Sales Of Banquet Tickets Pick Up

Ticket sales began to pick up late this week for the annual state Junior Chamber of Commerce Five Outstanding Young Texans banquet, which is scheduled for Saturday evening in Snyder.

The banquet will start at 6:30 p.m. Saturday in the high school cafeteria, followed by an 8 p.m. program in the high school auditorium, with Frank Pace, former secretary of the Army, as main speaker, and Phil Regan, nationally-known Irish tenor, as guest entertainer.

Close to 600 tickets have been sold and the Jaycees here are prepared to handle 500 more. Local residents began to buy the tickets as the banquet time neared.

Jaycees here say there is still plenty of room in motels here for out-of-town persons who will be staying overnight. A large group of persons from other points in Texas are expected here to see the five men chosen as outstanding young Texans honored at the banquet. Those include all state Jaycee officers and directors, headed by Ed Stumpf of Houston, president.

The $3.50 tickets are on sale here at either bank, by individual Jaycees, and they can be reserved at 3-6592.

Bob Littlefield, Bill Wise, and Mel Zane Gilbert, three banquet committeemen, will be in Midland tomorrow to visit the Jaycees there and invite them to the banquet.

Guests are expected to begin arriving here tomorrow for the banquet. During activities of the day Saturday, the city's state-wide publicity will include coverage by radio, television, and newspaper. Snyder's Station KSNY has offered to feed banquet coverage to San Antonio's KENS, and there will possibly be other radio coverage. Station KDUB-TV of Lubbock will have cameras here, as will "Texas In Review," a weekly television program. All the state's larger newspapers, along with a number of area papers, will be represented here.

Natural Gas Bill Studied By Senators

WASHINGTON (AP)—Possible effects on consumer rates remained the big issue today as senators debated a bill to remove producer prices of natural gas from direct federal control.

Sen. Pastore (D-RI) told the Senate yesterday "The sky is the limit" for gas prices to consumers if the bill is pased. Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson (Tex) replied that a year and a half of regulation of producers by the Federal Power Commission had brought consumers "less gas at a higher price."

Sen. Daniel (D-Tex) contended that only about a tenth of what household consumers pay for gas goes to interstate pipeline and lotional average. He said the rest goes to interstate pipeline and local distributors.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill), an opponent, replied that might be true, but that FPC figures show producers receive 23 per cent of all money spent for natural gas, if the totals include payments from commercial and industrial users along with domestic customers.

Snyder Crash Injures Three

Three persons were injured in automobile accidents here yesterday afternnon and this morning, but none were believed seriously hurt.

Police said that John Paul Jones, Abilene Air Force Base, and Joseph E. Allemond of Snyder, were taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Bolger Ambulance yesterday afternoon following an accident at 4:23 p.m. The accident occured in the 2900 block of Avenue K, involving cars driven by Stanley M. Lenamon, 18, Route 1, Snyder, and Lee A. Davis, 41-year-old Negro who lives at 3300 Avenue K.

Golda Mae Allen, Odessa Hotel, Snyder, was slightly injured about 8 o'clock this morning in an automobile accident involving the 1951 Chevrolet sedan driven by her father, Amber Fuqua Allen, 46, Odessa Hotel, and a 1952 Studebaker sedan driven by Bobby Allen McAfee, 3903 Muriel Drive. Both cars were heavily damaged.

The accident occured at the intersection of Avenue S and Twenty-sixth Street.

Arab, Israel Peace Moves Are Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. and British officials have agreed it is vitally important to make peace between Israel and the Arab states in the next few months.

A joint effort to strengthen the whole Middle East against Russia's cold war offensive may take the form of a declaration of hope for peace by President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Eden when they confer here at the end of the month.

Preliminary to those sessions, officials of the State Department and the British Foreign Office are winding up today an intensive study of Middle Eastern problems.

It appears a maximum effort will be made to bring the Israeli and Arab governments, particularly Egypt, into negotiations.

Some of the officials feel the best hope of peace lies in the next few months, since the military balance between Israel and the Arab states has not yet been seriously upset by the flow of Communist arms from Czechoslovakia to Egypt.

The Israeli government is deeply concerned over growing Egyptian military strength. Egypt, on the other hand, needs peace to undertake extensive economic development, a great new dam on the Upper Nile at Aswan.

Dulles Controversy Sidestepped By Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today voiced complete faith in Secretary of State Dulles but declined to get into the controversy over Dulles' "brink of war" interview.

Eisenhower told a news conference he has not read the Life Magazine article in which Dulles was quoted as saying administration policy has prevented war in Asia three times and that "the ability to get to the verge without getting into the war is the necessary art."

Eisenhower said his own view is that, in waging peace, the country has got to stand firmly on essential matters. And if that brings on the danger of a conflict because of aggressive actions by others, he said, you can regard that as a brink.

Nonetheless, Eisenhower said, when it comes to war he would go before Congress and say what he thought.

Before the President stated his views Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said he and other Democrats "will pursue our efforts to get a clear outline of administration foreign policy."

Two Republicans sometimes critical of certain aspects of administration foreign policy joined, meanwhile, in defense of Secretary of State Dulles' views as set forth in a controversial Life magazine article.

It quoted Dulles as saying Eisenhower administration policy prevented war in Asia on three occasions, and as saying "the ability to get to the verge (of war) without getting into the war is the necessary art."

Without disclaiming any of the direct quotations attributed to him, Dulles told a news conference Tuesday that the article was necessarily oversimplified in its emphasis on some aspects of foreign policy. He said too that it gave him undue credit.

Senate GOP Leader Knowland of California took the Senate floor late yesterday to support Dulles, saying, "The idea of preventing war by preventing enemy miscalculation is basic and fundamental to peace."

And Chairman Bridges (NH) of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, like Knowland an occasional critic of Dulles' actions, told a TV interviewer he was in full agreement with Dules that the United States "must take calculated risks for peace."

Humphrey, in an interview, stuck by his claim that Dulles made "a catastrophic mistake that is having worldwide repercussions."

"We ought to have a clear statement from Secretary Dulles as to just what our foreign policy is," he said. "If he expects bipartisan support, he ought to let Congress know what course this government intends to pursue."

Thomas Tells Of Seaplane

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary Charles S. Thomas said today the Navy may have, in its huge Seamaster seaplane, an aircraft capable of future atomic flight.

The SeaMaster is an experimental plane now powered by non-atomic jet engines. One test model crashed a few weeks ago in Chesapeake Bay near the mouth of the Potomac River, but a second plane is under construction.

The Navy is reported conviced of the plane's worth once it is perfected. Meanwhile, other experiments are under way to develop an atomic engine for aircraft.

Thomas, in testimony prepared for the House Armed Services Committee supporting a 1½-billion-dollar navy ship construction bill, said:

"The large hull of the new SeaMaster type of jet seaplane may be the airframe which will take aloft the first nuclear power plant."

POLIO VICTIM GETS EAGLE SCOUT AWARD—Toby Craddock, of Corus Christi, Texas, crippled since he was stricken by polio at the age of 3, received his Eagle Scout award in a televised court of honor. The son of Mrs. Betty Craddock, Toby hiked 20 miles on crutches in 12 hours to complete the requirements. He also made five 10-mile hikes and a 500-yard swim to fulfill requirements.

No Decision Made On Running Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he has no objection to entry of his name in the New Hampshire or presidential primaries in other states. But said he still has not made up his mind whether to run for a second term.

Eisenhower told a jammed news conference—his first in Washington since his Sept. 24 heart attack—that he will announce his decision "as soon as it is firmly fixed in my mind."

He added:

"I shall strive to see that it is based as to my best judgment on the good of our country."

Anticipating a barrage of political questions at this first Washington meeting with newsmen since last Aug. 4, Eisenhower came to today's conference with a prepared statement dealing with his political future.

It was in the form of an official reply to formal notice that his name has been entered in the March 13 New Hampshire presidential primary, the nation's first.

It was a whopping victory in New Hampshire which gave Eisenhower his first big boost toward the Republican presidential nomination four years ago.

In addition to the New Hampshire primary, his name already has been entered this year in the one to be held in Illinois April 10.

Petitions by New Hampshire citizens entered Eisenhower's name in that state.

In his reply to formal notice of the action, he said he was grateful for their confidence and added: "I do not feel I should interpose any objection to such entry."

His statement dealt only with New Hampshire.

But later in the conference, Eisenhower said in reply to a question that he would take the same stand—that is, he would have no objection—to entry of his name in any of the state presidential primaries.

Public Hearing On Auto Sale Abuses Starts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Backed by a poll of retail auto dealers, a Senate subcommittee launches public hearings today on charges of abuses in auto sales.

Sen. Monroney (D-Okla), chairman of a Commerce subcommittee on automobile marketing, released in advance of the session a poll of retail dealers showing widely held views that "bootlegging," "phantom freight" and other practices must be curbed.

The subcommittee's questionnaire was answered by 19,113 of the nation's 42,000 dealers.

Of those who replied, 13,749 endorsed "congressional study or federal legislation with regard to automobile dealers' problems."

Called as the first witness was George Romney, president of American Motors Corp., which makes Hudson and Nash cars.

Romney said in a prepared statement he believes "many car customers are developing a 'customer beware' attitude as a result of horsetrading practices that have characterized new car selling in the postwar period."

"I believe the automobile industry as a whole has suffered in public esteem as a result," he continued. "I believe many dealers are disgusted at the methods and ethics of current automobile marketing practices. . ."

He said his company has adopted a new policy designed to give its dealers a bigger voice in car selling problems.

"Bootlegging" was defined by the subcommittee as discount sales of cars by regular dealers to nonfranchised dealers for resale.

In the questionnaire, 11,52 dealers said "bootlegging" was seriously detrimental to their business. Most of them blamed overproduction and pressure from the factory to take more cars than needed.

Lobby Control Laws Planned

AUSTIN (AP)—Senate investigators voted unanimously today to seek information on which "some good workable laws" on control of lobbying and influence peddling might be established in Texas.

On motion of Sen. Johnnie Rogers of Austin, the Senate committee asked the Texas Legislative Council to compile information on what other states have done to meet the lobbying problem.

House investigators agreed to "lay out on the table" in open meetings any insurance industry connection they might have.

Chairman Wade Spilman of McAllen said no member of the committee had any connection with U.S. Trust and Guaranty or any other company that has been investigated up to now.

Spilman said he wanted the House inquiry to be "the people's investigation" and that anyone in Texas who has any information to offer will be welcomed.

The House committee promised to "develop all the facts" out in the open. Spilman said each member of the committee is willing to waive any immunity he may have and is ready to go before any grand jury on facts that are developed.

Nine legislators or former legislators now have been disclosed as getting fees from the shattered U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co. of Waco.

The five committeemen wheeled quickly into action.

Rep. Jack Welch of Marlin put the original motion to send the House investigators into action. Rep. Scott McDonald of Fort Worth moved to hold the meetings in the open.

Other members of the committee are Rep. Wade Spilman of McAllen, chairman, and Reps. Jesse Osborn of Muleshoe and Reagan Huffman of Marshall.

Spilman in presenting the question of open or closed meetings recalled that Sen. Searcy Bracewell of Houston had suggested it. Bracewell resigned from the Senate Investigating Committee in opposition to secret sessions.

The total number of legislators or former legislators who accepted fees from defunct U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co. of Waco has grown to nine.

