How's that? Dumpsters

Q. Is the city somehow disinfecting all these new dumpsters we're seeing? Some of them are really yucky.

A. According to Public Works Director Tom Decell, one of the city's new garbage trucks has a prototype of a disinfecting machine on it.

"Each time a dumpster is picked up and dumped, (the prototype) shoots disinfectant and deodorizer into the dumpster," he said.

Decell said the device hasn't been in use long enough to be evaluated, but if it's effective, his department will install it on the city's other garbage trucks.

4 die in rig blast

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Four workers were killed and three others were critically burned Friday when an explosion and fire tore through an offshore drilling rig in deep Gulf of Mexico waters about 120 miles southwest of New Orleans, the rig's owner said.

The three burned workers were airlifted to West Jefferson General Hospital and most of the other 65 people aboard were taken by crewboats in the area to another nearby Zapata Offshore Inc. rig, said Barney White, a spokesman for Zapata Offshore in Houston.

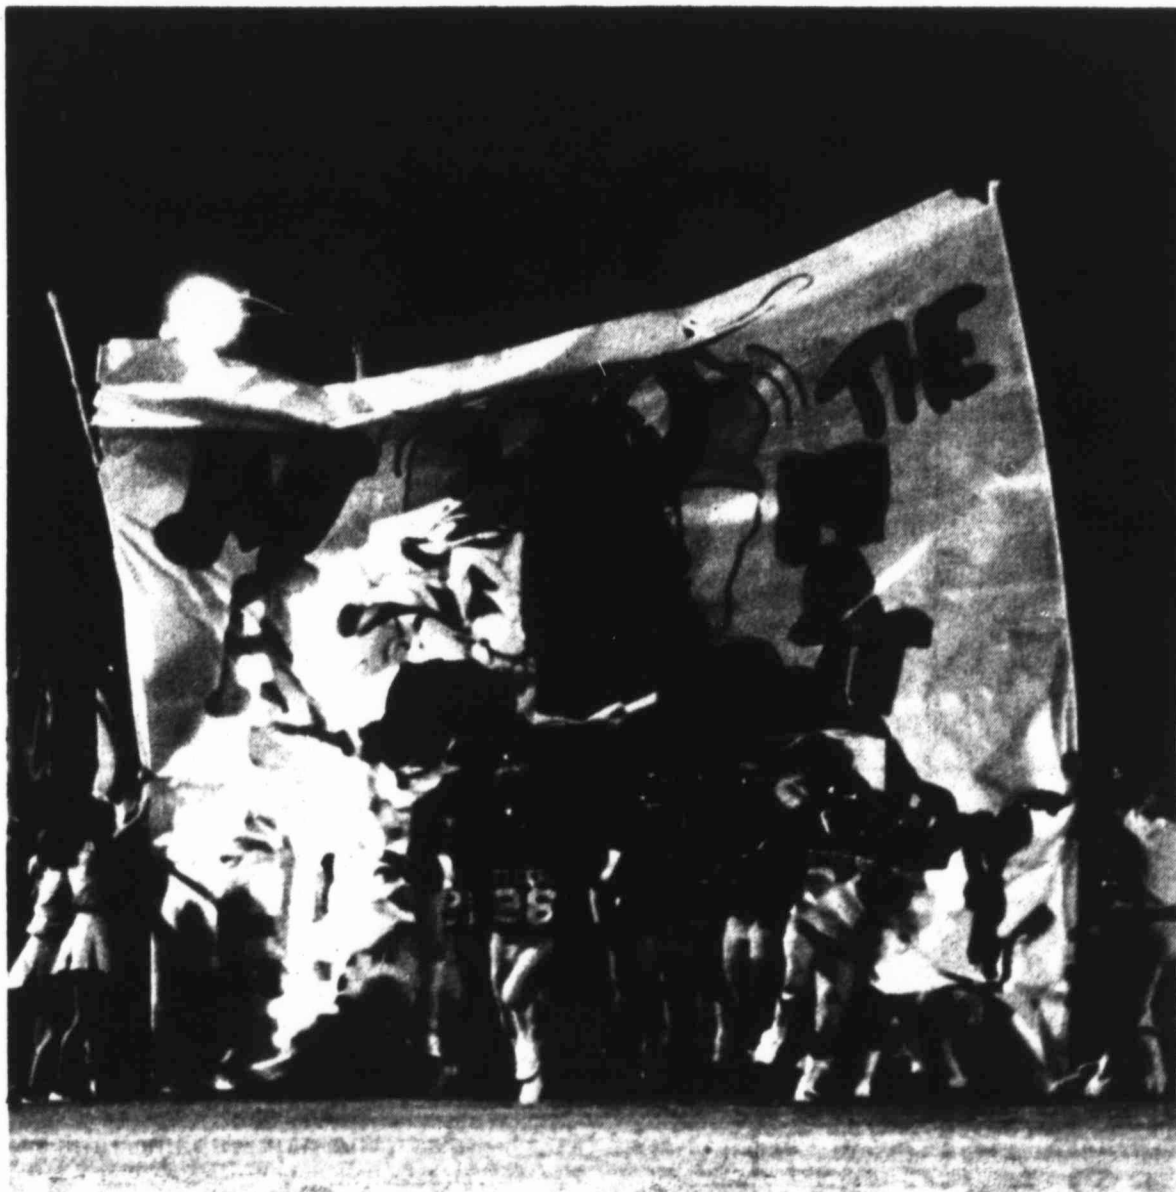

"Of the 68 people on the rig, 42 were Zapata crew, 24 were various service personnel and two were Conoco representatives," White said. "Everyone is accounted for."

He explained that, though Conoco leased the tract in which the drilling was being done, the rig and its crew belonged to Zapata Offshore.

White identified three of the dead as Dalton D. Walker, the senior tool pusher from Columbia, La.; Johnnie W. Calton the driller from Monroe, La., and Gilbert J. Jones, an assistant driller from Lake Charles, La. Their ages were not immediately known.

White said the identities of the fourth dead worker and of the three burned men would be released after relatives are notified.

Attack leaves 6 dead

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — The British government Friday protested to Iraq over an attack that killed six men, including three Britons, aboard a West German-owned supply vessel working in Iran's Persian Gulf oil fields.

The 350-ton Seetrans 21 was attacked as it emerged from Iran's offshore Nowruz oilfield 60 miles northeast of Kharg Island, Iran's primary oil shipping terminal in the gulf, authorities said.

