Hudspeth Memorial Hospital Patients Reach 5,000 Mark On February 4

Lillian M. Hudspeth Memorial Hospital admitted its five thousandth patient February 4 when seven-year-old Billie Jo Thurman, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Thurman, entered the hospital for a tonsillectomy. Billie Jo is one of many Eldorado and Schleicher County patients availing themselves of the hospital facilities.

Having been a resident of Kansas all of her life until two months ago, Billie Jo was quite surprised to find herself the object of attention at the hospital last week. She received flowers from the hospital with an individual corsage; flowers from the hospital auxiliary, a comb and brush set from Mrs. Alvis Johnson, auxiliary president, and a cake bearing the inscription "Billie—5,000". The Board of Directors of the hospital was represented by Mrs. W. R. Cusenbary.

Seven-year-old Billie Jo Thurman of Eldorado doesn't seem to be too happy at all the extra attention she received at Hudspeth Hospital last week. But it wasn't that at all—it's a little hard to smile when you've just lost your tonsils.

Billie Jo was the hospital's 5,000th patient. She received flowers, a corsage, a comb and brush set, and a cake bearing her name and number. Billie Jo is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Thurman, formerly of Concordia, Kansas.

Valentine Party, Queen's Coronation Scheduled for 7:00 Friday Night

A queen's coronation and musical program will start the festivities at Central Elementary School Friday night for the school's annual Valentine Party. Cecile Young and Calvin Berry will preside as queen and king. Representatives from each class will form the court of honor. Second and fourth grade students will present a program of dances and musical numbers. The program is under the direction of Mrs. Ralph J. Finglea, Jr.

Parents and all school friends are invited to attend.

The hospital is the culmination of a desire of Roy Hudspeth, Sutton County ranchman and philanthropist. In the fall of 1947 he proposed that he would donate a sum of money to the establishment of a hospital in Sonora, as a memorial to his deceased wife, Mrs. Lillian M. Hudspeth, provided the citizens of Sutton County would donate a like amount. In response to such proposal, Sutton County citizens subscribed generously. The hospital was then incorporated as a benevolent, charitable, scientific and educational hospital, under the laws of the State of Texas, the charter being filed in the office of the Secretary of State on the 24th day of November, 1947.

During the time of the organization of this hospital corporation Roy Hudspeth confined to one or more Sutton County citizens that while he was making

Sonoran's Held In Connection With Eldorado Killing

Odds And Ends

"Mack" Owens brought us this poem by Dorothy Ames which appeared recently in the White-wright Sun:

BASIC SCIENCE

Sing a song of science
From Nursery School through High;
Teach the nation's Juniors
What make rockets fly.
Beat the drums for science;
Only don't forget
Junior's got to read and write
Before he builds a jet.
Congress in the counting house
Ladling out the money,
Experts in the School of Ed.
Motivating Sonny,
Won't get off the launching pad
Till Mom and Daddy learn
To combat slowness in the head
By paddling at the stern.

And on the subject of education, three teachers at Glenmore Elementary School in San Angelo recently paid a visit to Central Elementary here. In a thank you letter to Rex Lowe, principal, they said:

"We wish to thank you and your faculty for a very informative and enjoyable day. It is a relief to us to know that there are other systems that are teaching children. We found everyone so friendly and helpful and we were greatly impressed with the manner in which the children conducted themselves. You have a system of which you can be proud."

Ernesto Chavira, 29-year-old Sonoran, is being held without bond in Schleicher County Jail in connection with the Monday morning pistol slaying of Luis Martinez of Eldorado.

Martinez, father of four children, died instantly from a shot fired when he answered a knock at the front door of his Eldorado home about 1:30 a.m. Monday. No motive for the shooting has been established.

Chavira, accompanied by Gilberto Gander, 26, also of Sonora, is being held without bond after being charged with murder in the court of Justice of the Peace T. P. Robinson following his arrest in Sonora last Monday.

Gander, known locally as "Ring-tail", is charged with being an accessory to the crime and is attempting to make $1,500 bond set by the court, according to Justin Kever, 51st District Attorney.

