time anyone asks me which is the best way to travel I am going to surprise him and say "tanker."

I won't be joking, either. I am writing this column on the S. S. Syosset, a General Petroleum tanker, not too many hours after clearing Los Angeles for San Francisco and Seattle.

So far, this is the best ocean ride I have ever had, that includes trips on everything from transatlantic liners to LST's. The Syosset is kicking along at better than sixteen knots, and if I closed my eyes I could easily believe I was at home, lolling on the living room sofa — that is, if there were sea gulls wheeling and screeching around the fireplace.

Unfortunately, it isn't possible to walk into a travel agency and buy a ticket on a tanker. You have to know someone, and that's one of the pleasant things about being a newspaperman — you make such nice interesting friends. On the Mobilgas Economy Run last spring I met Al Knipping, Herm Alber, and Bob Minckler, president of General Petroleum; so here Mary and I are, the only two passengers aboard.

It is nice to be the only passengers aboard. It lends an elegance to which I am entirely unaccustomed. Don't worry about us roughing it. There isn't any roughing it on the Syosset. Our quarters are so spacious and comfortable and we're being treated so graciously; I'm beginning to feel as if it were were my yacht, and wishing we were going to Hong Kong or some other far-away place.

I can't help wishing, though, that I had brought my car along. Boy, what a chance to really fill 'er up for once! Below us, in the tanks, are 5,428,000 gallons of Mobilgas. That would fill my tank and leave me 5,427,980 gallons to keep in a can in the trunk in case I ever ran out of gas on a lonely road.

And wouldn't my grandmother envy me! We also have 12,000 gallons of kerosene aboard. That would fill all her lamps and the lamps of all her friends from Kentucky to Georgia.

It is this tremendous load in her tanks that gives the Syosset her superb riding qualities. She's really nestled snug in the water like a hen in a nest and it takes a man-sized sea to rough her about. She gives most waves a shoulder block and drives on through, with none of this coy business of bouncing about or skipping and swooping from crest to through. The Syosset is a lady who knows her business and goes about it.

But with all her steadiness, you know you are at sea on her. She is one with the ocean. Right now, with those millions of gallons of fuel aboard, she has but three feet of freeboard, which means that just a yard below her main deck is Mr. Pacific himself, and that she takes plenty of green water.

Mary and I don't stroll the deck. A catwalk that runs almost the full lengh of the ship — and the Syosset is well over five hundred fee long — is our thoroughfare from our cabins to the officers' mess. You aren't out of touch with the ocean on the catwalk, either, it being no more than 12 feet or so above the water. When we walk it we don't lack for salt air and misty spray — you really know you're on a ship. There's none of the skyscraper height of the big liners. The ocean is right there, and even from the bridge the waves seem almost within reaching distance.

Tonight we drop the hook under the San Francisco's Bay Bridge, tie up in the morning, spend 18 hours unloading and taking on a fresh cargo, and then start north again.

Not a bad town for a lay-over, San Francisco. I've always wanted to visit the art museum there.

THEY'RE HUMAN, TOO—Out of character but not out of step is M. Aebereswald, an atomic scientist from Italy. Prof Builds Boat In House, And Gets It Out Safely, Too!

By HARMON W. NICHOLS

WASHINGTON —UP— Fred M. Pownall is the only man I know silly enough to build a boat in his basement, and smart enough to get it out without tearing the house down.

"I did it on purpose," the 68-year-old professor says. "It wasn't a very big boat."

My friend of over a quarter of a century has just retired as director of university publications and publisher of student publications at the University of Iowa.

The building of boats and book shelves and the like are just a sideline with the bouncing, lovable old-timer. He is 68.

Dorothy, his attractive wife, is a newspaperwoman. She, in her day, has done everything from chase fires to answer letters to the troubled in love. Currently she edits the woman's page for the Iowa City Press - Citizen, in the home city of the university.

Fred Pownall's roots are in Iowa. He was born in Centerdale. He always liked to fancy himself as a reporter, which indeed he was, and still is.

"I'll never be happy behind a desk," he once told Mrs. Pownall.

But happy or not, he spent 35 years behind one. It must be said, though, that he didn't sit on a chair for very long at any one time. I never saw such a bouncer in all my life. He would be in one spot one second and 10 blocks away a moment or so later.

Looking back, the professor thinks that his biggest thrill as a working newsman came in 1917. That was a year after he had joined the Des Moines Register.

"In 1912, eight people had been murdered in Villisca. By 1917, the state thought it had enough evidence to convict a traveling preacher. I was sent to cover the Villisca axe murder for the Register."

Fred and I always got along fine. Maybe it was because he didn't have much of a chance to boss me. I did take one course under him, I recall, and he was kind enough to let me slide through.

That endeared me to him.

Fred and Dorothy always were popular as chaperons at fraternity and sorority parties. Even if we had to talk the Pownalls into cancelling some other invitation.

We like the Pownalls for a few reasons. One was they were affable and mixed well in any company. Next, they were good conversationalists. And they weren't snoopers.

I don't think either took a drop of anything stronger than the cherry punch in the bowl during the days of prohibition. Dorothy was always busy being nice. Fred's thick eye - glasses couldn't see around a corner at a freshman taking an illegal nip. People like that didn't grow on trees, as the fella said.

Anyhow, I hope the Pownalls will be happy in their little cottage on upper Eau Claire lake in Wisconsin. And if Fred decides to build a bigger boat I hope he'll build it outside. Their cottage is rather small.

Strike Hits Tractor Firm

MILWAUKEE —UP— CIO United Auto Workers went on strike at Pittsburgh, Pa., against the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. and walked off the job here Wednesday, stopping production at both plants.

The walkout at Pittsburgh involved 2,100 production workers. The work stoppage was staged here so workers could attend a membership meeting to get a progress report on negotiations from union leaders.

A strike had been scheduled for 2 p.m. local time at four Allis - Chalmers Co. plants. Company and union negotiators held last-minute negotiations Wednesday morning to try to avert the strike.

The company urged the UAW to remain on the job while a mediator attempted to solve contract differences. The union here called the membership meeting without commenting on the suggestion.

Nearly 300 forest fires occurred daily in the United States last year.
