Reds Surge Into Poland

Mighty Juggernaut Slashes Toward Heart Of Germany

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Thursday, July 20.—Russian troops smashed 10 miles across the 1941 German-Soviet frontier on the Bug river north of by-passed Lwow yesterday, and for the first time in three years of war were attacking on soil which Germany seized in the conquest of Poland.

Opening a new offensive along the north Latvian border the Russians also hurled back the enemy 25 miles on a 43-mile front in two days, Moscow announced last night.

The Bug river, from which the Germans attacked Russia June 22, 1941, was crossed on nearly a 20-mile front north and south of Sokal, 45 miles north of outflanked Lwow, by Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukraine Army on the fourth day of its offensive aimed straight at the heart of Germany.

Great Air Coverage

Prusinov, 10 miles west of Krystynopol on the Bug river border, was captured by Konev's troops, who were supported by perhaps the biggest air coverage yet attained on the eastern front. Krystynopol itself and Sokal, 10 miles to the north, another river city, fell to the Russians. Boratyn, five miles west of Sokal, and Ostrov, eight miles southwest of Sokal, also were taken in the leap across the Bug.

The historic crossing was announced casually in the daily broadcast communique recorded by the Soviet monitor, and was not made an occasion for a special announcement.

It came three years and 28 days after Adolf Hitler's legions broke the German-Russian non-aggression pact by attacking the Soviet Union.

Imperilled Lwow was also being attacked frontally while part of Konev's troops by-passed it on the north.

Nazi General Surrenders

Farther north, another German commander, Lt. Gen. Ochsner, commander of the 31st Nazi Infantry division, surrendered, the communique said.

Seven powerful Russian armies now were hitting the reeling Germans on a 700-mile front in the greatest combined attack ever launched in the east.

German radio broadcasts acknowledged the crossing of the Bug, and said the Germans supported by heavy tank formations were striking back fiercely in an effort to keep the Russian horde off the Polish plains leading to German Silesia, 245 miles west of Sokal.

Sokal, 45 miles north of Lwow, was captured in the onrush in

Nazis Driven From Livorno

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press Staff Writer

ROME, July 19. — American troops, who have slashed their way 250 miles northward in Italy in just over two months, drove the Nazis out of the big port of Livorno today a few hours after Polish infantry had seized Ancona on the Adriatic coast.

Capture of the two ports gave the Allies valuable supply bases for their forthcoming onslaught against the enemy's heavily-fortified Gothic line. Engineers moved in swiftly to begin reconstruction of wercked dock facilities while infantry and armor pressed on.

Still Control Peak

Use of the Livorno port will be restricted, however, until the Nazis have been driven off Mt. Pisano, which rises immediately northeast of Pisa. The Germans have installed many big guns there to shell Livorno's harbor from a distance of about 12 miles.

The Nazis pulled out hurriedly last night after an American flanking column had driven to Pontedera on the south bank of the Arno river between Pisa and Florence. No attempt was made to defend the city street by street.

Harbor Is Shambles

Peacetime Livorno, Italy's third largest port, was capable of handling 17,500 tons of shipping daily, but Nazi demolition squads left its docks, its 35 power cranes and 21 huge warehouses a mass of wreckage.

A headquarters officer said recent information showed the enemy was forcing from 15,000 to 20,000 Italian laborers to help construct strong positions through the northern Apennies.

More than 2,000 prisoners and large quantities of war material were taken by the Poles in the final fight for Ancona. Two Ger-

Gov. Stevenson Offers Record

AUSTIN, July 19 (AP)—Asserting there is no issue in the campaign for governor except that of administration of the office, Governor Coke R. Stevenson today submitted his record to the voters as a basis for re-nomination in Saturday's Democratic primary election.

Seeking his second elective term, the governor in a formal statement made his first direct campaign announcement since he offered for renomination.

Indebtedness Reduced

His record in office, he said, generally is known and "appears to have met the approval of a great majority of Texas citizens."

He added that it should be kept in mind that he had had the cooperation of all state departments and the legislature during his administration the highlights of which he outlined as:

Reduction of the general fund debt from $33,000,000 to about $2,000,000 with prospects that the deficit will soon disappear.

Reduced appropraitions, elimination of waste and extravance and good tax collections.

Increased old age assistance and other social security benefits, more support for eleemosynary institutions and increased state financial support for public school.

Post War Group Created

Co-operation in the soil conservation program which now embraces 90,000,000 acres of land.

Creation of a post-war planning commission and preparation of state plans and specifications which will employ thousands of returning soldiers.

Cooperation with the state teachers association, board of education and department of education to the end that the state is able to provide relief which many schools need.

Cooperation with organized labor and the armed forces in constructng military establishments and solving state problems directly linked to military programs.

Forecast Promises Relief From Heat

(By The Associated Press)

Cloudiness forecast for today promised Texans some relief from a heat wave.

Cooling showers fell in the East Texas city of Palestine yesterday, knocking the mercury for a loop from a high of 101 degrees.

"Palestine assuredly is the promised land" punned Beaumont, reporting a high of 102 degrees on the 55th day of a heat spell here. Less than two inches of rain have fallen in the Beaumont area during that period. Rice crops are requiring an unusual amount of irrigation.

At Love Field, Dallas, the weatherman reported a high of 101. Unofficial reports from downtown Dallas listed 104 as high.

Light showers fell at Hensley Field and nearby points.

Fort Worth had a maximum temperature of 101; Abilene 100; Austin 101; Big Spring 100, and Waco 104.

Wallace Fights On; Truman Gets FDR Running Mate Nod

Moody Placed On Platform Group

By FRANCIS M. LE MAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, July 19—The South, where many Democrats are in "revolt" on the race issue, was given a larger voice tonight in framing the Democratic party's 1944 platform, in an apparent move to recapture party harmony.

The platform committee added to its plank-drafting subcommittee Dan Moody, chairman of the regular Texas delegation which has broken with President Roosevelt on the rate and other issues, and Governor Colgate W. Darden of Virginia, who often has been critical of the administration.

Moody Presents Case

This development came after the Texas delegation, which has conditioned the support of its electors on the convention taking certain action on "states rights," delegated Moody to present Texas' case to the platform committee.

The 28-member subcommittee subsequently designated 12 of its members to begin drafting the platform in executive session. In addition to Moody and Darden, three other names were added to the original 23-member sub-committee.

Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada was added when a point was raised that the silver states were not represented. Others added were Dan Tobin, head of the Teamsters' union, and Mrs. Elizabeth Pellett of Colorado.

It was understood that the South got more sub-committee members when Oscar Johnston, platform committeeman from Mississippi, raised the question that Dixie was not fully represented. Already on the sub-committee from the South were Senator Claude Pepper of Florida; Josephus Daniels, North Carolina publisher; Mrs. W. T. Bost of North Carolina and Mrs. Albert E. Hill of Tennessee.

As the 12-member group went

Highlights Of Kerr Keynote

CHICAGO, July 19 (AP)—Highlights of the keynote speech to the Democratic convention by Gov. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma.

Our aim is complete and speedy victory. Our goal is a just and abiding peace. Our promise to a world at peace is responsibility and cooperation.

Wouldn't it really be terrible if in addition to all of these (war sacrifices) we should be compelled to suffer the affliction and disaster of another Hooer administration?

The old guard is again in the saddle in the GOP.

Do you remember the twelve long years . . . when America "hardened" under Harding, "cooled" under Coolidge and "hungered" under Hoover?

Most of the Republican members of the national Congress fought every constructive move designed to prepare our country in case of war.

The Republican party has . . . played partisan politics with one of the most deadly dangers confronting our nation—the danger of inflation.

If we favor an abiding peace . . . can we vote to restore to power the political party whose leadership after World war I, willfully and wickedly sabotaged every effective vehicle for keeping the peace?

Who will represent the United States of America (in war and peace councils)? . . . Just suppose for a moment, but no longer, that it were Dewey. What would Churchill and Stalin and the Generalissimo and the other Allied leaders think and do when they learned that he looked on them as just a group of "tired old men?"

Session Possibly May End Tonight

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, July 19.—Democrats whooped into their first wartime convention in 80 years tonight while President Roosevelt thumbed War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes out of a torrid vice-presidential tussle and party leaders tried—and failed—to wave out Henry A. Wallace, too.

"I am in this fight to the finish," Wallace declared.

But politicos from the metropolitan organizations set up as their goal a first ballot nomination of Senator Harry Truman of Missouri for second place on the 1944 slate.

Heat Turned On Wallace

And party leaders were reported turning on the heat to get Wallace to withdraw, as Byrnes had done earlier in the day.

Mr. Roosevelt, refereeing the squabble over a running mate from afar, gave a measure of substance to a Truman drive by listing him, behind Wallace, as acceptable for the vice-presidency. Also on his list was Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

Wallace had a chance to predict his own renomination at his "in the fight to stay" news conference, but he didn't take it.

A reporter shot this one at him: "Do you think you can win?"

"I haven't the slightest idea," he replied.

Labor Leader Huddle

The vice-president had been in a long huddle with labor leaders and with Attorney General Biddle and Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

It was to National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan, by telephone, that Mr. Roosevelt reportedly communicated his views on the runner-up race. Word of this action raced through the convention crowd.

These were the key developments as delegates farmed out to bunting-bedecked Chicago Stadium for a prosaic first-session performance devoted mostly to organization formalities.

Wallace charged into town, at the summons of his campaign managers, heard of Byrnes' action, declared "Well, that takes care of that," and immediately began consultations with some of the labor leaders who are among his strongest sources of support.

Delegates converged again on the stadium for a night session to hear Governor Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, in a keynote speech, blast the Republicans as untested and untried, praise the achievements of the Democrats, and predict a party victory in November.

May Close Tonight

While the sizzling scrap continued over a vice-presidential selection, amid prospects that it might be over—and perhaps the whole convention—by tomorrow night,

Less Than Million Votes Anticipated

DALLAS, July 19. (AP)—Fewer than 900,000 votes will be cast in the Texas Democratic first primary election Saturday, Robert L. Johnson, manager of the Texas Election Bureau, predicted today.

Texas poll tax payments this year total 1,300,000, and the voting strength, including under-age and over-age exemptions, is estimated at 1,510,000.

GERMAN CIVILIANS MOVED

LONDON, July 19. (AP)—A German broadcast said tonight that Nazi retreats along the east front had necessitated removal of 350,000 German civilians back to the Reich from former occupied Russian territories.

Gen. Montgomery Estimates 156,000 Nazis 'Written Off'

GENERAL MONTGOMERY'S HEADQUARTERS, France, July 19. (AP)—General Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, in his most optimistic mood since D-day, estimated today that 156,000 Germans had been "written off" in the invasion campaign thus far—60,000 captured and 8,000 buried by Allied troops in Normandy, and the rest killed or wounded "on the other side" of the lines.

"It is reasonable to suppose," the British commander in chief told a press conference, "that there are another 8,000 dead on the other side, so that 16,000 of the enemy has been killed.

"And then my experience in this war is that if you have, say, 1,000 killed, you have 5,000 wounded, or a ratio of five to one between wounded and killed. On that basis, there are five times 16,000, or 80,000 German wounded, and with 60,000 prisoners it makes a total—a reasonable one."

The commander expressed deep satisfaction with the latest smash—the successful opening of the new offensive by Lt. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey, British Second Army commander, east of the Orne river. He had high praise for the supporting punch of British and American airmen.

Montgomery said British losses were so small in the new surge as almost to be reckoned negligible, but added that "there is still a lot to be done—no doubt of that."

British Step Up Ferocity Of Offensive

(By The Associated Press)

HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Thursday, July 20. — Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British and Canadian forces more than doubled their breach in the German's eastern Normandy line Wednesday and in the second day of a roaring offensive drove their armor inland almost to Vimont, eight miles southeast of Caen on the main road ot Paris.

British armor supported by infantry battled its way into the outskirts of Troarn seven miles due eastward from Caen, but in

ROMMEL SAID HURT

STOCKHOLM, July 19 (AP) — The Free Danish press service reported tonight that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had been wounded and operated on by a Danish brain surgeon, Prof. Busch, for removal of a shell splinter. The story, which could not be confirmed from any other source, failed to indicate when the operation was performed.

the thrust toward Vimont, 112 miles from Paris, the Nazis erected a strong screen of anti-tank guns ot stem the Allied tide, Associated Press correspondent Roger Greene reported from the front early today.

Breach Is Daubled

After an original breakthrough on a front of slightly less than three miles, launched from the wedge across the Orne river north of Caen and Vaucelles, the second day's battle widened the breach to six miles.

The towns overrun included these 11 in a sweeping arc east and southeast of Caen: Banneville, Sannerville, Touffreville, Giberville, Demouville, Colombelles, Faubourg de Vaucelles, Muverville, Cagny and Grentheville.

Clearing up pockets of resistance left in the first day's surprise thrusts, the British Second Army won command of both sides of the river Orne on at least a 13-mile front running from the sea to the vicinity of Louvigny and Fleury Sur Orne.

Directed Southward

The weight of Montgomery's offensive was directed to the south and southeast from the bridgehead across the Orne, and the first day's gain on Tuesday against the surprised Germans ran up to five miles, headquarters disclosed today.

The Germans on the afternoon of this first day mounted a strong counterattack, but the effort was crushed.

Today, furious tank battles were swirling around Cagny and near Grentheville as the Germans tried to halt the Allied plunge toward Paris along Highway 13. Berlin's announcements on the fighting, admitting the loss of Cagny, stressed the Allied progress along this main route to the French capital.

Warships Aid Drive

Allied warships and landing craft engaged enemy batteries on the eastern flank in support of the hard-driving ground forces, and although bad weather prevented a continuation of aerial support such as that which accompanied the opening of the offensive Tuesday, Normandy-based craft were able to maintain a close cover over the roaring battlefield.

Driving across the Caen plain toward the large town of Falaise 20 miles southeast of Caen, the Allied troops were engaging from nine to 13 German diviisons—between 100,000 and 150,000 men—in battles of steadily mounting fury.

Entire Flank Explodes

The front exploded into action along the entire 20-mile east flank arc as far back as Hottot, two miles southwest of Tilly-Sur-Seulles, which the British Second Army captured in a steady push inland to gain more room for maneuver.