The murder weapon, a .45 caliber pistol, was found about eight miles south of Eldorado on the Sonora highway.

The Eldorado killing took place a scant hour after a shooting at Happy Brown's Cafe in Sonora in which Gander and Chavira were reportedly involved. Pafares Arispe received emergency treatment from Dr. J. F. Howell after the shooting at Brown's Cafe. Chavira admitted the earlier shooting to Sheriff Wess Hill. Hill said Wednesday.

Chavira served with the U. S. Army in Japan and was dishonorably discharged from the service in 1954. He has served 1 term at San Quentin Prison, California, for burglary and twice violated parole. He also is known to have served a 30-day sentence in Imperial County Jail for joyriding in violation of parole and has also been booked on charges of assault with a deadly weapon, fighting, disturbing the peace, drunkenness, and burglary.

Chavira waived examining trial and will be arraigned before a Schleicher County Grand Jury at the regular spring session of 51st District Court April 10. He will remain in the Schleicher County Jail until that time.

Jerry Shurley Opens Law Office Here

Jerry N. Shurley has announced the opening of his law office in the building adjacent to the La Vista theater. Shurley's office hours will be from 8:30 to 5:00 o'clock daily.

Shurley was admitted to the bar in January 1953 following his graduation from the University of Texas School of Law. He also holds a degree of Bachelor of Arts from the University. He attended Sonora schools and was graduated from San Angelo High School.

Shurley and his wife, the former Jackie Friend of San Angelo, and their two sons, Jerry Neill, Jr., 9, and Mark Friend, 7, are at present living on the Shurley ranch south of Sonora.

Joe Burkett, Jr. Will Be Candidate For Re-Election

Representative Joe Burkett, Jr., of Kerrville has announced his candidacy for re-election from the 78th Representative District which covers 10 Central and West Texas Counties, the largest in land area in the state. Burkett was elected to the Legislature in 1951 in a special election to fill an unexpired term. He has been successfully returned to office ever since. He has also served two terms as Justice of the Peace in Kerr County, Kerr County Attorney and Kerr County Judge.

Rep. Burkett is a native of Eastland County. He attended Eastland public schools and graduated from high school in San Antonio. He attended Texas Tech and Cumberland University and was admitted to the bar in 1934. He is married and the father of two children.

Burkett is a leading contender in the race for Speaker of the House. He has served as chairman of the committee which investigated the veterans land scandals and also chairman of the committee which reorganized the insurance laws of Texas. He has also served on committees for state affairs, revenue and tax, conservation and reclamation, game and fish, labor, livestock, and stock raising.

Your Future May Depend On This Proposal

Sonora, Texas
February, 1958

To all Sutton County Citizens:

The attached statement concerns you, and we hope you will read it carefully.

It is a factual statement on the flood problem in Sonora, what has been done to date, and what is proposed.

The project has been a joint effort on the part of the Edwards Plateau Soil Conservation District Supervisors, Sutton County, the City of Sonora and certainly the citizens and business firms who contributed $5,000 to finance development of a flood prevention program.

The continued cooperation of all agencies, landowners and citizens will be necessary to develop the project to reality.

The attached statement is jointly submitted by:

SUMMARY OF FLOOD PREVENTION PLANNING OPERATION ON DRY DEVIL'S RIVER AND LOWREY DRAW Flood Hazard In Sonora

Though many Sonora residents saw damaging flood water in 1932, 1936 and 1938—it took the Ozona flood of June 1954 to actually spell out the potential flood threat to Sonora.

Most of the business and residential part of Sonora is located in the flood plain formed by the junction of Dry Devil's River and Lowrey Draw. The Dry Devil's River watershed above Sonora contains 98,000 acres, and Lowrey Draw watershed drains 31,000 acres—a total of 128,000 acres—compared to 76,400 acres in Johnson Draw above Ozona.

The deep valley soil on which most of Sonora is located is filled with water-worn gravel—evidence that it was deposited by water from floods over many years.

Relatively small floods (25 to 50 years frequency) occurred at Sonora in 1925, 1930, 1932, 1935, 1936 and 1938. Rainfall and flood records prior to 1928 are lacking, but numerous people can recall high water during the period from 1900 to 1928.