Kind Hearted Bandit

DENVER (AP)—One of the two men who held up Bill Sparks was more kind hearted than his partner. Sparks said the man who held the gun was so irritated at finding Sparks' wallet moneyless that he threatened to shoot him in the leg. But the gunman's companion talked him out of it and they vanished.

Ike Tosses Hot Ridgway Potato In Laps Of Wilson And Radford

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today, in regard to criticism by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, that if there were any misstatements in his 1954 State of the Union message they should be taken up with Secretary of Defense Wilson and Adm. Arthur Radford—not with the President.

Eisenhower made the statement at a news conference when asked about Ridgway's magazine article statement that as Army chief of staff he did not go along with the military cuts proposed in that message even though the message said the defense program had been approved unanimously by the joint chiefs of staff.

Ridgway also contended, in the Saturday Evening Post article, that he had been put under pressure to fit his ideas on Army needs into a "preconceived politico-military 'party line'" based on budgetary considerations. He said domestic politics was involved.

Eisenhower said such a thing would be contrary to the policies he has followed in his military career.

On the question of unanimity among the Joint Chiefs of Staff Eisenhower said every section of a state of the union message is sent to the department involved so that every item can be checked.

And he said that if any error was discovered in the 1954 message the reporters should see Wilson and Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Wilson told a news conference Tuesday it is his memory that Ridgway was correct in claiming he did not concur in the decision on the level of Army forces for fiscal 1955.

Radford, talking with newsmen today on his return from a world-wide inspection trip, said "as far as I can recall" acceptance of the manpower plans was unanimous.

Eisenhower said he has been getting all sorts of advice—some of it deeply felt but narrowly conceived—ever since 1940. And he said that if he had followed all the advice he got he never would have got across the Atlantic during World War II, much less across the English Channel.

Ridgway has been voicing his opposition to the manpower cuts ever since the decision was being reached. Under news conference questioning at that time Eisenhower described the general's views as "parochial," meaning limited to his own service sphere without consideration of all the factors.

Ridgway himself has said he is willing to tell Congress about his budgetary problems as the Army's uniformed chief.

Snyder Man Is Acquitted

A district court jury returned a verdict of not guilty at 2:30 a.m. today in the trial of Rufus Miles, 41-year-old Snyder man on an indictment as a principal in the Oct. 2, 1955, death of Tommy (Stumpy) Porch, and conspiracy to kill Porch.

The jury was out for almost three hours after the state and defense finished arguments and closed at 11:45 p.m. The case had lasted all day, beginning at 9 a.m. with examination of the jury panel. Testimony was started right after noon and lasted until 9:30 p.m.

A total of 30 witnesses were questioned in the case, eight called by the state and 22 by the defense.

Miles's wife, Mrs. Vercie Miles, is indicted for the murder of Porch and scheduld to go on trial within a few days.

Renal B. Rosson, district attorney, aided by Wayland Holt, county attorney, made up the prosecution, while defense was by C. F. Sentell, aided by C. E. McGaw. Judge Sterling Williams presided.

State's witnesses were Pearl Lee James, who was present at the shooting of Porch; Martha Holland Hill, owner of the building in which the killing occurred; Alton (Buck) Shaw, also present at the shooting; A. E. Crowley, policeman who went to the scene immediately after Porch was killed; Robert Durst, who talked to Rufus Miles before the shooting; Willie Miles, who is Rufus Miles' half brother and was present at the shooting, and who testified as to the pistol used in the shooting; Bill Love, sheriff's deputy who took a statement from Rufus Miles; and Carl Ballard, cafe owner who was employer of Porch for 10 years.

Witnesses for the defense included J. C. Smith, who was present in a "scuffle" Miles and Porch had the night before the killing; Frankie D. James, C. B. Saunders, Pete Davis, all of whom were also present at that time; and a long list of character witnesses, including Tollie Faver, E. E. Wallace, Dan Hamil, Ed Miller, Jesse Riggins, Cama Snead, Georgia Mae Collins, Lacy Cornelius, Sarah Oliver, Lillian Durst, Gene Dulaney, M. M. Clark, Mrs. Wanda Holland, Mrs. Loraine Lackey, Mrs. Frances Machen, Mrs. L. L. Norris, and Ted Jones. Three of the character witnesses said they did not know Miles' reputation.

Miles was also placed on the stand.

Briefly, testimony brought out that: Rufus Miles and Pete Davis were engaged in a card game on the night of Oct. 1, and several other men were present in the room including Tommy Porch. An argument between Miles and Porch developed, and during the argument Porch flashed a knife and made threats against Miles. J. C. Smith, one of the men in the room, persuaded Porch, partly by force, to leave.

Miles left the scene of the scuffle, went to Clay Bros. Hotel, where a Saturday night dance was in progress, and he and his wife went home. They talked briefly that night about getting a gun, and the next morning Rufus Miles asked Willie Miles where he could buy a gun. Since he could buy no gun on Sunday, he asked Willie for use of Willie's gun but was refused use of it. Rufus Miles, knowing where the gun was hidden, later got the gun and carried it in his pocket for several hours, later giving it to his wife. On Sunday afternoon, Rufus Miles and his wife went inside the Holland Cafe. While they were there, Mrs. Miles shot and killed Porch.

Rufus Miles, in his testimony, said that Porch had threatened to kill him the night before "the next time he saw me" and that Porch was advancing on him with his hand in his picket, giving indication that he might be ready to pull a knife from his pocket, when his wife shot Porch. Some testimony in the case was that Porch made no hostile moves at the time he was shot.

Miles testified that he had attemped to avoid Porch after being threatened. The state pointed out that testimony showed that the Holland Cafe was a favorite hangout of Porch and contended that Miles would not have gone there if he had been trying to avoid the man. Miles said the reason he and his wife went there was to find a ride to their home several blocks from that part of town.

Miles' statement in evidence said that he and his wife had agreed that it would be better if it were said that she had secured the gun rather than he, that there was talk that it would be lighter on a Negro woman if she were caught with a gun than it would on a Negro man.

The defense, in its argument, indicated that a person has a right to protect himself and his family, that it is "not necessary that the danger in fact exist" when referring to Miles' testimony that he thought Porch would pull a knife on him at the time of the shooting.

Jurymen were Roy Lashaway, C. L. Calloway, Clifton Thomas, H. A. Flournoy, Vernon Young, Robert E. Dawson, Jess Green, D. M. Hire, Gene Best, W. D. Everett, Jr., Delbert Hirst, and D. R. Scott.

The school will be held in the corporation courtroom of the police station at the city hall.

'Aunt Josie' Has Birthday

MANCHESTER, Ky. (AP) — Aunt Josie Sizemore, 109-year-old former midwife, is mighty proud of the more than 1,000 babies she delivered "up and down them hollows and branches."

Even more proudly, she proclaims she has a "home in heaven that nobody can rob me of."

Reared an orphan, the sprightly widow observed her birthday last November at nearby Ashers Fork, where she lives with a daughter.

And though she has outlived her husband by 43 years and is ready for that "home in heaven," she doesn't sit quietly by waiting. She gets plenty of exercise and occasionally visits one of more than 500 direct descendants.

Death Toll In Bloody Four-Day Bombay Rioting Climbs To 37

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Thousands of burning, looting rioters surged through a 15 - square - mile area of Bombay today, continuing a bloody four-day outburst of violence and terror.

(Sources at the Home Ministry in New Delhi said six persons were reported killed in the renewal of the riots this morning and said that in all a total of 37 persons had been reported killed in the disorders this week in Bombay state.)

Officials said they believed the Communists were trying to set up a "parallel government" under cover of the rioting. Left-wing strongarm men were reported infiltrating the demonstrations from the Satara district. A "parallel government" was set up in that district during the 1942 nationalist outbreaks against British rule.

Responsible citizens made ready to defend this city. S. K. Patil, Bombay leader of the ruling Congress party, announced a "peace brigade" of armed citizens would be organized to help the police combat the flaring outbreaks.

Observers said the continuing outburst was the most serious in recent Indian history.

The trouble broke out Monday in protest of the government's plan to reorganize the Indian states along language lines. This would make Bombay city a separate small state under the direct administration of New Delhi. Leaders of the demonstrators demand that the city be part of the separate state of Marathi - speaking peoples.

Unofficial reports said 25 persons were killed and several hundred wounded yesterday. But a government radio broadcast today put the number of dead at 10.

Seven persons had been reported killed earlier in Bombay state, three in Bombay and four at Balgaum.

The biggest concerted attack came last night in the Sewri slum area, where hundreds of Marathi-speaking Indians battled police. Crowds of demonstrators opened simultaneous attacks at 10 p.m. and police said they opened fire each time.

Marathi-language groups make up about half of Bombay's nearly three million population. The other major language is Gujarati.

In New Delhi, a government spokesman said federal authorities were helpless to move in unless Bombay authorities asked army intervention.

Sabotage between Bombay and Poona paralyzed rail communication between the major west coast port and central and southern India.

American evangelist Billy Graham, now on a visit to India, said he spent six hours wandering around Bombay yesterday. Asked his reaction to the violence, he replied: "The human heart is the same all over the world, the only difference is in the color of our skins. I like India because it is a wonderful place."

Graham said he saw streetcars stoned, automobiles burned and an elderly shopkeeper beaten with sticks for keeping his store open.

But he said he "generally had a fine time," and even some of the people who seemed in an angry mood smiled back at him when he approached them smiling and with hands folded Hindu style.

"I am not afraid because I believe that God is with us," Graham said. "I have no fear."

Anti-Tampico Campaign Is Claimed In Texas

TAMPICO (AP)—A State Tourist committeeman asked the government yesterday to protest what he said was an anti-Tampico campaign in Texas.

Joaquin Cicero asked the President, the interior minister and Tamaulipeas Gov. Horacio Teran to protest.

Cicero said he has just returned from Texas, and said newspapers and some businessmen were urging tourists not to visit Tampico because of unhealthy conditions following the 1955 hurricanes and floods.

No Progress Reported In Peace Meeting

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) —U. Alexis Johnson and Wang Ping-nan special ambassadors of the United States and Red China, met for the 33rd time here today, but reported no progress in their negotiations for renunciation of the use of force in the Formosa area.

The two envoys engaged in a bitter exchange yesterday when Wang broke the secrecy of their talks after 24 weeks. He issued a statement asserting agreement by the United States and the Chinese Communists to use only peaceful means of settling disputes was blocked by U. S. insistence on putting Formosa in the American area of self-defense. Johnson retorted that Wang's 2,500-word statement distorted and perverted the facts of their negotiations.

Johnson was commenting on a 2,500-word statement from Peiping envoy Wang Ping-nan, who has been negotiating with the American ambassador here for the past six months.

Some officials in Washington believed the Chinese statement was the first step toward breaking off the talks, but the ambassadors scheduled their 33rd negotiation meeting today.

Wang's statement declared that an agreement to settle U.S.-Chinese differences by peaceful means was being blocked only by U.S. insistence that it has the right to keep Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist regime on Formosa.

Wang restated Peiping's claim that the "liberation by the Chinese people of their own territory of Taiwan (Formosa) is China's sovereign right and internal affair."

The Communist envoy declared "our side absolutely cannot accept" that the United States has "inherent right of individual and collective self-defense" in Formosa.

The statement, which broke an official blackout on news from the talks, called for speedy conclusion of a joint pledge to use peaceful means in settling disputes. It also called for agreement to hold further talks to arrange (1) the lifting of the U.S. embargo on American trade with Red China and (2) a conference between Secretary of State Dulles and Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En-lai.