Marshall Rommel, with much at stake but with no fixed defense line short of the Seine river 40 to 60 miles east of the broken Orne river line, hurled in his reserves of picked tank divisions late Tuesday in an attempt to encompass the Allied assault, but he failed, supreme headquarters disclosed Wednesday night.

The German west flank in Normandy was sagging, too. There Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's First Army smashed two and a half miles down the east bank of the Action Called Apology To Hirohito For Its Failure

(By The Associated Press)

THE Japanese government headed by Gen. Hideki Tojo, which led that nation into war against the United States less than two months after the cabinet's formation in October, 1941, has resigned collectively as Japan continued drastic overhauling of her political and military commands in the face of mounting disaster, Tokyo announced last night.

Tojo tendered his resignation as premier and minister of war to Emperor Hirohito along with those of his lesser colleagues and, for the time being at least, was without high office.

It remained to be seen whether he would be appointed to form another government.

The Domei account said that later Emperor Hirohito had ordered Murquis Koichi Kido, home affairs minister, into an audience with a view to forming a new cabinet.

Great Anxiety Shown

A statement by the Japanese board of information, broadcast by the Domei news agency and reported by the Federal Communications commission, said nothing about the make-up of the new government but asserted, "we anticipate with great anxiety the appearance of a new, strong cabinet at this time."

Referring to the "present grave situation," the wireless dispatch directed to Japanese-occupied areas, stated "the government finally has decided to renovate its personnel in order to prosecute the war totally."

The announcement followed one day after Tojo had been relieved of his post as chief of the Army general staff and disclosed that the cabinet resignations also were presented to Hirohito on Tuesday. No reason was given for the delay in making the change public.

Time Not Explained

The Domei account carried this introduction:

"Tojo's entire cabinet resigns; Premier Tojo's cabinet took a resolute step on July 18 and effected the resignation of the entire cabinet."

The board of information announcement was issued July 20 (Japanese time). No explanation of the delay in making known the resignation was offered immediately.

The Japanese announcement said it has been decided to strengthen the cabinet by a wider selection of the personnel."

Terrific Air Blows Go On

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 19—Climaxing 36 hours of the most terrible air assault in history, American fleets totaling 3,000 planes converged on Germany today from Britain and Italy and brought the attack to a crushing crescendo at Munich, shrine of Nazism, where they concentrated their assault on chemical and aircraft factories.

The American planes dropped 5,000 tons of explosive on numerous targets in the Reich in their second straight day of coordinated blows against Germany by the U. E. Eighth and 15th Air forces, and brought to about 19,000 tons the total bomb-weight loosed against the continent since dawn Tuesday — more than half of it on the German homeland.

1,700 U. S. Heavies Out

Some 1,700 Liberators and Fortresses roared from the north and south against Germany, accompanied by about 1,300 fighters. They slammed explosives on plane plants, air fields, a ballbearing factory, railroads, ordnance depots and chemical works all the way from Saarbrucken to Schweinfurt in southern Germany.

Of the British-based force, 18 bombers and seven fighters were reported missing. The victories and losses of the force from Italy were still to be announced.

The terrific pace set by the Allies in the air during the last 36 hours — operations involving more than 12,000 sorties by planes based in Britain, Normandy and Italy—forced the reluctant luftwaffe to come up and fight in several sectors at a painful price to Hitler's dwindling fighter strength.

Plane Losses Heavy

Since the non-stop battering of the continent began on the present massive scale at 5:45 a. m. Tuesday, with tremendous bomb blows supporting the new Caen drive, Allied airmen have downed 145 German planes and destroyed an additional 47 on the ground

Official Determined To Bar Negro Vote

HOUSTON, July 19 (AP)—Negro voters in precinct 82 will be barred from the Democratic primary Saturday despite instructions from M. L. O. Andrews, chairman of the Harris county Democratic executive committee, to all election judges to accept the votes of qualified negroes in good faith, H. O. Cosby, presiding judge of the precinct, said tonight.

"I believe that as an election judge I can legelly refuse to permit the negroes to vote in precinct 82," Cosby said in an interview with the post. "The case in the Supreme court giving the negroes the right to vote in the Democratic party of Texas has not been finally decided. A motion for rehearing is pending and until that motion is acted on, the case is not closed."

In a letter sent to precinct officers, Andrews instructed them to accept negro votes "when a negro comes to your polling place, has his poll tax and satisfies you that he is a proper legal voter."

New Labor Law In Texas Aired

AUSTIN, July 19 (AP) — The state's labor regulatory act as passed by the 48th Legislature underwent in the Third Court of Civil Appeals today what Harry Acreman, executive secretary for Texas State Federation of Labor called, "another step on the way to the Supreme court."

The labor act (Manford bill) which requires paid union organizers to register with the secretary of state, prohibits charging of work permit fees, requires unions to file annual financial reports, and puts a stipulation on fees, was attacked early last summer by both the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Upheld In District Court

Most of it was held constitutional by the 98th District Court.

The labor unions appealed from the decision.

State's Attorney Fagan Dickson argued against Sewall Myer of Houston, general counsel for the American Federation of Labor; Herbert S. Thatcher, Washington, AFL counsel; Arthur Mandell, Houston, National Maritime union and CIO counsel; and Ernest Goodman, Detroit, general counsel for the United Automobile Workers.

Dickson contended: "The labor union is separaje and distinct from its members, and although it is an entity for some purposes, a

Blast Death Toll Now 319; Property Damage Immense

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19. (AP) —The terrific explosion of two ammunition ships at Port Chicago resulted in at least 319 men known dead or missing, and millions of dollars in property loss, the Navy announced today.

The cause of the explosion Monday night probably never will be known. Navy and civilian workers were busy digging out the debris in the nation's worst wartime blast which shook 14 counties and was heard 80 miles away.

Damage to the navy ammunition depot, 35 miles from San Francisco, was listed at $2,000,000. Losses to civilian-owned structures were estimated at $500,000 to $750,000. Government officials said the two vessels represented $4,300,000.

Only four bodies had been recovered. So powerful were the explosions, two seconds apart, that they disintegrated everything within range. The Port Chicago waterfront was turned into matchwood. Pieces of hull flew two miles.

The Navy said at least 203 enlisted men and nine officers were lost, plus 31 or 32 members of the naval armed guards, five Coast guardsmen and about 70 crew members aboard the two ships.

Three civilian deaths had been reported previously.

St. Lo Is Tough And Burial Crypt Proves Safest For Command Post

By DON WHITEHEAD
Associated Press Staff Writer

ST. LO, France, July 19.—The Germans battered this wrecked city with artillery and mortar shells today as the doughboys dug into the rubble to defend the prize won after eight days of fighting.

Explosions are crashing from one end of the city to the other and around three sides the doughboys still are battling Germans caught in the sudden forward surge. St. Lo is the Americans', but the Yanks still are fighting fanatical parachute troops making a last stand.

Deserted By All But Troops

St. Lo is deserted except for Yanks slipping from building to building, dodging into doorways when shells crash, and for troops manning machineguns, bazookas and defensive positions on the approaches to the town.

But in this wreckage of rubble and the awful desolation lies the body of an American major from Virginia, a hero of the battle of St. Lo whose bier is the wreckage of the church of Ste. Croix. He was killed leading the assault on St. Lo, and his body was carried in state in one of the first columns entering the town, as a tribute to his valor. Beside his bier flies the flag of the regiment with which he fought.

Anyone entering St. Lo this day after its capture ran a gantlet of enemy shelling. Troops are taking cover wherever they can find shelter.

Post In Family Crypt

In a cemetery at the eastern edge of St. Lo, Maj. Glover Johns of Corpus Christi, Tex., had a temporary command post in the crpyt of the Blanchet family. Its thick walls protected the men from flying shrapnel as shells burst outside.

About 200 Germans were pocketed on the southeastern side of the city, trying to fight their way out, and Capt. Cecil Harvey of Beaver Road, Sewickley, Pa., was calling for artillery fire upon them.

In the upper room of the crypt, which the Germans had used as a command post also, was a family altar. There were dried brown bread and a paper bag of stale butter beside the candles and litter of soldier gear. Doughboys lounged around the wall trying to get some rest while shells exploded nearby.

Many Jerries Killed

"We killed God knows how many Jerries in the draws on the southeastern side of town," Johns said. Three day's stubble of red beard covered his face, and his eyes looked tired. "We fought our way in and then the Jerries tried to come back and we had to fight them off again. They were trying to escape to the south."

This lean Texan was the leader of the "Indestructible Clay pigeons," a unit which first fought its way through the entire city.

"They call us clay pigeons because we are always our front where everybody can shoot at us," Johns grinned. "We are a little chipped, but we are still flying."

The steel doors of the crypt opened and Capt. Leroy Weddle of Hagertown, Md., and Lt. George Grimsehl, Lansdowne, Md., entered the little room. They had led advance units which cleaned out the main part of the city, and then took up defense positions controlling the approaches across the Vire river on the west side of the city.

Nazis Fail To Cross

Once this morning, the Germans tried to cross one of these approaches and machineguns killed six, driving the rest back.

"We had to clean out the streets house by house with bayonets and grenades," Grimsehl said: "There were a few machineguns, but we took care of them."

A dusty, bearded doughboy poked his head through the doorway and asked for Major Johns.

"Major, there's a hell of a lot of Germans in those draws. If we don't get the artillery going they're going to come through," he said.

"We know about 'em," Johns said. "Our artillery should be working on them now."

The soldier smiled. "Thanks, major," he said.

Over against the wall Pvt. Frank R. Avato, jr., Philadelphia, nodded.

Too Tired To Sleep

Johns noticed how tired the youth looked.

"Kid, why don't you try to get some sleep?"

"I haven't slept for 48 hours and I'm too tired to sleep now," Avato said.

Near the door two radiomen kept in contact with the artillery and mortars, passing along fire orders from observers. Soldiers kept crowding into the room to get orders and bring messages from the "front" at the edge of the city.

Pvt. George Wolff of Milwaukee passed along the targets for the mortars, and then he listened to a soldier talking in another part of town.

"Yeah" said Wolff. "Well, I'm in a cemetery and there are no ice cream cones here, either."

Safest Among Dead

From the upper room winding steps led down to the lower crypt where Johns had maps spread on the top of a marble vault. Here among the dead was the safest place in all St. Lo as the enemy poured heavy fire into the city.

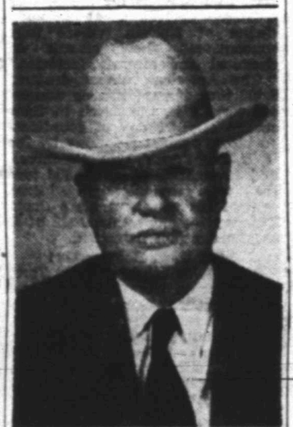

A concentration of shells thundered outside.

A soldier came down the steps, and said: "Major, I hear we're going to be relieved."

Johns smiled. "That's the best news I have heard yet. But don't go around spreading rumors. I'll believe it when I see the other guys here."

Martin Speaks Here Yesterday Afternoon

State Senator Jesse E. Martin of Fort Worth, candidate for attorney general, speaking in Lubbock Wednesday, launched an attack upon certain opinions handed down from the office of the attorney general by an opponent, Grover Sellers. He termed Sellers as a man "serving a recess appointment without Senate confirmation."

Martin threw criticism at Sellers for the latter's opinion that the governor could not call a special session of the legislature, after being petitioned to by members of the legislature, to allow service men and women to vote without payment of a poll tax.

"This opinion," continued Martin," said that it would be unconstitutional to call a special session because it would constitute a tax remission and that the only instance in which taxes could be remitted was in the instance of a great public calamity.

"I served in the Marine Corps in France during the last World war. I was over there marching up and down those same muddy fields where our boys and girls are marching today. I will frankly confess to you that many times it looked like a great public calamity to me, yet Mr. Sellers has ruled that this World war is not a public calamity."

Martin said he is the only ex-serviceman in this race and that he believes this, together with his qualifications, will put him in good position to deal with the vital problems that will arise in the attorney general's office dealing with the returning soldier, his widow, his orphans or his dependent parents.

General Blames Hitler Strategy

MOSCOW, July 19. (U.P.) — The Soviet press today published the text of a letter from Lieut. Gen. Edmund Hoffmeister, former commander of the 41st German Korps, blaming Hitler's strategy for the Nazi disaster in White Russia.

The letter was addressed to the Red Army command with a notation that Hoffmeister, one of 19 German generals captured in the current offensive, does not object to its publication.

Describes Morale Visit

Hoffmeister reviewed several examples of "Hitler's stupid command" on the eastern front and then described a visit made by 150 generals and admirals to Berchtesgaden where Hitler addressed them in an effort to boost their morale.

"He looked sick, his face swollen, voice low, speech confused," Hoffmeister said. "He made an hour and a half speech wherein he mentioned the difficulties faced when the National Socialists came into power. He said he wanted to become an architect and artist, but as a result of the catastrophic outcome of the first World war an Versailles, he was forced to become a state leader.

Said Germany Attacked

"Hitler pointed out that Germany had been attacked by France, Poland and Britain, and if she hadn't got ahead of Russia, Germany would have been attacked by Russia, too. He said Germany must hold out until full victory. He recommended that the generals take up National Socialism, and concluded by saying we will win victory but he didn't say by what means.

"Some of the younger generals were delighted by Hitler's speech but the old, experienced generals were skeptical."

Between 1913 and 1943 the number of power-driven plows, rakes and harrows increased 112 per cent.

Now examine your skin carefully, in bright sunlight! Is it as fresh and young-looking as you want it to be—or does it look even a little older than you are? Is it beginning to look a little coarse ... bumps here and there?

Why let this tragic thing happen to your lovely skin—even for one more evening? You don't have to risk these dangers to get the smooth, flawless texture you want! You can get a much lovelier effect —without danger— a softer, fresher, far more appealing look to your skin—with Lady Esther Face Powder! It flatters your skin with a film of beauty, hiding little lines and blemishes—giving that smooth, even "flawless" look you want. It has what I call a "baby texture"—for it seems to create a delicate, baby-fine smoothness on the surface of your skin. Men love it!

