Dems debate

WASHINGTON — The Democratic presidential contenders criticized President Bush's recession remedies and touted their own in campaign debate Friday night. "They just don't get it," Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton said of the administration. "This country's in trouble." Iowa Sen. Tom Harkin said Bush's economic policies were an extension of Reaganomics, policies he said benefit the wealthy while most Americans are suffering through "the worst of times." Nebraska Sen. Bob Kerrey derided Bush's State of the Union address this week as "all hat and no cowboy" and noted the White House's budget envisions a whopping deficit of $400 billion./8A

Bus crash

PINYON PINES, Calif. — A church bus heading for a youth retreat plunged off a cliff and caught fire Friday afternoon, injuring at least 31 people, authorities said. Two people, a 12-year-old girl and a 20-year-old woman, suffered major injuries and the rest had minor injuries, authorities said. The rented bus was going up the winding Route 74, also known as the "Palms to Pines Highway," when it went over the cliff, said Bonnie O'Connell, spokeswoman for Riverside County Fire Department. Members of the Coast Hills Community Church in Laguna Niguel were going to a youth retreat at Pathfinder Ranch in the community of Mountain Center, said a woman who answered the telephone at the ranch. She refused to give her name. After the crash, rescue workers wheeled victims away on gurneys. The two seriously injured passengers were taken to Desert Hospital in Palm Springs, said nursing supervisor Becky Swanson. She didn't have details on their injuries.

It's Mario

WASHINGTON — In December, Gov. Mario Cuomo of New York took himself out of the race for the Democratic presidential nomination practically before the opening gun. Out or not, Vice President Dan Quayle thinks Cuomo will be the final choice when the Democrats convene in New York's Madison Square Garden next July. "It's going to be friend Mar-i-o," he told reporters at a breakfast Friday, stretching out the vowels. Quayle seems to enjoy getting under Cuomo's skin by invoking his first name. Cuomo has responded by referring to "Danny boy." Asked whether he had any inside information on this subject, Quayle replied, "Nope. I'm all by myself on this. It's just a hunch."

Sheriff goes on attack

Painter vows to take control of department

Joe D. Williams/Reporter-Telegram

County Sheriff Gary Painter discusses the status of the lawsuit.

■ County judge denies political motivation in dispute.

By Ed Todd
Staff Writer

Midland County Sheriff Gary Painter declared on Friday that he was "forging ahead" with his lawsuit against the Midland County Commissioners' Court. He also accused the commissioners of sabotaging what he called an impending settlement of the lawsuit, pledged to regain control of his office, and fired off a barrage of accusations at the county's five-member governing body.

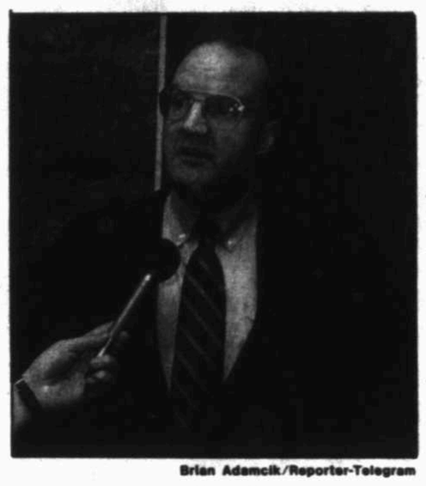

Meanwhile, County Judge Charles W. "Bro" Seltzer and Commissioner Guy McCrary maintained that the Commissioners' Court has no agenda to control the sheriff's office and did not reject any proposed settlement of the lawsuit.

Painter, at a press conference Friday, said he was ready to try the lawsuit "tomorrow," and that he was "very confident of winning the lawsuit."

Further, Painter accused the court of politically trying to disrupt his bid for reelection on March 10, of trying to control his 156-member department, and causing his Operations Division to "suffer mightily" by shifting six deputies from operations to jail duty.

The Operations Division takes in criminal investigation, patrol work, and undercover narcotics operations to catch drug traffickers, the money and their contraband by way of "stings" and reverse-sting operations.

The 44-year-old Painter, who is seeking his third four-year term, said that "people in this county have not been left unprotected" when his investigators were on out-of-county reverse sting operations.

Brian Adamcik/Reporter-Telegram

Judge Charles "Bro" Seltzer

"They have been protected and will continue to be so," Painter said.

On Aug. 20, Painter filed a lawsuit against the Commissioners' Court to protest the court's Aug. 12 order which sought to curtail the sheriff's out-of-county operations and to put controls on his extra-jurisdictional spending.

In his lawsuit, the sheriff maintains that he has a "statutory right to leave the boundaries of Midland County at such times and under such circumstances as directed by Painter."

Painter agreed in August 1991 to put a hold on his out-of-county "stings," which he said were conducted in concert with other law enforcement agencies, until the lawsuit was settled.

But Friday, when he asserted renewed control of his office, he sidestepped a newsman's question on whether he would continue his out-of-county stings.

"We are ready to enforce the law," Painter said. "We have always been

Bush: Nuclear threat remains

N.Y. Times News Service

UNITED NATIONS — President Bush warned a first-ever Security Council summit Friday that as the superpower nuclear threat subsides, "the specter of mass destruction remains" with new countries seeking to acquire atomic weapons.

"The danger of proliferation remains," Bush said as he implored the United Nations to continue efforts to prevent nations like Iraq from acquiring nuclear arms or other weapons of mass destruction.

Russian President Boris Yeltsin, who spoke before Bush, made a surprise proposal that his country and

MHS coach steps down

By Terry Williamson

Davis Corley's three-year reign as the head football coach at Midland High ended Friday when he stepped down from that position to accept reassignment as an elementary intern within the Midland Independent School District.

Midland athletic director Jack Tayrien said, "Davis made this decision on his own and has accepted a position as an administrative intern that will allow him to stay in the school system, and if he wants, to apply for an assistant principal job at some time in the future.

Corley

"This is entirely his choice, and was not forced on him in any way, form or fashion. It was a decision that he's thought about long and hard."

Corley's three-year record was 8-20 (.286). He recorded a 3-7 mark in his first year as a head coach in 1989 and came back with a winning record of 5-4 in 1990. However, last season his Bulldogs suffered through a dismal 0-9 season, the first time in Midland High football history for a season to end without at least a tie.

Baker Hughes rig count hits all-time low

Staff Report

The nation's rig count plunged by 33 this week to a record low of 653, Baker Hughes Inc. reported.

It is the lowest rig count recorded since the rig survey began in 1940.

Baker Hughes said Friday that the domestic drilling industry continues to suffer from weak natural gas prices and a seasonal decline. The national rig count for the same week in 1991 stood at 996.

"This is just another negative milestone for the industry," said Jerry Atkinson, president of JVA Operating Co. in Midland. "It's just one more obstacle we have to overcome."

Atkinson said it was not a good sign for the Permian Basin, but that the oil industry was full of survivors and would bounce back.

"In my 25 years in the oil business, I can remember only a handful of years that were not survival years. A low rig count will not detract me from what I do or cause me to shut down."

In the Permian Basin five rigs were dropped from the count, bringing the total working rigs to 86.

Richards lashes president with famous silver tongue

By Jackie Koszczuk
N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — It seems that the president from Houston "born with a silver foot in his mouth" still can't do right by his silver-tongued political nemesis from Waco — Texas Gov. Ann Richards.

Richards, who arrived in town Thursday night for a series of political and official events, used a national stage to attack President Bush's newly unveiled economic proposals.

As she did four years ago at the Democratic National Convention in Atlanta, she showed no home state mercy for Bush, showering the sometimes grammatically awkward president with zingers and her not-so-gentle wit.

Richards

"We know that Reagan and Bush have led us into a ditch," Richards told an assembly of congressional Democrats.

Bush's plan for economic revival, she said, is too little too late after the mistakes made by consecutive Republican administrations.

"They spent 12 years drilling holes in our

Business is brisk despite recent layoffs, CAF says

Staff Report

Despite a recent cutback of about one-third of its work force, business at the Confederate Air Force remains brisk, according to Norma Webb, director of marketing and communications for the CAF.

"We've had some cutbacks and had to face a financial situation like a lot of other companies have, but our doors are still open," Ms. Webb said.

"The general economy of the country has affected us," she said.

"A little bit before grand opening (Dec. 7), we began letting people go," Ms. Webb said.

About 15 full-time employees were laid off; 27 employees remain, she said.

No more lay-offs are anticipated, Ms. Webb added.

The move has been part of an overall effort to streamline the CAF because of financial prob-

BUSH: President warns of nuclear proliferation dangers

(From 1A)

the United States work together to develop a "Star Wars" space-based shield against nuclear missiles.

Yeltsin said the expertise of U.S. and Russian scientists, who were already engaged in research for such systems before the Cold War ended, made the idea feasible.

Speaking to reporters later, Yeltsin said that nations would consider it futile to develop nuclear missiles if they knew that launching one "would get a rebuff from space."

A non-binding communique issued by the 15 Security Council members at the close of their summit said they "reaffirm their commitment to the collective security system of the (U.N.) charter to deal with threats to peace and to reverse acts of aggression."

The 1,800-word document said they agreed that the world was at "turning point" and needed "signposts" to guide it through a period of unprecedented change.

Several leaders, including French President Francois Mitterrand, suggested creating an expanded United Nations military force that could be rapidly deployed to step in between warring factions, like in Yugoslavia.

The friendly and cooperative tone of the summit was in stark contrast to the Cold War period, when the East-West struggle contributed to constant conflict and harsh rhetoric. Perhaps the most enduring image of that rivalry came more than three decades ago when Soviet leader Nikita S. Khrushchev banged his shoe on a table to show his displeasure for Western attitudes at a 1960 U.N. disarmament meeting.

However, Friday's gathering was not free of tension.

China's Premier Li Peng, who is most closely associated with the brutal 1989 crackdown on pro-democracy demonstrators in Beijing's Tiananmen Square, objected to the council's insistence that member states end human rights abuses.

In his speech to the group, Li said that "human rights and fundamental freedoms of all mankind should be universally respected," But, he said China "is opposed to interference in the internal affairs of other countries using the human rights issue as an excuse."

Later, he held a chilly 20-minute meeting with President Bush in which the president reportedly renewed U.S. concerns over China's jailing of anti-government dissidents.

The session also came amid reports that China is continuing to sell missiles technology to Syria and Pakistan despite Beijing's pledge last year that it would curb exports of sensitive missile components.

Yeltsin and Bush are to meet Saturday at the president's retreat at Camp David, Md. Senior White House officials hinted Friday that they may announce a meeting for a first-ever U.S.-Russia post-Cold War summit, probably to be held in Washington this spring.

The two leaders made broad proposals for reducing their nuclear arsenals in speeches in their own capitals earlier this week. However, no formal agreement is expected this weekend.

"It's not contemplated that in a three-or four-hour meeting that they will work out all the details of the various arms control proposals," U.S. Secretary of State James A. Baker III told reporters.

Friday's summit, the first of its kind in the 46-year history of the Security Council, was called to redirect United Nations peacekeeping efforts in the post-Cold War era. It also marked a Yeltsin's most prominent appearance on the world stage since he became leader of Russia after the Soviet Union dissolved late last year.

LOCAL/AREA REPORTS

Van blast

Staff Report

Midland firefighters responded to a fire and explosion Friday morning that destroyed a Toyota van and caused major damage to a carport, fire officials reported.

The fire, which occurred about 9 a.m. at a 10320 W. County Road residence, may have been caused by an electrical short in the van, according to Midland County Fire Marshal Dale Little.

One of two small oxygen bottles in the van exploded, Little said. The canister shot through the van and carport, over a neighbor's house and landed in another neighbor's driveway, he said.

The explosion shattered nearby house windows and broke a door and damaged bathroom fixtures in the house where the incident occurred, Little said.

Eight arrested

ODESSA — An auto theft task force, created last week, has netted five adults and three juveniles on a total of 16 charges, police said.

Odessa police, in conjunction with the Ector County District Attorney's Office and the Ector County Youth Center formed the task force to combat an unusually high number of car thefts in the past six months, police said.

Officers hoped to target about 20 suspected car thieves between 14 and 40 years of age, police said.

In addition to the eight already arrested, cases are pending against two more individuals, police said.

The task force will continue indefinitely, or as long as the car theft rate is up, police said.

Odessans held

ODESSA — Two Odessa men were arrested Thursday on Interstate 20 for possession of about an ounce of cocaine, police reported.

Jose E. Navarette, 22, and Samey Ramirez, 23, each remained jailed in lieu of a $7,500 bond set by Municipal Judge J.E. Weatherly.

The two were arrested after police, responding to a tip, stopped a 1988 Honda Prelude about 6:30 p.m. at the 117 mile marker of the interstate and during a search discovered both men in possesion of the drug, police said. An ounce of cocaine has a street value of about $1,000, officials said.

Murder charge

A 30-year-old man remained jailed Friday charged with the murder of Manuel Galindo, who was stabbed to death on Jan. 19, according to police and jail officials.

Tommy Joe Ramirez was arrested without incident on a warrant about 12:55 p.m. Thursday at 400 N. Lee St., police said. Bond was set at $50,000 by Justice of the Peace Robert Pine, jail officials said.

Galindo sustained multiple stab wounds to the left side of the chest and reported the incident from his residence about 10:30 p.m.. After police arrived at Galindo's home, the victim was transported to Midland Memorial Hospital where he died a short time later.

'Bee' smart

The Reporter-Telegram will sponsor the 1992 Regional Spelling Bee April 4 at Midland College.

School spelling champions from Midland, Martin, Glasscock and Upton counties will compete for the top prize of an all-expenses-paid trip to the National Spelling Bee in Washington, D.C.