U.S. officials generally have been cool to such a meeting, holding it would amount to recognition of the Red Chinese government.

Johnson said Wang's statement "to some extent reflects the progress that it has thus far been possible to make in seeking a commitment by the Chinese Communists to renounce the use of force to achieve objectives.

Deadline On Plumbing Licenses Is Reported

Deadline for renewal of state plumbing licenses is Feb. 1, Roy Dunlap, Snyder city manager, said.

"The plumbing ordinance of Snyder and the plumbing license law of 1947 requires that all plumbers working in the city have a current license. All plumbing contractors must have their master license and plumbers working for contractors must have their journeyman license," Dunlap said.

Renewal applications may be obtained from the city plumbing inspector's office.

In the event a license is renewed after the deadline a deferred renewal fee must be paid in addition to the regular fee.

Ave Attacks Ike Policy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, in a sharp attack on President Eisenhower, said today it was "a dangerous thing for our leaders to gloss over the truth and encourage complacency" about peaceful relations with Russia.

"We should not be taken in" by Moscow, he said in a prepared speech at a luncheon meeting of the Commonwealth Club.

"We all have a responsibility," Harriman declared, "to demand a realistic appraisal of the situation and measures for dealing with it."

Harriman said that Secretary of State Dulles' "recent statement that he and the President have three times led us to the brink of war" showed "why our friends and allies have been concerned that we were becoming militaristic and reckless and why they have been drawing away from us."

The speech was the first of three to be given by Harriman in California today and tomorrow. He will speak twice in Los Angeles tomorrow.

Harriman is a self-declared "inactive" candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. His appearances in California are regarded as moves in furtherance of his candidacy.

Abilene Couple Will Be Honored With Open House

ABILENE, Jan. 19—Children of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Roach, Abilene, including Mrs. Mabel Brock, Snyder, will observe the couple's golden wedding anniversary here Jan. 22.

Open house, from 2 to 5 p.m., will be in the home of a daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Galbraith, 309 Elm Cove.

Mr. and Mrs. Roach have been residents of Abilene since 1925.

Mr. and Mrs. Roach moved here from Eldorado in Schleicher County. Roach and his brother, Matt Roach, ranched near Eldorado, later adding another brother, A. J. Roach, as a third partner.

John and Matt Roach bought ranch land June 5, 1905. A. J. and John remained partners for 30 years and had one bank account, Roach Brothers. More land was added to the ranch until about 1920. John Roach retired in 1925.

Mrs. Roach, then Pearl Cloud of Gatesville, arrived at the ranch to visit her sister, who was married to A. J. Roach. She traveled by stage coach from San Angelo to Eldorado. While visiting her sister, she was married to John Roach on Jan. 22, 1906 at the ranch headquarters.

Mr. and Mrs. Roach met in Gatesville, where she lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Cloud. Roach lived at Lometa then and carried a load of horses to Gatesville each fall.

Roach was born in Waxford, Ireland, coming to the United States when he was seven years old, with his mother and six brothers and sisters. His father was already here having lived near Lometa about three years. His father died about two years after they arrived in Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Roach attend the University Baptist Church.

Their children include Mrs. Galbraith, Mrs. John Cook of Dallas, and Mrs. Brock of Snyder. Their five grandchildren are Gerald, Kay and Gary Galbraith, Mrs. D. M. Cogdell Jr. of Snyder and Carol J. Cook of Smith College, North Hampton, Mass. They have two great-grandchildren, Connie and Carol Cogdell.

All their children will be present for the celebration. Members of the houseparty will be Mrs. V. Z. Matthews, Mrs. Theron Guffey, Mrs. Blanche Connally, Mrs. Joe English, Mrs. Billie Rudd, Mrs. Tom Webb, Mrs. Addye Mae Nance, Mrs. C. E. Leon of Rotan, Mrs. J. E. Geer of Rule and Mrs. Eldred Roach of Ozona. They will wear corsages of gardenias.

Out of town guests will attend from Eldorado, Snyder, Ozona, Gatesville, Rule, Rotan, San Angelo, Lorsine and Sweetwater.

Mrs. Roach will wear a pale blue satin dress with pearl and rhinestone beaded bodice. She will wear a corsage of white orchids and rhinestone jewelry.

The table in the living room will be laid with a gold and white floor length cloth and centered with a high floral arrangement of blending pink blossoms. On the coffee table will be a floral arrangement centered with pictueres of Mr. and Mrs. Roach made 50 years, mounted in velvet.

The wedding cake will be an open Bible shape, inscribed with "1906–1956" and names of the couple.

Students Give Program For Snyder Study Club

Students from the Lincoln Elementary School gave the program for the Art Guild Study Club on Tuesday in the home of Mrs. M. W. Pilcher on the Lubbock Highway.

A brief history of negro spirituals was given by Will Clay, Jr., 14 years old, who is a 7th Grade student.

He said that "spirituals are religious songs which have been made famous by the negroes of the southern United States. The negroes love for rhythm and song to let them put their feelings and memories into their singing."

"Spirituals were little known outside the southern states until after the negro was freed from slavery. Now they are one of the best known forms of American music. Such famous singers as Marion Anderson and Roland Hayes have helped to accomplish this."

The following numbers were then rendered: "Deep River," "Let My People Go," "Steal Away," "Sinners Don't Let This Harvest Pass," "Swing Low Sweet Chariot," "Let Us Break Bread Together," "I Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray," and "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen."

Each student was given a gift, and Miss Annice Hawkins, music teacher at the Lincoln School was given a red carnation corsage.

Undergirding Prosperity

If there is any thought of recession or serious "readjustment" in the American economy anytime soon, the bellwethers of industry aren't showing sign of it.

Biggest bellwether of them all is the steel industry, the indispensable ingredient of nearly every segment of the national economy, "without which, not." As Walter Johnson the Abilene banker, said in a television review of prospects for 1956 last Sunday, steel production for the first half of the year has already been allocated.

But steel isn't content merely to rub its hands in the presence of overflowing order books. Far from it. Benjamin F. Fairless, president of the Iron and Steel Institute, announced this week that a survey indicates the industry will spend about $3 billion in the next three years to expand its productive capacity by 15 million tons.

In the last decade steel expansion has averaged 3.5 million tons a year at a cost of $7 billion for expansion and modernization. Since the first world war capacity has been increased 40 percent to a present total of 128 million tons annually. When the newest projects are completed the total will stand at 143 million tons—one of the best assurances the U. S. has that if another war comes, this basic ingredient of war, peace and prosperity won't be found wanting.

General Motors Corp. beat the steel industry to the headlines by several hours, by announcing that it would spend a billion dollars on expansion and plant improvements this year. This might serve to take some of the edge off rumors that the auto industry had over-produced, and might be expected to pull in its horns in 1956. If so, Harlow Curtice, last year's Man of the Year apparently hasn't heard it.

The promise of a balanced budget—at least the possibility of it—contained in President Eisenhower's budget message was thus neatly undergirded by these optimistic reports from two of the nation's industrial bellwethers.

Right To Work Law

Five years ago the Texas Supreme Court upheld the state's "right to work" law, adopted in 1947, as constitutional. In a case originating in Amarillo certain employes of the Santa Fe and the railroad itself sought to enjoin a labor union from forcing them to join the union. The claim was raised that the statute has been superseded in the railroad labor field by a subsequent act of Congress.

The district court granted the injunction prayer for, but the Court of Civil Appeals reversed the lower court and dissolved the injunction. The matter thus went to the Texas Supreme Court, which announced in October that it would delay its own decision until a somewhat similar "right to work" suit originating in Nebraska is decided by the U. S. Supreme Court.

Attorney General John Ben Shepperd, who had intervened in the Nebraska suit in behalf of Texas, insists the Texas high court should make its own decision without waiting on the ground that the Nebraska case is weaker than Texas', and the U. S. high court should have the facts as developed in Texas before it before deciding.

A considerable section of the Texas press agrees with Mr. Shepperd in thinking that this state's "right to work" law and the vast amount of accumulated facts in connection with its workings should be placed before the U. S. Supreme Court on its own merits, and not be merely a supplement to the Nebraska pleading.

If the high court decision rested solely on the Nebraska case, without the direct presentation of the case of Texas and perhaps others of the 15 states having similar laws the entire structure of state "right to work" laws might come tumbling down.

At stake is the issue whether railway workers can be forced to join a labor union in order to enjoy employment when a state law forbids compulsory union membership.

Certainly the issue is vital to the integrity of the "right to work" law and Texas is entitled to a full voice in its resolution.

Free Wheeling

IVY, Va. (AP)—Westbound traffic filled one lane of a two-lane highway. There was a high bank to his right. State trooper John S. Pannell saw a wheel come off a trailer behind a truck and come straight towad him. He stopped his car but the wheel hit smack between his headlights, pushing the radiator back over the engine. Damage $300, but no injuries.

Controversy Over Epitaph On Arizona Tombstone To Be Revived In February

By JACK LEFLER

TOMBSTONE, Ariz., Jan. 14 (AP)—Is it true that Jack Williams "done his damndest"?

Does he lie in rocky Boothill Cemetery here among a company of Arizona badmen and respected pioneers?

Did a long-gone headboard on his grave carry the "done his damndest" epitaph?

Controversy over these questions was fanned from a flicker to a flame a few years ago by former President Truman.

And it is expected to break ot again when Truman visits Tombstone, the old frontier mining town which boasts it is "too tough to die."

The former President plans to be in Arizona late this month or early in February. He wants to take a look at Boothill Cemetery, the stark resting place of many desperadoes who died with their boots on.

In April 1952, after announcing he would not seek re-election, Truman referred to an epitaph he said was on a Boothill grave:

"There are probably a million people who could have done the job better than I did," he said, "but I had the job and I had to do it, and I always quote an epitaph on a tombstone in a cemetery in Tombstone, Ariz.:

"'Here lies Jack Williams. He done his damndest.'"

It's hard to say whether the immediate uproar was due to politics or love of historical accuracy.

Old-timers took sides on whether Jack Williams actually was buried in Boothill and whether the epitaph ever was there.

Mayor Walley Foster of Tombstone and the President traded letters on the subject. Foster told Truman that no such grave ever existed. Truman retorted that the mayor was a headline hunter.

A short time later a group of citizens erected a marker in Boothill with the Jack Williams inscription, and a lot of pictures were taken. County officials ordered it removed but vandals beat them to it.

"Tombstine does not have to manufacture history," says Mayor Foster. "I do not deny there was a Jack Williams marker put in the graveyard. I do deny, however, that it had any business there. All research to date indicates Williams was not buried there."

But Frank A. Krupp Sr. of Nogales, Ariz., says he recalls seeing the epitaph on a weatherbeaten board in the cemetery in 1904.

Mrs. Jessie Robertson of Bowie, Ariz., says she took a picture of the headboard in 1948 but when she returned later she couldn't find it.

The cemetery lies just to the north of the town of Tombstone, once the rip-roaringest and richest mining camp in the West.

In the early 1880s, Tombstone was headquarters for a hell-raising crowd of miners, cowboys, gamblers and gunslingers. Six-shooters barked day and night and the need for a graveyard became immediate.

In those days, even the worst of the badmen had a dread of going to their maker with their boots on. When one fell mortally wounded, he or his friends would try to pull his boots off before he passed on.

But many went out with their boots on and were buried wearing them. That's how Boothill Cemetery got its name.

As Tombstone's heyday waned and law and order replaced the gun and the rope, the old grave yard fell into disrepair. Weeds covered the mounds of the 259 graves in the burial ground and the headboards rotted and fell away.