The British Foreign Office said the Seetrans 21 was attacked late Wednesday by Iraqi warplanes which probably hit it with an Exocet missile, but gulf shipping sources in Bahrain said the ship was attacked Thursday by Iraqi gunboats.

One of those sources, Heinz Arnold, a spokesman for the Bahrain-based company overseeing the ship's operations, identified the victims as two West German seamen, one Filipino sailor and three British divers. He said five other men on board escaped.

In London, the British government summoned Iraq's ambassador Friday morning to register its concern over the incident and summoned him back Friday evening to register a strong

Administrator angered by criticism

MARK WHITE

At least one area administrator has taken issue with Gov. Mark White, who Thursday criticized coaches and administrators critical of educational reforms triggered by recent legislation.

Jerry Doyle, superintendent of the Coahoma Independent School District, said "when we fuss, White accuses us of being anti-education. That's hardly the case. We make our living in education. The (educational) reform has some good ideas, but it also has some things that need to be refined."

White said Thursday that high school coaches who criticize school reforms that prohibit athletes from playing if they are failing any course should spend more time worrying about students' classroom performance.

"I'm frankly tired of seeing some coaches come out and say, 'Why don't you let our kids flunk one course?' Some of them are more concerned about winning ball games than about teaching kids," White said.

The governor, who pushed a $2.8 billion school reform bill and tax hike through a special legislative session this summer, said any coach who puts games ahead of studies is standing squarely in the road to progress.

White said some coaches and even school superintendents have complained about the difficulties of implementing the reforms. At his weekly news conference, the governor left no doubt that he lacks patience with such critics.

"Any person who drags his feet on trying to improve the academic achievements of our young people is going to be pushed aside because the people of this state recognize that high school football isn't the end of the world," White said.

White rapped administrators who claim the tax increase to fund the reforms still didn't give them enough money to undertake the changes and raise teachers' pay.

"We've had some naysayers. We've had some people (to whom) any change would come as a shock. The changes of seasons come as a shock to some people."

"I'm not going to put up with game playing by administrators in any of our school districts," he said.

Doyle said many administrators

Trash collection

City routes to change Oct. 1

By RICK BROWN
Staff Writer

Starting Oct. 1 the city sanitation department is changing its route system and many Big Spring residents will have to put their trash out for collection on different days than they are used to.

The guidelines affect only the 2,000 city residents and businesses that have been assigned "roll-out" containers.

Over the next two weeks, these customers will find notices on their containers advising them — in English and Spanish — of their collection days.

The remainder of the city's approximate 9,200 trash collection customers can use the 4, 3 and 1½-cubic yard "dumpsters" that have now been placed all over the city.

According to Public Works Director Tom Decell, each of the collection truck drivers have been given "detailed maps" of their new routes.

"With this transition, there's going to be some isolated containers that will not get service — (we have) new drivers and new routes. The driver just might miss one or two (containers) or even an entire street," he said.

"If people will just call us, we will respond," he said. The number to contact the Public Works Department is 263-8314.

According to Decell, the city has been divided into six districts to help collection.

Because there are some variations from the general guidelines, people should check the following table to make sure of their collection days.

District 1, Monday and Thursday service: all businesses and residences north of Missouri Pacific Railroad to the city limits.

District 1, Tuesday and Friday service: The area of the city west of San Antonio, north of Fourth and South of the railroad. Also included are the Airport, Avion, Mt. View and Indianola additions.

District 2, Monday and Thursday service: The area west of Gregg, south of Fourth and the railroad, east of FM 700 and north of 15th.

District 2, Tuesday and Thursday service: The area west of Gregg, south of 15th and west and north of FM 700.

District 3, Monday and Thursday service: The area including the Big Spring Airport and the Capehart and Western Hills additions.

Weather

Rain brings relief

By the Associated Press

Thundershowers, triggered by a cold front, brought relief to the Panhandle and other parts of Texas Friday. Afternoon temperatures were in the 80s and 90s over most of the state, except for parts of Northwest Texas where the thermometer peaked near 70. In the mountains of far West Texas the high temperatures were mostly in the 80s and along the coast the temperatures were mostly in the upper 80s, the National Weather Service said.

Widely scattered thundershowers occurred over East Texas as well as the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

The forecast for Saturday called for a chance of showers in North Texas with the high temperature to hover in the upper-70 to mid-80 range.

In West Texas, a chance of thundershowers will extend from Saturday through Sunday with highs ranging from mid 60s to mid 70s and near 90 in Big Bend, the weather service said. Lows were expected to range from the 50s to near 70 in Big Bend.

South Texas can expect partly cloudy skies and a chance of showers in the north and extreme southern sections of the region, the weather service said. Highs should be in the low 80s to near 90 with lows in the mid 60s to upper 70s.

While tropical storm Diana continued to buffet eastern North Carolina with 50-mph winds Friday, thunderstorms dumped heavy rain in the Midwest, and Minnesota got a taste of winter with dusting of snow in Duluth.

Diana's sustained winds had decreased to 50 mph, primarily offshore, the National Weather Service said. Gale warnings were posted from Cape Lookout northward to Chincoteague, Va. At 5 p.m. CDT Friday, the storm was about 30 miles northeast of Hatteras, moving toward the northeast.