To help students prepare, this colomn on words, their spelling, meanings and origins will run daily through April 3. The words are typical of those used in bees but may not necessarily be used in competition. Spelling source is Webster's Third New International Dictionary, the official dictionary of the bees. The column is prepared by Lawrence Technological University.

WEATHER SUMMARY

Via Associated Press

Warm day, cool night ahead

Today's forecast call for mostly cloudy skies with a high near 60, southerly winds 5 to 15 mph and a 20 percent chance of rain, according to the National Weather Service in Midland.

Tonight will be cloudy with a low in the lower 40s and a 40 percent chance of rain.

Sunday is expected to be cloudy with a high in the mid-50s and a 40 percent chance of rain.

After an overnight low of 31, Friday's high was 69 compared with the record high for that date of 80 set in 1963. The record for today's date was -8 set in 1985.

STATE

A high pressure system continued to keep skies sunny and temperatures unseasonably warm across the state Friday.

A thin layer of clouds streaked across South Texas as a high pressure ridge remained entrenched over the area. Another upper level low pressure system lurked off the coast of the Baja Peninsula and produced a few thin cirrus clouds over northern parts of the state.

The high pressure system generated light south winds and variable winds that blew at less than 10 mph. Surface high pressure extended eastward into southwest portions of the state from the southern Rockies and brought northwest winds of up to 15 mph over North Texas.

Temperatures were mostly in the upper 50s, reaching the upper 60s in the Panhandle and upper 70s in the south.

The forecast calls for increasing clouds through the weekend with a chance of showers by Sunday. South Texas highs will stay in the 70s. Highs are predicted in the 70s for North Texas with lows not as cool and near 50. West Texas highs will reach the 50s on Sunday.

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

Midland statistics

Today: Mostly cloudy, high near 60, southerly winds 5-15 mph, 20 percent chance of rain.
Tonight: Cloudy, low in the lower 40s, 40 percent chance of rain.
Sunday: Cloudy, high in the mid-50s, 40 percent chance of rain.

CORLEY: MHS football coach changes jobs

(From 1A)

Despite the recent 0-9 season, Corley told the Midland Reporter-Telegram Friday that he was not forced to step down.

"There was no real pressure to resign," Corley said. "Oh, there's pressure on any coach when you go 0-9, but everyone from the athletic office to the administration has been good to me.

"I view this as a good opportunity for me. I hope so, anyway. This (elementary intern) was offered to me, and I talked it over with my family and decided to take it. This is an opportunity to get into administration and see if that is what I want to do from here on out.

"I have no complaints. Midland has been good to me and my family. I'm going to look at this as an opportunity."

Corley still had a year left on his football contract at Midland High, but he decided to accept the reassignment by the school board during executive session Thursday night. The decision was not announced until Friday.

"This action is in no way punitive," said Joe Baressi, MISD superintendent. "All parties concerned, Davis, the (school) board and the administration agree that the students, and Davis himself, would best be served by a change in coaching personnel at Midland High School."

Tayrien added, "The main thing is that this is Coach Corley's choice. If that's his choice, I'll abide by that, but I hate to lose someone like him to the coaching profession. He really cares about kids.

"He's a fine, fine man. But I also understand that he had some very bad luck this last season. There were a lot of injuries, and the team lost a lot of games, and things just kind of snowballed from there."

Corley has been with Midland High eight years, coming to Midland as defensive coordinator with Doug McCutcheon, an old friend. Both grew up and played football in Bronte and then were again together as players at Texas Tech.

McCutcheon left Midland in 1989 after a 9-1 season to become the head coach at Duncanville, giving Corley his first opportunity to be a head football coach.

Tayrien said that the search for a new head football coach at MHS would begin immediately.

"The job is now open and we will take applications until Feb. 14," Tayrien said. "After that, we will hold interviews with some of the top candidates and hope to have someone in place by the third or fourth week in March."

In a news release from MISD Friday, a schedule for the coaching search read: First week of February, job posting; third week of February, screening of applicants; fourth week of February, recommendation to superintendent and superintendent interview top candidate(s); March 24, board interviews top candidate(s) and board approval.

LOW: Baker Hughes drilling rig count falls to 653 commented: "We have sort of been expecting this. I thought it might get better, but we have been saying that for 10 years now. I think it's time Americans started looking out for Americans, auto makers, textile and oil producers."

Grimes said the drop from last year's rig count will mean a loss of 300-400 jobs on drilling rigs, and 15 service-related jobs to every rig job. He said Permian Basin contractors were already working on such low margins that he didn't know how any could stay in business.

"Still, I expect it will get better. I am an optimist, or I wouldn't be in this business," Grime said.

He did note that a growing interest in horizontal drilling in the Permian Basin could pick the count up some. "I was told by a horizontal instrument company that inquiries about wells were up substantially this year. We won't blow away immediately there will still be some holes drilled."

Texas led the decline in the number of working oil and gas rigs, cutting 28 from its count. That drop came on the heels of a 25-rig loss posted in the Lone Star State last week.

"I don't want to rule out some weather effect as a factor, but it's mainly due to gas prices and the seasonal decline," said Ike Kerridge, who keeps track of the count for Baker Hughes.

Heavy rains and flooding that drenched Texas earlier this year probably can be blamed for some of the loss since rigs cannot be moved around to new sites when the ground is wet, Kerridge noted.

The weekly count is the widely watched index of drilling activity and represents the number of rigs actively exploring for petroleum and natural gas, not those producing oil and gas. Baker Hughes, a Houston-based tool maker, has kept track of the count since 1940.

When the oil boom went bust, the count sank to a previous low of 663 in the summer of 1986. The tally, fueled by the oil boom, had peaked at 4,500 in December 1981.

Last week, the count dropped to 686 — the lowest point since the dismal showing in 1986.

The count normally drops during the first quarter, and Kerridge said he expects additional declines.

"I think it'll go lower for a while," he said. "The general prospect is that it'll continue to decline for a couple of months."

Kerridge said there could be a slight recovery in Texas if the ground dries, but he said he doubts it will be enough to reverse the overall decline.

Among other major oil and gas producing states, Oklahoma dropped eight rigs this week, followed by Louisiana, which was down two. California and North Dakota each added three rigs and Kansas added one.

The counts in Colorado, New Mexico, Michigan, Ohio and Wyoming did not change.

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

SHERIFF: Seltzer denies any settlement near

(From 1A)

ready. We are going to do it. And the crooks on the street better get out of the way."

Further, the sheriff said that his agents are working with the federal and state law-enforcement agencies and with the Midland Police Department.

Painter's co-counsel, Dallas lawyer Ken Mayfield, said after Painter's press conference that the judge and commissioners "don't run the sheriff's department. He (Painter) does. That's not their business."

Painter claims that the conflict is politically motivated. Seltzer said that that is not the case.

Seltzer said that he doesn't want the sheriff's job.

"I'm not up for election, and I'm not running for the office of sheriff," Seltzer said following the conference.

But Seltzer suggested that Captain of Operations Clayton McKinney's name should be on any ballot for the sheriff's job.

"Anyone who knows anything about law enforcement within the county knows that Clayton McKinney runs the Sheriff's Office," Seltzer said.

"Judge Seltzer and I seem to have the same problem," McKinney said in response to Seltzer's comment. "The difference being that I know that I can't run the sheriff's office, and he (Seltzer) thinks he can run it by proxy."

In the press conference, Painter said that he was "not against the Commissioners' Court. All I want is for the law to be obeyed. I'm not opposed to the commissioners' running their end of the business, but I want them to stay out of mine."

Of any negotiations in a settlement of the lawsuit, Painter said that "We entered into negotiations with an attempt to save the county taxpayers' money."

"The commissioners' have broken off those negotiations," he said. "They did not agree to any kind of settlement."

However, McCrary said Painter had "made no direct attempt to negotiate" a settlement with the court.

McCrary said that Vann Culp, the Commissioners' Court's lawyer, noted that the "most significant condition" of any settlement proposed by Painter's lawyers "would be for the Commissioners' Court to drop the (Aug. 12) policy regarding extra-territorial endeavors."

"That's what the sheriff hopes for," McCrary said.

The Commissioners' Court did not accept that condition.

"That's the essence of his lawsuit," McCrary said. "We believe our (Aug. 12) policy to be founded in sound, reasonable judgment motivated by our fiscal concern."

"How could anybody who watches the news daily and views his (the sheriff's) continual malicious criticisms of the county judge and commissioners possibly believe that he (Painter) has a mind to negotiate?" McCrary asked.

Of the sheriff's plan to reduce his staff of jailers, McCrary noted that "It is incumbent on the sheriff to properly operate the jail, and he has been provided ample resources to do that through the budgetary process."

A sheriff's duty to operate the jail is rooted in the Texas Constitution, McCrary said.

"The sheriff is not obligated under the the Texas Constitution to conduct drug stings in Indiana, Ward County, Nolan County, Navarro County, Arizona, Oklahoma or Illinois," McCrary said.

Seltzer accused the sheriff of "misleading the public by trying to convince them that the issue is who in control of the Sheriff's Department."

"In the Commissioners' Court's opinion, the issue revolves around the authority of the sheriff to conduct operations outside of Midland County."

Seltzer noted the Midland County taxpayers are subjected to "monetary liability" on "these extremely dangerous extra-jurisdictional operations."

"I believe that by bringing these negotiations up and trying to allege that the Commissioners' Court rejected a settlement offer, the sheriff is trying to convince the public that he is blameless in this matter," Seltzer said.

"Sheriff Painter also wants the public to forget that he sued the Commissioners' Court. We didn't sue him, he sued us, and forced us to respond by filing a countersuit. Lastly, and perhaps most importantly, Sheriff Painter wants the voters of Midland to forget that they are paying for the litigation with the hard-earned tax dollars, tax dollars that would be must better spend repairing and maintaining county roads or providing services for the citizens of Midland County."

TONGUE: Richards fires rounds at president economic boat," she said. "And now that we're sinking, they're handing us a thimble and telling us to bail for four more years. . . .

"Last Tuesday, we heard a State of the Union address that offered more of the same meandering. A dribble of this, and a dabble of that. Sort of a Brylcream agenda — a little dab'll do ya."

She blamed Texas' economic woes in particular on Republican policies that she said effectively subsidized foreign oil, such as providing Navy escorts for oil tankers in the Middle East.

"The Defense Department may not like to call it a subsidy," she said. "But you can put lipstick on a hog and call it Monique. And it is still a pig."

The hog bit got big laughs from both the congressional Democrats and a group of Washington-based Texans who also had invited Richards to speak.

The legislators gave her standing ovations both before and after her speech. And, during a presidential election year in which Ann Richards is not running for anything, they broke into a chant of, "We want Ann!"

"If ya'll were expecting a messiah with a message," she said. "All I can say is that when I was born, my parents did not have the foresight to reserve a manger.

"I make no pretense of having the keys to the kingdom, much less the keys to the White House."

In that case, it remains to be seen whether Richards will be admitted to the executive mansion.

Her political barbs at Bush aside, she is scheduled to attend a dinner honoring the nation's governors hosted by the president and Barbara Bush on Sunday.

Speaking briefly with reporters yesterday, Richards spoke in far warmer terms of another home state colleague, Democratic Sen. Lloyd Bentsen.

Richards said she is among several Democrats who are encouraging Bentsen to reconsider his decision to stay out of the race for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Interest in a Bentsen candidacy has sprouted back in the wake of uncertainty about whether Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton's campaign will survive a series of unsubstantiated tabloid newspaper stories in which a former Arkansas employee claims she had a 12-year affair with him.

lems, but won't affect operations, she said.

The financial situation of the CAF was the result of various expenses incurred recently.

Among those were the relocation costs of moving to Midland from Harlingen and the increased operating costs at a more expensive facility, Ms. Webb said.

Because the CAF was closed down for about a year for the move, no revenue was brought in from the museum or retail store, she added.

The airshow that the CAF hosted in October did not generate any new revenue because of high start-up costs at the new location, Ms. Webb said.

And overall, the slack economy has affected the CAF, she added.

Nevertheless, the number of visitors has been soaring since the move to Midland, Ms. Webb said.

The CAF and its American Airpower Heritage Museum have averaged 142 daily visitors since opening day. That's twice what the CAF experienced in Harlingen.

The highest attendance day was on Dec. 26, when 675 people visited the CAF's International Headquarters.

Among the visitors, 48 percent have been from out of state, 50 percent from across Texas and 2 percent from other countries.

With community support, the CAF should continue to run without incurring any additional financial problems, Ms. Webb said.

Bush meets with Li Peng as State Department issues rights report

UNITED NATIONS (NYT) — President Bush held a frosty meeting here Friday with Chinese Premier Li Peng, who ordered the bloody military crackdown that left hundreds of pro-democracy demonstrators dead near Beijing's Tiananmen Square two and a half years ago.

The 20-minute session was a step forward for China's diplomacy, since it was Bush's first meeting with a high-ranking Chinese official since those killings.

That ended the administration's policy of distant engagement, through which the White House has maintained delicate ties with China's aging Communist leadership while trying not to appear too cozy with leaders of the harsh regime.

"China's human rights practices remained repressive, falling far short of internationally accepted norms," the U.S. State Department said shortly before the meeting in its annual report on human rights.

"It is neither appropriate nor workable to demand that all countries measure up to the human rights criteria ... of one or a small number of countries," Li said in a U.N. speech.

Several blocks from the U.N. headquarters in New York, thousands of Chinese Americans rallied. Hundreds held black, helium-filled balloons with the printed message: "China Shall Be Free!"

"Li Peng is a murderer," said 23-year-old protester Cheryl Ng. "He ordered the killings in Tiananmen. Why does Bush meet with this murderer?"

Another protestor carried a sign reading: "We never forget June 4," the date of the Beijing killings.