In the hubbub over the authenticity of Truman's favorite epitaph, the principal in the case—Jack Williams—casts but a faint shadow.

One old-timer, who spent his boyhood in Tombstone during its rousing days, says he dimly remembers that Williams was a lawyer.

But he says he hasn't the slightest idea what Jack Williams was supposed to have done his damndest about.

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

NATIVE STONE. By Edwin Gilbert. Doubleday.

Raff Bloom, Abby Austin and Vince Cole are young fellows studying architecture at Yale when this novel opens; and almost 500 pages later, when it closes, they are out in the wide world practicing architecture.

They come from contrasting backgrounds: Raff the son of a Jewish butcher and an Irish woman; Vince a New Haven "townie;" and Abby a proper Bostonian. So they go in contrasting directions, driven by a variety of ambitions, for money, reputation, honor and simply for being a bang-up good architect. They are egged on by a variety of girls and women, too:

Abby has a sister, Troy, a modern girl with no reticences; and a friend in school named Nina. Raff makes friends quickly with a nurse, Liz Carr, and another architect, Marion McBride. Vince grows fond of Troy and also of her looks, social position and money. And others pass quickly across the stage — Blanche, Phoebe, Patricia.

As in all professions, there are good men and bad; as in most novels, men and women pile in and out of lawful and sometimes unlawful beds. But thanks to the architectural lore in it, this novel mentioned knowingly: Saarinen, van der Rohe, Wright, Le Corbusier. There is also a great deal about the sort of finagling which apparently must go on before a conservative banker can be persuaded to put up money for a radically designed bank, or a liberal-minded architect can be forced, for the sake of earning a living, to do a building of which he doesn't approve.

This novel is different in another way; different from what it once was. It was distributed last season, then urgently recalled by the publisher, and now released again. Just how the revision makes it different doesn't show.

Dulles In Verbal Toe-Dance During News Conference

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—How does a secretary of state conduct himself when he walks into a room packed with newsmen anxious for straight answers on a situation for which he has been roundly criticized?

From a physical standpoint Secretary of State Dulles did very well at his news conference yesterday. He showed no signs of nervousness. But his replies left a lot to be desired. He toe-danced, verbally.

This was the situation which brought into the State Department's auditorium more newsmen than at any time since Dulles took office in 1953.

Life magazine, after a special interview with him, declared that three times in the Eisenhower administration this country had been brought to the brink of war. And it quotes Dulles directly:

"The ability to get to the verge (of war) without getting into the war is the necessary art." It was this sentence, perhaps more than anything else in Life's article, which got him a deluge of criticism, particularly from Democrats.

When the magazine appeared last week, Dulles said of the few paragraphs which quoted him directly: "The statements specifically attributed to me do not require correction from the standpoint of their substance."

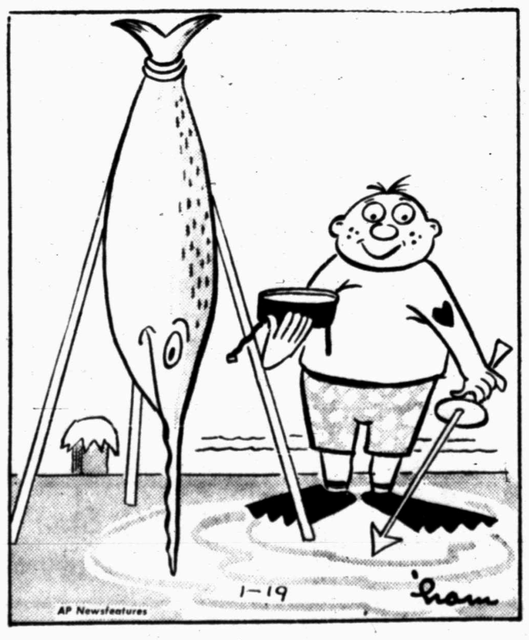

What did that mean? He was either quoted accurately in Life, word for word, or he wasn't. If he wasn't, where was the difference between what he said and what Life quoted him as saying? He hadn't made that clear with his statement.

Newsmen yesterday wanted answers to that and to other questions raised by Life. They got many vague answers. Dulles said the quotation about the art of getting to the brink of war was ambiguous.

He said it was not word for word the way he would put it for publication although it is substantially what he thinks. He said he himself had neither reviewed nor seen the story before it appeared.

Life magazine said in a statement the article was reviewed by one of Dulles' aides and it has "every conviction we quoted him accurately."

Treatment, Not Custody, Is Cited As Chief Need Of Mental Health Program

AMARILLO, Jan. 19 (AP)—Maybe even the neighbors didn't know about queer old Aunt Annie who was kept in the northeast room of the farmhouse for 50 years.

But you couldn't keep it a secret these days of apartments and five-room houses.

Mental illness must be diagnosed and treated.

Treatment, not custody—that's what the Amarillo Globe-Times found to be the dire need of the mental health program in Texas.

Unless Texas changes its ways, the Texas Research League says, it will cost the state 235 million dollars to house the mentally ill and senile.

The current figure is something over 20 million annually.

The 1975 cost estimate is based on predictions that the present 16,500 Texans in mental hospitals will multiply to 28,000 in 20 years—unless Texas substitutes treatment for custody.

Can Texas rehabilitate the mentally ill, get them out of the "human warehouses," save money, save lives?

The Amarillo Globe-Times says it can be done.

In Kansas the hospital population was reduced for five straight years. The number of Kansas mental patients decreased by 7 per cent while the national total rose by 15 per cent.

What happened in Kansas?

Briefly this: A young university student went to the Kansas State Hospital for the Insane at Topeka to collect material for a thesis. He found that a new superintendent, zealous for economy, had cut off even the drugs needed for patients. Staff members quit. More than 1,800 patients were under the care of one nurse and two doctors—one elderly and the other a dope-ridden alcoholic. A newspaper took up the crusade and for the first time Kansans learned the chaotic conditions of their state hospitals.

The Kansas governor and Legislature acted quickly. No one knew exactly what to do but funds were provided—one million dollars to train personnel, above the regular appropriations.

From that meager beginning came these results:

1. A change in thinking to "the care and treatment of the mentally ill" instead of "the custody of the insane."

2. Admission laws were changed to allow diagnosis and treatment immediately. Kansans were urged to ask for treatment before they became so ill to be life-long custodial cases.

3. A change of policy substituting "brains for bricks." Not one dollar was spent to enlarge the "human warehouses." Increased budgets went for hiring more personnel and for training psychiatrists, nurses, therapists and social workers.

4. A complete overhaul of the state social welfare programs. In 1949 Kansas had—as Texas does today—special schools for the deaf, blind and feeble-minded; homes for aged and orphans; hospitals for insane, epileptic and tubercular; and prisons. Now the program for mental health, as it touches these varied activities, is one solidified program.

Dr. George Jackson, one-time medical director of Texas State Hospitals and Special Schools, was made director of institutions for the Kansas State Board of Social Welfare.

The goal of all personnel, from aide to psychiatrist, became:

"Cure them if possible. Rehabilitate them to the point they can lead relatively normal lives. Get them out of the institution as soon as possible. Move them along the road back to reality by easy stages. Lose, if you must, to incurable insanity, win, if you can."

The Kansans found they could win a lot more often than they had.

Admissions to Kansas state hospitals have increased 400 per cent since then—proving more of the mentally ill are seeking treatment. Dismissals have increased and 82 per cent of newcomers leave after only 6 months treatment—proving the mentally ill are being rehabilitated and returned to normal life.

In 1948 more than 48 per cent of the inmates of Kansas state hospitals got a permanent dismissal—death. In 1954 the rate was down to 16 per cent and falling.

What was the cost in dollars and and cents?

The Amarillo Globe-Times found that it presently costs Kansas $189,653 less than the care of the mentally ill would have been under the pre-1949 program.

More important, the funds used have treated and rehabilitated patients instead of providing custodial care.

Furthermore the planning, researching and staffing has built a broad base for future cost decreases because Kansas now knows how to handle the mentally ill, not just furnish them hospital beds.

And the average citizen is interested in the state's health program. Ears perked up when a special committee reported that from the time the first state hospital was opened in 1866 and 1946 more Kansans were committed to "hospitals for the insane" than had graduated from the state.

Kefauver Children Don't Like To Be Conspicuous

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Estes Kefauver says the two oldest of his four youngesters were against his running again for the Democratic presidential nomination because they "don't like being conspicuous at school."

Daughter Linda, 14, is particularly shy and doesn't like to have her picture taken.

Attractive, auburn-haired Nancy Kefauver, the Tennessee senator's wife, who was often acclaimed his greatest asset when she toured the country with him during the 1952 campaign, indicated to me some weeks ago that she more or less intends to sit this one out.

She explained that the children are getting older and need one of their parents around while in "the formative stage." She said, however, she would do her share to help her husband. "But, she added, "I never did make any speeches for him. I only filled in for him in public when he got tied up with some other commitment." The hand-shaking and traveling wasn't too hard to take. It often was fun and nearly always exciting, she admitted, but she said she has always worried about being away from the children for any length of time.

Another Washington official's wife has gone into the interior decorating field following the pattern set by Mrs. Robert Kerr, wife of the Democratic senator from Oklahoma, who opened a swank shop in the capital's exclusive Georgetown section. The newcomer is Mrs. Arthur Compton, whose husband, a career diplomat, is currently head of the Austrian desk at the State Department.

Mrs. Kerr, like many interior decorators, dislikes parting with the treasures in her studio.

While there I admired a pair of extraordinarily beautiful imported Rosenthal china figures about two and a half feet tall which had been fashioned into lamps. One was the figure of a standing woman, the other was a seated woman. They were white with touches of pink, apple green and a lovely blue. They were priced in four figures.

"But they're sold," an assistant in the studio reminded me. "We're decorating an entire, huge bedroom room about them." The buyer — Mrs. Kerr.

Civilization Has Strange Effect On Pittsburgh Ape

(Ed. Note—Since Inez Robb wrote the column below, Jambo, the psychomatic gorilla, has breathed his last. We hear he is doing nip ups and swinging on the pearly gates of the gorilla happy hunting ground, and our only regret is that people around the Pittsburgth zoo will miss him down here).

By INEZ ROBB

The second most interesting convalescent in the United States today is surely Jambo, the Psychosomatic gorilla, of whom civilization in a few short years has made a sad sack. Freud should have lived so long!

Jambo, a social leader of the Highland Park Zoo in Pittsburgh, has been mighty porely for several weeks. He suffered a dramatic and alarming loss of weight. There was even speculation that Jambo had succumbed to ulcers, the badge of civilization and the wound stripe of the intelligentsia.

But it was worse even than his friends had suspected: Jambo, the experts in gorilla medicine agree, is psychomatic if not downright psycho. No other zoo but Pittsburgh's can make this claim; that is, to possessing a psychosomatic gorilla. This is aping mankind with a vengeance.

Well, sir, the sure cure prescribed for Jambo by his medicos confirms that many have suspected for a long, long time: that people are as funny to monkeys, gorillas and chimps as vice versa. Put Jambo back in his exhibition cage, his doctors have decreed, and he will be well in no time, laughing his little old pointed head off at the antics of those facinating bipeds who come to see him.

Jambo's trauma began when he developed pneumonia some weeks ago and was removed from his exhibition cage and contact with that cosmic comic, old Homa sapiens, the Milton Berle of the universe.