The Devil's River News during the 1930's carried many stories on flood damage—families having to evacuate their homes and seek shelter in the Courthouse or the old Mercantile building.

Following the 1932 flood considerable work was done to prevent damage from Lowrey Draw, and some channel improvement was made on Dry Devil's River. A rock wall was built on the North

In this busy world where everyone is rushing about in such a hurry you'd think that all our pistol and rifle hulls would come put up in boxes ready to shoot. After all, mama buys her bread already mixed, her chicken pies cooked, frozen and ready for the oven.

Not so with shooters, however. There still are many who prefer to handload their own fodder. In fact there were more than 5,000,000 jacketed projectiles sold for rifles in Texas in 1957. Hard to believe, isn't it?

These are some figures put together by George E. Fairchild, who bothers about such things for the stith Scope Mount people in San Antonio. His firm alone sold more than a million of these bullets. Of course some of the shooters even cast their own.

The prime reason for reloading seems to be in the economy. Next is accuracy, which really might be first in the long run.

On the basis of economy a box of 20 factory loaded 30-60 hulls sells for $4.55 retail. This is almost 23c each. Of course, if you are a deer hunter and just use one shot a year to get your venison, then that isn't expensive. But if you do a lot of shooting between season, at paper targets, rocks on the hill or at silhouettes, then it gets expensive. A break down shows that the actual cost of components of a reloaded 30-60 shell is around 3/4 cent each.

Handloading equipment now have been perfected to assure the utmost safety in reloads. And with these custom loads you can get accuracy that is almost impossible with factory loads.

Hand loading is practical in all but rimfire ammunition. You can reload your old brass for either rifle, pistol or shotgun. Savage Has New 110

While on the subject of shooting, be sure and take a look at that new Savage 110 when it hits the market in a few days. It's America's new high-power rifle. We've just had a chance to examine one of them thoroughly. It is a light weight, trim appearing gun, with a very impressive stock line. The gun we saw was a 30-06. It also will be chambered for 270 and 243 at a later date.

Bear Cub scope and a Stith Dove-tail mounts, weighs only 7 1/2 pounds. It will retail for just a little over $100.

One of the most interesting features of the gun is the ease with which it can be stripped. A coin slot in the bolt head makes it possible to take down the entire bolt in a matter of seconds. And most interesting to some 11 percent of our shooters, is that very shortly it will come out as a left-handed model, too, the first commercial left-handed bolt action gun.

From The Devil's River News Of March 28, 1891

67 YEARS AGO
Frank W. Jackson is now touring the Republic of Mexico and writes most entertainingly of his visit to the ruined cities of Teotihuacan and others near Mexico City.

The marriage of W. H. Cusenbary to Miss Annie Gurley at the school house Wednesday night, March 25, 1891, was one of the prettiest affairs it has been the privilege of the Devil's River News to record. At eight o'clock the school house, which had been handsomely trimmed with evergreens and flowers, was crowded. On the arrival of the wedding party the organist executed the wedding march, and the beautiful bride and handsome groom, supported by E. S. Briant and Miss Euna Day, and Felix Vander Stucken and Miss Ollie Gurley passed up the center aisle to the pulpit and were united in marriage by the Rev. J. W. Sims of Junction City.

After the wedding the bridal party and a few friends were driven to the residence of Mr.

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Kendricks of Emerald last Friday, a grand dance was held at which Felix Vander Stucken and Will Fields of Sonora, took part.

R. J. Bean was in Sonora Friday. He will shortly move his family to town and occupy the Mike Devore residence.

Chris Mieneche has finished his tank cut out of solid rock, to the depth of 10 feet which is a perfect success and holds water like a jug.

S. G. Tayloe, a clever young attorney of Cleburne arrived in Sonora Friday, prospecting for a location. Mr. Tayloe is a talented and agreeable gentleman and will probably hang out his shingle in the trading center of the Stockman's Paradise.

Home Trade Puts Money In Your Pocket Out Of Town Trade Robs Your Pocket

Why buy at home? For the simple reason that it amounts to money in everybody's pocket.