Among all other countries, North Korea is "undoubtedly still the very worst," said Richard Schifter, U.S. assistant secretary of State for Human Rights and Humanitarian Affairs.

The report also spoke with special harshness of human rights abuses in Saddam Hussein's Iraq, army-run Haiti, strife-ridden Yugoslavia, autocratic Afghanistan, religiously divided Kashmir in India, and two war-torn African countries, Somalia and Sudan.

Accounts of "torture, abuse and mistreatment of Palestinian detainees" in the Israeli-occupied territories were described by the report as "detailed" and "credible."

The report said China remains a rigidly totalitarian state where harsh labor camps hold more than 160,000 prisoners, usually without trial, and often on minor public-order offenses or for political reasons.

Central authorities have failed to end local abuses that include forced abortions and sterilization and torture by military and security officials that include using electric shocks, beatings and shackles to extract confessions, said the report.

Japan wants say in U.N. peacekeeping operations

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Japan, pressing for more influence in the United Nations, said Friday that unless it is given more say on U.N. peacekeeping missions it might not keep up its donations to the cash-strapped world body.

The comments by Japanese officials came at a time of ambitious U.N. peacekeeping plans whose funding source is far from evident. At the end of 1991, U.N. members owed $800 million in dues, including $377 million in peacekeeping funds.

Boutros Boutros-Ghali, the U.N. secretary-general, said Friday that he expected the United Nations would overcome its cash problems in several weeks.

Currently, the five permanent Security Council members — which do not include Japan — have the final say about deployment of peacekeepers.

The permanent five are the United States, France, Britain, China and Russia. All owe peacekeeping dues except China. By last year, the United States — which pays 31 percent of such costs — owed $141 million.

Japan seeks a permanent seat on the Security Council, "which we believe is commensurate with Japan's contributions to the United Nations," said Masamichi Hanabusa, the Foreign Ministry spokesman.

In his remarks to the Security Council, Prime Minister Kiichi Miyazawa suggested that countries that donate generously to peacekeeping be consulted about the operations.

"If the United Nations is to play a central role in establishing a new and peaceful world order, serious efforts by all member states are urgently required to resolve this issue," he said.

Military finale, rebel homecoming mark end to Salvadoran war

Shirley Christian
N.Y. Times News Service

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador — As top guerrilla leaders flew home from exile to join a nation at peace, the Salvadoran armed forces ceremonially declared the end of the civil war Friday and promised to carry out the reduced role envisioned for them under the peace accords.

Before civilian leaders, diplomats and representatives of all government military units gathered on the parade ground of the First Brigade, Gen. Rene Emilio Ponce, the defense minister, addressed the troops.

He said Salvadoran soldiers had "never taken up arms for a more just cause," but quickly added that "we are ready to assume the new mandate assigned to us."

President Alfredo Cristiani assured the troops, who were still in combat uniforms, that while their military operations ended Friday, without their sacrifices "our democracy could not have been born."

A few hours later, at El Salvador's international airport, several hundred supporters of the combined guerrilla forces, the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front, received about 30 of the top rebel fighters.

The guerrillas, most of whom were returning after years in exile, seemed near tears when they descended from the charter flight that arrived from Mexico City on Friday afternoon.

One of the first to emerge was Joaquin Villalobos, the dominant military leader among the five rebel armies that make up the front, who said had had come home to work "to build a new republic."

His remarks touched on a common reality: that the rebels are giving up underground lives to join in a new, legal political party.

Today, representatives of both the guerrillas, and of the Salvadoran government and political parties, will be installed as members of a commission that will oversee the transition to peace after a dozen years of war.

At first Friday, the guerrillas' supporters were quiet as they waited near the hundred or so journalists for their soldiers to arrive.

Gradually, however, they donned red and white bandanas with the letters FMLN, the initials in Spanish for the rebel coalition. Some vehicles along the 25-mile route from the airport to the city carried immense rebel banners.

In the next few days, former combatants from both sides are to gather in zones under U.N. control.

Ukraine asks ouster of Black Sea fleet admiral

KIEV, Ukraine (NYT) — President Leonid M. Kravchuk has demanded the dismissal of the admiral who commands the Black Sea fleet, claimed by both Russia and Ukraine, a spokesman for the Ukrainian leader said Friday.

Kravchuk issued the demand after the officer, Adm. Igor Kasatonov, snubbed a delegation of Ukrainian lawmakers and Defense Ministry officials who had traveled to fleet headquarters in the Crimean port of Sevastopol.

The admiral, a Russian, refused to receive the group, which included two leaders of the Ukrainian Parliament, a spokesman for Kravchuk, Vladimir Y. Slapashnikov, said.

On Thursday night, Kravchuk sent a telegram to President Boris N. Yeltsin of Russia, asking that Yeltsin join him in demanding the admiral's dismissal. Kravchuk did not ask Yeltsin to dismiss Kasatanov on his own because such a request would have implied recognition that Russia was the successor to the Soviet Union with regard to command of the Black Sea fleet.

Moscow McDonald's caters to elite, newspaper charges

MOSCOW (AP) — As McDonald's celebrated its second anniversary in Moscow Friday, a leading newspaper accused the country's first Western fast-food establishment of catering to only a tiny elite that has money to burn.

Prices have jumped more than 1,400 percent since Moscow-McDonald's opened its doors, primarily due to rising costs of local food products, according to the management of the Canadian-Soviet owned restaurant. In the same period, average wages have risen about 300 percent.

As many as 60,000 customers a day were served in the gleaming chrome-and-steel restaurant's heyday, making it famous for lines so long that riot rails were installed. The number now has dropped to about 30,000, said operations manager Glen Steeves.

"McDonald's has its two-year birthday today. Great! It has the same interior, the same service, the same happy smiles. And the prices are such that lunch is equivalent to a minimum (monthly) salary," the Moskovsky Komsomolets newspaper reported.

"They promised to create their own restaurants in Moscow to feed a lot of people cheaply, but McDonald's has quickly fallen into our own market pattern: taking care of only a few expensively," it said.

"We want McDonald's to be affordable to the man or woman on the street, not to the new breed of Russian millionaire," said George A. Cohon, CEO of McDonald's Restaurants of Canada, Ltd., and vice chairman of Moscow-McDonald's.

But he told The Associated Press that McDonald's has had to contend with soaring prices for everything from flour to meat, which he said have shot up 50 times in the past two years.

Moscow-McDonald's announced at Friday's anniversary celebration — where 500 orphans were treated to hamburgers, fries and free entertainment — that it would help Russians get through the difficult winter by temporarily not charging the government-imposed 28 percent value-added tax. The price drop begins today.

But that will hardly pacify hungry Muscovites, who have seen the price of a Big Mac go from 3.75 rubles two years ago to 59 rubles. Prices are so high that some Russians eager to experience a "taste of the West" resort to bringing their own sandwiches to eat along with McDonald's soft drinks.

The ruble is worth one cent at the tourist exchange rate. The average Russian salary is only about 960 rubles monthly, according to statistics provided by the Russian Labor Ministry.

The lowest-paid McDonald's worker earns 2,400 rubles a month, the company says.

Palestinian can't be questioned, French doctors say

PARIS (AP) — Doctors examining George Habash late Friday decided that he was not in a state to be questioned, opening the way for the Palestinian guerrilla leader to be released and flown to Algeria, a news agency reported.

Magistrate Jean-Louis Bruguiere, France's top anti-terrorism investigator, met with with doctors who said a shock to Habash's head had made it virtually impossible to speak with him, Agence France-Presse reported, quoting well-placed sources.

The 65-year-old leader of the radical Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, which gained notoriety for the Palestinian cause with a series of hijacking at other terrorist attacks in the 1970s, reportedly suffered a stroke at his home in Tunis on Monday.

Neither the French Foreign Ministry nor the presidential Elysee Palace would confirm the report.

AFP said Habash, who had been placed under custody Thursday night, was to leave Paris for Algiers today.

Algeria's Foreign Ministry said late Friday that at the request of the Palestine Liberation Organization it had agreed to receive Habash, who travels on an Algerian passport.

President Francois Mitterrand's government has been assailed at home and abroad for allowing Habash to enter France for medical care.

"What should normally have been a mere humanitarian action which would have honoured its organizers has been diverted and it has become clear through this case that there is a will to harm the role France has been striving for," the Algerian statement said.

Senate approves regulation of cable TV

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators inundated by complaints about cable television prices and services voted Friday to regulate rates and take steps to enhance competition in the industry.

The 73-18 vote sends a bill to the House, where similar legislation passed two years ago. But Bush administration officials are promising a veto unless it is changed significantly.

Senators said they had been hearing from consumers throughout the nation who are unhappy with cable companies' quality of service and rapid rate increases.

The bill sponsored by Sens John Danforth, R-Mo., Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, and Al Gore, D-Tenn., requires the Federal Communications Commission to regulate rates for basic cable service unless a competing multi-channel television company is operating in the area.

It defines basic service as those channels sought by at least 30 percent of the community. This would prevent companies from offering only the local broadcast stations, and access channel and C-SPAN as basic services, as some do now.

The bill also limits the number of cable customers a single company can have nationwide and restricts an operator's involvement with programming companies. Those programmers would be required to sell access to their signals to competing cable operators.

Currently, the business ties between certain programmers and cable operators have made it nearly impossible for competitors to get the programming that would attract business in a community that already has cable.

The industry in the last seven years has become available to 90 percent of all households and is a news-and-entertainment mainstay for thousands of people.

The rapid growth in part has been the result of deregulation, which also has led to control of the industry by a few companies facing no competition in the overwhelming majority of communities.

Congressional researchers say rates have increased an average of more than 50 percent since the 1986 deregulation.

"Throughout America it is viewed as an abusive industry," said Danforth.

U.S. panel backs approval of condom for women

ROCKVILLE, Md. (NYT) — An expert panel convened by the Food and Drug Administration on Friday tentatively recommended agency approval for the first condom designed for women.

The panel approved the device simply for use in disease prevention, noting that it would also function as a contraceptive but that approval of contraceptives is a more involved process.

Agency staff members and the 14 experts on the panel indicated they were troubled by some aspects of the company's application.

Specifically, they said the company's data did not support claims that the condom prevents the spread of sexually transmitted diseases and did not provide enough statistical basis for calculating effectiveness in preventing pregnancy.

But the 11 panel members at the meeting Friday unanimously recommended provisional approval of the female condom after hearing testimony from federal health officials and groups concerned with women's health issues and the spread of HIV, the virus that causes AIDS.

"This is a great day for women," said Cynthia A. Pearson of the National Women's Health Network, a not-for-profit group concerned with women's issues, who attended the hearing. "For the first time this will give women control over exposure to sexually transmitted disease, including AIDS. This will be real empowerment."

While the panel's recommendation to the FDA is not binding, the agency usually follows the advice of such bodies.

The device, called a vaginal pouch, is essentially a polyurethane sheath that lines the vagina. It is held in place by two flexible plastic rings, one at the cervix and one outside the body. About 6½ inches long, its sealed inner ring is about 1½ inches in diameter and the outer ring about 2 inches in diameter.

A woman inserts it much like a diaphragm.

Dems target Bush's remedies for recession

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic presidential contenders criticized President Bush's recession remedies and touted their own in campaign debate Friday night. "They just don't get it," Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton said of the administration. "This country's in trouble."

■ More national news/4C

Iowa Sen. Tom Harkin said Bush's economic policies were an extension of Reaganomics, policies he said benefit the wealthy while most Americans are suffering through "the worst of times."

Nebraska Sen. Bob Kerrey derided Bush's State of the Union address this week as "all hat and no cowboy" and noted the White House's budget envisions a whopping deficit of $400 billion. Bidding to break out of the doldrums as measured in the polls, Kerrey said he had taken difficult positions "by saying 'no' to friends."

Former Massachusetts Sen. Paul Tsongas and former California Gov. Jerry Brown joined the other three in the two-hour debate, carried live on the Public Broadcasting Service. It was the second network television debate of the campaign, and came little more than two weeks before New Hampshire's kick-off primary election.

Jim Lehrer and Robin MacNeil of PBS served as moderators. Lehrer said at the outset there were no ground rules except for "basic fairness and civility."

What sparring there was fell well within the guidelines, at least in the early moments.

Kerrey said he had supported a $23,000 Senate pay raise as a way of phasing out the system by which lawmakers receive fees for making speeches to special interest groups.

That brought a rebuke from Brown, whose campaign is based on a call for an end to insider politics. "It doesn't take any courage to put money in your own pocket," he said.

Clinton is the leader in the polls in New Hampshire, with Tsongas showing second. Both men drew some criticism in the opening rounds of the debate for supporting a capital gains tax cut — and Tsongas noted wryly that he was coming in for more criticism since his improvement in the polls. "Now I'm Darth Vader," he said.

The five took turns criticizing Bush's education policies, agreeing on the need for more Head Start money than the president has requested. Harkin said another $2 billion to $3 billion was needed.

Tsongas said Bush has failed "to provide a sense of value to learning."

Capital gains was grist for a lively if esoteric debate.

"Anyway you cut it or dice it or slice it, a capital gains tax cut favors the rich," said Harkin. Bush called for a sharp reduction in capital gains taxes this week as part of his economic stimulus program.

But Tsongas said he favors a capital gains cut that differs from Bush's, since it would only grant relief for investors who help create jobs, rather than those who buy race horses or art collections.

Clinton said that unlike the president, he favors a middle-class tax cut. He said he, too, favors targeted capital gains cuts.

But Harkin immediately interjected that Clinton had said in an earlier appearance in New Hampshire that he opposed such a reduction. "Which is which here?" he asked.

He later dismissed Tsongas and Clinton for pursuing the same "trickle-down policies" espoused by Reagan and Bush.