Oh, Jambo had the best of care, all right. Between Blue Cross and Blue Shield, he rated a private room (I should do so well!) and antibiotics. He recovered from pnuemonia in jig time. But in the process, Jambo lost his joie de vivre and his well to live.

From a happy, well-adjusted young gorilla, doing nipups and handstands in his cage in sheer joy at the capers of his visitors, Jambo was reduced to lackluster recluse, too dispirited and apathetic to bite the thermometer in two or pinch his nurse.

In alarm, he was brought to New York's Bronx Zoo for consultations with Dr. Leonard J. Goss, who is to gorillas what Dr. Charles Mayo is to men. The verdict is that Jambo's unconscious emotional disturbances, at being denied a glimpse of you and me, are manifesting themselves in the form of physical disorders.

In other words, Jambo's stomach aches because he thinks nobody loves him and his head hurts because he is oppressed by a feeling of insecurity despite those bars.

So the treatment ordered is to put Jamo back in his exhibition cage where there is a belly laugh an hour at the comics who come to see him. And if Jambo continues puny, I have a few suggestions that ought to fix him up in jig time. Just take Jambo to a wrestling match, or a six-day bicycle race, a Liberace concert, a Dodger game, or give him a week in Washington, if he can take that much comdev in one lump.

Competition Puts Premium On Top Business Executives

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Business in the last year took out three billion dollars worth of life insurance policies on owners and top executives and key employes. This brought to more than 20 billion dollars th etotal of such insurance naming as beneficiary a corporation or partner or business associate.

Annual purchases have tripled in the last six years.

Good times may have furnished the money to pay the costs, but high taxes and stiff competition that puts a premium on top management ability have helped push the purchases to new heights.

The aims of such insurance are usually to offset the business loss involved in the death of key men, or to ease the transfer of ownership at death, or to insure continuity of business during a turbulent financial period.

The Life Insurance Agency Management Assn. of Hartford, Conn., reports that its quarterly buyers' surveys show that more than 150,000 business life insurance policies were bought in 1955. The association reports that about a tenth of all adult ordinary life insurance purchased in recent months was for business needs.

RADIO-TV REPORT

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The high commands of the television networks long have had a fixed idea that what happens on their respective channels at 8 o'clock of a New York evening determines their strength.

This is an old notion that began in radio and has carried over to television. As Variety, the show business journal, points out, its currently providing all the internetwork excitement these days. You know the hot spots: Ed Sullivan on CBS Sunday evenings vs. whatever NBC throws against him; Perry Como on NBC Saturday evenings vs. Jackie Gleason on CBS. And so it goes.

Well, I have a couple of questions. To me the whole issue is an interesting example of categorical—or rigor mortis—thinking. Maybe I should be selling apples.

At any rate, my first question is: 8 o'clock where? The networks' answer is 8 o'clock in the East and 8 o'clock on the West Coast—via Kinescope. This, at least, is the method employed on several live shows originating in New York.

But what about the rest of the country? As an example, the Sullivan show, seen at 8 p.m. in the Eastern time zone, is viewed at 7 p.m. central time and 6 p.m. Pacific Coast.

But why is it important that mountain time—and 8 p.m. on the viewers on both coasts see it at 8 p.m. and unimportant whether midland and mountain audiences see it at 7 p.m. and 6 p.m.? Well, the New York experts patiently explain, there are more TV sets in the East and Far West.

That still doesn't answer the question of WHY 8 p.m. is such a sacrosanct hour in the lives of a majority of the American public.

The answer, I submit, is that 8 o'clock is of little significance beyond shouting distance of network offices in New York and Hollywood. Perhaps the best way to demonstrate that is to list here the most widely viewed TV programs, as determined by the most recently available figures from the A. C. Nielson Co. Here they are in order of popularity, with the hours they're shown in the Eastern time zone:

The $64,000 Question, 10 p.m.; the Ed Sullivan Show, 8 p.m.; I Love Lucy, 9 p.m.; Jack Benny, 7:30 p.m.; Disneyland, 7:30 p.m.; December Bride, 9:30 p.m.; Dragnet, 8:30 p.m.; You Bet Your Life, 8 p.m.; The Millionaire, 9 p.m.

In short, two of these top shows appear in what most network and agency executives consider that 8 o'clock hot spot. The most popular appears at 10 p.m.

This hassling over the 8 o'clock spot is, I submit, an intramural pastime of colossal indifference to the great American public. It's something for the boys to whoop up. Meanwhile, the public seeks and finds the entertainment it wants within reasonable viewing hours.

Senator Tells Of Accepting Trust Retainer

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—Sen. William Shireman said today he had accepted fees from the defunct U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co. of Waco.

Shireman told the Caller-Times he had been paid a $3,000 retainer to represent the company in lawsuits in this area.

He said he had never appeared for the company before the state Insurance Commission and had never attempted to wield any influence in its favor.

"I was never called on to represent them in any cases," he said.

Shireman said he was hired by Tracy DuBose, then manager of the local Trust and Guaranty office.

"I had a distinct understanding with DuBose that I was being hired as a lawyer only, and if they wanted to hire me because of my position as a state senator I would not accept the employment."

Shireman said he was on an annual retainer basis. He was hired Jan. 3, 1955, and stopped representing the company this Jan. 3.

State Reps Dewitt Hale, J. W. Cooper Jr., and Curtis Ford of Corpus Christi and Ben Glusing of Kingsville all said they had received no money from the firm and had not spoken in its behalf before any state committee or agency.

Ford said he has suggested to Rep. Wade Spilman of McAllen, chairman of the House Investigating Committee, that branch managers of the Waco company be subpoenaed to determine which legislators received fees from U.S Trust and its subsidiaries.

Ford also suggested asking all senators to testify about their dealings with the company, examining the bank accounts of all senators who were members of committees that acted on bills that would have affected the company, and determing if Insurance Commission members received funds from the firm.

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

SNYDER FOOTBALL FANS certainly don't want to miss tonight's banquet honoring the gridders of our fine city along with the outstanding players from all over the district.

You may be seeing some future All-Americans in the group of players who'll be honored tonight. It'll probably be the biggest array of football talent that will ever be assembled in Snyder under one roof at one time.

In addition to meeting these fine athletes, delicious barbecue will be served tonight, and an action-packed program is on tap.

As you know, Baylor's brand new football coach, Sam Boyd, will be the principal speaker. The reports we've heard on Boyd as an after-dinner, speaker have been good.

Boyd, we might add, was tickled "pink" when he received the invitation to speak at tonight's fete. He accepted the invite with all the graciousness one could ask.

We might remind all you Baylor exes that tonight will be an excellent chance to get acquainted with your new coach.

The program itself will be well worth the $2 admission price, not to mention the fine chow.

Reasons Given For Banquet Ticket Prices

To answer the question "why are the banquet officials charging $2 per plate when all of the beef is being furnished by G. W. Parks of Snyder Meat Co.," here are some of the reasons:

1. There is quite a bit of other expense connected with staging the banquet.

2. The Quarterback Club, co-sponsor of the banquet, sorta got in a financial strain in sponsoring the Canyon Reef basketball tournament last month which took $300 out of the club's bank account. There will be a little left of the $2 admission prices and this will go toward covering the basketball tournament loss.

3. The Quarterback Club annually sponsors a Little League team and the franchise dues for 1956 is due soon.

There may be still other reasons but these, we believe, are the main ones.

You may recall, too, that the Quarterback Club footed the bill for the special buses at Amarillo that transported special train fans from the depot to the stadium and back. If you rode that train you know how convenient it was to crawl on the buses which were waiting at the depot when the train arrived and be trasported to town to eat before the game, then to the stadium and back to the depot after the game.

This expense ran slightly over $100. This expense is usually taken care of by the host city but not Amarillo. She apparently doesn't believe in making friends and influencing people.

Tiger 5 Display 'Never-Say-Die' Spirit

Regardless of what you may think about the Tiger basketeers to date, we don't believe you could call them "quitters." The Bengal quintet doesn't know what the word means.

No one knows this more, perhaps, than Monterey, Abilene and Brownwood to name a few.

Brownwood's Lions, in the Howard Payne Invitatiinal tournament championship game New Years Eve., led the Tigers by five points going into the final quarter, 47-42, and with Snyder's Jack Spikes out of the game via the personal foul route.

The Tigers fought back in those last eight minutes and snatched a 54-53 victory from the Lions.

Monterey, of course, got out "alive" despite the Tigers' fourth-quarter comeback last Saturday night but the Plainsmen were mighty tickled when the final buzzer sounded that had them out front by a mere point, 77-76.

Monterey went into the final quarter holding a 12-point lead, 62-50, and was still leading by that margin with four minutes to go. The Black and Golders whittled that lead to one point before the final buzzer and the clock caught Tiger Milton Ham with the ball just beyond the foul circle with a clear path ahead of him for a crip shot that would have pulled the game out of fire.

The latest Tiger comback story was told at Abilene Tuesday night.

Abilene held a 7-point lead going into the final quarter, 42-35, and was still leading by six points, 49-43, with 3:30 minutes to go. Once again the Tigers pulled themselves together and battled back for a victory, 55-53.

WAYLAND HOLT
. . . banquet toastmaster

500 Due For Grid Banquet

Approximately 500 persons are due to crowd into the high school cafeteria tonight for the annual Snyder High School football banquet which is being co-sponsored by the Snyder Quarterback Club and the high school.

Activities will get underway at 7:30.

Something new has been added to this year's banquet in that all members of the first and second All-District 1-AAA teams will be honored along with the Tiger squad and other local grid teams.

The all-district players and their respective coaches will be on hand for the big fete.

Highlights of the evening will be the announcement of the "Most Valuable Player" on the Tiger squad; presentation of miniature silver footballs to members of the all-district teams; and the principal address to be given by Sam Boyd, the newly appointed Baylor University head football coach.

Wayland Holt, local attorney, will serve as the toastmaster. Holt, like the pricipal speaker, is a Baylor graduate. Boyd graduated from Baylor in 1938, Holt in 1949.

Boyd, 41, was a star end on Baylor teams of 1936, 1937 and 1938, and the passing combination of Billy Patterson to Sam Boyd wrote bright history in Golden Bear gridiron annals. In 1938 he caught 40 passes from Patterson.

Boyd became Baylor freshman coach in 1950 and in four years compiled a record of 16 victories in 20 games, having an undefeated team in 1953.

The tall, lanky blond was almost speechless when it was announced Dec. 6 that he had been chosen to succeed George Sauer as the Baylor head football coach.

"Of all the coaching jobs that I would want it is Baylor," Boyd said. "It represents a great challenge. This is a tough conference and our schedule is always tough, but I wouldn't have taken it if I didn't think I could make a success."

Sauer retired from active coaching after the 1955 season and has moved up as the Athletic Director at Baylor.

Tickets to the banquet will be available at the door tonight. The ducats are selling at $2 per plate. The banquet will be a stag affair and all male fans here and elsewhere are invited to attend.

There will be an estimated 200 football players on hand for the banquet which includes the Tigers, "B" team, Freshman team, the two Junior High teams and all members of the All-District 1-AAA first and second teams.

The guest list will run past the 225 mark. In addition to the gridders, other guests include the 1-AAA coaches, sports writers from 1-AAA cities plus scribes from Ablene and San Angelo and the coaching staffs of Colorado City and Lake View, who'll be in the district with Tigers next season.

J. B. Davidson, president of the Quarterback Club, is in charge of the banquet arrangements.

G .W. Parks of the Snyder Meat Co. is furnishing the barbecued beef for tonight's fete.