Trading away from home means money out of pocket. To prove this we merely need to add postage or freight on ordered goods or travel expenses on items bought out of town to the amount of money paid out to arrive at the actual, honest price of merchandise. Compare the total, then, with the price of the articles as listed by Sonora merchants. It's cheaper every time to buy at home.

For instance, gasoline costs, automobile depreciation, restaurant meals, hotel bills, goods bought that are not really needed—all these things must be paid out of our pockets in addition to the value of the goods themselves, plus a reasonable profit.

Every dollar that goes over the counter of the local merchants pays tribute to the entire community. It comes back to us in fullest measure. The merchant has the interests of the home town at heart. If from nothing more than a selfish standpoint, he is the best booster Sonora has because the greater the well-being of our citizens, the better the pay Sonorans receive for their labor, the more comfortable their homes are and the better the streets are kept, the more efficient the schools, the better the fire and police protection, the more attractive does Sonora prove for others seeking homes, and therefore the greater is the number of Sonora's potential customers.

Home trade assures Sonora of a permanent booster. Sonora's merchants do not plan to stay here for a certain length of time and then move to some other place; they are here to stay, for Sonora is their home and the home of their children.

To maintain this leadership our home-town merchants must be supported. They set the pace rally the forces of good citizenship. Check a list of Sonora merchants and the check will show this to be almost invariably true.

Their leadership deserve the support of every good citizen in town. These men work for the good of Sonora and everyone with the welfare of Sonora at heart will work with them and help them in the things they are trying to accomplish.

Is More Severe Punishment Needed To Deter Teen-Age Delinquents?

In the face of shocking crimes and a wave of vandalism throughout the country involving children, the cry has gone up for "tougher" laws to punish teen-age delinquents.

Repeal of the indeterminate sentence law for juveniles has been advocated and the lowering of the age limits from 17 to 14 recommended so as to subject those 14 and over to the same punishment as adults. Several "get tougher" bills were introduced in the last Texas legislature.

But treating young offenders like criminals isn't the answer. It has been tried before and it has failed. Less than 150 years ago all children over seven were held responsible for their crimes. Severe punishment, or, more aptly, retaliation, was the established pattern for a good many centuries.

Children in Texas were subject to the death penalty until 1856; and until 1907 children could be confined in the Texas penitentiary. As late as 1814 three boys in England, 8, 9, and 11 years old, were hanged for the theft of a pair of shoes.

Classifying youngsters as criminals and imprisoning them won't do anything except complete their education as criminals. They learn additional techniques in crime and additional criminal attitudes from older or more hardened boys or men.

In comparing boys who had been officially whipped with those who had been put on probation, a royal investigating commission in England recently found that far more of those whipped became repeaters, that their companions regarded them as heroes. In two industrial centers 440 children out of 574 who had been whipped were in court again within two years.

In this country likewise "getting tough"—different from being firm—has failed. One parish priest who has worked in an underprivileged area of Denver had this to say to the Senate Committee investigating juvenile delinquency:

"Getting tough with the kids . . . is the worst thing you can do . . . A lot of them come from rough families and rough neighborhoods. They are used to brutality."

Those who have studied the causes of delinquency and worked with teen-age offenders recommend probation in the child's home wherever possible. This means more supervision—and calls for more supervisors. When probation is not advisable the delinquents should be put in an institution where there will be treatment and a program of education and rehabilitation.

Back The Attack On Traffic Accidents

Texans are being asked for full local support for the renewal of the nationwide Back the Attack on Traffic Accidents campaign.

Back the attack, a successful program in 1957, will be stepped up during the coming months of 1958. It is sponsored in Texas by the Texas Safety Association and across the nation by the National Safety Council.

When the final tallies are in, for 1957, it is believed the figures will reveal that the accident prevention program, in Texas, is gaining momentum and in a favorable direction. At least, so far, figures indicate the fatality toll will fall more than 200 below the record-breaking toll of 2,611 traffic deaths of 1956.