Lions out of luck

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — Bowl officials in and out of the new college football bowl alliance said Friday that a greater good was served when Penn State was left out of the mix.

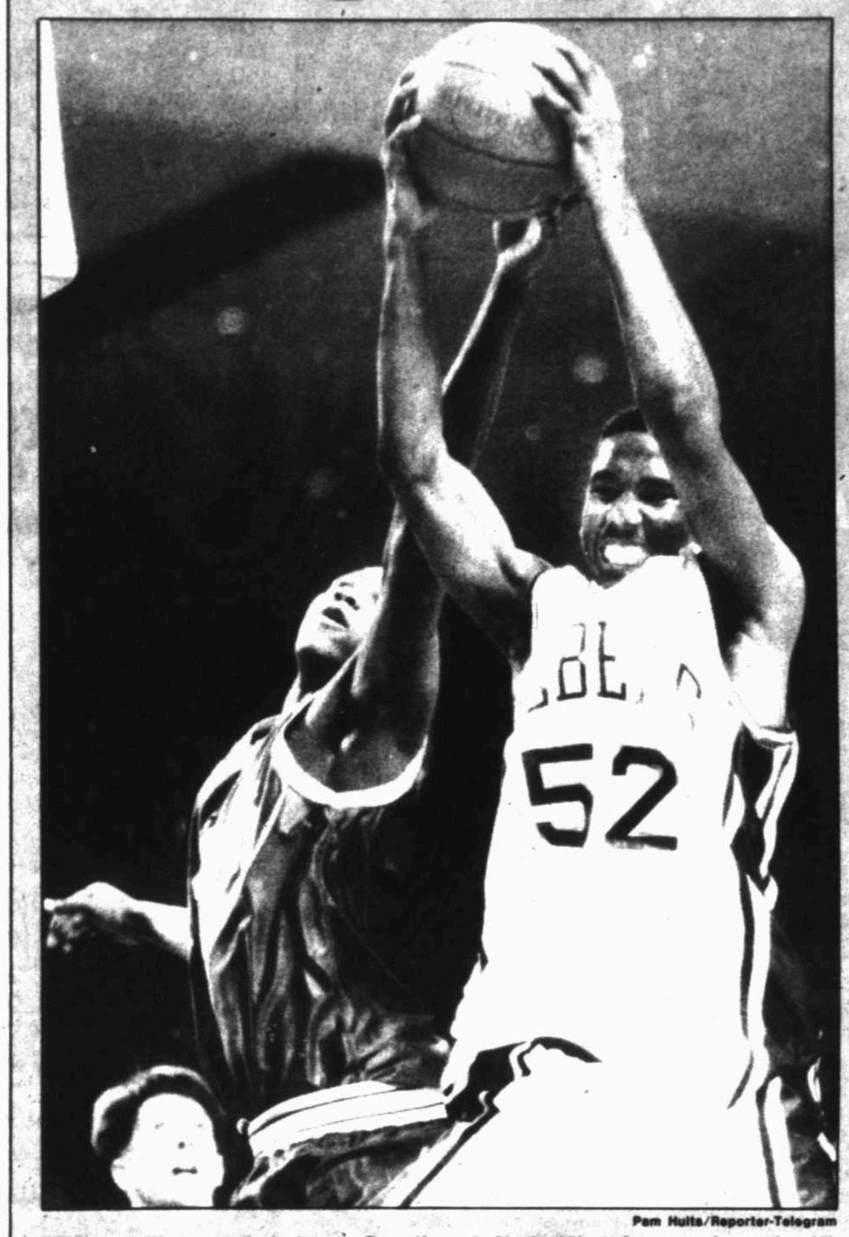

The insiders said leaving the Nittany Lions out will make for an easier transition to the four-bowl deal. One official outside the new alliance said Penn State's freedom is good for him.

"I just sent a fax to Jim Tarman that said, 'Jim, I want you to know we still love you,' " said Bud Dudley, executive director of the Liberty Bowl.

There are times when you wish you could forget winners and losers, and district races. Such was the case Friday night at Chaparral Center where there were only overtime basketball winners.

Midland High and Midland Lee gave 2,500 fans a gut-wrenching overtime thriller that saw bodies fly across the floor like a pinball machine on a hot Saturday night at Midland Park Mall.

This cross-town rivalry is filled with games like this, but at least, let's say this was one of the best ever and remember it for that.

The truth is, however, that there are winners and losers when it comes to the heat of District 4-5A, and it must be noted that Midland High won the game 59-58 to keep the Bulldogs in the playoff chase and slow Lee's hopeful climb for the same. MHS is now 3-4 in league action while Lee is 4-3 and one game behind second place Abilene Cooper, a 71-62 loser to 6-1 Abilene High.

The Bulldogs got four key free throws from sophomore guard Joseph Golding in the final 53 seconds of overtime to pull out the win. The final two shots were with 14 seconds left. Still, Lee got three shots before the end of the game, two by Coradon Watson and one at the buzzer by Wayne Wilson, only to come up empty.

"Wow! You talk about pressure," Golding said of standing with victory in his own grasp at the free throw line. "I just tried to block it out, but it was hard. The crowd was into the game, and on top of everything else, we wanted to win this game for our seniors, who had lost only once to Lee."

MHS coach Jack Stephenson and Lee coach Jon House also praised Golding.

"He wanted to be at the line and we had him driving the lane, knowing that Lee wouldn't let him go in for the layup," Stephenson said. "He really came through for us."

Added House, "You have to give the sophomore (Golding) credit. He hit four big shots. We had our chances after that, but we didn't really do what I wanted down the stretch, and that's my fault. We didn't communicate well with the kids. I take the blame for this loss."

Lee forced an overtime when guard Keenan Henry, who had 15 points before fouling out in overtime, hit a three-point shot with two seconds left in regulation to tie the game at 51-51.

"Keenan gave us a chance with a great pressure shot and we couldn't take advantage of it," House said.

Midland High exploded out of the gate, taking a 22-9, 13-point lead in the first quarter. That was the zenith of the MHS attack, but Lee never led in regulation as the Rebels had to keep climbing at the Bulldogs. The game was tied six times from the 2:25 mark of the third period and Lee's only four leads of the night came in overtime as teams traded points at will.

Every time Lee would pull even, the Bulldogs seem to always answer with points. Big 6-8 post Andre Gill, who scored eight second-half points, came off the bench in the third quarter to ignite MHS three times back into the lead. Antwan Goodley, who had a game high 23 points answered Lee two more times.

"If you ask me, Andre was the difference in the game," Stephenson said. "I've known all along that the big guy was going to be a factor. He's 6-8, but played 6-11, above the rim."

Gill said, "This was a great feeling to win this game. Lee wasn't blocking

Lee girls sweep regular season series

Lady Rebels strengthen grip on 2nd place with 52-49 win

By Bill Price
Staff Writer

Like a dangerous animal trapped in a corner, Midland High played with every ounce of fight it could summon. Like a team headed for the playoffs, Midland Lee still prevailed.

Lee used timely fourth-quarter free throw shooting Friday night at the Chaparral Center, as the Lady Rebels inched closer to their first playoff berth since 1989 with a 52-49 win over MHS in high school girls basketball play.

The Lady Rebs moved to 12-10 overall and 7-2 in District 4-5A, still in second place and 2½ games ahead of MHS with three games left on their regular season schedule. The Lady Bulldogs slipped closer to the edge of playoff elimination, as they fell to 18-8 and 4-4 in district with four games remaining.

In a game that oozed emotion, the Lady 'Dawgs hoped to avenge a 40-35 defeat at the hands of their intra-city rival back on Jan. 8. MHS began sporting "Lee-Busters" T-shirts in its Thursday practice at the Chap, and by game time was primed for an upset.

The Lady Rebels, though, were riding their own emotional crest. High off their 63-43 demolition of district-leading Abilene High last Friday and a 59-51 win at San Angelo Tuesday, the Lady Rebs received an added boost with good news about teammate Lisa Cochran.

Cochran, who Tuesday was rushed to emergency surgery to remove a 2½-pound tumor from her abdomen, learned that her biopsy results showed no malignancy. That good news also lifted her teammates.

"This one's for Lisa. She wanted to be here real bad. She wanted us to wheel her out here," said guard Debbie Kuntz, who was a perfect 6-for-6 from the free throw line in the fourth quarter and led Lee in scoring with 14 points.

If Cochran had been there, she would have witnessed her Lady Re-

Cochran's illness inspires Lady Rebs

It should've been one of the loneliest nights of Lisa Cochran's life.

Friday night, Cochran could've been laying in a hospital bed, lonely and longing to be on a basketball court helping her friends and teammates beat their fiercest rivals.

Patterson

But as it turned out, Friday night was not too bad a night after all. Matter of fact, it turned out to be a pretty good night for most all concerned with Lisa Cochran's well being.

Monday, doctors diagnosed Cochran, a senior guard for the Midland Lee Lady Rebels, as having an abdominal tumor. Surgery was performed Wednesday, the day after Lee defeated San Angelo Central, the first game Cochran missed because of the diagnosis. Doctors removed the 2½ pound tumor and declared the surgery a success. Doctors are almost certain the growth is benign. Good news, part one.

Good news, part two: Cochran was not lonely in her hospital bed Friday night. While her teammates were playing Midland High, Cochran's friends were keeping her company in her room. Another friend at Chaparral Center was given a roll of quarters so she could keep Cochran updated period-by-period.

Signs and flowers cover her hospital room wall, and back on the basketball floor, her teammates may have been playing a game, but they never let Cochran slip too far from their thoughts.

"From everybody here, we love her and miss her. She's in our hearts," teammate Debbie Kuntz said. Kuntz was wearing Cochran's No. 43 jersey during the game, and said she'll continue to do so until Cochran returns to the team.

Sure it was hard for her. Being a senior, it was the last time Cochran and the Lady Rebels were set to face the Lady Bulldogs this season. Always an intense game for both teams involved, Cochran was a little disappointed she wasn't able to partake.

"I hope I can be back by the playoffs," an optimistic Cochran said from her hospital room during halftime of the game. "I know we'll make the playoffs."

Elise Kail, in her first season as the Lady Rebels' head basketball coach, said telling her team about Cochran's surgery Tuesday morning was, "the hardest thing I've ever had to do in my life. You could tell everyone took it hard.

"But when we were through talking, I asked Tanisha Mills to say a prayer, and everybody stood up immediately.

"I think it's sort of brought everyone on the team together. It's like the kind of spirit you have when you have a mishap in your family. I think we've all grown from it. And we all realize life has more to offer than just basketball."

Michelle Benson, Cochran's friend with all the quarters, never gave her a bad report. The Lady Rebels, more than likely spurred on by their teammates' illness, led at the end of each period. And at game's end, it was Midland Lee 52, Midland High 49. For Cochran, good news, part three.

Winning the game certainly softened the blow for Cochran after she was unable to play.

And amidst all the flowers and get-well posters that decorate her hospital room, there is a gift or two that is maybe more noticable than all the others: The one with the card that reads "Hope to see you back on the court soon." It would be the plant with a touch of purple ribbon, and signed by members of the crosstown rival Lady Bulldogs. MHS senior Sally Gibson and her family sent flowers, as well.

Feelings for Cochran after her surgery, it seems, transcended maroon and white.

"Everyone has been really sweet," Cochran said. "I just wish I could be there to play. It was rough. Real hard."

Trio of NBA games goes OT

Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY — Delaney Rudd hit a 15-footer from the corner with 2.5 seconds left in overtime, giving the Utah Jazz a victory over the Phoenix Suns.

Rudd's game-winner came after Tom Chambers gave the Suns a 116-115 lead with 11 seconds remaining. Jeff Hornacek's running one-hander at the buzzer bounced long off the backboard as the Jazz stopped the Suns' winning streak at three and improved Utah's home record to 19-2.

Karl Malone had 43 points and 16 rebounds and Jeff Malone scored 22 points for Utah. Kevin Johnson had 28 points and a season-high 18 assists and Majerle 22 points for the Suns.

Pacers 115, Hawks 106, OT

INDIANAPOLIS — Micheal Williams scored six of his 19 points in overtime and Chuck Person had 31 points, 12 rebounds and eight assists as the Indiana Pacers defeated the Atlanta Hawks.

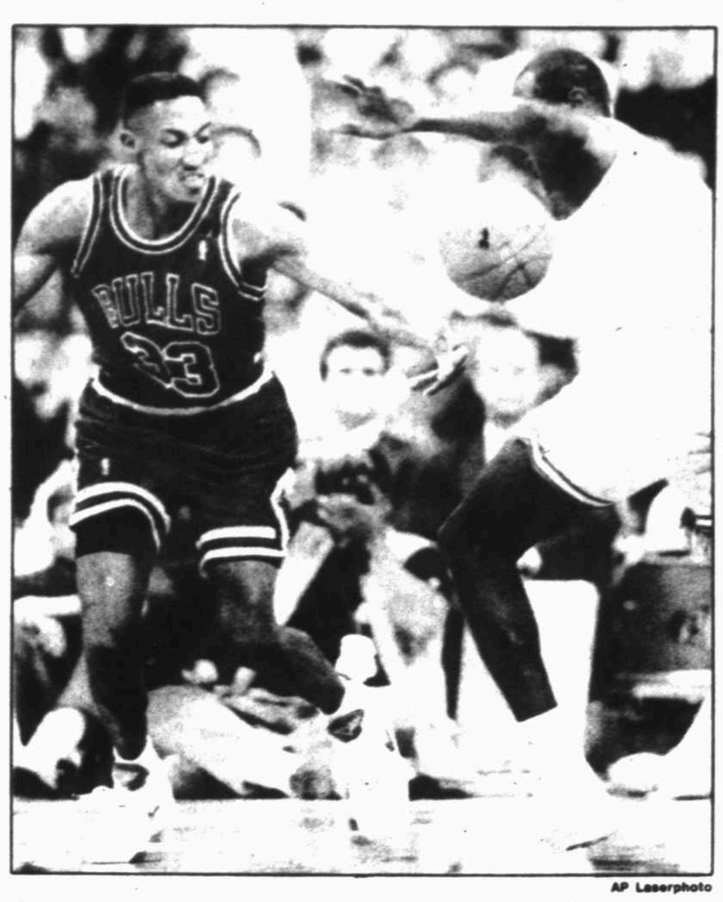

Reggie Miller scored 21 points and Detlef Schrempf had 15, including eight in overtime. Kevin Willis led the Hawks with 24 points and 20 rebounds and Duane Ferrell scored 17.