TKO'S ELORDE IN 13TH

Saddler Retains Feather Crown

By CHRIS EDMONDS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Ringwise Sandy Saddler, his world featherweight crown still intact although somewhat battered, set his sights today on a crack at the lightweight title.

The 32-year-old Saddler, trailing by one point in all three official scorecards after nine rounds, retained his 126-pound championship with a technical knockout of Filipino Flash Elorde at 59 seconds of the 13th round last night. Referee Ray Flores stopped the scrap, a bloody melee in the final rounds, because of a long, deep cut over Elorde's left eye.

The game little challenger, who weighed 125 pounds to Saddler's 126, suffered the cut in the eighth round and appeared virtually blinded the rest of the way. He insisted, though, that he could have gone on.

The crowd, almost 100 per cent on his side, booed lustily when Flores' decision to stop it was concurred in by ring physician Dr. Robert Laddon.

"I finish strong," Elorde declared in his dressing room. "The eye was not bothering me. He he never did hurt me."

Dr. Laddon disagreed on his third look at the cut. Twice previously—in the 10th and 11th rounds—Flores had stopped the action for an examination and both times Dr. Laddon sent Elorde back. In the 13th, at the obviously worried Flores' request, he called a halt.

Saddler, whose infighting tactics brought frequent boos from the crowd, took full advantage of the bleeding cut to swing the fight in his favor. Several times in the clinches the crowd thought he was using his thumb to rub across the eye. When he was in the open, the champion shot left after left into the Filipino's battered face.

Young Elorde was leading on Flores' card and those of both judges—Eddie James and Johnny Bassinelli—by 50-49 at the end of nine rounds. He was awarded the final three by a 6-5 margin in all cards to finish with a 67-65 bulge. The Associated Press card showed Saddler in front 68-64 when it ended.

Elorde's manager Lope Sarreal declared, "We would like to fight Saddler again but I don't believe he'll agree to it because Elorde is too good."

Elorde was awarded a 10-round nontitle decision over Saddler in Manila.

Saddler said he'd like a crack at Wallace (Bud) Smith's lightweight crown and his manager Charley Johnston agreed it was a good idea.

"No featherweight can punch with Sandy," Johnston said. "He's as strong as any welterweight."

The approximately 5,000 who saw the bout paid $28,273. Saddler had a $25,000 guarantee. Elorde's take was not estimated.

Furman Star Top Scorer

NEW YORK (AP)—Darrell Floyd, the Furman hotshot who led all major college basketball players in scoring last season, again is setting the pace at the season's halfway mark this year. But little Robin Freeman of Ohio State is making it a close race.

NCAA statistics showed today that Floyd had piled up 370 points in 11 games through last Saturday for an average of 33.6 points a game. Freeman, in the same number of games, has scored 367 points for an average output of 33.4.

Dan Swartz of Morehead State and Tom Heinsohn of Holy Cross held onto third and fourth places while Bill Ebben of Detroit moved up two steps to fifth. Swartz is averaging 29.3 points a game, Heinsohn 26.0 and Ebben 25.4.

Joe Holup of George Washington replaced Hal Greer of Marshall as the leader in field goal accuracy. Holup has hit on 99 of 156 shots from the field for a percentage of .635. Greer is 61 for 98 and .622.

Roger Newman of Western Michigan, with a .932 percentage, took over as the top marksman from the free throw line. He has sunk his last 21 in a row and 41 of 44 over-all.

Leaders Rest In SWC Play

By The Associated Press

While the loop leaders are resting on their laurels, the underdogs in the Southwest Conference basketball race stage the remaining games this week.

Arkansas, which vaulted into the lead by its decisive defeat of the Texas Aggies Monday night, is idle the rest of the week. The Razorbacks have a 4-0 conference record. The Southern Methodist Mustangs, with a 3-0 loop mark, are now tied up with final exams and won't resume play until Jan. 28.

The Aggies (2-3) meet Sam Houston in a non-conference game Thursday night at College Station. Saturday night Baylor (1-2) is host to Rice (3-2) at Waco and the Texas Christian Horned Frogs (1-2) go to College Station for a tilt with the Aggies.

Also idle for the remainder of the week but with no laurels to rest on are the Texas Longhorns who Monday night absorbed their fourth straight conference loss. They have yet to win a conference victory.

Being among "those who also ran" is a new role for the Rice Owls, who went through the early season as though jet-propelled. The Owls didn't lose a single game until the finals of the pre-season conference tournament when they bowed to the Mustangs. In conference play they have been defeated by both SMU and Arkansas.

The Mustangs, who with 13 wins against only two losses, have the best season record in the loop and this week were rated 19th in the nation by The Associated Press.

The 54-hole medal play event is limited to PGA members at least 50 years old.

IN PRO GRID DRAFT

49ers Land TCU's Star End, Engram

LOS ANGELES (AP) — National Football League coaches and executives have tapped the college ranks for 360 players, most of them eligible for service next fall, and some for delivery in 1957.

The UCLA Bruins, who finished second in the Rose Bowl thriller to Michigan State, topped the colleges with 11 players drafted, but three of their top stars, fullback Bob Davenport, end Rommie Loudd, and fullback Doug Peters, have indiciated a preference for the Canadian League.

The Cleveland Browns drafted Davenport and halfback Sam Brown. A spokesman for the Browns said that while the club understood Davenport had signed with Winnipeg and Brown intended to play professional baseball, "we'll take our chances."

Commissioner Bert Bell said the NFL would respect Canadian pacts and would not try to sign players already under contract in Canada "unless the players have been waivers."

Other pro clubs also drafted players who have indicated they will sign or have signed Canadian contracts, thereby protecting themselves in case the players get clearance to play in the United States in 1957.

The 12 NFL clubs didn't miss any of the top-flight college stars of 1955. There were many surprises from the smaller schools, whose unheralded players frequently prove to be the real "sleepers" of the draft.

A dignificant bit of drating was done by the Los Angeles Rams, who took 16 backfield men in the first 16 rounds. Coach Sid Gillman said there was a lack of capable linemen in this year's college crop, but judging from the choices of other teams, there was plenty of disagreement with him on that point. Of the 16 backs picked in the first 15 rounds by the Rams, 8 were runners and 8 defensive specialists.

The draft started Tuesday and finished yesterday.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Here are the Texans and nearby players picked in the final National Football League player draft, starting with 21st round:

Detroit: Jerry Hall, Rice, fullback; Joe Walden, West Texas State, halfback; John Gibbons, Southwest Texas Teachers, tackle.

San Francisco: Paul Goad, Abilene Christian, back; Bryan Engram, TCU, end; Jesse Benson, Arkansas, halfback.

Chicago Cardinals: Ronnie Herr, Texas Tech, back; Jim Murphy, Stephen F. Austin, tackle; Orville Trask, Rice, tackle.

Baltimore: Bobby Fox, East Texas State, quarterback.

Green Bay: Hal O'Brien, SMU back; Don Wilson, Rice, center.

New York: Bez Buller, Arkansas, tackle.

Chicago Bears: Louis Holt, Howard Payne, end; Jerry Hentschel, Sam Houston State, tackle; Waylon Buchanon, East Texas, end; Robert Alexander, Trinity, back.

Washington: John Tatum, Texas, center.

Los Angeles: Milton Robichaux, Trinity, end.

Pancho Leads 13-6 Over Tony Trabert

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pancho Gonzales' lead over Tony Trabert stood at 13-6 in their pro tennis tour today after giving a sizzling demonstration of baseline shooting.

Trabert was able to handle Gonzales' usual big service, but he couldn't match his accuracy as Pancho swept to a 6-4, 6-4 win before 2,623 at the Arena last night.

In other matches Rex Hartwig defeated Pancho Segura 8-6 and Trabert and Hartwig took a doubles match from the two Panchos 6-2, 6-2.

Wake Forest Mentor Seeking SMU Vacancy

DALLAS (AP)—Southern Methodist Head Coach Woody Woodward has interviewed a second prospect for the backfield coaching job vacated by Bo Hagan. He is John (Red) Cochran, recently resigned Wake Forest backfield coach.

Henry Stram, Purdue's head backfield coach, was interviewed Tuesday.

Woodard said two or three other prospects would be interviewed before the job is filled.

Cubs Bring Up 4

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs today invited four more of their minor leaguers to spring training at Mesa, Ariz., starting Feb. 20.

Invitations had been extended to eight other farmhands previously.

The four newcomers are pitchers Tom Guderian, Fred Burdette and lefty Lorenzo (Joe) Hinchman, and catcher Sam Mauney.

Akins, Cook Fight Tonight In Dallas

DALLAS (AP)—Virgil Akins of St. Louis, Mo., ranked sixth among welterweights by Ring Magazine, will meet Clarence Cook of Bastrop, La., in a 10-round main event here tonight.

Akins arrived here yesterday in time for a brief workout.

After seeing Akins in a television fight a few months ago, Cook said he could "whip 'em both", but he is still a heavy underdog for the fight.

Giants Sign Hog Star

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The New York Giants football club announced yesterday it has signed Arkansas fullback Henry Moore, their No. 2 draftee chosen in November.

Wanna Buy Major League Club? Tigers For Sale

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers' franchise—considered one of the finest in baseball—remains Briggs said today it won't necessarily go to the highest bidder.

Nor is it essential that the club must be sold by a fixed date.

"A lot of people think that whoever makes the highest bid will get the Tigers," Briggs said. "That's not so. There are other factors to be considered—factors which we (trustees of the Tigers) consider important.

"We don't want to sell out to some money-mad people who will milk the franchise dry in two or three years, make a big profit and then pull out, leaving a depleted ball park and nine old men on the field."

The trustees of the Tigers are Briggs and his four sisters. Their children are the eventual heirs to the estate left by the late Walter O. Briggs Sr., Tiger president who died in 1952.

The sisters decided that a baseball franchise was not a sound trust investment and decided to sell out. Briggs formed a syndicate to buy the club last fall but his 3½ million dollar offer was turned down by his sisters.

"There is no time limit on the sale of the club," Briggs said. "It could happen this year, or next year, or even in 1958."

Briggs said that, thus far, there have been 25 "inquiries" into the sale of the club.

He said the name of Bill Veeck, former owner of the Cleveland Indians and St. Louis Browns, keeps popping up.

"Several of those who have inquired into the sale of the club have mentioned Veeck's name," Briggs said. "It seems odd to me that he should be mentioned by several groups, and not just one."

When the sale of the Tigers is eventually completed, Briggs said it probably will mean the end of his job as president of the club.

15 Cubs On Line

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs today announced signing shortstop Ed Winceniak and catcher Jim Fanning to bring the number of players signed for 1956 to 15.

Tigers Prep For Weekend 1-3A Cage Contests

The Tiger basketballers will attempt to level off their season record tomorrow night when they go against the Big Spring Steers at Big Spring in a District 1-AAA game.

Coach J. P. Ward's charges defeated Abilene, 55-53, Tuesday night at Abilene to pull within one game of reaching the .500 level. The win at Abilene was the seventh of the year for the Bengals as compared to eight defeats.

Tomorrow's game at Big Spring will be the first of a two-game weekend series for the Black and Gold. The Steers will return home Saturday to meet the Levelland Lobos in another 1-AAA engagement.

Saturday's game has been moved up to start at 5:30 p.m. It was originally scheduled for 8 but was changed to avoid conflict wth the state Jaycee banquet to be held in the high school cafeteria Saturday night.