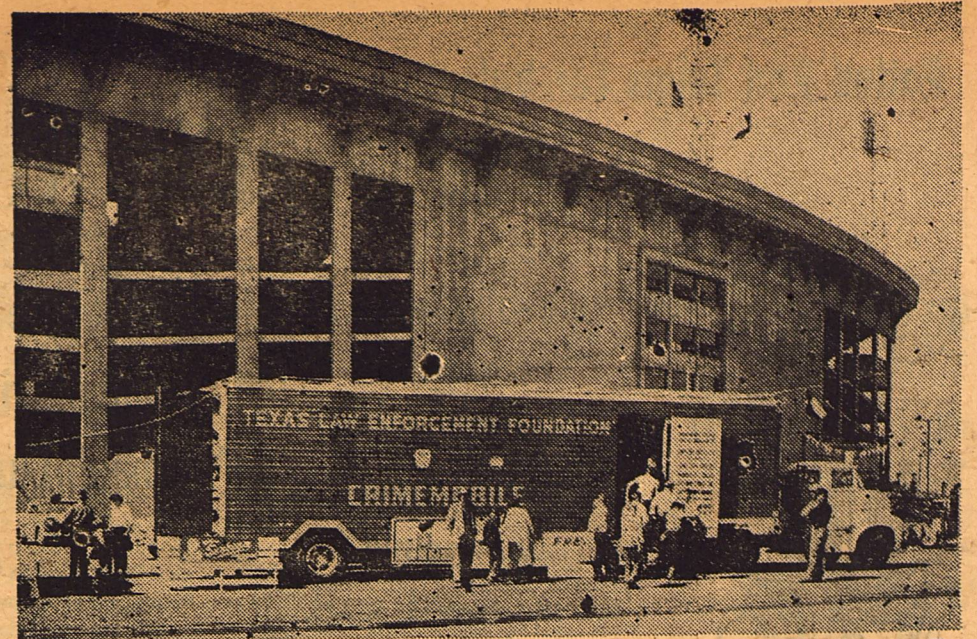

The appeal to Texans to walk and drive more safely is justified by records which point up the three most hazardous traffic conditions; which are:

SPEED: Latest figures reveal that 58 percent of the rural fatal accidents, in Texas, involve speeds too fast for conditions—good reasons why you should Slow Down and Live.

ALCOHOL: A drinking driver is involved in approximately 39 percent of all rural fatal accidents. Special studies of fatal accidents occurring during holiday periods show that these percentages invariably rise above normal levels. Drinking pedestrians also push up the death toll in this category. Best estimates claim that of the adult pedestrians killed, about 20 percent have been drinking.

DARKNESS: More than half of all fatal accidents occur during darkness or early twilight hours. The Texas Safety Association estimates that the mileage death rate is more than twice as great at night as in daylight.

We must understand these facts and resolve to do something about them. Everyone, public officials and citizens alike, must make up his own mind to do everything in his power to lower traffic deaths. Cooperation between officials and citizens can be the key to cutting down the number of traffic fatalities and injuries.

Livestock, Deer Ratios For Texas Ranges Studied

On ranges where mixed classes of livestock and deer are grazing, ranchmen and range specialists are faced with the problem of determining the proper numbers and ratios for best management of grazing lands.

Exchange ratios for the various kinds of grazing animals have been studied in the western part of the United States for many years. Most of the published research has been concerned with "sheep to cattle" ratios. Very little information is available on "goat to cattle" ratios, or on combinations of cattle, sheep, goats and deer.

A publication just released by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, "Livestock and Deer Ratios for Texas Range Lands," gives much information on the recommendations that were made after experiments were conducted at several locations in the State.

Sheep and cattle ratios, goat ratios, deer ratios and livestock and deer combinations are among the topics discussed in the bulletin.

THE WORLD OUTDOORS
By Mike Bennett

"I HAVE always loved hunting, fishing, and everything outdoors, yet I cannot interest my son in any of these things."

How many times have you heard a father make such a remark. I have heard it many times and am sure that you have, too. Never having known such a problem, however, I find it difficult to understand. It seems that my five-year-old has been asking me to take him fishing since the day he learned to talk.