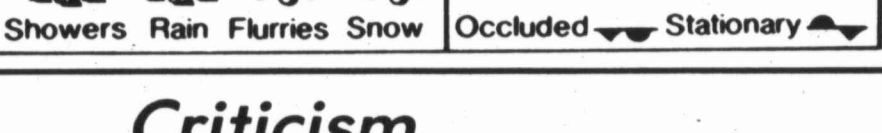

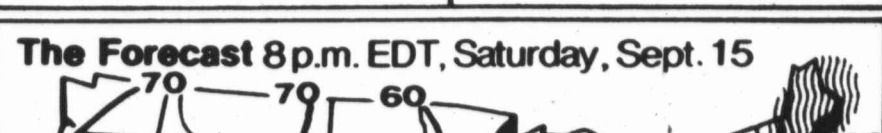

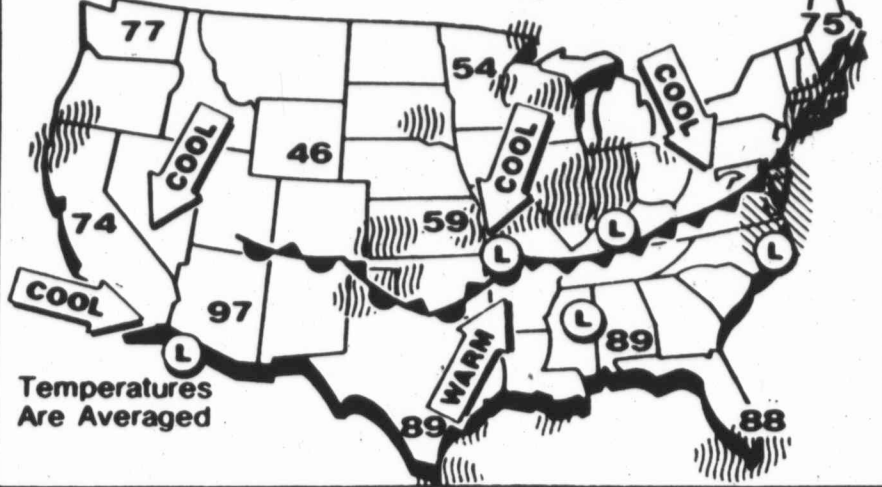

A flood watch remained over the northern coast of North Carolina through the afternoon. Three-quarters of an inch of rain fell during the six hours ending at noon at Oceana, Va., and about half an inch at Cape Hatteras, N.C.

Flood warnings were posted in northwest Missouri, where 2.40 inches fell before noon in Kearney.

Showers and thunderstorms extended from the Texas Panhandle across Oklahoma and Kansas, the northern two-thirds of the Mississippi Valley, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and into Ohio.

WEST TEXAS—Mostly cloudy with scattered showers and thundershowers through Sunday. Lows in the low 50s in the Panhandle to the lower 60s in the Concho Valley and to near 70 in the Big Bend Valleys. Highs in the mid 60s to mid 70s, except near 90 in the Big Bend.

are upset with White and "it upsets us that he seems unwilling to listen to how we would make the education bill better."

Doyle added, "As an attorney, Mr. White needs to re-read the U.S. constitution. It guarantees us the privilege of disagreeing."

In answer to White's quote about "game playing," Doyle said, "(White) has no opportunity to vote on my contract."

Doyle said many administrators agree that reforms were needed but are not in agreement about the way the reforms are being carried out.

"White rapped administrators who claimed the tax increase to fund the reform still didn't give enough money" to put reforms into action, Doyle said.

"We have found that the reform has been expensive, and those expenses will increase. It disappoints me that (White) is not willing to leave the ivory tower of the Capitol and sit down with board members and look at their financial plight," Doyle said White "is acting like a spoiled brat" who gets angry if people "don't want to play the game he wants to play."

The school reform legislation, which is taking effect this year and next, includes several provisions regarding extra-curricular activities.

The new law will prohibit participation by any student who is failing a course. It also boosts the passing mark from 60 to 70.

The governor also said he is narrowing the list of candidates for the 15 seats on the new, appointed state Board of Education. Abolition of the elected board was part of the reform law.

White, who received three names in each of the 15 districts from a panel of legislators, said he has made choices in about half the districts and hopes to make all selections within a week.

"I will do it just as quickly as possible," he said. "I'm tired of this kind of badmouthing we've gotten from some of the people over at the current (elected) board about the changes. I want a positive note put on this."

protest. The Britons were employees of Wharton Williams, an Aberdeen, Scotland, diving firm hired by Iran to make underwater repairs to a Nowruz platform damaged by another Iraqi attack last year.

The Seetrans 21, owned by the Seetrans Co. of Hamburg and managed by the Bahrain-based Allied Construction Co., was on loan to the National Iranian Oil Company when attacked, said Arnold, a representative of Allied Construction.

Arnold, who said he had been in radio contact with the ship, said another vessel, Seetrans 7, was operating in the area at the time.

He said that the Seetrans 21 burst in flames as a result of the Iraqi attack, and that two life rafts were lowered as those aboard ship scrambled to escape the blaze.

"The German captain, Heinz Zoellner of Hamburg, was picked up by an Iranian helicopter," Arnold told The Associated Press in a telephone interview. "But he fell down into the flames. The helicopter picked him up again, but he was already dead."

Reactions are mixed

NEW YORK — New York Gov. Mario Cuomo won no friends among U.S. Catholic bishops by rejecting a ban on abortion as unworkable, and a Catholic home for unwed mothers rejected Cuomo's gift of his speaker's honorarium from the University of Notre Dame.

But at least one Catholic priest supported the Democratic governor's position, which also won praise from some Jews and Protestants.

While saying that he accepted the view of Catholic bishops that abortion is the killing of human life, Cuomo said Thursday that outlawing abortions simply would not work. "What we're arguing about here is not what to get done but how to get it done," he said.

Cuomo said the way to stop abortions in the United States is "not by trying to make laws for others to live by, but by living the laws already written for us by God." He called for people on the both sides of the issue to support programs which would encourage and enable women to carry pregnancies to term.

Image still intact

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — The Miss America Pageant has emerged from the most scandal-ridden of its 63 years with its wholesome image for the most part intact, many of this year's contestants said.

However, a few of the beauties and former master of ceremonies Bert Parks said the publication of nude photographs of a reigning Miss America caused at least temporary damage.

"I think it's so sad that that image, for the moment, has been sullied and soiled," Parks said in an interview Friday in New Orleans.

Vanessa Williams, 21, of Millwood, N.Y., the first black Miss America, on July 23 became the first woman to give up the crown after Penthouse magazine published photographs of her in intimate poses with another woman.

Miss Montana, Michele Marie Larson, 21, of Billings, said she believes the incident harmed the public's perception of the contest, but quickly added she believes it hurt Miss Williams "more than it did the pageant."

Quarantine effective

TAMPA, Fla. — With the orange harvest one month away, state officials said Friday they hoped a federal ban on fresh fruit shipments caused by a citrus disease could be lifted within a few days.

Sen. Paula Hawkins, meanwhile, appealed for an embargo on citrus imports from Mexico, where the citrus disease apparently originated.