Nazi Internal Strife Marked By Slaying Of Six Generals In Fuss

By RICHARD R. KASISCHKE
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 19.—The death of six German officers in a fight over strategy and complaints of a captive Nazi general deploring discord among Hitler and his military leaders were announced by Allied quarters today and from Berlin came word of a shakeup in the low countries.

The Nazi high command apparently had become entangled in bitter disaffection while fighting its three-front war.

Argument At Athens

The Greek government-in-exile announced in Cairo that high German officers who met at the Hotel Brentagne in Athens for a conference disagreed violently over policy, drew pistols and began shooting. Five were said to have been killed in the melee, and the sixth, chief administrative officer for the Peleponnesus, was reported shot to death by an SS guard while fleeing.

Another Cairo report said the Athens provost marshal, one Col. Fritse, an Austrian, was executed for speaking against the German command.

The German news agency DNB said in a broadcast Hitler himself decreed the discharge of Col. Gen. Alexander von Falkenhausen as commander in Holland and Belgium.

Instead of the miltary man, Hitler turned over to the Gestapo the last German-occupied area not previously governed by Quisling or commissar, by naming Josef Grohe, 42, a high Elite Guard officer, "Reich commissioner of the occupied territories of Belgium and northern France." The German fuehrer also named an infantry commander, one General Grase, military commander in Holland and Belgium, the area where the Nazis have predicted new Allied landings.

Moscow newspapers quoted captive Gen. Edmund Hofmeister, who commanded the 41st Tank corps, as saying the disagreement in the ranks of Hitler's generals and Hitler's orders were causing a great toll in German dead and prisoners on the eastern front.

The general was quoted as saying Field Marshal Gen. Ernst von Busch, commander of the central Russian front where the Russians have made their most spectacular gains, told him "Hitler forbade any retreat, and he ordered every inch of occupied country defended."

Had To Obey Orders

"Although I considered the order wrong," Hofmeister was quoted, "I had to obey. I want to say that the defeat in White Russia is an example of the talentless command of Hitler. When Brauchitsch, List, von Rustedt (all marshals) and others tried to point out error, they were discharged."

Hofmeister was quoted as saying that young Nazi generals "who have had but little experience in war" side with Hitler against the older commanders, and he mentioned Field Marshal Erwin Rommel in this group. Rommel was considered at least partly responsible for the discharge of von Rundstedt as commander in the west in favor of Field Marshal Gen. Guenther von Kluge.

Marine Clings To His Pipe But Successful In Rescuing Another

SOMEWHERE IN THE CENTRAL PACIFIC, July 19. (U.P.) — Marine Warrant Officer Ernest L. Gibbons of Portland, Me., vowed today he'll never again take his favorite pipe along when he goes life-saving.

An ardent smoker, W/O Gibbons plunged off the deck of a ship—with the pipe firmly clamped between his teeth—to rescue Marine Private First Class Carl L. Smith of Sulphur Springs, Tex.

The Texan had become exhausted while swimming about 30 yards from the ship when a sudden gust of wind roughed the water.

Gibbons lost his overseas cap in the rescue, but returned to the ship with Smith—and the pipe.

His only complaint was the unpleasant effect sea water has "on a man's best pipe."

Mess Of Fish Costly To Henderson Man

HENDERSON, July 19. (U.P.) — One mess of fish cost John Moore $3,000, and today he was a sad, sad man.

Moore took his family to a creek in the Laneville community, and while the family fished the Moore home burned. Everything was destroyed.

Two visitors — Mrs. Gladys Shivley and Mrs. B. K. Seitzinger, both of Galveston—lost all their belongings.

Bus Officials Offer No Service Forecast

Following an announcement by three major bus lines operating out of Fort Worth that service on their lines would have to curtailed due to a reported 55 per cent cut in bus tire quotas for August, officials of the Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma coaches, Inc., of Lubbock, felt "premature" to make a forecast Wednesday morning of how its service might be affected by the rumor.

W. Hurley Carpenter, assistant general manager of T-NM&O, said in absence from the city of Jess C. Levens, vice president and general manager, that he had talked with the Office of Price administration about the rumored problem after recent indications that the government would require, at least for a time, additional stocks of large-size tires such as those used by the coaches line.

No Official Staetment

"I do not believe officials of this line would feel qualified to evaluate the situation in absence of official instructions or statement of the present picture," he said.

"However, such operators as those of this line could not fail to view the possibilities with some concern, or to take the position the conditions could become serious, perhaps even critical. Truckers and bus lines could suffer. I understand the situation doesn't look good anywhere."

The T-NM&O line sprawls from Lubbock to the various compass points. Last month it ran 367,000 bus miles—which means, when it is considered that each bus has six tires "on the ground," 2,202,000 tire miles. Fifty buses leave run to and from Lubbock a day on 58 separate schedules.

FDR Not To Visit Britain, Press Says

LONDON, July 19 (U.P.)—The usually well-informed British press association, in a dispatch by its parliamentary correspondent, said today that President Roosevelt was not presently planning a visit to Great Britain.

There has been considerable speculation here that Mr. Roosevelt might meet again soon with British Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

The dispatch said that although President Roosevelt was away from Washington on a trip, it was understood that his holiday was designed to brace him for the coming presidential campaign.

Souvenir Almost Got Texan In His Foxhole

SAIPAN, Marianas Is. (Delayed) (U.P.)—Marine Sgt. Bryan L. Tucker, Celina, Tex., has as a souvenir the five-inch Jap shell that almost had his number on it.

During the second night of the battle to establish a beachhead, the shell plopped into his foxhole.

"When that thing fell in with men," he said, "I was too scared to think for a moment, but as soon as I got a second look, I made smoke jumping out of that hole." Fortunately, the shell was a dud.

Jones' Order On Meats Protested

WASHINGTON, July 19. (U.P.)—All beefsteaks and beef roasts will remain on the list of rationed meats at least through the first two weeks of August, it was indicated today, despite a war Food administration order to the contrary.

WFA Administrator Marvin Jones this week ordered the Office of Price Administration to make most beef grades point free next month.

Date To Be Postponed

The OPA, it is understood, vigorously objected to Jones' action and an OPA spokesman said it was understood by OPA that the effective date of the directive would be postponed.

Jones, in an unprecedented action, issued a directive to OPA Monday after discussions between the two agencies had reached an impasse last week. Under normal procedure, Jones would merely notify OPA of the amount of meats available for civilian distribution with OPA making the rationing decisions.

Formal Directive Issued

In this case, however, Jones issued a formal directive ordering OPA to remove commercial and utility grades of beefsteaks and roasts—which comprise 80 per cent of the beef supply—and also recommended the return of porks, hams and pork loin to rationing.

Under Jones' order, OPA would be left with about 50,000,000 pounds of beefsteaks and roasts for rationing next month, compared with 252,000,000 this month. An OPA spokesman said it would be "idiotic" to attempt to distribute 50,000,000 pounds under rationing.

Distribution Only Problem

Jones "authorized" OPA to reinstitute rationing on pork, hams and loin which were taken off last month but the problem on these products was confined solely to equitable distribution, it was said.

In the case of beef, it was said, Jones wanted to move stocks out of cold storage to make space available for an anticipated influx from the ranges. OPA maintained there were still no indications that the new supplies were coming in and that the animals were still on the ranges.

Circus Men's Cases Given Postponement

HARTFORD, Conn., July 19 (U.P.) Because of several incompleted investigations into the circus fire in which 163 persons lost their lives, the cases of five Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus officials charged with manslaughter, were continued in police court today until Aug. 11.

The accused are Vice President James A. Haley; General Manager George W. Smith; Chief Canvas Man Leonard Aylesworth; Chief Electrician Edward Versteeg; Chief Wagon Man David W. Blanchfield.

Precinct Conventions Scheduled Saturday

Precinct conventions in each Lubbock county precinct will be held by Democrats at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon it was announced Wednesday morning by L. C. Ellis, chairman of the party's county executive committee.

Ellis called on the electorate, in line with one of the resolutions of the recent county convention asking for "more pre-precinct conventions publicity," to attend in large number, and said the significance of such a convention, where delegates will be elected to the July 29 county convention here, "always is well marked."

TO APPEAL DECISION

HOLLYWOOD, July 19. (U.P.)—The Hollywood Canteen had notice on file in superior court today that it would appeal the $7,931 damage award made last May 17 to Radio Performer Florida Edwards. The actress received injuries as the result of a dance with a Marine "jive-hound," who spun her around so wildly she landed on the floor with both feet in the air.

First societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals were formed in England.

A Switch in Time saved Mine...

Now I'm over 33,000 mi.

I used to trade cars around 25,000. But if you'd offer me a new one today—unless it was free—I'd think twice. This '39 model gives me quite some pride, still running as sweet as it does. I know of people trying a dozen different oils and nearly everything else, to make their cars last. Some things worked; plenty didn't. In my case I played the hunch of OIL-PLATING my engine by switching to Conoco Nth motor oil, so as not to let engine acids get an upper hand. That worked! And why not? I knew that deadly corrosive acids are a regular part of every engine explosion. I had my faith in Conoco Nth oil's modern synthetic that attaches OIL-PLATING to working parts—like a close-fitting shield. There's the stuff that puts up a real battle against corrosive acids. You're giving your car its chance to live, as soon as your change to an OIL-PLATED engine. Get Conoco Nth oil, that's all.

INFORMATION PLEASE

One of the free courtesies they would like to offer is telling service men's visitors where they may obtain lodging out in town. HAVING FUN

ELLA MAY BUTLER who is representing the Lubbock Business and Professional Women's club at the national convention being held in New York City, writes that she is falling in love with the place. She has tickets to several musicals, including "Oklahoma" and has made the conventional trip to Rockefeller center and viewed Gotham from 70 stories. In the short time she has been there Miss Butler says she had learned to find her way to Fifth avenue, Saks and Radio City and back to the Roosevelt hotel where she is staying. However, she says she almost gets lost in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel where the convention is being staged.

MUSIC LESSONS FO RBABY — To parents who want to know when to start their children in music, Sigmund Spaeth, famous tune detective, says "Do it now." Babies are almost immediately aware of noise and soon enjoy it for its own sake. It is up to the parents to make this a pleasant noise whether of musical toys or recordings of pieces worth remembering, stressing rhythm for the youngest child, then melody and later harmony.

Actual musical participation begins as soon as a child can hold a rattle and progresses from there. Soon they should be given other types of musical toys so that music may become as much a part of imitative learning as speech. Often a child displays exceptional talent within the first few years of his life, and if he does, his practice will be voluntary. If he isn't a genius and parents will admit it immediately he can still enjoy studying music if they stress enjoyment in playing rather than great skill.

FAINT ACCENT — This great exodus peoples of Canada and the United States are making in the service of their countries is bringing the realization that accents either are disappearing or are scarcely noticed. Perhaps it's the movies or the radio or it may be daily association. Anyway we believe the time will come when one cannot be recognized as a native of a certain sector because of his peculiar accent.

For instance, Wednesday afternoon we had a delightful chat with Wren Writer Alice Borland of Regina Saskatchewan, Canada, and we conversed without difficulty. We don't know what she thought we sounded like but she had a cultured voice much like that of any young American woman we might name.

Miss Borland says she has been homesick since she arrived in Lubbock because her home is near a wheat belt an the surrounding country is rolling like our Plains.

Incidentally she has the clearest complexion. It has a shiny, scrubbed look.

BRIGHTENS SKIN

SPEAKING of complexions, we have been using an all-purpose cream lately that is highly recommended as an aid to dull, drab, off-color skin, as well as a protection against sun and wind burn, as a shooting agent after one has been out in the weather and for over night duty. It's concentrated ozone, that's what it is and it has the cleanest, most unusual scent; we suppose it smells more like fresh air than anything else.

So far no one has rushed up and asked what has happened to give us such a sleeping beauty look, but then we have only had two applications of the cream. It's modestly priced and it's available here.

Tea And Coffee Are In Honor Of Two

Parties and showers are given for a bride-elect and a bride.

Miss Sherley Shepard, bride-elect of Ensign Lewis Cox, was complimented at a tea-shower given Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. B. McCorkle, 2615 Twenty-fourth street. Assistant hostesses were Mesdames Paul Sherrod, Riley Ham, Clem Boverie and J. C. Davis.

A pink and white motif was carried out in floral decoration and refreshments.

Assisting at the refreshment board were Mesdames E. B. and Lawrence Green and James Kerr.

During the evening Mrs. James Vickers played piano selections.

About eighty guests called.

Mesdames Mary A. Ware, H. H. Nicholas and J. M. Gunn gave a coffee recently as a courtesy to Mrs. D. M. Howell, who was Miss Lois Hale before her marriage. The coffee was given in Mrs. Mary A. Ware's home and fifty guests called between 9 and 10:30 o'clock.

Green and yellow tinted daisies and gladioli and baby breath formed the centerpiece for the table where Mesdames Nicholas and Reuby Rhodes presided. Coffee, cinnamon rolls and a fruit plate were served.

Mrs. Albert Fortenberry presided at the bride's book. Mrs. Gunn was at the gift display.

Mrs. E. Waldo Trotter played piano selections throughout the morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Howell left this morning for Dallas to visit her sister and later will go to Dodge City for a visit with his sister. Mr. Howell, pharmacist mate 1/c in the Navy, recently returned from 18 months overseas.

Woman In Canadian Naval Service Is On Leave Here

A young woman who is serving as a wren writer in the Women's Royal Canadian Naval service is visiting in Lubbock, on leave from temporary duty in the British admiralty delegation, in Washington, D. C.

She is Alice Borland of Regina Saskatchewan, Canada and is in Lubbock as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Fred P. Carmichael, 2206 Thirtieth street, and also to see Lt. H. L. Samuel, late of the RCAF, and stationed at South Plains Army Air field since he transferred to the United States Army Air corps.

Wren Writer Borland (that corresponds to a yeoman in the WAVES) has been in the service for one and one-half years and Wednesday afternoon she said she wouldn't be a civilian again for any price one could name. The first year she spent in a recruiting office and then asked for a foreign draft and was granted it—on loan to the British admiralty in Washington.