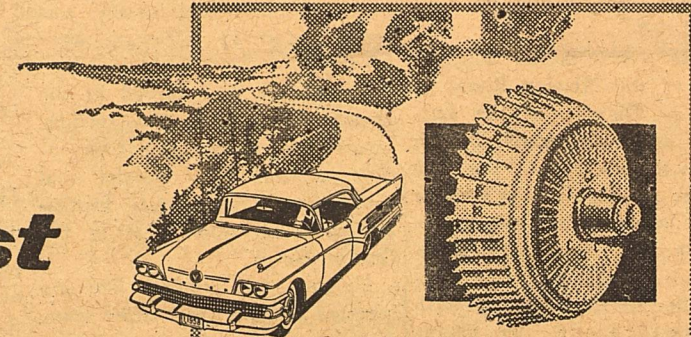

I have taken him many times, and he would get up from a sick bed if I promised to take him fishing. Being therefore to some degree qualified to give advice to fathers who would like to interest their sons in the fishing or hunting hobbies, I would make one specific recommendation: when you take your son for an outing, make it his trip all the way. Leave your own fishing gear at home. This, of course, is the procedure with small fry. When the boy reaches his teens, there will be fun in doing things together.

If you have fished your favorite stream as much as I have mine, you know where the bream beds are and where the sunfish gather. Here, and not to the deep pool where fish are bigger, but more difficult to catch, is the spot to take a boy fishing.

Fishing enthusiasm comes with the thrill of catching fish. To the youngster, a sunfish, bluegill, bullhead, or even a sucker on the end of his line is just as exciting as the sight of the more respected bass or pike.

If you want your boy to enjoy fishing, make it fun. Take him often, but don't make him walk too far or scorch in the sun when the fish are not biting. And, most important of all, take him where he is certain to catch a fish. Large or small, it doesn't matter—just so it is a fish.

W. Farley, Tom Walters, Leonard Ward, Bruno Brandt, W. B. Davis, and John W. Clark, individually and as constituting and representative of that class of five-year employees given cash legacies of $500.00 each under the terms of such purported will of such decedent.

Said suit styled "Dolores Mooers, A Widow, v. H. B. Fuqua, Independent Executor, et al," being numbered 155 on the docket of such court and a brief statement of the nature of the suit being as follows:

Plaintiff seeking equitable review asks to set aside a settlement made with her husband, Clifford Mooers, dated May 1, 1956, and this Court's decree of approval entered the next day in cause No. 1464, styled "Ex Parte: Clifford Mooers and Wife, Dolores Mooers," recorded in the minutes, Vol. 6, p. 636, and asks an accounting and for a declaration fixing the identity of the residuary devisee under a purported will of such husband as admitted to probate December 10, 1956, in which suit it is claimed that plaintiff as the wife of such decedent for 27 years before his death was induced to consent to such property settlement and decree by the fraud of her husband and his agents, consisting of false representations and concealment of material facts as to the nature, extent and value of the community property and of plaintiff's true interest therein at such time, and because of further false promises to bequeath and on account of mistake induced by fraud of her husband and coercion; and it is claimed that a fraud was also practiced by such decedent on this Court, and that the proceedings did not comply with Article 2624a.

It is further claimed in such suit that all or substantially all property in decedent's name at the time of such settlement and at the time of his death was community property, and that had the wife received those properties awarded to her in such settlement, such were greatly less than her share at such time, and such contract was grossly unjust and disadvantageous to her, but that there was further material fraud and deceit practiced on her as to those properties which it was recited she was to receive under such settlement because of failure of title and of consideration in material part and inability to deliver and failure to deliver personal property of the kind and value which it was represented such wife should receive.

Plaintiff offers to do equity and makes a continuing tender to restore that which she has received and asserts that due to her situation, inexperience, ignorance and deception she could not sooner have discovered such fraud and brought this action.

It is further claimed that since such husband's death the defendant H. B. Fuqua, acting as Independent Executor under the purported will of such husband, has come into possession of but has not distributed all of those properties which the husband wrongfully took under such settlement and decree and in which plaintiff had a continuing equitable ownership and interest, and that the other defendants are claiming to own or have some interest in such properties and estate as the respective cash legatees and residuary devisee.