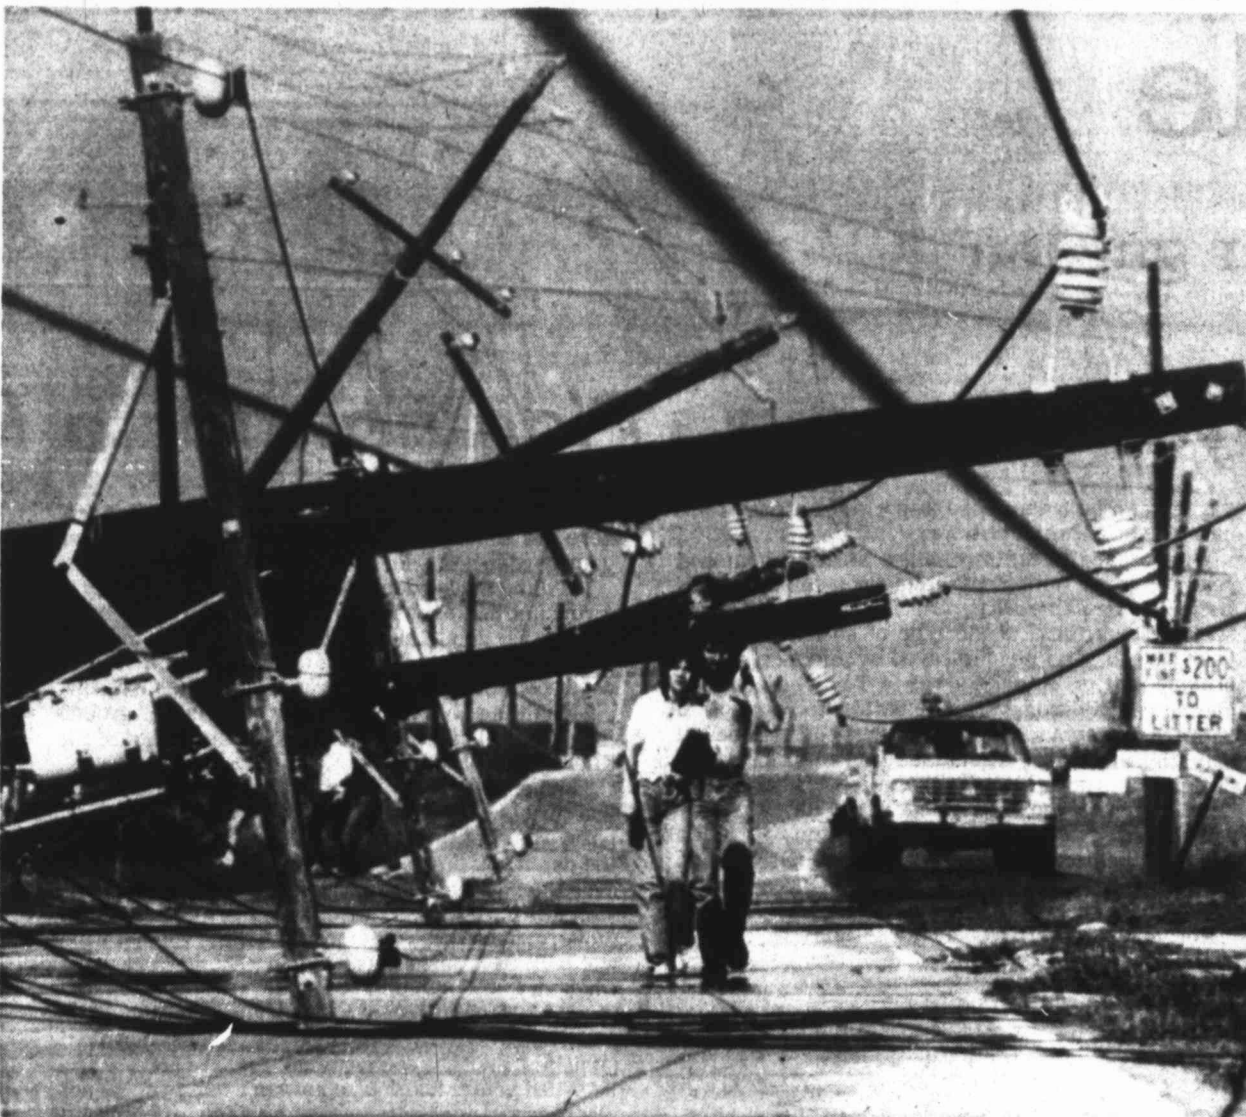

Operation is success

SALT LAKE CITY — After nearly 25 hours of complex surgery, physicians separated 6-month-old Siamese twin girls joined at the tops of their heads, a hospital spokesman said.

Plastic surgeons from a team of 11 doctors at University of Utah Medical Center continued the operation Friday afternoon, placing skin flaps over the girls' exposed brains, which now have no protective skull covering at the top, spokesman John Dwan said.

Doctors planned to close the skulls later with bone fragments taken from them in previous operations.

"There was some shared brain tissue," said Dwan, and thus the doctors did not yet know what effect the surgery would have on the twins.

GOING HOME — Residents of Long Beach, N.C., head for home under downed utility poles Friday after Hurricane Diana passed through, causing heavy damage.

Diana's damage runs in millions

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Remnants of Diana edged back toward sea Friday, and residents of North Carolina's storm-battered southeast coast left shelters to inspect the damage as the sun broke through the clouds for the first time in days.

"Until we can get into the communities and see what damage has been done, we won't know what the people need," said Russ Edmonston, a state spokesman, a day after the season's first hurricane spent its fury on land and was downgraded to a tropical storm.

Except for a damage estimate given Thursday that amounted to more than $25 million, officials said they couldn't begin to guess the extent of destruction.

"It'll be devastating," said David Clegg, county attorney for Brunswick County, the hardest hit area.

"It's going to be in the millions for sure," he said. "The rural areas were hit as bad as the barrier islands. We've got flooding, wind damage, trees down, power lines down, lots of tobacco barns down, lots of agricultural damage."

Teams of state, federal and local damage assessment experts began examining damage in New Hanover and Brunswick counties and the city of Wilmington.

"I got a lot of damage," said Kenneth Hollar, who owns a small two-story, two-building motel at Carolina Beach. He added jokingly: "It put my insurance agent in the hospital. He's over there in the mental ward."

Hollar said he weathered the storm at the motel and heard the roof of one building blow across the other. The side of the motel facing the beach was stripped of all wood trim.