Williams and Schrempf combined for Indiana's first 14 points in overtime as the Pacers opened a 111-101 lead with 50 seconds left. They outscored Atlanta 16-7 in overtime.

Knicks 125, Bullets 114, OT

LANDOVER, Md. — Patrick Ewing scored six of his 20 points in overtime and the New York Knicks handed the Washington Bullets their eighth straight loss.

Xavier McDaniel scored 28 points on 12-for-16 shooting for the Knicks, who improved to 4-0 in overtime games.

Cambridge issues refund, will rejoin 'Horns Saturday

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas basketball player Dexter Cambridge mailed a $4,600 check to a booster of his junior college on Friday, ending his two-month suspension.

Cambridge will rejoin his teammates Saturday, when the Longhorns face Rhode Island in Providence. It will be his first appearance since Nov. 29, the last game before the NCAA forced him off the court following the preseason National Invitational Tournament.

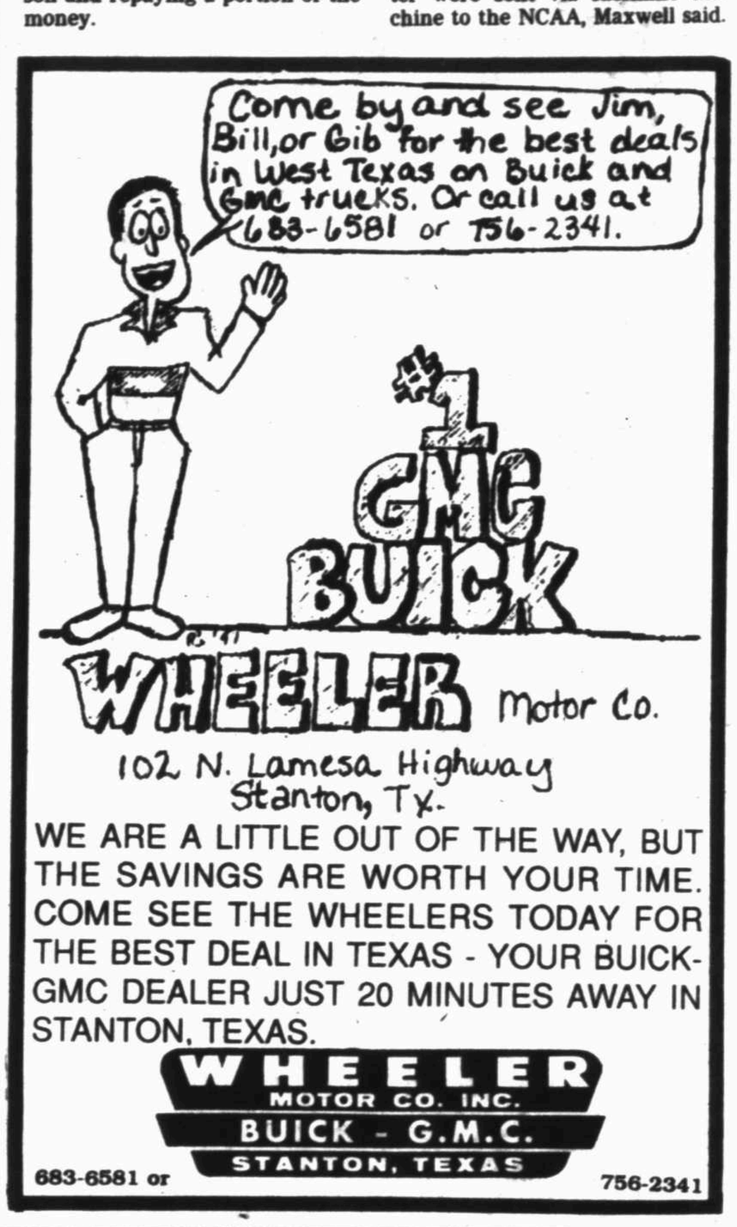

The NCAA's action came after Cambridge admitted having taken $7,000 from a booster while at Lon Morris Junior College. A lengthy appeals process resulted in Cambridge regaining his eligibility, but only after missing half the season and repaying a portion of the money.

Before flying to Rhode Island, Cambridge and Phil Maxwell, his attorney, sent a $4,600 check to Keith Heingartner, the junior college booster whose 1990 graduation gift set off the saga.

Maxwell said Cambridge repaid the money with $2,600 from his family and $2,000 as a student loan from the University of Texas. The two checks were deposited in a trust fund controlled by Maxwell, who then wrote a $4,600 check to Heingartner.

The check was sent by overnight mail and is expected to reach Heingartner by 10 a.m. Saturday.

Copies of the two checks to Cambridge, the check to Heingartner and an accompanying letter were sent via facsimile machine to the NCAA, Maxwell said.

District 4-5A swim meet finishes diving, prelims

Staff Report

ABILENE — The diving portion and the preliminary events of the District 4-5A swim meet were completed here Friday, as Midland High and Midland Lee again expect to dominate the competition.

In the girls diving finals, Jogee Wollard and Christy Connell of Lee gave the Rebels plenty of points to work with by finishing 1-2. Catherin Bash of MHS was fourth and the Bulldogs' Courtni Harrison was fifth. In boys diving, Juan Arguello took second place for Lee.

The Hawk elected to basketball hall

Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — Connie Hawkins, who was banished by basketball 30 years ago in a gambling scandal, Friday was awarded the sport's highest honor — election to the Hall of Fame.

"I don't know what to say. I'm speechless," said Hawkins, who has long maintained his innocence.

"The Hawk" grew up on the playgrounds of Brooklyn, N.Y., and his swooping dunks and high-flying acrobatics changed the game. He was one of five players — including two women — plus three former coaches and Lou Carnesecca of St. John's to be elected in basketball's centennial year.

Lusia Harris, a 6-foot-3 center who led Delta State to three national championships during the 1970s, and Nera White, who led her Nashville-based AAU team to 10 national championships and one world championship during the 1950s and 1960s, were the first women players elected into the Hall.

The Hall of Fame's first three women, including Margaret Wade, Harris' coach at Delta State, were inducted in 1985.

The other players to be inducted May 11 will be center Bob Lanier from St. Bonaventure, who had a 14-year pro career with Detroit and Milwaukee, and Sergei Belov, one of the greatest international players of all time. Belov led the Soviet national team to four European and two world championships and the gold medal at the 1972 Olympics.

Elected as coaches were Al McGuire, the tough guy from New York who cried when his 1977 Marquette team won the NCAA championship; Jack Ramsay, whose 864 career victories with four NBA teams ranks second in league history, and the late Phil Woolpert, who led San Francisco to NCAA championships in 1955 and 1956.

They join 179 individuals and four teams already in the Hall in Springfield.

Hawkins was tossed out of college during his freshman year at Iowa and banned by the NBA for seven years after being accused of introducing players to a man convicted of fixing games. Hawkins said the accusations were untrue, and the NBA lifted the ban in 1969 after settling his damage suit for more than $1 million.

Meantime, Hawkins toured with the Harlem Globetrotters and won most valuable player honors in the rival American Basketball Association's inaugural season after leading Pittsburgh to the ABA title. He joined the Phoenix Suns as a 25-year-old rookie.

Lady Mustangs cruise, 49-18

Cowboys' Pro Bowl QB has best season despite injury

Associated Press

HONOLULU — After struggling his first two years in the NFL, things improved dramatically this season for Troy Aikman and his Dallas team. The Cowboys made it to the playoffs and he made it to the Pro Bowl.

"The first season was really tough, last year was even tough," Aikman said. "This year, for the first time, I felt like I was having fun playing in the offense. I really felt good about it.

"It's obviously a lot more fun when you're winning then when you're losing, but it's also a lot of fun when you believe in what you're doing."

Aikman missed five games with a broken index finger on his left hand, his non-throwing hand, during his rookie season of 1989. But he came back to show signs of great promise, including throwing for an NFL rookie record of 379 yards in one game.

He finished the season, however, with a mediocre 55.7 passing efficiency rating and was 0-11 in games he started as the Cowboys struggled to a 1-15 record.

Both Aikman and the team began to turn things around in 1990, when he started 15 games and finished with a 66.6 passing rating, including throwing for 2,579 yards, as the Cowboys improved to 7-9.

That season also was marred for Aikman by an injury, as he went out in December with an injured right shoulder. He underwent surgery in January to have the shoulder repaired and also to have bone chips removed from his right elbow.

This season, despite being sidelined for the final four regular-season games and the Cowboys' first playoff game by a knee injury, Aikman raised his passing efficiency rating to 86.7, throwing for 2,754 yards and completing 65.3 percent of his throws during the regular season.

The Cowboys, meanwhile, finished with a 12-6 record, including 1-1 in the playoffs.

Aikman credits the impact of Norv Turner, who replaced David Shula as the Cowboys' offensive coordinator, with the vast improvement in the offense this season. Turner, who favors a ball-control passing attack, earlier had helped the San Diego Chargers and the Los Angeles Rams develop their passing attacks.

"Getting Norv Turner in as offensive coordinator, getting us into an offense we all believed in, I think that's the reason I've had success, all of us, because of what he was able to do with our offense," said Aikman, who'll be playing for the NFC all-stars in Sunday's Pro Bowl.

"The year before, when we were 7-9, our defense played outstanding and I felt that the thing that was holding us back was our offensive play," Aikman said. "We just weren't putting enough points on the board, were ranked 28th in the league in offense.

"Then Norv came in and got us going offensively, and because of that we were able to win more ball games."

Aikman is very optimistic about his future and that of the Cowboys.

"I definitely feel I haven't peaked yet," he said. "Hopefully, I won't ever feel that way. I'm getting more and more disciplined as I go along.

"I guess my biggest complaint so far is that I've missed a lot of games because of injuries, but that happens. I want to be able to make it through a full season without getting injured."

And he said of the Cowboys: "We've got another big draft this year and I think we'll get stronger. Then, too, we're all so young. This is Emmitt Smith's second year, Michael Irvin's fourth, my third."

MBT defeats Harvest, 59-40

Mustangs win game, lose coin toss

Staff Report

Midland Christian's Mustangs won their basketball game Friday night but lost a coin flip, sending them to the Texas Association of Private and Parochial Schools playoffs as district runners-up.

MCHS (15-10) beat Abilene Christian 58-47 on the Mustangs' home floor, avenging a previous loss to ACHS in Abilene and sending the district race into a tie for first place. The resulting coin flip went Abilene's way and moved MCHS into the TAPPS bracket against the as yet undetermined District 7 champion.

Though Friday's game was the Mustangs' district-closer, they still have a regular season game next Friday at Grady. They then will play in the TAPPS bi-district and regional tournament at San Antonio in two weeks.

Abilene Christian (47): David Rios 1 0-0 2, Dane Peacock 2 0-0 4, Jesse Qualls 1 0-0 2, Aaron Chowning 8 2-4 20, Jackie Qualls 5 1-2 11, Jason Pernell 2 4-6 8. Totals: 19 7-14 47.

Midland Christian (58): Brian Fairchild 1 1-2 3, Neal Truax 2 2-2 7, Brett Posey 2 2-2 6, Sammy Cox 4 1-3 9, Drew Akins 2 1-3 5, Alan Weaver 8 7-7 23, Roger Guess 1 1-2 3, Kyle Jackson 1 0-0 2. Totals: 21 15-22 58.

Score by quarters:

Abilene Christian	8	12	17	10—47
Midland Christian	14	15	15	14—58

Three-point goals: ACHS 2 (Chowning 2); MCHS 1 (Truax). Total Fouls: ACHS: 21; MCHS: 16. Fouled Out: Pernell, Guess. Technical Fouls: none.

Alcala's 22 leads MFHS in tourney

Staff Report

Midland Freshman's Purple girls basketball team stayed unbeaten on the season Friday, as the Lady Bulldogs took two wins in the MFHS postseason tournament.

In it's first win, MFHS (18-0) beat Odessa Nimitz 61-37, as Amy Alcala scored 22 points and Veronica Poage had 16. In their evening game, the 'Dawgs downed Odessa Bonham 45-39, with Alcala again getting 22 points and Poage adding 15.

Other tournament games Friday saw Odessa Bowie take a 59-27 victory over MFHS Gold and a 60-55 win over Lee Freshman's Maroon team.

MFHS Purple and Bowie will face off for the championship at 3 p.m. today in the MFHS gymnasium.

BOYS: MHS wins ninth in last 10

out and it allowed me to get in position and get some rebounds."

One key factor in the contest was that the MHS defense held Lee's Martin Lattibeaudiere to a meager two points. Lattibeaudiere was 0-for-10 from the field. In fact, Lee had a miserable night shooting, hitting only 21 of 70 shots and 3-of-17 from three-point land. Lee hit only 30 percent from the field, but stayed in the game with 13-of-15 free throws.

MHS hit 43 percent from the field, including a 10-of-17 effort in the 22-point first period of play.

"Midland High's defense did a great job against Martin and that has to be a big key. They played good enough to win and we played good enough to lose," House said.