The WRENs are the newest branch of service for Canadian women, Miss Borland explained. She feels they are a bit exclusive because their quarters are so elegant and their uniforms so attractive. She was wearing the summer suit of Royal Canadian blue, the clearest, most electrical blue imaginable, with a white shirt, black tie and black tricorn felt with the letters "HMCS" on the band. Her pochette (which corresponds to the pouch carried by the WAVEs and WACs) was fine black leather and was slung to a shoulder strap.

The insignia of the WRENs is a crown through which an anchor is thrust and topping it is a small wren.

Canadian women have flocked to the call for WRENs in such numbers that many applications have been turned down, according to Miss Borland.

"I can see why they all want to belong," she said. "There's nothing like it for experience and for feeling that you are doing something definite to hasten the end of the war."

Red Squeeze Intensified, While Nazis Battered On All Sectors

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

The Bug river sector of the Nazis' "East Wall" in Poland, from which the disastrous attack on Russia was launched, is fast disintegrating between the jaws of the vast Red Army vice clamped upon it from north of Brest Litovsk to south of Lwow.

SIMPSON

That north-south water hazard, cutting through central Poland for nearly 200 miles from the Carpathian foothills to the western extremity of the Pinsk marshes, is in deadly danger by Berlin's somber admission. Behind it lies no strong river barrier along which tottering German armies can rally until the Vistula is reached. And it, too, is vulnerable.

Linked with broadening and deepening Allied foothills in Normandy and new Allied advances in Italy, the new Russian blow on the Bug lends credence to a Moscow-published cry from a captured German general that Hitler recently had told his commanders "the way to victory is through faith in Nazism."

Knew Words Couldn't Help

"We knew his words could not remedy conditions at the front where soldiers, tanks and planes are needed," the crest-fallen officer said.

That was being demonstrated anew in Italy, Normandy and most of all in Poland. Ukrainian armies already had turned the Bug line to the south and closed in on the Lwow bastion, matching the swift sweep of White Russian forces around the line's northern anchorage at Brest Litovsk. In between, on that 180 miles front, the Russians had crossed the Bug above and below Sokal and were menacing it east of Chelm along the direct road and rail route to Warsaw via Lublin.

Houston Woman Fined For Biting Dogcatcher

HOUSTON, July 19 (U.P.) — A pretty, red-haired woman paid a $15 fine in corporation court today for the novel offense of biting a dog catcher.

Mrs. Francis Talbitzer, 25, explained she got pretty angry when she looked out a window the other day and saw the dog catcher carrying her two pooches away — one under each arm. So, she said, she rushed out to stop him. But she got so angry that instead of just stopping him, she bit him on the shoulder.

"Pooey, it wasn't worth that much," said Mrs. Talbitzer when reporters asked for her impression of the $15 bite.

Hird, who has been in the South Pacific for nine months, was presented the medal by Maj. Gen. Ralph J. Mitchell, USMC.

As communications officer, Hird "supervised and directed the wide expansion of the communications system in the South Pacific area necessitated by the enlarged scope of operations," his citation reads. "His leadership and outstanding ability contributed materially to the success of air operations."

Mrs. Hird and their three children live in Troy. Hird is the son of Capt. and Mrs. H. B. Hird of Orange, Tex.

Critical Period Said Ahead For Nation's Civilian Products

HOUSTON, July 19 (U.P.) — Essential requirements will be produced, but America is entering into its most critical period insofar as shortages of civilian goods are concerned, Hugh J. Corcoran, district manager of the War Production board, said today upon his return from a conference with national WPB officials in Washington.

During the next few months, Corcoran said, Americans will be able to purchase little more than absolute necessities.

The prospect of combatting the situation prompted the national conference, he said. It was decided that a most effective solution would be to obtain closest possible cooperation between the WPB and the War Manpower commission to supply workers for essential industries.

Up to 160,000 people were accommodated in raid shelters in the subway system of London during the heaviest German air attacks in 1940.

Dallas Group Declares Bolting Can Be Legal

DALLAS, July 19 (U.P.)—An assertion that hundreds of Dallas county Democrats would vote legally for the Republican nominees for President and vice-president next November was made today by leaders of the Dewey-Bricker Backer clubs.

According to a statement issued by O. Sam Cummings and E. B. Bynum, co-chairmen, he legal sanction for such voters is found in article 3110 of the revised civil statutes of Texas, which reads: "I am a Democrat and pledge myself to support the nominees of this primary."

Bynum, a Democrat, asserted that the pledge covers only nominees of the state primary and not nominees of the party generally.

SOME THOUGHTS FOR THINKING VOTERS TO CONSIDER IN ELECTING A DISTRICT JUDGE

SUBMITTED BY LUBBOCK COUNTY CITIZENS

Why County Judge "Not Qualified" for District Judge

The law does not even require the County Judge to be a lawyer. (Many of the County Judges of Lubbock County have been laymen.) Like the Police Court Magistrate and Justice of the Peace, he "ain't" supposed to know "ary" law. A Justice of the Peace is "legally qualified" to fill the office of County Judge (in fact, one J. P. is running for County Judge of Lubbock County now) but that doesn't "prove" that the J. P., if elected County Judge, is "thoroughly qualified" to be District Judge too.

Why "Few Appeals" No Evidence of County Judge's Ability

The County Court does not try many contested cases. (In some counties there is no county court at all.) The County Court, again like the Police Court and the Justice Court, is a court of limited jurisdiction. The great majority of cases are disposed of merely by defendant's default or plea of guilty. Seldom is there an appeal from any such inferior court, because the amount involved is too small. Hence, it is false and misleading for a Judge of any such court to say that the "record" of "few appeals" from his court is "testimony" of his fairness or ability.

Why County Judge Doesn't Stop Bootlegging, Gambling, Etc.

Don't be deceived by any political propaganda of "law enforcement" against bootleggers, gamblers, etc. Liquor law violations are punishable by maximum fine of $1,000 or one year imprisonment, or both. An occasional heavy sentence would put the bootlegger out of business, wouldn't it? Indeed it would. And, if it would, where is the explanation for the systematic release of the bootlegger on a plea of guilty with the MINIMUM fine, without imprisonment, so he can continue his criminal career of a professional law violator?

Why Are Bootleggers, Etc. Opposing Judge Pharr?

Under the deplorable circumstances related above, why are the bootleggers, their lawyer, and professional bond makers, not supporting Judge Pharr, and working against him?. Is it because they are pleased with the aforesaid abominable "license" system of MINIMUM fines, and desire it, instead of a law enforcement program that will "suppress crime"? Think that over, Mr. Thinking Citizen, before you vote.

Why Qualifications Of District Judge Important —Remember Dr. Hunt Slaying Case At Littlefield.

In District Court, the litigation, civil and criminal, is often exceedingly important, as well as complicated. In cases involving murder, rape, robbery, etc., the smart lawyers make a monkey out of an ignorant Judge. The tragedy is that Society pays a big price for the mistake.

In the Dr. Hunt shooting case at Littlefield, a jury verdict was set aside on appeal, and the defendant probably freed forever, because of one error of law.

WHY HOMER L. PHARR WELL QUALIFIED FOR DISTRICT JUDGE

A graduate of University of Texas law school, former District Judge of this District, and World War I veteran, Judge Pharr is well qualified by both training and experience. As District Judge of this County, he made an enviable record as a capable, fearless and just jurist. Not a word of suspicion has ever been uttered against his dignified and impartial conduct of the District Court. His record here on the bench is open to all. Don't gamble on choosing the man for this important place. Therefore, help re-elect Homer L. Pharr as District Judge.

Women Voters Pose Surprises

Total poll tax receipts which show a greater number of qualified women voters in Lubbock county than in former presidential election years is incongruous with the lack of interest of feminine voters noted this week in the primary election Saturday.

Although no accurate figure is available on number of women who have poll tax or exemption certificates, H. B. Bryan, tax assessor collector, said it looks like "about every other potential voter is a woman."

Many Clubs Inactive

One woman suggested there isn't normal opportunity to stir up interest over the election, since many women's clubs and organizations do not function in summer months.

Another, who has lived in various sections of the United States, said she found Texas people "less prone to discuss politics" than any place she had ever been. Even the men are reluctant to talk about qualifications of candidates. "I have mentioned the election several times in groups—and the idea always has fallen flat."

More Important Things

Still another was of the opinion that there are so many bigger problems facing the electorate that the changing of a man in office is of slight importance. Many women, she said, explained they would be happier if the country could avoid election in war years.

There were those, however, who predicted most women who paid for poll taxes would cast votes Saturday — that women realize importance of good government more than ever before.

All women questioned agreed on one point—that every American citizen should exercise his right to vote.

Many Intend To Vote

Conclusion from interviews is that Lubbock women certainly intend to vote, as poll tax receipts would indicate, but that they have been so busy with their own war jobs and domestic problems they have not had time to discuss politics with friends.

It is a certainty that the national vote of women will be larger this year. Authoritative estimates have placed it at 60 per cent. To insure feminine interest, a school is being conducted at the National Democratic convention this week for the purpose of instructing women how to stir up interest in leadership of the country.

SPAAF Asks Loan Or Donation Of Tools

Lubbock and South Plains residents who have played a prominent role in helping soldiers in the South Plains Army Air Field post hospital by furnishing dayrooms and wards with various items now have another opportunity ot make the life of the men in the SPAAF hospital a bit brighter.

A convalescents' carpenter shop, in which men who are recuperating at the field may use their hands and ingenuity to the best advantage in wood work, is short on carpenter tools. The American Red Cross unit at the field, under the direction of W. J. Rother, has appealed for second hand carpenters' tools such as saws, hammers, vises and other such equipment for the hospital shop.

Anyone in the city having such tools to contribute or loan for use in the hospital carpenter shop are asked to call Rother at 9361, extension 321, or the Red Cross chapter in the city. The tools will be picked up at the homes of contributors by Red Cross officials.

Two Coast Guardsmen Tell Texas Shipyard Workers Of Sinking

ORANGE, July 19. (AP) — Two Coastguardsmen, plunged into the icy north Atlantic last March when an enemy U-boat pack sank their destroyer escort vessel, told last night how a pitiful handful of survivors on life rafts slapped each other and yelled to keep alive.

The night was March 10. The USS Leopold, fated to become the first craft of her class ot go down in this war, was riding a flank position in the convoy because of her sturdiness and speed. For nine days, the convoy played tag with the enemy underseas pack.

Soundman 3/C W. F. Smith, of Fort Worth, Tex., and Gunner's Mate Carl M. Graves, of Memphis, Tenn., told workmen at the Consolidated Steel shipyard, where the Leopold was built and launched, that the enemy sub laid a torpedo into their craft at 8:10 p. m. —even while the Leopold was bearing down, with guns blazing, on another half-submerged Nazi U-boat.

"It was just a dull thud. Then the Leopold cracked right across the middle of the deck," Graves remembered. "When the order came ot abandon ship, I aided in releasing a raft on the starobard side and jumped into the water. The water temperature was 36 degrees and the wind felt even colder."

Smith said the ship was abandoned in good order, "without the yelling and hollering" he had always imagined. "The men were too busy helping each other for that," he explained.

Once on the rafts, the major problem was keeping awake. To go to sleep meant to freeze to death.

"We hollered and made all the noise we could to stay awake. We also slapped each other's faces and swung our arms," Smith said. "But some were just sitting, feeling sleepier and sleepier as they froze to death.

"We put the dead afloat as they died and pulled others that were still alive out of the water."

Three times the USS Joyce, another escort sent to battle from the Orange yard, churned past the life rafts carrying Smith and Graves.

Once the skipper of the Joyce made himself heard above the roar of the sea and battle.

"We're dodging torpedoes. God bless you. We'll be back," he bellowed.

At 4 a. m. on March 11 the Joyce pulled the survivors from their rafts after eight hours exposure.

There had been 18 men on Graves' raft, but now there were only six. Only three were still alive on Smith's raft. All in all, only 28 of the Leopold's complement—more than 100—survived.

Soft-Spoken Texan Is Still Going Strong; Gets At Least 10 Japs

SAIPAN, Marianas Is. (Delayed) (AP)—Cpl. Clemens N. Treybig, a quiet, soft-spoken Marine from Fayetteville, Tex., has accounted for at least 10 Japs in the first two and a half weeks of the campaign.

He has not even been scratched, although at one point an enemy sniper's bullet knocked a carbine out of his hand, blowing it to pieces.

Corporal Treybig shot two Japs on the beach within an hour after he landed with the first assault wave.

He dropped one two nights later from his foxhole.

During a Marine push several days ago, he shot five more with his carbine before it was blown out of his hand. He turned back for a minute, picked up a rifle lying near a dead Marine, and pushed on with his outfit.

Three days ago he got two more, one with a rifle and another with a hand grenade.

And he's still going strong.

Lumber 'Freeze' Reports Denied

In a communication received Wednesday morning a widespread impression that lumber has been frozen under a new set of War Production Board regulations was corrected by Clifton W. Johnson, El Paso district WPB priorities manager.

The situation also was clarified further by S. L. Forrest, Lubbock lumberman who is vice president of the National Retail Lumber Dealers association and a member of a national advisory committee of eight members to WPB.

Forrest expressed the opinion that the situation, definitely, is not one which should cause anyone to grow panicky. He added that there are no indications that dealers are becoming panicky. He voiced the further opinion that the revision of regulations have the apparently clear justification of war necessity, but that a speedy relaxing of tightened rules should follow victory in Europe.

Sold On Priority Ratings

Meanwhile, according to Johnson's statement, lumber has not been frozen and will not be under an amendment to Order L-335 which becomes effective Aug. 1. Then, and immediately, he said, lumber may be sold priority ratings.

However, people needing small quantities of lumber for such things as repair jobs won't be required to go through a mass of red tape to buy what they need. Each lumber yard will be allowed from 5,000 to 8,000 board feet of lumber per quarter to fill the requirements of small purchasers not eligible for a priority rating.

Lumber also will be available for the needs of those with priority ratings. Thus, assurance is given that jobs under construction can be completed. Local lumbermen said frankly, however, that new construction jobs not clearly essential probably will be "out" until victory in Europe. Until then, they have been advised, most of the available lumber is going to be required for the use of the fighting forces there—a large portion of it for the crating or boxing of the materials of war.