"I'm not a person to get afraid and I'm not a highly religious man, but when this thing happened, I was a little scared," Hollar said.

Nearby, Cliff Smith Jr. was having a hard time cleaning up his small oceanfront store without electricity. He said he believed Diana "was a bigger, stronger storm and it lasted much longer" than Hurricane Hazel 30 years ago, but that Hazel caused more damage in the business district because high water burst through the seawall.

Between 4,000 and 5,000 people spent Thursday night in shelters in six counties, the Red Cross said, down from a peak of 13,000.

Diana began rapidly losing strength Thursday after raging ashore early in the morning with peak winds of 110 mph, and by Friday its sustained winds were down to 50 mph, primarily off shore. Gale warnings were posted from Cape Lookout northward to Chincoteague, Va.

At 5 p.m. CDT Friday, Diana's center was estimated near latitude 35.6 north, longitude 75.1 west, or about 30 miles northeast of Hatteras. It was moving east-northeast at about 10 mph, and was expected to turn more toward the northeast.

In Miami, forecaster Bob Case of the National Hurricane Center said the possibility that Diana could pick up strength as it moves back over the ocean are "probably pretty good."

Aftershock rocks Japan

TOKYO — A strong aftershock rocked central Japan Saturday, following a severe earthquake that sent huge landslides tearing through a mountain village and blocking roads.

One man was known dead and at least 28 people were missing and feared buried by mud or rocks from Friday's quake.

It registered 6.9 on the Richter scale, the Central Meteorological Agency said. The quake struck hardest in Otaki, a village of 2,300 people at the foot of a mountain 120 miles northwest of Tokyo.

An aftershock measuring 6.4 on the Richter scale hit Saturday morning, about 22 hours later, the agency said. Its epicenter also was in Nagano prefecture about 10 miles from Otaki. Police said there were no immediate reports of damage or casualties from that tremor.

The only confirmed death — a 65-year-old man — was in Otaki, and eight other people were reported injured in the landslides triggered by the first quake. All of those reported missing after that tremor were in or near Otaki.

In Tokyo, the quake set buildings swaying for 30 seconds. Some high-speed "bullet train" service west of Tokyo was temporarily halted so tracks could be checked for damage, a customary procedure in earthquake-prone Japan.

Graham in Moscow

MOSCOW — Evangelist Billy Graham returned to Moscow from the Estonian capital of Tallinn on Friday, saying he believes his 12-day tour of the Soviet Union is important because "one of the greatest contacts we can make is in religion."

Interviewed by The Associated Press on the plane from Tallinn, Graham said that trade, political and cultural exchanges between the United States and the Soviet Union are always good.

On political contacts, he said, "I hope this can be renewed after the (U.S. presidential) election and after things here (in the Soviet Union) are more certain."

He did not elaborate, but added that links between churchmen are also important.

"I think one of the greatest contacts we can make is in religion, because the Soviet people are very religious," he said.

President sworn in

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Pieter Willem Botha became South Africa's new president Friday while six opposition leaders hid in a British consulate and police fired rubber bullets and tear gas at black rioters.

Botha, prime minister since 1978, took the oath of office as state president in Cape Town under a new constitution that took effect on Sept. 3, the day of the worst black rioting in South Africa in eight years.

How to get through a rainy day just beautifully.

R for your garden

by Don Richardson
County Extension Agent

County agent says, 'Plan now for a fall garden'

There's absolutely nothing more distasteful about fall vegetable gardening than soil preparation. That's because the ground worked up, fertilized and ready to plant must take place in the heat of the summer.

And, unless you're different from most Texas gardeners, you really don't look forward to spading or tilling up your garden soil when the temperatures are near 100 degrees.

But if you're going to be successful with growing a fall garden, that's exactly what you've got to do. If there's one overriding cause for failure in fall gardening it's simply because the necessary activities of soil preparation, fertilizing and planting often occur too late. Make a vow this year to get your garden soil prepared and ready to plant at the right time. You'll be amazed at how productive a fall garden can be when these important activities are carried out at the right time.

With regard to the mechanics of getting your soil ready to plant, soil preparation for a fall garden is basically the same as getting the soil ready in the spring. Regardless of the type of soil you have in your garden, it will be improved by adding plenty of organic matter. In most areas of Texas, it's a good idea to add additional organic matter to your soil in both the spring and the fall. If your soil is a heavy clay, this additional organic matter will improve its drainage and aeration as well as allow for better root development of the vegetables. If you have a sandy soil, liberal amounts of organic matter will help your soil hold water as well as nutrients. Organic matter comes in many shapes and sizes and is generally readily available.

For you gardeners who own rototillers or those of you who are thinking about renting or buying one, here are some tips to make this job of working up your garden soil a lot easier.

1. Tilling the garden will be a lot easier if you leave a row untilled between passes. There are two basic reasons for doing this; wide rows are easier to make with a tiller than "about faces" and the machine won't be pulling itself and you toward the next row.

2. In tilling heavy clay soils or breaking up ground for a few fall gardens, reduce the engine speed of the tiller so that it will dig better and bounce less.

3. When tilling garden ground for the first time, don't try to work it to its maximum depth in the first pass. The first time around, set the break stake half the depth you desire then set it to a full depth and go over the depth a second or perhaps a third time.

4. It's important to till when the soil is slightly moist, and not too dry or too wet. Tilling when it's too wet will leave large clods which become rock hard when dry. As mentioned earlier, tilling when the ground is too dry is quite a job and one that should be undertaken only by a person who relishes physical punishment or is a "superman".

"When you're hot you're hot, and when you're not you're not" ... doesn't always apply in gardening. In fact, one whole family of vegetables, the Cruciferous "Cole Crops", prefer cooler weather with some even performing best after frosty weather has occurred.

This family includes broccoli, Brussel sprouts, cauliflower, cabbage, and several others. All can be grown in Texas when planted in early fall and even through the winter, depending upon where you live in our great state.

Probably the most popular of the coles is broccoli. It produces a large central head about 65-70 days after transplanting. The great thing about broccoli is once the central head is harvested, it will produce side shoots and continue bearing well into the winter season. Harvesting should occur while the buds of the head are still tightly packed. If you do see yellow in the heads, the flowers have started opening and the broccoli won't be at its best quality. To insure success in growing garden broccoli, transplants should be set out during late summer or early fall. Even though broccoli is fairly cold hardy, a hard freeze that occurs once the plants are near maturity can cause damage, even death. Some of the better varieties of broccoli for Texas are: Green Comet, Premium Crop, and Southern Comet.