Fisher Writes On New Debt Limit

By Congressman O. C. Fisher
The public debt limit was increased from $275 billion to $280 billion by House action last week, effective until June 30, 1959, when the ceiling will revert back to the $275 billion level. Some increase is imperative in view of the stepped up defense expenditures during the coming months. An amendment to hold the increase to only $3 billion, which I supported, was voted down.

The debt limit actually means very little, unless after setting a limit the Congress will hold down appropriations so they will not crowd or exceed the limit. It's like a man saying: "I set my spending at a $200 limit this month," and then going out and charging $250 worth of merchandise to himself. The ceiling means little unless he cuts the garment to fit the pattern.

And the time for Congress to have avoided the present crisis in the debt limit was last spring when appropriations were being voted, which included some spending that was obviously non-essential.

Rabies Undercurrent Runs Through Texas Wildlife

A dangerous undercurrent of rabies runs throughout the broad range of Texas wildlife. The condition, while now new, could erupt into a full scale epidemic in an unguarded moment.

Rabid wildlife species infect dogs, and dogs infect other dogs. Therein lies the greatest source of danger to humans.

Twenty-eight cases were diagnosed in State Health Department laboratories during December. In addition, six positive cases were diagnosed in dogs by the El Paso County laboratory.

The 28 cases were submitted from 15 counties. Included in the total were 12 dogs, 11 foxes, 3 cats, and 1 bat and 1 coyote.

Jasper County in deep East Texas was hardest hit. Situated in the center of the most active focus of wildlife rabies, the county reported eight positive cases—6 foxes, 1 cat and 1 dog.

Cameron County at the southern tip of the State was second with four cases, all in dogs. Freestone, Llano, and Red River Counties experienced two cases apiece. Bexar, Grayson, Harris, Hidalgo, Marion, Presidio, Tom Green, Tyler and Wichita Counties each had a single case.

There is general agreement among health and veterinary officials that only a small fraction of the actual number of cases is reported. Thus, rabies in Texas is much more prevalent than indicated by heads submitted for the laboratory analyses.

Authorities also agree that we need not tolerate the constant threat of rabies provided we are willing to take these three tried and proved steps to erase it from the Texas scene.

1. Enforced vaccination of all dogs and cats. Some vaccines give effective protection for a year. Others, composed of egg-grown live virus, may protect for as long as three years without revaccination.

2. Adopt and enforce stringent city ordinances against stray dogs. Ownerless dogs—those without licenses or vaccinations—should be impounded.

3. Set up local programs of thinning wildlife populations in areas of overabundance. Of greatest concern in Texas are foxes and skunks.

England and the Scandinavian countries have taken these steps. So have several of our own northeastern states. Their reward has been complete freedom from one of the most dreaded of all diseases.

All three steps demand full cooperation from all pet owners and local governing officials. Without such cooperation, rabies eradication is doomed to failure before it starts.

Mrs. A. B. Hightower, Mrs. Arthur Carroll and Darcey accompanied Yvonne Chavers to San Antonio last week where she resumed her school work at Our Lady of the Lake.

YOUR MINISTER SAYS

By Rev. W. L. Brown
"Here a Little, and There a Little"

For precept must be upon precept, precept upon precept; line upon line, line upon line; here a little, and there a little" . . . Isaiah 28:10.

This scripture is referring to the time and days of Isaiah the prophet, but we may apply this text to our day also. Many people had gone astray through strong drink. They became confused with wine and erred in vision and stumbled in giving judgment. There seemed to be no place without filthiness.

The question was asked "Whom shall he teach knowledge?" then the rules were set out in God's word. Many folks are like the last few words in this text "Here a little, and there a little". Some try to attend this a little and that a little to be seen in the eyes of men a little and in order to keep in step with the Joneses.

As little as we may realize it, we may be treating our Lord in the same manner. If the truth is known the Lord is on the short end. Many are too tired to attend their church, by the time they have entangled themselves in every affair of the community. One person expressed his view point like this . . . "Some members of the church sleep a little late. They come struggling into the services a little tardy. Some of them chew gum a little, figure a little, laugh a little, listen a little, commune a little and then give a little."