Wayne Wilson led Lee with 21 points while David Wilson added 14, but MHS got more bench production with Gill. Only Goodley hit in double figures for the Bulldogs. The junior had 13 of his 23 points after the half and had four big baskets in the Bulldogs' big first period.

MHS has now won nine of the last 10 meetings with the Rebels and the Bulldogs still have a battle cry.

"That's one down and five to go," meaning MHS' only playoff hopes lie in going the rest of the way unbeaten. The biggest test of that hope comes Tuesday when the Bulldogs host Abilene High at the Chap.

Lee travels to Cooper in what has now become a "must win" game for the Rebs.

"It's going to be tough to play on the road against Cooper," House said. "I'm anxious to see how these kids will handle this loss. It's going to be interesting."

In junior varsity action, Midland High defeated Lee by a 59-50 margin as Kirk French hit for 23 points. John Sullivan had 13 for Lee while Sean Low had 10.

GIRLS: Crisp free throws put game away

(From 1B)

bels take 22 more shots from the foul line than MHS, as Lee went 24-for-40 from the line — 13-for-16 in the fourth period — while the Lady Bulldogs were 10-for-18.

Besides the scoreboard, another place Lee benefited from that discrepancy was on the MHS bench, where 6-4 post Lisa Koss and hot-shot sophomore guard Julie Chancellor spend much of the game in foul trouble.

Chancellor's loss was especially agonizing for the Bulldogs, because she scored 19 points and keyed a big comeback that kept MHS in the game.

After a low-scoring first-quarter ended with Lee on top 8-4, the Rebs began to pull away and held a 22-17 lead at halftime.

By the 4:02 mark of the third quarter, Lee was on top 29-19 and looked to be on its way to an easy win. But Chancellor nailed two three-pointers and a 17-foot deuce to accompany Sally Gibson's basket in a 1:40 span, tying the game at 29-29 at the 2:15 mark.

But then Chancellor then picked up her fourth personal foul on the way back down the floor, took a seat and watched as Kuntz gave Lee the lead for good by making the second of two free throws.

In the fourth quarter, MHS came close with the score at 35-34 and 39-37 before Lee again widened the gap. Tanisha Mills hit a basket with 4:43 to go in the game, then Ranee Franklin and Kuntz began the Rebels' free throw spree that eventually made the difference in the game.

The Bulldogs made one final run, and with the score 50-47 with 1:02 left, Lachette Crisp missed the front end of a one-and-one that may have iced the game. Instead, Ashley Chase grabbed the rebound for MHS and the Lady 'Dawgs worked the ball to Tarshina Belcher, whose bucket with 44 seconds to go made the score 50-49.

But Crisp was fouled by Charlotte Scharbauer with 23 seconds remaining, and this time she made both free throws to cancel the comeback.

"I had to make those free throws. That was the crucial point in the game," Crisp said.

"Lachette's a competitor, and when her shot goes wrong, she knows how to fix it," said Lee coach Elise Kail.

In junior varsity play, Lee claimed a 35-34 win, as Roxanne Furrow scored 11 points.

Pinkett looks forward to getting ball more with Saints

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers veteran running back Allen Pinkett said joining the New Orleans Saints next season will allow him to do what he does best: run.

The Oilers traded Pinkett on Thursday for a fifth-round draft choice in the 1992 draft. The decision came only days before Pinkett could have been left unprotected as an Plan B free agent on Feb. 1.

"It's a positive move. I look forward to going to New Orleans," Pinkett, a six-year veteran, said. "I have to thank (general manager) Mike Holovak because he traded me to a team where he thought I'd do the best. There were a lot of other teams interested."

Pinkett, 28, started 16 games for the Oilers last season, leading the team in rushing with a career-best 720 yards and a team-best 10 touchdowns.

The 5-foot-9, 196-pound back is sixth in the team's all-time rushing list with 2,324 yards and fifth on the all-time kickoff return list with 1,577 yards.

Washington's husky Emtman opts for NFL

Associated Press

SEATTLE — All-America defensive tackle Steve Emtman said money wasn't the main reason he decided to pass up his senior season at Washington to enter the NFL draft.

Nevertheless, the 6-foot-5, 290-pound junior likely will become a rich man when he is selected in the NFL draft April 26-27.

If Emtman is the first overall selection in the draft, as some people expect, he probably would receive a five-year contract worth between $8 million and $9 million, including a signing bonus of $3.8 million to $4 million.

Russell Maryland, a 6-1, 274-pound defensive tackle from Miami, was the first pick in the 1991 draft by Dallas and received a five-year, $7.9 million contract that included a $3.6 million signing bonus.

"The main deciding factor was that of personal challenge," Emtman said Friday at a news conference at the school. "I feel I am at the top of my game at the collegiate level and want to challenge myself at a higher level.

"I want it understood that this is not an issue of money but rather the opportunity to fulfill a lifelong dream of playing pro football."

Emtman appears headed to the Indianapolis Colts, who have the first two picks in the draft.

Bedford's Maddox leaves UCLA for pros

LOS ANGELES (AP) — UCLA quarterback Tommy Maddox, who figured to be one of the finest at his position the next two seasons had he stayed in college, instead opted Friday to make himself available for this spring's NFL draft.

Meanwhile, standout wide receiver Sean LaChapelle had decided to do the same thing, but changed his mind at the last minute and will return to UCLA for his senior season next summer.

Maddox, 20, completed 209 of 343 passes (60.9 percent) for 2,681 yards and 16 touchdowns with 16 interceptions for the Bruins last season. UCLA finished the year 9-3 record, including a 6-3 victory over Illinois in the John Hancock Bowl.

Maddox, a 6-foot-4, 195-pounder from Bedford, Texas, redshirted the 1989 season before beginning his college career with the Bruins in 1990.

Maddox said he hasn't chosen an agent. He said his father, Wayne, has spoken with a number of NFL teams and contacted a couple of agents to get a feel for what he'd be facing if he left college.

Maddox also said he spoke with former UCLA quarterback Troy Aikman.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

The Dukes

■ Club to host former astronaut

Former astronaut Charles Duke and his wife Dotty will be the featured speakers for Midland Christian Women's Club guest night dinner Tuesday 7p.m. at Midland Women's Club at Hogan Park.

The Ret. Brig. Gen. served as lunar module pilot of Apollo 16 and will display pictures of his walk on the moon. The couple now resides in New Braunfels.

Duke is an active Christian lay witness and has appeared on the 700 Club, TBN, and other TV shows in addition to being in demand as a speaker worldwide.

Mr. and Mrs. Duke have co-authored the book, Moonwalker, in which they tell of the excitement of the flight to the moon.

James and Debbie Nance will provide the musical entertainment. Cost of the dinner is $11 per person. A free nursery will be provided at Northwestern Baptist Chruch.

Midland Christian Women's Club is non-denominational and has no membership or dues. For reservations call 699-7472 or 682-5851.

■ Church to present film Sunday

Grace Presbyterian Church, 2801 N. Garfield is showing the movie, "In the Arms of Love," during church school, at 9:30 a.m., Sunday.

This film portrays teenagers struggling with the AIDS issue. All parent of teenagers are encouraged to attend.

■ Coffeehouse series continues

The Unitarian-Universalist Church of Midland will present the second program in the Emmerson Coffeehouse Series at 9:45 a.m. Sunday.

This series provides the opportunity to learn about famous Unitarians in a relaxed and informal coffeehouse setting.

In this week's program Unitarians who have been honored by being featured on postage stamps throughout the world will be profiled.

The list of honorees include Thomas Jefferson, Whitney Moore Young, Susan B. Anthony, Alexander Graham Bell and Ralph Waldo Emmerson. Fifty-four Unitarians are known to have been featured on postage stamps.

The public is invited to attend.

■ Monthly prayer vigil to be held

Christians of all denominations of the Permian Basin are invited to attend a monthly prayer vigil at Golf Course Rd. Church of Christ, Feb. 14 and 15.

The Permian Basin Prayer Vigil began in July 1989 and involves 30-35 churches and more than 300 Christians each month.

The vigil was set aside as a time to pray specifically for the community of Midland, its local concerns, and national problems such as crime, drugs, AIDS, abortion and other moral problems facing our nation.

The vigil, held on the second weekend of each month, begins at noon on Friday and continues until Saturday at 10 p.m.

The designated building is open around the clock between those hours for people to attend at their convenience. No offerings are taken and no lessons are given. This is a time dedicated to prayer only.

Everyone who shares these concerns is invited to participate.

■ Church hosts education series

The Unitarian Universalist Church of Midland, 3301 Neely at Midkiff, will begin a religious education series entitled "The Transformation of Myth through Time" Monday from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

The series will run on Monday nights for six weeks, and will present the first volume in the video series of the same name by Joseph Campbell. This volume explored the mythology of such ancient peoples as the American Indian, Greeks, and Egyptians.

Childcare will be provided. For more information, call Bruce or Cheryl McPherson at 570-8118.

■ Media Library Convention set

SAN ANGELO — A Regional Church Media Library Convention is scheduled for March 12-13 at First Baptist Church, San Angelo.

Baptist Sunday School Board personnel leading conferences include Jackie Anderson, Jack Lewis, Barbara Freese, Elaine Bryant and Joe Keith.

More than a dozen special interest conference will be offered. Topics include: "Copyright law," "Preparing your media library for a computer," "Administering small libraries in small churches," "Compiling a church history" and "Instructional media for churches."

Meals will be made available at nominal cost, but advance reservations and payment are required by Feb. 28.

■ Special dinner to be held

SAN ANGELO — A special dinner designed to help those grieving over the loss of a spouse will be held Feb. 7-9 at Christ the King Retreat Center in San Angelo.

"Healing Retreat: Grieving the Loss of a Spouse," will give those who have lost their husband or wife the opportunity to spend some time away from their regular routine in a retreat conducted by a professional counselor, ministers and others experienced in dealing with grief.

Cost is $50 per person which includes registration, meals and lodging. Deadline for registration is Thursday.

For more information, call Mary Ann Lewis, 1-915-658-3900, between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

■ Church presents 'The Pledge'

The Wilshire Park Baptist Youth Choir will present a musical entitled "The Pledge" at 7 p.m. Sunday at the Church, 801 S. Bentwood St.

The choir is directed by Jerry Lewis, minister of music and youth.

"Through the music, the characters and the humor of "The Pledge" youth will be challenged to examine the inconsistencies in their lives and see the need 'for an unashamed commitment to the Lordship of Christ." said a release from the church.

The public is invited to attend.

■ Women's Aglow meeting set

ODESSA — The Odessa Chapter of Women's Aglow meets at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Holiday Inn Parkway, 3001 E. Highway 80, Odessa.

The speaker for the meeting will be Beulah Coulter, a resident of Midland for the past 16 months. Her topic will be "His Presence." Ms. Coulter will speak on her experiences as a circuit rider, a position she held for many years.

For more information call Darlene Pruitt, 694-2896 or Sharon Palmer, 684-6405.

■ Counseling workshops set

The Samaritan Counseling Center of West Texas has several workshops planned in the upcoming weeks.

The first, called "Active Parenting," begins Monday from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. The "Active Parenting" curriculum includes a handbook for parents designed to provide the information, skills and support necessary to instill in children ages 3 through 17 courage, responsibility and cooperation said a release from the center.

The Rev. Dr. Ginger Jarman, an ordained minister and pastoral counselor, will be presenting the workshop. Mrs. Jarman earned her bachelor of arts, master of divinity and doctor of ministry degrees from Texas Christian University and Brite Divinity School. She is a member of the American Association of Pastoral Counselors, a certificate "Active Parenting" leader and is a part-time staff member at the center. She is married and has two daughters, ages 10 and 14.

Cost of the session for one parent is $20 and for both parents, $25.

The center also is offering a one-day workshop called "Gifts Differing," which uses the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator. This workshop, which costs $40 and includes the MBTI, will be taught by the Rev. Dr. Jerry Kelly, the center's executive director. Kelly is certified by the Association of Psychological Type to present this workshop.

The "Gifts Differing" workshop will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Feb. 15.

And finally the center is offering a six-week workshop beginning March 17 on the "Dance of Anger."

This workshop, which will be held from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Tuesdays, is designed to guide women in dealing with patterns of anger in intimate relationships. The workshop focuses on the book by the same title by Harriet Goldhor Lerner, Ph.D. Books may be purchased at any bookstore or through the center.

Diane Comstock, who holds a master's degree in counseling from the University of Texas of the Permian Basin and is a licensed professional counselor, will be conducting the workshop. Ms. Comstock has been a staff member at the center for three years.

Cost of "Dance of Anger" will be $150.

For more information or to register call the center, 563-4144.

■ Shooting was 'mercy killing,' coroner says

ROCHESTER, Minn. — A doctor who fatally shot his housemate at a Mayo Medical Center hospital before committing suicide left a note indicating he planned a mercy killing because the housemate had AIDS, officials said Friday.

Dr. Ralph Laskey, 56, shot and killed Ronald McCoy, 50, on Thursday in McCoy's room at St. Marys Hospital, then shot himself in the head, police said. They shared a house on the grounds of a state mental hospital in Cherokee, Iowa, where Laskey, a psychiatrist, worked, police said.

Laskey left a note in his car asking a nephew of McCoy to take care of cats belonging to the men, said Olmsted County Coroner Paul G. Belau.

"The motive for the shooting of Mr. McCoy is a 'mercy killing' because of his fatal illness," Belau said in a written statement. "Both men were known to embrace the concept of euthanasia."

There was no evidence McCoy knew Laskey planned to kill him, Belau said.

■ Woman gets death penalty for slaying

DELAND, Fla. — Hitchhiking prostitute Aileen Wuornos, saying she was wrongly branded a serial killer, was sentenced Friday to die in the electric chair for one of seven Florida highway slayings.