Dewey Said For Strong Defense

ALBANY, N. Y., July 19. (AP)—Rep. James W. Wadsworth (R-NY) a long-time advocate of compulsory military training, said today Gov. Thomas E. Dewey agreed with him that the extensive weakening of the United States military strength after World war I should not be repeated.

Wadsworth, co-author of the selective service act, was a guest of the Republican presidential nominee at a conference which he said dealt mainly with post-war national security.

Recalls Past Errors

"We discussed generally having this country strong and kept strong in a military sense after the war," Wadsworth told reporters. "We discussed it by contrast with 1920 and 1922, when we entered into a disarmament agreement, sank one third of our navy, reduced our army, promised Japan that would not fortify the Philippines, and made ourselves pretty nearly helpless to our great distress later on.

"Governor Dewey and I are in agreement that sort of thing should not happen again."

Favors Holding Bases

Neither the administration of selective service nor the question of compulsory military training, which he long has advocated, were discussed with Dewey, Wadsworth said.

Asked about post-war retention of military bases outside the continental United States, the former chairman of the Senate military afairs committee termed that "one of the elements" in what he said was "the high desirability of maintaining our military strength so as to be not only secure but influential."

It Won't Be Long Now?

P. B. (BARRET) PENNEY

In this, the last week for campaigning, I feel that the public has a right to expect me, as a Candidate for re-election for the office of County Commissioner, a brief statement of my claims for your support.

For more than 40 years, I have been a citizen of Lubbock County, a Taxpayer, and a contributor to all worthy causes; only limited in my willingness to help because of limited means.

While serving as Commissioner, I caused to be built a hard surfaced road to the Lubbock Cemetery, of which I am very proud. I also sponsored over 15 miles of farm-to-market roads and in addition, have kept all dirt roads in the best possible shape.

In Precinct No. 1, the greater part of Lubbock's population of more than 45,000 reside. Over 70% of the State and County Taxes, are paid in this precinct by the City. Therefore, I feel that representation is due them in the Commissioners' Court. I am the only County Commissioner, who resides in the City of Lubbock, proper.

In offering again for the office of Commissioner, of Precinct 1, of Lubbock County, I do so with full knowledge of the critical times we are now facing and the sacrifices which much be made by each and all of us. I also know from past experience, it will require the cooperation of every individual.

My past record, as your commissioner, speaks for itself, and I shall continue to render fair, honest and conscientious treatment to one and all alike—and will work with and cooperate with the various authorities, municipal and otherwise, to the end that harmony shall prevail.

The voters of Lubbock County, owe me NOTHING—I am merely asking for the job—purely on merit and qualifications.

Your vote and Your influence will be appreciated.

Thanking you, I am,

Showdown On Texas Demo Contest Delayed As Pros Whoop For FDR

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, July 19.—The Democratic convention got underway today without a showdown on whether it would seat an anti-Roosevelt group of delegates from Texas or a delegation of pro-Roosevelt fighters from the state's rump convention.

While both factions achieved some measure of recognition, actually Texas thus far has had no voice in the convention proceedings because of the bitter intra-party strife that has split its Democrats into two sharply-different units.

Pros Whoop For FDR

The vociferous pro-Roosevelt delegation, mostly wearing alternate badges, took seats on the convention floor and whooped it up loudly every time the President's name was mentioned.

The regular delegation, which has decided to throw most of its weight into the movement backing Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia for president, kept its hands in its pockets.

Decision of the credentials committee not to meet until tomorrow morning was taken by several of the pro-Roosevelt delegates as a good sign that the party leadership was reluctant to let the fight come to a head, and to keep it off the convention floor if possible. The pro-Roosevelt group had hoped to obtain a hearing today, staking its chances of being seated upon the possibility of obtaining a minority report upon which the convention as a whole could act.

Regulars Win Temporarily

Meanwhile, the regular delegation was seated provisionally, without prejudice to the rump delegates.

Chairman Herman Jones of the pro-Roosevelt delegation was directed by his group's steering committee to argue its case before the credentials committee. Representing the Regulars will be Merritt Gibson of Longview, a member of the committee.

Leaders of both factions spent much of the morning attempting to find out when and where the credential committee would meet.

Jones told his steering committee that he could not hope for a favorable decision from the credentials committee, but that he hoped to muster enough votes to bring out a minority report.

Sen. Abe Murdock of Utah, chairman of the committee, commented that he thought "the situation has been pretty well straightened out," but refused to elaborate. There were few members of either delegation who would agree with him.

Biggest Whoops Saved For One Person—FDR

CHICAGO STADIUM, July 19. (AP)—The Democrats whooped and hollered for anything and everything at their opening session today, but the biggest roar—as in 1932 and 1936 and 1940—wes reserved for each and every mention of the name Franklin D. Roosevelt.

At the very first mention, they whooped, stamped, whistled and cheered until Mayor Edward F. Kelly of Chicago, the speaker, had to hold up his hands and beg for silence. He didn't convince a single territorial alternate that he meant it, however.

Every seat on the convention floor was filled, and the lower balconies were thickly populated, too.

The first session got underway at 12:05 p. m. central war time—35 minutes behind schedule. It was adjourned at 1:13 p. m. after a dozen speeches which had a single theme—the renomination of FDR.

Yank Power Stops St. Louis Browns

ST. LOUIS, July 19 (AP)—Exploding in the sixth inning with their old time power, the New York Yankees defeated the St. Louis Browns, 6 to 5 tonight to close the gap on the league leaders to two full games and even the present crucial series.

Big Ernie Bonham weathered the storm of 12 hits that were zoomed off the bats of the "those surprising Browns," but went all the way to hang up his sixth victory of the season, and his fourth straight since recovering from a back injury.

Hershel Martin again led the attack for the Yankees, getting three of their ten hits, while Milt Byrnes of the Browns matched this number, but it was John Lindell's big bat that drove in four runs although getting only one hit, this a homer.

First Fiddle Romps Victory At Suffolk

BOSTON, July 9. (AP)—After being bumped twice at the eighth pole, Mrs. Ed Mulrenan's game grey First Fiddle resumed his thrilling stretch drive and outran the Millbrook stable's Alex Barth by three-quarters of a length in the $50,000 Massachusetts handicap today at Suffolk Downs.

The winning five-year-old son of Royal Minstrel, claimed for $2500 as a juvenile, came all the way up from fifth in the backstretch while turning the mile and a furlong in 1:49 against his seven high-class rivals.

Alex Barth, second all the way, placed with a length to spare on A. C. Ernft's Alquest, the leader from the gate to the eight-pole, where jockey Johnny Longden gave First Fiddle the whip.

The victor then went outside of Alex Barth and, despite the double dose of interference, had the race won at the sixteenth pole. Eddie Guerin, Alex Barth's rider, was fined $200 by the stewards as the crowd of 28,618 tendered Longden a roaring ovation.

BROOKLYN, July 19. (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers pounded southpaws Arnold Carter and Clyde Shoun for five runs in the eighth inning tonight and checked their losing streak with a 10-5 victory over the Cincinnati Reds before a paid attendence of 12,539.

Each side used three pitchers as both starters, Walters for the Reds and Melton of the Dodgers, being shelled from the hill in an early scoring spree launched by both clubs.

The three Dodgers limited the Reds to nine hits, the nine Cincinnati starters getting one each, while the Dodgers hammered out 15 hits.

Junior Playoff Set For Austin

Junior baseball teams from Waco, Austin, Dallas and Lubbock will converge on Austin July 27 for a playoff series for the American Legion state championship, H. J. McCabe announced here Wednesday night.

Just what manner in which the playoff will be conducted will be determined later, but present indications are that Dallas and Lubbock teams will meet in a three-game playoff for the north half while Waco and Austin play for the south half. The winners would then meet for the championship.

The tournament was shifted to Austin by a vote of 3 to 1, with the Dallas club being the only team in the playoff to object to the move.

McCabe said Wednesday night that the Lubbock entry would contest for a double elimination tournament at Austin instead of the north-south playoff plan as sought by the Dallas club.

CHICAGO, July 19. (U.P.)—Volo Song, four-year-old trotting champion and winner of the 1943 Hambletonian, was destroyed last night after specialists decided they could not heal his left foreleg, fractured in five places in a racing accident last Sunday at Elkhorn, Wis.

Bill Dean's Wallop Purina Mills To Open Second Half

One bad inning spoiled the debut of Purina Mills into the National League junior baseball race Wednesday afternoon as the first half champions, Bill Dean's Service, walloped the Millers 17 to 5.

The Deanmen came from behind in the third inning to take a 5-4 lead after the Millers had bounded away to a fast start, but it was the fourth inning that the Deanmen really clinched the ball game.

A dozen runners streamed across the plate in this big inning as Dean's heavy artillery shelled Purina pitchers for eight of the 19 hit barrage in this inning.

Vaughn settled down after a rocky start and pitched the Deanmen to the victory, scattering nine Purina hits. Forsythe started on the mound for Purina, gave way to Balch in the big fourth inning. Balch finished the game.

It was the second half opener for both teams.

In the American League race, the Lions Club nine failed to show up for the battle with the Optimist Club, and the game was fortified to the Optimists by a score of 9-0.

Induction Docs Here Pass Bulldog Turner

The West Texas Recruiting and Induction Station had a "distinguished customer" Wednesday and Clyde Douglas "Bulldog" Turner, famed football star of college and professional ranks, passed his pre-induction physical examination and returned to his home in Abilene to await his call to the armed services.

Turner is 25 years old, married and has one child.

Turner first came into the limelight with the Sweetwater Mustangs a number of years ago, but gained his greatest fame when he was named on the All-American team while playing for Hardin-Simmons at Abilene.

After leaving college, Turner cast his lot with the Chicago Bears in the professional football ranks, and with this team was named three years in a row to the professional All-American team.

Just what plans Turner will be able to make for his future is not known, but will depend on when he is called into the service. Turner told friends in Lubbock Wednesday that he hoped to get to play in the All-Star game late in August against the College All-Stars. He is still the property of the Chicago Bears, pro football champions.

Reservations Heavy For Coaching School

WICHITA FALLS, July 19. (AP)—More than 150 reservations had been made today by local hotels for coaches planning to attend the Texas High School Coaching school Aug. 7-11.

Perry Davis, president of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce and general chairman for the entertainment of the visiting mentors, said at the present rate the registration probably would exceed the anticipated total of 300 this year.

LAAF Civilians Cop Thriller Over Keith

The Lubbock Army Air Field Civilians came from behind twice, before finally scoring the winning tally against Keith's Wizzers, 7-16, Wednesday night at the Twenty-third street and Avenue W diamond.

In the sixth inning, Spivey homered for the Civilians with Dobbe on base to bring the count to 5-all. Then in the eighth frame, after the Wizzers had scored, Mangold belted a four-bagger to re-tie the contest. It was in the last half of the ninth when pitcher Gayley singled, stole second, and was sent across the plate with the winning run by a long double from Holeman's bat.

Gayley pitched the entire game for the Civilians, striking out three, and allowing 13 hits. Spivey caught. Battery for the Wizzers was Markey, putting the third strike past two, and granting 14 hits, and Rollins.

A Meeting With A Promise

REGARDLESS of the actual prospects for the early establishment of feeder airline services throughout this territory, the area conference tentatively set for next week in Lubbock should be eminently worthwhile.

As yet, no one can pretend to know when, how and by whom those services will be put into operation. A statement from the Civil Aeronautics board in Washington the other day that it may be advisable to limit such services to an "experimental" basis for awhile might mean that feeder lines for the South Plains are some distance in the future.

But even the most conservative people are convinced that feeder airlines are coming. They are convinced that these lines are destined to occupy an important place in the nation's transportation system—though probably not as important, nor as soon, as enthusiasts expect. Theer seems every reason for confidence that, if hopes and expectations materialize according to the most conservative estimates, Lubbock and the South Plains will be served sooner or later.

Therefore, it is important that forward-looking representatives of all the towns and cities in this area should get together for a thorough discussion of hopes, plans and prospects. True, they may talk mostly about applications proposing specific services pending now before CAB, and about how they might cooperate most effectively in the support of such applications.

But, no matter what may happen to pending applications and no matter how far in the future the establishment of feeder airlines may be, the meeting here should prove of great constructive value. Even if feeder service is not possible as soon as is hoped, the meeting should prove a most important preparatory step for the time when efforts might be productive of results. It will not be at all surprising if the meeting should develop values which will not be perceived or appreciated for months, even years, to come.

It is to be hoped, therefore, that every town and city in this territory will take advantage of the cordial invitation to be represented.

Germany Is Plotting Again

THE first plaintive whines that dribbled in a few days ago from the pen of Dr. Goebbels, German propaganda minister and one of the most vicious of all the Nazis, might well have caused a chorus of, "I told you so," among the people of the Allied nations.

The submissive tone of his new writings, which were beamed especially to Allied nations, could not have caused any surprise. It was predicted weeks ago that when the Nazi overlords recognized the inevitability of defeat, they would begin begging exactly along the lines that Goebbels adopted.

The substance of his plea was that the Allies shouldn't be too hard on Germany. After all, he argued, the Germans and all the other nations actually are brothers who have had a falling out. He proposes, magnanimously, that all should forgive and forget. Germany doesn't ask much, he whined—just "economic prosperity" among other things.

But, as it happens, the Allies have learned about trusting Germany with an undisturbed industrial economy. That is what happened after the last war. And to show their appreciation, the German militarists immediately—years before anyone ever heard of Adolf Hitler—started their preparations for teh present war.

That is exactly what they hope to do again, as proved by documentary evidence of unquestioned authenticity. Nazi militarists have been so brazen as to say that defeat in the present war would be no more than an "incident" to delay, but not otherwise affect Germany's determination to rule the world. But, as they themselves admit, the one thing Germany must have to prepare for the next war is an industry with which to manufacture the weapons.

Thus, it is more than unlikely—it is incredible—that the Allies will be deceived by anything that comes from Goebbels and his kind. They are not pleading for a world of peace. They are begging for the opportunity to prepare for another and an infinitely more terrible war which, they confidently believe, would end with the world enslaved by Germany.