Jack Spikes, who missed Tuesday's game because of illness, is expected to return to action tomorrow night at Big Spring.

Milton Ham, Tiger forward, increased his individual scoring lead Tuesday with a 22-point performance, giving him 230 points in 15 games for a 15.3 average per game.

Jerry Taylor with 11 points against Abilene, pushed his season total to 193, second high among the Tigers. Alan Snead is the third top scorer with 165 points.

Podres gets Pay Boost

BROOKLYN (AP) — Winning two games in the World Series, including the decider, "meant I had graduated," says Johnny Podres.

"To me it meant that I had arrived as a pitcher," said the 23-year-old Brooklyn southpaw today. "I knew I had graduated from being just a thrower to a pitcher. There's quite a difference."

There sure was. Johnny's big win brought the Dodgers $9,768 each against the Yanks' $5,598 for the series. Podres found a nice raise in the 1956 contract he signed Wednesday, boosting him to about $15,000.

"If I can handle my change-up like I did against the Yankees, I'll have a real big year—if I'm not in the Army," sais Podres.

The stocky lefthander's control of his change of pace pitch gave him the final piece of equipment he needed to become one of baseball's outstanding hurlers. He has plenty of speed and a good curve. The change-up kept the Yankee batters offstride and Johnny hopes to do the same in his own league this year if Uncle Sam doesn't call him up.

Thief Takes Lyons' Hall Of Fame Plaque

CHICAGO (AP)—Ted Lyons, former Chicago White Sox pitching great, told police last night thieves broke into his car and stole $200 in clothing and a plaque awarded him Sunday night by the Chicago Baseball Writers Assn.

Lyons said he hoped the plaque would be returned because of its great sentimental value. Lyons was awarded the plaque in honor of his being named to baseball's Hall of Fame.

Area Cagers Split Twinbills

Hermleigh and Coahoma and Ira and Fluvanna broke even in basketball doubleheaders Tuesday night.

Hermleigh's boys defeated Coahoma, 46-41, while the Coahoma girls won over Hermleigh girls, 46-32.

In the Ira-Fluvanna setto, the Ira girls continued undefeated with a 50-39 victory while the Fluvanna boys evened matters for the night with a 46-29 win.

Billy Mac Davidson led Hermleigh's boys to victory with 18 points. Violet Davis was high for the Hermleigh girls with 14 ponts.

Joan Ford led the Ira girls to their win over Fluvanna with 18 points, followed by Baleria Eubanks with 17 and Peggy Taylor with 12.

Miss Martin was high for Fluvanna with 33.

In Friday's games, Hermleigh journeys to Fluvanna while Westbrook plays at Ira.

Dempsey To Build Tyler Auditorium

TYLER, Tex. (AP)—Plans for a million dollar auditorium with a seating capacity of at least 15,000 was announced here yesterday by Jack Dempsey, world's former heavyweight champlin, and Bobby Manziel, Tyler oil operator.

The auditorium, to be located on a 17-acre site just east of Tyler, will be known as the East Texas Oil Palace. Manziel said grading operations are underway and the building will be completed by the end of the year.

Purdue's Len Dawson repeated as the Big Ten's total offense leader for the second straight season. He completed 76 of 134 passes for 901 yards and six touchdowns.

GAIN SWEET REVENGE

Tarheels Upset NC State, 73-69

By BEN OLAN

North Carolina pulled off one of the year's biggest basketball upsets last night.

The Tarheels, using only one substitute—and he didn't score—gained sweet revenge by whipping third-ranked North Carolina State 73-69. The Wolfpack had walloped North Carolina 82-60 in the finals of the Dixie Classic last month.

The Tarheels now have a 13-2 record for the year and their league-leading Atlantic Coast Conference mark is 8-1. Coach Frank McGuire's lads were No. 5 in the latest Associated Press poll.

Dayton, the nation's second-ranked team behind San Francisco, continued unbeaten by walloping Villanova 71-50 for its 13th victory of the campaign.

In other games, Louisville, No. 10, dumped Memphis State 85-75. St. Louis beat DePaul 89-71. West Virginia defeated Pitt 84-70. Georgia Tech knocked over Furman 85-75 despite Darrell Floyd's 36 points. And Columbia trampled Yale 80-54 in an Ivy League tilt.

Lennie Rosenbluth, North Carolina's sharp-shooting junior, led his team with 23 points although high man for the night was State's Ron Shavlik with 26. The Wolfpack, who are 12-2 for the season, almost tied the game in the closing seconds but Carolina's Jerry Vayda deflected hard-charging Vic Molodet's driving layup shot which would have made it 71-71.

Midyear examinations will leave first place in the ACC unchanged until Feb. 4 when the Tarheels take on Duke's Blue Devils, who are neck-and-neck up with 6-1.

Dayton's Flyers had some trouble from Villanova's zone defense early in their game, but they forged ahead 13-12 and never were headed. Bill Uhl of Dayton paced the scorers with 19 points.

Louisville had to come from behind to pick up its 14th victory in 15 games. Trailing 21-13, Louisville capitalized on its superior height and a series of field goals by Charley Tyra, Jim Morgan and Herb Harrah to forge ahead 47-41 at the half.

Grady Smith was the big gun as St. Louis grabbed a 22-2 lead over DePaul and breezed in. He wound up with 29 points.

Owls In Stern Test Saturday

By The Associated Press

The Rice Owls, whose early-season jet-propulsion performance fizzled when loop play started, face a big test this weekend in the Southwest Conference basketball race.

The Owls who have lost to both Southern Methodist and Arkansas for a 3-2 conference record, are going to have to beat Baylor Saturday night at Waco if they are to remain a serious contender for the loop crown.

The Baylor Bears, despite a mediocre season record and a 1-2 conference mark, are no push-overs. And they should be at peak strength Saturday night with the recovery of Jerry Mallett who because of a sprained right hand missed two Bear games and has been used sparingly in other games.

The Owls-Bear tilt highlights a weekend of conference activity which sees the Texas Aggies (2-3) playing Sam Houston State in a non-conference game Thursday night and then meeting Texas Christian (1-2) Saturday night at College Station.

The conference's top teams—Arkansas (4-0) and Southern Methodist (3-0) are idle for the rest of the week as is Texas, which brings up the rear rank in conference play with an unexciting 0-4 record.

Two Strong Entries For Hambletonian

GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP)—For the third year in a row, another powerful entry loomed up today as the one to beat in the colorful Hambletonian trotting classic here next summer—Satoteur and Grand Note.

Owned by E. Roland Harriman's Arden Homstead stable of Goshen, trained and driven by Harry Pownall, Saboteur was acclaimed 2-year-old trotting champion of 1955. Grande Note didn't get such headlines, but he rates pretty high in Powell's book.

The Hambletonian Society and Bill Cane announced 76 top 3-year-olds had been kept eligible at $250 each as of Jan. 1 for the 31st sulky derby at Good Time Park Aug. 8. A final starting fee of $1,000 must be paid 48 hours before the big event, and it is estimated the gross purse will hit $90,000.

London Fog Stories Flying Like Saucers

LONDON (AP)—Ever had somebody try to mail a letter in your left ear?

Such things happened recently in the choking yellow London smog—an evil-smelling mixture of fog, sulphur fumes and smoke which blacks out the city for days on end in the winter.

Medical men are worried about its effect on health, but the average Londoner knows how to make the best of it. A new cult—the smog story—has found favor. And the more embarrassing the incident, the bigger the laugh.

The tabloid Daily Mirror invited readers to share their smog stories. These are some of the letters that flooded in. The paper didn't vouch for their truth.

There was the coalman from Harrow who asked a local man to show him where the coal bunkers were. Next morning he found he'd carefully emptied a sackful into four separate telephone booths.

Truck driver Jim Hagerty reported a colleague halted his big truck and climbed down — into water up to his knees. Terrified that he might have driven into a river, he stayed shivering in the cab all night—until the fog lifted and he found the truck parked beside a horse trough.

There was the man from Kent who wrote: "My wife stopped in the fog to look at a fur coat in the window. After a while I joined her, gave her an affectionate pat where she sits, and asked 'What would you give me for that, my pet?'

"A slap on the face was the answer, with a shout of, 'This, you old wolf.' It was a woman I'd never seen before."

Mrs. Dallywater of West Wickham was the unfortunate who said she was mistaken for a post box in the fog, and Miss "S. J." confessed she walked out of a party one night, hailed a waiting taxi and was driven home—only to find she had stepped into a police squad car.

Wrote E. R. L. of Ilford:

"I asked my wife to wait on the corner while I fetched an evening paper. When I came back, I said to her, 'Come on, dear, the best place on a night like this is in bed.'

"Unfortunately, it wasn't my wife."

Inkeeper In Tokyo Gets All Answers

TOKYO (AP)—The TV charades quiz last night was rolling smoothly. A man acted out an old Japanese proverb. The announcer held up a card with a telephone number and urged viewers to phone in the answer. Cameras centered on the telephone.

But it remained strangely silent. The announcer dawdled in embarrassment for minutes.

Meanwhile, an innkeeper's phone was deluged with so many calls that the vibration dislodged the receiver hook. The innkeeper got the answers but he didn't know the question.

Light Subject

MANITOU SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—The lights are coming back to Ruston Avenue. City Council acted quickly after William Crosby drew attention to the unlighted street by carrying red and white railroad lanterns. Councilman Verne Hake said delay in replacing street lights was due to the heavy work load of the Utilities Dept.

Mullins Convicted Of Bank Robbery

CANTON (AP)—A 15-year prison term was meted out to Jesse Mullins, 31, after he was convicted yesterday of robbing the First State Bank of Van of over $9,000.

The jury deliberated an hour.

His wife has also been charged in the case but her trial was postponed.

The defense attempted to prove temporary insanity due to alcohol. Mullins testified he had been drinking heavily for six weeks before the robbery and did not remember what happened on Nov. 16, 1955.

A Kilgore liquor store dealer, J. R. Huckaby, testified Mullins bought $51.15 worth of liquor Oct. 30 and $36.85 worth four days before the robbery.

CATSUP-FROSTED MEAT LOAF
. . . . garnish of parsley and olives

Budget To Gourmet Palates
Savor Flavor Of Meet Loaf

The rags to riches meat loaf can be a jellied concoction to delight the gourmet or bread crumb filled meat stretcher to please the budget juggler.

Our candidate for an easy to serve pretty sliced loaf meat is Veal Loaf Deluxe.

VEAL LOAF DELUXE

1½ pounds chopped lean veal
½ cup grated American cheese
2 tablespoons grated onion
1-3 cup cream rice cereal
2 tablespoons milk
1 egg, beaten
½ teaspoon salt
8-ounce jar medium size stuffed olives
6-ounce can broiled mushroom crowns
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 teaspoon meat seasoning
2 tablespoons tomato catsup

Mix together the veal, cheese, onion, cereal, milk, egg and salt. Drain olives and mushrooms well. Pack 1-3 of the meat mixture in the bottom of a lightly oiled loaf pan, 8x4x3 inches. Arrange ½ of the olives and mushrooms in a pattern on the meat, placing the olives lengthwise in the pan and the mushrooms upside down, pushing into the meat. Firmly pack another 1-3 of the meat over the olives and mushrooms. Add remaining olives and mushrooms in alternate pattern and, fmally, the remaining meat in a layer. Press firmly. Turn loaf out on a greased shallow baking pan, brush surface with melted butter and bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees F., until done through, about 1 hour. When done brush with mixture of meat sauce and catsup and return to oven for about 5 to 10 minutes. Serve hot or cold. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

FROSTED MEAT LOAF

1 pound chopped chuck
¼ pound sausage meat
1 cup cracker crumbs (not soda crackers)
2 tablespoons grated onion
2 tablespoons chopped celery
1 egg
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Catsup
Parsley or watercress
Stuffed olives

Combine all ingredients except catsup, parsley or watercress and olives. Blend well. Pack into round baking dish and bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) 40 minutes. Chill. Turn out of pan and frost with catsup. Decorate with parsley or watercress and bowl of stuffed olives. Serves 6.