"Law enforcement has labeled me a serial killer purposefully, for books and movies," Wuornos tearfully told a judge before sentencing. "I'm no serial killer."

Later, as deputies put Wuornos in a vehicle transporting her to death row in southern Florida, she yelled to bystanders: "Bust these crooked cops and their conspiracy, please! I'm innocent!"

Circuit Judge Uriel Blount, who followed the unanimous recommendation of a jury, imposed the death penalty for the 1989 killing of Richard Mallory, 51.

In a three-hour videotape statement that Wuornos gave investigators in January 1991, she admitted killing six other men she said picked her up for sex. She said she killed the men in self-defense after they became abusive.

■ California refuses to list Duke on ballot

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — California officials on Friday refused to give former Ku Klux Klan leader David Duke a spot on the Republican ballot in this state's June presidential primary.

Secretary of State March Fong Eu said Duke and Democrat Lyndon LaRouche were denied ballot position because they failed qualify for federal campaign funds.

Under the decision, they could still get on the ballot if they qualified for federal matching funds by April 4 or submitted petitions by March 20.

Duke would have to submit more than 51,000 signatures of registered Republican voters.

Duke spokesman Marc Ellis said the campaign would qualify for federal funds "sometime in February."

Candidates qualify for federal money by raising more than $5,000 in 20 different states, in contributions from individuals of $250 or less.

■ Record 24 million receive food stamps

WASHINGTON — The number of Americans seeking government help to buy groceries surged again in November, pushing participation in the food stamp program to a record 24.56 million people, the Agriculture Department reported Friday.

It was the eighth time in nine months that an enrollment record was set for the program, now reaching nearly one in 10 Americans.

USDA said November enrollment was up 400,000 from a month earlier and 3.27 million from a year ago.

Rep. Tony P. Hall, D-Ohio and chairman of the House Select Committee on Hunger, called the numbers "a catalog of despair. This litany of need continues to document the erosion of the middle class."

Compiled from Reporter-Telegram wire services.

Tyson's accuser says she was fooled

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The teen-age beauty contestant who accused Mike Tyson of rape said Friday she willingly walked into the boxer's hotel bedroom because she was misled by his pleasant manner and had no idea he wanted sex.

"When a man asks you to accompany him into his bedroom, wouldn't you take that as an invitation to engage in sexual activity?" Tyson attorney Vincent Fuller asked.

"No. He was being nice. I was fooled," the 18-year-old said. "Anybody can be fooled. I look back on it now and say, 'Yeah, it was stupid.' But that didn't leave any reason for him to do what he did."

Tyson, 25, is charged with rape, confinement and criminal deviate conduct. If convicted, the former world heavyweight champion faces up to 63 years in prison.

During three hours of cross-examination Friday, Fuller did not ask the woman about sex with Tyson, which the boxer maintains was consensual.

"You never met Mr. Tyson before July 18, but within minutes he's hugging you and asking you out?" Fuller asked. "You willingly drove to his hotel? You willingly went to his suite? You willingly sat on the bed?"

"Yes," the woman replied.

"Why didn't you sit on the couch?" the attorney asked.

"You couldn't see the TV from the couch," she said.

Both Tyson and his accuser yawned repeatedly during the three-hour cross-examination. She never looked at him; he glanced at her occasionally but mostly stared ahead impassively.

The two met during a rehearsal for the Miss Black America pageant on July 18. The woman has testified that she was in bed about 1:30 a.m. on July 19 when Tyson called her from his limousine and insisted she come out and talk with him while they drove around Indianapolis.

She denied hearing Tyson make sexual comments and lewd suggestions to other pageant contestants and said she believed he was a "nice person, a respectable person" because she saw him praying with the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

During cross-examination Friday, Fuller picked at inconsistencies in the woman's statements.

Man who escaped from Dahmer testifies

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The man who led authorities to Jeffrey Dahmer testified Friday he escaped from the serial killer's apartment after seeing a head in the refrigerator and a hand Dahmer had taken from a filing cabinet.

Tracy Edwards said Dahmer chanted while the two watched an "Exorcist" movie, and laid his head on Edwards' chest to listen to his heartbeat.

"He told me he would eat my heart at that point," Edwards said.

Before Edwards took the stand in Dahmer's sanity trial, a policeman testified that Dahmer was so worn out by his killing spree that he sometimes left naked corpses lying about his apartment and had sex with them before finding the energy to dismember and dispose of them.

"He was just too exhausted," Detective Dennis Murphy testified. "He just let them lay there."

Dahmer saved most of the victims' heads so their lives "would not be a total loss," Murphy said.

"He stated he felt evil and thoroughly corrupt, body and soul, because of the horrible crimes he had committed against people," Murphy said.

"It will be me that has to stand before God and admit to my wrongdoings, and he will know if I was truthful and honest when I was caught," Murphy quoted Dahmer as saying.

"He stated that every time he would try to overcome his feelings of wanting to kill and dismember people, they would haunt and overcome him just like an addiction," the officer said.

Dahmer told police he sometimes kissed the bodies and had sex with them, but never left them uncut in the apartment for more than two days. He always disrobed before butchering them, Murphy said.

"The job of cutting and dismembering his victims was quite messy and he did not want to get blood and body fluids on his clothing," Murphy said.

Dahmer, 31, has pleaded guilty but insane to 15 Milwaukee County murders.

Government gives Georgia airport OK to charge $3 passenger fees

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inaugurating a nationwide program, the government on Friday gave the airport at Savannah, Ga., permission to charge passenger fees and to use the money for expanding and improving facilities.

Under new program, the Savannah Airport Commission is authorized to charge each departing passenger $3.

Nineteen other airports, including Austin's, have applied to the Federal Aviation Administration for approval to charge passenger fees to finance about $2 billion in improvements, said Acting Transportation Secretary James B. Busey.

The FAA said the Savannah airport expects to raise $3 million a year to finance $39.5 million in improvements, including a new passenger terminal, a new aircraft parking apron, taxiways and new entrance and service roads.

"Savannah is the first of an estimated 200 airports that are expected to use the Passenger Facility Charge (PFC) program to finance improvements by the end of 1983," said Acting Transportation Secretary James B. Busey IV.

Among the other applicants are airports in Las Vegas, Nev.; Minneapolis; Portland, Ore.; and Tulsa, Okla.

Busey said the FAA is expected to act on the Las Vegas application in February and on the others by June.

An additional 75 airports have expressed interest in the program and are considering plans to use the charges to finance some $10.6 billion in improvement projects, Busey said.

The fees were authorized by Congress in the Aviation Safety and Capacity Act of 1990.

The fees must be used to enhance airport and aviation capacity, safety or security, promote competition, lower noise levels or expand passenger facilities.

The $3 fees could be charged departing passengers as well as those making connecting flights.

Under the rules set by Congress, no more than four such $3 fees could be charged per passenger for a round trip. The fees will be included in airfare; passengers will pay the charges as they pay for tickets.

According to the FAA, airlines will turn the fees over to the airports involved.

TWA becomes latest airline in bankruptcy

NEW YORK (AP) — Trans World Airlines, the once-proud international aviation giant that ran into hard times amid deregulation and a takeover by financier Carl C. Icahn, landed in bankruptcy court Friday.

TWA became the sixth large U.S. airline to file for Chapter 11 protection over the last few years. Three of them — Eastern, Pan Am and Midway — didn't survive.

Industry analysts say TWA's odds aren't good. But TWA said it foresaw no disruptions in service or frequent flyer awards and anticipated no layoffs or asset sales.

TWA's bankruptcy is a vivid example of the severe financial plight confronting the nation's airlines, and it also shows how some of the high-profile takeovers of the bustling 1980s have soured.

Although Icahn remains chairman for now, he could lose control of TWA.

Icahn said at a news conference that his 90 percent stake in TWA will go mostly to bondholders. Some also will get a fraction of the cash they're owed.

Icahn will get back a stake of between 20 percent and 40 percent, because he, too, owns some bonds that have been in default.

He estimated his personal losses at $150 million to $200 million. "This has not been one of my stellar investments," he said.

The bankruptcy filing in Wilmington, Del., listed assets of $2.68 billion and liabilities of $3.47 billion.

Icahn said he has already cut deals with most creditors and TWA's biggest union, the International Association of Machinists, and hopes to get TWA out of bankruptcy court in six months.

Industry observers and some of TWA's workers weren't so sure. Many are skeptical of Icahn's motives because he has sold important overseas routes to raise cash.

Leaders face school funding options

The State

AUSTIN (AP) — A state income tax, school district consolidation and a proposal to limit court intervention in public education funding are among options left to lawmakers after their latest school funding plan failed its court test.

They also could try to adjust the county education district (CED) system that was declared unconstitutional by the Texas Supreme Court, in hopes of addressing the justices' objections.

Or they could turn to a statewide property tax, or a proposal to take money only from the richest school districts and redistribute it statewide. Those proposals, among others, would require voter approval of a constitutional amendment.

The current system — written in response to a court mandate to equalize school funding — was designed to shift hundreds of millions of local property tax dollars from richer to poorer school districts within the CEDs, each made up of one or several counties. It attacked the funding disparities caused by the school system's reliance on local property taxes.

But the Supreme Court said in a 7-2 decision that the new system violates the state constitution by setting up a statewide property tax, and by levying a property tax without voter approval.

The court did not outline a plan that would pass constitutional muster.

It was the third time since 1989 that a school funding system has been struck down by the Supreme Court, and the first ruling that came on a challenge by property-rich school districts rather than poor ones.

The Supreme Court gave state officials until June 1, 1993 to come up with yet another plan, leaving the current system in place for as long as two school years.

On Friday, a day after the Supreme Court's action, Gov. Ann Richards said that officials will be examining all their alternatives for court-ordered equalization of school funding.

"I suspect by next week or so we will come up with a proposal," Richards said in Washington, where she is attending the winter meeting of the National Governor's Association.

"I feel we should be very cautious," she said. Margaret Justus, the governor's deputy press secretary, said Richards has not ruled out calling legislators into special session but added, "We're not going to be acting immediately."

Lawmakers next meet in regular session in January 1993, and Richards has said she is glad the court gave the state so much time to work out a new plan.

A massive infusion of state funds — such as an income tax would generate — would be one alternative for evening out school funding.

Al Kauffman of the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund said he thinks Thursday's ruling made that option more likely. Kauffman represents poor school districts that have fought for equity, and that defended the CED system against the challenge by property-rich school districts.

But Craig Foster of the Equity Center said that a huge new state tax appears unlikely, and he added that school district consolidation would meet even more opposition than in income tax. The Equity Center is a group of property-poor school districts.

Foster said his group favors a proposed constitutional amendment in which the state could directly take some property tax money from about 100 "super-rich" school districts and redistribute it. It would accomplish the same purpose as the CEDs, he said.

Sen. Carl Parker, head of the Senate Education Committee, said he would wait and see whether the education community could come together on a plan before backing a particular proposal.

Before the Supreme Court ruled, the Port Arthur Democrat had suggested such an order would effectively mandate consolidation, an income tax and possibly a statewide income tax. He said that none of those measures was politically viable.

Parker, Foster and Kauffman all said they oppose a proposed constitutional amendment by Rep. John Culberson, R-Houston, to limit judicial intervention in school funding.

Texas Stadium to act as host for Farm Aid V

IRVING (AP) — Texas Stadium will play host to country music singer Willie Nelson's fifth Farm Aid concert to help financially ailing farm families.

Nelson, the Farm Aid president, and Dallas Cowboys owner Jerry Jones have scheduled a news conference for Monday to announce the concert date.

Beth Sanderson, a Farm Aid spokeswoman, said the lineup hasn't been completed, but founders Neil Young, John Mellencamp and Nelson will perform.

The three musicians started the concerts in Champaign, Ill., in 1985. There were Farm Aid concerts held again in Austin in 1986, Lincoln, Neb., in 1987 and Indianapolis in 1990.

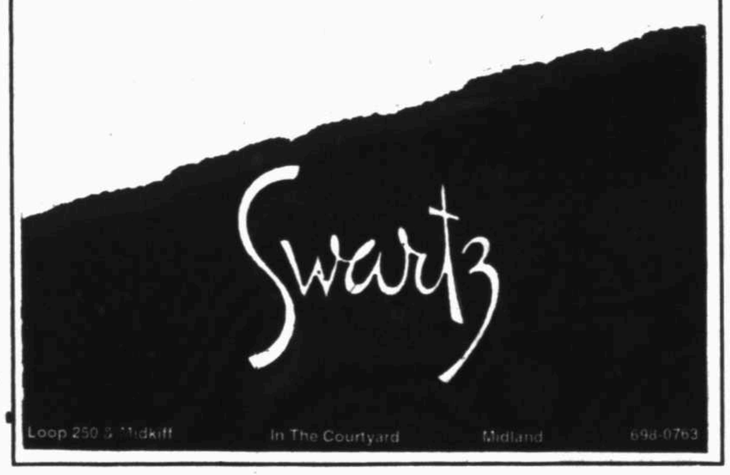

The concerts are held only when there seems to be a need, Sanderson said.