A man can't tell by what she saying when a woman is being catty to another woman, but he can tell by the tone of her voice. If she is cooing, she is ripping the hide open in some especially tender place .

A Californian who bet he could drink half a gallon of whiskey in an hour won $5 but lost his life. This gave him a net profit of about $4.70 on the transaction.

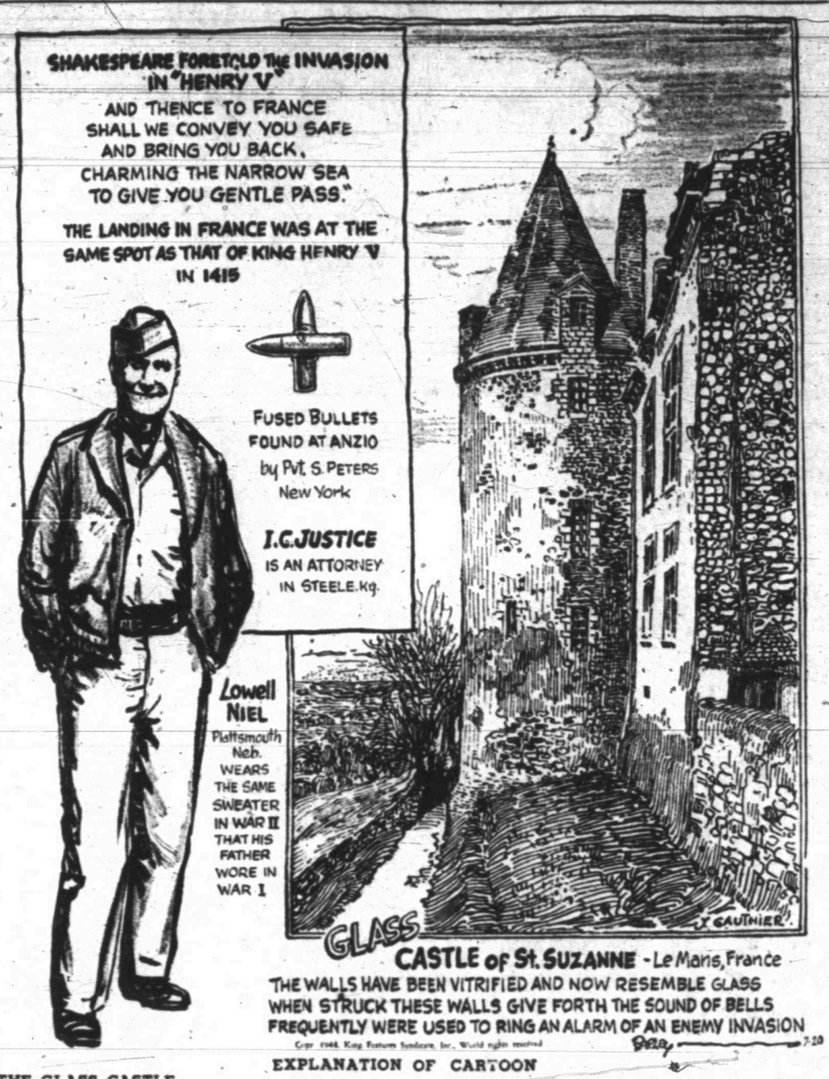

Another reason why a fool is so exasperating is because he derives so much enjoyment out of being a fool.

The One Minute Sermon

Blessed are the undeflied in the way, who walk in the law of the Lord.

Blessed are thy that keep his testimonies, and that seek him with the whole heart. They also do no iniquity: they walk in his ways. Psalms: 119: 1 through 3.

THE GLASS CASTLE

The Glass Castle of St. Suzanne, near Le Mans, France, is so-called because its walls have been vitrified and are now covered with a glass-like surface. The slightest knock against these walls produces the sound of bells, as if the whole gigantic structure was a single melodious bell. It was built in the 17th century and was repeatedly used to ring an alarm in advance of an enemy invasion.

To Those Who Came In Late: This is the story of what happened to Pinky Harrison after he was killed in a foxhole. The scene is Heavenly Bend Junction, halfway point between the Earth and Big Valley. Travelers stay here until they stop looking back to Earth.

XXI

God was thoughtful for a moment, then spoke again: "I've been going over this miracle book here . . . see, I always kept track, so I wouldn't repeat myself too often. People are funny, you know—they like variety."

"All the miracles are in there?"

"Tht's right, son. And this time I've got to pick the right one. Not just any little old miracle." Now again, he began turning the pages. "Loaves and fishes . . . that's no good. Walking on water . . ." Again he shook his head.

"Maybe just a plain good old-fashioned one," Pinky suggested. A sudden idea had occurred to him, was burning inside him.

The old man noted the eager look in his eyes. "Like what?"

"Like raising the dead."

"This is old-fashioned."

"That's why it would be good! Don't you see! They know what that means! They'd remember from the last time." Pinky talked on, persuading him, and the more the old man thought about it, the more he liked the idea.

"That's what I'll do," he said finally, closing the notebook and putting it away. "I'll send someone back—as prophet too, like I did last time."

"Sir . . ." Pinky stood before him now, tense and pleasing. "Please sir, send me."

For once the old man hadn't been aware of what was on Pinky's mind. He'd been so wrapped up with his own conception of the idea that he hadn't given Pinky's hope a thought. It hurt him now to have to tell him, explaining it as gently as he could.

"I just couldn't Pinky. I'd like to. But you're a full-grown man. I'm afraid they wouldn't take much stock in you, because you've done bad things in your life—not very bad, but you were bitter and discouraged at times. This should be somebody as pure as the day he was born. Besides—" he hesitated a moment— "I sent a son last time. This time I think I'll—"

Pinky understood now, interrupted quietly, "You're sending our daughter back to Martha."

Pinky turned away, struggled for control. But he knew the old man was right, perfectly right—and well, it was right for Martha, too. And maybe, for the world.

"Where is she?" he asked quietly. "I'd like to hold her first, just once."

"Out in the Square, I guess. Emily found an old carriage in the attic, took her for a walk." Slowly the old man moved over to the boy, put his arm around him. "Pinky, thanks for taking it like this. And there's one more thing I feel I ought to tell you. It'll mean sending Timothy to take her back. He knows the way . . . he knows Martha."

"That's all right, sir."

The old man got his hat, and they started for the door—just as Emily ran up the walk, calling in a frightened voice, "Father, Father! Hurry!"

Sammy Grass had gathered quite a crowd . . . and was opening his speech with lengthy and detailed reminders of the nuisances and disturbances from earth which they had had to put up with in Heavenly Bend Junction.

But it was not this which had disturbed Emily. She led the old man and Pinky right past the crowd to a far corner of the Square, where Mrs. Johnson and Rion were already huddled over the large figure of a man laying limply on a bench. The baby carriage stood by, forgotten for a moment.

Imploringly, God leaned over and shook the figure. "Timothy, speak to me. Wake up!"

"Just like dead," Mrs. Johnson informed him excitedly. "Not really, but like he'd been frightened, or had a stroke or something!"

God didn't need Mrs. Johnson to tell him what had happened. He knew instantly. Timothy hadn't made the Big Valley in time before the air battle last night.

"Timothy, please . . . don't you know me?"

Sammy's rabble-rousing voice suddenly annoyed the old man, and he turned and called angrily "Stop, please!"

Sammy turned to glare at him. "I know, Sammy, that's all right . . . but please, just a minuate."

Sammy's audience, one by one, deserted him to see what was going on up there by the bench.

Timothy's eyes finally opened. Such pathetic fright in them, as he glanced quickly toward the sky, then up toward God "It is over?"

"Yes, it's over, Timothy."

Timothy struggled to sit up, but he was trembling, and kept watching the sky. "You said it right, sir—last war was penny firecrackers compared to this. The noise!"

Pinky's eyes were on Timothy, sadly . . . that great hulk of a man, struck down, for the first time in his life, by fear. He watched God as he sat down beside Timothy, took him in his arms as though he were a child, firmly held him, trying to still his tremors.

Gasoline Transports In Oklahoma Idle Due To Shortage Of Tires

DUNCAN, Okla., July 19. (AP)—Irl Nichols, owner of the Nichols Truck lines of Duncan, said today that 15 of the company's gasoline transport trucks had been parked for lack of tires and that 15 more trucks will be locked up Saturday.

"There simply are no transport tires available for purchase Nicholds said. "We haven't asked the OPA for purchase certificates because of this, but if we had the certificates we couldn't buy tires."

The Nichols transports deliver 6,000,000 gallons of gasoline monthly in Oklahoma, Louisiana, and Texas, he said. They furnish the fuel throughout southern Oklahoma at the rate of about 2,000,000 gallons each month and deliver about 1,000,000 gallons to Army camps in Louisiana.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

THERE is a house in our neighborhood which has been on the market for more than three years.

It is a nice house, but has several bad features which kept people from buying it.

The owner himself doesn't live in it, so it has been rented right along.

As you probably know real estate has gone up quite a bit since the war and this particular house now has increased $2,000 in price.

Last week a realtor friend of mine showed the house to a couple with two children.

They looked it over critically, liked it pretty well, but couldn't quite make up their minds to buy it—there were a few things wrong with it.

This morning I talked to my real estate friend in the little cigar store where I get my papers.

"Well, have you heard from these people who looked at that house the other day?" I asked him.

"Yes, I have," he said with a grin. "They called me up yesterday and said they wanted to look at the place again.

"I told them I was awfully sorry, but the house had just been sold.

"Whereupon the woman started to cry right over the telephone.

"She would never be happy again, she said. The house was her dream house, exactly what they had always wanted, suited them completely. Couldn't I get the buyer to release it to them, even if they had to pay $1,000 more.

"I said I'd try. I did and was turned down. And now the woman, who couldn't make up her mind when she could have had the house, acts as if I had cheated her!"

* * *

I TOLD my real-estate friend that that was only human nature.

When you have something or when you can have it, you don't appreciate it.

The other day my wife gave an old suit, that I hadn't worn in three years and never liked, to the Salvation Army.

You should have heard the heck I raised when she told me about it.

"That wonderful suit!" I yelled. "The swellest suit I ever had! How could you?"

So my wife got the suit back for me.

She had it pressed and hung it in the closet right where I couldn't miss it.

I wore it yesterday, just to show her how nice it was.

When I got to the office a friend said: "Why don't you give that shabby looking suit to the Salvation Army?"

I think I will.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

CHICAGO, July 18—The rootin'-tootin' rumpus raised here to stop the renomination of Henry A. Wallace is not directed against his gentle and medieval personality. Nor is the revolt, as so many think, precipitated by the slatemakers' suspicion that he is a "crackpot" in his economic thinking and political mores.

The truth of the matter is, as only a few minutes' talk with leaders of the "baby bolt" discloses, that their real target is Franklin D. Roosevelt. They dare not assail him directly because of his popularity, and they will rename him with only a few peeps of protest.

But in repudiating the man who has been the philosopher and prophet of Roosevelt reforms—from Pennsylvania avenue in Washington to Chungking in China—they are really registering a minority report on the fourth-term proposal.

The President, they note, has never dissented from the radical social, racial, reconstruction and economic doctrines which the Iowan has evpounded on the platform, in his magazine articles and in his books. Mrs. Roosevelt, even more particularly, is a wholehearted admirer of the advanced thinker who presides over the Senate.

BOSSES: But FDR has made plain again and again that he approves of Mr. Wallace's secondary stewardship, and he wants him as his running mate once more.

Thus, in the event that the commander-in-chief becomes incapacitated or withdraws during a "fourth term," he is willing to permit the Middle Western doctrinaire to preside over the destinies of the American people during the most critical and perilous hours of his history.

That is the irony and the paradox of the convention's apparent willingness to accept FDR again and its determination to sidetrack his sidekick, if possible. In other words, they will let Hamlet continue in the cast, but they insist on firing Polonius at the close of this week's performance.

About the only exceptions to this rule are prominent liberals and the bosses of the big city machines—Mayor Maurice Tobin of Boston, now the Democratic nominee for Bay State governor; Tammany Hall sachems who will seek to toss F. H. LaGuardia out of city hall the next time; Frank Hague of New Jersey, whose tight little organization has begun to show cracks even in Hudson county; Mayor Ed Kelly of Chicago, who has lost the governorship to the GOP and next November may lose a senator, Scott Lucas.

IDEAS: The machines back the President's renomination mainly for selfish and parochial motives. They think that his strength with the mass proletarian vote will aid in the election of their city and state candidates.

Without the White House occupant at the head of the national ticket, they figure that they would lose their authority at city hall, local and county courthouses and state capitals. And in view of the high, wide and handsome way they have run things during the last decade, opposition control of those investigating and prosecuting offices would be fatal.

Nevertheless, even they believe that the VP would be a handicap in the balloting. His Communistic sympathies have alienated various religious groups and have also antagonized a large proportion of the numerous racial elements which dominate municipal contests—the Irish, the Finns, the Poles, the Scandinavians, the Greeks, the Italians etc. The bosses demand a less explosive personality for second place. Politicos never do appreciate men with stimulating ideas; they like 'em placid.

INSURRECTION: It is the Farleys, Garners, Baileys and Byrds—all old-fashioned, Jeffersonian Democrats—who are using the former Secretary of Agriculture as a symbol through which to express their dislike of the head man. To them Mr. Wallace is only an unhappy but handy "stooge."

They realize that they cannot win in an open floor battle against "the champ". In such an encounter they would be defeated ingloriously. He would gain prestige and they would lose whatever they now possess.

But they can—and will—make it painfully clear that they have no use for the whole New Deal family, including President and Mrs. Roosevelt and the political orphan they adopted in 1940.

Preferring 1944 defeat to strengthening of the Roosevelt-Wallace-Hopkins-Ickes faction, they will try to depict the historic Democratic party as hopelessly divided, a mugwump body and ragtag-bobtail mob held together only by liberal dispensation of Federal funds and the grant of special favors to politically irresponsible guerrillas.