Cabbage is another popular member of the cole family that does extremely well in the fall. Cabbage can either be transplanted or seeded directly in the garden, although transplanting generally means an earlier harvest. You might consider doing both, transplanting and seeding directly in the gardens, to assure yourself an extended harvest. This will create a continuous supply of cabbage throughout the growing season. Some of the better varieties of cabbage for Texas gardens are: Gourmet, Sanibel, and the old standard New Jersey Wakefield.

Brussel sprouts, the most cold tolerant of all the members of the cole family, is grown quite like cabbage. Brussel sprouts can be successfully grown in Texas in the fall, and should be transplanted in the garden about 90 days prior to the first anticipated killing frost. The sprouts are ready for harvesting when they are tight and firm. Begin harvesting by starting from the bottom of the plant and snap the sprouts off by hand. Removing the bottom leaves also hastens sprout maturity, but is not necessary. Frost enhances the flavor of Brussel sprouts, and they will withstand substantial freezing. In many areas of Texas Brussel sprouts can be harvested throughout the winter. Two of the better varieties of Brussel sprouts for Texas gardens this fall are Jade Cross and Prince Valiant.

Cauliflower is not as tolerant of either hot or cold weather as its previously mentioned relatives. Cauliflower requires about two months of cool weather to mature properly and develop a high quality "curd." Transplants should be set out in the garden about 70-80 days prior to the first anticipated killing freeze. It's important that adequate moisture and fertility levels be available to the developing cauliflower plants if good production is expected. Once the curd or head begins to develop the cauliflower leaves should be tied over and around the curd and held together with plastic tape, twine, or any suitable tying material. This procedure, called blanching, keeps the curd tender, soft, and white by keeping out sunlight. The two best varieties for Texas production include Snow Crown and Snow King. Both of these new varieties will produce a good size head or curd about 60 days from transplanting.

There you have it, some brief guidelines on growing some of the more popular members of the cole crop family. This fall plant "coles" for cool weather, and the result will be a great garden.

Dear Abby

Take precautions when driving

DEAR ABBY: Driving home tonight after working the late shift, I noticed a man following me in his car. He tried to get my attention at a red light, but I ignored him.

I'd like to give your female readers who have to drive home alone late at night some tips:

1. Always park by the door, or get an escort into the parking lot.

2. Don't get into your car until you've checked your back seat to be sure you don't have an unwanted passenger.

3. Lock your doors, and always keep your windows rolled up so no one can out his hand through the window and unlock your door while you're stopped at a red light.

4. Do not make eye contact with anyone you suspect is trying to follow you. If someone calls to you, don't turn your head or respond in any way. Pretend you didn't hear him.

5. Know where your local police station is and drive there if your "friend" persists in following you (which is doubtful if he realizes where you're going). Don't get out of your car. Sit on your horn until an officer comes out.

6. Never lead anybody to your home. Instead, drive to a busy area and look for a policeman.

7. Stay off deserted roads where you can be terrorized or run off the road.

This may sound paranoid, but it sure helps to know the above on a night like tonight. By the way, I lost my "pal" on the way to the police station.

SAFE AND SECURE IN LEAGUE CITY, TEXAS

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for some excellent tips. But why do you offer them for women only? Men are also followed; they too can learn from your suggestions.

Wedding." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 (this includes postage) to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Bent Tree hosts open house

Bent Tree Apartment Homes, located at One Courtney Place, is celebrating a grand opening today and Sunday.

Juanita Williams, property supervisor of Bent Tree, said the new complex has rented about 40 percent of the 90 apartments available.

The grand opening is open to the public. Several apartments will be on display. Manager of Bent Tree is Darla Adkins. Assistant manager is Melody Wright.

The Blue Blazers will be in charge of festivities. Refreshments and door prizes will be offered, including a remote control color television, radio and popcorn popper.

Bent Tree is owned by Brinkcraft Development Co., which has a regional office in Lubbock. President is Dalbert McDougal. Ben Woody is vice president.

Ms. Williams said rentals at the complex are "going real well. We're really pleased with how it is leasing up."

Rent begins at $425 for a one bedroom, one bath unfurnished apartment. A two bedroom, two bath apartment is $525. The town houses rent for $585 a month. All utilities except electricity are included in the rental price.

For an additional charge of up to $81.25 for the two bedroom models, furniture may be leased monthly, Mrs. Williams said.

When asked why one would want to live in Bent Tree, Ms. Williams said, "This is more like living in a home." She said the apartments are energy efficient. Each has a private entrance, fireplace, ceiling fans, stove, refrigerator, microwave, private patio and carpeting. Covered parking will be added soon.

Bent Tree also has a clubhouse, pool and spa on the grounds. Security and maintenance personnel will be on the property 24 hours a day, Ms. Williams said.

Ms. Williams said, "Our first priority is our residents. We want to be helpful and make this a happy place for them."

City Savings is part of network

City Savings, formerly Homestate Savings, held grand opening ceremonies this week to help make the public aware of their name change.

City Savings is located in the Coronado Plaza at 2600 Gregg. On hand this week were several representatives of City Savings organizations around the state, including Bettie Olsak, vice president in charge of marketing from San Angelo, and John Davis, division manager from San Angelo.

Representatives were also on hand from Dallas and Austin, Sweetwater, Colorado City and Midland.

Davis explained that "Homestate Savings merged with City Savings of San Angelo" several months ago, but many Homestate offices continued to operate under the Homestate name.

However, the decision to change the name of the local facility was made because of the City Savings office in Midland. The name change "fits into the market area," Davis said.

City Savings is "part of a group holding company, Lamar Financial Group, of Austin, with assets of more than $2 billion," Davis said.

City Savings has total deposits of $7,009,000, and total assets of $8,011,000.

The savings and loan has been in Big Spring for more than two years and no other changes are planned, Davis said.

"Business will continue as usual," Mrs. Olsak said. The facility is opened Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.. The facility offers a full-range of banking services.

Staffing the local office are Jo Etta Hart, branch manager, and Lynda Clearman, assistant manager.

Davis said City Savings has branch offices in several Texas cities and people with City Savings accounts will be able to do their banking in towns such as Midland, San Angelo, Ballinger, Temple, Sweetwater, Snyder, Abilene, Roscoe, Hamlin, Colorado City, Rotan, College Station, Bryan and Navasota.