After dismissal they gossip a little; then go home and forget what little they have heard. And act a little, they care little for the grandest, greatest, holiest and most precious institution on earth—the Church of our Lord Jesus Christ. I may have exaggerated a little—but will you think on this a little" . . .

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hallum and Jon Dungan spent the weekend in Odessa the guests of Mrs. Margaret Dungan.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Savell of San Angelo were in Sonora during the weekend guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Miers Savell and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bishop.

bank of Lowrey Draw, and a levee was constructed on Murphy Draw in an effort to prevent water from following an old slough south of the railroad tracks. These measures are still effective on small rains, but would be useless to control a major flood.

Application For Federal Assistance

With devastating floods occurring frequently over the United States the Federal Congress enacted Public Law 566 in 1955, under which eligible communities could secure federal assistance in building flood prevention structures. Under the original law local communities were required to pay approximately 25 per cent of construction costs, in addition to furnishing easements, rights-of-way, etc.

With the past flood record of Sonora and evident potential danger as a background, plus the 17 lives and 4 to 7 million dollar property loss at Ozona as a reminder, the supervisors of the Edwards Plateau soil conservation district decided early in 1956 that local people should be reminded of the danger and informed regarding possible protection under Public Law 566.

The first step in securing flood protection under Public Law 566 was to submit a request for assistance, which included a preliminary investigation to determine eligibility. The Edwards Plateau SCD supervisors were joined by Sutton County, the City of Sonora, and the Sonora Lions Club in requesting assistance. Since over one half of the Dry Devil's River watershed is in Schleicher County, local sponsors were also joined in the request by Schleicher County and the Eldorado Divide Soil Conservation District.

The application for planning assistance on Dry Devil's River and Lowrey Draw was submitted on February 23, 1956, to the Soil Conservation Service, the USDA agency designated to do flood prevention work under Public Law 566.

In June 1956, a team of three Soil Conservation Service technicians made a "preliminary survey" of flood problems on Dry Devil's River and Lowrey Draw, to determine eligibility for flood prevention planning assistance. In order to be eligible under Public Law 566 a proposed project must show at least one dollar's reduction in flood damages for each flood prevention construction dollar spent. After a three day study of the cost of dams necessary to control both draws, and the estimated reduction in flood damage to Sonora property, the group reported that the project including both draws would NOT qualify, since control would cost more than estimated reduction in flood damages. They admitted that the costs versus benefits was close, but not favorable.

Their report indicated, however that control of Lowrey Draw alone appeared to be feasible and justified, with a cost-benefit ratio of approximately 1:1.25.

Under the existing circumstance in June 1956, local sponsors of the project were not too disappointed at the fact that work on Dry Devil's River would not qualify. Under the THEN CURRENT Public Law 566, local people were required to furnish approximately 25 per cent of construction costs, plus normal maintenance, easements, etc. Since the dams required to control both draws would cost some 2 million dollars it was unthinkable to assume that a drought plagued community could raise $500,000 to help finance the project.

Broncos Win Over Eldorado 46-40

By Frank Joe Potmesil

The Sonora Broncos won their second district game in Eldorado February 11, 46 to 40. The Broncos, behind until the third quarter, pulled ahead two points and then widened the margin to six points in the fourth quarter to win the game.

The game, very close throughout, started out with Potmesil scoring two and ended with Potmesil scoring the last two points. Jerry Potmesil was high for Sonora with 14. Freddy Fields followed with 10. John Ed Nevill and Gene Brodhead had 8 points each.

Coach Charles Lamb commented, "It seems as though this was the first game they actually wanted to win."

Lamb also expressed the team's thanks to G. C. (Son) Allison for the meal served the team after the game.

an initial donation to the hospital, he was not saying that was all he would donate, but that it was his intention to do much more. He died on April 12, 1948, and it was then learned that he had left a large portion of his estate to this hospital. In addition to the gifts by Roy Hudspeth, the Federal Government contributed toward the construction and furnishings of the hospital.

The contract for the construction of the hospital was let in January 1950, and the hospital was completed, furnished and opened for operation on July 1, 1951.