"In fact, Willie Nelson said after Farm Aid III he hoped another one would never be necessary," she said.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Your career will accelerate soon if you continue to work hard. Landing a new job in the spring sends your confidence soaring! A move to another state or city is possible in June. Attending a school reunion could lead to happy romance. Early fall is a great time for travel, if it does not interfere with school. Taking high-tech courses will boost your earning potential. Save money for investment purposes.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: poet Langston Hughes, golfer Debbie Austin, singer Don Everly, actor Sherman Hemsley.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Set a new course and you will make a name for yourself in an exciting field. A change of employment or residence brings both prestige and more money. Forgive someone who disappoints you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your kindness to someone is marvelous, but may be more than your budget can sustain. Put family obligations first. Regular exercise and better eating habits will help you trim down.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Be certain of your facts when making a family decision. Working conditions will improve only if you are positive and fair in your criticism. Look close to home for the happiness you seek!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): An argument can go on and on unless someone calls a halt. Plan leisure-time activities that will keep all members of the family diverted and happy. Cash in on your managerial skills.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A happy home life renews your spirit today. You may decide to invite your closest friends to join the family circle. The social scene is hectic but fun. Dress to impress!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Failing to face reality or a personal obligation could lead to a confrontation. Do not spend your money or energy recklessly. Talk with your loved ones before making a new commitment.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Caution is advised during working hours. Quick decisions are out! Do not reveal a secret in haste. After a hectic day, feel free to let your hair down at home. Pursue romance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Entertainment expenses may be hard to justify now. Time spent alone will benefit you and your pocketbook, too. Give more thought to your spiritual needs.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Sort out your thoughts before trying to do something complicated. You have good reason to feel optimistic! Once an agreement has been reached, the chances of things going awry are minimal.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your efforts at work will bring delightful rewards. Romance and domestic duties could make a happy blend. Do not be gullible about money matters. A casual relationship turns serious.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Avoid making quick decisions about finance or romance. Otherwise, impatience could supplant wisdom. A relationship showdown looks inevitable. Be honest about any doubts. Getting better organized will improve your work performance.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Exuberant spirits put you in a festive mood. Forgo your usual routine for something more exciting! Friends look to you for assistance with their problems. Help them stand on their own feet.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are highly creative and imaginative, fond of fairy tales, dance and music. Ambitious but people-oriented, they are willing to work tirelessly for a good cause. These politically savvy Aquarians are experts at forging valuable alliances.

Sultan of Brunei purchases estate for $12 million cash

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — The sultan of Brunei, who has been snapping up Southern California property for years, paid $12 million cash for an estate next to his pink and posh Beverly Hills Hotel.

"In a market where everyone is complaining about the slow sales of homes, I have no complaints," said Mike Silverman, whose real estate firm recently clinched the deal.

What the sultan — known to friends as H.H., for "his highness" — got for his money was two acres and an 8,000-square-foot, three-bedroom French Regency-style house built in 1965.

The purchase completes an island of tracts the sultan has been buying in the middle of Beverly Hills around the hotel.

CHARLESTON, W.Va. — Gov. Gaston Caperton choked on his supper but, luckily for the 51-year-old Democrat, a state trooper posted at the governor's mansion was summoned to perform the Heimlich maneuver and it worked.

Caperton is a vegetarian, but spokesman George Manahan said he didn't know what caught in the governor's throat Thursday. He reportedly was eating rice at the time.

As a precaution, Caperton was taken to Charleston Area Medical Center, where he was examined, given a glass of water and sent home, a spokesman said.

The Heimlich maneuver involves applying sudden, sharp pressure to the abdomen just below the rib cage.

ATLANTA — A worldwide drive petitioning for the environmental rights of future generations already has the signatures of 2 million people in North America, South America and Europe, Jacques-Yves Cousteau said.

Cousteau

The French oceanographer and environmentalist said Thursday his Cousteau Society and others hope to collect even more names in more places on the "Petition for the Rights for Future Generations" for delivery to the United Nations in 1993.

The declaration says "future generations have a right to an uncontaminated and undamaged Earth and to its enjoyment." It was drafted as the environmental equivalent of the U.N. Declaration of Human Rights, Cousteau told an audience at a CNN World Report Contributors Conference.

"I hope there will be a need for a long line of trucks to carry the petitions," Cousteau said.

He plans to take the campaign this fall to Asia and Africa.

HOUSTON — Joe Lopez and Mazz captured seven nominations for the 12th Annual Tejano Music Awards, which recognize the best of a blend of Mexican- and American-style country music. Tejano means "Texan" in Spanish.

Oscar Gonzales and La Mafia took six nominations.

Three finalists in each of 13 categories for the 1992 awards were announced Thursday, said Rudy Trevino, executive director of Texas Talent Musicians Association, which founded the awards.

Winners will be announced March 6 in San Antonio.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — Natalie Cole received four Soul Train Music Award nominations for creative excellence in black music.

Also nominated for four awards were newcomers Boyz II Men and Jodeci.

Miss Cole's critically acclaimed album "Unforgettable" was nominated Thursday for best rhythm and blues-soul single and album, along with best jazz album and video.

Boyz II Men and Jodeci were each nominated as best new rhythm and blues artists.

Twelve awards in jazz, gospel, rap and rhythm and blues-soul will be presented March 10 in Los Angeles in the 6th year of the awards.

The music of Andrew Lloyd Webber has not always been received with warmth, but rarely have remarks about it been quite so cutting as those made earlier this month by Malcolm Williamson, the composer who has been Master of the Queen's Music since 1975.

Williamson told a British reporter that "the difference between good music and Andrew Lloyd Webber's is the difference between Michelangelo and a cement mixer."

Williamson, it seems, was peeved when the reporter asked him how he felt about not being asked to compose music for a pageant celebrating the 40th anniversary of the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II. The reporter told him Lloyd Webber would contribute music for the event.

As it turned out, Lloyd Webber had not been approached, either. In a telephone interview Thursday, Williams said he thought he had been tricked into the criticism and that he, in fact, admires Lloyd Webber's success.

JFK files hold trivia, but no smoking gun

DALLAS (NYT) — A new window was opened this week into what many people regard as the greatest unsolved crime of the century, revealing details both dazzling and prosaic about the lives of Lee Harvey Oswald, Jack Ruby and other figures in the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

About 2,500 once-secret items gathered by the Dallas Police Department, including letters, photographs, witness reports and other articles of evidence were made public on Monday after a unanimous vote by Dallas City Council. County records are likely to be made public in February, after a vote next week by county officials.

Domingo Garcia, a newly elected councilman, said he sought release of all the city's files on the assassination after seeing the movie "JFK" three weeks ago.

"The Kennedy assassination left a legacy in Dallas as a city of hate and the city that killed Kennedy," Garcia said. "I thought this was a way to close the lid on that ghost. I was specifically concerned that the Dallas police were sort of implicated in the movie in a cover-up of the assassination."

An affidavit of about 500 words in stunted English, dated Nov. 22, 1963, and signed by Marina Oswald, the 22-year-old estranged wife of the accused assassin described what she said she knew about the hunting rifle her husband had stored in a blanket in their landlord's garage.

"Today is the first time I saw the blanket empty," she said. "Today at police station, they showed me a rifle. This was like the rifle my husband had. It was a dark gun."

In another report, an investigator noted a rumor that Oswald and Ruby might have known each other before the assassination. Oswald had supposedly rented an apartment next to Ruby's in the Oak Lawn section of Dallas. "Original informant unknown," the report said. "Reliability unknown."

Oswald's report cards from four Fort Worth elementary schools portrayed him as a poor speller but an average student otherwise.

In the Ruby file, police document suspicion of the striptease club operator's ties to prostitution as early as 1956.

But researchers who examine the material in the weeks ahead are unlikely to find much, if anything, to advance the debate on whether Oswald was part of a conspiracy or acted alone in killing the president.

"I don't think it will prove anything one way or the other, but that's not for me to say," said Cindy C. Smolovik, the city archivist, who controls the public's access to the papers — one request at a time, one hour per visit, always in her presence.

Officials may want more collider contributions

WASHINGTON (NYT) — A top Energy Department official says the government may come to Texas hat in hand for even bigger contributions to the Superconducting Super Collider later this year, even though the state already has been asked to kick in more than its share.

The department had asked the state earlier to acclerate its payments to the build the atom smasher to levels higher than the one-eighth share that state officials had agreed to.

The department has asked for $130 million this year and another $133 million for fiscal 1993, which is a rate of 19 percent or more of project costs each of those years.

Even as the state's Dallas-based super collider commission considers that request, Deputy Energy Secretary Henson Moore said this week it may not be enough.

"We're constantly working with the people in Dallas on the timing of these things and the mix of funds," Moore said. "If we've got to change that game plan, we'll do it.

"At this time, we don't see a need to do that."

At issue is the state's $1 billion in bonds to contribute to the collider, which voters approved in 1987 as an inducement to bring the high-energy physics laboratory to Texas.

State officials agreed that the contribution would be split into annual payments and paid at a rate of about an eighth of total project costs per year, based on the reasoning that the state's commitment was about an eighth of the collider's total price tag of $8.25 billion.

By paying in slowly as the project is being built, the state could better protect its investment should Congress or a new administration in the White House one day decide to scrap the costly project.

The bulk of the annual costs for the collider were to be paid primarily by the federal government, and to a lesser degree by contributions from foreign nations.

But the pressure on Texas to subsidize the project at increasingly higher levels has increased during the last two years as Congress.

Texas proposes to build natural gas cars at plant

ARLINGTON (NYT) — If General Motors accepts Texas' proposal to build cars fueled by compressed natural gas at the Arlington plant, the state and GM would be at the forefront of a trend that analysts say is sure to come.

The potential market is immense, with customers lined up from New York City to San Diego, government and natural gas industry officials say.

Because of state and federal requirements to be phased in this decade, hundreds of thousands of vehicles will be fueled by the cheaper and cleaner-burning compressed gas.

"There's no question we're going to have to have an assembly line," said Ted Eck, an economist for Amoco Oil Co., referring to the need for one of the Big Three automakers to dedicate a plant to building cars fueled by compressed natural gas. "Arlington would be a nice place to do it."

Gov. Ann Richards' proposal to convert the GM plant to the manufacture of natural gas vehicles could put the plant and the state at the heart of efforts to promote the alternative fuel, said Jason Grumet of New York state's environmental protection department.

Under Richards' proposal, aimed at saving the plant, the state would buy the cars, trucks, buses and vans produced there.

Texas already is trying to boost the number of cleaner-running vehicles in its fleets. The state will replace about 11,400 of its vehicles by 1994 with models that use compressed natural gas or propane. By 2000, 90 percent of the state government's 38,000 trucks, vans and buses must by law be replaced with alternative-fuel vehicles.

And Texas is not alone.

Louisiana has required that 90 percent of its government vehicles run on alternative fuels by 1998.

"We've been battling really bad ozone problems," said Louisiana state Rep. Kip Holden, a Democrat who wrote that state's legislative requirements for alternative-fuel vehicles. "So we've really been looking to other solutions."

Other government entities have joined the march toward compressed natural gas and other alternative fuels:

—New Mexico must buy 1,200 alternative-fuel vehicles a year to meet a 1994 requirement that 30 percent of its fleet be powered by such fuels.

—In the New York City metropolitan area, about 16,000 government vehicles must be replaced with alternative-fuel vehicles each year beginning in 1994. By 2000, that number will grow to 56,000 vehicles a year.

—In California beginning this year, about 40,000, or 2 percent of all new vehicles purchased, must meet new emission standards that, in effect, require alternative fuels. About 80,000 publicly and privately owned new alternative-fuel vehicles are expected to be purchased annually in the state by 2000.

—Several other states, including Arizona and Colorado, have similar programs for both government-owned and private vehicles.

Since Richards announced plans Jan. 10 to pump state money into converting the Arlington plant to produce vehicles fueled by compressed natural gas, interest has swelled.

Richards proposed using proceeds from a state oil windfall profits surcharge to help convert the Arlington plant and pledged that the state would buy vehicles from the Arlington plant as part of a package to persuade GM to keep the plant open and close a competing factory, Willow Run at Ypsilanti, Mich.

One of the two plants will close as part of cost-cutting measures, GM announced last month.

Controversy erupts over pick of Scientific Games

AUSTIN (AP) — A state-hired consultant who helped prepare the contract for selling the first Texas lottery tickets is related to an executive with the firm that has tentatively won the contract, it was disclosed Friday.

State Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, author of legislation that set up the lottery, said the relationship was a conflict of interest and needed a closer look even if that meant delaying the start of the lottery.

"I guess my dream has become a nightmare. My dream was to run a clean lottery, a lottery free of suspicion and of the highest integrity," Wilson said.

"I would like to see the whole process stopped at this point and re-evaluated," he said.

But Texas Lottery Director Nora Linares defended the selection of Scientific Games of Alpharetta, Ga., to print the instant-winner, scratch-off lottery tickets that will be sold in July.

She said she will not delay negotiations with Scientific Games, and hopes to have the contract finished by the end of next week.

"They're the best," of the six companies that submitted bids for the contract that could be worth several million dollars, she said.

But she said she could not go into detail about why they are the best because the state is currently negotiating with them.

Lottery consultant John Pittman, who was hired by State Comptroller John Sharp last November as a consultant to help get the lottery started, is the son-in-law of Jim Culver, vice president for marketing of Scientific Games.

Pittman's consulting company is called Lottery Support Group. His wife, Cynthia, who is Culver's daughter, is the secretary-treasurer of Lottery Support Group. Pittman worked for Scientific Games for 11 years before leaving in 1988.

As a consultant to the state, Pittman helped a committee that evaluated the bids to print the first Texas lottery tickets. That committee chose Scientific Games.

WHAT! NEWSPAPER ROUTES?

That's right...one of the best part-time income supplements around. Doesn't conflict with your 'day job.' Doesn't require day care. And it's dependable income.

Fact: 95% of our Distributors NOW are ADULTS supplementing their income with Route Distributorships!

Fact: Our Distributors make from $400-$800 monthly AFTER expenses, some even more!

The catch? You've gotta be able to handle early mornings and weekends! And when you take a few days off, you'll need to find a substitute for yourself.

So...are you serious about MOONLIGHTING, or what? If you are, and you have dependable transportation and can put up a $100 deposit...

Call 688-2700 and start making that extra car payment today!