All branches are "on the same computer system," Mrs. Olsak said.

Davis said, "We don't consider ourselves outsiders" to the banking scene in Big Spring. "We try to use local people" as employees and as contract workers. "We've hired local carpenters" work on the building and buy supplies locally.

"We are trying to function as part of the community," Davis said.

He said an advantage of City Savings is "we are a network. (Someone doing their banking) has access to money in 20 other places, including San Angelo."

Davis said, "We've had a real good response here. It's been our chance to tell our customers how much we appreciate them, and we're hoping for their continued support. We're also hoping to attract new customers."

Estacado Matadors dump Big Spring 12-7

By BILLY NABOURS
Sports Editor

For the third consecutive year the Big Spring Steers and Lubbock Estacado Matadors hooked up in a real barnburner and for the third consecutive year the Matadors came away the winners — but not by much.

Estacado made two first half touchdowns stand up for a 12-7 non-district victory Friday night at Memorial Stadium as both teams saw their records even at 1-1.

Estacado's first score came with 41 seconds left in the opening quarter after both defenses dominated early. The Matadors set up at their own 36 following a Jay Pirkle punt with 3:01 in the quarter. It took the Matadors seven plays to reach paydirt with quarterback Paul Jefferson doing the honors with a one-yard sneak. The extra point failed, however when the snap went awry.

Estacado wasted little time getting its second points of the game after an interception by Danny Dobbins at the 11:51 mark in the second quarter. Rodney Jackson went 36 yards on Estacado's second play. The try for two was foiled by the center of the Steer line.

The remainder of the first half saw Big Spring's defense shackle Estacado by getting a fumble recovery courtesy of defensive tackle Jerry Meyer and forcing the Matadors to give the ball up on downs.

As for the Steer offense, Big Spring narrowed the gap to 12-7 with 1:46 before halftime when quarterback Carl Speck capped a 24-yard drive with a one yard score. Colin Carroll kicked the extra point. Speck went on to carry the ball 21 times. Carroll toted 11 times for 43 yards.

In the second half the Steer defense picked up where it left off right before halftime.

Estacado was stopped short on fourth and three to begin the third quarter, giving Big Spring the ball at the Steer 26. Jerry Anderson at linebacker, Thomas Rodriguez in the secondary and Derek Logback, Meyer and Doug Walker up front spearheaded the defensive efforts of Big Spring.

Big Spring's best chance at a score in the third quarter came following an Estacado punt with 3:26 left in the period.

Starting at the 37 of the Matadors, Big Spring moved to the Estacado 24 where a fourth and seven situation came up six yards shy.

Estacado took over with 10 seconds and continued the drive into the fourth quarter before Todd Coker recovered a loose football at the Matadors 30. From that point the Steers had their best chance to go ahead.

Speck guided the offense to the 13 before a fumble went against the Steers and Estacado recovered at its own 17 with 9:39. The big play of the drive was a 19-yard pass play from Speck to Rodriguez. Speck completed four in a row until a last minute interception killed hopes of any kind of a Steer comeback. The junior signal caller finished the night with 90 yards on seven completions in 12 attempts.

Estacado could not convert its good fortune, however after the fumble and punted back to the Steers who began their final offensive series of the contest at their own 10 after the kick was not fielded.

'Dogs, Buffaloes fight to 14-14 tie

By STEVE BELVIN
Staff Writer

COAHOMA — For 48 minutes the Coahoma Bulldogs and Stanton Buffaloes went toe to toe like two heavyweights in the ring battling each other tooth and nail.

When it was all over and the final horn sounded ending the battle, both teams stood deadlocked at 14-14.

Most of the contest between the Class AA 'Buffs and Class AAA Bulldogs was a torrid defensive struggle, with neither team being able to muster much offense. The teams accumulated more offense in the final quarter than it did in the first three and it boiled down to an exciting finish with Coahoma knocking on the Buffaloes door.

Stanton started the final fourth quarter excitement with the ball with Coahoma leading 14-6 with 59 seconds remaining in the game. Stanton's John Zugg had just returned a Coahoma punt 20 yards to the Coahoma 30.

On the first play Stanton quarterback John Glaspie hit a diving Wayne DeLao down to the Coahoma 10. After a holding penalty set them back on the 20, Glaspie rolled right and fired a pass to a well covered Derrick Sorley who hauled in the pass for the score. The junior tight end was Stanton's leading receiver for the night with three catches for 57 yards.

Glaspie kept for the two point conversion, tying the contest at 14-14 with 27 seconds remaining.

But the contest was far from over as Stanton received an 15-yard unsportsmanlike conduct penalty preceding the kickoff and had to kick off from their own 25. Buffalo coach Dale Ruth then instructed kicker Clifford McCartney to squib kick. The kick travelled on 18 yards to the Stanton 43 where Coahoma set up shop.

"I wanted a squib kick because we were so deep in our territory. I didn't want to give them a chance to get a good return," explained Ruth.

Coahoma quarterback John Swinney's first pass attempt went incomplete. On the second play he hit John Vaughn for 18 yards to the Stanton 25.

Coahoma coach Bruce Mitchell then called his last timeout with 12 seconds remaining, but elected to try to get one more play off before sending McCartney in for the field goal attempt.

On the next play Swinney hit his favorite receiver of the night, Brian Calaway on a quick sideline pass that covered seven yards, but the swarming Stanton didn't allow Calaway to get out of bounds and the game ended with Coahoma resting on the Stanton 18.

"I thought we could run more one play before we kicked," stated Mitchell. I hoped we could get Brian out of bounds and stop the clock."

Calaway and Vaughn gave the Stanton secondary problems all night as Calaway caught five passes for 69 yards while Vaughn hauled in four passes for 60 yards. In fact passing was about the only way Coahoma moved the ball at all, as they mustered only 34 yards rushing. Swinney had a good night throwing, completing 12 of 27 passes for 157 yards, not to mention six dropped passes including one for a touchdown.

Stanton after being held to eight yards rushing in the first half, racked up 99 in the second half.

Danny Kounce ended the game's leading rusher with 74 yards on 15 carries.

Blue Jays 7, Tigers 2

DETROIT — Willie Aikens belted two home runs and Ernie Whitt added another Friday night to lead the Toronto Blue Jays to a 7-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The victory moved the Blue Jays within 10 games of the Tigers in the American League East and left Detroit's magic number for clinching the division at six.