In that category they include such Vice Presidential friends as Sidney Hillman, Earl Browder, Harry Bridges, Philip Murray, Joe Curran and other leftwingers.

That is the real significance of the anti-Wallace insurrection, and there is no use in mincing words about the only important convention brawl.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

MESSAGES to the New York representatives of the European underground disclose that the patriots of the various countries are ganging up on the Nazis. A decided swing toward international union has lately developed among resistance groups.

At first partisans were simply nationalistic. Now continental cooperation is both spontaneous and organized.

Sumner Welles recently called the situation abroad "a people's revolution." The latest information from overseas shows how the uprising has spread beyond state boundaries and has been fused into an instrument which not only is dangerous to the Axis but may also have a profound effect upon peace settlements. A spiritual "United States of Europe" is being formed.

MAQUIS: Not so long ago officials of the American State Department and Whitehall were mistrustful of the groups that had surged up from the bottom. London, especially, feared anarchy would result Many authorities here were alarmed lest Communism follow in the wake of popular outbursts.

But no single political group dominates the scene today. It is true that Communistic cells have been very active in fomenting revolt against the usurpers but believers in other ideologies have had fully as important a part in thwarting the Brownshirts.

A common grievance has united the Socialists, Popular Democrats, Republican Federationists, Communists, Radical-Socialists, Catholic Center Parties, Laborites and similar factions—tagged by different labels in different lands—into the nucleus of a European brotherhood.

Members may fly at one another's throats after the armistice but today they are playing on one all-star team. In fact, not only the Allied but also the German resistance societies have adopted the French word "Maquis", which in turn originally came from the language of the Corsican brigands who "took to the woods."

Attorney General's Post Draws Three Candidates

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

THERE are three active candidates, including the incumbent, in the race for the Democratic nomination for attorney general. In the primary election July 22, Texans will take their choice of:

Fred Erisman, 35, criminal district attorney for the 124th Judicial district at Longview, president of the District and County Attorney's association of Texas.

Jesse E. Martin, 51, of Fort Worth, state senator of the 28th district, former first assistant United States District attorney for the Northern District of Texas and former criminal district attorney of Tarrant county.

Grover Sellers, 52, of Sulphur Springs, the incumbent attorney general who was appointed to the office by Gov. Coke R. Stevenson following the resignation of Gerald C. Mann, and former first assistant attorney general.

Here in brief is their biographical background, and statements of their campaign platforms:

Incumbent Is Experienced

Sellers: born in Louisiana but resident of Texas since 1906; former rural school teacher in Hopkins county; attorney since 1918; former justice of the peace; assistant county attorney of Hopkins county; district judge for Hopkins, Delta, Hunt and Rains counties; associate justice of the Court of Civil Appeals at Texarkana; assistant attorney general from 1940 until his appointment as attorney general. Sellers owns a 350-acre farm in Hopkins county and was active in promoting the dairying industry in that region. He bases his candidacy upon his experience in the law and in the attorney generalship.

MARTIN: born on a farm near Forest Hill in Tarrant county, where he worked until he entered Texas Christian university. There he received his law degree. He volunteered and served with the U. S. Marines in France in World War I, and took a postgraduate course in law in Cambridge university, England, after the war. He was made assistant criminal district attorney for Tarrant county soon after his return, became first assistant, and subsequently first assistant U. S. district attorney for the Northern District of Texas.

He resigned and successfully campaigned for criminal district attorney of Tarrant county, serving three years. He then returned to the private practice of law and was twice elected to serve as state senator from his district. In his campaign, Martin is advocating less red tape surrounding operations of state departments, prompt and sound decision on legal questions, legal opinions not influenced by politics, and vigorous prosecution of cases in behalf of the people. He believes a least governed Texas is the best governed Texas.

East Texan Running

Erisman: born in Fort Worth and educated in the public schools there and at Greenville. He received his college education at Texas Christian university, Brown university and Duke, holding a fellowship at the latter school. He was assistant district attorney in 1933 and 1934, was a special attorney for Gregg county in a million-dollar highway construction program in 1935 and 1937, and was Longview city attorney in 1937 and 1938. He is completing his third term as district attorney. Erisman is the owner of oil-producing property and has had an active part in development of the East Texas field. He cites his record as a law enforcement officer as a qualification for office and believes that government should be returned to the people through assumption of their constitutional duties and responsibilities by the states, counties, precincts and cities. He advocates crime prevention through education, particularly of juveniles, and is interested in improving conditions under which low-paid law enforcement officers work.

Large Part Of Texas Still Dry Last Week

AUSTIN, July 19. (AP)—A large part of Texas continued dry and crops generally needed rain during the week ended July 17, the USDA said today in its weekly bulletin.

Range feeds and pastures in Panhandle and High Plains areas were in good condition but hot weather has dried out grass in most other areas.

Longview, with a temperature of 103 degrees July 15, was the hottest place in the state during the week. Lowest temperature was 58 at Snyder.

In a separate report the USDA said June commercial hatcheries produced 2,575,000 baby chicks, compared with 6,488,000 in June, 1943. Egg settings during June were 3,350,000 to 8,101,000 for a comparable period last year.

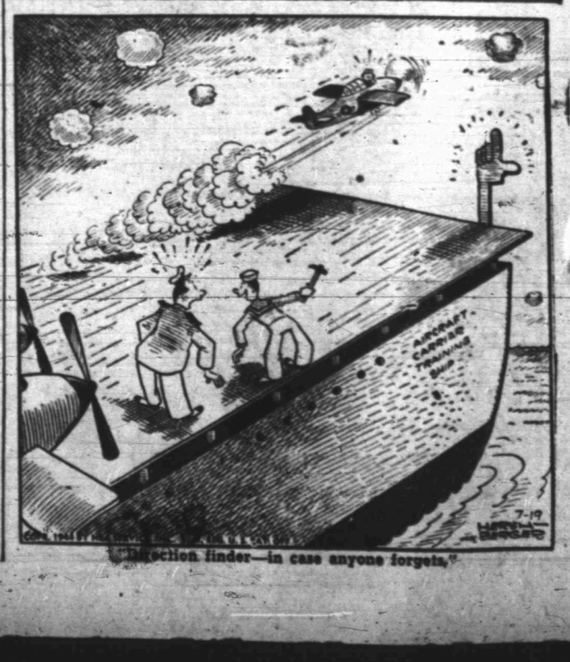

"Hitler," Mean Bull Disrupts Texas Rodeo

SAN ANTONIO, July 19. (AP)—Everyone had a fairly good time at the Junior Chamber of Commerce rodeo last night but Mrs. Eduiges Zunga and "Hitler"—a mean old bull.

"Hitler" ran amok during the rodeo performance, trampled Mrs. Zunga, plunged into the backyard of A. J. Moran where dinner guests were having coffee, and finally wound up by getting himself shot and killed by city police.

Mrs. Zunga was in a hospital today, recovering from shock and bruises. Hitler was wherever mad bulls go when they're shot.

Kerr Cites Demo Record, Charges GOP Leadership Untried, Broken

By PAUL MILLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO STADIUM, July 19.—Gov. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma hailed the party of Franklin Roosevelt tonight as the party of achievement and of power, and stormily assailed the Republicans and their youthful standard-bearer, Thomas E. Dewey as untried and untested, broken by disunity, having "no program except to oppose."

Keynoting the Democratic national convention before cheering thousands in this great hall, the 245-pound, 6-foot 3-inch oilman-governor drew back the curtains upon a preview of Democratic campaign arguments for the presidential race ahead.

Here's Where He Stands

The world, Kerr said, has a right to ask "where we stand." He declared:

"Our aim is complete and speedy victory.

"Our goal is a just and abiding peace.

"Our promise to a world of peace is responsibility and cooperation."

"Our pledge to America at peace is a government responsive to the needs and hopes of every citizen, even the humblest; a government which will not shrik or fail, but will fulfill with gratitude and fidelity, our sacred obligation to our returning service men and women.

Republicans Flayed

He defended Roosevelt administration leaders against 42-year-old Governor Dewey's charge that they are "tired, quarrelsome, old men." He asserted the Republicans are "incapable either of learning anything or of forgetting anything." He accused GOP leaders "after World war I" of having Sabotaged every effective vehicle for keeping peace" and of major opposition to preparedness for World war II.

Cried Kerr:

"In this hall last month the Republicans nominated as their candidate for president the man selected for them four years ago by Herbert Hoover. As America looked on she saw the mantle of Herbert Hoover, not falling upon but being placed upon the shoulders of his cherished disciple, Thomas E. Dewey. What she did not see, but what will become more and more apparent, is that the mantle has become the shroud."

Willkie Sidetracked

The GOP convention, Kerr asserted, "snubbed and sidetracked Wendell Willkie," and thus "the last vestige of liberal leadership of the Republican party was buried under an avalanche of reactionary sentiment from which it cannot soon emerge."

Kerr, saying he was out to give a report of Democratic party stewardship, summed up:

"The Democratic party has proved its worthlessness of the people's continued confidence."

He contended the Democrats have done most for the farmer, for labor, for the needy aged, for sound banking, for small business, for the family home owner, for soil conservation—and it is, he added, the party under which the United States has become "the greatest naval power on earth."

Charges On Republicans

On the other hand, in a broad arraignment, Kerr accused the Republicans of:

Having no program, except to oppose; disunity among themselves; playing partisan politics with the danger of inflation; scrapping and sinking more of our fleet after the first World war than was destroyed by the Japanese at Pearl Harbor.

Tracing what he said were Republican failures under Presidents Cooldige and Hoover, recalling the depression, Kerr said these Republican administration years "created more suffering in this nation, destroyed more wealth, caused more poverty and left our nation in the most weakened and hopeless condition ever known."

Of "gains" under Roosevelt, Kerr said:

'If you truly favor private enterprise and equal opportunity to all, can you support the Republican party, under which these suffered most and came the nearest to destruction?"

GOP "Accent On Youth"

Unfurling the Democrats answer to the Republican "accent on youth" campaign, Governor Kerr called a roll of five major American military and naval figures—Admiral Nimitz, 59; Admiral Halsey, 62; General Douglas MacArthur, 64; Admiral Ernest J. King, 66, General George C. Marshall, 64.

Asking whether they should be "discarded," he replied:

"No, Mr. Dewey, we know we are winning this war with these 'tired old men,' including the 62-year-old Roosevelt as their commander-in-chief. What diplomatic or military experience have you had that justifies you or us in believing that you can handle the most difficult and important responsibilities and duties ever placed upon the shoulders of any American?"

Concluding, he declared:

"I say to you—the Democrats of America — to our fighting forces around the globe—and to all men and women of this nation, who have dreamed of a better world, and who are willing to work and sacrifice to realize that dream, victory is within our grasp.

Rejuvenated People

"We have stormed the beaches of poverty and discouragement and fear, and have seen the hearts of the people filled with new life, lifted with new hope and buoyant with superb confidence. We have overrun the ramparts of special privilege and reaction and planted the banner of Democratic liberalism high on the hill of human progress.

"Let our opponents—who have grown fat in a prosperity they could not build for themselves—do their worst. Under our treat commander-in-chief we will not now retreat! We will not falter in mid-passage! We will win!"

Livorno Captured

man divisions which had resisted the Poles doggedly for 75 miles up the east coast finally were forced to abandon the port when their lines were broken on the inland side.

A field dispatch from Sid Feder, Associated Press correspondent who accompanied Yank troops into Livorno, said about a third of the spacious city had been smashed by Allied air bombs and Nazi demolitions. Livorno's ancient cathedral, restored in 1856, was "blasted wide open," Feder reported, and the city has been without electricity or adequate water for many days.

In the central sector, British troops of the Eighth Army widened their bridgehead across the Arno river northwest of Arezzo to six miles and captured Montevarchi, 15 miles west of Arezzo.

In yesterday's attack by Italy-based U. S. heavy bombers on the German cities of Friedrichshafen and Mehhingen, 66 enemy planes were destroyed and 19 American craft failed to return.

New Labor Law

labor union has never been held to be a person within the meaning of the 14th amendment to the federal constitution or within the meaning of the state constitution which provides for the civil liberties, freedom of speech, press, public assembly and worship."

Sewall Myer declared "by no stretch of the imagination has union labor secured a monopoly in Texas; in fact in normal times it forms less than 25 per cent of labor."

Byrnes Not Interested In Vice Presidency

CHICAGO, July 19. (AP)—War Mobilization Director James Byrnes wrote Senator Burnet Maybank today asking that his name not be placed before the convention as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for vice-president.

"The action of the (South Carolina) delegation in declaring its support of me for this honor and in insisting that my name go before the convention is deeply appreciated by me.

"Sincerely yours,
(S) James F. Byrnes."

Libya Hero Directed Tank Push At Caen

LONDON, July 19. (AP)—Lt. Gen. Sir Richard Nugent (Rory) O'Connor, a hero of the British campaigns in Libya, was disclosed today as the commander of Gen. Montgomery's tank formations which spearheaded the breakthrough on the Caen front.

The 55-year-old O'Connor escaped an Italian prison camp last September after Italy's surrender and reached Britain Jan. 24.

STOCKS ON FIRMER BASIS

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP)—The stock market moved onto firmer ground today after its upset in the first two days of the week.

Pivotal issues moved up fractions to around a point under the stimulus of highly favorable war news and some brisk buying of rails and specialties. Steels and motors whose weakness touched off the recent selling movement joined the day's upturn after early hesitation.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite advanced .5 of a point to 58.8. Transactions amounted to 1,138,700 shares compared with 1,278,780 the previous day. Of 882 stocks traded, 581 were improved, 151 declined and 142 were unchanged.

Up a point or more at the close were New York Central, Westinghouse, DuPont, Goodyear, Hayes Manufacturing, and York Corp.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP)—Cotton futures closed at or near the lows of today's session with net losses of 45 to 90 cents a bale.

Approach of the new crop hedging season and confusion over the price control situation combined to create unsettled conditions in trading.

Flurries of liquidation coming through locals, and commission houses met only scale-down mill buying and covering. Selling from the South, although small, contributed to the decline.

Futures closed 45 to 90 cents a bale lower.

Platform Framers

into seclusion to begin putting into black and white the actual plans for the platform it faced the job of pleasing the southern Democrats, negro organizations and the CIO on the race issue.