BLUE CHEESE HAM LOAF

2 eggs, slightly beaten
¾ cup milk
⅛ teaspoon pepper
⅛ teaspoon ground cloves
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
¾ cup crumbled blue cheese
1 pound ground lean pork
1 pound ground lean ham
1 medium-sized onion, finely shopped

Combine eggs, milk, pepper, cloves and bread crumbs; let stand 10 minutes. Add ½ cup cheese, pork, ham and onion; mix well. Press into 9x5x3-inch pan and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1½ hours, or until done. Drain; remove from pan and place on broiler rack. Top with remaining ½ cup cheese. Broil from 3 to 4 inches from source of heat 5 to 7 minutes or until lightly browned. Garnish with applie slices, if desired.

MEAT LOAF SPIRAL

Meat Loaf:
1½ pounds ground beef
2 eggs, beaten
¾ cup tomato juice
¾ cup quick rolled oats, uncooked
¼ teaspoon pepper

Dressing:
2 tablespoons shortening
½ cup chopped celery leaves
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped parsley
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped stuffed olives (optional)
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup dry bread crumbs

Combine all ingredients for meat loaf. For the dressing, melt shortening; add vegetables and cook slowly for 10 minutes. Add rest of ingredients. Spread meat loaf on waxed paper to a 6x12 inch rectangle. Spread dressing over meat loaf. Roll up jelly-roll fashion, using wet spatula. Bake in loaf pan in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1¼ to 1½ hours. Let stand 5 minutes before slicing. 6 to 8 servings.

MINCE MEAT LAMB LOAF

1-3 cup prepared mincemeat
1 recipe pastry
1 pound ground lamb
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped onion
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Prepare pastry. Add 1-3 cup cooled mincemeat to pastry; mix well. Roll out on lightly floured board to ¼-inch thickenss. Mix together lamb, green pepper, onion and seasonings. Place on baking sheet and shape into loaf about 6 inches long. Wrap pastry around meat securing it firmly under the loaf. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 50 minutes or until pastry is well browned.

MEAT LOAF SURPRISE

1¾ pounds ground beef
¾ cup uncooked oatmeal
1 egg
1 teaspoon pepper
1 cup bouillon
1 medium onion
2 large dill pickles
¼ pound natural mild cheese

Combine ground beef, rolled oats, egg, salt, pepper and beef bouillon in a bowl. Put half of meat mixture into a one-pound loaf pan, making a hollow (1 inch deep and 2-inches wide) in the center of the meat mixture.

In this hollow place a layer of onions, dill pickles and cheese. Cover with the remaining meat mixture. (The meat should completely seal in the center ingredients to keep meat loaf firm and to avoid overmelting of the cheese.)

Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 60 to 65 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes. Remove from pan. (It is easier to slice if meat loaf rests for another 5 to 10 minutes after removing from pan. Serve hot or cold. Garnish with sliced tomatoes, cucumbers and green onions if served cold.

PENNY-STRETCHER MEAT LOAF

1 egg, slighly beaten
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons chili sauce
1 cup bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Pinch thyme
½ cup mashed or cooked vegetables (anything leftover except beets or tomatoes)
¾ pound ground beef

Combine all ingredients except beef. Let stand until milk is absorbed by bread crumbs. Add beef; mix thoroughly. Turn into loaf pan or shape into loaf in shallow baking dish. Bake at 325 degrees F. about 50 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

CORN BEEF MEAT LOAF

1 pound ground beef chuck
½ pound ground pork
1 egg, well beaten
½ cup corn meal
1½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ medium onion, grated
4 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper
¼ cup chili sauce
1 cup water

Combine all ingredients thoroughly. Pack firmly into 9x5 inch loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for 1½ hours. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

MEAT LOAF RING

2 eggs
¾ cup condensed cream of tomato soup
¼ cup water
1 cup wheat cereal
1¼ pounds ground beef
¼ pound pork sausage
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons finely cut onion

Break eggs into 6-cup bowl. Beat slightly with fork. Add tomato soup and water. Mix well. Add cereal. Let stand 15 to 20 minutes. Heat oven to 300 degrees. Grease 8-cup ring mold. When cereal mixture has stood 15 to 20 minutes, add meat, salt, and onion. Mix well. Pack in greased ring mold. Pour 2 tablespoons water over top of meat mixture. Bake on rack slightly below center 1 hour and 15 minutes. Serve with a tomato sauce made by heating remainder of can of condensed tomato soup with 2 tablespoons drippings from the meat. Makes 8 servings.

CARROT AND OLIVE OAF

½ pound ground round or chuck beef
1 egg
¼ cup milk
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
⅛ teaspoon paprika
½ cup finely grate carrot (firmly packed)
2 tablespoons finely grated onion (pulp and juice)
¼ cup finely diced celery
½ cup ripe olives
Paprika

In medium-sized mixing bowl put beef, egg, milk, salt, pepper, paprika, carrot, onion, and celery. Cut olives from pits in large pieces (there should be about ½ cup pitted olive pieces) and add. With fingers mix ingredients thoroughly. With fork or spoon pack into greased small loaf pan (about 7½x3½x2 inches measured acorss top); sprinkle top generously with paprika. Bake in moderate (375 degrees F. oven 45 minutes. Allow to stand on top of range 15 minutes so loaf will absorb some of the juices that have come to top; turn out on waxed paper, then turn onto serving platter so browned top shows; serve with any juices not absorbed. Makes 4 small servings.

Chiang Draws Truman Blast

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ex-President Truman says he is sure China could be a free, unified country today but for Chiang Kai-shek's refusal to accept a peaceful agreement with the Communists.

He says the Chinese generalissimo's "attitudes and actions were those of an old-fashioned warlord, and, as with warlords, there was no love for him among the people."

In a new installment of his memoirs, appearing in Life magazine out today, the former President says perhaps Chiang's greatest mistake was failing to heed Gen. George C. Marshall's advice when Truman sent Marshall on a "peace" mission in 1946.

Truman blames "extremists" on the Communist side as well in the Nationalist camp for the failure to reach an agreement. He adds, however:

"There is no doubt in my mind that if Chiang had been only a little more conciliatory, an understanding could have been reached . . . Chiang Kai-shek would not heed the advice of one of the greatest strategists in history and (as a result) lost to the communist."

Marshall's hope was to get a coalition government formed but Truman says Marshall was unable, in the end, to persuade Chiang that (1) military force wasn't the answer to his problem, and (2) he would lose to the Communists if he insisted on waging war against them.

Truman contends that if a coalition had been formed, there was no reason Chiang couldn't have won out over the Reds in the long run just as various non-Communist governments in Western Europe have done—if he "attended to the fundamental needs of the people and the country."

Truman stirs the embers of some old personal feuds — with Bernard M. Baruch and Patrick J. Hurley—in the current installment.

He said he had to make it plain "in a very polite way" to elder statesman Baruch that the President and not Baruch would decide what the latter's duties should be in preparing the international atomic energy control proposals which became known as the "Baruch plan."

Actually, Truman says, Baruch's main contribution was putting into final form the ideas of others—chiefly Dean Acheson, then undersecretary of state, and David E. Lilienthal, then chairman of the Tennessee Valley Administration.

In New York, Baruch replied with a statement challenging Truman's version and commenting that "history will show no basis for this display of personal spite."

He said that when he discussed his assignment with the President and asked who was to draft a policy, Truman replied, "Hell you are." Truman later read and approved in full the report that was submitted, Baruch said.

A CHURCH DIVIDED — Parishioners of the Holy Trinity Protesant Episcopal Church in Brooklyn, N.Y., faced this unique situation as two clerics conduct rival services at the same time. Rev. Robert Thomas, appointed by ruling Bishop James P. DeWolfe, preaches from the pulpit at right while controversial Rev. Howard Melish simultaneously conducts another phase of the service at the left. Rev. Melish, dismissed after accusations of left-wing activities which he has denied, refuses to give up his post.

LONG WINS—Mayor deLesseps Morrison of New Orleans, left, lost to former Gov. Earl K. Long in an overwhelming victory in the Louisiana Democratic primary for governor. It was Morrison's first statewide race. Long has served as governor twice

Record Crop Raised On One Acre Of Land

CHICAGO (AP) — A Mississippi farm boy, who has no plans to be a farmer, has reaped big rewards and honors for raising a record corn crop on one acre of land.

Lamar Ratliff's bumper crop of 304.38 bushels on his father's farm at Baldwyn, Miss., is an all-time high. His feat was compared to running the mile in less than four minutes or climbing Mt. Everest.

The average acre of corn yields about 40 bushels.

Lamar, 16-year-old high school junior, had a simple explanation of how he did it:

"I just worked at it, I reckon. But I had some help from my mule Dolly."

Lamar, a 4-H club member, and his father Paul were in Chicago for a luncheon in the youth's honor attended by representatives of hybrid seed corn and farm implement industries.

He was given $1,000 by the Farm Journal to help finance his college education. He also got $500 from a seed corn company. The magazine gave Lamar's father $1,000 to be spent for improvement or equipment for the Ratliff's 170-acre hill farm in northern Mississippi.

In setting the new record, Lamar exceeded by 63 bushels the previous high corn yield of 241 bushels per acre set in 1954 by A. J. Custer of near Fort Wayne, Ind.

The youth began aiming at high corn yeilds six years ago in a patch of sandy loam that had seldom produced more than 30 bushels per acre. The first year he grew 179 bushels on one acre and gradually pushed his yield up to 218½ bushels.

In planning for the 1955 crop, Lamar, after planting, cultivating and thinning, had 25,800 stalks in his acre. It was fertilized with 15 tons of manure and 1,500 pounds of commercial plant foods. More than 40 inches of rain fell on the patch during the growing season.

"I think I'd like to be a doctor," Lamar said. "There's no money in farming."

New York Man Loses Money Too Many Times

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Albert J. Guaresci, newly arrived here from Onondaga, N.Y., complained to police yesterday that he lost the same $4,000 twice.

He left it in his locked car and then couldn't find where he had parked until six hours later. He drove two blocks, parked again with the money still inside. But when he came back that time he found a window smashed and the $4,000 gone.

Lady Wrestler Gets Decision in Squabble

BALTIMORE (AP)—Mrs. Marie Streb said she didn't mind being knocked down, she's used to that, but when her husband kicked her. Well!

The 5-foot-8 husband of the 5-foot-10 Marie, who was once known around the professional wrestling circuit as "Gypsy Lee," denied he floored her or kicked her. Just a case of mistaken identity, said he.

But Magistrate Simon Schonfield gave the decision to the slender 37-year-old brunette. He fined Streb $25.

Mrs. Streb made her last wrestling appearance in July, 1954, in Boston.

U. S. crop losses due to insects, diseases, hail, weeks and other causes are estimated at $8,300,000,000 annually.