Jim Clancy, 12-14, scattered four hits before being ejected by plate umpire Larry Young while working to Kirk Gibson leading off the Detroit sixth. Young had warned both benches about brush-back pitches an inning earlier.

There were no batters hit during the game. Toronto Manager Bobby Cox played the contest under protest.

Aikens hit a solo homer in the second inning on a 0-2 count from Jack Morris, 17-11.

In the Toronto fourth, Rance Mulliniks singled, stole second, took third on a single by Aikens and scored on Whitt's fielder's-choice grounder.

The Blue Jays broke it open in the sixth. Mulliniks singled and rode home on Aikens' second homer of the game and 11th of the season. Whitt then blasted his 13th homer.

Cliff Johnson's pinch double in the seventh off reliever Bill Scherrer drove in two insurance runs.

Season on the line for Tigers

By The Associated Press
It's only the second game of the season for the Auburn Tigers, but already the most important one of the year for them.

"We know this game is our season as far as the national championship is concerned," said Auburn defensive end John Dailey as the 11th-ranked Tigers prepared for Saturday's game with fourth-ranked Texas.

The Tigers had come into the season ranked No. 1 in The Associated Press poll, but dropped 10 places after a 20-18 loss to Miami in the Kickoff Classic.

"If we go 0-2, we're out of it," said Auburn center Yann Cowart. "It would be extremely difficult to win a national championship with two losses with all the good teams out there."

Texas Coach Fred Akers is wary of Auburn, and for more than one reason.

"I don't like to play someone who's had a game before, especially a top football team," he said. "They've had a game to get the butterflies and some of the bugaboos that come about the first game out of their system, plus conditioning, so I don't care for that."

Along with their national championship aspirations, the Tigers will be motivated in other ways. The Longhorns won last season's meeting 20-7, holding Auburn star Bo Jackson to merely 35 rushing yards. In this year's opener against Miami, Jackson gained 96 yards.

In other games involving the nation's ranked teams, it's Minnesota at No. 1 Nebraska; No. 16 Washington at No. 3 Michigan; No. 12 Penn State at No. 5 Iowa; co-No. 5 Miami at Purdue; Long Beach State at No. 7 UCLA; Tulsa at No. 8 Brigham Young; Washington State at No. 9 Ohio State; Bowling Green at No. 13 Oklahoma State; No. 14 Southern Methodist at Louisville; No. 15 Oklahoma at No. 17 Pitt; No. 18 Florida State at Kansas; and No. 19 Alabama at Georgia Tech.

Lou Holtz made a successful home crowd than last week's boobies that caused Ohio State Coach Earle Bruce to comment: "We sort of consider Ohio Stadium as an away game."

Like Auburn, Pitt hopes to make a comeback from an opening-day loss and remain in the running for the national championship. The Panthers were upset by pass-happy Brigham Young in their opening game.

"They can do a lot of things on offense," said Pitt Coach Foge Fazio of Oklahoma, a 19-7 winner over Stanford last week. "I don't think coaching debut at Minnesota with a 31-24 victory over Rice. But the Gophers don't figure to have as easy a time with Nebraska.

"Nebraska is deserving of its No. 1 ranking," said Holtz. "The offensive line is the best I've ever seen." Last year Nebraska humiliated Minnesota 84-13, beginning a slide that cost Joe Salem his job and eventually led to the hiring of Holtz, who had coached before at Arkansas and in the pros.

Ohio State quarterback Mike Tomczak, on the bench with an injured leg in last week's victory over Oregon State, has been cleared for action against Washington State. Tomczak hopes he gets a better reaction from the anybody in the country has the speed of Oklahoma. I know we're not fast enough. We're just going to try to put our players in the right spots."

Fazio admits that's not easy to do against Oklahoma. Not only do the Sooners have potentially one of the nation's top backs in sophomore Spencer Tillman, but Fazio says Oklahoma "has two great wide receivers and a quarterback (Dannny Bradley) capable of throwing for 2,000 yards. And they're so comfortable in the Wishbone, they scare you."

Oklahoma will be trying to overcome a recent jinx of sorts in Saturday's game.

OPEN SEASON AGAINST OLD MISS — University of Arkansas ball coach Ken Hatfield meets with the 1984 Razorback squad after recent practice. Hatfield will use the flexbone option with this year's offense when Arkansas opens its season today against Mississippi.

O'Meara leading Milwaukee Golf

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Mark O'Meara, a frequent challenger but not yet a winner, coaxed a no-bogey, 4-under-par 68 from chilly winds and a drizzly rain and took a one-stroke lead Friday in the second round of the $300,000 Greater Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament.

O'Meara, who has recorded four runner-up finishes this season but has yet to take his first professional title, finished two trips over the 7,010-yard Tuckaway Country Club course in 135, 9-under par.

"With the rain and the wind, conditions were much tougher today," O'Meara said. "When it's like this, you just try to stay away from the bogeys, and that's what I was able to do."

"I'm very pleased to be where I am. It's still anybody's ballgame, but if I can keep on hitting the ball the way I have, I have a good chance."

Dan Pohl, with a 71, was a single shot back at 136, 8-under par.

Tom Watson, making his first start in Milwaukee, made some headway in his effort to protect his lead on the season's money-winning list.

Watson, the only three-time winner on the American tour this season, dropped three putts of about 20 feet in length — one of them for an eagle-3 — on his way to a 68 that put him in a tie for third at 137, two back at the tournament's halfway point.

"All in all it was a good round," Watson said. "At least I left myself in position to win the golf tournament."

He was tied with Howard Twitty, rookie Corey Pavin, first round leader Woody Blackburn and Andy Bean.

Twitty closed up with the best round of the dreary fall day, a 6-under-par 66.

Pavin, needing only $12,277 in earnings to set a money-winning record for a first-year player, had a 70. Bean shot 68. And Blackburn, who had a career-best 64 in the opening round, slipped to a 73 when his putter failed to cooperate.

The group at 138 included George Archer, Bill Kratzert,

Bill Sander, Brad Faxon and Donnie Hammond. Sander and Faxon had 70s. Kratzert, Hammond and the veteran Archer all had 71s.

Tom Kite, attempting to retain his lead in scoring average, could do no better than a 71-144.