Foreign Policy

On foreign policy, there appeared agreement in advance on a statement, assumed to have approval of President Roosevelt, calling for a post-war association of nations to maintain the peace—by arms if necessary.

However, the race issue—crux of the "southern revolt" within the party — produced angry clashes.

A group of southerners, some of whom deserted Mr. Roosevelt to support Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia for the presidential nomination, shouted their protests against the platform demands of negro organizations and the CIO.

Negroes Demand Equality

The negro organizations—claiming to represent 6,500,000 persons—demanded equality of opportunity, a permanent Federal Fair Employment Practices committee, and anti-poll tax and anti-lynching laws.

After three days of public hearings, the committee went into closed sessions to write the platform, which will be presented to the full convention tomorrow.

In a day given over to public discussion of the foreign plank, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, minister to Norway when the Nazis invaded that country, advocated an international organization armed with police powers.

Wales has a population of less than 3,000,000.

Doughboys moving south below Carentan cut the main Periers-St. Lo road, slicing the 48-mile American battlefront in half and denying the enemy another important line of supply. This thrust partially isolated the enemy forces in both the western and eastern sectors, compelling them to make long detours for fuel and transport.

The announcement came on the heels of Nippon's loss of Saipan and the impending loss of Guam.

Amounts To Apology

Because of the emperor's concern "the present cabinet is filled with trepidation" and its resignation amounts to "apologizing for the government's meager power to the men on the fighting front and the one hundred million people of Japan who continue to work toward certain victory . . ."

The announcement followed close upon:

The merciless bombardment of Guam was carried into its 13th consecutive day, the Navy announced yesterday an hour after reporting American submarines had sunk 14 more Japanese ships.

On New Guinea's battlefronts Gen. Douglas MacArthur eported 2,240 Japanese have been killed this month in the conquest of Noemfoor island and the attempt of 45,000 trapped Nipponese to escape from the Aitape sector. The Aitape Japanese lost 871 men in latest clashes as they turned from futile frontal assaults in an attempt to break through on the American flank between swampy jungles and precipitous mountains.

Freighter Heavily Laden

The fourth heavily laden freighter was sunk within a week off Halmahera, a potential stepping stone from New Guinea to the Philippines.

Tokyo's forces were taking a beating in the Orient, too, with Nipponese reverses reported in every battle area on the continent.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz virtually announced that U. S. Naval and air forces were paving the way for an amphibious invasion of Guam when he said "our battleships, cruisers, and destroyers laid down an intense barrage against defensive positions on the island."

Carrier-based planes have struck the former U. S. naval station without interruption from July 4 to last Tuesday. The naval bombardment has been continuous for the last five days of that period. Battleships have stood off the island for four days, turning their big guns on key defense points. The total weight of bombs and shells poured on Guam may have set a new Pacific record.

Rota, a nearby island in the southern Marianas, was hit so heavily Nimitz said "Rota town is virtually destroyed."

The new submarine toll included a destroyer, an escort craft, a Navy auxiliary, a transport and 10 freighters. In the last 30 days they have sunk 17 Japanese ships, bringing their wartime total to 654 definitely sunk and 152 others probably destroyed or damaged.

Even in southeast China, where the recent war picture has been grimmest for the Allies, Chungking announced the invaders were punished on three sectors.

Wallace Fight On

platform drafters finished three days of hearings.

Then they got down to the business of putting the platform on paper. Foremost on the agenda were a foreign policy plank designed to insure the peace of the world and a domestic racial issue plank to restore some peace to their own party.

Silently, Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, who will nominate Mr. Roosevelt for another term tomorrow, heard that Byrnes had eliminated himself as vice-presidential possibility.

Barkley's supporters for second place played their cards close to their chest and looked around to see if any other contenders might be bluffing.

Byrnes Booms Truman

The Byrnes declaration was interpreted by some political analysts as booming the stock of Truman.

Evidently Wallace advocates were worried over the pace being set by the 60-year-old Missourian. They began sniping at him, recalling that he came to the Senate under the sponsorship of Thomas J. Pendergast, the Kansas City boss who served a term in Leavenworth penitentiary on an income tax charge.

President Roosevelt is to be chosen tomorrow to make a fourth term bid against Governor Thomas E. Dewey. This will make it an all-New York presidential race for the second time in history. In 1904 Alton B. Parker unsuccessfully bucked Theodore Roosevelt.

Anti-New Deal southerners were bent on preventing Mr. Roosevelt's renomination unaniomusly, and apparently they had enough strength to toss some 125 votes to Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia. They said he would be nominated by one of four Florida delegates pledged to Byrd, probably former Congressman Mark Wilcox.

Night's Speakers

Tonight the oratorical efforts centered around Kerr, a six-foot-three oilman-governor with a flare for punchy phrase-making and a stenorian voice.

The delegates also got some forsenics from National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan and their national woman's chairman, Mrs. Charles W. Tillett of North Carolina.

Hannegan, urging party cohorts to get out the vote during a campaign trimmed to wartime standards, told the thousands crammed into the stadium that the Democrats "are on the beam," and so is "America's present leadership."

"The fortunes of this war have been hard-won," he declared, "too har-won to be gambled away in the inexperienced hands of a new commander-in-chief."

Mrs. Tillett, garbed in a low-necked black sateen dress set off by a diamond pin and pearls, came up to the platform as the Democrats' first answer to the Republican convention appearance of honey-haired Rep. Clare Boothe Luce of Connecticut.

Won't Be Taken In

"Today," Mrs. Tillett said, "American women are reading the Republican platform. . . . I do not believe that women will be misled by those who give lip service to responsible, humane government. I just believe that we women have told our children fairy stories too many times ourselves to be taken in by this lates tale.

"We know the story of Little Red Ridinghood by heart. We hear ourselves saying, 'What beautiful New Deal planks you have, grandmother!' and the voice of the world in reply, soft to conceal its intent of destruction, 'all the better to administer you with, my dear'."

ELROD RITES SET

HOUSTON, July 19. (AP)—Funeral services for Henry E. Elrod, 65, inventor of several nationally used mechanical and electro-mechanical devices, and construction supervsor of several water works systems in Texas, will be held here Friday. Elrod died yesterday at Memorial hospital after a long illness.

Soviet Juggernaut

which Soviet airplanes held undisputed sky mastery, Moscow said. Lwow, one of the greatest rail hubs in Europe, also was imperilled by Soviet spearheads which overran Remenov, only eight and one-half miles northeast of that stronghold.

Near Brest Litovsk

To the north other Russian armies were fighting just a few miles outside of Brest Litovsk, 110 miles east of Warsaw, after cutting the railway leading north to Bialystok at Kleshcheli.

Kleshcheli, a junction of the Brest Litovsk-Bialystok and Warsaw-Baranovichi lines, was captured.

A total of more than 1,237 towns and villages were captured by the seven Russian armies, 700 of them by the Third Baltic front armies going over to the attack south of Ostrov along the north Latvian border. Premier-Marshal Stalin announced the new offensive in an order of the day as the Russians pressed on toward Riga on the Baltic, less than 150 miles from Soviet spearheads.

Menace East Prussia

In the center of the flaming front, the Russians attacking between Brest Litovsk and Bialystok, bastions guarding Warsaw, had crossed the Curzon line which Russia has suggested be the new Polish-Russian border after Poland is freed from the Germans.

Farther north in the area above and below captured Grodno the Russians were menacing German East Prussia from positions inside Lithuania and just below that frontier near the Suwalki triangle territory which Germany annexed to East Prussia in 1939 after Poland's fall.

Still farther northward in southern Lithuania the Russians fought north and west of Alytus for an extension of their bridgehead across the Niemen river, but the communique did not announce any further advances toward the East Prussian border in this sector.

Several Divisions Encircled

German broadcasts, however, located the fighting near Mariampole, 25 miles from the pre-war frontier of East Prussia, in Lithuania.

Four or five German divisions of perhaps 40,000 to 60,000 men have been encircled west of Brody, 55 miles northeast of Lwow, the communique said, and another German commander, Lt. Gen. Hoffsmeier, head of the 31st Nazi infantry divisions, surrendered.

While the drive on Lwow posed the gravest threat to central Germany, the new offensive in the north increased the peril of perhaps 30 Nazi divisions of 300,000 to 350,000 troops still anchored by Hitler's orders in exposed Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania.

The Madeira, tributary of the Amazon river, is nearly 3,000 miles from source to mouth.

News Briefs

A Levelland soldier whose name was given at West Texas hospital as Emil Furretto, several days ago obtained an extension of his furlough to recuperate from injuries received in an automobile accident. Wednesday night about 11:30 o'clock he was in another traffic accident, about two miles west of College Avenue on the Levelland highway. This time he was only shaken up, but his sister, Dorothy, was badly bruised. The Burrettos were in a car owned by Perry L. Horn, also of Levelland, which was in collision with a car driven by Dr. Sam Dunn as the physician turned into the driveway of his home. Dr. Dunn was accompanied by Mrs. Dunn and their son, Bobby, but they were not hurt. Another woman, who was unidentified, was in the Horn car. She suffered slight shock, it was reported.

Police said a negro woman, Mattie Smith, 55, of 2005 East Avenue D, received a leg injury in a collision of a City bus, driven by a woman, and an automobile, at 4:20 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at Broadway and Avenue M. The negro was a passenger in the bus. Driver of the bus was Miss Charlene Leach, 1112 Nineteenth street. Ellis Barnes, 35, of O'Donnell was driver of the car. Police said the accident occurred when the bus attempted a left turn off Broadway on Avenue M. It was hit at the rear by Barnes' car, which was going east on Broadway.

Three Slightly Hurt In Train Derailment

DALHART, Tex., July 19. (AP)—Three women suffered minor injuries when ten cars of the Rock flyer was derailed seven miles east of here.

None of the more than 600 passengers was injured seriously.

Before the war, Canada imported 110,000 tons of salt annually.

Three GIs Prove Expendable, And Buddies Attest To Their Courage

By KENNETH L. DIXON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE AEF IN ITALY, July 9. (Delayed)—This is the story of three expendables—three guys who didn't come back but who were awarded Silver Stars for what they did.

Their comrades have been officially notified now but perhaps they'd like to know the details:

DIXON

"It all happened long ago.

Pfc. Charles T. Miller of Philadelphia was a rifleman in an infantry platoon but he built his reputation on guts and hand grenades.

The Germans were stubbornly clinging to their position in a house. So Charley crouched and crawled 65 yards in front of his platoon and started heaving hand grenades.

The Germans were shooting everything they had at him — machineguns, machine pistols and rifles—but Charley kept on going, and the pineapples he kept pitching somehow kept their aim.

Between the streams of lead he moved and finally reached the house and hurled strike after strike right through an open window. All 26 Germans who still were alive inside surrendered.

But the next time he went out Charley didn't come back . . . He's reported as missing.

Hawaiian Was Wire Man

Pvt. Himeo Hiratani of Oahu, Hawaii, was a wire man who believed that battles are won and lost on communications and he took a great pride in helping to win.

He and a buddy were stringing wire to a forward observation post when the Germans opened up on them with rifles and two machineguns from a strong point nearby.

They couldn't by - pass the stretch where they were subjected to fire. Without the lines for communications the O. P. ahead was useless. There was no one around to give him orders, but Himeo had a job to do.

Almost Finished His Job

—And he almost had it done before they got him.

Himeo was not the kind of a guy who would have claimed to be a hero. Back home in the sunny Hawaii he'll never see again, his folks can underscore three words in the posthumous award, but you know that Himeo would agree. They credit him with "devotion to duty. . . .

In Washington, the War department file on Pfc. Fred T. Gentry, Dunbar, Okla., machinegunner, reads "M. I. A."—missing in action—and those who fought with Fred say the phrase was never better used.

The German concentrated infantry counterattack was breaking through. And the Ninth Rifle company was ordered to withdraw a short distance. Fred's heavy weapon's squad was left behind to cover their withdrawal.

They covered it, cutting down wave after wave of attacking Germans. When the rifle company was safely back to the new defenses line, Fred settled himself more solidly behind his machinegun and elected himself expendable. He told the rest of his squad to get going, he'd cover them. He did.

The last time they saw Fred he had earned the appellation—expended in action—still up there firing his chattering machinegun in short effective bursts as the Germans moved in to close range.

Do you feel tired—listless?	☐	☐

Do you feel headachy and upset due to poorly digested food? To feel cheerful and happy again your food must be digested properly.

Each day, Nature must produce about two pints of a vital digestive juice to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested—leaving you headachy and irritable.

Therefore, you must increase the flow of this digestive juice. Carter's Little Liver Pills increase this flow quickly—often in as little as 30 minutes. And, you're on the road to feeling better.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's Little Liver Pills aid digestion after Nature's own order. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills as directed. Get them at any drugstore. Only 10¢ and 25¢. Adv

Extension On Tire Program Is Granted

The Office of Price Administration announced Wednesday that dealers may continue to receive new passenger tires from manufacturers without giving tire ration certificates, until midnight, July 31.

This does not change the method by which a motorist obtains a tire certificate from his local board.

The action, designed to facilitate the shipment of new passenger tires from manufacturers to dealers to bring about better distribution, was originally scheduled for the period from June 1 to July 15, but has been extended.

Geo. Mahon

Congress

Speaks Over
KFYO Thursday
12:15 (Noon)

The people of the District know George Mahon as a friend who has never failed them.

Before the war he strongly supported EVERY national defense measure. Now, as throughout the war, he is serving on War Appropriations Committee which handles in the House the gigantic war program. He is doing a good job for our men in uniform.

In his work for our people at home George Mahon has fought bungling, waste and unnecessary regulations. He has worked and voted for inclusion of increased labor and production costs in fixing farm prices. He has voted his independent convictions on all issues, mindful only of the welfare of the people of this District and the Nation.

The CIO condemns him for his fight against wartime strikes and opposes his re-election; but the people applaud him for his stand and devotion to the war effort.

He is working for an early victory, the return of our men, a strong post war America, lasting peace, and the preservation of our Democracy and freedom.

Able, clean, wholesome, fine . . . a friend of all the people.
